Average property tax burden has doubled over past decade

AUSTIN — The burden of Texas property taxes passed the two percent level in 1991-92 as local governments increased the tax levy by 11.2 percent, or $1.3 billion for a total of $13.3 billion. Over the past decade, the average property tax burden has doubled.

The figures were provided by the Texas Research League, an Austin-based public policy research group, and do not include tax changes in 1992-93 because statewide data are not yet available.

Property taxes in Texas averaged 2.109 percent of market value (selling price) in 1991-92, but varied widely throughout the state, ranging from a high of 3.07 percent in Robstown to a low of 1.5 percent in Eagle Pass.

Locally, property taxes were 2.2617 percent of value. That rate consisted of .4102 percent levied by the city, 1.2416 percent by Snyder Independent School District, .2139 percent by Western Texas College and .3960 percent for the county.

For a single-family house that would sell for $80,000, the highest tax bill was $2,413 in Pecos and the lowest tax was $1,168 in Columbus. If the house was eligible for various homestead exemptions, the lowest tax would have been $936 in Columbus compared to a high of $2,214 in Crystal City.

In Snyder, the tax bill on an $80,000 house in 1990-91 averaged $1,811 if rented or $1,562 if the homeowner claimed homestead exemptions.

The report points out that homeowners over the age of 65 are eligible for both state-mandated and local-option exemptions and would pay less. Futhermore, school tax bills for the elderly are frozen at the level in place when the homeowner turned 65.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Politeness does to human nature what warmth does to wax."

April ended with one little-hearlded celebration — clean off your desk day.

A desk at a newspaper is supposed to be cluttered, a fashion statement of sorts about the independence and individuality of the press.

Ole what's-her-name describes it another way entirely.

It is amazing what can be found at the bottom of the stack. In our pile of gimme scratch pads, we found one from C.D. Gray when he was running for re-election.

There was also a fax message from Lena Guerrero concerning her scheduled appearance at the Snyder chamber banquet. We also found a map showing the way to DPS headquarters in Austin. Either we wanted to protest a ticket or attend a TDCJ board meeting.

In another pile, obviously for future references, were a list of committee appointments by House Speaker Pete Laney, a Comptroller's report entitled "Texas Crime and Texas Justice," and an annual report of Corrections Corporation of America.

Other great late-night reading included the fifth annual Labor and Employment Law Briefing detailing how firms can comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

We also found a reminder about a February meeting in Lamesa. We misplaced the reminder, but remembered the meeting. What we can't remember is why we have the black and white photo of a pretty young lady.

Still cluttering the desk was "special instructions" for completing the 1992 Census of Manufacturers, required by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Out of sight and out of mind may explain why we buried Texas Water Commission rules for newspapers on mandated use of recycled newsprint along with reporting forms needed following year's end.

Also uncovered was a brain teaser brought to us months ago to see if we could find 20 Bible books hidden in a short paragraph. When we gave up, we were still hunting for No. 20.

And then there's the note from Jack Denman which read, "At the DQ, bring money." We'll save that note, it'll be good tomorrow.

May Day activities set all afternoon Saturday

RESTORATION, A UNIVERSAL APPEAL
By Homer Anderson

The idea of restoring New Testament Christianity has a universal appeal to all men. We restore historic buildings, houses, automobiles, furniture to their original condition. Why not restore Christ's church to the original condition it had when He established it?

Could any honest soul object to such scriptural principles as: Wearing the name of Christ to the exclusion of all other names (Acts 4:8-12; Romans 16:16)...Faith in the living, reigning Christ as the only creed of the church (1 Corinthians 2:2; Romans 10:9-10)... The New Testament as the only book of discipline (2 Timothy 3:16-17)... The recognition of the complete authority of Christ over His church (Matthew 28:18)... Christ's one church being exalted above all man-made institutions (Ephesians 1:22-23; 4:4)...All the commands of Christ being obeyed by the people who love Him (John 14:15)... The ideals of Christ being exemplified in the lives of all who wear His name (Titus 2:12)...Unity in Christ by faith (Hebrews 11:6), repentance (Acts 17:30), confession of Christ (Matthew 16:16), and baptism into Christ (Galatians 3:27) for the forgiveness of your sins (Acts 2:38)?

Restoration is an ancient and constant need in religion. It is our prayer that you, too, will commit yourself to become a non-denominational, New Testament Christian, a member of the church as you read about it in the Scriptures.

Roy McQueen

Keeping something out of the newspaper is impossible. Getting something into the newspaper without his knowledge is difficult, but not impossible.

Snyder National Bank's Hometown Spirit Award for May goes to Roy McQueen, publisher of the Snyder Daily News and current chairman of the Economic Development Committee.

McQueen, 48, started his newspaper career as an 8th grader, working for the Andrews County News, a semi-weekly newspaper. During college he worked for the Slaton Slatonite, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and was managing editor of Tech's University Daily.

At age 23, he became one of the state's youngest publishers, taking over the weekly newspaper in Seminole a week prior to his graduation from Tech in 1968.

McQueen's stay in Seminole was cut short by a draft notice. During his two years in the U.S. Army, he served as editor of the Fort Bliss Monitor and was an information specialist in Germany.

McQueen returned to Seminole in October, 1970 and soon converted the weekly newspaper into a twice weekly. In October, 1976, McQueen and a group of investors purchased the Snyder Daily News. In 1985, the SDN moved into a new, modern plant on College Ave.

Soon after arriving in Snyder, McQueen started to become active in community affairs. He is serving his second term as chairman of the economic development committee. He also is a past chamber director and past president of the Industrial Foundation.

For the past 17 years, McQueen has been an ardent booster of Snyder. He was a key worker in the two-year effort to locate the Price Daniel Unit in Snyder. Since that time, McQueen and other EDC members have made numerous trips to visit with state leaders, board members and TDCJ staffers in an effort to achieve prison expansion.

Other community involvement includes two terms on the board of managers of Cogdell Memorial Hospital. He was instrumental in helping develop the contract that Cogdell Hospital has with the prison system.

In 1988, McQueen and the Snyder Daily News were honored by the Texas Press Association with the annual Community Service Award for their work to obtain the prison.

McQueen is also recognized by his peers in the newspaper profession. He is a past president of the West Texas Press Association and served as president of the Texas Press Association in 1989-90.

Since 1980, McQueen has written the front-page SDN column. He uses the space to look at the odd, the unusual and to laugh with others and at himself and his friends. His best advice, "Never take yourself too seriously." The column, too, can take a serious side — to urge action, to nudge, to admonish and to congratulate.

His advice to newspaper staffers is to "be fair, be honest, be brief and be consistent."

He is a past member of the Snyder school board of trustees and is a member of the Cogdell Hospital Foundation advisory committee. He is a member of the 37th Street Church of Christ.

His wife, Bettie, is dean of instruction at Western Texas College, who likewise has been instrumental in developing WTC's favorable relationship with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Their joint pride is son, Marc, who was born in 1970 in Wurzburg, Germany. He attended Snyder schools and graduated from Texas A&M last December. Marc will enter graduate school at Abilene Christian University this fall.

Snyder National Bank is pleased to honor one of Snyder's most faithful boosters — even if it had to pay to put the publisher's picture in the newspaper.

In the year ahead, the harder you work, the more fortunate you're likely to be. Your luck is an ally of your industriousness, so if you keep your nose to the grindstone, Lady Luck should be able to help out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) People who espouse negative views will turn you off quickly today. If you attend a social gathering, don't sit next to gloomy types. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Everyone has their occasional ups and downs when dealing with others. Keep this in mind, because it might help you to be more tolerant of friends who disappoint you today.

[illegible] consistent in your behavior toward others today. Don't be harsh and exacting in one instance, then tolerant and forgiving in the next. Pals won't know how to react.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you're a rather forgiving person, but today it may take only a few words from the wrong party to ignite your temper. Keep a cool head at all times.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be realistic today regarding your financial limitations. If you try to stretch your resources too far, you might snap the string and really create a problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't underestimate competitors today, because you might be outmaneuvered by your opposition in both commercial and social situations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Limit your spending today, especially in situations where you are merely trying to impress others. Extravagance could dent your image as well as your checkbook.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today, problems in a friendship might be traced to items that are either owed or loaned. Make it a point not to participate in either practice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not assess an important objective from a single perspective today, especially if you are anxious to accomplish something that will require support from others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you allow yourself to be pressured into making a commitment today concerning a matter you're not sure about, this might lead to serious regrets later.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The world doesn't owe you a free ride today, so don't kid yourself into thinking it does. You'll get what you earn — no more, no less.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't attempt to match wits with "sharpies" today, especially if they are on their home turf and you are not. Be patient and wait until they trek into your territory.

No charges

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP) — Noel Blanc, the voice of Bugs Bunny, will not be charged for his role in a fatal collision of his helicopter and a stunt plane.

Prosecutors couldn't prove that Blanc was negligent in the 1991 crash, Deputy District Attorney Jim Grunert said Wednesday.

The plane's instructor-pilot and his student were killed, and Kirk Douglas, one of Blanc's passengers, was injured.

The crash occurred as both aircraft were taking off from Santa Paula Airport, 45 miles north of Los Angeles.

Blanc supplies the voices for cartoon characters originally portrayed by his late father, Mel Blanc.

State sets aside funds for park

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The state will pay a quarter million dollars to develop a secluded 10-square-mile state park near Brackettville — "an undiscovered gem" that is home to 15 mostly undisturbed caves.

Officials with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said Friday that the Kickapoo Cavern State Park is slated to be transformed into a public-use park by the end of 1994.

The park is about 125 miles west of San Antonio. It straddles Kinney and Edwards counties about 23 miles north of Brackettville, just west of Farm Road 674.

The state park, named for the migrating Kickapoo Indian tribe that once traveled through the region, is on the Edwards Plateau and lines the southwest corner of the Texas Hill Country. Elevation at the park ranges from 1,580 to 2,010 feet.

The park currently is open by reservation only and exclusively to holders of a Texas Conservation Passport, an agency-issued permit available to the general public for $25, park superintendent David Stuart said.

"It's an undiscovered gem," said Tom Harvey, a spokesman for the state agency.

Of the 15 caves in the park, one measures more than 2,400 feet in length, and another is longer than 1,800 feet, Harvey said.

The largest cavern, known as Green Cave, is a migratory stop for thousands of Mexican freetail bats, regional park director Tom McGlathery said.

Jury rules in favor of utility company

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A jury ruled Friday that high-voltage power lines stretching over a cou- young daughter's rare kidney tumors.

The Superior Court jury deliberated just four hours before returning the verdict in favor of San Diego Gas & Electric Co. It was believed to be the nation's first courtroom test of allegations that power lines can promote or cause childhood cancers.

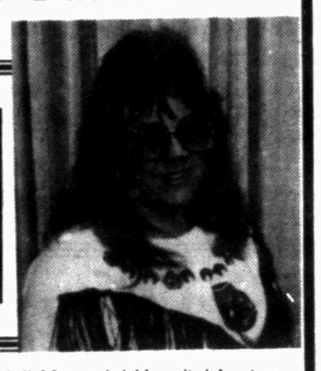

Many attorneys and utility companies believed the trial would spark similar lawsuits nationwide despite the verdict in favor of the utility.

tended that electromagnetic fields, or EMFs, generated by high-power distribution lines over their former house in the Serra Mesa area had caused or contributed to their daughter's rare form of kidney cancer.

Julie Zeck...senior flute recital

Julie Zeck performs senior flute recital

Julie Zeck, student of Margaret Redcay, presented her senior flute recital April 25 at Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Julie has studied with Redclay for the past four years. Redcay is a professor of flute at Texas Tech University's School of Music.

Julie has also been under the direction of Walter Reneau and Kay Kennedy as a four-year member of the Snyder High School Band.

She is the daughter of Paul and Pam Zeck and a SHS senior.

Julie's flute selections included "Suite in B Minor" by J.S. Bach and "Concerto in D" by W.A. Mozart; as well as selections by Widor, Pachelbel and Joio.

Julie's teacher joined her in a flute duet to close the program. Kennedy accompanied the flutes on piano. Rev. Miller Robinson closed the recital with a prayer. A reception followed in the fellowship hall.

Julie's high school band accomplishments include four years in all-region band and participating in UIL solo and ensemble contests in Austin for three years. As a junior, she earned a Division I solo rating at state.

Other honors include being named outstanding soloist of the Texas Flute Association, first runner-up to the All-State Band, and section leader of the Texas Baptist all-state choir which performed at Disneyland last summer.

Julie also served as drum major for the SHS Marching Band during her senior year.

Julie plans to continue her flute studies on a band scholarship to Vanderbuilt University where she will major in biology.

Lobbyists were paid millions

AUSTIN (AP) — Lobbyists reported being paid at least $34.6 million — and as much as $124 million — to influence state officials during the first three months of this year, according to a study by the Texas Ethics Commission.

Compensation figures vary because the state ethics law only requires lobbyists to report their salary range, not exact amounts, the Austin American-Statesman reported Friday.

Citizen groups say the study shows the lobby's influence. But lobbyists say it doesn't reflect reality, and that compensation is overstated by many.

The Ethics Commission, which based its study on reports filed by lobbyists, said an additional $895,000 was spent entertaining lawmakers, staff, state executives and the lobbyists themselves. Of that, $660,576 was for receptions and other events to which lawmakers were invited.

More than $2.4 million was spent on mass media, usually to foster support or opposition on state issues, such as telephone industry deregulation. The Ethics Commission's report covered Jan. 1 through March 31.

Citizen groups said the report shows the continuing, pervasive influence of lobbyists.

"This shows we are still spending an extraordinary amount of money to wine and dine lawmakers and to influence them," said Tom Smith, executive director of the Texas office of Public Citizen.

Pandas were hurt by rescue effort

BEIJING (AP) — The panda was the star animal of the 1980s.

Children worldwide saved up pennies for panda preservation. Millions of people visited panda exhibits. China built million-dollar centers to house and breed pandas.

It didn't save them — it put a price on their heads. Chinese poachers learned they could get more than $10,000 for a pelt. World zoos made millions from panda shows.

"I am haunted by the realization that the project may have harmed rather than helped the pandas," says field biologist George Schaller in his new book, "The Last Panda."

"Had the panda remained in the obscurity of its bamboo thickets, free from worldwide publicity and the greed this publicity helped to fuel, there might not now be so many captives," writes Schaller, an American who did pioneering work tracking China's wild pandas in 1980-85.

The book is an insider's story of what went wrong in the world's frantic efforts to save pandas, and why the prospects for the estimated 1,000 still in the wild are fast declining. An additional 100 are in captivity.

"The habitat has shrunk by one-third and hundreds of pandas have been killed" since conservation efforts began in the 1970s, Schaller said in a telephone interview from his New York office. He now is director for science at the Wildlife Conservation Society.

He said China has not set up anti-poaching patrols or halted logging inside reserves, and world zoos still borrow pandas for short-term shows without regard for the impact on breeding.

In addition, he said, the U.S. government has caved in repeatedly to pressure from politicians to allow their hometown zoos to bring in panda exhibits, violating laws sharply restricting the import of endangered animals.

Schaller, who visits China regularly to study antelope, argali sheep and other rare animals on the Tibetan Plateau, worried that his frankness about the pandas may offend the Chinese.

He said the book was not intended as an attack on China's conservation establishment. "You can be assured if pandas occurred in the United States only, the situation would be no better," he said.

Financial Focus

Mutual funds offer many benefits to shareholders, such as reinvestment of dividends, automatic withdrawal plans and no-cost switching among funds. Unfortunately, all these transactions are taxable events.

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) uses a simple principle for any security transaction: You pay taxes on the difference between the cost at which you bought and the cost at which you sold. Determining that difference, however, can be difficult.

Many shareholders unknowingly pay double taxes by not figuring the reinvested dividends (already taxed) into the cost of the shares sold. It is estimated that about 70 percent of shareholders do reinvest dividends, so this issue has become a major concern. For example, when your fund pays a dividend and you reinvest it, that dividend is still a taxable distribution. The reinvested amount then increases your cost basis. For example, if you invest $1,000 and earn a $40 annual dividend, which you reinvest, your cost basis is $1,040.

Tax problems can also arise when you sell shares. Deciding to sell shares recently bought (with possibly only a small gain) vs. selling shares owned for several years (with major capital gains) can mean a difference in the taxes you pay.

A small but growing number of mutual fund companies are trying to end these accounting nightmares for shareholders. They are sending statements that show the cost basis of your shares and the amount of gain or loss on each sale. The statements generally include the date, price and dollar amount of each purchase or sale, the total cost of all shares owned after each transaction, and the average cost per share.

The mutual funds that have pioneered this service report enthusiastic response from shareholders, who say that tax filing is much simpler. Your tax bill can be substantially changed by selecting the proper method of identifying shares and share cost.

Until now, this information was difficult to obtain solely from information provided by shareholder statements.

If your fund does not offer this service, don't despair, and certainly don't change funds for this reason alone. More user-friendly statements are sure to become increasingly widespread as fund companies recognize their value to shareholders.

April 15 is gone.

Shelly Long returns for 'Cheers' finale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Shelley Long says she was surprised when producers of the hit television series "Cheers" asked her to return for the show's final episode.

Miss Long won an Emmy Award in 1983 for her portrayal of the scholarly barmaid who falls in and out of love with bar owner Sam Malone, played by Ted Danson. She left the show in 1987.

"I had said when I left the show (that) if you ever want Diane to come back I'd be happy to work that out and they had never called," Miss Long said Thursday during an appearance on KTLA-TV.

Miss Long currently stars in the CBS comedy "Good Advice."

White earns top award

Jodi White, a Snyder Junior High School student, has been named a United States National Award winner in science. She was nominated by Melinda Owen, biology teacher.

White is the daughter of Larry and Vicki White, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones and Mrs. Robert White Sr., all of Snyder.

Cleanup set for Monday

Monday is traditionally Game Day in the Senior Center, but it will not be held this week since many people will be involved in getting the center back to normal following the May Day activities in the coliseum.

Senior citizens who participate in the swimnastics group at Western Texas College are reminded that they will not meet again until summer classes begin.

A special activity in the center this week will be a Mother's Day program on Friday, beginning at 11 a.m. in the dining room. The Sunshine Choir will be providing special music.

Hoss Clayton and his band will be peforming in the dining room at 11 a.m. on Tuesday and the Local Yokels will play at 11 a.m. on Thursday. The Kitchen Band will go to the Snyder Nursing Center to entertain residents there at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The Retired Teachers Association will meet in the center's conference room at noon on Monday. The Golden K Kiwanis Club will meet there at noon on Tuesday and men and women interested in joining the club are invited to meet with them.

Senior citizens interested in learning clogging are invited to join the clogging class which meets at 2 p.m. on Wednesdays. An aerobics class for women meets at 2 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays. The modified exercise class for women meets at 11 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Ticket sales for the Ritz Theatre production of "Annie Get Your Gun" will be handled by volunteers at the center. Season ticket holders are to make reservations between 2-5 p.m. on May 3,4, or 5. Open ticket sales will begin May 6, with calls to be made between 2-5 p.m. The show will be staged in the Fine Arts Theatre at Western Texas College, with performances on May 13-16, May 20, and May 22-24.

House committee approves giving voters 'gun' choice

AUSTIN (AP) — An attempt to keep alive legislation that would allow Texans to carry concealed handguns moved ahead Friday, when a House committee endorsed putting the issue to voters next year.

The proposed constitutional amendment by Reps. Bill Carter, R-Fort Worth, and Ron Wilson, D-Houston, would bypass Gov. Ann Richards' threatened veto of the concealed-handgun measure by allowing voters to decide whether it should become law.

"Like bypass surgery, so we can get to the heart of the matter," said Rep. Jerry Yost, R-Longview, a member of the House Public Safety Committee.

The panel approved the proposal 6-0, with Rep. Al Edwards, D-Houston, present but not voting. It would require approval of two-thirds of the House and Senate to go on the November 1994 ballot.

The governor does not have veto power over proposed constitutional amendments, which go directly to voters. Lawmakers also can override a veto with a two-thirds vote, but some suggested this route would be more palatable to some.

L.A. upsets Phoenix, 107-103

by The Associated Press

Sedale Threatt was more than a threat to the Phoenix Suns.

"It's very frustrating when a guy just torches you, and it's even more frustrating when the guy hits jumpers," Phoenix's Charles Barkley said after Threatt's 35-point performance led the Los Angeles Lakers to a surprising 107-103 playoff upset of the top-seeded Phoenix Suns Friday night.

The Lakers, the only team in the NBA playoffs with a losing record, weren't supposed to have a chance against the Suns, who had the league's best record (62-20).

But the hot-handed Threatt was the difference as he made 14 of 19 shots from the floor in his commanding performance on the Suns' court.

"I shot real well tonight, but my teammates made things happen for me," said Threatt, the point guard who took over the monumental task of replacing Magic Johnson. "It was a total team effort."

In other playoff games, it was Seattle 99, Utah 85; New York 107, Indiana 104, and Chicago 114, Atlanta 90.

The NBA playoffs continue tonight with Charlotte at Boston and New Jersey at Cleveland in the Eastern Conference and San Antonio at Portland and the Los Angeles Clippers at Houston in the Western Conference. Boston, Cleveland, San Antonio and Houton lead the best-of-5 series 1-0.

Byron Scott added 22 points for the Lakers and made three free throws down the stretch — the final two with 9.4 seconds left — as Los Angeles scored the last nine points.

Scott's last pair of free throws put the Lakers up 106-103 and forced Dan Majerle to try a desperation 3-pointer with five seconds to go. It missed, and Threatt made 1 of 2 free throws after being fouled.

Barkley had 34 points and 15 rebounds for the Suns, while Tom Chambers scored 18.

"We didn't lose because we didn't shoot well," Chambers said. "We lost because they came out and took the game away, outhustled us and won it."

Los Angeles had a 39-43 record in the regular season, including a 5-0 sweep by the Suns.

SuperSonics 99, Jazz 85

Shawn Kemp scored a playoff career best of 29 points and pulled down 17 rebounds to lead Seattle over Utah.

The 6-foot-10 Kemp made 10 of 17 shots from the floor, 9 of 9 from the free-throw line, got 11 offensive rebounds and also blocked three Utah shots. His previous playoff career best was 28 points on April 23, 1992, in a first-round victory over Golden State.

Kemp outplayed Karl Malone, Utah's six-time all-star, in a rematch of two teams that met in a Western Conference semifinal series last year that the Jazz won 4-1.

Malone tried to keep Utah in the game with 24 points and 13 rebounds, but Seattle's sagging defense held the other Jazz players effectively in check.

Knicks 107, Pacers 104

Patrick Ewing's 14-foot jumper with 10 seconds left short-circuited Indiana's second-half rally.

Reggie Miller, who scored 14 of his 32 points in the fourth quarter and tied the NBA playoff record with 17 free throws without a miss, then dribbled the ball out of bounds with 5.6 seconds remaining, hurting the Pacers' chance for a big upset. New York has won 21 straight games at Madison Square Garden.

Ewing, who finished with 25 points, hit 1 of 2 free throws with 5 seconds left for a 3-point lead, and Miller missed a desperation 3-pointer at the buzzer.

Bulls 114, Hawks 90

Michael Jordan scored 35 points and Bill Cartwright and B.J. Armstrong led a crushing 17-4 run at the start of the second half, leading the two-time champion Bulls over the Hawks.

Controlling the tempo, the boards and the game, the Bulls asserted themselves early as Jordan scored 18 points in the first quarter to put Chicago ahead to stay.

With the Bulls leading 62-48 at halftime, Cartwright and Armstrong combined for 13 of the points in the run that put Chicago ahead 79-52. It was 95-65 after three quarters and the Hawks were finished.

Jenkins quits as UH coach

HOUSTON (AP) — Embattled University of Houston football coach John Jenkins resigned on Friday in the wake of allegations by a former assistant and several former players that NCAA rules were violated within his program.

In a joint announcement with athletic director Bill Carr, Jenkins said the two sides had agreed on a settlement that will pay him the equivalent of two years' base salary and continued health care insurance for his family.

"Sometimes it doesn't work out. Actually you've a lot of hurdles and obstacles and that's obviously the case here," Jenkins said in a brief statement to reporters.

He refused to answer questions and said he would discuss the allegations of NCAA violations at a later time.

School officials said they would immediately begin a national search for Jenkins' replacement.

College football playoff rejected

DALLAS (AP) — The NCAA post-season football committee has endorsed the bowl system, just one week after a shoe company offered to sponsor an eight-team, $125 million Division I-A football playoff.

"This is not a position opposing anyone or any proposal," committee chairman Donnie Duncan said Thursday from the San Antonio meeting. "This is a position that recognizes reality over many years."

Duncan, the athletic director at the University of Oklahoma, cited the 12-member group's desire to protect the 20 bowls that have guaranteed $70 million to I-A schools next fall.

The estimated $125 million that would be generated by the playoff is just speculation at this point, Duncan added.

Dick Schultz, the NCAA's executive director, asked his membership at its Dallas convention in January to consider a one-game playoff. The endorsement of the bowls was the reply.

Since the speech by Schultz, last week's offer by Nike Inc. was the first substantive playoff proposal.

Nike and Creative Artists Agency, which represents some of the biggest names in the film industry, met with Schultz within the past two months about the playoff proposal, The Dallas Morning News reported, quoting a NCAA source it did not name.

Nike and the agency made their presentation to the Collegiate Commissioners Association last week, the newspaper said.

The proposed eight-team playoff would incorporate the bowls in some fashion, said Southwest Conference commissioner Steve Hatchell, who heard the presentation.

Any NCAA championship must be approved by two-thirds of the membership in all three of its divisions.

Seles attacked at German tournament

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — A routine changeover turned into a shocking scene of violence Friday when a fan reached over a courtside railing and stuck a knife into the back of Monica Seles, the top-ranked women's tennis player.

Trainers rushed to the aid of the 19-year-old, woozy from the blow that left an inch-deep slit between her shoulder blades. She wandered onto the court, her legs buckled and she was helped to a sitting position.

The attacker was immediately subdued. Witnesses said he had been drinking.

Seles left the court on a gurney and was taken to a hospital, where officials said she was in no danger but would be kept overnight for observation. Doctors expected her to be out of action for four weeks, knocking her from the French Open starting May 24, a tournament she has won the last three years.

Hamburg police arrested a man they said identified himself as a 38-year-old from eastern Germany. Seles, who was born in Yugoslavia, has been the target of death threats related to the strife in her homeland, but authorities downplayed the chances that the attack was politically motivated.

"He speaks German. He doesn't appear to be a foreigner," police spokesman Jens Buck said. "He speaks perfect German. We're going on the assumption that he's a German."

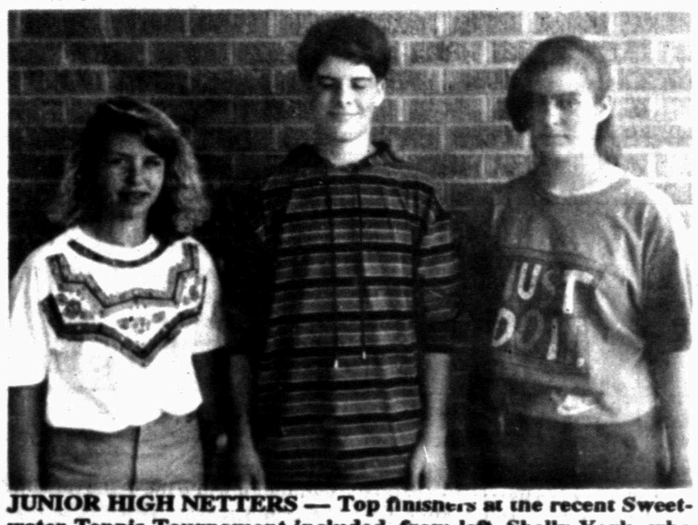

Seles was leading Magadelana Maleeva 6-4, 4-3 and had gone to the sidelines for a changeover when the assailant struck.

Seles, an ethnic Hungarian from Serbia who has lived in the United States since 1986, has been at the center of controversy virtually from the minute she turned pro in 1989. The WTA said Seles was not officially listed from any country.

Last year, as the civil war in the former Yugoslav republic of Bosnia-Herzegovina intensified, Seles was the target of increasing pressure to take a political stand and was criticized by a top men's player, Goran Ivanisevic of Croatia, for not renouncing Serbia.

Asked last year at a tournament in New Jersey if she feels she's representing Yugoslavia when she's on the court, Seles said, "I always say as a player I think I'm an individual. When I go out onto court, I play for Monica. I don't think it's fair a lot of people try to bring politics into sport because the two don't mix."

Croatian groups and government officials urged Seles to stop using a Yugoslav designation as her homeland at tournaments.

STEPHENVILLE — Western Texas College bareback riders grabbed three of the top five places in Friday's second performance of the Tarleton State University NIRA Rodeo here.

The rodeo, the regular-season finale, was to have wound up with Saturday's short go, featuring the top 10 qualifiers in each event.

Western Texas' Eric Mouton, who leads the NIRA Southwest Region, captured the top spot in bareback riding Friday with a score of 77. Teammate Travis Griffin was second with his 72. Claiming fifth position was Troy Thomson, who was good for a Friday 68.

Saddle bronc rider Fletcher Tigner held on to first with his 74 from Thursday's opening night. WTC claimed fifth, sixth and seventh in the event as Jason Runfola took a 62, Trey Griffin scored a 61 and Benji Fontenot was awarded a 59 during Friday's competition.

Tigner is also headed for the finals in bull riding with a third-place 73. Griffin is sixth in the event, getting a 66 Friday.

In women's events, WTC's Brandye Bitters posted a first-place 9.4 in goat tying, Leslie Greer took third in the barrel race with a 17.49 clocking, then flashed a sixth-place 10.6 in goat tying, and Jonell Cardwell wound up fourth in breakaway roping in the long go with a 4.4 time.

Western Texas' men's team went into the TSU rodeo with a commanding lead in the regional standings. A first or second-place finish for the season would send the Westerners to the College National Finals Rodeo in Bozeman, Mont. in June.

'Dogs thump W'brook 17-6

WESTBROOK — The Ira Bulldogs moved to within one game of clinching a District 4-A playoff spot Friday, beating Westbrook 17-6.

Pitchers Jason Hartley and Wyatt Webster limited the Wildcats to just four hits while the Bulldog offense slapped nine, including three for extra bases.

Hartley started and went two innings, fanning three and giving up three hits. Webster relieved and went three frames, striking out nine and allowing only one hit.

Ira's offense was led by Webster, who went 3-for-5 Friday with a triple and a double.

Mike Hughes had two hits, one a double, in four plate appearances, Toby Haynes rapped two hits in five at-bats and scored three times, Jay Nettles was 1-for-2 with three RBI and Ricky Stroud punched a single.

The win lifts the Bulldogs to 5-8 on the season and 2-1 in district play. Westbrook slips to 1-2 in loop games and 1-3 in all games.

In other action Friday night, Loraine moved to 3-0 since starting district games with a 16-1 win over Hermleigh.

Cancer Society's annual county-wide blitz Tuesday

Persons volunteering as neighborhood captains for the 1993 Community Crusade of the American Cancer Society attended a training session Monday at the Reddy Room in TU Electric. The volunteers received packets which they will distribute to the many crusade volunteers of this year's local county-wide drive.

Helen Hatter, Scurry County ACS Unit president, explained the organization's ongoing efforts of providing services and rehabilitation for local patients, education of both youth and adults in cancer awareness and prevention, and funding for research. She also explained the importance of the educational material in the packets for the blitz.

According to a recent survey, every 200 doorside messages results in the prevention or early detection of 12 cases of cancer.

The "Lights on for Cancer Control" blitz will be this Tuesday, from 6 to 8 p.m. Shirley Stewart, community crusade chairman, announced that the goal for the crusade is $9,500. After being contacted Tuesday, everyone is asked to turn their porch light on as a symbol of hope in the ongoing battle against cancer.

CANCER SOCIETY BLITZ — Ida Stokes, Syble Bley, Lou Meadows and Martha Schiebel, from left, received their packets from Leona Wiggins at a recent training session for the American Cancer Society "Blitz" set for 6 p.m. to 8 Tuesday. Snyder police kept busy with mishaps, other calls

Snyder police worked seven traffic accidents Friday and early Saturday — one of which sent three people to the emergency room for treatment.

Officers also made several unrelated arrests.

At 10:32 p.m. Friday, police investigated a two-vehicle accident at 30th Street and El Paso. Involved were a 1983 Silverado pickup driven by Marcus Sparlin of Rt. 3 and a 1989 Ford pickup driven by Melissa Kruger of Rt. 1. Sparlin, Kruger and Steven Taylor, a passenger in the Silverado, were all transported to Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Kruger, 32, and Taylor, 15, were treated and released. Sixteen-year-old Sparlin was transfered to Lubbock by private vehicle for treatment of facial injuries.

Other accidents worked by officers included:

—A 1987 Chevrolet driven by Amy Foust of 4041 Eastridge was in collision with a 1989 Ford Bronco driven by Bronc Collier of Rt. 2. The mishap took place at 11:41 a.m. Friday in the 3800 block of Brick Plant Road.

—A 1980 Buick driven by Amelinda Rodriquez of 102 N. College was in collision with a parked, unoccupied 1992 Ford pickup owned by Jason Rodgers of 208 32nd St. The accident occurred at 7:13 p.m. Friday in Furr's parking lot.

—A 1986 Oldsmobile driven by Mark Beckham of 3721 Ave. U was in collision with a 1980 GMC Suburban driven by Kathryn Higgins of 107 Birch. The accident took place at 7:34 p.m. Friday in the 2800 block of Avenue V.

—A 1989 Ford pickup driven by John Berta of Lubbock was in collision with a 1983 Buick driven by Billie Jones of 2209 Ave. K. The accident occurred at 11:55 p.m. Friday in the 3400 block of College Avenue.

—A 1990 Chevrolet driven by Jennifer Jones of 4112 Eastridge was in collision with a 1988 Nissan pickup driven by Stephen Campbell of 301 34th St. The accident took place at 12:08 a.m. Saturday at 37th Street and Avenue V.

Police also worked a hit-and-run at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the intersection of 27th Street and Avenue F. An unknown vehicle struck a highline pole owned by Snyder Cablevision. Damage to the pole was estimated at $100.

Police arrested a 17-year-old male at 1:33 a.m. Saturday in the intersection of 26th Street and Avenue I on Lubbock DPS warrants for no liability insurance and failure to appear.

At 2:19 a.m. Saturday, officers stopped a vehicle in the 1900 block of Avenue R. The driver fled on foot. He has been identified as a 22-year-old male and will be charged with evading arrest and driving with a suspended license. Two other male occupants in the vehicle, ages 61 and and 27, were arrested for public intoxication.

Police also filed a report for driving while intoxicated against a juvenile male on Friday evening.

In other activity, a runaway report was submitted Friday for 14-year-old Annie Martinez. She is described as being 5-foot in height and weighing 125 pounds.

At 5:31 p.m. Friday, employees at the College Avenue Dairy Queen called police in reference to three juveniles under the age of 3 being left unattended. Contact was made with the parents of the children, who did pick them up.

Peace efforts continue

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Defiant Bosnian Serbs sounded skeptical about signing a peace agreement starting Saturday in Athens, but the co-author of a rejected peace plan says he thinks the rebels will have no choice.

Mounting pressure from their Yugoslav backers and the growing threat of Western military intervention prodded the Serbs to come to Athens to reconsider the plan after rejecting it for a second time on Monday. But Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic said the plan needed major revisions, and predicted he would not sign an agreement this weekend.

The talks are to start Saturday with an opening appeal for peace by Premier Constantine Mitsotakis of Greece. Chairing the talks are European Community mediator Lord Owen, U.N. envoy Cyrus Vance and Thorvald Stoltenberg, Vance's replacement and the former foreign minister of Norway.

Burden

Equitable appraisals among different types of property are a significant factor in attracting new industry and jobs to a community. The 1991-92 property tax on industrial equipment and inventories valued at $80,000 ranged from $1,218 in Eagle Pass to $2,435 in Robstown.

For property worth $80,000 in Snyder the report showed a combined average tax of $1,809 for all types of property, $1,730 for industrial equipment and inventories and $1,597 for commercial inventories and fixtures.

The report cites two reasons for the wide range of taxes. First, local officials adopt budgets and set tax rates and the amount of homestead exemptions. Second, unless all property is appraised uniformly, tax burdens will vary. Average ratios of tax appraisals to market value (selling price) ranged from 84.3 percent in Ramirez ISD (Duval County) to 133 percent in Happy ISD (Swisher County).

Locally, the report shows a ratio of 104.6 percent for all types of property in the Snyder ISD, 114.6 percent for Hermleigh ISD and 104.4 percent for Ira ISD.

Local governments in Texas relied upon the property tax to finance 37 percent of their budgets in 1991. State aid accounted for 25.4 percent and federal aid 2.7 percent.

Charges for services provided 15.6 percent of the revenue; miscellaneous items such as interest received, 11 percent; and sales and other taxes made up 8.4 percent of general revenue.

Gary Wood, President of the Texas Research League, cautioned that the figures are for last year. Taxpayers already have paid their 1992-93 tax bills and are aware that preliminary reports indicate that school districts, including the new county education districts, have increased tax rates an average of 10 percent above the levels shown in the report.

Columbia astronauts take part in experiment

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A German astronaut aboard Columbia was injected with nearly a half-gallon of saline solution in a pioneering experiment intended to fight dehydration in space.

The shuttle's astronaut-doctor, Bernard Harris Jr., injected crewmate Hans Schlegel with the solution Friday night. The three other astronauts assigned to Spacelab are to be infused with up to a half-gallon each Saturday and Sunday.

That's about the amount of body fluid each man has lost since the German-sponsored research mission began Monday.

Space travelers typically suffer from puffy faces and "chicken legs" — where the legs shrink slightly from the lowest part up — because of the upward shift of body fluids in weightlessness.

That shift leads to dehydration in orbit as the body senses extra fluid in the chest and activates hormones to reduce the amount of blood and other body fluids.

Dr. Gott by Peter H. Gott, M.D.

As fascinated as we are by the lives of the rich and famous, we are often even more absorbed by their deaths. Perhaps the health problems affecting celebrities are a testimonial that we all suffer from the same physical complaints, regardless of our positions in society.

For example, Adolph Hitler has provided historians a wealth of presumptions about how an obscure Bavarian corporal could, in the role of a nefarious demagogue, have so altered the course of modern history. Surprisingly, Hitler appears to have been afflicted with a common disease called temporal arteritis, in addition to Parkinson's disease and several prosaic disorders. I've abstracted the following information from an article in the Archives of Internal Medicine (March 22, 1993), written by Dr. Fritz Redlich, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Science, UCLA School of Medicine.

Adolph Hitler was born on April 20, 1889. After an undistinguished school career, he entered the Army in 1914, saw action during World War I and sustained a shrapnel injury to his left thigh, as well as mild mustard gas poisoning.

During his rise to power, Hitler was relatively healthy, but he was an uncooperative patient: He self-medicated, refused examination of his abdomen and genitals and would not undergo diagnostic X-ray tests.

His health began to deteriorate in 1941, during the Russian campaign, and he continued to complain of episodic symptoms for years. In particular, he experienced dizziness, sensitive eyes, visual disturbances, headaches, intestinal spasms, weight loss, fever, and a swollen artery over the right temple. These symptoms are characteristic of temporal arteritis, which I'll describe below.

By meticulously examining newsreels of Hitler, experts have concluded that he had Parkinson's disease. The typical shuffling gait, slow movement and tremor worsened during the [illegible] Redlich — became so prominent by 1944 as to be "obvious to any observer with knowledge of neurological symptoms." Parkinson's disease was untreatable at the time.

Hitler also had recurring jaundice that (when coupled with bouts of abdominal pain) has led medical analysts to conclude that he had gallstones. However, these were never demonstrated. It's noteworthy that such symptoms may complicate temporal arteritis.

He probably had irritable bowel syndrome and was frequently dosed with drugs that may have made him sicker. For instance, he was given amphetamines, which could have caused the confusion and bizarre outbursts he showed on occasion.

Hitler's health problems were compounded by high blood pressure, which may have affected his vision and certainly contributed to his recognized heart strain. Nonetheless, coronary artery disease is a known consequence of temporal arteritis.

Temporal arteritis, first described in 1937, is marked by arterial inflammation, notably of the temporal artery in front of the ear. The cause is unknown, but the affliction is believed due to an auto-immune reaction, during which the body becomes allergic to certain of its normal tissues.

The disease is ordinarily associated with headache, a tender and swollen artery, visual disturbances, malaise and fever. It can cause heart [illegible] symptoms. It is suspected when the patient has a mild anemia and an elevated sedimentation rate (both of which Hitler had), and is confirmed by a biopsy (which he didn't). Treatment with cortisone is universally successful, but this therapy was not available during Hitler's lifetime.

Perhaps that's just as well: It would have improved the quality of his life without much benefit to humanity. His indefensible commitment to genocide and world domination by a Nazi super-state was a mental aberration, not due to any physical disease. Thus, cortisone would not have caused 20th-century history to have been re-written.

Hitler died on April 30, 1945, from a gunshot wound and potassium cyanide ingestion.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Will a pacemaker keep a person alive regardless of his health status? What if old people simply decide to call it quits?

DEAR READER: A pacemaker, which is really a battery-run generator, will not keep a person alive regardless of other circumstances. By this I mean that a patient whose heart stops beating will be maintained by a pacemaker — this is what the device is designed to accomplish — but if he stops breathing or the heart muscle simply gives out, the pacemaker will continue to discharge ineffectually, despite death. Life will not be restored.

Pacemakers have been a godsend for patients who, for a variety of reasons, suffer from dangerously slow pulses or outright cardiac arrest. In such instances, the tiny generators will ensure an active, productive life — as long as other vital body organs, such as the brain and kidneys, are functioning reasonably well.

Because many patients with terminal or catastrophic illnesses eventually die of heart stoppage, pacemakers [illegible] death. However, from a practical standpoint, a person should not refuse a pacemaker merely because of a fear that he can't "call it quits" when the time comes. Usually, when death is imminent, most of the body organs malfunction; therefore, the pacemaker issue becomes relatively unimportant.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my new Health Report "Heart Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss the side effects of Zestril. How often should my blood be tested while I remain on this medication?

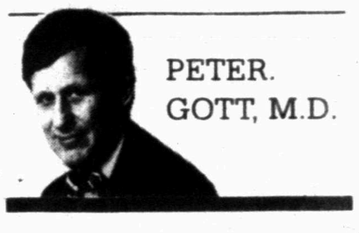

DEAR READER: Zestril (lisinopril) is an ACE inhibitor: It blocks a chemical (angiotensin-converting enzyme) that causes high blood pressure.

Zestril is very effective and quite safe. The major side effects are swelling of the face or extremities, low blood pressure, fetal death in pregnant women, dizziness, cough, headache, fatigue and diarrhea. Because ACE inhibitors may infrequently cause low white blood cell [illegible] recommends periodic blood counts for [illegible] who have kidney disorders or vascular diseases, such as lupus.

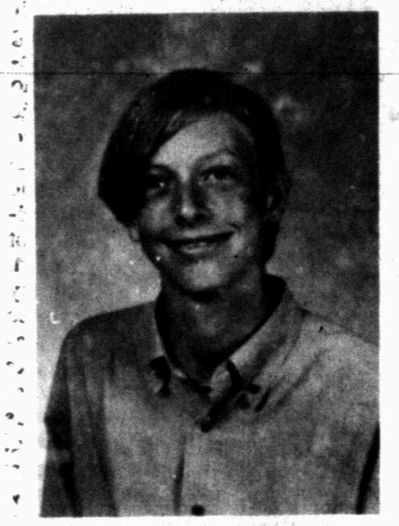

If you are otherwise healthy and have been prescribed Zestril for hypertension or a heart ailment, you do not need blood-test monitoring unless a problem develops. Follow your physician's recommendations about this.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1993 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am writing you in the hope that I can do something to make myself feel better, as well as to help others who might experience the same situatio...

[illegible] (one of the city's largest and best [illegible] utation) for a haircut. My request was "a simple haircut — one that will need as little upkeep as possible," but I was told that I had to style my hair daily with a blow dryer and I would be shown how. The message I got was that I was just not an adequate woman without puffy, styled hair.

As the hairdo session went on, I felt like I was on the firing line with an array of questions, from where did I work, what did I do, where did I live, to the most inappropriate ones like, "Are you married?" "Well, have you ever been married?" "Do you have kids?" and, "How old are you?"

I was too busy holding back tears to explain that some people — 10 percent, in fact — are gay, and that it's rude to ask such questions. The final insult came when I asked if a perm might help to make my hair more manageable, and was told I really ought to cover my gray hair!

If etiquette, while working on someone's hair, is not taught in beauty school, it ought to be. Abby, please tell them.

THE 10-PERCENT WOMAN FROM LOUISIANA

DEAR 10-PERCENT WOMAN: You just told 'em. I could not have done better.

DEAR ABBY: One evening recently, after I enjoyed an outing around the fire pits at the beach, the beach closed and people were requested to pack up and leave.

At the fire pit next to ours, a large family had been celebrating. The "man of the family" threw the remaining wood on the fire and then proceeded to squirt a full bottle of lighter fluid on the already raging fire! Obviously, this man had no [illegible] stream of lighter fluid or even ignite the fumes, causing the bottle to explode!

I am an occupational therapist who has seen the ravages that fire can do to the human body. There were many little children in the group who could have been injured. Worse than that, the family learned from their "role model" that this is a fun and prudent thing to do with a dangerous chemical. No one should ever squirt any flammable liquid on an open fire!

Please, Abby, remind your readers that burns are forever, with months of painful treatment and therapy, if one survives. A visit to a local burn unit will verify this sad fact. I hope this letter will prevent someone from living the remainder of his or her life paying a heavy price for a moment of foolishness.

GERI LOPKER, ORANGE, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I totally disagree with your statement, "If an engagement is broken by either party, the lady should return the ring, or she's no lady."

I went with "Al" for nine years. In our eighth year, we announced our engagement with plans to marry a year later. My engagement ring was gorgeous — four carats. I quit a successful career to start a business with Al.

Well, umpteen wedding showers later, and only nine days before the wedding, with 600 invited guests, Al called the wedding off. I was crushed and humiliated. He [illegible] changed due to flashbacks of "child abuse." (I later learned that he had been having an affair with my best friend!)

My poor parents had spent thousands of dollars, and I had foolishly taken money out of my IRAs and savings to make ours the perfect wedding.

I did not return the ring, and he gave me no argument. Am I less of a lady for having kept it? I felt entitled to it. I will never forget the pain and humiliation, but fortunately, the scars have healed.

This does have a happy ending. I am now happily married to a wonderful man, and I thank God daily for small miracles. Sign me ...

A LADY WHO KEPT THE RING

DEAR LADY: Four carats is a lot of lettuce, but since Al gave you no argument, you are definitely no less a lady for having kept the ring.

P.S. I'm curious. What happened to Al and your former best friend?

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow who has been seeing a very special gentleman for the last five months. He has taken me out to dinner and shows, and we enjoy each other's company very much. He is a widower about my age. I have invited him to my home for dinners quite often, and he has contributed dinners by bringing them to my home, which was wonderful. We both hate eating alone.

After dinner (at my home), he said he had something very important to say to me. I thought he was about to propose marriage, but it wasn't that at all. To make a long story short, he took a check out of his wallet and handed it to me. It was for $200. I asked, "What is this for?" He replied, "Well, you have had me to your home for dinners so often, I just wanted to give you a little gift."

I explained that I had invited him to dinner because I enjoyed his company, and with that, I tore up his check in little pieces.

He looked so hurt, I regretted my hasty action, but I really didn't want any money from him.

Abby, is what I did so terrible? I hope it hasn't spoiled our wonderful relationship. But I was momentarily ...

INSULTED

DEAR INSULTED: There was nothing wrong with your refus[illegible], but it would have been wiser to have simply handed it back to him.

DEAR ABBY: You were wrong to advise "Animal Lover" not to stop after hitting a raccoon on a busy highway. I got into a lot of trouble for hitting a sow on a dark country road two years ago.

We were coming back from a Mardi Gras celebration about 3 a.m., driving through Mississippi, when it happened. The sow was bloodied and stunned and nobody was around, so I pushed it off to the side of the road and continued on my way.

A month later, I got a letter from some farmer's lawyer, demanding $3,000 for what he swore was a prize animal. I showed it to my lawyer and asked what he thought my chances would be in court. He suggested I pay up. When I asked how the accident could be traced to me with no witnesses, he said, "Maybe the pig squealed."

REGINALD V. IN CHICAGO

DEAR REGINALD: After the item appeared in my column, I received a flood of letters from readers pointing out that, while it's unwise to handle an injured wild animal, the driver should have telephoned the state highway police — who could have either handled the matter themselves, or informed the nearest S.P.C.A.

Abby shares more of her favorite, easy-to-prepare recipes. To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, More Favorite Recipes, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

New Jersey woman battling for control of medical funds

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Officers of a Texas-based association which handles trust accounts for children who undergo transplants are due in federal court Monday to face allegations they are defrauding a 19-year-old New Jersey woman.

The woman, Heather Templeton, charged in a complaint that the Dallas-based Children's Transplant Association violated its fiduciary responsibility through slipshod handling of the trust account, including improper transfer of funds and nonpayment of legitimate medical expenses.

The complaint also charged that the CTA kept poor records and did not file tax forms for the interest that should have accrued to Templeton, a High Bridge resident who had a liver transplant.

U.S. District Judge Nicholas Politan issued a temporary restraining order Friday, barring the association from completing any transactions until Monday. The association filed an affidavit on its behalf detailing its handling of the account, but the judge roundly criticized it.

"The affidavit that was filed here reeks of what I call sophistry. It reeks of diversion. It reeks of evasion," Politan said.

He told the lawyer for the association that the CTA's officers, Jack and Betty Bradberry, of Dallas, must appear before him at 9 a.m. Monday.

Templeton's lawyer, Vincent Paragano, said that the Minnesota attorney general's office is investigating the association's handling of three trust accounts of young transplant recipient similar to Templeton.

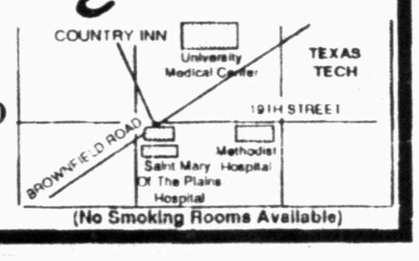

Paragano said the CTA is an organization that offers to help manage the affairs of families whose children undergo costly and complicated organ transplants. He said one of the services offered is the handling of trust accounts.

He said that Templeton, who suffers from cystic fibrosis, underwent a liver transplant in 1981 in Omaha, Neb. Her mother, Loretta Templeton, began fund-raising drives to help offset her daughter's medical bills and costs for follow-up treatment to the transplant.

Paragano said that Loretta Templeton signed an agreement with the CTA to manage her daughter's trust account in 1988. He said that a year later, the CTA began not returning phone calls and other inquiries about the trust fund from the Templetons.

Paragano said there is about $40,000 in the fund, but he said that the association has not provided a clear accounting of the money.

The Templeton's are seeking a dissolution of the agreement with the CTA and the placement of the funds in an escrow account.

By Shirley A. Gorman

Sometimes wishes do come true.

That's certainly true for Deana Cooper, longtime Snyder resident, who is still on "cloud nine" after finding a younger brother in California whom she has spent much of her life searching for.

Last month, after a final series of events and a stroke or two of good luck, Deana finally came face-to-face with "the missing element of her life.

In addition, she also gained a sister-in-law, niece and nephew whom she did not know she had.

The day they all met in Sacramento, Calif. — April 2 of this year — was preceeded by decades of hope, wonder, doubt, disappointment, and most of all perserverance. But she would go through it all over again without a moment's hesitation.

Deana, who was accompanied by her husband, Charles, described their trip "as wonderful." Traveling by train, they were met at the train depot by Deana's brother, William E. Stevens, Jr. his wife, Nonie, and their two children.

That first visit ended almost a lifetime of wondering and years of meticulously searching for clues in old records and newspaper files and dialing hundreds of telephone numbers.

From the moment Deana and Bill, as her brother is known, first met in person she said it was instant rapport. "He has a nice personality and he likes to joke. We're both family oriented and like to be involved with our children's activities," she said.

They both share similar tastes in food as well.

They are both football fans, but Bill prefers the San Francisco 49'ers while Deana, of course, roots for the Dallas Cowboys. During their week in Sacramento, Deana said her nephew had plastered the room they stayed in with 49'er memorabilia.

Deana isn't sure yet how she will top that when her brother and his family visit in August, but she definitely intends to come up with something.

Bill is the grounds superintendent for the Elk Grove School District and his wife teaches third grade. Teaching is another connection Deana has with her new found brother and his family. She substitutes teaches in Snyder and her mother-in-law is also a retired teacher.

Now that Deana has found her brother, she said, "We won't be separated again. "We are planning a real Texas welcome and barbecue for them," she added.

Deana said she feels fortunate that things have worked out as they have. Throughout her long years of wondering and searching, she sometimes asked herself if she and her brother would get along or have anything in common. She said she would have felt disappointed if he had not cared about people or family. But from the first moment they first saw each other, all those doubts and fears melted away.

Bill reminds Deana of her oldest son, Chuck Cooper, who also lives in Snyder.

Though Deana has always been surrounded by a loving family, she said she somehow felt "incomplete" for much of her life because "something was missing."

Deana now cherishes Bill as much as she does the brother and two sisters she was reared with. She and her husband also have five children and nine grandchildren. Her natural mother and the father who raised her, Pat and Milton Mapes, are now also living in Snyder. She said she kept searching because somehow "I just knew I had another brother somewhere."

Like the momma duck, Deana could never be completely content, until she had all her baby ducks accounted for.

Deana and Bill had the same father, William E. Stevens, who died in 1980. Her story begins in Los Angeles, Calif., where she was born. Her natural parents, Stevens and Mrs. Mapes, divorced when she was one year old. The following year, her mother married Milton Mapes and two years later the family, which now included a baby brother, moved to Corpus Christi. In time, Deana's mother had two more daughters.

In 1952, the Mapes family moved to Snyder.

When Deana was 12 years old she said she began to doubt that the dad she had always known was her natural father. Her suspicions were aroused during a visit with relatives in California when she accidentally discovered a copy of a birth certificate for a "Deana Stevens" which had fallen between the seat and arm of a chair.

Even though Deana was then told that Deana Stevens was a "different girl" she said she started wondering if she had had another father and perhaps a sibling as well.

When Deana was 17, the Mapeses confirmed what she had long suspected — that the birth certificate she had found was hers.

She said her parents had not told her this before because they had not known how to do it.

Deana never got to know her natural father while he was alive because when he returned from World War II he was told that his daughter had been killed in a car accident.

That lie had been concocted to protect Deana's mother who had remarried and moved to Texas. Neither Deana's mother or her husband knew anything about this.

Stevens remarried also and fathered Bill who is six years younger than Deana. They also eventually divorced and Stevens remarried.

Years later, during the final stage of her search, Deana learned that her father always carried her baby picture with him and deeply lamented "the daughter he had lost."

In the 1970s Deana began an earnest search for her biological father whom she learned had lived in Los Angeles, Calif. She called all the William Stevens listed in the L.A. telephone directory — to no avail — because by then he had already moved away.

Eventually, she discontinued the search at that time for fear of hurting someone in her family. But this past July, while sitting in her living room, Deana said she turned to her husband and said she had decided to begin searching again.

"It was something I had to do for myself," she explained. "This was just something that was always eating at me. I felt like a puzzle with a missing piece — one that I had to find."

Deana began by writing the Social Security Administration who answered five weeks later with the disheartening news that Williams E. Stevens Sr. had died on Sept. 8, 1980, ironically the day after her first grandchild was born.

This bit of news was hard to accept and caused Deana to wish that she had never given up searching.

(See FOLKS On Page 2B)

TOGETHER AT LAST — After many years of searching, Deana Cooper of Snyder finally met her long-lost brother, Bill Stevens, last month in Sacramento, Calif., where he lives with his wife and two children. During Deana's week-long stay, the two siblings found out that they have much in common, including a love for family. This photo was taken in a restaurant on Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco. Beauchamp, Thomas pledge nuptial vows

Katherine Hamilton Thomas of Marin County, Calif., and Tim Ray Beauchamp of Snyder exchanged vows in a double ring ceremony at 4 p.m. on March 27 in St. John's Espiscopal Church in Ross, Calif. Father Bart Seargant, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride's parents are Alice Thomas of Marin County, and the late Gerald Thomas. The groom is the son of Allie Beth Beauchamp of Snyder and Arthur Beauchamp of Abilene.

The wedding party included Kimberly Haley of Dallas as maid of honor; Jennifer Taylor of Red Bluff, Calif., and Teri Scott of Walnut Creed, Calif.

Best man was Stacy Kellam of Snyder. Other attendants were Craig Watkins and Scott Cole, both of Snyder, and Greg Milligan of Walnut Creek, Calif. Close family friend and Godfather to the bride, Stuart McKalrey of Tiburon, Calif., gave the bride in marriage at the altar.

The bride wore an off-the-shoulder chapel length dress by Jim Helor and the bridesmaids wore matching designs by Laura Ashley. The groomsmen wore Ralph Lauren double breasted tuxedos.

The reception was held immediatley following the ceremony at the bride's mother's home in Kant Woodlands, Calif., where family and friends of both the bride and groom joined in the festivities. Special guests were the groom's sisters, Brentz Beauchamp Brown of Ogden, Utah, and Brenda Beauchamp of Kansas City, Mo.

The couple's honeymoon was to Jamaica and they make their home in San Jose, Calif. Both attended Texas Tech University where they met and in 1990 both moved to California to continue their education.

Beauchamp is a 1989 Snyder High School graduate and the bride graduated from the Hockaday School in Dallas in 1988.

Local courtesies included a wedding shower held on April 17 at Colonial Hill Baptist Church from 2 to 3 p.m., hosted by 15 ladies.

in the 1970s. It was disheartening for her to realize that she and her natural father had never gotten to know each other before he died.

"I felt a sense of loss and disappointment because I had waited so long," Deana said.

Determined not to give up again, the Snyder woman began searching for any information about her father's family. Told by Social Security personnel that Stevens had died in Reno, Nev., Deana began by calling all the Stevens surnames in the Reno directory.

She met with no success until she reached a Sheri Stevens who, though she was not related, proved to be a key factor in ending Deana's long search. The two bonded instantly because Sheri is also searching for someone. She has since been made an honorary member of Deana's family.

As her search was entering its final stages, Deana received a copy of Stevens death certificate which listed Nebraska as the place of death.

The Snyder woman then contacted the periodical department of the Washoe County Library in Nevada which keeps an extensive newspaper file on microfilm , but noone could find an obituary for Stevens.

Deana also contacted funeral homes, cemeteries, and the Veterans Administration Hospital — but still no luck.

After the library had been unable to find an obituary for Stevens, Deana said she had tried to call Sheri and later wrote to her to tell her not to waste her time searching at the library. However, in perhaps the best bit of luck throughout her long quest, Deana said Sheri did not get either message and instead went to the library and searched until she found Stevens' obit. She called Deana in November with the happy news.

According to the obit, Stevens was survived by a son and , daughter and wife, Marion. At first Deana, thought she had also discovered another sister, but Teddi Wade who lived in Reno, Nev. turned out to be Stevens' step-daughter. She was 11 years old when Stevens married her mother.

Deana started calling all the various telephone listings for the surname Wade which Sheri had given to her without success, until she finally contacted one who knew Teddi. When she finally reached the right party, Teddi told Deana that she had a brother, whom she called "Billy" who lived in Sacramento. She also told her that her mother, Marion, who was Bill's step-mother, had moved to Medford, Ore.

Marion would later tell Deana that they all thought she had died in an accident when she was young. She also confirmed that Stevens loved Deana very much and that Teddi became the daughter he never had the chance to know. She also sent her pictures of her father.

Marion had given Deana the last known telephone number she had for Bill, but she found it was no longer his number. At 3 p.m. that afternoon she started dialing all of the Stevens listings in Sacramento. None proved to be her brother, but finally she talked to someone who told her that a William Stevens had recently moved to Wilton, some 30 miles outside of Sacramento.

Deana made the last call at 8 p.m. that night. After five hours of non-stop dialing, she reached her brother's residence.

His daughter answered the telephone, and Deana said she could hear her tell her dad that a "funny sounding woman who might be from Texas" was on the phone.

Deana said Bill was understandably "guarded at first," but that she could hear his wife, Nonie, "getting excited" in the background.

Since Bill believed that she had died before he was born, Deana said she understood his reserve. The ice broke quickly though and during the next several weeks, they spoke often on the telephone and exchanged letters. By the time they actually met, Deana said "It was like we had known each other always.

After searching through some of their father's possessions, Deana said Bill found her original birth certificate and several of her baby pictures.

While Deana is overjoyed to have found the "missing piece" in her life, she said she never embarked on this search because she "lacked for a loving family." Rather, it was because she has always been surrounded by family, that she wanted all members to be accounted for.

Deana expressed nothing but love and affection for her mother and the father who raised her as well as for her other siblings, her husband, children and grandchildren.

She said she does not intend to waste any time fretting over what might have been, she is just so happy that she has found her brother and that he accepts her and her family.

Regardless, of what did or did not happen in the past, Deana said she is just overjoyed that things have turned out as well as they have.

Deana said that first night after she talked to Bill on the phone, it slowly began to soak in that he was her blood relative. Their story is similar to reunion stories which she said she always watched teary-eyed on such television programs as "The Oprah Winfrey Show."

During their recent visit, Deana said Charles told Bill how she had wanted this reunion for years. Bill's response was "Deana's always been here with me. She just never knew it."

She said he also told her that if had realized that she was alive, he would have been searching for her as well.

While in California, Deana said they were able to visit many of the sites including San Francisco Bay where she was told she had fallen into as a baby and her father had had to fish her out.

They also saw evidence of earthquake damage. However, she said the very best thing was just getting to know her brother.

She also told of a rather unusual incident when she and Charles visited an antique record store in Jackson, Calif. called The Record Fan only to discover that the shop owner is a sister of Stan Paregien.

"It was really strange because we just started talking about being from Texas and she said she had a brother living in Texas. I asked 'Where'. She said 'Snyder.' I think she thought we were kidding at first, but we did convince her that we were serious. We recognized Stan's picture which she had in her shop. She also had a copy of 'The Official Joke Book of Texas' by Stan Paregien in the window," she said.

Deana said her father had lived in Jackson for a short time. They also discovered that one of Charles' cousins lived in nearby Sutter Mill which they had to pass through to get to Jackson.

Besides her new found brother and his family, Deana's family also includes five children who all live in Snyder. They are Chuck Cooper, Charman Realsola, Cindy Crawford, Tricia Rosas and Jason Cooper.

The nine grandchildren are Katy Cooper, Kim Cooper, George Sinclair, Roger Sinclair, Ryan Realsola, Aaron Realsola, Michael Realsola, Joey Rosas and Deana Rosas.

Her brother and sisters, all former Snyder residents, include Sonny Mapes of Tucson, Ariz., Grace Ann Vanderpool of Dallas; and Cathy Bjorklund of Plano.

"Now that I have found my brother, we won't be separated again."

"It was something I had to do for myself...I felt like a puzzle with a missing piece — one that I had to find."

What is it like to be a cop — to risk your life at a job most people wouldn't take at triple the salary? To find out, Mark Baker interviewed more than 100 police officers across the country. He talked with officers in big cities and small towns, white and black, female and male, rookie and veteran. He found that when cops talk about their own lives, the stories are more fascinating than any prime-time TV show. Their stories show us the flesh-and-blood people inside the uniforms.

Own writings read at Penwomen meet

Mrs. C.J. Killgo hosted the Scurry County Penwomen on April 27 where members narrated poems and other works, and business was conducted.

Janelle Burk presided and Christine Killgo gave the invocation.

Sherry Bryant announced that she will read her children's poems at the Scurry County Library's storytime for four-and five-year olds.

Burk won second place in the March monthly contest of the Poetry Society of Texas with her poem, "Memories of You."

Betty Boyd is to be inducted into the International Society of Poets. Her poem, "Love Turned to Hurt" is published in the book, "Whispers in Words," 1993 issue.

A song written by Bertha Warren to the tune of "The Old Red Rooster" is being sung at performances by the Senior Citizens Kitchen Band.

President Burk appointed a nominating committee for Penwomen. Garnet Quiett, chairman, Mary Westmoreland and Bryant will report the slate of nominations at the May 19 meeting. The new president will appoint the offices of chaplain, publicity, telephone chairman and photographer. Officers will assume their duties in June.

Quiett presented the program on "Words Not to Use in a Poem." She also explained how to submit poems.

In reading their own work, Bryant read her poem "Where Is Love?" Burk read "Memories of You," and her cowboy song, "Traveling Man." Boyd read her "Letter to the Editor," about what a mother is, and another letter, "My Dear Friend."

From other sources Betty Kellum read from "An Apple a Day," by Jo Petty, April sayings, Proverbs and others.

Killgo read "1990 on the Farm," and "Bird Watch One," by J.M. Kayser of Snyder.

Bryant brought the word of encouragement from "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," a poem by Helen Rice Steiner.

Penwomen will meet on May 19 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with Boyd as hostess. Writers and visitors are welcome.

A wooded lot may appear serene and still, but there's more going on than meets the eye. An acre of trees uses nearly 5,900 pounds of carbon dioxide and produces 4,300 pounds of oxygen a year, according to Georgia-Pacific Corp., a forest products company. Tree leaves absorb carbon dioxide and release oxygen during its food-making process, known as photosynthesis.

The day of the big parade

May 1 used to be notable for the military parade in Moscow. Vast numbers of tanks, rockets and troops filed past the party leaders standing on the Kremlin balcony. Now, fortunately, it is only a memory.

In those days, a couple of politicians from either side of the Atlantic made humorous comments about the Russians. David Steel said that a Russian string trio is a Russian string quartet that has returned from the West. And Ronald Reagan said that the Soviet Union would [illegible] tion even if an opposition party were permitted — because everyone would join that party.

Today's deal was played by Igor Bekesewitch en route to winning the first Ukrainian Team Championship.

The bidding isn't on record. In the given auction, North's response of three no-trump shows 13-15 points with 4-3-3-3 distribution.

West led the spade queen: king, three, two. Next, declarer led dummy's heart eight: 10, jack, queen. West switched to a low club, East winning with the ace and returning the suit.

Declarer ruffed, and feeling sure that East wouldn't have played the heart 10 from an initial holding of K-10-x, he cashed the heart ace. The king didn't drop, so Bekesewitch played a diamond to dummy's king, ruffed the club queen in hand and led out his other diamond winners.

West didn't ruff, but with only three cards remaining, he had to keep the J-9 of spades and the heart king. Bekesewitch exited with his last trump, forcing West to lead away from the spade jack into the split tenace of the A-7 in dummy and the 10-6 in hand.

Local piano students...

May auditions set

One hundred and six local piano pupils have registered as candidates for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians.

The students are from the classes of Lynn Bethel, Barbara Mott and Barbara Tune. The fraternity is sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, Teacher Division of the American College of Musicians.

This group of young piano hobbyists will play in the National Piano Playing Auditions, in the First Baptist Church Parlor. They will strive for local, district, state, national or international honors according to the number of musical pieces chosen from the masters of piano forte literature each student creditably performs.

From coast to coast, over 116,447 piano pupils will participate in this annual event, being held in 840 music centers of the country. Each worthy entrant will be certificated, given a gold or bronze embossed pin, a year's membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians and Piano Hobbyists of the World.

Begun at Hardin-Simmons University in 1929, national headquarters are still maintained in Texas, where rules and regulations are available on request free of charge by addressing Piano Guild, Box 1807, Austin, TX 78767-1807.

Judging this year's audition will be Rosemary Jenkins of Levelland who has judged here once before.

Adjudicator Jenkins graduated from Texas Tech University where she obtained a master's degree in music. She studied under Dr. Thomas Mastroianni, the late Louis Catuogno and Marion Keighley Snowden of Knoxville, Tenn.

Ms. Jenkins taught for the Maher School of Music in Denver where she was in charge of the preschool division and was instrumental in establishing class piano. She has taught private piano in Lubbock and currently maintains her studio in Levelland.

In addition to being a Guild adjudicator, she serves as Guild chairman in Levelland.

Sizzling fish for fajitas lowers the fat more than ever in this already-lean Mexican favorite. The spicy citrus flavor comes from taco seasoning and the cilantro-lime marinade. Be sure to try one of the fish varieties suggested; the firm flesh will keep its shape better during cooking than the softer flesh of other fish.

SHARK FAJITAS

1 pound fresh or frozen shark, swordfish or halibut steaks
3 tablespoons snipped fresh cilantro or 1 tablespoon dried cilantro, crushed
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons taco seasoning mix (1/2 of a 11/4-ounce envelope)
2 tablespoons lime juice
2 tablespoons olive oil or cooking oil
Twelve 8-inch corn or flour tortillas
Nonstick spray coating
1 medium onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
1 large red or green sweet pepper, cut into thin strips
Assorted toppings, such as guacamole, shredded Cheddar cheese, salsa, sliced pitted ripe olives and/or tomato wedges

Thaw fish, if frozen. Cut into thin, bite-size strips. In a large mixing bowl stir together cilantro, garlic, taco seasoning mix, lime juice and olive oil. Add fish; toss gently to coat. Cover and marinate at room temperature for 30 minutes or in the refrigerator for 2 hours.

Wrap tortillas in foil; heat in a 350-degree F oven for 10 minutes.

Spray a large skillet with nonstick coating. Preheat on medium heat. Cook onion and pepper for 3 to 4 minutes or until crisp-tender. Remove from skillet.

Add half of the undrained fish strips to the skillet. Cook and stir gently for 2 to 3 minutes or until fish flakes with a fork. If necessary, add a small amount of oil to skillet to prevent sticking. Remove fish; drain on paper towels. Repeat with remaining fish. Return all of the fish strips and vegetables to the skillet; heat through. To serve, fill warmed tortillas with the fish-vegetable mixture. Serve with desired toppings. Makes 6 servings.

Warren in May recital

Mrs. Lynn Bethel will present Jason Wade Warren in his Senior Piano Recital on Sunday, May 9, at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church Chapel.

Jason, a senior at Snyder High School and the son of Wade and Carolyn Warren, has studied piano for nine years under Mrs. Bethel.

He has been a first place winner in the Pauline Slator Piano Competition in Odessa, the Mark Knox Piano Competition in Midland and the Lubbock Sonata, Sonatina and Concerto Competition in Lubbock. For eight years he has received superior ratings at the Texas Federation of Music Pastoral Festival in Lubbock and has also been an all-state candidate for eight years. Jason has participated in the National Guild Auditions for nine years and will audition for his high school diploma in May.

He has been a member of the Vivace Junior Music Club for nine years and is a past vice president and president. He served as camp counselor at the Bethel Studio Summer Music Camps for four years.

Jason is a member of the First Christian Church and has been church pianist for three years. In addition, he plays the drums and bass guitar and was a member of the Snyder High School A Cappella Choir for three years. He served in the Student Council in high school two years.

As a member of the varsity tennis team for three years, Jason was named all-district in doubles and singles his sophomore and junior years, and all-district singles his senior year. He was regional qualifier in team tennis for two years, regional alternate in singles his junior year and regional qualifier in singles his senior year.

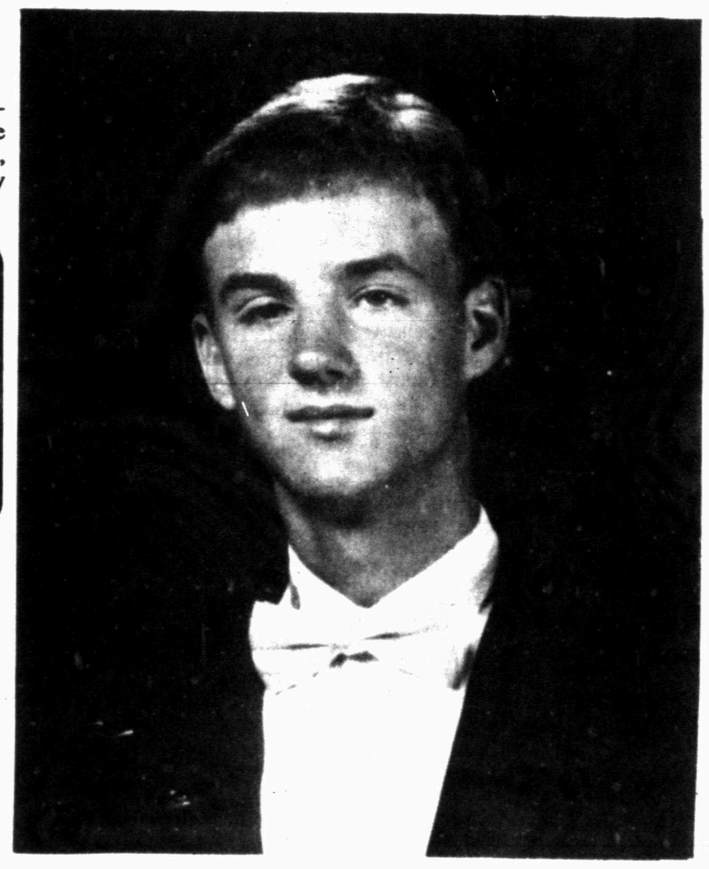

He was recently named the most valuable player in tennis for 1993.

Jason plans to major in finance and accounting and will enter WTC this fall and later attend Texas Christian University.

In his recital he will include selections from Bach, Mendelssohn, Kachaturian, Kabalevsky, Haydn, McDowell, Towner, Newton, Gaither and Hine.

Immediately following the recital, a reception will be held in the garden room.

The recital is open to the public.

Buffalo Reef

By Bill McClellan

It's the same story. It involves a simple hamburger nowadays.

"You want one patty or two?"

"Oh. One. One patty."

"Low fat or pure beef?"

"Beef. Definately beef."

"Okay. One beef patty. Catsup, salad dressing or mustard?"

"Mustard."

"Okay. Mustard. Lettuce, tomatoes, onions, pickles?"

"Let's see. Lettuce, onions and pickles. No tomatoes."

"Okay. That's lettuce, onions and pickles. No tomatoes. Cheese?"

"Huh?"

"Cheese. You want cheese?"

"Uh. Yeah. Sure. Cheese."

"Okay. That's cheese. White or wheat?"

"Uh. Yellow. Yellow cheese."

"No. I mean bread. You want white bread or wheat bread?"

And so on.

But if you think you've got choices when it comes to hamburgers, you haven't seen anything until you've shopped for over-the-counter flu medicine.

Have you looked? Sure you have. Everybody's been sick lately. You too. If you haven't — just wait. It's coming.

There are sprays, liquids, powders, capsules, gell-caps, inhalers and dissolvable tablets. Some last four hours, six hours, 10 hours or 12 hours and they come 10, 12, 16, 20, 24, 48, 50 or 100 or more to a box.

There are tablets for nighttime and daytime, or when you are drowsy or not drowsy. You can even get them together, in the same package.

There's medicine for the flu, for sinus, for colds, for allergies, for flu-sinus, flu-colds, sinus-colds, sinus-allergies and on and on and on.

Vicks, for instance, makes an adult Formula 44, a 44E, a 44D and a 44M....And a pediatric Formula 44e, 44d, and 44m. Don't forget, there are flavored formulas, too.

If you go to a typical store to seek out sinus-cold-flu-allergy type medicine in Snyder, here's is what you'll likely find:

Actifed, Contac, Advil, Drixoral, Dristan, Sudafed, Alka Seltzer, Dristán, Allerest, Ornex, Chlor-Trimeton, Tylenol, Tavist-D, DayQuil, NyQuil, Benadryl, Dipheryl, Sinutab, Sine-Aid, Dimetapp, Comtrex, Vicks, Robitussin (CF, DM, PE), Tussin DM, Cofgone, Coricidin, Coricidin D, Medi-Flu, Thera-Flu, Afrin, Seo-Synephrine, Duration, Sinex, Norstilla, 4-Way, Breathe Free, Ayr, Vapo Steam, Vapo Rub, Pedia Care, Naldecon, Creomulsion, Delsym, Triaminic, Benzedrez, Nose Better, plus over 10 "house" brands.

I mentioned non-drowsy formulas, gell-caps, tablets and liquid. Did I mention "plus" and "severe formula" strengths?

Did you know you can even get wild cherry-scented nasal spray? It's the truth. I don't know if it will help you breathe better, but they've got it.

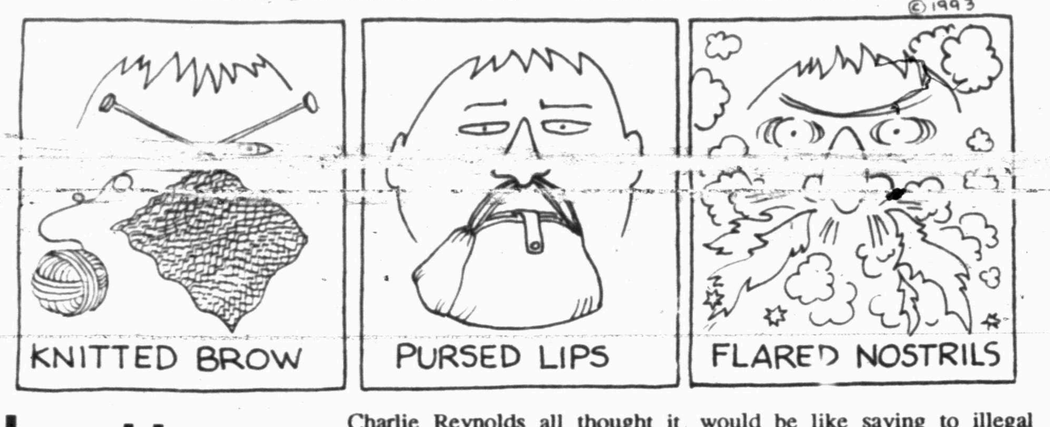

If you can't decide, ask your pharmacist.

"I've got the sniffles, sinus pressure, a tension headache, wheezing, sneezing, sore muscles, a scratchy throat, watery eyes, and I can't stop coughing. What do you have for it?"

"Well, sir. Do you prefer gell-caps, tablets, liquid or powder?

"Uh. Liquid, I guess."

"Alrighty. Would you prefer alcohol, non-alcohol, drowsy formula, non-drowsy formula, orange, cherry, strawberry..."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

On April 8, my students and I traveled to Snyder to compete in the UIL 5A One-Act Play Contest. I want to thank Jerry Worsham and his Snyder High School drama students for hosting the best UIL One-Act Play Contest in Texas!

If every school followed Snyder's example, the contest would improve 100 percent. Jerry Worsham's ability to make everyone feel at ease in an otherwise stressful situation is a talent many people do not possess. In short, we had a blast at "your place."

I plan to write a letter to Lynn Murray, UIL One-Act Play Contest Coordinator, to inform him of the quality of Snyder's contest. It is the only one that I know that truly teaches the educational and theatrical lessons that the UIL intended when creating this contest.

Last, but not least, my kids and I would like to congratulate Jerry Worsham and his kids for their recent win at the Regional Contest in San Angelo. We look forward to seeing them at the State Contest. Break a leg!

To the Editor,

Rarely do I take exception to the decisions of, or policies made by, our school administration. However, last week, an incident occurred which should not go unreported.

A truly outstanding Entertainment/Drug Education program was offered to all junior and senior high students in Scurry County. Sammy Hall, a professional singer with very impressive credentials, was engaged to perform two concerts in Snyder. Mr. Hall normally charges $2,500 per school system for his anti-drug and alcohol services, but offered to do these two concerts free of charge as a personal favor to his manager, Billy Tim Atwood of Snyder.

Arrangements were made through the principals of Snyder High School, Snyder Junior High, West Elementary (upon the recommendation of DARE officer Charlie Reynolds), Ira and Hermleigh ISDs. The plan was to have a 10:15-11:00 show for SHS and to present a 1:15-2:00 show for everyone else.

Gary Patterson, Wendell Sollis, Thomas Fogleman, Jerry Church, Rick Howard, Jane Matlock and Charlie Reynolds all thought it was a worthwhile program and a good idea. But 6th-8th graders were not allowed to see it. Why? Because it wasn't Dalton Moseley's idea.

Initially, Mr. Atwood contacted the SISD superintendent's office about booking the program. He was told (apparently by a secretary) that all school assemblies should be arranged through the individual building principals. So Mr. Atwood did just that, over six weeks ahead of time.

However, on April 14, exactly one week before the scheduled concerts, Mr. Moseley was informed of the plans. He blew his administrative top and the entire program was very nearly canceled. The principals at West Elementary and Snyder Junior High were told in no uncertain terms that their students would not be walking or be bused to Worsham Auditorium the following week. Regardless of what went wrong, or who (if anyone) was personally at fault, several hundred teens and pre-teens were now going to be denied an important assembly program.

School board members Terry Martin and Luann Burleson were very responsive to pleas from Mr. Atwood and several concerned parents. Martin and Burleson made personal contact with Mr. Moseley and asked him to reconsider.

Even Mr. Atwood met with him twice and apologized for any faulty communication and/or improper procedure that might have occurred (though this could not have possibly been Mr. Atwood's fault). Mr. Moseley held his ground.

The two concerts were presented and the student response was incredible! I know. I attended both concerts. But how sad that the 1:15 show was played to a less than half full house because Snyder 6th-8th graders were not allowed to attend.

At the 10:15 show, representatives from the offices of Charles Stenholm, Steve Carriker, David Counts and Ann Richards were introduced. How embarassing that Mr. Moseley missed both shows. Maybe just as well. Maybe Worsham Auditorium isn't big enough to hold his professional ego.

Dear Editor,

On behalf of the Snyder Neighbors Sharing Board of Directors, we would like to thank everyone in the community that had a part in helping us on our workday this past Saturday (April 24).

Eighteen homes were repaired with approximately $18,000 to $20,000 spent locally to help our economy.

We appreciate the time and effort it takes for everyone to give one day each year to help us with this project. But the blessings far outweigh any aches and pains for those who work.

Thanks again to Snyder for a wonderful turnout and a fantastic job and start making your plans now to join us next year on April 20, 1994.

Thanks again!
Sam Robertson,
President,
Snyder Neighbors Sharing

To the Editor:

In a recent article in the Snyder Daily News titled "Health policy makers wrestle over whether to cover aliens," it was stated that undocumented immigrants cost the government (and that's us, folks) $5.4 billion in health care, housing, energy assistance, education, welfare and prison expenses in 1990.

It also stated that it would not be unprecedented for the government (and that's us footing the bill) to ignore citizenship requirements in providing health care benefits for illegal aliens.

I say, why not. Rep. Lamar Smith thinks that such thinking would be like saying to illegal aliens, "Just come on into the United States and all your needs will be taken care of and (my words) the boondoggled citizens of the U.S. will foot the bill."

I think that this is absolutely outrageous! Most of the legal citizens of the U.S. have a rough time paying for their own medical, educational and housing bills without having to pay for this for others.

It seems that some people think that the federal government is some entity that has an unlimited amount of dollars stuck away somewhere just waiting for someone, like those liberal hearts, to spend.

What they don't seem to realize, folks, is that that money they are just itching to spend, and which really isn't there, is our money — yours and mine.

There are millions of U.S. citizens who can't afford health care. Why can't we take care of them before we try to take care of the world?

It would be great if we could take care of everyone's needs, but we cannot...and I think it's time we put a stop to this.

Sincerely,
Gelene P. Blagg

Editorial Roundup

Brazosport Facts on Branch Dividian tragedy:

Fanaticism is never pretty and single-minded obsession with any cause can be difficult for those less devoted to understand. ...

We see the David Koreshes and the Jim Joneses pervert and corrupt ideals we think standard to the point that senselessness and mindlessness are in control.

Koresh and Jones are giant-sized examples of the kind of fanaticism that destroys.

Other examples are around us daily in those who try to advance a single-issue cause with total blindness to anything else.

We have people taking life in the name of saving life. We have people so afraid of those different from them that they would destroy many of the principles that are the cornerstones of this country.

We have groups so devoted to one cause that destruction of the middle ground means nothing to them. ...

Those who defend the middle ground are going to have to become better armed, more wary, less willing to give in, and more educated in what they believe and more willing to speak their minds.

Lufkin News on Bullock's income tax ban proposal:

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock is talking taxes again.

Bullock has been pushing for a state income tax for two years. Now he's found another way of wording his plea that may be more palatable to the people.

He says if voters will agree to an income tax, it would be used for education and property tax relief. There could be no tax increase without voter approval.

That sounds fair. There's a good chance that a state income tax will eventually come down the pike. Therefore, it would be to the voters' benefit to have previous legislation passed that limits where that levy could be spent. ...

El Paso Times on health care for illegal immigrants:

Should President Clinton's health-care blueprint offer the same services to the 5 million people living and working illegally in the United States as it does to low-income Americans?

That's the question bugging drafters of the program now. And it's a tough one.

For those communities on the border with Mexico, it's a decision that can't leave any room for doubt. ...

Free medical care would have a powerful attraction for most Mexicans just across our border. Our hospitals and clinics would be swamped.

The best solution would be what Congressman Ron Coleman has proposed: Get Mexico to reimburse us. But since that's not possible, each country should just take care of its own.

Beaumont Enterprise on "ethnic cleansing:"

President Clinton, please listen to this request. Henceforth, would you cease referring to the slaughter in Bosnia as "ethnic cleansing?" ...

To be fair, President Clinton isn't the only well-known — non-Serbian — public official who has been using the term so casually when discussing the atrocities in the Balkans. Other world leaders, journalists, political scientists — many millions of mainstream folks — have fallen into the trap. ...

(The Serbs) ... have called their actions "ethnic cleansing." The Nazis in Germany said much the same thing before they launched their holocaust against the Jews in Europe.

They referred to their atrocities as the "final solution."

The Serbians are committing an act of genocide, ... And that is what we should call it.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

About a year and a half ago, my doctor and I decided to try a new medication which we hoped would alleviate the symptoms of a muscular disorder which has plagued me for the past ten years.

At first, the results were miraculous: I could run again. I could RUN. That simple fact alone kept me high for six months. And then, well, the other shoe dropped, so to speak. First, the medication began to lose its effectiveness. And then, I started to gain weight. A lot of it.

By the time I realized that I would either have to take high dosages of the medicine for it to be effective or quit, I had gained thirty pounds which, on a 5'4" frame, equals, say, three jeans sizes bigger. Frightened that the problems of obesity could be a lot worse for me than those of the original disorder, I stopped taking the medication.

To date, I have been strenuously dieting for four months, and have not lost a single ounce. Exercise is difficult, for even the slightest push physically brings on a serious flare-up of the disease.

A few months ago, I hit the rock bottom of despair. My husband couldn't figure it out. "Why should you care what you look like," he asked, "when you still have your talent and your intelligence?"

Because, I told him, a woman's looks are her power base.

He scoffed. Ridiculous, he said.

But he wasn't raised female in a modern society, where women ad models are an average of 20% UNDERweight, where girls are complimented on their looks (or teased for lack of them) from the time they are two. Where male news anchors and reporters are considered "distinguished" as they get older, and male actors glorified as sexy even into their seventies, but where actresses are considered washed up by 35 and female news anchors are pressured to get face lifts.

By the time a girl is a teenager, she knows full well that she can use her looks to say, get a better grade on a paper or snag that job interview.

Tragically, it has become almost a cliche that as many men become successful, powerful, and rich, they often dump their wives of 20 years or more for "trophy wives" half their age, as exemplified by real estate mogul Donald Trump. It makes no difference if by this time these men are balding, paunchy, and red-eyed: they have the power; they have the money.

The clincial definition of "obesity" is: 20% over your acceptable weight for your height, as drawn up by various insurance charts. Under that definition, I, and many women my age as well as those younger who have very small children, are obese. Yet those of you who know me would probably be shocked at that definition. I certainly don't fit the mental image many of us have of the obese.

But the truth is, if you are presenting yourself professionally, as I do when researching books and speaking at semiars, you are on display. If those who are making judgement consider you "obese" — as defined by the magazine and TV ads featuring no women over 25 — then the immediate impression is: She's sloppy. Undisciplined. Lets herself go. Must be using food as a substitute for some deep psychological problem. Can't control her appetite — how can I trust her with my business?

You can't exactly go around wearing a sign around your neck saying, "Trust me. This has nothing to do with my eating habits. My hormones are in flux, for one thing, and for another, I was taking this medication..."

No one would believe you anyhow. We jdge fat people more severely than anyone else in our society. Judge them, then make fun of them. But never take them seriously. (Unless, of course, they are comedians or entertainers.)

When I finally faced the fact that I might not be able to lose this weight, no matter how hard I try, I broke down and went shopping for bigger clothes. That's when I got my second shock.

For example: In a couple of weeks, I'll be attending a cocktail party in Dallas at which will be some very important people in the field of law enforcement from all over the country. Yeah — just TRY to find a basic black cocktail in fat lady sizes.

The general assumption by designers and store managers is if you are overweight, you should hide your head in shame and never leave the house, and please, PLEASE don't think for a minute that you can be sexy. (I could find no sexy lingerie in my size, either.)

That's when I got REALLY mad.

It took me several weeks of driving all over West Texas, but I did finally assemble a wardrobe of smart, sassy, colorful fasions that make me feel good. (And at one store, I even found a tiny little rack of sexy lingerie in "women's" sizes.)

So my message, ladies, is this: Fight for your right to be womanly, feminine, and sexy no matter how much you weigh. Convince people that you are still attractive even if you don't fit the mold, so to speak. Leave the flowery muumuus and flannel gowns in the closet. REBEL!

And gentlemen, please, please remember this: if you are the slightest bit sensitive about your thinning hair or growing paunch, then multiply that a hundred times for your wife, and never, NEVER make fun of her or nag her about her weight. In fact, since Mother's Day is coming up, I challenge you to run buy her one of thoe little see-through numbers, and make her wear it.

Me, I was blessed thousandfold; I married a man who found me wildly sexy at eight months and three weeks pregnant! The bottom line is, a good man can make most any woman feel beautiful.

Perot organization wants name changed

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Idaho's two United We Stand organizations aren't united.

Lawyers for Ross Perot's political organization, United We Stand, America, sent a letter Thursday asking the Idaho spinoff to change its name.

That spinoff, United We Stand, Idaho, formed last December when Perot's backers got together in the aftermath of his presidential bid.

But it's not affiliated with Perot's Dallas-based organization.

Now, Perot aides and other Idaho supporters are building their own organization to deal with local and state issues, said Idaho's new state director Platt Thompson. They want the name back.

"We want to make sure that any confusion out there is stopped," he said.

Perot ran under the banner of United We Stand, America, and got 130,395 votes in Idaho. Affiliates are forming in several states.

So Thursday, Thompson said, Perot's legal counsel in Dallas mailed a certified letter asking United We Stand, Idaho to drop its name.

But United We Stand, Idaho, already has been issuing statements and appearing at meetings on issues such as an Ada County Commission land purchase, and state attempts to license tow truck operators.

The group also is promoting two initiatives, one to limit campaign contributions and another requiring schools to host courses for all residents on money issues such as the Federal Reserve and zero-based budgeting.

Gary DeMott, Boise, executive director of United We Stand, Idaho, and Jeanne Batson, group state director in Coeur d'Alene, said they hadn't gotten the letter from Perot's lawyers.

Former resident works on miniseries

Phyllis Detrich, former resident of Snyder, recently worked on a television miniseries that will air this Monday and Tuesday on ABC. The two part movie, "Murder in the Heartland," is based on the 1950s sex killing spree of Charles Starkweather and his girlfriend, Carol Ann Fugate.

Living in Dallas, Detrich works as a free lance property master, the person hired to gather all items used on the set. Detrich is the person that finds just the right furniture, the right pictures that go on the wall and sometimes even the food that is eaten.

She is the daughter of Don and Gwen Sealy of Snyder. Other relatives that live here include her sister and brother-in-law, Gini and Allen Grimmett; a nephew, Reese Grimmett; a niece, Ashley Grimmett and an uncle, Bob Sealy.

The movie was produced by Heartland Productions of Plano and according to Mrs. Sealy, ABC was so impressed with the movie that the viewing date was moved up a week so it would air during "Sweeps Weeks," when ratings are calculated by the networks.

Detrich graduated from Snyder High School in 1965 and earned a degree in journalism at North Texas State.

"I think this really seems to be her nitch. She really likes it," Mrs. Sealy said.

According to her mother, Detrich often has to find several types of one item. For example, if a desk is called for in the movie she might find three different kinds so the producers and directors have a choice.

"She gets a script before hand and she works off that," Mrs. Sealy said.

Mrs. Sealy also said that Detrich mainly works on commericals but that she likes to do movies when she gets the chance. Other movies she has worked on are "The Dirt Bike Kid," out on video now and "Breaking Home Ties," a made for television movie.

Detrich also has three commercials running now. Two are with Larry Johnson and Converse shoes and one is a "Don't Mess with Texas" commercial with motorcyle riders.

"When she starts a project she usually has to work seven days a week. And, the commercials get really hectic around September because everyone is making their Christmas commercials," Mrs. Sealy said.

According to her mother, Detrich works on Radio Shack Christmas commercials every year. "But if she has a favorite commercial it is probably the one she made with Nolan Ryan last year. She said he was such a gentleman, friendly and nice even though he is a celebrity," Mrs. Sealy said.

Detrich is not the only one in the family to work on movies. Her sister, Sue Schiller, is a set director in Dallas.

Saleh visits father's grave

EL BIREH, Occupied West Bank (AP) — The first place Abdul-Jawad Saleh visited upon returning home after 20 years in exile was his father's grave.

Tears welling in his eyes, he laid a wreath on the tombstone and left a note reading, "From your son, who waited 20 years to be able to participate in your funeral."

Saleh, the former mayor of El Bireh, was among 30 long-term deportees the Israeli government let back into the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip to prod along peace talks under way in Washington. Fifteen returned Friday and the rest are to return Monday.

The repatriation of 30 Palestine Liberation Organization loyalists also seemed designed to boost PLO leader Yasser Arafat at the expense of influential hard-line and fundamentalist opponents of negotiations.

Saleh, 62, lost his father 40 days after he was deported to Jordan on December 10, 1973. His 93-year-old mother, Aziza, said she held on to life in the hope of seeing him again.

Saleh visited the cemetery first, then headed home to his mother.

Speech squad recognized

The Westerns Texas College Speech Squad has received recognition for its participation and performances in junior college competition this year. Students receive recognition at the end of each school year based on their tournament performances.

"For a first-year traveling squad this is an exceptional achievement," said WTC speech coach, Jan McCathern.

Tom Galyean, sophomore from Snyder, received a superior rating in poetry interpretation and an excellent in prose interpretation. For a superior rating, a student must receive no lower than third place in the year's performance.

The rest of the squad received excellent ratings in the following events: Brandye Bitters of Mineral Wells, poetry and prose; Shawn Pittman of Matzon, prose and dramatic duo; Joe Gordy of Snyder, poetry and dramatic duo; and Scott Rodgers of Snyder, programmed oral interpretation.

To be awarded an excellent a student must receive no lower than 4th place all year in event performances.

The group was also awarded an excellent in group improvisation.

"THANKS"

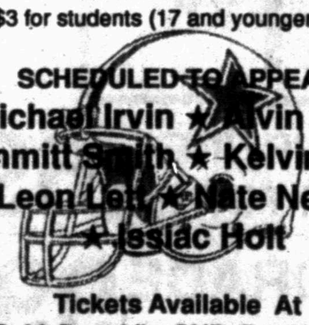

A big "THANK YOU" goes out to everyone that helped make the 1993 Chamber Banquet a complete SUCCESS. This year the banquet was co-sponsored by the Chamber and Western Texas College. The theme "WTC Radio Days" was an excellent sampling of the abundant talent available at Western Texas College. Donny Brown and crew provided something for everyone. The booths were both creative and informative. We would also like to thank Pam Browning and the decorating committee for there fantastic job on the decorations. The Friendly Flower Shop went out of their way to help make the decoration process go smoothly. The Shack provided an excellent steak dinner and the Phi Theta Kappa helped out by waiting tables. A special thanks goes out to the community for their support in helping to make the 1993 Chamber Banquet an absolutely wonderful occasion.
