Rich Man's Widow—
She Weds at 65—
'Tis Merry World—

By H. N. F.

THIS IS A MERRY OLD WORLD. James Campbell was known in his day as the "John Pierpont Morgan of the West." He was the foremost citizen and foremost financier of St. Louis. When a mere stripling, he selected Missouri as his field of operation and St. Louis as his home. He began his career as a member of a surveying party. He became a railroad builder and an empire builder as well. He died not many years ago.

HE PILED UP A FORTUNE OF 25 millions and his widow and an only daughter inherited the fortune. His widow is sixty-five. She became a bride the other day. Her second mate is Henry Klas Van Heel. He is thirty-two and a young Hollander. She met him at the home of Mrs. Adolphus Busch another elderly and wealthy widow, in the California city of millionaires, Pasadena is the place and Pasadena claims the famous sunken gardens of the Busch estate as one of the show places of America. Mrs. Campbell Van Heel says that she didn't think that Henry loved her at first but he convinced her after a short courtship. He is a "college youth." He has a fair complexion, fair hair and a blond mustache. Van Heel's singing caught the widow. He sings Dutch and German ballads and his bride says that there is something wonderful about him.

JAMES CAMPBELL WAS A WONderful man, a man who played a star part in the history of Missouri and the Southwest for many years. He was one of the builders of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway. He was one of the builders of the modern St. Louis. Now the woman who inherited twelve and a half million has fallen for the tenor voice of the young Hollander who sings Dutch and German ballads and who, according to his bride sings those in German best. This is springtime and the birds are singing for the 65-year-old bride who has twelve and a half millions in her own right and knows that Van Heel married her for love alone. A merry old world, this ancient world of ours.

CHAIRMAN CORDELL HULL OF the Democratic National Committee is on the road again. In a recent speech he attacked the record of the Republican congress since March, 1919, declaring its policy had been "to put Wilson in a hole." Sure, it was good politics and a lot of Democratic senators and congressmen aided and assisted their Republican brothers. The tax gatherer was the gentleman who put Woodrow Wilson "in a hole." There was an army of patriots who in war time swore that this government should wage the war as long as there was a man to handle a rifle or a dollar in the locker.

AFTER THE WAR HAD BEEN won, the bills came in and these unctious patriots forgot all about the rifle carriers and the war president but they raised hades about the dollars that were taken from their pockets and placed in the federal treasury to pay the war freight. It is the tax collector who always raises hades with the party that controls the government. William Jennings Bryan helped to put Wilson "in a hole." He advised Wilson to accept the Lodge amendments to the Versailles treaty. Wilson ignored his advice. It was the League of Nations as it was written or nothing. Now there is a four power pact. It is next to nothing but an excellent start.

GENERAL CHANG, THE CHINese bandit leader, is on the run and his army has been destroyed. General Chang is said to be in the pay of Japan. He was an officer in the Japanese army during the Russo-Japanese war. He began life as a bandit and became the most powerful of all the Chinese military

SIREN SOUNDS DANGER SIGNAL AS RIVER RISES

Firemen Sand-Bag Levee to Prevent Break

By Associated Press.

WACO, Texas, May 9.—At 11:40 o'clock, the Y. M. B. L. siren was sounded here tonight warning the people in the low sections of east Waco that the Brazos river had gone over the levees and that lives and property in that section of the city were in danger.

Shortly afterward, Mayor Ben Richards, in charge of relief work, announced that the water was only seeping through the levees and that he believed they might be saved. All available firemen and volunteers went to work with sand bags in an effort to prevent the threatened break. The river was then at a stage of 38 feet and still rising.

GRISWOLD'S 24 FILLING TANKS

Drilled Foot Deeper and Produces

Drilled one foot deeper into the sand, the Griswold Oil company's No. 24 Burnett, started flowing at the rate of 100 barrels an hour shortly after 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and Tuesday night had not diminished its flow, making this the largest well in the history of the field.

The well was timed when the increased flow first started, and filled a 100-barrel storage tank in less than 60 minutes, according to the report from the well Tuesday night.

This well was first drilled 7 1-2 feet into the 1940-foot sand, on Sunday, with an initial flow of 600 to 800 barrels. It is 450 feet from the Griswold's north line, and some distance north of the other big wells in the pool, the Texas and Planet company's wells being in the south part of the pool as at present outlined. It is just south of the original 1900-foot well of the pool, the Lincoln and McDaniel No. 2 Burnett.

HARDING SMILES AT GENOA WORK

He's Agreeable To Russ Program

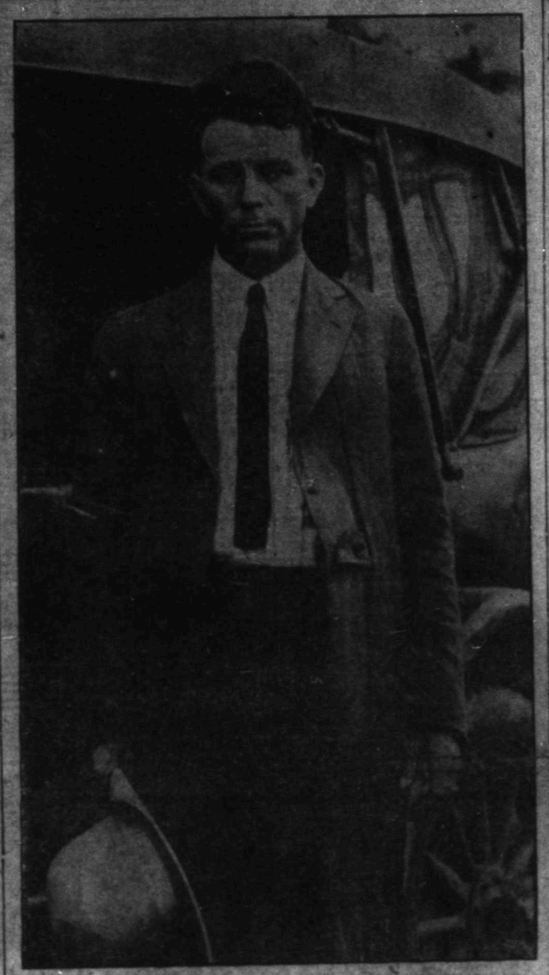

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The general principles laid down by the Genoa conference in formulating its policy toward Russia have been subjected to closest scrutiny before President Harding and his advisers and have been found to be in substantial accord with the views of the United States.

Without taking sides in the controversy, which now is dividing the conference over certain questions of procedure, a high administration spokesman declared today that this government found itself in virtual agreement with the conference plan to make recognition of the soviet government contingent upon its fulfillment of international obligations.

This declaration which was the first comment to come from administration circles since the conference began, was made after President Harding and his cabinet had discussed the Genoa situation and the Russian problems throughout most of a two-hour meeting.

'Ballew Shot Self Into Kingdom Come'

Police Chief J. W. McCormick, "the man who beat Bud Ballew to the draw." This is the description of the former ranger that is going the round in newspapers throughout the country.

Ballew Case One of Involuntary Suicide Editorial in Tulsa Paper Makes Plain

"Bud Ballew literally shot himself into kingdom come. His is a case of involuntary suicide."

That is the essence of an editorial which recently appeared in an issue of the Tulsa World, of Tulsa, Okla., and which was mailed to J. W. McCormick, chief of police, who, through his cool-headedness, beat Ballew to the draw and saved his own life.

The editorial was sent to Chief McCormick by a friend in Tulsa, who wrote:

"Just finished reading this editorial in the Tulsa World; it expresses my sentiments and the sentiments of everyone that I have heard talk about the shooting in this section."

The message, like numerous telegrams and letters which Chief McCormick is still receiving from friends all over Texas and Oklahoma, wishes the Wichita Falls police head "the best of luck for his future."

The editorial concludes by asserting that "Oklahoma is tremendously better off by the death of Ballew; there is no room in our present social system for such characters; when Hamon fell at Ardmore, the temple of immortality and criminality began to crumble; presently only debris will mark the spot and serve to call to memory a chapter that all will endeavor to forget."

The editorial continues by saying:

"When a man establishes a reputation as a gunman and killer, he attracts to his own person the agents of destruction quite as accurate as the magnate attracts the needle.

"Of course Ballew was shot to death by the ex-ranger in Wichita Falls. But equally of course an ordinary citizen in precisely the same circumstances would have lost his life. That ranger knew Ballew, his reputation and his disposition. Therefore, he approached his task with his trigger finger alert. And when the bad man, the killer, the defier of all law and personal restraint, refused to accept peaceable arrest and started for his hip, the Texas man started shooting and didn't stop until the bad man was considerably dead.

Live By Sword; Die By It.

"It was all very right, very proper and very natural.

"'They who live by the sword must die by the sword.' Nothing truer

BRIBERY CASE WITNESS TELLS OF MONEY SPLIT

Federal Officer Is First Heard In Re-Trial

"Not guilty."

Entering that plea, Dan Hardy went on trial Tuesday afternoon in the federal court of the northwestern district of Texas, Wichita Falls division, charged with conspiracy to bribe a federal officer.

Two counts are contained in the indictment brought against Hardy. The first alleges that Hardy conspired to bribe a federal officer and the second sets for that he actually bribed the officer.

"Lankford counted out $500 in $20 bills on the table between Flowers and Splawn before which I was standing, and then Lankford said:

"'I got a thousand out of old Dan last night and you wasn't up here so we split it among ourselves.

"'About 15 days before this town goes dry, we want you to ride old Dan on these loading slips for about $10,000.'"

That was the testimony of J. B. Dowell, special deputy United States officer among the Indians when it is alleged Hardy bribed. Dowell went on the stand late Tuesday afternoon as the first government witness against the defendant.

Dowell testified that he had been commissioned special deputy to act among the Indians May 22, 1910, and that his commission had expired the first time June 30, 1917. His

WINTER WHEAT CROP LOOKS UP

Texas To Produce 12,275,000 Bushels

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Improvement was shown in the winter wheat crop during the last month, the department of agriculture today forecasting this year's production at 584,793,000 bushels based on the May 1 condition.

Today's forecast is approximately 12,500,000 bushels more than was estimated a month ago, 2,300,000 bushels less than produced last year, and 6,000,000 bushels larger than the average production for the last five years.

There was almost 10,000,000 bushels increase in the production forecast of rye compared with a month ago. A total crop of 79,152,000 bushels is forecast.

Hay promises a crop of about 7,000,000 tons larger than last years, the production this year being forecast at 103,579,000 tons. Stocks of hay remaining on farms May 1 were about 8,000,000 tons less than stocks a year ago.

Spring plowing and planting both behind the average for the last year; while the condition of pastures was much lower than a year ago and also below the 10-year average.

TEXAS PRODUCTION TO DROP OFF

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Winter wheat makes up 41 per cent of the wheatacreage in Texas this year, leaving 1,023,000 acres in cultivation, the department of agriculture today reported.

The department estimated that the Lone Star state would produce 12,275,000 bushels of wheat this year, compared with 20,800,000 last year. On May 1, a 71 per cent crop was forecast.

$100,000 Diamond Brings Only $5,000

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The diamond, which Princess Fatima Afghanistan Sultana valued at $100,000 when she brought it to this country last summer, was sold at a sheriff's auction sale today for $5,500 to John R. Keim, a commission buyer. The diamond had been attached by the government because duty was not paid on it.

A. and M. Defeats University on Track

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, May 9.—Texas A. & M. college defeated the University of Texas in the annual track meet today by a score of 61 to 56. The meet was close and undecided until the last two events. Texas won first places in every track event but one, while A. & M. took both first and second places in nearly all of the field events.

Mary Culberson's Love Affair Will Be Probed Further

British Embassy Plans Full Investigation of Kidnaping as Charged by Vet

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—After a conference with Alexander E. Robertson, British war veteran, who charges an attempt was made to kidnap him because of his affection for Miss Mary Culberson, daughter of Senator Culberson, of Texas, British embassy officials issued a brief statement tonight declaring that "certain aspects" of the case seemed to call for "further investigation."

Secretary of the Embassy Craigie, stated that Robertson was expected to confer again tomorrow with embassy officials and that in the meantime it would seem inadvisable for Robertson to discuss his case with newspaper men.

Robertson would remain in Washington, Mr. Craigie added, while the embassy investigated his charge that private detectives kidnaped him and attempted to force him to leave the country.

All this was said to have been done at the instigation of Senator Culberson, who was said to have objected to the man's attention to Miss Culberson.

The statement issued by the embassy reads:

"Mr. Robertson called at his majesty's embassy today and gave a full statement of his case. The embassy are inclined to consider that certain aspects as presented call for further investigation and they are not prepared to make any further statement at this stage. Reports in today's press attributing comment on the case to members of the staff of the embassy are entirely without foundation."

Refuses to Discuss Case

Robertson's war record, as described by him, was verified today by the embassy. The veteran's presence in this country, so far as emigration and other regulations were concerned, were said to be proper in every respect.

Robertson called at the embassy early in the day and was closeted with Mr. Craigie and other officials for several hours. When he was ready to depart the official accompanied Robertson to the embassy garage, where he entered an attache's automobile and went to a hotel. He refused later to see anyone or discuss his case.

No effort was made by Robertson it was said, to communicate with Miss Culberson, who was reported to be at her parents' apartments. Senator Culberson did not appear at his office at the capitol during the day and his private secretary also did not put in an appearance. No statement was forthcoming from the Culberson family.

NEFF ASKED TO FIGHT FOR FLOOD RELIEF

By Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 9.—Governor Pat M. Neff has been urged by Walton D. Hood, San Antonio banker to ask federal aid for Texas flood sufferers in the Brazos valley, following a survey of the flooded area made by Mr. Hood for the state executive.

In a report to Governor Neff, Mr. Hood stipulated what was needed to give the people along the Brazos and Colorado rivers immediate relief, and urged that the chief executive of the state send messages to the Texas delegation in congress.

Ford's Nitrate Bid Labeled "Cinch"

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Henry Ford's proposed contract for purchase and lease of the government's power and nitrate projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was denounced today by Chairman Norris of the senate agricultural committee as "unconscionable" and a "cinch" by which he would obtain "unregulated control of valuable properties" and cause those who negotiated the contract "to be condemned by future generations."

The Nebraska member declared that "no corporation" would get the Muscle Shoals properties with his consent.

Poydras Cleared As Waters Rush In

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Virtually all persons living in the area flooded by the crevasse in the Mississippi river levee at Poydras below New Orleans have been removed to places of safety, officials announced today.

Marooned families, however, are still being rescued. Rises in the river were reported today from Natchez to Donaldsonville. The river was stationary at New Orleans and Vicksburg.

MEN WORK BY LANTERNS TO REPAIR PARK

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, May 9.—Paul LaGrave, business manager of the Fort Worth baseball club, and a gang of repair men went to Panther Park, Texas league playing field here, to begin work on the diamond soon as the floods waters recede. If the water leaves the park during the night, work on the field will be started by lantern light. LaGrave said the men would work night and day in an effort to put the diamond in shape for Saturday's scheduled game with Galveston.

Man Shoots While Another Holds Gun On Him

By Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Okla., May 9.—Beckham Cobb, 23, federal student at Oklahoma A. & M. college here, was shot and killed just outside the campus today by Earl E. Gordon, 25, another federal student, while escorting the latter home, at the point of a revolver to demand an apology to his pretty young wife for an alleged insult offered by Gordon. Both Cobb and Gordon served in the army during the war.

Wife Tells Hubby.

Gordon is held in jail pending an investigation by county authorities but tonight no charges had been filed against him.

Bertie Sue Cobb, 18-year-old wife of Cobb, declared tonight that "several nights ago Gordon met her on the street and insulted her.

She refused to give the nature of the alleged insult.

Mrs. Cobb declared that while she "had never had anything to do with Gordon," he had made himself offensive to her. She said she had told her husband.

Recently, she said, Gordon followed her into a motion picture house

BIG CONVENTION HERE NEXT YEAR

Retail Clothiers Are Coming

Retail clothiers of Texas will meet in Wichita Falls next year for their annual convention, according to word from Eugene Liepold Tuesday. Liepold, representing the convention committee of the local chamber of commerce, succeeded in getting this year's convention, held at Fort Worth, to vote to come here next year.

The convention, the first of four big conventions to be asked here by the chamber of commerce, draws over 1,000 delegates each year. Two more conventions are to be invited here. The lumbermen's convention, the first to be asked, went to Dallas for 1923.

PANTHER PARK WRECKED WHEN FLOOD STRIKES

Heavy Rains Cause Rise In Trinity River

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 9.—Rises are coming down both the Clear and Westforks of the Trinity river and will again flood the lowlands of Fort Worth tonight, Weather Observer Landis, of the local United States weather bureau, said late Tuesday afternoon.

A two-inch rain fell at Bridgeport and a seven-inch rain at Weatherford in a downpour is causing a rush of water into the Trinity proper. Levee repair gangs had not opportunity to work Tuesday, as water was standing about six feet deep in the north side bottoms on West Seventh street.

The Texas league ball park here was again swept away by water.

Fences are down and the diamond is said to be practically in as bad shape as when the flood waters receded two weeks ago.

A drop of seven-tenths of a foot was registered in the Trinity river by the government guage at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The river then registered 34.5 feet. It stood at 35.2 at 7 o'clock this morning.

With the city water again turned on, flood conditions were slightly improved at noon Tuesday, but the rise due here tonight will again inundate the bottom, it is believed. Mayor Cockrell issued warnings Tuesday for the consumers to boil water coming through the city mains.

D. McQuery and V. Black, dairymen, narrowly escaped drowning Tuesday morning while crossing a creek at Forest Hill.

They were fording the swollen stream returning home, carrying a load of feed.

The swift current swept the team and wagon away and the men were pinned under the heavy vehicle and rescued only after great difficulty. Both horses were drowned.

Specific demand was made on the city commission when it met this afternoon that immediate steps be taken to protect the water and light plants near the seventh street viaduct.

Three city commissioners advanced proposals at the meeting regarding the protection of these plants. The substance of the proposal could not be learned.

Finance Commissioner Townsend, however, told the Associated Press that he favored calling a citizen's mass meeting immediately.

The city commissioner, chamber of commerce and county authorities would call this conference, according to Townsend's plan.

The mass meeting will be held within 48 hours, Townsend said. It will be for the purpose of discussing ways and means of providing adequate protection for the plants.

ALLOWS RAIL CLAIM

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, May 9.—The state railroad commission today allowed the International & Great Northern Railway company a valuation of $38,748,469 on its holdings in Texas. The commission held in abeyance a claim for additional $376,646 represented in 6 per cent of franchises. If the franchise valuation is recognized the commission will issue a supplemental order.

Finding a Room

is an easy task for a room-hunter in Wichita Falls. He simply turns to the classified page, and then selects the room whose description appeals to him most.

And it pays to tell him all the good points about your room, too—whether it is large and airy, its conveniences, location as to street, etc.

If you have an idle room make it help to meet expenses of the family—or for pocket money.

Leakage Discovered in Legion Air Men When Manager Starts to Pay Off Fliers Who Performed for Circus

That a total report of approximately $1,500 was the only amount returned and that a shortage of about $300 is thought to exist in the receipts for the recent American Legion aviation meet held here was the statement of A. L. Taylor Tuesday morning.

Mr. Taylor, who had charge of the meet and who gave a month of his time to assure a successful aviation carnival for Wichitans, stated that a diligent search for a probable leakage which has placed Pat Carrigan post in bad arrears has been begun.

Dr. O. W. Wilson, post commandant, in a statement issued last night, said:

"There is no doubt but there is a leakage somewhere, but just exactly where is not definitely known. Dr. Lucy and myself canvassed the crowd outside the field and permitted possibly 100 persons to pass into the field for small amounts, but there were already apparently 3,000 paid admissions in the field."

The theory that a possible shortage of funds existed was advanced Monday morning, when Mr. Taylor began to pay off the fliers who participated in the events. Funds for the two-day performance, he said, were insufficient to meet the debts which the legion owed the aviators at that time.

"We don't know who handled the gates all the time," Taylor admitted.

"The fellows who had charge at first checked in all right, but some one relieved them. We won't know whether the leakage is on the gates, or not, but there is a shortage of funds anyway."

Taylor had previously stated, on the grounds Sunday, that "we have come out of the hole on this meet; the crowd which we drew today has paid us out of any possible debt on the whole affair."

300 Families Fleeing High Water In Dallas District While Deputies Patrol Flood Rescuing Many Others

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, May 9.—The Trinity river having reached its crest at 4:35 o'clock this afternoon of 41.7 feet, will return soon to its normal stage, according to Dr. Joseph L. Cline of the Dallas weather bureau, without having reached the 42.3 feet mark attained two weeks ago, unless there are heavy rains in the upper basin of the river tomorrow morning.

The street car viaduct leading to Oak Cliff, a suburb, was intact from the high waters tonight, allaying fears of earlier in the day that the river would rise in leaps and bounds.

Other street car lines partially suspended during the day, were free from hindrance tonight and running normally.

The Red Cross, United Charities and Welfare associations were united in caring for the stranded folk of the lowlands tonight and a tent city again erected in Western Heights. More than 300 people moved early today from the inundated districts to higher grounds.

The recent experience in caring for the refugees aided materially in satisfying the wants of the homeless today.

In West Dallas tonight five deputy sheriffs were patrolling the flooded sections in motor boats, saving livestock and expediting departure of families.

Train service from Fort Worth was crippled to a great extent today.

WILSON HAILED AS PEACE CHIEF BY METHODISTS

Demonstration For Ex-President At Hot Springs

By Associated Press.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 9.—Hailing Woodrow Wilson as the "apostle of modern democracy and world peace," delegates to the 19th quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south staged a demonstration here today in the former president's honor that officials said was unique in the church's annals.

The scene resembled a political meeting as those present, even the more elderly bishops, arose and cheered. It was several minutes before the presiding officers could bring the convention to order, after which it adopted with shouts of acclamation a resolution extending greetings to Mr. Wilson and pledging the conference "to the promotion of the great truths he has so ably set forth."

Congratulate Harding.

The resolution also extended the conference's congratulations to President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes for the achievements of the Washington conference and pledged support to "all measures looking toward the establishment of peace on earth and good will toward men."

Mr. Wilson's name was brought into the proceedings with the introduction of the resolution, which follows:

The Resolution.

First, resolved that this general conference instruct its secretary to convey our greetings to the Honorable Woodrow Wilson, the apostle of modern democracy and world peace; that we assure him that we stand for the great principles of international equity and good will which he has so clearly enunciated. We pray God's blessing upon him, and pledge ourselves to the promotion of the great truths he has so ably set forth.

"Second, resolved that we congratulate President Warren G. Harding and Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, upon the good work done at the Washington armament conference and assure them of our hearty support in all measures looking to the establishment of peace on earth and good will toward men."

To Raise Big Fund.

What conference leaders characterized as a further extension of rights to women to participate in the councils of the church, was taken when the body adopted a report recommending that the district secretary of the women's missionary society, be, by virtue of her office, a member of the district conference.

Among the reports presented today was that of the centenary commission which showed that the campaign to raise $35,000,000 as a "thanks offering" had met with more success than had been anticipated, the amount raised totalling $36,017,106.

The report said many states had exceeded their original quotas. Conferences of east and west Oklahoma, central Texas and south Georgia, were announced as having raised more than had been expected of them.

"The bad men were all of them find fellows—if one was inclined to accept them on their own merits. But none of them ever made a genuine friend. They had many such—through fear; who breathed a sigh of relief when at last they met their fate."

GONE ARE THE OX-CART days. Gone is the old civilization of the fathers. Gone are the old land marks of the fathers. Lieutenant J. H. Doolittle and Lt. L. And yet there are candidates for office clamoring for the restoration of the conditions that were in flower in this country when Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson "were among the people now on earth." Here is another flier: David Wark Griffith has announced that he soon would begin a production of historical films which would be the most gigantic undertaking ever attempted in motion picture production. It will be a chronological history of every country and its intention will be to promote peace. It will take three years to produce and will cost $5,000,000. Producer Griffith says the foremost historians will collaborate in the writing of the scenario. There are pious men and women now on earth who insist that the screen is an agency of the devil, and that the moving picture theater opens the road to hell. David Wark Griffith is doing more for the education of the masses than all the critics of the moving picture industry could do if they would unite their forces in a thousand years. He stands today the foremost educator to be found in the civilized world.

GENOA PASSES UNEASY DAY

Lloyd George and Barthou Agreeing

By Associated Press.

GENOA, May 9.—Genoa passed an uneasy day speculating on the effect the Russian reply to the allied memorandum would have on the future of the economic conference. The Russians were busily engaged tonight in completing their reply which it is expected will be presented tomorrow.

M. Tchitcherin was in Genoa for only a short time, then he and the principal members of the Russian delegation gathered at Santa Marguerite and began putting the finishing touches on the reply which it is believed will be highly conciliatory and open the way for a continuation of the negotiations.

The differences between Premier Lloyd George and M. Barthou have apparently been softened somewhat and there are indications that the Belgians are less irreconcible in their attitude and may be persuaded to approve the memorandum to the Russians on conditions it be made clear that Belgian property in Russia must be restored to the former owners if possible and cannot in any case be transferred to others.

LAND OWNERS DO NOT HAVE TO PAY OIL TAX WHEN AREA IS LEASED

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—Taxes on oil production may not be assessed against the owners of land when the mineral rights are leased to others, the state supreme court held in the suit of G. T. Shaw, owner of a tract said to be worth $6,000,000 in the Claiborne oil field, against J. R. Watson, tax assessor, to compel his assessment to the value of the land without the oil production being considered.

Shaw brought the suit to compel the assessor to reduce his assessment from the value of his land with the oil to the value of it without considering the oil production, which he had leased to others with the exception of small royalties.

commission was introduced by the government as "exhibit A."

The witness asserted that his work was not confined to the Indian territory exclusively, but that he had been obliged to work on bordering states. He said he came here under instructions from Henry A. Larson, chief of his department, and that he had made three trips to Wichita Falls, which was "wet" territory at that time.

On cross examination he admitted that he had been detailed here to investigate the conduct of Splawn, who was then a federal officer.

He testified that he had registered here under the name of "J. D. Brice," and asserted on cross examination that he had used the name of "Brice" "because that's my middle name."

Conversations which he stated he had held with Splawn and his colleagues, Flowers and Lankford, were narrated in full to the court. Dowell stated under oath that Lankford and Flowers were aiding Splawn, who held a commission as a possessman.

The proposition of a bribe to permit whiskey to be transported over the border to the Indians had resulted from his conversation with Lankford, Flowers and the former possessman, he stated. "Lankford and Flowers were to conduct the getting of the money and see that the whiskey was unmolested as the bootleggers sent it across the border, and Splawn shared in the profits."

Dowell stated that Lankford had said that "we will have to capture an old Ford car now and then which old Dan will fill up with poor whiskey and beer, so we can hold our jobs—but that's all arranged."

Hardy has been tried by the federal court of this district on a charge of conspiracy in connection with other cases against Splawn, Flowers and Lankford, and was convicted. The higher courts affirmed the rulings of the lower courts, and Hardy was granted a pardon by former President Wilson.

The case now on trial also went up to the higher courts, but was reversed and remanded by the supreme court of the United States.

Lankford and Splawn, it was intimated yesterday, will be witnesses against Hardy.

The story of the killing was told tonight by Alvin Cannon, federal student, a friend of both Cobb and Gordon.

Cannon said he came out of the chapel at noon and met Cobb and Gordon talking.

Gordon asked Cannon to go to his room, according to Cannon. Cobb walked with them. As they left the campus, according to Cannon, Cobb said to Gordon:

"Are you going down there with me?"

"No, I don't think I am," Gordon replied, Cannon said.

Cobb drew a revolver then, Cannon said, and remarked:

"I guess you will."

Gordon then said:

"Put up your gun; I'll go along."

Cannon declared he then said:

"Well, that let's me out if there is to be gun play."

Cannon then turned and walked away, he said.

Cobb and Gordon walked on about 200 feet and Cannon said he turned just in time to see Gordon shoot Cobb. Cobb fell over a hedge into the corner of a sorority house yard and Gordon fired two more shots, Cannon stated. Cobb died instantly.

Cannon, or other eye-witnesses could not say whether Cobb attempted to use his weapon.

Gordon did not make a detail statement. "Cobb was after me," he said.

Cobb's home is at Birmingham, Alabama. Gordon's home is at Miami, Oklahoma.

No family is well fed without ice

JUST as true in Spring as in midsummer. The food may not spoil so fast, but it spoils. Above 50° milk is unsafe; meat loses its appetizing flavor; eggs and butter deteriorate.

To feed a family well, raw food must be kept at its best. If it is the least bit stale, the flavor suffers; if a little more stale, the nourishment is impaired; after a day or two it spoils, becomes a menace to health.

Why run such risks when ice costs so little? A few cents a day keeps the refrigerator full and your food in prime condition.

---it's the big Baum & Gardner Stock

"Common-sense"

Two weeks ago Mr. W. A. Ballard of the W. A. Ballard Company personally attended the receiver's sale of the BANKRUPT STOCK of Baum & Gardner. Prior to the hour set for the sale of this stock, Mr. Ballard in company with special representatives made a thorough investigation of the $108,000 worth of merchandise inventoried in this big stock. His investigation revealed the fact that the makers of the BEST WEARING APPAREL IN THE WORLD had permitted a BANKRUPT SALE of their standardized lines. This is something that very seldom happens, for in most instances such manufacturers intercede when financial matters become serious with a merchant, thus avoiding court proceedings and preventing their lines of merchandise from being thrown upon the markets for distribution at BANKRUPT PRICES. In this particular instance AMERICA'S FOREMOST PRODUCERS of men's and women's wearing apparel and shoes failed for some reason unknown to protect their lines and as a result the BUYING PUBLIC of Wichita Falls and all of North Texas have this opportunity to participate in one of the most unusual SALES ever inaugurated in this section of the state.

People we say to you frankly! Of all the stocks purchased by the W. A. Ballard company the past year, the BAUM & GARDNER stock is the most wonderful purchase we have made. Not the largest, but the THIRD largest, in DOLLARS and CENTS and far surpassing all previous purchases from a standpoint of QUALITY. We have in this big store $108,000.00 WORTH OF THE BEST MERCHANDISE IN THE WORLD and every dollar's worth of it will be included in this big event. It is our desire to dispose of this entire stock also the $25,000.00 worth of fixtures within TEN DAYS' time and we intend exerting every effort to accomplish this. W. A. BALLARD COMPANY never resorts to unscrupulous methods, and over exaggerated advertising in the liquidation of BANKRUPT STOCKS, in other words, to "put it" in plain English, we never attempt to "PULL THE WOOL OVER THE PUBLIC'S EYES." Our efforts are based on MERIT and we so conduct the affairs of our business as to render a REAL SERVICE to those we serve. We are here to give you the GREATEST VALUE ever offered a BUYING PUBLIC and this event is certainly one that deserves the serious consideration of every man and woman in Wichita Falls and surrounding territory. If you will visit us the OPENING DAY of this SALE you will doubtless rub elbows with many of your friends and neighbors.

The most gigantic event ever inaugurated in the whole of North Texas. Involving a little over $100,000.00 worth of the best merchandise in the world. A sale that will command the attention of the buying public within a radius of over 100 miles. A sale conducted on a high plane of merchandising.

AN EDITORIAL ON STRAWBERRIES.

ONE of the greatest writers in the English language found "Sermons in stones, and books in running brooks," so why not an editorial in strawberries?

These particular strawberries are grown a scant two miles from the heart of the business district of Wichita Falls. They are grown by P. A. Berry and his son, C. M. Berry, and they are marketed in Wichita Falls.

This year opened with a severe drouth, as all will remember. A number of the strawberry plants died out. It appeared highly probable that the water in Lake Wichita would be needed to serve for a long time and must be sparingly used. The truck farmers along the irrigation ditch were very economical.

The future looked rather bad for the strawberries, the pride of the Berrys' truck garden. But father and son went ahead with their careful cultivation, as if every condition was the most promising.

Then, just at the critical moment the rains began to fall.

This year the Berry strawberries went to market almost two entire weeks ahead of the previous early date, May 6. The long rows of glistening green leaved plants are dotted with white blossoms, and underneath the green leaves are thousands and thousands of berries, in all stages of ripening. There are berries enough in sight to last through the month of May. And such luscious berries they are, as they ripen on the vine, under the pleasant sun, after the generous rains.

The price is lower this year, P. A. Berry says, but so are the prices of the various articles he has to buy. And the yield, he believes will be enough increased, to make up for the lower price. Everything is sure to work out all right.

That seems to be his working motto. One can observe this in looking at the beautifully arranged garden plots, with the large variety of vegetables, planted and cultivated during weeks and months of dry weather, when rain seemed very far off.

City builders are not alone in their faith in this Wichita Falls community. This garden is only one of scores and scores around the city. A drive around the irrigated garden district will provide a valuable lesson in faith and works.

WHERE THE FAULT LIES.

IT IS said that the railroads of Texas will not oppose the revocation of the Shreveport rate order by the Interstate Commerce Commission. All thinking men know that the railroad commissioners of Texas are responsible for the Shreveport rate order. They were not on the job. They were lacking in vision, according to those who are familiar with the case and they should assume the responsibility. Now they say that the congress is responsible for the destruction of state rights and the shippers of the country are compelled to pay exorbitant rates on account of the order. If the rights of the state are not as dead as the dodo then the man up a tree has lost his bearings. Southern senators are the men who shot the sacred dogma full of holes until it resembled a shredded wheat biscuit after the biscuit has been picked to pieces. It doesn't get a man anywhere to place a padlock on his barn after the only horse he had has been stolen.

WHY DAMN HARDING?

HON. W. P. G. Harding of Alabama is chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. He is a Democrat and was appointed by Woodrow Wilson. His term expires in May and President Harding may reappoint him. This does not appeal to Cullen F. Thomas. He would have Theodore H. Price or Colonel Frank P. Holland appointed governor of the board. What is the matter with Harding of Alabama? What has he done to merit condemnation? Why should he be ditched? And then again why should Colonel Frank P. Holland be given the job? Is he a financier? Is Price a financier? Why not let the shoemaker stick to his last? These gentlemen away down here in Texas who are clamoring for inflated money and high prices appear to be of the opinion that Governor Harding is a villian of the deepest dye. He isn't the board. He isn't an autocrat. He isn't a dictator. He is just one man with one vote. In "the good old days" the fire brands damned Wall Street; now they damn the Federal Reserve Board.

A happy land is one that affords the fewest headlines.

CRANE'S EDITORIAL

THE NEUTRAL BABY.

WHEN we were at school we used to recite, with a considerable feeling that we ought to be terribly passionate about it, those lines of Walter Scott wherein he enquires if there breathes a man with soul so dead who never to himself has said: This is my own, my native land. And we exhorted the audience which gathered to hear our recitation in the High School auditorium on Friday afternoons, that if they found such a man, to go and mark him well.

We remember that we used to wonder just how he was to be marked, whether with a paint brush or a penknife.

The listeners were assured by the youthful elocutionist that for the aforementioned gentleman with the dead soul no minstrel raptures would ever swell, but that although he obtained riches, power and pelf he would forfeit all fair renown and, doubly dying, would go down to that earth from which he sprung, unwept, unhonored and unsung.

Since the late war things have been so shaken up, bofindary lines have been so altered and nationalities have been so rattled about that it is going to be hard for some of these European patriots to tell just which land is their own.

A grown-up Austrian suddenly becomes a Czech, says Stephen Graham, a Hungarian who knows only Magyar becomes a Roumanian, a self-conscious Prussian is written into a Pole and their hearts are supposed to respond to new loyalties.

There might be some quasi rational nationalism found, if these people could be Europeans and acknowledge a loyalty to Europe as a whole. But every bloodthirsty patriot from Odessa to Dublin would denounce such an idea as horrible and unhuman.

One gloomy gentleman from Upper Silesia, when he was asked at Ellis Island wha this nationality was replied, "Plebiscite."

There are not a few people in Europe who are unable to tell just what their native land is until they have read the latest news in the morning paper.

Mr. Graham tells the following story, which he gives upon the authority of the British Consul at Munich.

A baby was born on a ship at the time of the Armistice. The ship was a German one which had been captured by the British. It had a British crew, but was bringing refugees from a port of Russia to Reval on the Baltic. It was flying the Neutrality flag. The ship was wrecked off the coast of Norway and was towed by a Danish boat into the harbor of Stavanger. The baby was born while the Danish boat lay in the harbor. The parents were Russian, but an attempt was made to get the British Consul at Stravanger to register it as British. He refused. The English law is that the flag decides nationality and in this case the flag was neutral.

A neutral baby has therefore appeared on the scene. In a world that is unable to grasp humanity and can get no further than nationalism the question is whether such a baby is not born with a dead soul.

AFTER CYCLONE WADED THROUGH AUSTIN

The Once Over

The United States has recognized Egypt!

o o o

President Harding and Secretary Hughes have so announced. This will end a lot of confusion. Egypt and the United States have looked so much alike the last three years only the experts have been able to tell them apart.

o o o

It took the president some time to complete the recognition, however. Several times he thought he had recognized Egypt but when he called in his cabinet and pointed out the window to what he supposed was Egypt it was found to be just a view of America from the west portico of the White House.

o o o

But this time the administration is positive there has been no mistake. Egypt has been recognized, properly located with red thumb-tacks, and ordered to designate its deserts with a type of sand distinctly different from that used in the Great American Desert.

o o o

We can't have American citizens staggering around Sahara under the impression they are in a typical American community, nor can we have Egyptians wandering around the United States demanding to know whether you take the next right or left to the Pyramids and inqiring who has moved the Sphinx.

o o o

His High and Imperial Majesty, Ahmed Fuad, King of Egypt, has been formally notified that the United States has recognized Egypt. The king, anxious to do the right thing, now says he will do his best to recognise the United States.

o o o

Allow us to say, king, that it should be very easy. Just back off a little way and get a good view of both places. Got it? Well, the one where the camels have only two legs and walk in an upright position is the United States. Simple enough, eh, king?

o o o

President Harding's letter of recognition reads as follows:

His Majesty, Ahmed Fuad, King of Egypt, Cairo and Egypt.

Great and Good Friend:—On the occasion of the formal recognition by the United States government of the independence of Egypt, I take pleasure in offering your Majesty, in my own name and in that of the American people, my heartiest congratulations. In thus voicing the pleasure it gives my fellow countrymen and myself to welcome you into the family of free nations, allow me to express the hope that for yourself and the Egyptian people a new era of happiness and prosperity has been inaugurated.

WARREN G. HARDING.

o o o

Egypt thus becomes a free nation . . . just like the United States! All it needs now is a good list of "DON'TS," a bunch of constitutional amendments, and a flock of blue laws to make it just as good a place in which to live.

Independence, as King Fuad will find, is a great thing. If it works as it has worked here it will give every Egyptian the right to burn his feet in the hot sand and his throat in the hot sun as long as he pleases, so long as he seeks nothing to relieve his sufferings. What more could be asked.

o o o

King Ahmed Fuad's reply hasn't been received, but is expected along the following line:

His Excellency, President Gamaliel, Ruler of the Udryted States of Amerisahara.

Great and Dry Friend:—Yours of the 28th inst. received and contents noted. The same to you and many of them. Our salesman will call on you at an early date and show you our 1922 line of pyramids. We are prepared to ship at once. Set up on American soil, they should give your country the appropriate touch. How are you fixed for cigarettes? Please excuse blots. Your loving friend.

AHMED.

Under the terms of the recognition Egypt, it is stipulated, must agree to see that American rights in Egypt are protected.

YOUR CHILD

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

Remember always, I entreat you, that the little child you rejoice to be able to call yours has a mind as well as a body. Remember that his mind needs food and exercise as truly as his body does.

Instinctively he will try to gain both food and exercise for his mind by asking you innumerable questions. Answer these, not casually, but to the best of your ability, and in such wise that he will early be accustomed to think accurately and vigorously.

And, indeed, provide food and exercise for his mind even before he begins to question you about the wonderful world in which he finds himself.

Quicken his powers of observation by directing his attention to all manner of things. Tell him stories that will help him to become creatively imaginative. Teach him at a very early age to spell and read.

Collect in your home a little library of good books and let him browse among these at his pleasure. You cannot too soon begin to cultivate in him a love of reading. Choose good pictures for your walls—pictures that will both stimulate his curiosity and suggest to him ideas expanding and refining his mind.

Do these things and you need never fear experiencing the disappointment that comes to so many parents when their little ones go to school.

His teachers will not be reporting to you that he seems dull and stupid and quite unwilling to study. Your method of helping his mind to grow will have fitted him, not merely to cope with the tasks of the school room, but to take a real delight in them.

Remember also that it is your business not only to nurture your child mentally and physically, but to develop in him strength of character and qualities that will enable him to meet and mingle with his fellows cooperatively instead of selfishly, distrustfully, or antagonistically.

Train him from the outset to be frank, honest, generous and brave. But do not make the fatal mistake of thinking that such training should be through terrorism.

Punishment at times your child is pretty sure to need. Let the punishment be such as to cause him to appreciate his fault rather than to instil into him dominating sentiments of hatred and fear. The child who is terrorised is al too apt to grow into a bitter, hard man, or a whinning, cunning, cowardly one.

But neither should undue affection be shown, or undue solicitude.

Parents forever anxious about the health and safety of their children need hardly hope that those children will escape becoming morbidly anxious about themselves. To undue solicitude on the part of parents is attributable not a little of the neuroticism so much in evidence today.

And if parents through undue affection keep their children too long dependent on them, it is hardly possible for the children to acquire the self-reliance, initiative and determination that they will greatly need when at a later day they have to strike out for themselves.

All of which I have previously emphasized in the course of discussion of special problems in child training. But these are matters of such fundamental importance and so frequently overlooked, that the present restatement of them may, as I sincerely hope it will, prove helpful to many parents.

Most of the experience that a man gets comes too late.

It is utterly impossible to drive a man to drink who isn't headed that way.

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

The public in general is proud to observe that our neighbor, Jefferson Potlocks, is devoting a little more of his time to work. A discussion arose at the postoffice this morning as to what year it was in which Washington Hocks married. He was finally called in and questioned and immediately left for home to find out from his wife.

THE DAILY STORY

Copyright, 1922, by W. Werner.

The Man of It

If Buff, the thoroughbred cochin, had not chosen that morning to come off the nest with a large brood, Agnes Mullins would have gone to town with Walter, her husband. As it was, she had to watch him drive away without her. With a long face she stood on the porch and followed the meanderings of Minny, the bay horse, down the road. The red spokes of the new buggy flashed in the bright sunshine. Walter certainly drove a nice turnout. He was very particular about all things of that sort which concerned himself.

She hated to think it, but as she stood there watching the glint of those red spokes it came to her that Walter was a trifle more selfish than she would like to have him. He was a good man, a just man, and a man that had been uniformly kind to her during all the 35 years she had been his wife, but there were some things he couldn't seem to understand. One was her longing to have electric lights. It would be a wonderful joy, she thought, to light one's footsteps through life by pressing a button instead of washing interminable shelf lengths of lamps. She had enough to do without that.

The red buggy was not nearly so necessary to Walter as the lights were to her, and it cost more. But Walter always got everything he fancied; she could not, because he carried the pocket book. Of course, she had her egg money, but she would have to save a dozen years, and by that time she might be beyond caring.

Agnes sighed. The red spokes had glinted for the last time at the turn. She might as well go and see what old buff was up to. It was tricky business at best raising chickens.

Agnes went through the house and sat down on the back steps. It was very warm and bright there. The peep of the tiny chicks came to her through the open door of the kitchen, where she had them in a self-lined box under the stove. Somehow those sounds meant work to her, and suddenly she felt tired of work.

"I guess it's spring fever," she said, "but I did want to go to town this morning. Everything's so green and pretty." She dropped her graying head in her hands, but she did not cry, for she was a sensible person, and, after all, she had nothing to cry about.

Presently she arose and went about her work. She dug dandelions, looked them over, and put them on to cook. Walter loved greens. Then she made a rhubarb tart. He was fond of that also. Noon came, and she got dinner ready to place on the table. But Walter did not come. She waited until 1 o'clock and then she felt the need of food so much she sat down and ate what she could. When 2 o'clock came she began to wonder what kept her husband away. He always was very punctual about his meals. Indeed, it was the first time in years that he had kept her waiting dinner for him in this way.

What had happened? Had Minny run away? Sophisticated though she was, she might yet have seen something in town which had frightened her. But even so, Walter was a master hand at the reins. No it was not that. And of course it was absurd to think that he had been taken sick suddenly. Nevertheless she kept on worrying.

At 3 she saw him coming very fast up the road. He drove into the yard and shouted "Whoa!" and jumped out of the buggy.

"Well, here I am!" he said grinning. "Did you think I was never coming?"

"I didn't know but something had happened to you," answered Agnes, looking into his ruddy, good humored face with relief.

"No! No! I went in to see that place where they were demonstrating stoves and washers, and like that. There was the smartest little woman in there doing stunts—" He paused.

"Oh!" said Agnes, and she felt a kick of jealousy.

"Yes, she was some girl." Walter paused again. "She could sell gold bricks to the comptroller of the currency. I never saw anything like her." His manner gained in sprightliness. "I bought you something, Ag." He reached under the buggy seat and brought forth a heavy box. "Here it is. It's the greatest little utensil I ever saw in my life."

Agnes' face glowed with surprise and pleasure. How could she ever have thought of her husband as selfish? Utensils in her kitchen were none too plentiful and the prospect of possessing a new one filled her with delight. "Well, come in, and get your dinner soon as you can. I kept the things hot," she said, and entered the house with the treasure.

She opened the box and took out a shining flat iron with a long cord attached. For a moment she stared at it in astonishment. Then her tired, plain face moved in a curious smile. It was an electric flatiron that Walter had brought home to her!

An electric flatiron! Thirty-five years of married life had not destroyed Agnes' sense of humor. She began to laugh. She laughed until she cried. Then she wiped her eyes on her apron and laughed some more. Then suddenly she wish to use the lovely, glittering thing possessed her. Such a smooth surface as it had! To think of not having to run back and forth to change irons, to think of not having to rub them with paraffine to keep them fit! Why ironing day would be changed into playday with such a toy! She was looking wistfully at the bright thing when Walter entered.

"Well," he exclaimed, "what do you think of it"

"It is very nice dear," she said. "It's a pity I can't use it."

"Why can't you use it?" Truculently.

Agnes fingered the cord. "Why don't you see! It's electric. Where' the current coming from?" she said.

"Current!" Walter's jaw dropped. Then it came to him. He flung round and stood staring at the floor. "That so!" he muttered.

Agnes gave him time to recover before she spoke again. "I'd love it," she said. "My old flatirons are giving out. And it makes the kitchen so hot to iron in summer. I suppose you'd better take it back to that woman." Perhaps her voice bore a malicious inflection.

Walter gave her a queer look. "Take it back to that little sharper!" he cried. "I can just see myself doing it. Why, she sold flatirons to every man on this creek. She even sold Hi Stewart a washer!" Suddenly he doubled up and began to laugh. It seemed too good not to be the only deluded one. "I'll go ahead of her yet," he said. "I'll see the other fellows and we'll run a wire and bring the current up the creek here into all our houses. I'll see Hi this afternoon. By cracky! I bought that thing for you to iron with, and it's going to work."

A fortnight later Agnes hung the last neatly ironed garment on the clothes bars. The new iron was lovely. So were her lights. And Walter was going to get her a washer like Mary Stewart's. She sang as she worked.

A Wife or a Profession?

BY CAROLYN BEECHER

(Copyright, 1922, by Carolyn Beecher)

Chapter LXXII.

"It is charming, Howard!" Annette said when she walked slowly through their new apartment home. "I think we shall be very happy here."

"I am sure of it. And, Annette, if I could tell you what you have done for me, if I could make you see how you have given me back my manhood, made me feel that I can walk erect and look my fellow men in the face, you would not for one moment regret your sacrifices. You never shall regret them, dear, if I can help it."

"Tell me, Howard, have you done anything toward remodelling the house?"

"Nothing but get plans for your approval. We are partners in this, you know. An elevator, some of the larger rooms divided, as you see." He had laid the plans on the table. "And scraping and tinting the walls is all that is necessary to make it a very complete and modern hospital. The expense is slight compared to what I feared it would be."

She made no reply. The cost has not worried her at all. They would have to live very quietly until she was stronger. Howard might as well use the money. Not even yet was she quite ready to say she was willing it should be used for poor patients unable to pay, so she compromised by thinking it would give Howard pleasure to spend it.

"I have called it the 'Annette Hospital,' dear."

"Why—you——"

"It had to have a name! Hospitals have to be designated in some way, and to my mind the 'Annette Hospital' is attractive. Far more euphonious than 'Dr. Blake's Private Hospital' would be.

"But I shan't dare complain about what you do in a hospital named for me." She smiled rather tremulously at him.

"You won't want to, dear."

Annette looked at him with the slight indulgent smile of a woman realizing her power, her hold on the man she loved.

"I mean to try to help—if you will let me."

It was absolute surrender—for the first time.

"You can help more than you will ever know, more than I can tell you. It is you who have lighted the lamp again in my life, and from you will come the strength to achieve the thing my heart is set upon."

She lay in his arms and the moments passed uncounted.

"Dearest of men," she murmured, as he stood her on her feet and bent his lips to her hair, then passed from the room. Perhaps he feared to answer lest the ecstacy of those few moments might be broken.

It was with no blare of trumpets that Howard Blake once more came into his own. Quietly, unostentatiously he picked up the skein of life and straightened it out, slowly but surely, getting back the old enthusiasms, the old interest in his work, at the same time regaining his deftness, his sure touch.

As visiting surgeon at Dr. Campbell's hospital he had slipped gradually back into the old familiar grove of trusted assistant, relieving the older man, who once again had given him his entire confidence.

He had taken up his old work in fear and trembling. Joyously, yet almost afraid that his period of inertia had unfitted him for carrying on.

Claire Gordon, now Mrs. Hayden Drew, was delighted with his application, his quiet resumption of his old manner. When she spoke of it, Howard said:

"I was fast getting past enthusiasms and dropping into a dry-as-dust condition. What has happened in the last few months has changed all that. I feel young again—young and, in a sense, capable."

"And ain't it just one grand and glorious feeling?" Claire whimsically asked.

"It just is," he replied, smiling at their slang, but with a note in his voice indicative of deep feeling.

The Annette Hospital quickly became known. Also it was noised abroad that Dr. Blake, the great surgeon, was a most humane sort of man, and that were it necessary to use his hospital for some delicate operation there never arose a question of the patient's ability to pay. Naturally, he had to use judgment, but many a poor, disfigured veteran occupied the rooms that had been once the home of the young surgeon.

Annette was now practically as well as she ever would be. She walked as well as ever, but had to be very careful not to overexert herself. At times she rebelled against the loneliness that was often hers because of Howard's constantly increasing activity. Even at times she declared she regretted what she had done because it had taken him from her.

But always she soon repented, and by showing an interest in his work—an interest which at first she did not feel—tried to reassure him. But soon the interest ceased to be feigned. She became really interested first in a child who had been injured so that she had never walked. Annette used to spend hours at her bedside reading to her or telling her stories. From this interest was born others until there arose in Annette Blake's heart a wish as well as a willingness to help others, not only for Howard's sake but for the joy it brought to her.

One rare day in the early spring they drove into the country, an occasional relaxation Howard allowed himself. Annette had been silent for some time. Reaching out, she laid her hand over his and said:

"I used to think, dear, that with you it had to be a choice if I were to be happy—a wife or a profession. I see now how mistaken I was. A wife and a profession mean so much more."

"Thank God, dear, that you feel that way. Now, I know our happiness is secure."

(The End).

WORK ON BRIDGE OVER HOLLIDAY CREEK HALTED

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

A Trying Period through which Every Woman Must Pass

Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Whose Letters Follow

Phila., Pa.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I was weak, nervous, dizzy and had headaches. I was troubled in this way for two years and was hardly able to do my work. My friends advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am very sorry that I did not take it sooner. But I have got good results from it and am now able to do my housework most of the time. I recommend your medicine to those who have similar troubles. I do not like publicity, but if it will help other women I will be glad for you to use my letter."—Mrs. FANNIE ROSENSTEIN, 882 N. Holly Street, Phila., Pa.

Detroit, Michigan—"During the Change of Life I had a lot of stomach trouble and was bothered a great deal with hot flashes. Sometimes I was not able to do any work at all. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in your little books and took it with very good results. I keep house and am able now to do all my own work. I recommend your medicine and am willing for you to publish this testimonial."—Mrs. J. S. LIVERNOIS, 2051 Junction Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

The critical time of a woman's life usually comes between the years of 45 and 50, and is often beset with annoying symptoms such as nervousness, irritability, melancholia. Heat flashes or waves of heat appear to pass over the body, cause the face to be very red and often bring on headache, dizziness and a sense of suffocation.

Another annoying symptom which comes at this time is an inability to recall names, dates or other small facts. This is liable to make a woman lose confidence in herself. She becomes nervous, avoids meeting strangers and dreads to go out alone.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted to help women at this time. It exercises a restorative influence, tones and strengthens the system, and assists nature in the long weeks and months covering this period. Let it help carry you through this time of life. It is a splendid medicine for the middle-aged woman. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information

RABBIT HOLDS CRABS DURING SPUD PARADE

Bischoff Registers Three Blows In Matinee

Only the fence kept the Crab hurlers in the park yesterday afternoon. Wilder than the broncs that paraded through the Rodeo in the lot last week, they assisted the Spudders materially in a 5-3 win.

During three and two-thirds rounds of hill duty, Benton, the heaver with the hesitating delivery, seven passed and one hit batsman enhanced the Spudder chances, and when he left the mound, three runs had resulted. Five Spudder runners were left stranded on the bags in the first three frames, yet not a hit nor error were recorded in their favor.

The Crabs began their counting in the opening inning, when successive singles by Moore, Hendricks and L. Smith chased one across the pan. Mokan passed a couple of hitters in the second, putting the Crabs in position to register another on Baggan's double to the right center fence.

Brilliant fielding on several occasions cut down runners at all points of the compass. White probably flashed the most sensational stop in the fourth. He raced behind second and making a back-handed stop of a drive by Benton missed him by inches at first.

Rabbit Darrough reached out and grabbed a drive off Baggan's club in the sixth, retiring the side. Adams dropped into deep short after a fast grounder by Moore in the ninth, and with a perfect throw turned him back at the initial bag.

Mokan started the pitching for the Spudders, but retired in favor of Darrough in the second. One runner had tallied on Crab hitting in the first and two passes coupled with a double sent another over in the second. This was enough for the hero of the recent Panther victory. Two pop fouls retired the side when Rabbit took up the journey.

The diminutive slabman turned in a nice bit of work for his part of the game. Despite the weather which was fit for anything but pitching, Rabbit waded right in and held the threatening visitors at a safe distance until the Spudders piled up enough runs to win.

The nicest bit of pitching came in the eighth when Darrough sent three Crab hitters away from the plate by the strike out route. Only three blows were charged against him in the six and two-thirds innings he worked. Bescher relieved him as a pinch hitter in the eighth, and Bowmnan threw the ninth.

Benton, the long-distance hurler sent the Crabs by the Cardinals could not locate the plate at all it seemed, and issued passes in profusion. Not until the fourth when O'Brien drove a liner into right did the Spudders hit safely, but when Bischoff doubled to left, the center fielder rounded the middle bag and drew up at third, from where he scored when Darrough sent a long fly to center.

When Benton finally passed himself out of the game, another of the star-dusting crew, Perryman by name, took up the work. He fared little better and managed to force in a run which put the Spudders in the lead before he was yanked in favor of Devinney.

Bischoff was high man with the stick, driving out a smashing single and double, and on his last trip up, tied Moore's hands together with another terrific drive. Moore recovered the ball but failed to head Beck at the bag for a force out.

Crabs Count First.

Baggan opened with a long fly to center which O'Brien took in. Moore popped a high one behind second and it fell safe for a hit. Hendricks punched one off his thumb to left center and sent Moore to second. Brown popped up to Beck, but L. Smith came through with the first real hit, scoring Moore. Distel worked the count three-two and swung feebly at a wide curve.

Adams drew a pass in the Spudder half and was promptly sacrificed down by White. Summa also walked. After five attempts to catch Adams off second, Benton finally beat him out and caught him off the bag. McDonald drew a free trip and both he and Summa moved up a peg on a wild pitch. Miller drove a long fly to center for the final out.

Visitors Get Another.

Witry did a parade after four wide ones in the second. M. Smith popped one over McDonald's head when he came in for a bunt, but recovered it in time to force the runner at second. Benton looked at four and advanced Smith. Baggan doubled and the roan-haired shortfielder chalked up. Darrough took up the firing and retired the side with two pop fouls, one for Kitchens and one for McDonald.

Beck lifted a fly to Distel and O'Brien's solid smash to center was straight to Hendricks. Kitchens went out on strikes.

Darrough fanned Brown for the first out in the taird. L. Smith flied out to center and McDonald and Beck took care of Distel.

Darrough grounded out Smith to Smith. Adams drew another walk and promptly stole second. White flied out to right. Benton filled the bags with passes to Summa and McDonald, but Baggan made a nice running catch of Miller's liner to left, retiring the side.

Bischoff, who had gone in for Kitchens, took Witry's pop-up in front of the plate. M. Smith lined out to Miller in left. Benton drove a hard grounder over second. White reached his limit for a beautiful stop, but could not recover his balance in time to make the throw. The play was close, but Ware ruled the runner safe. Baggan walked but Moore popped out on a foul to Bischoff.

Beck led off in the fourth by striking out. Ray O'Brien lined the first Spudder hit into right and drew up at third when Bischoff busted one for two bases into left. Darrough delivered with a fly to center and O'Brien counted. Adams swung hard at one, but topped it and the catcher threw him out at first.

A pop fly to White was all Hendricks could do in the fourth. Brown singled to center, but never advanced. L. Smith lined out to Miller and White threw Distel out to Beck.

Spuds Forge Ahead

The Spudders went into the lead in their half of the fifth. White took a high third strike. Summa drew his third pass of the game and McDonald was hit, putting two on. Benton attempted to catch Summa off, and when the ball hit him in the back, both runners advanced before Baggan recovered the ball. Miller's single to center scored two runners and when Beck singled through second, Perryman was sent in for Benton. O'Brien was the only hitter pitched to, for he grounded out to short.

Witry again walked as the first hitter. M. Smith flied out to left and Perryman swung wildly at the third strike. Baggan cracked a fast one down to Darrough. A nice stop retired the hitter and the side.

Bischoff led off with a single in the sixth, but Darrough popped out to third on an attempted sacrifice. Bischoff went out stealing and Adams ended the round with a roller to Distel.

Count Knotted

The Crabs came back and knotted the count in the seventh. Moore beat out an infield hit and was sacrificed on to second by Hendricks. Brown filed to left, but L. Smith singled to left, barely inside third base and Moore tallied. Smith was out on an attempted steal.

White grounded out to first as the Spudders came up. Summa smashed a drive to center but was out. Tex McDonald dropped a Texas leaguer over third, but was out when he tried to take two on the knock.

Distel walked in the eighth and was out stealing. Darrough uncorked a brand of unbeatable pitching by striking out three in a row. Witry, M. Smith and Perryman.

The game was iced in the last half of the eighth. Miller took a third strike, then Beck and O'Brien both walked. Bischoff handcuffed Moore with a drive and all hands were safe when he failed to win a race for the bag against Beck. Boss Griffith yanked Perryman and sent another six-footer to the slaughter. Bescher hit for Darrough, but popped out to first. Adams again drew a walk, forcing in the winning run. White beat out an infield hit to third and O'Brien marked the rubber for the final tally. Summa grounded out to Distel.

Bowman went in to pitch and retired the Crabs in the ninth. Baggan singled to left. Moore grounded out McDonald to Beck and Baggan was out trying to steal. Bowman fanned Hendricks for the final killing.

Don't waste your vote on Saturday, May 13. Cast it for S. A. L. Morgan, the only home candidate for congress who can win. (Political ad.)

PUBLISHER MUST FIGHT RACING CASE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Justice Hoehling, in the supreme court of the District of Columbia today overruled a motion of counsel for Edward B. McClean, Washington publisher, to dismiss the suit brought by Samuel Ross for a percentage of the winnings of the Porter, a stake horse.

McClean contended that the agreement alleged by Ross, whereby the latter was to receive one-third of the horse's future winnings, would have been null and void if ever made—because it would be in violation of the district's laws against gambling.

Justice Hoehling refused to dismiss the suit, however, and directed Mr. McClean to put on his testimony in opposition to the claim of Mr. Ross.

COYOTES WILL MEET TEXACOS

Bourland To Work For High

By "HANK" HAYES.

After mowing down all opposition in the school class of baseball, the Wichita Hi "Coyotes" are all set to match the "Dub" Davis's diamond demonds of the Texas Company City League leaders, who contend that their slugging nine is entirely out of the scholastic class, but are willing to engage the lads for some practice.

The Presbyterians of the City League took a sluggish contest from the Red and Black nine at the early part of the season, but at the clip the youngsters have been going since, only a fast, well trained nine will be able to stop them, and not a team of working boys that have very little time to devote to practice.

Bourland and Ross, who will do the battery work for the "Coyotes" will show the Texacos very little encouragement as to winning the contest. The Leaguers will choose either Burnett, Harris or Sandusky as moundsman, and perhaps all three if the youths still have the batting eye that caused some five high school clubs to take their championship hopes back to their city tucked away in their batting bags for some future date.

The Texas Company will bring their .420 polers and non-defeated stars to the high school diamond at the corner of 18th and Holliday, Thursday, afternoon to stage the batting bee upon Coach Henderson's Heartbreakers.

TEXAN BATTLES G. O. P. ON GRAFT

Daugherty Charges War Fraud

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—In a detailed statement concerning the prosecution of war fraud cases, prepared at the request of the president and transmitted today to the house, Attorney General Daugherty declared that examinations so far completed disclosed in each instance "sufficient indication that a crime has been committed to warrant submitting them to a grand jury."

Presented on the eve of a republican resolution for investigation of charges charges of alleged laxity in prosecutions by the department of justice, the attorney general's letter provoked a partisan row, in which Representative Garrett, the democratic leader, broadly intimated that it was intended to smother the proposed investigation.

May Act On Motion.

Representative Mondell, the republican leader to whom Mr. Daugherty's letter was sent by the president, did not indicate in reply to a question on the floor as to whether it meant the resolution, already given privilege status by the rules committee, never would be heard from again.

Taking issue with the attorney general, Representative Woodruff, republican, Michigan, declared the former was requested six months ago to appeal to congress for half a million dollars to clear up his war-time docket and that he never acted until republicans had assailed the department in the house.

The Michigan member asserted that a republican congress could not "face the country" in an election unless it clears up war fraud cases "which smell to high heaven."

Charging that "little or nothing" had been done by the former administration to bring robberies to light, Mr. Daugherty wrote the president the country would soon have reason to know that "influential personages in the government who had knowledge of these transactions and were in a position to make disclosures, were personally interested in concealing them."

Hundred Million Out

The department, he said, was handling upward of 200 war contract cases, and if recoveries were obtained in all, the total would reach $100,000,000.

It was a terrible thing the attorney general said, to charge a citizen with robbing his own government and for that reason he had insisted upon a painstaking investigation of all cases involving charges of criminality. It was regrettable, too, he declared, that public attention "should have been so strongly focused on these cases on the eve of their prosecution." Two cases of "the first magnitude" were ready for prompt submission, he said, adding, however, that investigation showed others "lurking in the shadows" and involving in the unlawful transaction, and that principals and different groups of individuals in different parts of the country might be indicted soon.

To Try All

At the conclusion of the reading Mr. Mondell said that the attorney general's wishes would be complied with "to the end that all who defrauded the government will be brought to justice."

Representative Garner, democrat, Texas, asked Mr. Mondell if he intended to pass the Woodruff investigation resolution.

"At the proper time and in the proper way that question will be answered," the republican leader replied.

Declaring that democrats had not opposed republican resolutions for investigation of the war, Mr. Garrett wanted to know if the attorney general's letter meant that the Woodruff measure was dead.

"It was introduced by responsible republicans," he said, "and reported out by the rules committee. In answer to that what does the attorney general say? He says, 'don't investigate my department, but give me half a million dollars; don't investigate, but give me twenty-three more judges; don't investigate, but give me another grand jury.'

"And the republican tells you the congress will give all he wants speedily."

Mr. Garrett tried to get Mr. Mondell to say whether the attorney general's letter really meant the resolution was dead.

"Was it the intention by having it read to indicate to the house that this was the end of the chapter," Mr. Garrett asked, but there was no reply.

The main question, said Mr. Mondell, was to find out "how much thievery there was under the democratic administration during the war" adding however, that the investigation period had passed and that "the cases are approaching trial."

Joe Bashara Wins Speaking

Fourteen members of the public speaking department of the Wichita Falls high school assembled last night at the auditorium to try their best to win the "Talbert medal" in extempore speaking.

The subject given them for discussion was "Vote for the new high school and Junior college." From the fourteen picked speakers of the school Joe Bashara took first honors and the medal. Edward Kadant ran him close second and Gage McDermett received third place. All the entrants showed good form and made excellent preparation, but the ones that had previously been in debates and the elimination of declamation, had an edge on the others which they showed in their talk.

The speakers brought forth many new and good points in regard to the that made a good impression on the audience.

This is the second year that Mr. Talbert has had this contest staged and each one increases in numbers. Merlimer Clopton won the honors last year and was ineligible to compete this year, as only one boy may win the medal for one time, and give the rest of the pupils a chance for his token.

MORGAN ASKS HOME SUPPORT

"Race Won, If He's Backed Here"

"I have this congressional race won if the home people do not go to sleep and fail to go to the polls Saturday, or if they do not allow themselves to be thrown off their feet and vote for a man who perhaps lives as close to Wichita Falls as I do, but who did not get into this race until the eleventh hour."

This was the statement of S. A. L. Morgan, candidate for congress in this district, when called on for a talk at the University club luncheon Tuesday. Mr. Morgan said that he would not make a political talk, but would merely make a report upon the situation." He spoke of the fight he had been making for the office for the past six months. Invitations were originally addressed to Morgan and to Quinn Williams for a joint appearance, but the latter did not show up.

Mr. Morgan was introduced by Guy Rodgers, judge of the county court at law, as the "only home man who can win, and the man who will win this election."

"I have spent my time and money in the effort to win this race, and I will win if my home folks stay by me," Morgan declared.

He spoke on only two of the issues of the day, spiritedly denouncing the tariff in all its forms and ramifications, and opposing the proposal of one of his opponents for the establishment of a system of credits against farm commodities. The latter, he declared, is paternalism in the government, and declared that what the farmers needed more than loans against crops they were holding, for improved markets were free markets in the first place for their goods.

Mr. Morgan made two statements in connection with the tariff—first that it did not bring the vaunted protection to American workmen, because, he charged, that American manufacturers had imported vast numbers of the foreign workmen whose competition they inveighed against, and second that under tariff protection manufacturers in this country sell products in foreign countries at prices almost 50 per cent of that charged in this country. The price difference between that sold in foreign countries against European competition, and that charged Americans, he said, came out of the consumers' pockets. He instanced the latest statements by observations made by him on a trip round the world a number of years ago.

This district and this state is primarily a consuming section, the speaker declared, and could only sell their wheat and cotton and meat and other products under conditions which allowed the freest trade with foreign countries. Shut off from trade with this country by a tariff wall, he asserted, England and other European countries would not send empty ships to this country for wheat, meat and cotton, but would bring these commodities back from Egypt and Argentine in ships which had carried goods to those countries under free trade conditions.

Mr. Morgan was preceded by Dr. T. S. Pittenger, who spoke on "Citizenship," a term which he eloquently defined in the course of his talk. His talk was aptly illustrated by the reading of several bits of poetry, one of which, he said, reminded him of the promises of politicians before election. This smiling thrust brought from Mr. Morgan later the good-natured reminder that he was "behind the game," or that he would have known that his campaign all over this district had been founded on the fact that he was not a "politician."

ELECTRA LEASE BRINGS $60,000

Denver Firm Pays $1,000 An Acre

Purchase of the interests of E. H. Winkworth and associates in a 60-acre lease of the Burnett tract, South Electra field, by Thomasson, Mallory and company, was announced Tuesday when the deal was closed by E. M. Thomasson, president of the company, who was in Wichita Falls from Denver, present headquarters. The lease is known as the Harris lease, and now has three producing wells, each from a different sand. Thomasson, Mallory and company already had an interest in the lease, Tuesday's transaction giving them all of the property. The sale was made on the basis of more than $60,000 for the 60-acre lease.

The company plans to move their offices from Denver to Wichita Falls in a short time. John G. Menke is in charge of the local field operations, their holdings at present including a lease in the Sunshine Hill district, which has four producing wells in the 600 foot sand, and a fifth, completed last Saturday, in the 800 foot sands.

The new purchase is in the district where the Planet and Texas Company's big new wells have aroused much interest in the past week or so, and preparations are being made to develop this 1900 foot sand, in addition to several of the shallow sands which have been found in the wells drilled. The new owners are preparing to thoroughly develop the lease.

The Sunshine Hill lease is also to be drilled for deeper sands, from which there is production on adjoining leases.

Mr. Thomasson, who is also president of the Guaranty Oil company, for which the other company is operating in Texas, expressed himself as being very enthusiastic over the prospects for the new operations.

His company will move their offices to Wichita Falls in the near future, he stated.

The Thomasson Mallory company has been operating in the Wichita Falls district since 1919, and have always kept in touch with local developments.

They are naturally much pleased with the newest developments in the Electra field.

JUNIORS MEET 'HENS' TODAY

Henrietta To Play Return Here

By "HANK" HAYES.

Coach MacMillan's Junior High aggregation is scheduled to hop the Katy for a trip to Henrietta this afternoon for a baseball contest.

The Juniors have been working steadily under instruction of the coach and are going to make their high school rivals sing a wicked willow. Friday afternoon the Henrietta "Hens" will return compliments with the Juniors and run up to this city for a return affair.

These games will complete the Junior High baseball calendar for this season, according to MacMillan, as school examinations will be prevalent for the next week. But the season has not been at all a bad one for the team playing their first year together; and most of them are under their sixteenth year. They have played the "Coyotes" close games and have won a large majority of their city league games. They took two out of three from the Burkburnett High school. Next year most of the lads will journey on to high school and furnish some good material for that nine.

Men who will accompany their coach on the trip to "Henville" include: Walker, Carrington, Gildwell, Perry, Jenkins, Woodson, Pearson, Martin, Damron, and Windom. Lyle, their best in the shortstop line, has quit school and Jenkins will probably fill the bill and Martin on the hot corner.

NEW CONCERNS LOCATING HERE

Three Retail Firms After Leases

Three new retail concerns are promised Wichita Falls in the immediate future, according to Hubert Harrison, manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Their names are withheld on request from the representative of the three firms who are now negotiating for leases here, he said, but will probably be made known during the next few days.

Captured Chinese Ships May Be Used To Quell Trouble

By Associated Press.

AMOY, China, May 9.—Two of the captured warships of the southern Chinese squadron are reported to have been sent to a point on the coast of Chekiang province by Sun Yat Sen, head of the southern government, the seat of which is Canton.

The exact destination of these vessels and the purpose of their voyage is unknown here, but it is believed to be in connection with trouble between Chekiang and the province of Kiangsu, which adjoins it on the north.

$27,000 Bonus Paid For Electra Lease

WARNS BARS TO CUT OUT BOOZE

Injunctions To Be Employed

Proprietors of soft drink "bars" were served notice by Police Chief McCormick and other officials of the police department Tuesday morning to forthwith quit the business of selling liquor, or suffer consequences which will include the closing of their places by injunctions issued out by the new city prosecutor, E. H. Gipson.

Places which have not been reported as selling intoxicants were included with those that are in the morning round, the officers expressing a wish to give all "fair warning."

The use of the injunction to permanently restrain operation of places from which intoxicants are sold is a new move of the police department, and raids which turn up booze in the future will be followed by the application of this instrument as well as action against the owners of the places, the new city prosecutor plans.

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, May 9.—Burkburnett voters approved the issue of $150,000 bonds for a new high school and new school construction at a special election here today by a vote of more than 10 to 1, the count being 142 to 14 in favor of the bonds.

Burkburnett schools have been badly congested during the past year, and high school facilities have been especially cramped. It is expected that some of the new buildings will be ready for use by next fall.

Salt Lake Area Menaced by Flood

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 9.—Warm spring weather has caused the streams in canyons adjacent to Salt Lake City to overflow, their banks and in the sugar house district basements are flooded, and homes in many instances are completely surrounded by water. FLOOD CAUSES ONE DEATH IN OKLAHOMA

By Associated Press.

Storm Shifts Suddenly Off

Somebody reported a big storm somewhere last night.

One report had it going in one direction, while others figured it had traveled elsewhere.

Byrne failed to see or hear of the one to the west.

The heavy cloud which lay to the south and east unloaded its burden of wind, hail and rain around Bellevue. The downpour was not heavy, nor was the wind strong. Communication with that city devolved the fact that no damage was done there.

Henrietta felt a touch of the wind, had a light rain, and an abundance of thunder and lightning.

But the big storm reported by somebody somewhere evidently did not storm.

VICE WAR IS STARTED HERE

All 'Dives' To Be Investigated

War against immorality has begun in Wichita Falls.

Every place where a "dive" is thought to exist will be investigated, warned and then prosecuted unless the evil practices found to exist are abandoned.

That was the statement made some time ago by E. H. Gipson, who stated to newspaper men that in the event he accepted the office of city prosecutor, that he would institute a diligent warfare against vice in this city.

Mr. Gipson gleaned considerable knowledge as to the best methods of exterminating lawlessness while he was connected with the adjutant general's department during his life in Oklahoma. He believes in beginning at the bottom of vice to conquer it.

In his conversation prior to his appointment, Mr. Gipson stated that it would be his aim while he acted as city prosecutor to rid the city of the perpetration of crime; it will not be so much his aim to go after the "hip-pocket" whisky sales, he pointed out as an example, as it will be to go after those dispensing to the "hip-pocket" characters.

Mr. Gipson, following the court proceedure yesterday morning, retired with Chief J. W. McCormick and began investigations over the city it is understood.

STUDENTS TELL OF AUSTIN TRIP

Orchestra and Pupils Divide Honors

In the pep meeting held at the high school auditorium yesterday morning, the representatives, to tell of their trip and how they were received at the state capital in the recent interscholastic meet.

Miss Genevieve Goff, the orchestra director of the local high school, announced that if she retold the "bouquets" that were handed the Red and Black orchestra, they would have had to charter a special coach to bring them home. The orchestra was gloriously received at Fort Worth and played till they had to beg away from a convention, being held there at the time. At Austin they played before the assembly at the debating hall, and likewise were entertained by Governor Neff and his family, being shown through the governor's mansion. Miss Littlejohn, a well known figure in the educational work of America, said that the Wichita Hi orchestra was the best high school orchestra that she had ever heard.

In the speaking department, Fred Couper sailed through all opposition and won a loving cup and a gold medal, and Governor Neff, in his presentation speech referred to Master Couper as "young Daniel Webster," Louise Scott took a bronze medal, representing third honors in senior girls' declamation. Misses Winters and Jones, girl debaters, won decisions from Hubbard City, Mt. Pleasant, Palestine, Midland, and in the final stretch lost a three to two decision to the San Antonio candidates, winning for themselves a silver medal each.

Leo Baldwin of the track and honors in the pole vault, said that field section, and winner of fourth some of the entrants were "birdmen" instead of vaulters. The pole vault was won by the Abilene youth, who sailed over the bar at 11 feet, 9 in. and was trying to best the state record but failed by a few scant inches.

The world record in the scholastic 100-yard dash was tied and Thomas of Electra set a new mark for the 440-yard dash.

In the tennis, Powers and Haynes of the Wichita Hi representatives took the majority of the sets from McClain, San Angelo, Sulphur Springs, then lost a hard fought match to Waco and took second honors.

Wichita Hi was the only school to sweep the preliminaries, and every entrant that got a place in the finals won some sort of an honor. Their total souvenirs for this trip were: a loving cup, a gold medal, 4 silver medals, 4 bronze medals, and 4 scholarships to the State university.

Brazos Bridge is Cause of Concern For Southern Road

While reports from the Brazos river, where officials of the Wichita Falls & Southern have been anxiously watching over the long steel bridge since the inset of flood conditions, indicate that the flood has passed its crest Tuesday afternoon, rains up the valley in the direction of Seymour were causing some concern through possible future rises.

Other railroad reports of late Tuesday were to the effect that streams were falling and that no interruption of traffic was expected without further rain. The tracks of the Southern near the Brazos are above the danger line, according to reports of officials of that line.

The M. K. & T. office reported a 200-foot washout at mile post 116. The lost crossing was expected to be repaired by midnight last night. The washout occurred over a crossing 15 feet deep.

Rivers along the Katy system were all reported receding.

No damage was reported by officials of the Denver railroad and the Wichita Valley.

Praises Hi School Orchestra On Its Recent Showing

Praise for the Wichita Falls High school oschestra, which played during the recent meeting of the University of Texas Interscholastic league at Austin was conveyed in a letter received by the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning from William L. McGill, manager of the Longhorn band.

After declaring that two thousand delegates to the league, in addition to thousands of university students had enjoyed their playing, Mr. McGill says of the orchestra:

"The Wichita Falls High school orchestra is a remarkable organization for a high school. It renders the most difficult music in an accomplished manner and its programs are highly entertaining."

WHEAT GOES HIGHER AGAIN

Close Unsettled At Small Gain

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Wheat averaged higher in price today, helped by reports of improved call from domestic millers and by talk of revival of foreign demand. The close, however, was unsettled 1-2c net lower to 1 1-4c advance, with May 1.37 7-8 to to 1.38 to 1.23 3-4. Corn lost half to 7-8 and oats 1-8c to 1-4@3-8c. In provisions the outcome varied from 10c decline to 15c advance. Deliveries on May contracts today were only moderate, 11,000 bushels, but receipts were large, 423 carloads.

Crowded conditions of elevators here tended to curtail local buying of corn and oats. Assertions that 750,000 bushels of corn had been sold to exporters failed to act as an offset.

Provisions at first had an upward slant in line with Log values, but later weakened somewhat as a result of commission house selling of lard.

COTTON GOES OVER 20 CENTS

May Sells Off To 19.70 Late In Day

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 9.—A sharp opening advance carried all deliveries into new high ground for the movement in the cotton market today owing to reports of further heavy rain in the western belt, and favorable trade advices.

The advance to 19.80 for October and 20.35 for May contracts met a good deal of realizing however, and there were reactions later in the day, with May selling off to 19.70 and October 19.40. October closed at 19.43, compared with 19.53 at the close yesterday with the general market closing steady net one point higher to 19 points lower.

The opening was firm at an advance of 10 to 47 points on the higher Liverpool cables, and private reports of continued heavy rains in Texas and Oklahoma. May was relatively firm.

After showing reactions of some 20 to 30 points, the market steadied up on the detailed weather reports showing fully the expected rains in the southwest and the outlook for continued unsettled weather with showers working into central belt sections. The buying was less active, and general than recently, however, and the market eased of fagain during the afternoon on renewed realizing with July declining from 19.80 to 19.20 and December from 19.83 to 19.40. Last prices were within a few points of the lowest.

Exports today 10,200 making 4,888,627 so far this season. Port receipts 10,200. U. S. Port stocks 900,663.

BUYING SLOW AND SALES OFF

Rails Rebound At Final Hour

By Associated Press.

NEW ORK, May 9.—Alternate recessions and rallies attended today's session of the stock exchange, an irregular to heavy tone prevailing at the close. The market's scope contracted visibly and total sales again fell slightly under the familiar million share line.

There was less selling pressure among leaders, the occasional reversals apparently resulting more from an absence of buying power than from any concerted efforts of the short interest.

Pools continued their maneuvers in several of the more obscure industrials and specialties, but their operations elicited little or no outside support. In active miscellaneous shares which followed in the wake of the March-April result had extreme losses of 1 to 3 points.

Rails were the day's only substantial features, their rebound in the final hour going far to reduce the average of declines. New Haven made a new high record for the year at 30 3-8 and several of the investment trans-continentals and coalers also improved. Sales amounted to 1,000,000 shares.

Further actual and prospective advances in prices of raw and refined oils were announced, but reports of another upward revision of published iron and steel were not confirmed. Traders were not inclined to pay much attention to the proposed senate inquiry into the steel merger underway.

The April tonnage report of the U. S. Steel corporation will be made public tomorrow. Movements of steel shares today gave no hint that bookings would show an increase over those disclosed in the March statement.

On the lighter inquiry money rates eased, all call loans being 4 per cent. All private loans for 30 to 90 days were made at slight concessions from the open rate, but long time accommodations remained unaltered.

Advices received by banking interests respecting developments at Genoa indicated less tension in that quarter. All foreign exchanges were substantially above yesterday's minimum quotations excepting remittances to Central Europe, bills on Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and Austria showing weakness.

Rate Situation Will Be Discussed

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—President Harding has summoned 15 of the leading railroad executives of the country, it was said today at the executive office, to attend a dinner at the White House, May 20, for the purpose of discussing the rate situation.

It is understood the president will ask the transportation chiefs to consider the possibility of adjusting railroad freight rates downward as a voluntary matter, because the interstate commerce commission membership is said to have concluded that it cannot legally compel reductions to any extent satisfying to sections of public and business sentiment.

The administration, accordingly, is said to have decided to resume again the method of treating directly with the railroad organizations to consider what can be obtained in the way of a satisfactory rate policy. Similar conferences were held last summer and fall.

Two semi-judicial government bodies have jurisdiction in railroad regulation, the railroad labor board as well as the commerce commission, in the fixing of wage rates which enter into operating expenses. President Harding, however, is said to have concluded, as he did last fall, that the executive might be of some service in dealing with the problems, though not interfering with the judicial standing of the two tribunals.

The commerce commission has had for weeks in its chambers discussion over the decision to be reached by it in the general investigation of transportation rate levels. President Harding has been told that the commission, in adjusting rates, is obliged to give "reasonable return" by edict of law to capital invested in necessary railroads under efficient and economic management, and that this requirement, notwithstanding recent increases in railroad earnings, ties the hands of the commission in attempting to lower rates. Although no longer required to fix rates which would assure railroads a 6 per cent return on capital, that provision of law having expired this spring, the "reasonable" requirements still governs.

OFFICIAL ELECTION STATISTICS

In the Record News of Sunday, May 7th there appeared a tabulated statement showing election statistics of 1920 for the 13th congressional district which purported to be from the World's Almanac and which were highly misleading and erroneous.

This table showed only 2898 votes cast for Mr. Harding in this district.

Examination of the official records compiled by the secretary of state show that Mr. Harding received 6,071 votes in this congressional district.

The Record News figures credit Mr. Harding with only 346 votes in Wichita county. The secretary of state's records show that Mr. Harding received 1,487 votes in Wichita county, One precinct in Wichita county, No. 13, gave Mr. Harding more votes than The Record News shows for the entire county—this can be verified by the record on file in the office of the Wichita county clerk.

The Record News figures credit Denton county with 450 Harding votes when in reality he received 900. The figures shown that only 175 votes were cast for Harding in Clay county while the official figures credit Mr. Harding with 458. Similar errors exist in each and every county vote given in the table.

In order to keep the records straight we submit the correct and official figures as compiled by Mr. A. L. Staples, secretary of state, giving by counties, the vote for the democratic, republican and American party presidential electors in the 13th congressional district.

Counties	Cox	Harding	Ferg'n
Archer	406	160	20
Baylor	632	145	61
Clay	1224	453	38
Cooke	2170	1003	93
Denton	1257	900	302
Jack	566	254	14
Montague	1714	474	53
Throckmorton	299	72	11
Wichita	3812	1487	26
Wilbarger	1117	335	34
Wise	2031	579	64
Young	1214	209	8
Totals	17,542	6,071	691

It will be observed that the Cox vote for the entire district was two to two and one-half times the opposition vote. With four candidates in the field, the republicans easily hold the balance of power in the special election to be held next Saturday.

In the entire congressional district there are 212 voting precincts—the republicans have active organizations in 175 of them officered principally by outstanding former democrats who have cast their lot with the republican party.

The candidate that gets the republican support will represent this district in congress for the unexpired term.

O. P. MARICLE,
T. B. SMOCK.

S. A. L. MORGAN
For Congress

—He is a Democrat

—He is a home man and deserves your support.

—He is the best qualified man in the race.

—It is conceded over the district by those who are familiar with the situation that he will win.

—True representation is what we need and not politics
