ARREST BURK CONSTABLE

SHANNON LANE CHARGED WITH TAKING BRIBE

Apprehension by State Rangers Follows Indictment Returned Tuesday by Grand Jury.

Officer and Deputy Alleged to Have Accepted "Hush Money;" Both Are Well Known in Oil Fields.

Shannon Lane, constable at Burkburnett, and L. S. Brannon, a deputy, were arrested at a late hour Tuesday night at Newtown by Rangers McCormick and Gonzaullos charged by indictment with conspiracy to bribe and accepting bribes.

The two officers were brought to this city at an early hour this morning. Attorneys were waiting their arrival to perfect bonds.

The indictments against the two men were returned Tuesday when the grand jury of the 30th District court made their final reports. In a partial report made ten days ago by the grand jury an indictment charging Brannon with the murder of a man by the name of Smith in the oil fields in May was returned. Brannon was out on bond on that indictment at the time of his arrest Tuesday night.

Both Lane and Brannon are widely known in the oil fields of the Burkburnett district where they have been officers for over a year. Details in connection with the indictments returned against them are not known.

Harding's Action on Oil Tariff Brings Flood of Criticism

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS,
Record News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The oil schedule lay lifeless in the tariff bill today, but its friends postponed their mourning until they have had a few words to say about it.

No one except those faithful friends could be found who believed more than 125 votes out of the house membership of 435 would finally be cast for it. But they determined to keep up the fight.

Certain republican advocates of the tariff to keep out the flood of Mexican petroleum believed that the reaction would be as strong against President Harding's interference in congressional handling of the item on its merits, as was the country's resentment of President Wilson's appeal for a democratic congress in 1918.

True, presidential interference brought a flood of protesting telegrams, but the individual republican member of congress much as he dislikes it, is prepared to take his medicine. He realizes that to vote the oil item into the bill after the president's request that it be voted down, would create a party situation of which the democrats would make much capital.

Congress apparently has abdicated its functions to the president, who, a few months ago, announced that he would respect the functions of the legislative branch.

A sample of the telegrams which poured in on senators and representatives today is the following to Senator Harreld from an Oklahoma independent oil man:

"President Harding's veto of the oil tariff has shocked and stunned the oil producing country. It disastrously affects several million individual workers, royalty owners, oil producers and share holders. It strikes down the principle of protection to American industry and substitutes protection to the big interests at the expense of the national welfare."

"It creates amazement that the president is out of sympathy with the weak, who need protection against the strong. I supported his campaign with the ardent hope for constructive betterment and like many others now realize the mistake I made."

The oil tariff proponents will proceed just as if the president had never written the famous letter to Fordney. They realize, however, that the president has lined up dozens of doubtful republican congressmen for petroleum on the free list.

Congressman Chandler of Oklahoma will speak Wednesday in favor of the bill and will be followed by Bowers of West Virginia and Watson of Pennsylvania.

DEMOCRATS FLAY G. O. P. PEACE TREATY

"Patched Up Porter-Knox" Resolution "Something to Be Proud of," Says Minority Party.

Publicity Chairman Asserts War Cloud Replaced by Peace Cloud, Adding Confusion to Situation.

By RICHARD LINTHICUM,
Publicity Chairman, Democratic National Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—"The peace that passes understanding," as Senator Fletcher (Dem., Fla.) characterized the patchwork Porter-Knox resolution, can now be listed as one of the "achievements" of the Harding administration, but just what it achieves no democratic member of congress pretends to know and the republican members who voted for it hold conflicting opinions.

The war cloud which disappeared with the signing of the armistice has been replaced with a peace cloud which has only added confusion to the peace situation.

Some of the outstanding contentions against the resolution as developed in the debate may be summarized as follows:

1. That it adds nothing to the state of peace which has existed since the armistice, because it settles nothing; that it is like a teeter totter, up and down, but without an inch of progress.

2. That President Harding shirked his constitutional duty of negotiating a peace and "passed the buck" to congress, resulting in this unprecedented act for which there is no constitutional warrant.

3. That the provision for holding alien property under the resolution until satisfaction shall be had of all claims of the respective governments is a contradiction of the provisions of the armistice; that it closes the doors of our own courts to American citizens with claims for damages against the German government.

4. That it ties the hands of our government in future negotiations by surrendering our status as a victor in the war, our right to dictate terms of peace and to accept such terms as Germany is willing to grant or to become the aggressor in renewed warfare.

Surrender of Rights.

5. That it is a surrender of our substantial and vital rights for an empty word.

6. That it is absolutely meaningless or deceptive.

7. That it does not restore diplomatic or trade relations.

8. That President Harding must now take the initiative in negotiating a peace that will re-establish prewar relations, whether it is called a treaty of peace or a treaty of amity and commerce.

9. That in the negotiation of such a treaty Germany has the "whip-hand."

10. That it is a practical surrender not only of our substantial and vital rights, but also, as Senator Underwood said, "that it is a surrender of our national honor, our national rights, and the rights of the American citizen which our boys fought to protect."

After the statement that the provision for holding alien property was a contradiction of the provision of the armistice, Senator Walsh (Dem.,

GRAND JURY INDICTS HONAKER FOR ALLEGED SWINDLING IN CONNECTION WITH FIASCO

Charged by indictment with swindling W. P. Honaker, widely known oil operator of this city and president of the East Wichita Oil Company, was arrested Tuesday night by officers of the sheriff's department. Immediately after his arrest Honaker was released on $2,500 bond for his appearance this morning when it is probable that he will be arraigned before Judge H. F. Weldon of the 30th district court.

The indictment against Honaker was returned Tuesday noon when the grand jury of the 30th district court made its final report. According to the indictment, the swindling charge was brought against Honaker for his alleged connection with the drilling of the famous wildcat test of the East Wichita Oil Company which was drilled on a farm owned by Honaker three miles east of this city.

The indictment is the second to be returned by a grand jury in connection with the operations of the East Wichita company. C. A. Williams, driller of the test for a period, is now confined to the county jail under $5,000 bond on an indictment which also charges swindling. Williams was indicted in May by a grand jury in the 89th District court. For several weeks he has been a trusty at the county jail.

The East Wichita Oil Company during the boom days of oil development of one to two years ago was probably one of the most widely known companies that ever drilled a wildcat test in this section.

For several months the stock of the company received a prominent play on the local stock exchanges, the stock selling as high as three to one.

After the test had been abandoned as dry for several months having been drilled to depth around 2000 feet drilling was resumed last January. The indictments returned against Williams and Honaker are in connection with the operations at that time. Due to reports of the showings obtained at the test there was considerable excitement here for a short period.

Honaker is well known in this city, being at present proprietor of a cafe on Indiana street. He was at one time connected with oil operations in the Electra field.

Joe Zolidek, one time director in the company indicted Tuesday by the grand jury, was arrested at his farm six miles east of this city late Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Stansbury and brought to this city at midnight. Zolidek is also charged with swindling for his alleged connection with the operations of the East Wichita Oil Company.

BONUS BILL APPARENTLY MEETS DEATH

Following Address to Senate by President, Leaders Claim Sufficient Vote Is Mustered to Defeat It.

Harding Asserts Measure Now Would Put Administration and Treasury in Embarrassing Position.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Pledges of a wide majority of votes to lay aside the soldier bonus bill were claimed by republican leaders and conceded by opponents after President Harding in an address to the senate today had made formal request for temporary postponement of consideration of the measure. In making this request the president called attention to the condition of the treasury saying that enactment of the legislation at this time would "greatly imperil the financial stability of our country."

Immediately after the president had finished speaking, Chairman Penrose of the finance committee moved that the bill be recommitted to his committee, but democratic opposition prevented a vote today. The motion was under limited debate, but a vote tomorrow was expected.

President Harding delivered his address at 2 o'clock before a distinguished audience. Reiterating his recognition of the obligations to care for disabled and dependent war veterans, the president said:

"General compensation," should be entered upon at a time when it would be consistently possible.

"Overburdening of the treasury now means positive disaster in the years immediately before us," the president declared, "the merest prudence calls out in warning."

Although the bonus bill was the president's major subject, he also urged action on tariff and tax legislation for which the extra session especially was called. There was, he said, "confessed disappointment that so little progress had been made on the readjustment and reduction of the war time taxes." He also urged early passage of the bill to reorganize war risk and vocational training services aiding former service men.

Following is the full text of President Harding's address to the senate:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

There has come to my attention the pending unfinished business before the senate, and it is an imperative duty to convey to you the probable effect of the passage at this time of the proposed act providing compensation to our service men in the world war. If this measure could be made effective at the present time without disaster to the nation's finances and without hindrance to imperative readjustment of our taxes, it would present an entirely different question than that which is before you. In a personal as well as a public manner, which ought to be a plight of good faith, I have commended the policy of generous treatment of the nation's defenders, not as a part of any contract, not as the payment of a debt which is owing, but as a mark of the nation's gratitude. Every obligation is to the disabled and dependent. In such reference as has been made to general compensation there has been a reservation as to the earliest consistent time for such action if it is taken. Even without such reservation, however, a modified view would be wholly justifiable at the present moment, because the enactment of the compensation bill in the midst of the struggle for readjustment and restoration would hinder every effort and greatly imperil the financial stability of our country. More, this menacing effort to expend billions in gratuities will imperil our capacity to discharge our first obligations to those we must not fail to aid.

Measure Brings Peril.

"I am addressing the senate directly because the problem is immediately yours, as your unfinished business, but the executive branch of the

WILL REQUEST GOVERNOR TO CITE GRAFTERS

Representative Moore Plans Resolution Calling on Neff to Make Specific Charges of Mismanagement.

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 12.—A resolution calling upon Governor Neff to appear before the house and senate appropriations committees and show where graft is taking place in the capitol and who the grafters are, will be introduced at the special session of the legislature by Representative Moore of Hunt county, a member of the house appropriations committee, who made the announcement today.

Governor Neff charged in speeches at Corsicana and Mexia last Saturday that there was graft and padding of expense accounts taking place in the state capitol and said that he could name the individuals who were committing these acts and the departments in which they were taking place.

"It is nothing more than right that the governor should show to the legislative finance bodies where we can save money by getting rid of grafters and bogus draft artists such as he called attention to in his recent speeches, said Representative Moore. "In this resolution I will propose that the governor come before these two committees and point out these irregularities and name the departments and the individuals who are guilty of such acts. If expense accounts are being padded and payrolls carry bogus employes I think the finance committees should know about it."

Representative Moore said that his resolution would be courteous and respectful to the governor in every way and merely ask that he substantiate his charges.

IRISH LEADER IN LONDON TO MEET PREMIER

Eamonn De Valera Arrives in English Capital for Peace Conference.

LONDON, July 12.—Eamonn DeValera, the Irish Republican leader, and his colleagues are now in London for the purpose of discussing with the British government the troublous Irish situation. According to present arrangements Mr. DeValera will meet the prime minister in the famous cabinet room in Downing street at eleven o'clock Thursday morning.

It is not known whether this will be a tete-a-tete meeting between the premier and Republican leader, but it is belived that Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland; A. J. Balfour, Lord president of the council; Lord Birkenhead, Lord high chancellor, and possibly General Smuts, the South African premier will be on hand to join in the conference. Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, at present in Belfast will return to London Wednesday, and also will be available, if his presence is needed.

Mr. DeValera and his party received a boisterous welcome on their arrival in London this evening. They were offered government hospitality during their stay, but elected to accept the good offices of their own friends. The members of the Irish party are stopping at a hotel only a stonees throw from Buckingham Palace.

DISARMAMENT PROPOSAL FROM HARDING MEETING UNIVERSAL APPROVAL IN ALL COUNTRIES

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—President Harding's proposal for an international conference on disarmament and related subjects has been received with so many expressions of approval abroad that officials here already are beginning to turn their thoughts to details of the meeting and of its work.

Although the first definite acceptance that of France, did not reach the state department until today, it was learned that all but one of the powers invited to the conference had given informal assurances of co-operation in the president's plan. Officials would not disclose which nation had not responded, but press dispatches from abroad have indicated the missing reply was that of Japan and that it would be forthcoming in the near future.

The expectation here is that preliminary negotiations will be completed by late fall, and armistice day, November 11, has been suggested as a possible date for assembling the delegates here. This feature of the plan, it was explained, will, of course, be subject as developments may dictate, but it is accepted as virtually certain that the meeting place selected will be the American capitol.

In their consideration of the subjects to be discussed at the conference, officials are dealing only with such specific subjects as disarmament and the Pacific situation, but they are keeping in mind that in the end the conversations may offer an opportunity for the broaching of the association of nations plan which has been suggested by Mr. Harding from time to time. In highest administration quarters, it was said today that although the meeting had been called for other purposes, it would not seem unnatural that such an association might be discussed in the general search for ways and means to make the peace of the world secure.

INDEPENDENTS PLEASED WITH PIPE VERDICT

Will Save Many Operators From Destruction, Oil Men Declare.

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS,
Record News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Mid-continent independent oil producers here today hailed as relief from an unexpected source the report of Examiner B. Keller to the interstate commerce commission in which Keller held as unreasonable the requirements of the Prairie Pipe Line Company that shippers tender oil from Oklahoma and Texas fields in quantities not less than 100,000 barrels.

The minimum, Keller said in his report, should be not less than 10,000 barrels. Rates of 20 cents a barrel for gathering the oil from wells and transporting it to trunk pipe lines in the Pennsylvania fields were held not unreasonable.

Independents declare the decision will have far reaching effect. The pipe lines are the only purchasers of the oil and the refusal to take less than 100,000 barrels could not be met by the little fellows, many of whom were frozen out by the big fellows. Forcing the pipe lines to accept 10,000-barrel quantities will save many independents, it is said.

HARDING ASKS DEFERMENT ON BONUS BILL

government owes it to both houses of congress and to the country frankly to state the difficulties we daily are called upon to meet, and the added peril this measure would bring.

Our land has its share of the financial chaos and the industrial depression of the world. We little heeded the growth of indebtedness or the limits of expenditure during the war because we could not stop to count the cost. Our one thought then was the winning of the war and the survival of the nation. We borrowed and loaned—individuals to the nation and the government to other governments. It was relatively easy then, because national life was at stake. In the sober aftermath we face the order of reason, rather than act amid the passions of war, and our own land and the world are facing problems never solved before. There can be no solution unless we face the grim truths and seek to solve them in resolute devotion to duty. After a survey of more than four months, contemplating conditions which would stagger all of us were it not for our abiding faith in America, I am fully persuaded that three things are essential to the very beginning of the restored order of things. These are the revision, increasing reduction of our internal taxation, the refunding of our war debt, and the adjustment of our foreign loans. It is vitally necessary to settle these problems before adding to our treasury any such burden as is contemplated in the pending bill.

Unthinkable To Expect Revival.

It is unthinkable to expect a business revival, and the resumption of the normal ways of peace while maintaining the excessive taxes of war. It is quite as unthinkable to reduce our tax burdens while committing to our treasury to an additional obligation which ranges from three to five billions of dollars. The precise figures no one can give. If it is conceivably true that only two hundred millions a year will be drawn annually from the treasury in the few years immediately before us, the bestowal is too inconsequential to be of real value to the nation's defenders, and, if the exercise of the option should call for cash running into billions, the depression in finance and industry would be so marked that vastly more harm than good would attend.

Our government must undertake no obligation which it does not intend to meet. No government fiat will pay our bills. The exchanges of the world testify today to that erroneous theory. We may rely on the sacrifices of patriotism in war, but today we face markets, and the effects of supply and demand, and the inexorable laws of credit in time of peace.

At the very moment we are obliged to pay 5 3-4 per cent interest for government short-time loans to care for floating indebtedness, a rate on government borrowing, in spite of tax exemption, which ought to prevail, in private transactions for the normal interest charged in financing our industry and commerce. Definite obligations, amounting to seven and a half billions in war savings certificates, victory bonds and certificates covering floating indebtedness, are to mature in the two years immediately following, and the over burdening of the treasury now means positive disaster in the year immediately before us. Merest prudence calls in warning.

Our greatest necessity is a return to the normal ways of peace activities. A modest offering to the millions of service men is a poor palliative to more millions who may be out of employment.

Stabilized finance and well established confidence are both essential to restored industry and commerce.

Slump War's Aftermath

The slump which is now upon us is the inevitable part of war's aftermath. It has followed in the wake of wars since the world began. There was the unavoidable readjustment, the inevitable charge-off, the unfailing attendance of losses in the wake of high prices, the inexorable deflation which inflation has preceded. It has been wholly proper to seek to apply government relief to minimize the hardships and the government has aided wherever possible, and is aiding now, but all the special acts ever dreamed of, all the particular favors ever conceived, will not avoid all the distresses nor ward off all the losses. The proper mental state of our people will commit us resolutely and confidently to our tasks, and definite assurances as to taxation and expenditure will contribute to that helpful mental order. The only sure way to reach normalcy is over the path nature has marked throughout all human experience.

With the approval of congress the executive branch of government has been driving toward that decreased expenditure which is the most practical assurance of diminished taxation. With enthusiastic resolution, your administrative agents are making not only conscientious effort to reduce the call for appropriations, but to reduce the cost of government far below the appropriations you have already provided. It is easy to believe that the only way to diminish the burdens which the people must pay is to cut the outlay in which public moneys are expended. War is not wholly responsible for staggering costs, it has merely accentuated the menace which lies in mounting cost of government and excesses in expenditure in which a successful private business would not tolerate.

"I Make No Promise."

"I can make you no definite promise in figures today but I can pledge you a most conscientious drive to reduce government cost by many millions. It would be most discouraging to those who are bending their energies to save millions to have congress add billions to our burdens at the very beginning.

Even were there not the threatened paralysis of our treasury, with its fatal reflexes on our activities which concern our prosperity, would it not be better to await the settlement of our foreign loans? At such a time it would be a bestowal on the part of our government when it is able to bestow.

The United States participates in none of the distributable awards of war, but the world owes us heavily, and will pay when restoration is wrought. If the restoration fails, world bankruptcy attends. I believe the world restoration is possible, but only with honest, diligent work in productivity on the one hand, and honest and diligent opposition to needless public expenditure on the other.

If the suggested recommitment of this measure bore the merest suggestion of neglect or a hint of national ingratitude, I would not urge it. It has been my privilege to make to congress on our obligations to the disabled and dependent soldiers and, the government's deep desire to prove its concern for their welfare. I should be ashamed of the republic if it failed in its duty to them. Neither armistice nor permanent peace puts an end to the obligations of government to its defenders or the obligations of citizens to the government. Mindful of these things, the administrative branch of the government has not only spoken, it has acted and has accomplished.

File 813,442 Claims.

In view of some of the things which have been said, and very carelessly said, perhaps I ought to report officially some of the things which have been done. In the department of war risk insurance there have been filed up to July 7, 1921, compensation and insurance claims numbering 813,442, of these 747,786 have been adjudicated at the expense of $471,946,762. There were 200,000 claims pending when the war risk department was reorganized late in April this year, and the number of pending claims has been reduced by 134,544. All work in this department will be current by the 21st of this July; that is to say, all action which the bureau may take on a given case will be current, though new claims are being filed at the rate of 700 per day.

There have been requested 887,614 medical examinations, and less than fourteen thousand await medical action. Up to July 7, there have been 26,237 disabled soldiers hospitalized, and in government controlled hospitals today there are six thousand available beds without occupants. You are already aware of the progress toward the construction of additional government hospitals, not because we are not meeting all demands, but to better meet them and the better to specialize in the treatment of those who come under our care. There has been paid out in allotment and allowances the sum of $578,465,858, and nearly four billion of government insurance is in force.

In vocational training and rehabilitation of disabled soldiers there have been enrolled today 107,824 men. Today there are 75,812 men who are training with pay at the maximum cost of $160 per month; 8,208 training without pay but at a tuition and supply outlay of $36 per month. Four thousand disabled men have completed their training and have been returned to gainful employment. These earned an average of $1,051 per year before entering the army and are earning today in spite of their war disability and in spite of diminished wage or salary levels, an average of $1,560 per annum.

Is Fine Achievement

It is an interesting revelation and fine achievement, attended by both abuse and triumphs. Congress has appropriated sixty-five million dollars for this noble work for the current year, but the estimated acceptance of training for the year before us contemplates an average of 95,000 disabled men, and the cost will be in excess of $163,000,000 or nearly a hundred million more than congress has provided. This additional sum must be made available. With the increase of availability to training as recently urged upon congress, the estimated additional expenditure will be $468,000,000 per annum, until the pledge of training is discharged. These figures suggest neither neglect nor ingratitude. It is more than the entire cost of federal government for many months following the Civil War, and challenges every charge of failure to deal considerately with our nation's defenders. I do not recite the figures to suggest that it is all we may do, or ultimately ought to do. It is inevitable that our obligations will grow and grow enormously. We never have neglected and never will neglect the dependent soldier, and there is no way to avoid time's remorseless classifications.

Contemplating the tremendous liability, which the government will never shirk, I would be remiss in my duty if I failed to ask congress to pause at this particular time, rather than break down our treasury from which so much is later on to be expected. The defenders of the republic amid the perils of war would be last of our citizenship to wish its stability menaced by an individual pittance of peace.

"I Know Feelings"

I know the feelings of my own breast and that of ours and the grateful people of this republic. But no thoughtful person, possessed with all the facts, is ready for added compensation for the healthful, self-reliant masses of our great armies at the cost of a treasury breakdown which will bring its hardships to all the citizens of the republic. Its enactment now in all probability would so add to our interest rates that the added interest charge on new and refunded indebtedness may alone exceed the sum it is proposed to bestow.

When congress was called in extraordinary session I called your attention to the urgent measures which I though demanded your consideration. You promptly provided the emergency tariff, and good progress has been made toward the much needed and more deliberate revision of our tariff schedules. There is confessed disappointment that so little progress has been made in the readjustment and reduction of the war time taxes. I believe you share with me the earnest wish for early accomplishment.

It is not expected that congress will sit and ignore other problems of legislation. There are often urgent problems which must enlist your attention. I have not come to speak of them, though the reorganization of the war risk and vocational training, now pending, would hasten the efficient discharge of our willing obligations to the disabled soldiers.

But I want to emphasize the suggestion that the accomplishement of the major tasks for which you were asked to sit in extraordinary session will have a reassuring effect on the entire country and speed our resumption of normal activities and their rewards which tend to make a prosperous and happy people.

DEMOCRATS FLAY G. O. P. PEACE PARTY

Montana) declared, "that if the American government is not willing to abide by the obligations it undertook with that event it is disgraced before the world."

Senator Walsh, who is one of the ablest lawyers in the senate, also enlightened Senator Lodge on the difference between a pension and a payment of damages.

Senator Pomerence (Dem., Ohio) likened the passage of this resolution to the historic instance of General Joseph E. Johnston and General Breckinridge negotiating terms of surrender to General Sherman, when General Sherman demanded, "Who is surrendering, you or I?"

"If we pass this resolution," said Senator Pomerence, "I will want to know who is surrendering, Germany or the United States?"

In a plea for the "old order of things," Senator Jones (Dem., N. Mex.) asked, "why can we not follow the paths which have been laid out by the fathers of our country? This is an innovation. Nothing of the kind has ever before been attempted. Why should it be attempted now? Has it come to this, that the great American nation is willing to play politics with our foreign relations and with the honor of our country."

Concerning the effect the peace resolution might have on the withdrawal of American troops on the Rhine, Senator Brandegee (Rep., Conn.) was convinced that they would be withdrawn at once, but this is a matter upon which republican opinion here is divided.

There are 13,000 American troops in Germany which is obligated to support them. The expense of their maintenance to date is about $270,000,000. Whether they will be withdrawn before a treaty is negotiated or before payment for their maintenance no one is authorized to say.

Senator Brandegee was also quite sure that no treaty of peace would be necessary, but thought that a treaty of amity and commerce might follow. Representative Towner (Rep., Iowa) declared in the house that President Harding would negotiate a treaty.

Senator Brandegee admitted that Germany could not make any arrangements by a treaty which would be in conflict with the arrangements on which she has entered by the Treaty of Versailles.

RECIPES FOR A DAY

Crown Roast of Lamb—Remove membrane and excess fat. Wipe thoroughly with a damp cloth. Sprinkle well with salt and pepper, place upon the meat a few stalks of celery and green pepper, carrots and onion, and use but little water in the pan. Baste frequently that the meat may absorb a slight flavor of the vegetables.

Cook thoroughly, allowing forty minutes to the pound. Have the oven hot at first to set the juices, then decrease the heat. Place the parboiled potatoes in the pan with the meat, season them, baste and bake until brown.

Fresh Mint Sauce—One-fourth cup finely chopped mint leaves, one-half cup vinegar, one tablespoon powdered sugar. Add sugar to vinegar; when dissolved pour over mint and let stand thirty minutes on back of range to infuse. If the vinegar is very strong dilute with water.

Apricot Ice—One and one-half cups apricot pulp, two cups sugar, three cups water, one-half cup lemon juice.

Use one can of apricots and put through coarse sieve. Make syrup of sugar and water by boiling together ten minutes. Cool syrup and add with lemon juice to apricot pulp. Freeze to a mush, let stand one hour or more to ripen.

COOKING HINTS

To Cream Butter easily scald the bowl before using.

Omelet Making—If your omelets burn because you have no omelet pan, put a tablespoon of common salt in the frying skillet. Put on the stove and heat very hot. Empty salt from the pan, wipe it with a dry cloth. Cook the omelet with a small quantity of butter and it will not burn easily.

If You Spill Milk or grease never wash it with hot water; it spreads and makes it worse.

SUGGESTIONS

To Make Rubbers Wear doubly as long as usual cut from the side of an old rubber or a heavy piece of broadcloth a piece the shape of the heel, a little larger than the heel and paste inside. One will find that the shoe cuts through the piece pasted into the rubber and the rubber is thus saved.

For Starching Muslin, ginghams and calicoes, dissolve a piece of alum the size of a hickory nut for every pint of starch. This will keep the colors bright for a long time.

The Water on Cut Flowers may be kept sweet for a long time without changing if a rooted slip such as coleus or geranium is kept in the vase. The flowers also keep longer.

To Take Shine Off serge skirts, dilute four teaspoons household ammonia in one teacup of warm water; rub briskly on the shiny spot and press immediately.

To Destroy the Taste of castor oil beat the oil with the white of an egg until both are thoroughly mixed.

THE MARKET BASKET

By JESSIE WETZEL KNOTT

Do you known how to select cantaloupe at the market? A local market man of wide experience told me the other day that the net of the rind was an almost infallible guide. The heavier the net, the more fully mature the melon. "A light net," he said, "is almost always a sign of immaturity." In the long list of varieties only one does not net, the Osage Gem; a Michigan melon, which will not be on the market for several weeks yet. Many cantaloupes are coming in from California.

The peach crop does not promise much to the housewife who is planning to have peach butter, peach preserves and the piquant spiced peaches next winter. Just now we are between the early and late crop of Southern peaches. The Carman, the first of the late crop, are beginning to come in, and the early Albertas will be here in about two weeks. While these are small it would not be a bad idea to plan to can some of them, as the late freeze did much havoc to the peach crop in Illinois and Michigan, and not many peaches are expected. Colorado and Utah have about a 60 per cent crop, but much of that will be absorbed in the West.

Oranges and lemons are high, but plentiful. The hot weather is making a big demand for them.

The peak of the strawberry season is past. If you want to can any and haven't done so as yet, better take what the market offers as soon as possible. Berries are coming in exclusively from Michigan—twenty carloads came in by boat yesterday. The season has not been as good as it promised early in the spring, on account of that belated frost that robbed us of so many fruits and flowers.

Good asparagus is coming in from Alton and from Ottawa.

Hothouse cucumbers still outnumber the field-grown varieties, although the latter have started coming into the local market from Florida and Louisiana.

Iceburg lettuce is being shipped from Washington. It is expensive, much more expensive than the home grown varieties, but it is so sweet and crisp that the demand continues good.

Cabbage, beans and onions are plentiful. The onions are cheap, selling for not much more than half what they were a year ago. In some of the markets they are retailing for as little as 3 cents a pound. Use them freely.

A few old potatoes are coming into the market from Michigan and Illinois. Florida, Texas, Louisiana, Kansas and Missouri are shipping new potatoes from South Carolina and Virginia are plentiful and reasonable.

Florida is sending some excellent watermelons, sweet and good, and for another two weeks it will be the only state represented on the watermelon counter. Then, however, Georgia and Texas will begin shipping, with Oklahoma close behind.

A few currants have arrived from Tennessee, Mississippi is shipping blueberries and blackberries.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

ANOTHER RUSE TO THWART CHERRY.

That evening at dinner Cherry related her experiences to the family.

Jane was most enthusiastic about the contemplated changes in the shop, and was loud in her praise of Cherry's ideas.

"Old man Hamlen must be almost bustin' with surprise," said Jack, grinning over at his sister-in-law. "He never makes changes, as I know of. Art's always at him to get a new slant on things, but the old man tells him that his ways have been good enough for Wellsburg folks for thirty years, and he's satisfied that they're right."

"My, he certainly must be topsy-turvy in his mind by now, then," answered Cherry, as she remembered the many changes she had suggested.

"I guess Art talked him over to let you have your head. Because Art's got a heap of sense, anyhow. I'd like to see Mrs. Hamlen's face when the old man tells her what's going to happen. She believes that the millinery department was pretty well perfect"

"I'll care all criticism with my creations. Just wait and see, Jack," laughed Cherry, positively, "No one will be able to stand up against them."

"Seems too bad that you got the work just now, Cherry," broke in Mrs. Randall, gently, "because Phoebe's been pestering me to let her go home and see her old mother for a month or so, and I think I'll have to soon. That will leave me most of the work to do. And now with you away! It would have been easier if you would have been my right-hand woman during her absence."

"I'll have heaps of time to help you, mother, never fear," answered Cherry. "Why, I leave Hamlen's at about 3 o'clock or 3:30—that gives me several hours in the afternoon to help you, if you need me. And we can all make our own beds every morning, and dust the rooms. It means getting up half an hour or so earlier—but what of that."

"Maybe," sniffed Mrs. Randall. "Still, I hate to be left alone all day long."

Cherry pondered within herself just wry her mother-in-law had made this remark. It was not as though Phoebe's going home on a well-earned visit were something new in the family, for such was not the case, for at regular intervals, now, for many years, Phoebe had insisted on being allowed to depart to her family, and there rest up from her arduous labors of the year.

Therefore, it must be some other subtle reason that had prompted Mrs. Randall to arouse Cherry's sympathies on behalf of her coming loneliness? Ah, ha! No doubt it was because of the new job. The lady of the manor was undoubtedly taking this new note in matrimony very hard. She was going to do her best to have her turbulent daughter-in-law tamed to her tune! What better excuse than that of Phoebe's absence? The big house to take care of alone!

"Clever," thought Cherry, as she went on with her salad, "but not genuine enough somehow or other."

"I'll agree to tend to the getting of dinner every evening that Phoebe's away, mother," she suggested, after a few moments. "Then maybe Jane would wash the dishes? Anyhow, we can manage perfectly between us, and without upsetting anybody or their work."

"Splendid idea, lady-bird, and just like you to come forward like that," said Ned, proudly. "I tell you, mother, this little Cherry is a wonderful girl in every way. And wait till you taste her dinners. Mm! I have, often. She's every bit as good a cook as she is designer, No doubt about it, either!"

"Don't boast too hard lest I disappoint you all. But picase be easy in your mind, mother, about our taking all the hard work off your hands while Phoebe is gone."

"Well, I don't know," said Mrs. Randall, still dubious, "I'll hope for the best, though, and I feel sure you mean well, Cherry. Still, our ways may not be your ways in the kitchen, dear."

RICE DE LUXE.

One of the coolest things in the world, on a stifling summer night, is punch nicoise, as served at the Astor. To make this, prepare an orange water ice, using 4 cups of water, 2 cups of sugar, the juice and grated rinds of 2 oranges and a tablespoon of orange flower water or a tablespoon of orange extract. Strain and freeze to a soft mush. Then add gradually 2 more cups of sugar and the whites of 6 eggs beaten stiff. Freeze until solid and serve in serbet glasses and top with sprigs of fresh mint. The recipe serves ten persons.

Diplomate pudding offers a new—and one might say highbrow—use for left over cake. Chop together a few cherries and raisins and three-quarter cup of currants; cut into small dice a number of slices of cake; place these ingredients in a mold and pour over them a custard make from 2 cups of milk, 4 eggs and three-quarter cup of sugar and flavored with vanilla. Bake in a medium hot oven, in a pan of water, for half an hour. Turn out of mold when very cold: serve with a sauce made from crushed red currants and sugar syrup.

HERBS USED IN MEDICINES

A Manchester, England, paper urges the renewed cultivation of old fashioned medicinal herbs in English gardens. In the United States they have also gone out of fashion as a feature of the small garden, although they are imported in large quantities from Turkey, India and China, where they are grown purely for commercial purposes, as their medicinal value is recognized by many leading physicians. Tons of medicinal herbs are used annually in the preparation of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most successful medicine for woman's ills. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and women afflicted with such ailments should try it.

RUBE HURLS SPUDS TO WIN IN SECOND GAME AFTER FIRST IS KICKED AWAY DISGRACEFULLY

By C. F. CARTER

When a ball club can't hold a six-run lead gathered at the end of the second inning—what's the sporting editor to tell the fans? Answer us that, and go to the head of the class. You guessed it; he's got to tell the truth, that the Spudders played dumb ball in the opening game of yesterday's twin bill; that Abe Bowman failed to give a very perfect imitation of Christy Mathewson at his best; that the infield and outfield at times looked more like a sieve than a stonewall, and that Umpire Daly didn't favor either team on balls and strikes—he just nach'lly robbed 'em both!

And then we'll have to add as a ray of sunshine that Rube Marshall lived up to the many good things we have been saying about him recently, showed a great brand of twirling in the second game, and won a hard-earned 2 to 1 victory for the Spuds.

The score of the opening pastime was 11 to 10 for the Hampats, who refused to be beaten despite the six-run lead mentioned above; who reduced said lead bit by bit, and finally by collecting three tallies in the ninth inning wiped out the lead altogether and romped away with the battle.

To give Bowman his just dues we'll add, however, that Umpire Daley repeatedly got the big fellow in a hole on balls and strikes. Bowman is a "corner worker," and Daley repeatedly declined to give corners. And when Abe socked 'em over in the groove, the Marines socked 'em back with great enthusiasm.

With two out in the first frame of the first game, Jim Galloway slammed a triple against the right field wall, and scored when Buddy Tanner pegged wild to third. Considerable argument arose over the play, Tex McDonald claiming that Umpire Kane ran in front of Tanner's throw, making it impossible for Tex to grab the pill. But the run was in. The inning ended when Conley filed to Jake Miller.

The Spudders got the run back with interest in their half. Bescher walked and went to second on a wild pitch, and romped on to third while Tanner was being thrown out at first. Bob was nailed at the plate, however, when McDonald bunted into Tipple's hands on an attempted squeeze play. Wilson, Dallas catcher, was spiked when Bob hit the dirt on his slide home, and Robertson replaced him. Danny Clark then smashed a terrific drive over the fence in right center, one of the hardest hit balls ever seen at the local park—and McDonald strolled in ahead of him. Miller was thrown out at first.

Tipple Knocked Out.

In the second Dan Tipple was driven to the showers by the Spudders, who scored five times. Works and McElwee both walked, and were sacrificed along by Kitchens. Bowman hit to Palmer, who threw wild to the plate, and Caddy and Mac both scored, and Abe went to second. Bescher singled to right and Bowman held up at third. Buddy slapped another single to the same hole, Bowman counted and Bescher went to third. Buddy stole second, and McDonald rammed a two-bagger to left center that brought Bob and Buddy home standing up. Ham Patterson yanked Tipple, sent Sniper Conley to the hill and put Smith in Sniper's place at short. Clark fouled to Galloway and Miller popped to Smith.

But, as we remarked before, the Spudders couldn't hold the big lead. In the fourth the Marines counted four times after two men were out. Galloway was safe on McDonald's error, and he and Conley scored when the Sniping One drove a circuit clout over the left field fence. Mattick walked, Segrist singled and Bowman hit Robertson, filling the bases. A single to center by Smith sent two of the runners across the rubber. Munson also drew a pass, and Skinner kindly shot a fly to McElwee for the third out.

The Spudders got two more also in this frame by dint of solid hitting, and also collected another in the fifth, making the score 10 to 5. But the Marines came back with two tallies in the sixth, and one in the seventh—and then the dod-gasted fatal ninth rolled around.

Ninth Inning Is Ruin.

Galloway opened with a single to right, and went on to second when McElwee let the ball break through. Conley singled to left, and Galloway was held at third. Salm yanked Bowman and sent Rube Marshall to the mound. Rube turned loose a wild pitch that permitted Conley to reach second, Galloway remaining on the third cushion. Palmer walked, and Mattick flied out to Miller in deep center. Galloway scored after the catch. Segrist walked. Robertson hit to Clark, who tossed to Buddy for the double. Buddy stepped on the bag and forced Segrist, who tripped Tanner as he came in to the bag—and the best Buddy could do was to half stumble and throw the ball in the dirt—and two runs came home for a Marine victory. Rube struck out Smith.

All of the scoring in the second battle came in the opening inning. Munson led off for Dallas with a four-ply wallop over the left wall. Skinner doubled to left. Then Marshall settled to his job. Galloway flied to Miller, Conley fouled out to Bescher and Palmer struck out.

Tipple Yanked Again.

In their half the Spudders bagged two counters without a hit. Bescher was hit by a pitched ball and went to second on a wild pitch. Mattick dropped Tanner's fly, and Bob went to third. Buddy reached second on a passed ball, and Bescher scored when Robertson threw wild to third. Buddy went to third on the play. McDonald drew a base on balls, and then Ham Patterson for the second time yanked Dan Tipple, this time sending Lefty Swartz out to finish for him. Clark flied to Skinner in short center, but Jake Miller drove Skinner farther back for another fly, and Buddy scored after the catch. McElwee flied to Conley.

From that point on the Marines didn't have a look in. Rube Marshall showed every bit of the stuff we saw him display in Fort Worth, and in batting practice in Shreveport. With the exception of two lonely singles Rube didn't permit a ball to be hit out of the infield throughout the next six innings of the seven-inning pastime. He fanned 'em when he could, and when he couldn't he had 'em hitting to the infield—and the infield during the second game, we are proud to state, played stellar ball.

Yes, the discouraged fans who went home after the first game, missed a swell exhibition in the second; a good exhibition of twirling by the big Reuben, and some classy fielding behind him—not to mention the fact that Lefty Swartz did considerable hurling hisself.

Up men, and at 'em again today—and don't forget, fans, Thursday's game will be called at 11:00 o'clock in the morning.

The score:

Kellog hurled a pretty game for the ex-collegians, errors early in the game contributing chiefly to the Pond scoring. Raley, after getting away to a good start, was hit hard in the closing frames, and the University club ran away with the contest.

MORRIS STILL HOLDS OFFICE AS BOSS OF WEST TEXAS LOOP

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 12.—President Walter Morris of the West Texas League has not resigned his office yet. Club owners of the loop requested his resignation recently. Morris has taken the matter up with Secretary Farrell of the National Association of Professional baseball leagues. Other troubles of the league will be cleared by Secretary Farrell, according to a statement from the West Texas League headquarters here today.

WISDOM AND WORSE

BY C. F. C.

Just why Fort Worth sporting writers should be so bitter against Walter Salm because the Spudder pilot voted for a split season is something difficult to understand. The telegraphic vote was 5 to 3 in favor of the split, and will some one kindly explain why some of that Fort Worth abuse is not directed also at the heads of the other four other bosses who voted for a new deal?

"Wouldn't I have been a fat fool not to have voted for splitting the season!" Salm exclaimed to us the last day the Spudders were in Shreveport. "When the matter first came up I opposed the split, because we had an important series coming up with Houston and another with Fort Worth, and the team appeared to be going good then. But after Houston had taken two games, and Fort Worth four out of five, and a second vote was requested, did I have a right to change my mind? I'll say I did! I wouldn't have been working for Wichita Falls under those circumstances if I hadn't voted to split the season—no, you know I wouldn't."

Salm was quite right. He was working for the Spudders, and while they had a chance to cop the gravy he was willing to gamble on the full season. When that chance was badly weakened, he wisely changed his mind. Those boys in Fort Worth have simply been eating too much meat during the recent hot spell—their blood is overheated.

We'll wager Bill Ruggles, the demon statistician of the Texas league, welcomes the split. It's a lot easier, Bill, to start figuring from zero than it is to sweat over an ever-increasing heap of totals. Just add the figgers for both halves later, William. Let's start fresh.

The ninth annual tournament of the Texas State Checker association will be held in Dallas beginning August 9th. First we thought, with the big fight ancient history, we'd have trouble finding enough sporting news to fill the page daily—but we feel better now.

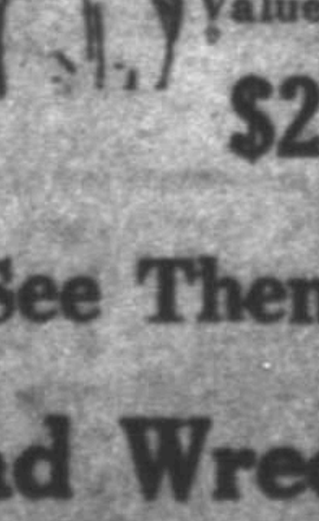

If we could only get some good "action pictures" of the winner and the runner-up!

Carpentier now has signed with Tex Rickard to defend his light heavyweight championship. Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

We have at various times used the name of Layton Little in this column. Nothing could have shocked us more keenly on our return home than to learn of his unfortunate death. "Late" Little was universally loved by the good sportsmen of this section. He had a smile for everyone; he was generous and kindly to a fault; he believed in clean athletics, and he lived straight and played the game fair. Many hearts have been saddened by Layton's death. We will miss him more than we care to say.

SHOULD CURB WHITE CAPPING SAYS JOHNSON

Belief that some tendencies of certain secret societies, reported in operation in the state, should be curbed was expressed Tuesday by Representative B. F. Johnson, who with his family expected to leave Wednesday morning for Austin to attend the special session of the legislature. The purposes of such societies were declared by the representative to be beyond reproach and when strictly adhered to an asset to the country at large. "However," Mr. Johnson said, "I feel that in some sections of the state the good name of one organization is being encroached upon by individuals who use its name in carrying out what is nothing more than white capping."

Mr. Johnson said that he did not contemplate submitting any bill on the question, and that like all other proposed legislation it would depend on the nature of the bill what action he took when it was called on the floor.

Mr. Johnson declared that at present he was more favorably impressed with the proposed "bootlegging bills," which he formerly opposed. He refused to commit himself concerning his probable vote on the bill, however. Mr. Johnson originally opposed the bill on the ground that it considered every one guilty until proven innocent. Mr. Johnson asserted that the bill was directly contrary to all the laws of jurisprudence of our nation.

Several suggested amendments, changing the general outline of the proposed law, were said by Mr. Johnson to give the bill a more favorable appearance according to his judgment.

Belief that the new truck tax bill, in which the mileage feature is entirely eliminated, will be passed without difficulty, was expressed by Mr. Johnson. The new bill proposes to tax commercial vehicles according to the weight they carry on the roads. It also proposes a heavy tax on trucks, not equipped with pneumatic tires.

The fees for trucks and tractors are announced as follows:

"For each commercial motor vehicle the annual license fee shall be based upon the net carrying capacity of the vehicle, and tire equipment, as follows:

Net Carrying Capacity in Pounds	If equipped with Pneumatic Tires	Solid Tires
1 to 2000	$ 15.00	$ 18.00
2001 to 3000	30.00	36.00
3001 to 4000	40.00	48.00
4001 to 5000	50.00	60.00
5001 to 6000	65.00	78.00
6001 to 7000	80.00	96.00
7001 to 8000	100.00	120.00
8001 to 9000	120.00	144.00
9001 to 10,000	150.00	180.00

"No motor vehicle shall be licensed under this Act with a net carrying capacity greater than ten thousand pounds.

"For each tractor, the annual license fee shal be based upon the weight of the tractor as follows:

	Annual License Fee
1 to 2000 pounds	$ 5.00
2000 to 4000 pounds	10.00
4001 to 6000 pounds	15.00
6001 to 8000 pounds	20.00
8001 to 10,000 pounds	25.00

COMPANIES FILE NAMES WITH CLERK

Numerous companies and merchants of the county Monday and Tuesday filed certificates with the county clerk giving their trade names in accordance with the law which became effective Sunday and which compels all incorporated firms to file the trade names at once.

Following are the provisions of the act passed by the last session of the legislature and considered to be one of the most important laws regulating business names ever on the statutes books of the state:

"No person or persons shall hereafter carry on or conduct business in this state under any assumed name or under any designation, style, corporate or otherwise, other than the real name or names of the individual or individuals conducting or transacting such business unless such person or persons shall file in the office of the clerk of the county or counties in which person or persons conduct or transact or intend to transact such business, a certificate setting forth the name under which such business is or is to be conducted or transacted, and the true or real full name of the person or persons conducting or transacting the same, with the post-office address or addresses of said person or persons. Said certificate shall be executed and duly acknowledged by person or persons so conducting or intending to conduct said business in the manner provided for acknowledgment or conveyance of real estate."

Exception to Rule

This section means that businesses conducted exclusively in the true name of its owner or owners are not required to make the filing.

The act provides that persons who already are operating their business under a trade name or an assumed name or title will have thirty days after the law becomes effective to make their filing, according to the law, a copy of which has been received by Allen G. Young, superintendent of the Bradstreet Company of Fort Worth.

Section 3 provides that whenever there is a change in ownership of any business operated under any such assumed name the person withdrawing from the business shall file a certificate with the county clerk, stating that he has withdrawn from the company. This section states that "until he has filed such certificate he shall remain liable for all debts incurred in the operation of said business."

Index Ordered Kept

County clerks are ordered by the new law to keep an alphabetical index of all persons filing certificates. A copy of the certificates duly certified "shall be presumtive evidence in all courts of law in the state of the facts therein contained," the law states. It is provided that the county clerk shall charge a fee of $1 for each registration.

Failure to comply with the act constitutes a misdemeanor. Section 6 states that violation of the act would call for a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $100. It also says that each day any person or persons shall violate any provisions of the act shall be deemed a separate offense.

RAISE SHARE OF MONEY FOR TARIFF FIGHT

Two-thirds of Wichita Falls quota of $3000 to carry on the campaign for a tariff on crude oil has been raised and the committee composed of N. H. Martin, C. W. Reid and Clint Wood, hope to collect the remainder early Wednesday. Other cities throughout the oil belts of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana are actively co-operating in this movement and the fight will be continued until the permanent tariff bill passes the senate, according to local officials of the Southern Tariff association who are assisting in the tariff campaign.

Colonel A. E. Humphries of Mexia wired the Wichita committee Tuesday and pledged $500 to the oil tariff fight and volunteered his services to further the work. "I am heartily with you in your efforts to protect the American oil producer," Colonel Humphries' telegram states, "and you are authorized to draw on me for $500 to help defray your expenses. I will co-operate in every possible way to help this good cause along."

Many local oil producers are of the opinion that agitation for an import duty on oil has prevented a further cut in the price of crude and that the tariff advocates by directing the attention of congress and the public to the serious plight of the independent producer have rendered a great service to the oil fraternity.

C. A. Kleinman received a telegram from the Washington headquarters of the tariff association Tuesday stating that the recent resolutions advocating a tariff on crude oil adopted by the independent oil men were read by Chairman Fordney on the floor of the house Tuesday morning and that they were loudly applauded by both democratic and republican representatives. The telegram also stated that sentiment among house members was favorable to retaining the present oil schedules with a possible chance to increase them.

Following news of President Harding's attitude toward the tariff on crude oil a telegram was sent to the chief executive Tuesday afternoon, signed by about 500 business men of Wichita Falls. The telegram follows:

"Your letter to Chairman Fordney opposing a duty on Mexican crude oil as reported in morning papers is a severe blow to the independent oil producers and allied industries and if made a policy of your administration will absolutely destroy the independent oil industry. We are still hopeful, however, that under your able guidance that a real American tariff bill will be written—one that will equally distribute the resultant benefits or burdens among all industries and sections alike.

"The urgency for a tariff on oil is made manifest by the fact that thousands of oil workers are walking the streets looking for employment while their families are starving; the bankruptcy courts are crowded with former prosperous oil producers who are daily taking the papuer's oath and business throughout the oil-producing sections is at a standstill.

"These conditions are directly chargeable to the great volume of free Mexican oil that is permitted to come into this market and glut and destroy the domestic markets, thereby driving the selling price far below production costs. We sincerely hope that you may withdraw your opposition to this measure which means the life of our industry."

RAILWAY OFFICIALS TO RETURN ACCUSED FIREMAN TO DUTY

Inspectors employed by the interstate commerce commission have visited the scene of the explosion, the superintendent said.

SAYS BOLSHEVIK OUTRAGES HIDDEN BY PROPAGANDA

By Associated Press.

GLASGOW, July 12.—In current issue of Forward, the Glasgow Labor weekly, Ramsay MacDonald the well-known Socialist labor leader, who at one time was accounted an extremist, and was even accused of being a Bolshevik by some of his enemies, attacks the Russian Bolsheviki.

"I see," he writes, "that the campaign of calumny and untruthfulness designed to cover up the iniquity of the Bolshevik tyranny in Georgia is being continued. My readers can take it without a tremor of hesitancy that Georgia was overrun by an army which it was too weak to fight successfully and that it is today being held down by force and by committees of directors backed by the Eleventh Army of the Moscow republic.

"Georgia today is governed by a revolutionary committee nominated by the Council of Commissaries set up by the army of invasion toward the end of February last. They have destroyed every vestige of representative government including municipal councils and trade union organizations like the Tiflis Soviet which I saw in working operation. Every Socialist who is still alive is 'suspect.'

"In Batum, Kutais and Poti there are one thousand in jail for being Socialists or Trade Unionists. Freedom of press and speech does not exist."

Railway Torn Up

By Associated Press.

RIGA, July 12.—According to the Moscow Isvestia, 700 miles of railway track are to be torn up in Russia so that the material may be used in repairs and new construction of important lines under the new program which ordains that the trunk lines shall be put into a state of efficiency.

The plans are to construct, or complete the construction of an aggregate of about 2,700 miles of track on one half of which the rails have already been laid. Some of the existing lines will be completely eliminated. No further purchases of steel rails are to be made abroad this year, it is announced.

CALOMEL LOSING OUT IN SOUTH
Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Responsible for Change for the Better.

Every druggist in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it." Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much but if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, just ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day.—Adv.

AND NOT hog the deal,
SO I phoned my broker,
TO SELL me out,
AND THE very next day,
SLIPPERY ELLUM slipped,
TO FIFTY-FIVE,
SO NOW I've gotten,
BACK MY bonds,

ASPHALT TRUST THROWS HAT IN THE RING.

Now the Asphalt Association of America has thrown its hat in the ring. Its publicity agents and propagandists are very busy in the city of Washington. They are button-holing congressmen; they are besieging senators; they are using all their influence to prevent an import duty on Mexican crude. They say that it will increase the cost of operating motor cars and trucks; that it will increase the cost of the refined asphalt and road oils manufactured from Mexican oils; that it will add to the cost of building bituminous roads and streets. They say that it will not only result in increased cost of road building but will curtail the supply of asphalt by 50 per cent. They say there are in this country forty-one factories engaged in the manufacture of asphalt shingles and prepared chiefly from Mexican oils. They say these mills represent an investment of $150,000,000. Their publicity agent and legal sky rocket throwers declare that more than 60 per cent of the entire supply of asphalt required for paving and roofing purposes is now derived from Mexican oil; that there is no suitable substitute and that except in the case of the Mexican and California oils the available petroleum supply in the United States when refined yields paraffined products instead of asphalt. Who owns the asphalt companies? Who owns the mills? Who owns the cement plants, or "to cut to the bone," who owns the controling interest in these enterprises? There are hundreds of independent oil producers in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana. Are these operators to be placed at the mercy of the producers and importers of Mexican and South American oil in order that the hearts of the asphalt and cement kings may be glad and their coffers swollen to magnificent proportions by the refusal of a republican congress pledged to protect all alike to give adequate protection to the men who have hundreds of millions invested in the petroleum industry and who are to be made or marred by the congress in its final vote on the Fordney tariff bill.

WHY DON'T THEY FISH FOR WHALES?

Texas is a cotton state, a livestock state, a petroleum producing state, a wool producing state and a mohair producing state. Texas is a lumber producing state, a gas producing state, a bituminous coal and lignite producing state. Texas has nu-rivalled beds of sulphur and salt. All the raw materials of the world and many of the minerals of the world are found 'neath Texas skies. All these are wealth producers. Why should Texans quarrel about trifles and give no heed to the hig things of the commonwealth? There are shadow dancers who imagine they are mighty reformers and ghost dancers who are forever seeing things evil and yet they never contribute a dollar to the wealth of the commonwealth, never a thought to a developing movement and never lend a hand to a building movement. This should be the hour for the safe and the sane of America, the men who wish to construct, who wish to create, who wish to do something, to make the world and its people a better and more prosperous place to live and to devote their brain and their time to the substantial things of life. There are men who are forever fishing for minnows. Why don't they fish for whales?

A NEW FACE IN THE GALLERY.

Hart Willis of Dallas has pushed a new face into the state picture gallery. He is the senator-elect from the Sixth district, the richest and one of he most populous of the thirty-one. Born in Missouri, reared in Montana, educated in the first colleges of America, a Texan by adoption and only thirty-six. He knows what he believes and says what he thinks. He is going to Austin as an opponent of the Johnson law enforcement bill; he is opposed to the repeal of the suspended sentence law but favors modification; he is for the repeal of the motor truck law and the enactment of a fairer law in its place and lastly he is for efficiency and economy in the conduct of government. Senator Willis says no law is higher than its source and in the last analysis of government all laws are supposed to come from the people, and as the Johnson bill attempts to remove the existing judiciary and law enforcement officers, elected by the people and place them in control of the executive branch of the government, it does not appeal to the young senator from the headwaters of Trinity navigation. This new senator is of the sane and safe type according to his friends and the business men of Dallas gave him hearty support. By the way, business men from every section of the state will be asked to stay in Austin during the special session. This program was launched by the leaders of Dallas business interests and thought. They plan to secure co-operation of the people in every part of the state in the movement to prevent an increase in taxation and to bring about greater economy in the state government. They are opposed to every appropriation except those absolutely necessary. They are right. Dallas has a senator and five representatives. They are pledged to hearty co-operation with the business men. All property owners and taxpayers should favor this movement. This is not the hour of shadow dancers who are tax eaters or ghost dancers with special axes to grind. Cost of state government has reached the peak. It is greater than in war time. Now the representatives of all industries and all classes should come together and see that something is done to reduce taxation, to force the strictest economy in the expenditure of the money of the people, to lop off sinecures, to abolish useless jobs, to see to it that office holders and employes give the people full and efficient service and to lift some of the load from the shoulders of the wealth producing and tax paying element of the commonwealth. There are many fanciful theorists holding or hoping to hold office in Texas. They are very free in their paper bills making appropriations for this and that fertile scheme or so-called uplift hi-jacking. Federal taxes are very high and are going to remain very high for years to come. There is no reason why states taxes should be permitted to remain at the topmost peak and the cost of government mark $3 today where it marked $1 ten years ago. Either the machinery is out of joint or the machinists are not governed by business principles.

SPEAKING OF THE ARKANSAW TRAVELLER.

Arkansas is an oil producing state. Congressman Oldfield is a democrat and a member of the ways and means committee of the house. By his vote he is ready to flood America with Mexican crude duty free, despite the showing made by Omer K. Benedict, representing the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, whose membership comprises most of the producers of Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Louisiana, Arkansas and other western states. Omer K. Benedict talked to the national lawmakers in the language of the plain people. He said that the market value of crude oil produced in the United States had shrunk since the latter part of January over $2,600,000 a day (an annual loss to producers of $1,000,000,000 which is reflected in all dependent lines of business, and probably will cause a decline in Texas for 1921 of several hundred millions of dollars. He declared this shrinkage is a result of sweeping reductions in the price of gasoline. He did not mince his words. He spit it out in English with the bark on. He said concerns or combinations of great capital are storing millions of barrels of domestic petroleum which has been displaced in the market by cheap imported oil, the price of which they fixed and during the period of demoralization they will purchase for a fraction of their real worth many of the independent producing properties of the United States because of the financial necessities of their present owners. In closing his indictment he made the prediction that in the end these gigantic combinations will be more securely than ever entrenched "in the dominating control of the entire oil industry." Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, a state which bids fair to become one of the greatest producers in America, if operators are given substantial encouragement, turned his back on the producers of the Southwest and declared for free oil from the producing fields of Mexico and South American countries where labor is almost as cheap as the dirt under their illy-shod feet and living conditions in keeping with the wage doled out to the native worker. If the protective system is to prevail, if all American industries are to be given protection against the cheap goods of the old world and the pauper labor of the European and Asiatic nations of the earth, why should the thousands of daring American developers and builders engaged in this greatest of all games of the hour be throttled by discriminatory tariff legislation and forced to fight labor and living conditions in other countries which their employes cannot meet and their financial resources cannot withstand.

HIS WORST FOE.

"His own worst enemy," men said, when Jasper Piffleton lay dead. And Jasper, who would never save, was dumped into a cheap-john grave. This Jasper, in his younger days, ranged high among the gilded jays who drew big pay and blew the same in every vain and idle game. His friends beseeched him to reform and guard against the day of storm by storing safely in a crate the kopeck and the piece-of-eight. The village banker gave advice and said, "Some day you'll lack the price; then you'll regret, in scalding tears, the folly of these wasted years." But Jasper Piffleton ignored the wise man's counsel, and was bored. Then countless jaspers lost their jobs; the streets were full of hungry mobs. Our hero joined the jobless men and never could get back again. Oh, now and then he earned some plunks, by painting gates or packing trunks, or dumping turnips in a bin—and evermore he blew them in. And when advancing years brought ills, he could not buy Doc Dingbat's pills, which heal all pains and raise the dead and grow new whiskers on your head. And so one bleak and dismal day this Jasper gent was laid away among the paupers on the hill; the county dourly paid the bill. "His own worst foe," the sexton sighed, and filled the grave, and let him slide.—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

They say whiskers are coming back into style. But the rumor was probably started by those who already wear them.

YOU WIN.

Dear Roy: The other day a friend asked me if I was "broke." I answered without a moment's hesitation: "Say, you ought to know by this time that a Scotchman is never broke." Was I right? You can bet your boots I was. —"Mac."

I believe it is strange that a man's stenographer now and then leaves out a word, while his wife never does.

I believe, considering present prices, while this may not be exactly the land of the free, it certainly is the home of the brave.

DEMPSEY WON HIS FIGHT DURING THE "CLINCHES"

Breakfast Stories

"Was there much of a gathering to see the ship start?" asked Col. Edwards, whose servant had been down to the wharf.

"Yessuh. Dey was a monstrous lot o' folks."

"And was the crowd tumultuous or quiet."

"Well, suh," replied Mose doubtfully, "dey wasn't zachly too multuous, I shouldn't say. Nossuh, dey was just about multuous enough fo' de occasion."

The congregation of a certain church was greatly annoyed by a noisy brother who disturbed every service with loud groans and cries of "amen' and "hallelujah." Several of the members had tried to persuade him to listen in silence, but without success.

Finally, one Sunday morning the man entered quietly and kept perfectly sitll throughout the service. At the close of the sermon the pastor asked how the matter of silencing the disturber had at last been accomplished.

"Why," replied one of the deacons, "I went to him yesterday and asked him if he would give a dollar toward the new carpet."

A maid servant was left in charge of the children while her mistress went for a long drive.

On her return the mistress said to the maid:

"How did the children behave during my absence, Catherine? Well, I hope?"

"Beautifully at first, ma'am," Catherine answered. "But they finished up with a terrible fight."

"Why did they fight?" the mother asked.

"To decide which was behaving the best, ma'am."

SIX PLEAD NOT GUILTY TO CHARGES

Six men indicted by the session of the grand jury of the 30th district court which made its final report Tuesday noon pleaded not guilty to the indictments when arraigned before Judge H. F. Weldon immediately after the final report had been made.

Vernon Darby, charged with having killed John Whitman, local tailor, on the night of April 18; Henry J. Toussaint, charged with the killing of his father, O. H. Toussaint, in February, and Dan Bennett, alleged to have killed George Gentry on May 17, all pleaded not guilty to the murder indictments returned against them.

Wiley Smith pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with having robbed with firearms Virgil Grissom in June and Wade Muse pleaded not guilty to a charge of statutory rape.

Smith will be tried July 25, Bennett July 20, Toussaint July 27, Wade Muse August 3, Darby August 8. Special venires of 100 men each were ordered in all cases except that of Muse.

Judge Weldon, in announcing the settings, also said that all cases now pending in the 30th district court, including all of the cases arising from the 51 indictments of the grand jury returned Tuesday, were set for trial on July 20. He stated that although only the case set for trial on July 20 would probably be tried on that day, all others should be prepared for trial on that date or any other following that might be decided upon.

In addition to the above indictments five others were made public Tuesday, the men indicted in all cases being under arrest. M. M. Faulk and Paul Bergfelt were indicted for arson in connection with the burning of a tent belonging to a minister at Newtown on the night of July 2. The indictments were the first indication that any investigation was being made in connection with the supposed incendiary origin of the fire. In addition to the arson indictment, Faulk, in another bill, is charged with possessing spiritous and malt liquors containing more than 1 per cent alcohol.

J. A. Richards of this city is charged with assault with intent to commit a statutory offense.

John Edwards is charged with theft of over $50. He is alleged to have stolen an automobile belonging to C. H. Featherstone.

A. H. Keedy is charged with swindling over $50. He was indicted at a previous session of the grand jury.

VARSITY CLUB HEARS LECTURE ON IRRIGATION

Further illumination of the widely discussed irrigation project by A. M. McPherson, local engineer, and F. N. Lawton, manager of the district, and a witty dissertation on efficiency by Kenneth A. Millican, of San Francisco, manager of the efficiency department of the Bankers Utilities company, and excellent music featured the weekly luncheon of the University club Tuesday noon at the Kemp hotel.

"The surest way of having 100,000 population in 1930 in Wichita Falls is by the irrigation project which will attract more people here and cause greater prosperity than the oil boom, without the evil after effects of the oil excitement," Mr. McPherson declared.

"As long as the prosperity of Wichita Falls depends on the oil business, its future is a gamble; but with the thousands of acres of fertile lands the future permanence will be assurred," he said.

The opinion that the Wichita Falls project was entirely feasible and more fortunately situated naturally than any he had ever seen was passed by Mr. McPherson.

"This project is different from similar works in the unsettled west where a man to go in and buy irrigated land must be a pioneer," he said. "This country is already settled and consequently will attract more people than in the case of the western irrigated lands."

A word picture of Wichita Falls in 1930, with the irrigation work finished, thickly built from Lake Wichita to Iowa Park, which he said would be a suburb of this city, was painted by the speaker.

Some of the common questions that have been raised as difficulties of the project were answered by Mr. McPherson. One is that the soil of this section is too strong with alkali for crops to grow very well. A test of the soil, he said, had shown that the soil is not excessively alkali. The water in the irrigation ditches will not be salty on account of it being rain water, he said.

F. N. Lawton, general manager of the irrigation district, gave a short talk on the progress of the work, as well as some of the difficulties which have been met. Final reports from both the consulting engineers, the Morgan comapny and John C. Thompson, of New York, on the engineering and financial sides of the project are expected in the next few days, he said.

Mr. Millican gave a very humorous talk on efficiency in "shearing the public," as he called the banking profession. There are three points of contact between the banks and the public, he said, which should be stressed equally, he said. These are personal contact, correspondence and telephone conversation. Courtesy at all times was stressed by the speaker as being the surest way of keeping on friendly and agreeable terms with the customers.

Frank Loew gave a piano selection of his own composition, which he named the "University Club March," and Mrs. George Thorburn delighted the audience with a vocal solo, accompanied by Mr. Loew.

GRAHAM NO. 3 REPORTED WITH FLOW OF 500

The Emerich and Danciger No. 3 Graham, in the west side of the McCluskey-Graham pool at South Bend was reported Tuesday as flowing at the rate of 500 to 600 barrels daily, from the 2,500 foot sand.

This well had been a gasser in the 2,100 foot sand, and has just been drilled deeper. It makes the fourth oil well brought in on this lease, and is one of the nicest completions of the past few months in the pool, according to the reports.

THIEVES TAKE JEWELRY AND LIVE POULTRY

Daylight prowling, chicken stealing, accessory thefts and three automobile thefts were included in the list of burglary reports received Tuesday morning by Detective Chief W. A. Boyd.

A wedding ring and wrist watch, taken from a bride of a few weeks, was reported as the loot obtained by a daylight prowler who entered the Avondale rooms Tuesday at noon. The articles were reported to have been stolen from Mrs. Colgen.

Sixty White Leghorn chickens were reported taken some time Monday night from their coops on the premises of Owen Johnson near Charley.

A Buick roadster was reported by E. R. Call to have been stolen from a downtown street some time Tuesday night and W. B. Waites, R. R. No. 4, reported a Buick touring car stolen during the same night. A Ford roadster was reported by C. A. Woodfin to have been taken from its parking place in the oil fields.

Two Goodyear casings, reported by M. Bernstein, a Ford wire wheel reported taken from 1403 Fourteenth Street and a Howe cord casing reported by W. W. Montgomery, completed one of the largest lists of stolen articles received in several days by local police, according to W. A. Boyd, chief of detectives.

DELIVERY BOY REPORTS BIKE THEFT

The theft of a bicycle was reported to the police Tuesday by R. T. Huffman, 12 year old delivery boy from the Smith Drug store, 720 Ohio St.

The boy reported that he left the bicycle in front of the store for a short while and then when he returned to get it it was gone.

MAYOR AND ATTORNEY GO TO GAS MEET

Mayor Walter D. Cline and City Attorney Edgar Mann left Tuesday night for Dallas to attend the meeting today of the city attorneys representing the twenty-one towns and cities interested in the injunction suit of the North Texas Gas company against the Lone Star Gas company.

The meeting will be called at 11 o'clock this morning at the Adolphus hotel. It is expected that at the meeting definite conclusions will be arrived at as to the part the cities will take in the suit which it is conceded involves the future gas rate of the cities securing gas from the North Texas Gas company, a distributing company, which obtains its gas from the Lone Star company.

BOYD THINKS PROWLERS SET FIRE TO HOME

Belief that prowlers who were fired at as they fled from a chicken house were responsible for a blaze which destroyed a six-room house belonging to Tom Banks on the Lake road and near the Downing swimming pool early Tuesday morning, was expressed Tuesday by W. A. Boyd, chief of detectives. The damage, which was estimated by the owners to be approximately $8,000, was partially covered by insurance.

Two prowlers were reported by Mr. Banks to have been seen fleeing from a chicken house, after he had been awakened by a watch dog. The men, he reported, knocked the dog in the head with a shovel as they left the chicken house, stunning it for several minutes, and enabling them to escape. He reported that he fired twice, but was using a shotgun loaded with small bird shot and did not know if he hit his mark.

Mr. Banks also reported that the fire seemed to have been started in a room adjoining his bedroom. He declared that he noticed furniture and other articles piled on a bed in that room as he fled. He expressed the opinion that the fire was started there by fire bugs.

City Detective Jack Miller, who is cnoducting an investigation of the case reported that tracks of two men could be distinguished for a short distance leading from the chicken house.

Buttermilk, kept by Mr. Banks for feeding hogs, was used by neighbors in preventing the flames spreading from the residence to a number of valuable outhouses belonging to the property in which hogs, chickens and other farm animals were kept.

The building, it was announced Tuesday night, is the property of D. P. Taylor, local capitalist.

AUXILIARY TO LEGION SEND GIFTS TO SICK

Checking up of the ticket sale for the Woman's Auxiliary, American Legion Monday, occupied a part of the regular fortnightly meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Salvation army Citadel, and it was found that the unit's half will amount to around $100, Mrs. D. O. Long announced total receipts of $225, and of this amount $22 is war tax, leaving the sum of $100 for the Auxiliary, as the result of the work of some of the members. This money is to be put in the local treasury and expended in work that has been undertaken, principally the adoption of two invalid soldiers, and their families, who are at Houston.

The first box for one of these families was made up Tuesday afternoon, clothing being gathered for all members of the family. It was announced at the meeting that anyone outside the Auxiliary who is interested would find their gifts much needed and appreciated. Ma Burdick is taking charge of the box that will be sent, and will receive any other contributions at the Salvation Army hall.

Mrs. J. C. Ward announced Tuesday that she would fill the need that one of the soldiers in the Houston hospital had said was very great, fans for the patients. A special meeting was set for Friday of this week, at 3 o'clock, when the palm leaf fans will be bound around the edges with wool, to insure longer wear. Members of the Auxiliary who will perform this service are asked to come to the citadel with their yarn, a needle and a thimble. The fans will be taken to Houston by Ma Burdick, who goes there next week on her vacation.

The unit was presented with its charter framed, the latter the gift of Mrs. Carrigan.

Mrs. Carrigan also pointed out the fact that the charter was signed by the late Commander Galbreath, and that this was probably one of the last he signed, before he met death in an automobile accident early in June.

Another gift, also from the acting chairman, Mrs. Carrigan, was an enlarged photograph of the auditorium of the First Baptist Church with it's Memorial Day decorations.

A nominating committee, to report at a meeting in the near future on permanent officers for the post was named, consisting of Mrs. D. O. Long, Mrs. J. B. Hatchitt and Miss Willie May Kell.

It was also announced that the new shipment of pins had arrived, and all members may now wear the emblem of the Auxiliary. These pins, like the first received, are the gift of Mrs. Carrigan.

GRAND JURY HAS PRAISE FOR POLICE

Stating that they had found that the attention the police have given to ridding the city of immoral houses had greatly improved conditions, the grand jury of the 30th District court paid high compliment to the police department and its officers in making its final report to Judge H. J. Weldon Tuesday noon.

Thirty-eight additional indictments were returned making a total of fifty-one returned in the fourteen day session. The final report states that 242 witnesses were examined.

Although making certain recommendations as to the changes needed in the care of the county jail and the prisoners confined therein the report commends generally the results of officers to keep down lawlessness in the county and makes special mention of the work of two Texas rangers. No special criticism of the manner in which the sheriff's department has managed the county jail was made.

Recommends Clinic

Recommendations were made as to the care of venereal disease in the county, which, the report stated, was apparently on the increase.

The complete report not including the bills of indictments follows:

To Judge H. F. Weldon, judge of the 30th District Court:

We have been in session 14 days, and have found and returned 51 bills of indictment, all of which are felonies. We have examined 240 witnesses. We have given conditions of our county jail considerable attention and invesigation and offer the following comment with respect thereto:

There should be less visiting allowed and those who are allowed to visit the inmates should be inspected and examined so that no opportunity be afforded to pass instruments or weapons to the inmates. Visits of lawyers to the jail should be better regulated.

Urges Jail Inspection

We think that the sheriff personally should make a thorough inspection and search of the jail at least twice a week as a matter of safety. Great number of magazines and other periodicals have been permitted to be placed with the prisoners. Too much laxity has been allowed with reading material—a system should be inaugurated that the inmates could have reading material without an excess collecting in the cells and in places near the cells. We recommend that the bed clothing and matresses should be sunned and aired as often as once per week and that the bed clothing should be laundered that often.

In our opinion there should be at least four large lights placed at the four corners of the jail or near the jail and we recommend to the commissioners court that this should be attended to at once.

The condition with regarding to veneral disease and kindred troubles in this country should have the attention of every good citizen and especially of our medical men.

Would Minimize Danger

We think that a strict compliance with the law with respect of reporting such cases to the proper authorities and the immediate attention of such authorities would greatly minimize this danger. There should be a place provided so that such cases could be interned and treated and we call this matter to the attention of the commissioners court and health departments so that it may be relieved. There is in our judgment no greater menace to the health and well being of our community and country than this condition.

We desire to congratulate the police department and officers in charge thereto for their attention to the matter of alleged immoral houses in the city and to say that we find such condition greatly improved, as a result of their efforts.

The police department of this city and those in charge have rendered this grand jury valuable assistance, and we wish to thank them for their work and efforts.

We find that the lawlessness in the oil fields is on the decrease and it seems that the constant vigilance and efforts of those looking after this condition has had its effect. We desire to express our commendation to the two rangers who have been and are now working for the results they have obtained. They have been of great service to us and have responded readily to every request we have made.

Thank Attorney

We desire to express our thanks to the district attorney and his assistant and to the county attorney and his assistant for services rendered.

Finally we desire your honor to know that we thoroughly appreciate the courtesy which has been shown us all through our sittings and for the counsel your honor has given us from time to time. Respectfully submitted,

J. D. AVIS,
Foreman.

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, July 12.—Settlement of a lawsuit which has been pending since 1918 in which W. V. Montgomery and others were suing the city of Seymour concerning the location of a sewerage disposal plant, was effected here today.

The case which was being tried in the district court before Special Judge P. A. Martin of Wichita Falls, terminated with a compromise, the plaintiffs agreeing to furnish necessary right of way and site to a place designated, distantly removed from the city, and the city agreeing to discontinue the use of the present plant, and to construct a new one in the site designated, within the next eighteen months. Valuable services were rendered by Judge Marin in the suit in effecting this settlement, which has been pending so long.

N. Y. SUGAR

NEW YORK, July 12.—Large offerings for Porto Rico's and Philippine Islands centrifugals today at 4½c, cif met poor response from buyers. Demand was only moderate and it was understood that Cubas were still for sale at 3c cif for centrifugal.

Although raw sugar futures opened a shade higher on yesterday's better spot market, they soon yielded to disquieting news regarding Cuban finances, and under liquidation closed easy at a net decline of 3 to 11 points. July closed 3.05; September 3.05; December 2.75 and March 2.70, all bid.

There were no further changes in refined, the price of fine granulated remaining at 5.20 to 5.60.

Refined sugar futures were easier with sales in September. The close was five points net lower, with July 5.70; September 5.75; October 5.70 and December 5.70, all bid.

N. Y. COFFEE

NEW YORK, July 12.—Coffee futures were lower today owing to easier ruling of milreis prices in Rio, easier Rio exchange rates and continued slack trade demand. The opening was unchanged to 2 points lower and active months sold 10 to 12 points below last night's closing figures with September touching 6.39. The pressure was attributed largely to scattering liquidation. Closing prices were 11 to 16 points net lower, the final bids as follows: July 6.04; September 6.20; October 6.42; December 6.69; January 6.86; March 7.02; May 7.18.

COTTON LOW WITH REPORT ON WEATHER

NEW YORK, July 12.—The cotton market was lower today under realizing or scattering liquidation. Reports of clearing weather in the southwest probably increased disposition to even up long contracts while there was also some selling by the south on the late afternoon break which carried October down to 12.80 or 33 points below last night's closing quotations. That delivery closed at 12.85 with the general market closing barely steady at a net decline of 15 to 36 points.

Early cables from Liverpool showed continued strength and still larger spot sales were reported there, amounting to fifteen thousand bales. The local market, however, showed an easier tendency from the start, opening two points lower to four points higher, July being relatively easy owing to circulation of notices estimated at 2,800 bales. Liverpool turned easier after the local opening, the decline being accompanied by private cables reporting liquidation of scattering and longs claiming that India was refusing to pay higher prices asked for goods in Lancashire. This stimulated the liquidation of scattering long accounts around the local ring. Trade interests were buyers on a scale down and took a good many contracts in late trading, but lowest prices were touched shortly before the close when July sold at 12.15 and December at 13.24 or about 25 to 37 points net lower. Local brokers regarded the decline as the result of an easier technical position, rather than of any special change in general news.

CABLE NEWS SENDS WHEAT PRICES HIGH

CHICAGO, July 12.—Wheat soared today largely because of concern as to the crop outlook on both sides of the Atlantic. The market closed strong, 5 3-4 to 6 1-2c net higher, with September 1.24 1-4 to 1.24 1-2 and December $1.27 to $1.27 1-4. Corn gained 2 3-4 to 3 1-8 cents and oats 1 1-8c to 2c. In provisions the finish varied from 7c decline to a like advance.

Virulent outbreaks of blackrust on North Dakota wheat in the milk stake were reported. One recognized authority sent word that owing to excessive heat many thousand acres in North Dakota would not make five bushels an acre. Severe blackrust damage was also reported from Minnesota.

With further news at hand that Great Britain, France, Belgium and Holland were drought stricken, and that no exports were looked for from Russia, prices mounted almost continuously. Extreme gains reached 6 3-4c, and the close was at nearly the topmost level of the day.

Continued lack of rain had a bullish effect on corn. Oats ascended with wheat and corn.

Heavy deliveries of lard, together with weakness of the hog market counterbalanced in provisions the buoyancy of grain.

By Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, July 12.—Wheat No. 2 hard, $1.14@1.46; No. 3 red, $1.11@1.16.

Corn No. 2 mixed, 49¾@50c; No. 2 yellow, 53½c.

Oats No. 2 white, 35½@36c; No. 2 mixed, 34½c.

WHEAT GOES UP TO $1 A BUSHEL; RECEIPTS SLOWER

Wagon wheat advanced 5 cents a bushel in the price paid by local elevators to growers, making the present quotation $1.00 a bushel for number one; 97 cents a bushel for number two and 94 cents a bushel for number three grades. This change is said to be due to the better facilities for handling the wheat on account of the passing of the first big rush movement.

A slight falling off in the wheat receipts is reported at the elevators in this section and the movement has settled down to normal basis of this time of the season.

Railroads continue to report a good business in wheat and state that they are able to handle all of the crop this year in good time.

MEXICAN OIL RISES AFTER TARIFF KILLED

NEW YORK, July 12.—Successive periods of strength, irregularity and steadiness marked today's desultory and professional operations in the stock market.

The higher level of prices at the outset was directly due to President Harding's condemnation of the proposed tariff on oil imports. Foreign oils, particularly Mexican and Pan-American petroleums and general asphalt rose 2 to nearly five points.

Before the last half of the session was well under way many reactions occurred, although gains predominated at the dull close.

Call loans opened at six per cent, in contrast to yesterday's easier rate, but belated borrowers were obliged to pay 6 1-2 per cent. Time rates were exchanged for short maturities. Although the supply was less liberal, interior banks making few offerings.

All foreign exchanges were stronger, sterling recovering about 1-2 of its recent loss.

Dealings in liberty bonds fell away appreciably and the tone was mixed. Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Chicago Burlington and Quincy issues were strong, international also showing no definite trend.
