'LOST CONTROL'

Truck Driver Dies In Crash Of Light Plane

Claude E. Anderson, 34, of 1503 E. 3rd, was killed at approximately 7:30 p.m. Tuesday when his light, single engine plane crashed on the Donald Long property eight miles northeast of Big Spring. Anderson was taken to Cowper Clinic and Hospital where Dr. R. B. G. Cowper pronounced him dead on arrival.

Anderson was alone in the craft and had been airborne from Howard County Airport, approximately 45 minutes to an hour when the crash occurred. According to Sheriff A. N. Standard, witnesses said that the craft lost power and spun around several times before plummeting into Long's cotton field.

"Persons who also were flying in the area at the time of the crash said that Anderson completed a couple of manuevers, lost power, then nosed over and couldn't pull up," said Sheriff Standard, "We're assuming technical difficulties caused him to lose control of the plane. We left the wreckage at the crash site pending investigation by aeronautics authorities."

Leon Anderson, 3604 Hamilton, and Buck O'Neal, an employe of Lacy Electric Inc., were flying in the area at the time and described the crash, according to Sheriff Standard. Margarita Garcia and Margaret Templeton, both residing at Rt. 1, Box 148, also witnessed the crash.

Tony Joe Garcia was working in Long's cotton field when Anderson's craft fell. Investigating the crash were Texas Highway Patrolman Ken Maxwell and Deputy Sheriffs Bill Whitton and Robert Puente.

Anderson was employed as a truck driver by W. D. Caldwell, Inc.

Nixon Warns Of Decadence In America

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon believes the United States is approaching a possible decline into decadence. But he says the news media "'and perhaps even presidents and politicians" can help matters by occasionally emphasizing American's good points.

The President's words took attention, at least temporarily, from what appears to be a major purpose of his trip to the Western White House: a review of foreign policy in general and Vietnam policy in particular.

Nixon, who has dwelt increasingly in recent informal speeches on the state of the nation's spiritual and moral health, expanded on the theme Tu5) o6in talking—apparently without notes—to newspaper executives and broadcasters in Kansas City, Mo. He stopped there en route here for a two week stay.

While expressing confidence that everything will turn out right for the country, the chief executive likened the United States today to ancient Greece and Rome on the eve of their declines from greatness.

"I think of what happened to Greece and to Rome, and you see what is left—only the pillars. What has happened, of course, is that great civilizations of the past, as they have become wealthy, as they have lst their will to live, to improve, they then have become subject to the decadence that eventually destroys the civilization.

"The United States is now reaching that period."

Nixon went on to say he was convinced Americans have the vitality, courage and strength "out through this heartland and across this nation" to infuse America with "moral and spiritual strength" as well as wealth and power.

"But I also know," he said, "that people need to be reassured. The people who can reassure them are opinion leaders, editors, television, radio commentators, teachers, even perhaps presidents and politicians.

Castro Swaps 18 Yanks For Four Cuban Anglers

MIAMI (AP) — Cuba's Fidel Castro's regime today announced the exchange of 18 American citizens in Cuba for four Cuban fishermen held prisoner by the United States.

The Cuban announcement carried by Havana Radio followed by several hours the transfer of the four Cubans from an American federal prison to a Cuban fishing boat in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Havana broadcast monitored in Miami said the 18 Americans would receive "all aid in leaving the country once the services and costs that they incurred were paid."

One of the 18 was already in Miami. Fritz Sprandel, 26, a lone canoeist forced ashore in Cuba May 22, was returned to this country Tuesday.

The other Americans—four aboard the yacht White Cloud, five aboard a sloop called the Saturna, and eight crewmen of a Florida tugboat—were expected to begin leaving the Communist island later today.

Havana Radio said that "in this manner the problem is resolved . . ." The broadcast referred to the incident involving the imprisonment of the four Cubans in this country and the subsequent detention of the 18 Americans in Cuba.

Five of the Americans, the four aboard the yacht White Cloud and Sprandel, had been sentenced by "Cuban revolutionary tribunals" to pay fines of $20,000 each.

The Cuban broadcast said these fines were reduced to $2,000 each. A similar reduction was made by American authorities for each of the four Cubans serving six month prison sentences at Eglin Federal Prison in Florida.

Their prison sentences also were suspended.

The Cuban fishermen were taken from Eglin prison Tuesday and transferred from a U.S. Coast Guard cutter to a Cuban fishing vessel near the Dry Tortugas islets in the Gulf, where they were arrested for fishing in U.S. territorial waters.

The first indication that an exchange was underway was the arrival in Miami Tuesday aboard a Cuban refugee flight of Sprandel, of Allentown, Pa.

HOW TO COOL DOWN A 101-DEGREE DAY — E'nock Holtorf, 10-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Holtorf, 1073 Aylford, couldn't seem to make much headway on this giant-size ice cream cone Tuesday — and the 101-degree temperature wasn't helping matters any.

If You're 18 You Can Vote

All 18 to 20-year-old Howard County residents who registered to vote before the closing of registration on Feb. 28 now have the right to vote in all federal, state, county and city elections that may be held during the remainder of 1971, according to information released by Martin Dies Jr., Texas secretary of state.

Young people who turned 18 after the Feb. 28 registration deadline may register now, according to Dies. Such voter certificates will be valid in any election held 30 days after the registration date.

The lower age voting requirement went into effect in Texas on July 1 after ratification of the 26th amendment of the United States Constitution.

Voter applications may be obtained from the county tax assessor-collector's office and must be filled out, signed and returned to the office for validation.

Rural Life Plan Pushed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A multibillion-dollar program to reverse migration of America's rural poor to big-city slums was proposed today by eight senators.

"This legislation will underwrite with financial muscle the right of every American to have a free choice of where he shall live and make a living," Democratic Sens. Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota said in a joint statement.

The measure would authorize appropriations averaging $200 million annually for 10 years to provide loans and up to 300 million a year for a subsidy grants.

Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said the money would create jobs and raise family incomes by enabling small towns and rural areas to build industries and improve community facilties.

Rural America, he said, has been subsidizing for many years the crazy-quilt growth of cities and providing them with the best food bargains in the world.

"What we are doing today," he added, "represents an effort to start a new process by which some of that investment can be returned to rural America, not only for its benefit, but for the cities which have grown too large."

The House Agriculture Committee has opened hearings on the problem.

The bill defines a rural area as one outside a city of 35,000 or more pouplation.

Ralph To Help Teens Celebrate

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, who says he has been campaigning for the 18-year-old vote since his unsuccessful gubernatorial campaign in 1954, went to Kerrville today to help 18-year-olds there celebrate their newly won right to vote.

Yarborough is considered a probable candidate for either governor or U.S. senator in 1972.

Kerrville's bond election today was the first opportunity in Texas, and one of the first in the nation, for those 18 to 21 to exercise their new voting right. Congress passed a constitutional amendment giving those 18 to 21 to vote in all elections and the necessary 38 states completed ratification of the change last week.

Three 'Speed' Merchants Jailed

DALLAS (AP)—Police seized meta-amphetamine tablets valued at $25,000 and arrested three persons Tuesday night in a raid on a North Dallas motel room.

Labor, Steel Pros Dodging Comment On Nixon's Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor and management negotiators in the steel industry dodged public comment on President Nixon's call for a "constructive settlement" as they settled down to the first round of contract talks today.

Working against an Aug. 1 contract deadline, the negotiating teams gathered in a top-secret atmosphere amid wide speculation their talks will lead to a strike.

Neither I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers, nor the industry team headed by Heath Larry of U.S. Steel Corp. offered any comment after an hour-long meeting with Nixon Tuesday.

PULLED BACK

The President impressed on the negotiators the need to reach a noninflationary settlement that will neither endanger the competitive position of the industry nor impede the nation's economic growth, a White House spokesman said.

But Nixon pulled back from setting a wage standard he would regard as acceptable or non-inflationary, said George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget and a former labor secretary.

The President said he hopes for hard bargaining that will avoid a strike while leading to a "constructive settlement" taking into account interests of the industry and the nation.

The union is reported seeking a wage increase of about 9 per cent over three years, the same boost won by Steelworkers in the car and aluminum industries.

Nixon's economic advisers have been saying privately they expect a steel strike this year, but Shultz said "people's feelings have changed a lot in the past few months" about whether there will be a walkout.

Shultz said a steel strike would not have as great an impact on the economy as the General Motors walkout did last fall.

Nixon's session with the negotiators—his administration's first try at direct intervention in bargaining—was an attempt to focus on economic problems facing the steel industry, Shultz said.

And the White House released a study showing the problems are considerable. Profits in the industry declined by 42 per cent last year to the lowest level in a decade, the study said.

In addition, the study said, the industry is faced with fierce competition from Japan and Western European countries, while productivity has increased little and wages have not risen significantly. But labor costs remain high, the study said.

Western Union Says Office Is Closing

Notice of intention to close the Western Union office here will be filed soon, C. G. (Chuck) Barfield, Fort Worth, district supervisor, said here today.

He said this would result in no loss of service to patrons in this area. Actually, said Barfield, this could mean an expansion of the service through two agency offices.

One of these, located now at the Big Spring Truck Terminal at IS 20 and U.S. 87 North, will continue to serve. A second agency outlet will be established at the Continental Trailways bus terminal at Third and Nolan. The terminal is open from 6 a.m. to 12 midnight, but the telegraph service will be available from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m.

This contrasts with the present office hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, at the office in the 100 block of East Third Street.

No time table has been set on this step, but Barfield estimated it would be about 90 days away.

He said that the present Western Union phone number would be transferred to the agency office at Continental Trailways.

Declining volume of business, plus difficulty in staffing the office, led to the decision to close the long-time office here, according to Barfield.

UNABLE TO LOCATE OWNER OF $47,400

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas County sheriff's deputy said Tuesday he has been unable to locate the owner of $47,400 in gold certificates found buried here in May.

Sgt. J. R. Webb said it appears disposition of the money is apparently up to a civil court.

The certificates were found in a fruit jar May 31 by a construction worker laying pipeline to an industrial development.

R. W. Kirkland, the construction man, turned the jar and contents over to the sheriff's office but later filed a petition asking that the cash be returned to him.

Three other claimants also seek the money. They are Kirkland's employer, the Walnut Stemmons Industrial Park, and two men working with Kirkland when he found it.

Dist. Judge Spencer Carter has set a Sept. 9 hearing on who should get the mystery money.

FINAL ENTRY IN TRAFFIC RECORD

FORT WORTH (AP) — Police made one final entry Tuesday in the traffic record of Carter James Keeter.

The notation read: "Killed in traffic accident July 5, 1971."

The record goes back to Aug. 26, 1967, when Keeter, 65, was arrested on a drunken driving charge.

He was arrested again May 4, 1968 and again Dec. 24, 1968. Each time officers accused him of drunken driving.

On March 18, 1968, he was sentenced to 30 days in jail after pleading guilty to another drunken driving charge.

He continued to drive his car.

Authorities explained that his driver's license had been restored.

Keeter was killed Monday when he turned in on a freeway near Fort Worth, headed in the wrong direction.

His car collided with one driven by off-duty policeman Carl W. Rancher, a traffic investigator.

Rancher, 42, was killed. His wife and three children and a neighbor girl were hospitalized.

Valley Man Contracts Dread Horse Disease?

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — The owner of a horse with symptoms of a dread horse disease has been hospitalized for treatment of an undetermined illness, a U.S. Agriculture Department spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the man's horse is one of two listed as having "clinically observed" symptoms of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE). Blood samples from the horses have been sent to laboratories in Denver and Atlanta, Ga., for analysis.

"We just don't know what's wrong with the man," the spokesman said when asked if the man may have contracted the disease. The disease is spread by mosquitoes and a mosquito can transfer the disease to a human if he first bites an infected horse and thes bites a human, public health officials say.

The spokesman said a task force of animal and human health authorities have received reports of seven more sick horses in the Brownsville area. He pointed out, however, that only two, as reported Tuesday, have "clinically observed" symptoms of the rare strain of "sleeping sickness."

The disease has killed thousands of horses as it spread northward from South America during the past two years. There have been reports that several children have been hospitalized in the Tampico, Mexico, area with encephalitis symptoms.

NO QUICK ACCEPTANCE EXPECTED

Will Probe Peace Package

PARIS (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam will probe the new Viet Cong peace package at the weekly peace talks session Thursday in an attempt to learn if it offers an acceptable opening toward ending the Vietnam war, allied informants said.

No quick acceptance or rejection of the Communist proposal is expected, they added.

The seven-point plan was presented last Thursday by Mrs. Ngyuen Thi Binh, head of the Viet Cong delegation to the Paris peace talks. North Vietnam immediately endorsed it.

Allied diplomats were giving most of their attention to the first point in Mrs. Binh's proposal, calling for the simultaneous withdrawal of all American forces and release of all prisoners of war. The plan calls for total U.S. withdrawal before the end of the year. Previously, the Viet Cong had said if American forces were pulled out by June 30 or another "reasonable" date, the question of prisoner release would be "immediately discussed."

Another aspect of the peace proposal being put under diplomatic microscopes was the statement that "the totality of military men of all parties and civilians captured in the war" would be released in a step-by-step operation coupled with the troop withdrawal.

The United States and South Vietnam will seek to determine just what prisoners the Communists have in mind—particularly whether this includes missing Americans not yet listed on the POW rolls announced by Hanoi, as well as the thousands of Vietnamese prisoners of the Saigon government who are classified by Saigon as terrorists and not military personnel.

DROPPED WORD

Allied diplomats also are expected to inquire further into what the Viet Cong has in mind as a followup political solution when the fighting stops.

For the first time, Mrs. Binh last Thursday dropped the word "coalition" in referring to a postwar government in Saigon. Instead she spoke of a government of "national concord," but its definition in the peace plan was close to what was referred to previously as a coalition regime. The Saigon regime has rejected any idea of a coalition government, saying this would be tantamount to capitulation to the Communists.

"It is not a matter of saying yes or no to the plan tomorrow," said one source, "but instead to find out whether Mrs. Binh's proposal presents an opening for real negotiations. So far, there is no such indication."

Opening lead: King of ◇

In the first of a series of challenge matches shown recently on CBS National Television, the Dallas Aces nosed out a team of Goren Stars. Today we are presenting an early hand from the match where the Goren team picked up a sizable swing that gave them an early lead.

At the table where Harold Ogust was seated North and Peter Leventritt was South for the Goren unit, the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram. The two club bid by South is artificial and is unconditionally forcing—in fact, it is the only forcing bid used. The partnership employs other opening two bids in a suit to designate a holding consisting of a good six card suit but less than opening bid strength.

Ogust's response of two diamonds is also artificial and is the negative reply. Leventritt now showed his suit by bidding two spades. North's jump to four spades is standard in the Goren methods and indicates good trump support—but no ace, king or singleton. South's leap to six spades is distinctly speculative.

West opened the king of diamonds and South won the trick with the ace. Prospects were distinctly sub-par. If the jack of hearts dropped doubleton or the suit divided three-three, then a discard could be developed to dispose of the losing diamond. There would still remain a guess in the club suit, however, to avoid losing two tricks.

Leventritt drew trump with two pulls and proceeded to lead his high hearts. When the suit responded favorably, he was able to cash the five of hearts and dispose of North's remaining diamond. A diamond was ruffed in dummy and the jack of clubs was led to which East followed with the six. South now had to consider his next play—his problem being to determine which opponent held the queen and which one the ace.

A review of the play revealed that West had started with a singleton spade, three hearts headed by the jack and a diamond holding that included at least the king and queen. Inasmuch as West was known to be a very light opening bidder, Leventritt finally concluded that the former might have opened in first position if he held the ace of clubs in addition. South accordingly chose to put up the king of clubs, and when it held the trick, he was home. He conceded one club at the end.

At the other table, the Aces stopped at four spades with the North-South cards and the Goren Team picked up 750 points [the bonus for bidding a vulnerable slam] on the deal. This was almost enough of a margin to carry them successfully thru the match.

Tomorrow we will show the concluding deal which tipped the balance in favor of the Dallas Aces.

He Played Trumpet 'Like Nobody Else'

NEW YORK (AP) — "In New Orleans, I played at as many funerals as I could get," Louis Armstrong said recently, wryly recalling his youth, "and cats died like flies, so I got a lot of nice gigs out of that.

"It's business," continued the celebrated jazz trumpeter and singer. "They going to enjoy blowing over me, ain't they? Cats will be coming from California and everywhere else just to play."

Whether or not they play, the cats will assemble Friday to pay tribute to the man whose driving genius with a horn helped transform New Orleans street music into part of a global culture.

Armstrong died in his sleep Tuesday morning at his home in Queens. A family spokesman said that his heart, worn by age and the toll of kidney and liver ailments in recent years, simply gave out. He was 71 on Sunday.

Honorary pallbearers will include Duke Ellington, Bing Crosby, Ella Fitzgerald, Guy Lombardo, Dizzy Gillespie, Pearl Bailey, Count Basie, Harry James, Frank Sinatra, Ed Sullivan, Earl Wilson, Alan King, Johnny Carson, David Frost, Merv Griffin, Dick Cavett, Mayor John V. Lindsay and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"If anyone was Mr. Jazz, it was Louis Armstrong," commented Ellington, himself one of the giants of jazz. "He was the epitome of jazz and always will be. He is what I call an American standard, an American original."

"He was an authentic genius," said Crosby, who appeared with Armstrong in the movie "High Society." "Anyone who traveled in Europe or other parts of the world was able to realize immediately just how widespread was his reputation and how beloved he was."

President Nixon, in a statement, called Armstrong "one of the architects of an American art form, a free and independent spirit and an artist of world wide fame."

"He could play a trumpet like nobody else," said guitarist Eddie Condon, "then put it down and sing a song like no one else could."

"To people around the world, Louis is jazz and jazz is New Orleans," said Moon Landrieu, mayor of that city. "New Orleans has lost one of its own. We thank God for placing him within our midst."

One Charged With Burglary

Dorman Ray Shaw, 28, of 1001 E. 3rd, surrendered himself to the Big Spring Police Department at 12:30 a.m. today and was charged in Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter's court with burglary.

Justice Slaughter set bond at $2,500. Shaw had not been transferred to county jail at noon today.

The charges were in connection with burglaries of two gasoline stations at FM 700 and Goliad and a burglary of the YMCA on the weekend of June 28, officers said.

Two men, one a juvenile, and the other a Big Spring man, Pat Murphy, 23, Gail Rt., Box 7, were arrested and were charged with burglary last Wednesday in Odessa.

Local police detectives questioned the two in Odessa and said they had statements about three burglary cases here.

"After the Odessa department had conducted its investigations of the pair, they will be transferred to our department for further investigations," said Detective Capt. Jack Jones.

Bather Bothered

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) —A fashion conscious bather exchanged swimsuits at the backyard clothesline over the weekend, police reported.

Mrs. Richard Bradfield told authorities the two-piece swimsuit she had hung on her clothesline was missing. She said the thief replaced it with only the bottom half of another suit.

THEFTS

A burglary at Jeannie's Tavern, 300 N. Benton, was reported Tuesday. Officers advised that the cigarette machine was broken into and an undetermined amount of money taken.

Paul D. Meek, 2801 Crestline, reported Tuesday the theft of a bicycle from his home. No value was placed on the bike.

Mrs. Donald Ellis, 1425 E. 6th, reported Tuesday that her son's bicycle had been stolen. There was no value of the bike reported.

Police officers discovered an open door at the Standard station, 900 block of Lamesa Drive, early Wednesday and reported that the station had been burglarized. Apparently police interrupted the intruders. Nothing was taken from the building, but some tools were left on a cigarette machine, officers reported.

Beer Sale Permits Okayed Over Church Opposition

Two requests for two specific use permits for the purpose of selling beer for off-premises consumption at Safeway Grocery Stores in Big Spring were approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission in regular session Tuesday at 5:15 p.m. Requests will now be sent to the city commission for final approval.

The requests were for specific use permits in a "R," retail zone, on only that part of the College Park Shopping Center which is occupied by Safeway and on all of Block 5, McDowell Heights Addition, occupied by Safeway.

The requests were being made by Del Norte Sales, Inc., Dallas, Ira C. Kiker Jr., vice president.

The Rev. E. Wales Langford, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster, came before the commission opposing the request in behalf of his church.

A request for a zone change from "SF-3," Single Family Dwelling, to "LC," Light Commercial, on lot 3, block 47 and parts of block 52, Bauer Addition made by Bob Wheeler was approved by the commission.

Wheeler will build a 40x60 metallic building for a car repair garage to be leased out on the property. Mrs. Cecial Allred opposed the request.

A request for a specific use permit in a "R," Retail Zone, for the purpose of placing a mobile home as a fixed dwelling on the east half of lots 1 and 2, block 6, McDowell Heights was okayed by the planning and zoning board.

Mrs. James Clay Woods made the request and the land is owned by Doris Perkins.

A specific use permit in a "GR," General Residence Zone, for the purpose of placing a mobile home as a fixed dwelling on portions of lot 8 and 9, block 4, Wrights Second Addition was requested by O. L. Pitts.

The request was denied by the commission.

Also a request for a specific use permit in a General Residence Zone for the purpose of placing a mobile home as a fixed dwelling on lot 13, block 11, Settles Heights Addition was denied by the commission.

The request was made by Dewey J. C. Sigmon.

A new policy by the planning and zoning commission that a minimum of $35, non-refundable, be charged on each application for zone change or specific use permit and that there be a 90-day waiting period before an application on the same property can be submitted to the board, after the first submission which was approved in the last regular city commission meeting, was in effect on all the requests on the planning and zoning agenda.

Board Hears Tax Questions

In the opening session of the county, city and school boards of equalization today, 20 persons have requested to discuss their taxes with the boards. Six persons had presented their complaints shortly before noon.

All but one of those persons registered this morning to speak to the boards were owners of residential properties. Six persons own property along Gregg Street which is one of the areas where land valuation was increased, according to Earl Dean, land evaluator.

Threat Charge

Jackie Wayne Gaines, 30, of 609 Nolan, was arrested Tuesday morning by sheriff's deputies on a charge of threatening to take a life. The charge was filed in Howard County Court, and County Judge A. G. Mitchell set bond at $3,500. Gaines was released from custody on bond.

Nixonites Urged To Release Funds For Hungry Children

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty senators, declaring millions of children may go hungry this summer, have urged the Nixon administration to release immediately millions of dollars they say were promised for a nationwide child-feeding program.

In a joint letter to George Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, the senators complained the Department of Agriculture encouraged localities to expand their programs, then said it couldn't support requests for new funds.

The Agriculture Department announced earlier this week $18.1 million will be available for the program this summer, an amount the senators said is $15 million less than required, though they acknowledged it's three times as much as was allocated last year.

"We are concerned that millions of children in New York and Newark, in San Antonio and Los Angeles, in Minneapolis and Indianapolis, and in many other cities throughout the nation will not be fed this summer as promised," the senators said.

They said expansion of the summer feeding program this year "is a direct result of Department of Agriculture promotion . . .

"Our cities were urged to expand their efforts and were assured the necessary money would be forthcoming," they said.

The 40 senators reminded the administration Congress specifically authorized the secretary of agriculture to spend up to $100 million on this year's summer programs, in addition to whatever funds might be included in the department's regular authorization bill.

The department acknowledged getting requests for $26.6 million as of June 18, the senators said, but "a more recent survey conducted by the League of Cities-U.S. Conference of Mayors revealed that summer requests actually total $33 million."

Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., said in a statement his state alone needs $1.5 million to feed 100,000 children this summer.

"Under the department's allocation we will receive only $320,000," Case said.

Martin County Old Settlers Ready For Gala Celebration

STANTON (SC) — Preparations are just about complete for Stanton's biggest party of the year, the 38th annual Martin County Old Settlers Reunion on Saturday.

There will be a gala parade, free lemonade, an art exhibit, play day at the rodeo arena, a big barbecue and recreational time at the city park — plus some other side events.

Bobby Owen Kelly, president of the Old Settlers groups, is anticipating a big turnout for the day-long event which begins with registration at 8:30 a.m. in the Konz Building next to the post office. This also will be the location for an art exhibit put on by Mrs. Leroy Lenney, who will donate a painting to be given away during the day for benefit of the Martin County chapter of the American Cancer Society. Xi Epsilon Beta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will also give away a 100-year-old steamer trunk as a benefit project.

The schedule calls for the old timers parade to begin at 10 a.m., led by the Stanton High School band, and there will be prizes for the best three entries.

Everyone is encouraged to wear old-time costumes, and the best dressed clerk in town will receive a prize as will the best-dressed man, woman, boy and girl. There will be a mystery rider in the parade, and a prize will go to the one making identification.

The play day events at the rodeo arena are set for 2 p.m., followed by games for all at the City Park at 6 p.m. with Tom Ed Angel in charge. The barbecue, which climaxes the day's activities along with its program, will be at 8 p.m. with tickets $1.60. Mrs. Pat Hull, who was co-author with Mrs. Faye Smithson, Irann, on the book, "Martin County — The First 30 Years," will extend the welcome, and Mrs. Ohmer Kelly and Mrs. Stanley Reid will respond.

The reunion this year will follow the theme and take the title of the Hull-Smithson book, which, incidentally, will be on sale during the day.

While all the other activities are going on, the Martin County Museum, located in the old jail, will be open for viewing. Extensive renovation has been underway there for several weeks.

Mrs. Glen L. Brown is the general chairman on arrangements, and is working with Kelly, Chris Blocker, vice president, and Mrs. Morgan Hall, who has been secretary of the reunion virtually all its history. Others heading up special panels are Billy Houston and Omher Kelly, parade chairmen, and Mrs. Leon Turner and Mrs. James Eiland, costumes and prizes.

Inconclusive, But Play It Safe

When experts disagree over both the effects and the dangers of marijuana use, where can the average person turn for an answer?

The question arises from testimony given the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Use. The commission, created by Congress when it passed the Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970, is charged with making a report to Congress by next March on the problem of marijuana. It is also required to report by March, 1973, on the entire question of drug abuse.

Rep. John M. Murphy, New York Democrat, who had talked with a number of psychiatrists in the United States and Vietnam, reported that "in medical records of the military here, and abroad there are increasing reports of violent reactions because of hallucinations induced by marijuana . . . The drug has caused people to become fearful, paranoid, extremely angry, and led, in a number of cases, to bizarre acts of murder, rape and aggravated assault."

Dr. Lester Grinspoon, associate clinical professor of psychiatry of the Harvard Medical School, testified that "when the drug is smoked in moderation, generally (the effects) are quite mild and transient . . . when its potency is known to the user, and when it is smoked in nonthreatening social settings . . . the incidence of adverse reactions is quite infrequent."

Some witnesses argued that the use of marijuana should be legalized. Other witnesses insisted that criminal penalties against possession and use should be retained.

What remains unexplained, though, is that apparently no scientific studies exist of marijuana use in the Middle East, where it has been used for about 3,000 years, nor in India, where it has been used for about 2,000 years. The only explanation given is that the potency varies widely from country to country and from place to place.

Thus, scientifically speaking, the situation is one which calls for a suspension of judgment. But this also should be a big flag of caution for those tempted to experiment with marijuana. Nobody ever got hurt by leaving it alone.

A Key Question

The fuse daily grows shorter on another pending world problem — the matter of a successor for U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

And with the newly alive prospect of impending U.N. membership for Red China, the question of who shall be the next secretary-general takes on added urgency.

U Thant announced last fall he would leave his post at the end of this year. So far as is known, no agreement has been reached among the major U.N. powers on who shall follow him.

The Russians seem certain to revive their proposal for a "troika" leadership, abolishing the secretary-generalship and employing a hydra-headed directorate instead. Under the Russian plan there would be three U.N. leaders with equal votes — one from the West, one from the Communist bloc and one representing nations described as nonaligned. In practice, such a triumverate would almost certainly result in a powerless, directionless world body, incapable of any firm action.

That is a circumstance which must be avoided, of course. But the same disability could occur if U Thant's successor should be an irresolute man, who would bend to pressure from whatever quarter it is exerted. With the issue of Red China's admission to the United Nations, that body faces severe tests. Much will depend on how the question of U Thant's successor is solved.

When Hanoi Wins—

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — With all that has been said in Congress and written in the press about the "Pentagon study" on the Vietnam war, Lyndon Johnson — who was the chief executive for five years during the historic epoch covered by the documents — hasn't uttered a word in reply to the allegations of incompetence, deception and inefficiency which the report has conveyed to the public.

THE NEXT HIGHEST executive, Dean Rusk — who was Secretary of State in the Johnson and Kennedy administrations — now has commented in an interview in the Athens, Va., Daily News. He states he had no prior knowledge of the study, which he hopes will be made public some day. Apparently judging by what has appeared in print already, Mr. Rusk points out that the Pentagon report represents "only a fragment of the tons and tons of materials that are in the Defense Department, State Department and the White House, and it is clear that a lot of the material is not available to the fellows who wrote the report.

FORMER SECRETARY Rusk insists that, during the presidential campaign of 1964, Lyndon Johnson had no plans to bomb North Vietnam, although there were people on his staff who were working out all sorts of contingent projects. What has been published, unfortunately, does contain data which Mr. Rusk says will be helpful to Hanoi and Moscow. He adds:

"I think they will be very curious about some of the things that went on in our government . . . If we had comparable information about discussions in Hanoi or Moscow, it would be invaluable to us."

THE IMPRESSION being conveyed to the American people is that the government operated with a great deal of internal confusion. The military services made many plans and recommendations which were not accepted, presumably because it was feared that the war might be broadened. Yet, despite every effort by the administration to hold down American involvement, the intensity of the fighting forced an increased participation on our part.

WHAT IS MISSING, of course, is knowledge of just what was happening on the Communist side — how much war material was being shipped in week by week to North Vietnam from the Soviet Union and Red China, how many planes were being made available, and what weapons were being supplied, along with military advisers and technicians. The American people will never know the extent of the training the North Vietnamese army was given by Soviet and Red Chinese experts.

TODAY, OF COURSE, the Communists feel buttressed by what they read in the press about the antiwar sentiment in the United States. To them, this undoubtedly means that the withdrawal of American forces is inevitable on terms that will give South Vietnam little or no change in the future. In fact, there is every indication that the Hanoi government believes that not long after American troops are completely withdrawn, the Communists can take over South Vietnam.

This would mean that the sacrifices made in Vietnam by American troops would have been in vain and that all the countries now protected by the Southeast Asia Treaty will be swept by fears that they might be the next victims of a Communist takeover.

Status Names

Robert E. Ford

By ROBERT E. FORD
By The Associated Press

That airport they're building between Fort Worth and Dallas is going to be a great success. This is because somebody out there is using good sense.

This became evident the other day when its official name simply became Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

The possibilities of creating a really impressive name were many. Just one example would be the Dallas-Fort Worth North Texas Regional International Jet Airport.

And if the airport people really wanted to be truly outstanding, they could have dropped into this name such additions as Denton, Decatur, Forney, Josephine and enough others to get a truly inspiring designation.

BY THE time the control tower finished identifying itself to the pilots, a dozen planes would have crashed.

Such a name really could have been expected the way things are being done.

For this is the age of the acronym and the status name. Presumably there are acronymists on full salary just to coin acronyms and to develop longer titles.

Acronyms are formed by taking the first letter of each word of a phrase and coming up with a word which can be pronounced.

Try the possible airport name. You would get DEWNTRIJA. Pronounce that.

Military men once were the worst offenders. It seems that they must not simply name something. They must completely describe it.

Once in a while the military did come up with something useful in the old days. Ever hear a WAC called a Women's Army Corpswoman?

OR RADAR identified with its true name, Radio Detection and Ranging device?

WAVE was fine for Navy women. The acronym for Marine Corps women as created unofficially by men who didn't want women in the Corps is unprintable.

The federal civilian agencies now are trying to top the military with complex names — apparently in a scramble for more status.

The theory seems to be that if you aren't as important as Treasury, Defense, State and the like, get an endless name so people will notice you.

Even some of the old, powerful, gilt-edged agencies are trying to step up a notch.

ONE EXAMPLE, not the full list, is the old Agriculture Department. You can't call it that now. It is Department of Agriculture.

Make an acronym of that and you come up with DA. Pronounce that in one sound.

The old-line departments often come up with such gutteral noises. Or try UT for University of Texas. A. and M. had a better position. "I'm going to AM this season" sounds all right even if it is not very understandable.

Reporters are writing the acronym, presumably in frustration at having to write the full name time after time in a story.

Stock Market Shock

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Evidence of lagging enthusiasm among ordinary Americans comes from various compass points today: Retail sales are off, consumers are "buying down" to lower priced goods, resorts are less than full.

The savings rate remains higher than normal and the use of credit lower than average, suggesting a conservative if not wary view of economic prospects.

There is no doubt about the causes of reduced spending, which are listed in the government's "Survey of Current Business" as "growing concern over inflation, unemployment and the general state of the economy."

Such an explanation is understandable. But does it apply to the stock market too, or are small investors getting out of the market for other reasons?

For nearly a year now, odd-lot sales—meaning transactions of less than 100 shares—have been consistently higher than purchases. Week after week the selling has gone on, even when the market was rising.

The standard explanation has been that the little guys are selling shares to buy mutual funds. And the statistics seemed to verify this. Mutual fund purchases were way up.

Now that interpretation is suspect. At the time the small investor began selling in earnest, his redemptions of mutual fund shares also began to rise and threaten to overtake purchases.

In May it happened. For the first time in mutual fund history, sales exceeded purchases, and by $121.5 million. Investors cashed in $428.2 million of fund shares. They bought $306.7 million.

The industry was shocked, although it had an idea that a day of reckoning was approaching. The entire market, in fact, was shocked by the news and still is mulling over the meaning.

The question for stock market watchers to answer now is this: Are small investors turning conservative for the same reasons that they remain reluctant buyers of other goods and services? Or are other factors involved?

A survey might supply an instructive answer. For the time being, the suspicion exists that those "other factors" are there.

The small investor is different today—better informed and more critical.

He has listened to years of publicity and promotions about funds and stocks and he detects a wide gap between promise and payoff.

He also has seen how tawdry are some of the practices in the marketplace. And he has also observed that, with institutions doing 60 and 70 per cent of the trading, he can get trampled.

The 1960s were years of tremendous growth for both the market and mutual funds. Those days may have disappeared.

Makes Blondes See Red

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The five diseases Americans probably fear most are cancer, heart attacks, strokes, hydrophobia and tetanus, or lockjaw—although not necessarily in that order.

The industrial disease that bothers personnel executives the most, however, is "one-day pneumonia," the custom many employes have of taking an extra day off preceding or following a holiday.

We might easily make a better world if the time we spend disentangling wire coat hangers in closets were put to a more constructive use.

Among the victims of today's price inflation are cabdrivers and restaurant waiters. They complain that many of their customers, instead of tipping 15 to 20 per cent of the bill, are now doling out 10 to 12 per cent. What are resentful patrons going to do when the nation's hatcheck girls start charging four bits to watch their hats, coats and umbrellas?

Practically every U.S. high school pupil used to be able to name the capital and largest city in each of the American states. But today it is doubtful whether two out of five persons over the age of 25 can do so without making at least two to four mistakes.

An old-timer now is anyone who can remember when a first-class letter took only a two-cent stamp—and it was delivered to the recipient before he had aged visibly.

Men's sideburns are reaching such a length that it has become questionable whether they are really sideburns or beards. It would seem fair that when they get so long they get caught in a fellow's necktie knot they should be classified as whiskers.

The term "middle class" also has become confusing. Caught between rising prices and increasing taxes, the middle class is beginning to feel squeezed out of existence. No guy today really ought to call himself a member of the middle class unless his take-home pay still amounts to at least $5 more a week than he would get if he went on public welfare.

Blondes are reported to have the most fun, but did you ever notice how rarely you meet a red-haired spinster?

History By Hucksters

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

One of the great unsung blessings is that so much history came before Madison Avenue. Just think how great pronouncements would have been altered had the tooth paste hucksters had their hey day in another day.

TAKE, FOR EXAMPLE, when Gaius Julius Caesar marched back toward Rome, where Pompey and the Senate, increasingly jealous of Caesar's rising popularity, had ordered him to surrender his arms. With a single legion he came to the River Rubicon. Should he venture across, or should he wait his time. Caesar himself chronicled how "I have crossed the Rubicon."

But suppose Madison Avenue had been there? Imagine the legion lined up, ready to cross over the frontier river, virtually cutting off hopes of effective retreat and leaving only victory or death ahead. Caesar mounts the abuttment of a rustic, crude bridge, and starts to speak above the rattle of helmets, shields and swords:

"NOBLE SOLDIERS all," he says, "let thy ear attend me. Today we come upon this stream, our destiny balanced as a sword on its point . . ."

"Pater! Pater!," cries a voice.

"What is this?," scowls Caesar. "By the great head of Jupiter, it is my puer, Multipus Cavitus. Why Multipus, what brings you here?"

"Pater! Pater!" shouts Multipus, "I only had unus."

"UNUS, WHAT?," asks Caesar.

"Not II but only I cavity," says Multipus proudly.

"And to what dost thou attribute this fortune of the gods?," inquired Quintus Cassius, who lately fled from Rome to the protection of Caesar.

" 'Tis this new tooth potion," offers Caesar. "Since we have begun to using it, I have cut my cavities from IV to II.

"Now where was I . . . O, the Olympus with it. Let's get across this piddling creek and on to Rome. Pompey, here I come!"

OR IMAGINE the thousands crowded into the little town of Gettysburg winding their way to the battlefield still almost red with the blood of those who wore both blue and gray. Edward Everett Hale, named orator of the day because the committee lacked confidence in the President, has reached the perioration of his great classic address. Then a tall, bearded man in stovepipe hat comes forward, a single sheet of paper in his hand. His shoulders, stooped as though they carried the world, seem momentarily to straighten as he peers out over the multitude, and begins.

"FOUR SCORE and . . ."

"Paw! Paw!" shrills a little voice.

"Four score and, what's this?," Mr. Lincoln inquires.

"Paw! Paw! I only had one."

"One what?," Mr. Lincoln asks.

"One hole in all my teeth," volunteers little Tad.

MR. SEWARD steps forward and whispers in the President's ear. "And what's responsible for this extraordinary achievement, Mr. President?"

He gets the explanation and the President seeks to begin again, but the day is shot. "Four score and 10 holes ago, I mean, four holes and 10 cavities ago."

No Heroes Here

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — The case of the United States vs. Daniel Ellsberg is already a rather pathetic joke among some of the more realistic operatives in the Justice Department, which must try to put the one time Pentagon adviser in jail for criminal misuse of government secrets.

Privately, these career prosecutors agree with one of their number, who says: "Forget it. Ellsberg won't serve a day in stir."

NO ONE in an official capacity is condoning Ellsberg's action in obtaining and passing on to the press a classified Defense Department study of the Vietnam War. Indeed, there is considerable bitterness among Justice's career men over Ellsberg's apparent assertion of the right to decide which laws he would obey.

However, Justice must work with a statute that may be impossible to enforce. Title 18, Section 793 (e) of the U. S. code makes it a felony, punishable by up to 10 years in prison, for any person "willfully to communicate or transmit" any document relating to the national defense. But guilt or innocent depends on whether that person "has reason to believe (the document) could be used to the injury of the United States or to the advantage of any foreign nation.

IN SHORT, to convict Ellsberg the government must prove intent, which has always been a prosecution's toughest chore.

Ellsberg already has announced his defense. "Obviously," he said, "I didn't think there was a single page in the documents that would do grave danger to the national interests or I wouldn't have released them." A jury might not find his defense quite so obvious, but Ellsberg will have the benefit of the principle of reasonable doubt.

ELLSBERG HAS something else going for him. There are secrets and there are also secrets. That is to say, some secrets are kept from the enemy and some are kept from the American people.

Ellsberg has claimed that he purposedly refrained from passing on to the press any documents which dealt with negotiations by the Johnson administration with the governments of North Vietnam, the Soviet Union or any other foreign regimes.

THUS, HIS defense poses the question: Is it an "injury" to the United States and — or "to the advantage of any foreign nation" for an individual to pass on to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the press papers showing deception of the American people by their governments?

Well, some of the truth is out and it could be argued that the disillusionment suffered by many Americans as a result of Ellsberg's action has injured the Republic. It also could be charged that the nation's enemies have benefitted and will continue to benefit by the new divisions and the atmosphere of distrust created by publication of the documents. Certainly official Washington would be pleased if the shoe were on Moscow's — or Peking's — foot.

IT IS A curious case — sad curious, not funny curious. There seem to be no heroes anywhere. Ellsberg doesn't quite make it, despite his expressed and commendable willingness to suffer the consequences for his act. ("Ten years in prison is very cheap if that would contribute to ending the war.") After all, if he didn't break a law, he did betray a trust.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I am an agnostic, and I can find no proof that there is a God. Can you prove to me that God exists?

E.R.

It has pleased God to ordain that people should approach Him through the principle of faith. "He that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him." (Heb. 11:6). Doubt, such as you harbor, blocks the way to God, but faith conditions the heart for receiving and believing.

Material things can be weighed and evaluated in a test tube, but spiritual things are weighed and discerned in the heart. The Bible says, "With the heart (not the mind) man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

Even in the material realm some things must be taken by faith. For example: who has ever seen an ether wave, that invisible cable over which pictures and sounds come into our homes? These waves have never been photographed or seen, yet they are one of the indisputable realities of life.

But I would not try to rationalize your way to God. You have done too much of this already. But I would urge you to trust the One who held the world in His hand for millenniums before you were born. and will do so for millenniums after you have left this sphere of time and space. You have nothing to lose and everything to gain.

A Devotion For Today . . .

The Lord God took the man and put him in the garden of Eden to till it and keep it. (Genesis 2:15, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, it is our privilege to be in partnership with You. In humility and shame we acknowledge our many shortcomings. We desperately need You, O Father. Increase our desire to cooperate. Amen.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

There's one thing to be said for the weather this time of the year . . . it certainly keeps some of us home. So far I haven't found any place that quite comes up to the comfort of the air-conditioned space contained within the four walls of our house . . . or our office.

Taking an automobile trip doesn't seem to hold any lure for me. Later maybe, not now. Too many times have I been told of the wonderful automobile trip that turned into a dismal disappointment because the air conditioner on the car went kaput. Even the best of them fail when the vacationers are depending on its cooling powers.

So I'll just wait for later for the car trip with air conditioning . . . it will still be hot but hopefully not in the 105-degree bracket.

LITTERBUG WAS HERE — Litterbugs, combined with a downdraft, don't help the appearance of FM 700 where it crosses under Gregg Street. Clint Kent, maintenance foreman of the state highway department, said the underpass is cleaned once a week, usually on Friday prior to heavy weekend traffic, but in the meantime litterbugs go right on with their careless contributions.

Investigators Quiz Heatly About 'Deals'

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. W.S. Heatly of Paducah, one of the most powerful men in Texas government, was scheduled for questioning by federal investigators today about his profits from National Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock.

Also slated for quizzing by U.S Securities and Exchange Commission probers was Rush McGinty, one of House Speaker Gus Mutscher's top aides.

The SEC's second round of deposition-taking from state official in connection with its stock manipulation probe began Tuesday with F. C. "Sonny" Schulte, another speaker's aide.

BAUM TO TESTIFY

Dr. Elmer Baum, state Democratic chairman, is to testify at the closed-door hearing Thursday, and Mutscher and Gov. Preston Smith are scheduled to give new depositions Friday.

Heatly, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, told SEC probers last year he bought 8,813 NBL shares on Aug. 4, 1969, for $14.25 a share. He said he sold 7,813 shares on Sept. 30, 1969, at $19.75 a share, for a total profit of $49,971.

McGinty said he bought 4,115 shares of NBL stock at $11.12 a share on July 22, 1969, and sold 3,000 shares on Sept. 11 for $20 a share, or a total profit of $26,625.

Schulte testified for four hours Tuesday and told newsmen afterward that, "I don't have any comment."

In Tuesday's session, government investigators tried unsuccessfully to keep a lawyer for Smith and Baum from remaining in the room to hear Schulte's testimony.

LBJ'S FRIEND

But Donald S. Thomas, friend of ex-president Lyndon Johnson and former ambassador Ed Clark, eventually was allowed to remain as an observer.

The SEC men contended U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah Hughes of Dallas, who has jurisdiction over the government's stock manipulation suit against NBL and other defendants, had barred all but those directly involved from attending the deposition sessions.

Thomas insisted on remaining in the room, saying that "from what I've read in the public press, the targets of this investigation are uniformly lumped into one group."

A telephone call was made to Judge Hughes, Thomas said, and she permitted him to remain "just to listen."

Reporters were forbidden to be even on the same floor as the narrow conference room where the questioning was done.

Schulte was accompanied by his lawyer, Jim Kronzer of Houston.

In a deposition given last year, Schulte said he bought 2,000 shares of NBL stock for $11.12 on July 22, 1969, and sold them at $20 for a profit of $17,750 on Sept. 11, 1969.

QUICK PROFITS

Mutscher, Smith, Baum, McGinty, Heatly and Schulte all said they made short-term profits from NBL stock, purchased with money borrowed from the now defunct Sharpstown State Bank of Houston, in 1969. Mutscher later bought additional NBL stock and said he lost money when its price fell.

Trustees Consider Dean Resignation

An addition to the school board agenda has been made due to the notice received from Earl O. Dean, of Earl Dean and Company, Inc., Appraisers and Engineers, that he is terminating his contract with all county agencies as of July 31 to accept a similar position in San Antonio.

Action on filling the vacancy will be taken at the Thursday meeting of the Big Spring Independent School District school board.

Hobbs Youngster Enters Rodeo

The first registration for the 26th annual 4-H Junior Rodeo scheduled for July 22-24 has been received by Paul Gross, Howard County agent.

Fawna Lee Abel, 12, Hobbs, N.M., has signed up for the barrels, poles and breakaway roping. She is the only entrant so far in the rodeo that drew 252 4-H'ers from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma last year.

The 4-H Junior Rodeo is the major money making event for the youth group.

Dawson Cowboy Stars In Upcoming Western

LAMESA — J. C. Porter admits he has "slept on many a section of Dawson and Gaines county land."

Recently, however, he played a movie part for which he has unknowingly trained all his life. The movie, "The Honkers," in which Porter portrays an old-time cowboy, will be released Jan. 1.

"The Honkers," starring Slim Pickens, James Coburn and Larry Mahan, along with Porter, was filmed in and around Carlsbad, N.M., and brings together Porter and Pickens, who first met some 40 years ago when they rode the rodeo circuit together.

While Porter continued in the cowboy business in Gaines and Dawson counties, Pickens went into the movies and has appeared in many motion pictures.

After "The Honkers" is released Jan. 1, it will be televised nationally approximately six or eight months later.

In the movie, Porter will appear with Pickens on top of the chutes, making a bet that Lew, the hometown cowboy played by Coburn, will ride the "Old Bull 86." He has a continuing role throughout the movie.

"The Honkers" includes a full downtown parade, a full rodeo, and a bar scene where Lew gets beat up over a girl he has been romancing. The sequences were filmed in Carlsbad and in Honkers Arena, three miles east.

In the downtown rodeo parade, Jo Ancell, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Berl Ancell, former Seminole residents, wins second best rodeo cowgirl and receives $75 in cash. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Fulkerson, formerly of Lamesa, and now living in Artesia, N.M.

The movie is about Lew (Coburn) a hometown cowboy who beats the nationally known cowboys in bullriding and saddle bronc riding.

A guest on the movie set was Ace Reid, Texas artist who draws the nationally syndicated "Cowpoke" cartoons. Reid and Porter are life-long friends.

Porter serves as rodeo judge for the Carlsbad rodeo in the movie. In this capacity he settles all decisions and arguments among the rodeo cowboys. The announcer is Chuck Parkinson, nationally known rodeo announcer.

Porter and his wife, Janie, have three children Dr. Walker Porter, veterinarian at Groesbeck; and two daughters, Jay and Nelda, who performed extensively at the biggest rodeos in the Southwest during the 1950s.

Porter resided in Dawson and Gaines counties for more than 50 years and worked for F. M. Weaver, Mrs. Louie Weaver and later for Bill Weaver as field manager.

He is currently writing a book on his life as a cowboy, at the same time travelling and assisting with rodeos throughout Texas and adjoining states.

Middle School Landscaping Nears End, Roads Planned

LAMESA — Work on the Middle School nears completion as the grounds are landscaped, the streets paved, the materials cleared away and the problems connected with the structure corrected.

One of the more noticeable changes that will take place around the Middle School complex in the next few weeks will be the construction of a street for buses to run north and south from one end of the campus to the other between the old gym and the Middle School itself.

School officials indicated that this street will be used for the loading and unloading of buses only, and that cars will not be allowed to enter the zone.

Construction of streets west of the school and on the football field has already begun.

Other improvements slated for the area will be another parking lot at the Northeast corner of the campus, and installation of sidewalks.

Trees and shrubs will be planted around the school, especially on the western side, after a study on the matter.

The old boiler room located near the remaining single story set of classrooms south of the campus is in the process of being moved. The boiler itself will be placed in the high school next year.

Central heat is being installed in the old classrooms that will be used primarily for art and music. The ceilings are also being lowered in the building.

The school's architect and general contractor are expected to examine the building and advise the board on the expansion of the steel framework that has caused cracks to appear in two sides of the building. Correction of the problem is expected to present only minor difficulties.

Local Girls At Summer Camp

First Summer Term Ending

The current six-weeks term at Howard County Junior college will conclude with Friday classes, Ben Johnson, academic dean, reminded today.

Registration for the second term of the summer session will be Monday in the college library from 8 a.m. to noon, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., he said Classes begin on Tuesday, July 13. The term will conclude Thursday, Aug. 19.

Most of the courses offered in the second six-weeks period will be the second unit of those offered in the first period. However, there will be a number of first-unit and other courses available, said Dean Johnson.

TEXAS STOCK SCANDAL DEPOSITION

Former Exec Tells About Collapse Of Company

DALLAS (AP)—The financial collapse of RIC International, a company involved in the stock fraud suit against Houston financier Frank Sharp, was detailed Tuesday in one of three depositions filed in federal court.

John E. Beaird, former chief executive of the South Atlantic Co. of Tampa, Fla., explained how South Atlantic purchased RIC then sold out to a Texas group.

CARR'S PARTNER

His deposition, filed by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, plaintiffs in the suit against Sharp and others, related a deal discussed in October 1968 with John Osorio and Sharp. Osorio was once the law partner of former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr.

In the deal discussed, he said, Sharp would have acquired controling interest in South Atlantic, a shipping company.

When the deal failed to materialize, RIC acquired Dallas Bank & Trust Co. and the Pioneer Casualty Co. of San Antonio with the aid of the Texas group—led by Osorio and Carr—in a stock swap, his deposition stated.

Osorio later became president of South Atlantic and Carr assumed a key post when the Texas group assumed control of South Atlantic.

Because he felt Texas money would shore up South Atlantic's financial standing, Beaird said he agreed to sell the Texas group about 220,000 shares of South Atlantic stock.

He said he was aware at that time that Sharp held 51 per cent of National Banker's Life Insurance Co.

IT WAS TOO LATE

"I knew," he said, "that Mr. Osorio had been insurance commissioner of Texas. I knew that Mr. Carr had been the attorney general of Texas. I knew that Mr. Sharp was apparently a man of considerable means and I thought that National Bankers Life Insurance Co. was a fairly sound company until I examined their annual report of 1969."

"Then," his deposition stated, "I began to have some questions. But, by that time, it was too late."

In the autumn of 1969, the deposition continued, Osorio asked Beaird to release a second lien he held on the South Atlantic stock because RIC, a South Atlantic subsidiary, was attempting to buy a Washington life insurance company.

Beaird's deposition said Osorio had related that the insurance commissioner in Washington State would not permit the purchase because "he had connected me (Beaird) with the Mafia," and didn't want the Mafia to gain control of the insurance firm.

The Washington official was suspicious of a man Beaird had hired as an RIC consultant, he said. "I really don't know if he's in the Mafia or not," Beaird's deposition stated.

BORROWED MONEY

Beaird said he knew that large amounts of money were being borrowed by South Atlantic without consent of the company's directors in June, 1970.

According to his statement, Beaird said South Atlantic borrowed more than $1 million, most of it from National Bankers Life, of which Osorio was president. The loans were secured by 520,000 shares of RIC stock.

Beaird came to Dallas, he said, "to find out what and where the loans were and where the money had gone."

He said he never got satisfactory accounting but was informed by Osorio that Sharp had assumed control of RIC and changed its directorship.

Osorio told of trying to get Sharp to help RIC out of its financial straits and take control of both RIC and South Atlantic, he said.

According to his deposition, Beaird said Osorio told him that he and Carr would transfer their stock to Sharp but Carr objected later, saying he should "have something" out of it.

Angler Says 11 Pals Died 'One By One'

VERACRUZ, Mexico (AP)—A fisherman found in the Gulf of Mexico aboard a makeshift raft told authorities 11 of his friends died "one by one" after their fishing boat sank.

Ramon Ayala, 60, of Alvarado, Veracruz, was rescued by a fishing boat Monday. He was unconscious.

He was taken to a hospital where hours later he recovered enough to tell doctors of the sinking of his fishing boat, the Amada Alicia, missing since June 28.

Ayala said the Amada Alicia left Veracruz June 27 with 12 crewmen and Capt. Manuel Flores aboard.

The boat was about 60 miles off the island of Santiaguillo when there was a crack in the hull and the boat started taking water.

"It all happened very fast," Ayala told the doctors, "We did not have time to use the radio. We just barely had time to tie some pieces of wood together for a raft. We all jumped in but we could not take any food or water with us. The boat sank very fast."

Ayala said he and his friends drifted for seven days. "They died one by one," he said. "Those of us who were still alive threw the dead ones overboard to make more room."

Court Refuses To Dismiss Suit Against Big D Schools

DALLAS (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge William Taylor said Tuesday he will not dismiss a Dallas Legal Services desegregation suit against public schools scheduled for trial Monday.

"The 1965 order is final," he said.

School board members indicated later in the day they would present no new desegregation alternatives.

"They (Dallas Legal Services) have the burden to prove we're out of compliance with the law," said school board lawyer Warren Whitham.

Whitham sought dismissal of the suit in a hearing Tuesday.

Taylor's reference to the 1965 order recalled a federal court ruling that required Dallas schools to abandon its separate educational facilities system for blacks and whites.

LIKE NOTHING

The desegregation plan now being considered was proposed by the Texas Educational Desegregation Assistance Center (TEDTAC).

"I would assume, in light of the fact you say you're in complete compliance, that you'll come up with nothing," Taylor said.

School Supt. Nolan Estes had said earlier the school district would offer nothing at the trial except the "good faith" efforts it has demonstrated in the past to comply with U.S. Supreme Court interpretations of the law.

Schools records show that 68 per cent of the Negro pupils in Dallas schools attend schools that are 95 to 100 per cent Negro.

Attorneys for the 21 Negro and Mexican-American plaintiffs in the lawsuit said Tuesday they probably will support the TEDTAC plan in court.

The TEDTAC plan proposes massive school busing to eliminate all racially identifiable schools in the Dallas school district.

The plan incorporates radical changes in school attendance boundaries.

The TEDTAC plan for Dallas was authored at Taylor's direction.

SHARP SLAPS

The judge emphasized at the Tuesday hearing that the TEDTAC plan is only a proposal.

It was made public last week and drew sharp criticism, mostly from white parents. One man, James E. Turner, posted said earlier the school district would offer nothing at the trial a large sign in the front yard of his home saying: "We Will Not Bus."

Dawson Assistant Agent To Leave

LAMESA — Joe Ed Wise, who has served as assistant county agricultural agent for Dawson County since 1968, has been appointed to the post of Crosby County agent, effective Sept. 1.

Wise will replace County Agent Bruce Griffith who will become the Howard County agent Sept. 1.

The joint announcement was made by Crosby County Judge Robert Work and Billy C. Gunter of Lubbock, district agricultural agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A native of Rockwood, in Coleman County, Wise was graduated from Texas Tech University in 1968 with a B. S. degree in agricultural education.

Wise has also completed some work toward a M. S. degree at Texas A&M University. While at Texas Tech, he was on the Dean's Honor list and was a member of the meat and livestock judging teams and a representative to the Aggie council.

Wise was raised on a farm and was active in FFA work during his youth, serving as president of his high school FFA chapter. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Wise, of Rockwood.

Wise is married to the former Ruth Ann Walker, also a native of Coleman County. Mrs. Wise is a 1970 graduate of Texas Tech and taught in the Lamesa school system this past year.

Most Texas Banks Report 'Big Boom'

By The Asscciated Press

A survey of bank deposits in Texas shows there is a lot of money in the state—enough that many banks have record high deposits.

The high bank deposits in Texas, despite economic setbacks in agriculture and some unemployment, come as no apparent surprise to businessmen who have been saying that Texas has a strong economic footing.

There are banks here and there across Texas, however, that reported smaller deposits than three months ago, despite mid-year records.

Checking and savings account reached all-time highs Tuesday at Houston, in Grayson County (Sherman-Denison), Del Rio, Brownwood, Hunt County (Greenville), El Paso and Bryan-College Station.

MID-YEAR HIGHS

Mid-year highs were reported by Dallas County banks and also at Amarillo, Corsicana and in Cooke County (Gainesville) and Nolan County (Sweetwater).

Wichita Falls was less than a million short of an all-time high.

Mid-year all-time records are exceptional. When records are set, they usually come at the end of the year.

The bank reports were ordered Tuesday by the comptroller of the currency, the Federal Reserve System and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., as is done each quarter.

Most Texas economic observers credited the good deposit totals to sound, steady business conditions and favorable federal currency procedures.

There was a chance that next quarter's figures could go even higher through an increase in savings deposits. For only Tuesday, eastern banks again raised the interest rates for time accounts, which could draw more money into savings systems.

On the other hand, there have been indications that people have more money in the bank because they are refusing to spend it because of unsettled business conditions in some segments of the economy and because they don't like the price levels of retail goods such as cars, washers, television sets, clothes and the like.

One Dallas economist, asked why money in the bank has risen quarter after quarter, sometime massively, said interest rates and regulations have changed so that banks now can compete more aggressively for time deposits.

July Fourth Weekend Fruitful For Cowboys

DENVER, Colo. — The Fourth of July was a rich weekend for professional rodeo cowboys, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said here today.

Four of the biggest rodeos, out of 25 held around the Fourth, paid winners nearly $100,000. The top money winner was Barry Burk, Duncan, Okla., who won nearly $2,000 in calf roping and steer wrestling at New York City, Cody, Wyo., and Springdale, Ark.

The wins jumped Burk into the 10th spot in calf roping with winnings of $6,337. So far this season Burk has won $8,650 in his two events.

A native New Yorker was the biggest winner at the Madison Square Garden rodeo in New York City, where $34,458 was at stake. Dennis O'Rourke, Brooklyn, finished first in steer wrestling, the richest event at the rodeo, for $1,817.

The season's leader for the world champion all around cowboy title, Phil Lyne, George West, Tex., was winless last week but still leads with $22,196.

Event leaders are, according to RCA:

All-around cowboy—Phil Lyne, George West, Tex., $22,196, and Paul Mayo, Grinnell, Iowa, $20,080; saddle bronc riding — Bill Smith, Cody, Wyo., $12,341, and Mel Hyland, Surrey, B.C., $9,657; bareback bronc — Paul Mayo $14,832, and T. The Step-Mother

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a widow I'll call Emma, whom I always thought to be a very sensible lady. I was a widower with a 14-year-old son. Emma had no children.

Before our marriage, Emma agreed to move into my house with my son and me. I work nights. Right after the wedding, Emma moved in, but two days later she moved out, saying the boy had made improper advances toward her. Now she refuses to come back until I get a daytime job, so I can stay home nights to "protect" her from my son.

I find it hard to believe that the boy ever made any improper advances to my bride. I asked him, and he denied it, saying Emma was crazy. Emma says the boy is not only a sex maniac, but a liar. I don't know what to believe.

In the meantime, I am legally married but I have no wife. In fact, we have never actually lived together as man and wife yet. What kind of marriage do you call this? NEVADA

DEAR NEVADA: Unconsummated! See a lawyer. Under the circumstances an annulment shouldn't be hard to obtain. And you had better find out for certain who is lying. If Emma is telling the truth, your son needs help. If your son has been unjustly accused, then Emma needs help.

DEAR ABBY: I am so burned up, I'll bet sparks are coming out of my ears!

Three years ago I gave my sister-in-law a baby bed and a high chair. My children had outgrown them, but both items were as good as new.

Yesterday I found out that she sold them! Now, I ask you, did she have the right to sell them after I gave them to her for nothing? When I told her I wish she had told me she didn't want them because I would have taken them back, she said, "I would have if you had told me you were only lending them to me, but you told me you were giving them to me." Who is right? BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: She is. When you give something away, it's no longer yours.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Jim) has a strange attachment to a girl he knew during high school. Jim corresponded with her all through college, where he met me, and we married shortly after graduation.

Now Jim calls her daily and keeps her picture in our bedroom and one on his desk at his office. Otherwise he is perfect husband. He told me he proposed to her before he asked me and she turned him down.

Don't advise me to talk it over with Jim. I've done that and he tells me I should be pleased that she approves of me. Any suggestions? No. 2

DEAR NO. 2: I suggest that if you put up with a man who makes you feel like No. 2 either you must have no alternative or you like the punishment.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelop.

Role Of X-Ray

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Referring to the enclosed clippings, how can X-ray both cause cancer and be used to cure it? I've never understood this. —Mrs. A. M.

For about the same reason that atropine, or a lot of other drugs, can be life-savers or deadly poisons, depending on how they are used.

X-rays, or gamma rays which can be produced by various radioactive isotopes as well as by X-ray tubes, have various properties.

The best known property of these rays is that they penetrate solid materials, which is why, in tiny amounts, they can take X-ray pictures to [illegible] X-ray can destroy tissues rather quickly, but destroys unhealthy tissues more quickly than healthy tissues.

In larger amounts, X rays can destroy living tissue. In the early years of X-ray use, half a century ago and thereabouts, this was not known. It became known only after doctors working with X-ray began developing cancers. This was only after they had been working with the rays for two or three decades.

Until then it was not known that it was necessary to protect oneself from repeated exposure to rays. Today, of course, every precaution is taken to prevent the rays from reaching anyone except the person who needs them.

Finally, in intense doses, X

Therefore, when a cancer has started, and cannot be removed surgically, a sharply-focused beam of X rays can be aimed at the cancer, to destroy the cancer cells. True, the surrounding healthy cells may also suffer, but not as much.

Exactly why an intense beam of X rays in a short time does not cause cancer, but scattered small doses, over a long space of time, will do so, is not clear. We don't know enough about either cancer of X ray.

We do know from experience that long-continued irritation can cause cancer. For example, the repeated irritation of a mole, or years of exposure to various chemicals or other irritants. But they do. Or can.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does syphilis ever come back on a man or woman? I hear people say it can come back after 15 to 20 years. Is that true? — N. S.

Yes and no. That is, syphilis, when properly treated and cured, does not come back later, unless, of course, the person is again exposed to the disease and gets it again.

However, this may be what you have been hearing about: syphilis, if not treated, eventually seems to go away. All the visible signs, the original painless sore, the subsequent skin eruptions, disappear by themselves. So far as the patient is concerned, he thinks the disease has gone.

But it hasn't! The germs are still in his body, and sooner or later, perhaps even 15 years later, other results of the disease will start to appear — arthritis, heart disease, brain disease, and many others, some of them fatal.

The sooner syphilis is treated, the better, but even if you have not been treated and some time has passed, go get treatment now. A blood test will show whether you still have it.

Willie Mays To Play In 22nd All-Star Go

NEW YORK (AP) — Atlanta's Hank Aaron and San Francisco's Willie Mays, two of baseball's all-time greats, and Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell, the major league leader in home runs and runs batted in, were named today as the starting outfield for the 1971 National League All-Star team.

Aaron, starting for the 12th time and appearing in his 20th All-Star game, was the top vote getter in both major leagues with 1,119,306 votes out of 2,396,895 ballots cast.

Mays, also named as a starter for the 12th time and playing in his 22nd All-Star game, was second in the NL with 1,084,887 votes.

Stargell collected 851,161 votes, far ahead of fourth-place finisher Lou Brock of St. Louis, who had 432,575.

San Francisco will be the only team with two starters for the National Leaguers when they oppose the American League in the classic at Detroit in a night game July 13. In addition to Mays, the Giants' Willie McCovey will be at first base.

Completing the starting NL infield will be second baseman Glenn Beckert of Chicago, shortstop Bud Harrelson of New York and third baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis. The catcher will be Johnny Bench of Cincinnati.

Bench was the only other National Leaguer to granger more than a million votes. He received 1,060,651 in the balloting announced by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Bench, Aaron, Mays and Beckert are repeaters from the 1970 starting squad.

Third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore led the AL voting with 1,110,468. Picked to join Robinson in the infield were shortstop Luis Aparicio of Boston, second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota and first baseman Boog Powell of Baltimore. Ray Fosse of Cleveland was selected as the catcher.

Chosen to start in the outfield were Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, Tony Oliva of Minnesota and Frank Robinson of Baltimore.

Each of the starters selected by fans throughout the United States and Canada must play three innings.

The remainder of the teams, including pitchers, will be named by the managers—Cincinnati's Sparky Anderson for the National Leaguers and Baltimore's Earl Weaver for the Americans.

Norm Cash Playing Hot Hand For Detroiters

By The Associated Press

Norm Cash is really going places this year—everywhere, in fact, but the All-Star game. At least he doesn't plan on it.

The hot-handed Detroit first baseman, who finished second to Baltimore's Boog Powell in the All-Star voting, believes American League Manager Earl Weaver won't choose him to the squad.

"I don't think he'll change his mind overnight, either," said Cash.

Weaver may have second thoughts, though, after what happened Tuesday night: Cash drove in six runs with two, three-run homers to lead the Tigers to a 12-7 romp over the New York Yankees.

To further spice the All-Star situation, Powell was taken out of action Tuesday night with a sore wrist as the Orioles split a twi-night doubleheader with Washington. Baltimore won the first game 6-2 and Washington the second, 3-2.

INDIANS EDGED

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox nipped the Cleveland Indians 3-2; the Oakland A's topped the Chicago White Sox 9-4; the Kansas City Royals nudged the Milwaukee Brewers 1-0 and the California Angels turned back the Minnesota Twins 7-5.

In the National League, it was Pittsburgh 5, Cincinnati 2; Montreal 5, New York 1; Atlanta 5, Philadelphia 2; Houston 5, San Francisco 2 and Chicago 3, Los Angeles 1.

Cash was runnerup for the Dream Game in Detroit next Tuesday despite an all-around better offensive performance than Powell's. He's hitting .290 to Powell's .220, has a league-leading 19 homers to Powell's 14 and has scored 37 runs to Powell's 36. Boog leads in runs batted in, 54 to 47.

The Tiger first baseman, having his best year so far, says he's read in newspapers that Weaver won't pick him as an All-Star sub "because he has a lot of guys who can also play first base."

Powell, meanwhile, was lifted from the second game after striking out in the first inning. He swung weakly at three pitches and twice dropped the bat in pain. Team doctors say Powell needs a few days rest and a new wrapping will be used on the sore right wrist next time out.

Cash unloaded a three-run homer in the second inning when the Tigers tagged New York starter Stan Bahnsen for seven runs—their biggest single inning outburst of the year. Cash then crashed a three-run shot off Gary Jones in the fourth.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

One-time Big Spring hurler Camilo Pascual opened this season with Cleveland and was due to close it with San Diego but his sense of direction carried him to Miami rather than to the West Coast when the Indians sold his contract to the Padres.

Pascual, who has substantial real estate holdings in Miami, has initiated a grievance against the Indians through Marvin Miller and the Major League Baseball Players Association.

According to Miller, executive director of the players' association, the complaint is based on the Indians' "incredible display of lack of concern for a human being and an incredible attempt to break the Basic Agreement in order to save a few bucks."

The "few bucks" Miller mentioned amounts to $19,000 in wages, which will give you an idea of how money is being thrown around in professional sports these days.

Indications are strong that Camilo opened the season with a sore arm, the Indians found out about it and decided Pascual had a better chance of eliminating the ache in the balmy weather at San Diego than in the cold winds that blow off Lake Erie.

The Indians said they did not intend to pay Camilo any termination pay. Miller, who wants so desperately to tell every owner how to run their business, reasons Pascual has a good and just case against the debt-ridden Indians.

Pascual took a substantial pay cut, from $40,000 to $28,000 per annum, after electing to give it another try this spring. When he refused to report to the Padres early last month, he was released outright.

Pascual maintains he has a sore arm due to a pinched nerve in his neck, an ailment which curve-ball pitchers often develop. In his time, Pascual was perhaps the best curve-ball pitcher in the American League.

If a player is released for non-medical reasons by a big league club, he still is entitled to 60 days' termination pay under existing rules.

Camilo, who started his 18th season in the big leagues this year, no doubt, has reached the end of the trail as a player. Even were he interested in trying it again, he'd probably suffer from frost bite if he approached any team. Where money and issues are concerned, the big league teams have a way of closing ranks in a hurry.

Charley West, the local product who has become one of the most valued defensive backs with the Minnesota Vikings, visited here recently but hurried back north to play in the Brian Piccolo Cancer Research Fund Golf Day at Lake Geneva, Wisc.

Piccolo is the former Chicago Bear who was fatally stricken by the disease.

The Bears, incidentally, will scrimmage the College All-Stars July 23 in Rensselaer, Ind., with proceeds going to the three daughters of Brian and Joy Piccolo.

The golf day raised $27,500 for cancer research.

The money came from amateur linksters, who paid $100 each to play with the professional athletes.

I was privileged to watch Willie Mays and the San Francisco Giants in a recent game against Houston — that's how the National League leaders are billed when they appear in the Astrodome, with Willie's name preceding that of the club's.

At the age of 40, Mays is a finely-tuned athlete. He's had a great career and, no doubt, inspires his teammates. However, he is no longer a superstar, despite claims made by that army of flacks employed by the club and the league.

Willie committed two costly blunders afield that dearly cost the Giants and he is no longer the menace at bat he once was. The entire league needs him to hypo the gate, however. He's a sentimental favorite wherever he goes. His appearance at the plate invariably causes a ripple of excitement, at home or on the road. Willie McCovey and Bobby Bonds of the Giants are much bigger threats at bat, however.

DALE LEE

Local Runner Wins Event

Dale Lee, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Audie Lee of 1409 Aylford, won a plaque and a medal by finishing first in the intermediate division of a ten-mile marathon run at Brownfield Sunday.

In over-all competition that included a 60-year-old man, young Lee was seventh. Dale's time for the gruelling event, run at 4:30 p.m. on a hot day, was 86 minutes 26 seconds.

A mile runner on the local high school team, Dale was trying the marathon for the first time. He beat a 17-year-old out for first place in his division.

In all, the field included about 25 entries. The athletes ran five miles along a highway, ten retraced their steps.

Lee: Early Birds To Get A Break

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Lee Trevino, the man riding one of the hottest streaks in golf with the U.S. and Canadian Opens already in his pocket, set off in pursuit of the British title today with a putting worry on his mind.

"The players who start early will have a very, very big advantage over the boys starting later," Trevino said.

"The greens here at Roval Birkdale have been well watered. They've been soaked by the weather as well as the green keeper.

"By mid-afternoon the footprints of the earlier players will have crusted up and certainly will make putting more difficult."

Trevino was scheduled to start smack in the middle of the field. He's going out with British Walker Cup Captain Mike Bonallack.

Trevino is one of 150 players chasing this crown, first competed for in 1860.

All of the competitors agreed that there could be putting troubles for the late starters.

Norman Von Nida, 57-year-old maestro of Australian golf, commented: "These greens have been watered too much. The heavy traffic over the greens will leave footprints that could harden in the sun.

The betting odds fluctuated almost by the minute. Trevino was listed as 4-1 co-favorite with defending champion Jack Nicklaus Tuesday night.

By this morning Nicklaus was the clear favorite again at 4-1 with Trevino slipping back to 5-1.

The field is packed with stars. Charles Coody, the U.S. Masters champion, Gary Player, the South African who has collected every major title in golf, Billy Casper, former U.S. Open champion, left-hander Bob Charles from New Zealand, a former winner, and the home-grown Tony Jacklin who held both the U.S. and British Open titles two years ago, all are here to compete over Royal Birkdale's 7,080-yard, par 35-38—73 links by the Irish Sea.

LOSERS NEAR FLAG

Optimists Nudge Tigers In 7th

The Optimists banked five runs in the first but had to rely on a seventh inning tally to edge the front-running Tigers, 7-6, in Hi-Junior league play Tuesday night.

The loss kept the Tigers from clinching a tie for first place in the standings. They are now 9-3 on the year, compared to 6-6 for the Optimists.

Alan Davis settled down to pitch well for the Tigers after experiencing a rough time in Round One. Richard Shook, who divided time on the mound with Snickel Beal, was the winning flinger.

The Tigers exploded for three runs in the first on a walk, two bobbles and singles by Davis and Bruce Abbe.

In their half of the round, the Optimists used two errors, two walks, two infled singles and a solid smash to center by Beal to pick up their five runs.

After the first round, Davis allowed only three hits over the final six innings. He was pitching his first game in two years, having missed last year due to a wrist injury. He walked three and whiffed 11.

Beal also started his first game in two seasons. He allowed only two runs after 'hello' round before being relieved in the sixth by Shook.

After Davis had fanned two batters in the seventh, Donald McKee reached first on a bobble. Terry Shaffer followed with a single and Steve Stone walked to load the bases.

Glen Carlton hit an infield roller which was mishandled, enabling McKee to log it home with the winning run.

Pat Ray and Davis paced the Tiger attack with two hits each. The Bengals outhit the Optimists, 9-6.

Torrid Astros Shock Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With all the fuss over the Giants and the Dodgers in the National League West, it might be wise not to ignore the torrid Houston Astros as a pennant contender in the tightening division.

Winning their fifth straight game, the Astros climbed to within eight games of San Francisco with a 5-2 victory over the Giants Tuesday night. The Dodgers also lost, remaining 3½ games behind.

"We've actually played some good ball all season, but we hadn't been hitting until the last three weeks," explained Astros' manager Harry Walker, who feels his club has the ability to threaten the Giants and Dodgers.

"It's a game of momentum and we've got some now. When you keep winning, your confidence builds up to the point where you know you can do the job.

"The key to our recent success," he continued, "is a combination of things going right. Our defense has been very good and our bullpen has been picking us up."

He Thinks Rich Investor, Two Elderly Women Dead

DALLAS (AP) — With no substantial clues in the disappearance of wealthy investor Robert L. "Tex" Roberts and two elderly women, the chief investigator said Tuesday he thinks the trio is dead.

Lt. Jim Hobbs of the Dallas County Metro Squad said: "I never really thought they were alive. Now I feel sure they are dead."

Hobbs said photographs and detailed descriptions of the three were circulated throughout the nation. He said two officers have been assigned to the case full time since it first came to light during a court of inquiry last May.

He said there have been almost no leads at all. "Ordinarily, we'd expect to get some kind of response from these pictures," Hobbs said, "but we haven't even gotten a crank call. That's one reason we think they may be dead."

Roberts, 85; his aunt, Jessie I. Forsythe, 89; and Anna Farley, 72, all disappeared last year.

A Dallas lawyer, Leon C. Horton, told the court of inquiry he had been given Roberts' power of attorney before Roberts disappeared but Horton was charged with forging the document.

Horton is free under a $5,000 bond.

Hobbs said findings of the court of inquiry and information gathered by the police are expected to be taken before the grand jury within two weeks.

College Bus Is Replaced

A bid of $10,000 plus trade-in of an old bus was accepted by trustees of Howard County Junior College Tuesday in replacement for the college's large bus.

Only bidder was Joe Hicks Motor Company for a 1961 commercial-type 32-passenger liner with a recently completely rebuilt diesel motor, air conditioning and power equipment.

The bus will take the place of a 1951 model unit which has been in use by the college for the past decade.

The unit is to be used in transporting large college groups which cannot be accommodated in station wagons or a smaller bus. It is especially adapted for long hauls.

Only other business at the Tuesday meeting was to authorize publication of notices for the public hearing on the 1971-72 college budget set for Aug. 3.

Shifting Pacific Waters Might Be Cause Of Drouth

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Slowly shifting regions of warm and cold water in the northern Pacific Ocean might be causing the drouth now gripping the Southwest, a National Weather Service scientist says. But there is a possibility, too, that the curious pools may soon send somewhat warmer winters to the East, he adds.

One region of cold water, thousands of miles square, lies off the California coast. It is adjoined by a pool of warmer water farther west.

Jerome Namias, chief of the National Weather Service's extended forecast division, says these huge pools could be causing the drouth in New Mexico, Arizona and West Texas.

Forecasters don't understand the mechanism, but Namias and his colleagues say the unusual water conditions may be creating a persistent region of high atmospheric pressure several hundred miles out to sea and a region of low pressure over New Mexico and Arizona that cause predominately westerly winds.

The winds prevent moisture-laden warm air masses from the Gulf of Mexico bringing precipitation to the Southwest.

President Nixon has declared parts of the Southwest a disaster area enabling farmers and ranchers to receive federal aid.

Namias, in a recent interview at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography at La Jolla where he spends six months each year as a research meteorologist, emphasized that this theory is a tentative explanation.

"We don't have enough data to conclusively prove this is causing the drouth," he said. "But it's becoming more clear to many of us that the sea and the atmosphere area much more closely entwined than previously believed.

"We hadn't realized that the sea can cause short term, regional weather patterns such as a drouth or unusually cold winter."

The changes in atmospheric pressure and winds in the east Pacific and Southwest associated with the drouth began last winter, Namias said. The area of high pressure, called a pressure ridge, runs north-south several hundred miles off the Pacific Coast.

The low-pressure area, called a trough, runs north-south from Colorado and Utah down through New Mexico and Arizona into northern Mexico. Such a trough is also present in a normal year, but this year is much narrower and deeper than usual.

The difference has been enough to cause the westerly winds over the Southwest and diversion of the moist Gulf air masses.

Historic Inn Is Purchased

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — A San Francisco company has purchased the 95-year-old Mission Inn, the historic 300-room hotel where President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon were married in 1940. It may be converted into an apartment house.

The owner of the restaurant-bar-hotel, Ben Swig, says it has been losing $20,000 a month recently. Terms of the sale to Urban Housing Co. were not disclosed although Swig said the hotel is valued at $750,000.

Presidents Benjamin Harrison, William McKinley, William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt stayed at the inn. The hotel houses artifacts from throughout the world.

Lamesa UF Begins Work

LAMESA — The United Fund campaign for 1971 began its initial summer preparations last week with a meeting of the budget committee members to hear requests from Lamesa and Dawson County agencies involved in the coming United Fund drive.

The United Fund Board and members will meet Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in Action Hall of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss recommendations by the budget committee, and release the proposed goal for this year's drive.

John Palmore is chairman of the committee, and Wendell Strahan will head up the drive for this year's campaign. Strahan is currently organizing division leaders and program material for the United Way campaign.

President of the United Fund Board this year is Tom Branon. Other officers are Peggy Baldwin, vice president and John Hegi, secretary-treasurer.

Holdover directors include Dallas Woods, Keith McCormick, Hank Myers, Bud Hale, Tommy Buckner, John Hegi, Virgil Groat and Charles Varner.

Peggy Baldwin, Theresa Hale, Bill Gerber, Don Bristow, Fred Barrington, Newton Starnes, Willis Gresham and Tom Branon were elected new directors.

Talented Texas 'Birdman' Presented In Magazine

An artist winging his way to fame, the reactivation of an 1837 Texas Ranger port, and some highly-interesting facts about the lowly onion are spotlighted in this Sunday's edition of The Texas Star magazine, a part of The Sunday Herald package.

James Eddleman has carved and painted a flock of wooden birds that seem real enough to fly away. The story of his unique talent is beautifully told in "Birdman of Lubbock" by Frank G. Kelly, Jr.

Rangers who established an outpost "in Waco village" more than 134 years ago would be amazed at the Fort Fisher complex there now. Thomas Turner describes the present-day headquarters, tourist park and museum on the banks of the Brazos in "Return of the Rangers."

L. A. Wilke notes in "You Oughta Know Your Onions" that Texas leads the nation in production of this paper-skinned tear jerker. And then proceeds to pack more fun and figures into a fascinating story about a vegetable that most of us are inclined to take for granted.

Also in the Star this Sunday, don't miss Weldon Hart's item about the courthouse at Columbus, a peaceful reminder of a violent past; Wanda J. Campbell's increasingly popular answers to some tough questions; Mary Faulk Koock's several Chinese food recipes, or Wick Fowler's sure sign that the country is on the move.

Cablecasting Is Explained To Club

An explanation of cablecasting was presented to the Rotary Club at its Tuesday noon meeting at the Settles.

Ralph Mahoney, responsible for leasing the channel, said that the primary function of the channel is to provide local information. He said that it offers free time to political candidates, and adheres to the FCC fairness doctrine. Commercials can come only at natural breaks.

Mahoney said that his decision to enter into the lease agreement was promoted by what he regarded as a "starving need for local news" in this media. Open house is planned in about two weeks at the studios at 2006 Birdwell Lane, he told the Rotarians.

Captain Scores

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Capt. Alfred F. Blair, who left college 31 years ago to join the Navy, finally got his bachelor of arts degree at Penn State.

The Pittsburgh native, now commanding officer and director of the Antisubmarine Warfare Tactical School in Norfolk, Va., took a nine-month furlough from the Navy to enroll at the Ongontz campus of the university near Philadelphia. While at sea he worked on correspondence courses and he studied languages with private tutors.

Capt. Blair, 54, said "I wanted to wrap up that college degree before all five of my children beat me to it."

Seminar Invites Teachers, Parents

BROWNWOOD — A seminar in communicative disorders — designed mainly for school teachers, parents and others who deal with children — is scheduled July 19-30 as part of Howard Payne College's summer session of classes.

The seminar, to meet from 1 p.m.-5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday in Howard Payne's Douglas MacArthur Academy of Freedom, will be taught by Frank L. Brister, new associate professor of speech at HPC.

Dr. Brister is one of only about 1,000 persons in the U.S. today who hold certificates of competence in the area of audiology from the Speech and Hearing Association in Washington, D.C. According to Brister, the two-week seminar will be a survey course dealing with the investigation of various disorders which interfere with a child's ability to reach his maximum potential in the classroom context.
