Patriot Guard Riders hold vigil for victims

A candlelight vigil to honor the four wounded veterans who died in a train wreck last year started with the sound of warning bells at a nearby crossing.

Then came of the roar of the rushing train as the Midland High Air Force JROTC stepped through the Centennial Plaza crowd to present colors — a coincidence but a stark reminder of what happened a year ago.

The tragedy unfolded Nov. 15, 2012, when a Union Pacific train struck a flatbed truck carrying wounded veterans and their wives during Show of Support's annual parade.

Four wounded veterans died, including Marine Chief Warrant Officer 3 Gary Stouffer, 37; Army Sgt. Maj. Lawrence Boivin, 47; Army Sgt. Joshua Michael, 34; and Army Sgt. Maj. William Lubbers, 43. Fourteen at the scene were injured.

The Patriot Guard Riders offered their condolences and prayers Friday for the families of the fallen as community members lit candles in remembrance.

Teresa Galloway, deputy state captain of the group, told a crowd of about 100 — including one of the injured veterans, family members of those involved and Show of Support founder and president Terry Johnson — that only tears and memories came when she searched for the right words to say that night.

"There were 24 families that had their lives changed forever," Galloway said.

As taps played in the background, riders carefully placed the veterans' dog tags on a battlefield cross — a helmet, rifle and boots'— next to a folded American flag.

Patriot Guard Rider Sandy Dunlap, who wears a bracelet with the veterans' names, said the first question after the wreck was, "Why?" But she couldn't answer it.

"They are our guardian angels," said Dunlap, who put the four crosses at the wreck site

Coalition tackles health care issue

■ Beauchamp: 'If we don't work together, we won't get any of our needs met, no matter how much oil we have'

By Mella McEwen

ODESSA — The Permian Basin Coalition, created to give the region a greater voice, on Friday focused on medicine and health care.

James Beauchamp, president of the Midland Odessa Transportation Alliance and organizer of the coalition, said the ultimate goal is for the people in the room to form relationships, unite and cooperate.

"It's essential for us to have a unified voice when it comes to Austin or Washington, D.C.," he said at the meeting, which was at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center. "We have too few people, and if we don't work together, we won't get any of our needs met, no matter how much oil we have."

Noting that the area is growing significantly because of the thriving oil and gas industry, Beauchamp said, "If we have more people, we need more doctors, nurses and emergency medical technicians."

Dr. Tedd Mitchell, president of TTUHSC, said that when the schools were chartered in 1970, the goal was to provide physicians to West Texas. The centers — Amarillo, Lubbock, Odessa and El Paso — serve 108 counties that comprise 50 percent of the state's land mass and 11 percent of the state's population.

Almost half of those counties are considered "frontier" counties with populations below seven people per square mile, Mitchell said.

"In West Texas, health care is, by and large, provided by TTUHSC," he said.

The schools have a significant economic impact. The facilities attract highly educated, well-compensated professionals, providing $81 million a year in economic output, supporting almost 1,000 jobs and household income of $24 million, he said.

The issue is attracting doctors and nurses to West Texas, which is why the centers focus not only on providing health care but on training doctors, nurses, physician assistants, physical and occupational therapists, pharmacists and researchers.

Manpower is also an issue when it comes to EMTs, said Joseph Schmider, state EMS director with the Department of State Health Services. He said he and Colin Crocker, who oversees trauma services, spent time this week visiting area volunteer EMS departments in Permian Basin counties, where they were told personnel is an issue.

To solve the personnel issue, "there

Bryce Hunter Nettles

Bryce Hunter Nettles, 16, of Midland passed from our lives suddenly to return to his heavenly home on November 14, 2013. Bryce was born on March 4th 1997 to Jeremy Nettles and Cassie Flournoy Nettles Gerety. Right from the start he was perfect. Born naturally, everything seemed to go just as any normal family beginning would. But soon, Jeremy and Cassie would realize that God didn't bless them with a normal child, but special angel. Bryce started to experience seizures at 5 months old. The doctors treated him with an arsenal of medications, diets and finally adding a VNS device for good measure to control the seizures. During his many treatments, he was diagnosed with Lennox-Gastaut syndrome. His brain was permanently damaged from thousands of intense seizures. By this time Jeremy and Cassie came to terms with their baby boy never being "normal" but unique. Keeping him comfortable and giving him the best quality of life possible was their goal in life. Bryce never spoke a word, drank out of bottles and Sippy cups, played with rattles, walked but not purposefully, always had to be fed, diapered and bathed. He was the toughest, sweetest, cuddliest child you would ever meet. Bryce was our rock and our strength. Bryce experience more trying times in his short 16 years than most people do in a lifetime. He outlived every life expectancy given.

Bryce passed from our lives suddenly to return to his heavenly home on November 14, 2013. He was preceded by his Grandfather, Richard Nettles, Great grandmother, Leona Stewart, and his uncle Burton Flournoy. Bryce is survived by his Dad and stepmom, Jeremy Nettles and Brandi Carter of Midland, His Mom and Step-dad Cassie and Jim Gerety of Midland, His sisters, Renee & Lyn Nettles of Midland, His step-brothers Brennan Carter and Blake Carter of Midland, His step-sisters Katie Sims of Williston ND, Christine Rankin of Midland, Grandmother Brenda Nettles of Midland, Grandparents Thomas and Jackie Flournoy of Midland, Grandmother Ann Carter or Midland and Grandparents Richard and Martha Gerety of Upland CA, Uncles and aunts as follows: Tiffany Geisendorff of Houston, Don & Maria Flournoy of Midland, Mark Flournoy and Kathy Johnson of Midland, Randy & Kristi Flournoy of Midland, Rick and Deirdre Nettles of Midland, Tim and Molly Nettles of San Diego CA, Jason Carter of Midland, Sara Pauley of Norco, CA. Hall of Fame lineman Mike McCormack dies at 83

Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Hall of Fame offensive lineman Mike McCormack died Friday in Palm Desert, Calif. He was 83.

During his nearly 50 years in professional football, McCormack played, coached and held several executive positions, including president of the Carolina Panthers.

Panthers spokesman Charlie Dayton said he spoke with McCormack's wife, Ann, and was informed of McCormack's death from natural causes.

McCormack spent 12 seasons with the Cleveland Browns, helping the franchise win NFL championships in 1954 and 1955. He played with Otto Graham and blocked for running back Jim Brown.

"The Cleveland Browns were saddened to learn of the passing of Mike McCormack," the Browns said in a statement. "His contributions to our history are profound, not only on an individual level, but also with regard to the tremendous success we enjoyed as a team during his career. Both the Browns and the NFL are most fortunate to have shared part of his amazing life."

McCormack later coached the Philadelphia Eagles (1973-75), Baltimore Colts (1980-81) and Seattle Seahawks (1982). He served as president and general manager of the Seahawks.

McCormack was instrumental in helping the Panthers land an NFL franchise in 1993 and is the first person selected into the team's Hall of Honor.

LOCAL BRIEFS

FROM STAFF REPORTS

MPD: 2 arrested for allegedly exposing children to sexual activity

A 34-year-old man already facing prosecution for endangering a child and a 26-year-old woman were arrested Thursday for indecency with a child after allegedly requesting that two underage sisters simulate sexual activity.

Walter James Petronella, 34, and Carol A. Clegg, 26, were each being held Friday on $200,000 bonds for multiple third-degree felony charges of indecency with a child by exposure.

Petronella

Clegg

Police first arrested the couple in August after the sisters, 3 and 6, were found walking on the side of the road in 100-degree temperatures after they were spanked and told to "find a new family and not come back," according to previous Reporter-Telegram articles.

Petronella and Clegg, both of Midland, were charged with abandoning or endangering a child with imminent danger of bodily injury in connection with the case. Two second-degree felony charges against Clegg were dropped because of insufficient evidence, but as of Sept. 3, Petronella still faced prosecution for one count of the same charge, according to the articles.

Police arrested the couple again Thursday after the sisters told investigators they were asked to take off their clothes and simulate sexual activity. The sisters said they were afraid the couple would "get mad" if they did not comply, according to his arrest affidavit.

If convicted, both face up to 10 years in prison for each third-degree felony charge.

Midlander arrested for 2 alleged burglaries

A 25-year-old man was arrested Thursday for allegedly stealing $250 in coins from one Midland home and at least $3,150 in jewelry and technology from another.

Richard Paul Gonzales, of Midland, is being held on a $100,000 bond for multiple first-degree felony charges of burglary of a habitation with the intent to commit theft.

Police charged Gonzales after the resident of a home on Kentucky Avenue positively identified him in a lineup as the suspect in the Nov. 8 burglary, according to his arrest affidavit. The resident also provided a description and license plate number that matched Gonzales' vehicle.

Gonzales' fingerprints also matched those taken from an Oct. 29 burglary in a nearby part of town. The homeowner reported more than $2,500 in jewelry — including an $800 wedding band, $1,300 watch and $350 Versace sunglasses — and a $500 Apple iPad were stolen from the Waverly Drive residence after an apparent break-in.

Gonzales

A witness description of the suspect matched Gonzales' appearance, according to the affidavit.

In convicted, he faces five to 99 years in prison for each second-degree charge of burglary.

MISD: Perceived threats against MHS campus deemed false

Midland ISD Police Chief David Colburn said no firearms were found on Midland High School's campus after officials followed up on rumors circulating earlier this week.

MISD Superintendent Ryder Warren said a group of students spread rumors through social media of a threat on the school and elements of the story changed as the rumor spread.

Colburn said it's common for students to fuel rumors like this and for those rumors to get out of control.

MPD: Midlander arrested for aggravated assault

A Midland man was arrested Thursday for allegedly punching and pinning down a woman with a knife at her north Midland residence.

Charles Jerome Robinson, 49, is being held on a $20,000 bond for the first-degree felony charge of aggravated assault with a weapon of a date, family or household member.

Robinson

Robinson occasionally performed odd jobs for the woman to pay off a previous debt. During one visit, he allegedly punched her in the face and dragged her from the living room into the kitchen, according to his arrest affidavit.

Robinson then pinned down the alleged victim, held a knife to her throat and threatened her life, according to the affidavit. He then fled the scene.

Police documented the woman's wounds, including a small cut on her left hand, red marks on her neck and a cut on her lip, and arrested Robinson at his residence, the affidavit states.

If convicted, Robinson faces five to 99 years in prison.

U.S. Sen. John Corryn speaks to supporters during his re-election campaign kickoff rally in Austin on Friday. Cornyn called Friday for inclusiveness among Republicans and suggested his party should be the "responsible adults in the room and actually govern," a sentiment that stands in stark contrast to Texan colleague and tea party firebrand Ted Cruz. Cornyn has been in office since 2002 and faces no credible tea party challenger in the Republican primary in March. No Democrat has yet filed to challenge him next November.

Cornyn: GOP needs to be 'adults,' actually govern

Associated Press

"There seems to be a schizophrenia here. On one hand, I'm not enough in one direction, and then I'm too much in another direction."

Sen. John Cornyn

AUSTIN — U.S. Sen. John Cornyn called Friday for inclusiveness among Republicans and suggested his party should be the "responsible adults in the room and actually govern" — a sentiment that stands in stark contrast to Texan colleague and tea party firebrand Ted Cruz.

Formally kicking off his campaign for a third term at an Austin beer garden, the Senate's No. 2 Republican insisted he wasn't distancing himself from Cruz, who has promised to fight for conservative principles no matter the cost.

But Cornyn also said always insisting on ideological purity wasn't the best approach. He even paraphrased former President Ronald Reagan in that agreeing with someone 80 percent of the time should make them "a friend and an ally, not a 20 percent traitor."

"We need to return to that," Cornyn said.

Republican Gov. Rick Perry endorsed Cornyn on Friday, praising his experience and "senior leadership" before about 250 supporters, who enjoyed coffee and sweets instead of beer. Cruz was also invited but didn't attend. He has refused to endorse Cornyn, though his political action committee donated $2,500 to the elder senator's re-election campaign.

Cruz spokeswoman Catherine Frazier said he "is sticking to what he has said in the past, that he will likely not get involved in any incumbent primaries."

"Sen. Cruz deeply respects John Cornyn and considers him a friend and has a good working relationship with him," Frazier said.

The well-funded Cornyn has been in office since 2002 and faces no credible tea party challenger in the Republican primary in March. No Democrat has yet filed to challenge him next November.

But in an era when fears of being branded a RINO — Republican in name only — can make even the most battle-tested GOP veteran sweat, calling for more party inclusiveness may not be embraced by some in Cornyn's party. That especially goes for many of the conservative, grassroots activists who have championed Cruz.

"To our friends on the other side of the aisle, maybe a few independents, folks who maybe aren't traditional Republican voters, we need to say, 'We're the party of the big tent,'" Cornyn said.

Later, Cornyn again mentioned the GOP's many factions, saying, "What we've seen is that when we're divided, we capitulate; we basically hand the victory to our political opponents."

"We need to demonstrate that, if the American people are willing to give us the opportunity in this next election to win that election, that we will be the responsible adults in the room. We will actually govern," he said.

Asked if Cruz, who helped spark last month's partial government shutdown, was an adult, Cornyn said he supported Cruz's opposition to the White House's signature health care law — but not the shutdown.

"We had a minor disagreement over tactics and that happens, but we all live and learn," he said. "I wouldn't make too much of that. I think we're all on the same page."

Indeed, the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee released a statement Friday claiming Cornyn was on "Cruz Control" and embraced his colleague's key policy positions to solidify support from the conservative base.

"There seems to be a schizophrenia here," Cornyn laughed. "On one hand, I'm not enough in one direction, and then I'm too much in another direction."

Mafia member gets prison sentence

Associated Press

DEL RIO — The last of a dozen Texas Mexican Mafia members convicted in a conspiracy and corruption ring has been sentenced to prison.

A federal judge in Del Rio on Thursday afternoon sentenced 31-year-old Eliseo Sanchez III of Crystal City to nearly six years in prison. Prosecutors said Sanchez conspired to violate the Racketeering Influenced Corrupt Organization law.

Sanchez was also sentenced to two years in prison for violating his supervised release conditions stemming from a prior immigrant smuggling conviction. The sentences must be served consecutively.

Cause of house fire still unknown

From staff reports

The Midland Fire Department still has not determined the cause of the house fire on Thursday night, according to the city's public information officer.

MFD responded with three engines, two squads, two ambulances and a battalion chief to the blaze at 9:26 p.m. Thursday in the 3100 block of Delano Avenue.

The fire appeared to have started in a storage area in the garage of the residence, said Sara Higgins, public information officer for the city.

Neighbors at the scene said they heard a loud explosion before the fire engulfed the home's frame.

Heat from the fire caused a secondary explosion of a nitrous tank in the back of a truck in the garage, said Drew Peters, MFD battalion chief. The structure received heavy smoke and fire damage.

Peters said the fire spread across the house's interior, and the structure likely will be considered a total loss. A pickup also was destroyed in the blaze.

The fire spread to the home located east of where the fire began. The second house received minor damage to its exterior, Higgins said.

Peters said it took about 25 minutes to extinguish the fire. He said the crowd and the traffic near the home presented a problem in maneuvering engines and personnel.

Higgins said that because of the extent of the damage, investigators might never be able to determine the fire's cause.

The riders also escorted the parade to the Horseshoe Arena, where the veterans would have received a hero's welcome.

"It taught us how precious life is," said Patriot Guard Rider T.C. Farlas. "You can lose friends so quickly."

COALITION

needs to be a conversation in the community about how to support those volunteers," Schmider said.

Focusing on oil and gas

Beauchamp said that no matter what need is spotlighted, oil and gas is always a topic at coalition meetings.

Ben Shepperd, president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, said those in the room were familiar with the benefits provided by the oil and gas industry, as well as the challenges to infrastructure — water, electricity, transportation, health care — as well as regulatory and legislative challenges.

His association is working with economists from Texas Tech on a study of the economic impacts of the oil and gas industry. While he doesn't expect to release findings until early next year, Shepperd said "initial results suggest the economic multipliers have increased and will remain higher going into the future."

By 2025, he said, projections are the Permian Basin could be producing 4 million barrels of oil per day.

Railroad Commissioner Christi Craddick told the gathering that the Energy Information Administration forecasts that the U.S. could be the world's top oil and gas producer by 2015.

The announcement earlier this week that in October the nation had produced more oil than it imported is "a huge thing, I think, for our nation," she said.

She pointed out that half the nation's drilling rigs are operating in Texas, and half of those are in the Permian Basin. Billions will be invested in drilling in the Permian Basin in coming years, and billions more in the Eagle Ford Shale in South Texas, Craddick said.

The industry is paying its fair share in taxes, sending more than $12 billion in severance taxes to the state's Economic Stabilization Fund, popularly known as the rainy day fund. Voters last week passed the proposition to take $2 billion from the fund for water development projects, and next November will decide whether to allow $1.2 billion annually to be taken from the fund for transportation needs.

With Texas gaining 1,000 new residents a day and Texans driving billions of miles a year, the Texas Department of Transportation is challenged to expand roadways and upgrade aging infrastructure, said John Barton, deputy executive director.

At least 85 percent of the state's roadway system is more than 35 years old. The roads are seeing more traffic and wear-and-tear than they were designed to handle.

Oil and gas activity has taken its toll, especially on county roads, farm-to-market roads and state highways that weren't designed for the high levels of heavy truck traffic. Additional congestion also means more wrecks, Barton said.

The Texas Legislature, in special session this year, allocated $450 million in additional funds to respond to the impact of oil and gas traffic, he said. Half of those funds will be made available to counties impacted by oil and gas traffic. He cited three Permian Basin projects — 12 miles of State Highway 158 between Midland-Odessa and Glasscock County, FM 307 and State Highway 349.

Counties also can apply for a portion of the second half of those funds, based on how they meet criteria showing the impact of oil and gas traffic on their roads. They will have to submit road condition surveys, detail how they reinvest severance taxes paid to the county on roads, and make a 20 percent match. TxDOT will evaluate the applications based on weight tolerance permits, severance taxes going to that county, the number of well completions in that county and the amount of oil and gas waste injected in wells in that county.

"The Legislature made it clear they want this money out as quickly as possible," he said. "We hope to disburse all that $225 million."

There is no deadline to do the work that is funded, he said, but the roads must be located within county lines. He said he expects most of the work will be done between next summer and when the Texas Legislature meets again in 2015.

Other states will be watching Texas closely for leadership not only in oil and gas production but in water recycling, said John Tinterra, president of the Texas Water Recycling Association.

He said technology to recycle water for reuse in oil and gas production, industrial and agricultural uses has advanced tremendously while shrinking its footprint.

Texas disposes of 7 billion barrels of produced water a year down disposal wells, and if only half of that amount was recycled, it would make a significant impact on the state's water needs, he said.

"Energy needs water, water needs energy and we need both," said Tinterra, calling for a light hand in regulation.

Government mandates won't work, while overregulation and underregulation can both be dangerous, he said.

No contest pleas in boy's faith-healing death

A Philadelphia man and woman who believe in relying on prayer rather than medicine have pleaded no contest to third-degree murder in the death of their infant son.

Forty-five-year-old Herbert Schaible and 44-year-old Catherine Schaible were each convicted after entering the pleas Thursday.

Assistant District Attorney Joanne Pescatore told The Philadelphia Inquirer that there was no plea agreement on the terms she will recommend when the two are sentenced Feb. 19.

Prosecutors said 8-month-old Brandon died in April after receiving no treatment for pneumonia. His parents were serving 10 years' probation on involuntary manslaughter convictions in the 2009 death of another son, 2-year-old Kent.

The Schaibles are both third-generation members of the First Century Gospel Church in northeast Philadelphia. They have seven other children.

CALIFORNIA

Bodies believed to be missing family

SAN BERNARDINO — Four skeletons found in shallow graves in the Southern California desert are believed to be those of a San Diego County family that vanished three years ago, police said Friday, resolving one mystery and raising a host of new questions about what happened to the seemingly happy couple and their two young sons.

The McStay family — 40-year-old Joseph, his 43-year-old wife, Summer, and their sons Gianni, 4, and Joseph Jr., 3 — were apparent homicide victims, San Bernardino County Sheriff John McMahon said.

'Hacktivist' gets prison for cyberattacks

Associated Press

NEW YORK — An unrepentant self-described "hacktivist" was sentenced Friday to 10 years in prison for illegally accessing computer systems of law enforcement agencies and government contractors.

Before hearing his sentence, Jeremy Hammond told a Manhattan federal judge that his goal was to expose injustices by the private intelligence industry when he joined forces with Anonymous, the loosely organized worldwide hacking group that has stolen confidential information, defaced websites and temporarily put some victims out of business.

"Yes I broke the law, but I believe sometimes laws must be broken in order to make room for change," he said. The Chicago computer whiz and college dropout insisted his hacking days are over but added, "I still believe in hacktivism as a form of civil disobedience."

More than 250 people wrote letters of support for Hammond, including Daniel Ellsberg of Pentagon Papers fame. Defense lawyers asked that Hammond be sentenced to time served, 20 months.

But U.S. District Judge Loretta Preska said Hammond's previous hacking conviction and arrests for other smaller crimes demonstrated his disrespect for the law. She also said she was imposing the sentence sought by prosecutors because his own words from online chats revealed his motive was malicious.

In one chat, Hammond wrote that he hoped to cause "financial mayhem" with one of his cyberattacks. "I'm hoping for bankruptcy, collapse," he said.

Hammond, 28, defied the judge by naming countries that had been victimized by the hacks moments after she had ruled they shouldn't be disclosed. He later smiled and waved to his supporters in the courtroom as deputy U.S. marshals led him away through a rear door.

The FBI caught Hammond last year with the help of Hector Xavier Monsegur, a famous hacker known as Sabu who helped law enforcement infiltrate Anonymous.

Prosecutors described Hammond as "a computer hacking recidivist who ... went on to engage in massive hacking spree during which he caused harm to numerous businesses, individuals and governments, resulting in loses between $1 million and $2.5 million, and threatened the safety of the public at large, especially law enforcement officers and their families."

Hammond pilfered information of more than 850,000 people via his attack on Austin, Texas-based Strategic Forecasting Inc., a publisher of geopolitical information also known as Stratfor. He also was accused of using the credit card numbers of Stratfor clients to make charges of at least $700,000.

On Friday, Hammond said he had targeted Stratfor because it "works in secret to protect government and corporate interests at the expense of individual rights." He claimed the credit card charges were for donations to charities.

Hammond also told the judge he hacked into law enforcement-related sites in retaliation for the arrests of Occupy Wall Street protesters.

In a 2005 feature article about Hammond's hacking skills, he told the Chicago Reader he could program video games before he was 10. He told the newspaper he hacked to promote causes but never for profit.

HOUSTON

US rig count up 8 this week to 1,762

HOUSTON — The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in the U.S. increased eight this week to 1,762, according to a report released Friday by Houston-based oilfield services company Baker Hughes.

There were 1,385 rigs listed as searching for oil up two; 370 as searching for gas, up five; and seven as miscellaneous, up one. A year ago this week there were 1,390 rigs searching for oil, a difference of five, and 417 as searching for natural gas, a difference of 47.

By trajectory, there were 428 vertical drilling rigs, up 11; 1,114 horizontal drilling rigs, unchanged; and 220 directional drilling rigs, down three.

At this time last year there were 1,809 rigs in the U.S.

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in Texas decreased nine this week to 825. A year ago this week there were 851 rigs in Texas, a difference of 26.

The Permian Basin added one rig to end the week at 470. The Eagle Ford dropped three rigs for a total of 223. The Granite Wash had 61 rigs, up one, and the Barnett was unchanged at 36.

Rounding out the top five states by rig count were Oklahoma with 176, up four; North Dakota with 165, up two; Louisiana with 109, up three; and New Mexico with 81, up one.

Among the other major oil- and gas-producing states, Kansas added two rigs and Pennsylvania and West Virginia added one each. Colorado lost one rig. Alaska, Arkansas, California, Ohio, Utah and Wyoming were unchanged.

In the U.S. there were 1,685 rigs listed as on land, up six; 17 as in inland waters, unchanged; and 60 as offshore, up two. The Gulf of Mexico had 58 rigs, up two.

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in Canada increased 23 this week to 401. There were 234 rigs listed as searching for oil, up 13; 167 as searching for gas, up 10; and zero as miscellaneous, unchanged. There were 384 rigs in Canada a year ago this week.

The total number of rigs in North America — which includes the U.S., Canada and the Gulf of Mexico — increased 31 this week to 2,163. At this time last year there were 2,193 rigs in North America.

NEW YORK

Oil hovers near $94 for 2nd straight week

The price of oil circled $94 for a second week as the promise of the continuation of the Federal Reserve's economic stimulus was balanced by abundant U.S. supplies.

Oil rose 8 cents to close at $93.84 a barrel Friday, one day after incoming Federal Reserve chief Janet Yellen indicated that economic stimulus will remain in place pending further improvement in the U.S. economy. The Fed's low interest-rate policy has supported investment in riskier assets such as oil and stocks.

Yellen's remarks helped offset further signs of oversupply. Data from the Energy Department showed the U.S. produced more crude oil than it imported in October for the first time since 1995. It also showed crude oil supplies rising for an 8th straight week, by 2.6 million barrels.

Oil has traded between $93 and $96 a barrel over the past two weeks, and is down 77 cents since Nov. 1.

At the pump, the average price for a gallon of gasoline rose 1 cent to $3.20. That's still down 16 cents from a month ago and 24 cents lower than at this time last year.

Brent crude, the benchmark for an international variety of crude, gained 22 cents to $108.50 a barrel on the ICE exchange in London.

In other energy futures trading on Nymex:

■ Wholesale gasoline fell 3 cents to $2.66 a gallon.

■ Heating oil gained 1 cent to $2.94 a gallon.

■ Natural gas rose 6 cents to $3.66 per 1,000 cubic feet.

NORTH DAKOTA

State on pace to outdo oil production record

BISMARCK — North Dakota oil drillers are on pace to set record annual crude production for the sixth consecutive year and are nearing a milestone of a million barrels of oil a day.

The state Department of Mineral Resources said Friday that crude production through September totaled 226.1 million barrels, down only 17 million barrels from the record 243.1 million barrels produced in all of 2012.

The agency said crude production in September totaled a record 931,940 barrels a day, or nearly 28 million barrels for the month.

September statistics are the latest available because oil production numbers typically lag at least two months. Current drilling activity indicates the state likely surpassed last year's record sometime in October.

North Dakota is on pace to surpass 1 million barrels daily early in 2014, said Lynn Helms, director of the Department of Mineral Resources.

Regulators approve wind-energy plan

Associated Press

AMARILLO — State regulators have approved a utility's plan to purchase power from wind-energy facilities in three states in a push to produce additional power but at a more affordable cost.

Xcel Energy announced Friday that the New Mexico Public Regulation Commission OK'd Xcel's plan to purchase 698 megawatts of wind energy for the Texas and New Mexico power system.

The plan was announced in July but needed approval by the New Mexico commission. The company was not required to seek approval in Texas.

Power will be purchased from wind farms in Hansford and Ochiltree counties in the Panhandle; Roosevelt County in New Mexico; and Dewey and Blaine counties in Oklahoma.

Xcel said the energy will be produced at a cheaper price than the cost of power generation by older, natural gas-fueled plants.

EPA proposes reducing biofuel mandate

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Obama administration on Friday proposed to reduce the amount of ethanol in the nation's fuel supply for the first time, acknowledging that the biofuel law championed by both parties in 2007 is not working as well as expected.

While the proposal highlights the government's struggle to ramp up production of homegrown biofuels that are cleaner-burning than gasoline, it is unlikely to mean much for consumers at the pump.

The change would reduce by almost 3 billion gallons the amounts of ethanol and other biofuels blended into gasoline in 2014 than the law requires.

The 2007 law tried to address global warming, reduce dependence on foreign oil and prop up the rural economy by requiring oil companies to blend billions of gallons of biofuels into their gasoline each year. But politicians who wrote the law didn't anticipate fuel economy to improve as much as it has in recent years, which reduced demand for gasoline.

Meanwhile, next-generation biofuels, made from agricultural waste such as wood chips and corncobs, have not taken off as quickly as Congress required and the administration expected.

President Barack Obama has championed biofuels since his days representing Illinois in the Senate, and his administration has resisted previous calls to lower biofuel volumes or repeal the law.

EPA officials said they were still committed to alternative fuels as part of a comprehensive energy strategy. If the EPA stuck to the volumes mandated by law, the amount of biofuel required would generate more ethanol than many engines can safely handle, officials said.

"We have made great progress in recent years, and EPA continues to support the RFS goal of increasing biofuel production and use," EPA Administrator Gina McCarthy, referring to the 2007 law called the Renewable Fuel Standard.

Biofuel supporters, however, said the proposal marked a departure for the Obama administration.

"This is the first time that the Obama administration has shown any sign of wavering," said Brooke Coleman, executive director of the Advanced Ethanol Council.

Bob Dinneen, the head of the Renewable Fuels Association, the Washington group that lobbies on behalf of the ethanol industry, said the announcement is ill-timed as the country is currently harvesting a record corn crop. He said the industry may sue if the proposal is not altered.

Defying veto threat, House OKs health law change

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Brushing aside a White House veto threat, the Republican-controlled House voted by a healthy bipartisan majority Friday to weaken a core component of "Obamacare" and permit the sale of individual health coverage that falls short of requirements in the law.

In all, 39 Democrats broke ranks and supported the legislation, a total that underscored the growing importance of the issue in the weeks since millions of cancellation notices went out to consumers covered by plans deemed inadequate under government rules.

The final vote was 261-157 as lawmakers clashed over an issue likely to be at the heart of next year's midterm elections. The measure faces an uncertain fate in the Senate, where Democrats seeking re-election in 2014 are leading a move for generally similar legislation.

"For the last six weeks the White House stood idly by ignoring the pleas of millions," said Rep. Fred Upton, R-Mich., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee and lead sponsor of the legislation.

"Our straightforward, one-page bill says, if you like your current coverage, you should be able to keep it. The president should heed his own advice and work with us, the Congress, as the founders intended, not around the legislative process."

But Democrats said the measure was just another in a long line of attacks on the health care bill from Republicans who have voted repeatedly to repeal it.

"It would take away the core protections of that law. It creates an entire shadow market of substandard health care plans," said Rep. Henry Waxman of California.

The vote came shortly before President Barack Obama welcomed insurance company CEOs to a White House meeting, and one day after he announced a shift toward making good on his oft-repeated promise that anyone liking his pre-Obamacare coverage would be able to keep it.

In brief opening remarks, he did not refer to the House vote, and showed no give in his commitment to the program known by his name. "Because of choice and competition, a whole lot of Americans who have always seen health insurance out of reach are going to be in a position to purchase it," he said.

The events capped a remarkable series of politically inspired maneuvers in recent days. The president and lawmakers in both parties have sought to position themselves as allies of consumers who are receiving cancellation notices — yet have made no move to cooperate on legislation that could require those consumers' coverage to be renewed if they wanted to keep it.

Neither Obama's new policy nor the bill passed in the House would ensure that anyone whose policy is canceled will be able to keep it. Instead, both would permit insurance companies to sell coverage renewals if they wish — subject to approval by state insurance commissioners.

The White House meeting came as the industry and state commissioners began adjusting to the president's one-day-old change in policy.

Under the shift, Obama said insurers should be permitted to continue to sell to existing customers individual coverage plans that would be deemed substandard under the health care law. Without the change, many existing plans would have been banned beginning next year, and the president's announcement was an attempt to quell a public and political furor triggered by millions of cancellation notices.

The House measure went one step further. It would give insurance firms the ability to sell individual plans to new as well as existing customers, even if the coverage falls short of the law's requirements.

Democrats sought to substitute a plan of their own that consisted largely of Obama's new policy, but failed on a party-line vote.

Even so, the combination of the president's announcement and his party's alternative apparently siphoned off a large number of Democratic votes from the GOP measure.

Mustangs start hopeful title run with blowout win

Running back Justin Fender figured the Midland Christian football team might have caught Tyler Grace Community a little off-guard on Friday night with the way the Mustangs handed him the ball early in their TAPPS Division II bi-district playoff game.

But the Mustangs have proven this year that they can beat teams in so many ways, and the Cougars found out firsthand as Midland Christian used a balanced attack in a 56-0 rout at Mustang Field.

Fender rushed for 116 yards and three touchdowns, while Mason McClendon passed for another 285 and four touchdowns for Midland Christian, which improved to 11-0 on the season.

Midland Christian next plays Dallas Parish Episcopal, a 30-27 winner over Grapevine Faith, in the regional round Nov. 23 in Clyde with the time to be announced.

The Mustangs began the game by handing Fender the ball four of the five plays in the possession, capping it off with a 2-yard touchdown run 1 minute, 31 seconds into the contest for a 6-0 lead.

"It did kind of surprise them because we've been off passing the ball, but (coach Greg McClendon) said we would balance it out a little and see if would catch them off-guard a little bit, and I think it worked out pretty well," Fender said.

Added Greg McClendon, "We always want to establish the run game. We just want to attack. You just don't go out and throw a bunch of shots to the face. You kind of hit them in the ribs, a few hooks and then a couple of straight-ons and try to knock people out."

It didn't take long for the Mustang passing game to strike on Midland Christian's second possession. Facing a fourth-and-3 from their own 37, Mason McClendon looked deep and found Jarrod Koym (three catches for 124 yards) down the far sideline in stride for a 63-yard touchdown pass.

The Mustangs added two more rushing touchdowns from Fender, while McClendon connected on TD

EL PASO — The hiccups the Lee football team had on Friday night were mostly self-inflicted. But those hiccups weren't enough to derail a Rebel squad determined to put away El Paso El Dorado early in the second half.

The Rebels rolled up more than 550 yards of offense, and the Lee defense put together another solid performance in a 47-28 victory against the Aztecs in a Class 5A Division I bi-district game at the Socorro ISD Activities Complex.

Lee did leave a few points on the field, especially in the first half, but its defense didn't give the Aztecs much room and kept them out of the end zone for more than 30 minutes of the game. Meanwhile, Lee's offense caught fire in the second half, including 21 third quarter points, and racked up 563 yards of offense with 188 on the ground and 375 through the air.

"I think we were ready and we were really excited," Lee senior linebacker Cade Kennedy said. "They wanted to play us here, so we'd come here and kick their butts instead of having to stay home."

Lee (9-2) will move to the second round of the playoffs for the first time since 2007, and will also get a rematch with Southlake Carroll, who beat the Rebels 63-14 on Sept. 6. The two squads are tentatively set to play an area round game at 7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 22 at Chisholm Trail Stadium in Saginaw, northwest of Fort Worth.

The playoff victory was also the first for Morton since he's been at Lee. He lost his only other playoff game leading the Rebels in 2009 to El Paso Coronado.

"It's good," Morton said with a smile. "I'm one of those perfectionists and

Ramsey brothers embrace different roles for Trinity

By Jonathan Hull
jhull@mrt.com

As brothers, Powers and Preston Ramsey love to compete with and against each other. Unfortunately, they haven't been able to do so on the football field in more than a year.

That's because the younger of the brothers, Preston, hasn't been able to be involved in contact sports since suffering two shoulder separations during his freshman year at Trinity last season.

The injury has forced the sophomore to watch his older brother Powers — a standout junior running back — and the rest of the Chargers from the sideline all season. It's that support role Preston will be playing at 1 p.m. today when the Chargers (5-4) open the TAPPS Six-man Division I quarterfinals against Austin Veritas Academy (7-3) at Bulldog Field in Zephyr.

Po. Ramsey

"It's tough to watch, but it's interesting to see how everything develops out there," Preston said. "It's fun (watching my brother). He's good. He's having a good year. I'd rather be playing, but you've got to do what they tell you."

Powers has emerged as one of Trinity's best offensive weapons this season as one of the primary ball carriers. It's a different role than what he had last season as the backup to Austin Watson.

"It's been a really great year for me," said Powers, who also plays defensive end. "Last year, I barely got to see the field. It's been a lot more playing time this year."

The role Powers played last year for the Chargers is the role Preston likely would have played this year. He would have been slated as Powers' backup on both sides of

Alvidrez shows leadership in Andrews' run

By Oscar LeRoy
oleroy@mrt.com

Azel Alvidrez admitted he was pretty nervous late in the District 2-3A season. He wasn't sure if his Andrews football team was going to make the playoffs.

But the Mustangs seemed to follow Alvidrez's leadership of working hard and giving it all they had to find a way to win the last two games, including a 21-20 victory over Seminole in the regular season finale to make the playoffs.

Andrews (4-6) will face Borger (3-7) in the bi-district round of the Class 3A Division I playoffs at 4 p.m. today at Lubbock's PlainsCapital Park-Lowrey Field.

From staff reports

SNYDER — Big Spring is getting one last chance to knock off perennial state power Abilene Wylie.

But a trip to the state tournament is on the line this time.

After dropping the first two sets in a Region I-3A semifinal match Friday, the Lady Steers rallied to win the final three games against Springtown and move on to the regional championship match with a 22-25, 19-25, 25-17, 25-16, 15-13 victory at The Coliseum.

Big Spring faces District 4-3A foe Wylie, which defeated the Lady Steers twice during district play, in the Region I-3A final at 2 p.m. today at The Coliseum.

The Lady Steers (30-13) were led by Morgan Seaton, who had 15 kills, 13 digs, 23 assists, four blocks and two aces. Erin Pollard added 16 kills, while Ebony Zavala had 16 kills and 15 digs.

Lady Chaps put up good effort in loss to CSI

From staff reports

TWIN FALLS, Idaho — After playing what coach Ron Jones considered one of the worst performances of the season Thursday night, the Midland College women's basketball team bounced back with perhaps its best showing of the young season.

Unfortunately, it still resulted in a loss as the No. 18 Lady Chaparrals fell to No. 5 College of Southern Idaho, 67-64, in the College of Southern Idaho Classic on Friday.

The Lady Chaps held a 35-30 lead at halftime, but key turnovers and CSI's ability to consistently get to the free-throw line in the second half allowed the Lady Golden Eagles to rally for the win.

"This was our best game we've played this year so far," Jones said. "We competed really hard against a really good team. We were really hurt by just four free-throw attempts in the second half, while CSI had 17. We turned it over a few times when we had the lead and allowed them to get back in it.

"It was a great effort against a really good team. If we can continue to play like this and build on this then we will be OK."

Mary Savoy led the Lady Chaps with 18 points, while Diamalises Rivera chipped in 15 points and Ellyn Avery scored 10.

Midland College (5-3) wraps up play in the CSI Classic at 1:30 p.m. today against Northwest Wyoming.

Baseball to move ahead with instant replay

By Ronald Blum
Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla. — The runner rounds third base and slides home in a cloud of dust. The catcher lunges with the tag.

All eyes are fixed on the umpire for the call ...

And next year, they all will quickly shift to video screens far from the stadium for the decision: safe or out?

Most on-field calls in Major League Baseball next season will be subject to video review by umpires in New York.

MLB took the first vote in a two-step process Thursday, unanimously approving funding for expanded instant replay in 2014. They plan to approve the new rules when they meet Jan. 16 in Paradise Valley, Ariz., after agreements with the unions for umpires and players.

"We made a gigantic move today," Commissioner Bud Selig said. "This is quite historic."

Selig long opposed replay and watched from afar as it was first used by the NFL in 1986, the NHL in 1991, the NBA in 2002 and Wimbledon in 2006. Even the Little League World Series put replay in place for 2008.

MLB allowed it starting August 2008 but in a limited manner: to determine whether potential home runs were fair or cleared fences.

Now, virtually every decision likely will be subject to review, except balls and strikes, checked swings and some foul tips.

Matt Kenseth wins pole at Homestead for finale

By Jenna Fryer
Associated Press

HOMESTEAD, Fla. — Matt Kenseth and his Joe Gibbs Racing team took a huge step away from their bad performance last week by winning the pole Friday at Homestead-Miami Speedway for the championship-deciding race.

Kenseth turned a lap at 177.667 mph in his Toyota to claim the top starting spot for Sunday's race. He called it "a confidence booster" after his 23rd-place finish at Phoenix essentially ruined his title chances.

He was trailing Jimmie Johnson by seven points going into Phoenix and left the race down 28 with just one race to decide the Chase for the Sprint Cup championship. But the pole, his third of the season and 11th of his career, is a start toward a big rebound.

Kenseth

"I think more than morale, it's probably a confidence booster," Kenseth said. "The thing is, Jimmie is so far ahead, that even if he does have a problem we need to be in the front to be able to capitalize on that. This is a good start to that, hopefully get a bonus point right away, get the best pit stall. I think it's important, we need to be up front and try to lead as much as we can and be in the mix at the end."

Whether it's enough remains to be seen. Johnson, who needs only to finish 23rd or better Sunday to win his sixth championship, qualified seventh.

He feels good about his situation.

"It's a great position to be in, there's no doubt about it," Johnson said. "It's nice, but it doesn't guarantee anything. I have to run all 400 miles on Sunday and that's really the goal for this Lowe's car."

Kevin Harvick is the only other driver mathematically eligible to win the title and goes into the race 34 points behind Johnson. He qualified one spot ahead of Johnson in sixth after internalizing too long about how to make his qualifying run.

"I argued with myself for an hour or two there, before that qualifying session, as to where I was going to run," Harvick said. "I thought I needed to run the bottom in (turns) three and four. All-in-all it was a good lap."

Kurt Busch qualified second to earn his ninth front row starting position of the season and Joey Logano was third.

Vettel sets pace in 2nd practice at US Grand Prix

By Jim Vertuno
Associated Press

AUSTIN — Four-time world champion Sebastian Vettel served notice Friday he has every intention of going after a victory that eluded him last year and perhaps set a couple of records are still within reach during his remarkable season.

Vettel posted the fastest time in the day's two practice sessions at the U.S. Grand Prix, driving the Circuit of the Americas in 1 minute, 37.305 seconds, topping teammate Mark Webber for a 1-2 start for Red Bull on the first day of driving.

If was quite a turnaround from the morning for Vettel, who finished a leisurely 18th in the first practice that was delayed by fog, then stopped and ultimately shortened to about half of its scheduled 90 minutes.

Vettel

Vettel led most of the 2012 U.S. Grand Prix only to lose it to Lewis Hamilton with just 14 laps to go. Like Hamilton did last year, the German driver wore the stars and stripes of the American flag on his helmet Friday.

"We're pretty fired up," Vettel said heading into Saturday's qualifying. "It was really close last year. I like this circuit ... I think we can be quite happy."

For Webber, Friday's strong performance is yet another reminder of what he can still do — and what's eluded him — in his final season in Formula One. Webber is leaving the series after this year to join Porsche for the world endurance championship.

Webber has started four races either in pole position or No. 2 this season, but has yet to win while Vettel has dominated the field with 11 victories. Vettel has won seven races in a row and another this week would set a single-season record for consecutive victories. Win the last two races of the season and Vettel will tie Michael Schumacher's record of 13 in one season.

Webber started on the pole in two of the last three races and finished second both times.

"He destroyed us" in the races in Japan and Abu Dhabi, Webber said. "It would be nice to get a good result here."

Neither Red Bull driver had much to show in the early session that was delayed for 40 minutes by fog, then interrupted for about 15 minutes when race officials pulled the drivers off the track because the medical helicopter hadn't arrived.

Ferrari's Fernando Alonso had the fastest time of what was left of the morning session with a lap of 1:38.343.

It was an impressive drive for Alonso, who has complained of a sore back since he was forced off the track to avoid a crash in Abu Dhabi two weeks ago. Alonso wore support tape on his neck and shoulders that was visible above his collar on Friday.

Trinity's Powers Ramsey (25) outruns the Carrollton Christian defense for a touchdown during an Oct. 25 game at Coombes Field.

the ball.

"I would have been fine with it," Preston said. "He gets tired. He plays a lot. I would have gotten on the field."

But after suffering a separated shoulder at the beginning of last season, the same shoulder separated a second time in the middle of the season. Preston ended up having surgery with screws being used to set his shoulder and some cartilage being taken from his ribs to give it more stability.

Preston runs track for Trinity, but that's the limit of his athletic endeavors for now. He's hopeful to return to the football field next season as a junior.

For now, the Ramsey brothers use the track as a release for their competitive urges against one another. Both run the 400 meters in which Powers is currently posting better times. But Preston is striving to catch up to his older brother.

"We started summer track when we were little," Powers said. "Ever since then we've been competitive in everything. I'm faster, barely."

"It's only cause he's older," Preston chimed in with a sly grin. "I know his weaknesses."

Both Ramsey brothers hope to be reunited on the football field next year for Powers' senior campaign, who admits he wouldn't mind having Preston suiting up for his final season as a Charger.

"It is (tough seeing Preston hurt)," Powers said. "I can tell he wants to be out there playing as much as any of us do. I want him back out there."

TAPPS SIX-MAN DIVISION I QUARTERFINALS
TRINITY VS. AUSTIN VERITAS ACADEMY

When/where: 1 p.m. today, Bulldog Stadium, Zephyr

Records: Trinity 5-4; Veritas 7-3

Last game: Abilene Christian 62, Trinity 8; Round Rock Christian 35, Veritas 30

Last meeting/series: This is the first meeting between the two programs.

Weather forecast: Mostly sunny with a game time temperature of 78, getting as high as 80 as the game progresses. No chance of precipitation.

Five things you need to know

- The Austin Veritas football program is only in its third year of existence. The Defenders are making their second straight appearance in the postseason after finishing in a three-way tie for the TAPPS Six-man Division I District 3 title with Hill Country Christian and Round Rock Christian.

The Defenders were knocked out of the playoffs in the first round last season by Dallas Covenant.

- Veritas depends heavily on the abilities of running back Trevor Shaw, while quarterback Ryker Shaw also doubles as one of the Defenders' top defensive players.
- Trinity is making its second straight playoff appearance since rejoining TAPPS last season. Last year, the Chargers were eliminated in the bi-district round by Rockwall Heritage, 71-30.
- Trinity had been on a four-game winning streak before last week's 62-8 loss to Abilene Christian. Abilene Christian is the only TAPPS-affiliated school the Chargers have lost to this season.
- Veritas was on a five-game winning streak before losing to Round Rock Christian last week. The Defenders are living up to their nickname, having allowed just 22.9 points per game this season — an impressive number for a six-man team.

ALVIDREZ

out there, if you're doing your job things will fall into place, no matter who is doubting you."

Andrews second-year coach Ralph Mason said that is just the kind of player Alvidrez is.

"Defensively, teams want torun the opposite way of where Azel is, and from an offensive standpoint, he brings a lot of leadership to the line," Mason said. "He has stepped in a few times and has said a few things to some people, but he leads by example and with the way he works."

Alvidrez actually missed two games early in the District 4-3A season — losses against Levelland and Shallowater — because of a groin injury. Alvidrez said not being there to help his teammates hurt him the most. He said he's still fighting through the injury but doesn't think much about it. All he's concerned with is helping the Mustangs win now.

Alividrez was there when they rolled past Lubbock Estacado, 47-21, to keep the Mustangs' hopes alive and he was there to help Andrews get the win over rival Seminole, which was preserved with a goalline defensive stand on a two-point conversion attempt with only 14 seconds remaining. The Indians had just scored a touchdown and were going for the win with the two-point try on a rush, but left defensive end Ethan Azam disrupted the play long enough for linebackers Keegan Gray and Braden Grimsley to come in to make the tackle.

Alvidrez said that was a sign of how his defense has improved this season and was proud of his teammates for coming up with that crucial win.

"We just needed to do our job in that game and we showed we wanted it more than they did," Alvidrez said. "I'm very proud of the people on this team for making the playoffs. We had quite a bit of sophomores and juniors on this team but they kept fighting for us and helped us stay alive. It's really exciting to know that we're going to get to continue our season a little longer, and no matter who we play we know we just have to give it our all."

Having Alvidrez there to lead them, should help the Mustangs achieve their goals.

CLASS 3A DIVISION I BI-DISTRICT
ANDREWS VS. BORGER

When/where: 4 p.m., PlainsCapital Park-Lowrey Field, Lubbock

On the air: KACT FM (105.5), KACT AM (1360), Andrews

Records: Andrews 4-6; Borger 3-7

Last game: Andrews 21, Seminole 20; Borger 42, Amarillo River Road 14

Last meeting/series: Andrews defeated Borger 49-13 in last year's bi-district round of Class 3A Division I playoffs and leads the all-time series 3-2

Weather forecast: Windy with gusts up to 24 mph and temperatures in the mid 70s at kickoff, getting down to the mid 60s at the end of the game.

Five things you need to know

- Andrews finished in a tie for third in District 2-3A with a 2-3 record and comes into the postseason as No. 2 Division I seed. Borger finished third in District 1-3A with a 2-2 mark and comes in as a No. 1 seed in Division I.
- Andrews clinched a playoff spot with its win over Seminole in the season finale in Andrews. Andrews led 21-0 before the Indians rallied to make it 1-point game with 14 seconds remaining. Andrews then got a key stop on the two-point conversion try to preserve the win.

Junior QB Jase Hammack threw for 170 yards and a touchdown, while sophomore RB Tajh Kelly rushed for 64 yards.

- Andrews senior RB Jaime Vela did not play against Seminole for unspecified reasons and is not expected to play today.
- Borger secured a playoff spot with its win over River Road last week.
- The Bulldogs are primarily a running team out of the spread. They are led by RB Dontrea Butler, who has rushed for 860 yards and six touchdowns.

"They are a dangerous group of athletes," said Andrews coach Ralph Mason about the Bulldogs. "They have played a tough schedule and kind of scary in a way. We need to contain the running backs and the quarterback and not allow them any early momentum."

Dolphins' Martin ends silence, meets NFL counsel

By Rick Freeman
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Jonathan Martin spent nearly seven hours going into "great detail" with the NFL counsel investigating his claims of his harassment in the Miami Dolphins' locker room. What came up in their talks, he isn't saying for now.

He would say this: He still wants to play in the NFL.

Martin — in town because the league is trying to gather information about the bullying he said he was subjected to by teammate Richie Incognito — arrived at the Manhattan office building of special investigator Ted Wells on Friday morning, and didn't emerge until shortly after sunset. Mobbed by media, he stood in the camera lights and read a statement.

"Although I went into great detail with Mr. Ted Wells and his team, I do not intend to discuss this matter publicly at this time," Martin said. "This is the right way to handle the situation.

"Beyond that, I look forward to working through the process and resuming my career in the National Football League."

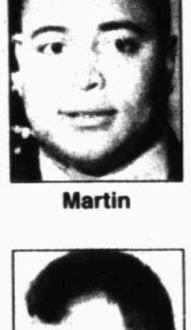
After that, he and attorney David Cornwell went back into the building, later leaving via a side exit.

The crowd outside the building drew attention from office workers and tourists all day. Some even stopped to watch and wait, and most seemed familiar with Martin's story.

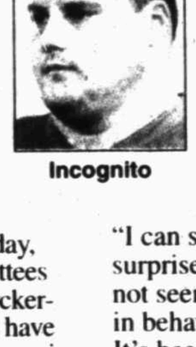
Even Miami-based hip-hop artist Rick Ross came by. His record label is located in the building across the street.

Incognito has acknowledged leaving a voicemail for Martin in April in which he used a racial slur, threatened to kill his teammate and threatened to slap Martin's mother. Incognito has said he regrets the racist and profane language, but said it stemmed from a culture of locker-room "brotherhood," not bullying.

Incognito is white and Martin is biracial. Teammates, both black and white, have said Incognito is not a racist, and they've been more supportive of the veteran guard than they have of Martin.



Martin



Incognito

Incognito has been suspended by the Dolphins. He filed a grievance Thursday against the team over his suspension, and has said his conduct was part of the normal locker-room environment.

Dolphins owner Stephen Ross also plans to meet with Martin, who said Friday that he will indeed get together with the Dolphins' front office. On Monday, Ross said two committees would examine the locker-room culture. Players have been virtually unanimous in saying it doesn't need to be changed.

At Dolphins practice Friday, long snapper John Denney, the team's players' union representative, was asked about problems.

"I can't say I saw it firsthand because I'm not an offensive lineman, and I'm not in their offensive line room. I can tell you from my perspective, and having been in this locker room, I never saw it coming," he said. "I can say that. It was a surprise to me. There did not seem to be an increase in behavioral problems. It's been the same here my entire career."

REBELS

From 1B

I want everything to go right. It kind of got sloppy there at the end of the game. You know it's good, though, it's dang good to have that win and be able to move on to the next round and look forward to playing Southlake."

Lee scored on four of its six possessions in the first half and was leading 24-3 at halftime, spurred by a rejuvenated Lee running game. Rebel junior running back Aron Dobbins rushed for 79 of his 156 yards in the first half with two first half touchdowns.

But in the second half, Lee essentially put the game away within the first six minutes of the second half.

Aztec wide receiver Deonte Arnold muffed the opening kickoff of the second half, and then in the process of chasing the ball down he looked like was going to return. But then after moving into the field of play stepped back into the end zone for a safety.

The Rebels then scored in three plays after the free kick with Brives Turner scoring on a 1-yard run. The play was set up by Isaiah Johnson's 34-yard catch, which was one of six the senior had for 102 yards on Friday.

Lee's defense forced the Aztecs to punt on its next possession, and this time it took nine plays to score. Caden Coots hit Johnson on a 15-yard TD pass, and Lee was now up 40-3 with 6:22 remaining in the third quarter. Coots ended the game completing 21 of 30 passes for 381 yards and three touchdowns.

"(The touchdowns) gave us a ton of confidence," Kennedy said. "Once we started playing, (the offense's) spirits kicked up and they started kicking it in gear as well."

Lee added another touchdown in the third quarter, while the Aztecs scored three TDs in the fourth quarter as the Rebels began to substitute in players on both sides of the ball. Aztec running back Lederrick Wilson, who had more than 1,700 yards rushing coming into the game, had 105 yards on 16 carries but he had a 68-yard run late in the fourth quarter and had 37 yards on his other 14 carries.

"We came out and got some points early and it was definitely good for us," Morton said. "That gave us some confidence to put that last one behind us and give us a shot in the arm. I think we needed to get our confidence going again."

Ruby is a very sweet 2 year old Labrador mix. She needs a home where she can be an only pet with a family who can spend quality time with her. She has so much love to give and needs a family who will spoil her the way she deserves.

Moo Moo is a 6 year old declawed cat who needs a quiet home where she is the only pet. She is not the type of cat who requires a lot of attention. She needs a home where she can be herself and get a little attention when she needs it. Her adoption fee was pre paid by a donor.

MUSTANGS

passes to Reagan Brown (five catches for 92 yards) and Elias Aguirre for a commanding 42-0 advantage at the half.

While the Mustang offense churned out 504 total yards, the Mustangs defense was again outstanding as it held the Cougars to 114 total yards while recording its sixth shutout of the season.

"That's what makes our team what it is," Greg McClendon said. "Our special teams is solid, our defense is very strong and our offense is strong. We're a pretty complete football team."

For a Midland Christian team in search of its third straight TAPPS Division II title, this was just the kind of game the Mustangs wanted to begin their title quest.

"We're all feeling good," Fender said. "We had a hard week of practice. We had a few struggles on Monday but we really put it together. Coach McClendon holds us to a high standard during the playoffs, so we need to keep working."

Prosecutor digs into complaint leveled at FSU quarterback

By Ray Glier
NYT News Service

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — William N. Meggs, a state attorney for Florida's 2nd judicial circuit, said he was not certain how a sexual assault complaint from almost a year ago involving Florida State quarterback Jameis Winston had just crossed his desk, but he promised he would "get to the bottom of it."

Meggs first learned of the Dec. 7, 2012, complaint Wednesday when local news media called him to ask about a report on the celebrity news website TMZ.

Tim Jansen, Winston's lawyer, told reporters that a complaint was made by an unidentified woman on Dec. 7, 2012, at 4:10 a.m. The incident report described sexual battery at an off-campus apartment but did not name Winston.

The Tallahassee police investigated Winston but did not hand over the case to prosecutors until this week. Jansen told The Tallahassee Democrat this week that a Tallahassee police officer told him last February the case against Winston, 19, was closed. He added Winston denied any wrongdoing. Jansen did not respond to a request for comment.

David Northway, a spokesman for the Tallahassee Police Department, was asked about the timeline of the case and said, "I have no comment about the open, active investigation."

Florida State (9-0), which is No. 2 in the Bowl Championship Series rankings, hosts Syracuse (5-4) today. Winston, a redshirt freshman and a Heisman front-runner, is the leader of a high-powered Seminoles offense.

But now the 11-month-old complaint involving Winston has resurfaced and landed in front of Meggs, although he said he did not know why it had not gotten to his office sooner.

"The normal procedure is they come and bring this stuff to us," Meggs said, referring to the police. "The first I learned of this case was Wednesday morning at 10:02." He added: "We usually approve these probable cause warrants, or reject them. We didn't get one in this case. I get them in most every other case that comes into fruition whether they want-to make an arrest or they don't want to make an arrest."

Meggs said he was making arrangements for the complainant, who is out of state, to be brought to Tallahassee for an interview, and added that his office was interviewing a witness Friday afternoon that he said the police had been unable to locate. Whether the case moves forward is determined by Meggs' office, not the complainant.

"What I've got to do is protect the rights of this victim, and I intend to do that fully and have a proper and thorough investigation done and try and seek the truth," Meggs said.

Asked whether he thought the complainant wanted to pursue the case, he said: "I think I know. I'll know when I talk to her, but I think she made a prompt and timely report of the events of the night back-on Dec. 7 last year."

Serbia, Czech Republic tied 1-1 in Davis Cup

By Dusan Stojanovic
Associated Press

BELGRADE, Serbia — Novak Djokovic of Serbia and Tomas Berdych of defending champion Czech Republic did what was expected of them Friday, winning their matches and leaving the Davis Cup final at 1-1 after the opening day.

Djokovic beat Radek Stepanek 7-5, 6-1, 6-4 in the first singles. Berdych then defeated rookie Dusan Lajovic 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 on the indoor hard court at Belgrade Arena.

With their 13-1 record in Davis Cup doubles, Berdych and Stepanek have a chance to give the Czechs the lead in the best-of-five series Saturday. It was still unclear whether Djokovic would play doubles or rest for Sunday's reverse singles.

The Czechs are in the final for the third time in five years. Serbia won its only Davis Cup title in Belgrade in 2010, beating France.

Djokovic won for the 23rd straight time since losing to Rafael Nadal in the U.S. Open final in September.

San Angelo Central 42 El Paso Montwood 21

San Angelo Central pulled out a tough win against El Paso Montwood in a Class 5A Division II bi-district playoff game at Grande Communications Stadium on Friday.

The Bobcats trailed Montwood 21-14 at halftime but didn't allow the Rams to score in the second half. A pair of third-quarter touchdown runs by Braden Hucks, who finished with 137 rushing yards on 12 carries, put the Bobcats on top. Then a 1-yard TD run by senior quarterback Mickey Scott and a 43-yard interception return TD by junior cornerback Jaylon Lane in the fourth quarter put the Rams away.

The Bobcats intercepted Montwood quarterback Jacob Aguilar four times in the game, including twice inside the Central 20-yard line.

Central (10-1) plays Keller Fossil Ridge in an Class 5A Division II area playoff game next week at a time, date and location still to be determined.

Longhorns, Cowboys vying for Big 12 title

By Jim Vertuno
Associated Press

AUSTIN — After a 1-2 start, the No. 23 Texas Longhorns have rallied to contest for the Big 12 title with three games left.

It starts today against No. 12 Oklahoma State, the team most had pegged for the league crown until an early stumble on the road at West Virginia. But like the Longhorns (7-2, 6-0), the Cowboys (8-1, 5-1) regrouped to keep the Big 12 title and the BCS bowl berth that comes with it in sight.

For Texas, this position seemed unthinkable after two blowout losses in September that got defensive coordinator Manny Diaz fired and the Longhorns punted out of the national rankings.

And coming off a home loss to Ole Miss, coach Mack Brown was jeered for immediately starting talk that Texas could still win the Big 12. The fans mostly wanted to talk about whether Brown would still have a job after this season.

The Game

When: 2:30 p.m. today
Where: Darrell K Royal-Texas Memorial Stadium
On TV: Fox

"Our guys know we've got three games left to win the conference and they understand this one is the only thing they can do anything about. They're proud of themselves," Brown said.

Leading the resurgence has been quarterback Case McCoy, the backup who took over the starter's job in September when David Ash sustained a concussion. McCoy's gunslinger attitude and uncanny ability to deliver big plays in the clutch kept Texas from losses at Iowa State and West Virginia.

Texas rallied against six teams with a combined record of 23-33. The last three opponents — Oklahoma State, Texas Tech and Baylor — are 23-4.

While the series history with Oklahoma State is lopsided in Texas' favor, the road team has won each of the last four meetings.

"I don't think there's any question that we are a much better football team than we were a month and a half ago. That's a credit to the players," Cowboys coach Mike Gundy said. "They've made a decision to work hard together and improve, and they have. I like our leadership and I like the maturity of our team right now."

Tech looks to spoil Baylor's 12-game winning streak

By Stephen Hawkins
Associated Press

ARLINGTON — When Baylor first played Texas Tech in the Dallas Cowboys' stadium four years ago, the game provided an experience the Bears weren't going to get anywhere else that season.

It was a regular-season finale with no chance of playing in a bowl game.

"It was really the first time our team experienced what a bowl game would be like," said coach Art Briles, who this week got a new 10-year deal through the 2023 season. "The crowd's kind of split, and it's a good festive atmosphere, so that was an experience for us that we hadn't earned at that point."

The Game

Things have certainly changed for fourth-ranked Baylor (8-0, 5-0 Big 12), which has played in bowl games each season since and now is a national title contender.

The Bears, fifth in the BCS standings, take a school-record 12-game winning streak into tonight's game against Texas Tech (7-3, 4-3) in the NFL stadium.

If Baylor wins its final four games, it will clinch the school's first Big 12 title and get into a BCS game, maybe even the championship game depending on what happens to the other teams ahead of them.

"We're really excited for everything that has been going on. ... It's another one-week season," Bears linebacker Eddie Lackey said. "We can't get too far ahead of ourselves or get caught up in the media and hype, along with the respect that we are finally getting as well."

Texas Tech was 7-0 and 10th in the BCS standings before losing its last three games — the margin growing in each loss, from eight to 18 to 23 last week against Kansas State, the Red Raiders' only

FROM WIRE REPORTS

Big 12/Texas

TEXAS TECH (7-3, 4-3 BIG 12) VS. NO. 4 BAYLOR (8-0, 5-0) AT ARLINGTON, 7 P.M. (FOX)

LINE: Baylor by 27.

SERIES RECORD: Texas Tech leads 36-34-1.

WHAT'S AT STAKE: Baylor tries to improve to 6-0 in conference play for the first time since going 8-0 to win the old Southwest Conference in 1980. The Bears, fifth in the BCS standings, have a school-record 12-game winning streak and are 8-0 for the first time in school history. Texas Tech has lost three in a row since a 7-0 start.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Texas Tech: LB Will Smith leads the team with 72 tackles and 3½ sacks.

Baylor: QB Bryce Petty has 2,657 yards passing with 21 touchdowns and only one interception. He leads the nation in passing efficiency and yards per completion (19.68). He also has eight rushing scores.

NO. 12 OKLAHOMA STATE (8-1, 5-1 BIG 12) AT NO. 23 TEXAS (7-2, 6-0), 2:30 P.M. (FOX)

LINE: Oklahoma State by 3.

SERIES RECORD: Texas leads 23-4.

WHAT'S AT STAKE: Both teams still have shot at outright Big 12 title and BCS bowl that goes with it. Oklahoma State has won five straight games since 30-21 loss at West Virginia, and Texas has run off six in a row since consecutive losses to BYU and Ole Miss. The Cowboys had just one win in 15 trips to Austin in school history before taking two straight in 2010 and 2011. Oklahoma State is going for its third 9-1 start in the past four seasons.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Oklahoma State: RB Desmond Roland has 359 of his 506 yards rushing and eight of his 10 touchdowns rushing in the past three games. While the Longhorns have improved their run defense, they're still in the bottom half of the nation and the conference in rushing defense at 185 yards per game.

Texas: RB Malcolm Brown becomes focal point of rushing attack again after Johnathan Gray's season-ending Achilles tendon injury in last week's overtime win at West Virginia. Brown is averaging 94 yards rushing in past four games and has seven of his eight TDs in past three games.

IOWA STATE (1-8, 0-6 BIG 12) AT NO. 22 OKLAHOMA (7-2, 4-2), 11 A.M. (FS1)

LINE: Oklahoma by 24.

SERIES RECORD: Oklahoma 70-5-2.

WHAT'S AT STAKE: With its Big 12 Conference title hopes effectively extinguished after a loss at Baylor, Oklahoma will look to rebound against a foe it traditionally has dominated. The Sooners still have the carrots of a potential 10-win season and a quality bowl bid to motivate them. Iowa State wants to end a 14-game losing streak against the Sooners.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Iowa State: Nealy has scored a touchdown in four consecutive games — in three different ways. He caught a touchdown pass against Baylor and scored rushing touchdowns against Oklahoma State and Kansas State before returning the second-half kickoff against TCU. He's the Cyclones' first player since 2011 to have a TD in four straight games.

Oklahoma: LB Frank Shannon, who led the Sooners with 15 tackles last week against Baylor despite missing practice most of that week due to an injury. Shannon's role has become more important and more pronounced since senior linebacker Corey Nelson suffered a season-ending injury.

TCU (4-6, 2-5 BIG 12) AT KANSAS STATE (5-4, 3-3), 2:30 P.M. (FSN)

LINE: Kansas State by 10½.

SERIES RECORD: Tied 3-3.

WHAT'S AT STAKE: TCU loss would snap an eight-year bowl streak for Horned Frogs and clinch second losing record in 13 seasons under Gary Patterson, who is making first appearance as head coach at alma mater. Patterson graduated from Kansas State in 1983. The Wildcats are seeking fourth straight win and can become fourth Big 12 team to make bowl appearance after 2-4 start.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

TCU: QBs Casey Pachall and Trevone Boykin figure to continue sharing time after Pachall missed most of season with broken arm. Boykin had three rushing touchdowns as Horned Frogs snapped three-game losing streak with win over Iowa State. Pachall had 245 yards passing but almost threw away chance to win with fourth-quarter interception.

Kansas State: DE Ryan Mueller leads the nation with 10.5 sacks and is second with 15 tackles for loss. The junior had three sacks in last week's win over Texas Tech.

CONNECTICUT (0-8, 0-4 AAC) AT SMU (3-5, 2-2), 2 P.M. (ESPN3)

LINE: SMU by 14½.

SERIES RECORD: SMU leads 1-0.

WHAT'S AT STAKE: SMU still has plenty of work to do to get to fifth consecutive bowl game under coach June Jones. The Mustangs may have to win out to get bowl spot, and certainly can't slip up against winless Huskies. UConn has nine-game losing streak and is making change at starting quarterback this week.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Connecticut: LB Yawin Smallwood is ranked sixth nationally with 11.1 tackles per game. He's had at least 13 tackles in four games, including season high of 16.

SMU: WRs Darius Joseph and Jeremy Johnson, the top two receivers in AAC and ranked third and fourth nationally for catches per game. Joseph has 76 catches for 9.5 per game, for 664 yards. Johnson has 75 catches, 9.4 per game, for 1,042 yards.

HOUSTON (7-2, 4-1 AAC) AT NO. 19 LOUISVILLE (8-1, 4-1), 6 P.M. (ESPNU)

LINE: Louisville by 16.

SERIES RECORD: Tied, 7-7.

WHAT'S AT STAKE: Both teams are tied for second in the American Athletic Conference and needing a victory to stay within reach of first-place Central Florida (4-0), which has beaten both. Houston lost 19-14 last Saturday night at UCF, while Louisville beat Connecticut 31-10 on Nov. 8. The winner will still need to win out and hope that UCF loses twice to win the league outright.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Houston: QB John O'Korn has emerged as one of the nation's top freshman signal-callers with totals of 2,352 yards, 23 touchdowns and six interceptions. His 261 yards per game ranks third in the FBS behind California's Jared Goff (314.1) and Florida State's Jameis Winston (295.7).

Louisville: CB Charles Gaines just keeps making big plays on defense and special teams for the Cardinals. He scored his third touchdown this season last week at Connecticut by blocking a punt and returning it 7 yards for a score. The former wide receiver has also returned an interception 70 yards for a TD at South Florida and a 93-yard kickoff for another score against FIU.

TECH

unranked opponent in a span that included games against No. 12 Oklahoma State and No. 22 Oklahoma.

"We've lost to three really good football teams and turned it over a bunch, and had more penalties, and just things you can't do when you're playing teams of that quality," first-year Tech coach Kliff Kingsbury said. "If we play a better, more consistent game, we feel like we have a chance to get back on the winning side of things."

What to watch for

THRIVING AND TUMBLING: Baylor has been a strong finisher over the past three seasons, going an FBS-best 12-1 in November and December since 2011, including two bowl victories. While Baylor has thrived late, Texas Tech has tumbled in that same span. The Red Raiders are 1-9 in regular-season games played in November and December, but did win its bowl game last December.

FRESH STARTERS: Baker Mayfield was Texas Tech's starting quarterback the first five games before Davis Webb started the last five. Mayfield didn't play again until last week, when he came in and threw for 276 yards with two interceptions. So which true freshman starts today? "That's an interesting position to be in week 11 and still have that going on," Kingsbury said. "We'll get them both reps and see how it goes this week and then trot one of them out there."

NO SHOCK TO BEARS: After Baylor running backs Lache Seastrunk and Glasco Martin got banged up early against Oklahoma, redshirt freshman Shock Linwood ran 182 yards. "He's tough, physical, can run in between the tackles, outside the tackles," Bears quarterback Bryce Petty said. "His success and production on the field was no surprise to any of us." Baylor leads the Big 12 with 295 yards rushing per game. Texas Tech has allowed at least 277 yards rushing in each of its three losses.

Teenager's marijuana use puts friend in a tough spot

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a senior in high school. Every day during lunch, one of my friends goes outside and smokes weed with a couple of his friends. He comes back from lunch with red eyes, smelling of smoke and his behavior indicates that he's high. I'm not sure if they smoke on or off campus, but I know it isn't legal at their age (17), and especially not at school. I saw a joint in his pocket a couple of times and he told me to keep it a secret.

Abby, this has me very uncomfortable. If he wants me to keep it a secret, he must know it's wrong. I don't know how to tell someone or even who I should tell. I know he has depression and weed can "take the edge off," but that doesn't make it OK.

What should I do? Should I tell anyone? And if so, who and how? — FRETTING IN WASHINGTON STATE

DEAR FRETTING: It's surprising to me that your friend returns from lunch showing all of the signs of being stoned, and none of his teachers have picked up on it. Haven't his grades suffered?

While it is not uncommon for people who are depressed to try to self-medicate with illegal substances, it's not nearly as successful as dealing with their emotions by talking about them with a medical professional, and can sometimes make the problem worse. The person to confide this in would be a trusted teacher or school counselor. Please don't wait.

DEAR ABBY: While volunteering last year with a moms' group, I met a woman I'll call "Beverly." We worked on a project together and that was the last I saw of her.

I heard she recently lost her daughter in a terrible accident. Our group rallied around her to provide meals for her family. At that time I asked the volunteer chairwoman about taking a meal to Beverly. The chairwoman didn't respond until a couple of weeks later. Now I'm wondering if I should still take a meal over there.

How long should a family who has suffered a loss receive meals? I want to be a comfort, but I don't know them that well. — UNSURE IN GEORGIA

DEAR UNSURE: When a death happens, people often rush to console the grieving family. More help is offered than can be accepted in the weeks that follow, and then people drift away.

It is not too late to offer Beverly and her family a home-cooked meal. Call her, make the offer and I'm sure it will be gratefully accepted.

DEAR ABBY: Every year we go to my brother's home for Thanksgiving. His wife, "Kelly," is a vegetarian. She will not eat meat and forces all of her guests to follow her strict diet, so every year we are forced to eat tofu turkey.

I brought up the idea of possibly having both a tofu turkey and a regular turkey, but that made my sister-in-law extremely angry. She called me an animal hater and told me I would rot in hell for all of eternity if I continued to sin by eating meat.

I love my brother very much and would hate to compromise our relationship, but every year this causes a fuss at Thanksgiving, and I'd like to avoid it this year. Any advice would be much appreciated. — TOFU-ED OUT IN WISCONSIN

DEAR TOFU-ED OUT: No law says you must dine at your brother's home every year. Either alternate hosting the Thanksgiving dinner (when it's at your house, Kelly can bring tofu turkey for herself — if she decides to attend) or make other plans for a traditional dinner elsewhere. You are not going to change your sister-in-law, and this would be the logical way to avoid an argument.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Nov. 16, 2013:

This year you open up to others, which allows you to see and embody different ideas and styles. This transformation could cause new choices, though you will stay with the tried and true, too. If you are single, the type of person you choose to date could reflect the new you. Expect an unusual person to enter your life by summer 2014. If you are attached, know that your sweetie is adjusting. You might hear a complaint or two, but be understanding. Respect your differences. TAURUS has an earthy perspective.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ Someone you work with could be overwhelming with his or her sudden burst of enthusiasm. This energy might revolve around a business deal or a social happening. Do not say "yes" when you really want to say "no." Tonight: Your treat.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★ You might feel as if life offers no limitations at this present moment, but you quickly could find out otherwise. Just take a step back and evaluate the situation. You will find a different path. You might want someone else to join in. Tonight: You are the party.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★ You could be full of ideas that delight you. You easily might head out the door only to discover that you don't want to be alone. You'll want to regroup and find a reliable and fun family member, but he or she might be a stick in the mud. Tonight: The less said the better.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★ Tap into your creativity, and you'll find solutions that have not been available up till now. A conversation with a younger friend provides an unexpected perspective. Make sure you let this person know how much you value him or her. Tonight: Go on an old-fashioned date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ Understand what is happening with a family member or close friend. You might need to handle a situation before it becomes a problem. Know that you can do this. Once you are free, make an appearance at an important get-together. Tonight: You love being in the limelight.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★ Your words mean more to others than you realize. Your ability to follow through on a promise could be another issue entirely. Try not to say you will do something when there is little possibility you will. Catch up on news. Tonight: Hang out with a favorite person or two.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★ You might think that a suggestion is a great idea, but when you see the financial implications, you might decide to pull out. Know that someone will be very disappointed. Be open, and tell this person what is happening. Tonight: Go with a different suggestion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★ You might feel as if you are being challenged unnecessarily. That observation could be true, but it has nothing to do with you. This person simply is feeling his or her Wheaties. Maintain a sense of humor, and you'll enjoy what is happening. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★ Sometimes spending a Saturday doing errands — getting your hair cut and squeezing in some exercise — constitutes a nearly perfect day. Doing everything in one day also might free you up on other days or in general. Make time for a nap. Tonight: Avoid complications.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★ The back-and-forth between a loved one's desires and yours continues. You might feel as if you're sitting on a seesaw looking at ways to combine both of your desires once more. There is a way — you just have not found it yet. Tonight: Be naughty and nice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★ You might be too concerned with what people would think if you did what you wanted to do. Instead of worrying, live your life for you, and do what you want. Expect some reactions, but know that others do the same. Tonight: Staying close to home could be very appealing.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ You seem to have the right words to appeal to someone in your immediate environment. News from a distance could be a bit difficult and disappointing. Since you cannot change it, let it go. Tonight: Favorite spot, favorite people.

Ask the Guys

Dear Classified Guys,
My husband has always been the type of guy who buys things that need repair just to save a few bucks. The first house he bought was nearly condemned before we spent three years rebuilding it into a spacious cape. While the end result is beautiful, it came at a cost. My husband's klutziness landed him a broken arm and multiple trips to the emergency room. He swore off remodeling after that, until we started looking for a new house. In our hunt for more space, we found two houses. One is almost new, in a decent neighborhood, at an okay price. The other is much larger, great yard, great price, but you guessed it, needs some TLC. My husband is thinking of doing it all over again. I don't know if I can watch him fall off the second story deck AGAIN! Do you think we're better off buying the fixer-upper or just spending a little more for a finished home?

Cash: First off, maybe your husband's toolbox should be converted to a first aid kit. It sounds like that may be more helpful during his construction.

Carry: When it comes to buying a home, decisions like yours are never easy. It's nice to save on the cost by doing some home repairs yourself, but there is also something calming about just moving in to a finished home. Although even in a newer home, I'm sure your husband could find a few repairs to keep himself busy.

Cash: As you know, the house that needs some repair can have its financial advantages. Besides getting a larger home for the cost, repairs that you make could increase it's value when you're ready to move again.

Carry: However, your husband's record of hospital visits makes the decision much more difficult.

Cash: While finances can often influence the decision for many people, there is more involved in the process. You need to determine if you and your husband want to spend your time remodeling or spend your time on other things. Obviously, this is a decision only the two of you can make.

Carry: If you do choose the house that needs TLC, you could compromise by hiring out some of the remodeling work, leaving fewer and safer projects for your husband. Just be sure to factor in those costs when making your decision.

Cash: And, regardless of which house you choose, for your husband's sake, be sure the deck is on the ground floor!

Fast Facts

Handyman Special

Those that can, fix their house. Those that can't, like to watch other people do it on television. Handyman shows like This Old House have always been popular. However, in the last decade, many new reality-remodeling shows have developed and grown in popularity. And it's easy to see why. For most people, a home is their largest investment. While the average median home price is still recovering from the housing bubble several years ago, the average home price of $200,000 or more is still a reach for many.

Next to the Jones

New home construction today is considerably different from years past. In 1970, the average size of a home was about 1,500 square feet. Today, almost half of all the homes built are 2,400 square feet or more. They are taller too. In 1970, only 17% of new homes had a second story as opposed to today's houses, where more than half have a second floor. While we may appreciate the added space, it sure does add to the housework!

Clean Up

As a realtor, you never know what to expect when you show a house for the first time. I took one of my clients to a handyman special that just came on the market.

When we walked in, the place was really nice. It just needed a little cleaning. We couldn't figure out why the price was so reduced until we turned on the water main.

Suddenly water came pouring out of the ceiling, making the entire first floor look like a heavy rainstorm. We rushed to turn off the water main.

As we stood dripping wet, my client put a positive spin on the event. "This really is a nice house," he said. "It's even self cleaning."
