Fort Worth Stands Alone In Opposition To State Highway Running North

AUSTIN, April 13.—(AP)—Of the 137 communications with reference to the proposed designation of the Dallas Northwest highway, received by the highway commission, only one—the one from the Fort Worth chamber of commerce—opposes the designation, John Boswell, of the Dallas chamber of commerce said today.

Delegations from Fort Worth, Dallas, Wichita Falls, Decatur, Grapevine, Rhome, Roanoke and other cities will appear Wednesday before the highway commission hearing.

The proposed 55.8 mile highway would connect highways one and two, and would run from Mesquite, east of Dallas, northwest to Rhome in Wise county. It would pass about eight miles north or Dallas, and 21 miles north of Fort Worth.

"This highway would become the most traveled highway in Texas," D. E. Box, a member of the Grapevine delegation said. "It would be of inestimable value to traffic flowing across Texas. Under present conditions, the bulk of traffic from east to west and from west to east must pass through Dallas and Fort Worth.

"The proposed highway would save the average motorist two hours time, and cut 19 miles from the distance, by making it possible for him to avoid both Dallas and Fort Worth, regardless of whether he was traveling east or west.

"Another feature would be that traffic from northeast Texas could roll into Fort Worth without going through Dallas, and traffic from the northwest into Dallas, without passing through Fort Worth."

Mr. Box said the highway would serve well an immediate territory, ideally adapted to truck growing and production of dairy products.

Estimated cost is approximately $2,500,000, with Dallas county planning to pay about $1,500,000. It would follow an old railroad dump, have a 100-foot right-of-way, and a 60-foot road base of concrete.

"The highway would have few curves and at no place would the grade be over one per cent," Mr. Box said.

The commission set May 10 for opening bids on the grading and bridging of 7.7 miles of highway 39 in Wise county; and May 13 for opening bids on grading and bridging of 3.5 miles on highway 64 and 4.8 miles of highway 28 A. in Rusk county.

Delegations from Anderson and Freestone counties asked that bids be opened immediately for a $200,000 bridge across the Trinity river on highway 33, between Palestine and Hearne, and for a $50,000 bridge on highway 43, between Palestine and Rusk.

[illegible]GE SLANDER

[illegible] Objects to No. 1 Using Name.

[illegible] WORTH, April 13.—Slander charges by ex-wife by wife were filed in county court here today as an aftermath of the suicide of A. L. Adams a few weeks ago. Mrs. Marie Talley, former wife of L. L. Donohoe, filed the charges against Mrs. Beatrice Donohoe, his present mate. Both women are waitresses.

Before dying from the effects of poison, Adams asked to see his "estranged sweetheart," who was stated to be Mrs. Marie Donohoe. Mrs. Beatrice Donohoe is alleged to have gone before the justice of peace who held the inquest and to have made slanderous remarks about her going under the name of "Mrs. Donohoe."

NEW RORK SENTE ASKS REFERENDUM ON LIQUOR ISSUE

ALBANY, N. Y., April 13.—(AP) Soon after the senate had passed the Karle bill calling for a state referendum on the prohibition question, the assembly today passed the Jenks bill seeking re-enactment of a state prohibition enforcement law.

Victory of the enforcement measure in the lower house carried little weight as its senate companion was decisively defeated in the upper house three weeks ago.

Ground Preferred By Commissioner

Although newly elected street commissioner, J. W. Hunt wants to see all the streets of the city be prefers to look at them one at a time and on the ground, instead of viewing them ensemble, so to speak, from the privileged height of 2,000 feet up in an aeroplane.

Mr. Hunt late Tuesday night was accorded the official invitation of the Laredo chamber of commerce to take a trip over the city in one of its air messengers, stopping ofr a few days east of the city on the Henrietta road. "With our compliments," Laredo said. But Mr. Hunt declined.

"I'm not afraid," he said, "Just cautious."

HOGG DISPUTES WETS' CLAIM ON PROHIBITION

Evangelist Declares Nation Would Have Been Dry By Local Option

ASSAILS "BOOZE"

Speaker Praises American Effort In Banishing Saloons

A seathing denunciation of attempts to secure modification of the prohibition amendment and the enforcement laws, and a flowery tribute to the success that has attended enforcement thus far, with a representation of the old arguments against intoxicating liquors held a large congregation at the Floral Heights Methodist church for more than an hour Tuesday night while Dr. Will Hogg of Memphis, Tenn., assailed "Booze."

On the day that national prohibition went into effect, Jan. 16, 1920, the American nation reached the highest level in its history, Dr. Hogg declared. "On that day it struck down 177,790 saloons at one blow.

Banishes Saloons.

Those saloons were dispensing 88,680,967 gallons of alcoholic liquors. For the first time in the history of the world a nation, by process of law, had banished traffic in alcohol from its borders. Two billion and a half booze dollars were turned into better channels.

The evangelist was uncompromising in his position toward the association against the prohibition amendment, calling attention to a resolution introduced last month by Congressman Tillman asking that the activities of the association be investigated. In the resolution it was stated, according to Dr. Hogg, that the association boasted that it had raised $1,000,000, that it had secured repeal of the dry law in New York, defeated one in Nevada; that it aims to suppress and coerce persons hostile to it; defeat every dry candidate; that it has bought persons of great influence; that it has the support of the brewers and the maltsters.

Wasn't Forced.

"The offhand cry that prohibition was forced on the American republic when it was stunned by the war and its voting population was still largely in France. It is my belief founded on uncontrovertible statistics, that in time the nation would have gone dry by the due process of the local option and statewide movements. The national prohibition laws found the nation three-quarters dry already.

"You have heard it said that prohibition interferes with personal liberty. Why is it that we never hear of a complaint that the prohibition against morphine and cocaine interferes with personal liberty? A poison is deadly in whatever form it may be presented for consumption. Booze destroys judgment inflames passions, forges adamantine fetters and preys upon innocence, decency, the helpless and defenseless in the drinker's home. It is the stimulant that fires the killers' brain and pushes womanhood over the brink."

BROTHERS GIVE UP IN SLAYING

Floydada Man Is Shot To Death In Front Of Bank

LUBBOCK, April 13.—(AP)—Following the shooting to death of Harve Snodgras, 40, of Floydada on a downtown street of that city late today, Mack Shipley, 28, his brother Frank, and their father, Dan Shipley, pioneer Floyd county stockman, surrendered to Lubbock county officers ten miles east of this city and were brought here and placed in the county jail.

The men said they were enroute to Lubbock to surrender to Sheriff H. L. Johnston. In addition to a .32 calibre automatic pistol, the men surrendered two shotguns and a high-power rifle, Deputy Sheriff Vernice L. Ford said tonight.

Neither of the Shipley boys would make a statement other than that Mack Shipley did the shooting, Ford said. The father was not at the scene of the trouble, and Frank Shipley, they say, ran up after the shooting occurred.

The Shipleys told County Attorney Owen McWhorter, however; that Snodgrass hat shot at them from the public highway near their place during the latter part of February.

WADE STRESSES FARMING NEED TO OLNEY MEN

Declares Town Must Turn Efforts to Stable Industry

OIL NOT SUFFICIENT

Chamber of Commerce In Quarterly Meet Hear Speakers

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, April 13.—If Olney is to last, if Olney is to continue to grow, if Olney is to fulfill its destiny as the leading city of Young county and a center for the industry of this section of the state of Texas, it must found its development on something more permanent than the shallow oil fields which are now pouring their riches into the laps of its citizens and merchants. This, in brief, was the opinion expressed by Homer Wade, assistant manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, in an address before the business men of the city in the quarterly meeting of the chamber of commerce here this evening.

Stresses Agriculture.

Mr. Wade stressed poultry and cattle raising and all forms of agriculture as essential industries. Build toward them, he told the meeting. The days of the oil fields are numbered, he stated, "Although they may last for years to come, they must eventually suffer the usual depletion that will spell bankruptcy and ruin unless you find the firmer foundation of agriculture and manufacturing upon which to build the Olney that is to be!"

Mr. Wade in his addess stressed four paramount rules for conduct in the building of the city. "Talk the town up," he admonished. "Strive for good leadership. Give your leader not only the co-operation of your mind but get-out and push with him. And patronize your home town. Buy it here in Olney."

Walker Reports.

Dak Walker, president of the chamber of commerce, in his quarterly report, called attention to the accomplishments of the chamber during the last three months. Other speakers of the evening dwelt on various aspects of Olney's progress and what must be done to insure its continuation. These speakers included L. P. George, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Graham, and D. T. Barrett of that city; Miss Bonnie Bryan, county home demonstration agent; B. C Schulkey, superintendent of schools and M. M. Greever, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

The meeting was well attended and was held at the new Boy Scout hall. Olney's new municipal band, composed of 21 members and sponsored by the chamber of commerce furnished music for the evening.

Allred To Outline Stand On Candidacy For Moody Post At Rally Thursday

Former District Prosecutor Will Formally Launch Campaign For State Post In Wichita Falls

James V. Allred, Wichita Falls attorney, will open his campaign for attorney general of Texas in Wichita Falls on Thursday night at a rally to be held in his behalf in the 78th district court room, it was announced Tuesday. Temporary campaign acadquarters have been opened at Mr. Allred's office in the Bob Waggoner building. Allred will manage his own campaign.

The former Wichita Falls district attorney will make only a short speech himself at the Thursday night rally, a tentative program indicates, it being his intention at the time to outline his platform and the policies on which he will make the race to succeed Dan Moody. The brunt of the discussion, it is understood, will fall upon the shoulders of a number of others of the city who have thrown their support to Mr. Allred in the coming campaign.

The second speech of Mr. Allred's campaign will probably be made Saturday night at Breckenridge, with tentative engagements announced for the next ten days at Haskell and at Bowie.

A flood of letters and telegrams has been received by Mr. Allred following his announcement Saturday afternoon that he intended to make the race for attorney general. it was stated Tuesday.

These are coming from every part of the state with possibly the larger number from West Texas. In most of them, favorable mention is made of the youth of the candidate and the record made while district attorney.

IDENTIFY BANK RAID SUSPECT

San Antonio Prosecutor Springs Surprise In Trial

SAN ANTONIO, April 13.—Kenneth Smith, first of the six men to go on trial on a charge of robbery of $19,138 from the San Antonio National Ban, March 30, pinned his hopes upon the weakness of the case of the state in the thirty-seventh district court and permitted the case to go to the jury tonight without an attempt to contradict state evidence.

The state had produced a scrap of paper alleged to be a plan of the interior of the bank which was said to have been taken from the pocket of Smith on his arrest by Constable Duke Carver and John Long, investigator for the district attorney's office. A sawed-off shotgun dragged from the river was shown to have been thrown there by Smith's brother, Jack, also under indictment. T. D. Anderson, cashier of the bank had identified Smith as one of the men who had robbed the bank.

Outlines Case Rapidly.

The state outlined its case rapidly throughout the day and rested late in the afternoon. At a night session the defense introduced character witnesses and both sides closed.

District Attorney Chambers contented himself with identifying the paper which was said to have been taken from Kenneth Smith's pocket and passed it to the jurors for examination.

Attorneys for Smith fought against the introduction of the shotgun taken from the river and the jury was withdrawn while the lawyers argued with the court. Judge O. M. Fitzhugh admitted the testimony.

Carver said the shotgun had been found in the river near the Brookline Street bridge after Jack Smith, a brother of the defendant, also under indictment, told him he had thrown it there. Smith had explained that when he heard of the bank robbery and that sawed-off shotguns had been used by the robbers, and that if he was found in possession "it would look bad." Smith declared he then threw the gun in the river.

Spring Surprise.

Attorneys for the defense also fought against introduction of a shotgun found in a residence because it was not obtained with a search warrant. Judge Fitzhugh admitted the evidence when officers said they entered the house with permission of the women in control. This gun was said to belong to Joe F. Hobrecht, another of the defendants.

The state sprang a surprise when Anderson identified the defendant as the man who held a gun on him while other men robbed the bank. This evidence had been kept carefully under cover by District Attorney Chambers.

Anderson declared the man who held a gun on him wore a mustache and he pointed out the defendant as the man. Kenneth Smith is the only one of the six defendants who has mustache.

William Herff, president of the bank was the most positive witness in the identification. He pointed out Earl Collins as the man who had threatened him with a sawed-off shotgun and made him sit on the floor while the robbery was in progress. Collins was the only man he saw, Herff declared and he was positive in his identification.

MISSION PROGRESSING

Work on the Mexican Mission, Catholic church, is progressing rapidly, and is expected to be completed by May 1, according to Father John Untereiner yesterday. Work on the new structure was begun several weeks ago, and will cost approximately $10,000 without the furnishings, it is said.

CARPENTERS TO STAY OFF JOBS

More Men to Walk Out Wednesday for Third Day

A complete tie-up in building in the city with possibly every union carpenter in Wichita Falls on strike in an effort to obtain a wage increase from contractors loomed Tuesday night at the end of the second day of the strike. From neither camp, that of contractors and carpenters was there an indication of a lessening of the tension effected Monday morning when employes on 14 jobs walked out. Following the first batch of strikers, Tuesday morning four possibly 200 or 260 members of the carpenters' union not at work, and it was believed that today would find practically the entirety of a membership of 300 to 350 on strike.

Standing Pat.

From the contractors themselves late Tuesday night came word that they were standing "pat" and that the next move was up to the carpenters. This statement was made by John H. Taylor, chairman of the contractors' committee on the strike, following a meeting of the striking carpenters Tuesday night at which time it is understood preparations for continuing and prosecuting the strike to the utmost were gone into horoughly.

The meeting f the carpenters was held at the Labor temple and lasted from early in the evening to almost midnight. Officers of the union refused to comment in any manner on the results of the conference. These facts, however were gained unofficially from members of the craft following adjournment: that those who did not strike Tuesday would be out today; that the union had no intention of giving in; that it considered its demands fair and reasonable and in line with wage scales offered in other cities; and that the full force of union labor in Wichita Falls would be brought to bear in the prosecution of the strike.

SIX ARE SLAIN IN GUN FIGHT OVER ELECTION

Troops Ordered Out To Guard Home of Klansmen Clergymen

GUARD MOBILIZED

Factional Trouble Renewed Marked With Strife And Death

HERRIN, Ill., April 13.—(AP)—Six men are dead as a result of a renewal of Herrin's factional strife late today in connection with the hotly contested primary election and national guardsmen are in charge of sections of the town as a result.

The dead are:

Harlan Ford, brother of former chief of police, John Ford.

Mack Sizemore, constable.

Ben Sizemore, constable, brother of Mack Sizemore.

Deputy Sheriff Treadway.

Deputy Sheriff Briggs.

Deputy Sheriff Noble Weaver.

Bitterness dating back to the days when S. Glenn Young was dictator of Williamson county, is believed responsible for today's rioting. The most bloodshed was near the Masonic temple where two car loads of alleged gangsters got out of their cars and opened fire on klansmen.

Many Away From Polls

On anticipation of rioting at the polls many of the city's voters did not cast their ballots today because of fear that trouble would arise again.

According to John Smith, local klansman and garage owner, the first shot was fired at him by a man whom he identified as "Blackie" Arms. He stated that he was standing in front of his garage about 2:30 p. m., talking with some friends in an automobile when another car drew up behind the car containing the men to whom he was talking.

The second car bore Illinois license No. 289-695, Smith said, and it was from that car that he was fired upon. Smith declared that he ducked and ran for the garage but that he was cut about the face.

Trops in command of Colonel Robert M. Davis, of Carbondale, arrived in the city at 4 o'clock and 30 minutes later trouble broke out anew before troops could be rushed to the scene. Several were left dead or wounded near the Herrin Masonic temple.

Smith following the attack, barricaded himself in his garage with his brother-in-law, Eugene Vincent, and returned the fire. Shooting then became general on Monroe street between the European hotel and Smith's garage.

Fall at Hotel

In the first firing one man said to have been unarmed, was seen to fall in front of the hotel. He was taken away by friends and his name has not been made known.

Chief of Police Griffith said shortly before the trouble that he did not expect to ask for troops, but when Lieutenant Colonel Davis arrived from Carbondale he immediately got in touch with various citizens and it is understood had a formal request from State Senator Sneed, one of the United Mine Workers officials for troops.

The troops arrived about 4 o'clock and shortly afterward the third shooting started, about five blocks from the scene of the first and second disorders.

It was reported that more than 500 shots were poured into the garage by the enraged crowd outside and they were dispersed only after being told that Smith had fled through a rear door.

With the arrival tonight of company K, Illinois national guard, Cario, to augment a force of 20 militia men from Carbondale, the situation while tense was believed to be under control and authorities expressed the belief that no further trouble would be forthcoming.

While some attributed today's flare-up to the hotly contested municipal election it was most generally believed to be merely a renewal of the old factional feud.

CHICAGO ELECTIONS REIGN OF TERROR.

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP)—Shooting, slugging and ballot box thefts and terrorizing of election precinct workers by Chicago gangsters featured today's primaries here.

Disorders in one west side ward became so pronounced late in the day that hundreds of extra policemen were dispatched. Thereafter nearly a score of reports of violence were received from nearly every polling place in the ward within two hours before the polls closed.

One man was shot and seriously injured by a policeman who tried to stop a factional fight and was set upon by both sides in the controversy.

One of the boldest ballot box thefts occurred in the twenty-fourth ward, scene of disturbances throughout the day, when twelve armed men in three automobiles entered a polling place forced all the occupants into another room and scooped up all the ballots in sight and fled. Later officials said most of the ballots were blanks. Almost simultaneously seven armed gangsters raided another precinct in the same ward and took all the ballot boxes.

In another outbreak earlier in the day a policeman was severely beaten while trying to quell a disorder in another polling place. A balmy spring day aided in bringing out what election officials considered as a heavy vote for an off year primary although it was believed that not more than half of Cook county's nearly 1,200,000 registered voters had gone to the polls.

"HER MAN"

--By Beatrice Burton--

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR has been engaged to RANDALL PHELPS for a year when he asks her to free him because he has fallen in love with her chum, FAY SHIRLEY.

Heartbroken, Sylvia gives him up, to the great satisfaction of AUNT AGONY, the old maid who reared her. Aunt Agony calls Ranny good-for-nothing and says he'll never be true to any woman for very long. She urges Sylvia to marry PETER WILK the brother of her friend, MISS SARA WILK.

Aunt Agony's opinion of Ranny seems to be correct, too. For he suddenly drops Fay and marries Sylvia after all. The pair settle down in a tiny flat that Sylvia calls The Nest, and before long Ranny is back with his poker playing cronies, gambling away most of the family funds. Then he has a second love affair with Fay. But when Sylvia tells him she's going to have a baby he turns over a new leaf. And Fay quickly announces her engagement to an old beau, EDDIE CARTER, and marries him.

Shortly after the birth of JUNIOR, Sylvia's baby, Ranny returns to his old crowd and his old ways. Sylvia has to give music lessons to pay her doctor bill and keep the little household going.

Ranny buys a new car and spends a great deal of time in it, with MRS. JANE BRACKETT, who sells real estate for his father's company. MOTHER PHELPS tells Sylvia how disgusted FATHER PHELPS is with Ranny. And at last he takes THOMAS BOYLE, who is married to Ranny's young sister, LOLLY, into the firm.

Sylvia decides to have a career of her own, so long as Ranny seems to admire the Jane Brackett type of woman. She takes singing lessons from her old teacher, MISS SHARP, who tells her she has a really remarkable voice. And she sends a song she has written, "When Everything's Said," to a music publisher, hoping he will buy it and bring it out. Then Mother Phelps asks her to sing at a musicale-tea one afternoon, and Sylvia says she will. It is the first time she has ever sung in public.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

No prima donna on her first night ever suffered from stage-fright more than Sylvia did that afternoon when she made her way through Mother Phelp's crowded living room with its sea of strange faces that turned to watch her pass.

"Perfectly heavenly voice!" she heard one woman exclaim, "I wonder who she was before Ranny married her."

Her knees shook and she felt as if she were trembling inside, too. She felt as if she never would reach the corner where Peter stood waiting for her. Not knowing that she did it, she put out both hands as she came up to him, and stood, holding them, bracing herself.

"Oh, Peter, was I all right? How did my voice sound from here?" she asked him, breathlessly.

His eyes told her that it had sounded marvelous, to him, at least. They were full of praise for her, his grave brown eyes.

"An angel couldn't have sung better," he said, and Sylvia knew that he believed what he said.

She looked around for Ranny. But he was nowhere in sight. He and Mrs. Brackett had left their place beside the stairs. Where could they be? Probably across the hall, in the dining room, having some tea and sandwiches.

"I wonder if Ranny asked his mother to invite her here today," Sylvia thought oddly.

Then she noticed that a slim woman in grey who sat with a group in the bay window, was speaking to her—saying something that Sylvia couldn't hear above the chatter and the clatter of tea cups. The woman got up and came toward her.

"Your voice is perfectly lovely," she said in a sugary voice. "Do let me have your telephone number before you go. I may want to have you sing for me some time. I'm Mrs. Churchill, you know.

She said it as if she were saying "I'm Queen Victoria," and went back to her chair.

Sylvia turned to Peter with laughter lighting the blue depths of her lovely eyes. "Isn't that a rare joke? She thinks I'm a professional singer that Mother Phelps hired for the afternoon!" she lilted.

Peter glared at the back of the woman in grey.

"The idiot!" he muttered, but Sylvia stopped him with a smile.

"No, it tickled me to death to have her think it!" she told him. "Doesn't it prove that my voice isn't so bad, after all?"

Before they could settle the question Sylvia heard Lolly's gay little soprano in her ear, and her hand, holding a cigaret daintily between two fingers, came down on Sylvia's shoulder.

"Come here a minute, darling, I want you," she said. "You'll excuse her for a second, won't you, Peter?" And she guided Sylvia through the broad carpeted stairs to her own room.

"Im Going to Make You Do It!" Sarah Threatened, "And Aggie'll Back Me Up"

"I just wanted to get you away from Peter Wilk,' she explained, flicking the ash from her cigaret with a fingernail that was like a pink jewel. "People say such catty things—and it did look queer for you to rush across the room to Peter right after your song, as if he were your husband!"

Sylvia flushed. "But Ranny wasn't in sight—"

"I know he wasn't! I know he was out in the sunroom with Mrs. Brackett!" Lolly took the words out of her mouth. "But that's all the more reason why you should have hunted him up instead of going to Peter."

She stopped and turned toward the door. There was a sound of tapping on its ivory-white panels. "Who's there?" she called, and Ranny stepped into the room. His face was like a thunder cloud.

"Hello, Gloomy Gus! What's on your mind?" Lolly asked impudently, making room for him to sit down beside her on the bench before the dresser.

But he stood looking at Sylvia, his hands thrust into his trousers' pockets. "Did Mother persuade you to sing today, or was it your own brilliant idea?" he asked her.

She looked back at him with surprise written all over her flushed face, and her nervous fingers began to fidget with the soft lace that frosted her dress.

"Well, I should fall off the Christmas tree and smash myself!" exclaimed Lolly, her eyes wide. "For heaven's sake, why shouldn't she sing? I should think you'd be tickled to death because you have a wife with a voice like Sylvia's!"

Ranny turned on her with a look of disgusted annoyance. "Will you please get out of here and let me talk to Sylvia without butting in?" he asked. Like most brothers and sisters, he and Lolly always spoke their minds to each other with extreme bluntness.

"No, I won't so!" Lolly retorted, her chin and her nose high in the air. "This is my room and I'll stay in it as long as I want to!"

Just then the door opened and in came Mother Phelps.

"Well, this is a family gathering!" she said. "Lolly, my dear, you'd better run right downstairs. Sylvia, they want you to sing again. Why did you run away like this?" She stopped, and realizing that something was wrong, looked from one to the other of the three faces, questioningly.

"I—I don't believe Ranny wants me to sing," Sylvia faltered at last. "He seems to think I made a fool of myself by singing that one time!"

Ranny flushed and shifted from one foot to the other.

"N-no, I don't think you made a fool of yourself," he admitted grudgingly. "Your voice is all right in its way, but I don't want my wife to sing in public. I have no use for these women who read or sing at teas—a woman's place is in the home, not gadding around showing off. Sylvia has enough to do taking care of the baby and keeping her house clean."

Lolly Boyle made a noise that was halfway between a snort and a laugh—a scornful sound. "Hugh! You don't care if she gives music lessons, though, do you?" she asked him, her eyes snapping. "You don't care if she works half the day doing that, do you? But you hate to see her step out and do something that gives her a little pleasure. You're jealous, that's what you are! I heard what your friend, Mrs. Brackett, said just now about Sylvia's voice, downstairs! You ought to be ashamed of yourself to let a woman say such things about your wife! You ought—"

"Lolly!" Mother Phelps laid a jeweled hand over Lolly's little pink mouth. "Lolly, keep your tongue between your teeth! And go downstairs and see that Julia makes some more tea!"

Without another word Lolly went, swinging her hips saucily as she went.

Mother Phelps stood in deep thought for a minute or two after she had gone. Then she spoke very quietly to Ranny. "You go downstairs, too, Randall," she said. "I want to talk to Sylvia for a moment."

She followed him to the door and locked it after him. Then she came back to Sylvia, and cupped her chin in her hand, turning her face up so

CAVALIERS TO CULTIVATE ART

Memory of Pioneers to Be Preserved by Texas Society

AUSTIN, April 13.—(AP)—By encouraging the art and practice of horsemanship, the Texas cavaliers of San Antonio hope to keep alive the memory of pioneers, "whose courage and daring horsemanship made possible the empire state of Texas." Charter for the organization was granted today by the secretary of state.

High ranking army officers stationed at Fort Sam Houston and prominent civilians of San Antonio compose the membership. The charter sets forth that the staging of pageants and parades, involving the use of horses, will be one means of "instructing the people of Texas in the ancient traditions of their forbearers."

Cultivation of cordial relations between the United States army and the people of Texas is another objective.

Directors are: General Paul D. Malone, Colonel John F. Preston, Colonel E. E. Swift, Captain Tobin C. Rote, Captain V. L. James, Jr., Lieutenant Harry M. Roper and Lieutenant M. M. Jones, all of Fort Sam Houston; and John B. arrington, F. C. Groos, Walter Steves, T. J. Hart, H. F. Drought, Dick O. Terrell, Sterling Burke, R. H. Durkee, F. G. Chamberlain, and Lewis Kayton, of San Antonio.

Auto Men Making Decoration Plans

Arrangements for decorations for the spring automobile show to be held April 30-May 2 are being completed and plans are under way for an exhibition of more than 100 cars, Chairman Charles W. Nolen told members of the Wichita Falls Automotive Dealers in a meeting held Tuesday at the Kemp hotel at noon. The automobile show is to be held in connection with the Tom L. Burnett rodeo which will show at the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds.

A parade will be held on the opening day, according to plans made.

By vote of the members it was decided to use the money in the treasury of the association for shares of stock in the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association.

SECRETARIES TO MEET.

FREDERICK, April 13.—Secretaries of chambers of commerce in the southwestern part of the state are to meet in Lawton on April 15, according to E. E. Kapper, secretary of the Frederick commercial club.

Dead Shot George Proves Self Hero By Killing Snake

SAN ANTONIO, April 13.—(AP) George Filley, Jr., 13, has won the name of "Dead Shot" Filley.

With a small air rifle, the youth sent a bullet through a five foot rattle snake's head as the reptile started to strike Nellie Gonzales, 8 years old, on a ranch near here.

Writhing the snake made other attempts to bite the children. There was more gun play by the youth, each shot taking effect in the snake's body. Several minutes later the battle was won as well as the name of the best gunman in this section of Texas.

Italians to Salvage Ships Sunk in War

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 13.—(AP)—The salvaging of ships sunk in Turkish waters during the world war is to be undertaken this spring. An Italian salvaging concern has contracted with the Turkish government for the raising of the 39 ships which were sunk in the Dardanelles and the Marmora and Black Seas.

Twenty-three of these ships are Turkish, including three cruisers, 12 destroyers, six submarines, one transport and one auxiliary. Nine of the wrecks are English, chiefly destroyers, and seven are French.

It is believed that none of the ships can be repaired for use, but the value of the materials they contain is considered sufficient to make salvaging worth while. The Turkish government will receive 90 per cent of the value of the salvaged material while the Italian company expects to make a considerable profit out of the remaining 10 per cent.

The klan has revived its activity in civic affairs, and has started an extended membership campaign for the first time in more than a year.

HER MAN

that she could look straight at her.

"Is it true that you are giving music lessons?" she asked.

Sylvia closed her eyes over the tears that were gathering in them and nodded.

"How long has this been going on?" Mother Phelps asked then.

"Nearly a year," Sylvia whispered. Her throat ached with her wish to cry. "About ten months, I think."

"How did you happen to start it?" the relentless voice asked again.

Sylvia didn't answer. Her love for Ranny rose up in her and kept her silent. Not for anything would she tell Mother Phelps that Ranny didn't give her enough money to keep body and soul together—that he didn't even support his own little son!

But Mother Phelps was nobody's fool.

"I see," she said quietly after two or three minutes' pause. "I think I see."

She drew Sylvia down beside her on the rose-and-white bed and put her plump warm arms around her.

"My dear," she began, "I care more for my boy than I do for anyone under the sun. But I know his faults better than you do, I think. You shouldn't have put your shoulder to the wheel as you have done! You shouldn't have tried to earn money. That's Ranny's part of the marriage job, and the kindest thing you could do would be to make him do that part! Do you see what I mean?"

Sylvia nodded her lowered head.

"I insist that you stop giving piano lessons!" Mother Phelps went on sharply. "If you don't I am going to Ranny's father about it! Ranny makes plenty of money to keep you and the baby—and you're only spoiling him by not taking your share of his money! Now, then, about your singing!"

She drew a long breath.

"Your voice is a gift," she said, when she spoke again—" a gift that you ought to use to give pleasure to others! Don't pay any attention to what Ranny says about not singing in public! He's like all men. They admire women who sing and write and do things, but they don't want their wives to do anything brilliant! They want to keep them at home, all to themselves. Now, then, bathe your eyes and we'll go downstairs and talk this over some time when we have more leasure!"

Sylvia went downstairs.

And she sang again. She sang the song she had written for Ranny.

It was while she was singing the words "When everything's said, and everything's done, there's one that I love, and you're the one," that she heard him starting his car in front of the house.

Angry, he had gone and left her!

It was a week later that Sarah Wilk offered Sylvia her house for the summer.

She and Aunt Agony came to spend the day, which happened to be unusually hot for May.

"You'll never be able to keep the baby in this stuffy place all summer long!" Aunt Agony said to Sylvia as they sat fanning themselves in the living room after lunch. "This is his second summer and he'll die in this hot hole!"

It was then that Sarah spoke up.

"Peter and I are going down to the farm in Geauga county next week," she said timidly, "and you're more than welcome to our house. We'd rather let you live in it than shut it up all summer."

Sylvia was silent.

"I insist that you take it," Sarah went on, "and Agony will back me up in it, won't you Agony?"

"I certainly will!" sniffed Aunt Agony. "I'd do anything to get that child out of this hot box!"

Sylvia thought longingly of Sarah Wilk's big cool house with its verandas and its shady yard. What a heavenly place for the baby it would be!

But she knew that Ranny never would live in Peter Wilk's house—never! If there was one person in the world for whom he had a jealous dislike, that person was Peter Wilk.

"I'll ask Ranny," she said weakly. She knew there was no use in trying to argue with Aunt Agony and Sarah Wilk together. One alone wouldn't have been so bad, but the two together were unbeatable!

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"I won't live with a woman who gets herself gossiped about," Ranny declares to Sylvia. She later receives a check from the music publisher. Sylvia spends a day with Fay. Ranny goes away on a vacation.

FRUSTRATE ROBBERY.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—A million dollar silk robbery was frustrated today by a lone customs guard who engaged single-handed in a gun battle with a band of river pirates who were looting a cargo waiting shipment to France on North River pier.

Government to Pay Debts to Railroads

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) Legislation to authorize the refunding of the $320,000,000 owed the government by railroads as the result of war period loans was approved today by Secretary Mellon in a letter to the interstate commerce commission.

The secretary said, however, that the roads should be given 30 years to liquidate the debt instead of 40 years as provided in a bill pending in congress. He also recommended that the interest rate be reduced from 6 per cent to 4 1-4 per cent instead of to 4 per cent as proposed in the measure.

SHOOT DOWN PLANES

Anti-Aircraft Guns Hit Targets At 12,000 Feet.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., April 13.—(AP)—The new five-inch anti-aircraft gun characterized as the most effective aerial defense weapon yet developed, wrote naval history off San Clemente Island, 45 miles southwest of here yesterday.

Tested for the first time at sea, two batteries of the gun on the battleship West Virginia shot down sleeve targets at a range of 12,000 feet, the greatest distance ever attempted. Officers and men alike were highly enthusiastic over the marked superiority of the gun over existing air batteries.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

April 14, 1925.

Bob Tittle injured when automobile is struck by train near city.

ALL COME UNDER TOLERATION.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE is a practical speaker and makes notable addresses. Last week he addressed the first Pan-American congress of journalists, which assembled at the Pan-American union in the city of Washington. He addressed the journalists of America, the occasion being the laying of the cornerstone of the National Press club. He paid a high tribute to the Pan-American republics and their people.

For instance, he said that in 1925, nearly one-fifth of all our exports went to Latin-America and practically one-fourth of our imports came from there. Speaking of building progress, the president said their cities are developing as rapidly as our own and some seem to have surpassed ours in the magnificance of their buildings and in the extent of their city-planning activities.

Speaking of the newspaper industry, he paid this compliment to the press of the Pan-Americans: "No newspapers in the world have a higher rank than some of those in Latin-America. I understand that the amount of cable matter contained in our own press for a good many years did not begin to compare with what was to be found in the leading dailies of the southern republic. Several of these newspapers have buildings superior to those in our country."

Educational progress in the Pan-America was not overlooked. "While popular education was not developed in Latin-America so soon as in the territory originally comprising the English colonies, it has made rapid strides there since 1880. The development of normal schools have been marked. They are proving in particular, one of our writers says, the educational and economic salvation of Latin-America womanhood." Addressing the journalists of America at the cornerstone laying of the Press club, the president made another notable speech. He made a lofty appeal for toleration. It should be read by men and women of all political parties and all creeds. This was his message: "Broadly speaking, all these suggestions fall under the principle of toleration. This means the adoption of a broad and a generous spirit under which each may work out his own destiny in accordance with his own merits. Race hatred, class feeling, religious persecution, however, these may be exhibited, whether under a form of law or through the force of public opinion, or even in defiance of law, have no justification in reason and are disastrous in their consequences. They dwarf and destroy those who permit themselves to come under the domination of these motives. Toleration is not a passive quality. It does not mean simply receiving the benefits of the tolerance of others. It is distinctively an active quality, which means bestowing on others and thereby receiving ourselves the benefits of our own tolerance."

There is a campaign on in Texas. It would be well for the leaders of all factions of all political parties and for their followers to weigh well these courageous words of a republican president, who was born in the Vermont hills and is the scion of ancient Puritan stock. Rank partisanship was dealt a body blow by the president in his address at the cornerstone laying. He hit the nail on the head when he said:

'It is impossible to think of political parties in these days without the aid of a sympathetic press. It seems to me that in this field especially, the chief requirement will always be for constructive effort. Rank partisanship quickly falls into a distortion or a complete mis-statement of the facts, accompanied by arguments which lead to illogical and unsound conclusions. A very cursory perusal of our history would convince anyone that in the past there has been sufficient good in both our political parties, especially when they have been in power, to require a large amount of printers ink in its portrayal. It is improbable that a very similar condition does not exist at the present time. It would be much more helpful to suggest what ought to be done than merely to find a fault with what is being done. It is very difficult to reconcile a narrow and bigoted partisanship with real patriotism."

Texas is a democratic commonwealth; this is an independent democratic newspaper. It would be well for democrats as well as republicans to take home to themselves these comments taken from two notable addresses delivered by the president of the United States.

A JINGLING EXCEPTION

It is said that man cannot hate inanimate objects. This of course does not include alarm clocks.

THE TEXAS CENTENNIAL

WHAT of the Texas Centennial Exposition?

Has Texas let the plan of a world exposition to mark the end of a century of American domination of the southwest go dormant?

The "board of 100" directors of the Centennial say not.

Rather, this month—as Texas reaches the nintieth milestone of the first century, steps are to be taken to put the Centennial movement in high gear, to center the attention of all Texans upon their golden opportunity, to reach outside the state for the first time and draw notice of the nation to a coming world celebration outside the state for the first time and draw notice of the nation to a coming world celebration to be held in Texas within the next decade.

Definite action is now being taken, members of the board say. Just what this action is, the Centennial directors are not yet ready to disclose, waiting to finish it before telling of it.

But it is no secret that a committee is now raising funds to acquaint all the people of Texas with the vast possibilities of this Centennial. It is no secret that director-general will be chosen; some Texan of broad vision, of established leadership, of profound ability, of moving enthusiasm and abiding faith in Texas, to sweep the far-flung activities to a focus in a world fair somewhere in Texas, a fair that will rival the great exposition of St. Louis, Chicago and San Francisco.

Texas, the Centennial directors say, has a civilization of which an empire many times its 90 years could boast. Texas has unleashed a mighty force in democracy; has upreared a dominating industry; has developed magnificient cities with their products of commercial attainment of art, of culture, worthy to be shown before the nations of the world.

And Texans will, they say, bring within her borders the peoples of every state and every country, and in the lusty enthusiasm of youth as empires go, pridefully exhibit these material things and the tangible evidences of these political and intellectual and spiritual achievements which are her glory.

The Centennial movement is not dead. It is not even dormant. It is at the dawning of the most brilliant day in the long course of its building; it is ready to flower out now into a mature program, surprising in its new-wrought strength, convincing in its grip upon the mind and purpose of patriotic Texans.

The Centennial exposition will be held, its directors say, with full assurance and will surpass the most radiant dreams of the far-visioned ones who conceived it.

NOAH WAS A WET

NOAH was a wet. Noah had a great thirst. Noah, according to history, or tradition, was a famous gangster. A tablet by Noah has been translated. It is a flood tablet. This is the story of an ancient mariner who built his own ark providing for the future as told by the to escape death by flood and supplied that ark with provisions, "For our food, I slaughtered oxen and killed sheep, day by day. With beer and brandy, oil and wine, I filled large jars as with the water of the river."

Thus it will be observed that Noah barbecued meat daily and washed down the juicy food with copious draughts of beer and brandy or oil and wines. Rev. Atticus Webb was not a passenger on Noah's ark. Neither was Wayne B. Wheeler. These reformers would have have endured the presence of beer and jumped over-board before they would have endured the presence of beer and brandy and oil and wine in large jars "as with the water of a river."

As the negro preacher said in the long ago, "men war men in dem days." But why the oil?

JUST A STRAW

Maybe there's going to be a modification, but we haven't noticed any decline in the stocks of the flask manufacturing companies.

COTTON IS KING

AN AMERICAN chemist has made a rare discovery. He has made it possible to take humble cottonseed and turn it into beefsteak, or roast or sausage or hash. Texas is a banner cotton producing state. This discovery will enable the cotton growers to furnish the world with meat stuffs. Great is Texas; great is chemistry, great should be the man who has invented cottonseed beef steak. Now why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

OF NO CONSEQUENCE

It is said that there will not be standing room on the earth in 1,000 years. But what the world will be interested in is parking room.

EARTH

A Fascinating New Story of Romance

By ARTHUR B. REEVES

"It isn't the house that means anything to me," went on Craig. "But over there on that grassy knoll, the other side of that little grove of buttonwoods, is an ideal place for a rambling type of house."

Old Jasper had been listening patiently, as Kennedy rambled on about his ideas.

"And ye'll build out there, maybe tear down the house, keep the meadowland, not cut the old place up in little building lots and sell it to these here city people?" drawled Jasper.

Kennedy smiled. "Most certainly not."

"And ye'll pay my price, agree not to divide the property, say, for twenty years?"

Kennedy nodded.

"Then p'raps ye'll drive me back to the city with yer in that fine car o' yourn and we can see my lawyer, old Ezra Throop, and draw up the papers, maybe pay a little to bind the bargain?"

Kennedy nodded again.

"I'm a-thinkin' maybe I'll buy me one of these here flivvers, now," commented old Jasper, hanging on to his brimless hat as the car whizzed back to town. "Kin I get one secondhanded? Do they cost much? Do ye think it's any trick to make the durn things go?"

Though bad luck had pursued the Sanfords and the Saxtons in the ill-omened mansion, it was a gloriously beautiful April day that Kennedy took possession.

Craig did not bring much out there with him to the old house. "I'm going to wait, Walter," he said, "until I get my plans for the other house."

To tell the truth I was worried over Craig's buying that house. I had often wondered why a man of his engaging personality had never married. There had been plenty of girls I knew who had been deeply interested in him, had he but returned the interest. I wondered whether Ruth Saxton had anything to do with it. She was pretty enough to please any man, and talented, too.

Apparently Craig's mind was not traveling along my road at the time. "I've had a couple of rooms downstairs in the front cleaned out. We'll sleep in one of them tonight. There are two old couches there and I think we'll be more comfortable than upstairs in those musty bedrooms."

"What about the dogs?" I asked. "Give them the run of the place at night. They will keep intruders away, or at least notify us of their presence."

The dogs were two beautiful Great Danes who had romped their pendersous way already into our hearts. We felt very safe—from material intruders.

We had dinner at a hotel in town and while we were there Jasper Saxton joined us. The sale of the property seemed to have made him a bit remorseful, already, in spite of his new acquisition of a second-hand flivver, in which he was deeply interested and awed.

"You don't mind if I go up with ye a little while tonight?"

Kennedy nodded and after dinner we went out to the Saxton house. The old man seemed reluctant to leave, but now, even after the papers were signed, sealed and delivered, he showed no hesitation in talking about the haunts of the house.

"Why didn't you mention some of this before?" I asked bluntly as Craig smiled.

"I wanted to sell," confessed Jasper frankly. "Now, Mr. Kennedy can't believe the old house has strange things a happening into it—and maybe it is my imagination," he added, shaking his head.

"Well, there will be a chance to find out soon enough," put in Craig. "When do the haunts start work? Will you stay and play with them?"

The invitation failed to please. Jasper's interest in Craig's plans for the Saxton farm vanished. He mumbled under his breath, some unintelligible apology and left to go back to his room in town.

Kennedy and I sat and talked late over the good times we would have on that farm.

It was well on to midnight when we retired.

I could hear the clock in the hall striking twelve. Again at the half hour it reminded me I was still awake.

What's the matter with you, Walter? The haunts getting you?" Craig called unsympathetically.

I counted sheep. I got up and ate some crackers and drank some water. Nothing made me sleep, by this time, however, Kennedy was in the land of dreams.

Suddenly I heard a noise. Tap, tap tap! It must be in the house. The dogs were quiet.

"Craig!" I called softly.

No answer.

Tap, tap, tap!

So lightly it came that I felt that only hands capable of working invisibly could ever hope to make a touch as light as that.

Craig was still sleeping soundly. On second thought I did not want to wake him. I might be imagining things. I got up softly and steeled myself to go into the kitchen. Tiptoeing into the dark, unfamiliar yet with the postions of the furniture, I stumbled and fell over a chair as I heard overhead the unmistakable noise of soft feet, ghostly feet.

"Craig! Did you hear that?"

"I hear you!"

"No, I mean that noise just then, There!"

"I don't know. Let's look."

On the table was an old-fashioned, old lamp, with a plain square iron base and a glass oil bowl. I felt indeed that we had skipped back 30 years when Craig lighted it.

We started to look for the noise. As we entered the lower hall it seemed louder, coming upstairs.

"I'll say old Jasper Caxton showed good judgment when he refused to use those upstairs rooms—if he had to listen to those taps, all night. That's someone moving, above!"

Craig was silent. As we were ascending the steps to the second floor, noiselessly, a sudden draught seemed to strike us. The lamp went out in Craig's hands. We were in total darkness.

I felt as if old Eli Saxton's bony hand was at my throat. I might even have sworn I saw the ghostly filaments of Mary Saxton fleeing before me.

Tap, tap, tap! It came now, a crinching sound.

Outside one of the pups howled, dismally, in which he was joined by the other. They were too old to miss their mother, knew us too well to be lonesome, I thought.

By this time Craig had another light. As it flashed up there was a sharp hollow sound as of knocking on wood. Or was it of something small that had dropped suddenly and rolled I glanced about, fearful of being pelletted with ghostly missiles.

"It's up above!" Craig whispered.

We went on until we came to cupola door. He could find nothing. But the sounds were still plain.

Tap, tap, tap!

"It's in the cupola!" I exclaimed. "You don't suppose it's Mary Sanford—getting ready to jump again?"

By this time Craig was up there. Suddenly I heard him laughing immoderately.

"Come up!" he called.

I climbed after him. Anyone on the high road seeing our wavering forms in the light must have thought the cupola haunted. Standing, holding the light in one hand, Craig pointed with the index finger of the other, to a hole in the ceiling.

"There's the ghost!"

My foot crunched shells of black walnuts, hickory nuts on the floor.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

When your potential husbands pass in review, girls, beware of the patient waiter whom you can never love, the unappreciated genius always jobless, and the beau who "keeps company" but never pops the question.

Next in the list of dangerous men, comes the patient waiter. The good, honest, faithful chap who camps on a girl's doorstep and who will get her in the end if she doesn't watch out.

Sometimes he is the lad who carried her books to school for her when they were kids. Sometimes he is the man who works in the same place that she does.

But always he is Johnny-on-the-spot, ready to fetch and carry for her, tickled to death to take her to the places for which no other boy dates her up, ready to snatch at a kind word as a hungry dog at a bone, always standing with hat in hand, eager to marry her whenever she says the word.

The girl doesn't really care a rap for him. She likes him, respects him. His worship flatters her vanity, but she has not and will never have any warmer feeling for him than she has for a reliable taxi driver or a good dressmaker or anybody else who ministers to her personal comfort and convenience. He never raises a thrill in her breast, nor quickens her pulse by a single heartbeat, nor is it ever in his power to make her long for his presence.

Yet the chances are almost fifty-fifty that the girl will marry the patient waiter. Sometimes she does it because he overpersuades her. Sometimes she marries him to try to heal the hurt some other man has inflicted upon her. Oftenest she marries him just because all of her girl friends have got married and she is left feeling lonely, and that nobody wants her but poor, dear old Jim, at whose devotion she used to laugh and when she would no more have thought of marrying five years ago than she would of marrying the parlor sofa.

And it is a disastrous fate for them both, because a one-love marriage is a lop-sided thing that creaks as it goes along and is always in danger of breaking down. Hence if a girl doesn't want to marry the man who wants her, instead of the man she wants, she had better take out an accident policy against marrying the patient waiter.

The next most dangerous man is the unappreciated genius.

Nobody understands him—especially employers, who have a sordid way of expecting efficiency and who cannot comprehend that it revolts the soul of one born for finer things to have to punch the time clock at the same hour and do over and over again the same dull tasks every day.

Of course, the unappreciated genius is always out of a job, and he is living on his poor old parents or sponging on his brothers and sisters while he finds something to do that will not grate upon his sensibilities and in which he feels that his talents will have proper scope. Something with much pay and no work.

In the meantime he craves some one who will understand him and to whom he can pour forth his sorrows.

And, curiously enough, he nearly always finds his victim in the finest, noblest girl in the community. The flappers are safe from him because they are too hard-boiled to fall for any blah stories. Besides they have neither time nor use for the might-have-beens or the going-to-bes. They want the man who has the coin to spend on them right now and here.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

BREAD AND GRAVY

Life has lots of fancy things,
Yes, fancy things at fancy prices.
The platter that the waiter brings
Is heaped with jellies, sweets and spices.
And yet I never had a treat,
A pie with borders crimped and wavy,
Or anything, as good to eat
As good old-fashion bread and gravy.

Of course it's wrong to sop around
Your bread, you're not supposed to do it.
But if there's gravy to be found
And good white bread, then lead me to it.
For anyway it's often done
In both the army and the navy—
I tell you, many a war was won
For Uncle Sam on bread and gravy.

We think we want a lot of wealth,
But find we need almighty little.
A fellow has the most of health
Who eats some ordinary victual.
The lady with no appetite
Might envy any kitchen slavey
Who sits he down to dine tonight
On plain and simple bread and gravy.

And so it is in lots of ways;
We do not need the fancy dishes.
Some work to do, some kids to raise,
Are what the wiser fellow wishes.
A few glad hours, a few good friends
Who call you Dick or Dan or Davey—
Happy the man whom heaven sends
A life that's mostly bread and gravy!

What Do You Know About It?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX.

1. In what geologic period was coal chiefly formed?
2. What was the "Ages of Reptiles"?
3. In what geologic age did flowering plants first appear?
4. What was the "Age of Fishes?"
5. How far back does the "Ages of Man" go?
6. Is there evidence of other glaciers beside the last great one at the opening of the present geological period?

(Answers to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.)

The Shifting North Pole.

One of the strangest records of climatic change is that which geologists find evidences of in the fossils of Greenland. Palm fossils have been found in rocks now eternally covered by snow. This can mean only one thing, and that is that the climate of Greenland was once very warm. How to explain a warm climate for a region so near the north pole seems a little difficult. That a denser blanket of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere would so have held the sun's heat close to the ground that all the earth had a warmer climate, is one explanation of this phenomenon. Another, derived from astronomical observations on the shifting of the earth's axis, would tend to show that the north pole was once on some other part of the earth when the earth, as it were, stood on its ear. This is not proven, but certain it is that the present pole star will, in a few billion years cease to be the pole star, and Vega will take its place.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. The Mississippi river is dammed at Twin City, Minn., and Keokuk, Ia.
2. The highest dam in the world is the Arrowrock dam in the Boise river, Idaho, 349 feet high.
3. The most costly dam in the world is the unfinished Muscle Shoals dam in th eTennessee river, costing fifty- in the Tennessee river, mosting fifty-
4. Th longs dam in h world is the Makwar dam in the Nile, 9,200 feet, or about a mile and a half.
4. The longest dam in the world is greatest storage capacity, one hundred and ten million gallons of water.
6. The most recent big dam in this country to be completed is the Schoharie dam of the Catskill watershed.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Today's planetary aspects are variable. In the morning, they are distinctly adverse. In the afternoon, they are favorable. In the evening, they revert to the unfavorable condition. It is not a propitious opportunity for travel, either by land or sea. The auspicious atmosphere is of so brief a duration that there is not a great chance of attempting anything of importance. The good hours, however, can be utilized with advantage for the execution of contracts or for making commitments. It would be well to stick, as much as possible, to routine work, and, although there may be sensed a desire to become grouchy and disagreeable, this tendency must be fought and overcome by the exercise of will-power.

Children born today will, according to the signs, pass unscathed through the perilous seas of infancy and the minor ailments from which they will suffer will all yield readily to ordinary remedies. They are apt, later on, to display evidences of outgrowing their strength but careful dieting will counteract these tendencies. Their characters will be strong and they promise to possess strong personalities. Whether these ultimately become attractive, as well as compelling, depends very largely on the environment by which the children are surrounded in their early years. They will be frank and truthful and at all times winsome, without being emotional.

If today is your birthday, you are contented but never satisfied. Your ambitions are great and you always set for yourself heights to climb that appear to be dizzily impracticable. Many criticise you for this attitude but it serves a useful purpose as you always attain a greater height than if your aim had been a low one. You are studious and hardworking. You also possess purpose combined with rare resourcefulness. Your judgment is, at times, warped and your vision sometimes suffers from an astigmatism. This leads you to waste your efforts on objects which, when attained, are not worth while.

In your home life, you should be reasonably happy, and exceptionally so, if mated with one who enjoys similar aspirations to your own. You are always keen to better your social condition and while not a social climber, always seek the association and friendship of those who are better circumstanced than yourself.

Let's put in fun-clocks, Folks,
For then we'd all be early
So's not to miss the jokes!

Waiting for Him.

Her Little Brother: "Did you ever chase at our house!"

Sister's Beau: "Why no, Tommy. What makes you think that!"

Her Little Brother: "Well, papa said there'd be something doing the next time he saw your mug around here."

SHHHH!

(A Communication From The Editor)

Dear Readers:
You, from time to time,
Have read herein a bit of rhyme
That seemed to bubble
With love so great that it appalled
All for a Lady Love he called
His dear "Heartrouble."

And, as you know, she in return
With true affection seemde to burn
For her dear "Captain."
The use of words to indicate
Her tender, amatory state
She seemed most apt in.

But Shhhh! A secret I've to tell!
All's well, because it ended well!
The recent rumor
That they're engaged, I've learned is true;
But in MY telling it, these two
Will see no humor!

You will recall the fact that he
Nicknamed "Heartrouble," playfully,
His "Bobbed-Hair Bandit."
She surely played a thieving game!
She stole his heart! She'll take his name
Now that he's landed!!

What He Thought They Were.

A negro walked into a bakery the other day bent on getting something tasty. By his awkwardness it could be seen that he had never visited a bakery before. He looked at all the dainty things and then, stopping before a tray of chocolate eclairs, he said:

"Lemme have ten cents wo'th o' dose colored lady's fingers."

—F. P. Pitser.

No Fair!

My young son, aged eight, had been given fresh clothes and sent to the bathroom. "Mother, did you want me to wear socks or stockings?"

"I gave you socks, didn't I?" I answered.

"Yes, mother, but you see I've washed for stockings." —Carrie Barton Pitts.

How Embarrassing It Would Be With Company Present.

The Piano: Thank you, Mrs. Whiteman. Yes, I think I have a very nice tone. I think I do very well for a second-hand piano and cost only $80, don't you? I look pretty well, too, but the side that's scratched is next to the wall, where you can't see it.

The Easy Chair: Oh, yes. You're comfortable but I'M not. You're the heaviest person I've held for a long time! Why don't you reduce?

The Floor Lamp: Of course, I'm pretty. But I don't live here. These people just borrowed me for the evening, and they will return me tomorrow.

The Painting: Don't let them kid you! I'm no old masterpiece! They bought me at a department store sale for $2.98. Heh! Heh!

The Rug: Good guns! Where were you folks raised? Why don't you clean the mud off your feet before you come in?

The Dining Room Set: Be careful and not spill anything! We're not paid for yet, and this month's payment is past due. Use a little judgment now!

150 Attend Party For Mesdames Hunt and Walker

Mesdames Joline And Woods Hostesses At Country Club Party

Priddy, and Mrs. Sanders Walker, who is moving to San Antonio in the near future, Mrs. Carrie Joline and her daughter, Mrs. Claude Woods, assisted by another daughter, Mrs. J. Y. Marjorie and Big Bill Team Up In Another Feature Majorie Daw and William T. Tilden are said to have accomplished better work playing opposite each other than either could possibly do with any other player opposite.

This occasionally happens in the theatrical and motion picture world —that two players are found to be the best foils for each other, and the team, if congenial, usually continues to play as such.

Miss Daw, and the famous Big Bill Tilden were cast together as leading man and woman of Associated Exhibitors screen triumph, "The Highbinders," in which Tilden made his initial bow to the public through the medium of the films.

With this success behind them, the two attacked the legitimate stage with equally encouraging results, appearing on Broadway in Tilden's first stage vehicle, "The Smith Boy," first called "Don Q Jr."

"The Highbinders" not only introduces the famous tennis player as screen star, but also a a budding literary genius, for Tilden is responsible for the story as well as the acting in the melodrama of the underworld.

This Tilden written and starred picture comes to the Majestic theare as the feature attraction today, Thursday and Friday. George Terwilliger directed and such prominent names as George Marion, George Hackathrone, Ben Alexander, and Walter Long appear in the supporting cast.

MARINE TRIAL HEARS DEFENSE

Prosecution Endeavors To Impeach Witness For Colonel

SAN DIEGO, April 13.—(AP)—Efforts to impeach a defense witness enlivened today's session of the court martial of Col. Alexander S. Williams on a charge of appearing drunk in the public rooms of a Coronado hotel March 6, last.

The witness was Captain George F. Stokes, adjutant of the fourth regiment of marines, which Colonel Williams commanded until summarily removed by Brigadier General Butler in connection with his arrest on the intoxication charge.

Captain Stokes had testified that he saw nothing unusual in Colonel Williams' behavior in the hotel, but that when he saw him later on the grounds of the hostelry leaving for home, the colonel "appeared unsteady on his feet and may have been sickly intoxicated." The judge advocate then produced a written statement submitted to General Butler several weeks ago by the witness and asked him how he proposed to reconcile his testimony today with his assurance in the written statement that he observed nothing at all unusual in the colonel's behavior at the Hotel Del Coronado.

Stanley Says Ad Copy Important In Pulling Power

"Before you blame the medium, investigate your copy," H. W. Stanley of Dallas, editor of the Southwestern Retailer, told members of the Ad Men's club in the weekly luncheon meeting at the Kemp hotel Tuesday when he discussed production and distribution.

In his address he urged the coordination of the advertising program and sales by the advertiser, and showed the importance of having the sales force know what was advertised. "Advertising today is a sales force, a force for sales," Mr. Stanley said. "No matter how many thousands of dollars goes for advertising, when the advertisement reaches the reader, it must stand on its own feet and speak out its message."

George H. Wilson, president of the club appointed the following as members of the nominating committee to report two names for each office on the meeting day of the first Tuesday in May: J. H. Alexander, T. A. Bradley, Claude Miller.

Alva Willgus who is chairman of the church advertising campaign called for suggestions and criticisms of the Sunday church advertising page in the local papers.

P. W. Roberts made a brief talk and urged cooperation between job printers in their work of advertising. J. W. Pyland suggested the reaching of more advertisers who will feel the value of legitimate advertising.

Attention was called to the fact that solicitots for illegitimate advertising had been calling on members of the club, and the matter was referred to the vigilance committee.

"CHINA DOLL" A STORY IN MUSIC

Good Theme Incorporated In Music Presentation At The Palace

A musical story founded on the land of flowers and the land of story books came to the Palace Tuesday night with a leading man of exceptional caliber, a pretty theme, some good costumes and a lot of colorful scenery.

"My China Doll," an extravaganza written and staged by Charles George, proved out to be the foundation of an interesting production. There were defects in the presentation that could have been remedied, but all in all it was a number that succeeded in fulfilling the principal mission any musical comedy is designed to fill—that of offering an evening of entertainment.

Harper a Star

Taking the characters in the order of their relative merit, Ames Harper, leading man, was far and away the hit of the show. He has a tenor voice of real quality and is an actor of parts. His presence on the stage was a permanent assurance that some worthwhile music would be forthcoming, and the frequency of his numbers wove a brilliant thread through the entire affair.

Winsome Enough

Barbara Bronell, leading lady, was winsome enough; she was entirely capable as a dancer and in the few times she was called on to sing she carried her part with credit. Besides Delmore, a backwoods sister in search of a thrill in New York's Chinatown, was probably the best comedian of the company. "If you get what I mean" was phrase she found occasion to propound not less than 40 times during the acts, and it never failed to get a laugh.

George Wakefield, William Murphe Tom Crowley and a few others had important roles which they filled acceptably.

A small audience heard the presentation.

Realtors Listen To Hoffman In Business Talk

"The Relation Between the Lawyer and the Realtor," was the subject on which Luther Hoffman, local attorney, talked before a meeting of the Real Estate Board in the weekly meeting Tuesday at the Kemp hotel at noon. He stressed the value of having abstracts of title and other papers necessary in the transfer of land and precautions which realtors should take in the drawing of papers.

Mr. Hoffman in speaking of means to protect the client and guard against legal action suggested that caution be taken of printed contracts, tax and other flaws in titles and other errors that might lead to trouble following the transfer of the property. If one uses a printed contract, Mr. Hoffman suggested that the client confer with a competent person before using it.

"It is not everyone who is capable of giving an opinion on an abstract, and I believe the man who attempts to pass on an abstract or title should be a lawyer who is willing to accept the responsibility and protect his client against possible loss," he stated.

Mr. Hoffman suggested that by following a few of the precautions, there might be eliminate some of the friction between real estate men and their clients, and build up a finer spirit of co-operation and understanding between the two professions.

A committee composed of the following members was appointed to select the dates for the State Realtors' convention which will meet in Wichita Falls late in the year: L. C. Tanner, Mrs. P. A. Welty, Max Junker.

The committee will co-operate with the chamber of commerce to complete the arrangements and details for the convention.

Frederick Free Fair Plans Discussed

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, April 13.—Arrangements are practically completed for staging the Tillman county free fair, which is to be held this year on September 14 to 17, inclusive.

Recent meeting of the board of the free fair association have served to bring about a revision on the premium lists, naming of superintendents for all departments and opening an extensive advertising campaign.

Later dates were set this year than last, because of the additional time that will be given farmers to make arrangements for their agricultural display and to fit their livestock showings.

Increased interest is being shown in every department of the exposition, and one of the largest fairs in the history of the Tillman association is being anticipated.

OLNEY

WOODS- BLEWETT WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Vera Blewett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Belwett, and Mr. Luther Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woods, was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Davis Tuesday evening in the presence of only close relatives and a few friends.

The reception suite of the home was elaborately decorated with pot plants, Eastes lilies and roses, introducing the pink and white color motif used in all appointments. An improvised altar was arranged about the fireplace where the bridal party stood, under a canopy of pink ribbons, festooned from the lights overhead.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Frances Scott Thrash sang "At Dawning" with Miss Fannie Noah at the piano. As the notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march were sounded the bridal party entered, the bride with her maid of honor, Miss Edna Wood; sister of the bridegroom, and the bridegroom with his best man, Walter Junker, approached the altar from opposite sides of the room. Rev. M. D. Council, pastor of the First Methodist church, read the simple, but impressive ceremony, during which McDowell's "To a Wild Rose" was played softly.

The bride was exquisitely gowned in a hand-made model of pink taffeta with real lace inserts. She carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds and valley lillies, from which fell innumerable streamers tied in lovers knots. Miss Wood's costume, an unusually chic model made with extremely tight bodice and bouffant skirt was of taffeta print with trimmings of flesh georgette. Her bouquet was of carnations.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Wood entertained at the Country club with a dance, members of the wedding party, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Blewett with the host and hostess forming the receiving line.

The Panatrope furnished music for the dancers, who were Mesdames and Messrs Bert Bloodworth, Skeen Staley Edwin Heeker, Henry Craig, Lavalle Arwood, Henry Harris, Elby Wilburn, Harlan Deets, T. W. Later Mr. and Mrs. Woods left for an overland trip through north Texas and Oklahoma, after which they will be at home in Tulsa, Okla., where Mr. Woods has been for the past several months. Mrs. Woods' traveling costume was a cape suit of navy blue taffeta and crepe roma combination.

MISS BLEWETT HONOREE

Miss Verna Blewett, popular young bride-elect, was honored Monday morning when Mrs. Henry Craig entertained about forty-five friends at her home with a shower and midday luncheon.

After a half-hour or so of informal chatting, Cupid, little Katherine Hamilton, carrying a large bow and arrow, made his appearance, and after piercing the heart of the honor guest, presented her with a crimson chariot of lovely and useful gifts. Later the hostess served luncheon to Mesdames Geo. B. Hamilton, Skeen Staley, Henry Harris, Lavalle Arwood, Harlan Deets, Elby Wilburn, Fred Harrell, Geo. Roach, Bert Bloodworth, T. L. Ed Hughes' Column

If the heavyweight talent situation in this country is bad, then one can only say of Europe and South America that it has about reached bedrock. Recently Paolino, Basque woodchopper and so-called "Tiger of the Pyrenees," disgraced European boxing by slopping over the most abject of "set-ups"—Harry Drake. The bout was so obviously lop-sided that Bernstein, France's best referee, refused to officiate unless a doctor first examined Drake for a weak heart. That is the calibre of opposition that Descamps, Paolino's manager, selects for the man Carpentier claims is a good fighter.

* * *

Luis Firpo, erstwhile "Wild Bull of the Pampas," made his comeback in Buenos Ayres the other day. He managed to obtain a verdict over Ermino Spalla after 12 rounds of sloppy, uninteresting battling. The crowd hooted the scuffle and yelled "Fake!" when the lifeless exhibition nicked their nerves.

* * *

Paolino, Firpo and Spalla represent the best heavyweight material in Europe and South America. Probably all three will appear in this countr ythis year. If so, perhaps they will be able to fill in some of the preliminary cards and an occasional semi-final, with our fourth rate heavies.

* * *

Boxing Skill vs Fighting Heart

Time was when Bombardier Wells used to be the butt of American ring quips. Right now we'd relish a foreign heavyweight that could furnish the action Wells did over here. Bombardier was a "canvas-back," but he was not without some splendid ring qualities. He could box and he could hit like sin.

The Bombardier Wells that dumped big Al Palzer on his ear for a nine count and stopped Tom Kennedy, would make plenty of trouble for the current tribe of American heavyweight championship "contenders."

* * *

Wells' chief fault was that he was too "nice" for the grim game of the ring. I remember talking to him just after his terrific battle with Palzer—one of the most sensational heavyweight tilts ever staged. Bomby had Palzer badly beaten, practically out, but neglected to finish him.

"I was really sick of the job. I hated to hit him, he was such a mess. It seemed a shame, and I thought he'd give up, anyway." Palzer lumbering about the ring in a drunken, bleeding, haze, recovered and banged out the well-bred Britisher in the third.

Wells was too nice for the game. The foreign heavyweights of today aren't good enough.

* * *

Speaking of Wells and the defects of British boxing recalls that English ring critics are ever doing their best to point out shortcomings. They are forever emphasizing the futility of mere boxing skill opposed to first class fightings, but it seems to avail them little. The lesson of Pedlar Palmer and Terry McGovern is still fresh in the minds of critics, as the following by a well known British scribe indicates:

"No one would have boxing made or thought to be brutal, but aren't we after the manner of hypocrites when we say that we must put boxing before downright fighting? If a lad does not get into the ring hoping to knock his opponent out, then he will never make a success of his happiness.

* * *

"I am not for the slugger; I have just as much room for him as I have for the blind swiper at cricket; but I am not going to have passed off on me as a complete boxer one who is a little more than a fast mover and dainty and nice to watch. We want more blood and iron in our boxing.

* * *

"We used to say of Pedlar Palmer that he was a "box of tricks" and that he was as elusive as a will o' the wisp. As such we sent him, years ago, to America, with Mr. Peggy Bettinson in charge of him. Palmer got into the ring with Terry McGovern; he bent this way and that way, made his head appear as if it were on a swivel; McGovern had Pedlar out to the world in a few seconds. Clever, tantalisingly clever, could Palmer be, but he was as clay in the hands of a potter when he was up against a real fighter. And so the fighter every time for me.

* * *

Welsh a Combination of Both

"It may be retorted that Freddie Welsh was not a fighter in the literal nderstanding of the term; there was a time when he was derided by certain American critics for being what they termed 'a mere glove pusher.' And yet he became a world's champion. I grant that Welsh was not of the rip snorter breed, but he was immensely more than a flip-flapper, though he did not specialize in the knockout.

* * *

"Welsh harnessed to cleverness a capacity to hurt, as distinct from bashing and battering; Welsh was cruel in that the punishment he handed out was accumulative; he did not depend upon one blow to win, but on a series of blows, coupled with amazing bewildering footwork.

* * *

"I saw Welsh against Willie Ritchie, from whom, in 1914, he took the world's lightweight title. Ritchie had the reputation of being a human blunderbuss, but Welsh hurt him more than he himself was hurt; Welsh chipped little pieces off the American, slowly, surely, and so as to recall the days of the Inquisition.

Phils Take Braves Into Camp, 6 to 3

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—(AP)—The Phillies opened the season here today by taking Bancroft's revamped Boston Braves into camp by a score of 6 to 3. The Braves were helpless against the pitching of Carlson until the closing innings. Jimmy Johnston, former Brooklyn veteran, pinch hitter batted for Hearn in the ninth and hit a home run with none on base. The usual opening game celebration preceded the contest, Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick throwing out the first ball. The score:

Picinich registered his first homer of the season in the fifth inning and Freigau duplicated with a homer for Chicago in the 8th.

Turgeon and Lapan Massage Agate At a Lusty Clip But Late Rally Falls Short

Dallas, April 13.—The Dallas Steers defeated the Wichita Falls Spudders, 6-5, in the first exhibition game of the season here Tuesday. Wichita stopped in Dallas for a lone game before opening the season in Shreveport Wednesday.

Manager Fred Brainard used Jim Roberts, Dick Morgan and Rip Wheeler in a vain effort to down the Steers, who are bustling this season as never before and who have pennant ambitions. Glen Darrough and Jimmy Andrews, rookie pitchers, worked for the Steers and worked acceptably.

Wichita Falls scored three runs in the first innings off Darrough on two triples, one by Turgeon and one by Distel, a base on balls and a single, but this ended the scoring until the eighth inning when a vicious rally fell short two runs.

Dallas countered with two runs in the first and three in the eighth when Josh Billing's double scored the winning runs.

Pete Turgeon and Pete Lapan each got two hits, Turgeon's driving in two runs. Manager Brainard got hold of three hard hit balls, but none fell safe. He evidenced he will hit more than .300 this year, though.

Mighty Bam May Be "Hold-Out" In Income Tax Loop

BOSTON, April 13.—(AP)—Warrants for the arrest of George Herman (Babe) Ruth, New York Yankees' baseball player, are held by the Massachusetts state income tax authorities. This was learned today when Ruth visited the state house and the income tax collections headquarters. After a conference service of the warrants was postponed one week.

Ruth is charged with failure to pay his state income taxes for 1923 and 1924. Officials declined to reveal the exact amount of the taxes. The ball player contended that he had no legal residence in Massachusetts, it was said.

He visited the state house voluntarily and after a talk with Henry F. Long, state tax commissioner, went with an income tax office employe to the collection offices. He said there to have filled out a blank containing further information regarding his financial affairs in 1923 and 1924.

The state, it was said, contends that Ruth had a legal residence in Sudbury, Mass., where his wife and child lived.

The delay of one week was granted to enable the ball player to file a statement in support of his contention that he is not a Massachusetts resident.

Cossey Added To Legion Leather Lineup Thursday

The popular young Battling Cossey, after several weeks' layoff from performances in Wichita Falls rings, will return Thursday night in a four-round preliminary bout to the Aguilar-Ewing fight, Matchmaker Dan Wofford announced yesterday.

Cossey is one of the most well-liked mitt youngsters to ever don the leather and trunks in this city. It is generally granted that if he would only buckle down, train hard and really endeavor to absorb acquired arena knowledge he would have quite a ring future before him.

Cossey is to box a bantamweight who travels under the name of Major Beasley.

Sailor Murphy is being brought back to be murdered by Sammy Riley in a four-rounder.

The Thursday card so far with the two prelims named, is composed of the Ewing-Aguilar affair and an eight-rounder between Pug Humphries and Johnny Sherrod.

Electra Twilight League Opens '26 Championship Diamond Drive Monday

ELECTRA, April 13.—At a meeting of the Twilight league teams Tuesday night in the chamber of commerce, it was decided to postpone the initial game of the season until next Monday, as the muddy grounds and cool weather prevented the opening game this week and league officials wished a good day and field to open the season. The Texas Hardware and Lions club were to meet at the new Sunset park in the first game of the season, but since the change of the program it has fallen the lot of the Magnolias and Texhomas to play the initial game. It was also decided that the first week of the schedule would not count.

A plan was effected by which an all-star team could be organized, to compete in all Sunday games, the money helping to pay for the park. This team will be chosen from the members of the different teams, probably 50 try-outs and the manager selecting the men for the positions. McMullen, who has managed the all-star teams the past seevral seasons and the first man to organize a ball team and build a park in Electra, was elected unanimously as manager of the team. The manager has all authority to match games and select players for the all-star team.

After settling these two questions the league again faced the problem of finance, buying suits for these players which will be 25. It was decided to urge business men to advertise on the suits in order to obtain the necessary funds. A committee was appointed to call on the merchants to solicit their names for this course.

Bob Chandler, who umpired a part of last season, was elected official umpire ofr this season.

Mitze had expected to start Frank Watts on the hill before the big right hander was laid up with a sore foot. Watts is drilling here and may pitch Friday's game against Waco.

The Panhandle Longhorns and the Munden Cyclers are scheduled to cross bats Sunday afternoon on the Panhandle diamond. The Panhandle club will make this their last practice game to get their club in shape for the coming Twilight league drive.

Randolph probably will work on the hill for the Panhandle club. Shade Taylor will pitch the game for the Cyclers. Should Taylor weaken the Cyclers will call on Al Prince.

The Cyclers feel confident of a win with Herman Munden ,owner, on the coaching lines. The batting order for the Munden Cyclers will be: Hoskins, 1b.; Thorn. 3b.; Dieterman, ss.; Lawson, 2b.; Thomas, rf.; Steele, cf.; Buss, c.; Reed, lf.; Taylor, p. They will also have Oliver Austin and Earl Goff for extra men. They will have Cecil Allison and Al Prince also to be called on for mound work.

Ma Works Out In Preparation For Opener at Dallas

AUSTIN, April 13.—(AP)—After "signing up" to pitch the first ball at the opening game of the Texas League season in Dallas Thursday between the Fort Worth and Dallas clubs, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson is "working out" each day. Monday afternoon she and the butler at the executive mansion played "catch," in the back yard. She said today that her arm is a little sore, but hoped that two more workouts would get it limbered up.

The governor and her party, consisting of former Governor James E. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith and Miss Lena Guinn, will leave Wednesday noon for Dallas.

Galloway's Club Rests on Its Guns

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 13.—(AP)—With the opening game tomorrow of the 1926 Texas league season here Jim Galloway, newly appointed skipper of the Beaumont Exporters, called a temporary halt in the strenuous training activities today.

Tomorrow afternoon the Exporters will entertain the Houston Buffs here. The batting order for Beaumont will include Conolly at second, Dunning in center, Devireros at short, Davis in right, Woehr on third, Galloway at first and Claude Robertson to start with the mask. Hal Diviney, right handed pitcher, will in all probability draw the mound selection.

Former member of the Pittsburg Pirates is jailed on charge of stealing a gun. What the baseball moguls wonder is who was going to be his target.

BACK TO NORMAL

Today's the day umpires in the Texas league cease to be upright citizens, and are known the rest of the summer as robbers, hijackers, crooks and blindmen (not that a blindman can't be an upright citizen, but in this instance he is not).

* * *

The Texas league begins its silver anniversary today, starts functioning in its twenty-fifth season. And it's to be the most successful season of all, declares Doak Roberts.

* * *

No, Doak didn't mean this is one year the Cats don't win a pennant; he was looking at the situation from a financial angle.

* * *

THE DOPE (?!!?)

Many of the dopesters pick the Panthers to repeat for number seven championship.

How they're guessing the maybe winners:

POP BOONE, Fort Worth Press: Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Houston, Shreveport, Waco, Beaumont, San Antonio.

JERE HAYES, Dallas Times Herald: Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, San Antonio, Waco, Beaumont, Shreveport. This is pre-season. I pick day before campaign. Fort Worth pitching is weak now, but may be better in 10 days. Houston may be wrecked by recalls, but looks good.

JOE CARTER, Shreveport Times: Our guess is Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Houston, Shreveport, Waco, San Antonio, Beaumont.

KELLY COUSINS, Houston Post Dispatch: Fort Worth, Houston, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Waco, San Antonio, Shreveport, Beaumont.

NED RECORD, Fort Worth Star-Telegram: Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Houston, Waco, Beaumont, Shreveport, San Antonio.

GEORGE WHITE, Dallas Dispatch: Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Houston, Dallas, Beaumont, Shreveport, Waco and San Antonio.

SPORTS EDITOR SCHERWITZ, San Antonio Light: Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Wichita Falls, Waco, San Antonio, Beaumont and Shreveport.

BLONDY CROSS, Wichita Falls Record-News: Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Houston, Waco, Dallas, Shreveport, Beaumont and San Antonio

FLEM R. HALL, Record-Telegram: Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Houston, Waco, Beaumont, Shreveport, San Antonio.

SPIKE COOPER, Beaumont Enterprise: Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Dallas, Beaumont, Houston, San Antonio, Waco, Shreveport.

MARION BARRON, Waco Times Herald: Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Houston, Dallas, Waco, Shreveport, Beaumont, San Antonio.

JINX TUCKER, Waco News-Tribune: Fort Worth, Houston, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Waco, Shreveport, Beaumont, San Antonio.

* * *

Poor dogone sports writers got to quit guessing at 'em now, quit loafing and go to work! It's hard life, brother. Anxious to see the season start and then darn mad because it runs so long.

* * *

ABOUT MANTELL.

You might as well give the devil his due. We do not mean to disparage Matty Matsuda's victory the other night over Mantell, nossir, not in the least. However, the Dutchman was not himself. The old fight was not there. The exhibition was very tame compared to the regular run of melees Mantell engages in.

* * *

Where Was Alibi?

The writer knows it to be a fact Mantell developed acute indigestion the night before the match Monday and was in a bad way all the next day. Many a wrestler would have backed out of his match immediately had he been in Dutch's condition. But Dutch bucked right in and pitched regardless. Never indicated he wasn't ready to perform, never came running to anybody after the match and his defeat with big alibi about his condition.

* * *

Dutch was a sick man early Monday morning, didn't start perking up until late in the afternoon. Then he had lost much of his strength, lacked the old zip and fight he has displayed sufficiently here before to make him the most disliked grappler, outside of Dick Daviscourt, to ever appear in Wichita Falls.

* * *

The writer waited around after the match just to see if the Dutchman wouldn't yap an alibi. He didn't. We ran into him yesterday. All he had to say was: "Well, that's what I get for being nice. Broke from under the ropes when the referee told me, and then the Jap grabs me from behind and bounces me for the match!"

* * *

We're uncorked some harsh comments on Mantell in this col. We still believe and back every word of them. But we have to hand it to him for staying in there and pitching when weakened by an apparent touch of ptomaine poisoning and then failing to come running with an alibi when he got beat.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP) Washington and Philadelphia opened the baseball season in gala style today, battling 15 innings before the champion Senators won 1 to 0. The game was a brilliant duel between pitching veterans, Walter Johnson for the Senators, beginning his nineteenth season and Ed Rommel for the Athletics. More than 25,000 fans braved the chilly weather and saw Vice President Dawes toss out the first ball. A floral piece was presented to Manager Bucky Harris and Johnson received a loving cup.

Manager Harris crossed the plate with the winning run after he had singled, Goslin doubled and Joe Harris singled. Twice the Senators had filled the bags with two out, only to fall before Rommel's pitching. The Senators went hitless during the first four innings. Twelve of the Athletics went down by the strike out route, Johnson's curves and fast ones appearing as effective as ever. Rommel struck out one man and walked five while Johnson passed three. The veteran Peckinpaugh sat on the bench and watched his substitute, Buddy Myer play at short. The youngster handled four chances and muffed one.

Spurgeon's Single Wins for Savages

DETROIT, April 13.—(AP)—George Uhle put Cleveland through a 2 to 1 victory over Detroit before 36,565 persons who paid to see the Tigers and Indians inaugurate the 1926 American league season here today.

Spurgeon's single in the third scored Jamieson who had gotten on base on a fielder's choice and successive doubles by J. Sewell and Burns in the fourth accounted for the other run. Detroit threatened several times but only in the sixth when Tavener doubled after Blue had walked did they score. In the eighth inning Manush, pinch hitter for Bassler, doubled with one out but Cobb batting for Whitehill lined into Uhle's hand and MBanush was doubled at second. In the last inning, Detroit filled the bases on two walks and a single by Fothergill, but Blue popped out to end the game.

SALIVA FLIES IN OPENER AT PANTHER PARK

Wachtel Faces Estill Today In Texas League Opener

BEAUMONT 'AGIN' SELF

Straw Hats Will be Vogue This Afternoon, Says Apell

FORT WORTH, April 13.—(AP) With two spitters opposing each other on the mound and an aiticipated crowd of 10,000 or 12,000, Panther park is all set to witness a lively opening day here tomorrow when the eternal antagonists, Fort Worth and Dallas, enter their first joust for the 1926 Texas league championship.

Paul Wachtel will project the slippery pill for the Cats, Estill for the Steers. Warm weather, only partly cloudy, has been predicted, and with the greatly increased seating facilities of the new park, Fort Worth has some hopes of setting an attendance record. There are 5,000 reserved; 5,000 grandstand and 2,000 bleacher seats, and it is the ambition of Paul La Grave to see them filled.

BEAUMONT, April 13.—(AP)—Beaumont fans will almost be divided against themselves tomorrow when the Exporters open the season against Houston's Buffaloes here. The clash—more than one strong local favorite will come here with the enemy tomorrow, including Joe Mathes (with thousands of friends in Beaumont, who wish him well in his new role); Nick DeMaggio, and Stuart Jacobus, both very popular here in Texas league days gone-by.

But it will be an auspicuous occasion. Beaumont has lined up substantially behind the new baseballers here, which included a new ownership, new management, new team and new civic spirit. A monster parade will precede the game and Mayor J. Austin Barnes will pitch the first ball.

Arrangements have been made to accommodate a crowd of 7,000 or more.

DALLAS, April 13.—(AP)—Eight Texas league baseball clubs will pair off into action tomorrow in four parks expected to be jammed by crowds eager to see the inauguration of another pennant race, and to win for their home town the opening day attendance cup.

Fresh from the rigors of a training season hampered at first by a die hard winter, the diamond gladiators will make their bows at Fort Worth, Beaumont, Waco and Shreveport. The visiting teams will be, respectively, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and Wichita Falls.

Although the forecast is for partly cloudy, warmer weather, the mobs of baseball bugs who will swarm to the lid-lifting encounters would forgive the weather man a miscalculation in which capricious sun would blare forth in full glory.

Baseball was made for the kind of weather in which "pop" tastes good, and straw hats look in good taste, the fans will testify.

The baseball opening probably will do what Easter Sunday failed to, and bring out straw hats in Texas.

When the Dallas Steers return home Thursday to play their second game with Fort Worth, they will be greeted by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, who has consented to toss the first ball, thereby setting a precedent and perhaps example for women governors.

SAND LOTS SLANTS

ANOTHER LEAGUE

Wichita Falls may have another baseball league this year. The National guard plans to start out with a four-team loop in about two weeks. They will run only a short schedule which is to close about July 1.

The four teams that are to be in the league are companies of the guards. Company M, machine gun company, Company L, a rifle company, Headquarters company, and Battery D will be the four clubs to enter in the race.

Company M and Battery D were scheduled to play a practice game last Sunday, but weather conditions were too poor and the game was postponed until next Sunday. The two teams will hook up Sunday at Call Field at three o'clock.

* * *

RED JUMPS IN WATER

Player-Manager Martin of the Wichita Falls Water department club is highly elated over the signing of Red Belcher for first base on his club. Red is one of the best known men in the league, and has played a lot of good baseball. His work was good enough for him to be given the once over by the Spudder powers. With Belcher on first base Martin feels sure that he can put out as fast an infield as any in the league.

Belcher can also be called upon to go behind the bat if needed in that position, for it was as a catcher that Belcher had his trial with the Spudders. Belcher is a fast man on the bases and was well up in the stolen bases in the league last year.

* * *

TWILIGHT OFF SUNDAY

All of the Twilight league is looking forward to the season's big opening gun here Sunday. The Water department and the Wichita Falls Electrics will hook up in the first game of the year.

Lee Courtney is slated to open for the Electrics and Campbell is listed for the Water department starter. Lee Courtney is a pitcher of well known worth in the Twilight league, but Campbell is a newcomer and one that will be watched closely this year.

Skipper Martin feels sure that Campbell can deliver and will bank on his coming through.

* * *

Glenn Coolidge, Frank Shaw, Dixon, Fritz Taylor, Mills, Adams, and Reed, listed with the Electrics and will fight for utility and outfield roles. The regular outfield picked at present is Coolidge, Taylor, Dixon or Shaw.

Shaw can play centerfield, second base, shortstop or catch and is sure to be carried somewhere on the team. Coolidge and Taylor can both play first base if needed.

* * *

The Twilight league clubs seem to be doing very little toward getting men on the high school teams this year. Last year the high school and junior high went a long ways toward getting the teams ready for a long fight.

This year the schools still have many men on their list that will not be in the Twilight league. The Junior college is not putting out a team this year and that will greatly handicap the school output into the league.

The college sent several men into the league last year that more than made good. Jack Thurman, Skinney Crites, Hood Kizzar and some others were in the league last year and came from the Junior college teams.

* * *

Another man who none seem to have signed, or who if they have none of the news has leaked out, is Odell McDuffy, former Texhoma and First Methodist slab artist. Last year McDuffy pitched a no-hit no-run game in the Sunday school league. He won the first half championship of the Twilight league for Texhoma, and did some other great pitching about the two leagues.

Even with all the victories that he turned in last season his big win was the midseason win at Spudder park over the American Refinery. This was the game that won the first half championship for Texhoma.

A REAL RECORD

Not a single field basket has been scored against the Fort Atkinson high school team, of Wisconsin, in their last four games.

Jess, Charles and Virgil, the three Barnes brothers of Circleville, Kan., are all members of major league baseball teams.

WESTERN OFF TODAY

TOPEKA, April 13.—(AP)—The campaign opens in the Western league tomorrow.

A rejuvenated league marshalled by a new president, will launch its spring offensive on southern fronts.

Dale Gear of Topeka, old timer of the major league diamonds, player-manager in a dozen minor associations and now president of two leagues, will be in the stands at St. Joseph, Mo., tomorrow to watch the ball tossed for the opening game with Denver. Three duels will bring the mid-western fans out of hibernation: Des Moines will cross bats with Oklahoma City; Lincoln appears at Tulsa and Omaha at Wichita.

HILLION WINS ON HILL

WACO, April 13.—(AP)—Hillion, a product of the sandlots of Mount Clam, just recovering from an attack of influenza, went to the mound for the Texas Aggies this afternoon, and by pitching great baseball in the pinches smashed the jinx, which has been hovering over the Farmers in their baseball efforts against the Bears since 1922. Twelve consecutive games the Aggies had lost to the Bears before the exhibition at Carroll field this afternoon, but the hoodoo number of 13 proved to be the Aggie number. At last the Farmers got their revenge. The Baylor blight was removed by the decisive count of 5 to 0.

Kiwanis Expect Fast Sell-Out of Tickets To Nursery Scraps

Hull and White Hard At it, Montez On Way

Tickets on sale at Wolff brothers and Renfros for the Kiwanis club day nursery benefit fight card billed next Tuesday night in the Majestic theatre are going at a fast gait, according to Matchmaker Jack Ercanbrack, who expresses opinion that the house will be a sell-out long before Tuesday night and warns Wichita Falls fans they should make their reservations early.

Three-Minute Rounds

Both Tommy White and Clyde Hull, the cleverest pair of welterweights who have performed in the southwest in several years, scheduled in a 12 three-minute-round main event, worked out yesterday. Each battler is in good condition, but neither is leaving a thing undone in a training way for fear that he might not be at his very best the night of the big bout.

The fact this battle is to be composed of three-minute rounds adds more interest to it. Wichita Falls fans, especially the dyed-in-the-wool ring bugs, have urged American legion promoters to make fighters on their cards step the regulation distance only to be given the run-around with the fisticuffing gentry performing in unorthodox two-minute sessions. You can't get much fighting when they rest one and work two minutes. Few knockouts are ever realized in the two-minute captos. Just as one fighter is on the verge of going down or out the bell saves him.

Monte Will Win.

Mercy Montez, the scrappy little San Antonio Mexican, has been lined up with Wildcat Monte, the Wichita Falls junior lightweight. Montez is expected in Wichita Falls today. He's to fight Monte over the ten-round route.

The Montez-Monte bout is expected to prove a whirlwind affair with Monte favored to win. Both boys are fast afoot and are the rushing, slambang type of boxers.

Spike Flanagan is to meet the winner of the Humphries-Sherrod fight slated at the legion arena Thursday, said Ercanbrack. These boys will step either six or eight rounds.

Course Open, It's Ladies Day, Dance At Muny Tonight

It's ladies' day at the Muny club today. Incidently, the golf course, closed by recent rains, will be open again, announces announces J. T. Yeargin.

The regular club dance is to be held this evening starting at 8:30 o'clock. These dances are getting to be very popular events for club members. A big attendance is expected tonight. West's Original Troubadours are to furnish the music, said Yeargin.

COLD WEATHER HURTS MAJOR LEAGUE GATE

By The Associated Press.

Approximately 212,000 fans braved generally chilly weather to see the major league baseball races get away to a thrilling start.

Sensational pitching featured the opening battles yesterday. Walter Johnson started his twentieth season with Washington by blanking the Athletics 1-0, in a 15 inning battle while Jess Petty, Brooklyn southpaw, shut out the Giants with one scratch hit before a Polo ground crowd of 45,000, the largest of the day.

George Uhle, returning to form with a victory for Cleveland over Detroit and Ted Lyons, twirling the White Sox to triumph over St. Louis also figured in fine mound performance which opened up room for further debate over the effect of the so-called resin ball.

The Yankees and Red Sox on the other hand went to free hitting extremes, Babe Ruth getting away to an auspicious comeback start by contributing three blows toward the New Yorkers' 12-11 triumph.

The world champion Pirates, fell before the onslaught of the Cardinals in a game which saw the St. Louis chieftain Rogers Hornsby start his drive toward a seventh straight National league batting championship by registering a perfect day at bat.

Cold weather kept attendance figures down, with a total of 212,302, falling 21,000 short of the aggregate for last year's openings.

AMERICAN NINE BILLS 2 GAMES

Burk Gulf Team, Newcastle Wildcats Carded For Practices

The American Refinery Eagles plan to play two more practice games before they start off in the Twilight league pennant drive. They will go to Burkburnett Thursday afternoon to play the Gulf Production company team of that city, and Sunday they will go to Newcastle and play the Newcastle All-Stars, says Manager Lawrence Medford.

Medford announced that he will use Snipe Conley in the Gulf game and Ronie Glidewell in the Newcastle game. Martindale, the Memphis, Texas, catcher and the second Possum Moore in size and ability, will handle the pitchers in both games.

Coyal Francis, third sacker, will be out of the lineup for some few days yet due to a slight operation. Medford has had an infected hand and may be out of the Burkburnett game. Curly Christian will play the hot corner in the games, and Bill Andree will take his place in the outfield.

More Truth Than Poetry

LET OTHERS DO IT

When I'm too old to ply the pen
And scribble truths airy,
I'm going to seek some sylvan glen
And run an apiary.
A million bees I shall employ,
Who through the sunlit hours
Will labor tireless to destroy
My neighbor's lovely flowers,
Transferring from them to my hives
A goodly store of honey
Which I, when winter time arrives,
Can sell for ready money.

I'll watch them toil—a million strong
On sunny days and gray days,
Each day some sixteen hours long
And never any pay-days;
And think of builders and the like
Whose help but rarely ceases
To talk of going on a strike,
Or ask for pay increases.
While my assistants, all adept
At their expert vocation
Will neither ask nor would accept
A cent of compensation.

As for my neighbors who have toiled
To raise the fields of clover
Whose nodding blossoms are despoiled
By being crawled all over—
I know they will not look on me
With pique or irritation
Because the labors of the bee
Help clover propagation.
Each day, until the sun sets low
Beside my bees I'll linger,
The while I watch my fortune grow—
And never lift a finger.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 13.—(AP)—The cotton market developed only a moderate degree of activity today and the general trend of prices was slowly downward mainly owing to the better weather in the cotton belt, although some of the earlier losses were recovered during the afternoon on covering by shorts owing to fears that the weekly weather and crop report due tomorrow May proved bullish and to more or less uncertainty as to the showing by the census bureau report on domestic consumption during March also due at the opening tomorrow. At the lowest prices reached during the morning, old crop months were seven to nine points below the close of yesterday while new crop months were seven to nine points below the close of yesterday while new crop months were 11 to 13 points down. The rally of the afternoon caused the recovery of about half this loss and the close showed net losses for the day of four points on old crop months ad seven to 13 points on new crop positions.

At the start Liverpool was barely as good as due and as the weather map showed no rain except in the northeastern corner of the eastern belt the market opened easier and first trading were one or five points down. The market continued to ease off after the opening on general selling of moderate proportions until in the last part of the morning May traded down to 18.15, July to 17.68, October to 16.75 and December to 16.73, or seven to 13 points under the close of yesterday.

The market improved slowly during the afternoon mainly on covering by shorts in fear of bullish weekly weather and March consumption reports. July was the only month that made a new high at 17.74, but the other months recovered more or less from the lows and the close showed only small net losses on near months.

Exports for the day totaled 33,723 bales.

NEW YORK FUTURES.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady at net decline of 3 to 12 points.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Prospects for improved weather in the south were reflected by moderate declines in the cotton market today but selling was not aggressive and the undertone was generally steady. May sold off from 18.26 to 18.15 and closed at 18.20, while October declined from 17.49 to 17.42 and closed at 17.46. The general market closed steady at net declines of three to 12 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of two to 10 points and sold about nine to 13 points net lower in early trading under liquidation by recent buyers, southern and local selling evidently inspired by the outlook for warmer and clearing weather in the south. Bearish sentiment was considerably in evidence based on belief that a few days of good weather would repair any harm done by delayed farm work so far reported, but aggressiveness in selling was checked by apprehensions of an unfavorable weekly report from the weather bureau tomorrow.

Very further showers predicted tonight in some parts of the eastern belt and partly cloudy weather looked for parts of the west there also appeared to be uncertainty as to whether the anticipated improvement in conditions would actually materialize. As any rate offerings tapered off and there were slight rallies in later trading on covering. Continued demand from old crop shorts was a sustaining factor during the day, although May contracts appeared to be available at premiums ranging down from about 58 to 56 points over July. There also were rumors that cotton was coming here from the south for tender next month.

Private cables reported buying of May against sales of October in the Liverpool market which made a fairly steady, but rather irregular showing.

Exports today 33,723 bales, making 6,730,567 so far this season. Port receipts 22,714. U. S. port stocks 1,110,944 bales.

LIVERPOOL SPOTS.

LIVERPOOL, April 13.—(AP)—Cotton spot increased demand; prices steady. American strictly good middling 11.09; good middling 10.79; strict middling 10.54; middling 10.14; strict low middling 9.44; low middling 8.49; strictly good ordinary 7.84; good ordinary 6.79; sales 6,000 bales, including 3,000 American; receipts 13,000 bales, American 3,100. Futures closed quiet and steady; April 9.54; May 9.40; July 9.34; September 9.15; October 9.08; December 8.99; January .99; March 8.88.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—News from Los Angeles of the birth of a second child to Mr. and Mrs. Barton S. Tucker, who were married in 1923 when he was 17 and she was 50 aroused much interest today.

Mrs. Tucker, who was Mrs. Susan O. Simpson, a wealthy widow when she married, owns the Pasadena hotel in New York.

Soon after the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Tucker were indicted at Jersey City on charges of perjury and conspiracy to violate the state marriage law in giving his age as 21 years. The investigation was started on complaint of the boy's father, Joseph Tucker, postmaster at South Essex, Mass.

The first child, a daughter, was born at Hempstead, N. Y., in May, 1924. The certificate for the child born in Los Angeles gave its name as "Burton Tucker," its father's name as "Burton Tucker," 30 years old and the mother's as Olive S. Barnham, 36 years old.

SABINAL, April 13.—(AP)—A young mother was killed and the school building was burned last night at Eutopia by a 40-year-old man who suddenly went amuck. Eutopia is a smal lmountain village 22 miles northwest of here.

The man, near death from two self-inflicted wounds in the back was found at his home early today after an all night search by a number of hill men and Sheriff Matthews.

Suddenly going insane, the man set fire to the school house last night. While it was still blazing, he went to the home of Will Jones and when Mrs. Jones answered his knock he struck her down with the butt of his pistol. Mrs. Jones' children screamed and the man drowned their cries with a shot.

With her last breaths Mrs. Jones told her husand the name of the man and a posse was organized.

Jones had been at a neighbor's helping to repair a radio set.

The maniac eluded his pursuers all night, but as they returned to the village near dawn the word came that he had returned to his home. There he was found shot by his own hand. He was placed under heavy guard.

Inmate of Prison Fleeces Frenchman Out of Fortune

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—(AP)—The Chronicle says that A. Cadoul arrived in Los Angeles from France with $6,000 and inserted an advertisement in a paper asking the services of some one who could develop him as an author. Among the answers was one from Evelyn Rosencrantz, known as a forger and bunco woman, then an inmate of San Quentin state prison. The letter, Cadoul told police here last night, said Miss Rosencrants was living at the prison in order to gather material for a motion picture depicting prison life.

Cadoul visited Miss Rosencrants at the prison and she promised to aid him for a consideration, in promoting his ambition, and as a mark of friendship to get his daughter, Odrienne Cadoul, into the movies. Under these promises Cadoul told the police he was induced to pay $6,000 to an agent named by Miss Rosencrantz. Wher she failed to complete her task of gathering material, Cadoul learned that she was an inmate of the prison.

COLEMAN FOLK SEEK HANGING

Protest Proposed Commutation of Negro's Life Sentence

COLEMAN, April 13.—(AP)—Citizens here are considerably stirred by advices that application has been filed at Austin for commutation of the death sentence of John Smith, negro, to be electrocuted Friday for the killing of Sheriff Dick Pauley, who was fatally shot here last May while attempting to arrest two transient negroes.

A telegram telling of the application was received by Sheriff J. A. Trammell of Coleman county from the board of pardons at Austin.

People of Brown, Runnells and Coleman counties will join in protest of any interference by the board of pardons or the governor with the execution, it was said here today. State Senator Walter C. Woodward will go to Austin in the matter.

Smith's death penalty was assessed only a few minutes after his trial ended, and later was affirmed on appeal.

Sheriff Pauley was shot at the Santa Fe depot here May 15, 1925, when he tried to arrest two negroes stealing a freight car ride. The negro was captured immediately afterward but never was connected with the crime. Smith was caught down Hord Creek late in the afternoon. Mob action was prevented by officials assuring infuriated citizens that speedy justice would follow. High feeling in Coleman county caused the case to be transferred to Brown county, where a trial two weeks later brought the death verdict. B. L. Palmer, Houston attorney has been representing Smith.

Baptists of Wichita County Hold Convention In Burkburnett

GRONER GIVES MAIN ADDRESS

Leading Dallas Churchman Voices Plea For Americanization

BURKBURNETT, April 13.—"A missionary was asked what was the greatest mission field in the world, and the answer was, America. There are more Germans in New York City today than there are in Dresden; there are more Italians in New York City than in Rome; there are more Russians there than in Petrograd; there are more Irish there than in Dublin; there are more Jews there than there were in Palestine at the time of Solomon," so said Dr. F. S. Groner of Dallas, one of the leaders of Southern Baptists in a talk to the Wichita County Baptist workers at this city today.

Urges Wide Program.

In his talk on the "Responsibility of Texas Baptists," he urged Southern Baptists to carry out a world wide program. "So goes Texas, so goes the South; so goes the South, so goes America; and as America so goes the world, economically, politically and spiritually.

"The southern firestone is the arc of modern civilization. Baptists if they must grow, must have an aggressive program, an army built on conquest."

Townsend Leads.

The devotional was led by Rev. W. H. Townsend of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church of Wichita Falls who talked on "Labor Together With God." Reports were heard from eight churches. One hundred and fifty Baptist workers of the county discussed "The Budget and Special Campaign Collection." Mrs. Solon Featherston of Wichita Falls sang a solo; and the afternoon devotional was led by Rev. C. S. McClung, pastor of Floral Heights Baptist church of Wichita Falls.

Mrs. J. M. Tanner of Electra was chosen president of the Wichita County W. M. U. succeeding Mrs. Homer McGregor of Wichita Falls who is district president.

The next meeting will be held May 4 at Iowa Park Baptist church.

Fair Stockholders To Meet Tonight

All stockholders of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association are urged to attend the meeting to be held this Wednesday evening 6:30 o'clock, at the Wichita club, at which time officers will be elected and reports received relative to the sale of the $100,000 stock. More than $60,000 of the stock had been sold at the last reports and it is expected the new reports will show heavier sales. All stockholders are especially urged to attend the meeting. The business will be transacted as quickly as possible. A brief address will be delivered by Hon. Clarence Ousley.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Six marriage licenses were issued at the county clerk's office Tuesday in one of the fastest days for that department in several weeks.

The licenses went to Harry Gay, LaGrange, and Mrs. Myrtle Sparks, Fort Worth; Samuel C. Scogin and Mrs. Elizabeth Mathews; Henry Brigham, Tulsa and Mrs. Myrtle Brigham; John F. Pastusek and Cecilia Flame W. F. Wiggins, Electra and Sallie Kate Weddle.

Mrs. Deane J. Wolff Vigorous In Support Of New Club House For Forum; Campaign Launched Here

April 26 to See Drive for $50,000 Put Under Way; Plans Practically Complete for Imposing Structure In South Side

Plans for a campaign, starting April 26 and continuing for three days, during which it is proposed to raise a fund of $50,000 for the erection of a magnificent club building in Country club estates, have been practically completed by the members of the Wichita Falls Woman's Forum. This building, to be of most modern architecture, will be erected on the site donated the Forum by the Hamilton-Martin Investment company. As soon as the campaign is completed it is expected that immediate work on the structure will begin.

Started Weeks Ago.

The proposal was first brought before the Woman's Forum several weeks ago and since that time various committees have been at work until now the campaign plans have been completed.

Such a building, it is pointed out will fill a long felt need in Wichita Falls and the plan and idea of such has created great interest, among the members of the Forum and various clubs of the city.

Relative to the need for such a place is a brief interview with Mrs. Deane J. Wolff, who said yesterday: "The woman who has been brought up in Wichita Falls and who continues to live here, filling the place in her home and her church and her city which opened for her after the close of her school days, working and playing with her childhood companions and family associates of long standing, is most fortunate. The pangs of home sickness and the experience of being lonely in a crowd need never be here.

New Women Come.

"This ideal condition is not possible for every woman. As Wichita Falls continues to attract men of numerous professions, this city becomes the new home of many women. These newcomers are first of all lonely. They want to feel the warmth of the spirit of mutual helpfulness and understanding which helped to build this city. There is no indifference to new women here, there may seem to be because of the lack of opportunity to meet them.

"The Forum supplies this need. There the new woman finds the interest which she needs to go outside of her home to bring back into it. There she meets the congenial friends who will make her contented and happy. And it is to be hoped that there she may be able to show her gratitude to her home and her church and her city by bringing her own personal contribution to them.

Damages in the sum of $800 is asked of the Fort Worth and Denver railway in a suit filed by C. C. Williams, living on the east edge of the city, in the seventy-eighth district court Tuesday afternoon.

According to the plaintiff's petition due to the failure of the defendant company to provide proper culverts under its tracks near his property water is led there and accumulates there, amounting some times as much as three feet in depth. By reason of the water standing on the grounds making it unfit for agriculture, and of the unsanitary condition resulting, and since the water prevents the use of the land as a chicken ranch, the plaintiff begs damages in the sume of $300, $300 and $200 respectively, in each of the items listed.
