The SDN Column

Mrs. Hazel Hanback confessed that she was startled but pleased to read something about her daughter last Sunday in an item by a Washington columnist for a metropolitan newspaper.

Mrs. Hanback, who teaches English in Snyder High School, was interested in an article dealing with patriotism by Karen Klinefelter of the Dallas Morning News. It told how a Dallas Congressman, James Collins, had acquired a lot of pen pals at Dallas' Mark Twain Elementary School, and how the youngsters came to correspond with their Congressman. The activity was stimulated by their music teacher, the columnist said. The teacher was identified as Mrs. Rita Short, who is the former Rita Margaret Hanback, a Snyder girl and Mrs. Hanback's daughter.

It all started when Mrs. Short (Rita Margaret) wrote Rep. Collins and asked for some patriotic music to use in her classes. The Congressman sent her a copy of the Pledge of Allegiance set to music.

This made such an impression on the youngsters that they wanted personal copies. So, Mrs. Short told them to simply write their Congressman, which they did, and which accounts for Rep. James Collins getting a lot of mail from pupils of Mark Twain Elementary School in Dallas.

Some of the letters from pupils reportedly are so interesting and so patriotic that Rep. Collins keeps them handy to show to colleagues and other Washington residents.

Meanwhile, the Congressman's office has exhausted its supply of the musical version of the Pledge of Allegiance. But, they are searching for a new supply.

An organization formed by a California group for the purpose of studying and protecting scenic natural resources celebrates its 77th anniversary this month, and its operations have spread mightily since the turn of the century. The Sierra Club, based in San Francisco, now has chapters covering all but three states (Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi) and in Canada. During 1968, the organization reported that new members joined at the rate of nearly 1,500 per month. Some of its activities which bore fruit the past year involved creation of the Redwoods and North Cascades National Parks, the Scenic Rivers and National Trails systems. —WACIL McNAIR.

VICIOUS STORMS BATTER STATE

Texas Floods Drown Four

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Writer

Death - dealing thunderstorms, fearsome, damaging tornadoes and awesome rains, accompanied by hail and whiplashing winds, crashed over most of Texas Tuesday and continued into Wednesday morning.

At least four persons drowned in the Cleburne area where more than 7 inches of rain fell south of Fort Worth. Two other persons were feared drowned in the same vicinity.

Dallas appeared even harder hit by a mass of thunderstorms that wracked the city for hours, washing out streets, bridges and utilities and flooding homes and businesses in low areas.

Fire department rescue units in Dallas reported at 2 a.m. today that they had participated in 90 high-water rescues. Police of Dallas and neighboring Highland Park, University Park, Richland and Garland took part in others. Rescues continued past dawn.

At Everman and nearby Kennedale, just south of Fort Worth, more than 80 families were evacuated because of high water, 30 of them from a trailer park at Kennedale.

Most of the Everman-Kennedale trouble came from Chambers Creek. During the morning, city officials toured the area warning residents that the creek was continuing to rise.

The high water drove snakes from their hiding places in Kennedale and Everman.

Raymond Riley, whose home was flooded, found a snake in his den Tuesday night. "I just threw it back out," said Riley. Other residents shot the reptiles.

Burleson in the Kennedale-Everman section reported 5.16 inches of rain to 7 a.m.

At Fort Worth, firemen received more than 30 calls for help because of high water. Lightning caused fires at a residence and a gasoline station.

Evacuations early Wednesday also were in progress at Lancaster, a suburb south of Dallas, in West Dallas, in Dallas' southeast Oak Cliff sections and in the River Oaks section of Southeast Dallas.

Turtle Creek, usually a flower and shrub-decorated stream that flows through the affluent Park Cities and some of Dallas' most expensive homes and apartment complexes, turned into a tiger.

The creek overflowed its banks and sent water six feet deep crashing along exclusive residential streets. Highland Park patrolman J. E. Hopgood dived into a swirling section of the creek to rescue a trapped motorist.

Hopgood received head injuries as he and the trapped man were swept down the boiling stream. Hopgood was treated at a hospital and dismissed. The rescued man, Leonard Loper of Dallas, was hospitalized.

Hours after midnight, rain with hail fell at the rate of 5 inches an hour northeast of Beaumont as terrifying thunderstorms lashed an area from near Victoria on the middle Gulf Coast to the Lufkin and College Station areas to Beaumont and back along the coast to Galveston Island.

Tornadoes continued to menace the state into today's wee hours with funnel clouds and twisters reported on the ground near Woodway and four miles north of Mart. Waco police said another early morning tornado spun aloft over the campus of Baylor University at Waco. None caused damage.

Copter Crash War's Worst

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Army Chinook helicopter packed with South Vietnamese infantrymen crashed and burned Tuesday, killing 34 of the men aboard and injuring the other 35, the U.S. Command announced today. It was the worst helicopter crash of the war.

A U.S. spokesman said the 50-foot CH47 helicopter, one of the workhorses of the war, developed mechanical trouble while carrying the South Vietnamese to an operational area 75 miles north of Saigon.

Two of the three American crewmen were killed and the other was injured. The rest of the casualties were Vietnamese.

No other details were available, but the spokesman said the crash was being investigated.

A total of 2,598 helicopters now have been reported lost in the war, with 79 of them destroyed since April 1. Of these, 52 have been shot down and the rest lost because of collisions, mechanical trouble or enemy shelling that caught them on the ground.

Although this was the worst helicopter crash of the war, the toll has been exceeded in several crashes of fixed-wing planes.

U.S. spokesmen say they can give no particular reason for the recent large losses of helicopters, but they cite the "enormity of the operation." They say more than 3,000 U.S. helicopters now are operating in Vietnam. And that during a normal week they average more than 30 flights each, transport more than 150,000 troops and haul more than 30 million pounds of cargo.

Although the performance manual specifies that the Chinook can carry a crew of three and 33 fully equipped combat troops, U.S. spokesmen said this is the standard for American troops in the United States.

They explained that the only limitation in Vietnam is the payload, and that the Chinook can lift up to 16,000 pounds, depending on how much fuel it is carrying and the distance it has to travel. And the average Vietnamese soldier is much smaller than an American soldier, weighing about 100 pounds.

Only light, scattered fighting was reported as the North Vietnamese observed the 15th anniversary of their victory over the French at Dien Bien Phu. The fall of the besieged fortress on May 7, 1954, broke the French resistance and resulted in the Geneva agreements that expelled France from Indochina and divided Vietnam.

Lake Catches Over A Foot

Lake J. B. Thomas finally had made a significant catch of new water this morning as runoff from showers in Borden and Dawson Counties reached the Colorado River Municipal Water District's reservoir.

The lake's elevation at 10 a.m. today was 2229.32, compared to 2228.03 last Saturday and 2228.12 at mid-morning yesterday. Thus, the gain was approximately 1¼ feet since Saturday.

The Colorado River was still flowing a modest stream into the lake late this morning.

It was the first catch of water in Lake Thomas in several months. In fact, the biggest catch all last year was some 18 inches.

Virtually all of the new water up to this morning had come from the river. Bull Creek had flowed very little as far south as the lake, although some heavy showers had been reported on its watershed to the north.

Experimental Cars Unveiled By GM

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors took the wraps off some of its experimental cars today but made it clear they were years away from becoming a reality on the highway.

The parade of 26 experimental cars included three wheelers and models powered by steam, electricity and hybrid electric-gasoline power plants. Nearly all of them were much smaller than today's cars and some were almost toylike in size.

GM said it had experimented with a nuclear-powered auto but dropped the project as being impractical.

Edward N. Cole, GM president, told 10 newsmen at GM's huge Technical Training Center in suburban Warren that despite all the experiments, the auto firm was convinced the internal combustion engine—the type that powers your car today—is the best unit available.

"All these advance power concepts have advantages—real or potential—over the internal combustion engine with lower pollutant emissions being a major plus in virtually every case," Cole said.

"But each of them also has major disadvantages which reduce its practical value as an all-around competitor to the internal combustion engine. If any new power plants are to achieve broad usage—with no reductions in safety, economy and convenience—major technological break-throughs will be required."

He said improvements in emission control systems in GM's 1970 line of cars would boost by 10 per cent the current 60 per cent control of such emissions. "We have made substantial progress toward cleaner air," he added.

(George) Patterson, city manager; Mrs. Mary Nell Bullard, Scurry County librarian; Mildred Tracy, member of the library board; and, Mendell Morgan of Austin were included among participants in a workshop for library board members that was held this morning at the Snyder Savings and Loan Association's community room. The theme was "Effective Trusteeship." Morgan is assistant director, field service division, Texas State Library.

Following the presentation of awards, the teachers and their guests went to the Snyder High School Auditorium for a special presentation by the SHS Drama Dept. The SHS students presented "A Man For All Seasons," the one-act play they selected for University Interscholastic League competition this year. The audience applauded the performance by the young actors enthusiastically.

Director Jerry Worsham announced that the general public would have an opportunity to see the play at a special showing on the night of May 13 in the SHS auditorium.

Lufkin Woman Dies Here Today

Mrs. Mary Lou McGilvra, 23, of Lufkin died at 5:55 a.m. today in Cogdell Memorial Hospital where she was taken Tuesday afternoon after being stricken suddenly while passing through Snyder.

The body was taken to Bell-Seale Funeral Home where funeral arrangements were pending this morning.

Mrs. McGilvra is survived by her husband, Johnny McGilvra of Lufkin; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Kerr of Nacogdoches; a sister and a brother.

Several Bids Accepted By City Council

The Snyder City Council last night accepted bids on several items of supplies and equipment.

Western Industrial Supply was awarded a contract to furnish 1,000 feet of six-inch and 1,000 feet of four-inch water line at a cost of $1.30 and 97 cents per foot, respectively. The firm had the lower of two bids.

The council approved purchase of 2,000 feet of clay sewer pipe at 66 cents per foot from Can-Tex Industrial, the only bidder.

A new ambulance was purchased from Summer Funeral Car Co. of Duncanville. The firm's net bid for furnishing a 1969 Oldsmobile coach was $6,479, the lower of two quotations received.

A chassis for a new fire truck was purchased from Wilson Motors of Snyder whose bid of $8,069.23 was the lowest of three submitted.

Also authorized by the council was the purchase of a new billing machine for the city tax department from Burroughs at a cost of $6,234.01.

Lyle Deffebach and Rex Fields were reappointed to the Colorado River Municipal Water District's board of directors. Their current terms expire May 31.

Bill Dryden and John Jarrell were authorized for water service west of town by the Union-Fluvanna Water Authority.

A request for a permit to establish a butane service station at his store, located at 1607 Twenty - fifth Street was submitted by Lindy Clark. Action on the request was postponed till the next meeting of the council.

S. Lebanon Village Said Under Siege

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The mountain village of Hasbaya in southern Lebanon, hard by the Israeli border, is under siege by about 2,000 Syrian-backed Arab guerrillas, government sources in Beirut said today.

Lebanese troops have been locked in combat for several days with guerrillas of the Al Saika group, affiliated with neighboring Syria's ruling Baath party.

The clashes have escalated steadily and reached a peak Tuesday in a day-long clash. A Beirut communique said at least one Lebanese soldier was killed in the battle which raged near the town of Kater Rikha about seven miles from Hasbaya.

For the first time the Lebanese army identified it opponents as "non-Palestinian armed groups," leading to speculation that the guerrillas were Syrian infiltrators.

Hasbaya lies in a strategic region of south Lebanon which the guerrillas have tried to turn into a launching pad for forays into Israel.

The Lebanese army communique places the blame for the latest clashes squarely on the El Saika — Thunderbolt — organization. Lebanese claim their prisoners have all been non-Palestinians and at least one of the guerrilla dead is from the Syrian port of Latakia.

Renewed fighting in the south touched off angry Lebanese press attacks against the Baathist regime in Syria.

"Our army repulses another Syrian aggression," headlined one newspaper. Another branded the Syrian guerrillas as "snakes."

TRANSPLANT REACTION?

Patients Become Psychotic

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Some people receiving the gift of new hearts have paid by losing their minds, a psychiatrist reported today.

They became psychotic or mentally ill after heart transplant surgery. Others have developed curious psychological

This new aspect to the borrowing of human hearts was described to a convention of the American Psychiatric Association by Dr. Donald T. Lunde, psychiatric consultant to the heart transplant team at Stanford University Medical Center.

He said five of 13 persons receiving hearts at Stanford became psychotic soon after surgery. Thirteen died, including one who was mentally disturbed from the day of the operation.

Three other persons exhibited at least temporary emotional upsets, Dr. Lunde said. One suffered from depression, the others from disturbances in mood and thinking.

In addition, a man who received a woman's heart wondered whether he would lose his masculinity. But he himself with the thought with that women are less likely to develop coronary heart diseases.

A man in his 40s who received the heart of a 20-year-old felt that he now was young, born again.

A man who learned he had been given the heart of a prominent citizen confided that he felt an obligation to live up to standards set by the donor.

Dr. Lunde said Stanford established a policy of keeping secret the identities of donors so that recipients would not learn them from press reports.

The people who became seriously psychotic suffered from paranoia and delusions, Dr. Lunde said.

One man suspected that the drug used to suppress the body's rejection mechanism against borrowed organs was a poison.

He thought the nurses and doctors wore masks to hide contemptuous, mocking expressions.

One reason for psychological reactions in heart recipients is that they know the rejection mechanism may set it and become lethal, Dr. Lunde said.

For reasons still unknown, the heart-lung machine used in heart transplants may also be involved.

Temporary psychotic episodes have been noted in many patients who have been hooked up to such machines briefly during open heart surgery.

Prednisone, one of the drugs used to counter the rejection mechanism, is also known to affect some people mentally.

Waiting anxiously for a long time for a donor to become available may also be a factor.

DEAR ABBY: Mother's day will soon be here and I wish you would say something in your column to remind "young marrieds" to remember their mothers-in-law, too. Even if it's only a card or a note. There were so many years when I should have remember my mother-in-law, but I was too "busy."

This year I will send her a spray of flowers — to the cemetery — bitterly regretting that I failed to send her flowers while she was living. I should have appreciated her more, written her more about her grandchildren, whom she loved so much, and most of all I should have let her know how much I had grown to love her.

I hope others will not make the same mistake I made because next year may be too late. Abby, please use my real initials. I want my father-in-law to know how I feel. Sincerely yours,

I. G. M.

DEAR ABBY: My mother gave me her annual warning speech again this year prior to Mother's day. It always starts out, "Please don't buy me anything. There's nothing I need." Abby, this hurts me. I KNOW my mother doesn't "need" anything, but it takes the pleasure out of it for me when she is so ungracious as to reject my gift before she even gets it.

Please put a word or two in your column letting mothers know that their children enjoy buying Mother's day gifts and they should not be discouraged from doing so.

LOVES TO GIVE

DEAR LOVES: Most mothers are fearful that their children will deny themselves something in order to buy a Mother's day gift. An original poem or letter doesn't cost anything, and is the most cherished of all gifts.

When I was a child, my own mother used to say, "Don't buy me anything. I have everything I need." So I would write little poems and verses telling her how much I appreciated her. Only after she passed away did I realize how much they meant to her. She had saved every one.

DEAR ABBY: Would you comment on an exasperating situation? Every Mother's day I give my mother, who is 67 and still has full-time job, something I know she needs and think she would enjoy using. Handbags, lingerie, gloves, or other personal items, keeping her preferences in mind.

Most of these things end up, unused, on the shelf or in a drawer because they are "too good" for every day. So often she'll wear something downright shabby looking when she has an untouched new replacement on hand.

This has happened time and again. I've tried giving her a check in a greeting card, but the checks are never cashed. Gift certificates are not the answer, as she "hates" to shop, whereas I LIKE to shop for gifts.

I can't understand what she is "saving" these things for. She says she likes my "taste," and I can certainly afford everything I buy her.

Every time I inquire why she's not using or wearing my gifts, there's a shouting match which resolves nothing.

So who's being touchy and inconsiderate? And what's the answer?

IRIS

DEAR IRIS: Whatever the reason, it will have to remain your mother's secret. Maybe it's just one of her idiosyncrasies. Give her another gift, and don't mention her "saving" your previous gifts.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I'm wrong, but I always thought that Mother's day was a day to remember one's OWN mother. I am my husband's sweetheart, companion, partner and lover but, by Jove, I am NOT his mother! I hope that Bill and I never start calling each other "Mother" and "Dad" like some couples we know. And we certainly don't intend to exchange gifts on "Mother's day" and "Father's day."

Police Leave Hippieland

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Police have withdrawn from the troubled Mifflin Street area while its hippie dwellers and their student sympathizers air grievances which led to three nights of civil disorder.

Mayor William D. Dyke appointed a committee of 30 citizens Tuesday to interview the tense neighborhood's young residents concerning complaints about housing conditions, high rents, police harassment and scuffles with permanent Madison residents, whom the hippies call "townies."

The Rev. Paul Hoonstra, a committee member, spent about five hours taking notes in the Mifflin colony after Dyke called off police patrols and said University of Wisconsin students and non-student hippies had legitimate objections to the high rents they pay in the turn-of-the-century houses a quarter of a mile from the campus.

It was the first night since Saturday that police did not clash with throngs of students in the state capital city's business district.

More than 110 persons were arrested in the disturbances, touched off Saturday when police broke up a Mifflin Street block party. An estimated 70 persons were injured or required treatment for tear gas.

Red Representative Repeats Demands

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's representative at the Vietnam peace talks, Xuan Thuy, insisted again today that the unconditional withdrawal of U.S. troops is an essential step toward ending the war.

In an interview in the Paris newspaper Le Figaro, Thuy stuck to the position taken by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong since before the talks began.

He said there was no need to discuss the U.S. proposal for a mutual withdrawal of troops because the people of Vietnam have the right to fight on their own soil against aggressors.

The North Vietnamese said he had no knowledge of a U.S. peace plan. Instead, he said, the Nixon administration is pursuing a policy of intensifying the war.

Wise Scribes Choose Owls?

DALLAS (AP) — Rice University is the consensus choice of a group of track and field writers to win the 1969 Southwest Conference track and field championship—in a photo finish.

The four writers, who have not erred in four previous attempts, predict a torrid four-way battle.

Rice is given 57 points, Texas A&M 54, Texas 52, and Baylor 42. Others, in order of selection, are Southern Methodist 25, Texas Tech 10, Arkansas and Texas Christian 8 each.

The consensus forecast is based on the writers' event placing, not on the points they attribute to each team.

Dick Moore of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and Joe McLaughlin of the Houston Chronicle chose Rice. Jim Montgomery of the Waco News-Tribune selected Texas A&M and Fred Sanner of the Austin American-Statesman picked Texas.

The meet gets underway Friday with discus and javelin finals and track preliminaries. Field event finals will be held at 12 noon Saturday with track finals slated to begin at 2 p.m.

Snyder Girl To Attend Symposium

Kay Nell Feather of 2602 Thirty-fifth Street, a junior student at Snyder High School, has been selected to attend the Ninth Texas Nuclear Science Symposium [illegible] Schools at the University of Texas at Austin.

She will be accompanied to the symposium by Mrs. Rita Carter, science teacher at the high school.

They will be sponsored by Texas Electric Service Company, a member of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation which is joining with the university in putting on the symposium. The foundation is made up of 10 investor-owned electric power companies in Texas.

Some 500 outstanding science students and their teachers, selected by their schools, will attend the four-day meeting. They will have the opportunity to hear scientists from the fields of both industry and education discuss nuclear physics and related topics, according to H. F. Clark, company manager.

The participants will spend two afternoons touring the science laboratories at the university, including those where experiments are being carried on in thermonuclear (fusion) research by the university for the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation.

"This is an excellent opportunity for students interested in careers in science to hear about and to see the latest achievements in nuclear science," Clark said. "We are pleased that we can make this opportunity available to them."

James T. Ramey, a member of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission from Washington, D. C., will speak at a banquet during the symposium. Dr. Norman Hackerman, president of the university and a professor of chemistry, also will address the gathering.

Other noted speakers include Dr. Peter Fortescue, chief research and development engineer for Gulf General Atomic Inc. of San Diego, Calif.; Dr. Louis Rosen, division leader in medium-energy physics at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, Los Alamos, N. M.; Dr. J. R. Maxfield Jr., Maxfield Clinic and Radiological Center of Dallas; and Dr. Richard E. Wainerdi, head of the activation analysis research laboratory at Texas A&M.

Also on the program from the University of Texas at Austin are Dr. A. E. Robson, research scientist in the plasma physics research center; Dr. Harold P. Hanson, chairman of the physics department; and Dr. W. T. Guy Jr., professor of mathematics. Dr. B. H. Amstead, assistant dean of engineering, is chairman for the symposium.

"Texas Electric Service Company and the other nine electric companies in the foundation are vitally interested in [illegible] program at the university," Clark said. "A tremendous amount of energy is released in the nuclear fusion reaction. Experiments at the university are aimed at harnessing this energy for such purposes as the generation of electricity.

"Our association with the university in this program also has provided a field of research for a number of university students and the opportunity to have these annual high school science symposiums."

New Strain On Fortas

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury now meeting in Cleveland will look into a documents incident involving Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas' former law firm, it has been learned authoritatively.

The pending probe, kicked off by the Justice Department, centers on documents found last summer in a safe at Arnold & Porter in the wake of a jewelry theft.

Fortas had long left the prestigious Washington law firm to go on the Supreme Court. His wife, tax attorney Carolyn Agger, is a partner. Otherwise, the investigation appears to have no direct relation to the justice who severed connections with the law firm in October 1965.

Still, it serves to train additional attention on Fortas, under severe attack since Life Magazine disclosed Sunday night that while on the court he had been tendered a fee by the family of industrialist Louis E. Wolfson.

Underground Test Ninth This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nuclear test, the ninth to be announced this year, was set off underground today at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site.

The AEC said the blast was of low intermediate yield, which means it had a force equivalent to between 20,000 and 200,000 tons of TNT.

Firemen Are Called

City Firemen received a call to the Gerald Hicks residence, 3727 Avenue V, at noon yesterday. A pipe in a hot water heater had burst and vapor was escaping from the hole in the pipe.

Astronauts To Catch Lunar Germs?

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Apollo astronauts' physician thinks it is almost certain at least one man on the first moon landing mission will come home ill—maybe with some weird sickness of lunar origin.

"We have to face the fact that we've had post-flight illness on every Apollo mission so far," says Dr. Charles Berry, medical director of the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston, Tex.

"Our problem will be to determine whether any illnesses that show up after Apollo 10 later this year are due to the stresses of space flight or to some micro-organism picked up on the moon.

"I personally do not believe there are any such minute forms of life on the moon, but no one can say for sure."

Dr. Berry discussed the astronaut ailment hazards in a talk Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association and elaborated later in an interview.

Among the disabilities noted so far in the Apollo program, Dr. Berry said, are a marked loss of exercise capacity for a time after return to earth, and motion sickness in flight. Both of these, he said, apparently are because of the human body's attempts to adapt to weightlessness in space and to readapt to earth's gravity later.

More surprising is the discovery that an atmosphere of 100 per cent oxygen damages red blood cells and that addition of nitrogen to the spacecraft atmosphere somehow alleviates this peril.

Dr. Berry said the astronauts will be quarantined for observation for 21 days after return from the moon landing.

"It's almost certain that at least one of the men will develop illness during that period," he said. "The prolonged isolation will help us pinpoint the cause."

Tool Box Stolen

Thieves stole a tool box containing tools from the pickup of Elvis Benton Bollinger, 103 Browning, sometime Tuesday while the vehicle was parked in the alley behind the 1900 block of Thirty-seventh Street, according to a City Police report.

Strange glows and sparklings have been spotted on the moon. Some astronomers think the curious phenomena, known as "lunar transients," may result from gas pouring out of volcanic centers. If so, both water and warmth may exist beneath the moon's dry, cold surface.

Roll and cut out remaining half of the dough the same way. Place fairly close together on a buttered cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until light brown — about 15 minutes. With a wide spatula, removeto With a wide spatula, remove to wire racks to cool. Put cookies together in pairs with about 1 teaspoon currant jelly between each pair; do this the day you serve them because jelly will soften stored cookies. Makes about 2 dozen cookie sandwiches.

Proper Education May Hold Solution To Job Problem

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Sometimes the nation's job figures don't seem to add up, indicating that perhaps a major factor in the equation is being overlooked or not given its proper weight.

In April, for example, the jobless rate went up to 3.5 per cent of the labor force, but the latest studies of the help wanted columns in newspapers show a record high demand for workers.

Construction companies are falling behind schedule on contracts because they can't find enough labor, some of it unskilled, but the latest figures show a rise in unemployment among the unskilled.

The National Alliance of Businessmen, formed to search out jobs for the hard-core unemployed, reports unusual success in finding jobs for nonwhites, but unemployment among Negroes jumped sharply last month.

There are some logical explanations for these contrasts, of course, one of the major ones being geographical. Thousands of miles, for example, may separate job and job seeker.

Lots of other reasons too: skills become outmoded; teenagers seeking their first jobs have no skills to offer; companies move and leave pockets of unemployment. And there is discrimination, not always overt or intended.

But increasingly it appears that the biggest missing factor in the explanation is education, for in all the ups and downs of the job charts there always remain that correlation between education and jobs.

The importance of education to the individual and to the nation is pointed up in a study by the National Planning Association entitled "Manpower Needs for National Goals in the 1970s."

A manpower shortage, the study states, will prevent the United States from fully achieving during the 1970s some of its most important goals. There will be more jobs than workers, according to this projection, but you can bet there will be plenty of people looking for work and not finding it.

Health goals, it suggests, could be frustrated by a shortage of doctors, dentists and nurses. Some 18,000 more doctors would be needed each year in the 1970s, it states, but medical schools may graduate only 8,750.

The evidence—both from recent job statistics and the projections of future needs—indicates that the solution of the job problem lies in proper education and effective apprenticeship systems.

The experience seems to indicate that most other measures are stopgap; they provide a quick answer to an immediate need, but they offer little of permanence. Education does.

Junior Editors Quiz on GARGOYLES

ANSWER: Nowadays, we use gutters on the edges of roofs to catch the rainwater and lead it down through pipes so it won't damage the building. Instead of such pipes, many ancient buildings had spouts projecting from the gutters so the water would pour outward (upper right). The Greeks began to decorate these spouts with lions' heads. This led to decorations being applied to the waterspouts built on Gothic cathedrals. Since these projected several feet outward, stonecutters realized they had the opportunity to carve whole figures with the water coming through the opened mouths. They seem to have delighted in meeting this challenge to their imagination and skill. Greek myths had told of a fantastic monster who breathed fire, called the Chimaera. With a lion's head and a dragon's tail, this creature had the shaggy hair of a goat. The monsters on the waterspouts, called gargoyles from the Latin "gurgulio" were equally more fantastic, some possessing human arms or legs.

Sure Signs To Identify Middle Age

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Poor Man's Philosopher:

"To my mounting horror I am beginning to suspect that I have reached middle age. Naturally this appalls me. Is there any way for me to tell for sure or not whether I am middle-aged.

(signed) Terrified"

Dear Terrified:

Do not give way completely to your fears. It is no longer considered abnormal or unpatriotic for a person to become middle-aged. It happens to millions of people every year, many of whom continue to live rich and fruitful and meaningful lives.

Whether middle age becomes a doom or merely another rewarding chapter in your destiny depends largely on your own attitude toward it.

But to answer your question specifically, yes, there are a number of ways to tell if you have reached middle age. You are probably middle-aged if—

You were born before or during the period when Calvin Coolidge lived in the White House.

Everybody in the office under 35 addresses you as Mister instead of calling you by your first name.

During the last few years you have started buying shirts with collars a half-size larger.

You take off your shoes more often now to rest your feet.

Unconsciously, you give a sigh every time you are confronted by a staircase.

When you see a full moon, it no longer stirs you to romantic thoughts.

On rainy days you wear rubbers now as well as carry an umbrella—things you never did before.

No matter in which direction the barber combs your hair the bald spot still shows.

No stranger you meet has a completely new face; there is something about one or more of his features that reminds you of someone you once knew.

No matter how much your wife tries to talk you out of it, you still insist that fresh vegetables taste better than frozen vegetables.

You used to keep only a small box of aspirin tablets in your desk drawer; now it contains from three to a half a dozen kinds of medicine.

It is getting harder and harder for you to get eight hours of sleep in a row; you wake up at least once during the night.

At least half the mortgage on your house is paid off.

No television comedians makes you laugh as hard as you did at a star on radio, and you'd still rather hear Bing Crosby sing than anybody.

You look at the world now through bifocals instead of rose-colored glasses.

Put all these things together and they spell M-I-D-D-L-E A-G-E. However, the condition is not necessarily terminal. If you screw up your courage and keep breathing regularly, it too will pass—just as your youth did.

Hearing Set For Cassius

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A federal hearing will be held June 2 to determine whether government wiretapping provided evidence leading to the conviction of former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay for refusing military induction.

The hearing, ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court, was set Tuesday, and will be held before Judge Joe Ingraham in U.S. District Court.

Clay was convicted here on June 20, 1967, on charges of refusing to be inducted into the armed services. He was sentenced to five years imprisonment and fined $10,000, but appealed the conviction.

The Supreme Court ruled in March that hearings are necessary in cases where wiretapping was used to overhear conversations of those accused of crimes.

A jury of six men and six women deliberated 20 minutes in Clay's trial, which lasted less than two days in Ingraham's court. Clay did not testify.

Clay and his attorneys had challenged the legality of his 1A draft classification on grounds he was a Black Muslim minister named Muhammad Ali.

Big FCA Rally Set In Coliseum Friday

Plans are nearing completion for the big area - wide Fellowship of Christian Athletes Rally to be held here Friday, May 9, in the Scurry County Coliseum. The Snyder Huddle and Chapter will be host groups for the occasion.

Paul Anderson, Olympic weight lifting champion who has been called the world's strongest man, will be a featured speaker on the program. Another highlight of the program will be the appearance of Ray Hildebrand, who will give a "testimony in song."

Master of ceremonies for the occasion is Coach Truman Nix of Colorado City. Several Snyder High School and area school students will give their testimony. President of the Huddle is Jerry January. Les Francis is president of the FCA Chapter.

Anderson will arrive in Snyder at 2:45 p.m. Friday in C. T. McLaughlin's private airplane. Hildebrand will motor in at 8:30 a.m. Friday. Both are scheduled to appear at the high school assembly at 3 o'clock that afternoon. Program personalities for the evening are scheduled to appear at assembly programs in the afternoon at both junior high schools also.

Anderson will be present for the autograph party in the coliseum at 6:30 p.m. At that time, he will distribute autographed copies of a picture of himself that appears elsewhere on this page. At 7 p.m., also on Friday, the local FCA members will talk with students from area schools or adults from area towns who are interested in organizing an FCA Huddle or Chapter in their respective towns.

The program will include the singing of several religious songs by everyone present. Admittance to the rally is free, and everyone is encouraged to attend. The FCA Chapter and Huddle is a non-denominational organization.

Retzlaff Was Players' Prexy

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press SportsWriter

PHIL'DELPHIA (AP) — Pete Retzlaff got the job as general manager of the Philadelphia Eagles, but apparently his past almost deprived him of the job.

Eagles' owner Leonard Tose denies it, but a source close to Tose said the National Football League tried to keep Retzlaff from getting the G.M. post.

"There was no interference from Commissioner Pete Rozelle's office," said Tose, who last week paid $16,155,000 for the Eagles.

"I talked yesterday (Monday) to Rozelle and asked his approval for appointing Pete," Tose said at the news conference announcing Retzlaff's appointment. "Rozelle said, 'He's approved and good luck to you.'"

The source disclosed that the league office through various emissaries tried to dissuade Tose from hiring Retzlaff. Tose was adamant. He felt the $16.1 million gave him the right to select the general manager he felt could develop a championship football team.

"I chose Retzlaff because of his executive ability his desire to win, his knowledge of football, and he's the kind of man I want to be associated with," Tose said. "I was thinking of Pete since December," long before it was public that Tose had made a deal with Jerry Wolman to purchase the Eagles.

The league's disenchantment with Retzlaff goes back to Pete's playing days with the Eagles. In addition to making the all-league team and playing in five pro bowl games during 11 seasons as one of the top pass receivers in league history, Retzlaff served two terms as president of the NFL Players Association.

In his association capacity, Retzlaff fought the commissioner's office and the owners for better health insurance, and pensions, more exhibition game pay and other benefits. He described the merger agreement between the NFL and American Football League as "...a disgrace."

After he got the job, Retzlaff told reporters he hadn't changed his feelings. "I still believe in those things, I believed it as president of the Players Association. As football revenue continues to grow, why shouldn't the players receive their share.

Retzlaff went to work today looking for a coach to succeed the departed Joe Kuharich, who was fired last week as G.M.-coach. He also began the task of signing some 40 veteran players, and a number of rookies. Included was Leroy Keyes of Purdue, No. 1 Philadelphia selection. Retzlaff said, in relation to Keyes and other rookies, he would not give out any no-cut contracts.

Cubs Stand In Tigers' Title Path

The Snyder High School Tigers will be seeking the championship of District 3-AAA when they host Brownfield's Cubs at 4 p.m. Thursday in a baseball tilt that had been postponed on account of rain. The tilt will be held in Towle Park.

Snyder's district record is 8-0, compared with 7-1 for the Cubs. A victory would clinch the crown for the Bengals, although they meet the Cubs again in Brownfield at 4 p.m. next Tuesday in another tilt that had been postponed on account of inclement weather.

Coach Speedy Moffett said he probably will go with Merce Hernandez on the mound. Brownfield is expected to start its ace hurler, Ruben Garcia.

Heavy rain fell Saturday morning and the track was slow although the sun finally came out. With a synthetic track, the contestants can be assured of a fast race.

SPORTS

Kansas City Raps World Champs 7-6

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ken Harrelson was way off in Cleveland when the Hawk swooped down on Detroit Tuesday night.

This Hawk is named Bob "Hawk" Taylor and, while he hasn't made his mark in baseball like Ken "Hawk" Harrelson, he was a wealthy bird long before Harrelson captured the public's fancy.

The "other" Hawk flapped his wings Tuesday night and walloped a towering three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning, capping a five-run explosion that powered the expansion Kansas City Royals past the Detroit Tigers 7-6 and sent the defending world champions reeling to their fourth consecutive defeat.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Chicago White Sox edged Baltimore and Cleveland nipped Minnesota by 1-0 scores. Oakland whipped Washington 4-1, Boston clobbered Seattle 12-2 and the New York Yankees squeaked by California 2-1.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs crushed Los Angeles 7-1, Montreal stopped Atlanta 4-3, St. Louis blanked San Francisco 3-0, San Diego upset Pittsburgh 4-2, Philadelphia got by Houston 5-4 and the New York Mets drubbed Cincinnati 8-1.

Hawk Taylor was among the first of the big money bonus babies when he signed with the Milwaukee Braves in 1957 for more than $100,000 as a highly touted young catcher.

"Dad put a glove in my hand when I was 4 years old," he recalled at the time. "From that day on he had one purpose in mind—to prepare me for the major leagues. Later, when I was a little older, my two uncles, Ben and Jack Taylor, who had played briefly in the majors, joined Dad in working with me. They taught me everything I know.

"My father and uncles got together and decided I ought to become a catcher. They reasoned that since there were very few good catchers around, that would be the position where I could move up faster."

"That ain't moving up," cracked the Dodgers' star catcher, Roy Campanella. "He's starting at the top."

Taylor never made it big, although he sat on the Milwaukee bench for three seasons. He spent some time with the Mets and Angels but mostly he was a minor leaguer until the Royals grabbed him in the minor league draft last December.

"I just want to do anything to help the ballclub," the 30-year-old Taylor said after his game-winning blow helped wipe out a 6-2 Detroit lead behind Denny McLain that included homers by Jimmie Price and Don Wert. Lou Piniella connected for Kansas City.

Manager Joe Gordon said he doesn't have any plans to use Taylor regularly, adding: "We don't use him much because we're trying to develop our two young catchers. He's a good catcher and good pinch hitter, but we're trying to bring a lot of the kids along."

Taylor was the first batter to face reliever Dick Radatz and his homer sailed into the upper left field stands at Tiger Stadium.

The White Sox gave Don Gutteridge his first victory as new manager Joe Horlen stopped the Orioles on five hits. Chicago scored against Jim Palmer in the third on a two-out walk to Sandy Alomar, stolen base and Luis Aparicio's single.

"No matter who's managing, the White Sox always play the same," said Gutteridge. "My first win and it's ulcers. I hope Al Lopez left some of his pills around."

Cleveland's Sam McDowell pitched his second consecutive three-hit shutout and made Tony Horton's seventh-inning home run stand up for the Indians' victory, ending Minnesota's eight-game winning streak. It was only the fourth triumph in 22 games for the Indians.

Oakland's Reggie Jackson clouted his 10th home run, a two-run shot that tied him for the major league lead with Washington's Frank Howard and Frank Robinson of Baltimore and powered the A's to a 4-1 win over the Senators.

The setback snapped a five-game winning streak for the surprising Senators, who had won 10 of their last 11 games. Jackson also doubled and scored Oakland's first run.

Fritz Peterson stopped California on five hits and Bobby Murcer singled home two unearned runs in the fifth inning, enabling the Yankees to beat the Angels and end a seven-game losing streak. Loser Rudy May's throwing error set up the two Yankee runs.

Boston capitalized on four Seattle errors—two by slick-fielding Ray Oyler—for eight unearned runs and mauled the Pilots 12-2 behind Ray Culp. Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs and rookie Syd O'Brien belted his first major league home run for the winners.

'Horns Eye Bigger Game

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Southwest Conference baseball king Texas completed its regular season Tuesday with a 25-4 record and now it's on to bigger game.

The Longhorns split a twin-bill with the Texas Aggies, winning the opener 2-1 and dropping the second game 5-2. Texas finished the SWC race 14-2.

Texas, rated No. 1 in the nation in at least one national collegiate baseball poll, will be a favorite in the NCAA playoffs with its strong pitching staff and lusty hitters.

James Street of Texas picked up his ninth win against but one loss in the opener. Texas rallied for two runs in the last inning—the seventh—as Stu Bagwell singled across the winning tally. Street allowed two hits, including a run-scoring double by Bob Long.

Dave Benesh did it all for the Aggies in the second game. He pitched seven hit ball, doubled, scored three runs and hit a homer. The third inning home run was his third in three consecutive times at the plate.

Grid Owners Gather Again

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League club owners arrived here today to begin the third round of talks that will determine pro football's alignment for 1970.

The NFL owners were scheduled to meet at the office of Commissioner Pete Rozelle a day before American League owners are due in town.

The owners originally met in Palm Springs, Calif., in March, then reconvened here last week in an effort to reach agreement on realignment.

White House To Stick By Decision On Job Centers

By JACK BELL
AP-Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders have been told by the White House there will be no compromise in the fight over President Nixon's order closing 59 Job Corps centers.

The GOP delegation also got a cram course Tuesday on the Job Corps' reputed failures as ammunition for a significant test of the administration's ability to move domestic programs through the Democratic Congress.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he will lead a fight to shelve a resolution sponsored by Sen. Allan Cranston, D-Calif., 30 Democratic colleagues and GOP Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

Dirksen said Republicans supporting the President's decision will rely heavily on a General Accounting Office report unfavorable to the Job Corps.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., said the GAO study indicates the Job Corps is "simply a waste of the taxpayers' money."

The Cranston resolution would call for a delay in center closings until current participants at each had completed their job training courses. Administration officials have promised that trainees who want to continue will be transferred to other centers and none will be left stranded.

The administration holds there are more effective ways to train ghetto youths for jobs. The Democrats say that, despite its failures, the program has taken some dead-end kids off the streets who would not have been reached by any other means.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., whose every move is viewed suspiciously by critics as a maneuver toward a 1972 presidential bid, has challenged the GAO report. Kennedy said GAO unfairly downgraded the corps' performance.

But Dirksen is adament. "This program has got to be tightened up—something has to be done about it," he said.

Dirksen cited figures produced at the White House by Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz that only 25 per cent of the original enrollees ever finish the course and only 17 per cent are placed in jobs.

He said Camp Kilmer, N.J.—once cited by former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey as a shining example of the Jobs Corps program—is near the bottom of the list in producing graduates capable of filling jobs.

Cattlemen's Returns Low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects for higher cattle prices this summer and a further squeeze on consumers' meat bill have not helped producers receive what they consider fair returns.

The American National Cattlemen's Association, Denver, said recently that mid-April cattle prices reported by the Agriculture Department were only 85 per cent of parity—a fair price in relation to costs.

Department officials reported that mid-April farm prices fo all cattle averaged $26.40 a hundredweight, the most since May 1952. Full parity for cattle was $31 at mid-April, the report said.

This meant, the association said, that "prices received by cattlemen are still 15 per cent below other segments of the economy."

Story Of A Woman In Man's War

EDITOR's NOTE — Miss Jurate Kazickas—"Sam" to her friends in the Marines—was a freelance writer in Vietnam for more than a year. Now working for The Associated Press, she recalls her experiences—and her wounds—in the thick of the fighting, where she was a woman in a man's world of war.

world. War. No matter how hard you try, you never really fit in. You never escape your femininity. Nor do you want to lose it. Always that question, "Ma'am, what are you doing here?"

Notes from a diary hastily scribbled during a year reporting the war in Vietnam:

April, 1967. Pleiku: They tell me I can go on a bombing mission but at the last minute, the colonel decides he doesn't like the idea of a woman flying where it might be dangerous.

So we go, instead, on a parachute drop of supplies to a Special Forces camp in the Delta. Open canopy and the sun is shining. The countryside is beautiful—patchwork of pattern of rice paddies. The sun strikes the thin silver of the Mekong River and I see a fireball in the river. The plane goes into a low dive—feels like a roller coaster—and I try writing in my notebook while upside down.

Back at the officer's club I listen to their war stories, then some pilot comes in and tells us Bud has been shot down over North Vietnam. I remember his showing me pictures of his children. I think he was supposed to go home soon. All of a sudden, I feel depressed and lonely. Go to sleep in a big ugly tent and wake up in the middle of the night with the rain.

May. Bong Son Plain: A patrol with the 1st Cavalry. How I hate these baggy fatigues and clunky jungle boots. They promised me lots of action—many Viet Cong in this area—but everytime things looked as if they'd start to happen, the colonel's helicopter arrived to bring me to another company. I am furious. They wouldn't even let me put my foot on a landing zone named after me (LZ Kazickas!). A lady shoudn't be out there where she might get hurt, the colonel explains. What was I supposed to say, "I'm no lady."?

June. The Oasis, near Pleiku: It had to happen. My first bad firefight. Strange to explain . . . I am not afraid. I guess I am too stupid or there is just too much happening. Noise of guns, explosions, shouting, the cries of the wounded.

It seems as if it lasts all afternoon, but when the shooting stops I see only an hour had gone by. Sun still shining. Hot, muggy day.

Feel so helpless with the wounded. One blond, smooth-faced boy: a bloody bandage across his chest. He keeps squeezing my hand and tries to smile. Just don't know what to say. "does it hurt very much?"

He probably thought, what a dumb dame, but instead says "Oh no, ma'am, only when I breathe."

June. Dragon Mountain: La-de-da. Dinner with the general. He is magnificent. Tall, with gleaming boots and starched uniform. Me: blood stains on my fatigues.

Great roast beef, cucumbers in oil, even red wine. Candles that keep flickering with the wind coming through the tent.

Must remember what he said. "Real proud of my men. Why they were just boys from the streets and here in Vietnam they become men." Talks about kill ratios, miles of opened roads, pacified villages.

He doesnt like the ice cream and orders it taken away. Keeps dropping bits of Spam into his dog's mouth.

July. Que Son Valley: Quiet times of war. Out on patrol we come to a grove of coconut palms, pineapples and oranges. I discover that by mixing Kool-Aid with coconut milk and pouring it into a pineapple shell we get a super drink. Someone calls it Airborne Ambrosia.

We dig in for the night. Two husky, handsome GIs share my trench. They are from New York. In the dark we smoke and talk about their girls, nightspots they used to visit, the future. During the night it begins to rain but I stay dry. Those two strong backs shelter me. Expect lots of teasing the next morning.

Sitting on a bunker watching the sun go down. The sky over the village is a swirl of pastels while off in the distance a jet plane drops its bombs and the horizon becomes a white, tree-shaped cloud. I'm tired but not unhappy. The men are kind and friendly and the war seems to have stopped for a few days. Cool evening wind. Sound of children singing somewhere.

August. Hills near Khe Sanh: Am Assigned a Marine escort for the long, tough patrol near the DMZ. Never did I walk so much or get so hot, dirty and tired. I want to admit that maybe I am too weak for all that climbing, but the captain [illegible] and I am determined to stick it out. Then, they tell me that my big, burly sergeant escort has collapsed at the base of the hill and is to be evacuated. He was nervous, apologetic, embarrassed. "Can you imagine, she's tougher than a Marine," someone whispers—loud. I don't feel particularly proud.

September. Saigon: How good to look like a woman again! There is a package from home—some frilly slips, more ribbons, even mascara. I go to the press briefings and discovered to my dismay that I am taller than General Westmoreland. My Vietnamese family tells me that I shouldn't go into the jungles again. "Why don't you look for a husband maybe," the lady of the house says.

October, near Chu Lai: Had enough of the fat life in Salgon. Back on patrol with the 1st Cav. Walk through rice paddies and villages where the women bring me their sick children, probably thinking that I'm a nurse. I pointed to my cameras and try to explain why I am there. I don't like the way the old Vietnamese men stare at me.

November, Dak To: Bad, brutal battles for nameless hills. Two dead GIs, like young, tired boys sleeping against a tree. Can't write of the horror. Don't want to take pictures anymore so I try to help bandage shattered arms, try to be of some use.

December. Bu Dop. I've got to leave. Can't please everybody. Goodness, I need a moral boost too. Afraid to look in a mirror at that messy hair and unwashed skin. Sneak behind a tree to put on some lipstick and a ribbon in my hair. A GI walks by and shakes his head. "Where do you think you are, lady? Fifth Avenue?"

My fatigues are sweat-stained and I itch everywhere. The soldier in my bunker looks at me and laughs. "Ma'am, I don't know how you do it but you STILL smell better than we do."

"March, 1968. Khe Sanh: Never never will I forget this day. Interviewed a young lieutenant from New York. There is a shrill whistle and then a loud crash. We start running for a bunker but the rocket gets in the way. I'm crawling on the ground. Only a concussion I say to myself but when I touch my face there are pieces of shrapnel at my cheek. Sting in my legs. Blood on my fingers. Why did it happen to me? I'm not a soldier.

Four Marines are wounded with me. We get to Charley Med but no one is quite sure what to do with me. My wounds aren't so serious, so I wait my turn.

There is a piece of shrapnel in that place where I sit and the doctors wonder how to be proper about it all. I am lying on my stomach. Have to say something. "Will the scar be below my bikini mark, doctor?" I asked.

He glances down and smiles. "Most affirmative, ma'am."

May. The Delta: I'm afraid of combat now. Thought I was so tough but now I can't fall asleep on the hard ground knowing that there might be a rocket attack.

Working out here as a girl was difficult enough when I was

He glances down and smiles. unafraid. Now, with nerve failing there is only one course left . . . go home.

USDA Eyes Hike In Meat Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the rising cost of meat, a major factor in the unexpected jump in this year's food prices, comes at a time when there are abundant supplies of livestock.

"The strength in livestock and meat prices in the face of larger supplies is due to rising consumer incomes, unusually low unemployment rates and increases in population," the department said Monday.

Officials indicated, in effect, that higher prices on both the wholesale and retail level, are the result of more people willing to pay more money to eat more beef.

Department officials indicated last week that previous estimates of a 2 to 2.5 per cent rise in food costs this year were too low and the figure more likely will be about 3 per cent.

A report on the food outlook is scheduled for release by the department Thursday.

Cattle prices have set the pace for the increasing cost of livestock, already at a 17-year-high, Agriculture economists said, and are expected to continue running "well above" a year ago.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the retail price of sirloin steak in March averaged $1.23 a pound nationally, the highest since sirloin records were started in 1960. A year ago sirloin cost $1.18 a pound.

Chuck roast in March cost 66 cents a pound, compared with 63 cents a year earlier. The high was 76 cents a pound in December 1951, a period of record cattle prices.

Hamburger averaged 58 cents a pound in March, compared with 55 cents a year earlier and the top of 67 cents in April 1951.

The rising cost of food is only part of the reason for the inflation that is worrying the government. The latest figures for the Consumer Price Index, including food as well as other items, showed a jump of eight-tenths of one per cent for March, the steepest monthly rise in 18 years.

Hair Hazard In Space

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hair is a fire hazard in spacecraft, a researcher reports, but astronauts won't take the safety precaution experts propose.

"Our information is that astronauts simply will not shave their faces and heads daily," Dr. R. L. Durfee of Alexandria, Va., told the annual meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association Monday. "So we have been [illegible] and other [illegible]

Hair is extremely flammable in the oxygen-rich atmosphere of spacecraft.

Durfee, a chemical engineer for the Atlantic Research Division of the Susquehanna Corp., said several fire retardant chemicals have failed tests. The best alternative so far to shaving seems to be swathing the head and face in glass fiber bandages.

An on that, Durfee said, the astronauts haven't commented.

Treasury Official Backs ABM System

HOUSTON (AP) — A U. S. Treasury official said Monday night that deployment of a limited antiballistic missile system will assure the country it will never have to negotiate "from a position of military inferiority."

"In the world as it is," said undersecretary of the Treasury C. E. Walker, "military strength is needed to make a nation's diplomacy work, to

Soviets Refuse To Grant Asylum

BERLIN (AP) — A West Berlin man asked the Red army for asylum in the Soviet Union Monday, but the Russians said no and called the police instead.

It happened at the Soviet war memorial in West Berlin, guarded around the clock by a Red army platoon.

Police said the man, identified only as 26 years old and apparently sober, advanced only a moment Bell said his department could use about 15,000 bushels of barley for feed.

Tuition Fee To Be In Barley

SASKATOON, Sask. (AP) — About 30 needy rural students at the Saskatoon campus of the University of Saskatchewan will be able to pay next year's tuition with barley.

The idea originated with last year's student council secretary, Albert Chambers, who approached Prof. J. M. Bell, head of the animal science department, Bell said his department has been featured on six different stamps.

The university board of governors approved the plan last week.

"I just wish we could do it for 3,000 students, not just 30," the university vice president, Dr. L. I. Barber, said Monday.

Ian Paisley Leaves Cell

BELFAST (AP) — The Rev. Ian Paisley, Northern Ireland's leading Protestant extremist, emerged from jail Tuesday night with a conciliatory promise to "give the new government a chance to get the country back to normal."

Paisley was among the first to be freed under an amnesty declared for all political prisoners arrested during the past eight months of clashes between Roman Catholic civil rights demonstrators and militant Protestants.

The amnesty was the first major step taken by Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark in a "bid to wipe the slate clean" and pacify Northern Ireland's warring factions.

Texas Looks Good To Industrialist

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — An Ohio industrialist told a statewide industrial conference today his firm has found everything in Texas it looks for in a "good business climate."

However, said Edwin Dodd of Toledo, Texas' size "tends to divide the people into areas competing against each other," and the state has an "urgent need" for trained technical people.

Dodd, president of Owens-Illinois, Inc., spoke to the Governor's Conference on Industrial Expansion.

He said Owens-Illinois has a lumber mill at Orange, a plywood plant at Lufkin, a glass container plant at Waco, a plastic bottle plant at Dallas and are partners in a plant at Houston to produce polyethylene resin.

Dodd said his company looks for nine major things in deciding whether a community or state "has a business climate conducive to a new plant or to expansion of an existing facility." Included are whether a government "taxes fairly" and avoids "over-regulation and economic distribution," whether there is "a history of peaceful and constructive employer-employes relations" and whether the employer is afforded an opportunity "to operate profitably."

Too often, Dodd said, a manufacturer is forgotten as soon as the ribbon-cutting ceremony is over.

"If 80 per cent of Texas' industrial growth comes from the expansion of existing industry," he said, "it seems logical that a high percentage of your time, money and effort in industrial development should be invested in programs designed to create and maintain a climate that will keep these existing manufacturers happy and operating profitably."

He said no industry could overlook Texas' size and the room to expand, but he added: "On the negative side, as nice as this space is its very size tends to divide people into areas competing against each other, sometimes to the detriment of the total state interests.

"Such divisiveness, if allowed to continue, could weaken overall Texas unity and dampen the enthusiasm of incoming industry."

"Another negative factor which concerns us relates to vocational training," Dodd said. "Top flight technical, vocational training must be an itegral part of your educational system. Texas has an urgent need for trained technical people who can staff the plants of new and expanded industry. You will do well to place this need high on your priority list."

CAREER CORNER

By F. J. LAIN

"What's career-wise for physics, from high school, bachelor's degree, master's and doctorate?"

A. — You're living in a good age to be a physicist. They (both men and women) are respected by society and the outlook is wonderful for well-qualified physicists. Anyone thinking of basic research in physics should go on to get a Ph.D. It's almost mandatory for landing a good job in government, industry or the academic world. Besides, it brings more salary. Figures from the National Science Foundation show that Ph.D's earned a median salary of $15,900 in 1968; master's and bachelor's degree, $12,600 (same amount for both).

UNIVERSE FOR LAB. Physics comes from a Greek word meaning nature, and depends on math and logic. Physicists study the various forms of energy . . . the structure of matter . . . and the relationship between matter and energy. From their analyses, they develop theories, and discover fundamental laws that describe the behavior of forces at work within the universe.

R&D. About half of some 45,000 physicists are employed in research and development. Many conduct basic research (like "why is the grass green?") with secondary regard to its practical applications. Or as one scientist is supposed to have said, "Basic research is what I'm doing when I don't know what I'm doing." Whatever physicists have been doing, it's paid off. They have made valuable contributions in such areas as nuclear energy, electronics, communications and aerospace.

ENGINEERING - ORIENTED physicists engage in applied research, others teach in high schools, colleges and universities (perhaps combining research and consulting work), or function as managers and administrators, especially of R&D programs. Some physicists work in fields directly related to the improving of a manufacturing process or the company's product.

EMPHASIS AREAS. Most physicists specialize in one or more branches of the science — mechanics, thermal phenomena, high energy physics, optics, acoustics, electromagnetism, electronics, atomic and molecular physics, nuclear physics, physics of fluids, solid-state physics or classical theoretical physics. Some further concentrate in a subdivision of these branches.

COMBINATIONS. Physicists often apply their knowledge to problems originating in other sciences, for example: astrophysics, the use of physics in the study of the bodies of the universe — what the sun and stars are made of; biophysics, the physics and chemistry of living things; chemical physics, the application of physics principals to reactions of chemical compounds.

WHERE EMPLOYED: Private industry, in the electrical equipment, ordnance, chemicals, aerospace and instruments industries; independent commercial labs and research institutes; machinery, engineering and architectural services industry; schools; the federal government, and various nonprofit organizations. They work in all states but more than one-fourth reside in Boston, Washington, D. C., Los Angeles-Long Beach and New York. Physicists whose jobs depend upon government funds may find it necessary to relocate from time to time as certain work projects are ended and others begun.

INTANGIBLE REWARDS

One of the world's most honored physicists, Dr. Arthur Holly Compton described his satisfaction with the field: "No thrill equals solving a problem that no one else has been able to crack . . . The physicist stands on the missile-launching pad, goes beneath the seas, balloons into the upper atmosphere. He grows not so proud of the conquest of the universe as humble before the immensity of its conception."
