'MYSTERY MAN' MURDERS 4 WITH AXE

FLORIDA AGHAST AT CRIME WHILE SLAYER ESCAPES

ENTIRE FAMILY DIES IN HOME IN TAMPA; NO CLUES ARE FOUND
(By The Associated Press)
TAMPA, Fla., June 28.—Four members of the Rowell family were killed in their home here today, their heads crushed with an axe which was found nearby. Three were dead when found and the fourth, Lena Rowell, 18, died before she could explain the attack.
The dead are: Bee Rowell, 45, a carpenter, his mother and Ira Rowell, 30, her nephew. Lena Rowell was a niece of Mrs. Rowell.
Girl Finds Bodies
The bodies were discovered by Miss Ruby Siler, who went to the home this morning accompanied by her father, going with Lena Rowell in a search of work. Getting no response to their knocks, the girl looked in at a side window and saw the bodies.
Police could find no cause of the crime and a coroner's jury that was called adjourned Wednesday. Neighbors told of hearing a commotion and loud voices in the house about 1 A. M. but apparently nobody investigated at the time.

Organized Crime In Texas, Claims Alfred In Lubbock

Urging that "every state official from constable to governor, organize against crime" and rapping the pardon policy of Governor M. A. Ferguson, James V. Alfred, 27, District Attorney of Wichita Falls and a candidate for the office of Attorney General of Texas, addressed a group of interested listeners from his truck at the corner of Broadway and Avenue I shortly after two o'clock today.
The youthful prosecutor, who during the past twenty-seven months has made a remarkable record in the district court at the all metropolis charged in his speech that an organized crime ring is at the present time operating in Texas and cited statistics to prove his contention that crime is on the increase and that there is in Texas a growing disrespect and lack of confidence in the courts.
He took a stand in favor of prohibition, urging that the law against liquor be made stronger if changed at all, and stated that corruption in public office is rampant in this state. He also pointed out that "there is at this time, more violation of the anti-trust laws than ever before."
He answered the cry of his opponents that he is too young for the place by reminding his hearers that when war was declared in 1917 he was "no longer too young to serve." He promised to be in Wichita Falls for the 1927 Chamber of Commerce convention saying he would come "all the way from Austin to meet the crowd from Lubbock."
Mr. Alfred speaks tonight at 8 o'clock and later this afternoon at 8 o'clock.

SAYS ROSS WILL NOT BE BROUGHT BACK SO EASILY

'CAPTURED GUNMAN FAILS TO GIVE CLUE TO TOM ROSS' WHEREABOUTS
(By The Associated Press)
FOIT WORTH, June 28.—Milt Goode, convicted with Tom Ross of the murder of H. L. Robertson and W. D. Allison, field inspectors of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, was in Tarrant County jail here Monday following his arrest at Antlers, Okla., Saturday, which ended a period of liberty dating from his escape with Ross last November. Goode declared he was on his way to Texas to surrender voluntarily when arrested, but that he was not ready to give up captured.
"Got Careless," He Says
"I just got careless and walked into a bear trap," he said.
Goode did not believe, however, that Ross would be re-taken as easily.
"I know what will happen if a law ever sticks a gun into the Ross short front. There'll be a gun fight and one or the other will be killed," he asserted. "Ross won't go back alive."
He Protests Tom Ross
Although he gave his capture some reason to believe Ross and he had been in the Southwestern part of Canada, Goode was careful not to give the least clue to his partner's present whereabouts, nor to those of Clarence Whalen, and George Arlington, who escaped with them. The latter two were sent up from Dallas on conviction of highway robbery.
Goode was brought here by Ranger Captain Tom Hickman and Tad Moses of the Cattle Raisers' Association. He will be questioned here in an effort to locate the other escaped men and will then be taken to Huntsville.

Financial Crisis Faces Lubbock's Baseball Team; Meeting Is Called For Wednesday To Keep Team Here

Amateur baseball is now hanging in the balance in Lubbock. A general meeting of fans who enjoy baseball, and others who thought they possibly do not enjoy the game so much, must realize that the team means much more to the city from an advertising standpoint than can be secured through any other means at the same or even lesser expenditure, has been called for Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at the City Hall when the proposition will be discussed in its varied phases.
It is sad but true, that to date the club has not been given the support it is entitled to from a financial standpoint, and officials of the amateur association are now in debt to seven players for almost a month's service. These players, like any other ordinary human being, must have some remuneration for their services, or they will seek other places where this remuneration can be obtained.
Three Stars To Leave
In fact, three of the boys who do so much to the success of the club, have told officials that if something is not done in their cases within the next day or two, they will be forced to look elsewhere, and they will not have to look long, for they already have positions that are indeed inviting to them. This must be realized as a matter of fact, for if fans of the city do not think enough of the club to support it financially, there is no occasion for the boys to continue and such could not be expected of them.
There are only seven men on the payroll of the club, the others, who have formed a partnership for lease of the park, depending entirely upon the gate receipts, not only for their remuneration, but for the miscellaneous expenses, such as upkeep of the park, baseballs for the games, and other necessary expenses.
Plan Are Explained
These seven men are now under contract at an expenditure of approximately $1,000 per month, and with the five men who are operating the lease, compose the best all-around ball club on the South Plains. The $1,000 per month is all that is asked of the city, and the entire amount is necessary for salaries if the club is to continue at its present momentum.
Committees some time ago canvassed the city in an effort to raise the needed funds, and these met with only a measure of success that is negligible in comparison to what should have been done.
Crisis Is At Hand
In short, Lubbock is facing not only the possibility, but the probability, of disbandment of the club, unless the citizens rally behind the standard of officials of the amateur association, and agree to arrange for the necessary funds. This is the object of the Wednesday morning meeting, and in the words of association officials, fans will decide at this meeting whether or not they want baseball of the class shown here to date, or whether they want to turn down the proposition by which the city has gained more favorable publicity than through any other means, expenditure not considered.
The club, in common parlance, must return to Denver this fall to defend its honors as victor of last year, but if its honors fall in its support during the playing season, it could hardly be expected of the club that it return, and it most certainly will not.
The challenge is out, and fans alone hold the decision.

HEAD OF DALLAS AIRWAY COMPANY IS BEHIND MOVE

CAPT. BILL ERWIN TALKS TO C. OF C.; MAIL SERVICE LOOMS
A commercial airplane line, with the probability that a little later mail service will be inaugurated, between Dallas and Lubbock, and all intervening points, is now in prospect for this city. It was announced at the chamber of commerce Monday, following a conference of officials with Capt. William P. Erwin, vice-president and general manager of the International Airways, Inc.
Capt. Erwin has been here since Saturday, and is head of one of the biggest airway corporations in the south. His company is incorporated under Texas, is backed by Texas money, and all operations to date are based in Texas. The firm is now starting commercial air lines from Dallas to Houston, Dallas to San Antonio, and Dallas to Shreveport, and is now negotiating with Abilene for an extension to that point. Capt. Erwin left Monday.
To Meet Amarillo Officials
A further extension of the Abilene line to Lubbock and Amarillo is now contemplated by the company, and a representative of the firm will meet Amarillo officials tomorrow to discuss a similar line from Tulsa to Amarillo. This latter line, Capt. Erwin says, may later be extended to Lubbock, and on into El Paso, giving West Texas a network of air service unequalled in the state.
Wants Department At Tech
It is the plan of his firm, Capt. Erwin said, to further airway commercial service in every way possible, and he stated that his firm "will go a long way" in furnishing equipment, etc., for the addition of an aviation research department at the Tech College here, where the various engineering departments can be given first hand information in airway transportation. And such a department, he said, need FURN TO PAGE 8, COL. 1, PLEASE

Spanish Soldiers In Revolt Plan, Thought

BIARRITZ, France, June 28. (AP)—The latest information from Spain is that the plot against the government was started and sustained almost exclusively by army officers desiring to overthrow Premier Primo de Rivera. —NEA, Kansas City Bureau

Carl Keen, 23 (top), was sentenced to 35 years in prison by a Kansas City judge for a $7 holdup. But the reason the judge made the sentence so stiff was Carl's admission that he had taught his 13-year-old brother George (below) to be a bandit. Tom, Carl said he did it to help his brother, as "he was pulling dinky burglaries and house looting jobs—he wasn't making anything out of them and there was danger he would be killed." The judge was unable to view this as proper brotherly conduct, however. George received a three-year sentence.

"The Old War Horse"

A HAL ROACH COMEDY
"ALWAYS A GOOD SHOW"

Anna Sterno with a "Tango" haircut, Isabel Zehner, who represents Chicago in the National Charleston contest wearing the "Charleston" and Nina Sorel, with a "Hestiation."

NEA Service Writer.
NEW YORK, June 28.—Since jazz has exerted such a tremendous influence on art and letters, and has stamped our department on our clothes, it is not surprising to find it influencing our bobbed heads.

Jazz haircuts are now the vogue in hair. "The Charleston" and "Tango" have just been created by Emile, one of New York's most fashionable cutters, who frequently turns academic and lectures at Columbia University.

"They may be the swan song as well," he admits, "for while there is no end in sight for the bob, there is bound to come a return of interest in long hair."

Inconstant Woman
Nothing endures, is his idea. "Search the ages," he urges, "beginning with Eve, and coming down to Peggy Joyce, and you cannot find one permanent fashion. Revinis, yes, because in due course, every style returns to favor. But no one mode, however beautiful, has ever been able to withstand woman's instinct for variety and change. Neither can the bob."

At present, Emile says, every woman wants her head to look small. Practically all the smart bobs require that the victim be "thinned" as well as cut so the line of the head may be clearly defined.

Those who are letting their hair grow are usually the deba and sub deba, he finds. They have never had long hair, and consequently to have a "bob" is as much of a thrill as it was to their mothers to get rid of one.

A woman who had years of experience with hairpins and maybe with switches and puffs, is not eager to repeat the experience.

Emile has also created another hair grow, "Hestiation," which is for the hair which is in the growing-in stage. It is waved softly in a thoroughly feminine fashion, and rolled up at the neckline.

"I call it 'Hestiation,'" he laughs, "not after the wait, but the state of mind. Not one woman in ten really goes through with the growing out process. She merely hesitates—then decides to go back to the bob."

Already there are indications that a less severe style of hairdressing is on the way, he believes.

"Larger hats, for instance," he points out. "They call for a softer line about the face. The very severe mannish cut that was the vogue last winter is giving way to a feminine softness. That was what inspired my new Charleston and Tango cuts—a girl to preserve the femininity—to assure you the masculinity is only retained."

"The eccentric hair cuts, which women of the stage can carry very well because they are fearless, and because they know the public wants them to be different and daring in costume, have not proved satisfactory to the average woman."

"No woman really wants to lose her femininity. As soon as she realizes she has she will change her mode of dressing. That is the secret of the French woman's supponancy in dress. She never tries to look like a man. When she steals some masculine style she gives it a feminine touch."

Wants Small Head
At present, Emile says, every woman wants her head to look small. Practically all the smart bobs require that the victim be "thinned" as well as cut so the line of the head may be clearly defined.

Those who are letting their hair grow are usually the deba and sub deba, he finds. They have never had long hair, and consequently to have a "bob" is as much of a thrill as it was to their mothers to get rid of one.

A woman who had years of experience with hairpins and maybe with switches and puffs, is not eager to repeat the experience.

Emile has also created another hair grow, "Hestiation," which is for the hair which is in the growing-in stage. It is waved softly in a thoroughly feminine fashion, and rolled up at the neckline.

"I call it 'Hestiation,'" he laughs, "not after the wait, but the state of mind. Not one woman in ten really goes through with the growing out process. She merely hesitates—then decides to go back to the bob."

NATIONAL SEES HOT FIGHT FOR TOP OF LADDER

ALEXANDER WINS ONE FOR HORNSBY; RUTH SOCKS NUMBER 25

(By the Associated Press)
There is hot three-cornered battle for the lead in the National League. Cincinnati sets the pace. St. Louis is second and the World's Champion Pirates third.

Rogers Hornsby has helped his club materially by recent activities in the player market.
Alexander Wins
Yesterday Alexander, who a few days ago was dismissed by the Cubs for breaking the club rules, pitched the Cardinals to a 3 to 2 victory over his former team in the first game of a double-header. He allowed only four hits. In the second game John Fred Blake, of the Cubs, pitched a one-hit performance to win, 5 to 0. Southworth getting the lone single.

Cincinnati's sluggers enjoyed a field day against Pittsburgh, 18 safe hits giving them 16 runs while Pete Donohue held the Pirates to 6 bingles and shut them out.

Brooklyn Halted
Brooklyn's winning streak, which had reached five games, was stopped by Philadelphia, 2 to 1. Wayland Dean gave the Dodgers only five safeties.

Babe Ruth made his 25th home run of the season against Heinsohn of the Red Sox in a game which went to the Yankees, 7 to 1. Lazzarotti of the Yankees also hit for the circuit.

Detroit carried on its rush, recording its seventh straight victory at the expense of Cleveland, 5 to 4. Lee, Cleveland catcher, was spiked when Manush slid home and had to be assisted from the field.

Washington Wins
Washington also has a winning streak, now stretched to four games, all from Philadelphia. Stanley Harris singled yesterday in the fifth with the bases loaded, sending in the winning runs against Philadelphia.

Blankenship, ably supported by his infield, gave the Chicago White Sox a six to three victory over St. Louis.

LAMESA HURLER IS AVAILABLE FOR LOCAL CLUB

"Slim" Hale, diminutive mound artist, who delivered such a beautiful game for Lamesa when his team met the Lubbock Hubbers at the Merril park here Sunday afternoon, is available for service with the Lubbock club, it was announced here Monday.

Hale remained over in Lubbock Sunday night after the game, and although club officials would make no statement as to whether or not they contemplate entering into contract with him, several fans have expressed a desire to keep him here. Hale is among the best in this part of the state and is known to one or two local players who have played both with him and against him.

He is small, of stature, but mighty both from the mound and with the stick, and has a "happy go lucky" air in his mound performance that drew a great deal of comment from the stand in Sunday's game. He is experienced, knows the wiles and woes of the diamond, and works with such ease that he is never affected by the turn of affairs during a game, whether they be for or against him.

The NUT CRACKER by Joe Williams

NOTHING succeeds like success unless you happen to know a sure cure for the hooking off the first tee.

FOURTEEN clubs passed Grover Alexander by on waivers—it is not a far cry from wavering to waivers in baseball.

BABE RUTH is behind his 1921 record now both in home runs, lead suits, and indignation attacks.

THIS seems to be an exceptional year for the Cardinals, including those that represent Rogers Hornsby and the church.

MR. O'GOOPTY is warbling a new ditty these days. It goes, "You may be honey to somebody but you are just a singlefoot to me."

WE read that Young Bob Fitzsimmons plans to retire as a fighter—Whaddamean as a fighter?

IF you insist on graduating from the college of hard knocks at least wear a head protector.

FIGURES are at hand to show that wrestlers live longer than fighters—This is just one of the little discouraging things about the present scheme of the world which we intend to change when we get around to it.

TEN RICKARD says he is willing to match Willie with the winner of the Dempsey-Tunney fight—So get ready, mates, for the big shot of pugdom along about July 1925.

WHAT'S wrong with this pitcher? moaned Mr. Connie Mack after a fashion of the popular advertisement, as he watched Ehmke get knocked out of the box.

WE suppose of the canned music people ever signed Charlie Paddock up the name of his first record would be nine and four-fifths.

Sets Record

ERICH HAGENLACHER
Ruler of the 1.2 ballline billiard room, who set a new record in his recent championship match with Welker Cochran, the German cent turned in an average of 79.29-34 for 34 innings in decisively defeating his challenger. Hagenlacher, it will be recalled, won the title from Jake Schaefer last winter.

Billy Evans Says

Form Reversals
FORM reversals are frequent in all forms of sport. When they occur, past performance counts for nothing.

Any critic at the opening of the season with the temerity to suggest that the New York Yankees would be 30 in front at the half-way mark, would have been adjudged the "prize nut" of the year.

Yet that is just where the Yankees are.

If some expert had made the prediction that the Giants would be trailing in the second division with the race half over, he would have been placed in the same class.

Yet that is just where the Giants are.

When I looked the teams over in the spring, the New York Giants looked like the class of the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates excepted.

It was much the same team that had won four straight pennants for McCraw, with far better reserve strength. Incidentally, it seemed as if Manager McCraw was certain to get much better pitching.

When I talked with the leader of the Giants he stressed that fact. I am sure he felt that he had a great chance to win.

Don't get the impression that the Giants are out of it. They are only a few games out of first place and coming fast.

However, in the early stages of the race the pitching failed the club and pennant hopes were badly shaken.

The world champions, Pittsburgh, had a somewhat similar experience, but the Pirates rallied more quickly and strongly after taking a number of wallops on the chin.

Thrilling Race
The early season setbacks encountered by Pittsburgh and New York have done much to provide the National League with a thrilling race.

In like manner, the sensational winning streak of the Cincinnati Reds and the unexpected strength shown by the Chicago Cubs have also helped to "jazz up" the situation.

With the teams at the half-way mark, six clubs in the National League still have a chance. Only Boston and Philadelphia appear to be out of it at this writing.

And, strangely enough, during the spring training games in the south the Boston Braves provided all the fireworks. Bancroft's club apparently left its winning habits in Florida.

If Cincinnati played anywhere as good on the road as at home that club would now be enjoying a comfortable lead. On the home lot the Reds have been practically invincible.

Anent Yankees
While two clubs, the Pirates and the Giants, stood out in the National League, making it appear as if the race would be a lopsided affair, just the reverse proved true.

On the other hand, the American League, which appeared to have no outstanding clubs, and four or five of nearly equal strength, has seen a runaway race for the Yankees so far.

For several weeks the Yankees have been from 20 to 25 games better than the 500 mark. It is a rather interesting fact that the margin now held by the club can be traced to two winning streaks.

On one occasion the Yankees won eight straight before being stopped, while the next winning streak didn't end until 16 victories had been recorded.

Those two winning streaks, totalling 24 games, are responsible for the lead now held by the New York club. The rest of the time it has merely played 500 ball.

Average Ball
A Margin of say 20 games better than the 500 mark with the race half over, makes a ball club feel mighty comfortable.

HUBBERS WIN TWO OUT OF THREE FROM LAMESA

Although outhit 11 to 9, the Hubbers made their hits mean runs here Sunday afternoon, and got away to a win of the third and last game of the series with Lamesa 6 to 5. But it took ten innings to turn the trick. The Hubbers scored early for a good lead, which was constantly threatened by the visitors, and three runs behind in the ninth, Kozelski, hustling first baseman of Lamesa, drove one over the right field fence scoring Rapadale ahead after one out had scored earlier in this inning, to knot the count.

Hudspeth, who had been hit rather freely, tightened in the tenth, shutting the visitors out three in a row, and Adams wicket of Jackson's grounder in the Hubbers' half of the tenth proved the undoing of his team. Jackson stole second, and scored with the winning run when Anderson drove a long one to right field that would have gone for two bases. It all happened after two men were out.

Hale, diminutive moundman for Lamesa, delivered a beautiful game for his club, keeping his hits well scattered, and striking out four Hubbers. Hudspeth, while hit a little more freely, drew five strikeouts. Both were given loose support at times.

Hamilton, on the receiving end of the battery in the absence of Skipper Fred Allen, caught a brilliant game, taking eight chances, seven putouts and one assist, without a bungle.

The Hubbers probably will now be idle for a week, awaiting the return of Lamesa here next Sunday, July 4, when they open a two game series, playing Sunday and Monday.

Suzanne Retires In Wimbledon Tourney

WIMBLEDON, England, June 28. (AP)—Suzanne Lenglen, French lawn tennis star, today scratched from the singles of the Wimbledon tournament.

Announcement of her withdrawal was made from the center court where she was to have played Miss Claire Cockburn, of England, for the right to enter the semi-finals. She expressed her regrets that she was unable to continue, but said she had done her best.

The final out of many a double play is the difference between a half step, a slight fraction of a second. The tossing of the ball by the fielder starting the play, rather than throwing it, is a common fault that is costly.

Slowness of the man covering the bag, thereby delaying the start of the play is another reason. Failure to get speed on the ball by the man finishing the play is a third fault that often loses the decision.

The famous double play combinations in baseball have always been players willing to take a chance. In making the play they work on the theory that the other member of the combination will be where he should be, thus a certain mechanical speed enters into the action, rather than making the play to suit the style of the fielder assisting.

Balance Hook Against Slice
Slicing has caused a lot of timid beginners to give up the game in disgust. It is most aggravating to play a routine of golf and slice nine out of 10 shots to the tall and uncultured grass. Slicing is caused by the face of the club cutting across the ball and starting it to spin from left to right. There are two ways that this can be done. One is the intentional slice made by the expert player who slices for a purpose and the other is the slice of the duffer who sends the hands in ahead of the club.
This is caused by poor pivoting. The player attempts to hit with his body

SECRETS OF STARS ON INSIDE BASEBALL

BY EDDIE COLLINS
A majority of the double plays made in baseball have second base as the pivot position.

There is no more important factor in the success of a winning team than its ability to make double plays. I do not believe I am exaggerating when I say that I believe more ball games are lost through failure to complete double plays, than through any other way.

The secret of all double plays made around second base lies in speed. That goes for every feature of the play, the speed of the fielder getting to the bag, the manner in which the ball is given to him by the fielder starting the play and the celerity with which the ball is gotten away for the second out.

THE NON-VOTERS DECIDE

There comes from Germany a striking illustration of the price that is paid by voters who stay away from the polls. By abstaining from casting a very simple ballot, the Germans permitted their former emperor, William II, and members of the Hohenzollern family to retain their wealth.

The referendum—first, by the way, under the republican constitution, showed almost three votes for confirming the imperial properties to one in favor of the royal family, but the vote for confiscation was about five millions short of being enough.

The negative vote had no relation to the result at all, the adoption of the measure depending on whether half the electorate—about 20 million—voted affirmatively. Fewer than 15,000,000 so voted, fully 60 per cent of the eligible voters staying away from the polls.

Here in America we often sleep while the professional politicians, gambling on our lack of interest in the ballot which should be so precious to us, "put things over" on us.

The German system of requiring half the electorate to bring about the transfer of Hohenzollern wealth, while a little strange to us in America, is based on the principle of rule by majority. It should have been enough to spur the lagging interest of even the most lackadaisical voters.

The incident should be a lesson to citizens of the United States. If we want a voice in the government of this country, we have to vote.

EXPLORING

Amundsen going to quit? What a pity. Perhaps his genius for following the untraveled path could be turned into channels requiring less physical activity. And a little more exploration might find the answer to these problems.

Why does your wife have the same thing for dinner you had for lunch downtown? Why is it moths almost never eat patches? And why is it the bands in the parade quit playing just before they arrive at the spot where you have waited their thrills?

Why? Why? A thousand irritating "why's" need investigating. Why is it plump people always sit on the side seats in the movies and make their more slender brethren squeeze past? Couldn't Amundsen do good work discovering the answers to these little daily exasperations?

"BUNK" IS RIGHT

Contrary to the opinion of a great many producers, the rottenness of a play does not necessarily insure its success. Witness the fate of "The Bank of 1926."

"The Bank" has shut up shop. Its scenery has gone to the warehouse and its girls, presumably, have gone home to put on their clothes. "The Bank" apparently had little to justify it as entertainment save its scantiness of costume. The New York play law had ordered it closed as detrimental to public morals, and this, the producers thought, would be bound to make the play a success. Any time the censors describe a play as immoral—well, you know the rest.

But this time something went wrong. "The Bank" remaining open under a temporary injunction, failed to gather the expected crowds and died a quick and easy death. Perhaps the producers will draw a moral from this.

HATS OFF

Hate off to the city commission in general and to the Streets and Alleys Commissioner R. W. Blair, in particular, for the recent improvement in the unimproved streets of Lubbock.

After an unavoidable delay in the erection of two graders, purchased for work on the streets and alleys, the grading work has been begun. With view and as a result, Lubbock's unimproved thoroughfares are in better condition now than they have been in years.

Of course the work has just been started and there is still plenty of room for additional improvements. But at any rate the work has been

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING UP and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, June 28.—Nothing will bring New York crowds to a dead stop as quickly as an exhibition of helplessness.

Once I saw the traffic of an entire block tied up and the street jammed black with humanity to watch a kitten which had wandered along the ties between two elevated platform stations. Its feeble "meow" somehow managed to be heard above the roar.

And the other day I saw a crowd of at least 500 jamming to gether in City Hall Park. Nothing unusual about that! A street fakir with a trick tin monkey could draw such a crowd in a few minutes during any noon hour.

But this wasn't the usual crowd of noon-time stenographers and call boys, men whose attire was that of the Wall Street broker's brand, young men and old, fakirs and organgrinders, city officials and job hunters—all types were gathered. And every now and then came a sympathetic squeal from some flapper hidden in the throng. I peered over the circle of heads and there, upon the green, flapped a fledgling sparrow, trying its hardest to fly while the mother bird screeched her terror.

Now, it is the mark of a New York crowd thus gathered, that while helplessness will draw their attention and hold them spellbound, they seldom do anything about it. They just stand and stare, as though each waited for the other to take the first step.

The crowd might have stood watching the fledgling to this very moment but for a small boy who had stood on the edge of the throng and had busied himself looking for signs of a nest. Finally he wriggled through the crowd, picked up the baby and, climbing to the nest, put the baby bird back.

Everyone watched this efficient, though common-sense, solution of the problem with the baffled expression of persons watching a miracle worker.

And yet, I'll wager, there were men in the crowd who find the perplexities of great financial deal a simple daily problem.

One of the outstanding characteristics of New York, it has often seemed to me, is its own utter helplessness in minor emergencies.

Which may account for the appeal made by a kitten on an elevated or a bird fluttering upon the ground.

The Very Idea! By Bill Cochran

YOUR STANDING

Sure, out among men you're a regular guy. They've tickled to have you around. They'll stop for a hand-shake and ne'er pass you by. They feel that a real friend they've found.

You're happy-go-lucky and hearty, well-loved. You've built yourself up on the hunch that you can hang on to the friends that you get by being just one of the bunch.

Then, after a while, you may grow to feel proud, to thinking your standing is high. You know you're a knockout when out with a crowd, and it's fun being that sort of guy.

But, say, after all, is it that end that counts? Though back-slapping wherever you roam, the real worthy standing a fellow needs mounts on the standing you have in your home.

Don't throw out your chest on the strength of your friends. But the best angle in life, your real rock foundation, old fellow, depends on your home, and your kids and your wife.

It seems foolish that you have to tell the man at the general delivery window your name, when it's printed right on the outside of any mail that's there for you.

Some things are hard to give up—but no one minds parting with a comb.

The trouble was, he'd worn his shoes for several years or so. He stepped upon a cigarette. And burned his little toe.

Rags make paper, paper makes money, money banks, banks make loans, loans make poverty, poverty makes rags—then ya start all over again.

No matter where he has been, a man can get home safely—if his wife doesn't wake up.

FABLES IN FACT

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Republican goes into the coming congressional election campaign to say the least anxious; democracy in an optimistic frame of mind.

Events of the last few months have played into the latter's hands. The administration's world court policy has not proved as popular as had been hoped. The western farmers evidently are in an ugly humor. Prohibition has turned out to be much more of an issue than had been expected and it promises to be embarrassing in spots. The Pennsylvania republican senatorial primary scandal has done the party no good.

The republican majority in the house of representatives is large enough to permit considerable losses and still remain a majority, but in the Senate it can be very easily wiped out.

The present session of Congress opened with 56 republican senators, 23 democrats and one farmer-laborite, but the unseating of Senator Brookhart in favor of Dan F. Steck changed the score to 55 republicans and 40 democrats.

Of the 25 senators who come up for re-election this year 26 are republicans and seven democrats.

The democrats, however, are respectively from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana and North and South Carolina, all safely democratic states, so that they are sure to succeed themselves or be succeeded by other democrats.

The republicans who go out of office, however, include senators from Arizona, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri and Oklahoma, which are normally democratic.

Also included in the republican column are Nevada and Utah, which are so far doubtful that each one is one democratic senator now.

Finally, there are, still in the republican list, the more or less doubtful states of Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, New York, Oklahoma and, because of the farm situation, Iowa. Even Massachusetts, presumably with the vigorous campaigner, ex-Senator David I. Walsh, running against the administration candidate, Senator William M. Butler, probably ought to go into the doubtful class.

Under such circumstances it will be extraordinary if the democrats fail to make considerable gains in the upper house.

Nor is that all. From the list of holdover republican senators must be deducted, La Follette and Norris, inasmuch as they oppose the administration on every imaginable issue.

Neither can Smith W. Brookhart, if elected from Iowa, be counted as a republican for administration purposes. If he loses, it will still be a republican loss, for the victor will be Claude Porter, democrat.

Senator Nye, likewise included at present among the republican 55, is another utterly uncontrollable insurgent, and if he comes back from North Dakota, he will not be even nominally republican, since he is making his present run as an independent.

Though the administration republican majority has been narrow even in this Congress, it has had mostly its own way, through the help of a group of conservative democrats, but in the 70th Congress it is unlikely this alliance can be held together, for the democrats will be "making medicine" for 1928.

Is it any wonder, all things considered, that the "regular" republican leaders are pretty openly worried and that the democrats are filled with hope?

Helpful Health Hints By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING Director General U. S. Public Health Survey

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of four articles on the benefit of public health work.

Nothing like a complete story of the benefits of public health work can be told in a short series of brief articles. The most that is hoped is to awaken such an interest in important such a conviction as will lead to the pursuit of this subject in some of the many excellent books on health topics that are now available, including publications issued by the government.

These articles are written for the layman and if one may judge from the number of persons in hospitals, insane asylums, and other institutions, who are there as a result of disease which could have been prevented, one may be pardoned for observing that in spite of our rapid progress in the healing and prevention of disease, the broad fundamental principles underlying this work are not clearly perceived by the masses and by many of those who make our laws.

The human mind is readily and forcibly impressed by positive experiences, particularly by unpleasant or painful experiences.

The infant, for example, learns some very simple but valuable lessons by lumping its head, burning its fingers, or putting wrong things into its mouth.

The ever watchful parent tries to make these lessons as mild and painless as possible, and to obviate the necessity for this natural mode of instruction by guarding the child against such accidents until its mind, its sensibilities, its wide consciousness, and its power of observation have developed sufficiently to enable it to protect itself without paying the heavier penalties of experience.

What the parent is to the child the skillful physician is to the untrained man or woman and the lesson it is desired to inculcate today is that while it is desirable that one should learn everything possible about his body and his health, his course of instruction must be scientifically guided.

It must be remembered that the layman's knowledge of actual disease process and their treatment can never be profound.

Notwithstanding this fact, any intelligent person can, by reasonable effort learn the essentials of the application of measures for the prevention of disease.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

A JEWEL THAT IS DISCOVERED IN THE MUD BY ARTHUR N. PACK President, The American Nature Association

By the muddy margin of pond or brook, or in the rich soil of the shaded woodland, grows the jewel weed, with its smooth etched leaves of the most delicate of greens, and its yellow or orange blossoms.

Drops of dew or rain stand in rounded globules on its leaves, and some think that this feature has given the plant its name.

The drinking man is handicapped. His drinks cost as much he hasn't any money left for campaign expenses.

A big fish may have pulled a man out of a boat in Rhinelander, Wisconsin. Anyway he claims it did.

Fame is a fleeting thing. In New York students were found using Grant's Tomb as a handball court.

With Our Contemporaries

RIGHT IDEA We've preached all along the value of investing in real estate; we are still of the belief that no man in Littlefield can make a mistake in owning a piece of mother earth. Now we are going to offer proof that it pays by pointing out that just 49 years ago Uncle Sam bought Alaska for exactly $7,200,000. Last year this country's total revenue from Alaska amounted to $71,042,882, or just $23,824,862 more in one single year than the whole territory originally cost. In the 49 years he has owned Alaska Uncle Sam's cash profit from the investment has been over $60,000,000. Of course you can't buy in Alaska, and you can't clean up but a big profit anywhere in the United States. But you can invest a small amount and make as much in proportion—and you won't have to buy outside of your home county to do it.—Lamb County Leader.

CLEANLINESS A stranger in a town usually judges that town by its outward appearance, and some kind of an impression is made immediately on his mind as to the kind of town it is. First impressions are said to be lasting impressions. Therefore, if for no other reason, we citizens of Taboka should get busy and clean out a patch of these weeds that are growing up in wholesale lots on our streets, in our alleys, and on the vacant lots. Within the last few days many people have seen Taboka, probably for the first time.—Lynn County News.

WEST TEXAS SPIRIT The biggest convention in the history of Texas was pulled off in the biggest city in Texas—Amarillo. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce held its annual convention there this week. It was the biggest convention that the W. T. C. C. has ever held in Texas. It may perhaps be the biggest that will ever take place. These conventions have come to be the annual jollification of business men and women of Texas. Its main scope of usefulness has always been to encourage the West Texas spirit.—Slaton Times.

FIGURATIVELY Every American born lad may have a chance to become president of the United States, but he has a mighty slim chance of ever becoming a United States senator at least from Pennsylvania. Latest figures show that the senatorial togs of that state cost over a million dollars. But what we don't understand is why a man with a million dollars wants to be bothered with an office.—Gainesville Register.

A THOUGHT

This poor widow hath cost more in than all they which have cast into the treasury.—Mark 12:43.

A rich man without charity is a rogue, and perhaps it would be so difficult matter to prove that he also is a fool.—Fielding.

Journal Jobs The man who is a friend of everybody isn't as likely to be a real friend of anybody as he is to be a candidate for something at the next primary election.

People seldom succeed who spend half their time talking about what they are going to do, and the other half explaining why they didn't.

It is a great deal more satisfactory to do good and beautiful things yourself than just to see other folks doing them.

Hope is merely the dream that some happy hour of the past will come again.

If folks could just form the habit of looking on the bright side and refrain from getting fussed up about things, they would have better health and a better time generally.

The world never gives a man credit for anything until he succeeds at something, and then it gives him a lot more than he deserves.

Primarily For Commercial Use The Dallas to Lubbock line would be primarily for commercial use, such as passenger and express traffic, but later, if an agreement could be reached with Postal authorities, the service would be extended to include all classes of mail.

Mr. Erwin holds quite a record of accomplishments with the American air forces during the war. He was Commandant over the First American Air Squadron that saw action in France, and is credited with eleven German planes during his service to place him as third American ace.

A decision on the part of chamber of commerce and city officials in connection with Capt. Erwin's proposition is expected within a few days. The directors of the Board of City Development probably will take up the matter tomorrow.

Lubbock Delegation To Go To Post City

The delegation from Lubbock to attend the dedication Jubilee program of the C. W. Post Memorial Boy Scout camp, held at Post Tuesday, will leave from in front of the City Hall at seven thirty a. m., according to C. L. Adams, chairman of the Lubbock group.

Not only is it the duty of every man in Lubbock to attend, Mr. Adams says, but it is an opportunity. An excellent program of the day has been arranged, including such speakers as Phoebe K. Warner, Amos G. Carter of Fort Worth, J. P. Fitch, regional executive, and E. E. Voss, Houston, deputy executive. W. S. Barcus, of Sweetwater; W. H. Hedson, of Lubbock; Minor Huffman, Rowell; Tom Nelson, Amarillo; and many others of

Three Watches In Loot Here Claimed

Individuals from various places over the state continue to lay claim by identifying, both over telephone, telegraph, and in person, certain pieces of the $3,000 loot taken by members of the sheriff's department from the home of J. M. Pickett and Albert Gallimore, alleged members of a thieving gang that has been operating in this part of the state during the past several weeks. Three watches were redeemed Sunday.

Dr. Williams, of Post; Miss Mary Stevall, of Spar; and J. V. Eakes, of Jayton, each claimed a watch from the more than two dozen taken in the raid, and interested persons continue to besiege the office of Bud Johnston here seeking to identify articles lost by them. 27 watches, and various other pieces of jewelry, including pearl necklaces, diamond bar pins, etc., were taken in the two raids last Thursday and Saturday.

Honey Withdraws From Sheriff's Race

Dexter Honey, well known South Plains citizen, who has been making an active campaign in Lubbock county for sheriff, announced here Monday that he has withdrawn from the race, and will devote his time to his job as city policeman, and to his personal business dealings.

Mr. Honey gave as his reason for the withdrawal that he felt his personal affairs would not permit him assuming the duties of sheriff, and give to the office the time that he believes it deserves. While he said he believed he had an excellent chance for election, if he continued in the race he believed that it is best, both for himself, his city and county, that he withdraw.

Rail Merger Effects Two Roads in Texas

SAN ANTONIO, June 28. (AP)—A merger of the Cotton Belt Railroad and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, was announced Monday by J. P. Lehane, vice president of the Cotton Belt upon his arrival in San Antonio.

The merger will be financial and not physical and it will not interfere with the competitive bid for Texas business, Mr. Lehane said.

Both the Katy and the Cotton Belt run a four-day fast freight out of St. Louis daily for Texas, the Cotton Belt joining the Southern Pacific at Corsicana.

When asked if the San Antonio Southern and Texas Mexico would come under the new organization, Mr. Lehane said that he knew nothing of it if it were contemplated.

ENTIRE TOWN IS WIPED OUT WHEN QUAKE DESCENDS

MEAGER DETAILS ISSUED FROM SOUTH EUROPE TELL TRAGEDY

(By Associated Press.) ROME, June 28.—The village of Arkhangelo was wiped out and several other towns on the island of Rhodes were seriously damaged in Saturday's earthquake which was felt throughout the Mediterranean.

As far as known, only one person was killed. Several were injured. More loss of life was prevented by the flight of the panic stricken population as soon as the first intimation of the approach of the dreaded earth tremor was felt.

Details Are Meagre. LONDON, June 28. (AP)—Meagre details were available today regarding casualties in a severe earthquake, or a series of quakes which shook the Mediterranean country Sunday evening.

In view of reports of the collapse of thousands of buildings, it would seem probable that casualties were numerous. Advances from Rome are that more than 2,000 houses on the island of Rhodes in the Aegean Sea were rased and that the villages of Arkhangelo, Arntina, Apolichia and Monolitho, suffered, severely.

The center of the disturbance was in or near the Cyclades or Crete. The shocks are thought possibly to have been due to the sudden activity of a volcano on the Greek island of Santorin. The archaeological museum at Candia, Crete, containing many antiquities, was wrecked.

Communications Broken. At Athens, communications apparently were broken by the shocks.

The quake shook Northern Egypt severely, causing great alarm at Alexandria, Port Said, Cairo and Ismailia. Some advices are that many buildings were thrown down while others had their walls cracked. Few casualties have been reported from these places. There were several fatalities in the Egyptian countryside. Palestine, including Jerusalem, was shaken, but no damage or casualties have been recorded. According to late reports from Rome, 2,000 houses collapsed in four villages of the Province of Foggia. Nothing was said in the dispatch about casualties.
