Four Americans Seized By Red 'People's Police'

Lauds New, Fair Deals . . .

President Assails 'Special Interests'

BULL SHOALS DAM, Ark. (AP) — President Truman, in a sharp reply to Southern critics of his administration, declared today "the New Deal and the Fair Deal have done more for the South" than any other administrations in history.

The Prsident dedicated two hydro - electric dams as "symbols of the progress that has come to the South" under his administration and that of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Truman omitted any direct refrence in his prepared speech to the bitterly controversial civil rights proposals which split the Democratic party in 1948 and cost him four Southern states in the election that year.

But he said the South's "whole economic and social pattern has changed — rapidly and permanently — for the better" and that this was no accident. He added:

"We took action to bring about fair incomes and equality of opportunity for everyone.

"We took action to put natural resources to work for the good of all the people."

Truman's speech was reminiscent of his "give 'em hell" campaign of 1948. He ridiculed "pullbacks" and "reactionaries" and assailed the "special interests."

Among "special interests" he named the private power companies, the American Medical Association and the "real estate lobby." He declared they have adopted the "lying slogan" of socialism in fighting every "Fair Deal" suggestion.

The President said the Arkansas Power and Light Company and the Southwestern Gas and Electric Company had made a great hullabaloo against the two dams he dedicated. Saying the dams were attacked as a "method towards socialization of the electric industry," Truman declared:

"The American Medical Association uses this same slogan in its fight against better health and hospital services for the common man.

Sam Rayburn, Russell Win Texans' Favor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga) look like the first ballot favorites of Texas' two rival delegations to the Democratic National Convention.

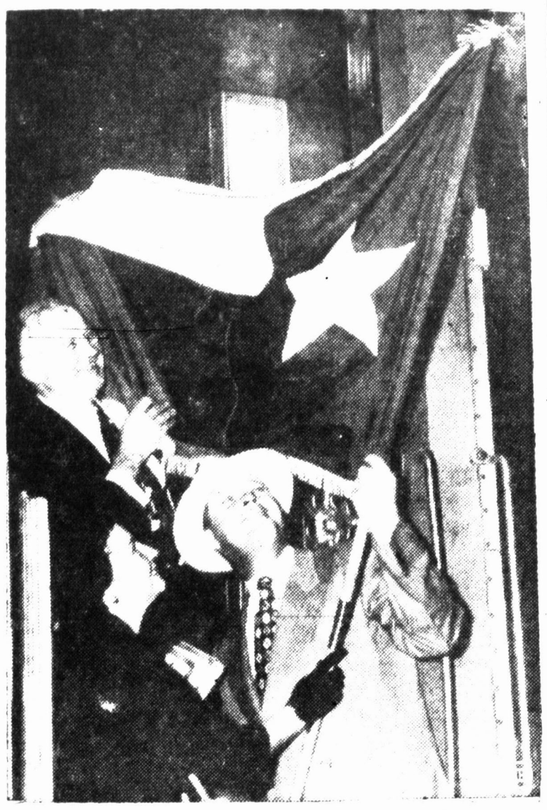

An Associated Press poll established Rayburn, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) as the favorites of the liberal or "Loyal Democrat" delegates who responded.

The competing conservative or "regular" delegation headed by Gov. Allan Shivers showed highest regard for Russell, Shivers, and then split toward Sen. Robert S. Keer (D-Okla), Stevenson, Rayburn, Kefauver, Sen. Harry F. Bryd (D-Va) and others as later choices.

Actually it was more than a poll of the big 52-vote delegation, sixth largest headed for the floor of the Chicago convention July 21. It was a personal letter check of 124 individual district or delegates-at-large selected by two separate conventions.

Replies were received from delegates representing 36 votes of the conservative camp headed by Gov. Shivers. From the liberal side, whose chief strategist at Chicago is expected to be former New Deal Congressman Maury Maverick of San Antonio, there were 34 replies.

Shivers delegation — instructed to fight for states rights platform planks and oppose federal FEPC made Russell a heavy 22 1-2 vote first-ballot favorite. Shivers, who vows he is not and will not be a candidate, got 10 1-2 first choices.

Banner Leaves Pampa; Winds Up In Chicago

Ex-congressman Ben Guill strode out of Pampa's Chamber of Commerce office Saturday morning with a Lone Star flag tucked under his arm. And nobody stopped him.

The flag — and Guill — appeared Sunday in Chicago all set to do battle for the candidacy of Eisenhower at the Republican National convention.

With the willing connivance of E. O. (Red) Wedgeworth, C of C manager, Guill latched on to the flag which was mounted in the City Hall office. The flag is the one used each year at Pampa's Top o' Texas Rodeo.

The Chamber of Commerce is non-partisan in matters political, but Wedgeworth figured that Pampans would not mind too much if their Texas flag were ballyhooed a bit at the convention — even a Republican convention.

Another flag has been acquired to take the place of the one now in the Windy City.

Taft-Ike Fight Tears Into Bare-Knuckles Stage Today

CHICAGO (AP) — The Taft-Eisenhower fight tore into the bare-knuckles stage today.

And though it could be different next week, when the Republican National Convention gets down to the business of actually naming a presidential candidate, Sen. Robert A. Taft appeared to have the political muscle to forge ahead on points in the pre-convention struggle.

Currently he led Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, his principal rival, 474 to 410 in the Associated Press tabulation. That count is based on delegates pledged, instructed or willing to express a preference, as well as on candidate concessions. It takes 604 votes to win the nomination.

Today's round in the battle for more delegates was a fight in the dark so far as those who had hoped to watch on television or hear on the radio were concerned.

TV and newsreel cameras, radio microphones and even news cameras were barred as the GOP National Committee called its members into session with Georgia on its mind.

It was up to th 105-member committee to decide between the claims of two delegations who wanted to vote on behalf of Georgia Republicans at the convention.

One is solid—would cast all Georgia's 17 votes for Taft.

The other numbers 14 supporters of Eisenhower, two of Taft, one uncommitted to either.

Supposedly, only four of the 17 delegates are in question. The national committee tossed the other 13 disputed votes back to the state for decision.

But the head of the pro-Taft delegation, Roscoe Pickett Jr., told a reporter he would try to get all 17 of his people seated in view of a Georgia Superior Court decision last Monday ruling his organization the only legal Republican party in Georgia.

Pickett's opposition, headed by W. R. Tucker, countered with another part of that same decision: "This opinion has nothing to do with delegates. . . ."

And it is the Eisenhower camp which was told by the national committee previously to settle the status of 13 of the 17 delegates.

Once Georgia was disposed of, the committee had to tackle contests between Eisenhower and Taft backers in ansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Mssour and Texas. Texas was the bggest—38 delegates at stake. It may not get committee action before Thursday or Friday.

Russ Charged In Massacre Of 15,000

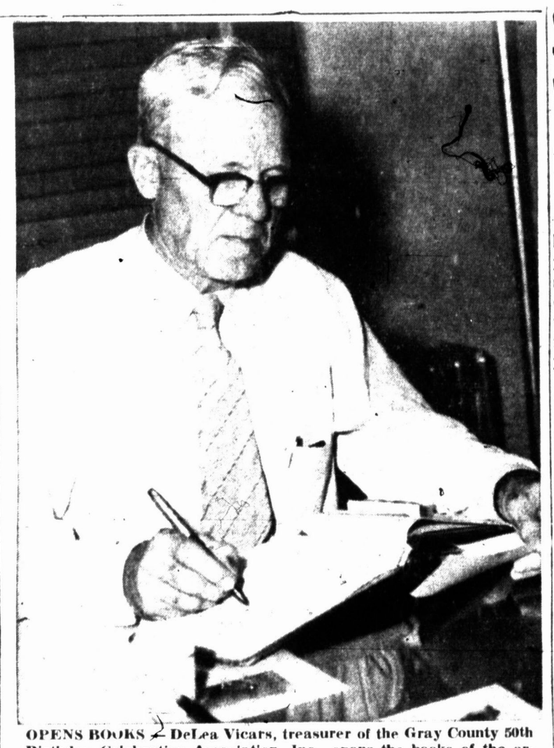

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A congressional committee officially charged Russia today with killing 15,000 Polish officers 12 years ago and said the massacre "may well have been a blueprint for Korea."

The committee reported to the House on a six months' investigation into the murder of Polish officers in Katyn Forest, Western Russia, in the spring of 1940. The report urged that the findings be forwarded to the United Nations for appropriate action against the Russians in the U.N. General Assembly and before the Forld Court. It also recommended that the President instruct the United States delegation to seek the creation of an international commission to investigate "other mass murders and crimes against humanity."

Chairman Madden (D-Ind) of the special investigating committee told a press conference that Congress' next session "should seriously consider" a similar probe into atrocities against Allied troops in Korea.

The committee reported "striking similarity between what happened to the Polish officers in Katyn and the events now taking place in Korea." The group heard 81 witnesses in this country and Europe and studied deposition from one hundred others on the Katyn episode.

"We unanimously agree that this committee would be remiss in its duty to the American people and the free people of the world," the report said, "if it failed to point out that the identical evasions by the Soviets to Polish government while the Poles were searchng for their 15,000 missing officers in 1941, appear again in the delaying tactics now being used by the Communists in Korea."

Sightseers Whisked Into Russian Zone

BERLIN (AP) — Gun brandishing Communist 'people's police' arrested four sightseeing Americans, including a chaplain and a woman, today and whisked them into the Soviet-occupied East zone of Berlin.

West German police reported that the incident occurred at Dueppel, where the Ameican zone residenual suburb of Zehlendorf borders the Russian zone.

The police said a Russian officer and East zone police, armed with carbines, rushed the American's car when it stopped at the border and the occupants begin taking photographs.

The police said the Communists entered the American car and forced it across the border.

Eye-witnesses reported that the car had American license plates, showing that it was registered in West Germany, not in Berlin. This indicated that the abducted Americans were visitors to the city and possibly not familiar with the ticklish border question.

The West police said that at the spot where the incident occurred the boundary between the American sector and the surrounding Soviet zone is marked by iron spikes in the road. They said the Americans drove past these right up to the red and white barrier pole across the road at the Russian check point.

The Americans were held about 20 minutes at the check point and then taken off to the Soviet military post at nearby Machnow.

American military authorities contacted the Russians and asked the return of the four persons. Their names were not immediately learned.

Former Pampan Hurt In Accident

Lt. Milton Jobert, former manager of a local dress shop, was injured in a car-truck collision near Oklahoma City on U. S. Highway 62 recently.

Jobert's mother was killed instantly in the accident and his wife was reported to be in critical condition at an Oklahoma City hospital. Jobert suffered a concussion and a broken leg.

A resident of Pampa for a year prior to his recall into the Air Force, Jobert was serving as a first lieutenant in Tucson, Ariz. He is on a 30-day leave prior to reporting for overseas duty.

Plumbing Code Is Revised

The city commission late yesterday afternoon passed the revised plumbing ordinance, bringing it up to date, on its third and final reading.

Because of several language changes in the ordinance, the commission had to throw out the first two readings, that had previously passed and pass it on an "emergency basis" on three readings yesterday.

Convening at 2 p.m. the lengthy ordinance was read in relays by City Attorney Bob Gordon and Fred Brook of the city engineering department. It took almost three hours of steady reading with several breaks for correcting typographical errors, before the commission could act.

The ordinance really went modern on it when it refesred to TV aerials not being permitted to be anchored on to ven stacks.

The new ordinance, which goes into effect 10 days after its second official publication in the legal advertising columns of The Pampa Daily News, also prohibits building of open-pit toilets in back yards and makes it mandatory for home owners, or other property owners, to tie on to sewer lines where such lines are within 100 feet of a house. If they are more than 100 feet from a house, an outside toilet may be erected, but it must be built over a septic tank and such construction must be done vison and direction.
by a plumber or under his super-

The ordinance also has many mechanical changes over the old code. It was rewritten from ordinances of 11 Texas cities including Abilene, Lubbock, Plainview, Amarillo, Borger, Lamesa and others. Pampa master plumbers were also called in to advise the commission in drawing up the revised code.

Police Promise Crack-Down On 'Cracker Throwers

Police are going to crack down on anybody caught throwing lighted firecrackers within the city limits.

Police Chief Jim Conner issued a stern warning today saying that this tossing of firecrackers from automobiles must cease.

Conner has given orders to all city policemen to pick up anybody who violates the city ordinance prohibiting the selling or shooting of firecrackers inside the city limits.

All people 17 and older will be automatically fined, he said, and all those younger than 17 will be sent over to see Bruce Parker, county judge.

If for no other reason the chief asserted, Pampans should desist from the dangerous practice by considering the moral indecency of endangering the public welfare.

Pampans should use their heads in this matter, but if they don't, the police will do it for them.

FBI Seeking Mystery Cave

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Secrecy surrounded a search today for a mystery cave where a laborer said he was forced to work 13 nights loading trucks guarded by men with machine guns.

The case was turned over to the FBI.

A check by El Paso Times indicated the cave may be located in the wild Big Bend border area near Terlingua, Tex. Terlingua is 85 miles south of Alpine, Tex., in the center of a quicksilver mining area.

Margarito Perez, 40, told police he was held for 13 nights in a cave. He said he handled heavy cylinders shaped like milk bottles. Quicksilver, which is used in making explosives, is packed in heavy metal flasks of this description.

Speculation was that Mexicans might be moving quicksilver across the Rio Grande to make explosives for a possible insurrection. Election day for a Mexican President is Sunday.

$6500 Opens Drive For Celebration

Three checks totalling $6,500 started the ball rolling this morning on a drive for $15,000 to finance the Gray County 50th Birthday Celebration scheduled for October 12-14 in Pampa.

M. K. Brown, general chairman of the celebration association and head of the finance committee, gave a check for $5,000; the White Deer Land Company gave $1,000 and the First National Bank, $500.

The $15,000 goal was set at a meeting of the finance committee yesterday when members took cards to contact prospective supporters of the drive.

At the completion of the drive, in about 10 days, the steering committee will set up plans and work committees for the celebration.

Present for yesterday's meeting were Brown, Ivy Duncan, Tex Evans, J. E. Murfee Jr., R. H. Nensteil, Charles Duenkel, C. P. Buckler, Billy Davis, DeLea Vicars and E. L. Green Jr.

Empire Southern Is 'Asked' To Quit Selling Appliances

Empire Southern Gas Co. last night was politely "asked" by local appliance dealers to keep its nose out of the retail appliance field and tend to its own knitting of supplying gas only.

The dealers, meeting in the county court room, accused the utility of practicing unfair trade and violating its franchise by competing with them in the sale of appliances under terms a dealer cannot meet.

Erwin Thompson, manager of the utility, said Empire Southern entered the retail field only to promote the sale of gas appliances and help the dealers "with the ultimate aim of increasing the gas load."

Terming a franchise a "legal monopoly," Paul Crossman, who spearheaded the move, said the gas company is working against "the boys who live here and who actually make such franchises possible."

Crossman added that the utility can sell appliances at prices and on terms the regular dealers cannot meet. "We are asking that you please consider us and get back to selling gas only," he said.

The group of 15 dealers and plumbers backed Crossman up, saying thy were against monopolies — or utilities — competing with local merchants on tmess they could not meet.

Air Force Tells How To Dip Ice Cream

WASHINGTON (AP) — Play bingo. . .sell sandwiches. . . watch the beer tap closely. . . dip the ice cream deftly.

Those hints, the Air Force advised today, are a few ways clubs on military posts can make a profit without slot machines.

The clubs have had a tough time keeping out of the red and maintaing low prices since the "one armed bandits" were banned from federal property a year and a half ago.

The suggestions were detailed in a letter signed by Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, acting Air Force chief of staff and being sent to Air Force officers, messes and noncommissioned and enlisted men's clubs around the world.

The letter said operation of bowling alleys, nurseries, golf courses, guests' quarters "and so forth, is desirable but not essential."

Bingo was pointed up as an entertainment that not only can be self-supporting but can turn a neat profit. The Air Force recommended charging $1 a card before intermission, less afterward.

A 20-minute intermission was described as "a stimulant for bar sales."

And the letter said sandwich business is profitable "because of fast customer turnover and low percentage waste." It also suggested:

"Potato salad or cole slaw ed on the same plate with the sandwich at an additional charge of 5 cents or 10 cents is a profitable item and advisable."

The Air Force advised dispassionately that "drawing a glass of beer properly is an art that can be mastered," as follows:

1. Open the tap handle completely and allow the beer to flow until the glass is two-thirds full.
2. Close the top.
3. Allow the beer to settle and then repeat the process until the beer barely flows over the glass.
4. Remove excess foam from the top with a scraper. "Do not attempt to draw beer by opening the tap part of the way. This method causes excess foam."

The letter said the most common loss on a soda fountain is caused by incorrect dipping of ice cream.

"A gallon of ice cream should produce 58 to 62 dips using a No. 30 dipper; 47 to 51 dips using a No. 24 dipper, and 38 to 42 dips using a No. 20 dipper," the letter said.

It recommended the way to dip ice cream is as follows:

"1. Keep the ice cream dipper in clean water, running if possible, shaking surplus water off dipper before dipping ice cream.

"2. Grasp the dipper in the right hand with fingers around the metal shank, thumb braced on the gear cover.

"3. Keep the wrist stiff. Draw the dipper around and across surface of the ice cream. This keeps the top of the ice cream level in the can. Never dip into

"4. Draw the dipper upward center or sides of the can. along the side of the can to cut off any surplus ice cream.

"5. To release the ice cream from the dipper, retain the firm grip with the fingers and press the release lever with the thumb.

"6. Use ice cream spade if necessary to punch ice cream from sides of can. This will prevent crystalization."

The Air Force said a must for bingo is a good master of ceremonies who can ke p the crowd interested in the game.

"Small door prizes must be given between games," the letter said. "One suggestion is prizes to those holding certain selected serial numbers of bingo cards."

Accused Spy Pleads Innocent

LONDON (AP) — William Martin Marshall, 24-year-old Foreign Officer radio operator, pleaded innocent today to charges of slipping state secrets to a Russian diplomat. His trial was set for July 9.

The tall, sallow-faced Marshall entered his plea at a brief hearing in the Central Criminal Court, London's famous Old Bailey.

He was accused on five counts. Three charged him with giving information "useful to an enemy" about the British diplomatic wireless service.

The fourth accused him of obtaining such information and the fifth of recording similar state secrets.

Marshall was arrested June 13 in company with Kuznetsov. The Soviet diplomat was released on grounds of diplomatic immunity.

Be On The Lookout For The Triplecross

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written For NEA Service

Every good player expects a smart opponent to try a double-cross now and then, but hardly anybody is ready for a triplecross. The difference is illustrated in today's hand.

West opened the five of spades against South's modest contract. Declarer unhesitatingly played the ace from dummy, and East just as unhesitatingly dropped the singleton king. South pursed his lips and nodded, as he worked out the fact that West had led from a five-card spade holding.

After some thought, declarer ran his four clubs at once. West discarded a spade on the fourth club, and South pursed his lips again. He now knew that West had begun with eight black cards and only five red cards.

South continued by laying down the ace of hearts and leading a low heart to dummy. On the second round of hearts West produced the queen.

South's first impression was that West had started with only two hearts, and that he therefore had exactly three diamonds. If the diamonds were 3-3, of course, the rest of the hand would be easy.

It cost nothing to lead the jack of hearts from dummy before beginning the diamonds, and declarer then discovered that West still had a heart. This meant that West had stared the hand with only two diamonds. Hence East held four diamonds.

It seemed perfectly clear to declarer. West had tried a double-cross by playing the queen of hearts in the attempt to confuse the count. Apparently West wanted to produce the impression that no diamond finesse was necessary.

Now that South had the true count of the diamonds, he knew that East had four diamonds. He also had reason to believe that West wanted to prevent a finesse. It all led to the conclusion that East had four diamonds to the jack.

So South led dummy's singleton Down three! West took the jack of diamonds and took two spade tricks from the dummy.

West's triplecross was based on the fact that he could be sure declarer would cash dummy's jack of hearts and thus discover the doublecross. It was obvious the South needed at least five diamond tricks for the grand slam, so the jack of diamonds was clearly the key to the hand.

The plot wouldn't have worked against a bad player, of course, but West knew exactly how South's mind would work.

Guests Not Disturbed As Two Holdup Cafe

DALLAS (AP) — Without disturbing 100 diners, two young men robbed Wyatt cafeteria of $1,000 last night.

The bandits ate dinner, then casually walked to the cashier's counter. One lounged on the counter and held a pistol on Assistant Manager Jesse L. Evans.

At the nearest table, five feet away, a group chattered without noticing the robbery. The men fled in an automobile.

that the utility was interested only in promoting gas appliance sales, Rod McDonald suggested the utility rent him floor space and take a 10 per cent cut on every gas appliance he sells out of its offices. Other suggestions were also made along the same line, with slight variations in ideas, but Thompson answered only that he did not have the last word in such decisions and that the utility was using the profits on retail sales to buy advertising promoting gas appliance dealers in Pampa.

W. E. Ballard, a former city commissioner, told Thompson, "what a utility always needs is good will and Empire is losing it by hurting its best friends — the gas appliance dealers."

Ballard referred to an incident he said happened in Shamrock when a utility there told its salesman to sell at wholesale price for four months saying, "and then we can control the appliance business." He added, "we don't want that to happen here."

A petition to be presented the utility and the city commission, protesting the utility's action was signed by several of the dealers. Crossman indicated others would sign it before it was delivered to the city commission and the utility.

Thompson said the gas company was selling only refrigerators and ranges and was immediately asked by Bert Howell where such expansion would end "would it eventually take on other appliances such as forced air heaters?"

The meeting adjourned without one harsh word spoken from the time it started two and a half hours earlier.

contest and abide by the decision of judges in naming the northwest field.

"I think it's a mighty fine idea and I'm for it," Commissioner Bill Graham said.

"The airport is the taxpayers' property and I think they should all take a crack at trying to name it," Judge Bruce Parker added.

"You bet it is," snapped Commissioner William Ernest Beck of McLean, "I want to see people take an interest in the county's improvements. It's a good thing, let's do it."

The commission then discussed who they would name as a judge to represent the commissioners court and late yesterday afternoon named Sheriff R. H. "Rufe" Jordan.

This afternoon the Aviation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will also name a judge and later The Pampa News will name the third member of the "tribunal."

So far no deadline has been set for entries to be submitted. But, don't wait for that, send your entry into The News' office beginning now.

Albuquerque Citizens Given New Addresses

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Everyone in Albuquerque is living at a new address today.

The city has grown from 35,449 to 120,000 in 12 years and there's been a lot of hit-or-miss street naming. So the City Planning Commission divided the city into four uarters, changed names here, eliminated names there. The plan went into effect today.

Taft Backers Send Briefs To Delegates

Texas Taft backers this week mailed out copies of an 84-page brief to all delegates and alternate delegates of the "Regular Republican Organization of Texas" and newspapers, covering the state convention fight in Mineral Wells on May 27.

The brief, prepared by four attorneys retained by the Taft group, is a concise report of the evidence to be presented in Chicago to the National Republican Committee in the battle for seating at the national Republican convention.

The brief contains affidavits, statements, newspaper advertisements, and pictures purporting to expose a campaign of "fraud and vilification" practiced by the Eisenhower backers of Texas.

In a statement, accompanying the brief, Henry Zweifel, national Republican committeman from Texas said:

"It contains—the brief—many stories of violence, mob-rule, intimidation, and the illegal procedures of the Porter - Lane (Jack Porter and Alvin Lane) group as told by scores of witnesses."

Zweifel called newspapers' attention to two points he said were missed by them in reporting the convention.

They are:

1. The "Regular Republican" delegation was elected by the state convention by a roll call vote of the UNCONTESTED delegates of 319 to 197; and by a roll call vote of all delegates of 764 to 222.

Frank E. Bailey Services Thursday

Funeral services for Frank E. Bailey will be conducted at 4 p.m. Thursday in the First Methodist Church with Rev. C. H. Bumpers, minister of visitation, officiating.

Bailey, a resident of Pampa for 25 years, died yesterday morning of a heart attack at his home, 436 N. Warren. He was retired from the employment of the Phillips Petroleum Company.

Pallbearers for the funeral will be Ralph O'Dell, Dewey Voyles, Earl Cloud, Farrell Heard, Al Jennings and Walter Hyatt.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery with Duenkel-Carmichael in charge.

Five To City Court

Five people appeared before Corporation Judge Cliff Braly this morning.

C. E. Dalton and Charles S. Schafer were fined $10 on a charge of intoxication. Wayne E. McPherson and John Carl Forsman paid $10 apiece, charged with affray. David L. Austin's double - parking charge cost him $2.

Banquet Fetes Cabot Group

N. Dudley Steele, assistant production superintendent, told a group of the Cabot Companies' nonsupervisory personnel last night at the Pampa Country Club why some of Cabot's activity was being curtailed.

The occasion was a banquet to honor 31 nonsupervisory employes who successfully completed Cabot's Job Relations Training course which Horace S. Prince conducted.

Steele said that the reasons for shutting down there plants were purely economic. The stepped-up development of the synthetic rubber business during World War II has caused a decline in the need for carbon black. The three plants are Bowers, Kingsmill and Guymon (Guymon, Okla.).

Awards of the JRT certificate went to Sam Krouse, J. Russell Abbott, Forrest Gibbs, "Deacon" Freddie Jones, W. A. Boyd, Alfred J. Overton, G. Clay Crossland, Don Haynes, Charles A. Morgan, Johnnie W. Meadows, Thomas J. Word, Clarence C. Teague Jr., J. D. McLeon, L. M. Scribner, all of the Mills' plant; Boyd Moore, Homer R. Snider, Jimmie C. Blassingame, Jim Butcher, J. L. Sewell, C. D. Malone, Joe F. Gaberiel, Jessie J. Alexander, Bob Daves, S. A. Tinsley, R. O. Johnson and T. W. Watson, all of the Bowers plant; L. D. Staggs of Schafer "A"; Harold Hink, Leonard Hollis, Marvin L. Gray, and C. W. Couch, all of Schafer "B".

Guests at the affair included E. Roy Smith, publisher of the Pampa Daily News; Don Conley, director of Cabot's safety department; H. H. Hahn, of the production department; and Sam Coco.

Irv Akst entertained with special organ music. M. C. duties were handled by Jimmy McCune, assistant director of the industrial relations department.

Malik Strikes On Poison Gas Hearing

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Russia's Jacob A. Malik began a sitdown strike, today against debate on U.S. demands for an impartial inquiry into Communist charges of germ warfare in Korea.

But the Soviet delegate to the Security Council promised he would veto the American proposal when it comes to a council vote.

Calling his new tactic non-participation, Malik told the council yesterday he would not speak during debate on the U.S. demand, but would block the American - proposed investigation with his big-power veto.

The council was to continue discussion of the germ warfare question this afternoon.

By not walking out — as he has done in the past — Malik will be around to vote and veto.

Fourth Polio Case Positive Diagnosis

A fourth case of polio for the area has been definitely diagnosed and is being treated at Highland General Hospital.

Nathaniel Andrews, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Velodie Andrews, 712 S. Somerville, is being treated for a mild case of the disease.

Donald Brittain, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brittain, 121 N. Sumner, was dismissed from the hospital yesterday for a week's recuperation after which he will being taking therapeutic treatment from a nearby polio clinic. Mrs. Brittain reported her son to be impoving rapidly today. His treatments will be for artial paralysis in his legs.

Another case, baby Eddie Jo Brown, was dismissed from the hospital Saturday after a mild attack of the disease.

Sister Of Pampan Dies In Wellington

A sister of Millard Brewer, Pampa, has died of heart attack in Wellington, it was reported today.

Mrs. Henry Vaughan passed away Sunday night in St. Joseph's Hospital, Wellington. She had undergone surgery twice in the past 10 days, but her death was attributed to a heart attack.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p.m. yesterday in the First Methodist Church. Rev. T. M. Johnson, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Pampa, and Rev. J. F. Michael, Wellington, officiated.

Mrs. Vaughan was 70. Born in Independence County, Ark., she was married in 1902 in Rockwall County, Tex., and moved to Collingsworth County in 1906.

Germ War Protection

ALBANY — (AP) — New York State is mobilizing animal crop and insect experts under a civil defense program to protect food and livestock against possible germ warfare.

Measures have been taken to spot and stamp out animal and plant diseases that might result from enemy biological warfare attacks.

The program objectives include investigation and research, immediate surveying of newly reported outbreaks of plant or animal disease, and the development of special methods of detection.

The Lowdown On Taft, Ike, Other Possible GOP Nominees

By JOHN GUNTHER
Written for NEA Service

The lowdown on Taft is simple. He is a gritty, determined, frustrated man of strong character and ability, who positively, aggressively, stubbornly wants the White House job.

Enemies of Taft cannot forgive him for what they call his inordinate bad judgment, though they concede his honesty. The old joke, still fresh, is that "he has reached more wrong decisions more ably than any man in American public life."

Taft makes up his mind and never budges. He voted against Selective Service. He voted against the confirmation of Henry Stimson, the grand old man of the Republican Party, as Secretary of War.

He voted against Lend Lease, against the use of armed forces outside the Western hemisphere, against the seizure of Axis ships, against the British loan after the war, against the North Atlantic Pact, against Point Four and against the Military Defense Assistance Act of 1949, which included military aid to Korea.

How, his opponents ask, can any man with such a record be fit to be president of the United States in the modern world, when democracy all over the world is grappling with the gravest, most menacing threat it has ever faced?

Taft will, on the domestic side, face hot opposition from labor. He says in replay that it was labor — no less — that made his stunning Ohio victory possible in 1950. But he was facing an extremely weak opponent. And there were other special factors at work.

The lowdown on Eisenhower is not so simple. He is an honest, good man, much more complex than most people think, somewhat thick - skinned, somewhat deficient in a sense of humor, a man with a genius for conciliation and running a team who nevertheless lacks concrete political experience.

He probably wants to be president just as much as Taft does, but his friends would say that there is a difference. Ike's attitude is more humble; he wants to serve.

That Eisenhower is a military man is a major argument against him. Soldiers are trained to think that command comes from the top; civilians that it comes from the bottom.

But Ike, back in America and speaking out on this issue in speeches and press conferences, hammers his belief that the military should be subordinate to civilian authority. Out of uniform, he looks and acts like a most unmilitary general, and his record seems to show that he is personally elastic enough to behave like a civilian.

Isolationists say that Ike is too much of an internationalist, too much tainted with the Truman-Acheson brush. Liberals say that he is too conservative, and conservatives that he is too liberal.

"Every time Eisenhower opens his mouth, he is going to lose some tail - feathers," one eminent Washington pundit has said. The metaphor is mixed, but it holds some truth. Heretofore, be it remembered, Ike has always been in a protected position.

But since he came home and took off his uniform, he has shown marked skill in handling himself without that protection. He is obviously adept at fending off the slings and arrows that come his way from any quarter.

Positive advantages to Eisenhower are many.

(1) He looks like a winner, and thus gives confidence. Many Republicans who would personally prefer Taft will support him because they think that he can win.

(2) Better than any Republican, he could heal political wounds and unify the country.

(3) People know that he is internationally - minded, and stands for peace. There will be no warmongering under Ike, but he will not be weak. In an era of international crisis, he is perfectly fitted by experience to handle anything the Russians may attempt.

(4) Women, who are more numerous than men in the United States, like him.

(5) He is almost certainly bound to pick up more independent and Democratic votes than Taft. The fact that there is such a large independent vote favors Ike, not Taft. Nobody should forget that Minnesota write-in.

(6) Above all, Eisenhower is not a politician. One of the strangest paradoxes in American public life is that, though the power of politicians depends on the people, most people don't like politicians.

Eisenhower, it has been said, must run on the right to get the nomination, on the left to get the election. Only a middle-roader can perform such a feat, if it is possible at all.

Taft and Eisenhower are so far ahead of the field that, to talk of other candidates, is like stepping from the locomotive to the caboose.

Warren? He is an extraordinarily decent, capable, and high-minded man, with a fine progressive record in California. Moreover, the fact that he rolled up 260,000 votes to Taft's 314,000 in Wisconsin, though he lacked organization support and only made a limited campaign, proves that he has some national strength. Labor favors him among all Republican choices.

The lowdown on Warren is that he could only be nominated in the event of a long deadlock, and, as will be discussed in the last article in this series, a deadlock at Chicago is unlikely.

Some people say that Warren is actively working for a deadlock, and that he will trade on his powerful strength in delegates to bid for the vice presidency or a cabinet post. This is not quite accurate. Warren is not a trader by nature. He would like to have the presidency, but he would not be a candidate for the psychiatrist's couch if he fails.

Warren entered the race initially because he was angry at Taft tactics in California. The Taft managers said that Taft was the only "true" candidate, that there was no other choice. This infuriated Warren, and he deliberately tied up his delegation to frustrate the Taft maneuver. At the convention, he will play by ear. When he releases his delegates, they will be free to go anywhere — probably most of them to Eisenhower.

Another obstacle to Warren's own candidacy is that he is too liberal to be acceptable to the reactionary wing of the party.

Stassen? He blew up months ago. What ruined him was that he started to court the right wing of the party while still trying to hold on to the left, and hence lost both. Many doubt the sincerity of his present position as a self - appointed stand-in for Eisenhower (after all he took 6500 votes away from Eisenhower in New Hampshire). Nowadays his main aim is to help stop Taft. MacArthur? Only Taft could make MacArthur the nominee. Taft, if quivering on the edge of defeat, might try to swing his strength to MacArthur as a desperate, last - ditch measure to stop Eisenhower. But few believe it is likely to happen.

Tomorrow: Why a convention deadlock is unlikely.

Reds Are Rewarded

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya — (AP) — The Malayan government has awarded $4290 to three Communist terrorists who surrendered recently and later returned to their jungle camp to bring out 10 compatriots and quantities of weapons.

The 13 Reds, all Chinese, had said they feared to surrender before as they had been told all who surrendered were either put to death or jailed.

Weatherreds are in school there, along with Cameron Marsh, Alex Sween, and Mrs. Otto Mangold. . .Mrs. J. B. White is another Pampa teacher who is studying there this summer . . .Miss Helen Dunlap, Gray County Home Demonstration agent, was there last week for advanced clothing study . . .Her friend, Mrs. Frances Statton, who is the Wheeler agent and a frequent visitor in Pampa, is also at WTSC . . .Gene Garrison and his wife are there for summer work. . .After graduation from Pampa High school a few years ago, and in between terms at West Texas, Gene was sports editor of The News . . .Hazel and John Plaster, who spend winters in Pampa, are back in Canyon and enjoy being in their own home of Fifth street. . .She is a member of the Pampa Beta Sigma Phi. . .Aother person who was in Canyon last week was Mrs. W. C. Hutchinson, who got special attention from faculty members, students and ex-students there for the summer . . "Why, you're Bill s mother," so many said to her. . .Bill is now connected with Radio Station KPDN. . .He made an outstanding musical and dramatic record while at WTSC. . . He helped in theater - in - the - round which is now in its second year. . .It was the subject of his thesis. . . This type of presentation, with the action occurring in the center of the room and the audience seated in a circle, was used in Shakespeare's time. It is completely different, but it's delightful. . . Bill was cast in the recent summer production, "Glass Menagerie," but was unable to appear because of his work here. . .Another Pampan who is well - known in dramatic groups at West Texas is Bobbie Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Tucker. . . Before her graduation, she spent a lot of time in the Branding Iron theater, which is the most picturesque building on the West Texas campus . . .Palo Duro Players are now in their fourth season and their plays attract visitors from all over this section of the Panhandle. . .We're glad some of the Pampa students have had a hand in its growth.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Central Baptist Youth Plan Picnic

Young people of the Central Baptist Church in Pampa will join the young people of the Temple Baptist Church, Amarillo, at Palo Duro Canyon Friday for an all-day picnic.

Approximately 30 from Pampa will meet at the church at 5:30 a.m. and go together to the canyon. George Young is to provide transportation.

Committee in charge of picnic arrangements includes Miss Evelyn Patterson, chairman, Miss Beverly Williams and J.C Baecker.

Sponsoring the gourp will be Mr. and Mrs. Emil Williams and Mr. and Mrs Henry Holtman.

The Temple Church group will be accompanied by Rev. Hal Upchurch, former Central pastor, and Miss Freda LeLe Worley, former secretary and youth director.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A mother, distressed over her daughter's broken engagement, writes me: "She isn't sleeping or eating well. He was a nice boy, but he and my daughter had bitter quarrels. She believes that marriage would have solved this. Maybe she is right. . ."

This mother seems to agree with her daughter that the satisfaction of two young people's physical needs for each other is all that is necessary for a good marriage.

Dr. Lawrence S. Kubie, clinical professor of psychiatry at Yale University's School of Medicine, writes: "Choosing a mate is one of the most confused steps that a human being takes in life. . . because each of the pair is ignorant of the unconscious purposes that determine their respective choices."

So I suggest that this mother get to work to discover why her child is so attracted to a young man who makes her miserable. Let her look deeper than her daughter's physical attachment to him. Look for the real need that may be driving her to pursue suffering.

What does this boy represent to her that she is willing to pay the price of constant tension? Does he offer her a chance to prove something about herself? Does he mean prestige in her family? Does he mean reassurance that she is desirable? Intelligent? More attractive than a sister?

We should be immeasurably grateful to psychiatry's insights into human motives for making unhappy relationships. Now perhaps we can try to help children understand why they insist on "falling in love" with people who make them suffer. We can begin to prove to them how often, instead of loving, they are really seeking to use the subjects of their infatuations to prove something about themselves.

I knew a young man whose mother had been noted for her beautiful red hair. He "fell in love" with a red - headed girl. Though he was far too impressed with the shade of his young lady's hair, nobody related this obsession to a dependent boy's need for a wife who resembled his mother.

His marriage broke, because his wife, despite her red hair, was not his mother and wanted a husband, not a child.

I know a girl whose musical family was annoyed with her because she had no talent for music. So she married a violinist old enough to be her father, just to show them some people didn't think she was so stupid. Since her husband wished to be loved for himself, instead of for his ability to play harmonics, their marriage, too, ended.

Young people's attachments are not necessarily motivated by the physical hungers to which we credit them, but are far too often motivated by hungers for prestige and self-justification.

The family feud we blame for the deaths of Romeo and Juliet may not be guilty at all. That great realist, William Shakespeare, may have given us the real motive. It might have been young Romeo's need to be reassure himself of his desirability after a jilting by his roiginal young lady, Rosalind.

The "love" that brings Joan home crying after a date may be insecure Joan's frustration at failing to get results with a boy who "doesn't like women." The "love" that makes Jim so irritable may be just his fear of losing a girl who is better looking than a sister of whom he is jealous.

We haven't known as much as we should about this thing called "love." Now we can begin to find out about it so as to help our children distinguish between the brass and the gold.

VALTA WELCH

Mrs. Rena Welch, 510 N. Russell, announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Valta Welch, to James Trusty, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Trusty of Lefors. Wedding vows will be read in the home of the bride-elect Thursday, July 3, in the evening. Miss Welch is a graduate of Pampa High School. Mr. Trusty is a 1951 graduate of Lefors High School and is now attending West Texas State College at Canyon.

Demonstration Clubs Plan Purse Making

County Home Demonstration Clubs will meet at the home of Mrs. Emmett Osborne in the Bell Community July 31 for a course in plastic purse making. Mrs. Walter Noel and Mrs. Osborne will be in charge of the course.

Plans for this meeting and for the state meeting at A and I College in Kingsville Aug. 26 and 27 were made at a home demonstration council meeting in the county home demonstration agent's office Monday.

Mrs. Carl Smith, Bell Club, and Mrs. W.E. Melton, Hopkins, have been named as delegates to the state meeting.

Mrs. Osborne is to represent the group at an advanced creative design workshop at Texas Tech College, Lubbock, July 21-25. A course in creative design will be taught later for the county club members by Mrs. Osborne.

Representatives from McLean, Bell, Worthwhile, Merten, Hopkins, and Wayside Clubs were present at Monday's council meeting. Mrs. Noel, assistant chairman, presided.

RUTH MILLETT

"There comes a time when a man can't do the kiss-and-hug type of movie, and I kind of reckon I've reached that stage" says movie star Clark Gable.

It's just as necessary in real life, as in the movies, for an adult to know when a particular type of role is no longer becoming.

For instance, a bride can be right cute the first year of marriage being dumb about everything that has to do with housekeeping. But if she clings to the helpless-in-a-kitchen role after the first year, it's no longer cute. After that, folks mark her up as being either stupid or too lazy to try.

A girl can get by with being a flirt, so long as she looks like a girl. But once others start regarding her as a woman, rather than as a girl, the ways of a flirt only make her look pathetic or ridiculous.

While she is still a bride the woman who goes in heavily for the "George says" and "George thinks" routine meets only tolerant amusement. But let her keep it up through the years and others get more than a trifle bored with hearing "George" quoted as though his opinions were the only ones in the world that mattered.

A woman can play the glamor-girl role only for a short time, too, with any becomingness. There's nothing more ridiculous than the middle-aged woman who still fancies herself a glamor girl and expects to be treated as one.

And so it goes. There are many roles that women can get by with at certain ages that are becoming only to those ages.

And it's a wise woman who knows when she has gone beyond the age when she is appealing either as a scatter-brain, a flirt, a glamor girl, or the type of blindly adoring wife who thinks everybody ought to be as impressed with what "George says" as she is.

God has endowed man with inalienable rights, among which are self-government, reason, and conscience. Mary Baker Eddy

Every human being is intended to have a character of his own; to be what no other is, and to do what no other can do. William Ellery Channing

Post-Nuptial Shower in Church Given For Mrs. Gerald Beaty

A post-nuptial shower for Mrs. Gerald Beaty, former by Miss Barbara Robertson, was given at the Cental Baptist Church last Friday evening.

Hostesses were the Mmes. J.L. Becker, Henry Holtman, Cecil Cargill, E.R. Grower, Floyd Chitwood, Oliver Scott James Enloe Monroe Boucher, C. C. Miller, Knox Nichols, Gus Rice, G.C. Stark and Chester Maples.

The bride was presented a corsage of carnations in her chosen colors of blue and white. Her mother Mrs. W.H. Robertson of Bronte and the groom's mother, Mrs. H. E. Beaty, Pampa, also received carnation corsages.

The refreshment table was laid with a white cloth and was centered by white mums and blue candles. A white cake trimmed in blue with the names of "Barbara and Gerald" on it was placed at the opposite end from the crystal punch service. Candy mints were blue and white and favors were blue miniature colonial bouquets. Names of the bride and groom were engraved in gold or blue napkins.

About 40 guests were present and 20 who did not attend sent gifts.

Tips For Tasks

To put a fresh cover on an ironing board, adjust it into position while it is still wet. The cover will then dry gradually, be absolutely tight and smooth, and all wrinkles will be avoided.

Cook's Nook

Time was when Grandma baked bread just once a week because it was such a long and difficult job. But with our modern recipes. . .and modern ingredients, you can now bake bread while the potatoes are boiling.

For instance, in the Easy Bran Bread recipe below, a moist, wholesome bread can be made in a few simple steps. The flavor-giving ingredient is familiar ready-to-eat all-bran cereal. Bake in just 45 minutes and bring to the table steaming hot. If there's any left for breakfast, toast and spread with butter — or jam.

EASY BRAN BREAD

1-4 cup shortening
1-2 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups ready-to-eat bran
1 1-2 cups milk
2 cups sifted flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly; add eggs and beat well. Stir in bran and milk. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to first mixture and stir only until combined. Spread in greased loaf pan (9 1-2 x 5 1-2 inches) and bake in moderate over (375F.) about 45 minutes.

YIELD: 1 loaf (9 1-2 x 5 1-2)

Bad Lesson In Geography

Hank Finds Washington Hard City To Get Into And Out Of

By HENRY McLEMORE

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The dateline of this column is enough to make a reader believe that I am down here to gather the hottest news about what will happen when the GOPs and the DEMs hold their championship bouts in Chicago.

Well, any reader who feels that way is as wrong as a thin Santa Claus.

You will not find my spying from the Washington Monument, or hiding out in the White House hedges, or wearing spats and twirling a cane, giving informal little dinners for three or four hundred.

There are enough capable men down here to take care of that angle of the government scene. For me to add my uncertain findings to theirs would be gilding the coals to Newcastle.

Before you ask me why I am down here, I am going to tell you. Not long from now I am going to have to drive a car through Washington on the way to a place that is on the other side of Washington.

I am down here to practice getting through Washington in an automobile.

I have a few days to waste now, but when I drive through here on the way to Mexico, I won't. Experience has taught me that Washington is the most difficult city in the world to get into and to get out of.

Washington was laid out, I believe, by a Frenchman. I do not recall his name, but I am quite sure that he did not like the New World and took a sly means to settle his grudge. He undid everything Lafayette ever did to us.

I happen to know that Calvin Coolidge's famous "I do not choose to run" was motivated by his having missed three Cabinet meetings while trying to find his way out of one of Washington's innumerable circles.

I have it on fairly good authority Woodrow Wilson's Fourteen Points came to his mind when the presidential chauffeur made fourteen wrong turns while trying to stay on the same street.

Washington is the capital of our nation, as all good Democrats know, but it is an awful lesson in geography. Massachusetts avenue crosses Georgia, Florida, and Alabama Avenues, while Texas, Vermont and Idaho all lead to Baltimore.

"I" street argues about grammar with "M" (or me) street. Safety islands are covered with visitors just as sandbars are by pelicans and seagulls. Ask a policman directions and he refers you to another policeman, explaining, "I have only been here since Harding's time. You'll have to alk to an oldtimer."

The world's record for a tourist getting into and out of Washington is held by a gentlemen from Bangor, Maine, named Merton elly. Mr. Kelly entered the city limits from the north on a midnight of Thursday and cleared souther boundray exactly eleven hours later.

For this feat he nd his wife, who was with him, were granted probably the most precious of all privileges, seats to the gallery of the House of Representatives tives was not in session. Mr. and when the House of Representa- not in session. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly were very grateful for opportunity of missing what they might have heard.

No matter who becomes our next president, be he DEM or GOP, he should be made to drive about Washington without benefit of official escot or chauffer. That would end for all time the question of whether a president deserved three, four ,five, or six terms.

No man would have it.

In the early 18th Century, the bulk of the world's paper was made wholly or partially from rags.

"Is that the same poll that put Tom Dewey in the White House back in 1948?"

Foundation Head Says Doctors May Soon Find A Polio Vaccine

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Medical Director of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis says doctors may be mearing the point where they can produce a usable polio vaccine.

Dr. Hart E. Van Riper said mass inoculations beginning in Houston today for 35,000 young children are a part of that experimentation.

Dr. Van Riper was in Texas for a meeting of 200 polio Foundation chapter presidents from four states.

The Houston doctors will inoculate half of the Houston volunteer children with a new blood medicine. The other half will get a neutral shot that looks the same.

A shipment of 3,500 units of the medicine — gamma globulin — arrived in Houston, two dozen special nurses arrived and a ton of medical equipment was readied for the 50-man professional team that will handle the tests. The work, directed by Dr. William Hammon, public health professor at the University of Pittsburgh, is backed by the National Foundation.

Dr. Van Riper said in Dallas the theory behind a polio experiment at Frost, Navarro County, will not stand up.

Last summer 490 persons received one shot of anti-rabies vaccine which experimenting doctors hoped might prevent polio.

Last week there were no ronfirmed reports of polio this year in the Frost community of 585 persons.

Dr. Herbert Hipps, Waco physician who took part in the Frost experiment, said, "We won't really know a thing about the success of the experiment until about the time school starts. Then if there haven't been any cases it will look good."

But Dr. Van Riper said he had investigated the anti-rabies shot theory and found it would not "hold water."

Meanwhile, the Texas polio outbreak continued. Houston reported 19 new cases over the week end, bringing the total to 362 patients, of whom 16 have died.

IT'S Your DEAL

Think Ahead Before You Meld

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written or NEA Service

What is the correct course to follow if you are lucky enough to win a big discard pile? Should you meld much or little?

The answer depends on whether or not you can reasonably expect the hand to last for several more plays. If you are fairly sure of getting several more chances, there is no hurry about melding much. If the hand is likely to end quickly, you must meld before you get caught.

How can you tell? There are a few surprises in the game, it must be admitted, but it's usually possible to detect how close the enemy are to melding out.

If they have both melded freely and if neither opponent has many cards in his hand, the danger is clear and obvious. Gather canastas while you may, because the hand, isn't going to live very long.

If only one opponent has melded, and no canasta is in sight, you're in clover. The opponents would have co-operated in making a canasta if they had been able to do so. This is the sort of hand in which you make praticalIy every canasta in sight, with the opponents groaning at every discard.

If neither opponent has melded, everything depends on how desperately they have defended the discard pil. If they have broken up their hands, and particularly if they have thrown away wild cards, there is an excellent chance that they will and perhaps that they will not even be able to master up the initial meld.

In such a case, you can take your time about melding in order to keep full control of the discard pile.

In such a case, you can take your time about meling in order to keep full control of the discard pile.

The case is quite different if the opponents have matched each other's discards without making any real attempt to fight for the discard pile. Their hands probably fit pretty well, and they will meld out quickly as soon as either of them makes the initial meld.

In this situation you must get your melds down on the table, for each play that you make may well be your last for that hand.

Statistics On Side Of Children In Fight Against Polio

DALLAS (AP) — Statistics still favor your child's escaping paralysis if polio does strike.

The worried parents of Texas should remember that, the medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis declares.

"First, let's not forget that paralytic polimyelitis is a rather rare thing." Dr. Hart E. Van Riper said in an interview. "For every case there are 100 cases that are non - paralytic, but result in permanent immunity.

"Sefond, even if a child or adult has paralytic poliomyelitis the chances of permanent paralysis are less than 25 per cent. So, altogether, there is not any more than one chance in about 400 of having permanent disability from polio."

Dr. Van Riper, here for a meeting of chapter officials from Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas said "personally, I am sure poliomyelitis will be controlled. When, I can't say. It will depend on the breaks or luck."

Thought Control In Public Schools

Early last month The News reprinted an article from the June edition of the American Legion magazine in which Irene Corbally Kuhn, a news reporter and writer of 30 years experience, warned about the dangers of "progressive education." She bluntly charged that a small but well organized minority is attempting to manipulate the public schools to condition children for "a new social order."

The meat of her comment was that this program is designed to indoctrinate the youngsters of this nation toward acceptance of socialism by force-feeding them with propaganda in the guise of education.

But we must carry this thought a step beyond and emphasize that so-called "progressive education" is only a technique — with much possible quibbling over its definition — whereas the ultimate expansion of the public school system itself is the strongest force imaginable in pushing the United States into socialism or communism.

Compulsory government schools are a socialist idea and must, of necessity, teach socialism.

Mrs. Kuhn's article has drawn the fire of the National Education Assn. at which she points as influential in the "swing to the left in education."

An NEA retort to Mrs. Kuhn under the heading "An Unwarranted Attack" denies in toto her charges against the motives of some of its members. It claims the NEA has banned Communists from its membership and has opposed employment of Communists as teachers. Perhaps so.

The primary justification of compulsory government schools is the claim they guarantee perpetuation of the government established some 175 years ago in the American continent for free men and that they help preserve liberty.

If liberty is the goal of men — and what other material possession can he have more valuable — the claim that government schools will help him achieve it is nonsense. Government by its nature aways fights to preserve itself and expand its powers. That is an irrefutable lesson of history. And such power expansion can only be obtained by the curtailment of individual liberty.

The argument that government education fosters liberty must logically be baseless.

Mrs. Kuhn argues that "we have a whole generation of young people who have been molded like plastic clay into the pattern of collectivist group behaviour by a few individuals." She is opposed to the public school program but we do not gather, as the NEA appears to do, that she opposes the public schools.

But reform of the schools is not the cure. So long as compulsion is a part of the school program, so long as the schools are dominated by government control there can be no moral affinity between public education and the search for liberty.

The National Education Assn. understandably resents Mrs. Kuhn's criticisms and by the nature of its stand apparently endorses the "progressive education" she attacks and which no small segment of the population of parents opposes.

On much of this dispute between the author of the Legion magazine article and the association, Mrs. Kuhn says one thing and the NEA says another.

In its rebuttal the NEA cites only one example of factual "mis-statements" although it infers many.

As a matter of record we quote the NEA pamphlet on that point as follows:

"Many errors of fact could have been easily avoided by reference to documents available to everybody. A quotation in the story is offered as 'an excerpt from the Proceedings of the 72nd annual convention of this organization (NEA) in Washington, D. C., in 1934.' The meeting referred to was not the 72nd annual meeting, but the 64th. It was not a meeting of NEA, but a meeting of the American Association of School Administrators. The 'excerpt' was not printed in the Proceedings, but in another document. The meeting was not held in Washington, D. C., but in Cleveland, O. The 'excerpt' was misquoted by omission of a significant sentence. There is only one true statement in this short sentence. The meeting referred to was held in 1934."

We leave this argument over what school group said what and where they said it to Mrs. Kuhn and the NEA.

Our fixed and fundamental contention is that you do not bring liberty to man by controlling his thoughts or his actions — and if the government school system isn't the greatest thought control system agency and action compelling force on the American scene today, then Adolph Hitler was Pollyanna, disguised in a mustache.

A Unique County

Few people have ever heard of Armstrong County, South Dakota. It's a tiny speck on the map, with a population of 53 people.

However, it is a rather significant speck. For, according to the Congressional Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, it is the only county left in this whole country which hasn't a Federal civilian employe working within its borders.

At present, there are some 2,500,000 of these Federal civilian employes, and 90 per cent of them are stationed outside the Washington area. Their salaries came to $8,500,000,000 last year. And their number keeps right on growing.

This is one of the reasons why, if you happen to be a married man earning $5,000 a year, which is certainly no fortune in these days, you have to work 34 days to pay your Federal income taxes alone. And if you have a good $10,000 a year job you work 43 days for the government.

Every federal department head wants to put more and more people on the payroll — because that's one way to get promotions for himself, and to gain more political prestige and power. You, of course, pay for the waste and duplication of effort.

About time for a housecleaning, isn't it?

SPOTLIGHT FOR THE NATION

POTATOES AND POLITICIANS

By Willford I. King

Anyone seeking a typical illustration of how politicians blunder when they begin interfering in the domain of business, needs only to turn to the case of the lowly potato.

Some of us ancients can remember a dim and dusty past when potato growers, potato dealers, and potato eaters all managed to get along without the aid of regulators. In those days, if drouth came along, potatoes went up in price, and the high price led thrifty people to eat fewer potatoes and more of other foods. On the other hand, when weather conditions happened to be especially favorable, and, as a result, potatoes were unusually abundant, their prices fell until they were the cheapest food on the market, and hence their consumption increased.

Since low prices went with large yields and high prices accompanied poor crops, the potato-farmers' incomes did not, as a rule, very extremely. True, occasionally, in certain areas, the potato prices might fall to levels too low to justify marketing the crop. In such instances; the surplus potatoes were fed to the cows or pigs. This increased the farmer's income from dairy products or pork, and also made it possible for urban consumer to enjoy a more abundant supply of these nourishing foods. This was the way things worked out in the days af laissez faire and the free market.

But then came the GREAT AWAKENING when almost everyone suddenly realized that competition was merely a relic of the dark ages, and that it inevitably resulted in tremendous unnecessary waste. So, the valiant New Deal politicians set to work to establish a NEW ORDER exemplifying efficiency and economy. Naturally, they turned the control of the potato industry over to the bureaucrats. And what happened then?

Since the bureaucrats were mostly politicians who fully understood the desirability of building up dependable groups who would vote right, they felt it highly necessary to have Uncle Sam agree to buy, at prices well above those which would be set by competition in a free market, any unsold potatoes. So it was arranged to have the Government do this.

With fancy prices guaranteed, the potato growers turned out record-sized crops. Uncle Sam poured out hundreds of millions of dollars to buy the surplus. Much additional money was spent for gasoline and dye to spoil these surplus potatoes and prevent their use.

When the wave of protests concerning this wanton waste finally grew too high to be longer ignored, some brilliant bureaucrat ordered thousands of tons of the Government-owned potatoes shipped from the Dakotas to Texas, and had them there loaded on a vessel to be taken to Europe to feed our hungry proteges over there. However, with usual bureaucratic acumen, this bright idea was not translated into action until May, when, as every housewife knows, old potatoes are on the verge of dissolution. So, by the time the potatoes reached New York on the way to Europe, they were rotten, and hence it was necessary to dump them into the ocean.

When the next huge crop came along, some bureaucrat concluded that the correct way to deal with the surplus potatoes was to dry them, and then sell them abroad. The fact that it cost as much to dry the potatoes as the dried products would bring in the foreign markets was, of course, a matter of no consequence!

Finally, the Government decided to sell for feed at a cent a bushel potatoes which had cost it a hundred times as much. Who paid the bill? The taxpayers, of course! But is not their chief mission in life the support of the politicians and bureaucrats?

Incidentally, it is well to remember that, all the time the urban consumers were not only paying taxes to cover the cost of the wasted potatoes, but were also being forced to pay exorbitant prices for the potatoes they ate.

Now we come to the latest scene in the potato politician pageant. After the wartime inflationary wave had subsided, the Washington regulators decided that inflation was really a grave threat to our Nation's welfare. So President Truman induced Congress to permit him once more to let loose upon the hapless public a plague of price controllers. These new office holders felt it essential to control, among other things, the price of potatoes. The price which they set was low enough to prevent many growers from planting—results, a short crop. In a free market, this would have meant high prices, and the potatoes would have gone to those who valued them most.

But not so with the politicians in charge. They kept down the prices until the supply was practically gone, and our Nation is now experiencing a potato shortage probably unparalleled in its history. And who is being punished for tangling things up in this fashion? The guilty price regulators? By no means. Using the time-honored "Stop thief!" dodge, they are prosecuting a few dealers who have tried to take advantage of the strong demand existing for the very limited supply of potatoes in existence.

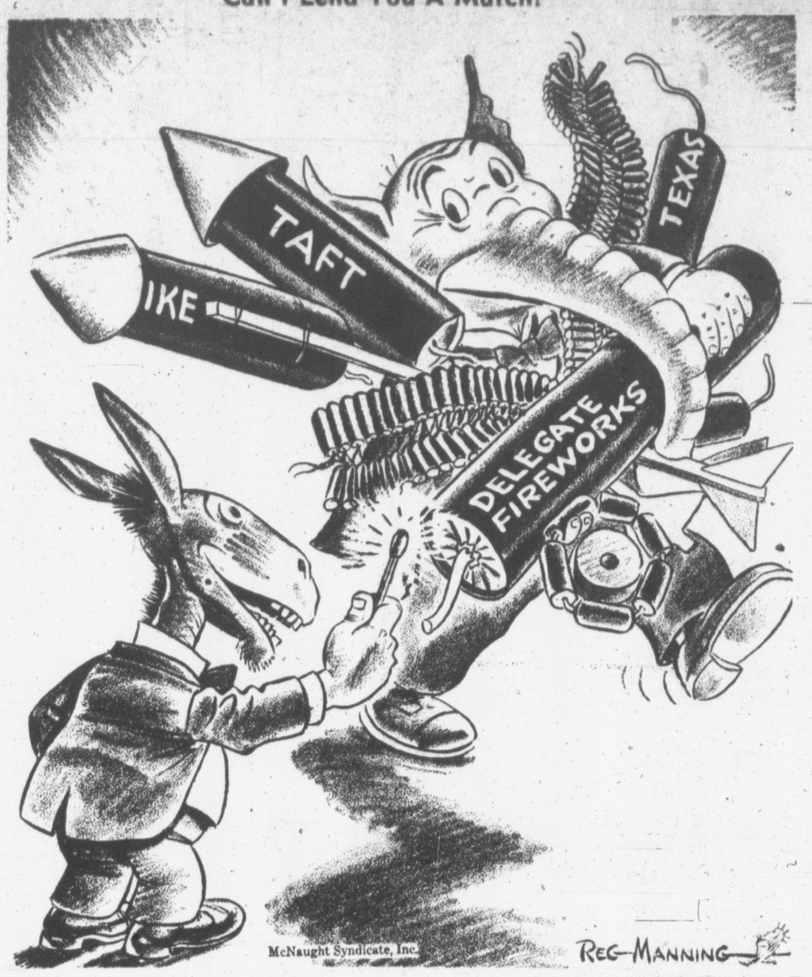

With a decade of experience showing the havoc wrought by controls, one would suppose that all Americans having intelligence ratings above that of moron would laugh to scorn any politician proposing to extend controls beyond June 30, 1952—the date when the present law expires. But, strange as it may seem, numerous members of Congress appear to take seriously the President's plea that his power to fix prices and wages be continued. He insists that this is necessary—pe[illegible] in order to stop inflation—[illegible]aps in order to prevent deflation. Can it be possible that the President and his economic advisers are not aware that nowhere can they find an example of direct controls preventing the price level from either rising or falling to the same extent that it would have done had there been no controls? Do they not know that the only dependable way to prevent either inflation or deflation is to control the money supply, and that such control is almost impossible if the National budget is not kept in balance?

But perhaps these gentlemen are not as ignorant as their pronouncements indicate. Controls give power—and politicians love power. Furthermore, controls require many well-paid controllers—and politicians have many political debts to meet.

Now, we have the spectacle of millions of bushels of potatoes from the United States creating abundance in Canada, because Canadians were permitted to buy at a higher price, while O P S. prevented their sale in the United States. Isn't it time for the taxpayers and consumers who must pay the bills and suffer all the inconvenience resulting from controls to tell the politicians how they feel about their being made the goats?

If the victims express their views forcefully, the chances are that resistance to continuation of controls, always harmful, will build up in Congress, helping to terminate them sooner!

Many U. S. Allies Would Like To Talk Things Over With Joe

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Arms production in the United States has fallen far below the levels required to fulfill all the world-wide commitments made by the Truman Administration under the collective security program. Our anti-Russian bulwark is tottering, politically, materially, militarily.

Our major and minor allies are growing restless, if not resentful of their original reliance on American guarantees and leadership in the "cold war."

The demand for parleys with Stalin commands increasing popular and official support in London, Paris and Bonn, despite Truman-Acheson insistence on the utter futility of such palavers.

The Europeans are in a "peace at any price" mood, whereas the question of who will shake the sabre in Stalin's face most menacingly appears to be the main issue of the American presidential campaign in both major parties.

PROVOCATIVE — Winston Churchill's rule has become shaky because of his willingness to follow the Truman-Acheson lead in Europe and Korea. Labor Leader Attlee, as well as many conservatives, regard Gen. Mark Clark's military operations as provocative of World War III as Mac Arthur's aggressive recommendations. All Europe welcomed MacArthur's dismissal.

Anthony Eden, who may succeed Churchill, does not share the latter's views on many world questions. His political career is at mid-day, while Churchill's parliamentary run has set. He will be more responsive to Attlee's insistence on heavier expenditures for social and economic experiments than for Anglo-American rearmament.

But the most ominous development concern France, our mainstay on the European Continent.

WARNED — Premier Pinay recently warned American diplomats and business men that he might call on the United Nations to take over the resistance to Chinese Communists in Indo-China. He argues that repelling the Reds' aggressive expansion there is fully as vital as our holding operation in Korea.

Pinay points out that there is no economic justification for French defense of Indo-China. France has only about 900-billion francs invested in that country. But the war costs Paris 550-billion francs a year, and the annual loss of 1000 officers. We graduate only 500 from West Point each June.

The fall of Indo-China could be fatal to the program of collective security and "containment" of Russia. It would give Moscow access to a treasure house of such essential resources as oil, rubber, tin, timber, food, etc. It would lodge the Reds in a strategic flanking position vis-a-vis India, Indonesia, Japan, the Philippines, Okinawa, even Australia and New Zealand.

ULTIMATUM — This peril was responsible for the recent Washington visit of Jean Letourneau, French minister for the associated states. Although his real mission was not disclosed in any official communique, he delivered a virtual ultimatum to Truman and Acheson.

The French forces, he told them, must obtain vast military supplies from us or abandon this bastion against Communist conquest of Southeast Asia. Recognizing that the United States is the only effective fighting member of the United Nations, he placed his problem before Truman instead of Trygve Lie, the world organization's secretary general.

This is the fifth time that the United States, England and have by-passed the United Nations France have by-passed the United Nations because of its ineffectiveness or because of Russia's ability to block any positive action by that body.

OVERDRAWN Truman, as usual, agreed to Minister Letourneau's request for more weapons. But it is extremely doubtful if he can deliver, in view of other demands to which he has also acceded. He has already found that he is overdrawn at the military bank.

Despite a postwar invesment of about $150 billion for national defense and foreign assistance, our "arsenal of democracy" is short of everything fom planes, tanks, motars and artillery pieces to ammunition. Had it ont been for World War II inventories, supplies would have un out months ago. Despite official denials, our GI's in Korea have been rationed on shells, and they have not received our most modern type of mortars.

In this respect, the fruitless, 10-month armistice talks have been almost as advantageous to us as they were to the enemy. We needed to boild up, too.

PRIORITY — The explanation for these shortages lies not alone in the "Truman stretch-out" and needless delays in preparation, although they contribute. It derives from a series of commitments impossible even for the United States to honor.

Here is the Pentagon's priority list for weapons, although it is not always adhered to (1) Korea (2) our domestic forces in training (3) Greece and Turkey (4) the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the new Euorpean defense community (5) Spain and - or Indo-China (6) Chinese Nationalists on Formosa.

This analysis explains why so many foreign statesmen, diplomats and military experts, after looking over this balance of our world-wide liabilities against domestic resources, want a talkfest, perhaps an agreement, with "Uncle Joe" instead of continuation of the "cold war."

LOOKING SIDEWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

You can always be certain that summer has really arrived when some Briton takes a free spin at the English language and comes up with a printable swat in the head for America and Americans. No one needed to tell the public that today, June 21st, is Summer Day, because Cyril E. M. Joad, a British philosopher, had already ushered it in with a prose shin-kicking of the way we bring up our children. There is an answer to Mr. Joad, which will be found at the end of this in the event you are in a hurry for an answer.

Cyril says American parents so mollycoddle and cotton-dab their young that the kids grow up "stoop-shouldered and pasty-faced." The only possible answer to that is to ask Cyril to try to remember back as far as 1943 and 1944 when the streets of England from London town to John o' Groat's swarmed with American young and they were neither pasty-faced nor stoop - shouldered. They were tanned, healthy, brawny and courageous and they did a good job of keeping the vermin from infesting Cyril's home island.

His other complaint is that our girls behave at 14 years of age as British girls do not behave until they are 21. That is to say they wear a bit of make-up, rouge up their lips a little, go dancing with their dates and maybe along about 15 or 16 allow a good-night kiss. He claims that this way of life results in an American stigma: "An early, uninteresting and uniform middle age." Mr. Joad is now caroling from far out in left field because if there is any nation which inflicts the stodgies on its folk early and implacably it is the British. A Briton of 38, given a fair background of education and salary earning, is about as dull, middle-aged and set in his ways as you could hope to run from. He is Colonel Blimp only slightly removed.

If this note were not being prepared for family journals, and if it were essential to turn nasty, which it isn't, it could be suggested to Cyril that among other disasters of his celebrated British way of developing the young is the larky, evident and distressing point of view reached by so many British young men in the last 25 years. It is essential to say 25 years because in no way is World War II responsible for this decayed morality. It started long before that.

In the end, Mr. Joad pats himself neatly on the back and claims that he was 20 years old before he took a drink or kissed a girl. No one has a right to fight him for that. He could have gone his entire present 60 years without belting a little Scotch around and mooning at a girl and no one would have turned him in for an idiot. Every person has a right to abstain from liquors and romance, but it is not exactly a graceful vaudeville turn for such a person to stand on a street corner and yell: "Looka me!" All that 20 years of rigidly virtuous behavior seem to have contributed to Cyril is that at 60 he is a noisy old bore falling back, for lack of livelier imagination, on the ancient, stale and useless feat of whipping us over the skull with some ill-tempered nonsense.

In the nature of working in and about the theater, this column runs across a slew of Britons in the course of each year and most of them are stout, doughty and rare persons, a pleasure to know. Every now and then one comes along whining a reedy tune about how awful America is. There was one such in a restaurant on Broadway the other night, a lank chap hanging disconsolately over a bar and moaning: "England is so lovely now. I wish I could be there instead of in this awful place." The bartender only looked and said quietly: "I don't see no ropes on you, bud. Get going back to your lovely England."

So, we may coddle our young and give them liberties early and, for all that is known to me, we may in a sense inflict psychic hurts on them—but I'll match our children's teeth against British teeth any given century.

The American Way

THE GREAT ISSUE

By Donald R. Richberg

Distinguished attorney, author, former General Counsel and Chairman of the N.R.A., co-author of the Railway Labor Act and for years conspicuously identified with governmental administration policies.

The scheme of self-government embodied in the Constitution of the United States represents an invention which was outstanding — not because the people were given the power to elect their public officials, but because their public officials were denied the power to rule over the lives of the people. The officials were given only limited powers to establish and maintain an orderly conduct of citizens in their relations and associations with one another, so that in a peaceful society the people could work together voluntarily, or work separately, for their own advancement and the welfare of their associates. "The best government is the least government" was the animating spirit of the nation created in 1787.

This nation grew and prospered beyond all precedent in the political faith of Individualism. In this faith, the American people have become the most fortunate people on earth, just because they have been the freest people. Now their faith is challenged by the fanatic revival of an old discredited faith in Master Men, which is given a new deceptive name: Socialism. In that faith the peoples of nation after nation have become in half a century the most unfortunate people on earth, because they have become enslaved to Government monsters of their own creation.

Whether we are to follow other nations down the socialist path to degradation, down which we have been going in recent years, or whether we shall reject the leadership of The Socializers and find and follow the leadership of wholehearted Individualists, could be and ought to be the Great Issue of 1952. If that issue were made and honestly fought, 1952 would be the year of a Great Decision. If the issue is not made and fought we shall continue drifting down the road of degradation.

The best hope of survival among the socializers today apparently lies in using pressure groups within both parties to advance socialistic programs gradually, and, by adroit compromising, to avoid arousing too much resistance until, bit by bit, the political morphine habit has taken hold and a majority of the people no longer care for self-respecting independence but will sell their last threadbare garments of personal freedom for soothing promises of security.

Compromising is what appeals to all party managers and regular candidates as the ultimate in political wisdom. A half-way reform encourages the reformers and mollifies their opponents; it is more difficult to retain public office after achieving a reform, which is usually disappointing, than after failing because of the alleged opposition of evil men and "special interests" which the politician can promise to overcome in his next term.

The Socializer, as a candidate, has one political remedy for every economic or social or moral problem. Pass a law to make people prosperous, or happier or more virtuous; and then tax the people and spend their money for them to achieve these desirable ends. "Let the Government do unto you what you won't do unto yourselves," is his political Golden Rule. If prices for farm products or wages for labor are too low, the Government will raise prices and wages. If the cost of living then goes higher and higher, as of course it will, and the Government can't hold it down, even by statistics, then the Government will help the farmers and the workers raise their prices and wages again. All deficits in the pocketbooks of the voters will be made up by the Government through "deficit financing." The perils of inevitable inflation will be averted by more inflation. Fortunately for the Socializer there is now always the excuse of war or the preparation for war to justify high taxes and huge expenditures of public money with which to maintain "full employment." As long as the balloon of government spending can be kept inflated the people can enjoy "pie in the sky."

The Socializer does not appeal to the material desires of the voters. The virtue of a paternal government expands beyond merely satisfying fleshly hungers. It promises relief to the emotional discontents that have afflicted men and women ever since they were unfortunately created with differing physical and mental abilities. All the social discontents resulting from these differences are now to be eliminated by government, which will pass laws under which there will be no champions or prize winners, in sport or business — no acknowledged and rewarded superiors in any human activity, except possibly in politics. Of course, in politics a man is ostensibly engaged in serving his fellowmen and a superior servant can be tolerated. Indeed, he must be tolerated just like a good cook because if you can't cook your own meals you either tolerate a masterful cook or you don't eat.

Will The Economizer make and fight the Great Issue? If he is only an opponent of careless spending, graft and inefficiency the answer is an emphatic "No!" The Great "Economy" Issue is not whether government shall be efficient or wasteful. It is whether government shall protect or destroy a free economy. The Great Issue is whether government shall protect Individualism—the faith of self-respecting free men, or force upon us Socialism—the creed of those who wish to become rulers of an all powerful state, which is acceptable only to those who are willing to be their servants. The Great Issue lies between those who have a faith in the God who created them and made each one responsible for his own welfare and salvation, and those who preach worship of a God whom they have themselves created and named the State. This inanimate State is simply a pagan idol, an artifice of jealous, greedy theocrats who demand unending sacrifice and subservience as the price of a miserable livelihood and a worthless salvation.

What is necessary today, in order to make and fight out the Great Issue, is a frontal, all-out attack upon the whole theory that Government is the fit instrument through which a people can make progress. The basic theory of Socialism is that men should be compelled to do what governmental planners decide is best and right for them to do to advance themselves and their neighbors. This is the exact opposite of the theory of individual liberty and self-government.

To give any ruling class the power to decide what is best and right for individuals to do for the good of society is to assume that some men possess a wisdom beyond the finite power of any man. Only a fool will think that he can play God successfully. When we permit public officials to decide how we should use our energies and spend our earnings we not only give up our self-respect and make a degrading confession of incompetence to take care of ourselves, but, as the height of folly, we assume that politicians are born with, or develop, a superhuman wisdom for the management of other people's lives. For this there is no justification. National Socialism offers us not only a tyrannical but also an incompetent government.

There may be little hope that the Great Issue will be clearly made and fought to a decision in 1952. But if a candidate should raise clearly and develop the Great Issue of 1952, I pray that those who see its importance give him a fair chance to fight it out free from their pressure to make him primarily the champion of their immediate [illegible]. I beg them not to [illegible] in the slugging by all the pressure groups that seek to batter the candidate's mind into insensibility. I beg them to realize that the winning of a forthright fight against Socialism will mean the winning of scores of minor struggles against socialistic projects to which they are particularly opposed.

If there should emerge in 1952 a candidate who will whole-heartedly support our constitutional form of government, and the individual liberties which are still dear to a majority of Americans, let us pray that his friends will give him a chance to arrive at the White House still mentally alive.

Paige, Brissie In 19-Inning Battle; Relief Pitchers Star

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

Baseball's unsung minute men — the relief pitchers — should feel mighty proud of themselves today.

Rarely, if ever, have the hurry-up hurlers perfomed as brilliantly as they did yesterday throughout the major leagues.

Ranging from the superlative 11 and 10-inning chores of Satchel Paige and Lou Brissie to the two-inning tenure of Ted Wilks, the performances of no fewer than seven rescue workers were magnificent.

Here is a rundown of how the reliefers shone under the sun as well as under the stars yesteday; only two of the 16 starters went the distance:

1. Brissie and Paige hooked up in a spectacular pitching duel from the 10th inning on with Brissie and Cleveland finally defeating the St. Louis Browns in a record - tying 19-inning night game, 4-3. Brissie relieved Bob Feller in the 19th and hurled nine scoreless innings before yielding a tally in the top of the 19th. Paige pitched 10 runless frames after replacing Ned Garver in the ninth but weakened in the 19th as the Indians scored twice. Brissie allowed six hits and Paige eight.

2. Clem Labine worked four scoreless innings for Brooklyn after relieving Ralph Branca and was credited with the victory when the Dodgers came from behind to nip the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-3.

More Stoppers

3. Hoyt Wilhelm stopped a Boston threat in the fifth and went on to yield two runs in the next four innings as the Giants handed the Braves their sixth straight loss, 6-3, to remain on the heels of the league - leading Dodgers.

4. Don Johnson handcuffed the Philadelphia Athletics with two hits and no runs in four innings after Washington had tallied four times in the sixth to preserve the Senators' 6-5 victory. Washington thus moved into second place, 3 1-2 games behind the Yankees.

5. Ted Wilks relieved Forrest Main with the bases loaded and none out in the eighth and stopped the Chicago Cubs cold for two innings as Pittsburgh emerged with a 3-2 victory.

6. Fred Hutchinson stopped a Chicago three-run uprising in the second inning and pitched seven scoreless frames until he tired in the ninth as Detroit rallied to down the White Sox, 6-4. The defeat dropped the White Sox into fifth place.

Brown To Report

In the two games where the starter went the route, Vic Raschi pitched the Yankees to a 3-2 triumph over the Boston Red Sox and Wilmer Vinegar Bend Mizell hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-3 decision over the Cincinnati Reds.

Bobby Brown, notified before the game to report for duty as a doctor in the Army on July 19, produced the payoff hit for the Yankees. He doubled Mickey Mantle home from first in the eighth to snap a 2-2 tie and hand Boston's Dizzy Trout his seventh defeat.

Paige, who had won six and saved nine of the Browns' 32 victories, came within inches of hurling 11 scoreless relief rounds. The Browns had broken through Brissie's serves in the top of the 19th, taking a 3-2 lead when Dick Kryhoski walked, advanced to second on a sacrifice and scored on Jim Delsing's single.

Bobby Avila, however, opened the last half of the 19th with a single and scored the tying run on Al Rosen's one - out double. After Larry Doby made the second out, pinch hitter Hank Majeski singled to score Rosen with the payoff run. The victory moved the Indians into third place.

Oilers Open 10-Game Home Stand With Borger

Molberg To Hurl; Game Opens Second Half Of '52 Season

The Pampa Oilers, given an unexpected day of rest yesterday for reasons that many of the ball players wouldn't believe, return to their home park tonight to open a ten - game, nine - day home stand abainst the Borger Gassers, Clovis Pioneers and Amarillo Gold Sox in that order.

The stand starts the second half of the 1952 campaign, and the Oilers enter it with a 33-35 record and games to make up at Borger, Amarillo, and Abilene.

Manager Jake Phillips will throw his top righthander, Max Molberg, against the Gassers in the opening game tonight and follow with Bobby Votaw. Morris Shipman and Juan Montero in the final two games of the series. Lloyd Brown, Borger manager, will likely counter with ex-Oiler George Payte in the opening game and come back with Ed Flanagen tomorrow night.

Friday night is the regular July 4 doubleheader attraction and on that night as well as Thursday night, big fireworks displays will be an added attraction at the park. The Thursday night display will follow the playing of the game and the Friday night fireworks will take place between games.

Tonight's and Thursday's games start at 8:30, and the doubleheader on Friday at 7 p.m.

As the Oilers move into the second half of the season they are hitting an unofficial .289 as a team with 60 home runs to their credit and an equal number of doubleplays on the defense. The leading hitter on the team is Don Moore, the catcher-outfielder, with a .330 mark followed by First Baseman Ed Sudol with .327. Of the starting lineup, only shortstop Bobby Brown, with .297, is below the .300 mark.

Max Molberg, tonight's chunker, is the pitching leader with 10-5, followed by Juan Montero with 7-6 and Bob Votaw with 6-4.

Expected to be on hand for tonight's game is the new limited service catcher, Larry Sanchez, signed as a free agent Monday. Sanchez played with Ardmore in 1950 and tried out late last year with Oklahoma City.

Homeless Gold Sox May Seek Use Of Stadium For Baseball

AMARILLO (AP) — With the Amarillo Gold Sox "burned out" of their scheduled game here last night with Pampa, and a nine - game road trip starting Wednesday at Abilene, club officials hope to have temporary facilities ready when the team returns home July 11.

Even the home plate melted under the heat of Tuesday morning's disastrous fire — a $100,000 blaze that left the cellar-dwellers sans stadium and equipment.

President Pete Knapp met with Fotter County Commissioners Tuesday afternoon to discuss disposition of insurance coverage on the plant. Gold Sox Field was owned by the county and on a long - term lease to the club. Insurance covered $27,000 of the loss. Knapp has decided to spend the entire amount on rebuilding, although it hasn't been decided whether the new construction is to be temporary, or whether additional funds will be added to rebuild the field completely.

The Gold Sox president, who remained behind while the club travelled, said that if the field can not be made available by July 11 he will ask permission for temporary use of Amarillo Stadium, high school football field.

Destroyed were the fences back of the stands, the center roofed stand, the east bleacher extension, box office, the concessions building, the club house, the club offices, the ground keeper's apartment, and rest rooms.

The blaze may have started about 1:15 a.m. in the front concession stand. The fire was beyond control when firemen arrived.

Ironically, Tuesday night was to have been "cigar night" at the field and had been expected to draw the season's largest crowd. Among the many gate prizes were 1,500 cigars — all of which were converted into ashes prematurely.

To the players themselves, the fire brought hardship of another kind. All the uniforms, many items of which were owned by the players, were destroyed. Before leaving Amarillo at 6 p.m. Tuesday, they bought new caps from a sporting goods store here. All the rest of their equipment — including bats — will be supplied by their host clubs, Abilene, Lamesa, and Pampa, and other teams of the West Texas - New Mexico League.

Hubs, Dukes Win Tuesday's Tilts

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The ultimate in tough luck hit the hapless Amarillo Gold Sox yesterday.

A fire burned most of the West Texas-New Mexico League bottom runger's stadium. Their game with Pampa had to be cancelled.

It was a quiet night elsewhere in the league. Rain postponed Abilene's game at Clovis.

The other two tilts were tight. Lubback downed Borger 2-0, and Albuquerque edged Lamesa 2-1.

Ray Machado held Borger to two hits to lead Lubbock to victory. The only Borger player to get as far as second base was Pitcher Eddie Carnett, who doubled in the second frame.

Carnett gave up only one earned run. A lone Borger error cost him the other score.

Priest gave up just four hits. It was in the ninth that he was robbed of a shutout. In that inning Lamesa banged two singles, and an outfield error by Pedro Santiago let in Lamesa's unearned run.

Rolfe On Way Out As Detroit Manager

DETROIT (AP)—It appeared pretty certain today that Red Rolfe is going to be fired as manager of the Detroit Tigers. Still undecided was the choice of a new manager for the last-place American League club.

Rolfe, nearly everybody agreed, is going to get the axe Saturday. And he appeared resigned to his fate.

Walter Spike Briggs, president of the Detroit club, has called a meeting of his board of directors for 5 p.m. Saturday. Briggs said last night he will go before the directors and recommend a hange in managers for the rest of the 1952 seasan.

Briggs said he also will recommend that third base coach Dick Bartell be released. But he said he did not know who the new manager will be.

"I have decided to ask for a change," Briggs said. "I am certain that the remainder of the board will go along with me. I feel that something must be done. Just who the new manager will be for the rest af the year is a matter we will decide at the meeting."

Briggs said that Tiger coach Ted Lyons definitely will be considered for interim manager. He added, "There also are several other men whose names will be submitted for consideration."

Rolfe appeared ready to yield to the inevitable.

"All I know is that I am sick and tired of all these rumors," he said.

"If they're going to fire me, why don't they do it and get it over with. It isn't fair to me, or to the club, to have the thing drag along under a cloud like it has been."

Phillips Softball Team Wins Meet

LEFORS — (Special) — The Phillips Softball team defeated Texaco, 3-1, Monday night to win first place in the McLean softball tournament. Third place went to Skelly, which downed McLean, 15-1. The top three teams are all from the Lefors Municipal League.

Friday night, July 4, at 8 o'clock the Texaco team will meet the Amarillo AFB squad.

The strong Phillips team is entered in a company tournament at Bartlesville later this month.

Second half play in the Lefors league will start July 7. A few makeup games were still scheduled Monday night the Pampa Foundry won a forfeit from Skelly, and then the Foundrymen played Foxworth-Galbraith in a make-up game and defeated Lefors youngsters, 13-9.

TODAY A YEAR AGO — Dick Savitt, Orange, N. J., defeated United States Tennis Champion Art Larsen, in the Wimbledon quarter-finals, 6-1 6-4 6-4.

FIVE YEARS AGO — Larry Doby signed a contract to play with the Cleveland Indians and became first Negro ball player in the American League.

TEN YEARS AGO — Ted Williams was fined $250 by Joe Cronin and told to apologize for an outburst of temper in a game played July 1.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Ellsworth Vines, U. S. champion, won the British Singles Championship by deafeating Bunny Austin of England, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2, at Wimbledon.

Pro-Amateur Opens Huber Golf Tourney

Pampa golfers—men, ladies and juniors—have been invited to participate in the second annual Huber Invitational Golf Tournament's pro-amateur meet which will be held tomorrow in Borger. Joe Houck, home pro, has extended an invitation for golfers to participate in this as well as the three-day meet which gets started on Friday and wraps up Sunday with the finals.

Pampa golfers who can attend and desire to play in the pro-am are requested to notify pro Johnny Austin at the Pampa Country Club before 10:30 a.m. tomorrow, Thursdy, so that handicaps may be established for the meet.

Over $1,000 in prizes will be awarded in the Invitational Tournament. Bud Abbott, steady Borger golfer is the defending champion, and will be back.

Some of his main competition will come from such able area golfers as Chick Dawson of Amarillo, Clare Freeman, C. F. McGinnis and Grover Austin, Jr., of Pampa and a pair of great young golfers, Tommy Hale of Shamrock and Rex Baxter, Jr., of Amarillo.

Johnny Farquhar, son of the Ross Rogers professional, Vern, Farquhar, warmed up for the tournament with a hole in one Monday.

Pampa Sports Top McLean Nine, 11-7

The Pampa Sports blasted out 10 runs in the home half of the seventh inning last night at Oiler Park to score an 11-7 victory over McLean in a contest played at Oiler Park.

Chubby Haynes, youthful righthander from Wellington-way, hurled the entire game for the Sports, fanning 15 and giving up but seven hits as his mates gave him good support afield.

The Sports trailed 3-0 when they went to bat in the stretch inning. But the visitors' defense sagged to aid the 10-run rally. McLean came back with a mild rally of its own in the eighth, good for four runs, and the Sports added a single run in the eighth to finish the night's scoring.

The Sports will be on the road for the next few games with the Oilers at home. On July 4 they play at Dumas and the following Sunday travel to Mobeetie.

Yankees Sign Frog Righthander

BEAUMONT (AP) — A contract with Kansas City has been signed by Norris Knobby Graves, ace righthander from Texas Christian University.

He was signed by Atley Donald, New York Yankees scout. The Yankees own the Kansas City team.

Donald said Graves had received a "sizeable" bonus but declined to cite the amount. The scout is recovering here from an appendectomy.

Graves hails from Fort Woth and has starred on the Horned Frog mound staff for the past three years. The 20-year-old 180-pounder will be sent to Joplin for the remainder fo the season.

Bob Mathias Headed For Second Decathlon Crown

TULARE, Calif. (AP) — Decathlon king Bob Mathias leads the way into the final five events of the 1952 decathlon tonight, already far ahead of his own brilliant feats in a drive toward the Olympic Games and his second straight triumph in this international battle.

Tonight the handsome, 6-foot-2, 200-pound pride of Tulare and Stanford University bids fair to outshine even his marks last night, when he surpassed everything he had ever done before in the grueling decathlon competition. Mathias was better in the 100 meters, the broad jump, the shot put, the high jump and the 400-meter dash.

Tonight he competes in the high hurdles, the discus, the pole vault, javelin and 1500-meter run. And his big events are the hurdles and discus.

Mathias racked up 4394 points last night, 160 points more than he scored in his record-breaking performance in 1950 at the halfway mark. And since 1950, the scoring system has been revised, generally downward. His 1948 Olympic halfway mark was only 3848 points.

Mathias' closest rival is Milton Campbell, a high school sensation in the East, from Plainfield, N.J., who scored 4192 points, 22 points behind the champion.

Mathias started his winning career in 1948, when he won the national title and went on to win the Olympics. He took the national again in 1949-1950 and remained out of the decathlon last year.

Sports Can't Pull Out Of Basement

By CHARLEY ESKEW
Associated Press Sports Writer

Move over, Dr. Einstein, Shreveport also has a complicated theory. The Sports say you just can't get ahead in the Texas League. And it's proving true, for them.

Shreveport, in the cellar of this goofy league, tumbled into its present position 16 days ago and since has been playing at a .571 clip. That's 12 victories in 21 attempts.

What's more, last night the Sports, who haven't been behind the seventh place club over three games in that span, nabbed their sixth game in the last seven by stopping Houston 6-3. It pulled the Sports within a game of the Buffs, in a sixth place tie with Oklahoma City.

The other games in the loop were easy to figure: Dallas topped Fort Worth 3-0 on Jose Santiago's uncomplicated three - hitter, while Bill Black of San Antonio put down Beaumont 7-0 with a like amount of hits.

Oklahoma City at Tulsa was rained out.

Shreveport pulled its game out of the fire like champions, although outhit by Houston 10-7. Grant Dunlap provided the spark when his clutch single, the only rap he got, came with the bases loaded and provided the Sports a 4-3 lead in the eighth.

Makeup Schedule For K-C Softball

Eight makeup games ae scheduled tomorrow night, Thursday, in the Pampa Kiwanis - Church Softball League. Five of the games are in the Junior Boys' League and three in the Senior Boys' League.

Tomorrow night's schedule:

8:30 p.m. — Holy Souls Senior vs. Calvary Baptist Senior; First Baptist Senior vs. First Methodist Senior; Salvation Army Junior vs. First Christian Junior, Holy Souls Junior vs. Calvary Baptist Junior.

The Senior Boys and Junior Girls will start the second half play on July 7, while the Junior Boys, because of several more makeups, will not start the second half until July 14. Next week will be devoted to making up Junior Boys games.

Fines Levelled In Longhorn

ABILENE (AP) — Fines totaling $105 have been levied by Longhorn League President Hal Sayles for recent rhubarbs in the circuit.

A stalling act and use of abusive language at San Angelo will cost Manager Al Monchak af Roswell $25.
