'Matney's Raiders'...

Company G slates three-day reunion beginning tonight

The three-day 13th annual reunion of the men of "Company G" begins Thursday.

The World War II unit was called "Matney's Raiders," and was comprised of Company G of the 142nd Infantry, 36th Division.

The unit fought during some of the bloodiest battles of the war and were among the first American troops to invade Italy at Salerno on Sept. 9, 1943.

In all, the men of the 36th Division participated in six European campaigns, fighting in Southern France, Central Europe and Germany.

Division members were awarded 15 Congressional Medals of Honor, 2,354 Silver Stars, 80 Distinguished Service Crosses, 5,407 Bronze Stars, 88 Air Medals and 12 unit citations.

The local company was mobilized here on Nov. 25, 1940, serving through five years of the war.

The annual reunion is held on the nearest weekend to the anniversary date of this mobilization.

Thursday night, those returning are to gather for an evening meal at the Golden Corral beginning at 6:30 p.m.

From 3 p.m. until Friday evening, they will assemble at the Willow Park Inn, followed at 6:30 p.m. by a barbecue to be served at the Towle Park Barn.

The business meeting for Company G will begin Saturday with a 9

TO BEGIN FRIDAY — The Pied Piper (Shane Wade) banishs the rats from Hamlin in this scene from the Snyder Junior High School production of the children's musical "The Swinging Piper." It will open a three performance run in the junior high auditorium Friday. Also pictured are the Lord Mayor's Daughter (Amber Bowlin) and, as the rats, Arneatha Riggins, Dacon Hollingsworth, Brian Butler, Christy Christensen and Courtney Lowrance. Performances set for school musical Thirty-six Snyder Junior High School choir and drama students will be featured in the children's musical, "The Swinging Piper," slated for 7:30 p.m. Friday and at 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the SJHS auditorium.

Eleanor Dryden and Barbara Perkins serve as directors. "The Swinging Piper" is based on Robert Browning's narrative poem "The Pied Piper."

Admission price for the musical will be $2 general admission. Tickets for all three performances went on sale Monday in the SJHS office. The public is invited to attend.

The musical also features a three-member band.

Choreography for the music has been arranged by Mrs. Elaine Byrd and Mrs. Kellye Luera. The band will consist of Ken Gartman playing the piano, John Burk on drums and Amy Armstrong playing the keyboard bass.

Cast in leading roles are Shane Wade as the Pied Piper; J. K. Palmer as the First Counselor; Ryan Byrd as the Second Counselor and Jeff Corkran as the Third Counselor.

The librarian will be played by Emily King with Michael Hall cast as the butcher; Bill Vestal as the baker and Eddie Bolen as the candlestick maker.

James Beauchamp will play the role of the Lord Mayor and Amber Bolin is cast at the Lord Mayor's daughter, Christina.

Work session aimed at retirement update

Council members heard a report regarding the city's participation in the Texas Municipal Retirement System (TMRS) Wednesday, a work session scheduled pending a final council decision related to approving an "updated service credit" expense charged annually by TMRS.

The council met with Gary W. Anderson, assistant director for TMRS based in Austin.

Anderson noted the updated service credit is to allow cities to adjust its retirement contribution annually. In this way, the changes required each year do not "stack up," causing a substantial increase if left unpaid over several years.

City Manager John Gayle estimated the increase to the city for this coming year at some $5,000.

The changes are required primarily because of two reasons: changes in employee salaries and any adjustments to retired staffer's benefits based upon changes in the Consumer Price Index (CPI).

Employee salaries prompt changes since the benefits paid in are tied to a three-year average salary--the three "highest" years.

Regarding the payment to those already retired, the city's policy for the past several years has been to add benefits which equal 70 percent of the Consumer Price Index--the figure calculated annually to reflect that year's rate of inflation.

The basic premise of the retirement plan is that the employee

K-Bobs has new owners

Bill and Marge DeWitt are the new part owners and managers of K-Bobs. They are in partners with a daughter and son-in-law, Dave Kyle and Retha Jackson, who own the K-Bob's in Lamesa, and Dave Breedlove of Clovis, N.M.

The DeWitts moved to Snyder last month from Bloomfield, N.M. and assumed management of K-Bob's last week. Prior to coming here, DeWitt had been an oil consultant and his wife had worked for the New Mexico Employment Security.

The DeWitts plan to offer weekly "special food" items and home style cooking would be featured.

The couple has six children and two foster children. All are now grown and all but one is married.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Because there are 52 bones in the human foot ought to be reason enough for people to watch their step."

An interesting letter came in the mail Monday morning. The writer was a Bob Edwards of Garland. Edwards mentioned to running into two Snyder couples on a recent trip to Las Vegas.

Edwards said he was certain both men were in the company of their wives "as they seemed to obey when the ladies said jump."

The subjects of the letter were Jack Denman and James Lay. Mr. Edwards said his purpose in writing the letter was not to expose their trip to their minister, but rather to report on the conduct of the two Scurry County citizens.

"Mr. Lay did very little gambling in that he said he did not want to spend his money anywhere he couldn't see where it was going and they wouldn't let him look into the slot machine.

"Mrs. Lay once told James to cover his eyes at one of the shows or run the risk of going blind.

"As to Mr. Denman, he represented himself as president of the Snyder chamber. I guess he is because I overheard him talking to the manager of Ceasar's Palace about trying to move his hotel to Snyder. Denman also tried to arrange to use pennies in place of nickles in the slot machines.

"Denman also tried to get the ranger at Hoover Dam to move the dam and Lake Mead to Snyder--and that it would not even be necessary to change the name of the river.

"Mr. Editor, I do not know how you folks in Snyder have motivated Mr. Denman and Mr. Lay to promote your city the way you have, but for the sake of us all, I would suggest that you keep them at home."

We can just hear Denman talking to the hotel desk clerk:

"Pardon me young lady. And I can tell that you are a lady. May I share something with you for just a moment..."

Reagan: Iran deal worth it

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, struggling to regain his credibility in the midst of one of his most serious foreign policy challenges, says he is convinced his decision to sell arms secretly to Iran was worth the risks.

If the cover had held a bit longer, Reagan said, his secret diplomacy would have resulted in freedom for five American hostages instead of only three.

Reagan came under some of the most intense questioning of his presidency at a news conference Wednesday night — and had to retract a statement on a key point shortly after it ended.

He repeatedly denied that he knew anything about an arms shipment by another country, but in a statement distributed a short time later by the White House, Reagan acknowledged, "There was a third country involved in our secret project with Iran."

Aides said the furor over the Iran arms sale constituted the most serious policy crisis of Reagan's six years in office, and critics kept up their attack.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., the likely new chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he "counted at least seven contradictions" between what top officials have told him and what Reagan told reporters.

And usually loyal Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., outgoing chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, criticized Reagan's decision to withhold from Congress word that secret negotiations had been under way for 18 months.

"I suspect that the president does not understand the law with regard to informing Congress on these things...," Lugar said.

Reagan said several of his top advisers opposed the weapons shipments but said Secretary of State George Shultz, said to be dismayed by the operation, will stay in his Cabinet post.

"He has made it plain he would stay as long as I want him, and I want him," Reagan said.

Sources speaking on condition they not be identified said Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger thought the idea of having arms sent to Tehran was "almost too absurd for comment" and comparable to inviting Libyan leader Moammar Ghadafy "over for a cozy lunch."

Meantime, Robert McFarlane, Reagan's former national security adviser who undertook the secret mission to Tehran, told The Washington Post that it was a "mistake" to provide arms.

Agency lists Western Co.

The Snyder plant for Western Company of North American has again been listed as among the "worst in the state" regarding the disposal of hazardous waste by the Texas Water Commission.

They were among 10 wastewater plants and eight hazardous and solid waste operations so listed.

It marked the second time the Western Company has been cited here by the state agency. With the first announcement, company officials took exception to their being singled out.

Western Manager Jim Tycer was working in the field Thursday morning and unable to comment about the recent citing.

Also listed on the agency's "worst" list for hazardous waste was the Fina Oil and Chemical Co. in Big Spring.

Q. — Are there plans to distribute food to the needy again this Christmas?

A. — Yes. The local Goodfellows chapter is currently making these plans and an application form will again be run in the SDN beginning Sunday.

In Brief

Court fuss

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas Supreme Court justice, in a rare display of public criticism, has been accusing Chief Justice John Hill of grabbing for power.

The criticism comes from Justice Franklin Spears, who has served on the court since 1969. Hill says the charges are "totally false."

Spears first went public with his opinions last week

Inspections

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal safety board today called for an "immediate inspection" of most L-1011 wide-body jetliners for possible metal fatigue after a 6¾-inch crack was spotted in the wing of a Delta jet after it landed in Newark.

Dorsie Lee Johnson Jr. was transferred to the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville Thursday morning by Scurry County sheriff's deputies.

Johnson was sentenced to death by lethal injection Friday for the killing of Jack Huddleston during a March 23 robbery of the Snyder Allsup's convenience store.

Board to meet

Cogdell Hospital board members will meet in regular session Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the hospital's board room. Agenda items include minutes from last month's session, the administrator's report and a collection report from business manager Don Sealy.

Church youth

The youth from the First Church of God in Ira will be sponsoring a garage sale Saturday in the church annex.

The sale will be from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. and funds will go toward a church youth trip.

The church is located just west of the Big Spring Hwy.

Cars jamming impound lot

DALLAS (AP) — The police department says its overcrowded impound lot has become the third largest car dealership in Dallas.

The best deal on four wheels may be at the impound lot, where broken down and abandoned cars are being sold at the rate of 150 every day. But the same number of vehicles come into the lot each day, which has caused a traffic jam at the facility.

"There's just no space to put another car — especially abandoned cars," said Capt. Bird Senter, commander of the Dallas Police Department's Vehicle Services Division. "It's a very frustrating situation we're in. We've been jammed tight for space for the past several months."

The lot, designed to accomodate about 1,700 cars, has become too small because so many vehicles in Dallas are being abandoned. Weekly auctions of unclaimed vehicles aren't cutting the crowding fast enough.

"We've had as many as 1,986 jammed in this pound," said Senter. "We've even been forced to park cars in the aisles and wherever else we can scrape some space."

Police said the slumping economy and a sharp increase in auto thefts have caused the number of abandoned vehicles to skyrocket. Nearly 12,000 cars were stolen in Dallas between January and September, Senter said. Of these, 6,930 were recovered and processed through the pound.

However, the overcrowding is bringing in revenue. The city charges $40 for towing to the impound, $15 for impoundment and $15 a day for storage. There is a $25 service charge when a vehicle is kept for 15 days.

Auctions of the cars are held every Monday, and about 6,300 have been sold this year at an average price of $248.50, said Senter.

"You could say business has been good," said Senter. "We've made $1,543,380 from the sale of vehicles between January and October this year."

Sales of auctioned vehicles is up 13 percent over 1985.

Orthopaedic surgeon...

Stanley Allen named new AAOS member

Dr. Stanley Allen of Snyder has recently been accepted into the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons and will be officially inducted into the organization during the 54th annual meeting of the academy slated Jan. 22-27 in San Francisco, Calif.

Dr. Allen said he would be continuing his medical education through the organization.

To qualify for admission he had to meet several criteria including passing his boards (given by the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgeons); nomination by two members of the organization; interview with a committee representative.

Dr. Allen said he passed his boards a year ago and met with the interview committee representative in April.

The AAOS is the national organization for orthopaedic surgeons.

Dear Abby

Honest Family Introductions Are Step in Right Direction

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: I recently published a letter from "Birmingham," who wrote to say that while she was at the home of a new friend, the children came home from school and the mother introduced them this way: "I'd like you to meet my son, Andrew. And this is my stepson, Johnny."

"Birmingham" wrote: "Might it not have been kinder to have introduced them both as 'sons'?" Then she ("Birmingham") remarked that she had a relative who always made it a point to tell people on first meetings that Sharon and Natalie were her whole sisters, but Jennifer was her half-sister. She added, "Another relative, believe it or not, would say in the presence of her children, 'Tommy is our own child, but Jimmy is adopted.'"

"Birmingham" asked me to comment. I did, as follows: "In making a casual introduction, any mention of 'step,' 'half,' 'own' or 'adopted' strikes me as insensitive and uncalled for. Should a closer friendship develop, the specific relationship will probably be disclosed in due time. But until and unless it does, to make a point of it is both tasteless and inappropriate."

That seemed to be a reasonable and proper comment, right? Wrong! Read on for a few of many critical letters:

DEAR ABBY: I am the stepmother of two wonderful children who have lived with my husband and me for over five years. The children's mother lives in the same town in which we live. When introducing the children, I state that they are my stepchildren. Not only would their mother have corrected me for calling them my "children," but the children would have corrected me. (And they have!)

So, you think the introduction of stepchildren as such is "tasteless and inappropriate"? Well, you haven't had a 12- and 14-year-old correct you in front of a stranger. Abby, give us mothers a break!

THE 'WICKED STEPMOTHER' IN HOBBS, N.M.

DEAR ABBY: My own mother, to whom I was very close, died when I was 13. My father remarried and later moved to a city where I had never lived. My stepmother not only told all her new friends that I was her daughter, but maligned me to them and complained continually about my lack of love and respect. She treated me with contempt, and then had the temerity to complain to my children about what a terrible child I had been. She also berated me for telling my own children all about their "real" grandmother.

Thirty years later I am still trying to undo the damage she has done. She even persists in introducing me as her daughter after I have repeatedly asked her not to. I do not wish to be thought of as this woman's daughter. Moreover, the memory of my own mother means a great deal to me and I want to keep it alive for my children.

So you see, Abby, some of us stepchildren prefer to be introduced that way.

A STEPCHILD (NO CITY, PLEASE)

DEAR ABBY: When I married a man with two teen-age children from a previous marriage, there was considerable discussion as to what I should be called. The children felt that calling me "Mom" was disrespectful to their still-living mother. For that reason, there were some protests and corrections from them when some unknowing stranger referred to me as their "mother."

However, they were uncomfortable with "stepmother" because of the "wicked stepmother" connotations from fairy tales. I joked about it and told them they were perfectly welcome to introduce me as their "wicked stepmother."

When addressing me directly, they call me by my first name. With the high number of divorces these days, this must be a common problem. I see no reason to do away with a distinction between two different relationships, which the child may regard as an important distinction.

SHARI PRANGE, CALIF.

DEAR SHARI, STEPMOTHER, STEPCHILD AND ALL WHO WROTE TO PROTEST MY ANSWER: Thank you for broadening my vista. It did not occur to me that my perspective was myopic and limited. Sign me ... STILL LEARNING ON THE JOB

Smoking study is reported

BOSTON (AP) — Smokers who cut back on cigarettes may only slightly reduce their daily intake of tar and nicotine because they smoke their remaining cigarettes longer and harder, a study published today says.

The research suggests that the way cigarettes are smoked, not just the number, helps determine smokers' exposure to the toxic substances.

"Our findings do not contradict the proposition that smoking fewer cigarettes per day poses less risk to health than smoking more cigarettes," the researchers wrote. "However, the magnitude of the benefit from reduced exposure to toxins was much less than expected."

They found that two-pack-a-day smokers could cut back to less than one pack and hardly make a difference in the amount of toxins inhaled.

"Our advice is that if they can, the best thing to do is quit entirely," said Dr. Peyton Jacob III, a co-author of the study. "The next best thing is to cut down the number of cigarettes and if they could, switch to an ultra-low-yield brand."

In addition, he said, they should guard against smoking more intensely.

The study was conducted at San Francisco General Hospital Medical Centers, where volunteers were hospitalized while doctors watched the way they handled differing daily allotments of cigarettes.

Dr. Lawrence Garfinkel of the American Cancer Society noted that the study was conducted under carefully controlled laboratory conditions, not the way people actually smoke and live.

"Even if it's true," he said, "it's still good advice to cut down in the amount that you smoke, because you are taking in less toxins. While the magnitude of the benefit is much less than expected, it's still of benefit to cut down."

The study suggests that by smoking more intensely, people are able to satisfy their nicotine craving with far fewer cigarettes than they ordinarily smoke. This explains why people trying to stop smoking often are able to cut back successfully but fail to kick the habit completely.

The San Francisco doctors cautioned that their data do not apply to all smokers who are trying to quit. Some may restrain the intensity of their puffing.

Handicapped girl to be in pageant

BORGER, Texas (AP) — A girl born without one leg will be lining up with other candidates vying for the title of Miss Nebraska in a teen-age beauty pageant Friday.

Jamie Annette McDaniel, 17, a resident of Gretna, Neb., was selected to compete after her high school asked her to interview for a spot. She was one of 60 girls selected for the event, to be held Friday-Sunday in Omaha.

Miss McDaniel, whose two grandmothers and an uncle live in Borger, wears a prosthesis which allows her to walk and participate in many sports, including gymnastics and snow skiing.

In an essay required of pageant hopefuls, Miss McDaniel wrote about her love of sports.

Information about your changing telephone service from Jim West, Manager-Community Relations

A look at phone services of the future

It may be hard to believe but 1987 is a little more than a month away. I don't know about you, but every year about this time, I start to think about the future. It's as if the passage from one year to the next is a window, and every November I get the urge to step up to that window to look at the images on the other side of the glass.

As an employee of Southwestern Bell Telephone, I am naturally inclined to think about the changes that will be taking place in the telecommunications industry. Certainly, this industry has had more than its share of changes in the last few years. However, when I look to the future, I see technological advancements that will literally change — no, revolutionize — our way of life.

Business Week recently published an excellent article on the future of the telecommunications industry, titled, "The Rewiring of America." It told of how current research is working toward forming one compatible coast-to-coast network, called the Integrated Services Digital Network or ISDN. This system would simultaneously carry voice and data messages over one line, acting as a sort of telecommunications super-highway.

Before ISDN can become a reality, however, new types of equipment must be installed nationwide. Especially critical to ISDN is the digital switch, which Southwestern Bell Telephone is installing at an aggressive pace in its central offices across the state. This year alone it is estimated that we will spend $253 million on this project.

As part owner of Bellcore, the research wing of the seven regional Bell operating companies, Southwestern Bell Telephone is participating in experiments relating to the ISDN. The developments initiated in the coming years will not only improve the quality of your call transmission, but will expand the ways in which you use your phone.

Technology permits new uses for your phone

For example, your phone line will be able to serve as a home security system, mail carrier and, with the help of your personal computer, a video newspaper. You will also be able to use your phone to check the status of your bank account in another city.

The new technology will make your phone even more reliable than it is now. Among the service-related developments on the horizon is a computer system that will detect trouble on your line — even before you do — and automatically make the necessary repairs.

What's more, you will have a wide choice of phone features — far beyond what you may have ever imagined. For example, our network will know the originating location of an incoming call. Then, as the phone is ringing, a computer-generated voice will announce the caller's name so you can decide if you would like to answer it or not.

Farfetched? Not at all. Austin customers have been trialing early versions of similar services for nearly two years. One of the most popular, Automatic Recall, addresses a frustration we have all experienced. Inevitably, when you rush to answer a ringing telephone, it stops just as you pick it up. With this phone feature, you can call that number back by simply dialing a two digit code.

Another feature being tested allows you to block certain numbers from ringing through to your phone. Another still, enables you to forward only certain calls to a third number. And perhaps one feature that could have the greatest impact of all, will allow you to trace annoyance calls.

The ultimate winner in this technological explosion will be you, the phone customer. You will have advanced telecommunication systems at your fingertips. And if you prefer only to use your phone for that most basic of reasons — to make a call — you will have faster, more dependable phone service than ever before.

We are proud of the research under way at Southwestern Bell Telephone. It is part of our pledge to provide you with the best possible phone service — today and in the future.

Slide show highlights Amitie study meeting

Harley Bynum presented a slide show of a Dallas Cowboys-Houston Oilers football game during the Nov. 11 meeting of the Amitie Study Club.

During the steak supper served at the Willow Park Inn, Bynum also told of his experiences while photographing the game. Several husbands also attended the meeting.

President Pete Haley led the session. Lavada Cates was welcomed as a new member.

The group brought gifts to the meeting to be distributed to patients at the state hospital in Big Spring for Christmas.

In addition, tickets for the club's upcoming Country Christmas Dance were distributed.

Jody Nix and the West Texas Cowboys will perform for the event slated Dec. 6 at the National Guard Armory. Advance tickets are available from club members for $12.50 per couple. Tickets will also be available at the door for $15 per couple. Interested persons may call 573-5116, 573-3231 or 573-2980 for more information.

Funds raised from the two dances sponsored during the year help several local charities and organizations and provide scholarships.

The group set the next meeting for Dec. 9 at the home of Pete Haley. Members are asked to bring a gift for a Christmas exchange.

Artists and organizations receive grant funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Inter-Arts Program of the National Endowment for the Arts has announced 55 grants totaling $827,120 to artists and arts organizations involved in the creation and production of interdisciplinary arts projects.

Artie Butler explains school budget monies

Snyder ISD Business Manager Artie Butler served as the featured speaker for the November meeting of the Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma at the Martha Ann Woman's Club.

In keeping with the program theme, "The Evolving Learning Environment: Problems, Promises, Prospects," Butler addressed the issue of funding quality education with specific emphasis on the effect of HB 72 on school finance.

He explained to the group that all schools receive a per capita allotment from the state. The amount of the funds is based on average daily attendance.

Because Snyder ISD is a budget balanced district, the allotment is the only state revenue the district receives.

Butler stated the local budget is over $12.6 million. Over 85 percent of the total comes from local sources with an additional 11 percent from the state and 3½ percent from the federal government.

The amount of revenue received from the state is based on formulas established by HB 72 and the ability of the districts to pay for a state foundation program.

President Jean Sealy led the business session which preceded the program. Members noted that Emily Hataway represented the organization in the Ben Brock Memorial Turkey Walk for the American Heart Association. Funds from the project will benefit the Cogdell Memorial Hospital mammography fund, the Noah Project, and the Big Spring State Hospital Christmas gift program.

Chairmen of the scholarship, membership, constitution and world fellowship committees also presented reports.

June McGlaun presented special recognition to Helen Mock for her contributions to Delta Kappa Gamma on both the local and state levels.

ARTIE BUTLER

Elwanda Nall also recognized Jo Alyce McMullan for outstanding work to the local organization through her preparation of yearbooks.

Dorothy Kayser led the group in singing "Problems, Promises, and Prospects" to close the meeting.

Club elects new officers

Patchwork Squares Extension Homemakers Club met Nov. 11 in the home of Sharon Fulton. Ruby Clark, president, conducted the business meeting.

The theme for this year's Christmas party to include all the extension clubs was announced as "An Old-Fashioned Christmas." It will be hosted by the Plainview Club on Dec. 9 in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Officers were elected for the 1987 year as follows: Joyce McCoy, president; Gingah Williamson, vice-president; Freida Dever, secretary-treasurer; Peggy Remington, council delegate; Pearl Wheeler, reporter.

Mary Jacobi and Patricia West were welcomed as new members.

Kathy Roberts, County Extension Agent, presented the program on communication skills. She stressed the importance of listening and gave members some exercises which involved giving directions, listening and carrying out directions given.

Honor volunteers

Snyder Nursing Center will host an appreciation party Friday at 2:45 p.m. to honor individuals who have offered volunteer hours to the institution.

The general public, as well as family and friends of volunteers, are invited to attend.

The center is located on the Big Spring Highway.

A missed opportunity

Here is another page in the book of mangled defensive plays. Against four spades, West led the heart three. Declarer played low from dummy and won the ace as East played the 10. Now came a low club to dummy's jack, won by East's queen. Naturally East now cashed the heart queen. Just as naturally, West allowed East to hold the lead with that queen. And that was it for the defense. East played back a spade, but declarer won in his hand and played another club, guessing to put in dummy's nine. That made dummy's club king a winner to take care of declarer's second diamond loser, so the game was made.

A cursory analysis shows that the contract would easily be set if West selected a diamond as his opening lead. But in the battle of the bridge hand, previous plays are history. West was supposed to do his best to set the contract after the unfortunate heart lead, but he missed his chance. All he had to do was overtake East's queen of hearts and lead a diamond. If declarer rises with dummy's ace, draws three rounds of trumps ending in his hand and sheds a diamond from dummy on the heart nine, East will ruff. If declarer ducks the diamond, East will win the king.

How can West know that East started with the heart Q-10 alone instead of Q-10-x? With the latter holding, it is correct for East to play back a low heart. Finally, if declarer had started with six trumps headed by the jack, nothing was going to work for the defenders.

Vivid colors will splash ski clothes

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Ski garments this year will be splashed with wild colors, a Colorado State University study predicts.

"The new trends will have intense, vibrant colors like electric blues and wild combinations such as blacks and yellows — what I call the bumblebee look," said Janet Hethorn, a fashion design instructor who conducted the study with her students last spring.

However, she said, the old "marshmallow look" — bulky thermal bibs and fluffy jackets — will remain popular.

Students discipline planned

AUSTIN (AP) — University of Texas students allegedly involved with the alcohol-related death of a fraternity pledge have been summoned by the school administration for disciplinary meetings.

The meetings, the first step in campus disciplinary proceedings, will be held next week as a result of the university's investigation into whether hazing contributed to the death of fraternity pledge Mark Seeberger in September, according to Ronald Brown, UT vice president for student affairs.

The university announced Wednesday that it had completed its investigation, which began Oct. 7, and that students have been notified by certified letter to come to the office of the dean of students for administrative hearings.

A Travis County grand jury also has been investigating the death of Seeberger, an 18-year-old Dallas freshman who died of alcohol poisoning Sept. 18.

Another pledge has told police that Seeberger was taken on a fraternity "ride" the night of Sept. 17 in a van with two other pledges, three members of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and a female UT student. The pledges were handcuffed during part of the evening, police have been told.

An autopsy indicated Seeberger had consumed about 18 ounces of rum.

TSTA/NEA PRIDE IN excellence

Parent-Teacher Conferences

TSTA and this newspaper continue a seven-part series to help you with your child's schooling. Here is part four.

Many people think a parent-teacher conference is needed only when their child is in trouble at school. It shouldn't be.

As teachers, we know that we can do a better job teaching your child if we have your help and support. We're eager to work together with you to help your child get the best possible education.

A conference gives you a chance to learn what your child is studying, to discuss his or her progress in school, and to find out ways you can help at home. And it gives us a chance to learn things from you that will help us do a better job of educating your child.

So, take advantage of parent nights and other opportunities during the year to talk with your child's teacher. These hints may help make the conference more productive.

Ask specific questions. Is my child working up to potential? How is my child progressing in specific subjects? Does my child show any special abilities or skills? Is my child well-behaved? Does he or she cause any trouble?

Let your child know you're going to talk to the teacher, and ask if there's anything he or she would like you to bring up.

Be ready to volunteer such things as your child's outside interests or hobbies, special health needs, relationship with brothers and sisters, or any other event or experience which may affect his or her schoolwork.

Since time for the conference is often short, be prompt. If you feel you need more time, ask about setting up another meeting later.

Listen carefully and unemotionally to the teacher's comments about your child's strengths and weaknesses.

Plan together with the teacher any actions to take to help your child accomplish more in school.

After the conference, discuss the meeting with your child (leaving out anything he or she may not be mature enough to understand). Be positive about any changes or new plans. Start right away with any actions you've decided to take at home.

Let your child know that you and the teacher are working together because you both care about how he or she is doing in school.

U.S. companies need help, according to oil executive

HOUSTON (AP) — The United States must do everything possible to provide domestic companies with an even playing field to compete with foreign manufacturers if the country is going to remain a world power, the chairman of Mobil Oil Corp. says.

Otherwise, the trade imbalance, which currently is $150 billion, will continue to depress the American economy, says Allen Murray.

"When you talk about the economy of this country you can't avoid international trade," Murray told several hundred business leaders Wednesday at a Forum Club luncheon. "We can't be a great nation if we are not great in international trade."

The United States also must give attention to international trade to keep pace with Japan, Korea, Brazil and other nations that are very serious about their roles in the international arena. Brazil is the third leading exporter in the world, he said.

"World trade is something our leaders largely seem to ignore — until some trade industry gets pinched by foreign competition and screams for protection," Murray said. "The proposed answer is usually an even louder cry for tariffs, or import quotas, or some other protectionist measures that would only make matters worse by triggering retaliation, trade wars and the possibility of a worldwide depression."

Despite his desire to improve America's competitive posture, the Mobil chairman maintained his opposition to an oil import fee, and said he was surprised by the American Petroleum Institute's apparent reversal last week of its stance against a tariff.

"It will not raise a lot more revenue that will flow to the oil industry. Most will go to taxes," he said.

Murray also said he is opposed to the establishment of a minimum oil price, and he does not think the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will succeed in its attempt to boost world oil prices by reducing consumption.

Instead, Murray said he thinks the United States should enforce the trade protection measures already in place. These include prohibitions against dumping foreign products on the American market at reduced prices and against other countries' providing export subsidies.

The United States imposed 36 fines during fiscal year 1986 for violations of the existing prohibitions.

Congress also must attack the budget deficit, because of the direct correlation between it and the trade deficit, Murray said. The deficit keeps U.S. interest rates higher than those in other countries, making it more expensive — and therefore harder — for domestic companies to compete.

"The budget gap ... also acts to keep the dollar higher than it ought to be, and that's another handicap for American business," he said.

Murray also suggested Congress consider a consumption tax, which would generate income from both the legitimate and underground economies. The tax would be levied on domestic consumption, including imports, but not levied on exports.

"It remains the most logical way to reduce the deficit without hurting the nation's economic posture as a world competitor," he said.

But looking for help out front...

'86 Tigers offer strong inside game

Returning starters Chris Garrett and Trey Tippens, a pair of 6-4 standouts, are sure to give the Tiger varsity basketball squad a strong inside game this season, but the overall success of the team could depend on what happens at the other positions.

Snyder opens the 1986-87 season Friday, playing Cooper High School in Abilene at 7:30 p.m. Junior varsity teams play at 6 p.m.

COACH LARRY SCOTT

Garrett, an all-loop performer of a year ago, and Tippens, an honorable mention selection, give Snyder veteranship and size inside. Garrett is a senior; Tippens a junior. The Tigers also have two other 6-4 players in senior Daniel Chasteen and sophomore Tom Marvin.

"Definitely, our strength is at the post," said Coach Larry Scott. "We've got good depth there, too."

But Snyder returns only two other lettermen, senior guards Dennis Martinez and Reynaldo Gomez. Neither were starters last season, but both saw some playing time.

The Tigers have eight players working at the guard and wing positions at the varsity level, and five others who are currently working with the junior varsity. Any of them could wind up being starters.

"We've got some good people and we're looking at a lot of different ones," said the coach. "Our guards and wings are the big question mark. I think we have some people who can do the job; it's just of matter of who is going to do it."

Snyder graduated a number of players, among them starters Mike McWilliams, Bobby Scott and Jackie Anderson and part-time starter Don Osborn.

"We probably won't be as physically talented out front as we were last year. This group has a lot of court sense though and they are students of the game," said Coach Scott. "They listen well and try to do what the coaches tell them. They are able to see why we want them to do certain things. It's a plus because they can read the defense well and react to it."

Seniors working with the varsity include 5-11 wing Earl Ware, and 5-8 guard Shawn Rhodes in addition to Garrett, Chasteen, Gomez and Martinez. Juniors are 6-3 wing Terry Garza, 6-0 wing Scott Lanier, 5-7 guard Brad Gartman and 5-7 guard Wayne Ware.

Players working with the junior varsity now, but who could move up at some time during the season, include five juniors: 5-11 guards Roland Romo, Kevin Combest and Kevin Ward, 5-9 guard Van Echols, and 6-1 wing-post Craig Watkins.

"What we're looking for out front is people who can break the press and can get the ball down the floor, players with good court awarness who are able to hit that 10 to 15-foot jump shot," Scott said.

"We'll rely on our post a lot, but we expect a lot of teams to sag inside on us, so we have to have production from out front, too," he said.

The Tigers were 19-7 last season and third in District 2-4A play with a 10-4 mark. Coach Scott cautioned that the squad could get off to a slow start in 1986.

"We may lose some games early because of all the players we have coming out from football. It takes time to adjust. We know we're not going to go out Friday and shoot 45 percent from the field," the coach said. "It's going to take some time to get adjusted and to find the people who can do what we need them to do."

Snyder plays in Abilene Friday, then hosts Lubbock High at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Scurry County Coliseum. Snyder plays only two home games before opening district play on Dec. 16 at Fort Stockton. The 2-4A home opener is Dec. 19 with Pecos.

"We're optimistic about the season. A lot will depend upon if our post people come through like we think they can. Also, we're going to have to have real good play out of our guards and wings. We're the biggest team in the district, but teams like Andrews and Lamesa are quicker than we are. We'll just have to see if our height can dominate their quickness or if their quickness dominates our height."

Ladies battle Friday

BIG SPRING -- Snyder girls will face Lubbock Coronado at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the Big Spring Invitational Tournament here.

The two-day tournament opens at 3 p.m. Friday when Big Spring hosts Lubbock High. Andrews and Hereford clash at 4:45 p.m. and Sweetwater and El Paso High battle at 8:15 p.m.

All of the games will be held at Big Spring High School Gym except for Saturday's 7 p.m. championship game, which is scheduled for Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The loser of Friday's Snyder-Coronado game will play again at 8:15 a.m. Saturday. The winner will play at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

TCU Frogs return a bunch; will be challenged for title

DALLAS (AP) - Texas Christian Coach Jim Killingsworth says it is easy to figure out why most of his fellow coaches have branded the Horned Frogs as the team to beat in the Southwest Conference.

"The reason they pick us is that everyone is coming back," Killingsworth said.

Killingsworth returns four starters, including Carl Lott, who averaged 15.8 points per game and was named SWC Newcomer of the Year. Despite the wealth of experience, Killingsworth said almost anything could happen in this year's league race.

"I wouldn't be surprised if we had a conference champion and then someone else came along and won the conference tournament," Killingsworth said Wednesday as SWC coaches gathered in Dallas to talk over the upcoming season.

That's exactly the scenario last season when Texas, TCU and Texas A&M shared the regular season title, only to see Texas Tech come on strong at the end and capture the SWC post-season tournament and the conference's only berth in the NCAA tournament.

The Longhorns, Horned Frogs and Aggies all earned berths in the National Invitation Tournament.

Pat Foster, who has succeeded the legendary Guy V. Lewis as coach at Houston, said TCU "has the guards that will give them an edge over anyone in this league."

But Killingsworth said he expects trouble from the Cougars and the Arkansas Razorbacks, both of which will be trying to rebound from disappointing seasons.

"Houston's always Houston," Killingsworth said. "They might be down for a while, but not for long."

Killingsworth said second-year coach Nolan Richardson of Arkansas had a great recruiting year at Arkansas and is past his first traumatic year of living in the shadow of Eddie Sutton.

"Last year was his first," Killingsworth said. "He knows the league and he knows his players now."

Richardson indicated he was cautiously optimistic about the Razorbacks' chances and said a key part of the team's rebuilding effort would be a pre-season schedule that includes Alabama, Mississippi, Virginia and a berth in the Rainbow Classic at Honolulu in late December.

"When we finish our pre-season, I'll know what kind of team we've got," he said. "(If) we get a few breaks and get rolling, who knows?"

A tough pre-conference schedule also faces Texas Tech, which plays Kentucky, Arizona, Clemson, Kansas State, Wyoming and Southeastern Louisiana. The Red Raiders closed last season by giving highly rated Georgetown a scare in the first round of the NCAA playoffs before losing by six points.

"We're going to find out our strengths and weaknesses, who can play and who can't play with our non-conference schedule," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers.

The Red Raiders have three returning starters, including 6-3 guard Sean Gay, who was named to the All-U.S. Olympic Festival team in Houston this summer. Four talented redshirts join the team, including 6-10 Wes Lowe and Rodney Henderson, a seven-footer.

Myers said the Horned Frogs have the early advantage.

"TCU is the team to beat," he said. "But there are a lot of teams that could develop throughout the year."

Killingsworth said Baylor, which suffered through a year of NCAA investigations and sanctions, could develop into a spoiler. The Bears have been restricted to 11 scholarship players this year as part of those sanctions for recruiting violations during the tenure of former Coach Jim Haller.

Baylor Coach Gene Iba, whose first season consisted of patching together a team hit by NCAA suspensions, says the new campaign represents a fresh start and he plans to explore all possibilities.

Pro cage roundup...

Celtics hold off Hawks

by The Associated Press

The Atlanta Hawks, with 50 victories last season and a 7-1 mark to start 1986-87, want to believe that a younger generation of NBA teams is ready to challenge for the championship.

The defending champion Boston Celtics have other ideas.

The Celtics, the oldest team in the league, and the Hawks, with some of the best young players, met for the first time Wednesday night, with Boston winning 111-107.

Kevin McHale, who led the Celtics with 30 points, said the Hawks were "right up there, one of the five top teams in the league."

Other Boston players had similar praise for Atlanta, but Larry Bird said after his 29-point performance that "We didn't play very well and we still beat them. To tell the truth, we're not really worried about them. We're not worried about anyone."

In other games, it was Philadelphia 98, New York 94; Washington 119, Detroit 105; Golden State 112, Cleveland 104; Los Angeles Lakers 117, San Antonio 108; and Phoenix 111, New Jersey 101.

The Celtics and Hawks are both 7-2, but Boston has done it despite injuries to Danny Ainge, Bill Walton and Scott Wedman, although Ainge played briefly against the Hawks in his first appearance of the season. Meanwhile, McHale played 43 minutes, Bird 46, Dennis Johnson 42 and Robert Parish 40. Parish had 20 rebounds to go with his 12 points.

The Celtics scored eight consecutive points for a 99-92 lead with just over five minutes left and went on to their 45th consecutive home victory, including 42 at Boston Garden.

Bullets 119, Pistons 105

Moses Malone scored 18 of his 31 points in the first half and Jeff Malone added 17 of his 28 in the same span as Washington easily pulled away from visiting Detroit, which lost its third straight game.

Vinnie Johnson led the Pistons with 20 points.

Lakers 117, Spurs 108

Los Angeles improved its record to an NBA best 7-1 as Magic Johnson had 29 points and 13 assists.

The victory wasn't easy for the visiting Lakers, who broke away from an 84-84 tie in the fourth period. The final margin was their largest lead of the game after Johnny Moore hit two three-pointers in the last 2:10.

Byron Scott added 23 points for the Lakers, while Alvin Robertson had 34 points, 10 rebounds, 10 assists and 10 steals for the Spurs.

76ers 98, Knicks 94

Roy Hinson scored 23 points and Philadelphia held off a New York rally from a 16-point deficit in the fourth quarter.

Rookie Kenny Walker scored 25 points and Bill Cartwright 22 for New York.

Warriors 112, Cavaliers 104

Golden State handed Cleveland its fifth straight defeat as Purvis Short scored 21 points despite leaving the game with a strained knee late in the third period.

Rookie Brad Daugherty scored a season-high 29 points for Cleveland.

Suns 111, Nets 101

Reserve forward Mike Sanders scored 21 points and Walter Davis was 10-for-12 from the field for 20 points as Phoenix dropped visiting New Jersey to 2-8, worst record in the league.

The Suns now are 4-0 at home.

Orlando Woolridge led all scorers with 24 points for the Nets.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED REDUCTION IN AT&T's TEXAS RATES

The Public Utility Commission of the state of Texas has entered orders in two recent cases that would substantially reduce the charges which AT&T pays to the state's local telephone companies and which could allow AT&T to reduce prices for most of AT&T's customers on calls placed within the state of Texas.

The total amount of the reduction to AT&T's customers is expected to be between $115.3 million and $120.6 million. This is in addition to the $19.8 million reduction in AT&T's Texas basic long distance prices that went into effect on March 1, 1986 and is in addition to the approximately $2 billion in AT&T interstate price reductions that took effect earlier this year.

If the changes are approved, all of AT&T's direct dialed long distance, directory assistance, WATS and 800 service customers would be affected, and would experience a decrease in their prices for these services when calling within the state of Texas. The following tables show the anticipated impact of the changes on AT&T customers by service category.

Class of Service	Approximate Overall % Reduction	Approximate Overall Dollar Reduction (in millions)
Long Distance	9.2	$ 68.4
Directory Assistance	20.0	1.0
WATS	29.1	29.7
800	19.9	21.5

The rate reductions are presently anticipated to occur in two phases on or about October 22, 1986 and November 12, 1986. The matter has been assigned as Docket Nos. 6926 and 7113. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf. A complete copy of the tariffs reflecting the potential rate reductions will be on file with the Commission on or before October 23, 1986.

Petition is circulated at Southern Methodist

DALLAS (AP) - A petition endorsed by the Southern Methodist faculty senate that recommends the university abolish "quasi-professional" athletics programs will be reviewed by university President L. Donald Shields.

The petition, signed by more than half SMU's faculty members during its circulation this week, called for "the immediate, unconditional and permanent abolition of quasi-professional athletics at this university."

The senate, the faculty's representative body composed of approximately 25 members, drafted the petition into a resolution in a special session Wednesday. Prior to the meeting, a statement from Shields was released asking for the faculty's views on the school's beleaguered athletic program.

The faculty also protested what it called special admission criteria, monetary payments and privileged academic treatment for athletes.

The petition recommended the elimination of athletic department management.

"I'm not sure what was in the resolution," said Athletic Director Bob Hitch. "But I would be more than willing to meet with them. That's my job."

The petition comes after allegations last week by a former Mustang football player that he received money from SMU athletic officials after the team was placed on probation for recruiting violations. Other charges of violations followed reports that an SMU athletic booster allegedly has been paying for a football player's apartment.

"We favor traditional honorable amateur athletics and intercollegiate competition only with those institutions unambigously committed to honorable amateur athletics," the petition read.

The document was drawn up by philosophy professor A. Serge Kappler and circulated among faculty members beginning Monday, according to The Daily Campus.

"I think (the resolution) called for a reaffirmation of amateur athletics as being essential to the sporting content that is intended for university life," said economics professor J. Carter Murphy, who supported the resolution. "SMU now has an opportunity as a result of being made a symbol of what is wrong today in college athletics to lead the way toward good health and balance."

The resolution, which passed 16-4 with one abstention, will be presented to Shields.

Los Angeles Raiders at San Diego

JV gridders wrap up fine campaign

Snyder junior varsity football team had a fine season in 1986, winning all of its home games and going 2-3 on the road for a 6-3 record.

The young Tigers averaged 30.9 points a game and gave up just 7.6 while recording four shutouts.

"Personally, I love beating (rivals) Andrews, Sweetwater and Big Spring and I know the players enjoyed it more than I did," said Coach Rick Howell. "I am very proud of this team, mainly for two reasons. First, these young men always seemed to bounce back and play great following a loss and this shows their competitiveness and pride in being winners. Secondly, they had to overcome much adversity. We were without some outstanding sophomore skill people that these guys had played with and counted on in previous years. Also, we lost several players to grades. Throughout all of this, these young men kept working and winning.

"The next two years should be fine ones for the Ragin' Tigers. Coach (Bud) Birks and I really had fun and were honored to coach such a fine group of young men," said Howell.

Fouts is out

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Instability at quarterback, a problem the Chargers thought they had solved last week, resurfaced on the eve of tonight's game between San Diego and the Los Angeles Raiders.

Backup up quarterback Tom Flick will start in place of Dan Fouts, who has been unable to practice this week because of a sore shoulder, San Diego Coach Al Saunders said Wednesday.

Fouts suffered the injury last Sunday during the Chargers' 24-21 loss to the Dallas Cowboys. He had missed the three previous games with a concussion.

Sideline glances...

45-point rule for basketball

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

They have it in six-man football and based on scores around the area this week, some thought ought to be given to it in basketball, too.

I'm talking about the 45-point rule.

Surely Odessa Permian would go for it. In a game which proves girl's basketball can be excellent or horrid at any level, the Permian girls lost to Levelland 89-23 Tuesday. That's a 66-point spread, folks.

Shame on Levelland. The Loboettes led 52-7 at the half (enter the 45-point rule) and still came out and won the third quarter 20-4. It's got to be depressing to look up at the scoreboard and find yourself down 72-11 with eight minutes still to play.

Spur might agree. Spur trailed Slaton 59-16 at the start of the fourth quarter Tuesday. Guess who won?

Back to the thought about girl's basketball being great or terrible (or was it excellent or horrid), Morton could make the same statement concerning the boy's game. Morton, defending Class 2A champions, blitzed Lubbock Dunbar, of Class 4A, 86-64 Tuesday.

Speaking of Odessa Permian (weren't we?), Rex Lamberti is a graduate. You've heard of Lamberti, the junior quarterback for Abilene Christian University. He's the nation's leading passer with 30 touchdowns this season.

Abilene Christian plays West Texas State University this weekend and it could be a long, long afternoon. WTSU's Tod Mayfield is also one of the nation's top passing quarterbacks. He has 28 touchdowns.

Both, by the way, are among the 26 candidates for the new Harlon Hill trophy, to be awarded to the "best" Division II player. It's Division II's version of the Heisman. The Harlon Hill award is named after the former North Alabama and Chicago Bear receiver of the same name.

And back to basketball for a minute, my, how times have changed. Texas has long been noted as a hotbed for football players, but only recently has the Lone Star state gained some respect in basketball. True, there aren't any Southwest Conference teams in the preseason college top 20, but that doesn't mean the state isn't producing some outstanding talent.

Bay City's LaBradford Smith signed this week with defending NCAA champion Louisville while Rosenberg Terry's 7-0 Johnny Pittman opted to ink with the Kentucky Wildcats.

It's just a matter of time before some of this type talent stays at home.

Predictions.

Last week's effort didn't put me above .700 for the season. In fact, .691 isn't even real close. A couple of ties and some near-misses on upset picks (Minnesota-New York, Chicago-Atlanta) did me in.

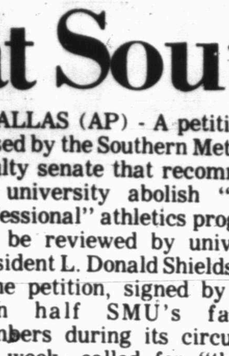

Anyway, that's it for 1986, thankfully.

Congratulations to the Spanish Inn for winning our coffee shop poll. SI (not Sports Illustrated) finished the "season" at .668 percent, edging Rainbow Inn, which posted a .660 mark. Louise's was third at .659, followed by Stinson Drug at .655 and Bell-Cypert-Seale at .636. All five were within seven games of each other.

TOP TEAM – The Rangers, winners of the Snyder fall soccer season and tournament champions, competed in the Midland Tall City Soccer Classic last weekend. Team members are, left to right, front row, Kyle Muller, Stevie Gordon, Toby Delce, Eric Tovar, Patrick Jordan, David Garcia, and second row, Chris Timmons, Cory Mandrell, Mandy Perez, Melissa Pratt, Toby Zalman, Greg Herrera, and back row, coach Billy Timmons, team mothers Quenna Perez and Jeanette Pratt, and coach Vince Garcia. Human sacrifice reports probed

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Allegations of human sacrifices by Satan worshippers are being investigated by authorities here, although the sheriff admits there is no hard evidence to support the claims.

"We do not have a specific crime that we can point to or somebody who is reported missing," Sheriff Leo Samaniegio said. "We are looking at are statements from people who used to be involved in Satanism, or who know others who are involved, and who claim that human sacrifices are being conducted in the El Paso area.

"Even though we do not have any hard evidence yet, there is no reason not to believe them," he told the El Paso Times Tuesday.

George Althoff, an officer with the city police Intelligence Division, confirmed that city police also are investigating reports of human sacrifices. He would not elaborate.

Samaniego said he believed an investigation was necessary because "there are too many people within the community who are saying the same things." He assigned detectives who investigate homicides, sex crimes and child abuse to investigate.

Some former Satanists, Samaniego said, told sheriff's detectives that infants who are born to Satanists were sacrificed in rituals. Investigators also were told that transient adults sometimes were sacrificed.

One former satanist, who said she attended weekly rituals for two years, is among those who told detectives about the alleged activity.

Some of the information concerning human sacrifices surfaced at a meeting in October attended by the former satanist, two city police detectives and an El Paso Times reporter.

The meeting was arranged by WATCH, an organization devoted to educating people about cults and the occult.

The former satanist agreed to be interviewed on the condition that she not be identified. During a two-year period, she told the Times, she witnessed three human sacrifices involving newborn infants. She said mothers volunteered to sacrifice their babies.

"It was considered a high honor (by the mothers)," she said.

Sexual orgies and animal sacrifices were part of some of the other rituals, she said, but human sacrifices were for special satanic holidays, such as Halloween.

Whenever satanists conduct a sacrifice, they stand around a 9-foot circle with a pentagram inside the circle, and walk around it while chanting. A high priest or priestess who officiates stabs the victim with a long, sharp knife. After the victim is killed, satanists drink the victim's blood.

"The whole thing lasts about 30 minutes," she said. "After the ritual, the leaders pour some kind of chemical on the body to decalcify the bones and burn the remains. The ashes are picked up and saved for different rituals."

Three other people have related similar accounts to the El Paso Times. Two of them have been interviewed by sheriff's and city police detectives. None of the three are related or knows any of the others.

One of the people, who was not a satanist and who also asked not to be identified for fear of retaliation by coven members, said she had taken a drug and had been drinking before she realized a group of young adults she was with was conducting a satanic ritual.

She claims the group killed an adult woman during the ceremony, but because she was under the influence of drugs, she couldn't pinpoint the place where the sacrifice took place. She said the group buried the body somewhere in the Northeast El Paso desert. People she has told this too do not believe her because she was under the influence of drugs.

Another allegation about a human sacrifice surfaced at the Lee Moor Runaway Center earlier this year.

Barbara Hargrove, director of the center, said a teen-ager who stayed at the center temporarily after running away from home told counselors she witnessed a human sacrifice at a satanic ritual in the desert. Hargrove said the center notified police about the allegation and the teen-ager was questioned by juvenile police.

Bike theft noted

Police are investigating a bicycle theft complaint filed Wednesday evening.

Jessie Castenada of 1609 Ave. E reported at 7:42 p.m. that a 20 inch BMX type bike valued at $125 had been stolen from outside his residence.

In other action, officers logged two misdemeanor arrests including one for driving while intoxicated and one for driving with a suspended license.

Ensor speaks to AARP Tues.

Marvin Ensor, county extension agent, led a discussion Tuesday during the regular monthly meeting of the local AARP chapter. R. C. Smith, president, conducted the meeting.

Irene Hudgins, secretary, recorded the minutes and reported the minutes from the October meeting. Bernice Hale, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Information concerning correspondence with national headquarters was discussed. Two possible projects were also brought up.

Plans for December include the election of officers and the annual Christmas festivity.

John Wiman reported his committee's nominees for the election slate. Attendance was fair, with one guest and one new member present.

'Dallas' star in seclusion in Boulder

BOULDER, Mont. (AP) — "Dallas" star Patrick Duffy was in seclusion today with relatives and friends, and stunned residents of this ranching community expressed outrage at the shotgun slayings of his parents.

Terrence and Marie "Babe" Duffy were killed by shotgun blasts during an apparent robbery at their tavern Tuesday night. Two men were charged Wednesday after telling the girlfriend of one about the crime, authorities said.

"Everybody's stunned. This town is so small that everybody knows everybody else," said Denise Sutherlin, who works at the Boulder Monitor newspaper owned by her parents. "I can't believe they're dead. It hasn't sunk in yet."

"Things like that just don't happen in Boulder," said Bud Smith, an auto repair shop owner who had been at the Duffys' bar little more than an hour before they were killed.

Patrick Duffy, who plays Bobby Ewing on the CBS television series, and his sister, Lt. Joanne Hunt of the Seattle Police Department, arrived in this southwestern Montana town Wednesday.

The actor would have a statement later, said Bob Crutchfield, a spokesman for Lorimar-Telepictures in Los Angeles, the producers of "Dallas."

The show shut down production briefly Wednesday but resumed at Duffy's urging. Lorimar issued a statement in Los Angeles expressing sympathy for Duffy and his family. "Everyone is overcome with grief," it said.

Once a rough-and-tumble mining camp, Boulder is a generally peaceful ranching community of 1,500 people midway between Helena and Butte. The Duffys, owners of The Lounge on the main street, were found dead Tuesday night.

Sean A. Wentz and Kenneth A. Miller, both 19 and of Helena, were arrested in Helena and appeared before a justice of the peace there. They each were charged with two counts each of deliberate homicide and held on $500,000 bond.

Neither entered pleas, and they face a preliminary hearing Dec. 4 here.

Miller appeared near tears as he entered the courtroom.

The two were arrested following a brief auto chase after a visit to Wentz's girlfriend, said Helena Police Capt. Ron Morley. "They mentioned a crime where some people had been shot and were dead. They left the girlfriend's house and she immediately called her mother, and she (the mother) called us."

Residents said the killings were all the more shocking because the Duffys' bar had been such a peaceful place.

"It's the kind of place you'd want to go for a quiet drink," said Kevin Dempsey. "They didn't like the rowdiness. They were quiet people. They kept most of the riffraff out. If any trouble started they (the troublemakers) were out the door."

Patrick Duffy, who returned this season to the long-running "Dallas" after a year's absence, was born in Townsend, on the other side of the Elkhorn Mountains from Boulder, and went to school in Boulder and in Washington state.

The 37-year-old actor lives in Los Angeles with his wife, Carlyn, and their sons, ages 10 and 6.

An occasional visitor to Boulder, Duffy was a source of pride to his parents, who had a wall of pictures of him in their bar and often talked about their children with their friends.

"They never missed one episode of 'Dallas' and they always taped it," said Bobby Sutherlin, co-owner of the Monitor and a close friend of the Duffys. "Usually Terry was working during the program, so Babe would tape it so he could see it later."

Commander relieved of AF duties

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The former commander of Carswell Air Force Base was relieved of his command because of an Air Force investigation into luxury improvements he made to his home, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

In a copyright story, the newspaper reported that sources told them the luxury improvments, including addition of a sun porch and the addition of solid brass bathroom fixtures, led to the investigation.

Col. Charles G. Kucera was relieved as commander of the 7th Bombardment Wing Tuesday, pending the outcome of an internal Air Force investigation that sources say involves whether he misused thousands of dollars for his two-story brick home, the newpspaper reported.

Kucera, 48, could not be reached by telephone for comment Wednesday, the newspaper said.

A Star-Telegram reporter was denied access to the area because he would have to cross Air Force property and would be subject to arrest, Capt. Paula Hoffman said.

Air Force officials have declined to elaborate on what led to Kucera being relieved of his command.

A Carswell civilian employee told the newspaper that he filed a complaint about Kucera's spending habits in the fall of 1985, a few months after the colonel arrived at Carswell.

Travis L. McCracken, a base electrician and former assistant foreman for base housing, said he complained to the Air Force's Office of Inspector General, an internal investigating agency, that Kucera ordered two sets of gold-plated bathroom faucets, worth an estimated $800, and ran up a $3,000 bill for what McCracken said were "unnecessary light fixtures to his house."

"I wrote up the purchase order (for the faucets), but I refused to sign off on it," said McCracken, who added that a supervisor signed the order instead.

Another workman, who asked not to be identified for fear of reprisal, said solid-brass faucets were installed in two of the three bathrooms in the house. A solid-brass bath-shower ensemble that cost more than $600 and a solid-brass shower stall were also placed in two of the bathrooms.

Kucera was convinced by another officer that the fixtures were too lavish and that Kucera agreed to remove them and have them installed in the officers' quarters reserved for visiting generals, a source said.

"The idea of gold-colored faucets — that's fine I guess. He's the wing commander and he has political people over, like Jim Wright. But it stuck in a lot of peoples' craws," he said.

Workmen also installed 16 to 18 doors that cost an estimated $10,000, he said. The doors included French doors as well as storm and glass doors and were special-ordered.

McCracken said he was interviewed Wednesday morning by Air Force investigators.

Air Force money may have been used to install a sun porch at Kucera's home, another source said.

A congressional source confirmed that Air Force officials were looking into the purchase of equipment used to build what was labeled an "atrium" at Kucera's home.

McCracken says at least $36,089 in renovations were made to the 3,800-square-foot home in fiscal year 1985 after Kucera moved in in June.

Military regulations allow a U.S. Air Force base to spend up to $15,000 per fiscal year on a single military house, including maintenance and repair. Anything exceeding that amount must be approved by the Secretary of the Air Force or by Congress.

Carswell Air Force Base personnel declined to comment about the investigation, referring all questions to higher authorities at 8th Air Force headquarters in Bossier City, La.

Maj. Ken St. John, 8th Air Force spokesman, declined to comment on McCracken's claims and other allegations, but said an investigation of a colonel was unusual.

"It is not something that happens normally, it is not a routine event," St. John said.

St. John said he did not know what triggered the investigation, or what it entailed. He also would not speculate on how long the investigation would take.

'Smokeout' starts

By The Associated Press

Cold turkey sandwiches were readied in Dallas and cigarettes could be swapped for apples or bubble blowers in Peoria, Ill., as the American Cancer Society sponsored today's 10th annual "Great American Smokeout."

The society said it hoped nearly half the nation's 54 million cigarette smokers would abstain or at least cut down for the day.

Cigarette manufacturer Philip Morris fired back Wednesday by distributing hundreds of thousands of "Great American Smokers Kits."

The business meeting will officially begin at 9:45 a.m. Chaplain Lonnie Johnson will offer the invocation and the annual memorial service will be conducted by Jay Skinner, who will also offer opening remarks.

The annual report will be given by Charles (Bugler) Stimson.

The group will gather again Saturday night for a reunion dinner in the WTC Student Center dining room beginning at 6:30 p.m.

An estimated 25 members of the Army company still reside in Scurry County.

Mafia wounded but not dead

NEW YORK (AP) — Racketeering convictions against three Mafia bosses and five subordinates dismantle the mob's ruling "commission" and will lead to a power struggle among the nation's crime families, federal authorities say.

The convictions Wednesday of the Colombo, Genovese and Lucchese family bosses and the other five also will help destroy "the myth that the leadership of the Mafia is untouchable," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Dennison Young. "This is not the end of it. This case is by no means the last case."

The convictions "will have a tremendous impact," said William Doran, head of the Criminal Division in the FBI's New York office. "I think that a power vacuum will be created. There will be a tremendous amount of turmoil. There will be a power struggle.

Treatment of tissue disease

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've been diagnosed as having mixed connective-tissue disease, and I find that it's almost impossible to get any information about it. Could you tell me something about this strange disease?

DEAR READER — Connective tissue is tissue that supports and joins body parts together. Connective tissue disease can affect any of the supporting structures in the body. Inflammatory arthritis, lupus, scleroderma, eye disease, muscle and bone abnormalities and heart ailments are common manifestations of connective-tissue disease.

To a large degree, the treatment of your disease depends on its severity and which organs are affected. In general, some connective-tissue diseases are untreatable; others can be treated with medicine, such as cortisone.

I believe that your own doctor is your most reliable source of information. Ask him or her to give you a thorough explanation of your particular condition.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Can a person live without sleeping? If one doesn't get enough sleep, what parts of the body are harmed?

DEAR READER — People cannot live without sleeping. Sleep deprivation causes brain malfunction, poor judgment, hallucinations and altered behavior, as well as just plain fatigue. Although there appears to be no hard-and-fast rule about how much sleep a person needs, most people require an average of six to eight hours per day in order to function normally.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Somewhere I read that if a child has polio, she gives immunization to any children born to her. Is this true? I had it in 1918 and have four girls.

DEAR READER — A mother's immune proteins are passed on to her newborn children. However, the protection lasts only a few weeks at best. The mother's gift of temporary immunity is short-lived; the baby must develop its own permanent immunity to various diseases by experiencing the natural infection or by being immunized with vaccines.

I might add that babies are susceptible to certain infections that ordinarily do not cause serious adult disease. In addition, mothers who are carriers of some diseases (or who have only partial immunity to them) can infect their babies during the birth process or immediately thereafter.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report, WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT SKIN CANCER, tells how skin cancer can be avoided, identified and treated. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

Work proceeds despite legal battles

DALLAS (AP) — It could take as long as five years to determine how Placid Oil Co. will be affected by the legal fights waged by the billionaire Hunt brothers of Dallas against 23 creditor-banks, one of the Hunts said.

However, William Herbert Hunt said Wednesday that contractors working on projects for Placid Oil are not being slowed by the string of legal battles surrounding the company owned by him and two of his brothers.

Hunt spoke with reporters in a rare question-answer session after giving a speech to petroleum engineers.

He and his brothers, Nelson Bunker and Lamar, filed a $14 billion lawsuit against the banks several months ago. The Hunts claim the banks conspired to destroy Placid and another Hunt company, Penrod Drilling Co.

Placid, one of its subsidiaries and a private trust owned by William Herbert Hunt later filed for bankruptcy protection from creditors.

Hunt spoke Wednesday to the Society of Petroleum Engineers and talked briefly with reporters afterward, saying that suits against the banks have caused concern among companies doing business with Placid.

Crime is biggest concern

DALLAS (AP) — Crime fed by drug abuse and a breakdown in families and parental discipline creates the greatest concern among those surveyed in the 1986 Texas Crime Poll.

"It is clear from this survey that Texans are overwhelmingly concerned about the Texas crime problem, and they want something done about it," said Dennis Longmire, an associate dean who supervised the study at Sam Houston State University.

The Huntsville school conducted the poll of 1,242 people between July and September, and released the results Tuesday in Dallas. A random sample of Texas drivers over age 18 was drawn from 162 of the state's 254 counties, officials said.

Researchers did not try to figure a margin of error because it was a random survey, and results could not be applied to the general public, Longmire said.

Fifty-four percent of the respondents said crime was their most serious worry; 51 percent said drug abuse; 34 percent said inflation and rising unemployment.

Sixty percent of those questioned said crime is a more serious problem today than three years ago, and 50 percent said they believe crime will increase over the next three years, Longmire said.

He said only 43 percent of Texans questioned in a similar poll in 1983 believed crime was getting worse.

Thirty percent of the respondents in this year's poll said they bought a rifle or shotgun in the last year to protect themselves from crime, and 26 percent bought a handgun.

More than a third of the respondents, or 36 percent, said they were crime victims in 1985. Forty-seven percent said they believed they may be a crime victim next year.

Ex-officials upturn streets in pipe repair project

ROSEBUD, Texas (AP) — It took a little disruption of traffic, but digging up the streets was thought to be the best way to prove a new method of halting a costly municipal problem.

The inventors, an ex-mayor and former city manager, pledge their procedure will revolutionize the fight against corrosion of water pipes, which they said cost this Central Texas city $44,000 in one year alone.

Digging up sections of three streets Wednesday with a city work crew and the City Council's blessings (on the condition repairs were paid for) attracted a half-dozen photographers, Garland city officials and representatives of the Texas Department of Health.
