Taft To Fight HST Arms Aid Proposal

By H. K. REYNOLDS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today that he will fight the $1,450,000,000 "arms-for-friends" bill despite President Truman's back-down on his demand for absolute power to administer the program.

The Senate GOP policy leader declared that he would oppose "on principle" any general grant of authority to the President to furnish military aid to Atlantic treaty nations.

Taft served notice that he would support only proposals for aid to specific powers along the pattern of the Greco-Turkish assistance program.

Taft Opposes Authority

The revised European rearmament bill was redrafted at the insistence of Chairman Connally (D-Texas), of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), top GOP foreign policy spokesman in the Senate.

In its redrafted form, the measure—which faces heavy going in both houses—would leave the President free to allocate funds or military equipment to pact nations. It would deny him the authority to determine grants to friendly nations which were not signatories to the defense alliance.

Taft insisted that the precedent of furnishing arms in specific amounts to Turkey should apply to any future arrangements by which the U.S. proposes to arm its friends.

Limitations Urged

The senator asserted that Congress should impose detailed limitations on whatever sum of money is made available for rearmament of foreign nations instead of permitting the President to decide what countries are to get help.

Most members of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, which open joint hearings on the measure next Monday, felt that the arms bill might boil down quickly to a ques-

Floyd Youth To Head Area 4-H

Jack Brock, of Floydada Route 1, will close his 13 years as a 4-H club boy with a year's service as district president, district 4-H boys decided at their annual encampment Saturday afternoon.

The district elected him to head the organization for the next year. Other officers elected were: Carter Gene White of Post, retiring president, who will serve as vice president, and Barry Ford of Post, who will serve as secretary.

Senior At Tech

The new president, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brock, will be a senior pre-law major in Texas Technological college this fall. He has served in many posts since he joined the 4-H club at McCoy in Floyd county 12 years ago. He served as president of his local club his first year. He has been state chairman two years and district vice president one year.

Brock has been a 4-H member 12 years. Thirteen years is the maximum length of membership.

The encampment, which had opened at noon Saturday at Panhandle-South Plains fair grounds, closed Saturday afternoon with a meeting in which athletic awards were announced and officers were elected.

Athletic awards were:

Rifle firing (teams)—First, Garza county team, composed of Carter White (score of 217), Barry Ford (189) and Johnny Matsler (139); second, Terry, Jimmie Benton (185), J. W. Hubbard (160) and Harold Rich (157); third, Lamb, Lester Mauser (178), Matt Wilson (170) and Eugene Young (150).

New Farm Bill Claimed Okay With Brannan

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan today was described as "favorable" toward a compromise farm price support bill drawn up by a Senate Agriculture subcommittee. He suggested, however, the junking of a highly limited test of the farmer subsidy plan he proposed last spring.

Senator Anderson (D-NM) told reporters, however, that the test provisions probably would remain in the measure. He said that Brannan was "quite favorable to the bill as a compromise."

He quoted Brannan as saying the proposed measure would "be better than the House bill."

Okays Price Supports

That measure calls for continuing high-level price supports for major crops another year; repeals in advance a flexible price-prop system known as the Aiken law, due to take effect in 1950 and makes no provision for any farmer subsidies.

Brannan has suggested that market prices of meats, fresh fruits and vegetables and other perishable farm products be allowed to reach their own levels without government price supports. This would aid consumers, he said, while farmers could collect "production payments" or subsidies if required to maintain their income at a level established by the government as fair.

Main provisions of the Anderson bill would:

1. Authorize government supports at from 90 to 75 per cent of parity for corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, rice and peanuts, with assurance that for the next year the support levels would be at or near 90.

Changes Are Made

2. Authorize a similar level of supports for other farm products that can be stored, such as oats, rye, barley, meats and butter.

3. Revise the basis for computing parity levels so that any reduction in supports would be gradual.

McGee Plea For New Trial Denied

An amended new trial motion for Richard W. McGee, 24, convicted killer of R. L. Allston, Lubbock grocery executive, was overruled Saturday morning by 72nd District Court Judge Dan Blair at a brief hearing in the second-floor courtroom of Lubbock county courthouse.

McGee, accompanied by Burton S. Burks, attorney for the defense, was brought in handcuffs into the court by Chief Deputy Sheriff George Eubank and Deputy Sheriff Earl Horton.

Hearing Is Short

Assistant District Attorney A. W. Salyars and George Dupree, special prosecutor for the state in McGee's trial, were also present at the hearing which lasted only a few minutes. Col. E. A. Simpson, Amarillo lawyer and defense attorney for McGee, was not present at the hearing.

A 72nd district jury returned a verdict of guilty April 29 after a trial which lasted 12 days, and recommended that McGee be sentenced to death in the electric chair for the July 7 shooting of Allston, 42, at the latter's home. The defense had pleaded insanity in the case.

Burks announced at Saturday's hearing that McGee would appeal the case to the Court of Criminal

IMPORTER IS ON MEXICAN RANCH

Laredo Double Slaying Suspect Is Reported Located In Mexico

(By The Associated Press)

LAREDO, Aug. 6. — George Ochoa, handsome 38-year-old Laredo importer sought for questioning in two hotel room slayings here, has been located in Mexico.

"He is on a ranch in northern Mexico and I have sent men to talk to him," Chief of Police David O. Gallagher said today. "If George doesn't come in after a few days, we're going in after him."

However, the chief said tonight he believes Ochoa is "hunting, taking things easy and doing a lot of thinking." Gallagher added: "I believe when he gets his feet on the ground he'll decide to come back voluntarily."

Gallagher said the ranch is not far from Nuevo Laredo, the Mexican community just across the Rio Grande from this border city.

The police chief said he hoped Ochoa will return voluntarily. "But if we have to do it the hard way—go and get him—why that's the way we'll do it."

By this, the chief meant that he and Mexican officials would "go after" George, since Gallagher would have no legal right to arrest Ochoa in Mexico alone.

"George is hunting and we

Eleven Men Die In Forest Fire

(By The Associated Press)

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 6—At least 11 men are dead and two are missing in a forest fire that formed a raging death trap for Forest Service parachutists.

The blaze is centered in a primitive mountain area 25 miles northeast of here.

Nine charred bodies have been found in the embers and eight of the nine are believed the bodies of "smoke jumpers" who parachuted into the Gates of the Mountain sector yesterday to fight the flames.

Only three of 15 chutists dropped from planes over the area are known to be safe.

China Policy Study Urged

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Senator Vandenberg said tonight the United States must take a fresh look at its China policies and determine its course "unhampered by past prejudices or emotions."

Speaking out on the government's China policy "white paper," the Michigan Republican said this country must make "relentlessly clear" its support for the Chinese people and for freedom in the Far East.

Patrick J. Hurley, who headed a wartime mission to China, assailed the white paper in a statement as "a smooth alibi for the pro-Communists in the State department."

In several ways Vandenberg's statement coincided with views expressed by Secretary of State Acheson.

New Approach Needed

Acheson, who has abandoned hope of saving China by propping up the Nationalist regime, has before him the problem of shaping a positive new approach.

Aides and associates expected him to move along three lines in directing new administration moves against Communism in the Far East. This possibly includes assistance to anti-Communist forces which may remain or spring up to oppose Chinese Red control.

Vandenberg, top Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations committee, declared the United States

Thundershowers Are Predicted For Area

Partly cloudy skies over the South Plains today and Monday are expected to bring a few scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers, the Weather Bureau forecaster at Municipal airport said early this morning.

Temperatures are expected to continue cool, with today's maximums in the upper 80's, the Weather bureau said. The mercury went to a high of 84 degrees in Lubbock Saturday after an early morning low of 61.

No rain was reported over the South Plains Saturday. Early feed crops in the Slaton area were reported as needing rain, while a report from Hale Center said weeds were "taking over" cotton fields after four rains this week kept choppers from the fields.

Two Rochester Youths Thrown From Flatbed Truck Killed

ROCHESTER, Aug. 6 (AP)—Two Rochester youths were killed early today when they were thrown from the rear of a flat-bed truck as it turned a corner.

The dead were Royce D. Newberry, 20, son of Mrs. Eunice Newberry; and Gwindolin Webb, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Webb.

The accident occurred about 12:30 a.m. today in Rochester. The two were with a group of young people returning from Knox City and Benjamin, two towns just north of here. Rochester is in Haskell county, about 50 miles north of Abilene.

Funeral services for the girl were held today. Arrangements for final rites for Newberry were incomplete.

Death Toll In Devastating Quakes Rises

(By The Associated Press)

LATE REPORTS from inside and outside Ecuador Saturday night said that probably as many as 2,700 persons were killed in Friday's devastating earthquakes. The injured ran into many thousands.

Direct communication with the stricken area was almost impossible, and latest reports of Friday's tragedy were being unfolded to the world by radio accounts heard outside Ecuador itself.

One of these reports came from the president of Ecuador himself in a broadcast heard in Lima. As yet, however, there was no official Ecuadorean government tabulation direct from the stricken area.

Towns Hard Hit

Highlighting the late reports were too small towns which previously had not figured in communications direct from Quito.

These were Pelileo and Patate, both about 22 or 23 miles from Ambato, the third industrial city of Ecuador and one of those hit hard by the quake.

Ecuador stations heard at Medillin, Colombia, said the bodies of 1,300 victims had been counted at Pelileo. At Patate more than 1,000 persons were reported to have lost their lives.

Ecuadorean President Galo Plaza Lasso said in broadcast heard in Lima, Peru, that more than 1,000 were killed at Patape. He spoke from Ambato, where more than 400 were dead and 1,000 injured.

New Shocks Felt

The Ecuadorean embassy in Washington raised the Ambato figure, saying 500 were known dead there, and more than 2,000 injured.

New shocks were felt at Ambato at 7:10 a. m. and 9:33 a. m. (CST) Saturday, the Shell Petroleum Co. radio said in a report heard at

'Missing' Cars Puzzle Solved

City police Saturday marked as solved the case of the "disappearing driver."

A negro juvenile youth, sought since Thursday when he failed to return a vehicle driven from a used car lot here, was turned over to juvenile authorities after he was picked up by police while returning a "missing" car to another used car lot.

Officials of the Chambers-Fuller Motor company at Main and Ave. Q identified the youth as the prospective customer who took a 1942 Pontiac from their lot Thursday on a test run and failed to return by closing time, leaving behind a 1936 Ford. Friday morning the Pontiac was back in place and the Ford was missing.

Returns Third Car

A check on ownership of the Ford brought police to a car lot in 2400 block Texas, and a bicycle left there by the youth when he first drove off in the Ford.

The youth was finally apprehended as he returned a 1938 Plymouth to a lot owned by Ray Stiff, of 1319 Nineteenth, about 5 p.m. Saturday. He had been gone on a "test" run about five hours that time, police said.

A 45-year-old Lubbock woman was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of liquor law viola-

W. Fred Jones Is Saved From Chair 90 Seconds From Death

Three-Day Stay Of Execution Granted After State Board Of Pardons Takes Action; 'New Information' Is Reported

By R. C. HANKINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

HUNTSVILLE, Aug. 7. (Sunday)—A dramatic, last minute telephone call from Gov. Allan Shiver's secretary as the midnight chimes died out early this morning gave W. Fred Jones, 40, of Floydada, a three-day stay of execution—unbelievably saving the convicted man from death seconds away.

The call from Secretary William McGill came only 60 seconds before Jones was to sit down in the electric chair, only 90 seconds from the time the first searing shock of 1,750 volts of electricity would have shot through his body.

The full reasons behind the surprise action by the governor were not known at 2 a.m. this morning. However, a telegram to Warden Emmett Moore shortly before that hour quoted Gov. Shivers as saying the action had been taken upon recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Call Came At Stroke Of Midnight

(Meanwhile, the Associated Press in Dallas said it had been informed that Ex-District Judge Kenneth Bain of Floydada had called Gov. Shivers at the governor's Woodville home and had told him that he had "new information from reliable sources pertinent to the record available.")

(Contacted by The Avalanche-Journal in Floydada at 2 a. m. this morning, Bain would neither confirm nor deny that he had made such a call.)

(According to the Associated Press, Gov. Shivers upon receiving the reported call from Bain, telephoned his secretary, McGill. Smoot Schmid, chairman of the Board of Pardons and Paroles and L. C. Harris, board member. These two board members, who constituted a majority of the board, recommended the stay at 11:59 p. m. McGill then rushed the call through to the Warden's office at Huntsville.

(Just what the new information was had not been reported. The Associated Press said early today. Dist. Atty. John Stapleton of Floydada expressed surprise at the stay when he learned of the action shortly after midnight.)

Jones, a Floydada grocer, has twice been convicted of the shotgun slaying Sept. 27, 1946 in Floydada of H. C. Love, jr., 23, an employe in Jones' store.

The information of the stay came to Huntsville's gloomy red brick prison as the clock chimes were just finishing tolling midnight. The news actually reached "death house" one minute after midnight after the ringing of a bell was heard off the death chamber. Approximately 15 persons were standing around the electric chair at the time. Jones was looking calmly through a glass door on the dramatic scene.

C. H. Sims, who is the mail censor in the penitentiary, received the call from the governor's secretary and rushed across from the administration building through an unpaved courtyard and said something briefly to the warden, and the assistant warden.

The assistant warden quickly said:

"Hold everything!"

He was addressing those who were grouped about the electric chair awaiting the execution.

Probably Closest Shave On Record

Jones, his head shorn, was looking through a glass pane of a door from an ante-room near "death row" at the moment the call came in, only 18 feet away from the chair. The chair was between him and the spectators.

"That is close," Captain Ewing Stanley, who earlier had read Jones' death warrant to him at 4:30 Saturday afternoon said.

Tears were in the eyes of Joe Buyrd, superintendent of transportation at the prison and also the executioner.

Night Warden Rufus Seay told Buyrd to "hold everything until the warden can have someone call the Governor's secretary and verify the phone call."

Warden Moore and Seay selected J. C. Roberts, chief records office clerk, who the warden explained knew McGills voice, to check on the telephone call.

A few seconds later it was confirmed that the ring heard in "death house" only 60 seconds before the Floydada grocer was to step into the chamber and be seated in the electric chair, had been the long distance operator putting the original call through from the Governor's office at a time which may have broken all records for the narrowness of which death was averted.

Jones Offered Thanks To Lord

Peculiarly enough, Paul Mitchell of Lubbock, was probably the nearest contender in this respect when about 16 years ago he stepped out of the door of "death row" and was informed he had a stay of execution. Mitchell is now out of the "walls" on parole, penitentiary authorities said. Mitchell was sentenced originally for the slaying of a clerk in a food store during a holdup in Lubbock.

The immediate reaction of Jones when informed of the stay dovetailed into a devotional pattern, indicated earlier today and during his entire stay in "death row" where he was delivered June 1 after being sentenced in Crosbyton May 31.

"Praise the Lord—I give the Lord all the praise," he addressed his remarks to Captain Stanley, who had just told the condemned man the import of the Governor's announcement.

All the time that had elapsed between first hurried "Hold everything" until Captain Stanley made his announcement to the condemned, Jones had remained behind the door in full view of spectators.

He retraced his route from the ante-room off the execution chamber to his cell in "death row." As he passed the other condemned men in the row—a subdued noise of handclapping greeted his passage. Jones had stopped briefly before the other condemned men in "death row" on his way to prepare for the execution and had shaken hands with them and spoken a few words of encouragement compounded of scriptual quotations and friendly valdictuion.

The excitor motor had been turned on and Jones' appeared at the door. There was the noise of the motor as it started.

There was the shrillness of the dynamo being cut in.

There was no dimming of the lights. But overhead, above the Hankins was present when the dramatic stay of execution came at midnight.)

HUNTSVILLE, Aug. 6 (Special)—The handsome, unshaven man in the narrow cell rose with a smile and thrust a hand through the bars.

"W. Fred Jones," he said, saying his name. "You are . . . Oh, Yes. I'd like to thank you for coming."

Jones sat again in a chair, pulled up to the bars and allowed his hands to rest on the bars. He shifted his feet in their carpet slippers.

LAFB Expected To Be Ready For Full Operations When Pilot Training Wing Arrives In Few Weeks

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

LUBBOCK Air Force Base will be ready for full-scale operations when the 3500th Pilot Training Wing arrives here in the latter part of September, Air Force officers now believe.

Elaborate preparations for reactivating the base on a permanent basis were in high gear Saturday, as the last of a group of contractors started to work.

Col. Hugh D. Wallace, commanding officer of the station, and Col. A. R. Brousseau, project officer, now head an impressive military complement of 15 officers and 150 men at the base.

These are the vanguard of the 2,100 military personnel who will be involved in the transfer here of the 3500th Pilot Training Wing from Barksdale field, La.

The base was formally activated by Air Force orders from Washington Wednesday.

Approximately $250,000 worth of contracting and rehabilitation work is progressing satisfactorily an don schedule, Col. Brosseau said in response to a question Saturday

The work was awarded some time ago at a public bid opening at the base.

Contractors have been at work for several weeks on general construction, painting, refrigeration, air conditioning, heating and plumbing.

Other work, including roofing and electrical repairs and revisions, is just getting started.

Another important prerequisite to full-scale operation of the base—hiring of civilian personnel for the base—will be provided for this week, it was indicated by base officers.

Applications for employment were received last week by personnel officers and interviews

Red Development Of Airpower May Exceed U.S. Calculations

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The top American ace in World War II in the European theater warns that the Russians are "advancing swiftly" in air power, "maybe even faster than we think."

Maj. Bob Johnson, who shot down 28 Nazi planes and is now an executive with a U. S. jet warplane company, believes that only American supremacy in the skies can protect this country against attack and insure eventual permanent peace.)

* * *

By ROBERT S. JOHNSON
(President, Air Force Association, Written Expressly for International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 — The last battle of World War II is still going on. It is the battle to keep the peace we all thought we had won when the armistice papers were signed in the red schoolhouse in Germany and on the battleship Missouri lying off Japan.

The campaigns leading up to the signing of those peace agreements had taken place on opposite sides of the world and had cost millions of lives and hundreds of billions in dollars. The United States alone spent well over $310 billion for the materials of war; for guns and tanks and ships and airplanes and the tens of thousands of other items necessary to fight and win a war.

War Becomes More Costly

One weapon, used only twice, cost $2 billion. Yet those two atomic bombs dropped from B-29's over Hiroshima and Nagasaki brought prompt acceptance by Japan to the terms of the Potsdam declaration, without a single allied soldier, sailor or Marine having to land on Japanese home soil.

These facts of life and death lead to somber conclusions. Each major war, in its turn, has been more destructive than the one which preceded it. We are rapidly arriving at a point where war is no longer fought merely by the man who carries a gun, whether he carries it on a plane, a ship or on his shoulder. It is fought by civilians unable to defend themselves against a high - flying enemy. As such, it means total devastation of homes, industries, farmlands, schools and churches, as well as the lives of women and children.

Air Superiority Needed

No Airman who has flown over enemy territory in a plane loaded down with bombs, rockets, incendiaries and other explosives ever forgets that he is doing so to protect his own family and fellow citizens from having the same thing happen to them. That's why he wants permanent peace more than anyone else. No Airman with combat experience believes that war can be won without the grim, daily fighting contributions of the soldier, or without the maintenance of supply lines by the man aboard ship. We made a good team in World War II and we must keep that team alive and ready.

One thing the Airman does believe and he is joined heartily in that belief by nearly all of his comrades on the defense team. Without air superiority over those combat and supply areas, we all must lose. In peacetime, without air superiority, we must also lose that all-important "last battle"—to maintain the peace. We cannot succeed diplomatically unless those who oppose us respect our air power and its ability to make the diplomatic decisions stick.

Planes Develop Swiftly

My plane during the war was a Republic P-47 fighter. It enabled me to go after the enemy wherever they were and eliminate some of them. It helped me get back more than once when my chances didn't look good. We have progressed a great deal in American airplane development, since we flew our last combat missions in the P-47's, P-51's, B-17's, B-29's and the other planes developed for World War II.

Now, our pilots are flying jet fighters and six engine bombers that carry more bombs farther and faster than anything we had four years ago. In my case, I'm now learning about all the intricacies of jet flying with the F-84 Thunderjet, Republic's 600 mile per hour successor to my old P-47 Thunderbolt. To a fighter pilot accustomed to 450 miles an hour speeds, the jet is really a sensational eye-opener.

Tomorrow, of course, with the new planes coming along, we'll wonder how we were ever satisfied without rocket power such as is being developed now in the XF-91. Those new planes, however, don't just come along; they require hundreds of thousands of man hours of engineering and millions of dollars for research.

We don't have a monopoly on aeronautical brainpower. The recent Soviet aviation day caused our representatives in Moscow to write home startling reports about Russian progress in jet aircraft. There is every evidence that the Russians are advancing swiftly in powerplants and in airplane design, maybe even faster than we think they are.

This can lead to only one conclusion. If we agree, as we must, that superiority in air power is vital to this nation not merely as a defense against attack, but also as a means of implementing our attempts to reach a permanent peace settlement, it is imperative that we continue to give our pilots and crewmen airplanes which are better and more effective than those of our enemies, and in sufficient quantities to enable them to have a compact force in being. To do otherwise would be national, and perhaps, world, suicide.

Former Texas Boy Dies From "Blue Baby" Heart Condition

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (AP)—A former Corpus Christi, Texas, boy died today of a so-called blue baby heart condition.

He was Jesse Coutee, 11. His parents, Adrian and Lucille Coutee, moved here from Texas an January, 1948, with the sick boy and their six other children.

They had hoped Jesse could be given normal health by surgery which has restored more than 200 other youngsters with similar afflictions.

But examinations at Children's Memorial hospital showed Jesse couldn't be cured by operation.

He spent his last months in his parents' home in Chicago, making belts which he sold to other children.

DEWEY "SHOULDN'T RUN"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The man Thomas E. Dewey picked for chairman of the GOP national committee last year says he thinks the New York governor should not run for president again. Rep. Hugh D. Scott, jr., of Pennsylvania, expressed this opinion in a radio interview last night a short time after he quit the party chairmanship.

Poland China Group Slates Annual Sale

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 6 (Special)—Annual fall sale of the Panhandle-Plains Poland China Breeders association here next Saturday will feature disposal of 15 bred gilts, 11 open gilts and five boars.

Eleven breeder members of the association have consigned registered animals in the sale, which get under way at 2 p. m. at the show barn here. A free lunch will be served at noon, sponsored by the Plainview Chamber of Commerce and the Fat Stock show. All breeders and prospective buyers are invited to attend.

If possible, prospective buyers are urged to attend the sale, which will be cried by Kenneth Bozeman, Lubbock auctioneer. If buyers are unable to attend, bids may be sent to L. M. Hargrave, Lubbock secretary of the association, or C. G. McCahan, secretary, Poland China Record, or A. H. Eckhardt, field representative of the Poland China World. The latter two men will be at the Hilton hotel here on Friday, Aug. 12.

Consigners in the sale include: John H. Adams, Tulia; J. R. Boyd, Lubbock; T. J. Edwards, Baird; Jerry Green, Roaring Springs; L. M. Green, Roaring Springs; S. C. Haran, Plainview; Joe Huffman, Lockney; Frank Huseman, Nazareth, association president; Clarence Oswalt, Lubbock; and Leroy Thornburg, White Deer.

Coleman Cowan and John Mitchell will be clerks of the sale.

Tear Gas Used To Disperse Crowd At Fatal Auto Wreck

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 6 (U.P.)—Officers had to use tear gas last night to disperse a large curious crowd which gathered at the scene of a fatal accident south of the city.

Mrs. Walter J. Cox, 29, San Antonio, was killed in the three-car accident and three soldiers were hurt, one seriously.

Officers were unable to clear traffic and investigate the accident until they dropped a tear gas bomb among the milling crowd. The fatality was Bear county's 12th this year.

RAILROAD MAN CLAIMED

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 6 (AP)—Harry C. McCullough, 61, superintendent of the mechanical department of the southern division of the Rock Island railroad, died unexpectedly in a hotel here last night. He had suffered from a heart ailment. An employe of the Rock Island more than 40 years, McCullough had lived in Kansas City until a month ago, when he was transferred to El Reno, Okla. He had been district superintendent the past 12 years.

SYMPTOMS OF DISEASE REVEALED

Money Drive To Fight Cancer Opens In Lubbock Tomorrow

Lubbock county residents Monday through Sept. 10 will get a chance to help subdue the nation's No. 2 killer—cancer.

Ed Hambright, county chairman for the Texas division of the American Cancer Society's fund raising campaign, has set a county goal of $5,245. Surplus contributions will go into the local society's treasury.

Assisting Hambright will be Dr. A. W. Bronwell and Mrs. A. T. Cocanougher. Elmer V. East, vice president of the Lubbock National bank, will serve as treasurer.

The campaign will continue through the first 10 days of September to permit school children to participate.

National goal for the society is $14,500,000. Of this sum, $3,700,000 is earmarked for research into cancer's causes and cures.

Professional education for physicians and nurses will receive $650,000. Another $400,000 will be spent for public education. An appropriation of $200,000 will aid in the expansion of the society's volunteer field army, which now numbers more than one million men and women.

Administration costs are expected to consume $800,000.

Largtst chunk of the funds, $8,750,000, is slated for local research grants, professional and public education, service to victims of the disease and maintenance of cancer detection and information centers and diagnostic and treatment clinics.

A $450,000 goal has been set for Texas this year, Hambright said.

"An estimated 7,000 Texans and 200,000 Americans will die of cancer this year," Hambright said. "But the lives of 2,000 Texans could be saved from a cancerous death if they had the proper information on how to save themselves and their loved ones," he added.

"One of the jobs of the society is to provide such information to the public," he explained, "because cancer can be cured if it is discovered and treated in time."

The American Cancer Society stipulates the following danger signals of cancer:

1. Any sore that does not heal.

2. A painless lump or thickening, especially on the breast, lip or tongue.

Other Symptoms Listed

3. Irregular bleeding or discharge from any body opening.

4. A wart, mole or birthmark that suddenly starts to grow or change color.

5. Persistent indigestion.

6. Persistent hoarseness and unexplained cough or difficulty in swallowing.

7. Any persistent change in the normal bowel habit.

When these signs are noticed, the victim should see his physician immediately, according to the society, because most cancers give an early warning.

Pamphlets on cancer will be distributed here during the campaign, Hambright said.

"Mail your contributions to Post Office Box 270," Hambright requested. "Cancer can strike anyone," he said, "but you can strike back."

Public Building Shows Increase

AUSTIN, Aug. 6 (U.P.)—An increase in non-residential awards offset declines in home construction last month to set a new July record for total building awards in the state, the Texas Contractor reported today.

Several large jobs and a boost in public housing, the construction trade publication said, increased the monthly total to $90,640,710 and raised the cumulative total for 1949 to $591,192,825.

All items of the non-residential breakdown had high monthly totals except for business buildings, it noted. Commercial building began to show a decline while public buildings were on the increase.

Small Homes Leading

Residential construction, totaling $26,557,720, had a low contract amount for July with small homes leading other classifications.

The awards included homes costing less than $7,000 each, $17,280,300; higher-priced residents, $4,674,148; apartments, $4,440,772, and duplexes, $162,500. The residential awards provided 2,877 one-family units.

Non-residential awards, totaling $44,366,159, included schools, $7,623,704; public buildings, $18,748,239; hospitals and hotels, $7,641,310, and business buildings, $6,303,108.

Engineering awards, amounting to $19,716,831, included highways and streets, $8,825,619; waterworks and sewers, $3,456,885; bridges and grade separations, $2,221,902, and irrigation, $2,062,137.

The largest single job, the magazine said, was a military housing project at El Paso of 800 units, awarded for $7,500,000.

AUGUST PROSPECTS GOOD FOR LUBBOCK

The first week saw issuance of $352,265 in building permits at the city hall office of Lloyd Ross, building inspector.

They brought the 1949 building permit total to $6,656,579.

Saturday was the first slow day in a busy week at the building inspector's office. Juan G. Avila was granted a permit for a $600 residence at 115 Ave. O, C. C. Woody was authorized to build a $7,050 residence at 2717 Forty-first and Jose Berlanga received permission to construct a $500 residence at 209 Ave. R.

Four Workers Laid Off As Precinct 4 Funds Run Low

County Commissioner Perry L. Corley's Precinct 4 is in financial straits.

Corley said Saturday the 750 miles of precinct roads will have to be maintained by a crew of three laborers and a foreman effective Aug. 15 for the remainder of the year.

He said D. McGuire, J. B. Westbrook, Jerry Putman and Carl Johnson of Shallowater will be "laid off" because of lack of funds.

"There is no money to pay more than the reduced force after Aug. 15," Corley said.

His 1949 appropriation from the county treasury was $68,000, a smaller sum than was allotted commissioners of the other three precincts, he claimed.

Precinct 4's allotment was smaller because Corley had exceeded his 1948 budget, records in the county auditor's office revealed.

TAKES POST IN MEXICO—Harry R. Reger, above, son of Mrs. J. B. Crain, 2620 Twenty-fourth, who graduated from Texas A. & M. College last June, leaves today for Mexico City, where he has accepted a position as livestock inspector for the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, Afstosa Committee. His headquarters will be in Mexico City. He will go from here to El Paso where he will leave by plane for the Mexican capital.

Prayer To Be Given For Local War Dead

A special prayer for Lubbock's war dead will be offered at the 1949 national convention of the Disabled American Veterans in Cleveland, August 14-20, with the name of John T. Kershner, who died as a result of his war wounds, symbolizing all the war dead of this city.

Kershner's name was submitted by the Lubbock chapter No. 44 of the D. A. V. to Gen Johnathan M. Wainwright, D. A. V. national commander.

The impressive memorial service is an annual feature of the D. A. V. national conventions. Prayers for the war dead of hundreds of other cities throughout the United States will feature the memorial service.

Kershner was born May 10, 1911, and attended high school in Lubbock. He was in the floral business at the time of his entry into the service. Captain Kershner had served actively in the National Guards since 1926 when he enlisted as a private. When the Texas National Guard was mobilized in 1940 he went into active service as a lieutenant and was promoted to captain in April, 1942.

Capt. Kershner's wife was awarded the Purple Heart and Distinguished Service Cross for his heroism in Italy. He was killed on Sept. 17, 1943, and his body has been reburied in Arlington cemetery, Arlington, Virginia.

RETIRED OFFICER DIES

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Aug. 6. (AP)—Col. Fred T. Cruse, retired U.S. Army officer and wartime military attache in Central America, died yesterday in Gorgas hospital. He was 63. Before the war he held the rank of general in the Nicaraguan army as director of the military academy. Cruse once served at San Antonio.

Reserve Units To Continue Use Of Joint Facilities For Training

AUSTIN, Aug. 6. (Special) — Wherever feasible and practicable, joint training facilities and training aids will continue to be employed by the Organized Reserves of the Army, Navy and Air Force and the National Guard throughout Texas, further amplifying the unification plans of the Armed Services, according to an announcement made at Texas Military district today.

High ranking officers of the Navy, Army and Air Force, who are particularly interested in the training of civilian components of the services, held a conference at Fort Sam Houston to discuss the various training aids and the use of already existing facilities.

It was agreed that reciprocal assistance in training of personnel should be continued, especially where lecturers on various specialties, could be used by the other services.

Mexican Workers Are Sought By Council In Mississippi

GREENVILLE, Miss., Aug. 6 (AP)—Delta council committees are studying ways to obtain 9,000 Mexican workers for cotton harvest.

The labor and agriculture committees estimated 42,000 agricultural workers will be needed.

Some 27,000 are expected to be provided in delta towns, and 6,500 in Texas Mexicans. That leaves about 9,000 Mexican nationals that will be needed.

Senate Receives Natural Gas Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (U.P.)—Ignoring the threat of a presidential veto, the House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to exempt independent natural gas producers from federal regulation.

Opponents argued that the legislation would clear the way for an increase in consumers rates. The budget bureau reported that President Truman disapproves it, raising the threat of a veto should it pass the Senate.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, (D-Tex) as one of Mr. Truman's chief legislative lieutenants, threw his support behind it, however. It was passed by a 183 to 131 vote yesterday.

The bill would bar the federal power commission from regulating independent producers who sell to pipelines on an "arms length," or competitive market basis.

The bill, however, would retain FPC regulation over interstate gas pipelines and gas producing companies directly affiliated with pipelines.

WATE RSHORTAGE FACED

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)—Some government employes recently paraded before the prime minister's room carrying empty vessels. They shouted slogans demanding water, scarce in the city. Dacca's water-works were originally built to serve 80,000 people. The population rose to 500,000 in 1947. When it became the capital of East Pakistan.

Union Workers Sign Contract Including $3.08 Daily Wage Cut

MIAMI, Okla., Aug. 6 (AP)—Union employes and officials of the Eagle-Pitcher Mining and Smelting Co. last night signed a new contract which includes a daily wage cut of $3.08 per man.

The salary cut affects 825 members of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum workers (AFL) working in the tri-state area of Kansas-Oklahoma and Missouri.

The contract also provides a sliding wage scale based on the price of zinc concentrates.

Employes walked off their jobs June 30 when a contract could not be agreed upon. Company officials said the mines will open Monday.

The company's wage cut was rejected last June by union employes but was accepted Wednesday night at a special meeting where union members overruled their officers.

Wages before the shutdown ranged from $1 an hour for some miners to $1.38½ cents for machine men. Under the new contract, top paid men will receive $1.08 an hour with the lowest getting 84 cents.

SERVANT PROBLEM

SINGAPORE (AP)—Middle income bracket families are complaining that Europeans spoil the servants by paying too much in salaries and weaning the servants from hard work. That's what the Singapore employment exchange officer, Aw Chin, says. He contends that Europeans (the all-inclusive word used for white people) pay up to $47 monthly.

TRAINS ARMY ON SOVIET LINES

Czechs Pledge Aid To Russia In Case Of Future World War

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 6 (U.P.) — Czechoslovakia served notice today that, if needed, it will fight on the side of Russia in any war.

The official Czechslovakia news agency said the pledge was given by Defense Minister Gen. Ludvik Svoboda in a speech at an Army parade marking the conclusion of maneuvers in Slovakia.

He said Czechoslovakia is modeling its Army training program on that of the Soviet Army, "by whose side we had the honor to fight in the second world war and by whose side in case of need we would fight again in the future."

Meanwhile, a Catholic priest who, the Communists reported, had been excommunicated said today that he is still taking orders from his Archbishop and will continue to do so.

Although he admitted membership in the government-sponsored Catholic Action movement, Fr. Jindrich Volny of Jaromerice, Moravia, denied the Communist newspaper Rude Pravo's charge that he had been excommunicated by Archbishop Josef Matocha.

Story Used For Attack

The Communist newspaper had used the story of the alleged excommunication as the basis for a bitter attack on the Archbishop.

Father Volny told the United Press by telephone from his parish that he had been a member of the regional Catholic Action committee since it started.

Although a Vatican decree automatically excommunicated all Czechoslovak priests who belong to the Catholic Action movement, Volny said he would not consider himself excommunicated unless he received written notice of it.

If Archbishop Matocha sends him a notice, he said, he would obey it "because he is my superior and I cannot do otherwise."

Volny said the Archbishop did call him to his office and "in a friendly way" showed him the Vatican's excommunication decree. But, he said, the Archbishop "did not use a personal excommunication."

The Communist newspaper Zemedelski Noviny claimed today that 1,700 Czechoslovak priests have defied the excommunication decree and remained members of the Catholic Action movement.

RETURNS GERMAN WATCH

BERLIN, Germany. (AP) — A Dortmund school teacher gave his gold watch to a French watchmaker for repair in 1944, when he was in France with the German army. Recently, a Berlin newspaper reported, the Frenchman returned the property, asking the teacher to forget about payment and adding the hope that from now on there would be "only bright and happy hours" for its owner.

Half English, Half Japanese Boy Will Find Home In U. S.

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 6. (AP)—A half English, half Japanese boy is going to find a new home in New Mexico, thanks to a special order of the State department at Washington.

He is William Henry Tickner, aged six.

Cpl. Arthur L. Prior, 23, Vaughn, N. M., fell in love with the boy's mother when he was assigned to occupation duty in Japan.

The mother is Very May Tickner, a native of Sussex, England. She married a Japanese, a fellow student at the University of London, came to Japan a year before the Pacific war broke out, and divorced him three years ago. She then took back her maiden name.

Prior and Miss Tickner wanted to be married, but they ran into a world of trouble, he related today.

Law Is Passed

First, Prior could not marry in Japan under Army regulations.

Second, even if he and Miss Tickner married, the immigration laws of the United States would bar William Henry.

So he wrote his troubles to Senator Anderson (D-NM). He got a bill passed permitting young Henry to enter the United States.

Now Prior, his bride-to-be, and young William Henry expect to leave for the United States about the middle of August.

If he can't marry Miss Tickner in Japan, he'll marry her in the United States, he said. Then they are going to settle down in Vaughn.

Red Guerrillas Reported Ready To Ask UN To Stop Greek War

TRIESTE, Free Territory, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Italian news agency Astra said today that Communist guerrillas had decided to appeal to the United Nations to halt the war in Greece.

Astra said the decision was reached in an extraordinary meeting of guerrilla leaders shortly after the Greek government launched a big drive in the Mount Grammos-Vitsi sector.

Astra claimed that chief aid to the guerrillas now is concentrated in Albania and Bulgaria following Yugoslavia's decision to seal its borders with Greece.

Meanwhile the agency added, all the Cominform's propaganda guns are preparing for a possible guerrilla defeat in Greece with broadside attacks against what they call the "double-faced" treachery of Yugoslav premier Marshal Tito.

WOMAN PILOT ESCAPED INJURY—The woman pilot escaped injury when this Piper Cub plane from which she was dusting cotton crashed into this cottonwood tree on the R. J. Viola plantation north of Bossier City, La. Viola identified her as Mrs. Opal Koonce, an employe of a Raymondville, Tex., crop-dusting service. He said Raymond L. Head climbed into the tree and lowered the woman to a nearby truck with the aid of a rope. (AP Wirephoto.)

Baby's Life Saved By Special Surgery

Cook With Sick Daughter Treated Like Millionaire

NORMAL, Ill., Aug. 6. (U.P.)—John Hearne, a cook, who has had rough going for years, beamed today that complete strangers had treated him just like a millionaire.

"And they saved my baby's life," he said. "We're the luckiest family in the country."

Hearne's three-year-old daughter, Molly, was a "blue baby." He and his wife, with Molly and three other daughters, left their north Hollywood, Cal., home last summer to seek treatment for the sick child.

Stopped In Amarillo

Hearne said that doctors in California were unable to help him or recommend surgery which would correct Molly's heart condition. He read a magazine article about successful operations for "blue babies" which had been performed in Boston. He piled his family into their old car and started for Boston.

He earned money to finance the trip by stopping off a few weeks here and there to take a job. The family unsuccessfully sought treatment for Molly along the way. They stopped at Amarillo, Texas, for a while, then St. Louis, but had no luck.

They headed into the central Illinois corn belt in May but their car broke down.

Waited For News

Hearne found a job in a restaurant here and a two-room house for his family. The restaurant owner, Eldon Streid, insisted that his doctor examine Molly. The doctor called in specialists, who arranged for Molly to enter the Cook County Children's hospital in Chicago.

"They treated Molly just as if I were a millionaire, not a poor cook," Hearne said. "They didn't ask me a thing about what I was or did."

The doctors told Hearne that Molly had only a 20 per cent chance of surviving corrective surgery. But after the 4½ hour operation the doctors said she would live.

"That's the news I was waiting to hear," Hearne said. "It's almost as if Molly had died and was brought back to life."

First use of gunpowder in artillery was to batter fortifications and it was not used in the field until late in the 15th century.

Clothing Market Dates Are Set

The semi-annual market sponsored by the Western Wholesale Clothing Market association of the chamber of commerce has been set for Oct, 8, 9 and 10, Luther Godwin, association president, announced Saturday.

Three floors in both the Lubbock and Hilton hotels have been reserved for merchandise to be displayed during the market, he said. The display space exceeds that of any previous showing, he added.

Godwin also announced an important change in the operating schedule of the three-day event, which was originated more than 20 years ago to provide a convenient meeting place for retail merchants of West Texas and New Mexico with wholesale representatives from all parts of the nation.

To Place Displays

Heretofore, Godwin explained, the market has been open to retailers the first day. In the approaching event, the opening day will be devoted exclusively to getting merchandise displays in place.

Invitations will be sent to approximately 2,500 retailers in the area served by the market. Approximately 85 wholesale and manufacturing firms are expected to exhibit.

Godwin also announced the addition of J. R. White to the association board of director sand Jack Crull to the exhibitors' committee. Both reside in Lubbock.

Attending the meeting at which arrangements for the approaching market were started were Fred Hackel, A. A. Goldstucker, Harry Lipshy and O. J. Sexton, directors, and Jim Crook, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce, secretary.

Partial Lifting Of Embargo On Wheat Storage Announced

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 6. (AP)—A partial lifting of the grain storage embargo put into effect June 1 by the Association of American railroads was announced today.

The order, placed into effect today by the A.A.R., removed restrictions on grain for storage in all parts and markets of the winter wheat belt with the exception of Kansas City, Mo., Kansas City, Kan., St. Louis, Mo., and East St. Louis, Ill.

The embargo had prohibited shipments of grain to points in the winter wheat belt unless storage had been arranged for prior to shipment, or the grain was for sale.

MAN SHOT TO DEATH

BROWNWOOD, Aug. 6. (AP)—William C. Clayton, 79, of Zephyr was found shot to death in bed at his home yesterday. Sheriff Otis Shaw said an old .32 revolver was found under the retired stock farmer's arm.

Reburial Services Will Be Held For Lubbock Soldier

Mrs. D. P. Griffin of Lubbock route 6 has been informed by the War Department reburial services will be held in the near future at Zachary Taylor National cemetery at Louisville, Ky., for her son, Tech Sgt. Bishop K. Mitchell, 23, who was killed May 25, 1945, on a night air raid over Tokyo.

MITCHELL

Mitchell, a native of Lubbock, was a radio gunner aboard a B-29 at the time of his death. He was a graduate of Lubbock High school and worked as a ranch hand and carpenter before he enlisted Jan. 13, 1940.

The War Department letter to Mrs. Griffin explained Mitchell and several of his comrades will be buried in the same cemetery because separate identifications of their bodies is impossible.

Mrs. Griffin said she and another son, M. G. Mitchell of Lubbock, will attend the services when notified.

When a taxi driven by N. Roberts near Lake Kaniere, New Zealand, was struck by lightning, the wiring under the dashboard was fused and the woodwork caught fire.

FALL PLAYS ARE PLANNED

High School Students Spending Summer In Dramatics Program

By EMMETT SHOCKLEY
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Hollywood may never call to any of the 26 high school students in the summer dramatics class at O. L. Slaton Junior High, but the enjoyment derived from participation is ample reward to them.

Emanating from all the make-up, costumes, and stage settings they work on in addition to perfecting plays for fall presentation comes a genuine love for working behind the footlights.

Fourteen were enrolled in the first six-weeks session, which ended July 8 with the presentation of a three-act play 'Me and My Shadow," to the general public. A few days before, they had warmed up by giving the one-act play, "Bed of Petunias," for the others enrolled in the summer enrichment courses at the school.

Working On Assembly Plans

Mrs. Lois Marie Keeton, English instructor at the senior high school, worked with them.

D. M. Howell, high school speech instructor is directing the second group of 19, of which six are repeaters from the first session. They are working on two one-act plays to be presented in early fall high school assemblies, and a three-act play to be given late in September as part of the Children's Theater program.

Although the work is non-credit, it serves many useful purposes, said Howell. It gives interested people worthwhile recreation, besides providing good assembly programs to fill the gap at the beginning of school when nothing else is ready for presentation.

The Children's Theater is an offshoot of the summer program. Instead of importing professional talent to entertain in the schools, The Children's Theater handles the job.

Besides this, the summer work is an opportunity for students who are interested in dramatics, but whose high school schedules are too full to permit such work during the regular school term, he added.

The three-act play now being rehearsed for Children's Theater presentation this fall, is "The Princess and the Swineherd," a refreshing story adapted from one of Hans Christian Andersen's well-known fairy tales. It involves a beautiful princess who, after caring only for the temporal things of nature, finally realizes her foolishness, when the hero wins her hand.

One-Act Play Slated

Two one-act plays being rehearsed are a comedy, "Peace It's Wonderful," and an old type melodrama with the pretentious title "The Widow's Plight, or Virtue Victorious."

Howell said these melodramas had become very popular with the students since their introduction two seasons ago. At first some of the students didn't quite realize the spirit of the thing, but now they all soundly hiss the villian and cheer the hero.

The Children's Theater puts on its plays for the elementary school students, and they are so well performed, the reception to them is sometimes one of amazement. In "Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater," performed last year, their eyes popped open when a large pumpkin vine grew out on to the stage.

Choose Own Stories

The children select the stories they want the Theater to dramatize, but many of them are not suitable. One they have been asking for is "Jack and the Beanstalk," and if Howell can find a rope ladder for use as a "beanstalk," they'll get it.

"Camouflaged deceptively, and fastened securedly on a catwalk above the stage, it would be just the thing," he said.

"I'm waiting to see the expressions on their faces when that beanstalk sprouts up in the middle of the stage and Jack and the Giant start climbing around on it."

The summer students are all for it. They were a bit hesitant and nervous when they put on their first production more than two years ago, but it was such a big success, they're confident of any part they may be required to play.

So busy students continue to work in "play acting." The six repeaters are Dorman Stanley, John R. Duncan, Carolyn Chick, Al Schuler, Harriet Henderson, and Milton Beach.

The others are Patricia Neal, Reta McIlroy, Don Hancock, Theola Leonard, Carolyn Linsby, Carolyn Taylor, Betty Joyce Brown, Bettie Joyce Brown, Anita Pope, Margaret Barrier, Allan Rosen, Jimmy Gott, Robert Bratcher, Frances Roth, Palmer June Anderson, Gloria Snell, Carolyn Collier of Tahoka, Fay Pruitt, Enda Keene, and Dorwin Holder.

Readers will note with some confusion that there are two young women by almost identical names in the above list. Bettie is now enrolled in the course, Betty having been in the first term. What happens this fall when the two girls start to school should make a play in itself.

L. Slaton Junior High. They are, left to right, Jimmy Gott, Theola Leonard, Bettie Joyce Brown, Palmer June Anderson, Harriet Henderson, Frances Roth, Milton Beach, and Robert Bratcher. Reds To Relocate Shanghai Factories In Central China In Decentralization Effort

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6 (AP)—Three factories will be moved to interior China, the pro-Communist newspaper Sin Wan Jih Pao said today.

The removals are part of the Communists' campaign to divest Shanghai of much of its industry and population to lessen its dependence on "imperialist foreign trade."

The newspaper reported these plans:

Plants To Be Moved

The Singho textile mill, which has 40,000 spindles and employs more than 1,800 workers, is arranging to finance removal to Honan province.

The Liseng machine factory with a capacity for 20 weaving machines a month will move to north China.

The Universal Handkerchief factory will move part of its machinery to Tientsin.

The Communist liberation daily said meanwhile 400,000 refugees have left Shanghai for the country, half of this number moving voluntarily. Of Shanghai's estimated 6 million population, the paper said, 650,000 are paupers and 170,000 are unemployed.

Foreign Money Called In

In another phase of Shanghai's economic picture, the military control commission announced holders of foreign currencies will be permitted to deposit them in the official Peoples' bank, effective Monday.

Depositors can make withdrawals later in Communist dollars at whatever official rate of exchange prevails at the time of withdrawal.

Holders of foreign money were ordered to surrender it shortly after the Communists took over. After the June 25 deadline it became illegal to possess foreign currencies.

It has become apparent lately, however, that considerable foreign exchange still is held privately.

The official rate of the U. S. dollars has been boosted 50 points to 2,250 to one. The pound sterling now brings 5,900 Communist dollars.

Navy To Add Six Oil Tankers To 'Mothball' Fleet At Orange

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Navy announced today that six oil tankers will be sent to Orange to join the "mothball" fleet anchored there.

The first of the ships will arrive within two weeks, and the remainder within the next 60 days. Five of the vessels will be of the type used by the Naval transport service and one is described as a fleet oiler.

Capt. R. L. Hicks, chief of fleet maintenance, announced the scheduled movement of the ships to Orange.

He declared the Orange "mothball" fleet is maintained at an efficiency rate unexcelled by any other standby group of ships in the country.

"Orange has a good reputation," he added.

"It could not be called more economical than any other, but it is equal to any we have for efficiency of operation."

Overnight Camp For Boys Slated Tuesday

An overnight camp for boys 11 to 14 years of age from all of the city's four playground parks will be held at Mackenzie state park barbecue pit Tuesday, Mrs. Gladys Sims, director has announced.

Sponsored by the city recreation department, this is the second overnight camp given Lubbock youngsters this month. One last Tuesday night was attended by a large group of boys eight to 10 years of age. Two more this month will be for girls from all the parks.

Buses will carry boys to the state park Tuesday afternoon. Schedule is: Burns park, 1:30 p. m.; Carlisle, 1:40 p. m.; Wagner, 1:50 p. m. and Pioneer, 2 p. m. They will be returned around 11 a. m. Wednesday.

Provisions to be furnished by the boys include a sack lunch, food to cook at breakfast, knife, fork, spoon, skillet, bedding, bathing suit, and a camp permit obtainable from the park superintendent.

One of the highlights of the camp will be a tumbling demonstration by Bill Beal at 8:45 p. m. Tuesday. An early morning swim Wednesday will climax the encampment.

MORE GIRLS IN SCHOOL

SINGAPORE (AP)—An increase in the number of Malay girls attending Singapore schools is noted in official reports. There were only 900 in 1941 as contrasted to 2,282 in 1949. They share buildings with boys' schools, or attend mixed classes.

Barbecue To Be Staged Sept. 9

The third annual barbecue honoring traveling salesmen who reside in Lubbock or serve the South Plains territory will be held in Mackenzie State park the night of Sept. 9.

This announcement Saturday followed a meeting of the steering committee for the event which, as in the past, will be sponsored jointly by The Avalanche-Journal and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Irving L. Jones, Lubbock merchant, again has agreed to serve as general chairman. Lubbock Lions club will prepare and serve the barbecue supper, as they did last year.

The event was originated as a means of expressing appreciation to traveling salesmen because of their loyal boosting of Lubbock and the South Plains. Complimentary tickets will be issued to them and their wives.

A. T. Cocanougher and Horace Gearhart were appointed co-chairmen of the entertainment committee and Gordon R. Thompson and R. L. Snyder of the publicity committee.

Jim Crook, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce and secretary of the barbecue committee, said cooperation of the salesmen, local merchants and others will be sought in compiling as complete a list as possible of those to whom invitations and tickets should be sent.

Court Blocks Slash In Freight Rates On Valley Cottonseed

AUSTIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—A slash in freight rates on cottonseed shipped from the lower Rio Grande valley was enjoined in district court here today.

Judge Charles O. Betts of 98th District court issued a temporary order restraining the Railroad commission's rate directive dated Aug. 2. It was to have been effective last midnight.

The Railroad commission in effect had taken off the increase on carload lots of cottonseed granted the carriers in 1947 and 1948 on intrastate shipments.

The commission's order, applying for 60 days, was challenged by 24 Texas railroads, representing virtually all lines in Texas. They asked the restraining order on grounds the Railroad commission acted illegally, unjustly, without giving notice, and without hearing.

Duggan Speaks At Underwriters Meet

About 60 members of the Lubbock Life Underwriters association heard Thomas B. Duggan, jr., president of the Lubbock County Bar association give a comprehensive history of wills, at their monthly luncheon at the Hilton hotel Saturday.

New members welcomed into the association were Ulric Anstead of Ralls, and Ralph Krebbs of 3111 Twenty-eighth, Lubbock.

Guests included Harris Landon of Amarillo, Nat D. Heaton of Slaton, and James E. Liles, E. Ray Flowers, W. K. "Scrappy" Hodge, and Leo Sims, all of Lubbock.

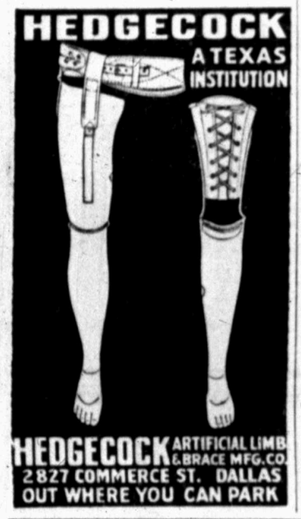

Mrs. Leonard Cole entertained with several accordion selections.

Invocation was by Rhea E. Latham of Plainview. James A. Bowron, association president, presided.

Texans Oppose Plan To Make UN Into 'World' Government

By JOE BELDEN
Director, The Texas Poll

AUSTIN, Aug. 6—In spite of the fact that the world federalist movement seems to be gaining ground in Washington, Texas continues to look with a suspicious eye upon the idea of a "one world" government.

The latest statewide survey by The Texas Poll compared with one conducted a year and a half before shows little or no change in the way Texans receive this idea. The weight of opinion is still definitely against world government control of the armed forces of the United States.

Texans Oppose Plan

In Congress, more than 100 House members and some 18 senators are now backing a resolution to pledge the United States to help develop the United Nations into a world government with enough power to preserve peace.

To measure public acceptance of such an idea, The Texas Poll has twice put this question to a statewide cross section of adults:

"Some people say the United Nations should be made into a government of the entire world, with power to control the armed forces of all nations, including the United States. Do you think this is a good idea or not such a good idea?"

	Jan. 1948	July 1948
Good idea	26%	29%
Not such a good idea	48	52
No opinion	26	19
	100%	100%

In rejecting "one world" government, Texans seem to be out of step with the country as a whole. Nationwide polls have discovered that most Americans are favorable toward the idea.

Believe UN Weak

Apparently, then, Texans would not strengthen the United Nations to the extent of giving it power to control armed forces; but this does not mean people think the United Nations, as it is now, is strong enough to prevent war. Consider the answers to this question:

"Do you think the United Nations is now strong enough to prevent war?"

	Jan. 1948	July 1948
Yes	17%	30%
No	57	50
No opinion	26	20
	100%	100%

Most Texans just haven't been sold on the idea of giving a world government power over American armed forces.

House Told National Wealth Moving To South, Southwest

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Rep. James T. Patterson, (R-Conn) claims that northern and eastern sections of the country are giving up their wealth to the South and Southwest.

He cited instances of movements of plants from his own state to the South which he said will throw 10,000 workers out of jobs.

"The people of Connecticut and New England cannot long endure continued federal subsidies to other sections of the country and see economic ruin staring them in the face because of the dislocation of their industries," Patterson told the House.

Miss America Gets Friendly Greeting From Paris Crowd

PARIS, Aug. 6 (AP)—A French customs officer took one look at the current Miss America of 1949 today and exclaimed: "Quelle femme!" (What a woman!)

The bathing beauty queen—blonde Bebe Shopp of Hopkins, Minn.—got an enthusiastic welcome in Paris, but she said she hasn't changed her mind about French swim suits. She still doesn't like them.

The 18-year-old beauty is on a 33-day European tour to show herself at leading bathing beaches. She came out in London against falsies and abbreviated beachwear.

Beauty Stops Traffic

"I don't approve of Bikini suits for American girls" Bebe told her French interviewers. "The French girls can wear them if they want to, but I still don't approve of them on American girls. After all, they are the ones I represent."

She was wearing a bright red suit when she stepped off a Pan American plane at Orly airfield. Traffic in all directions stopped as word spread throughout the place that the prettiest girl in America had just arrived in France.

"She's awfully tall," one Frenchman said with an appreciative eye on the body beautiful, measuring 5 foot 9 inches.

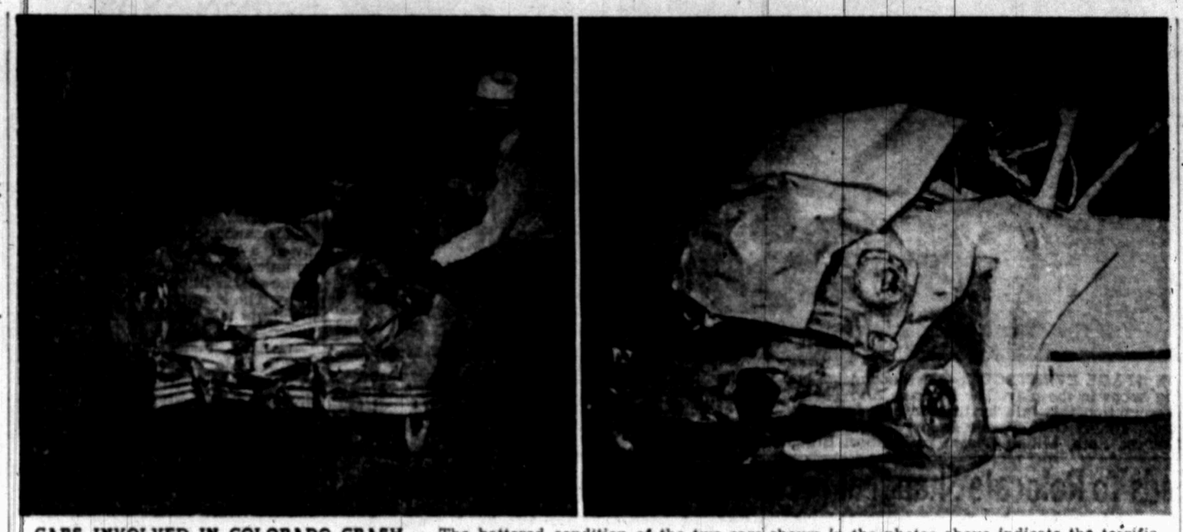

"She towers over the French girls."

Miss Shopp and her traveling companion, Virginia Safford of the Minneapolis Star, are going to spend Sunday in Deauville, a beach resort in Normandy.

They're going in swimming, too!—in American bathing suits.

Lubbock Men Remain In Colorado Hospital

Three Lubbock men injured in a head-on collision between two automobiles last Wednesday night near Trinidad, Colo., which resulted in the death of Dr. Robert Emmett Busch, 35-year-old Slaton chiropractor, are still being treated at a Trinidad hospital.

Spurgeon Stewart, 22, of 411 Ave. R, was in a critical condition, hospital attendants reported late Saturday. William R. Busby, 22, of 411 Ave. R, was described as seriously injured, and William R. Hicks, 22, of 2315 Fifteenth, was near complete recovery. All of the men were riding in the car driven by Busch when the accident happened.

Funeral services for Dr. Busch were held at 10 a. m. Saturday in St. Elizabeth's Catholic church in Lubbock. Burial was in the Lubbock cemetery.

Bobby Bryson, seven-year-old son of John Bryson of Denver, Colo., and his father, the driver of the other vehicle involved in the accident, were hospitalized also.

Dr. Busch is survived by his father, C. A. Busch of Lubbock; two brothers, C. A. Busch, jr., and Warren E. Busch, both of Lubbock; and four sisters, Mrs. Henry Churchman, of Wichita, Kan., Mrs. Chas. A. Duff of Des Moines, Ia., Mrs. W. J. Holden of Oklahoma City, and Miss Dorothy Busch of Huntington Park, Calif.

Dr. Busch's body reached Lubbock late Friday.

'Permanent' Cure For Malaria Is Reported By Chicago Paper

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Chicago Herald-American reported tonight that a "three-day permament cure" with one pill has been discovered for malaria.

The newspaper, in a copyrighted story, said the discovery resulted from a $7,000,000 federal project involving experiments with 300 convicts at Illinois' Stateville prison as malaria "guinea pigs."

The tests have been going on 18 months, the Herald-American said.

Appeal Is Planned In Rutledge Case

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Aug. 6. (AP)—Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, jr., and his wife, whose alleged seducer he was convicted of slaying, are still "very much in love and will stick together," his father said today.

Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, sr., also said he planned to sell his duplex home in Houston, Texas, to finance an appeal to the Iowa State Supreme court from a ruling by District Judge J. E. Heiserman denying his son a new trial.

He said his elderly mother, now living in the duplex would be forced to find a new home if he sells it.

The senior Rutledge said he was "all alone now" in financing the fight to free his 28-year-old son. He did not elaborate.

Rutledge's attorneys said during the retrial that their client was broke and that they were getting a "mediocre fee."

The younger Rutledge's tall, blonde wife, Sydney, and her father, Dr. Howard Goodrich, Hannibal, Mo., checked out of their Cedar Rapids hotel after Heiserman's ruling. They were expected back Monday when Heiserman is scheduled to sentence Rutledge.

Rutledge, a St. Louis pediatrician, faces a prison term of anywhere from 10 years to life on his conviction of second degree murder in the hotel-room stabbing of Byron C. Hattman.

Liquidation Of Tito Called For By Moscow Radio Broadcast

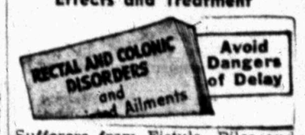

TRIESTE, Free Territory, Aug. 6. (AP)—A Moscow radio broadcast heard here yesterday called for the liquidation of Yugoslav premier Marshal Tito.

The broadcast said Yugoslav emigrants to the Soviet Union appealed for co-operation to get rid of Tito "in the name of human principles."

The Italian news agency Astra said recently the Moscow radio had reported an anti-Tito underground active in Yugoslavia. Tito was expelled from the Soviet-dominated Cominform last year.

DEPARTMENT GROWING RAPIDLY

Impressive Gains Made By Tech Petroleum Engineering Setup

By JERRY HALL
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

The petroleum engineering department at Texas Technological college, one of the newer branches of education at the college, has in its short life already become one of the best known and most efficient petroleum engineering schools in the Southwest.

Under the supervision of Prof. William L. Ducker, head of the department, it has grown, as a branch of the engineering division, into a successful producer of young talent for the professional field of petroleum engineering since its establishment Jan. 1, 1948.

In an effort to better acquaint the public with the work being carried on, Prof. Ducker has released a complete record of the accomplishments of the youngest department on the campus.

New Building In Use

Starting a litt' ore than a year ago in recov d Army barracks, the department expanded so rapidly that more space became a must. Out of that necessity the newest building on the Tech campus, the petroleum engineering building, was born.

Located just west of the engineering building and north of the college infirmery, the new one-story tile and brick structure houses not only classrooms and offices but spacious laboratories as well. The building is 30 by 75 feet. Ample room has been left so that an extra story may be added or the building can be added in front or rear. Prof. Ducker says he hopes to add more classroom space in the near future as the heavy enrollment in the department is already demanding more space.

Equipment Is Installed

The building cost approximately $29,000 and the department moved into it during May of this year. Locker space and laboratory benches for 114 students is provided although complete installation of these fixtures has not been finished.

The lab benches are equipped with center drainage, sinks, water and gas, air and electrical outlets. Approximately $5,700 has been spent to date for these lab fixtures which are the most modern available.

In addition to the above figure, $20,000 worth of instruments and equipment of the most modern make have been donated to the department by various commercial firms in the oil industry. Prof. Ducker said these donations were ample evidence of the tremendous interest which the professional petroleum field has shown for petroleum engineering schools.

Library Also Boosted

Another feature of which the Tech petroleum engineering department is justly proud is the completely thorough library which is being built up. The recent addition of 108 back files of the Oil and Gas Journal brings to the library an almost complete file of this publication since it began in 1916.

The curricula of courses offered to petroleum engineering students has also been expanded under Prof. Ducker. Before the department was established petroleum engineers were graduated with three options. Those were geology, geophysics and production.

When the separate department for petroleum engineers was established the geology and geophysics options were dropped and a natural gas option was set up in their place. At the suggestion of many members of the professional engineering field, Prof. Ducker and Assistant Professor Phillip Johnson worked out an arrangement with the mechanical engineering department whereby a student might receive a degree in mechanical engineering in addition to his petroleum degree.

The plan calls for a graduate in petroleum engineering with a natural gas or production option to do an additional year of work in mechanical engineering which upon completion will award him a degree in that department also.

Student Well Grounded

This combination of petroleum and mechanical engineering degrees gives a student an excellent qualification for work in many branches of the petroleum industry. The student is particularly well fitted for work in the drilling industry which calls for technology equally divided between the two.

At the present there are only two faculty members, Prof. Ducker, and Assistant Profesosr Johnson, in the department, but a new assistant professor of reservoir engineering, Paul Johnston, a recent graduate from the University of Oklahoma, will assume his duties when the fall term opens.

The petroleum department has also assisted students in organizing a student chapter of the American Society of Mining and Metallurgical engineers at the college. Between 130 and 140 applications for membership were submitted las year although the chapter will not be completely activated until this year. This large number makes the Tech chapter one of the top 10 in membership in the United States.

The petroleum students also planned and operated a section in the annual spring Tech Engineering show last year. It consisted of various displays and models of the department. Many of the large oil companies in this area also brought in the most modern equipment used in oil field work for the show. All together $400,000 worth of equipment was on display for the visitors to the petroleum exhibit last spring.

Full advantage is being taken of the proximity of various oil fields of this area and inspection trips and field trips are taken whenever possible. Prof. Ducker says he feels these trips are an integral part of the student's education.

Plans for additional improvements in the department are being carried on and the staff is confident that one of their utmost aims, accreditation by the Engineering Council for Professional Development for the new natural gas option, will be gained in the near future.

With the addition of new courses and the almost phenominal growth of the department into one of the most important in the Southwest, Prof. Ducker and his two man staff are looking forward to the time when Texas Tech's petroleum engineering department can be favorably compared with the best in the nation. And with the growth of the past year and a half observers agree that time should not be too long off.

Dow Family Estates Set At $8,372,376

MIDLAND, Mich., Aug. 6 (AP)—Dr. and Mrs. Willard H. Dow, who were killed in an airplane crash March 31 near London, Ont., left estates totaling $8,372,376.01.

This was shown today in inventories filed in Midland county probate court.

Dr. Dow was president of the Dow Chemical company. His estate was valued at $4,326,135.81 and his wife's at $4,046,240.20.

Mrs. Myrtis McDonald, the probate judge, admitted the estates for probate.

The Dows willed their property to their two children, Herbert H. Dow, II, and Mrs. Macauley Whiting. They share equally.

Mrs. Alta Koch Campbell, another victim of the crash, left an estate of $50,065.78, including $50,000 life insurance. Her estate was willed to her husband, Calvin A. Campbell, head of Dow's legal department and lone survivor of the crash. The plane's pilot and co-pilot were killed.

U. S. Ambassador To China To Land In California Tomorrow

FAIRFIELD, Cal., Aug. 6 (INS)—Air Force authorities announced today that Dr. J. Leighton Stuart, ambassador to China, will arrive 1 p.m. monday at the Fairfield-Suisun airfield in northern California.

The ambassador will make the trans-Pacific flight from Honolulu aboard a B-17 military plane. He is en route to Washington for consultation with President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson.

The Air Force assumed that Dr. Stuart would stop at Fairfield only long enough to change planes and continue his flight to Washington.

Motor Fuel Tax Receipts Climb

AUSTIN, Aug. 6. (AP)—Motor fuel tax collections in Texas hit a record high of nearly $9 million in July.

This was one of the more optimistic items in the comptroller's latest report on the condition of Texas finances, which also included some items on the gloomy side.

The July statement of cash receipts issued by Comptroller Robert S. Calvert today showed a continuing decline in revenue from gross production tax on crude oil.

Oil Tax Income Drops

This slumped to $6,122,070 from $6,500,000 in June. For the fiscal year to date, however, oil tax collections were still ahead of last year. The total for this year so far is $82,968,521 compared with $72,208,795 in a like period during the last fiscal year.

The crude oil tax—one of the state's financial mainstays—has been steadily declining in recent months as production slowed down. The outlook was this fiscal year and last fiscal year would bring approximately equal revenues. If the production slump keeps up, the full impact on the state's finances will not be felt until next year.

Heavy automobile travel is reflected in the motor fuel tax receipts. They totaled $8,924,615 in July compared with $8,500,000 in June. For the year to date, motor fuel taxes have brought in $84,369,014 compared with $78,276,048 in the same months last fiscal year.

One-fourth of this revenue goes to the schools and the balance for highways or road bond assumption purposes.

Second Trial For Watchman Ends With Deadlocked Jury

CORSICANA, Aug. 6 (AP)—The second trial for Frank Cumpston, former Blooming Grove nightwatchman charged with murder without malice, ended today with a deadlocked jury.

Judge A. P. Mays dismissed the jury after it had deliberated 19 hours.

Judge Mays had granted Cumpston a new trial because of alleged jury misconduct at the first trial two weeks ago. At that time Cumpston was convicted and given a three-year sentence.

He is charged in the fatal shooting of John E. Barnett, 20, at Blooming Grove last March. He pleaded innocent to the charge.

A hearing on motion of defense attorneys for a change of venue will be held Monday at 10 a. m.

Hawaii Solons Vote Dock Seizure Powers

HONOLULU, Aug. 6, (AP)— The Hawaiian legislature early today voted authority for Gov. Ingram M. Stainback to seize and operate docks in an effort to end the stevedore strike which has crippled this territory's economy for 98 days.

Four hours earlier, the approximately 2,000 strikers of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union voted unanimously not to work for the government.

Harry Bridges, union president who flew to Honolulu yesterday, said on arrival that no law of the Hawaiian legislature could force handling of Hawaiian cargoes on the Pacific coast. He declared coast longshoremen would take no part in "government scabbery."

Hiram L. Fong, Republican speaker of the House, said if Pacific coast stevedores refused to handle Hawaii cargoes, "that's beyond our power; it will be up to the federal government then."

The legislative act directs the governor to take over the seven struck stevedoring companies and hire strikers "so far as possible," paying the pre-strike wage of $1.40 an hour. The strike began May 1 to enforce a union demand for a raise to $1.72 an hour.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Case History No. 1586. Lady, age 42, who had severe pains in her stomach, was unable to eat and vomited all the time. Before this trouble began she weighed 123 pounds but at the time she came to this office she weighed 90 pounds. She had had this trouble off and on for several years. She came to this office as a last resort. The cause of her trouble was located and corrected. She immediately began to improve. Today she is completely well and feels that the correct Chiropractic Adjustment saved her life. She now weighs 128 pounds.

HEAD TROUBLE

Case History No. 1603. Lady, age 40 who had severe soreness in her neck, and a bearing down sensation at the base of her brain. She had suffered from this trouble for 14 years and had tried almost everything with no results. She began Chiropractic Adjustments after the exact cause of her trouble was located. She is greatly improved and feels that she has been saved from much suffering.

CHIROPRACTIC PRINCIPLES

To those who have had little or no experience with Chiropractic, let us ask this question, "Do you believe that there is such a thing as fallen arches?" If you do, then you are admitting that bones can slip out of normal relationship with each other, because a fallen arch is a dis-relationship between the bones of the foot. The spinal column is a series of 24 bones, placed one on top of another. It is a scientific fact that the spinal column is the body's chief shock absorber. Every shock to the body is transmitted to this column. It is subjected to more strain each twenty-four hours than the arches. Therefore, if the bones of the arch slip from their normal relationship with each other, it must be admitted that the bones of the spine can, and they do. That is a proven fact. When bones of the spinal column slip from their normal positions, there is interference with the normal action of the nerves that pass between those bones — nerves which control the activity of every organ of the body. Dis-ease is the primarily abnormal activity. If you do not know the cause of your condition, see a Chiropractor today and let him help you locate and correct that cause and normal health will be the natural result.

A MEMORY BOOK OF PROGRESS OF LUBBOCK AND THE SOUTH PLAINS
1873 — 1949

Cotton has been the most important cash crop of the South Plains for a good many years.. Estimates of the value of the 1949-50 harvest, including staple and seed, range from $150,000,000 to $300,000,000. Our region has become a factor in the cotton markets of the world.

This position was not achieved easily. Difficulties were met and overcome along nearly every step of the way. In overcoming them, South Plainsmen have made contributions to the improvement of every phase of the cotton industry.

Getting the first gin was a problem. Many people didn't think it would be a sound investment. Now we have 300 gins, worth upwards of $30,000,000. Their seasonal payrolls aggregate several million dollars. As a whole, incidentally, they are as modern as will be found in any area of comparable size on earth. Our gin operators are a most progressive group.

At least a dozen compresses and strategically located oil mills aggregate many additional millions of dollars of investment and make another very substantial addition to the region's payrolls.

No cotton growing area in the United States is more adequately supplied with warehouse and other storage facilities, adding more millions to South Plains wealth.

All of these are among the products of perserverence of the highest order which mark the history of cotton on the South Plains.

FORT WORTH MAN MAY GET POST

New Officers To Be Named By State Legion Delegates Today

FORT WORTH, Aug. 6. (AP)—Officers will be elected, a host city for 1950 named and the buddies who "went over the top" in 1949 will be honored at a memorial service at concluding sessions of the 31st annual American Legion convention at Hotel Texas Sunday.

Harry Colmery of Topeka, Kan., a former national Legion commander, who has often been described as the "best orator in the American Legion," will make the memorial address at 9 a.m.

As politicking reached its peak tonight, there were rumors that William S. Traill of Houston and George Broome of Amarillo, two leading candidates for department commander, would withdraw in favor of Fort Worth's Joe Spurlock after token first ballot votes.

Top Officials On Program

United States Attorney General Elx Campbell and Maj. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, 9th Air Force chief, addressed this morning's session.

Campbell urged American military aid to Europe, after emphasizing the Justice department had "conducted no witch hunts," but had seen to it "that the innocent were protected and defended with the same vigor as the guilty we have prosecuted."

Ramey told the Legionaires the Air Force does not regard the B-36 "as the alltime cure-all for military aviation—nor it is 'a clunker,' as some of its critics claim," he averred. "It is a good, standard, stock airplane that can fly higher and farther than anything we have now," Ramey stated.

PILOT CUTS UP

Plane Crashes Near Cleburne Airport

CLEBURNE, Aug. 6. (AP)—A light plane crashed late today shortly after taking off from the Cleburne airport. It narrowly missed a butane storage tank.

The pilot, Joe Schanewerk, 45, Ennis, walked away from the wreckage with only a cut lip. The plane, which fell in a field about a mile north of the airport, broke in two after hitting a fence.

Civil Aeronautics authority inspectors from Fort Worth are investigating the crash.

Airport attendants said Schanewerk had landed at the airport earlier and in doing so had slightly damaged his craft. They said one wing was damaged and the windshield broken. Despite this, they said, he took off again. The attendants said the broken windshield may have prevented his gaining sufficient altitude.

'Biscuits' Must Always Be Accurate

Railroad Men Use Colorful Terms In Handling Of Trains

By HOUSTON HARTE, JR.
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

If you ever have occasion to be around railroad men for any length of time, don't be surprised if someone wants to check your "biscuit" or is someone near you is referred to as a "snake" or a "smartalec." No offense is meant, it is all part of the lingo used by trainmen.

The number of terms used by railroad men that would not sound familiar to the layman is probably endless. There are expressions for just about every movement made in a train yard and everything that a trainman might do, D. R. Patterson, yardmaster for the Santa Fe here, explained.

Watches Vitally Important

The "biscuit" referred to above is the watch used by railroaders. The little machine is the heartbeat of railroads. Before going on duty engineers, engine foremen and conductors check their watches with a master clock in the freight office here. When they do this they sign their names on a chart, give the make and number of their watch, and put down how many seconds the piece is slow or fast. If it is more than 10 seconds off, they must reset them.

The watches used by these men must be pocket watches, and of a make that is approved by the railroad company. These watches must have lock stems. Lock stem watches can't be set without removing the face of the watch and releasing a lock inside. This is to avoid the danger of accidentally changing the hands while winding the watch.

When starting to work the conductor and engineer always check their watches against each other, and all crewmen ask each other if their watch is wound to run 16 hours. These are a few of the precautions used by the railroads for safety.

The various crew members of a train all have names other than their official ones. The "ox" or "skipper" on a train is the conductor. The engineer is called a "hog head." An "ash cat" is the fireman.

The "mule" or "jack" of a train is the engine, or the part that pulls the load. The caboose is more often called a "crummy" or "hack" by railroaders, but its real name is a "way car." A "rear ender" is a car that has a faulty coupling and cannot carry any strain. This car must be carried either just in front of the way car or behind it.

Around freight yards many expressions are used that might confuse the casual listener. A switchman, who is called a "snake," when calling for a switch to be thrown, is likely to say, "Bend that rail." A car man, who checks cars and equipment, and does such jobs as coupling steam hoses, is often called a "car hop" or "car knocker." His brother, the "mud hop," is a yard clerk, who puts seals on loads and keeps records and bills.

A "set out" is from one to any number of cars that are coupled or joined and set out in a yard. A "pick up" is a "set out" to be moved. The man who is in charge of the crew that handles these operations is the engine foreman or "smartalec."

In the yards patrolling the railroad property are "railroad sheriffs." These men check for "hoboes," make sure all seals are in place, and are on hand for all sorts of trouble. Here in Lubbock they are extra careful about watching car loads of whiskey and beer. It is also their duty to remove any unruly persons from passenger trains, and if someone gets out of hand while riding a train, one of these men may accompany the person to his destination.

About the yards are a number of derails. These are placed so as to protect the main lines if for some reason a car should break away and start rolling. If derailed it will do no damage to anything other than itself. A derailed car is "on the ground" to train men.

American, Suspected In Panama Plot, Leaves By Plane For U. S.

PANAMA, Panama, Aug. 6 (AP)—Walter Wilson Brown left by plane today for Dallas, after posting $1,000 bail to guarantee his return when needed in further investigation of an alleged plot to overthrow the government of Panama last Easter week.

Brown, described as an American adventurer, had been arrested on charges that he plotted against the government.

Two former presidents, brothers Harmodio and Arnulfo Arias, were arrested, police said at the time, on information given by Brown.

Panama sources said Brown was allowed to leave the country under a law requiring him to return when asked. His wife, Maria Amparo Brown provided the bail money.

Lubbock Veteran To Be Returned Here

The body of Pfc. Alfred G. White, son of Mrs. Iva White of 1622 Fifteenth, who was killed in action in France July 8, 1944, will be returned to Lubbock Friday. Reburial services will probably be held Saturday. The body will rest at Rix Funeral home.

White was a holder of the Purple Heart, Bronze Star with V device, American defense service medal, and American theater ribbon. He enlisted in the Army July 2, 1940, and received training at Fort Sam Houston and Camp McCoy, Wisconsin. He was transferred to the 83rd infantry (Thunderbolt) division overseas.

White was born in Tahoka Dec. 4, 1923, and lived there until he went into the Army. Survivors other than his mother include four sisters, Peggy White, Mrs. Dean Witt, and Mrs. Gerald Reichle, all of Lubbock, and Mrs. Pauline Bankston, Brownfield; and two brothers, L. D. White of Dallas, and D. K. White of Lubbock. Another brother, Bruce White, was also killed in action in Indo-China.

'Migrating' Frogs Cover Streets In Alabama City

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 6 (AP)—Thousands of dime-sized brown frogs, all hopped up over something, blitzed two streets here today.

The frogs jumped off on the invasion before dawn and by daybreak had just about covered the yards.

J. H. Ramsey said he noticed all the frogs seemed westward bound from a nearby water-hole and figured "they're just migrating."

Where the frogs came from or why was a mystery.

30 WORKMEN BUSY ON PROJECT

Lubbock Senior High Gets First Major Face-Lifting Since 1931

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Interiors of the Lubbock Senior High school building are undergoing their first major face-lifting since the structure was completed in 1931.

To the current crop of LHS students, returning to classes in September, it won't seem like the same old place. The large-scale painting project has taken away fully 18 years from the appearance of the interiors.

Colors Carefully Planned

And, wonderful thought, students should find it easier to concentrate on their studies henceforth. Class rooms, study halls, and corridors are painted in soothing and restful colors. The color scheme for each room is planned around its location in the building, amount and strength of sunlight which enters through its windows, and the purpose for which the room is used.

Even the shades of paint used in the project sound pleasing: Cascade blue, Nile green, peach, French beige, maize buff, Adam green, light cream, cork, pearl gray.

15 Barrels To Be Used

The painting contract was let in June by the school board to W. N. Berry of Dallas, whose low bid was $15,462.63. The project was begun early in July and is to be completed by the last of this month. About 30 painters and laborers are working on the project, C. A. "Jimmy" Neal, supervisor for the job, said.

Neal estimates that about 15 barrels of paint, including varnish, flat paint, and semi-gloss enamel, will be required for the job.

Of course, the biggest item of the project is the actual painting of walls and ceilings. In addition, the Dallas firm also is repairing cracked walls; cleaning, painting, and varnishing interior woodwork; and repainting radiators.

Building In Good Shape

The whole of the old part of the building is included in the project. In the auditorium, however, only the woodwork is being refinished; no painting is being done.

"The high school building is in very good shape to be as old as it is," Neal said. His firm had the painting contract for the Odessa High school building, as well as for the Odessa school cafeteria.

Colors being used for the job were selected by Haynes and Kirby, Lubbock firm of architects which designed the extensions now being added to the high school structure. A total of 14 shades are being used.

256 "Spaces" To Get Paint

All ceilings in the building are painted white. The walls of all corridors and of some of the classrooms are done in a pale peach tone. Other shades in the paint schedule are being used for class rooms, offices, shops, and storage and utility rooms.

Neal said there are approximately 256 "spaces" in the building which are being painted. Such "spaces" include all broom closets, restrooms, and storage rooms in addition to class rooms, offices and laboratories. In addition, eight stairway ceilings and walls are being painted.

New Additions Pushed

The contract for painting the original building does not include painting of interiors of the extensions now being made to the structure by T. C. Bateson Construction Co. However, Berry has a separate sub-contract with the construction firm to paint the new addition.

The new part of the building which is built east of the original structure, contains 14 class rooms, an office for the superintendent of schools, conference rooms, and a cafeteria. A girl's gym also has been built.

On the northwest corner of the school building, additions include an extension of the vocational shop, a band room, two practice rooms, a music library, agriculture class room, and judging rooms.

Don Tedder, superintendent for the construction company, said yesterday completion of the construction project is expected by early September. The only exception will be the cafeteria, completion of which is being retarded by delays in shipment of specified materials.

The construction project was begun in August, 1948.

IT'S ALMOST FINISHED — Loyd Nelson, left, of Lubbock Route 4, and D. N. Stone, right, of Lubbock Route 1, two of the painters engaged in painting the interior of Lubbock Senior High school, put finishing touches on a segment of a corridor in the building. The paint project, awarded to W. M. Berry, of Dallas, was begun in early July and will be completed in late August or early September. Berry was given the painting contract for the building on a low bid of $15,462.63. This is the first time the interiors of the high school building have been painted since the structure was completed in 1931 at a cost of $500,000. (Staff Photo.)

40 File For Vacant Band Post At Lamesa

LAMESA, Aug. 6. (Special)—About 40 applications for the vacant band director post at Lamesa High school had been filed with G. B. Wadzeck, superintendent of schools, today, as he began personal interviews with each applicant.

The position was left vacant Monday, August 1, by Ralph Mills, director of the band for the past two years, who resigned in favor of a similar post in Odessa.

Wadzeck said he would submit the results of the interviews, along with his recommendations, to the school board within ten days.

The position will offer a better than average working setup in view of the fact that the band has $16,000 in new uniforms, instruments and music all purchased last year. The music department also will be housed in the new high school building.

Under Mills, the Golden Tornado band has been rated one of the top bands of the state in competition over the past two years.

Missouri Man Reported Beaten, Robbed By Fort Worth Thugs

FORT WORTH, Aug. 6. (U.P.)—A Kansas City, Mo., man was in fair condition in a hospital here after staggering into a downtown hotel lobby early today and reporting that he had been beaten and robbed.

Russell L. Wilcox, 33, a guest at the hotel, told police three men attacked him "somewhere near the hotel." Wilcox, an auditor for the inter-State Security Co., was robbed of $12 and left semiconscious on the sidewalk with a broken nose and severe face and head cuts.

Policemen's Ruling On 'Close Dancing' Halts Picketing

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 6 (INS) — What's the difference between "close dancing" and "comfortable dancing"?

The Oakland Police department says there is a difference, but they can't define it.

Officers Offer Solution

Investigating officers were somewhat taken aback by the explanation of a blonde picket leader. She told the bluecoasts that she and her picketing companions were losing money simply because they refuse to accept "cuddle up" dancing partners.

The picket spokesman, featuring an upswept hairdo and a plunging neckline, demanded a settlement of the dispute after a matron summoned Inspector Arthur Waters and Patrolman Theodore Casha.

The officers blinked and made a quick decision!

'Pickets' Satisfied

This seemed to satisfy the picketing daneers although the officers made no attempt to define "comfortable" dancing.

In their written report on the matter, the diplomatic policemen said:

"The girls complained that some girls danced too close, consequently getting the bulk of the trade to the great discomfort of the more genteel girls, most of whom are little mothers with baby sitters eating the profits at home while they fatten the larder with leftovers among the patrons of the academy who do not prefer dancing close."

Olton Voters Okay $140,000 Bond Issue

OLTON, Aug. 6 (Special)—Olton voters passed a $140,000 school bond issue here today by an overwhelming three to one majority.

The bond, which calls for $125,000 to be spent on a new primary school building and the remaining $15,000 for repairs on other buildings in the school system, was adopted by a vote of 323 for and 112 against. A total of 439 votes was cast.

Also included in today's voting was a measure for the Olton schools to assume the indebtedness of the Sunshine school district which has recently consolidated with Olton. That issue passed by a vote of 364 for and 61 against.

The third phase of the election was for maintenance tax in the Sunshine district. That measure was also adopted by a vote of 382 for and 43 against.

Hollywood Starlet Placed On Probation For Being Drunk

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6. (INS) — Starlet Lila Leeds promised the judge today that she'd be a good girl and not get into any more trouble.

The blonde actress made the statement when she pleaded guilty to being drunk in an automobile. She was fined $50 and placed on a year's probation. She recently served a jail term for her part in the Robert Mitchum marijuana case.

Funeral Services To Be Held For Plains Resident Today

PLAINS, Aug. 7 (Special)—Funeral services for Robert J. Alberding, 55, who died suddenly at his home in Plains Friday, will be at 4 p.m. today at the Plains Baptist church. The Rev. C. H. Jackson of Lubbock will officiate.

Alberding had been a resident of Terry and Yoakum counties for 28 years. He was a veteran of the first World War, and a member of the American Legion. He worked as a carpenter and painter.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, Bob and Max, both of Plains; four brothers, Frank of Wichita Falls, Will of Neosho, Mo., Logan of Canon City, Colo., and Lewis of Wichita, Kans.; and two sisters, Mrs. Ella Sunday of Iowa Park, and Mrs. May Liggenstaffer of Kiowa, Kans.

POLES PUSH WORK RACES

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Communist leaders, encouraging "work races," reported more than 12,000 workers now are participating in labor competitions in the reconstruction of Warsaw. A year ago there were only 305.

By June 1 this year, Suva, Fiji had its full normal annual quota of rain.

Floydada Man Saved From Chair By Last - Minute Telephone Call

death row, where isolated prisoners are kep tin an isolation ward the incorrigibles who had been making rowdy noises, at the time the switch was to have been pulled seemed to understand through grapevine that something unusual was afoot, and became quiet.

Two of the prison doctors stood beside the door from the death house to the rain soaked courtyard when two huge negroes bore out an empty stretcher, passing the mortician who was to have taken the body in an ambulance drawn up outside the walls and taken it to early this morning to Wichita Falls for funeral services.

Formula For Death

Captains and penitentiary authorities spoke in low tones to one another and broke up their assembly when approached by witnesses they did not know.

To newsmen, they voluntered no information. But courteously answered every question asked.

One for instance, said "this is the formula of death.

"1750 volts for the first 15 seconds, cutting back to 200 for 30 seconds, increasing to 1200 volts for 15 seconds, then reducing to 200 for one minute, then "kill dynamo."

Protested His Innocence

Jones would have protested his innocence to the last and gone with a prayer on his lips to his death in "Texas only house that stays open all the time with its doors locked."

The 40 year old Floydada grocer had indicated that would be his approach to death. He would have been 316th person — all men — to pay the extreme penalty since execution was started by electrocution the morning of Feb. 8, 1924. At that time five negroes all convicted of murder died.

Water from the skies that gloomed at noon and released intermittent heavy rain almost until dark still glistened on the red prison buildings, several of them erected approximately a decade before the Civil war, when the condemned man's face was seen peering through the glass into the death chamber.

Jones Appeared Calm

As midnight drew near the Floyd man had appeared outwardly calm, both to his guards and newspapermen interviewing him.

He had granted an amiable interview with this reporter late Saturday afternoon about nine and one-half hours before the time set for the the execution. He even managed a laugh or two and at all times appeared to be reconciled to his fate.

He talked of his religious attitude during much of the interview and the Rev. B. C. Anderson, chaplain at the big red brick prison, later said "He can quote a lot of scriptures."

While waiting in his cell tonight he said "I have nothing in my heart against anyone."

Last Meal Immaterial

The Rev. Anderson asked Jones what he wanted for his last meal.

"It is immaterial—'man does not live by bread alone,'" Jones replied.

"Jones has not made any last request," the Rev. Anderson said. "But he does say this—he has nothing in his heart against anyone, and if anyone has anything against him, he wants to be forgiven."

The chaplain accompanied two newspaper reporters (one of them this writer) and a man named Jones from Fort Worth—no relation—to visit the condemned man today.

Father Made Last Plea

Those were the only visitors. Jone's father, Edgar Jones of Stockton, Calif., was here yesterday and then went to Austin to make one last-minute plea for clemency for his son before the state board of pardon and paroles. He was expected back today.

"I know he's done wrong but there is still a lot of good in him," his father told the Pardon board in Austin this morning.

"I would like for you folks to give him life instead of the chair.

"He's a good boy. He was insane when he did it."

One Plea Refused

The Pardons board listened to the father for five minutes and then said they could do nothing, that the question of Jones' guilt and the sentence had been settled in court.

Last week the board announced it would make no further clemency recommendation for Jones after a delegation of ministers appeared before them and asked for clemency.

Jones, the ministers said, had "got religion." They also argued that his sentence was too severe.

Jones was tried in Hale county in 1946 and given the death penalty. This was reversed by the court of criminal appeals, and a second trial was held in Crosby county. Jones again was found guilty and the sentence was upheld by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Head Was Shaved

About the time Jones was removed from his No. four cell in death row so that he could be prepared for his midnight appointment, there were jubilee singers, four negroes with voodoo rythm from the East Texas cane and cotton patches before the microphone entreating "Lord, low down yo' chariot, rock me easy, I gotta home on the other side."

Jones' preparation for the chair followed this pattern: his face, top of head, and left leg were shaved, he was bathed, and removed to the cell nearest the death chamber. From there he would have walked approximately 70 feet to the death chamber, passing through two doors.

When the gong tolled twelve times, as the hands of the clocks in the gables of the administration building finally crept to midnight, Jones and those accompanying him, moved toward the death chamber.

The blindfold was readied. The electtrodes had been soaked in brine solution, for hours. Jones had said in the afternoon when interviewed, that his last words would be a prayer for his "prosecutors and executioners."

Guards mentioned that Jones was one of the calmest men they ever had seen in death row—possibly the calmest. That composure assisted at his leavetaking with his father, Edgar, his brother Ralph and his wife, all of Floydada.

He held hands with his wife after he had embraced his brother, had kissed his father on the mouth, the prison chaplain said.

He kissed her on the mouth and she clung to him.

"I love you," the condemned man said, his low overtones almost merging with her responsive quotation: "I love you."

Jones released her and his father looked up from the floor all had been studying, in time to take her arm as she reeled away with a "Goodbye, Sweetheart," and went sobbing out the door.

Others Await Execution

The man who in the afternoon interview had said that "when prejudices and politics enter into a conviction, that's communism," had watched two persons who had been scheduled to go to the chair ahead of him get 90 day stays of execution instead.

"I believe I'll win this horse race yet," he told his guards after the Board of Pardons and Paroles last week announced that it would not interfere with his sentence.

FLOYDADA, SCENE OF CRIME, APPEARS CALM

FLOYDADA, Aug. 6 (Special)—This city, scene of the crime committed almost three years ago, which brought a death sentence for W. Fred Jones, remained outwardly calm today.

Citizens seemed to be fairly evenly split in their opinions as Jones prepared to walk to his death. There was no "high feeling" over the matter as reported in some newspapers, close observers agreed. Naturally, there were disagreements over degrees of the punishment but nothing more than discussion.

Many who argued for leniency for Jones had little or no personal interest in the case, but were against capital punishment in general. Others who believed they knew enough about Jones and the case to pass judgment thought the sentence was too harsh.

However, some took the attitude that he was getting what he deserved, and residents of the community quietly discussed the pros and cons of their respective beliefs as the zero hour approached.

Last Minute Pleas Made

Even as the state had made ready for its gory task, relatives and friends pushed movements to save his life. Fred and Ed Brown, uncles of the condemned man, had been in Austin for a week seeking a reprieve. Fifty-two telegrams from Cedar Hill, home of the murdered man, all supporting clemency, were dispatched to the Board of Pardons and Paroles, and many more came from Jones' sympathizers in Floydada.

Mrs. Thelma Jones, wife of condemned man, his father, Edgar, and his brother Glenn flew to Huntsville from California to see him.

Clemency Sought

Many knew Jones as a capable food retailer, whose infectious personality could have made him a successful businessman. But others judged him by his past record in Floyd county, which was lengthy and turbulent and filled with fightings.

Jones himself attributed his downfall to excessive drinking. That was one of the strong points in arguments by those pleading for clemency. They claimed the murder was not premeditated, but that Jones acted in a drunken rage.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Love, parents of the murdered man, did not care to discuss the case with reporters, but it is believed that their attitude was one of letting the law take its course, as they voiced no particular disapproval of the death sentence.

Jones claimed he was converted, and it was through several statements made by him regarding this, that he won the support of a group of ministers in Vernon and Wichita Falls, who made a special plea to the Board of Pardons and Paroles for a reduction of the sentence from death to life imprisonment.

According to Harold Brown, cousin of the condemned man, Jones had little hope for a reprieve and had accustomed himself to the idea of dying. Jones seemed to believe the punishment assessed was not excessive, Brown said.

Over 3,000 Attend Petersburg Festival

PETERSBURG, Aug. 5 (Special)—A crowd of more than 3,000 people attended the annual celebration here today.

The day's festivities began with a parade down Main street to the race track at 10 a.m. The parade was led by the Lubbock County Sheriff's Posse.

Vandenberg Urges

May Urge Aid

Vandenberg called for "a fresh look, unhampered by past prejudices or emotions." Acheson has announced he was bringing in outside advisers to work with State department officials on devising new moves with respect to China and the Far East.

Vandenberg further declared that the United States must "deal with the realities" of the situation. Acheson likewise had demanded that the country adopt a "realistic" attitude toward its problems in China.

Officials believe that Acheson, in the expected three lines of anti-Communist action, may urge aid for any resistance forces showing signs of a determined stand against the Communists.

Probable Moves Outlined

The three lines along which policy moves are expected to be ordered are these:

1. Resistance to any threat of aggression by the Chinese Communists against China's neighbors—such as Burma and French Indo-China.

2. Promotion of political policies among China's neighbors from Korea through Japan and the Philippines around to India which will better living conditions of the people and thereby weaken the position of Communism working from the inside.

3. Take advantage of all opportunities to weaken the position of Communism inside China by giving encouragement and, where practical, assistance to any Chinese movements aimed at restoring the country's independence of Communism.

Delivery of aid direct to generals in China's unconquered western provinces thus be considered possible, officials suggested, now that this government has written off the Chinese Nationalist regime as a failure.

Hurley Blasts White Paper

In commenting on the white paper's disclosures, Senator Vandenberg said it was obvious that both Nationalist China and the United States had made "tragic mistakes."

"Our chief mistakes," his statement said, "were (1) the price we paid at Tehran and Yalta, at China's expense, for Russia's belated and unnecessary entry into the Jap war; (2) our well intentioned but impractical insistence upon a Nationalist-Communist coalition."

The tone of Vandenberg's statement was in sharp contrast to the heated comments of Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley (Ret.), who was appointed by President Roosevelt as a special wartime envoy to China with ambassadorial rank. Hurley's assignment was to try to achieve unity between the Chinese Nationalists and Communists.

Hurley's comments on the white paper echoed his blasts of November, 1945, when he resigned his post with a bitter denunciation of career diplomats and a warning that a third world war was "in the making."

His statement today declared that "pro-Communists" in the State department engineered the overthrow of the Nationalist government and aided in the Communist conquest of China.

New Farm Program

Parity is a price intended to give a farm product the same relative value it had in a past favorable period.

Anderson said Brannan's comments brought these changes in the promise bill:

1. Government loan agencies could sell oil seeds, such as cottonseed, for crushing into oil. Previously this was limited to peanuts.

2. Mohair would be added to the price support provisions for wool at 60 to 90 per cent.

3. Loan stocks of wool could be sold at a loss if necessary to avoid heavy storage costs.

The subcommittee hopes to redraft its bill early next week and then seek approval of the full agriculture committee.

tion of immediate cost.

They suggested that this issue might be resolved indirectly if an understanding is reached between congressional leaders and the administration regarding extent of the aid to be given to Europe before an integrated defense plan is developed.

A Senate group, for which Vandenberg is spokesman, reportedly feels that any program which can be developed during the present session must be of an interim nature, and therefore less costly.

SOLON ASKS SPECIFIC DETAILS ON ARMS NEED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Senator Tydings called on military leaders today to spell out in terms of guns, tanks and planes the arms aid needed by Western European signers of the North Atlantic treaty.

Tydings, who heads the Senate Armed Services committee, told a reporter he thinks President Truman's request for $1,450,000,000 to finance a foreign arms program will stand or fall on the detailed needs shown by the chiefs of staffs

Congressional criticism of the proposed program has centered on the amount involved since the State department agreed yesterday to strike out of the bill the broad powers first asked for the President to give arms to any nation.

Sum Claimed Too Large

A strong segment of opinion in House and Senate clung to the idea that the sum asked is far too large. The administration views it as the minimum needed at once to discourage any Russian idea of aggression.

Secretary of State Acheson goes before the combined Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committee Monday to testify on the revised measure.

The committees will hear the chiefs of staff Wednesday, just after their return from a survey of the Western European military situation. At that time, Tydings said the plea for the appropriation will have to be justified thoroughly.

Hopes For Action On Education Bill This Session Given Blow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (INS)—A move by Francis Cardinal Spellman and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt to call off their feud over the federal aid-to-education bill appeared to have failed today to boost chances for passage of the measure at this session.

Key congressional sources expressed belief today that it was too late in the session for action in the $300 million measure.

New Evidence Heard In Five Percent Case

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (INS)—Congress heard charges today that government contractors and employment agencies have teamed up to force workmen to pay five percent of their first year's salaries before they are given jobs.

These "new look" five percenters were brought to the attention of the Senate Investigations committee just two days before the group opens public hearings Monday on influence brokers who land government contracts for a fee.

James H. Dillion, president of the Construction Men's association, New York, set forth the charges in a lengthy letter to Sen. Hoey (D-NC), chairman of the investigations committee.

Evidence Offered Probers

Dillion said the association files "contain substantial documentary evidence" of the employment shake-down and offered the files to the committee "together with our wholehearted co-operation in unveiling the abuses involved."

A spokesman for the investigations committee said Dillion's evidence and co-operation would be welcomed, and thoroughly studied.

Chairman Hoey, meanwhile, disclosed the committee has examined "other contractors" about possible five percent relations with White House intimate John Maragon.

Quake Toll Soars

Guayaquil, Ecuador. These shocks felled the walls of buildings already wrecked by the previous quakes and created considerable panic.

Latest reports from Quito, Ecuador, said at least 20 persons died in the town of Pillaro, which was leveled by the quake.

At Latacunga there were 11 known dead and 30 injured. Two churches, the government house and about 50 dwellings were destroyed.

Railroad Blocked

The governor of Chimboranzo province reported many dead and injured in his capital city, Riobamba.

The earthquake struck at noon (CST) Friday and continued until 12:45 p. m. in a series of six violent shocks. During the longest shock—which lasted 40 seconds—most of Ambato's biggest buildings crashed. It was Ecuador's worst disaster since colonial times.

The entire Ecuadorean cabinet, except Interior Minister Salazar Gomez who went to Ambato with President Galo Plaza Lasso, was on 24-hour relief work duty.

Railway officials said the Quito-Guayaquil line was blocked by so many landslides it will take a week to reopen it. Twenty-seven slides were reported on one 3-mile stretch.

Rivers Flood Farmlands

Floods added to the distress in the quake area. Landslides blocked streams which then changed their courses and inundated farmlands. The first troops helped calm panicky Ambato residents when they arrived there this morning.

The earthquake struck a wide mountainous area of the Andes range surrounding Ambato, which lies 55 miles due south of Quito. The cities of Latacunga, Guaranda and Riobamba also were hit.

The governor of Chimboranzo province reported there were numerous dead and many injured in Riobamba, the provincial capital. This city, with 60,000 inhabitants, is 100 miles south of Quito.

Ambato, which was destroyed by an earthquake in 1797, again was desolate. When the first shock rocked the city, many residents dashed into streets and parks for safety. Hundreds took refuge in churches and prayed. Great cracks opened in the streets. Water mains burst and communication lines were ripped apart. Bridges crumbled into bits. Nearly the whole population was left homeless.

The cathedral was destroyed while 50 children were inside taking a catechism lesson. The military barracks crashed to the ground killing 150 soldiers and injuring 60 others. The palace of the provincial government was a heap of ruins. Four other churches also were demolished—Santo Domingo, San Francisco, La Merced and the Church of the Josephine Fathers.

Authorities ordered everyone out of all buildings to avoid injury from falling walls. Army demolition squades were called upon to raze hazardous structures.

QUAKES IN ECUADOR RECORDED AT TECH

The series of earthquakes that struck central Ecuador Friday and killed more than 80 persons was recorded on the five seismographs located at the observatory at Texas Technological college, Dr. Leroy Patton, professor of geology and director of the observatory reported.

The machines picked up the vibrations about 1:10 p.m. Friday and the quake was recorded as lasting over 20 minutes. The machines also revealed that the disturbances were 2,505 miles away.

Another quake, this time in the Kurile Islands north of Japan, also was recorded Friday at about 7 p.m., Patton said.

Hedrick To Design Plainview School

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 6. (Special) Architect Wyatt C. Hedrick returned to Fort Worth today after signing a contract to design the proposed $900,000 high school building here, W. H. Avenger, superintendent of schools, announced.

Hedrick accepted the offer in a special meeting with school officials Friday. He was offered the contract after a meeting of the Plainview Independent School board Monday.

Hedrick's fee will be six per cent of the total cost of the building, or about $54,000. No time limit was set for completion of the plans.

An associate will arrive here Tuesday to obtain preliminary details and desired specifications from the school board. He will return to Fort Worth after tentative drawings are approved by the board.

The school board spent several weeks deciding on Hedrick for the job. The next step will be breaking ground for the new school. No date has been set for the starting of building operations.

Littlefield Approves $500,000 Bond Vote

LITTLEFIELD, Aug. 6 (Special)—Bonds for the erection of a $500,000 high school building were voted here today by a majority of 423 to 102.

Members of the district board of trustees will meet Monday night to canvass the election and formulate a policy to follow in the sale of the bonds, Supt. Joe Hutchinson reported. Architects are James Atcheson and Atmar Atkinson of Lubbock.

The new two-story school building will contain 18 classrooms, a 900-capacity gymnasium, and a 1,000-capacity auditorium.

tion following a raid at her home by a liquor board official and officers of the sheriff's and police departments. Two male companions were taken into custody with the woman on charges of vagrancy.

$500 Bond Posted

Deputy Sheriff Frank Mitchell said 36 cans of beer and a quart of wine were seized at the house.

The woman, Rosa Chaves Laurence, 45, of 118 North Ave. N, entered a plea of not guilty and was released on $500 bond. The men, Cruz Aleman, 39, of Monroe, and Maciel Macelino, of Lubbock Route 3, were lodged in city jail.

C. D. Matthews, of the liquor control board, and City Patrolmen Ira E. Scott and James Atchison accompanied Mitchell on the raid.

Slaton Men Charged

Two Slaton men were charged Saturday with illegally carrying pistols as outgrowth of a fight in a Slaton cafe Saturday morning.

Joe D. Burleson, 32, who admittedly pistol whipped Homer Furgeson, 29, about the head, pleaded guilty to the charge in a peace bond hearing before Justice of the Peace D. W. Robertson and was placed under $1,000 peace bond. Furgeson attended the hearing with a bandaged head.

Furgeson, who also faces a peace bond hearing Monday morning before Robertson, indicated through his attorney that he intends to plead innocent. His hearing was not held Saturday because witnesses were temporarily unavailable.

Robertson, in the absence of County Judge Walter Davies, set bonds of $500 for each of the two men on the pistol-carrying charges.

Burleson was released after posting both bonds. Furgeson posted $500 bond on the pistol-carrying charges, but will remain in custody pending his peace-bond hearing Monday.

George Eubank, chief deputy sheriff, testified at Burleson's peace-bond hearing that the fight between the two men was the result of a feud of long standing between the two and their respective families.

The following judgments were signed Saturday by County Judge Walter Davies:

Mary Rossum, 27-year-old Lubbock negro woman, pleaded guilty of five cases of liquor law violation filed in April, and was sentenced to 30 days in jail and court costs in each case. The sentences, however, are to run concurrently, the county attorney's office said.

Gilberto Sauceda, 22, a Mexican of Lubbock Route 6, and Monroe Bill Sawyer, 17, of Lubbock Route 6, pleaded guilty of charges of drunk driving and were assessed fines of $75 and court costs each. Driver's licenses of both defendants were revoked for six-months periods.

Lefty Sollis Service station, at 1419 Ave. K, complained to police that a $13 tire had been stolen there.

As yet only one airplane, a B-25, is officially stationed at the base.

Some concern about Lubbock's housing situation has been expressed privately by Air Force personnel now stationed at Lubbock. However, several apartment projects now under construction should alleviate the housing shortage before the end of September, and work is scheduled to get under way shortly on a $2,500,000 293-unit project to be known as Modern Manors, which is expected to be completed during the fall.

Private operative builders report that a number of military personnel have already purchased homes in Lubbock.

Lubbock Man Held In Alleged Beating

A young man was held in jail here today on a charge of assault with a prohibited weapon while police sought a companion who allegedly aided him in the Saturday night beating of a 35-year-old packing house worker.

Police identified the man held in custody as D. F. Payne, 21, of 2105 Edna.

Victim of the pair, C. G. Coker, jr., 35, of 3109 Maple, who was badly beaten about the head with a pistol, told officers the men had held him prisoner for nearly four hours while they drove about the area in his car. He said the pair forced him to accompany them after crowding his car to the side of the Shallowater highway north of Lubbock about 6 p. m.

The case took a strange twist when it was discovered that Payne had been arrested shortly after 10 p. m. on charges of reckless driving, and carrying a pistol, and was in jail when his purported victim told his story to police.

Coker said he was released in front of a cafe in the 1100 block College Ave., about 10 p. m. He said a sum of $14 was taken from his person.

have reason to believe he is keeping up with all the latest news reports," Gallagher stated. "He has lots of friends down there and could make himself very hard to find. That's the reason we aren't crowding him."

Ochoa, handsome, debonair and 38, is charged with murdering Henry D. Whittenburg, 31, South Texas ginner, at a downtown Laredo hotel early last Sunday. Ochoa also is wanted for questioning in the slaying of Air Force Cpl. James Lindsay, 30, of Oneida, Tenn., who was slain in another part of the hotel the same night. Both men were shot to death.

Man Knocks On Door

Chief Gallagher said he believes Ochoa, U. S. customs broker, "is getting all the latest papers."

Ochoa knew Lindsay but it has not been established that he ever met Whittenburg. The slain men were acquainted and both knew Mrs. Rosa Maria Ochoa, George's beautiful wife, District Attorney E. James Kazen has announced.

Both Whittenburg, who operated the Farmers Gin Company here and Lindsay, who had lived here before and had come back to see his wife, were killed with shots from a .32 caliber pistol.

At 4 a. m. last Sunday a man knocked down the door of Whittenburg's hotel room on the 10th floor of the hotel. The man asked a San Antonio woman in the room: "Is that Whittenburg?"

Whittenburg, on a bed, said "Yes."

Jealousy Believed Motive

The intruder shot him five times.

It is not known whether Lindsay died before or later. It was believed someone knocked on the door of his room and fired a single fatal shot when he answered it.

Armando Jalomo, bellboy at the hotel, said he took Ochoa to the 10th floor about 4 a. m.

"I think there was a motive of jealousy," Chief Gallagher stated. He declined to elaborate.

While officers searched for the powerfully built Ochoa Sunday he played golf all day at the Nuevo Laredo country club and in the evening he visited two bars in the Mexican city. After that, he dropped out of sight.

Chutists Trapped

was roaring ahead of reinforcements and communications with terrifying noise and speed.

The "smoke jumpers" were described by a veteran rescue worker as "all young kids . . . college students . . . who were jumping for the sport of it."

Only three of the 15-man crew were known to be safe. Two others were found badly burned but succumbed to burns in a Helena hospital.

Run From Blaze

"We landed in front of the fire and tried to fight it for a while," said one of the survivors, who declined use of his name, "but it was making its own wind and was coming at us very fast."

"The foreman threw a match into the grass to burn out an area for us, but I guess the boys didn't understand. They began running up the side of the mountain with the fire behind them.

"The foreman and another jumper stayed in the burned out spot but I ran up the mountain. Another fellow and I made it over the ridge and got in a large rockslide. I don't know how many others got to the top.

The disaster was the worst in the history of the regional Forest Service parachutist unit—a pioneer in the field.

Flames Out-Run Men

More than 400 men poured into the area today to augment fire lines around the Gates of the Mountains fire and another blaze nine miles to the southeast.

A mid-afternoon thunderstorm sprinkled a few drops of water on the men fighting the larger fire, but it did knock the mercury down from a sizzling 101 degrees in the steep canyons.

The wind gusts which came with the storm enabled the fire to outrun the men. Flames crackled through timbered gulches, moved rapidly along a front which built up tremendous heat and pressure.

Jones Calm As Death Neared

in my heart when I sinned. I shot that boy, all right. But even he on his death bed, in his dying declaration, said to his mother that 'nobody was mad'."

• • •

Jones said he had been praying repeatedly for those who "persecuted and prosecuted me."

"The story I told on the witness stand was the truth," he said.

"Not only did I act without malice, but I acted because I love my wife, and my family.

"My wife will come in to see me after you have gone. It will be our last visit. I've written her and my three children (ranging in age from 13 to 3) a letter to be opened after my death."

• • •

Note Fell From Bible

He handed out his Bible, which showed it had been well used.

"I'm giving this to my wife to keep for herself and the children."

A note fell out. "It's a prayer," Jones said. On the paper had been written: "Dear God, I commit my children, wife and loved ones to thee. Please, Lord, protect and comfort them and bring each one safely home."

"In Jesus name I ask it, amen." It was signed "W. Fred Jones."

• • •

Jones Respects Guards

The eyes of the chaplain were cast down. One of the death row guards, Walter A. Craig, blew his nose and turned away.

"Am I staying too long?" I asked.

"You stay as long as you like," Craig said. The chaplain nodded. "That shows you why I have so much respect for everybody here," Jones said, pressing his face closer to the bars so that he could smile at Craig. "They love me and I love them. I've looked forward to my hours with Brother Anderson there.

"When Jesus was crucified, it was by his enemies; when I go out, it will be at the hands of my friends.

"The crown of thorns placed on our Savior's brow was placed there by enemies; when the chin strap is placed about me tonight you'll see that it is placed there with loving hands."

Hands Appeared Calm

Maybe someone opened the door momentarily. Thin strains of a dirge came from across a courtyard. Jones looked at his own hands, calm as his voice. Then he smiled.

"I've read the Bible and prayed with one of the other guards. He is a good man, but not a man of God. I have so hoped that something I may do the brief time I'm to be here may so impress him that he will accept the living God as his personal Savior."

"Hates To Leave Life"

There was a churchly resonance in the condemned man's voice. A softness in his eyes when he concluded: "We've prayed together, my wife and children. Tonight I shall see God. But I hate to leave life—a mother without a husband, three children without a father. You can appreciate that. But, going, I can leave them this advice: To trust God, have faith in Him, and look forward to the time when we have put aside all that which is mortal and clasp each other to our immortal bosoms."

The condemned man's voice paused. Even the quiet in death row seemed to become quieter. Then somebody—the chaplain had said two negroes were down that way—sniffed. Jones apparently heard it.

Talks Of Victim

"I know them all," he said.

"We talk with each other some."

"The grapevine, you know," the chaplain said.

"Yes," said Jones. "And I get to see them when I get my bath. I'll see them again—"

It was time to go. In a short time Mrs. Jones would arrive. Then it would be time to bathe and shave the condemned. He would be ready for his appointment at midnight.

"Well, I want to thank you again for coming," Jones said as I stood.

"I'll be there tonight," I said.

"I'm glad," he said. "And God bless you. I hope I've said something that will help you. Being here is not so grim when you consider that perhaps some on the outside may not have enlightened their souls.

"One other thing I'd like to say: "When I step across the threshhold and into the presence of God, the first man who will take me by the hand will be H. C. Love, jr.

"I am positive of that; for if God has forgiven me, I know that boy has likewise."

Car Hits Young Lubbock Boy; Condition Reported As Fair

An eight-year-old negro boy, Tommie Lee Zachary, of 1922 Ave. A, was seriously hurt about 5:30 p.m. Saturday when he was struck by a car in front of his home.

Attendants at Chatman hospital where the boy was taken for treatment said his condition was fair. His injuries were described as a fractured skull, a dislocated right shoulder and numerous abrasions and bruises about the face and body.

Police records showed the boy was running east across Ave. A when he was struck by a southbound car driven by Welton C. Roberts, of Lubbock Route six. Welton told officers he did not see the boy in time to avoid the accident.

TAX PROBLEMS TO BE STUDIED

Two Major Legislative Groups May Be Completed This Week

By LLOYD LARRABEE
United Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Aug. 6—Two powerful legislative committees, armed with a "corps of experts," were expected today to be named during the coming week and begin work on Texas' taxation problems due to face lawmakers next January.

House Speaker Durwood Manford said he expected shortly to name House members to the Texas legislative council and the legislative budget board, rounding out membership of the two committees created by the 51st legislature.

Sweeping investigatory powers were handed to the 17-member legislative council, promising to make it the most powerful group in state government.

Group Given Power

The council was authorized to make any state department hand over any of its records or documents if it wished.

The same treatment also may be brought to bear upon any county or other political subdivision of the state—and the council will have power to examine and audit the books of any "person, firm or corporation" dealing with a department or institution under scrutiny.

The lieutenant governor will act as chairman of both the council and the 10-member budget board, with the House speaker serving as vice-chairman of each.

Manford expected that the first order of work for the council would be a thorough study of Texas' tax structure, with a view toward recommending legislation to lawmakers in January.

And, he added, the group probably will make a study of Texas' higher educational institutions during the next two years.

The tax and higher education studies were placed before legislators as separate, administration-backed measures, but were voted down during the past session.

Fund Is Appropriated

For its work during the coming biennium, the legislative council was authorized to spend $110,000.

The budget board, whose director will draft major appropriation bills for presentation to the legislature, was given $100,000.

By Comparison, the Gilmer-Aiken committee authorized by the 50th legislature in 1947, whose recommendations provided a sweeping new education reform program, was appropriated $25,000.

The legislative council, Manford envisioned, "will give the legislature the know-how and the knowledge of a core of experts."

"It's a very forward step," he said, "previously the leadership has been done by the executive branch, but with the council, the legislature will be in a position to take its own leadership, or perhaps a composite of both branches."

However, the speaker added, members of the council "are not going to adopt the attitude of dictating to the legislature. Their main point is getting information before the legislature."

The council will have an effective means of bringing witnesses and records before it.

Face Court Action

Should any witness fail to report after a call by the council, it shall be the "duty" of the Travis county district court, the law states, to force compliance "by attachment proceedings for contempt as in the case of disobedience of subpoena issued by the court."

The taxation question, will of necessity be one of the first issues facing the council.

Gov. Allan Shivers laid the groundwork in an address advocating increased natural resources levies to pay "for those things we must have" at a session next January.

The council will be aided in its task by a permanent staff which will gather information and make surveys.

The budget board, Manford said, also will operate a sa full-time organization in aiding legislators.

To Speed Work

The board's work, he said, "ought to speed up the session by a month, or permit members to accomplish a lot more work."

A budget director, to be chosen by the council at a salary to be determined by it, will issue to the legislature within five days after its convening a budget of estimated appropriations.

Also, the new board will eliminate the practice of introducing "dummy" appropriation bills, to be worked out later in committee. The director will write major spending measures designed to bear up fairly well with the finished product.

The work of the two new groups, Manford said, will give legislators direct information on issues in which they previously have had to rely on the testimony of witnesses before legislative committees when they were not under oath.

"It will certainly increase," he said, "the powers of the legislature in state government."

Drive Starts For Women Reservists

AUSTIN, Aug. 5. (Special)—A statewide campaign to appoint and enlist all prior servicewomen of Texas into the WAC-Reserves has been initiated by the Texas Military district, Colonel Oscar B. Abbot, executive of the headquarters has announced.

Lt. Mary Jane Bailey, Regular Army WAC, recently transferred to the military district, has been placed in charge of the program.

When interviewed in Austin, Lt. Bailey said, "Texas leads the southwestern states in the appointment and enlistment of former servicewomen into the WAC-Reserves but the present number is a minimum of the possible total. Texas now has 28 WAC officers and 60 enlisted women."

For training, WACs are assigned to position vacancies in non-combat Organized Reserve Corps units which meet weekly and semi-monthly for pay purposes. If WAC-Reservists cannot attend these armory meetings, they take advantage of the Army Extension courses and the special schools established for the training of specialists.

Lt. Bailey emphasized that all former servicewomen can enter the Organized Reserve corps in the last grade held while on active duty.

The pay and retirement privileges enjoyed by all organized reservists is authorized for WACs also. Retirement pay upon attainment of age 60, provided they have completed 20 years of service on active duty or in the active Reserve, and a day's pay for each two hours of armory meetings, is an incentive to all former servicewomen.

Prior servicewomen of Texas should contact the Organized Reserve Corps Instructor's office in the Cotton Exchange building in Lubboc kfor details as to how they can insure a retirement and remain semi-active in the military.

HERO FINDS IT TOUGH

WROCLAW, Poland (AP) — A young Pole who says he won Britian's Victoria Cross is finding things a bit tough in the New Poland. He's Jan Botczakowski, 24, and he sells newspapers on the streets and in the cafes of this former German city of Breslau "to earn a living." Botczakowski said he served with British commandos during the raid on Narvik and personally captured two German generals.

Truck Center Is Opened In City

Filling a long-felt need for truckers in this area, the Lubbock Truck Center, Inc., has been opened at Eighth and Ave. H, and is now in full-time 24-hour, seven days a week operation.

Bert Kahn, owner of the Bert Kahn's Health Club, is president and Dudley Henriques is secretary-treasurer. Henriques is manager of the center.

Features Truck Service

Featuring washing, lubrication and minor repair of all sizes and types of trucks including the largest and longest cattle transport units, the station will have 30 employes on duty during a 24-hour period.

The center will also serve as a truck stop for drivers and a modern and well-equipped cafe, operated by Selvin Walton, is adjoining the station. The cafe is a unit in a chain of barbecue cafes operated by Jack Walters at Dallas, Fort Worth, Kilgore and Tyler.

The station has two 25 by 50-foot steam cleaning and high pressure washing stalls, one inside and one outside and a 55-foot lubrication pit, equipped with the latest high-pressure greasing equipment. A 30,000 square foot parking area for trucks adjoins the station.

The station, which features Gulf products, also offers passenger vehicle washing and greasing service.

An air-conditioned office and display room is maintained and rest rooms are tile with full-length mirrors and hot and cold running water.

Henriques reported Saturday that the response to the station's services has been excellent since it opened a few days ago.

Alleged Key Figure In Numbers Ring Freed On $100,000 Bond

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—Irving Bitz, 46, alleged key figure in a $50 million-a-year crooked numbers ring, was released from city prison today on $100,000 bail.

The $100,000 bail was fixed last Monday when Bitz and three co-defendants waived hearings before Magistrate Samuel Orr on charges of contriving a lottery. They were held for grand jury action.

The alleged ring was uncovered in a raid on a Newark, N.J., home. Subsequently 17 persons were arrested in three states on charges of contriving a lottery.

LAUGH BRINGS JAIL

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—The Hamburg newspaper "Abendblatt" said a German laughed out loud in a Leipzig cinema at a Soviet propaganda film. It showed, and lavishly praised, a new textile machine. When he told the police that the film was of a German 1920 model, he was arrested.

One type of banana has a single fruit which may be as much as two feet in length and thick as a man's arm, enough to make a meal for three men.

Accidental Deaths Exceed A-Bomb Toll

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (AP)—Atom bombs killed some 110,000 persons in Japan four years ago but since the atomic age began, the National Safety council says, accidents have caused 400,000 deaths in the United States.

The comparison was made by Ned H. Dearborn, council president, in the National Safety News.

He said the accidental death toll in other countries of the world cannot be estimated, but if the world rate is near the American, about 6 million persons have been killed by accidents in the four years of the atomic era.

The 400,000 Americans have been killed, Dearborn said, "not by the new products of genius, but by the old stupidities. Accidents—the banal, needless, profitless, prewar type of accident—have killed almost four times as many people in post-war America as the atom bombs killed at Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

"I am not trying to gloss over the menacing possibilities of atomic warfare but the other disaster—the disaster of accidents—is not a possibility; it is a grim and bloody fact . . . (and) the thousands who died in accidents are no less dead because they died singly. . ."

WORKMEN FIND COINS

WARSAW, Poland. (AP)—Workmen who built the new $11,000,000 east-west highway connecting Warsaw with suburban Praga added many objects to the national museum. Excavators found hoards of gold coins dating back to 1793. They also unearthed bronze pitchers, axes and hatchets.

Giants Defeat League-Leading Cardinals, 3 To 1

Cincinnati Reds Cop 5 To 2 Win Over Brooklyn Dodgers

ST. LOUS, Aug. 6 (AP)—With former Mexican leaguer Adrian Zabala turning in a six-hit pitching job, the New York Giants defeated the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals 3-1 tonight before a crowd of 28,193.

This left the Redbirds still a half game ahead of the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers, who lost to Cincinnati this afternoon.

Zabala had a three-hitter until the Cardinals scored their lone run in the eighth on singles by Tommy Glaviano and Red Schoendienst and a double play by Stan Musial. Schoendienst tried to score on Musial's double, but was out at the plate on a tremendous throw by right fielder Monte Irvin.

Giant pitchers now have allowed only seven runs in their last eight games.

CINCINNATI REDS TAKE 5-2 GAME FROM BROOKLYN

CINCINNATI, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds scored five runs in the eighth inning today with the aid of three errors by Third Baseman Billy Cox to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-2.

Johnny Wyrostek homered to start the eighth for the Reds and Cox came up with a seige of butter fingers.

The loss snapped a six game Brooklyn winning streak. Cox's three errors tied the National league record for most errors in an inning by a third baseman, established by Phil Geier of Boston and Lew Riggs of Brooklyn.

Sunbeamers Lose Finals

STAMFORD, Aug. 6 (Special)—Lubbock's Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers won three games here today in the state NSC tournament before bowing in the finals, 4-3, to the Stamford All-Stars.

The Sunbeamers needed to win four straight games—having lost one to win the first place and a trip to the world tournament at Greeley, Colo., September 3. But the pace was too stiff, and after taking the first three the team gave way to errors in the nightcap which spelled defeat.

In the 1:30 a. m. opener the Sunbeamers defeated Lubbock Barber college, 4-0, on G. W. Warden's no-hitter. A rest followed, during which Kemp eliminated Bryson, 5-1, but the Sunbeamers took to the field again at 4 p. m. and dropped Seymour's All-Star, 10-2. In the semi-finals at 7 p. m. the Sunbeamers defeated Kemp, 9-1, to advance to the game against Stamford, a team that upset the favored Seymour team earlier.

The championship game between the Sunbeamers and Stamford was full of errors, seven being made by the two clubs.

Stamford jumped a 3-0 lead in the third frame and Lubbock countered with two in the fourth. Stamford retaliated with one marker in the fourth to put the game out of reach and Lubbock tallied its final marker in the fifth.

Hayes Comes Home

In the third Stamford shortstop Bob Miller singled sharply to leftfield through the hole between third base and shortstop. Gene Mickler doubled to score Miller with the first run of the game, and stole third before coming home on a wild pitch by Warren 'Stringbean" Pope, who was charged with the defeat. Curly Hayes was safe at first on Pope's error, took second on a passed ball, and came home on R. W. Bowman's double to right-centerfield with the final run of the inning.

The Sunbeamers bounced back in the fourth with two runs. Roy Bultler went to third on Mickler's error on a high fly ball to centerfield and scored on Catcher Willis James' liner over second. James advanced to second on a balk, went to third on Warden's single, and scored when Pope grounded out.

Stamford forged two runs ahead, but in the fifth Jim Joe Reiger tripled and came home on a ground rule when an overthrow went into the screen, completing the scoring for Lubbock.

Pope gave up six hits before retiring in favor of Kenny Scott, and struckout four. Scott whiffed five. Winner was Roy Weeks, and he fanned five and issued the only walk of the game. Lubbock committed five errors.

Barbers Lose, 4-0

The Barbers could not get their bats to working as they bowed to the Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers in the first afternoon game, 4-0. G. W. Warden held them in perfect control, and his team made but one error behind him. Warden struckout 13 barbers and walked eight. Arthur Pinkert fanned four and FOUR OUTSTANDING PLAYERS YESTERDAY — This quartet of players provided the spark that gave their teams victory in major league games played yesterday. Two American League standouts are pictured above, right, while two National League stars are shown above at left. Joe DiMaggio, the fabulous Yankee outfielder gave his team victory in the ninth with a circuit blow to follow one by Tommy Henrich that tied the score against St. Louis. Dick Fowler, often a tough pitcher to beat, handed the Cleveland Indians a shutout as the Philadelphia Athletics pushed over two runs for a 2-0 win. It was Fowler's orilliance that helped the New York Yankees increase their lead over Cleveland to four games. Dick Sisler, son of the immortal first baseman, came into the Philadelphia-Pittsburgh game as a pinch hitter and made his daddy proud. The young Sisler knocked a single that scored Del Ennis with the run that gave the Phils a 4-3 victory over the Bucs. Johnny Wyrostek proved that the Yanks aren't the only team to hit timely home runs. Wyrostek slammed one in the eighth to spark the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Brooks had built up a 2-0 lead, only to blow it in face of the five-run rally by the Reos. Three errors by usually reliable Billy Cox at third played no little part in the upset. For more complete details on these and other major league games, see American and National League stories and box scores on page three and page one respectively.

Deal For Hubbers Reported

M. L. Wilkison May Buy Club

A deed of trust filed in the Lubbock county clerk's office Saturday revealed officially for the first time that negotiations are underway for the purchase of the Lubbock Baseball club and its assets.

M. L. Wilkison, owner of the Wilkison Radiator shop, 915 Ave. H, Lubbock, is the prospective new owner of the Hubbers, currently occupying fifth place in West Texas-New Mexico league standings.

Final Deal Expected

When contacted Saturday night concerning the negotiations, Mrs. Adaylayde Rosenthal, present owner of the club, and W. D. Girard, Lubbock attorney representing Mrs. Rosenthal, denied that a deal for this club had been completed and said no money had yet been paid toward such a purchase.

Some sort of final deal is expected however in the next few days.

Rumors to the effect that the club would be sold or was in the process of being sold have been heard over Lubbock the past two weeks.

And although no final sale has been completed, the purchase price involved has been rumored to be in the neighborhood of or in excess of $180,000, although other estimates range upwards to $250,000 and others much lower.

The deed of trust, executed July 16, revealed that Wilkison made preliminary financial arrangements toward purchase of the club from Mrs. Rosenthal, owner.

How Document Reads

Over the signatures of Wilkison and his wife, the document stated: "M. L. Wilkison is this day (July 16) purchasing the Lubbock Baseball club and its assets from Mrs. Adaylayde Rosenthal."

The document further stated: "The ownership and management of the Lubbock Baseball club shall from henceforth constitute the principal and chief business of M. L. Wilkison."

Wilkison was in Amarillo Saturday night to watch the Hubbers play, and could not be reached for a statement in spite of telephoned messages.

Mrs. Rosenthal, contacted at her home, refused to elaborate on the reported deal.

It was learned, however, that Wilkison had put up a sum of money as a forfeiture, or earnest money, with a deadline of Aug. 15.

Girand denied that the sale already had been completed and said Wilkison had paid no money toward the actual purchase.

"There are some local hitches that haven't been ironed out yet," Girand said.

Lubbock, Texas, Sunday, August 7, 1949

Between The Lines by Joe Kelly

BEAUMONT—Probably the best news for Lubbock fans in a long time is the announced intention of Waldo "The Comet" Young of Monahans to enter Texas Tech. Waldo was next to unstoppable last year on the gridiron and was one of the better backs in the North-South All-Star game here Friday night. For a while, the rumor was strong that the Monahans star had selected 1, SMU; 2, Hardin-Simmons; and 3, Sul Ross. That he intends to join the Red Raiders is cause for rejoicing. During the coaching school here, Waldo has been wearing a T-shirt with "Texas Tech Athletic Department" written across the front of it.

• • •

But along with good news there usually is bad and it follows in this case also. Derrell Murphy, the dextrous Shallowater High school court star, definitely has cast his lot with Southern Methodist. It was said that was where he would go, but Tech coaches, especially Polk Robison, who is one of many college coaches here, worked hard to keep him on the South Plains. Murphy was one of the greatest basketball players in the state and his work in the first all-star game here furthered that belief. While he didn't score many points, his floor game was terrific.

• • •

The school this year, considered the best one ever held, is getting so big that there are cries of "break it up." So far it has been suggested that the logical thing to do would be to hold a separate north and a separate south school, with the state divided into two parts. There also has been the suggestion that the school divorce its subjects and to hold them one at a time. For instance, football coaches would have a school, followed by one for basketball, one for track, one for baseball, etc. There's nothing definite on it at all.

• • •

As of Thursday night, when this is being scribbled in a very hot, muggy hotel room, there is no news of who will get the 1950 coaching school. Lubbock is making an effort to get it, as is Amarillo, Abilene. San Angelo also has its bid in, but we doubt if any small city will be given the nod. Accommodations are strained to the breaking point here this year and Beaumont is gone over the 100,000 mark in population. Coaches and sports writers are sleeping three, four and five to a room and private homes have had to open up to take care of the overflow.

• • •

There's more tub-thumping being done for Lubbock High school by other coaches and sportswriters than you could imagine. As mentioned much earlier in the season, someone has gotten the notion that the Westerners are going to have a powerhouse come this fall. If a poll were taken right now, we believe that Lubbock would be selected to win the state championship. All of which is putting two strikes against Coach C. R. Pattison and the high school grid squad before they even pull on uniforms. We look for Lubbock to have a strong team, but awarding them the state title before they have played one game is like raking in a poker pot before the cards have been laid on the table.

• • •

Charlie Boos, the Texas Tech graduate who is doing such a fine coaching job at Shallowater, thinks that he will have a good basketball team again this winter. That, despite losing Derrell Murphy, Benny Weber, Hubert Gentry and Fowler off the varsity by graduation. Charley says that the replacements for the boys came along fast before the end of the season last year and he expects them to step in and take over competently soon after the season opens. He's optimistic about his chances when most coaches, after losing that many top players, would be seeking towels in which to cry.

• • •

Hottest argument that has come up so far over the merits of Oneal Weaver, one of the nation's great high school basketball players last year at Martin's Mill, and Murphy. We have let the torrents rage, listening with interest to both factions. Weaver was voted the most valuable player for the north after Thursday night's game, but to hear the sportswriters talk, it's hard to imagine how he could have secured the most votes. Murphy turned in a great performance, both in the afternoon and at night. There was no question in our mind, no hesitation, about nominating him as the team's most valuable player.

• • •

It's true that Weaver pitched in nine points to Murphy's four in the afternoon and that they each had 10 that night. It's also true that in the night game, Murphy was the spark that broke through the south's defense and set up the north victory. Not only did he turn the tide by stealing the ball and dribbling spectacularly down the court for a layup, in addition

Lamesa Defeats Pioneers, 8 To 1

CLOVIS, Aug. 6 (AP)—A homer by Jay Haney in the first, one by D. C. Miller in the third and a grand slam roundtripper by Haney in the eighth was all that big Jack Gutierrez needed to wrap his twelfth victory of the season here tonight.

The score was 8-1 for Lamesa. The Loboes salvaged the final of a three game set. Gutierrez threw a four hitter at the Pioneers. His opponent southpaw Joe Borrego was knocked for 15 hits.

Little Jess Jacinto, peppery second baseman of the Pioneers, was maried to Miss Billie Cline of Lamesa in a pre-game ceremony here at Bell Park. The couple was united at second base. The second largest crowd in the history of the baseball stadium, 2,102 paid admissions, witnessed the ceremony and game.

Adding excitement to the contest which was Lamesa's all the way was a fisticuff display between Pioneer pitcher John Waselchuk and Joe Locke of the Lobos in an exchange along the first base line. Both scored several punches, with Waselchuk apparently having the better of it. The principals were not ejected.

Ziggy Sears Will Pilot Borger Nine

BORGER, Aug. 6. (AP) — Ken "Ziggy" Sears took over the managerial reins of the Borger Gassers today, it was announced by Dr. Marshall Dyke, Gasser co-owner.

Sears was installed as manager about 3:39 this afternoon on the recommendation of Eddie Carnett. Carnett was relieved this week, and Dr. Dyke piloted the team during the last two games.

Sears is the first string catcher for the Gassers and knows the ability of each Borger pitcher. Dyke believes that the former New York Yankee catcher will do a commendable job.

Dave Moon, Former SMU Star Reports To Baltimore Colts

WESTMINISTER, Md., Aug. 6 (AP)—Dave Moon, a 205-pound former fullback at Southern Methodist, arrived today at the Baltimore Colts' training camp after a detour.

Moon was a Colt draftee but was sent to the Chicago Hornets as part of an All-America conference strengthening move. The Hornets cut him loose after two weeks' trial.

Dukes Beat Blue Sox

ALBUQUERQUE, Aug. 6 (AP)—Southpaw Donnie Ferrarese chalked up a fourth consecutive victory to give the Albuquerque Dukes a 7 to 3 decision over the Abilene Blue Sox tonight. The victory extended the Duke's league lead to three full games. Ferrarese was in command all but one inning. He struck out 10 to run his total for the season to 164. The victory was his ninth.

He faltered in the fourth. The Blue Sox scored three runs then with two away.

Ferrarese walked George Sturdivant and Donnie Concepcion. Then rightfielder Rene Vega got Abilene's first hit of the game, scoring Sturdivant. Joe Wessing walked and catcher Joe Calvino singled through the box to bring in the last two Abilene tallies.

Ferrarese walked five men. However in six of the nine innings he kept the Blue Sox away from first base.

The Dukes clinched the ball game in the second. They blasted Gill Guerra for four runs. Allan Maul started the inning with a triple and scored on manager Hershel Martin's single.

A walk and Ferrarese's tremendous double off the centerfield wall scored the last three runs for the Dukes. Freddy Rodriguez came in to stop the Dukes after the bases were loaded.

Two singles and an error by Bob Fernandez gave the Dukes a run in the third. They wound up their scoring in the sixth on Dick Dawson's double and an outfield fly and consecutive singles by Len Attyd and Maul. Maul paced the hitting with three safeties.

Sullivan Is Forced To Use Every Man Against Soxers

First Baseman Jim Prince Thumbed From Game For Protesting Decision

AMARILLO, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Amarillo Gold Sox came from behind three times here tonight and that last time was a charm for they went on to take a 14-11 decision from the Lubbock Hubbers and a clean sweep of the three-game series.

Jackie Sullivan, the Hubber pilot, was forced to use every player in uniform during the slugfest. He had inserted left-handed Tommie Butler as his fifth moundsman of the tilt in the eighth inning to face three successive southpaw swingers.

Prince Thumbed

He had Walt Stenborg, another portsider, warming up first in case but Stenborg had to take over in right field when base umpire Fisher thumbed first baseman Jim Prince out of the game for protesting a decision on Doug Lewis at first.

John Myers, No. 3 in the lengthy parade of Hubber chunkers, suffered the defeat. He came on in the fifth after Amarillo had again overcome the visitors lead to go ahead 9-7.

Bob German received credit for the victory, his third of the season. The hose southpaw relieved starter Milt Ralat in the first after the Hubs had jumped out in front with five runs on four singles, two doubles and a fielder's choice.

German kept out of trouble until the fifth when Mike Dooley's two-run homer over the left field wall gave Lubbock a 7-5 advantage. The losers added the other four in the seventh on singles by Floyd Walker and Charley Willis; Dooley's double, an error and Nelson Davis's two-run four-bagger.

Homers Aid Sox

Amarillo picked up its first seven tallies as a result of three home runs. Lone ones in the first and second by Crawford Howard and Paul Halter with nobody on and a three-run one by Jerry Folkman in the fourth that made a 5-5 temporary deadlock.

The Hose added four more in the fifth at the expense of Don Hensiek who came in for starter Ray Reichelt in the fourth. Then produced a single one in the seventh and four in the eighth which started with Halter's 26th roundtripper of the year and second of the night.

Hubs' Cotton Russell Is Fined, Suspended

AMARILLO, Aug. 6. (Special)—Billy George "Cotton" Russell, righthanded pitcher for the Lubbock Hubbers, has been fined and suspended for the remainder of the 1949 West Texas-New Mexico League season.

Manager Jackie Sullivan told an Avalanche-Journal sports reporter tonight, following the Amarillo-Lubbock game, that he had imposed both penalties against the cotton-headed hurler.

Sullivan said that he had fined Russell $100 and had placed him under suspension. "And," he added, "he will not play ball for me again this year."

Failure to Hustle

Sullivan declared that Russell's fine and suspension was the result of his failure to hustle and for poor attitude that was not conducive to the club's winning. The righthander was called into Friday night's game in time to serve up a four-run homer to Crawford Howard that cost the Hubbers possible victory.

Friday night's lack of hustle and improper attitude was the fourth time this year that the pitcher had failed to try his best, according to reports. Manager Sullivan almost suspended Russell last Monday for the same poor attitude and in the best interests of the club.

Twice before, on other road trips, Russell had not given his best, according to the Lubbock manager. He had won eight and lost five this year. Far under his 1948 record when he was a rookie.

"Sullivan Has The Power"

Mrs. Sam Rosenthal, Hubber owner, said last night that the action came as a surprise to her, that she had not as yet talked to her manager. But, she also added that she knew of the other three incidents. She said that Sullivan, as manager, had the power to levy fines and suspension. She said that she would go over the situation Monday when George Schepps, general manager, is due in Lubbock.

Sullivan, speaking from his hotel room here, said that despite the loss of 10 straight games, the club was continuing to hustle and trying its best to win. "There is no place on this club for any man who won't hustle," Sullivan declared. "Every man is trying to win and we will."

Littler, Holscher In Jaycee Finals

HOUSTON, Aug. 6. (AP)— Two young golfers who may be college roommates this fall meet here tomorrow, in the championship match of the fourth annual National Jaycee Junior tournament.

They are short, muscular Gene Littler, San Diego, Calif., the defending champion, and slender Bud Holscher, Santa Monica, Calif., last year's Hearst National Junior titlist.

Both splashed through a heavy rain this afternoon to score semi-final victories. Littler turned back Don Addington, Houston, 3 and 1, while Holscher won from another Californian, Bill Casper, Chula Vista, 2 and 1.

All four finished with par-plus scores on the 6012 yard, par 71 Houston Country Club course. Littler was three over, Addington six, Holscher nine and Casper 10. Three and four putt holes were numerous for the water soaked greens.

In the morning quarter final matches Littler took a 7 and 5 decision from Bob Atkinson, Portland, Ore., while Holscher turned back Jim Blair, Jefferson City, Mo., 2 up.

Addington won 1-up from Jack Weitzel, Reading, Pa., and Casper defeated Hobart Jameson, Altus, Okla., 6 and 5.

SPORTS Slants

BY CHOC HUTCHESON

This week, on hearing that Dick Griffin was a visitor here, I decided to call on the veteran boxing promoter for an informal interview and friendly chat.

It was mid-afternoon when I arrived at the door of his hotel room.

My approach was greeted by a series of threatening barks and growls from a husky German shepherd which lay at the room's entrance. Griffin, you see, is blind, and the dog, named "Gilda," is the "eye" that guides him daily along his way.

Griffin promptly silenced Gilda with a few gentle commands, and invited me inside.

This was the beginning of a most interesting talk with a most interesting person. Dick Griffin is a man of a million memories, all of them indelibly clear in his razor-sharp mind, and his story is one well worth re-telling. To give it full flavor, I'll start from the beginning.

• • •

Born 51 years ago in Albuquerque, Dick Griffin moved to Texas at an early age and was reared in the Lone Star state.

He was always a pint-sized youth, but at the age of 18 he discovered that he could fight, and fight well. There was no amateur fighting worthy of mention at that time, so he began as a professional.

He was a bantamweight sensation from the start. "Dandy Dick" Griffin, the sports writers tagged him, and they caled him the greatest little fighter ever seen in a Texas ring.

"I was prety good, all right," Griffin says now, "but not near the fighter some of them thought I was. After I'd been going well around Fort Worth, they threw me in with Nate Jackson, a real tough boy from Oklahoma City. He'd been fighting in New York, and really knew his way around. I'd just had about 10 fights at the time, and he gave me the beating of my life. After that, I fought him four more times, and never did beat him until our last bout."

• • •

Despite the loss to Jackson, Griffin continued to improve. A clever, shifty fighter with a stiff punch, he soon was acclaimed as the Southwest's best bantam. After beating the region's toughest competition, he headed for New York and the "big time."

"I won nine straight in New York," Griffin recalls, "and let me tell you just how close I came to getting a crack at the bantam title. I was on several of Tex Rickard's big cards, including Dempsey-Carpentier at Boyle's 30 acres, over in Jersey. I won my fight that day, and later my manager, Leo Flynn, came to me and said, 'Well, Dickie, it's all set .Rickard says you're to fight Pete Herman for the title in October.'

"But then," Griffin relates, "he got to talking about the fight I had just won. 'Why couldn't you knock that boy out, Dickie?' he asked. And then I had to tell him that I couldn't see out of my right eye. It had been bothering me for three or four fights, but I didn't tell Flynn because I knew he'd make me quit. That was a foolish thing to do, but there were lots of boxers then with just one eye—fellows like Harry Greb and Tiger Flowers. And of course I thought the eye would improve. But it never did, and I never got the title shot. I really believe I could have beaten Herman, too—in fact, I had won a 'newspaper decision' over him in 10 rounds at Fort Worth in 1919."

• • •

His partial loss of eyesight ended Griffin's career in the East, so he returned to Texas and resumed fighting.

"I fought six more years with just one eye," Griffin says, "and even won the Pacific coast bantam championship."

When he finally called it quits, he had fought some 200 bouts—he's not sure of the exact number.

"Only eight men ever beat me," he recalls, "and I managed to whip seven of them sooner or later in return bouts. A loss to a boy named Doc Snell was the only one I never did square."

• • •

Retirement as a boxer in 1926 didn't take Griffin completely away from the ring, however. He at once began managing and promoting, and now is probably the best-known impressario in the Southwest.

"At first," Griffin explains, "I put on what we called 'bootleg' boxing shows around Fort Worth. Professional fighting was illegal in Texas from 1897 until 1933, when my wife and I lobbied through a state bill legalizing it again. I remember that back in the '20's many shows were broken up by the Rangers."

"It was in those 'bootleg' bouts that the 'newspaper decisions' came in. You see, all fights were billed as no-decision exhibitions, so the judgment of sports writers was accepted as final. I've sat on the curb many a time waiting for the morning papers to hit the streets, so I could find out whether I won or lost a fight the night before!"

• • •

Blindness gradually closed in on Griffin, finally leaving him in total darkness. For more than seven years now, Gilda—whom he affectionately calls "the best seeing-eye dog in the world"—has been his constant guide.

He still makes his home in Fort Worth, although for the last three years he has promoted regular boxing shows in El Paso.

"I made a lot of money in the ring," he says, "but I didn't keep too much of it. No, I wasn't a drinker or carouser. I spent most of mine travelling. My wife and I travelled together all around the country."

Now in Lubbock to help novice promoter Keith Anderson with Monday night's card in Sled Allen's arena, Griffin says he will remain active in the field of boxing as long as his health permits.

"After 33 years of it, I don't know much about anything else, you know," he says. "Besides, I really love boxing. I've spent almost a lifetime at it, and I believe in it."

• • •

There you have a capsule version of Dandy Dickie Griffin's life story—tragic, perhaps, to some, but not to Griffin, who has no complaints.

The complete tale now is being processed as a movie plot, which probably will appear soon as a sort of prizefight sequel to baseball's "The Stratton Story." Mrs. Griffin currently is in Hollywood, working on the scenario with two West coast writers.

Regional Legion Baseball Tourney Begins Next Week In Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 6 (AP)—Champions from four states will compete here next weekend for the Sixth Regional American Legion Junior Baseball crown.

The Little Rock Doughboys, Arkansas champions for the sixth straight year, will be the host team.

Visiting contenders will be Marks, Miss.; Broadmoore Post 215, New Orleans, La., and Sunset High school of Dallas, Texas.

Pairings for first-round games of the double-elimination tournament will be made at a drawing Friday night. Play will begin Saturday and continue through the following Tuesday.

Dallas' Harry Todd Takes Over Lead In Tam O'Shanter Tourney

Sam Snead Shoots 67 For Second Spot

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (INS)—Burly Harry Todd of Dallas, Tex., toured Chicago's Tam O'Shanter country club today with brilliant seven under par 65 in the $66,200 All-American golf tournament.

Only a handful of persons trailed the 33-year-old sunburned Texan around the 965 yard course. Sammy Snead had posted a creditable 67 sometime earlier and appeared to be king for the day.

No one, of course, had forgotten that Dapper Lloyd Mangrum had toured his home fairways with a magnificent 64 on Friday. The cool veteran from the Battle Of The Bulge was really the opening round leader.

Field To Be Slashed

The tremendous number of entrants in George S. May's ten-day golf marathon, however, necessitated that two days be given to the first round. The field will be slashed to 125 professionals, 40 amateurs and 30 women for Sunday's second round.

Todd got off to a good start by ramming a 20-foot putt into the cup on the first hole.

The one-time Western Amateur winner played the outgoing nine holes in three strokes below the required par-36. He was over par on only the fifth hole.

Todd's sterling iron play produced birdies on the eleventh, twelfth, fifteenth, and seventeenth holes. His tee shot on the short eleventh nearly dropped into the cup for an ace. The ball stopped just inches from the pin, and a birdie was a simple task.

Shot of the day, however, was his second on the ribbon-like fairway of the seventeenth. Todd's drive fell into the rough behind an unfriendly guard of pine trees.

Close Does Count

It is said that close only counts in the game of horseshoes, but at 65, Todd was just one stroke away from mustachioed Mangrum.

The tall Texan also had three more rounds to close the gap.

The 72 scored Friday by little Louise Suggs of Carrolton, Ga., withstood the challenge of all the women golfers today. Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., was second with 77.

Earl Mann Becomes New Owner Of Southern Association Club

ATLANTA, Aug. 6 (INS)—Earl Mann tonight became the new president and owner of Atlanta's Southern Association Crackers.

The president of the club for the past 15 years announced his purchase of the baseball corporation from its owners of the past 17 years, The Coca Cola Company.

The deal was closed at a Coca Cola board of directors meeting in New York.

Mann did not disclose the sale price when he announced the purchase today.

The deal included players, the team's park, physical property and all the club's holdings.

Mann said he did not contemplate any immediate change in the club's set-up or personnel.

Mann has been with the AA club since Coca Cola took it over in 1932. He served as secretary for two years and was then named president.

blocks, was purchased and constructed in its present form in 1946 by the late Sam Rosenthal, who bought the Lubbock club in 1938. Rosenthal died in January, 1948, and Mrs. Rosenthal took over ownership and operation.

She is believed to be the only woman actually owning and operating a club in organized baseball.

Rosenthal field, with a $50,000 grandstand, covers 10 acres, including the parking lot area. It has been classed as one of the best baseball parks between Fort Worth and San Francisco, and the best in Class C baseball.

Recent speculation on the asking price for the club and its assets had the figure as high as $250,000. If this price was paid, it is believed that it would constitute the highest price ever paid for a baseball club below double-A classification.

LOCAL GOLFERS BEGIN KATTMANN CUP QUALIFYING

Lubbock Country club golfers began qualifying Saturday for the Kattmann Cup team, the 12 members of which will be selected from those posting the lowest scores for the 36-hole rounds.

Three golfers qualified earlier. They are Dick Jennings, 72-71—143; John Bell, 74-67 — 141; and Tom Murphey, 71-75 — 146.

Playing 18 holes Saturday were Roy Howard, 72, Chick Trout, 73, John Trout, 73, Don Mitchell, 77, Billy Tatum, 77, Murrell Tripp, 73, and Lindsey Telford, 72.

Local entrans have until August 14 to complete their rounds for the Kattman Cup team.

Greek Army Unleashes Full Scale Offensive Against Reds

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Greek army today unleashed a full-scale offensive, supported by planes and tanks, against the estimated 5,000 Communist guerrillas in the Grammos mountains.

The battle started with troops attacking along two sides of a 250-square-mile triangle based on the Albanian border and with its apex at Eptahorion. The triangle is anchored on the border northwest of Nestorion and northeast of Konitsa.

The general staff, announcing the offensive, said preliminary action which had been going on for two days had ended and that the battle now is in its main phase.

New troops supported by tanks and planes are being hurled into the fighting.

to sinking a free throw on the ensuing foul, but he also was a tower of strength on the defense. When Murphy was not in the game, the south controlled the backboards. When he was, Murphy and Charles Galey of Lubbock controlled them.

• • •

Moreover, Murphy was setting up a lot of the field goals that Weaver was making, sacrificing chances to score himself in favor of the more publicized Martin's Mill player. And furthermore, Murphy was the leader of the You could see it when he was in the game. The team worked better, drove harder and scored more often. When he was out, they lacked a floor leader. On defense, Murphy saved innumerable goals with his checking and eagle-eye ball-hawking proclivity. Murphy showed all around ability; Weaver showed little defensive ability and not much offensive ability except when fed for crip shots.

• • •

Most of the writers here believe that Murphy will overshadow Weaver in college basketball circles. They feel that he will improve with age, experience and competition, while possibly Weaver has reached his peak. And since both probably will be on opposing teams for the next four years, it will be interesting to follow their careers. And incidentally, while handing out plaudits, you can't overlook the value of Galey to the north team. Cool, clear-headed and alert at all times, Charley was a defensive genius and enough of a scoring threat to put the south in a hole in the third quarter, the quarter that saw the game's tide turn. Next to Murphy, Charley was the best player on the north team for our money. We predict a shining college future for him.

APPLING BREAKS RECORD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (INS)—Luke Appling shattered the major league record for games played by a shortstop today, holding the infield slot for the 2,154th time in the contest between the Washington Senators and the Chicago White Sox. The 40-year-old White Sox player matched the old mark of 2,153 set by Rabbit Maranville by appearing in last night's game.

Homers Aid Borger's Victory Over Pampa

BORGER, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Borger Gassers took the third game of the three game series with the Pampa Oilers tonight before approximately 2,000 Borger fans, with a 12-9 score.

George Matthews started on the mound and proved effective until the Pampa big eighth inning. Matthews left the contest in favor of Hugh King, who went the remaining distance.

Gordon Nell Poled out two home runs good for five runs, and Jimmy Littlejohn got another one for Borger, for the only Borger homers. A. B. Everett got the only four bagger for the Oilers.

Borger's only error came in the eighth, as shortstop Pat Proulx booted a ball and paved the way possibly for at least three of the Oiler runs that missed knotting the ball game in that canto.

Jimmy Littlejohn proved a thorn in the Oilers' side, as he stopped everything that came his way that in any possible way could be fielded. Littlejohn started the ball rolling on one of the two doubleplays ripped off by the Gassers.

Homer Matney covered enough ground in centerfield to plant a good watermelon patch in getting five putouts in his garden. Matney also got three hits in three trips to the platter.

ARGENTINE WANTS BOXERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (INS)—Plans for the appearance of outstanding American and European fighters in Argentina were sketched today by Manuel Sojit, boxing representative of Luna Park in Buenos Aires. Sojit, who said he has been negotiating with U. S. fighters for several weeks, reported he had offered lightweight champion Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., $15,000 and all expenses for one ring appearance in Argentina.

Johnny Goodman was the last amateur to win the U. S. Open golf championship. He took the title in 1933.

Parnell Hurls Boston Red Sox To 3-0 Decision Over Detroit

Yankees Gain 9-8 Win From Browns

BOSTON, Aug. 6. (AP) — Left Hander Mel Parnell became the Major league's first 16 game winner today as he pitched Boston's Red Sox to their seventh consecutive victory, a convincing 3-0 decision over the Detroit Tigers.

The stylish Southpaw turned back the Tigers with five hits. For the second time in as many games the Detroiters were unable to advance anyone to third base.

Parnell, who struck out three and walked one battter, thus maintained his record of never having been defeated by the Tigers. He now has beaten them nine times.

Only two Tigers got to second against him.

Richardson Gains Junior Net Finals

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 6. (INS)—Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., the 1948 boys' champion who is playing his first year in junior ranks, fought his way to the finals of the National Junior and Boys' Tennis Championships today by upsetting the second-seeded favorite, Jerry De Witts, of Oakland, Cal.

Richardson rallied after losing the first set, to win by scores of 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Jerry Rushes Net

Jerry, unwilling to match Ham's deadly baseline storking, rushed the net throughout the contest. He was successful in the first set but Ham passed him or dropped the ball at his toes from there on out.

Should Richardson win in tomorrow's finals, he will be the only first-year junior to win the crown since the days of Vincent Richard, in 1920.

In the other semi-final match in the junior division, defending champion Gilbert Bogley, of Chevy Chase, Md., defeated Whitney Reed, of Almeda, Cal., with little difficulty by scores of 6-3, 6-4. Fifteen-year-old Al Kuhn, of Evanston, Ill., will face favorite Jack Frost, of Monterey, Calif., tomorrow in the finals of the National Junior Boys' Tennis championships.

Kuhn turned in his second upset in two days in the Kalamazoo, Mich., tourney today to eliminate second-seeded Don Thompson, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., 6-0, 1-6, 6-2.

Frost Recovers

Frost dropped his first set in 11 matches this morning, but recovered to beat Don Kierbow of Venice, Calif., 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Kuhn displayed a stream of chops and gentle lobs as he took the first set against Thompson. He dropped the second frame when he made the mistake of trying to match the Easterner's harder stroking from the base lines.

The Illinois boy reverted to his original strategy in the third set, and aagin demonstrated his superiority at this type of game.

Chandler To Open East-West Negro All-Star Baseball Game

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (INS) — The annual East-West negro all-star diamond game will be opened in Chicago tomorrow by baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Negro American league officials said Chandler was chosen to pitch the first ball because of the increasing number of negro players moving into the nation's organized baseball.

Bombay, India, police arrested 14 road sweepers whose strike threatened the city drainage system.

EFFECTIVE LURE — Laughing Lois Tew had no trouble bringing in this dolphin. The fish eagerly took her lure. The 20-pound speed demon of the deep seas was taken in the waters off Morehead City, North Carolina.

Sunset Places Six On Legion All-Stars

BRYAN, Aug. 6. (AP)—Champion Sunset of Dallas placed six players on the all-star State American Legion Junior Baseball team announced today.

The tournament ended last night with Sunset's 16-9 victory over Galveston.

Laredo and Galveston each placed four players on the team selected by sports writers and radio announcers at the tournament.

The team:

Catchers — Dalton Hughes, Odessa; Bobby Vaughn, Sunset.

First Base—Fred Hodge, Sunset.

Second Base—Charlie Jordan, Sunset.

Third Base—Jose Rodriguez, Laredo.

Shortstop—Ireneo Guevara, Laredo.

Leftfield—Don Richardson, Galveston.

Centerfield—Frank Idrogo, Laredo.

Rightfield — Gene Brandenberg, Sunset.

Utility Infield—Eugene Letsos, Galveston.

Utility Outfield—Joe Fertitto, Galveston.

Pitchers—Robert Wolf, Sunset; George Hatch, Galveston; Emilio Hernandez, Laredo.

LSU Official Names Billy Dinkle As New Freshman Football Coach

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 6.(UP) —Billy Dinkle of Marshall, Tex., today was named assistant football coach at Louisiana State university.

T. P. Heard, the LSU athletic director, made the announcement and said Dinkle will be assigned to freshman and B squads.

Dinkle was graduated this year from North Texas State Teachers college at Denton where he was a backfield star.

Weidner To Meet Clements In Go

Fans at Sled Allen's arena Wednesday night will see a match of their own making when Bill Weidner and Ray "Big Train" Clements climb into the ring in the main event.

Due to the request of many fans who saw the exciting brawl last week between the two Huskies, Promoter Allen is bringing the two together again in hopes that a clear decision might be reached.

Weidner, the Boston strongboy, won by a technicality last week in a match that had the referee out of the ring on occasions. Weidner had complete control of the bulldog from Corpus, winning the first fall and adding up points toward the second, when Clements lost sight of the rule book and started dealing punishing blows to Weidner.

After several protests had failed, Clements finally pinned his opponent and had the referee's decision, but when he threw the ref out of the ring and continued to pour it on the hapless Weidner the decision was reversed in favor of the man from Boston.

So this week the two will be out to satisfy themselves and the customers for two out of three falls or an hour time limit.

Bob Cummings will oppose Gust Johnson in the semi-final event. Gust has shown the fans around Lubbock that he can take care of himself in the ring, and he has met some of the roughest ringsters in this area. Cummings is a violent type wrestler who is liable to explode at any moment in the match, so this bout should combine the rougher parts of the game with the more scientific.

The preliminary bout brings Dale Haddock and Gene Blackley together in Haddock's first appearance here in a year. Both wrestlers love to win and the method used has never bothered either.

For an opener this match should provide all the excitement necessary to introduce a good card.

Tickets will be on sale each Wednesday at the wrestling arena from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Matches start at 8:30 p. m.

Series To Determine Challenger

Australian, Italian Davis Cuppers Meet

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 6 (INS)—The Davis Cup teams of Australia and Italy collide at the Westchester Country club in Rye next weekend in the interzone series that will determine a challenger to the tennis supremacy of the United States.

The interzone winner moves into the challenge round at Forest Hills on Aug. 26, 27 and 28, when the Americans will defend the trophy they have held since the war ended.

Australia is an old competitor in the cup scramble, but Italy's presence in the interzone round adds a new fillip to interest in the international series.

The last time the Italians advanced this far was in 1930, when France held the trophy and the matches were played in Europe.

This year, Italy defeated France for the European championship. Australia, electing to play in the North American zone, won from both Canada and Mexico.

The interzone matches will present two new court stars—Frank Sedgman, the 21-year-old champion of Australia, and dynamic little Giovanni Cucelli of Italy.

It was largely on Cucelli's prowess that the Italians overcame all European opposition. In matches this year, he has defeated Frank Parker, the U. S. veteran, Eric Sturgess, the South African ace, and France's top ranking Marcel Bernard.

Italy's other kingpin is Marcello Del Bello, who holds the No. 2 singles spot and teams with Cocelli in doubles play.

The Australians' non-playing coach, Charles Sproule, has been undecided who he will call upon in the upcoming matches. He has available Sedgman, the veteran John Bromwich and Billy Sidwell, a member of last year's team.

Bromwich returned to action this year after passing up a spot on the Australian team in 1948. His Davis Cup pla, dates all the way back to 1939, when he was a member of the team that won the trophy from the United States and held it through the war years.

Singles matches will be played at Rye on Friday, doubles on Saturday and two final singles incounters on Sunday.

Twosomes Share Lead At Odessa

ODESSA, Aug. 6. (AP)— The lead in the Odessa pro-amateur golf tournament after 54 holes of play was shared by two twosomes, each with a total best ball score of 196.

Professional Iverson Martin of Graham and amateur Jim Simpson of Fort Worth shot a 68 today for a total score tie with professional Warren Smith and amateur Joe Conrad of San Antonio, who shot a 64.

One stroke behind at 197 was the pro-amateur team of Gene Mitchell and Jack Williams of Plainview, who turned in a 68 today.

Tied for fourth at 198 were the pro-amateur teams of Sam Schneider of Houston and Bill Maxwell of Odessa, and Ray Gifford of Fort Worth and Don Cherry of Odessa. Gafford and Cherry, top favorites when the tournament opened, shot a 66 today.

Alone at 199 were pro Red Bost and amateur Hezzie Carson of San Angelo.

Professional Graham Ross and amateur Reynolds Smith of Dallas tied with Smith and Conrad for the best round of the day, a 64. They were tied at 200 with Shorty Hornbuckle and Bill Roden of Odessa, and Elroy Marti and Jack Sellman of Houston.

URSINE INDIVIDUALISM

YREKA, Cal. (UP)—One Shasta River bear emphatically doesn't believe in signs. The bruin, forest rangers reported, methodically policed a 170-mile trail in the Shasta national forest and tore off or chewed up all 40 trail markers.

Mother Nature Aid To Anglers

Fishing Said To Be Improving In Texas

By J. FRED EDER
United Press Outdoors Writer

Few anglers, probably, stop to realize or appreciate the pain and effort of mother nature to provide us with one of her finer gifts—fishing.

For instance, some species of bamboo blossom only once about every 32 years. And some bamboo plants have been known to grow as much as 16 inches in a single day.

Next time you pick up that bamboo rod, remeber that dame nature played a mighty important part in making that rod possible.

And, high in California's Sierra Nevada, the grand old lady went out of her way to make sure that the golden yellow trout got along in this world. Back at the turn of the century, when these brightly colored trout were discovered, it was surprising to learn, shortly thereafter, that the same trout also abounded in two other localities in the Sierras, far removed and remote from the original ground of discovery.

This beautiful game fish is to be found nowhere else on this globe. And to this day there is no satisfactory explanation of how these beautiful fish originated two miles high in the snow-capped mountain range.

In recent years, golden trout has been transplanted to other high altitude lakes near the original water, and it has thrived.

Fishing appears to be picking up throughout the state, and for bass fishing, topwater lures appeared this week to be top producer.

It is interesting to note that disclosure of the possibilities of going after rough fish—both for fun and as an aid to bass and other game fishing—is bringing results. The lowly gar and the carp have been giving the anglers who try for them plenty of fight.

• • •

The best fish story of the week comes from Port Isabel.

"Mighty small," she snorted. "Felt like throwing him back. Last time I was out here, I got a 70 pounder."

Out of Rockport comes a report that shark fishing in coastal waters may soon become a commercial success. Shark livers are an important source of Vitamin-D. The state marine laboratory, in cooperation with the Borden Company, is testing the possibilities. From one run, of 7,000 pounds of shark, livers worth $100 were taken.

Q—Is the name "bronzeback" correct for large mouth black bass? —J. L.

A—The name "bronzeback" is usually applied to the smallmouth bass, but I've heard it used for largemouth many times. It originates from the fact that in some wafers the smallmouths have a bronze look.

Q—What are some good carp baits?—K. M.

A—Dough bait, or a bit of marshmallow rolled into small balls. Here are some recipes for doughbait:

1. Soak a piece of fresh bread (white bread) in water for a few minutes, squeeze out the moisture and knead to a smooth, compact paste, mix bread and honey until they form a sticky and firm paste. Roll into small balls.

2. Mix bread flour, corn meal, corn syrup, cotton and a few drops of anise oil in water to make a stiff dough. Place in a cloth bag and drop in boiling water for about 15 minutes. Drain well, and roll into small balls.

Saucier Top Batter In Big State Loop

(By The United Press)

Frank Saucier of Wichita Falls played in only one game last week but stayed on top in individual batting with a .416 average, the Howe News Bureau reported Saturday in its figures on the Big State League.

Frank Carswell of Texarkana was second with a .388 average and holds the lead in hits with 170 and total bases with 263.

Emory Resko of Austin remained in third place with a .372 average while teammate Al Lawrence posted the fourth high with .364.

Dean Stafford of Sherman-Denison maintained his lead in triples with eight and runs batted in with 107. Al McCarty of Wichita Falls was first in doubles with 39 and shared the lead in runs scored with teammate Carl Powis with 103 each.

Odessa Is Site Of First Women's National Track Meet In Area

Entries are pouring in for the National Woman's AAU Track meet in Odessa August 12-13, and at least 12 teams, from Mexico City to Toronto, Canada, are assured of entering.

Sponsored by the Odessa Shrine club, the track and field events will bring some of the top feminine track stars in the country to West Texas for the first time.

All events will be held at Broncho stadium, and sports fans from this area are expected to jam the stadium for the events.

Mulloy Upsets Talbert To Move To Finals Of Grass Court Tennis

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 6 (INS)—Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., upset top-seeded Billy Talbert of New York today to gain the finals of the 23rd annual Eastern Grass Court championships.

Fourth-seeded Mulloy won out 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, as Talbert fell apart after playing topflight tennis in the first set.

Mulloy meets Art Larsen of San Francisco in tomorrow's title match. Larsen gained the finals yesterday by eliminating Felicisimo Ampon of the Philippines.

Gussie Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., and Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif., defeated Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, and Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., for the women's doubles title.

Petersburg, Lorenzo Meet In Cottonbelt

Petersburg's baseball team will be out to lengthen its Cottonbelt league lead today when it plays host to Lorenzo in a 3 p.m. game.

Today's other Cottonbelt contest finds Idalou at Ralls.

Petersburg took over the lead last week by trouncing Idalou, 11-6, behind Willis Carroll's pitching. The leading hitters for Petersburg were Bill Holloway and E. Billberry, while Donald Seale, the losing pitcher, was the outstanding Idalou batsman.

Lorenzo last week notched its first league win, turning back Ralls, 6-4, despite a fine relief pitching job by Ralls' young Pete Blagg. Blagg pitched scoreless ball through the final five innings.

The standings:

Teams	W	L	Pct.
Petersburg	2	1	.667
Idalou	1	1	.500
Lorenzo	1	1	.500
Ralls	1	2	.333

Hambletonian Is Wednesday

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 7 (INS)—Indianapolis is the best bet to get the 1951 Hambletonian trot, if—it is not returned to Goshen, N. Y.

This opinion is a consensus of horsemen and followers of harness racing, many of whom indicated they preferred Indianapolis' state fairgrounds as the site for the "Kentucky Derby for standardbreds."

The twenty-third renewal of the Hambletonian, the most famous and richest trotting classic in the world, will be staged at Goshen, N. Y., Wednesday, Aug. 10. The 1950 event also is scheduled for Goshen.

Bids for 1951 will be up for discussion on the eve of this year's race.

No Betting In Indiana

Homer E. Uhuman, of Columbia City, president of the state fair board, and superintendent of speed, and L. Orville Miller, of Goshen, Ind., will go to New York state this week in an effort to influence the choice of the new site.

The fact that Indiana does not permit pari-mutuel betting or gambling of any kind upon races seemed of little consequence. The big obstacle is the fact that the Good Time track at Goshen would like to keep the Hambletonian. Betting is permitted in New York state as well as in Illinois and Ohio, two other prominent bidders for the race.

The Indiana fairgrounds mile-track, considered one of the finest in the world and also one of the fastest, currently is getting a $38,000 face-lifting.

Largest Purse In Nation

To top it all, if Indianapolis would get the three-year-old trotting stake, the Indiana State Fair Grand Circuit prize purse would be the largest in the nation.

Last year the four top attractions at the Indiana fair, the Horseman Stake for two-year-old pacers, the Fox Stake for two-year-old trotters, coupled with the Horseman Futurities for three-year-old pacers and trotters set a record-breaking payoff of $88,466.

Wednesday's race at Goshen will have a purse of $65,000, the second largest in the history of the event. The first race in 1926 paid $73,000.

ANIMALS SHOCKED

LUENEBURG, Germany (AP) — An "electric chair" for animals is to be bought by the local animal protection society. Members consider electrocution to be less painful for animals to be destroyed than poisoning or shooting. The society had an elecrtic chair once before but it was stolen.

Abilene Tennis Club To Sponsor Tourney On Hardin-Simmons Courts August 12-14

ABILENE, Aug. 6. (Special)—The Abilene Tennis club is sponsoring a tournament to be held August 12-14 on the hard courts of Hardin-Simmons university and the Abilene Country club, and players from this area are asked to enter.

Events will be men's singles, men's doubles, junior singles and junior doubles. No player will be entered in more than three of these divisions. Sleeping quarters will be available at the dormitories of Hardin-Simmons for contestants, and each person will be expected to bring his own linens and towels.

Entries close Wednesday at 8 p. m., and no entries will be accepted after that time. Entry fees must accompany each entry.

Entry fee for men's singles is $1.75, doubles $2.50 per team, junior singles $1 and junior doubles $1.50.

Trophies will be awarded the winners and runners-up in each division. The winner of the men's singles will gain possession of the Abilene Tennis club's challenge trophy for one year. This trophy must be won three times before it becomes a permanent possession.

James A. Schulze of Commerce has two legs on the trophy.

Entry fees should be mailed to Bill Wright, 1226 Sylvan Drive, Abilene, Texas, together with the list of events entering. Participants should report to the tournament committee by 9 a.m. Friday, August 12 at the Hardin-Simmons tennis courts.

The turnament is sanctioned by the USLTA.

Yankees Announce Sale Of Player And Recall Of Bob Porterfield

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (INS)—The New York Yankees announced today the sale of First Baseman Jack Phillips to the Pittsburgh Pirates and the recall of Pitcher Bob Porterfield from Newark of the International league.

Porterfield, a rookie star in 1948 for the Yanks, had arm trouble early this season but has been going well at Newark recently.

Big Spring Paces Longhorn League

(By The United Press)

Big Spring is far ahead in team standings in the Longhorn baseball league, but Sweetwater was a few points ahead in team batting, averages released Saturday by league statistician Troy Kegans at Abilene showed.

Sweetwater, through games played Aug. 2, had a .300 team average in batting. It ranked sixth in team standing as of games through Thursday. Big Spring team batting was .293 with Roswell placed with .282.

Big Spring led in fielding with a .935 average; Odessa was second with .931 followed by San Angelo with .930.

Stuart Williams of Ballinger was the leader in individual batting with a .395 average; Richard Gyselman of Sweetwater had a .382 average and Frank Stasey of Big Spring was third with .380.

Alex Monchak had 25 homers to lead that division; Gyselman had the most hits—140; two players each had 29 two-base hits. They were Wayne Batson of Odessa and Charlie Young of Ballinger.

Julio C. Ramos of Big Spring was far and away the class of the pitchers with an 18-2 record. Victor S. Michalec of Roswell had a 12-5 record as did Roberto Reyna Rodriguez of Ballinger.

Oil Belt Teams Will Take To Field Today

Denver City's Gassers hold a narrow half-game edge over the Seagraves Oilers in the Oil Belt league baseball chase as all teams resume action today.

Five games are slated today, with Tahoka playing a doubleheader at Brownfield.

In single contests, it will be Sundown at Slaton, Post at Denver City and Levelland at Seagraves.

Denver City picked up its half-game margin over Seagraves with a Tuesday night triumph over Levelland. Seagraves' Thursday night tussle with Post was postponed because of rain, so the Oilers did not have a chance to close the gap.

The unofficial standings:

Teams	W	L	Pct.
Denver City	18	7	.720
Seagraves	17	7	.708
Sundown	17	9	.654
Post	16	10	.615
Levelland	14	12	.538
Slaton	9	14	.391
Tahoka	7	16	.304
Brownfield	2	25	.074

MORE SUN WINS RACE

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6. (INS)—More Sun won the $14,500 United States Hotel stakes today at Saratoga. Brookmeade's son of Sun Again scored by four lengths, covering the six furlongs in 1:12.

Ohioan 7-2 Choice To Keep Title

Charles, Lesnevich To Meet Wednesday

By CHARLES EINSTEIN
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 — Titleholder Ezzard Charles and challenger Gus Lesnevich, who spent a good share of their light-heavyweight days avoiding each other like the eight-day itch, meet finally next Wednesday night for the heavyweight championship of somebody's world.

The 15-round go at Yankee Stadium, already reflected in the rise of the price of lemons in the wholesale food index, is supposed to attract 20,000 people on a ticket scale ranging to $16.50 top, and thereby gross $200,000.

Charles is a 7 to 2 choice to retain his title and win the fight, two accomplishments which should be synonymous, but aren't. New York, site of the bout, does not recognize the slim, 27-year-old Ohioan as champion. The National Boxing Association, which includes most of the rest of the country, does.

Whose Title Version?

Viewing the thing practically, therefore, this is a fight for the championship of almost everywhere except where it is being fought, a situation not calculated to produce standing-room-only at Yankee Stadium, or anywhere else.

But the sponsoring International Boxing Club, which appears to possess an unlimited number of toes for stubbing purposes, doesn't seem to mind.

The IBC, once again, has barred television cameras from the scene of action, but does not figure to lose any appreciable sum of money even though each of the principals is to receive 25 per cent of the net from Wednesday night's program.

Lesnevich Doesn't Think So

The talk is that Lesnevich—unlike Jersey Joe Walcott, who lost the NBA runoff for Joe Louis' title to Charles in Chicago last June—is a fighter whose style will make Ezzard look good. That would presage a hefty gate when Charles meets the Woodcock-Savold winner for the championship that everyone will recognize; all this assuming that Charles does beat Lesnevich.

Lesnevich, for one, doesn't think he will. The blue-eyed, 34-year-old New Jerseyite, who will enter the ring at practically the same weight as his opponent—180 pounds—has been a long time getting to Ezzard.

In the years past, when Lesnevich was light-heavyweight champion (a title which he lost nationally to Cleveland's Joey Maxim and internationally to England's Freddie Mills), Charles was hollering piously for a crack at Gus' light heavy title, but, for sundry reasons, never got it.

Now they meet, anyway, technically as heavyweights, at the weight of light heavies, and for a one-legged title.

GLOBAL ROCKET POSSIBLE

U. S. Seeking To Develop Earth Satellite For Modern Defense

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Willy Ley, author of "Rockets And Space Travel" and the forthcoming "Conquest Of Space," is a noted expert on projectiles. He has cooperated with defense agencies in the development of "Earth Satellites" and other missiles.)

* * *

By WILLY LEY
(Distributed By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—American defense strategists today make no secret of their one greatest objective — to have an earth satellite circling the skies of the world.

Such an orbital rocket, carrying observation equipment, would answer a crying need for "long-range planning." At a time when guided missiles are projected to span great distances, these strategists must know at all times what a potential enemy is up to.

Intelligence experts, both military men and scientists, understand that the first line of defense is no longer the soldier behind his gun, or the factory worker behind his machine.

Target Must Be Known

The best-developed modern bomber, the finest long-range missile are both nothing more than complicated pieces of junk — if no targets are known for them.

In the earth satellite, the defense planners foresee a "sky eye" that would tell, constantly, exactly what any potential enemy is doing. Whether an important factory has been removed. Where military equipment is stored. Where its guided-missile installations are located. Where the troops are massed.

Precise instruments, most of them operating on the radar principle, would send back messages to earth-bound defense posts.

Scientists Have Know-How

Moreover, other radar beams from the earth satellite could be used, together with similar beams from stations on the suface, to direct long-range missiles to their destination.

And the earth satellite would also provide a running series of observations on upper-air masses, vital for weather prediction, the movement of icebergs, the presence of enemy shipping.

Only a generation ago, the wish for an earth satellite would have been just a wish. Now scientists know how it can be done. The theory of long-range missiles, such as the V-2 developed by the Germans and improved models successfully launched by our own Navy and Air Force, contains the idea of a missile which will circle the earth permanently like an artificial moon.

Satellite Being Developed

If something moves outside of the earth's atmosphere with a forward speed of about five miles a second, it will not fall back any more. The centrifugal force of its speed, unimpeded by any air resistance, would exactly counterbalance the earth's gravitational attraction. The "orbital rocket" would then maintain a constant altitude above the earth—at about the 500-mile level.

The realization of such an earth satellite is still some time in the future—but not a long time. Laboratory researchers are working on the development. Practical tests include the shooting of V-2 rockets, the "Wac Corporal" which has attained an altitude of 250 miles and the Viking rocket. Such launching bases are now maintained at White Sands, N. M., and at Inyorken, Cal.

New Range Established

When you try to shoot a missile into space, the first 15 miles are quite difficult. The next hundred miles are about as difficult as the first fifteen. The two hundred miles after that are now more difficult than the first hundred or so.

That bigger things are to come is shown by the establishment of a 3,000-mile testing range for missiles, beginning in Florida and going out over the Bahama islands into the Atlantic ocean.

Into the research on the earth satellite goes all the knowledge developed on rocket projection.

There are two main types of missiles. One behaves like an airplane. It has wings of a sort. The other is a simple projectile. Both types could be made to carry the A-bomb. But apart from that, each has its own special advantages and disadvantages.

Different Types Possible

The missile with the wings has an "air-breathing" engine, like the turbo-jet or ramjet. It is generally cheaper yet can carry a relatively large payload. It can be guided almost all the way to its destination.

But, since its flight plan it like that of an airplane, it can be shot down like an airplane.

The long-range rocket, on the other hand, is quite expensive. Its size quickly grows to fantastic proportions if anything like trans-Atlantic range is expected of it. A trans-Atlantic rocket would need roughly a half-hour from take-off to crash, but the power would be on for less than three minutes.

Rocket Interception Difficult

But the high trajectory of the long-range rocket is almost impossible to intercept. The people in the target area may hope that it will miss. There is little they can do about stopping it, once it is on its way.

Yet, the longer the range, the more does the problem of guiding a missile of any type grow into a bad headache. Radar beams just won't follow the curvature of the earth. Intermediate guiding stations may be impossible to establish, or may succumb to the enemy.

Other means must be sought.

Right now, it is known that scientists are working on "star-guided" missiles — navigated by automatic instruments within the missile from the tiny light of far-distant constellations.

Position Can Be Predicted

But the main reliance is placed on the earth satellite, for its position in the sky can be predicted, and it can keep constant track of the missiles, changing their course at will.

Moreover, the earth satellite would have vital defense considerations. Since the entire program is cloaked in greatest secrecy, many elements of the experiments and the goals cannot be mentioned. The means by which they would finally be accomplished are also "top secret."

A set of calculations made by me, based on recent revisions in the light of completed rocket flights, indicates that with present-day fuels, such an "orbital rocket" would need about 110 tons in take-off weight. Most of the weight would be fuel. The rocket itself, after establishing a position where it would circle the earth permanently, would weigh about a thousand pounds, including the instruments, batteries and so forth which it would contain.

Secret Ballot Law Held To Apply To School Elections

AUSTIN, Aug. 6. (AP) — The secret ballot law apparently applies to elections to be held for school purposes, the attorney general ruled today.

"We find no statutes which except school districts in their special bond and maintenance tax elections from the use of the 'official ballot' and the form it shall take as prescribed in the general provisions of the election laws," said the opinion by assistant Attorney General Chester E. Ollison.

The opinion was requested by Stewart W. Hellman, criminal district attorney at Fort Worth. Ollison's opinion was qualified by this statement:

"To the extent that the procedure for school bond and maintenance tax elections are not covered by the school laws thesmselves, the general provisions of the election laws as amended by the secret ballot bill, are applicable and controlling."

The Attorney General's department added that it had not been able to find any conflicting statutes.

Judge Dismisses Blind Man For Being Drunk; Celebrating

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6 (AP)—Can you blame a blind man for getting intoxicated after being promised help in an operation that might restore his sight

Municipal Judge Perry B. Jackson today ruled, in effect, that you can't.

John Terry, 44, tapped his white cane to a stop before the bench and pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and a traffic hazard in the center of town.

He explained he had celebrated after a friend in Washington said he would help arrange an eye operation.

Judge Jackson wished him success and dismissed the case.

State Highway Department To Award New Construction Bids

Construction bids on 16.02 miles of State highway 350 from the Scurry-Mitchell county line to Snyder will be awarded by the Texas highway department Aug. 16 or 17, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Austin Saturday.

Bids are now being accepted on the project, which will include grading, structures, flexible base and a single asphalt surface treatment.

Comic Book Sales Prove To Be Big Business In City

By CLIFF BLACKBURN
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Cash registers in Lubbock's magazine stands play a merry tune weekly as young and old alike buy their steady diet of over 15,000 comic books.

About 275 different varieties of "funny" books are available on the city's magazine racks for these avid consumers. Love, adventure, crime and, occasionally, humor, are the basic themes contained in these ten-cent epics.

Over 30 per cent of the sales volume of the Lubbock News agency, one of the city's leading magazine wholesalers, is composed of comic books, said Coy W. McMillan, manager and co-owner. The comic book became the main item on many people's reading agenda several years prior to the war, McMillan said. Sales continued to rise during and after the war but have levelled off a lot now, he revealed.

Buying Public Changes

Originally, the comic magazines were designed to capture the fancy of the "short pants" set but as adult readers increased in number, the publishers matured the stories to keep this new public's interest, McMillan said. Some of these comic books are pretty far above the children's heads now, he observed.

"This agency alone wholesales over 100,000 comic books each month in the Lubbock sales area," the manager said. "The comic book is one of our biggest items."

Lynn B. Ross, owner of the Live Wire News agency, has 550 regular comic book customers who take about 1,000 "thrillers" off his hands each month. Better than half of this group are children of grade school age while 13 per cent are married adults, 16 per cent college students and 14 per cent high school students. Ross has formed a comic book club for the readers that trade in his store. A prize is awarded each time one of the club members finishes 50 more comic books. About one-fourth of his customers along this line are women, he said.

Comic Books Defended

Many of Lubbock's magazine stores and stands will not handle comic books because they draw crowds of youngsters that cluster about reading the books "on the house." Mrs. Ruth Clary, magazine saleswoman and cashier at Wylie's Drug, said she had to "break the children of the habit as they were always underfoot."

Waves of protest against the comic book have cropped up across the nation for many years. Spurred on by school groups and mother's clubs, the chief attack against the magazine is that it leads children to crime. However, John W. Wilson, city and county probation and juvenile officer and executive director of the Lubbock Boys Club, said that to his knowledge the books have never been the cause of any juvenile crime or delinquency in the area. "I read the things myself," Wilson said. "And I purchase them for the boys to read at the club. They are much better for youngsters, in my opinion, than many of the other types of magazines sold in Lubbock," he stated.

Lubbock is a very "reading" town, McMillan said. "Magazine sales of all kinds are unusually high here," he said. To prove that the comic book is not the only thing literary minded Lubbockites peruse, McMillan listed 540 other magazines available in the city. The best sellers among these are Life, Ladies Home Journal, Saturday Evening Post and True Confession, he revealed.

Most of the "confession" type magazines are sold to rural dwellers in the Lubbock agricultural area, he said. The magazines of this kind that are sold in the city go into the homes of young, married women for the most part, he confided.

Screen and movie magazines enjoy high sales in Lubbock, McMillan said. Fashion magazines for women and adventure stories for men are rising stars on the magazine retail sales charts, he said.

Oddly enough, western "pulp" magazines of the "cut 'em off at the pass" variety are at an all-time low now, McMillan said. "Ten years ago, those magazines brought in better than 50 per cent of the profit for dealers," he said.

Physical culture magazines that promise to make a "man" of you in short order have very few Lubbock customers, McMillan said. "We only distribute about 100 copies of magazines accenting muscles each month," he said.

"The reason our sales volume has shot up is because children have more spending money now days," McMillan observed. "Also reading is one of the main entertainments in the city."

The magazine, comic and otherwise, has a serious threat in the pocket book editions now relentlessly overtaking previous sales records. While these small novels will never replace the magazine, McMillan said, they have made and will make more inroads on the customers.

These books sell extremely well in hotels and bus stations, the manager said. They are very easy for travelers to handle, he remarked.

Whatever the magazine situation is today, most of the wholesalers and retailers agreed that the material is of a much better quality and on a higher level than it has been previously.

New Pipeline To West Texas Set

HOUSTON, Aug. 6 (UP)—Construction on an $18,000,000 pipeline capable of carrying 120,000 barrels of oil daily from West Texas to the Gulf coast will be started by Humble Pipeline company the end of this year with a mid-1950 completion date scheduled.

Company officials announced today the new line will be of 18-inch pipe, extending 375 miles in a direct route from Kemper, Reagan county, to Satsuma, 20 miles north of Houston, where it will connect with existing lines to Baytown.

To Remove System

Upon completion of the new line, designed to provide a more economical transportation system for Humble from West Texas, the company plans to remove part of its old system, with a capacity of 50,000 barrels per day, from West Texas to Baytown by way of west central Texas.

The new line will have an initial capacity of 95,000 barrels per day.

The direct route will pass through 16 counties: Reagan, Crockett, Schleicher, Menard, Kimble, Gillespie, Mason, Blanco, Hayes, Travis, Bastrop, Lee, Fayette, Austin, Waller and Harris.

UNUSUAL DEATHS

WELLINGTON, N. Z., (AP)—Albert Bond, 75, a retired farmer, backed a 67 to 1 winner of a horse race at Wellington. He collected him winnings, then collapsed and died. Police telephoned his wife to tell of Bond's death. Mrs. Bond had a heart seizure and died in a few minutes.

The earth is the fifth largest planet of the sun.

Auto Firms Report Biggest First Half Sales Since 1929

DETROIT, Aug. 6 (AP)—With few exceptions the auto companies are reporting the first half of 1949 as their biggest sales period since 1929.

They are talking about unit sales. However, the earnings statements thus far disclosed indicate the first six months of 1949 probably will be among the best dollar volume periods in their history.

So far this year there have been no great increases in manufacturing costs or labor charges. In fact, some materials costs have gone down. So net earnings generally are likely to exceed those of the same period last year.

Car Makers Optimistic

What will happen in labor costs during the remainder of the year is yet to be determined. Overall earnings for the full year could be sharply reduced.

Generally the car makers are as optimistic as ever about their sales prospects. They say demand still is excellent and has held up much farther into the present summer than most of them expected.

Experts on car sales insist the leveling off expected this winter will be followed by a sharp upturn in demand again next spring. That demand, these experts say, will exceed the supply. This view, of course, assumes there will be no major business decline in the meantime.

Heads of the auto industry's merchandising division keep a close watch on total bank deposits—especially savings accounts—and bond purchases. Right now, they say, the public has more money than at any previous time and can well afford to buy more new automobiles.

General Considers Japan Key To Far East, Convention Told

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 6. (AP)—Japan is the key to the entire Far Eastern situation, the war-time commander of the Eighth Army said today.

"So long as Russia does not control the island chain, and particularly the main islands of Japan," said Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, "the further advancement of the Reds is to a very large extent stymied."

General Eichelberger spoke at the Ohio department of the American Legion.

". . . If we can make sure that the Japanese are reasonably able to protect themselves after a peace treaty is concluded," the Ohio-born soldier continued, "the scales will be tipped the other way.

"That is why I consider Japan as the key to the entire Far Eastern situation at this time."

Southern Farmers To Get Cut On Mexican Bond Requirement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—The immigration department will grant Southern farmers a reduction of $25 in the bond required for each Mexican farm worker brought into the country.

This was announced yesterday. Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) said Immigration Commissioner, Watson B. Miller had agreed to revise department regulations to give the Southern growers a break. A $50 bond still remains in effect up north.

The bonds must be posted for each worker brought in from Mexico as an employer's guarantee the laborer will return to his own country.

Russian Churchman Sees No Communism-Church Conflict

MOSCOW, Aug. 6. (AP)—Alexei, patriarch of Moscow and all Russia, said today in a newspaper statement that no conflict exists between loyalty to the Soviet state and loyalty to the Russian Orthodox church.

"Such a conflict not only does not exist but cannot exist if believers adhere to the exact meaning of teachings of the gospel and testaments of the apostles," the patriarch said. The statement was carried by Izvestia, official organ of the Soviet government.

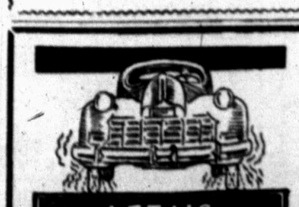

Izvestia said the statement was given in answer to questions put by the Moscow correspondent of Reuthers, a British news agency, on July 27.

(Alexei's statement, at a time when the Roman Catholic church has toughened its stand against Communism, reaffirmed the church-state relationship which has existed in the USSR since the Soviet government permitted re-establishment of the Russian Orthodox church in 1943. Critics have charged the Russian Orthodox church has been dominated by the government since the Soviet Union abandoned a pre-war policy of trying to suppress religion.)

PEAK INDICATED IN SOME STATES

Polio Cases Continue To Mount Over Nation; Relief Is Seen

(By The Associated Press)

Infantile paralysis mounted sharply in the nation this week, but there are signs the peak has passed in some hardest hit areas.

A state by state survey by the Associated Press showed some 1,400 new cases developed in the last four days. This boosted the 1949 total to date to approximately 9,400—more than half again as high as for the comparable period in 1948, second worst polio year on record.

Note Of Cheer Heard

A note of cheer, however, was heard from health officials in Texas, Arkansas and in Detroit. And the U. S. Public Health service in Washington also reported some evidence of a slackening in the upward pace in the country as a whole. A health service spokesman said there was a chance the polio season might end earlier this year.

In Texas, which is experiencing its worst polio year with 1,218 cases through June 30, Dr. George Cox, state health officer, expressed the cautious view that the disease has leveled out somewhat.

Joe W. Savage of New York, executive director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, made a tour of the hardest hit spots in Texas. He called the fight against spread of the disease there "outstanding, splendidly coordinated."

The Arkansas Health department said there is a definite slowdown of the disease in that state.

Polio increased rapidly in Tennessee with 48 new cases reported the last week in July.

In only three states, the survey showed — Indiana, Kansas and North Carolina — is the disease proving comparatively highly fatal.

Approximatey one out of each 10 cases of the disease in those states has ended in death.

In 1948 there were 5,793 polio cases reported through June 30. The total for the year soared to 27,680, topped only by the approximately 30,000 in 1916.

The survey showed Texas has the greatest number of polio cases reported this year, 1,218. Other hardest hit states were California 794, New York 721, Oklahoma 550, Arkansas 537, and Illinois 522.

MARKET MAKES COMEBACK

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—If the stock market is a barometer, business this fall will be good.

The market rounded out the week with its rally going ahead full speed. Buyers bid aggressively and had to pay higher prices to get what they wanted.

The general price level reached a four-month high Friday. Measured by The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, the market is within hailing distance of the 1949 peak.

Whether the market's action had anything to do with the nation's business life is another question.

Some experts claim the market still fulfills its traditional function as an economic barometer. Other experts feel strongly that what the market does, and what business, commerce and industry do, are in two separate compartments.

Today, though, the market seems to be mirroring a widely held belief in the financial district that the recession of the past eight or nine months or so has just about touched bottom—for the time being anyway. Since mid-June the price level has been ascending. The movement has been jerky and frequent pauses were taken. The direction, though, is unmistakable.

From a long-range viewpoint probably the most heartening factor was the attitude taken by the government. The administration recognized that all was not beer and skittles in the economy. Prompt and effective action was promised, and in some cases taken. Federal Reserve board moves to provide industry with all the money it could use, at a cheap rate, was regarded as a notable example.

Greece reports gains in output of flour, macaroni and beer.

'Hopeful Sign' Reported In Fight Against Foot-And-Mouth Disease

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)— The agriculture department reports a "hopeful sign" in the battle against dread foot-and-mouth disease among cattle.

The United States has been pouring millions of dollars into Mexico in a joint effort with Mexico to eradicate the disease.

In a cautiously worded report on these joint operations, department officials said the disease, so far, has not turned up in any animal in Mexico which has been vaccinated at least twice.

In the past scientists have said no vaccine has ever guaranteed immunity against the disease.

In its report the department said: "This is considered a hopeful sign that the disease will eventually be eradicated."

Czech Army Urged To Support Reds In Church-State Dispute

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 6. (AP)— Czechoslovakia's defense minister called on the army today to back the Communist government in the bitter church-state struggle.

The minister — Gen. Ludvik Svoboda — assailed the Roman Catholic church in a speech to troops in Slovakia. He urged the soldiers to support the new government-sponsored Catholic Action movement. Svoboda asserted:

"We soldiers can say that from the view of defense of the fatherland, insurance of freedom and independence we shall support wholeheartedly the Catholic action."

THE STATE OF TEXAS
TO: J. G. HUGHES, Defendant, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded before the Honorable County Court of Lubbock County at the Court House thereof, in Lubbock, Texas, at or before 10 o'clock A. M., of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 12th day of September A. D. 1949, then and there to answer Plaintiff's petition filed in said Court, on the 28th day of July A. D. 1949, in this cause, numbered 5677 on the docket of said court and styled McKesson & Robbins, Inc. and Southwestern Drug Corp. Plaintiffs vs. J. G. Hughes, Defendant.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to wit: Being a suit on verified account; Plaintiffs claiming the following indebtednesses and judgments for such amounts, plus interest, attorney's fees and costs as follows:

The Plaintiff, McKesson & Robbins, Inc., praying judgment for its debt in the amount of $136.35 with interest thereon at 6% per annum from date of judgment and that the plaintiff, Southwestern Drug Corp. have judgment for its debt in the amount of $238.18 with interest at 6% per annum from January 1, 1949.

And the plaintiffs also ask for an order to be issued for immediate sale of certain goods, now being held by Scott B. Ormsby, and stored in the Warehouse of R&H Supply Company, Lubbock, Texas, as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this suit.

The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.

Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Lubbock, Texas, this the 29th day of July A. D. 1949.

Attest:
Louis F. Moore, Clerk

Use Of A-Bomb Only After U. S. Attacked Opposed By Voters

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
(American Institute Of Public Opinion)

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 6—A suggestion made recently by Senator Ralph E. Flanders of Vermont to limit American use of the atom bomb finds comparatively little support from voters interviewed about it in a nation-wide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

The Senator's proposal was that the United States pledge itself never to use the atom bomb in warfare until some other nation has used it on us first.

Seven out of every ten persons questioned in the survey, which covered a representative cross - section of the nation's voters, said they disagree with the proposal.

The results:

"A U. S. Senator has suggested that the United States should pledge that we will never use the atom bomb in warfare until some other nation has used it on us first. What is your opinion of this suggestion?"

Good idea, agree with it	20%
Disagree	70
Outlaw the bomb	5
No opinion	5

The American people are not by nature bloodthirsty or warlike. We entered both world wars long after they had been started by other countries. What probably prompts the vote against the Flanders proposal is the belief that Russia would be the country most likely to use the bomb against us. In their present anti-Russian mood, Americans are anxious to avoid anything that might play into Russia's hands.

In today's study, the voters who have had the largest amount of school education are the least in favor of the Flanders proposal, as the following table shows:

	College	High Sch'l	Grade Sch'l
Agree	18%	19%	22%
Disagree	74	72	65
Outlaw bomb	5	4	5
No Opinion	3	5	8

Civilian Control

One of the long-range arguments about atomic energy in this country is whether its development and use should be mainly under military control or civilian control.

The recent investigation of the Atomic Energy Commission by Senator Hickenlooper on charges of mismanagement prompted fresh discussion about turning control back to military leaders. Many liberals have argued vehemently that civilians must be kept in charge of something so vital to the future of civilized man as atomic energy with its vast possibilities for good or for evil.

The issue of civilian versus military control was put before voters in a survey by the Institute. All those voters who had followed the Lilienthal investigation were asked this question:

"Do you think the development and use of atomic energy in the United States should be mainly under the control of directors who are Army officers—or under the control of directors who are civilians?"

Here is the vote:

Army control	38%
Civilian control	36
No difference	12
No opinion	14

SEEK SIAMESE WILDLIFE

BANGKOK—(AP)—Three Americans are in Thailand (Siam) to collect birds, mammals and reptiles for the Chicago Natural History Museum. They especially seek tapirs. They do not seek elephants or tigers, devoting their attention to smaller, rarer specimens of animal and reptile life.

The baths of the ancient world and of the Middle Ages often were used by men and women at the same time.

Fleeing California Bandits Start Chain Of Tragic Events

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP)—A gunman ran from a grocery store last night with $179.

It touched off these events:

He escaped in a pistol duel with two patrolmen;

He slipped while trying to board a freight train, and lost a foot and an arm.

The train engineer collapsed from the excitement, and died.

Police patrolmen Rudolph Mestrovich and Charles Raynor said the man who fired at them, escaped, and then was gravely injured by the train was Alvis Moore, 45, a laborer. They said they found the $179 and a pistol in his pockets.

The train engineer was 57-year-old Hans P. Hanson. He died while police were questioning him about the accident.

Aid Official's Family To Go On Relief Diet

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (AP)— An official of the Illinois public aid commission is going to put his family of six on the reduced food budget ordered for reliefers by the IPAC.

Carl K. Schmidt, jr., IPAC executive secretary, disclosed the plan for his family yesterday at a protest meeting of the welfare council of metropolitan Chicago. Officials of 30 public and private welfare agencies met to discuss effects of the 10 per cent cut in state relief funds. They urged the IPAC to reconsider its action. The reduction was ordered because of a shortage of state funds.

Schmidt, who is 42, said his wife and their four children, ranging in age from 15 to two years, will go on the curtailed relief diet immediately—using his own money, not relief funds.

Schmidt said the family used the relief food budget for three months last fall.

"At that time we said nothing to the kids about it and they didn't seem to notice the change," he said. They seemed happy and gained weight normally. After a while I even forgot about it."

At the reduced level, the Schmidt family food budget will be $85.34 a month, plus an estimated $4 to $5 worth of federal surplus food commodities. Schmidt said anything used from his garden in suburban Elmhurst will be deducted.

Houston Man Charged In Fatal Tennessee Highway Accident

LEBANON, Tenn., Aug. 6. (U.P.) Lindley H. Dickerson, of Houston, was charged with involuntary manslaughter today but released on $1,000 bond in connection with the traffic death of Kathleen Hankins, 7.

The girl was injured fatally yesterday when Dickerson's car skidded on wet pavement and struck her as she walked along a highway just outside the Lebanan city limits. Her mother, Mrs. Herschel Hankins, also was struck by the car but was not injured seriously.

August Parties Are Given As Courtesies To Brides-Elect

SPOTLIGHTING this weekend's society news are numerous entertainments for August and September brides-elect. Parties being given from them include breakfasts, luncheons, coffees, teas aid showers.

At Lubbock Country club Saturday morning, a brunch was given to compliment Miss Jo Ann Kuykendall who will marry John Schneider August 18. The hostesses, Mrs. R. C. Tucker, and Mrs. W. F. Eisenberg and their daughters, Misses Jean Eisenberg and Anne Tucker, presented the honoree an Italian linen bridge set.

Twenty persons were on the list, and among the guests was Miss Bobbie Ruth Williams of Los Angeles.

The refreshment table was centered with a miniature bride and bridesmaids.

In the home of Mrs. Fred Childress, 2216 Fifteenth, Thursday afternoon, a tea was given by Mesdames Childress, Homer Pharr, Robert Dawson and W. C. Wood for the bride-elect. Approximately 50 guests called between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

A bridal scene decorated the tea table af which Mrs. C. D. Wiley of Big Spring presided. Others in the house party were Mrs. J. E. Hartley, Mrs. Mary Hinton, Miss Frances Hackfield, Miss Beverly Bantz and Miss Margaret Ann West. Miss Chloe T. Dawson played piano numbers during the afternoon.

The honoree was presented an electric toaster by the hostesses.

Mrs. Ewell Hunt and Mrs. Bill Roberts are to be hostesses Tuesday morning at a brunch to be given in the Hunt home, Levelland road. Miss Kuykendall will be named honoree. A Tuesday afternoon coke party will be given for the bride-elect by Miss Carolyn Cole.

On the Wednesday calendar is a luncheon to be hosted by Mrs. W. A. Fix and Mrs. C. C. Files. Another Country club party will be a Thursday luncheon planned by Mrs. W. G. Alderson. Miss Kuykendall and a group of friends have been invited to a coke party Friday by Mrs. Joe Bob Johnston.

Miss Charlotte Scoggin Is Bride Of Edward Nahigan

MISS CHARLOTTE Ray Scoggin and Edward Armen Nahigan exchanged double ring wedding vows Friday at 8 o'clock in the evening at First Christian church with J. D. Thomas of Chicago officiating. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Luther Scoggin of 2207 Sixteenth and his parents are Dr. and Mrs. Matthew N. Nahigan of Los Angeles.

A reception followed the ceremony in the ballroom of the Hilton hotel and couple left later for a trip to Las Vegas, Grand Canyon and Northern California and after Sept. 1 will be at home in Los Angeles.

The white bridal aisle, lined with white satin ribbon and bronze chrysanthemums, led to a white carpeted altar completely outlined with huckleberry panels and smilax. The immediate background for the bridal party was a white panel overlaid with huckleberry and smilax with a fan-shaped arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums and above the center arrangement was a single row of white candles. On either side of the altar four tall candles were clustered before floral arrangements and soft amber light was diffused throughout the chapel to carry out the fall colors the bride had chosen.

Horace Coffman, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. John Oldham, organist, accompanied the soloist and offered as a prelude "Clair de Lune," "I Love Thee," "Sweetest Moment" and during the ceremony she played "Savior, Breathe An Evening Blessing."

Escorted By Father

Mr. Scoggin gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of white Alencon lace and organza was designed with a fitted bodice of lace fastened with tiny covered buttons from the small round collar to the waistline. Matching lace insets formed panels in the skirt of organza which swept into a chapel length train. The ledge sleeves were finished with small cuffs and her lace gauntlets came to points over her hands. A crown of lilies of the valley and stephanotis caught her fingertip veil of bridal illusion.

She carried a dainty hand bouquet of lilies of the valley and stephanotis designed in semi-colonial style. Carrying out tradition, the bride, for something old, wore an heirloom protestant cross belonging to her cousin, Joe Dickey Mc-

Miss Edwards To Wed Mr. Alexander Today

MISS JOAAN EDWARDS, 2110 Main, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Edwards of Tahoka, and F. Joab Alexander of Albuquerque, N. M., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E Alexander, 1922 Seventh, will be married tonight at 8 o'clock in Tahoka at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fenton, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Rev. George A. Dale read a single ring ceremony in the garden before an archway entwined with white flowers and greenery.

Miss Valerie Wells, pianist played traditional wedding marches and accompanied Boswell Edwards, who sang "Because" and "Thine Alone."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white gabardine suit with navy blue accessories and carried a white Bible topped with an orchid. Mrs. Eloise Carroll of Tahoka, cousin of the bride and matron of honor, chose an iridescent taffeta dress and wore a yellow corsage.

Willard White of San Angelo attended the bridegroom as best man, and ushers were Homan R. Edwards, brother of the bridegroom, Jack Fenton and Eldon Carroll, all of Tahoka.

A reception was held in the garden following the wedding ceremony, and the lace laid bride's table was topped by a punch service and a wedding cake. Guests attended from Lubbock, Mason, San Angelo and Tahoka.

After a wedding trip to California and other western points, the couple will be at home on August 21, in Albuquerque, N. M.

The bride attended John Tarleton in Stephenville and received a degree from North Texas State college in Denton She has been employed by the Lubbock Veterans' administration. The bridegroom attended Texas Technological college and is associated with Wentwort Supplies in Albuquerque.

Through The Coral Doors

Howdy Folks!

I made a trip to see Lillie and Lena this week and enjoyed my always pleasant visit with those ladies. They are getting along very fine—besides all the pretty fabrics they have to work with in making draperies and slip-covers, they have a wonderful color array of pretty flowers outside their window which makes the setting perfect for those two. While I was looking around at all the work going on, the three of us decided to make a guess as to how many different towns the work they had right in the studio was going to. Much to my surprise there were five towns besides Lubbock! Lillie's and Lena's expert work must be becoming very well known.

When I made my visit through the coral doors, I found Josie busy on making a tracing for some floral quilting and Bee busy with the layout and copy for her ad—Bee has the most appropriate name at Decorators Studio — for Josie, Fredda, and Bee are certainly always busy as bees.

Fredda got us all gathered around her and told of having dinner in the home of Sadie Fieka while she was in Chicago. Miss Fieka is the owner of "Fieka Imports, Inc.," a place to find the most interesting pictures, figurines, and mirrors—particularly those with an Oriental feeling—that you will find anywhere. Decorators Studio has many interesting samples of her products. Miss Fieka spent many years in the Orient, and her house of five rooms and four baths reflects the influence of the far east. Her rugs are handcarved with Chinese greetings. The rug in the entrance hall says "Long life and happiness to this household." Fredda showed us pictures that had been in a Chicago newspaper of the house, and it was most interesting—built on several levels—a teakwood and iron lattice work staircase—unusual wall planning—and a bed made of picture frames. Fredda made us all want to see it from her picturesque descriptions.

No news from Anne and James this week. We were pleased when a lady came into the Studio and asked if Anne could talk to her club on decorating—a year from now! They certainly will have a lot of interesting things to tell us when they return. I can hardly wait to have a long chat with them myself.

You know, I particularly enjoyed looking at all the china, pottery and crystal at the Studio this week. They have some new dark green cabinets for displaying the tableware. All those many different patterns must certainly be a joy to the brides-to-be to select from. I had fun picking out the patterns that I would like for myself. Goodness! I wish I were a bride-to-be, but I just think I'll start one of those pottery patterns for Mrs. Nosey and myself —that one I couldn't resist. You ladies go by to see all the wonderful colors, designs, and shapes in the tableware — Corner of Broadway and N.

See ya' there,
Grandpa Nosey. adv.

Couple Marries

Mr. and Mrs. Pendley of 2708 Ruby announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marian Joyce Pendley, and Bob Terrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Terrell of 1723 Twenty-fourth, which took place recently at the home of the bride's brother, C. A. Pendley and Mrs. Pendley in Cain Terrace.

After a trip to Big Spring, the couple will be at home at 1622 Fifteenth.

Roses and other garden flowers decked the rooms.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white imported organdy ballerina length dress. Her halo hat was made of organdy and hand-rolled flowers and her bridal bouquet was placed on a white Bible.

The bride's brother, Rev. H. T. Pendley, pastor of First Baptist church of Abernathy, read a double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Pat Wheeler was matron of honor and Miss Mary Lou McGowan was bridesmaid.

Brides-Elect

and Miss Bettye Thomson were hostesses.

Since the bridegroom - elect, Daris C. Jones, is a pre-med student, the decorations carried out a "medical" theme. A doctor's kit filled with flowers and surrounded by medical implements centered the refreshment table. The flowers were in damask blue and gold, chosen colors of the honoree.

Honoring the bride-to-be, a kitchen and pottery shower is to be given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. A. C. Jackson, her daughters, Misses Barbara and Eleanor Jackson, and Mrs. J. A. Raley, jr., in the Jackson home at 2113 Sixteenth.

Mrs. John T. Hampton will be hostess at a coke party which will be given Wednesday in her home at 1907 Sixteenth for Miss Elliott.

The Jones-Elliott wedding will take place August 20.

Party Series To Be For Miss Jane Webb

Continuing a series of pre-bridal parties for Miss Jane Webb, bride-elect of Bill Bacon, Mrs. Pearl McWhorter and Mrs. E. M. Perkins will entertain Tuesday.

A coffee for Miss Webb is planned for Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. G. E. Walton, 3310 Twentieth.

Friday at 1 p. m., Mrs. Ira B. Taylor will give a luncheon at Lubbock Country club for the bride-to-be, who is to be married August 20.

Miss Marjorie Allen Is Named Honoree

Miss Marjorie Allen, bride-elect of Ray D. Collier, was named honoree at a Friday luncheon given in the home of Mrs. O. W. English with Mesdames K. L. Riggs and H. H. Hunter as assistant hostesses.

The table was centered with an arrangement of blue and white flowers, carrying out the honoree's chosen colors. A miniature bride and a hostess gift of silver marked her place.

Covers were laid for Misses Jo Ann Kuykendall, Anne Tucker, Jean Eisenberg, Carolyn Cole, Betty Quinlan, Blanche Read, Mesdames Harold Wall, Pete Waller, Fred Stubbs, H. L. Allen, sr., and H. L. Allen, jr.

Mesdames Vernon Brown, Homer Pharr and Robert Dawson entertained Saturday in the Brown home, 2010 Broadway, between 4 and 6 p. m. with a mother-daughter seated tea and miscellaneous shower given as a courtesy to Miss Allen, who will marry in September.

A decorative motif of blue and white was carried out. In the dining room an antique satin glass chandelier was tied with a bow of white satin ribbon, and the hanging streamers were lettered with the words "Margy and Ray."

Mrs. Hubert Allen, jr., presided at the punch service which was placed at one end of the bride's table, and at the other end was a miniature bride atop a tiny platform decorated with pleated satin ribbon and circled by a blue and white floral arrangement.

Topping the living room mantel was a miniature bridal couple leaving a church doorway from which a blue light shone. Blue and white floral arrangements placed just outside the door completed the decorative setting.

Approximately 50 guests were invited to call, and Mrs. Dawson was at the bride's book.

MRS. BOB TERRELL

fifth. She was accompanied to Lubbock by her mother, Mrs. Jimmie Renfro and little brother, Charles Jay, who are now visiting relatives in Royalty. Sandra is a niece of Mrs. Benson and she and her family are former Lubbock residents.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Edwards of Mineral Wells were guests in the Benson home this week, but returned home Friday. Mrs. Edwards is the mother of Mrs. Benson.

Mrs. Pearl McWhorter, 2314 Main, earlier this week received a trans-oceanic telephone call from her son, Hudson Powell, who for the past two years and eight months has been stationed near Munich, Germany, with the European Command Engineers school.

The U. S. government employe told his mother he would sail for home on August 15, from Bremerhaven, Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Moore, 2012 Seventeenth spent Saturday in Sweetwater to attend the wedding of Mary Louise Hutchcraft and Clayton West, which took place in the Sweetwater First Baptist church.

A regular Sunday night buffet supper will be served tonight at the Lubbock Country club.

Members of the club may bring guests.

Miss Martha Graves, director of home and family life education at Texas Technological college, and Miss Geraldine Clewell, acting district supervisor of home economics education, will leave Monday to attend the State Homemaking Teacher's conference to be held in Fort Worth with headquarters at the Texas hotel.

Ceremony Performed

The marriage of Miss Betty Atchison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Atchison, and Dale McClintock, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. McClintock, all of Crosbyton, took place Aug. 4 in Crosbyton with Leonard Dennis, minister of the Church of Christ, officiating at a double ring service.

After a trip to New Mexico, the couple will be at home in Crosbyton.

The bride wore a white faille dress made with fitted bodice, full street length skirt and white accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

Attendants To Pair

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Barrington were attendants. He served his brother-in-law as best man and Mrs. Barrington was matron of honor. She wore an orchid bemberg sheer with matching hat and her flowers were white roses.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents and a three-tiered wedding cake was served. The bride placed her flowers in the center of the table.

Mr. McClintock is associated with his father in the frozen locker and meat business.

MRS. DALE McCINTOCK

Mrs. Cecil Paschall returned home Friday from a trip to New Orleans which she made with Mrs. Lee Murray of Fort Worth. Mrs. Murray judged a cocker spaniel show in New Orleans last Sunday.

Loyalty Club Called Meeting Is Scheduled

A called meeting of the Loyalty club has been set for Thursday at the home of Mrs. Helen Slover, 2009 Ave. M. Quilt pieces will be cut. Members are asked to bring needle, scissors and thimble and a sack lunch.

Plans were made at a regular meeting of the club in the form of a covered dish luncheon Friday in the home of Mrs. R. L. Pendergrass, 1516 Thirty-fourth.

Mrs. Ed Greer presided for the business meeting. Mrs. C. H. Hudson was appointed reporter and Mrs. Roy Privett was installed as secretary.

The club will meet Aug. 19 at 2 p. m. with Mrs. H. H. Spreuls, 402 Fourth. Others present were Mesdames C. H. Pumphrey, Frances Rogers and V. B. Mays.

PUPPETS TO ENACT FAUST EPISODE—Monday night at 8:30 o'clock in the foreign language playhouse, room 202 of the Tech administration building, the second and final program of Tech's observance of the Goethe Bicentennial celebration will be held. Puppets, worked by James Block and Mrs. A. L. Strout, above, will be presented in "The Margarete Episode of Faust." The puppets pictured are Faust and Margarete. Following this part of the program, a one act play, "Die Wette" by Goethe will be given by a cast of six German students. The public is invited to attend.

Goethe Program Is Scheduled

Faust Episode, Comedy Will Be Open To Public

MRS. Alan L. Strout and her marionettes will perform "Das Puppenspiel vom Doktor Faust" and a group of students will present a play by Goethe Monday night at 8:30 o'clock in the second program of the Goethe Bicentennial Festival being celebrated this summer at Texas Technological college. The performance, to be given in the Foreign Languages Playhouse, room 202 of the administration building, are sponsored by the Foreign Languages department, and are open to the public.

Mrs. Strout is known to the public largely through her Christmas time puppet shows at a local department store. Her presentation Monday night will enact the "Margarete Episode" from Goethe's "Faust." The episode was adapted for the puppet stage in an original composition by Theodor W. Alexander, instructor in German. In this scene Faust, a scholar, gives his soul to Satan in exchange for ten years of service. He is persuaded to sign the contract by a vision of the lovely Margarete, conjured up by the devil Mephistopheles.

Voice for the puppet Faust will be that of James Block. Mrs. Strout will speak for Mephistopheles, Margarete, and an ignorant servant, Kaspar. The performance will be in German.

In 1812 Setting

Members of the Student Bicentennial Committee will perform a Goethe comedy, "Die Wette," in which a boy and girl experience the agonies of love in an 1812 setting. The girl, Leonore played by Anne Eskin, and her sweetheart Eduard, played by Carter Wheelock, have quarreled. Leonore's father Dorn, portrayed by James Block, reconciles them by putting them to the torture of being "closely separated" in adjoining rooms until one of them gives in and asks for a reconciliation. The play, also in German, has never been presented on an American stage, according to Alexander, who directs it.

Other cast members of "Die Wette" are Jack Wilson and Jo Ann Tilley, who play Johann and his wife Friederike, servants delegated to chaperone the young couple; and Jack Sloan, who portrays Forster, an old friend of the family. Mrs. Berniece Walters is in charge of costumes and make-up. Decoration of the stage and construction of the puppet stage were done by James Block.

The program is the second given this summer in commemoration of the birth of Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, German philosopher, poet, and scientist, who was born August 28, 1849. The first program was given June 20 and featured a musical concert by the Texas Technological college summer school band under the direction of R. A. Dhossche and Prof. D. O. Wiley, and a talk by Dr. Robert T. Clark of the University of Texas. The festival is being celebrated in colleges and universities throughout the world.

Party Series Will Begin

Miss Helen Lois Simpson, who will marry Bill Draper August 19, will be complimented at the first of a series of parties Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Mrs. John R. Adamson of Turkey, Miss Myriam Kelso and Miss Virginia Trenfield are to be breakfast hostesses at the Trenfield home, 2115 Twenty-sixth.

A kitchen shower honoring the bride-elect is to be held Wednesday night in the home of Mrs. Opal Jones, 2403 Thirtieth, with Mesdames Bob Neindorff, Iris Maxey and Jones as hostesses.

Thursday night at the Claude Key home, 2113 Thirtieth, Misses Glenna Hackney, Nancy Mellhaney and Nelda Key are to be hostesses at a crystal shower for Miss Simpson.

As a Friday courtesy to the bride-to-be, a gift tea will be given by Mesdames Albert Roberts, T. S. Cranford, sr., George Eubank and Earl Burnett in the Roberts' home at 2121 Twenty-third.

Past President Will Entertain At Tea For B-PW Club

Mrs. June Woodrum, retiring president of Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club, will entertain at tea this afternoon between 2 and 5 o'clock for members of club. The party is to be given in the home of Mrs. Bob Garner, one mile south of the circle on Tahoka highway.

All members of the club are to attend.

The club's weekly business luncheon is scheduled for 12 noon Wednesday at Hilton hotel, with Mrs. O. P. Harlan, sr., new president, will preside.

Two Baptist Classes To Have Party Hour

First Baptist Naomi class will entertain members of the Rebecca class at a party to be given Thursday night at 7 o'clock at Mrs. H. V. Bigham's, 2115 Twenty-first.

Advance Program For Church To Be Talked

A program "Advance Caravan" will be presented for First Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service Monday at 3 p. m. in the church chapel.

Mrs. M. B. Hilburn, sr., Northwest Texas Conference WSCS president, and Mrs. C. C. Coffee, conference promotional chairman, are to discuss the four point program of the Advance for "Christ and His Church." A recording of a talk on the same subject by Mrs. Frank G. Brooks will be played. Recorded songs of Mrs. Carl Downs are to be presented, also.

Doris Taylor Is Married

In a double ring ceremony read Saturday at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Johnnie M. Hall, 1905 Twenty-first, Miss Doris Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Taylor of Pecos, became the bride of Raymond Barger with Rev. C. A. Bickley performing the ceremony.

Worley Stein, pianist, played "Always" followed by the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white two piece linen suit with navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Wanda Saunders attended the bride as matron of honor, and Bill J. Hamilton was best man.

A reception for members of the couple's families and their close friends was held at the home following the service. White and pink gladioli were used in decorating.

The couple will be at home at 1905 Twenty-first.

Roy Thomas Grimes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Grimes is on a two weeks cruise to Tampico, Mexico, aboard the USS Compton as a member of the naval reserve.

CHANGING PLACES

ONCE in a while professional men have an opportunity to exchange places with those they serve. The artist sits for a portrait of himself; the doctor becomes a patient; the lawyer is placed on trial and the minister sits in a congregation.

On each occasion the professional men have learned many things from experience they wouldn't have learned in a thousand years from their clients, their patients or their parishoners. The artist sees how he appears through the fingers of a fellow artist, the doctor learns how intense pain may become and the lawyer comes to know how it is to be on the other side of the law.

The experience of sitting with a congregation was afforded Dr. and Mrs. H. I. Robinson in Long Beach last Sunday and the pastor of the First Methodist church described his impressions in a letter published in the church's newspaper last week.

Dr. Robinson was disturbed because the Long Beach people continued to talk after the organ prelude began and wondered if there were people in his church who might be guilty of such a thoughtless act.

• • •

"THERE was a couple in front of us who represented two families," he wrote. "The two were planning a picnic they were going to have right after church, each telling the other what to bring, where they were going and so on."

"The choir came in and sang the call to worship and the couple went on discussing plans. They stopped for a few minutes while the pastor read the invocation, but continued their planning through three stanzas of "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

• • •

DR. ROBINSON also observed a dirty trick many church goers play on ushers. A woman and an usher held a quiet conversation as to where she was to be seated and he started jauntily down the aisle. In the meanwhile the woman had changed her mind, gone back and was finding her own way down an opposite aisle.

"I have often wished I knew how an usher's face looked when he turned and looked back down an empty aisle," the pastor wrote. "Well, now I know. It doesn't look as enthusiastic and as worshipful as it does when he's coming down the aisle to seat somebody."

• • •

WONDERING if the congregation was a friendly one, Dr. Robinson made no move to introduce himself or even to speak to anyone. A number of people came up, however, and asked him if he were not a visitor and said they were glad to see him. That also set the Lubbock minister to thinking about his church back home and the experience of an usher who told him he asked a woman if she were not a stranger in Lubbock and she told him indeed she was not, that she had "belonged to the Lubbock church longer than he had."

Yes, Dr. Robinson had a number of eye opening experiences as a member of a church congregation and the report of the service and his reaction to the people's actions gave him an excellent opportunity to give the folk at home food for thought.

SCATTERINGS

DR. DOYLE JACKSON drew laughter at a banquet the other night with his description of the absent minded professor who slammed his wife and kissed the door. . . Television doesn't refer the sponsor's message as a "commercial." Instead it's a "sales demonstration." Isn't that elegant! . . . Vacationers and traveling salesmen are solving their laundry problems with the new nylon shirts, which can be washed and dried in a hour and require no ironing. . . Green tinged oranges, which are fully ripe and as sweet as golden oranges, are on summer markets. Growers are baffled to see the fruit turned partly green and the wholly orange fruit on the same branches, although they know, by chemical test, that both are equally ripe and mature.

NEW bowls of laminated birch are being advertized as being tough enough to support a man's weight, but what man would be silly enough to stand one one? . . . The "big man" on the campus of 25 years ago with his racoon coat and "tin lizzie" would be just one of the crowd today, according to a partial report of high school and college student buying practices. The survey, which embraced more than 1800 students in 43 institutes of learning, indicated that better than 3 out of 4 of the male students own or have access to automobiles. . . Lubbock yards have never looked lovelier with their hedges of crepe myrtle . . . W. D. Overton, manager of the Lubbock Country club has a green thumb as is evidenced by the colorful bed of giant zinnias northeast of the clubhouse. He planted the seed last spring just before the big rains and some of them were washed away, he explains the irregularity of part of the rows. They are every color imaginable and range from cup to saucer size. Several of the blooms are as beautiful as chrysanthemums or dahlias.

Party To Be Given Today

Mrs. L. E. Settle and her daughters, Mrs. Jack A. Hasler, jr., and Miss Mary Frances Settle, will be hostesses at a coke party to be given in the Settle home at 2110 Twenty-ninth this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Among guests will be friends who have entertained for Miss Settle, bride-elect of Wilbur Leon. On the list are Mrs. H. Carroll Leon and Mrs. Walter S. Sheef of Houston, mother and sister of the bridegroom-elect, and Mesdames Wayne Martin, L. D. Marshall, Russell Denison, Aura Mae Hamilton, W. R. Dorsey, George Holman, E. L. Lansford, Robert L. Kelley, Morris B. Cranford, jr., and Misses Anita Reynolds and Ruth Crosby.

Miss Settle and Mr. Leon are to be married Tuesday. They and their wedding party are to be honored at a rehearsal dinner to be given Monday night in the backyard at the Leon home, 2605 Twenty-ninth.

A gift-tea given recently in the Wayne Martin home, 2116 Twenty-eighth, was a courtesy to the bride-elect. Approximately 100 persons called.

The hostesses with Mrs. Martin were Mesdames W. R. Dorsey, Aura Mae Hamilton, George Holman, Russell Denison, E. L. Lansford and L. D. Marshall.

VOWS ANNOUNCED — Mrs. I. C. Tucker of Slaton is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Billie Jean Tucker, of Dallas, shown above, to Franklin H. They Can Advise On Successful Marriage

60th Wedding Anniversary To Be Observed By Couple

TAHOKA, Aug. 6 (Special) — Sixty years ago, at a farm home north of Terrell in Kaufman county, John C. Campbell, 19, and Miss Lee Belle Abrams, 17, were united in marriage.

Sunday afternoon in Mackenzie state park in Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will be guests of honor when 75 to 100 of their relatives and friends meet at a picnic dinner to offer congratulations on the couple's diamond wedding anniversary.

This picnic dinner has been an annual custom since Mr. and Mrs. Campbell observed their golden wedding anniversary 10 years ago.

At their home in Tahoka, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were asked for advice for young folks about how to make a marriage successful.

Answers Are Practical

Their answers were intensely practical.

Said Mr. Campbell: "In those days there wasn't much to it except just getting married and starting to scratch for a living."

And Mrs. Campbell: "I don't think people expected as much then."

And must a bride know how to cook?

With tongue in cheek and a sidewise glance at Mrs. Campbell, her husband replied:

"She couldn't boil water without scorching it when we first were married."

"And now," Mrs. Campbell remarked, "he won't eat anybody else's cooking, but if I burn the bread it's all right with him."

They both bore witness to the fact that financial security is not necessarily a prerequisite to a happy marriage.

"I spent the last nickel I had at the end of the ceremony when I paid the preacher $2.50," Mr. Campbell recalled, chuckling.

They picked cotton to get a start, and they paid $22 to set themselves up in housekeeping.

"It didn't take $1,000 to set up housekeeping in those days," Mr Campbell recollected. "I found a man who wanted to leave Texas, and I bought his furniture, two stoves, a wash kettle and two hogs for $22. We had an old horse that bucked, but we rode him. We had one pony when we got married."

Mrs. Campbell had been one of seven children. Her parents had died when she was four years old. So she and her brothers and sisters had had tough sledding. But she believed then, as now, that "if you do right you will get by."

They lived for a time in Kaufman county, where they had both grown up, then moved to Jones county, near Stamford. They lived in Jones for 16 years before moving to Lynn county in January, 1922.

They lived on their Lynn county farm until 1943, when they bought a home in Tahoka and moved here.

Like most old timers, they have seen a complete change in the appearance of the South Plains, in the people and customs.

One recollection that stands out vividly in their memory was the sight of 3,000 head of cattle being driven by their home in Jones county in the early days. They had heavy rains and floods in those days too, and it rained as this tremendous herd was being driven to Wyoming.

People Not As Friendly

As for the people, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell both agreed that people are not nearly as friendly as in the early days. And they included themselves in that category.

"We used to be mightly glad to see somebody coming down the road, because we were lonesome," Mrs. Campbell remarked.

The Campbells are still mighty friendly people, though, for they have a host of friends throughout the South Plains area.

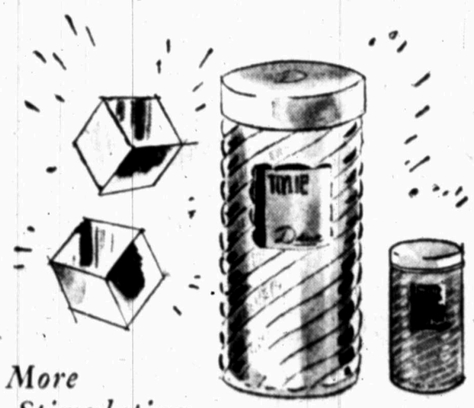

They have five living children who will join in extending best wishes to their parents: Charlie Campbell, who lives near Wilson; Dedrick Campbell, of Crowell; Roy Campbell, of near Smyer; Mrs. Roy Appling, of near Grassland, and Miss Avis Campbell of Tahoka.

The actual date of their wedding was Aug. 4, 1889. However, for the convenience of those who wanted to attend the picnic dinner, the observance was postponed from Thursday until Sunday.

CLASS PLANS BREAKFAST

A breakfast for First Methodist Builders class is planned for Monday morning at 8 o'clock at Mackenzie State park, north of the swimming pool.

CHAIRMEN OF SENIOR TRIP-CAMP—The five members of Senior Girl Scout Troop Two are chairmen of a camp for the girls to be held at Tres Ritos, N. M. When the picture was taken, the girls were busy packing the station wagon with camp paraphernalia. Carolyn Collier is carrying the lantern and the hatchet and Ruth Breazeale is checking to see that everything is in readiness for the takeoff early Monday morning. (Staff photo).

Senior Girl Scouts To Spend Week In New Mexico In Pioneer Camping

Senior Girl Scouts of Troop 2 are looking forward to a week of pioneer camping at Tres Ritos, N. M. The girls plan to leave Lubbock early Monday morning in the Girl Scout station wagon and in private cars. They will return to Lubbock Saturday.

The idea for the trip-camp occurred after ten of the girls had returned from Camp Las Leonitas, at Buffalo Lakes, in June. They spent a week there learning unique camp skills and were later given an opportunity to serve as program aides or junior counsellors.

The girls have planned this trip with very little adult supervision and are to carry out their own plans. A flexible schedule has been prepared for every day. In addition to an outdoor program of cooking over open fires and living in tents, a tour of the Indian reservations near Taos is planned. Horseback riding also is on the agenda.

Planning to make the trip are Arlene Julian, Audrey Light, Julia Zeitz, Kay Eubank, Carolyn Collier, Faustina Haynes, Gwen Wiley, Emma Lee Hooten, Dorothy Yates, Jackie Smith, Clara Hooten, Ruth Ann Benton, Charlene Potts, Peggy Golden, Mary Belle Perryman, Marilyn Ewing, Nancy Hollingsworth and Ruth Breazeale of Lubbock and Patsy McGinty of Tahoka.

Adults to go are Mrs. C. R. Cagle, Mrs. M. M. Ewing, Mrs. M. B. Benton and Miss Mary Anderson.

MARRIES — Miss Vivian Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robertson of Plainview, former Lubbock residents, and Bill Harrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Harrell, 1617 Sixteenth, were married Wednesday at 6 p. m. in the First Baptist church parsonage by Dr. A. Hope Owen, who performed a double ring ceremony. The bride graduated from Lubbock High school in 1948, had attended Paschal High school in Fort Worth, and was enrolled at Wayland college in Plainview during the past spring term. The bridegroom gradauted from Hale Center High school in 1944, attended Texas Tech in 1947, and graduated from Wayland college in 1949 with a B. S. degree. He is now associated with station KVOP in Plainview as commercial manager, and is a member of the Optimist club.

GOSSIP

Hollywood, Calif.

August 3, 1949

Dear Buck,

When you read this we will be leaving Hollywood—headed for home by way of Yellowstone National Park. We can hardly wait to get back and get the Larrymore Dance Studio open. This week we are going to the different dance studios out here—so far we haven't seen one as complete, or pretty as the Larrymore Studio in Lubbock.

Tommy and June Bragg just plain ole stole the show at the student review on Hollywood Blvd. They are getting their pictures on the cover of the magazine, "Stars of Tomorrow." They will get a break yet.

The Larrymore Dance Studio is sure well known, and highly respected in the dance field. You would be surprised at the big name dance teachers, and movie dance directors that want to come to our studio as guest teachers on August 27th. A baton teacher that was o nthe faculty at the convention here will be in Lubbock at the Larrymore Dance Studio to give a short course or long lesson in baton twirling. I'll tell you more about that later.

I could write you a small book on the things we have accomplished out here, and it would take years to teach you all the new dances we have learned. If you will come by the studio after August 20th, I'll tell you all about it.

Love,

Wing.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

The playroom at the Vernice Ford home, 3013 Twentieth, was scene of a gift party given Friday afternoon to compliment Miss Norma Grace Reid, bride-to-be of Vernon L. Odom.

A profusion of rose and yellow flowers and greenery was arranged on the coffee table. Guests were served from the refreshment bar.

Assisting Mrs. Ford with hospitalities were Mrs. J. Guy Porter, Mrs. Bill Keith, and Misses Frances Perkins, Frances Evans and Camille Conely. Forty guests attended.

Wednesday morning at Lubbock Country club, Mrs. Joe Nislar will be hostess at a brunch for Miss Reid.

The Odom-Reid rehearsal dinner will be given Thursday night by Mrs. M. E. Witt and Miss Ruby Atwood in the Witt home at 1416 Ave. Q.

Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock at First Baptist church, the wedding will be performed.

Radium will lose half its value in about 1800 years.

GUILD PLANS SUPPER

Asbury Methodist Wesleyan Service Guild will meet Monday night at 7 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Hunt, 2106 Eighth, for a covered dish supper.

SPEAKING OF Furniture
By WAYNE GROCE

GO AHEAD, BE DIFFERENT

The "Joneses" may have a beautiful-looking living room, but don't copy it! Their room no doubt shows individuality . . . which is something you can't always put your finger on, yet you instinctively know when it's there or missing.

Be different. Use informal articles! They in turn will give the room the individuality and informal setting you're after. Look what's happened to the old fashioned coffee pots in the picture above. They make mighty attractive lamps, don't they? You no doubt have a number of things hidden away in the attic or cellar that would make beautiful lamps . . . just use your imagination.

When it comes to coffee tables you can really be individual. You'll find literally thousands of designs on the market today. The one in the picture above was made from picture frames and makes a pleasantly different table.

If you're using your furniture as a theme basis, carry the theme to the walls with paper designed to follow the mood of the room.

So go ahead and be different, you and the "Joneses" will both be pleased with the result.

In the past we've helped the "Joneses" . . . we'd like to have a chance to help you.

Marilyn Neelley Will Be Afternoon Bride

ST. John's Methodist church will be scene of the marriage of Miss Marilyn Neelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lloyd Neelley of 2707 Thirtieth, and Joe E. Chandler, of Iowa Park, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Chandler of Breckenridge, which will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Hubert Bratcher will read a double ring service.

Baskets of white gladioli and fern will bank the altar, which will be lighted by white tapers in candelabra.

Bob Scoggin, organist, will accompany Miss Jane Drummond of Wichita Falls as she sings "Because," "I'll Walk Beside You," and "The Lord's Prayer." He will play a medley and will continue with the traditional wedding marches.

Mr. Neelley will give his daughter in marriage. She is to wear a bridal gown of floor length white organza and eyelet organza fashioned with a portrait neckline, slight bustle held in place by a large bow and full skirt with eyelet making points bound with a double row of organza ruffles. Her fingertip length veil of illusion will be topped with a pear tiara. She will wear white organza elbow length gauntlets and a single strand of pearls and will carry a cascade arrangement of white roses centered with a corsage.

Attendants To Bride

Miss Wanda Chandler of Iowa Park, sister of the bridegroom, will be maid of honor. She will wear aqua marquisette with off the shoulder neckline of matching aqua lace which will be repeated in her gauntlets. Bridesmaids will be Misses Mary Leona Kilpatrick of Wichita Falls, Doris Roberts of Wichita Falls and Nancy McClendon. They will wear orchid dresses similar to the maid of honor and all of the attendants will wear horsehair headdresses and single strands of pearls. Miss Chandler will carry orchid asters and the other young women will carry aqua asters.

Maretta Chandler of Breckenridge, sister of the bridegroom, is junior bridesmaid and candlelighter, Elizabeth Parker will be flower girl. They will wear yellow organza.

Wayne House of Iowa Park is to attend the bridegroom as best man and Rodney Weaver and Randolph Clark of Iowa Park and Dewey Horton of Wichita Falls will be ushers.

Bill Kilpatrick of Wichita Falls will be ring bearer and Horace Neal Parker is to be a candlelighter.

Reception Is Planned

A reception will follow at the Neelley home. Mrs. C. A. Kilpatrick of Wichita Falls will preside at the punch bowl and Miss Claudia Neelley and Mrs. Wayne House of Iowa Park will serve the cake. An arrangement of orchid and aqua asters will form the centerpiece for the bride's table.

Guests will be registered by Miss Marie Gayler of Kress. Assisting in hospitalities will be Mrs. Pearl Williams of Wichita Falls, Mrs. J. G. McClendon, Mrs. R. P. Miller, Mrs. Bert Neelley of Hereford and Miss Joan Houston.

After a trip to Ruidoso, N. M., the couple will be at home in Iowa Park where the bridegroom is employed in the office of Kadane and Sons Oil company. For travel the bride will wear a pink imported dotted Swiss dress with gray hat, trimmed with pink flowers, gray gloves and white linen shoes and bag. She is a graduate of Wichita Falls Senior High school and attended Hardin college there and Texas State College for Women in Denton. She was a member of Sigma Tau Delta and was Redbud princess at TSCW. Mr. Chandler is a graduate of Iowa Park High school and a former student at Hardin college.

There will be guests from Hereford, Tulia, Amarillo, Whitedeer, San Antonio and Wichita Falls.

Election Is Staged

Officers in the Lubbock Country club Ladies Association, elected Friday morning, are:

Mrs. E. S. Hall, president; Mrs. Dick Jennings, vice president; Mrs. Horace Humphries, secretary; Mrs. R. L. Sigler, treasurer.

A coffee to be given at the club Wednesday morning, Aug. 24, will honor the new officers.

MR. AND MRS. JIM C. HARRIS

Southland Pair To Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

Tuesday, August 9, will mark the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jim C. Harris of Southland, and their children are planning a celebration for that day with a reception at the Southland lunchroom and gymnasium. Openhouse for friends will be held from 2:30 until 6 p. m. at the couple's home, and relatives are expected to attend from Crows Landing, Calif., De Ridder, La., Dallas, Mineral Wells, Graham, McKinney, Quanah and other parts of Texas.

Jim C. Harris was born in Jack county, Texas on April 5, 1879, and moved with his parents to Hunt county when he was about ten years old. His father was a farmer. His futures wife, Miss Ava J. Moore, was raised on a farm northeast of Greenville, living on the same farm most of the time until her marriage. Her father, Rev. Daniel F. Moore was a farmer and preacher.

The couple was married on August 9, 1899 at Wire Grass Prairie, Hunt county, Texas. A Rev. Angle, who had married the bride's parents 25 years before, performed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother near Willand. Her father had passed away in 1897.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris moved in a covered wagon to Stevens county in the fall of 1900, and have since lived in Stevens, Palo Pinto, Young, Jones, Fisher and other Texas counties. Ten children have been born to them, five of which are living.

The Harris family moved to Garza county in December of 1921, living on a farm south of Southland until 1943, when Mr. Harris retired from farming and they moved into the town of Southland.

Mount Everest, highest mountain in the world, was known only as "Peak No. XV," until 1852.

Reynolds of Amarillo. She was the 107th bride to wear a blue garter belonging to Mrs. Robert Allen.

Mrs. Stuart B. Knight of Wichita Falls, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Gladys Nahigan of Los Angeles, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Karl J. Hansen, jr., of Albuquerque, N. M., sister of the bride, Miss Jean Eisenberg and Miss Jo Ann Kuykendall. The attendants wore identical dresses of sandalwood organza over gray taffeta fashioned with fitted bodices and bouffant skirts. They wore matching half-hats, decorated with self-color handmade roses, and lime green mitts. Their bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums were accented with multi-colored La Conga ribbon in sandalwood and lime green.

Arthur N. Astor of Los Angeles, Calif., served as best man and J. Mack Scoggin of Abernathy and John H. Scoggin, brothers of the bride, and Stuart B. Knight of Wichita Falls, Richard Dickey and Karl J. Hansen, jr., of Albuquerque, N. M., were ushers.

Assist At Reception

At the reception, the bride's table, covered with organdy, was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake topped with a confection gondola filled with sugared apple blossoms and double petunias. Confection columns supported the gondola. Silver candelabra holding Oliver Twist tapers flanked the cake and at either end of the table were large containers of white stock and gardenias. The punch bowl stood on a round side table outlined with garlands of greenery and clusters of gardenias. Presiding at the table were Mrs. J. Ray Dickey and Mrs. Claude Tatum.

Mrs. A. P. Horn greeted guests and others in the houseparty were Mesdames H. G. Lawson, W. F. Eisenberg, J. Don Baldridge, Joe E. Baldridge, Joe Baldridge, Sam Allred, Clyde Tatum, W. M. Cauley, John Scoggin, Mack Scoggin, Don Brooks, Bud Miller, J. J. Graham, Alex McDonald, Joe Telford, E. F. Alford, C. H. Smith, Gale O'Brien, E. C. McReynolds, C. E. Ross, Bill Franklin, W. C. Wood, R. O. Bennett, and Misses Anne Tucker, Carolyn Cole, Marjorie Allen, Joann Lee, Delight Hardin, Dorothy Barnett, Gay Scoggin and Ann Eisenberg.

Among the out-of-town guests were the mother of the bridegroom and Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Jameson of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McReynolds and sons, Joe Dickey and Bob, of Amarillo, Mrs. C. E. Ross of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Gale O'Brien of Amarillo, Miss Lalla D'Spain of Albuquerque, Miss Bobbie Ruth Williams of Los Angeles and William Street of Littlefield.

For her wedding trip, the bride is wearing a two piece suit of navy blue silk faille with matching accessories and a lily of the valley corsage.

Mrs. Nahigan is a graduate of Lubbock High school where she was a member of Las Cresas club. At George Pepperdine college in Los Angeles, where she will be a senior student next year, she is a member of Zeta Kappa. Mr. Nahigan is a graduate of George Pepperdine and attended University of Southern California where he was a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He is associated with Nu-Orm corporation as a job analyst.

Moore-Boyd Marriage Takes Place In Methodist Church

First Methodist church was scene of the marriage of Miss Imogene Boyd and Lucian M. Moore which took place Friday night at 8:30 o'clock. Dr. L. N. Lipscomb performed a double ring ceremony before a candlelighted setting of greenery and gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Carrie Boyd of 2108 Twenty-eighth and Mr. Moore is son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Moore of Lubbock.

Preceding the ceremony, Bob Scoggin, organist, played a program of music including "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," "Ave Maria," "O Promise Me," "Indian Love Call," "To the Evening Star" and "O Perfect Love." Mr. Scoggin accompanied Miss Joyce Watson as she sang "I Love Thee" and "Because."

Given in marriage by her brother, Curtis L. Boyd, the bride wore a Belvedere rayon crepe dress designed with a fitted bodice accented with a small stand-up collar. Buttons fastening the bodice extended the length of the skirt and the long sleeves terminated in small stand-up collar. Buttons fastening the bodice extended the length of the skirt and the long sleeves terminated in small cuffs. The slim silhouette skirt was complemented on one side by a cuff pocket and on the other with a fly-a-way drape lined in taffeta. Her matching hat was adorned with contrasting sequin trim and her accessories were of dark brown suede. A brown orchid showered with stephanotis were arranged on the bride's white Bible.

Sister Is Attendant

Mrs. L. Dan Alford, who was her sister's matron of honor, wore a milateen griege dressmaker suit with double button front trim from the collar to the finished cuff fitted peplum. The pencil slim skirt had matching trim. She wore a hat in Belvedere color with dark green velvet trim and brown alligator accessories. Her corsage was of green gardenias.

The candlelighters, Misses Beverly and Gerry Moore, wore identical dresses in fine wail fabric fashioned with flared skirts, cuff pockets, rolled collars and plunging necklines. Beverly wore a hair corsage of cerise with her pine green dress and Gerry wore green gardenias with her cerise dress.

Dr. Gordon L. Moore of Houston, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Dr. Linley B. Millsap, Briggs Lrvin, C. C. Sherrod and Leeman Clark.

Wedding guests attended a reception given in Navajo room of Hilton hotel following the ceremony. An arrangement of marconi daisies and feverfew and a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a white bell and white love birds banked with yellow and white confection roses, decoraled the bride's table.

Assist At Reception

In the reception houseparty were parents of the bride and bridegroom, members of the wedding party, and Mesdames A. L. Sone, Monte Staniforth, W. T. Cooke, jr., C. C. Sherrod, Mark Anthony, G. L. McClellan, A. L. Hawkins, jr., Leeman Clark, Linley B. Millsap, R. P. Brown, Donald H. McDonald of Abilene, sister of the bride, Frank J. Morris of Shreveport, La., another sister, and Misses Carlyne York, Gladys Ruth Parnell, Lois Cone, and Maxine Boyd, niece of the bride.

Out-of-town guests were from Shreveport, Oklahoma City, Houston, Abilene, Eastland and Plainview.

After Aug. 15, when Mr. and Mrs. Moore return from a trip to Denver and other points in Colorado, they will be at home in Lubbock. For travel, the bride wore a handloomed suit in mestro color with a nutria beige hat with nestro velvet ribbon trim. She had brown lizzard accessories and a brown orchid corsage.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Moore attended Lubbock High school and Texas Technological college where Mrs. Moore received a degree. She is a member of Alpha Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Mr. Moore is engaged in the insurance and real estate business and farming.

Former Cooke County Residents To Attend Reunion At Mackenzie

The annual Cooke county reunion at Mackenzie state park today may be attended by as many as 250 to 300 persons, preliminary estimates Saturday indicated.

All former Cooke county residents were urged to attend the basket lunch beginning at 1 o'clock this afternoon, said Mrs. G. W. Blair, publicity chairman and secretary.

Those attending should enter at the north side of the park and keep to the right toward the amusement center, and a big sign will indicate the location of the picnic, Mrs. Blair said.

Joe Nislar is general chairman for this year and J. J. Murphy is chairman of arrangements.

FOR DEGREE STAFF

Pythian Sisters degree staff met with Mrs. Dovy Boyce, 1906 Twenty-fifth, Thursday night. Ice cream and cookies were served by Mrs. Jewell Mitchell, captain. Plans were made for a bingo party to be given to benefit the temple. A date is to be set.

Miss Corzelius Weds Robert Lee Pardue

Miss Diana Field Corzelius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mathews Corzelius of Houston, became the bride of Robert Lee Pardue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Victor Pardue, 1917 Thirteenth, in a garden wedding ceremony read at the home of the bride's parents Saturday at 7:30 p. m. with Rev. Edwin Walthall performing a double ring service.

Mrs. Laura Storey, organist, provided a musical background for the ceremony, and Charles Young was the vocal soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her grandmother's wedding gown, which was fashioned with short, puffed leg o' mutton sleeves, basque bodice, and an off shoulder neckline with a yoke of heirloom Duchess lace. The very full skirt rippled into a full length train from a fan shaped pleated center back panel, and her skirt was worn over a petticoat of pure silk satin edged with a deep accordion pleated ruffle.

Her full length veil of imported antique ivory bridal illusion fell from a headpiece of heirloom Duchess lace and was held in place by a pearl comb which had been worn by the bride's great grandmother in her wedding. She carried a colonial bouquet fashioned of antique lace and lily of the valley with sprays of phalaenopsis orchids silhouetted against her gown.

Miss Martha Corzelius, maid of honor, and Miss Frances Corzelius, junior bridesmaid, sisters of the bride, wore ice blue dresses of sheer nylon tulle fashioned along period lines with fitted bodices and standing fichu portrait necklines. Their matching little half-hats were trimmed with fresh flowers.

Bridesmaids were Misses Doris Fondren of Houston, who wore a similarly styled gown in lilac, Kateva White of Fort Worth, wearing Nile green, Kay Smith of Fort Worth gowned in pink, Laura Lee Scurlock of Houston dressed in yellow, and Mrs. Trammell Whittle of Houston wearing mauve. They carried bouquets of shell pink tuberous rooted begonias with garlands of white English ivy falling softly over their hands.

G. V. Pardue, jr., of Lubbock, attended his brother as best man, and groomsmen were Edwin Allday, Houston; Dan Woldert, Tyler; Jack Blanton, Houston; Elmer Tarbox, Frank Qualia and Amos Howard, all of Lubbock.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the elaborately decorated garden and house with the couple's parents and the bridesmaids assisting them in receiving.

Mrs. Huey Keeney and Miss Carol Givens registered guests in the bride's book, and out of town guests attended from Versailles, Ky., Midway, Ky., New York City, N. Y., Lometa, El Camp and Lubbock.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will be at home in Guatemala. For traveling the bride chose a navy blue gabardine suit with matching accessories and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids.

The bride is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and has attended Kinkaid in Houston, Margaret Hall in Versailles, Ky., Monticello college and the University of Texas. Mr. Pardue, a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon attended Texas Technological college and the University of Texas.

Three-fourths of Alaska is in the temperate zone.

MISS VIRGINIA SUE PLATT

Date Is Told At Luncheon

At a luncheon given recently in Fort Worth at Charles of New Orleans, the engagement and wedding date of Miss Virginia Sue Platt and Bob R. Carmichael of Pampa were announced. The bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Thadeus A. Platt of Fort Worth, was hostess. Mr. Carmichael, student at Texas Technological college, is son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carmichael of Pampa.

Among the 16 luncheon guests were Mrs. Carmichael and Miss Billy Hopping of Littlefield.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Sept. 3, at the Fort Worth Methodist church. Miss Platt's attendants will be Miss Charleta Cox, maid of honor, and Misses Janet McKay and Nell Jane Sosebee, bridesmaids. Mr. Carmichael will be his son's best man and Brent Blonkvist of Pampa and John R. Lane of Oklahoma City are to be ushers.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Madden and sons, Robert and O. C., Jr., of 2416 Twenty-seventh, have returned home from a trip to the Davis mountains. Among the interesting places the family visited was the McDonald observatory.

After spending a month in the O. B. Trinkle home, Mrs. J. A. Burnett has left for her home in San Antonio. She is to visit a week with her niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Russell, formerly of Lubbock, in Castell. Mrs. Trinkle and Mrs. Burnett are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Williams of Long Beach, Calif., arrived in Lubbock Friday for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Williams, 2123 Thirty-first. Their son, Charles Williams, has been a guest in the home of his grandparents for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Womack of 2112 Fifth had as guests Thursday her parents, Mr and Mrs. O. B. Price of Colorado City, and her sister and baby, Mrs. Earl Neal and Bryon of Houston.

Mrs. Ector Cannon, 620 Ave. M, has as her guests this week her grandchildren, Ramona and Marvin Wayne Sapaugh of Snyder. She has just returned from Dallas where she kept the children of Mr. and Mrs. A. Farris, jr., while the latter toured Europe for several months.

Mrs. R. D. Benson and son, Don, of Forrest Hills, N. Y., are to arrive Monday for a two-day visit with their son and brother, Dr. M. H. Benson, and family. They are en route home after a vacation spent in Colorado.

Bedroom Scene To End Them All Finally Made In Movies

By PATRICIA CLARY
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6.—Hollywood finally has made the bedroom scene to end them all. It has eight men and four women in a movie that's practically one whole bedroom scene.

The censors are smiling, however. They said they didn't think it ever could be done.

The movie is Warners' "Perfect Strangers," and the eight men and four women are members of an American jury, the women in one room, the men in two others, and not a connecting door between.

Most of the action of the picture takes place in the room where the jurors, who wouldn't speak to each other in private life, are locked up together every night.

"It makes the days seem like the nights to use," Ginger Rogers, the star, said. "We get up and get dressed to go to the studio. Then when we get there we climb right back in our nightgowns."

At noontime everybody climbs back into street attire, and then changes to night clothes for the afternoon.

"I feel like a fireman on a busy night," Dennis Morgan commented.

Miss Rogers, who in real life wears frilly gowns to bed, wears pajamas and negligee in the movie. Morgan ordinarily sleeps in pajama tops only, but the movie men made him add the pants and a wrap-around robe.

The other women in Miss Rogers' room, Margalo Gillmore, Thelma Ritter, and Marjorie Bennett, wear gowns and robes ranging from silk to plain cotton. A few of the men on their side of the wall wear knee-length nightgowns.

Doesn't Like Pajamas

Alan Reed, the Falstaff Oppenshaw of radio, is forced to wear pajamas but doesn't like it.

"In real life I don't wear anything," he admitted. "It's more comfortable."

While Miss Rogers sits on the bed in her pajamas and reads a letter, the other jurywomen in her bedroom exchange notions about getting ready for a beauty sleep.

Miss Ritter, the small and raucous comedienne, watches fascinated as Miss Gillmore, the stately Broadway star, presses pads to her eyes and pats in skin food on her cheeks.

"Skin food!" Miss Ritter exclaims when she gets a look at the bottle. "Is your face hungry?"

"I always thought before that some time I'd like to be on a jury," Miss Rogers sighed when the scene was over. "Now I'm sure that I would not."

HEIRESS CAN HOPE FOR PROMOTION

New Minister To Luxembourg Accepts First Job At $17,500

By MARTHA KEARNEY
INS Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6—Working girls, and especially government girls, who can claim that their first jobs carried an annual salary of $17,500 are few and far between.

That distinction, however, can be handily claimed by Perle Mesta, political hostess de luxe and the new United States minister to Luxembourg.

Mrs. Mesta, the heiress to a fortune in oil and a fortune in steel, is a working girl on a salary these days for the first time in her life.

To Sail Shortly

She automatically went on the government payroll when she started briefing sessions with the State department preparatory to leaving for her new diplomatic post. She sails for Europe in a little more than a week.

The dark-eyed, dark-haired Oklahoma-born widow, however, still can hope for advancement in her new job. She can, if she likes, buck for a class two diplomatic post paying her $20,000 a year. Or she can even aspire to a class one post with an annual salary of $25,000 a year.

President Truman, however, classified the Luxembourg billet as a class three post so her first sheaf of annual paychecks will add up to $17,500.

May Spend Own Money

If Mrs. Mesta entertains as lavishly in little Luxembourg as she did in Washington, of course, she will probably have to dip into her own capital for spending money.

There is also no question but that lots of political figures and former guests will be stopping by on junkets or vacations to sample the transplanted Mesta hospitality.

Luxembourg is strategically located just a few fast miles by motor from the most important European capitals and, as everyone knows, there is nothing so welcome as seeing a familiar face in a foreign land.

So Mrs. Mesta may soon wish that her national reputation had been made as a guest rather than as a hostess.

Husbandly devotion made Washington news twice in two days this past week and it has given the capital something to talk about other than the miserable weather.

The first devoted husband was President Harry Truman who waited patiently at the railroad station to welcome the first lady from a two-month vacation back home in Independence, Mo.

When her train finally arrived, the chief executive kissed Mrs. Truman on the cheek and announced that he just wanted to sit and look at her after their summer separation.

He confided to newsmen that he and the first lady had talked to each other by telephone every day while she was away. Mrs. Truman had planned to stay away only one month but found vacationing even pleasanter than she had expected it to be.

The second devoted husband was Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) Ohio, who hurried to New York in the middle of a week jam-packed with important Senate session to greet his wife, Martha.

Mrs. Taft returned on the Queen Elizabeth from a month-long visit in Ireland with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr and Mrs. William Howard Taft, III.

She also had news for her husband about three of their grandchildren — Maria, Martha and William Howard Taft, IV. Sen. Taft had planned to accompany his wife on the trans-Atlantic trip but the prolonged session of Congress made this impossible.

Immediately after the boat docked, the couple returned to Washington and the congressional marathon.

They had planned to spend some time this summer in Cincinnati and had hoped then to go to the family summer home at Murray Bay for a reunion with their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Taft and Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Taft, jr., along with their grandchildren.

Prospects look pretty dim for that now, though.

And it is entirely possible that Bess Truman and Martha Taft may have had the only vacations in the family this summer.

Doomed Youth At Rising Star Gets More Than 200 Letters

RISING STAR, Aug. 6 (U.P.) — Nine-year-old Clar Linden Underwood, who does not know he is dying of cancer, received more than 200 letters, cards and packages at his sick bed yesterday.

The youngster received the flood of mail from readers of a United Press story telling of his plight. Rising Star citizens also contributed $55 to provide luxuries.

Young Underwood, meanwhile, hoped only to return to his schoolroom. He did not know that he was doomed.

Sharp Upward Swing Noted In Mortgage Loan Activity Here

An encouraging increase in real estate activity is indicated by a sharp upward swing in mortgage loan activity in Lubbock during July, figures compiled Saturday showed.

Mortgage loans on non-farm property totaling $879,111 were recorded in Lubbock during July, as compared with loans totaling only $772,486 during June.

The total covered 152 transactions, as compared with only 135 transactions during the preceding month.

The July total was also higher than the May total, when 148 mortgages totaling $855,440 had been recorded.

Of the mortgages recorded in July, 11 were loans made by First Federal Savings and Loan association totaling $62,900; 24 were made by insurance companies totaling $159,490; 40 were made by banks and trust companies totaling $261,980; 40 wer made by individuals totaling $158,000; and 33 were made by "all other" mortgagees, including mortgage loan brokers and mortgage investment companies, totaling $213,070.

The largest loan recorded during July was in the amount of $15,656. Six loans of $10,000 or more were recorded.

Progress Reported For Plains Cotton

Good progress in South Plains cotton fields last week was reported Saturday by K. N. Clapp, area observer for Anderson-Clayton & Co. Houston cotton firm.

After poor progress due to unfavorable weather during most of July, he said, most plants are fruiting and growing well. Most chopping has been finished, easing localized labor shortages reported last week.

Fleahoppers are on the wane and leaf worms appear under control, but Clapp expressed uneasiness because of increasing bollworms.

"Bollworms have been generally present for some time but the infestation has been very light, and mostly eggs," he reported. "The worms now are showing up, with farmers in portions of Lynn county beginning to dust. Dusting probably will become necessary in Lamb county by the end of the coming week."

He termed the available supply of dusting chemicals as "only fair." Shortages of these materials have been reported in many cotton growing regions, he noted.

Clapp did not alter his forecast of the week previous of a "probable" South Plains cotton crop of 1,322,000 bales. But he said conditions of the past week have brightened the prospects for ginnings well in excess of that figure.

Plight Of Puppies Born Without Front Feet Is Solved By Using Roller Skates

DAYTON, O., Aug. 6 (AP)—The plight of two six-week-old puppies born without front feet was being solved by roller skates today.

The puppies were born to a six-year-old black and tan cocker spaniel owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Turner of nearby New Lebanon. The father is believed to be a spitz.

Dorothy, the Turners' 12-year-old daughter, said before the skates were introduced the pups had either wriggled or wormed their way around.

A newsman first suggested the skates—and the pups appeared to take up the idea at once. Dorothy said they got on their skates yesterday to scoot to their food pans.

A Dayton veterinarian, Dr. Bob Stevenson, said there is no ready explanation for the pups' malformation. Doctors know it is caused by some unusual condition of the mother, he said—a deficiency in some body-forming element, perhaps, or malformation of one of the mother's internal organs.

Wildcat Estimated To Pump 3,500-5,000 Barrels Daily

AUSTIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—George Cabell brought in a wildcat oilwell yesterday on the Martin McDowell farm in western Bastrop county near the Travis county line.

Cabell, veteran Bastrop county oilman, said other oilmen who inspected the well told him it should produce 3,500 to 5,000 barrels daily.

The well was not under control last night. It was being capped with mud so that an accurate test could be made.

The well flowed at 1,904 feet in Dale limestone.

Spain now makes ball bearings.

Five officers and 41 men, aided by 72 former German war prisoners, are making a full-time job of bomb disposal in London, where not all the unexpided bombs have yet been located.

Some 5,000 new houses were built last year in Northern Ireland — four times the 1947 number — but 1949 construction is lagging for want of materials.

"I had to give up using putty when building a chicken hut, because as fast as I applied it the chickens ate it," B. Grimsley, of Dorset, England, reported.

NEW FIVE-ROOM HOUSE ERECTED

British Family Of 13 Adopted By People Of Utah Community

By JAMES R. McCAULEY
United Press Staff Writer

TRIDELL, Utah, Aug. 6 (U.P.)—There's a sentimental touch of international romance at this mountain hamlet that has everyone's heart thumping an extra beat.

It's a whirlwind courtship between a friendly British family of 13 and 398 residents of Tridell. The warmness of the romance makes the recent Rita-Aly go-around dull in comparison.

This is the real thing for Tridell, though the newcomers arrived here only last June 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hartley and their 11 children have fallen in love with pint-sized Tridell. And the little Mormon community in Eastern Utah has that same star-happy look tucked inside its nearby green rolling hills.

House Prepared

Hartley wiped a tear from his eye in front of the new five-room house that was prepared for his family by friends at Tridell. He said:

"You have something great and big here—you have frontiers, food. After 56 years, I've finally found a home."

Tridell had never been more excited. It welcomed Hartley into its voluntary police force. The first night the family was feted at an old-fashioned pot-luck supper.

The amiable Englishman admits he's sentimental. And about his new "fairyland home" nestling in the foothills of the Uintah Mountains, he's overly sentimental. Hartley said:

"America is like a Christmas tree with thousands of gifts all wrapped up in pretty packages. New York was a gift—it was bustling, busy, ambitious. Pittsburgh was another gift—a dirty gift, but a gift wrapped in steel and coal."

Farms Impressive

The bright-eyed head of a family of 13 was more vivid than the most glittering of travel folders in unfolding his reaction to America. He says his eyes popped out at the lush farmland of Ohio, Nebraska, Iowa and Indiana.

Queer quirks of fate paved the way for the fairlyland romance between this British family of 13 and their new Tridell home.

First there was the pen-pal correspondence between Tesa Goodrich of Tridell and Gordon Hartley. The international mails flowered the friendship, overcoming the 5,000 miles in between.

Then came the war. The bonds were drawn tighter between the Hartley family and their future home in Utah. Two daughters of the family, Catherine, 21, and Joan, 20, married American servicemen in Britain.

Why Worry?

That was just the marriage of two daughters. But it paced the way for the romance between Tridell and the Hartley family.

Hartley's only disappointment was "seeing Americans walk down the street looking like they had worried minds. What is there to worry about in America—except keeping the nation free?"

Tridell residents say they are sure the British family return their affection. It was only a few days ago that a newspaper reporter at nearby Vernal, Utah, asked how it felt to be 5,000 miles from home.

Tridell is just 22 miles from Vernal.

Family Ends Lengthy Voyage From Boston To Ohio River Town

BEAVER, Pa., Aug. 6 (AP)—Frank Potter has ended his long voyage home—6,000 miles by sea and river in a two-masted 46-foot schooner.

It was 11 months ago that Potter saw the schooner tied up at a Long Island dock, a "for sale" sign hanging amidships.

Potter bought her, named her the "Seven Seas" and sailed her up to Boston. There he quit his job as a sales engineer, packed up his wife and four children and set sail for his boyhood home in Beaver overlooking the Ohio river.

To Sell Ship

To get there the Potters followed the Atlantic coast around Floriday, across the Gulf of Mexico and up the Mississippi and Ohio rivers.

When the "Seven Seas" dropped anchor here the children — Jane, 10; Nancy, 12; Frank, 7, and Ross, 2, went ashore to visit their grandparents.

But Potter and his wife stayed aboard to ready the schooner for its last junket with Potter at the helm.

Today they sailed for Pittsburgh to officially end their trip and then they sail back up the Ohio to Beaver and put the "Seven Seas" up for sale.

"That's the hardest part of all," Potter said.

"But," he added, "dreams have to end sometime and now we expect to settle down and buy a home and I'll have to hunt a job."

War On Beavers And Muskrats Declared In California Areas

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 6 (U.P.)—California has declared war on beavers and muskrats infesting the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys.

Gov. Earl Warren has signed a bill which permits anyone to take either species any time they show up within the two areas. The little animals pose a serious question in the central valleys with their burrowing into levees of irrigation and flood control systems.

Although 25,000 muskrats were trapped by commercial hunters last season, they are increasing rapidly. Beavers are being transferred to the hill country, where their work is beneficial.

ONE-CENT CARS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Aug. 6 (U.P.)—The Noble King motor sales firm sold eight automobiles for a penny each. The sales were made within three hours after the firm's advertisement appeared. The offer was that anyone buying a used car at the regular price could buy a second one for one cent extra.

FROM THE LUBBOCK ALBUM—Street buying of cotton, which still is practiced in some parts of the South but not on the South Plains, is illustrated in the pioneer scene above, made approximately 25 years ago. The cotton pictured was taken from Lubbock to Big Spring, where the photograph was made. A street buyer bought the cotton, which was delivered by wagon. The modern practice on the South Plains is for gins to buy from the individual and sell the cotton in large quantity.

Margaret's "Can-Can" Draws Criticism

Modern Trends Have An Influence On Royal Family

By CHARLES A. SMITH
INS Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 6.—When pert Princess Margaret danced the French can-can, she stirred a storm in some British tea cups but failed to disturb the aplomb of her royal parents. The king and queen watched and approved the performance at a rehearsal.

In addition, the dowager Queen Mary was in on the planned performance and, by silence at least, consented to the caper-cutting of her granddaughter.

The incident served to point up unmistakably that the "modernizing" of Britain's monarchy including up-to-date indulgence of royal children with ready laughter and twinkling toes.

No Modernity Allowed

Even a less publicized incident 15 years ago would have brought down in leonine fury the censure of spade-bearded King George V.

The monarch ruled his family and his court with the same unbending firmness of Queen Victoria. To him, ruling—even with limited powers—was a 24-hour job and it embraced all members of the royal family.

King George V would brook no modernity, no loss of royal face and no deviation from clearly defined court etiquette and protocol.

On his passing, his sons and daughters spread their new found wings and his widow, the queen mother, began to do the human little things that have endeared her to Britons in recent years.

The present King George VI took care that his own two girls would be average teen-agers so far as possible. In this, "Granny Mary" and Queen Elizabeth joined and on many an occasion the royal family looked the other way while the two princesses engaged in a bit of harmless mischief.

Attitude Is Explained

The "new look" in bringing up royal children helps explain a good deal of recent family history.

The new attitude explains why Margaret could do the watered-down version of the can-can, why she can go to smart nightclubs, restaurants and theaters with a new escort every night, why she frequently week-ends away from home and how she became a bosom chum of young Sharman Douglas, daughter of the American ambassador.

Activities of such light nature were restricted formerly to male members of royalty and even then kept scrupulously from public view, but young Margaret can often be seen at some London theater laughing heartily at an off-color joke. In earlier days, such lines were eliminated when royalty attended.

Have More Freedom

Princess Margaret has not been the only beneficiary of the more relaxed views of the royal family.

Princess Elizabeth had more freedom than usual in being given time with young Prince Philip to make up her mind that she was in love with him before the engagement was announced.

And it also explains why Princess Mary, the king's only sister, was so insistent that her eldest son, the Earl of Harewood, be given royal permission to marry Marion Stein, an Austrian refugee.

The ties of members of the royal family to one another probably are closer than ever before in Britain's long history. Some court circles even think the ties too close—particularly, when parental indulgence leads to newspaper headlines.

This royal family listens to the radio together, provides home musical evenings together, shares books, thoughts and affections.

And despite the complaint of some old hands around the court that the king and queen are "a bit soft" about Princess Margaret, the British public seems to think it a good idea.

Couple Asks $52,000 Damages For "Wild Ride" In Ambulance

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (U.P.)—Sometimes, according to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nadile, an ambulance can carry a patient to the hospital too quickly.

They sued the Scully Walton ambulance service for $52,000 on the ground that a driver treated them to a "wild ride" while being carried to a hospital for treatment.

They said the ambulance traveled at such high speed that a woman companion of the driver became frightened and struggled with them.

Lubbock's Soap Box Derby Champ To Leave Monday For Akron Race

Lubbock's Soap Box Derby champion for 1949, Norman Womack, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Womack, 24 Westwood Village, will leave Monday for Akron, O., where next Sunday he will compete against 149 other youngsters for the national championship.

Traveling in the special Soap Box Derby Chevrolet which has been seen on Lubbock streets the past several months, young Womack will be accompanied by his father, and a younger brother, James; and C. W. Ratliff, managing editor of the Avalanche-Journal.

Exchange Members Going

Three other Lubbock persons, Roger Kuykendall, Dr. Jim Reynolds and Wayne Sullivan, all members of the Lubbock Exchange club, co-sponsor with the Avalanche-Journal and Kuykendall Chevrolet company in the Derby here, will also be on hand for the Akron race. They will leave here Thursday in Kuykendall's plane and stop in St. Louis en route.

En route to Akron, young Womack will get a chance to see his first major league baseball game Tuesday in St. Louis between the Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals. Young Womack plays on the White Sox team in the Lubbock Boys' club league.

Guests Of Chevrolet

While in Akron, the champs all will be guests of the Chevrolet Motor division, national co-sponsor of the race, under the supervision of W. E. Fish, general sales manager.

All of the champs must be in Akron no later than noon Thursday, Aug. 11. They will be met at airport, railroad station or on the highway, and conducted behind a police escort, with sirens shrieking, to downtown headquarters. Here, as bands play, they will be registered at the official office of the All-American Soap Box Derby in the Mayflower hotel. Then they will go in cars or busses to Camp Derbytown, a YMCA boys' camp turned over exclusively to the champs for the four-day stay.

Camp 12 Miles From Akron

The boys will sleep in cabins, will be served the kind of food boys like and will participate in all sorts of recreational activities, under the careful supervision of trained camp counsellors. The camp is beside a cool lake in a shady grove about 12 miles from Akron. Some of the sports in which they may participate are swimming, boating, fishing, baseball, horseback riding and volley ball. There will be a big bonfire get-together every evening.

Friday will be devoted largely to a trip to Derby Downs where the boys can make last minute checkups on their cars, and where each boy makes a trial run down the track. Womack's racer has been sent to Akron by express. Late Friday afternoon, parents of the boys and representatives of sponsoring newspapers will be given an opportunity to visit the boys at camp. Friday evening they will be taken to an evening's entertainment by bantamweight football teams in Akron's Rubber Bowl, adjacent to Derby Downs.

Jimmy Doolittle To Be Host

Saturday the boys will be entertained at a special breakfast provided by the Shell Oil Co., with Jimmy Doolittle, famed wartime flier and now an executive of the oil company, swapping stories with the boys. The Akron Chamber of Commerce taken over for the balance of the day, providing a special lunch at camp, with rubber company and Chevrolet executives acting as hosts for the occasion. Speedboat rides are included in the afternoon's entertainment.

At the same time there will be a special party for visiting members of the press who come to Akron as representatives of the co-sponsoring newspapers, and another party for mothers of champions and other women guests.

Big Race On Sunday

Church services for all faiths are conducted at the Camp Derbytown Sunday morning and, after lunch, the boys go to Derby Downs. They march in the big pre-race parade, which starts at 1:15 p. m., with Jimmy Stewart, movie star, acting as grand marshal. Stewart plans to arrive a day ahead of the race, to spend time with the champions at Camp Derbytown.

After the parade the boys are returned to the top of the hill for the race, the first heat of which starts promptly at 2 p. m. The heats start regularly every 90 seconds, and the entire race is accurately timed so that the final heat will be run between 4:30 and 4:45 p. m.

Race To Be Televised

For the first time this year the final half-hour of the race will be televised "live" over ABC stations from 4:15 to 4:45 p. m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time. The final 15 minutes of the race, from 2:30 to 2:45 p. m. CST will be broadcast over the 170-station, coast to coast radio network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

In addition to Stewart and Doolittle, some of the other celebrities who will attend or participate in the Derby functions include Governor Frank J. Lausche, of Ohio; Wilbur Shaw, president of the Indianapolis Speedway who is the official Derby referee; top officials of the Chevrolet Motor Division, and the General Motors corporation.

After the race, the Derby ceremonies terminate at the Champions' banquet in huge Goodyear Hall, where the boys are honored with seats at the largest speakers' table in the world. Top acts entertain the boys and 1400 guests during the dinner, while the event i stopped off by the award of prizes and trophies to the place winners, and to all the champions.

READY FOR TRIP TO AKRON—Norman Womack, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Womack, 24 Westwood Village, who is Lubbock's Soap Box Derby champion is pictured above in his sleek little racer he will drive down the famous Derby Downs track at Akron, O., next Sunday. He will compete against 149 other youngsters from 11 to 15 years of age from the four corners of America for a national title and a $5,000 four-year college scholarship. (Staff Photo).

Ex-Army Sergeant Who Offered Eye For German Fiancee's Expenses All Fixed Up

By ROBERT C. WEAKLEY
INS Staff Correspondent

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 6.—"Chuck" Eller, the ex-Army sergeant who offered to sell his eye to raise expenses to bring his German fiancee to Fresno to marry her, went house hunting today, confident of their marriage by his birthday on Aug. 13th.

Eller will leave Fresno Sunday night for New York where he will appear on a radio show which is paying for his fiancee's plane fare from Germany. Their reunion is scheduled for next Tuesday night on the "We The People" radio program.

Eller had assurances that Ly Elyse Beckmann, the girl he had to leave behind in Germany, will be flown from Ober-Ramstadt in plenty of time for the "happy ending."

More Offers Received

More offers continued to pour in to the Charles Eller trust fund, set up when sympathetic persons throughout the nation sent in dollar bills instead of an offer to buy his eye.

The latest offer came from the McFarland, Cal., chamber of commerce, suggesting his bride-to-be settle in that community to practice her profession of dentistry.

The chamber of commerce pointed out the Kern county community had 4,000 residents but no dentist and offered a combined office and apartment to the couple, rent free for a year.

Miss Beckmann practiced dentistry before she met Eller in Germany three years ago but now works in a civil service office.

Reunion Birthday Gift

Eller said: "That's a wonderful offer. But I don't know what Ly has to do to qualify to practice here. It's possible she'd have to go to college. At any rate she'd have to take a state examination. We'll have to talk it over."

Eller disclosed Ly's reunion with him will come as a "birthday gift" for his mother. Mrs. Emmett will be 68 years Tuesday. And his tentative wedding date falls on Aug. 13th, Eller's birthday and the anniversary of his engagement to Ly in 1946. He expects to return to Fresno with Ly by next Friday.

Eller, commenting on wedding plans being arranged by Fresno citizens, declared:

"Ly will be tickled pink, I know. She'll think 'gee, what kind of a country is that that puts on a welcome like this!'"

Was T B Victim

Eller said his mother is pleased now that she has learned it has all turned to a happy conclusion. He explained:

"If I couldn't get any funds any other way I was going to try to get a civil service job in Germany so I could marry Ly there. Mother was afraid this would happen but now we're going to live here. After all, she's getting old and I haven't seen her much lately."

Eller referred to his 6½-years' service in the Army before a bout with tuberculosis forced the Army to return him to the United States last fall for treatment. He was released last June 30th as an arrested case of T. B. Shortly afterwards, jobless and faced with the fact his financee's visa expires Aug. 31st, he made his desperate offer to sell his eye.

Saudi-Arabian Monarch Asks Willys Jeep Pin-Up Picture

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 6 (U.P.)—The King of Saudi-Arabia is a pin-up fan but his pin-ups are not of the two-legged GI variety.

King Ibn Saud was attracted by a Willys-Overland advertisement in an American magazine and notified the company of his desire to have a copy to hang in the royal domicile.

The company was only too glad to comply and sent his majesty the requested pin-up by air.

And now, on those fabulous Arabian nights, Ibn Saud no doubt can be seen admiring the latest addition to his pin-up gallery, an illustration of a jeep station wagon taking baggage from a TWA Constellation named "Star of Arabia."

The mobile movie truck now used to teach road safety in Norwich, England, used to be the Black Maria.

MOVIES TO BE MADE OF EVENT

Southwestern Junior Rodeo Will Open At Post Thursday

POST, Aug. 6. (Special)—Interest of youngsters of the rodeo world are to be centered on Post this week when the Southwestern Championship Junior Rodeo opens Thursday Aug. 11 and continues through Saturday night, Aug. 13.

Three night performances and a Saturday afternoon matinee will be staged in the "World's Original All-Junior Rodeo."

Because of the unusual and nationwide interest in the event, three newsreel companies, Paramount, Universal-International and Movietone Newsreel, will send cameramen here to cover the program in motion pictures.

Specialty Acts Scheduled

More than 200 junior cowboys and cowgirls from all over the Southwest are expected to compete for the championship awards in calf roping, bull riding, cowgirl sponsor contest, hat race, ribbon roping, and a state championship junior cutting horse contest sponsored by the National Cutting Horse association.

All of the contestants in the rodeo will be 18 years or younger and entries are already pouring in at a fast clip.

The show will feature specialty acts presented by Ted and Betty Lamb of Dallas, who are top junior trick riders and trick ropers. Rodeo stock will be furnished by Goat Mayo of Petrolia.

Nat Fleming of Wichita Falls will be announcer for the show. Dale Winders of Earth and his mule Pancho will furnish the clowning entertainment.

Judges Chosen

Judges for the show will be: Ed Sims, Walsenburg, Colo.; Harold Childs, Santa Fe, N. M.; Lewis Nance, Justiceburg; W. J. Tipton, Post; Jess Everett, Snyder; and Bilby Wallace, Clairemont.

A special $600 matched roping contest during the Saturday afternoon show featuring six top junior ropers of Texas is to be one of the highlights of the three-day program. The boys, who will rope and tie three calves each, are: Clay Cade, Alpine; Scotter Fries, Bandera; Bill Teague, Crane; Jim Bob Altizer, Del Rio; Bob Thompson, Stinnett; and Jimmy Bird, Post.

All of these boys have distinguished themselves in rodeo arenas all over the state in competition with other juniors as well as adults. One of the boys won the calf roping at the world famous Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford this year and three of them are now or have been state champion high school ropers.

Parade Thursday

The rodeo will open with a big parade Thursday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock with many floats, high school bands and horsemen in the line of march. Another parade will be staged Saturday afternoon.

Winners of the various events will receive regular day monies in addition to many special awards offered by business firms from Providence, R. I., to San Francisco, Calif.

The champion all-around cowboy and cowgirl will each receive a special engraved gold and silver trophy buckle valued at nearly $100. They will also receive fine cowboy hats and other awards.

The champion calf roper, ribbon roper, and bull rider, will each receive a gold and silver trophy buckle valued at $75. All of the buckles will be made by Holland's jewelry, similar to the ones given winners of the Madison Square Garden Rodeo.

Other Prizes Set

The champion cowgirl will receive a $50 pair of shopmade boots presented by Lusk's Boot Shop of Lubbock.

The rider of the top cutting horse will receive a special quarter horse trophy given by the American Quarter Horse association and the winner of the hat race will receive a similar trophy. Many other awards of ropes, bits, bridles, western clothing, hats and belts are to be given various winners.

Attending as one of the special guests at the rodeo will be Rene Picado, jr., of San Jose, Costa Rica, son of the former president of Costa Rica.

There are 15 junior directors of the show who act under supervision of the Post Stampede. Alvin G. Davis, manager of the Post Chamber of Commerce, originated the show and is its managing director. Carter White is assistant manager and secretary. Jimmy Bird is arena director; Giles Dalby, chairman of the sponsor committee; and Zoe Sims, hostess sponsor.

An early entry in the show is Miss Bette Smith of Abilene, who rode in the Madison Square Garden rodeo when she was 14 years old. She won the sponsor contest at Stamford in 1947.

Australian Churches Force Changes In Highway Signs

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 6 (U.P.)—"Death is so permanent," a slogan of the Road Safety Council's advertising drive against accidents, has met with resounding disapproval of several church denominations.

Inspired by United States morticians' advertising, the slogan spearheaded the council's campaign in newspapers, radio and magazines. Churches argue that it denied existence of the life hereafter.

The council has thought up an alternative: "Life is so precious."

GIRLS WIN HANDS DOWN

HINTON, W. Va. (U.P.)—Petticoat rule will hold sway in the Hinton high school next year. An election resulted in a landslide for the girls. They took 15 of the 17 major offices in the two top classes.

Author Of Maine University "Stein Song" Has Quit Work

ORONO, Me., Aug. 6 (U.P.)—The author of the University of Maine's now famous "Stein Song" has retired.

Prof. Adelbert W. Sprague, head of the university's music department for 30 years, and the late Lincoln Colcord collaborated to write the piece in 1903.

Until 1923 it was just another college song. Then Rudy Vallee, who heard it as a freshman, started using it as a theme with his orchestra. It's since gone round the world.

WISHED HIM LUCK

BRISBANE, Australia (U.P.)—Because of a provision in his wife's will, M. V. Crowe will receive a lottery ticket once a fortnight for as long as he lives. Mrs. Crowe left $120,000.

Shiny Belts Will Be Focal Point Of Most Fall Styles

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. — After five years of wishy-washy waistline interest, designers are pushing a new gimmick: The "lustre look" in belts.

Fashionable ladies will have shiny, tiny waists for fall.

Belts will be glossy as unpowdered noses—in satin, patent leather, burnished brass, bright gold and pearls. They will be the focal point on most of next season's sternly-basic dresses.

Patent Leather-Popular

Patent leather will be the most popular "lustre look" medium. Women will find patent available in 10 shades, in plain or embroidery-trimmed designs, and in all widths—though narrow belts are considered top style.

Makers of patent belts insist they blend with every fabric from crepe through sheer wool to nubby tweed. Furthermore, they said, it is the only shiny material that can be perfectly matched to such accessories as shoes, handbags, hatbands and umbrella covers.

Satin, once labeled a dressy fabric, will be turned out in belts for tailored suits, heavy coats, and even cocktail frocks.

Many high-fashion trench coats of the fall season are clutched in at the waist by stiffened satin belts with covered buckles. Vividly-colored satin girdles add color to the light and neutral sport dresses. And satin sashes double as stoles when they're worn on cocktail or evening gowns.

Satin Belts Planned

Prepare also to see jewel-studded satin belts on the most classic of wool dresses, in startling contrast to their simplicity.

Polished pearl belts are a new trend in the trimming industry.

Ropes of big, even pearls will be wound tightly around a woman's waistline, and fastened in front with jeweled clasps. Some of the ropes stretch round only once, but others circle several times, forming a pearl girdle effect.

Coin Belt Craze

Wide sashes of wool or silk fabric will be dotted with pearls in a dressy variation of the trend.

Coin belts, always a classic item, are expected to become a style craze next fall. Designers have linked brightly polished antique coins together, allowing a few to dangle enticingly from the clasp.

Gold links the jewelry favorite for wear with next fall's tweeds—will get into the belt picture too. Most makers are showing gold chain "snakes" in their collections, and supplementing them with gold kid models.

Telephone Pole Struck By Two Cars In Consecutive Mishaps

EDMONTON, Canada, Aug. 6 (U.P.)—It's all in a day's work, but traffic constables Norman Furnell and Phil Salz said there should be a line drawn somewhere.

A car driven by Stan Parker came down Scona Hill, failed to make a turn, clipped a telephone pole, hit a tree, bounced through a ditch, sped across a private lawn and narrowly missed the house.

While Furnell and Salz investigated the mishap, another car hit the same telephone pole, careened off and missed Salz and his motorcycle by inches.

Southern Korea Officials Talk Openly Of Invading North Area

BY JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Korea this week upheld its growing reputation as a likely spot for the birth of World War III.

In Southern Korea, officials of the American-sponsored government reached the stage of talking openly about invading the Soviet-sponsored north before the north beats them to the punch.

These officials still would not let correspondents attribute such statements to them personally, but AP Correspondent William R. Moore radioed from Seoul:

"Some very significant figures in the . . . government think the time must come soon when this infant republic must invade the Communist-ruled north as a self-defense measure."

Moderates Oppose Move

Moore said moderate Koreans advised against this. But the talk of beating the north to the punch obviously has increased recently. A few months ago in Tokyo, American army officers back from Korea told me it existed, but was not very open.

Later this week Moore cabled that the northerners had invaded the southern part of the Ongjin peninsula, which is interesected by the 38th parallel that divides Korea into two separate countries. Each is recognized by its respective sponsor in the cold war and by some of each sponsor's allies.

This little war at Ongjin has been going on since late May, when a southern expedition by sea drove the northerners out. The northerners kept coming back, however, and did so in force this week.

The southern chief of staff revealed that this last show of northern force occurred after his troops had occupied two strong points just over the border in the north. He said these were lost in the fighting, which cost about 200 southern lives.

The question of who actually invaded whom may not be as important as this question: Whether the situation that makes invasion attractive to both sides can be ended without a bloody civil war, and whether that could be kept from expanding into something bigger. Russia and America both have vital strategic interest in Korea.

In any case, the renewal of fighting at Ongjin helped to spotlight the meeting scheduled late this week between southern President Syngman Rhee and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China, to promote a Pacific union against Communism. American help would be asked.

There long seems to have been sentiment in the north to "reunify" Korea (which all Koreans want, one way or another) but to do it by conquering the south. The growth of a rival sentiment in the south has speeded up since the southern army acquired the arms left behind by departing U. S. occupation troops early this summer. Soviet troops reportedly left the north some months earlier, after building and arming a northern Korean army.

But there's something else worth noting about the southern army. It contains thousands of young Koreans who bore arms under Japan. Just how many is not known, but I am told by some Koreans that there may be as many as 30,000—roughly a third of President Rhee's present land force, which he wants to quadruple.

The story is that there were about 100,000 young Koreans who joined or were drafted into the Japanese army. After the war ended, they bore the stigma of collaboration in the great wave of hatred against all who had worked for or with the Japanese. They had trouble finding jobs. Many became tramps and bandits; some of course joined the Communists.

But thousands of them got into the Southern Korean army, where they naturally are interested in any situation which might improve their lot and that of their fellows who didn't get it. My information is that their main idea of how to do this is to "reunify the country" by reconquering the north.

They think it would make them all heroes.

One officer was asked recently, what if that results in a long war that would drag in Russia and America and bring on World War III?

Choctaw Indians To Sue Uncle Sam For Heap Big Fleecing

NESHOBA, Miss., Aug. 6 (AP)—Mississippi's Choctaw indians say Uncle Sam hoodwinked their ancestors in land grants. They want about $40,000,000 to make things right.

Chief Joe Chitto of Standing Pine, Miss., leader of the 2,500 Choctaws, yesterday told his plans for taking the case to Washington.

He wired attorney W. T. Weir to do all the big talking.

Chitto contends the tribe's ancestors were promised lands in the treaties of 1786, 1820 and 1930, of which they got only part, and then after much trouble.

Want Cash Now

His braves don't want the land now, he explained, just cash.

Weir, said about 16,000,000 acres were involved in the Choctaw claim.

The treaty of 1820 provided 620 acres of land for heads of indian families, plus 320 acres for each child over 10 and 155 acres for each younger child, he said.

The lawyer said the Choctaw case was based on claims that their ancestors could not read or write and did not understand the treaty terms.

The case will be presented to the National Indian Claims commission in Washington.

Chief Chitto says he will have the whole tribe in attendance when a hearing is called later this year in Mississippi.

IN HOSPITAL 50 YEARS

PHILADELPHIA, (UP) — Mrs. Ella Grosmich has been a patient at Philadelphia General Hospital for 50 years. She entered on April 4, 1899, with an incurable and slowly progressive disease affecting the nervous system and has been outside the hospital only once, to attend a garden party for a few hours in 1922.

Steel Man Collects Old Armor, Weapons

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 6 (AP) —A visitor to the den in the home of Frederick Schaefer, local steel company executive, might think he had entered the armory of an ancient castle as he glanced around at the walls.

Schaefer has collected old battle garb for the last 40 years. And his collection includes most every type of weapon used during the 16th and 17th centuries.

Schaefer's ornaments are said to be one of the most complete private collections in the world. He got started on his hobby when he was a small boy in Chicago. His mother bought him a set of Persian armor complete with a steel helmet, shield, battleax and mace.

Since then the collection has grown until it now numbers more than 20 pieces.

Schaefer considers a sword made of Damascus steel his most prized possession. He said the steel is made by a secret process which steelmakers since have never been able to duplicate. The blade can be bent into a loop, yet it is so tough that it can cut into any piece of steel in the collection.

Motorists Advised To Buy Gas Early To Get More For Money

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 6 (AP) — Gasoline has little in common with ice cream, except that in each case one might be surer of getting his money's worth if he bought it by the pound.

Dr. Waldo Kliever, research director of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company, has revealed that warm gasoline—like fluffy ice cream — weighs less per gallon; and you get correspondingly less fuel from it. So his tip to motorists is to do their gassing-up early in the morning instead of in mid-day heat when the gasoline is expanded.

In aviation, Dr. Kliever explained, where exact knowledge of remaining fuel is often vital, an electronic gauge is used which shows the fuel supply accurately, regardless of temperature variations. Tests show that at 77 degrees Fahrenheit a gallon of gasoline will weigh 4.13 per cent more than at 120 degrees.

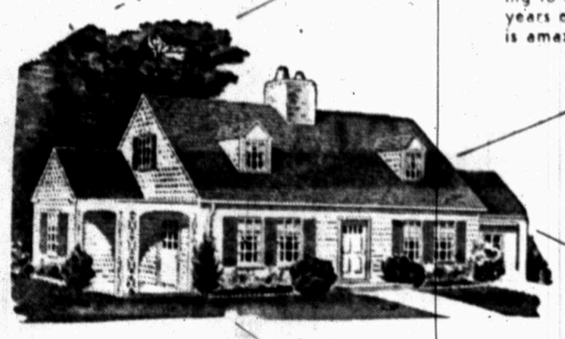

Enjoy More Comfort in Your Home- Use all these Modern GAS Appliances

A 1949 gas range is as much better than a 15-year-old gas range as a 1949 model automobile is better than a 1934 model. With all its wonderful new features, a 1949 automatic gas range built to "CP" standards is easily the finest cooking device available anywhere. If you haven't seen one, you are missing a treat. See your gas range dealer now and select one for YOUR kitchen. You'll never regret it.

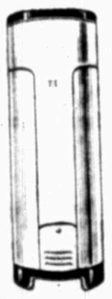

Servel gas refrigerators have all the worthwhile conveniences you want. The gas refrigerator has no moving parts in its freezing system. Nothing to cause noise or wear even after years of service. The operating cost is amazingly low.

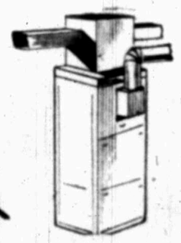

Install a truly modern water heater . . . one that will provide all the hot water you want, for all your needs. Of course that means an automatic GAS water heater. You can not beat it for efficiency, dependability AND low operating cost.

When you install new gas heating equipment, install the very best you can possibly afford. Remember that nothing is more important to the comfort and health of your family than good heating equipment. Remember too that such equipment will be in service for many years. For the best in heating, we recommend the central forced-air gas furnace, with automatic controls. Such a furnace is worth more than its cost, in health and comfort.

Seed Test Favorable

John E. Smith, who farms some eight miles east of Floydada, averaged 27 bushels of Mida wheat on a 40-acre planting. The seeds came from South Dakota and Smith wanted to try them. He found the variety highly rust resistant. Smith doesn't consider a one-year test enough and will try it again next year.

Robin Byars, Pleasant Valley community, tried Hubam clover in his growing wheat as a means of keeping nitrogen in the soil. He finds it boosts the yield and he will also harvest a crop of clover seed for later plantings.

Will Build Up Soil

BOB GIBSON, Floyd county agent, says it is time now for irrigation farmers to begin planting winter legumes in cotton, sorghum and fallowed wheat land. This will build up the soil for next year's crops. Gibson says, and will also help protect the land from strong winds. Another advantage is provided in grazing for livestock.

Gibson says he has plenty of examples where sorghum, following a legume planting, has had an increased yield of from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds per acre.

Test Tube Baby Battle Is Over

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 6 (AP)—A four-year battle centered around a "test tube" baby ended happily for Mrs. Julie Strnad in district court here yesterday.

Judge Clarence Mills granted Mrs. Strnad, 32, custody of six-year-old Antoinette in granting her a final divorce decree from Antoine Strnad, New York. She charged cruelty.

The fight over the child began in New York and was carried to Europe.

The couple was married Dec. 28, 1941. Mrs. Strnad said after she learned her husband was incapable of becoming a father she submitted to artificial insemination and became pregnant.

Child Taken To Europe

She said she did so with his permission.

She charged her husband became jealous and later took the child to Czechoslovakia. She and a brother then flew to Europe. They found the daughter in Prague and escaped with her to Austria and then returned to New York.

"I'm so glad it's all over," Mrs. Strnad said as she hugged her pretty blonde daughter.

The past year Mrs. Strnad has made her home with relatives. She is employed as a cashier in a cafeteria at Tinker Air Force base.

Family In West Virginia Owns And Operates Soft Coal Mine

PINEY VIEW, W. V., Aug. 6 (AP)—A family mining operation, representing more than 150 years of experience, produces an average of 50 tons of soft coal daily in this little southern West Virginia community. It's run by Wilson Smith and his seven sons—Jack, Orville, George, Russell, Lawrence, James and Earl.

Although joint owners and operators, they are members of Local Union 5878 of the United Mine Workers and abide by the work-hour regulations of the Union.

The elder Smith has spent 48 of his 67 years in West Virginia mines. The service of his sons, ranging in age from 45 to 25, make up the balance of more than a century and one-half of experience.

Patrolman Halts Two Fleeing Youths With Only One Shot

DETROIT, Aug. 6 (AP)—Patrolman Carl Byers, knocked down in a sidewalk struggle, wounded two youths in the leg late yesterday with a single bullet.

Then he rushed forward and captured the pair, together with a third youth, single-handed.

Byers confronted the youths after two girls complained they had been accosted. The youths tried to fight it out. Byers fired at the ground and the bullet ricocheted, hitting the lower legs of two of them.

THE QUESTION

Why do you want to be a farmer?

THE ANSWERS

MARLIN FERGUSON, Lorenzo route 1: "I think I'd like it better than living in town and working in an office and going to work and quitting at certain times. On a farm, when you can get through plowing or something else that needs to be done you can be off for awhile. You are not tied down all the time."

MELVIN FREEMAN, north of Seagraves: "I'm going to be a farmer so I won't have to be traveling from town to town to find a job. You always have a job on the farm. You can make a better living on the farm than you can in the city."

CLIFFORD HARTSELL, Levelland route 1: "You can raise pigs and cows and have your own milk and eggs and meat and other things. I'll be strong and healthy if I live on a farm. I like sunshine and like to be outdoors."

CARLTON TANNER, Morton: "There's more to do on a farm and a lot better things to do. You can raise hogs and chickens and cows and you can't in town. If you have a good crop, you can get tractors and things and buy a lot of land and retire if you want to."

Because of indiscriminate killing of partridges for the market, Britain's Cornwall County Council has ordered them protected.

WYLIE HODGE, Morton Star route 2: "Cause I like farming better than anything else. I have lived on a farm all my life. I know what it's like and I just like it."

J. W. HUBBARD, Seagraves route 1: "Life on the farm is the happiest life ever lived. These town boys don't know what pretty crops are until they get on a tractor."

Negro Serving Prison Term For Forgery Of Government Checks

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 6 (AP)—A 25-year-old negro who says he cannot read or write is serving a prison term for forgery.

The negro, Lewis West, was sentenced to one year and 11 months in federal prison yesterday by Federal Judge John W. Holland. He pleaded guilty to forging endorsements on four government checks totaling $100.

Secret service agents said West simple marked an "X" on the backs of checks which he told them he obtained from a mail box at the address where he lived.

He then persuaded neighborhood merchants to cash the checks for him by telling them he was unable to read or write, the agents said.

Los Angeles Given Giant Clothespin

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 (AP)—The city of roses has paid tribute to the city of noses.

Portland, which prides itself on its sweet-scented Oregon air, yesterday sent to smog-bound Los Angeles, the home of unhappy nostrils, by air express—one clothespin, four feet long.

The gift bore a tag "to fumes-suffering Angelenos," referring to the extra-acrid odors which hit the city two days ago. It was, naturally, a gesture from one chamber of commerce to another.

First to use the giant clothespin was U. S. weather forecaster John Aldrich.

"'Sno use," he gasped. "Still smell it."

Crow Used To Study Learning Process

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Aug. 6 (AP)—A psychologist is trying to find out exactly how babies learn to talk by making extensive examinations of George M. Crowham, a talking crow.

Dr. O. M. Mowrer of the University of Illinois said he hopes to use Crowham as a "connecting link" between humans and animals. He believes the process by which the bird picked up his ten-word vocabulary is the same by which a child learns.

Crowham was educated by David Maxfield, 17-year-old Edwardsville, Ill., youth. When Maxfield decided to part with the bird, he gave it to Mowrer for tests.

Mowrer said most animals used for laboratory experiments "seem incapable of learning to say a single word." Some birds, however, can reproduce human speech and "at least in limited measure meaningfully use and understand it," he added.

Oscar Duryea, Former Dance Master, Still Active At Convention Of Group In Capital

BY HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 — Oscar Duryea spent the first 16 years of his life on the sidelines—as a wallflower.

"Nobody wanted to dance with a clumsy little shrimp who weighed less than his shadow and who was only five feet high," he said.

The little man grew seven more inches and became one of the most celebrated dance masters in a couple of generations.

Duryea now is 78. He looks it, but he doesn't act it. He sat down with me at a bacon and eggs breakfast at the Shoreham hotel where the dance masters of America are holding their convention. To the amazement of a roomful of people he got up and did a buck and wing, a spot of jittering and his interpretation of the old-time cotillion.

Man Sprains Ankle

"I'm a little handicapped at this point," the old man said. "I sprained my ankle getting off the train coming here. You should have seen me 60 years ago."

Indeed, professional dancers from all over gathered in New York recently to honor Duryea on his 60th anniversary as a teacher.

Dancing was sissy stuff to young Oscar back before the turn of the century. He would much rather knuckle down to a game of "migs" or fight the kid in the next alley than take dancing lessons. He finally gave in. His dad, who ran a couple of summer hotels in New Jersey, sent him to Lawrence E. Dare, German ballet master for the Metropolitan opera company.

Dare eventually made the young man his assistant.

"I took on the young ones who didn't have any rhythm," Duryea said. "I didn't have any either, but they didn't know it. I got $2.50 a week and my sister got $2 for playing the piano."

Claims Fox Trot

Duryea claims credit — at least in part — for the fox trot. He thought it was sensible to combine the "walk" with the two-step. He taught it in his classes and it caught on. Along about 1913.

"Never made a dime out of it," he said.

Duryea was coming along fine in his teaching when Dare buzzed him one day and said he had been called out of town, and would Oscar take over his classes in Red Bank?

As a sop he loaned the young man, then 21 and looking like a teener, his high silk hat and greatcoat — standard equipment for a dance master. The kid went to the hall where classes were held and checked his finery. He went out for a cup of coffee, when he returned the class, composed of 80 or so high school kids, was playing football with his borrowed silk hat. It was a kicked-in mess. Worse, he got all mixed up in trying to teach the Saratoga Lancers, the forerunner of the square dance. He had the girls on the wrong side in the performance and half the class resigned.

Gets Eye Blacked

Dare was not happy.

Times got better. A prominent family which had sponsored Duryea's dancing lessons in the old St. Regis hotel in New York, hired him to be a silent partner in planning a "coming out" party for a son. Oscar's job was to teach the young man to lead the cotillion, a change-of-partner dance then the rage. It was to be a Christmas Eve affair.

The night before — dress rehearsal time — Oscar was sitting in the lobby waiting for the bigshots to call him to their suite. A reporter friend came along and began snooping. Next morning the papers had a front page story of how the family had hired Duryea to dress up in a Santa Claus costume and follow the dumb scion around to give him a jab in case he got out of step.

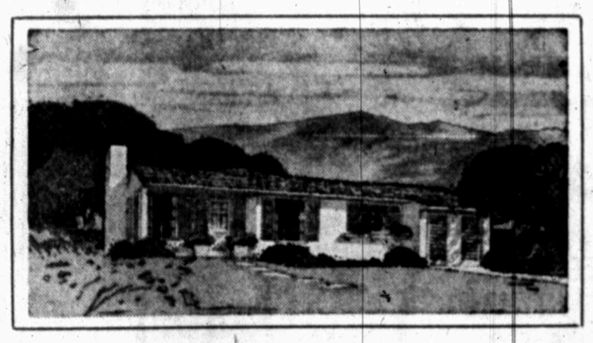

Mama matron was so mad she called off the party. She also fired Oscar. And the son, who had better balance with his fists than with his feet, did something awful to the dance master's left eye.

Bible Conference To Be Held Here

The second annual Western States Bible conference of the Progressive Primitive Baptist church will be held here Wednesday through Friday in the First Cumberland Presbyterian church building, Tenth and Ave. O.

The three-day conference will get underway at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday with a song and prayer service, to be followed at 10 a. m. with the address of welcome on behalf of the Lubbock church by Elder M. L. Welch, pastor. Mayor W. H. Rodgers will welcome delegates on behalf of the city.

The keynote address is to be given at 10:50 a. m. by H. R. Justice of Calcis, Ala., with a conclusion by W. H. Osborn, conference chairman.

Program Is Given

At 2 p. m. Wednesday the afternoon session will begin. An address on Salvation in all its various phases is to be given by Elder W. C. Chandler of Savanah, Ga.

At the Wednesday night service, scheduled for 7 p. m., Elder Gene Hurst of Greencastle, Ind., will speak on "The Love of God," after which T. W. Osborne, of Jeffersonville, Ky. is to address the delegates on "The Harvest."

A devotional service at 9:30 a.m. Thursday will begin the second day of the conference. Principal speakers at this session will include Elder Burton L. Nay, of Cedar Falls, Ia., who has chosen as his topic, "The Work of the Holy Spirit," and Elder J. H. Keaton, of Huntington, W. Va., who is to speak on "The Gospel of Jesus Christ."

Florida Man To Speak

Thursday's afternoon session, set to begin at 2 p. m., will begin with a song and prayer service, after which "Bible Study and Church Activity" will be discussed by Elder J. Hartly Chapman, of Valdosa, Ga. at 3:20 p. m., the moderator of the session will give opportunity for Christ membership.

Principal speakers at the 7 p.m. Thursday conference session include Elder R. B. Brantley, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Elder M. L. Welch, pastor of the Lubbock church. Their topics, respectively, are "The Organic Church" and "Fishers of Men."

Discussion Is Set

At the Friday morning session, Elder G. S. Justice, of Bon Air, Ala., will address the conference delegates on "The Fellowship of Christ and Saints." His address is to be followed with "The Worship of God," by Elder Lloyd Sapp, of Ashland, Mo. Songs and public discussions will occupy the latter part of the morning service.

The Friday afternoon conference session will be highlighted by talks on "Heavens Blessings" by Elder John D. Durden, of Swainsbor, Ga., and "Feeding the Flock" by Elder W. C. Wallace, of Ripley, Miss.

The concluding session of the Western States Bible conference is to begin at 7 p. m. Friday. "Gifts to the Church" will be discussed by Elder W. L. Barrett, of Uvalde. Elder J. Walter Hendrix of Savanah, Ga., will speak on "The Work of the Ministry."

Officers and workers in the Western States Bible conference include Elder W. H. Osborn, chairman; Elder M. L. Welch, vice chairman; Elder Z. C. Hull, secretary; Roy Matthews, song leader; Mrs. Bessie Kemp, pianist.

INTRODUCING LUBBOCK'S MINISTERS — Rev. Floyd Dawson, pastor of First Foursquare church, came to Lubbock in January, 1932, from Los Angeles, where he had attended the L. I. F. E. Bible college. He and Mrs. Dawson organized the Foursquare church in Lubbock shortly after their arrival here. The first church structure, a small frame building, was located at 1010 Ave. Q. The church moved to its present location at Eighth and Ave. Q in 1939. The building has been remodelled and enlarged since that time to accommodate the growing congregation, which numbers almost 200 active members at the present time. Rev. and Mrs. Dawson and the congregation of the First Foursquare church helped organize the Foursquare chapel at 922 Thirty-fourth several years ago. Rev. and Mrs. Dawson, both of whom are native Texans, have three sons, Thomas E. Dawson of Los Angeles, Robert Dawson of Lubbock, and Fred Dawson, student in a Los Angeles Bible college; and one daughter, Floydean, of Lubbock.

NEW CHURCH STRUCTURE—The building above, formerly a barn, has been remodeled and now serves as the new sanctuary for the Lubbock View Christian church congregation. The church was organized this year. The congregation will worship in the church for the first time today.

Lubbock View Christian Church Members To Worship In New Building For First Time

A remodeled barn at Thirty-fourth and Harrison Ave., is the new sanctuary of the Lubbock View Christian church, which was organized early this year.

Members of the church congregation will worship today for the first time in their church structure. From the time of their organization until now they have worshipped in the educational unit of the First Christian church. Final work on the barn, which is to serve as church home for the Lubbock View congregation until a permanent church structure is built, were completed within the past few days.

Includes Nursery Study

The renovated church structure contains, besides a sanctuary, a modern nursery and a pastor's study. A parsonage is now under construction adjacent to the church building.

The Lubbock View Christian church, an outgrowth of the First Christian church, was organized after a survey conducted over the city revealed the need for a Christian church in the southwest part of the city.

When it was determined that a church was necessary in southwest Lubbock, a group of people who were interested in becoming members of the church met in April, and under the guidance of Rev. Travis White, pastor of First Christian church, temporary comporary committees were set up. Shortly afterward, the property on Thirty-fourth street was purchased.

Pastor To Move Here

Rev. Harry Purviance is now serving as student pastor of the church, coming to Lubbock each weekend from Fort Worth, where he is attending Texas Christian university. He and Mrs. Purviance will move to Lubbock late this month after he receives his Bachelor of Divinity degree from T. C. U., at which time he will assume the regular ministry of the church.

Charter membership in the new church was closed on July 1, at which time a total of 136 members were on the church rolls. Forty-nine families are represented.

The official church board was elected by the membership June 26. Officers of the board include: Dave N. Leaverton, jr., chairman; O. A. Terry, vice chairman; L. O. Armstrong, secretary; Wesley Dunlap, financial secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Frank Haden, historian.

Permanent committees which have been named by the congregation, and chairman of each committee, are: Worship, Floyd Read, jr., chairman; evangelism, John T. Howell, jr., education, Ronald H. Canaday; membership, Odis L. Hackney; stewardship, Frank H. Haden; and building and property, Elliott Taylor.

During the month of August, congregations of Lubbock View and First Christian churches will meet together for evening worship at First Christian church. Morning worship services will be held at their respective churches.

Shepherd King Lutheran Church To Conduct Services Tonight

For the second consecutive Sunday, the worship service at Shepherd King American Lutheran church will be held at 8 p. m. today instead of at the usual morning hour.

The worship service will be conducted by the Rev. Clarence Ehler, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church of Wilson, in the absence of Rev. David V. Sieberg, pastor, who is vacationing in West Virginia and Ohio.

Rev. Sieberg is to return to his pastorate this week.

The Sunday school classes of the church will be held today at 9:30 a. m. Arnold Macker will teach the pastor's Adult class.

First Presbyterian Church Workers At Training Camp

A number of laymen and church workers of the First Presbyterian church of Lubbock currently are at the Presbyterian Mo-Ranch at Hunt for special training and work.

The Mo-Ranch is directed and operated by the Presbyterian synod of Texas.

Mrs. Otto Fredericks and Mrs. F. L. McRee are receiving training in women's work of the Presbyterian church, and are to return to Lubbock Wednesday.

Miss Hadena Hester, Mrs. Guy Brown and Mrs. Jack Hall are attending a weekend business women's training conference there. They are to return Monday.

Rev. McBrayer Guest Speaker At Revival

Rev. T. Marvin McBrayer, pastor of the Dalhart Methodist church, is guest minister at the summer revival services at the Wolfforth Methodist church.

He is the father of Rev. O. A. McBrayer, pastor of the Wolfforth Methodist church.

The revival series began Friday and will continue through Sunday, Aug. 14. Evening services are held nightly at 8:30 o'clock. Morning services will be held, beginning Monday, at 10:30 a. m. each day this week.

The public is invited to attend the services.

Paul Sherrod To Talk On Missionary, Relief Work In Germany

Paul Sherrod, an elder in the Broadway Church of Christ, who returned last week from Frankfurt, Germany, will speak tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the church on the teaching activities of the missionaries and relief work now being done by the Church of Christ in the Frankfurt area.

Sherrod spent six weeks this summer in the Frankfurt area working with the missionaries of the Church of Christ and the congregations which have been established there.

Made Visit To Area

In 1946, Sherrod and Otis Gatewood, who now is one of the missionaries in Frankfort, and whose work is supported by the Broadway Church of Christ, made a three-month inspection tour of Germany to investigate the possibility of doing mission work there.

Gatewood has been in Germany for the past two years. The Churches of Christ in the United States now are supporting 22 missionaries engaged in teaching, preaching, and relief work in the Frankfurt vicinity. Four congregations have been established and a total of 577 persons have been baptized as a result of this work. A number of German young men who have been converted now are in the United States receiving ministerial training for future work in their native country.

Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of the Broadway Church of Christ of Lubbock, recently spent two weeks in Frankfurt and conducted a revival meeting at the University of Frankfurt. Dr. Young currently is on a European tour.

The public is invited to attend tonight's meeting to hear Sherrod.

McAllen Pastor Will Speak Here Today

Rev. Hubert H. Hopper, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of McAllen, will speak at 10:57 a. m. today at the morning worship service of First Presbyterian church.

He will fill the pulpit in the absence of Rev. J. M. Lewis, pastor, who is vacationing in New Mexico.

Rev. Hopper, a native of Lubbock, has chosen as his sermon topic, "The Grace Wherein We Stand."

Served At Midland

He and his family currently are visiting his mother, Mrs. R. E. Overstreet, of 2106 Fifteenth.

Rev. Hopper's first pastorate was in Houston. He later served as assistant pastor of the large Highland Park Presbyterian church. He assumed the pastorate of the Midland First Presbyterian church about eight years ago. During his stay there, plans were first formulated for the new church building which was recently dedicated. He has served as pastor of the McAllen church for the past two years. A new church structure currently is being built there.

At this evening's worship service at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. Wm. F. Rogan, diretor of Presbyterian student work, will speak on "What Presbyterians Believe."

CHURCH Briefs

W. L. Hester, member of the Westminster Presbyterian church, will speak on "Texas Presbyterian Institutions" at today's 11 a. m. worship service there. He will fill the pulpit in place of Rev. David L. Zacharias, pastor, who is out of the city.

Mrs. Barbara Moore-Pataleewa, 46, of London, who says she has learned how, will publish a book called "How to be Young at 150."

Plans For Methodist Camp Are Completed

Plans for the Children's Workers camp to be conducted Aug. 15-19 at Ceta canyon near Happy have been announced by Mrs. Uel D. Crosby of Lubbock, director of children's work in the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist church.

The camp will be conducted for pastors, children's division superintendents and teachers, secretaries, of children's work in the Woman's Society of Christian Service and parents.

Those attending will observe while trained teachers teach laboratory classes for different age groups.

Teachers will be Mrs. John English, Clarendon, kindergarten; Mrs. Paul Eppler, Coahoma, and Mrs. H. W. Gaston, Moran.

Dr. Ruth Lowe, professor of elementary education at West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon, will give a series of discussions on learning to understand children.

Worship and recreational programs will be conducted. Meals will be served in the camp dining room.

Area Deaf Residents To Meet Here Today

Rev. Carter Bearden, deaf minister of Austin, today will meet with deaf people of this area in an all-day meeting at Thirty-fourth Street Baptist chapel, Thirty-fourth and Adams Ave.

The all-day session is to begin with Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. Morning worship service will follow, and lunch will be served at noon. Following afternoon activities at the chapel, dinner will be served tonight.

Rev. Bearden is to meet with the deaf of the Lubbock area each night this week. A time for the nightly meetings will be announced later. He will conclude his visit here Friday night.

Missionary To Japan To Speak At Open-Air Meeting Tonight

Rev. Joe R. Gooden, missionary to Japan, will speak tonight at an open-air worship service sponsored by Temple Baptist church, which is to be held at the corner of North Fifth and Adams Ave.

Rev. and Mrs. Gooden and their daughter, Janis Ruth, originally had planned to sail for China last month, but because of increased Communist activity in that country, they were refused passports by the Department of State. They will depart for Japan in the near future.

Rev. Gooden received his training at Denver Bible Institute and the University of Denver. The family is visiting here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Gooden.

Refugee Tells Of His Escape

EDIRNA, Turky, Aug. 6 (U.P.)—Vasil Mavrodia is a 20-year-old Bulgarian farmer with a bewildered and frightened look on his face who has just managed to escape across one of the most fightly-guarded borders in the world, from Bulgaria to Turkey.

Dressed in brown woolen narrow-legged peasant trousers, a wide red and white striped sash and a black and white checked shirt, Mavrodia sat in a Turkish prison cell here and told how and why he ran away from his little native village of Arapli in Elhova province, 18 miles from the Turkish border.

"The trouble began when my uncle gave me a white ballot to cast against the Communist government in the May elections," he said. "My uncle is a religious man and has more education than I. I only went to school six years.

Land Confiscated

"My uncle was always talking against the Communists and said they were ruining our country. I listened to him because I was angry, too. My father owner 130 dekars of land but the Communists say now he must give 80 or 90 dekars for the kolhoz (collective). They are taking the best part of our farm and leaving the worst. And for a family of six we must have at least 70 dekars of good land even for a bare living.

"So when my uncle gave me the white ballot I was angry enough to put it in the box. But the Communists noted all the names of those who cast white ballots and a few days later the police came to visit us. They asked me why I gave the white vote. They only beat me a little but they beat my uncle much more.

"A few days later he tried to escape into Turkey and was caught. They took him away somewhere. Then I became afraid and decided I would try to escape, too. It was best to go to Turkey because it was near and my uncle said he had heard on the foreign radio that Turkey would accept refugees.

Others Caught

"The village watchman wanted to escape, too, and another man, so the three of us set out together at sunset on June 4. The watchman had his watchman's gun. But when we were going through the forest we were suddenly surrounded by six soldiers on horses. They took the watchman's gun and sent one of the soldiers to guard us and take us to prison.

"It was still dark and when we were going through a thick part of the forest I escaped again. The soldier shot at me but he could not follow because of his other two prisoners. I don't know what happened to them.

"I kept going in the direction I thought was Turkey. The next morning some Turkish soldiers caught me and I knew I was across the boundary."

Call Him Lucky

Turkish police say Mavrodia is extremely lucky. The Bulgarians patrol their boundary so well and have set up such elaborate safeguards that almost every would-be escapee is caught.

In addition to patrols, every villager and peasant in the border region is required to report to the police twice daily, when he goes to his fields to work and when he returns. A villager is punished even for failing to report any missing member of his group at night.

The Turks say Mavrodia will be assigned to live with some Turkish-Bulgarians for several weeks before he will be free to live in Turkey, since Turkish authorities make every safeguard against spies.

Actress Esther Williams Gives Birth To First Child

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP)—A son was born today to Esther Williams, swimmer and film actress and wife of radio actor Ben Gage.

EGG OR EGGS?

TACOMA, Wash. (U.P.) — Emil Brazil didn't know whether to call it an "egg" or "eggs." His tiny bantam hen laid a double quota. There were two distinct egg-shaped objects, fastened together by a tiny shell tube.

Commuter Sends 80,000-Word Complaint On Train Service

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (U.P.) — Bruce D. Cheadle of suburban Lockport is a commuter who doesn't believe in being meek.

He presented an 80,000-word complaint to the Illinois Commerce Commission on the quality of service provided by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad.

It included eight pictures purporting to show burned and uncomfortable train seats, unclean washrooms and dirty passenger cars.

Cheadle said the train service caused him to be 23 minutes late for an important business appointment. The remainder of his long complaint cited other instances when he was inconvenienced by poor commuting service.

SWEETENED UP

INDIANAPOLIS (U.P.) — Vandals who broke into a grade school here took only a few pencils. But they covered the principal's desk with a layer of sugar and grass seed.

President Of Nudists Holding Meet Near Denver Reports "Flood" Of Applications

DENVER, Aug. 6. (AP)—The boss nudist at a camp near here said today he's received a flood of phone calls from folk who want to take nature in the raw.

John Garrison, president of the National Sunbathers' association, says most of the people don't realize that "you don't become a nudist overnight."

Apparently it involves much more than twiddling a few buttons.

"Before you can join any nudist group your past is pretty thoroughly checked," the portly Garrison says. "It's a long process. We don't want any crackpots. You must be passed by a committee.

Most Wear Shoes

"Of course we realize that some of the phone calls we've gotten in the past few days are from jokers. But other are sincere. I suppose they're beginning to realize that sunshine really does bring health."

The sunbathers' camp is set up about 25 miles southwest of here on a site cluttered with knife-edged drifts of rock. Most of the group wear shoes and some use sun-visors. The only thing remotely resembling a breech clout is owned by an elderly Canadian who traveled 1,600 miles to attend the camp. He brought his cello with him and wears a pad on his stomach to keep the cello from burning.

When the nudists attend camp movies at night they wear clothing in deference to the chill mountain breezes. "And of course there's no sun at night," they explain.

Californian Rebels

She was quoted in an interview with a Rocky Mountain news reporter as saying:

"I don't mind stripping to take a sun bath. But the folks here aren't consistent. They insist they're running around without their clothes in order to get healthy—or to stay healthy.

"Okay, why don't they quit smoking? And why don't they eat right? Most of them are eating out of cans and the food in the kitchens isn't so hot, either."

Meantime, she has not indicated she will cut short her stay at the camp.

Practical Joke Carried Too Far, Illinois Man Asserts

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 6 (U.P.)—A practical joke can be carried too far, Art Budds says.

Budds said he had ordered none of the articles. Delivery men told him someone who gave the name of John Roberts ordered them by phone. Budds knows no one by that name.

One Of Australia's Richest Men Is Claimed By Death

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 6 (AP)—William George Magrath, 93, reputedly one of Australia's richest men, died today at his home at Emu Plains, 40 miles from Sydney.

Magrath was the largest landholder in New South Wales and Queensland states. His holdings total close to 1,000,000 acres. He recently said his 1948 income was 80,000 Australian pounds. (About $258,000).

Locations For Three Wildcats Are Staked In Dawson, Gaines And Garza Counties; Test Slated For Flanagan Field Outpost

Locations for three wildcats were staked during the past week on the South Plains, one each in Dawson, Gaines and Garza counties.

Three and one-half miles northeast of Lamesa, Seaboard Oil company of Delaware is due to start drilling soon on its No. 1 Mart Barrow. This wildcat will go to 10,000 feet.

It is scheduled to explore the Pennsylvanian lime. Drillsite will be 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 8, block 35, TP survey, T-6-N.

This exploration is about 11 miles northwest of the Spraberry field of Southeast Dawson county. That pool produces from the San Andres-Permian above 5,000 feet and the Spraberry sandy lime of the lower Permian above 7,000 feet.

Permit Is Asked

Paul F. Rutledge of Dallas, has filed application with the Railroad Commission of Texas, requesting a permit to start drilling at once on his No. 1 Alfred Bouton, wildcat in West-Central Gaines county.

The venture is projected to 5,200 feet to explore into the San Andres-Permian lime.

It is approximately one mile south of the nearest completed oil wells in the West Seminole field, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 356, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey. That makes it 10 miles west of Seminole. Rotary tools will be used.

The other wildcat, P. W. Anderson of Midland, and associates, No. 1-A. R. Clyde Miller, is to test the upper Permian at 2,500 feet, using rotary tools.

It is 440 feet from north and east lines of the Southwest quarter of section 41, block 6, H&GN survey, and five miles southwest of Justiceburg in the southeast section of Garza county.

Enters Clear Fork

Slick-Moorman Oil company and C. W. Chancellor No. 1 Cloud, North-Central Lubbock county wildcat to 6,200 feet to test the Tubb zone of the lower Permian, had reached 5,396 feet in the Clear Fork-Permian lime, and was drilling ahead.

It entered the Clear Fork at 5,150 feet, one an elevation of 3,293 feet. According to some geologists that made it four feet high on that marker to the same point in Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 1 Cravens, the lone producer from the lower Permian in the Cravens field.

No. 1 Cloud is three-eighths of a mile southeast of the Cravens well, and 10 miles north and two miles west of Lubbock.

On the top of the Glorieta it was 12 feet low to the Cravens. The thinning of 16 feet between the top of the Glorieta and the top of the Clear Fork is an encouraging development, interested observers say.

Making More Hole

The Commanche corporation No. 1-A Garza Deep-Montgomery & Davies, deep wildcat adjacent to the town of Post in Central Garza county, had reached 8,119 feet in lime, shale, and chert, and sand, and was making more hole.

So far as has been reported it has not found any signs of possible production since drilling through the Garza field pay in the San Andres-Permian lime above 3,000 feet. It showed for a well from that zone.

It is located 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of the northwest quarter of section 5, block 5, K. Aycock survey. It is adjacent to wells which have been completed from the 3,000-foot pay horizon.

In Southwest Terry county, Tidewater Associated Oil company, and others, No. 1 J. P. Nystel, slated 12,000-foot wildcat, had spudded to 300 feet in red beds.

It cemented a string of 13 3/8th-inch casing on bottom, and as soon as the plug cures will drill out and bore ahead.

Five-eighths of a mile north of the discovery well of the Flanagan field in South-Central Gaines county, Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 Andrews developed salty, sulphur water in the Devonian and is going to around 12,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

Drillstem Test Run

This venture ran a 45-minute drillstem test in the Devonian at 10,338-420 feet. There was a good blow of air at the surface throughout the period.

"Recovery was 2,7 barrels of mud-cut salty, black sulphur water. No signs of oil or gas were developed.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was between 185 pounds and 550 pounds. After a 15-minute shutin, the bottom hole pressure registered 4,385 pounds.

It is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block A-23, psl survey, and about 11 miles south and slightly west of Seminole.

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Flanagan, east outpost to the discovery well of the Flanagan-Ellenburger field, and the second exploration in that region to reach the deep section, was still bottomed at 12,255 feet. It has a string of casing cemented on bottom.

Operator has been squeezing large amounts of extra cement back of the pipe in the zones above the top of the Ellenburger at 12,240 feet.

Will Be Perforated

When that activity is satisfactorily completed, the 12,240-255-foot zone will be perforated and tested and the development will then likely be drilled deeper to check the full thickness of the pay zone in the deep horizon. It is expected to be completed as a producer.

The venture is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 9, block A-23, psl survey.

Magnolia No. 2 Flanagan, on the southeast side of the Flanagan field, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 9, block A-23, psl survey, had plugged back from 7,244 feet in the Clear Fork-Permian, to 7,222 feet.

It is testing the section between 7,170 feet and 7,222 feet. The last swabbing reported recovered 26 barrels of new oil, and no water, in four hours.

Swabbing was continuing with 3,000 feet of free oil in the hole. This project is due to be completed soon as an oil well from the Clear Fork.

It was originally started to test to about 12,300 feet to explore the Ellenburger — but that objective was abandoned when it ran low, structurally, on the lower Permian markers.

May Reach 14,000

Forrest Oil corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation No. 1-A Parmer county fee, southeast Gaines county wildcat about 15 miles southeast of Seminole, was making more hole below 5,250 feet in lime.

It is due to go to 14,000 feet, if necessary, to explore the Ellenburger.

Samedan Oil corporation and Anderson Brothers No. 1-E-A Andrews, Ellenburger wildcat in the Robertson field of south-central Gaines county, about 15 miles south of Seminole, had reached 5,715 feet in lime and was boring deeper. It is contracted to 12,500 feet.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 191, block A-24, psl survey.

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Masten, deep wildcat in Southwest Cochran county, 14 miles southwest of Morton, has proved a disappointment, and has been plugged and abandoned as a dry hole.

It found no indications of possible production in drilling to total depth of 10,788 feet, in an unidentified lime.

There was a zone at 9,000-192 feet, which showed slight signs of petroleum on an electric log survey.

That horizon was checked by a drillstem test. The only recovery, during a 65-minute investigation, was 370 feet of drilling mud, with no sign of oil or gas.

The deep prospector was located 660 feet from north and west lines of labor 18, league 135, Armstrong County School Land survey.

Well Is Completed

The Atlantic Refining company No. 1-C Masten, located at the center of the northwest quarter of labor 18, league 133, Armstrong county school land survey, and a stepout from production on the west side of the Levelland field, in South-Central Cochran county, has been completed as a small pumper from pay section between 4,985 feet and the total depth at 5,093 feet, in the San Andras-Permian lime.

The well made 89.61 barrels of oil, plus 48 per cent water, on a 24-hour completion test. Gas-oil ratio was 227-1 and the gravity of the oil was 31.8 degrees.

In the Landon area of South-Central Cochran county, Stanolind Oil & Gas company was drilling ahead at two explorations which are trying to reach and test the Devonian, the deepest zone which has shown for production in that region.

Stanolind No. 2 Holt, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 3, block L, psl survey, had progressed below 11,385 feet in an unidentified formation, and was boring ahead.

This venture is reported to be extra low, geologically, and is being carried on down to see what it can develop.

Stanolind No. 1 Grollman, 660 feet from west and 407 feet from south lines of section 4, block L, psl survey, and the second Landon Deep-project, had penetrated below 8,952 feet in lime and shale, and was going deeper.

To Cement Casing

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 2 Hinson, second venture to be undertaken in the Mound Lake region of Northeast Terry county, about 10 miles northeast of Brownfield, and 660 feet from south and west lines of the northwest quarter of section 91, block 4-X, EL & RR survey, had drilled to 4,400 feet in lime and anhydrite, and was to set and cement a string of 9 5/8th-inch intermediate casting at that point, before it digs deeper.

This venture is due to go to about 10,000 feet to try to develop production from the Pennsylvanian lime which was found to carry oil in the same concern's No. 1 Hinson, the Mound Lake field discovery.

Union Oil company of California No. 1 Lindsey, wildcat in Southwest Terry county, 11 miles southwest of Brownfield, and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 11, block C-26, psl survey, drilled to 5,153 feet in the San Andres-Permian lime and failed to find any oil or gas. It has been plugged and abandoned as a dry hole.

Sinclair Oil & Gas company was deepening toward 10,000 feet to test the Northwest Borden county Ellenburger with four outposts to its No. 1 Williams, discovery 11 miles northwest of Gail.

Drilling Is Continued

The Company's No. 1 Pratt, was below 5,530 feet in lime and shale. It is about one mile west and slightly south of the discovery, 660 feet from east and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 44, block 32, T-6-N, TP survey.

Sinclair No. 1 Reynolds, one and one-half miles to the north and slightly west of the strike, was boring at 4,955 feet in lime.

It is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 33, block 32, T-6-N, EL & RR survey.

Drilling at Sinclair's No. 1 Turner was below 4,848 feet in lime. It is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 46, block 32, T-6-N, EL & RR survey.

Another outpost, Sinclair No. 1 Bryan was at a total depth of 3,585 feet in lime and anhydrite. It was waiting on cement to cure after 9 5/8 inch casing had been set on bottom.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 40, block, 32 T-6-N, TP survey.

Shut For Repairs

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware and Pan American Production companys No. 4 Good, outpost to the Good field in South Borden county, was making more hole and was under 5,497 feet.

It is 1,988.1 feet from west and 780 feet from north lines of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey.

Another Good field outpost, Seaboard and Pan American No. 5 Good, 660 feet from west and 660.5 feet from south lines of the northwest quarter of section 37, block 33, T-4-N TP survey, was boring below 6,136 feet.

Barnsdall Oil company No. 1 Billie Williams, in Central Lynn county, was shut down for repairs after reaching 10,219 feet in lime and chert. The wild cat is located four and one-half miles southwest of Tahoka.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block 8, EL&RR survey.

Gulf Oil corporation staked as its No. 12-T E. K. Hufstedler, a 6,025-foot rotary project in the Southwest Hale county sector of the Anton-Irish field, five miles east of Anton.

It is 3,042 feet from north and 1,880 feet from east lines of section 16, block DT, HE&WT survey.

Exhausted Deer Revived With Oxygen After Swim In Ocean

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 (U.P.) — Pure oxygen, used occasionally to bring humans out of fatigue and sometimes hangovers, found a new use when lifeguards administered it to an exhausted 150-pound deer.

The men watched the three-pointed buck fight a pounding ocean surf for more than two hours to swim ashore. They were ready with portable oxygen equipment when the animal fell, too weak to stand, on the beach.

The buck revived after about a half-hour's treatment and was turned over to the humane society.

It was believed dogs may have chased the deer, causing it to swim out to sea for safety.

Women Grapplers Say Bouts Give Them "Honest Living"

By W. J. BOYLE
United Press Staff Writer

VIENNA, Aug. 6.—Husky, dark-haired Christl Engel, one of the top "wrestlers" in the Vienna international women's tournament, said she preferred "to have my body bruised than sell it."

The female bone-crusher, one of half a dozen who have church and public moral leaders screaming with their weekly exhibitions, was explaining in her simple way how she entered the grunt and groan business.

"What else am I to do?" Christl asked with a shrug of her well-muscled shoulders. "I am an actress, but today actresses in Vienna literally are starving. I am willing to do any kind of honest work and have tried as a waitress. But I have a sick mother and a little brother at school. I could not earn enough money."

Christl, whose father died in the last war, was answering charges made by Nora Hiltl, leader of public reaction against the women wrestlers.

Hiltl charged wrestling had nothing to do with culture and civilization, and Vienna, the center of both, reacted violently. Young boys, members of a Catholic group, invaded the circus tent where the girls maul each other and hurled ammonia and stink bombs into the ring.

Actress Engel, defending herself and her fellow "internationals" in the tournament, pointed out she could not earn a "decent living" in cabarets, dance halls or on the stage in the Austrian capital today.

"All the manager of such enterprises demand that following the show I 'keep company' with any man in the audience who so desires, and could pay a price.

"So when I realized I had to become a prostitute to stay in show business I went into wrestling, since I would rather have my body bruised than sell it."

Miss Engel said that after each of the Wednesday night bouts, which draw packed houses as do the other two wrestling arenas in Vienna, she goes to her modest home to "read Shakespeare, Balzac and Zola. That is my relaxation."

The other girls in the show tell much the same story. Rosina Morski has a crippled husband and two small children. She says wrestling is better than working as a laborer in a factory at 12 schillings a day.

Leopoldine Lehner was an actress in the Vienna Volkstheater but says she will wrestle as long as she can't get a stage contract. She was once hailed as "the most talented actress of the rising generation."

"The "French" member of the troupe is "Fifi L'Arronge," who is the best looking but has never been to France and can't speak a word of the language.

The "Italian" woman in the lineup is Luccia Gonda, an aged dancer who frankly admits she wrestles other women because it pays more dough than her former profession, wrestling a pail and mops nights in downtown offices.

Britain's Prince Charles Gets First Ride On Railroad Train

LONDON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Prince Charles, who will be nine months old Aug. 14, got his first train ride today.

His mother, Princess Elizabeth, is taking the prince on the royal family's visit to Balmoral castle, Scotland. King George VI and Queen Elizabeth went along too, but most of the cheers of 1,500 bystanders at the railroad station were for "good old Charlie."

AN EASY WAY TO HOME OWNERSHIP

Few families can afford to pay cash for a new home. Some sort of financing is necessary and the terms on which money is loaned have a great deal to do with the security of the home investment.

Now you can pay for your home in an easy and convenient way, just like rent. You can pay monthly, out of income, an installment on the principal and the interest and over a given period of years pay off the entire mortgage and have the house free of all debt. It's very much like buying a house and then renting it yourself.

Consider this easy way to home ownership. And consider then the fact that money you pay in rent is gone forever. You've nothing to lose. And you can gain the security, comfort, and happiness that goes with owning your home.

See FORREST Soon. They offer a complete one-stop building service . . . Your individual ideas together with their years of building experience will give you a home that you can be proud of.

EXPANSION OF SYSTEM URGED

Vast Civilian Defense Radio Network Planned During War

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—A vast civilian defense radio network may be manned by the nation's 78,000 "ham" operators in event of war.

Now before the bureau of the budget is a bill to permit expansion of the Army-Air Force military amateur radio system from about 1,000 military reserve members to the entire 78,000 civilian amateur radio operators and naval reservists.

Mars, as the system is called, was started by the Air Force and Army last December under an authorization to use military equipment wherever practicable in the training of Mars members in military communications.

Membership, which is voluntary, now is limited to active and reserve members of the Army, Air Force, and National Guard who hold amateur radio operators' licenses issued by the Federal Communications Commission or by an overseas commandant.

Since December about 700 Army reservists and 300 Air Force reservists have enrolled in the program.

Licenses Issued

But the FCC has issued licenses to about 78,000 civilians who talk to their "ham" friends all over the world over sets which vary from the home-made type to expensive and elaborate contraptions.

The bill would permit civilians holding FCC licenses to tune in their "ham" sets on the military frequencies and take part in the training.

It would permit the armed services also to distribute to civilians, as well as reservists, a war surplus stockpile of radio equipment, worth about $20,000,000 when new.

The armed services want the Mars organization extended for two reasons:

1. To provide a pool of radio men well-versed in military procedures who could be called to immediate and useful service in manning the tremendous military communications system that would be necessitated in event of war. Training in radio and its related field, including radar and guided missile operation, is becoming more and more complicated with the development of more and more electronics equipment.

2. Ham operators ineligible for military duty would remain at their stations and form an integrated radio defense network to be used in event of bombing attacks and other disasters.

Requirements Strict

Military and FCC licenses both require that an operator be able to take at least 13 code words a minute, and have similar standards on other technical requirements.

The Army and Air Force have set up central stations in the Pentagon through which they contact stations at the six Army headquarters throughout the country and Mars members every week day.

The "hams" in radio have provided communications in emergencies and many time when commercial communications were overloaded or disrupted.

Before World War II, the Army amateur radio system operated much as the Mars plans to operate but on a smaller scale. That system was disbanded at the outbreak of the war but provided trained men for the armed services.

Eleanor Parker Is Minus Glamor In Her Latest Movie

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6—Many stars have admitted the screen is overburdened with glamor, but Eleanor Parker is one who follows through.

To prove she is no gilded bird in the movie, "The Cage," she appears pregnant and with shaved head in the role. Says she:

"Glamor is played up too much in Hollywood. They sacrifice realism just to keep the girl beautiful. Nothing irks me so much as to see a girl wake up in the morning on the screen and appear like a beautiful doll with every hair in place."

Place For Glamor

"There's nothing wrong with glamor shots and leg-art. But it's out of place in some roles. You'll find the best actresses don't give a hang for glamor. Take Ingrid Bergman—she's a wonderful actress and a real beauty. But you wouldn't call her a glamor girl."

She said excess Hollywood glamor has caused the foreign film fad. "They are all so realistic," she declared. "Not just pictures of glamorous personalities. Personally, I like to see a girl come out of the swimming pool with her hair wet. I think there is beauty in naturalness."

Miss Parker will appear cue-bald by means of a skull cap; her "pregnancy" will be accomplished by padding.

"The screen has always tried to avoid the pregnant woman," she added. "It looks silly when she's shown with a slim figure. Motherhood is the most wonderful thing in the world. Why should it be hidden?"

'Bama Negroes Get Sentences In Prison

OZARK, Ala., Aug. 6. (AP)—Two self-styled negro Ku Klux Klansmen were sentenced to jail after pleading guilty yesterday to charges of violating Alabama's new anti-masking law.

They are the first to be charged and convicted under the statute, which became law five weeks ago.

Those convicted yesterday are Tommie Johnson, 19, and Robert E. Lee Miller, 21. They testified they formed their own Klan with McClendon and three other negroes. The defendants said they donned white sheets to frighten two negro girls whom they accused of misconduct.

Mayor Douglas Brown sentenced Johnson to six months in jail and Miller to 60 days. The anti-masking law, enacted after widespread floggings and other violence by hooded hoodlums, provides for a fine of up to $500 or 12 months in jail.

Legion Will Sponsor Bob Wills' Band At Dance Here Thursday

Exceptional dancing entertainment is promised by Allen Bros. post of the American Legion, who announced the appearance of Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys under its auspices at South Plains Army airfied Thursday, Aug. 11.

The Legion is sponsoring Bob Wills and his band in behalf of their community enterprises. Direction signs to the dance hangar on the east side of South Plains Army Air field will be placed on the Plainview highway, approximately five miles north of Lubbock.

Make Musical History

The huge hangar will accommodate more than 5,000 persons. Starting time for the dance is 9 p. m.

Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys have been making musical history and good music since 1928, when Bob started his radio career in Fort Worth with the Light-crust Doughboys. Such hits as "San Antonio Rose," "I Wonder If You Feel the Way I Do," and "Spanish Two-Step" are from the Bob Wills pen.

Serves With Army

He joined the Army in 1942 and served for nearly two years. Thirteen members of his original band went into the armed forces. His bond-selling efforts during and after the war were phenomenally successful.

Punkin, Bob Wills' intelligent mount, is a natural actor. He, like his master, has played in many movies and at scores of big theaters and arenas. Punkin stands sedately in the theater wings until he hears the name "Bob Wills" announced. Then one ear goes down, Punkin braces himself, and WHAM—he makes a speedy dramatic dash for the center of the stage.

Producers Slow In Finding Lansbury Has Nice Figure

BY GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, July 6—Movie producers must be awfully dumb. I could tell in a trice that Angela Lansbury has nice legs—in fact, nice architecture generally. But it has taken the movie-makers nine years to discover this. Now that they have, Angela is pleased. "Glamour parts are more rewarding when you're starting," says Angela. Starting? "I feel I'm only beginning to register with audiences the way I want to."

The tall, London-born blonde credits Cecil B. DeMille with discovering her physical allure. "He disregarded all my past performances." That would include her first, in "Gaslight," as a chubby housemaid helping Charles Boyer try to murder Ingrid Bergman. From then on, producers saw her only in heavy drama and concealing costumes. Except for a brief fling dancing the can-can as queen of "The Harvey Girls."

Cast With Lamarr

DeMille cast her as Hedy Lamarr's (Delilah's) sister in "Samson and Delilah." He told Angela, "I see you as a beautiful, sexy young woman. I'm going to exploit you as that." He let her vie with Hedy for Vic Mature (Samson). He put her in filmy costumes with jewels, bare midriffs, and split skirts that showed lots of leg.

The first reaction was from these know-it-all insiders, the film cutters. Their approving comments included, "Get her," and "I didn't know you had it in you, Angie." Angela says, "It's the first picture in which I was dressed to exploit my figure." (Height 5 feet 7½ inches, weight 130, bust 36 inches, waist 26, hips 36.) "It's nice to receive compliments on your figure rather than your costume, for a change."

Wants Circus Role

"Of course," Angela of coursed, "I don't want to be known just as a sultry siren actress. If the part requires that, I'll give it. But I'd like to be known as a lot of other things. A comedienne, for instance. I don't think it means much to be known for your figure if you've nothing else to offer." She'd like to play a bareback rider or trapeze artist in DeMille's next, "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Most movie actresses start their careers being photographed in bathing suits. Angela never has been. Says she'd be willing to be, at the beach. But wouldn't think of having her representatives "flood the market" with cheesecake exposures of her.

Pigeons Credited With Saving Life Of Canadian Youth In Fall

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 6. (INS)—Eleven-year-old Kenneth Amnn climbed out on a window ledge today and stuffed in his shirt front three pigeons he had caught.

The gesture may have saved his life. He fell 50 feet to the ground, the birds were crushed to death but cushioned his fall. He broke both arms and may have a fractured skull, but is expected to live.

Youth Claims He Robbed To Paint

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 6 (AP) Twenty-one-year-old Gerald Becker, charged with robbery, told officers he stole to get funds to study painting and he promised Magistrate W. H. K. McDiarmid:

"Some day I'm going to pay society back with my paintings."

Bay Rum Drinking Legal In Georgia

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 6 (AP)—You may get drunk as a coot on bay rum but it's strictly legal in Judge B. B. Heery's city court.

They were about to send a 71-year-old defendant to the cooler yesterday for drunkenness. Then the police happened to say they smelled bay rum on him.

That did it.

Bay rum, he explained, is not an intoxicating liquor in the Georgia law. Therefore, he said, it is not possible to get legally drunk on it.

Canadian Dam Is "On Its Way;" Democrats Renege On Lobbying Probe

ONE MORE HURDLE

The Goal's In Sight

ONE OF THE amazing phenomenons of the present session of Congress has been the progress of the Canadian River Development bill.

A few weeks ago, the most optimistic supporters of the huge project did not hope for much more than a favorable report by the House Public Lands subcommittee on the $85,000,000 undertaking during this session.

It now stands with the unanimous approval of that group, of the Public Lands committee as a whole, a sympathetic expression from the President and, most amazing of all, the passage by the entire House of Representatives, without a voice being raised in opposition to it.

None of this insures that the bill will be passed by the Senate and signed by the President before the present session ends. Many slips still could occur. But the outlook is most encouraging, and bespeaks not only congressional recognition of the merits of the project but also the esteem in which Reps. George Mahon and Gene Worley—who piloted it through the House—are held in official Washington.

* * *

AS THE bill moves to the Senate, there is every reason for hoping that its reception in the upper house will parallel that in the lower body.

Both members of the Senate from this State are highly regarded by their colleagues and their espousal of the Canadian dam will, in itself, give the bill a running start.

While Senator Connally has his time largely taken up by world affairs as he labors as chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, there is no doubt that he will fail to find time to lend his tremendous prestige to the dam bill's passage. However, the actual "ball-carrying" will be done by Texas' junior senator, Lyndon Johnson and there are none who can gainsay that Senator Johnson's reputation for putting his measures across has not been well won. A "go-getter" of the first order, Senator Johnson has assured The Avalanche-Journal that he will leave no stone unturned in his efforts to turn the bill into law by way of Senate approval.

So far, so good—so very, very good!

The Shivers Speech

GOV. ALLAN SHIVERS' declaration that the State must have more revenue won't cause taxpayers to cheer. Nor will they share unanimously his view that increases are an apparently unfavorable necessity. Many factors, including economic conditions, may forbid an increase.

But most Texans probably will approve the new Governor's frankness in stating the unpleasant prospect as he sees it. This required courage. Nothing in Texas politics is more certain than that he will be a candidate for the office next year. The old school of political thought holds to the theory that it is almost fatal for a prospective candidate even to talk about increasing taxes. We disagree with this view. We believe most Texans admire and respect an office holder and/or prospective candidate all the more when he lays his cards squarely, face up, on the table.

Most Texans, except those with selfish interests at stake, also are likely to endorse Governor Shivers' assertion that enlarged facilities for training doctors and dentists are a "must" on his list. The need for more practicioners in these professions is too well known to John Q. Texan for discussion.

* * *

MOST Texans, of course, would like to see the State cut out a lot of its unnecessary expenditures and apply the savings thus made on the essential undertakings stressed by the governor in his speech. However, reaction, on the whole, seems to be that the governor's first important public message was fair, honest and courageous—as well as as practicable as could be expected at this time.

Even those unconvinced by Governor Shivers' statement that tax increases are inevitable will credit him with facing up to issues and will join in the almost unanimous view that it is refreshing, indeed, for a governor with undenied, future political ambitions to take his fellow-citizens into his confidence regarding his beliefs and expectations surrounding the problems which are Texas'.

TEXAS SOLON LEADS NORTH-SOUTH TALKS ON PLAN

Compromise Reached On Minimum Wage Program

By SARAH McCLENDON
(Avalanche-Journal Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—An interesting experiment in the way of what might be accomplished by way of compromise on economic matters between the North and the South is embodied in the minimum wage law to come up in the House Monday.

Here are some quotes from the man who had a large part in bringing that compromise about —Rep. J. M. Combs, Beaumont, Texas.

"The bill represents a lot of concessions—all made on the part of the North, and in favor of the South.

"These are what we were able to accomplish after many weeks of effort. We went to work to save the little marginal businesses of the South and Southwest. I think the way in which we conducted this is interesting. We went after the Democrats who constituted the majority on the House Education and Labor committee. They at first had been ready to have the House vote on a bill that guaranteed every body a 75-cent minimum wage. We knew that would throw many people in the South out of work and close many small businesses. We did not accomplish our aims by working with Republicans.

* * *

South Was On Spot

"Any coalition such as that existing in the Senate between Southern Democrats and Republicans is sure to mean that the South will get it in the neck in the future," is a 'well' known phrase in the capital.

Bear in mind that when Combs and six southern Democrats started to work there was violent prejudice in North and East against the South and Southwest for grabbing off their industries with cheaper labor and more favorable living conditions from the standpoint of climate, less costly living, less expensive clothing, less heating, more natural gas, less building costs, less pressure from labor and other conditions and more recreation spots.

Representatives from these states were determined to impose minimum wage standards geared to eastern industry on the South so there would be less advantage in industry moving there.

The group working with Combs to bring about these compromise measures included Rep. John Lyle, Corpus Christi and Reps. Carl Elliott, Alabama, Henderson Lanham, Georgia, James Trimble of Arkansas, George Wilson, Oklahoma, and Hale Boggs, New Orleans.

* * *

Provisions Of Bill Given

HERE are some of the provisions they got into the bill:

Exemptions of hotels, restaurants and retail establishments not more than 25 percent wholesale. The group wanted to make it 50 percent but had to concede this much.

Exempted seasonal small canneries of farm groups, saw mill operations where less than 12 persons are employed, exempted all woods operations leading up to the sawmill process, small sugar processing operations between the cane fields and the large refiners, cotton gins. Workers having irregular hours such as some newspaper employes and laborers of the type mentioned in the Walling versus Belo (the Dallas News case) and Walling versus Halliburton (cement workers) decisions of the Supreme Court were exempt.

Merchants and cities along state borders who sell in both states were given relief from provisions which otherwise would have pulled them under minimum wage provisions by reason of the interstate character of their business although they operated only in purely local areas. Processors of perishable fruits and vegetables will get 20 weeks exemption.

There were other exemptions. Several other provisions will be offered by the southern bloc on the House floor.

These congressmen like to call themselves as "progressives." They may cast their eyes on solving other problems. But whatever they tackle, it will be done as Combs said "without bitterness." "This is the only way to get things done—within the party."

* * *

Speaker Rayburn Honored

THAT was certainly some party which Rep. Frank Boykin of Alabama and friends gave for Speaker Sam Rayburn and his favorites here this week. Around a thousand invitations were sent out. Around 750 guests came, some flying over half way across the continent to get here. There was a cross section of industry, labor, government, policitians, lobbyists and journalists. People like Wilson, the head of General Motors, rubbed shoulders with lesser lights. Tex Easley who covers the Associated Press for 85 Texas newspaper got into the same picture with Defense Secretary Louis Johnson and new Attorney General Howard McGrath. Bill Hooten of the El Paso Times was among the few who got an invitation who had to decline it. Another was former Vice-President John Nance Garner.

The committee on arrangements included only four Texans, Reps. Ken Regan, 16th district, John Lyle, Corpus Christi, Chief Judge Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims, and Rep. Wright Patman, Texarkana. Regan, sitting

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A STRANGE disease is rampant in the land.

BRANDEIS

The cure can be effected only by amateur psychiatrists, such as you and I, and the treatment is Common Sense.

For want of a better name, I shall call this disease Triplicitis, which, however, applies only to its early stages.

Triplicitis is originally an importation from Europe, just as Japanese beetles are an importation from Japan.

It is a disease brought on by the Virus Bureaucraticus, and it develops from plain Triplicitis to the more complicated stages as the Virus Bureaucraticus multiplies and needs more nourishment.

A young friend of mine is studying at a college under the G. I. bill of rights.

* * *

For every day he takes off he has to make out an application in triplicate.

If he wants another day off he has to be sick to get it.

But being sick is not as simple as it is for you or me.

He has to go to his doctor who, in turn, has to give the student a certificate, in triplicate, that he is sick enough to stay away from college.

Everything in triplicate. Everything except his allowance check. He gets one copy only, and that one is usually

CONGRESS SWARMING

But Nothing Is Done

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The Democrats seem to have forgotten how they used to berate the lobby-ridden, Republican 80th Congress and what they promised they would do to lobbyists once they came into power.

In contrast the 81st Congress is now swarming with more lobbyists than ever, and the much ballyhooed bill to investigate lobbyists is still stuck in the judiciary committee.

PEARSON

Holding up the lobby investigation are two senators who publicly claim to be for it. One is Senator Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, who officially voted for the lobby probe, but unofficially did his best to block it. "If this goes through," Wiley once blurted out, "we might have to investigate my son."

He referred to Marshall A. Wiley of Chippewa Falls, Wis., who journeys to Washington to work for the dairy interests. Not considering himself a lobbyist, young Wiley has never bothered to register, but because of his father, gets extra entree.

But the man really blocking the lobby probe is Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, faithful friend of the lobbyists, who has resorted to the subtle strategy of insisting that his judiciary committee do the investigating. This will give him veto power over who should be investigated and what should be done about them.

And since the House has already passed a bill providing for a joint congressional committee to investigate lobbyists, McCarran's obstinacy may mean no lobby investigation at all. Arizona's Senator Carl Hayden of the rules committee is trying to talk McCarran into going along with the House version but that would take the investigation out of McCarran's hands where he could not protect his lobbyist-friends.

As a result of this stalemate, the lobbyists are multiplying like flies.

Battle Over Education

The House labor committee's closed-door showdown on the religion-laden federal aid-to-education bill produced the expected fireworks—and then some.

Committee members shouted, ranted, fumed, glared and even threatened each other as Chairman John Lesinski of Michigan, a Catholic representing Detroit's Polish suburbs, used every move in the congressional book to block the bill.

However, there was one beneficial result. It now is possible to call the roll of the friends and foes of aid to education—as a result of a motion by Boston's young Representative John Kennedy to postpone all school legislation until next January. Kennedy's motion was voted down, but here's how the committee lined up behind closed doors:

Against killing all school-aid legislation during this session (13)—Representatives Sims of South Carolina, Perkins of Kentucky, Bailey of West Virginia, Irving of Missouri, Jacobs of Indiana, Steed of Oklahoma, Barden of North Carolina, Powell of New York, Wier of Minnesota, Wood of Georgia, Howell of New Jersey, all Democrats and Morton of Kentucky and Kearns of Pennsylvania, Republicans.

For killing all aid to education (12)—Representatives Lesinski, Kennedy, Kelley of Pennsylvania, Lucas of Texas, Democrats; and Burke of Ohio, McConnell of Pennsylvania, Gwinn of New York, Smith of Kansas, Nixon of California, Werdel of California, Brehm of Ohio and Velde of Illinois.

* * *

LESINSKI at first tried to filibuster the meeting by refusing to call it to order. Though 22 members of the 25-man committee were present—nine more than quorum—the Michigander strangely insisted that all 25 members be present. He was thus able to stall 35 minutes before the full membership showed up.

Pennsylvania's McConnell, the ranking committee Republican, raised no objections. In fact, he seemed well satisfied with Lesinski's filibustering and whispered privately to colleagues that he favored postponing action on the school bill because it was "too hot to handle."

However, others protested vigorously, including Indiana's Jacobs, a Catholic, who believes in the school-aid program. And when Lesinski tried to resume his filibuster even after the meeting began, Jacobs raised a point of order against him.

Lesinski overruled this, but ran into a fresh attack from South Carolina's Sims, a paratroop hero in the last war.

"Your actions are outrageous," charged Sims. "You've done everything you can to prevent consideration of this legislation to help our schools and our teachers. What's worse, you have denied supporters of the legislation the Democratic right to be heard because you are against it."

Declared Perkins of Kentucky: "If you mess up this effort to help our schools, I'll feel like wringing your neck."

There was a smile on Perkins' face when he said this, but no joviality in his voice.

Though Lesinski was slow to start the tempestuous meeting, he was quick to end it when colleagues pressed him to set another meeting to reconsider the education bill.

Ignoring these demands, he shouted: "It's 12 o'clock. The House is in session and it is therefore against the rules for us to continue this meeting."

Actually, the clock on the wall read 11:47, so Lesinski had 13 minutes—plenty of time to entertain a motion before the House convened. However, he sat stubbornly silent though Representatives Sims, Steed, Wier, Perkins and Bailey were all on their feet requesting that a date be set for a subsequent meeting.

The Gold Coast government's attempts to cultivate sisal on a large scale have failed because sisal could not compete with easily-grown and more remunerative cocoa, Accra reports.

Warsaw is excited about three new full-length Polish films—"Treasure," about the life of city bus drivers; "Graniczna Street," on the German occupation, and "Printing Shop in Grzybowska Street," concerning the underground press.

Students were suspected when roses disappeared from the residence of the governor general in Bloemfontein, South Africa, but a watch was kept and the culprit proved to be a steenbuck (antelope) living on a nearby hill.

"LET LOVE COME LAST"

Taylor Caldwell Pens New Novel

"LET LOVE COME LAST," by Taylor Caldwell; (Scribner's).

MISS CALDWELL is at it again, mustering the extremes of language, the superlatives and intensifiers, to tell a story about the extremes of emotion, passion, love, hate, ambition.

William Prescott is a man in the process of becoming self-made. According to the hostile community in Western Pennsylvania where, late in the last century, he hews out a rich career, he has betrayed his employer and benefactor, Chauncey Arnold, in order to securt control of a big lumber business. We meet him first when he visits and proposes to Ursula Wende; he doesn't love her, he says, but wants children. Brought up in poverty, he decides to bring up his own children in luxury, granting all their desires, pardoning them their tantrums, and bestowing on them each and every advantage which had been denied to him.

Whirlwindy Novel

If sparing the rod spoils the child in real life, it does no less than befoul, brutalize and corrupt him beyond all recognition in Miss Caldwell's novel. These brats are vipers in the parental nest, and they scheme to rob the old man of all his cherished power. It is an adopted son, however, who comes to his father's rescue in the end, when the conniving Eugene Arnold, wishing to avenge his father, tries to turn the tables and do to William as Papa Chauncey had been done by.

There is a consistency about Miss Caldwell which, however reluctantly, one has to admire: She is master of the high-powered, jet-propelled word and phrase. She is no mincing writer, but a kind of whirlwind, and her whirlwindy novel is bound to have a lot of readers. But it is, after all, only a tempest in a teacup.

Best Short Stories

"THE BEST AMERICAN SHORT STORIES—1949," edited by Martha Foley; (Houghton Mifflin).

ABOUT 30 stories from about 20 magazines are gathered in this annual, and the editor sees in the many new names of contributors "the vanguard of the much-heralded and long-awaited 'post-war generation' in literature." From the short fiction now being produced, she feels we "may be entering the richest and most productive literary period" in our history.

These particular stories do not seem as promising as all that. Indeed, with a few exceptions, this is an unimpressive collection . . . which is not of course necessarily any reflection on the editor. These writers appear to be concerned with petty matters, or at least with material somewhat worn with use, and their technique is neither new nor inspired, but adequate. Among the exceptions are Ruth Herschberger, Elizabeth Bishop, Jim Kjelgaard, Paul Bowles, Adele Dolokhov; neither Jessamyn West nor Jean Stafford is up to standard.

South Of The Border

"REVOLT IN SAN MARCOS," by Robert Carver North; (Houghton Mifflin).

IN an imaginary country somewhere south of Mexico, a baby, Carlos, is born to a peasant couple in a primitive village.

From his father, mother and older sister he learns the basic facts of life: His own identity, some of the essential privileges and tabus. From his uncle, he learns about the organization of society: The poor who labor for a small reward, and the rich, like the Senor, who live on the fat of the land.

But it is only after he has violated a major tabu and fled to the capital, San Marcos, that his education in the 20th-century, atomic, power-politics world begins. His teachers are Pepillo, Magdalena, Pablo Larra, Don Ricordo, the rich gentleman who has questionable connections with Mr. Prettyman, Yanqui "imperialist;" Father Timoteo, who seeks to make the boy a priest; and Cabrera, Dr. MacNeill, Sapho, Cuerno, even indirectly President Ronca.

Meaning Beneath Surface

On the surface this is simply a good novel about a perplexed boy who grows up thoughtfully pondering the problems of life and love, good and evil, as he experiences them in incidents which are vivid, earthy, sometimes romantic and always real.

Not far beneath the surface here lies a meaning important for us all. For Carlos' imaginary country is our world, and the whole question of his life is, how does it happen that good intentions have not made the world a better dwelling place? Each leader insists on his own way. The liberal, the Yanqui, the Communist demand all or nothing. Each guarantees his own panacea, mistrusts everyone else's, and calls on his followers to die for his precious absolute. Carlos can see some good in most of them, but he is convinced only that "unless peace met violence with peace, the world was lost."

North's use of primitive atmosphere to point so modern a moral proves surprisingly effective. He draws a pertinent lesson out of the dawn of society for what we regard as its heyday. Ancient myth, tribal habits, wooden hoe and dirt-floored hut are made relevant to the A-bomb age.

Tale Of Jealousy

"THE BODY," by William Sansom; (Harcourt, Brace).

HENRY BISHOP, a placid, contented little man in his comfortable forties, is pottering in his garden one afternoon when he, unseen, catches sight of a stranger gawking insolently up at the window of Madge's bathroom. The window slams shut, the stranger blows a kiss and walk away.

What's this, says Henry to himself, what's this? He and Madge married happily, or at least congenially, some 20 years, and this should happen to him! Madge calls him to tea; puzzled and disturbed, he starts in; the bell rings; there's the stranger, a Micawberish, creature and a new next-door neighbor who has come to borrow a screwdriver. This back-slapping, hail-fellow-well-met neighbor, named Diver, cracks wise with Madge, who finds his stale jokes funny, and finally invites him to dinner.

Suspicions Awakened

Henry's suspicions have been awakened and he nurses them diligently on the news of a conversation between Madge and Diver, Diver's touch on her arm at the dinner party, Diver's momentary disappearance with her, and other signs of a growing, or indeed achieved, intimacy. What signs he does not see he imagines; and when circumstances might be interpreted either as exonerating Madge or convicting her, he chooses the unfavorable meaning. He makes friends with Diver's friends so that he can spy on his wife, and he lays traps for her. His case against her proves to be good enough for a gullible man like himself.

The reader may not be so gullible. This seems an affair of jealousy thought out rather than felt. It's a sort of synthetic, manufactured jealousy, not the kind that eats out a loving husband's heart. Henry argues his way into misery, he doesn't sink into it. It's a remarkably neat and irrefutable argument, ut jealousy isn't arguable.

Short Story Collection

"A MAN OF TASTE," by Philip Fass; (Beechhurst).

NINE short stories, of which the longest one gives the book its title, compose this collection of fiction about men and women in and out of civilization in the present and the past, in the New World and the Old, in youth and age.

"Christmas in Wisconsin," concerning a young man whose first taste of love sours and turns him from a sexual innocent into a social ignoramus, comes closest to meeting the rigid requirements of the short-story form. The others are, honest, to be sure, and worthwhile, but labored, or perhaps not labored enough.

At Mrs. Alice Stevenson's 102nd birthday party at Liverpool, England, the youngest of the 45 guests was 71, the eldest 93.

Others on the committee were: Chief Justice Carl Vinson of the U. S. Supreme Court, Max O'Rell Truitt, son-in-law of Vice President Barkley, House Minority Leader Joe Martin, Maj. Gen. Sanderford Jarman, Dr. John Steelman, assistant to the president, Attorney General Tom Clark, former Attorney General Homer Cummings and a few others. Chairman was Congressman Boykin's cousin, Albert Ernest, paper bag company representative of Georgia.

The guest list was purposely not given out before hand. But here are a few who were sent invitations in Texas—Jesse Jones, Houston; H. L. Williford, representing H. L. Hunt, Texas oil men and Nevada gold mine owner; Jack, Dan and another of the Danciger oil refining family of Fort Worth; Wright Morrow of Houston (Byron Skelton, Temple, was not on the list, a check showed); former Rep. Richard M. Kleberg, Corpus Christi, and some others. Tex Crawford, Humble company, former West Texas oil man, was there as was Jimmie Pipkin, formerly of Beaumont, now assistant to President, the Texas Co.

There was a wonderful picture of a sketch of Sam Rayburn by Newman, and also printed in the menu was J. G. Holland's poem, "God give us men! A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hand;—".

The group ate Quebec salmon, Alabama venison, Montana elk, Okeefenokee bear meat, Georgia turkey, Chugwater antelope, and "Coon, Possum and Taters from Alabama's First district." This was on the buffet. Then for dinner there was Gulf shrimp and other things including Steak Rayburn broiled with Fresh Mushrooms and Texas coffeet.

Why the dinner? Just Frank Boykin showing his love and appreciation for "The Speaker."

Mahon Heads Study

Rep. George Mahon, Lubbock, is presiding over the House Appropriations sub-committee on the armed forces in its current hearings on expansion of the guided missile program. Mahon is chairman of this important group which supervises spending in Army, Navy and Air Force. Now they are hearing testimony on the long-range missile program in Florida where it is planned to spend some $75,000,000 ultimately. Present hearoings are on $5,000,000 to get the program underway on an island off of Florida which is not inhabitated. Monitoring stations five miles out to sea would be set up to trace the missile and get information about its flight. For this experiment, the U. S. is leasing the British-owned islands in that vicinity for 25 years. "In another year, the guided missile will be a very important factor," said Mahon.

DURING the last war I was asked to become a dollar-a-year man.

Being patriotic and too old to carry a rifle, I agreed. Then came an enormous batch of forms to be filled in.

And here was that disease in its much more virulent form. There were blue forms and yellow forms, pink forms and white forms and green forms. There were originals, duplicates, triplicates, quadruplicates, quintuplicates.

I read all the directions carefully, I started to fill in the blanks. I began to talk to myself.

And, bingo, just as I had gotten to the pink form, the war was over, and I never got that dollar.

The only way I know to cure this disease is to make theanswers even more foolish than the questions.

That will eventually drive all the bureaucrats crazy. After a while they'll be so nutty, they'll tear the questionnaires into confetti and all wind-up in lunatic asylums.

Common School district No. W-20, El Paso county, H. C. Hinton, superintendent county schools, some time ago informed Rep. Ken Regan that this district "which is vitally affected by the government expansion program" has reached its limit in bonded indebtedness and must have relief from the government.

"We shall be able to show that our increased enrollment is due to the government program," Hinton said. "We have approximately 1,000 students and only $1½-million assessed valuation. We need eight class rooms immediately."

Recently, Rep. John Lesinski, chairman of the House Education and Labor committee, told the House that Rep. Karl Steffan, Nebraska had a bill in to provide for school construction but so far no action has been taken on it although there was a bill passed to give federal operational funds.

Recently wives of Air Force generals in the Washington area took swift action to save the wife of the widow of a master sergeant from Albuquerque. The generals' wives are in the Air Force Officers Wives club of Washington. They learned that Mrs. Mary Gladys Waddell needed a quick change of locale to survive a serious asthmatic condition. She had come here with the body of her husband who had died of leukemia in New Mexico. He was buried in Arlington cemetery. The couple had previously transferred to New Mexico's dry climate because of her affliction. After the funeral, she went to a hospital where it was reported if she did not get back to Albuquerque soon, she would die. The wives procured an Air Force C-47 to take Mrs. Waddel and her two children, Jerry Ann, 9, and Arleen, 7, back to the Southwest.
