Showers In Texas Thin Out

By The Associated Press

Afternoon thundershowers that lashed sections of Texas earlier in the week thinned out Wednesday. An Ennis church in Central Texas said it was starting a series of prayers for rain.

The pastor of St. John-Holy Redeemer Catholic Parish at Ennis, Father John McCallum, said the series started Wednesday.

Only a few points report showers. Houston had .02 inches. Sherman and Beaumont received a trace. Amarillo had a shower.

Temperatures Wednesday ranged from 88 degrees at Galveston to 106 at Presidio. Early Thursday morning they ran from 71 at Dalhart to 81 in Fort Worth.

Skies were clear to partly cloudy. The five-day forecast called for partly cloudy weather with a few scattered showers.

Thunderstorms rumbled across areas in the mid-continent today and headed eastward across the Great Lakes into New England.

Fair weather prevailed from the lower Ohio Valley and Tennessee eastward to the Atlantic Coast and also in most of the Far West.

Scattered thunderstorms were reported during the night from Oklahoma northeastward into the Great Lakes region. Heavy rain fell in many areas, including Omaha, Gladwin, Mich., and in parts of Iowa and Wisconsin. Strong winds and hail hit sections of the Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes region.

In the West, showers and thunderstorms spread over a wide area from the Northern Plateau region and the Rockies eastward across the plains. Falls were mostly light.

275 Polio Cases Are Reported Last Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service said today 275 polio cases were reported last week, 19 more than the preceding week but 130 fewer than the corresponding week last year.

Of the new cases, 129 were listed as being of the paralytic type. In the comparable week last year, there were 170 paralytic type cases.

For the disease year which began in April, there have been 2,931 cases against 3,048 in the similar period last year.

Parr Disarmed In Duval Courthouse

ALICE (AP) — Political boss George Parr was charged yesterday with storming into the Duval County courthouse, carrying a .30 caliber rifle, and looking for a long-time political foe.

Ranger Walter Russell was reported to have disarmed Parr in the basement of the courthouse before he found County Commissioner Tomas Molina who has been opposing Parr.

Charges of "seriously threatening life," a misdemeanor, were filed by Molina and accepted by County Attorney John Mullen and Dist. Atty. Sam Burris.

Witnesses said the argument originated over asbentee voting when Parr became angry at remarks Molina made to one of Parr's political workers.

Molina said he talked to the Parr worker but denied making any insulting remarks.

The incident happened late yesterday when Parr rushed into the Duval County courthouse with a .30 caliber, semi-automatic rifle. He began searching for Molina.

Molina said he was in his office and did not see Parr with the rifle but heard Parr "cursing in loud tones in the hallway."

A few minutes later Russell cornered Parr and took the rifle from him.

Russell formally arrested Parr in his office across the street from the courthouse after the complaint had been filed.

Parr posted $1,000 bond in the charge about 9:50 p.m. last night.

The charge was filed in Jim Wells County under a seldom used law which provides joint county jurisdiction for cases occurring within 400 yards of a county line. The Duval County courthouse is about 65 or 70 yards from the Jim Wells County line which runs through the eastern outskirts of the Duval County seat of San Diego.

Steel Talks Are Launched Again

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Leaders of three of the nation's top basic steel producers and the United Steelworkers today hold their first negotiating session since the nationwide steel strike started 12 days ago.

Government mediators, who prodded both sides to get together at the bargaining table, came here from Washington to sit in.

Meanwhile, unemployment continued to mount in allied industries. In addition to the 650,000 striking USW members, 72,770 workers in other industries have been furloughed. Hardest hit are railroads and the coal industry.

Neither union nor industry gave any indication they would come up with counteroffers at today's session, arranged by Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Although announcing that both sides are "agreeable and cooperative" Finnegan described the situation as "still serious." The strike has cut steel production 90 per cent.

John A. Stephens, vice president of U.S. Steel Corp. and the chief industry negotiator, met with Finnegan in Washington yesterday and said:

"We are hopeful that some of these days the union will realize the wonderful offer that has been made and accept it."

The offer was rejected by David J. McDonald, union president, as "too little and too long."

The industry proposed a 52-month contract which it said would boost pay 17 2-3 cents an hour for the first year. McDonald says the offer actually amounts to 14 cents an hour. He has not disclosed union demands.

Steelworkers were averaging $2.46 an hour before the walkout began.

State Trying To Get Workers Back On Job

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Missouri today resumed its efforts to get 2,200 St. Louis gas strikers back on the job by court order.

The strikers, out 12 days now, have defied a state law designed to prevent strikes against public utilities.

Allen R. Burgess, vice president of Laclede Gas Co., testified their absence created "a very hazardous condition." He reported escaping gas from broken mains twice had caught fire in sewers.

Between 18,000 and 20,000 customers in St. Louis and St. Louis County were without gas.

Vigorous Campaign By Eisenhower Predicted

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — After talking political plans with President Eisenhower, GOP Chairman Leonard Hall today predicted a "vigorous campaign" with Eisenhower traveling to different parts of the country by plane.

But Hall still said Eisenhower may confine himself to five or six major speeches, to be delivered by television and radio.

The Republican chairman spent nearly an hour at Eisenhower's country estate, then held a news conference afterward.

The meeting with reporters brought out these points:

1. Eisenhower plans to go to the Republican National Convention and accept his renomination in person.

2. Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana will put the President's name in nomination at the San Francisco meeting which opens Aug. 20.

3. So far as Hall is concerned, the ticket still is Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon. He said that "absolutely" the President made it clear today that he still would be pleased to have Nixon.

4. Hall looks for Nixon to play a big and "very vigorous" role in the campaign.

Asked how the Republicans will meet the issue of the health of the President who has suffered a heart attack and undergone a major operation in the past few months, Hall said it already has been met by "frankness and candor."

Hall said that is "the complete answer" and "nothing has been kept from the American people."

Hall said he feels nothing further is required from Eisenhower in th way of formal reaffirmation of his intention to run for a second term.

To a question whether Eisenhower had reaffirmed his desire to have Nixon occupy second place on the GOP ticket, Hall said that he thought he would have something to announce on that in the near future.

As of now, Hall said, there is no indication that anyone other than Nixon may be placed in nomination.

Hall said it is his feeling the Republican campaign will start around Sept. 15 and last six weeks. He said he couldn't say whether Eisenhower will kick it off with a major speech.

Campaign headquarters will remain in Washington, Hall said, and the GOP has budgeted seven million dollars for the presidential campaign and the House and Senate campaigns.

The GOP leader predicted that the party will win even more impressively than in 1952, regain control of the House and Senate, and carry more than the four Southern states Eisenhower took four years ago.

WATER BILLS SOARING HERE

Water users in Snyder can expect their water bills to be about twice what they were last month, according to K. O. Pitner, city secretary.

In billing of the books this month, water consumption was found to be running way ahead of what it was last month, he said.

Water Board Hearing Gets Big Turnout

AUSTIN (AP)—High priced legal and engineering talent crowded into the State Water Board's conference room today at a hearing began on joint applications of San Antonio and the Guadalupe Blanco River Authority.

Dallas engineer James Cotton continued his testimony.

San Antonio, with about three attorneys and more engineers standing by, is asking for 100,000 acre feet of water from the proposed Canyon Dam near New Braunfels.

The GBRA with its large staff of attorneys and engineers, together with 63 other organizations and towns and along the 225-mile long Guadalupe, are protesting San Antonio's application.

San Antonio is the only protestant to GBRA's Canyon Dam project and requested to impound 366,000 acre feet and appropriate 102,700 acre feet.

The state board's decision will set a precedent in allocations of surface water in Texas.

Cotton said yesterday San Antonio could get three to five times more water by constructing a dam on its own river than piping it from Canyon Dam.

He said a suitable site for a dam and reservoir exists on the San Antonio River, about seven miles from Kenedy.

Cotton testified the Kenedy dam could be built for $63,995,000 and the reservoir would hold 920,000 acre feet.

This was below the pipeline, plant and operating cost estimate of 69 million dollars which Fort Worth engineer S. W. Freese said it would cost the city to get its water from Canyon.

Search Goes On For Two

FORT WORTH —Amid underworld reports that missing ex-convicts Edward Townley and Wilbur Hunt have been killed, Sheriff Harlon Wright continued his search for the two today.

Townley, 29, and his wife, Betty, 20, who was expecting a baby shortly, were last seen at their Eagle Mountain Lake home June 16. A man seen leaving with them on that day has been tentatively identified by Wright as Hunt, 26.

The sheriff had reports that Hunt crossed "some Dallas people." Both he and Townley were known to have been involved in narcotics traffic.

One report was that Hunt was sent to Mexico by a Dallas hoodlum to deliver $4,500 but instead skipped with the money.

Wright located Townley's 1952 Cadillac yesterday at an Arlington car dealers garage with a $183 repair bill unpaid. The car had been there since June 14.

Relief Meet Set Monday

AUSTIN (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner John White called on er John White called onl teuDtls 28 representatives of farm and ranch groups today to attend a drought relief meeting here Monday.

White returned from Washington highly dissatisfied with drought aid offers made by the Department of Agriculture.

"We plan to draft our minumum requirements for disaster relief," White said. "That's all we want — the necessities of survival."

The commissioner said he did not know whether the USDA was "stalling for time" or whether it can not provide what drought-hit Texas farmers and ranchers need.

"Every disaster area farm family needs a little cash, a lot of credit and a roughage or hay program to keep their livestock alive. We can't do with anything less," White said.

JET PILOT STEWART—Actor Jimmy Stewart, fresh from handling the controls of a B-47 jet bomber for the first time, reports to Brig. Gen. William H. Russians Accept Proposal On Arms

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Soviet Dep. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today accepted the ceilings for armed forces proposed by the Western powers for the first stage of disarmament.

Speaking before the U. N. Disarmament Commission, he dropped the Soviet Union's insistence on lower ceilings. He also proposed an agreement to stop nuclear bomb tests, eliminate stock piles of such bombs, end their production and ban their use.

But he still refused to accept President Eisenhower's plan for aerial inspection of armed facilities to guard against surprise attack. He stood by the Soviet Union's proposals for control of disarmament by ground inspection only.

Gromyko also refused to agree to the West's demand that genuine disarmament should be preceded by settlement of international political problems such as the division of Germany, Korea and Viet Nam.

Gromyko agreed that as a first step the armed forces of the United States, the Soviet Union, and Communist China should be cut to 2½ million each; those of Britain and France to 750,000 each and those of other countries to 150,000 to 200,000 each.

But he added that this should lead to a second step to reduce the United States, Soviet and Chinese forces to between 1 million and 1½ million each, and British and French forces to 650,000 each. These were the ceilings which Russia previously had advocated.

New Plan For Cyprus Told

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden announced today Britain will give Cyprus a system of internal self-government, but refused to commit himself on the issue of self-determination for the troubled island.

Eden told the House of Commons his government intends to go ahead with plans for a new Cyprus constitution. He said the international aspects of the Cyprus problem — aspects involving the British, Greek and Turkish governments—will not be referred to NATO.

The demands of Greek-speaking Cypriots for union of the island with Greece have strained Greek-British and Greek-Turkish relations, and undermined by this much the effectiveness of the NATO system.

School Budget Hearing Tonight

The annual hearing on the budget for the Snyder school district will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the high school cafeteria.

Members of the school administrative staff and school board will explain the budget to any persons desiring information before the budget is finally approved for the 1956-57 school year.

A meeting of the board will follow for routine business matters.

Plead For Full Amount

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles appealed today to the Senate Appropriations Committee to increase House-voted funds for foreign military and economic aid by upwards of 400 million dollars.

He was joined in this request by Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The two appeared at a closed committee session to ask that the appropriations for assistance to free nations be increased from the $3,600,000,000 voted by the house yesterday to $4,014,000,000, the full amount included in a foreign aid authorization measure previously passed by both houses.

Dulles did not have a prepared statement as he entered the committee room, but told reporters he was appealing for "the full amount of the authorization bill."

The committee promised to release a summary of his testimony later.

President Eisenhower's foreign aid program has been hard hit in Congress.

Eisenhower himself, in a follow-up to a Tuesday conference with Republican legislative leaders, was reported contacting Democratic chiefs in his drive to increase funds for the program designed to strengthen free world countries against communism.

The House passed 284-120 a $3,665,920,000 appropriation for foreign aid in the fiscal year started July 1. The amount was $1,405,955,000 below Eisenhower's original request of around five billion dollars. The bill included $3,425,120,000 in new funds plus $240,800,000 in reappropriations of previously voted money that otherwise would revert to the U.S. Treasury.

A previously passed four-billion-dollar authorization bill, setting ceilings for the program but providing no cash, would allow nearly 600 million dollars in new money to be put back in the appropriation bill.

The Senate committee plans to complete action on the big money measure tomorrow. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex), the Democratic leader, said he hopes to bring the bill before the Senate early next week.

Dulles told a news conference yesterday the House cuts could have a serious effect on Western collective alliances. Vice President Nixon, returning to Washington from a round-the-world trip, said drastic foreign aid cuts "could be disastrous."

House GOP leaders during debate called for a 550-million-dollar restoration of military aid funds to the bill, but offered no amendment to do this. Their strategy, concurred in by Democratic leaders favoring a bigger amount, was to avoid risk of open defeat on the House floor and to count on the Senate to make an increase.

So despite a debate heavily charged with politics, the House passed the bill with the exact total recommended by its Appropriations Committee — and with no votes on whether to raise or lower the amounts.

On passage, 160 Democrats and 124 Republicans voted for the bill. Against it were 70 Republicans and 50 Democrats.

An administration-opposed move by Rep. Bentley (R-Mich) to cut off aid to Yugoslavia was defeated on a 117-65 vote, with most of Bentley's support coming from Republicans.

Say Princess Is Not Blind

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard issued a communique today denying reports their youngest daughter Maria Christina, is totally blind.

The 9-year-old princess has successfully passed examinations from the third to the fourth class in elementary school, the statement said.

It has been reported that the partial blindness of the daughter was the cause of a rift between the Queen and Bernhard. He was said to have objected that Miss Greet Hofmans, a faith healer called in for consultations about the child, had acquired influence over the Queen. The couple announced on June 29 the appointment of a three-man commission of senior statesmen to investigate the circumstances which led to stories about their family life.

Shah Leaves Moscow As Rift Continues

MOSCOW (AP)—The Shah of Iran left Moscow today, his talks with Soviet governmznt leaders ended in polite but open disagreement.

A oint Soviet-Iranian communique which had been scheduled for signing Tuesday was postponed and later canceled. Iran's continued adherence to the Western-sponsored Baghdad Pact apparently was the stumbling block.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi and Queen Soraya took off from Moscow's Central Airport enroute to Tehran after a 17-day tour of the Soviet Union.

State Campaign Tempo Quickened

By The Associated Press

Candidates for governor stepped up their campaigning tempo Thursday, promising bigger old age pensions, more water, and a "clean-up" in state government.

The Texas Council of Churches said that only two candidates, Ralph Yarborough and Price Daniel, had signed the code of fair campaign practices as requested by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders of the state.

The code condemned "use of personal villification, whispering campaigns, libel, slander, or scurrilous attacks on any candidate or his personal or family life." It also pledged against "any appeal to prejudice based upon race, creed or national origin."

The council said other signers of the pledge were Will Wilson and Tom Moore in the attorney general's race, Earl Rudder in the land commissioners race, all four candidates for lieutenant governor, and all three aspirants for agriculture commissioner.

Yarborough promised a "clean-up" in state government, increased old age pensions, better industrial safety laws, and higher pay for teachers at Irving Wednesday night.

Daniel stressed "constitutional doctrine that the government should be built up from the people, not down from the bureaucracies of Washington" at Victoria. He criticized labor leaders.

Three or four gubernatorial candidates were due to Bellaire, a suburb of Houston, Thursday night. If a candidate continues talking there after his 15-minute time limit is up, a fire hose is turned on him.

Yarborough, Reuben Senterfitt, and J. Evetts Haley have accepted invitations to Bellaire and J. J. Holmes may attend.

Daniel and W. Lee O'Daniel are not expected.

Yarborough also will spend another day in Houston, shaking as many hands as possible.

At Victoria Daniel said the progress of Texas "will be set back at least 20 years" if out-of-state CIO bosses succeed in dominating state government."

Wilson Says Full Change Is Needed

By The Associated Press

A candidate for attorney general urged Texans today not to "let the wound and fury of any one political battle obscure your attention to the importance of other state and local races."

Speaking at Abilene, Will Wilson of Dallas said "Texas, as never before in her history, today needs strong qualified men in public office to fight the battles that are just ahead. She needs strong, vigrous and qualified men of proven ability and integrity to fill her offices at the local and state levels."

Wilson resigned from the Supreme Court to run. He said that "in order to make the most of our Texas opportunities, we simply can't afford the luxury of complacency. Our prestige, our state's wealth and potentialities, and the welfare of every citizen, challenges us to elect a competent, qualified attorney general to represent Texas."

Another candidate for attorney general, Tom Moore Jr. of Waco, said in Fort Worth Wednesday that crime is one of the three most important problems facing Texas.

"As attorney general, I pledge increased attention to the growing menace of intercounty and interstate crime," Moore said. He cited as the other two problems weak insurance laws and water conservation.

"Everywhere I have traveled, people have told me that they want a complete change in Austin. A change to officials that will be for the people and not selfish interest groups," he said.

Land Commissioner Earl Ruder was the guest of the Ex-Aggies Assn. at Beaumont. He met with a group of former Texas A&M students at Port Arthur during the afternoon.

Warren Harding of Dallas, running for state treasurer, scheduled talks in Canyon, Tulia, Plainview and Lubbock Thursday.

Teacher In Court 'Class'

NEW YORK (AP) — A Kansas schoolteacher goes to a "class" in court today to answer felonious assault charges resulting from a sizzling encounter with New York traffic cops.

Miss Frances Lindblom, 33, a tall, blonde from Salina, Kan., who's studying for her master's degree at Columbia University, allegedly slapped one cop in the face.

"In Kansas," she said, "we treat people differently than they are treated in New York."

Her troubles arose yesterday when police stopped her and claimed she had made a sharp and sudden turn from a wrong lane on an expressway, forcing other traffic to a squealing halt.

Patrolmen John Mercoella and Thomas O'Keeffe said that at their request, Miss Lindblom produced her driver's license, but said she didn't have her car registration with her, then promptly drove away.

When the police car stopped her again, they said, she stepped out the car door, slapped Mercoellas face and grabbed for O'Keeffe's gun. They handcuffed her and took her to jail.

"I thought the policemen were all through questioning me," she said later. "Then when I saw them charging at me I did the first thing that came in my mind. I certainly didn't mean to break any laws."

No Drop In Labor Seen

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A reduction in the flow of Mexican Labor to the United States in retaliation for what the Mexican government calls "the U.S. cotton dumping program' is called unlikely by informed sources here.

The possibility was raised yesterday when the semi-official Bank of Foreign Commerce declared Mexico is accepting the "challenge" of a cotton war and that one step would be to restrict Mexican workers going to the United States to work in cotton fields there.

Such a restriction would be apparently to keep workers at home to handle the cultivation and harvesting of domestic crops and in-crops and increasing the harvesting costs in the U.S., thus pushing up cotton prices.

Although officials were silent yesterday regarding the announcement, informed Mexican and American sources said it would be almost impossible to cut down on workers this year, and expressed doubt such a step would be undertaken later.

"But anything can happen," said one U.S. officials.

Cumulative enrollment for the nine-month session was 6,342. These students came from 207 of the state's 254 counties, from 33 other states, and from 11 foreign countries.

Dallas County led the list with 1,505 students. North Texas had been increasing in enrollment 400 to 600 students annually.

The college will put three new buildings in use this year, two others in 1957, and begin construction on five more in 1958, according to J. C. Matthews, president.

SHRINERS PARADE IN FULL ARRAY— Led by a mounted group from Chicago's Medinah Temple, members of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine parade up Detroit's Woodward Ave. and into Michigan Ave. on their way to the reviewing stand at Briggs Stadium. The parade lasted three hours. The horsemen are making what would be an illegal turn in normal times, but the city was virtually turned over to the Shriners for their 6-day stay.

Louisiana Legislature Ends Wildest Session In Years

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature early today wound up the wildest session in many years, with Gov. Earl Long causing most of the uproar.

The lawmakers brushed aside new taxes, but set spending records; repealed the two-year-old right to work law, but reinstated it for agricultural workers; voted a whopping pay raise for teachers, but killed the tax measure providing the funds.

Long, younger brother of the late Sen. Huey P. Long, carried on a running feud with anyone who opposed his program.

The fiery 60-year-old governor stalked the House and Senate floor, buttonholing members, heckling opponents and shouting instructions to his leaders.

He touched off a lusty name-calling feud with Secretary of State Wade Martin Jr. and his father, chairman of the Louisiana Public Service Commission, then pushed through legislation stripping the younger Martin of his duties as state insurance commissioner and custodian of voting machines.

Long held the spotlight to the end, going before a joint meeting of the House and Senate shortly after midnight to talk more than one hour. He defended his actions during the session and bitterly attacked newspapers and foes of his tax program.

Long began the 60-day session by directing the Legislature to address out of office 14 board members and the chairman of the State Tax Commission who refused to resign at his request.

And he easily won passage of legislation nullifying governmental reorganization under former Gov. Robert Kennon.

But one by one, the House killed Long's tax bills. Each fell short, by a narrow margin, of the 68-vote two-thirds approval required unadopted in the April general election.

In a last - ditch effort, Long rammed through a constitutional amendment to repeal the two-thirds requirement.

But like many of Long's proposals, it must be ratified by popular vote in November. Long predicts voter approval and promises a wide-ranging stump speaking tour for his proposals.

However, already some 37 legislators have organized a statewide fight to keep the two-thirds requirement.

Segregation, expected by many to be the top issue of the session, proved relatively noncontroversail.

The lawmakers gave a quick go-ahead to the 12-measure program sponsored by the legislative "watch dog" committee on segregation which included:

1. An interposition resolution declaring unconstitutional the U.S. Supreme Court's segregation decisions.

2. Measures permitting firing of teachers and school employes who advocate racial intergration or belong to the National Assn. for the Advancemznt of Colored People, outlawed under state court order.

3. A series of bills designed to throw a legal tangle about segregation in recreation and parks facilities, schools and colleges and travel waiting rooms.

Both House and Senate gave careful consideration of other segregation proposals, but finally okayed measures to:

1. Outlaw racillay mixed social and athletic events.

2. Require employers to furnish separate, sanitary facilities for white and Negro employes.

Milk Shortage Cause Is Told

DALLAS (AP)—The worst drought in the history of the area was balmed yesterday by the North Texas Milk Producers Assn. for the "genuine shortage" of milk facing Texas.

J. O. Woodman of Arlington, general manager of the association, said the drought and a shortage of feed caused the decreasing supply of milk.

Officials of the association, which represents 90 per cent of Texas dairymen, testified at a hearing held by the Department of Agriculture.

Dairymen are asking the government to maintain the July Grade A milk price of approximately 13 cents a quart through the end of the year. They say this would allow them to pay for expensive feeds.

"The supply of Grade A milk is decreasing, and this is accelerated by the drought which is the worst in the area's history," woodman said. "Sales are increasing more than production, and there has been a radical drop in production caused by hot temperatures in the past few days," he said. "It is getting so bad that even good rains would not help enough."

Normal Yield Pay Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Poage (D-Tex) urged today that McLennan County, Tex., cotton farmers putting land in the soil bank program be paid on the basis of "normal yields" on the acreage involved.

Poage suggested that yardstick instead of basing the cotton payments "on what someone would give for it at the present time."

He wrote Hugh Rooks, agricultural stabilization and conservation (ASC) administrator at Waco, saying he felt local administrators have the right to handle potential crop appraised estimates without taking directives from agriculture department headquarters.

The congressman said, on the assumption that a normal yield in that area would be about a half bale an acre, farmers should get $35 an acre for land placed in the soil bank.

"I don't know any fairer method you can use," he wrote.

"If you appraise that crop on the basis of what someone would give for it at the present time, it probably wouldn't pay him to plow it up, and as a matter of fact, you might be all wrong as the crop just might turn out all right...

"If you will but do what has been done in some counties and appraise all crops on the basis of their normal yield, you will be giving the farmer the benefit of the doubt rather than giving it to the government."

Poage said the appraisal methods used by some ASC committees in wheat growing areas had brought farmers only $6 an acre on soil bank land. He voiced concern that such an approach would be used on cotton lands.

About 13 per cent of U. S. spending units (families and single people) had incomes over $7,500 in 1955 compared to 6 per cent in 1950.

Man Fights Fire As Train Stops Firemen

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (AP) — All alone, Stanley Auras, 60, fought a fire which swept through his motel while firemen waited helplessly a few hundred yards away for a train to pull away from a crossing.

When he saw the fire was out of control, Zuras ran outside, keeled over and died of a heart attack.

Later when the train had moved on, firemen drove across the tracks and put out the fire.

The interior of the 12-unit frame motel was destroyed.

Firemen said an explosion of undetermined origin touched off the blaze.

Test For Water Uses

The State Water Board ruled this week in favor of the municipalities in a case that may well touch off an epic "waterhole fight" more resounding than any recorded since the days of Bigfoot Wallace.

H. D. Fields, Jr., of St. Jo appeared before the board to request a permit to impound 530 acre-feet of water from Elm Fork Creek, a tributary of the Trinity River, on one of the watersheds which supplies the City of Dallas.

The rancher's request was protested by both Dallas and Fort Worth, and the board denied the application. The cities insisted that if the Fields permit was granted other ranchers and farmers who have soil conservation dams on their property might also hold back more water, thus depriving the municipalities of their established rights.

The Dallas water superintendent declared the city's water permits "cover the entire possible yield from that area." He argued that to use a soil conservation dam for irrigation and recreational purposes would "lead to abuses of the intended purposes" of the dam, which are built primarily for flood control.

In denying the permit, the board held that the waters already appropriated to Dallas and other cities "are in excess of the yield of the watershed. The application is denied because there is no unappropriated water available to fill the request."

Fields was assured by the board that there was nothing to prevent him from appealing his case to a district court in Travis County, if he decides to do so.

While he has not yet made up his mind to do so, apparently the case could eventually reach the courts, and become a gage of battle between ranchers and farmers on one side and Texas municipalities on the other.

Under Texas law municipalities have first call on water for domestic purposes. That rule has been attacked in the Legislature in the past, and it may well be attacked again.

Yankee Jazz Abroad

Now it is official. American Jazz is a national asset abroad.

State Department officials in charge of cultural relations testified to that effect this week before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

State and other departments had appealed for $9 million for a special international program, but the House Appropriations Committee, where all money bills must originate, cut this request by $4,312,000. The $9 million included $2.7 million for artistic and athletic presentations abroad. Of this, $546,000 was meant to finance U.S. orchestras in their foreign appearances.

The exploits of one Dizzy Gillespie and his band figured in one passage-at-words in the Senate.

It seems Dizzy wowed 'em in Lebanon, Pakistan and other countries—thereby winning friends for Uncle Sam.

Sen. Ellender (D-La) renewed his fight against money to send jazz bands abroad, and against jazz in general, and against Dizzy Gillespie in particular. He said he had recently heard the Negro entertainer perform for President Eisenhower and "I have never heard so much noise in my life."

While there is some question whether jazz is cultural, or even whether it is music, there is a great deal of testimony to the effect that Negro entertainers—at least some of them—have done a great deal to dispel the notion abroad that the Negro in America is an oppressed, downtrodden and enslaved person, denied opportunity to improve himself, hated and despised.

These libels have been industriously circulated by Communists the world over.

Naturally such libels find lodgment among the ignorant, and since jazz reaches precisely that class where Bach and Beethoven could never penetrate, it follows that jazz has a place in our program to give foreigners a more accurate picture of what life is like in the United States.

A wondrously varigated, tolerant, all-inclusive pattern.

No Matter How A Strike Ends—

Space Travel, Rockets, Missiles Fast Growing Aircraft Business

By SAM DAWSON

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Space travel, earth satellites, rockets, missiles—all the electronic and atomic marvels of a new age—make up one of today's fastest spreading branches of the aircraft industry.

Production, employment, spending in these fields are increasing rapidly—in some instance doubling each year for the last four.

What was about one per cent of the total aircraft business six years ago is now estimated to account for 15 per cent of the industry's budget of sales and perhaps more of its spending.

One fifth of Convair's employes are engaged in work on missile, rocket or space travel projects, J. V. Naish, executive vice president of the Convair division of General Dynamics, says here. And since Convair has many suppliers of parts, uncounted others also contribute to this work.

Seventeen thousand or more employees of North American Aviation, in the Los Angeles area and elsewhere in the nation, are employed in its missile development, rocket test and autonetcie divisions.

"Guided missiles and their cousins are now fast becoming an industry of their own," says R. A. Lambeth, vice president and treasurer of North American Aviation. "The industry is far from mature yet. It will continue to grow."

Douglas Aircraft starts production this year on nike-type missiles in a government owned plant at Charlotte, N.C., Like the missiles rolling off its Santa Monica production lines the last two years. Altogether it is working on eight major missile projects.

"Missiles are an important part of our production," Donald W. Douglas says. "We helped pioneer the field 14 years ago. It would be an even faster growing part of the industry if the engineering shortage weren't a limiting factor."

In Seattle, Boeing engineers and production staff work on missile projects and prepare for the coming atomic age.

Lockheed will build a plant in Georgia to work on problems of building atomic planes. Vitro Corp. of America will study shielding and radiation problems involved in such a plane.

Officials at both Boeing and Convair are inclined to think scientists now can produce air and space machine marvels beyond the military's present ideas of how to make use of them.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

HARVEST ON THE SHORE. By Grace Carstens. Macmillian.

"Im going to know you very well," Nora Cameron declares to Justin Dodd when they are both youngsters, and this novel Mrs. Carstens' second, shows how well the beautiful woman whom she has made her narrator sticks to her determination.

The scene is the Cape, the town is called Coveport — I suspect you were there before in "Born a Yankee," the first novel from this author. Nora's father has come to settle there and paint, but he takes up, instead, the life of a fisherman, while Nora carries on his artistic career for him. Justin, a neighbor's boy, has an irrepressible hankering for motors, and Nora's father helps him surreptitously — the boy's widowed mother is as set against it as a New Englander can possibly be.

Justin loves the town, he tries the city but comes back home to make his way there. Nora loves her art; she goes away to New York and Rome to study, but she, too, comes back. They love each other, but each has a certain minimum asking price; she would want to keep on painting, for example, while he would want a mother for his children.

This is not a conventional tale of frustration, or of career versus marriage, or of the cosmopolite pitted against the hick. Here are two characters whose convictions, supported by a considerable inner strength, stand in the way of a facile happiness. It makes a sound story, and the background, you are sure, is dependable.

Auto Industry Planning Real 'Lowdown' Models

By INEZ ROBB

The automobile industry is about to jack itself up and out of its present recession, according to a responsible financial newsletter at which I have been peeking.

In order to do this, the industry is going to pass a miracle on the assembly line in the production of cars that are "wider, lower and faster" than ever before.

Models for 1957, according to this forecast, will be so low-slung and rakish that every self-respecting householder will put the torch to his old jalopy and rush out to buy the "New Look" before the Joneses have a chance.

And, presto chango, Detroit will boom, steel mills will be busy 24 hours a day, used car lots will burgeon and any fool who tries to get out and get under will have to dig a pit first.

Well, sir, I only wish Detroit the best of everything. But just how the industry can lower cars that are already lower than a snake's belly, how it can widen cars that are now wider than the barn door, and how it can add more speed to cars that already manage to kill almost 40,000 citizens annually is a puzzlement.

It is just possible that with the craze for ever lower and lower cars, a radical adaptation of the species that drives 'em is in order. The current American trend toward ever taller and taller citizens with each passing generation will simply have to be curbed.

Even with 1956 models, I have felt a great improvement would be effected with a small neon sign over each door reading "Duck! Low Bridge!" With the 1957 models, it is entirely possible that the only plausible mode of ingress and egress will be on the hands and knees, until such time as the new, lower order of Americans can be produced.

In my salad days, an American Postmaster General achieved considerable fame by ordering an automobile specially constructed so the top would be high enough to furnish leeway for his silk hat. In the car of the future, it seems probable that the passenger will not only have to remove his hat but his head.

This trend toward ever lower cars presents an entirely new problem in highway construction, too. Now, with the nation on the threshold of embarking on a $50,000,000,000 road building program, is the time for engineers to design the highway of the future.

This could be a continuous grasepit in the center of each traffic lane, a device that would allow the Detroit designers to drop all the innards to a sub-surface level.

Naturally, if the airplane industry can make its passengers mutually miserable by seating 'em five abreast, so can the auto industry in its new models. As for faster cars: I realize this is awfully old-fashioned, but sometimes I think that what we need is not so much more horsepower as horse sense.

Still and all, it is the lowering of the 1957 models that really fasinates me. For the life of me, I don't see why persons who crave a real lowdown car don't save time and trouble by taking the subway.

Hot Campaign Fight Looms With Ike's Decision That He Will Stay In Race

By The Associated Press

A hot campaign fight between President Eisenhower and the Democratic majority in Congress loomed today in the wake of a revelation that Eisenhower definitely is a candidate for re-election.

Democrats generally professed no surprise at the news that Eisenhower is a candidate and little alarm at his reported criticism of their handling of administration legislation.

The President was described as "irritated" yesterday at congressional cuts in his foreign aid program. The report came from Sen. Bridges (R-NH), who attended the presidential conference at which Eisenhower reaffirmed his intent to run again.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said Democrats are prepared to prove that the embattled foreign aid measue has had little assistance from Republican members of Congress.

Before Eisenhower starts trying to convince millions with his leap year liberalism," Humphrey said, "I suggest that he try convincing about 225 Republicans in Congress who don't go along with him."

And Sen. Sparkman of Alabama, the 1952 Democratic vice presidential candidate, said Eisenhower will need to explain how Republicans helped block a housing bill passed by the Senate but bottled up in the House.

Sparkman also made a representative Democratic reply to the news of Eisenhower's candidacy yesterday: "What comment is there to make? He's been running all along."

As expected, Republicans were jubilant at the news, long anticipated but not directly confirmed during the days of Eisenhower's convelescence from his June 9 intestinal surgery.

GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall said "people of every walk in life are rejoicing." He added he would resume discussions shortly with Eisenhower on the forthcoming national convention and campaign.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen later though there never was any doubt Eisenhower would remain a candidate and he didn't think there was any "rethinking" on it during the recent illness.

Hagerty said he also thought there was no need to "rethink" about Vice President Nixon as the President's running mate.

A renewed attack on Eisenhower came from Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Harriman told newsmen Eisenhower "doesn't seem to have any conception of the responsibilities of the presidency" and criticized him for what he called "lack of leadership" in the current steel strike.

Former Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado said he would ask Eisenhower to spearhead a GOP drive for farm votes by making a major farm speech in Chicago.

In Columbia, S.C., Gov. George Bell Timmerman's office announced support from two Southern governors and one U.S. Senator in his call for Southern unity at the Aug. 13 convention.

Letters from Gov. Earl Long of Louisiana and Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi indicated they would work closely with Timmerman in his drive for a united Southern front.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) wrote Timmerman that "if the South does not present a solid front we will eventually be engulfed in the evil consequences" of the Supreme Court's decisions barring racial segregation in public school.

Timmerman has said he has no desire to break Democratic ranks with any third-party movement.

The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution said last night Southern Democratic state chairmen will meet in Atlanta Friday and Saturday to establish a solid front for the convention.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Burtons Are Going On Trip To South America

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Justice and Mrs. Harold H. Burton will make their first visit to South America during the Supreme Court recess this summer. Every year since 1947 they have gone to Europe.

Most of the trip will be by air "to get a bird's eye view of the sights that are beautiful," Mrs. Burton explained. "The places we like best we can revisit another time for a longer stay." They will be gone until the last of August.

"By then some 300 to 400 cases will have come in to the court, and the Justice will have to settle down to studying them," Mrs. Burton told me. The Burtons are traveling alone. Their two sons, two daughters, six granddaughters and three grandsons, most of whom live around Cleveland, they saw at family clambakes before leaving.

"We're traveling simply as Selma and Harold Burton, and no one where we go will feel he has to do any official entertaining for us," the Justice's wife explained. "We're traveling light so we can keep moving from place to place as we wish."

Justice and Mrs. Sherman Minton also expect to travel. They plan to visit England, Scotland, the Scandinavian countries, Germany, Luxembourg and France. Their daughter, Mrs. John Callanan, married to a dentist and mother of four boys, and their son, John, who is with the Department of the Interior, live in Washington. Another son, Dr. Sherman Minton Jr., married and the father of three daughters, is a teacher at the University of Indiana and lives at New Albany, Ind.

Justice and Mrs. Tom Clark will begin their vacation by going to Santa Fe, N. M., to attend a conference of Clark's judicial circuit and then proceed to Dallas, Tex., for a short visit with relatives. These include Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. William F. Ramsey and their son, Ramsey, his wife, and two children. The rest of the summer they expect to spend right here in the capital where they have an air-conditioned apartment. Living with them at the moment is their pretty daughter, Mimi, and their year-old granddaughter, Gail. Mimi's husband, Navy Lt. Thomas R. Gronlund, is in Newfoundland.

Justice and Mrs. Felix Frankfurter plan to spend their usual summer in New England, and Justice and Mrs. John M. Harlan are at their home in Westport Conn,

Success Hasn't Dulled Ambition Of Steve Allen

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"I get angry just looking at a row of books, knowing there won't be time to read them all," said Steve Allen.

"The biggest trouble with life is that it doesn't last long enough for you to do all the things you want to."

Steve, who quit college after six months to take a $40-a-week job as a radio announcer, at 34 has become a top figure in television, lives on Park Ave. and is married to a beautiful actress named Jayne Meadows.

Many an entertainer might feel content at this point to rest a bit on his oars and think he had it made. Not Allen, a man of many talents. He wants to explore new fields. Being a successful actor-composer-pianist-master of ceremonies-comedian aren't enough to keep him busy.

"I have a feeling that most of the jobs in the entertainment world really are only part-time," he said, thoughtfully. "Song writing, for example, is a part-time job—even if you're an Irving Berlin. It takes only a half hour to write a song. It's a real snap as a profession."

Steve has written some 200 songs himself, including the lyrics for the current hit tune, "Picnic."

In the midst of these side chores he is still emceeing three "tonight" shows a week and seeking to overthrow Ed Sullivan's virtual 8-year monopoly on Sunday evenings.

How can he keep so many irons in the fire without falling apart?

"I was born with a relaxed nervous system," Steve said, smiling. "I don't worry. And I get 9 hours sleep a night. Sleep is basically important to me.

"But, oddly, the thing that has done the most for me is the ability to sit in front of a camera and still feel and act like a human being.

"For some reason, very few can. Dave Garroway, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Paar, Garry Moore can, but it's hard to name more than half a dozen.

The NBC-CBS struggle for peak ratings on Sunday night doesn't seem to perturb Steve unduly.

"The two people who have the sanest attitudes toward it are Ed Sullivan and myself," he said. "We are friends. Both he and I have the viewpoint that there is plenty of room on the air for good entertainment. The industry right now is too rating-happy. I don't care too much about my rating so long as it's recognized that I have a good show."

Commies Admit They Were Wrong About Americans

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is a journey into the minds of America's Communist leaders who over the past three decades exacted trust and blind obedience from the thousands of men and women who joined the party.

How good was that leadership? And how honest has it been, then and now, with those thousands who, putting their future in the hands of these men, assumed they knew what they were doing and could be believed?

The American leaders admit now, but only after the Russians' frank exposures, that they were wrong in never recognizing or protesting Stalin's tyranny or misdeeds.

And the leadership admits that in these past 10 years here at home the party suffered damaging losses and committed disastrous mistakes.

For example, it admits: it did not understand America; it must begin studying it; it cut its own membership too drastically; it sought to stir conflict between poor and middle-class Negroes only to find all Negro classes joining forces behind what they wanted — desegregation; the party lost through its tactics any influence it had in the mainstream of American labor; three times since 1945 it expected depressions and war; and its attempt to form a third political party ended in farce.

One simple test can be applied: American Communists call themselves scientific Marxisst. Therefore they must be judged by a basic scientifid standard: Did they deal in facts? The answer is no.

It is admitted by Eugene Dennis, the party's No. 1 man.

It came about when Mike Conway, 9, found a robin's egg which fell from a nest in a tall tree near his home. He prevailed upon his dad, Dr. Martin E. Conway, to take the egg to the hospital and put it in an incubator.

The baby robin's arrival was witnessd by several of the hospital staff members.

Dentist Is Authority

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—It has been said that if you're an important person nationally you'll know Helen Sioussat—and she will know you. Furthermore, she and your wife will know each other. And finally, she usually will know you and your wife before you've become important nationally.

There is no particular plotting or consulting of ouija boards in this state of affairs. It's simply that Miss Sioussat likes people—and they like her. She has a job with a title: director of talks for CBS. But work seems to be mostly play to her.

To her come all requests for sustaining time and all scripts for political, cultural and educational talks heard over CBS radio and CBS-TV. As a remote sideline to all her other activities, she has gained quite a reputation as "spiker of rumors" since she attended her first national political convention for CBS in 1936. She will, of course, be present and accounted for at the conventions next month with a sharp spike for all and any rumors.

How do you spike a political rumor anyway? Well it helps to know a current or former president of the United States—and Miss Sioussat has known all presidents and their families from Herbert Hoover on.

In 1952 the rumor was rife at the Republican National Convention that Gen. Douglas MacArthur was flying to Chicago. "Try to check it for us, Helen," said the CBS news chief.

"I phoned Mr. Hoover at the Waldorf in New York," Miss Sioussat recalled the other day. "He told me that Gen. MacArthur was not flying to Chicago and that I could deny the rumor. He didn't ask me not to mention his name. He knew he didn't need to. As a matter of fact, this is the first time I've told the story. But the rumor was spiked and CBS recalled its newsmen from the airport at Chicago."

A name-by-name rundown of every mentioned candidate for nomination in both parties reveals that Miss Sioussat knows well each or someone close to each—except Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio.

She will be in close contact with them at the conventions. At the 1952 Democratic convention the rumor was afloat that Vice President Alben Barkley was withdrawing his name from the race for presidential nominee. Miss Sioussat was sitting, she recalls, in a Cabinet box at the convention with Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman and Mrs. Chapman when the secretary was called to the phone.

"I was quite certain it was the President calling," she said. "I asked Oscar and he said it was. He said that Alben had withdrawn his name and that now the swing would be to Adlai Stevenson."

Dining Al Fresco Can Be Both Cool And Festive

By VIVIAN BROWN
(P) Newsfeatures Writer

Entertain your luncheon or bridge club outdoors at a festive table that is cool and inviting.

Be chic about the service and table and your guests will enjoy whatever menu you offer.

If you are going to eat outdoors why not do it up in pastel? The harried housewife who decides at the last minute that family or guests are going to eat al fresco is likely to make the venture a little too casual.

Turquoise, pink and all the ice-cream hues are popular for tableware. Chairs, tables, umbrellas and other patio furnishings are available in those delicious colors al-Glassware for the table in the same or contrasting colors adds sparkle.

A new type of soft cotton fishnet makes a tablecloth with a convenient center hole through which a table parasol may be placed. One sports a pattern of enormous whales in aqua, pink ice, rose beige, pineapple, gold, forest green and hot chocolate.

Use as many pastel hues as you like in determining how to set your table. Turquoise, white and pink makes a charming color combination, especially if you have the parasol-table combination to add additional coolth. One such table seen recently had turquoise and white berry bowls over opaque pink glass serving plates set on an aqua fishnet cloth. The color combination may be completed with aqua-colored glass tumblers and pink glass sugar and creamer.

An effective centerpiece might be made by putting garden flowers into glass casseroles, placing one on either side of your parasol pole.

A beach house setting might be completed with some additives from the sea such as sea shells used as ashtrays, tiny shells glued to tumblers, star fish fastened to the table cloth.

74 Beauties Vie For Universe Title

By JACK LEFLER

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—How real is the pot of gold and fame at the end of the Miss Universe rainbow?

With visions of the glamor and riches of movie stardom in their pretty heads, 74 beauties from throughout the world today start down the glittering trail that will Fowler still is riding the bus lead to the crown.

They come from 32 foreign countries and 39 states and three cities of this country.

After nine days of competition in face and form in the fifth annual International Beauty Congress, the fairest of all will be acclaimed Miss Universe.

Universal-International studios will place Miss Universe, Miss U.S.A. and the runner-up in each of those categories under six-month contract. And it may sign others who look promising.

What has happened to the four previous winners of the title?

First Miss Universe in 1952 was the Finnish beauty Helena Kuusela. Not long after winning, she went to Manila to make an appearance at an international exposition. There she met Virgilio Hilario, a wealthy young Filipino. They were married soon, after in Tokyo.

In 1953, Christiane Maretl, 18, a fiery French brunette, walked off with the crown. She wed Ronnie Morengo, Stockton, Calif., department store heir, in January 1954, but their marriage lasted only 74 days. After completing her six-month film contract, she went on a night club tour of Mexico and South American. Little has been heard of her since.

The 1954 winner was Miriam Stevenson of Winnsboro, S.C., who was admired as typifying the fresh beauty of a country girl. Her interest in a movie career evaporated in a few weeks and she went home to finish college.

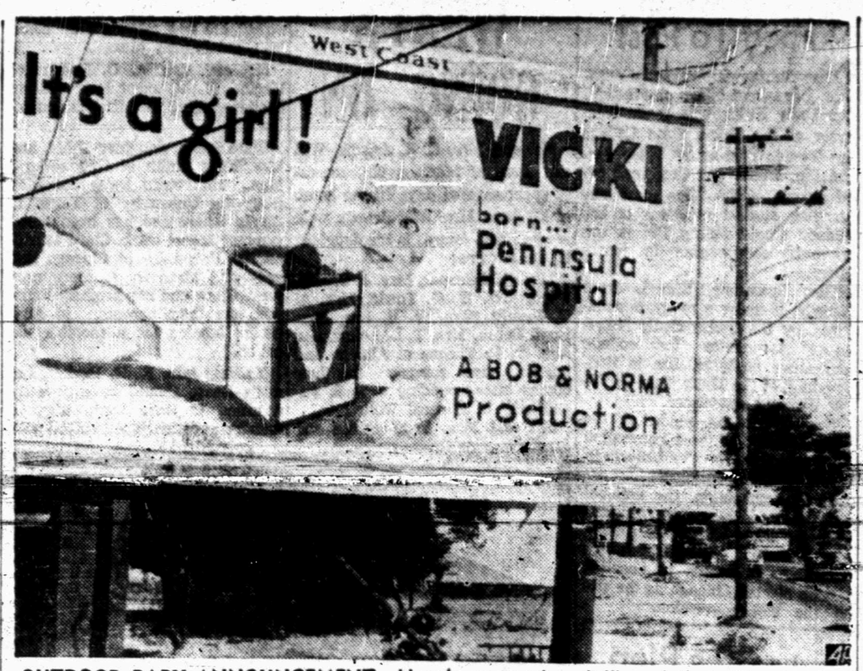
Romance almost grabbed the 1955 Miss Universe, Sweden's Hillevi Rombin, before her chance at a film career got under way. She had been given a six-word role in "The Benny Goodman Story." With filming about to start, she flew to Sweden to see her fiance. But she returned to Hollywood unmarried and is still under contract to Universal-International. She is just back from a personal appearance tour in South America.

$40 A Month Won't Buy Him Cigarettes

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A 13-year-old Topeka boy told officers he broke into a service station because his $40-a-month allowance doesn't keep him in cigarettes.

He was turned over to the juvenile authorities. His name was not divulged.

Deputy Sheriff Don Becker quoted the lad as saying he usually spent his allowance in about two days on swimming, movies and candy. The money was provided by his grandmother, with whom he lived.



OUTDOOR BABY ANNOUNCEMENT—Here's an outdoor billboard that attracts attention on the El Camio Real thoroughfare at Millbrea, California. It's a baby announcement which Bob and Norma Heyman of San Mateo thought would be a unique and expedient way of letting friends know their first child, Vicki, was born at Peninsula Hospital. Daddy is connected with an outdoor advertising outfit, which probably prompted the idea.

Prairie Schooner Takes Family Across Nation

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — An old Prairie schooner drawn by two white mules pulled into Hannibal yesterday, bringing the Elfgren family of eight and their pet dog.

The Elfgrens, who travel about 10 hours and 25-30 miles each day, planned to continue today their trip from East Killingly, Conn., to Lincoln, Neb. They still have about 400 miles to go.

Mom, Dad, six children and the dog left East Killingly three weeks ago.

Ernest Elfgren, a machinist, says he expectes to reach Lincoln about Aug. 1. They plan to settle and start a chinchilla and pony farm in Nebraska.

Cage Buys Company

DALLAS (AP) — Controlling interest in Continental Union Insurance Co. of Birmingha, has been sold to Jack Cage & Co. of Alabama, J. A. McFaddin Jr., president of the ICT Corp said yesterday. Ben Jack Cage, formerly of Dallas and now of New York, owns the Jack Cage firm.

Malaya Skirmish Unpopular

By MURRAY FROMSON

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—"Two water buffaloes killed and one farmer wounded. No terrorists sighted."

That was the report of a patrol of British soldiers who walked out of the Malayan jungle the other day as Britain entered the ninth year of its war upon Communist rebels.

The soldiers, in their 20s, had spent days hacking their way through underbrush or burning leeches from their skin. Their report was pretty much routine for the "emergency" that each day seems to lose more of its urgency.

The Communists, once a force estimated at 5,000, are supposed to number 2,500 to 3,000 now. They tangle with British forces only occasionally.

This is an expensive war for Britain — about three million dollars a month. It is also unpopular at home. Britons sense the decline of their influence in Malaya. It is hard for them to send out young men, mostly draftees.

The average Malay seems tired of restrictions too.

Roadblocks still dot the highways. Curfews, imposed in 1948, are strictly observed. No cars can be driven between towns after dark. Malay guards still search cars and trucks — particularly those belonging to Chinese — to make sure no food is being carried to the terrorists.

Chinese squatters, put into new villages in 1950 and restricted in areas they can farm, hold smoldering contempt for the Malay authorities.

Today the Malayan Communist party finds two factors working against it.

Armed rebellion has been downgraded in the context of world Communist strategy. And the rapid grant of Malayan independence — due next year — has cut the ground from under the party's feet.

White Britain will give up its authority here, it will continue to have an interest in this area. It has been negotiating for retention of military bases for a commonwealth strategic reserve.

The British and Malays seem hopeful of declaring an end to the emergency within 18 months.

Occupational Hazard Puts Him In Hospital

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—A China Grove beekeeper was hospitalized here after he was stung by a bee.

Hospital attaches said James R. Nichols, 50, of Rt. 3, China Grove, received "a terrible reaction and a great deal of pain" when one bee stung him on the leg.

Nichols was removing honey from a hive when he was stung.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

LOCAL BASEBALL FANS can get a pretty good look at the 1956 Pony League All-Star team during the next two nights.

It comes time now for everyone to bind together in backing our kid baseball all-star nines. Heretofore the backing has been divided, of course, since the boys were split up among various local teams.

But now the "cream of the crop' has been chosen to represent the Pony Leaguers in post season play and the all-star selections in our two Little Leagues will be announced shortly.

Community support means a lot to these youngsters and we know Snyder citizenry will not let them down.

The Pony Leaguers will get the ball rolling tonight in playing as a unit, meeting the Hamlin Pony League All-Stars here in an exhibition game. Then tomorrow night the locals will contest two teams, Sweetwater and Colorado City, in a doubleheader here. Tomorrow's game will also be exhibition affairs.

Nothing will count toward the Pony League playoffs until the week of July 23-28 when the locals take on Colorado City in a best of three sub-district game series.

Umpires Are Human

Maybe its a little late in the year to be bringing it up but the situation is gradually getting out of hand in fans riding the umpires at our local kid games.

Riding the umpires, professionally speaking, is something that goes with baseball. But in Little League and Pony League where civic minded men donate their time in serving as umpires, outward criticism of their decisions shouldn't be tolerated.

Its true that these men will miss some calls. But then the umpires in the major leagues who draw high salaries for umpiring miss calls practically every day, at least they do in the opinion of the players and fans.

If those who ride the umpires at our local games (there aren't many but theres just enough to make it unpleasant for the fellows who umpire) could just umpire one game we don't believe they would ever criticise an umpire again.

Umpires, in the first place, are hard to get. No one knows this better than Lee Smythe, our umpire-in-chief here. Riding the umpires has brought about the umpire shortage.

It isn't as bad here as it is in some places we know of but we just wanted to call the attention to the few who are guilty of chastising the umps that these fellows who volunteer their services are doing the best they can. What more can you ask than that?

Not Too Late To Contribute To Olympic Fund

There may be some who would still like to contribute to the United States Olympic Fund. If there are you can mail your contribution to the Chamber of Commerce office who'll see that it will get to the proper channels.

Local officials are still quite "embarrassed' over the fact that only $180 was contributed by Monday night's crowd of 2,500 or so that attended the wimming exhibition here.

Some, it is believed, didn't realize the inportance of contributing to the Olympic Fund at Monday night's show, that being the principal reason local officials are giving the citizens another chance to donate.

BUILDING ARENA

Ex-Fight Official Realizes Dream

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Bobby Manziel was a bantamweight fighter working a preliminary in Tulsa that night. He looked over the huge crowd and decided that if he ever got the money he would build the biggest auditorium in the world.

Manziel has more money today than he has time to count and he's building that auditorium. It isn't the largest in the world but it is the largest air conditioned auditorium.

The auditorium, called "the Bobby Manziel Coliseum"—a change from the original designation of "Oil Palace"—is being erected near Tyler. Associated with him in the venture is Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion from 1919 to 1926.

Manziel was Dempsey's only bantamweight sparring partner for nine years.

This coliseum is really something. It will have 14,000 permanent seats and 7,000 collapsible seats can be put in if the crowd warrants. There's not a post in the place. It was started four months ago and Manziel thinks it will be finished about January.

On the face of it, it would appear to be a daring venture if a fellow was worried about losing money. It'll cost several million dollars and if it stands idle it will lose more than that. But Manziel, a man with a vision, is noted for making money out of anything he tries.

"This is the heart of East Texas," he says. "There are 2½ million people within a radius of 100 miles, because the territory takes in Dallas and Shreveport and the rich oil fields of East Texas. There is plenty of money in this section. I can see no reason why athletic events in my coliseum won't draw. We might have a world's championship prize fight."

Manziel says he already has 31 attractions for 1957 in view—these include sports events, conventions, and he has show rooms for auto exhibits. There will be an ice arena and Sonja Henie already has talked to him for a place on the schedule. The Harlem Globetrotters also are due to use it. He will even have an indoor track for winter meets. He can handle rodeos by just removing the floor. He has plenty of turf space.

Bobby is a native of Fort Smith, Ark., and once promoted boxing in Arkansas. He still referees. He had 60 or 70 amateur fights in 20 or 25 in pro ranks. That was the reason for his hookup with Dempsey. He handled Jack after the heavyweight champion split up with Jack Kearns.

Timid Birdie Worried Over Phil Series

CINCINNATI (AP) — These major league managers can be timid souls.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts came home yesterday from the All-Star Game with his Cincinnati Redlegs leading the National League by a game and a half and after several of them had been big factors in the National League's 7-3 victory over the American Leaguers.

What did he have to say about a series opening tonight against the seventh-place Philadelphia Phils?

"The Phils are hot now. The coming series scares me to death. They will have (Curt) Simmons and (Robin) Roberts in two of those games. It will be a real test."

Of course, there is some reason for Tebbetts' "fright." The Phils have been going pretty well lately. Through the early part of the season they just rolled over and played dead against the Reds but on Cincinnati's last swing through the East they won two out of three from the Redlegs.

It took a highly successful series against the Brooklyn Dodgers to send the Reds back into the Midwest in a position to reach their present status in the pennant race.

The Redlegs figured to have to face a well-rested Roberts tonight but they'll have an equally rested Art Fowler ready to pitch. He has won two of three from the Phils this season. Brooks Lawrence with a 12-0 record is scheduled to go on the mound tomorrow night.

But even though Tebbetts is a bit fearful, he still expressed confidence in his lads.

Then he got fearful again, calling the next 12 days at home "big ones for us."

IN PRACTICE GAME

Pony Stars Meet Hamlin Tonight

Snyder's Pony League All-Stars will open a busy weekend tonight when they host the Hamlin Pony All-Stars in an exhibition game at Towle Memorial Park.

Game time tonight has been set or 8.

Tonight's game will be the first of four to be played by the locals over the weekend. The Snyder nine will play a doubleheader here tomorrow, meeting Colorado City in the opening game at 7 and Sweetwater in the second game at about 8:30.

Then Saturday night the locals will journey to Rotan to meet the Rotan Pony stars.

All games this weekend will be exhibition contests.

One game has been set for the locals for next week. Manager Bill Valentine will take his charges to Abilene Saturday night, July 21. Other games will likely be lined up for the Snyder nine next week.

Snyder will meet Colorado City in the first round of the playoffs the week of July 23-28. The exact date and site of the series hasn't been set. The two teams will play a best two-out-of-three game series for the sub-district title.

Valentine has announced that he will send John Weaver to the mound tonight against Hamlin.

Probable starting lineups and batting order for the Snyder stars tonight will be:

Charles Popnoe, centerfield, Tommy Minton, left field, Richard Manah, shortstop; Terry Lee, third base; Jerry Fleming second base; Ronnie Jones, right field; John Weaver, pitcher; and Wayne Berry, catcher.

Machen Hands Valdes 1st KO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Unbeaten Eddie Machen, his prestige heightened by a smashing knockout victory last night over the Cuban giant Nino Valdes apparently will be in no hurry to go after bigger game.

"The kid's still green," said Machen's cagey manager Sid Flaherty. "He's got a lot to learn.

"When I think he's ready for bigger fights, I'll get them for him."

Machen, a quick-striking opportunist from California, bent Valdes like a jackknife with a thudding right to the stomach in the eighth round. Ten seconds later Nino, lying on his side, was counted out for the first time in his career.

Already the 10th ranking heavyweight, although he has had only 15 professional fights, Machen undoubtedly advanced a notch or two in the ratings on his sparkling victory.

The 24-year-old Californian has won them all, 12 by knockouts, and Flaherty is confident that with a few more fights under his belt he will be a real title contender.

Whenever his slashing left hooks caught Valdes off guard, Machen was on him like a cat. In the fourth, he stunned Nino with a left and had landed three more lefts and three rights to the jaw before the powerful Cuban fell halfway through the ropes.

Machen was just as quick in the final round when a left-right combination knocked Valdes into the ropes. Nino dropped his guard and left his midseetion open for the finishing blow.

LL ALL-STAR 9's TO BE ANNOUNCED FRIDAY NIGHT

The Little League All-Star teams will be announced following Friday night's games.

All members of the local Little League teams, whether their team is playing Friday or not, are requested to be present for Friday's doubleheader.

No exact times or sites have been revealed for the area Little League playoffs. A district LL meeting will be held at Lubbock Sunday at which time the playoff dates and sites will be announced.

Dub Everett and Mutt Herod will represent Snyder at the Lubbock meeting.

SAY EXPERTS

Players Are Just Plain Better Today

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Talk about the lively ball and the lively bat has aroused defenders of the baseball faith who demand "credit where credit is due"—the lively player.

Dave Grote, manager of the National League service bureau, asks this question:

"Why isn't it acknowledged that the greater output of home runs today might be due to the simple fact that the majors today are blessed by the greatest number of power hitters in the old game's history?"

Grote quotes figures to show the players are taller and heavier than those of 20 years ago. In 1936, the average National League first baseman was 5-11 and weighed 179. Now the average is 6-2½ and 203 pounds. That makes a difference of three inches and 24 pounds to a man. Similar figures for other positions show the modern day player is a bigger man.

Scouting Techniques

"It's an outgrowth of the change in scouting techniques since the second world war," said Warren Giles, National League President. "Every scout is looking for the power hitter. Where the scout used to be on the lookout for the speedy kid who was good at hitting behind the runner and other skills, the primary question now is how far can he hit the ball."

Birdie Tebbetts, manager of the slugging Cincinnati Redlegs, goes along with the same idea.

"Ballplayers are better today," said Tebbetts. "They're bigger, stronger—and, yes, smarter. After all, they've had the advantage of 100 years of baseball experience. The hitters are better. The things Ty Cobb did as an inventor, the players now do as a matter of course.

Kids Start Younger

"The kids today start younger with the Little Leagues, the Babe Ruth leagues, the American Legion program and all the others. Baseball is a highly specialized game now. If it wasn't for the Army, we'd have a group of exceptionally young players in the majors.

"They break the 4-minute mile, high jump seven feet and smash all the track records. Why shouldn't the baseball players be better too?"

There is a school of thought that figures another human element, the pitcher, is the most important factor in the home run craze.

Stan Hack, manager of the Chicago Cubs, thinks the reduced strike zone is a reason for the slugging spree.

Redlegs, Yankees Could Pad Leads

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

The time of decision is at hand in the National and American League pennant races, where the Cincinnati Redlegs and the New York Yankees enjoy the leads with great expectations ahead.

Cincinnati could fatten its 1½-game National League edge almost overnight. And the Yankees, even with Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra bothered by injury, could bust the AL race wide open.

The Redlegs have 13 games remaining on their current home stand and get back to business after the All-Star Game break by opening a three - game series against the seventh-place Philadelphia Phillies tonight.

Second place Milwaukee and Brooklyn's third - place world champions have a four-game set on tap at Milwaukee, opening with a twi-night double-header today. That puts the Redlegs, who have won 12 of their last 16 and have a four-game winning streak on the fire, in a dandy spot to make hay.

It also puts the Braves and the Dodgers, who are two games behind, on the spot, along with fourth-place St. Louis and fifth-place Pittsburgh. The Cardinals, particularly, are on the fence—having lost 11 of their last 16 and eight of their last nine to fall to a mere one percentage point edge over the Bucs.

Rain postponed Milwaukee's scheduled make-up game with New York's Giants last night.

The American league race is almost exactly as it was at this stage last year—with the Yankees apparently safely out front. New York holds a 6½-game edge over second-place Chicago and third-place Cleveland going into a three-game series with the Indians today and with the White Sox due for a three-game visit starting Sunday.

Manager Casey Stengel thinks the three-day All-Star game break may have helped his wobbling pitching staff, but the big question is how effectively Mantle and Berra work with their injuries.

Mantle, still wearing a brace on his injured right knee, says his nine-inning haul in the All-Star Game didn't do his knee any further harm. And Yogi insists there's nothing frightfully wrong with the little finger on his right hand which was banged by a foul tip in Tuesday's classic. Berra even snubbed a scheduled X-ray examination yesterday.

STUDYING an experiment in a quantitative analysis laboratory at the University of Texas are Ronnie Smith of Snyder and Barbara Long of Houston, two students working in a special five-week program now in progress for advanced high school chemistry students. Smith, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith, 3205 Fortieth Street, will be a senior here this fall.

Young Scientists On Brisk Schedule

Lectures, laboratory work, and field trips, made up a large part of the studies of 28 Texas high school students this summer in a science advancement program at the University of Texas.

Ronnie Smith, Snyder High School student who will be a senior here this fall, is among the students taking part in the special program, believed to be the first of its kind in the nation. The students were selected for outstanding ability in chemistry.

Dr. Robert E. Eakin, associate professor of chemistry and Biochemical Institute research scientist, is in charge of the five-week program, which will end Friday. He is assisted by Mrs. Edna Boon of Austin, biology teacher at Stephen F. Austin High School, and Donald Tarver, student at the university.

The four girls and 24 boys each morning attend a one and one-half hour chemistry lecture, have an hour problems session, and hear university and industrial representatives describe various scientific topics.

Afternoons are devoted to laboratories, library work, and individual projects. The boys and girls are working out such individual problems as improving photographic developers, growing orchids in fir bark, and generating electricity from salt water.

The young scientists make weekend field trips to learn more about the fields of geology, biology, and medicine. One excursion took the group to San Marcos to observe underwater life through glassbottom boats. Another time they explored the Austin region to study geologic formations. On a trip to the Houston area, they visited the Dow Chemical Co. at Freeport, American Oil Co. at Texas City, and the univeristy's M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute at Houston.

The project is being studied by an advisory committee from other Texas colleges. The committee will evaluate the program to determine whether it should be adopted widely. Also, of successful, the program may be extended to other fields, such as biology, mathematics, and English.

Students other than Smith participating in the program include Jerry Alexander, Arnold Birdsong, William Klingman, Peggy Prosch, John D. Reichert and Norman Vatow, all of Austin; Robert Bowman and William L. Hopper of Baytown, Richard Weinberg of Bellaire, Adele Lyle and Gaston C. Maurin of Corpus Christi, Larry Fulbright and Leaton Oliver of El Paso, Rudolph Ambriz, Jr., Barbara Long, Larry C. Scott, Earl Vanzant, and Charles Welz, all of Houston; Jim Carter and Mike Ratliff of Lubbock, Mike Watson of Lufkin, Thomas Bailey, William Campbell, Ned Givens, Allan Mandel, and Charles Rogers, all of San Antonio.

Military Base Redesignated

MINERAL WELLS (AP)—Ceremonies redesignating Wolters Air Force Base as Camp Wolters will be held at the installation tomorrow. Army Secretary Wilber Buckner will speak.

The Army redesignated the new post as the result of the Department of Defense transferring the responsibility for Army aviation training from the Air Force to the Army.

The camp will be used principally for primary cargo helicopter training. At the post will be an average of 75 helicopter preflight students and 200 helicopter pilot students.

The camp will use a service unit of about 450 military and 500 civilian personnel in addition to the 300 cadets. About 2,300 non-aviation troops will also be stationed here.

Borden Lists Polling Places

GAIL—There will be eight polling places in Borden County for the July 28 primary election, according to C. C. Nunnally, county judge.

The voting boxes will include Gail at the courthouse, Palins at the school, Snellings at the R. B. Wells residence, Miller at the Alton Millikin residence, Murphy at the school, Vealmoor at the W. C. Dulles Seeks To Calm Storm Over Neutrality, Sooth India

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles apparently is seeking to improve U.S. relations with neutral Ipdia and abate a wordy storm over the American attitude toward neutrality.

That, at least, is the impression created by his news conference comments yesterday — one of which indicated some slight disagreement with Vice President Nixon.

Dulles later conferred with the retiring U.S. ambassador to India, John Sherman Cooper, an advocate of substantial U.S. assistance to India's long-term development.

Cooper told reporters afterwards he wants to get "some decisions" on economic aid to India before he steps out, probably at the end of next week, to campaign for the Senate for Kentucky.

Cooper declined to comment on a Senate speech by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) saying that since the Republicans took over, "almost every action of the United States in that area of the world . . . has served to alienate the friendship of India."

Describing Cooper as "a good and distinguished ambassador," Kefauver said President Eisenhower's request that Cooper relinquish his post to run for the Senate is a move "to cap all the mistakes we have made in dealing with India."

Dulles did not discuss this country's sometimes irritated relations with India and with Prime Minister Nehru specifically at his meeting with newsmen. However, he did talk about statements which Nixon made during a trip, ended yesterday, to six allied countries in the Far and Middle East.

It was while on this trip that Nixon said countries which follow a neutralist policy toward communism run "almost the certain risk" of becoming Red satellites.

Nehru called Nixon's views undemocratic, declaring that tolerance of different viewpoints is the basis of democracy. Nixon replied that Nehru is entitled to his opinion but that his speech was not undemocratic.

Nixon took the position, however, that the United States in some cases should continue to give assistance to countries which also accept help from Russia.

Nehru has accepted help from both Russia and the Western Powers while consistently decling to be drawn into alliances with either side.

Dulles, asked what he thought about Nixon's idea of continuing to help countries which accept aid from the Communists, said he was "in general . . . quite in accord with it." It is established U.S. policy to continue helping such countries as India.

Then Dulles was asked what he thought about the idea that a country which accepts Communist help runs the risk of finding a rope around its neck. Dulles said he thought Nixon was quoting someone else to that effect. A check showed Nixon had quoted the remark but also indicated full agreement with it.

Dulles made clear he did not fully agree. He said there is risk to countries which accept Communist aid because it is given for political purposes, but he did not wish to say that "in every case the taking of Soviet aid would involve a great danger."

If this seemed designed to mollify Nehru, a similar interpretation was even more apparent in Dulles' discussion of neutrality.

In a speech a month ago Dulles had called neutrality "immoral" except in "very exceptional" cases. In explaining yesterday that he meant, he modified that view to a point virtually eliminating any significance to his earlier speech.

In substance, he said nations which have joined the United Nations—as India has—are expressing a concern for the rights and the independence of other states and in this sense are not neutral withinin the meaning of his speech.

When a reporter noted that by this definition there would be few if any countries in the world which could be said to be following an "immoral" neutrality policy, Dulles agreed that was so.

Boy, 3, Has Car Accident

DENVER (AP)—A 3-year-old boy took a drive in the family car yesterday—until a vacant house got in his way.

Young Robert Daniel (Danny) Dillon Jr. was undamaged. But the car and house suffered to the tune of about $500 each.

It all started when Danny's mother left the house for five minutes after putting him to bed.

Danny got up.

And here's what happened:

He dragged up a chair so he could reach a cabinet. He fished the car keys out of the cabinet.

He found the car and took the automatic drive out of reverse. He started the car—and put it into reverse again.

Off went the car—down 30 feet of the Dillon driveway, across the 24-foot street and up over 30-foot lawn to the house.

It smashed into the kitchen and stopped against an inside wall—cracking the wall.

His mother and neighbors found Danny cowering on the floorboards.

"I want out, Mommy," he said.

The United States had 115,000 women who were widowed by the death of husbands less than 55 years old in 1955.

Opinions Of Billy Differ Sharply Now

Kingsville Record Staff
By The Associated Press

LINCOLN COUNTY, N.M. (AP) — Natives of Lincoln County still talk about Billy the Kid, but all the conversation is not favorable.

A cafe operator only a rifle shot from Blazers Mill, where Buckshot Roberts was killed in a single handed fight with Billy the Kid and a dozen more of his gang, had definite opinions on William Bonney.

"Trigger fast and death on the draw all right, but really just a stupid juvenile delinquent of his day and time. Look at his picture and you'll know he was stupid."

This man had talked to old timers who saw the battle between Buckshot and the Kid's gang. He had this to say:

"Buckshot Roberts used a rifle and shot from the hip because of a load of buckshot in his shoulder that made it impossible for him to raise his arm to fire a pistol. He was the deadliest shot with a rifle from the hip that ever lived.

"At Blazer's Mill he in turn killed and-or wounded several of the Kid's gang and ran the rest off while batting singled handed against 13 to 1 odds."

Roberts' battle to the death with the Kid's gang is ranked by frontier historians as one of the most heroic in the history of the West.

The Kid had his rabid backers. One said:

"Billy the Kid was shot in the back. Nobody could beat him to the draw face to face."

History records, of course, that he was killed at night by Sheriff Pat Garrett at Fort Sumner when the kid asked a question in the dark instead of shooting first and asking questions later. For the first time in his career he made a mistake, and paid for it with is life.

Coin Flipping Bid Denied

DENVER (AP)—The president of the Denver Union Stockyards denied today that a practice of flipping a coin during bidding on livestock "was in any way a conspiracy to control prices."

L. M. Pexton said the system had been abandoned and a new program of bidding established.

His comments followed a report from Washington that the Agriculture Department may take formal action soon in a case in which 22 livestock dealer firms are accused of controlling bids on cattle at Denver by a flip of a coin.

The department said the dealers—by determining the order in which they were to look at, bid and have the opportunity to buy cattle—curtailed competitive bidding.

The charges were filed June 18 under the Packers and Stockyards Act. Those violating the act may be denied trading privileges for specified periods.

Freeport Shrimp Fete To Be Held Saturday

FREEPORT, Tex., (AP)— The Freeport shrimp fleet will be "blessed" and an estimated 5,000 persons will eat shrimp and fish in a special program here Saturday morning.

The man who brought 99,791 pounds of shrimp into port in 1955, Capt. John Hubbard, will reign as king and his wife will be queen of the event. About 150 decorated boats will move slowly in the harbor vying for six prizes to be awarded.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

What will happen if you should die without executing a legal and proper will? Who will inherit your property? Your husband, wife, mother, father, children, your wife's relatives? The best way you can say who will have it is to provide a will which will protect your rightful beneficiaries and dispose of your property in accordance with your wishes.

When a deceased has no will, or dies "intestate" as the law calls it, the property of that person is distributed according to a detailed formula fixed by law. In some cases this may be the way you yourself would divide it—but in many cases it is not.

The provisions of the law concerning the distribution of the property of a person who dies without a will are rather complicated, and all of the possibilities cannot be covered by a general statement.

There are different rules for real estate and for personal property, for community property and for separate property, for homestead property, and for all of the many possible combinations of surviving relatives. Each situation must be carefully studied to determine the correct distribution of the property.

For example, here is a general idea of how the community property which you and your spouse have accumulated will be divided if you do not make a will prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and there are no children, the surviving spouse receives all of the property.

If, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of deceased children, they would divide one-half of the property, while the surviving spouse would receive the other one-half.

Of course, grandchildren do not share in the estate unless their parent who would inherit is deceased. And when descendants of previously deceased children do inherit, they receive only the portion that the child would have received, regardless of the number of such descendants.

An odd note, perhaps, is the surviving spouse already owns one-half of the community estate prior to your death, and the law adds nothing to this share where there are children surviving.

When there are only children and their decendants surviving, they divide the entire community estate between them.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Bucharest Holds To Stalin Statue

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Stalin has been downgraded but not entirely wiped out in Bucharest, where for years Communists venerated him as "liberator."

His big statue still stands in Stalin Square. In the National Art Gallery he has been purged. A year ago this gallery was so full of Stalin portraits and statues that visitors had the feeling that Big Brother was peering over their shoulders. Now the only statue left is in a wing showing Soviet art and culture.

This one is apparently too heavy to move.

City Has Systematic Plan For Adding Street Lights

By SANDRA DeFORE

Have you idea how much money it takes to run the system of street lights in Snyder? According to Roy Dunlap, City Manager, it's approximately $10,000 a year.

It is a large amount of money but when it is considered how much safer it makes the streets of Snyder, it is probably worth every penny of it. Figures show that better lighting means fewer accidents.

In the past years the city has started on a campaign to put street lights of Snyder, where ever there may be a need. This is a slow process because each year the city can put out only a limited number of new lights. Dunlap says that at the present rate and if Snyder does not grow anh in the next few years, it would take about four years to put street lights every where they are needed.

If you have a dark street in front of your home a number of factors will be considered before that street is given a street light. The city works on a "first come, first served" basis. First you must call city hall and request a street light. Your request will be put with the other requests that have come before yours and your request will have to wait its turn. When your request comes up, it will be decided if there is a need for a street light and if facilities can be provided for a street light. If these factors check out positive, then you will more than likely get your street light. At present there have been few requests for street lights and chances of getting one are good.

The city does not install the street lights. Texas Electric Co. installs and maintains the lights. The city in turn pays Texas Electric approximately $1.25 per light per month. This is for the standard type lights that are used in the residental district.

The standard type lamp which is used in the residental district is not the same as the lamps that are used on the main highways and on the square. These lamps are called mercury arc lamps and are twice as strong as standard type lamps. These lamps give it blue glow in a distance.

The mercury arc lamps are also installed, operated and maintained by Texas Electric Co. These lamps cost the city approximately $2.40 each per month.

Although the city works on the request system, if there is a need for a light and it has not been requested the city will have it put up anyway. Such is the case of the different highways that lead into town.

There are 165 standard type lights operating in Snyder, and at present there are 100 mercury arc lamps being operated. Dunlap estimates that it would take 270 lights to put one on every corner in town where people are now living. This would add $3,900 to the present cost of operating street lights.

"We are putting in our next year's budget for 75 new standard type lamps and we are also going to put 32 new mercury arc lamps out on Highway 180 after Oct," Dunlap said. There lamps are very important, for there are two highways leading into town on Highway 180, U. S. 84 and 180. There is a double load of traffic and good lighting is essential.

The new lights on 180 were recommended by the planning and zoning commission, a five man committee appointed by the city council.

Boys State Report Made

Snyder Kiwanis Club members heard a report Wednesday on the recent Lone Star Boys State, which was held recently in Austin.

Boys State, an American Legion-sponsored event, provides high school boys with an opportunity to learn first hand the organization and functions of their state government.

This year, the Lions Club, Jaycees, Kiwanis and VFW joined the local Legion post in sponsoring five Scurry County boys on the trip.

The five youths gave oral reports at the regular Kiwanis luncheon meeting Wednesday in the Highlander. They include Keith Mc Cormick and Pat Falls, both of Snyder, T. J. Hillis of Hermleigh, Billy Don Farmer of Ira and Rex Pylant of Fluvanna.

The boys were introduced by Kiwanian Frank Stephenson, who is the new commander of the Legion post.

Man Invents Spinning Boat

PARIS, Tex. (AP)—E. J. Durham wanted a boat that would spin like a top so he made it. It works.

He drew up the blue-prints, registered them and now is waiting on a patent so he can put the idea on the market.

Durham wanted a boat he could spin around instead of making a huge curve to turn, as he had to do when riding in an ordinary boat.

Before he decided to make the boat larger, so three people could ride in it, he could actually spin the boat like a top.

Made of plywood, with framework made of oak, the boat weighs less than 100 pounds and can easily be lifted by two men.

Durham built the unique craft during his spare time in about two months.

He is now reinforcing it so it will hold up with a high-powered motor. "Like to have ruined it at Denison one time," Durham said. "Put a 10-horse motor on it and almost lost it in the water."

Durham, with his wife and two daughters, do most of their boat-riding at Lake Crook, Lake Gibbons, and that one fateful time at Denison.

"No one knows how it is made, but me, as far as the body of the boat is concerned," Durham said. "But just as soon as I get that long-awaited letter from my lawyer, I'll let out a few secrets."

Syrian Goes Home For 'Last Years'

COFFEYVILLE, Kan. (AP)—Ferris Keroney's fervent wish to return to his native Syria has become a reality through the help of some Kansans.

He confided to his Coffeyville neighbors recently he'd like to be with his children and grandchildren for his last years. He has one memento indicating he is 115 years old but a son in Syria said it is more likely he is about 80.

A "going home" fund was started for Keroney, whose white beard and makeshift baby buggy from which he peddles garden truck, are a familiar sight. A rummage sale netted $73.76. The remainder of the $547.11 airplane fare was donated by individuals.

Members of his family have written through an interpreter of their joy in his coming home. Wrote one son:

"I can carry him on my shoulders gladly from Damascus to Souieda and this is my duty toward my father and towards a good man like him."

It is believed Keroney, who never became a U.S. citizen, migrated of this country by way of Mexico around 1903 or 1904. For a short time, he says, he peddled Syrian handiwork at Springfield, Mo.

He settled near the railroad tracks here several years ago and started a truck garden. His wife died in March, 1955.

He apparently is in good health except for loss of hearing.

Keroney will leave Tulsa, Okla., Sunday on his air trip to Syria. There will be stopovers and changes of airports in New York and Cairo.

He is due in Damascus Wednesday, July 18. There he will be reunited with his youngest son, Nedjim.

Keroney told friends a series of "Decoration Days" will be held for him when he reaches home.

USAF Denies Soviet Claim

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force both here and in Germany has denied Russian claims that its planes flew over Russian territory three times this month.

Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin protested formally to the State Department Tuesday that U.S. planes from West Germany had flown over territory of both Russia and its satellite neighbors July 4, 5 and 9.

The State Department has not yet replied officially, but the Air Force's European headquarters said yesterday, "No aircraft assigned to the command of the U.S. Air Force in Europe violated Soviet or satellite territory."

A similar statement came from Air Force headquarters here, which said that "no United States Air Force planes have been flying over Soviet territory as Moscow charged."

1 Killed, 3 Injured

PLEASANTON, Tex., (AP) — Doc C. Williams, 49, of Matador, Tex., was killed yesterday when a car in which he was a passenger collided with a dump truck four miles south of here on U.S. 281. Three others were seriously injured.

MOTHER OF KIDNAP VICTIM FACES HOAXERS—Mrs. Beatrice Weinberger, mother of kidnaped Peter Weinberger, is flanked by Detective Frank Steiner, left, and her uncle, Milton M. Fischer, as she arrives at Ridgewood Felony Court in New York for the arraignment of the two men accused of making hoax telephone calls to her. A new rash of crank telephone calls broke out as the pair, Robert F. Giebler, 27, and Gordon T. Rowell, 24, were arraigned for attempted extortion and giving false information to police.

Byrd's Opposition To SS Bill Endures

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said today his opposition to two major provisions in a House-passed Social Security bill has not been lessened a bit by compromises offered by two Democrats.

The provisions would provide new benefits for disabled persons aged 50 or over and for women between the ages of 62 and 65.

Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee which stripped the two benefits out of the measure, made clear in an interview he will fight in the Senate to beat both compromise plans.

He declined, however, to predict the outcome, conceding that the votes should be close.

He said he understands debate on the long-delayed bill may begin Monday. The Democratic leadership has held it up while seeking acceptable compromises for the two key House provisions, both opposed by the Eisenhower administration.

One of the compromises, introduced yesterday by Sen. Kerr (D-Okla), would restore to the measure the right of working women and wives of retired men to receive Social Security retirement payments at age 62. However, the payments would be on a somewhat lower scale than if they waited until age 65, the present minimu. The House version calls for full benefits to women at 62.

The other compromise, offered Monday by Sen. George (D-Ga), would restore the House section to provide for the first time Social Security payments to persons totally disabled at age 50 or higher.

Kerr's plan would give working women 80 per cent of their normal age 65 benefits if they retired at 62, wives 75 per cent. The payments would be graduated upwards if they retired closer to 65.

Kerr said this would not require any tax increase since a woman going on the rolls before 65 would get about the same total benefits as if she waited until that age.

The House voted a tax increase to pay for the new benefits for women and the disabled. The Senate committee knocked out the new benefits for all groups except widows, and also eliminated the tax boost.

Byrd said that under Kerr's plan two women living in the same block could be drawing different rates of retirement pay if one quit at an earlier age than the other. This would result in pressure that could not be resisted to raise the lower benefit, he contended.

As for George's disability plan, Byrd said he regards it as unduly complex to administer in that it would set up a second Social Security trust fund. George proposed a separate fund for disability benefits, to be financed by a riase of one quarter per cent in the present 2 per cent Social Security tax on both employers and employes.

Ike's Friends Do Investing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bow (R-Ohio) said today friends handle President Eisenhower's personal investments without telling him what securities they are buying and selling.

He said Eisenhower wants it that way so there isn't "even the possibility of a subconscious bias in favor of any organization in which he had an interest."

Writing in a regular letter to constituents, Bow did not give the source of his information.

He said that among "a few trusted friends" handling Eisenhower's investments is Col. Robert L. Schulz, his military aide, and continued:

"Thus today, aside from the farm at Gettysburg, the President has no personal knowledge of stock ownership. He receives regular reports as to total gains or losses, but no details of the transactions."

Being Hit By Car Doesn't Phase Her

SANTA MONICA, Cwlif. (AP)—It takes more than an automobile to put 78-year-old Mrs. Lorena Stephens out of commission.

She was seated on a bus bench yesterday when W. J. Raines' car rounded a corner, jumped the curb and knocked Mrs. Stephens sprawling.

She was taken to Santa Monica Hospital, where she told attendents:

"My back hurts a little, but I think I can make it home all right."

She did, too.

Gas Co. Employes Get Service Pins

Two Lone Star Gas Co. employes in Snyder have been given service pin awards.

They are Orville R. Brown and Herman T. Harty, both operators at the Snyder compressor station.

They were among 44 Lone Star employes at various cities receiving awards, which ranged from five to 15 years.

Brooks Asks For A Delay

BEAUMONT (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson was urged by Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont yesterday to authorize a delay in destroying rice acreage overplanted by farmers.

Brooks said farmers who have overplanted their rice acreage are receiving notice to plow it up within 15 days. He said rice fields are flooded and to comply with the orders will require draining and using tractors in muddy fields.

The congressman said the rice could be destroyed just before harvest so that the matured rice grains on the ground could be used by wild ducks, geese, doves and quail as feed.

Whiel his request is specifically for Jefferson, Orange and Hardin counties, Brooks said rice farmers in other states may be interested in appealing for a delay for the same reasons.
