County Approved to Receive Hay Under Emergency Program

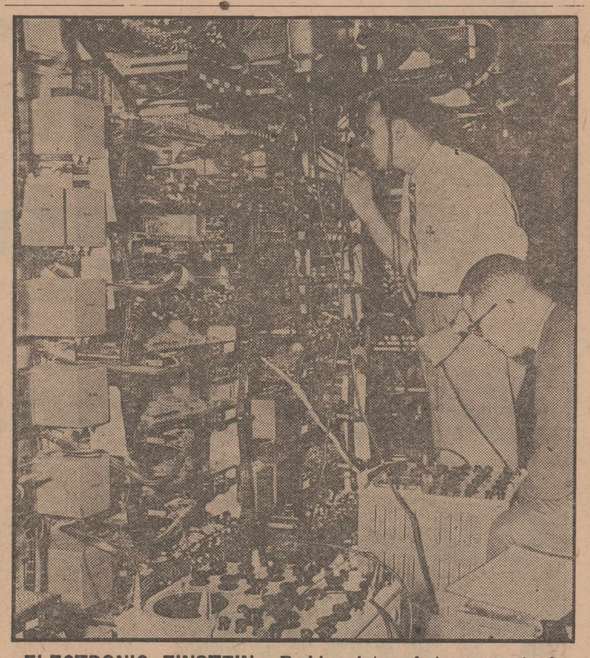

Collingsworth County has been added to the list of counties in the state to receive hay under the Emergency Program of Public Law 875, 81st Congress. Millard Brown, PMA secretary, announced this week. Farmers and ranchers who do not have much as a thirty day supply of hay on hand are eligible to place orders at this time for not more than a thirty days supply. All foundation cattle, including dairy cattle with steer calves no older than ten months, and sheep are eligible for this emergency hay.

There are three kinds of hay available, legume hay, which will be alfalfa or clover; mixed hay, which will consist of alfalfa or clover mixed with timothy or other grasses of good feeding value; grass hay, consisting of timothy or other grasses of good feeding quality.

Prices to be paid for the hay are as follows:Legume $36.00 per ton; mixed hay $32.00; and grass hay $28.00.

A deposit of $5.00 per ton will be collected when the application is filed with the County PMA Office, and the balance paid when hay is delivered. All orders will be placed with County PMA Committee and approved by the County Agricultural Mobilization Committee, then forward to the State PMA Office as soon as orders for one or more cars have been received.

ELECTRONIC EINSTEIN—Probing into what appear to be shelves of a radio shop, engineers at Raytheon Manufacturing Co., in Waltham, Mass., test a new electronic computer that calculates problems which would take a team of workers 20 to 30 days to solve. The $2,000,000 "Raydac" will be used at the Navy's Air Missile Center in Point Magu, Calif., where it will "analyze" the behavior of guided missiles. The 44-foot-long "thinking" machine can produce 1900 additions or subtractions, 1100 divisions or 1400 multiplications per second. It contains 5000 vacuum tubes and 18,000 germanium diodes, enough to construct more than 1000 home radio sets. It even "worries" about the answers and has 10 different checks on its own accuracy.

Norwood Opry to Close for Fall

Samnorwood's Grand Old Opry will close down for the present, but public demand is that it be reopened later on, Orville Cunningham, superintendent of the Samnorwood schools, and sponsor of the event, announced this week.

A crowd of approximately 4,000 attended the Opry Friday night, September 18, and musicians came from as far as Boise City and Mt. View, Oklahoma, to appear on the program, Mr. Cunningham said.

"We feel that by closing our programs for the present, we will not interfere with crowds attending the football games here and at Shamrock. It is also necessary that we make certain repairs on the gymnasium before the opening of the basketball season, and we will do this work while school is dismissed for cotton picking," Mr. Cunningham said.

Second With Educational Exhibit

Quail FFA Wins in Tri State Fair Contest

The Quail Future Farmers won second place on their educational booth in the Tri State Fair, under way this week in Amarillo, Frank Kennedy, vocational ag instructor, has announced.

Theme of the exhibit is the five steps leading to an established pasture. These include chiseling the land, fertilizing the land, disking the field, planting cover crops, then sowing the improved pasture seed.

The sixth division of the exhibit shows the results to be obtained if the five previous steps are followed.

4-H Club Leaders Plan Year's Work Saturday

A joint meeting of all adult leaders of both boys and girls 4-H Club work has been called for Saturday, September 27, at 10:00 a.m., in the county court room. The meeting is being called by County Agent J. W. Thomas, chairman of boys work, and Mrs. Thomas, chairman of women leaders for 4-H Club girls.

The purpose of the meeting is to set up plans for the year's activities and dates for 4-H programs for 1953.

Miss Mary Trammel, county home demonstration agent, will meet with the group.

After plans for county-wide activities are made, the group will divide and work out lessons for girls clubs, for boys clubs, and lessons for leaders to give the club members.

"All present leaders are urged to attend, and anyone interested in assisting the youth of Collingsworth County, or interested in what 4-H Club work is doing is invited to attend," Miss Trammel said.

A report of this meeting will be given the county Council in its meeting Saturday afternoon, September 27.

Concert Assn. To Set Up Plans For Drive Monday

Plans for the membership drive of the Wellington Concert Association will be laid in a meeting Monday night, September 29, when Ramon Wilson, representing the Pryor-Minz Concerts comes here to assist local drive chairmen.

Dr. C. B. Jones, president of the association, has called the meeting for 8:00 p.m. at the reception room of the Jones-Watkins Clinic.

He urges that everyone interested in this year's concerts be present to help in planning the programs for the coming season.

Plans for the coming membership drive will be worked out in detail, and drive chairmen and committees will be named. Preliminary work and the drive will take up most of the next two weeks, Dr. Jones estimated.

Mr. Wilson, who is a graduate of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London, is widely experienced in concert presentations, and will remain here through the drive to help with the work.

This will be the fourth year that the Wellington Concert Association has been in operation. This season's concerts will be similar in nature to those of past years, and the selection of the artists will take place at the end of the drive.

CAP Planes Go On Practice Mission Recently

Six planes carrying twelve senior ....members of the Wellington Squardon and three cadets participated in the largest Civil Air Patrol air search and rescue mission to be held in the U. S., September 20-21 at Sweetwater.

This year's SARCAP, an authorized Air Force mission, was staged at three bases simultaneously in order to more nearly approximate actual field conditions. Sweetwater Municipal Airport was base of operations and satellite bases were the Municipal Airport at San Angelo and Abilene Municipal Airport.

Problem for the search and rescue mission was given to the Civil Air Patrol Friday night, September 19th, by the Air Rescue Service. The simulated mission concerned a "burning" Air Force B-50 from which eight crew members had parachuted Friday evening somewhere between Wink and Brownwood. CAP pilots and observers were to find these eight men.

In less than eight hours more than 100 light planes had flown 30,000 square miles without accident and had located all the "targets." After visiting each base of operations during the search, Air Rescue Service evaluated CAP on organization and operations.

The day's events were climaxed with a banquet honoring approximately 300 persons. Among the distinguished guests were Col. E. O. Rushing, Texas Wing, CAP, commander, and Capt. Wm. D. Roy, project director, of the 5th

County Gins 1,448 Bales Current Cotton Crop; Picker Shortage Acute

Collingsworth county to date has ginned 1,448 bales on this year's cotton crop, and on the whole, it is turning out a little better than was expected, ginners reported Wednesday morning, September 24, in a survey by The Wellington Leader.

While the crop is short, the urgent need right now is more pullers. Ginners estimated the needs of their trade areas, and the total indicates the county could use from 2,000 to 2,500 pullers at this time.

Few have made their appearance to date. J. N. Glasgow, bookkeeper at the Farmers Co-op Gin, on Highway 83, where transient crews often stop, said several truckloads of Mexicans came into the county during the week end, but from their reports, pullers are not headed into this area in any considerable numbers.

A few other crews stopped here briefly, then went on to Shamrock, seeking $3.00 per hundred for their pulling. Most farmers here are paying $2.50 delivered at the gin or $2.00 to $2.25 not delivered.

Between 500 and 1,000 pullers could be used in the area around Wellington.

"We could use that many easily," Boney Hunter, manager of the Tindall Gin No. 1 said. "The cotton picking wouldn't last long if we had them, but they could sure find work."

Between 600 and 700 pickers could be used in the Dodson area now, Ed Crowder, manager of the Farmers Co-op said. Much of this cotton is in the sandy land and is making from one-third of a bale per acre up. This cotton is not burned.

From two to three hundred pullers could find work in the area served by the Quail gin, W. L. Pate, manager, estimated. The Quail school was dismissed Friday for the children to help with the harvest.

L. A. Davis, manager of the Rolla Gin, estimated 100 pullers would take care of the cotton in that area.

Pete Melton, manager of the Lutie gin, said 100 were probably needed in that area, but he added that another problem was to pullers who would gather the of cotton raised in that section year.

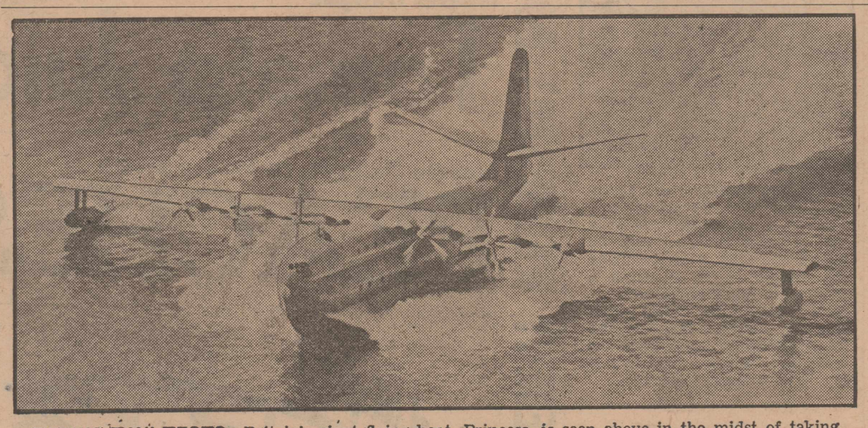

On the average, the cotton date is grading middling 7/8, with some ranging up to 29/32 and 15/16. In some sections where burnt cotton is still coming in, the staple is expected to improve later on.

Cotton in the Dodson area will average about a quarter of a bale per acre, taking the good with the bad, Marvin Wynn, manager of the Davis Gin, estimated, but he added that this may be a little high. The cotton is a little better than was expected earlier in the season.

One county gin is not operating this year, the Fresno Gin, which is situated in an area particularly hard hit by the drouth.

Mrs. Lucille Baird, bookkeeper at the West Texas Gin, reminded farmers that there is this year a revised rate of dockage on overweight and underweight bales:

Bales weighing less than 420 pounds, but as much as 425, $1.00 dockage; from 400 to 425 pounds, $2.00 dockage; from 350 to 400 pounds, $5.00 dockage; from 650 to 699 pounds, $1.00 dockage; less than 350 or more than 699 pounds, $7.50 dockage.

Men With NATO Maneuvers See Simulated Fighting in Arctic

(Below are two releases from the group of editors from over the United States selected to accompany as observers that part of the U. S. Navy participating in the NATO Maneuvers, Mainbrace. Among them are Deskins Wells, editor of The Wellington Leader.)

ABOARD THE USS WASP IN NORTH ATLANTIC (By Wireless) — Your reporter, together with nine other weekly newspaper editors from seven states, and an Associated Press representative from Paris, sailed from the First of Clyde near Glascow last week end with Carrier Task Force 175 to observe operation Main Brace.

The exercise, which started with the launching of Wasp jet and conventional aircraft for combat air patrol functions when the force was only 50 miles from Greenock (port of Glascow), is the largest peacetime naval maneuvering ever undertaken.

The Wasp and its slightly larger sister ships, the USS Franklin D. Roosevelt and the USS Midway, constitute the striking air arm of this task force which will rendezvous later with other carriers, including the British Eagle.

In all, 160 warships, flying the colors of many of the eight NATO nations participating in Main Brace, steamed out into the Atlantic on the cruise which will carry your reporter and thousands of Navy men as far north as Bodocma, Norway, lying north of the Arctic Circle, near Narvik.

There the "Blue Forces", of which your correspondent's ship is a part, will engage a mythical "orange" foe. The air craft carriers will send flights of jet Banshees and propeller-driven Corsairs in sorties to cover operations of ground forces in the Bodo area.

Purpose of Mainbrace is to afford NATO forces experience in combined command operations — not to provoke assault, as communist sources have charged in recent weeks. The exercise will serve to strengthen communications, familiarize personnel with the Norway-Denmark area involved and develop a better point understanding of Logistical problems.

Actual battle conditions are being simulated. The "battle", in fact, started almost as soon as the ships left the Firth of Clyde when the fleet was subjected to a practice submarine attack from "orange" forces. First reports had it that the sub had scored scattered hits on several carriers. Subsequent headquarters releases, however, indicated the underwater craft had been "sunk" by land-based aircraft seven minutes before its mythical attack.

Another touch of battle realism

Renew Traditional Rivalry

Rockets Seek Victory Over Mangum Eleven

By JAMES GLASSCOCK

Wellington's Skyrockets journey to Mangum Friday night, September 26, to renew an old rivalry with the Tigers. The teams last met two years ago, when Mangum won 20 to 13.

The Skyrockets, coached by Maxey McKnight and Donald Briggs, are expected to be all out to win this one. The Mangum Tigers are about the same as the Rockets. Both teams are inexperienced and the game should be evenly matched.

In last week's game, Mangum squeezed past Anadarko, Okla., 7 to 6, while the Rockets lost to Quanah 27 to 19. In their opening game with the heavier and more experienced Frederick (Okla.) Bombers, the Tigers held the opponents' ground offensive but were unable to cope with the Bombers passing attack.

The Tigers run from the split T.

Mangum fans have noted that the Tigers improved through both games, and they intend to be able to profit by their mistakes.

Weights of the Tigers and Rockets is about the same. The Tigers have two seniors and one junior on their starting lineup and the remainder are freshmen and sophomores. This will probably be an advantage to the Rockets, who have eight seniors and three juniors.

Commenting on the Quanah game, Coach McKnight said:

"In the first half our defense looked awful and so did our offense. But in the second half the boys played a good defensive ball game. Last week we concentrated on defense, and our offense fell through, but this week we are going to have a lot of work on both offense and defense.

"Mangum is a team that relies on its ground-gains.

One thing about the boys, they had a lot of spirit to win even at times when it looked dark. They never quit.

"I believe we can win this game," the coach continued. "We have some experience and now we can roll."

Controlling Pond Weeds Improves Farm Fishing

COLLEGE STATION — There are a lot of ponds and tanks—more than 150,000 — on Texas farms and ranches that could be utilized for producing fish. Many of these tanks have been stocked with fish but where good fish pond management practices haven't been followed trouble is often caused by heavy growth of pond weeds. Acording to R. E. Callender, specialist in wildlife conservation for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, these growths can be controlled.

He points out that pond owners should remember that pond weeds under control are beneficial. They provide excellent habitat for water insects and tiny crustaceans which are valuable fish food. They also provide hiding places for the smaller fishes and he suggests that such growths not be completely eradicated from the fish ponds.

Generally, he says, pond weeds are of two types, submersed and emergent. The mosses make up the first group and the second is composed of plants which are rooted and grow from shallow bottoms usually around the edges of the pond. They grow principally above water and include lotus, lilypads, cattails, bulrushes and other similar plants.

In ponds or tanks where moss growth is not excessive, Callender says, a good fertilizer program will aid in controlling moss. Fertilizer increases the growth of plankton in the water and this causes a murking which is often heavy enough to prevent sunlight from penetrating the water. Without sunlight, the mosses make little growth and often die. Therefore, says the specialist, a fertilizing program is a two-in-one deal —improves the food supply for fish and slow down underwater moss growth.

Callender recommends the use of sodium arsenite for controlling the excessive growths of moss in ponds. Best results have been obtained when the chemical was used during the months of April, May and June or before the moss takes over for the year. One gallon of the four pound strength sodium ...nite should be used to each 20 ...,000 cubic feet of pond water. ...x the chemical with an equal ...mount of pond water and apply ...t to the surface of the pond with a compressed air type sprayer.

MISS AMERICA—Neva Langley, Florida-born beauty who entered the Atlantic City contest as "Miss Georgia," won the crown of "Miss America." The 19-year-old beauty queen is a student at Wesleyan Conservatory in Macon, Ga. Vital statistics are: height, 5 feet 6 inches, hips-bust-waist, 35-23-35, green eyes, brown hair; ambition, to be a music teacher.

Disease Control Based on Facts

AUSTIN — The control of any disease must be based upon facts and not theory, asserts Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. The reason for this statement is based on the numerous theories sent the State Health Department for the cure or prevention of polio, diarrhea and dysentery.

The spread of polio, for instance, has been blamed on weeds, air, bananas, milk, atomic radiation and many other items. All of these are theories and have no basis of fact. Facts in disease are arrived at in the laboratory, the sick room and the environment of the patient. Facts are necessary and must be the guidepost for the control of disease.

Dr. Cox is authorized by law to accept gifts and contributions for public health. The first gift to aid in research on the part played by flies and cockroaches in the spread of polio is two monkeys from Bellaire. Others will be needed to complete the study. Any contribution will be appreciated.

Education work in dysentery and diarrhea — which kills far more children than polio — is being hampered by lack of personnel to do the work. Cox said Texas has six times more dysentery and diarrhea than the national average. There were 1099 infants under one year of age who died of this cause in 1951.

"When we get rid of these two filth borne diseases, we will have done the best in the world to get rid of polio," he asserted. "But it takes resources to do it."

Fund and equipment shortages have been a stumbling block to the whole research program in Texas, Dr. Cox said. Despite the fact that the State Bureau of Laboratories has consistently won top honors in national competition for accuracy in disease identification.

Three brands of field rations that rate Gold Chevrons for overseas service in time of war—from 1898, through 1917-18, and the years of World War II.

In the Veterans of Foreign Wars you find former dogfaces, leathernecks and gobs who can remember times when they would have traded a warehouse of the stuff for one square meal.

That's the quiet thrill an overseas veteran enjoys when he belongs to the Veterans of Foreign Wars—the chance to reminisce and swap stories with fellows who talk his language.

It's this rare type of fellowship that makes it easy for them to work together for the good of their country, their home town and their mutual welfare—as members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Any group of overseas vets may argue loud and long about which outfit won the war—the Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, Air Force, or the Seabees. On one point, however, you will always find them in complete agreement:

Consumer Again Takes Over

For the first time in nearly two years, retail trade as a whole shows signs of taking its old place in the economy picture. This relationship to the nation's overall economic activity is comparable to that prevailing before the last world war.

This is the gist of an analysis recently made by the Institute of Life Insurance, and was based on Department of Commerce statistics showing the direct relationship between the annual volume of retail store sales and the gross national product for the past 22 years.

The Institute said, "What these figures tend to confirm is what has been becoming apparent for some time — that the war-caused era of shortages has been replaced by a more normal type of demand in which prices and consumer decisions when and whether to buy are of primary importance. Barring unforseen developments, the economy has reverted to its traditional competitive basis."

The consumer can now see plenty of evidence of that fact by checking stocks of merchandise displayed in stores and by reading the advertisements. During and for some time after the war a great many commodities were in very short supply. Some were almost-existent, Anything was saleable, no matter how shoddy it might be. Today the situation is different. There is an abundance of practically all consumer goods, and in some lines supply is substantially greater than demand.

The result is that every merchant must fight for his trad. He must offer all possible inducements — better stocks, lower prices, more atttractive services, and so on. The buyer again calls the tune.

Right here in Memphis his is being brought. Businessmen are thinking about the kind of stocks they place on their shelves. They are lowering prices as much as possible, and special events, like Dollar Day are being established. All this means that normal times are here, and the buyer is getting more for his dollar than he has in a long time.

Nationwide Strikes

Industrialists long have been complaining about the recently developed practice of nationwide strikes, of which this year's steel tieup was a most dramatic example. Their protest is based, among other things, on the contention that, often with the aid of one government agency or another, a national group of unions is able to threaten or actually cause such damage to the national interest that industry and the government are forced to yield despite strong economic objections.

Less known is the fact that many individual workers dislike the national bargaining process, too. And Factory Management, having just concluded a survey among thousands of workers, finds that the dissatisfaction with the practice is growing among workers. The proportion of workers opposing a ban on industrywide bargaining is now only 51 per cent, against 57 per cent in 1947. Some 52 per cent of workers think local bargaining would mean shorter strikes, and 46 per cent think it would give them better breaks.

Three out of five workers think some top labor leaders are hurting the unions by their tactics.

This is a salutary development which illustrates anew the fact that American workers, though they join unions and are sold on the principle of collective bargaining, nevertheless are not a herd. They are individuals capable of doing their own thinking and are often committed to the belief that, in union bargaining as in many other fields, men on the spot can do a better job than a nationwide bureaucracy—in unions or in government—Fort Worth Star Telegram.

James and Paul Urge Christian Living

Living our religion is nothing more or less than putting into practice every day those principles of the Christian religion which we are taught to value so highly.

The Epistle of James is reputedly the Epistle of "works" and many, including Martin Luther, have set it above the Epistles of Paul as the messages of "faith."

To make such a contrast is unfair to the facts of early Christian history and to the spirit of the complete New Testament. Paul was as insistent as James on practicing the principles of true Christian living based on the Master's example.

James, Jesus' brother, was not one of the 12 apostles. In fact, John tells us the brothers of Jesus did not accept Him as the Messiah until after the crucifixion when they joined the Christian company.

James is mentioned by Paul as one of those who saw the vision of the risen Christ. Later James became a power in the church at Jerusalem. But Paul and James were never opposed to each other. On the contrary, they enjoyed a close fellowship.

The fact which draws many to conclude the Epistle of James is the one of "works" is due to his lack of elaborated discussions of doctrine.

We can think of James as a wise church pastor who deals with his people according to their needs. He rebukes some for their laxity and un-Christian attitudes. He commends others for doing things in a Christ-like way. But he is always busy defining doctrine so that none would miss the essential meaning.

By the time of Epistle of James was written, the Christian community was a great deal larger than in the beginning. It presented new problems in relationships. By this time many rich people were drawn into the organization.

But James found it necessary to remind his fellow Christians that God was no respecter of persons. Social and economic position meant nothing in the final consideration of good and bad qualities. Both the world and the church need much of the message found in his Epistle today.

When we read the stories about how stunning the bride looked, we always imagine the groom looked stunned.

We are more discontented from failure to satisfy our desires than from failure to satisfy our wants.

The reason some girls never get married is they are too biased. It's bias this and bias that until the boy friend is busted.

If crookedness and thievery continue, the life insurance companies had better be selling fire insurance policies to some people, 'cause they'll sure need 'em where they are going.

You can judge a man as well by his foes as by his friends.

You'd think some fellows were trying to pay their accounts twice, the way their checks come in and then bounce right back again.

Apparently the guys who take cold showers every morning just do so to brag about it.

They thought he was so kind to send his wife away for a rest, until he said: "Goodness knows I needed it!"

Better not tell a restaurant man you're hungry enough to eat a horse. You're liable to eat just that.

They say he would have lived to a ripe old age if he hadn't eaten so many cherries — from the bottom of his cocktail glass.

When ma says that pa hammers nails like lightning it doesn't necessarily mean that he's fast; could be that he just never hits twice in the same spot.

When he asks for our daughter's hand, we are going to urge him to take the one that is always in our pocket.

72 Points Spells Victory For Both Teams

Quail Teams Take Double Header From Goodnight

The Quail Quails and Bobwhites came out victors in a doubleheader basketball game played with the Goodnight teams Thursday night, September 18.

The two winning teams amassed the same number of points in the top-heavy score, 72. The Goodnight girls managed 21 points against the Bobwhites, while the Goodnight boys got 34 points against the Quails.

There was never any doubt after Coach Bill Phillips girls started off, and by the end of the first quarter, they had a 26-5 lead. The score never got much closer than that.

Jo White was high point player with 19 points; Erma Farris second with 14 points; Fern Neeley got 11 and Mary Jo Phipps 10. Logenia Hubbard was high for the Goodnight team with 11 points and Doris Dubury second high with 10.

The starting lineup included Jo White, Fern Neeley and Mary Jo Phipps, forwards; Fayteen Peeples, June Russell and Nita Boen, guards. Coach Phillips later ran in a complete new team that included Nancy Stephens, Wanda Phipps and Erma Farris, forwards, and Peggy Clay, Shirley Robinson and Alice Wilkinson, guards. Other players included Charline Kirkpatrick, forward; and Cleta Clay, Patsy White, and Doris Cummings, guards.

The boys, coached by W. F. Howard, carried on a game not far different from the Bobwhites, as far as scoring went, and they never let the Goodnight Tigers get close enough for concern.

Jasper Peeples, with 22 points, was high point man for the Quails, while Alvin Home had 15 points and Wallace Blasingame, 13. Bobby Raines, with 15 points, was high for Goodnight.

Coach Howard started the game with Peeples and Homer at forwards, Blasingame at center, and Dewey Debord and Freddy Maxwell, guards. The second team he sent in included Norman Kennedy and Junior Sturgill, forwards, Dale Johnson, center, and Benny Graham and Gaylon Tow, guards. Other players were Joe Lindsey and Tommy Davis.

—By Deskins Wells

Aboard the USS Roosevelt
September 2

The ship experienced its first fatality this morning, Lt. R. E. Farrell of New Jersey was killed instantlly, it is believed, when his plane went off the side of the starboard bow as it was being launched by catapult and crashed into the sea. The helicopter which hovers at the side of the ship at all times was on the scene immediately and lowered its safety chair amid the floating wreckage of the plane, but the body of Lt. Farrell never came to the surface. A helicopter and a destroyer stayed at the spot of the accident but no trace was ever found of the lost pilot. Farrell was a reserve who had been called back to duty. He leaves a wife and two children.

The accident happened when one of the hooks on the plane broke. The pull of the catapult on the remaining hook slewed the plane to one side. In many cases a plane can be stopped when breaks like this occur; but this time the plane had traveled for enough to break the hold back device so it could not be stopped: but it did not have sufficient speed to lift the plane into the air. Jets should be going from 110 to 120 miles an hour to take off.

* * *

When the plane hit the water it broke into pieces and some of them could be seen floating a short time alongside the ship before they sank. The commander of the squadron is of the opinion that the pilot did have time to get out, but that he was knocked unconscious by the impact of the plane against the water and did not operate the release mechanism which would have put him into the sea where he could have been picked up.

* * *

The accident that cost the life of a pilot and a plane seriously damaged one catapult. Cables in the catapult mechanism were chewed to pieces and some of the big pulleys crumpled. When the plane hook broke and was disengaged from the shuttle before the end of the run, all that weight—20,000 lbs. was removed from the catapult after it had been released. That caused it to travel at a much higher rate of speed, so fast and with such power that the regular breaking device which operates near the end of the run, could not hold it. It become what the men on the ship call a "wild shot."

* * *

There is a device on the catapult which is supposed to stop these wild shots, such as would happen if the shuttle happened to be released with no plane attached. But, in this case, it had traveled so far before the weight was disengaged that the part which stops wild shots could not function.

* * *

As a result of this accident the Roosevelt has left the rest of the fleet and accompanied by one destroyer is steaming for England. Originally we were scheduled to arrive in Greenoock on September 10: but at the present time we are steaming for Plymouth. This ship has such a draft that we will have to wait for a high tide to enter the port at Plymouth. The plans are to try to get the ship catapult repaired in time to take part in the NATO manuevers in the North Sea in which over 170 ships from various nations will operate as one unit under one command.

* * *

This is not the only accident that has occured in the fleet. The other day a destroyer pulled alongside and a man with a broken leg was brought aboard for treatment.

* * *

Our own group has not fared too well. Jack Williams of Waycross Ga. is in sick bay with a broken shoulder and a mashed nose. The gallant old gentleman, who is 72, suffered these in a hard fall near the foot of a ladder while taking a tour. He insisted on going, but several of the rest of us though that climbing up and down the ladders of a carrier was no place for a man of 72. He is doing fine and the ship doctors are taking wonderful care of him.

* * *

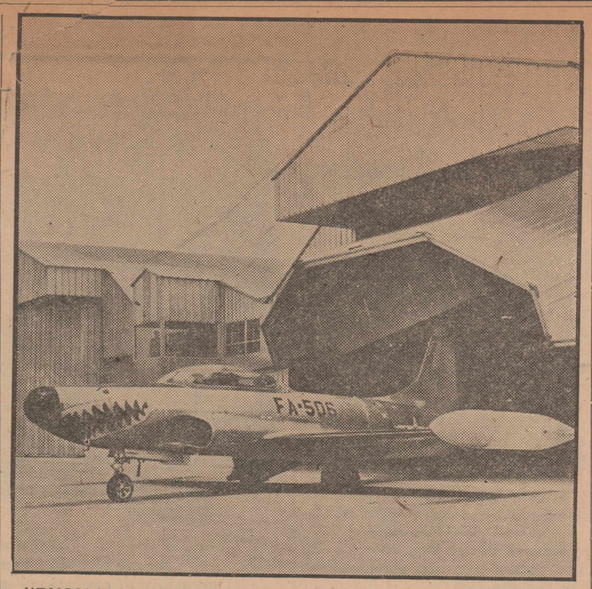

Another of our group, Dick Lyttle of Colorado has been ordered to stay in bed and put hot water bottles on a badly bruised leg that he got in the dark.

* * *

This is not a luxury cruise by any means. Maneuvers are made as nearly as they can be to simulate battle operations. The important difference is that no enemy is firing real shells or dropping real bombs in the ships.

This is not a luxury cruise and this is not a luxury ship. In spite of its almost unbelievable size this is a trim fighting ship and every inch of space was carefully planned and is zealously utilized by the officers, chiefs and the experienced seamen. The ship is not constructed for ease in getting around. Instead it is built for strength, not only to carry a big number of planes but to resist damage by torpedoes, bombs or shells. It has many cross partitions in the decks below the hangar deck. It is practically unsinkable. Any one or two or three of the four compartments of the engine room could be out of commission and the ship would still go ahead. Anypart of this ship can be shut off from the rest. It could withstand unbelievable punishment and still keep on floating and fighting.

"PUSH BUTTON" HANGAR—Looking sleek and fierce, an F-94 all-weather jet fighter rolls from one of the new "push button" hangars at Selfridge Field, Mich. The new hangars with quick opening doors save from five to eight minutes in getting the fighters into the air. The swift aerial defenders are on 24-hour alert.

Rocket Defense Steps Up

Quanah Indians Push Out Rockets 27 to 19 Friday

By JAMES GLASSCOCK

A more experienced squad and a heavy team were too much for the Wellington Skyrockets as the Quanah Indians defeated them 27 to 19, on the Indians home field Friday night, September 19.

Most of Quanah's team, coached by Foster Watkins, Kirby Price and Bud Conley, have had from one to two years playing experience and that made a lot of difference, but the Rockets played heads-up ball, never giving any quarter and asking none.

Passing figured largely in this game. A total of 27 passes were thrown by both ball clubs, of which 16 were completed. Of the seven touchdowns made, five were by passes. Coach Maxey McKnight's Lonnie Woods and Quanah's McCrary were finding their receivers and sacking-up yardage all evening. Of Wellington's three touchdowns, two were by passes.

A week ago Wellington found its defense poor against Hollis. Against Quanah, as though by a miracle, the Rockets had a good defensive ball club. Although Quanah had a much heavier line, time and time again the linemen of Wellington crashed and threw the Indians John Cromartie, John McCrary, Bobby Williams and Francis Srader for heavy losses, or met them for no gain.

At times, Quanah's backfield would get in our secondary, but our linesmen would check the damage.

Time after time, Gene Baird, (No. 25) Ed Bawcom (27), Jerry Drummond (34), Jack Eads (33), Phil Handley (41), Floyd Hood (31), Charlie Johnson (35), Frank Jones (43), Walter Kiesling (32), Jimmy Leggitt (24), and Vesta Orr (42), Doolen Starkey (38) and Harley McKinney (28) would make a shoestring tackle that was the difference between a score and no score for the Indians.

The Quanah team knew as well as the some 2,000 persons that viewed the contest that the linemen of Wellington were not to be denied. Every lineman starred in making some of the most beautiful blocks ever seen in these parts.

After Quanah's Cromartie kicked the ball to about the Wellington 49, Phil Handley made a stupendous dive and saved the ball from falling into Quanah's hands. Again and again such feats as this one were performed by the Wellington line.

In this contest, numerous penalties delayed the game. Wellington was charged with 7 penalties to Quanah's 6. Most of the Rockets hurt, because they were mostly 15 yarders. Nearly all came after the boys had made considerable yardage, but the penalties nullified these gains.

The Wellington backfield worked almost perfectly. As Harold Moore (30), Doug Duncan, (40), Clyde Ingram (20), and Lonnie Woods (22) would make long gains behind good blocking.

Wellington scored first in the first quarter as Harold Moore ran around right end for 55 yards with one minute gone. Starkey failed to convert, giving a 6-0 score.

Midway in the first period, Quanah got control of the ball and after six plays, a McCrary pass to Cromartie was completed for 12 yards and a touchdown. McCrary converted, putting the Indians ahead 7-6.

Quanah scored with six minutes gone in the second quarter. The Indians took the ball on the Rocket 35 yard line and after six plays, McCrary again passed to Cromartie for a touchdown. Again McCrary converted, for a 14-6 score as the half ended.

In the third quarter with two minutes gone, a pass from Lonnie Woods to Douglas Duncan covering 35 yards was good for the Rockets second touchdown. Starkey failed to convert and the score stood 14 to 12.

Quanah retaliated in the fourth quarter when McCrary ran around end for 20 yards and a touchdown. This same player kicked the extra point, to bring the Indian score up to 21 to 12 for their opponents.

In the fourth quarter the Rockets scored again, as Lonnie Woods passed to Doug Duncan for 40 yards and a touchdown. Starkey converted and the score stood 21 to 19.

Quanah's last score came with six minutes of the game left. This play covered 70 yards, with the pass from McCrary to Cromartie putting the ball in the air for 40 yards. Cromartie ran the remaining thirty to score. For the only time, Cromartie's attempt at conversion failed and his kick went wide.

The ball swapped sides until late in the quarter. With two minutes remaining, Quanah quick-kicked 70 yards to the Wellington five. Wellington tried a series in quick succession and ate up a lot of yardage, but time ran out on the red and white-clad Rockets and the ball rested on the Quanah 40 as the game ended, 27 to 19.

POWER STEERING on the Roadmaster and Super

"MILES PER GALLON" is something everyone talks about—and Buick owners take pride in telling us that they're doing OK on this score.

But the kind of miles is important too. The real pay-off you get when you own a Buick is in what happens while you're turning gas into power.

Every drop of gas sets off a tiny tornado of compacted energy in Buick's Fireball 8 Engine.

You swoop from a standing start to any speed the law or good sense permits with effortless smoothness, thanks to Dynaflow Drive.*

You soar over the road with magnificent levelness—buoyed by big soft coil springs on every wheel—coddled by a dozen other features which make up Buick's million dollar ride.

The car holds direction like an airliner on the beam. You snug into turns with sure-footed poise—ease your grip on the steering wheel and feel the car seek a straight course again like a compass points to the pole.

Yes indeed—life's different in a Buick. How different you should find out firsthand.

Lord Jim Says--

By Bill Hughes

In "The Silver Chalice" by Thomas B. Costain there is a passage spoken by Peter:

"And this I say to you, that the Christians of Rome will display such an unshakable faith in the face of the sufferings to come that all will wonder and say, 'What of this man Jesus, what is His secret that men and women will die at His beck?' And all over the world the true faith will spread and all men will bow down before the living God."

What of this man Jesus? He said, "If many will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily and follow me." The Christians of Rome did that with unshakable faith. With the result that your Christian forefathers bowed down before the living God who inspired them to write and to die for the Constitution of the United States as the foundation and a frame-work upon which to secure freedom and hope for man.

But today what of this man Jesus? Where is that unshakable faith? Americans, are you really Christians? So many no longer bow down to the living God but prefer an old man-made illusion, the New Deal, The Fair Deal, The almighty dollar. The promise is security — just let the Federal Government take care of you. The promise is peace — let the Communists have what they want only give it to them slowly by containment with the life's blood of your mouth. Don't deny yourself! No need for crosses daily nor monthly, not ever — just follow the magicians, those who will give you the most dollars for your vote.

That your higher productivity is producing heavier taxes, higher costs and less to save from more pay is nothing to worry about. That gangsters and crooks are getting their share ought not bother you. They voted for the Deal too. That employment is way up is fine. That more and more people are government paid and still more and more are paid to make goods for war is sound politics. There is no end to the kinds of government bureaus that can be made overnight. For twenty years you have not lacked for a crisis. It is the Korean Police action now and there are plenty more where that came from. You have 65 cents of your tax dollar left to pay for another four years. That is cheap when you figure you never had it so good.

But what of that man Jesus? It doesn't look like you need Him with his promise of Salvation by self-denial, hard work, courage to suffer and will to meet death with integrity and faith. All you got to do is jump on the Federal gravy train, pass laws and you got it made — a car in every garage and three peas in everybody's pot. All it takes is education from the Federal government, free medicine by Federal government, all work for the Federal government, and old age beneath the benevolent shade of the spreading Fair Deal by Harry.

Yet, wait! No man, nor woman, no deal, no democrat, no republican, no socialist nor dictator can release you from the certainty of death. In death each of you in turn must then "give an account of thy stewardship: for now thou canst be steward no longer!" At that time it does not matter whether you were a farmer or laborer, merchant or thief, rich or poor, black, brown, red, yellow or white. For all it is the same — not, how much did you get But, how much did you give? of yourself? What did you make of that clay of character which all are born with to mold each for himself or herself through everyday of life until death?

You cannot take with you your gold, your fame, nor your groceries. You cannot change the mold of your character at the moment of death and you can't leave it behind when you suddenly find it formless, abused and useless from years of neglect.

Life here is short, but universally eternal.

Therefore, perhaps, the unshakable faith of Christianity in the living God, lived by that man Jesus, bowed to by our forefathers, the inspiration of our Constitution, the only guarantee of all men's freedom, is worth balancing against the old, the very old old promises of Utopia, modernly called the Fair Deal. It attempts to relieve the individual of responsibility for his thinking, his actions, the responsibility for the molding of his character, the responsibility for striving to make God's Will his will.

Is it this for which that man Jesus lived, taught and was crucified? Does bowing to the living God mean compromise with denial of Him? Each must answer this for himself or herself but answer you must.

He Is the Choice of Texas Democrats for President!

Texas Democrats for Eisenhower!

That is the rallying cry of Texans who believe in the traditions and time-honored principles of the Democratic Party — but NOT in the policies and practices of Trumanism.

We are the Texas Democrats who have studied the candidates and platforms of the two major parties and are ready to announce: "We like Ike!"

We are the Texas Democrats who feel that best interests of our party, our state and our nation would NOT be served by another four years of Trumanism.

We are the Texas Democrats who stand ready to carry out the mandate of the State Democratic Convention which on September 9, 1952, resolved: "It is the recommendation of the Convention that every Democrat in Texas vote and work for the election of Dwight D. Eisenhower for President and Richard Nixon for Vice President."

If you, as a Democrat, feel as we do — join us!! Be a Texan — not a Trumanite . . . Vote Ike!

News Letter

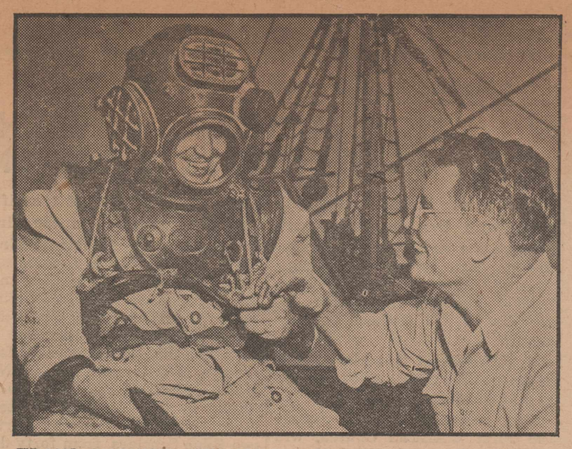

From Congressman WALTER ROGERS

CRIME: The big news in New York and this section of the country, outside of politics, has revolved around the companionship racket that was flourishing in the "cafe society" walks of New York life. Many of the columnists have grabbed onto this expose and have talked about it almost daily in their columns. This makes good material for news stories and columnist comments because of the prominence of many of the people involved. It also carries a tremendous reader interest, since it is a recognized fact that the downfall, demerits and shortcomings of human beings has always appealed to a large segment of human beings. The trouble is that the publicity value of these events seems to diminish shortly after the original story breaks and the whole matter is soon forgotten. The newspapers of this country could do a valuable service if they would carry these matters concerning crime clear through to the final conclusion and the punishment of the offenders. The final conclusion of the case and the punishment meted out to the offender, if found guilty, should be of great importance to people who are interested in suppressing crime. Publicity should also be given to the progress of the handling of the cases and the trials thereof. At the present time, there are several television shows dealing with true crime stories. Some of these are stories that were developed in the hearings of the Kefauver Crime Committee. Great detail is given to the facts of the crime and the story usually ends with the offender being caught. Very little is said about the punishment meted out to the offender and the price that crime exacts. The catching of the criminal is sometimes less than half of the task that faces the state or the government. The big job is the prosecution, the conviction and the punishment. I sincerely hope that the publicity given the uncovering of what appears to be a vicious racket in the "cafe society" of New York will not be dropped, but that the whole story will be told to its final conclusion. It will open the eyes of many glamour-minded young people who look upon New York and its so-called "society circles" as the land of milk and honey. A complete expose of this situation can prove to these youngsters that all that glitters is not gold.

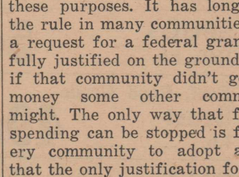

LESS PATERNALISM: A Junior Chamber of Comerce in Virginia did an admirable thing the other day. They adopted a resolution condemning the practice of every community in the country calling upon the federal government for grants, gifts and other expenditures. The resolution recognized that the bills for these projects must come out of the taxpayers' pockets. It is indeed encouraging to know that the young people are vitally interested in stopping federal expenditures for these purposes. It has long been the rule in many communities that a request for a federal grant was fully justified on the grounds that if that community didn't get the money some other community might. The only way that federal spending can be stopped is for every community to adopt a rule that the only justification for such a request is that the funds are indispensable for the survival of the community, that an extreme emergency exists, and that every effort will be made to repay the funds so obtained.

LESS MILITARY EXPENDITURES: The announcement by Secretary of Defense Lovett that military expenditures would level off in the next fiscal year and that our preparedness program could be supported on a sustaining basis is most heartening to those of us who have continually sought economy. America does not want cheap defense, but by the same token, every taxpayer wants value received for defense dollars and has the inherent right to expect it. Waste of tax dollars is inexcusable, regardless of the department in which it occurs.

GRASS: Did you know that in the State of Texas, according to the latest Census of Agriculture (1945), approximately 77 per cent of all lands in farms is used for pasture (in the Panhandle areas about 63 per cent is used for grazing purposes); that approximately 50 per cent of all feed requirements for domestic livestock in the United States is provided directly by pastures and ranges? John James Ingalls, in his book, "Blue Grass", said, "It (grass) yields no fruit in earth or air, and yet, should its harvest fail for a single year, famine would depopulate the world."

WRITTEN FARM LEASES PREVENT DISPUTES

At this time of year, landlords and tenants alike are thinking about farm rental arrangements for 1953. While many operate from year to year on the basis of verbal agreements regulated largely by local customs, written leases are better and may save disagreement and hard feelings between the parties.

Farming is a business and should be conducted in a business-like manner for best success. Rental contracts involve a full year's work by the tenant and possibly thousands of dollars for both parties. A few dollars spent on a properly drawn lease is good business economy.

A farm lease is not a simple paper. Printed lease forms often turn out to be traps if not understood, or if not properly executed. A farmer-tenant contract is intricate and of such importance to both parties concerned that amateur draftsmanship is risky.

Fixing of cash rent or designating the length of term are relatively simple. Yet, even in these matters, ambiguity or incompleteness can cause bitter disputes and expensive lawsuits.

A loosely drawn property description may have consequences entirely unintended by either landlord or tenant. Where rent is to be based on acreage, an accurate description is doubly important.

In addition, there are legal rules to substitute for some omissions in written leases. For example, a holdover by the tenant may automatically renew the contract if the lease is silent on the subject. It is as important to know the results of omissions as to know the courts' interpretation of the language used.

There are many matters which should be covered by a properly drawn lease. For instance, if a tenant is to farm on a share basis, care should be taken to define what expenses are to be paid by the parties as well as what shares are to be taken out. A lease should cover such things as who is to make repairs, what land is to be cropped, whether the tenant can cut timber, whether loss of a building by fire or other cause frees the tenant, or whether the landlord must accept a sub-tenant.

One great cause of difficulty with leases is blind faith on the part of the persons involved that all differences of opinion can be worked out. Poor memories as to verbal agreements can cause disputes between persons even though they are both honest and generous.

Many of the possibilities that should be covered by a properly drawn lease will not occur to inexperienced persons. The renting of land deserves a written contract, and it is a contract too important to be entrusted to anyone other than an expert.

Mainbrace Largest Fleet Maneuver in History

came Sunday afternoon when a general quarters alarm was sounded right after the start of Protestant church services, which were promptly postponed when the congregation darted for battle stations. During the "GQ" the editors were sealed into the forward mess area. Services were continued about 75 minutes later after the all-clear sounded.

After the Bodo operations, the fleet-comprising about 200 warships and many hundreds of aircraft which are lightning fast and can pack a tremendous bomb load — will speed southward to the Keil Canal area at the southern tip of Denmark to throw an air "umbrella" over amphibious landing operations there. Other weekly editors will view the operation from the Mt. Olympus, the amphibious landing flagship.

Editor's note — Periodic spot news dispatches will be published, to supplement daily newspaper Main Brace coverage. The editors personal column will chronicle human interest items, without adherence to a chronological schedule. (Signed consecutively Roundtree, Lewis, Bagenstoss, Crawford, Wells, Butcher, Brookhart, Lyttle, Oursler, Grossman.

Aboard USS Wasp, North Atlantic, Wireless) — A vicious, nasty, arctic storm reached out of the inky blackness of the North Atlantic last night and clobbered the daylights out of the NATO fleet participating in operation Main Brace. Everyone knows these big aircraft carriers are virtually imperturbable, even in high seas everyone, that is, except Old Man Weather. Not knowing it (Judging by the way it felt to your correspondent) "he" seemed to grab this carrier in a clenched fist, shake it till the teeth of the writter as well as his bunk, rattled and chattered, and then smash it down into the sea again for another go at it. The sensation of those on board had all the elements of a carnival ride which combined the roller coaster, the loop-o-plane, the ferris wheel and the ship, with the musical accompaniment of a steam caliope thrown in for good measure. As winds of 55 knots (63 miles) per hour screamed across the deck and 29 foot swells smashed and battered the hull, the carrier, so, shivered, quivered, quaked, creaked and groaned under the relentless beating of the elements which buffeted the ship like a cork on an inland lake in a high wind. Orders were given to all hands to exercise extreme caution on all of the fifteen deck levels, especially on weather decks, as spray whipped up out of the frothy brine and splashed over the flight deck fifty-six feet above the water-line. And by comparison with the beating of the little "tin cans" the destroyer escorts, this flattop was like shore duty. The arctic storm was all part of the true to life battle experiences of the fleet which thus for have included the loss of two attack planes and pilots; the temporary loss of a Norwegian submarine for which the whole fleet searched for hours, only to discover it in port; an aerial attack on "enemy forces" in Norway in the Bodo area, and the "sinking" of an "enemy" raider and submarine. Heavy weather has considerably hampered flight operations in this fifty-two ship task force under command of Vice-Admiral Felix B. Stump whose flagship is the Battleship Wisconsin. In all nearly two hundred ships are participating in maneuvers which shortly will take the fleet southwart to the Keil Canal area in South Denmark, cover amphibious landing operations.

HE'S ALL EARS—In the jungle of his cornfield, Basil Soupos, South Gifford, Mo., holds a yardstick to demonstrate the prolific yield he has received via liberal fertilizing. Seven ears can be counted in this 36-inch segment of Soupos' 100 acres of corn. The civil engineer-turned-farmer figures he has about 30,000 stalks per acre while some of his neighbors get no more than 7000. Because of the lack of rain Soupos probably won't reach his coveted goal of 200 bushels per acre, but if the dry spell continues he'll flood his field with water pumped from the Chariton River. Looking ahead, Soupos says he won't be satisfied until he raises 300 bushels per acre.

First Authorized Version Since 1611

SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH TO RECOGNIZE NEW BIBLE VERSION

The First Methodist Church, along with thousands of others through the nation, will give special emphasis to the new Revised Standard Version of the Bible on Sunday morning, September 28, the Rev. J. F. Michael has announced.

A highlight of this service will be an exhibit of Bibles of various and translations.

One other Wellington church, the First Christian Church, will recognize the event, with both services dedicated to the official issuance of this version, the Rev. Jack Garrett, pastor, said.

This is the first authorized version of the Bible since the issuance of the King James Version in 1611, Rev. Michael pointed out.

"Through the ages God's Word has been brought to men in the language of their times. Moses gave God's Word to his people in vigorous Hebrew; Paul spread the Gospel by writing in familiar, every day Greek; Jerome replaced the Old Lain translations with the Latin Vulgate, in the language current at the start of the fifth century. Wycliffe was the first to translate the Bible into English — in contemporary fourteenth century language. King James authorized scholars to revise existing versions, and in 1611 the Bible was published in the language of that time. So, the present Revised Version is authorized by the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. Fifteen years hard work given by thirty-two Bible Scholars, from forty different denominations, produced the present new Version. Fifty-nine others, making a total of 91 scholars cooperated in this great undertaking," he said.

Mrs. Marvin Somerville of Lubbock has been visiting in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. John Forbes Sr. spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Forbes Jr. in Childress.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Starr are spending a few days in Mineral Wells.

To Help Needy Churches

BAPTISTS JOIN DRIVE TO RAISE MONEY FOR MORE CHURCHES

The First Baptist Church in Wellington is joining with the other churches of the Texas Baptist General Convention in designating Sunday, September 28, to give $1,110,000 to help build new churches in needy areas, the Rev. Chester O'Brien, pastor, has announced.

The local church will give $2,000 to this cause Sunday, he added.

"To this end, all tithes and offerings on that day are dedicated. A special service is planned in the morning at which time the pastor will preach on "For Your Sakes He Became Poor."

Of the total sum $110,000 will be used within the state to buy property and construct buildings in unchurched areas of the large cities. The $1,000,000 will be used to establish a loan fund in the western states. Some Texas Baptist laymen have promised to give sizeable sums of money to augment the first $1,000,000. The Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention has allocated a large sum likewise to add to the $1,000,000 Texas Baptists give. It is hoped that soon between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 will be available to assist the struggling churches in the west, Rev. O'Brien explained.

In 1944, there were 76 Southern Baptist Churches in California. Last year there were 295. A gain of 288 per cent. In 1944, there were 5,048 members; last year there were 40,963. A gain of 694 per cent. This phenomenal growth in California can take place on a proportionate basis in some of the other states if adequate facilities are provided, he continued.

The need for church buildings in the western states — New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Washington, Oregon, and California — is appalling. There are now 300 Southern Baptist Churches in the Western States that have no church buildings in which to worship. To this number each week, two new congregations that need church buildings are being added. At the present rate of increase, by 1953, unless it is forthcoming immediately, there will be at least 500 homeless churches in the territory to which our Southern Baptist people have dedicated the gospel appeal, the local pastor concluded.

The story of Oklahoma's greatest and most beloved man — —

One of the most popular Americans of this century, perhaps, is that immortal homespun philosopher, cowboy, Ziegfield star, humorist, politician and world traveler, friend of great and small, Will Rogers. And it is the story of this amazingly versatile man that Warner Bros. is bringing to the screen on Sunday at the Ritz Theatre in "The Story of Will Rogers."

Jr. Plays Dad

Starring the man's own son, Will, Jr., who plays his Dad in the title role, with Jane Wyman as Mrs. Will Rogers, the Technicolor film takes the beloved sage from his early rip-roaring and colorful days as a cowpuncher on the Oklahoma range through a career that found him riding broncos, twirling a rope in the Ziegfeld Follits, and addressing national political conventions as a presidential contender. Such was the career of Will Rogers.

Star of Follies

It was while appearing in the Ziegfeld Follies with Eddie Cantor that Will Rogers became known as a man who could tell the American people what was ailing them, but in the humorous kind of way that they loved. When President Wilson himself asked Will to become the voice of the people and write for newspapers, Will shied away and went to Hollywood where he became a movie star.

Later he did start writing and his everyday column bits became regular household phrases all over America. His last interest was aviation and it was this pastime which brought him together with famed flier Wiley Post.

The Warner Bros. picture shows his whole career including little-known episodes about his home life and European travels.

NOTICE TO PATRONS —
I have seen the movie and feel I can personally endorse it to every man, woman and child in Collingsworth county. You will be amazed at Will Rogers Jr.
