FDR's Leaders Dealt Stunning Blow

She Makes The Best Of It

Mrs. Elmer Woodward was buried but uninjured in the debris of her home when a tornado struck Columbus, Kas., and all her chickens were killed. Here she is making the best of the situation, cutting up one of the chickens in what used to be her kitchen. Her daughter Henryetta is with her.

President Roosevelt's Own Story Of The New Deal

Article No. 9: The Story Of American Neutrality

Editor's Introductory Note

(When Italy entered upon an armed campaign against the African empire of Ethiopia in 1935, many observers expected this spark to set off a general European war. Popular agitation was strong for legislation that would keep the United States out of the war at all costs.

(The President signed a Neutrality resolution on August 31, 1935, although he was not satisfied with the discretion it granted to needs before the resolution expired in February, 1936. "It is conceivable," said his statment, "that . . . the inflexible provisions might drag us into war instead of keeping us out."

(Following is President Roosevelt's own story of the neutrality legislation assembled from his notes to his "Public Papers", and never before published.)

THE Senate Joint resolution approved on August 31, 1935, was the most comprehensive neutrality law which had ever been passed by the Congress of the United States.

It provided that, upon proclamation by the President that a state of war existed between two or more foreign countries, it should thereafter be unlawful to export arms, munitions and implements of war to the belligerent countries, and unlawful for American vessels to carry arms to belligerents. It also provided that if the President so proclaimed, American citizens should travel at their own risk on the vessels of belligerent nations.

Control Plans Set Up

The resolution also set up a thoroughgoing system of national supervision and control of the manufacture and traffic in arms and munitions. The latter provision was an enactment which the Administration had been seeking for some time for the United States, and one which it had urged the Disarmament Conference at Geneva in 1934 to adopt for the nations of the world.

The arms control section of the resolution established a National Munitions Control board consisting of the Secretaries of State, Treasury, War, Navy and Commerce, with supervisory powers over the traffic in arms.

Armament Control

THE resolution (as amended May 1, 1937) requires all manufacturers, exporters and importers of arms, munitions and implements of war to register with the Secretary of State, and to keep open for inspection certain records pertaining to their business. Licenses are required for the export and import of arms to and from all coutries, and are made public.

This government has for several years observed a definite policy of refusing to promote and encourage the export trade in arms, and of forbidding its representatives abroad from taking any action which might be construed as an effort to increase the sale in foreign countries of implements of war manufactured here. This policy has been in marked contrast to that followed by several other powers.

Ethiopian Oil

(Editor's Note: Immediately after the Neutrality resolution was signed, American fears of involvement in the Ethiopian war seemed realized when an American oil concession in that country came to light. Asked about it by the press, the President said: "Since the 4th of March 1933, dollar diplomacy is no longer recognized by the United States government.")

The Standard-Vacuum Oil company through a subsidiary had obtained an extensive oil concession in Ethiopia.

The State department informed the chairman of the board and the vice-president of the company, who visited the Department of State to seek advice on the situation created by the grant, that the granting of

Cotton Lost In Lamesa Blaze

(By The Associated Press)

LAMESA, April 1.—More than 4,000 bales of government loan cotton were destroyed today by a fire sweeping through the warehouse of the Dawson County Warehouse company.

Fire department officers estimated the blaze would continue at least 24 hours.

George D. Norman, one of the owners, said 4,300 bales were lost. The cotton was insured, however.

The origin of the fire was undetermined.

Borger Selected As The Next Convention Site By Group

CHILDRESS, April 1. (AP)—Borger was selected as the next conference city at the conclusion of the eighth district parent teachers convention here today.

Mrs. C. R. Hunkapillar of Pampa was re-elected district president; Miss Illa Pool of Pampa named corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. J. Vogel of Amarillo, recording secretary; Mrs. R. J. Reynolds of Dumas, Mrs. Cyril Luker of Amarillo, Mrs. F. A. Redner of Panhandle, Mrs. M. W. McCloy of Morse, Mrs. D. L. C. Kindard of Memphis, Mrs. S. P. Cross of Follett, Mrs. H. P. Clemmons of Dimmitt, vice presidents.

GAS ALLOWABLES SET

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP)—The railroad commission today set the daily sweet gas allowable production for the East Panhandle field for April at 160,231,000 cubic feet and that of the Rodessa field at 54,111,000.

Mercury Skids As Winter Returns To Area

Panhandle Gets Snow; Drop To 30 Is Forecast

Sweltering Heat Is Reported In Texas Valley; Fear For Fruit Crop Is Expressed

THE outstanding All-Fools day joke on the South Plains was the weather. In fact the weather knocked in the head practically all the plans of the practical jokers.

Temperatures dropped from a maximum of 50 degrees in mid-afternoon to 35 degrees late Friday night. And the indications and predictions were that the mercury would fall below freezing before morning, despite the fact that after falling to the 35-degree mark it remained steady until 11 o'clock.

Snow In Panhandle

The advent of April brought snow, sleet and freezing weather in the Panhandle, according to the Associated Press. Unconfirmed reports held that the traces of snow reached as far south as Abernathy, and that despite shirt sleeves and sweltering heat in the Rio Grande.

Skies here remained partly cloudy to cloudy Friday and a strong and cold north wind added to the disagreeable weather.

The Associated Press said snow fell at Dalhart, Pampa, Borger, Spearman, Gruver, and Perryton and sleet was reported at Amarillo.

Killing Blow Is Feared

Despite the predictions for freezing weather here Thursday night and Friday morning, the minimum was 36 degrees. Agricultural authorities said no damage was reported for Friday morning's cold wave, but fear was expressed that Friday night and this morning might deal a killing blow to fruit trees. It was pointed out that cold, clear weather might produce a frost which might prove fatal to this season's fruit crop.

Three to 4 1-2 inches of snow on the North Plains partially explained the chill of Friday's winds here.

The official forecast calls for colder, freezing weather in the Panhandle and frost today in the extreme west portion of West Texas.

Low Of 30 Expected

According to the main line station of the West Texas Gas company, continued cold and cloudy weather will prevail today and the predicted minimum was 30 degrees. Amarillo expected a low of 29 degrees. Soil conservation authorities in the regional office at Amarillo said the

Tech Host For State Session

The Esperanto club of Texas Technological college will be host to the second annual congress of the Esperanto Association of Texas today at the college.

Members of the state association and approximately 100 representatives from high schools of this area have been invited, said Dr. A. J. Bahm, assistant professor of philosophy and sociology at Tech and organizer of the Tech club which is studying the international language.

Lunch To Be Served

Registration will open at 10:30 o'clock in room 321 administartion building. The group will lunch at 12 o'clock at the college bookstore.

The principal meeting will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in room 220 administration building. Myron Ghetian, president of the Tech Esperanto club, will welcome visitors, and Philippa Stoneham of Bryan first vice president of the Texas association, will respond. Miss Stoneham will preside at the program. Reports of the last year will be given by Miss Stoneham and Gladys Schantz, secretary and instructor of Tech's club.

Plan To Boost Business Out Of Slump By Broadening Lending Powers Is Approved

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1.—An administration proposal to help business out of the slump by broadening lending powers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation sped through the senate today.

Acting with speed reminiscent of its pace in the 1933 banking emergency, the chamber approved the measure in precisely two minutes.

Voice votes on one amendment mediately after the noon roll and on passage were taken immediately after the noon roll call, when only a handful of senators were in their seats.

While some senators obviously were unaware of what was happening a few answered "aye" on both votes. Vice President Garner's gavel cracked twice and the bill went to the house.

Introduced by Senator Glass (D-Va), "father" of the federal reserve system and author of much major banking legislation, the bill would permit the RFC to make loans to business without restriction on maturity.

The corporation either could make loans, or buy securities. In

April Fool Day Still No Time To Tell A Lie

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, April 1.—This was April Fool day but George Washington, negro, could not tell a lie.

George pleaded guilty when the judge asked him if he burglarized a produce house. The judge gave him a five-year suspended sentence and then asked facetiously:

"Was that a peach or cherry tree that you cut down?"

George Washington, negro, was puzzled.

"Judge," he stammered, "I never cut down no tree no where. That must have been another George."

Thompson Will Launch Drive On April 12

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 1.—The start of a new month found considerable activity along the Texas political front.

Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson, who hopes to be promoted to the governorship, announced he would complete his platform next week and would open his speaking campaign at Waco the night of April 12.

Assistants Offer Aid

The parade of assistant attorneys general to the campaign tent of Attorney General William McCraw continued. Robert W. McKissick of Sweetwater was the third one to resign to aid in McCraw's race for governor. Other resignations probably will follow in the near future.

McCraw said at Dallas yesterday he might make public his platform before leaving for a resumption in Florida April 11 of the Green inheritance tax hearings. He added, however, that his official opening campaign address perhaps would be delayed until May.

Baylor Leader In Charge

Dr. John T. Harrington of Waco, long-time head of the board of trustees of Baylor university, will be in charge of the Thompson opening in the Central Texas city.

One of the latest reports in connection with the governor's race was that Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls might run for the fourth time. Hunter was runner-up in both the 1934 and 1936 contests.

Report Is Buried

Former Governor James E. Ferguson definitely buried a report originating in Dallas that the gubernatorial candidacy of his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, would be announced today. Observers were of the opinion Ferguson would not disclose what role he would play in the approaching campaign until after April 10.

The list of those who have paid the required $100 filing fee for the railroad commission race was swelled with receipt of a check from Robert A. Stuart of Fort Worth, former state senator. C. V. Terrell, who wants to serve on the commission six years longer, has drawn a large field of opponents.

Election On Removal Of Ward County Seat Is Being Asked

BARSTOW, April 1. (AP)—County Judge Fred P. Snelson today had before him a petition asking for removal of the Ward county seat from Barstow to Monahans.

Officials were checking the 1,500 names affixed to the petition, which was presented by Earl Vest of Monahans and John P. Howard of El Paso, counsel for the Monhans adherents.

Judge Snelson was asked to call an election in form 30 to 60 days.

Passage Of Tax Revision Bill Predicted By Next Weekend

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—Leaders predicted today that the senate would pass the tax revision bill by next weekend.

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee arranged to make a radio address Sunday night (CBS) outlining provisions of the measure as revised by his committee.

TO BEGIN SURVEY

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—The power commission announced today it would begin about April 10 a survey to determine a preliminary estimate of the cost of an electric distribution system for Fort Worth, Tex.

Hoover Bid For '40 Nomination Being Hinted

Political Tongues Wag After Speech; Possible Volley Of Backfiring Is Being Faced

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Former President Hoover's vivid account of his observations in Europe set political tongues wagging in Washington, primarily over the question whether his New York speech should be construed as a tentative bid for the Republican presidential nomination in 1940.

Washington's increasing interest in politics as the 1938 campaigning begins made that of first importance to Democrats, Republicans and press gallery onlookers. About the only agreement detectable was that if Mr. Hoover actually intended his address to be an invitation to his party to consider his qualifications for a return to the White House, he could not have improved much on the speech he made.

Strategy Working Well

His remarks come when Republicans in congress are having the best time they have known since their lean years began in 1932. The strategy they used in the court bill fight in the senate last summer is still working well. Most of the shooting at Roosevelt administration policies is being left to anti-New Deal Democrats or to other Democratic warriors who are off the Roosevelt reservation.

Revival of Republican discord over presidential nomination maneuvering, platform-making, or anything else, would be a fly in the Republican ointment just now.

Backfires Are Faced

In quite another respect, however, the former president faced a possible volley of political backfiring. He suggested that post-war relief debts owed to this country by European nations be dealt with in much the same way the United States handled indemnity from China after the Boxer uprising. Mr. Hoover was in China then. He proposes now that money owed on relief loans be used to promote cultural relations through joint management of the funds.

He appears to be aiming at an American educational campaign in central Europe concering meaning and advantages of democracy. Nevertheless, his suggestion was dropped into a political and economic situation at home that is

Equalizing Levy Being Proposed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1.—A suggestion that "tariff" equalizing taxes will be necessary to give cotton and wheat farmers their "fair share" of the national income has been given the senate finance committee by Secretary Wallace.

Wallace, in testimony made public today, said the income of southern cotton producers "is going to be desperately low next fall. If wheat production should average 750,000,000 to 900,000,000 bushels over the next four to five years, he added "you could easily have wheat prices plunging down to a very low level."

"Provide For Loans

The only thing that could stop such a decline in what prices is a provision in the new farm program providing for loans to wheat farmers up to about 60 cents per bushel, he said.

He added however, that unless the farmers vote for marketing quotas "even the government would not be able to hold the situation."

Senator Pope (D-Idaho) has proposed a system of tariff-equalizing taxes on the processing of wheat,

Mayor Of Juarez Killed By Explosion Of Bomb In City Hall Office Friday Night

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, April 1.—Mayor Jose Borunda of Juarez, Mex., was killed in his office tonight when a time bomb exploded in his hands.

Domingo Barraza, an office employe, was injured seriously, his eyes blown out.

Humberto Escobar, city clerk, was in the office at the time of the explosion but escaped injury.

The mayor's office was wrecked. Doors and windows were blown out.

Heriberto Garcia Rivas, Juarez district attorney, who conducted a preliminary investigation, said Borunda returned to his office tonight to look over a package he had received in the morning mail. The bomb, Garcia said, was wrapped inside the package.

When the mayor opened it it exploded in his hands. Barraza was struck in the face by fragments of dynamite and knocked down. The mayor staggered and fell a few feet away, his face and the middle portion of his body mangled.

Britain And U. S. Blaming Japan For Decision To Build Mightier Ships

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The United States and Great Britain published notes today announcing they would build mightier dreadnaughts.

At the same time France stated her intention of abiding by the present 35,000-ton limit, provided other powers (meaning Germany and Italy) did likewise.

Both Britain and the United States said they based their decisions on Japan's failure to disclose whether she intended to build, or was building bigger battleships.

The notes concern only dreadnaughts. Cruisers (limited to 8,000 tons by the London naval treaty) are not mentioned. The United States has had information Japan is building or intends to build larger battleships but not larger cruisers.

The United States note, like the British, consists of three paragraphs. The first declares the United States "finds it necessary to exercise the right of escalation . . ."

The second declares that the "proposed departure" relates to

Debate On School Changes Is Held

FINAL session of a three-day articulation conference at which advisability of a 12-year public school system in Texas has been discussed by prominent educators will be conducted at 9 o'clock this morning in Senior High school auditorium.

Flaws in the present system have been pointed out in addresses during the conference, which opened Thursday night. All agreed the present system is outmoded but some did not favor change to the "four level plan" under which approximately 12 years would be required for a student to complete his public school education.

Several Hundred Attend

Several hundred teachers, school officials, and Texas Technological college students attended Friday sessions. School representatives from more than 25 towns have registered for the conference.

The education department of Texas Technological college is sponsoring the conference, which comes near the close of the four-year curriculum revision movement in Texas.

Dr. R. E. Gatlin, education professor at Texas Technological college, will preside at this morning's session.

Program For Today

The program follows: "Why Substitute Twelve Years for the Present Eleven Years of Public Education in Texas?" Dr. G. O. Clough, director of Dallas college of Southern Methodist university, discussion, Supt. A. W. Adams, Childress. "Fitting the Curriculum to the System Used," B. C. Shulkey, assistant superintendent of schools, Fort Worth; discussion, Supt. W. C. Blankenship, Big Spring; "Cautions to be Observed in Changing to a Twelve Year System," T. H. Shelby, professor of educational administration and dean of division of extension, University of Texas; discussion, Supt. L. E. Dudley, Abilene; four-minute presentations on "Practical Plans for Reorganizing the Eleven Year System", summary of discussions, Dr. B. F. Pittenger, dean of school of education, University of Texas; final address, W. A. Stigler, director of curriculum, state department of education. Presenting the four-minute speeches on reorganization will be J. C. Foreign Outlet For Oil Supply Thought Found

(By The Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, April 1.—The Mexican government was reported today to have reached an agreement "in principle" with a Briton and an American to seek desperately needed foreign outlets for mounting stocks of oil produced by the expropriated $400,000,000 petroleum industry.

Oil circles said it was understood tentative terms were reached at conferences between high government officials and Francis W. Rickett, British promoter who negotiated an Ethiopian oil concession in 1935, and Bernard E. Smith, New York stock broker.

Decline To Comment

Rickett and Smith, declining to comment, left by plane in mid-afternoon after talking with President Lazaro Cardenas and Gustavo Espinosa Mireles, president of the newly-created National Petroleum Export company.

Rickett was reported to have promised Cardenas to try to find a place in the world market for 25,000,000 barrels of oil. Mexico's oil production 1937 was 41,000,000 barrels.

To Put Up Money

Smith, it was understood, was to put up the money to finance any arrangement Rickett made with the government, depositing a $5,000,000 guarantee to start with.

The sore need for foreign markets was indicated by storage tanks filled almost to capacity since Cardenas took over the 17 British and American oil companies on March 18.

The expropriation decree complicated the nation's oil trade because the action affected her best customers, Britain and the United States, who absorbed about 60 per cent of her output.

Sultan Of Muscat Takes Fast Ride In British Army Tank

LONDON, April 1. (AP)—The sultan of Muscat and Omah, here on a visit, tucked his resplendent oriental robes around his knees today and took a 40-mile-an-hour ride over hills and boulders in a new army speed tank, at Aldershot.

At the end of the ride he stepped from the tank breathing heavily but insisted:

Key City In Barcelona Drive Is Said To Be Abandoned

HENDAYE, France, (AP)—The Spanish Frontier), April 1. (AP)—Spanish insurgent authorities at Irun said tonight they had received an official dispatch from the front saying Lerida, key city in the drive to Barcelona, had been abandoned by its government defenders and was in flames.

At the same time the insurgents announced capture of Valderrobres, vital center of communications on the border of Tarragona province 30 miles from the Mediterranean.

Kelly Field Cadet Is Badly Injured As Plane Crashes

SAN ANTONIO, April 1. (AP)—Kelly field Flying Cadet E. H. Petri, native of Austin and former University of Texas student, was injured critically about noon today when his attack airplane crashed on a farm about 7 miles west of the field.

Petri was reported at Kelly field on a training flight alone. He was taken to Fort Sam Houston hospital.

Youth Dies Of Injuries After Being Struck By A Truck

NACOGDOCHES, April 1. (AP)—Kenneth Pate, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pate of Chireno, near here, died late today of injuries received when he was struck as he alighted from a school bus near his home.

County Attorney Vernis Fulmer said he was told the boy was struck by a truck.

Final Vote On Reorganization Bill Delayed

Seething Debate Is Staged In House And Crafty Tactics Are Used By Opponents

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1. — The house dealt the administration leadership a stunning blow tonight and forced it to abandon plans for shoving the president's government reorganization bill through to early passage.

By a vote of 191 to 149, the opposition leadership achieved its first objective, the postponement of a final vote on the measure, and then predicted the bill's ultimate defeat.

Motion To End Debate

The ballot, taken as the result of a parliamentary maneuver, was technically upon the question of whether or not the house should vote immediately upon a motion to end general debate on the reorganization bill.

But, whatever its technical aspects, its meaning was so plain the motion to end debate was withdrawn quickly by its maker, Chairman Cochran (D-Mo.), of the reorganization committee, and in the next minute he moved the house adjourn until tomorrow.

Crafty Tactics Used

The action came after a day of seething debate and crafty parliamentary tactics, in which the opponents of the measure used every device available under the "filibuster-proof" rules of the house to delay action.

Their purpose, they repeatedly asserted, was to postpone final action until a flood of telegrams protesting against passage of the measure could have an effect upon wavering supporters of the bill. More than 50,000 telegrams were received today.

Striving to offset the effect of these messages, Representative Rayburn (D-Tex.), Democratic floor leader, recalled "faked" telegrams which were sent during the battle over the public utilities holding company act, and said at least one of the messages received today could be proved false.

No Message Sent

A Pennsylvania member, receiving a message purportedly from a ward leader in this district, checked back to the supposed sender of the telegram and received a reply that no such message had been sent.

Debate Honors Go To Slaton

Slaton took first honors in both boys' and girls' divisions of debate here Friday night in the Interscholastic league tournament for Lubbock county.

In the boys' division Roosevelt took second and Idalou third. For the girls, Idalou was second and Frenship and Roosevelt tied for third. Three boys' and four girls' teams participated.

First Round Results

In the first round for the girls Roosevelt lost to Idalou and Frenship to Slaton. Slaton took Idalou in the finals. Roosevelt drew a bye in the boys division, then lost to Slaton after the Slaton triumphed over Idalou.

Boys debating were: Wayne Liles and Milton Kessell for Slaton; Bob Park and Willard Samples for Roosevelt; and Ralph Lovelace and Bobby Lawson for Idalou. Participating in the girls' matches were: Lucille Savell and Juanita Williams for Slaton; Irene Holt and Mary Anderson for Roosevelt; Earlene Marks and Wanda Kembrell for Idalou; and Helen Alexander and Mildred Wingfield for Frenship.

KICKS AND BOOSTS

UNDAUNTED by disappointments, some of which his friends knew nothing of, a professor explained his reaction this way: "I consider every kick as a boost. Instead of keeping me back, adverse critics are pushing me forward." We thought of that today when we came across a bit of philosophy written by Edmund Vance Cook. Don't you know people who have grown stronger after enduring great griefs? Had it occurred to you that the Creator who made a great light to follow the night would also light up man's mind with idealism and faith after a dark period in his life?

HERE'S COOK'S POEM:

You are beaten to earth?
Well, well what's that?
Come up with a smiling face.
It's nothing against you to fall down flat,
But to lie there—that's disgrace.
The harder you're thrown, why the higher you'll bounce;
Be proud of your blackened eye!
It isn't the fact that you're licked that counts;
It's how did you fight and why?

THE EASTER PARADE

THREE events mark Easter Sunday in most families: Going to church, joining the fashion parade and meeting for the family dinner.

The problem of which church to attend sometimes arises in the case of engaged couples.

Generally a man goes to his wife's church unless his interest in his own is unusually strong. A. Paul Wright, pastor of the Second Reformed Church in Tarrytown, N. Y. Consequently, a young man often attends the church of which his fiance is a member. If both have an equal interest in their respective churches, the couple may go to one church on Christmas and the other on Easter.

CORSAGE AND COLLECTION

It has become customary for the mother of the family to receive an Easter corsage to wear to church. That's just one of those niceties which further binds family devotions. Shoulder corsages are usually worn on the left shoulder, with the blossoms up.

Nearly all churches take up an extra collection or offering on Easter. And many families consider their Easter contributions as important an expression of appreciation as those made at Christmas.

WHAT TO WEAR

How about hats in church?

"I'm afraid Easter hats aren't designed with the church in mind," Mr. Wright remarks. "There's not much we can do about that — since custom has it the woman must wear her hat. The man, of course, takes off his hat and his gloves."

Morning clothes are worn by men only at the most formal city churches. Otherwise the whole family just "dress up" for the occasion.

If the services are in a large city church, however, the man wears: a cutaway coat, striped trousers, lightweight gray gloves, a gray vest, a topper, gray spats, ascot tie and wing collar.

COPYWRITER'S HEADACHE

SOME of the bans that keep writers of liquor advertising tossing on their pillows at night provide an interesting item of Americana. A copywriter at Arthur Kudner, Inc. (International Building), who devotes his talents to various National Distillers whiskies, says that the liquor industry has taken a sturdy resolve to keep its face clean. People have strong prejudices about strong drink. It's easy to offend.

When a copywriter starts to compose he has an implacable phalanx of DON'TS looking him in the eye. Among them: No woman may be represented or appealed to. No children depicted in artwork. No college copy or appeal. No Sunday advertising. No advertising in religious publications. No illustrations of drinking at bars. No illustration of night club scenes "of a hilarious or convivial nature." No connections with Santa Claus, Easter rabbits, or other national institutions. No tie-up with aviators, on or off duty. Or with locomotive engineers, bus, or taxi drivers. No paraphrases of the old classic, "Not a headache in a hogshead."

No restrictions on headaches for copywriters.

Proceeds To Go To Confederate Aid

Perhaps the most interesting social event of the past week was a benefit bridge and forty-two party and old-fashioned style show sponsored by the Stephen Wilkinson chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy Thursday night at the American Legion home. Proceeds will aid Lubbock Confederate veterans or their widows. There were 80 guests.

Mrs. Wilbur Cooper and her baby son, William Ross, were awarded first place in the style parade. Mrs. Cooper wore a dress of the last centusy and her baby was dressed in a floor-length dress. Miss Louise Chance, wearing a beaded and paneled dress of the early nineties and high-topped shoes, won second place.

Others in the show were Mrs. A. L. Kramer and daughters, Katherine and Dorothy, Misses Margaret Carroll Robertson, Esther Cooper, Josephine Powell, Opal Sloan, Mesdames Lucile Smith and Yancey Price.

Miss Della Wilkinson was chairman of the show.

Mrs. Vernon Brown made high score in bridge games and high score in forty-two went to E. C. Young.

Baptist Groups Meet

The First Baptist Fellowship and Homebuilders unions had a joint social meeting Thursday night at the activity center. Games were played and a refreshment plate was served.

Attending were Messrs. and Mesdames J. D. Stoneham, Klaus McCraw, W. A. Terrell, J. D. Carnett, C. O. Pendley, B. B. Rogers, J. L. Pate, W. E. Holder, Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Barton, Lilla Eord, Minnie Tackett and Tom Campbell.

In Littrell Home

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Littrell, 609 Sixteenth street, were hosts with a forty-two party Thursday night in their home. Mrs. Ray Magers and Jesse Wright made high scores. Other guests were Messrs. and Mesdames O. C. Lowry, Odas Pilkington, L. V. Littrell, Walker Jackson, Messrs Magers, Pete Brown, Hughey Littrell and Miss Billie Jo Taylor.

Club Luncheon Given

Mrs. Eugene Wilson, 2101 Twenty-seventh street, was hostess with a luncheon for L'Aiquille club Wednesday afternoon at her home.

Attending were Mesdames G. H. Ball, Guy Kennedy, Earl Ellison, Ruth Kuykendall, T. L. Biggs, T. L. Miller, J. W. Phillips and H. T. Wilkins.

A group of women from Becton and Idalou communities met in the home of Mrs. Ed Snodgrass recently to organize the Rosebud Needle club. The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. A. B. Steen; vice-president, Mrs. Snodgrass, and reporter and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. R. O. Gregory.

Sewing will be the main purpose of the club. The members planned to present quilt scraps to Mrs. Snodgrass for a flower quilt. The hostess served cake, marshmallows and punch.

Attending were Mesdames A. B. Steen, E. R. Steen, M. B. Stanton, E. T. Smith, J. E. Turpin, Minnie Lovell, J. P. Armstrong, A. A. Burress, Gregory and J. R. Killebrew.

The club will meet April 13 with Mrs. E. R. Steen.

Geneva King Wins Auxiliary Honor

The American Legion auxiliary Friday announced that Geneva King, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. King, 2002 Avenue W, was chosen "Little Miss Lubbock" in a three-day popularity contest just concluded by the auxiliary.

The child will receive a diamond ring. Second and third places, respectively, went to Geraldine Von Wolff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Von Wolff, 1111 Sixteenth Street, and Frances Groce daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freeland Groce, 1723 Thirtieth street.

The winners and other contestants will be honored at a theater party to be given by the auxiliary this afternoon.

Proceeds will go toward child welfare work sponsored by the auxiliary.

Marriage Of Ophelia Blain And Edward Thompson Told

Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Blain, 2108 Seventh street, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ophelia Bain, to Edward Thompson, son of Mrs. E. A. Thompson of Brownwood. The marriage took place in Clovis, N. M., January 31, 1937 with Rev. Charles Watson, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Miss Virginia McGuire and Henry Farmer of this city accompanied the couple to Clovis.

The Story Of The New Deal By The Man Who Originated It

this concession had been the cause of great embarrassment not only to the United States, but also to other nations which were making efforts to preserve peace.

The concession, which had been negotiated with the Emperor of Ethiopia through a British promoter without any consultation with the Department of State or any government agency, was thereupon abandoned by the company.

Contraband List

ON September 24th, 1935, the National Munitions Control board held its first meeting and recommended a list of the articles to be considered as arms, ammunition and implements of war, for the purpose of the neutrality legislation.

(Editor's Note — On October 5 this list of lethal articles was put to work. The President proclaimed that a state of war unhappily exists between Ethiopia and the Kingdom of Italy," that export of arms to them was prohibited, and that Americans traveled on belligerent vessels only at their own risk.)

War Profits

As I said in my statement approving the Neutrality resolution, the resolution did not deal adequately with all phases of the neutrality problem. I, therefore, did not limit our neutrality efforts to the actions prescribed by the resolution.

On the same day on which I issued these proclamations, I also issued a statement to the country, declaring, "In these specific circumstances, I desire it to be understood that any of our people who voluntarily engage in transactions of any character with either of the belligerents do so at their own risk."

Some Citizens Adamant

Although the Secretary of State on October 10, 1935, emphasized and amplified this statement, it soon became apparent that these declarations of the administration's policy were not sufficient to discourage some private persons and firms from taking advantage of the tempting trade opportunities in war materials.

I issued a further statement on October 30, 1935.

(Editor's Note — It warned profiteers that the "government is determined not to become involved in the controversy" and was accordingly "keeping informed as to all shipment consigned for export to both belligerents.")

The original neutrality legislation expired, so far as the provisions relating to arms embargoes were concerned, on February 29, 1936.

New Bill Drafted

As soon as the Congress reassembled in January, 1936, the administration sponsored a new neutrality bill, known as the Pitman-McReynolds bill. This added a number of new provisions, chief among which were: (1) a prohibition against making loans to belligerent governments; and (2) a provision authorizing the President to limit the exports to belligerents of essential war materials other than arms, ammunition and implements of war, to "normal quantities—that is, quantities usually exported to such nations, as averaged durin ga given period of years before the war.

The Administration vigorously supported this legislation, and the Secretary of State himself appeared before the commitee to urge its adoption.

Opposition To Bill

THERE was serious opposition to the bill, however. It arose from several groups; from some racial minorities who felt that the countries of their origin might be injured under certain provisions of the bill; from a number of international lawyers who were opposed to our abandoning certain of our so-called "neutrality rights"; and from some sincere persons who conscientiously believed that it would be impossible to administer the provisions of the bill dealing with "normal quantities."

As the result of this opposition, the bill did not pass. Instead, on February 29, 1936, the very day on which the arms embargo provisions of the old law expired, a new resolution was hastily enacted and approved which extended the arms embargo procisions until May 1, 1937, and added a new section prohibiting, with certain exceptions, loans and credits to belligerent governments.

Spanish War

THE civil war in Spain broke out in July, 1936, at a time when the Congress was not in session. No provision had been made in the neutrality legislation of 1936 for civil warfare. No legal means existed, therefore, by which the government could prohibit the exports of arms to Spain. However, the government soon made its policy clear and definitely discouraged such exports.

On August 7th the acting Secretary of State sent the following instructions to all our representatives in Spain:

"In conformity with its well-established policy of non-interference with international affairs in other countries either in time of peace or in the event of civil strife, this government will, of course scrupulously refrain from any interference whatsoever in the unfortunate Spanish situation. We believe that American citizens, both at home and abroad, are patriotically observing this well-recognized American policy."

Arms Exports Discouraged

At home the Department of State sought todiscourage exports of arms to Spain as a violation of the spirit of our neutrality policy, even though express legislation had not been enacted. For several months American munitions manufacturers respected this policy.

In December, 1936, however, an application was made to export a quantity of airplanes and war materials. The license, unfortunately, had to be granted under the law; but the government's disapproval of the conduct of the exporter was set forth in a statement to the press.

(Editor's Note — The President said: "He represents the 10 per cent or less of business that does not live up to the best standards.")

The new Congress which convened in 1937 almost immediately closed up this gap in our legislation, by a Joint Resolution approved by me on January 8, 1937, prohibiting the export of arms and munitions to Spain.

Control Operates Smoothly

Domestic control of the munitions question is now operating smoothly and satisfactorily, but international control is still an unaccomplished fact, although we have made it clear, time and again, that whenever the other powers express a willingness to negotiate once more, we shall be ready to do all in our power to bring about a comprehensive international convention.

I am firmly convinced that the question of the control of the manufacture of arms and munitions cannot be adequately dealt with by any nation alone. It requires the united action of the principal nations of the world; and the United States has shown its desire to cooperate and lead in the adoption of an adequate policy of control.

Much Work Remains In School Census

Although enumerators have completed their first round of Lubbock independent school district, approximately three weeks' work remains to be done before the scholastic census of the district can be completed, officials reported Friday.

There is no doubt, they added, that the total will exceed by a "substantial" number the 5,693 aggregate last year.

It is certain, also, they said, that there will be numerous additions to the lists of names already enumerated. Most of those additions will come from the residences where occupantz were not at home when enumerators called.

Meanwhile, school officials asked cooperation in the endeavor to make the census complete. They urged that any parent or guardian who may be uncertain whether his children have been listed call the school district office, 1007 Texas avenue, telephone 624. All children who will be between the ages of six and 17 next Sept. 1 should be listed.

Importance of making the census as complete as possible is reflected in the fact that for every name on the roll, the school district will receive a state per capita apportionment of $22.

LOW IRRIGATION RATE

ABERNATHY, April 1.—Irrigation rate for Abernathy's water department goes into effect this month. Rate will be $2.50 for the first 10,000 gallons and 15 cents for each additional thousand. Arthur Crow, head of the water department said he expected many to take advantage of the offer.

Less than three years ago Great Britain had 20 flying boats and no land planes in the general reconnaissance class. Now there is a total of 162 such machines.

Support Given Texas Projects

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP) — Further support of the proposed $54,000,000 Denison dam on the Red river in Texas came today from O. N. Floyd of Dallas, engineer of the Red River Improvement association.

Floyd said he expected to present the house flood control committee on April 11 a statement advocating authorization of the project.

Supplementary Endorsement

His statement would supplement an endorsement given the committee yesterday by Colonel Eugene Reybold, Little Rock, Ark., army division engineer.

Reybold declared the dam would be "self liquidating" because hydro-electric power to be generated would find ample market within a 200 mile radius.

He told the committee that the structure would save from annual inundation thousands of acres of fertile lands between Denison, Tex., and the mouth of the river.

Surveys Are Made

He said the project had been recommended by the war department, after surveys showed a dam of sufficient height could be constructed to be practical for both flood control and power purposes. The structure would be 190 feet high and three miles wide.

Majority Leader Rayburn (D-Tex) said the project would be of great benefit to Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana as well as Texts.

The lake to be created by the dam would cover approximately 20,000 acres in Oklahoma and Texas, inundating several towns in the former state.

Representative Ferguson, (D-Okla), a member of the committee, expressed concern that construction of the dam might prevent the building of reservoirs on the Washita in Oklahoma, a tributary of the Red River.

District Hotel Managers To Hold Session Here Sunday

Texas Hotel association is sponsor of a district hotel managers and executives parley to meet Sunday afternoon in Hilton hotel. Approximately 50 persons are expected to attend, said Vernon Herndon, Hilton manager.

Included in the assemblage will be Paul McSween, president of the association, Scott Hardy, executive secretary, and A. M. Compton, manager of the Gunter hotel, all of San Antonio, and Howard Higby, manager of the Blackstone at Fort Worth.

All hotel managers of the South Plains are asked to attend, said Herndon, who said the meeting will be in interest of the Texas Hotel Review, official publication of the association.

There will be a luncheon at noon.

NYA Leader Declares Youth Only Looking For Chance

DALLAS, April 1. (AP)—Refuting the idea that youth wants to be served, Garth Akridge, Atlanta, Ga., regional director of the National Youth administration for the twelve southern states, said today no evidence of such a philosophy has been detected among the young people themselves.

"All American youth wants," he said, "is the opportunity to work, to take their place as self-supporting, self-respecting citizens. They want to serve, not to be served."

Newest Step Toward Control Of Cancer Is Revealed; Heavy Water Now Being Used

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH

BALTIMORE, April 1.—The newest step toward the control of cancer was reported today before the Federated Biological societies by two Yale university scientists who declared that "heavy water," a weightier twin sister of ordinary water, will slow up the growth of some types of cancer.

Dr. Henry G. Barbour and Dr. Edgar Allen announced that they had been able to check the growth of carcinoma and lymphosarcoma, two of the many kinds of cancer, in mice merely by giving them heavy water to drink instead of ordinary water. It has not been tried on human beings.

In the experiment reported, the Yale scientists transplanted cancer growths into the mice. Then they divided the group, half of which received heavy water to drink, the other half ordinary water. The half which drank ordinary water died twice as quickly from cancer as those which drank heavy water.

Death Sentences Are Given Two Negroes For Assault

MARSHALL, April 1. (AP) — Death sentences were pronounced here before dawn today on two negroes convicted of criminal assault and robbery of a Longview couple in a surprise move by county officials to avoid possible mob violence.

Two carloads of officers brought the negroes, Henderson and Roscoe Young, to the district courtroom from an unannounced jail. As the clock struck five, Judge W. H. Strength began reading sentence. He set execution date as May 6.

National guards patrolled the courthouse here when the two were tried.

BODY IS FOUND

McPHERSON, Kas., April 1. (AP)— The body of a man identified by a social security card as Eddie Lee Schooler, 65, of Tyler, Tex., was found today in a box car in the Missouri Pacific yards at Marquette, north of here.

His skull had been crushed and Dr. A. M. Lohrentz, coroner, expressed belief the man was caught by a door when the train stopped in the yards.

Third Annual Easter Oratorio Will Be Presented April 12

The third annual Easter oratorio, "The Seven Last Words" (Dubois), will be presented by Texas Technological college chorus and orchestra supplemented with Lubbock musicians, April 12 at Senior High school auditorium.

Julien Paul Blitz, head of the college music department, will direct.

One hundred ninety-three musicians have been attending rehearsals for several weeks to insure the presentation the success of past years.

Admission price has not been determined, V. H. Moore, a member of that committee, said Friday. Proceeds, outside of expenses, will go toward a Lubbock charitable institution.

Busy Second Quarter Started In Building Activity Here

On the heels of breaking numerous records in building permit totals the first quarter of this year, Lubbock Friday began a busy second quarter.

Five permits issued Friday by City Building Inspector Jim Reid authorized expenditures amounting to $6,500 and another for $8,500 awaits filing probably today.

Exclusive of the $8,500 permit, the week's total climbed to $35,095 and the year's to $550,076.22.

Among the larger permits filed Friday were: J. N. Fleming, owner, and R. W. Walker, contractor, to construct a one-story frame and siding residence and garage at 2412 Twenty-fifth street, $3,250.

Disch Uses Everybody On His Squad; Luckless TCU Loses

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP)—Coach "Uncle Billy" Disch used everybody on the University of Texas baseball squad—19 men—while his Longhorns swamped Texas Christian university, 13 to 5, in the teams second encounter here today.

The Horned Frogs, who lost to the Steers by 21-2 yesterday, made their runs off four hits and showed little improvement over previous dismal form.

David O'Beirn, T.C.U.'s crack quarterback, errored five times at shortstop, handling but one chance successfully. At the plate he walked three times but got no hits.

Brown Bomber Knocks Thomas Kicking In Fifth Round

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 1. — Joe Louis knocked out Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., in the fifth round of their scheduled 15-round battle for the world's heavyweight championship in the stadium tonight.

The champion floored Thomas six times, twice in the last round.

Crowd Is Short

Louis opened up cautiously but finally cut loose in the fourth, flooring Thomas four times. Thomas was on the verge of a knockout at the end of the third round when Louis knocked him staggering into the ropes.

The fight was witnessed by a disappointing crowd of 10,468 spectators, with gross receipts at $45,000.

Thomas' finish came after 1:50 of the fifth round.

ROUND ONE

After feinting a minute in midring Thomas hooked a left to the head. Louis jabbed two light lefts to the face. They exchanged lefts to the head and clinched. Louis was short with three light lefts to the face. Louis threw a left to the head. Louis speared Thomas with three left jabs to the head and repeated. Thomas missed two lefts to the jaw. Thomas landed a light left to the head. He drove a right to the jaw and left to Louis' body. Louis jabbed lightly three times with Thomas missing a left hook. Louis was short with a right uppercut as the round ended.

ROUND TWO

ROUND THREE

ROUND FOUR

Louis drove two rights to the head flooring Thomas with another right for a count of eight. He tore into Thomas with rights and lefts to the head. Thomas fought back gamely. Louis dropped him for the second time with a right for a seven count.

They both missed lefts to the head. Thomas drilled a right to the body. Louis dropped Thomas again with a right to the jaw for a nine count. Thomas was wild with left hooks and missed a right to the jaw. Louis smashed a right to the face knocking Thomas down for the fourth time. He got up groggy at the count of seven. Thomas drove a right to the jaw and traded punches with Louis. Thomas landed another hard right to the jaw and caught a left and right in return.

ROUND FIVE

After feinting in midring Louis scored with three light lefts to the face. The champion threw three more light lefts to the head. Thomas hooked a left to the jaw and a left to the body. Louis drove a right to the head, forcing Thomas to back away. Thomas was wild with a right swing. Louis jabbed three lefts to the face. Thomas threw two lefts to the head. Louis staggered him with a right to the jaw and missed a right uppercut. Louis planted a right to the head. Thomas was short with a left to the face. Thomas landed sharply with a right to the jaw.

Louis dropped Thomas for the fifth time with a left hook to the chin. Thomas got up only to run into another barrage of left hooks to the jaw that dropped him again. He attempted to get up but fell back on his haunches as he was counted out.

Houston Chances In Texas League Slim Unless Big Help Given By Cards

By BRUCE LAYER
Houston Post Sports Editor

HOUSTON, April 1.—Manager Ira Smith will need a lot of help from the St. Louis Cardinals, parent club of the Houston Buffs, it he is to keep the Herd in the Texas league race.

Some 80 baseball players are going through their paces at Buff stadium but in that group not more than 10 are listed as prospects for the Texas circuit. There's a lot of ivory in the group, but it needs polishing to be good enough for class A1 baseball.

Buff pitching, at this early date, appears to be good enough. John Grodzicki, an 18-game winner last season, starts his third year of professional baseball and may wind up the leading chunker in the circuit. He is heavier than last season and that "high-hard one" should prove troublesome from the very start.

Old Stars Making Bigs

Big Jim Winford, former St. Louis Cardinal hurler, starts over the comeback trail with the Buffs. Out last season oecause of illness and an ailing wing, Winford reported ahead of the pack, anxious to get to work and set on moving back into big time at the close of the 1938 campaign.

George (Red) Munger, graduate of Houston sandlots, returns to make his bid for a berth on the Buff pitching staff and club officials expect the youngster to make the grade.

Manager Smith, his arm back in shape, will be ready for his turn as well as for relief duty. Then there's a couple of left-handers of much promise on the roster. Harry Brecheen, drafted from Portsmouth of the Piedmont league, and Thomas Perry, obtained from Springfield of the western association, are the southpaws Buff bosses are counting on. A half dozen other youngsters are trying for the seventh spot on the hurling staff. Ado Severi, another springfield product, is regarded as having the inside track.

Some Holes To Plug

Two infield positions are filled by capable performers, but the other places are wide open. Johnny Watwood, who started the 1937 race as Buff pilot, returns to take over the initial sack. Red Davis, flashy shortfielder of the 1937 team, is back for that post. Al Cuccinello was down for second base duty, but he has requetsed to be traded to an International league club and is due to go to Rochester. Third base remains a problem.

The Cardinals will appear here in an exhibition game April 10 and when they pull stakes to head homeward a couple of infielders on the Card roster are slated to remain with the Buffs.

A flock of young outfielders are on the local squad, but Houston must obtain two heavy-hitting gardeners to be in the race. Reports say Hal Foos will return to the Buffs. One of the other places will be filled by Country Smith, Columbus, Ga., Red Ochler, who was with the Buffs for a short time last year, or Walter Schauerbaum of Decatur, A player of proven ability will be needed for the left garden.

Good Looking Rookie In Camp

Tommy Turner, young catcher from Carruthersville of the Northeast Arkansas loop, has been the most promising rookie in camp and is due to stick the second string receiver. The club is dickering for a veteran marksman at the present time and Fred Ankenman, Buff prexy, hopes to close a deal soon.

Cardinal officials have promised Houston fans a top-division ball club this season but they'll have to send a lot of help to make good.

Apostoli Is Easy Victor Over Lee

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Freddie Apostoli, San Francisco's belting bellhop, gave Glen Lee of Edison, Neb., a methodical, merciless beating tonight in a 15-round middleweight match featuring the fistic card at Madison Square garden. Apostoli was unable to bring down his rival but won by a wide margin on points. He scaled 160 3-4 to Lee's 156 3-4.

White Sox Deny They Seek To Attract English From Dodgers

YUMA, Ariz., April 1. (AP)—While the management of the Chicago White Sox admitted it was hot on the trail of a shortstop to replace Luke Appling, all hands denied the Sox were seeking Woody English of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Two ailing Chicago Cub pitchers, Bob Logan, who has an infected toe, and Curt Davis, who turned his ankle recently, were expected to return to the mound as the rival Chicago teams squared off today.

Sutter Eliminates Kansas City Netter

HOUSTON, April 1. (AP) — Young Ernie Sutter of New Orleans, playing like a zealot, pounded out a 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2 victory to eliminate Hal Surface of Kansas City from the River Oaks tennis tourney today.

The New Orleans youngster, intercollegiate champion in 1937, kept the high ranking Surface in hot water throughout the match, uncorking some dazzling passing shots that enabled him to win five straight games and take the hotly-contested third set.

The victory put Sutter in the semifinals tomorrow against the nation's second ranking tennis star, Bobby Riggs of Chicago. Wayne Sabin of Hollywood, Cal., will meet Bernie Coghlan of Santa Monica, Cal. in the other semifinal match. Coghlan entered the semifinals today when an appendicitis operation forced Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, the defending champion, to default to the Californian.

Porkers To Wander Next Grid Season; Only 3 Home Games

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., April 1. (AP) The University of Arkansas Razorbacks will play only three football games at home next fall.

Announcement of the official schedule showed the Porkers would open here Sept. 24, playing the Oklahoma Aggies. The other Fayetteville contests are the Oct. 8 meeting with Baylor and the homecoming game, Nov. 5, against Rice.

The Porkers will play the University of Texas at Little Rock Oct. 15 and the following Sunday meet their first West coast opponent, Santa Clara university at San Francisco.

Other games on the schedule:

Oct. 1—Texas Christian at Fort Worth.

Oct. 29—Texas A. and M. at College Station.

Nov. 12—Southern Methodist at Dallas.

Nov. 16—University of Mississippi at Memphis.

Nov. 24—Tulsa at Tulsa (Thanksgiving).

Bears Lose, 7-6, To Mustangs In Extra-Inning Duel

DALLAS, April 1. (AP)—Southern Methodist university Mustangs overcame the strong Baylor Bears 7 to 6 in a 10-inning duel today when Welborn Campbell's short fly to center field brough in Coppedge with the winning run.

Capt. Goose Phillips batted his team to its victory, connecting with the offerings of Tommy Fine, Baylor hurler, for a single and a pair of dubies in four times at bat.

Coppedge was substituting for Phillips as a base runner when he scored the winning run. Phillips had opened the second half of the tenth with a rousing single.

The teams meet again tomorrow.

Texas As Training Ground For Majors Rivals Even Florida

SAN ANTONIO, April 1. (AP)—The St. Louis Browns, who have been fattening their grapefruit league percentage and getting in shape in Texas, claim Florida must look to its laurels as a training ground for major league teams. From Manager Gabby Street down, the Browns are pleased with their training surroundings.

Timber Toppers Due To Shine In Texas Meet

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 1. — The fastest field of entries since inauguration of the Texas Relays in 1925 was predicted for the 11th running of the Southwest's track and field classic here tomorrow.

Attention focused on the hurdles, broad jump and 3,000 meter run, each packed with able performers.

Raging with rivalry was a specially-carded run-off in the 120-yard high hurdles between Alan Tolmich, record-smashing indoor artist of Wayne university in Detroit, and Sam Allen, Oklahoma Baptist university's famed timber-topper, coholders of the relays record at 14.3 seconds. Both are gunning for Olympic berths.

Star Collegians Ready

Director Clyde Littlefield said Forrest "Spec" Towns, Georgia's world champion hurdler originally booked for an exhibition, cancelled the engagement for fear his status as a coach would cast a shadow of "professionalism" over the entire meet under A. A. U. rules and thus endanger the athletics' amateur standing.

Hardly outshone by the big-name hurdlers was a collegiate quintet—Eldon Frank of Nebraska, Fred Wolcott and Jack Paterson of Rice, Marsh Farmer of Texas Tech and Boyce Gatewood of Texas—scheduled to stage a sparkling chase over the 120 highs in the regular event.

Capable of more than 24 feet each, Harvin Dawson of Nebraska, Bob Hubbard of Minnesota and Jud Atchison of Texas will threaten one of the oldest relays records—the broad jump—set 10 years ago by McInerney of Kansas at 24 feet, 6 7-8 inches.

A blazing three-way battle was forecast in the 440- yard and other relays among crack quartets from Rice institute, Texas and North Texas Teachers college, considered the most potent track schools in the state.

Graham Is Favored

The Javelin throw featured Gilliam Graham, phenomenal Texas sophomore, who has hurled the spear within three feet of the record set last year by Alton Terry of Olympic fame at 219 feet, 8 1-2 inches.

John Munski of Missouri, Feller of Drake and Ralph Halla of Yankton college, Yankton, S. D., ace distance men, will match strides in the 3,000-meter run.

The carnival proper will get under way at 1:30 p. m. with several field events, but preliminaries, including the high hurdles and 100-yard dash in all divisions, the high school mile relay in which eight teams will qualify, and the high school medley finals will take place in the morning.

Finals in the hurdles of the university and high school classes will open the afternoon track action at 2 p. m. and the relays queen and court of duchesses from participating schools will be presented by Governor James V. Allred at 2:35.

Charlotte Girl Is Winner At Bowie

BOWIE, Md., April 1. (AP)—Charlotte Girl, heavy favorite and only filly in the Kindergarten stake, won Bowie's inaugural feature today before a festive crowd estimated at 10,000. It was the filly's fourth straight victory.

Elwood Sachsenmaier pocketed the winner's share of the $2,000 added money as his two-year-old filly romped home two lengths ahead of Our Chuckie.

The winner which paid $3.80, $2.60 and $2.40. Our Chuckie, also well liked, paid $3.80 and $3.40 and Star Runner paid $4.10 for show.

Shining One, Watch Over and Top Staff also ran.

Lowly Browns Seek To Lick Their Defeatist Attitude

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Staff Correspondent

SAN ANTONIO, April 1—The St. Louis Browns have been in the doghouse long enough.

Sort of an annual statement, that, but the way bespectacled William O. DeWitt, vice-president of the basement Brownies, puts it, you stop and listen.

"Why can't we hit the first division?" queries DeWitt. "The answer's easy—a defeatist attitude has had the club.

And what kind of a remedy do the Browns have for such an ugly attitude?

"Last fall we decided to follow one of two policies. Our first impulse was to tear down the whole club and start all over with youngsters. Then there was the idea we could maneuver around and get some seasoned ballplayers to plug our weak spots.

"We knew we had players other clubs wanted—players that just couldn't perform in a Brown uniform. We knew they were in demand and felt we could shop around and get seasoned players in return. We decided to sell no players for cash just to keep things going. We started trading and buying—getting players who were accustomed to winning.

"Where we formerly had a bunch of men who went out each afternoon with the thought of holding down the score, we feel we now have winners—which is a strange thing to us."

Winning Pitchers

DeWitt then plunged into the pitching staff—a little matter the fans have long felt was a trifle more responsible for Brownie lapses than attitudes.

"Look at Buck Newsom, Jim Weaver, Ed Linke, Vito Tamulis—some of our new blood. They're winners and know they can win. The players have the same idea. Two holdovers from our last year's last place club, Oral Hildebrand and Jack Knott, are good pitchers. They did well last season but got few runs to back up their efforts.

"Six new faces will be in the starting lineup this year. Of 40 players now in training camp, only 12 were here last year. We're getting rid of the gentlemen who lose ball games in their minds before the first batter is up."

A peek at the training camp, where Gabby Street, the baseball veteran of 38 years is starting his first year as St. Louis manager, almost makes you believe DeWitt has something.

Stock Goes Up

No grumbling, just a lot of hustle. Morning workouts are scheduled for 10 o'clock. The squad is always suited out and on the field by 9:30.

"Street, of course, is highly enthusiastic," said DeWitt. "He's a man who has won two National league pennants and a World Series. He knows he has a last place club and has everything to gain by prodding them up the ladder."

Fans of St. Louis, who long have been accustomed to watching the Cardinals for their winning games, perked up during the winter when the Brownie trading spree got under way.

"Originally our stock sold for $5 per share. It slumped, along with the ball club, down to $3.50. When we got busy in the winter and started weeding out the old and getting some ball-players on the line, stock shot back up to $5.25 shares."

Perhaps DeWitt, who works on the mental side, has something in this "attitudes" idea. The ball-players are there—as the 1937 team batting mark of .258, second only to Detroit, and the fielding average of .972, third in the league, atest.

Aggies Shade Owls, 3-2; Win First Of Three Aggie Starts

COLLEGE STATION, April 1. (AP)—Sophomore Ralph Lindsey bore down today to shade Floyd Mechler in a pitchers' battle and enable the Texas Aggies to beat the Rice Owls, 3 to 2.

It was the first conference victory for A. and M. in three starts and the Owls' second straight loss.

All-Star Show Not Staged; Rain Falls

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1. (AP)—A driving rainstorm flooded the Augusta national golf course today to force postponement of first round play in the all-star show that bills Robert Tyre Jones, jr., as the headline attraction.

Jones, the retired golf champion who makes the national his lone competitive soiree annually now, had just moved to the first hole when tournament officials, the Professional Golfers' association concurring, halted the play.

In the same order and starting times, the field will make another attempt tomorrow to get the 1938 tournament moving. Thirty-six holes of the big show will be reserved from Sunday, with the 18-hole final round that determines distribution of the $5,000 in prizes set aside for Monday.

Milner's Hurling Definitely Stamps Him Mound Prospect

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. (AP)—Al Milnar, Cleveland Indians' rookie southpaw hurler from New Orleans, is definitely in the running for regular mound assignments, according to Manager Oscar Vitt. Milnar has hurled 12 straight scoreless innings against the Giants, Athletics, Phillies and New Orleans Pelicans.

Lombardi Or Davis May Lose Out On Cincinnati Roster

LAKELAND, Fla., April 1. (AP)—With Bill McKechnie apparently set on Willard Hershberger as one of the Cincinnati Reds two catchers, there is talk in the Reds camp that either Ernie Lombardi or Spud Davis, the other receivers, will be with another club by June 1. McKechnie has said he will not carry more than two receivers.

National League Has Plenty Of Yankee Respect

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 1.—National leaguers shudder or put cotton in their ears when they think of tackling those ferocious Yankees in another World series.

You can't blame them. Five times in the last 11 years the Yanks have flattened their rivals in the big-money battle. They have taken 20 out of 23 games, including 12 in succession in 1927, 1928 and 1932 against the Pirates, Cardinals and Cubs. Only the Giants have put up anything resembling a struggle, and last year they came apart, too.

It distorts the picture, however, to contend that this Yankee domination carries with its superiority for the American league as a whole. You can't take the Yankees out of it, of course, but it should be observed (1) that the New York club has contributed chiefly to the 21-13 margin of the Americans in World series competition, and (2) that outside of the series in which the Yanks have participated since the war, the inter-league battle has been pretty much of a standoff.

The factors affecting world series results are numerous and conflicting. Big league magnates, for example, have twice recognized the inconclusiveness of a best four-out-of-seven series between any two clubs by lengthening the limit to nine games. Aside from this technical factors, and the "breaks" have contributed as much to World series outcome as the twin assets of power or pitching.

The Americans not only have had the happy faculty of producing more "super teams," such as the Yankees, but they have established a more effective esprit de corps. For example, in 1910, and all-star American league team was put together to keep Connie Mack's first great team on edge for the World series with the Chicago Cubs, up to then the most feared outfit in the majors. The A's won.

Officers For Education Group Are Chosen At Final Meeting Held In Dallas

Annual Reports Given Leaders

DALLAS, April 1. (AP)—Southern college educators today voted H. L. Donovan, president of the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers college, into the presidency of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at the final session.

Chosen as president emeritus was James H. Kirkland of Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. Other officers included A. B. Butts, University of Mississippi, first vice-president; T. Q. Srygley, assistant superintendent of public schools, Port Arthur, Tex., second vice-president; Sam B. Hathorn, Mississippi State college, executive committee; T. H. Napier, Alabama college, executive committee.

Several Are Dropped

Executive Secretary Shelton Phelps of Winthrop college, in the annual report, said 1,187 schools were on the secondary list and added that 34 institutions had been dropped from the association, 368 had been warned and 370 advised. No schools were named.

Dean E. H. Hawks of Columbia university warned, in the closing address, that "all over the world the sinking of individuals and the elevation of larger groups seems to be the order of the day."

"We, in America, are trying to retain that individualism in our colleges. We are traveling an untrodden path in our colleges in trying to recognize individuals. We will make errors, but we must be tolerant with those attempting to perfect individualism."

Get Closer To Student

He said that book scholarship wasn't the only attribute required of college professors and urged that they get closer to the individual student.

"The part north of a boy's neck isn't the only part admitted to college. We must not dismember a boy—let's take all of him as he is when he enters college and treat him individually.

"The primary job of our colleges is not to make the world fit for men but to make men fit for the world."

President T. O. Walton of Texas A. and M. college, urged the advancement of "conservative progressivism," stating "we are living in an age of confusion and we in educational circles are a conservative group in what some call a radical age."

Needs Are Described

"The ministry, educators and the grand old party are about the only ones that haven't changed in the past 150 years," said Dr. Walton. "The rest have gone off and left us."

He cited the need for reexamination of the technological offerings of colleges and said the need to analyze and "perhaps go back a bit to the liberal arts, particularly in social science, is pressing."

"College graduates now go out to sell their talents to the highest bidder. We must substitute service for the dollar mark in the hearts and souls of our students."

Report of the commission on higher institutions to the executive committee, adopted by the convention, showed:

Report Is Given

Removed from probation: Alabama Polytechnic institute; State Teacher's college of Florence, Ala.; State Teacher's college of Jacksonville, Ala.; State Teacher's college of Troy, Ala.; Mississippi College for Women, Hattiesburg, Miss.; Lenoir Rhyne, Hickory, N. Dues of members and non-members of senior college classification were raised from $50 to $65 and junior colleges, from $25 to $40.

Better Times Noted In County Filings

Filing of records at the office of Ed D. Allen, county clerk, for the first three months of this year indicated "better times" as compared to the filings of the first three months of last year.

The number of civil cases filed in county court, according to records at the clerk's office, increased from 39 to 54. The largest increase was in the number of recorded instruments relative to real estate, including warranty deeds, deeds of trust, oil and gas leases, materialmans liens, mechanic's liens and several other types of records.

The increase in records relative to real estate increased from 1,747 for the first three months of 1937 to 3,033 for the same period of this year.

Criminal cases in county court decreased from 90 to 84. Likewise chattel mortgages decreased from 4,170 in January, February, and March of 1937 to 4,011 for 1938's first quarter, a decrease of 159.

Civil actions in the district courts of Judges Daniel A. Blair and E. L. Pitts increased from 107 to 130, according to records in the office of U. Brown, district clerk.

Scout Tourney Set For Today

A belated kite tournament, scheduled first for two weeks ago but postponed because of high winds, will be held on the Texas Technological college campus at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, according to announcement from Boy Scout headquarters.

The tournament is for members of the Boy Scout cub packs in Lubbock. Prizes will go to first place winners in five events; largest kite, smallest kite, most unique kite, the kite which will fly the highest, and the 100-yard dash for kite.

Schmidt Is Director

Dr. C. C. Schmidt, cubbing commissioner, will direct the tournament and will be assisted by Eagle Scouts.

J. A. Raley, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for a tour this summer to Yellowstone National park, announced Walter Clark of troop 8 had registered to make the tour. The tour and camp will be from June 25 to July 17, it was announced. Clark was the fifth scout to register.

Among other qualifications, scouts must be of first class rank to attend the camp. Between 60 and 90 are expected to enroll, Raley said.

Advice From Herbert Hoover

THOSE who may have supposed that advocates of an adequate national defense are alarmists and jingoes should give serious thought to statements of former President Herbert Hoover following his return from a two months' tour of 14 European countries.

Without mincing words he recommended: First, that we keep wholly clear of entanglements with foreign nations; Second, that adequate preparedness is the best means of keeping us out of another World war.

In spite of the fact that we, as a people, find it extremely difficult to mind our business, we none the less recognize that we have much to lose, nothing to gain when we butt into the affairs of other nations. One statement by Mr. Hoover should impress us especially as a nation with the vital importance of absolute neutrality in the controversies between other powers. His statement was:

"Most nations in Europe are convinced that we will inevitably be drawn into the next great war as we were in the last."

His advice that this psychology should "harden our resolves that we keep out of other peoples wars," and that "nations in Europe need to be convinced that this is our policy" says about all there need be said in that connection.

But it was his declared support of an adequate national defense which should be given heed by those who may question the wisdom of expanding our army, navy and air force. Let them consider the source of that recommendation and then be persuaded that a strengthened defense become a vital, national necessity if we are to be safe.

Whatever faults Mr. Hoover may possess, no one will accuse him of being an alarmist. He is perhaps the most methodical man who ever occupied the White House. He has demonstrated from the time when, barely out of his 'teens, he achieved world fame as a mining engineer that his actions are dictated by an amazing foreknowledge of what the consequences will be.

Further than that, Mr. Hoover has had within the last two months opportunity to examine the inner workings of European diplomacy. As a former President of the United States, he was taken behind the curtains. He had the opportunity to observe things just as they are. It isn't likely that a man of his experience and intellect could have been deceived to any great degree.

Then, drawing upon those recent observations and his long experience in world affairs, he recommends an adequate defense as our best guarantee of peace. If a man as conservative as Mr. Hoover is of that belief, how can anyone less well qualified to express an opinion hold any contrary views?

A Problem For Our City

SPRING is here and soon will come the time when people begin to leave their windows open to get a breath of gentle zephyrs such as this section enjoys.

Along with the fragrance of growing vegetables and plants, of flowers and shrubs, there will come also the pungent odor of poorly kept yards where livestock lie around in filth and dirt that is detrimental to the health of a community.

Poorly kept stock pens breed flies which are a peril to the health of a people. Flies spread disease and that means a heavy toll on the pocketbooks of the people.

Here is a community problem which should receive some thought upon the part of all our citizens.

With Our Contemporaries

"It seems that Bro. Hitler thinks he has the supreme oversight of all Germans wherever they dwell," Andy Jack Stricklin avers in the Terry County Herald. "Perhaps he will try raising his swastika flag over some of our South Texas counties some of these days. Well, just let that little ant-brained guy with the shoe brush mustache just try that once. And speaking of whiskers, if we had a Hitler mustache we'd have 'em shaved off before the sun sets. Now you boys keep your tempers, and get a smooth shave."

The One-Minute Sermon

And the revenger of blood find him without the borders of the city of his refuge, and the revenger of blood kill the slayer; he shall not be guilty of blood:

Because he should have remained in the city of his refuge until the death of the high priest; but after the death of the high priest the slayer shall return into the land of the possession.—Numbers 35; 27 and 28.

BOWLED 100 SUCCESSIVE GAMES

To fulfill his prediction that he could bowl 100 games consecutively with only a minimum of rest, John Kester, of Portage, Wis., did just that February 2-3, 1938. Starting at noon on the second, he bowled for 15 hours and 47 minutes, with only 40 minutes rest. His stunt cost him 12 pounds weight. He weighed 170 pounds at the start and 158 at the finish. Conditions of the contest were that he must bowl no less than 125 per game, or on failing to do so was to "re-bowl" it. He failed on only one game. Knocking down a total of 15,899 pins, his average of better than 158 pins a game.

Empire For A Lady

By Alan LeMay
C. By The Associated Press

SYNOPSIS: Our love for a young English girl has plunged my uncle, James Clyde, and myself (Paul Thorne) into a desperate enterprise. With Christine Forrester's support Clyde becomes rajah of tropical Balingong, throwing out the predatory Malays, mortal enemies of the Dyaks. Rentongen, the sultan's representative, takes revenge by destroying the most fertile village in our famine stricken raj. With 300 faithful Dyaks I move into the jungle, knowing defeat will end our dream of empire.

CHAPTER 41

TOO MUCH TIME TO THINK

In the long winding stretches of the river where the channel was narrow and the jungle dense, a constant sniping of spears, sumpitans, and guns at point-blank range kept picking off my people. At the end of a week I had abandoned three bankongs and six lesser praus for lack of men.

We reached the first enemy village, and found it empty, stripped of all loot. We burned it—or at least left it a blackened, sooty mess, smudge-potting in the rain.

But in spite of the perpetual strain of vigilance and the frequent fighting, I had too much time to think. I could understand my Dyaks when they addressed me, and make myself understood, but never in my life had I felt so terribly alone. The drive of the paddles became a long monotony, hour after hour, day after day, as if it would never end, and there was time for many things to straighten themselves in my head.

The situation into which we had penetrated was fully as bad as I had expected—in some ways worse. The heavy push of the flood so far had prevented the enemy from lodging log booms across the channel to block our praus, but I knew that a drop in the river would enable them to close the booms ahead of us and behind.

We might have to fight harder getting out than we had fought getting in. The jungle on both sides of the river was fairly crawling alive with Tomarrup Dyaks, and yet, though we had now penetrated many days deeper into this river than I had ever traveled before, we were able to come to grips. I no longer knew how much distance we had made, but I suppose that we had followed the windings of the Tomarrup at least 90 miles.

As yet we heard nothing to indicate that support was on its way, though we listened constantly for friendly agongs to sound at the far-off mouth. But I believe now that our mission in behalf of the white rajah would be accomplished whether we came out of there or not. Little as we had accomplished, we could no longer entirely lose.

What I could do for Clyde, and for Christine, was to establish in Sumantang a fear of the white man. A few Malays could handle thousands of Dyaks because the Dyaks knew that no Malay was stopped until he was destroyed. Now my opportunity was to show that a white man cannot be turned by a Malay. When we had finished here it might be a long time before Clyde would have to fight again; and when he fought he would have superstitious fear as his ally.

Wild Exultation

A queer fanatacism was coming into my Dyaks as they saw that I was not going to turn back. The Dyaks are not supported like the Malays by a belief that a man who dies in battle gains eternal paradise. They believe in four or five ghostly reincarnations, but these reincarnated spirits are mortal like themselves, and each is weaker than the one before, so that they peter out into sago root and things like that and are presently lost out of existence forever.

But there is one thing that a Dyak wishes to become when he is dead, and that is a Kamang. Only the most implacable Dyak warriors, they believe, are admitted to the hideous and terrible society of the Kamangs when they are dead. Going by this belief, my fighters were as good as Kamangs already. It put a strange wild exultation into them in the pinches of the fighting such as few Dyak warriors had ever got into their fighting before.

Strangely, I saw now that their belief was true, in a sense. My Dyaks thought that when they were dead they would walk among their enemies spreading confusion and destruction—and they were right. Long after their bones were earth, these men would in truth still stalk the jungle, in the form of memories, in the form of fear, fighting harder for Clyde than they ever could if they stayed alive.

And in that long journey up the Tomarrup, in which I had so much more time to think than was good for me, I saw other things. For the first time I saw clearly why Clyde was here, and why I was here, and Christine, and saw beyond what we were doing, and the schemes we were attempting, to the future effect of the things we did.

Christine was here because of a dead man's dream. It was Anthony Forrester who had taught her what to think.

He had thought that he could build something compact, complete, and orderly out of raw primitive stuff. He could not; and it was silly for him to think so. Sumantang would be opened up, surely, but there would be half a century of exploitation, and another half century of diplomacy by government on the other side of the world.

In the end there would be a certain improvement, doubtless; but by the time it came most of the population would have died off of white men's diseases, as they were already dying in the South Seas—and the thing itself would be no more than a poorly adapted imitation of something European. Why did Forrester think that such a big advantage? Had he never seen a London slum?

We had started by thinking Anthony Forrester a fool; then we had grown to respect both what he had done and what he planned; but now I looked through and beyond, and respect died, and I saw that the whole thing was fatuous and short weight.

Yet it had brought his daughter here, where she should never be—and Christine's insistence had dragged in Clyde. Now that he was roped in, Clyde was not following Forrester's dreams but his own. In his way his plan was as fantastically over-ambitious as Forrester's, but it was built of harder, more durable stuff. Clyde was the trader, a man set upon a will to exploit, dominate, and possess.

All For Her

In the end he would destroy his health and his hopes and everything else, in his effort to get richer than any man ever needed to be. Asia and the South Seas were dotted all over with men like Clyde — self-seeking adventurers whose attempt to win big profits opened the way. He cared nothing about flags nor empires, but the great empires were built upon the bones of men like him.

And upon men like me. I was here because I worked for Clyde. At bottom I was nothing but first mate of the Linkang, on shore duty that had carried me a long way out of line. But like others, I brought to this a violent folly of my own which carried me to a fantastic extreme, beyond all duty.

I cared nothing about Clyde's plan to make himself extremely rich; I could see no advantage to being a rich man stuck in the Siderong river. And I was not inspired by the thought of power upon land and sea in the Sumantang area; I would as soon have been the most popular character in a zoo. I cared even less about Anthony Forrester's dream, which Christine had inherited, to bring the British flag to Sumantang. I owed no allegiance to any flag in these waters, and very little to my own, which was very far away, and played no part in this quarter of the world. I was opposed to Malays as a matter of course, but when it came to the future of the Dyaks—I saw very few possibilities in a people who had no objections to headhunting.

I was bound into this thing by Christine. It was Christine herself who was my flag. I no longer believed that I would ever be able to forget this girl. The Tomarrup jungle was a hell of black water, and the thought of her didn't make it any better; but what she could do—had done—was to make all the rest of the world empty and desolate—as empty as the rest of my life.

Sometimes I thought of trying to take her away from James Clyde. But it had seemed to me from the first that she belonged to him, so that any false move on my part would have been much worse than lost. That much was decided, and could not be changed.

I went on, habit pushing me through motions that had all gone meaningless. There was nothing alive in me any more, except a nagging, aching hunger for the least glimpse of Christine, the least touch of her fingers, the least sound of her voice. I no longer cared where I was, or whether I was standing up or lying down, or whether I ever ate.

There was one exception to this—I knew I had to get out of Balingong, if only for a short respite. If I had to be near her every day I was going to be racked apart. I had to get out of there—and the chance to penetrate the Tomarrup was a rescue, in a way. I did not dread being left headless in the Tomarrup; what I dreaded, although war-necessity dictated it, was ever going back. To know certainly that I was never coming out of there would have been a blessed relief, in the lightless world in which I was now lost.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

IT looks as if President Roosevelt might have to advertise for a man to carry his banner in next fall's New York gubernatorial election. So far prospective proxies have dropped out or been knocked out with startling abruptness.

"Jim" Farley showed interest for a while, though it is doubtful that F. D. R. wanted him, but then he decided he'd write his memoirs instead. No. 1 favorite, "Bob" Jackson, was willing, but nobody else was. Meanwhile Governor Lehman has begun to act peculiarly, giving the impression that he will seek renomination if only to prevent the New Dealers from gaining control of the state machine and the 1940 delegation.

Numerous confabs about the problem have taken place in Washington, with such non-politically minded fellows as Tom Corcoran sitting in at White House sessions. It is noticeable that the President hasn't turned to the one man who could give him the best advice—National and State Chairman Farley.

UNRESPONSIVE: President Roosevelt's humanitarian gesture to shelter Europe's downtrodden transformed the politicos of all nations into refugees. The State department is chagrined by their private reaction, though it can't place them on the diplomatic spot by saying so.

The 38 nations to which Mr. Roosevelt appealed are suffering from industrial and agricultural depression. They don't need factory or farm hands. Their political leaders, like ours, don't dare champion an immigration scheme openly for fear of reprisals. Except for a few Congressman in certain districts of large cities, Capitol Hill has been remarkably unresponsive to Mr. Roosevelt's kindly proposal. Politics and charity always begin at home.

STUBBORN: The specter of a completely industrialized South paying a "feudalistic" wage scale accounts for organized labor's right-about-face in the battle for adoption of a wage-hour bill at this session.

Both William Green and John L. Lewis were indifferent to this legislation in previous years, preferring to obtain fatter envelops and a shorter workday through unionization. Mr. Green wasn't interested because skilled members of the A. F. of L. earned far more than the maximum proposed, and the poorer paid workmen didn't concern him. But lately administration economists showed labor leaders some figures on recent migrations of New England, New York, Pennsylvania and other northern manufacturers to below the Mason and Dixon line which left them gasping.

With the maximum hourly wage lowered from 40 to 30 cents White House strategists hope to round up sufficient votes to jam the measure through. The new bill is less unpalatable to members representing districts with small factories which couldn't afford a $16 a week wage. Chief task will be to dynamite any measure out of the House Rules committee, where last session's stubborn coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats still holds. The latter are madder than ever since the Gainesville speech.

SUICIDES: Stories of suicides in Vienna sound like gruesome fairy tales to shrewd oldsters at Washington who know the erstwhile gay city.

Most of those alleged to have killed themselves rather than suffer persecution or hardships are Jews and Catholics. The Jews, Washington observers note, have never been a suicidal race. They have suffered oppression for thousands of years, but have always struggled grimly against it. As to Catholics, it is against the teachings of their church for them to take their own lives, and Austrian Catholics are deeply religious.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE Securities and Exchange commission is not fooling about the Whitney tangle. The agency's New York office is digging quietly and persistently into the details of the mess to find out how many people had reason to suspect there was something wrong last fall—and why they did nothing about it.

Circumstantial indications are that some of Wall Street's big shots must have been blind if they could not see the writing on the wall, even though Mr. Whitney guarded his guilty secret with the utmost care.

It isn't a question of knowing that Whitney had committed larceny. Even his closest and most loyal friends would hardly have been so dumb as to lay themselves open to criminal prosecution as accessories. But the S. E. C. takes the private position that everyone who had reason to believe the financier was in financial distress and "conspired" to cover it up, even though they sensed nothing dishonest about it, failed to fulfil important responsibilities to government authorities and the public.

CLUB: There's also the question of "preferred creditors"—i. e. those who may have got their money back from the Whitney firm before the crash. Bankruptcy law says that any creditors who collect within four months prior to a collapse can be sued by the receiver to force a refund of such payments and must thereafter take their chances along with other general creditors. The S. E. C. and the receiver are both hot on this trail.

The commission may or may not make its findings public, in whole or in part, depending on how it appraises possible repercussions on the stock market and business. But even if it does publish them, it will have a potent club to compel a thorough purge of the Stock exchange and its complete reorganization in the public interest.

PRESSURE: Financial insiders do not regard the Treasury's termination of silver purchases from Mexico as just a gesture of retaliation for the expropriation of American oil properties. They figure it rather as a forceplay to drive the Cardenas regime into a prompt and satisfactory settlement with the evicted owners.

No more effective pressure could be exerted. These silver purchases have kept the Mexican government running for months. It will be in a terrible financial jam without them and will almost certainly be forced to resort to ruinous paper money inflation unless they are soon resumed. Selling the metal in foreign markets won't solve the problem, because this would soon crack the price of silver wide open.

There is nothing to stop the U. S. government from reviving the silver purchase agreement if Mexico makes satisfactory arrangements to compensate the oil companies. Watch for developments along this line.

FINESSE: Washington authorities are reliably reported to be privately much more concerned about expropriated British properties than they are about American holdings. The latter were pretty well played out as investments, but the British oil fields were really valuable. Moreover, Britain is demanding action from our State department in no uncertain terms.

The British contend, logically enough, that since our Monroe Doctrine prevents them from protecting their own interests in this hemisphere, it's up to us to do the job for them. This makes the current situation downright embarrassing, especially as we cannot use force without wrecking our "good neighbor" policy beyond repair.

That's why the silver finesse is the most effective weapon available—and why it will be used to the limit.

UNHATCHED: Financial men declined to get excited about the Senate Finance committee's move to repeal the undistributed profits tax outright, though business men have insisted for months that this was the most constructive step that could be taken to restore the recovery trend.

New Yorkers point out that the Harrison committee's action is far from final. Even if its recommendation wins in the Senate, the tax measure must go to conference to reconcile House and Senate bills. The administration has shown its greatest strength at such conference sessions and is evidently determined to preserve the principle of the surplus tax.

The boys aren't counting any unhatched chickens these days.

The busy mother heard a commotion in the front room.

"Willie! Will-eee!" she called. "Are you spitting in the goldfish bowl?"

"No, maw," the answer came, "but I been comin' pretty close!"

WHEN people haven't anything to talk about, their conversation is likely to turn onto—and deep into—almost any subject.

The Plainsman chanced to hear several young people idly talking the other day and what do you suppose they were discussing?

They were wondering if, after the next war is over, we'll still celebrate the last World war armistice!

And the best thing that came out of it was the suggestion of one youthful male.

"Why worry about that?" he asked. "Maybe they'll make the next armistice applicable on November 11 and then celebrate 'em both on the same day."

He may have something there!

The irate father glared over his morning paper as his daughter tripped into the breakfast room.

"Look here, young woman," he started, in no uncertain tones, "who was that young man I saw you kissing last night?"

"I dunno, dad," she answered. "What time was it?"

OCCASIONALLY we hear and read of great furores being raised over the subsidization of college athletes — generally football players. And The Plainsman isn't defending the practice, even though it is the general rule. He's one of those old die-hards — who believe colleges should be first for learning and that their athletic activities should be for sport and fun, rather than for advertising and big business purposes.

But it is only fair to remark occasionally, so that the uninitiated might know, that not only are our colleges head-over-heels in competition for fullbacks and tackles. They are just as hard after students of all kinds. The competition for "noise and numbers" in student bodies is as intense as it is over lads proficient in kicking, throwing or catching balls — and pu-lenty of dough is being spent in the competition.

One would think it unnecessary for colleges to put the sparing of students upon a commercial basis, and to spend huge sums trying to entice them to their doors. But apparently our educators and their directorates do not consider that the case.

The average college or university — whether state-owned or otherwise—goes after "bulk enrollment" fully as seriously and as hard as the average life insurance salesman goes after policies.

THE PLAINSMAN often wonders how much money—state money—is spent in publicizing our publicity operated institutions of higher learning in Texas.

He shudders to contemplate the staggering total expended for materials, supplies, press agents and underlings each year. It must run into enough thousands of dollars to build a library similar to that now under construction at Texas Tech at least every 5 years.

Less serious to view and amusing to see are some of the stunts to which the colleges resort in effort to bring students to their doors.

The boys who turn out reams of publicity for the dear, old Alma Mammies of Texas must sit up nights figuring out ways and means to appeal to those who taxpayers fondly believe are desperately interested in securing an education.

AN example of what we're talking about is the latest "news release" from West Texas State Teachers college—which insists, illegally, that it's now "West Texas State."

Here's the way it runs, written by an employe of the state, upon materials purchased by the state and mailed out at the expense of the state—just the way all state schools handle such matters:

"CANYON, March 30.—New features which will permit students to appreciate more fully the cool summer climate of the Panhandle have been made by West Texas State (Teachers) college for its summer session starting June 6.

"There will be no recitations in the afternoons, all classes except library periods being scheduled for the morning hours. Classes will be of the regular length, or about one hour, instead of the 1 1-2 hours as summer sessions formerly required. The session will be on a 5-day basis, with no classes on Mondays.

"These changes will permit greater freedom in recreation and study. The recreation will include weekly book reviews, concerts, lectures, swimming in an outdoor pool, tennis, golf, volley ball, hiking, horseback riding, softball, archery, croquet and other sports with weekly play nights for all."

Then the blurb goes on and on in a similar vein.

This is not a criticism of the Canyon institution alone.

It is merely an example of what The Plainsman and every other Texas editor receive every day of the week from various and sundry colleges.

The above is reproduced for two reasons: as an example of college press-agentry; and as a further proof that while our state-supported colleges are supposed to dish out learning in a manner least costly and most efficient, the business of dishing out learning often is sidetracked for monkey-business which lures students.

It occurs to this column that the froth and foam attendant upon education and its institutions is being served in greater quantities than the meat of learning.

The Canyon Teachers college "come on" at least indicates such a condition in offering all sorts of frolicking and cutting down upon classroom periods in favor of more time to loaf.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT No. 66 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Gonfala refrained from calling the guard, because she found the intruder intriguing. "How did you get in?" she inquired. Then she glanced at the door and saw that the bolt was not shot. "I must have forgotten to bolt it; but how did you get by the guard?"

Tarzan ignored the question. "I am Stanley Wood's friend," he said; "will you help me save him?" The ape-man marveled at the sudden change in Gonfala. She was no longer the Queen, but a girl, soft and sweet and appealing, concerned for the man she loved.

Gonfala shook her head sadly. "It is too late. He is destined to die. And it was I who pronounced the sentence of death." "It is not too late. If you will tell me where I can find Mafka—alone. . . ." At the mention of that dread name, Gonfala trembled.

Suddenly her expression changed; her body stiffened. Her eyes became hard and cold—cruel. Her mouth sagged into the sullen expression it had worn when he first saw her at Mafka's side. Now she was the she-devil. "The guard! Help!" Gonfala screamed.

DRIVE A "Safety Tested" CAR!

We don't make a racket out of the Used Car business, for every New car we sell we must sell a Used car . . . to fail to build up a good satisfied used car business would limit the growth of our organization. A growing business is proof enough that the customers of that firm are getting honest, dependable service with confidence that they are not subject to racket business dealings.

TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

You have noticed that the northern markets and the Fort Worth market is 25c lower on all grades of cattle, but our Lubbock market remains steady.

We feel sure that your past experience with us has taught you that Lubbock is the one market place where the buyers are waiting to grab off your cattle just as soon as they are put in the ring—and always at a price that is satisfactory to YOU.

We ask that you continue to bring us your cattle to sell for you as we need them to keep the buyers supplied so they will continue to come to our place, where they are sure of getting their requirements.

Loan Plan..

addition, the bill would permit advances to states and other political subdivisions for construction propects.

Under the measure, the corporation could make available $1,500,000,000 for new lending.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the senate banking commitee told reporters the bill would permit government lending to small business which now has no adequate source of credit.

Wagner said he was hopeful the bill would prove a powerful stimulant to business and employment.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Stocks climbed out of the depression depths in today's market and posted recoveries of 1 to more than 3 points for virtually all departments.

Encouraging to analysts was the fact that, unlike performances in the preceding two sessions when morning rallies were wiped out by heavy selling at the last, fresh support appeared in the final few minutes and lifted many leaders to around best levels of the day.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues emerged with a net advance of 1.5 points, the best 5-hour upturn since Jan. 6, after hitting a new low for about 5 years yesterday.

Transfers totalled 859,220 shares compared with 1,271,000 Thursday.

American Can opened up 6 3/4 points, fell back, but ended with a gain of 5 7/8 at 78 1/8. Others prominent on the move included U. S. Steel at 41 1/4, Bethlehem 44, Eastman Kodak 126, Westinghouse 67, Du Pont 97 1/2, Allied Chemical 128, General Electric 29 3/4, Chrysler 39 3/8, U. S. Rubber preferred 62 1/2, General Motors 27 1/8, Anaconda 23 7/8, Kennecott 31 1/2, Montgomery Ward 28 1/4, J. I. Case 68, Douglas Aircraft 34 1/2, Santa Fe 24 1/2, N. Y. Central 11 1/4, International Nickel 40 3/4 and Standard Oil of N. J. 42.

Homestake, among the gold mines, was an exception with the loss of 1 1/8 at 48 1/2. American Telephone lost a 3-point rise at one time on fears the report on the company submitted to congressional committees by Federal Communications Commissioner Paul A. Walker, and released after the close, would be adverse.

Cotton . .

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. (AP)—Moderate advances met increased realizing in cotton here today and at the close the market was steady, net two points lower to 4 higher.

Foreign markets were better than expected and a brisk rally in stocks steadied the undertone in futures. Trade demand was sufficient in pre-midsession dealings to absorb offerings and carry prices to levels 7 to 8 points above the previous close.

In afternoon trading, however, recent buyers took profits in increased volume and there was some hedge selling. Demand was confined to trade calling and last prices were near the lows.

May closed at 8.71, July at 8.77, Oct at 8.88@8.84, Dec. at 8.84, Jan. at 8.86 and March at 8.90.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Cotton moved irregularly today but near month liquidation had a generally depressing influence. July sold off from 8.74@8.62 and closed at 8.63, with final prices 6 points net lower to 1 lower.

Early steadiness was offset by liquidation and some foreign selling but pressure was not active and prices moved up to net advances of 2 to 8 points on local buying influenced by the action of the stock market. Heaviness in the near months was caused by a little more active May liquidation and exchanging to later positions. Trade buying was less active and the market turned easier toward the close.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.60 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.92 cents a pound.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, April 1. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Hogs 500; top 8.60; good to choice 160-270 lbs. 8.40-8.55; few 280-330 lbs. 8.25-8.45; sows 7.25-7.60, few 7.85.

Cattle 250; calves 200; odd lots fat cows 5.00-6.00; vealers little changed, most good to choice 7.00-9.00, few to city butchers 9.50-10.00.

Sheep 2,000; fat lambs uneven, generally 10-25 higher; top wooled lambs to shippers 8.50, others to packers 8.15-8.30.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, April 1. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle 1,300; calves 600; steers 8.25 down; fed yearlings 7.00-8.00; mixed steers and heifers to 8.75; killing calves 5.00-8.00; vealers 8.25.

Hogs 900; top 8.25 paid by packers for good to choice 185-250-lb. averages; bulk good to choice underweights averaging 150-175 lb. 7.50-7.15; packing sows weak to 25c lower, mostly 7.00, few 7.25.

Sheep 2,500; all classes fully steady; spring lambs 8.00 down; medium to good shorn lambs 6.00-50; shorn yearlings and 2-year-old wethers mixed 5.75; aged wethers 4.00; shorn feeder lambs 5.00.

Deadline For Votes Is Passed Friday

According to official information from the office of Durwood H. Bradley, city attorney, the deadline for obtaining absentee ballots for voting in the city election next Tuesday passed at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon.

It first had been announced that the deadline would be at 5 o'clock this afternoon, but a check over statutes revealed the deadline passed Friday.

Attaches of the office of Ed D. Allen, county clerk, said the total votes cast in person and the number of ballots obtained climbed to 43 before closing hours.

The "unusually large" number of absentee voting acted as a barometer of the interest which probably will be manifest in the city election of a mayor and two members of the city commission, it was said.

Boy Scout Troops Qualify For Kiwanis Club Contests Here

Boy Scout troops 5 and 9 in contests Friday night in the High school gymnasium qualified for the Kiwanis club sponsored first aid contests here next Friday for the entire South Plains council.

Members of the club's committee in charge are: Ralph Stroupe, chairman, W. D. Benson, jr., O. V. Adams, J. H. Beasley, O. J. Sexton, and Marlin R. Smith, jr.

An investiture for 10 Tenderfoot Boy Scouts will be conducted at the First Christian church at 8 o'clock tonight by troop 5, it was announced by Osco Cole, master. The service will be open to the public.

THREE CANDIDATES

POST, April 1.—Three men are candidates for two posts as trustees of the Post Independent School district in Saturday's election. Allen Cash, whose term expires and Willard Kirkpatrick and J. H. Dietrich are candidates. M. L. Mason, whose term expired, did not ask for another term.

Grains . .

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, April 1. (AP)—Responsive to unexpected upturns of Liverpool quotations and New York securities, Chicago's wheat market today rose 1 1/4 cents, but failed to retain more than fractional gains.

Disappointing smallness of North American wheat export business largely counterbalanced encouraging effects both of stock market advances and of Liverpool wheat price bulges. Overseas purchases of North American wheat today totaled but 300,000 to 400,000 bushels, and consisted mostly of low-grade Canadian wheat.

Action of the Liverpool wheat market was in the main attributed to fears of a reduction of Australia's planted acreage because of persistent dry weather.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1/4 to 3/4 above yesterday's finish, May 85 3/4@85 7/8, July 81 3/4@81 1/4, corn 3/8 to 1 cent up, May 61 1/2@61 5/8, July 62 1/4@62 1/4, oats 1/8 to 1/4 off, rye unchanged to 1/4 lower, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to 12 cents advance.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, April 1. (AP)—Demand for grain was fair here today. Estimated receipts: wheat 11 cars, corn 6, oats 3, sorghums 5, and cane seed 1.

Wheat No. 1 soft red winter 98 1/4@99 1/4; No. 1 hard 1.00 3/4@1.02 1/4.

Salesman Tells Of Abduction

(By The Associated Press)

GONZALES, April 1—Nate Solhm, who said he was a salesman for a New York jewelry firm, told officers here today he was abducted and robbed of about $5,000 in jewelry.

Solhm told Sheriff B. Neighbors three armed men, riding in a large automobile, forced him to stop his car about 20 miles from here shortly after noon. Two of them pulled guns on him and got into his car, driving him through Gonzales to a point 10 miles east, he said.

Own Car Followed

Their own car followed, Solhm said. When the point was reached the men pulled ignition wires from his automobile, took his jewelry, and fled in their own machine.

Solhm said he believed they went toward Houston.

Solhm was picked up by another traveller who brought him here to tell his story to Neighbors.

High school literary events and grammar school playground ball comprise today's program of the annual Lubbock county Interscholastic league contests. All events are to be held at the Junior High school.

The schedule includes— 9 a.m.: grammar school playground ball, junior girls' declamation, ready writers; 10 a.m.: junior boys' declamation, spelling for high school and rural schools, typewriting; 11 a. m.: senior boys' declamation; 1:30 p.m.: senior girls' declamation; 2:30: extemporaneous speech.

Contestants represent seven schools: Cooper, Frenship, New Deal, Roosevelt, Shallowater, Idalou, and Slaton.

Meet will be concluded Tuesday night with a general assembly at the main auditorium of the First Baptist church, for grammar and high school choral singing.

CHOOSE TWO TRUSTEES

FLOYDADA, April 1.—Floydada school district patrons will vote for two trustees Saturday. Terms of M. L. Probasco and Dr. Wilson Kimbie expire.

In the county the term of J. W. Howard as trustee at large and the term of F. C. Durgam in precinct No. 4 and R. C. Smith in precinct 4 also expire.

Final Vote On Bill Delayed

just before the vote was taken, denied opponents' charges the bill would make a dictator of President Roosevelt. With a scornful gesture toward the Republicans, he asserted.

"They have seized upon this thing as a great political issue and are going to stand solidly against giving the president of the United States this authority (to reorganize the executive branches of the government) and we accept that issue as an issue of the congressional campaign of 1938.

Made A Political Issue

"This is a political issue made so by the handful of Republicans the people left in the house of representatives. But when they go to hold their caucus in January, 1939, it won't take a room bigger than a phone booth."

A vote against the bill, he said, would be "a vote of lack of confidence in the great leader of our party," President Roosevelt.

The reorganization bill brought Representative O'Connor (D-NY) who as chairman of the rules committee is one of the three most powerful members of the house, into open revolt against the administration. He won a tremendous ovation with an address delivered just before that of Rayburn.

Not Afraid Of Dictator

"I am not afraid of a dictatorship in this country," he said. "I believe our great president was sincere when he stated last midnight that he had no desire to be a dictator, knowing him as I do, and from our close political and personal relations. I know he never entertained the idea.

"The fact is there hain't goin' to be no dictator in this country, not as long as some of us have a voice and two trong hands.

"The fact is, nevertheless, that our people are inflamed almost to the point of revolution—and I use my words guardedly—at the thought of the possibilities of this bill. Some letters mention 'blood shed,' others 'resort to arms.' That is the situation which concerns me.

No Time To Incense People

"Rightly or wrongly, this is no time to further incense our people, who have gone through eight years of a depression and who since last fall suffered a relapse, so that today business and employment is back to the low state we found it in 1933, and in some respects the lowest in our history."

Rayburn said later he did not regard the vote of tonight as a test of how the house would vote on the bill itself.

"It simply means," he said, "that the house thought there ought to be more debate. I don't think it was a test. We'll meet tomorrow and talk it all day."

"It may be amended some," said Speaker Bankhead, "but this bill is going to pass."

Jubilant oppositionists contended, however, the ballot was a clear showing of house sentiment on the bill. One, Representative Pettengill (D-Ohio), even predicted the house would refuse tomorrow to consider the bill further, thus automatically killing it.

"I'm very much encouraged," he said. "We've got a margin of 42 votes to work with. There is a growing tide of resentment against the strong-arm methods being used for this legislation."

"This vote was not a bit significant on final passage of the bill," said Cochran.

Mightier Ships

the upper limits of capital ships and their calibre of guns.

The third declares:

"The above action is motivated by the fact that upon the receipt of reports to the effect that Japan is constructing, or has authorized construction of capital ships of a tonnage and armament not in conformity with limitations and restrictions of the treaty, the government of the United States addressed an inquiry to the Japanese government and the Japanese government did not choose to furnish information with regard to its present naval construction or its plans for future construction."

The British pointed up their conclusion by adding:

"In view of the refusal of the Japanese government, on being formally approached, to give assurances that these reports are all ill-founded, his majesty's government have no alternative but to regard them as being substantially correct."

Hoover Bid

ripe for trouble over anything savoring of international debt adjustment.

Political Dynamite Seen

In the judgment of most observers there is political dynamite in any such suggestion at this time. Had it come from the White House, an immediate uproar in congress would have resulted, since the plan in effect would cancel the relief debts in exchange for more intimate cultural relations.

Brushing aside this and any other political implications to be found in the Hoover speech, it still is a remarkable contribution to precedent and current history. There is nothing in the books to show that any former president, who went abroad after his term in office, ever came back to discuss foreign relations as openly and frankly as Mr. Hoover.

In all the countries he visited, he enjoyed honors, not only because of his relief works before and after the World war, but also because he had been president of the United States.

That brought him into more intimate contact with major figures in the confused European scene than any other man could have enjoyed.

Miss Stoneham will present recordings in Esperanto. Officers will be elected.

A dinner at 6:30 o'clock tonight at Glorieta cafe will conclude the program.

Displays of Esperanto literture will be shown.

Texas Weather

snowfall had brightened crop prospects in the dustbowl area. Wheat, benefitted by more than four inches precipitation in March, was in the best shape in years, but a great deal of the wheat crop, particularly in the north Panhandle area, remained in the doubtful column.

April 8 is the average date for the last killing frost in this area, it was pointed out by Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state agricultural experiment station.

Penalties Fall On Auto Tags

Although exact figures were not available Friday night, near-accurate estimate from the office of H. B. Bryan Lubbock county tax collector, were that approximately 9,100 passenger vehicles were registered before the deadline at midnight.

Other estimates, including the branch offices at Slaton and Idalou, were: 717 commercial licenses; 300 farm commercial licenses; 200 trailers, 13 motorcycles; and 35 motor buses.

Greatest In Recent Years

Brayan said it was the greatest number of automobiles to be registered in recent years.

There were approximately 7,600 automobiles licensed in this county last year.

Penalty for obtaining licenses since the passing of the deadline last midnight will be 20 per cent unless motorists can produce affidavit the vehicle has not been used since expiration of the 1937 licenses. Operators of automobiles without 1938 licenses are subject to fines up to $200, said Robert J. Allen, county attorney.

School Changes

ers, Dr. Clough, Supt. G. N. Sims of Port Arthur, and Stigler.

Flaws Are Indicated

Some of the flaws in the present Texas public school system, as indicated in lectures, are: Students are retarded because they may be failed in an entire grade for weaknesses in certain subjects; the brilliant student is held to the slow pace of his more plodding classfellows; students are graduated when too young to take a place in industry; minds of students are cluttered too much with facts and figures or "subject matter" material and classroom instruction is too abstract and disassociated with practical living.

The seven plans of articulation were explained in Friday afternoon's session by Dr. Harl R. Douglas, professor of secondary education, University of Minnesota, Dr. Pittenger, Supt. Sims, Dr. Roemer, Stigler and Dr. H. T. Manuel, professor of educational psychology and director of research of Texas Commission on Coordination in Education. Dr. A. W. Evans, head of the Tech education department, presided.

The high school chorus, directed by Mrs. Waldo Trotter, sang 15 minutes at opening of the night program, over which Dean James M. Gordon of Texas Technological college presided. Speakers were Dean T. H. Shelby, Dr. Clough, Supt. Heath, Dr. Douglas, Dr. Roemer, and Dr. H. M. Cook, professor of education, West Texas State Teachers college.

Mayor Is Killed

the mayor's wounds before he died.

The package, Rivas said, was postmarked from the Hotel Palacio, Chihuahua City, Mex., and bore the name and address of one of Borunda's relatives. Officers believed the latter were faked, however.

The city clerk who was uninjured was sitting at a desk 12 feet away.

Gen. Juan Felipe Rico, military commander at Juarez, across the Rio Grande from here, took charge of the city hall and directed the investigation.

He placed a squadron in front of the building with rifles and pistols. Several thousand Juarez residents filled all streets leading to the city hall.

Ignacio J. Lomeli, Chihuahua state attorney general, in a telephone conversation with the El Paso Times, said an investigation already was under way in Chihuahua City, and indicated postal employes would be included in the questioning.

Mayor Borunda, prominent political figure for years, took office Jan. 1. He formerly was a congressman from the Juarez district.

Borunda had been involved in a political feud between Gov. Gustavo L. Talamantes of Chihuahua and former Gov. Gen. Rodrico M. Quevedo. Gen. Quevedo is charged in Juarez penal court with murder in the slaying of Federal Senator Angel Posada in Juarez a few weeks ago.

School Trustee Elections Are To Be Held Today

Local Members Are Unopposed

Eight of the nine school districts of Lubbock county in which trustee elections are to be held today, late Friday were poised before trips to the polls.

Calmest district of the entire county seemed to be Lubbock where two present members of the board are unopposed for reelection. They are Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, president, and Dr. Allen T. Stewart.

Polls Open At 8 A. M.

Polls in Lubbock and elsewhere will be open from 8 a. m. until 7 p. m., according to announcement by A. C. Jackson, manager of Lubbock independent school district, and Joseph R. Griggs county superintendent. Polling place here will be the district business office at 1007 Texas avenue. Judges will be W. E. Ballew, R. Bush Smith and George W. Foster.

Returns in all elections except that in Lubbock are to be made to Griggs' office.

County members In Vote

Also to be elected are two members of the county board of trustees. Neither of the present members of the board has opposition in his candidacy for reelection. They are Earl Davis of Acuff, for trustee at large and Bailey Guess of Idalou, from precinct No. 3.

In the remaining eight school districts of the county, an aggregate of 44 names will appear on the ballot for the total of 19 trusteeships to be filled. One of the sharpest contests will be in Shallowater district, where seven candidates have announced with two to be elected.

Candidates Are Listed

Districts in which elections are to be held and candidates whose names appear on the ballot are, with those seeking reelection indicated thus, *:

Cooper—Joe Schram, Otis Rodgers, Charlie Boyd*, D. H. Franks*, D. W. Huckabee* and E. J. Jennings. Vote for three.

Frenship—G. K. Morton, Aubrey Lane, J. D. Fraley, J. H. Mitchell and C. R. Moore*. Vote for two.

Idalou — P. L. Hamilton*, H. E. Graves, E. L. Sowder*, R. A. Powell*, Ray Ferguson and George D. Whiting. Vote for three.

New Deal—J. D. Medlock, W. C. Beaty*, L. J. Stokes* and Arnold O'Neal. Vote for two.

Shallowater — Joe Miller, C. M. Doyle*, Z. L. Evans*, W. T. Wynn, E. L. Corley, D. R. Weber and Ivy Elliott. Vote for two.

Estacado — W. H. Donley, J. H. Dunn, Clin Bryant, Charlie Fox and W. H. Johnson, vote for two.

Roosevelt — C. L. Bassinger*, Roy Moore*, Earl Rogers and V. E. Railsback. Vote for two.

Posey — W. E. Burns, S. M. Gentry*, Ed Macker, C. Z. Fine, L. B. Kitten*, K. L. Johnson* and M. P. Gentry.

Man Makes Third Night Visit To Business Area In 39 Years

GAINESVILLE, April 1. (AP)—D. T. Lacy, Gainesville banker who today observed his 92nd birthday, made his third night visit last night to the business district in 39 years.

He attended a dinner given in his honor by William Bonner and W. H. Campbell.

Lacy, who despite his age is at his desk at the Gainesville National bank daily, recalled he once atended a bankers meeting after dark and once went down town to telephone.

He is a Confederate veteran.

Rural Letter Carriers Of District Gather Tonight

Rural letter carriers of the 19th congressional district will meet here tonight in the Hilton hotel at 7:30 o'clock for their fourth annual banquet. Carriers from Big Spring to Plainview and from Matador, Dickens and Spur west to the state line, are expected to attend.

While largely a social affair and get-together, there will be a discussion of mattrs pertaining to problems of carriers. Local groups have been at work on the arrangements. L. H. Thomas is president and he said he expected between 125 and 150 to attend.

Speakers expected include: F. L. Clampitt, Fort Worth, postal inspector; John T. Hood, Dallas, president of the state association and W. L. Fletcher, jr. Hamlin, national treasurer.

Carriers from over the 19th congressional district will be present.

WOMAN INDICTED

JASPER, April 1. (AP)—An indictment charging murder was returned by the grand jury here against Mrs. Gladys E. Dickerson, young mother of three children, in connection with the slaying of her husband, Gorden Dickerson. Dickerson was slain December 22.

Jokesters Get Big Surprise As Calls Receive Response

OAKLAND, Calif., April 1.(AP) Joksters who called the Oakland dog pounu and asked for "Mr. Barker" got the surprise of their lives today.

Poundmaster R. C. Trotter went to great pains to prepare f the scores of telephone calls received each April 1.

He trained a dozen dogs to bark loudly whenever he snapped his fingers.

When a punster called the pound and inquired for "Mr. Barker" Trotter gave his canine chorus the signal and the simultaneous barks, yelps and cries of the dogs nearly split the eardrum of the astonished listener.

Calls poured in at an astonishing rate, however.

"I've already worn out three dogs," Trotter laughed.

Registration At Market Week Passes 400 Mark Friday

Far exceeding expectations of officials, the registration at the Western Wholesale Market association Friday passed the 400-mark, late checks showed.

The 16th semi-annual wholesale clothing market was opened Thursday night and will be continued through Sunday at Lubbock hotel where five floors are filled with displays.

The rush of out-of-town visitors, association officials said, likely will reach its peak Sunday. For that reason, they urged local retailers who plan to visit the market to do so either tonight or Saturday. Various display rooms will remain open each night as long as there are callers, exhibitors said.

More distant points represented by retailers who had registered up to noon today included Vernon, Olney, McCamey, Pampa and Big Spring, Texas, and Clayton, Roswell and Fort Sumner, N. M.

Background Of Recent Events In Europe Given To ABC

Background of the recent political and economic events in Europe and the possible effect upon future peace of that continent was given before the American Business club at the Hilton hotel yesterday noon by H. C. Pender, head of the department of government of Texas Technological college. He spoke on "Current International Events."

Music for the program included two solos by Elton Plowman, Abilene, Texas Technological college students, and a piano solo by Charles Fike, of Central Ward school, who also was accompanist for Plowman. Ernest Crites was announced by President William Collins as a new member. Cecil Schwable and M. T. Hill were co-chairmen. President Collins introduced the speaker.

Project Show Will Be Staged By Ropes Future Farmers

ROPESVILLE, April 1. (Special)—Ropesville Future Farmer chapter will have a project show Saturday, starting at 11:30 o'clock. L. M. Hargrave, vocational agriculture teacher at Frenship rural high school, Wolfforth, will judge, beginning at 1 o'clock.

Business men here have contributed prizes. Ropesville boys at the county show in Levelland, March 26, won 10 out of 13 places.

Meadow F. F. A. boys have been invited to compete. The show will precede the Lubbock Fat Stock show next week.

New Entries In Parade Given

Three additional entries for the South Plains Junior Fat Stock show parade Wednesday were received at the chamber of commerce Friday, W. G. Alderson, general chairman, said.

An aggregate of 32 communities has tendered entries to assure approximately 1,500 boys in the procession which will start at the city hall and progress through the downtown district. Deadline for entries was changed from Monday this week to next Monday, Alderson said.

Record Entry List

Already a record list of entries in three divisions of the show Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Panhandle-South Plains fairgrounds had been received. Deadline for exhibitors was Monday midnight.

Entries for the parade Friday were from Wilson community Future Farmers of America chapter, Swisher county 4-H clubs, and Whitharral FFA chapter. M. C. Brondon is supervisor of 50 boys coming from Wilson. P. C. Colgin of Tulia, county agent, will bring 15 boys from Swisher county, and C. B. Bentley, vocational agriculture teacher, entered names of 40 boys from Whitharral.

Lubbock High school's 100-piece band, under direction of H. A. Anderson, will lead the parade as official band. Six other bands will be in the line of march. Thirteen decorated floats have been entered.

Approval Of Two New Projects In Floyd County Is Given

FLOYDADA, April 1. (Special)—Aprroval of two new Works Progress administration projects has been received here following completion of another Thursday.

Seventeen miles of farm-to-market road from Floydada to the Hale county line will be graded, drained, widened, and treated with caliche base. The job will require 100 men three months. Work will start Monday.

Approval of a county-wide sanitation project on which 24 men will work a month received approval Friday. Sanitation units will be built throughout the county.

A farm-to-market road started a year ago from here to the Crosby county line was completed Thursday. Work included grading, drainage, and applying caliche base to 10.5 miles on highway 207.
