Russia Assails U.S. Use Of Atom Bomb

(Official USAF Photo)

WELCOME HOME! The whir of airplane motors is a familiar sound over Lubbock again, after an absence of nearly four years, with the return of the Air Force to Reese Air Force Base, formerly Lubbock Army Air Field. To commemorate the occasion, today's edition of The Avalanche-Journal is devoted largely to news and pictures about the base. Scattered throughout the paper are scores of articles and pictures on RAFB personnel. Pages 3 and 8, section IV, and Page 1, women's section, are made entirely of RAFB photos. The above photo shows a flight of B-25's flying in formation over the headquarters flag pole.

Base Has $11,100,000 Impact On Economy

RAFB Plays Key Role In Area

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

REESE Air Force Base, six months ago an idea on paper, already has exerted a terrific economic impact upon Lubbock.

The reservation which six months ago was a ghostly reminder of World War II days is now a busy community with 2,561 men and women, military and civilian, on its payrolls.

There is scarcely a business in Lubbock which has not been directly or indirectly affected. From sale of groceries and clothing to automobiles and even real estate, from motion picture theaters to educational institutions—all report the reactivation of the Air Force Base has stimulated their activities.

Field Boasts Colorful Past

A COLORFUL and distinguished history already graces Reese Air Force Base, although the story begins as recently as 1941.

It was in July of that year, during feverish defense preparations, that construction contracts were awarded to two combinations of firms made up of W. S. Moss and W. G. McMillan of Lubbock, C. S. Lambie of Amarillo and Holland Page of Austin.

The base cost approximately $3,500,000 exclusive of land which was provided by the City of Lubbock.

Work Rushed On Field

By December of that year construction work was nearing completion. McMillan said that the workmen were on a seven-day schedule and were at work on the base when news of the attack Pearl Harbor was heard.

Late December, 1941, the first large number of military personnel arrived at the base from Brooks field in Austin, as a security detachment.

In the early weeks of 1942 the first class of cadets arrived and started the intensive training routine which led to their graduation as pilots and commissions as second lieutenants.

In Pilot Of War

Men who trained at Lubbock Army Air field flew the bombers, the Flying Fortresses, Liberators and B-26's, such targets as the Ploesti oil fields, Berlin, Rome, Naples, Mersburg, Hamburg, Tarawa and Iwo Jima, Wake island and Guam, the Philippines and Okinawa, New Guinea and Burma and Tokyo. They flew the transports, the cargo planes, and the fighters in all theaters of war.

Early in 1944 the base completed its mission of training pilots and began turning out instrument pilots, a job it continued until the field was closed Dec. 31, 1945.

It had turned out a total of 7,008 bomber, fighter and transport pilots.

Has Impressive Payroll

The size and complexity of Reese Air Force Base is hard to visualize.

It annually pours approximately $11,100,000 in cash into Lubbock and nearby communities, according to figures released Saturday by Maj. Frederick P. Steck, wing comptroller, 3500th pilot training wing.

Most of this figure is in the form of payrolls totaling $8,700,000, of which 330 civilians collect approximately $1,500,000 a year.

Pay and allowances for 1,921 airmen total $4,200,000. Another $3,000,000 is paid to officers.

Many Commodities Bought Here

The remainder of the $11,000,000 paid out locally goes for such commodities as fresh vegetables, dairy products for the mess halls, printing, [illegible] purchases, petroleum products, hydrants, material for [illegible] and construction and the pay [illegible]

It is safe to assume, Maj. Steck said, that the majority of the $8,700,000 payroll is spent in the city of Lubbock. All married officers and many enlisted men and their families live "off-base," making 633 families who pay rent to Lubbock landlords and buy their supplies through Lubbock merchants.

The 233 families now living on the base also shop in Lubbock for their clothing, furniture and other supplies.

Auto Firms Also Affected

Since RAFB is 12 miles from the city and the majority of the men drive their automobiles back and forth, the amount which goes to automobile supply firms and gasoline [illegible] not a small sum.

One [illegible] alone helps show what RAFB has already meant to Lubbock.

Two Wichita Youths Drown In Lake Kemp

SEYMOUR, Nov. 12 (AP)—Two Wichita Falls high school boys slipped to their deaths in the waters of Lake Kemp today as they clung desperately to an overturned boat pounded by wind-whipped waves.

A third boy told tonight how he managed to hang to the boat during a four-hour ordeal—until it was finally driven to shore.

Drowned were Bert Brown, 16, and Jackie Parr, 17. The survivor was Dawson Ward, jr., 16. All were seniors in Wichita Falls High school. They had gone to Lake Kemp, nine miles north of Seymour, last night to go duck hunting.

All the boys had both junior and senior life saving certificates.

The two bodies had not been recovered tonight, and the search was called off because of the difficulty in finding in the dark the separated spots they went down.

Ward spent tonight here and will go out with parties searching for the bodies in the morning.

Parr was the son of Mrs. Mayme Parr of Wichita Falls. Brown was the son of Graham Brown, co-owner of the Wichita Engineering company of Wichita Falls; Ward is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Ward of Wichita Falls.

Ward wandered on the shore of the lake until he found an empty tent. He wrapped up in a blanket and passed out. About 6 p. m. the noise of a car awakened him and its occupants, whose names he did not learn, took him to a gatekeeper's house.

West German Chief [illegible] Acheson

BONN, Germany, Nov. 12. (AP)—West German politicians waited anxiously tonight to hear from U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson what the future holds for their fledging republic.

Acheson will visit President Theodor Heuss and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in this capital city tomorrow.

So far the Germans were as much in the dark as the rest of the world concerning the decisions reached by the foreign ministers of the United States, France and Britain at their Paris conference ending last Friday.

The Germans would like to know:

Is dismantling of their factories to stop?

Is the West German republic to have a foreign minister like the east Communist republic?

What wider powers of self-rule will be given?

Steel Plants Gear For Top Production

By TROY GORDON
INS Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12. — Steel maintenance crews rushed work today to get the nation's great furnaces and other equipment in running order for the back-to-work movement of the 400,000 steel workers who now have settled their strike.

Normal operations are expected to be resumed early next week with four-fifths of the nation's steelworkers already back on the payroll and labor and industry leaders working to wrap up loose ends of the 42-day walkout.

410,000 Workers Covered

Contracts have been signed covering about 410,000 of the 500,000 workers who quit their jobs last Oct. 1. The strike ended generally last night with agreement by U. S. Steel, No. 1 producer, to provide $100 a month pension for its 150,000 production workers.

Shortly afterwards, Inland Steel also agreed to a similar settlement covering its 200,000 steelworkers.

Meanwhile, settlement with two small iron ore mines in Montreal, Wisc., and Ramsay, Mich., were worked out today. This leaves only a handful of small companies still strike-bound but these are expected to fall quickly into line next week.

Among these are Allegheny Ludlum, Wheeling, Crucible, the Aluminum Company of America, and a group of minor concerns.

Strike Longest In History

The walkout, longest and costliest in the industry's history, cost the 500,000 strikers earning an average of $1.65 per hour an estimated $600,000 in wages. Unofficial estimates set total lost production to the industry at some $741,000,000. The figure was based rather on lost production of 10,000,000 ingot tons at the composite price of $74.10 per finished ton.

However, official industry sources said it will be months before statisticians are able to figure that actual dollar loss in net profits.

The breakdown settlement of the protracted strike which was fast gripping the country in an economic stranglehold means re-employment for thousands of workers in allied industries.

Operators Call For Coal Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP).—Coal operators said today another strike Dec. 1 is "unthinkable." They counseled John L. Lewis that their own men are "willing and eager to dig coal — and so are a lot of others.

Speaking up as the months-old deadlock with the United Mine workers chief continued, John D. Battle, executive vice president of the National Coal association, charged that Lewis is "destroying the markets for coal, thereby destroying their jobs."

Sharp Charges Hurled

Lewis has not been willing to consider operators' proposals, and he has not presented any basis on which the industry could operate, Battle contended.

"Recent events furnish abundant evidence that the men are willing and eager to work at what they know are the highest wage rates of any workers in America," the statement said.

Quoting Lewis as saying he knows of no one who wants to be a coal miner except those now mining coal, Battle said this shows ignorance of conditions in the coal fields and added:

"The truth is that there are a large number of men today on the waiting lists at the coal mines seeking employment."

"It is unthinkable," Battle said,

TODAY, MONDAY

Morning Freeze Seen For Area

You light the stove, dear. I'll take my coffee in bed.

These domestic words—however ineffective—may be justified in Lubbock and over the South Plains this morning if the Weatherman was right Saturday night when he called for low temperatures in the middle 20's — well below freezing.

However, sunshine is expected to push the mercury up to 68 this afternoon in the Lubbock vicinity. Monday morning will bring a low in the 30's, the forecaster said, but temperatures again should rise to near 68 under clear skies. In Lubbock, the low Saturday morning was 38, followed by a high of 62.

Parts of West Texas, probably in the Panhandle, may get temperatures as low as 24 this morning, according to an Associated Press roundup of state forecasts. In the upper Red River valley, lows of 28 to 32 were seen, with the northwest portion of East Texas to shiver with 32 to 38.

Slavs Cancel Albania Pact

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

BELGRADE, Nov. 12 — Yugoslavia junked her treaty of friendship and alliance with Albania today, ten days after delivering a virtual ultimatum to her little southern neighbor.

Marshall Tito's government charged that Albania, goaded by Russia and her eastern European dependencies, committed unfriendly acts.

Slavs Fire Hot Note

In a note Nov. 2, Yugoslavia sharply told her to stop these hostile gestures and to live up to their 1947 friendship treaty. A reply was demanded "within the shortest possible time."

Albania ignored the demand.

It was the first time Yugoslavia, badgered for months by Russia and her Balkan followers, has taken the initiative in scrapping one of the alliances which formerly bound them together.

Earlier, following campaigns of mutual abuse and accusation, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria severed treaty ties with Belgrade. Diplomatic relations, however, continue.

Jewelry Store Hit By Thieves For Eleventh Time In Three Years

Burglars, for the eleventh time in three years, broke into the C. S. Tyner Jewelry company at 906 Thirteenth about 12:30 a. m. today, but fled empty-handed when an alarm was set off.

A small glass display window at the front of the store had been broken, setting off the specially-wired burglar alarm system. The intruders, who apparently sped off in a waiting car, did not molest a number of watches, rings and clocks in the window.

Soviets Claim Mass Killing Was Needless

By PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 12. —The American bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki were assailed by Russia today as "useless" killings.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky made this attack in a blistering reply to U. S. Assistant Secretary of State John D. Hickerson. The latter had charged yesterday that a nation levelling mountains with atom explosions could also level cities.

Scores Wartime Use

Vishinsky did not mention Hiroshima or Nagasaki by name, but left no doubt as to his meaning. In stressing the fact that Russia is using atomic energy for large-scale peace-time development projects, Vishinsky stated:

"Of course, we are not just shaking the air with atomic blasts. That would be economically unprofitable, although there have been cases in history when atomic bombs shook the air rather than do good to mankind.

"In addition to shaking the air, they killed scores of thousands of persons—without any need—militarily speaking—from the point of view of prosecuting the war or from the point of view of anybody's war aims."

"Wild Language" Assailed

Hickerson told correspondents afterward that Vishinsky's attack consisted primarily of "wild language." He said Vishinsky had not answered in other respects or indicated a willingness to yield on the question of sovereignty.

The Russian foreign minister spoke in the special political committee's wind-up debate on atomic energy control, where five resolutions await next Monday's vote.

Four of these—by India, Haiti, Argentina, and Russia—seek the outlawing of atomic weapons in one form or another. The fifth is a joint Frenh-Canadian resolution calling for continued consultations by the Big Five and Canada for an agreement basis. This motion also declares that national sovereignty must be sacrificed in the interests of atomic control.

(During his talk, Vishinsky also asserted that the Soviet Union had

Area Harvesting Prices Reduced

SHALLOWATER, Nov. 12 (Special) — A group of farmers representing the entire Shallowater community tonight voted unanimously to lower cotton pulling prices beginning Monday.

The drop will be from $2 to $1.75 per hundred in the field, and from $2.25 to $2 delivered at the gin.

Area Trend Develops

The movement was in line with a general trend throughout the county and parts of the South Plains during the week, brought on by frost and other conditions which have lowered the grade of cotton in the county.

Some farmers in the Shallowater area already have gone down to the new price, and a visiting farmer from Muleshoe reported that the rate was down to $1.75 delivered in that area.

Glenn Hackney, president of the Lubbock County Farm bureau, who was present at the meeting, said that most of the county and adjoining counties were following suit in lowering the pulling prices.

"If we can get one more week of good weather, that will just about do it as far as pullers are concerned," he said.

Hackney revealed that the labor problem was not as acute as it has been, although "we still can use pullers." He explained that the farmers are using boll pulling Polish Reds Implicated In Plot To Smuggle Agents Into U. S.

By GLENN M. GREEN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 — The Senate Judiciary committee tonight made public secret testimony implicating Polish Communists in a plot to smuggle aliens into the United States aboard the liners Batory and Sobieski.

It was in the Batory that Gerhard Eisler escaped from this country last May as a "stowaway" to avoid prosecution for an alleged false statement concerning his Communist party status.

A former purchasing agent of the Gdynia-America line, operator of the two Polish trans-Atlantic liners, told a sub-committee that Polish officials in New York were implicated in Eisler's successful getaway.

The witness, Anthony Trzecieski, also disclosed how American laws were circumvented in getting aliens into and out of the United States by carrying them as members of the crews of the Polish ships.

Trzecieski, employed by the Polish line for 11 years, said he quit in December, 1947, because of his anti-Communist feelings.

Describing the smuggling of aliens, Trzecieski said:

"If he happened to be a man whom the (Communist) party wanted to deposit in the United States, he just simply, after he was cleared by the immigration people, got shore leave.

"He walked off. Another man whom they wanted to have in his place was shipped in there under the same name."

Trzecieski said that Roman M. Kutylowski, president of the Polish line, and Polish Consul General Jan Galewicz, were aboard the Batory last May 6 when Eisler sailed.

Trzecieski testified that the

Medina Assassination 'Plot' Is Called Hoax

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP).—New York police said tonight an investigation had showed there was "nothing to" a reported plot against the life of Federal Judge Harold R. Medina.

Two Brooklyn girls who were picked up during the probe were released later, they said.

"There is absolutely nothing to it," a detective lieutenant said.

"We are convinced that these people have nothing to do with any plot against Judge Medina."

A flurry of investigation started this evening when two young men told the FBI here that the two girls had said the judge would be "done away with sometime in the next few weeks."

Medina himself was skeptical about the whole thing, and after thorough questioning of the four young people police turned them all lose with a warning.

"They are just talking like bigshots," the detective said.

Red Propaganda Fails To Make Grade In Lubbock High School As Officials Ban Soviet Bulletin

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

RUSSIAN propaganda in the USSR, information bulletin shall never reach the shelves of Lubbock High schoo llibrary, Supt. R. W. Matthews and Board of Trustees President Clde Tatum announced Saturday.

After the high school had received a fifth copy of the USSR information bulletin, which is issued twice monthly by the embassy of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in Washington, D. C., the superintendent was convinced the Lubbock school is on the regular mailing list for the Soviet bulletin.

Both the superintendent and the school board trustee spoke of use of the U. S. mail to transport propaganda to U. S. students.

Use of Mails Denounced

"I think it is a shame our government would let them send stuff like that through the mails for our students to read," said Tatum. "They may let them send it, but we're not going to let them have it up there in school," he said.

Superintendent Matthews said, "I am of the opinion that propaganda against the government should not be transported by the government. I am not protesting the right to print, but I am protesting the sending to our libraries of propaganda material or any material not requisitioned or ordered."

The USSR information bulletin, said the superintendent, "is misleading in that it pictures in glowing terms the standards of living of Russia to be above that of any other part of the world. One article would lead one to believe that all modern inventions are the result of the scientists of Russia. Such gross mistatements might not

ALIEN "WETBACKS" ARE PROBLEM

37,000 Mexican Braceros Find Employment In Texas Counties

By TIM PARKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

The spectacle of the U. S. Border Patrol chasing "wetbacks" out of Texas may have distracted too much attention from the Mexican alien they welcomed—the "bracero."

"Wetbacks" are Mexican aliens illegally in Texas. The name arises from the fact that many swim the Rio Grande because they can't or don't want to comply with immigration rules.

"Braceros," on the other hand, are Mexican aliens legally in Texas. That means their entry was according to this year's U. S.-Mexico international agreement. The agreement calls for contracts by employers to pay suitable wages, provide adequate housing and other accommodations, and refrain from discrimination.

While the border patrol was rounding wetbacks up by the thousands in the lower Rio Grande valley, thousands of braceros were making good money under contractural agreements.

Demand Exceeds Supply

The Texas employment commission says 37,000 braceros have been put to work in Texas this year. TEC had certified a need for 98,000. It did not explain why only 37,000 showed up but alleged discrimination in certain counties is the most common reason for Mexican refusal to send more workers.

The only estimate available on the number of illegal aliens in Texas comes from the immigration and naturalization service in Washington. It recently guessed the Texas wetback total at about 50,000.

In most cases, the braceros and their employers have found their contracts mutually profitable.

TEC's Wichita Falls district is an example. Gins are running 24 hours a day in those parts of northwest Texas where braceros are helping harvest the cotton crop. In many other areas gins were idle part of the time while cotton remained in the fields, unpicked.

Earn Big Wages

Manager G. B. Purcell of the Wichita Falls TEC district estimated there were about 3,600 braceros in the eight counties in his district. About 300 were in Baylor county. The other 3,300 were about evenly divided between Knox and Haskell.

Purcell visited one field at 3 o'clock on a recent afternoon. Several pickers who weighed in while he was there already had made $15 that day with about three hours of work still remaining. On the basis of the 8.61 to 1 exchange rate recently quoted, this meant they had earned nearly $130 in Mexican money each by mid-afternoon.

The braceros there were earning from $1.50 to $1.75 per hundred pounds of cotton harvested. Many of them are housed in army barracks moved to farms or near gins. On the whole they seemed to be comfortably cared for and to like the work. There were no reports of discrimination.

Counties Blacklisted

On the Vernon Pfluger farm near Eldorado, one couple and their four children made $140 in one day. The standard pay for pickers in the Eldorado area remains at $2 per hundred pounds but some farmers boosted the rate to $2.50 for second picking.

By contrast, there's the situation in the lower Rio Grande valley. Growers there wanted thousands of braceros—in fact, 2,885 growers applied for 25,000 braceros. And there were thousands of Mexican nationals who wanted the work—wanted is so much they "wetbacked" across the Rio Grande in droves. Bodies of Mexicans who drowned trying to swim the big border river were found.

Why couldn't the employers and Mexican nationals get together? The reasons include:

1. Many of the growers wanted to contract for help at 25 to 35 cents an hour. The Mexican government has decided its citizens should not work for less than 40 cents an hour.

2. Eight Texas counties were blacklisted by the Mexican government, because of alleged discrimination.

In Family Groups

Up until Oct. 23, not a single bracero was under contract in the valley's 1,500,000 acres of farmland. There were a number of applications receiving approval under the international agreement at that time for a small number of workers.

While the valley growers frantically sought farm labor, the wetbacks were being rounded up. October deportations in the valley totaled more than 10,618.

This did not represent a loss of 10,000 field workers. The border patrol said the aliens were in family groups, only one of whom ordinarily was a field worker. Further, many aliens were deported twice or more, having slipped back into Texas. Many of the aliens picked up were maids, yardmen, cooks and waiters.

There were wide Texas areas where no braceros worked this last summer.

Both the Fort Worth and Houston district offices of the Texas employment commission reported recently that there were no braceros processed to work in the several counties in their jurisdictions.

Discrimination Cast

The growers' need of help apparently is encouraging a solution of the wage problem; discrimination also is being attacked.

For example, Victoria has organized an American citizenship club, which meets monthly at the county courthouse. Organized for the express purpose of improving the status of Latin Americans and helping aliens, the club has grown from 57 members when it was organized three years ago to almost 700 members.

But Victoria county was blacklisted by the Mexican government insofar as braceros are concerned. Three cases of discrimination by Victoria firms were blamed.

In neighboring Calhoun county some 4,000 braceros were at work recently. They were paid $1.50 per hundred pounds for pulling cotton and up to $2.50 per hundred for picking. In some cases four- and five-room houses were provided for them.

Braceros Complain

But in Calhoun county there also was trouble. Augusto Moheno, representative of the Mexican consulate in Corpus Christi, reported 200 complaints from braceros in Calhoun county. Mostly they were charges that farmers had not paid $1.75 on rainy days, as agreed in contracts.

Mexican Consul Efrain Dominguez of San Antonio had this to say of braceros at work in Coryell, Williamson and Bell counties:

"There were no complaints. In Bartlett they were treated extraordinarily nice. There were no reports of discrimination. They are well satisfied with wages they received."

To the west, braceros are at work by the thousands in the South Plains and Pecos areas.

In the South Plains area the labor shortage in cotton fields was acute until the braceros arrived. The Lubbock TEC office estimated about 4,000 were at work last week.

Merchants Sell Goods

Many of those near Lubbock were ranch hands in Mexico, making only $1 to $1.50 a day. By comparison, the $1.50 per hundred pounds of cotton pulled is very good pay.

About 200 are at work on the 7-000-acre Carl and Ray Griffith cotton farm in northwest Cochran county. They live in barracks and are fed soldier style by the Griffiths. About their only complaint was regarding the weather—they don't like it cold.

Little discrimination was in evidence in the South Plains. Some small cafes "Hablo Espanol" (I Speak Spanish) signs in their windows.

Lubbock Man's Cotton Picking Machine Impressive In Tests

The future economic structure of the cotton industry may be changed considerably because of the inventive genius of a Lubbock man.

W. A. Dykes of 2120 Broadway has converted a lifelong dream, plenty of hard work and a $3,300 investment into a cotton separating machine, which promises to be revolutionary.

A veteran of 30 years in the gin business, Dykes has long carried an idea to invent a cotton picking machine that could be produced at low cost and enable farmers to realize a good profit for their labors and still present a better grade of cotton to the ginners.

Took Long Planning

His venture was not an overnight scheme but took years of planning and experience.

Last year the test model was built at a cost of $3,300. Since then, it has been subjected to many field tests. Results of the tests have been so satisfactory that three large implement manufacturers are very interested in Dykes' project.

Pulled by a tractor, Dykes' machine operates in the following manner:

The cotton in taken in from the stripper to a hooper. Then the cotton goes to a separator, which separates the green bolls and ginnable cotton. The green bolls automatically go to a boll breaker hopper and the other cotton goes to the ginnable cotton hopper, which will hold about a bale of unginned cotton.

Two of the best features of the machine are found on the ginnable cotton hopper, which is equipped with an automatic lift and dump, which eliminates much shovel work by the farmer, and assures speedy dumping in the truck bound for the gin.

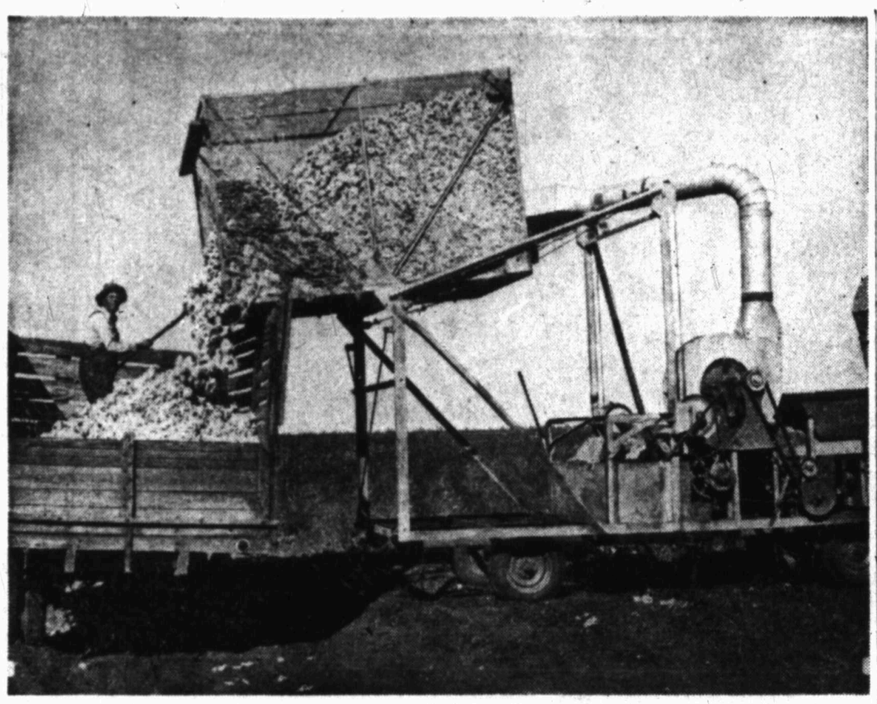

At present, the machine is being tested on the farm of Douglas D. Bales near Arnett. In a six-day period, Bales picked 39 bales and carried them to the gin himselm. His grade of cotton was much better than hand pulled cotton. Cost for picking the cotton with the machine was about $350.

Meanwhile, Dykes spent better than a $1,000 for labor on his nearby 350-acre cotton farm for 27 bales.

Dykes, who has applied for patents for the machine, says his invention will work in conjunction with all types of strippers. He points out that his machine will enable the farmer to get cotton in the best grade of "bloom."

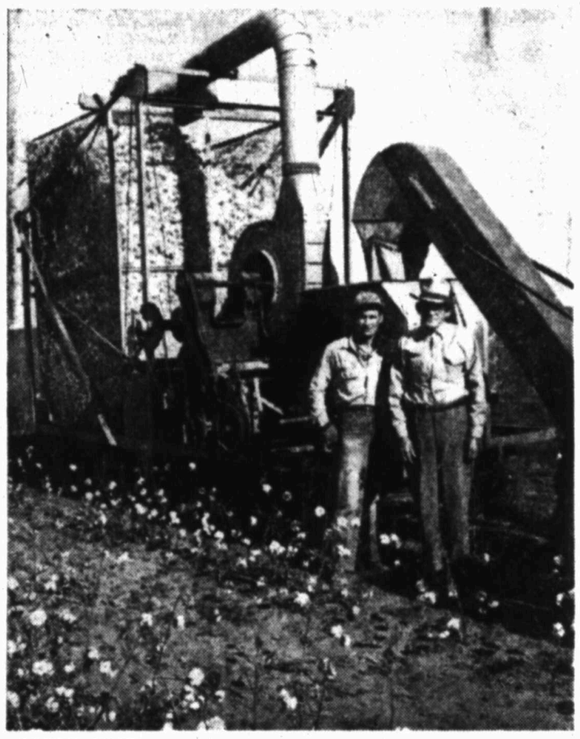

Assembly manufacturing plant for the new invention may be here in Lubbock, Dykes hopes. His goal is to retail the machine for about $2,000.

Ministers Of Two Faiths Share Pulpit Of Church In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—The Mount Vernon Methodist Place Church here has selected a minister of another denomination as its co-pastor.

The Rev. Dr. Walter Fiscus, of Eugene, Ore., a minister in the Disciples of Christ denomination, will share the pulpit with the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, a Methodist, beginning Nov. 15.

Dr. Day described the move as a step "that may open larger ways of co-operation between representatives of various denominations before organic unity between denominations is reached."

"In these days when Communism and secularism are waging a war against Christianity, it is very important that Christians should stand together," Dr. Day said.

"Why should the church ask for international co-operation and refuse interdenominational cooperation?" Rev. Day asked.

A native of Stillwater, Okla., Dr. Fiscus has preached to large congregations of students at the University of Oregon at Eugene for the past three years. Last summer, he led a tour of students of Europe in the interest of promoting international understanding.

Weslaco C-C Provides Tourists With Nation-Wide Map Service

WESLACO, Tex., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Winter tourists in the Lower Rio Grande Valley needn't feel homesick. They always can drop in at the Weslaco Chamber of Commerce and look at the home town map.

Manager Dave Moore constructed a huge map of the United States, Mexico and Canada. Every state on the map has a gaping hole from which protrudes a fistful of its maps.

Moore conceived the idea of a nation-wide map service after tourists kept dropping in and asking for maps of Iowa, Michigan, Canada and other northerly sections.

Nine Of 16 Brothers Organized Baseball Team For Recreation

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—John and Margaret Bendig fielded their own household baseball team this summer.

The Bendigs are the parents of 16 living children, and nine of the boys, ranging in age from 19 to 36, decided they had what it takes for a good ball club.

With Tom Bendig, 29, as their manager-shortstop, the brothers got plenty of sandlot competition Sunday afternoons. They did it just for recreation, though. The squad is the first full team of brothers in this area since 1893.

The nine Thompson brothers, of Gloucester, N. J., were the last.

Olton's School Plans Approved

OLTON, Nov. 12. (Special) — Plans for Olton's new primary grade school building have been approved and bids of contractors are now being accepted until Nov. 22, at 2:30 p. m., J. T. Jones, superintendent of Olton Independent school district, said today.

The bids will be opened in Jones' office at that time.

Bonds in the amount of $140,000 were voted in August for the purpose of constructing the building, to consist of 10 classrooms, offices, school clinic, two music departments and a 51 by 91-foot cafeteria to accommodate 300 persons at a shift.

An amount not exceeding $125,000 is to be set aside for construction of the new building and the remainder will be used for repairs.

The additional building will give the Olton school three modern classrooms and one of the best combination auditorium-gymnasiums in West Texas, Jones said.

This, coupled with a strong curriculum and athletic program, makes Olton an outstanding school system.

Trustees are Truett Sides, president, A. L. Hysinger, Brent Burrow, J. L. Carson, jr., I. D. (Bud) Grimsley, Tom Sluder, Tom McGill, and B. A. Dodson, business manager.

Sympathetic Robbers Take $60 From Service Station

GOLDTHWAITE, Nov. 12. (AP)—Two men drove up to a filling station two miles west of here early today, made the attendant take off his pants, tied him, and took $60 from the cash register.

The station employe, Roland Kincheloe, said the men first took his billfold containing about $10. Then one of them asked Kincheloe if he was married. Kincheloe told them he was and had one child.

"Then here's your money back," the gunman said, "I've got a son myself and know how hard it is to make a living."

WORKERS REPORTS INCOMPLETE

Chest Drive Lags In Lubbock; Collections Short By $38,316

Lubbock's Community Chest financial campaign continued to lag in collections during the past week and up until Saturday noon approximately 59 percent of the goal had been tabulated.

Collections totaled $60,534.23, which is $38,315.17 short of the goal of $98,850.

In announcing total contributions thus far, J. Ray Dickey, chairman of the campaign, issued another plea to team workers to complete their solicitations and turn in their reports at Chest headquarters.

"I think there is no question that we will make the goal if the workers will only complete their work," Dickey said. "We have less than 59 percent of cards turned back in from workers and the collections are ahead of quotas. So it looks like the only thing we need is for the various team workers to make their second calls to donors and complete their reports.

Dickey Urges Completion

"The campaign has rocked along too long already," Dickey continued. "If the workers would do their jobs, we could bring the campaign to a successful completion this next week, I'm sure."

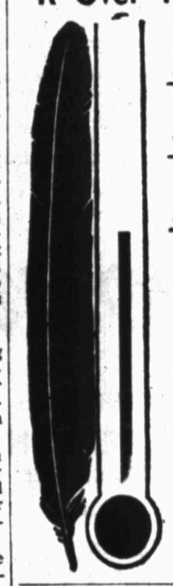

Dickey said the various team captains will be contacted early this week by telephone to remind them to get in touch with their lieutenants, who in turn will contact their various teams.

Eight affiliated charity, welfare and recreational agencies participate in the Community Chest budget. They are: Salvation Army, Milam Home, Carver Heights Nursery, Lubbock Service Organization, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Lubbock Boys' Club and Junior Optimist club.

Are You Helping It Over The Top?

MORNING COUGHS
Often Due to Bronchial Asthma

Do you cough and cough, especially mornings and at night? Do you choke, gasp for breath, wheeze and often can't sleep? The cause of these devitalizing symptoms may be recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma. In such cases, the very first dose of MENDACO usually starts right now, working through the blood and thus reaching lungs and bronchial tubes, to help relax that clogged up stuffy feeling in the bronchial tubes, then helps Nature loosen and clean out thick, strangling phlegm. This helps you get good fresh air into your lungs and promotes restful sleep. Ask your druggist for MENDACO.

Young Man's Education Continued In Air Force; Kept Well-Informed

In days of yore, a young man who entered the Armed Forces automatically gave up his chances for a higher education until his term of service had expired. This is no longer true. Now through an organized Air Force information and education program, men serving in the Armed Forces throughout the world have full opportunity for intellectual development and professional advancement.

Even if an airman is not interested in higher education as such, he is still kept well-informed on matters of general information and upon his responsibilities as an officer or airman and as a citizen through a weekly information hour, supplemented by a central information center.

Objectives Are Listed

The objectives of this information program are (1) To stimulate an interest in, and better understanding of American ideals and to foster an abiding belief in the future of our country and our way of life. (2) To impress upon the minds of all Air Force personnel the importance of the United States as a leader among nations and the responsibilities and limitations placed upon it by virtue of that status of leadership. (3) Develop each officer and airman as an individual capable of thinking and acting for himself. (4) Answer the airman's "Why?" This is based on the fact that the American serviceman can be led, but not driven, and that to be led, he must have an adequate and intelligent explanation of the duties he is called upon to perform. (5) Keep all Air Force personnel currently informed of the salient features of the news and to analyze their importance to the Nation, to the Air Force and to the individual.

The local information-education office is charged with planning and supervising the program. It selects the topic for the weekly information program, provides necessary reference materials and conducts briefings in order that the program is uniform base wide.

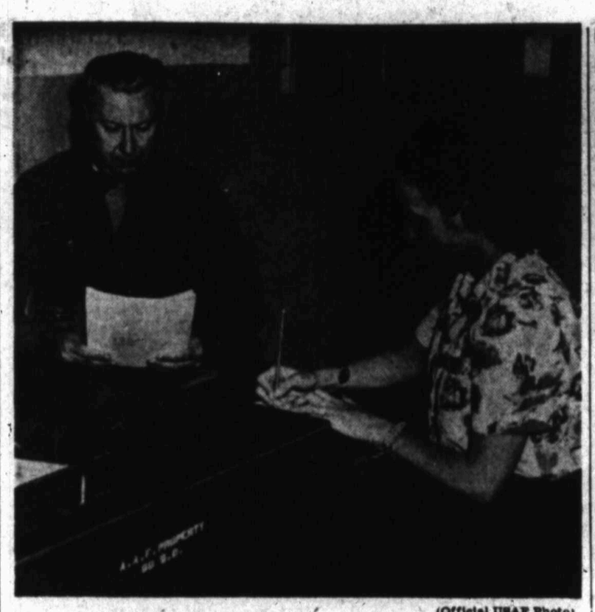

Academic And Vocational

The education program provides both academic and vocational education through classroom instruction and self-teaching and correspondence courses in subjects normally taught in civilian academic and vocational institutions. These subjects range from basic elementary education through college. Educational advisement, testing and examination service are also provided.

The objectives of the program are largely accomplished through the United States Armed Forces Institute which provides correspondence courses, self-teaching courses, testing and accreditation services, and supplies other educational materials to all Armed Forces personnel. In areas in which there are prerequisites for full-time duty courses offered in higher academic training is monitored or given by the USAF Institute of Technology.

The local information and education office acts as a registration center for the institute, interviews airmen and assists them in applying for needed educational services, administers USAFI tests and examinations and maintains records of each person participating in the program. It also organizes local off-duty group study classes, provides competent instructors for classes indicated by personnel interest, or need, in academic subjects of elementary, high school or college level.

Personnel assigned to the I&E section at Reese Air Force Base are 1st Lt. Thornley C. Cary, jr., officer in charge, M-Sgt. Carl A. Seiley, non-commissioned officer in charge, Sgt. George Troster, information program and Cpl. John H. Badgette, education program.

Careful Selection Of Jobs Key To Workers' Happiness

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—If you want to be happy in your work, you've got to hire your boss! says Management Counselor Leo Nejelski.

"Too many people exist in dead-end jobs," says Nejelski. "They gyp themselves out of success by enduring a position they don't really want. And they get in that spot by getting a job in the wrong way."

Most persons ask relatives or friends for help in getting a job without giving thought to the nature of the employment, says Nejelski in the American Magazine. He says a person should approach job-getting in a systematic manner instead of just going to work for anyone in any line of endeavor. He urges job-seekers to make full use of reliable vocasel from such organizations as the tional-guidance clinics or aptitude-testing services or seek counYMCA, U. S. or state employment services.

Oil Operating Contract Signed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (U.P.)—The interior department has announced approval of a blanket oil lease and operating contract for water flooding part of the Osage Indian reservation in Oklahoma to recover additional oil deposits.

Approval, following three years of negotiation, was announced last night. It is a $50,000,000 project involving 22,000 acres of the North Burbank unit of the reservation.

Negotiations involved the iterior department, its bureau of Indian affairs, the Osage tribal council, and the 14 corporations and six individuals owning leaseholds on the property.

"Both the department and the oil industry," said Indian affairs Commissioner John R. Nichols, "recognize that a single coordinated program for secondary recovery of the petroleum through unitization of such a field with unified management is essential to efficient operation, proper control and maximum recovery of oil."

1/6 Royalty Provided

Since the original lease was signed in 1920, the North Burbank unit has produced 169,000,000 barrels of oil. Estimates for future recovery by the water flood process range from 140,000,000 to 165,000,000 barrels. The interior department said that the land in the unit now is held under 137 separate leases by individuals and corporations.

Under these leases a one-sixth royalty on production has been paid. Under the blanket lease, the same rate will apply up to 20,000,000 barrels, after which a one-eighth royalty will apply.

Government oil experts estimate that it will be 25 to 30 years before this oil field is depleted by the water flood process. Production depths range from 2,900 to 3,300 feet.

Oil reserves in the unit are estimated to be worth up to $375,000,000.

Community's Telephone Lines Offer Fire Alarms And Gossip

FRANKFORT CENTER, N. Y., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Seven miles of line and 28 wall telephones of ancient vintage serve this central New York community as a combination fire alarm system, grapevine and hobby.

The Frankfort Center Telephone Co., known affectionately as "The Peanut Line," is one of the few telephone companies in the nation not seeking a rate increase. It is owned by its 28 subscribers, who make repairs themselves. The line was built by local residents in 1899.

Most subscribers now have conventional phones on city exchanges but are keeping the "Peanut" service as a medium of exchanging neighborhood gossip and sounding fire alarms.

One long ring, produced by vigourous cranking of the handle, will sound an alarm in every home along the line. The sustained ring usually means trouble and the neighbors listen in to see what they can do.

A combination of long and short rings is a social signal—usually a housewife with a tidbit of local news.

British Claimed Weary Of Vitamins Instead Of Steak

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (U.P.) — The average health of English children is better now than before the war despite ten years of food control, according to Sir Jack Drummond, English research director, in a report to the University of Illinois medical school.

Psychologically, however, the British people are feeling the strain of going without palatable foods.

"They are sick of vitamins," he said. "They want a beefsteak."

Locks Of Hair Found Sealed In Old Walnut Tree Unexplainable

CONCORD, N. C., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—A package containing two locks of human hair has been found imbedded inside a 100-year-old tree in Cabarrus county and the mystery shows every sign of remaining unsolved forever.

Lloyd Poplin and his brother, Hugh, estimated by counting the rings in the tree that the package was placed there some 50 years ago. They discovered it when they sawed the old walnut tree up for lumber.

The hair, one small lock of black hair and another of brown, was well sealed against the elements.

It was wrapped in heavy paper, then in somespun cloth, covered with wax and sealed. Then a hole five inches deep was bored in the walnut, the packet was put in the bottom and the hole was plugged with a piece of oak.

Through the years, the healthy walnut covered over the plug and the hair was locked undisturbed.

Graphs And Charts Compiled By RAFB Statistical Service Section

Experts in graphic story presentation in the form of detailed and precise charts could be applied to the section headed by First Lieutenant Rowell A. Wade. In Air Force terminology, the title is known as the statistical service section. The section is responsible for the receiving, auditing, and consolidating of all reports required by this or higher headquarters.

The accurate reporting and story telling in graphs and charts, consists of statistics on number of aircraft available, aircraft maintenance, number of personnel available, work accomplishments in all sections, recreational facilities and innumerable other reports.

Shows Status Of Command

This analytical presentation, showing the status of the command through accurate charting of all phases, is a simple identification method that gives a 100 per cent accurate picture. On these statistics are based the plans and operation of the Air Force at the highest command levels.

Key personnel, assisting Lieutenant Wade, are: First Lt. Raymond J. Chelsea, assistant statistical service officer, M/Sgt. Robert Murphy, NCOIC, and S/Sgt. Charles Ferranti, chief auditor.

Firm To Equip Lubbock Plant

The Palmer Manufacturing corporation will begin the installation of machinery this week for the manufacture of excelsior in Lubbock, the chamber of commerce was advised Saturday.

The installation will be in a building at the wartime South Plains Army Air field and leased to the Palmer corporation by the city, which obtained the structure as war surplus material.

The excelsior made here is to be used in evaporative coolers of which the Palmer corporation is said to be the world's largest manufacturer. The main Palmer plant is in Phoenix, Ariz.

Equipment Value Unknown

The communication to the chamber of commerce contained no information as to the value of the equipment to be installed here nor as to the number of people who would be employed in the manufacture of excelsior. The letter said, however, that plans call for the processing of 16 carloads of aspen logs during the winter and spring.

The plans announced at the time the SPAAF was leased to the Palmer corporation several months ago called for the manufacture of evaporative coolers here. Presumably, this still is the plan.

Thus far, however, the building has been used only as a distributing point for coolers manufactured in Phoenix.

A MEMORY BOOK OF PROGRESS OF LUBBOCK AND THE SOUTH PLAINS 1873 - 1949

One thing that early-day Lubbock lacked, in common with other communities of this area, was native shade trees. They didn't grow on the Plains in sufficient numbers to be of great benefit.

Just 40 years ago, the community set about correcting that deficiency. Some far-sighted, civic-minded citizen whose identity is lost in history suggested the time had come for Lubbock to begin planting trees. Specifically, he urged such improvements on Broadway from the eastern edge of the town to approximately Avenue Q.

This suggestion found a warm response. Before the following Spring some 600 trees of various kinds were set out. And other thoroughfares and private properties were landscaped in a similar way.

The result is that Lubbock has become a city of many beautifully shaded streets and homes—the result of perserverence, hard work, imagination and considerable expense, because practically all the ornamental and useful plantings had to be importations.

They reflect the spirit of people who were determined to make their home the best place possible in which to live—and most residents of Lubbock undoubtedly will concur in the statement that they did their generous share toward making this a highly desirable place for a home.

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS GIVEN

City Schools To Observe Book Week With Displays, Programs

"Make Friends with Books" will be the theme of Book Week to be observed in all Lubbock schools by special displays, programs, and book reviews this week.

At Senior High school, students will be encouraged to build their own home libraries, and every student will be urged to take part in arranging a display to illustrate their favorite book, favorite book character, or incident. These displays will be brought to school and placed at strategic spots throughout the building.

Mrs. R. T. Groves, Senior High librarian, assisted by Mrs. E. M. Lovelace and Mrs. Ivey Warren, will have charge of the week's observance in Senior High school. On Wednesday Mrs. Groves will give the annual Book week contest to all home rooms and a prize will be given for the student giving the best answers to questions on book characters.

Will Show Work

The large display case on the first floor at Senior High school will show the work being done by Mrs. Lovelace and a group of students in book binding and book mending, stressing the care of books and ways students may keep their own books in good condition.

Two all-school assemblies will feature the observance of Book week at J. T. Hutchinson Junior High. Planning the week's activities will be Mrs. Joe Davis as chairman of English and reading teachers and Miss Miriam Turner, Hutchinson librarian. On Wednesday at 3 p. m. three students will present reviews of books at assembly. Miss Betty Furgeson, speech teacher, has assisted students in preparing reviews. Students to take part are: seventh grade, Patricia Rainer, reviewing "Mr. Twiggs Mistake" by Lawson; eight grade, Dorothy Joplin, reviewing "Young Nathan" by Brown; and ninth grade, Marian Hampton, reviewing "Pioneer Preacher" by Berryman.

On Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock Mrs. William C. Mingus will review for the Hutchinson student body "Hound Dog Man" by Fred Gipson. These special assembly programs have been arranged by Mrs. Davis and her committee.

The Hutchinson library will be open during the entire week, Miss Turner said, so that students might enjoy the books, but special displays of prize books of Caldecott and Newberry have been arranged. In addition, library visitors will receive special book marks as long as they last.

Recording Is Made

A special recording of an interview between Stephen Meader, popular author of boys' books, and two teen-age students will be played several times during the week in the library for students from the study hall and activity periods. The week's observance will be opened on Monday morning by Janet Yancy, a Hutchinson student, who will take a talk to the school over the public address system about Book week and the new books in the library which are available to students.

At O. L. Slaton Junior High school, a series of Book week events will be conducted from Monday through Friday and will include daily skits at 9:45 a. m., given over the public address system by students; discussion and reviews by visiting speakers; a motion picture; exchange programs; exhibits, and a tea. Book week plans at that school are under direction of Mrs. J. L. Teal and Miss Pansye Harris. The daily schedule follows:

Monday — Scenes representing favorite books, stories and poems to be set up in library shelves by students, with exhibits remaining on display the rest of the week and blue, red and white ribbons being awarded to winners; 9:45 a. m., skit, "Plans for Book Week."

Tuesday—1 p. m., discussion before several English and reading classes on "Simplicity of Style as Illustrated in the Works of W. H. Hudson," Mrs. Ruth Wilson, instructor in English at Texas Technological college; 9:45 a. m., skit, "History of Book Week."

Wednesday — 9:45 a. m., skit, "Children's Literary Prize Books"; 10 a. m., motion picture, shown in a general assembly in school auditorium; 2:45 p. m., book review, "Hound Dog Man" (Gipson), by Mrs. Mingus; 3:30-4:30 p. m., tea in library for O. L. Slaton Junior High school teachers, for sixth grade teachers of all schools, and for administrators.

Thursday—9:45 a. m., Book review, "Alice in Wonderland" (Lewis Carroll), given by Mrs. Frank Hayne, Senior High school English teacher, in a general assembly; skit, "New Books in the Library"; exchange programs to be presented by English and reading classes.

Friday—9:45 a. m., skit, "Care of Books"; parade of characters from literature, in which students are being encouraged to take part by improvising simple costumes to suggest characters from favorite books, wearing costumes throughout the day and taking part in a parade of book-folk at 3 p. m. in a final assembly.

Observance of Book week in the elementary schools of the city will consist of special displays and visits to school libraries, as well as instruction from teachers on the care and pleasures of books, said Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary education.

Army Chief Collins Sees Forces Ready To Fight In Unity Now

BY DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins believes the armed forces are ready to face any enemy with a solid and unified fighting front.

"When and if there is a showdown — and emergency affecting this country's security," he says, "Then we'll pull together as we always have in combat."

The youthful-looking general — who won the nickname "Lightning Joe" in the last war — reviewed in an interview the military squabble which resulted in Adrimal Louis Denfeld's removal as chief of naval operations.

Collins shied away from the Denfeld case but said he thinks "the air has been cleared considerably" by the armed forces row.

"T some extent," he said, "the dispute has served to let off steam that has been building up pressure for months. The navy had a chance to get some things off its chest—and that's always good."

Blow-Up In Two Ranks

So far as Collins has observed, the blow-up is in the top ranks and hasn't affected the cooperation of the services at the lower levels.

"In the field we get along wonderfully," he said.

"I've seen it in Japan, in Alaska and in Trieste. When the services get out of the field of theory and face a specific and concrete problem — then each does its share."

The squabble has not affected army morale, Collins said.

"The time has come to make it clear the army is ready to fight anywhere, anytime. And I'll guarantee we'll keep the army ready to fight. That's my job and I'm going to see that it is done."

Collins qualifies as an expert on army-navy-air force cooperation in combat. He earned his reputation as "Lightning Joe" on two fronts in the last war.

In the Pacific he commanded the 25th infantry division, which took over from the marines and completed the celan-up of the Japs on Guadalcanal.

Forces Combined

"I got some great air support in that fighting," Collins recalls. "And oddly enough it came from the navy, the marines and the air force all working together. And that's the way it will be next time."

From the Pacific Collins went to Europe for the invasion. He headed the seventh corps under Gen. Omar N. Bradley, now chairman of the joint chiefs. He led the break-through at St. Lo and headed the first army drive into Germany to meet the Russians.

Collins does not think the atomc bomb has changed the basic roles which each service played in the last war. He says it would be dangerous to accept the theory that another war will be won with an atomic air blitz.

"If we think this nation can be blitzed with an atomic attack," he said, "then we are saying we will curl up and quit. That's a defeatist attitude. It leads to indecision and hopelessness. And I just don't believe it."

Collins thinks the armed forces are now going through the same phase in unification that the army passed through years ago.

For years the army was in an uproar with fights between the cavalry, the infantry, the artillery and the air force.

Broad Experience Needed

"We achieved unification in the army in throes of war when each branch of arms learned to depend on the others," Collins said. "It is possible that given time we can develop the same sort of mutual teamwork among all the services."

Collins says the army is approaching the stage where one day all officers will be commissioned in the army as a whole — and not in a particular branch, such as the artillery or the tank corps.

"We need broader experience among officers," Collins said. "The professionals should serve with the field artillery, with the infantry, get experience with tanks and airborne units, and learn supply as well as command."

After gaining general experience, acecording to Collins' theory, an officerd would be assigned to one of the army's branches. Even now, Collins added, army officers are being shifted from one branch to another.

But the trim fighting general protests that he never has favored armed forces merger, as opposed to unification, which he thinks will work smoothly in time.

Position Stated

"Some people have deliberately misrepresetnted my position to make it appear I want merger," he said. "That is not true. It would be foolish to join the forces into an amorphous mass."

There is great development ahead, he believes, in airborne infantry and artillery — and in the use of jet fighters for close support of ground troops.

Collins has carried into his top command a great admiration for the American soldier.

"The two things the American has that the enemy did not have in the last war were initiative and adaptability," he says.

"The American soldier will follow you anywhere on earth — if you do four things:

"First, know your business thoroughly and completely. Second, get down to the troop level and know what is going on. Third, explain what the hell you are driving at. And fourth, look after your men first, last and always.

Operas Slated Here Tuesday, Wednesday

The operatic double-bill, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci," presented by the Charles L. Wagner traveling opera troupe, will appear at the Lubbock High school auditorium for a two-night stand Tuesday and Wednesday.

Presented under the auspices of the Tech artists course, the operas will be open to the public Wednesday night only at an admission charge of $1.80. Tickets may be secured at the Adair Music company for the production, beginning at 8 p.m.

A company of 75 players combined with an orchestra of 30 and a 20-voice mixed chorus make up the traveling troupe, now in its tenth year of taking opera to the smaller cities of the United States.

Known as the "ham and eggs" of the opera business, "Cavalleria Rusticana" (rustic Cavalier) and "I Pagliacci" (The Players) are similar in many respects. Nearly 60 years old, both are the only successful compositions of their respective authors and both deal with the lives, loves, and death of simple Italian peasants.

Among those to sing leading roles in the double bill are Doris Doree, Gertrude Ribla, Marguerite McClelland, Jon Crain, Rafael Lagares and Grant Garnell.

Texas Tech students holding even numbered activity fee receipts will be admitted to the Tuesday performance and those with odd numbered ones on Wednesday, according to R. A. Mills, head of the artists course.

Fish can fast for long periods and should not be fed on journeys taking less than four or five days.

Personnel Management Important Asset To Smooth-Working RAFB

Efficient personnel management is one of the most important assets to a smooth-running organization and the Air Force is no exception. At Reese Air Force Base, Major Samuel W. Newman, Director of Wing Personnel, and his staff of officers and airmen are responsible for everything having to do with the control of personnel, both military and civilian.

Among the duties and positions which come under Major Newman's jurisdiction are: close liaison with the Commanding Officer on all matters pertaining to personnel and personnel administration, the setting up of organizational tables, showing the number of workers and the job specialities needed in each section, the processing of commendations and awards and all other matters related to personnel of the station.

Have Important Task

Necessarily, a large amount of this work is delegated to the officers and enlisted airmen who are, through education and experience, well qualified for the particular duties assigned them. Together they manage and control the placement and morale of over 1790 airmen and 397 officers.

Chief Warrant Officer W. J. Robinson and T-Sgt. J. O. Armstrong who head the enlisted classification and assignment sub-section, are now faced with a most important job, that of putting into effect at LAFB the new "Air Force Career Program." This program, to be initiated by the first of the year, will involve the careful testing, screening, interviewing, selection and placement of the airman in the best position available which will make the fullest possible utilization of his abilities and desires within the limits of service practicabilty. T/Sgt. Clyde Mouchett has the task of orientating squadron officers and classification clerks in the details of the plan.

Major Brown Is Deputy

Deputy to the staff personnel officer is Major D. B. Brown who jokingly claims: "Most people when in trouble go to see the Chaplain, however, I am about the only one the Chaplain comes to see with his troubles." The Major has the task of coordinating all the various sub-sections and especially the control of transfer requests, discharges, line of duty investigations, the monitoring of the maintenance of service records, the accomplishment of effectiveness reports on officers, promotions, reductions, awards and decorations. Other functions which are monitored by Major Brown are personnel accounting, morning reports, recruiting, pay, allotments and allowances for all personnel. M/Sgt. J. H. Cobb is his chief non-com assistant.

Then there is the man whose duty it is to see that the coordinating is coordinated. This burdensome and highly skilled position falls on the shoulders of M/Sgt. William L. Goins, personnel sergeant major, who also carries on several additional duties such as the assignment of quarters to qualifying airmen.

Civilian Personnel Included

The procurement and control of civilian personnel, while a function of staff personnel, is so involved that a complete section headed by Captain Earl E. Starkey is set up to take care of it.

The actual operation of the personnel management control and classification section of staff personnel comes under he able direction of First Lieutenant William A. Ash. He is assisted by First Lieutenant Charles F. Sheridan who handles the precise job of officer assignments. This entails the accurate screening of individual officers and placing them in the best position possible where his abilities are best utilized for the successful accomplishment of the Air Force mission.

Heads Carious Sections

Lieutenant Ash, in turn, delegates details to a staff of well trained group of non-commissioned officers. T/Sgt. J. O. Armstrong is chief clerk of personnel management control and classification, S/Sgt. L. H. Gewin is the non-com in charge of officer classification; T/Sgt. C. Mouchett heads the classification and auditing section and Mrs. Blanche Lanier, a civilian employee, is responsible for the accuracy of the reports section.

The Air Force career program is new, but according to Major Newman, it embraces the same goal that the section has worked toward in the past. "To see that the morale of the command is kept as high as possible through the medium of the things we do. To assure that all personnel are receiving al lthat they are entitled to at the time they are entitled to it. Further, to deal wit hall personnel as individuals rather than numbers."

Government Tightens Curbs On Shipment Of Goods To Russia

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. — The government this week tightened just a little more its control on anything which might help Russia or its allies re-arm or make war.

This is how the control grew.

After the war, while relations with Russia still were pretty good, the only real clamps the government put on goods shipped abroad were on those needed here because they were scarce.

By March, 1948, most of the scarcities had disappeared but relations with Russia had soured.

Controls Are Used

This country didn't want Russia or the other Communist-controlled countries in eastern Europe, part of the Soviet bloc, to receive American goods which might help the bloc get ready for war.

The government—through the State department and the Commerce department—did two things:

The State department took control over what items of direct military aid, like arms or ammunition, could be shipped anywhere.

And the Commerce department drew up a list of items which might be of direct military help to the Soviet bloc—like aviation gasoline or certain machinery.

Special List Revised

This special list of industrial goods then could not be shipped even to Europe without a license by the Commerce department, an export license, it was called.

From time to time since March, 1948, the Commerce department has revised this special list. But as time went on another problem developed.

Supposed a certain kind of machinery—on the list of goods which needed an export license if sent to Europe—could be sent to Latin America without a license and in unlimited amounts.

Then suppose it was re-shipped from there to the Soviet bloc. That left loophole. So a couple of weeks ago the government began putting world controls on some goods which, if they reached the Communists, might help them prepare for war.

RAFB Plays Top Role In Lubbock

Boasts Sizeable Force

Of 105 airplanes currently stationed at RAFB, 82 are Mitchell B-25 twin-engine bombers. Twenty are "Texas" T-6 training planes, two are C-47 transports and one is an L-13 light artillery spotting plane.

These aircraft consume 711,017 gallons of gasoline a month in training and administrative operations.

With 1,921 cadets and airmen and 310 commissioned officers assigned to the base, there are 231 families living on the base and 653 families living in Lubbock.

With the arrival of the first class of flying cadets Oct. 31, the base began performing the task to which it was assigned—training twin-engine bomber pilots.

An advance party of military personnel had arrived at Lubbock as early as last June, and during August the first large detachment came here from Barksdale Air Force base Shreveport, La., to prepare the establishment for opening.

Two Classes Of Training

The 105 cadets who arrived Oct. 31 are of two classifications—"basic-advanced" and advanced. Approximately half, or about 55 of there cadets will be graduated as class 50-A about March 1, 1950. The remainder will be graduated later.

With their training in progress, the base is definitely in full operation.

It is only in scattered and strictly non-essential activities that much work remains to be done.

In recreational matters, mainly, the job is not yet finished. Such activities as women's clubs, day nurseries, enlisted and officers' clubs, athletic competitions and extra-curricular education facilities are not yet operating on the scale they will be in a few months.

Many Requirements Accomplished

It is interesting to review the progress of Lubbock and Lubbock county in carrying out the requirements made when the Air Force agreed to reactivate the west base. Some have been accomplished, some have not.

Briefly, the eight requirements made and the progress made to date in filling them are as follows:

1. All agencies and families were required to be off the base by Aug. 1. This stipulation was met.

2. The buildings they occupied were to be restored or rehabilitated by a federal agency. This was accomplished.

3. One hundred units of non-commissioned officers quarters at maximum rental of $40 per month were required to be ready and available by Nov. 15. The low-rent housing has been met insofar as possible with federal aid, and numerous private individuals are still at work to provide more.

4. Two hundred and fifty units of commissioned officers' quarters at rental of $80 to $100 per month were required to be available by Nov. 15. More than 600 dwelling units in this price range or below are under construction now, scheduled for early completion.

5. The Fourth street extension was to be paved to the base. This will be accomplished as soon as possible, through federal, state and county cooperation.

Use Of Base Studied

6. The Air Force required the use of South Plains airfield (Municipal airport) for use as an auxiliary airfield, not to interfere with operations of commercial airlines. Farming between runways and chicken farming was to be discontinued. At present the City Commission is studying the use of Municipal airport by the Air Force, and farming operations are being discontinued.

7. Adequate bus service to and from the field was required. This has been provided by Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches.

8. The return of Abernathy auxiliary airfield to the Air Force was required. This is being effected, being out of the hands of Lubbock officials.

Colombian Mayor, 11 Others Die In 'Collapse' Of City Hall

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 12. (AP)—The Liberal newspaper El Tiempo said today the newly appointed mayor of Yacopi and 11 others—evidently including troops sent there under the state of siege—had been killed by "the collapse" of the town hall.

(This dispatch, which passed through Colombia censorship, did not explain what caused the collapse.)

Yacopi is in the Cundinamarca department, in which Bogota is situated. Conservative President Marino Ospina Perez imposed the state of siege Wednesday with the explanation that it was intended to halt bloodshed in political fighting between Conservatives and Liberals.

consul general left the ship first, returning to his New York office, and was followed there by Kutylowski, who reported: "We succeeded."

Court Refuses Extradition

When Eisler's presence aboard the Batory was revealed, the U.S. government tried to have him returned to American jurisdiction, but an English court refused to grant extradition. Eisler is now a high-ranking official of the Communist-dominated East German government.

The sub-committee which heard Trzecieski also examined the president of the Polish line, but Kutylowski pleaded a lapse of memory when asked whether he had visited Consul General Galewicz after the Batory sailed with Eisler on May 6. Kutylowski said:

"I don't know. I really cannot tell you. Excuse me, please, but there is nothing that I can say that I can remember that would indicate that I went."

Propaganda Program Revealed

Kutylowski, however, confirmed testimony of Trzecieski that the Polish line, at the instigation of the New York consul general, had financed propaganda radio programs in the New York city area. Of three script writers employed at different times, Kutylowski said two were recommended by the consul general and one by the Polish ambassador in Washington.

The line president said that the hour-length programs, which cost $300 per week, were aimed at having "the people understand that everything is not bad in Poland and they shouldn't take the attitude of condemning everything."

Kutylowski testified that at least one of the scropt writers was "in the pay of the Polish embassy or consulate at the time he was writing."

He admitted that the Polish government owns "98½ per cent" of the Gdynia-America stock but denied that it actually formulates policy for the line.

Tech Student Gains Fourth Place Honors In Rodeo Event

Raymond Haby, Texas Tech student, was fourth place winner in the saddle bronc riding contest at the National Intercollegiate rodeo which ended Saturday at Texas A.&I. college in Kingsville, according to an Associated Press dispatch last night.

Sul Ross State college's rodeo team more than doubled the score of its nearest opponent to take top honors in the rodeo. The Sul Ross team from Alpine amassed a total of 551 points. In second place was Texas A.&I. with 244. Oklahoma A.&M. was third with 237 points, and Texas A.&M. college was fourth with 177.

Hard riding Harley May, Sul Ross star, won all-round champion cowboy honors with 254 individual points. To May went the $2,000 quarter horse put up by the King Ranch for the all around champion, according to the AP dispatch.

Winning contestants in addition to Texas Tech's Raymond Haby in the saddle bronc riding event were: First, Harley May of Sul Ross; second, Buster Lindley of Sul Ross; third, Bob Roberts of Oklahoma A.&M. and fourth, Haby.

Chinese Reds Forge Ahead In Campaign To Split Nationalists

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Chinese Communists drove ahead today in their campaign to split the Nationalist holdings on the mainland.

Official Nationalist reports said the Reds were within 75 miles east of Kweiyang, capital of Kweichow province.

Kweichow lies between Chungking's Szechwan province and the province.

Nationalist forces in Kiwangsi

If the Reds take Kweiyang, 200 miles by air south of Chungking, they will have divided the Nationalists for all practical purposes. One remaining road between Szechwan and Kwangsi bypasses Kweiyang, but it is so poor it is almost useless.

The Nationalist defense ministry said the Reds had taken Kwangping, 75 miles east of Kweiyang and pressed on towards Kangan, five miles farther, but were being heavily opposed.

Injunction Bans New Mexico Share-Expense Ride Measure

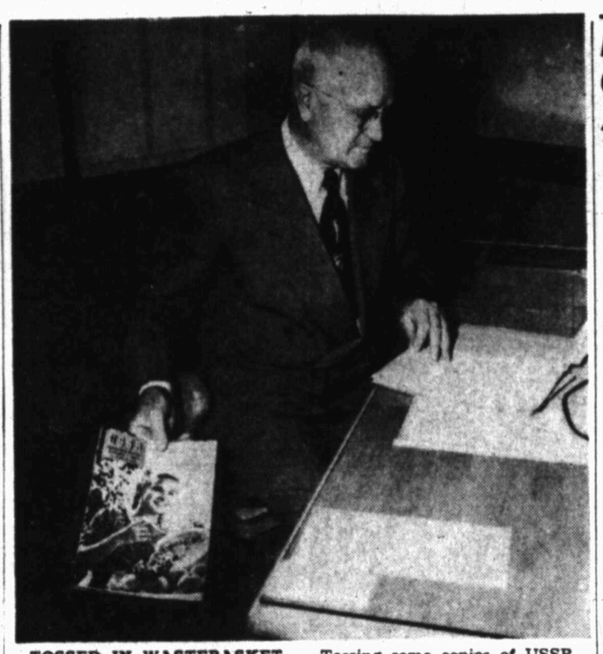

SANTA FE, Nov. 12 (AP)—The 1949 share-expense ride law was laid to rest today by a permanent injunction banning its enforcement.

District Judge David Carmody granted the injunction which has the effect, attorneys said, of throwing out the law.

Assistant Attorney General Philip Dunleavy, representing defendant state corporation commissioners, indicated that an appeal probably will be forthcoming, however.

DRUCIE SNYDER TO WED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (INS)—Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. John W. Snyder today announced the engagement of their daughter, Edith Cook (Drucie) Snyder, to Maj. John Ernest Horton, U. S. A. No date has been set for the wedding, but it may take place shortly after Christmas.

TOSSED IN WASTEBASKET — Tossing some copies of USSR into a wastebasket, Supt. R. W. Matthews turned his attention to other things. The propaganda shall not reach the shelves of Lubbock High school library, both the superintendent and president of board of trustees have stated. (Staff Photo.)

be detected by high school youth."

Informed late Saturday at his office in Lubbock postoffice building that copies of a Soviet bulletin had been received at Senior High school, Congressman George Mahon wrote letters before leaving his office to the United States Office of education, the secretary of state and the postmaster general regarding the bulletin.

Whether USSR bulletins are being distributed widely to schools was not known here, but the fact that Lubbock high school is on the mailing list led to the belief at Lubbock High school that other schools also are receiving copies.

Congressman Mahon, who arrived in his district following adjournment of Congress and opened an office in Lubbock said he had not seen a copy of the bulletin previously and had not had an opportunity to examine it.

"I know that the Russian press and Russian statements generally are completely untrustworthy and I think it would be a tragic thing to see the minds of the youth of our country poisoned by mis-statements from Moscow, and I am urging the State department and other appropriate agencies of the government to take immediate steps to prevent the infiltration.

"Of course," he added, "The United States is engaged in a terrific propaganda war through various publications which are distributed abroad and through the 'Voice of America' by which we undertake to beam to Russian citizens and other citizens of the world the truth about the United States. In our 'Voice of America' program, we undertake to offset the erroneous and misleading statements which are circulating here and abroad by Soviet Russia.

"This is a part of the cold war."

In his letter to the Postmaster General, he requested information on postal laws and regulations with respect to distribution of propaganda by foreign countries through U. S. mails.

The first USSR information bulletin to arrive at Lubbock High school was received in September in the library. Mrs. R. T. Groves, librarian threw it into a wastebasket. The copy was thought to be a sample copy. When other copies arrived, they were referred to the superintendent's office.

Stories in an October issue of the bulletin were "Soviet Union Asks Immediate UN Action To Outlaw Atomic Bombs;" Text of Tass Statement on Atomic Energy;" "Budapest Trial Was Victory for Peace, Says Pravda Editorial;" "Treaty Denounced by USSR;" "Stability of Soviet Ruble Emphasized by Capital Monetary Crisis;" "Honored And Well Paid Scientists of USSR Are Encouraged by the State;" "Racks of USSR's 250,000 Libraries Hold 500 Million Volumes;" "Labor Specialization, Mechanization Assure Collective Farming's Success;" "State Farms Pour Out Food on Factory-Like Basis;" "Ancient Yaroslavl Will Mark Its 925th Anniversary;" "USSR Note Reiterates Charges Italy Violates Peace Pact;" "Russian Scientist's Work in 1871 Upset 'Superior Race' Theory;" "New Book Shows How Volga Peasants Improved Lives Under Socialism;" "USSR Track and Field Championships Decided in Moscow Meet" and "A Moscovite's Dairy."

Chicago Doctors Lose Fight For Life Of New Mexico Baby

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)— Doctors lost their fight today to save little Susan Joy Pershall, daughter of a Marine corporal whose mother lives at Clovis, N. M.

It was a fight which the doctors had said would be hopeless.

The 7½ months old baby died of pneumonia in the Great Lakes Naval hospital. She had been flown there Oct. 25 when her condition became critical from a muscular disease complicated by the pneumonia.

Son Of Gregg County Sheriff Accidentally Kills Self On Hunt

BURNET, Nov. 12. (AP)—James Crawford, 17, son of Sheriff Noble Crawford of Gregg county, accidentally shot himself to death with a pistol near here today.

Justice of the Peace Ham Heffington said young Crawford was shot while he was "twirling or playing with his father's pistol in some manner."

Heffington's verdict was "accidental death."

The shooting occurred on the Alfred Barton ranch, 15 miles northeast of this Central Texas town at 10:30 a.m.

Crawford, his son, and a number of other Longview residents had come to the ranch for a deer-hunting trip.

Soviets Assail Use Of A-Bomb

offered two years ago to open wide its doors to international atomic control and inspection—and the offer still stands, the Associated Press reported.)

Repeats Atomic Claims

Vishinsky, evidently smarting from doubts and suggestions of "bluff" by delegates on his claim to large-scale uses of atomic energy in Russia said:

"The fact is we are using atom energy for large-scale explosive projects. This involves explosions. I did not talk about 'moving' mountains. I talked about blowing up mountains. I said there was large-scale explosive work going on in my country. These tasks are carried out with the help of atomic energy. We use it to explode mountains and not just to shake the air. That would be economically unprofitable."

A moment later Vishinsky turned to Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan and said:

Red Chides Britain

"I know that Britain has not received a shadow of a hint of how the atomic bomb is constructed. Isn't that right? Perhaps Mr. Cadogan will correct me. We Russians didn't get any co-operation from any source in producing the atomic bomb. We were left to our own resources.

"With our own hands, with the sweat of our own brows, and standing squarely on Soviet achievement, we discovered the atom bomb secret in 1947. But you wouldn't believe us. It is the same now as two years ago. You and your scientists are consoling each other after saying the secret would not be solved until 1952, but we had it in 1947."

Vishinsky tore again into the Baruch plan as unacceptable "Anglo-American attempt to monopolize world control of atomic materials." He refuted western allegations that Russia refuses to open her border to inspection but said that the Baruch plan seeks to remove every vestige of sovereign right from individual governments.

Won't Give Up Sovereignty

(In his comments claiming that Russia had offered to participate in an international atomic control and inspection plan, Vishinsky finally told the special political committee of the UN Assembly, however, that Russia never would give up one bit of its soil to ownership by any international commission, the Associated Press said.

He said also, in his speech, that Russian requirements for atomic energy are "tremendous, and they are growing."

The Associated Press also reported:

(Vishinsky made it clear the Rusians and the Western Powers speak a different language when they talk of the meaning of Control.

(That is the nub of the atomic problem here.

(In saying that the Russians are willing to open up for atomic inspection and control Vishinsky referred to the Soviet proposal for an international atomic commission presented June 11, 1947.

(That Russian plan was debated thoroughly in the UN Atomic Energy commission and was turned down. It went up to the Assembly by the way of Soviet proposals for a control system and was defeated there.

(Vishinsky said the Soviet plan has the strongest provisions for control. The Western Plan, he argued, does not provide for prohibition of the atomic bomb and for control. The western plan has been approved by the General Assembly, 40 votes to 6.

(Answering Hickerson's speech yesterday that the West considers the Soviet proposals inadequate and without provision for sufficient inspection, Vishinsky said this reasoning is erroneous.

(Gesturing as usual and shaking his head, the Soviet foreign minister said:

("There is no warrant for his stating that we refuse to open up our territory for inspection. We open our doors wide to control.")

The 30-year-old ruler will take off Tuesday for his first visit to America. As a guest of President Truman, his visit in many respects will be similar to that reecntly concluded by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India.

NEWS BRIEFS

Condition of Lubbock Fire Chief William E. Twitty, 62, last night was reported "very good" by attendants at West Texas hospital where he was taken about 12:30 a.m. Saturday after his car hit an abutment in the East Broadway underpass. Chief Twitty was leading fire equipment to a blaze at the Lubbock Cotton gin at 1301 Ave. A at the time of the accident. He suffered a broken nose, several broken ribs, and numerous face lacerations.

Lee Williams, 69, of 1401 Ave. G, suffered a broken left hip and left shoulder when he fell on the front steps of his home shortly before 9:30 p.m. Saturday. His condition was listed as "fair" at West Texas hospital where he was taken by McDonald ambulance.

Dr. and Mrs. R. N. Lipscomb are leaving for Georgetown, where Dr. Lipscomb will meet with the board of trustees of Southwestern university on Tuesday. Dr. and Mrs. Lipscomb plan to travel to Marlin and Houston to visit relatives during the trip. They will be gone about ten days. Dr. Lipscomb, now retired, is a former pastor of the First Methodist church.

Steel Plants Gear

however, will not get back into full production until supplies become readily available.

The agreement reached between CIO-United Steelworkers President Philip Murray and the industry was a compromise.

The labor leader originally demanded a 30-cent "package" calling for a 12½ cent an hour wage increase in addition to pensions and social insurance.

What he succeeded in getting—occasioned by repeated interventions by the White House, recommendations by a presidential fact-finding board, and a long strike—was $100 monthly pensions paid by the companies and a share-the-cost insurance program.

The strike front began to crumble when Bethlehem worked out such a settlement and it was accepted by the union two weeks ago. Then "little steel" took turns falling into line, and finally yesterday after two days of close bargaining, "big steel" came to terms.

The agreements establish pension and social insurance on a five-year basis, but management can ask for an adjustment after two years. The union can request no such change.

Also provided for is a pre-opening clause for next year at which time either party may ask for wage adjustments.

24,000 Bushels Of Wheat Spill As Grain Elevators Collapse

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 12. (AP). Twenty-four thousand bushels of wheat spilled here late today when a 50-foot elevator collapsed at the Berend Brothers feed-seed-grain plant and pushed another elevator down.

The second elevator was empty.

The accident occurred when workmen began moving wheat out of the central elevator, one of three at the plant. The workers heard rivets on the steel plating popping off and cleared the area promptly. The loaded elevator collapsed about half an hour later.

The third elevator, also loaded with 24,000 bushels of this year's wheat crop, remained standing.

Killed was Judy Maureen Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack T. Jones of Dallas, both of whom were injured. Mrs. Jones was reported in serious condition at Methodist hospital.

Also injured were three-year-old Martha Jones; Robert T. Jones, 43; Mrs. Webb Jones, 49, and Birdie Jones, 42.

Highway patrolmen said the Jones car swerved to avoid collision with another vehicle and crossed in the path of the oncoming truck.

One Dead As Dallas City Bus Collidies With Negro Ambulance

DALLAS, Nov. 12. (AP).— A city bus rammed into the side of a negro ambulance here today, killing the ambulance driver and critically injuring his companion.

It was Dallas' eighth traffic death in 12 days.

The ambulance was crushed between the bus and a power pole after a collision at an intersection in East Dallas. The ambulance burst into flames before the driver, Howard Smith, 21-year-old negro, could be rescued. He died half an hour later.

Ocie Johnson, 25-year-old negro riding with Smith, is in a critical condition from burns and injuries

Police Recover Stolen Autos

Several cars recently stolen in Lubbock and the South Plains area have been recovered, police said Saturday and three more were reported stolen late Saturday night.

One of the cars, stolen here Oct. 31 from Jack Godfrey of route 6, was reported recovered at Big Spring. Big Spring police incormed Captain of Detectives Pat Davidson here that a suspect had been arrested in connection with the case.

The car was found on a Big Spring street earlier in the week and placed in storage. Later the suspect allegedly was found driving a car that had been reported stolen at Westbrook and when arrested was found to have ignition keys to the Lubbock car in his pocket, Davidson was told. Charges may be filed against the suspect here, it was indicated.

Car Left In Street

Another car, a 1946 Buick stolen from Mrs. J. D. Hassel, jr., of 3307 Twenty-fourth Thursday, was recovered abandoned on a San Antonio Street Friday.

A car stolen at Littlefield was found in 100-block Ave. O by Patrolmen Pete Hubbard and J. C. Smith. It was a 1947 light coupe.

A truck stolen at Lorenzo was recovered in the Queen city negro residential section of Lubbock Saturday. Officials were holding a negro in connection with the theft and indicated he would be turned over to Lorenzo authorities.

A green 1941 Chevrolet sedan, license number AS 6030, was reported stolen from the 1400 block of Texas Avenue. E. M. Copp, of 608 Twenty-third street, Lubbock made report.

Hale Center and Brownfield reported car thefts.

Car Truck Stolen

A 1935 black Ford coach, license AN 7220, was taken at Hale Center, a 1941 black Chevrolet ton-and-a-half truck from Brownfield.

The Levelland sheriff's office reported a black 1941 Ford sedan, license AP 1361, was stolen from there Saturday, and a Wisconsin man reported a car stolen in Littlefield.

Three persons entered pleas Saturday in Judge Walter Davies' county court.

Troy Glyn Brodrick, 25, who gave police an address in the 1300-block Ave. N, was fined $200 and costs on a plea of guilty of impersonating an officer; Herman Rackley, about 60, of Houston, was fined $100 and costs on a plea of guilty of possession of a pistol; Woodrow Johnson, 29, a negro pleaded innocent of possession of wine for purposes of sale. Bond of $500 was set in the case.

Cigaret Theft Reported

Theft of 100 cartons of cigarets headed a list of similar complaints lodged with police during the day.

The cigarets were taken from Donald Robertson of 3217 Twenty-second as he was filling a cigaret-vending machine at a drugstore in the Queen City section of the city.

Other thefts included a German type automatic pistol and two gallons of anti-freeze, taken from Ralph E. Denny of 602 Ave. N; several articles of clothing, stolen by burglars from the home of Johnnie Aguirre at 105 Ave. O; and "several articles" taken in Lubbock Monday from the car of a Ropesville man, I. P. Miller.

Car Involved In Crash

Miller said he missed the property after his car had been involved in a collision with a Latin-American youth.

Kligman secondhand store at 1215 Ave. H was not entered by persons who attempted to cut a hole in a plate-glass window there, police said.

Robert Lee Wilkerson, 23, a negro arrested early Saturday in connection with the stabbing of another negro, Marice Washington, 23, of 101 East Twenty-second, was fined $15 for disturbance, Corporation court officials said.

The cutting happened outside a dance. Washington was released after treatment at Lubbock Memorial hospital.

James Hopkins, 21, also a negro, was charged with aggravated assault upon Odessa Duty, a negro woman. He has not entered a plea.

Sam H. Johnston, 83 of 2102 Ave. K was fined $50 following his plea of guilty to charges of gambling, police said.

A 27-year-old Lubbock woman, Freddie Louise Stanton, was arrested in the 600-block Fourteenth on a charge of selling merchandise on city property. She was fined $15 on a plea of guilty.

Bond of $750 was posted by Alonzo Allen Hailey, 32, of San Diego, Calif., charged with child desertion, the sheriff's office reported.

Pulling Prices Cut

machines to go over their fields after pullers have been through once.

However, if the weather next week is bad, resulting in a further decrease in grade, indications at the meeting were that prices for pulling might drop even more.

Th Shallowater prices set were the same as those agreed upon by Wilson farmers in a meeting in that community Friday afternoon. The same results were reported from a meeting in the Petersburg area, also.

FARMERS IN SLATON AREA REDUCE PRICES

Farmers of the Slaton community Saturday afternoon set price of cotton pulling at $1.50 per hundred for the first pulling and $1.75 for the second pulling.

The group of about 150 men, representing all parts of the community, met in the Slaton City Hall auditorium.

Price of weighing and hauling will be added to the prices set by the farmers, said J. B. Kitten, who presided at the meeting.

History On Base

the field the post had five commanding officers: Col. Thomas L. Gilbert, from Nov. 19, 1941, until March 23, 1943; Col. Ralph G. Holmes, from March 23, 1943 until June 27, 1944; Col. Howell M. Estes, jr., from June 27, 1944 until Nov. 15, 1945; Col. Harold N. Holt, from then until about Dec. 15, 1945; and Lt. Col. William G. Snaith, during closing weeks of the base.

LAAF officially became a "sub-base of Goodfellow field, San Angelo, as of midnight Dec. 31, 1945," it was announced by Lt. Col. Snaith.

Approximately 100 military personnel and 60 civilians completed the process of sending out records and supplies.

Served As Sub-Base

After the temporary inactivation was carried out, a standby force of three or four officers and three enlisted men remained along with about 60 civilians to maintain the field as a sub-base. Lt. Col. James M. Hunter of Salt Lake City, Utah, was the standby commanding officer of the sub-base, with six or seven enlisted men to help him.

In the fall of 1945 the AAF released a list of permanent installations which did not include LAAF and the inactivation was ordered originally for Nov. 15, 1945, but it was held up three or four times until the final date.

For the next four years the base was destined to serve as a haven for veterans and their families who experienced housing difficulties. Barracks were converted to low-rental apartment units. Other buildings served needed purposes as meeting places for National Guard, Air Corps Reserve and Naval Reserve units. Vegetable gardens sprang up on drill fields where men had marched, and children skated and rode bicycles where big bombers had landed.

Coal Peace Urged

"that John Lewis will attempt to impose upon the American people another coal strike Dec. 1 as he has threatened to do." Lewis called a three-weeks breather in the walkout last Wednesday.

The overnight puncture of the big steel strike gave no hint of bringing peace in the coal tieup.

Lewis is squeezed into a tight corner by the operators' solid front. Their contract expired June 30.

The question now is: How will he extricate himself and his followers? He has been in tough spots before and always came out with a shiny new concession for his miners clutched in his hand.

Doctor's Wife Kills Self After Shooting Two Children To Death

WINNEMUCCA, Nev., Nov. 12. (INS) — The Winnemucca sheriff's office reported today that the wife of a physician shot and killed two of her three children and then killed herself in a blaze of gunfire at the doctor's Winnemucca home.

The third child, only two months old, was reported to have been drugged by the mother but is expected to recover.

The woman, Mrs. Lin S. Felder, was described as "despondent" but the sheriff's office gave no reason for her despondency.

Bodies of the mother and her two children, John, and Lin, jr., 10, were discovered by Mrs. Felder's father, Rex Allen, shortly after midnight.

Dr. Felder was in Battle mountain, 20 miles east of Winnemucca, on a visit to a patient at the time of the tragedy.

Second Victim Of Wreck Claimed

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 12. (Spl.).—Dwayne James, 12, of Hobbs, N. M., died about 11 a.m. today in Treadaway-Daniell hospital here from serious injuries received in a car-train crash at a highway-railroad track intersection on the northern edge of Brownfield about 6:15 p.m. Friday.

His was the second death resulting from the accident. His brother, Sammie James, 15, was killed apparently instantly when the heavy 1940 coupe in which the two boys and their father, Norman James, about 45, also of Hobbs, were riding crashed into a freight train which was switching.

Similar Crash Reported

The deaths of the two teen-age boys brings the total fatalities resulting from car-train collisions in this area in less than a week's time to four persons. Two members of a Latin-American family were killed and three others of their family injured in a similar crash Wednesday on the outskirts of Anton.

The total number of traffic deaths over the South Plains area for the year now stands at 76, 19 of which have occurred within the past 14 days. Twelve of these 19 persons have died within the past seven days.

The father of the two boys tonight remained in critical condition in the local hospital, where he and the two boys were carried by an ambulance of Brownfield Funeral home soon after the wreck occurred.

Hospital attendants said tonight James' condition was virtually unchanged from Friday night. He is suffering two broken legs, one of which is crushed in several places, a severely injured hip, and possible internal injuries.

Mrs. Norman James, mother of the two boys and wife of the injured man, came to Brownfield from the family home in Hobbs Friday night.

Brownfield Funeral home said tonight that funeral arrangements for the two boys have not yet been completed.

Survivors in addition to the parents include a brother, Homer James of Hobbs; and three sisters, Mrs. Bonnie Fae Moyer of Hobbs, Mrs. G. D. Shirley of Hobbs, and Mrs. F. R. Cory of Monahans.

Air Installations Inherits All The 'Headaches' Of All Other Sections

If there is one section on Reese Air Force Base which suffers from the "headaches" of all the other sections, it is air installation. Whether it is a light switch that is not working, a board loose on a building, a heating unit to be installed, grass to be cut, or one of the million other things which are needed to keep the approximately 350 buildings and 1635 acres of ground that comprise Reese Air Force Base in perfect condition, it is this section which is responsible.

Under the supervision of Lt. Col. Charles V. Eld of Pittsburgh, Pa., this air installation section employs a small "army" of workers, 144 airmen and 81 civilians. They design and construct new buildings, maintain present buildings, roads, streets and runways. In order to carry out their mission, they maintain carpenter shops, an electrical shop, plumbing shops and have a large corps of plumbers, heating and refrigeration experts and painters. They maintain a drafting section where plans are drawn up and specifications noted. This section also has the responsibility of garbage and refuse disposal, water treatment and beautification of grounds. During the month of September, 794 work requests were submitted to Colonel Eld's office and work was completed on them.

Col. Eld Is Officer

Colonel Eld is well qualified as an installations officer. He is a veteran of nine years in the Air Force, serving in the Caribbean area with the 6th Air Force during world war II. His assistant is Capt. James L. Way of Lincoln, Neb., a veteran of 30 combat missions. The engineering and operations officer is Capt. Cyril E. Nichols and the commanding officer of the squadron is Maj. David B. Moody of Cleveland, Ohio.

All of these officers are now living with their families in Lubbock, Colonel Eld at 2006 Avenue S; Captain Way at 3008 Fortieth; Captain Nichols at the Plaza apartments and Major Moody at 2000 Thirty-fourth.

In air installation, as in every section, enlisted airmen play an important part in maintaining the function of the section. S/Sgt. Percy C. Mooney, a veteran of 23 years service, who spent seven years with engineering units in the Army and Air Force, heads the list of airmen in the section. Each man assigned to the section is carefully chosen for his knowledge or adaptability for the work he is to do.

Bell Captain At California Hotel Finds Job Satisfying

LONG BEACH, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—Twenty-six years ago John Pruden found work that suited him. He's been "hopping bells" ever since. "Some men go through life and never find the job they enjoy," says Pruden. "I may be a professional parasite—but I love it. I've been offered other positions, but when a man finds the job he's happy doing he should hang on to it."

John is bell captain at the Lafayette Hotel, and he'll have you know that there's a difference between a bell hop and a bell man. "Any hick from the sticks," as he puts it, can grab a suitcase and be a bell boy. You become a bell man when you realize the important thing is to keep the guest happy.

His biggest tip? An automobile from a guest (whom he won't name) who had to leave town suddenly and liked Johnny's service.

Mans 50-Cent Raffle Ticket Pays Off With $17,500 Home

DETROIT, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Stanley Thomas approached a fellow factory worker, Murray Rowland, and demanded the 50 cents Rowland had owed him for two weeks.

"What 50 cents?" Rowland asked.

"For that house I bought you," Thomas said. "Remember that ticket on the house raffle I sold you and you didn't have any dough at the time?"

"Yes," said Rowland, and after hurriedly paying off, went out to inspect the new six-room $17,500 home he had just won.

Clergy Up In Arms About Sign Above Door Of English Tavern

WEST MALVERN, England, Nov. 12 — (A) The new sign outside the Lamb Inn has local clergymen and brewers squabbling. Sign-boards depicting animals, birds and historic figures traditionally swing in front of inns. The one at the Lamb Inn shows a lamb with a halo bearing the banner of the cross.

"It is an a front to Christians," complained the Rev. L. D. Hepenstall, demanding the sign's removal. "It is the Christian emblem of the risen Lord."

"The sign is a copy of one used for centuries," retorted the inn's brewer-owners. "Inns used the sign to convey sympathy with the Crusades, and to show that the innkeeper would be glad to tend pilgrims on their way to holy shrines."

British Youths Planning Chute Jumps From Above 35,000 Feet

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Do you want to know how it feels to fall more than 30,000 feet? Four 23-year-old British youths hope to have the answer next year by attempting delayed parachute jumps from above 35,000 feet.

Among them the four have chalked up more than 300 training jumps from low and medium altitudes. For their big attempt—in which they plan to drop from 35,000 feet to below 3,000 before opening their special parachutes—they will use oxygen masks and carry various recording instruments.

This jump, they say, should contribute valuable information on the medical aspects of free falls from high altitudes. It should also give them a claim to an unofficial world record for delayed drops.

Texas Christian Hands Steers 14-13 Defeat

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL
Sports
Lubbock, Texas, Sunday, November 13, 1949

Accurate Toe Of Ludiker Brings Win

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—Homer Ludiker's expert toe brought Texas Christian a 14-13 victory over Texas before 40,000 fans here today.

Outfighting Texas most of the way, the TCU Horned Frogs won their second Southwest Conference game against two defeats. It was Texas' third league loss against two victories. The Longhorns have lost the three by a total of four points.

Strong defenses and the inability of pass receivers to hold on to the ball made for a dull first half, but the last two quarters produced plenty of fire works.

Berry Scores on Run

Texas took the lead, 7-0, in the third frame on Paul Campbell's touchdown pass to End Ben Proctor and Randall Clay's conversion.

TCU pounded right back, and the great Lindy Berry scored on a sparkling 33-yard run behind fine blocking. The Frogs capitalized on a penalty that gave them the ball on Texas' one-yard line, Fullback John Morton ramming through the middle to score.

The Campbell-to-Proctor combination spanned 63 yards in a hurry, the great end pulling in a 21-yard toss in the end zone. Clay's try-for-point was wide.

Texas appeared headed for victory in the final wild minutes of the game. The Longhorns kicked off short and End Rudy Bauman

SMU Beats Hogs; Rice Wins 13-0

Walker Scores Three Times For 34 To 6 Pony Victory

DALLAS, Nov. 12. (AP)—That man Doak Walker shocked Arkansas into a 34-6 defeat today as Southern Methodist clung to a bare chance of the Southwest Conference football championship.

The great one scored three touchdowns and passed for another with a typical Walker show. He also booted three extra points.

A crowd of 42,000 roared approval of the All-America's mighty play.

SMU Storms 240 Yards

The Methodists stormed to 240 yards on the ground and 177 passing to thoroughly pulverize the Razorbacks.

Arkansas did well on the ground with 136 yards as Geno Mazzanti showed dripping power over guards and center. In the air the Razorbacks netted only 55 yards on four completions.

Kyle Rote, the hardest-running back in the conference, gave Walker valuable aid in strapping the Razorbacks, but it was the three touchdowns engineered in nine minutes of the first quarter by the Methodist All-America that broke Arkansas' back.

It was a vicious but clean ball game.

Walker led the gainers with 98 yards running and 113 passing. The chief ball-carrier, however, was the bull-like Mazzanti, who plowed through the Methodist line 16 times for 110 yards. Rote made 90 yards rushing.

Walker Passes Connect

The first SMU score came after passes from Walker to Raleigh Blakely and Zohn Milam had eaten up 38 yards and put the ball on the Arkansas one-foot stripe. Walker blasted right guard for the score but missed the conversion.

A short Arkansas kick into the wind gave SMU the pigskin on the Razorback 44 to set up the second score. Rote cut over right tackle for a touchdown. He converted. The next score came like lightning. Arkansas had to kick and from the SMU 46. Walker lofted a long pass to Johnny Champion on the Razorback 15 and he ran across for the touchdown.

Arkansas was not an impotent ball club at all. The Razorbacks started out like they would blow SMU from the Cotton Bowl, parading with the kickoff down to the SMU 36 before being halted.

In the second period the Porkers got to the SMU 34 after intercepting a pass but bogged down. Then came the 50-yard scoring drive.

SMU was touchdown bound early in the second period, driving to the Arkansas 25, but Rote fumbled to mess it up.

The Razorbacks prevented another SMU score early in the fourth period when Tracy Scott intercepted a Benners pass behind the goal line and ran the ball out to his 23. The Methodists had paraded to the 26.

After an exchange of kicks, the Razorbacks pulled themselves together for the last surge that carried to the Methodist five before the Methodists could put a stop to it. In this drive Mazzanti was a raging, smashing demon.

I. D. Russell and Fred Hightower led the SMU defensive play with Center Bob Griffin sparking the Arkansas line.

Baylor Trounces Wyoming, 32 To 7

WACO, Nov. 12. (AP)— Baylor methodically ruined Wyoming's undefeated, untied record today, 32-7, as an 88-yard touchdown run by Bobby Griffin broke the Cowboy's heart.

When the 175-pound Houston senior gathered in Eddie Talboom's pass on his own 12-yard line and ran it back all the way, Wyoming wilted.

Until this explosive incident early in the third period, the Cowboys had been a dangerous threat, trailing by a single touchdown. But they yielded another tally this same period and with less than two minutes to play gave up one more.

Methodical Job

It was a workmanlike job, with only fleeting moments of the spectacular. One was Griffin's long run. Another was Milford Johnson's 45-yard punt return for Baylor's final score.

The Bears used passing to set up three of their five touchdowns, but scored all on the ground. Wyoming's lone tally came at the end of a 10-play, 55-yard march on the ground. Walker Jones climaxed it by scoring from the two-yard line.

Jerry Mangum smashed a half-yard for Baylor's first touchdown in the second period, minutes later, James Jeffrey went 12 yards for another.

Lyle Blackwood counted the Bear's fourth touchdown from the eight yard line after Adrian Burk's 41-yard pass to Dudley Parker highlighted the 92-yard drive.

Pass Defense Leaks

Wyoming struck back after the Bears' second score, with Carl Rollins and Jones alternating in the march. Jones picked up 33 yards on four carries and Carl Rollins 22 on three.

Henry Dickerson kicked two extra points for Baylor and Talboom booted one for Wyoming.

Wyoming had rolled up 343 to 27 for eight opponents until today. Their pass defense was the best in the nation, but it leaked for 153 yards today. The Cowboy line bent under an assortment of backs that gained 200 yards rushing.

The Cowboys picked up 142 yards rushing and 29 yards passing.

SMU's CAGER INJURED

DALLAS, Nov. 12 (AP)—An old back injury has lost Percy Penn, letterman forward, to the Southern Methodist basketball squad for the season. He suffered the injury last season.

Colorado Bows To New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 12. (INS)—New Mexico's Lobos scored an upset over Colorado university of the Big Seven Conference at Aubuquerque today, 17 to 15, before a crowd of 8,000. It was New Mexico's second win in an many meetings with the Buffalos.

The air defense of Colorado, New Mexico's ground attack and numerous fumbles tagged the contest as a hit-and-miss affair.

Colorado began the scoring in the second quarter when Jerry McKown of the Lobos dropped a bad pass from center behind his own goal line, and the Buffs recovered for a safety.

Later in the same period, Sam Winningham intercepted a Lobo pass on his own 17. Gerald Apuzzo carried the ball to the 26, and John Reece picked up eight yards to the 34. Sophomore Merwin Hodel broke loose on the next play for 67 yards and a score. Colorado drew a penalty and Ed Pudlik missed the conversion.

The last Buff score was set up when Chuck Hill fumbled on his own 15, and Colorado recovered, with Bob Manire passing to John Strobel for the touchdown. The Buffs again drew a penalty before the try for extra point, which failed.

The Lobos bounced back after intermission to score on Herbie Hughes' pass to Wilson Knapp. McKown converted.

Three plays later, Apuzzo fumbled on his own seven, and the Lobos recovered. Hughes passed to Bill Speer for the score, and the conversion was good.

Late in their third, the Lobos staged a downfield drive which stalled on the Colorado 12, but

Rote's Passing And Smooth Defense Too Much For Aggies

HOUSTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Two scampering halfbacks and a stout second half defense gave the Rice Owls a 13 to 0 victory over Texas A. & M. today before a capacity crowd of 31,000. It was Rice's fourth consecutive Southwest Conference victory in as many starts.

Sophomore Halfback Billy Burkhalter climaxed first half drives of 64 and 41 yards by plunging one yard for both touchdowns. End James (Froggie) Williams missed the first extra point try, but kicked the second.

Burkhalter, Wyatt Pace Drive

Passes by Tobin Rote did most of the damage for the second tally, late in the second period, but it was the running of Burkhalter and Halfback Sonny Wyatt that caused the Aggies most of their misery.

A 64-yard quick-kick by Halfback Glenn Lippman and Yale Lary's punting out on the Owl two put the Rice team in the hole most of the second half. But the Owls kept the Aggies under control by rushing passers and falling on fumbles.

After moving into Rice territory only once the first two periods, the Aggies drove to the Owl 30, 15, 22 and 25 in the second half.

Three fumbles, two recovered by Rice, and a rushing passer halted the drives.

Rice meanwhile was having troubles of its own, crossing midfield only twice the last two periods. Passes failed at the 31, and a fumble later gave the Aggies the ball on the A&M 25.

The Owls' first score came the second time they had the ball in the opening period. Wyatt and Burkhalter carried from the Rice 36 to the Aggie 31 from where Rote passed to Jack Wolcott on the 12.

A second down fumble was recovered by A&M but the Aggies were off-sides and Burkhalter scored two plays later.

A fumble by Linppman started the second quarter touchdown march. Tackle Billy Wyman recovered on the A & M 41. Rice was penalized twice for 20 yards but Rote's passing overcame the deficit. He connected with Burkhalter for 9, to Williams for 22 and to Wyatt for 16 to the Aggie 6. Fullback Bobby Lantip carried to the 1 on three tries before Burkhalter scored.

Except for those three tosses netting 47 yards, the Aggies stopped the Owls' passing attack pretty well. Rice matched this defensive play by holding A. & M.'s great sophomore fullback, obert Smith, under control.

Smith carried 13 times for 45 yards. The Aggies finished the game with only 59 net yards. Burkhalter and Wyatt, however, were having a field day in leading Rice to 234 net yards on the ground.

Burkhalter carried 18 times for 109. Wyatt netted 80 on 19 attempts.

Each team completed 10 out of 20 passes for 101 yards each.

Rice finished with 18 first downs to 11 for A. & M.

A victory next week over Texas Christian would assure Rice of at least a tie in final Southwest Conference standings. The Owls are now a full game ahead of Baylor, which meets Southern Methodist next week before closing the season here November 26.

Upset Favored Cowboys, 19 To 7

Buffs Beat H-SU

CANYON, Nov. 12. (AP)— West Texas State's battling Buffaloes upset the heavily-favored Hardin-Simmons Cowboys 19 to 7 here this afternoon to gain their first victory in 25 years over the losers and send Cowboy stock in the Border Conference race downward.

Hardin-Simmons placed an undefeated Border circuit mark on the line this afternoon and the Buffs lost little time in knocking the Cowboys out of the unbeaten ranks, leaving Texas Tech on top.

Buffs Roar Back

Frank Kimbrough, coach of the victorious Buffalo herd, was a member of the last Simmons aggregation to lose to West Texas. That was by a 12-6 count in 1924.

Kimbrough's pupils scored first this afternoon, trailed 7-6 at the intermission, then fought back for two touchdowns in the final thirty minutes.

Charles Wright, slashing 190-pound fullback, stunned the visitors with a 44-yard scoring gallop on the second play from scrimmage and put in a great afternoon, bulling for 117 yards in 17 tries.

John Ford's sensational throwing sparked a second-quarter drive for a Hardin-Simmons touchdown as the Cowboys took the halftime lead.

Ford hit five passes in a 67-yard surge, climaxed by a four yard peg to Dunne Goods for the touchdown. Cliff Swain booted the extra point.

An 86-yard punt return in the third quarter by Bill Cross, 150-pound Buff back, tipped the balance in favor of the winners. Cross took a kick by Wilton "Hook" Davis on his 17 and hit for the sidelines. He reversed in an S pattern and went all the way as Davis made a futile lunge to get him on the ten.

Junior Melton kicked the conversion into a stout north wind. The Buffs added another in the early minutes of the fourth period, driving 74 yards in seven plays. Eddie Conner, Buff wingback who had carried only one other time this year, slipped off tackle for the final ten. Melton's placement was wide.

A fighting West Texas forward wall effectively stopped the scintillating Davis. The Cowboy ace ran 11 times for a new low of 24 yards. Harold Taylor was the only consistent gainer for Warren Woodson's Border Conference club, picking up 54 yards in 17 thrusts. Hardin-Simmons had scored at least five times in every other Border Conference encounter. The Cowboys still can collect the Border championship by beating Texas Tech when they get together with the Red Raiders Nov. 26 in Lubbock.

Kentucky's Wildcats Trample Florida 'Gators, 35 To 0

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 12. (INS)—Kentucky's Wildcats sewed up a 35-0 victory over the Florida 'Gators tonight in Tampa while Babe Parilli's passing did the needle-threading.

The Wildcats omitted to score in only the third period. The 'Gators omitted to pack any power at any time.

Pass interceptions by the Wildcats were the rule rather than the exception. Six 'Gator passes landed in Kentucky mitts and only five completed their intended journey, out of 22 thrown by Florida flingers.

Texas Tech's Tennis Players Bow Out In Southwestern Open

TUCSON, Nov. 12. (Special)—Texas Tech's last representatives in the Southwestern Open tennis tournament were beaten today in the semifinals.

A. J. (Jake) Broyles, Tech's No. 1 netter, was beaten by top-seeded Barney Judson, 6-1, 6-3.

Nell Quattlebaum, Tech entry in the women's division, lost to Margaret Rael, Tucson, 6-0, 6-3.

Amarillo Trims Borger, 28-18

AMARILLO, Nov. 12. (Spl.).—Captain Jack Newby passed and ran his Amarillo Golden Sandie teammates to their 17th consecutive victory over the Borger Bulldogs, the winners smashing to a 28-18 decision before 7,000 fans here today.

The Sandie victory handed Pampa the District 1-AA championship, the Harvesters supplanting Amarillo.

Today's game was one of the roughest in Amarillo history and kept Amarillo Coach Howard Lynch and Borger Coach Tricky Ward marching on the field in protest time and time again. Both mentors expresed their disfavor with decisions rendered by the officials.

Officials let the game get completely out of hand, it was alleged ignoring obvious infractions of the rules constantly, even though repeated protests were made. The officials were Jack Christian, L. D. Meyer, Ed Haley and Adrian Clark.

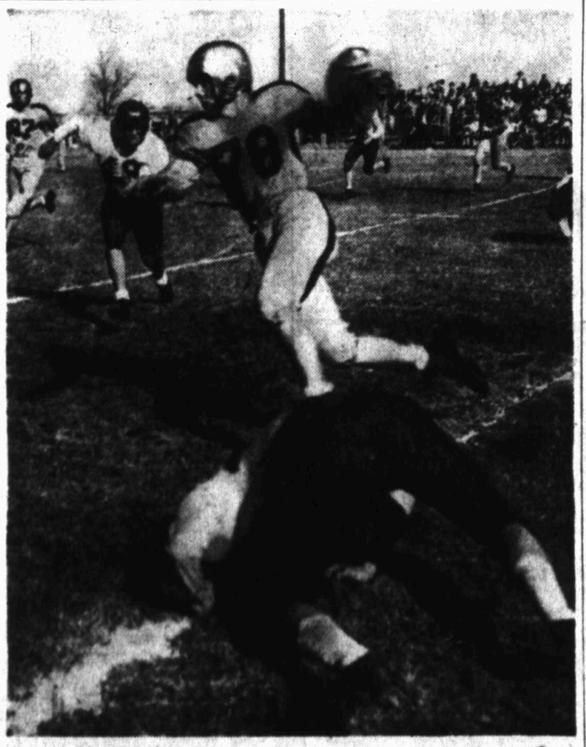

Amarillo scored in the first two minutes of play when Newby found a hole in the Bulldog line and raced 81 yards behind fine blocking for the touchdown. The Amarillo captain then kicked the extra point, first of four successful conversions today.

Borger, with the wind behind its backs, came within a point of tying up the score later in the quarter when Jerry Chitwood climaxed a 38-yard march with a touchdown. Earl Lanningham missed the first of his three conversion efforts, all of which failed.

Tommy Donnell intercepted a Lanningham pass on the Amarillo 32 to set up the next score. Newby climaxed it with a pass that hit Jerry Reese in the end zone and Amarillo had a 14-6 lead at the half.

In the third period, two more scores clinched the game. Newby capped a 54-yard drive by slicing eight yards off tackle for the touchdown. And a few minutes later Newby passed to Clyde Israel, who took the 40-yard pass on the two and stepped over the final white lines.

With fans starting to leave the game, Borger fought back to score twice. Kenneth Clapp tossed a 25-yard scoring pass to Donnie Mashburn and then hit the same player with a 33-yard aerial for the final tally.

HEY! THERE HE GOES! — An unidentified Slaton Tiger emulates the proverbial ostrich on this play early in the first quarter of Friday afternoon's game at Post. Halfback Norman Cash cuts sharply in front of the downed Slaton player to pick up a few yards on a Post drive early in the quarter, but was brought to earth a few moments later by Fullback Bobby Thompson (48). Slaton had no need to hide its faces. They won 7-6 to take the District 4-A (South) title. (Staff Photo by Lonnie Hudkins.)

Oklahoma's Powerhouse Swamps Missouri Tigers, 27 To 7

Sooners Take Second Straight Big Seven Conference Crown

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 12. (AP)—Oklahoma's methodical football powerhouse bulldozed to its second straight Big Seven Conference football championship today, 27-7, over an undermanned but stubborn Missouri Tiger eleven.

An all-time record Missouri home crowd of 37,152 jammed Memorial Stadium for the battle of the split-T offensive specialists. Oklahoma rolled to its eighteenth successive victory since losing to Santa Clara in a 1948 opener.

Won On Sheer Power

Oklahoma won on sheer ..... over a Missouri team that refused to crack against the nation's number 1 team in rushing offense. Coach Bud Wilkinson's Sooners gained 257 yards rushing and its defense, also todps in the nation, held Missouri to a net total of 45 yards.

Oklahoma broke a scoreless, bruising battle in the second quarter with Halfback Lindell Pearson going over from the three yard line for his first of two touchdowns in the period.

Ken Tipps kicked the point for Oklahoma. Missouri hurried back to knot the count at 7-7 on little Phil Klein's fourteen-yard pass into the end zone to Fred Hulse. Johnny Glorioso kicked the point, last of the day for Missouri.

Pearson Scores Again

Oklahoma engineered another touchdown before the half ended, and again it was Pearson, this time from the two after a sustained drive of 69-yards.

The Sooners wound up their scoring in the third, Pearson passing seven yards to End Frankie Anderson for six points and Fullback Leon Heath slugging through from four-yards out for the other counter. Tipps was good on three of four attempts from placement.

Minnesota Beats Pittsburgh, 24-7

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12. (AP) — Fleet Billy Bye popped like a wraith from a giant Minnesota forward wall before 42,515 fans today to lead the Gophers to a 24-7 victory over the University of Pittsburgh.

The 180-pound halfback — a comparatively midget running behind the big Gopher line—raced over for two touchdowns and passed for a third.

Bye slammed off tackle from five yards out in the second period for the first Minnesota touchdown.

He ran 29 yards later in the same stanza for another to run Minnesota's lead to 14-0 at the half.

Then the stubborn Pitt Panthers threatened to make things interesting in the last half by unfurling a passing attack for a touchdown. But Bye returned to the game and flipped a perfect pass to Quarterback Jim Malosky for the score which put the game safely beyond Pitt's reach.

The final Minnesota points came on a 15-yard field goal by End Gordon Soltau, in the fading minutes of the game.

This boot made a perfect kicking day for the big end as he also spun placements through the uprights after each touchdown.

Austin Kangaroos Beat ACC, 27-14

ABILENE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Ray Morrison's Austin college Kangaroos came from behind with a mixed ground and aerial attack to defeat Abilene Christian college 27-14 in a Texas Conference game here today.

With Alton Green and Sam Davidson handling the ball, ACC marched to a couple of touchdowns in the second period, giving up one to Austin on a "steal" and leading at halftime 14-7.

Gene Coppedge, Kangaroo guard, literally swiped the ball from ACC's Tommy Hinson, who had received it on a handoff, and raced 37 yards to score for Austin college.

A 39-yard run by Davidson set up the second ACC touchdown, Bill Ayers passing to End Pete Ragus for the score.

The Kangaroos came out kicking in the second half, scored two touchdowns in rapid fashion. They drove 80 yards for the first, Ben Harmon passing to Mack Thompson 18 yards for the score. Later, Tommy Hestand intercepted an ACC pass on the Kangaroo 5-yard line and raced 73 yards with it. Three plays later Harmon went over from the five for the clinching touchdown.

Austin college added another in the fourth after recovering a fumble on the ACC 10-yard line. Thompson, on an end around, went to the five, and John Duke pushed over for touchdown.

Dartmouth Scores 16 To 7 Upset Over Cornell Eleven

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 12. (INS) —Dartmouth scored a 16-to-7 upset over previously unbeaten Cornell today to throw the Ivy League into a three-way tie.

The Indians pulled themselves into a deadlock with Cornell and Penn on the strength of two Johnny Clayton-to-Tom Rowe touchdown passes.

West Virginia Ties Miners

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 12. (AP)—West Virginia university finally cracked the scoring column in the last half today to register a 13-13 tie with Texas Western in the Mountaineers' final home game this year.

A crowd of 10,000 watched as the hard-running visitors slammed through the listless and seemingly disorganized Mountaineers for touchdowns in each of the first two periods.

Bill Chesak cracked over from the one for the first, ending a 49-yard march. The second quarter six-pointer came on a 62-yard run by Lee Cargile.

An 18-yard pass from Jimmy Walthall to Clarence Cox on the goal line enabled West Virginia to get into the scoring with 5:55 of the third period remaining after the Mountaineers had frittered away three previous chances in the quarter.

Walt Malyk plaunged two yards for the other WVU tally with 13:12 of the final quarter remaining. Stan McLaughlin's recovery of a Chesak fumble on the Texas Western 23 as the third quarter ended paved the way for the short scoring push.

Jim Davis converted from placement after the first Texas score, while little Gene Simmons' dropkick after the second WVU touchdown was perfect. Simmons' first touchdown hit the bar and bounded back.

Sul Ross Rolls Over New Mexico Western

SILVER CITY, N. M., Nov. 12. (AP)—Sul Ross State college ran over New Mexico Western college today, 59 to 20, in a game here.

The Lobos scored in every quarter, outpointing the Mustangs in every department. Only for a brief while in the third period did Western show any real fire.

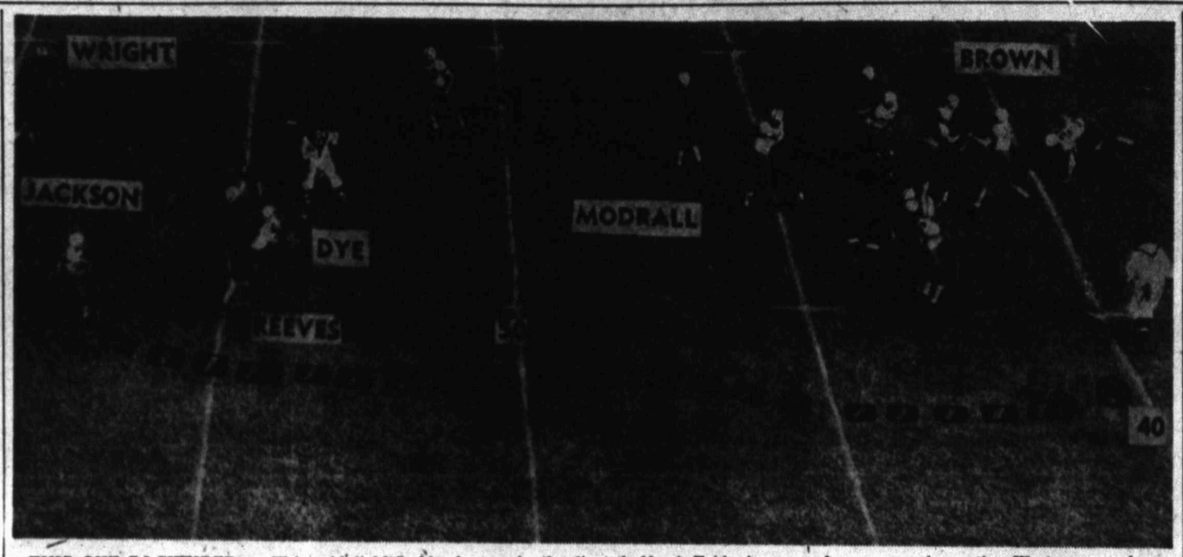

Lobo Quarterback Charlie Laffoon set up Sul Ross' first score when he ran from his own 19 to the Mustang 36 and passed to Dick Street for the touchdown. Charlie Boyles' attempted conversion was no good.

Midway in the second quarter, Halfback Bobby Higdon received a punt deep in his own territory, faked beautifully and handed it off to Halfback Ted Scown, who ran 70 yards for a touchdown. Boyles kick was good. Then with six minutes to go in the half, Horace Byerley, Mustang quarterback, fumbled on the fourth down on his own 26. On three straight plays Sul Ross carried to the 14, from where Halfback Miers Johnson carried for a touchdown. Boyles again converted.

After the Mustangs were forced to kick, Johnson again took command and carried on runs from his own 45 to the Mustang two. Scown ran to the one and Johnson scored. Boyles kick failed.

Early in the third, Higdon attempted to lateral to Scown after receiving a Mustang punt, but Joe Palmer, Mustang back, swooped down fast, picked the lateral out of midair, and ran from the Sul Ross 20 for Western's first score. Bill Miller converted.

Life spans of between 200 and 300 years are normal for the eider duck, giant tortoise, goose, parrot and raven.

THIS ONE BACKFIRED — This mid-field Lubbock pass in the first half of Friday's game boomeranged on the Westerners when Bobby Brown's toss popped from the hands of End Garnet Reeves and was intercepted by Odessa Halfback Bobby Jackson, who then ran the ball back as indicated. It was the game's only pass interception, as both teams relied largely on their ground attacks. (Staff Telephoto by Bill Hams.)

Tempe Tramples Arizona, 34 To 7

TEMPE, Ariz., Nov. 12. (AP) — Arizona State college at Tempe, unleashing a powerful ground attack, rolled to a 34 to 7 upset victory over the University of Arizona here tonight.

It was the first victory for the state gridders over Arizona since 1931 and only the third in the history of a 23-game rivalry.

They turned the trick on a late score in the second period, three more in the third and a final tally in the fourth, after Arizona had made its lone marker early in the quarter.

The rival clubs battled evenly until the last three minutes of the first half. Bill Gosselin, state center, then broke through to block a punt covered on the three. Hank Rich went over on a plunge. Bobby Fuller, Tempe's barefoot place kicker, booted his first of four conversions.

Rich again went over from thre three after a 54 yard drive opening the second half.

The Tempe Sun Devils took control of the game from that point on. Wilford "Whizzer" White streaked over the goal line from the 10 a few minutes later. White struck from 11 yards out in the waning seconds of the period.

Arizona came to life for a brief few plays after the kickoff. Eddie Wolgast ran the return back to the Tempe 26, and backs Oscar Carillo and Les Kastner moved it to the two. John Kelly, quarterback, went over on a sneak. Carillo converted.

With four minutes to go Tempe's Captain Cecil Coleman slid over from the one. The drive had started on the Tempe 48.

McGowan Paces 35-0, BC Victory

New Mexico Aggies Whitewash Flagstaff

LAS CRUSES, N. M. Nov. 12. (AP)—Sam McGowan, ace passer and quarterback, led the New Mexico Aggies to their first Border Conference victory of the season here this afternoon, a 35-0 win over the Arizona State (Flagstaff) Lumberjacks.

During the game McGowan ran 27 yards to score the first Aggie touchdown and completed 10 of 19 passes, two of which clicked for scores.

In the opening minute of the first period, McGowan skirted his own right end from the Flagstaff 27 and crossed the double stripe standing up.

At the close of the same period a pass from McGowan to Gail Hungate was good for the second tally. Early in the second, the Aggie aerialist hit Jack Steger for the third Aggie TD on a screen pass play.

Combining a running attack with their passing, the Aggies tallied again early in the second half. A blocked flag punt put the Farmers in possession on the Lumberjack 18, and Fullback Phil Neale took it the rest of the way off tackle.

The visitors fumbled on their own 24 to set up the final A. & M. touchdown. On the first play after the recovery McGowan picked up 11 yards on an end sweep and a roughing penalty against the Arizonans moved the ball to the Lumberjack one. Hungate powered over for his second TD of the game from there.

Leonard Henderson completed five conversions of five attempts from placement. The major share of the Lumberpack offense and defense work was borne—as usual—by End Vince Cisterna, who caught six of the seven passes Flag completed during the game. He also added a considerable hunk of yardage on end-around plays.

On the ground, the Aggies made 294 yards as compared to 104 for Flagstaff. McGowan was credited with 164 yards through the air. The Lumberjacks completed seven of 28 passes for 89 yards.

In first downs the Aggies took an 18-5 advantage over their rivals.

North Texas Beats Houston

DENTON, Nov. 12. (AP) — The North Texas State Eagles ran the University of Houston Cougars into submission here today 28-22 before a homecoming crowd of 10,000.

The Cougars carried 77 yards to score on runs by Alan Neveaux and Max Clark. From the one-yard stripe Neveaux bounded over.

Early in the second period, North Texas struck pay dirt when a 17-yard pass from Quarterback Zeke Martin to End A. V. Collins ended a 55-yard drive. Fred Clotiaux converted.

Midway in the second quarter, Center Jim Eagle of North Texas recovered a fumble on the Cougar 20. On the first play, Martin fired to scatback Loyd Lowe for a score. Clotiaux converted.

In the third period, Halfback Bill Brashier of the Eagles intercepted a Houston pass on the North Texas 10. After Fullback Ned McNeill drove to the 12, Bill Lalicker covered the remaining 78 yard with a slashing drive off left tackle. Clotiaux converted sending the North Texans ahead 21-7.

Houston took the ball on the midfield marker in the middle of the third quarter and went all the way on the quick, hard cross bucks by Rags Ragone and Aubrey Baker. Ragone scored from the eight-yard line. Neveaux converted.

On the following kickoff, North Texas' Randall McGee fumbled on the four-yard line. The Eagles punted to their own 35. Neveaux passed to Maurine Elliott for 34 yards and a touchdown.

With four minutes remaining in the final period, a touchback brought the ball to the North Texas 20. Halfback Ray Renfro picked up two first downs on runs of 24 and 19 yards and Ned McNeill rammed the ball to the 13 on short gains. From the 13, Martin passed to Collins in the end zone for a tally. Clotiaux kicked his fourth consecutive extra point of the afternoon to set the Eagles out in front, 28-21.

California's Bears Roll Over Oregon's Fighting Ducks, 41-14

Bruins Appear Rose Bowl Bound

MEMORIAL STADIUM, Berkeley, Cal., Nov. 12 (INS)—California's Golden Bears rolled down the home stretch towards the Rose Bowl today with a 41 to 14 victory over the Oregon Ducks before a near-capacity crowd of 76,000 in Memorial Stadium at Berkeley.

And just before the final gun sounded at Berkeley, Stanford's smashing 63 to 0 win over little Idaho was announced over the loud speaker, prompting the Oregon yell leader to announce to his rooting section:

"Cal is going to be in for a good time next Saturday."

If California gets over its old rival Stanford in their traditional big game, there's no question about it—California goes to the Rose Bowl—undefeated and untied in ten straight games. Today's win was the ninth straight of the season for the Bears and 28 of 30 encounters since Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf arrived in Berkeley in 1947.

After Oregon scored first in the opening quarter, the Bears punched over three touchdowns in the second period, and then gave one to the Ducks in the closing seconds of the first half by passing deep in their own territory and enabling Oregon to intercept for a second touchdown.

However, Oregon more than made up for this gift in the third period when the Ducks fumbled, had tough luck on a punt, and a pass interception—all of these tough breaks resulting in California's three scores in the third period.

Fullback Jim Monachino, a 19-year-old junior who runs like a locomotive in high speed, was the big hero today. He scored three of the California touchdowns.

Frogs Upset Steers

covered the ball on TCU's 47.

Procter latched on to a pass on the 30. Then TCU was penalized to its 13 for personal fouls, and Longhorn fans went crazy. But the Frogs rared up to throw Texas back to the 16, and Texas tried for a field goal on fourth down.

The ball was placed down on the 25, and Clay swung his leg, but End Bob Moorman roared in to block the try. This was Texas' last chance.

Berry's running and passing, coupled with Morton's power drives, kept the TCU attack rolling. Shifting defenses which featured use of four TCU ends in a nine-man line stopped the Texas running attack almost cold. The Longhorns got a net 56 yards on the ground.

This was TCU's fifth victory against two defeats and a tie for the full season. Texas has won five and lost four, the most games it has dropped in one season since 1944.

TCU missed a scoring chance when it marched from its own 41 to the Texas 10 late in the second quarter. Berry threw two almost-but-not-quite touchdown passes, and Texas took over.

Morton banged the Texas line 19 times for 88 of TCU's 165 yards. Berry ran 17 times for 44 yards, completed six of 20 passes for 86, giving him a total offense figure of 130 yards.

Campbell connected on 10 of 26 throws for 181 yards. Proctor pulled in eight of those aerials for 163 yards.

Mainstays of the stout TCU defense were End Bob Moorman, Tackle Roger McAulley, Guard Harold Kilman and Substitute Center Norman Hughes. It was Hughes' first varsity play with TCU.

Coach Leo (Dutch) Meyer of TCU said after the game, "I love every kid on the squad."

The losing coach, Blair Cherry, emphasized that the Texas team was a tired one after hard games on five consecutive Saturdays.

"TCU fought hard and was ready for us," he said, perhaps thinking about TCU's open date last Saturday which gave the Frogs two weeks rest before today's contest. However, he added, he did not wish to take anything away from TCU's fine performance.

Right Guard Danny Wolff of Texas turned in his usual slam-bang defensive play, repeatedly knocking down TCU ball carriers behind the line.

BY CHOC HUTCHESON

Fans will be discussing Friday's Lubbock-Odessa thriller for weeks to come, so I might as well get my oars in the pond early.

On second thought, perhaps I should keep my big typewriter shut. As you no doubt recall, I am the foolhardy soul who predicted, "Lubbock will win convincingly."

Now, I could be a stubborn cuss and maintain that at least my forecast was 50 per cent correct, but since that isn't a passing grade I'm willing to admit that I was as wrong as Tokyo Rose, who thought the Japs would win the war.

Having stuffed one foot into my mouth with my pre-game prediction, I'll now cram in the other tootsie by telling you why that prognostication backfired like a home-made motorcycle.

• • •

Seriously, Friday's 7-6 Lubbock victory was one of the most "discussionable" (how d'ya like that word, Mr. Webster?) games I've ever seen. It seems that no two persons left Broncho stadium with exactly the same point of view. And, America still being a land of free speech, the subject was being bandied about rather freely on local street corners Saturday.

Just between us sideline quarterbacks, here's how I saw it:

Lubbock has a ball club definitely superior to that of Odessa (and I don't care if that Broncho stadium scoreboard does call me a liar). However, the Westerners had a poor day Friday, while the Bronchos were fired up to peak form. Even so, Lubbock's sub-par performance was good enough to beat Odessa's best—which, in itself, is something of a tribute to the ability of this 1949 Westerner team.

I think "shaky" — and not "lucky" — is the word that best defines Lubbock's victory. There's nothing "lucky" about a 70-yard touchdown run through the line. The object of the game of football, as I understand it, is to get the ball across the goal line, and a 70-yard gallop down the middle is about as orthodox a way as any. Granted that Odessa was threatening at the game's end, the fact remains that Lubbock held a slight overall statistical edge, and that the Westerners did some threatening of their own earlier in the contest.

• • •

Nothing should be taken away from Coach Joe Coleman's scrappy Bronchos. They carried the fight to Lubbock from the start, and fully earned many of the breaks that came their way. Too, they had some bad breaks (particularly fumbles) of their own. But to say that the Broncs outplayed Lubbock, or that they DESERVED to win, would be twisting the truth slightly.

A number of factors, neatly fitted together, made the game as close as it was.

First, and foremost, there was the aforementioned Odessa hustle, coupled with Lubbock's so-so performance.

Odessa had done an expert scouting job on Lubbock, and used a defense which successfully checked the Westerners' tricky end sweeps and reverses. Because of this, Coach Pat Pattison's team was forced to hammer away at the line most of the afternoon—and, to make matters worse, the Westerners' No. 1 battering ram (Malcolm Young) was below top form because of an overnight illness.

The 35-mile-per-hour wind made passing hazardous, and caused both teams to play more conservative than they otherwise would have done. With its usually-effective aerial game on the shelf, Lubbock was below par offensively.

• • •

It is to be emphasized that the above analysis is strictly one man's opinion—and,moreover, that this fellow's eyes were so full of Ector county sand that he probably missed three-fourths of what happened on the playing field Friday!

• • •

On the encouraging side of Lubbock's ledger, two points are worth mention:

1). The Westerners, with only mediocre Midland and weak Brownfield before them, virtually are assured of the District 3-AA championship (their first circuit crown since 1941), plus a berth in the state playoffs—where they would meet the El Paso district titlist in the bi-district round.

2). Charley Williams has "come into his own." In my opinion, Williams has been to the Westerner backfield what Tommy Henrich is to the New York Yankee baseball club—"Old Reliable." Throughout the season, he has plugged along in comparative obscurity while other backs basked in the spotlight. Always a dependable defensive performer and a steady blocker, Williams has been one of the most consistent of all Westerners. It was time that he was getting his due recognition—and he certainly earned it with his great going "in the clutch" at Odessa.

Jake Mintz Fired As Manager Of Champion Ezzard Charles

CINCINNATI, Nov. 12. (AP) — Two local men, claiming to be co-managers of heavyweight fighter Ezzard Charles, today fired Jake Mintz of Pittsburgh, as matchmaker for the NBA champion.

Leo Weinberger, attorney for Charles Dyer and Gene Elkus, said he had sent a special delivery letter to Mintz notifying him that his services no longer were required.

The attorney said Dyer and Elkus decided to let Mintz go because he was usurping the powers of the managers.

Stanford Indians Trample Idaho Vandals, 63 To 0

STANFORD STADIUM, Palo Alto, Calif., Nov. 12. (INS)—Stanford's Indians exploded with nine touchdowns today to brush aside Dixie Howell's Idaho eleven 63 to 0 to keep their Rose Bowl hopes bright. A small crowd witnessed the rout in Stanford Stadium.

It was the second largest score every amassed by an Indian eleven, the largest being 82 to 0 against UCLA in 1925. The triumph gave Stanford its fourth Pacific Coast Conference victory and avenged the 19 to 16 loss in 1947.

Indians Await Big Game

The hapless Vandals were completely outclassed as the big red Indians warmed up for undefeated California in the big game next Saturday. A win then would send the Indians to the Pasadena classic.

Assistant Coach Nibs Price of the Bears scouted the victorious Indians and didn't learn too much as Coach Marchie Schwartz directed his team to play only its routine formations.

Substitute quarterbacks Dick Horn and Tom Shaw had a field day passing, the former tossing two touchdown throws and Shaw connecting with three, two of them to End Dan Mervin.

The Indians were relentless on the ground, striking with speed and fury in the first quarter for two touchdowns, one by End Ken Rose and the other by big Bill McCool. In the second quarter Harry Hugasian scored one and Emery Mitchell cracked over for the other.

Stanford marched to four touchdowns in the third quarter, Hugasian adding another, Benson catching a pass for one and Bud Klein connecting on a long 64 yarder and Mervin adding one from an aerial.

With all the substitutes from the bench in the game Stanford added only one on Shaw's pass to Mervin in the fourth quarter.

Eastern New Mexico Drops Daniel Baker College, 13-7

PORTALES, N. M., Nov. 12. (AP) —A 65-yard punt return and a 69-yard drive in the last half gave Eastern New Mexico university a 13-7 victory today over Daniel Baker college of Brownwood, Tex.

Just before the half, Daniel Baker stopped ENMU cold after a pass interception gave ENMU the ball on its own six. Then ENMU fumbled, Halfback Crossland recovered for Baker and scored two plays later. Fullback Willingham converted.

Halfback Bill Stegle got away for the long punt return early in the third period. Quarterback Barron converted.

Beavers Cop 25-20 Win

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 12. (INS) Red-hot Oregon State pulled one of the nation's top grid upsets today by defeating mighty Michigan State, 25 to 20, in a ding-dong battle before 24,000 fans in Multnomah stadium.

Indicative of the shifting fray, here is the line score:

Oregon State	0	7	11	7	—25
Michigan State	0	13	7	0	—20

The Spartans from Lansing, rated number 8 in the nation, were tipped over by a team so far down the scale that it entered the game a four-touchdown underdog.

Fans who nodded their heads understandingly as Michigan State worked out a 13 to 7 lead at halftime sat in amazement as the blazing Beavers tied the score three minutes after the third quarter began.

They really roared when Stan McGuire, right end, arched a perfect field goal from the 30-yard stripe to put Oregon State in the lead. This same Stanley added to the Spartans' confusion by blocking a punt minutes later for a safety that added two points to the Beavers' score.

Coach Clarence "Biggie" Munn's boys whacked the locals with enthusiasm almost immediately when Halfback Lynn Chandnois intercepted Fullback Dick Twenge's long pass and raced 40 yards to the Beaver nine.

Chandnois then took a triple hand-off and circled O. S. C.'s right end for a touchdown three minutes before the quarter ended.

George Smith, Spartan quarterback, added the point and it was 20 to 18 for the East Lansing lads.

By this time the Beavers had the victory needle so deep in their hides that they exuded confidence all over the place.

Dick Gray, Beaver halfback, received the Spartan kick-off and returned the ball to M. S. C.'s 33. Gray made it first and 10 on Michigan State's 20 as the third quarter ended.

Ken Carpenter, Gray's halfback teammate, steamed around left end to the 13. Dick Twenge, fullback, contributed a first down on the 10 and Carpenter took a pass to the 5.

UCLA Team Drubs Washington, 47-26

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12. (AP)—The flashy Bruins of UCLA today whacked a stubborn University of Washington eleven, 47 to 26, to throw the Pacific Coast Conference Rose Bowl race into a scramble.

A UCLA win over Southern California next week, coupled with a Stanford victory over California would throw the race into a three-way tie, with Cal., Stanford and UCLA each having one Conference defeat against it.

Featuring long passes and brilliant work by lanky Bob Wilkinson, UCLA end, today's contests before a disappointing throng of 26,420 was a tough game for the first half. Then the injury-hampered Huskies began to disintegrate before the crushing Bruin line.

Both teams went touchdown beserk in the final, darkening moments as five tallies were registered in the fourth period.

UCLA got off to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, led 14-7 at the half and was never seriously threatened, although the visitors never quit trying.

Wilkinson, 199-pound left end for UCLA, scored three touchdowns on pass plays good for 62, 24 and 11 yards to hang up a new school record. He has scored nine touchdowns on passes this season.

Halfback Dev Gossett Washington crossed the goal line three times, too—once on a 58-yard pass play, another time for 27. Both scoring strikes were hurled by sophomore Don Heinrich.

Coach Red Sanders reached deep into his reserve stocks as the game developed into a rout, and sub Julian Weisstein ended the scoring spree by intercepting a Huskie pass and romping unmolested 50 yards.

Ohio State Rallies To Defeat Stubborn Illinois, 30 To 17

Karras Sparks Illini Battle

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12. (AP)—Ohio State's battering Bucks, frustrated by a stalwart Illinois crew during the first half, exploded for 30 points late in the game today to snatch a 30-17 conquest before a crowd of 81,085.

The Big Ten victory moved Coach Wes Fesler's versatile crew a bit nearer a Rose Bowl bid and the Western Conference title—only Michigan now standing in their path.

The underdog Illini fought off the first three Buckeye bids for touchdowns, throwing back three surges to the goalpost shadows while constructing a 10-point lead in the first half on a rugged 80-yard ground march an da 12-yard field goal by Sam Rebecca.

Even in defeat, Sophomore Johnny Karras was the game's "Merriwell In Moleskins" for the Illini. The fleet-footed back carried 14 times for 48 yards via rushing, giving him 702 yards in that department for the season and a new Western Conference record.

Karras also came up with the game's most spectacular play. It was a 95-yard kickoff return, which moved the Illini back in front 17-14 in the third session after the Bucks had grabbed a 14-10 edge with two fast touchdowns.

Behind 17-14 in the fourth period after Karras' mighty jaunt, The Bucks gambled on a fourth-down plunge for two yards in midfield. They made good on it with a smash at tackle by Fullback Curly Morrison, and went on in for the winning touchdown—a 34-yard pass from Pandel Savic to Halfback Ray Hamilton which caught the invaders flat-footed.

WAKE FOREST UPSET

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 12 (INS)—A North Carolina State team that never had it so good upset Wake Forest, 27 to 14, today at Raleigh in another of the surprising form reversals which have rattled the Southern Conference all year. An amazed crowd of 20,000 watched the Wolfpack squad jump to a first period 20-0 lead and co[illegible] on to victory.

ARENA CARD NOW COMPLETE

FFA Reports Advance Sale Of Pro Fight Tickets Going Well

A brisk advance sale of tickets for Thursday night's fight card at Sled Allen's arena was reported Saturday by officials of the Texas Tech chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

More than 200 ducats for the program, which will feature a 10-round main event between Levelland's Billy Henderson and El Paso's Tony Olivas, already have been sold, FFA officials said.

Another Saturday announcement was that fighters for the opening four-round preliminary have been matched. In the curtain-raiser, Augustine Guiterrez, Pecos, will meet Tommy Mannoai, El Paso, in a lightweight bout.

Guiterrez is a former New Mexico state Golden Gloves featherweight champion. Mannoai has appeared here before, making a commendable showing.

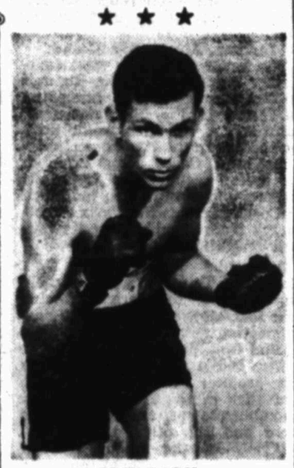

Elmer Tarbox, Texas Tech football star of a decade ago, has agreed to serve as referee of all bouts on the Thursday night card.

Other matches on the 28-round program had been announced earlier.

Henderson, who has lost only two fights in nearly two years of pro campaigning, goes against the clever Olivas in the top attraction. Henderson defeated Olivas earlier this year at El Paso, but not until the Border City lightweight had given him trouble in the early rounds.

The eight-round semifinal finds Gene James, unbeaten Lubbock heavyweight, meeting Eddie Lamarr, veteran campaigner from Oklahoma City. James stopped Lamarr, former Texas champion, recently at Carlsbad, and the Oklahoman has been clamoring for this return match.

In a six-round feature bout, Hale Center's Leonard Duncan is paired against Art Gray, El Paso college student, in what promises to be an action-packed middleweight match. Gray is reputed to be a hard hitter, while Duncan repeatedly has proved his ability to absorb punishment without weakening. The rugged Hale Center fighter has lost only one of his eight pro starts.

ART GRAY
Meets Leonard Duncan.

Tickets for the card are being sold by FFA members at Tech. They will go on general sale Wednesday morning in the lobby of the Hilton hotel, and will be available Thursday night at the arena box office. Prices are $3, $2.25 and $1.25.

All profits from the show will go to establish a scholarship fund for the Tech FFA chapter. In addition, Henderson, James and Duncan are contributing their entire purses to the fund.

Austria's longest cable railway—over four miles—soon will make the Grosslockner, the country's highest mountain (12,461 feet) accessible to the public, by connecting the town of Heiligenblut with the 9,902-foot "Margaritze", near the highest peak.

TAAF Boxing Meet Slated

The District Two TAAF boxing tournament will be held Dec. 8-9 at Sled Allen's arena under sponsorship of the local chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

If the entry list warrants, the tourney will be stretched to three nights, with the finals on Dec. 10, VFW representatives said Saturday.

All winners in the open class event will be eligible to compete in the state TAAF meet Dec. 16-17 in Fort Worth. Any profits from the local tourney will be used to defray expenses of district champions making the trip to Fort Worth.

Trophies and boxing equipment will be awarded to all local winners.

Indications are that a number of amateur fighters from outside the Lubbock district will compete in the event. Neither District One nor District Three, with headquarters in Amarillo and Odessa, respectively, will hold tournaments this year, so it is expected that many mittmen from these areas will enter the Lubbock tourney in order to try for a berth in the state meet.

Odessa already has indicated that it will send a team, and there is a strong possibility that the strong Hardin-Simmons university boxing team of Abilene also will be here.

Ticket arrangements for the Lubbock tourney will be announced in the near future. Meantime, entries for the district tournament are being accepted at City Club gym, 1313½ College avenue, Lubbock. All interesteed amateur fighters are urged to submit their entries as soon as possible, so that necessary tourney arrangements may be made well in advance. The entry deadline will be noon, Dec. 8.

MASK, OVERHULL IN MAIN GO

Australian Tag Team Match Slated At Arena Wednesday

It's tag team time again at Sled Allen's wrestling arena this Wednesday night and the genial Lubbock promoter has lined up a pair of duos who are bound to supply the grunt and groan public with all the excitement and fun it could desire.

In one corner, at least part of the time, will be The Gray Mask and Alex Kasaboski, two of the most unprincipled and unpleasant wrestlers ever to step into the squared circle. They will have their hands full coping with another pair, both of whom wrestle more cleanly and scientifically.

Flores Comes Back

The opposition in the main event which will be a two out of three falls match with a one hour time limit, will be George Overhull, who made such a good showing last week, and Salvador Flores, who has looked good in both of his last showings.

The preliminary, which would be a main go on most cards and which actually is being called the first event, will be Al Getz and Andy Tremain. This has been set for a two out of three falls match also with a one hour time limit and should produce plenty of action.

In the main event, Overhull and The Mask will be meeting for the second time in as many weeks. The Mask took a nasty decision last week and it has been rankling Overhull, former Amarillo Golden Sandie football player, ever since.

Flores and Kasaboski also have a chance to meet at long last. The Mexican has been clamoring for a shot at Kasaboski and while this isn't a full fledged meeting, there is no question that he will face him during the tag team match.

Tremain hasn't been in the local ring for a long, long time, but wrestling fans still remember him for his jarring work. At the same time he prefers clean, scientific wrestling and is regarded as one of the best men in the nation.

THE GRAY MASK
Rough, Tough Wrestler

It all points up to one of the best local cards to be presented in several weeks and all in favor of the wrestling public.

Tickets will go on sale at 9 a. m. Wednesday at the arena, 606 Texas avenue, with the ticket window for advance sales closing at 5 p. m. The first match starts at 8 p. m.

Basketball Tournament Will Be Held During Sun Bowl Meet

EL PASO, Nov. 12 (AP)—A basketball tournament will be held this year in conjunction with El Paso's 15th annual Southwestern Sun Carnival.

A Sun Carnival spokesman said today four top Border Conference teams have accepted bids to meet. They are Texas Western college, the University of New Mexico, West Texas State college, and the University of Arizona.

The tournament, approved by the American Basketball Association, will be played Dec. 30-31. It will be the first big-time collegiate basketball meet ever held in the Southwest, the spokesman said.

Preparations are being made for a five-day program. The highlight will be the Sun Bowl football game.

Penn Holds Army To 14-13 Win

Mackmull Kicks Vital Points

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP) — Army ran its unbeaten string to 19 games today by edging underdog Pennsylvania 14 to 13 in a football melodrama that was settled by Jack Mackmull's unerring placement kicks.

Pennsylvania, bottling up Army's great quarterback, Arnold Galiffa, twice came within bare yards of additional touchdowns.

Penn Almost Wins

The throng of 78,000 saw Pennsylvania, expected to lose by three touchdowns to the nation's number two team, score first on a 78-yard drive in the second period with Bob Deuber smashing one yard for the Touchdown.

Herb Agocs, the big Penn end who played a mighty defensive game, sent his try for extra point far wide of the goal posts and this proved to be the deciding factor.

Army struck back immediately with a 64-yard march with Jim Cain carrying over from the five. It added its second touchdown ... the third period with a 67-yard campaign, Gil Stephenson counting on a two-yard drive. Both times Mackmull kicked the points.

Lustre Off Army

Pennsylvania came back with a 77-yard push in the last period, and this time it was a nine-yard pass, Francis (Reds) Bagnell to Warren Horton that did it.

It was Pennsylvania's big line that took a lot of lustre off an Army team expected to run up a big score on the twice beaten Quakers.

Pennsylvania made 23 first downs to 10 for Army, and twice put on drives that folded tragically.

Wildcats Best Raiders 39-20 On Early Drive

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 12. (INS)— Northwestern's five-time beaten Wildcats whipped a Colgate team that has averaged three touchdowns a game by getting there "fustest with the mostest." The final accounting was 39 to 20.

Colgate still maintained its scoring average, but at the same time lost its sixth consecutive game.

Northwestern shocked the Red Raiders to the delight of some 40,000 home fans by scoring three Times in the opening quarter. From thereon, it was simply a matter of "one for you and one for me."

Sophomore Dick Alban got credit for the first two touchdowns. The first came on a 29-yard pass from Don Burson after just two minutes of play. He carried the ball into the end zone again midway in the period on a four-yard slash through tackle.

Fullback Art Murakowski powered across the goal line with just a minute of the period remaining to climax a 44-yard march. Eddie Nemeth's two extra point kicks gave the Wildcats a 20 to 0 margin at the end of the quarter.

The Red Raiders produced their first tally on a 15-yard pass from Tom Kelley to Alan Egler, but the Wildcats came back to score another touchdown of their own before the half ended.

Bob Meeder did the honors from the one-foot line after a 94-yard movement.

Colgate initiated a 54-yard drive in the third quarter and Paul Mulligan scored from the eight. Again Northwestern came back to protect its margin. This time Johnny Miller went over the goal line from the three.

WOMEN BOWLERS MEET

Fighting Tarheels Bow To Notre Dame Power, 42 To 6

YANKEE STADIUM, N. Y., Nov. 12 — (INS) — Mighty Notre Dame, knocked flat in the early stages of the game by a supercharged University of North Carolina team, roared on to a 42 to 6 victory under floodlights late today.

The Tarheels, woeful underdogs without the services of their All-America back, Charley Justice, nonetheless stunned the 67,000 feverish fans by taking a 6-0 lead in the first three minutes of this bruising first meeting between the two grid titans.

Vitalized by the tremendous all around playing of Dick Bunting, young tailback from Salem, Va., North Carolina heald its lead until the middle of the second period when the torrent of power within Notre Dame began to manifest itself.

Spaniel Starts Irish Drive

Irish halfback Francis James Spaniel, of Vandergrift, Pa., set Notre Dame on the way to its 35th consecutive undefeated mark with a brilliant 77-yard run through tackle, with downfield blocking that would have uprooted oakstumps.

But Steve Oracho, the solid man from Dansford, Pa., missed the try for the extra point, and Notre Dame had to be content with a 6-6 tie at half-time. It felt happy to have even that, for a backfield-in-motion penalty against North Carolina in the second period, with the ball on the 1-yard line, had cost Carolina its fine opportunity to take a 12-0 or 13-0 advantage.

Still without Justice, but seemingly with justification, North Carolina forged its way to the Notre Dame 15 shortly after the opening of the third period. It was stopped there, for keeps.

Then the roof fell in on the southern team.

The Tarheels were flogged by the amazing pitching arm of Bob Williams, the Baltimore beaut, and crushed, hammered and splattered by the bullish charges of Bill Barrett of Chicago, Emil "six yards" Sitko, All-America from Fort Wayne, Ind., the aforementioned Spaniel, Ernie Zalejski from, of all places, South Bend., Ind., and Mike Swistowicz, of Chicago.

The thumping victory drive began with half the third period gone and the score still 6-6. It began quietly. Notre Dame, unable to advance the ball against the fighting Tarheel line, was forced to kick from deep in its own territory. Bob Williams got the ball away well enough, but was rougned. The penalty gave N. D. a first down on its own 33. That was the turning point.

Wisconsin Trims Iowa, 35 To 13

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 12. (INS) —Wisconsin's Badgers, who finished dead last in the Big Ten last year and bounced back to romp with the leaders this year, kept their Rose Bowl hopes alive today by walloping the Iowa eleven, 35 to 13.

Today's victory gave the surprising Badgers of Coach Ivy Williamson a season record of three victories, one defeat and one tie. They stand just behind Michigan and Ohio State, sporting records of four wins and one defeat each.

One Win Needed

Next week Ohio meets Michigan while the Badgers tangle with revived Minnesota. A Michigan victory coupled with a Wisconsin victory would almost surely result in a Rose Bowl trip for the Badgers, since Michigan is ineligible, having played in Pasadena two years ago.

The Badgers went to work on Iowa with power and cunning which indicated they were not kidding about that Rose Bowl possibility.

The homecoming crowd of 45,000, rain-drenched fans, just before the kickoff, saw Badger Halfback Gwynn Christenson scurry 14 yards to a tally when the game was just seven minutes old. The infallible Lisle Blackbourn added the first of five extra points.

In the next period, Quarterback Bob Petruska, whose pin-point passing and kicking sparked the Badger attack, bucked over from less than a yard after a sustained march down the field.

Wisconsin scored two more tallies in the third period, with Christensen romping 10 yards for one and Bob Teague gathering in a Petruska pass for another.

With a safe 28 to 0 lead, the Badgers relaxed and Glenn Drahn, who heaved a majority of the 41 passes Iowa attempted in completing 12, — fired a 29-yard pass to Don Commack in the end zone. Bill Reichardt missed the conversion.

Iowa scored again a few minutes later when Gerlad Nordman crossed the double line on a one-yard plunge. This time Reichardt's kick was good.

Nebraska Returns Punt For 7-0 Victory Over Iowa State

AMES, Iowa., Nov. 12. (INS)— The Nebraska Huskers returned a 77-yard punt for a lone tally that gave them a 7 to 0 victory today over the Iowa State Cyclones at Ames.

Harry Meginnis took Omer Dana's fourth-down punt on his own 30, juggled it for a moment and romped home to score in the third quarter after being trapped three times enroute.

Dick Yost converted the extra point while Iowa State had only 10 men on the field as the result in a mixup in switching platoons.

Iowa State was inside the Husker 20-yard line three times in the initial half and threatened again in the third quarter but never succeeded in completing a drive.

Navy Takes 34-0 Win Over Lions

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 12 (AP) — Navy warmed to its task in a 28 point second half to rout a fast weakening Columbia football team 34-0 before 18,000 fans today.

Columbia made a contest of it for the first half, limiting Navy to a 6-0 lead before taking its sixth straight shellacking in eight games. The Lions wound up with a net rushing of only 23 yards after two early scoring threats.

The Middies, sticking closer to the ground than usual, pounded out two third period touchdowns and third stringers completed the rout with another pair in the last two minutes.

Michigan Pushes Past Tough Indiana, 20-7

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 12 (AP) — Michigan pushed its way past a stubborn Indiana team, 20-7 today, toward another Bib Ten football title.

The victory, witnessed by 79,200 fans, turned the Western Conference spotlight this way for next Saturday's Michigan-Ohio State battle, with the league crown and a Rose Bowl assignment at stake.

Once again, it was the brilliant performance of Chuck Ortmann that sparked Michigan to victory. The Milwaukeean completed 10 of 19 pass attempts for 160 yards and added 15 yards on ground plays.

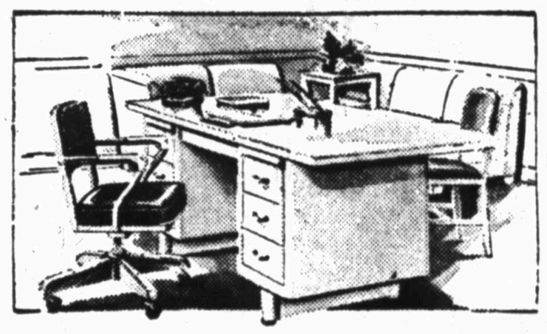

Michigan and Indiana matched punches in a pretty even first half that saw each team score. But Michigan took over after the intermission, punching over two touchdowns to end the chances of the wearying Indiana team that took its fifth conference beating in that many starts. The win gave Michigan a league record of four wins and a lone defeat by Northwestern.

East Texas State Battles Trinity Eleven To 0-0 Tie

COMMERCE, Nov. 12 (AP)— East Texas State and Trinity university waded mud here today in a non-conference game which ended in a 0-0 tie.

The East Texas Lions, champions of the Lne Star Conference, gained a net 177 yards on 70 plays and Trinity, of the Gulf Coast Conference, made 124 yards on 58 plays.

Lubbock C-C Sponsors Display Of Ultra-Modern Store Models

Models of 12 ultra-modern "open-front" stores typical of those scheduled for "The American Main Street of Tomorrow" will be shown Monday and Tuesday on the Lubbock Auto company parking lot at Ninth and Ave. J under sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce.

Developed by Pittsburgh Plate Glass company's department of architectural design at a cost exceeding $250,000, the models are en route here in two display trailers. Planned as a service to architects, merchants and civic groups interested in mass modernization of their community, the model stores required more than a year to develop and build.

Open To Public

Both showings are open to the public although primarily intended for Lubbock area architects, builders and merchants. The exhibit will be open from 5 to 10 p. m. both evenings.

Because 10 of the 12 stores are of the "open front" type, lighting of the models is of particular significance. General Electric lighting scientists collaborated in engineering the lighting arrangements used in the models. The simulated store lighting has been arranged to enhance the display effect of the store interior as seen from the street.

The model stores are constructed to one-eighth scale with minute detail. The models can be used as basic designs for any locality in the United States, said Elmer A. Lundberg, director of architectural design for the firm.

"Display" Featured

The models include a tavern, pharmacy, women's apparel store, jewelry store, food market, theater, restaurant, bakery, hardware store, shoe shop, floral shop and men's apparel shop.

In describing the "open front" stores featured, Lundberg said, "architects throughout the nation are becoming increasingly conscious that 'display' is one of the most important words in any merchant's vocabulary. Display of the entire merchandising area on the street level is what the merchant wants. And it's what he gets in the "open-front" type of store. His entire establishment on the street level become a glass-enclosed showcase.

FLIGHT TRAINING AT TEXAS BASE SPEEDED

Shortages Of Men, Materials And B-36s Pose Major Problems For Eighth Air Force Heads

By HAROLD GULLY
NEA Staff Writer

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12—The big and controversial B-36 bombers roar into the air every day from the runways at Carswell Air Force Base, untouched by the turbulent battle of the B-36 in Washington.

The battle at Carswell is not between Navy and Air Force, but against problems that have kept the B-36 training program from moving as fast as the Strategic Air Command would like it to move.

Men and materials are the headaches of the 8th Air Force, which took over the B-36 program on a field originally built for the medium-sized B-25.

Nearly everything starts from scratch.

Need Special Training

Pilots are given transition checkouts on the big bomber, and they in turn check out other pilots assigned to B-36 training. Bombardiers and navogators have to have special training for the plane's unique equipment. Even veteran gunners have to start all over, because the guns of the B-36 are different and more complicated than any used during the war.

As a further complication, the B-36 is not being produced fast enough to provide sufficient planes for constant training of 8th Air Force crew assigned to them.

Of the two bomb groups at Carswell, one it at full strength, which means 30 planes under Strategic Air Command recommendations. The other is not at full strength, either in men or material. Some of its planes are at Rapid City, S. D., however, where a mobile training units is being conducted for line crewmen and mechanics.

Shortage Of Equipment

From the start, the 8th Air Force has been plagued with shortages of heavy equipment necessary for the maintenance of the B-36, which is one reason many of the planes stay on the ground after a minimum number of flight hours.

B-36 engines are so big a new "build up" assembly line had to be developed so they could be worked on vertically. Engines arerive at the field without any fittings except cylinders and shaft; the mount, exhaust stacks, blowers and other equipment is added by mechanics at the base. A "merry-go-round" assembly line, built at Carswell, now cuts the time for "build up" on the 18-foot engines in half.

No "Mockups" Available

At present, there are no "mockups" to aid fledgling B-36 crew members in their classroom work. During the war, such aids speeded training on the ground by showing crews how parts of the plane worked. But a "mockup" of the B-36 would cost close to a million dollars, and that isn't in the training budget just now.

Carswell's trainees will have to be content with a crashed B-36, which will be utilized, as far as possible, as a "mockup." First they'll have to wait unti lthe air inspectors get through their investigation of the crash.

When the 8th Air Force does get all the B-36s it hopes to have, there'll be still another headache. The field, built for B-25s, later was a B-24 transition base and after the war housed B-29s. Even without a full complement of planes for its two-B-36 groups, it's tough to find room to park the new bomber on Carswell ramps.

PARKING PROBLEM faces 8th Air Force as B-36 bombers begin to fill up the ramps at Carswell Air Force Base, Tex., originally built as a base for medium-sized, twin-engined B-25s.

International Friendship Flag Designed

English Woman Tours World To Boost Plan For Peace

By O. H. P. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Nov. 12.—A little lady with a big idea is plodding around the world to see if she can make the idea grow even bigger.

Lady Butterfield of Keighley, England, lately has been here with her idea for an International Friendship flag. The aim behind the flag is international friendship in a quarrelsome world.

40 Nations Respond

The selfless, self-appointed, self-financed woman ambassador of friendship was born Hilda Johnston 66 years ago n Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where she maintains a home. Her husband, Sir Frederick Butterfield, died in 1943.

"Hitler took only 10 years to educate the youth of Germany for war," she said in an interview. "I am calling on the ministers of education throughout the world suggesting youth be educated for peace."

She has had response from about 40 nations to date, she said. She hasn't heard yet from Russia, where she said school children were to vote on whether they would participate.

"The friendship flag plan is in different stages of development in 34 countries," Lady Butterfield said, "and in six it already is working in the schools."

Friendship Letters Urged

The design of the flag will be chosen from those submitted by school children of the world to judges provided by the United Nations Education Scientific and Cultural organization.

Lady Butterfield, who set out on her mission 18 months ago, said she had found the Netherlands, Belgium, France, Italy, South Africa, Australia, Singapore, Siam, Hong Kong and China co-operative.

After visiting occupation and Japanese educational officials she will go on to Ceylon and the Middle East, before returning to the United States.

In addition to the flag, the children are designing friendship stamps. The winner will tour the world and personally present a friendship flag to the head of each nation, Lady Butterfield said.

Friendship letters will be encouraged between children of different nations.

Education Is Key

"Peace is in the hands of educators," she declared. "The statesmen have struggled for peace, made treaties, economic plans and pacts, but they have not marshalled the greatest power for peace in the world—the youth. Politicians could not bring about war if the youth were educated with proper international vision."

Lady Butterfield displayed letters for ministers of education of a half dozen countries praising her friendship plan and promising cooperation.

She plans to return to the United States next year and visit the heads of departments of education in each of the 48 states.

CASE NO. 438: Woman, 50, suffering with severe Migraine headaches two or three days of the week, seldom free from some degree of headache, came to our Clinic after a member of her family with an acute headache condition had been dismissed as well. A Neurocalometer spinal examination and X-Rays located a spinal misalignment in the cervical region, the cause of her trouble. After adjustments began to restore alignment of vertebrae, she has to date been completely free from any severe migraine spells, and seldom has any degree of headache. Arthritic symptoms and nervous condition have been corrected so that she enjoys homemaking once more.

ASTHMA

CASE NO. 337—Man, suffering with the worst form of asthma for fifteen years. Each day and night had become a horrifying experience. He had not slept in a bed in months. He had taken "shots," adrenaline and all "cures" doctors had advised. Patient had given up hope of ever being relieved.

The chiropractor located the nerve pressure with the neurocalmeter and X-ray found the causative vertebrae. The first adjustment was given and within three months he was sleeping in bed every night. After four months he felt better than he had felt in 15 years.

ARTHRITIS

CASE NO. 1616: A matron, age 32, came to the Clinic complaining that she had been suffering for five years with terrible pains along the spine between her shoulders which had previously been diagnosed and treated as arthritis. She also complained of period headaches, cramping, low backache, and low abdominal pains. Neurocalometer spinal analysis indicated nerve interference and X-ray revealed spinal vertebral misalignment causing the interference. She was discharged when alignment was restored at which time she had no pains and said she felt completely well.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

CASE NO. 1103: Is a lady, age 50, who came to the Chiropractic Clinic unable to work after suffering from high blood pressure, constipation, and nervousness for seven years. A spinal Neurocalomter analysis and spinal X-rays located the subluxated vertebra causing the nerve frequency interference and adjustments were given to correct the spinal misalignment. Upon discharge this case reported normal blood pressure and no uncomfortable symptoms of any kind and enough energy for two persons.

SHOULDER PAINS

Woman, 24, had pain and discomfort between the shoulders. She was bothered with indigestion, felt depressed and nervous, could not sleep nor relax and everything and everybody got on her nerves. Her neck felt tired, she had a constant headache and declared that if something was not done to help her, it would break up her home. The Chiropractor made an X-ray picture of the neck and located the place of nerve interference. This was adjusted and almost at once there was a marked improvement in her health and disposition.

NERVOUSNESS

CASE NO. 101: This lady, age 29, came to the clinic complaining of extreme nervousness for three years with spells of weakness. In her own words, "I feel like I am sinking and the least noise aggravates me." Also severe headaches, very poor appetite and dizzy spells. Her weight on entrance was 111 pounds. Scientific chiropractic spinal examination revealed a subluxated vetebra in her neck, the cause of her troubles. After a short period of Chiropractic service all symptoms disappeared and her weight is now 122 pounds.

CHRONIC COLDS

Railroad employee injured head and neck in train accident. Began having headaches, became subject to colds and flu, eyes became weak and could not sleep. Came to the Clinic and upon examination of the spine, a pressure on the spinal cord due to the misalignment of one of the neck vertebra was found. An adjustment was given and soon he was sleeping nine and one-half hours without waking and the other conditions cleared up in a comparatively short time.

Lubbock Church Facilities Are Opened To Personnel At RAFB

BY ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Recreational and social facilities of Lubbock churches are open to airmen and personnel of Reese Air Force base, a survey among local churches reveals.

These entertainment facilities which are offered are, of course, in addition to worship and devotional services at which all airmen are welcome.

At First Presbyterian church, Fourteenth and Ave., N, airmen are cordially invited to make use of the student lounge and of the student center, of which Rev. Wm. Rogan is director.

Fellowship Activity Held

Once each month a fellowship activitiy is held in the Fellowship hall of the church. Airmen are invited to attend.

First Methodist church, Broadway and Ave. N, and other Methodist churches in the city, invite RAFB personnel to make use of the Methodist Student Center at 2301 Tenth.

Student Center Is Open

The First Baptist church's Student Center at 2401 Thirteenth is open throughout the week excepting Wednesday night and Sunday. Miss Ardelle Hallock is director.

Entertainment facilities at the center are a volley ball court, special games from 4 to 6 p.m. each day, and ping pong, piano, radio and record player facilities.

On Friday afternoons from 4 until 6 p.m., a "Friendship Hour" program is held.

First Christian church, Broadway and Ave. X, has extended a cordial invitation to all airmen to participate in its young people's activities.

Snack Period Held

A snack period is held at 6 p.m. each Sunday followed by an informal parlor talk at 6:40 p.m. Young people attend the evening worship service and then return to the Fellowship hall for their "Linger Longer Hour," which lasts until 10 p. m.

On Tuesday nights an informal recreational program is held at First Christian church. Activities include ping pong, table games, and volley ball. Kitchen facilities are available for candy making, pop corn popping, and the like.

The church's recreation rooms are open on Saturday afternoons. The radio and record player are available for use.

At St. Elizabeth's Catholic church, 2301 Main, activities and programs of the Newman club, sponsored by Rev. Fr. Harold J. Powers, are open to airmen of the Catholic faith. Programs are held in the new St. Elizabeth's Parish hall.

Supper Programs Offered

Further plans for recreational facilities there currently are being made.

At St. Paul's on the Plains Episcopal church, Sixteenth and Ave. K, cadets and airmen are invited to participate in activities of the Canterbury club, held at 6:30 p.m. each Thursday. The supper and recreational programs are held in Seaman hall, the church's fellowship building.

For the young married group, St. Cecilia's Guild activities are planned for the evening of the first Wednesday of each month. A covered dish supper is served, after which those attending may square dance or play bridge or canasta.

Redeemer Lutheran church, Ave. W, and Twenty-second, maintains various recreational facilities, including ping pong and table games, in its Parish hall.

On the evenings of first and third Sundays of each month, meetings of Gama Delta, Lutheran organization for college students, are held. Informal discussions and fellowship programs usually keynote the meetings.

On the first Tuesday of each month meetings of the Lutheran Laymen's league are held.

Foreign Beauties Adding Glamor To Hollywood Movies

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12—A new wave of foreign glamor has invaded Hollywood, and the samples look fine.

1. Micheline Prelle, now toiling with John Garfield in "The Big Fall," her first Hollywood picture. Paris-born, she's slim and poised, with candid blue-gray eyes and curly light brown hair. Climaxed several French film successes with "Le Diable Au Corps," playing a married woman carried away by passion for a younger man. Her 20th Century-Fox contract allows her to return to France for a picture every year. Wants to play Sarah Bernhardt on the screen. Married to Writer-Director Bill Marshall, ex-husband of French Actress Michele Morgan.

2. Valentina Cortesa, whose first American picture is the current release, "Thieves' Highway," with Richard Conte. Has green eyes, clear white skin, reddish brown hair. Five feet three inches tall, weighs 108 pounds. Born in Milano, Italy. At 15, she acted for fishermen and peasants during village feasts, usually outdoors. Two theater critics advised her to study at Rome's Academy of Dramatic Art. She went to the Academy, took a screen test, and was kept so busy in pictures she never had time to study at the Academy. She's presently in Italy visiting her grandmother and may do a picture in England.

3. Corinne Calvet, Paris-born, appeared in several French pictures before Paramount brought her over two years ago. But she made no Paramount pictures nor any during six months at M-G-M. She was about to return to France when Hal Wallis signed her for "Rope of Sand" and a term contract. She has since done "Front and Center" with Dan Dailey for 20th Century-Fox. She's dark, langorous, and very alluring.

Several foreign beauties have been around Hollywood a little longer. Italy's Alida Valli is finishing "The White Tower," her fifth picture since coming to Hollywood three years ago. One, "The Third Man," was filmed in England, and much of "The White Tower" was shot in the French Alps.

Viveca Lindfors of Sweden made four movies for Warner Brothers, which hailed her as the new Garbo two years ago. Parted from Warners, she's starting "No Sad Songs" for Columbia. Another Swede, Marta Toren, has appeared in four films here and is now in "Deported" in Italy —all for Universal-International. England's Phyllis Calvert recently completed her second Hollywood film, "United States Mail," with Alan Ladd.

Some States Ease Taxes On Handicapped, Poor People

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (U.P.) — Fourteen states now grant some form of tax exemption to physically handicapped persons, according to the National Association of Assessing Officers.

The laws of six states provide specifically for varying exemptions on property belonging to the blind. They are Alabama, Connecticut, Idaho, New Hampshire, Indiana and Utah.

The aged, the needy and orphans are granted exemptions in several other states.

Florida allows a $500 exemption to all widows and persons who have "lost a limb or been disabled by war or by misfortune."

Housewife Teaches Carpentry To Men At Trade Institute

By LEO SOROKA
United Press Staff Writer

PRAIRIE, Miss., Nov. 12—Mrs. Mattie Lou Gann, with the unusual title "lady carpenter," thinks it's high time women looked out their kitchen window to tackle some of the jobs menfolk keep to themselves.

Mrs. Gann is an average housewife who goes beyond her culinary duties to enjoy life. Many a housewife has reached for hammer and nails to adjust curtain rods. Others wait for hubby to handle carpentry work around the house.

Not so with Mrs. Gann. Her war veteran son is amazed at his mother's talents with hammer and saw in working out a carpentry problem.

Mrs. Gann is known as the "lady carpenter" at school, where she instructs men students on how to become good carpenters. She is on the faculty at Trades Training Institute of Mississippi State College in northeast Mississippi.

Worked On Shells

During the war Mrs. Gann used to turn out shells which made her an expert on precision instrument reading.

At first, Mrs. Gann handled instruction on precision instruments used in different shops at the Institute, except for the framing square which was used in the carpentry and cabinet-making shops. Now she even instructs on the complicated framing square.

John Echols, veteran carpenter at Memphis, Tenn., was somewhat wary of Mrs. Gann's talents until he learned of her framing square knowledge.

"That makes her an expert carpenter," Echols said. "Anyone with the ability to understand the framing square is every bit a carpenter."

Mrs. Gann moves from one work bench to another while her students hammer and saw on their work promlems. In motherly fashion she'll lend a hand . . . rip out a board . . . and replace it the right way.

Applies Skill

Mrs. Gann applies her carpentry knowledge away from school, too. Right now the Ganns are in the process of repairing their home. All three—mother, father and son—are on the job.

Mrs. Gann says the trouble with a lot of women is that they stay in their kitchen instead of seeing what their menfolk are doing for a living.

"Women are just as capable if they'l look out the window at other jobs," she says. "Women can hold down many a job now strictly in the hands of men . . . it just takes effort to learn the other fellow's job."

According to Mrs. Gann, "You're never too old to learn." Asked about her age, Mrs. Gann will tell you: "I think a person is only as old as she feels and acts—and I still feel fine."

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Feed grains eased on the board of trade today, corn dropping around a cent at one time before staging a mild rally. The downturn in part represented profit-taking following advances earlier this week.

Some traders also expressed disappointment over the fact that the agriculture department's crop report, issued late Thursday, showed a decline of only 119,000,000 bushels in corn prospects between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1 in some quarters a larger loss had been expected.

Cash corn and oats held steady and there was a fairly heavy movement of corn from here by lake vessel, more than 1,000,000 bushels was loaded to move out, most of it going to Canadian ports. In contrast, 598,500 additional bushels of Canadian rye arrived here, bringing the total in the past several weeks to around 4,000,000 bushels.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ higher, December $2.11¾-⅞, corn was ⅝-¾ lower, December $1.20-1.20⅛, oats were unchanged to ⅛ lower, December 74⅛, rye was unchanged to ⅛ higher, December $1.34⅛.

Australian Prophet Accurately Predicted Date Of Own Death

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 5. (AP)—Three weeks before he died, Abmar Singh forecast the exact date (Sept. 2, 1949) of his death. It was the last of a number of accurate prophecies he made during his life. He said his age was 115 years.

Singh accurately forecast the appearance, late in 1947, of a comet previously unknown to science. He also forecast sunspots and a cyclone successfully. Once he forecast a tidal wave; there was a hurricane instead. But he missed on a number of prophecies. One of his prophecies still awaiting proof is that the world will end in spectacular fashion in the year 2000, A. D.

India soon will produce tractors.

Reservations For WTCC Banquet At Fort Worth Are Mounting

ABILENE, Nov. 12 —(Special) The West Texas Chamber of Commerce reported today that attendance pledges for its Nov. 22 water development banquet at Fort Worth are steadily mounting with prospect of one of the largest gatherings of its kind in the region's history. The 6:30 p. m. dinner session in the Texas Hotel will conclude the organization's 32nd annual convention.

D. A. Bandeen, WTCC's general manager, said ticket orders already have been received from 60 of the more than 100 West Texas towns that are expected to send delegations to the banquet. Out-of-territory reservation requests have come from Austin and Brownsville. Dallas is expected to have a group of at least 60. Bandeen said, "We expect to manage somehow to take care of all orders from wherever they may come."

Fort Worth Host

First order came from Ranger, for 25 tickets, which will place that delegation at table No. 1. Largest to date from an area town is Stephenville's for 35. Others in the 10-20 ticket range are in hand from Decatur, Odessa, Floydada, Roby, Weatherford, Amarillo, Brownwood, Eastland, Colorado City, Borger and Lubbock.

The big Fort Worth delegation, joined by Abilene's, will host the out-of-towners. The Fort Worth chamber of commerce and WTCC office there have set that city's goal at 200 attendants, and they will, in groups of from four to eight, sit with the visiting delegations at the 38 tables filling the Texas' three roof garden dining-rooms. These are interconnected. On the tables will be decorations symbolizing and dramatizing this year's convention slogan: "Dam West Texas or West Texas is damned."

U. S. Official To Speak

Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, will be banquet master of ceremonies. One of the main speakers will be a top level official of the U. S. Department of Interior. He will inform the assembly on what that agency of the federal government through its Bureau of Reclamation already is doing—and will continue to do—toward helping West Texas meet its desperate need for adequate domestic and industrial water, through construction of a series of multi-city reservoirs and pipeline systems to carry the water to the cities' gates.

The Reclamation bureau will directly participate in the Nov. 22 program when Commissioner Michael Straus formally receives from the WTCC a bound portfolio containing letters from around 100 West Texas towns setting forth their water needs. The presentation will be by Lawrence R. Hagy of Amarillo, chairman of the West Texas municipal water rights committee.

At the main table with the speakers will be, among others, U. S. Senators Tom Connally and Lyndon Johnson; congressmen and state legislators serving West Texas districts; high officials of the Texas state government; and WTCC's outgoing and new officers, with the executive board. A table also is being reserved for delegations from newly affiliated towns of the area. These will be given welcome by Ed S. Stewart, WTCC treasurer.

Twin, Held In Amarillo Jail, 'Too Optimistic' About Release

AMARILLO, Nov. 12. (UP) — Sheriff Paul Gaither said today one of the Rader twins, charged in several robberies, was a "little too optimistic" in writing his wife he would see her in El Paso next week.

The officer said 24-year-old Leo Earl Rader would find it difficult to make bond. He faces trial Nov. 21, with his brother Edward Lee. They have been identified in connection with supermarket hijackings in Amarillo and Roswell.

Gaither said Kansas City detectives were quizzing the twins about chain store burglaries in the midwest, and merchants from several cities were enroute to this Panhandle city to try to identify them as hi-jackers of their stores.

The twins' father was assessed a five-year sentence earlier this week in connection with the burglary of a National City, Calif., supermarket. It was he who told officers about his sons' activities in Texas.

The twins were arrested recently in Lubbock.

AIRMEN ARE IDENTIFIED

ROSWELL, N. M., Nov. 12. (U.P) —The Air Force today disclosed the identity of two B-29 crewmen killed yesterday when their plane crashed near Brownsburg, Ind.

The dead were identified as Staff Sgt. Henry Blakes of Baltimore, Md., and Sgt. Robert B. Roark of Neodesha, Kans.

Air Educational Flights Slated

A special program of Air Educational Flights to permit the youth of the Southwest to experience actual airline operations at a minimum cost has been announced by Pioneer Air Lines.

This is the first time in the history of the aviation industry that an airline has made available to the school children of the Southwest the opportunity to fly on a regularily-scheduled flight at a cost based upon three cents per mile or less.

Need Is Answered

Harding L. Lawrence, Pioneer's vice-president of traffic and sales, said in announcing the program that "this answers a need of hundreds of schools here in Texas and New Mexico where aviation is of prime importance yet it has been economically prohibitive to actually experience airline operations."

Pioneer submitted to the Civil Aeronautics Board on November 7, a request that effective December 7, the company be permitted to transport groups of eight or more passengers between the ages of 8 and 19 years, including one adult leader or teacher, at the low fare rate.

The tickets purchased by the students will be good on all Pioneer flights operating in Texas and New Mexico.

A Typical Jaunt

He pointed out that a typical trip would be from Plainview, to Amarillo, a round-trip distance of 146 miles. The cost, without federal tax, would be $4.40 or three cents per mile. The students would leave Plainview on any day at 11:55 a.m., arriving in Amarillo at 12:29 p.m. The group would tour the Amarillo airport and other local points of interest before leaving at 3:35 p.m., arriving back in Plainview at 4:09 p. m., all in the same day.

"These trips can serve a two-fold purpose. In addition to providing the students with an actual experience in commercial airline operations, inspection tour of major industries or points of interest can be arranged by the schools," Lawrence added.

It was pointed out that the fares are based upon short trips and are not applicable for such flights as from Houston to Albuquerque or from Dallas to Amarillo.

Jack Boydston, Pioneer's Lubbock manager, pointed out that Lubbock school students would have the opportunity to travel to Plainview and Amarillo under the Air Age Plan.

The round-trip fare from Lubbock to Plainview will be only $2.20 and to Amarillo and back only $6.60.

"Arrangements can undoubtedly be made between the Lubbock schools and the chambers of commerce and businesses in Plainview and Amarillo for students to spend an educational visit in those cities," he said.

"It is our intention to get the program in full swing just as soon as the Civil Aeronautics Board authorizes our December 7 effective date," Boydston concluded.

Pioneer provides Lubbock with two round-trip flights daily to both Plainview and Amarillo.

Doctor 2,108 Quits Under Health Plan, Assumes Own Name

TUNBRIDGE WELLS, Eng., Nov. 12. (AP) — Doctor 2,108 quit the tax-supported national health service today and went back to private practice as Dr. E. F. St. John Lyburn.

"I revolt against the antiquarian methods of medicine as practiced in this country," Dr. Lyburn told reporters.

"The £86,500,000 ($186,200,000) spent on useless pills and bottles of medicine under the act has been tragically wasted," he said, adding that it should have been spent on "good modern sensible equipment."

He said that when the new state medical service began July 5, 1948, he was the first doctor to announce publicly he would operate under it. He added he now was the first doctor to announce he would no longer do so.

About 18,000 of the country's 20,000 doctors elected to enter the plan.

Dr. Lyburn, 42, said he hoped American doctors who came to Britain to study the government health service would not return to the United States and copy what he called the grave mistakes made in this country.

When the health plan came into operation, Dr. Lyburn took the title "Doctor 2,108." He described it as the number sent him by Aneurin Bevan, minister of health.

Tech Pig Roast To Honor Teams

More than 500 agricultural students and guests will attend the 22nd annual pig roast in the Texas Technological college pavilion Tuesday at 6:30 p.m., John Dwyer, Tech Agriculture club president, announced Saturday.

Honoring 30 members of the college's seven judging teams, the pig roast will recognize the individual members and special awards yet to be announced will be conferred.

The roast will serve as a send-off to the International Livestock judging team and the Collegiate crops judging team, both of which will leave next week for judging contests in Chicago Nov. 26. The crops team will also compete in Kansas City Nov. 22.

Described by Dwyer as the largest function of the Agricultural club during the year, the annual pig roast was held for the first time in 1927. It has gained in popularity since that time and serves as medium of honoring the judging teams, which through the years have gained national recognition for the college.

Fall competition this year for all but the two previously mentioned teams has been completed. Honors have included the first place won at the State Fair of Texas by the dairy products team.

Leading agricultural and civic leaders from throughout this area have been invited to the roast, Dwyer stated. Details of the function have been headed by him and W. H. Tinney, associate professor of dairy manufacturing and sponsor of the agricultural club.

Other judging teams whose members will be honored at the roast include the Senior Dairy cattle judging group, the American Royal Livestock team, the American Royal Meats judging team, and the American Royal Wool judging group.

OFFICIALS DISCUSS PROJECT

Preliminary Planning Continues On Possibility Of New Hotel Here

The possibility of a new 250-room hotel in Lubbock to be built jointly by the Hilton Hotels corporation and local capital still remained in a preliminary negotiations stage Saturday.

Officials of the chamber of commerce revealed, however, that two of the highest executives of the corporation came to Lubbock late last week to discuss the proposition.

Officials Confer Here

They were Robert P. Williford, of Chicago, executive vice-president, and Spearl Ellison, of San Diego, a vice-president and director. They devoted most of their brief stay in the city to a conference with Retha Martin and Roy Furr, members of the chamber of commerce hotel committee, and A. B. Davis, chamber manager.

The discussions were described as preliminary to a conference, prabably several weeks in the future, with C. N. Hilton, president of the Hiltons corporation.

This meeting, when and if held, probably will be the showdown insofar as the proposed project is concerned.

Project Still Uncertain

Officials of the chamber of commerce and the corporation emphasized that, as of now, the project is in the most tentative of discussion stages.

The only thing that is definite, it was said, is the expression of interest by Hilton in investigatng the feasibility of a jointly financed new hotel of approximately 250 rooms.

There have been no authentic estimates of the cost of such a structure except that it probably would be around $2,500,000. There has been nothing definite upon how much of the money needed would be supplied by the Hiltons coroporation and how much would be required from Lubbock investors.

Local Capital Needed

It was the local consensus that the possibility of going ahead with the building depends entirely upon how much Lubbock capital would be required—and no one appeared willing to hazard a guess as to how much money could be raised for that purpose locally.

Investigations during the next several weeks, it was indicated, probably will be concerned chiefly with an attempt to estimate the maximum of the local capital which would be suscribed for such an enterprise.

It was considered unlikely that a conference with Hilton will be arranged until information on this point can be secured.

We learned during World War II what your contributed to our community as witness the following excerpts from an editorial in the Avalanche - Journal under date of 17 July, 1945:

"Literally hundreds of 'temporary' citizens — men and women — have contributed to every segment of activity since the two air stations first were activated, and some of them have brought to us new methods and ideas calculated to make Lubbock a better city. In our men's luncheon clubs, in church and Sunday school organizations, in P-TA's, study clubs, in lodges, these men and women—have had their shoulders to progress' wheel.

"Permanent citizens of Lubbock perhaps never will be able to know the full extent of the contribution made by Army people—those representing the ranks as well as those representing commissioned personnel—to our community."

This resulted in a memorandum on 24 August, 1945 to—"Commanders of all bases and installations, AAF Training Command," from General H. H. Arnold, advising that they promote the same kind of relationships.

The editorial in the opposite column continued—"It is a matter of record that there never has been a serious rift of any sort between the regular personnel of the air stations and the civilian population of Lubbock. And strange as it may seem to us here, that has not always been the case in cities where Army stations are located . . .

"This same thing cannot be said of some Texas cities and their neighboring military installations. The Plainsman, through the recent years in which this state has been almost one big training camp, has heard editors in "bull sessions" recount trouble between citizens and their neighboring military personnel; has heard some editors recount difficulties they have had with commanding officers."

In connection with these statements, Lieutenant General B. K. Yount said—"There must have been something wrong on both sides where trouble arose because since the Army Forces moved into Lubbock we've had seven different station commanders here and not one has ever failed to co-operate with civilian Lubbock in every way he could, or was requested to cooperate."

It is because we know you and appreciate you that we are so happy to have you back in Lubbock.

Welcome! BACK TO LUBBOCK

U.S. AIR FORCES
TRAINING COMMAND

As further proof of our long time interest in the Air Force and that we really want you in Lubbock, we ask that you read the following historical facts—

Lubbock representatives first contacted Air Corps officials in 1931, seeking to have Lubbock recognized and used in any way in which it and its facilities could be of service.

In June, 1932, Lubbock's first brief entitled, "Services Available to United States Army, Lubbock Municipal Airport," was filed with the Chief of the Air Corps and all ranking Air Corps officers.

In June and July, 1934, Lubbock's second brief, bringing the information contained in the first one down to date, was filed with Air Corps officials.

In April, 1939, the third brief was filed.

From 1931 through 1939, Lubbock representatives visited Air Corps officers in Washington and commanding and other officers of the several fields at San Antonio, urging the recognition and use of its various facilities.

From 1931 through 1939, 64 different groups of officers and cadets visited Lubbock. Most of these groups were cadet training flights in navigation and so forth. All flights were extended every courtesy. Members of flights stopping for only a short time at the municipal airport were served sandwiches and coffee. Members of flights staying over night were given more extensive entertainment.

Some of the groups were officers spending week-ends in Lubbock as guests of the Chamber of Commerce and attending football games or being entertained otherwise.

Individual members of every flight group were written letters after their visits to Lubbock, expressing appreciation for the visit and inviting the individuals back. We have in our files copy of a letter written Capt. Thomas L. Gilbert, Kelly Field, June 17, 1938, regarding a flight he made the day before with a group of navigtation students. Col. Thomas Gilbert was the first Commanding Officer of Lubbock Army Air Field.

In 1940 Lubbock started strenuous efforts to secure an Army air school.

In 1941, what is now called Reese Air Force Base was located at Lubbock.

In 1942, what was called South Plains Army Air Field was located in Lubbock.

The City of Lubbock purchased approximately 1,400 acres of land and leased it to the Government at $1.00 per year as a site for Reese Air Force Base.

In addition to the Lubbock Municipal Airport, consisting of 640 acres, the City purchased an additional 940 acres and leased this total of 1,580 acres to the Government at $1.00 a year. This was a total of 2,980 acres the City of Lubbock furnished the Government during the war and included the municipal airport, which was already improved with a terminal building, runways, lighting system, and so forth.

The value of all this land and the airport improvements totaled well over a million dollars, which the City made available to the two airfields.

(The site of RAFB has since been deeded to the Air Force).

This should be proof of Lubbock's desire and interest to be of service to the Air Forces.

Lubbock's interest in serving the Army Air Forces did not cease, however, with the providing of sites.

Lubbock citizens built a surplus of over 200 residences for Air Force officers.

Before USO came to Lubbock, Lubbock financed in a big way off-the-post recreation for both white and colored soldiers. After the coming of the USO, the Lubbock Recreation Council continued to direct off-the-post activities.

Lubbock constructed access roads to the fields.

Lubbock provided right-of-way for the railroad spur into South Plains Army Air Field.

In addition, the facilities of Texas Technological College were made available to the Air Forces and many hundreds of pre-flight students were trained there.

FOR YOU WHO ARE NOW STATIONED AT REESE AIR FORCE BASE, LUBBOCK CITIZENS HAVE STARTED OVER 600 LIVING UNITS TO BE RENTED AT THE LOWEST PRICES PERMITTED BY THE GOVERNMENT IMMEDIATELY THEY ARE AVAILABLE.

LUBBOCK HAS ALSO REACTIVATED AND FINANCED THE LUBBOCK SERVICE ORGANIZATION (LSO) TO PROVIDE ON AND OFF THE POST RECREATION FOR YOU UNTIL USO HAS SUFFICIENT FUNDS TO FINANCE THIS WORK — OR AS LONG AS THIS ACTIVITY IS NEEDED IF USO DOES NOT HAVE THE FUNDS.

We assure you again that you are welcome back home and that Lubbock citizens will do everything humanly possible to make you "feel at home."

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL

Women's News

Lubbock, Texas, Sunday, November 13, 1949

With the reactivation of Reese Air Force Base come a few familiar and many new faces to Lubbock. As previously proven when the present base was Lubbock Army Air Force Base, "army families" participate in various activities. Civic, social and religious organizations will soon become acquainted with some of Lubbock's newest citizens, as the wives and children of "Uncle Sam" spend their leisure time in activities which they enjoy most.

Aside from many outside interests, army wives and children are often seen engaging in "around the home" pastimes. Pictured are some of the officers' wives and children spending a few leisure moments in their newly made homes.

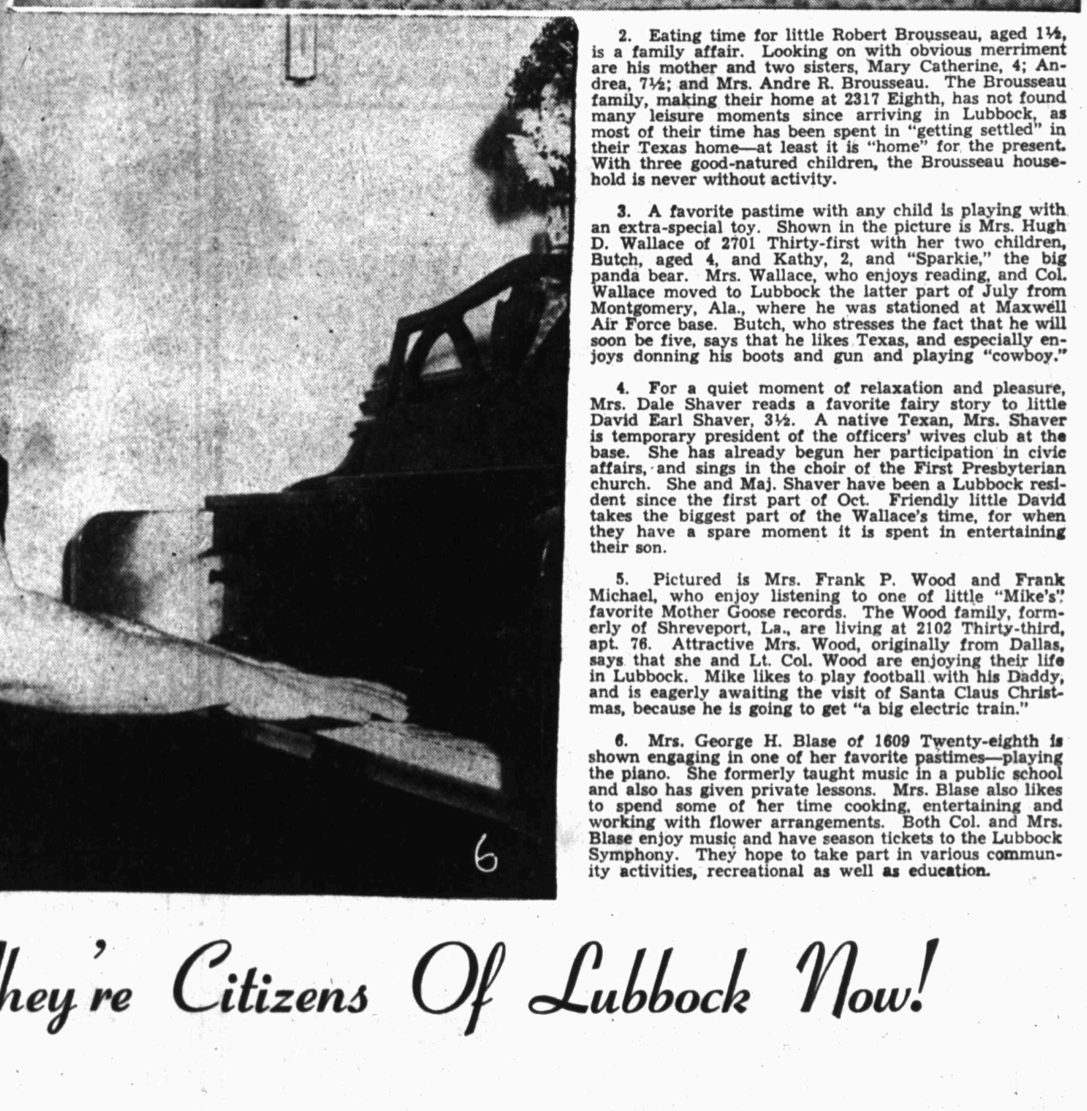

1. Pictured, left to right, are Mrs. George W. Pardy; Beverly Brooke Stabler, aged 2; Brynn Pardy Stabler, 5; and Mrs. Tarlton Brooke Stabler. Mrs. Pardy is wife of the commanding officer of the base and is busy organizing the Women's clubs. Her daughter, Mrs. Stabler, finds it a full time job caring for her Captain husband and their two children, Beverly and Brynn.

2. Eating time for little Robert Brousseau, aged 1½, is a family affair. Looking on with obvious merriment are his mother and two sisters, Mary Catherine, 4; Andrea, 7½; and Mrs. Andre R. Brousseau. The Brousseau family, making their home at 2317 Eighth, has not found many leisure moments since arriving in Lubbock, as most of their time has been spent in "getting settled" in their Texas home—at least it is "home" for the present. With three good-natured children, the Brousseau household is never without activity.

3. A favorite pastime with any child is playing with an extra-special toy. Shown in the picture is Mrs. Hugh D. Wallace of 2701 Thirty-first with her two children, Butch, aged 4, and Kathy, 2, and "Sparkie," the big panda bear. Mrs. Wallace, who enjoys reading, and Col. Wallace moved to Lubbock the latter part of July from Montgomery, Ala., where he was stationed at Maxwell Air Force base. Butch, who stresses the fact that he will soon be five, says that he likes Texas, and especially enjoys donning his boots and gun and playing "cowboy."

4. For a quiet moment of relaxation and pleasure, Mrs. Dale Shaver reads a favorite fairy story to little David Earl Shaver, 3½. A native Texan, Mrs. Shaver is temporary president of the officers' wives club at the base. She has already begun her participation in civic affairs, and sings in the choir of the First Presbyterian church. She and Maj. Shaver have been a Lubbock resident since the first part of Oct. Friendly little David takes the biggest part of the Wallace's time, for when they have a spare moment it is spent in entertaining their son.

5. Pictured is Mrs. Frank P. Wood and Frank Michael, who enjoy listening to one of little "Mike's" favorite Mother Goose records. The Wood family, formerly of Shreveport, La., are living at 2102 Thirty-third, apt. 76. Attractive Mrs. Wood, originally from Dallas, says that she and Lt. Col. Wood are enjoying their life in Lubbock. Mike likes to play football with his Daddy, and is eagerly awaiting the visit of Santa Claus Christmas, because he is going to get "a big electric train."

6. Mrs. George H. Blase of 1609 Twenty-eighth is shown engaging in one of her favorite pastimes—playing the piano. She formerly taught music in a public school and also has given private lessons. Mrs. Blase also likes to spend some of her time cooking, entertaining and working with flower arrangements. Both Col. and Mrs. Blase enjoy music and have season tickets to the Lubbock Symphony. They hope to take part in various community activities, recreational as well as education.

Multiple Home And Social Interests Fill Lives Of Officers' Wives

Women To Complete Organization Of Clubs This Week

By OLETA TOLIVER
Of The Woman's Staff

WITH the opening of Reese Air Force base and all of the new and varied activities concerning it, not among the least of these have been the moving, settling and organizational interests of the Air Force officers wives.

Although the women come from various parts of the nation and have a wide variety of capabilities and hobbies, at least one thing which they have in common in that they are all schooled in the art of traveling, moving and getting established again. As one woman said, "Never knowing how long we are to be where, it is something we just have to get used to."

Mrs. George W. Pardy, wife of the commanding officer of the base, explains that she is so busy with the interests of the Air Force and with trying to get the Women's club for the base organized, that she has little time for anything else.

Natives Of California

Both Col. and Mrs. Pardy were born in San Francisco and lived there until they moved to La Jolla, where they remained for 13 years. Mrs. Pardy described her husband and herself as "outdoor people" while they were Californians, because of their interest in swimming, horseback riding and camping. She calls swimming her hobby, and has won several cups for long distance swimming.

Concerning the progress of the organization of the Women's clubs, Mrs. Pardy says that committees have already been appointed for the base nursery, kindergarten and thrift shop, and permanent officers for the Women's clubs will be elected Wednesday. So the work of the clubs should be well underway by the end of this week, according to the commanding officer's wife.

Since Col. Pardy was also commanding officer at Barksdale Air Force base in Shreveport, La., where the Pardys lived before being transferred to Lubbock, the responsibility of directing women's activities of this kind is not a new thing to Mrs. Pardy.

Mrs. Tarlton Brooke Stabler, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Pardy, married Capt. Stabler, a native Virginian, while she and her family were living in Washington. Mrs. Stabler has studied music and voice and enjoys both immensely. Their children are Bryann Pardy Stabler, 5, and Beverly Brooke Stabler, 2.

Music Is Chief Interest

Music is high on the list of things which Mrs. George H. Blase enjoys. She and Col. Blase are also former residents of Shreveport, where he was stationed at Barksdale Air Force base, and they are now at home at 1609 Twenty-eighth.

After receiving a degree in music at Stephen's college in Columbia, Mo., Mrs. Blase went on to the University of Southern Illinois, where she was graduated with a B. A. degree. She then taught music in the Illinois Public schools and taught priavte piano lessons for four years.

Continuing musical interests in Lubbock, Mrs. Blase and her husband have bought season tickets to the Lubbock Symphony orchestra programs, and are also hoping to take part in a lot of other community activities.

She enjoys arranging flowers, and although she won't admit it, her friends tell us she is an extremely good cook. One of the things Mrs. Blase likes best is entertaining.

Col. and Mrs. Hugh D. Wallace and family are at home at 2701 Thirty-first, and moved here the latter part of July from Maxwell Air Force base in Montgomery, Ala. According to Mrs. Wallace she has been too busy gettin settled in Lubbock to become interested in any outside activities.

Army life is nothing new to Mrs. Wallace, whose father is in the regular Army and is Col. Selby H. Frank, stationed at Red River arsenal in Texarkana, but even though she is accustomed to moving often, it still keeps her too busy keeping house to have time for very much else.

The Wallaces' two children are Kathy, who will be two years old the 24th of this month, and Butch, who says he is "four, goin' on five." In the rare moments when her children or her housekeeping duties do not demand her time, Mrs. Wallace enjoys reading. She once played the piano, but says she "doesn't any more."

Compliments Lubbock

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Frank P. Wood and their young son, Frank Michael, are living at 2102 Thirty-third, Apartment 76. In Lubbock since the latter part of September, Mrs. Wood says she has never before seen so many pretty homes, schools and churches in a town of this size.

Since both she and her husband are native Texans, they are very fond of Lubbock, and are enjoying being back in their home state. Before being transferred here, they were stationed at Barksdale field in Shreveport, La.

Mrs. Wood attended Nursing school in Dallas, and calls Dallas "home." In Shreveport she was a member of a garden club, and enjoys working with flower arrangements, so she is especially impressed in Lubbock's variety of flowers and attractive yards. The Lieutenant Colonel's wife answers, "Yes" to the question, "Do you enjoy keeping house and cooking," and adds that she also "loves to play bridge." Of course, her principal interest now is keeping up with little "Mike."

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Andre R. Brousseau and their three children are making their home in Lubbock at 2317 Eighth. Mrs. Brousseau, who has been in the city since the latter part of July, says she has not had time to really get acquainted here, but already likes the climate of the South Plains. She was especially surprised at the size of Lubbock, and finds it much more modern than she had expected.

The Lieutenant Colonel's wife was already used to the frequent moving around of an army family, because her father, Col. Lynn H. Tingay, is in the service, and is seationed at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio. Of the dozens of places in which the Brousseaus have lived, Barkdale field at Shreveport, La., was their last "home" before moving to Lubbock.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Brousseau was a liberal arts student at Miami university in Oxford, Ohio, where she was a member of Alpha Omicron Phil. She now has little time for outside interests, because keeping up with her three lively children is a full-time job. Seven-and-a-half years old Andrea is in the third grade at St. Elizabeth's school. The pretty little brunette enjoys playing the piano and is very enthusiastic about living in Lubbock. The two younger Brous- Omega sorority and a psychology major. Maj. Shaver's degree was in government, and he was a member of the honorary Scabbard and Blade organization.

At present the Shavers' favorite topic of conversation and their principal interest is their three-seau children are Robert, who is one-and-a-half years old, and four-year old Mary Catherine, a petite and good natured blonde.

Likes Club Activities

Maj. and Mrs. Dale A. Shaver also moved to Lubbock from Barksdale Air Force base in Shreveport. She enjoys doing club work and has already become interested in several activities outside her home since coming to Lubbock the first part of October.

Appointed temporary president of the Women's club at the base, Mrs. Shaver has been busy with organizational work in that line. On Sunday mornings she can be found singing in the choir at First Presbyterian church.

Known to her friends as "Patti," Mrs. Shaver is a native Texan and calls Baytown "home." Her husband's former home was in Grand Cane, La. Both Maj. and Mrs. Shaver were graduated from Louisiana State university, where she was a member of Alpha Chi and-a-half year old son, David Earl.

Through The Coral Doors

Howdy folks,

The first thing to catch my eye behind that Big Coral Door was Durwood's back. After much measuring and hammering, he hung one of those striking decorative pictures found only at the Decorators Studio. The painting is a very large scaled Persion horse by Fager in a most unusual wormwood frame. There was much heated discussion between Bee and Durwood on the method of rendering. You will have to see it to decide for yourself but I know you'll agree that it's a smart and exciting treatment.

Anne and Jose came in from a showing of Goodall Fabrics' newest patterns. They were quite pleased to learn that those wonderful contempory materials of part mohair and part cotton are almost entirely a Texas product. The Goodall representative told the girls that the long staple cotton from the valley and the mohair down San Angelo way were carefully selected for these superb fabrics. Anne and Jo say they choose many new designs for the Studio's ever growing and always current line of drapery and upholstery fabrics.

Two members of the staff went to Midland during the week to put the finishing touches on a job or two. They returned with several new sets of blueprints from folks who realize the many advantages to having the interior planned before actual construction begins. It certainly saves disappointment to know that all the electric outlets are there for your lamps, that doors are properly placed to allow for better wall areas—after all, the structure is only the mechanical means for better living on the inside..

Spent remainder of my visit toting things. Fredda, Josie, and Durwood were packing the station wagon with a house full of beautiful draperies, several handsome lamps, and boxes of those perfect finishing touches, the accessories, that make a home. Looked like someone was going to have a house dressed up for the holiday season.

The staff at Decorators Studio would like to put out our big welcome mat for the Air Force men and their families who are now making Lubbock their home. Do drop in to browse and visit with us.

See you next week in the same place and during the week at 1202 Ave. N.

Vows Read In Clovis

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Pryor of 230 Ave. S, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Willie D. Powers, son of Rev. and Mrs. M. H. Powers of Phoenix, Ariz., which took place Saturday, Nov. 1, in the First Methodis church in Clovis, N. M. Rev. J. C. English performed the ceremony.

The bride wore an aqua gabardine suit with gray accessories. For something borrowed she carried a handkerchief belonging to Mrs. Eugene Frazier. Something blue was a blue garter, and her ensemble was something new. For something old she wore an 1885 Indian head penny in her shoe.

After Nov. 25, the couple will be at home at 228 Ave. S.

Methodist WSCS Is To End Study Of Japan

The Afternoon circle of Forrest Heights Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service will conclude a study of "Japan Begins Again" when members meet with Mrs. Bill Cartwright, 3304 Twenty-sixth, Monday at 3 p. m.

Mrs. Cecil Matthews will present the lesson and Mrs. Coe Ellis is to sing "Spirit Of God Descend Upon My Heart."

From Lou To Louella

DEAR LOUELLA: Several of Lubbock's recently married young women are developing a real aptitude for cooking, and according to their husbands, some of the wives are becoming "real good cooks." But many of the recent brides have learned that one secret for making the man of the house want to give them culinary compliments is to find out his favorite dish and learn to cook it well, if they never learn anything else.

Mrs. Ray Collier, 2109 Twenty-ninth, has learned that her husband is a "read bean lover" and likes to have them often. Any time Marge asks the question, "What would you like for dinner?", the answer is always the same—"beans." Young Mrs. Collier likes to fix them too, because she can do other things around the house while dinner is cooking. "Luckily," she says, "Ray likes to eat almost everything," and if he has any other favorites besides beans, they are any kind of meat and lots of ice cream.

CHICKEN AND PIES

Mrs. Bob Carmichael, 2419 Twenty-first, admits that although her husband likes chicken extremely well, it isn't one of the best things she cooks. However, another one of his favorite dishes is pie, and pretty Virginia is becoming almost an expert at baking them. As to the kind of pastry he likes best, Bob doesn't care whether its fruit or cream, just so its pie, and his wise wife sees that she puts a pie into the over every day or two.

CHOP SUEY

"If it's chop suey you like, just get the recipe from Mrs. Joe Cree," is the advice of her friends who have eaten Joy's special dish. The attractive brunette is an excellent cook, and recommends her "specialty" as being economical and easy to prepare.

According to her directions, take one can of pressed meat, dice and brown in a small amount of shortening. Slice one large onion into very thin strips and add to the meat mixture along with one cup of chopped celery. Enough water to keep the ingredients from sticking should then be added. Let cook until the vegetables are tender, then add a can of beat sprouts and heat thoroughly.

Mix two tablespoons of corn starch with cold water to make a thin mixture, add both soy sauce and brown sauce. Then pour over meat and vegetable mixture and allow the liquid to thicken. After heating the entire mixture thoroughly, pour over hot rice and cover with soy sauce.

IDEAL HUSBAND

Mrs. Max Caddell, 2102 Broadway, thinks she has an ideal husband, because he likes everything to eat and is so easy to cook for. Although "just food" is what he calls his favorite dish, Max especially likes broiled steak, pecan pie and one of his wife's special salads. Frances prepares it by adding to a bowl of orange Jello, grated or chopped carrots, pineapple cubes and lemon juice.

FAREWELL NOTE

It's never pleasant to say "Goodbye," especially to people whom you like very much, but Lou is leaving—at least one "Lou" is. Being "Lou" for the past two years has been such fun, and giving up writing three-times-weekly letters to "Louella" would be rather sad if I weren't going to begin doing something equally as fascinating.

You see, my husband, Coke Tolliver, and I are moving to Brownfield, and I'm going to learn to do a professionally good job of cooking and keeping house, I hope. But I can't leave Lubbock and the many "Louellas" whom I have come to know, without saying a very sincere "Thank you" for all your kindness and for the privilege of working and talking with you.

Thank you for making my years as "Lou" very happy ones, and since I can no longer sign my letter "Love, Lou;" I shall say,

Yours most sincerely,
Oleta Toliver.

Mix mashed turnips and carrots together for a flavor change; season with salt, freshly ground pepper, celery salt and a dash of nutmeg.

White tapers, baskets of white mums and ferns formed the altar background. As a musical prelude to the service, Mrs. Mamie I. Neal, organist, played "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and accompanied Miss Joyce Watson, as she sang "I Love Thee." "Oh Promise Me" was heard during the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a yoke of illusion, long pointed sleeves and a low waistline with satin covered buttons down the back of the bodies. Her veil of bridal illusion was attached to a satin cap with orange blossoms, and she carried a white Bible topped by a shower arrangement of white roses.

Press Photos Of Children Catch Most Interest

Associated Press Newsfeatures

Children, not Hollywood personalities, are the real stars of press photography, Dr. Ellen V. McLoughlin, editor of The Book of Knowledge, said today as she examined entries from coast-to-coast in a national press phtographers' contest.

"The American press devotes more time and space to children and youth today than at anytime in its history," she concluded after observing the scope and variety of news photographs published throughout the continent in the last six months and submitted in a photo contest which will document the story of "America's Children Today."

"There isn't a single face or phase of young America that has not been covered by the cameraman and his editor in their daily rounds in big, little or rural communities," she reported. "Our glamour ladies—what do you call it, cheesecake? — and even our statesmen do not seem to command the attention of the photographer's flashbulb any more often than the youngesters.

"The facts of America insistently reflected are the faces of happy children—at home or on a hike, at school or on a picnic; at work, at play, at church."

Play On Expenditures Of Children Will Be Staged By Students

Fifteen leaders have signed for the course.

The leaders are learning how to work with leather and metal in order to each girls of their Scout troops to make bookmarkers, leather purses, metal trays and bracelets. When the troop members have completed courses outlined by the leaders, they will be eligible for a leather badge and a metal badge.

Workshops are being conducted at Tech because of the building program which is in progress at the Scout Little House, 2600 Ave. P.

Leaders of the Overton school area are at present attending a clay modeling workshop at the home of the instructor, Mrs. Frank Ludwig, 3613 Twenty-ninth. The women are working with clay dug at Camp Las Leonitas, Buffalo lakes.

The Scout training committee, headed by Mrs. J. Nelson Green, plans the courses and workshops for the leaders.

Town Talk

THANKSGIVING decorations added a holiday note when Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Garlington, 1911 Thirty-second, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dryer, sr., 2302 Seventeenth entertained with a dinner party Saturday night at 7 o'clock in the Yaqui room of the Hilton hotel.

As large cornucopia centered the table which was strewn with autumn leaves. Completing decorations were arrangements of bronze mums, and yellow tapers burned in candelabra. Placecards featured a Thanksgiving motif.

Dinner was served to 38 guests. Canasta and other games provided after-dinner entertainment.

A regular Sunday night buffet will be served tonight at the Lubbock Country club to members of the club and their guests. Club members are reminded that they should make reservations for both themselves and their guests.

Lubbockites are still talking about the clever decorations and program featured at a dinner party staged Wednesday night at the Hilton hotel by Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Mills, 2627 Twenty-second. The theme carried out represented songs of the past 100 years, from 1849 to 1949. A Thanksgiving dinner was served to 75 guests.

Eight guests were seated at each table, and the various tables were decorated with scenes suggestive of the progress of America. For example, a tray of "gold" nuggets represented th 1849 period, and continuing in the theme of various historical eras were miniature oxen carts and cowboys, a tiny Coney Island-hamburger stand, and on up to a present-day ultra-modern ice cream stand, and streamlined trains, airplanes and automobiles.

Placecards dipicted scenes from the eras in which the tables were decorated, and each table had its representative song typed on the back of the placecards. One person at each table led his group in singing a representative number.

For the 1849 era Mrs. Mills played "Old Black Joe," "Oh Susannah" and "Turkey In The Straw." Slipping into the 1850's, Mrs. Frank Goodwin sang "Comin' Through the Rye" accompanied by Mrs. John Oldham, pianist.

Representing the early '70s and the cowboy era, Dr. Gene L. Hemmle led his group in singing "Home on the Range," and Mrs. O. L. Boyd whistled "Navajo" and other numbers. For the late 1870's Mrs. Goodwin, wearing a ruffled bonnet and carrying a basket of candies, sang "They Call Me Butterfly" from "H. M. S. Pinafore."

Songs for the "Gay Nineties" period were "Bicycle Built for Two" and "Bird in a Guilded Cage." "When You Wore a Tulip" and "Old Gray Bonnet" were used for the 1900's, and representing the jazz which came into popularity in the 1920's, Mrs. Oldham sang and pantomimed "Ma, They're Makin' Eyes at Me."

Dr. Clifford B. Jones told a "fish" story to typify the 1930's period, and ending the program with the 1940-49 era were "Deep in the Heart of Texas" and "Buttons 'N Bows."

To complete the entertainment for the evening, pictures of the styles of the years 1849-1949 were shown. And completing the unusual note for an unusually good party is the fact that the whole party theme originated from a dream which the hostess had last July.

Miss Louann Hardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hardy, 1911 Main, is one of 25 students recently elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" from North Texas State college in Denton.

The 15-member faculty-student selection committee, which was appointed by Dr. W. J. McConnell, college president, used a point system on which to base their choices. A total of 211 nominations for Who's Who were received by Dr. Imogene Bentley, dean of women.

Wichita Falls Conductor To Direct Choir School Here

Cecil E. Lapo, minister of music of Wichita Falls Methodist church, will be guest director of the Choir school to be held in Lubbock at First Christian church Nov. 21-22.

The school will be open to all choir members, directors, organists and other interested persons. The first night will be devoted to a workshop, beginning at 7 o'clock, at which various anthems will be studied under Lapo's direction. A seminar for organists and choir directors is scheduled for 9 o'clock.

Workshop Scheduled

A workshop is slated for the second night of the school, beginning at 7 o'clock, and a program will be open to the public at 8 o'clock. This latter will include anthems by the choir and congregational singing led by Lapo. He also will discuss multiple choirs and the part music plays in the church service.

A program at 10 a. m. Tuesday will be held for singers and others interested in choir work.

Lapo was minister of music at First Methodist church of Cuyahoga Falls, a suburb of Akron, O, for eight years. His eight choirs of 454 members ranged from four-year-olds to adults.

The musician has served as director of the Choir School for Youth, Presbyterian Leadership Training school, Wooster college, Ohio; director of the Summer Choir school, Portsmouth, Ohio; three years director of the Church Choir Festival, Wooster and he has been director of church choirs and choral unions in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

More than a dozen of Lapo's anthems for mixed voices are in publication and he also is composer of a number of secular selections.

POTATO HERE TO STAY

MAHOMET, Ill. (AP)—The local American Legion decided, after a record crowd attended its potato festival this fall, to make the spuds the main attraction at an annual event.

MRS. W. M. LEWIS

Norma Kelly Is Married

Miss Norma Dean Kelly of 2606 Ave. K, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Kelly of Memphis became the bride of Mr. William Madison Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim H. Lewis of 2102 Fourteenth in a service read Nov. 3 at the Calvary Baptist church. Rev. J. T. Clinton performed the double ring ceremony.

An archway of waxed leaf greenery was flanked by baskets of white gladiola, and white candles tied with white satin streamers marked the aisles. The background was formed by greenery and candelabra. Mr. J. B. Bratcher accompanied Robert Dennis, soloist, in several selections.

The bride, given in marriage by Derwood Howard, wore a white slipper satin gown fashioned with a full skirt extending from the bodice and accentuated by appliques of lace, round neckline complemented with Chantilly lace, and long fitted sleeves that came to points at the wrists. The short veil of silk illusion fell from a tiera of beaded orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet was of white roses and carnations tied with white satin illusion and net and showered with candy tuft and white satin ribbon.

In Wedding Party

The bridegroom's brother, Dan T. Lewis, of Tahoka, was best man and Miss Doris Stanley was maid of honor. Her dress was of pink satin, fashioned with an off-shoulder neckline and full pink net skirt. She carried pink chrysanthemums encircled with white carnations tied with white satin ribbon. Carolyn Ann Howard, flower girl, was dressed in pink taffeta trimmed in blue ribbon. She carried a silver basket with petals of assorted flowers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the maid of honor, 2223 Twenty-fourth. The table was laid with a cream colored lace cloth. White carnations surrounded the four-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Frank George of Littlefield, sister of the bridegroom, cut the cake. Miss Eula Denton poured, and Miss Willeta Dawson presided at the bride's book.

For a wedding trip to San Antonio the bride wore a navy blue gabardine suit with pink hat, blouse and gloves and other accessories of navy.

The bride is employed as a stenographer at the Southwestern Association Telephone company. She is a graduate of Memphis High school and Eugene Business college in Eugene, Oregon. The bridegroom, a Baptist minister, is a graduate of Clovis High school and Baylor university.

The couple is at home at 2220 Fifteenth. Wedding guests were from Plainview, Littlefield, Tahoka and Big Spring.

CHURCH STARTED

ON FOLK MUSIC

Folk music of the American Negro will be discussed by Music Appreciation club Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. F. R. Priddy, 2506 Twenty-fourth.

The common chrysanthemum probably has been known for at least 2000 years, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The Woman's Angle

By Margaret Turner

IN designing highways of the future, allowances are being made for how people actually operate their vehicles, rather than how they should operate them. Other features of the design will be wider traffic lanes, wider shoulders that are safe to use under all weather conditions, fewer intersections at grades and more effective pavement markings.

Won't life be beautiful then?

TWO-TONE — Newest lipstick trick is to outline lips with dark lipstick, fill in with lighter tone. This is strictly for women with time on their hands. Most of us do well to use one tone lipstick several times a day.

• • •

THE KISSERCHIEF

SPEAKING of lipstick, have you heard about the "Kisserchief," a white handkerchief with a red octagon center on which men can wipe off telltale streaks left on their handsome mugs by affectionate young ladies?

Ah, they think of everything—these manufacturers!

Think of the happy homes that have been disrupted, the romances shattered by the scarlet lipstick smear. Science invented it, advertising sold it and the male was left holding the bag.

• • •

FROM our vantage point upstairs we often note husbands taking leave of their wives who have driven them to work in order to have the car for expediting their shopping, visiting or other duties. During the first years of marriage the farewell often is marked with a kiss. We note that the husband usually wipes his mouth with the back of his right hand or else takes a savage jab at it with his handkerchief as wifie rushes off.

The little Kisserchief invention will help solve this vexing problem. The center is red. When it is thrust back into the pocket, only the white shows, so it looks like an ordinary handkerchief with a hand-rolled edge.

If the idea catches on, the handkerchief might serve as the accurate gauge of a man's popularity. Think of the prestige of having to carry one!

SCATTERINGS

PIQUE shirts in pink, pale green, blue, gray and beige are news, especially effective if the tie is in a windsor knot. Speaking of ties, a designer said recently if men were careful with their ties, instead of using them as a hangman's rope, they would get better service. . .When you yearn for a favorite dish—what is it? A half-hour before dinner when you think of the meal ahead, what is the one thing above all else that you would like to find on the menu? In mid-morning when your appetite indicates an early lunch, what is the dish you would like best to have? When you have worked hard or return from outside entertainment what do you want for a snack? Of all these, which is the one dish you prefer above all others? These questions came to us from Look magazine. We listed steak as the one dish we'd like if all others were denied.

SOMETHING new in plans for world peace has been suggested by a doctor in Mankato. As he sat addressing his own personal Christmas cards the other day, the thought came to him that perhaps we could more quickly and more permanently establish and solidify world peace if a large number would mail their greeting cards to Stalin and other men behind the Iron Curtain. Might be that the people of other countries, noting such a large amount of good will from the United States, would think that maybe we aren't as bad as the propagandists have painted us. . .You know what a Christmas card does to you when you get it. Could have that same effect on Stalin. Who knows?

Former Soldier Leaves Fort Davis To Go To California

FORT DAVIS, Nov. 12. (AP)—Anton Aggerman, "more than 90 years of age," has moved from Fort Davis.

Aggerman was the last "old soldier" of old Fort Davis here. He has moved to California with his daughter, Mrs. Josephine Clark, to make his home.

Aggerman was a member of the Marfa Masonic lodge and in early days often drove the 22 miles in a buggy between here and Marfa to attend lodge meetings. He had not been away from Fort Davis during recent years.

Prisoner Escapes Life Term But Is Facing Death Penalty

HILLSBORO, O., Nov. 12 (AP)—Cecil Yankey—facing death in the electric chair—probably pondered the quirks of fate today.

Yankey was charged with the slaying of 71-year-old Leroy Woodland, an old age pensioner, during a robbery March 20, 1947.

He pleaded guilty at his first trial and was sentenced to life imprisonment

After serving two and a half years in Ohio penitentiary, he challenged the validity of his sentence because it was handed down by a one-judge court, instead of a jury or a three-judge panel.

The courts upheld his counsel, Miss Cecil Shapiro, in her contention the sentence was illegal. However, they overruled her contention Yankey couldn't be made to face trial again on the same charge.

His second trial before a jury of eight men and four women in Highland county ended yesterday.

The verdict: Guilty, without recommendation of mercy.

That makes the death penalty mandatory in Ohio.

Car Production To Be Delayed Despite Steel Strike Ending

DETROIT, Nov. 12 (AP)—Settlement of the United States Steel Corp. strike won't help 43,400 idled auto workers immediately, a survey of industry sources showed today.

Spokesmen agreed that it would take several weeks of steel production to get stockpiles large enough to resume full car production.

Layoffs of 27,000 more production workers, scheduled for the next two weeks, may go ahead as planned despite the steel agreement.

A Chrysler representative said that 35,000 Detroit area workers, idle since Nov. 4 might have to wait four to six weeks before returning to their jobs.

They are employed in the Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler divisions all closed down. Plymouth division is continuing in production.

Layoff Planned

In Toledo Willys-Overland said there was no change in its plans to halt production lines and lay off 4,000 workers, beginning Monday.

The 4,000 workers at Ford's Lincoln division, laid off at the close of their shifts yesterday, will be out indefinitely.

"We will have to resurvey the whole situation," a Ford spokesman said. "It will be at least ten days before we can have an announcement."

Ford's other divisions are still operating. An earlier announcement said that they would continue to do so through November.

A General Motors spokesman said "there will be no definite announcement until we see how soon we get steel coming in." He indicated, however, that it was unlikely the corporation would change its plans to lay off 14,000 Pontiac division employes on Nov. 23.

Nash Motors officials were not available for comment. The firm earlier said that it plans to close two Wisconsin plants, employing 13,000 workers, on Nov. 18.

MERTZON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Vern Davis, former sheriff of Sterling county, has been employed as special officer by the Irion county Livestock Protective association here.

Irion county ranchmen organized the new group after several ranchmen found sheep and cattle slaughtered on their ranches and the carcasses removed.

Steel Strike Cost To America Heavy

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12 (AP) — The nation is about three quarters of a billion dollars poorer in wages, steel production and profits as a direct result of the 42-day steel strike.

Losses in allied industries as an indirect result of the walkout can not be computed, but they undoubtedly run well into hundreds of millions more.

About ten million ton of steel would have been turned out by the industry during the period of idleness. Three million tons, however, would be non-salable waste. At the current average price of $65 a ton, this figures out to a total of $455,000,000.

The steelworkers lost an estimated $270,000,000 in wages.

Puerto Rico's white population is estimated at between 70 and 75 per cent.

A nominating committee will report.

Washington Wonders If Mrs. Truman Will Fete Barkley's Wife

By MARTHA KEARNEY
INS Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The number one social problem in Washington today is when and if the first lady will entertain in honor of Jane Hadley after her marriage to Vice President Alben W. Barkley next Friday.

The jostling for invitations unquestionably would set a record even in a town famous for the rough and ready quality of its social blocking and tackling.

Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Hadley met for the first time about two weeks ago when the first lady went to St. Louis to hear daughter Margaret Truman sing a concert.

Popular In Washington

The vice president and his fiancee were also in the audience. The first lady and the prospective "second lady" exchanged a few polite words when they were introduced.

Whether or not she is entertained at Blair House, however, Mrs. Hadley can look forward to the greatest whirl since the first top was invented when she comes to the capital after her wedding trip.

She became very popular during her long visit in Washington last spring as a guest of the Clark Cliffords.

That, combined with the enormous popularity of the vice president and the romantic appeal of his courtship, assures the couple a rousing welcome.

One of the first parties in their honor will undoubtedly be given by the Cliffords. Clifford, the legal aide to the President and his wife Marny have been friends of the bride-to-be for a long time.

Another probably will be given by Mrs. Max Truitt, the vice president's daughter. Marian Truitt has been serving as her father's official hostess for almost a year now.

After the wedding, of course, Mrs. Hadley will take over as her husband's hostess.

Lucile Petry, the assistant surgeon general, has just been appointed to the expert committee on nursing of the World Health organization.

Miss Petry, the first woman ever to attain such high rank in the United States Public Health service, will attend a week-long meeting of the committee in Geneva, Switzerland in February.

Previously she had served as director of the U. S. Nurse corps during World War II.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Daniel Reynolds will always remember Armistice day, 1949, as a most unpeaceful day.

She was alone in the house yesterday when the sound of shattering glass sent her running to her living room. There on a sofa reposted a six point deer.

At sight of Mrs. Reynolds, the buck fled leaving a trail of upset tables, lamps and chairs behind him.

Quietness And Simplicity May Not Be Very Possible

It's Wedding Bells Friday For Widow And Vice President Of United States

By TOM YARBROUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12.—"I'll be pacing the floor until that day," said Vice President Alben W. Barkley, with a spark in his eyes, just like any other man about to be married.

A stalwart, immaculate figure in blue, he was standing in his hotel suite. Sitting near, full of life, was Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley, his handsome brunette fiancee. They were about to announce further details of their wedding plans.

She had told of the engagement just two nights before, thereby settling a question which had been abroad in the land for some four months.

"That day" that Mr. Barkley referred to is next Friday, when the vice president, approaching his 72nd birthday, and Mrs. Hadley, 38, will walk down to the altar of a Methodist chapel and be married, each for the second time, in the simplest, quietest ceremony in the book.

Bishop To Preside

Bishop Ivan Lee Holt is to pronounce the words in the chapel of St. John's Methodist church, a large one in the west end of St. Louis, at 11 a. m. in the presence of none but the immediate families and a restricted number of reporters, but no photographers.

This will be the culmination of a grand romance carried on, as Barkley once said, "in a goldfish bowl." It started last July, in Washington, when she was there on her vacation. As it developed, with a quickening pace, their best-made plans for privacy wound up in fairly full publicity.

Barkley made the most of the publicity; Mrs. Hadley made the best of it. He kept telling his audiences, far and wide, that he didn't know whether he would "make the grade." She kept saying "no comment." He kept turning up in St. Louis, always by plane, and she gave him each time a good welcome, trying to keep any and all to-do at a minimum.

Veep Seems Lonely

She went right on working at her job, secretary to the general counsel of the Wabash railroad. Her husband was the chief Wabash attorney when he died in February, 1945, of a heart attack. They had been married 14 years, and had two daughters.

Barkley's wife died in 1947, also of heart disease, after 44 years of marriage. After that, one of their daughters, Mrs. Max O. Truitt, became his Washington hostess.

Beneath his fine humor, and his seemingly boundless fund of quips and stories, some people thought they could detect a deep loneliness as he made the rounds of a very active social schedule and hopped around the country as the busiest and perhaps best known vice president the United States has ever had.

He was much in demand as a guest, and he had a courtly, gallant appreciation of womankind's charms—but there was no hint of romance.

Not until last July, when Jane Hadley visited Washington as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clark M. Clifford. Clifford is special counsel to the President.

On a little trip down the Potomac the night of July 8, Mrs. Hadley's first night in the capital, they met. "This is something different," the vice president is reported to have decided, the fascinating like of which he had not seen before. He told her—the story goes—that she must have had a wonderful power of resistance to have remained single until then.

Qualities Assessed

Mrs. Hadley, who still likes to think of herself as a "plain, midwestern girl with a prosaic background," also had travelled well in St. Louis social circles but, so far as her friends could tell, never had seriously considered another marriage.

Carleton Hadley and Clark Clifford had worked together on the annual musical revues at Washington university here, Hadley writing the words and Clifford directing. Hadley was a wit, a good mimic, and so was his wife. Intending to become a lawyer, she quit after her first year at Washington to be married.

Her father, a lawyer, now lives at Kansas City. Her mother, a professional pianist, plans to keep her daughter's apartment here. Jane was born in the small Missouri town of Keytesville. When she was ten years old the family moved to Sedalia, Mo., where she went to high school.

For two of her high school years she was in Europe with her mother. With a brother and a sister she went to school one year in Rome and one year in Lausanne.

A friend points to these as some of her more important characteristics: an effervescent vivacity and love of life, warmth of personality, abiding kindness and unselfishness, and an ability to fit into whatever the occasion demands.

Keeps Busy Schedule

It is not too unusual for Barkley to preside over the Senate in the morning, leave Washington for a luncheon speech, fly on west of the Mississippi for a dinner speech, and head right back to Washington for a full schedule the next day.

Barkley, taking in full stride the designation "grandfather of the year" by an organization of grandmothers and grandfathers in Chicago, never tried to back away from his role of a man in love. Over and over he acknowledged, with thanks, that he'd never had so many people pulling for him.

Late in September he told a St. Louis audience: "Without intending to do it, one of your lovely ladies has driven the duchess of Windsor and Rita Hayworth right off the front page." He had kept himself on it all along, but marital speculation boomed the interest in him to a magnitude seldom enjoyed by a mere vice president.

On becoming vice president he told a story about a farmer who had two sons. "One of them went to sea, and the other became vice president of the United States. Neither was ever heard of again." He said the vice presidency was "a cold biscuit"—and proceeded to prove it needn't be.

And so, next Friday is "that day." Barkley and Mrs. Hadley have said they want it to be as quiet and simple as possible, but with so many eyes on them they can't be sure that quietness and simplicity will be very possible.

Lazyday Applesauce is easy to nake: wash and quarter the apples, removing the stem and blossom ends only. Cook a pound of the apples in a cup of boiling water until the apples are soft. Put through a food mill or strain and add a quarter cup of sugar (more or less).

To make a quick and delicious chocolate frosting put a package of semi-sweet chocolate pieces and three-fourth cup evaporated milk in a small saucepan; cook slowly until the chocolate and milk blend easily when stirred together. Stir occasionally while frosting cools; then spread.

Handling Vast Amount Of Supplies Is Task Of Supply Officer At RAFB

The responsibility for the receiving, storing and issuing of the approximately $12,000,000 worth of supplies and equipment at Reese Air Force Base falls upon Maj. Kermit Wortham, director of supply. The property handled by him, his officer assistants, and the corps of 96 airmen and 75 civilians assigned to his section embraces more than 30,000 items and ranges from cotter keys to aircraft engines and from paper clips to the desks which serve their users.

Probably no other section has such a strong responsibility for the well-being and the morale of the entire air base. Efficient operation is based largely upon the right material at the right time. The receiving and dispensing of food and clothing for the airmen, aviation fuel for the aircraft, furniture for barracks and offices and the thousands of small items needed for the efficient operation of a business employing several thousand people is a big undertaking.

SUPPLY HIS SPECIALTY—Head of the vast supply system at Reese AFB, and responsible for every supply that comes on or goes off the base is Maj. Kermit Wortham, base supply officer.

Has Seven Warehouses

Seven warehouses and a large storage system for gasoline and oils comprise a part of the physical set-up of the supply section. On a normal day's training mission approximately 50,000 gallons of aviation fuel and oil must be supplied daily.

Major Wortham, the director and base accountable officer, is a veteran of 19 years of service, including 32 months in the European Theater of Operations. He and his wife reside now at 1712-A 10th street in Lubbock. Assisting Major Wortham at RAFB are William B. Lassiter, administrative assistant, 1st Lt. Benjamin F. McCarty, in charge of inventory and inspection; 1st Lt. Herbert A. Hauser, in charge of ordering and bookkeeping, CWO Woodrow W. Smith, stock officer for aircraft parts and 1st Lt. Frank Sheppard in charge of warehouses. M/Sgt. Edward W. Camp is his assistant.

KIDDING THEM ALONG

WICHITA, Kan., (U.P.)—A Wichita bus driver used humor successfully in the perpetual struggle to get the riders to move to the back. Said he: "Please step to the rear of the bus; you might see somebody back there you know!"

BOYS LEARN COOKING

Arfide By Lubbock Man Is Published In Trade Journal

National recognition in his field of business was accorded Lonnie Langston, CLU the past week through the publication of an article by him in the leading trade journal in the field of life insurance. The Insurance salesman.

Langston, Lubbock representative of the Southwestern Life Insurance company, wrote under the title of "An Appointment Each Morning Gives Me a Good Start." The article told of the importance of a secretary to every underwriter, and the author's remedy of making an appointment each morning before reaching the office, in order not to waste a lot of mornings, which means time.

Las Cruces Centennial Recalls Reign Of Six-Shooter Politics

LAS CRUCES, N.M., Nov. 12 (U.P.) The 100th anniversary of the founding of Las Cruces, celebrated this year, recalls what was probably one of the most spirited political rallies in American history.

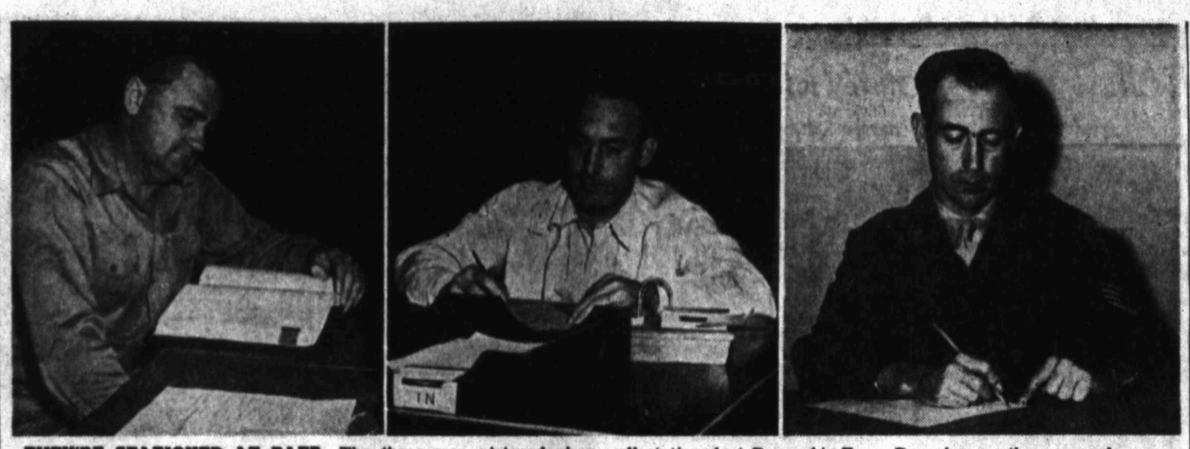

During the 1871 campign to elect a territorial representative in Congress from New Mexico, feeling between Democrats and Republicans was rather bitter at the old town of Mesilla near Las Cruces.

One August afternoon both parties staged parades. Republicans and Democrats marched head-on down the main street and came together before the Mesilla church.

Political posters were cast aside in favor of six-shooters.

When the smoke cleared, nine persons had been killed and 50 wounded.

Lubbock Insurance Men In Top Ten Of Firm's Salesmen

Odie A. Hood, CLU and Net H. Wright, both of Lubbock, wer among the ten leaders in paid business for Southland Life Insurance company during the month of October, according to an announcement by Joe Woodward, Vice President and agency director of the company.

Wright is one of Southland Life's oldest representatives in terms of years of service. He joined the company March 1, 1909, just five months after it was organized.

Hood has successfully completed all the training necessary to qualify as a Chartered Life Underwriter, which is one of the highest distinctions in the life insurance professon.

RAFB Adjutant Is Important Cog In Training Setup; Handles Files

An adjutant is defined as "a staff officer who assists the commander," and this covers at an Air Force Base approximately the same category that a general superintendent holds in a large civilian concern. Major Dale A. Shaver, who entered military service in 1941 immediately after he received his AB degree at Louisiana State University, holds this important assignment at Reese Air Force Base.

As wing adjutant, Major Shaver heads a section in which the duties are so many and varied that it would be difficult to name them, including the herculean task of receiving, recording and disposing of all mail and correspondence received by or emanating from the entire base. An assistant adjutant, Major William S. Hale, and the wing sergeant-major, H/Sgt James J. Flannigan, aid in carrying out the duties of the section and in conveying the commanding officer's wishes to the other wing activities.

Keeper Of Records

A breakdown of the mission of the section reveals numerous activities calling for efficient and precise workmanship, plus voluminous and accurate record accounting. This involves the administration of official records, eliminating those of temporary nature and arranging for filing at proper service depots throughout the United States the official records of long duration and importance. Chief Warrant Officer John P. Baucum oversees this exacting work.

Local files of current classified documents (secret, confidential and restricted) must be kept with infinite are to insure the security and efficient handling of overall Air Force plans and operations.

Other duties that keep the section as busy as the proverbial "midnight oil burning bookkeeper" are: the receiving and distribution of all blank forms and publications for the base, such as innumerable departmental report and bookkeeping forms and manuals for instruction and professional guidance; the preparation of the base history, which, in turn, is used in compiling the historical records of the United States Air Force; the responsibility for the supervision and control of the consolidated non-appropriated welfare funds, which furnish the revenue for the publishing of the base newspaper, outfitting athletic teams, equipping day rooms and generally providing for the recreation and morale of the airmen at RAFB. First Lieutenant Samuel E. Shoup is now custodian of this "Central Post Fund" at RAFB.

Added to the ever-growing list of responsibilities for the adjutant's section are two more which are of large importance to the base as a whole. One, the editing, authenticating and publishing of all orders and official bulletins, and local reproduction of professional and administrative guidance material and, second, the responsibility for the postal service so far as the Air Force directory is concerned. This entails one of the greatest of morale factors, the "getting the mail through" to each and every airman as soon after it arrives on the base as possible.

This, in brief, is the adjutant's section . . . a busy and time-consuming activity, the main spring that keeps the wheels of progress ever oiled for smooth, efficient operation at RAFB.

They're Already Wearing Diamond Rings

Three South American Girls Excited Over Jaunt To U. S.

By JAMES E. BROWN
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 12. — Three pretty South African Mormon maids enroute to Salt Lake City said today they were "tremendously excited" at the prospect of becoming citizens — and finding "clean living" American husbands.

The three who already wear diamond rings—gifts from their parents—are Anita Kehl, 21, her sister, Joyce, 19, and Joan Baker, 22.

Stop Off In London

The girls stopped off in London enroute from their homes at Rodebosch, a Capetown suburb, and will sail for New York next week aboard the Queen Elizabeth, arriving Nov. 21. From New York they will go immediately to Salt Lake City.

Anita and Joyce Kehl are blue-eyed blondes, born in the Mormon faith. Anita said, "Joyce and I have dreamed about going to the church center in Salt Lake since we were children."

Joan, a striking brunette, joined the church three years ago. When she decided to go to America the Capetown Argus newspaper mournfully said:

"The western province softball team is going to lost its best pitcher."

The three had worked in offices, Joan as a telephone operator, Anita as a typist, and Joyce as a salesgirl.

The girls laughed at their previous published comments in listing these "don't" for the ideal husband: "No smoking, no acloholic drinking, no coffee or tea."

Anita said: "We are going to Utah to work for the church and be at its center. Our town was too small and we wanted to work for the church.

"I know we will be among friends and of course there is quite a colony of South Africans already in Utah. My sister and I expect to stay with our sponsor, Dr. Joseph E. Felt".

Joan probably will live at the home of her guarantor Richard E. Folland.

She said Folland formerly was president of the South African missions and the girls met Felt's son, Milan, while he was doing missionary work in Capetown.

Joyce said, "we have clean living men in South Africa and could have been married there if we wanted to."

Then Joyce smiled and said, "naturally if we are going to live in Salt Lake City we hope to find husbands, but that was not our original intention when we decided to go."

Anita said the parents gave the girls diamond rings as "practical means of helping us because diamonds are much cheaper in South Africa than in America."

Anita and Joyce said they hoped to bring their parents to America within three or four years.

THREE BAYLOR BOYS INTERESTED IN GIRLS

WACO, Nov. 12. (INS) — Three Baylor university booys are ready and waiting for the three pretty Mormon girls enroute to this country from South Africa.

But the trio of Texans—Hector Lopez, Leo Bierwith and Mark Walraven — quickly pointed out that they are only ready to correspond with—but not waiting to marry—the girls.

The students read two weeks ago in the Houston Chronicle about the girls plans to come to Salt Lake City, hoping to find "clean-living" American husbands.

Lopez, a 22-year old army veteran from Laredo, Tex., said:

"Our main interest now is to communicate with the girls and know more about them."

Of course, his No. 1 question was, "what do they look like?"

And among other things, the boys woul like to know something about their reason for coming here, family background and how long they plan to stay.

Lopex said he and his two buddies even wrote the Interantional News Service office at London for more information. The girls are now in London waiting to board the Queen Elizabeth for America.

The three collegians, none of whom are Mormons, are all on the verge of completing their educations and admit thinking of settling down. But right now it's correspondence and information — not marriage—that they want.

They also showed more than passing interest in the diamond rings each girl received as a gift before leaving home.

Manuscript Club Will Hold Its First Meeting Thursday

The newly organized Manuscript club will hold its first meeting since its organization session at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the Lubbock Woman's club house.

Membership is open to women who have written short stories, or radio work, providing they have had something published and have received money for it.

At its organization meeting at the home of Mrs. W. M. Blake, recently, the club elected Mrs. T. E. Buckner as president. She is a former president of the Composers and Authors association of Texas.

Other officers are: Mrs. James H. Goodman, vice president, and Mrs. Ethel Hamilton, secretary and treasurer. A critic and reporter will be elected and charter membership will be closed Thursday.

Maintenance Is The Power Behind Every Activity At Reese AF Base

The power behind every activity at Reese Air Force Base is field maintenance. The fulfillment of the primary mission of the base, pilot training, and in a large measure, the safety of instructors and students, are dependent upon the work of this section, since it is responsible for the inspection, upkeep and replacement of all aircraft parts and equipment of all parachutes. In addition the section takes care of the inspection, repair and upkeep of aircraft communications equipment, office appliances and armament for the entire base.

Broken Into Sections

As in any large organization, the section is broken down into working units. Captain Grimm has two assistants, Captain Andrew B. Postlewait, who takes care of the requisitioning, receipt, storage and issue of all property used in the section and First Lt. Stephen C. Frost. There is an administrative and inspection section, another which is responsible for technical data and one in charge of production control. The maintenance of aircraft communications equipment is supervised by CWO Wayne E. Biggs. The section employs more than 200 men.

In one of the largest buildings on the base are thousands of dollars worth of heavy machinery and tools and equipment to take care of the maintenance and repair of everything from a typewriter to an airplane engine. Gilbert M. Turbeville is general superintendent of the shops and M/Sgt. Emory Conners, military supervisor. The airmen and civilians under them are experienced mechanics, each in his own line.

Many small parts are manufactured right in the shops which are comprised of more than 15 divisions. Included are aircraft repair, engine installation, hydraulics, reclamation, electrical, propeller maintenance, paint and dope shop, sheet metal, machine shops, welding, woodmill, signal communications, instrument repair, tire shop, office appliance maintenance, parachute and armament.

THEY KEEP 'EM FLYING—The men in line maintenance are the ones who do the work and receive little of the glory. To them falls the important but often little noticed job of "keeping 'em flying." Left to right are Pfc. E. E. Weller, Pfc. D. O. Widgeon, Pfc. C. I. Green and Sgt. H. B. Swan.

Gas Company Starts Installing New Pipe

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 12—West Texas Gas company officials have announced that construction crews have started installing approximately 10 miles of 6 5/8-inch natural gas transmission pipe line between Wellman and Seagraves. The large line will replace 3½-inch pipe which is now in use.

Approximately 14 miles of 6 5/8-inch pipe was used to replace the same amount of 3½-inch line between Brownfield and Wellman this spring. The present construction work is a continuation of the early 1949 installation work.

The new line will connect with the line installed early this spring and also with the 7-inch line between the West Texas Gas company's Tahoka compressor station and Brownfield. The 7-inch line was installed in 1948 and replaced approximately 10 miles of 4-inch transmission line.

The new line is expected to be completed within the next two weeks.

Men Indicted At Brownfield To Be Tried During December Term

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 12—Five men indicted by a district court grand jury in session here this week are expected to be tried at a Dec. 12 term of district criminal court.

Indicted on burglary charges were Cash Bevers, Jack Dillard, John L. Overman, jr., and Perry Boyd. S. B. Carnes was indicted on a forgery charge.

Bevers and Dillard are accused of stealing clothing from a farm home in the Tokio community, and Overman and Boyd are charged with the burglary of a Brownfield grocery store.

Also expected to be tried at the Dec. 12 term of court is Antonio Gonzales, 44-year-old Mexican, charged with the slaying of a negro woman here in February, 1949. He was recently arrested at Vernon, Tex., after a search of more than four years.

Wisconsin University Women's Dorm Invaded By Men, Animals

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 12. (AP)—About 500 men students let sheep, white mice, guinea-pigs, cats and dogs loose in a University of Wisconsin Women's dormitory last night.

While co-eds and alumnae stood on chairs and squealed, the men paraded around the dormitory and flung bedclothes off the beds.

Campus Cop Joe Hammersley pulled up in his squar car, rushed in and, with the help of other officers, herded the menagerie out of Elizabeth Waters hall.

When Hammersley got back to his car he found it with the tires flat and a well greased pig reclining on the seat.

It was, police said, a "normal" homecoming eve.

Pitchblende Deposit Reported Discovered By California Men

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12. (AP)—Discovery of a rich pitchblende deposit — source of radium and uranium—has been reported by two Los Angeles prospectors.

Richard E. Darnell and George Taylor claimed yesterday that ore from a giant slab between California's Panamint mountains and Death Valley had been assayed at $16,000 to $17,000 a ton. Darnell said that rolls of ordinary camera film taken into their mine shaft had been exposed by radioactive rays.

A spokesman for the Atomic commission said that if the claim is substantiated it will be the first major pitchblende strike in California. The minerals is not being mined in the state at present, he said.

The AEC would take over as guardian of sources of uranium, a basic material of the atom bomb.

COWPOKE BOOTS OK

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.)—Pfc. Charles E. Lantz at Carswell Air Force Base here carries an official letter permitting him to wear cowboy boots with his uniform. When he entered the service during World War II, he found GI shoes hurt his feet—they had grown to fit cowboy boots. So his superiors gave him a letter permitting him to wear them.

Airmen's Legal Problems Worked Out By Maj. Stulb, Legal Officer

When the airmen of Reese Air Force Base have a problem on which legal advice is desired, they seek an audience with Major Joseph G. Stulb, jr., Wing Legal Officer. Sound legal advice is theirs for the asking. Many such problems are discussed in his office and the smiling, friendly Major is happy to serve them.

Claiming New Orleans, La., as his hometown, Major Stulb has had an interesting military career. He was first commissioned in the Field Artillery in 1938, but later returned to civilian life to complete his law training and was graduated from Louisiana State university at Baton Rouge in 1941. Reentering the Army Air Corps, he attended Command and General Staff School and the Air Staff College in 1944, and served in the Pacific Theater of Operations as Intelligence Officer.

The major joined the 3500th P.T.W. in 1946 and transferred to Lubbock from Barksdale Air Force Base, La., in September. Major Stulb resides with his wife, the former Miss Doris Crawley of Columbia, Miss., and their small son at Main and Ave. R, Lubbock.

Doctor Assures Parents High School Football Is Safe Sport

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Dr. Edward J. Grosdidier, 46, believes parents who fear for their boys in high school football games are worrying needlessly.

Dr. Grosdidier for 15 years has given his services to Ward High School here. He's a perennial "benchwarmer" at Ward games and is regarded as so important that games have been delayed to allow him to reach the field.

With proper supervision, training and equipment, Grosdidier said, youths are in less danger on the football field than they might be in many other pastimes.

"They're practically immune to 'combat' injuries of consequence," he said.

Tin Pan Alley Song Writers Try Hands At Religious Music

By CLAIRE COX
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Two Tin Pan Alley song writers have turned their attention from syncopation to the Scriptures so they can help fill an unprecedented demand for new religious music.

Howard Fenton, 28, and Gene Bone, 32, are trying to fill the needs of atomic age worshipers with songs set to the Psalms and lyrics of their own, appealing for world peace and brotherhood. They started writing religious music more than a year ago, when word reached their ears that Bible sales were hitting an all-time high and church attendance was increasing.

Bone, son of Menlo Park, Cal., Presbyterian minister, consulted his father, who told him he would be doing a real service for mankind if he turned his efforts to church music instead of love ballads.

Not Easy Living

It isn't easy for composers to make a living on religious music, but Bone and Fenton decided to live on their royalties from a couple of hits for a while and see what they could do about improving church music.

"There are plenty of hymns, and good ones, too," Fenton said, "but there hasn't been any good choir or solo stuff written for a long, long time. We used mostly Bible passages for our lyrics because we feel the lyrics are the most important part of a song and who can improve on the Bible?"

And so, in their apartment in the heart of Manhattan's Tin Pan Alley, the boys set to work. They have written music to the first and 119th Psalms, and their own peace hymn, "Prayer of a Waiting World," which they call a modern spiritual.

Not Junk, Anyway

They played and sang their songs while the composer next door was rapping out boogie woogie on his tinny piano and the musical neighbor upstairs chanted a corny ballad off key.

"That's a lot of junk," said Bone, who 12 short months ago was part of the tinny Tin Pan Alley chorus. "At least what we are doing is not junk. We are trying to help fill the barrier between classical stuff like Handel and Bach and what soloists can handle. We are trying to write music that the average church soloist can sing, and most of them are housewives, not opera sopranos.

"Of course, we'll have to go back to moon and June stuff pretty soon. Song writers have to eat, you know."

BEATS HIGH PRICES

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., (U.P.)—Charged with embezzlement, Joy L. Pitts, 54, bus driver, explained that he had pilfered a couple of dollars a day out of the fare box for seven years so he could keep up with the high cost of living.

First Demonstration Of Large Screen Video Staged In 1920s

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP) — What is regarded as the first demonstraton of large screen theater television was presented here two decades ago.

The system used, a projector with a motor-driven scanning disc, was developed by Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson. In the test, an orchestra in the theater was directed by the enlarged image on the screen of the conductor who was in the studio some distance away.

The screen was seven feet high. Since then theater projection has advanced to the point where the pictures are movie screen size.

Georgia's Governor Blasts U. S. Policy

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 12 (U.P.) — Gov. Herman Talmadge is convinced that the United States is traveling the same path that led England to become "a second-rate power."

In an address here, Talmadge blasted what he called the nation's "current national policy of tax and regulate." He said it is leading the country away from capitalism and free enterprise which "has blessed the nation with the highest standard of living that the world has even known."

Talmadge maintained that the current trend is toward a greater dependence upon government, or toward a welfare state. This means, he said, "more taxes and more regulation."

The young Georgia chief executive said he is convinced that unless the trend is checked, "eventually our children will be told by the government how, where and at what price they will work."

Such a system, he maintained, will bring about "timid and regulated" citizens rather than "dynamic, ambitious and unafraid" ones.

Rare Emperor Geese Captured By Explorer Off Arctic Coast

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 12 (U.P.) —Pittsburgh's Highland Park zoo has acquired four emperor geese and it is believed they are the only ones in this country.

The rare specimens were captured off the Arctic coast by Dr. D. S. Newill of Connellsville, Pa., who has just returned from a year's tour of Alaska, the Orient and the Pacific.

"They've rarely been seen by white men, much less captured," Newill said, "I'm quite sure these are the first to be seen in the United States."

For a hearty luncheon or supper dish add slices of frankfurters to a soup of dried split peas: use either the yellow or the green peas for the soup.

Some of the strained and chopped baby foods, such as prunes and peaches are delicious folded into a gelatin salad for the whole family.

Here, There Among Officers And Personnel At Reese Air Force Base

PUBLICATIONS AT RAFB—Airmen are kept busy in the wing publications office during the day publishing special orders, daily bulletins and many other publications for Reese AFB. Pictured above are Sgt. Walter Bowles and Sgt. Loyd Spradley operating two mimeograph machines.

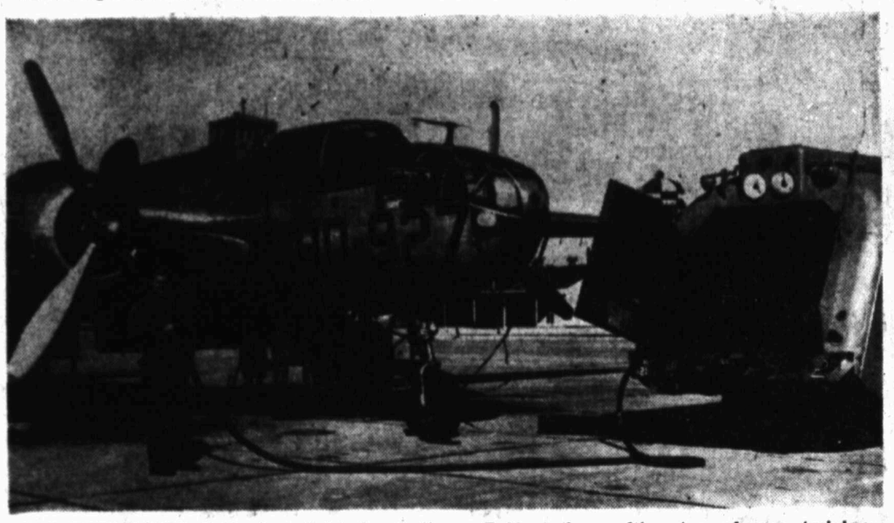

READY TO MEET THE COMMANDING OFFICER—Lined up in front of the base theater at Reese Air Force Base prior to going inside to listen to an address by the base commander, Col. George W. Pardy, is the corps of Cadets, the first group to reach the air base.

NICE WORK IF YOU CAN GET IT!—S/Sgt. Paul Holley of the public information office at RAFB, takes time out from the usually trying job of turning out the base paper, The Roundup, to take on a much more pleasant task. He is interviewing movie starlet, Earleen Brown, who is visiting her parents M/Sgt. and Mrs. Walter J. McCloskey who reside on the base.

GROUP II COMMANDER—Maj. Richard P. Haney, Assistant Director of Flying and Commander of Group II Training Section, pictured above going over plans for training of cadets in his group.

GAS TRUCK AND B-25—Just finished refueling a B-25 at the multi-engine advance training school at Reese AFB is Sgt. Hershel Golden.

MOTOR TRANSPORTATION BOSS AND CHIEFS—Detailing duties of the day in motor transportation and maintenance is Capt Luther H. Moore, motor pool officer. Receiving the instructions are S/Sgt. A. A. Bowen, truck master, and M/Sgt. G. H. Gray, chief of refueling, at RAFB.

CADET ENJOYS FIRST DAY IN LUBBOCK—Cadet Stephen Q. Jamison, of Charleroi, Pa., a member of class 50-A at Reese AFB in advance multi-engine training, enjoying breakfast down town. CIVILIAN EMPLOYE AT AIR BASE AGAIN—Fred T. Poe of 904 Avenue W, Lubbock is employed at RAFB as ground safety engineer. Mr. Poe was formerly assigned to the South Plains Air Base, 1945 to 1947, as a safety engineer and then was transferred to Randolph AFB, San Antonio, and has recently been reassigned to his home town again.

Gingles, assistant chief Ed Gullotte, Fire Captain E. H. Harkins, house captain, G. W. Hogg, Sgt. W. L. Gray, S/Sgt. Robert Neefe, military crew chief and Pfc. C. G. Bond.

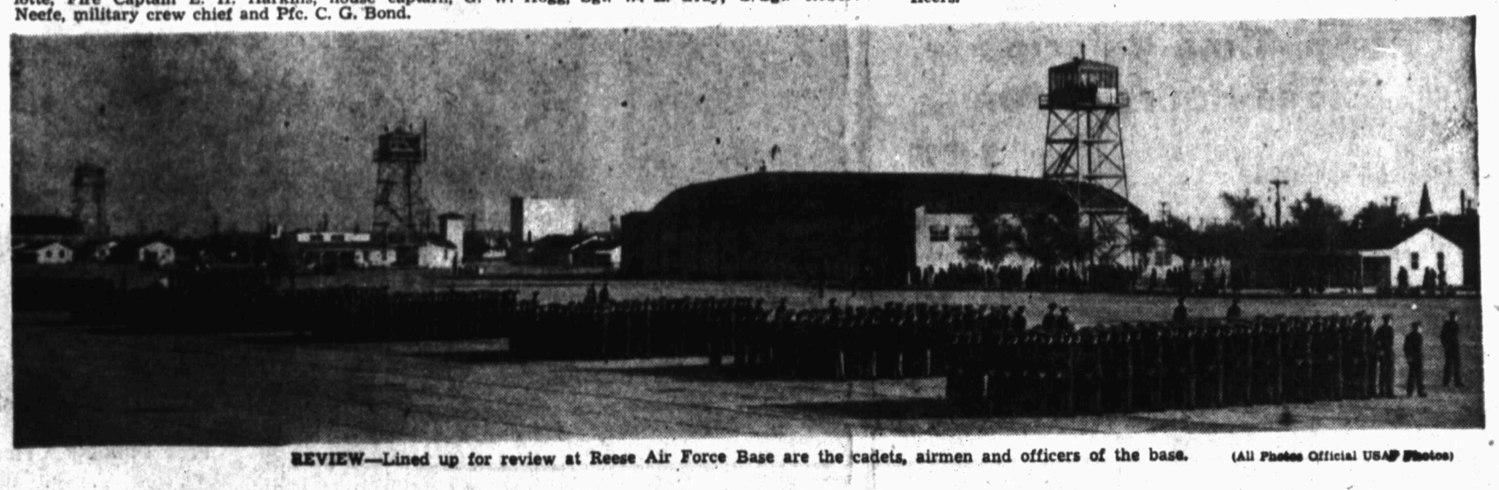

PAPER WORK — The Klein brothers, Norman and Lawrence, Aviation Cadets in class 50-A, from Altadena, Calif., are busy at work going over the vast amount of paper work that meets each new comer at the base. Both of the above cadets are cadet officers.

VERY IMPORTANT FUNCTION—The only concession made to the photographer for this picture was to move back from the separating rack long enough for him to snap the picture. Nothing lowers the morale of a service man faster than a delay in getting his mail. Realizing this, members of the post office staff at Reese AFB work diligently to keep track of incoming and outgoing personnel, so that their mail may be forwarded. Pictured above are Cpl. Donald A. Misiewicz, Cpl. Marion E. Heard, S/Sgt Thomas R. Carleton and Sgt. John L. Alverson.

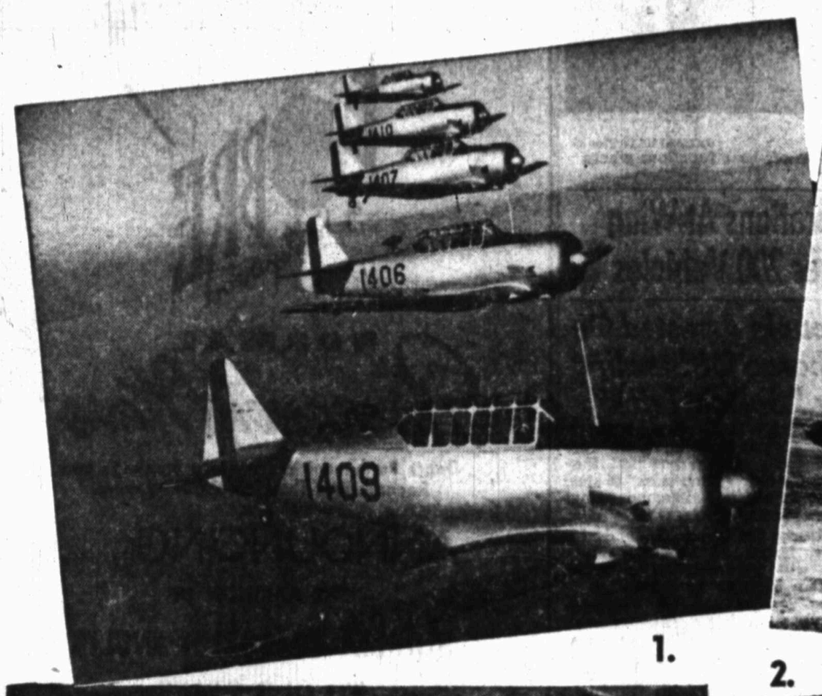

HE KEEPS THEM IN LINE—The duty of seeing that all sections at Reese AFB adhere to regulations and are informed on proper operating procedures, falls to Lt. Col. Edward J. Culleton, base air inspector.

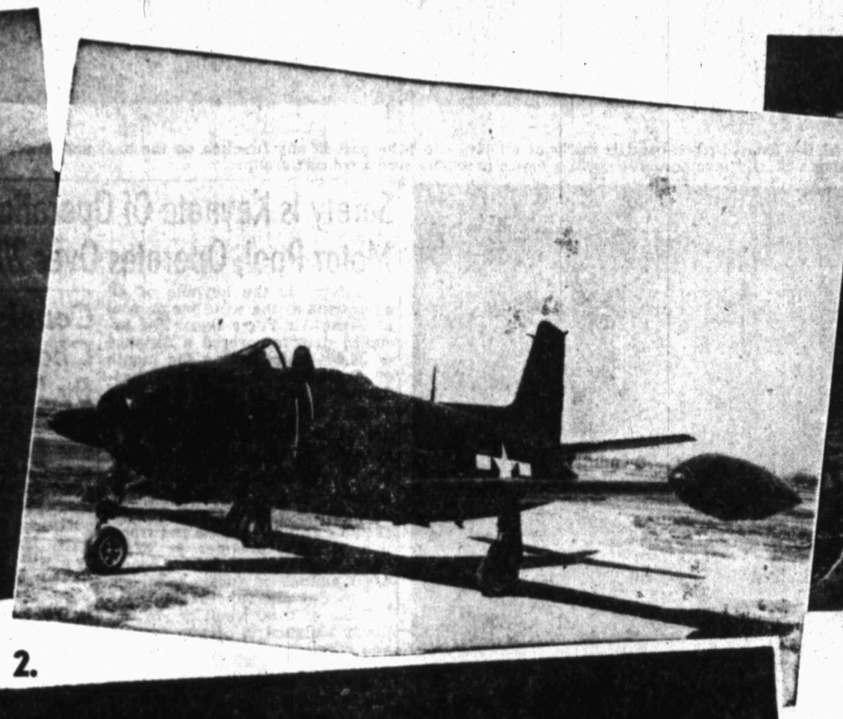

REVIEW—Lined up for review at Reese Air Force Base are the cadets, airmen and officers of the base. (All Photos Official USAF Photos)

Music For RAFB Reviews Played By Colorful 514th Air Force Band

When the airmen of Reese Air Force Base pass in review, they are usually keeping in step with the music of the 514th Air Force band. This colorful organization, under the direction of CWO Carmine Luce has appeared at the graduation ceremonies, reviews, service clubs, and at special functions of the Air Force, providing concert music, dance orchestras and other instrumental combinations and individual musicians to the fullest extent practicable in the recreational and entertainment program at Lubbock Air Force Base.

The 34 members of the 514th Air Force band were transferred along with other units from Barksdale Air Force Base, La. The band is under the overall supervision of Colonel George S. Howard, chief of bands and music, and director of the United States Air Force band, Washington, D. C. Several members of the local organization are graduates of the USAF bandsman school.

Born In Naples, Italy

The 514th AF band was transferred from Lincoln, Neb., to Barksdale Air Force Base, La., and it was while still at Barksdale, joined there by Mr. Luce in October, 1948. Beginning a colorful military career at an early age, Mr. Luce was born in Naples, Italy. He began his study of music at the tender age of four and has been continuing since. Coming to the United States at the age of five, he is now a veteran of 33 years in the military service.

His career as a military band director was temporarily halted during World War I when the band exchanged musical instruments for rifles. Mr. Luce was twice wounded in combat and lost a leg as a result of one of the wounds. His decorations include the Croix de Guerre, a Commendation Ribbon and the Fourragere. He resumed his musical career in the Army in time to lead his band into Coblenz. Transferring later to the Air Force Mr. Luce has attained a vast reputation, and is, in adddition to being conductor of the 514th Air Force band, supervisor of all the bands within the Air Training Command, which are 17 in number. He is proficient with any instrument, but the trombone remains his specialty and he makes many of the arrangements for the band.

Wife Is Musician, Too

Mr. Luce is married to the former Edith Noel of San Antonio, who is in her own right a noted concert and opera singer, and often appears with the band. Mr. Luce has two children by a former marriage, a son and daughter, both of San Antonio.

Assisting Mr. Luce locally are M/Sgt. Charles L. Simmons of Kermit, the assistant conductor. A veteran of eight years in the Air Force, M/Sgt. Simmons enjoys his work thoroughly. Handling the administrative details of the units is M/Sgt. Presly B. Wood of Little Rock, Ark. Sgt. Wood is also a veteran of eight years service.

Thus the personnel of Lubbock Air Force Base salutes the 514th Air Force Base, a unit that adds prestige to the base and the Air Force as a whole.

Woman Found In Tavern Cistern Believed To Be Robbery Victim

VICHY, Mo., Nov. 12. (U.P.)—Police suspected murder today in the death of Mrs. Wildera Snodgrass, 38, whose body was found in six feet of water at the bottom of a tavern cistern.

Maries county authorities said Mrs. Snodgrass worked as a barmaid at the tavern near here.

While no marks were found on the body, police thought that she may have been robbed because she was clutching a purse containing only one penny.

LAW SEES IT THROUGH

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.)—Detectives had to sit through a double feature movie with a 21-year-old prisoner to clear up a $400 safe burglary. It was the "last request" of the suspect, who promised to give details of the burglary if he could see the movie.

Safety Is Keynote Of Operations At Wing Motor Pool; Operates Over 200 Vehicles

"Safety" is the keynote of all operations at the wing motor pool at Reese Air Force Base. The assigned drivers covered a distance of 34,644 miles during the month of October with only one accident and that of a minor nature.

More than 200 gasoline vehicles are operated by motor pool personnel, including jeeps, sedans, trucks, and heavy equipment. The refueling section which is on duty 24 hours a day, ready to furnish gasoline and oil to base and transient aircraft, operates 21 heavy duty trucks which haul 2,000 to 4,000 gallons of fuel.

Drivers Take Tests

Some of these vehicles are regularly assigned to certain sections and others are kept in the pool to be dispatched when needed. A dispatcher is on duty throughout the 24-hour period.

All drivers of government vehicles are required to take a test and if they do not pass this satisfactory they must take a 40-hour course in the drivers' school. Up to date, a school has not been set up on Reese Air Force Base. Plans are being made for such a school and for the construction of a test course. To encourage safe driving, operators are awarded badges for no-accident records over given periods of time.

Capt. Luther H. "Rip" Moore is supervisor of the wing motor pool at RAFB and is assisted by First Lt. Wolliam E. Carender. M/Sgt. Thomas J. Hale is motor pool chief and M/Sgt. Glenn H. Gray, refueling chief.

Couple Arrested On Charge Of Stealing By "Switch Trick"

ALBERT LEA, Minn., Nov. 12. (U.P.)—A young man and wife were held today on charges that they used the old "switch trick" to steal steal expensive diamond rings from jewelry stores.

George Schoucks, 27, and his wife, Isabel, 29, of Cedar Falls, Ia., will be arraigned on grand larceny charges here Monday.

They were arrested yesterday in Owatonna, Minn., 30 miles south of here, on a jeweler's charge that they substituted cheap rings for authentic diamond rings worth $800 by diverting his attention momentarily.

The couple denied the charges.

The Schoucks' car was searched and two of the rings were found in an ashtray. Police also found several fake rings.

When other rings could not be found, police had the couple x-rayed to see whether they had swallowed any. The x-ray showed nothing.

HOME JAIL PREFERRED

STRAWN, Tex. (U.P.)—A Strawn man got into a tavern fight at nearby Mingus, returned here, called up officer Ben Bradford and told him he was going to jail and lock himself up. When Bradford reached the jail, the man was behind bars.

School For Bakers Slated This Week

A new streamlined school for bakers sponsored by the Fleischmann division of Standard Brands, Inc., will hold a three-day session for local bakers Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Hilton hotel.

The school will be conduct... from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day. The theme of the course is "Accent of Quality." It was developed in the belief that when bakery ingredients shortages no longer exist it would be helpful to bakers in immediately producing finer quality products.

Modern visual aid equipment is used for instruction, including full color motion pictures, sound slide films and slides. Another outstanding feature is a completely equipped miniature bakery which can be arranged to illustrate the proper arrangement of bakery equipment and use of space for large, small or medium-sized bakeries.

The course is conducted by G. W. Thomas, an experienced baker and instructor. Bakers who attend the course will receive a binder containing a review of all material and a certificate acknolwedging their participation.

Personnel Services Section Takes Care Of Airmen's Off-Duty Time

That time honored phrase, "An army marches on its stomach," is very fitting but at the same time the Air Force doesn't forget that in addition to food, an airman has to have something to do with his off-duty time. Realizing this, the Air Force has set up an organization on each base known as Personnel Services, and to this section has been delegated the duty of providing an organized entertainment, recreational, and athletic program.

The Personnel Services Section at RAFB under the direction of Capt. N. N. Wynkoop has made great strides in organizing such a program for personnel of the base. Since the reactivation of RAFB an enormous amount of work had to be accomplished to get the facilities in shape and supplies on hand for operating the program.

Has Able Assistants

Personnel Services covers a lot of sections on RAFB and to accomplish the work efficiently, Captain Wynkoop has a group of able assistants to help him. First Lt. Thornley C. Cary is his Special Services Officer and supervised by him are the Base Library, Base Theater, Service Center, and the Information and Education Section. Assisting Lieutenant Cary is T-Sgt. Adam H. Price, theater manager, M-Sgt. C. A. Seily, NCO in Charge of I&E, and Cpl. Hyle E. Segar in charge of the Service Center.

Lieutenant R. E. Englebretson is the Athletic Officer under Captain Wynkoop, and he has charge of the Base Gym and also the job of assistant special services officer. To him falls the duties of running the gym and organizing an athletic program for the base. M-Sgt. N. P. Nickelson is his chief assistant. Things are just getting under way in the form of an athletic program for RAFB but already major improvements have been made in the plant.

Supervises Clubs

M-Sgt. G. T. Peffers is the noncommissioned officer in charge of personnel services and as such is chief assistant to Captain Wynkoop. On his shoulders fall the duties of drawing up reports and handling administrative matters for the section.

The non-commissioned officers' club and the officers' club at RAFB come under personnel services section also, but only for reports and assignment of operating personnel.

All in all the personnel services section at RAFB has accomplished a lot of work but more still remains to be done and Captain Wynkoop and his assistants are working on it every day.

Woman Electrocuted By Wire In Attempt To Reach Wrecked Auto

BRECKENRIDGE, Nov. 12. (AP) Mrs. R. H. Connally of Stephenville was electrocuted yesterday as she stepped on a fallen electric line trying to aid two Brownwood youths hurt in an automobile accident.

The wire was knocked down when a car occupied by Mark Kelso, 21, and Rayford McShann, 20, overturned 14 miles north of here.

Mrs. Connally's husband received a serious shock and E. V. Lively of Breckenridge suffered burns on a leg trying to rescue Mrs. Connally.

The Connallys were on their way to Knox City. They were behind the Brownwood car when it overturned. Mrs. Sonnally failed to see the wire in the grass as she tried to reach the overturned car. She was killed instantly when she came in contact with the wire.

Neither Brownwood youth was hurt seriously.

Character Guidance Work Is New Air Force Program; Set Up In 1948

"Character Guidance" is a comparatively new title in Air Force parlance, but it refers to one of the largest and most important programs now affecting Air Force personnel.

"A happy man is an efficient man" could well be the slogan back of the program which was established for the Air Forces in November, 1948. The presidential executive order prescribing the program for all levels of command affirmed it to be "The policy of the government to encourage and promote the religious, moral and recreational welfare and character guidance of persons in the Armed Forces and there by to enhance the military preparedness and security of the Nation."

The implementation of the program involves coordination among a number of sections on the base and covers a wide range of activities, all of which affect the character and personality of the airman.

Chaplain Has Leading Part

The chaplains play a leading part by making themselves available for consultation on personal and family problems in addition to their primary function of spiritual guidance. Regular periods in the airman's training schedule are set aside for instruction in citizenship and morality by the chaplains and all military personnel are required to attend these lectures. In order to be of real assistance to the airman in his personal problems coordination is often required from other sections, such as the medical, legal, provost marshal, ground safety and, in emergency, the Air Force Aid Society.

The primary responsibility for providing outlets for physical expression falls on personnel services and is carried out by a planned program of sports and other recreational activities. Opportunities for study and higher education are provided through the information and education section which provides off-duty classes and extension courses through the United States Armed Force Institute.

Meet To Discuss Problems

Character Guidance goes even further. Representatives of airmen in each section, from the squadron level on up, meet on a board to discuss problems affecting airmen and to suggest methods of improving the program and additional means for fostering good character guidance. Each squadron board meets twice a month and their findings go to the group board which meets once a month. This board, in turn, reports to the wing board which meets quarterly to consider problems and suggestions initiated in the squadron and group. At each level these boards are made up of selected airmen, usually leading non-commissioned officers who have displayed their abilities as outstanding leaders and who have the confidence of their companions.

All of these work together to insure that the airmen away from home will have the same social and religious opportunities he would have in his home environment. The Character Guidance program is comparatively new, but the results have been good, even beyond expectation, according to a recent statement from the office of the chief of chaplains.

Giant Wedding Cake Made For Daughter Of Baker Praised

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—The wedding cake almost stole the show at the marriage of Katherine Zderad and Kenneth Robbins.

"As many had come to see the cake as to see us," the young couple laughed.

The cake was a masterpiece of pastry art, and it was made by Katherine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zderad, bakery owners.

The 500 guests who went to the wedding of the baker's daughter said the four-tiered, 175-pound cake was one of the most intricately beautiful products ever seen in this part of the country.

The cake itself was baked the night before the wedding, but it took a week of intensive preparatio nto get it ready. And it almost took a set of blueprints to put it together.

Gowns Reproduced

Zderad preoccupied himself with making a pastry gondola, swans, wedding bells and hundreds of hand-made flowers. His wife copied the bride's hoop-skirted white satin gown and the bridesmaids' pastel-hued frocks for dolls dressed in miniature replicas of the bridal party costumes.

Courtship was the theme of the design, with the cake placed on a blue mirror to represent the sea of matrimony. Each section was decorated in accordance with the theme and each of the four tiers was held up by five decorated columns.

The cake's ingredients included 30 pounds of flour, 18 pounds of butter, 40 pounds of sugar, 30 ounces of baking powder, 12 ounces of salt, 300 egg whites and 12 quarts of milk. The icing took 25 pounds of powdered sugar and 60 egg whites.

It was truly a monumental achevement and so awed the bride that her nerve failed after the wedding. She couldn't eat the cake.

Civilian Doctor, Two Dentists Urgently Needed At RAFB

A civilian doctor (MD) and two dentists are urgently needed at Reese Air Force Base, according to Capt. Earl E. Starkey, civilian personnel officer. They can be employed either part or full time at a salary of approximately $5,400 per annum based on a 40-hour week.

A total of 329 civilian workers were employed at Reese AFB as of October 31. Most of these were employed in September and October. Many of them were transferees from Barksdale AFB, Pyote AFB and Smoky Hill AFB. A number of these had received separation notices and had acquired civil service competitive status prior to the transfer. Where the civilian personnel office had authority from the civil service commission, preference was given to applicants from the City of Lubbock and the immediate vicinity.

Reese Air Force Base has been fortunate in having a large number of applicants for practically every type of position available. As many as 100 applicants have been interviewed during one work day. Journeyman applicants with wide experience have been available for appointments, thus, they were able to assume full productive requirements with the minimum of training.

Of the 130 remaining positions to be filled, the majority of them are restricted to skilled trades which will be filled by transferees from other stations. However, in addition to doctors and dentists the civilian personnel office is recruiting for engineering draftsmen, machinists, sheet metal workers, wood workers, upholsterers, water and sewage operators and nurse (anesthesist).

Stanley Steamer Shows It's Still Mighty Rugged Buggy

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—At least one ancient automobile taking part in this year's revival of the Glidden Tour had little or no trouble with Virginia's rugged mountain roads.

C. E. Simmons, who drove his two-cylinder, 1922 Stanley Steamer in the caravan of 90-odd vehicles of a by-gone day, said he has more trouble finding roads that can accommodate his boiler.

Simmons said he cruises at 80 in his steamer without really opening up all the valves. He said he gets 14 miles to a gallon of kerosene and six miles for every gallon of water in his tanks.

As for the upkeep, Simmons said there are only 37 moving parts including the wheels. When something goes wrong, he doesn't bother taking his Steamer to a garage. He calls the plumber.

Profs Don't Have Monopoly On Absented-Minded Mistakes

CUMBERLAND, Md., Nov. 12 (AP)—Professors don't have a monopoly on absent-mindedness, a Cumberland minister proved to G. Bates Chaires, a state official. The divine attended a service luncheon on a warm day. Members shed their coats. Afterwards, talking with a friend in the hotel lobby, the minister reached into his breast pocket and came up with a cigar.

"I don't remember anyone giving me a cigar," muttered the parson. "And for that matter, I never wear a double-breasted coat, which the one I've got on happens to be." Chaires got his coat back.

Unique Anvil Salutes Observe Queen's Birthday Anniversary

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—This city uses good old-fashioned anvils, not sleek 25-pounder guns, to fire royal salutes when Queen Victoria's birthday rolls around.

It's an old custom dating back to 1872 when members of the original "Ancient and Honourable Anvil Battery" gathered to fire the first 21-bang anvil chorus in honor of the Queen.

They really used anvils. New Westminster did not have guns then.

It's an old Cheshire custom—that of filling the square hole in the top of the anvil with gunpowder, placing another one on top, and setting the charge off with a red-hot iron. The resulting "bang" was loud enough to fool anyone. The novel gun is fired at one minute intervals, 21 times.

THE QUESTION
Why have you chosen the military service as a peace time career

THE ANSWERS

CPL. ROY OLSEN, Dallas, 3501st maintenance squad: I enlisted because I wanted to see whether I'd like it and I did, so I'm going to stay in and make a career of it. I like the type of work I'm doing — airplane mechanics."

A/C BOB EVANS, San Antonio, RAFB: "I went in during the war, and got so used to other people making decisions for me that I just stayed in. It offers security, at least I feel that it does."

A/C MELVIN WILLIAMS, Uniontown, Pa. RAFB: "I started flying when I was sixteen. I can't afford to fly in civilian life, so I stayed in so that I could fly."

A/C GLEN A. TRAUGHBER, Oklahoma City, RAFB: "I stayed in because of flying; it looks like a good future. I think you can get better flying training in the service."

A/C ALLAN FOSTER, Heavener, Okla., RAFB: "I stayed in because I feel that it gives one of the best opportunities for a professional life. That just about sums up the whole deal."

S/SGT. ROBERT R. WYNN, Biloxi, Miss., 3501 maintenance squad: "I re-enlisted after the war because there was no opening in civilian life for the type of work I had done — mechanics. I can do that in the service. I'm getting a lot of experience in what I like to do."

Watchman Foils Attempted Theft

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12 (U.P) — A bandit slugged a watchman in an attempt to steal some of the $500,000 jewel-studded Lindbergh trophies here, but he didn't slug hard enough, police said today.

Louis Egenreither, 67, the watchman, whipped out his gun as he fell and covered the bandit, Glen Lewis Patton, 38.

Patton told police that he hid in the Jefferson memorial museum in Forest Park yesterday three hours before the 5 p. m. closing time.

Egenreither said he was making his rounds in the east wing basement of the massive museum shortly after the gates were locked when Patton struck him with a club.

He locked Patton in a small room until police arrived. Patton was charged with assault with intent to kill.

Many of the trophies presented by foreign countries to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh after his solo flight across the Atlantic ocean in 1927 are heavily encrusted with diamonds and other valuable stones.

Frightened Woman Leaps Out Of Second- Floor Window To Street

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12. (AP) —A woman alone in her South Philadelphia apartment didn't wait to ask any questions when a strange man barged into her home last night.

Police said Mrs. Bernice Griffin, 33, jumped two stories from a window to the sidewalk when the stranger entered.

She was taken to Graduate hospital with a possible fracture of the left foot. Neighbors told Detective Earl Barnes they saw a man run from the apartment house.

His loot?

Modern 50-Bed Hospital Provides Medical Care For RAFB Personnel

Reese Air Force Base soon will have an up-to-date 50-bed hospital to care for its personnel and their dependents. While the hospital is now in operation for the care of military personnel and emergency use, the project is only about 75 per cent completed according to Col. I. Louis Hoffman, base surgeon.

Many difficulties have been surmounted in preparing the hospital buildings for use. They had been used by the Veterans Administration for administrative offices during the inactivation period and had been converted for that use. Reconversion back to hospital use has required hard-to-get materials and much improvising and substitution, and there are still problems and shortages.

To Include Dependents

The primary mission of the hospital is to care for military personnel. However, Colonel Hoffman states that it is his policy to take care of dependents to the fullest extent of his facilities. He says, "I realize that military personnel worried and harrassed by medical problems concerning themselves and their dependents cannot efficiently discharge their duties. It is realized also that an adequate dependent program is conducive to good morale.

"We are attempting to take care of everything right now with the exception of major surgery and obstetrics. There is an extreme shortage of doctors and at present the staff consists of myself and Lieutenant May. It is hoped that we will get more doctors in the near future and it is also hoped that we can include surgery and obstetrical care soon and clinics such as pediatrics, gynecology and allergy will be set-up as soon as possible."

Four Regular Nurses

The hospital personnel includes a nursing staff of four regular nurses. Capt. Alleda E. Keieser is chief nurse and her assistants are: 1st Lts. Alvia Dauphin, Anne H. Eney and Helen L. Kinder. Enlisted men number 75 and each is a technician or specialist in his own line. Some of these have been trained on the job and a few have gone to medical technician schools. These men are trained in X-ray, as surgical aides, medical aides, physio therapy, dental technician, clinical laboratory work, sanitary technicians, veterinary technicians and in various other hospital duties.

The hospital proper is broken down into sections for more efficient operation. These include: professional—medical and surgical services of various sorts (laboratory, X-ray, phsio therapy and wards. Aviation medical service—this is an out-patient service for rated and non-rated personnel. Preventive medical division—includes sanitary inspection, immunization and veterinary inspections. Dental service. Administrative services—registrar, personnel records, supply, air evacuation.

Has 18 Civilian Workers

The hospital has authorization to employ 18 civilian workers. Most of them have been obtained. They include stenographers, clerk-typists, nurses, doctors (much needed) and anesthesist, laboratory technician, dental hygienist and dental technicians and men ward attendants.

In addition to caring for medical personnel and their dependents, the civilian employees at Reese AFB are entitled to full medical care if they are injured or become ill as a direct result of their work. Other than that the care is limited to first-aid only, after which they are turned over to their own family physician.

Emergencies Are Included

However, where first aid or a minor treatment will keep a civilian employee on the job, the hospital endeavors to furnish this. Dire emergencies are taken care of regardless of who the individual is, military, civilian, employed on the base or not. Those people not entitled to treatment in the base hospital will be moved to a civilian hospital as soon as their physical condition permits.

Colonel Hoffman made the statement that the hospital here is trying to establish a consultant program whereby good civilian specialists will be appointed by the surgeon general USAF to be used on consultation in extremely complicated cases. An air evacuation plan has been set-up whereby we can transfer by air to Brooks General Medical Center any patient whose conditions warrants this. In emergency this air evacuation plane can be set-up in three hours.

Revolutionary "Brown 'N Serve" Bakery Process Discovered By Chance By Ex-GI

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 12 (INS) — Take a couple of ex-GI's, mix well with determination and inventiveness, throw in a pinch of luck, and out comes one of the most revolutionary discoveries in the baking industry.

That's the recipe Joseph A. Gregor and Julius (Jake) Jacobson followed to achieve a modest fortune and watch a dream come true.

Their discovery, perfected by General Mills, is called "Brown 'N Serve" bread, and gives the housewife rolls, bread and pastries pre-baked to exact shape and size.

It takes seven minutes in a home oven to put hot, fresh bread and rolls on the family table. What's more, the pre-baked products keep indefinitely in a home freezer.

The process, praised by industry leaders as a revolutionary development, sold 5,800 boxes in a sample sale in New York City, without benefit of advertising.

The idea for the process came to Gregor while he was struggling to keep a bakery in Avon, Fla., out of the red following his discharge from the Army.

Joe's customers wanted their breads and rolls hot from the oven and, although he baked as often as possible, the rolls were never warm enough to please his customers. Business slumped.

Then Jake Jacobson and the town fire department came to Joe's aid.

One day when Joe was baking a batch of ordinary dough in his oven, the fire alarm rang. Volunteer Fireman Joe dashed out the door but stopped, remembering the bread he was baking.

He rushed back into the bakery, turned off the oven and pulled out the pan.

Through a strange quirk, the volunteer fire department siren had interrupted the baking cycle at the precise moment necessary for pre-baked bread.

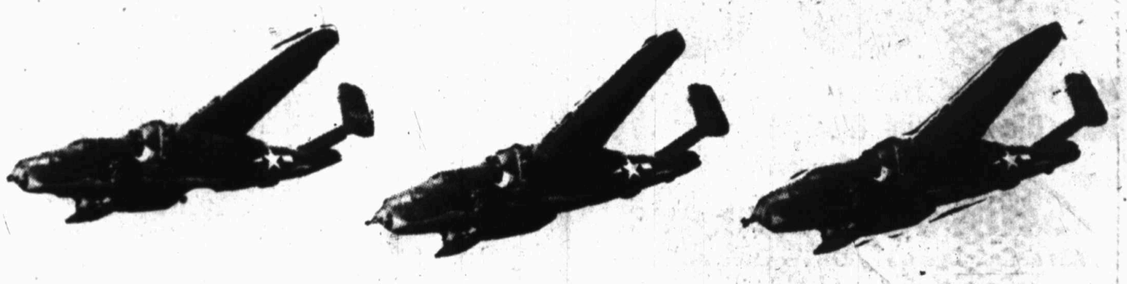

That's when Jacobson—a promoter—stepped into the picture. He and Joe set up a business in pre-baked breads and rolls in Avon and word of the revolutionary baking discovery spread rapidly.

General Mills contracted for the process and perfected it in laboratory tests.

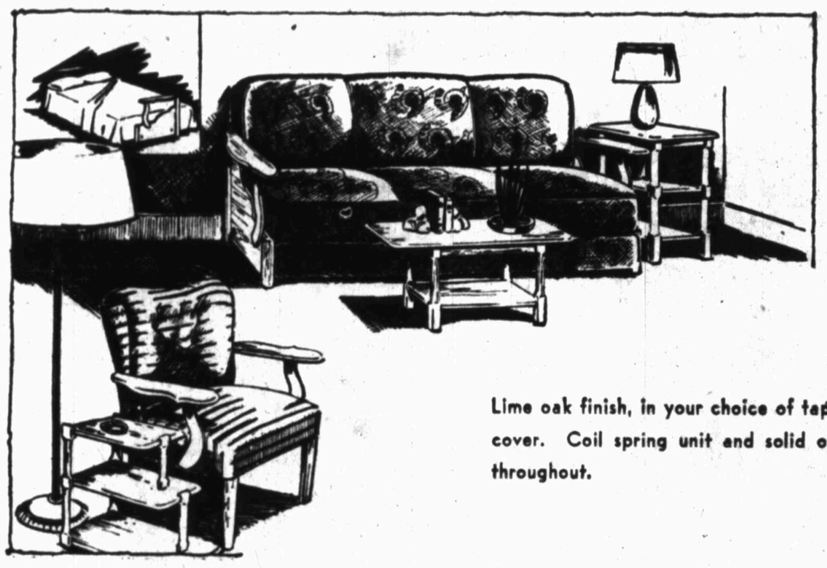

The chief factor in "Brown N' Serve" bakery products is, as may be guessed, in the baking. The dough must be baked for 20 minutes with the oven temperature between 275 and 300 degrees. Normal baking temperature is 450 degrees.

Control Tower Is Key Operation At RAFB; Staff Is Highly-Skilled

"Reese Tower, this is Air Force 7-0-1-4, Baker 2-5, seven miles East of Lubbock 500 feet, request landing instructions. Over."

"Roger, Air Force 7-0-1-4, this is Reese Tower, cleared to enter left hand traffic, landing runway 1-7, wind South at 8, altimeter 30.03, advise on base leg. Over."

* * *

This is the normal conversation and precedure which takes place between the control tower here at RAFB and the approaching aircraft. But, according to T/Sgt. James C. Yarbrough, detachment commander of the airways and air communications service unit at RAFB, this conversation does not mean that the operator is through when instructions are given to the aircraft. The operator must then notify the alert crews on all aircraft landing at this base, in turn, the alert crews will see that the aircraft is parked safely and in the correct parking area. Tower operators advise base operations and the control center in Albuquerque, N. M., on all arivals and departures this base.

Must Obtain Clearance

In instrument weather, operators must obtain instrument flight clearances from the control center on all aircraft departing from Reese AFB. In many instances, the operators obtain weather, change in altitude, change in destination, and many other types of information for pilots over-flying the base. Operators in the control tower have many other duties in addition to operating the radio equipment. They maintain weatherlogs, instrument clearance and progress report forms, master logs, altimeter logs, local departure and arrival logs, and with operating the interphone system from Reese Tower to March AFB, California, along with three local telephones and the light gun, creates a problem at times.

Sergeant Yarbrough stresses that operators must be on the alert at all times for emergencies. Operators maintain a close watch on all aircraft landing and taking off along with taxiing for take-off. Operators must keep the runways and taxi stripe clear of all vehicular traffic, and any obstacle which could be a hazard to the pilot or his aircraft.

Must Watch For Emergencies

In addition, operators maintain a close watch on all the parking areas for fire and other emergencies which may occur. In emergency landing or crashes in the vicinity of the field, operators must notify the proper authorities at once giving the nature of the emergency landings and they must clear the traffic pattern the quickest possible way, by radio or visual light signals. This is where experience and training count, for the tower personnel must act quickly and without error. Tower operators cannot become impatient, nervous, or radical in any emergency because one mistake in receiving or giving instructions, can easily cost the lives of the pilot, co-pilot, crew members and any passengers aboard.

AACS, a world-wide network of communications, is one of the oldest organizations in the U. S. Air Force, and will celebrate its eleventh birthday anniversary on November 15. Since its activation in 1938, it has grown from a handfull of officers and enlisted men to its present strength of several thousands of officers, Wafs and enlisted personnel. The service operates under the jurisdiction of MATS (Military Air Transport Service) and the local detachment is a part of the 1900th AACS squadron with headquarters at Biggs AFB, Texas. Through this service pilots may obtain weather and any other types of information from its radio stations, either by voice or core from any part of the world.

Operators Highly Skilled

The operators who man the control towers, airways control and GCA (Ground Controlled Approach) units are highly skilled in their field and are chosen by careful screening, and only after a minimum of six months training is completed are they allowed to go on duty alone. Requirements are rigid and numerous, they must have annual examinations similar to those taken by the pilots they handle while on duty, they can have no imperfection of speech and no distinctive accent, and they must have the ability to act quickly and without error whenever a dangerous situation arises.

Working closely with Civil Aeronautical Administration via direct long distance line of CAA control centers and Air Force flight service centers, a continuous check and guidance is available for all air traffic throughout the world. Wherever AACS facilities are operating no kind of weather or condition is too dangerous for pilots to fly and no favor too large for the operators to do.

Vital Part Of Air Force

The airways and air communications service maintain and operate other departments which are also a vital part of the Air Force. The directional finding and homing stations are the most important factors of this communications. Operators who man these stations are highly skilled and must have had months of schooling in operating these sets. When a pilot calls for a "fix and a steer" operators must act quickly and without error in giving the pilot the correct heading to fly inbound to his point of intended landing. The mistake of one degree could be disasterous and could cost the pilot's life and loss of vital equipment.

The radio range and beacons are other important factors of this vital communications system. In many many instances the pilot depends solely upon the radio range or beacons to establish his position and to guide him safely to his home field. In many cases the AACS personnel who maintain these radio devices do so under extreme weather conditions and are operating continuously in isolated areas.

Must Be Experts

One of the most highly skilled and most secret jobs in AACS is its teletype and cryptographic departments. The operators of these jobs must be experts in their field and there can be no doubt as to their loyalty to this government. Only after months of training school and practicing with other skilled operators are they allowed to work alone.

All personnel of the AACS are continuously striving for a way to improve their efficiency and to insure more safety in every phase of their respective fields.

Food Service Squadron Has Total Of 121 Officers And Men At RAFB

The food service squadron at Reese Air Force Base has two bids for special mention. It is the newest organization on the base and is the first squadron to be organized under the new airman career plan.

Its 121 men and officers (with the exception of a few administrative personnel) have chosen food service as their "career." According to the plan a man who starts as a mess attendant ("KP" was the old term) works up through the various phases of his profession, such as assistant cook, cook, supervisor of an individual mess and on up to general mess supervisor, advancing in grade with each step up the ladder.

Many Factors Involved

The food served at government messes is based on a master menu put out at top-level headquarters. Each Air Force base then has a menu board which adapts that menu to the local conditions, taking into consideration the amount and kinds of foods which can be purchased locally, troop preferences and their acceptance of foods. (This latter varies greatly with locality and the cost of local procurement).

One rule must, however, be followed without variation and that is that food served daily must total 3600 calories. The base surgeon is a member of the menu board and has the responsibility of determining this. After the board revises the master menu to suit local conditions, the revised menu is turned in to the sales officer who uses it as a guide for the requisitioning of foods for the base.

Four Messes Operated

Four messes are operated at Reese. The Food Service squadron personnel operate the consolidated mess which feeds an average of 900 men each meal. M/Sgt. Bill Robinson and M/Sgt. James T. Alsup are the supervisors here. The mess operates in three shifts, each under a shift supervisor. Twelve men do the cooking and serving. Just now the old KP system is in use, but it is hoped soon that RAFB will have enough food service personnel to change this to the mess attendant system. In addition to the regular cooks there is a pastry shop with one baker and eight helpers and a meat cutting department with a staff sergeant in charge and five helpers.

The officers mess also is operated by the food service squadron and is under the direct supervision of T/Sgt. James Kiser. Here nine cooks, one baker and one meat cutter are employed.

The cadet mess is under food service for food supervision only and its personnel is assigned to the Pilot Training Group. It has 12 cooks, two bakers and two meat cutters. This mess is allowed a wide variation from the master menu, but must confirm to the total calorie requirements.

The hospital mess is manned by medical service personnel and operates on what is known as "garrison rations." Most of the food for this mess is purchased locally.

First Lt. Arthur G. Blakeslee, commanding officer of the Food Service Squadron, is a graduate of the food service school at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. His adjutant is First Lt. Jerry W. Tom, an administrative officer. The mess officer of the squadron is 1st Lt. Fred B. Marvel of Georgetown, Delaware, a food expert. M/Sgt. Marion E. Perry is the food service technician for the base and supervises the administration of the messes. He combines about four years of civilian experience with a number of years of food service work, several of them as a mess sergeant. He recently returned from Panama where he was instructor in a food service school.

Excavation Work Underway On New Brownfield High School

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 12 (Spel.)—Excavation work is underway for the new half-million dollar Brownfield High school at East Broadway and D streets. The plant will also include a workshop building.

Excavations are being dug within one foot of the permanent depth until the steel shortage is ended, according to S. P. Cowan, superintendent of schools. There is expected to be a delay of 30 to 40 days on the building because of the steel shortage.

A hoof-and-mouth disease epidemic is expected to raise Greece's meat prices.

Brownfield Officers Probing Burglaries

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 12—City and county law enforcement officers are continuing investigations of two recent burglaries, both occurring while football games were in progress at Cub Stadium here.

One of the burglaries was at Meadow where $500 was stolen from the home of Deputy Sheriff Elmer McCutcheon while he and his family were in Brownfield attending a football game between Meadow and Ropesville.

The other burglary was in Brownfield, two wrist watches, a pocket watch, two knives and a belt being stolen from the high school gymnasium while a football game was under way between Brownfield and Midland.

Chief of Police Houston Hamilton reported that the articles were taken from the clothing of Brownfield junior high school and 7th and 8th grade football squadmen who had suited up at the gym for a brief demonstration at the high school game.

Pennsylvania Housewife Amazed As Deer Seeks Refuge In House

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 12. (AP) Mrs. Daniel Reynolds will always remember Armistice day, 1949, as a most unpeaceful day.

She was alone in the house yesterday when the sound of shattering glass sent her running to her living room. There on a sofa reposed a six point deer.

At sight of Mrs. Reynolds, the buck fled leaving a trail of upset tables, lamps and chairs behind him.

Responsibility Of All Airplanes, Flights Is Base Operations Task

"Go 10 miles east on highway 66, then turn south on highway 71 and proceed in a southerly direction until you reach highday 80." Yes, these are road directions and have nothing to do with aircraft at Reese Air Force Base. But—the planes which leave the base on cross country flights must follow very similar directions with one important feature added—"maintain an altitude of 8,000 (or some other designated number) feet."

Operations is responsible for seeing that the pilot has filed a "flight plan" before taking aircraft off the runways at Reese Air Force Base. However, at Reese Air Force Base and at most other schools, one operations cannot take care of all air traffic originating at the bast so the task is divided between base (wing) operations and one or more group operations.

Handles Flight Operations

Base operations takes care of all incoming and outgoing transient aircraft, proficiency flights by "behind the line" pilots and administrative flights and the group operations concern themselves with student flights only.

Major Albert H. Schneider is assigned as base operations officer at RAFB. His assistant is Captain Maxwell V. Judas. The section is broken down into several subsections, each with its own responsibilities.

Base flight furnishes aircraft for local proficiency and administrative flying of pilots assigned to the wing and is responsible for furnishing the personal equipment, such as flying clothing, parachutes and, when needed, special equipment such as that for over-water flying. Base flight supervises the maintenance and supply of approximately 14 aircraft. Most of these are B-25's, but included also are two C-47's which are used for cargo hauling and one L-13 which is particularly valuable in search missions.

Men Work In Shifts

The men in the dispatchers section of base operations work in shifts covering the entire 24-hour period. M/Sgt Jewell H. Ellis is the non-commissioned officer in charge and M/Sgt Lawrence C. Smith is his assistant. M/Sgt Robert P. Butler is the third supervisor in the section which includes a force of nine men. It is here that clearances are filed by pilots prior to each flight showing the route, destination and personnel on board. The latest weather information is given the pilot and each flight plan must be coordinated with flight service. This is done via direct line to March Field, Riverside, California, where the flight service headquarters for this area is located. Flight service, in turn, keeps a record of all the planes in the air throughout their area and assigns a definite altitude to be maintained during the flight.

In the map section Sgt Robert E. Valentine furnishes the outgoing pilot with a map upon which his course is charted. These maps show air routes, routes of signal beams and considerable other information of value to the pilots.

Check Made On Planes

Base operations maintains a large board which shows the aircraft's number, its pilot, its time of departure, its destination, its estimated time of arrival there and other pertinent information. This record remains on the board as long as the aircraft is away from the base. A similar record is kept on the board covering transient aircraft on the base.

If a pilot from Reese Air Force Base is forced to land because of mechanical malfunctions or breakage, he immediately notifies his home base, stating the trouble and the type of repairs needed. Base operations then sets up a flight to send the necessary parts and if repairs are delayed to pick up the pilot and crew.

Responsible For VIP

Operations also is responsible for the reception of VIP (very important people). Pilots of transient in-bound aircraft, upon approaching the base, report via air-ground communications, the type of aircraft and the highest rank aboard. Also his needs as to fuel. An alert crew is on hand at all times to take care of refueling transient aircraft and transportation is available for the plane's passengers.

Another function of operations is the form 5 section where the flying time is logged for each pilot who is assigned to the 3500th pilot training wing. T/Sgt William B. Lee, keeps a constant check on the number of hours flown by each pilot and the number of hours he needs to comply with the directives covering proficiency flying.

Jim Wells Couple Wed 20 Years After Marriage License Issued

ALICE, Tex., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—You don't have to use your marriage license this week. Not even this year.

It's good as long as you're alive and your sweetheart stays true.

Take, for instance, a case at Jim Wells county courthouse here. The man and woman took out the license 20 years ago.

Five children later they were married.

"They lived together for the 20 years," explained Mrs. Juanita Hulsey, chief deputy for the county clerk. "Both thought they had been married when the license was issued.

"They'd never gone to a justice of the peace or minister for the ceremony."

Mrs. Hulsey assured them that the license was still good and they hurried out to a justice of the peace.

Good Samaritan Travels Roads To Help Motorists In Distress

ST. PAUL, Nov. 12—A modern Good Samaritan is traveling midwestern highways today "looking for trouble." Helping travelers in any sort of trouble is the special job of Connie St. Mane in his "safety and courtesy car," equipped with the most up-to-date supplies for first-aid to man and motor.

In addition to stretcher and medical aids, St. Mane carries such additional help for the stranded motorist as: two gallons of gasoline, fuses, jacks, flares, flags, fire extinguishers and tools. He is trained to use them, too, with Red Cross and Boy Scout training in addition to his background as a veteran trucker.

The special red-and-white car travels an average of more than 1,000 miles a week to give help in highway emergencies ranging from full-fledged collisions to changing a tire for a lone woman motorists. "The look on a woman's face when I pull up and ask if I can change a tire for her is pay enough for me," St. Mane says. He makes no charge for any emergency aid. The "courtesy car" is helping make friends for an entire industry, according to its sponsors, the Schirmer Transportation Company of St. Paul, Minnesota, operators of a trucking fleet.

ACCIDENTS PILE UP

JOSHUA, Tex. (U.P.)—State Police and sheriff's officers were investigating an accident when one happened to them. Another motorist failed to observe flares at the crash scene and banged into the parked state police car, knocking it into the sheriff's car.

Bulgarians Excavate Ruins Of Roman City

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Serdica, once one of the most important of ancient Roman cities on the "bridge" between Europe and Asia, is gradually being unearthed once more.

Excavations have revealed the remains of what was once a thriving city in what is now central Sofia.

About 20 feet below street level, huge stone blocks and thick fortress walls have been unearthed.

Gates opening eastwards, according to local experts, indicate broadening of the city in an eastern direction, which necessitated breaching the walls to allow the growing population entrance to the fortress town.

The excavations have yielded many secrets of an era up to the 3rd century A. D.

Workers have unearthed an ancient Christian temple, a large building even by modern standards, 30 meters long by 18 wide. It was richly adorned, with ornamental slates, religious writing on the walls, and pictures.

A considerable number of ceramics and glass ornaments of various epochs have been discovered also.

A bee's ability to tell its fellow workers the direction of a new supply of nectar it has discovered seems to depend on it having a clear glimpse of the sun, or at least of the sky.

Civilian Personnel Section Has Direction Of All Civilian Workers

Many of the people of Lubbock have been employed in various positions at Reese Air Force Base and a number of others will be engaged in the future. All of these were procured and processed through the civilian personnel section under the direction of Capt. Earl E. Starkey, assisted by civilian chief of classification, Thomas F. Ireland, jr.

This section acts to fill the positions established by the table of distribution for civilian employees at Reese Air Force Base with the best qualified individuals according to standards set by the Civil Service Board and in compliance with the Veterans Preference Act. It is also responsible for the records and control of civilian personnel.

Under existing funding program, the established number of civilian employees for the 3500th pilot training wing is 475. Not all of these have been filled, but will be taken care of as the increased activity of the base makes it practical.

Hiring By Priority

The positions are requested by the using departments. The section head is immediately interviewed by Mr. Ireland to establish a "job description." Once the requirements of the job are established a classification and grade for the position is determined. The chief of placement, Mrs. Olive K. E. McMurray, then screens the position and checks her files and the Civil Service Register for a qualified career or permanent employee. If no career persons are available, temporary employes may be hired. All persons employed, permanent or temporary, are by priority from the top of the list to the bottom as follows: 10-point veteran, (1) veteran and (3) non-veteran, until the best qualified person is secured.

Temporary positions (employees) after successfully serving for 30 days on the job (if they are 10-point veterans and meet the requirements) may be placed on a probationary appointment if the executive secretary of the board of civil service examiners, Mr. D. D. Hensley, grants permission. He is, in turn, governed closely by civil service directives and policies, and is responsible for seeing that these are complied with. Approximately 50 10-point veterans are now on probationary appointment at RAFB.

Career Employment Is Goal

Other temporary employes may from time to time compete for the exams that the civil service executive secretary announces. All successful examinees are placed on a register in accordance with veteran or non-veteran status according to their grades and qualifications. If qualified the person usually replaces himself on a probationary basis leading to a permanent assignment to that particular field. The goal at RAFB and in civil service throughout is 100 per cent career employment. However, this goal can reach only near perfection with personnel getting married, and work shifting from locality to locality.

The civilian personnel section at RAFB maintains full control of the administration and records of the civilian employees through Miss Helen Black. Mrs. Mary Clements and Mrs. Jo Elizabeth Oren take care of time and payrolls, a twice monthly performance, and Miss Faye Bruce is statistical clerk. Others employed in the section are Mrs. Christian Tippitt, Mrs. Mary Lee Butler, Mrs. Bettye W. Biggs and Miss Mary Luckett.

Unusually Tall Youth Warned Not To Take Up Life Of Crime

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—If a man is unusually tall, he better not try a crime career.

That's the advice Magistrate Eugene R. Canudo gave yesterday to six-foot-eight-inches-tall Bernard Dugan O'Keefe, 18, who was held in $2,500 bail on a burglary charge.

"No wonder you couldn't get away with it," said the magistrate. "You're so tall you couldn't get lost in a crowd."

Young Parolee With Plenty Of Cash Is Under Investigation

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12. (U.P.)—A dapper young parolee from a Colorado prison was held today while police investigated his role as an "actor."

The officers wanted to know why Charles H. Sweigart, 21, had $17,199 cash in his possession.

Two alert city policemen arrested Sweigart last night at a downtown hotel after marking him as a suspicious character.

They followed him to his hotel room and found $7,470 in a money belt on his person. Sweigart told the officers he had rented another room under the alias of James Ward, where the policemen found $9,700 in his luggage.

When questioned as to the source of the money, Sweigart told them he was an actor.

He said he had served a sentence for car theft in Colorado.

Dual Completion In Gaines Is Reported

Dual completion from the Devonian and Ellenburger has been effected at Shell Oil company No. 1 Hawkins, discovery well of the Flanagan field, in Central-South Gaines county.

The well was originally completed as the discovery from the Ellenburger between 12,174 feet and 12,267 feet for 844 barrels of oil daily.

It has now been completed from the Devonian for 1,391 barrels of 33.7-gravity oil daily, through a 3/16th inch tubing choke. Completion was from perforations in the casing between 10,300-385 feet.

Gas-oil ratio was 10-1.

First Dual Completion

Shell No. 1 Hawkins is the first well to be dually completed from the Ellenburger and Devonian in the Flanagan field. Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Flanagan, east offset to No. 1 Hawkins, was dually completed from the Clear Fork and from the Devonian and was the first producer from the Devonian in the pool.

Location of No. 1 Hawkins is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

Samedan Oil corporation and Anderson Brothers of Midland No. 1-E-A Andrews, Central-South Gaines county wildcat 15 miles south and west of Seminole, had set 7-inch casing at 12,079 feet and was slated to perforate and make a production test.

The prospective discovery has shown for production in the top of the Ellenburger from 11,895-975 feet. It was then drilled deeper and a test was run at 11,980-12,080 feet. That interval showed signs of gas and considerable water.

Production Is Indicated

From the Devonian it indicated for a 40-barrel-per hour flow during a drillstem test of that horizon. The development is in the northwest part of the Robertson field, which produces from the Florieta and from the upper Clear Fork. No. 1-E-A Andrews showed signs of production from the Clear Fork.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 19, block A-24, psl survey.

Mid-Continent Petroleum company No. 1 L. R. Nichols, Central-West Gaines county wildcat 23 miles west of Seminole to 8,000 feet to test the lower Permian—or possibly to 12,000 feet, was drilling deeper past 6,567 feet in lime.

The drillsite is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block A-10, psl survey.

A deep wildcat in the North Riley field of West-Central Gaines county, the Los Nietos company (Union Oil company of California) No. 2-B Doss, was making new hole below 10,434 feet in lime and chert toward its projected depth of 11,000 feet to test the Devonian.

The venture is nine miles southwest of Seminole and 660 feet from west and 760 feet from south lines of the southeast quarter of section 360, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Forest Oil corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation No. 1-A Parmer, 15,000-foot wildcat to find and test the Ellenburger in Southeast Gaines county, was past 12,057 feet in lime and chert and was making new hole.

This slated deep prospector is 860 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of labor 12, league 317, Parmer county school lands survey, and 15 miles southeast of Seminole.

A one-mile outpost to the Flanagan Clear Fork field of Central-South Gaines county, Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Wolfe, coming out of the hole after taking a drillstem test at 7,105-7,220 feet. At the time this report was prepared no information was available to the recovery.

The project took another drillstem test from 7,090-7-171 feet. Recovery was 12 feet of drilling mud with no shows of oil, gas or water.

Contracted depth is 7,300 feet.

No. 1 Wolfe is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block A-23, psl survey.

A west stepout to the Flanagan field, Magnolia No. 1 Williamson, was drilling in lime below 6,808 feet toward its contracted depth of 7,500 feet.

Seaboard Oil Film Schedules New Project For Spraberry Field Of Southeast Dawson

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 9-D-A Robinson is to be a new project for the Spraberry field of Southeast Dawson county.

Proposed depth of the new operation is to 7,000 feet to try for production from the Spraberry sand.

Well Plugged Back

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 1 Mart Barrow, deep wildcat in Northeast Dawson county, which made sulphur water in the Ellenburger and has been plugged back to 4,500 feet to test the San Andres, was to move in a small rig to use in acidizing and testing.

The section above the plugged back depth had slight shows of oil when drilled through.

The venture is 1,980 feet from east and 660 feet from south lines of section 8, block 15, T-6-N, TP survey and three and one-half miles northeast of Lamesa.

The same company's No. 3-D Lee, south offset to the Spraberry field of Southeast Dawson county, and 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 47, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey, topped the Spraberry sand at 6,465 feet to make it low 46 feet to the nearest producer from that horizon in the Spraberry field. Operator had cemented five and one-half inch casing at 6,475 feet and was to begin testing.

Making New Hole

Seaboard No. 8-D-A Robinson, one-quarter mile east outpost to the Spraberry field, was drilling deeper past 5,801 feet in lime.

It is to drill to 7,000 feet to try for production from the Spraberry.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of labor 12, league and 1,737.5 feet from west lines of section 37, block 34, TP survey.

Reagan Carraway of Dallas No. 1 T. A. Loe, wildcat to 10,700 feet seven miles northwest of Lamesa, was making new hole below 6,450 feet in lime.

Drilling Pushed In Cochran Area

Cities Service Oil company No. 1-D Masten, Central-Southwest Cochran county wildcat one miles northwest of the Levelland field, was drilling in lime and chert past 4,195 feet.

The prospector is contracted to drill to 5,800 feet to test the San Andres, the pay in the Levelland field.

The venture is 660 feet from south and east lines of labor 3, league 133, Armstrong county school land survey. That makes it eight miles southwest of Lehman.

South Offset Planned

Lion Oil company No. 2 F. O. Masten is to be a 5,200-foot exploration to test the San Andres in Central Cochran county.

The project will be a south offset to the operator's No. 1 F. O. Masten, recently completed three-quarter mile southwest extension to the Levelland field.

No. 2 Masten is to be drilled with rotary tools.

Location is 440 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of labor 132, Carson county school lands survey. That makes it 14 miles southwest of Whiteface.

Drilling is to begin immediately.

Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 3-R/A-A Birtie T. Brown, 12,200-foot development in the Landon field of Central-South Cochran county to test the Devonian, was making new hole below 6,882 feet in lime and shale.

The drillsite of No. 3 Brown is 1,320 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 14, block L, psl survey. It is 14 miles north of Plains.

Northwest Hale County Wildcat Plugged, Abandoned As Failure

Tobe Foster of Lubbock and others, No. 1 G. A. Harrell, Northwest Hale county wildcat eight miles northwest of Hale Center, has been plugged and abandoned as a failure in the lower Permian after drilling to a total depth of 7,009 feet.

It is understood that efforts had been made to drill this wildcat deeper, however the filing of the plug application indicates that such efforts were unsuccessful.

The dry hole is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 7, block O, DS&E survey.

DICKENS WELL PUSHED

Union Oil company of California No. 1 Elliott, Southwest Dickens county wildcat five and one-half miles southwest of Spur, was drilling below 5,340 feet in lime toward its contracted depth of 8,500 feet to test the Ellenburger.

Borden County Holds Spotlight As Three Deep Tests Scheduled

Borden county is the "hot spot" of the oil activity on the South Plains at the present. Location for three deep wildcats in that county were reported during the past week.

It is rumored that several other prospectors will be announced in the same county within a short time.

L. H. Armer of Fort Worth will drill his No. 1 L. D. Rodgers in Central South Borden county, five miles east of Vealmoor.

Slated to drill to 8,500 feet to test the Pennsylvanian, the operation will be 446.6 feet from south and west lines of the north half of section 25, block 32, T-3-N, T&P survey.

It is to begin operations by Nov. 18.

Location Is Revealed

In Southeast Borden county, Standard Oil company of Texas has spotted its No. 1-6 T. L. Griffin, to be located 660 feet from north and west lines of section 35, block 25, H&TC survey. That puts it six miles northwest of Vincent and nine miles west of the operator's No. 1 Dunn, Canyon lime discovery, recently completed in Northwest Mitchell county.

The venture is to be drilled to 9,000 feet to find and explore the Ellenburger. Drilling, with rotary tools, is to begin at once.

H. J. (Jack) Porter of Houston is to start drilling on a wildcat in South-Central Borden county by or before Dec. 21.

The prospector is to be on a block of 7,000 acres in which Porter has secured a checkerboard spread of alternate quarter sections from Stanolind Oil & Gas company. The acreage sets in about three miles south of the town of Gail.

Flanker Is Plugged

Exact location for the wildcat has not been reported.

Included in the block which the Houston Independent has taken are sections 41, 43, 46, and the north half of section 45, all in block 31, TP survey, T-6-N, and all of sections 2, 3, 4, 8, 9, 16 and 17, in block 31, TP survey, T-4-N, and the east half of section 48, block 32, TP survey, T-5-N.

Porter's leases in the block are the northeast quarters and the southwest quarters of the various sections or half sections which are involved.

Sinclair Oil & Gas company has plugged and abandoned its No. 1 Bryan, flanker to the discovery and lone well in the Borden field of Northwest Borden county as a failure in the Ellenburger.

The project was abandoned on a total depth of 10,804 feet in the Ellenburger. It showed no signs of commercial production in any horizon.

Drilling In Lime

A southeast Borden county wildcat, Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 Von Roeder, eight miles southwest of the nearest production from the Canyon reef in the Sharon-Ridge Canyon field of Southwest Scurry county, was continuing to make further progress. It was drilling below 5,354 feet in lime and shale.

Projected depth of the venture is to 7,000 feet to test the Canyon lime reef.

Location is at the center of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 103, block 25, H&TC survey.

In West-Central Borden county, Don Ameche of Hollywood, Calif., No. 1 Clayton & Johnson, wildcat to test the Ellenburger at around 10,500 feet, was drilling 4,053 feet in lime and shale.

This project is five miles west of Gail and 660 feet from south and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 30, block 31, T-5-N, TP survey.

Test Planned At Yoakum Wildcat

Honolulu Oil corporation No. 1 Paul Cobb, East Yoakum county wildcat 12 miles east of Plains and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 381, block D, J. H. Gibson survey, was at total depth of 5,410 feet and was preparing to swab and test.

Destination of No. 1 Cobb is to 8,000 feet.

Failure has been reported for another East Yoakum county prospector, Cabot Carbon company of Midland No. 1 Bessie Clay.

The project drilled to a total depth of 5,336 feet in the San Andres and failed to encounter any signs of commercial production.

The dry hole is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 12, block D, J. H. Gibson survey and four miles northeast of Tokio.

To Explore Pennsylvanian

A central Terry county wildcat which was barren in the San Andres-Permian in drilling to 5,505 feet is to be drilled on down to 9,600 feet to explore the Pennsylvanian.

The venture is to be at Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 1 Sawyer, located five miles south of Brownfield and 1,980 feet from west 660 feet from south lines of section 123, block T, D&WRR survey.

The prospector was originally drilled as Lynn D. Durham of Midland, and associates No. 1 Sawyer. Those operators carried it down to 5,505 feet and abandoned it after getting no sign of production or formation water.

Stanolind has made a deal to take the exploration over and a large rotray rig is being moved in to replace the smaller unit.

Wells Making Progress

It is understood that Durham and associates retain a one-eighth override on the well and on the 160-acre lease which it is located on.

A scheduled 12,000-foot wildcat to test the Ellenburger in Southeast Terry county, Tide Water Associated Oil company No. 1 Nystel, 14 miles south of Brownfield, was drilling at 10,996 feet in lime and shale and was making new hole.

The wildcat is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 9, block C-38, psl srvey.

Another southeast Terry county exploration, Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 Brownfield, slated to 10,000 feet to test the Pennsylvanian, was making further progress toward its contracted depth. It was drilling in lime and shale past 6,105 feet.

No. 1 Brownfield is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 26, block 1-A, EL&RR survey, and ten miles southeast of Brownfield.

Two Garza Wildcats Will Test Permian

During the past seven days Garza county has gained two wildcats, both of which are to test the Permian.

In Northwest Garza county, Herman & George R. Brown of Houston, No. 2 Long is to be a 4,000-foot prospector, located one and one-quarter miles east of their No. 1 Bassinger, recently completed pumper.

Slated to begin drilling immediately, No. 2 Long is to be 330 feet from south and southwest lines of the Long lease in the east part of section 823, abstract 893, B. Hall survey. That makes it 10½ miles southwest of Post, and three miles southeast of Southland.

The Central Garza county prospector is to be Dr. Sam G. Dunn of Lubbock and associates No. 1 Hammonds.

This venture will be 330 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of the west half of section 1,235, block 280, C-170, AB&M survey. It will be one and one-half miles northwest of Post. Contracted depth is 3,400 feet.

The drillsite is one mile west of the nearest completed well on the northwest side of the Garza field.

FATHER-SON REIGN ENDS

LA CROSSE, Wis., (U.P.)—When George Hanson retired as first chief it ended a family record of 91 years devoted to the department. Hansen fought fires here for 39 years. His father, Chris, served in the department 52 years and retired as chief.

Two young Swedes, Jan Paltins and Ernest Karulis, are attempting to sail round the world in a 25-foot yacht, Stockholm reports.

Drilling Is Started On Test In New Mexico's Lea County

HOBBS, N. M., Nov. 12.—Drilling has started at a 7,200-foot wildcat in Central-East Lea county which is to explore into the Drinkard zone of the lower Permian.

The venture is C. L. Norsworthy jr., of Dallas No. 1 Terry. Location is 1,980 feet from south and 550 feet from west lines of section 26-19s-38e. That makes it one miles east of the Nadine, five miles south of Hobbs, and two miles northwest of Norsworthy's No. 1 Shell-Waldrop, recently completed flowing discovery from the Drinkard pay.

No. 1 Terry had drilled below 3,670 feet in lime, and was making more hole at last report.

Gulf Oil corporation is to start immediately on two 9,750-foot expiorations on the outside of the proven limits from production from the Simpson section of the middle Ordovician in Southeast Lea county.

These projects will be approximately 10 miles south of Eunice.

Audiometer Bought By Lions For Use In Terry Schools

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 12. (Special)—An audiometer, a scientific electric machine which detects hearing faults in children, has been purchased by the Brownfield Lions club for use in Terry county schools.

Through the cooperation of the South Plains Health Unit, the machine was used for the first time this week in the West Ward school here, and will be used in other schools of the county.

ARLINGTON'S FIRST

First burial of a soldier in Arlington cemetery was that of L. Reinhardt, a Confederate soldier of the 23rd North Carolina Regiment, which took place on May 13, 1864. The following day, 11 Union soldiers were interred in the presence of President Lincoln.

French Lawyer And Teacher Fight Duel, Saving Their Honor

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—A French lawyer and a schoolteacher fought a duel today in a meadow near Paris.

Roger Nordmann, the schoolteacher was reportedly pricked by the lawyer Jean-Louis Tixier-Vignancour's sword and the duel ended with everyone's honor intact.

The feud started three weeks ago when Tixier-Vignancour challenged Nordmann to a duel with pistols after he said Nordmann insulted him during a treason trial.

Dueling Illegal

Nordmann accepted the challenge but said he had never fired anything more potent than a water pistol. He then chose two of his prettiest girl students as seconds.

The lawyer objected on the grounds that a second must be ready to take his principal's place and he could not lift his hand against a woman.

The weapons and the seconds were properly arranged after weeks of negotiations. The duelists went into hiding from newspapermen and police since duelling is illegal. Only their seconds knew the time and place of combat.

Destitute Earl Seeking A Job

LONDON, Nov. 12. (INS) — A British earl whose ancestors owned most of the northern half of Ireland combs newspaper want-ads for a job today—something to supplement the 10 cents weekly "pocket money" he gets on relief.

Destitute and ill, his clothes frayed, the 58-year-old Earl of Mayo sat in a home for the aged in suburban Twickenham while he unfolded a story of bad luck, a frustrated acting career and a lost wife.

Wants A Job

The earl, who has been living in the home for a month under the family name of "Harry Burke," said that he wants "a job, so I can be independent."

He related that in the early 1930's he worked as a laborer, later took "bit parts" in a couple of movies and thought he had found himself.

"I studied hard," he said, "and I was told that I was heading for Hollywood."

Then he married.

"My wife attacked my acting. She wanted me to be a company director. But that was no good. I tried lots of other jobs, the last one canvassing for football pools. But I quit. I could not climb the stairs."

He said of his wife:

"Don't lets talk about my wife. She left me in September and I believe she has gone to America."

The earl said he is "happy" in the home for the aged, where he shares a room with three other persons.

Yugoslav Opera Singer Denies Scandalous Soviet Allegations

PARIS, Nov. 12. (U.P.)—Yugoslav opera singer Zinka Milanov arrived in Paris today en route to the United States and immediately sought refuge from reporters in the Yugoslav embassy.

Earlier, however, she promised to make a complete statement when she reaches the United States on Moscow allegations that she was an American spy and the girl friend of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito.

Georgia Sheriff Seeks One Who Threw Dynamite Bomb On Porch

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Nov. 12. (U.P.)—Sheriff A. E. White set out today to find who threw a dynamite bomb onto his front porch last night.

White heard the blast while he and his family were at a football game, and investigation led him to his own home. The bomb had landed on the porch, blowing a hole in the floor, shattering windows and shaking pictures off the inside walls.

A HOLLYWOOD Column

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12.—Betty Grable and 20th Century-Fox are having their first disagreement. She doesn't want to make another film with Dan Dailey. Betty agrees he's great, but thinks they've made too many pictures together. . . . George Raft and his long-time buddy, Mack Gray, have patched up their differences. Without Mack, George was walking around like a lost sheep—or should I say lone wolf? . . . Hal Wallis turned down Jane Wyatt for the role of an understanding wife in "September" with the comment:

Johnson

Editor Bahn is unhappy because I reported the theater owners previewed 38 new popcorn vending machines instead of new movies, and that the inventor of an ice cream dispensing machine got more applause than any movie executive.

Bahn thinks the theater owners will be interested in the news that I'm producing a weekly Hollywood newsreel for television and that I'll be interviewing Paramount stars on the Mutual radio network starting Nov. 14.

I agree with the latter statement. The theater owners will be happy to know that my TV show is designed to increase movie attendance and to picture Hollywoodites as normal citizens instead of headline grabbers. So is the radio show.

IT'S A DARK SECRET

HARRY SHERMAN, producer of 200 western film, took a friend to see his daughter, Lynne, in a local dramatic play.

"It's a shame," said Harry, "and don't tell anyone, but she's never learned to ride a horse."

Oklahoma Soldier Dies In Fall From Ledge In Yosemite Park

YOSEMITE PARK, Cal., Nov. 12. (U.P.)—Sgt. Darron J. Warren, 21, Oklahoma City, was killed in a 175-foot fall while rock-climbing with another enlisted man from Castle field near here.

Cpl. Earl W. Leatherman, Muscatine, Ia., Warren's climbing companion, said he and a forest ranger saw the Oklahoman fall yesterday drom a rocky ledge on the east side of Yosemite falls. Neither soldier had special climbing equipment.

Princeton Men Say Gals Should Defend Honor With Lives

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12. (AP)—Skirts may climb highe and necklines may plunge lower, but—by gadfrey, sir—Princeton men still believe every woman should defend her honor to her dying breath.

The Princeton men's views on the subject of honor were made plain last night when a three-man Nassau debeating team took on a trio from Yale.

"Resolve, a woman should choose death before dishonor."

Capacity Audience

Princeton defended the resolution. The Yale men (the cads) took the negative side.

The verbal tussle, which was held in staid old Whig hall, drew a capacity-plus audience. Watching 300 students fight their way into an auditorium designed to hold 250, one English professor expressed amazement over the sudden interest in debating.

He said, "debates have played to empty houses here since 1763 when teams from Princeton and Harvard debated the same dishonor vs. death resolution. There was standing room only then, too."

Delicate Operation To Save One Good Eye Is Postponed

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 12. (U.P.)—Doctors today postponed a delicate operation they had planned to save the single good eye which guides a family of three through their daily lives.

Instead of having her good left eye operated upon today, Mary Hope Hodgdon will be operated upon next week.

Parents Are Blind

The girl's right eye was blinded by an ailment which separated the retina from the eyeball. The same disease is now attacking her left eye and doctors had hoped to operate today to try to save it.

Doernbecher hospital, where the operation will be performed, refused to name the surgeon "for ethical reasons."

The father was blinded in 1926 by a logging camp explosion. He had been working as a "power monkey" in a Tillamook, Ore., camp.

Friends Of Famous Cartoonist To Join Birthday Celebration

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12. (AP)—Artists and newspaper friends will help Jimmy Swinnerton, veteran cartoonist and painter of desert scenes, celebrate his 75th birthday tomorrow night.

Preparing for the party, Swinnerton, creator of "Little Jimmy" and "Canyon Kiddies," recalled that nearly a half-century ago he was sent to Palm Springs, suffering from tuberculosis. Doctors gave him a month to live.

He will fill the pulpit at the morning worship service at 10:50 o'clock, and will speak to the women and to the men of the Presbytery of Amarillo in their respective meetings at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. A buffet supper is planned for 6 p. m.

Members of Presbyterian churches in Lubbock and surrounding area have been invited to hear Dr. Barbour at these services. All persons from out-of-town will be guests of the Amarillo church.

Dr. Barbour is to speak again at the evening worship service at 7:30 o'clock.

The Moderator is pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Knoxville, Tenn., and under his leadership that church has grown into one of the strong churches of the demoniation. When he was called to the pulpit of that church in 1928 there were 880 persons listed on the membership rolls. Under his guidance and leadership the membership now has increased to more than 1,500.

Dr. Barbour was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh with an A. B. Degree in 1921, and from Western Theological seminary of Pittsburgh, with a Master of Theology degree, in 1922. In 1928 he received the Ph. D degrees from the University of Edinburg, Scotland. He was ordained to the ministry in 1922.

He also holds the degrees of Doctor of Divinity and Doctor of Laws.

Borger Man And Three Brothers Claim They Are Oldest Quintet

BORGER, Nov. 12 (AP)—J. C. Cabbell, Borger real estate dealer, believes he and his four brothers are the nation's oldest living quintet of brothers.

Though he is 78 years old, Cabbell is the youngest of the brothers. He was born Dec. 1, 1870. The other four:

L. C. Cabbell, 92, Ella, Ky., born March 20, 1857; Hurshel F. Cabbell, 87, Bosworth, Mo., born June 10, 1862; Emery E. Cabbell, 84, Lothrop, Mo., born Sept. 7, 1865; Robert M. Cabbell, 81, Columbia, Ky., born March 23, 1868.

There was a sixth brother, Reul Otis, but he died when he was 25 at Columbia, Ky., after a horse hit him on the back of the neck.

Thanksgiving Dates Back To Year 1777

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—President Truman's Thanksgiving proclamation this year will be the 97tht since the founding of the United States. The Continental Congress started the custom in 1777, but after Madison it lanquished and for 47 years it was not celebrated.

The Puritans observed Thanksgiving as a substitute for Christmast, which they regarded as a papist holiday. Their momentary period of peace and prosperity in 1621 made the holiday a natural one for them.

George Washington proclaimed two Thanksgivings, in 1789 and in 1795. John Adams set aside days in 1798 and 1799. Thomas Jefferson did not believe in Thanksgiving, but James Madison believed to such an extent he had two in one year—on January 12 and April 13, 1815.

That was the last Thanksgiving until Abraham Lincoln, in response to urging by the editor of Godey's Ladies' Book, named April 13, 1862, as Thanksgiving Day, exactly 47 years later.

Thanksgiving in 1862 was in April and in 1863 it was in August. In 1864, Lincoln put it on the last Thursday in November, the spot it still occupies.

Johnson changed the date, but Grant, in 1870, renewed it and it has been the same every year since, except in 1939. In that year, Roosevelt moved it up a week for economic reasons. Public pressure brought it back to its traditional position.

Besides the 96 regular Thanksgivings in America's history, there have been six special ones for victory in war, etc.

Bandit Not Moved By Plea For Donation To Community Chest

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—A gunman held up Lester L. Safro's liquor store.

"How about leaving half the money with me for the community chest?" Safro suggested to the bandit.

"I'll donate it myself," was the reply. "Give me all of it."

Safro did. The bandit walked out with about $148.

Bible Story From "In Our Image"

"Jacob"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of studies from the Old Testament. The text is condensed from selections by Houston Harte for the new book "In Our Image." Illustration by Guy Rowe is also from the book.

WHEN Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that he could not see, he called Esau his eldest son, and said, My son: I know not the day of my death: Now therefore take, I pray thee, thy weapons, and go out to the field, and take me some venison and make me savoury meat, such as I love, and bring it me, that I may eat; that my soul may bless thee before I die. And Rebekah heard when Isaac spake to Esau. And Esau went to the field to hunt for venison.

And Rebekah spake unto Jacob her son, saying, Behold, I heard thy father speak unto Esau thy brother saying, Bring me venison, and make me savoury meat, that I may eat, and bless thee. Now therefore, my son, obey my voice. Go to the flock, and fetch me two good kids of the goats; and I will make soury meat for thy father, that he may eat, and bless thee. And Jacb said, Behold Esau is a hairy man, and I am smooth. My father will feel me, and I shall seem to him as a deceiver; and I shall bring a curse upon me, and not a blessing. And his mother said unto him, Upon me be thy curse, my son: only obey my voice.

And he went, and fetched, and brought them to his mother: and his mother made savoury meat, such as his father loved. And Rebekah took goodly raiment of her eldest son Esau, and put them upon Jacob: And she put he skins of the kids of the goats upon his hands, and upon the smooth of his neck: and she gave the savoury meat and the bread, into the hand of Jacob.

And he came unto his father, and said, My father: and he said, Here am I; who art thou, my son? And Jacob said, I am Esau thy first born; arise, I pray thee, sit and eat of my venison, that thy soul may bless me. And Isaac said unto Jacob, Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my son, whether thou be Esau or not. And Jacob went near unto Isaac; and he felt him, and said, Thy voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau. And he discerned him not. And he said, Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my son's venison, that my soul may bless thee. And his father Isaac said unto him, Come near now, and kiss me, my son. And he smelled his raiment, and blessed him, and said, See, the smell of my son is as the smell of a field which the Lord hath blessed: Therefore God give thee of the dew of heaven, and the fatness of the earth, and plenty of corn and wine: Let people serve thee, and nations bow down to thee: be lord over thy brethren, and let thy mother's sons bow down to thee: cursed be every one that courseth thee, and blessed be he that blesseth thee.

And it came to pass, as Jacob was yet scarce gone out from the presence of Isaac, that Esau came in from his hunting. And he said, Let my father arise, and eat of his son's venison, that they soul may bless me. And Isaac said, who art thou? And he said, I am thy son, thy first born Esau. And Isaac trembled and said, who? where is he that hath taken venison, and brought it me, and I have eaten and have blessed him? yea, and he shall be blessed. And when Esau heard the words of his father, he cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry, and said, Bless me, even me also, I my father. And Isaac answered and said unto Esau, Behold, I have made him thy lord, and all his brethren have I given to him for servants; and with corn and wine have I sustained him: and what shall I do now unto thee, my son? And Esau said, Hast thou but one blessing, my father? bless me, even me also, I my father. And Esau lifted up his voice, and wept. And Isaac answered and said unto him, Behold, thy dwelling shall be the fatness of the earth, and of the dew of heaven from above; and by thy sword shalt thou live, and shalt serve thy brother; and it shall come to pass when thou shalt have the dominion, that thou shalt break his yoke from off thy neck.

Texans Want No New Taxes; Ex-Industrialist Raps U.S. 'Monopolies'

IT'S VERY PLAIN

Voters Have Spoken

WHEN the scheduled special session of the Legislature meets in January, neither the members nor Gov. Allan Shivers can pretend to be in any doubt as to how Texans feel about increased taxation.

If there was any question on this point, it was removed by the results of the election last Tuesday. With one exception, every constitutional amendment submitted on that occasion which proposed an increase in governmental operating expenses or opened the door to increased taxation was defeated decisively. The one amendment approved, providing for the creation of rural fire prevention districts, can be applied only by a vote of the people who would be directly affected and, according to proponents of the measure, will save them more in reduced fire insurance premiums than it can cost in additional taxation.

Yet, in the face of the mandate so freshly in mind, the governor and some of the members of the Legislature continue to talk of the inevitability of tax increases when the special session is convened. Governor Shivers continues to insist that additional revenues must be secured to improve State hospitals and for such other undertakings as building for dental schools, cancer research projects and the like.

Most Texans doubtless are convinced that conditions in some, if not most, of the State hospitals border upon the disgraceful. There can be no question as to most people being unreservedly in favor of correcting there conditions. Beyond any doubt, they would favor increased taxes for these purposes if there is no other way to finance them. Governor Shivers appears to be among those who sees higher taxes as the only answer to the problem, and he may be correct.

• • •

But all members of the Legislature do not share that view. Rep. Preston E. Smith, of Lubbock, as an outstanding example, thinks ways other than increased taxes could be made to provide the money for the hospital program, which will be the most urgent business before the special session. Specifically, Mr. Smith thinks the interest on State funds of various kinds would be enough for the hospital needs. The State gets practically nothing from this money now. Most of it lies idle. Mr. Smith declares that it would produce several million dollars annually if invest in government bonds.

Representative Smith now is completing his fifth year in the Legislature. He should know what he is talking about. Certainly, his ideas cannot and should not be dismissed without thorough study.

Perhaps the governor and the Legislature will study them. Perhaps they will explode all possibilities of obtaining revenues from other sources, or of reducing expenses, before they increase taxes.

Unless they exhaust every possibility of avoiding such increases, they will fail in their responsibility to the people of Texas, who properly should remember tha tfailure when they go to the polls next Summer and should drive out of office those responsible for higher taxes.

A Hypocritical Pose

IN ORDERING the coal miners back to work a few days ago, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers union, attempted a magnanimous pose which was totally inconsistent with his career of brutal and ruthless disregard of the public welfare.

He ordered the mines reopened, he said, to "contribute to public convenience." His whole record belies that sanctimonious pretense.

The real reason for his order is readily apparent. The funds of the striking miners are running low after weeks of idleness. The financial plight of many reportedly is so desperate that some have threatened rebellion against the Lewis dictatorship.

Lewis quite obviously has attempted to ease this discontent and to give the miners an opportunity to replenish their purses. It is impossible to believe that any concern for the public was involved. The only plausible explanation of his actions is that it is intended as a maneuver to defer, if not avert, the strike defeat which might topple him from his dictatorial throne.

MARK TWAIN'S LETTERS GET BETWEEN COVERS

Dixon Wecter's Companion Books Collectors' Items

"THE LOVE LETTERS OF MARK TWAIN," edited by Dixon Wecter; (Harpers).
"MARK TWAIN' TO MRS. FAIRBANKS," edited by Dixon Wecter; (Hintington Library).

MARK TWAIN is the greatest writer America has produced. And yet there is something missing in his work that is to be found in the writing of almost every other world literary figure. That something is sex. In all of Twain's scores of books there is hardly to be found a line concerning the relations between man and woman.

Critics have been attempting to explain this phenomenon for years. They have viewed it in a Freudian light; they have hinted at dark frustrations; they have surmised that Livy, the wife of Twain's bosom and the recipient of these lover letter, emasculated his more lusty prose.

Twain Ingrained Puritan

Perhaps the true story may never be told but from Wecter's introduction to Mark's Love Letters it is evident enough that Twain was the ingrained Puritan. Wecter says of Twain's courtship: "He was not only in love with love, but with ideal womanhood—the exquisite purity, sweetness, and nobility which both Victorianism and the American tradition exalted as a mystery transcending the moral quality of the male.

"Young Clemens must certainly have encountered other sorts and conditions of women, in the cribs of ante-bellum New Orleans, those floating brothels the packets, and in Virginia City in the flush times . . . But as if shielded by that curious sexual taboo that runs through his writings—stemming probably from boyhood inhibitions lying deep in his nature and from personal fastidiousness—he seems to have escaped unscathed . . . The known facts suggest that he entered into marriage as a virgin of thirty-four."

Profusion Astonished Him

As to Olivia Langdon, the Elmira, N. Y. girl he wooed and won, Wecter quotes Twain: "She poured out her prodigal affections in kisses and caresses, and in a vocabulary of endearments whose profusion was always an astonishment to me. I was born reserved as to endearments of speech, and caresses, and hers broke upon me as the summer waves break upon Gibraltar."

Wector is the third in line of Twain's literary executors. These two books are the first fruits of his felving into the apparently bottomless well of Twain material. Others are to follow.

Have Certain Unity

The Mrs. Fairbanks of the second volume was the wife of a Cleveland publisher and a passenger on the 1867 Quaker City excursion which provided Twain with the material for "Innocents Abroad." They formed an enduring friendship. She was seven years older than Twain and Mark invariably addressed her as Mother.

These two books have a certain unity. It was on the Quaker City that Twain met the brother of Olivia Langdon—a friendship that led to his meeting with Livy. And he often wrote to his Cleveland friend about the girl who became his wife.

Civil War Novel

"A MOCKINGBIRD SANG AT CHICKAMAUGA." by Alfred Leland Crabb; (Bobbs-Merrill).

"A MOCKINGBIRD Sang at Chicamauga" sounds more like the name of a song than the title of a novel. And you can say that again for the subtitles. There were mockingbirds on Walden's Ridge, in Chattanooga, and on the Battlefield, and every one of the little critters was singing fit to kill.

The mockingbirds don't take up all of the story, of course, but one of them would have just about as much meat as the plot possesses.

It's an engrossing setting—the time immediately preceding and including the Civil War battle of Chickamagua in 1863. The central theme—spies—is a reliable bid for reader interest. The characterizations of Conference soldiers and their colleagues are authentic, individualistic, and altogether convincing. The vignettes of generals—Forrest, Bragg, Rosecrans—are historical portraits with the warmth of life.

With those ingredients, this should be a good book. It is a good book for reading. But the plot is a puny thing, the romance is stilted and artificial—made more so by the contrast with the earthly, robust soldiers—and you close the book with a where-does-it-get-you feeling.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

THIS is no attempt to teach you how to read your daily newspaper.

Everybody reads it according to his own taste, just as everybody put as much salt on his eggs, as much sugar in his coffee as he likes.

BRANDEIS

But it may interest you how I ready my daily paper, this presumption not being conceit, but merely the possible germ of an idea for your own use.

First I look at the front-page headlines. If the headline interests me, I read the story. I begin with the first paragraph, then pick one out in the middle of the article and then the last one.

Thus, I usually get the gist of the item and can proceed to my comics and features that much more quickly. (If the first, the middle and the last paragraph together don't make sense, then I read the whole thing.)

But what I get the most fun out of (if this is bad grammar, will you please reconstruct the sentence yourself?) is those little stuckaway items that take the sting out of life, give you a chuckle and make you realize that the most interesting things are the personal, human stories that are liable to happen to anybody anywhere.

Take today's paper, for instance. On page one there is a big article about the persecutions and cruelties in Czechoslovakia. The article made me boil. What terrible people to be so inhuman!

• • •

But tucked away in the back of the same paper is another story, only thirteen lines long. It is headed "Lose Whoops on Flights." It tells how the Czechoslovak Air Lines Medical Department now treats whooping cough by taking sufferers on high-altitude flights. Only ten per cent of the paients so treated showed no improvement.

So maybe there is hope for Czechoslovakia after all—and, incidentally, here may be another possible source of revenue for our own airlines.

• • •

ANOTHER little item I enjoyed was a story about Mrs. Salome Cheiera, of Grosse Point, Mich., who, at 100 years of age, keeps her girlish figure by bending over and touching her toes a number of times each day while doing her housework.

But I, at a little more than half

Testimony Is Sharp

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—With Congress absent and little news competition on Capitol Hill, the press for some reason has pretty much glossed over the scorching, no-holds-barred attack on big business monopolies staged by Congressman Celler's House judiciary committee. Newsmen especially ignored the testimony of T. K. Quinn, former chairman of the Generaleral Electric Finance company, who vigorously attacked the press for hushing up antimonopoly news while playing up A & P chain store advertisements.

PEARSON

The former big-business executive, who quit "because of my conceptions," kept Chairman Celler on the edge of his chair with such blunt comments as:

"If Congress doesn't curb monopoly now, we will wake up very soon and find ourselves in a complete socialistic society . . . Congress must take a resolute hold of these run-away monsters . . . unless the government steps in we, the people, are doomed."

Stalin, said Quinn, "could take lessons" from our own corporation overlords.

"Stockholders of General Electric and General Motors have about the same control over company management that the Russian people exercise in the politburo," he asserted. "No control, no voice whatever. It is the practice of large corporations to refer you to their large number of stockholders, but they neglect to tell you that 75 per cent of all stockholders in our great corporations own less than $5,000 in stock."

Quinn testified that General Motors, which netted a juicy 10 per cent profit on earnings after taxes in 1947, was in such a powerful position that it could hike prices to net a profit of 15 or even 20 per cent.

Quinn was completely candid about the so-called "competitive" position of his old firm, General Electric, and General Motors in the field of electric refrigerators. Whereas the lower price-range manufacturers were driven out of business, he said, the two big outfits couldn't afford a price war on refrigerators.

"Was that due to the fact that you had interlocking directorates and common banking interests," inquired Chairman Cellar, "such as the fact that the Guaranty Trust company was interested in both General Electric and General Motors?"

"Well, there was no actual agreement that could be attacked under the antitrust laws," answered Quinn, "but you just have an understanding. You do not start a war among big people like that. It would cause too much bloodshed."

All big corporate monopolies have "self-perpetuating boards of directors," with officers who aren't elected, including such giants as G. M., G. E., U. S. Steel and the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, Quinn reported.

General McNarney's Ghost

Hardboiled General Joseph McNarney, who wields the economic ax for Secretary of Defense Johnson, tore up his prepared speech and spoke off the cuff the other day at Camp Lee, Virginia.

"I have in my hand a fine speech the ghost writer wrote for me," McNarney explained. Then, with an appropriate gesture, he tossed it aside and launched into an impromptu talk on economy. Afterward, McNarney invited his listeners to ask questions about the economy drive.

"Why don't you get rid of your ghost writers?" came a voice from the rear.

THE American Indians have now emulated the veterans, the farmers, and the big utilities by forming their own lobby in Washington. What they are seeking is not a government handout, but equal rights and education.

The Indians call their new lobbying organization A.A.R.O.W.—which stands for "American Restitution and Righting of Old Wrongs." The purpose is not only to influence Congress but to dramatize the red man's story to the American public.

One project will be to show documentary films of Indian squalor—a shockingly different picture from the romantic idea of Americ't's proud, brightly feathered chieftains. Instead, the films will show Indians living in filthy medieval huts, wasting away from disease and starvation.

Tuberculosis and infant mortality among Indians are eight times the national average. The Red Cross reports that American Indians have "diets scantier, and tuberculosis worse, than Europe at its lowest ebb." On the Navajo reservation, 51.4 per cent of all babies born in 1939 were dead by 1944.

In spite of the alarming disease rate, however, the government doesn't maintain a single hospital on the 2,000,000-acre Papago reservation in southern Arizona.

The government is also bound by treaty to educate the Indians. Yet the schools are so understaffed and inadequate that, on the Navajo reservation, the average youngster receives only 10 months' schooling. Sixty per cent have no schooling at all.

Modern world: Celebrating the end of one war, and accumulating an A-bomb stockpile for the next one.

BY FULTON OURSLER

Modern Parables

Dear Friends
and Gentle Hearts:

IN THE days of my youth, I was often assured that "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform." In today's brash era of disbelief, God moves just as mysteriously as ever before. But his wonders bless the deserving, which makes me think of Nannie and her clowning in the face of death.

OURSLER

Nannie was a homely lass, born to bring up other people's children and never to have any of her own. One day she was hired to join the household staff of friends of mine in England, to take care of their little boy.

Very soon my friends discovered that Nannie had one incorrigible habit, which was to believe in the goodness of God and the rightness of all things, no matter what bad luck befell. Her implacable cheerfulness sometimes got on the family's nerves. A little griping now and then would have been a welcome relief. Pollyanna was bad enough, but after all, she was an attractive young girl; here was a gaunt old maid, who when the wind blew the roof off the house, and the rain ruined the best carpets, went around happily singing hymnas.

• • •

THAT, nevertheless, was the way Nannie lived her life and her persevering good humor won the affection of the child of my friends until the mother was almost jealous. It happened then that another little one was expected and Nannie assured her mistress that she would be able to take care of the two just as well as one. Sad to say, that was never necessary; a month before the new baby was due, the little boy who loved Nannie so much fell ill of scarlet fever and died with his arms around her thin and wrinkled neck. The great house became a place of gloom, of muted voices and tears.

With a determined air, Nannie walked toward the angry master of the house hold and laid two brawny hands on his shoulders.

"There is a new little soul coming to this house," she told him. "Why should he—or maybe she—come into gloom like this? Boy or girl, your new baby should be welcomed with happiness. If nobody else can smile for him, or her, I can and I am going to."

• • •

MY FRIEND decided that perhaps she was right. He raised the shades in the darkened rooms and told his wife what Nannie had said. It took courage to follow her smile but husband and wife managed it. There must have been a blessing in that courage, too, because I have never heard more genuine laughter from anyone than from th new son of theirs, now a man grown. He grew up adoring Nannie and he was the one who, just a few years ago, told me of the fantastic fidelity of his old nurse to her policy of cheerfulness when the show-down came to her.

It was a grilling test of her creed, because now Nannie herself was in pain and in danger of death. She was taken to a London hospital and operated on; but in spite of her determined cheerfulness, she did not seem able to get well. Parts of the intricate, abdominal machinery within her would not come together and heal and for months she lay suffering in her bed, one of a long line of cots in a public ward. Yet, day after day she cheered her neighbors, joking with them, making them laugh, all but one. That was the woman who lay to her right, a lean, groaning old lady who knew that for her death must come, at the latest, before the month was out. Refusing all comfort, she lay muttering and cursing her fate.

• • •

FOR MANY days Nannie tried to make that woman smile, but all in vain. Finally one Spring morning she said:

"Honey, let me ask you something: didn't you ever used to smile when you was well?"

"No! I never had nothing to smile at."

"And didn't you ever laugh? You must have laughed at least once in your life!"

"Yes," conceded the miserable old woman, "I did once upon a time; matter of fact, I nearly split my sides laughing, but that was a long time ago. It was at a circus and I laughed at a clown."

"What did the clown do that made you laugh?"

"He stood on his head."

And now Nannie, who had not stirred from her bed in a month, rolled back her blankets and put her bare feet down on the floor. She got down on her knees, then lifted her feet behind her to the bed. With excruciating effort, she at last managed to stand on her head. The whole ward applauded her and laughed.

• • •

NANNIE did that crazy stunt because that was her way and nothing could have stopped her. And God seems to have moved in a mysterious way because nothing can stop Him. The unknitted parts within that cheerful old cut-up, parts that would not heal before, now fell together; they caught and held and from that moment on Nannie herself began to be a well woman again.

This old nurse could not argue with the skeptics of today; but they are the poorer, as you would be, and I, if we had nothing in our lives to be as faithful to as she has been to her simple creed!

On The Brighter Side

JACK STRAUS, president of R. H. Macy & Co., New York's mammoth department store, tells this story.

A man and his wife came into my office one day and asked, "What'll you take for the whole store?"

I replied, promptly, "Ninety-seven million dollars, cash."

"Well," said the man, "my wife and I will have to talk it over, privately. We'll be back and give you our decision in 15 minutes."

I never expected to see them again, but in 15 minutes, they were back.

"I'm sorry," said the man, "but we decided not to make the deal."

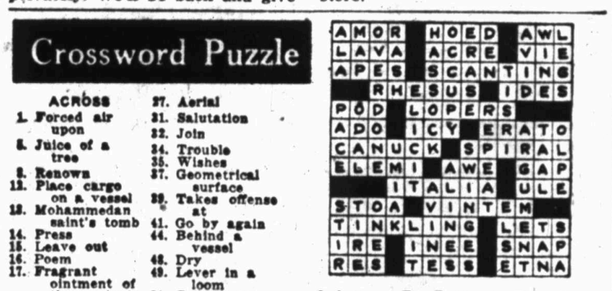

"What's the matter?" I asked. "Is the price too high?"

"Not at all," said the man, "not at all. But my wife and I made a careful examination and there's no place to live in the back of the store!"

Pilot Training Group Is Charged With Fulfilling Mission Of RAFB

Reese Air Force Base exists for only one purpose: pilot training. It is the mission of the Pilot Training Group to actively conduct the advanced flying training for the future multi-engine pilots in the Air Force and all other functions on the base are subordinate. Also the Group must teach the cadets the proper fundamentals of leadership which will qualify them to assume, following their graduation, the responsibility of junior officers in the various tactical units of the United States Air Force.

In order to accomplish this mission, the Training Group commanded by Col. Hugh D. Wallace, a West Point graduate, is divided into three departments: flying, academic and military training. Lt. Col. Frank P. Wood is executive officer and deputy commander.

The flying section which is directly charged with the mission of accomplishing the actual flying training of students is under the suspension of Lt. Col. Sam Barr.

The academic section is headed by Capt. Clyde M. Livingston. It is charged with the conduct of study courses such as aero-engineering, flight planning, navigation and weather fundamentals, organization of the Air Force and aviation psychology.

The Military Training secion is commanded by Capt. Clyde W. Bradley, jr., and is charged with the housing, feeding and military training of the cadets, with a view of giving them a well-rounded education in military leadership, discipline and all the fundamental military knowledge a junior officer should possess.

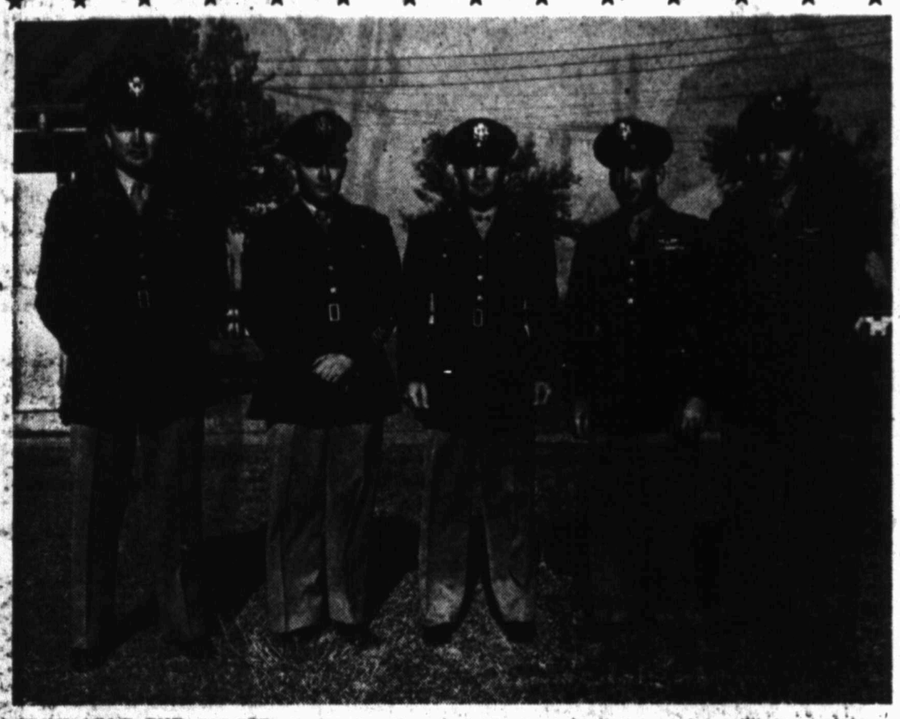

Have Learned Fundamentals

Before their arrival at the advanced school the cadets have received a thorough course in fundamentals at basic schools covering approximately 30 weeks of training in the T-6 Texan training plane. They then come to the advanced school where they receive part of their training in the T-6 and the remainder in the North American B-25 Mitchell Bomber which has been used as a training aircraft since the close of the war. Normally, the cadets will remain at Reese AFB approximately 18 weeks. Two classes, 50-A and 50-B, totaling 105 cadets, are now at Reese and the first post-war graduation is scheduled for the last week in March.

The cadet's time while in advanced training is divided into one-half day periods. One period is devoted to flying and the other to military training. The average day for the cadet begins at 5:30 a. m. and ends at 6 p. m. officially—but there is an after-dinner study period each week-day evening so the young man's time is well occupied. For this reason, except for special occasions, cadets are not allowed to leave the base during the week, but usually will have Saturday and Sunday free to come and go as they wish.

Basic schools now are located at Randolph AFB, Texas; Perrin AFB, Sherman, Texas; Connally AFB, Waco, Texas, and Goodfellow AFB, San Angelo, Texas. Advanced multi-engine schools are at Vance AFB, Enid, Okla.; and Reese AFB. A selected group of the graduates from basic schools are chosen for training in jet aircraft. These men are sent either to William AFB, Arizona; or Las Vegas AFB, N. Mex.

The section of the USAF Advanced Multi-Engine Pilot school now at Reese AFB is a continuing program of that carried on at various basese throughout World War II. It was moved to Barksdale AFB in November, 1946, and transferred from there to Reese AFB where training began on Nov. 1.

BRITISH EAT HORSES

LONDON, Nov. 7. (AP)—They're still eating unrationed horse meat in rationed Britain. The British Road Federation says there were only 612,000 horses in the country in 1948, compared with 1,892,205 in 1924.

Each week hundreds are slaughtered to make dinners for meat-hungry Britons.

Censorship By Three Newspapers Charged

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (U.P.) — Three Washington newspapers have been accused by the Democratic national committee of "censorship", for turning down an advertising criticizing the A. & P.

The charge was made in the committee's weekly newsletter, Capital Comment. The newsletter is published over the signature of Democratic national Chairman William M. Boyle, jr.

The newspapers named were the Washington Post, the Washington Times-Herald, and the Washington Evening Star.

The Democratic committee's publication said all four Washington dailies carried an advertisement from the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea co., assailing the Justice department's anti-trust suit against the big food chain. But only the Washington Daily News would accept an answering ad from the National Federation of Independent Business.

Philip L. Graham, publisher of the Post, said his newspaper rejected the ad because "it seemed possibly libelous."

"We have in recent years printed advertisements ranging from Gerald L. K. Smith to Paul Robeson. We do not think, however, that our responsibility required the printing of possibly liberous matter."

Norway, which had been united with Denmark and Sweden in 1389, declared its independence in 1814 but the union of Norway and Sweden was not finally dissolved until 1905.

You may have overlooked that item—or it may not have been in your paper—about Richard Feeney, five years old, of Washington, D. C.

Being the son of a White House Aid, he sees the President quite often. He told Mr. Truman that the squirrels on the White House grounds looked underfed.

So the President appointed him Official Squirrel Feeder. A picture went with the story. It was headed "New White House Official Takes Up His Duties." It shows Dick proudly wearing a badge with his title, feeding the White House squirrels.

Why don't you look for those little items? They may take some of the bad taste of the main dish out of your month.

Holdup Men Send $1 To Airline To Get Newspaper Story Right

DETROIT, Nov. 12. (U.P.)—Two gunmen who held up the Capitol Airlines office for $530 Monday apparently considered their account squared today.

A crisp new $1 was received by the airline in yesterday's mail. The envelope was postmarked Chicago.

Puzzled employes finally figured it out. Newspaper accounts had said the gunmen took $529 when actually they got away with $530.

The salary of the president of the United States originally was $25,000 a year. It wasn't raised until Grant's second term, in 1873, when it became $50,000. It was raised to $75,000 in 1900.

Maintaining Law And Order For RAFB Is Task Of Police Squadron

Maintaining law and order on Reece Air Force Base are members of the 3500th air police squadron. With morale of the organization at the highest in its history, according to Major Steed Rountree, wing air provost marshal, the members of the police squadron go about their assigned duties in a diligent and efficient manner.

Working in close coordination with the local law enforcement officials of Lubbock and surrounding communities, the 350th air police squadron is under the direct supervision of Major Steed Rountree, a veteran of ten years in the military service. The major hails from Benton, Ark., and attended Ouachita college in Arkadelphia. He spent 42 months in the European Theater of Operations during World war II, serving as an intelligence officer with the 27th fighter group, and after the close of hostilities he was a member of the U. S. control council that helped to form the policies of the military government in Germany and other occupied countries. The major resides at 2402 36th street in Lubbock with his wife and three children.

Squadron Has 72 Men

The 3500th air police squadron is charged with the responsibility of maintaining the peace, the security of the Air Force property, the issuing of passes to civilians, issuing automobile license plates, and performing all the duties normally imposed on a highly trained police organization. This unit is equipped with modern, up to date, facilities. Maintaining two-way radio equipped patrol cars, motorcycle patrol, and the stationary guards in strategic places throughout the base the members of this organization take great pride in their work. Under the jurisdiction of the provost marshal they have access to a firing range, where regular schedule practice meets are held. There are at the present time 72 men assigned to the 3500th air police squadron.

Commanding this unit is Captain James A. Geyer, a senior pilot with nine years service in the Air Force. His home is in Evansville, Ind. The captain spent a total of four years in the Pacific theater during the recent conflict, serving with the 5th and 15th Air Forces. Captain Geyer lives with his family on East Broadway.

Overton Is Adjutant

First Lt. William W. Overton of Lawton, Okla., is squadron adjutant and supply officer. Serving in the African, Middle Eastern and European theaters during World war II with the 97th bomb group, 15th Air Force and later with the Berlin airlift, where he flew approximately 145 missions carrying coal to that beleaguered city, the lieutenant is well qualified for duty with the 3500th air police squadron. Before coming into the Air Force eight years ago, he was serving as a deputy sheriff in Comanche county, Okla. Lieutenant and Mrs. Overton are at present residing at 2431 Thirty-second, Lubbock with their small son.

Coming to Lubbock from Barksdal Air Force Base is 1st Sgt. Clell N. Traylor. Sergeant Traylor has nine years service in the Air Force and has risen to the top enlisted grade. He is in charge of all administration concerning the 3500th air police squadron and lives on Reece Air Force Base with his wife and one child.

Being the keeper of the guard house, with no one to keep in it, is the problem of 1st Lt. Haward J. Schulein and M/Sgt. Arthur W. Daniels, police and prison officer and provost sergeant, respectively. Possibly this can be attributed to the high caliber of men assigned to the base and the efficiency of all concerned. Correcting airmen who may go astray is part of the function of the provost marshal and his staff.

The reformation of Air Force personnel is a highly specialized function requiring patience and tact. Lt. Schulein came to RAFB from Hickam Air Force Base, Honolulu, Hawaii. He has been associated with military and air police squadrons for the past three and one-half years. A veteran of six and one-half years in the Air Force, he spent 38 months in the CBI theater, serving as a bombardier with the 308th bomb group, 14th Air Force. He is married to the former Leola Witt of Lubbock and they are at home with their young son, Keith, at 3620 Avenue P.

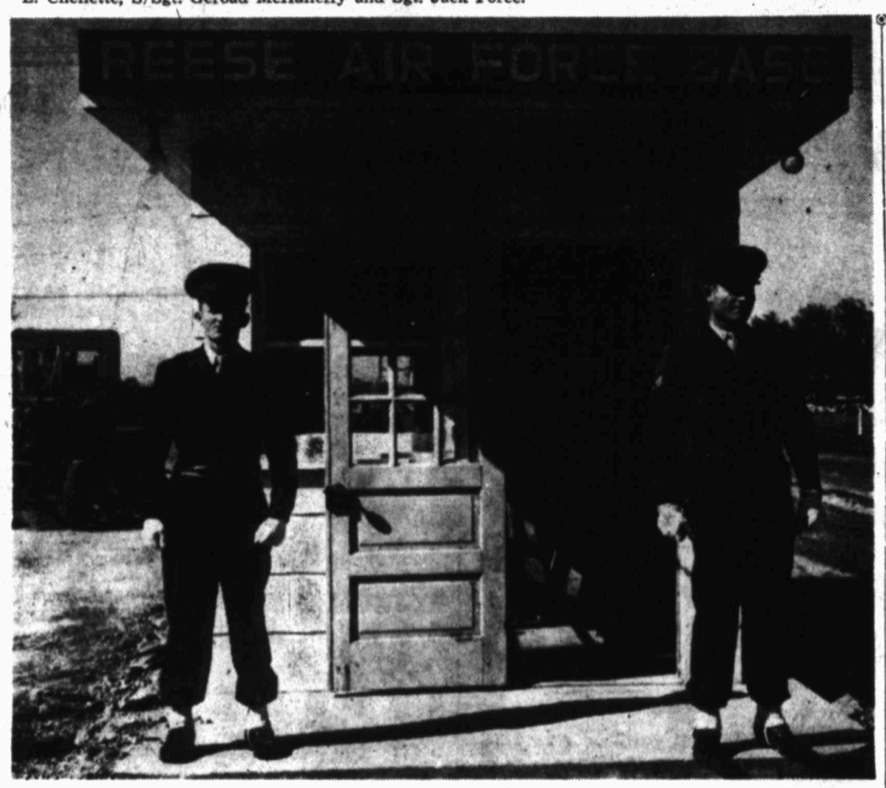

Sgt. Daniel has spent ten years in the Air Force and is from North Carolina. Transferring from Barksdale Air Force Base, Louisiana, where he was provost sergeant, he is the non-commissioned officer in-charge of the guard house and as such is assistant to the police and prison officer, and is responsible for the safety and conduct of the inmates. Sgt. and Mrs. Daniel and family are at home on Reese Air Force Base.

Tuberculosis Tests Given To 8,413 Here

A grand total of 8,413 Lubbock residents and Tech students and personnel took tuberculosis tests here during this month and last, according to an announcement by the Lubbock County Tuberculosis association. Of this total 6,028 were classified as Lubbock residents, while most of the remainder were Tech students, faculty members, and other personnel at the college. Appreciation for the splendid co-operation of numerous Lubbock groups and individuals during the examinations was expressed Saturday by the Tuberculosis association and the Hub City Kiwanis club.

Lubbock Senior High Latin Department Receives Award

Because of extraordinary achievement, the Latin department of Lubbock Senior High school has been awarded a special Latin trophy by the Association for the Promotion of the Study of Latin, according to a letter received this week by Floyd Honey, principal.

The six-inch trophy, which is now on display in the room of Mrs. Novella Newson, Latin teacher, was awarded to Senior high because of the three medals for top scores won by students during the past three years. Out of a possible 120 points students have made the following grades in nationwide Latin examinations: Joy Bowles, 1947, 118 points; Coleen Baldwin, 1948, 119 points; and Christine Toles, 1949, 116 points.

Dr. A. E. Warsley, editor of Auxilium Latinum, official Latin magazine, said in his letter to Honey, "Your Latin students and Latin faculty merit our highest congratulations because of this achievement and we likewise congratulate you, as the school's head, on your excellent Latin department."

INSULT TO INJURY

MEMPHIS (U.P.)—Mrs. Eugene McGann knows of one unnecessary sign. She recently crossed a cotton field along two miles of bumpy, dusty country road. At a sharp bend in the road was the sign: "Speed limit 60 miles an hour."

QUIET CELEBRATION IS STAGED

Steel Community Happy Place Now That Big Strike Is Over

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP) —This typical steel-making community was a happy place today.

On every hand, end of the great steel strike of 1949 was the main topic of conversation.

That held good in the homes, on street corners, in bars, in the grocery stores — and inside the plant of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, subsidiary of giant U. S. Steel corporattion.

Behive Of Acvtivity

The plant itself was a beehive of activity as maintenance men hurried to get the mill in operation. Work started right after the word was flashed last night that big steel had agreed to the pension and insurance demands of the CIO United Steelworkers.

And, minutes after the agreement was reached. steelworkers and their wives embraced. Many families went to the business section to take part in the celebration. For the most part it was quiet—not many steelworkers had too much money to spend.

Typical of the comment was that of young John Balint, 20. He's worked in the mill 18 months and supports his parents.

Doesn't Have Funds

John said he was in a celebrating mood but didn't have the funds. He laughed and added:

"I'm going to have a heck of a hangover after that first pay."

J. F. Bresko, president of steelworkers local 1347, took a grim satisaftcion in tearing and burning picket signs.

"I'm darned glad, not only for myself, but for all the workers, that the strike's over," Bresko commented. "The workers will benefit enough by their gainst to offset the pay tiey lost during the strike."

Albert Urasek, 33, was carrying some groceries home when his wife rushed to the street to tell him the good news. He nearly dropped the groceries, then declared:

Can Eat Regularly

"Thank God it's over. I've only been buying enough food to get along on from day to day. Now we can go back to eating regularly."

Older steelworkers were the most pleased at the strike settlement which guarantees them $100 minimum pensions when they're 65 and have completed 25 years' service.

"Now I've got something to look forward to in 10 years," said Joe Sobocinski, 55.

Reports of the strike settlement were received in other steelmaking cities with the same enthusiasm as in Homestead. At Lorain, Ohio, celebrants jammed downtown streets for a horn-blowing joyride. Most of them are employed at National Tube company, another big steel subsidiary.

Kiddies, too, joined the celebration. Their dads told them not to worry about Santa Claus. They said Santa would be right on schedule. There are at least three paydays for most steelworkers before Christmas.

German Shipyard Owners Fined For Dodging Dismantling Orders

HAMBURG, Germany, Nov. 12 (AP) — The owners of Germany's largest shipyard, which turned out Nazi submarines and flying boats during the war, were found guilty today of trying to dodge allied dismanteling orders.

A British court ordered Rudolf Bloehm, senior partner of Bloehm and Voss, to pay a fine of 5,000 marks ($1,250) or serve five years in prison. His brother, Walter, was fined 1,000 marks ($250) with an alternate prison sentence of 10 months.

Bottleneck In Howard County Cotton Storage Nears End

BIG SPRING, Nov. 12 (AP) — A bottleneck in the storage of a bumper cotton crop in Howard and neighboring counties appeared near solution today.

The West Texas Compress & Warehouse Co., only approved storage concern here for government loan cotton, announced yesterday that it could handle no more cotton. Officials said the company had 60,000 bales in storage and the embargo could not be lifted until some of the cotton was shipped.

Today G. L. Brooks, general agent for the Texas & Pacific railroad, said the line would supply ample cars for the transfer of cotton to Commodity Credit corporation storage points. Officials of the CCC are due here Monday to complete details for handling the cotton.

Meanwhile, the Howard county Farm bureau sponsored a movement to provide temporary storage for cotton submitted for CCC loans. A special committee asked for subscriptions of $100 each from farmers in an effort to raise $15,000 capital, the amount required by CCC for establishing a temporary warehouse concern. Today the committee had arranged for more than $10,000.

Cotton Damaged In Fire Near Lubbock

Firemen Saturday answered calls to six fires, most of them minor, in the eight hour period between 10:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m.

The largest blaze of the day occurred about seven miles northwest of Lubbock when 23 bales of cotton caught fire on a truck about 6 p. m. All but 12 bales of the cotton, which had been pushed from the truck beside the highway, were destroyed. Cotton destroyed was valued at more than $1,200.

Other fires were:

A defective hot-water heater at 3012 Thirtieth at 1 p. m., out on arrival of firemen; 2429 Nineteenth, 12:20 p. m.; Plains Cotton compress, 10:37 p. m.; a residence on North Seventh, 10:23 a. m.; and a car fire at Broadway and Ave. G, 5:03 p. m.

Luxury Yacht Strikes Rocks; Grounded In Mexican Harbor

ACAPULCO, Mexico, Nov. 12 (AP) — The luxurious yacht Corsair, once the private ship of banker J. Pierpont Morgan, struck the rocks and went aground early today in Acapulco harbor.

Passengers said there was "no panic" and "no great excitement." About 55 passengers and a crew of 77 were taken off in lifeboats and small harbor craft.

Port officials said the Corsair struck rocks a few minutes after midnight. Although she was going slowly, a large hole was torn in the bow.

Capt. H. Nedden of Vancouver, B. C., who has skippered the former Morgan yacht more than a year, pointed her at a small nearby beach, "Ensenada de los Presos" (Bay of the Prisoners). The vessel's bow is submerged a short distance off shore and shipping men said if the captain had not acted quickly the boat would have sunk, she was shipping so much water.

Six Lubbock Realtors To Head For Chicago Meeting Tuesday

The delegation, which will be the largest from any city of comparable size in Texas, will travel to Fort Worth, where they will board a special train which will carry Texas realtors directly to the convention.

Those planning to make the trip are Ray Chapman, president-elect of the club; Joe B. Phillips, first vice-president-elect; Paul W. Pattillo, secretary-elect; A. R. Osborn; J. W. Chapman; and C. W. Aydelotte.

Among scientists, the arctic Fox is known as Alopex lagopus.

Chapman Named To Interior Post

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Oscar L. Chapman, a mild-mannered man who likes to cook and to collect paper weights, is due to become secretary of the Interior Monday in everything but name.

President Truman yesterday chose Chapman, the present undersecretary, to become secretary effective December 1.

The present secretary, Julius A. (Cap) Krug, 41, suddenly announced Thursday that he is quitting effective the end of this month.

A top-ranking interior official told a reporter it was understood in talks with the White House that Chapman would assume his new duties, in effect, at the start of next week. This would leave Krug free to depart as early as he wishes.

Help Is Assured

Krug's letter of resignation, made public Friday, asked President Truman to let him go "Dec. 1 or as of any earlier date you may name a successor."

At the same time Krug assured the President that "I want to help in every way to carry out your western development program in the 1950 and 1952 campaigns."

Krug has not said why he is leaving the post he has held since February 1946. Several times in the past year he has indicated he would like to return to private life. He is understood to have an interest in a Tennessee textile mill.

In recent months there have been strong indications that President Truman had been displeased with some of the administrative actions of his youngest cabinet member. The exchange of Truman-Krug correspondence on the resignation did not reflect this.

Policies Are Unchanged

Krug's successor, the 53-year-old Chapman, became assistant secretary of the interior in May, 1933, under Secretary Harold L. Ickes. He became undersecretary in 1946 when Krug took office.

At a news conference Friday, Chapman said department policies and personnel would remain unchanged. He said he had given no thought to selection of a new undersecretary.

Chapman said the Interior department will continue to favor western reclamation development and resource conservation generally.

He said it will continue to fight for federal ownership of submerged land, for irrigation and power development of the west—he especially mentioned California's central valley—for establishment of a Columbia valley authority in the Pacific northwest and for the principle of regional development whether under an authority or some other method—in the Missouri river basin.

Charter Legion Member

Chapman, five feet eight and one-half inches tall and weighing a solid 175 pounds, is a smiling, self effacing man who talks little—with a somewhat southern drawl dating back to his origin in West Virginia—and neither smokes nor drinks.

He is a Methodist and a charter member of the American Legion.

His first wife died in 1931, and in February 1940 he married his secretary he had hired three years earlier.

An aide told how Chapman likes to cook for his guests—"especially chili and brunswick stew and things like that."

It adds that Chapman admits one unsatisfied ambition — for years he has wanted to own the Rocky Mountain News in his former home town of Denver.

"Not to write," the sketch quotes Chapman as saying, "because I don't write well, but for the power it carries to influence people."

Travelers Welcomed Throughout Long Jaunt

Barnstorming Baylys, Family Of 16, Cross Country Via Bus

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 12 (INS)—The barnstorming Baylys — all 16 members of the family — were unanimous tonight in agreeing they would repeat their cross-country bus jaunt again tomorrow at the drop of a tire pump.

Mrs. Veronica Bayly, 37-year-old mother of 14 younger Baylys ranging in years from one to 18 said it was well worth the $1,200 it cost the family for the 23-day trip in the bus they bought for the holiday.

The couple caught the nation's interest in September when they began this second honeymoon with all the kids along. But the Baylys, in turn, were amazed that anyone would think they could leave them home.

Fears Prove Groundless

Father Harry Bayly, 38, said he had been a little afraid of getting accomodations for such a large and lusty brood, but says now:

"I guess America loves big families. Every place we went we got a royal welcome. Neither hotels nor motels were upset by any problems we created. They gave us the lowest rates and special service. It was the same at restaurants."

Mrs. Bayly said one phase of the trip didn't work out so well. She explained:

"We took pounds of potatoes and dozens of cans of vegetables, meats and fruit. But we found it took too long to get meals for all of us by the roadside.

Family Deserts Tents

"It was the same way with sleeping quarters," she said. "The first morning after we had slept out in tents it took us hours to pack up and after that we stayed at commercial hotels, motels or tourist camps."

Bayly explained how he and his wife kept their large family from getting out of hand on the trip. He said:

"We made the most detailed plans, with the children sitting in on everything.

"There had to be a place for everything, including the youngsters. So the seats were numbered and each assigned to a seat. That prevented any scrambling on the trip.

Children Assigned Jobs

"Everyone had a box for his things and every box was labeled. That prevented confusion and lost things. And each of the older children was responsible for one of the younger, practically eliminating the problem of supervision.

Mrs. Bayly and her husband pooh-poohed any idea that dealing with such a large family is any problem. He said:

"In the summer we operate a clam bake grove near Troy. There we can handle 700 or 800 at a time. In comparison the family seems small."

Mrs. Bayly said the only real troubles were mechanical. They had a flat tire in Texas and the headlights blew out while they were climbing a tricky hill in Arizona.

But, said Mrs. Bayly, mother of 14 children in 20 years of married life:

"The children slept through it all. They were never any trouble. The trouble with most women is they have too much time on their hands."

Indians occupy almost five million acres of land in New Mexico.

PRODUCTION CUT MAY BE ASKED

Oil Industry Supply-Demand Problems In Changing State

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Nov. 12—Oil refinery workers are being kept busy these days turning on valves and then turning them off again.

The industry's supply-demand problems look good one day, not so good the next.

For the week ending October 29, the nation's refineries were operating at 83.3 per cent of capacity. A week later it was 85.3. Last week the figure fell to 82.4.

Oilmen are wondering if they were wrong a few weeks ago in anticipating an upward swing in demand. This belief caused them to encourage states which made sharp summer cutbacks in crude production to start reversing the trend.

Texas boosted its daily allowable by 135,000 for November. The state's regulatory body meets again in Austin next Tuesday. Reports say the commissioners will be asked to order another cutback.

United States crude production increased 60,450 barrels last week for a daily average of 5,135,600 barrels, compared to 5,075,150 the previous week and 5,675,050 a year earlier.

Mild Winter Blamed

A mild winter last year has been given primary blame for the sharp cutbacks. A year earlier a severe winter had seen the oil industry criticized for spot heating fuel shortages. The industry said most of the trouble was from thansportation, not supply.

As the current winter season approached, stocks of refinery products and crude were abnormally high.

Then came the coal strike, accompanied by a flurry of optimism among oilmen who foresaw a sharp upward swing in demand for petroleum products.

But industry spokesmen say any increase experienced has not been sharp.

Coutrney C. Brown of Standard Oil company (New Jersey) this week said the oil market in the United States has become "a lot more seasonal" the past 15 or 20 years.

His paper prepared for the annual convention of the American Petroleum institute at Chicago said the level of summer demands in the 1920's was well above winter demands.

Peaks Going Higher

By the early 1930's, he said, the respective demands were about in balance. In recent years the situation of the 1920's has been reversed.

"The industry is now a peak load industry in the winter and the peaks are apparently going higher and higher with the passage of time," he said.

"The winter demands in the three postwar winters ended with March 1949 averaged 543,000 barrels daily more than their preceding summers," Brown said. "By way of contrast the demands of the three winters ended March 1937 averaged only 83,000 barrels daily more than their preceding summers."

Greater seasonal influence on the oil market, he said, is a long-time operating problem "and our thinking should be developed with that in mind."

The bureau of mines reported this week that imports increased 29.3 per ent the first eight months this year over the same period last year.

Richard J. Gonzales, economist for the Humble Oil and Refining company, also warned this week the United States will become a larger net importer of oil.

The increase, however, will not be abrupt and should not disturb seriously the incentive for domestic development or to endanger national security.

Gonzales said rapid changes the past three years resulted in the concern over imports.

"In 1948 imports exceeded exports by 145,000 barrels daily and in 1949 the difference will be about 275,000 barrels daily," he said. "Net imports are still less than 5 per cent of domestic demand but the rate of change has been disturbing."

Educational Awards Will Be Given Boys And Girls In Area

Competing with outstanding 4H Club boys and girls all over the state, three Panhandle-Plains area girls and five boys will receive next week educational awards from the Santa Fe Railway which will enable them to attend the National 4H Club Congress in Chicago, November 27 through December 1, with all expenses paid.

Certificates of merit from Santa Fe President Fred G. Gurley and funds to cover all expenses will be presented to Jenelle Reynolds, Conlen; Catherine Foltyn, Sudan; Lois Charlene Ritchie, Post; Edwin Lee Weatherford, Texhoma, Oklahoma; Leon Martin, Memphis; A. F. Pyeatt, Aramillo; Newell Hoffman, Vernon; and Bret Carruth, Pampa.

They will join others from West Texas en route to the Congress leaving Amarillo November 25 aboard the Santa Fe's Grand Canyon.

Fred Astaire, the dancer, has purchased the horse Blue Border from the Greentree Stable and will race it in California.
