Roert (Buster) Aycock, Jr., 43, entered his first race for public office in the City Council race because "I feel you shouldn't expect some one else to do what you won't try."

"I'm for the best government we can get," he explains. "I have been too busy in business before to offer my services to the public and I feel that I should now that I have a little time to devote."

Aycock, a partner in Colorado Machine Shop, is a native of Colorado City. He went to work at the shop in which he is now a partner when he was 19 years old. After 2 years there, he went to work for Col-Tex Refining Co. where he worked for 7½ years before returning to Colorado Machine Shop.

The Aycocks reside at 405 E. 15th St. He and his wife, Betsy, have 4 children. Their 21-year-old twins are presently in college. Bob attends North Texas State in Denton and Cynthia is a student at Texas Tech in Lubbock.

The 2 younger Aycock children, David and Douglas, are also twins. They are seventh grade students in the local junior high school. Mrs. Aycock is a third grade teacher.

Aycock is a member and deacon in the First Presbyterian Church and is a former member of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"Because I am for the best government we can get, I will go into the City Council office, if elected, with an open mind," Aycock states. "I do not plan to try to change all that has already been done by the council, I just hope to help continue its work.

Easter Egg Hunts Set Here Saturday

Easter egg hunts for all local children up to and through 10 years of age are scheduled here Saturday morning.

Three hunts are scheduled, under the sponsorship of the Youth Activity and Affairs Committee of the Colorado City Junior Chamber of Commerce. All 3 start immediately at 10 a. m.

For toddlers through 5 years of age, a hunt is set in Ruddick Park in the playground area by the swimming pool.

Egg hunters from the ages of 6 through 10 will have their hunt in Ruddick Park also. Their eggs will be hidden on the hill northeast of the creek that runs through the park.

All Wallace School children, through 10 years of age, will have a hunt at the site of the old Wallace School building. That hunt too starts at 10 a. m.

Youth activities and Affairs committee chairman Winn Talley reports that 1800 eggs have been secured by the Jaycees for the 3 hunts. Eggs will be hidden by Jaycee members.

A prize will be awarded to the youngster who gathers the most eggs in each of the 3 different hunts, Talley stated. Wayne Worley and Arvie Clark are assisting Talley with arrangements for the hunt and prizes.

All local youngsters are invited to take part in the hunt, Talley noted. He warned that hunting could not begin before the starting whistle is blown at 10 a. m. due to the fact that the eggs will be hidden just before that time.

2 ON BALLOT

Voters Will Elect Trustees Saturday

Colorado City voters go to the polls Saturday to elect 2 members to the Colorado Independent School District board of trustees.

A light vote is expected in the balloting with only 2 candidates for the 2 seats on the school board to be filled.

The 2 candidates who filed for spots on the ballot are R. Y. Hammond and Joe L. Blackard.

Hammond is currently serving in his first term on the school board as he seeks re-election. He was elected to his 3-year term in 1958.

Blackard is seeking his first elected term although he is presently serving on the body. He was appointed to the post in November to replace Max Caddell who moved to Oklahoma.

Sixteen absentee votes had been cast in Mitchell County Clerk Gilbert Leach's office by the deadline at midnight Wednesday.

The polls open at 8 a. m. Saturday and remain open until 7 p. m. at City Hall. J. W. Watson will serve as election judge.

The light vote, much lighter than the 272 cast last year, is expected due to fact that there are only 2 candidates for the 2 spots to be filled.

In the 1960 election, last-minute telephone campaigns brought out the surprise number of voters. Supporters of a write-in candidate and a candidate seeking re-election staged the phone campaign.

There has been no activity or reports of any activity this year by any possible write-in candidates.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Miss Cathey Smith Reports To Plainview Club on Diabetics

Guest speaker to the Plainview Home Demonstration Club Thursday afternoon was Miss Cathey Ann Smith, who gave a report on diabetes.

Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. W. B. Head. Mrs. W. S. Taylor appointed a committee to select an Easter gift package for a youth at the State Farm. Mrs. Sam Thompson reported that Mrs. Paul Logsdon of the club was voted as a Mitchell County delegate to the District Convention at Brownfield.

The club voted to sponsor a contestant in the Tumbleweed Festival.

Miss Smith, speaker for the afternoon, told the club that a well-informed general public can be a great asset to the diabetic. It is through ignorance, she said, that most accidents happen with diabetics. Knowledge of the general could easily save a diabetics life.

Diabetes is a disease which is becoming more common each year. Approximately 3-750,000 people living today are potential diabetics, which means they will develop the disease some time during their lives. About 65,000 new cases are diagnosed each year. There are about 50,000 young diabetics in the United States under 15 years of age. In this nation, there are 1,600,000 diagnosed diabetics and about a million more hidden diabetics.

Heredity, Miss Smith said, plays a very important part in who will have diabetes and who will not. Of people who have diabetes, 44% have a positive family history of diabetes. The heredity influence of itself is often sufficient to produce diabetes in young diabetics who are rarely overweight.

"A "carrier" in your family could cause a child or grandchild to develop diabetes, one authority has found through research! Of the total population of the United States, 40 million persons — or one of every four, are believed to be diabetic carriers. Those are free of the disease themselves but can pass the tendency to it. Being a child of a diabetic parent increases your chances of being a diabetic. If a diabetic marries another diabetic there is a great likelihood all their children will develop diabetes eventually."

"Sixty-two per cent of diabetics are over 40 years of age. The chances of a woman past 40 becoming diabetic is 1/3 higher than for a man, but diabetics can strike anyone anytime. It has appeared in a 9-day-old boy — also a 99-year-old man."

Miss Smith continued her talk by telling several ways to detect the disease and rules to follow when fighting the disease.

Refreshments of cookies and iced punch were served to the following club members:

Mrs. J. V. Bolin Jr., Mrs. S. S. Wilkinson, Mrs. Henry Faught, Mrs. Paul Logsdon and Mrs. Thompson.

Mrs. B. D. Mason, Mrs. W. S. Taylor, Mrs. Darrell Shurt left, Mrs Head and her two guests, Mrs. Clyde Dennis and Mrs. C. M. Wellborn of Snyder.

Mrs. Edna Wilinson of Big Spring, visiting here with Mrs. S. R. Wilkinson; Mrs. R. M. Spurden of Eastland, visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Eldon Smith; and guest speaker, Miss Smith.

Snyder Woman Speaks on Correct Flower Arrangement

Mrs. O. B. Trulock Jr., program leader, introduced her sister and guest speaker, Mrs. Richard Brice, of Snyder, to members of Mu Pi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi which met in the home of Mrs. O. B. Trulock Sr. Tuesday night.

Mrs. Brice spoke to the sorority on "Flower Arrangements." She recently finished a course in Midland on period arrangements and is a national junior flower judge.

The first step in flower arranging is selecting the flowers, cutting and hardening, Mrs. Brice said. Hardening the flower is done in several different ways. The lower portion of the stem or a plant that has a tree - like stem should be pounded with a blunt object so that it will absorb and retain moisture and therefore stay fresh for a longer period of time. Some plants need to have the stem where it has been severed or burned as method of hardening.

Second step, the speaker said, is to decide where you want to put the arrangement. The color will be important in deciding where you want to put the arrangement — the size of the room, whether it is for a coffee table or mantle, etc. Lighter flowers are viewed from a greater distance than dark ones.

Third step is design, she said. For a coffee table, you want to put an arrangement that could be viewed from all four sides. Mrs. Brice explained the use of solids and voids to accomplish a particular effect in design. She did several arrangements to demonstrate the various steps. She did one Japanese arrangement using the theme "Heaven, Man and Earth." She used in the arrangement some scotch broom to capture the Japanese theme, repeating the theme again with red tulips. The arrangement was placed in a black Japanese bowl.

Another arrangement Mrs. Brice made was a crescent in shape, made of white plum blossoms and contrasted with violets.

She explained that there were many rules in flower arrangement, but that rules could be changed or broken to reflect your personality or taste in decorations.

During the business session, Mrs. Keaton urged members to attend the Texas Convention for Beta Sigma Phi at Galveston May 26.

Ritual of Jewels will be conferred on eligible pledges Apr. 25, 7:00 p. m. Next regular meeting is scheduled for Apr. 25 in the home of Mrs. John Brand.

Present were Mrs. John Brand, Mrs. C. C. Burt, Mrs. Alan B. Conley, Mrs. R. E. Gregory Jr. and Miss Mary Hickman.

Simpson and Bridgford Served On 4-H Recognition Committee

Serving on the local Mitchell County 4-H Recognition Committee Fund this year were Mrs. O. L. Simpson and Dr. R. D. Bridgford.

The two reported the following firms had donated to the fund:

Swift and Company Oil Mill, Ft. Worth; Continental Oil-Cotton Company; Buford Co-operative Gin Company and Producers Co - operative Gin Company Incorporated.

Also Yoakum Gin, Lion's Club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club and City National Bank.

Each year it is the responsibility of the Texas 4-H Recognition Committee and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to evaluate the program areas and plan for the future programs.

Donors who contribute to the budget will be given an annual financial program progress report by the Executive Committee of the 4-H Recognition Committee.

Program sponsored by the Recognition Committee include the following:

The annual 4-H Roundup represents the culmination of many years of experience and effort of approximately 2,000 4-H Club boys and girls. These young people have an opportunity to match their skills and achievements with those of other 4-H Club members who meet to participate in state-wide elimination contests on the campus of Texas A&M College.

4-H Adult Leader Development provides selected volunteer adult leaders an opportunity to participate in 4-H Adult Leader Development Workshops to be conducted in one or two extension districts each year until all districts have had the privilege of holding such workshops. The workshops are planned to give leaders basic training in what their ob is, what is involved in the job and how to do it. The leaders learn about the growth need of young people and how to plan a 4-H program with young people that will meet these growth needs.

The International Farm Youth Exchange Program provides for sending some of our young people from America to designated countries and for bringing other exchanges from these other countries to our own homes and communities. Through this two-way exchange program, the delegates and the people they meet get a better understanding of each other. This program is designed to promote friendship and world peace. This program is under the auspices of the National 4-H Club Foundation, which provides a sum of money in addition to what the states provide. The states are given quotas annually. No state can send more than five young people.

4-H representation Designated State and National Activities provides the opportunity for selected 4-H Club members to represent 4-H and to participate with representatives of other youth organizations in state and national program such as the Texas Youth Civil Defense Advisory Council and the Rural Youth of the United States of America Conference.

Citizenship training at national 4-H Center provides for 40 Texas 4-H Club members and their leaders to go to Washington, D. C., for a Week's training in Citizenship under auspices of the National 4-H Club Foundation.

The state 4-H Club Congress provides an opportunity for taking the 4-H Club program to the people. There are approximately 1,000 4-H Club members each year who enter their records on a district basis in the 84 awards program. A state congress will provide an opportunity for these select young people, 14 years of age and older, and businessmen to meet together in a different metropolitan area each year.

By The Way...

By PAULINE CORNUTT

Ever miss the face of MRS. SOPHIA OLIVER around town and wonder what became of the Colorado City housewife?

Seems as if Mrs. Oliver went to Dallas "for a couple of weeks" to visit with a friend, a widowed school teacher in the Dallas schools . . . this was in October of last year.

It may have been a long two weeks for her family here . . . but apparents it's been a short five months for Mrs. Oliver.

The bright lights of the big city must have been very attractive for this grandmother . . . for she has seen or been to almost every place in the city.

First of all . . . she was honored with a luncheon at one of the large tea rooms there and attended the Dallas Symphony Concert at State Fair Music Hall featuring Jack Benny.

Besides all this, she made a trip to Tyler Sunday to view the Azaleas.

The traveling party returned by way of Palestine and motored over the Dogwood Trail.

This isn't enough travel for the woman, either . . . she is making plans for a trip to Mobile, Ala., Easter weekend where she will tour the Bellangrath Garden. She also plans to make an airplane trip to New York with her son, Clinton, who has been with Braniff Airlines for 8 years.

Since you can't hold Mrs. Oliver down . . . just for curosity's sake, we wanted to know when she planned to return home!

We overheard her say that when she sees all a "grandmother should see" she will come back to Colorado City. When? "That just depends!"

We give up! This weather has us all stumped!

Tuesday afternoon was such a beautiful sunny day . . . we just knew that summer was here to stay.

Even went to Lake Colorado City to soak up a little sun where we saw several boats and a number of people fishing.

Guess everyone was just about as disappointed as we were when it turned off cold again Wednesday.

Well, one thing for sure, when summer does get here . . . we will be sitting pretty in the way of summer recreation.

In way of recreation, C-City can boast of a pool, a bowling alley, a lake for swimming, boating, fishing, water skiing, a theater, and numerous outdoor games and sports.

Heard someone remark that a picnic was always scheduled in their book for the first days of warm weather.

We got a strong whiff of trouble from the J. W. BLASSINGAME home in the Buford Community . . . and that isn't speaking literally either.

Couldn't help but feel sorry for Mrs. Blassingame . . . who earlier this week made plans to host one of the local home demonstration clubs in her home . . . until her dog and a roving skunk picked a space underneath her house to have a playful game of tag.

By the way . . . the meeting was promptly scheduled in the home of her next door neighbors . . . which smelled somewhat more refreshing.

One of the achievements of the North Loraine Home Demonstration Club in the past several months has been to make directional signs for their community. The names of club members have been painted in black on white boards and placed at highway intersections and crossroads to direct how many miles and which direction each one lives. The letters are covered with spangles to glow at night.

Club members and their husbands met Wednesday at the Willie Taylor farm for an all-day meeting to complete and place the signs throughout the community. Thus far, ninety-eight signs have been made.

Offer Change To Farmers' Loan Program

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has taken action to modify down-payment provisions of the farm storage facility loan program, reports the USDA. Purpose of the measure, which the President called for in his message to Congress on farm program proposals, is to encourage storage of grain on farms and strengthen economic activity in farming areas.

The new provisions will enable farmers to borrow up to 95 percent of the outlay for farm storage facilities which cost 40 cents per bushel or less to build. Previously, loans on these types of structures were limited to 80 percent of the cost.

For facilities costing more than 40 cents per bushel, farmers may borrow up to 40 cents per bushel or 80 percent of the cost whichever is greater, but not more than 50 cents per bushel of capacity.

These loans are made at 4 percent interest and run for five years from the time the loan is taken out. They may be repaid in four annual installments, with the first installment due on the first anniversary of the loan. Since the program started in 1949, 135,991 loans totaling approximately $149,196,000 have been made for storage facilities with a total capacity of about 546,380,000 bushels. Loans outstanding at the end of January amounted to $43,799,000, with $105,399,000 loaned to farmers having been repaid.

According to the USDA, approximately $40 million will be spent by farmers for storage facilities under the broadened program. This will give added stimulus to the general economy because of the increased demand for steel, wood and other building materials.

Fertilizer Can Add Fish Food In All Ponds

Applying fertilizer to the farm fish pond not only increases the amount of food in the water, it is also one of the best practices for controlling submerged mosses, says Ed Cooper, extension wildlife specialist. The first application should be made in early spring, he continues.

Since the pond water is usually deficient in the same nutrients as the soil over which it flows, Cooper suggests the use of the same commercial mixture that is used for the farm crops. An initial application of 100 pounds per surface acre of water is suggested. This amount should cause an extensive development of plankton, resulting in a change in the color of the water. The plankton is used for food by the fish and organisms upon which the fish feed.

Cooper advises periodic checks of the pond to determine when additional fertilizer applications are needed. He says to submerge the arm into the water to elbow depth and if the thumb can be seen plainly, more fertilizer should be applied. Only the amount required to produce the desired plankton development, or bloom, should be applied. This may be about half of the initial application.

Pond fertilization should be stopped during the summer months, because fertilizer can cause a shortage of oxygen. This is especially true during the periods when the wind is not strong enough to cause wave action. If oxygen depletion is too great, the fish will die, Cooper warns.

Finally, Cooper emphasizes that the fertilizer to be used during the year should not be applied all at one time. Start in spring and make enough applications to maintain the desired bloom. The shading from the bloom will control submerged mosses, thus making fishing and swimming more enjoyable.

Plant Disease Detectives Hard at Work

Plant disease detectives are using rust trapping nurseries to discover new races of small grain rust, and, reports Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist, their work is paying off.

Smith describes a rust trapping nursery as a small area where many new varieties of oats and wheat are grown for detection purposes. There are now 10 such nurseries in Texas and 5 in Mexico operated jointly by Texas A&M College, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Mexican State Agricultural Experiment Stations.

Here's how they work. New races of leaf rust known only in trace amounts in the U. S. prior to 1960 were picked up in the Beeville nursery this year. Once these new races appear, thy are spread rapidly across the North American continent by winds and cause grain and pasture losses. Plant breeders are warned of the susceptible varieties so they can incorporate resistance into their breeding lines, Smith explains.

The new race of leaf rust detected at Beeville attacks the new varieties of oats developed from the Landhafer variety and which are commonly grown to the north of Texas. Many of the Texas experimental strains of oats are susceptible to this new rust. Suregrain and Moregrain varieties were not attacked.

Smith sad recent research work at the University of Minnesota showed that rust is caused by a fungus parasite. This fungus grows through the oat stem and leaves by a root-like growth called a mycelium. It was found that when myselia of two races grow together inside the oat plant a new race results.

Oat leaf rust has two hosts, the oat plant and buckthorn bush, a shrub native to the northern U. S. Since 1930, it has been known that rust produces the greatest number of races when growing on this bush.

Plant Food Usage Rises In Past Year

Fertilizer and fertilizer materials sold in Texas during the year beginning July 1, 1959, amounted to 708,036 tons, which was about 7 percent higher than the tonnage sold during the preceding year. In the 58th annual report of the operation of the Texas fertilizer law, Dr. J. F. Fudge, state chemist, reports that sale of mixed goods decreased 1 percent while sale of materials increased 12 percent.

Of Texas' six differentt geographic regions, only East Texas showed a decrease from the previous year in tonnage purchased. South Texas had the greatest increase in purchases, followed closely by West Central Texas.

IN TUESDAY ACTION

Wolves Bow to Angelo Nine, 1-0

Colorado City Wolf pitchers Charles Houston and Steve Hillhouse battled San Angelo's hurler, Dorris, in a masterpiece of pitching art Tuesday in San Angelo as the Wolves dropped a 1-0 decision.

Wolf starter Houston and reliever Hillhouse combined to hold the Angelo squad to just 1 unearned run on 2 hits — of which 1 hit was a big question mark.

Loser Houston, dropping his first decision of the year after winning 2 for coach Ken Kearns' nine, went for 4 innings and allowed only 1 batter to cross the plate—that was the ballgame.

The scoring came in the bottom of the third frame with 1 away for the hosts. An infield error allowed Angelo shortstop Ewing to safely reach first. He was second single. Catcher Jimmy Palmer got on an error in the second inning and center fielder Bobby Stewart walked in the fifth frame.

Pilot To Be Sky, Pilot

Canadian Pacific Airline pilot Tom Elden catches up on some school work between flights. He is studying at the University of British Columbia to be a minister and logs 3,000 miles a week between classes.

McKay Again Third in 2 Track Events

Jerry McKay continued his rampage for the Colorado City Wolves Saturday in the Permian Basin in Kermit.

McKay placed third in 2 events to gain the only places in the finals for the local Wolves of coach Sam Christy. (The Saturday before, McKay also gained 2 third places for the only Wolf triumphs in the finals of the West Texas Relays in Odessa.)

McKay took third in both the broad jump and the high jump finals in Kermit — just as in Odessa the week before.

He spanned 20'5" inches in the broad jump and cleared 6 feet in the high jump. He had topped both of those marks the week before with a 21 foot broad jump and a 6'½" high jump.

The Wolf 440-yard relay worked their way to the finals Saturday, but failed to place.

The Wolves enter the Brady meet this Saturday. Their initial schedule called for action in the San Angelo Relays, but the Wolves dropped out of that meet due to their lack of relay strength.

The next Saturday, Mar. 8, the Wolves journey to Sweetwater for the District 3-AAA meet.

Junior Wolves Place Sixth in S'water Meet

Coach Winn Talley's Junior Wolves placed sixth in the annual Sweetwater Invitational Track Meet in Sweetwater Saturday.

T. J. Davis and Melvin Morgan paced the Junior Wolves to third place finishes (their highest finishes in any event in the finals) in both the 220-yard dash and the shot put.

Davis clocked a 25.4 in the 220-yard run and Morgan put the shot 45'4" to pace the locals' efforts.

In other events finals, the Junior Wolves copped fourth place finishes. They were:

Peter Garrett, pole vault, 8'8".

Richard Smith, Freddie Fox, Bill Boren and Davis, 440-yard relay.

Smith, 120-yard low hurdles, 17.4.

Fox, broad jump, 17'7". (Fox has spanned over 19 feet during the year, but was hampered in this meet by a leg injury.)

Sponsors of the league's top 4 finishing teams, first place, Eva's Dress Shop; second, Henderson's Texaco; third, Roberts Blue Flame; and fourth, Walding Service Station, all were awarded trophies. Each member of the 4 top teams was given an individual team trophy also.

The other 8 teams sponsors received plaques for their participation. They are, in order of final place in the standings, Jay Adams Chevrolet, Pennington Furniture, Baker Hotel, Rasco 8 'til 8, Tumbleweed, G. D. Foster tie with Higginbotham - Bartlett, Loraine and Corner Drug.

Editorially Speaking

Jim Wright—For Exceptional Times

Mitchell County citizens, along with, all Texas, next week will make a voting decision which will decide one half of its representation in the United States Senate for the next 5½ years.

National, regional and international conditions emphasize, even more, the vital aspects of this election.

And the call to service in this Senate office is a call for the exceptional, not the usual nor the mediocre — the exceptional in vision, integrity, ability and performance.

Because of this vital need during these critical times, the Colorado City Record endorses the candidacy of Congressman Jim Wright of Fort Worth and recommends his candidacy to the voters of this Mitchell County area.

An unprecedented number of candidates are on the ballot for the special Senate Election — a situation which tends to divide and confuse the voting public.

But Jim Wright with his stature of unselfish service stands above the crowd — stands as the single candidate best prepared to represent all the people, best prepared to served his State and Nation when exceptional service is needed most.

Jim Wright's stature in government raises him above the partisans, the cliques and special interests. He bears the yoke of no group, his voting record aligns him with no superimposed tag of "liberal" or "reactionary" or "conservative," he bows to no pressure.

Instead his record is marked consistently along the road of progress. And the fact that he wears no special brand only emphasizes this exceptional concept and performance in government for the good of all the people.

Jim Wright, whose life roots are linked permanently with West Texas, has pointed his career toward public service since he was a youth. Now, at 38, he is definitely on his way to becoming a prominent national figure. Already he has 14 years, almost half his life, in distinguished public service.

He gained recognition on the Washington scene almost as soon as he entered the corridors of the U. S. House of Representatives. After 6 years in the Congress, he is recognized across the nation as one of its most eloquent and effective members.

Proving himself to be a leader of exceptional ability and capacity, Jim Wright has won praise from the nation's leading newspapers and, surprisingly enough, from members of both political parties.

His dedication to representative government, to "call his own shots," to think for himself, has won for him in the past the unique distinction of support from both the National Association of Manufacturers and Americans for Democratic Action — 2 groups diversly opposed to each other politically.

To anybody who question's his integrity, we would like to point out that once after a successful campaign for re-election, Jim Wright returned a 27 per cent "dividend" to campaign contributors. He did so without fanfare, but when reporters got wind of it and talked to Wright, he explained simply that he didn't have to use all the money, so he was returning part of what each person gave him.

Born in Fort Worth Dec. 22, 1922, Jim Wright was the son of parents neither rich nor poor. He might have been any boy growing up in any middle class Texas neighborhood just like ours in the years prior to the great depression.

After public schooling, he attended Weatherford College and University of Texas, where he majored in government and economics. Three weeks after Pearl Harbor, he enlisted in the Army as a private, later was commissioned and flew 34 combat missions in B-24s in the South Pacific.

After World War II, he entered private business, but then gave in to his life-long ambition for public service and went to Austin as a state representative in 1947.

Since then, in 14 years of public service Jim Wright has been associated with all levels of government — local, state and national. He is the only candidate in the Special Senate Election with this seasoned know-how in the complexties of government.

He served until 1949 in the Texas Legislature, was elected mayor of Weatherford for 3 spans from 1949 through 1952, served in 1952 as president of League of Texas Municipalities, and organization representing more than 600 incorporated towns and cities across the state.

A year later, in 1953, he was selected as one of the "Five Outstanding Young Men of Texas.

With this background he made his first for national office, unseating the incumbent Wingate Lucas, U. S. Representative from Texas' 12th Congressional District. He has since been reelected 3 times without opposition in his district.

Jim Wright made his first speech in the House Jan. 24, 1955, successfully opposing a move to kill the Federal Soil Conservation program which has been so important to West Texas.

He was author of Public Law 170 which permits churches to make freer use of second-class mailing permits. He was instrumental in obtaining passage of the "Pay-As-You-Go" Federal Interstate Highway Act. He chairmaned the subcommittee with investigated Southwestern flood conditions in 1957 and obtained passage of several bills for quick, corrective action.

He won the salute of sound-thinking Americans the nation over when he introduced legislation which would make it mandatory to reduce our national debt by at least 1 per cent per year (2.8 billion dollars), so that wasteful interest charges can be reduced.

Jim Wright, who teaches a couples class in Washington's New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, has firsthand knowledge of foreign affairs — having toured comprehensively and headed special Congressional delegations to Europe, Asia, Africa, Mexico, Central and South America.

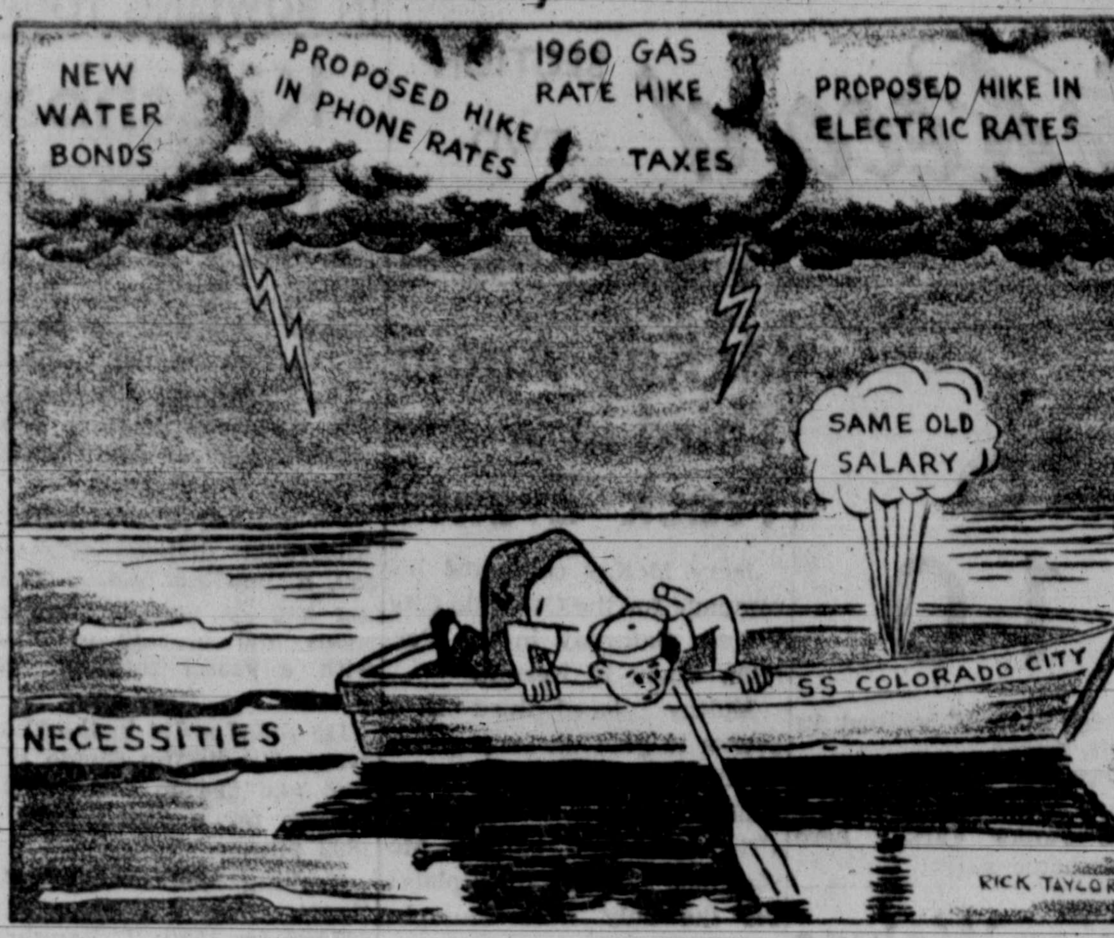

He recognized America's need for constant awareness of the Space Age and in 1958 authored Public Law 85-875 which created a National Future Scientists of America Program designed to train young people in the fields of science.

As a candidate for U. S. Senate, Jim Wright offers more actual legislative experience than any other candidate in the race. His record of performance in Washington has been exceptional, having been present and voting more than 98 per cent of the time.

He is the exceptional candidate for exceptional times. He has the fairness and independency all people from all political groups can unite behind.

Jim Wright is the proven candidate Mitchell County and Texas needs in the U. S. Senate for the good of all Texas . . . the good of All America.

WITHOUT ANY MONEY

Legislators Show Faith in State in Appropriation Bill

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford — TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Texas Senate demonstrated its faith in the future by passing an appropriation bill without having the money to meet the obligations.

It calls for spending $2,496,635 during the next two years. It does not include teacher pay raises or medical care for the aged. Senators agreed that they needed to know how much new money could be raised before making decisions on these.

The measure calls for spending $376,000,000 from the already-overdrawn general revenue fund. That's $103,000,0000 more than the comptrollers' estimate of general fund revenue for the next two years. This $103,000,000, plus a deficit that is expected to be about $63,000,000 at the end of this biennium, adds up to $166,000,000 in new revenue that would be needed to put the Senate appropriation bill into effect, as it is now.

OKAYS RAISE — Senate Education Committee approved the Hale-Aikin school improvement program which includes an across-the-board $800 a year for public school teachers.

Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris, sponsor, said he would not ask for floor passage of the school measure until the general appropriations bill has been passed as well as a tax bill that would provide money for it.

Hale-Aikin program would cost the state about $72,000,000 a year and local districts about $18,000,000 a year. It would set the minimum salary for beginning teachers with bachelor's degrees at $4,014 a year.

LOSE RACE — Before a gallery packed with church people, Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry gave up the fight for a proposed constitutional amendment to legalize horse racing.

House vote against the measure was 143-to-5. Berry, seeing he did not have enough votes for passage, signaled his supporters to vote against it. This, he said, would avoid "putting them on the spot" for a lost cause.

Berry still hopes to get a referendum on the 1962 general election ballot to indicate public opinion on racing and parimutuel betting.

MILK BILL — One of the most controversial bills of the session, the milk importation measure, was passed by the House by voice vote.

But before passage, opponents' amendments had skimmed off the cream of the bill the dairymen wanted.

As passed by the Senate, the bill would bar out-of-state milk from Texas unless a Texas inspector certied he had personal knowledge the milk was produced under standards as high as those required in Texas.

Amendments took out the "personal knowledge" phrase and provided the milk could be imported on the certification of out-of-state health authorities after a Texas authority had found the out-of-state producer to be meeting acceptable standards.

Battle is not over since the differences between the House and Senate versions of the bill will have to be worked out.

DEBATED — House Revenue and Taxation Committee is exploring the possibility of raising money through a corporate income tax.

two bills. One by Rep. Tony Korioth of Sherman would repeal the present corporate franchise tax (for a loss of $48,000,000 a year) and substitute a three per cent corporate income tax (for a gain of approximately $96,000,000 a year).

Also heard was a bill by Rep. Maco Stewart of Galveston which would levy a 10 per cent corporate income tax, repeal the oil well servicing tax and reduce the sulphur tax.

A bill to provide for a $1 charge for taking a state driver's license examination was passed by committee and sent to the House. It would raise an estimated $1,250,000 a year.

LIMIT PASSED — Senate passed 26-to-4 a bill that would limit to $25,000 the spending of any one candidate in a race for the U. S. Senate.

Sen. Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin is sponsor of the bill. Limit would apply to money spent for newspaper, radio or television advertising with the candidate's knowledge. All other means of advertising would be exempted.

MRS. ED (DOROTHY) BLAKNEY gave the Shadow here an entry in the Record's "Rhyme-A-Junk" contest Wednesday.

Or at least that's what she calls this paper's weekly Ad-Rime contest.

Makes you sort of wonder what they put in the coffee over across the street (from this typewriter) at the hotel. Or maybe that is some Westbrook colloquialism she brought with her when she moved from there to here.

The Shadow will check things out — especially the coffee angle.

ELDON RUFFIN of Ruffin Food Service and Locker Plant had quite a request the other day.

Seems Eldon had been raising and feeding a calf for a certain resident of the county. Well, the time for getting down to business and butchering the calf, cutting it up and storing the meat in Ruffin's lockers came just a few days ago.

The request? Well, the customer asked Eldon to make all the cuts t-bone steaks.

Taylor-Made knew that cattle raising had become specialized and highly scientific — but doubts it has gotten to this point yet. At least Eldon couldn't comply.

Reminds this corner, once again, of the time son Randy dug a hole in the back yard and then cried because he couldn't take it into the house.

LOCUST STREET has a dog that leads a dog's life. A cute and lively little puppy (breed unknown, but he looks like a cocker scandal to Taylor-Made) wanders into son Randy's back yard playground area quite a bit.

And does he ever have fits trying to get away from Taylor-Made II. Seems Randy has things reversed and thinks he should do the biting and not the dog — preceeded by a little vice-grip hugging of course.

Maybe the puppy just hasn't had his anti-baby bite shots yet.

Why? Well they were bulbs — that's why.

TEXAS AGRICULTURE

Farmers Now Buy In Grocery Stores

By JOHN C. WHITE
Agriculture Commissioner

There is a persistent conviction among many city dwellers that no farmer or his wife ever should have any business in a grocery store except to buy coffee, salt, perhaps a little sugar and the like.

They still carry the vision of the farmer with his own vegetable garden, his own orchard, milking his own cows, gathering his own fresh eggs, and so forth and so on.

Bill Durham, the astute agricultural editor of the Houston Post, did something to dispel this concept not long ago with one of his columns eleborating on an article in Food Business, a publication for the food manufacturing, processing and marketing business.

"Apparently," Durham commented, "these people still thought that every farm had a garden and a milk cow and that all the purchases from the grocery store involved only coffee, flour and corn meal. Farm Journal magazine did a lot of work in getting information together on the importance of the farm market for food stores.

"Farmers and those who serve them have failed to get across the story that agriculture is big business and that today's farmer must be one of the most shrewd and astute business men in the economy.

"You just can't find a commercial farmer in the Houston area who doesn't have a capital investment of less than $50,000. In most cases it amounts to more than that. You can find a lot of people in business in Houston who don't have to stand that kind of financing."

It was pointed out that, as a matter of fact, farm women buy more when they go to the store than do women who live in town. The reason is that they serve more food — a farm woman fixes 3 big meals a day. Feeding a bunch of men who are doing hard work in the field just naturally takes more groceries.

In 1960, it was figured that people living on farms consumed $3.5 billion in food products, and these supplies were bought in retail stores. One of the points that may have been confusing to the food industry was the preference which farm women showed for convenience foods such as cake mixes, frozen foods ad the other new items offered in the super-markets.

One of the reasons for this, perhaps, is that today's farm housewife engages in almost the same activities as does her sister in the cities. She belongs to the P-TA, has her church activities, and is often a leader in various tivities also are a part of the rural scene these days.

SHINNERY PHILOSOPHER

Against Farmers Making Own Rules

Editor's note: The Shinnery Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bone Hollow Creek is upset this week; but he'll probably get over it.

Dear editor:

I have seen some strange and hard-to-believe things come out of Washington in my time, but the one I have now found out about has bowled me over. That is, it would have if I hadn't been sitting down already at the time. These days, a man has to be in a position to handle any new idea, and the best position I know is sitting.

At any rate, as I understand it, and I checked it in three different papers, even went into town and paid money for two of them, Washington has come out with the proposal that the farmers themselves figure out the answer to the farm problem.

"Let the farmers themselves write their own farm program," is the way the idea goes, and I don't mind admitting I'm in a state of shock.

me to make, under the farm program we got? Them birds that write the farm programs don't know anything about farming. We haven't got a chance."

But now some smart alec has fed the President the idea that the farmers themselves ought to write their own farm program, and I'm calling on you right now to help put a stop to it. It's the most outrageous thing I ever heard of.

You don't hear doctors asking patients to do their own diagnosing and write their own prescriptions, do you? You don't hear bankers asking their customers to set their own interest rate and borrowing limit, do you?

You let the government turn the farm program over to the farmers, and farmers then wind up in the same shape they're in now, and who're we going to point our finger at?

No sir, it's the government's job to figure out the farm problem solution. If us farmers could have figured it out we'd have done it long ago. [illegible]

LOCAL BUSINESS

Advertising is Old As All Civilization

By MADGE BELL
Record Staff Writer

We hear frequent references to "modern advertising" when problems of trade are discussed.

Yet, advertising is anything but modern. Advertising is as old as commerce — as old as civilization. Some of the recovered records of the ancient Phoenicians, the first great merchants of the world, are advertisements.

In ancient Roman cities the central bulletin board, the newspaper of two thousand years ago, was used largely for advertising. The advertisements posted on Roman bulletin boards did not differ greatly from those of today which appear in newspapers.

The colonial newspaper in America came into existence primarily to provide information on goods available from newly arrived ships. The new goods provided by the industrial revolution were sold by an increase in advertising — advertising which financed the beginning of a free and independent press in the United States.

By 1865 slogans connected with "modern" advertising were common. Some of these were: "Advertising is a blister that draws trade." Or, "Ceasing to advertise in dull times is like tearing out a dam because the water is low." Or, according to Horace Greeley, "To do without advertising was to close one's eyes in the light and insist upon living in perpetual darkness."

IN LORAINE HOME

Family Fetes Mrs. Hart At 85th Birthday Party

LORAINE — Mrs. S. H. Hart was feted on her 85th birthday here Sunday with a family luncheon in her home.

Mrs. Hart, a Loraine resident for 14 years, had 8 of her 11 children present at the celebration.

A granddaughter, Miss Linda Kay Hart, sang "Trust and Obey" accompanied by Mrs. K. L. Taylor. More than 50 guests attended the fete. The house was decorated with lilies and daffodills with Happy Birthday cake centering the table.

She and her family came to West Texas and the Loraine area in 1902. Mr. Hart was a farmer for many years in the area north of here before they moved to Loraine. He died in 1946.

She had 14 children, 40 grandchildren, 62 great grandchildren and 14 great-great-grandchildren.

Children of Mrs. Hart's present at the birthday observance were Mrs. J. E. Coles of Iran, Kile Hart of Lubbock, Bruce Hart of Andrews and Mrs. A. C. Caswell, Mrs. Kenneth Butler, Mrs. Wiley Walker, Homer Hart and Chester Hart, all of Loraine.

Also present were 2 sisters and 1 brother of Mrs. Hart's, Mrs. W. E. Watson of Lubbock and Mrs. C. L. Hudson of Colorado City and A. K. McCarley of Colorado City.

Mrs. Bruce Johnson brought the devotional — a sermon taken from a sermon on the Lord's Prayer and Easter by a Presbyterian minister. Mrs. K. L. Taylor directed a Bible quiz.

In the business portion of the meeting, the class approved plans to meet each Tuesday at the church to sew a quilt. Each member was instructed to bring a covered dish for the weekly luncheon.

Mrs. Taylor reported that contributors to the church's memorial fund would be listed on a plaque to be hung in the church. Other business included reports by standing committee chairmen.

"We of the city of Loraine wish to express our sincere thanks and gratitude to all of the Colorado Citians who came over and so ably assisted us in our attempt to keep our T&P railroad depot open.

"The manner in which you cooperated with us and your spirit of friendship and good neighborliness certainly did not go unnoticed by any one in this community.

WESTBROOK — Cowboys for Christ, an organization of Abilene's Hardin - Simmons University athletes, presented the program at the Mitchell-Scurry Baptist Young Peoples' Youth Rally held at the Baptist Church here Monday night.

Claude Dollins of Waco brought the message. He stated, "The greatest need of this 20th century is for young people to come with hearts fixed on God — we must be dedicated or we will perish. I firmly believe that the judgement of God has already been pronounced and the only thing that will save America is repentance."

Larry Edwards of New Home led in the singing of "Saved, Saved," and "I Surrender All." Larry Dippel of Stamford and Ben Neel of Fort Worth both presented short talks.

The rally was under the direction of Rev. Jack Steward of Plainview. Rev. Kenneth Andress, pastor of the local church, led the singing service opening the rally.

The Great Imposter

Charming Sue Ane Langdon, TV favorite, appears romantically with Tony Curtis in Universal-International's "The Great Impostor," in which Curtis portrays notorious true-life hoaxter, Ferdinand Demara.

STARTS SUNDAY

"Great Impostor" To Show at Palace

The innate Tony Curtis charm, to which must be added a smooth subtlety and deftness, comes shining through his portrayal of Ferdinand Waldo Demara, Jr., world's brainiest bigtime masquerade, whose fantastic hoax is pictured in Universal-International's "The Great Impostor" which opens Sunday at the Palace Theatre. Curtis' co-stars are Edmond O'Brien, Arthur O'Connell, Gary Merrill, Joan Blackman, Raymond Massey, Robert Middleton and Karl Malden.

Curtis, of course, was a logical and ideal choice for the Demara role. The star, a specialist in sangfroid screen behavior, gives his impersonation with the same winning zest that characterized his good-natured mischief-making in "Operation Petticoat," "Some Like It Hot" and "Perfect Furlough."

The star's current offering, however, has far more dramatic substance and downright heart appeal than either of the previous vehicles.

Demara's true-life story, recorded in Robert Crichton's remarkable book, basis of the screenplay, has no counterpart in the field of human deceptions. How this untrained, uneducated yet brilliant young hoaxter successfully hoodwinked just about everyone makes for fabulous entertainment. Always one jump ahead of exposure, Demara assumed identities of a college professor, a Marine Corps officer candidate, Trappist monk, prison reform authority and Royal Canadian Navy doctor-surgeon.

Played with documentary candor by Curtis and a fine cast, action covers the entire span of Demara's hide-and-seek career. He is first shown as a school teacher being placed under arrest by State Troopers. Flashback, revealing boyhood proclivity for harmless deceits, features Malden as the understanding priest who senses the lad's frustration.

Suspense mounts as one fraudulent, but humanitarian, venture leads to another and is climaxed by the "miracle surgeon's" life-saving feat in the Korean combat zone where he performed expert operations on 19 hopelessly wounded soldiers. Scenes showing the incident are tremendously stirring. Memorable, too, is Demara's near-fatal encounter with an incorrigible convict during the penitentiary sequence.

Romance, too, plays a part in the strange chronicle. Miss Blackman, one of Hollywood's most talented glamour stars, is the No. 1 girl in this department. She portrays a Canadian Navy nurse. TV's popular Sue Ane Langdon, as the penitentiary warden's daughter, also falls head-over-heels for the personable young mystery-wizard.

2. Water Media Division — including landscape, portrait and other.

3. Dry Media Division — including pastel, portrait and others, and charcoal, portrait and other.

4. Miscellaneous Division — including enamel, mixed media and other.

Nephew Visits

Guests in the A. C. Moody home in Westbrook last week end were Mrs. Moody's nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wyatt of Sweetwater, and their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Lacewell of Fort Worth.

Ex Residents Visit

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Lee and daughter Kyla, former residents of Westbrook now residing in Snyder, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Greenlee in Westbrook Monday.

Moon Shot?

No, this is not a scene at Cape Canaveral. The unusual picture was made on a farm in Broadhead, Wis. The structures are silos, with the moon as a backdrop.

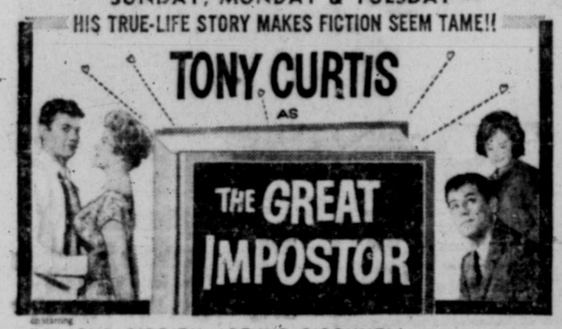

Monahans Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Parrish and Clifton Chambers, all of Monahans, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chambers in Westbrook. While in Westbrook, the Parishes also visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Parrish.

By VERN SANFORD

Texas millionanire stories abound. But Paul Crume just told one in his Dal-News column that must have brought many a laugh from fishermen.

It related to a woman who brought her $5,000 wrist watch into the jewelry department at Nieman's. The watch was dripping with water.

When the jeweler opened the case more water poured forth.

"Lady, what have you been doing with this watch?" asked the jeweler.

"I emersed it in water," she explained, "trying to keep it from rusting."

The jeweler thought that was not a bad idea, if she had accidentally submerged it into water.

"That's exactly what happened," she said. "It slid off my wrist into the bait bucket!"

Didn't someone say "Pity the poor fisherman"?

Anyway nearly everybody who has used live bait has, at one time or another, rammed his arm so deep into a water filled bait bucket, that he has dunked his favorite timepiece.

Best preventative we've found is to wear the watch on the other arm [illegible] bait fishing.

Bait Bucket Purse Combo

Speaking of bait buckets — that woman strolling down the avenue with a polystyrene bait bucket hanging from her arm may or may not be a fisherman.

Weber has just produced an attractive terrazzo green, "lighter than a breeze" plastic bait bucket, white with green spots, that would easily pass as a woman's purse.

How do I know?

Well, pardner, I made the mistake of taking one of these little cuties home with me — and the Little Woman latched onto it pronto.

"That'd make the nicest purse," she said. And that's when I bade the bait bucket "bye-bye."

So, I hied off and got me another. This time though it was the larger size that wouldn't tempt the Mrs. so.

Didn't tell Mom what I intended doing with the small one, but I had in mind using it as a humidor for my pipe tobacco. It sure would have served that purpose well.

An Eye for Fishermen

Stopped in to visit with Walter Helweg and Don Thrash, the other day, at the Invader Boat Co. in Giddings.

Don was busy mounting a motor in the firm's first inboard-outboard job—and wondering if a big change wasn't in store for the Invader factory.

Walter was in another building nearby, inspecting the company's most popular product of the moment — a 16-foot, all-white, fiberglass boat designed especially for sports fishermen.

Until but a few months ago Invader was producing nothing but runabouts and small cabin cruisers. Then Don got the happy idea of making himself a boat primarily for big lake and gulf coast fishing.

He came up with an idea "sports fisherman" — a 16-footer using the same hull as their 16-foot runabout. In fact it was exactly the same boat except for the addition of a generous sized bait well at the rear, rodracks on one side of the boat and storage compartment for small gear on the opposite side.

It has a windshield just like the runabout. Instead of back-to-back seats it has side-by-side seats with compartments [illegible] backs. Also there's a steering wheel and remotes. A small spill-over splash-pan replaces the huge one that's on their cruiser.

With its 20-inch transom and wide beam, the "Sports Fisherman is ideally suited to big lake fishing.

One trip over the coastal area, trailering the boat in and around Houston, proved to Don that this new baby would be popular. Further proof came when orders began to arrive. Result . . . today they have back orders that will take weeks and weeks to fill.

Only change that's been demanded is to make them available in two sizes. So they now produce a 17-footer also . . . called the Bay Fisherman.

Just goes to show that if you will build a product the fishermen want — it's bound to sell.

Snappy Names for Lures

These lure makers really concoct some clever names for their products. Latest to come to our attention is that made by Instant Lures, Inc. of Maud, Oklahoma. They call theirs "Instant Bass." You "just add water!"

Lubbock Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Collin Dunnam and son Sammy of Lubbock visited in the Westbrook home of Mrs. Dunnam's mother, Mrs. S. M. McElhatten, last week end.

TELEPHONE TALK

by Truman Black, Manager

IMPROVING TELEPHONE SERVICE IN COLORADO CITY

Today, you can reach almost anyone in Colorado City or around the country in a matter of seconds . . . by telephone.

If you're curious and want to see what's behind the telephone calls you make and receive, plan to visit our telephone central office real soon. We'll be glad to show you or your club or civic group many of the technical changes in equipment and methods that continue to improve your service. Just call us and let us know when you're coming.

These "behind the scenes" improvements come about in two ways. A great many result from the full-time research carried on by telephone scientists. Other improvements come from ideas of telephone people working right here in Texas.

This teamwork between telephone people on the job and scientists in laboratories makes an unbeatable combination. Our goal is simply this: To give you service this year that's better than last year's.

MORE TIME FOR FAMILY FUN

"How do you find time to get everything done and still have time for your family?" I seem to hear that question come up in conversation more and more lately. Here's how [illegible] City family, I know, found more time to do the things they enjoyed together:

The couple have full-time jobs and 2 active school age children. They find time for bowling, golf, Chamber of Commerce, PTA and church work in addition to scout and school activities for the children.

How do they manage to keep up with everything? They have help . . . 2 telephones, which they use to save time, trips and energy. The mother says, "I believe we save as much as a day a week in needless trips just by telephoning."

Quite a saving. How about you? Could you use your phones to save time for the family? Why not try them and see.

NEW COMMUNICATIONS SATELLITE ON THE WAY

The success of Project Echo—the communications satellite launched last Fall and still orbiting the earth—proved that communications signals may be transmitted over great distances by controlled satellites.

The Bell System plans to launch additional communications satellites throughout this year.

These experimental satellites will test transmission of voice and television signals, as well as other types of communications.

These experiments could lead to a world-wide space communications network capable of handling television programs and overseas telephone calls.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

FLAMELESS ELECTRIC COOKING IS COOL COOKING

WOMEN WHO COOK ELECTRICALLY KNOW!

Flameless electric cooking is cool cooking because an electric range keeps heat waste to a minimum. Electric range surface units transfer heat to utensil bottoms by direct metal-to-metal contact. The heat goes into the utensils and the food, not into the kitchen air. And because the electric oven requires no oxygen to operate, it is insulated on all four sides, top and bottom, keeping heat locked inside where it belongs. See your electric range dealer soon.
