STATE OFFICIALS VISIT COLLEGE

Coolidge Sees Early U. S. Mexico Settlement

NO REASON FOR PRESENT MUDDLE PRESIDENT SAYS

DIFFERENCES NOT AS BIG AS PUBLIC THINKS, HE SAYS RECORDS SHOW

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2. (AP)—President Coolidge sees no reason why the controversy between the United States and Mexico over retroactive and confiscatory provisions of the anti-alien land and petroleum laws cannot be satisfactorily adjusted.

The president was said at the White House today to hold the belief that the differences between the two governments now are not as great as the public has held.

Many points relieved Examination of state department records, he understands, will show that the points at issue have been relieved of their original importance by recent developments.

Much of the optimistic attitude taken by the president has been indicated in the past two or three days by the state department officials and by Charles B. Warren, of Detroit, who conferred recently with Secretary Kellogg at the latter's invitation.

The American reply to the most recent Mexican communication respecting the land and petroleum laws probably will go forward tomorrow to Ambassador Sheffield for delivery to the Mexican foreign office.

Unfilled Promises Given as Cause SAN ANTONIO, Mar. 2. (AP)—"Unfilled private promises," made by former President Alvin Oregon of Mexico to Ambassador Warren and Payne of the United States, are declared in a statement bearing the purported signature of Adolfo de la Huerta, also former Mexican president, in a signed statement, to be responsible for "the present difficulties and diplomatic negotiations exchanged between the two nations."

In the statement, written in New York, a copy of which was received here today, de la Huerta indicates he will join President Calles in an effort to prevent the re-election of Obregon.

Addressing the Mexican people, the former president warns that their future misfortunes "are brewing in an isolated town of my native state (Sonora) where the seeds for a new discord among Mexicans are being planted by crafty hands."

"Mother Of Texas" Sends Message On Independence Day

AUSTIN, Mar. 2.—"The spirit of the Stephen F. Austin and the heroes of the republic of Texas can never die. Ever since the day when the Declaration of Independence from Mexico was signed, 90 years ago today, our great state has forged ahead nobly and bravely through Christian heroism and the hope of light and prosperity as never before."

That is the message which the "mother of Texas" sends to the people on this anniversary of the day when a loyal band of pioneers and statesmen gathered around a crude table at San Felipe and formulated the document that has given the Anglo-Saxon race control of one of the greatest territories in the civilized world. She is Mrs. Rebecca J. Fisher, 95, of Austin, only living member of the Texas Veterans' Association, and one of the last of those who passed through the experiences of the republic.

TROOPS PATROL FIRE SWEEPED CITY

Preparations Being Made To Rebuild Over 200 Homes Razed in Arkansas

NEWPORT, Ark., Mar. 2. (AP)—With troops patrolling the streets, inhabitants of this little river town were making preparations to rebuild more than 200 homes destroyed by the disastrous fire which swept twenty blocks of residences yesterday. While not under martial law, the city was being patrolled by national guardsmen to prevent looting.

With the 100 tents, 500 cots and 1,000 army blankets which arrived here today from Little Rock, temporary quarters were being arranged for those made homeless by the fire. Last night the homeless were sheltered in churches, schools and homes not destroyed.

Mayor E. L. Boyce's relief committee was surveying the situation and Mr. Boyce said it would be decided later in the day what help was needed. "I don't think we will need outside help after today," the mayor said. "Newport will try to care for itself."

Loss by the fire was estimated today to run as high as $1,500,000 with a complete check likely to show 300 homes or more and churches and manufacturing plants destroyed. An aged negro woman who at first was believed was burned to death, is in a critical condition, a negro child is missing and several others were injured.

The fire, started in a cabin, spread to the V. O. Jones Lumber Company's plant and then to the Meriman Coopers Company's mill. Fanned by a high wind, it spread rapidly from dwelling to dwelling until efforts at stopping its disastrous flight seemed hopeless. The fire apparatus from four surrounding towns responding to distress calls, brought the flames under control late last night.

May and City Patrolman John Lemond have been busy for the past two days rounding up delinquent school boys and as a result the city hall is crowded with the youngsters who refuse to attend school and who seem, the officers say, to have a natural fear of work.

The cases will be taken up with the parents of the boys and if they refuse to act or claim that they have no control over them Juvenile Officer Charles Nordly, county judge, will take jurisdiction.

FARMERS' DELAY IN RELIEF PLAN RAPPED BY JONES

LONG ANTICIPATED HEARING BEFORE CONGRESS FAILS TO OPEN TODAY

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2. (AP)—Failure of the farm delegates to be ready to appear today before the farm relief committee was characterized as unnecessary at the meeting by Representative Jones, Democrat, Texas, who said organizations were criticizing congress for failure in legislation while delaying to come forward with their suggestions.

Chairman Haugen defended them saying they were saving time by getting together and condensing their arguments before appearing.

Hearing Fails to Open WASHINGTON, Mar. 2. (AP)—The long anticipated opening of hearings on farm relief legislation by the house agricultural committee failed to materialize today. A last minute shift of plans by farm organization leaders led to a postponement until tomorrow or possibly Thursday.

The committee will use the interval to dispose of several minor bills and thereby clean its legislative slate of all matters except farm relief.

The change in plans grew out in part of a conference last night of the farm leaders at which a number of members of congress were present. It was announced additional time was desired to give the finishing touches to the program the farmers representatives will present to the committee.

J. W. Gamel Denies Purported Charges On Bobbed Hair Help

Following an article which appeared in Sunday's Journal, J. W. Gamel, manager of the Minter Gamel Dry Goods Company has been besieged with inquiries and objections registered by women of Lubbock who have bobbed hair. The article in question purported that Mr. Gamel employed only sales ladies who have unshorn locks.

The story which was written without the knowledge of Mr. Gamel appears to have been erroneously interpreted. He stated today that he has had at different times various employees who have bobbed hair. This story has created a furor in local club circles, the general interpretation being that this store was discriminating against bobbed haired women.

After investigating the facts in the case, the Journal discovered that while at the present time, members of the Minter Gamel sales force all have long hair, they have been several employees of the store at different times who belong to the bobbed hair brigade. According to Mr. Gamel this one item would not prevent his employing any sales lady whose qualifications were up to his standard.

Billy Evans Says

First Eleven Games in American League Race Will Bear Watching

If you're a genius, you have a perfect right to be temperamental. At least that is the thought of Bill Tilden, tennis champion. It will be recalled that Mr. Williams "blew up" recently when he was ruled out as a scoundrel.

In justice to the distinguished Mr. Tilden, it might be said that he took the decision over the rules committee. Tilden at present is elevating the stage. While he isn't a John Barrymore, he's probably doing a better job back of the footlights than Barrymore would on the tennis court.

Interviewed relative to the chances of Helen Wills against Suzanne Lenglen, Tilden said:

"Suzanne should win but may have her troubles if Miss Wills plays a slashing game. She should try Babe Ruth's stuff on the tennis courts against Suzanne, because the French girl is the better strategist."

"Miss Wills has the poorer face, but Suzanne has the chess brain. She will prove too smart for the American champion unless Miss Wills simply plays her off her feet, speaking literally."

No doubt Miss Wills has her game against the spy Suzanne mapped out and as I understand it, she intends playing the style game that Tilden suggests.

GETTING GOOD START

The Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators are unquestionably pennant contenders. All experts so agree.

Getting away to a good start means much to a club with championship aspirations. The American League schedule for 1926 may hand one of the two

Released

Harry Hooper, veteran major leaguer, who has been given his unconditional release by the Chicago White Sox. Hooper broke into the big show as an outfielder with the Boston Red Sox in 1909. After serving 12 seasons with the Beantown gang, he was traded to Chicago. Hooper was a good hitter and clever fielder, being a member of the famous trio of Hooper, Speaker and Lewis, that brought much fame to Boston years ago.

It is a baseball theory that the ability of a team to knock off its strongest contender, is very often the margin that decides pennant issues.

Washington had the edge on the Athletics last season and won the American League pennant.

Each team in the majors plays 22 games against every other club, 11 at home and abroad. This year's American League schedule calls for Washington and the Athletics to meet eight times in the first 11 games of the season. In other words, the 22 game series will be more than one-third over in less than two weeks of play.

Around The Lot In Major Leagues Training Camps In South And West

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Mar. 2.—Babe Ruth has made his first home run of the season and the much discussed infielder from the coast league, Tony Lazzeri, has appeared at St. Petersburg, Fla. Both hope to play with the New York Yankees this season.

BANKS ON JOE BUSH

Now they are saying that the principal reason for the passing of Joe Bush from St. Louis was due to laxity in observing training rules. I know nothing of such things. However, I know that Joe Bush was a pretty good pitcher last season. I look for him to be an even better one with the American League champs.

The reason—the much larger playing field at Washington. The short right field bleachers at St. Louis bothered Bush.

"I never feel safe unless I have a five-run lead in this park," was a remark Bush made to me one day last summer at St. Louis. "A pop fly home run with the bases filled can wipe out four runs at any time."

Some of the experts who argue that Bush is hard to handle won't even make an impression on Stanley Harris. They said "Dutch" Reuther was a trouble-maker, yet he never behaved as well as last season and had a big year.

I'll wager Stanley Harris is banking on Joe Bush for 15 wins and probably thinks he will turn in 20 victories.

Helen Overwhelms English Player

MENTONNE, France, Mar. 2.—(AP)—Making her first appearance in the Mentonne lawn tennis tournament, in which she is seeded at the top of the draw, Miss Helen Wills, the American champion, today overwhelmed Miss Daisy Hermon, of England, 6-0; 6-0. Miss Wills thus advances to the third round, having drawn a first round bye.

Browns and Cards

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 2.—Wallie Schang, veteran catcher the Browns purchased from the Yankees this winter, was temporarily disabled at the Browns training camp at Tarpon Springs, Fla., yesterday when he was struck squarely on the back of the head by a bat that slipped out of Marty McManus' hands during practice. Schang was knocked cold, but was quickly revived. His physician said he probably will suffer no serious effects.

Thirty-one members of the Cardinal squad were on hand yesterday for the start of training at the Cardinal camp at San Antonio, Texas. Only two regulars are now absent. Before putting the players through a break workout, Manager Rogers Hornsby gave his hopefuls a talk in which he said: "We have no room on this club for second division players."

DAVE DAVENPORT HAS FEVER OF WEST TEXAS

Big Dave Davenport, who has shown his hurling ability in most of the leagues in the country including the American league, where as a member of the White Sox he made a name for himself, wants to come to West Texas to play baseball this year. Manager Sled Allen, of the Lubbock baseball team, told the Daily Journal this morning. Manager Allen is in receipt of a letter from the big righthander, in which he asks the Skipper for information about West Texas baseball and announces that he is ready to come on a player or player-manager proposition anywhere in West Texas.

Davenport as the leading hurler of the "Elitch's Gardens" team in the Denver tournament last year, was one of the leading hurlers present at the tourney. He was formerly with San Antonio in the Texas league and at the present time is the property of one of the St. Louis teams. Last year he played semi-pro ball in the vicinity of South Bend, Indiana.

According to Manager Allen's statement, however, it is unlikely that Davenport will be seen in action by Lubbock or West Texas fandom this year. The big fellow is used to big money and to playing semi-pro ball in parts of the country where salaries are easy to command. He will answer Davenport's letter, however, Mr. Allen says.

Students of the Texas Technological college held a convocation this morning, at which time a general election was held and the ethics and policies of student government discussed.

CALL IS SOUNDED FOR BASEBALL

The smack of the ash against the horsehide will resound from the Texas Technological college's baseball camp this afternoon for the first time in the history of the school, Head Coach Y. Preehind said today as he gave the call for first spring diamond training.

With the Daniel Baker nine scheduled to open the season here with a two day stand on March 21 and April 1, the Tech baseball boss has plenty to do in whipping a team into shape. He has some fine prospects, however, he believes and a number of baseball enthusiasts at the school have all ready been out on their own accord, playing "catch" and starting on the conditioning grind.

Among some of the more highly touted candidates for regular berths on the team are J. B. "Red" Hamilton, McKinney, who was quarterback of the football team; Bill Daily, Hayden and Nicholas, infielders; Cy Curtis, a catcher, and Hall, a pitcher.

Both Coaches Preehind and Huginbotham will handle the baseball team and the complete schedule of games, twenty or more in number, will be announced within the next few days.

A Gorgeous Array of Fashions For the Woman, Miss and Junior

At Avalon, Calif., the regular Chicago Cubs were downed by the second string this time two to one, with Millstead doing most of the slab work for the losers and Osborn throwing the twisters for the "goofs." "Lefty" O'Doul led the regulars in hitting, smashing out two safeties.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Mar. 2.—Hiking has been added to the training routine of the Pittsburgh Pirates at Paso Robles, Calif.

Obliging motorists have been giving the world champions a lift in traveling between their hotel and the ball park, but Manager Bill McKechnie has ruled all trips to the training camp hereafter must be made on foot. The distance on short and McKechnie believes the hike will do no harm.

The entire 18 members of the hurling staff went through a spirited workout yesterday and McKechnie expressed himself well pleased with the performances of both regulars and recruits.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—Batting drill is under way at the Tampa camp of the Washington Senators, but the sluggers of the American League champions have not yet parked the ball over the fence. The peppy offerings of ambitious rookies have thus far kept the regulars swinging mainly at the wind.

Goose Goslin, the club's heavy hitter, is ready for intensive training now, having signed his contract with President Griffith, after a two hour debate over the salary clause. The contract was termed a compromise but the dollar mark item was not disclosed. Trainer Mark Martin has his hands full with a bevy of pitching talent, including several newcomers. He predicts another good year for the regulars, Johnson and Covelaski and Bush, added to the staff in a trade with St. Louis.

Indians

CLEVELAND, Mar. 2.—Advices from Lakeland, Fla., state the Cleveland Indians had their first workout there with all hands present. The newest recruit on the team, Guy Lacey, manager of the Richmond team in the Virginia League, last year, was on the job as an understudy to Fred Spurgeon at second base. Lacey is a veteran in the game compared with Spurgeon, who is 22. Lacey's debut in the big league comes after a number of years in the minors and is being looked over by scouts of many big league teams.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Mar. 2.—Arriving at the Orlando training camp yesterday, Pitcher Curt Mayes of the Cincinnati Reds went in and pitched at top speed for thirty minutes to satisfy himself that he would be able to make good his promise to stage a comeback.

"Last year I could not go more than two or three innings without having a pain in my right shoulder and back," said Mayes. "I have not felt that for a moment since I started training three weeks ago at Hot Springs." Mayes won twenty games in 1924, but was a successful in only two starts last year. His performance yesterday was the high light in the team's first day in camp. Eighteen active players were on the field. Remaining members of the team were expected to arrive in a day or two.

Detroit Tigers

DETROIT, Mich., Mar. 2.—Six pitchers and four catchers got into action yesterday in the first game of training for the Detroit Americans at their August, Ga., training camp. George McBride, who bossed the Athletics in the absence of Ty Cobb, warned the men to be careful on their first day out and the players followed.

OIL AND GAS

From all appearances 1926 will see the drilling of at least two oil and gas test wells in Lubbock county.

Two companies have recently been formed to sink two test holes, one to the north and one to the south of the city.

There is a reason to believe that the South Plains of Texas have petroleum possibilities but the only way anyone will ever know is by drilling test wells.

One prominent mid-continent field geologist spent last week-end in Lubbock and when asked his opinion of the oil and gas possibilities of Lubbock county said:

"The South Plains will undoubtedly get a play providing one or two test wells are sunk, in order to give geologists some idea of the structure, which, in turn, will enable them to estimate the depth at which pay may be found. In my opinion the next extensive wild-cattling to be seen in West Texas will be to the South of the North Panhandle field."

Taking his word as a criterion 1926 may offer to Lubbock county even more than January first of this year indicated.

It may mean oil, or gas, or both—and in either case the possibilities of Lubbock and the South Plains are even more inviting.

MAKING EDUCATION EASY

The days of the birch-rod system of punishment for whispering seem to have passed away. The old theory that a child could exercise his brain by struggling through the intricacies of Latin and Greek grammar, thereby making his mind more useful in practical ways, is being supplanted by a pleasanter one. The new idea disclaims any virtue in sitting in a stiff seat without communication, it also disclaims the value of doing hard tasks that will not in themselves be useful.

The result of such changes have yet to be demonstrated, for the value of training is not apparent until an individual's life has been spent and his contribution to human welfare made. The fact remains, however, that in education lies the hope of a country's future. Experiments, when they are made, must be carried on with a deep sense of the virtual material with which they deal and the far-reaching of effects which they may be the means of bringing about.

Growing Ominous

The YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Henry Rand, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grifton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

Jimmy Rand, his son, goes to Cleveland, where the theater is. The stub is traced to Thomas 'Marty' who says he gave it to Olga Maynard, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with Mary Lowell. She faints when she learns police want her for murder. Mary, out with Samuel Church, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police in stub and handkerchief might have come in to possess a man who 'picked her up' two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives several mysterious warnings to leave Cleveland but ignores them. Later he is attacked at night by two men. He escapes, after seizing a blackjack from one of them.

Church, out driving with Mary, runs over a dog. His heartlessness kindles hatred in her and she breaks their engagement. The next day he attempts a reconciliation at her office but fails. On the street he encounters Jimmy, who offers his hand in congratulation. Church snarls and turns away.

LIEUTENANT O'DAY, a policeman, warns Jimmy about Olga and tells him she is falling in love with him. Jimmy asks him if he can tell him something in confidence.

Now Go On With The Story CHAPTER XXX

acrossed her of that very thing myself and I've been sorry for it ever since." O'Day patted Jimmy's knee. "I'm sorry, lad, I'm sorry, too, for the girl."

The other looked up. "What makes you say that?"

"Because if there ever was a man who didn't deserve a decent woman, it's Sam Church. The thing that surprises me is that he has actually proposed marriage. It isn't like him; he usually tires of them too soon."

"You mean there have been other women?"

"I mean that his house, if it could talk, could tell many a story that would make choice readin'. There have been a dozen, more or less, breach-of-promise suits, but they never saw the light of day in court, because he's too smart a lawyer in the first place and he never put anything in writin'. Oh, he knows how to squirm out of a tight place, all right."

"What kind of a man is he? How is he regarded?"

"One of the biggest lawyers in town, although I happen to know he's not above fixin' a jury, an' he got his start in the legal profession bein' an ambulance chaser."

"My God! And Mary's going to marry him?"

"I'm sorry, lad. It's a damn shame. Why don't you tell her?"

"Oh, I couldn't. You don't understand. Faith, and I do understand. It's no backbiter you are. I'll tell her myself."

"No you mustn't. Jimmy raised a protesting hand.

"Listen here, Rand. Did you tell Miss Lowell why you were in town—why you happened to be cut with the May-

"Sure, I know," Porter was still studying the papers before him. "I ah, that is, we have to cut expenses a little to keep within the budget and so I'm having to lay some of the men off."

"But why me? The shipping clerk said I was already the best driver he had."

"Well, you were the last one hired, you know." He muttered something about "obligations to the older employees."

"Your chief concern when you hired me," said Jimmy bitterly, "was whether I would stay after I had learned the job. You seemed to think I'd run away as soon as another job offered itself."

"Sure," Porter seized on the suggestion. "That's the first reason why you happen to be the one to go. Why should we strain a point to keep you here when you're only anchoring here for a while so you can keep your eye open for something better?"

"It seems to me," remarked Jimmy drily, "that as long as I did my work and did it well you needn't have gone out of your way to worry how long I was going to stay."

"Rand," said the other, finally looking up and meeting his eyes, "you're just wasting your time here. A man with your education has no business to be driving a truck. You ought to get some place where there's more opportunities."

"I'm waiting," said Jimmy, "to hear the real reason why I'm being fired."

"You've heard it. That's all," Porter rose as if he would put an end to the interview.

But Jimmy stopped him with a hand on his arm. "Do you know what I

To his amazement, Jimmy was told that he was being let out.

JIMMY RAND pulled his chair a little nearer to O'Day's desk. He lit another cigarette and sat looking at the match as it flickered and finally went out.

"I'm a fool, I suppose," he said not knowing how to begin. "I ought to keep my mouth shut, but I feel as if I'll burst unless I confide in somebody. Lieutenant, something's been on my mind for weeks, worrying the devil out of me."

"You've just been warning me about falling in love. It's too late, Lieutenant. I've already gone and done it." He smiled ruefully, watching the smoke from his cigaret curl up toward the ceiling.

O'Day produced the log of 'scraps' and refused. "Go on," he said gruffly, his voice muffled by the huge wad in his cheek.

And then, while he punctuated his sentences with deep inhalations of his cigaret, Rand told him about Mary Lowell.

"I don't know, Lieutenant, whether there's any such thing as love at first sight, but I do know she appealed to me tremendously, and I've been in love with her ever since that night at the restaurant."

"An' she broke off with you because she saw you with this Maynard girl in your arms?"

"Yes."

"Your friend Olga seems to be had luck to you, doesn't she? But you can be sure of this, Rand. If she got mad at seeing you together you can bet your bottom dollar she thinks a lot of you."

"Apparently not very much, Lieutenant," said Jimmy. "She's going to marry someone else."

"Oh she is, eh? Who?"

"mard girl?"

"No."

"Why in the devil didn't you? Then I bet this wouldn't have happened."

"I thought I had good reasons at first for not telling her. Now it's too late."

"It's not too late. Go to her an' tell her," O'Day glared at the ends of his stubby moustache.

"I tell you you don't understand. What can I say to her even if I do explain? I can't ask her to marry me. I haven't got a nickel. I haven't even got a decent job."

"If she's worth her salt," O'Day growled, his ruddy cheeks flaming brighter, "she won't care."

Rand gazed dejectedly at the floor. They were silent for several minutes. "Oh well," Jimmy rose. "Let's change the subject. I think I'll be going home, Lieutenant." He extended his hand. "Thanks for giving me your time."

O'Day said gruffly: "My time's yours, any time you ask for it. By the way, lad, tomorrow's my day off. Would you come up to dinner tomorrow night? I've told my wife about you an' she'd like to have you. Nothin' fancy, you understand. Just plain cookin'."

"You mean it?"

"I'd be proud to have you. We eat about six o'clock."

With Our Contemporaries

MISTAKE!—

Well enough was too good to be let alone, so Uncle Sam at last joined the World Court—Slaton Slatonite.

Did the United States do a wise thing when entrance was made into the world court? Well, let's see. Most folks will answer "no" right away. It must be admitted that America cannot hold aloof from the rest of the World. We depend upon the rest of the world, in part at least, for a large number of the commodities which are manufactured here, and there must be an exchange of commerce for the business of the world to keep going. But the question arises as to whether or not America ought to become involved in the disputes of Europe. Naturally, we Americans believe that our country is the best in the world and that we do not believe we ought to get mixed up in some other folks' troubles. But the fact remains that due to mixture of our blood, we cannot live to ourselves alone. Certainly America must have a place in world commerce, world finance and in world negotiations.—Abilene Reporter.

DUSTING WITH NICOTINE SULPHATE NEW APPROVED METHOD OF KILLING MELON LOUSE AND CUCUMBER BEETLE

By R. R. REPERT, Entomologist
COLLEGE STATION, Mar. 2.—Dusting with nicotine sulphate dust has become the approved method of controlling the melon louse and cucumber beetle, and as these insects begin their work early in the season, a brief description of the method is in order.

Nicotine sulphate of forty percent strength, the kind extensively used as a liquid spray, is mixed with an inert carrier of fine texture. In our section the most available substance that is suited to this purpose is hydrated lime.

Varying Mixtures Made
Varying mixtures may be made, the most common strength containing two percent actual nicotine sulphate. For this strength five pounds of the forty percent nicotine sulphate must be mixed with one hundred pounds of hydrated lime. For a three percent strength seven and a half pounds of the liquid must be used, for four percent, ten pounds, and so on.

If this substance can be purchased freshly mixed from a reliable dealer, it will not pay to mix it at home. None should be used that has been stored for some time. It can be mixed at home by placing the lime in a tight barrel through an opening cut in the side, sprinkling the required amount of nicotine sulphate on the lime, introducing a quantity of rounded pebbles to break the lumps, closing the opening tightly, and then rolling the barrel slowly until the materials have been reduced to a fine dust by the action of the pebbles. The pebbles are then removed by means of a screen.

This mixture may also be made by means of a box, midway between top and bottom of which are nailed cleats and on these a brass screen of twenty mesh to the inch or finer. After securing as even a mixture of the lime and nicotine sulphate as is possible, by sprinkling, the mixture is thrown on this screen and worked through by means of a coarse brush.

Manner of Application
The dust is applied by means of any of the various dusters on the market. It is not effective at temperatures below seventy degrees, and hence should be dusted over the plants on a warm day and when the air is quiet so the dust cloud will hang over the plant.

A two per cent dust will control the louse, but a six per cent nicotine dust is best applied for the control of the cucumber beetle.

An effective way of dusting for the cucumber beetle, as well as for the first lice, is described in the following sentences. A tight box measuring about twelve inches in all dimensions is secured. Turn the box open side-down. In the bottom, now turned upward, cut a hole about four or five inches in diameter, and around the edges of this tack a coarse muslin or cheese cloth bag, so it hangs downward about five inches into the interior of the box. After filling this bag not more than three-quarters full of the prepared dust, cover with a lid, hinged to the box, and padded so the dust cannot escape upward. For further convenience, two inch strips are nailed to opposite sides of the box extending upward about three feet to serve as handles.

Battery Of Boxes Suggested
After loading with a quantity of the dust, this box is set down over a plant with a jar to release a quantity of the dust. It should be allowed to remain over the plant for about one minute—longer will be more effective and will not injure the plant. A battery of ten or more of these boxes will keep one person busy and allow sufficient time for fumigating each plant.

For killing lice after the plants have made further growth, dependence must be placed on dusting this material over the plants in the open, for which a quiet day must be selected. The Extension Service is at present interested in determining whether it will not pay to dust large vines under a cover of canvas or muslin, dragging a large sheet over the vines while dusting under the forward edge, so as to expose each individual plant to the dust for at least one minute. Our plan is to sew into the two edges of the cloth a light chain, to hold it to the soil surface. We hope to determine the practicability of this in the more southern portions of the state early in the season so as to be able to give definite advice later to the growers in sections further north. At the present, however, this is only mentioned as a suggestion to whoever may care to try it independently.

In controlling the melon louse, late heavy infestation can often be prevented by beginning early; consequently melon growers are advised to be on the watch and get the first lice in whatever part of the field they may appear.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Mar. 2.—Motion pictures illustrating right and wrong methods of handling, packing, strapping and stowing freight will be a feature of the Southwestern Claim Conference luncheon under auspices of the Fort Worth Traffic club here on March 6.

The date of the luncheon originally was set for February 27, but owing to the absence of several section heads who are attending a meeting in St. Louis at that time it was postponed until next Saturday. R. L. Truitt, superintendent of freight loss and damage claims for the Frisco, said.

GOOD FELLOWSHIP REIGNS WHEN AUTO DEALERS HOLD MEETING AS GUESTS OF JOURNAL LAST NIGHT

With good-fellowship reigning supreme and a representative crowd present, the Daily Journal's entertainment for the South Plains Automobile Dealers Association, held last night at the Merrill Hotel, went over with a bang.

As soon as the crowd was seated miniature Daily Journals were passed, burlesquing in advertisements, pictures and news stories of the automobile industry. After each firm represented had been forced to read his ad in the miniature paper Dyke Cullum's resolution that the operators of the Daily Journal be tried for libel was unanimously passed and with Hub Jones as Judge, Duke Cullum as prosecuting attorney, Joe Griffith as defense attorney and twelve good men and true as jurors, D. D. Roderick and Neal B. Norris were tried for the offense.

At the conclusion of the trial the Judge passed sentence on the wrong defendant.

During the banquet, which preceded the trial, James B. "Red" Hamilton's "Fearless Trio" proved the right of their name and Elk George Merrill hotel bellhop also rendered a couple of vocal numbers.

"Tanlac" Strange, Lubbock architect, made a few remarks on radios and automobiles in his original style and literally brought down the house with his description of his Ford and his radio.

The business session, with Geo. E.

Benson, president, in the chair, closed the evening's program. Dyke Cullum, a charter member of the organization who has recently left the auto dealers business and established an auto accessory house, was taken as an honorary member, following a resolution offered by Douglas Harrison and unanimously passed. Applications for membership were received from Messrs. Huckabee and Splawn, the new Willys-Knight dealers, George P. Kuykendall, who earlier in the evening had a "used car" sale at his establishment, explained to the members the method in which 22 used cars were sold.

South To Be Leading Industrial Section

AUSTIN, Texas, Mar. 2.—The South is the coming industrial center of the world and Texas with all its natural resources should lead, Dr. Gus A. Dyer, professor of Economics in Vanderbilt University, said in a recent address here to the Wholesale Credit Men's Association.

He declared the South is just now fully recovering from the damages of the Civil War. "The South is so rapidly building up its textile and shoe manufacturing industries that New England is beginning to fear for its supremacy in these fields."

SENATOR DEFENDS HIS COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—(AP)—Correspondence now being exchanged between the American and Mexican governments relative to American oil interests in Mexico, will be made public when it is concluded, the senate was informed today by Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee.

With this assurance, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, agreed to defer for several days the pressing of his resolution calling upon the State Department for his correspondence.

Senator Norris declared "secret diplomacy" frequently had resulted in misunderstandings between the countries party to the dispute.

CRUDE OIL PRICE LOWERED

SHREVEPORT, Mar. 2.—(AP)—The Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation lowered the price of Uranka Crude Oil from $1.50 to $1.40 a barrel effective today. The cut, it was announced, was due to demand for this product being insufficient to justify the larger price.

"It is simply a question of supply and demand," the report stated.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Stocks And Money

WALL STREET TRADING NEW YORK, Mar. 2. (AP)—Liquidation of impaired marginal accounts carried prices irregularly lower at the opening of today's stock list. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke 3 1-4 points of the first sale. Child's Company 2 3/4 and Reading, Missouri Pacific preferred, Allied Chemical, American Can (old stock) and North American Company yielded higher and U. S. Steel common, Deeg Brothers, Hudson and Anaconda improved fractionally on initial sales. Strong buying support quickly made its appearance for a number of steel and industrial and rails, U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Hudson, Sheepshead and Ohio, and Brooklyn Edison being pushed up a point or more before the end of the first half hour; selling continued, however, in a number of specialties. Commercial Solvents "A" broke 4 3/4 points; and United Drug, Foundation Company, American Agricultural Chemical preferred and Pressed Steel Car sagged two points or more in the first outbreak of selling. U. S. Cast Iron pipe and American Can soon managed their early losses and headed for higher ground. Foreign exchanges opened irregular, demand sterling slightly to $4.85 5-8 and French franc rallying nearly three points to $2.68 1/4.

Cotton Markets

NEW YORK TRADING NEW YORK, Mar. 2. (AP)—Although the cotton market had a barely steady opening with first prices nine points lower to five higher, influenced by a poor spot demand, favorable weather and weakness in stock and grain markets, it quickly rallied and made sharp net gains in the first fifteen minutes. Attending the upturn which was mainly due to an active covering movement by local shorts, was little support from Wall street and commission houses. There was further hedge selling, presumably against cotton carried in the South previously unhedged. Little change occurred in the general news condition, which remained bearish. The market, however, has had a big break and traders felt a substantial rally was only national at this time. From 18.25c for May at the opening, the rally carried contracts up to 18.56c while October and advanced from 17.20c-17.29 to 17.44c in the first hour. Subsequently prices advanced 21 to 25 points, May reaching 18.62c and October 17.84c, but without much new being. New Orleans wired that Hester's figures on fertilizer sales as of March 1 are expected to be above one million tons against 1,415,000 a year ago.

NEW ORLEANS TRADING

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 2. (AP)—The cotton market opened steady. Liverpool was better than due and first prices showed gains of 2 to 3 points. Prices rallied after the opening call on moderate buying in evidence of scarcity of contracts. There was also considerable short covering on the impression that the market had been overvalued. March traded up to 18.32c, May to 17.85c and October to 16.79c, or 11 to 18 points above yesterday's close. At the end of the first half hour, the market was steady and at the high. The market continued to improve during the first hour on covering based on improved technical position and on the rally in the stock market. March traded up to 18.47c, May to 17.96c, July to 17.46c and October 16.85c, or 20 to 25 points above yesterday's close. Later in the morning the market turned easier owing to fears of bearish fertilizer statistics and on the "easier" spot situation. Prices eased off 15 to 18 points from the highs, losing most of the early improvement. Around noon trading was quiet with prices only 5 to 7 points above the opening figures.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO TRADING CHICAGO, Mar. 2. (AP)—Wheat prices rallied today after downward at the start. Buying by houses with foreign and Eastern connections had a strengthening influence. Some of the new buying was based on opinions that a reaction from recent severe declines would be natural, and that judgment by even the most liberal unofficial estimates of domestic reserves, the close adjustment of supply and demand this season bring the country to almost the danger point. Opening prices 1/2 cent off to 3/4 cent up, May (new) $1.56 1/2 to $1.59 1/4 and July $1.40 to $1.40 1/4 were followed by a moderate set back and then by decided gains. Cans and oats were relatively weak. After opening 1/8 to 1/4 cents down, May 77 to 77 1/2-3/4, corn continued to average lower. Oats started unchanged to 1/2 cent off, May 40 1/2 to 40 1/2. Later all months showed some loss. Higher quotations on hogs steadied provisions.

O'Donnell, O'Neal said. The prospects for our section of the South Plains look promising for 1926. O'Neal stated saying that O'Donnell had experienced one of the most progressive building programs in the past two years when the city grew from an inland town of five stores to twenty-five business houses supporting a population of 2,500 and a trade territory of from thirty to forty miles in each direction.

Others who spoke at the meeting were: W. H. Crunk, C. H. Mansell, Dr. C. P. Tate, Rev. W. B. Hicks, C. E. Kelley, Rev. W. K. Horn, C. Millsap, Clyde Ash, J. P. Bowlin, and J. D. Liles.

14,000 Bales of Cotton Ginned
Six gins at O'Donnell have been running to capacity all fall and have ginned 14,000 bales of cotton to date which is claimed as a high mark for any town on the South Plains this year. The city has just completed a $7,500 curb and gutter work program and will vote today on a $65,000 school bond issue. Paving and installation of water and sewer system is also under consideration at O'Donnell.

Every speaker of the evening was loud in his praise of the O'Donnell band, a twenty-five piece band which made one of the best showings last week at Littlefield at the district meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce of any band present. The band played a number of selections at the opening of the meeting.

JUDGE REFUSES TO HONOR PAPERS

BELTON, Mar. 2. (AP)—On the theory that the court was placed in the light of a collection agency, District Judge Lewis H. Jones today granted a habeas corpus decree for the release of J. H. Tomlinson arrested two weeks ago on the complaint of the Meadow Oil Company of Ada, Okla.

Extradition had been granted by Governor Ferguson on request of the Governor of Oklahoma, and the Pontotoc county sheriff was here today for the prisoner. Although Tomlinson was wanted for "obtaining property by means of a bogus check," according to the Oklahoma complaint, Judge Jones held that no offense had been committed against the state of Oklahoma.

March's Opening Is Light For Building

Building permits for the month of March have not started off well but city officials believe that with the close of the month the total will pass that of February's, which was $197,718. Dave N. Leaverton, local contractor has taken out the only permit since the close of last month. He is building for himself a five room brick residence, cost of which is set at $4,000.

RALLY FOR MOODY IS HELD AT GEORGETOWN

GEORGETOWN, Tex., Mar. 2. (AP)—Texas politics, which were started off on the 1926 campaign with Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's second term announcement Sunday, were given further impetus here today at a mass meeting called to launch Attorney General Dan Moody's gubernatorial candidacy. Citizens of Williamson County, where Moody a few years ago started his public career as district attorney, arranged the meeting to express a demand that Moody run for Governor. The young attorney general himself has made no announcement as to his political plans. A number of towns of the county declared a holiday and a large attendance was expected at the rally which is to be held in the court house.

Moody has gained state-wide attention through prosecution of road companies alleged to have collected exorbitant profits on highway contracts, and this prosecution apparently has brought him into conflict with the Ferguson. He first came to public attention through successful prosecution in one of the state's first flogging cases.

If Moody runs, he will be the fourth candidate to announce for governor, and his candidacy would make two women and two men in the race. Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Edith Williams of Dallas are the announced women candidates. Lynch Davidson of Houston, former lieutenant governor, is the only man who has announced.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Having broken two vertebrae in a motor accident several months ago, Mrs. Cecil G. Anderson is to resume playing golf shortly and seek titles again.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Dogs are entitled to the same consideration as humans, when train warnings are concerned, The Arkansas supreme court ruled yesterday. The court awarded M. V. Bains $50 when it was proved a train that killed his dog did not sound warning to the animal.
