Santa Fe railway employees and emergency workers were busy Thursday morning clearing a 36-car derailment on the Santa Fe main line some 18 miles northwest of Snyder.

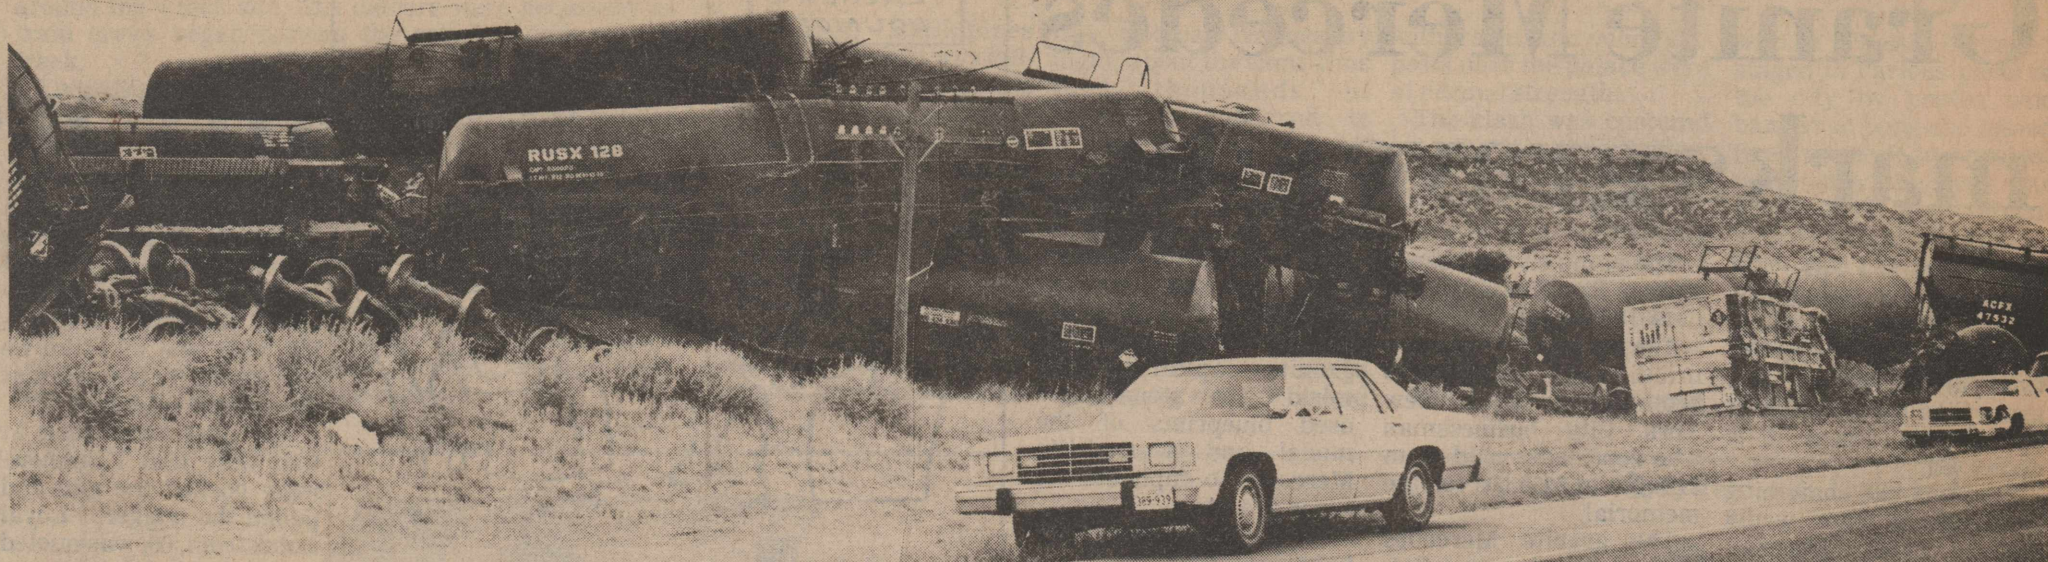

The 36 cars, part of an 85-car train which originated in Houston bound for Denver, came off the tracks just north of the Fullerville siding and adjacent to U.S. highway 84 at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Most of the cars in the wreck were empty at the time of the accident, according to a Santa Fe spokesman, and only one of the loaded cars contained any hazardous substances.

Empty LP gas transports comprised the bulk of the cars involved in the accident and the one loaded tank car was carrying ethylene oxide, which railroad personnel classified as a flammable liquid corrosive.

The car carrying the ethylene oxide remained intact following the mishap and no leakage was reported.

Soviets shoot down S. Korean plane

The Associated Press
A Soviet jet fighter shot down a South Korean jet carrying 269 people after tracking it for more than 2½ hours when it flew over the Soviet island of Sakhalin, Secretary of State George Shultz said today.

Among those aboard was a U.S. congressman. A search was under way for any survivors in frigid waters off Sakhalin. Japanese and South Korean officials also said the plane was shot down in the area.

Shultz told a Washington news conference the unarmed civilian plane was downed with a missile, that "there was no excuse whatsoever for this appalling act," and that the U.S. government reacted "with revulsion."

He said there was no evidence the Soviets had warned the plane, although he said the Soviet pilot was "close enough for a visual inspection." He said as many as eight Soviet jets were involved.

Shultz said the U.S. government called in the Soviet charge d'affaires in Washington and expressed "grave concern" and demanded an explanation.

There was no immediate reaction from the Soviet Union, which earlier denied an erroneous Korean Air Lines announcement that the plane had landed on Sakhalin. KAL did not say why it made such an announcement, but informed sources in Seoul said apparently it was based on premature information that proved false and a desire to comfort relatives gathered at the Seoul airport.

Japan said today that it appeared "likely" the Soviets downed the airliner.

"If this (attack) is true, it should be regarded as very regrettable indeed," Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe told a Tokyo news conference. Japanese radar indicated the Korean Air Lines jumbo was pursued and shot down at an altitude of about six miles by three MiG-23s about 3:30 a.m. — 2:30 p.m. EDT Wednesday — and plummeted into the Japan Sea.

The seas in the area were reported calm, but the temperature was about 50 degrees. According to survival manuals, a person can last in such waters for about 50 minutes. Up to 3½ hours there is a 50-50 chance of survival, and after 3½ hours death is 99 percent certain.

South Korean officials said U.S. and Japanese search planes were scouting the area, and Japanese defense radar indicated a large number of Soviet aircraft appeared to be flying over the zone, possibly searching for survivors. Among the passengers was Rep. Lawrence P. McDonald, D-Ga.

Lawrence's aide, Tommy Toles, told reporters by telephone from Rome, Ga., that South Korean intelligence officers also said three Soviet fighters took part in the attack.

The Japanese newspaper Sankei Shimbun said Japan's Defense Agency picked up air-to-ground communication from Soviet planes over Sakhalin saying "open fire" and "shot down." South Korean newspapers said it was believed the Soviet MiGs downed the jumbo with air-to-air missiles.

The KAL Flight No. 7 was due in Seoul at 5:53 a.m. local time (4:53 p.m. EDT Wednesday)

WTC classes begin Friday

Classes for the new fall term begin Friday on the campus of Western Texas College with formal registration proceedings and Thursday night.

Locals still interested in adult extension classes may sign up in the administration building Thursday from 6:30 until 8 p.m. All registration after 8 p.m. Thursday will be conducted in the administration building.

As the first day ended Wednesday, 899 students had signed up for the fall term. This includes initial enrollment figures for the college's four extension center campuses at Haskell, Crosbyton, Sweetwater and Hamlin.

Sophomore students were scheduled to register Thursday morning through noon. The afternoon was to be set aside for either freshman or sophomores missing their regular registration time.

Also due to enroll Thursday were students entering either the licensed vocational nursing or cosmetology programs.

College officials say it is too soon to determine how this year's count will compare with last fall's final student number of 1,267.

That figure stands as the record enrollment for the fall term at WTC.

With the WTC dorms now reopened, officials say last minute cancellations may create some vacancies still. Persons interested in living in either the dorms or the student apartments should apply since a waiting list is being compiled.

The last day to register for classes on campus will be Sept. 16. Extension center registration will end Sept. 12.

While day classes begin Friday, extension center class work plus all night courses locally will not begin until Tuesday after the Labor Day holiday.

College officials say they are not expecting enrollment figures to approach last spring's all time WTC student record.

Traditionally, community college enrollments are higher in the spring, they say.

Even with a healthy enrollment count this fall, last spring semester has been characterized as a tough act to follow.

As registration began, college officials initially hoped to surpass for the first time the 1,300 student mark.

The enrollment easily slid past this and continued to rise.

Docents hear museums plans

Highlights of the coming year for the Diamond M Museum and the Scurry County Museum were outlined at a meeting Wednesday conducted for docents.

Eunice Irwin, museum director, and Janet R. Parker, associate director of the Diamond M Museum, welcomed the volunteers attending.

Both expressed appreciation for the hours given to the museums by volunteers during the past year and pointed out that additional docents are needed.

"Docents don't have to be walking encyclopedias," Erwin stressed. "We just need people."

Burglary arrest follows report

Snyder police detectives report the arrest of a 23-year-old suspect Wednesday afternoon only hours after a residential burglary was reported here.

Scott Slankard of 2301 Ave. T was being held in the Scurry County Jail Thursday morning on a $1,500 bond for burglary of a residence. The residential burglary was reported at the Oscar Saucedo residence and apparently occurred Tuesday night.

Saucedo called city police at 3:31 p.m. Wednesday to report the incident. Listed as missing were four guns, a .243 rifle, a 30-30 rifle, a .22 rifle and a 12 gauge shotgun. Also said stolen were a pair of binoculars and a hunting knife.

Value of the missing items, all recovered by the investigators, was listed at almost $1,000.

Friday night fever again hits the Lone Star state. On any given Friday night in the fall of the year, activity in one town is directed to those tall lights while another community may be deserted because it's high school team is playing a road game.

Few states have the furor that even closely resembles the excitement created by high school athletes carrying the town banner against a neighborhood rival.

Snyder travels to Big Spring Friday night for the season opener, and Coach George Byerly is optimistic about his team's improvements over last year. The team is small, but is stronger and quicker thanks to a concentrated off-season program.

After three straight narrow losses to the Steers, Snyder is eager to turn the tide Friday night. Booster Club fans are hoping for a large crowd at the opener.

All the talk about football reminds us of a veteran West Texas coach who visited the press box during his open date to scout one of his district foes. He said:

"A lawyer loses a case and his client gets sent to jail and the lawyer waves goodbye and presents a bill for $1,000.

"A doctor loses a patient and he says he's sorry and sends his bill for $5,000.

"A 17-year-old kid fumbles a pass and I get fired."

School has been in session two full weeks, and already the kids get a holiday Monday-Labor Day. Bob Womack, Western Auto owner, spent several years in the school business both as a teacher and principal.

Says Womack, "Running a school is no problem. It's getting it to start and to stop that is the hard part."

Ask Us

Q. — How many people have been arrested here for either public intoxication or DWI this year?

A. — The 1983 figures are not completed as yet, but comparison figures for 1982 compiled by city police show that public intoxication arrests totaled 855 and driving while intoxicated — most involving misdemeanor offenses — totaled 316.

In Brief

Twister strikes Jasper, Tex.

JASPER, Texas (AP) — A tornado struck this East Texas town early this morning, knocking out power to many residents and leaving behind debris that closed several streets, authorities said. No injuries were reported.

Trees knocked down power lines around the city said Larry Todd, spokesman for the Department of Public Safety. The twister struck about 3:30 a.m., Todd said.

A Jasper radio reporter, Art Lay, said the tornado also removed the roof off a concession stand at the high school football stadium. A tree fell through a house and another fell on an automobile, he said.

The twister cut a swath from southwest to northeast across the city, said Johnnie Huckels, dispatcher for the Jasper County sheriff's office.

Houses in the Shady Acres development one-quarter mile west of Jasper on U.S. Highway 190 were damaged, she said. The tornado then struck Jasper elementary and middle schools.

Nurse seeks new attorney

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — A nurse charged with injecting seven children with a paralyzing drug says she will ask for a new court-appointed attorney to represent her.

State District Judge Murray Jordan probably will rule on Ms. Jones' request at a Sept. 15 pre-trial hearing here, where he also will consider a motion to have Ms. Jones' indigency status reconsidered.

Granite Mercedes marks grave site

LINDEN, N.J. (AP) — A 36-ton granite replica of a 1982 Mercedes-Benz limousine has found its final parking space — in a graveyard by the tomb of the boy to whom it is dedicated.

"It looks like something Leonardo da Vinci would do," said Marion Brozowski, secretary-treasurer at Rosedale Memorial Park. "It's magnificent workmanship. The detail is phenomenal."

The monument, which took three stonecutters 17 months to complete, is an inch-for-inch reproduction of the elegant limousine, right down to the distinctive Mercedes-Benz insignia on the hubcaps. There are only a few things missing, including a Mercedes ornament on the hood and a side-view mirror — purposely left off to deter vandals.

"It looks like a regular car. It has windshield wipers, a name on the license plate. It's better than a regular Mercedes," said Terri Nuzzo, a secretary at the cemetery.

The name on the license plate is Ray Tse, who died in 1981 at the age of 15.

The monument was commissioned by Tse's brother, David, a New York City businessman who reportedly paid from $120,000 to $250,000 for the memorial.

The granite Mercedes arrived Tuesday on a flatbed truck from a Vermont manufacturer and was lowered onto a 17-ton slab amid the trees and traditional headstones at the sprawling 120-acre cemetery in this northern New Jersey community.

Officials of the cemetery, the monument company and members of the Tse family who were at the graveyard Wednesday declined to discuss the monument or release any information, including where the family is from.

But according to those involved in the project, the older Tse apparently had once promised to buy his brother a car but never got the chance to do so.

Koch Monument Co. of Hackensack hired the Rock of Ages granite company to sculpt the car from a 66-ton granite block cut in a quarry in Barre, Vt., which is known as the granite capital of the world. The stonecutters used blueprints of the model and a real-life Mercedes to duplicate the car in granite.

"It was the hardest job I have done in my life," said Dante Rossi, one of the stonecutters who worked on the car.

"I knew it would come out good, but it went beyond our own expectations," said Mike DiPiazza, owner of Koch Monument, which sold the Mercedes memorial and the mausoleum to the Tse family.

"The only thing that could affect it is vandalism. Otherwise, it should be there a thousand years," DiPiazza added.

Supermodel signs contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Supermodel Christie Brinkley, who has graced several of Sports Illustrated's famous swimsuit issues, has signed up to put her name on a line of swimwear and sportswear.

Miss Brinkley "exemplifies the active... yet casual lifestyle of today's woman," said Harvey Rosenzweig of Russ Togs, Inc., as the company announced Tuesday that the lithe, blonde-haired model will be featured in advertising for a Christie Brinkley Division.

Miss Brinkley also will "provide input concerning the taste level and type of clothing to be produced," Rosenzweig said. He said the sportswear will be unveiled early next year.

"I found a great new way to get them interested in arithmetic — tell them it's none of their business."

NFO president asks ranchers to sell cattle

DENVER (AP) — The president of the Iowa-based National Farmers Organization wants dairy farmers to fight low prices by selling their cows this fall through the group's marketing department.

DeVon Woodland told reporters cow-calf producers "are on the verge of the most severe financial crisis in many years, if not in history."

Selling livestock through a coordinated marketing scheme this fall would help by reducing herds and cutting milk production in an industry troubled by overproduction, he said.

Woodland held a news conference Tuesday to promote the NFO annual convention, which is scheduled for Nov. 29 through Dec. 1 in Denver. It will be the first time the Corning, Iowa-based group has held its convention in a Western state.

"Next week, we will initiate a dairy cow sell-off," said Woodland, who farms and ranches near Blackfoot, Idaho.

Woodland said the NFO wants to start the dairy sell-off now in hopes of beating the beef cattle to market. Beef cattle normally are marketed in greatest numbers during the fall months.

"We figure it probably will be a month before beef cows come off the range," he said.

"We think the beef are coming, regardless. What we're saying is, 'Let's organize the slaughter,'" he said.

The National Cattlemen's Association, based in Denver, has urged dairy farmers to delay their herd reductions until after the first of the year to avoid a glut on the market.

Letter explains divorce demand

EASTLAND, Texas (AP) — Cisco's former mayor-pro tem was quoted in a letter as saying he killed his young wife last spring after she told him he was too old for her and that she wanted a divorce.

"It must have been at that time that I unknowingly cocked the gun and pulled the trigger," Loyal Lundstrom, 60, was quoted in a letter read to jurors Wednesday by Cisco police detective Jackie Hobbs in the second day of testimony in Lundstrom's trial.

Lundstrom is accused of killing his wife, Doris, 27, on March 3 with a single blast from a 20-gauge shotgun. Her body was discovered two days later in the couple's bedroom at the Cisco motel they operated.

responded that it was a copy of a letter he had written his minister.

For the first time since testimony began Tuesday, Lundstrom was visibly shaken when Hobbs read from the letter.

The letter said, "To say I'm sorry for all I know you've been through is small I know. But, please don't hate me."

In the letter, Lundstrom was quoted as saying he returned home after taking his children to McDonald's for breakfast, happy and thankful that his wife was at home, after she spent the night with friends.

But Mrs. Lundstrom told him, "Don't expect any more kisses, our marriage wouldn't be like this anymore," the letter said. They took their children to school, then returned home and went into the bedroom where Mr. Lundstrom informed his husband "our marriage over," the letter continued.

Farrah Fawcett breaks her wrist

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Farrah Fawcett broke her wrist in an off-Broadway play called "Extremities," but the play's press agent says she's determined to be back on the stage tonight.

Agent Milly Schoenbaum says the 36-year-old star broke the wrist in two places Tuesday night during a scene in which she takes a fall. "She had taken the same fall at every performance of the play," Ms. Schoenbaum said Wednesday.

Although the wrist hurt, Miss Fawcett continued to perform. When she got home, the wrist swelled, and at 1 a.m. she went to a hospital where X-rays revealed it was broken.

Miss Fawcett was determined to return tonight and play the part with her arm in a cast, the agent said.

"Extremities," at the West Side Arts Theater, deals with a woman who captures and imprisons a man who attempted to rape her.

Lundstrom wrote that he picked up the load shotgun, kept in case pr wilders broke into the house, and demanded the truth from his wife, Hobbs said.

"She told me she'd had a couple of little affairs with guys that didn't mean anything," the letter stated. "She said, 'If I told the truth you want, you too old to be my husband. The children need a younger daddy, not an grandpa.'"

Units of the Snyder Fire Department were dispatched to the scene shortly after the derailment and extinguished several grass fires on the railroad right-of-way. An axle failure on one of the front cars in the string is blamed for causing the wreck. The grass fires were thought to have been started by the "hot box" on the unit that failed. The next special event in the Diamond M Museum will be an exhibit of sculpture from the museum's collection. The exhibit will open at 2 p.m. Sunday with a reception. On Oct. 14, the two museums will be hosting joint openings and receptions as part of a major project, "Where the Buffalo Roamed." The county museum will feature "Lasst of a Breed: Portraits of Working Cowboys" by Martin Schreiber. 2 actresses think turning 40 is okay

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda Evans and Joan Collins are archrivals on the television series "Dynasty," but on the topic of what it's like to turn 40 both agree there's no need to panic. The actresses were two of 10 well-known women age 40 or over interviewed by Bazaar magazine in the September issue on their views of "life, love and the pursuit of happiness." On the subject of sex, movie star Carroll Baker, 52, said it only gets better. "A healthy sexual relationship can be a source of great joy at any age, right? And doesn't the sexual experience start to improve from, let's say, age 30? If you agree, let me be bold enough to suggest that it can be better after 40...."

Michelle Lee of "Knots Landing" said if anything she looks "better put together" now than when she was younger. "Let's face it, you don't wake up at 40 with your arms suddenly sagging or a drooping fanny. Bodily changes are going on all the time so when you finally hit 40, it's no big deal," she said.

around the wreck site. The detours were necessary as train crews began moving the crippled cars off the track. Loren Simmons, Santa Fe public relations director in Dallas, said it was hoped the repair crews could transfer the ethylene oxide to a truck transport before they attempted to move the car. At least five through trains have been delayed by the derailment but Santa Fe officials say they think the wreckage can be cleared and the main line reopened by 9 p.m. Thursday. The 85-unit train was reportedly traveling 53 miles and hour at the time of the accident. Other freight in the train cars included two loads of copper ore and eight carloads of spare parts for the railroad.

Student killed during rioting

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A student was killed by gunfire and 18 people were injured as hundreds of youths hurled rocks, bottles and homemade grenades at police after the funeral of slain opposition leader Benigno Aquino. The first political violence since Aquino's Aug. 21 assassination erupted near the presidential palace Wednesday night, about the same time that thousands of mourners gathered to witness Aquino's burial after an 11-hour funeral parade that attracted an estimated one million onlookers. The street battles tapered off after midnight, and the area was quiet today. Schools and shops were open, riot police had withdrawn, and police outposts near the palace were at normal strength. The clash was centered near the Mendiola Bridge, about two blocks from President Ferdinand E. Marcos' Malacanang Palace and the same site where three students were killed in riots after Marcos' election to a second term in 1970. The street clash began with a "noise barrage" staged in various parts of the city by youths who banged on pans and tossed firecrackers to protest what they believe was government involvement in the killing of Aquino, who was Marcos' chief political rival. The government has denied any role in the killing of Aquino, who was assassinated.

Tiny community nothing like he-man name

TARZAN, Texas (AP) — The name conjures up images of exciting drama, and the postmistress of this tiny West Texas community is almost apologetic in answering that no, Tarzan has no roaring lions or charging elephants.

In fact, postmistress Doris McMorries says, "Don't drive down (Texas Highway) 176 too fast, or you'll miss it."

However, that doesn't mean there's nothing in Tarzan, she insists.

"There's more than it looks like," Mrs. McMorries said. Besides its post office, the small town 50 miles northeast of Odessa boasts a convenience store, a cafe, a cotton gin, two churches, two beauty shops, a crop-spraying service, part of a cattle farm, a few houses and a few trees.

Mrs. McMorries said she does not know how many people live in Tarzan, but she said her post office serves about 500 customers in the western half of Martin County.

Every school year, she receives two to three requests a week for information on how the unincorporated town got its name, she added.

One of her favorite letters was from a boy in Stockton, Calif., who wrote:

"Tarzan went to Texas and the people tried to drown him but it didn't work. They believed he was a god and named the town Tarzan, Texas."

The second-grader from Stockton, Calif., knew his one-paragraph essay, "How Tarzan, Texas, Got Its Name," was wrong.

"Did my story come close to what really happened?" the pupil, Mike Gray, asked in a letter addressed to the director of the "Chamber of Commerce" in Tarzan.

The letter, written three years ago, included a copy of the essay with a tree etched at the bottom.

"Please write to me and explain the real reason for your town's name," Gray asked.

The youngster got a response, but he was lucky his letter found its way through the jungles of the U.S. mail — Tarzan has no chamber of commerce.

The town was named, Mrs. McMorries said, by "the old fellow that lived here when the town was first established" — Tant Lindsay.

Lindsay, the first postmaster and storekeeper in Tarzan, gave the town its name

"because he enjoyed all the Tarzan books," McMorries said.

Lindsay's 77-year-old widow, Viola, said last week she had a part in naming the town, which originally was called South Plains when it was settled in the mid-1920s.

The Lindsays first came to Tarzan in 1926, she said, and opened a general store when the town still was known as South Plains. The store no longer stands.

Mrs. Lindsay said when her husband decided in 1927 to add a post office to his store, the U.S. Postal Service said the town's name would have to be changed from South Plains. She said the post office pointed out that there already was a town near Lubbock by the same name that had a post office.

Perhaps a touch of egotism overcame Lindsay when he learned he had to change the name. Mrs. Lindsay said he first wanted to rename the town "Tant" after himself.

However, she said postal officials rejected the idea out of concern that a Tant, Texas, would be confused with Taft, Texas, which already had a post office.

After the rejection, Mr. Lindsay said she and her husband looked around their store one night searching for ideas for a new name.

Caterpillar...

Strike teaches lesson

EDITOR'S NOTE

This second installment of a four-part series on the problems facing labor unions looks at the 205-day strike against the Caterpillar Tractor Co. and the lessons learned by labor and management.

By Merrill Hartson
Associated Press Writer
PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — It has been the town's lifeblood for 58 years, a cushion against recession, an insurance policy for business, a promise that tomorrow, its thousands of jobs will still be there.

But now, recovering slowly from the longest strike in its history, buffeted by months of depressed sales and by aggressive foreign competition, the Caterpillar Tractor Co. is giving Peoria less than it has in the past.

"For Sale" signs dot block after block. Businesses that relied on Cat for decades of good times have seen the bad that can come in what is basically a one-company town. The jobless rate hit 19.9 percent in June.

The 205-day strike against Caterpillar typified a new problem that unions will face the rest of this century: an American company taking a hard line at the bargaining table in its quest to bring labor costs into line with much lower costs of overseas competitors.

But this is part of labor's new frontier.

Caterpillar's biggest competitor is not John Deere or Allis-Chalmers. It is Komatsu of Japan.

Fully 57 percent of Caterpillar's 1982 sales were overseas.

The signs of Cat still are everywhere.

Cat hats. Cat license plate holders. Cat bumper stickers. This city was Caterpillar crazy — until Sept. 30, 1982.

That's when more than 11,000 UAW members in the Peoria area alone struck Caterpillar, putting a crimp in operations and strictly limiting production while forcing the layoffs of some 3,000 non-union office employees who weren't sent to the plants. The total number of workers on strike was more than 20,000, including more than 9,000 workers in five other states.

Second of four parts

Peoria's love affair with Caterpillar and its workers was on the rocks.

"The day will come when people look back and see the strike as one of the most foolish things that ever happened," Mayor Richard Carver said April 24, when employees approved a new 37-month contract and went back to work.

That pact contained a wage freeze, reduction in bonus time paid for perfect attendance and a profit-sharing plan and employee ownership option.

Vic Ingold and Bart Hollingsworth, two veteran UAW employees of Caterpillar here, winced when asked in an interview whether they felt the union's strike had proven disastrous.

"It wasn't a mistake," said Ingold, a metal press operator who has nearly 19½ years with the company. "We couldn't give up things that our fathers hit the bricks for."

But Ingold made no attempt to hide his bitterness, adding: "I doubt if any of our kids will work here ... This was not our strike. It was Caterpillar's strike."

"We had to strike," said Hollingsworth, an electrician for 20 years. "We kept our self-respect and pride, and if we had to do it over again, we would."

Both said they didn't believe Caterpillar's contention that the company had fallen onto hard times due principally to fierce overseas sales competition from Komatsu.

Asked what the strike achieved, Ingold and Hollingsworth said workers were able to avert pay cuts and other sacrifices they didn't believe were necessary.

James K. Ward, director of labor relations and compensation for Caterpillar, said he understood the skepticism on the part of UAW members, even though the company had genuine financial problems.

"People found it difficult in their minds to think that here's Caterpillar, for 20 years, all growth, now all of a sudden, a remarkable negative turnaround," Ward said, noting the company's $180 million loss in 1982, the first red-ink ledger since the Depression.

"We look on strikes as a lose-lose situation," Ward said. "Nobody wins ... At a time where we ought to be banding together and fighting competitors, we were throwing stones at each other."

The UAW would not acknowledge that the bargaining strategy in the Caterpillar talks might have been flawed.

But some businessmen here said that the lesson of the Caterpillar strike was that a strategy used in negotiations with General Motors Corp. or Ford Motor Co. might not work in collective bargaining with Caterpillar or any other company that does much of its business overseas.

Negotiators for General Motors would worry about accepting a contract that placed GM at a competitive disadvantage with Ford, for instance, where labor costs are concerned. But negotiators for Caterpillar were concerned about narrowing a wider disparity between the labor costs of the U.S. company and its principal overseas competitor, Komatsu.

In the world of labor today, international competition is but one tough new element confounding the leaders of unions that have tended to rely heavily on the strategies of yesteryear.

As organized labor struggles to stop the hemorrhage of membership rolls, it faces a more enlightened management and one that is willing to spend big bucks to keep unions out.

Report says consumer advocate is top choice

AUSTIN (AP) — Consumer advocate Jim Boyle, who lobbied hard in the early 1970s for creation of the Public Utility Commission, appears to be Gov. Mark White's choice to represent consumers before the PUC, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

Texas House and Senate sources said they had been informed that Boyle, legislative director of the Texas Consumer Association, would get the job as public counsel, which was created this year by the Legislature, the newspaper reported.

White was expected to announce his choice at a news conference today.

Boyle confirmed that White had interviewed him for the $57,500-a-year post Monday, but declined to say whether he expected to be appointed, the Star-Telegram reported.

"I am not going to know anything until the governor calls me," Boyle said Wednesday.

"Our conversation was very general, but certainly the governor is very concerned that rates be kept as low as possible and any fat remaining in utility rate increases be removed," Boyle said.

Boyle said he had informed White that his father-in-law, Ken Hinkley, is an executive with Houston Lighting & Power.

"He works in management. But I don't know what his functions are," Boyle said. Asked if that might influence his actions, Boyle replied, "Not at all. I believe I am a professional."

An HL&P spokesman told the Star-Telegram that Hinkley is group vice president of external affairs, which includes lobbying, public affairs and customer relations.

During the past legislative session, Boyle supported White's unsuccessful effort to make the PUC an elected panel and a successful move to create the public counsel's office.

"For the first time,

Four have lots of pull

NEW YORK (AP) — First lady Nancy Reagan, former first lady Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and ABC-TV news correspondent Barbara Walters have something in common, according to Harper's Bazaar — a lot of pull.

They and seven others have been chosen by the magazine's editors as the country's 10 most influential women.

ratepayers will have representation where they can go toe to toe with the utility industry," Boyle said. "I believe that kind of atmosphere will provide better and fairer results for consumers."

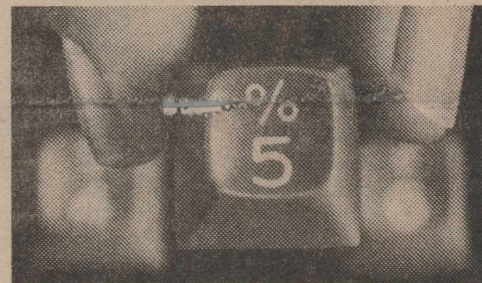

Boyle, an attorney, helped create the Texas Coalition for Utility Regulation, which pressured the 1975 Legislature to create the PUC.

Recently, Boyle announced as a candidate for the state Senate seat that Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, is giving up to run for the U.S. Senate.

BOOK REVIEW

THE YOUNGEST SCIENCE: Notes of a Medicine Watcher. By Lewis Thomas. Viking. 270 pages. $14.75.

Readers of "The Lives of a Cell" and "The Medusa and the Snail" can only welcome a new book by Lewis Thomas.

Its title, "The Youngest Science," and subtitle, "Notes of a Medicine Watcher," indicate the book's field of interest. Some of its chapters are essays of the kind that made up the two earlier books. But this volume also includes autobiographical elements, in a loosely chronological structure.

However, this is far from being a gossip or deeply revealing personal history. Thomas leaves the impression that he's much more interested in other people and things outside himself, especially in science.

His lively curiosity, keen observation, delight in finding out how things work and in solving puzzles are the attributes of a born researcher.

Since he's also a fine writer, he's able to convey a sense of wonder in the miraculously orderly ways of nature, the magic of microbiology, the complexity yet simplicity in the rules that govern life.

Often turns to such as in this book.

He leads us genially through phases of his life, from childhood as the son of a doctor in Flushing, N.Y., in the 1920s, to the present as chancellor of Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City. But most references to his own life are factual details about his medical career or serve as starting points to general observations about the medical world.

His outlook is generally optimistic. Of scientific advances which have made such a difference from his father's time when the doctor could be a close friend and confidant, he says realistically, "The new medicine works." But he admits he'd be worried if he were a student or intern today "that my real job, caring for sick people, might soon be taken away, leaving me with the quite different occupation of looking after machines."

And his experience at the head of what he calls the largest and most comprehensive cancer facility in the world elicits from him the statement that "I look for the end of cancer before this century is over... Indeed, I now believe it could begin to fall in place at almost any time, starting next year or even next week."

guaranteed. There are lots of ways to play the contract, but South follows up his simple bidding with simple play. He draws trumps with three leads and goes after diamonds. They break 4-2 so South ruffs a diamond, leads a heart to dummy's king, ruffs another diamond with his last trump, cashes the ace of hearts, ruffs a heart with dummy's last trump and scores the slam trick with dummy's fifth diamond.

North's jump to four spades is a normal, old-fashioned bid to show 19 or 20 points in support of spades. It is not a preempt. There is no need to shut out opponents when both of them have passed at a low level. It also can't be a stop bid because North has no idea as to what South holds.

In modern bidding it also tells South something else. It tells South that North does not hold a singleton.

South has only 10 high-card points, but they include two aces. South is also looking at a doubleton of North's first-bid suit. South likes his hand and uses Blackwood to check for aces. North shows two, but South wisely decides not to try for seven and to bid merely six. It is a good decision. Not that we haven't seen many worse grand slams, but all in all six is a nice conservative contract.

South wins the club lead and sees that the slam is not

Prison inmates fight natural disasters in Calif.

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — When entertainer Barbra Streisand's exclusive Malibu Colony home was ravaged by storms last month, prison inmates quickly surrounded it.

They weren't looting the place, just piling sandbags to protect it and other nearby celebrity-owned structures from further damage.

"The inmates weren't allowed inside," said Capt. Clifford Dysart of the Los Angeles County Fire Department. "They were outside sandbagging the houses."

And this summer, when fires burned thousands of acres throughout Southern California, inmates helped cut the fire lines.

About 2,500 of the state's 7,000 prisoners serve as emergency crews in disasters. And while other states use prisoners for community projects, California has the most extensive program using inmates to fight calamities, said Hardy Rauch of the American Correctional Association.

The work is tough and can be risky.

"It is the most difficult part of firefighting," said Howard O'Brien, the California Department of Forestry's coordinator of the conservation camp program, referring to cutting fire lines. "It's usually the steepest terrain that bulldozers can't navigate."

The state has 32 camps, 29 in rural areas separate from prison institutions, and 60 women inmates were included in the program this summer, said Phil Guthrie of the California Department of Corrections. Rainbow Camp in San Diego County, currently used for men, will be occupied by women in October, he said.

During the day, the inmates are assigned to the California Department of Forestry or the Los Angeles County Fire Department. At night, the CDC resumes responsibility.

"The only inmates we don't take are arsonists, naturally, and sex offenders," said Lt. Bill Dieball, who heads the Prado Conservation Camp located next to the California Institution for Men at Chino. The sex offenders ban "basically has to do with the community and the fact that they work essentially without supervision."

Billy Fonville, 37, of Bakersfield, was convicted of first-degree murder when he was 24. He spent time in San Quentin, Soledad and Folsom prisons before moving to Francisquito Conservation Camp near Saugus and then Prado, where he is awaiting parole in September.

"You really can't compare (camps to prisons)," said Fonville.

"There's a lot of violence inside the institutions," he said. "Everybody gets along (at Prado) exceptionally well. Soledad has a lot of riots. Here, there are none."

The camp's best feature is "just being able to walk outside, to walk around the grounds," Fonville said. "To me it's kind of an orientation to the streets. You can go to an officer here. Here you're treated like a human being. Inside, you're not."

The public also benefits, state officials say.

While inmates live in a dorm instead of a small cell, the public has emergency crews on call 24 hours a day. They clean parks and clear fire breaks when there are no emergencies.

Dick Friend, a Los Angeles County Fire Department spokesman, said it would cost the county $16 million to duplicate the services provided by CDC prisoners in the county's four conservation camps, $15.8 million more than the county now pays.

Camp inmates receive $1.35 to $3.75 a day, depending on their jobs, plus 75 cents an hour for emergency fire and flood work, officials said.

There has been some apprehension about the program, especially after a Chino Hills couple and two children were killed in June. Kevin Cooper, an escaped inmate from the California Institute for Men, not Prado Camp, has been charged in the murders.

"To ease the feeling in the community ... we didn't work anybody in the Chino Valley for awhile," Dieball said. "We're now requiring that we have more supervision as well."

Some camp inmates do escape. In 1982, there were 71 escapes statewide and "virtually all were recaptured," Guthrie said. The all-time high was in 1972, when 179 escaped, and the low was 1975, when 40 escaped, he said.

"The trick in this is to pick people who would do no harm if they do get out," Guthrie said.

Both behavior and ability are scrutinized.

"Everybody goes first to the Sierra Conservation Center in Jamestown (Calif.)," Dieball said. "That's where they go through training for about five weeks. They've already been reviewed by three or four levels before they get there."

"They all have to be able to work 12 hours fighting fires," said Capt. Don Kanallakan, superintendent of the Los Angeles County camp near Malibu. "We're getting the cream of the crop. They'll fight fires for eight hours and come back here and lift weights."

GTE wants monthly access charge okayed

AUSTIN (AP) — General Telephone of the Southwest has told the Public Utility Commission that it wants a monthly access charge that would be billed to customers whether or not they make in-state long-distance calls.

The San Angelo-based company needs $305.1 million to make up for intrastate long-distance profits that will be lost as a result of the Jan. 1 breakup of the nationwide Bell System, General Telephone officials said.

Southwestern Bell has proposed a similar charge as part of its pending $1.4 billion rate case.

General Telephone's proposed charge would add $3.41 to residential customers' monthly bills and $10.23 to business customers' bills, according to information filed this week with the PUC.

The utility filed the information after the PUC asked all telephone companies to detail the effects and costs of the breakup of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., The Dallas Morning News reported today.

The information is preliminary and covers long-distance revenues only, said Oscar Gomez, General's director of revenues and earnings. The information is not a formal rate-increase request, but the company

Mellon rated a double

NEW YORK (AP) — Philanthropist Paul Mellon has been given a double rating among America's greatest art collectors by Connoisseur magazine, which also ranked the late actor Edward G. Robinson "way up there."

In its September issue, the magazine put Mellon, 76, at the top of its list of the 10 leading living American art collectors while he and his father and sister top the list of 101 foremost American art collectors of the 20th century.

plans to file a new rate case before Jan. 1, Gomez said Wednesday.

In its most recent rate case, filed earlier this year, General Telephone won approval for $32.5 million of the $85.5 million it had requested in higher rates.

AT&T is giving up the 22 Bell companies on Jan. 1 to comply with a 1982 federal antitrust settlement. After Jan. 1, the Bell subsidiaries and other telephone companies no longer will share the profits from interstate and some intrastate long-distance calls.

"It's simply a result of the AT&T divestiture," Gomez said. "We don't know what the commission will finally require."

The Federal Communications Commission has ordered a similar charge to replace interstate long-distance revenues after Jan. 1.

Non-stop to New York...

Man forced to drive escape convict

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — An escaped convict armed with a rifle forced a man to drive non-stop to New York City without food or sleep, leaving the man so "shaken up" he did not report the kidnapping for three days, authorities say.

Brevard County sheriff's deputies refused to identify the victim, who reported his abduction Wednesday to the state attorney's office.

But police in Lakewood, N.J., where the victim wrecked his car after falling asleep on the return trip to Florida, identified the man as Todd Kevin Jackson, 26, of Cocoa.

Authorities said the alleged kidnapper was Steven Ruben Barnette, an armed robbery convict who escaped in a sheriff's patrol car Aug. 18, leaving his jail guard nude and handcuffed to a tree during a trip to Orlando for medical treatment.

"There's no doubt in my mind that he spent a night with Steven Ruben Barnette," Jim Brown, chief sheriff's investigator, said of the victim. "The incredible detail of his statements fit too closely with the way Barnette operates."

Jackson, described by his attorney, Gary Large, as "really shaken up," was under police protection.

Authorities said Jackson found Barnette, who is described as powerful and extremely dangerous, in his house when he got home from work Saturday night. The intruder held a gun on Jackson and ordered him to make the 22-hour drive to New York City, stopping only for gasoline, authorities said.

Authorities said Barnette eluded more than two dozen officers Friday night in Cocoa after a man matching his description was spotted. The search was called off about 3 a.m. Saturday and sometime after 7 a.m. Barnette broke into Jackson's house near the search area.

They said Jackson told them he thought about telling his story to a police officer in New York but reconsidered after he could not find one immediately. He made his way out of the city before falling asleep at the wheel and crashing about 3 a.m. Monday in Lakewood, about 80 miles south of Manhattan. Not injured in the crash, Jackson drove on to Florida where he finally told authorities about the abduction.

The case was turned over to Brown, who asked the harbor unit of the New York City Police Department to search for Barnette. Jackson said

Barnette, a former merchant seaman from Trinidad, had indicated he wanted to catch a ship to Barbados to visit his mother.

Vouchers offered for voters

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Campaign workers for Duval County Judge Gilberto Uresti and County Commissioner Fidencio Saenz offered welfare vouchers in exchange for votes during a hotly contested primary, government witnesses have testified.

Dad receives birthday note in newspaper

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The father of actress Kate Jackson got a surprise in his morning newspaper — a message from the former "Charlie's Angel" and her husband, David Greenwald.

As usual, Howard Jackson Jr. arose early Wednesday to put out the dogs and bring in the newspaper. As he thumbed through The Birmingham Post-Herald, he found a full-page ad on the back of the first section.

It read: "Happy Birthday, Daddy. Love Katie and David." It was Jackson's 70th birthday Wednesday.

Seven Duval County residents, including Saenz and Uresti's wife, Olga, are on trial in federal court on charges of conspiring to buy votes in the May 1, 1982 Democratic primary.

The other defendants are Domitilla Garza, a Benavides school board member; Rebecca Garcia, wife of Duval County Clerk Oscar Garcia; Genoveva Garcia, an employee of Duval County Welfare Department; Elvira Garza, a Uresti campaign worker; Norma Solis, also a Uresti supporter.

Uresti has not been indicted in connection with the investigation.

Manuel Arrendondo, an unemployed roughneck from Realitos, testified Wednesday that Saenz visited his home in April and offered him and his

Boy weighs 14 pounds at birth

NEW YORK (AP) — Valerie and Robert Madsen were expecting a bundle of joy — and they got quite a bundle, as their newborn son weighed in at 14 pounds, 6 ounces.

"This is one of the largest, if not the largest baby born in the city by natural childbirth," said Bob Walsh, a spokesman for Lutheran Medical Center in Brooklyn, after 24-inch Matthew Christopher Madsen was born Tuesday afternoon.

wife a welfare voucher in exchange for their vote.

Diana Leal of San Diego testified that Genoveva Garcia and Amelia Garcia, the director of the Duval County Welfare Dept., visited with her on April 15, 1982 and offered her a welfare voucher if she would support Uresti and Saenz.

Bertha Yarberry of San Diego testified that she received a welfare voucher and a six pack of beer in exchange for her vote.

Mrs. Yarberry testified that after Norma Solis left a sample ballot on her front door, Domitilla Garza told her over the telephone that if she "voted right" she would receive welfare assistance.

Mrs. Yarberry said that after riding with Mrs. Solis and Domitilla Garza to the courthouse to vote, she asked if they were going to buy her dinner for her vote.

"They took me to the store and bought me a six pack of beer," Mrs. Yarberry said.

Council expands storm cleanup

HOUSTON (AP) — City Council members, attempting to speed the removal of hurricane debris from Houston, revoked one of 10 contracts it awarded last week and made plans to issue 10 more.

James Scott, a 32-year-old laid-off construction worker who won seven of the 10 original contracts, protested Wednesday that the council was acting unfairly in revoking one of the pacts.

"That was my profit — $200,000," Scott shouted as council adjourned after a daylong session. Each contract pays a set amount per cubic yard of debris collected, up to a maximum of $200,000.

About 2 million cubic yards of the trash, which consists largely of downed timber, was dropped on Houston two weeks ago today by Hurricane Alicia.

The council revoked one of Scott's contracts after hearing reports from its staff members that his crews had collected no debris from the area the pact concerned.

Council re-awarded Scott's contract to the second-lowest bidder, G.M.S. Supply Co., which already held another contract.

It also approved bid specifications for 10 additional contracts, covering the same geographical areas, at $300,000 each.

Faced with charges of loose requirements in the original contract, the city added provisions for the new ones calling for a daily minimum pickup of 3,600 cubic yards in each area. The new contracts will also require all bidders to post a $10,000 bond to "demonstrate they are serious," and require the winning bidders to post performance bonds of $150,000.

Pickup in Scott's seven contract areas ranged from zero in the area where his contract was revoked to 783 cubic yards.

'Busy' Husband Finds Time For Everything but Wife

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This June was our 15th wedding anniversary. My husband told me he was so busy that I should just go and buy myself something. (Was I supposed to buy my own card, too?)

Two days later, my boss asked me to run an errand for him on my lunch hour. I nearly rear-ended the car ahead of me when I saw my "too busy" husband getting out in front of a very nice restaurant with a woman he worked with.

When I asked him about it that night, he became furious and accused me of "spying" on him. (In broad daylight on a busy street — this is "spying"?") Then he said he took her to lunch to celebrate her 10th year with the company. I can't describe my hurt.

Abby, he didn't forget our anniversary. It just wasn't important to him. Later he said he was sorry and wanted to make it up to me by hopping in the sack. He got angry when I couldn't respond. I didn't feel I was made love to — I felt used.

I'm tired of being married to this thoughtless, insensitive man. He won't change. Am I a poor sport for wanting to throw in the towel?

FED UP IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR FED UP: No. Just be sure it's what you want to do. But first give counseling a chance — could save your marriage. If it's hopeless, the throw the towel in — and your "too busy" husband out.

DEAR ABBY: I'm only 25 years old and have been married three times. My first marriage lasted three years. My second marriage ended after only 30 days, and I am now in my third marriage to a man I do not love.

I am expecting a baby any time now, which, by the way, does not belong to the man I'm married to. Now all of sudden the man who fathered this child (I love him dear Abby) wants to marry me. The problem is the man whom I am married believes that marriage is for better or worse, 'til death do us part. Well, I don't want to wait that long. Besides, I want better, and better for me is get out of this marriage and marry the man I love.

What should I do, Abby? Take a fourth walk down aisle with the man I've loved since high school, or remain trapped in a loveless marriage?

A 12-YEAR-FAN IN FLORIDA

DEAR FAN: I think you've already made your choice. A marriage usually stands a better chance when you're married to the one you love — especially when he's the father of your child.

***

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I are both 21 and want to get married, but we can't find a minister who will marry us because neither one of us belongs to a church. I know we could go down to the city hall and get married by a judge or a justice of the peace, but we are both Christians and want a religious ceremony.

We can't afford to join a church just yet. Can you please help us?

THELMA AND FRA

DEAR T. AND F.: Yes. Go to the Salvation Army and tell the people there what you've told me. Every commissioned officer of the Salvation Army is an ordained Christian minister, authorized to perform marriage ceremonies that will be legal and binding in every state in the United States. Good luck, God bless.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Still Upset," warns people against carrying priceless pictures and souvenirs in their purses, prompts this letter.

I learned another lesson the hard way. I lost my ring. On it I had attached my name, home address, telephone number, thinking if my keys were lost, the finder would return them to me. Wrong! The "finder" brought me home and cleaned me out before I was able to get there. Print this, please. It might wise up some other dummies.

Within a week or so, schools will open doors to students who will be faced with challenges they never thought possible ... challenges which some of them will be hard-pressed to handle.

THE SCHOOL LOCKER

On the first day of school, the office gave to me, a locker with my very own key.

On the second day of school, my teacher gave to me, six heavy textbooks, five giant notebooks, and my locker with my very own key.

On the third day of school, my mother gave to me, thermos full of chili, sweater when I'm chilly, a mirror in which to see, an extra pair of shoes, umbrella and picture of my dog for my locker with my very own key.

On the fourth day of school, my coach gave to me, three pairs of running shorts, two school T-shirts, a towel for P.E., a jock strap, one sample of Phisoderm, and my locker with my very own key.

On the fifth day of school, my girlfriend gave to me, a framed portrait, one scented scarf, dozen brownies, Michael Jackson tape, two overdue books, and my locker with my very own key.

On the sixth day of school, the band director gave to me, a rented tuba, five pounds of music, a cymbal for each knee, fifty Booster bars to sell for new uniforms, and my locker with my very own key.

On the seventh day of school the science teacher gave to me, a microscope, one white coat, a mouse that no longer breathes, eight restless "things" in eight glass vials, and my locker with my very own key.

On the eighth day of school, my principal gave to me, an ultimatum, "I'll quote him verbatim, 'either clean it or turn in your own key!'" On the ninth day of school, the custodian gave to me, a metal dumpster, two incinerators, a task so I could breathe, and do kids survive four years, and a locker with their very own key?

inmate said judge would schedule date

WINTERSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Death row inmate David Clark O'Bryan, convicted of killing his son with cyanide-laced trick-or-treat candy, said Tuesday that more hearings should be held. O'Bryan said Wednesday he wanted a new trial to prove his innocence. "I contend what I have said all long — I had absolutely nothing to do with my son's death," he said. "The case was 100 percent circumstantial. I would only ask that the state of Texas prove it with facts." O'Bryan said he thought the date and McSpadden's lecture were in "very bad taste."

"I couldn't care less about his thoughts and his political rhetoric. His job was to sentence me, not lecture me," O'Bryan said. "He may think I'm the worst devil in the world. That's his personal opinion and that should have no bearing on what goes on in the courtroom," he said.

Toulouse-Lautrec lithograph stolen

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A Toulouse-Lautrec lithograph valued at about $25,000 has been stolen from the McNay Art Museum by thieves who replaced it with a note reading, "Temporarily removed from exhibit," authorities said.

The print by the French artist, entitled "Marcelle Lender, En Buste," probably was stolen late Tuesday afternoon, police said.

The theft was not discovered until Wednesday.

The 9-inch-by-12-inch lithograph was on indefinite loan from anonymous lenders and was insured, according to museum curator Norris Ferguson.

"(The owners) are not real happy about it," he said, "but they understand that museums are vulnerable to theft."

Police believe the thief carried in a hammer, pliers and a screwdriver to remove the lithograph from its plexiglass frame.

The museum's guest list, which all visitors must sign, also was stolen, probably to protect the thief's identity, Ferguson said.

The theft was discovered only after the museum's registrar noticed the note in the lithograph's frame appeared to have been composed on a typewriter different from the museum's, he said.

The thief will encounter difficulty trying to sell the lithograph, which Henri Toulouse-Lautrec did in 1896, because it is so well-known, Ferguson said.

The stolen print marks the McNay's fourth theft in 29 years and the museum plans to tighten its security, the curator said.

"Anybody carrying anything beyond the size of a small purse will be searched when they leave," he said. "I think we've finally realized that San Antonio no longer is the size of a small town."

The Jerry Lawson Print Gallery, in which the lithograph was exhibited, has been indefinitely closed to the public.

Quarterback unnamed...

Tigers get set for season opener

The question of who will quarterback the Snyder Tigers was still unsettled Thursday morning but Coach George Byerly, knowing either of his prospects are capable, isn't worried.

The indication was that 5-9, 160-pound junior Jimmy Cain would take the first snap against Big Spring on Friday, since Charles Bollinger missed a week of workouts while recovering from shoulder surgery.

"I imagine they'll both play some," said Byerly. "We'll probably put Jimmy on the field first since he's had more workouts, but I wouldn't call one of them a starter over the other."

The situation is similar in other positions, particularly in the backfield and receiving corps where talent is abundant.

A tentative list of starters shows a couple of 170-pounders, senior Norman Malone and junior Paul Thompson, at the ball-carrying slots. Chad Peterson is at split end and Tommy Hunter at slot.

"We'll probably send in plays with the split end and slot so we expect to use a number of people in each of those positions. We'll probably use several other running backs too," Byerly said.

David Gandy is the projected starter at center, with DeWayne Williamson and Eddie McClure at the guards, Jeff Sisneros and Ricky Vaughn at the tackles and Kenneth Breedlove or Bobby Velasquez at tight end.

Tentative defensive starters for the Tigers are Williamson at noseguard, Vaughn and Sisneros at tackle, Ronnie Landis and Darren Greenway or Kyle Freeman at end, McClure and Breedlove at linebacker, Joe Boudreau and Jay Mayo at the corners and Cain and Peterson at the safeties.

Byerly said he expects the same type of close, hard-fought game with Big Spring, but doesn't look for the Steers to be the same type of team as they were a year ago.

"I think they'll be a better team than they were last year, a little bigger, but not as much quickness," he said. "They look like they are more of a power team. We know they had a good year (4-6) for them last year and they are going to be excited about starting another one. They have some experience in their starters and they list a weakness as lack of depth."

Big Spring is expected to start at least four players on both offense and defense. Split end Robert Porras (6-0, 150 senior) will double at strong safety; running back Eric Sherman (5-9, 160 senior) at cornerback; running back Jay Pirkle (6-0, 190 junior) at free safety and tackle Doug Walker (5-10, 210 junior) at tackle.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. at Memorial Stadium in Big Spring.

Quarry wins comeback bid

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Jerry Quarry's return to the ring lasted only a few seconds, but it was long enough to convince the 38-year-old former heavyweight contender he will finally win a world title.

"I'm going to get it," Quarry said of the cruiserweight crown that has lured him out of retirement. "I will make history and it starts here tonight."

Quarry, who had fought only once in the past eight years, launched his comeback bid with a first round TKO Wednesday night of unheralded Lupe Guerra of Omaha, Neb.

The bout lasted only 32 seconds and Quarry only threw four punches.

But it was the first blow he delivered that really decided the outcome and sparked Quarry's title talk.

Quarry roared out of his corner at the opening bell and the first punch he threw was a booming left hook that slammed Guerra to the canvas.

"I hit him right on the button," Quarry said. "Was that a left hook? I was amazed that he got up."

Guerra did climb back to his feet. But the damage was done. Quarry swarmed all over him. He threw three more punches. The last was another strong left hook that sent Guerra sprawling on the canvas again with his corner throwing in the towel.

Quarry, who fought the likes of Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier but never won the heavyweight title, said the first left hook convinced him he made the right decision to return to the ring.

"People have been making so much of my age," he said. "They said my punch was gone."

Guerra, who never laid a glove on Quarry, said he wasn't ready for that powerful first left hook.

"He caught me cold," said the 31-year-old fighter named as an eleventh-hour replacement this week for Rocky Casale.

Cougars test Rice tonight

HOUSTON (AP) - Rice University football coach Ray Alborn has been collecting the barbs and feeding them to his team.

"Some guy called the other day and said we were pretty good for a flag football team," said Alborn, whose Owls open the season against crosstown rival Houston tonight with a 12-game losing streak, second longest in the nation. "I don't need that garbage."

Alborn records all the slights directed toward his team, however, and makes certain they hear all of them.

"Somebody on a radio talk show said the (Houston) Oilers defense couldn't stop Rice and the show host said 'don't put them that low,'" Alborn said, his usual good cheer wearing thin. "I hope the players hear all of it and get their bellies full of it."

Rice's 12-game string, which started in the final game of the 1981 season with a loss to the Cougars, is second only to the 13-game streak set by Kent State.

Houston finished with a disappointing 5-5-1 record last year, and will also be trying to erase some bad memories from the 1982 season.

The Cougars defeated the Owls 28-21 to close out last season but they were beaten by Texas, Southern Methodist and Arkansas, the top three teams in the SWC, by a combined score of 108-17 that included a 50-0 shutout by the Longhorns.

The two teams agreed to play on Thursday to allow Houston to face SMU Nov. 26 in the Mirage Bowl in Tokyo.

"It sounded like a good idea at the time but the closer to game time the worse it sounds," Alborn said. "We've both got some question marks but we should have some answers by about 11 o'clock Thursday night."

Rangers look sharp

DETROIT (AP) - Texas has lost eight of its last 10 ballgames, but the Rangers showed Manager Doug Rader some grit against the Detroit Tigers.

George Wright and Dave Hostetler each hit homers Wednesday night and the Texas defense turned a club-record five double plays as the Rangers beat the Tigers 5-1.

The defeat dropped the Tigers - who committed three errors - four games behind the front-running Baltimore Orioles in the American League East as Baltimore rolled over the Toronto Blue Jays 10-2.

"It wasn't much offense, but it was what we had," Rader said, totaling up the Rangers' eight hits. "I had a feeling about Hostetler. Put it this way: he was the best of my options."

Hostetler, who got a rare start against a right-hander, also had an RBI double.

"I was thinking I might get to play, because Billy Sample has been hurt," Hostetler said. "I came to the park early to get myself ready and it paid off."

Wright hit his 15th homer in the first inning, a shot into the lower right field seats, and Hostetler hit his 10th homer in the second.

In the Texas fifth, Mickey Rivers hit a two-out single, stole second and scored on Buddy Bell's single to deep short. Detroit shortstop Alan Trammell made the long throw trying to get Bell, and Rivers never stopped, sliding in under first baseman Enos Cabell's

SDN Sports Editor

Dunnam was inaccurate. His column Sunday does not depict the way a sportswriter would handle an obituary. At least, not this writer. The following is more accurate

John Dunnam, former small-time reporter for The Snyder Daily News, put on his house shoes for the last time today, the victim of self-induced video psychosis that had turned his brain into jelly.

Dunnam's body was found in front of a Super Cobra machine at the Snyder Recreation Center, a quarter still clutched tightly in his right hand. He had apparently lapsed into a catatonic state after failing to negotiate stage 9 for the 51st straight time.

Dunnam, who forsook himself as a womanizer but in actuality was little more than a common bum, was sadly still attending college on a regular basis at age 34. His major was listed as "undecided."

He was best known throughout West Texas night clubs as the man who tried to pass off his house slippers as "Italian shoes."

Though he still attempted to scribble a weekly column until his demise, his few acquaintances said he was spending more and more time shoving quarters into the Super Cobra machine. Rumors that he went from streetcorner to streetcorner begging quarters for his habit cannot be supported.

Actually, JD is somewhere between Lubbock and Portland, Ore. at this moment, taking one of his frequent vacations - a truly amazing feat when considered that he only works about 10 days out of each month.

Predictions, predictions, predictions.

Here we are folks, down to count zero. Today begins the weekly Sagacious Sideline Selections feature, which I'm sure you've all been waiting for. Lest the amount of space runs out too soon, let us go over the first week's picks.

Snyder at Big Spring: It's an always tough battle between two teams trying to break out of losing slumps. Big Spring has won the last three games by a total of only five points (14-13, 14-13 and 9-6). If it's evened out, you want, be in Big Spring at 8 p.m. Friday. It also be the year for the Tigers to break out on top. it...SNYDER 21, BIG SPRING 14.

Andrews at Seminole: Surely you jest. No problem here. ANDREWS 27, SEMINOLE 7.

Canutillo at Fort Stockton: Another easy pick. Panthers are strong. Canutillo is not. FT. STOCKTON 21, CANUTILLO 6.

Lamesa at Levelland: Getting tougher, but still problem. The Lobos will come out on top year. LEVELLAND 14, LAMESA 13.

Monahans at Eastwood: Monahans should be good but Eastwood will be better. EASTWOOD 20, MONAHANS 6.

Riverside at Pecos: Ditto for this contest. RIVERSIDE 23, PECOS 14.

Lake View at Del Rio: Del Rio shouldn't be close. LAKE VIEW 21, DEL RIO 0.

Wylie at Sweetwater: Where do they get these ponies? SWEETWATER 30, WYLIE 7.

Ira at Divide: The Bulldogs start off strong. IRA 12, DIVIDE 12.

Hermleigh: Wellman is not a good first-opponent for the Cardinals, who are lacking experience. WELLMAN 45, HERMLEIGH 28.

Borden County: It'll take time for the Coyotes to get a tough early schedule doesn't help. DAWSON 18, BORDEN 18.

THE COLLEGIANS: Pick the Aggies to take California 21-7; Houston to boil Rice 34-14; SMU to do Louisville 34-7; Georgia to out-point UCLA 17-14; Pittsburgh to handle Tennessee, 27-14.

THE PROS: Pittsburgh will bruise Denver 35-7. Green Bay will upend Houston 21-17, the Giants somehow tag the Rams 14-10 and Miami will hold Buffalo 18-14.
