

New Police Chief And Assistants

Day Captain M. L. Kirby, left, and Night Captain Jack Tranum look on as C. L. Rogers, newly appointed chief of police, looks over plans. Rogers was installed as chief at a special ceremony in the city courtroom Monday. He immediately appointed Kirby and Tranum to the captain posts. Kirby was captain under Chief E. W. York, who resigned, and Tranum was night sergeant under Rogers when the latter was night captain.

AT INSTALLATION

New Police Chief Appoints Captains

"You are following in the steps of a very good chief of police, but I think you are capable of handling the job."

Herbert Whitney, Big Spring city manager, congratulated C. L. Rogers after swearing him in as the new chief of police Monday afternoon in the city courtroom. All the police force were on hand for the ceremony, which Whitney said was the first such installation.

As Rogers prepared to take the oath, he asked the rest of the force to stand with him. In a short speech, he named two appointments and asked the assistance and cooperation of all the men in carrying out his duties.

He appointed Capt. M. L. Kirby to the day captain post and Sgt. Jack Tranum to the night captain position. Kirby has been in the department longer than any other man and was day captain and assistant chief under E. W. York, former police chief.

Kirby came to work on the force as a patrolman in May 1947. In 1952, he was promoted to day captain. He has attended the A&M college law enforcement school.

Tranum came to the department in October, 1954. Prior to coming here, he worked on the Midland force about 4 1/2 years. He also attended the A&M school. Whitney told the assembled officers that the public expected four things from the police department: unquestioned honesty, fair and impartial law enforcement, fair treatment to everyone, and courtesy toward the public.

He asked that the department maintain the good record established by the previous police chief. Mayor G. W. Dabney asked that the officers cooperate with the new chief and do the best work each is capable of. He said he realized that economic reasons have caused a large turnover in personnel.

Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, said the policeman's job is not an easy one. But, he said, service to the community is more important than financial gain. Dr. Lloyd said one reason for the gathering Monday afternoon to install a new chief was because of the lack of money.

Dr. Lloyd closed the meeting with a prayer.

Members of the sheriff's department and County Attorney Harvey Hooser were on hand at the meeting to offer Rogers congratulations. He received pledges of cooperation and assistance from both offices. Rogers said he would appoint a night sergeant at a later date.

Ford Places Stock Price At $64.50

WASHINGTON (AP)—A price of $64.50 a share was placed today on tomorrow's vast public offering of Ford Motor Co. stock.

The Ford Foundation, Inc., will reap $642,000,000 from the biggest corporate equity financing in history.

The price was reported to the Securities and Exchange Commission as the final legal step required before the 10,200,000 common shares are offered tomorrow morning.

The underwriters—some 122 securities firms across the country—have reported almost unprecedented investor interest in the issue which admits the public into co-ownership with the heirs of the company founder, the late Henry Ford.

The price was supplied by an amendment to the original Ford registration statement filed with SEC last Dec. 21 as required by law to protect investors.

The commission will meet this afternoon to consider the prospectus. It is expected to clear the issue speedily. The stock then can be listed for trading on the New York, Detroit, and other major exchanges.

The price actually was set late yesterday by the seven co-managers of the huge offering. While the public will pay $64.50 for each of the new shares, the Ford Foundation, owner and seller of the stock, will receive $63 a share. The difference goes into discounts and commissions paid to the underwriters and investment dealers.

The total of such discounts and issue will be $15,300,000 reducing by that much the net return to the sellers. The public will pay a total of $57,900,000.

The Ford Foundation intends to reinvest in other securities so that its income will no longer depend solely on earnings of the Ford Co.

The Foundation is a charitable trust with the stated aim of "advancing human welfare."

The Ford Co., has said its directors intend to declare a dividend of 60 cents a share in the first quarter of this year. If this dividend should be continued quarterly the investor $2.40 annually.

Based on a $2.40 annual yield, the investor would receive a little more than 3.7 per cent on his money put in Ford stock.

Today's filing ended a nationwide guessing game as to the offering price. Most recent guesses have ranged between $60 and $75. The figure finally chosen prices the new shares at a level roughly comparable—in relation to recent earnings—to General Motors and Chrysler common stock.

President Henry Ford II, in a recent statement apparently prompted by the extraordinary presale demand for a piece of the pioneer auto firm, told investors they should not expect quick riches. He said the industry is hotly competitive and he is "reasonably sure" auto production and sales this year will not match the record of nearly eight million cars set in 1955.

Nevertheless, investment firms have reported a demand so great that a top limit of 200 shares a person has been set. At the outset only 100 will be permitted to a customer. Many investment firms are rationing the shares at two or three to the customer.

Probers Told Insolvency No Issue In Surety Action

Insurance Chief Talks At Hearing

AUSTIN (AP)—Insurance Commission Chairman Byron Saunders testified today that receivership action against U.S. Trust and Guaranty was begun to protect creditors—not because the company was considered insolvent.

"The fact of insolvency has not even been determined as of yet," Saunders told Senate investigators. Saunders was the first witness as the Senate committee resumed a hearing disrupted last week. He read a statement which he called a chronological account "of facts and of the actions" of the Insurance Commission with reference to U.S. Trust and Guaranty and U.S. Automotive Service Co.

Both firms, headed by A. B. Shoemaker of Waco, were thrown into receivership last month. Shoemaker since then has shot himself through the head and is in a critical condition.

Defending the commission against criticism that it took too long to act against U.S. Trust and its affiliates, Saunders said the critics "have been looking backward in retrospect, rather than in prospect, and have done a great deal of Sunday morning quarterbacking."

The committee on a ruling by Chairman William F. Victoria barred television cameras. Saunders said a question about the "very unusual type of operation" engaged in by U.S. Trust and Guaranty as a combination banking and insurance firm arose as early as March 1954.

He said the state auditor called attention to "the irregularity of the U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co., and that it was thought to be a good idea to have a conference with reference to the unique banking and trust operations of this company."

Saunders detailed conferences, hearings and examinations which extended through the rest of 1954 and most of 1955 before the commission decided receivership action should be taken.

During all this period of surveillance, he said, figures available to the commission indicated U.S. Trust and Guaranty was "liquid at all times" and "was capable of meeting current demands, both as to withdrawals and as to payment of its liabilities."

"The company was likewise solvent at all times, as shown by the books and records of the U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co.; and the fact of insolvency has not even been determined as of yet, but the solvency of the U.S. Trust and Guaranty depended, and now depends, on the assets of the U.S. Automotive Service," said Saunders.

Recalling testimony of the state auditor at the receivership hearing last month, Saunders said that after "removing all the water" in U.S. Automotive Service's assets, the auditors believed "that the assets of the U.S. Automotive Service would total approximately five million dollars."

"If this is true, then the combined assets of U.S. Trust and Guaranty would nearly equal or exceed its liabilities, including depositors' funds," testified Saunders.

He said "the figure quite often used of seven million-dollar debatable assets" was "a gross figure."

Saunders pointed out that Tom Robinson, an examiner for the commission, had testified to a seven million dollar insolvency figure in the receivership hearing but had explained that no credit at all was given to the assets of U.S. Automotive Service.

Robinson had said he did not consider that such assets were admissible for insurance accounting purposes. "However, what assets were there are still there," said Saunders, "and in the final disbursement to the creditors of U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co., they will receive the benefit of such assets."

C-C Directors Give Boost To Industrial Plan

Chamber of Commerce directors, punched with some blunt talk, pushed the industrial foundation proposal off high center Monday.

J. H. Greene, manager, was instructed to file application for a foundation charter on a membership basis. This would permit participation by the rank and file of people in any amount rather than restricting them to minimums, as has been the case under a stock arrangement.

Greene had lashed out at what he called the fallacious idea that "there is yet time." He said that the time for action was now; that procrastination once had cost the city dearly and set the oil headquarters movement westward.

He spoke after Leroy Tidwell and Roy Reeder urged that the foundation idea, stalled out since last week when initial pledges of support were appointing, not be allowed to die.

"It's not just a matter of money alone," declared Reeder. "The idea of concerted effort is worth something."

"If we could just get 15 men talking and working toward a common goal it would be worth the effort it took," J. B. Wiginton added.

Reeder said that the industrial foundation was no guarantee that more industries would be attracted and that more payrolls would come. But many cities in this region which have accomplished most in that direction have had either private or group arrangements to offer package industrial deals, he said.

Greene pleaded for vigorous action. "If we try with all our might and fail, we are not one iota worse off than we are now. If we don't try, we deserve to fail."

Directors gave unanimous approval to a request that the Big Spring Chamber lend its support to a proposal by Borden and Garway, Inc., that Gail and Post City be connected by a highway. A delegation was authorized to support these two counties in their appeal at Austin Wednesday.

Col. Charles M. Young, Webb AFB commander, announced that a group of possible apartments or houses which can be rented to make them available for the student officers at Webb AFB. In December, more than three dozen living quarters were made available in response to these pleas.

Dan Krause, membership chairman, said a final campaign will be launched Jan. 24 to complete membership rolls prior to the annual banquet Feb. 14. He introduced Dr. Roy C. Sloan, Big Spring State Hospital Superintendent, and Q. M. Taylor, manager of the Howard House as new members.

C-City Chamber Slates Banquet

COLORADO CITY — Dr. Philip Williams, Dallas Dental surgeon, will speak to Chamber of Commerce guests at the annual meeting Thursday night in Colorado City's Civic House.

Dr. Williams, active in Dallas civic affairs, speaks on the philosophy of life and living and has been a well-known after-dinner speaker since World War II, in which he served for six years. Dr. Williams will be introduced by Dr. R. D. Bridgford, Colorado City dentist.

District Attorney Eldon Mahon will serve as master of ceremonies and music will be furnished by Mrs. James E. Payne and the High School Mixed Chorus directed by Curtis Baker.

Joe Bell, outgoing president, will introduce new officers, including incoming president H. I. Bernstein; Bill Handie, first vice president; Sam Majors Jr., second vice president; Pat Bullock, secretary, and Gus Chesney, treasurer. Also to be introduced to Chamber of Commerce members is Bill Quimby, 26, who is manager of the Fort Stockton Chamber of Commerce at present, but will assume similar duties in Colorado City on Feb. 1,

Engineers Stand By In Flood Areas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Engineers kept watchful eyes and constant patrols on the raging Feather River at Yuba City today as other areas in the state counted fresh flood losses.

Major new damage appeared to be at two coastal resort villages, Bolinas and Sausalito, both in Marin County, which yesterday was included in flood disaster areas by President Eisenhower.

Although Yuba City's 9,000 people were spared a second flooding, Col. John J. Livingstone, Air Force engineer, said the levee at Shanghai Bend where the big Christmas break occurred "is still a frail sister."

The combined Feather and Yuba rivers, draining a huge watershed on the western slope of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, crested at 68.3 feet yesterday and were falling gradually. The weather was clear and crisp.

But the dike at Shanghai Bend is new, built hastily after the Christmas floods with anything at hand. A stiff wind whipped waves to within six inches of the top in spots.

Beale Air Force Base soldiers worked in short shifts, stopping leaks with tarpaulins and sandbags as fast as they appeared. The dike was so shaky they could use no mechanized equipment.

"If the water had gone up another three or four inches I hate to think of what would have happened," said Robert Paillex, director of the Sutter County Levee Control District. The only thing, he said, that saved Yuba City from another flooding like the one Christmas week which cost 33 lives and $75,000,000 damage was "a miracle—and the boys from Camp Beale."

Northern California's Christmas week flood toll was at least 62 dead and more than 500 million dollars damage.

Late last night the Air Force rushed 150 men to Verona, where a weak spot developed in the Sacramento River levee above Sacramento. This is just below the junction of the Sacramento and the swollen Feather - Yuba combined flow.

U.N. Decision Nearing On Israeli Attack

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Israel and Syria readied more arguments on their bitter Galilee dispute today as the U.N. Security Council neared a decision on the Dec. 11 raid that claimed 56 Syrian lives.

Word spread that Israel would turn down any suggestion that she pay voluntary damages for loss of Syrian life and property in the raid on Syrian posts along the north-east shore of the Sea of Galilee.

Israel sources let this be known as the Western Big Three worked over a resolution which reportedly calls on the U.N. secretary to study how such compensation could be levied. All 11 council members already have agreed that Israel should be censured strongly for the attack.

Fairris Decision Is Due Late Today

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Criminal Court of Appeals will not announce its decision on the latest attempt of Hurlie Fairris Jr., to escape the electric chair until late today.

Judge Dick Jones, presiding, told of the delay after the court took under consideration the three-page writ for habeas corpus from Fairris. Written in the death row at the penitentiary, it was delivered just before the court closed yesterday.

The Dallas gunman, 22, is scheduled to be electrocuted at 12:01 a.m. tomorrow.

Although no word came from the court, it appeared doubtful that Fairris would get a reprieve from his latest appeal.

Hope was about gone for the Dallas convict, 22, after unsuccessful pleas to Gov. Raymond Gary by his parents for a stay of execution. Fairris sent his own handwritten writ of habeas corpus petition to the appeals court seeking a reversal of the conviction.

Fairris was convicted of the murder of Ben Cravatt during an attempted supermarket holdup July 16, 1954.

His original date of execution was Nov. 18, 1955, but Gary granted a 60-day stay after an accomplice in the holdup, Raymond Price, 25, told two prison chaplains that he, not Fairris, fired the fatal shots.

Fairris Sr. said his son admitted he had a gun during the robbery. This has been denied repeatedly by the young hoodlum. Price, present at the interview with the elder Fairris and the chaplain, repeated his earlier contention that he had fired the shot.

Price said that when he was shot in the supermarket, he threw his gun across to Fairris. Fairris said when he stooped to pick up the weapon, his own gun fell from his waistband onto the floor. He said he left it there and it was the gun officers found and thought to be Price's.

Fairris said he threw Price's gun from a car near Shawnee where he later was arrested.

Gary received a letter earlier in the day from Fairris' mother, serving 5 years for the murder of her third husband in the Goree State Prison for Women near Huntsville. She asked for a 90-day stay of execution. Fairris Sr. said at Oklahoma City last night he hopes the governor will allow his son enough time to see his mother again. The mother, Mrs. Margie Zedden, is scheduled for release April 5. Gary said earlier today that "The way I feel now, the case is closed."

COUNTY TAX PROBLEM

Other County Funds Can Share Surpluses

(This is the third in a series of articles dealing with the proposition to authorize reallocation of county tax funds, to be voted on Saturday.)

Granted that Howard County's general fund needs a larger share of the revenues, what about the other funds, from which some of the tax would be taken? Provided, of course, the proposal for reallocation is approved at the polls Saturday.

It is proposed to take 4 cents from the road and bridge fund. That fund ended 1955 with a surplus of $41,731.90, while the general fund was going in the red more than $9,000. County officials feel that there will be sufficient money to meet all road and bridge needs under the projected new rate. It was just last year that Howard County got the maximum it can get from the state auto registration fees — $175,000. It is due to continue receiving that much money, and the R&B should continue to strengthen.

It is proposed to take 3 cents from the permanent improvement fund. This had a balance of over $1,500 at the end of the year, and should share in any increases in valuations that develop normally as the county grows. Here again, the fiscal chiefs of the county say this fund will get along satisfactorily.

It is proposed to take 8 cents from the jury fund. This fund had a Dec. 31 balance of $2,252.82, and is due to accumulate more this year because of an increased levy made last year. It can well get along on a reduced levy, say the officials.

So, a total of 15 cents would come out of these three constitutional funds. The monies from that part of your tax rate to be turned into the general fund.

It is a balancing of income against outgo practiced practically everywhere except in Texas county governments, which are tied down by constitutional provisions that have not been changed since the state charter was written in 1876.

Other taxing governmental agencies — the city and the school, for example — draw their budgets, then allocate the tax dollar to meet the various divisions and items in the budget. The county government still labors under a system devised 80 years ago.

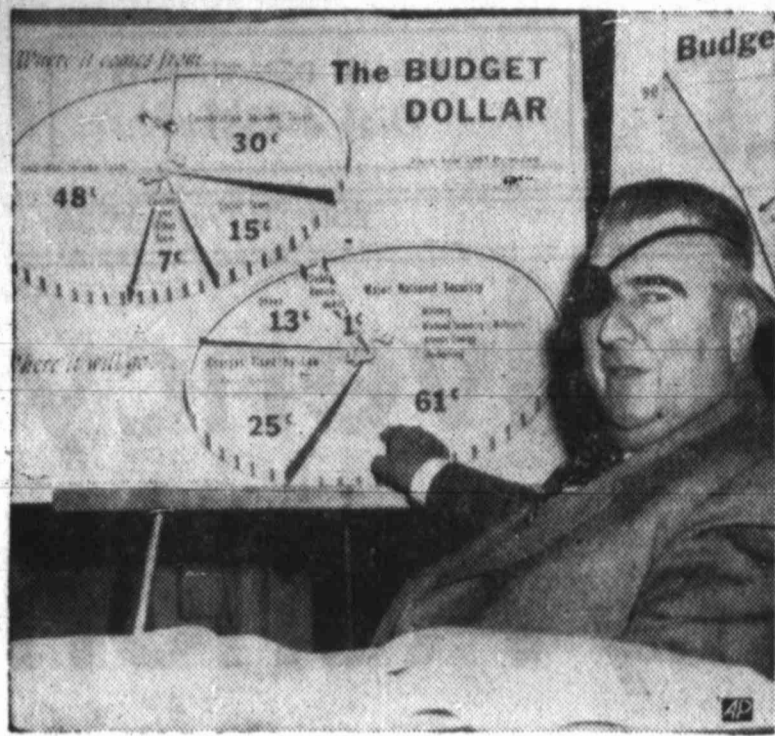

It is not a pressing problem with Howard County alone. Nearly all counties face it, and a great number have gone to the people for approval at the polls to modernize the system. Dawson, Taylor and Runnels are some in West Texas. And the report from them is that a vast improvement has been made in the overall fiscal picture.

Director With Budget Chart

Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes poses in Washington with a chart showing where the money is expected to come from and where it is expected to go during the fiscal year beginning next July 1. The chart was prepared by the Budget Bureau for use with President Eisenhower's budget to Congress on Jan. 16.

SAYS ELLENDER

Farm Price Costs 'Underestimated'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said today it appears to him the administration may be trying to "balance the budget on paper" by underestimating farm price support costs in the next year.

President Eisenhower, in his budget sent to Congress yesterday, estimated price support losses for the bookkeeping year which starts next July 1 at $1,591,000,000. This is 485 million less than the estimated losses for the current year.

The over-all surplus predicted by the President for the coming year was 435 million. It would thus be wiped out if farm price support costs as much as is estimated this year.

Ellender told a reporter he supposed the Agriculture Department was guessing that the milk program and others responsible for heavy farm price support losses in the past would "work better next year."

"But I doubt if they will," he said. "It seems to me the losses are going to be about as big next year as in the past year."

In testimony prepared for the Senate Agriculture Committee, Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) urged creation of an agency to get rid of the more than eight billion dollars of government-held farm surpluses, through gifts if necessary. Congress must do something about "the desperate plight of the American farmer," he said, adding:

"It is my firm conviction that the single most direct cause of the current unreasonably low farm prices is the huge inventories of government-owned or pledged farm surpluses that currently overwhelm the market."

He said "there are millions of underfed and underclothed people" in the free world "who desperately need the surplus commodities that have created so unfortunate an economic problem for us."

The committee plans a week of hearings on the farm problem, then has promised to go to work promptly to write a bill.

Driver's 20-Year Lucky Streak Ends

OMAHA (AP)—Clifford Crowder, 40, of Pineville, Mo., drove, he told police, for 20 years without an accident.

Yesterday, he had one. His cab and trailer sideswiped a panel truck. Crowder put bricks under the wheels and set the emergency brake, then went to telephone his boss.

The emergency brake failed. The vehicle crushed the bricks and was off on a rolling spree. Seven parked cars were knocked around and a power pole felled before the vehicle stopped.

Said Crowder: "Well, anyway, nobody got hurt." Police charged him with "leaving an unattended vehicle."

City Threatened By Water Losses

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—An ice jam on the St. Clair River joining Lakes Huron and St. Clair, has dropped water levels in Lake St. Clair and threatens the water supply of three southeastern Michigan communities.

The Coast Guard said the jam extends 25 miles up river and is 28 feet thick in places.

The ice pack has backed up water in Lake Huron which normally would flow into Lake St. Clair. Lowering Lake St. Clair water levels threaten to drop below intake valves leading to filtration plants in Mount Clemens, Fair Haven and New Baltimore. The three communities are located along Anchor Bay on the north shore of Lake St. Clair.

Injured Student To Leave Hospital

Roland McKenzie, high school senior, was to be released from Big Spring Hospital today after treatment for mild concussion and a head wound suffered in a physical education class Monday.

Young McKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. McKenzie of the VA Hospital, bumped into another student and struck his head on the gym floor during a basketball game. Several stitches were required to close the wound.

Peron Girl Friend Released By Cops

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Nelda (Nelly) Rivas, teen-age protégée of Juan D. Peron, reportedly has been released by police on her promise not to try to join the former President in exile.

The police nabbed 16-year-old Nelly and her parents near the Paraguayan border Saturday. It was believed they were on the way to Peron in Panama. The family was held on grounds identification papers were not in order.

They're Not 'Cops' in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Please, the city council urges, don't call 'em cops.

A resolution adopted unanimously yesterday says: "Law enforcement officers, generally, resent being called 'cops' and consider it derogatory and tending to lower the public's respect for their profession as guardians of the public safety."

Atom Sub Marks 1st Anniversary Of Test

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—Sharply at 11 a.m. a year ago today a big submarine sidled from a dock on the Thames River and kicked up a wake.

Two minutes later, the signalman on her deck flashed out a message to a submarine rescue vessel off her starboard:

"Underway on nuclear power." The world's first atomic-powered submarine, the Nautilus, worked. In the year since she pushed down the Thames and into Long Island Sound on her maiden voyage the Nautilus has built up an impressive record.

Part of that record was released by the Navy yesterday. The Nautilus has averaged a dive a day in her first year of operations. She also has:

Traveled 26,231.3 nautical miles on 75 cruises without refueling.

Traveled submerged for more than half that distance, 13,140.7 miles.

Visited six ports from Portsmouth, N. H., to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

Sailed for 8 days and 14 hours without stopping.

Traveled underwater for 3 days, 17 hours and 14 minutes.

Made a 1,300-mile voyage from here to San Juan, Puerto Rico, totally submerged at an average speed of more than 16 knots. That wasn't all she could do, the Navy said. It added that statistics "that cannot be released for security reasons are far more impressive."

No Incidents In First Integration

COLUMBIA, Ky. (AP)—Adair County's 17 Negro high school students are adjusting to new surroundings — white teachers and white classmates.

Kentucky's first court-ordered integration was accomplished yesterday without an incident.

Joe James, principal of Adair County Consolidated High School, called a private meeting with the new students after they arrived on a school bus. He told them they would be assigned to classes as soon as their records were checked. Integration in the county's only high school was ordered by Federal Judge Mac Swinford with a Feb. 1 deadline. A suit demanding the action was filed by James Crumlin, a Louisville attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

THINGS GET HOT IN COURT

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Things really got hot in court yesterday. Something happened over the weekend to the heating system in a building that houses 10 superior courts. When the judges arrived, the temperature was somewhere in the 120's.

"The doorknobs and railings were so hot we couldn't touch them," said Judge Wallace L. Ware.

Hallway doors and windows were opened and fans turned on. And there were frequent recesses so gasping litigants and jurors could visit water coolers.

Coleman Takes Governor's Seat

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman, 42, takes the oath of office today as one of the state's youngest governors.

The ceremony marks the pinnacle of success for a farm boy who paid for his first semester at the Ole Miss law school with a sack of sweet potatoes he harvested.

In 17 years, by the time he was 36, Coleman had risen to attorney general, stepping from district attorney to circuit judge and to Supreme Court justice along the way.

Byrd Reminds Reds We Got There First

ABOARD USS WYANDOT, McMurdo Sound, Antarctica (AP)—Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd has welcomed the Russians to the antarctic's Wilkes Land with a subtle reminder that the Americans got to much of it first.

The director of U.S. antarctic programs disclosed that he had sent a message to Dr. M. M. Samov, leader of the Soviet expedition aboard the ship Obrol, which reportedly reached the Knox coast Jan. 8.

Byrd's message was a courtesy gesture. But it was also clear that the Russians were being told American fliers of Operation Deepfreeze already had flown over the area assigned to the Soviets under the program of scientific observation.

This could be significant when and if the United States lays claims to the large slices of the antarctic it has explored in recent weeks. Thus far the U.S. government says it has made no claims and recognizes none.

"I welcome you to Wilkes Land," the message said. "Hope you are having good luck finding your IGY base site. We recently flew over interior in vicinity of your planned inland bases, surface does not appear rough but glacial plateau ranges between 11,000 to 13,000 feet elevation. We would like to exchange weather information..."

U. S. Navy fliers flew four missions deep into the unexplored area where the Russians are scheduled to set up their bases. One of these flights, on Jan. 5, went all the way to the Knox coast.

Common Schools Get $4,424.87 In Taxes During December

Collections of county school taxes during December totaled $4,424.87, the county school superintendent's office has announced. Vealmoor got the biggest chunk of the total.

Vealmoor current taxes totaled $1,682.63, with supplemental revenue coming to $163.46. Delinquent tax from the Cauble district go into the Elbow fund, and those collections during the past month were $7.43.

Gay Hill's current tax total for the month was $1,144.99, supplemental taxes totaled $49.74, and delinquent revenue amounted to $39.31.

Current taxes in the Center Point district for December were $219.40, and Midway's total was $153.85. Elbow drew $392.93 in current revenue and $572.93 in supplemental taxes.

Robinson Drunk Trial Set Feb. 29

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Trial of Edward G. Robinson Jr., 22, on a charge of plain drunk has been set for Feb. 29 and his ball continued at $20.

The son of the motion picture actor pleaded innocent yesterday. He was arrested last Friday night while waiting to board a plane for New York for a meeting with his father. A policeman said young Robinson tried to punch him.

Senate Leaders Take A Look

Ike Has Quieted, For A Time, Demands For Tax Reductions

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower appeared today to have quieted for the present at least demands in Congress for a general tax reduction in this election year. But his requests for an increase in appropriations drew fire from many Democrats. Republicans, on the other hand, praised his estimates that the budget will be balanced.

With Eisenhower urging "prudence" on tax slashing that would unbalance the budget, Democrats for the most part adopted a cautious attitude until first-quarter tax receipts are counted and the revenue picture jells.

Eisenhower yesterday sent to Congress a balanced budget for this year and next based on continuation of present tax rates.

His figures called for government income of $64,500,000,000 and outgo of $64,270,000,000, with a surplus of 230 millions, in this bookkeeping year ending June 30.

For the following year, ending June 30, 1957, he estimated federal income at $66,300,000,000 against spending of $65,865,000,000, for a surplus of 435 millions.

He told Congress the surplus should go toward reducing the national debt, and asked for "the utmost cooperation" in keeping the government in the black.

Sen. George (D-Ga), an advocate of tax reduction for taxpayers in the low and middle-income groups, said, "We'll have to wait until the figures are in for the first quarter of the year."

"Nobody wants a tax cut if it's going to create a deficit," he said, but added: "I'm still very hopeful we can have a tax cut."

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee said he was disappointed because the budget offered "no hope, no prospect whatever of a reduction in taxes."

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee said he is "disturbed and disappointed" by increased government spending based "on the premise, apparently, that the present boom will continue, and this no one can predict."

GOP House Leader Martin of Massachusetts called the prospective balanced budget "a major achievement." Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, said Eisenhower "has made good the balanced budget pledge."

Meanwhile, an income tax relief bill for farmers was introduced by Rep. Cooper (R-Tenn) in what appeared to be a counter to Eisenhower's proposal to exempt from the 2-cents-a-gallon federal tax gasoline used on farms.

Advocating more "direct and immediate" farm relief, Cooper proposed a new optional income tax deduction to benefit farmers grossing less than $10,000 a year.

British Laud Ike's Budget

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers praised President Eisenhower today for his budget message insisting that defense and foreign aid must come before tax cuts.

Moscow radio commented that "military expenditure has the pride of place in the new budget." The Soviet mouthpiece declared: "The burden of taxation shouldered by the American population continued to be tremendous mainly owing to the government's colossal military expenditure."

The Conservative London Daily Telegraph said, "Peace has depended in the past and still depends on American willingness to fight." It remarked that the President's budget statement "shows he continues to be ready to shoulder this inescapable duty."

The Independent Times commented that the increase in estimates for foreign aid and defense spending "must be a disappointment to the American taxpayer though the state of the world makes it inevitable."

Israeli Premier Asks Luxury Ban, Larger Defenses

JERUSALEM (AP)—A four-point preparedness program to bolster Israel against the threat of Arab attack is being pushed by Premier David Ben-Gurion's Mapai party.

The plan, drawn up to counter the feared effects of Communist arms shipments to the Arab states, would place Israel on a near-war-time austerity footing.

The program, which will be debated in Israel's Parliament, would:

1. Remove all luxuries from Israel's economy.
2. Launch an extensive civil defense program.
3. Mobilize more manpower in the higher age groups for farm work and bar persons of military age from leaving the country.
4. Levy a defense tax to finance a program including a new advisory national defense council.

Texas To Get $16,781,000 In Like School Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas would get about $16,781,000 U.S. funds yearly for school construction under President Eisenhower's proposed program, the Department of Welfare estimated yesterday.

The tentative figures show this would be the largest federal grant with the smallest being Nevada's $153,000.

A spokesman emphasized the figures are based on latest statistics and that if Congress approves the program as presented "the final figures would be different from these."

Twelve states stand to be penalized by a reduction in their federal grants because they are said to have lagged behind other states in construction. They would be Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, Ohio, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee.

The state would be required after the first year of the proposed five-year program to put up a maximum of $244,354,000 a year to match the proposed 250 million dollar federal fund. This would make a combined federal-state grant of at least $494,354,000 yearly.

Texas would be required to match the tentative federal allotment with $11,661,000 for a total of $28,442,000 yearly.

During the first year, either local districts or the states could put up the required matching funds.

Car Theft Nearly 'Airplane Theft'

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A fugitive from Illinois charged with three car thefts told police it could have been "airplane theft."

Charles Schultz, 18, of Galesburg, Ill., told officers after his capture yesterday he and a man he knew only as "Bill" escaped Wednesday from the Vandavia Penal Farm.

He said each of them tried to take a plane from a small airport near the penal farm but couldn't start them.

Instead, he said, they made their way to Kentucky in stolen cars.

AN INVITATION... to the man who is driving any car in the medium-price class

How you can own a bigger, more powerful Chrysler Windsor V-8 for the cost of a medium-priced car

Frankly, we believe you will find that the Chrysler Windsor is the only real luxury car that sells at a medium price... a car far in advance of its contemporaries and ahead of its time. We would like to put you behind the wheel of this car... because we've found from actual comparative demonstrations that 3 out of 4 open-minded men who drive a Chrysler for the first time prefer it to anything else.

There are many reasons. In the first place, the 1956 Chrysler is the only car in its price class that has been completely restyled this year. It has that "hair-trigger" look for which designers have been striving many years. We call it "PowerStyle."

But there's more to the Chrysler story than styling. There's power... more power to pass safely when necessary... more power to drive without effort... more power to stop.

There is not a car on the road today as completely power-operated as the "PowerStyle" Chrysler. Its PowerFlite transmission is controlled by pushbuttons... the

Trees, Shrubs, Grass Should Be Watered

By ANNE LEFEVER

As you didn't know it, we are in the midst of a drought, and it is most important to water trees, shrubs and grass at this time.

Important, too, is that the watering is a deep soaking rather than just a shallow dampening. This deep watering will help guard against freezing during the next cold spell.

Weeds are coming up now, in the lawn, and this is the time to start war on them. Getting rid of them before they are strong will be easier at this time than if you wait until later.

Since there is not too much to be done on the garden and yard this month, it's a good time to plan for the coming season. Map out your planting scheme; get out the garden tools and equipment and repair or paint them. Perhaps some sharpening would make your work lighter.

Don't delay in the planting of trees and shrubs. The sooner they begin to take root, the better they will stand the heat of the summer. A delayed New Year's resolution might be that you will clean off the flower beds, spade and fertilize them and make preparation for the seeds or tiny plants to be placed there.

Don't touch those pruning shears yet! Pruning will start now, which may be frozen later. Spray fruit trees now with a dormant spray before the buds begin to show. Choose a still, bright day for this operation.

Check the bulbs that you planted for forcing. Those of narcissus and hyacinth may be brought into the house at two-week intervals to provide continuous bloom. If the flower spikes of the hyacinths appear too short, a cone of paper placed over them for several days will make them grow longer.

Examine the bulbs that you placed in a dark-closet for forcing. If the green shoots are about an inch high, the pots may be brought out into the light. Acustom them gradually to the light, and then give enough water and sun to encourage their growth.

Other house plants should be given a little extra attention this month. Plenty of water should be supplied at the roots to overcome the drying effect of the heat in the house. The plants may be given a little food, too, but not enough to burn them. Apply it away from the stalk.

Care should be taken to give the plant just as much water as it will absorb at the roots. Rotting of the roots may be caused by letting it stand with "wet feet." Usually, a saucer of water is enough for begonias. A paper placed over a cyclamen at night will help it hold the moisture.

Hardy annuals, such as larkspur, cornflowers, pinks, alyssum and calendula may be planted. Make additional plantings a little later to extend the blooms well into the spring.

ONE-BOWL RECIPES FOR OLD-FASHIONED HOMEMADE CAKE

ONE-BOWL CAKE TIPS
Always use double-acting baking powder and soft, emulsifier-type shortening. Start heating oven to specified temperature before you begin to mix.

BANANA-NUT CAKE
SIFT together into large mixing bowl, 2 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1 1/2 cups Imperial Granulated Sugar, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt. Add 1/2 cup soft shortening, 1 1/4 cups (about 3) sieved bananas and 1/2 cup buttermilk. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed 2 minutes. Add 1/2 cup more buttermilk, 1/2 cup unbleached eggs (2 large), 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat 2 minutes longer. Fold in 1/2 cup chopped nuts.

POUR into 2 paper-lined 9" x 1 1/2" round pans. Bake at 350° F. 30 to 35 minutes.

FROST WITH BROWN SUGAR 7-MINUTE FROSTING: Combine in top of double boiler, 1 1/2 cups Imperial Brown Sugar, firmly packed, 1/2 cup cold water, 2 egg whites, unbeaten. Place over boiling water (water should not touch upper part of double boiler). Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer for 7 minutes. Remove from water. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Continue beating until mixture stands up in stiff peaks.

*MIXING BY HAND: With spoon, beat briskly for same time periods as above. Use full sweeping strokes around the bowl, cutting through the center every 5 or 10 strokes. Allow 150 strokes per minute.

GOOD BAKING NOTES
1. Assemble all ingredients and utensils before you start to mix.
2. Prepare baking pans as directed. Be sure pans are the specified size. Accurate measurement of ingredients is important. Sift flour before measuring it.
3. Stagger pans in oven. Do not allow to touch each other or oven walls.
4. When baking time is up, lightly touch center of cake. If cake springs back and no imprint remains, it's done.

He Might Be A Cousin Of His

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle looked at case No. 43 on his calendar he noted it was Doyle vs. Doyle. Jane Doyle wanted temporary support pending a divorce from Michael F. Doyle Jr., cameraman on the I Love Lucy and Our Miss Brooks TV shows. They are parents of 2-year-old triplets, two boys and a girl. Judge Doyle decided there should be no divorce and sent the Doyles to the Domestic Relations Court's conciliation department, with Doyle to contribute $60 a week support to his wife, who will continue to cook his meals in the family home. Doyle (the cameraman) said he hopes there will be a reconciliation. Doyle (the judge) said he hopes so too and he then disqualified himself from further hearings in the case. "You might be a cousin of mine," he told Doyle.

Family Circle, Its Newspapers Back, Returns To Normal Again

DETROIT (AP)—The family circle, its favorite newspaper back, returned to normal routine today. The 46-day Detroit newspaper strike was over. Three million Detroit area residents hadn't experienced such an ordeal before. All three local newspapers—the News, Times and Free Press—never had been shut down at the same time. It was just 116 stereotypers—men whose essential function in getting out a newspaper was little known to readers—involved at first in the walkout early in December. But other mechanical department employees refused to cross picket lines, and the "back rooms" of the newspaper plants were shut tight. Seven other unions became involved, and 4,600 newspaper employees were affected. The absence of the big, regular dailies touched the daily life of 1,300,000 subscribers in a hundred different ways. Coming at the height of the Christmas shopping season, the strike isolated readers from already prepared gift suggestions. Some said they missed the advertising almost more than the news. Radio and television stations scheduled more and longer news-casts. Stores took to the air and TV screens to publicize their merchandise offerings. They also used more direct mail circulars than ever before and devised luring displays inside and outside their stores to "push" certain items. The Polish Daily News, heretofore a strictly foreign language paper, began publishing an English section and shot up its circulation from 50,000 to 150,000. Striking and nonstriking unions cooperated to start publication of the Detroit Reporter, which claimed a daily circulation of 100,000. In the absence of death notices, funerals of prominent persons went by almost unnoticed and with sparse attendance. Florists suffered a loss of business as a result. Police said the lack of publicity—and tips—hampered them in their investigation of several serious crimes committed during the strike. Among the hardest hit were hospital patients who while away hours with the voluminous local newspapers. Politicians in Lansing, the state capital, withheld some of their announcements until the strike was over to gain additional sounding boards in the populous Detroit area. Fewer than 20 per cent of the qualified voters turned out for a special congressional election in Detroit in mid-December and the lack of interest was attributed largely to the newspaper strike. Out-of-town newspapers shipped into Detroit were snapped up at newsstands and drugstores in a manner reminiscent of wartime cigarette lines. A society matron at a garden club meeting told of how her husband came home one night during the strike and called out, "Dear, I've brought you a present." It was a copy of a Toronto paper. One man said his dog was disturbed by the lack of a newspaper to bring in from the porch.

Wilson Gets Key To City Dump

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson receives today a gold key to the gate of the Alhambra, Calif., city dump. Rep. Hillings (R-Calif.) arranged to make the presentation on behalf of city officials and the Chamber of Commerce of Alhambra. Wilson was trapped temporarily in the city dump when he arrived by helicopter to perform his duties as grand marshal of the Tournament of Roses parade Jan. 2. The heliport is located in the city dump. When Wilson later was given a gold key to the city, he remarked he would rather have a key to the city dump. They took him at his word.

Gas Bombs Planned In Fox Campaign

LOUISIA, Ky. (AP)—Lawrence County's campaign to rid itself of rabid foxes will be put on a higher scientific level in February. Gas bombs will be fired into the animals' dens. February is the month when most foxes are denning. Rabid foxes have killed about 50 head of livestock recently.

A Bible Thought For Today

Rest in the LORD, and wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass. (Psalms 37:7)

Editorial

The Burning Question Right Now

Someone wryly observed that the folks who read editorials already have paid their poll taxes, and in that event this is tantamount to the preacher pouring it on the sore backs of those who don't need the message like those who don't come to church at all.

Anyhow, if you are among those who have paid your poll tax or if you have secured an exemption where it is indicated, then you can be very useful by relating this appeal to your less conscientious neighbors.

There are only two weeks remaining before the deadline comes for qualifying as a 1956 voter. That means that something like five or six thousand people have yet to attend to this very special responsibility within that space of time.

The longer you or they wait, the more apt you are to run into increasing lines. If you act now, you can help yourself as well as the office force.

We wish that there were some means of identifying poll tax holders — something like a cluster of red, white and blue ribbon. Maybe people noticing this would ask what it meant — and we could tell them.

At any rate, for the next two weeks, please don't greet people with "How's the weather?"

Rather let's all open conversations by asking: "Have you got your poll tax receipt?"

Ask the fellow you work with; ask your neighbors; ask members of your club; ask everyone.

Oldtimers Have Special Touch

Movie exhibitors are in the best position to know what actor or actress has the most box-office appeal; they count the take, and it's as simple as that.

For 1955 they picked James Stewart as No. 1 among the first ten. B. O. draws, and among the remaining nine were several oldtimers who, like Stewart, have been around a long time — Humphrey Bogart, Clark Gable, John Wayne and Gary Cooper. Only genuine newcomer was Grace Kelly, who soon will shake the spangled just of Hollywood from her feet to become Her Highness, the Princess of Monaco.

The Louisville Times, noting all this, opines that the reason the oldtimers stick around so long at the top is that this is getting to be a nation of the middle-aged, and "it may be that the 45-year-olds who go to see Stewart today are not really watching the 47-year-old Stewart at all, but the Stewart of 20 years ago, when both the viewer and viewed were young."

Could be. However, our own opinion is that it's a matter of competence and experience, plus an indefinable sort of appeal that the oldtimers have or they wouldn't have become oldtimers. They have something the newcomers don't have and never will acquire, yet none of the gentlemen mentioned above could by any stretch of the imagination be called a great "actor."

With Stewart it is a sort of boyish charm which his fumbling with words throws in to relief. With Gary Cooper it is his drawing, slow-motion folksiness. With Gable, it is his manliness. With Bogart — well, you can name it and take it, but it is there.

These oldtimers have continued to pull "em in when any number of vapid-faced body-beautifuls have flashed their little time upon the screen and disappeared. Without being actors in the strict sense, they know how to act. Perhaps it is the very absence of the arts of the actor that gives them their enduring appeal to motion picture goers, a sort of artlessness.

Burglars Have To Go For More These Days

Such is the impact of the present inflationary spiral in this country that a hard-pressed con man today has to steal far more and far oftener, in order to make ends meet, than he did in 1944.

This is the only financial conclusion that can be drawn from the report of B. H. Mercer, president of the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, said to be the nation's biggest insurer of employee honesty.

In recent years, says Mr. Mercer, employees—above and beyond the call of duty—are visiting the office cashbox more and more frequently and for bigger and bigger sums. They are tapping the till for the $64,000 cache rather than the petty cash.

"One indication of the trend can be found in the fact that capital stock insurance companies paid out nearly four times as much to cover employee dishonesty losses in 1954 as in 1944," said Mr. Mercer, "while premium income to those companies in the same period increased by less than half."

These strictly private, share-the-wealth plans cost American business approximately $500,000,000 in 1955, according to Mr. Mercer's figures. It was a year notable for the fact that the impatient employee, tired of carrying the stuff home in bits and pieces, just backed the truck up to the door.

The impudence of the yegg, mugger, burglar and stickup man with a small change in these inflationary times is aptly illustrated almost daily when some poor victim with scarcely $100 in his pocket is soundly beaten for carrying chicken feed.

It reflects the general discontent of the criminal classes with the steep price rise in steel and the sharp increase in the wages of skilled artisans, all of which has been dramatically mirrored in the soaring price of brass knuckles and burglary tools.

I am informed that such tools have tripled in price in recent years. Even a simple saw, fit for baking in a cake to cheer some soul in durance vile, has more than doubled in cost. This, in turn, affects the morale of even the con's loved ones.

Nothing more ably demonstrates the discontent of the criminal classes than the recent action of two burglars who held a Centertown, N. Y., family at gun point all night because it could only scrounge up $65 in cash. The thugs stayed until the bank opened next morning. Then they made the head of the house withdraw $217 to repay them for their trouble.

We walked all the way in from the main road," the elder thug complained.

As far as I know, this is the first time that yeggs have ever demanded and received portal-to-portal pay. It could be a new trend. But one fact becomes ever more clear: the boys don't want to bother if it isn't Brink's.

Television And Radio

It's Getting Out Of This World

NEW YORK (U)—There's a gentleman of macabre imagination who claims that wise and gentle little men from Mars are hovering in space ships about 50 miles above this continent studying us Americans.

It's his contention that the Martians have learned English from listening to the radio and only recently perfected a TV set. Because of the current riot of soap spots they're receiving only one hour a day — a daytime hour confined to soap opera. Since seeing is believing, they now don't believe anything they hear on the radio and base their estimates of us only on what they see.

The gentleman claims to have just intercepted this intelligence message back to Mars from Solar Space Ship G-2:

The anxiety of the earthlings increases daily as observed on television CBS. Misunderstanding is rife among families and acquaintances. The mortals remain within their homes, which are installed with moody music. There is much tears and anger and seldom any laughter. Observe one hour.

In the segment of life called "Valiant Lady," the question was whether the female known as Diane Emerson was fit to mate with the male known as Joey Gordon, who did not appear. The girl, talking with her mother, was remorseful about the past. Perhaps she had been indiscreet, for in the background were the screams of an infant. We shall attempt to ascertain this in the future.

A male named Morris appeared and suggested that Mrs. Emerson tell her daughter she loved her. Mrs. Emerson did so. This apparently made Diane decide to marry Joey Gordon. There was no further examination of her fitness.

In segment "Love of Life" there was little love of it. The female Vanessa Raven wishes to adopt the small girl Carol. Pronounced tensions exist in the household. But they are slight compared to those in the household of the female Judith, who is the mother of Carol. (Repeat, mother of Carol.) Judith decides to marry the male, Kevin, whom she hates, and who, in turn hates Vanessa. They plan to recover Carol so that Judith can inherit a fortune from her father, who is not yet dead.

Next, in segment "Search for Tomorrow," there was much gossip about the collapse of a marriage. The segment indicates distinct evidence of a housing shortage on earth since both the females involved with the male in question, who did not appear, were billeted in the same house.

Finally, segment "Guiding Light" continued the depressed mood.

In summary, the earthlings appear to be afflicted by suspicion and gossip. The majority appear to want something they cannot have. Among them float a few detached personalities who either (A) try to obtain the impossible things for others or (B) urge them not to want the impossible.

The accumulating anxieties and tensions of the earthlings have affected the television monitors on this space ship to a marked degree. We urgently request rotation of this command so that we may return to Mars for rest and rehabilitation.

Ridgway Won't Fade Away

WASHINGTON (U)—Old soldiers may fade away but not always quietly.

Three of the most famous generals of recent years — Douglas MacArthur, Omar Bradley and Matthew B. Ridgway—had some critical things to say once they were out of uniform about the way the man in the White House handled the armed forces.

The latest is Ridgway who, in a Saturday Evening Post article out today, makes a slashing attack on the Eisenhower administration's treatment of the Army and plainly implies President Eisenhower misrepresented him before Congress.

MacArthur was the first to sound off, and with the loudest repercussions. After President Truman sacked him, he blasted the President's handling of the Korean War and kept on blasting. That was in 1951.

Any fading he did from the newspaper headlines wasn't noticeable until after the Republicans' 1952 convention where some delegates thought he ought to be president.

The Saturday Evening Post seems to have an affinity for old generals. That is where Bradley, like Ridgway, raised a cautioning voice. But Bradley was far less critical than Ridgway about Eisenhower's ideas on defense.

Bradley had been made chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff by Truman. Even though Bradley was an old Army pal of Eisenhower, the new President seemed determined to get rid of as many Truman appointees as possible.

He decided to let Bradley retire at age 69 and replace him as chairman of the Joint Chiefs with Adm. Arthur W. Radford. On Aug. 19, 1953, four days after he had stepped out of military life, Bradley's story appeared in the Post.

Eisenhower, anxious to fill a Republican campaign promise to cut government spending, began cutting into military spending by five billion dollars. Eisenhower argued this was more defense at less cost.

Bradley cautioned against letting security be endangered by too much economy. He acknowledged he had made a mistake himself in setting defense spending sights too low before the Korean War.

Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson did some of their economizing at the expense of the Army. Ridgway, while still Army chief of staff, protested to Congress about this.

Eisenhower didn't seem to appreciate Ridgway's criticism. He called it "parochial." Ridgway, 60 last year, could have been kept on two years more as chief of staff. Eisenhower let him retire last year.

Now, in the Post article, Ridgway says the administration's cuts in the Army were "almost entirely" for economic and political reasons, not for military ones. He said "pressure" was put on him to persuade him to go along with the cuts.

He says he was baffled when, despite his protests, Eisenhower told Congress the Joint Chiefs of Staff were unanimously behind his military program, which included cuts in the Army.

Suburbs Aren't So Hot

NEW YORK (U)—The greatest adventure of our time aren't the men who yearn to voyage to the moon. They are the families who have moved out to the suburbs.

Much has been made of the great migration away from the cities. Not enough attention has been paid to the great trend back to the cities by disappointed pilgrims who have found suburban living not all it was cracked up to be.

Harsh reality has blasted their dream of a peaceful vine-covered cottage with a rose bush at its door, far from the hurly-burly of the city. They silently and gratefully creep back to the comfort of an apartment in town like frustrated pilgrims who started out for Mecca but found the journey too arduous.

As a confirmed city lover myself, I welcome them back home to refuge. But I am left with a feeling of sincere sympathy for the pitiful plight of the pitiful folk who are still doomed to live in that outer cultural darkness that begins where the city limits end.

Don't think that the trend back to the cities is just a mirage on my part. It is real. Thousands who fled the city to get away from it all are now returning to get back to it all.

A big new apartment house was completed here in Manhattan last year and where do you think the canny owners got their tenants? They got a lot of them by placing ads in suburban newspapers. The disillusioned suburbanites leaped at the chance to call their whole adventure off and come back to civilization.

They had decided that, while the suburbs are a great place to visit, they no longer wanted to live there.

The suburbs, of course, are a fine place to raise women and children. But many parents are making the discovery that schools in the suburbs are no better than those in the city, and are often just as crowded. Suburban wives complain they spend more time acting as chauffeurs for their husbands and children than they do attending to their housekeeping chores.

"I moved out to the suburbs because I thought it they would be more quiet and restful and the people would be more friendly.

"Believe me, I gave it the old college try, but it didn't work out. "What went wrong? Everything.

"Living in the suburbs isn't restful. It's hard work. I'm not one of those do-it-yourself fellows, but I found I had to become my own carpenter, plumber, electrician and landscape gardener.

"Just to get to my job I had to use three forms of transportation—car, train and subway. Most of the time I had to stand up on the 45-minute train ride, and I was worn out by the time I reached my office.

"The reason I came back to the city was to get a rest cure, and so I could pick my own friends again and lead my own life. Boy, am I glad I'm back! When I die I don't even want to be buried in the suburbs. I was buried there long enough. Let 'em scatter my ashes in the city streets."

Mr. Breger

"Congratulations, Ed — I hear you just got married again . . ."

Around The Rim

Signs Along The Way

Somewhere I clipped somebody's efforts at compiling a list of funny signs. Although I have the clipping, it doesn't say who compiled the list or what the publication is. Although I can't acknowledge the debt, here are the signs:

This one was spotted in a Milwaukee, Wis., bakery:

TRY OUR CAKES. NONE LIKE THEM. In a Chicago, Ill. clothing store, the enterprising proprietor hung this sign:

MEN'S PANTS MUST GO.

A New York shop hung up this one:

BRIDAL GOWNS FOR ALL OCCASIONS. Back in Chicago again, a restaurant advised the customers:

IF YOU MUST PUT CIGARETTE ASHES IN THE CUP TELL THE WAITER SO HE CAN SERVE YOUR COFFEE IN THE ASHTRAY.

A farmer in Medford, Ore., advertised:

COW FOR SALE, CONTAINS CHLORO-PHYLL.

Overseas in West Berlin, a sign in the subway warns patrons:

DON'T FALL ASLEEP IN THE SUBWAY. YOU MAY WAKE UP IN THE SOVIET SECTOR.

A hotel gives this piece of advice to the customer:

DON'T SMOKE IN BED. THE ASHES THAT FALL ON THE BED MAY BE YOUR OWN.

A Cleveland, Ohio, florist has this one painted on the window:

IF YOU DON'T LIKE FLOWERS NOW, THEY WILL GROW ON YOU IN THE END.

At the Manila airport, the management asks:

PLEASE START KISSING WAY AHEAD OF TIME SO THE PLANE CAN LEAVE ON SCHEDULE.

A loan office in Los Angeles hung this one in the window:

ARE YOU AT DEBT'S DOOR? LET US SEE YOU THROUGH.

A friend of mine has a friend who knows a man who is so counter-conventional-minded that he won't take yes for an answer. This friend also asks if there are any folks named Roofer: After all, he said, there are plenty of Thatchers.

Well, that's my try to land an easy job on the new TV station. Anybody got a better idea? Or a better joke?

Integration Involved In School Aid Issue

WASHINGTON — The most important test of the Republican administration in this election-year session of Congress is on Federal aid to schools. In a larger sense it is a test of the workability of the American system at a critical time of growth and change.

The need for new classrooms is desperate. That is evident to almost everyone. But whether, in the face of this desperate need, the sum total of our differences is greater than the sum total of our agreements is the question that confronts Congress in the months ahead.

President Eisenhower's request for $250,000,000 a year for five years for school construction is a startling advance over the previous administration position. This can be put down to two factors. One is the aroused public opinion engendered by the White House conference on education last fall.

The other is the quiet backstage work done by Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Marion Folsom. Aware both of the urgent need in the country and the political oomph in aid to education, Folsom has pushed ever since his appointment in August to get the administration's sights raised.

With the new beginning the Republicans can overcome the bad reaction of teachers and parents to the negative stand of a year ago. It is a golden opportunity. But they will have to put over a bill, and that means working harder than administration leaders have ever been willing to work to get Congress to act. Going through the motions of a sham fight will not be enough.

On this issue the deep division in the Democratic party becomes glaringly apparent. Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Democrat from New York City's Harlem, intends to offer again the amendment he pressed last year providing that no Federal aid can go to states that have not complied with the Supreme Court's order desegregating the schools. This time this amendment will be inclusive. It will provide that no money shall go to school districts that have not moved to comply with the Supreme Court ruling.

In this way, Powell explains, school districts that have begun to integrate white and Negro pupils in states such as Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma will not be penalized by a statewide injunction.

The revised amendment also will call for a reserve fund to provide help for school districts that, after a certain period of time, do get around to complying with the court order to integrate white and Negro pupils. When it is pointed out to Powell that any segregation amendment will jeopardize Federal aid, he has a simple answer. If it is immoral and illegal, then there can be no compromise.

The modifications will make no difference to Southern Democrats. Representative William M. Colmer of Mississippi, who is at the opposite political pole from Powell even though they are nominally members of the same party, says that any segregation amendment will mean the defeat of aid to education.

Thus does the deeply emotional issue of race cut across the school problem. Republican leader Joseph Martin has said that he would vote for an anti-segregation amendment if it came before the House and most of the members of his party would feel the same compulsion. So would most Northern Democrats in an election year.

There is one way in which a showdown vote could be avoided. If the House Education and Labor Committee rejects the Powell amendment, as it did last year, the Rules Committee could be asked for the kind of rule forbidding any amendments when the aid-to-education bill reached the floor.

Such a rule is rare, however. Many members would prefer to vote plainly for a segregation amendment knowing that in this way the measure would be killed, with the blame conveniently put on the split in the Democratic party.

The Gallup Poll

Volunteers Ready To Work For Parties

PRINCETON, N. J. — There is a potential "army" of volunteer workers ready and willing to serve the two political parties in the election campaigns this year.

An estimated total of 16,900,000 voters—from the rank-and-file of both the Democratic and Republican parties — say they would like to take an active part in political party work as a volunteer worker for a party or candidate.

Highlights of a special "audit" of potential volunteer workers for the two major political parties, conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion:

1. The Democrats have a greater "reserve" in terms of volunteer workers than do the Republicans. Some 9,870,000 Democratic voters are ready to work for their party, compared to 7,030,000 GOP voters who stand ready to offer their services.
2. The GOP has proportionately more potential women volunteers than do the Democrats. Whereas a greater number of Republican women than men would like to work for their party, in the Democratic camp the reverse is true with more men willing to volunteer than women.
3. Overall, there is a slightly greater number of women than men who would like to do volunteer work for their political party in the coming year. This is in contrast to the 1954 elections when the men who actually did volunteer work for their party outnumbered the women volunteers by a ratio of 2-to-1.

The question that experienced Institute reporters put to a scientifically drawn cross-section of the American voters:

"During the coming year, would you like to take an active part in political party work as a volunteer worker for a party or candidate?"

The results, translated into millions:

Democrats who would like to work 9,870,000

Republicans who would like to work 7,030,000

Here is how this army of workers breaks down by men and women within the ranks of the two major parties:

	MEN	WOMEN
Democrats	5,120,000	4,750,000
Republicans	3,210,000	3,820,000

By way of comparison, in the 1954 election campaigns — according to an Institute survey — some 3,420,000 men were estimated to have been volunteer workers—or less than one-half as many as would like to participate in work for their party.

About 1,780,000 women were volunteer workers in 1954 — or about one-fifth as many as are willing to work today.

By education groups, today's survey finds that persons with college training are more likely to want to volunteer for political work. Here are the percentages for each education group:

WANT TO BE VOLUNTEER:	Per Cent
Col.-HighGrade	37
High School	27
Yes	73
No	83

What kind of work could this many volunteer workers do?

One possible task that the two parties could set this army to doing came to light in a survey reported on Wednesday by the Institute.

The survey found that the American public is ready to contribute some $75,000,000 to the campaign chests of the two parties—if the parties were to go after it in a door-to-door, community-by-community type of canvass, with definite quotas set for each county in the U.S.

Such a canvass — patterned after ones that have been successfully by organizations like the Red Cross and Community Chest — would find approximately 15,000,000 American families willing to contribute at least $5 to the party of their choice.

Bascom Giles Begins Serving 6-Year Term

HUNTSVILLE (AP)—Former State Land Commissioner Bascom Giles arrived almost unnoticed early yesterday to begin his first day of a six-year term in prison.

Giles was driven to the prison gates by the nightman of a Huntsville filling station who thought "he was some big shot lawyer."

The former official, convicted 12 times on charges of fraud and bribery in the veterans' land scandals, tipped his driver 50 cents and entered the prison walls.

The service station man, J. C. Thigpen, said Giles drove into his filling station about 5:45 a.m. yesterday and asked him to drive him to the state prison.

Shortly after 6 a.m., Thigpen said he drove Giles the short distance to the prison in the latter's Packard sedan.

Thigpen said Giles did not identify himself. "I didn't realize who it was until all the news started flying around," he said. "All the time I thought it was some big shot lawyer. He was sure a nice fellow."

Giles got six years on each of the convictions which will run concurrently. He will be able to ask for parole in about 14 months.

Only a clerk was on duty before dawn yesterday and officials had to be summoned before Giles could be admitted.

Asked by J. C. Roberts, chief of the records bureau, if he had any statement, Giles said: "Definitely not. I've already had all the publicity I need."

He later asked two questions—that he be treated like any other prisoner and that he not have to talk to reporters. Richard Jones, executive assistant manager of the prison, said both requests would be granted.

Giles' attorney in Austin, Clint Small, Sr., issued this statement Giles made:

"I have to the best of my ability made amends to the state in a material way. I want to state that so far as I am aware, no other state official or employe was involved in any of the transactions for which I was convicted. I deeply regret the embarrassment and heartache caused my friends and co-workers."

Moisture Falls In Northern Parts Of State

By The Associated Press

Welcome moisture fell in several sections of upper Texas Tuesday but it was very light and was expected to have little effect on the drought-hit state.

The moisture was either very light rain, snow or sleet. It extended from Wichita Falls into Central Texas below Dallas. Intermittent rain was forecast for South Central Texas Tuesday and snow flurries were due for the Panhandle.

The only measurable rain reported Tuesday was .01 of an inch at Junction. Traces were reported at Abilene, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Fort Worth, Dallas, San Angelo, San Antonio, Wichita Falls, Mineral Wells and Sherman.

The Weather Bureau says the moisture will be gone by Wednesday morning but weather is expected to remain cold.

Temperatures Tuesday ranged from 9 at Dalhart to 58 degrees at Corpus Christi.

Others included Amarillo 14, Lubbock 25, Wichita Falls 27, Waco and Fort Worth 34, Abilene and Austin 36, Dallas 33, Beaumont 38, Houston and San Angelo 42, Del Rio and Odessa 45, Galveston and Laredo 50.

All Candidates See Louisiana Victory

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—All five Democratic candidates for governor predicted victory today as Louisiana held the nation's first state primary of the presidential year.

Republicans, numbering less than 6,000 among the more than one million registered voters, scraped the rust off their primary election machinery, idle since Reconstruction, by offering two candidates for lieutenant governor and several for the Legislature.

But they don't have the ghost of a chance. The exercise is designed to strengthen the two-party system in a normally one-party state. Democratic nomination is tantamount to election.

With no presidential choice on the ballot, party leaders watched to see whether Eisenhower-backing Gov. Robert Kennon keeps control of the state Democratic party in the wake of the U. S. Supreme Court's segregation decision.

The five candidates for governor were pledged to uphold segregation in this state where whites outnumber Negroes 2-1, but the issue loomed large in the closing weeks of the campaign.

With Negro registration at an all-time high of 154,000, up 50 per cent over 1952, candidates questioned each other's capability, sincerity and intensity on the issue.

Former Gov. Earl Long, seeking a third term on the strength of the organization that brother Huey founded, and New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison, counting on a heavy vote from the state's largest city, each saw himself as top man in the field.

Dark horse Fred Preaus, flying the Kennon colors since the governor by law cannot succeed himself, figured himself to be "at or near" the top.

Independents Francis Grevenberg and James McLemore, lacking organized support, were willing to settle for second place and a runoff berth.

Unless one candidate receives a majority of the votes cast, the two front runners will enter a Feb. 2 second primary.

The candidates were undecided on which was the top issue; but all five were in agreement on law enforcement, industrial expansion, no added taxes, increased welfare benefits and leaving the "right to work" law, which bans compulsory union membership, on the books unless the Legislature decides otherwise.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Albert J. Guarasci, newly arrived here from Onondaga, N.Y., complained to police yesterday that he lost the same $4,000 twice.

He left it in his locked car and then couldn't find where he had parked until six hours later. He drove two blocks, parked again with the money still inside. But when he came back that time he found window smashed and the $4,000 gone.

Gotham Fuel Truck Drivers Still Far From Strike Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—Fuel truck drivers, on strike for higher pay and other benefits, appeared today to be further from a settlement than when they walked out Sunday night.

The strike has stopped all coal and 60 per cent of fuel oil deliveries in all New York City except Staten Island.

Although most buildings have enough fuel on hand to keep tenants warm for an average of 10 days, city authorities got several hundred calls for emergency deliveries yesterday, first day of the strike.

When the strike began, City Labor Commissioner Nelson Settel reported that the employers and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters were within 5 cents of agreement. The employers had offered a 20-cent-an-hour package,

Florida Escapes Icy Air Blast

By The Associated Press

A fresh surge of cold air sent temperatures tumbling over broad areas of the South today, but Florida, hit by a long and damaging cool spell, escaped the icy air.

Freezing weather was reported in much of the South except near the Gulf Coast and Florida. The cold air which spread south to the Gulf Coast yesterday moved southeast and eastward and extended over areas in Georgia, the Carolinas and Virginia.

Snow fell in parts of Virginia, with a fall of 2 inches reported at Gordonsville. The same amount fell in Baltimore.

In Jackson, Miss., and Charlotte, N.C., the temperature was 29.

At the same time, it was 50 at the Miami airport, some 15 degrees higher than 24 hours earlier.

This morning's coldest weather was in the Northern Plains with below-zero readings again today in sections of the Dakotas. It was -15 today at Grand Forks, N.D.

Freezing weather prevailed in the Great Lakes region and in the Northeast.

Prison Inmates Get Silverware Back

Prison authorities authorized the use of table knives in the prison dining room. Knives had been banned since the bloody riots of 1952.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

Oh, WHERE is my wandering ad tonight?

That's a fair question and deserves a factual answer. When you buy newspaper advertising you have an investment in every copy of the paper that carries your sales message because the circulation of the newspaper is also the circulation of your advertising. So, what you get in return for your advertising dollars depends on the newspaper's circulation. In order that you may buy space in this newspaper as you would make any sound business investment, we hold membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations,* well known to advertisers and publishers as A.B.C. Only publications with paid circulation—evidence that people want the paper—are eligible for membership.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office to make a thorough audit of our circulation records. The FACTS that he obtains as a result of the audit are published in A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; Where it goes; How obtained; How much people pay for our paper, and many other FACTS that you need in order to KNOW what you get for your advertising money.

It's never necessary for our advertisers to ask, "Oh, where is my wandering ad?" They get the FACTS from our A.B.C. report and KNOW. Ask for a copy today.

Dr. A. J. Stoddard, superintendent emeritus of the Los Angeles, Calif., schools, is to visit Big Spring next Tuesday, making at least two addresses.

W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, said that Dr. Stoddard was able to squeeze Big Spring into a busy itinerary, coming here between evening engagements at Denver City and Snyder. He will confer with the school staff, speak to the high school student body, address the Rotary Club at noon, and then talk with the faculty at 3:15 p. m.

Solon Suggests Ridgway Charge Be Investigated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) today suggested a Senate inquiry into Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's statement that as Army chief of staff he felt he was "being called upon to destroy" U. S. fighting strength.

Ridgway made the declaration in the first of a series of articles in the Saturday Evening Post, published today. He said the Department of Defense tried to silence his criticism of its policies, and he questioned the accuracy of a statement by President Eisenhower.

Secretary of Defense Wilson told reporters in New York last night that "I cannot comment because I have not read the article." He added he regards Ridgway, who was not named to a second term as Army chief of staff last fall, as "a dedicated general who believes very strongly in the Army."

Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) said today that while he has great respect for Ridgway, he thinks the general is "drashing some old controversy." Ridgway had made clear some months before his retirement his disagreement with administration moves to cut Army manpower.

Mansfield said in a separate interview it would be well for some Senate group to give Ridgway an opportunity "to document his statements and lay the story before the American people."

Sen. Symington (D-Mo) told the Senate yesterday that Ridgway's remarks showed that in the Eisenhower administration "the security of the nation is being thrown into the market place to be traded for political advantage."

"In my job as chief of staff," he said, "I say in all earnestness and sincerity that I felt I was being called upon to destroy, rather than to build, a fighting force on which rested the world's best hope for peace."

Ridgway said he was "non-plussed" when he read Eisenhower's 1954 budget message to Congress. He said the President claimed his budget then was "based on a new military program unanimously recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

As a member of the Joint Chiefs, Ridgway wrote, he had "most emphatically not concurred." He said three Army budgets on which he had a responsibility were founded on "budgetary considerations, on political considerations, on the advantage to be gained in the field of domestic politics by a drastic reduction in military expenditures."

Ridgway said Secretary Wilson cautioned him that to express his views publicly would "place me in the position of taking issue with my commander in chief, 'and that,' he (Wilson) added bluntly, 'would not be good.'"

Ridgway said he had been subjected to pressures, "sometimes crudely applied," to drop his opposition.

Two In 'Porgy' Cast Married In Moscow
MOSCOW (AP)—Wedding bells for two of its leading players are winding up the Moscow visit of the "Porgy and Bess" company.

Earl Jackson, who plays Sportin' Life, and Helen Thigpen, Serena in the American folk opera production, were married yesterday at the Soviet registry office and arranged for a religious ceremony to-night at the Moscow Baptist Church.

A Church Divided

Parishioners of the Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church in Brooklyn, N. Y., faced this unique situation as two clerics conduct rival services at the same time. Rev. Robert Thomas, appointed by ruling Bishop James P. DeWolfe, preaches from the pulpit at right while controversial Rev. Howard Melish simultaneously conducts another phase of the service at the left. Rev. Melish, dismissed after accusations of left-wing activities which he has denied, refuses to give up his post.

NICKEL PROJECT

Probers To Study Testimony Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex) said today the record will be studied to "see just what should be done about the discrepancies in testimony by key witnesses in a House investigation of a federal nickel project in Cuba. Brooks heads a special Government Activities subcommittee which is inquiring into the government's big nickel plant expansion at Nicaro, Cuba.

Mansure disclosed he had written Sherman Adams at an early stage in the search for companies to fill the construction contract on which the fee, or profit, was listed at one million dollars.

Mansure produced a letter to Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide, Dated Jan. 18, 1954, it said in part: "Knowing your very live interest in such matters, I am making our tentative plans known to you, before entering into any contractual commitments, and shall appreciate any suggestion or comments you may care to give me."

What reply, if any, came from Adams was not revealed.

The GSA head did acknowledge mentioning Balmer to Cremer later as a source of information about

Ambassador Luce's Wrist Not Broken
NEW YORK (AP)—A torn ligament in the left wrist is the doctor's diagnosis of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce's injury when she slipped in the bathtub of her New York apartment yesterday morning. The U.S. ambassador to Italy thought for a time that the wrist might be broken.

Gas Fumes Fatal To Family; Boy Fights For Life

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The lone survivor of gas fumes which killed five persons battled for his life today under an oxygen tent.

Eight-year-old Kurt Krohne Jr. was in critical condition. The other four members of his family and a next-door neighbor died yesterday from the effects of the deadly gas.

The dead were Kurt Krohne, 44, his wife Lois, 35; their children, Kathy, 3, and Karlene, 2; and Mrs. Walter Van Poyck, 34.

Police said Krohne had plugged the flue of a gas wall heater, apparently to prevent the heat from escaping, and that the odorless gas must have been seeping through the house since the weather turned cold here 10 days ago.

The family had felt ill during the past week and Sunday night a doctor treated them for a virus infection. Mrs. Van Poyck, expecting a baby in four months, spent the night with the Krohnes to assist the family.

Her husband, Walter Van Poyck, discovered the tragedy yesterday morning.

Bill Is Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Wright (D-Tex) introduced a bill yesterday to remove all postal and classified civil service jobs from political patronage.

Sen. Monroney Is 'Moderately' Optimistic Gas Bill Will Pass

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said today he is "moderately optimistic" that the Natural Gas Bill will pass the Senate. Sen. Potter (R-Mich) said opponents are picking up strength.

Monroney said he was encouraged by a "much better than average attendance" at the opening of debate yesterday on the measure that would exempt natural gas producers from federal regulation. The House passed similar legislation last year.

Monroney, floor leader for the bill, said he had written asking each senator to "hear me out" and said he was gratified so many had done so.

Hollywood Sidewalks Are Going Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The sidewalks here are going Hollywood. Plans to install brightly colored, glittering sidewalks on parts of Hollywood Boulevard and Vine Street were approved yesterday by the Los Angeles Board of Public Works.

Sidewalks made of squares of buff and brown cement will be set off by an aquamarine trim. They'll be impregnated with an abrasive material to add sparkle and keep folks from slipping.

Potter, a foe of the bill, forecast a "very close" vote. He said he thought the debate was winning over several senators who have not quite made up their minds to vote against it.

Debate at times reached the shouting point. Monroney labeled as "the wildest sort of misrepresentation" opponents' contention that the bill would cost consumers 800 million dollars more a year.

Some small increase in gas prices might occur but prices will go much higher if the bill is not passed, he argued.

Monroney said a Supreme Court decision holding that the Federal Power Commission should set producers' prices for gas sold to interstate pipelines has thrown both the producers and the commission into "a maze of red tape."

Big consumer gas bills in Eastern states, he said, are due to high charges by local distributors, not to the amounts received by producers.

Dimes March Turns Into 120-Mile Run

KANKAKEE, Ill. (AP)—The March of Dimes will really mean a march next weekend for 12 members of the Kankakee Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Participating in relays of 10 miles each, the Jaycees plan to push a wheelbarrow from Kankakee to Chicago's Loop and back—a distance of 120 miles. It's part of the campaign which they hope will help collect $25,000 for Kankakee County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The wheelbarrow pushers will be accompanied by a caravan, including police escorts.

Water Strands Bus, Driver Just Fishes

BOLINAS, Calif. (AP)—Floodwaters stranded driver Don Tannenbaum and his Greyhound bus here. So Don went fishing—right in the middle of Highway 1.

He dipped into the water and fished out a 27-inch trout. "Always wanted to catch a fish with my bare hands," he remarked.

Kicking Too Much, Says Paining Wife

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Marie Streb said she didn't mind being knocked down, she's used to that, but when her husband kicked her...

The 5-foot-8 husband of the 5-foot-10 Marie, who was once known around the professional wrestling circuit as "Gypsy Lee," denied he floored her or kicked her. Just a case of mistaken identity, said he.

But Magistrate Simon Schonfield gave the decision to the slender 37-year-old brunette. He fined Streb $25.

Mrs. Streb made her last wrestling appearance in July, 1954, in Boston.

School Census Moves Rapidly

No complete tabulation has been made, but the scholastic census this year has "moved off better and faster than ever," W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, said Tuesday.

Reports from principals of the various schools indicated that teachers had completed the initial phase of the enumeration with great dispatch, he reported. Tabulations were not possible because some are still making call-backs to try and make the initial report as complete as possible.

Many people have responded by calling the administrative office to report their children were missed, Blankenship reported. He expressed appreciation for this help and appealed to all uncontacted patrons in the district to telephone 4-4694 if they have children born after Sept. 1, 1938 and on or before Sept. 1, 1950. The district would also like to know the number and age of children who will be under six years of age Sept. 1. This information will be used in planning for classrooms and staff.

Uncle Ray:
Herrmann Stopped
Bullets With Plate

By RAMON COFFMAN
While Maskelyne was amazing Great Britain with his tricks and automations, a German-born magician was entertaining Americans. He was Alexander Herrmann, the youngest in a family with 16 children. His father was a doctor, but learned to perform magic and became widely known. Alexander Herrmann was the most skillful magician of his time. He ranked above his eldest brother, Carl, who remained in Europe and gave his life to magic.

Alexander, holding plate which stopped bullets.

In a handbill we read of "Prof. A. Herrmann" performing at the Boston Museum 80 years ago. Among his tricks were Flying Cards, All Nations in One Bottle, Mysterious Rabbit, Arabian Tricks, Enchanted Flowers, Solomon's Letter and Flying Watches.

One thing which interests me about this magician is the fact that he was a friend of one of my grandfathers. From time to time they went fishing together. During such a trip, Herrmann put his hand in his vest as if to take out his gold watch. The pocket was empty, and he turned to my grandfather and asked:

"Why did you take my watch?"
"I didn't touch your watch!"
"Then what is it doing in your pocket?" asked Herrmann, pulling (seemingly to pull) the watch right out of one of my grandfather's pockets!

One of Herrmann's tricks was to have make-believe soldiers fire at a plate which he held in front of him. Bullets were stopped by the plate instead of going through it. The gunpowder used was small in amount. I am sorry to relate that several other magicians who used the trick one died from his wound.

Police To Quiz 'Murder' Victim

MONROE, La. (AP)—City police get a rare chance to question a "murder" victim today.

Five youths opened fire on a man standing in front of a downtown restaurant yesterday. They tossed the "victim's" body in the car and sped away.

Police officers, tipped that there might be a holdup at the restaurant, chased the car, but lost it. Officers traced the youths through the automobile's license plates. It turned out the affair was a hoax and the bullets blanks.

Chief of Detectives Hugh Tolbert did not identify the youths, but said some kind of charges probably would be filed.

He said the boys were lucky. His men had orders to open fire if a holdup were tried at the restaurant.

Students Take Over Classrooms

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Snow and ice caused delays in the arrival of 22 teachers at Sallie B. Rutherford Elementary School yesterday, but classes went on just the same.

Their jobs were taken over by 22 11-year-olds, members of the school's "Teachers of Tomorrow" program.

Opening exercises such as Bible reading had been completed and lessons were under way when the teachers arrived, one at a time.

DA Finds Crime Among Young People Here 'Very Disturbing'

The amount of crime among young people in Howard County is "very disturbing," District Attorney Guilford Jones says in his annual report to the district judge and county commissioners.

Jones also lists a reduction in drunken driving as one of the objectives of his office. He says he believes this can be brought about by "vigorous prosecution" of second offense DWI case in district court.

A fifth of the felony indictments returned by 1955 grand juries here were against young persons, the district attorney points out in his report. He calls this "a very disturbing statistic."

Jones gives this additional information in his report on the past year's activities of his office.

Crimes committed in Howard County last year resulted in 43 persons being sentenced to the penitentiary for an aggregate of 236 years. That's an average of five and a half years each.

In addition, 14 persons were assessed suspended sentences totaling 38 years and 13 others were given probated sentences for a total of 40 years. Seven other were assessed jail terms and fines totaling $4,250.

All criminal cases tried during the year in district court resulted in convictions.

Jones holds the distinction of not having lost a criminal case since he became district attorney here on Oct. 22, 1954.

Filed by the DA's office during the past year were 183 felony complaints. The felony charges, involving 146 persons, were presented to grand juries during the year, and resulted in indictments against 103 persons. Three of these were indicted on misdemeanor charges and their cases were transferred to county court.

Of the other 100 cases, charges against 81 persons were disposed of during 1955, leaving 19 pending at the end of the year. Of the 81 cases, 67 persons were tried before the court, nine were tried before juries and five were dismissed. Actually, more cases than 81 were included. As Jones explained, persons named in more than one indictment usually are prosecuted on only one charge where the result of that trial is a conviction.

The major categories of crime investigated and prosecuted during 1955 included murder, robbery, narcotics violations, assault on murder, bogus checks, theft, second offense drunken driving, burglary and forgery.

There was one murder indictment which resulted in a 50-year penitentiary sentence when the defendant entered a guilty plea.

Twenty persons were indicted on forgery charges, and 17 of these have been tried and received prison terms. Fifteen burglary indictments resulted in 12 convictions. Second offense DWI also resulted in 15 indictment and 12 convictions.

The number of cases of other crimes and convictions included theft, eight and eight; worthless checks, five and five; assault on murder, three and three; narcotics seven and six; and robbery, five indictment and five convictions.

"Probably little can be done to curtail the number of forgery and burglary offenses since many of these are committed by confirmed criminals," Jones said in his report.

"The number of DWI cases (15 per cent of felony crimes) should be considered a subject to reduction by vigorous prosecution since the great majority of these cases involve local people," the district attorney added. "This is one of our aims for the future."

Jones classed as "very disturbing" the incident of major crimes among young people. Of 146 cases presented to the grand jury last year, 32 involved persons who were 21 years of age or younger. Twenty of these — one-fifth of the total — were named in indictments.

"It is a general policy of this office to recommend a suspended

Oil Man Buys Equipment Plant

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Purchase of the Cardwell Manufacturing Co. by John Nocom of Houston, an oil operator, was completed yesterday.

The company manufactures oil field drilling and servicing equipment. The price was unofficially estimated as several million dollars.

Necom, who owns and runs 20 drilling barges and rigs on his own properties, holds a third interest in what is believed the world's deepest well. The well, Richardson and Bass 1 Statelease, 45 miles downstream from New Orleans on the Mississippi River, has been drilled to 22,570 feet and is now being tested.

Respect For Friends

Being introduced to someone takes but a few seconds, but maintaining a friendship is a day affair. It requires more than surface sparkle; to keep friends you must have qualities of loyalty, devotion, sincere interest in and respect for your friends and your friends' interests and possessions. We discussed borrowing recently. To delve further into that matter, I would like to add that one reason borrowing severs many friendships is that people frequently treat borrowed articles with such a complete lack of reverence that they are returned soiled or mutilated. People prize their possessions, and it is sometimes strange the

Citizens Protest 'VD' License Tags

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Some 1,000 new license plates sent to Rocky Mount this year bore the prefix "VD."

To the citizens of Rocky Mount VD stands for one thing—venereal disease. They protested having their city identified as the VD city. Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt has announced those who want to can turn in the licenses for a different tag.

items they value the most. Like the child who clings to the battered doll with an arm and leg missing, so adults often treasure old books as much as a new portable typewriter.

When you take a borrowed item home, you are a poor friend if you look upon it with less respect than your own things. It is not simply a book or a jacket; it is a piece of your friend. Just as a wise person values his friend above himself, so he will value his friend's possessions above his own.

It is shocking to know the number of people who will mark and droodle all through another's book, soil a borrowed jacket and return it uncleaned, or treat a borrowed typewriter roughshod because "it isn't mine anyway." That person will soon be destitute of friends.
