Physicals Due For Footballers This Friday

Potential Mustang footballers will have the opportunity to receive physical exams at the local high school gym Friday beginning at 5:30 p.m. Arrangements have been made for a doctor to be here for the convenience of the boys and their parents.

All high school boys who plan to participate in football must have physicals before they can sign up for play. Head Coach Eddie Miller asks everyone to be present.

Foos Ball Tourney Set

A foos ball tournament has been scheduled at the Unique Drive-In and will get underway Saturday at 6:30 p.m. ending Sunday, Aug. 26.

Mrs. A.C. Light, owner of the drive-in, stated that play will begin at 6:30 Saturday and last until 10:30. Play will resume the following Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 6:30 and also the next weekend, at which time finals will be played Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

All foos ball enthusiasts are invited to enter the tournament. First and second place trophies will be presented, plus cash prizes.

Ruth Osthus Pierce's Services Conducted Here

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in the First United Methodist Church for Ruth Ann Pierce, 33, of El Paso.

Officiating were the Rev. Al Jennings, pastor, and the Rev. Randall Ball of Big Spring. Interment was in Olton Cemetery under the direction of Parsons Funeral Home.

Mrs. Pierce died Friday in West Texas Hospital in Lubbock where she had been a patient four days. She was employed as a cashier for Furrs of El Paso.

Born March 13, 1940 in Hobart, Okla., Mrs. Pierce

TSTI Offers New Courses, For Fields With Demand

TSTI in Amarillo will begin training students in September in two new career education fields - Feedmill Operation and Maintenance and Saddle and Tack Making.

Both new programs will be 36-weeks long and will train people to work in industries that have indicated a near critical shortage of employees.

Applications are now being accepted for enrollment in the two new programs, which will bring to 15, the number of programs being offered by the Mid-Continent Campus of TSTI.

The growth of the livestock feeding industry in the Panhandle and South Plains region has created a demand for trained feedmill personnel. A recent survey taken by TSTI showed a need for 109 feedmill operators at 43 feedmills.

The course will include classes in feeds, processing, inventory control, mill mechanics, welding, animal nutrition, elements of supervision, plus KUNIO NAGAI, EXCHANGE STUDENT who is making his home for the next few weeks with the Leon Noack family, was visitor at the Lions Club meeting Tuesday. Kunio is here in the United States as a participant in the Lions International Youth Exchange program.

Storms Rake Area, Hail Strikes Tuesday

A fast gathering thunderstorm moved into Olton area late Tuesday afternoon dropping varying amounts of rainfall and leaving in its wake a trail of devastating hail.

Olton's official weather station reported .30 inches of rain within the city limits. Rain gauges east of the city registered about one-half inch, while to the west slightly higher readings were reported. The vicinity around Circle received about .8 inch. Rainfall to the south of the city trailed off to a mere shower.

The fury of a small storm cell appeared to have developed about the Uil Gunter home on Highway 70 West. According to Mrs. Gunter, she stood at the front door of her home and saw the approach of a heavy rain, wind and hail storm. During moments of the heaviest fall, she said as many as six cars were stopped on the highway, unable to proceed for lack of visibility.

grew up and attended schools in Olton.

Survivors include two daughters, Connie and Bendee and one son, Cody, all of the home; her parents Mr. and Mrs. L.E. Ball and Mr. and Mrs. J.K. Osthus of Happy; two sisters, Mrs. June Atterbury of El Paso and Mrs. Carolyn Borden of Lubbock; one step-brother, James Ball of Houston and grandmothers, Mrs. Cora Osthus of Littlefield and Mrs. Edna Hall of Tulare, Calif.

Pallbearers were Bob Huckabee, Norman Humphries, John Humphries, Jerry Young, Jerry Wells and Junior Nichols.

Hail lashed the Gunter cotton field, inflicting heavy damage. The corn fields, she stated, were not quite so hard hit. Moving toward the northeast the storm cell, apparently

Enterprise Earns Top 'Paper' Honors

Top honors for newspapers in towns less than 3,000 population have been once again bestowed upon the Olton Enterprise. The latest laurels were announced at the West Texas Press Convention meeting last weekend in Abilene.

The coveted plaque for first place in the category of general excellence and a first place plaque for advertising composition for towns under 3,000 were announced for the Enterprise.

New Coach, Buddy Abels, Named State Director

Buddy Abels, new girls basketball coach for Olton High School, has been named a director of the State Girls Basketball Association. The honor was announced during the Association's meeting July 11-15 in Brownwood.

The Association is a state-wide organization comprising the majority of schools throughout Texas. Directors are in charge of the annual coaches school, arranging for out-standing lecturers who appear during the school.

An All Star game, now a part of the coaches school, is composed of outstanding girl basketball players who are selected by the directors.

Directors are currently considering holding an All Star Girls Track Meet. That decision will probably be announced at the State Basketball Tournament next February. Summer plans will also be made during the tournament week. Abels said this week that although he is newly elected and not yet sure what his office entails, it would "keep us up with what's happening."

Enterprise Changes Publication Date

A change of publication date for the Enterprise is announced this week by publisher Sue Cannon.

Instead of the paper being mailed Thursdays each week, it will be mailed Sunday. Papers will reach the post office in time to put in boxes by Sunday morning. Routes will go out Mondays instead of Fridays.

"We feel like this will be a good change for all concerned. As most of the housewives know, shopping habits have changed throughout the years and the big days are now Wednesdays and Thursdays instead of Saturdays", Mrs. Cannon said. "We hope to be able to publish a much newer, better looking paper than we have been in the past, with the extra time that the new publishing date will allow us."

Beginning with Sunday, Aug. 19, the new publication date becomes effective. News and advertising deadlines will be Thursday 5 p.m. and Thursday noon, respectively.

"We appreciate your cooperation during our time of transition", Mrs. Cannon commented. "We will have the same office hours, Monday through Friday 8 to 5 p.m."

School Registration Slated, Hair And Dress Codes Cited

Hum of busy activity will soon resound in the halls of Olton schools when the 1973-74 school year begins Monday, Aug. 27.

Superintendent Joe Turner is announcing registration schedules for all students who have never attended Olton schools and for beginning students.

Elementary students who will be attending Olton schools for the first time may register any weekday from now until school begins. Registration hours are 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m.

High school students will register all day Friday, Aug. 24. All junior high students will register at any time through the day Thursday, Aug. 23.

Turner reminds parents that all students must have their immunizations before they can attend school this year.

Students and parents are also reminded of the dress and hair code set forth by the school.

Boys hair must be well groomed and must be cut short above the ears, above the collar and above the eyebrows.

Sideburns must be straight and trimmed and not extend past the ear lobe. Boys must be clean shaven.

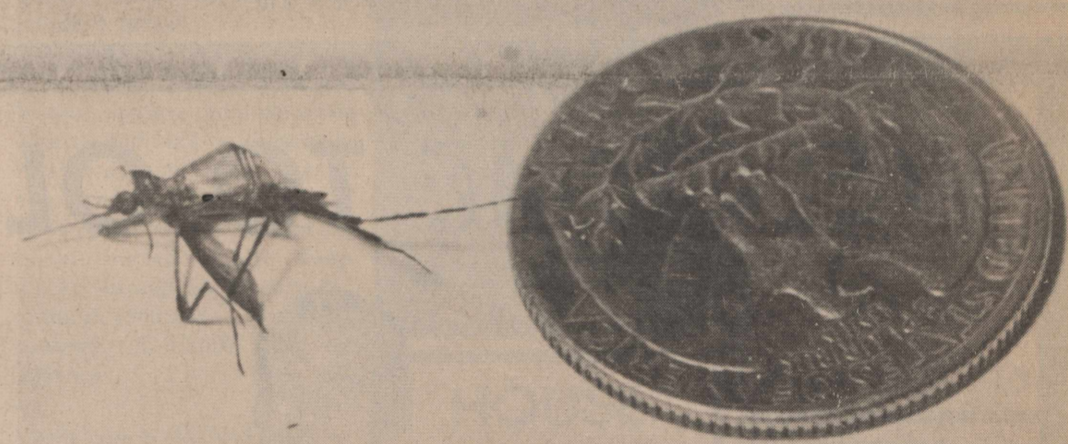

Lunch tickets may be purchased Friday, Aug. 24. Mrs. Norma Lively, cafeteria supervisor, will be at the lunchroom from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. so that parents may purchase lunch tickets and avoid the confusion of opening day.

All are encouraged to purchase the lunch tickets at this time but parents of elementary students are especially urged to do so.

Representative To Be Here

Family Planning Service will have a representative, Becky Coleman of Littlefield, in Olton each Wednesday to provide advice or assistance for anyone seeking such information.

Sponsored by Community Action, the representative will be at City Hall courtroom each Wednesday from 10 a.m. until no later than 1:30 p.m. The service is free and available to anyone.

TEXAS SIZED "SKEETER" - A mosquito, compared in size to a quarter, is a monstrous sized varmit. And according to the general comment around the city "he's got all of his family here, too." Mosquitoes have made it virtually impossible to enjoy the cool evenings in the yard or working in garden plots in the city.

Mosquito Problem Widespread, 'Ten Commandments' Listed

Heavy rainfall throughout Texas is producing widespread mosquito production, and a lot of the problem may be occurring in your own back yard, says the Texas State Department of Health. It only takes a little standing water and some adult mosquitoes to bring on the pain and discomfort--and sometimes disease from mosquitoes.

All mosquitoes need water in which to pass their early life stages. Adult flying mosquitoes frequently rest in grass, shrubbery or other foliage but they never develop there.

But give mosquitoes water and they'll multiply. Some mosquitoes lay their eggs in standing water where they hatch in a day or two. Other mosquitoes lay their eggs in old tires, tin cans, or other water-holding containers in which they may remain unhatched for weeks or months until they are covered with water.

With both types of mosquitoes, the wigglers or larvae grow quickly and turn into tumblers or pupae. Soon the skin of the tumbler splits open and out climbs another hungry mosquito.

The director of the State Health Department's Vector Control Division, Kenneth C. Lauderdale, says that in addition to being pests, mosquitoes can be dangerous. Such diseases as encephalitis, yellow fever, dengue fever and malaria are common diseases spread by the flying insect. They are big health problems in other parts of the world.

One of the last epidemics of mosquito-borne disease in Texas was Venezuelan Equine Encephalitis (VEE), which entered the country through Mexico. It struck many people--mostly in the Rio Grande Valley--and made heavy inroads into the horse population.

While mosquitoes are a threat to health and bodily comfort, there is something that you as an individual can do to ease the situation, says Lauderdale.

Lauderdale calls this the Ten Commandments of Home Mosquito Control. They are:

1. Empty, remove, cover or turn upside down any receptacle that will hold water--particularly old bottles and tin cans.
 2. Change water and scrub vases holding flowers or cuttings twice each week--or grow cuttings in sand.
 3. Discard old tires or store them indoors.
 4. Screen rain barrels and openings to water tanks or cisterns. Seal cisterns not in actual use.
 5. Repair leaky plumbing and outside faucets. They may cause standing water.
 6. Connect open wastewater drains to a sewage system, or construct separate sump or leach lines.
 7. Clean clogged roof gutters and drain flat roofs.
 8. Fill holes in trees with sand or mortar, or drain or spray them, as required.
 9. Stock ornamental ponds with mosquito-eating fish.
 10. Clean and drain evaporative coolers frequently.
- And remember, says Lauderdale, that mosquitoes develop only in water. And, water standing just a few days can produce a crop of mosquitoes!

Voice Of Business

BY ARCH BOOTH

You've heard the one about the physician who - determined to look at the brighter side - reported: "The patient died in the best of health."

Well, I'm beginning to wonder if that can happen to a national economy.

Consider the evidence: Business is booming. Profits are up. Manufacturers are operating at capacity, selling everything they can make. Retail sales are at record highs, with consumers buying everything they can get their hands on.

There are shortages of skilled labor, leading some experts to speculate that the definition of "full employment" should be changed to reflect what we have now (about 5% unemployed), instead of the traditional four percent figure, which is beginning to look rather arbitrary.

Thanks to the high corporate profits, federal tax revenues from business will be up enough next fiscal year that the government will probably show a much lower deficit than expected earlier, and may actually show a surplus.

The foreign trade balance - registering sharp deficits in recent years - shows signs of improving after the last dollar devaluation.

Many economists believe the inflationary spurt in prices early this year was caused by temporary influences. They expect things to cool off later in the year (assuming no new spending binge by the federal government).

And the society is cooler, too. Our campuses are ending a calm academic year. Our big cities are free of riots. Many former "revolutionaries" have quietly faded away; others are making names for themselves working within the system they tried - and failed - to destroy. You hear little talk these days that America is "coming apart at the seams."

On top of all that, we have disentangled ourselves from the longest and most frustrating war in our history.

If all of the foregoing sounds to you like a picture of a nation "in the best of health," that's the way it sounds to me, too.

So why is the stock market so low? And why are foreigners showing their lack of confidence in the dollar by demanding more dollars for gold?

Do the spectators know something we don't?

I doubt it. I suspect the answer lies more in the realm of psychology than economics.

Both the stock market and the international money markets are highly sensitive to mood-swings. And moods are contagious. Let a few big speculators start buying optimistically and soon they are imitated by others. Prices go up quickly and the expectation of a rising market becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy. Conversely, a little pessimism in the wrong places can produce exactly the reverse effect.

The moods that produce these waves of buying and selling are not related to economic events. Right now, for example, the Watergate scandal is making many people feel uneasy. Watergate has absolutely nothing to do with the national economy, unless we want to go to the extreme of imagining an impeachment attempt that ends in civil turmoil (and what reasonable man would go to that extreme?). Nevertheless something like Watergate can trigger one of these mood-swings and that, eventually, may have an effect on the economy.

All of which leads me to conclude that in many ways, big speculators are a lot less sophisticated than the average citizen.

Expecting a pot of gold at the end of every rainbow is not very realistic. But neither is it realistic to fear every bird in the sky is a threat to your new hat.

"Whatta mess - I can't find my horse and git outta this mud cause the sand is blowing so hard I can't see!"

Dear Editor

Congratulations, Ladies!
 I wasn't a bit surprised. Best wishes for your continued success!

TAKING COURSE

Mrs. Lucille Bley and Mrs. LeaBelle Hooper are taking a graduate course in "Career Education" with Dr. Lewis Abernathy of North Texas State University as consultant.

Unusual Recipe Shared

With garden vegetables reaching the plentiful stage, the following unusual recipe is shared with Enterprise cooks as a different way to serve squash.

Mrs. Floyd Prentice, who shares the recipe, brought "samples" by the Enterprise office Wednesday afternoon and employees can attest the fact that it makes a very delicious product. "Try it, you'll like it," we say.

SQUASH CAKE

3 c. flour
2 1/2 c. sugar
1 tsp. soda
2 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
2 tsp. salt
3 eggs
1 c. vegetable oil
4 c. raw squash, grated
1 c. pecans, optional
Pre-heat oven 350 degrees. Mix all ingredients together. Pour into greased, floured pans. You may use 12 x 9 x 2 baking dish, two loaf pans or tube pan.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Corbett Aldridge III of Tahoka announce the arrival of a son, Ty Colin, who was born July 25 at St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock. The little fellow weighed 7 lbs., 13 oz. at birth. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Aldridge of Dimmitt and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Roberson of Olton. Great grandmothers are Mrs. Artie Cone and Mrs. Bill Booher of Dimmitt, Mrs. Frank Roberson of Lockney and Mrs. Willie Floyd of Plainview.

Janice Ray Is Honored With Bridal Shower

Janice Ray of Littlefield, bride-elect of Mark Muller, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. W. Wells of Hart Camp.

Assisting in hostess duties were Meses. Blanton Martin, Dewey Parkey, Paul Hukill, Edwin Oliver, D.R. Leonard, V. V.L. Foster, L.E. Ball, R.N. Nicholas, George Stewart, David Metcalf and O.J. Neeley.

Honored guests were Mrs. C. Roy Stevens of Littlefield, mother of the honoree and Mrs. Jim Birmingham of Odessa, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

The serving table was laid with a white net over orchid and centered with an arrangement of orchid flowers, bells and white doves. Refreshments of fruit punch, nuts, mints and finger print cookies were served from crystal appointments.

Patti Muller, Odessa, sister of the prospective groom, and Donna Muller, cousin, presided at the refreshment table.

Kathy Langford, cousin of the bridegroom-to-be, registered guests and gifts which included a linen table cloth and napkins and selections of the honoree's chosen pottery from the hostesses and numerous other gifts.

Tips Given Concerning Processing Of Vegetables

Supplies of processed vegetables are the smallest in several years.

"Because the carry-over is so small, prices likely will stay at present levels until sizes of the new pack is known," according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Fresh fruit and vegetable items in best supply at the most economical prices include oranges, bananas, lemons, cantaloupes, watermelons and celery."

Also carrots, cabbage, corn, dry yellow onions, radishes, green onions and cooking greens.

"Plums, peaches, nectarines, apricots and sweet cherries are all on the markets but not into the economy-price range yet."

"Occasional good buys appear on frozen orange juice, canned fruit cocktail and canned pineapple."

Beef-hungry shoppers can look for best values on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, round steaks and roasts, beef and calf liver-in addition to cuts featured at special prices, Mrs. Clyatt noted.

"Retail pork prices are generally the same as a week ago with weekend specials on hams, picnics, pork liver, shoulder roasts and steaks.

"Fryer chicken is higher than earlier in the season, but it's still a good protein buy. Purchase the whole bird, cut it up at home, and save the difference."

"Turkey prices, generally have climbed, although some markets feature specials."

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED CHAVEZ

Chavez-Cano Wedding Vows Read Saturday in Halfway

The First Baptist Church of Halfway was the setting Saturday for the solemnization of wedding vows for Miss Maria Rosa Elia Cano and Alfred Chavez.

Officiating was the Rev. Troy Smith. The double ring ceremony was directed by candlelight.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Cano and Mr. and Mrs. Pablo Chavez.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length dress of lace fashioned with a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Narrow lace ruffling accented the bodice in a bib effect and encircled the high jeweled neckline and long full sleeves caught at the wrists with lace edged cuffs. Her full length veil was edged with wide lace and held by a crescent of translucent pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet fashioned of pearl clusters.

Teresa Chavez, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Rachel Sanchez, Elisabeth Cano, sister of the bride, Janie Corona, Carolina Apodaca, Ana Alfaro and Maria Apodaca.

Diana Pedroza was flower girl. Ring bearer was Robert Munoz. Candles were lighted by Robert Marroquin of Plainview and Ruben Anguiano of Oregon.

Feminine attendants wore formal length dresses of pink satin fashioned with long sleeves and accented with matching velvet ribbons. They wore floppy hats tied with hot pink ribbon. Other attendants wore dresses and hats identically fashioned of purple. Roland Carrazzo was best man. Groomsman were Juan Sanchez, Emilio Amaya, Ramon Corona, Manuel Alvarez, Ventura Reyes, Rudy Lopez, Cannon Cano and Ricky Garcia.

Guests were seated by Robert Marroquin and Ruben Anguiano.

A reception was held in fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was laid with a white lace cloth. Tiered wedding cake and punch were served by Mrs. Ruben Anguiano.

For a wedding trip, the bride wore a pink dress with white accessories. The couple are

MRS. DICK WATSON

Cook Of The Week

Mexican food fanciers will especially enjoy the recipes shared this week by Mrs. Dick Watson, a resident of Olton less than a year.

Betty and Dick Watson bought the "old Dobbs place" west of Olton on Highway 70 and moved here last October. Betty's mother, Mrs. Ethel Webster, makes her home with them.

An auctioneer for about 13 years, Dick also teaches auctioneer schools and Betty accompanies him wherever his work calls. She also serves as clerk and cashier for him.

Betty met Dick in 1958 when she was working with Plains National Bank. Although they moved here from Lubbock, they had been mostly "on the road" the past year.

The Watsons have a new interest which proves to a combined hobby and livelihood. They have turned the small acreage that came with their property into "Crooked Row Vegetable Farm" and are growing beans, peas, okra, squash, long green chilies, tomatoes and watermelons.

The green chili peppers called for in Betty's recipe for Caldeo are grown on their vegetable farm.

Betty and Dick are both interested in antiques and have made buying trips for an antique dealer friend. Some of the antiques have become Watson treasures. They have an old child's high chair, crafted of oak, which unfolds to convert to a stroller.

Smaller items are the ones preferred by the Watsons. An antique hunting trip to Pennsylvania netted them a small corner cabinet and some glassware. Betty has depression glass which belonged to her great-grandmother.

Other prized possessions include a massive oak, octagon-shaped game table which they have converted to a dining table, its matching chairs and a small sideboard, finished with wrought-iron hardware.

The Watsons also treasure a large painting of Robert Geronimo, son of Indian Chief Geronimo, who lived in Ruidoso before his death.

Sewing was one of Betty's hobbies before she met Dick but it has been replaced by interests they share. Betty said Dick taught her to fish and began by baiting her hooks and removing the fish. Very soon, she says, she had to fend for herself because Dick became too interested in catching fish.

The Watsons are Baptist.

Child Abuse Or Neglect Reporting Is Mandatory

Day care workers, schoolteachers, doctors, neighbors -- anyone, in fact -- who suspects child abuse or neglect and fails to report it may now be charged with a misdemeanor and punished by fine or jail sentence.

The new law, which passed both houses of the Legislature in May and was signed into law by Governor Dolph Briscoe Wednesday (June 13), prescribes punishment ranging from $100 to $500 or a jail term of 10 days to six months, or both.

Rep. Chris Semos of Dallas, House sponsor of the bill, says the new law is simply an extension of a 1971 law making reporting child abuse mandatory. The problem now, Semos says, is making the public aware of the bill and urging lawmen to enforce it.

Most doctors know how to recognize abuse, particularly through bone x-rays. They also know to question multiple bruises and cuts, unexplained burns, hemorrhages and anemia.

Schoolteachers, day care and nursery school personnel, neighbors and relatives are also in positions to protect children by reporting signs of neglect or abuse which they have observed.

The American Humane Association's Children's Division suggests some key signals of abuse which may be present in a child's appearance or behavior:

--Dirty or torn clothing, or clothing inappropriate for the weather

--Unusual fatigue or listlessness

--Lack of proper nourishment

--Physical injuries or complaints

--Unattended medical problems, such as glasses or dental work

--Unusual shyness or aggressiveness

--Frequent tardiness or absence from school, or early arrival and delayed departure from school

The Association also suggests that parental attitudes--such as apathy toward his problems and refusal to allow him to take part in school activities.

If abuse is suspected, it should be reported to the county child welfare unit or to any local or State law enforcement agency.

The report should include the names of the parents and child, their address, the child's age and the nature of the abuse. If not all these facts are known, then any information which can direct an investigator to the scene should be reported.

Names of persons who report abuse are not revealed to suspected abusers, and Texas law grants legal immunity to all reports made in good faith.

Tangy Tea Punch

Tangy Tea Punch with a delicious assortment of cheeses is a gourmet delight to serve when friends drop in. The Tangy Tea Punch made with Instant Nestea is easy to make and so tasty too, you'll want to make it frequently. Garnish the tea punch with lime slices, sprigs of mint and maraschino cherries for a colorful punch bowl.

Serve with Swiss Knight, Wispride, Jarlsberg and other cheeses, and you can't help but be off to a delightful and relaxing afternoon of entertainment.

Here is the recipe as developed in the Nestlé Test Kitchens.

Tangy Tea Punch

- 8 cups cold water
- 1 cup sugar
- 3/4 cup Instant Nestea
- 1 6-oz. can frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
- 1 6-oz. can frozen limeade concentrate, thawed

In large bowl combine water, sugar and Instant Nestea; stir until dissolved. Add orange juice and limeade concentrates; chill. Serve over ice mold or with ice cubes. Garnish with lime slices, sprigs of mint and maraschino cherries, if desired, or garnish glasses with a lime twist and maraschino cherries skewered together.

Makes 20 1/2-cup servings.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Quite often we hear of a friend or acquaintance who has suddenly been stricken with a case of "food poisoning." Or, occasionally, a community may experience an outbreak of food poisoning from foods improperly packaged or improperly handled during and after preparation.

Since summer normally is the canning season when fruits and vegetables are at their peak, now is a good time to re-emphasize canning precautions.

Health authorities in California reported that more than 62 per cent of all cases of botulism were due to string beans, asparagus, fruits and other vegetables canned at home. Another 24 per cent was due to the preparation of animal products. With the great amount of home canning and freezing done in Texas, officials of the Texas State Department of Health are concerned about the possibility of this potentially fatal disease.

You probably have had no problems with home canning and freezing. But then you may have been lucky. How would you answer these questions?

First, do you believe that home freezing is the best method of food preparation, and the least likely to cause the growth of germs?

Is the disagreeable odor evident with spoiled food a sure-fire indicator that the food is spoiled?

Are nausea and diarrhea always the first symptoms of botulism?

Before answering these questions, let's take a closer look at what food poisoning really is.

Among bacteria involved in food-borne diseases are three arch criminals of the germ world. These are salmonella germs, staphylococcus and botulism germs.

The source of salmonella is found in the intestines of human carriers and domestic animals and may be present in meat or dairy products, eggs or egg products. One strain of salmonella contaminated an unchlorinated public deep water supply in Riverside, Calif., in 1966 and produced an epidemic of 15,000 cases of diarrhea.

Staphylococcal food poisoning may occur from a large number of contaminated products. Contamination may be from bovine origin--in contaminated milk or milk products, or of human origin. Toxin-producing staphylococci of human origin may come from purulent discharges from infections of a finger or hand, nasal secretions, or the apparently normal skin of hands and forearms. This is one reason disposable plastic gloves are widely used by food handlers.

Good sanitation in food preparation, plus proper cooking and quick, thorough cooling of prepared foods, are good insurance against staph and salmonella occurrences.

Botulism is caused by a deadly poison--a toxin--produced by a germ found abundantly in the soil. This germ is one of the spore-forming bacteria and is very resistant to normal heat and cold. It can grow without air, which makes it such a sinister threat in home canning. The germ itself doesn't cause illness, but the toxin it produces can be fatal to man.

Although some outbreaks have been caused from commercial products, the vast majority of botulism cases have been due to eating improperly processed home-canned foods.

Now let's answer the questions. First, the pressure cooker method is safer and preferred for canning. Still, precautions should be taken as to length of time and degree of temperature for preparation of any food. Studies on the heat resistance of the spores of the botulism germ prove that home canning by the cold pack method, still widely used, is extremely dangerous. All home-canned products should be boiled for at least three minutes with thorough stirring before serving.

Second, is odor always evident with spoiled foods? No. Factors such as acidity and nutrient value play a part in odor. Canned foods could be free of obnoxious odor, appear in good condition and still contain organisms of botulism. Never use canned goods that are puffed out on the ends or spurt when opened. And, never taste a suspect, canned-food before it is cooked properly. You can even get botulism by smelling a contaminated food.

Third, are nausea and vomiting usually the first symptoms of botulism? Botulism's clinical manifestations relate primarily to the nervous system. Change in voice, such as hoarseness, often is the first sign noted. It is a serious intoxication (not an infection) characterized by weakness, dizziness, headache and constipation. However, vomiting and diarrhea may occasionally initiate illness. Symptoms usually appear within 12 to 36 hours, sometimes several days after eating contaminated food.

About two-thirds of patients die within three to seven days, usually from respiratory or cardiac failure or from infectious complications.

State Health Department officials say that proper preparation of all foods could make botulism a thing of the past.
