After Judge's Decision...

Steel Works Phasing Out

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Saying his decision "could sound the death knell of the steel industry in the Mahoning Valley," a federal judge has ruled against a bid by steel workers to block the shutdown of U.S. Steel Corp's Ohio and McDonald Works.

After the ruling, the nation's largest steel producer promptly began phasing out its operations after 90 years of steelmaking in Youngstown.

But workers still have 60 days to save 3,500 jobs by buying the Ohio and McDonald Works, and their lawyer also plans to concentrate on antitrust action against U.S. Steel in connection with the proposed worker takeover.

Saying he could find no basis in law for ordering U.S. Steel to keep the facilities open, U.S. District Judge Thomas D. Lambros ruled Friday against the request by United Steelworkers union locals. His ruling came after four days of testimony.

U.S. Steel announced

Nov. 27 it was closing 15 plants nationally, including the Youngstown facilities, because they were losing millions of dollars.

Import Issue Brings Salvos

WASHINGTON (AP)—The troubled American steel industry and the Carter administration have traded opening salvos of what could lead to a major battle over the impact of imported steel on the American economy.

The U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest steel-maker, filed trade complaints Friday against steel producers in seven European countries claiming their steel is being imported into this country at unfairly low prices.

In response, the Carter administration reacted by suspending its "trigger price," a two-year-old

The company says it lost $66 million at the Youngstown facilities between 1965 and 1979.

The judge ordered the works "put in mothballs for 60 days" to give workers a chance to acquire the plants. Reno, DePietro, president of United Steelworkers Local 1307, said the ruling at least "didn't shut the door...giving the workers an opportunity to work out purchase of the mills."

Soon after Lambros' decision, company spokesman Randy Walthus announced the start of "the orderly shutdown" of the Ohio Works.

Steelworkers' lawyer Staughton Lynd said he was "bitterly disappointed" by the ruling but plans to focus on the antitrust action against the company.

Analysts said the action is expected to have little immediate impact on the market.

But one industry source, who declined to be named, said steelmakers were unhappy with the Carter administration's handling of the trigger price. He said he wouldn't be surprised if other companies file their own cases, not only against Europe, but against other countries.

Draft Protest In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several thousand demonstrators gathered near the White House Saturday to protest President Carter's call for a resumption of draft registration as part of a weekend of anti-draft registration campaigning.

The demonstrators, who were bundled up because of strong, chilly winds—gusting at times to 30 miles per hour—were also to march several miles down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol to hear several dozen speakers, including many anti-war activists who were prominent during the 1960s.

Organizers had said they hoped to gather 15,000 persons. The weekend is being organized by the National Mobilization Against the Draft. A spokesman for the group, Pat Lacey, said Friday that 250 to 300 busloads of persons were coming from around the nation to today's rally.

But by mid-morning, many of those buses had not arrived.

Many of the protestors were young men and women who would have to register under Carter's proposal which is before

Weekend update

Seven Die In Fire

COVINGTON, La. (AP)—A fire broke out in a paper mill early today, killing seven workers and injuring seven others, officials said.

Andy Dreszer, a spokesman for the Westvaco paper mill, said the victims were working in a fiber bleaching tower when the fire started about 3:30 a.m. He said the blaze was extinguished in about an hour. The victims were employees of International Reinforced Plastics, a South Carolina company Westvaco had hired to reline the tower wall with fiberglass, Dreszer said.

A spokeswoman for Allegheny Regional Hospital said seven workers were injured with most suffering only "eye irritation from the smoke." She said they were treated and released.

42 Firemen May Be Rehired

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—While Guardsmen were called out to patrol city streets in jeeps, a judge ruled that 42 dismissed firefighters may be reinstated—a surprise ace for striking Kansas City firemen and a new burden for city officials struggling to end a six-day walkout.

The walkout began when City Manager Robert Kipp said he would not rehire the 42 men dismissed during a December work slowdown. The 900 union firefighters in this city of 500,000 walked off their jobs Monday and pledged not to return until the 42 were rehired.

Question of the week: Has it been the Ralph Naders, Michael Harringtons and the Jape Fondas of the world who have given the American people better health, more prosperity, greater opportunity and the leisure time to enjoy the fruits of their labor, or has it been the American free enterprise system?

It's something worth pondering during an election campaign.

Those who grew up in the days of the "Great Depression" often profess to have fond memories of that period in American history. Some of the experiences undoubtedly were rewarding, but as we recall, a lot of the "good old days" were not considered so good when they were happening. Time has a tendency to diffuse some of our memories, unless we take time to give them plenty of thought.

It has been our contention ever since the era of inflation set in that Americans would be much better off financially than they ever were if they could be contented with life as it existed in those so-called "good old days."

There wouldn't be any air conditioning, central heat, television, fast food service, micro-wave ovens, etc. There would be very few two-car families, and many of the one-car families wouldn't crank up their machines more than once or twice a week. Some of them would probably be on blocks, anyway.

You can probably take it from there and figure out that under the conditions of those days, you could save a lot of money even at today's prices. But, frankly, for the most part we are willing for others to make that sacrifice. We are, on the whole, happy with the technological and cultural advantages that the expertise of our predecessors and contemporaries provides.

We have no ambition to go back to the conditions of yesteryear, although there are some aspects that hold a nostalgic attraction. When you lay it on the line for comparison, point-by-point, we've got it pretty good. If the Naders and the Fondas want to take another road, power to them, but let us maintain our course and try to perfect and refine it, which has been the overall goal for many years.

KEYS TO THE STORE—Mrs. Rex Miller, owner and operator of Everybody's Thriftway Grocery, surrenders the keys of the store to Ken Holt, who will be taking over Monday. Holt is a third generation groceryman. His father, Glen Holt, operates a Thriftway store in Rotan. (SDN Staff Photo)

After 36 Years...

Everybody's To New Ownership

When Everybody's Thriftway opens for business Monday, it will be the first time in the firm's 36-year history that the Miller family hasn't been involved in its ownership and management.

Mrs. Babe Miller, widow of the late Rex Miller, announced recently that the oldest continually-operated food store in Snyder had been sold to Glen and Sandra Holt and Ken and Cindy Holt of Rotan. The new owners will take over operation of the store Monday.

"Our decision to sell was a difficult one, but the change is made easier in knowing that Rex respected highly Mr. Holt as a groceryman and long-time friend. Because of the confidence that I know Rex had in the Holts, we can recommend your continued loyalty and patronage without reservation," said Mrs. Miller in a statement directed to the store's customers.

"For more than 35 years, the grocery business in Snyder has been a major part of the Miller family lives. Your families became more than just customers—you become our very good friends.

"Because of your good friendship, we have strived through the years to operate a family-oriented business. We have enjoyed the opportunity of getting to know you personally. We have watched our families grow up and of course, you have watched our family grow also. We have shared triumphs, defeats, joys and sorrows with you and you with us. For this, we are sincerely appreciative.

"We also are appreciative to our many employees throughout the years. We know that loyal customers, combined with dedicated employees, have been a major factor in our happiness here. Snyder and Scurry County have been very good to us.

It has provided us a good business, a wonderful place to live, work and rear our family, plus many, many wonderful friends. Jo Ann, Freddy and I appreciate you all," Mrs. Miller concluded, referring to her daughter. See Everybody's Page 3A

Release Still Elusive For U.S. Hostages

By The Associated Press
The American hostages in Tehran were ending their 20th week in captivity, today with prospects for their release apparently as elusive as ever. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini did not mention them or their captors in his Persian New Year speech denouncing the superpowers and domestic troublemakers.

Program Gives Drunken Drivers Second Chance

Drunken drivers in Scurry County are being given a second chance by way of a program designed especially for them.

The program, administered through the Snyder Council on Alcoholism, is a part of a larger, state-wide program known as the Texas Alcohol Traffic Safety Education Association.

"It's strictly for the purpose of reducing highway fatalities," said L.D. Womble, director of the local council on alcoholism.

The program, offered quarterly through the year, consists of 10 hours of lectures, film, and discussions conducted over a three-night period. The latest program ended Friday.

The program delves into the medical and physical realm of drinking as well as its legal dimensions. Guest speakers are often invited to speak to those attending the seminars, the drunken drivers.

Attendance in the program is mandatory if such a stipulation has been made a part of the drunken-driver's probation, said Womble. That holds true for both district and county court. Approximately 30 persons attended the latest program.

The emphasis of the program is placed on education. Program participants are told of the problem inherent in drinking and driving.

"It's to prevent future accidents and reduce traffic fatalities," said Womble. "That's the whole purpose of it."

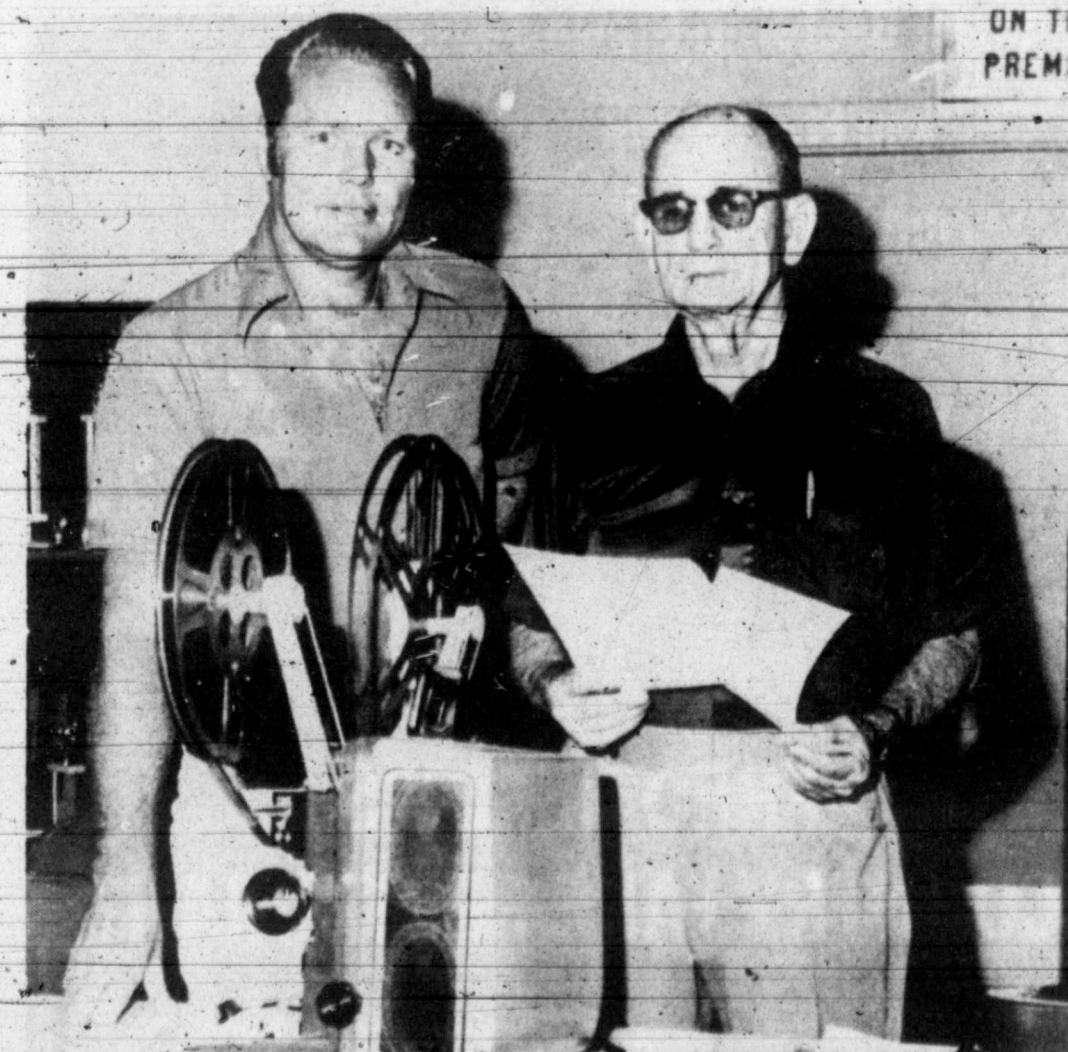

A by-product of that education, Womble noted, "is to equip a person with insight."

Although alcoholism is not directly addressed in the program, it is an issue involving program drinkers.

"We've had quite a few of them admit they have a problem they didn't know they had," Womble observed.

The Snyder Council on Alcoholism is located at 601 37th St., in the office area of the agriculture annex adjacent to the Scurry County Coliseum. The classes are conducted in the lobby.

The programs have been conducted free of charge to participants, but Womble noted that a fee may be charged in the future.

Final Arguments Tuesday In Tuition For Aliens Suit

HOUSTON (AP)—Final arguments were scheduled for Tuesday in a federal court to determine if a Texas law that requires tuition from illegal alien children who attend public school is constitutional.

The state presented its last witness Friday in the five-week old trial which came after suits were filed by 17 groups representing undocumented school children.

James Duderstadt, a Houston businessman and former professor at the College of the Virgin Islands, told U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals that a similar law in the Virgin Islands was overturned and double school sessions were the result.

He said he eventually sent his children to Houston to complete their education and he did not want to see what happened in the Virgin Islands happen in Texas.

Under cross-examination, he said, "If there are illegal aliens here, I wonder why they are allowed to remain. I feel this is the same type of situation that forced me to leave the Virgin Islands."

"It is not just the number of illegal alien children here now; but what will happen when the gates are opened and many, many others come."

Duderstadt claimed the enrollment in public schools doubled when the law was declared unconstitutional.

Houston Crash Leaves 7 Dead

HOUSTON (AP)—The pilot radioed that his engine had failed. Then the twin-engine commuter airliner smashed into a hangar and burst into flames, killing seven of the 10 persons aboard, officials say.

Airport workers scurried to pull survivors from the burning wreckage after the plane crashed Friday night in takeoff from Houston's Hobby Airport.

Three persons aboard the Eagle Commuter Airlines, Inc., plane were listed in fair and satisfactory condition at city hospitals.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, one person was killed when a light plane attempted an emergency landing on a city street, officials said.

Witnesses said the flames shot to the roof of the hangar.

The survivors—identified as David McGee, 22, of San Antonio; Willis Jackson, 31, of Houston; and Samir Foteh, 24, McGee and Jackson were listed in fair condition and Foteh was listed as satisfactory.

Virgil Savoy, 47, a Brownwood real estate investor, survived the crash but died at a Houston hospital, officials said.

The identities of the other dead passengers and crewmen were not released immediately.

With No Pun Intended...

First Female Troopers Said Shaping Up Nicely

By R. BRIERLEY THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer
SEA GIRT, N.J. (AP)—The nation's first all-female trooper cadet class is shaping up nicely, with no pun or offense intended, says New Jersey state police Superintendent Clinton Pagano.

The remaining 67 women of the original 104 recruits, now beginning the second quarter of their 20-week course, are "the committed ones," say academy staff members, who include the only two women among 1,931 state troopers. Graduation is June 27.

Pagano says the dropout rate is normal for recruit classes. "The people go home over weekend and reassess things. We get mothers who decide they want to be with their children, we get a variety of reasons.

"It's too early to say if it's the physical training pressure or the discipline pressure," said Pagano, who would not allow interviews with the recruits.

"One said she treated her dog better than we treated her. She wasn't here long enough for a truthful appraisal."

The class began Feb. 13, the result of a federal consent order to add more women to the force. "It's a one-time thing, an all-female class," said Pagano, who now must concentrate on recruiting minorities because of another court order.

Only two of the remaining female recruits are black. The force now includes only 84 non-white males and one black female.

ter, Mrs. Milton Ham, and son, Dr. Freedy Miller. The store began on the east side of the courthouse square in 1944 when Rex Miller and L.E. (Doc) Griffin, both employees of another grocery store at the time, purchased a store from Allen Beadle. They named the store "D&R Grocery" (for Doc and Rex). Later, they moved the store off the square due to a need for more parking facilities. It was moved to the banks of Deep Creek, to the building now occupied by Hinchshaw's House of Flowers. Griffin sold his interest in the store soon afterward to Miller and the name became "Everybody's."

Then, in 1960, seeing the need of further expansion, Miller built a new store in Snyder Shopping Center, the present location.

The key to operating a grocery store is personal service, said Mrs. Miller. "A personal interest in people; that kind of thing," she said. "That's the keynote of it to me. My husband was a very caring man."

Miller died in 1977 and Mrs. Miller took over the store's operations.

"I just backed my ears and stayed with it," she said.

"Everybody was very helpful to me. I didn't do it all by myself by any stretch of the imagination."

Mrs. Miller said she is leaving the store with mixed emotions.

"It's been real good to us," she said, "but I feel the time has come to make a change."

As for her own future, Mrs. Miller said, "I'm going to take it one day at a time."

Draft

"No draft, no war, no way," declared a yellow banner.

Carter proposed registration, but not the actual draft in his State of the Union speech, saying it was needed to demonstrate military resolve to the Soviet Union. It calls for the registration of all 19 and 20-year-olds.

The president has termed criticism of his plan "a gross overreaction."

But, David Miklethun, 17, of Cleveland, said the president has overreacted by calling for registration. "Registration leads to a draft and a draft leads to a war," he said.

Some of the scheduled speakers at the rally are well-known because of their association with the anti-war movement of the 1960s — David Dellinger, the Rev. William Sloane Coffin, David Harris and Stokely Carmichael.

On Monday, hundreds of persons say they plan to individually lobby congressmen to vote against the president's plan to reinstate draft registration.

In 1920, an amendment to the U.S. Constitution gave women the same voting rights as men.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Spasms of esophagus

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I read in your column about the person who had muscle spasms of the esophagus. I've been told that's what I have. It only hurts during the spasm but it's real bad then. I would like to know what causes people to have these spasms and what can you do about them.

DEAR READER—I guess they're a bit like muscle cramps in the legs. You can get one spontaneously for no apparent reason. It's very similar except you're talking about muscles that form the muscular tube of the esophagus (food tube).

There are certain things that will irritate the esophagus and seem to contribute to the occurrence of the spasms. One of these is a leak of acid material from the stomach backwards into the lower esophagus. This can occur with a hiatal hernia (hernia of part of the stomach through the diaphragm) or it can occur in people who do not have a hiatal hernia. This can also cause burning pain at the pit of the stomach, just at the tip of the breastbone. In fact, some people can develop ulcers in the lower esophagus because of it.

People who have frequent problems with spasm of the esophagus should have an examination to see if there is any underlying disease that can be corrected. General measures are usually directed toward decreasing stomach acidity because of the problems that I've mentioned.

Because hiatal hernia and leakage of acid digestive juice from the stomach into the lower esophagus is a common cause (but not the only one), I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-8, Hiatal Hernia, Esophageal Reflux. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

It is possible to decrease the attacks in some people by eliminating cigarettes, coffee, tea, colas and any substance known to cause digestive disturbances. Of course, if a hiatal hernia is present, then following the routine that is listed in The Health Letter I'm sending you helps to decrease the problem.

Some attacks of esophageal spasm are associated with nervous tension. If a person has frequent attacks, sometimes the doctor prescribes medicine that helps to prevent spasms as well as antacids.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Could you kindly explain what triglycerides are in terms a lay person can understand. My recent physical showed that the triglycerides level had increased from 146 to 333 in two-and-a-half years. My doctor tried to explain it to me but I didn't understand. My blood pressure was 150 over 78 and I'm 5 feet 7 and weigh 165 pounds. I'm 70 years old.

DEAR READER—Triglyceride is a chemical name for fat. Most of the body fat you have underneath your skin is in the form of triglycerides. So whenever you hear the word triglyceride just think of fat. Triglycerides tend to be higher in the blood of people who are overweight. Since fat is absorbed directly into your circulation after eating, your blood fat level will be higher immediately after a fatty meal. That's why the triglyceride test is of little value unless it's done in a person who has been fasting overnight.

Few Computers For Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union will find it very difficult to buy computers and other high-technology goods from American businesses under the Carter administration's strict new Soviet trade policy.

Officials have estimated that more than $1 billion in goods and services could be involved. The only apparent exception, one official said, would be for products related to health or safety.

In a statement Tuesday, Commerce Department Secretary Phillip M. Klutznick said the new guidelines "impose tighter controls in such areas as computers and software, manufacturing technology and materials critical to the manufacture of high-technology defense goods."

Tigers Lose In Second Round

Odessa Ector blanked the Snyder Tigers, 3-0, Friday night to advance to the finals of the Snyder High School Baseball Tournament.

The Eagles were to face the winner of Saturday's Lubbock Estacado-Leveland game for the tournament crown in a game set for 8 p.m.

Ector edged Lamesa, 3-2, in opening round play, while Snyder shut out Lubbock Dunbar, 3-0, to make it into the second round of the winner's bracket.

In other first-round games Friday, Estacado squeaked past Brownfield 7-6, and Leveland downed Monahans, 4-3. Monahans and Brownfield were to tangle Saturday morning in consolation play.

Mike Roemisch and Bobby Degrate paced the Snyder attack in the Tigers' opening round game with Dunbar. Roemisch broke a scoreless deadlock in the third with a home run. Degrate got one of his two singles in the same inning to score Paul Gafford, who had reached base on a single. Roemisch then batted in the third run with a single in the sixth.

The Tigers were to meet the loser of the Estacado-Leveland game at 6 p.m. Saturday to determine third place in the tournament.

In the second round game Friday night, the Ector Eagles got two runs in the fifth inning without the aid of a hit as the Tigers were guilty of three miscues. Two hits and another error got the Eagles another run in the sixth. Tony Degrate, the Snyder pitcher, didn't give up a hit till the sixth and he was touched for only three the whole game.

However, the Tigers were able to get only three hits off Ector's Danny Rodriguez and they were well scattered.

Doctor Sued By Walton

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Center Bill Walton of the San Diego Clippers Friday sued the team doctor of the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association, alleging that Dr. Robert Cook treated Walton's broken foot inappropriately.

Walton, who signed with the Clippers as a free agent last summer, accused Cook of failing to diagnose the fracture, prescribing medications and injections that were inappropriate and failing to provide proper therapy.

The 6-foot-11 Walton injured his foot while playing for the Blazers in 1978 and has played only briefly since then as a result of complications from the injury.

A secretary in Cook's office said the doctor was out of town and would not be available until Monday.

The Blazers had no immediate comment.

Little Dribblers Girls Clinics Set

Little Dribbler White Stars Triumph, 49-30

The Little Dribbler White major league all-stars scored 23 points in the final period for a 49-30 victory over the Gold all-stars Friday night.

The White Stars were paced by Mike McWilliams who bucketed 12 points. Also in double figures was Don Osborn who contributed 11 points.

The White Stars trailed by two points at the end of the first half but added 14 points in the third period to only five for the Gold Stars to take a comfortable lead.

Eleven players were selected from the White and Gold teams to make up the Snyder major league all-stars who will play in the state tournament in Kermit April 17-19. Winner of the state tournament will advance to the national finals in Leveland beginning April 29. The team will be in a practice tournament in Hobbs next Friday and Saturday.

Chosen as major league all-stars were McWilliams, Osborn, Todd Pollard, Jeff Rose, Ruben Escobedo, Tim Mitchell, Roy McDonald, Stacey

Forbes, Patrick Malone, Steve Parker and Ricky Hunter.

Coaches will be Ira Riggs, Kris Seale and Jim Patrick.

A minor league game also was held Friday night with the Red Stars taking a 19-15 victory over the White Stars.

Denard White paced the win with 10 points. High point for the Whites was Terra Garza with six points. The score was knotted 11-11 going into the final quarter, but White scored six of the Reds' eight points to seal the triumph.

A minor all-star team also will be announced later which will participate in the Kermit state tournament.

Whites: B. Golds 10, Whites: McWilliams 12, Osborn 11, Pollard 10, Rose 10, McDonald 10.

Ryan Just Tries For Strike Zone

By DAN SEWELL

AP Sports Writer
COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Bill Russell lashed a shot up the middle, off Nolan Ryan's leg. The announcer intoned, "Base hit."

The crowd groaned in unison — the no-hitter was over.

The ninth inning of a late-season battle between the Los Angeles Dodgers and Houston Astros?

No, the first inning of an exhibition game. Russell's hit was the first of nine — producing eight runs — in Ryan's first three innings of work with the Houston Astros this spring.

Ryan laughed later, saying, "I'm just trying to get the ball over. I'd never make a team in spring training."

But the incident wasn't surprising. No baseball player ever has been paid as much ($1 million a year for four years) as Ryan, and few ever have aroused such expectations.

"People will want me to do a lot, but I'm not going to try to do more than I'm capable of," said Ryan. "I don't set any goals but staying healthy. Everything else will follow."

When Ryan left the California Angels after the 1979 season for free agency, it didn't seem likely he would become the game's highest-paid player.

His record over the past four seasons is only one over 500, and he has had a series of injuries, including muscle strain in his right elbow last year. Ryan is 33, and slower arms than his 100 mph-plus have burned out by that age.

"I never really knew what the market was going to be. Everybody has apprehensions when you go into free agency. As far as setting a figure I hoped to sign for, I really didn't think about something like this," Ryan said.

He couldn't have asked for much more — the money, a contender, and the team nearest his hometown of Alvin, Texas, where he first earned money by helping his late father deliver the Houston Post. "My throws to the porches were always in the strike zone," he jokes.

There are problems with being a $1 million man, besides keeping inflation from eroding your riches he's investing most of the money in land.

Ryan knows Astros fans are pennant-starved after 18 years of rooting for a franchise that has no championships and just three winning seasons, and he knows the many interviews he's been giving daily here are only a taste of the media demands ahead.

"I don't keep pressures on my mind. I think I know what that can do," said Ryan, who saw a series of high-salaried free agents suffer sub-par seasons in their first years with the Angels.

His peers don't expect pressure to affect the soft-spoken Ryan.

"Nolan's got a good grip on that," said Astros shortstop Craig Reynolds. "The only way it would bother him is if people make such a big deal of it (Ryan's contract), they don't look at anything else."

"I don't think it'll make any difference," said Manager Bill Virdon.

Cougars' Chinn A Big Surprise

By MICHAEL LUTZ

AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Brent Chinn says his name has always caused a lot of confusion. But to set the record straight, he says he "immigrated" to the University of Houston from Edna, not China, to train as the Cougars' No. 2 quarterback.

"I knew there was something I'd been missing in my coaching career and now I know what it was — a Chinese quarterback," UH Coach Bill Yeoman chuckles, as Chinn suffers good-naturedly through another joke about his name.

"People who hear about me but don't see me are always surprised that I'm not Chinese," the friendly freshman said. "When I was playing baseball in high school, we went to a tournament and this other shortstop kept looking for me."

"He finally figured out who I was and told me he'd been looking for a Chinese baseball player," Chinn is a rare commodity on the UH football team, where the varsity quarterback corps can be counted on two fingers — Chinn and starter Terry Elston, the hero of the 1980 Cotton Bowl victory over Nebraska.

But Yeoman doesn't think Chinn will be a laughing matter to opposing teams next fall when he relieves Elston.

"He's about where most freshmen quarterbacks would be at this stage but the thing that helps Brent is he's exceptionally bright," Yeoman said. "I think by fall, he'll be able to give us a hand if we need him."

The fact that Chinn is a solid choice as the Cougars' No. 2 quarterback as a freshman is a credit to his intelligence. He was recruited as a defensive back, although he had played quarterback in high school.

But Yeoman was forced to press Chinn into quarterbacking the junior varsity last season and calling plays for the scout team. Chinn had several outstanding games and starred in a 42-7 victory over the Texas Tech JVs, throwing three touchdown passes and running for another.

Yeoman won't change his offensive scheme with the smaller Chinn, 6-1, 163, replaces Elston, 6-3, 216. "It'll be the same game," Yeoman insists. "Read the defense and see who gets the ball."

Chinn says he's going to trace his family name to find its origin but it likely won't prevent the daily confusion about his race. "When I went to pick up my ID they couldn't find it," Chinn said.

"They looked everywhere and finally found it in a separate group of IDs for orientals."

Olympics Are Definitely Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter didn't change many minds but American athletes now know emphatically that the United States will not compete in the Olympic Games this summer in Moscow.

Carter, who has pressed for two months for an international boycott of the Games as punishment to the Soviets for their occupation of Afghanistan, summoned 100 athletes to the White House Friday to tell them, face-to-face, that no U.S. team will go to Russia.

"I can't say at this moment that other nations will not go to the Summer Olympics in Moscow," Carter told the athletes during a 20 minute speech in the East Room. "Ours will not go."

"I say that not with any equivocation. The decision has been made."

Carter said it was necessary for the United States and other nations to "let our voices be heard in an absolutely clear way, and not add the imprimatur of approval to the Soviet Union and its government."

He said participation in the Olympic Games in Moscow would give the Soviets that approval.

After the White House meeting, the athletes gave varying opinions on the Carter message but all agreed it was plain that he meant: "We aren't going to Moscow."

In a formal vote, 44 athletes voted against the Carter position, 29 supported a boycott and 24 abstained.

Fred Newhouse of Shreveport, La., a gold medal winner in track in 1976, said he supported the president two months ago because he thought it might save lives. Now, with no movement by the Soviet Union, he has changed his mind.

"I feel we are being used as small pawns in a big game," he said. "I just don't agree that the tactics he is taking are going to do much to Russia. Carter admits the Russians are not going to get out of Afghanistan. Well, if you are not playing to win, why play at all?"

To Reach NJCAA Finals...

Westerners Win Texas Shootout At Hutchinson

UP AND OVER—Brad Richardson of Snyder soars over the bar in the Division III high jump Saturday as the annual Canyon Reef Relays got underway in Tiger Stadium. Finals in the running events were scheduled for Saturday afternoon. (SDN Staff Photo)

Team Like Time Bomb, Beams WTC's Coach

HUTCHINSON, Kan. You could hear the ticking almost as soon as the second half began.

"This team is like a time bomb," grinned Coach Nolan Richardson before a crowd of reporters after his Western Texas Westerners rallied to defeat Tyler Junior College, 67-52, here Friday night.

"One mistake and that's all it takes. If Paul (Pressey) gets one steal, he's got three, four or five and the game turns around."

Western Texas trailed at half-time, 41-29, but outscored the Apaches, 38-11, in the second half to win the NJCAA semifinal contest.

"We've got great people that believe in themselves," said the coach when asked about the key to the game.

"We talked it over at half-time. I usually come in yelling and screaming, and all that, but I knew that wasn't going to work this time, so we just talked. We talked about what our goals were and what we had set out to do. We remembered last year (a 109-103 overtime loss to Three Rivers in the semifinals) and we knew we didn't want that to happen again."

The Westerners scored eight straight points to trim the Tyler lead to 45-40, then came back with 11 more to go in front 56-48.

"We got great help from a lot of people. Freddie (Davis) came off the bench and really turned the team on. He did the same thing this time last year. He hits two or three buckets and suddenly everything's changed. Franklin Bennett, David Brown and Greg (Stewart) all did a good job in the second half. And then of course, there's always Paul.

With Pressey flipping passes off to Stewart inside offensively and stealing the ball away on defense, WTC quickly regained composure in the second half and got its game together. The addition of Davis' long shots made the Westerners a threat from near and far, and Tyler began to fall apart like so many other teams had against WTC all year.

With a six-point lead,

Gervin Sparks

Ailing Spurs

Past Pacers

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Old nemesis George Gervin and surprising Kevin Restani provided the offensive spark as ailing San Antonio knocked off the Indiana Pacers 116-108 in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

Gervin scored 41 points and Restani added a career-high 24 to lead the Spurs to their fourth straight victory.

"With three guys out, we knew we needed an extra effort," said Gervin, who earlier this season scored 54 points against the Pacers in Indianapolis.

"We knew we had to have some scoring in order to win," added Restani.

The Spurs played without the services of regulars Larry Kenon, James Silas and John Shumate, all missing an assortment of ailments.

San Antonio reserve Paul Griffin proved the catalyst for the Spurs by scoring eight consecutive points in the third quarter to put San Antonio in command at 84-75.

The Spurs outscored the Pacers 29-19 to take a 94-82 lead after three quarters.

George McGinnis led Indiana with 31 points, while Mickey Johnson added 19 and Johnny Davis 18.

Western Texas went into a stall, working only for a layup or nothing at all. The tactic went on for almost eight minutes before Tyler fouled in desperation. Richardson's strategy, to slow the game down, didn't sit well with the near-packed house.

"People come to see us run and shoot and do acrobatics, but I come to win basketball games. At the time, I thought we needed to control the tempo of the game. Tyler has a great team. They can hurt you in a lot of ways. But with us controlling the tempo, it was hard for them to do those things," said Richardson.

"A lot of people think that if you are a running team, you don't have any discipline, but I think we can prove that untrue. We showed you can play good, hard, fast basketball and be smart, too. I believe in using all phases of the game."

The win was Richardson's 100th career victory as a junior college coach, something he is obviously very proud of.

"This was one of my goals, one of my dreams to win 100 games as a junior college coach," he said.

"And I couldn't have done it without the three great teams I've coached at Western Texas. It's the kids who deserve the credit, all of it."

Richardson was in a position to make it 101 here Saturday night as his Westerners were to meet Jefferson State of Alabama for the national juno title. The coach, who will be leaving WTC to take the head basketball position at Tulsa University next season has only been beaten 13 times.

By BILL McCLELLAN HUTCHINSON, Kan.—It was billed as a great Texas shootout, the good guys against the bad guys, the Westerners against the Apaches. And, as if written for Hollywood, the battle stuck to a familiar theme—the bad guys controlled for a while, but the white hats came storming back to win in the end.

Western Texas College, alias the good guys, overcame a 12-point half-time lead quicker than most cavalries could mount up and went on to defeat Tyler Junior College's Apaches, here Friday night, 67-52.

The victory was No. 36 in Western Texas' perfect season, and Coach Nolan Richardson's 100th junior college career win.

The Westerners were to ride in the saddle one more time, taking on Jefferson State of Alabama at 8:30 p.m. Saturday night for the NJCAA National Basketball Tournament Championship.

Jefferson State, 24-9, defeated Yavapai College of Arizona, 71-63, in Friday's other semifinal contest.

Friday's battle between the two Texas teams opened like Little Big Horn and Western Texas had the role of Gen. Custer.

Led by guard Raymond Bell and Virdell Howland, the Apaches ambushed the Westerners from the start.

Tyler's 2-6 lead quickly grew to 18-10 and ran to 26-16 with 10 minutes still left in the first half.

Western Texas couldn't seem to do anything well, while Tyler held all the weapons. The Apaches hit a respectable 51 percent from the field in the first half, and out-rebounded the Westerners, 31-15, according to official statistics.

Meanwhile, WTC had a miserable time sighting in the basket, and managed to hit only 14 of its 43 shots at the hoop. But worse, WTC was charged with 10 fouls in the first half, putting Tyler in a bonus situation with almost three minutes left.

The Apaches scalped the Westerners from the line, ripping in nine of 11 shots.

WTC hit one of two. The half-time score was Tyler 41, WTC 29.

It was obvious that the Westerners were flat for the game, but Coach Richardson had a different term for it.

"We were dead. That's the word for it. That's all you can say. I don't know," he added. "Some times you can get so keyed up for a game that you can't do anything right. I think that's what happened to us that first half. Tyler is from our home state, so it was like the Texas State championship."

But Western Texas wasn't really dead. The Westerners proved that as soon as the second half got underway.

Freddie Davis scored the first bucket with an assist from Paul Pressey. Bell retaliated for the Apaches, however, and put in four points. But that was all the East Texas team was to get for a moment or two. Pressey began to take control of the game and the rest of the Westerners followed suit.

Pressey, who may have clinched MVP honors here Friday night with second-half heroics, began feeding the ball inside to Stewart, and played superb defense all the while. Stewart made it 45-34, and Davis fired a long bomb to flip the totals to 45-36.

Under WTC's tough press, Tyler turned the ball over and Franklin Bennett immediately put in two more points. David Brown cut the Tyler lead to five just seconds after, 45-40. Elton Webster notched a point for the Apaches when he hit the front end of a free throw, and Stewart laid another bucket home for WTC.

Howland found the cords for Tyler again. But that was the end of the tale for Tyler's Apaches. Ignited by Pressey's hard work, Stewart's headstrong play inside, and those long-distance strikes from Davis, the opponents began to crumble.

"I could see it in their (the Westerners) eyes," recalled Richardson after the game. "I knew at that point that the guys wanted to win and were going to win. They had gone too far to let this happen to them."

Stewart ripped the Tyler lead to only four points on a shot from inside and David Brown cut it to two seconds later. Another turnover by Tyler gave Bennett a chance to tie the game with 16:20 left, and from that point on, it was all WTC.

Tyler had gone into a four corners offense, but the ball changed hands when Harry O'Brien fouled with 14 minutes showing on the clock.

Davis sent WTC in front with another crashing bomb. Pressey added a sweeping layup, and Brown scored off a Pressey steal to give WTC a 54-48 lead. Davis scored again—Western Texas's 16th straight points—to make the score 56-48 with over half of the period still remaining.

At 12:10, WTC went into a four corners offense itself, hoping to draw Tyler away from the basket. The Apaches decided to stay put for a while. The clock showed 5:30 when they finally went man-to-man, but even that didn't bother the well-disciplined Westerners.

WTC continued to work the clock until 3:36 remained when Brown was sent to the line on a Howland foul. The 6-7 sophomore made both shots. Phil Spradling, Stewart, Pressey and Ronald Portee all got in on the act before the final buzzer.

WTC out-scored the Apaches by an amazing 38-11 in the second half, and hit an almost unheard-of 16 of 18 from the field for 89 percent.

WTC 67, TYLER 52
WTC—Davis 4-6, 0-0, 1, 8; Patterson 1-6, 0-0, 3, 2; Stewart 5-11, 1-2, 1, 11; Bennett 4-5, 1-2, 2, 0; Portee 1-4, 0-0, 1, 2; Spradling 3-7, 1-2, 0-7; Brown 6-11, 2-2, 2, 14; Pressey 6-11, 2-2, 2, 14; totals 30-61, 7-10, 12, 67.

TYLER—Bell 8-0-2-16; O'Brien 1-1-1-3; Howland 6-0-3-12; Webster 2-7-3-11; Swannegan 4-2-2-10; totals 21-30-11-52.

Halftime Score: Tyler 41, WTC 29.

Record Perch

Is Certified

AUSTIN (AP)—The first-ever state record Nile perch has been certified by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Mike Saldivar, a San Antonio fireman, caught a 12-pound, 1-ounce Nile perch on Feb. 1 at Lake Braunig.

The department said Nile perch are natives of Africa, but state biologists hope they will be able to adapt to the warm waters of power plant discharge lakes in Texas.

The fish Saldivar caught was one of 102 fish stocked at Braunig in 1978 and 1979.

Says S&L Commissioner...

Interest To Peak Then Go Back To Acceptable

AUSTIN (AP) State Savings and Loan Commissioner Alvis Vandygriff says home mortgage interest rates will peak and then drop to an "acceptable" level but never again below 10 percent.

He said in an interview Friday this should make new "Canadian Rollover" mortgages attractive to homebuyers.

The savings and loan section of the State Finance Commission tentatively approved rules for the mortgage plan on Thursday, and Vandygriff said they should take effect June 1.

Vandygriff predicted that interest rates would peak around the last quarter of this year and then begin to drop, but not to 1978 or early 1979 levels.

"I think we'll never have a single-digit mortgage rate again," he said.

Vandygriff predicted it would be 1982 "before we are back to normal" to a rate that is acceptable to the public and will provide a good profitable operation.

He said that "acceptable" rate would be between 10 percent and 14 percent.

Canadian Rollover mortgages, so named because the idea originated in Canada, would let a borrower take advantage of a drop in interest rates or enable a lender to profit from a rise.

"I'm so excited about the thing because I think it is going to really offer an opportunity to the borrower and the finance industry," Vandygriff said.

Borrowers and lenders could agree in advance to adjust the interest rate on a mortgage periodically anywhere from every six months to every five years.

If the average cost of funds, published semi-annually in the Federal Home Loan Bank Board Journal, dropped, the borrower would get a lower rate of interest.

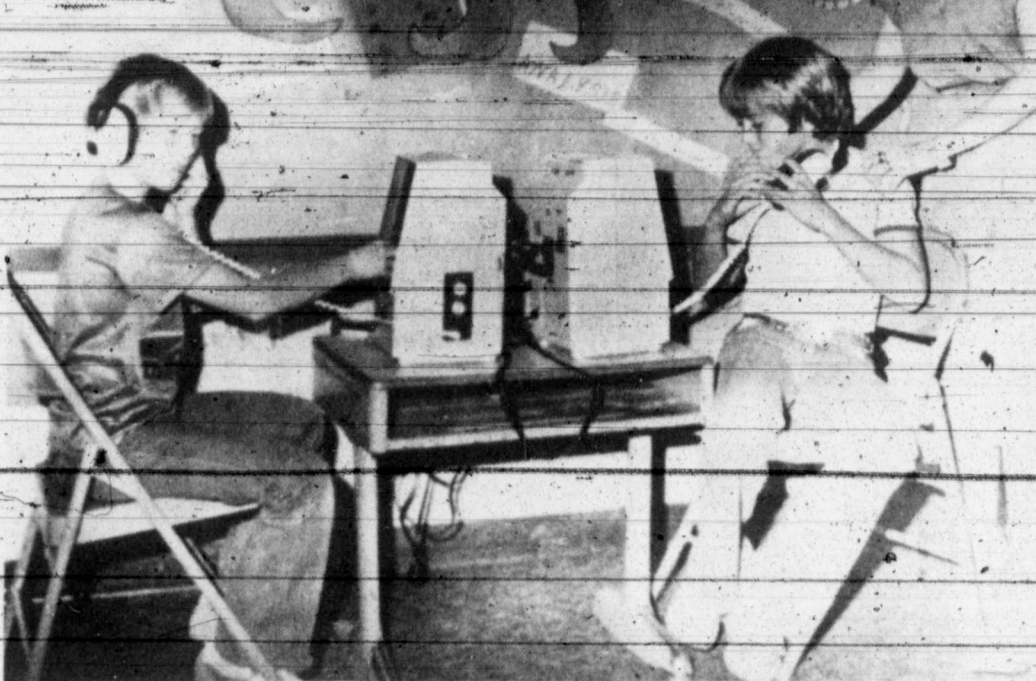

If the figure increased, however, the lender would have the right to raise the interest rate on a mortgage but also could leave it the same or even drop it.

Homebuyers and savings and loan associations would remain free to see more conventional mortgage plans, including a fixed interest rate for the life of a loan.

Vandygriff said he doubted many homebuyers would be willing to sign a 30-year note at today's prevailing interest rate of 16 percent to 16½ percent, plus one buyer's point. A point is 1 percent of the total amount of the loan, paid in a lump sum to the lender.

"But if I knew my interest rate would come down in a looser money market, I don't think I'd have any hesitation," Vandygriff said. "By the same token, a lending institution can't feel safe in saying to an individual, 'I am going to lock in this interest rate for this period of time,' after seeing money costs go from 7 percent in June 1978 to 14.956 percent now."

"I think this will make some mortgage money available under these circumstances," he said. Savings and loans are making few mortgage loans that were not previously committed at interest rates lower than the current market.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

A minor traffic mishap was investigated Friday night by city police.

The collision occurred in the 3600 block of 40th St. and involved a parked 1980 Chevrolet owned by Leisure Lodges, Inc., and a 1961 Ford driven by Gene Dow.

The accident was reported at 10:45 p.m. and was investigated by Bill Armstrong.

'Open House' Set For Project Excel

An "open house" for parents of "Project Excel" students in Snyder Public Schools has been set for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the West Elementary School Auditorium.

Project Excel is the Snyder Public Schools' Gifted and Talented Program, and students meet for 2½ hours a week at West Elementary. The curriculum stresses higher levels of thinking skills, including Bloom's Taxonomy, scientific method, analogy skills, logical and divergent thinking. Creative, productive and critical thinking skills also are taught.

This is the first year that students have been involved in a gifted and talented program in Snyder.

The first phase of the identification process involved an evaluation of test scores, teacher recommendations and peer nominations. The second phase included information from the parents, teachers and the nominated student.

Involved in the program are six students from each elementary campus, making a total of 36 students from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

At Verkhoyansk and Oymyakon in Soviet Siberia, temperatures dip to minus 96 F. or minus 71 C., making them the coldest towns in the world.

GEAR UP FOR SPRING GARDENING

It's time to gear up for that spring vegetable garden. And two major steps are getting the right varieties and planting at the right time.

Proper planting time is important if maximum quality and production are expected.

Since such warm-season crops as tomatoes, peppers, corn, eggplants, beans, squash, cucumbers, okra, watermelon, sweet potatoes, pumpkins and muskmelons (cantaloupes) are sensitive to cold temperatures and will be killed by even the lightest frost, gardeners must be aware of the average date of the last frost for their particular areas.

According to the National Weather Service, the average date of last frosts for our region is around April 1.

It's also wise to wait until the soil has warmed before planting seeds of warm-season crops. Soil temperature at the four-inch depth should be in the upper 60's or into the 70's before planting to increase seed germination.

Some vegetable crops are cold-hardy and can tolerate light frosts or freezes. These include beets, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, peas, lettuce, onions, parsley, radishes, spinach, cauliflower, collards, mustard, potatoes, kale and turnips. These can be planted in late winter or early spring.

By planting warm-season crops in late spring, they will produce more high-quality produce. During the hot summer such heat-tolerant crops as southern peas, okra, eggplant, sweet potatoes, squash and small-fruited tomatoes do best.

Planting the best adapted varieties that are available can mean the difference between success and failure of the garden. Current vegetable variety recommendations by the Extension Service are as follows:

Bean, Bush - Contender, Tendercrop, Bush Blue Lake.

Bean, Pole - Stringless Blue Lake, Kentucky Wonder, Romano.

Bean, Lima Bush - Henderson Bush, Fordhook 242.

Beets - Green Top Bunching, Asgrow Wonder, Ruby Queen.

In The Oil Patch...

3 More Projects Set In Sharon Ridge Field

The Sharon Ridge (Clear Fork) field of Scurry County has gained three more projects.

W.M. Brymer, Inc., of Abilene No. 1-B National Bank of Snyder will be drilled to 3,250 feet four miles west of Ira.

Location is 1,010 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of section 129, block 97, H&TC survey.

It finished for a daily pumping potential of 28 barrels of 26-gravity oil and 80 barrels of water, through perforations from 1,731 to 1,843 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 750-1.

Location is 2.5 miles southeast of Ira and 330 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of tract 2, section 33, Kirkland & Fields survey.

Ellpen also completed No. 3 House in the Sharon Ridge (Clear Fork) field two miles northwest of Ira.

It completed on the pump for 38 barrels of 26-gravity oil and 60 barrels of water, through perforations from 2,379 to 2,488 feet.

Location is 990 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of section 139, block 97, H&TC survey, abstract 2364.

Exxon Corp. No. 4-C Annie Martin is a new well in the Dorward pool of Scurry County, 3.5 miles northeast of Fluvanna.

On 24-hour potential test it pumped 63 barrels of 34.6-gravity oil and 101 barrels of water, through perforations from 2,263 to 2,545 feet. The gas-oil ratio is too small to measure.

Well site is 1,510 feet from west and 1,130 feet from north lines of section 575, block 97, H&TC survey.

Monsanto Co., operating from Midland, announced potential test on its No. 1-7A Lyon-Diamond M Unit in the Diamond M (Canyon lime) field 12 miles southwest of Snyder.

The operator reported a daily pumping potential of 74 barrels of 43.7-gravity oil and 350 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,732 to 6,738 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 810-1.

Well site is 1,250 feet from south and 1,350 feet from east lines of section 197, block 97, H&TC survey.

vey, abstract 2735.

Convest Energy Corp. of Houston announced potential test on its No. 2 G.B. Clark Jr. and others, the seventh well in the Pollan (Ellenburger) field in Kent County.

On 24-hour potential test it pumped 166 barrels of 42-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 250-1.

Completion was from open hole at 7,770 feet, where 5.5-inch casing is cemented, and total depth of 7,804 feet. The pay was acidized with 500 gallons.

Location is 660 feet from north and 2,067 feet from west lines of section 60, block 5, H&GN survey and two miles southwest of Polat.

Jack G. Elam of Midland No. 1 Johnson is to be drilled as a 3,900-foot wildcat in Kent County, three miles southwest of Jayton.

Drill site is 2,300 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 53, block 1, H&TC survey.

Ground elevation is 1,890 feet.

The Seven J. (Ellenburger) field of northeast Borden County gained a new project with the staking of Sayers Operating Co. of Midland No. 1 Jones.

Scheduled to 8,350 feet, it is 15 miles northeast of Gail and 2,100 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 477, block 97, H&TC survey.

It is an east offset to the discovery well of the depleted field.

Formal Rites Wed Pair

At a candlelight ceremony in the chapel of the First Baptist Church, Kathy Rebecca Welsh became the bride of Bryan Gerald Walton Saturday, Feb. 16, 8 p.m. Rev. E.K. Shepard performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Welsh, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Walton, all of Snyder.

The altar was lit by a centered heart-shaped candelabrum entwined with greenery. On each side of the candelabrum were tall white pillars topped with white feather mums and leather leaf. At the outer edges of the altar were seven branch candle trees.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of silk, cloud gown and recent mother's Amonon lace by Priscilla of Boston. The modeled bodice of English net was heavily embellished with Amonon lace and featured a unique Amonon neckline. Long tapered sleeves were defined in Amonon lace and were fitted to the wrists with lace and a row of fine tapered buttons and loops. The empire waistline fell into a natural waistline in back. The Amonon skirt swept to a back fullness forming a chapel train. The skirt skirt and train were heavily draped with white feather mums and leather leaf.

The bride carried a vase of white flowers, including white carnations, roses, and white gladioli. The groom wore a white tuxedo with a white shirt and a white bow tie. The ceremony was held in the chapel of the First Baptist Church.

decorated with a pale blue floor length cloth overlay with a square dark blue cloth was centered with a blue bouquet with a tall burning blue candle. It featured German chocolate cake and coffee was served in a silver coffee service. Serving at the groom's table were Leesa Fulford and Sharon Halford.

The bride chose a beige pantsuit with a long sleeved sweater and pearl accessories for her going away ensemble. After a short trip, the couple are at home east of town.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted at The Shack Friday night by parents of the groom.

Out of town guests were from Monahans, Hammond, La., Odessa, Tucson, Ariz., North Ridge, Calif., New Home, Crosby, Tex., and Midland.

Mountain Trip Set By Scouts

Girl Scouts of West Texas Council will spend three days on the high mountain elevations of Camp Mary White near Mayhill, N.M. The event, TAWASI, is to be held March 29-31 for older Girl Scouts of a six Council exchange.

TAWASI is an annual event for seniors and ninth grade Cadettes of Permian Basin (Odessa and Midland), Caprock (Lubbock), Zia (Alamo), and El Camino (San Angelo) Norcentex (Wichita Falls) and West Texas (Arlington). TAWASI is an Indian word meaning "friendship" which is the goal of every TAWASI gathering.

The TAWASI group will be staying in Adirondack Shelters that have three sides and a roof, and are open at the front so that it is easy to see the sky, trees and animals.

TAWASI program highlights include a "Mountain Program," Campfire, "Wider Opportunity" presentation and flag ceremonies.

West Texas troops eligible for the TAWASI event are Senior Troop No. 1, Abilene; Senior Troop No. 34, Sweetwater; Senior Troop No. 360, Big Spring; Senior Troop No. 203, Roscoe; Senior Troop No. 326, Snyder; and Senior Troop No. 384, Lamesa.

Also, Cadette Troop No. 145, Sterling City; Cadette Troop No. 266, Snyder; Cadette Troop No. 139, Sweetwater; and Cadette Troop No. 133, Roscoe.

Mrs. Rhoades Gives Program At Study Club

The Art Guild Study Club met March 18 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. Travis Rhoades as hostess and program leader.

Mrs. Rhoades, a former teacher, is interested in history and has traveled extensively in the United States and abroad.

In "Our American Heritage," her topic, she stressed how blessed America is today in comparing it to other parts of the world.

We are blessed with a noble past. What has passed is a prologue, what is to come is our discharge. We can combine the contributions of the past with the abilities of the present to produce the hopes of the future.

Mrs. Rhoades touched upon the lives of 39 presidents and pointed out highlights of their administration, including their rating.

Club president, Mrs. Hugh Lowry, conducted the business meeting and Mrs. Rhoades served refreshments to 12 members.

Basic bidding guidelines

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Your first aim in bidding is to get to slam, game or a safe part score. Not that the word "safe" applies only to the part score.

The moment that you don't intend to reach game, you want to stop and you want to stop at least two tricks below game. Any time you play at two notrump, three of a major suit or four of a minor suit, if things go well you have missed a game. If they go badly, you are set.

So, our first rule of bidding strategy is: If you get to within one trick of game, you should normally bid one on an even chance. Within one trick of game, you should go on unless you are pretty sure you are too high already.

When it comes to game contracts, you should normally bid one on an even chance. With a small slam, you want that same even chance.

When it comes to grand slams, you want 2-1 odds in your favor.

Let's look at some examples of proper action when your partner takes you to within one trick of game.

You open one club. Partner bids one heart. You bid one notrump. Partner bids two notrump. With hand No. 1, you pass and hope that you aren't overboard. With 1a, you bid three notrump. It is a worthwhile gamble because of that 10-9 of clubs and even the heart 10 may lead to the game trick.

1. S-10 x H-A x D-Q J x C-Q J x x
2a. S-10 x H-A x x D-K x x x C-K x x x

You respond one notrump to partner's spade opening. He bids two spades. You try two notrump, and he bids three spades.

You know partner has a poor opening bid with a lot of spades. With hand No. 2, you pass quickly and wish you had passed at two spades. With 2a, you realize that your ace and two kings should be really valuable and go to four spades.

Couple Weds At Hermleigh

Marla Lynn Jones became the bride of Timothy Ray Peterson in a double ring ceremony in Central Baptist Church at Hermleigh March 8. The Rev. Buddy Helms, minister of Tarzan Baptist Church, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Willard H. Jones of 303 36th Place and Mr. and Mrs. Max Peterson of Hermleigh. The bride's father presented her in marriage as she was dressed in a white organza over white bridal satin gown. Her empire fitted dress, flowing to the floor was surrounded with wide ruffle topped with rows of lace forming the train. Her fitted bodice covered with rows of lace featured a high neckline edged with organza ruffle and white organza puff sleeves finished with wide lace cuffs trimmed with an organza ruffle.

The bride's fingertip veil was attached to a band of lace. The groom wore a white tuxedo with matching accessories.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore coins in her shoes minted in the couple's birth years. Something old and borrowed was a Bible belonging to Kim James, something new was her dress, something blue was her garter.

She carried a cascade of yellow rosebuds flocked with baby's breath and matching ribbon.

Christy Jenkins, maid of honor wore a yellow and white checked dress flocked with tiny flowers. She carried a single yellow rose. Bridesmaids Kim James, Terri Dennis, Ginger Guynes and Laurie Peterson, sister of the groom, and flower girl Toni Evans all wore dresses alike that were fashioned by the bride's mother. Ring bearer, Wesley Evans, was dressed in a mint green suit. He is a nephew of the bride. Max Peterson, father of the groom, served as best man. Greensmen were Danny Peterson of Corpus Christi, brother of the groom, Dale Peterson of Dallas, groom's brother, Jerry Jones of Lubbock, brother of the bride, and Dave Struck.

The altar area was decorated with an archway entwined with greenery and tree candleabra. Mitchell Jones, brother of the bride and Lisa Chambers, cousin of the bride, lighted candles. Seating guests were Mike Jones, brother of the bride, and brother of the groom, Davey Peterson.

Vocalists Nona Evan, sister of the bride and Jane Hammonds were accompanied by organist Jane Hammond of Big Spring. The musical program included "Follow Me," "Come Live With Me," "Until the Twelfth of Never" and "My Own True Love."

A reception was held following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with a green cloth with a lace overlay. The three-tiered cake decorated with yellow roses, was made by Debbie Jones who also served at the bride's table. Melynda Crow also served. The groom's table, covered with a mint green cloth, held a chocolate cake and coffee served by Jean Floyd, sister of the groom and Gail Peterson, his sister-in-law.

Following a short wedding trip to Abilene the couple are at home at 415 1/2 31st St.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Hermleigh High School and the bride is the Snyder High School graduate. The groom is employed by Bethel Oil Co.

Out of town guests were from Corpus Christi, Dallas, Houston, Roscoe and Albuquerque, N.M.

Couple Marries In Formal Ceremony

Nuptial vows were repeated in the First United Methodist Church, Dimmitt, uniting Cynthia Ann Quiett of Dimmitt and Robert Darrell Woodard of Vernon. The double ring formal ceremony was performed by Rev. Howard Quiett, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. H.D. Abbott, pastor of First Methodist in Sweetwater.

In the March 22, 7 p.m. ceremony, the father of the bride, presented his daughter in marriage as she was attired in a floor length dress with a chapel length train. The gown, a candlelight qiana, had a scoop neck and empire bodice and long fitted sleeves, all trimmed in antique lace. Her fingertip illusion veil trimmed in lace fell from a band of matching lace.

The bride carried a cascade of white roses and daisies on a white bridal Bible.

Cindy Rucker of San Angelo was maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length dress of light blue polyester crepe. She carried a nosegay of blue and white daisies and baby's breath with navy ribbon. Missy Quiett of Dimmitt, sister of the bride wore a dress identical to the maid of honor.

Candlelighter Shelly McNair of El Paso, cousin of the bride, was dressed like the maid of honor.

Brother of the bride, Reggie Quiett of Dimmitt, served as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Max Gaebler and Roy Woodard, brother of the groom; both of Vernon, and Tim McNair of El Paso, cousin of the bride.

Vows were exchanged before an altar table flanked by two seven-branched candelabra trimmed in greenery and ribbon. Two baskets of cut flowers also decorated the altar area.

Traditional wedding selections included "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Deanne Clark of Dimmitt was organist and Mrs. Janie Springstead of El Paso, aunt of the bride, was soloist.

A reception followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table, covered with a white cloth, held a three-tiered cake, and was centered with a three-branched silver candelabrum and the bride's attendants' bouquets. Serving were Vickie

MRS. ROBERT DARRELL WOODARD

Rakestraw of Dallas, Tina Rodriguez, Wichita Falls, Ann Morehead, and Trendy Sharp, both of Abilene. Mrs. Kathy Gaebler of Vernon registered guests.

The couple's wedding trip was to El Paso. The bride chose a baby blue dress and jacket with ivory accessories.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Quanah High School, and a 1979 graduate of McMurry College with a degree in elementary education. She was active in Delta Beta Epsilon social club, Alpha Chi, Kappa Delta Pi, and Sigma Tau Delta honor

Windmill May Be Tallest In Texas

DALLAS (AP)—A 130-foot-tall windmill has been topped off on the campus of Brookhaven Community College.

Two sets of four blades, each spinning in opposite directions, will generate 45 kilowatts of power for use by the college.

Officials could not estimate the entire cost of the project but said materials cost $60,000. The windmill is thought to be one of the largest in Texas.

societies. The bridegroom is a 1974 graduate of Vernon High School. He is employed by E.W. Moran Drilling Co. of Wichita Falls.

Special guests for the wedding were Mrs. Houston Quiett of Snyder, grandmother of the bride, and another grandmother, Mrs. Dona Reed, and a friend, Mrs. Della Fox, both of Colorado City.

CUT MAIN-DISH COSTS

FOR ECONOMY

Cut main-dish costs—and the entire food budget gets stronger.

Main-dish foods generally take the largest part of any food dollar, so cutting their costs can mean a major step toward economy.

Here are some ideas:

—Buy less-tender cuts of meat.

To make them more tender, cook them slowly with moisture: pot roast, braise, simmer or stew them.

Also grind, cube, pound or score them—or use a commercial tenderizer.

Another tenderizing idea is the marinade. Marinate less-tender meats in tomatoes, vinegar, wine or lemon juice.

—Instead of serving big pieces of meat at every meal, use small pieces of meat sometimes—in casseroles, salads or sandwiches.

—Use meat bones to flavor soups, stews or vegetable. Or use them to make broth, and then use it in sauces, soups, stews and gravies.

—Extend meat, poultry or fish dishes with pastas, dried legumes or starchy vegetables. Tomato or other sauces can add flavor to these combination dishes.

—Make meat stuffings using breads or cereals.

—Use meat alternates for some meals.

These include dry beans, peas or lentils, peanut butter, eggs and cheeses, especially cottage cheese.

A basic way to make a sauce from broiled fish, roast poultry or meat drippings is to add liquid to the pan in which the fish or meat has been cooked. Set the pan over low heat and use a wooden spoon to scrape the drippings from the bottom of the pan. Use the sauce as is or reduce it for concentrated flavor.

APRIL WEDDING SET—Charlotte Marie Carpenter and Ocie Donald Jackson, both of Abilene, have planned an April 5 wedding in the First Central Presbyterian Church, Abilene. Parents of the future bride are Charles Carpenter Jr. and Mrs. Richard G. Robinson, both of Abilene. Jackson is the son of O.D. Jackson of Gail and Mrs. O.D. Jackson, deceased. Miss Carpenter attended Texas Women's University, Hardin Simmons University and graduated from Dallas Fashion and Art Institute with a major in Fashion Merchandising. She is employed by Gribbsy's Rag Doll. Carpenter is a Borden County graduate and Lubbock Christian College with a degree in human relations. He is presently doing graduate work at Abilene Christian College toward a MA in psychology. He is employed by Methal Health and Retardation Center.

Gold Fish Farm May Be Biggest

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP)—Marvin Johnson believes he has the largest and only fancy goldfish farm outside the Orient, raising its stock from Japanese pedigreed specimens worth $10,000 or more.

Johnson's prize $200,000 orange and white ranchu—a bulky, 4-pound, short-bodied fish that appears to wiggle rather than swim—recently won an unprecedented triple crown, the grand awards in Japan, London and North America.

Johnson has spent at least two months in Japan every year since 1958 studying and raising Japanese gold fish.

You may have come to the conclusion that the costs of homes are unrealistically high. Be thankful then you don't have to pay the prices being asked in other areas.

It's almost impossible to purchase anything worth living in around the Washington, D.C., area for less than six figures. The Southern Florida regions are about as bad, if not worse. In Southern California, specifically in the Los Angeles area, basic house costs start at $100,000.

The Wall Street Journal, in a recent edition, tells of a new concept in business that may be a real break for the people with medium incomes.

The walls of the houses are neither wood nor brick, however, but polystyrene. That's the same material from which disposable coffee cups and picnic coolers are made.

Once the houses are erected, the plastic foam walls are sprayed inside and out with cement. The contractors insist that makes the walls five times stronger than conventional walls and provides additional insulation.

The houses with the polystyrene walls have been selling like proverbial hotcakes in Southern California. At an average cost of $50,000 which includes the price of the lot, they must be considered a genuine bargain.

One purchaser of a house with polystyrene walls, who was unaware of the building's content, said she liked every thing about the residence other than the fact that she was having trouble driving picture hangers into her walls.

Another purchaser said he had spotted hairline cracks in the cement walls but was reassured the contractors would patch the cracks when the house settles.

The system centers on a "core module" produced by an assembly line. The module contains a fully equipped kitchen, two bathrooms, furnace, laundry room and plumbing and electrical fixtures.

The module is trucked to the building site, where the surrounding concrete slab is poured. The houses don't have basements.

The wall panels are put up. Strips of polystyrene are compressed inside steel wire frames to produce four-foot-by-eight-foot panels, which are linked together and then sprayed with the concrete. Finished houses are from 1,200 to 1,350 square feet.

The construction process is cheaper because it eliminates lots of costly lumber and some skilled labor. Manufactured houses are nothing new, but most are built with lumber and are assembled on the site by highly skilled carpenters.

What's to keep the manufacturer from getting a cookie-cutter image? The contractors hope to avoid that by developing variations of its core modules and roof styles and by adopting new ceiling panels to allow optional "cathedral" ceilings.

If the purchaser orders too many changes, however, the price starts going up again and we are in the same old cycle.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Robbing Peter to pay Paul is now known as revolving credit."

Of all the political rhetoric coming from the presidential sweepstakes, former President Gerald Ford has said the one thing that makes the most sense.

Prior to his decision not to become a candidate, he said he was committed to the defeat of President Carter who is seeking a second term.

I can't think of a higher priority. We're not sure the nation can afford another nine months of Mr. Carter, much less four additional years.

Gratefully, we won't have to make a choice between Carter or Kennedy. It will be an election between the liberal Democratic candidate and the conservative Republican candidate.

What troubles us is the fact that there are folks in other parts of the country who apparently think that 18 percent inflation, higher taxes, runaway deficit spending, and soaring interest rates are just dandy. In fact, a Texan friend of ours who now works in Washington contends that Carter will be difficult to beat, regardless of his opponent.

We'll concede that an incumbent president is always difficult to unseat, but by November we're confident that more and more people will see the inability of the President to manage the country out of the economic mess.

We listened to the President's speech and have read with interest speculation about what he meant. So far, we haven't heard much. He says that details will be made public by the end of the month. It's interesting that both the Illinois and New York primaries will then be over.

We also find it interesting that the President plans to trim the budget that, when introduced only a few weeks before, was called prudent and responsible.

A new fee on oil was effective the same day of the President's speech. Before he has said that high oil prices were a major cause of inflation, and now he proposes to fight inflation by raising oil prices.

We applaud any efforts to balance the budget. But we think it more logical to balance the budget with a cut in government spending, not an increase in taxes on the working man and consumer. The biggest problem dealing with inflation is runaway government spending.

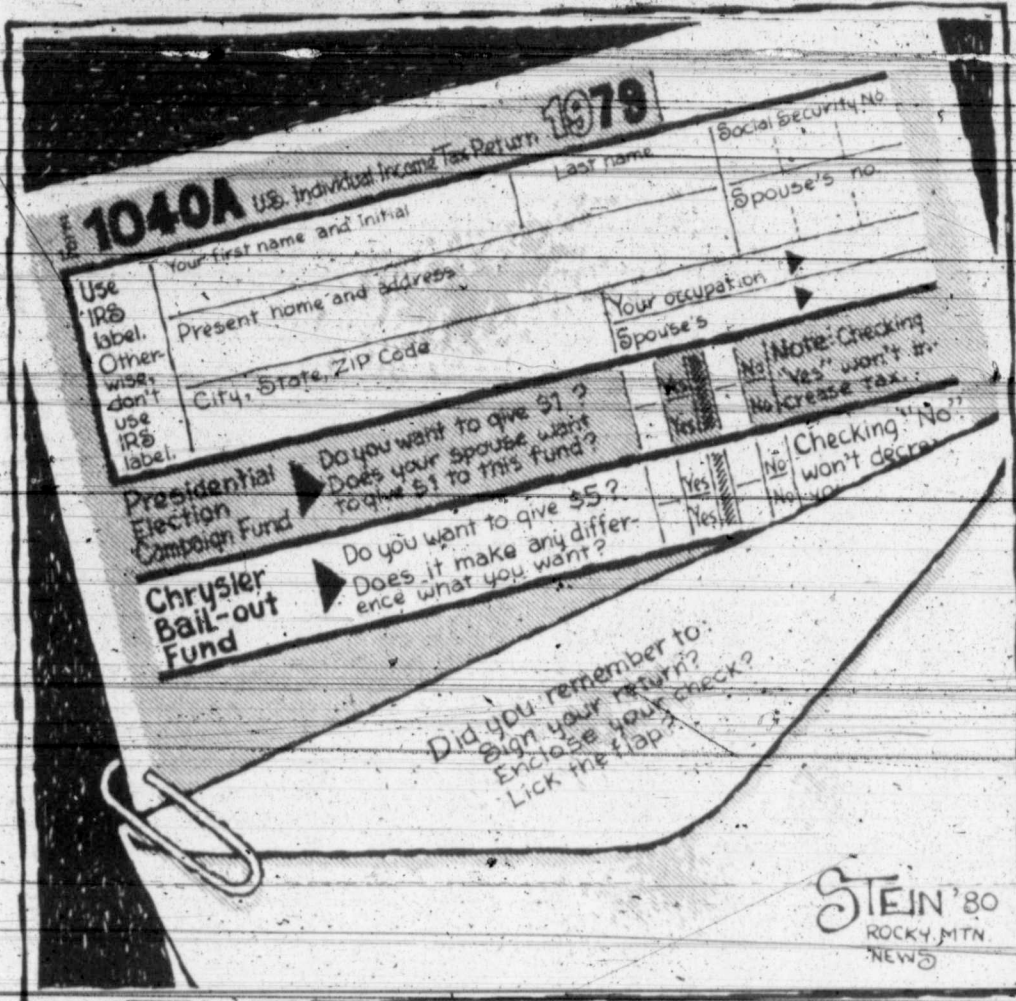

The present situation is a good argument for one-term presidents. The man in office could then make decisions for the good of the nation—not decisions to help him get re-elected.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

This past week, I got my teeth cleaned, took my driver's test and went to confession at church. I knew that no one had ever been this wonderful before. In fact, I could barely stand to fall asleep and be gone from me for seven whole hours.

As I told my friend, Mayva, "I am released. Just one of these pious acts would put me in a state of grace for a month, but all three of them in the same week should get me space on a medallion." Mayva looked unimpressed and said, "As long as you've got three good deeds going for you, why don't you try for the Sanctimonious Decathlon?"

She had to be kidding. I had never heard of the Sanctimonious Decathlon and doubted if there was one. Mayva insisted I was wrong. She said there was a series of 10 holier-than-thou events that had never been completed by anyone during a seven-day period.

They included: The hand-washable tournament. Every piece of wash-by-hand laundry that had been put back to do when there was time-is-laundried. A place where navel bands meet a football jersey and they belong to the same kid.

The write-your-mother-on-no-occasion event. It must not include Christmas greetings, birthday wishes, a request for money or a pitch to baby-sit.

Servicing your lawn mower during the winter playoffs. A real test of responsibility over cheapness...character over who cares?

The tidy games. This includes gathering up five years of newspapers and two years of redeemable bottles out of the garage and returning them to where they belong, and matching trading stamps from all over the house to an empty stamp book. The latter is a game of strength, endurance, and bad breath.

Getting the salt-washed-off your car when the weather report predicts more-bad-weather-playoffs. This really separates the devout good people from the pretenders.

Replacing the screw-in-your-eye-glasses that have been kept together with a paper-clip-for-six-months competition.

"Do you think you could pull all of them off?" asked Mayva.

"That's only nine," I said. "What's the other one?"

"Cleaning your oven."

I didn't continue the discussion. Somehow Mayva always ends up talking dirty.

Berry's World

"Is the only thing we have to fear, still fear, itself?"

in washington

robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA)—As recently as the beginning of this year, the concept of a balanced federal budget was widely derided here as a bizarre notion embraced only by hopeless romantics, heartless conservatives and penny-pinching zealots.

But a change in attitude as dramatic and sudden as any shift in opinion in recent years now has produced a rough consensus that the budget for the 1981 fiscal year, beginning next Oct. 1, can and should be balanced.

That drastic change can be attributed in great measure to a pair of terrifying reports on potentially uncontrollable inflation that followed one another in rapid succession — a 1979 rate of 13.3 percent and a January 1980 rate of 18.2 percent on an annualized basis.

The theory that the government's unrestrained production of "printing-press money" is the sole cause of inflation, a simplistic concept embraced by some ideologues, has been rejected by respected economists who offer convincing arguments that a balanced budget will only slightly ease inflationary pressures.

Yet there now exists in this capital a general agreement that a balanced budget is imperative not only because every feasible technique for dampening inflation must be used but also for political and psychological reasons.

In an unusually presidential action last December, the House Budget Committee asked the Congressional Budget Office to produce "a report on the possible strategies that could lead to a reduction in the size of the federal budget."

The 102-page report, completed only a few weeks ago just as the budget-balancing wave was beginning to crest, has become the hottest document in official Washington. It already is the semi-official workbook for White House and congressional leaders holding intensive meetings on the subject.

The CBO's clinical, non-partisan analysis, "Reducing the Federal Budget: Strategies and Examples," demonstrates that federal spending can be significantly cut without weakening the military, humiliating the poor or even seriously discommoding most middle-income citizens.

Item: The Navy has proposed retiring 12 destroyers built more than a third of a century ago, but Congress insists upon retaining the ships for use by the Navy Reserve. If the legislators back down, $129 million can be saved next year.

Item: Oil producers who now reap the benefits of soaring world petroleum prices could give up the right to "expense" their intangible drilling costs and have their depletion allowance cut from 22 percent to 15 percent. The savings to other taxpayers would total $4.4 billion next year.

Item: Children of poor families aren't the only beneficiaries of free or reduced-price school lunches. Requiring wealthy and middle-income parents to share more of the cost of feeding their offspring could save $300 million next year.

Item: One of the least defensible boondoggles in the federal budget is the Impact Aid program that provides payments to school districts near major government installations. Eliminating it would save $250 million next year.

Item: Abolition of General Revenue Sharing payments to the states would reduce the federal budget by more than $2.4 billion next year. Requiring the states to pay for maintenance of secondary roads would save another $200 million.

Item: Adjusting former federal workers' retirement benefits to reflect cost-of-living increases on an annual instead of a semi-annual basis would save more than $800 million.

Item: Requiring institutions that disburse interest and dividend payments to withhold 15 percent of the funds for remittance to the Internal Revenue Service would allow the government next year to recoup $6.5 billion it estimates it now loses through fraud and tax evasion.

The CBO study contains scores of other examples. All that is necessary now is for Congress to finally muster the courage to subordinate the pleas of the special interests to the requirements posed by the national interest.

March 23, 1980
You will be luckier this coming year by working with those you feel for. Windfalls may come through a number of unique happenings.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Avoid fights with the family. The clan is in a grumpy mood today. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
The morning could start off a little on the boring side. This could be due in part to your negative attitude. Sunlight begins to filter through later in the day.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You're willing to be helpful today. provided the idea originates with you. Resentment could be felt if you feel forced to do something.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You're capable of major achievements today. But you must size things up realistically. Underestimating what's required might defeat you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Usually you're not hesitant to speak your mind, and everyone knows where you stand. Today, however, you may hide your true feelings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Be democratic in dealing with your peers today; but don't let yourself be pressured into doing anything not in line with your high standards.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Rather than face up to situations today, you may try to duck them if they're sticky. Others could view you as being too wishy-washy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22)
Be tactful when dealing with helpers or coworkers today, or you may lose their support. Let courtesy take precedence over commands.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Before involving yourself in a joint venture today, be sure you're able to work in harmony with your counterpart. A poor choice will be unproductive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Domestic confrontations can be avoided today by showing a willingness to compromise. Taking an unyielding position is a no-no.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
If you feel the need to comment on someone else's work today, be constructive instead of merely critical. Thoughtless remarks will provoke hard feelings.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Self-discipline will be required to manage your resources properly. Don't let extravagant whims overwhelm you.

Keep your nose to the grindstone this coming year, so that by the time of your next birthday you will have large returns to show for your efforts. Hard work will open opportunities for you that could be very rewarding.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Don't depend on others for important things that affect your finances or security. Left to your own devices, you'll do very well. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Charm and tact are two of your greatest assets today. You'll know how to use them advantageously, especially when dealing with persons on a one-to-one basis.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Be on your toes today. Something unusual could pop up that could prove to be a source of gain. It may come through a coworker.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Make it a point not to prejudge others today. You could be in for some pleasant surprises when circumstances take a unique twist.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
This may be one of those strange days when others can do something with little effort while you can't accomplish the same thing even with a concerted attack.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Friends want to be helpful today so don't be reluctant to request favors. Go to the same people who feel free to come to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Focus your full attention and efforts on things that mean something to you financially. You're quite lucky in this area.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22)
This is a good day to spend as much time as possible with the person who is No. 1 in your life. Emotional bonds can be reinforced.

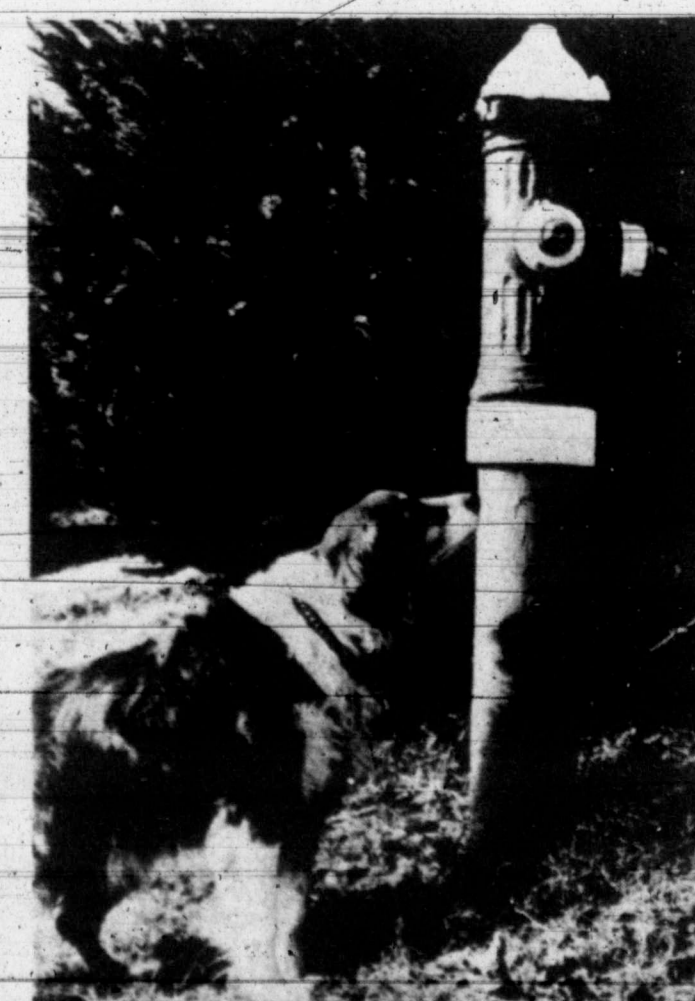

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
You have a knack for making profitable deals or bargains if you choose to apply yourself. Investigate situations where you could do some good materially.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
There is something very appealing about you today. It will make casual acquaintances want to know you better.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Thinking of the nice things you'd like to do for loved ones is all the motivation you need today to shoot for loftier targets at work.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
You have friends who think highly of you, but seldom mention it. Today they may let you know of their esteem in both words and deeds.

By Mary Westmoreland
Watching for the season's first scissortail has become something of an early springtime pursuit for many Scurry County and other West Texans. We like to think when these common, yet exotic birds return, that all our freezing weather is over. Much of the time it is, and Spring with all its attendant glories can finally be enjoyed. We can usually expect to see scissortails flycatchers sometime during the first week of April, though some years it has been a few days later than that.

For a brotherhood of nature and wildlife enthusiasts, watching for scissortails and other migratory birds is but a continuation of a year-round hobby. Believe it or not, Scurry County is a mini-paradise for birdwatchers at all seasons of the year, harboring species from the smallest to the largest. A birder may expect to see tiny ruby-crowned kinglets and hummingbirds, giant cranes and hawks. More than 50 varieties of birds have been seen in Snyder in recent years, and an additional dozen or more in the countryside in Scurry County.

By the time scissortails arrive, a few other varieties have already taken up residence. Redwing blackbirds return in late February or early March to Deep Creek, the lake at WTC, and other water spots throughout the area, especially where cattails are growing. Also returning in March are purple martins, those noisy swallows that devour millions of mosquitos during the summer. The martin population has greatly increased recently in Snyder as more apartment houses have been put up for them. Those large black birds with long tails, grackles, also return in March. They aren't very pretty, and they don't sing, but they are interesting to watch. One of their peculiar habits is washing food before eating it. They often bring cicadas, pecans, bread, kernels of corn and pieces of dry dog food to bird baths and wash them with varying degrees of success.

Baltimore and Bullock's Orioles and Western Kingbirds arrive around the second week of April. Eastern Kingbirds may be seen in the country. The first part of May, Painted Buntings may be heard singing from the very top of a tall tree, or from within a mesquite thicket. They are shy, easily frightened birds except when the males are fighting each other over territorial rights. Then they are oblivious to everything else and may fly straight toward the birdwatcher. They are breathtakingly beautiful. Deep purple heads, red breasts and charcoal green backs make them look like an exotic species from the tropics. The females are yellow and green, and not often seen.

Also by the first week of May, birders can expect to see gray Mississippi Kites circling lazily overhead. They rid us of thousands of cicadas each summer, snatching them from tree tops or out of the air. They are easily identified because of their color, but many species of hawks are difficult to identify.

One August a few years ago, a hawk, to date still not identified, took up residence in our neighborhood. He spent each day for about a month sitting on TV antennas, diving for careless, unsuspecting cicadas, always careful not to get too close to the ground. We threw various items of food into the air; some he caught; some he ignored. The hawk seemed unafraid of us. Each morning when he returned to an antenna, three gold finches returned also, and sat with him. Whenever he moved to a different perch, the gold finches moved with him. Day after day they followed him wherever he went, but he ignored his noisy companions. He never offered to catch them, even though they weren't a whole lot bigger than the cicadas he caught.

Summer before last, not far outside the city limits of Snyder, I spotted a hawk's nest in a tree near the road. Close inspection of the nest (mostly through binoculars), revealed it to be nearly the size of a bushel basket, and the "baby" occupant about the size of a good frying chicken. Watching the building of such a nest would no doubt be an interesting experience. They only other nests I have seen that were larger were Sandhill crane's nests near Nugent, north of Abilene.

Just as our summer birds return, a few of those we saw often during winter months move on, such as Oregon Juncos, purple finches, pine siskins, myrtle warblers, orange-crowned warblers, and meadowlarks. With the exception of the bright red male cardinal, which is a permanent resident, probably the most beautiful bird seen in our county during winter is the male mountain bluebird. These brilliant teal blue, friendly visitors, along with predominately brown females, travel in flocks throughout our area. We have seen them only in the winter, and only in the country. Fortunately is the birder who gets to watch these beauties closely as they fly from fence post to fence post, curious and relatively unafraid of the birdwatcher.

Among the last of our winter residents to leave are cedar waxwings. These handsomely groomed birds have black masks, brown crests and backs, yellow to brown fronts and yellow tail tips. Some have red waxy wing tips. They travel in flocks, eating berries off shrubs and vines, and coming often to our bird baths.

When one flies down for a bath, the whole flock descends, and suddenly the bird bath is reminiscent of the "4 and 20" blackbirds baked in a pie. It is so full of waxwings there isn't room for any of them to maneuver enough for a bath.

Some of the birds seen in Scurry County seem to be strictly migrants, such as a flock of white-winged crossbills, and eastern bluebird, white-throated sparrow, yellow-breasted chat, winter wren, clay-colored sparrow, white-crowned sparrow, gray-cheeked Thrush, rufous-sided Towhee, yellow warbler, Wilson's Warbler and Audubon's Warbler. Because they move about continuously as they feed among three branches, and because many are of similar coloring, warblers are some of the hardest birds to positively identify.

Birders in Scurry County are fortunate to have some of our favorite songbirds as permanent residents that like to live close to man. Cardinals, mockingbirds, robins, house finches, gold finches, house wrens and curve-billed thrashers are songsters that frequent our yards the year-round. The large, grayish-brown, curve-billed thrasher's song sounds similar to the mockingbird's. Other permanent residents, but not good songsters, include cactus wrens, blue jays, flickers, woodpeckers, pyrrhuloxias and black-crowned titmouses. These may all be seen in our yards in town. Only occasionally we will see quail, dove and loggerhead shrikes in our yards, and perhaps even a road runner. There are a few that I see only in the country, such as flocks of lark buntings, and both blue and green kingfishers near water.

The birds named by no means exhausts the list of those to be seen in our county, and other birders have probably seen species that I have not seen. Anyone interested in attracting birds to their yard can get started with a few trees or shrubs, a shallow container of water and some sunflower seeds. Birdwatching is a thoroughly relaxing and fascinating hobby, and its rewards are many. If you ever get a wild bird to trust you and come to some degree of tameness, you will be hopelessly smitten for life.

THE SEASON BEFORE EASTER

By GARY WEST

Pastor, 1st Presbyterian Church
During the season of Lent, much of the emphasis for Christians is on sorrow and suffering. If we review the lives of the prophets of the Old Testament and the saints of the New Testament, we cannot escape the reality of suffering in their lives. The very basis of our faith as Christians, the resurrection of Jesus Christ, cannot be spoken of without realizing it was preceded by extreme suffering, sorrow and despair. The crucifixion is also a necessary part of our faith.

Let us rejoice that the cross is part of our faith, because suffering is a part of our lives. Our Lord is the Lord who "knows our frame", who has shared in our infirmities, who has stood with us through our pain. And let us also rejoice, even in our pain, because the last word was not spoken at the cross. The last word belongs to a Christ who emerged from an open tomb. Christ lives.

As Easter approaches, remember, even though you may be in the midst of suffering, the last word will be spoken by Christ, and Christ shall abolish death. "He shall wipe away every tear from their eyes; and there shall no longer be any death; there shall no longer be any mourning, or crying, or pain, the former things have passed away" (Revelation 21:4). The promise of God for the future is our hope for the present and our reason for living and living to the fullest.

Use Of Copper Still Expanding

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Copper resists corrosion and it alloys with more than 100 other metals. Its use in home and office construction should continue, as copper in plumbing, wiring, sprinklers and roofing is very durable, according to a copper mine executive. The copper-clad dome and roof of Arizona's capitol building is a symbol of the state's prominence in copper and of the metal's quality, said Peter Steen, president of Inspiration Consolidated Copper.

Tech Recreation Center Opens

LUBBOCK—The finest student recreation center in the Southwest will open its facilities to the Texas Tech University community Tuesday.

The $5.5 million, 126,000 square-foot structure will compare favorably with the finest in the nation, said Dr. Robert H. Ewalt, vice president for student affairs. Plans for the formal opening and dedication will be announced soon.

Ewalt pointed out that this facility is one of the few built primarily for student recreation. Many others share priorities with intramural sports, physical education and other activities, but Texas Tech's places top priority on student recreation.

"There are some facilities that are larger, but none with a larger variety of sports and recreation offerings under one roof," said Joe MacLean, recreational sports director at Texas Tech.

The three-level facility is of ultra-modern architecture and construction with an abundance of glass and openness to make maximum use of sunlight and to accommodate spectators.

Usable space in the Student Recreation Center will increase to 172,000 feet when added to the Recreational Aquatic Center just 90 feet away, soon to be joined by a covered corridor.

Completion of the center brings to fruition plans begun in June 1975 when the student building fee was increased by the Board of Regents to underwrite construction. Students helped in the planning by joining recreation department officials and other building and campus planners in visiting outstanding facilities over the nation.

Construction began in May 1978 and was completed only this month.

The expanse of the multi-purpose gymnasium on the lower level is the most impressive portion of the new facility, MacLean said. "The 35,000 square-foot area will accommodate five basketball courts, six volleyball courts, five tennis courts and gymnastics or a combination of them. A jogging track encircles the spacious gym."

Another multi-purpose room on the lower level is designed for exercise and martial arts. Other lower level space goes for men's and women's locker rooms; with saunas, a pro shop which will sell sporting goods and supplies, an Olympic weight room, exercise and weight training room, a punching bag room and physical education offices.

Entry into the facility will be controlled at the north and south ends.

Two multi-purpose rooms are featured on the entry level, one for archery, golf and dance, the other for wrestling, tumbling, combatives, and martial arts. Also on that level are the center manager's office, 12 handball-racquet ball courts and a squash court.

On the upper level are a classroom-meeting room, Recreational Sports offices, audio-visual resource room, lounge-table game area, workroom, crafts area and space for outdoor equipment rental facilities.

The center will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 12 midnight Monday through Friday, and noon-midnight, Sunday.

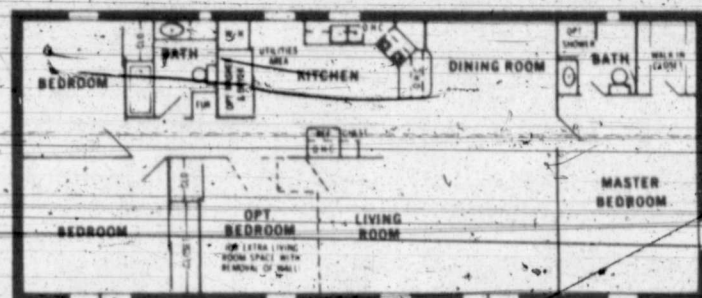

Drillers Log 44,913 Miles

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—In the United States alone during 1979 the total depth of wells drilled in search of oil and gas was 44,913 miles.

That distance is the equivalent of drilling from the North Pole through to the South Pole more than five times, according to estimates from Aminoil USA.

Soul-Saver Is Bird of Prayer

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am the president of an organization, and we have a problem with one of our members who is very religious. She is always trying to "sell" her religion to others. Some of our members resent it; they have their own religion, and are satisfied with it.

Our biggest problem is that she thinks it's her Christian duty to visit sick people in the hospitals. She and a group of eight ladies from her church go up and down the halls, visiting patients whether they know them or not. They just walk in, "bless" the patient, stand around the bed, hold hands and pray. Then this lady reads from the scriptures and gives a sermon.

A friend of mine was recently sick in the hospital with a "NO VISITORS" sign on her door. She said that she was dozing off when in comes this self-appointed savior of souls with her missionaries. They stood around her bed, chanting and praying until a nurse came in and told them they had to leave.

We are ashamed that this woman belongs to our organization. She tells these hospital patients that they are "sinners" who must seek God's forgiveness in order to enter the kingdom of heaven, which can be very depressing for folks who hope to get well.

How can we get her to quit visiting strangers in hospitals? MRS. H. IN ARKANSAS

DEAR MRS. H.: First, your organization should advise her that there have been complaints about her hospital visitations and she must stop. After that, it's the responsibility of the hospital administration to protect their patients from unwelcome visitors.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were at the home of friends recently for dinner. These friends have two dogs who are considered "members of the family."

We were served a lovely dinner on the hostess's finest china. After dinner, the dishes were removed from the table. A few minutes later our hostess returned with two of the lovely plates with some leftover food on them. She set the plates on the floor in a corner for the dogs to lick. Noticing the expression of disgust on my face, she said, "Well, it's perfectly sanitary. All the dishes go into the dishwasher to be sterilized anyway!"

Any comment?

YICH IN DETROIT

DEAR YICH: Even though the dishes are sterilized after the dog-licking, the thought of eating in the home where pets and people are served off the same dishes is understandably unsettling to some. However, I'm told that there is a greater danger of dogs catching something from humans than vice versa.

DEAR ABBY: We are planning to have a family portrait taken to give to our parents for Christmas, 1980.

We are all related by blood or marriage. Our youngest brother (age 19) is going steady with a girl he plans to marry sometime in 1981, but it's not definite as yet.

Should this girl be included in the family portrait? If you say she shouldn't, how can we avoid hurting her feelings? SANTA'S HELPERS

DEAR HELPERS: If, as you say, "It's not definite," your brother's "steady" should not be included in the picture. Since the portrait will include family members only, there is no reason why this girl should be hurt. She's still a "miss," and a miss is as good as a mile.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

U.S. Population Count Grows By 1.6 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States' population grew by almost 1.6 million persons in 1979 as the birth rate increased and the death rate declined, the National Center for Health Statistics reports.

Not only were there more women of child-bearing age last year, but more of them were having children, a report released Thursday showed. There were 3.5 million live births, 4 percent more than for 1978, and 1.9 million deaths, about 2.2 percent fewer than for the previous year.

For the fourth consecutive year, the number of marriages rose to the largest total ever recorded in this country. The 2.3 million marriages in 1979 were nearly double the 1.17 million divorces recorded. Marriages declined between 1972 and 1976. But in 1979 the number of marriages was up about 3 percent from 1978, exceeding by about 26,000 the previous marriage peak of 2.29 million, recorded in 1946.

The NCHS, an agency in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, compiled the statistics using a U.S. population estimate of 219.9 million for 1979.

For 1979, the birth rate was 15.8 live births per 1,000 population. That translates to a fertility rate of 68 live births per 1,000 women aged 15 to 44 years of age. The overall birth rate was up 3 percent from 1978 and the fertility rate was 2 percent higher. The number of women of child-bearing age rose 2 percent between 1978 and 1979, and the Census Bureau projected an 8 percent increase in that female age group by 1985. Annual increases of less than 1 percent are anticipated in the number of women of child-bearing age between 1986 and 1990.

The rate of natural population increase - not counting immigration - was 7.1 persons per 1,000 in 1979 compared to 6.5 per 1,000 in 1978.

The marriage rate was 10.5 per 1,000 population, 2 percent higher than 1978. The divorce rate was 5.3 per 1,000 population, also up 2 percent from 1978. The death rate of 8.7 per 1,000 compared to 8.8 per 1,000 for 1978. There were 45,900 deaths of children under 1 year old.

RONALD REAGAN — who frequently calls for cuts in the federal budget — is being forced to do some budget cutting of his own. With four months to go before the Republican National Convention, Reagan's presidential campaign had already spent at least two-thirds of the $17.6 million maximum allowed by law for the nomination period.

Candy Barr In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—Ex-stripper Candy Barr was dancing at a Dallas club again this week. But it was a fully clothes waltz, not the knock 'em out bump and grind that made her famous in the 1950s.

Once a $2,000-a-week Las Vegas stripper, Miss Barr now lives a quiet life on Lake Brownwood. And her past, especially her 15-year conviction for possessing a small amount of marijuana, is not a welcome conversation topic.

"You're not going to bring up all that junk, are you?" she asked during her Dallas appearance as an awards presenter at Buddy Magazine's annual Texas Music Awards program.

The 5-foot-3 Miss Barr is still blonde, but a somewhat less explosive bombshell than in years past. Married unsuccessfully four times, she now has a grown daughter and reportedly at least one granddaughter.
