Talk

By E. C. THOMAS

Winters' City Council and the employees are to be commended for the part each of them played in the successful operation of the city's business affairs during the past fiscal year.

The Report of Audit, covering the period ending Sept. 30, 1961, was received recently from the auditor, which yearly makes an examination of the records and auditing procedures of the city. The report itself is evidence of ever-increasing improvements in the administration of city affairs.

There were a few areas of discrepancy, to be sure, but action was taken—or was in process at the time of the audit—to correct these few deficiencies found by the auditors. In so broad an examination as that of the accounting system of the city, there are bound to be some errors or oversights. The trick is in determining just where they exist, and then to take corrective routes to eliminate them and prevent recurrence. This seems to be the case at the moment.

Continued improvement in records and accounting procedures—and overall administrative development—within the framework, is not the entire story of the work of one individual. Rather, it is the result of the city council and the working together as a team. It has been individual initiative and know-how, and it cannot be unnoticed. But without some degree of cooperation on the part of everyone on the team the noted improvement would have been most difficult to accomplish.

Also, the installation of modern auditing machines and the introduction of streamlined and modern methods of procedure have much to bring about the improvement. It has been estimated the time saved in recording and the accuracy assured more than pay for the machine.

Winters is to grow, the administration of the city government must of necessity keep in pace. And it would appear that we are headed in the right direction.

Now it in another paper—Varages have various names, we call it the Stone Age to the earliest civilization. Then came the Iron Age, and the Machine Age and all that.

But we think this modern age should be called the Gas Age, not because it's one of our main sources of power but because our environment is full of it. Look at the cars, for instance, or even the United Nations.

The temperature took a tumble last week and caught many of us unprepared. Appliance stores report a run on small gas space heaters, and if the cold weather continues for very long or becomes more severe, there may be a shortage. We have been told that the cold wave will last through the weekend, too.

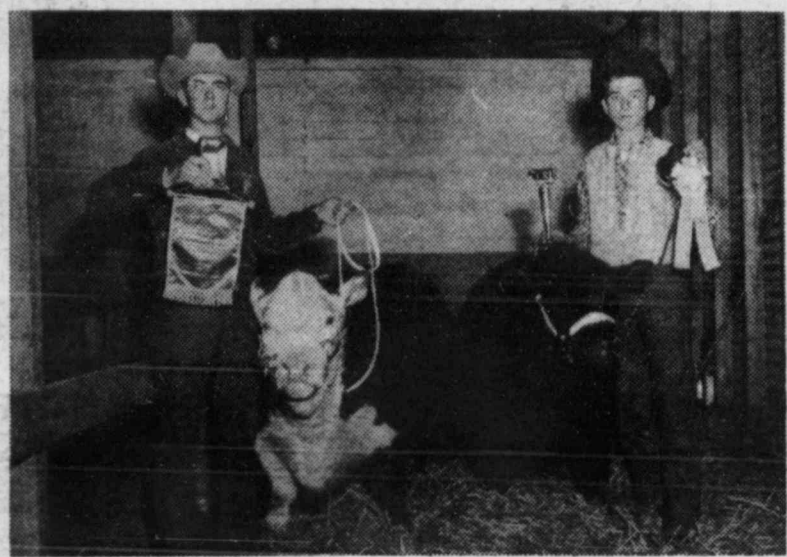

Locally, we have fared pretty well although it has been extremely cold. We've had no piles of snow to buck, and roads and streets have been clear. In some parts of the state the snow has brought traffic to a standstill for several hours at a time, and some have reported a shortage of gas. One town, or part of it, left without gas when a main line was cut. So we've been lucky here, and haven't had much to complain about.

Perhaps one of the reasons a cold wave nowadays hurts so much and causes so much concern is that we have grown accustomed to the habit of putting the weather to use. They say it's a reason for everything, even cold weather used to welcomed-back in the days when cold weather meant hog killing.

I grew up back in the tail end of the times when a cold meant a sudden surge of activity around the house; the sharpening of knives, and the storing for a supply of food and the other stuff they put away; building the fire and the big black pot. One of the jobs back in those days was to gather wood for the fire—and the water hot. Sometimes neighbors would gather at one place to kill hogs—some bringing hogs in wagons, or maybe in back of a T-model truck—or between the seats of the old touring car.

The men would prepare the

City of Winters Buys Building For Storage, Shop

Winters' City Council last Thursday night agreed to draw up lease-purchase contracts for the buildings and land south of Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain Co., to be used for storage of city equipment and to house shops. The buildings are a part of the former Green Milling and Grain Co. warehouses.

The agreement is actually a lease-purchase contract, according to city officials, with the City renting the property with an option to purchase. Rental monies paid will be applied to the purchase price, it was said. Cost of the buildings and land was set at $9,000. The contract will be drawn in such a manner that future city councils may be voided at any time, it was explained.

There has been a great need for such land and buildings to house and store machinery and supplies owned by the city, officials said. At the present much of the equipment and supplies is left out in the weather and the depreciation and loss is great, it was pointed out.

In addition to providing a place to be used as storage, the buildings will furnish shop space where street equipment and vehicles owned by the city may be maintained properly, they said. The buildings and area are enclosed by a high mesh fence, and will provide security against theft and damage.

It was not known when the City would take possession of the property.

Auditor's Report Shows

Administration of City Business Is Improving

Considerable improvement in the accounting procedures and records of the City of Winters has been noted in a recently released Report of Audit issued by the firm of Cherry, Eckert and Story, certified public accountants of San Angelo, who made the audit for the year ended Sept. 30, 1961.

Many discrepancies which had been noted in the last audit report, covering a two year period ending Sept. 30, 1960, apparently have been corrected, inasmuch as they did not appear in the current report. Additionally, some of the comments regarding procedure indicated that corrective action had already been taken, in view of such comments by the auditors as "It is contemplated that recently instituted procedures will provide proper controls . . ."

Mayor Harvey D. Jones indicated that accounting machines and procedures installed within the past several months have contributed greatly to the overall improvement. He also said that a "businesslike" attitude on the part of all members of the City Council toward city affairs has helped to bring the administrative procedures of the city departments to a higher level. Changes in procedure and policy have improved the efficiency of all departments, credit is due each employee and city council member who worked for improvement, it was pointed out.

Financially, the City ended the year Sept. 30, 1961, in better shape than for the same period ending Sept. 30, 1960. In the statement of revenue and expenses, for the last year, the report shows an excess of revenue over expenses in the amount of $74,801.03. For the same period ending Sept. 30, 1960, the report showed an excess of revenue over expenses of $58,691.13.

The slack in this difference is being taken up by higher and higher bond and interest payments, however, it was explained.

City Fathers, Employees In Policy Meeting

Members of the Winters City Council met with all City employees Tuesday afternoon in the first of a series of meetings planned to strengthen employer-employee relationships, and to bring about closer cooperation between the two.

The meeting was open for a discussion of problems confronting both the council and the employees.

On the list for discussion was a clarification of employment policy, as set forth by the City Council. They also discussed leave and time-off regulations, and employment procedures.

Mayor Harvey D. Jones, who led the meeting, said he was "well pleased with the cooperation the City Council has been receiving from the several different departments," and that further meetings would be held in order to insure a continued smooth functioning administration of City business.

IN SAN ANGELO

Mrs. J. T. Stell, Mrs. J. S. Sanders and Elsie and Mrs. W. J. Yates visited Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Pierce and May Sanders in San Angelo, Sunday.

The report shows that collection of ad valorem taxes declined by $5,761.69 from the year before. For the year ending Sept. 30, 1960, $43,205.96 was collected; for the year ending Sept. 30, 1961, $37,444.27 was collected. The city council last year authorized a tax increase, setting the rate at 50 percent of appraised value in place of the 40 percent. However, this increase will not be reflected in reports until the end of the current fiscal year, it was explained. Taxes are figured on a 1955 appraisal.

The audit report also shows that the City of Winters, at the end of the reporting period, had a balance of $1,306,057.84 in depreciable fixed assets. Broken down into departments, this balance includes $475,563.21 for the waterworks system; $753,595.33 for the electric power plant; $37,737.27 for the sewer system; and $19,162.03 for parking meters and garbage trucks. Non-depreciable assets are balanced at $300,196.38 at the end of the period.

Outstanding bonds against the City of Winters, at the end of the reporting period, amounted to a staggering $844,400.00. Amount of the original issue of these bonds was $1,123,400.00. To meet these bond requirements for this year, the City must pay $34,000.00 on the principal, and $30,998.00 in interest. These payments grow progressively larger until 1972 when a payment of $55,000.00, excluding interest, must be met.

Of the total bonds against the City, $405,900.00 are for the municipal light plant; $5,500 for the hospital; $50,000 for street improvement; $32,000 for the city hall; $22,000 for the city park; $126,000 refunding bonds to be paid from the general fund; and $143,000 waterworks bonds.

TAMALA GANS
... In All-Region Band

Tamala Gans Was Named Member of All-Region Band

Tamala Gans, Winters High School junior and member of the Blizzards Band, was named to the All-Region Band during the Region II Band Clinic at McMurry College in Abilene Saturday. She was elected to the first chair, piccolo.

Miss Gans is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gans. She will go to Stephenville Saturday to compete with other band students in the area contests for places on the All-State Band. She was a member of the All-State Band for the two previous years, playing the flute. This year she will play the piccolo.

About 380 band students from many schools in this area participated in the band clinic Saturday. After members of the All-Region Band were announced, the group presented a public concert at 7:30 Saturday evening, under direction of Raymond T. Bynum, McMurry College band director. Several other high school band directors conducted the band in playing eight selections.

Drive To Eradicate Screw Worm Progressing Nicely

About $6,000 has been collected in Runnels County in the drive to raise funds for the screwworm eradication program. County Agent C. T. Parker has said this week. A goal of $12,000 has been set, with February 1 as the deadline, he said.

Parker said that contributions had been coming in slowly during the past few days, but he contributed this to the rush of the season, and indicated he fully expected that the additional amount would be raised.

The program, as planned for Texas, is based on a similar program undertaken with much success by Florida, the county agent said. He said that in the Florida program, scientists raised screwworm flies, exposed the male flies to a cobalt chemical to sterilize them, and then they were turned loose. Within a short time, the flies were eradicated in that area, he said.

This is one of the few programs of this sort to be run entirely by the people themselves, Parker said. No person working on the program or no campaign worker will draw salaries, he said. The scientists who will do the laboratory work are paid by the federal government, but no other help will be received, outside the contributions raised by the stockmen themselves.

Parker said that campaign workers have been trying to contact every stock owner in the county. He pointed out that "there will be absolutely no pressure on any person or persons to contribute" to the program. Livestock producers are being asked to contribute on the basis of 50 cents per head for adult cows, horses and steers, and ten cents per head for sheep, goats and swine. Contributions may be left at any bank in the county, with the county agent, or with any teacher of vocational agriculture in the county. Or the money may be mailed directly to the county agent's office.

Parker said that leaders in the livestock industry have been working for three years on this plan to eradicate the screwworm. He said that it will be necessary to raise about $3 million to cover costs of the program. Every stock raiser is effected by the loss due to the screwworm, Parker said, and the small contribution asked is a small price to pay when compared with the results, which are almost assured.

Mrs. R. D. Collins discussed the five year Jubilee program which began in 1959 and will be climaxed in 1964 when a joint meeting of all conventions participating will be held in Atlantic City, N. J. In all kinds of weather...

How many times have we walked to church in the snow together . . . and in the rain . . . and in all kinds of weather?

I don't think we've ever stayed home on a Sunday because we were afraid we might get our feet wet. To me, this would be like answering a dinner invitation by saying you couldn't make it unless the sun were shining.

The Church, after all is God's House, and in it I've always felt that I was both a member of the household, and an invited guest.

In this House, you and I have found not only a deeper understanding of each other, but the ability to be tolerant of faults, to forgive and forget smaller angers, and — most important of all — to resolve to try again tomorrow. And this is but a small part of all the Church has given us, and of all that it stands ready to give everyone, everywhere.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

MOVIES

"MAN-TRAP"
"Man-Trap," fast-moving suspense drama starring Jeffrey Hunter, David Janssen and Stella Stevens, will have its local premiere Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

Directed by popular Academy Award-winning actor Edmond O'Brien, the Paramount release tells the story of two former Korean War buddies who become involved in a plot to hijack $3,500,000 from a gangster syndicate. Based on a novel by John D. MacDonald, the film is being compared favorably to such hard-hitting screen epics as "Double Indemnity" and "The Postman Always Rings Twice."

As the emotionally confused band in "Man-Trap," Jeffrey Hunter couldn't have found a role greater contrast to his recently completed portrayal of Jesus of Nazareth in the forthcoming "King of Kings." One of Hollywood's most serious young actors, he has starred in more than 20 major productions, including "The Searchers," "The Last Hurrah" and "Captain Buffalo."

"THE PRIVATE LIVES OF ADAM AND EVE"

Mickey Rooney, Hollywood's own prince of past years, has tried into a businessman and now on his clowning will be added to his professional appearances as an entertainer.

"I've discovered that responsibility can be just as stimulating as doing the playboy bit," Mickey admits. "Besides, after all of my years as an actor in Hollywood, it's time I settled down."

The madcap youngster of other years bears no resemblance to the man who heads a star cast including Mamie Van Doren, Fay Spain, Mel Tormé, Marty Milner, Neil Kellaway, Tuesday Weld and Paul Anka in "The Private Lives of Adam and Eve," Sunday only at the State Theatre. The unusual Albert Zugsmith production is a Universal-International release.

"THE DEVIL AT 4 O'CLOCK"

Spencer Tracy and Frank Sinatra are starred, as priest and criminal, in the Mervyn LeRoy-Fred Kohlmar production of "The Devil at 4 o'clock." Due Tuesday and Thursday at the State Theatre in Eastman Color, the large-scale drama is a story of violent conflict on a Pacific island when a sleeping volcano comes to life. Co-starred with Tracy and Sinatra are Kerwin Mathews, Jean-Pierre Aumont, Gregoire Aslan, Alexander Scourby and Barbara Luna. Liam O'Brien's screenplay is based on the novel by Max Catto. Mervyn LeRoy directed and Fred Kohlmar produced the Columbia release.

"THE SHADOW OF THE CAT"

The awesome and marrow-chilling terror created by a cat—just an ordinary domestic-type tabby—is the story plot for just about the most shocking suspense thriller of the motion picture year. This off-beat melodrama of escapist-entertainment delight is "The Shadow of the Cat" which opens Friday and Saturday on the screen of the State Theatre.

Here is the fantastic tale of a murder—a carefully-plotted killing with a well-hidden corpse—and the only witness to the horrendous deed is the dead woman's pet cat. How this tiny and seemingly harmless animal manages to wreak terrifying and deathly vengeance on her mistress' killers makes for one of the most startling and unusual mysteries ever to be filmed.

Complete Records Very Import For Income Tax Filing

Taxpayers who kept good financial records last year should have no trouble preparing their 1961 federal income tax return, Arthur E. Fogle, Jr. Administrative Officer of the Abilene, Texas, office of Internal Revenue Service stressed today.

Complete records are especially important, the IRS representative said, to taxpayers who elect to itemize deductions in filing.

Accurate expense records are especially essential if a taxpayer's return is selected for audit. All records should be retained for as long as they may become material in the administration of any internal revenue law.

Telephone Co. To Spend 12 Million For Expansion

An expansion and improvement program of more than $12 million for 1962 has been announced by The Southwestern States Telephone Company and its subsidiary, Four States Telephone Co. The developments are planned for the company's seven operating divisions, four in Texas and one each in Arkansas, Louisiana, and Oklahoma.

Four States is a wholly owned subsidiary of Southwestern States. Its developments are in sparsely populated areas contiguous to the parent company's operational area. Four States projects are handled under the REA's telephone program.

Amounts of the planned expansion program for Southwestern States for the divisions and location of the division offices are as follows: Arkansas, Stuttgart, $1,352,020; Louisiana, Welsh, $569,110; Oklahoma, Purcell, $941,250; East Texas, Henderson, $960,560; North Texas, Irving, $3,087,850; South Texas, Bryan, $1,306,890; West Texas, Brownwood, $1,577,070, and the general office at Brownwood, $52,810, for a total of $9,847,560.

Proposed developments for Four States are as follows: Arkansas, $1,269,000; Louisiana, $226,000; Oklahoma, $160,000; South Texas, $658,000, and West Texas, $238,200, for a total of $2,551,200.

D. T. Strickland, vice president and general manager, said this expansion program, largest in the company's history, will include dial conversions, creation of new dial exchanges, adding central office

Expect 1962 Egg Production To Exceed 1961

Egg production in 1962 is expected to slightly exceed the 1961 production because the rate of lay per bird is likely to average higher. This is largely because there will be a higher percentage of pullets in 1962, says F. Z. Beanblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist.

In 1961, August and September hatchings were up 26 and 32 percent, respectively, from 1960, and eggs in incubators on October 1, 1961 were up 48 percent. These increases represent from 8 to 9 million extra pullets, the specialist explains.

Despite the prospective larger supplies of eggs, the price of eggs in the next few months is not likely to drop abruptly. The sustaining factor may be the demand for eggs for breaking. Present stocks of frozen eggs are low—on October 1, 1961 they were 29 equipment in various exchanges, additions to buildings, expansion of cable and other outside plant facilities, and the purchase of furniture and fixtures, automobiles, tools, and other supplies and equipment.

Southwestern States and its subsidiary now operate more than 170,000 telephones through 163 exchanges in the four-state area.

percent below a year ago. This is likely to induce more commercial breaking in the next few months than occurred in the same months a year ago, says Beanblossom.

Price structures for eggs in 1962 are likely to be influenced primarily from within the poultry industry or from industry-related sources. No sudden changes in demand are expected, thus the big influences upon 1962 price changes will have to come from the area of supply. Severe winter conditions might interrupt marketing and make temporary changes in price. If this condition continues, egg prices in January 1962 will probably be close to those received in January 1961.

Beanblossom says the trend still continues toward larger flocks. He also says integration will likely continue and will, no doubt, have an influence on supply. Texas will continue to face strong competition from other areas and in order to compete, Texas egg producers will have to use every method of efficient production and marketing.

Texas has oil reserves of more than 18 billion barrels.

Texas has about 46 percent of the U. S. gas reserves.

P. B. Metcalfe Asks Re-Election To State Ed. Board

Penrose B. Metcalfe, attorney-at-law from San Angelo, and a member of the State Board of Education from the 21st District, has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election to that office.

The position on the board is an elective one, but pays no salary. It has been explained.

In making his announcement, Metcalfe said, "When I became a member of the Board the Permanent School Fund had 160 million dollars invested. Now it has more than 455 million, as a heritage for Texas school children.

This has a current rate of return of 3.49 percent and in 1961 the schools derived more than 18 million dollars of tax-free funds therefrom.

"There are now over two million students in Texas schools. Almost 97 percent of the teachers in Texas schools have college degrees.

"I do not feel that this office, which deals with the public free schools and the young people of Texas, should be involved in a political campaign. However, if the people of this district think I have looked after the interests

Three State Safety Check Stations Listed In Winters

Three Winters automobile repair firms are official State Inspection Stations, and are authorized to issue the inspection sticker necessary for operation of automobiles on the state's highways.

Waddell Chevrolet Co., Crockett Ford Sales and Herbie Crowe's auto repair shop are the official Winters stations.

Deadline for obtaining the safety inspection sticker is April 15, and Highway Patrolman David Hensley has urged motorists to secure their 1962 stickers as soon as possible prior to the deadline. After that date, vehicles not displaying the new inspection sticker will be operating in violation of the law and operator of those vehicles will be subject to arrest, he said.

It has been pointed out by the Texas Department of Public Safety that vehicles inspected so far this year have fewer defects than have ever been noted heretofore. Department officials said vehicle defects contributing to motor vehicle accidents in Texas is the lowest in the history of the State.

Morton Burnham is a slight, quiet-spoken gentleman" for a man who operates a small machine in Marble Falls in the heart of the Highland Lakes area of Texas. His hobby is inventing the new, inclusive mind game ago with the idea that today has opened an entirely new plateau of hunting.

As much as anyone knows to the contrary, Burnham was the first person to imitate the cry of a rabbit in distress — "The rabbit started quite innocently in 1904. Morton Burnham, nine years old at the time, was going on his first night hunt. A jackrabbit leaped on his hat as a hunter, which the youth had heard. It was made from a can into which he had poured kerosene and inserted a wick. The headlamp gave off a faint, my appearing glow.

As gifts to the half-moon swath of Merrill He skirled a field, climbed fruit, high a barbed wire fence and of food until the light reflected the and helped eyes. Then Morton Burnham raised his rifle and fired. e. Mrs. line buck fell.

At night hunting for deer was less than.

ME shot set off a chain reaction which young Morton Burnham didn't immediately comprehend. A jackrabbit feeding in the was spooked by the noise. It to squirm under the barbed wire fence but was caught. It began squealing. Almost instantly a pack of wolves pounced out of the timber and devoured the helpless rabbit.

Morton Burnham didn't stick to HANGING to find out what happened. APE AND AN G. After, back in the safety of the house, he got to thinking about the incident. Why couldn't a person imitate the sound of a crying rabbit to call wolves? The idea was hatched.

Jobe at three months he practiced imitating — trying to imitate the sound with his lips. Finally, he got down pat. He could duplicate the cry of the injured rabbit. He was sucking wind through compressed lips and regulating the sound with the palm of his hand. How would it actually work? He enlisted the help of a boyhood friend. One afternoon they headed for that same spot where the boys had killed the rabbit. Morton remembered the way the killers had suddenly appeared at the night. And he remembered what had happened to the helpless rabbit. He didn't want to imitate like that to happen to That's why this was an afternoon experiment.

N two boys stopped at the field where Burnham had killed the deer.

At a quirk of luck, they chanced to see a pack of wolves pursuing a deer. The lean and muscular boys caught the deer and began tearing her to pieces.

Morton Burnham grabbed the arm of his friend and pulled him behind a log. As they lay there, Burnham imitated the cry of an injured rabbit.

The big she-wolf raised her head and looked around. Without hesitation, she quit the downed deer and headed for the source of the noise. On her heels came the other wolves, rushing toward the two boys as if hypnotized.

Morton Burnham waited until the big wolf was almost on him before he shot. She fell heavily. The other wolves wheeled and fled for safety.

More the day's hunt was ended when the boys shot two more wolves. That was the beginning . . . the actual birth of game calling. It opened an entirely new sport for Morton Burnham . . . a sport that reached its climax for him five years later when he called and killed 105 foxes in only three years of hunting on a reach near Highland Springs.

Morton Burnham has had his share of thrills in game calling. He recalls most vividly the time when he was calling while crouched in a ravine. On this occasion a suddenly leaped over the edge, into the ditch, and clamped his teeth into Burnham's arm.

Another time, while on a hunt, he was calling while seated in the fork of a tree. Little did he know the too was being hunted. Two bobcats were stalking whatever he was making the noise.

When two wildcats are after something in a tree . . . such as a wild turkey . . . one cat will climb the tree and knock the other out. The other cat, waiting patiently on the ground, will immediately pounce upon it.

This is what happened to Morton Burnham. Suddenly he felt something on his back, a clawed bundle of fury. He tumbled backward, only to be attacked by the hungry bobcat.

That incident sort of soured him on calling at night. And well it might!

Today, Morton Burnham doesn't go "calling" any more. He leaves that to his sons, Murray and Winston.

But he will always be remembered as the father of game calling . . . the first man to fool nature's sly and wily killers simply by imitating the sound of an injured rabbit.

abies cases reported in Texas involved domestic animals, today the majority of cases are among wildlife animals. Out of the 6 cases reported in June, nearly half were skunks.

In all of 1951, there were only 54 cases of rabies among skunks spread over 30 different counties. During the same year, most wildlife rabies cases were reported in foxes.

A dramatic swing of Texas rabies in another direction is also apparent. During the peak fox-wildlife outbreaks the major area of occurrence was in a chain of counties running in a rough horizontal line stretching from mid-East Texas through Central Texas.

Today the skunk wildlife picture spreads across a north-to-south belt involving the eastern portion of Central Texas, and has now involved South Texas, West Texas, North-Central Texas, and the Texas Panhandle counties.

At the end of June, an aggregate of 179 cases of skunk rabies had been reported since January 1st—32 in June alone. The number of cases that come to the State Health department laboratory for diagnosis represents only a small fraction of the number of cases that actually occur.

It is this that portrays the descending nature of the pendulum. One state already assumes that any submitted skunk head is rabid, and human and animal exposure to a skunk bite is dealt with as an exposure to rabies.

Gov. Daniel Calls On Legislature To Solve Some Long-Standing Problems

By Vern Sanford
Press Association

Gov. Price Daniel's call for ending the special session of the Legislature on its opening day turned out to be just what the lawmakers got to.

The lawmakers got to Gov. Price Daniel's call, support could be mustered for George Parkhouse of Dallas, Rep. Charles Ballman of Dallas, for immediate adjournment of the Legislature.

The show is on—and already at a fast pace. Governor immediately laid out his problems for solving some long-standing problems. Included were:

Bank Escheat
A compromise with banks sought, under which banks advertise locally each year owners of accounts which much as $25 in them and had been inactive for seven years. Balances under $25 would be turned over to the State Treasury to be used for the owners, and they appear, pay them from a revolving fund which is kept in the Treasury for purpose. Rep. Charles E. Sherman, who has worked 10 years to get laws to the escheat laws, felt that had finally been found on the state and banks could.

Rural Roads
Governor Daniel's veto last summer of the $15,000,000 appropriation for farm-to-market road construction during the year starting Sept. 1 was designed to bring long discussion to a head.

$60,000,000 was available ($50,000,000 in state taxes and $10,000,000 in federal aid) for office first, so he is being called the "minority leader" of the House. His GOP colleague from Texas City, George Korkmas, makes it the largest Republican membership in the Legislature since back in the 1870s, when there were many Republicans in office in Texas, including a governor.

CANDIDATES ARE BECOMING ACTIVE

Politics is perk' up! Former House Speaker Waggoner Carris at the rail and ready to run for Attorney General. Actually the Lubbock attorney, a Democrat, has been quietly campaigning for the office for several months.

Austin Attorney Walter Koch is an announced candidate for Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, Third Judicial District.

Judge William A. Morrison of Cameron has announced for reelection to the Court of Criminal Appeals, on which he has served for 11 years. District Judge Otis Dunagan of Tyler has announced against him.

RECIPROCAL PRIVILEGES

Texas Game Fish Commission has decided to revive efforts to get reciprocal fishing privileges on the border rivers and lakes.

Neither the Texans on Lake Texoma nor the Louisianans on Lake Caddo can tell where the state line is. Sometimes they get fined by the other state's game wardens for not having a fishing license.

Time and time again negotiations have begun, only to have the idea shelved when officers were changed and the new ones didn't pick up the ball.

This time, Chairman Frank Wood of Wichita Falls will go to Oklahoma to start talks there. Henry LeBlanc, president of the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas, will try to get things rolling in his position as Southwestern director of the National Wildlife Federation.

INDUSTRY BOARD PICKS CLARK

Texas has an industry-seeking agency—the Texas Industrial Commission.

It got a new director in Harry W. Clark, who has been head of industrial development for the Texas Pacific Railway Co. He replaces Walter Dickerson.

Commission decided to center its efforts on coordinating and complementing the work of community industry seekers. Also to serve as an information center for facts on industry and its needs. And to help advertise Texas nationwide. Legislature provided them $55,000 for these purposes last year.

AIRED UP BREAD

Agriculture Commissioner John White sent word to all bakeries that the "balooned loaf" of bread is illegal under the state law.

White said this new "over-sized" loaf has appeared in several parts of the state.

It actually weighs a pound. But if filled with air it bakes into a loaf the same size as the pound and a half loaf. Weight is printed in small type, so shoppers find it hard to tell the difference.

The state's grocery policeman said if bakers don't cooperate by stopping the practice he'll stop them.

BACK TO THE BLACK

State revenues will begin to pull into balance this month, as the first full quarter of returns on the new sales tax reach Comptroller Robert S. Calvert.

Since the new law took effect, only $22,000,000 has come in, and it just about held things even on the state deficit of $75,000,000 or so.

Quarterly payments by stores, on sales for the last three months of 1961, are due Jan. 31. They should total about $45,000,000, less the $11,000,000 merchants paid in advance in November and thus got a 3 per cent discount.

But it will be summer of 1962 before the new sales tax wipes out the deficit, if all goes as predicted.

One effect of the sales tax has been to get stores located so they will pay the "store tax" which has been in effect many years.

A year ago at this time, only 81,109 stores had paid this tax. This year, 116,393 have paid it.

It all came about when stores were required to get permits as collectors of the new sales tax. Comptroller Calvert cross-checked their names, and collected the "store tax" from them while he was at it.

Billy Lynn Little Initiated Into Sigma Delta Chi

Billy Lynn Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Little, was initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity for men, on Wednesday in Austin, preceding a banquet for which Turner Catledge, managing editor of the New York Times, was guest speaker.

The banquet was sponsored by the Austin chapters of Sigma Delta Chi, Theta Sigma Phi, The Austin Society of Industrial Editors, and the University chapters of Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi. The latter is the professional journalism group for women.

Little, a sophomore in the University of Texas, was elected to membership in the university chapter of the organization. He is presently serving as associate sports editor of the Daily Texan, university newspaper, and has a weekly column in the paper.

Active in other student affairs, Little served this year as a Freshman Council advisor and was recently named one of the ten outstanding advisors this year. The committee which he headed, that of religious life, was chosen as second best of the 39 Freshman Council committees.

Membership in Sigma Delta Chi is on the basis of being an outstanding journalist.

Little's older brother, Harvey, is also a member of Sigma Delta Chi and attended the banquet.

Soil Survey Is Continuing In Runnels County

The Standard Soil Survey of Runnels County continues at a rapid pace, states James Barnhill of the local Soil Conservation Service. The survey, separating the many different soil types in the District, is planned to be completed in 1963. About 412,000 acres have been surveyed which is about 62 percent of the county.

The soils are separated according to parent material, vegetation, topography, texture, permeability, and age of land.

Barnhill also stated that with this information the Soil Conservation Service prepares soil maps showing the different soil types. These maps have proved helpful to farmers and ranchers in learning more about their soils. These maps are valuable tools in planning a sound soil and water conservation program.

During the fiscal year 2,720 disabled Texans became employable as the result of services provided by the Vocational Rehabilitation Division. Their increase in purchasing power was estimated to be in excess of $4,500,000 a year.

Approximately 37,275 students are enrolled in Texas public junior colleges . . . an increase of more than 100 per cent in the past ten years.

Texas schools ranked second in the nation with 331,939 students enrolled in Vocational Education.

scaffold, with a singletree for each hog to be hung and scraped; towrocks thrown in the pot of hot water and then draped around the hog to make the hair easier to scrape off.

For dinner there'd probably be fresh liver, and then for supper perhaps spareribs. Then the sausage-making expert of the community would start his preparations, clamping the old hand-driven grinders to the tables; and the women would have the sausage sacks ready for the fresh-ground meat. Sugar cures, smoke cures and salt cures would become the main topics of conversation—and the old men would recount for the hundredth time anecdotes which kept alive past happenings at "hog killing time."

Yes, the cold weather had a purpose then.

Hog killing time was a big event in those days before TV and a fast-paced world shoved it aside. But perhaps all things happen for a common good. But we wonder if the problems of the world would not lose their grip on our thoughts and worry apparatus alongside the peace within the man scraping the hair off a hog on a cold morning?

Wall Panel Has Been Developed For Farm Buildings

An experimental wall panel, made of a 2-inch layer of plastic sandwiched between half-inch layers of reinforced portland cement, has been developed by the USDA for use in constructing farm buildings.

These panels are light enough to be handled by two or three men and are cast with holes for bolting to wooden posts set 8 feet apart. No special tools or equipment are needed to erect a one-story building with the panels, the USDA says.

According to USDA scientists, an experimental panel building constructed at Beltsville, Md., nearly two years ago has shown no signs of weathering. They estimate the panels will last more than 20 years.

Cost estimates indicate the panels are more expensive than concrete blocks for buildings of equal size. Total building costs would be comparable, however, because a panel building can be erected about four times faster than a block building.

The panels are suitable for milking parlors, chicken houses, barns and other inclosed livestock buildings where insulation is necessary. Tests simulating an animal falling or being pushed against the panels proved that the panels can withstand heavy or repeated blows by livestock.

Buildings constructed with these panels would be easy to clean and disinfect because the inside of the building is free of studs and the interior surface is extremely smooth. Joints are sealed with a caulking compound. The finished panels are light gray in color, but they may be painted.

There were 85,102 high school graduates in Texas in 1961. Fifty-seven per cent of this number, 47,716, planned to enter college—an increase of about 850 students over the preceding year.

Texas leads all states in Vocational Agriculture enrollment, is second in Distributive Education, is second in Homemaking Education, and ranks third in Vocational Industrial Education.

More than two million students were in average daily membership in Texas public schools in 1960-61 and of these the average daily attendance exceeded 94 per cent.

HEIDENHEIMER'S

DID MEN WRITE THE BIBLE?

YES! About forty men among whom were farmers, doctors, kings, statesmen and fishermen wrote the Bible. However, these men were "moved," or borne along, by God's Holy Spirit to write. (2 Peter 1:21) Consequently, the scriptures are "inspired of God." (2 Timothy 3:16, 17.)

From the time that "Moses wrote all the words of the Lord" (Exodus 24:4) until John "bare witness of the word of God" (Revelation 1:2), the Holy Spirit was directing the writing so that man could have revealed unto him those things Jehovah wanted man to know and what He knew man should know; the truth to make him free (John 8:32), the words to make him wise unto salvation (2 Timothy 3:15), the word by which man is saved (James 1:21.)

The Bible is a message from God, to men, through men.
