Three Killed In Area Accidents

10 Die When High Winds Wreck Home

(By The Associated Press)

ALEXANDER CITY, Ala., Nov. 24 — Tornadoes leap-frogged across Eastern Alabama today, snuffing out 14 lives and leaving at least 36 injured.

Red Cross Chairman Ralph Frohsin said 10 negroes died at the Campground community, also known as Hackneyville, nine miles northeast of here.

The highway patrol said the big, out-of-season wind picked up a weatherbeaten, gray negro home and hurled it to the ground across a road. This was the house in which the negroes died.

Four Others Killed

Four persons were reported dead and more than a score injured in Blount and DeKalb counties more than a hundred miles to the north.

The tornado beat a path through Blount and then skipped over into Dekalb.

At the request of Blount county Sheriff W. F. Maynor, Alabama's Gov. James E. Folsom ordered the Blount National Guard to give all aid asked.

Sheriff Maynor said a small twister struck a few miles north of Oneonta about dusk, injuring more than a score. Most of the injured were at a tourist camp.

Two were reported killed at Easley in Blount county and one at Double Bridges in DeKalb.

One Dies In Fire

The sheriff reported that a house burned down in the storm and an unidentified body had been taken from the ruins.

A resident of the Hackneyville area, W. S. Coker, said he noticed a "dense black cloud, and a lot of trees flying in the air."

Then, he said, "the wind struck the house and blew it across the road into another house. Both building were torn to pieces."

Other neighbors said the Harkins family had just returned to their home from a day spent painting a negro church when the storm approached.

The tornado picked the house up, blew it 300 yards across the road and smashed it into another house.

10 Die In House

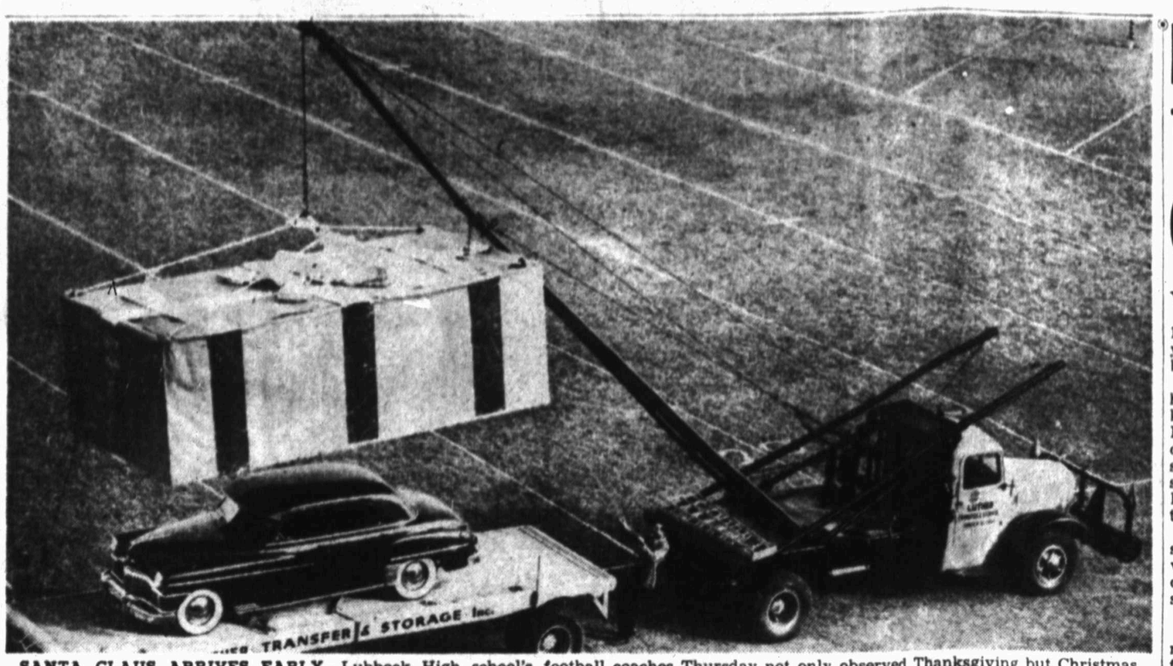

Witnesses said the houses looked as if they had exploded.

All 10 persons in the Harkins house were killed. Ten people in the other house were uninjured. The second house was occupied by Ethel Hicks, negro, and nine children.

No other injuries were reported in the Hackneyville area storm.

At the little town of Valley Head, near Double Bridges, a night telephone operator said her exchange office was converted into a hospital as the injured were

Britain Presses A-Bomb Bargain

By LEON SHLOSS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Truman today is seeking a successor to atomic boss David Lilienthal with negotiations approaching in which Britain may deny the U. S. its latest knowhow unless America loosens up on its A-bomb secrets.

A member of the joint congressional atomic committee introduced the new and surprising aspect into the world weapons situation, brought to a critical point by Russia's A-bomb success. Requesting that he remain unidentified, the member said:

Britain May Close Door

"A number of British scientists cooperated in the wartime Manhattan district project, which created the atomic bomb. They knew all there was to know then and had some information which we needed.

"Consider the possibility that England's scientists may at this time also have some information which we need. They may say 'You closed the door with your atomic energy control act, under which you cannot furnish us with late information. Why should we provide you our knowledge as long as the street remains one way?'"

The congressman expressed as his opinion the belief that Britain's scientists could be brought up to date on American postwar ad-

Assault, Robbery Of Lubbock Drive-In Owner Reported Here

T. C. Long, operator of Toby's Drive Inn at 701 College Avenue, told police early this morning that he was assaulted and robbed by two men who climbed into the window of his tourist court apartment in the 500 block College Avenue shortly before 1 a. m.

Long said the men beat him with blackjacks and took $14 in cash and two postal money orders totaling $55. He said he had been asleep at the time of the attack and was unable to get a description of the men in the darkness.

Trio Fails In Holdup Attempt

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, Nov. 24.—Tentatively identified as Amarillo jailbreakers, three holdup men escaped after a fruitless attempt to rob a filling station early today.

The trio fled after one was felled by a blow from a flashlight in the hands of Earl Moss, station attendant.

Policeman M. L. Murray said descriptions furnished by Moss tallied with those of three men who broke out of the Potter county jail in Amarillo a day earlier.

The Amarillo fugitives are Leo Earl and Edward Leo Rader, 25-year-old twins held on armed robbery charges, and James Farris, jr., 21, whose burglary conviction was on appeal.

Moss told officers the filling station bandits fled toward Alamogordo, N. M., 85 miles north. At Alamogordo, State Policeman Al Hathaway said a roadblock was maintained several hours without sighting the men. They were reported traveling in a red Dodge convertible coupe.

El Paso police said Moss gave this account:

The men drove into his station

Coach Pattison Given New Car By Fans

Gifts Are Presented To Lubbock Coaches

CHRISTMAS came early Thursday for football coaches at Lubbock High school, and it is doubtful if any Thanksgiving day ever held so much in store for Head Coach C. R. Pattison and Assistants Bill Floyd, Fred Taylor and their wives.

A group of Lubbock fans, appreciative of the fine performance of the Westerners and their coaches this season, decided that something should be done about it.

The result was a new, 1949 DeSoto sedan for the Pattisons, a complete silver service for the Taylors and a sterling silver dinner set for 12 persons for the Floyds.

Gifts were presented at halftime of the Brownfield-Lubbock game Thursday.

In an impressive presentation with H. T. Luther as master of ceremonies, the gifts were given to the wives of Taylor and Floyd, the two coaches being out of town on a "scouting" assignment of future Lubbock High opponents. E. E. Fulgham presented Mrs. Floyd with the silver service, and Harold Humphries gave Mrs. Taylor the tea set.

In accepting the automobile from Luther, Coach Pattison thanked those who had made the gifts pos-

Bi-District Site To Be Decided Today

Lubbock High school officials will meet in Fort Worth at noon today with representatives of Austin High of El Paso to determine the site, date, and time of the bi-district play-off between the two schools.

Austin High won the District 4-AA title Thursday by defeating El Paso High, 7 to 0, while Lubbock rounded out a perfect season by drubbing Brownfield, 54 to 0.

Meeting in Fort Worth's Texas hotel, representatives of the two schools will probably decide the play-off spot by a flip of the coin. Unofficial indications are that the game will be played on one or the other team's home grounds and not on a neutral field.

The team winning the toss will be host for the game and will also decide the day and time of play. The bi-district fray will be played either next Friday or Saturday.

Lubbock officials who will attend the Fort Worth meeting include Coach C. R. Pattison; E. J. Lowrey, athletic business manager for Lubbock High; R. W. Matthews, superintendent of schools here; and C. G. (Mule) Dowell, a trustee of the Lubbock Independent school district.

Supt. L. W. McConachie will probably be the chief representative for Austin High.

ALLIES GRANT MANY CONCESSIONS

West Germany Vows To Work For Peace, Security In Europe

By TOM AGOSTON
INS Staff Correspondent

BONN, Nov. 24 — West Germany pledged itself tonight to prevent any unauthorized rearmament and rebirth of totalitarianism in a historic "protocol" signed with the Western Allies.

The Western Allies, the United States, Britain and France, in turn agreed to modify the German plant dismantling program and grant other economic concessions.

The significant postwar step is aimed at integrating Germany into the western family of nations confronting the hostile Soviet bloc in the struggle for control of the divided nation.

The "blueprint" for the West German federation's future is "a workable compromise" aimed at meeting French security fears and German wishes for a halt in all dismantling for reparations.

It foreshadows West Germany's admittance into the Council of Europe and into the international Ruhr authority controlling the big German war-potential basin.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer hailed the agreement before parliament and the nation as "a great success" achiev-

France Faces General Strike

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Friday, Nov. 25.—Long distance telephone service was hit today in the first hour of a 24-hour general strike that threatened the country with industrial paralysis.

The Paris central telephone station reported no calls could be put through to Bordeaux, but service to the rest of the country appeared normal thus far.

The shutdown was ordered to begin in the hours after Thursday midnight, but how effective it will be will not be learned until the normal work day begins.

Bonuses Are Demanded

The strike was advertised by the major French unions as a demonstration for payment of bonuses and lifting of the salary freeze so that workers could bargain freely with their employers for more pay to meet rising living costs.

While it seemed certain France would experience one of the worst shutdowns in recent years, nevertheless there were to be many defections.

Pharmacy owners and the head of schools said they would remain on the job. One of the three major unions—but the smallest—has told its workers not to strike. Some independent unions are for the strike, others against.

The French press seemed to agree that the picture would be something like this:

1. Factories for the most part will shut down.
2. Railroads, bus, subway systems will be virtually at a standstill.
3. Gass and electric plants will

Holiday Death Toll Hits 137 Over Nation

(By The Associated Press)

VIOLENT deaths over the Thanksgiving holiday reached 137 Thursday night, passing last year's mark even before the homebound crush of motorists ended.

Eighty-nine persons died in highway crashes. Another 48 were killed in miscellaneous mishaps. Fourteen of these were victims of Alabama tornadoes. Fires, shootings while hunting, and a small plane crash in South Dakota helped swell the miscellaneous toll.

The national figure included seven persons in Texas, three of whom were killed in traffic accidents, and four in fires and shootings.

114 Killed Last Year

Last year between 6 p.m. the night before Thanksgiving and the following midnight 114 persons were killed, 86 in traffic. In 1947 the 30-hour toll was 128, of which 83 were traffic deaths.

Statistics of the National Safety council show that an average of 82 persons were killed every 24 hours in traffic accidents during the first nine months of this year.

The nine-month figures, however, cover deaths occuring as long as months after the accidents in which the victims were injured. The survey made over the Thanksgiving day holiday includes only persons killed instantly or dying of injuries within a few hours after the accidents.

Three Die In Crash

One of the worst accidents occurred Thursday near East St. Louis, Ill. A physician and two nurses were killed and two other doctors were injured seriously in a collision of their automobile and a switch engine.

By states the toll included:

Alabama 1 and 14, Arkansas 2 and 0, California 10 and 1, Connecticut 1 and 1, Florida 3 and 1, Illinois 8 and 1, Indiana 4 and 4, Iowa 1 and 1, Kansas 5 and 0, Kentucky 0 and 1, Maine 1 and 0, Maryland 3 and 1, Massachussetts 3 and 1, Michigan 2 and 1, Minnesota 1 and 0, Montana 1 and 0, New Hampshire 0 and 1, New Jersey 1 and 3, New Mexico 1 and 0. Fund Started For Wreck Victims

A donation of $500 to help defray funeral and burial expenses of the eight Latin-Americans who died Wednesday morning in a truck-train crash near Shallowater, was made Thursday afternoon by Hiram Parks, Brownfield and Lubbock theater operator.

The contribution was made in the name of the Llanos theater, Latin-American movie theater in Lubbock which is operated by Parks.

Parks, when contacted by telephone at Brownfield by The Morning Avalanche late Thursday afternoon, said he hoped other Lubbock firms and individuals—especially those business which have been greatly stimulated by Latin-American patronage, would contribute money to a fund for aiding the families of the dead.

He pointed out that those who died were Lubbock residents, and that Lubbock residents should feel it their duty to aid their fellow citizens.

GOP Solons Accuse Acheson Of 'Bungling' U. S. Envoy's Case

By H. K. REYNOLDS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Five Republican members of the House Foreign Affairs committee called on President Truman today to fire State Secretary Acheson and all other officials who had a hand in the "unbelievable bungling" of the Angus Ward case.

They declared that Secretary of State Acheson's appeal to 30 nations for help in securing the U. S. consul general's release from the Chinese Communists "is one of the most humiliating chapters in American diplomatic history."

The bitter attack upon administration policy in China came in a joint statement from Reps. Chiperfield, Ill.; Vorys, Ohio; Smith, Wis.; Judd, Minn.; and Jackson, Calif.

State department plans to expedite departure of Ward and his staff from Manchuria are in abeyance pending the receipt of information on Ward's intinerary and travel arrangements.

The Chinese Communist court which convicted Ward of beating a former servant ordered that he leave the country at once, together with the entire consul staff. The State department instructed

SETTING IDEAL

Area Observes Quiet Holiday

Residents of Lubbock and the South Plains Thursday enjoyed Thanksgiving in an ideal setting of perfect weather, an abundant harvest and peace and contentment.

The weather man made good his promise of providing generally fair weather. Highest temperature for the day was 66 degrees and low in the early morning was a comfortable 48.

The day was quiet on the law enforcement front on the South Plains, although violence claimed two persons in the area. A Lubbock man was killed near Carlisle in a wreck and a child was burned to death in a fire near Morton.

Several top notch football battles in the area attracted thousands of fans while the smaller fry dotted city parks and school grounds with their own sandlot grid clashes.

Scoring Heavy In Games

Lubbock's Westerners trampled the visiting Brownfield Clubs, 54-0, to the pleasure of the home fans, while at the same time Littlefield was rolling roughshod over Spur, 47-14, and Olton was downing Meadow, 24-0.

In other games on the South Plains and in the Panhandle, Amarillo closed its season with a convincing 34-7 victory over Plainview while Pampa edged by a tough Borger eleven, 14-7.

Special Thanksgiving masses at St. Elizabeth's Catholic church and a service at Redeemer Lutheran church drew large attendance from their respective flocks.

Another Thanksgiving service which was held Wednesday night at the First Methodist church, with members of the Lubbock Ministers association participating, attracted another 300 persons.

Stores, Offices Close

Stores and governmental offices were closed in observance of the traditional fall holiday as were Lubbock's schools and Texas Tech.

School children and Tech students do not have to return to classes until Monday.

Gin Mishap Is Fatal For Man At Turkey

Jasper N. Majors, 27-year-old Turkey gin worker, died in Lubbock Memorial hospital at 12:20 a. m. today, a little more than eight hours after his right arm was caught in a bale saw at the West Texas cotton gin in Turkey.

The accident occurred about 4 p. m. Thursday. Majors was brought to Lubbock by a Turkey ambulance, arriving here about 7:30 p. m.

His arm was badly mangled and nearly severed, necessitating an amputation about half way between the elbow and shoulder.

Death apparently resulted from extreme loss of blood and shock due to the accident, and the lapse of time between the injury and arrival in Lubbock.

Hospital attendants said Majors was not married. Names and addresses of survivors were not available early today. Attendants at the hospital said his body would be taken by ambulance to the Norris Funeral home in Paducah.

Lubbock Man Wreck Victim; Child Burns

THREE persons died violent deaths on the South Plains and in the area Thursday—one in a traffic mishap near Lubbock another in a fire near Morton, and a third as result of a gin accident at Turkey.

Alton E. Turnbow, 23-year-old farmer of Lubbock route 5, was killed at 2 p.m. Thursday when his automobile collided with the rear of a loaded cotton trailer on a farm-to-market road two miles north of Wolfforth.

Guadalupe Seranno, six-month-old daughter of an itinerant Latin-American couple, was burned to death when flames destroyed their temporary home about 10:30 a.m. Thursday on a Cochran county farm six miles north and four miles west of Morton.

Jasper N. Majors, 27, died at 12:20 a. m. today in Lubbock Memorial hospital as result of injuries received in a gin accident at Turkey late Thursday. He had entered the hospital for amputation of an arm mangled in the mishap.

Area Toll Soars

The Thanksgiving day traffic death of Turnbow was the thirty-fourth in the past 26 days on the South Plains, an all-time record. Eight of the 34 were killed Wednesday in a train-truck crash near Shallowater. Turnbow's death pushed the area toll for the year to 91.

The death figure of 91 matched the forecast made in January by district officials of the Texas Highway patrol. They said 91 would die in traffic deaths during the year, but the figure was reached Thursday with more than a month left in the year.

Turnbow was driving alone when he crashed into the trailer pulled by a car driven by B. H. Thomas, jr., 22, of Shallowater route 1. Thomas and his father, B. H. Thomas, sr., were not injured.

Both Machines Headed South

According to the Highway patrol, both cars were headed south on the paved road about six miles southwest of Lubbock, with Turnbow driving behind Thomas.

Turnbow apparently overtook the car and trailer as they passed over a spot in the road patched

Child Burns To Death In Home

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

MORTON, Nov. 24. — A six-month-old girl was burned to death near here about 10:30 a.m. today when flames destroyed her family's temporary home in a grain storage barn constructed of two railroad boxcars.

Bystanders, unable to rescue the child, held the child's mother to keep her from rushing into the burning structure.

The child, Guadalupe Seranno, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Locio Seranno, was burned beyond recognition in the fire which burned the barn home to the ground on the C. R. Woolsey farm, six miles north and four miles west of Morton.

Worker Removes Body

John Soliz, an itinerant farm worker, pulled the charred body from the fire by breaking out a wall by the child's bed, Sheriff H. D. Crockett of Cochran county reported.

When Crockett arrived at the fire scene, just ahead of volunteer fire fighters from Morton, Soliz handed him the body of the child wrapped in a sheet.

The child's mother made one attempt to rush into the burning structure, but was pulled back just as the roof fell in. She re-

Solon Claims Russia Building Soviet-Controlled German Army In Violation Of Potsdam Agreement

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—Rep. Price, (D-Ill) charged today that Russia is organizing a Soviet-controlled German army in its eastern occupied zone in violation of the Potsdam agreement.

Price returned from Europe with the prediction that when the army has reached 100,000 officers and men the USSR will urge the withdrawal of all foreign troops from Germany. This, he added, would be a diplomatic coup d'etat which the Allies will not be able to match in their western zone of occupation.

Numbers 50,000 Now

The congressman stated that the Soviet-trained army is euphemistically called a "police force," and now numbers 50,000 men. He stated:

"These men, all Germans, are trained like soldiers and live in barracks like soldiers. While they are called a police force, they are in effect an army. They are under Russian control.

"Russia soon will be able to make a gesture to the rest of the world by offering to withdraw her troops from Germany if other nations will do likewise. She still will have about 100,000 well-trained and well-armed men there as a police force. While they are Germans they actually will constitute a Russian armed force dominated by, and in sympathy with, Moscow."

No Similar Force

Price added in an interview that the Western Allies, including the United States, have no similar force in western Germany. He emphasized:

"The effect of the withdrawal of all foreign troops would be to leave all Germany in the hands of this Sovetized police force."

The congressman spent about a month in Europe. He is a member of the House Armed Services committee and of the Joint Atomic Energy committee.

Price said he anticipated that the Russian proposal for a withdrawal of troops would probably be made within the next year.

His appraisal of Russian plans was based on conferences with American and other Allied military leaders in Germany and on his own observations.

Suspended Officer Charged With Murder At Albuquerque

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 24. (INS)—A suspended Bernalillo county deputy sheriff was charged with murder yesterday in a criminal complaint filed by the Bernalillo county district attorney.

The complaint charges that Polo Arias fired two shots at Abel Saavedra early Saturday and that Saavedra later died in an Albuquerque hospital.

No date has been set for the preliminary hearing for Arias.

HIS HONOR AT WORK—The new mayor-elect of Haverhill, Mass., Joseph L. Willett, above, will steer not only the city government, but his passenger bus as well. Willett says he has no intention of quitting his job as a bus driver. For one thing, he can't live on the mayor's $2500 yearly salary, and besides his job keeps him "close to the public."

The social boycott of Harijans (former "untouchables") by villagers in India's East Punjab, has been made a penal offense.

Three New Members Appointed To Advisory Dental Research Group

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (INS)—Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing announced tonight the appointment of three new members of the National Advisory Dental Research council.

They are: Dr. Percival C. Lowery, of Detroit, former vice-president of the American Dental association; Watson Davis, Washington, D. C., and Mark Harrington, Denver, Colo., a worker with the Colorado Public Health service.

At the same time, the General Services administration announced it will sell "Hilholme," the estate of the late Percy S. Straus, in Rye, N.Y., and that the proceeds will be used in the futherance of medical research.

Straus, former vice-president of the R. H. Macy and Co., and president of Bamberger's department store, died in April 1944. He left his palatial mansion to the public health service for use as a hospital, but it was found such use of the building would be uneconomical.

WHEN YOU ARE OLD

HERE'S a post-Thanksgiving thought by Donna Ashworth in "Your Life."

The set-in-their-ways of old people worry you. The demanding old people irritate you. The selfish old people infuriate you. The old people who want you to entertain them get on your nerves.

But have you ever thought they are no different as old people than they were as young people—except in greater degree? The stubborn old people were set in their ways when they were young people. The demanding old people were demanding at twenty, more demanding at fifty and still more demanding at seventy.

It is worth your time to stop and think about it. One of these days you, too, will be seventy and you aren't going to be any different then than you are now. Are you a kindly, generous thoughtful person now? Then you will be the same when you are old.

Stop and think: "What kind of old person do I want to be?" If you don't want to be set in your ways, demanding and selfish, don't be that way today—because if you are, that's the way you will be tomorrow.

BOYS AID SALES

MOTHERS of pupils enrolled in Miss Ouida Buzbee's room at K. Carter school sponsored a rummage sale last Saturday and cleared almost fifty dollars, which will be spent in making room improvements.

Supplementing the sales was the work of boys in the room who sold soda pop.

We think it is a good thing to allow children to help in financial ventures such as this one. After all, they will benefit from them and it will mean more if they have a hand in earning the money.

It was lost between the Asbury Methodist church and Sixteenth. She uses it on the back of her wheel chair and it has sentimental value.

JOINT CONTROL FAVORED

Proposed Internationalization Of Jerusalem Gains Support Of U. S.

By GABRIEL DE SABATINO
INS Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 24. The United States took a middle-of-the-road stand today on the question of Jerusalem and supported an internationalization plan that would leave Israel and Jordan in control of the Holy City.

U.S. Delegate John C. Ross declared before the United Nations special political committee that the United States favored the UN Palestine conciliation commission's proposals for demilitarization of Jerusalem and a high commissioner to guard the holy places.

Status Quo Urged

The commission's plan would maintain, in efect, the status quo in Jerusalem by which Israel and Jordan occupy the city under a truce accord. The plan provides for the withdrawal of occupation troops and military stores but leaves autonomy in the city's two sectors up to the Israeli and the Arabs.

Ross said that only international supervision under the UN could restore order and security to the disputed city. He said the commission's proposals were drawn up "in the spirit of even-handed justice."

At the same time Australia presented a resolution to place Jerusalem under a permanent UN administration in accord with a trusteeship agreement drawn up for the Holy City in 1947.

Solution Called Vague

Australian Delegate J. D. L. Hood argued that the conciliation commission's proposed solution was too vague and did not provide for the orderly administration of the city.

Hood anticipated stiff Israel opposition to the Australian counter-proposal, admitting that Israel had views "of its own" on the internationalization question. Israeli Representative Aubrey S. Eban is slated to blast the entire internationalization scheme when he takes the floor after the next speaker, Syria.

Ross, in backing the commission's plan, stressed that any solution of the Jerusalem question must require the demilitarization of the area.

Greater Security Cited

The American said that both Israel and Jordan can find security "more surely in the demilitarization of the Jerusalem area under international supervision than by continuing the area in the status of an armed camp." He added:

"In view of the fact that respective claims to the city on both sides are so deep-seated . . . it would seem most appropriate for both parties to agree to withdraw their military and para-military forces and stocks of war material from the area and for the UN to establish effective procedures to ensure that Jerusalem will remain demilitarized."

Exiled Lama Urged Reds To Free Tibet

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24. (AP)—The Panchan Lama, 12-year-old exile claimant to spiritual rule over Tibet, evidently has fallen into the hands of the Chinese Communists and is making the best of it.

The Red radio in Peiping reported today that the Panchan Lama had sent a message from his seat in Tsinghai province to the Communist army command, begging it to "liberate Tibet, wipe out all traitorous elements and deliver the Tibetan people."

The broadcast, heard in San Francisco by the Associated Press, said Communist chairman Mao Tze-Tung, Gen. Chu Teh and other Red leaders had replied promising soon to "liberate" Tibet and "satisfy the yearnings of the Tibetan people."

The Reds overran the area of the Panchan Lama's Kumbum monastery in September. The Nationalists expressed hope at the time that he had fled, but evidently he stayed and fell under Communist control.

Tibet is ruled by the Dalai Lama, who last summer kicked out a Nationalist mission, but also has opposed the Communists.

China has nominal suzerainty over Tibet, but that remote country long has been self-governing for all practical purposes.

The Panchan Lama has been in exile for a quarter-century. The present holder of the title has never been in Tibet. He was chosen as an infant who supposedly was born at the exact instant the old Lama died, and thus is regarded as the incarnation of his predecessor.

National Grange Is Advised To Oppose Brannan Proposal

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 24. (AP)—The National Grange was advised today to continue its opposition to the farm price support program advanced by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

The recommendation came from the grange's agriculture committee, headed by Dorsey Kirk, of Oblong, Ill.

Officials have not yet released the text of the resolution but they said that they plan to leave the question with the delegates overnight and ask a vote on it tomorrow.

Some delegates said they will try to open the discussion on the controversial subject to the public and the press, although resolutions are usually considered behind closed doors.

National Master Albert S. Goss is strongly against the Brannan program but one group, led by Joseph W. Fichter, Oxford, O., master of the Ohio grange, favors it. Goss beat out Fichter in winning re-election last Monday, indicating the anti-Brannan people have the largest vote.

The 12-day convention closes tomorrow night with the installation of officers.

Californians Are Thankful As Siege Of Smog Is Ended

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24. (AP)—Millions of Southern Californians, plagued for five days with acrid, eye-watering smog, really had something to be thankful for today.

The weatherman waved his magic turkey drumstick and the nasty old stuff disappeared—just like that!

Yep, and what's more, he doesn't think it will be coming back anytime soon.

There was some fog early today in the harbor area, however. Light highway travel, due to the holiday, was slowed, but elsewhere in the area it was sunny and clear.

One inbound vessel was forced to remain outside the harbor until the fog lifted. And International airport was socked in for only about three hours, compared with a practically zero-zero visibility yesterday.

At that time air pollution control officials described the irritating smog as "about the worst" on record. In some sections visibility was reduced to less than half a mile. And no kidding, brother—it was really something to cry about.

But today the weatheman told folks they could dry those tears because he can't see anything but generally clear, warm weather through Sunday with occasional scattered high cloudiness and patches of fog here and there along the coast.

Admitted Burglar Taken To State Prison At Huntsville

CROSBYTON, Nov. 24 (Special) Bobby Bradley, 24, described as under five concurrent eight-year sentences for burglary was taken to the state penitentiary at Huntsville today by Sheriff Fox Addison.

The man, not under conviction in Crosby county inasmuch as no indictment was returned here, has admitted to the sheriff two safe burglaries at Tyler, one at Baird, one at McAllester, Okla., and other burglaries at Athens, Marshall, Little Rock, Ark., Hopkinsville, Ky., and Hillsdale, Mich. He was arrested in late July.

Justice of the Peace W. H. Nixon Thursday set bond of $500 for Alfred Morrero, 18, charged with assault with intent to murder in the Tuesday night shooting near Lorenzo of Louis Anaya, 20, of Crosbyton. Two other Latin-American youths, Henry Calderon, 20, and an unidentified companion, paid fines on simple assault charges filed in connection with the case.

Witnesses indicated that Morrero fired the shot as result of a quarrel in a cotton patch.

Anaya will recover, it was believed.

Terrified parents have kept children home from school in Mexico City on rumors of a polio epidemic, which health authorities said was greatly exaggerated.

Acheson Scored By GOP Solons

Ward, via the consulate general at Peking, to depart forthwith.

Although allowed to return to his home in Mukden, Ward will not be completely free, under decision of the Chinese court, until he has paid compensation to the complainant in the case, as well as severance pay to native consulate employes.

Funds Need Is Question

The State department has not been advised how much money is involved or whether Ward has sufficient funds on hand to meet the Communist demands.

The assumption is that Ward, his wife and other American and European consulate employes, will try to reach Tientsin, on the coast, by train from Mukden, and then seek transportation, either by steamship or plane, to Hong Kong or South Korea.

U. S. Navy ships and Air Force planes in the Far East would be available if necessary, to aid in repatriating the American group, but no special orders for such assistance can be issued until Ward's plans are known.

Two Solons Are Experts

The five congressmen who lit into Acheson and the State department in connection with the Ward case included two, Vorys and Judd, who are recognized authorities on China. They have been leaders in demanding a strong American policy in support of the anti-Communist measures of the Chinese Nationalist government.

The congressmen said that Acheson's 30-nation appeal would cause the United States "loss of face beyond calculation" in the Orient, and added:

"But ironically the department's action was only the culmination of a year of supine pleas and cajolery with the Chinese Communists to obtain Ward's freedom while the prestige and dignity of the United States daily sank lower and lower in the eyes of the rest of the world.

World Appeal Scored

"Is it to be assumed that it will require the assistance of 30 nations to protect the lives of our diplomatic officials under similar circumstances in the future?

If this method was the only effective one the State department could think of in the Ward case, the natural question is why didn't the department invoke it in the first place instead of imperiling the life of one of its most trusted diplomatic officers for all these months?

"The truth is that firm action taken months ago would have achieved the results desired. The failure to take such action is only one by-product of the incredibly botched China policy which our government has pursued for the last four years."

While expressing the belief that it will take years for the United States to recover from the State department's "spineless performance" in the Ward case, the congressmen declared:

"President Truman could make no more promising start toward shortening the penalty of these years than by administering a thorough housecleaning in his official family.

"Once Ward and his staff are safely out of Communist hands, the President should immediately call for the resignation of all State department officials, both high and low, responsible for the mishandling of the Ward case, to prevent recurrence of such unbelievable bungling."

Arias Is Named New President Of Panama

PANAMA, Nov. 24. (AP)—Arnulfo Arias, the stormy petrel of Panamanian politics, was returned tonight to the presidential office from which he was ousted a little over eight years ago.

He gained the presidency this time with the support of the same man who helped overthrow him on Oct. 9, 1941—Police Chief Jose A. Remon.

Remon, who only Sunday succeeded in forcing Dr. Daniel Chanis, jr., from the presidency, moved swiftly after the supreme court ruled Chanis was still the constitutional president of the republic.

"Arnulfo Arias is legality," said Remon from the presidential palace, which was surrounded with the 2,000 national police under his command — the country's only armed force.

His reference was to the fact that Arias actually won the most votes in the 1948 presidential elections but was counted out by a national electoral jury which threw the election to Domingo Diaz Arosemena. Chanis a vice president, assumed office Aug. 23 after the death of Diaz Arosemena.

After Chanis was ousted on Sunday Roberto F. Chiari, who was second vice president, was sworn into office.

Hardin Team Dumps Trinity Tigers, 53-0

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 24. (AP) Hardin college won undisputed claim to the Gulf Coast Conference championship today, smashing Trinity university, 53-0.

The Indians pushed across 21 points in the second quarter, six in the third and 26 in the final period.

Trinity drove to Hardin's 18-yard line in the first quarter and to the six in the third, but bogged down each time.

J. D. Roland passed for two Hardin touchdowns, one to Tom Collins and the other to Leroy Montgomery. Bobby Flippin flipped two scoring passes to Jack Barry and carried for another. Jack Russell counted one and Dwight Moore got two tallies.

Barry kicked three extra points, Bobby Rogers one and Bill Graveley one.

and ordered gas and oil. As he raised the car's hood, one of them grabbed his arm and demanded money. The other two crowded against him.

Light Put to Use

Moss flailed out with his flashlight, knocking one of the intruders unconscious. Then he darted inside the station, locked the door and telephoned police.

As he was calling, the other two men hastily carried their companion to the car and drove away.

At Amarillo, Jack Burgess, the jailer on duty during yesterday's break, and one other jail break there earlier this year, resigned effective Dec. 1. Potter County Sheriff Paul Gaither said Burgess resigned of his own free will.

POTTER COUNTY SHERIFF DECLINES ADVICE TO QUIT

AMARILLO, Nov. 24. (INS)— A suggestion in The Amarillo Times that Sheriff Paul Gaither resign because of escapes from the Potter county jail was answered with an emphatic "no" today by Gaither.

The suggestion was in a front page editorial that charged "since Jan. 1, when Sheriff Paul Gaither took office, this newspaper has published more escape stories than in any comparable period in history."

The editorial followed a jail break Wednesday morning in which four prisoners got away. One, Dwight Hoskins, 24, charged with the murder of Charles Freeman, was recaptured yesterday.

Three Still Free

Leo and Edward Rader, 25-year-old twins facing charges of hijacking in California, Texas and Oklahoma, and James Farris, 21, under a seven-year sentence for burglary, are still at large.

Sheriff Gaither returned to Amarillo today from Huntsville where he had taken prisoners to the state penitentiary. Asked by newsmen if he would resign, he replied:

"Not by a ... sight. I have just begun to fight."

He said that the movement to have him quit was instigated by a political group that wanted Chief of Police Sid Harper in the sheriff's office.

Leftist Union Leads

The general strike was called first by Workers' Force, a union less radical than the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor (CGT). The Workers' Force (force ouvriere) broke away from the CGT two years ago and since then has been trying to gain ascendancy in the labor field.

Barely had it called for the strike of its 900,000 members than the CGT jumped into the fray with its 2,200,000. The CGT began demanding not only the lifting of the wage freeze imposed by the government, but demanded a bonus immediately. The CFTC, known generally as the Christian Federation, ordered its 700,000 members to stay out of the strike.

The Workers' Force, influenced much by the Socialists, hoped by their call to demonstrate their effectiveness in getting benefits for laborers, but as usual the Communist leaders in the bigger union demanded bigger and better labor benefits.

Strike Is Denounced

Liberal and conservative newspapers in Paris and elsewhere have denounced the strike as useless and generally ill-advised. Paris-Press calculated that the strike would cost France 10,700,000,000 francs. That is about $30,000,000.

Last night Premier Georges Bidault appealed by radio to workers to ignore the strike call. Throughout the day officials in charge of public services appealed to their workers to keep the wheels turning.

Basic demands of the unions included:

1. An immediate bonus of 3,000 francs ($8.70) a month to all workers.

2. Unfreezing of salaries. The government has controlled increases much of the time since the war.

3. Benefits, unspecified, for the unemployed.

4. Reclassification of public employes—with a view to wage increases.

5. Price adjustments to "assure citizens a decent living."

Oklahoma Man Hopes For Sight After Race To Operating Room

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 24 (AP) —S. E. McGuffin, Oklahoma City, is in a hospital here today hoping he will be able to see again before Christmas.

Hospital officials gave this account:

McGuffin had only enough vision in one eye to distinguish light.

He had been waiting for a long time for a cornea that could be transplanted to his eye in an attempt to give him partial vision in that eye.

While visiting at Whiteface Tuesday, McGuffin was notified at 11 a. m. that the cornea had been made available. For best results, the operation had to be performed within 24 hours.

McGuffin's nephew drove him to Wichita Falls, and his son met him there and took him to Oklahoma City. That same night at 8 o'clock, the operation was performed.

The name of the person who donated the cornea was not disclosed.

Doctors say it will be three weeks before it will be known whether the operation is successful.

sible, saying the success of the team during the season had been made possible only by the wholehearted efforts of the entire coaching staff and by the teamwork of the Westerner eleven.

Move Was Spontaneous

According to Fulgham, the spontaneous movement began a few days ago and "was the easiest thing to accomplish" he had ever seen. After the idea came to the front, a committee composed of Luther, Humphries, Fulgham, Allen Benton, Joe Bryant, Harry Holcomb, Jack Stone and C. I. Wall started the ball rolling, and soon the goal was reached, culminating in the presentation.

STUDENT IS OKAY

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 24 (Special)— Condition of Caroline Griffith, Brownfield High school band drum major who fainted after performing at half-time of the Lubbock-Brownfield football game in Lubbock Thursday, was said to be satisfactory by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Griffith, after their return to Brownfield.

Miss Griffith had earlier suffered an attack of intestinal flu but was permitted to perform during the game by her parents. She seemed to feel no ill effects of her sudden collapse on the field.

The gifts were wrapped in colorful packages and brought onto the field on a large truck.

After driving once around the field, the truck stopped in front of the west stands at the field, directly before the Brownfield players bench.

With the Lubbock players grouped around in a half-circle, the gifts were opened, and finally a crain lifted a large, decorated crate off the shiny, green DeSoto, in a unique presentation.

Players Chalk Up Win

The Lubbock players shared in the presentation too, giving the coaches and Lubbock the first regular undefeated football season since 1917 by defeating Brownfield, 54-0.

The presentation highlighted a colorful halftime program by the Brownfield and Lubbock High school bands and drill teams.

Dressed in brilliant red and white uniforms, the Brownfield band and girls corps went through intricate maneuvers which brought applause from those present.

Then, while the band played snappy songs there was an exhibition of rope and baton twirling. Drum major Caroline Griffith executed many difficult tricks with her batons and drew a large round of applause from the crowd. Doing rope tricks was Kay Francis Sydloski, 15, and she performed like a veteran.

As the Brownfield band left the field, Miss Griffith fainted and was carried to a nearby ambulance where she was revived and returned to watch the last half of the game.

The 90-piece Lubbock band turned in its usual fine performance, although pressed for time.

Hopes For Averting Coal Strike Raised

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)— Behind the scenes moves in the deadlocked coal dispute built up hopes today for averting a new coal strike next week.

John L. Lewis, it was learned, has arranged a strategy meeting with his United Mine workers policy committee in New York Monday.

Extension of the present strike truce, now due to expire December 1, was considered a possible outcome of the meeting.

Lewis consulted with the committee at Chicago two weeks ago before ending a 52-day mine walkout.

Arrangements for the union meeting came to light on the heels of reports that Lewis and the coal operators may resume direct peace talks next week.

Several top spokesmen for the operators denied planning any meeting with Lewis but other informed sources said an early resumption of negotiations is probable.

Lewis seldom calls his policy committee together unless he has some important business for his top aides.

AMERICANS OVER WORLD OBSERVE THANKSGIVING

(By The Associated Press)

Americans around the world gave thanks Thursday for their bountiful land.

Most Americans spent a day which more or less included church, a football game, a stroll, turkey, a nap—and possibly more turkey.

In Moscow the small American colony featured turkey and old fashioned cocktails.

Yanks Feast In London

In London, American military personnel stationed in the land of short rations, sat down to a big Thanksgiving dinner shipped from home. A London newspaper published the traditional menu under the ironic line: "A light snack."

In ravished Germany 100,000 American soldiers, sailors and airmen feasted on birds and cranberries sent from America for the occasion.

In Paris the day was observed in the American church and by the American Legion's annual turkey dinner.

In Rome Ambassador James C. Dunn read President Truman's Thanksgiving proclamation at a Protestant service in the American church of St. Paul.

There was even turkey in Turkey—though under a different name. Americans there had the traditional bird, called "hindi" or "Indian bird."

So it went around the world.

HST Observes Holiday

In Washington President Truman topped the day with a family dinner of turkey and trimmings at Blair House. Earlier he took a two mile walk with his brother-in-law, George Wallace of Independence, Mo. He also had a swim in the White House pool and took a drive with his family.

At Hyde Park, N. Y., Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, widow of President Roosevelt, entertained the visiting Shah of Iran at a traditional holiday dinner.

Extra trains, buses and planes were in service for persons eager to be home on the holiday.

Weather Generally Fair

Fair weather prevailed over most of the nation.

Big department store parades to open the Christmas buying season were held in New York, Philadelphia, Buffalo and elsewhere.

One of the largest was in New York where a police-estimated throng of 2,500,000 persons watched the annual Macy parade.

As the head of the parade drew abreast of the Strand theater on Broadway, Berle leaned from the float he was riding to gesture at the theater where his motion picture "Always Leave Them Laughing" is being shown. Suddenly he pitched head first from the float, but he came up smiling and uninjured.

Chief feature of the parade was a series of helium-filled balloons, including a 60-foot dashshund.

Identity Of 'Mr. X' In Lamesa Disclosed By Fingerprints

LAMESA, Nov. 24. (AP)—The State Department of Public Safety reported today that fingerprints showed "Mr. X" definitely was John Allen Gandy.

The man was brought unconscious to a Lamesa hospital last Saturday and died Tuesday without regaining consciousness. Tuesday night three men identified him as John Gandy, a farm laborer. They said he had fallen from the back of a pickup truck.

The Public Safety department said records show Gandy's home address as Route 3, Bryan. Justice of the Peace D. M. McCampbell said an inquest probably will be held Friday.

J. A. Gandy, of Roscoe, notified officers he thought Gandy was his son whom he had not seen in four years. However, after viewing the body he stated that it was not that of his son.

expenses for shipping to Sweetwater for burial the bodies of the three members of the Quirino family who died. The bodies left Lubbock by train at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Parks said yesterday that while the bereaved families are not asking for outside aid, such will be needed to care for burial expenses of those who died in the crash and hospital and treatment charges for the injured.

Parks for several years has contributed toward numerous projects for the benefit of Latin-Americans on the South Plains and annually gives a four-year scholarship to some outstanding area student of Latin-American descent.

It was said that few of those who perished in the crash carried insurance.

All those who were in the truck at the time of the accident were engaged as cotton pullers.

Red Cross To Handle Funds

Parks specifically asked that any money collected to help the families of the dead and injured be distributed by the Red Cross.

Mrs. Marguerite Stiles, executive secretary of the Lubbock county chapter of the Red Cross said last night that the local chapter will accept the money and distribute it according to the wishes of those who donate to the fund. The fund will be handled by that agency in an effort to help local citizens, she said. It will not, of course, be in any way considered Red Cross money.

Address Is Given

The Red Cross staff will accept the money at its offices, 1513 Ave. K, and will give receipts to persons making donations if receipts are wanted.

Mrs. Stiles said the Red Cross itself has thus far received no requests for financial assistance.

She pointed out that Red Cross money donations are made primarily in time of disasters. Tragic as Wednesday's accident was, it cannot be strictly interpreted as a disaster, she added.

The local Red Cross chapter made available its communication and transportation facilities immediately after news of the accident became known Wednesday. Workers provided pajamas and other bed clothing for those who were hospitalized, and worked in locating families of the dead and injured to inform them of the tragedy.

One Red Cross staff member worked until late Wednesday afternoon to locate the mother of one of the dead men, checking through the files of the local Social Security and Selective Service boards, it was said.

SERVICES ARE CONDUCTED FOR TWO WRECK VICTIMS

Funeral services were held Thursday in Lubbock for two of eight Latin-Americans killed in the Wednesday morning train-truck collision near Shallowater, and rites were scheduled Friday in Sweetwater for three others.

Four of the eight persons injured remained in Lubbock Memorial hospital last night, one in fair condition and the others in good condition.

Rites Set Today

Rites for Raymond Hernandez Chapa, 18, of 145 Ave. P, were held at 3 p. m. Thursday in St. Joseph's Catholic church. Chapa originally had been listed merely as Raymond Hernandez, but relatives arrived in Lubbock to add the last name.

At 4 p. m. Thursday, funeral services were held in the same church for Angelo Gonzales, 13, of 115 South Ave. K.

McDonald Funeral home reported that the bodies of the three members of the Quirino family of 223 Ave. K, were shipped by rail Thursday night to Sweetwater, where services and burial will be held today. They were A. C. Quirino, 45, and his two sons, Francisco, 15, and Arthur, 9.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night for Nicholas Padron, 87, and Fred Padron, 14, his grandson, of 1110 Third street, and Joe Moreno, 16, of 1102 Sanders.

Remaining in the hospital were Yvonne Quirino, 13, in a fair condition; and Edward Quirino, 11, Cleto Quirino, 16, and Maria Padron, 14.

Russia Urged To End Communist Violence

By WILLIAM L. PHILLIPS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 24.— Britain called on Russia today to end Communist-led violence in Greese and Korea as a proof to the United Nations and the world that she really wants peace.

Hector McNeil, chief British delegate, told UN political committee Russia could end tension on two sides of the world by acting in her role as a leader of world Communism.

He said she could order Communists to disassociate themselves from the Greek civil war and the violence that has split Korea into two armed camps.

"That would be a real contribution to world peace," the British delegate said.

"It would be a bulldozer operation in disposing of the lack of confidence shown here in Soviet intentions."

Nevada Earns 28 To 7 Victory Over North Texas State Eagles

RENO, Nev., Nov. 24. (AP)—Nevada closed its 1949 football season today with a well earned, 28-7 victory over the outclassed North Texas State Eagles before a crowd of 4,000 spectators.

Quarterback Ed Jesse's 17 pass completions and a brilliant 86-yard touchdown dash by Halfback Willard Elder featured a balanced Nevada attack.

Jesse's passing was good for 262 yards and combined with Nevada's 314-yard running attack and stout defense, gave the Wolf Pack a clear edge throughout.

Two goal line stands by the Texans and two dropped passes in the Nevada end zone kept the score from being higher.

ed "on an equal footing" in negotiations. But he was immediately attacked by Social Democratic leader Kurt Schumacher of the opposition.

Schumacher termed the agreement a "poor result."

Signed At Big Three Meet

The protocol is the result of the recent Big Three foreign ministers' meeting in Paris and negotiations between Adenauer and the German high commissioners. Its main points include:

1. Eleven synthetic oil and rubber plants and seven steel plants immediately will be exempted from the dismantling list. The August Thyssen steel workers at Hamborn, one of the largest in Europe, is to be spared.

2. All dismantling will cease in western Berlin.

(French Foreign Minister Schuman told France's National assembly that of 325 German factores originally slated for dismantlement a total of 270 have been torn down.)

Parliament Pleased

Adenauer explained to parliament, which greeted his overall announcement with tremendous applause, that "war industries" still will be dismantled.

A German spokesman said the modified dismantling program met about 90 per cent of German wishes.

3. The West German government pledges to do all in its power "to prevent recreation of armed forces of any kind." It will work with the high commissioners and the allied military security board "to maintain demilitarization" in its territory.

4. The Bonn regime will apply for membership in the international Ruhr authority, where presently it has only an observer role.

Takes Ruhr Seats

Adenauer said Germany "now is taking her own three seats" on the Ruhr authority "and reserves the right to ask for amendments of the Ruhr agreements" framed by the western Allies.

The Ruhr authority has 15 seats, or three delegates each for the United States, Britain, France and Germany, and one each for Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands. The Big Three presently control the voting rights of the German delegates.

5. West Germany can build an ocean-going merchant marine fleet. Construction of passenger ships, and certain types of tankers, fishing and coastal vessels, still are banned.

6. Germany will increasingly participate in international organizations.

7. Germans "will initiate gradual establishment of consular and commercial relations in countries where such relations appear advantageous." (The Russians gave their Communist-created East German regime the right to establish full diplomatic relations abroad.)

8. The Germans agree to the Allied plan of breaking cartels, or industrial monopolies.

9. The Germans pledge to "pursue unreservedly the principles of freedom, tolerance and humanity" for which West Europe and the United Nations stand.

In this connection the Germans pledged "to eradicate all traces of Nazism from German life and institutions and prevent a revival of totalitarianism," and to try to liberalize the government structure while excluding authoritarianism.

Adenaur told the nation: "We Germans should not forget what happened from 1933 to 1945, what a disaster the Nazi government brought upon the world, and also that practically all peoples still suffer from the war.

"We are only able to regain confidence slowly, step by step. A slave-like servitude would be an undignified attitude, but it would be stupid and hopeless to snap up"—(meaning to try to play "the strong man.)"

10. The Germans hope to make a "notable contribution" to western European economic and political stability.

Adenauer said he had discussed the "termination of the state of war," with the Allied commissioners, but said it presents "considerable legal and practical difficulties." He meant of course the post-war split between Russia and the West.

The agreement does not mention the Saar territory, which France has integrated in her own economy. Presumably there is a tacit understanding that Germany will recognize that loss once West Germany is admitted into the Council of Europe.

Man Saves Wife From Charging Bull With Swipe Of Garden Hoe

SAN FERNANDO, Calif., Nov. 24. (INS)—Rufus Dunham, 60-year-old oil distributor, today saved his wife's life by killing a charging 1,900-pound bull with a razor-sharp garden hoe.

Mrs. Josephine Dunham, wearing a red dress, screamed when the mad animal roared at her on their San Fernando valley ranch. Dunham, with one desperate swipe, sank the hoe into the bull's skull.

The rancher was taken to Cedars of Lebanon hospital where attendants said he would recover from body injuries inflicted when the berserk bull fell upon him and pinned him to the ground.

Police said charges of carrying a pistol will be filed against a 43-year-old Borger man arrested in Union bus station Thursday night. Johnny Todd, 4½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. The boy was admitted to the hospital at 10:10 p. m. Wednesday shortly after the mishap occurred.

Dr. L. R. Upshaw, of 3115 Twenty-seventh, told police Wednesday that medical equipment valued at $100 had been taken from his car parked on a lot near West Texas hospital at Main and Ave. L. Prowlers broke a vent window on the left side of the car to gain entry, police said.

A 34-year-old Hammon, Okla., Indian was arrested here Wednesday for investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation after he was found in the Santa Fe Railroad yards in possession of a box of clothing consigned to a Brownfield department store. A small fire in worker's quarters Wednesday night caused only minor damage.

Twenty dollars in cash and a gold ring valued at $20 were taken from an apartment at 1710 Main during the absence of the occupants Friday afternoon and evening. The tenants were identified as Miss Francis Tyson and Miss Veta Smith. Missing property was taken from a desk drawer, police said. Method of entry had not been determined.

Lilienthal's surprise resignation on Wednesday left official Washington without any sound speculation as to the identity of his successor.

The Atomic Energy commission chairman, after 17 years in government service, said he was entering civilian life to "be able to engage in public discussion and public affairs with a greater latitude.

May Seek Senate Post

Lilienthal's words, used in his letter of resignation to President Truman, were interpreted by some to mean that he may enter politics and possibly seek a seat in the Senate where he has been attacked many times.

A native of Illinois, Lilienthal once indicated he regarded Wisconsin as his "legal" residence. The term of Republican Sen. Wiley, of that state, expires next year.

It was expected that Atomic Energy commissioner Sumner Pike will become acting chairman.

One thing is certain. The Senate, stirred up about the stewardship of America's atomic program even before announcement of the Russian bomb, will screen thoroughly anyone nominated to the AEC's top job.

Police Probe Death Of Man Found In San Antonio River

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 24. (AP)— Police were investigating the death Thursday of James H. Smith, 85, whose body was found in the San Antonio river. Justice of Peace John N. Ogden, acting as coroner, ordered an autopsy prior to returning a verdict.

Smith, was a retired railroad man. When found he had only 10 cents in his pocket and a key to his room. Homicide chief, Lt. Joe Hester said evidence indicated Smith was to go to a hospital Friday. Police found his baggage packed in his room. Neighbors said the man rarely went out at night.

Evidence has been uncovered pointing to foul play, Hester said.

with caliche and he was temporarily blinded by a cloud of caliche dust, officers indicated.

Skid marks indicated that Turnbow applied his brakes just before the crash, with his car skidding to the right.

His car, a 1946 Plymouth sedan, hit the right rear wheel of the trailer. The point of contact on the car was the front door on the right side.

Trailer Almost Demolished

The trailer, carrying about two bales of unginned cotton, was all but demolished and cotton was scattered over the roadway.

Turnbow's car turned over on the left side, partially pinning him under the car. He received a head injury and a compound fracture of his leg, and was dead when an ambulance arrived from the Rix Funeral home of Lubbock.

The car had been lifted from his body by Thomas and his father, aided by passing motorists and residents in the area before the ambulance arrived.

Car Also Smashed

Patrolmen said the 1946 Ford coach pulling the trailer was only slightly damaged, while the entire left side of Turnbow's car was twisted and smashed.

Funeral services for Turnbow will be held at 4 p.m. today in the First Methodist church of Wolfforth, with burial in Tech Memorial Park cemetery near Lubbock. The Rix Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Turnbow, a resident of Lubbock county for the past five years, is survived by his wife, three daughters, Gwendolyn, Carolyn and Janis; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Turnbow; three brothers, Horace, Andrew and Royce; and four sisters, Mildred, Florene, Nora Ann and June, all unmarried. All live on route 5 Lubbock.

Child Dies In Fire

ceived slight burns on her face and one hand.

Crockett said he was told the child's father was working in the cotton fields when the flaming tragedy occurred.

Fire Cause Unknown

Although cause of the fire had not been definitely fixed, it was believed to have started from a kerosene stove in the living quarters.

Crockett said he was told that the mother had gone outside to hang clothes on a line and turned around to see the building on fire.

Justice of the Peace Alvin O'Pry of Morton, summoned to the scene by Sheriff Crockett, rendered a verdict of death by burning.

Crockett took the body to the Singleton Funeral home in Morton. Funeral services are set for 2 p.m. Friday in the chapel of the funeral home.

The Seranno's were reported to be itinerant workers from somewhere in the Rio Grande valley.

Another Shed Saved

Volunteer firemen, assisted by Latin-American workers, made an unsuccessful attempt to prevent complete destruction of the building. However, they saved another shed housing several cotton pickers by putting out fire which had spread to the second building.

Sheriff Crockett estimated that 35 to 40 tons of grain were stored in the building, with most of it a total loss. A quantity of farm equipment also was destroyed. The total loss in grain and equipment was estimated in the neighborhood of $3,000. The estimate did not include the barn.

According to Crockett, the burned building was constructed of two boxcars joined together with a hallway between the side doors. The Seranno family occupied a portion of the space in one boxcar, with the remaining space filled with grain and farm equipment.

The woman, Mrs. H. B. Crowe, said she "kept the wires hot" until she located the town's doctor, who had taken his regular Thursday night off.

She finally located the physician, meanwhile handling hundreds of emergency calls which poured into the small switchboard.

Heard Tornado Coming

Mrs. Crowe said she and a group of Valley Head residents had been to Fort Payne to see a Thanksgiving day football game when they heard the tornado coming.

"It sounded like a freight train roaring down off Sand mountain," Mrs. Crowe said.

She headed for the telephone office immediately.

Mrs. Crowe was the first to hear that a man living in a house trailer had been blown away. She was first to see the injured with broken limbs being carried into the small telephone office.

Her office was in darkness, she said. The lights had been out since the storm first hit.

At Birmingham, the Weather bureau gave the following explanation for the series of death-dealing storms:

Squall Line Formed

Strong southwesterly winds were blowing at all levels over the state. Aloft, the winds shifted to the northwest. This caused a trough, or "squall line," in which the storms were born.

Most of the rest of the nation enjoyed pleasant holiday weather, although snow which blanketed wide areas of the Midwest was moving eastward at nightfall.

Most of Michigan got a fairly heavy snowfall in the afternoon, Flint reporting five inches. Other cities in Michigan, including Detroit, received 2 to 5 inches or more. Detroit had 2 inches by late afternoon.

John Porter, Weather bureau forecaster in Chicago said he expected the snow to move northeastward from lower Michigan. But he said Cleveland and Buffalo probably would receive snow flurries Friday.

The snow flurries probably will extend down to the Pittsburgh, Pa. area, Porter said. They will be preceded by rain.

Heavy snow was reported in the upper peninsula of Michigan with drifts impeding traffic in that area.

Problem Of Recognizing Red China Regime Moves Into World Limelight

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

The liberation of Angus Ward and Russia's effort to read the Nationalist Chinese delegation out of the United Nations brings the matter of diplomatic recognition of Communist China back to the current agenda of world affairs.

Actually, of course, the American study of this situation had not ceased despite Secretary Acheson's announcement that it could not be considered while Ward was in jail. In that very interim leading Americans outside the government, like General Marshall and Harold Stassen, had been asked for advice regarding recognition. Plans for a general conference of American diplomats in the Far East were announced. Britain appeared to be backing away from what was one expected to be immediate recognition.

Reds Seek Head

Step by step the Communists were trying to bring the matter to a head in the UN. The Peiping regime sent a telegram denouncing Nationalist representation. It was in code and unclear. Asked to repeat in plain English, the Communists added to the second message a demand for actual unseating of the present delegation.

A few days later Poland announced she would support the replacement of Nationalists by Communists.

There is no indication yet that the Communists are sending representatives to plead their cause. But there was speculation without factual support that they might send Madame Sun Yat Sen,, vice-chairman of the Peiping politburo and a widow of China's famed revolutionary leader.

Now Vishinsky has announced Russia will no longer recognize the Nationalist delegation as representing China in the UN meetings. But he didn't say he would boycott the meetings if they attended. His words were taken more as fornesic stage-setting for the fight over recognition than as having any immediate effect on UN operations. This fight seems to be coming to a head rapidly.

Dallas Love Burglar Identified By Women

DALLAS, Nov. 24. (AP)—Two women victims of the "love burglar" who terrorized Dallas homes for a period last summer and recently began another series of attacks, today identified a 25-year-old local office worker as the man who molested them.

One of the women was attacked last summer, the other was criminally assaulted by a man who forced his way into her home Nov. 7.

Both women identified the suspect immediately from a police lineup of four men.

Police were checking with the 20 or more victims of "love burglar" attacks to see if others might be able to identify the man.

The suspect was arrested during the morning at a downtown office. He had been under surveillance by Detectives E. L. Munday and O. A. Jones for three days.

The suspect is 25 years old, married but does not have any children. He is blond and was well dressed at the time of his arrest.

During the period last summer when Dallasites were arming themselves for protection against "love burglar" attacks the suspect's wife listed him as a missing person.

Police said the man also had a scar on one leg which officers said might be the result of a recent dog bite. The "love burglar" was bitten in one of his most recent sorties. Officers also recovered a red jacket which they said belonged to the suspect.

A recent victim said the man who attacked her wore a red jacket. At least two victims of the "love burglar" were criminally assaulted, but many of the intended prizes were able to scream for help or outwit the man by various ruses.

BRIDGE PROGRAM PLANNED

DALLAS, Nov. 24. (AP)—Seventy-two new bridges and approaches, costing $1,343,350 will span Dallas county streams during the next few years if voters approve a $22,500,000 countywide road bond issue next January. The commissioners court has set Dec. 12 as the date for a public hearing before ordering the election for Jan. 21.

Barkley Celebrates His 72nd Birthday

SEA ISLAND, Ga., Nov. 24. (AP)—America's domestic ambassador of good-will—Alben Barkley—celebrated his 72nd birthday Thanksgiving day while honeymooning off the Georgia coast.

The genial vice president and his bride of six days, the former Mrs. Carlton Hadley, had a typical Thanksgiving dinner in their apartment overlooking the sea.

For dessert there was a big cake bearing the inscription, "Happy Birthday Veep."

The attractive, dark-eyed Mrs. Barkley lit the candles rimming the cake and her husband blew them out. The veep then passed around slices to the few guests assembled for the cake-cutting.

Barkley's gifts included a picnic case, linen handkerchiefs and some fancy, not loud, neckties. They did not say what Mrs. Barkley gave him.

The newlyweds plan to leave Sea Island Wednesday and fly to New York where the vice president has a speech scheduled Dec. 2. The convertible the veep gave his bride will be left here.

After the New York speech, the couple plans to continue their wedding trip, spending about 10 days in New York or Washington, and then returning south.

Czech Priests Told To Resist Pressure

PRAGUE, Nov. 24. (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Roman Catholic bishops told their priests today to resist "both threats and seductive promises" and remain true to the church even if it meant suffering.

The bishops sent the priests a directive on how they should best guard the faith under the pressure of new control laws enacted by the Communist-led government.

"But,"—the bishops warned the priests, "if anyone—and may God prevent it — should forget his holy office and betray Christ in this most critical time, he shall be deprived of his rights as a Catholic priest. His jurisdiction shall be taken from him, also the right of hearing confessions, and the faithful shall know that such a priest sinfully profanes his clerical functions and that confession held by him is invalid."

It was a directive which could not be signed by the nation's primate, Archbishop Josef Beran of Prague. The bishop's delegation who tried to visit him was turned away from his police-guarded palace since June 18, when Communist hecklers drove him from his throne in St. Vitus cathedral. He says he is "interned."

CONDITION IS IMPROVED

LONDON, Nov. 24. (INS)—Former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, suffering from a severe cold since yesterday, said today, "I am doing all right." Churchill will be 75 years old next Wednesday.

RAIL JOB STARTED

Turkey has started building 2,000 miles of railroad to add to its present system which aggregates 4,700 miles, and 6,000 laborers are working on one $20,000,000 project to be finished in 1952.

Descendants Of California, Texas Pioneer Hold Reunion

EAGLE ROCK, Calif., Nov. 24. (AP)—Eighty relatives and descendants of Andrew Rogers, who brought his family from Texas in 1868 in one of the last wagon trains to California, ate Thanksgiving dinner today in the Eagle Rock Masonic temple.

Members of the family attended from Santa Barbara to San Diego. They included Mrs. Julia Ransom, 86, of Hermosa Beach, daughter of the pioneer, who made the journey from Texas. Her brother, the late Ralph Rogers, sr., started the Thanksgiving day family reunions in 1900.

Truman, FDR, Jr., Top Choices For 1952 Among Demo Voters

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute Of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 24.—Among Democratic voters, Harry S. Truman is the top choice of a list of ten prominent Democrats as Presidential nominee for 1952, and a newcomer to politics, Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., receives the second largest number of votes at the present time.

A famous bridegroom gets a popular salute by being ranked high up on the list—Alben W. Barkley, who is honeymooning with his 38-year-old bride, the former Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley of St. Louis.

The Democratic party, elated by its sweeping election victories Nov. 8, is looking forward confidently to the 1950 congressional race, which President Truman says has already begun, and beyond that to the presidential race. To see how the rank and file of Democratic voters rate some of the prominent leaders in the party with 1952 in mind, the institute had interviewers put this question to a nation-wide cross-section:

"Here is a list of men who have been mentioned as possible candidates for the Democratic party. Which one would you like to see nominated as the Democratic candidate for President?"

The results:

Democratic Voters
Harry S. Truman	40%
Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr.	22
Alben W. Barkley	12
William O. Douglas	3
Fred M. Vinson	3
Scott W. Lucas	2
Chester Bowles	2
Louis Johnson	1
Others in list	1
None of these	6
Don't know	8
	100%

Others in the list who received a total of 1 per cent were Frank J. Lausche, governor of Ohio and Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture.

The voter-appeal in the name "Roosevelt" can be seen from the large vote for the late President's son and namesake, who made his debut in politics only last summer by being elected to Congress to fill a vacancy.

Since today's survey was completed, another Roosevelt son, James, has announced his candidacy for the governorship of California.

Truman's Plans Unknown

President Truman, now vacationing in Florida, has kept mum about his plans for 1952. But an increasing number of voters believe that he will seek the nomination again.

A survey reported last week showed that nearly two-thirds of all voters (65 per cent) think he will run for re-election, as compared to 57 per cent who thought so last June.

Although the President faced much opposition in the Democratic nominating convention of 1948, with a bloc of Southerners walking out of the convention to form the States' Rights party, he was the choice of the rank and file of Democratic voters polled prior to the convention by the institute.

In fact, Mr. Truman was the top choice of his party's voters even in the period right after the 1946 congressional elections which proved disastrous to the Democrats who lost control of Congress. An institute survey, reported in early December of 1946, showed Mr. Truman the first choice as nominee in 1948, with Henry A. Wallace second and former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes third.

Republicans For Eisenhower

At that time, a good many Democrats (nearly one in every ten with an opinion) named General Dwight D. Eisenhower as their choice for Democratic nominee.

Today the general, identifying the top choice of Republican voters himself more closely with the Republican side on public issues, is for the G.O.P. nomination in 1952.

He led by a wide margin in the most recent institute survey among Republicans, with Harold E. Stassen second, and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio third.

Red Force Believed Nearing Chungking

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 24. (AP)—Cautious Chinese Nationalist dispatches intimated today that the Communists were threatening Fowling, only 55 miles east of Chungking.

Stingy with its war news, the defense ministry said only that the Nationalists are still holding Wulung, small road town 60 miles east of Chungking.

The ministry failed to mention Red forces striking northward towards this provisional capital up the road from Kweiyang. They were last reported to have occupied Tzunyi, 130 miles south of Chungking.

The ministry also sidestepped questions about Kwangsi province, base of Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi's 200,000-man Nationalist army. Private reports, however, said the Reds had marched 35 miles southwest since they took the provincial capital, Kweilin, two days ago.

Government officials and employes of Chungking continued to bustle in efforts to get away. Road travel was heavy to Chengtu, 170 miles northwest. Chengtu is expected to be the first temporary stopping place for the newly streamlined Nationalist cabinet.

Premier Yen Hsi-Shan has said this cabinet will "accompany the fighting forces." Its total staff and personnel are to be about 250 men, with no dependents permitted to go along.

Doctor, Two Nurses Killed In Illinois Train-Car Crash

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Nov. 24. (AP)—A doctor and two nurses were killed and two other doctors were injured seriously today when their automobile crashed into a switch engine about a mile south of here.

The dead were Dr. Richard C. Stewart, 25, of Springfield, Mo.; Dorothy Reynolds, 24, Chester, Ill., and Kay Mofitt, Sumner, Mo.

All three worked at City hospital in St. Louis.

Injured were Dr. Ed Pinney and Dr. Dwight Pitkin.

The victims were identified through fragmentary reports from hospitals, funeral parlors and police of Monsanto, Ill., north of the accident scene.

Cause of the crash was not immediately learned.

FINDS $5,000: TURNS DOWN $1 REWARD — Mrs. Katherine Hinkel, above, clerk at the Chicago municipal airport's magazine stand, demonstrates how she turned down the one dollar reward offered her after she found a wallet containing $5,000 and saw to it that it was returned to the owner. "Why that's not . . ." Mrs. Hinkel started to say when offered the dollar by the wallet owner. He snatched the dollar and strode away. What she intended to say was, "Why that's not necessary. Maybe you can do the same sometime for someone else." (AP Wirephoto.)

New Disease Similar To Polio Reported In Medical Magazine

CHICAGO, Nov. 24. (AP)—A new disease resembling mild infantile paralysis was reported today by doctors from New Haven, Conn., and Providence, R. I.

The disease occurred among residents of Connecticut and Rhode Island during the polio season this year. It caused non paralytic symptoms resembling mild infantile paralysis.

The virus causing the new disease has been isolated and called IM (infant mice) virus. It can cause paralysis in infant mice.

The reports on the disease were made in articles in the Journal of the American Medical association by Drs. Edward C. Curnen, Ernest W. Shaw and Joseph L. Melnick of the Yale university school of medicine and Drs. Alexander A. Jaworski and Edward J. West of Providence.

In Asanol, India, eight persons who had taken refuge under a large tree during a severe thunderstorm, were instantly killed when struck by lightning.

Man Rejoins Sister, Mother After 38-Year Separation

MARSHALL, Nov. 24. (AP)—Mrs. Charles Barkett had an extra reason for cooking a big Thanksgiving dinner today.

The brother she hadn't seen in 38 years arrived in Shreveport, La., for a visit with Mrs. Barkett and their mother, Mrs. Betty Asseff of Shreveport.

He is George Asseff. They last saw him in Syria. He is in this country on a three months' business trip. He volunteered when his company, an oil construction firm doing business in Arabic areas, decided to send a representative to America.

Mrs. Barkett and Mrs. Asseff were among a dozen relatives who met George Asseff on his arrival in Shreveport. He is a former faculty member in three Iraq government schools.

Sports contests at Chelmsford Jail, England, had cigarettes and tobacco as prizes.

TRIAL ON SPY CHARGES LIKELY

Grave Diplomatic Crisis Results From Arrest Of Poles In France

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Nov. 24 — A French foreign office spokesman said tonight about 25 Poles have been rounded up in France and probably will be brought to trial on spy charges.

Among those arrested was A. M. Szczerbinski, the Polish vice-consul at Lille, the spokesman said. Other arrests have been made throughout France.

"The situation is the gravest crisis between France and Poland in years," the spokesman said.

Official Denies Connection

He said the French arrests have no connection whatever with the arrest of Andre Simon Robineau," a secretary of the French consulate at Szczecin (stettin) who was picked up by the Communist-controlled Polish police last Friday for espionage.

He added, however, that the Poles arrested in France "probably will be brought to trial shortly after the trial of Robineau in Warsaw."

The spokesman said Szczerbinski was taken into custody "after several weeks of investigation of Polish espionage activities in the Lille area" of northeastern France.

Paris police reported they were holding about 10 Poles, taken into custody in raids early this morning on the offices of the Polish Red Cross, the Polish boy scouts and Polish war veterans.

Many Papers Seized

A large quantity of documents, including records of a number of Polish organizations in Franze, were seized. Translations have begun. The foreign office spokesman said "this investigation will take a long time."

Among those picked up earlier was a Lieutenant Myszkowski, secretary of the Polish military mission to France. There was a report today Myszkowski had been freed after 13 hours, but the foreign office said tonight he was still in custody.

A dispatch from Warsaw today said the French consul at Szczecin, Maurice Rivoire, had sent newspapers in that town a letter disassociating himself from Robineau and stating Robineau was "not a member of the consulate staff." The French embassy in Warsaw declined all comment.

CUPID VOIDS PROMISE

When three girls set out from Liverpool in 1947 to see the world they promised each other to remain single until they returned, but Cupid won and all three are married, one in Australia, one in South Africa and one in New Zealand.

SEEING TRIPLE?—Sister Cleota, first-grade teacher at St. Leo's School, Columbus, O., thought she was seeing triple when these youngsters took their seats in her classroom. They are Donald, Jimmy and David Bartley, triplet sons of Mr. and Mrs. David Bartley. Now Sister Cleota can tell them apart because they usually wear jackets with their names printed on them.

Bette Davis Urged To Accept Advice In Search For Starring Role In New Movie

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24. — All of us who admire Bette Davis as an actress sincerely hope that when she checks in at RKO for "The Story of a Divorce" (what's in a title?) she will let Jack Skirball and Bruce Manning advise her.

Bette is due a good picture, and the one way to get it is to listen to other people's ideas. None of us is infallible, and all of us need help.

She gets Robert Young as her leading man, and that is a break. He is one of the most dependable actors in town, and always gives a fine account of himself. This is his first with the Davis gal. Bob finishes "Here Lies Love," with Betsy Drake, Dec. 9, and checks in at RKO in early January. This gives him time to enjoy the holidays with another Betty — Mrs. Young — and his four daughters.

Actress Wants To Direct

This is where I came in! Claudette Colbert says she is going to direct. Claudette, I will believe that when I see it. There are too many people wanting you for movies, and there are too many stories waiting for you.

I know that Darryl Zanuck has another picture for you, Claudette, and I don't believe you will turn it down — not after "Three Came Home."

I think Claudette figures she is going to direct because she once told me, "many of the directors have forgotten a few tricks I remember."

Australian Star In U. S.

John O'Malley, hailed as Australia's top actor, is here to appear with and help exploit "The Rugged O'Riordons" — the biggest and most expensive picture ever made in Australia. Sixteen months in the filming, it is a thriller of the pioneer days of the country.

I wouldn't be a bit surprised if Universal-International, releasing the picture, doesn't hold O'Malley in Hollywood for a picture or two. No, girls, he is not the romantic Tyrone Power type.

"A group of us, including Harold Ross, had dinner at 21, then saw Jimmy, and from there we went to Mayor O'Dwyer's home to a party he gave for his beautiful Mrs. Sloan Simpson. That wonderful Durante played one number after the other."

'Economy' Plan For Health Insurance Advanced By Solon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) estimated today his health insurance plan to cover only "catastrophic" illnesses would cost about two-thirds less than the Truman administration's broader program.

Douglas figured the cost of the administration plan at about $5,300,000,000 a year. On that basis his would require around $1,760,000,000 annually.

More Limited Plan Favored

The administration program calls for insurance which would provide complete medical care for about 120,000,000 Americans. It would be financed mainly by a payroll tax, split between employer and worker. Senator Taft, (R-Ohio), a critic, has said it would cost something under $7,000,000,000 a year.

Douglas has announced that he favors instead a program much more limited in scope and financed by a smaller payroll assessment.

"It would be confined to catastrophic illness—those which really crush a family financially and which lay up the money-maker for a long while," Douglas told reporters.

Great Loss Cited

He said he had in mind illnesses which would cost a family $150 to $200 a year.

Douglas said that President Truman's national health insurance program, "attempts to cover too much ground."

He said that his plan, on the other hand, is based "on the real principle of insurance—protection against great loss."

The administration bill is locked in committee in both the House and the Senate. Backers of the measure on both sides of the capitol have predicted there will be no final action on it next year.

Telephone Firm Names Attorney To Defend New Mexico Rate Hike

SANTA FE, Nov. 24. (INS)—The same Santa Fe attorney who enabled ex-Dona Ana County Sheriff A. L. Apocada to escape conviction on grand jury indictments has been selected by the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company to defend their rate increases.

He is Harry Bigbee. Selection of Bigbee was made by the company's Santa Fe manager, P. B. Burrows, who said New Mexico law requires that out of state lawyers be associated with a local attorney. The telephone company plans to bring in its own legal staff to defend rate increases which are bringing in more than $62,000 additional monthly revenue from 42 New Mexico communities.

The state attorney general, who is fighting the rate hikes, has accused the telephone company of "holding a pistol to the heads of its customers" by demanding higher rates in order to provide acceptable service.

Jury Frees Artesia Man On One Of Grand Jury Charges

CARLSBAD, N. M., Nov. 24.(INS)—Otto Wood, of Artesia, was freed of one of the grand jury charges against him yesterday by an Eddy county district court jury.

Wood, who is former manager of the Central Valley Electric cooperative, still must face a charge of embezzlement. He was freed of a charge of causing false statements to be made in writing to his employer.

GREATER FREEDOM POSSIBLE

Reason For Lilienthal Quitting AEC Post Remains Top Mystery

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Did David E. Lilienthal quit as chairman of the atomic Energy commission to make more money, to have greater freedom to speak his mind, or because he was fed up?

He was in public service 20 years. He had run TVA and since 1946 has been chairman of the AEC. He didn't say precisely why he's leaving. He may do that at a news conference Monday morning.

He may be going into private business to make more money than the $17,500 he gets with AEC. In his letter of resignation to President Truman he said his years of public service have been rewarding, "except financially."

Greater Freedom Possible

Later in his letter he said one of his chief reasons for getting out is that "I may be able to engage in public discussion and public affairs" with greater freedom than he can while in the government.

But, on atomic energy at least, there still will be limits on what he can say as a private citizen, just as there were on him as AEC chairman. He will not be able to disclose any secrets.

He feels that Congress has gone to extremes in the secrecy it's thrown around the atomic program. As a private citizen he will be able to criticize Congress in a way he couldn't before. He certainly got plenty of criticism—and plenty of praise—from congressmen.

Other Phases Considered

There are other phases of the atomic program—the social and commercial sides of it—which he may feel freer to discuss when he is back in private life.

Still, it was only a year ago that Lilienthal, probably the government's top management expert, bemoaned the government's difficulty in getting management experts to work for it. In a talk to a group of scientists on Sept. 16, 1948, Lilienthal said:

"It is never pleasant to be the bearer of sad tidings. But there is a disturbing situation that threatens the success of the atomic energy enterprise in this country.

"The fact can be simply stated: It is the increasing unwillingness of specially qualified (and badly needed) scientists, engineers and management experts to engage in work for the government of the United States . . .

"That service has now taken on an added disability: The risk of undeserved injury to a man's good name, his professional standing and his peace of mind through anonymous vilification, through attacks from what may be petty or prejudiced or malevolent sources."

Now Lilienthal himself, a top management expert, is stepping out although only after doing what he has publicly urged others to do: To give some years of their lives to government service.

Ample Criticism Made

But in years in Washington I never have seen any high government official get as rigid a going-over as Lilienthal himself from two senators in particular: Hickenlooper, Iowa Republican, and McKellar, Tennessee Democrat. Lilienthal ran TVA in McKellar's home state.

When Mr. Truman nominated Lilienthal for the AEC chairmanship, the Senate approved but first a Senate committee held hearings to examine Lilienthal's qualifications. McKellar sat in the hearings and for days banged away at Lilienthal, trying to block his appointment.

And this year Hickenlooper opened up on Lilienthal with charges of "incredible mismanagement" of the AEC program. For weeks Senate hearings were held to let Hickenlooper prove his charge.

Hearings Took Days

In those weeks, Lilienthal sat in the hearings day after day. If he got any of his important AEC work done, he must have had to work late into the nights.

In the end the Senate Committee split strictly along party lines: 9 Democrats absolved Lilienthal, 6 Republicans dissented.

Next year Lilienthal faced the prospect of another long-drawn out Senate committee hearing, particularly if McKellar, who is ill now, should be there to bang away at him.

In June Lilienthal's term as AEC chairman would have run out and before he could continue the job he'd have needed Senate approval all over again. Maybe Lilienthal figured enough was enough.

Woman Discovers Thanksgiving Turkey Contains Two Hearts

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24. (AP)—When Mrs. Jennie Sobel started to prepare her Thanksgiving turkey for cooking, she discovered what appeared to be a poultry phenomenon—the bird contained two hearts.

Excitedly, Mrs. Sobel called her butcher, Maurice Stein, and asked him if he thought the turkey was okay to eat.

Stein assured her everything was all right—he inadvertently had placed two hearts in Mrs. Sobel's bird.

"Now one of my customers has a turkey without a heart," said Stein. "If she calls up to beef, I'll tell her where to look for it."

Japanese Crown Prince Gives Up Imperial Traditions Under Tutelage Of U. S. Woman

(EDITOR'S NOTE: For three years, Mrs. Elizabeth Gray Vining, a soft-spoken Philadelphia Quaker, has been the personal tutor of Japan's Crown Prince Akihito. Mrs. Vining, who undertook her job with the determination to open up for the young prince the vista of free democracy, tells in the following signed article how he has forsaken the old imperial traditions "in favor of the give and take of equality."

BY ELIZABETH GRAY VINING
(Written for INS)

TOKYO, Nov. 19. — My hope, as tutor to Japan's Crown Prince Akihito, is to have him grow as a young man who understands the hopes and responsibilities of true democracy.

Today, I can truthfully say that Prince Akihito is fulfilling these hopes.

As his teacher for the past three years, I have seen Akihito forsake the old Japanese imperial traditions in favor of the give and take of equality — much as you'd hope for in any real American boy.

When I first arived in Japan, the grand steward of the imperial household told me:

"We want you to open the windows into a wider world for our crown prince."

At that time, the prince was an earnest round-faced little boy with a rather piping voice. He could say in English: "now I am sitting down, now I am standing up. Now I am walking to the window."

We began with a chart of a tennis court and the words you use in playing tennis. Since then we have read through several American school readers, have studied the lives of Daniel Boone, John James Audubon, William Penn, Benjamin Franklin, Ronald Amundsen and others.

We spent one term on Lois Fisher's "You and the United Nations," another on Genevieve Foster's "George Washington's World." At present we are reading and discussing Carl Sandburg's "Abe Lincoln Grows Up."

Prince Akihito will be sixteen in December. The little boy of three years ago has grown into a rather tall and slender youth.

His voice has deepened. There is strength in his face, intelligence and a certain look of command. Salient also are his desire to meet his obligations, and his natural poise and dignity.

The prince's life is not all school, nor is school the only source of his eduction. Through out the year, sports are important.

He is a keen tennis player and his game is improving under the tutelage of well-known tennis players and the practice of playing with his classmates. He rides horseback, usually at the palace with his father.

Swimming is his favorite sport, and the one at which he is most adept. But of late, he is becoming more and more fascinated by baseball.

Last March, together with the 83 other members of his class in the peers' and peeresses' school, the crown prince of Japan graduated from junior high school. In the presence of the emperor and the empress, he stepped forward in the auditorium packed with the graduating classes of girls and boys, their parents and teachers, and received his diploma from the president of the school.

Although he would go on through the senior high school department in the same school, nevertheless this ceremony was an important milestone in his life. Changes, long pondered and discussed, would take place.

The most striking of these is the dormitory.

Since April, when Dr. Shinzo Koizumi, former president of Keio university, took charge of the crown prince's education, Prince Akihito has been spending three days and nights of each week in a peers' school dormitory with 19 other boys, who belong to all three classes of the senior high school.

The boys were chosen from among those who applied, on the basis of character — character, not family standing, wealth, or social position.

The crown prince lives on exactly the same terms as the other boys.

I know the other boys in his class also rather well, after three years. They are good boys; some of them are unusually fine and show qualities that I am sure will bring them into positions of leadership in the future Japan.

And yet, as I see them from week to week, I often reflect that if I were to select the one of them that I think would make the best crown prince, my choice would fall on the one who actually is crown prince — Akihito.

Services To Be Held Today For Mrs. A. C. Griggs, 32, Lubbock

Funeral services for Mrs. A. C. Griggs, 32, who died Wednesday evening at her home, 2116 Fifth, following a long illness, will be read at 3 p.m. Friday in the College Avenue Baptist church. Rev. Abe Hester, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in City of Lubbock cemetery under direction of the Rix Funeral home.

Survivors include the husband; a daughter, Miss Vera Griggs of Lubbock; her mother, Mrs. Laura Matthews of Lubbock; and two brothers, Sgt. Buram Matthews of Aberdene, Md., and C. H. Matthews of Lubbock.

Condemned Murderers Celebrate Last Thanksgiving In Death Row

By DON WINKS
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 — Four condemned murderers celebrated their last Thanksgiving today with turkey and all the trimmings in the ever-gray twilight of death row.

The four "living dead" assembled with 10 tier-mates around a green steel table in a guarded Cook county (Ill.) jail cell.

One of their number, James Morelli, 22-year-old convicted "mad dog" slayer, will die in the electric chair in the basement of the prison at one minute past midnight Saturday.

The other three condemned men —Raymond Polenik, 19; Alfonso Najera, 25; and Fred Varella, 24— all are on indefinite stays of execution.

Roast Turkey Served

Their meal consisted of a 20-pound roast turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce, bread and butter, apple pie and coffee.

As Warden Chester Fordney approached the cell, Morelli, dressed in a rust-colored ski sweater, carefully-pressed brown slacks, and a blue shirt, came over to the barred door. The other men crowded behind him.

"I've just been to the kitchen checking up on the turkey, Jim," the warden said. "It looks good."

"That's fine," said the bushy-haired Morelli. "Thanks a lot warden. Thanks."

Convict Wants To Talk

He stood there for a moment, as if uncertain whether he should talk anymore. He obviously wanted to.

The warden understood.

"I hear you went to mass this morning, Jim," he said. "You didn't break your fast?"

"Oh no," said Morelli. "No— I didn't break it."

The youthful slayer was convicted of the murder of Emil Schmeichel in December, 1947 during a blood-strewn gangland "ride." One other man was killed and two seriously wounded that day.

The three standing behind Morelli were guilty of equally vicious crimes. Handsome Raymond Polenik had shot and wounded one policeman, killed another. Najera and Varella coldly assassinated a cab driver in a robbery attempt.

But within the cold confines of death row a curious camaraderie had sprung up among the men. Guards reported all 13 men in the tier, regardless of their personal beliefs, had accompanied Morelli when mass was said in his cell this morning.

His 21-year-old wife, Genevieve, also was present.

Tomorrow Morelli will be taken to solitary confinement in the basement of the prison and from there will walk the last mile to the death chamber.

Women Hold Party

But elsewhere within the gray walls of the prison, the scene was different. In the women's tier a party was in progress.

While the women squealed with delight, Warden Fordney donned a ruffled maid's cap and apron and proceeded, with great ceremony to carve their turkey.

The closely guarded and barred room was decorated gaily with blue and yellow ribbons. The women laughed and talked loudly together. One of them cracked:

"Hurry up with that carving, warden. I can't wait much longer."

It was almost a real Thanksgiving—nothing like the terse meal in progress two floors up among the men of death row.

Editor Of Medical Journal Quits Post

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (U.P.) — Dr. Morris Fishbein will leave his post as editor of the Journal of the American Medical association about Dec. 1 to become consultant medical editor for a New York publishing firm, it was learned today.

Fishbein has been editor of the Journal for 37 years. His new position will be with Doubleday and Co., and Blakiston Co., Philadelphia, a Doubleday subsidiary.

Fishbein did not amplify the report but implied that he had sent his resignation to the AMA's board of trustees. "I'm quite sure the trustees will make a statement Dec. 6 and I will make a statement of my own at that time," he said.

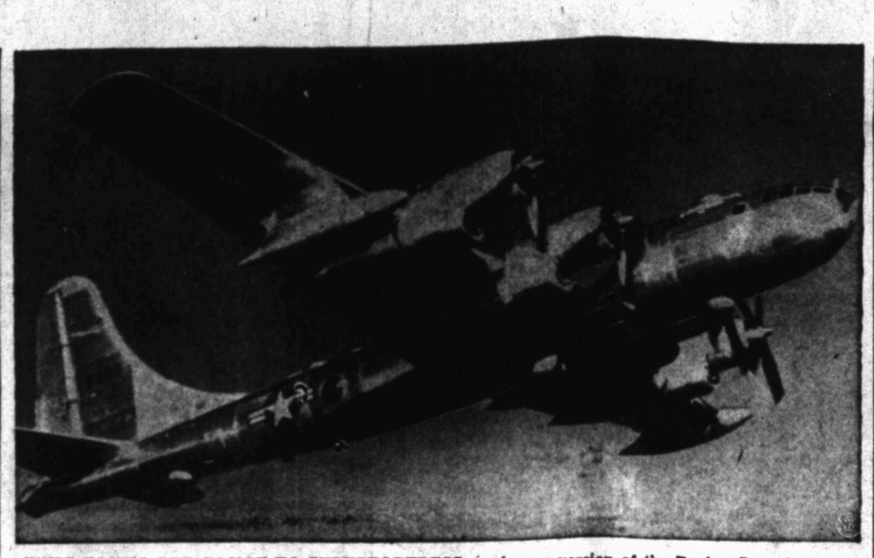

The move was expected since the board recently ordered the editor to cease making speeches on controversial subjects, to hold no interviews and to stop writing his column in the Journal.

Dr. George F. Lull, secretary and general manager of the AMA, said the reports were "substantially correct," then added:

"The announcement, however, must await official confirmation by the board of trustees when it meets during the clinical session of the American Medical association in Washington Dec. 6 through 9. A statement will be issued at that time."

During a two-months trip abroad recently, Fishbein became editor of "excerpta Medica," an international medical paper to be published in Amsterdam.

WING TANKS ADD RANGE TO SUPERFORTRESS — A new version of the Boeing Superfortress, the B-50D, seen in flight over Wichita, Kan., carries two 700-gallon external fuel tanks under the wings. The long-range bomber, derived from the famed wartime B-29, can carry 28,000 pounds of bombs "more than 6000 miles." Top speed is over 400 miles an hour, and the plane is equipped for refueling in flight to increase its range. The wing tank fittings can carry 4000-pound bombs in place of the gas tanks.

Draft Law Expected To End Next Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (U.P.)— Key members of the House Armed Services committee said today there isn't a chance that Congress will extend the peacetime draft law next year.

The act provides for selective military service among youths 19 through 26 but has not been used since last January.

It expires next June 24. The administration is expected to ask for an extension on grounds that law, even when not used, serves to spur voluntary enlistments.

Pentagon sources said a final decision on an extension had not been made, but Chairman Carl Vinson, (D-Ga.) told newsmen there is little doubt that it will be included in the administration's legislative program for the next session of Congress.

Rep. Paul J. Kilday, (D-Tex), a top-ranking committee member, said he understood draft extension would head the list. But he said it is "exceedingly unlikely" that Congress will grant it.

Another member, Rep. Melvin Price, (D-Ill), agreed that congressional approval of an extension is unlikely. But he said the services will have a powerful argument in the fact that they have not used the present law while voluntary recruiting was successful.

"The services have kept faith with Congress and have not abused the present draft law," Price said. "They have not used it when it was not needed."

Wayland Choir Sets Concerts In Area

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 24. (Special) —The oratorio choir of Wayland college will present "The Messiah" by Handel in various churches in the area during the Christmas season, it was stated here today.

This choral group is composed of members of the International choir, directed by Shelby Collier; the a capella choir, under Ben Shanklin; and others in the Wayland faculty and student body.

They will sing in the College Heights Baptist church in Plainview on Dec. 7 and in Wayland college chapel on December 12 at 7:30 p.m.

At the First Baptist church of Plainview, they will join the choir of this church and the College Heights church to give four numbers from "The Messiah" at 7 p.m. December 14. All the choirs of the city will bring the concluding number by singing "The Hallelujah Chorus."

To Sing In Amarillo

Climaxing the Christmas music season will be the singing of "The Messiah" in Amarillo on December 11 by the combined choirs of the Panhandle under the direction of E. F. Meyers.

Wayland singers are expected to be among a 500-voice choir accompanied by a 60-piece orchestra, who will participate in this annual concert.

Soloists in the Wayland oratorio choir include the following men: Sam Allen of Plainview, Hoyt Mulkey of Amarillo, tenors; Bill Sweeney of Phoenix, Ariz., and Bob Callahan of Enid Okla., basses.

Women soloists include Billie Roenfeldt of Lubbock, Mary Alice Gaston of Fort Worth, and Gorgia Hamblen of Albuquerque, N.M., sopranos; and Velma Umphfres of Phillips, alto. Wilma Wright of Ringling, Okla., and Johnnie R. Reddell of Spearman will sing an alto-soprano duet.

Radium Returned To Doctor's Office After Stay In City Dump

MOLINE, Ill., Nov. 24 (U.P.) — One-third of an ounce of radium, valued at $900, was returned today to the office of Dr. Norbert Barwasser after lying in the city dump for two weeks.

Walter Johnston, a former Colorado uranium prospector, found the tiny metal container with the aid of a Geiger-Mueller counter.

The counter indicated where the radium lay in the dump and a bulldozer was run across the area.

"What does the stuff look like?" Johnston asked Barwasser yesterday.

"It looks like that piece of metal there on the ground," Barwasser replied.

Johnston picked up the piece of metal Barwasser had pointed to. It was the radium container.

The radium was thrown away accidentally on Nov. 10.

Record Oil Allowable Set For Louisiana In December

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 24 (AP) — A record allowable of 563,157 barrels of daily crude oil production during December has been set in Louisiana by the State Department of Conservation.

The gross figure, expected to yield net crude oil production of 535,657 barrels, is the highest ever.

It compares with daily allowables of 557,000 barrels now in effect and the 500,000 barrels allowed last July after the department ordered a 10 per cent cut.

Federal Aid Boosts State Hospital Funds Death Hangs Heavy

AUSTIN, Nov. 24. (INS)—Texas has more money this year than ever before for use in construction of hospitals and health centers.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health ofifcer said today that federal money channeled to the states for hospital construction has been increased from $75 million to $150 million.

The program of federal assistance to hospital building has been extended through June 30, 1955, Dr. Cox added. The increase in time and money is contained in an amendment to the federal hospital survey and construction act.

The act provides that the various states, to which federal money is appropriated, turns funds over to local areas for hospital or public health center construction if a survey shows the area is in need of such facilities.

The amendment went into effect in October, and stipulated that the states put up half the money for new construction. The local area must provide the other half of the total construction costs.

Formerly, the states put up only one-third of the money and the local area two-thirds. On new projects which were approved prior to October, the old provision still applies.

Dr. Cox said that several hospitals have been completed in Texas under the program. Other projects are currently under construction throughout the state, he declared.

Westerners Fashion Easy 54-0 Win Over Cubs

5,000 Watch As Williams Goes Over On First Play

Tenth Straight Win Gives Locals First Perfect Season Since 1917

By AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche Sports Writer

A 50-yard touchdown gallop on the first play of the game by Lubbock right Halfback Charlie Williams set the pace here Thursday as the Westerners defeated Brownfield's Cubs, 54 to 0, before a holiday crowd of 5,000 fans at Jones stadium.

Closing out the regular season, the Westerners raced to their 10th successive victory, with Lubbock regulars pushing across three touchdowns in less than seven minutes of the conflict and then retiring in favor of substitutes with a 20-0 advantage.

The victory gave the Westerners their first perfect regular season of play since 1917.

Cubs Reach Lubbock Eight

The game Cubs could never muster a drive of any length, getting only two first downs in the first half and three in the second.

Nearest approach to Lubbock's goal line was in the second period when a Lubbock fumble set the Cubs on the Westerner 25. But after eight plays, which advanced the ball to the eight, the ball went over to Lubbock on downs. Another Westerner fumble allowed Brownfield the ball on the 27, minutes later, but the Cubs dropped three yards in four plays before losing the ball to the winners. At no time did Brownfield cross the midfield stripe under its own power.

The Westerners racked up 20 points in the first quarter, six in the second, 14 in the third period, and 14 in the final stanza to account for its 54-point total.

Largest Of Season

The margin of victory for the Bronc Busters was the largest of the season, surpassing last year's 46-0 victory over the same squad. Over the entire route this year, the Westerners have scored 379 points to 72 for the opposition, the closest margin of victory being a 7-6 triumph over Odessa in the game that decided the District 3-AA race.

Williams' long run was the first of several made by Lubbock players during the game. Halfback Mack Taylor followed the pattern by sprinting 58 and 63 yards for touchdowns, going on one jaunt of 53 yards which ended on Brownfield's 18. Substitute Fullback Tommy Fisher had a 92-yard second-quarter run nullified by an offside penalty.

Two long touchdown passes also highlighted the game, the first from Jack Weldon to End Jerry Van Pelt covering 32 yards, and the second from Billy Presley to Fisher going 44 yards.

Fumbles hurt the chances of both teams, with Lubbock fumbling five times and Brownfield three. Each eleven lost the ball on three occasions through fumbles, and two Cub passes were intercepted.

Score On First Play

Lubbock's first tally stopped the clock after only 0:30 seconds of playing time had elapsed in the game, with Williams going off right tackle and streaking down the left sideline after End Dean White had carried the opening kickoff to midfield. Presley booted his first of six conversions to give Lubbock a 7-0 lead.

The second drive originated on the Westerner 49 following Brownfield's short, 17-yard punt after receiving the kickoff. Taylor carried around left end to the Cub 34, being stopped by Dale Cary, standout for the Brownfield squad all afternoon. Williams carried three times, moving the ball to the three, from which point Fullback Wayne Stroud carried to within inches of the goal, Williams carrying over for the touchdown and Presley converting.

Taylor Goes Over

On fourth down after the kickoff Fulback Billy Patterson punted 43-yards to Stroud, who returned the kick 12 yards to Lubbock's 42-yard line behind good blocking, one block by White carrying out two men. On the first play from scrimmage, Taylor hit right tackle, shook off would-be tacklers and streaked 58 yards to paydirt with Presley's kick for point going wide. Following this score Lubbock substitutes poured onto the field with 6 minutes, 20 seconds of playing time having elapsed.

A blocked kick by Guard Bob Newell and recovery on Brownfield's 20, gave the Westerners their next scoring opportunity, and seven plays later Right Halfback Billy Tooke raced around right end for the score, the drive carrying two plays deep into the second quarter. Presley's conversion was wide again, giving the Westerners a halftime margin of 26-0. Fumbles late in the quarter would not permit a Lubbock drive, and Fisher's 92-yard sweep around right end was called back and Lubbock penalized for illegal use of the hands on offense.

It took the Westerners seven minutes to score in the third quarter, with Lubbock taking over on Brownfield's 39 when Halfback John Franks fumbled. Fullback Don Rawls picked up a first down on the 27, but three plays lost five yards. Then Weldon hit Van Pelt in the clear with a pass on the 10, and Van Pelt raced on over.

Cubs Fumble Again

Another fumble by Brownfield gave the Westerners the ball on their own 37 late in the period, and Taylor went on another ramble, this time around right end to the 50, where he cut back to midfield and continued on his journey to paydirt 63 yards from the line of scrimmage. Presley's toe gave Lubbock a 40-0 advantage after three quarters of play.

Lubbock's next drive carried 67 yards, following Weldon's runback

Austin Blanks El Paso, 7 To 0

EL PASO, Nov. 24.—Austin High school's Panthers took advantage of a break early in the third quarter Thursday afternoon and tallied the lone touchdown that scored a 7 to 0 victory over El Paso High and won the District 4-AA championship.

A near record crowd of 14,500 jammed El Paso's Jones stadium in shirt-sleeve weather to watch the Thanksgiving day grudge battle. The Austin decision gave the Panthers a perfect record in district play and their third straight loop crown.

On the first play from scrimmage in the third quarter, End Rudy Burrola intercepted a pass from the arm of El Paso's Tony Lama on the Tiger 13. Three plays later, Noel McCormick flashed through the middle of the line on a delayed buck for 10 yards and the only touchdown of the game.

Reliable Fred Kriss calmly booted the extra point and the scoring was over for the day.

Both teams had earlier scoring opportunities, but the stout defenses of the two aggregations stopped the onslaughts of passing and ground attacks.

The defensive play of both teams was the best seen here all season. Center Bobby Durmeyer was a rock backing up the line, and El Paso End Shinault spent a good part of the afternoon in the Panther backfield.

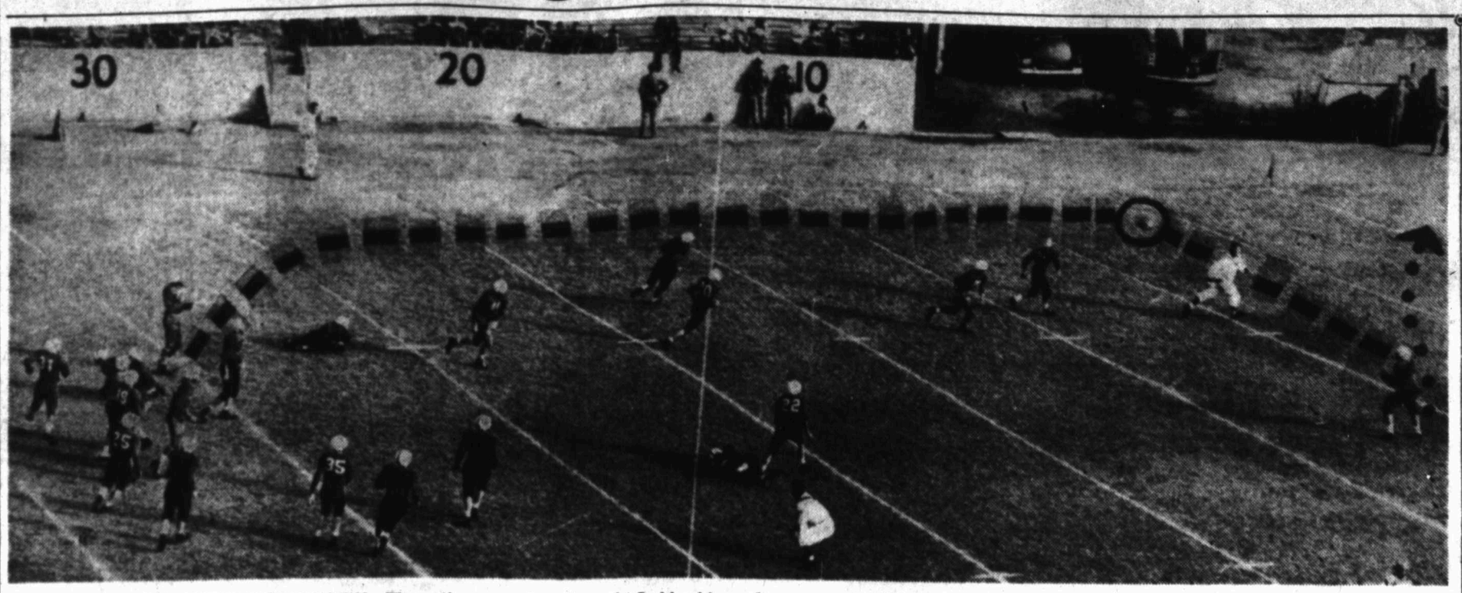

Austin benefitted by a break on the third play of the game when Lama fumbled on the Tiger six and Kriss leaped on the stray pigskin; however the Tigers limited the Panthers to three yards on four line smashes. El Paso got the next break when Shinault recovered a fumble by Tom Thurman on the Austin 45. From that point the Tigers marched to the eight but could not keep rolling.

Austin made the longest drive of the day before it fizzled out after going nearly 75 yards. Ted Fiener scored at the end of the drive, but a penalty nullified the play.

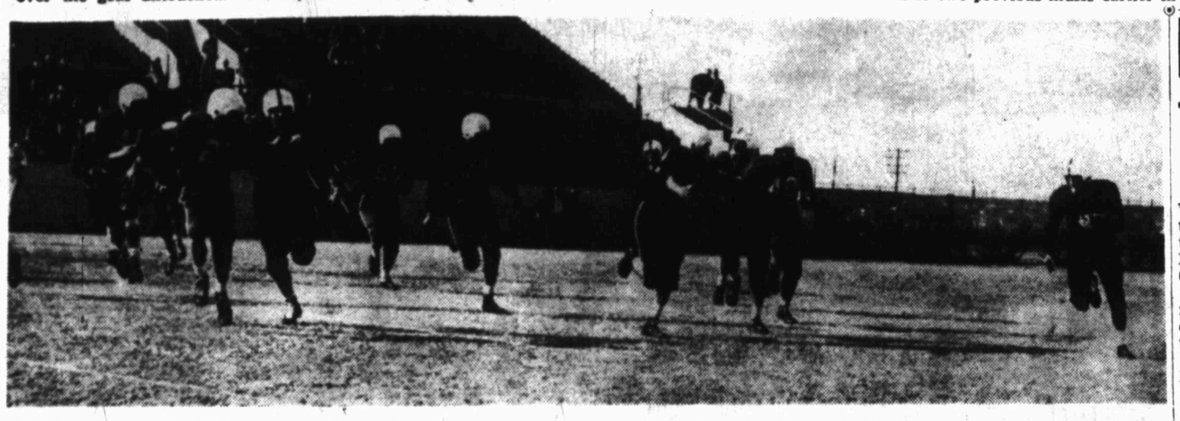

Austin made 168 yards on the ground, and hit one pass in four tries for five yards.

At Banstead, England, a burglar trod on a mousetrap and awakened the family.

Olton's Mustangs Smother Meadow Eleven, 24-0

CLICKING FOR A QUICK TOUCHDOWN—The action seen above brought Lubbock's margin to 32-0 when Quarterback Jack Weldon lofted a fourth-down 20-yard pass to End Jerry Van Pelt, who caught the ball on Brownfield's 12-yard stripe and raced over the goal untouched. Weldon, surrounded by several Lubbock and Brownfield players, managed to get the ball into the air to Van Pelt, who was all alone. The completion was Weldon's first of the year and Van Pelt's first successful catch, netting him a touchdown after two previous muffs earlier in the game. (Photo by Bill Hams.)

Ponies Reach Region Finals

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

MEMORIAL STADIUM, Olton, Nov. 24—An alert Olton Mustang eleven, driving hard for 48 minutes, smothered the Meadow Bronchos 24-0 here this afternoon before 2,500 enthusiastic fans who watched this bi-district clash under perfect weather conditions.

Olton's victory sends it into the regional finals, probably against White Deer.

It was a well-earned win for the Mustangs, who smashed their way down the field 52 yards on nine plays for their first score, which came within 30 seconds after the second quarter opened. From there on, the home club held the upper hand, scoring once in the third quarter on a 68-yard drive and twice in the final stanza, once on a 23-yard ramble and once on a 48-yard run with an intercepted pass.

Allcorn Sparks Meadow

Particular villian of the affray, from Meadow's standpoint, was Halfback Gerald Allcorn, an elusive, driving 145-pounder. Allcorn scored twice, plunging two yards for the first counter and shaking loose on a 23-yard jaunt to paydirt.

Throughout the long afternoon, Allcorn continued to plague the Bronc defenders with his sharp slants at the line and his brilliant cutbacks in the secondary.

He wasn't alone. Quarterback Jimmy Millsap, who called a great game here today, pitched 13 yards to End Don Franks, the shifty end going 45 more yards on the ground to puncture Meadow defenses for the second Mustang counter.

And Fullback Huck Nichols turned any remaining semblance of a close game into a rout in the fourth quarter when he jumped up to snare a pass thrown by Halfback Robert White. Nichols picked up some timely blocking and raced 48 yards for the final score of the game.

So completely did the charging Meadow line stop the Broncs, who had won 19 straight games up to today, that the losers didn't have a single penetration in the game.

Meadow reached the Olton 38 yard line in the second quarter, but the Ponies held at that point and forced Meadow to punt. Just before the half ended, White hit Quarterback Elvice Duncan with a pass that carried to the 21-yard marker. That was the deepest visitor peneration of the day.

It was the same story in the second half. Meadow reached the Olton 24 as the third quarter ended, but the drive was stopped by one of the three passes the winners intercepted during the day. And midway through the final canto, Halfback Ed Burrus intercepted another White aerial to complete the damage after the Broncs had reached the Meadow 34.

The first quarter was played entirely in Meadow territory, with neither team able to launch a drive. Late in the stanza, Nichols, Allcorn, Halfback Jerry Maynard and Millsap took turns driving down field, the gun halting play on the Bronc 15.

When the second quarter opened, Allcorn twisted his way to the eight and End Garland Rose lugged the leather to the two. Allcorn drove over his own right tackle standing up for the first score.

A fumble broke up an Olton drive at the start of the third quarter after the Ponies had reached the Meadow 20. After Meadow had been forced to punt, Allcorn picked up 15 yards on two rushes and Millsap hit Franks for the touchdown, the fine end rambling 45-yards with the help of a key block by End Ken Gullet, who somehow managed to get over in time to take out the last Bronc defender.

Soon after the fourth quarter opened, Franks, who turned in a brilliant game today, offensively and defensively, intereepted a White pass on the Pony 12 and returned it to the 30. That started a drive that covered 70 yards on six plays for the third tally.

Conversions Unsuccessful

Allcorn sparked this drive with runs of 21 yards, three yards and the final stretch of 23. Millsap tossed twice to Franks on the drive and Burrus picked up 11 yards to relieve Allcorn.

Meadow brought the ensuing kickoff back to the 26, picked up a first down on carries by Fullback Jesse Upton and White, then gave up the final score when Nichols snatched a pass by White on the Meadow 48 and simply outran the Broncs for the final touchdown.

Not a single extra point attempt was successful today. Millsap's first kick attempt was low, Franks tossed to Rose incomplete on the second effort, Guard Freddie Howard blocked Millsap's second attempted boot and Millsap's plunge after the fourth score was stopped short of the goal.

The entire Olton team turned in a fine performance today. But standing out were such players as Franks, Tackle Max LaDuke, Rose, Gullet, Millsap, Allcorn, Nichols, Maynard and Burrus.

Denver Loses To Cowboys

DENVER, Nov. 24. (INS)—The Wyoming Cowboys capitalized on two blocked punts and a fumble today to down the University of Denver Pioneers 25 to 6 before 31,000 fans in D. U. Stadium.

The win gave the Cowboys their first Mountain States football championship in the history of the school.

The Red and Golds held the Pokes scoreless during the first half of the encounter, but in the third period, Wyoming ripped loose to score three times.

Etcheverry Rushed

The first Cowboy score was set up when the Wyoming line rushed Denver's aerial ace Sam Etcheverry. Etcheverry fumbled and Wyoming recovered on the Denver 16. Walker (Sonny) Jones completed a pass to Truitt Smith for the TD. Just one minute and 10 seconds later, the Pokes went over again after End Tom Drost blocked an attempted punt by Etcheverry. Vaughn Hilpp, the other Cowboy wingman, scooped up the oval and galloped into pay dirt.

Talboom split the uprights for the only Wyoming conversion of the day.

Later in the same stanza, another Etcheverry punt was partially muffled by Wyoming's Bill Baker, and Wyoming recovered on the Denver 29. The Pokes stabbed over to climax a typical Wyoming downfield drive.

The victorious Cowboys punched over their fourth marker on a drive which began with an intercepted pass. Talboom, leading scorer of the region, carried the ball nine times out of ten in the successful goalward drive.

Jussell Scores For DU

The Pioneers made their consolation score late in the game. The Red and Gold drive began on a 36-yard pass from Howard Benham to Roy Jussell. Jussell plunged over for the score.

The Pioneers made the only scoring threat in the first half. The Hilltoppers drove from their own 20 to the Wyoming 11, with the aid of a 15-yard penalty charged against the Cowboys.

The D. U. ground attack failed on a completed fourth down pass from Etcheverry to Gordon Cooper. The toss carried to the five-yard stripe but was one yard short of a first down.

Some 8,000 Wyoming fans were on hand to watch the Pokes down the Pioneers. Wyoming's 1949 season was marred only by one loss. The Pokes lost a 32 to 6 decision to the powerful Bears of Baylor, but downed all regional competition.

BOSTON STUDENTS RIOT

BOSTON, Nov. 24 (AP) — Some 300 high school students rioted today, some using brass knuckles and blackjacks, after an East Boston-South Boston football game. Two youths went to hospitals, about 50 others suffered less serious injuries and the windows of several automobiles were broken. More than 175 policemen were needed to disperse the crowd. No arrests were made.

Amarillo Beats Plainview, 34-7

Early Breaks Give Victory

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 24. (Special)—The Amarillo Sandies closed out their 1949 football season here today by defeating Plainview, 34-7, in a District 1-AA tilt at Bulldog Stadium.

The Sandies romped to a 14-0 first quarter score and pushed across 20 points in the second period to account for their total. Plainview scored in the third quarter.

Amarillo scored on its second and third offensive plays of the game. Early in the first quarter, after Plainview had returned the kickoff to its own 13 and was penalized, Jack Howton threw a quick pass which was batted into the air by Sandy Harold Swindell and into the arms of Amarillo's Tom Curtis, who carried to the six. Paul Bennett made four yards. E. G. Sanders went over for the touchdown. Jack Newby converted.

After the kickoff and subsequent punt by Plainview, Newby went wide around right end and 72 yards to paydirt, converting to send the Sandies ahead, 14-0.

Ray Bingham went 23-yards for the next Amarillo score after a fumble had been recovered on Plainview's 26. Newby converted again. Jerry Reese returned a Bulldog punt 55 yards for the next Amarillo score, but the try for point was unsuccessful. Sanders went over from the 13 for the final touchdown for the Sandstorm after Bennett recovered a Plainview fumble.

Plainview's Tom Caskey, top offensive threat for the Bulldogs, intercepted a third-quarter Amarillo pass to set up the Plainview score, returning it to the Amarillo 41. After several plays had advanced the ball but little, Howton tossed a long pass to left End Weldon Hayes, who took the ball on the two and stepped over the goal. Howton converted.

BLOCKING ASSIGNMENTS STRESSED

Raiders Hold Final Intensive Workout Before Meeting H-SU

Virtually the final intensive workout of the week before meeting Hardin-Simmons in the top game of West Texas Saturday was held yesterday by Texas Tech's turkey-stuffed Red Raiders.

The Raiders were given a hefty Thanksgiving Day meal in the athletic dormitory, watched three quarters of the Brownfield-Lubbock football game and then suited up for an intensive drill.

Coach Dell Morgan sent the squad through a long offensive grind with emphasis again on blocking assignments by linemen and perfection of timing by the backs. There was heavy work with both passing and running, and so intensive was the drill that there is the suspicion that the Raiders dreamed offense after the practice had ended.

Cowboy Attack Versatile

A skull session in the morning, in which the coaches went over offensive and defensive assignments on the blackboard, came within one day of finishing these polishing touches. Another schoolroom session is slated for today.

Tech is concerned with stopping the three-way attack Coach Warren Woodson's Cowboys will throw at the Raiders. Woodson again has a versatile attack that makes it almost impossible to concentrate a defense against.

The Cowboys feature the line ramming of Fullback Ray Troutman, the end sweeps of Hook Davis and the brilliant passing of John Ford. And if one of these men should be injured, the Cowboys can reach into reserves three and four deep at each position so that the attack goes on with little change.

H-SU Fired-Up

Tech is expected to try and stop all three by rushing the passer, setting up impregnable ends and charging in the center of the line. If they are successful, and can launch an offensive of their own, they could annex their third straight Border Conference victory.

The Cowboys, stung by the 19-7 upset win scored by West Texas State college, are expected to come to Lubbock filled with desire to avenge that licking. They will be out to try and run up the largest score ever made in the 15-game series and the Raiders will be in for a busy afternoon.

Tickets still are moving rapidly for the game and a sellout crowd of approximately 20,000 is expected by kickoff time.

Lamar Will Meet Tyler Tonight

TYLER, Nov. 24. (AP)—The undefeated, untied Cardinals of Lamar college will throw their perfect record on the line before the 40-points-a-game machine of the Tyler Apaches in Tyler Rose Stadium tomorrow night seeking to capture their first Conference title of any kind.

Lamar, winner of nine straight this season and 13 in a row, already owns a piece of the Southwestern Junior College Conference crown and can take the championship outright by beating or tying the Apaches.

Tyler's only loss was to Kilgore by a 14-7 count when four regulars were sidelined with injuries. Kilgore later fell to Lamar by the same score.

The contest will throw the Apaches, who dominate everything in the Conference except first place at the first place Cardinals before a sellout crowd of 15,000.

Tyler leads the SJCC in yards gained by rushing and passing and furnishes most of the individual statistical leaders. Lamar's only Conference leader is Fullback Jimmy McNeil who has scored 72 points to lead the loop.

It is expected that the winner of the Tyler-Lamar game will receive the bid to represent the East in the fourth Junior Rose Bowl game in Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 10. Sponsors of the game have expressed a strong interest in both teams.

PAMPA TRIUMPHS

PAMPA, Nov. 24. (Special)—Pampa's Harvesters completed a perfect season in District 1-AA play today by shoving across a last-quarter touchdown to turn back the Borger Bulldogs, 14-7. Pampa goes against Wichita Falls in the state Class AA bi-district playoff round next week.

Army Sets Sights For Midshipmen

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 24 (INS) — Army's football team ate red meat instead of turkey today as it trained its battle sights on Saturday's 50th annual engagement with Navy at Philadelphia.

Coach Earl Blaik decreed nontraditional steaks as Thanksgiving fare for the Cadets and topped off the meal by reading a pep talk from no less an authority than Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The Cadets, who completed their preparations for Navy with a last light drill this afternoon, were definitely fired up for the tilt with their oldest rival.

They remembered last year when the midshipmen, without a victory all season, rose to great heights to tie Army, 21 to 21.

It's a different Navy crew this time, a predominantly yearling team that has had an in-and-out season but shapes up stronger than did the 1948 Middies.

Blaik has called George Sauer's T-formation Navy offense "the best straight ahead attack in college football." And the Army mentor makes no bones about the respect in which he holds Bob Zastrow, youthful passing star of the Middies.

Nineteen Cadets will be playing their last game, including Arnold Galiffa, the All-America quarterback candidate. Army will be seeking to extend its undefeated streak to 20 games.

Howard Payne Gains 20 To 0 Win Over Abilene Christian

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 24. (INS)—Aerialist Al Langford passed Howard Payne college to a 20-to-0 Texas Conference victory over Abilene Christian college today at Brownwood.

After a scoreless first half, Langford connected with three touchdown passes—one in the third period and two in the fourth.

Kansas State Drops 34-27 Tilt

Missouri Wins Game

COLUMBIA, Nov. 24. (INS)—A tricky Missouri football team matched Kansas State's passing attack with passing and running today to defeat the Wildcats, 34 to 27, in Columbia before a Thanksgiving Day crowd of 20,000.

The men from the "Show Me" state put on a scoring demonstration that produced two touchdowns in the first quarter, two in the third and one in the fourth. The aerial wizardry of K-State created two scores in the second and fourth periods.

Dick Braznell tallied on a pass from the 12-yard line after putting the Missourians in position for their initial TD with a 68-yard run.

Missouri capitalized on a fumble to drive 42-yards for its second touchdown. Martin Sauer crossed the goal line six plays after the Tigers got the ball.

Kansas State marched 87 and 99 yards with bomb-sight accurate passing to score twice in the second period, Elmer Creviston got credit for the first Wildcat tally with a two-yard plunge and Dick Johnson took a pass from Dana Atkins for the second.

Lloyd Estes missed the try for extra point after the first TD and K-State was behind 14 to 13 at halftime.

Missouri exploded twice more in the third quarter, the first a drive of 70 yards and the second a 40-yard effort.

The K-State passing barrage gave the Wildcats two more touchdowns in the fourth quarter scoring parade. But Missouri just seemed to get there "Fustest With The Mostest."

Thomas Jefferson Schoolboys Defeat Brackenridge, 26-14

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 24. (AP)—Thomas Jefferson High school of San Antonio won the District 4 City Conference championship here today by defeating arch-rival Brackenridge, 26 to 14, before 19,000 fans.

Jefferson will meet San Jacinto, the Houston champion, at 3 p. m. Saturday, Dec. 3, in Alamo Stadium.

Late Rally Gives Yanks Victory

Yankees Defeat Dons

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24. (INS)—The New York Yankees, racking up all their points in the final quarter, today edged the Los Angeles Dons, 17 to 16, in their All-America Conference turkey day football game before a Memorial Coliseum crowd of 20,096.

George Taliaferro chucked the Dons into an early lead by scampering 44 yards in the opening period for the icebreaking touchdown.

Bob Kennedy smashed across from the one-yard-line to culminate a 52-yard march to give the Yankees their initial score in the final frame and tie-up the contest.

Then Harvey Johnson booted a 16-yard field goal to put the visitors into a 10 to 7 lead. The score was evened minutes later when Bob Nelson countered with a 27-yard placement.

The Yankees, sparked by Buddy Young, then slammed 47 yards in six plays to a touchdown, with Kennedy again bumping across from the one.

Johnson carved a new Conference record by calmly booting his 100th conversion, which put New York into a 17 to 10 lead.

In the final 13 seconds, Taliaferro took a punt and rambled 54 yards to a TD, but Nelson's try for extra point was blocked by End Jack Russell—and the contest ended 17 to 16.

Bruising Littlefield Wildcats Overwhelm Spur, 47-14, In Bi-District Playoff

District 4-A Winners Grab Early Lead To Cop Victory

Bailes' Three Touchdown Gallops Spark Power-Laden Wildcat Attack

By CHOC HUTCHESON

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 24.—Littlefield's big, bruising Wildcats cruised into the second round of the state Class A football playoff here today by overpowering the Spur Bulldogs, 47-14.

A jam-packed throng of 5,000 fans saw the district 4 Wildcats grab an early lead, then roll relentlessly on to register their tenth straight 1949 victory since an opening-game loss to Dalhart.

The Wildcats' next playoff foe will be the winner of the Phillips-Lefors clash at Phillips Saturday.

No Stopping Wildcats

The handwriting was on the wall from the very start in today's bi-district game. Littlefield, after recovering a Spur fumble on the Bulldog 18, scored within the first three minutes of play. After that, there was no stopping the burly Wildcats, who ground out a total of 22 first downs on a net gain of an even 500 yards for the afternoon.

PLAYER'S CONDITION SATISFACTORY

Bobby Barker, 17-year-old reserve tackle for the Littlefield Wildcats who suffered a slight head injury late in Thursday's Spur - Littlefield football game, Thursday night was reported to be recovering satisfactorily in Payne-Shotwell clinic. Attendants said the boy probably would be released from the clinic early Friday.

By halftime, Coach J. S. Fikes' juggernaut had run the count to 27-0—a margin substantial enough to permit them to coast during the final two periods.

Coach Sam Hawkes' Spur squad battled all the way, and finally managed a fourth-quarter scoring flurry which produced two touchdowns. But by the time the Bulldogs' offense began to click consistently, victory was far beyond reach of the District 3-A champions.

Too Much Power

As in last week's District 4-A title game with Slaton, Littlefield simply had too much power. With husky Tommy Bailes showing the way, the Wildcats ripped the outweighed Bulldog line to shreds.

Bailes, a bonecrusher who packs plenty of speed for his 180 pounds, enjoyed a field day. He averaged better than 19 yards per carry in 11 tries from scrimmage, turning in touchdown gallops of 70, 34 and two yards each, and teaming with Donald Crossley on a 31-yard pass-and-run play for another six-pointer.

But it was far from a one-man show. Perhaps top credit should go to the massive Littlefield line, which so completely smothered Spur's ground game that the Bulldogs wound up with a net loss of two yards in the rushing department.

Lindsey Sparks Spur

Too, the other Littlefield backs—Charles Askew, Gene Renfro, Crossley, Stephen Brock and Frank Gage—earned their share of the glory, grinding out yardage with monotonous regularity.

Spur also had its stars. Although badly rushed by the Littlefield line, Quarterback Melvin Lindsey connected on six of 14 passes for a gain of 113 yards and the Bulldogs' only touchdowns of the day. Clyde Blair, the Bulldogs' heralded breakaway back, had little chance to display his wares because of the hard-charging Wildcat line, but he did turn in one of the day's fanciest runs—a meandering 35-yard sprint to a touchdown after taking a short pass from Lindsey.

Despite Spur's gallant stand, however, this was basically "Littlefield's day." The Fikesmen had the situation so well in hand that they scarcely used their aerial game. Littlefield hit only one of six attempted passes—but that single completion was good for 31 yards and a touchdown.

Scoring Flood Opens

For a few fleeting moments in the first quarter, Spur held the Wildcats at bay—thanks to two spirited goal-line stands.

But then the dam burst, and the scoring flood swept down upon the Bulldogs.

Renfro sprinted 14 yards untouched around left end for the Wildcats' first tally, which came on the game's eighth play from scrimmage. Askew plunged for the extra point.

Then came the aforementioned Spur goal-line defenses, which held the score at 7-0 through the first quarter.

Early in the second stanza, Renfro bucked over from two yards out to cap a 48-yard scoring march. Gage dived over center for the extra point, making it 14-0.

Bailes' two-yard plunge ended a 72-yard drive in which his 67-yard gallop to the Spur five-yard line was the big factor. This time Askew rounded right end for the extra point.

The fourth touchdown came on the last play before the half, when Bailes burst through right guard and raced 70 yards to the double-stripe. Crossleys pass try for the stripe. Crossley's pass try for the Littlefield ran the count to 33-0 midway through the third quarter on a 34-yard touchdown jaunt down the middle by Bailes. Crossley converted from placement.

Lindsey Pass Intercepted

Late in the period, Askew climaxed a 65-yard payoff march by sweeping left end for 3 yards and a counter. He again placekicked the extra point.

Crossleys interception of a Lindsey pass early in the fourth quarter set up the Wildcats final touchdown. On the first play after the interception, Crossley flipped an 11-yard pass to Bailes, who gath-

Longhorns Grind Out 42-14 Win Over Aggies

Steers' Air, Ground Attack Overpowers Fired-Up A & M

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 24.—Texas ground out a brutish 42-14 victory over futile Texas A. & M. today in the fifty-sixth renewal of the longest, bitterest rivalry in Southwestern football.

In a game that saw Texas penalized 73 yards, mostly for illegal use of hands—and fists— in the first half, the Longhorns, with sophomore Byron Townsend and Ray Borneman gouging the line and the passing combination of Paul Campbell to Ben Proctor eating up huge chunks of yardage, kept A. and M. on the run almost all the way.

That first half saw player after player hobble off the field and two roughing penalties set up Aggie touchdowns. Once, after Bob Smith, A. and M. fullback, had been plowed into viciously, some Aggies started off the bench onto the field but Coach Harry Stiteler waved them back.

The second half was rather tame, however, and when the game was over Aggies and Longhorns were slapping each other on the back and congratulating each other in good nature.

A crowd of 41,200—the largest ever to see a game in College Station—watched the crunching power and brilliant blocking of the Longhorns with awe, wondering how that that team ever lost four games this season.

It has been ten years since A. and M. beat Texas. Once in that period — last year — the Aggies managed for a 14-14 tie.

Today's game was the fifty-sixth since 1894.

Townsend scored three of the Texas touchdowns with Borneman, Randall Clay and Lew Levine getting one each. Bobby Goff and Smith made the Aggie scores. Clay kicked all six points after touchdown. Bob Shaeffer converted after the A. and M. scores.

Brown Defeats Colgate, 41-26

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 24. (INS)—Brown's once-defeated Bruins scored 27 points in a spectacular final quarter today to maul Colgate, 41 to 26, in their traditional Thanksgiving Day football game.

Until the Bear's brother act of Joe and George Paterno went into high gear, Colgate seemed on its way to one of the outstanding upsets of the year.

The Red Raiders, who had lost seven straight after winning their season's opener, had a 19-to-7 lead at halftime and were ahead 26 to 7 late in the third period.

Then Brown turned the tide. A fumble recovery gave the Bruins the ball on Colgate's 38, and George Paterno rammed through center and on to the goal line.

Another fumble recovery early in the fourth quarter on the Raider 33 led to another touchdown, Bob Lenker plunged the last five yards. Joe Paterno passed to Moe Mahoney for the next score from the three after a 55-yard march.

Brown went ahead when Joe Paterno intercepted a pass and returned it 20 yards to the Colgate 41. Lenker carried to the six, and George Paterno drove over.

Arnie Green smashed for the last touchdown after Colgate was smothered on its own three and lost the ball on downs.

of a punt for 25 yards. Included in the drive were a 32-yard pass from Presley to Tooke which was called back, a throw to Fisher which was good for 27 yards, and Presley's 44-yard pass to Fisher for the score. Presley was almost tackled for a loss, but shook free and shot a high aerial to Fisher who caught the ball behind the safety man and trotted on over.

The last score came as the result of a pass interception by Tooke and a 26-yard return to Brownfield's nine. On the first play Presley stood straight up and pitched a pass to End Bobby Day for the final touchdown, Presley's conversion giving the Lubbock squad a 54-0 lead with more than six minutes remaining in the contest. During the last part of the game Lubbock was deep in its own territory due to a rash of penalties and a long punt by Patterson.

Detroit Eleven Rolls Over Wichita University, 33 To 7

DETROIT, Nov. 24. (INS)—Detroit overwhelmed the Wichita university football team, 33 to 7, today to finish its Missouri Valley Conference schedule undefeated.

Detroit scored in the opening quarter on a 15-yard pass interception by Jerry Greiner and then exploded for three more TD's in the second period.

The Missouri Valley champions added their final tally in the last quarter.

Austin, Port Arthur Gain Wins

Four More Class AA Champions Decided

(By The Associated Press)

Four district champions were crowned Thanksgiving Day in City Conference and Class AA schoolboy football while six Class A teams moved into the second round of their state championship playoff.

Paschal of Fort Worth, Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio, Austin of El Paso and Port Arthur filled in the last blank spots in the playoff picture for the big two divisions.

Mission, Littlefield, Wink, Ballinger, Mexia, and Atlanta advanced to the second round of the Class A title chase.

Paschal whipped North Side, 41-7, to win the Fort Worth district title in the City Conference and Thomas Jefferson downed Brackenridge, 26-14, to take the San Antonio title.

Paschal will face Sunset of Dallas and Thomas Jefferson meets San Jacinto of Houston in playoff games next week.

Port Arthur smothered Beaumont, 72-13, to take the District 11-AA title while Austin won in 4-AA on a 7-0 victory over El Paso High.

Mission defeated Freer, 13-6 and moved ahead.

Pro Bears Drub Detroit, 28-7

DETROIT, Nov. 24. (AP)—The Chicago Bears scored in every period as they beat the Detroit Lions 28-7 today in a Thanksgiving morning game before 24,385 chilled fans. Bob Smith scored Detroit's lone touchdown on a 102-yard run with an intercepted pass. A fairly heavy snowstorm and a 31-degree temperature failed to hamper the Bears, who scored twice via passes and twice on short thrusts by George Gulyanics. Chicago thus retained a mathematical chance for the Western Division title in the National Football League race.

Fumbles and pass interceptions constantly hurt the Lions as they bowed to the Bears for the second time this season. The earlier loss was by a 27-24 margin.

Gulyanics scored the opening touchdown on a four-yard plunge in the first period after Chicago had recovered a fumble on Detroit's 18-yard line. Gulyanics scored again in the second period on a two-yard smash after the Bears had intercepted a Lion pass on the Detroit 33.

Johnny Lujack threw two touchdown passes in the second half, the first a 34-yard toss to Ken Kavanaugh, and the other a 30-yard heave to Jim Keane in the final stanza.

Lujack made all four conversions.

Smith's 102-yard run set a National football league record, breaking the old mark of 100 yards established by Vern Huffman of Detroit in 1937 against Brooklyn.

ered in the ball on the Spur 20, twisted away from a would-be tackler, and raced across. Crossley's placekick again was true.

With a 47-0 margin, Fikes sent in an entire team of reserves. Four plays later, Spur had its first touchdown, which came on Blair's brilliant run after catching a short over-the-middle pass from Lindsey. Lindsey converted from placement.

The Bulldogs launched another scoring drive the next time they gained possession. Starting from the Littlefield 44 after Spur Tackle Dick Gibson blocked a Wildcat punt, the Bulldogs moved to the 15 on sucecssive pass completions from Lindsey to Joe King and Wayne Smith. At this point, Littlefield's entire first string reentered the game, but the substitution cost the Wildcats a five-yard penalty for excessive time outs. Then, on the ensuing play, Lindsey hit Charles Lee on the goal line with a pass, and the end dived over for the score. Lindsey added the point from placement to close out the day's scoring.

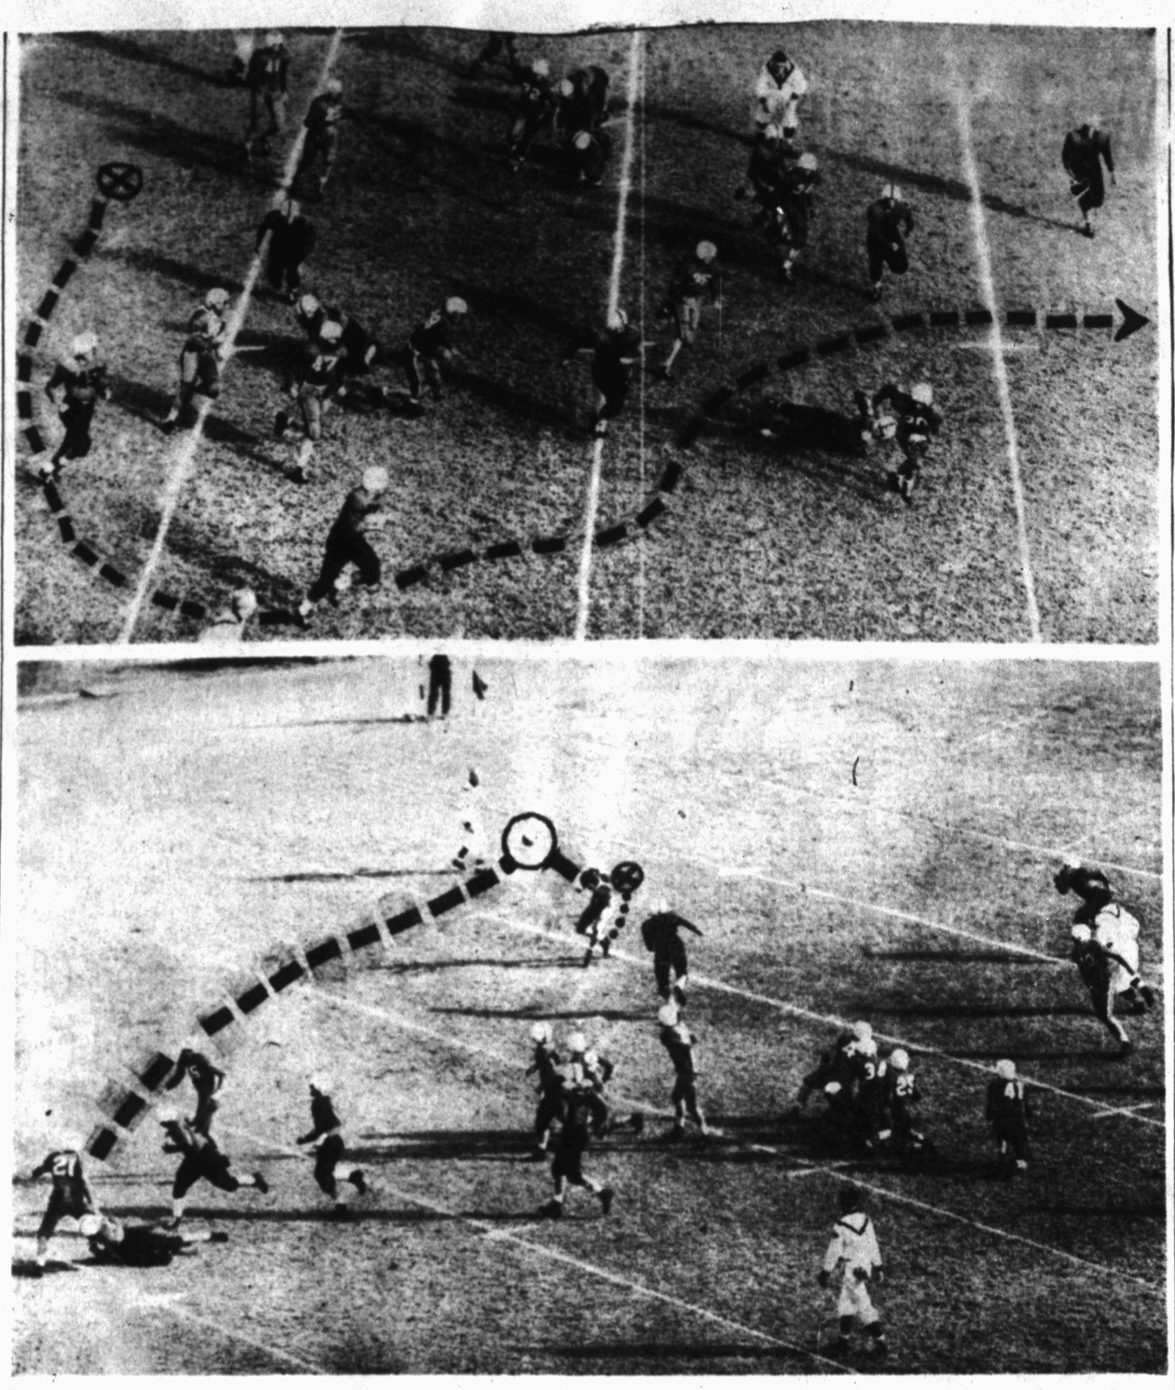

College Of Pacific Stomps California Poly, 88 To 0

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Nov. 24. (AP)—Undefeated College of Pacific, with its eye on a possible major post-season bowl bid, poured it on California Poly 88-0 before 4,000 fans today.

The win was Pacific's 10th straight and gave them an undefeated, untied record for their regular season. The points scored gave them a total of 500 for the year and virtually clinched their national leadership in scoring.

Ted Williams Is Named American League's Most Valuable Player

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (INS) — Lanky Ted Williams, the most feared slugger in present day baseball, was named the Most Valuable Player in the American League today by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Williams, who also won the most valuable award in 1946, was given first place on 13 of 24 committee ballots. He finished nearly 100 points ahead of his closest competitor, Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees.

The stringbean Boston Red Sox slugger, who led the American League in homeruns, was tied for first place in runs batted in and was nosed out for the batting championship the last day of the season, had a total of 272 points.

Rizzuto, great little shortstop of the world champions, had 175. Behind him came Joe Page, Yankee relief artist (166); Mel Parnell, Red Sox southpaw pitching star (151), and his 35-year-old pitching mate, Ellis Kinder (122); Tommy Henrich, Yankee outfielder (121) and Vern Stephens, Boston shortstop-slugger (100).

It wasn't until eighth place in the balloting that any player could break into the New York-Boston monopoly. That position went to George Kell of Detroit who nosed out Williams for the batting crown. He received 80 voting points. Cleveland pitcher Bob Lemon had 57, and Detroit outfielder Vic Wertz had 51 to round out the first ten.

Williams will receive the Kenesaw Mountain Landis Memorial plaque in commemoration of his selection.

Balloting was on a basis of 14 points for first place, nine for second, eight for third, and so forth. Williams finished third or better on all but one ballot and was picked for fourth place on that one.

Rizzuto had five first place votes, Page, three, and Parnell, Henrich and Stephens, one apiece.

Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager and shortstop, who won the MVP award in 1948, received only ten points this year for 14th place. Joe DiMaggio, Yankee outfielder who edged Williams for the honor in 1947, finished 11th this year with 19 points.

Big Red Garners Ivy League Title

Cornell Rallies To Drop Penn, 29-21

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24 (AP)—Trailing by two touchdowns at the half and apparently badly beaten, Cornell's Big Red team rallied magnificently today and swept to a 29-21 victory over Pennsylvania for its second straight Ivy League championship.

When the gun sounded to end the thrilling contest before 75,000 in Franklin Field, both goal posts already had been uprooted by Cornell's undergraduates and the Ithicans again were threatening the shaken Quaker's goal line.

Penn, needing only to tie to win the Ivy title, roundly outplayed the visitors in the first two periods and even carried a 21-13 margin into the final quarter.

But then the roof caved in on Coach George Munger's stalwarts. The Big Red smashed across two touchdowns and kicked a field goal in the gathering dusk after capitalizing on three breaks, and within a matter of seconds a plane was circling round and round the stadium trailing a banner reading:

"Goodbye George."

What proved the deciding score in the traditional Thanksgiving duel came in at 8:37 of the concluding period when little Pete Dorset, Cornell quarterback, fired a 25-yard pass to End Walt Bruska on the Penn goal line.

Bill Kirk's field goal from the ten-yard line a few minutes later only served to put victory beyond the Quakers reach.

So thoroughly outplayed was Penn's big team in the second half that it penetrated Cornell territory only twice, once each in the last two quarters, and never got nearer a score than the Cornell 28-yard line. The 21-7 lead the Quakers carried so proudly into the second half melted before their eyes.

U. S. POLO TEAM WINS

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 24. (AP)—The United States Meadow Brook polo team gained the semi-finals of the Buenos Aires Cup tournament today with a 10-7 victory over Mexico.

Houston Cougars Drop St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24. (AP)—The St. Louis Billikens closed an already drab football season on a sour note today when they dropped a 35 to 0 decision to a big hard-charging University of Houston eleven.

It was the Bills' sixth defeat and while they lost other games by bigger margins, it was the first time they were shut out.

The Missouri Valley outfit fumbled six times and lost the ball on each occasion. Three Houston touchdowns came after the Cougars recovered a Billiken fumble. One came on the St. Louis 15, another on the St. Louis 5 and the last on Houston's 19, from which the Cougars marched to their last touchdown.

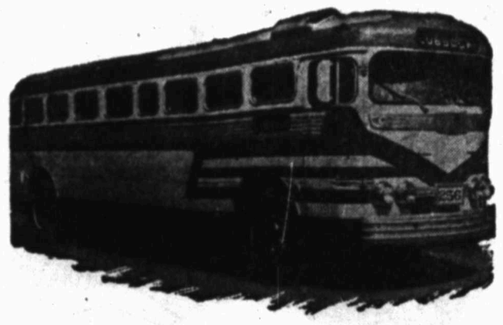

The Billikens didn't get past their own 42 on offense in the first half, so impenetrable was the Cougar line. The Cougars scored in every period, counting twice in the second. Alan Neveux, Cougar quarterback, added the extra point each time for placement. Neveux not only hurt the Bills with his toe, he frequently got smeared when he tried to pass, but when he did connect it paid dividends. He set up two touchdowns that way, passed for another and scored one.

Relaxed Restrictions On German Industry To Have Future Impact

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Allied easement of restrictions on western Germany's production and trade is of tremendous political as well as economic importance.

A prime objective, of course, is to bring German productivity to bear in the general effort to strengthen western Europe's economy. The United States, chief advocate of the new dispensations, also is interested in getting rid of the expense of supporting Germany.

Britain will be glad, too, to slough off the embarrassment of dismantling in the face of bitter German opposition. This has been largely her burden because her occupation zone included most of the affected industry.

Different Attitude Noted

In working on these immediate objectives not much has been said about the more far-reaching effects. But the allied attitude now is far different from what it was toward the Weimar government after World War I.

Then Germany was throttled from every direction and developed a hard core of resistance which eventually resulted in Nazism.

Already the old spirit of German nationalism has been reported rising. Even the "best" leaders —from the allied standpoint—appealed to it in their campaign speeches last summer. Russia has recognized it in her zone and sought to enlist it for her own purposes.

Admission of Germany into the various cooperative councils of Europe can be expected to weaken the hand of this movement.

Plant Production Slated

Under the new dispensation, many great German plants which were to be dismantled will instead go into production of steel, rubber and synthetic oil. German consular relations abroad will be reestablished. There is a hint in the agreement that the state of war may be ended if solutions can be found for "considerable legal and practical" difficulties, presumably including that of military occupation and control of foreign affairs by the allies.

Security measures remain, with the German government specifically pledged to support them. No war materials are to be produced, and the new merchant fleet authorized will not be convertible to war use because of speed limitations.

Man Who Loved To Give Money Away Dies Alone In Room

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (INS) — The man who loved to give money away died alone in his hotel room today.

James Powell, 74-year-old retired Aurora, Ill., business man, gave some $350,000 of his fortune away to bellboys, tramps, and people who struck his fancy.

Death came to the white-haired philanthropist only two weeks after his identity was revealed to his benefactors in his will.

Gives To New School

His gifts ranged from $500 checks to bellboys in the hotel where he lived, to $50,000 for a new school. They were sent to persons who had befriended his wife and sisters, now dead. Distant relatives received gifts.

He told of how he began his philanthrophy last month. He confided to friends:

"What's the use of me waiting until I'm dead to help my friends.

"I've made up my mind that the people who were kind to me and my late wife and sisters should be made happy while I am still alive."

Once he told his lawyer:

"If more people would follow this plan, there would be more happiness in the world."

Tom Sullivan, New Zealand's "Grand Ild Man" of sculling, who won the British championship on the Thames in 1893, died recently in Vienna, Austria, aged 80.

Top Speakers On State Program

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Nov. 24. Dr. W. R. White, president of Baylor university, said here today: "I am thankful I live in a land where truth is still available, through the press and radio, to the humblest citizen."

"We have no regimentation of truth here," Dr. White told the 71st annual meeting of the Texas State Teachers association. "We have no iron curtain."

His address, at Thanksgiving services in Will Rogers Memorial auditorium, opened the three-day meeting.

Woods Makes Appeal

State School Superintendent L. A. Woods, here for the teacher's meeting said in an interview he hopes the newly-elected state board of education "will let me serve out the term for which I was elected."

The superintendent predicted the Gilmer-Aikin plan will put the state's educational system in the red.

"The program is costing more than the state is able to raise. They guard the amount of the deficit pretty closely not to let it get out. The governor, no doubt, knows what it is. I figured they would go into the hole about $35,000,000 this year. They proposed to spend $180,000,000. It looks like $216,000,000."

Dr. Hill Speaks

Texas teachers have been successful in a fight for more money for their services—now they should endeavor to show Texas taxpayers that the money is well spent.

Such was the advice given by Dr. Henry Hill, president of George Peabody college for teachers, Nashville, Tex., to the overflow audience at Will Rogers Memorial auditorium here tonight. Dr. Hill, with Governor Allan Shivers and Dr. Andrew D. Holt, president of the National Education association, spoke during the opening general session of the 72nd annual meeting of the Texas State teachers association.

"We teachers are getting more money today and we have to work less, I am thankful for that," he asserted. "But as our teaching load becomes easier we should do better work.

"More money has given teachers an opportunity to increase their prestige in the community, but a salary that demands respect from both teacher and patron is only one of several factors that determine the amount of prestige the teaching profession receives," he added.

Woods in the interview denied that he would "sabatoge" the new school program set up by the Gil-

Farm Youths To Vie In Judging

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (INS) — Farm boys and girls from 27 states were in Chicago today, ready to vie in the junior livestock judging contest which is the prelude to the golden jubilee livestock exposition opening Saturday for an eight-day run.

In the opening contest tomorrow, teams of farm youths, working in groups of three from each state, will compete for honors and awards which include $500 worth of agricultural scholarships offered by the Chicago Association of Commerce and industry and $200 in scholarships by Armour & Co.

Judging Ability Graded

The contestants are graded according to their ability to judge cattle, horses, sheep and swine. The age limit for the event is 20.

The jubilee show will get underway officially Saturday at 7 a.m. with the junior livestock feeding contest in which 443 farm youths from 18 states have entered 805 cattle, 19 pens of sheep and 94 hogs.

Before nightfall tomorrow more than 11,500 animals competing in the show and 3,000 crop samples will be stalled or placed on exhibit.

The international horse show, which will be a nightly feature, has brought more than 500 entries. These include the pick of the leading stables of United States and Canada.

Teams To Perform

Among them are 206 draft horse entries besides the six-horse teams which will perform at the show.

Included in the saddle and harness division are classes for three and five gaited saddle horses, harness horses and ponies and hunters and jumpers.

Dr. A. D. Weber of Kansas State college, who will serve as chief judge of the jubilee show, will begin work Saturday when he picks the winners and champions in the junior feeding contest.

Another opening event Saturday will be the intercollegiate livestock judging contest in which teams of five will represent 32 state colleges and Canada.

Work On Southeast Gaines Well Pushed

Forest Oil Corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil Corporation No. 1-A Parmer County fee, Southeast Gaines county possible discovery from a deep lime, which may be the Mississippian is still having trouble establishing circulation of drilling fluid so it can bore deeper from 12,206 feet.

After showing for possible production in the section at 12,045-156 feet, where 4,070 feet of free oil and considerable oil and gas cut drilling fluid and water blanket was recovered during a three hour and 53 minute drillstem test, the project deepened to 12,206 feet and lost circulation about ten days ago.

Plugs Are Set

In an effort to seal off cavities where the drilling fluid might have been going, operators set a cement plug at 11,916-12,016 feet and another at 7,900-8,000 feet.

The 7,900-8,000 foot plug was drilled out Tuesday, and immediately afterwards circulation was lost again.

The project is circulating while the owners are deciding what the next activity will be. There is a probability that a string of pipe will have to be run to bottom to case off the cavities, before drilling deeper can be resumed.

Consul Freed By Chinese Reds Still Long Way From Freedom

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—American Consul General Angus Ward made his second telephone report to the outside world today, but he was still a long way from winning complete freedom from Chinese Communist control.

Ward, who was let out of a Communist jail at Mukden late Monday night, talked by telephone with American Consul General O. Edmund Clubb at Peiping this morning. Clubb reported it to the State department.

Ward Continues Report

He said, however, that the connection was bad. Ward was able only to confirm what he reported in his initial telephone talk with Clubb yesterday—that he and the four aides arrested with him a month ago had at last returned to their homes in the American consul compound at Mukden.

State Department Press Officer Michael McDermott said it had been determined that the Chinese Communist police at Mukden had released Ward and his four associates at 9 p. m., Mukden time, Monday. The release came after all five had been convicted by the Communists of beating a Chinese employe in a wage dispute, had been sentenced to serve jail terms of several months each and then had the sentences commuted to deportation. U. S. officials had derided the charges as "trumped up."

The critical question now is what the Communist authorities will do about transportation arrangements.

The assumption of the officials here was that Ward and his staff would be provided with transportation but that it may be several days before they actually know when and how they will be able to leave.

Mukden has railroad connections with two of China's important port cities, Tientsin and Dairen. Chinese experts in the State department expect that Ward and his group will be delivered by rail at one or the other of those two ports and there put aboard ship for his departure from China.

Writer, Posing As Duck, Loses Tail In New York Parade

By MARGARET WEIL
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 — Anyone who would take the place of a duck is a goose.

This goose got up at the quack of dawn to be a duck in Macy's annual Thanksgiving parade today. And the duckiest thing about the three-mile waddle down Central Park west and along Broadway through Times Square was the end.

My webs! How they hurt.

Pin Feathers Yanked

Hours before the parade started at 10 a.m., the man from Macy's yanked down my pin feathers, closed my jabbering bill and said: "Now, now, there's nothing to it."

Then he had the nerve to inform the Farmer in the Dell that his role was to chase the duck and pour salt on its tail!

The Farmer in the Dell didn't waste any time. He chased the duck right out of Macy's into a bus where a lion, a bear, a kigmy, Mickey Mouse and other assorted animals were already squashed in.

Heads Occupy Windows

Then the bus sped up Broadway with animal heads sticking out of every window. Finally, a whistle blew, the bands struck up and a microphone insultingly announced: "All right, the farmer and the chicken..."

A crew of tiny sidewalk voices who knew better shrilled: "Here comes Donald Duck!"

And Donald flew down the street with the Farmer in the Dell after him—and landed on his bill!

That was nothing, however, compared to what happened to the duck's tail. It fell off.

Feather Souvenirs Sought

The Farmer in the Dell triumphantly waved his salt shaker in the air while the sidewalk Liliputians screamed with delight and broke through the ropes after feather souvenirs.

The duck finally retrieved what was left and waddled on . . . and on . . . and on . . .

An hour later, the Farmer in the Dell was limping too. He muttered something about wishing he had brought along an adding machine to count the blocks that were left instead of his now-empty salt shaker.

The duck didn't have the strength to make the obvious quack.

Crewman Feared Drowned In Mississippi Ship Collision

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24. (INS) One crewman was lost and presumed drowned today when the small Mexican motorship Merida was cut in half and sunk in the Mississippi river in a collision with the 8,000-ton Fra Berlanga, of New York.

The Merida, which was carrying a cargo of wheat from New Orleans to Campeche, Mexico, disappeared into the murky waters of the Mississippi after the collision with the United Fruit company vessel.

Third Engineer Anastasio Puckdyoc, 45, of Campeche, was lost in the accident, but 13 other Merida crewmen either swam ashore after diving into the water or were fished out by those aboard the Fra Berlanga.

The New York vessel was heading for New Orleans when it ran into the Merida. It returned all 13 survivors to New Orleans.

Miguel Batalla Freyre, captain of the Mexican motorship, said the collision and the sinking "happened so fast, I don't know how."

Music Plays Vital New Role In Surgery, Hospital Wards

By ROBERT N. SCHWARTZ
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 — Music—no, not "Mule Train"—is being used by doctors as an aid in surgery and in treating patients suffering from mental illness, heart disease and a number of other ailments.

Doris Paul, of East Lansing, Mich., describes in the current issue of Hygeia, health magazine of the American Medical association, how the stuff that "soothes the savage beast" has won a place for itself in the operating room and the hospital ward.

But Miss Paul, a musician, warned that the music treatment—to be effective—must be handled by a trained therapist to prevent addition of another ill to the already ailing patient — that of galloping disc jockey-itis.

She said that Billings hospital of the University of Chicago, uses music in the waiting room to get patients in the mood for surgery. She wrote.

"The patient is asked whether he likes music and whether he would like to have it during the operation. If the answers are affirmative, he is asked to suggest particular compositions he would like."

Experience at Billings, she said, showed that only five out of every 177 patients were not music lovers and preferred to go through the ordeal with no help from spike Jones of Toscanini.

Patients who want music get it through earphones and go under anaesthetic to the lilting refrain of their favorite ditty.

Miss Paul cited as another institution where music is used the mental ward of the Veterans Administration hospital at Marion, Ind. She explained:

"Music is heard almost continuously in the pack room where treatment is administered to subdue violent patients. Music is loud to match their wild mood as they enter. They are quickly encased in wet sheets and wrapped.

"The volume of the music gradually is lowered as the yelling subsides, and finally the music is so soft that all in the room must be quiet to hear it."

In the VA hospital at Minneapolis, she declared, psychiatric patients undergoing shock or insulin treatment are given music therapy.

She added:

"Cardiac patients whose recovery depends on rest and relaxation are often invited to listen to soothing music—music with no changes in tempo or volume.

"In a Milwaukee hospital, a small girl suffering from arthritis that made breathing difficult had to be encouraged to increase her lung capacity. Instead of doing monotonous breathing exercises, she was allowed to blow to her heart's content on a harmonica."

EUROPEAN LEADERS URGE MOVE

High Council Urged To Direct Global Strategy Against Reds

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager

PARIS, Nov. 24. — Prominent European statesmen are advocating today the establishment in Washington of an Atlantic high council to direct the global political, economic and military strategy of the western world against Communism.

This move is being urged on the grounds that the western world is now virtually surrounded by Communist armies totalling nearly eight million men.

The proposal was put forward in the latest report of the international committee for the study of European questions, a body whose membership includes former French Premier Paul Reynaud and Lord Van Sittart, former British foreign office spokesman.

Report Issues Warning

The reports warn that "only a complete union of the democracies and their associates of the British Commonwealth within the framework of the Atlantic union, backed by the resources of their African empires, can constitute equally a block of 700 or 800 million people capable of checking the menace which is rapidly growing in the East."

Task of the proposed Atlantic high council would be to unify the political action of the western democracies.

It is further proposed that below the high council should be set up special military and economic councils to coordinate the defensive and economic planning activities of the western world.

The report points out that the Communist conquest of China means that the western world now faces a Soviet dominated bloc of 700 million people. The report adds:

Vast Force Cited

"Should the nations of South Africa be swept away by the Communist tide—which is not unlikely considering that we have very little to oppose to the pressure of 400 million Chinese with an army of two million men and hundreds of thousands of Soviet agents—it would be a mass of over 1,100 million Communists hostile to our (western) influence which we should then have to face.

"In front of such a force, an America of 140 million people and a France of 42 million or a Great Britain of 48 million inhabitants will be next to nothing.

"Russia is well aware of the danger and is keeping a sharp lookout. Already everywhere (in China) youth is well straddled by Soviet controlled movements and Chinese administration is organized according to the Russian Communist methods."

WOMAN ABSTAINS

Mrs. Marion Grimason, of Dungannon, County Tyrone, Eire, who had her 100th birthday recently has been married twice and is a total abstainer, although she conducts a public house.

Touring Denmark, Sir J. S. Watson, British adviser on agriculture, said that tea and sugar may be derationed at home soon, but "not until the dim, distant future," did he think meat and bacon could be freed.

Wisconsin Man Confesses Slaying Of Mother-In-Law

APPLETON, Wis., Nov. 24. (INS) —Robert Tracy, 29, confessed from a hospital bed today that he fatally stabbed his mother-in-law during an argument over his pending divorce.

Tracy was wounded in the left leg when he was captured on the farm of his victim, Mrs. Rose Hermsen, 62, only hours after her death was reported.

Sheriff Andrew J. Schiltz said Tracy would be charged with murder.

A posse of 50 men flushed Tracy from a haymow on the Hermsen farm two miles north of Kaukauma. He was shot when he stumbled climbing down from the haymow and an arresting officer thought he was reaching for a gun.

Tracy admitted to Sheriff Schiltz that he brought a 10-inch butcher knife with him from his home in Neenah.

He said he went to the farm to argue about a divorce suit which his wife, Evelyn, had recently filed. The papers had been served on him yesterday. He found Mrs. Hermsen alone with his son, Robert, jr., seven months.

Tracy told police he became involved in an argument during which Mrs. Hermsen ran out of the house and tore her dress on the door. She returned to change clothes, he said, and the argument resumed.

"Then I stabbed her," Tracy said. "I don't know why I stabbed her," he added, "but I did."

He said he dragged her body out of the house into the yard and hid it behind a box.

North Texas Jurist, Injured In Fall, On Way To Recovery

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 24. (AP) —Eighty-year-old federal Judge William H. Atwell may be released from a Wichita Falls hospital tomorrow. Dr. Irving Humphrey said today that Atwell's condition was good.

The Judge suffered abrasions and lacerations on both hands and minor abrasions on both knees when he fell in a hotel elevator here last night. Judge Atwell today agreed with witnesses that he had fainted just before he fell.

Dr. Humphrey said the judge would stay in the hospital at least until tomorrow.

Judge Atwell, senior jurist of North Texas has been on the North Texas bench since 1925. He opened the fall term of court here Monday and had planned to close it Saturday.

New Philippine Drive Launched

By FRANK EMERY
INS Staff Correspondent

MANILA, Nov. 24.—Philippine contabulary forces called off a temporary truce tonight and launched a determined drive to wipe out the biggest center of resistance in the scattered rebellion in the island republic.

A six-pronged attack aimed at crushing and surrounding dissident forces entrenched on Mount Pilt in Batangas province south of Manila was ordered by Gen. Albertos Ramos, commander of the government troops.

Order Ends Truce

His order automatically voided a cease-fire in effect throughout the day. The truce was ordered to permit negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the insurrection in which at least 27 government and unknown number of rebel casualties have been counted.

The hostilities were resumed after it became evident a two-man peace committee in Batangas City had been unable to contact dissident forces.

Precautions against an attack upon Manila itself by a band of 600 rebels observed moving on the city Tuesday by constabulary intelligence units were relaxed.

Curfew Ordered Lifted

Nothing new has been heard from the force reported approaching the city and Philippine President Elpido Quirino ordered Mayor Manuel De La Fuente to lift the unofficial curfew in the capital.

Quirino said the curfew, which had given Manila the apearance of a ghost town, was unnecessary.

Police, however, feared an acute housing and feeding problem would be created in the capital by an estimated 20,000 persons who sought refuge there in a mass exodus from the combat areas.

Fire Sweeps Church Of Holy Sepulchre

AMMAN, Nov. 24. (INS) — Fire destroyed today two-thirds of the centuries-old woodwork in the dome of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre at the legendary site of Christ's tomb in Jerusalem.

Dispatches from the Arab-held section of Jerusalem said the fire began accidentally last night when workmen were using oxy-acetylene blow torches to repair girders in the dome.

Several clergymen suffered burns in helping fire-fighters control the flames and save other parts of the church. Arab legionnaires aided and the fire was put out by 2 a.m.

King Abdullah of Jordan inspected the church in Jerusalem and returned to Amman today.

The last fire occurred in 1808 when the Greek Orthodox patriarch was carrying out reconstruction of certain sections of the church.

In Vatican city the newly-created Catholic patriarch of Jerusalem, Alberto Gori, was distressed by the news.

The bespectacled bearded Franciscan friar who has been custodian of the holy places for many years expressed hope that the damage "is very limited and may permit immediate repairs."

SURPLUS SHIFTING PLAN OFFERED

U. S. And Australia Turn Down Proposal For World Food Bank

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The United States and Australia rejected today a proposed world food bank which would establish a currency and food pool for shifting surpluses from "have" to "have not" nations.

Canada gave guarded approval to the general idea. France announced it was impartial. Great Britain said that any proposal to divert surpluses to end hunger should be considered, no matter how "unorthodox" it might be.

Annual Conference Held

The position of the various countries was expressed at the United Nations Food and Agriculture organization's annual conference.

Stanley Andrews, foreign relations director of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, told the UN group that a world food bank would cut across many other international and fiscal problems. He said the United States could not support the plan at this time.

The commodity clearing house —or world food bank—would require 20 per cent subscriptions from all FAO countries to make a one billion dollar fund.

Andrews said this would not solve food problems on a long-range basis. He added, however, that the proposal should be debated fully by the FAO and suggestions from every delegate studied by the working parties which will report on the final draft of the world plan.

U. S. Opposes Plan

In expressing direct opposition to the food bank, the U. S. official said:

"We do not believe accumulation of soft currencies for surpluses abroad is the way in which to tackle this problem. Some countries would find it difficult to put their currency in the pool to the credit of the United States. We must find an alternate approach."

The World food bank would pay the supplying nations for food in both hard and soft currencies from the clearing house pool.

Harold Wilson expressed the British view that any proposal to solve the problem of food distribution should be considered, no matter how "unorthodox."

Britain Voices Interest

The president of Britain's Board of trade said his country does not reject any plan which envisages the movement of supplies outside the normal channels of trade.

He expressed hope that if the bank plan is referred to a working group for an attack on the distribution problem on a "broader front," it may provide a "partial answer."

Canada's James G. Gardiner said his country is interested in any world cooperative move to make the best use of food supplies.

He endorsed the principle of the food bank but said he thought it unnecessary to have a world agency "actually buying and selling in commodity markets."

E. McCarthy, Australian secretary of commerce and agriculture, said the proposed bank does not "adequately meet the problem in that it would be limited to too few products."

France's Andre Mayer explained that because his country was neither a big exporter or importer, it was impartial on the issue.

Vishinsky Tires Of Western Ways

By PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Nov. 24. Andrei Yanuarevitch Vishinsky, chosen by the Politbureau early in 1949 to succeed Viacheslav Molotov as Soviet foreign minister, is wearied by what his ice-blue eyes regard as the land of dollar diplomacy and silly old ladies.

Premier Stalin's top travelling salesman abroad and his main social lion in the diplomatic world is nevertheless the one Kremlin representative outside its walls who can hardly wait to duck from sight again behind those grim turrets.

He dislikes being a goldfish on display in the western hemisphere, or playing hide-and-seek with autograph hounds and photographers.

Another Reason Given

At a recent dinner in New York he gave another reason for his haste to terminate his American stay by recounting the following incident:

"An elderly lady who came to the United Nations—and I knew it is impolite to call a lady elderly—asked me: 'Mr. Vishinsky, where are your horns?'

"Now I looked at her and replied politely: 'Madame, I left them at home so as not to occasion foolish remarks from elderly ladies.'"

Vishinsky comes out of the Kremlin and rubs shoulders with the non-Soviet world only for the annual meetings of the UN General Assembly or for special conferences which may be convoked by the major powers.

In the past his trips have been dogged by omnious developments. A few years ago, his presence in Bucharest brought consequences which changed the Romanian regime into a Moscow puppet government currently dancing to the tunes of Anna Paukker.

In 1949, he took the "cure" at Czechoslovakian spas. The dark events recorded in the blotting out of individual freedoms by the Prague Communist regime may have no direct relation to Vishinsky's visit, yet there are many delegates at the UN who looked askance at the white-haired and perfectly groomed traveller from Moscow and said: "I'd hate to have him pick on us for a visit. Like a mother-in-law who has a grudge against the son-in-law's religion and his habit of living well."

Vishinsky is 66, an age which makes him something of an exception when compared to Soviet youngsters of forty—like Andrei Gromyko—who provide the driving force of Stalin's political teams. But Vishinsky has a flair for the dramatic, in itself a precious asset in politics, and there are moments when one suspects that in his youth he secretly rehearsed Shakespeare before his mirror.

In UN sessions, particularly if the audience is large and the cameras are whirring in their glass-enclosed cages, Vishinsky knows how to make a grandstand play by manipulating hands and tongue. Thus, it is not infrequent that the right hand will pound the desk with a tom-tom effect while the left hand stabs away at an unseen opponent.

The favorite dark-blue suit, the white collar and white hair are in perfect contrast to the pink complexion, which suffuses to a beet-red as Vishinsky warms up to his subject and blasts away at the "war mongers" and "the Anglo-American blocs."

That is the official Vishinsky. There is another side. As a social lion from the Kremlin, he can be tops in charm and pleasantness.

In UN sessions he frequently picked on smiling little Carlos P. Romulo from the Philippines and called him disdainful names. When Romulo was elected to the presidency of the 1949 assembly, he found Vishinsky most accommodating and responsive to all invitations.

He even invited Romulo to dinner. This despite the fact that Romulo was designated by President Quirino of the Philippines to be a sort of Pacific Paul Revere, charged with the task of shaping the nations of southeast Asia together into a non-Communist front.

The velvet glove was in sight, also, on a morning at Lake Success when Warren R. Austin, chief of the American mission at the UN celebrated his seventy-second birthday.

The first early arrival other than Austin was Vishinsky and he marched straight up to his American adversary to express the heartiest best wishes of the day.

Half an hour later, he was castigating Austin and the other Americans as war-plotters.

Vishinsky turned on a different mood during the show put on in observance of the thirty-second anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution. He leaned back in his seat, gazed at the ceiling (in the starlight room of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York) and said to members of the American-Soviet friendship circle:

"The air here is very fresh. I feel like a weary and thirsty traveller who has come a long way and finds lodging and shelter."

A short time later he trotted out his own brand of humor by warning the audience that he was accustomed to wind-bagging. That was at 11:20 p.m. At 1:15 a.m. he was still going strong, pausing now and then to prod the curly-haired little fellow who is his personal interpreter.

"Don't mind him," Vishinsky said with a grin when the boy stumbled on knotty phrases at one point or another, "He is a little bashful."

Vishinsky, born in Odessa on the Black sea in 1883, is a product of the rough-and-tumble Russian revolutionary breed. The official record shows he first took part in south Russian revolutionary activity against the czar back in 1902, when he was a student at Kiev university.

England's Stage, Radio Comics Coin Gags On Economic Crisis

LONDON, Nov. 24 (U.P.)—All you have to do in Britain today to be a successful comic is tell a joke about the socialist government or the United States.

The British always have been ready to laugh at their leaders but no government in its history has been the butt of so many gags on the stage, the screen, and even the nationalized radio as this one.

In radio there is reportedly some mild censorship to ensure that jokes about cabinet members or party leaders are funny and not vicious. But the wraps are off in the music halls.

The United States is getting a slight roasting as the home of the elusive dollar, which all Britons agree is the cause of all their trouble.

"I'm glad to be here," cracked Charlie Chester, British comic, from the stage of the Palladium Theater where Danny Kaye and other American stars frequently appear. "Of course, I wrote a letter to the American consul asking permission."

Churchill-Attlee Joke

"If the streets were paved with gold, we'd need dollars to buy pickaxes."

Other gags that have titillated Britons these days of economic crisis include:

Radio comic (in mock commentator style)—"1940—the day when Britain stood alone—and oh how she could stand a loan today."

Straight man charging on stage with the ancient battle cry:

"St. George for England."

Comic—"Everything else for export."

Then there is the story about Churchill arising in a bus to give his seat to Mrs. Attlee, wife of the prime minister.

"Thank you," says Mrs. Attlee.

"Don't mention it," murmurs Churchill, "I hope your husband will do the same for me—very soon."

A west end comic drew a howl when he told his audience:

Food Shortage Gag

"I've just been listening to Churchill's speech. He'd never get away with it—if Attlee were alive."

Comic Ted Ray discusses with his radio wife a new electrical gadget to make morning tea automatically:

"I wish we had something to make it unnecessary to prepare eggs and bacon too," says his wife.

"We have," snaps Ted—"Strachey" (food minister).

From a current show:

"Where is the capital of Russia?"

"Moscow."

"And the capital of France?"

"Paris."

"And the capital of England?"

"In the United States."

Stroble Scheduled To Appear In Los Angeles Court Today

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24. (INS)—Fred Stroble, confessed sex slayer of Linda Joyce Glucoft, 6, appears in superior court tomorrow morning for his arraignment.

The public defender's office will be formally assigned to the case at that time and it was indicated that there would be a request for a continuance until next week in which to allow time for a plea.

Stroble has said that he would not oppose the state's demand for death in the gas chamber, but it was expected that the public defender would insist upon entering a dual plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity for him.

Stroble, 66-year-old retired baker, will be taken into court under special guard "for his own protection."

He received a jail Thanksgiving dinner of roast pork today, but ate it listlessly.

Lamesa Firm Among 45 Seeking To Export Under Marshall Plan

DALLAS, Nov. 24. (AP)—Forty-five small business firms in the Dallas region of the U.S. Department of commerce would like to ship their products overseas under the Marshall plan.

Ray L. Miller, regional director of the Dallas office, said today that 14 Dallas firms, 13 in Fort Worth, seven in San Angelo and two in Amarillo had registered their names and products for the exporters directory. It will be published by the Economic Cooperation administration.

Also on the list are firms in Henderson, Brownwood, Burleson, Denton, Eastland, Lamesa, Longview, Mineral Wells and Waco.

Registration closes Nov. 30, Miller said. The directory is open to small businessmen.

Four Persons Killed In Crash Of Private Airplane In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 24. (AP)—Four persons, including two U. S. workers with the Aftosa commission, were killed in a private plane crash in Oaxaca state yesterday.

The commission said the dead included:

Dennis R. McCarthy, 29, born in Minneapolis, Minn., but a resident of Mexico City, a commission paymaster;

Americo N. Olivarez, 26, Rio Grande City, Tex.

The plane's pilot and another passenger also were killed. Their names were not available, but they were reported to be Mxicans.

The plane was enroute from Pino Tepa to Putla, Oaxaca, southeastern Mexico. It was reported overdue, and a search plane located the wreckage. A commission ground rescue party reached the scene at noon, and found all dead.

The bodies will be flown here by commission plane.

Father Dies In Attempt To Save Children From Blaze

ELIZABETH, N. J. Nov. 24 (AP)—A father died trying to aid his eight children and nine persons were injured in an early Thanksgiving morning fire.

Five families were led to safety or fled into the near-freezing weather clad in nightclothes as flames swept two frame dwellings.

Five firemen were treated for smoke poisoning.

The dead man was identified as Walter Wozniak, 55. He was found in one of his children's bedroom on the first floor.

His wife, Hedwig, 49, was critically burned. Five of Wozniak's children were injured as the rest of the family fled.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE MADE

Impressive Record Is Built By Hale County's Co-Op Hospital

HALE CENTER, Nov. 24 (Spl.)—Since Hale County Co-Operative hospital opened its doors to the public here in 1947, a total of 176 babies have been born, and of the 176, a ratio of two boys to one girl has been mantained steadily, Miss Isabel McCoy, superintendent of nurses, said this week. "If you want a boy baby, this hospital offers two-to-one odds on that," she commented.

The co-operative hospital, in operation a little more than two years, has already been worth more than half a million dollars to this community, L. R. Bailey, manager, figures. He estimates at least that much money has been saved the people of this area by having a modern equipped and well-staffed institution available in central Hale county. Added to that saving in money as well as health and time, the hospital has provided a payroll of several thousand dollars monthly, he adds.

Hospital Hits Hardships

Although the hospital has faced several hardships, and has rammed headon into a few problems which seemed almost beyond solution on some occasions, the faith and courage and sound principles upon which the institution has been built has given this co-operative effort an anchor to weather its storms.

"The greatest difficulty we have had ever since we opened was lack of capital," Bailey pointed out. "The hospital has had to carry itself through some critical, nonprofitable times and has had to prepare for growth and expansion all along, despite slim revenues."

The hospital is a non-profit institution and for that reason, all charges must be at a minimum to allow the membership the greatest savings. Its popularity since its opening day, and its continued increase in patronage has led the men who have served on its board of directors to plan constantly for enlarging and expansion.

Staff Expansion Planned

Right now, Bailey declared, a third physician will be added to the staff as soon as possible. The board of directors has already made plans to increase its medical service in this manner, and plans were completed last week to employ another doctor.

Making possible additional doctors has come about through the opening of a new clinic building, transformed from an Army medical building moved here a year ago. The clinic was remodeled and put into operation early this spring.

Growth of the hospital's service to this area is seen in comparison of the first year's activities with the second year's.

During the first year, the clinic provided care for more than 10,000 people and admitted more than 600 into the hospital as patients. During its two years of service, the hospital has served more than 30,000 people in its clinic and has served 1,500 in the hospital as bed patients.

Simple Arithmetic Used

During this period, the hospital has taken in about $215,000, which, in simple arithmetic, means it has served its hospital patients at an average cost of $67 for both members and non-members.

Members of the hospital pay a $100 fee for joining, then pay annual medical dues which allow member families the services of a doctor, for consultation treatment or surgery. Non-members must pay for the doctor's services. Facilities in the hospital are figured at a reduced rate for members, also, whose membership fee provided the capital for constructing the $150,000 plant.

Still to be put in to use is a large Army medical building moved here at the time the new clinic addition was brought here. This second, and larger, building when completed will provide another 16 rooms for patients. The present hospital has 20 beds, besides business offices, kitchen, dining room, X-ray room, two operating rooms, doctor's treatment rooms, laboratory, pharmacy, delivery room, nursery, storage rooms and other departments.

National Attention Aroused

The hospital was started in September of 1945 as a result of continuous attempts some dating from seven years previous to build it here. Under the careful leadership of a five-man board of directors, elected from the membership and representing the four commissioners' precincts in Hale county, plus one man from the county-at-large, the hospital has attracted national attention to its program and preventative care and prepayment of medical charges, organized on a community basis and developed without government subsidy.

J. L. Monroe, jr., deserves much credit for the early success of the hospital, serving as its first manager. More than three-dozen other Hale Center and Hale county men worked diligently in the organization period, selling memberships in the plan in advance of construction of the plant.

Board Members Listed

The present board of directors is composed of: Raymond Akin, Edmonson, president, from Hale county Precinct 4; Arno Struve, Abernathy, from the county-at-large; J. E. Rigler, Prairieview, from Precinct 1: Clark McKnight, Cotton Center, from Precinct 3; C. H. Thomas, Petersburg, from Precinct 2.

Aiding the board are these appointive officers: R. A. Jefferies, treasurer; and P. L. Pollard, secretary to the board. Both are Hale Center men. Pollard is mayor and operates a tailor firm and Jefferies is executive vice-president of First National bank. The board members are all farmers except Struve, who is a merchant and farmer.

The staff is composed of: Dr. W. W. Agnew, medical director; W. H. Stapp, M. D.; Bailey, manager; Miss Isabel McCoy, superintendent of nurses; C. K. Gardner, chief of the laboratory; Mrs. Minnie K. Berryman, X-ray technician; Adolph Geyer, pharmacist; Mrs. Mabel Hale, R. N., clinic nurse; Miss Florence Skweres, R. N.; Miss Margaret Pliss, R. N.; Miss Evelyn Green, R. N.; Mrs. Evelyn McGuire, Mrs. Flora Ogle, Mrs. Martha Martin, Mrs. Lee Ball, Miss Helen Fulfer, Mrs. R. R. Fulfer, nurses aides; Mrs. Tommye Jo Meister, bookkeeper; H. L. Boyett, custodian, and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Gulley, in charge of the kitchen.

The hospital at Hale Center has been the pattern for many others on the South Plains, and is frequently visited by delegations from neighboring counties for a study of its organization, its properties and facilities. Numerous farm magazines of the Southwest have devoted considerable publicity, with photographs and text, concerning the co-operative undertaking.

Annual Courtesy Call Is Neglected

Writer Fears He's Wronged Truman--Socially Speaking

By ARTHUR EDSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—If President Truman has been wearing a hurt look lately, I'm afraid I know who's to blame.

I'm afraid it's little old thoughtless me. And I didn't even realize I was doing Mr. Truman wrong until today when I read the "Social List of Washington, D. C., 1950."

Under the heading "Social precedence and correct social forms" I ran smack into this:

"A courtesy call should be made upon the President and his family once a year. This is a mark of respect and should not be neglected."

I regret to say that it never occurred to me that I should drop by Mr. T's place for a courtesy call. I didn't know he cared. Worse, I even laughed when my eight-year-old, Evelyn, once calmly suggested that we ask the Truman's to join us on a weinie roast. How could I have known that she had been reading the "social list."

But it's no wonder Mr. Truman has been so cool.

At the last news conference I attended, for example, I filed in with 200 others, and though I was only five rows back and Mr. Truman certainly could have spoken to me if he wanted to, he didn't want to.

Nor did he wave when he rode by with the Shah of Iran, although I was standing in a conspicuous place. At the time I thought perhaps he didn't want the 199,999 others to feel they had been slighted. Now I realize that it was I who was slighted—because I had cut him to the quick.

It turns out that my social ignorance is pretty complete.

For some reason it never had entered my head what I would do if several governors showed up for a Thanksgiving Day dinner. Yet the answer is simple, says the social guide. Seat them in the order in which their states were admitted to the union.

A woman may be a standout and get herself elected to Congress. But socially, she will have to run second to a woman whose husband is elected to the Senate.

Three Suspects In Oklahoma Slaying Sought By Officials

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 24. (U.P.)—Three men suspected as the slayers of Robert L. Campbell, 21, Chicago, were sought today near Coalgate in southeastern Oklahoma.

A 25-year-old woman, held in jail at Poteau, Okla., told officers she saw the three men hit Campbell on the head after failing in an attempt to knock him out with morphine and rob him.

The search was concentrated in the Coalgate area after she reported that Campbell's clothes and a carbine were hidden in nearby Dead Man's cave.

Campbell's body was found propped againet a tree near Hugo, Okla., last Sept. 13, just 10 days after he left Chicago by automobile to visit his parents at Speer, Okla.

His car was found abandoned at Dallas several days later.

Serious damage to pine forests has resulted from drought in the Bordeaux region of France and Naval stores production is expected to be affected for years to come.

Curiosity Of Politicians Aroused By Loyalty Of Dewey Supporters

By ROBERT M. MONAHAN
United Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 24.— The reluctance of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's "bright young men" to leave his official family has become one of the most engrossing topics in New York politics.

It means many things to many people.

When Dewey was defeated for the presidency in 1948, political observers were unanimous in predicting dissolution of the "team" that helped make him a national figure.

But a year has passed and, except for resignations because of age or pressing personal reasons, the team is still intact. Whether it is looking forward to 1950 or 1952 is a closely-guarded secret in the governor's cabinet.

Observers Uncertain

Whether he will seek another term as New York's chief executive a year hence is a question that has split watchers for political portents. Some people close to Dewey believe he will run again, still nursing a secret hope for a third Republican presidential nomination in 1952.

Another group believes he is ready to quit politics at the end of his present term and enter private law practice in New York City. Both groups agree that he could make a fortune at law in a few years.

The puzzler is why, if Dewey is through politically, are so many high-caliber men and women continuing to cast their lot with the governor in victory or defeat. Some of his top-noteh officials could triple their state salaries in private industry.

Maybe It's Loyalty

One answer may be simple loyalty, a quality notable in Dewey aides since he started his public career some 15 years ago. Another may be that state salaries, however inadequate, are more depression-proof than those of private industry.

Only one key figure of the governor's administration has resigned. He is Alger B. Chapman, former state tax commission president, who quit to enter private law practice.

But Chapman, who managed Dewey's state campaign for governor in 1948 and for president last year, is remaining close at hand in an advisory capacity. He is mentioned as a 1950 gubernatorial candidate if Dewey steps out.

Those Who Remain

Among other Dewey aides who were expected to quit and didn't are:

Paul Lockwood, 47, his secretary, who has been with the governor since 1935.

Charles D. Breitel, 40, head of Dewey's legal staff, with a record of service dating back to racket-busting days.

Elliott V. Bell, 47, state banking superintendent, who became economic consultant to the governor in 1939.

John E. Burton, 41, state budget director since 1943.

James C. Hagerty, 40, Dewey's press relations secretary since 1943.

All reportedly have been offered better jobs in private industry. But all have chosen to stay with Dewey. The final answer may not come until the Republicans nominate a gubernatorial candidate next year.

Baptist Denomination Leads On Rolls Of Tech Students

Baptist students far outnumber all other student religious groups at Texas Technological college, Registrar W. P. Clement reports.

Clement said 2,053 Tech students signed church preference cards indicating their affiliation with a Baptist church. Methodist students number 1,643, followed by 479 members of the Church of Christ. The Presbyterian delegation is fourth largest, with 415 members.

The cards were signed by 5,930 students. Twenty-three different church organizations had at least one member among the Tech student population, the survey showed. The other denominations include Apostolic, Buddhist, Congregational, Czech-Brethren, Hebrew, Moslem, Pentecostal and Unitarian.

It was pointed out that while only 50 per cent of America's total population has some church affiliation, 91 per cent of the Tech students have a church background. Five hundred and seven students indicated no church preference.

Pioneer Realism To Flourish At Annual Christmas Festivity

ANSON, Nov. 24. (Spl.)— The annual Cowboy's Christmas ball will be staged here at Pioneer hall Dec. 21-24.

An effort will be made for a completely costumed affair in the fashions of the 1880's and 1890's. All participants on Wednesday and Friday nights are to be dressed in the pioneer fashions of that period and it is desired that participants in the dance will appear in costume on other nights.

Full Skirts Desired

Women and girls are asked to wear, full, long skirts, polonaise, over-skirts, basks, ruffles, hoop skirts or other fashions of the time. Men may wear traditional cowboy grab, but attention is also called to the original ball, when men "dressed-up" in suits and high collars.

The ball is commemorative of the social life of a West Texas village of 1885.

It was in that year that William Lawrence Chittenden, author of "The Cowboy's Christmas Ball," visited in Anson on business of an uncle. While staying in the Star hotel here, he sat in the lobby, watching as the cowboys and ladies square danced in an adjoining room in honor of a very popular cowboy and his bride.

Later, while a correspondent for the New York Times, he wrote his cowboy ballad.

The folk dances used at the original ball will be used again in the affair this year. Used will be the schottishe, heel-and-toe polka, the old waltz, the Virginia Reel and square dances. Several European folk dances, from which the early cowboys learned these steps, will also be on the program this year.

Sets will have their callers with them on the floor, according to tradition.

Soviet Agency's Fine Suspended

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—The Soviet trading agency AMTORG, its officials properly registered as foreign agents, is back in the good legal graces of the United States government today.

The agency was handed a suspended $10,000 fine in federal court here yesterday on charges that its six top officers had failed to go on record with the Justice department as agents of a foreign government.

U.S. District Attorney George Morris Fay said the State department had recommended dismissal of the indictment against the AMTORG officials themselves, on grounds that such action would serve the best interests of this country in the conduct of its foreign affairs.

The six officials are all Russians.

Target Of Congress

The Justice department, Fay told Judge Alexander Holtzoff, agreed with the State department position.

The individual defendants thus disposed of, Fay asked the judge to accept a plea of nolo contendere by AMTORG. This, in essence, is neither an admission or denial of guilt and means the defendant does not wish to contest.

Judge Holtzoff then imposed the $10,000 suspended fine.

Some members of Congress long have complained that AMTORG acts as a Russian espionage organization.

The Amtorg case was settled on the same day that a Chinese Communist court in Mukden convicted and ordered deported U. S. Consul Angus Ward and four members of his staff, who had been jailed by the Reds.

Attorney Enters Plea

Defense Attorney Martin Popper, on behalf of Amtorg and the six individuals, entered the nolo contendere plea after hearing Fay's statement.

Fay, in his statement, pointed out that Amtorg and the defendants had registered with the Justice department in compliance with the foreign agents registeration law a few days after filing of the two-court indictment.

Popper told the court that Amtorg has maintained "a 25 year record of achievement in benefitting our country in peace and war."

He said that the official Russian purchasing agency in the U. S. maintained "the highest standards of financial responsibility" and has increased employment in the U. S.

Delayed Effects Of Steel Strike To Hit Auto Manufacturers

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

DETROIT, Nov. 24. — Delayed effects of the steel strike will hit the nation's automobile industry hard next week.

With but few exceptions the factories closing tonight for the Thanksgiving Day holiday will remain idle until perhaps Dec. 12 or later.

Ford, Hudson and Studebaker and a few branch assembly plants of other companies around the country will furnish all the motor vehicle output next week. Even Ford will cut down to four days' operation and Studebaker has announced it will close on Nov. 30.

Jobless Boost Seen

Thus weekly production will tumble sharply to probably not more than 50,000 vehicles. And the plant closings added to those already down bring temporary idleness to an estimated quarter million automotive workers.

In several instances unemployment will be relieved by the continuance of parts fabricating work in many plants. A number of car makers about to swing over to new model production also have kept a substantial number of their employes at work on plant rearrangement, inventory, parts, service and sales operations.

Excepting for Pontiac, all the General Motors shutdowns coincide with the completion of 1949 model production. Pontiac swung over to 1950 model output two weeks ago and carried on until it exhausted its steel stocks.

Plymouth To Close

The same is true also of the various Chrysler divisions, of which all but Plymouth already have closed down for new model operations. Plymouth, benefitting by the diversion of steel from the other divisions, has continued a fairly high output rate. It will close its assembly lines after Friday of this week.

Already closed also are Ford's Lincoln division, the Nash plants at Kenosha and Milwaukee and Willys-Overland at Toledo. Packard attributes its shutdown next week to a suspension of operations by Briggs Manufacturing Co., its body supplier.

Kaiser-Frazer, which has been closed down since Oct. 24, has given no indication when its assembly lines will reopen. However, the management has said the shutdown was not due to steel shortages but rather to the necessity for reducing factory inventories of finished vehicles.

New Mexico District Court Faces Heavy Fall Term Docket

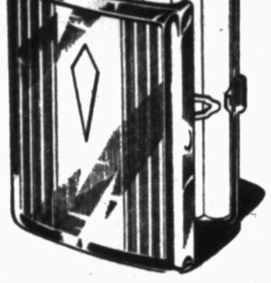

LAS CRUCES, N. M., Nov. 24. (INS)—One of the most extensive dockets in history will face the jury venire now being called for the fall term of district court in Dona Ana county.

Court officials said about 120 criminal cases, including 57 grand jury indictments, are scheduled for the coming court term.

District Attorney Tom Campbell said today he did not know what judge would be designated to hear the grand jury cases, since District judge W. T. Scoggin, jr., had disq[illegible] himself earlier in the

IN ALL THINGS:

'First Needs First'

THE urgent need for large extensions of the State's farm-market highway system is recognized by most informed Texans. They approve the efforts of such organizations as the Farm Bureau federation to improve this condition.

But many Texans will want to think carefully before deciding their attitude toward a program discussed in the federation's State convention in Dallas this week. This proposed additional taxes on natural resources to build roads from individual farms to highways.

The program discussed by the federation unquestionably has merit. The benefit of the best farm-market road to a farmer is restricted if he has to drive a considerable distance along a muddy lane from his gate in order to reach it. Many Texas farmers cannot get to pavement now with their products during bad weather. The ideal condition will not be attained unless and until all-weather roads provide access to every farm.

Farmers themselves are too practical to expect that this ideal can be possible of realization for a long time. It would require road construction on a huge scale and the cost would be enormous.

Most of them doubtless take the sensible view that the development of the farm-market program requires the construction of the key roads first—and relatively few of these have been built. After that properly will come provisions for the feeder roads, with first priority going to those which will serve the most farms. It is doubtful whether any system of such scope will be approved as to provide, at tax expense, roads which, to all practical purposes, would be privately used. Farmers are few who would expect anything like that.

But a great many farm roads are needed and should be provided as soon as practical. Texas has far to go before it can boast that most of its farmers are "out of the mud." But more progress toward correcting that condition probably will be made quicker by vigorous support of a road policy of "first needs first." The time to begin vigorous campaigning for an elaborate feeder road system is after the key highways are built.

A Lively Corpse

THE New Deal Democrats still like to pretend that they regard such rebellious political movements as the State's Rights Democrats of 1948 as something dead and buried in the past.

Further proof that they are kidding neither themselves, nor anyone else was supplied by the blast at administration extravagance as fired by James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, in addressing the Southern Governors' conference in Biloxi, Miss., this week.

Mr. Byrnes unquestionably hit where it hurt the Washington spenders and wasters by his stress upon this astonishing but unchallengable fact: That federal tax collections of more than 159 billion dollars during the past four years have exceeded even those during the 12 previous years, including the war years, of the wasteful Franklin Roosevelt administration. The enormity of the collections is emphasized further by the fact that Mr. Roosevelt spent with a prodigality never approached during the nation's previous history.

This blisteringly came from a former U. S. Senator, Supreme Court Justice and Secretary of State, and, most significant of all, from one of the ablest and most loyal of all former New Deal apostles.

The significance of Mr. Byrnes' charges are many and profound. But two of the important implications undoubtedly are these: First—It denotes additional and very formidable opposition to the tax increases President Truman is demanding next year; and second—something comparable to, but much more powerful, that the State's Right rebellion of 1948 still is very much a possibility [illegible].

All though they were left off the ballots in more than 40 states last year, the States' candidates polled 1,169,000 popular and 38 electoral votes. With a few men of the stature of Mr. Byrnes, one of the abler public men of his generation, added to the ranks, such a movement could be far more formidable three years hence. If it could not elect its own President, it might hold the balance of power which would determine the next occupant of the White House.

The possibility already has some of the New Deal leadership squirming. Mr. Byrnes' blast may have turned their behind-the-scenes gyrations into something akin to St. Vitus dance.

That Man Again

The Cameo

By VIRGINIA TEALE
Distributed By NEA, Inc.

(THE STORY: Hagar Blair, seeking to buy a valuable cameo which Martin Falter, an artist, claimed to own, set out to make a deal when she finds the cameo's box in her car, open and empty. She examines the box and finds under the lining a series of figures, 10-4, 8-2, and 6, engraved in the box. She goes on to Falter's place and finds his dead—murdered in his bed. She steels herself against the sight and starts searching for the cameo. She does not find it, but there is a compartment under the pillow.)

Hagar blew out a breath of relief. Waddling forward, she eased the end of the box onto her knees and, still awkwardly supporting the bolster, she managed to raise the lid of the box just a crack. She caught a glimpse of what looked like several bundles of letters, each one tied with a string and bearing a label such as those usually attached to transient luggage.

XI

As she squatted there, she was galvanized by a staccato of footsteps on the front steps and porch. She heard a muffled pounding on the door.

"Mr. Falter! Mr. Falter!"

Hagar bounded across the bedroom, shut the door behind her and sped to the front door before Stephanie had time to call again.

"Shut up, Stephanie!" she whispered fiercely, yanking the door open.

Stephanie stepped back in astonishment. "Hagar! What's the matter? Where's Mr. Falter?"

Hagar pulled her inside and closed the door.

"Dead!" Hagar exclaimed grimly. "Deader'n a doornail."

Stephanie drew back, trembling, her face marble white. "Dead?" she whispered. was he murdered?"

Hagar noted with a kind of perverse satisfaction that the girl's teeth were chattering. Now, she thought, now somebody else could feel scared for a change!

"Looks like he was stabbed."

Stephanie didn't move. "Is there—is there a knife?"

"Knife?" Hagar looked dashed. "To tell the truth, I didn't think to look for one. Come in with me and we'll see."

Stephanie was swallowing spasmodically, "Oh, no! No, I couldn't! I don't want to see him!"

Hagar shrugged her shoulders. "Then you keep watch out here."

HAGAR approached Martin Falter's bed. In stories, she thought, there usually was a dagger projecting from the corpse. Here, there was nothing, no weapon at all. She got down on all fours and peered under the bed. No knife. But there was a crumpled piece of something. A small square of distinctive tapestry. She meditated a moment and then stuffed the material in her pocket.

"Not a sign of a weapon," Hagar declared when she returned. "Murderer must've taken it away with him. Let's get out of here before somebody comes along and catches us hobnobbing with the corpus de licti. Hope you didn't touch anything in here?"

Stephanie extended her hands, "I have my gloves on."

As they closed the front door behind them, Hagar suddenly paused: "Stephanie! How did you get up here to Falter's?"

"In a cab—oh!"

Hagar clasped her hands prayerfully and rolled her eyes skyward: "In a cab, she says! Now I'll have to think up a good reason why I was there when you walked in!"

GUIDING her car up Rodin Avenue toward her house, Hagar wondered whether to tell Stephanie about finding the empty silver box.

She compromised. "Who d'you think's got the cameo?" she asked as she swung the car into the driveway.

"I wish I knew. Whoever has it has no right to it."

Hagar switched off the engine and jangled her keys, selecting the one for the house.

"House is cold," Hagar commented, rubbing her hands. Her glance came to rest on the glass door leading to the side patio. Immediately, she strode toward it:

"No wonder it was cold in here, the patio door's open." She closed and latched it.

Stephanie had come in and was bending before the gas heater, holding a lighted match:

"That's probably my fault. I went out this morning to pick a few geraniums. Maybe I didn't lock it when I came in."

Stephanie tilted a pale, troubled face: "You're not—aren't you going to go to the police?"

"And have that bunch of retarded monkeys clumping around here all night? I should say not! We both need food and rest before we start fending with Chief Peters."

She went to her room and drew the window shades against the night, and, as she did so, she glanced fondly at the glass-fronted cameo cabinet which stood between the bed and the windows.

Now here, she thought, was something worth looking at—this carefully arranged group of lovely miniature sculptures: The one in the middle, top row, she had talked away from Reverand Charles King's collection, using warm words and cold cash. The small one next to it, with the profile of the ugly Roman emperor, she had gotten after a long tug-of-war with the Chicago Museum. And there on the third shelf was an interesting piece.

At this point, Hagar's familiar little parade of thoughts came to an abrupt halt! She stared un-

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

IF you had an election in your section of the country last eighth of November, you made a mistake no matter for whom you voted.

BRANDEIS

Your choice for Senator, if you had to vote for one, was ridiculous. He made a "deal with the dark forces" to get in.

If you elected a dog catcher—shame on you that you voted for a man who is a reactionary and by whom no decent dog would let himself get caught!

How do I know?

Because our political campaigns, ever since the first one, have been thus.

Two men will run against each other.

They have been friends. They have played bridge together, perhaps gone to college together, sung in the same barber shop quartet

Their wives have been just "like that"; they both owe the same grocer approximately the same amount of money. They have called each other honey and dear.

Then comes the campaign.

Unfortunately one of the two friends is a Republican—for no other reason than that his grandpappy was one.

The other is a Democrat because his great-grandfather was hung for horse stealing in a Republican administration.

Neither of the two candidates really knows what is a Republican and what is a Democrat.

So they start the same old bologna that has been sliced and resliced for more than a century.

The Republican accuses the Democrat of being, if not entirely Red, at least a parlor Pink. He shouts that the Democrats are leading this country to perdition, that if they get in once more, America will be no longer a Republic but a totalitarian State He intimates that the dog-catcher-candidate was really an intimate friend of Hitler and is still a Nazi at heart.

The Democratic candidate, on the other hand, cries "Vested Interests"; "Capitalistic Monopolists"; "Enslaving Labor" and a lot of other balderdash.

THEN the election is over. One of the two gets in. He has promised us Utopia.

What happens?

Nothing.

We keep right on working or striking as we did before. We keep on paying taxes. Those mud holes in the streets are just as bad as ever (Mudholes don't seem to have any party affiliations.)

In other words, everything re-

Roosevelts Make Bid

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON: The late Franklin D. Roosevelt never envisaged two of his sons running simultaneously for the governorship of two great states which have frequently served as training camps for presidential nominees of the two major parties—New York and California. James is an avowed candidate for governor of the Golden State and Franklin jr., is being discussed as an opponent of Governor Dewey as chief of the Empire State.

F. D. R. always looked upon his eldest son, James as the logical member of the family to carry on the Roosevelt tradition in American politics, although he undoubtedly had his namesake in mind if his eldest-born could not make the steep grade.

TUCKER

"Little Jimmie," as his father used to call him, was old enough to participate in White House conferences on important matters, thus building an invaluable background for a public career.

Always at his father's elbow in the early New Deal years, he kept his ears and eyes open for tips and tidbits that he stored away in an alert mind.

APTITUDE: In Massachusetts, New York and finally in California, James showed an aptitude for the mechanics of politics, and got along well with the hardboiled practitioners except when he moved in on their insurance and business deals now and then. But his father soon yanked him out of that competitive field, although the son built a sizable fortune meanwhile.

As evidence of his natural and hereditary ability for the game, there is the fact that he has been California's Democratic National Committeeman for several years after only eleven years' residence in the "native son" state.

During this period young Franklin was a college student, and, naturally, his interests did not yet run to problems of the state or party. In fact, again quite naturally, he was an ebullient, full-blooded youngster, a typical Roosevelt, and it never seemed that he would settle down to the grinding chores and tasks of making good in a bruising game.

"DYNASTY": F.D.R. was also shrewd enough to realize that the presence of two Roosevelts—three, if Eleanor Roosevelt is included—on the political stage at the same time would constitute such a "family act" that it would weaken the chances of each of them.

Had the "old man," as the youngsters affectionately called him, been masterminding the family team, he would probably have counselled F. D. R. jr., to defer his ambitions for a term at Albany or the Senate until "little Jimmie" had enjoyed the fling to which his age and maturity entitled him.

Politics and politicians being what they are, there is no doubt that a twin assault on Albany and Sacramento in the same year will re-echo with Republican attacks on the "Roosevelt dynasty."

The late Alfred E. Smith used that issue effectively when Theodore Roosevelt jr. ran against him for the New York Governorship in 1924, although the situation with respect to the Oyster Bay and Hyde Park branches of the family were not comparable to the James-Franklin duet.

MALNUTRITION: If President Truman favors George Luckey, weathy oilman and a Truman enthusiast, in a Roosevelt vs. Luckey primary in California, politicians here point out that the President missed a chance to give his friend an assist in a battle with "little Jimmie." (Luckey has indicated he will not seek the office.)

Mr. Truman is supposed to prefer Mr. Luckey because the latter was his campaign manager in Southern California last fall, and contributed effectively to the President's narrow majority in that state.

Mr. Roosevelt, on the other hand, favored the nomination of General "Ike" Eisenhower when, prior to the Philadelphia convention last year, it appeared that the Missourian had no chance of winning the election.

Moreover, Mr. Truman is reported to be slightly sour on the Roosevelt family generally. He figures that, when he was V. P. he was a victim of political malnutrition.

OUT: Mr. Truman, according to the theory now advanced, might have been able to remove James from the race by bringing him to Washington as a member of the official family. The specific post mentioned is Secretary of the Navy under the new defense setup.

There had been some talk ealier this year that the place might be given to son James. Besides the sentimental consideration that it was a Navy assignment which gave F.D.R. his start in national politics, the appointment would have appealed to the so-called Roosevelt-Humphrey-Berle faction of A. D. A.-ers. It would also have taken Mr. Roosevelt out of the race if he had accepted.

But the President gave the job to an old friend, Francis P. Matthews, presumably to appease Catholics because he did not name a member of that faith as the late Frank Murphy's successor on the Supreme Court.

In view of the Denfeld-Johnson row, it is probably just as well for the California Roosevelt that the White House made no attempt to sidetrack him by this maneuver.

Annette Kellerman (famed bathing beauty of a generation and a half ago) says she wonders what kind of swim suits bathing beauties will wear in 1952. Judging by the trend of the past several years, it seems in order to assume they will wear the irreducible minimum less 40 per cent.

"A Harvard professor says man is reverting to the ape." The professor is probably sticking around college too closely."

Simile: As dizzy as an intoxicated waltzing mouse on a merry-go-round.

A New Yorker who returned to the owner $10,000 he found was given a reward of $10. Honesty always pays, but rarely at high monetary rates.

Down Memory Lane

(Taken from the files of The Lubbock Morning Avalanche, Nov. 25, 1929.)

At Tahoka, those interested in the study of the drama met recently with Mrs. J. T. Tunnell for the purpose of organizing a dramatic club.

The following officers were elected: Mary Henton, president; Juanelle Windham, vice president; Fern Aycock, secretary; Mable Lee, treasurer.

Members of the Sans Souci club were guests for a turkey luncheon Saturday at one o'clock in the home of Miss Blanche Bradley, 1619 Broadway.

Autumn leaves were used in decorating the entertaining rooms, and the Thanksgiving motif was favored in tallies and score pads for the bridge games, which followed the luncheon.

Guests were Misses Geraldine Smith, Lucille Moxley, Mary Snyder, Kate Boyd, Ann Snyder, Virginia Conley, Alma Spikes, Lena Bert Medlin, Donna Vaughn, Helen Womack, Juanita Wiles, Zona Stiles, Faye George, Clay McCasky, Christine Carter, Dorothy Oxsheer, Alma Ralls, Catherine Jameson, Mary Lee Bardwell, Mary Ann Thompson, Wanda Struve, Dorothy Rushing, and R. Believe It Or Not -

FOR 1952 PARTY NOMINATION

Battle Seen Among GOP Leaders

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — A battle is brewing within the Republican party between what might be called the professionals and the non-professionals over the 1952 Persidential nomination, though this is not a hard-and-fast division since some of each will be found in the other category.

STOKES

It comes about because of the boom for General Dwight D. Eisenhower that has developed since the New York Senatorial election where Republicans suffered another defeat of national signficance, itself the most dramatic episode in the off-year elections that revealed elsewhere a general Democratic trend.

Not Professional In Game

The general, president of Columbia University, is distinctly not a professional in politics, as he himself explained so carefully in his moving statement of last year reading himself out of the race for a 1948 Presidential nomination.

The boom for the general represents the search for a pleasing and colorful personality, a beloved, respected and popular war hero as well, behind whom the party could unite and thus submerge the conflict among various factions over issues and party policy which they have found it difficult to resolve.

BUT CERTAIN professional aspirants for the nomination in the party are not prepared, at least there's no sign of it yet, to let the nomination go by default to the general—if he wants it, which has not been determined yet, either. Much to the contrary. At least two familiar figures who have shown considerable strength in previous contests for the nomination—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Harold Stassen, now president of the University of Pennsylvania—are both eager for the 1952 nomination and their hats are as good as in the ring already. There are other prospective hopefuls, too, as usual, among the professionals.

To be considered again, Senator Taft must be re-elected to the Senate next year from Ohio. He is already at this, a year in advance and has been about it, in almost a door-to-door canvass of his state which will continue right on up to the election a year from now. The Senator looks upon 1952 as his year and so, incidentally, do lots of others who are powerful in the Republican party.

Where the 1944 and 1948 Republican standard-bearer, Governor Thomas E. Dewey, will stand in all of this is not yet clear. While the recent defeat in New York of John Foster Dulles by former Governor Dewey who backed the Republican Senatorial candidate in a vigorous personal campaign, the Governor might regain prestige if he, himself, runs again for Governor and is re-elected. This would give him considerable influence in control of the numerous New York delegation at the 1952 convention.

Dewey Out In Next Race

It seems generally agreed now that the party would not nominate him for the third time, and that the Dulles defeat clinched that beyond all doubt. But he might well use his influence for General Eisenhower, as has been rumored, especially if it became apparent that the general's nomination was the only way for the eastern internationalist wing of the party, with which both he and the general are identified, to defeat the midwestern wing, which is less internationally-minded, and of which Senator Taft is the leader. This conflict, itself, must enter any calculations about 1952.

The Eisenhower boom offers an interesting reversal of position among the parties. In 1948 Republicans weren't interested in the general. They thought President Truman's defeat was certain, and the contest for the nomination was kept among the professionals. It was a warm one, since the White House seemed the sure prize. They saw no reason to go outside their ranks since they were not then looking for a deliverer.

IT WAS Democrats who thought they needed a deliverer last year. So you found New Dealers and labor clutching at the general's coattails to rescue them, first from Harry Truman, second from the Republicans. The general would not yield to their blandishments, and Mr. Truman won the day. It was, in a sense, a victory for the professionals within the Democratic party.

They are usually hard to beat in either party. General Eisenhower very likely will discover that and learn that he cannot expect the nomination on a silver platter, but must go out and work for it if he wants it which may, in the end, determine his ultimate decision as to his candidacy.

MIDDLE CLASS IS HARD HIT

Austria Begins To Show Glitter, And Gaiety Of Pre-Hitler Days

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the fifth article of a series depicting the life and problems of middle class families in Western Europe, Seymour Berkson, general manager of International News Service, herewith tells of his visit with an Austrian family in Vienna. Berkson has just completed a tour through Western Europe during which he visited and interviewed typical middle class families in England, France, Germany, and Italy as well as Austria.)

By SEYMOUR BERKSON
General Manager, INS

VIENNA.—(INS) — Though they, too, lost the war, the Austrians are not nearly as depressed nor do they actually fare as badly as the Germans.

Except for Russia, the occupation powers have treated Austria more as a victim than a partner of Nazism.

In the U. S. zone of Vienna, life is beginning to show signs of that Viennese spirit of gaiety characterized by the famous Strauss waltzes, comic opera, whipped cream in coffee, and the most fantastic pastries in the world.

Incidentally, all of these latter manifestations are again in bountiful evidence in Vienna. The shops are sparkling with new merchandise for the first time since the war—especially those things for which Austria has always been noted—leather goods, petit-point embroidery, pottery, glassware, decorative enamelware, hand woven fabrics, etc.

Food Stores Well Stocked

The food stores are also attractively stocked and the Viennese restaurants are going full blast.

Yet, despite the outward appearance of Austrian recovery and well-being, the same cost of living problem that is plaguing the middle and lower classes elsewhere in Western Europe is evident here in Vienna.

Take the Blum family, for example.

It is typical of the rank-and-file middle class Austrian family.

Dr. Rudolph Blum, is 36, a physician employed at present in a Vienna hospital. His wife Ilse, 33, works half-days as a typist in an office, to help make ends meet. They have two boys—Gert, 6, and Rolf, 4½.

The Blums share a five-room apartment with the parents of Mrs. Blum. They occupy two rooms besides the kitchen and rent the third room to a boarder.

Served As Doctor In Army

Dr. Blum, who finished his studies at the Vienna university in 1939, served as a doctor in the Germany Army for six years. He was captured by Yugoslavs at the war's end and after three and a half years as a prisoner was released Christmas, 1948.

While a prisoner, Dr. Blum was able to continue his work as a physician and for nearly a year served as chief of a county hospital in southern Yugoslavia.

The Blums were married in 1939 and had an apartment of their own in Vienna during the war. Mrs. Blum—like many other Viennese women—left the Austrian capital shortly before the Russians entered the city.

The flat was confiscated by the Russians and handed over to a Communist. They have been trying to get it back ever since Dr. Blum returned from the war and are now awaiting court action.

Because of the crowded condition of their flat and the high cost of living in Vienna, the eldest of their two sons—who began school last year—was sent to Spain four months ago under a program established by the Catholic welfare organization "Charitas."

Programs Aids Children

The program has operated since 1946 and sends needy children of the middle and lower classes to more fortunate Catholic families in various western countries for a six-month period.

Upon Dr. Blum's return last Christmas from the prisoner of war camp in Yugoslavia, the Blum family had such a difficult time getting re-established they decided it was best to assure their eldest son a proper home and diet until conditions became better for them in Vienna.

They are improved somewhat but the Blums still have a hard struggle to maintain the frugal standard of living they now have.

The total income of both Dr. and Mrs. Blum, together with the rent they receive for one room, amounts to 1,200 schillings per months. At the newly devalued rate of Austrian currency established Nov. 21, this amounts to only $83 per month in terms of U. S. money—or around $20 a week.

When you compare that with the average factory worker's wage in the U. S. A.—$55 per week—you get a pretty good idea of how depressed salaries are in Austria today.

Their share of rent 100 Schillings.

Gas, electricity, telephone, etc. 100 Schillings.

Maid to care for child while parents are working 100 Schillings.

Food 750 Schillings.

Total 1,050 Schillings.

Need Rest Of Funds

The remaining 150 schillings are hardly enough to cover such special expenses like shoe repairs, household necessities etc. New soles for shoes cost 35 to 40 schillings. To clean a suit or dress costs 15 to 20 schills. As can be readily seen, 150 schillings will not go far in any direction.

The Blums cannot afford a car, but they do have a radio and a record player.

Their normal day's menu is as follows:

Breakfast: Two rolls each, jam, artificial coffee, sugar, milk, a little bit of butter but no "expensive things" like ham and eggs.

Lunch: Soup, vegetables and potatoes, rice with tomato sauce or spaghetti; salad, apple pie or similar desserts. The Blums eat meat only on Sunday since even rationed meat is expensive, while black market meat is prohibitive. Pork costs about 14 schillings $1 U. S.) per pound. Two pounds of meat is the total ration per week for a family of five.

Supper: Usually bread, cheese, sometimes a bit of butter or sausage and whatever left-overs there may be from lunch.

Have Coffee Or Tea

If possible, and when they can afford it, the Blums have a coffee or tea hour at their home between 4 and 5 p. m. This refreshment period is called "jause" in Austria. The "jause" consists of coffee or tea and some inexpensive cookies or cake.

Because they cannot spare the money, the Blums rarely go to the theatre; an ordinary seat is around 10 schillings (about 70 cents U. S.). They do go to the movies occasionally because the admission price is only 1.50 schillings.

The Blums can't afford new clothes. Dr. Blum, luckily, saved his old prewar suits and is glad that he does not have to buy suits at the present high prices.

Mrs. Blum tries to follow the "new look" as best she can by remodeling her old dresses. Lipsticks, perfume, even scented soap are out of reach—ordinary soap must do.

The Blums spend their evenings mostly at home or seeing friends after dinner, for coffee or a glass of wine.

They have no money to go on vacation trips. The Blums spent last summer on the outskirts of Vienna where Dr. Blum replaced a colleague who was on leave for several weeks.

Dr. Blum hopes to be able to set up his own private practice as soon as pissible, but the medical profession in Austria is overcrowded and he knows he will have a struggle to build up a practice.

Being young and healthy, the Blums face their difficult life with courage and a minimum of grumbling.

Although the Russians occupy a part of Vienna itself while the Western Allies occupy the rest, the prospect of war between East and West does not disturb them nearly as much as the daily struggle for the necessities of life to keep the wolf from the door.

Annual Band Clinic To Be Held At Tech

High school bands—some 1,200 strong — are expected to invade the Texas Tech campus Dec. 9-10 for the seventh annual Tech-Lubbock public school band clinic, D. O. Wiley, director of Tech bands, said.

Wiley said bandsmen will be divided into five different groups for the clinic. All AA1 and AA players will use the 1950 music lists, while bands from class A, B and C schools will be divided into separate groups. Texas Tech's Concert band also will participate in the two-day program.

A Friday evening smoker will provide "off-duty" entertainment for the visiting bandsmen.

"We had 1,000 band members visiting us in 1948 and we expect at least 200 more this year," Wiley said.

School Enrollment Is Near 11,000 In City

Official enrollment in Lubbock public schools at the end of the second month of the fall term totaled 10,985, it was announced by R. W. Matthews, superintendent of schools.

The figure represents an increase of 313 scholastics over the total registration of 10,672 at the end of the first month of school.

At the end of the second month of the fall term last year total enrollment was 9,807, or 1,178 fewer than for the corresponding period this year.

During the summer school officials had predicted that the public school enrollment would exceed 12,000 during the current school year, and there still appeared to be a possibility that the 12,000 figure would be met during the school year.

Looking At Life

mains just fine and dandy—in that sloppy, careless, rowdy, free-for-all American way that, in spite of ourselves, has made this the greatest of all countries to live in.

I hope that our political campaigns will never get any more polite. I hope that rival candidates will always call each other all the names they can think of. It's fun.

And I hope that, when the campaign is over, they will all be friends again and that their wives will once again call each other honey and dear.

America, after all, is great not by politics but by patriotism—no matter what the party.
