HST Boosts Hope For End Of Blockade

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 28—President Truman buoyed hopes today for an early end to the East-West deadlock over Berlin, saying he believes the Soviets are acting in good faith in negotiations to lift the blockade.

He told a news conference he thinks the situation is encouraging.

Although the President did not go beyond those terse comments, they contributed to a growing feeling of confidence here that the thorny Berlin crisis is rapidly nearing a solution.

Diplomatic authorities, however, interpreted Mr. Truman's remarks as basis for optimism only in regard to the blockade dispute. They indicated that if and when an agreement is worked out to lift the year-old transport barrier from the German capital it will then throw open the broader problems of Germany's future for consideration of the Big Four foreign ministers council.

Ruhr Control Okayed

As the Western Powers waited for Moscow to make the next move on the Berlin question, these were other developments:

1. Diplomats of six western nations signed an agreement in London setting up international control of Germany's rich Ruhr valley where its prized industries are centered. Russia, which wants a hand in the Ruhr control, was ignored in the new pact signed by representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

2. Warren Austin, chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, told the Senate Foreign Relations committee that the North Atlantic defense pact is needed because Russia has "brazenly" violated its pledges to refrain from use of threats and force against other countries.

Austin said, however, that "the balance is swinging toward the forces favoring peaceful progress." He added that realization of this

Allied Troops To Stay In Germany

NEW YORK, April 28 (INS)—Secretary of State Acheson declared flatly tonight that American, British and French occupation forces will remain in Germany until the peace of Europe is assured.

Acheson made an up-to-date statement of American policy on Germany in an address at the annual dinner of the American Society of Newspaper Publishers.

He recited the conditions under which the United States will negotiate with Russia for a settlement of the German problem if the break this week in the East-West impasse leads to renewed "Big Four" discussions on Germany, as anticipated.

Occupation To Continue

The Secretary declared that the people of Western Germany "may rest assured" that the U. S. will continue to develop the program for a Western German republic until a satisfactory solution of the entire problem can be achieved with Russia.

But he made it clear that establishment of a German government "cannot at this time mean the end of the occupation of Germany." He added:

"If democratic self-government is to be introduced in Germany it must be given a chance to live. It cannot thrive if its powers are in question, or if it is subject to arbitrary intervention."

Principles To Be Upheld

With regard to the renewed negotiations with Russia, Acheson said:

"Should it prove possible to arrange for renewed four-power discussion, this government will do its utmost, as it has in the past, to arrive at a settlement of what is plainly one of the most crucial problems in world affairs."

He emphasized, however, that "there are certain principles" which the U. S. regards as essential to "any satisfactory solution of the German problem."

He assurred the people of Western Germany that the U. S. "will agree to no general solution for Germany into which the basic

MORE DISCIPLINE IN EDUCATION CLAIMED NEEDED

P-T Meeting Ends Today

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche Staff Writer

A NEED to return to the disciplinary system of education rather than the "play way" was stressed by Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president of Texas Technological college, in Thursday afternoon's general session of the 14th district Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, in O. L. Slaton Junior High school auditorium.

Dr. J. W. Marshall, president of Wayland college at Plainview spoke to the group last night.

The two-day conference will be concluded today. A total of 215 delegates had registered through last night's session, with an additional 115 attending as visitors, bringing the total attendance to 330.

TODAY'S PROGRAM
Friday

9 a. m.—Coffee, homemaking department, O. L. Slaton Junior High school.
9:30 a. m.—Workshop, auditorium, O. L. Slaton Junior High school. Mrs. J. H. Moore, state P-T president, director.
9:45-10 a.m.—Assembly singing, directed by Mrs. Earl Tinnin.
10 a. m. — General session on "Health," with Mrs. E. S. Smith presiding. 11:30 a. m., report of conference committees.
12 noon—Adjournment, followed by district board post-conference meeting.

Dr. Jones, in his talk, said he was not referring to discipline in the sense of punishment, but rather in the sense of thinking a problem over and coming out with the right answer, in the sense in which a musician disciplines himself in practicing, in the sense in which an athlete adheres to training rules.

The student cannot "always follow the road most pleasant" but must "take it as it comes," he said.

He referred to hospitalization of soldiers unable to stand the battlefield horrors of World War II and said in many cases the soldiers were the same boys who had been attending a school "which had gone all out on the 'play way' system of making everything pleasant.

He said the teachers in the school rooms and the mothers and fathers at home should permit "young minds to exercise their wings" and set the stage where students could do their own thinking.

He said he was inclined to question the idea given by "Commencement" exercises. College graduates sometimes are told, "Now you're ready to live," but actually they have been living all the time, he said.

He referred to the present age as "the age of the instantaneous," saying that the speed of present day developments has affected education and that young people frequently do not have time to form conclusions that are well thought out. He said that parents, school officials and other citizens have a responsibility in seeing that style and methods of training and fundamentals imparted are modern in the sense of adequacy for the age of the instantaneous.

The afternoon program included a panel discussion, "School Education," of which Mrs. H. F. Godeke, national life member of the parent-teacher organization, vice president of region 8, and district parliamentarian, was chairman. Floyd Honey, Lubbock Senior High school principal, discussed safety education in the school in the panel discussion, em-

Avalanche Staff Writer

THE ANNUAL Southwestern Journalism Congress which attracts delegates from member schools in three states will open formally at 9:30 a. m. today when Prof. Cecil Horne, head of Tech journalism department and president of the congress, will call the meeting to order in the Aggie auditorium at Texas Tech.

Sixteen nationally known speakers from the field of journalism will address the two-day meeting. Every part of the journalistic profession including radio, public relations and industrial publications will be discussed.

The congress was organized at Baylor in 1927. It has been meeting each year since that time except for a few years during the war. The organization is unique in that the annual meetings are participated in by both students and faculty members alike.

Prof. Horne said around 300 delegates including those from Approximately 85 persons had registered last night. Congress member schools include Louisiana State university, Tulane university, Oklahoma A&M, Oklahoma university, Texas A&M, Baylor, Hardin-Simmons university, Mary Hardin-Baylor, Southern Methodist university, Texas Christian university, Texas State College for Women, Texas university and Texas Tech.

Marshall Speaks At P-T Session

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

The responsibility for international education does not rest primarily upon Congress, or upon representatives of the United States government throughout the world, but upon the people of every area and in every walk of life.

So declared Dr. J. W. Marshall, president of Wayland college of Plainview, speaking last night at the third general session of the annual conference of the fourteenth district of Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, held in Lubbock Senior High school auditorium.

Dr. Marshall asserted that "God is expecting all of us to do the best we can in educating for world peace."

In keeping with the general theme of last night's session, "World Understanding," Dr. Marshall's subject was "Education, a Basis for World Understanding."

He reminded his listeners of the turbulent times in which they are living, asserting that "if Christian youth could give one-tenth as much as the Nazis gave to educate their youth for war, what an impact it would make on the world!"

He pointed out that Christian

Warmer Weather Is Forecast Over Area

Weather today and Saturday on the South Plains probably will be more nearly West Texas style than the thundershowers and drizzling rains that fell Tuesday and Wednesday over the area leaving .45 inch of moisture at the Lubbock weather station.

Moderate to fresh winds are due to sweep over the area today and pick up added velocity Saturday. Fifteen to 25 mile an hour "breezes" are anticipated today by the Lubbock Weather station, with 25 to 30 mile an hour blows predicted Saturday.

A fog or drizzling rain will blanket much of the area this morning, the station said, but will soon fade out with today and tomorrow becoming partly cloudy and generally warmer.

Temperatures ranging from the low 50's to the upper 70's or low 80's are forecast for both days.

SHANGHAI MAY BE SEALED OFF

Communists Move Cautiously On Two Major Chinese Cities

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, April 28 — Three Communist spearheads were moving towards Shanghai and the Hangchow sector tonight, but at a cautious pace.

Best available reports through the Nationalist garrison command said a column of about 4,000 Red troops was edging toward Shanghai from Soochow (Wuhsien) on the west and was about 40 miles from this great city.

A somewhat smaller Communist column was reported following the railway southeast from Soochow towards Kashing, 40 miles form Soochow. Kashing, a railway junction point 62 miles southwest of Shanghai, is the key to Kangchow, 59 miles farther southwest.

The third Communist force, of unknown size, was moving overland towards Kashing from the east and was last reported about 30 miles away.

Once Kashing falls, Shanghai will be sealed off by land. Trains still were operating to Hangchow via Kashing during the afternoon.

The Communists took Soochow early Wednesday, so their advance (no more than 10 miles) since then

McGee Case May Go To Jury Today

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche Staff Writer

THE case of Richard W. McGee, charged with the murder of R. L. Allston, at the Colonial apartments, July 7, 1948, may go to the jury late today.

Now in its eleventh day the trial will proceed today with the charge to the jury and with the final arguments of both the state and the defense.

Judge Dan Blair put the finishing touches on his charge late yesterday evening. District Attorney Lloyd Croslin, special prosecutor George Dupree and the two defense attorneys, Burton S. Burks, Lubbock, and Col. E. A. Simpson, Amarillo, conferred with the judge on the construction of the charge.

Surprise To Many

The announcement that the state had closed its case against McGee came suddenly at 11:20 a. m. Thursday. It was followed at once by the same announcement on the part of the defense. This latter announcement came as a complete surprise to many who thought that the defense would call up additional witnesses in rebuttal.

McGee, 24-year-old former boyfriend of the slain man's daughter, pleaded not guilty to the murder count by reason of insanity. The defense did not make any effort to deny that McGee was the one who fired the fatal shot. They have not denied the fact that the defendant committed the crime and many offenses leading up to the crime which were brought out in the testimony of the witnesses.

The crime itself, and certain other acts, alleged to have been committed by McGee, were offered by the defense as evidence of the insanity they claim for him.

Dramatic, Colorful Case

According to many elder citizens who are versed in the history of Lubbock county court house, the trial of Richard W. McGee is one of the most dramatic and colorful cases ever to be presented in the 72nd District court. Even the long, ordinarily dull, routine of selecting witnesses held the attention of an overflow audience.

There were two wild outbursts

HST's Patronage Stand Is Scored

WASHINGTON, April 28. (AP)—Southern Democrats angrily accused President Truman today of putting a "patronage purchase tag" on votes for the administration's bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley law.

In the House, a stormy row perceptibly widened the breach between northern and southern Democrats.

Dixie lawmakers shouted their wrath against Mr. Truman's statement that Democratic votes on the Taft-Hartley issue will be regarded as a test of party loyalty.

At his press conference, Mr Truman indicated senators and representatives who fail to vote for repeal of the two-year-old labor law will have little to say about federal patronage.

Southern Demos Protest

The presidential whip cracked where it hurt among southerners who have joined Republicans in fighting the administration's repeal measure in the three-day-old debate over a new labor law.

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) shouted: "This attempt to browbeat members of Congress into voting for vicious legislation is the most contemptible conduct I have ever known. I refuse to be bluffed."

Rep. Hebert (D-La) raised the cry of "patronage purchase." He said Mr. Truman had been asked whether House votes on the Taft-Hartley dispute would have any effect on the handing out of patronage.

"The answer," Hebert said, "was in the affirmative. Is your vote for sale for jobs?"

Republicans chuckled and cheered.

Majority leader McCarmack (D-Mass) gave them something more to cheer about when he whirled on Hebert and other Democrats

FLOOD THREAT ABATES IN SOUTH

Property Damage High As Hail Rain Batter West Texas Areas

(By The Associated Press)

HAIL storms battered West Texas Thursday. Victoria in South Texas won another reprieve in the long-threatened Guadalupe river flood crest.

Brief but severe hail and rain damaged every roof in Big Lake, 68 miles west of San Angelo. The 20-minute storm knocked out some downtown plate glass windows and some car windows, and dented car tops. Damage to the elementary school and gymnasium was severe.

The 3.25 inches of rain which also fell caused considerable water damage to buildings because the hail had knocked out windows. Strong wind drove the rain.

Kermit, also in West Texas, was hard hit by hail. Like the storm at Big Lake, it was described as the most severe in local history.

There was a 35-minute blitz of wind, dust, hail and then rain at Odessa. Power was disrupted for several hours, windows smashed, but damage was not severe. Midland had a heavy rain.

OLDHAM GIVEN PROMOTION

Commission Okays Sale Of $2,474,000 In City Bonds

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

MEMBERS of the city commission, meeting in semi-monthly session Thursday afternoon, sold $2,474,000 worth of bonds, promoted City Engineer R. L. Oldham to the new position of director of public works, completed two extensions of the city limits, helped get another extension of major importance well under way and took under advisement for study a plan of reorganization of the city health department recommended by a committee of the Lubbock-Crosby County Medical society.

The bonds were sold to a syndicate composed of First Southwest Co., of Dallas, and 14 other investment firms at a net interest rate of 2.5629847 per cent per year. The rate was considerably lower than officials had expected, according to Mayor W. H. Rodgers. Some city bonds sold last year carried an annual interest rate of 3.04 per cent.

Lowest Of Four Offers

The bonds included $174,000 in securities to be paid for out of direct taxes and $2,300,000 secured by city electric department revenues.

The tax bonds, voted in 1945, include $60,000 for storm sewer extensions and $114,000 for airport improvements. The revenue bonds, voted in late 1947, are for electric, water and sanitary sewer extensions.

The bid was the lowest of four submitted, net interest rates of other competitors ranging up to 2.86 per cent annually. Frank J. Medanick represented the successful syndicate and reported that the total interest cost of the bonds will approximate $733,000 in 20 years.

Receives Pay Increase

The new job of director of public works, authorized more than a year ago, was created and filled by City Engineer Oldham on the recommendations of City Manager Steve Matthews. it carries with it a $50 monthly increase in pay for Oldham, to approximately $580 a month, including the cost-of-living bonus paid all city employes.

The position will carry with it a great deal of increased responsibility, the city manager said. In addition to the city engineering department, Matthews continued, Oldham will have overall supervision of all city construction, the water, electric and sewage departments, warehouses, shops, maintenance of equipment, the garbage dump and other duties.

The city manager said Oldham's advancement will require the appointment of a new city engineer, and he is ready to receive applications. Essential qualifications of applicants must include training and experience in waterworks and

Avalanche-Journal Sets Record With Food Advertisement

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal this morning sets an all-time record in the history of the paper for a single advertising spread with the publication of a special 16-page Furr Food Fair section.

Included in the section are eight pages in color, four of them in two colors, four in three colors!

The 2,709-inch spread is largest single advertisement ever carried in any one issue in the history of The Avalanche-Journal. The spread is equivalent to 37,962 lines of advertising space.

Arrangements for the advertising were handled by Wayne Henly, advertising director of The Avalanche-Journal, and Jack O. Stone, advertising and public relations manager of Furr Food stores. Richard E. Jackson of The Avalanche-Journal advertising staff handled the copy for the spread.

Battle Against House-Passed Oleo Bill Planned In Senate

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP) — Senate foes of the House-passed oleomargarine tax repeal bill made it clear today they are going to try to snow the measure under with amendments.

The bill to scrap the 63-year-old federal taxes on oleomargarine was approved yesterday by the Senate Finance committee.

The committee turned down a substitute bill sponsored by Senator Wiley (R-Wis) and 25 other dairy state senators who say the House measure would harm the butter industry. Their substitute would have junked the federal taxes on oleo but would have prohibited interstate shipment of the yellow product. Wiley said he would still push his bill.

Texas House Ties String To G-A Plan

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, April 28—The House chose today between assuring money for rural roads or for the Gilmer-Aikin school bills. It decided in favor of rural roads, 86 to 52.

The House also finally passed the last G-A bill by an overwhelming majority, 114 to 23.

In stormy action which saw Speaker of the House Durwood Manford take the floor to speak only as a representative and not as speaker, the House voted to give priority to the $15,000,000 a-year allocation for rural road building, ahead of allocations for the Gilmer-Aikin school program.

The G-A program is estimated to require $60,000,000 or more per year from the state's clearance fund.

New Tax Predicted

Rep. C. S. McLellan of Eagle Lake and Rep. W. O. Reed of Dallas prophesied a new tax would be needed to insure enough money for the Gilmer-Aikin program.

The third of the three Gilmer-Aikin school bils was finally passed, 114 to 23, after the amendment assuring priority to rural roads had been tacked on.

Adoption of the final school reorganization bill terminated 10 days of redhot House debate—scattered over a period of five weeks—on the three controversial bills.

Road Bill Already Passed

Manford commanded complete attention as he came to the floor to support the rural roads amendment a short time after he had undergone verbal attack by Rep. Lisle King of Vernon. King charged Manford with lobbying for the amendment. Other members quickly defended the speaker's right to ask members to support legislation he favored.

"I think this thing (the amendment) might be predicated on keeping faith with the people of Texas," Manford said.

He observed that the Colson bill, providing for allocation of $30,000,000 each biennium for rural roads, had been passed by the legislature and signed by the governor some time ago.

It could not be forseen that passage of the Gilmer-Aikin bills might jeopardize the chances of

Guns Stolen In Burglaries Here

Three burglaries, in none of which loot was heavy, were reported Thursday to law enforcement authorities.

The northeast bedroom of the R. L. Yandell residence at 1523 Arnett street was entered during the afternoon while family members were absent, and a Filipino bolo knife stolen.

All drawers of a dresser in the room had been ransacked, police detectives said, and a rifle had been fired twice—into the back and seat of a bedroom chair. The rifle was left lying on the bed. No other room in the house had been entered, it was believed.

Grocery Burglarized

The residence of Bennie Haliburton of 2631 East Ave. G was entered and a 12-gauge shotgun valued at $20 removed, he informed police.

Teague's grocery and market, in Slaton, was burglarized Wednesday night, the sheriff's department here was advised Thursday.

A register and account file were ransacked—the filing case having been taken out of the building and opened behind the co-operative gin there. Not more than $12 in money was taken, investigators said they believed.

S. H. Twaddell of Amarillo informed police here that a blue steel .38 caliber Smith & Wesson revolver valued at $55 had been stolen from his car parked at a local tourist court. The vehicle was locked, he said, but the thief had pried open a ventilator glass of the car.

600 Persons Attend Meeting To Discuss Rent De-Control Issue

By CHARLES STONE
Avalanche Staff Writer

A GROUP of approximately 600 persons, mostly property owners, were present last night in the third-floor district court room at the county court house to discuss the issue of rent de-control for Lubbock.

T. E. (Chief) May, chairman of a committee recently appointed to arrange the public meeting, introduced C. L. Harris of the Lubbock Real Estate board, first and only speaker at the meeting to voice before the group his sentiments on the subject of de-control.

Harris, who spoke strongly in favor of complete de-control pointed out the purpose of the meeting to those assembled, and then went on to give his own personal reasons for his opinion.

Among other reasons, he stated that he believed there was no housing shortage in the city of Lubbock at the present time. Using figures taken from local building permit records, he gave the following information on the number of housing units built in various years from 1943 to the present: 1943—19 living units; 1944—140 units; 1946—667; 1947

Communist Gains In China Seen As Influencing India's Moves

By THOMAS C. WATSON
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 28.—Authoritative sources expressed belief tonight that vast Communist gains in China played a major role in India's decision to acknowledge the British crown as a "symbol" while functioning as an independent republic in the commonwealth.

Well-informed government circles agreed that development of the Communist menace in China plus Communist influences in Indo-China, Indonesia, Thailand and Burma caused Indian leaders to "think twice."

Originally, they had promised the Indian masses a full separation from Whitehall, Westminster and Buckingham palace.

India Chooses Protection

Prior to Communist successes in China, the Indians were ready to confront commonwealth premiers meeting in London with an already-established republic — without any ties to the crown.

They hoped that the example would be followed by the neighboring dominion of Pakistan and by the island of Ceylon. But both of the latter showed evidences of preferring to remain in the orbit of the crown and commonwealth.

Chaos in Burma provided another warning to the leading figures in the Indian government.

The Burmese chose complete independence and accordingly were excluded from the commonwealth and its advantages.

Strife Appears In Burma

From that moment onward, Burma's internal troubles began. The local government in Rangoon proved incapable of dealing with extreme nationalist groups such as Karens and Chindits.

These rightist groups, opportunely inspired by the Communists, threw the country into an uproar of violence.

Appeals to Great Britain for help were rejected since under terms of the agreement providing for withdrawal of British troops the Burmese were not qualified to make any legal approach to London for intervention.

Decline Reported In Pork, Lamb Prices

(By The Associated Press)

Pork and lamb prices eased a little at many retail stores this week. Other meats held mostly steady.

Top grade eggs were up two cents a dozen in some places, reflecting more active commercial and government buying. Most fresh vegetables, with the exception of sweet corn, sweet potatoes and new potatoes, were lower.

Meat buyers said demand for pork was easing as the weather became warmer and competition from spring lambs and vealers increased.

Lamb crop prices continued the slow descent from the record high levels of two weeks ago as receipts picked up. Veal prices tended to work slightly lower with the arrival of spring vealers.

Beef was unchanged.

New potatoes were a little higher this week because rainy weather in Texas and Alabama curtailed harvesting, an Agriculture department spokesman said.

However, vegetables like spinach, kale, parsley, radishes, scallions and leeks were reported becoming so plentiful and low-priced that growers were having difficulty breaking even on costs. Asparagus and peas also were lower-price leaders.

Legion To Sponsor Rodeo In Sudan

SUDAN, April 28 (Special)—Members of the Sudan American Legion Post 614 Friday will open their second annual amateur rodeo, which is to be held Friday and Saturday here.

The rodeo will feature prizes totaling $175 for top contestants in five events, among them calf roping, saddle bronc riding, ribbon roping, bareback bronc riding, and bull riding. Cowboy hats are to be awarded to first-place winners in each of the events, while a $40 hat will go to the champion cowboy of the show.

Each performance is scheduled for 8 p. m. in the new Legion Rodeo arena. A dance will follow both night's performances, to be held in the Sudan Legion hut.

Air Force Reserve Members Urged To Attend Special Meeting

All members of the Air Force Reserve are urged to attend a special meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight at building 62, Lubbock Air Force base, Capt. Cecil E. Jennings, assistant operations office for the 707th bomb squadron, announced Thursday.

The meeting has been called in response to a request from Twelfth Air Force headquarters at Brooks field, San Antonio.

The Twelfth Air Force in a telegram to the Lubbock unit said officers and airmen of the Reserve are needed for two weeks' active training duty with full pay and allowances. In order to remain active in the Air Force Reserve all men must spend at least one two-weeks period on active duty every three years.

Tonight's meeting will be for the purpose of compiling a roster of men who will be able to take the training.

Charwomen, carrying their mops "at the ready" staged a protest march in London to call attention to their pay increase demands.

Purported Son Of W. C. Fields Supports Claim With Letter

LOS ANGELES, April 28 (INS)—The deathbed letter of an ex-follies girl in which she named W. C. Fields the father of her son was filed today to further support the claim of William R. F. Morris for a son's share of the late comedian's $800,000 fortune.

The woman, Bessie Poole, known on the stage as Elizabeth Chatterton, disclosed in a letter that Fields assertedly fathered her son. The letter was found by her mother, Mrs. Bessie Adelaide Witherell, in a trunk in Boston.

The letter read in part:

"Darling mother:

"Well, I am just going to the hospital for an operation and of course I don't expect to die, but in case anything should happen . . . I have a son 10 years old . . . which I want you to take and bring up. W. C. Fields is his father. He is named William Rexford Fields Morris.

"He was born in New York and I fully believe that Bill will take care of him. But in case he doesn't, why make him."

Miss Poole died in October, 1928. At one time she was Fields' partner in a vaudeville act.

The document was added to others filed by Morris last Feb. 3 to support his claim of a son's share of the estate.

Argentina soon will produce several new materials, including plastics and soda.

Research Group Reports Closing Of 22 Texas Businesses In Month

AUSTIN, April 28 (U.P.)—The number of businesses closing down in Texas totaled 22 last month, as compared with only 12 the previous month and six for the same period a year ago, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported today.

Other statistical summaries for the state, the bureau said, showed increases in charters issued, dairy production and consumption of cotton and electric power.

Texas charters were granted to 343 firms with a total capitalization of $5,989,000 during March. This total compared with 401 charters for $11,174,000 for the same period a year ago.

Manufacture of dairy products, it said, were up 26 per cent over February and 10 per cent over March of last year. Electric power consumption was up 12 per cent a year ago, while cotton consumption was up six per cent from the previous month.

However, the bureau said that cotton consumption was 13 per cent below a year earlier.

At the average rate of four passengers per trip, all the 9,306,000 people in Illinois and Michigan could be carried in eight hours by the 115,000 passenger elevators in the United States, it is estimated by the Otis Elevator company.

BORDERLINE ANEMIA*

CAN FADE YOUR COLOR, SAP YOUR STRENGTH!

People with sallow, colorless faces—people who often feel "stale" and "spent"—may find their red blood cells are too puny and faded. They may have a Borderline Anemia due to a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency.

Medical studies show that up to 68% of women—many men and children—are victims of this tiring Borderline Anemia.

If you have this Borderline Anemia, you need Ironized Yeast Tablets! They are specially formulated to help build up faded, puny red blood cells to healthy redness and size, and thus permit your color and energy to come surging back. Of course, continuing tiredness and pallor may come from other causes—see your doctor regularly. But in this Borderline Anemia, take Ironized Yeast Tablets. Take them to reclaim your vitality, your healthy color, your enjoyment of life!

High-Speed Wind Tunnel Designed For Guided Missiles, Projectiles

By GARDINER JONES
United Press Staff Writer

ROSEMOUNT, Minn., April 28. University of Minnesota scientists are sending high-velocity blasts clattering through what well may be the world's greatest sustained-speed wind tunnel.

The tunnel's makers believe it is the only one which will handle continuous blasts of wind moving at four times the speed of sound. At sea level, sound travels at 760 miles per hour.

Prof. John D. Akerman, head of the university's aeronautical engineering division, said scientists will use the tunnel to test secret objects for "government agencies and industry." The objects will include guided missiles, aircraft and projectiles.

Situated at the university's multi-million-dollar, 8,000-acre research center converted from a war-time ordnance plant, the tunnel was designed and constructed by a staff scientist, Kenneth G. Anderson.

Models Tell Story

Five great compressors pump the air that races through the test chamber in which metal models are mounted. Although the model is stationary, the wind rushing past gives it the effect of moving through the air at great speed. In miniature, the model tells researchers how the real thing would behave at super-sonic speed.

In this manner, among other things, the scientists will be able to study rocket flights and compile fire control data for guided missiles, Akerman said. They also will test behavior of bullets fired at high velocity.

The unique thing about the new tunnel, he explained, is that wind can be kept moving through it continuously. Other tunnels can develop equal speeds but only for short bursts, he said.

Ackerman said plans now are in the making for another tunnel that will handle wind velocities up to seven times the speed of sound.

"That's super-sonic," he said.

Noise Deafening

The wind crashes through the tunnel with a deafening rattle that remains in the ears long after the blast has been turned off. Ackerman said medical men examine the tunnel worker periodically to learn if the noise has any physical effect on them.

"They haven't found anything yet," he said, "but the examinations are a good precaution and they may reveal things medical science hasn't found yet."

Sun-yellow probably will be the color of the tunnel: It hasn't been painted that yet but the university plans to turn loose John Hopkins, its sometimes controversial interior decorator, on the Rosemount project.

Hopkins believes in painting hospital elevators red. He plans to splash yellow and gun metal colors around the tunnel laboratory.

"I will not interfere," Ackerman said.

River Pleasure Pier Proposed In London

LONDON, April 28. (U.P.)—Londoners one day may be roller skating, elbow-bending, and seeing the movies in the middle of the Thames.

An amphibian version of Leicester Square, half on shore and half afloat, was projected in a plan published by the Architectural Review.

"It would be quite a place," said one enthusiastic planner. "The pier would be about a mile long. It would be on three levels, movies and theaters, cafes and dance halls, deck tennis, ice and roller skating, swimming pools, exhibitions and pubs, everything from a whelk stall to a luxury restaurant, with big hotels built up behind."

The last time Londoners were able to enjoy riverside life was in the 17th century, when the theaters taverns, bear-baiting and cock-fighting on the South Bank drew crowds nightly across the river.

At present, though the Thames runs right through the center of the capital, there are few chances to get near it. The average Londoner has to settle for an occational glimpse of water over the Embankment wall.

The Port of New York has a total shoreline of 771 miles in New York and New Jersey, with 2,000 piers, wharves and quays.

Midwest Farmers Praise British Soil Saving Methods

OMAHA, Neb., April 28 (U.P.)—Twenty-five outstanding farmers from the rich prairies of midwestern America are telling their neighbors that English farmers know all about the art of soil conservation. They're even recommending English practices for use here.

The farmers, from Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and South Dakota, returned from a 16,000-mile, 30-day tour of Europe, sponsored by Radio Station WOW, Omaha. They were particularly impressed by English soil-saving practices because, to many of them, conservation of their own topsoil is a major problem.

The midwesterners, since their return, have addressed some 60,000 persons in nearly 600 speeches.

Farmers in the vicinity of Bancroft, Neb., are hearing about English soil practices from R. Chester Graff, operator of a 433-acre farm near Bancroft.

Land Resting Praised

"One is much impressed by the English system of land resting, which they call leys," he said. "This is the seeding of land to grass and legumes at frequent intervals. It never is cut for hay, but is pastured so that the manure remains on the field and no fertility is lost. The system has much to recommend it, and I believe our American farmers would benefit by its adoption."

Graff was surprised that there was no soil erosion on the English farms he visited, despite the 40 inches of rainfall every year.

He believed the reason for the lack of erosion were the slow and gentle precipitation and the practice of putting the land to grass at least two out of five years. In Nebraska the accepted practice for checking erosion is 'contouring'—plowing around a hill at right angles to the slope.

Some Criticism

Howard Wahlgren, who produces certified seed on 305 acres near Ely City, Neb., is telling his audiences:

"We in the States do not fully appreciate that no straw or other coarse roughage should be burned, but that it should be returned to the soil. I feel that I definitely have picked up some ideas on soil conservation that can be applied on my farm or on any other farm in the States."

Many of the touring midwesterners felt the English were using too much labor on many of their operations.

Another farmer noted a lack of efficiency on an English farm due to the scarcity of machinery.

Ralph Raikes, who operates a 940-acre certified seed farm near Ashland, Neb., and is considered one of the state's outstanding farmers, said there is a reason for it. He said:

"In England there are fewer natural resources and an abundance of people. So the farmers use what they have the most of, and that's labor."

U.S. Spends Billions On Jap Occupation

TOKYO, April 28. (U.P.)—For the first time since the surrender it is costing the United States more to feed and reconstruct Japan than to police it.

In fiscal 1949 Americans are paying $886,500,000, the largest sum to date, to run the Japanese occupation. Of that, $470,000,000, or considerably more than half, is going for food, fertilizer and medical supplies to the Japanese and for raw materials to bolster Japan's industry. The rest pays for the major part of the United States military establishment, in Japan, an estimated 70,000 troops.

Army department figures show that from the time the ink dried on the surrender document in Tokyo Bay until June 30, 1949, it will have cost the United States a total of $3,151,100,000 to stay in Japan.

Texas U. Interscholastic League To Sponsor Journalism Meets

AUSTIN, April 28 (INS)—Two state high school journalism conferences will be held this year under sponsorship of the University of Texas Interscholastic league.

The first conference will be May 6-7 in Austin for representatives from all high school papers in the state except those of four cities—Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antnoio.

Journalism representatives of those four cities will attend the second convention in San Antonio May 12-13.

The programs for both conferences will be substantially the same.

A series of talks and discussions on problems of high school journalism will be included on the programs.

Both conferences will include five journalistic contests for the high school scribes—news writing, editorial writing, copyreading, headline writing, and feature writing.

Journalism activities Director Dewitt C. Reddick said that winners of journalism contests in regional meets April 23 will be official contest delegates to the Austin conference. The four-city conference has no regional elimination.

The Woman's Angle By Ellen Miller

IF WE had paid no more attention to our plants than we have to our children, we would now be living in a jungle of weeds.
—Luther Burbank.

WOMAN'S PLACE

There are authorities who say that irreparable damage is done to a child when its mother takes work outside the home. They brand a mother who works, for any reason except direst financial straits, as a selfish, irresponsible persons who insists on shirking her first and most sacred duty—that of guiding her children in their formative years.

These authorities may be right.

Many of them have had vast experience with children from all walks of life, and have seen the lasting harm that children suffer emotionally and spiritually by being passed around from unsatisfactory day nursery to careless baby sitter and back . . . feeling that Mother doesn't love them, and, probably that nobody loves them.

SOME DISAGREE

BUT, luckily for the peace of mind of mothers who choose to work, other authorities, many of whom have had equally vast experience with children, say it frequently is desirable that mothers cultivate interests outside the home, and leave their children in the care of others at times.

Let it be understood that when we speak of the working mother, we do not refer only to the women who are employed for money . . . there are plenty of women who are active in club work, civic activities, charitable and church work who find it convenient to ask another to care for their offspring at times.

We doubt that anyone would insist that, upon the birth of a child, its mother should immediately drop all outside activities, never so much as going out to a movie. Concede, then, that she may spend an afternoon away at a movie or shopping . . . May she go to a club meeting? May she have an afternoon on the golf links or at a tea? May she and her husband perhaps be away from their children long enough for a dinner out? Is a mother an acceptable volunteer Red Cross worker if it means she must be away from home for several hours at a time?

Most people would answer yes to these questions, if the mother is careful about the person in whose care she leaves her child. They recognize that a woman, even one who happens to be a mother, must have a bit of activity outside her home in order to be happy and to be interesting to her family.

This, we believe is true. It is equally true that some women so enjoy their careers or so enjoy having the bit of extra money that they earn outside their homes, that they are miserable when they drop their work. Staying at home, and being cross about it, they do their children more harm than good.

Calling these mothers selfish and irresponsible does not change them. And convincing them they are unfit mothers because of their activities may give them a guilty feeling, further disturbing their peace of mind.

LEARN, INVESTIGATE

The important thing, it appears to us, is to educate women, who, in spite of everything, are away from their children. Mothers need to know what to look for in a nursery or a baby sitter. This education appears more constructive than condemnation.

Children need, first of all, whether at home or away, to be in clean, surroundings with safe and adequate play space, totally away from people with contagious diseases. Their meals should be properly prepared under sanitary conditions.

Children need a regular schedule with a definite rest period. Play equipment should develop both mind and body. Their play with other children should, to a certain extent, be directed by a trained person.

And, of extreme importance, the person with whom they are left, must be cheerful and have a genuine interest in the child as an individual.

Day nurseries should be carefully investigated, and any reputable operator will welcome such investigation. It seems incredible to us that a mother would leave her child in a nursery where she was not permitted to inspect the premises. But, we are told, this happens in Lubbock.

The child should have time to get acquainted with the person who is to take care of him, whether the mother has gone to work for money or whether she has merely run over to take care of Mrs. Elderly, who is ill. And the younger the child, the more time is needed. Two weeks of being together daily is not too much for a one-year-old. We believe that much feeling of insecurity can come from a youngster's finding himself in the charge of a total stranger, whereas if he had had a bit of time to get acquainted it might have been no shock at all.

IN WRITING this column, we are not setting ourselves up as an authority on all things pertaining to children. We have consulted people who have devoted much time to working with children and in helping all members of families to find solutions to difficult problems, and we believe their opinions worthwhile.

HUB DANCE CLUB

Hub Dancing club will hold a dance at 9 o'clock tonight in Seaman hall.

Today's Town Talk

LUBBOCK Dancing club members will feature a May Day theme in decorations when they entertain Saturday night at 10 o'clock in the Lubbock hotel. Music for dancing will be by Bailey Ireland's orchestra.

Multi-colored tapers will form the centers of miniature May poles on the tables, and five colors of ribbon will reach from the "candle May poles" to tiny bouquets of spring blossoms.

Hosts for the evening will be Drs. and Mesdames Ben Hutchinson and Olan Key and Messrs. and Mesdames Walker Stanton, Nick Alley, Tom Hamm, Olen Stewart, Harold Priddy of Ralls, Sam Hildreth and Tommy Starnes.

After a three day stay in Paris, France, Miss Margaret Turner, Mrs. John D. Lynch and Miss Ruth Ford, who are touring Europe, will leave Saturday for London.

Today the trio will go by private automobile on an excursion to Malmaison and Versailles.

They will drive via the Opera, Champs Elysees, Avenue de Neuilly and Reuil to the Manor Mamaison, and from there by Marly to Versailles for luncheon.

After lunch they plan to visit the national palace and grounds or Grand Trianon, the Museum of Carriages and Petit Trianon, which was Marie Antoinette's hamlet. The travelers will return to Paris by way of the Super-highway and the Bois de Boulogne.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Herm of Detroit, Mich., arrived Tuesday for a week's visit in the home of his sisters, Misses Gertrude and Hattie Herm, 2308 Twenty-eighth.

Mrs. D. R. Erwin will leave today for several weeks' stay in Santa Fe, N. M., where 18 of her paintings are being shown for two weeks in the New Mexico Museum of Art.

She will be accompanied by Mrs. Charles Read, who will return to Lubbock next week.

This is the second exhibition of Mrs. Erwin's art which the museum has staged. The previous one was held last April.

Mrs. H. R. Phillips, 3307 Nineteenth, was hostess at this week's meeting of the Thursday Book club, held in the Hotel Lubbock.

Since Mrs. Phillips once lived in the southern section of Ontario, she was especially qualified to review "Mary Wakefield," a Canadian story written by Mazo de la Roce as her 11th novel. The country-side described in the book is that in which the Lubbockite grew up, and the fictional characters, like her ancestors, came from England and Ireland.

Attending the review and luncheon were Mesdames W. O. Stevens, W. W. Rix, Carl Svensen, Ben Cole, jr., T. R. Prideaux, J. H. Hankins, Charlotte Carter, Nick Alley, Dan Blair and J. L. Barstow.

In spite of the damage done to the flowers growing in Lubbock yards by the rain and hail storms of this week, attractive Victorian bouquets decorated the tables at Wednesday night's P-TA Conference Board dinner, held in the Navajo room of the Hilton hotel.

Mesdames L. L. Miller and R. C. Badgett were in charge of decorations, and to compliment the colorful floral arrangements, they used old rose and dusty pink tapers in silver candelabra.

Mesdames Claud Keeton, Joe Arrington and Grady Knight made corsages for the guests attending. Mrs. Keeton, incidentally, is not even a member of P-TA, but said she wouldn't have missed the fun of making the corsages.

Mrs. J. H. Moore of Deport, president of Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, who is in Lubbock this week at Fourteenth district meeting, is very proud of her three children, and well she may be.

One son, Maurice, is chairman of the board of Time, Inc., and is married to the sister of Henry Luce. Another son, John, is quite active in Deport affairs where he is in the banking, insurance and farming business. And the daughter, Mrs. John W. Sharbough, lives in Larchmont, N.Y., where her husband is an investment banker.

The children are doubtless very proud of their mother, too. In addition to her state P-T office, Mrs. Moore is president of the Deport bank, past president of Women's Synodical of Texas Synod, Presbyterian church, U.S.A., past president of Texas P-T District Three; and in the National Congress of Parents and Teachers she is chairman of the Endowment fund and chairman of the board of trustees that administers the fund.

Monday night at 8 o'clock at First Methodist church, the Guild will present Robert E. Scoggin in an organ recital. Miss Jane McCoy, who is studying violin with Frederic Balazs at Hardin college in Wichita Falls, is to assist with the program. She will be accompanied by Miss Imogene Webster. Mr. Scoggin, on leave as organist at St. John's Methodist church, is studying with Dr. Nita Akin at Hardin college. The public is invited to this program, also.

Monroe HD Club Members Hear Talks

Monroe Home Demonstration club members met Thursday in the home of Mrs. B. E. Gentry to hear a program on the "American Home."

Women taking part on the program, and their subjects, were: Mrs. D. L. Miller, "Moral Standards"; Mrs. B. F. Whitacre, "Physical Standards"; Mrs. Ernest Exum, "Spiritual Guidance"; and Mrs. A. L. Faubion, "Build the Boy and His Bill of Rights."

Mrs. George Hunter will be hostess to the next meeting at 2:30 p. m. May 12 in her home.

Presbyterian Circle Holds Morning Coffee

More Discipline Needed In Education, Delegates Attending Parents-Teachers Session Here Told

phasizing need for cooperation in the safety program. Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent of Lubbock public schools, discussed pending legislative bills and mentioned influence of the parent-teacher organization in securing passage of bills. Hill took part in the panel discussion in place of E. H. Boulter of Lubbock, who was unable to attend.

R. W. Davidson, Plainview High school principal discussed strengthening the high school Parent-Teacher association, stressing value of parents attending.

Expenditures Are Cited

Mrs. Emma Nance of Dallas joined the panel, discussing twin bills introduced in the Senate and House for building warehouses in Texas for purpose of storing food supplies for school cafeterias. She said less food is provided for children in cafeterias in Texas than in various other states. The amount in Oklahoma is more than four times that in Texas per child, and the amount in Louisiana is more than six times the amount in Texas, figures indicated.

Mrs. E. S. Smith of Lorenzo, district president, Mrs. Lester Hendrick of Littlefield and Mrs. R. E. Donovan of Matador, district vice presidents, were presiding officers in the afternoon session. Invocation was given by Rev. Claude E. Canterbury, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, and benediction, by Mrs. E. M. Pittman of Anson.

Dr. R. E. Garlin, head professor of education and phychology at Texas Tech, introduced Dr. Jones.

Mrs. Ellis Brown of Lorenzo presented a violin solo. Sixteen singers from Plainview presented vocal selections, directed by Mrs. E. D Elliott. Vocal selections were presented by a group from Lorenzo.

Mrs. T. F. Wiesen presented announcements in morning and afternoon sessions. She is general chairman of the district conference and president of Lubbock City P-TA council.

Workshops Are Held

Following the afternoon general session, workshops were held in rooms at the school for all city and county councils and for local units by groups, according to counties.

Mrs. J. H. Moore of Deport, state president of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, spoke in the morning session.

"Education of children and youth as we have it today represents one of the highest achievements in cooperative effort that humanity has achieved in all its long history," said Mrs. Moore.

"You hear a great deal these days about big business, big corporations, cooperatives and so forth," the speaker said. "Great numbers of men and women are engaged in these huge business enterprises. However, few people stop to consider that one of the earliest and most widespread of cooperative efforts as well as one of the biggest businesses in the whole world is the education of children," she added.

The parent-teacher organization, made up of teachers, parents and other adults willing to work for growth and development of children, "is not an organization to run the school, nor is it a grievance committee. It is not a ladies' aid to buy school supplies. It is not a social organization, nor is it an organization to hear general addresses on economic, political and general cultural questions.

Study And Action Club

"The parent-teacher association is a study and action club where home teachers, school teachers and community teachers may study together how best to promote the growth and welfare of children."

Tatum Extends Welcome

Clyde Tatum, chairman of the Lubbock Board of Education, welcomed the group, inviting them to visit Lubbock schools and expressing hope they would return for other meetings here. Mrs. O. M. McGinty of Spur, district recreation chairman, responded.

Mrs. E. S. Smith of Lorenzo, district president, and Mrs. Lee Davis of Post, district vice president, presided for portions of the morning program.

Mrs. Smith, presenting the district president's annual report, expressed hope every school in every community in the district would have a Parent-Teacher association. "School, church and the home go to make up the community and make it what it is," she said.

Theme Is Presented

Mrs. Smith also presented the conference theme, "On the Highway of Tomorrow." A student, Betty Willis, came forward, followed by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Paul Willis, to tell what parents do toward the child's education; G. E. Dawson, O. L. Slaton Junior High school principal, to tell what the public school does; Miss Martha Graves, member of Texas Tech faculty, what the college does, and Rev. Paul Mason, what the church does. Mrs. Ellis Brown presented a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. J. C. McNeil of Crosbyton at the piano.

On one occasion Thursday morning, a speaker asked that those of the audience who held a character building job in their communities, including teaching of Sunday school, counseling Girl Scouts and others, hold up their hands. An estimated one-half of the audience held up hands. That was used to illustrate the part Parent-Teacher association members have in work for children of their communities

The morning session opened with music by O. L. Slaton Junior High school band, directed by Lannes Hope, followed by processional of state representatives, district, state and national board members and guests.

Reports Are Given

Boy Scouts presented the colors and pledge of allegiance and the group sang the national anthem, directed by Mrs. Earl Tinnin of Ralls, district music chairman. Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of Broadway Church of Christ gave the invocation. Supt. P. L. Vardy, jr., of Slaton, district historian, introduced platform guests.

Reports from conference committees were presented by Mrs. Lee Davis, Post, conference rules; Mrs. M. E. West, Lubbock, conference program; Mrs. Wendell Green, Plainview, credentials, and Mrs. T. F. Wiesen, Lubbock, general chairman.

Mrs. M. C. Butler of Lubbock, district life membership chairman, presented the life membership calls, in which life membership was presented to persons who have performed outstanding service.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP LUNCHEON IS HELD

Eighty of the P-TA life members of Fourteenth district, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, attended a Life Membership luncheon at Hilton hotel at noon Thursday. The luncheon was given as a part of the two-day district conference which is in progress here.

Mrs. M. C. Butler, district life merbership chairman, presided and introduced Mrs. H. F. Godeke, a state and national life member, who explained that life memberships are given to P-TA members who have done outstanding work in child welfare. She told the group that every life member is obligated to work for the P-T organization during her entire life.

Urged To Cooperate

Mrs. Godeke introduced Mrs. J. H. Moore of Deport, president of the state P-T congress, who stated that children's needs will not wait. She urged all P-TA members to join together in work for better schools, homes and communities in order to hasten the coming of a better future for all children.

A tribute to life members was paid by Mrs. Jack M. Little of Dallas, a past president of the Texas P-T congress and incumbent state chairman of Spanish speaking P-T associations. Mrs. Little said, "A life member is a missionary, and a missionary is one who goes far and wide with an idea and an ideal."

The invocation was by Mrs. W. A. Cawthon of Paris, state chairman of pre-school service. For the benediction, the group repeated the Lord's Prayer directed by Mrs. E. S. Smith of Lorenzo, district president.

There are approximately 4,000 life members in Texas. Thirty-three memberships were presented at the morning session of the conference.

Those receiving life membership Thursday morning were E. E. Pierce, Post; Mrs. Tom Borchier, Post; Mrs. W. T. Weaver, Amherst; Mrs. Charlie Keith, Matador; Mrs. Lee W. Davis, Post; Mrs. John T. U. S. Charges Spy Suspect Found With 'Planted' Papers On Arrest

By FREDERIC TUTTLE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 28 —The government charged today at Judith Coplon's spy trial that she carried a "planted" atomic secret in her handbag when she was arrested with Valentin Gubitchev in New York.

Judith's lawyer replied that the "hush hush" data found in her purse was "an outrageous attempt to trap her." He said the attractive, black-haired Miss Coplon met Gubitchev secretly because she was in love with the already-married Russian engineer and they feared his wife.

Prosecutor Raymond P. Whearty declared in his opening statement to the jury that the secret information discovered in the handbag of the former Justice department political analyst concerned geophones.

Romance Described

Geophones were instruments used to measure the force of atomic explosions during the New Mexico A-bomb tests.

When Whearty finished outlining his case, defense attorney Archibald Palmer addressed the jury.

Palmer shouted that "love knows no bounds," and that the 32-year-old Gubitchev, Soviet engineer attached to the United Nations, was a "personable man" who "spoke as a man does to a maid."

He said that the Russian, who is free on $100,000 bond, always was "most respectful" to Miss Coplon. Palmer added:

"He never even touched or kissed her."

Service To U. S. Cited

Palmer said that Miss Coplon had "no intention of doing anything against her government." He added that she actually provided Attorney General Clark with the names of subversive persons and organizations.

After Palmer nad finished, the government presented its first witness, William E. Foley, chief of the internal security section of the Justice department and Miss Coplon's former chief. Court recessed before Foley could discuss his dealings with Miss Coplon.

The prosecutor said that a few hours after she got the secret data at her Justice department desk, Miss Coplon boarded a train for a rendezvous with Gubitchev in New York.

Motion Overruled

He explained that the information was "100 per cent accurate" and "classified." He added that "no damage" would have been done the United States had the secret data fallen into the hands of a foreign agent.

Whearty started presenting his case after Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves denied an attempt by Miss Coplon to have the spy charges dismissed on grounds the government revealed contents of her "private papers."

Reeves later released a memorandum explaining his ruling. He said the defense motion involved the question of whether "a reasonably prudent and cautious official" would have made the arrest. He concluded that "without prompt action lasting injury (to the U.S.) might have been inflicted."

The judge accompanied his denial of the mistrial motion by refusing to ban the use of the papers, seized from Miss Coplon when she was arrested, as evidence in the trial.

Port Arthur Man Has Plan To End 'Drives'

PORT ARTHUR—April 28 (INS)—A Port Arthur business man has revived a plan which he says is the "drive to end all drives."

The proposal is one to unify the collection of funds made on the public by various appeals and drives. Under the proposal, employed persons in the Port Arthur area, would dispose of the various drives by authorizing their employer to deduct from their wages a sum not to exceed 40 cents on each $100 earned and apply the proceeds to a general fund.

This contribution — amounting to around 80 cents or less per month for the average worker—would represent the entire contributions to drives and campaigns except the individual's church contributions.

Donations and allocations would be made by a citizen's board named by the donors.

Public drives not provided for in the fund would not be sanctioned.

Red Barber Claimed More To Be Feared Than Bricklayer

MADISON, Wis., April 28 (U.P.)—A Communist barber is more dangerous than a Communist bricklayer, Jerome Host, Milwaukee, told the state legislature.

Host told a hearing on a proposed anti-Communist bill yesterday that "the man who lays bricks is less dangerous than a barber."

"A barber has an opportunity to plant the seed of Communism in from 20 to 30 people a day," Host said.

Record Number Of Students To Study On Texas U. Geology Trips

AUSTIN April 28 (INS) — The largest number of students to risk blistering their noses in the University of Texas geology field trips are expected to dig among the Texas rock formations this summer.

A. H. Deen, geology department chairman, announced recently that 300 future geologists — twice the normal number — will move into the open to put their classroom work to practical use.

Seniors will study paleozoic formations at the university's permanent camp at Brady.

Others will live on the Texas A&M college campus while studying the surrounding teriary rocks. Deen said this would be the second year that university and Texas A&M geology departments will co-operate in summer field study.

Twenty five graduate students will study at the university's Fort Davis camp. A class of 90 undergraduates will explore and study the Burnet-Llano-Mason area.

Dukes Trim Hubbers, 8 To 6

Extra Base Hits Aid Albuquerque

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 28 (AP)—A fence-busting triple by shortstop Frank Okrie in the fifth gave Albuquerque an 8 to 6 victory over Lubbock tonight.

Lubbock went into the lead in the first half of the fifth when manager Jackie Sullivan got on base on an error, stole second and scored on a single by Jim Prince.

In the bottom half of the frame, the Dukes loaded the bases with a walk, a single and another walk and with one down, Okrie bounced the hit off the fence to score all three.

The Dukes added one more in the sixth and Christiansen held the Hubbers to only one more run for the rest of the game.

Steady in the pinches, Christiansen gave up only three hits in six innings.

Most of the Albuquerque strength came with extra base hits. The Dukes took the Hubbers for three triples and two doubles.

Walks, Doubles Count

Lubbock used three walks, a double by Jim Prince and Jackie Sullivan's single to score only two runs in the opening frame as rookie pitcher Marvin Christiansen regained his control for the Dukes.

The locals tied it up in the same inning on a walk, a single, a passed ball and Allan Maul's safety past third. They added another run in the second on Babe Fuhrmann's triple and an outfield fly by Christiansen.

The Dukes made it 4 to 2 in the third on a walk and Maul's triple over Chick Fowler's head. Royce Mills relieved Cotton Russell at that point and loaded the bags with walks, but the Duke bats were silenced.

Lubbock tied it up in the fourth when Mike Doolcy walked and Charley Willis made first on an error. A sacrifice moved them along and Buddy McCallum hit to Frank Okrie who threw him out at first. Dooley rsced for home on the play and Maul overthrew to catcher Les Mulcahy for an error and both runs scored.

Scores On Prince's Single

Sullivan reached first on an error in the fifth, stole second and scored on Prince's single. In the same frame the Dukes loaded the bags on a pair of walks and a single by Hershel Martin. Okrie then hit the top of the fence in left center—420 feet away—to score all three runs. The hit almost cleared the wall.

The Dukes ended their scoring in the sixth when Dave Steger was hit by a pitched ball, advanced on a sacrifice and scored on a single by Les Mulcahy.

Dooley scored the last Hubber talley in the eighth when he tripled to deep left field and raced home on Willis' outfield fly.

Christiansen, an 18-year-old rookie, won his second game of the year.

Duke hitting was timely as they won their fourth consecutive triumph. They'll send their ace righthander, Nino Barnise, against the Hubbers tomorrow. Sullivan is undecided on his starter, but Bill Grafton may get the nod.

The schools expected here to participate in the meet were New Mexico, Texas Mines, Hardin-Simmons, West Texas State Teachers college and Tech.

Bowling Meet To Continue

Play in the fifth annual West Texas-New Mexico Bowling tournament will be revived Saturday when 24 teams roll for strikes and spares at Lubbock Bowling club.

Three eight-team shifts will start the second week's activities in team bowling, with the first shift at 5 p. m., the second at 7:30, and the third at 10 p. m. Doubles and singles will be rolled Sunday from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Few top notch scores were turned in last week except in Class C team bowling. Pabst Blue Ribbon of Midland posted a 2,611 which will be hard to beat. Herring hotel of Amarillo leads Class A with 2,738 pins, and Santa Fe Rangers, Amarillo, is in the top spot in Class B with 2,457.

Lubbock Tops In Class B

The class B division has two Lubbock keglers in the controlling position in doubles with Ray Hooten and J. A. Peel turning in 1,100. C. D. Wickson and Allen Simmons, Lubbock, scored 1,018 to lead the Class C doubles. In Class A Jack West and Fred Grimes, Amarillo, totaled 1,154 to take command in that division.

Wickson also leads the Class C singles with 597. Charles Lyle, Amarillo, rolled 623 to hold the top spot in Class A and B. Helms holds the individual high in Class B with 595.

The tourney is sponsored by The Avalanche-Journal, and after this weekend one more week of kegling will remain. The schedule will be completed Sunday, May 8.

$3,000 Prize Money

Prize money will be awarded the top bowlers in each division, depending on the number of entries in each class, and approximately $3,000 in prize money will be distributed when the final scores are posted. The team, doubles, and singles winners will receive trophies, and the all-events winner will take home a trophy. The all-events is a special entry, and the score comes from the total scores in team, singles, and doubles games.

Towns represented this week are Monahans, Amarillo, Hobbs, N. M., Las Vegas, N. M., Clovis, N. M., Santa Fe, N. M., San Angelo and Lubbock.

Most of the Lubbock teams entered will participate this week. The Class A teams from here are Yellow Cab, Mission Orange, Walton's Men store, and Arthur Lay. In Class B are Plamor Lanes, Lubbock Bowling club, and Lester's Jewelry. No Class C teams will bowl this week.

LOBOS OUT TO AVENGE DEFEAT

Tech's Tennis Team Will Meet New Mexico Net Squad Today

Tennis teams from University of New Mexico and Texas Tech will meet this afternoon on the courts at Tech in a Border conference team match.

The Lobos, decisively beaten by the Red Raider second team last week, while the first four players were playing in the River Oaks tournament at Houston, will seek to avenge that defeat.

Coach Joe Palaia will bring a four-man team to Lubbock and good news was received by the Lobo coach this week when doctors said that David Ong had recovered from a recent illness. Ong will be the No. 4 man on the New Mexico net squad.

Tech Well-Balanced

Members of the Lobo squad coming here will be Johnny Allen of Amarillo, No. 1; Carl Webb, No. 2; Bob Kayne, No. 3; and Ong. So far they have lost matches to the University of Arizona and Arizona State college of Tempe.

Tech sends a well-balanced team against the invaders, with Jake Broyles and Glenn Ivy heading the Raider players. Broyles for two years has been eliminated in the Border Conference title play by the man who went on to win. This year he has his sights set on avoiding this elimination.

Broyles and Ivy form a good one-two punch for the Raiders and they will have support from Carl Schmidt, Eddie Scudday, David Hester and Jack Prentiss.

Squad Should Win

This squad should hurdle New Mexico without being extended too much, after the way the second team handled them in their match. But following the Lobos will come one of the stronger tennis teams in the Border loop.

Texas Mines sends its netters to Lubbock Saturday for a dual meet and the Miners will have a full squad. Their top man is Rodolfo Gonzales, with the others, in order, Bill Fairley, Sam Kobren, Eddie Wilkerson and Willie Baldwin.

Mines holds victories over New Mexico and New Mexico Aggies in matches so far.

Ralls Nine Defeats Lockney In 3-A Tilt

RALLS, April 28 (Special) — The Ralls Jackrabbits won their seventh district 3-A baseball victory here today, defeating Lockney, 5-4, to cinch the west half championship of the conference.

The winner of the east half—Crosbyton, Matador, Paducah, or Spur—will play the western winner for the district title.

In a game played Wednesday Lockney fell to Ralls, 17-5. One game, with Floydada, remains on the Jackrabbit schedule.

Winner of the tilt today was Billy Woods, and he was aided by a three-run homer by Bolander in the third after Robert Huckabay of Lockney knocked a four-bagger in the first frame with two mates aboard. Pitching for Lockney was Jerry McCullough.

Gold Sox Drop Lamesa, 8-2

AMARILLO, April 28 (AP) — Darwin Dobb's control pitching and two big blows by Paul Halter and Doug Lewis gave Amarillo's champion Gold Sox an 8-2 victory over the Lamesa Loboes in their opener of a two-game series here Thursday night.

Dobbs, hit hard in the early innings, choked the Lobos off with one single through the last five and didn't issue a base on balls. Two double plays helped him through the period of unsteadiness.

Halter blasted a three-run homer in the third and Lewis swept the filled bases with a double in the eighth.

Halter's blast, which bounced off the high scoreboard in left, came with two out, after Ed McKay had singled and Lewis had been hit by a pitched ball. A double by Dick Gentzkow and manager Jess Landrum's single added the fourth run of the inning.

The Sox scored another in the seventh on a base on balls, one o. six issued by Joel Locke, Lamesa's rookie righthander, and singles by Lewis and Halter. Two bases on balls and an error jammed the sacks for Lewis' swat in the eighth.

Singles by Locke and manager Jay Haney and a double by Dan Pinto registered the two Lamesa runs in the third, Glenn Coats taking a third strike to snuff the spurt.

A pair of great stops by Eddie Melillo, at the expense of Halter and Dobbs, were fielding features.

Jerry Folkman, Gold Sox shortstop, was ejected by umpire Charlie Crain in the sixth for protesting too vigorously over a called third strike.

It was a chilly night and only 835 paying fahs witnessed the well-played game.

Among them are Earl Ince, who played first base for Baldridge, and Jimmy Joe Reiger, who played outfield for Baldridge. The first game is scheduled to start at 8:15 p. m.

Halt Captures Bluegrass Race

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 28 (AP)—Halt, Mrs. Royce G. Martin's Kentucky Derby hope, threw the derby picture wide-open today with a nose victory in the $20,000 added Bluegrass Stakes at Keenland.

The brilliant bay son of Haltal overtook Johns Joy at the wire. Wine List, owned by Greentree Stables, was third, a length behind Johns Joy. The favored Old Rockport, winner of the Santa Anita Derby, was bumped coming out of the gate and never recovered.

Halt, longest priced runner in the all-derby field at 7-1, was content to coast four and five lengths off of the pace until jockey Conn McCreary asked him to move turning into the home stretch.

Johns Joy, owned by Arkansas cotton planter, J. A. Kinard, jr., set the early pace and was on top by as much as three lengths halfway around the mile and one-eighth Derby test. Wine List was the main challenger a mile of the way.

Old Rockport, moved once, with a half-mile to go, and got out front of Halt momentarily. The Santa Anita Derby champion, owned by Texas oil man Clifford Moors, was a strong finisher but was short of the assignment.

The mis-named Halt paid off in the mutuels to the tune of $15.40 and $5.20 to win and place.

MacKinnon Defeats Riley In Tourney

NEW ORLEANS, April 28 (INS)—Betty MacKinnon of Mount Pleasant, Tex., today eliminated defending champion Polly Riley, of Fort Worth, in third match play of the 34th annual Women's Southern Golf Tournament at New Orleans.

The two Texans finished the first nine all even, with Miss MacKinnon, tournament "darkhorse," going on to win, 3 and 2.

Miss MacKinnon will meet Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., in one semi-final tomorrow. Miss Faulk advanced today on a 5 and 4 victory over Mrs. Maurice Glick, of Baltimore.

Margaret Gunther of Memphis dropped another tournament favorite, Georgian Dot Kirby, of Atlanta, 2 and 1. She meets Mrs. Sam Israel, New Orleans city champion, tomorrow in the other semi-final round.

Mrs. Israel today defeated Bea McWane women's champion from Birmingham, 2 and 1.

Yankees Gain 6-2 Win Over Senators

BOSTON, April 28. (AP) — Ted Williams had a perfect day at the plate, belting his first 1949 homer, as the Boston Red Sox swept a two-game series from the Philadelphia Athletics, 12-5.

The lanky slugger also had a single and three walks while driving in five runners.

Williams' homer, a drive into the right field bullpen off relief pitcher Jim Wilson with two on in the fifth, came after first baseman Ferris Fain and catcher Joe Astroth let his easy pop-up foul drop between them.

Lefty Mickey Harris, making his first start for the Bosox, had a three hitter until the seventh inning. He wound up allowing the Athletics 11 hits while fanning eight.

Commissioner Wants Robinson Suspended

HOUSTON, April 28 (AP) — A deputy state boxing commissioner has recommended indefinite suspension of Sugar Ray Robinson, world welterweight champion.

Jack B. Schwartz, Houston, said he forwarded the recommendation to Alton Erickson, Texas state supervisor of boxing at Austin. Robinson failed to appear here for a six-round, no decision bout last night.

Schwartz said action on the recommendation may not be taken in Austin until late this week but it probably will be forwarded to the National Boxing Association.

If the recommendation is approved, he said, the suspension would affect Robinson in 43 states operating under the Association.

Drake Relays Records Set To Fall In Saturday Events

DES MOINES, April 28 (AP) — The bulk of the Drake Relays field was in town tonight. Director Tom Decker said records would fall.

Decker was particularly emphatic about the two-mile and four-mile university relays, scheduled for Saturday.

"Drake marks appear certain to go in those events, and we might get an American mark from Michigan State in the four-mile," Tom said.

Deckard also mentioned the university spring medley, an invitational affair and one of tomorrow's feature events; the college sprint medley, college mile relay, discus, high jump and pole vault as events in which present marks may be sidelined.

Australia Gets Olympic Games

ROME, April 28 (INS) — The International Olympic Committee broke precedent today and awarded the 1956 games to Melbourne Australia.

The decision marked the first time since the modern Olympics were revived in Athens in 1896 that Australia was designated as a site.

The next set of games, in 1952, will be held in Helsinki, Finland.

The committee's action came as a shock to Detroit and five other American cities which had been bidding for the 1956 games. Boosters of these cities had been so sure that an American site would be selected that they had attempted to have the field narrowed down to American cities

Detroit Disappointed

Detroit was the most disappointed of the American bidders. The American Olympic Committee had gone all out for the Motor City as its preferred site in the event that an American locale was favored by the I.O.C.

Detroit's backers failed even though the city's mayor was on the scene and they had approval of President Truman, Melbourne won the award by a single vote, 21 to 20, with Buenos Aires in second place.

The city of Cortina, Italy was awarded the 1956 winter olympics. Cortina and Melbourne are approximately 12,000 miles apart. This geographical span between summer and winter championships is unapproached in the history of the games.

Cost Will Be High

The cost of transportation to the 1956 summer games will be tremendous. The average athlete will be required to travel about 10,000 miles to reach Melbourne.

A comparable difficulty had been anticipated with the award of the 1940 games to Tokyo, but Japan lost this award by precipitating its war with China.

Helsinki, Finland, then was selected to replace Tokyo, but World War II cancelled the entire program. In consequence, Helsinki later was picked as the host city for the 1952 games.

Westerners To Play Plainview

Bad weather interrupted baseball practice for the Lubbock Westerners Thursday, and only a light workout was held at Chapman field diamond.

The field was too damp and muddy for an extensive practice so Coach Fred Taylor sent the squ.. through a short pepper drill, throwing, and running exercises before turning them loose for the day.

Four district victories have been won by the Westerners to date, including a triple victory over Brownfield and one triumph over Plainview. Plainview has also taken a pair of games from the Brownfield Cubs.

Lubbock Needs Victory

With the south half district schedule completed except for a brace of games with Plainview, Lubbock is in a position to cinch the bottom bracket title with a victory over the Bulldogs in their game on tap Saturday at Plainview. Should the Bulldog nine upset the Westerners the game on May 3 would probably determine which team would play the winner of the north half of District One.

Westerner power at the plate has been obvious for its absence in the four district tilts that have gone into the record books despite the high scores.

Pitching Poor

In case Lubbock wins the south half of the district, it will be interesting to observe what the boys will do against better pitching that will face them in the playoff, because the pitching seen thus far in district competition has been anything but deceptive or fast.

Only two batters on the first team have averages above .300 in district play—Charles Galey and Morris Turner with .375. And over the full season only three who have been at bat more than 20 times boost .300 averages. Bob Brown, shortstop, has .355, Turner has .325, and Jessie Fullerton is hitting at a .309 clip.

FIRST ROUND WINNERS NAMED

Lamesa To Meet Midland Today

LAMESA, April 28. (Special)—Apparently well on the way to a district title, the Golden Tornado baseball team will seek its seventh straight victory at Lobo park Friday afternoon at 3:30 in a District 3-AA game with Midland's Bulldogs.

A make-up game with Abilene's Eagles, scheduled at Abilene today, was cancelled again because of rain. The game, originally scheduled for April 1, will probably be played after the end of the regular schedule May 10, and before May 14, the date for certifying district winners, Coach Jack Wetzel said today.

Lefthander Royce King, who has notched two wins against no losses, will be on the mound for the locals. The Tornadoes top the standings with six wins and one defeat, and have held opposition to 10 runs during their winning streak.

Midland's starting pitcher is not known. In the first game Lamesa defeated the Bulldogs at Midland, 4-2.

DAVIS CUP BATTLE SET

LONDON, April 28. (AP)—Europe leads off tomorrow in the annual battle for the Davis Cup, symbol of the world team championship of amateur lawn tennis. Jaroslav Drobny and his classy Czechoslovakians are favored to survive the 22-nation shakedown on the European zone as they did in 1947 and 1948.

Stan Rojek Rejoins Pirates Saturday

ST LOUIS, April 28 (INS)—Physicians said today that Pittsburgh Pirate shortstop Stan Rojek, struck on the head by a pitched ball in last night's hard-fought Pirates-Cardinals game in St. Louis, will rejoin his club in Cincinnati Saturday.

Rojek was hit behind the left ear by a ninth-inning pitch thrown by Cardinal lefthander Ken Johnson. Earlier in the game, another Cardinal pitcher, Gerald Staley, had hit Rojek in the side with a pitched ball.

Dr. Robert F. Hyland, Cardinals physician who is attending Rojek, said examination of X-ray plates did not show any fracture. However, the doctor said it was too early to tell if Rojek had suffered any permanent injury.

OFFICIALS GET BREAK

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 28 (AP)—The Oklahoma legislature has decided something should be done for heckled officials at athletic contests. It passed a bill forbidding spectators at athletic contests to throw pop bottles, cushions or other missiles.

Hogan To Get Examination

NEW ORLEANS, April 28 (U.P.)—Golf king Ben Hogan, two weeks out of a hospital and moving cautiously, said here today that "Only time will tell" if he can ever play golf again.

"I don't think even the doctors can say now whether I'll be able to play the kind of golf I want to play," the diminutive P.G.A. champion said.

He added: "I don't want to play a businessman's game."

Hogan, accompanied by his young wife, Valerie, arrived here from Fort Worth, Tex., for an extended physical checkup. He got out of a hospital in El Paso, Tex., two weeks ago.

Dr. Alton Ochsner, a famous surgeon who performed a delicate operation on Hogan to block blood clots which threatened his life after an automobile-bus collision made the examination.

Attendants at the Ochsner clinic said, "You wouldn't even know Hogan was a sick man." However, a doctor said "You can't tell about these things, not right away. But Hogan himself looked and acted cheerful. He stood without crutches which he had been forced to use for awhile after the operation.

"I feel pretty good," he said. "My ankles hurt a little now and then and my right shoulder's a little stiff, but otherwise I think I'm all right."

He said he missed the links.

"That's the only thing that interests me right now," he said. "Golf is my business."

Hogan and his wife will leave by train Friday afternoon for their home in Fort Worth.

McGee Case May Reach Jury Today

by the defendant. One was a free-for-all in front of the judge's bench which involved McGee and five law enforcement officers. This fight, which lasted ten minutes on the afternoon of April 22, ended after McGee was subdued and put in leg chains and handcuffs. Three officers were cut or bitten.

The second scuffle occurred Tuesday afternoon of this week just as the court was being adjourned for the night. In this instance the defendant, who had been in handcuffs since the first fracas, was under control in less than a minute and was carried bodily from the building and returned to his cell in the Lubbock county jail. The jury did not witness either battle.

Trial Moves Swiftly

The trial moved swiftly after Dr. W. L. Baugh, for 42 years Lubbock county health officer, left the stand. Called by the state to testify as to the sanity of the defendant, Dr. Baugh said that after studying all of the evidence so far admitted in the case and based on his personal contacts with the boy, "McGee was sane at the time of the crime and is sane at the present time."

Upon being cross-examined by Col. E. A. Simpson, Amarillo, and Burton S. Burks, defense attorneys, Dr. Baugh said that medically speaking and according to psychiatrists and mental authorities, "McGee was insane at the time of the crime and is insane now."

Dr. Baugh was very direct in answering his questions but conflicting testimony caused considerable confusion. Dr. Baugh tried to state that for one answer he was using the "legal interpretation."

Objection Is Sustained

This was objected to by Col. Simpson and was sustained on the grounds that Dr. Baugh was not a legal authority. His remark that his beliefs that "McGee was sane based on the legal understanding of the term" was stricken from the record and the jury was instructed not to consider the remark.

After District Attorney Croslin brought out that in medical terminology "any deviation from the norm is a form of insanity," Col. Simpson asked Dr. Baugh:

"Then every man of every race and of every color on this earth is insane, is that right Doctor?"

"Medically speaking that is right," Dr. Baugh said.

"Then there is no such thing as a norm, is there?" Col Simpson asked.

"That is right," Dr. Baugh answered.

"Then there can't be any norm to deviate from, can there?", Simpson pressed the witness.

"Apparently not."

At one point Col. Simpson pointed to Dr. Baugh and asked:

"Didn't you tell Attorney Burks just this last Tuesday that Richard McGee was suffering from 'schizophrenia'?"

"Yes I did," Dr. Baugh said and went on to say that schizophrenia need not always be construed as a form of insanity.

Defendant Sits Quietly

During the examining of the witnesses the defendant sat quietly in his chair at the counsel table and read a magazine. He is still in handcuffs which were placed on him after the wild demonstration he made last Friday afternoon. Although wearing the same suit throughout the trial McGee is well groomed and neat.

Other witnesses called Thursday and examined briefly were, Betty Jane Allston, 18, daughter of the slain man, Sheriff Jack Gary, San Marcos; Mrs. Ethel Allston, the widow, and Sue Allston, 14, sister of Betty Jane. Their testimony was offered in rebuttal to remarks made yesterday by Mrs. H. H. Stull, mother of the defendant.

The Allstons denied that Mrs. Stull had ever told them that Richard was a mental patient and under the case of the Waco Veteran's hospital. They also stated that she had never told them that Richard was drawing a 100 per cent disability from the government.

Sheriff Gary said that he had never contacted Mrs. Stull in 1941 to take her son to a specialist in Kyle, Texas.

Betty Jane, who was in tears when she first took the stand last week, was very composed yesterday and answered all the questions in a direct and clear manner.

Betty Jane, Sue and Sheriff Gary were not cross examined.

Judge Blair recessed the court to reconvene this morning at 9 o'clock. At that time the charge to the jury will be read and the arguments of the state and the defense made. There has been no indication as to the amount of time the court will allow for the argument. Under Texas law this is left to the discretion of the judge.

During the ten days of the trial the state has called 45 witnesses and the defense has called 16 in person and five by deposition. A full week has been taken up by the testimony alone. This followed several days of careful selection of the jury that has been hearing the case.

Airline 'Pre-Hearing' Set In Washington

By SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 28—A pre-hearing conference on the order to show cause why Pioneer airlines should not be given a five-year extension to operate in Texas and why Trans-Texas airlines should not be discontinued after one more year will be held before a civil aeronautics board examiner here Friday morning.

The conference is expected to result in setting a hearing date for the main arguments and a narrowing down of issues.

Among the questions involved are: the discontinuance of Trans-Texas service through Lufkin and Beaumont and across Texas to numerous West Texas towns; Braniff's route from Lubbock to Waco; American Airlines stops at Midland and Odessa; and Pioneer's route from Amarillo to Las Vegas. In its show cause order, CAB stated for the first time a policy of encouragement to feeder airlines. It also showed a disposition to cease unprofitable stops in smaller towns by trunk lines and to leave this business to the feeder lines.

The board said Trans-Texas would be completing its third year of licensed operations in 1950 and no renewal is planned. Former Governor James V. Allred, attorney, and interested congressmen planned to contest this.

American Liner Sails

An estimated 10,000 Nationalist troops left Shanghai by sea Wednesday, but there appeared to be no troop movements tonight.

Shanghai appeared generally quiet.

Garrison sources said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had left Wednesday aboard a destroyer for the southern port of Amoy.

Most of the foreigners remaining were here to stay, come what might.

The American liner President Wilson sailed during the afternoon after taking aboard about 300 persons of all nationalities, including about 150 Americans.

Another 118 Americans sailed aboard the U. S. Navy hospital ship Repose, presumably for Hong Kong.

About 1,500 Americans remained behind.

The U. S. consulate confirmed that the Navy had closed its shore installations and left behind only a few small craft. It said the navy ships which left the Whangpoo to avoid possible entrapment were still in the Yangtze estuary, but that the Eldorado, Adm. Oscar C. Badger's flagship, had departed.

Jester Indicates Intent To Okay Amarillo Rent Decontrol

AMARILLO, April 28. (AP)—Governor Beauford Jester will approve decontrol of rents in Amarillo, he told Mayor Lawrence Hagy by telephone today.

Thus Amarillo may become the first city in Texas to take the local option route in decontrol of rents.

The city commission Tuesday adopted a resolution declaring there is no shortage of rental housing here and recommended decontrol. The resolution was forwarded to Jester for approval.

"I am a believer in local government," the governor told Mayor Hagy. "Whatever you do in Amarillo, I will approve.

Wichita Falls Council Member Quits Post

WICHITA FALLS, April 28 (AP) Alderman John C. Coffey resigned today from the city council. This was the latest in a series of resignations which has rocked the city government since a new council was elected April 5.

The council refused to accept Colley's resignation, but he insisted he would attend the council meeting next Monday night as a member of the audience.

"I regret that I am not in position to give the required time necessary to serve," Coffey said. He was one of four holdover council members.

There have been two resignations of city officers asked by the council; two voluntary resignations, and one discharge which has been restrained by court order.

The new council asked the resignation of City Manager George Fairtrace and City Attorney Kearby Peery.

Fire Chief George O'Steen resigned voluntarily. Joe Ligon of the city engineer's office also resigned.

Recently the new council discharged Police Chief Chris Jensen. He obtained a court order restraining the council.

School Bills Okayed

the rural road fund receiving that full $30,000,000 every two years, Manford continued. The amendment giving rural roads first claim on money ahead of the minimum school foundation fund should be approved, he said.

Amendment Assailed

"I am not speaking as speaker of the House but as a representative of my district," Manford said.

Most members apparently felt the same way. They knocked down a motion to postpone consideration until Wednesday, 88 to 51, and then slammed the amendment on the bill.

Rep. George Nokes, sponsor of the bill, said its author, Senator A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris, is willing to accept the amendment.

The House recessed until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Rep. Reed, former speaker, opposes the amendment.

"This amendment is seriously jeopardizing the school system we're going to have in some form or other in this state," he said. "Now, when the blue chips are down and the payoff comes, think what you're doing.

Second Bill Okayed

"You know deep down in your heart that the school system is the most important thing to the state. Change your mind. Change you mind. Think what you're doing. Vote against this amendment."

The minority had warned that the program will plunge the state into debt.

With little debate, the House approved finally the minimum school foundation program bill, second of the G-A measures, 111 to 22.

The bill by Senator Ottis Lock of Lufkin, does these things:

Gives the state a detailed outline of minimum education standards to be observed by all school districts.

Boosts beginning teachers' salaries from a minimum of $2,000 to $2,400 per year.

Jester Signs Bills

Sets up a statistical formula aimed at making school districts bear their equitable share of the cost of education.

The bill now goes back to Senate for conference on amendments.

The Senate adjourned until Monday after passing 83 local and uncontested measures. Many were House bills that went to Gov. Jester.

Jester signed the basic science bill, saying he hoped final enactment of it and the chiropractor licensing law would end the long conflict over measures of that kind.

ed 26 feet at Victoria Thursday afternoon. The threatened crest of 28 feet—seven feet above flood stage—was postponed until Friday morning.

Light rains which fell Thursday at Cuero and Gonzales were not expected to make the situation much worse. The Guadalupe crested at Cuero today at 25.7 feet and was falling at Gonzales.

The Cuero-Gonzales highway was closed at the Guadalupe river bridge at Hochheim, half-way between the towns. Highway resident engineer W. A. King of Victoria also said that state highway 111 was closed north of Edna at the Lavaca river and south of Edna at the Navidad river. Both the Lavaca and Navidad were carrying heavy volume.

Damage In Thousands

The most graphic proof of the huge drain-off following Texas rains was seen where the Guadalupe and San Antonio rivers merge near the coast. The water was about 14 miles wide at the junction of the swollen rivers.

Big Lake's hail and rain storm also transformed usually-dry Big Lake near that city into an actual lake, for the first time in more than 10 years. The water was running over highway 67 north of the lake. The lake was two miles long and three-fourths of a mile wide.

Insurance adjusters converged on Big Lake but no damage estimate was made.

At Kermit, damage was counted in the thousands of dollars. The storm, striking late Wednesday night, damaged hundreds of house tops and an hour-long cloudburst flooded streets. Few houses escaped without broken window panes.

Harris made no distinction between "living" units built and "rental" units built, nor did he mention in any way the rapid growth of Lubbock's population during the years from 1943 to the present.

Using information gained from the gas company here, he pointed out that there had been 7,318 "turn-offs and turn-ons" during the last 12-month period, and 1,118 "turn-ons" for the same period at new residences. These figures, he said, indicated to him that people were "shopping around" for different living quarters and "moving around" sufficiently to show that housing was available.

600 Houses Claimed Vacant

He also pointed out that there were some 600 vacant houses in the city. Most of these, he added, were vacant because owners under rent control regulations could not sell them and guarantee immediate possession to the prospective buyers if tenants were in the buildings.

After the meeting, a reporter asked Harris, in half facetious and half serious vein, if he knew where the reporter might obtain a satisfactory place to live inside Lubbock proper "for $65 or less a month."

After a pause for study, Harris admitted he didn't.

No mention was made at any time during the meeting of the effect which the reactivation of Lubbock Air Force base will have upon the availability of rental units within the city.

Must Vacate Air Base

According to the most conservative estimates, hundreds of families will be among the personnel moving to Lubbock when the base is reactivated, and most of them will be renting families.

Following Harris' talk before the group in the courtroom, others were given an opportunity to speak either for or against rent de-control. However, no other person present indicated his desire to talk, and from the applause following Harris' speech it was indicated that most present were in complete agreement with his sentiments.

Petitions Passed Out

Approximately 100 petitions were passed among the group present, and those holding the petitions were asked to get "as many as you can" to sign the petitions which will be turned in at the office of County Judge Walter Davies before 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Among reasons set out on the circulated petitions as to why rents in Lubbock should be decontrolled were the following:

"Whereas, the most recent studies made by the Bureau of the Census, the Department of Labor Statistics and the Federal Reserve Board indicate that there is no housing shortage in America but a declining availability nationally of rental housing because of the disparity in rents allowed under rent control."

"Whereas, there appeared in the April 10 issue of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal 'For Rent' advertisements of more than 50 apartments, and in the April 17 issue an equal number of apartments, 40 bedrooms, and 20 furnished and unfurnished houses, which is in itself conclusive evidence that there no longer exists a housing shortage in Lubbock."

To Ask De-Control

The petitions, along with a resolution asking for rent de-control, will be presented at an open meeting of the City commission in the near future, Harris indicated.

Next step in the procedure would be some action on the part of the City commission, either approving or disapproving rent de control Provided the commission were in favor of de-control, the completion of the action would require only the favorable action of Governor Beauford H. Jester to bring Lubbock completely outside federal control on rents.

Once controls are lifted in Lubbock, citizens have no recourse under the law. Rent de-control, once it is approved for Lubbock by the governor, cannot be revoked.

U. S. Marine Corps League To Hold Convention In Amarillo

Col. Francis H. Brink, officer in charge of the Southern recruiting division of the U. S. Marine corps, with headquarters in Dallas, will be guest speaker at a banquet for the Southwest regional convention of the Marine Corps league in Amarillo Saturday night.

The Southwest regional convention is to be held Saturday and Sunday, said Sgt. M. L. Alles of the Lubbock recruiting station, who said some Marines of this section might wish to attend.

Marine Corps league members of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico are to attend the meeting.

Col. Jean Moreau, USMC, retired, national vice-commandant, will represent the National Marine Corps league at the business meeting.

Mrs. R. W. Duke, Longtime Wellington Resident, Is Claimed

WELLINGTON, April 28 (AP) — Mrs. R. W. Duke, 75, died here yesterday. She had lived here 42 years.

Seven children survive. They are Will T. Duke, Aubrey Duke and Mrs. Lucille Gilley, Amarillo; R. E. Duke, Dimmitt; Mrs. Sue Stull, Fort Sumner, N.M.; Mrs. Alma Gillespie, Clovis, N.M., and Mrs. Gladys McPherson, Wellington.

Ten Persons Killed In Philippine Ambush

MANILA, Friday, April 29 (AP)—Mrs. Aurora Quezon, widow of the Philippines' first president, was among 12 persons killed yesterday in an ambush, possibly aimed at President Elpidio Quirino.

The dead included Mrs. Quezon's unmarried daughter, Maria Aurora, 33, and her son-in-law, Felipe Buencamino III, 28.

Machine gunners riddled the Quezon car on a lonely mountain road 88 miles by air northeast of Manila. Ten persons were wounded.

President Quirino, at the summer capital in Baguio, said he believed the killers were simply bandits.

Manila newspapers suggested that it may have been a trap by the Communist-led Hukbalahaps intended to slaughter Quirino.

Quirino had been invited to accompany the Quezon party on a trip to Baler to unveil a memorial to the late President Manuel Quezon. He had sent word at the last minute he could not go.

It had been well known that Mrs. Quezon and a party of high officials would make the motor trip Thursday.

President Quirino ordered a full-scale campaign against the killers by the army and constabulary.

training is more important today than ever before for positions in government, in foreign relations, and in private industry. He cited a number of cases where such Christian training and Christian convictions had directly aided the cause of America and its private industry in many parts of the world, and how lack of it among American representatives had alienated people of other nations against the United States and its way of life.

"God help us to do the best we can at home, in the school, in the church, to educate for world peace," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president of Texas Tech. Mrs. E. S. Smith, of Lorenzo, president of fourteenth district, presided at the session.

Songs Are Presented

Prior to the opening of the session proper, organ music was presented by Miss Anna V. Moren. A number of songs were presented by the Melody and Harmony choir of Carroll Thompson Junior High, under direction of Elois Elliot.

The invocation was asked by Rev. David L. Zacharias, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, followed by an address of welcome by Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent of Lubbock public schools.

Greetings were brought by Mrs. J. H. Moore, president of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers. Speaking for herself and for other state officers who have attended the convention, she said that "we like to come this way. We have enjoyed it and we won't forget it."

Foreign Students Present

Mrs. Jack M. Little, of Dallas, chairman of Spanish speaking Parent-Teacher associations, reported that "out of 254 Texas counties, only 10 have no citizens of Spanish speaking extraction," and that "we of the Texas Congress (of Parents and Teachers) are proud to report that there are 57 Spanish speaking associations in Texas." She outlined briefly the work that has been done for and with these associations.

With speakers and others who were on the stage were a number of foreign students currently attending Texas Tech and Wayland college, who were special guests.

A vocal solo, "The Holy City," was presented by Miss Muriel Okamoto, Wayland student. Another student of that college, Peter Chinn, sang "This Is My Task," with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Elton Plowman.

Several musical selections, among them "Rain," and "When Day Is Done," were presented by the P-TA Mothersingers of Slaton, under direction of Mrs. C. H. Green. A solo, "The End of a Perfect Day," was sung by Elton Plowman, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Plowman. For the benediction Plowman sang "The Lord's Prayer."

who supported the States Rights ticket in the election last November.

McCormack said they were only "sitting by tolerance" on the Democratic side, and, he said, if many Democrats had their way those who failed to support Mr. Truman last year wouldn't even be considered as Democrats.

The first major test is expected tomorrow with a vote on a bill by Rep. Wood (D-Ga) which would substitute for the administration's bill sponsored by Rep Lesinski (D-Mich.)

Wood's measure would kill the Taft-Hartley act in name but retain many of its major features. The Lesinski bill would junk the T-H law almost completely and revive the old 1935 Wagner act with some changes.

Administration leaders are confident they can beat down the Republican-southern Democratic coalition. They conceded a few barbs may have to be admitted into the Lesinski bill, by way of amendments.

Wichita Falls Transit Strike Expected To End Early Today

DALLAS, April 28 (AP)—General manager T. S. Reece of Continental Trailways said a deal was completed tonight selling the Wichita Transit company to Joe Perusse of Mississippi.

He said service on the strike bound city system at Wichita Falls would resume tomorrow morning.

Members of the AFL bus drivers union which struck Friday midnight in support of wage demands were standing by at Wichita Falls for word that the sale was completed.

sewage designing, he added.

Lubbock applicants will have the inside track for the job, if qualified, Matthews said. Next to them in preference will be residents elsewhere on the South Plains. The salary will be determined by direct negotiations. Oldham has received $450 a month plus the city bonus.

Two of the extensions of the city limits completed at the meeting required only the routine action of approving on final readings previously discussed ordinances providing for the annexations.

One of the new additions to the City of Lubbock is Denison Heights, embracing four double-length blocks bounded by Thirtieth and Thirty-second streets and Taylor and Pierce avenues. The other is McMillan Heights in Northwest Lubbock, bounded by Maple and North Fourth streets and Tyler and Van Buren avenues.

They add somewhat more than a half of a square mile to the city's area and, if and when announced plans for development are carried out, will mean an increase of 1,500 to 2,000 in the Lubbock population.

New Extension Urged

Prospects for another city limits extension regarded by officials as being of major importance also were brightened after a committee of interested citizens conferred with the commission.

The group resides in the area immediately outside the city limits extending from Nineteenth street southward to Twenty-sixth and from Tyler and Taylor, which are two blocks apart, to Pierce avenue, which is another two blocks west of Taylor.

The city limits in that area now follow a jagged path which long has been a city commission headache and which Mayor Rodgers described, bluntly, as a "mess." Taylor avenue is the city boundary line for most of that area. But from Taylor to Tyler, two blocks east, a bottle shaped area still remains outside the limits, although almost completely surrounded by the city.

This situation has arisen from the refusal of some of the property owners in the past to plat their real estate to conform with the property it adjoins in the city limits. In one instance, an owner wanted to cut his property up into lots without leaving space for an alley. His idea was to let people who build there set their garbage cans in front of their homes. In other instances, owners have declined to dedicate sufficient rights-of-way for needed streets.

Expensive Homes Built

The result has been to prevent the annexation to the city not only of the "bottle" area, but of the rapidly developing territory west of it, which has been the scene of a great deal of building activity. Most of the residences there have been of the better type—some of them representing investments up to $40,000 and $50,000.

Because of being outside the city limits, the whole area is without zoning protection. Some shoddy and commercial building already has been done—and much more of it proposed—which threatens to impair the desirability of that section as a place of residence.

These and other fears were expressed to the commission by a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Sandlin, Mrs. W. C. Bigham and T. W. Waddell.

Petition To Be Circulated

They were advised to circulate a petition among the residents of the area interested in annexation to the city.

"If a majority wants to be annexed, we'll annex them," Commissioner E. K. Hufstedler assured the group.

Mrs. Lewis said the petitions will be started at once, and she predicted that "at least three-fourths" of the residents will sign.

The area contains about a half of a square mile and several hundred inhabitants. Such an annexation also would remove a barrier to the extension of the limits to include large developing areas west of Pierce avenue and south of Nineteenth street in which several thousand people reside.

Highlights of the health plan reorganization recommended by the medical society committee were these:

1. Increased personnel and other costs which would boost the departmental budget about $90,000 to $150,000 a year.

2. Permanent improvements costing about $450,000.

3. More liberal provision for payments for the treatment and/or hospitalization of indigents without including this cost — of an amount not estimated — in the health department budget.

4. The separation of welfare agents and budgets from those of the health department.

5. The demotion of Gerald E. Jarvis, now director of the City-County Department of Public Health and Welfare, to the rank of "executive assistant" and his replacement by a doctor as director. Jarvis now receives about $400 a month The lowest estimate of the salary of an officer of the type recommended by the committee has been "$10,000 or $12,000 a year."

Dr. R. C. Douglas was spokesman for the committee during several conferences.

Members of the commission took the 23-page, single-spaced typewritten recommendations under advisement in silence. Off-the-record comments ranged from non-committal to blisteringly critical.

Youth Maintains He Struck TCU Dean After Violent Argument

CLEBURNE, April 28 (AP)—Arthur Clayton Hester heatedly denied at his murder trial today that he sprang from hiding in a closet to bludgeon Dr. John Lord, his benefactor.

Hester said he killed his 70-year-old guardian, graduate school dean of Texas Christian university, after an angry quarrel.

Fourteen defense witnesses paraded to the stand after Hester testified. Then the defense rested and the trial moved to a night session.

Hester told a jam-packed court room this version of the slaying.

Lord promised Hester on March 8 to let him use his car if he would submit to an unnatural sex act. On that day, at 6:30 a. m., the 18-year-old defendant asserted he submitted to such an act. But when Lord returned from Fort Worth to his lonely farm home near Burleson, Tex., at noon, he refused to let Hester have the automobile.

Arrested On West Coast

There was an argument outside the house. Then Lord walked into the living room. Hester followed. Hester struck Lord with a metal rod, then followed him into the bedroom and struck him several more times. It was in the bedroom that Lord's body was found, March 10. Two days later, Hester was arrested at Los Angeles.

The state has a different theory of what happened to Dr. Lord. It accuses the handsome Hester of lying in wait for Lord in a bedroom closet. It charges he sprang from the closet when Lord walked into the room and struck him from behind. It further charges Hester robbed the victim of his ring, money and automobile.

District Attorney John A. James, jr. pursued this theory in cross-examining the nervous, fidgeting boy.

James picked up a stained hat, found on Lord's body.

"This is blood inside the hat, isn't it, Hester?" The district attorney asked.

"It looks like it," the youth replied.

Youth Denies Claims

The district attorney suddenly perched the hat on his own head. He walked before the jury. Then, dramatically, he whirled and fired a question:

"Hester, did you leap out of that closet in the bedroom and hit him?"

"No!" Hester shouted.

"You didn't call an ambulance, did you Hester!"

"No."

"You didn't care."

"No."

"You didn't make a report of what you had done to the authorities, ever."

"No."

When Hester was excused after two and one-half hours of testimony, he turned to reporters and exclaimed: "Whew, I'm glad that's over."

Defense Attorney Al Clyde continued his efforts to inject a theme of sex perversion into the trial.

At one point Judge Penn Jackson asked him:

"Are you trying Hester for murder or Dr. Lord for being a homosexual?"

Several questions Clyde asked various witnesses—and their answers—had been stricken from the records.

New Theory Offered In Evolution Process

AUSTIN, April 28 (INS) — A world-famed paleonologist told one thousand University of Texas students recently that he believes evolution was planned by a supreme being.

A revolution in beliefs about the origin of man has been brought about by discoveries in South Africa, Dr. Robert Broom declared.

"The knowledge which has come out of South Africa shows that evolution was planned," he said. He saw a supreme being as the controlling mind behind the development of today's forms of life, as contrary to Darwin's theory of natural selection and evolution based on change.

Ape-Man Species Discovered

"Animal evolution has stopped, but man will develop and become better than we know him today," he said.

He described the five species of ape-man which have been found in South Africa, three of which he himself discovered during his 60-odd years of exploration.

The now famous Swartkrans Man, a "nearly human creature," was found in the form of fossil remains chipped from a Transvaal cave last fall. It is believed to be about one million years old.

Although recovered petrified bones of this branch of man's prehistoric ancestors were suspected of being badly chewed by Saber-tooth tigers, it has been established, he said, that the Swartkrans Man had a sub-human mind, human teeth, walked upright, probably used primitive tools, and hunted in packs.

That was a million years ago.

In the early days of the telephone, the instruments were often leased in pairs, permitting two stations to talk to each other but to no one else.

6,610 PERSONS DIE

Traffic Deaths On Increase Over U. S.

CHICAGO, April 28 (INS)—The National Safety council reported today in Chicago that 6,610 persons died in traffic accidents during the first three months of 1949, marking a two per cent increase over the first quarter death rate.

Council President Ned H. Dearborn said the higher fatality rate reflected greater motor vehicle travel. The council reported traffic mileage was boosted five per cent during January and February.

Nineteen of 46 states reporting March death totals told the council their rates had fallen compared to 1948 figures, but 25 states said their death tolls had risen during the same period.

The North Atlantic and South Atlantic regions were held chiefly responsible by the safety council for the over-all increase in traffic fatalities through 1949's first three months.

Council officials reported North Atlantic death totals increased 14 per cent and the South Atlantic region marked up a 12 per cent boost in traffic fatalities.

India's United Provinces Government decided to organize a squad of women police under the direction and control of local police officers.

Cattle From King Ranch May Be Used For Breeding In Liberia

CORPUS CHRISTI, April 28 (AP)—Cattle from the famed King ranch of Texas may be sent to Liberia for cross breeding with native cattle there to improve the strain.

The plans were disclosed here by Frank E. Pinder of the U. S. Economic mission in Monrovia, Liberia. The negro agricultural production specialist toured King ranch to appraise its Santa Gertrudis cattle.

"The Santa Gertrudis," he said, "will fit in exceptionally well in Liberia." He said Liberia's native cattle are "scrubs" by American standards.

Pinder has spent the last five years in Liberia with the economic mission. Purpose of the mission, he said, is to survey natural resources of the country and recommend to both the U. S. and Liberian governments methods of developing the resources.

Reed said Buck notified him Thursday of his acceptance of the invitation to preside at the barbacue, which will be featured by an address by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

Wiggins To Speak

Address of welcome to the visitors will be given by Tech's president, Dr. D. M. Wiggins. The barbecue will be held on the Tech campus.

Possibilities of attendance of between 1,000 and 1,500 persons at the barbecue was expressed Thursday by Howard Davison, Lubbock attorney who is chairman of the local arrangements committee.

Davison announced the appointment of four committees for the barbecue. Joe H. Bryant has been named chairman of a big contributions committee and will select his own members.

Others Are Named

Glenn Hackney has been named chairman of the agriculture committee and members are: Dave Sherrill, Earl Teague of Shallowater and Bill Tilson of Meadow.

Howard Hoffman has been appointed to head a Slaton committee and members are: Edwin Forrest, Nat Heaton and J. H. Brewer.

Robert Howard, Lubbock attorney, is chairman of a straight ticket sales committee and will name approximately 20 members to his group.

Preparations for the barbecue are going forward at a rapid clip, Davison said Thursday. He reported an enthusiastic response for tickets from out-of-town circles and said greater effort must be made on local sales.

"We certainly wouldn't want to have more out-of-town people than home folks at the barbecue," Davison said. "For that reason we must concentrate on sale of tickets locally during the next week, for at the present time we have more tickets purchased and larger contributions by people over the state."

The barbecue is the third fund-raising event to be staged by the Democratic party in Texas, $25-a-plate dinners having been previously held at Austin and Corpus Christi.

Ex-Luftwaffe Flier Is Native Texan

Former German Pilot Likes New Life In U. S. Army Unit

DENVER, April 28 (INS)—A Texas-born product of the Hitler youth movement, who was a pilot in the German Luftwaffe and a Nazi machine-gunner during World War II, was serving today as a motor corporal in the U.S. Army.

Karl H. Gebert, born in Abilene on April 20, 1926, admitted he "almost forgot" he was an American by birth, but declared:

"I never want to go back to Germany. I wish I could bring my mother and sick brother here, but most of all I wish I could tell Germans how we live here. It is so much better."

Stationed At Arsenal

Gebert is stationed at the Rocky Mountain arsenal near Denver.

After serving as a member of the Luftwaffe for two years, he was ordered to man a machine gun against the Russians at Brandenburg in April, 1945.

With the collapse of the Nazi forces, he and two companions started for Berlin, but were captured and ordered to a Russian prison camp. Gebert escaped by slipping into a crowd of villagers who were passing out water to the prisoners.

He finally reached Berlin and worked as an interpreter for the U. S. occupation forces. He then sought to establish American citizenship, and after a review, was told he would first have to return to the United States. He then enlisted in the U. S. Army in Berlin. He completed basic training at Fort Dix, N. J., and was then assigned to the Chemical Warfare service at the arsenal.

The former German soldier was not impressed with Russian power, despite the result of the Brandenburg battle. He said:

"The Russians just have men, not much else. I never saw a Russian-made car or truck, just captured German equipment and American lend-lease vehicles."

On his life in the American army, he declared:

"We are treated much better and have more freedom, but I'm still afraid to talk back to noncoms or tell what I am thinking. My fellow soldiers are fine and are my best friends, which I never expected.

Bank Reserve Requirements Are Lowered To Stimulate Lending

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The Federal Reserve board lowered the reserve requirements tonight of its 7,000 member banks by $1,200,000,000 making more money available for lending.

This was the fourth board action in two months to combat deflation as reflected in lowered prices, production, sales and employment.

The lowered requirements will become effective next week.

The reduction in the amounts that various classes of banks must turn over to the Federal Reserve banks as reserves—thereby freezing them out of the lending stream—are:

New York and Chicago banks—the proportion of checking account deposits which must be kept in reserve is cut from 26 percent to 24, effective May 5; the proportion of savings deposits required to be held as reserve is reduced from 7½ percent to 7, also effective May 5.

"Reserve" banks (those in large cities like Dallas, other than New York and Chicago)—checking account reserves cut from 22 to 21 percent, effective May 5; savings reserves reduced from 7½ to 7 percent, also effective May 5.

'Country' Banks Affected

"Country" banks—checking account reserves reduced from 16 to 15 percent, effective May 1; savings reserves from 7½ to 7 percent, effective May 1.

The reserve board has taken these other steps to buoy up the economy: twice relaxed controls over installment credit, and also made it easier to buy stocks by lowering the margin—or down payment—requirements to 50 percent.

Today's action to make it easier for the banks to lend came after the sharpest and fastest decline in business loans on record —a contraction estimated by the board at approximately $1,500,000,000 since the start of this year.

PACKARD UNVEILS 50 YEARS OF PROGRESS—Automotive progress over the last half-century is vividly shown in comparison of Packard's Model A—built in 1899—and the new Golden Anniversary Packard Super. The new models, commemorating Packard's 50 years, will be on display soon at the Bill Dean Motor company's showroom, 1102 Fourteenth.

New Line Of Packard Automobiles Will Be Offered With 'Different' No-Shift Device

DETROIT, April 28—Packard Motor Car company announced today a complete new line of Golden anniversary automobiles and a no-shift device unlike any other in the industry—"ultramatic drive," available initially as standard equipment on the 160-horsepower custom eights.

George T. Christopher, president and general manager said, "More than 5,000 of these new cars already have been built. They contain 77 major improvements and dozens of minor changes, adding up to the finest of the 1,200,000 automobiles which Packard has produced in the past 50 years.

Ultramatic Drive Featured

"But the crowning achievement for our Golden anniversary year is the ultramatic drive, which impartial experts describe as 'the closest approach to the engineering ideal of no transmission at all.'"

The Golden anniversary Packards will go on display in showrooms throughout the United States and Canada next week, following a "kickoff" meeting of dealers in Detroit's Masonic temple May 2 and a mass driveaway of 2,000-gold-painted cars from Packard's 504-acre proving grounds near Utica, Mich., May 3.

Power Stepped Up

Christopher said prices would be revealed for the first time at the May 2 meeting.

The new line of Golden anniversary Packards includes the 135-horsepower eights, on a 120-inch wheelbase; the 150-horsepower super eights, on a 127-wheelbase; and the 160-horsepower custom eights, on a 127-inch wheelbase. They are in 14 different body types, including a limousine, seven-passenger sedans, convertibles and a "station sedan."

Christopher emphasized that the engines in the Golden anniversary eights and super eights are more powerful than those in comparable models of the 1949 line—135 horsepower for the new eights, compared with 130, and 150 for the new super eights, compared with 145. The wheelbase of the new super eights is seven inches longer than that of the comparable preceding model.

"Ultramatic" More Responsive

Christopher credited Col. J. G. Vincent, a director and the vice-president of engineering, with playing a key role in the creation of "ultramatic drive" after 16 years of development and test.

Christopher explained, "The device, which eliminates gear shifting, is unique because a torque converter is used for acceleration and positive mechanical drive for cruising.

"For example, if the driver pressed hard on the accelerator, the unit doesn't shift automatically into positive drive—the direct connection between engine and rear wheels—until 55 miles an hour. If he releases pressure momentarily—at any point between 15 and 55 miles an hour—the unit shifts at once into direct drive. The driver has full control at all times. He's not 'chained' either to the torque converter or the direct drive.

"Direct drive means no wasteful slippage—because the torque converter actually 'goes along for the ride' while the engine directly powers the rear wheels. A custom eight equipped with the unit, in fact, gives slightly more miles per gallon of gasoline than the same car with conventional drive.

"The Packard torque converter is simpler than any other now being produced. It contains fewer parts. Routine maintenance is confined to checking the oil level at periodic intervals and adding some, if needed."

San Antonio 'Dog Hater' Held For Illegal Possession Of Gun

SAN ANTONIO, April 28 (INS)—A San Antonio dog had the last laugh when a neighboring man took a pot shot in his direction.

Police booked the shooter for unlawfully carrying a pistol.

Police reported that it was the second time the man had been charged with firing at the dog. The first shooting cost the man $100 in fines.

Group Demands Interneships For Negroes In Houston Hospital

HOUSTON, April 28 (U.P.)—A demand that negro doctors be permitted to practice and serve as internes at Jefferson Davis hospital here was voiced today, and city council consideration of the proposal was set for next week.

A 10-member delegation from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People went before the council yesterday afternoon to present a formal statement, but was advised to return next Wednesday morning to appear at the council's public meeting.

Lulu B. White, Houston secretary of the NAACP, led the group into the council chambers.

She said they appeared at the request of some 25 or 30 negro physicians.

The official demand will be that the city council ask the hospital board of managers to "accord the same privileges to the negro equivalent of the Harris County Medical society" as it does to that group.

Hospital rules require physicians be members of the Harris County Medical society before they are admitted to practice there. Negroes are not eligible for membership in the society.

Spokesmen for the delegation said the negro equivalent to the society is the Houston Medical forum, which they claimed is recognized by both the Texas and national medical societies.

WON'T LET HIM RETIRE

HENDERSON, Tenn. (U.P.)—Dr. L. C. Smith's patients put an end to his desire to retire after half a century of medical practice. The patients swamped his office and the country doctor changed his mind. Smith has delivered 4,000 babies, including 52 sets of twins, in West Tennessee communities.

Dallas Firm To Erect 'Half-Buried' Building

DALLAS, April 28 (INS)—An eight-story building is going up in Dallas that will appear to be only four stories high.

It will be as deep into the ground as it will be high in the sky. Four of the floors will be underground.

Dynamiters and workers with powerful air drills have already bored 45 feet beneath the level of Commerce street in Dallas. The new building — the Mercantile National bank garage—will go up on St. Paul at Commerce and Jackson.

Rock Slows Progress

After the first 13 or 14 feet, diggers have had to cope with blue rock all the way.

It is the hard granite-like stratum of limestone that underlies the Blackland area's white stone.

R. L. Haralson, 60-year-old superintendent of the dynamiting and grading, says that excavation is "no worse than any other downtown building we've worked on."

Adrian W. Norwood, one of the construction engineers, however, said that the garage building will have enough base for a tall skyscraper.

"The crews will have all the rock out in a month," Haralson said, "and then you'll be looking at the biggest basement in town."

UNDONE BY CURIOSITY

CRANSTON, R. I. (U.P.)—Curious about an automobile she saw circling a downtown area, a woman telephoned police. Officers who sped to the scene discovered the mysterious car was stolen and that it contained two men who confessed they were about to hold up a loan company office.

Engineering Firm Reported Developing X-Ray Telescope

DALLAS, April 28 (AP)—Your doctor hasn't seen anything yet.

Wait until he gets a look at your interior with an X-ray telescope engineers are now developing.

The new gadget, Charles A. Scarlott of Pittsburgh, Pa., says, will give doctors a 500 times brighter view of your insides than X-ray now does.

Scarlott, representative of a large electrical engineering company, addressed the American Institute of Electrical Engineers here yesterday.

Diameters of planets range from 3,000 miles, in the case of Mercury, to 88,000 miles, in the case of Jupiter.

INS Expands News Facilities Over World Past Year, Report Shows

NEW YORK, April 28 (INS) — Further expansion of its services to newspaper, radio, and television clients and completion of the last link in a round-the-world radioprinter news network were announced today by International News service in its annual progress report.

The report was presented to news and business executives of the agency by INS vice president and general manager, Seymour Berkson, at their annual business meeting in connection with the convention of the American Newspaper Publishers association at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Summarizing the progress of INS during the past twelve months, Berkson stated that "1948 was the greatest year in INS history—and based on our achievements during the first three months of this year, 1949 will be even greater.

Provide TV News

"Our client list has been expanding steadily at home and abroad," the INS general manager continued. "Since January 1, 1948, we have added to our domestic and foreign client lists a grand total of 157 newspapers, 49 radio stations, 29 television stations, and 15 special service clients.

"In the television field itself, our growth since January 1, 1948, has been phenomenal. We now serve 45 of the 60 existing television stations with one or more of our news elements. Our television news material reaches 30 out of 36 television market areas.

"These television news packages consist of daily and weekly newsreels produced in collaboration with Telenews Productions, Inc., dial news photo packages produced by our picture affiliate, International News photos, and newstape and page printer news bulletin service produced by our news staff. We are the only news agency to date to provide such comprehensive news coverage for television stations. We have pioneered in this field since early 1946.

Expands Number Of Clients

"At the recent convention of the National Association of broadcasters in Chicago, INS unveiled a remarkable new projection machine called projectall designed especially for rapid, simplified projection of news bulletins and news photos on television. New methods of transmitting news photos by wire for use on television were also introduced."

Keeping pace with the expansion of its client list at home and abroad, INS domestic and foreign news - gathering facilities have been expanded, Berkson revealed.

In the U.S.A., additional INS bureaus were opened during the last 12 months in Birmingham, Ala., Raleigh, N. C., and Santa Fe, N. M., he said.

In Europe, additional American correspondents have been stationed by INS in key centers along the iron curtain frontiers to reinforce coverage of all potential trouble zones. Far eastern and Latin American operations have also been reinforced.

New Setup Used

"On April 1," the Berkson report continued, "INS inaugurated the last link in its high-speed, round-the-world radioprinter network for the transmission of news dispatches to foreign countries. This link was established when regular radioprinter service began over our leased wireless transmitters in San Francisco to Japan and Korea.

"This teleprinter to teleprinter service is functioning perfectly by shortwave radio at the same speed of 60 words per minute with which the news services transmit their regular news reports to domestic clients in the U.S.A. over leased telephone lines.

"Electronic developments during and since World War II have made it possible to do the same news transmission job by radio at a fraction of the former cost when dispatches had to be transmitted abroad by undersea cables or commercial wireless.

"Actually, we use the same type of teleprinters we use in domestic service except they are linked by radio beams instead of telephone lines. INS has pioneered in this field of news communications and is working on a number of other news transmission projects of prime importance.

"At present, INS global service reaches the major capitols of Europe and South America via radio transmitters in New York linked directly to sending teleprinters in San Francisco linked similarly to sending teleprinters in the INS San Francisco bureau. The radioprinter circuits enable INS to pump more news abroad faster and cheaper than ever before.

"Stockholm, Rome, and Athens were recently added to the European radioprinter network. In France, where one of the first INS radioprinter services was installed immediately after perfection of the system, a long term agreement for this service has been signed recently with the largest newspaper group in Paris — the France Soir group.

"Altogether, INS dispatches reach directly on its own teletype and wireless channels and indirectly through network and other tieups a grand total throughout the world more than 2,575 newspapers, radio stations, and television outlets. The global audience thus reached is conservatively estimated to exceed 250,000,000 persons.

"We have found greater preference abroad than ever before for the American news services and their standards of free enterprise and objectivity.

PAINLESS EXAM

Pupils Are Tested On 'Quiz Program'

DALLAS, April 23 (INS) — quiz program has invaded the Dallas elementary schools.

It seems to be one of the most painless ways of giving what oldsters would call "a darned hard test." The kids are proud to strut up to the microphone and answer questions from the quizmaster.

Principal E. D. Johnston of Clinton P. Russell school said, "it's a wonderful experience for the children. It fits right in with our longrange program.

Beaumont Negro Buys Car With Two Sacks Of 'Loose Change'

BEAUMONT, April 28. (INS)—A nickle here, a dime there can result in a new automobile.

A Beaumont negro last week paid for a car with two large sacks of money. They contained $1,430 in mixed coins and $80 in dines. The rest was in bills.

The man said he had been saving for ten years to buy the car. It took the car dealer four hours to count the money.

Texas Boy, Minus Arms, Legs, Prepares To Start School In Fall

DALLAS, April 28. (INS)—A six-year-old Texas youngster has learned to read, write, and clothe himself—without arms or legs.

Richard Miller was born without limbs. For the last year, the child, who is the son of a Garland, Texas, laborer, has been preparing intensively for his enrollment in school next fall.

He manages to write by manipulating a pencil between his cheek and his right arm stub.

Richard sings hillbilly and religious songs which he hears on the radio. He has made several radio and stage appearances.

He propels himself forward by the stumps of his legs, using already highly-developed thigh muscles to overcome his handicap.

His parents believe he writes and draws more accurately than do most six-year-olds with arms.

Letter For 'Senator' Finds Way To Texas Representative

AUSTIN, April 28. (INS)—A San Saba state representative was a little surprised the other morning when he walked to his desk and found a letter addressed to a state senator.

"Senator Reubenfit" was the name on the envelope. The recipient—correctly enough—was Representative Reuben Senterfitt.

NOTICE!

TO OUR FRIENDS AND LOYAL CUSTOMERS

In 1944, Saveway Food Stores started in the retail grocery business in Lubbock. It registered its tradename "Saveway Food Stores--Save At Saveway" and the Secretary of State issued his certificate giving the Company the right to use that name.

Recently the Safeway Chain Store System obtained an injunction in the United States District Court to stop us from using our registered tradename because it was claimed to be too much like Safeway. Such chain system has never had stores in this section of the State and does not even propose to put in stores in Lubbock.

We are appealing from the judgment and in the meantime, we must obey the injunction. Until it is disposed of we are stores without a name.

B. M. Taylor, who established such stores, moved into your midst and by fair play and giving friendly and courteous service and selling the best merchandise that can be bought at fair and competitive prices, built up for the Saveway Food Stores a splendid and profitable business and reputation. The people at Saveway are homefolks, living and spending their substance among you and participating in civic and public affairs. They believed they had a valuable asset in their registered tradename and spent thousands of dollars advertising it.

What name we may use after May 1st and until appeal is heard is a big question mark. For the want of a better name we will use this question mark to identify our stores which will constitute the symbol of fine merchandise at low prices and friendly, courteous service just the same as the word "Saveway" in our registered name has done.

Effective May 1st, we cannot advertise "Save at Saveway" until the appeal is heard, but when you see the question mark in our advertising and on our stores, just remember it means come in and Save, even though we are a store without a name.

Your continued loyal support in this just cause will be greatly appreciated by all of us.

JOHNSON AND AUSTIN URGE QUICK ACTION ON PACT

Defense Secretary Johnson Says U. S. Now Able To Finance Huge Western Europe Arms Project

By M. K. REYNOLDS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 28. — Defense Secretary Johnson said today that the United States could finance the $1,130,000,000 Western European arms program atop its own $15 billion defense budget next year.

Johnson and Warren R. Austin chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, testified before the Senate Foreign Relations committee and urged prompt ratification of the North Atlantic defense treaty.

Security At Stake

Johnson said that if he were faced with a choice between the American defense budget and no arms for Europe, or 14 billions for the U. S. and one billion for Europe he would take the full U. S. outlay.

The secretary, who emphasized that "our security comes first," added, however, that America's participation in the Atlantic pact is an "investment in preparedness."

Meanwhile, President Truman told his news conference that he will send his budget recommendations for Western European rearmament to Congress as soon as the State Department completes its work.

Secretary of State Acheson has estimated that the arms program will cost the U. S. $1,130,000,000 for pact nations and $320 million for Greece and Turkey the first year.

Quick Action Asked

Austin advocated prompt ratification of the treaty to counteract what he called Russia's "brazen violation" of UN pledges against aggression.

He said that the pact substitutes the new idea of a "preponderance of power" aimed at an aggressor for the old concept of a balance-of-power which, he said, was given its "blue discharge" when the UN was formed.

Austin reaffirmed his rejection of Soviet charges that the pact violates the UN charter. He said:

"In this shrinking world, peace will be secured and maintained only if we pursue the goal of collective security that is set up in the charter.

"The North Atlantic is a practical, although geographically limited, method of supporting that universal objective."

Austin said that the United Nations Security Council would be prevented by veto from acting in the case of a conflict involving Russia. He said this was one of the chief reasons for entering into the collective security arrangements of the new treaty.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) said that the best answer to those who objected to the treaty as a military alliance was that it is a "partnership for peace instead of a partnership for power."

Anton Recruit Is Assigned To Fifth Armored Division

CAMP CHAFFEE, Ark., April 28 (Special)—Pct. Walter W. Pursley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pursley of Anton route 2, has been assigned to the Fifth Armored division for eight weeks of basic training.

Reactivated July 6, 1948 the Fifth Armored "Victory" division hung up a brilliant war record in six European campaigns during World War II. Camp Chaffee will soon have 20,000 troops, making it the largest training center in the nation.

Austria's better food supply this year is reported starving out the black market.

Wayland College Dean Resigns Post For Position In Arizona

PLAINVIEW, April 28 (Special)—Dr. Floy S. Wise, academic dean of Wayland college, has resigned his position to accept the deanship at Grand Canyon college, Prescott, Arizona.

He will leave here Saturday April 30, to assume his new duties, he stated. Dr. Wise has been the head of the history department here, as well as attending to his duties as dean.

Congress Asked To Approve U. S. Membership In Trade Group

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—President Truman today asked Congress to authorize United States membership in the International Trade organization.

He called it "an essential forward step in our foreign policy."

Mr. Truman submitted to the Senate and House the charter for the International Trade organization prepared by a conference of the United Nations in Havana in 1948. He said it was designed:

To establish "a code of international conduct to guide nations in dealing with the fundamental problems of world trade."

To create an agency, within the framework of the United Nations, "to help implement this code."

Under the charter, the President said, member nations "commit themselves to abide by fair and liberal principles of trade."

He added a statement that "we have learned through bitter experience how necessary it is for nations to approach jointly the task of improving the conditions of world trade."

MANFORD'S POLICIES CRITICIZED

Solon Apologizes After Verbal Attack On Texas House Speaker

AUSTIN, April 28 (AP)— Rep. Leslie King of Vernon lambasted the speaker of the House today and then apologized. Ten other representatives spoke in the speaker's behalf.

King had lashed bitterly at the speaker, Rep. Durwood Manford of Smiley, for "using power to force people to vote a particular way."

"I want to apologize to the House and to Durwood Manford, the speaker," King said, "for any insinuations I may have said that would reflect on his character and his ability to lead this House."

King had criticized the speaker for what he said was unwillingness to set a period for consideration of local bills.

"On numerous occasions I have gone to the speaker and asked that a local calendar be set," King declared. "The speaker told me he didn't want a local calendar set at night because he was afraid a few members would get drunk.

Talk Is Resented

"I'd resent that kind of talk from my closest friends. When the speaker doesn't have enough confidence in the members and is afraid to set a local calendar at night because he's afraid—he's sure — members will get drunk, we've come to a sorry state of affairs."

King said the speaker had gone on the floor in support of or against amendments on bills.

"I resent it. I resent anybody in the House, senate or governor's office who would use their power to force people to vote their way.

"When a person uses his prestige, his power and forces people to abide by his personal convictions then I no longer can go along with him."

Rep. Wayne Wagonseller of Fruitland spoke up:

"The speaker is a part of this legislative body and has just as much right to call in any member to his office or go to his desk on the floor as we do," Wagonseller shouted.

Rep. Lamar Zively of Temple added:

"If my friend Durwood Manford wants to come and talk to me, that's all right," Zively declared. "Probably a private conversation has been quoted here. I don't know whether Mr. Manford did make the statement to which Mr. King referred. But I've made statements like that — we all have — we all say things we don't intend to have quoted."

Rep. Sterling Williams of Snyder said Manford was elected by his district and was entitled to the floor.

"The membership elected Mr. Manford speaker," Williams said. "His duties as speaker are in addition to those he has as representative."

SCIENCE MEETING OPENS

CORPUS CHRISTI, April 28. (AP)—Atomic science papers by two authorities open the three-day Texas academy of science meeting at the University of Corpus Christi tonight. Dr. Richard A. Eads, academy general chairman, and Dr. Conrad E. Ronneberg of Denison (Ohio) university, wrote the papers.

Actress Says Hubby Spent Time Playing With Toy Trains

HOLLYWOOD, April 28 (INS)—Screen Actress Beverly Mitchell, 24, won a divorce today after she testified that her husband, William F. Crane, would rather play, with toy trains than be with her.

She told Superior Judge Samuel R. Blake that her husband, an executive of a pen manufacturing concern, nagged her, slept alone on a couch fully clad and spent his evenings playing with his electric trains.

"You mean he would rather play with his trains than you" asked the jurist.

"Yes, he was so intent on his hobby he refused to kiss me for six of the 10 months of our married life," she answered.

Crane did not contest the suit.

Jury Answers Issues In Damage Case Here

A 99th district court jury of which M. R. Hickman was foreman answered eight special issues Thursday afternoon in the damages action of C. H. and Helen Doggett against Berch Scott.

Based on the answers, which were given to Judge G. V. Pardue at 4 p.m., the Doggetts will move for judgment, James O. Cade, plainitff's counsel said.

The jury found that the Doggetts, now storekeepers of the New Lynn community of Lynn, suffered $3,000 actual damages as result of an attachment sued out by Scott Nov. 20, and that they also are entitled to $4,000 exemplary damages. The sheriff, armed with the attachment, emptied the Doggetts' grocery shelves when the plaintiffs were in business at Shallowater, testimony had brought out.

Amount of the judgment would be affected by a $1,200 note the Doggetts confessed judgment on in the trial, as well as legal interest to be determined.

The action was a consolidation of two cases: That brought by Scott on the note, and that by the Doggetts for $12,000 in damages based upon the allegedly wrongful suing out of the attachment.

Evidence was completed in the case Wednesday afternoon.

Burglars Have Busy Night In Business Section At Smiley

SMILEY, April 28. (INS)—Citizens of the burglar-hit town of Smiley are nearly convinced today that their town's name is a misnomer.

Safe burglars broke into nine of the eleven business places on the same night recently.

They took $50 from a lumber yard but overlooked $709 in another compartment of the safe.

KENTUCKY DERBY CUP—Forty-five diamonds are on the horseshoe emblem of this solid gold cup which will be presented to the owner of the 1949 Kentucky Derby winner. Similar cups without diamonds have been presented for 25 years. Gems added this year to mark the derby's 75th running. Holding the Diamond Jubilee Derby Cup is Miss Jane Seng, Louisville. CALF SITS LIKE DOG

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The American Veterinary Association Journal reports that a farmer, W. P. Kidd, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., has a Hereford calf that sits like a dog. Dr. C. Don Van Houweling, Chicago, said the unusual position assumed by the fat yearling might be caused by a weakness of the hind legs.

San Antonio Mission To Mark Anniversary

SAN ANTONIO, May 5 (INS)—Mission San Jose of San Antonio will be the object of another pilgrimage May 8, the eighth anniversary of its designation as a national historic site.

The 229-year-old mission, named after S. Joseph when it was established in 1720, had its first pilgrimage April 11, 1948. One will be held each year before the feast of the solemnity of St. Joseph.

San Jose is one of seven recognized historic sites in the nation which stands on property which the government does not own.

Archbishop Absent

Rev. Robert E. Lucey, archbishop of San Antonio, will be in Italy on May 8 and will not be able to celebrate the traditional pontificial high mass.

The mass celebrant this year will be his vicar general, Rev. Patrick Geeham.

An out-door altar will be erected in front of the main building. The church has been completely restored.

San Jose mission is seven and a half miles from the Alamo. In 1931, after an absence of 100 years, Franciscan fathers, a Catholic religious order, regained custody of the mission.

Groups Share Administration

It was established as a national historic site on May 8, 1941, by co-operative agreement between the U.S. Department of the Interior, Texas State Parks board, and the archbishop of San Antonio.

It is administered jointly by the Catholic diocese of San Antonio, the National Park Service, Texas State Parks board, Bexar county, and the San Antonio Conservation society.

The other six sites not owned by the government but designated as nationally historic include Independence hall in Philadelphia and the Jamestown colony in Virginia.

Highway Project Asked For State

Four-Lane Road Plan Is Pushed

AUSTIN, April 28 (AP)—A request for a four-lane highway to span Texas from El Paso to Orange, went before the Highway commission today at a public hearing.

The request resulted from a meeting of six states recently at Edgewater, Miss., where the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Safety association formulated plans to expedite a transcontinental four-lane highway from Los Angeles to Jacksonville, Fla.

Hugh Q. Buck of Houston said the group would make no location recommendations but indicated route of U. S. Highway 90, through Houston and San Antonio, seemed the most feasible.

Groups Cite Problems

"This ties in with an inter-regional system of roads that Congress is now looking into," State Highway Engineer Dewitt Greer said. He also said that such highways would play an important role in defense of this country though they were primarily for peacetime benefits.

A highway department estimate, allowing an average cost of $50,000 per mile, set the cost of spanning Texas at $43,500,000 for the 870 miles.

A Chambers and Jefferson county group told the commission of problems arising from the long-range construction, now underway, of a short route from Houston to Port Arthur and Beaumont.

Completion Of Road Urged

About $1,000,000 has been spent since the war on this State Highway 73, and preliminary work for a bridge across the Trinity river will probably be the next step in the piecemeal construction, the group was told.

Completion of another long-planned state highway, route 70 from Pampa to Perryton, was asked by a Gray, Roberts and Ochiltree county group. Increased oil activity in Gray county has created a great need for this road, the group said.

Other requests, by counties, made of the commission, included:

Jones — requested farm road along the east side of the county from Luders south to State Highway 351, six miles northeast of Abilene. The group pointed out that oil, stock-farming, stone products and grain farming activities made this road necessary.

Falls and McLellan — requested farm road from Eddy 7.8 miles to Blevins at estimated cost of $83,700.

Venezuela soon will have a new steel plant to operate on local scrap and employ several hundred laborers.

Senators Send Two Measures To Governor

Senate Gives Final Approval To 83 Bills

AUSTIN, April 28 (AP)—The Senate whirled 83 bills to final passage today and quit until Monday.

All were of a local and non-controversial nature.

Among bills already passed by the House and now going to the governor for final action were these:

A bill by Rep. O. E. Cannon of Corpus Christi to permit night shrimping in that section of gulf waters between lines extending from the mouths of the Colorado river and Rio Grande 25 miles out.

A bill by Rep. H. G. Perry of Stephenville to change the name of John Tarleton Agricultural college to Tarleton State college.

Fishing License Plan Okayed

House bill: Called with amendments and returned to the House for concurrence included one by Cannon to permit the general land office commissioner to charge a $50-per-day license fee for geological and geophysical survey crews operating in the gulf.

Senate bills passed and sent to the House included these:

A bill by Charles R. Jones of Bonham setting up special fishing licenses for Lake Texhoma. Resident annual licenses would be $5. Non-resident 10-day licenses would be $1.25. Texas would retain 30 per cent of the fees and the rest would go to Oklahoma.

College Name Change

A bill by Hill Hudson of Pecos to change the name of the Texas School of Mines and Metallurgy to the Texas Western college of the University of Texas.

A bill by Rogers Kelley of Edinburg to set up a county court at law for Nueces county.

A bill by W. R. Cousins, jr., of Beaumont to extend the port of Beaumont from Voth to Port Neches.

The Senate also confirmed the following appointments;

Henry S. Paulus of Yoakum to the Texas prison board. Dr. Albert H. Rebsch of La Grange to the state board of optomery. Earle P. Adams of Crockett to the state advisory hospital council.

PERSONNEL FORCE CUT

PALESTINE, April 28 (AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad began sharp cuts today in the number of shop employes here. The railroad also laid off about 100 workers in its San Antonio shops. The cuts here were the deepest since before the war. Between 50 and 70 men were laid off in the locomotive and coach departments. This virtually shut down the coach department.

Rites Set Today For Capt. A. B. Sansom

Funeral services for Capt. Altus B. Sansom, who died in a plane crash on Mt. Fugii, Japan, will be held at 3 p. m. today in Lubbock First Baptist church.

Dr. Ralph Grant, pastor, will officiate, and interment will be in Tech Memorial park, under the direction of Bryan McDonald & Son Funeral home.

Capt. Sansom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Altus Sansom of 2507 Twenty-second, was killed on March 27 when the plane in which he was riding crashed into the side of Mt. Fugii, Japan.

He had been with the Army of occupation in Japan since January 1948, and was a flight surgeon in the Fifth Air Force.

His tour of duty in Japan was to have ended Sept. 1 this year.

MISS STEPHENSON SPEAKS TO JOURNALISM GROUP

Washington Journalist Believes Citizens Should Look At Government In Terms Of Personalities

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche Staff Writer

The person close to Washington is inclined to look at the government in terms of personalities, but that might be a good idea for the public in general, Miss Malvina Stephenson, press and radio correspondent from Washington, D. C., told approximately 75 members and guests of Theta Sigma Phi Thursday night at the Matrix table which opened the Southwestern Journalism Congress in Hilton hotel ballroom.

By keeping in mind that "government must always be a government of men," citizens would be more understanding, more tolerant, more stern and more able to run the country, she said.

Republicans Working Hard

The speaker said the Republicans are working hard in preparation for 1950 congressional campaigns. "Behind this merrymaking on the social front, I can see the grim determination on the part of the Republicans."

The dinner was sponsored by the Texas Tech Alpha Upsilon chapter of Theta Sigma Phi. Visiting delegations were present from the University of Oklahoma, University of Texas, Texas State College for Women, Mary Hardin-Baylor college and Southern Methodist university. TSCW had the largest delegation, with 10 present.

Miss Jane Skinner, president of the chapter, presided. Miss Aline Whitby, retiring president, presented an award for scholarship and leadership to Miss Jayne Thompson from Vernon, retiring vice president of Theta Sigma Phi, president of the Women's Inter Club council, member of the Press club, and associate editor of La Ventana this year, winner last year of a scholarship as outstanding junior journalism student in Tech, and vice president last year of Las Chaparritas club.

Mrs. Tom Allen, alumna advisor, introduced the speaker. Mrs. James G. Allen, assistant professor of journalism, introduced guests.

Through her remarks on her experiences in writing and broadcasting, Miss Stephenson gave the women students and guests a close-up personal view of Washington as seen by the reporter.

Kiwanis Official Speaks In City

Philosophy Of 'Something For Nothing' Rapped By Speaker

America's youth is being brought up under a philosophy of getting something for nothing and older people are sitting idly by and accepting it with hardly a struggle, Dr. F. L. McDonald of Denton, governor of the Texas-Oklahoma district of Kiwanis clubs, declared in a thought-provoking talk at the Kiwanis luncheon at Hotel Lubbock Thursday.

"The crying need in America today is for individuals who will think," declared Mr. McDonald, who is director of journalism and public relations at Texas State College for Women. "We don't do any serious thinking about serious subjects.

"This is a time when we should be giving thought to public affairs, because we are in the process of changing our mind . . . About 15 years ago in this nation, we began to change our philosophy of life we began to veer to the east. Mind you, I said east not left, for this is a non-political talk."

Dr. McDonald then cited how Hitler had changed the Red Offer To Lift Blockade Is Seen As New 'Cold War' Tactic

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Lifting the Berlin blockade will not mean everything is beer and skittles for the Allies.

Talk that it may lead to the end of the cold war is highly tenuous.

Every manifestation of Russian policy in the past points to the prospect that, if the blockade is lifted, it will be done in order that the battle for Germany may be rejoined on other fronts.

Reds Caught In Squeeze

Russia has been losing this battle. The Allies have just put the Ruhr under international control without giving Moscow any say.

A government for Western Germany is rapidly taking shape. Germans who are not under the coercion of Red occupation show no desire to compromise with Communism. Germans in the Russian zone are complaining about the trade squeeze to which Russian policies have subjected them. There are many reports of a similar reaction in the satellite countries of Eastern Europe.

The Allies, in the blockade, have met force with force, an easy thing requiring little mental nimbleness. With the end of the blockade the need for extreme diplomatic skill will return.

Moscow To Take Credit

Moscow will take credit for a great peace move, adding it to the broad propaganda campaign they have been conducting to convince people the West, not Russia, is the prospective aggressor.

There will undoubtedly be more concrete efforts if the foreign ministers resume the broad negotiations over German problems which ended in deadlock in December 1947.

Russia can be expected to renew her plea for German unity, but will be careful to demand it take a form opening a broad path for Communist infiltration. This is expected to be accompanied by a proposal that, once a central German government is formed, all occupation troops should withdraw and a peace treaty be signed.

Korea Is Recalled

This would be reminiscent of her actions in Korea, where she withdrew unilaterally, but left a strong Communist organization to seek domination.

Such proposals would, of course, sound good to many Germans. The noise they would make would probably drown out Russia's concurrent demand for a resumption in reparations payments from the western zone.

Control of Germany is a historical necessity for anyone seeking control of Europe. The battle for this control has been stalemated as long as it centered in the blockade.

There is every evidence activity is now about to shift to a different front, one which will contain less threat of an incident leading to open war, but where the campaign will be conducted none the less vigorously.

New York Man Found Guilty In Slaying Of Texas Seaman

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—A jury early today found Thomas Caruso, 28, alias Thomas J. Morrow, guilty of first degree murder in the slaying of Kenneth Gray, 45-year-old merchant seaman, of Port Arthur, on Feb. 6, 1948, in the Hotel Flanders.

Caruso was one of four men arrested after Gray was found strangled and robbed in the hotel.

One of the men, Florio Peluso, 48, is awaiting sentence after pleading guilty to murder in the second degree. The other two were sentenced to imprisonment of seven and one-half to 20 years after pleading guilty to manslaughter.

The all-male jury, which deliberated nearly 15 hours, recommended life imprisonment instead of the death penalty for Caruso. General sessions Judge James G. Wallace set sentencing for May 19.

Peluso, who testified during Caruso's trial, which began April 18, is to be sentenced on May 10.

According to Peluso's testimony, two accomplices of him and Caruso—Bruce Bowers, 28, of Camden, N. J., and Chester Grimtzack, 23, of Waterbury, Conn.—saw Gray spending money freely in the hotel bar, and they put Peluso and Caruso on Gray's trail as a likely robbery victim.

Peluso said he and Caruso followed Gray to his hotel room, where they bound and gagged him and took $103. Caruso was accused of strangling the seaman with a towel while attempting to force him to tell where he had other cash concealed.

WINNING LEAP—With this leap through the air on water skis, Katy Turner won the Dixie jumping title in a tournament of the American Water Ski association at Cypress Gardens, Fla.

Parents Advised To Use Care In Planning Children's Radio 'Diet'

AUSTIN, April 28. (INS)—David Mackey, a University of Texas radio and drama instructor, has a word of advice to parents who are worried over their children's radio "diet."

Mackey, a father himself, says he doesn't believe a few "shoot-em-up" programs will irreparably harm a child.

But parents have a responsibility to balance their children's radio listening in the same way the food diet is balanced," Mackey says.

"If children insist on some cowboy shows," Mackey suggests that parents "help them in choosing some additional listening programs."

Mackey says that children listen to many of the same programs as their parents; therefore, parents, in choosing their own programs, should keep the children in mind.

Services For 100-Year-Old Texas Woman Held In Dodson

DODSON, Tex., April 28 (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Douglas, 100, Collingsworth county's oldest citizen, was buried here yesterday.

She died Sunday, April 24, one month to the day after she passed the century mark.

All ministers in Dodson assisted in the funeral service.

Mrs. Douglas remembered the Civil War well and recalled a visit with General Robert E. Lee when the Civil War leader rode by her Tennessee home with a group of soldiers.

She was married in 1866 to John S. Douglas, a Confederate soldier. They came to Texas and settled in Hood county. She experienced many Indian raids. On one occasion, when her husband was away, she and a negro woman sat up all night with loaded guns.

Douglas died in 1885. She reared their seven children. Later she lived in Parker county. In 1911 she came to Dodson.

There are 133 living descendants. They include four children: Mrs. L. A. Rollings of Dodson, with whom she made her home; J. S. Douglas of Tulare, Calif.; S. A. Douglas of Malvern, Ark., and A. A. Douglas of Iresel.

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you eat plenty.

Here is proof

Here is what Mrs. H. F. Bishop, Route 2, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and tried very hard to reduce, but wasn't losing much weight until I heard of Barcentrate. I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in the way I felt and the weight I was losing. I weighed 200 pounds when I started and I lost a total of 47 pounds and was able to undergo my operation. I can truthfully recommend it to others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Scurry County Discovery Starts Production Test In Pennsylvanian

Production tests have started at Sunray Oil Corporation, et al, No. 1 Brown, discovery from the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian in North-Central Scurry county, about six miles north of Snyder.

Flowing from the open hole section at 6,535-6,644 feet, the well made 132 barrels of oil in 32 hours. The flow was through a one-half-inch choke, with gas-oil ratio of 1,000-1. Gravity of the oil was 44.2 degrees.

Operator was continuing to make tests. Whether the well will be completed natural or the formation treated with acid has not been determined.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of tract 8, section 20, J. P. Smith survey. Nearest Canyon production is about three miles to the north in the North Snyder field.

The second well in the Sharon Ridge-Canyon field of Southwest Scurry county has been completed at Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Huddleston, 660 feet from south and 573 feet from east lines of section 437, block 97, H&TC survey.

The project flowed six hours through a one-quarter-inch choke to make a calculated 24-hour potential of 1,050 barrels of 44.6-gravity oil. Gas-oil ratio was 400-1. There was no water.

Production was natural through perforations at 6,680-6,703 feet, opposite the Canyon-Pennsylvanian pay zone. Total depth is 6,743 feet.

Oil Shows Reported

Slight oil shows developed from the Fusselman on a drillstem test at Cities Service Oil Company No. 1-E Cowden, outpost to the Dollarhide field of Southwest Andrews county.

Top of the Fusselman was picked on 8,655 feet. Several drillstem tests were attempted in the formation but resulted with packer failures.

A satisfactory examination was obtained at 8,675-8,701 feet, with the tool open two hours. Recovery was 1,710 feet of heavily oil cut drilling mud, with no water.

Operator has drilled ahead to 8,736 feet and was attempting another drillstem test on last report.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 14, block A-42, psl survey.

Operations are starting by April 30 on an 8,500-foot, rotary tool exploration in the Diamond M field of West-Central Scurry county.

It will be Lion Oil Company No. 7 C. T. McLaughlin, spotted 665 feet from north and 610 feet from east lines of section 197, block 97, H&TC survey. Elevation is 8,500 feet.

Drillstem Test Run

A deep, unidentified lime formation made water for Lone Star Producing Company No. 1 Maule, North Scurry county wildcat in the area northwest of the North Snyder field.

A drillstem test was run for one hour at 8,250-8,297 feet, recovering 1,800 feet of salt water. Further procedure of the operator has not been revealed.

The current horizon is thought by some observers to be Ellenberger.

The venture is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 451, block 97, H&TC survey.

Humble Oil & Refining Company has scheduled abandonment for its No. 1 Edmondson, Ellenburger failure in Northwest Scurry county, eight and one-half miles northwest of Snyder and 330 feet from north and east lines of section 437, block 97, H&TC survey.

The venture drillstem tested for one hour in the Ellenburger at 8,255-85 feet, showing a slight air blow throughout the period. Recovery was 30 feet of drilling mud and 100 feet of sulphur water.

This show was followed by a 18-minute drillstem test at 8,285-8,305 feet, recovering five feet of drilling mud. A Schlumberger survey was being run. The wildcat then will be plugged.

Young Lubbock Women Plan Journey To New York, Cuba

Following a trip to New York and other cities in the United States and probably into Canada, Miss Joyce Watson of 3003 Nineteenth and Mrs. Betty Leasure of 2430 Thirty-third will sail May 20 for Cuba.

The young women left Lubbock Wednesday afternoon to spend at least two months visiting, sightseeing and attending events of interest.

Their first stop is to be in Chicago. From there they will go to Grand Rapids, Mich., to visit the lakeshore home of Mrs. Leasure's parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leasure, sr.

They then will go to Buffalo, N. Y., and to Niagara Falls and probably into Canada. They are to arrive in New York May 4 and stay at the Astor hotel in New York.

During their 16-day stay in New York, they will attend Broadway plays and radio shows and will go on sightseeing tours. They will make a trip up the Hudson to Bear Mountain lodge and West Point, will go to Washington, D. C., and will attend horse races at Jamaica, Long Island.

Newly-Arrived Missionaries To Aid In Wayland Program

PLAINVIEW, April 28 (Special) —Two newly arrived foreign missionaries bring to eight the number of leaders for missions focus week now being conducted at Wayland college.

Just in from Hawaii are the Rev. H. B. Ramsour of Palestine, Texas, and Josephine Harris of Brinkley, Ark. Miss Harris is a sister of Mrs. Harrold Diggs of Wayland.

A missionary from China who just reached the Wayland campus is Hannah Fair Sallee, for 36 years a Baptist worker in the Orient. She is an alumna of the University of Chicago and of Columbia.

Ramsour, pastor of the Nuuanu Baptist church in Honolulu where President J. W. Marshall just concluded a revival, told the students in chapel here that their mission is to bear a message of Christian hope to all men everywhere.

Others leading in the conference are Dr. Marshall, the Rev. and Mrs. J. Ulman Moss of Columbia and Plainview, Mrs. Rosalee Mills Appleby of Brazil, and the Rev. Samuel E. Maddox of Richmond, Va.

Five of these missionaries—the Mosses, Miss Harris, Mrs. Appleby and the Rev. Mr. Ramsour—spoke briefly in chapel this week on the part laymen can play in promoting missions.

LIEUT. LUTHER P. HINES

Rites Slated For Sundown Vet

SUNDOWN, April 28 (Special) — Reburial services for Lieut. Luther F. Hines, jr., thrice decorated fighter pilot of World War II, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in Melrose, N. M., High school auditorium.

Rev. B. M. Dennis, pastor of Melrose Methodist church, assisted by Rev. C. H. Hatfield, of Alta Vista, Colorado, will officiate.

Burial will be in Memorial cemetery, Melrose, with graveside rites conducted by the American Legion, Rev. H. E. Carroll of Texico acting as Chaplain.

Attempted Crash Landing

Lieut. Hines was killed March 13, 1945 as a result of a crash landing near Boxted, Essex, England, after his plane and another collided in the air. Lieut Hines had partial control over his plane and attempted a belly landing, suffering fatal injuries in the crash that followed.

At the time of his death he was training newly assigned pilots in fighter tactics, involving close formation fighting, and the crash came in making a cross-over. Neither pilot was able to use his parachute.

He flew 65 missions over Europe as a fighter pilot, participating in some of the heaviest fighting of the war, including driving enemy planes from the Remagen bridgehead and being among the first to penetrate the Berlin area to strafe Templehof Aerodrome. He is credited with several victories in the air and with destroying boats, locomotives, and depots with rocket fire.

He was shot down twice over Europe.

Lieut Hines joined the Air Force early in the war and received training at Grider Field, Army Air Force school, Independence, Kansas; Moore Field, Texas; Bradley Field, Conn.; and Richmond, Va.

In August 1944 he was assigned to the 61st Fighter squadron with the 56th Fighter group of the 8th Air Force in England.

He resided with his parents at Allred and Sundown several years before the war, and was engaged in the housing business.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. P Hines of Sundown; two sisters, Mrs. Joan Hines Phifer of Kansas City, and Mrs. Patricia May Lee of Sundown; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Scarbrough of Melrose, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hines of Lubbock.

U. S. Farmer Claimed Modern Version Of 'Vanishing American'

DAVIS, Cal., April 28. (U.P.)—When people used to talk about the "vanishing American" they were referring to the disappearing American Indian. Today the phrase more exactly refers to the American farmer.

Since mechanization hit the old homestead, agricultural population which in 1790 comprised 90 per cent of the people in the country, dropped to 35 per cent with the advent of the tractor, and is now at a low 18 per cent for the nation as a whole.

Facts brought out by a California Agricultural school engineer showed only 1,000 tractors on American farms in 1910; today there are 2,800,000.

NTAC Offers Special Course For Prospective Bricklayers

Students lay bricks eight hours a day for eight weeks under the watchful eyes of experienced bricklayers.

Austin Anglers Offer Unusual Fish Story

AUSTIN, April 28. (INS)—Fish stories should be a little fishy and this one is no exception.

Richard Martin, Jerry Martin, and John W. Reed, jr., all of Austin reeled out quite a line when they came in from a trip in the Hudson Bend area of Lake Travis.

They reported that when a large fish started playing tag with their boat, Richard tagged it with a paddle. The fish ducked back out of sight and then surfaced a few yards away.

Fish Is Weighed

Jerry stabbed it in the gills with a pocket knife and the fishermen said that they pulled the fish into the boat.

Bill Brill, fishing camp operator said the boys brought the fish in for him to weigh and that it was a blue cat which tipped the scales at 17 pounds.

"I noticed the tail of a fish in the catfish's mouth. On cutting the cat open," Brill said, "I found it had swallowed and was choking on a white bass weighing nearly two pounds."

"Then," Brill said, "I opened the white bass and found it had been having difficulty swallowing a seven-inch shad."

Brill said he did not cut the shad open. Maybe he figured the fish that ate the fish that ate the fish that came to no good end was enough to swallow.

Public Backs Poll Tax Repeal, Divided Closely On FEPC Plan

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
(American Institute of Public Opinion)

PRINCETON, N. J., April 28 — The controversial civil rights issue, which has occupied so much of the time of the 81st Congress and stirred up so many fights, is an issue on which the general public itself has mixed views.

Some aspects of civil rights reform—poll tax repeal, for example—are popular. But the question of a federal law against discrimination in employment — something which the South strongly opposes—finds even the North closely divided in its attitude.

On the other hand, the anti-Jim Crow feature of the Truman civil rights, program which many Southerners are against, finds support in the North.

Although the filibuster in the Senate ended chances of immediate action on civil rights, President Truman often in the past vowed to push the program until some action is taken. Both Democratic and Republican presidential platforms pledged civil rights reform.

Current attitudes toward three aspects of the civil rights have been sounded by the American Institute of Public Opinion in the following polls:

POLL TAX

"Some Southern states require every voter to pay a poll tax amounting to about a dollar a year before they can vote. Do you think these poll taxes should be abolished?"

	Yes	No	No Opin.
National	67%	22%	11%
South Only	53	38	9
Outside So.	69	19	12

In one state with a poll tax, Texas, a major step toward repeal was taken only last week, where a resolution in the State House of Representatives to submit the issue to a state-wide referendum gained headway.

FEDERAL F.E.P.C.

"How far do you think the Federal government should go in requiring employers to hire people without regard to their race, religion, color or nationality?"

The National Vote:

All the way	34%
Part of the way	5
Total	39%
None of the way	45
Leave to States	2
No opinion	14

The vote of the South contrasts as follows with the rest of the nation:

	South	Outside South
All the way	15%	37%
Part of the way	5	5
None of the way	64	42
Leave to States	2	2

JIM CROW

"Do you think Negroes should or should not be required to occupy a separate part of a train from one state to another?"

	Should	Should Not	No Opin.
National	38%	50%	12%
South Only	79	14	7
Outside So.	32	55	13

Congressional leaders are reported reluctant to stir up the civil rights issue again so soon after the filibuster which paralyzed the Senate two months ago.

However the issue keeps bobbing up in one form or another.

Only last week it precipitated a controversy in the Senate when the Bricker-Cain amendment to prohibit race discrimination in public housing was offered to the housing bill.

Utah Man Is Expert Silver Miner Despite Total Blindness

BRIGHTON, Utah, April 28 (U.P.)—One of the top silver ore miners in Utah's rugged Wasatch Mountains is a miner who has been blind for 20 years.

An explosion robbed 55-year-old Roy Newman of his eyesight but it didn't stop the plucky miner. Newman has tunneled 1,200 feet into the center of a canyon wall since the accident.

He walks through a main tunnel that has remained miraculously straight. Newman works at least 12 hours daily and swings the big five-pound hammer against a steel rod himself for drilling.

UN Assembly Leader Redoubles Efforts To Settle Balkan Dispute

By PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 28 — Herbert Vere Evatt, two-fisted deputy prime minister of Australia and president of the current General Assembly, would like to go down in United Nations history as "the Balkan peace-maker."

Evatf runs the 58-nation Assembly with a vigorous hand and in his spare hours he labors at the task of pounding common sense into the group representing Greece on the one hand and Bulgaria, Albania and Yugoslavia on the other.

Hopes For Success

The goal which Evatt has set for himself is illuminated by the remark he made to acting Palestine Mediator Ralph Bunche when they met in the Lake Success corridors this week Offering his hand, he said:

"Mighty glad to see you back, Ralph. What you did in Palestine I hope to get done in the Balkans."

There were times in Paris last November and December when Evatt was strongly justified in his belief that the border quarrels between Greece and her neighbors could be called off.

"Come on, boys, one more ounce of good-will and compromise and we've got it," he used to tell the perspiring spokesmen from the four capitals.

Adjournment Shelves Plans

The Christmas adjournment of the General Assembly shelved Evatt's hopes for his great Balkan peace drive. But no sooner were the boys back in their seats at Flushing Meadows and Lake Success than Evatt was back on his favorite job of buttonholing the Balkan group for another try.

He mapped his strategy in the same manner that Bunche went about the job of pulling off one cease-fire after another in the Holy Land.

First Evatt got together what he calls his "conciliation" committee, for private talks in the Lake Success headquarters. These meetings began last Tuesday and took in UN Secretary General Trygve Lie, Assistant Secretary General Andrew Cordier, shrewd Selim Sarper of Turkey and the keen-minded Baron Fernand Van Langenhove of Belgium.

Balkan Representatives Arrive

The five of them tapped the four Balkan governments by cable for another try at conciliation. The Albanians and Bulgarians had nobody at Lake Success so they instructed their ambassadors in Paris to fly to New York.

It goes to show—in spite of all the disparaging of the UN—that the nations are aware of its influence. When Evatt beckons, they come. Even nations not yet members of the UN have heard that a president of the UN assembly has many ways of making life difficult for those who ignore the world body.

So the new talks got underway, with each of the four being called in one by one to talk with Evatt and his aides.

Red Influence Cited

It would be underestimating the outspoken statesman from down under to attribute to failure to take into account the fact that the spokesmen for the Balkan lands are perhaps not in a position to make decisions, or even to promise future good behavior on the Graak borders. Evatt knows all that and when he speaks to them he is speaking to their governments and political bosses.

Some delegates declare that the real Balkans boss sits in Moscow. They maintain that it is futile for Evatt to waste his breat on puppet spokesmen.

Evatt ignores that sort of defeatism. He will keep trying, like views certain developments in Balkans as encouraging. But as president of the Assembly he remains tactfully silent in that respect.

The truth is that the split between Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito and the Cominform has injected a new ray of hope into the situation along the Greek frontiers. For the past several months, Yugoslavia has shown less and less direct interest in the Greek issue.

San Antonio Officials Name Street After High School Youth

SAN ANTONIO, April 28. (INS) A 17-year-old Harlandale High school youngster has succeeded in getting his home street named after him.

Delbert Drury of San Antonio recently protested to city officials that the street on which he lived —"Eighth street"—was easily confused with others and was generally unsatisfactory.

He asked that the street be changed to "Drury street," a name he said did not apply to any other street in Bexar county.

He was rebuffed gently by city officials, who told him that too much red tape would be involved.

A few days later, Delbert—better known as Shorty—presented a petition signed by 55 names to have the street changed.

Modern 'Gold Rush' To Open Palo Duro Canyon Tourist Drive

CANYON, April 28 (Special)—Treasure and pleasure hunters over the Panhandle will head for Palo Duro canyon Saturday, May 28 to participate in a modern "gold rush."

The crowd of '49ers and gold seekers will watch from the rim of the canyon as 10,000 goldine coins are scattered from an airplane over the entire area of Palo Duro canyon.

Jester To Start 'Rush'

After the coins have been dropped, Governor Beauford H. Jester will cut a ribbon at the entrance of the canyon at 2 o'clock to launch the gold rush and a long range project to promote the Palo Duro canyon as a major tourist attraction in the Panhandle.

The project, sponsored by the Palo Duro Canyon Boosters club, will continue from May 28 until Labor Day in September. All outstanding prizes then will be awarded on Sept. 11.

Coins May Win Prize

Each goldine coin is a potential prize winner. The 10,000 coins are numbered on one side. On the other side is a line drawing of the Lighthouse. All coins ending in the number 'seven' are prize-winning coins. All other coins are potential winners of supplemental and grand prizes. All 'seven' coins will be valid through Labor Day.

Top prizes include two all-expense paid eight-day vacations to Havana, Cuba via Braniff Airways and the proposed grand prize will be an expense-paid vacation to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The Palo Duro "gold rush" is being held by the Boosters club to solicit membership and appropriate funds and gifts to advertise the Palo Duro canyon attractions throughout the country. A program of events will be scheduled to attract people to this region and to draw steady tourist trade to the Panhandle.

Animals which have been domesticated since the dawn of history include the dog, ox, sheep, goat, horse, camel, cat, goose and elephant. No animal of economic importance has been brought into domestication within the past 2,1000 years.

Denver Company Makes Plans For New Mexico Oil Drilling

DENVER, April 28 (INS)—A Denver company today announced plans for an extensive oil well drilling program on its property in San Juan County, N. M.

R. H. Martin, secretary of the Kutz Canon Oil & Gas Company of Denver, said that 36 wells will be drilled on the Kutz Canon structure.

Martin said that Byrd-Frost Inc., of Dallas, Stanolind Oil & Gas company and Western National Gas company, have agreed with Kutz on the first eight locations for wells. The three companies have a contract with the Denver firm for development of the properties.

The Kutz company's holdings in the county show promise of high production. The firm holds approximately half of the land of the pictured cliff gas and sand on the Kutz Canon structure.

Greeks Suffer 186 Casualties in Battle With Red Forces

ATHENS, Greece, April 28 (AP)—Government forces suffered 186 casualties to capture a strategic heights near the Albanian border from Communist-led rebels, a communique said today.

Twenty-five of the 186 were killed and 161 wounded in the fighting for 4,200-foot high Mt. Pyrgos less than five miles from Albania.

The communique also said a "group of Greek Communists and Albanian soldiers" clashed with government forces inside the Greek border and were driven over into Albania.

It said 71 rebels were killed and 20 captured in fighting north of Konitsa.

Wealthy Japanese Bid High For Choice Plots In Graveyards

TOKYO, April 28 (U.P.)—Wealthy Japanese, prevented from living in elaborate homes by the post-war housing shortage, are vying with each other for "exclusive" plots in which to be buried.

Some residents of Tokyo are bidding from 10,000 to 100,000 yen (about $25 to $250) for burial plots six feet square in the graveyard of the Kanei Temple in Tokyo because they can inter their dead relatives next to the Tokugawa Shoguns of Japan's fuedal era.

NEW WATER BILL

It Looks Promising

THE 111-to-11 vote of approval by which the Texas House sent to the Senate the Underground Water Regulation bill introduced by Rep. I. B. Holt, of Olton, was convincing proof that members regarded the measure as being the most satisfactory of its kind yet proposed.

Scores of water control measures of various kinds have been drafted, or discussed, during the past 20 to 30 years in Texas. None has come even close to passage. The one rejected most recently was a bill sponsored by the Texas Water Conservation association and introduced during the present legislative session. It encountered such instant and vigorous opposition that its supporters have been unable to get it out of the committee to which it was referred. Legislative observers are virtually unanimous that consideration of the association's bill would be a waste of time because of the certainty of defeat.

It was somewhat precedent shattering, therefore, when the House gave such overwhelming approval of the Holt bill. The reasons for this support doubtless were several. The proposal to entrust the regulation of well-drilling to the landowners of established areas which would be affected clearly is the democratic process. It is logical that such landowners, because of their personal stake, would be the best judge of when controls are needed, and the kind needed, to guard against serious depletion of the underground water supplies which are vital to them.

Closer study doubtless may reveal objectionable feature in the Holt control plan. If enacted, experience is likely to reveal other flaws. But the present impression seems justified that it offers the most promise of any underground water regulatory bill yet presented to the Legislature.

He Stands Alone

AS MUCH as most Americans admire Winston Churchill, few are likely to be in sympathy with his demand in the House of Commons this week for "power retaliations" against the Chinese Communist armies for their recent shelling of British warships in the Yangtze river.

For that matter, few of his own countrymen appear to share the former prime minister's indignation and demand for revenge for "injury to our prestige" in order to obtain "respect" for the British flag.

Immediately after the incident occurred, some of the leading British publications and figures were the first to ask why their warships were in the position which invited trouble. The question has remained unanswered, although the answer appears fairly obvious. The consensus of informed persons has been pretty well agreed that Britain risked gravest consequences to itself and the world in an effort to protect huge and entirely selfish property and trade interests in China.

Mr. Churchill should be the first to realize that Americans are few who would risk war to uphold British prestige, or trade interests, in the deep interior of China. He might consider, too, that American public opinion might balk at continuing a relief and aid program which might be used by the British, directly or indirectly, for the "power retaliations" Mr. Churchill has demanded.

The former prime minister is not likely to obtain substantial support in America, or in Britain, in the face of the widespread conviction that the warships deliberately, and without sufficient justification, went out of their way to find the trouble in which they became involved.

Show Me A Better Nesting Place

Pop Goes The Queen

By BOB WADE and BILL MILLER
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

AGAINST a moldering bulkhead, far forward, was a row of squat chests. "There!" he ordered. "Hurry—open them up!" The four people moved cautiously toward the ironbound boxes. Barselou and John Henry wrestled with the first chest of the row, prying at the lid.

"Together," grunted Barselou. The two men panted in unison and forced it open. They stared into the black depths. John Henry lifted his head first and looked at the man in the pirate costume.

"False alarm," he said. "It's empty."

"Don't lie!" Trim rasped.

Trim bounded forward and drove the other two aside with the gun. A moment later, he raised a face that was pale and contorted with rage. Barselou still gazed at the opened chest as if hypnotized.

"Get back!" Trim commanded, panic in his words. His lower jaw hung open and his wet tongue moved back and forth over his ugly teeth. Sin and the two men backed up. Their captor's brown eyes flicked between them and the treasure chests as he went down the row kicking at the dusty ironbound tops. Most of the lids flew back instantly, banging against the bulkhead. A red dust arose and sunbeams danced on flakes of rust.

At the last chest, Trim uttered a howl and dipped his free hand within it. He pulled out a fistful of round black objects like withered marbles and held them close to his face, staring uncomprehendingly. Then he pivoted and hurled the tiny wrinkled balls spitefully at Barselou.

"There's your fabulous riches!" he shrieked. "There's the Queen's jewels!" He capered around madly, his joints jerking as though marionette strings guided him. His high cracked voice screamed at Barselou until gasps of spent breath stopped the flow.

THE withered black globules lay patternless on the sandy timbers. Sin remembered something she'd read. Pearls, exposed to the elements over a long period of time, deteriorate and become valueless.

"I don't understand," Barselou said dully.

"Maybe you can understand this," Trim panted, waving his arms. "Somebody beat you to the gold, the emeralds, all the treasure. Somebody maybe a century ago. Can you get that through your thick head?" Somebody else found the galleon first! Anglin knew! Anglin was double-crossing us both!"

John Henry laughed. He couldn't restrain it even in the face of maniacal fury. Barselou's search, Trim's involved intrigue—all had been for nothing. Two men had died for a chest of worthless pearls. Anglin had known and he had profited most from the Queen. But Anglin hadn't been clever enough.

Sin laughed too. She tried to hold back the mirth. "It's another Spoonerism," she giggled, caught up in the frenzy that charged the air.

"What?" said John Henry.

"Spooner," she repeated, her shoulders shaking. "You know—the man who always got his words twisted."

"What about him?"

She giggled harder than ever. Her words trailed up hysterically. "Somebody asked him if he sang and Mr. Spooner said, "I know only two tunes—God save the Weasel and Pop Goes the Queen.' She just popped!"

And Sin went off into gales of laughter.

"Stop it! Stop it!" yelled Trim. He thrust his revolver almost in Sin's face. Her peal of laughter became a tangled sob. "Get over against the wall—all of you!" commanded the little man. Flecks of light were dancing oddly in his eyes. He hissed softly, "This is high tragedy. I will not accept the role of clown."

Sin and John Henry backed up silently, Barselou mechanically.

"There. Right there," barked Trim as three backs touched the side of the galleon. The trio stood on a wide curb of wood that surrounded the entire deck—the gun platform. Behind them, the rectangular cannon ports revealed the rock face of the cliff, blind and gray.

SOMETHING hard bobbed against Sin's neck and she ducked. From a beam that ran the length of the ship's side, several rusty iron chains dangled. Each chain terminated in a wide iron cuff. The ship's irons, designed for lazy or mutinous seamen of His Majesty's Navy.

Trim was addressing Barselou. "Snap those chains around their wrists, if you please."

John Henry looked around desperately. Sin licked her trembling lips and asked, "What are you going to do, Mr. Trim? Please—"

"An old pirate custom, Mrs. Conover." A wrinkled hand pulled the cocked hat lower over spangled flickering eyes. "No prisoners. By the time you're found, you'll be indistinguishable from the other skeletons here."

"No—you can't—" Sin choked. She almost fell to her knees but John Henry held her to him.

The threatening pistol motioned at Barselou. The big man reached for the dangling chains. The muscles in his face were working now, but his eyeballs were transparent, far away, as though he were pondering some weighty problem.

Conover struggled but the expressionless gambler was inexorable. Machine-like, Barselou forced John Henry's wrists into the iron circlets.

Sin submitted limply. The pair stood side by side on the gun platform, their wrists held at ear level by the ancient cuffs anchored to chains from the beam above.

Barselou wheeled slowly and said, "What next?" He looked at the man with the gun disinterestedly.

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

THIS is intended only for whom the shoe fits.

It is brought on by one of the most astounding perversions of intent and purpose that I have ever seen.

BRANDEIS

A couple of weeks ago, as you have all read, a rooster being readied for the oven, got up and walked away.

His head had previously been cut off by the butcher but, apparently chickens need no head to go on living.

Since I have to write this column quite a bit in advance, I don't know whether that rooster will still be alive when you read this.

I hope not.

But the fact is that at first its owner thought the whole thing a curiosity, called the headless rooster "Butch" and got herself a lot of publicity.

Then, all of a sudden the phenomenon became "a miracle of God" and the bird's name was changed to "Lazarus."

When I read the first story — just after breakfast—I actually became sick to my stomach.

But when, a couple of days later, I saw the incident tied up with God and with religion, my blood boiled.

Do you think for one moment, that God would need such a freakish incident as this to perform His miracles?

If God did want to perform miracles today, don't you think He would perform them in other more exalted ways?

I must confess that I have never been very religious.

As I described myself to a minister friend of mine a few days ago I am a "lukewarm Lutheran."

But I do have the highest respect for people who take their religion seriously and I envy those to whom religion is an integral part of their lives.

Unfortunately, however, there are entirely too many men and women to whom religion is a convenient alibi. There are people who can quote chapter and verse for every little thing they do; who can prove by the Scriptures that they are right and you are wrong.

I USED to say my prayers faithfully every night.

I stopped it. Do you know why? Because I caught myself praying too much for myself, my ambitions, my desires.

I used to pray that my will rather than God's will be done.

Heavens knows I am not here to preach, and if I were I wouldn't know how.

But do analyze your own prayers some time, and then compare what you asked God to do for you with what you yourself are doing for others.

If I were to say a prayer tonight it would be a prayer of thanks for another day on this wonderful earth and for forgiveness of the things I should have done and left undone.

FOR WESTERN STATES

Local Problems Tops

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES—The people of the South, Far and North West, who preferred Truman to Dewey overwhelmingly last November, show scant interest these days in those two centers of world politics and tension—Washington and Moscow. There is hardly any talk of war or of the partisan clashes between the White House and Capitol Hill.

They are chiefly concerned over burdensome personal and local problems—high prices, soaring taxes, earning a living, security for themselves and their families. While they suffer from the same business decline and economic uncertainty that besets the rest of the nation, with resulting unemployment and smaller incomes, the general tone is optimistic.

TUCKER

FEAR: California's worst fears, for instance, have not been borne out, although it is doubtful if any state had more reason to dread the postwar period of readjustment.

The tremendous increase of the working population, based on wartime expansion of airplane, shipbuilding and metal-making facilities, was expected to cause intense hardship and to break open a Pandora's box of troubles.

So was the departure of the thousands of sailors, G.I.'s and fliers who trained at the ports or on the deserts extending from Mexico northward. This same fear also confronted interior regions where the vast spaces furnished facilities for producing atomic, artillery and tank units.

TOURIST: Instead of becoming a "ghost state," California faces the task of housing, feeding and servicing a population which ranks it second only to New York, with the possibility that it will eventually surpass its eastern rival. Unemployment has not reached the anticipated peak, even in such once congested centers as San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Surpluses have been partially absorbed by introduction of new, small industries and services.

The industrial migration will become even greater if sufficient water and power are forthcoming for the long pull. Thousands of war-working women have returned to their homes.

A banner tourist year is looked for in all the states of the nation's western playground—Texas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Wyoming, Oregon, Washington. The "motels" dotting the landscape are frequently filed, although the vacation season has not yet begun save for a few lucky tourists.

EXUBERANCE: This vast area should also benefit heavily from operations of the Marshall Plan and rearmament, as well as from the more extensive search for minerals for the national defense stockpile. Generous federal appropriations for power, irrigation and conservation of natural resources will also contribute to everybody's take-home pay.

Perhaps more than any other section of the country, the millions of Americans along and west of the Great Divide gaze upon tomorrow somewhat complacently and confidently. They express the exuberance of the young, ambitious fellow who swings along with a feeling of assurance that "You can't keep a good man down!"

REVULSION: Practically, there prevails a sort of "plague on both your houses" complex. More than they did as late as last November, folks here seem to feel that they can and must solve their local difficulties without calling on Washington. In fact, there is a growing revulsion against bureaucracy, regimentation and what "Jim" Farley describes as "shoving people around."

Western states have been only too eager to seek and accept federal financial assistance in developing vital resources so vast that no single state or community could handle the job. In most instances, however, they are paying off the federal investment under contractual terms, and they would like to stand on their own feet.

In view of the fact that many areas have been virtual wards of Washington for many years, with the government owning and operating a great percentage of their land, forest and water facilities, they have felt the bureaucratic pinch more severely than other sections.

In Boulder City, a government-owned municiuality, for instance, almost every third automobile bears the insignia, "Bureau of Reclamation, United States Government." Uncle Sam is omnipresent.

SHIFT: This surprising shift of attitude has been most manifest and marked in the reaction to the Brannan plan for maintaining farm income at the same time that retail prices are lowered through payment of sliding subsidies from the Treasury.

It has been condemned almost unanimously by farm and urban newspapers, and by agricultural organizations. Even Wallace's Farmer, the journal forced into bankruptcy under Henry A.'s management, turns thumbs down. It is backed chiefly by CIO unions engaged in processing of foods.

Editorial comment brands it as a "shell game," "the outgrowth of socialized principles" and a "step toward managed agriculture." Principal objection recorded is that both producers and consumers will pay in taxes what they save in store prices.

RUMOR: "Is it true," asks Mrs. W. R. of Concord, N. H., "that Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine has begun to doll up and dress more fastidiously since she moved from the House to the Senate?"

Answer: Senator Smith's friends—I did not dare to ask her directly—assure me that there is no truth to this story. My gal reporter informants blame the rumor on an article by a humorous columnist. He happened to see Mrs. Smith when she was dining one evening at a swanky hotel, and wrote himself a piece.

APPROPRIATE: She never wore low heels or so-so dresses when she sat in the lower chamber. She wore the usual stuff that a woman in business would wear. When she went on inspection trips—aboard a battleship, for instance—she did put on comfortable and appropriate costumes, as do her masculine colleagues.

Fact is that it is the men who spruce up after they have moved up from the House to the Senate side. They get haircuts more frequently, go in for smarter ties, shirts and suits, and, generally, try to look like the popular image of a senatorial statesman.

The Ringling circus performer who balances himself on one finger is almost as expert an equilibrist as many a politician who stands on his record.

A child feels impelled to be doing something all his waking hours. During those frequent intervals when he can't think of anything else to do, he drinks water.

Today's quatrain: The Constitution guarantees that you may say just what you please, bnt the chances are that when you do it, there's nobody who will listen to it.

Believe It Or Not -- By Robert Ripley

CHARGES OF 'ISOLATIONISM' HIT

World Government Still Needed

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The insinuating label of "isolationism" is beginning to be pinned on those who are doubtful that the Atlantic Pact, and especially its corollary arms support for Western Europe, is the way to meet the dilemma that confronts the world today.

It is familiar tactics. The word "isolationism" has come to have derogatory implications and can serve well even if improperly applied.

In examining this strategy, which will be used in debate to begin soon in the Senate Foreign Relations committee and later in the Senate, itself, it may be helpful to recognize frankly two things:

STOKES

1. Those who oppose the Atlantic Pact, or are skeptical about it, do include many of the old-time "isolationist" persuasion, but they also embrace many known and proved supporters of internationalism who see such regional armed alliances as the greatest possible obstacle to real international co-operation. The latter include earnest people who would take international co-operation the step further to some form of world federation, or world government.

Oppose Other Measures

2. Supporters of the Atlantic Pact and its arms-for-western-Europe include many known and proved champions of international co-operation, but they likewise include many old-fashioned "isolationists" who go along happily on this project, as they did on the Truman doctrine and the Marshall Plan, solely because of its anti-Russian direction.

Among the latter are found many who not only oppose the real Democratic forces in Europe, but are sympathetic to restoration of the old anti-Democratic forces in Europe whose repudiation and defeat were our principal aim in the second World war. This is manifest to anyone who has followed the debates and discussions in Congress and outside on both foreign policy and domestic issues. For in the latter they reveal their real philosophy by fighting social and economic measures designed to strengthen and buttress our own Democracy.

It seems fair to raise the question as to whether the Atlantic Pact does not, itself, involve a species of "isolationism" instead of real internationalism. Its basic concept is the armed isolation of a group of nations of the world which would be accomplished by putting up our own barrier, our own picket fence of guns, across a front in Europe. The reasoning is that this is necessary to counter a similar armed isolation in eastern Europe. The effect is to break up the world into two isolated armed camps, which is the very reverse of international co-operation.

We resort to this type of isolation to offset Russian isolation. There is no question that Russia raises the chief problem of isolation in the world today. She came out of the second World War to adopt an isolationist policy, just as we did after the first World War a quarter of a century ago. She is today the strictly nationalist and isolationist nation of the world. It seems that the world can never move along together. Somebody always is out of step.

Reds Oppose Move

Russia is the strongest opponent of any sort of world federation or world government, which is demonstrated in her propaganda that depicts world government as another plot of "capitalism." She still remains in the United Nations, however, despite all the noisy oratory of her representatives there. That is a gain. That is to be encouraged.

But it would seem that creating another area of isolation by drawing an armed ring around her would only encourage her own isolationism, and be the very thing to intensify nationalism among her people and rally them to the defense of it by arms if necessary.

There is another way, an alternative. This is to analyze her isolationism and try to understand it, and in this we have some history of our own to guide us. At the same time we should analyze ourselves and our own motives. In those processes we could lay the basis for getting at the root of the troubles between us so that we could sit down and negotiate their adjustment. That would be the course of real international co-operation and real peace in the world.

Is it too late to try to do it that way?

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Some 80 students from 27 nations will study at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology this summer under a student-sponsored program. The student committee will raise $50,000 for transportation and food and MIT grants free tuition. Last year the committee brought 62 students from 14 nations.

MARKET LOSES GROUND

NEW YORK, April 28. (AP)—Languid selling put the stock market on the defensive today. Final prices for most issues were at lows for the session. Losses ranged from fractions to around a point. A good handful ran against the trend.

Business slowed to 770,000 shares from 830,000 yesterday.

The day's news was ignored. The traders simply were not interested in taking a firm position one way or another.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .2 of one point to 62.9. The industrial component showed the widest loss, followed by rails and utilities.

Steel issues were selling targets a good part of the day. U. S. Steel finished ¾ lower at 72⅝. Republic lost ½ at 21¾. Youngstown Sheet 1¼ at 63⅛, and Follansbee 1 at 15⅝.

Traders shrugged off thumping good quarterly reports for General Motors and Du Pont. GM closed at 57¼, down ¼. Du Pont ended at 188½, down ½.

Also lower were Chrysler, Studebaker, Firestone, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Western Union, Phelps Dodge, American Can, General Electric, Dow Chemical, Radio Corp, International Paper, Southern Pacific, Richfield Oil, Standard Oil (NJ), and United Air Lines.

Among a hand-picked group in the plus column were Goodyear, Consolidated Edison, Consolidated Natural Gas, Kennecott Copper and Maracaibo Oil.

Lower in the curb were Wilson Bros., New Mexico and Arizona Land, Cities Service and Consolidated Mining.

Corporate bonds tended lower. U. S. governments were clipped 1/32 or 2/32 of a point.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Cotton futures were steady in early dealings today, but later turned reactionary on increased liquidation and hedging.

A sharp decline in grains accounted for the later selling in cotton.

There was some hesitancy, pending the announcement of the mid-April cotton parity on Friday.

Futures closed 85 cents to $1.60 a bale lower than the previous close.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, April 28 (AP)—The grain market took a solid pounding today. Heavy selling which swept into May wheat around mid-way in the session spread to other pits. All commodities were marked down for large losses.

At one time May wheat fell more than 7 cents. Other wheat contracts lost more than 3 cents at extreme lows. Losses were reduced shortly before the close, but the market continued highly nervous. Trading was very active.

One factor in the downturn, traders said, was fear that the government would withdraw from the cash wheat market after this week. It will come into possession of large quantities of wheat April 30 when loans on the 1948 crop fall due.

Wheat closed 2 ⅞-6 ⅛ lower, May $2.19-2.18 ⅛; corn was 2 to 2 ⅛ lower, May $1.33 ⅛-1.34; oats were ⅝-¾ lower, May 66 ⅛-⅝; rye was 3 to 3 ½ lower, May $1.34 ⅛; soybeans were 3 ¼-14 ¾ lower, May $2.23-2.22 ¾, and lard was 25 to 38 cents a hundred pounds lower, May $11.82.

Journalist Speaks

She is writer of the weekly newspaper column, "Mirrors of Washington," which is distributed by the North American Newspaper alliance and handles NANA correspondence in Washington concerning women in news. She also is a regular correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Standard, Tulsa Tribune and San Diego Journal and is a member of the ABC standby staff for news programs.

Referring to the erroneous 1948 presidential election forecasts, Miss Stephenson said, "If there had been more individual reporting and less pontificating from an ivory tower, the score might not have been zero." She added that, "I do think it was an honest mistake, but it certainly taught us a good lesson." She told in detail of the first press conference with the President following the election and of how he "ribbed" reporters, some of whom he said he had not seen since September.

Headlines Have Impact

"Political headlines you read in your newspaper have a terrific personal impact on us in Washington," she said. She told of how prominence depends on rank in politics and how a political upheaval can change the picture overnight.

A buffet supper also was conducted in the hotel and was attended largely by men who had arrived for the congress. A total of 85 out-of-town persons had registered for the congress Thursday night from Southern Methodist university, Louisiana State University, Oklahoma A. & M., Texas A. & M., University of Texas, University of Oklahoma, Texas Christian university, Texas State College for Women, Baylor university, Hardin-Simmons university, and Mary Hardin-Baylor college.

Tug Wrecks Bridge, Strands Cars On Island Near Freeport

FREEPORT, April 28 (INS)—This coast town of Freeport had a harrowing experience recently.

A tugboat smashed a bridge connecting Surfside Beach with the mainland. One-hundred and 25 cars on the beach were stranded.

The marooned people had to wait all night and a good part of the next day. It was cold and they had no food nor water.

The State Highway department finally solved the problem by sending out a ferry boat.

Jose Ferrer To Follow Outstanding Role In 'Joan Of Arc' With Part In 'The Whirlpool'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 28 — Jose Ferrer, who received rave notices in "Joan Of Arc," leaves his Broadway play, "The Silver Whistle," and heads for Hollywood. He will report to Otto Preminger at 20th for one of the top roles in "The Whirlpool," formerly called "Methinks The Lady."

In "The Whirlpool" Ferrer plays an astronomer and hypnotist who commits murder and tries to blame the girl. This is the first picture that has appealed to him since he played the Dauphin in "Joan Of Arc."

Just as he leaves Broadway, his ex-wife, Uta Hagen, lands there to take over the Jessica Tandy role in "Streetcar Named Desire."

Young Actress Returns

Joan Evans is in Hollywood for another picture for her boss and discoverer, Sam Goldwyn. The 14 year-old belle will make "Beloved Over All." Once again, Farley Granger will be her so-star.

This should end those whispers that Joan's complete lack of screen experience was the cause of Sam's having to reshoot much of "Roseanna McCoy." Sam told me at the time that this gossip was not true, and that Joan is good on the screen.

It is also pleasant to add that beyond a few scars in her arm, she is completely recovered from that accident when a gun in Farley's hand accidentally exploded during a scene.

Bergman To Call Home

Ingrid Bergman's husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, who has been in New York waiting for her telephone call, told a friend he doesn't believe Ingrid knows all the publicity she has had, linking her with Rossellini. Apparently, then, she hasn't seen the Italian newspapers and magazines which show many photographs of them.

After Pia, their little daughter, finishes school she may spend the summer at the Minnesota farm where she's gone every year, but that is not definite. Ingrid and the doctor have friends there. Ingrid once told me the little girl is happiest when she's at this farm. In fact, when she went last time, her mother said she didn't want to come back.

Beery Film 'Prophetic'

The only time in Wallace Beery's 25 years in the movies that he dies in a picture is in his last one, "Big Jack," which is not yet released. The picture closes with a death scene in which a fade out shows that Wally has been shot.

When he made the picture he told some people at MGM that it was the first time in his long career that he had ever died in a movie. He was a little superstitious about it, and had never wanted any death scenes for himself.

London Applauds Kaye

Bebe Daniels cables: "Danny Kaye did it again. After entertaining an hour and a half at the Palladium in London, audiences still screamed for more."

Frank Ross brought Eva Gabor to Don Loper's party honoring the Charlie Morrisons. Apparently Eva changed her mind about going to New York after she announced her plans for a separation.

At Lynn Bowers' party for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Henry (he's the fan magazine publisher) I had quite a long talk with Irene Dunne, who looks so wonderful these days. I asked her if her luncheon with Louis B. Mayer meant a picture on that lot, but she said no.

Betty Hutton breezed in with a big picture hat. I overheard Billie Dove say to Betty, "The screen doesn't half do justice to you—you're such a pretty girl." Billie isn't bad herself.

The John Lunds came in, and Barbara Bel Geddes and her husband. I didn't know Florence Desmond for a brief moment with her hair piled on her head.

Jackie Cooper Gets Role

Jackie Cooper will replace David Wayne in "Mr Roberts" in Chicago in two weeks. Jackie's own show, "Magnolia Alley," I am sorry to say, folded.

When Greta Garbo goes to Europe to make "The Duchess of Lengais," she will live on Mrs. Daisy Fellows' yacht. Cole Porter and Harry Crocker, who go to Europe in August, are also planning to take a cruise in the Mediterranean.

Pickets Block Attempt To Remove Shipment From Plant

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 28 (INS)—Pickets today blocked an attempt to remove a shipment of Hudson Motor Co., brake dies from the strikebound South Bend Bendix Aviation company plant and Hudson attorneys said they would take the battle to court.

George A. Farabaugh, a South Bend attorney representing the Hudson firm, outlined plans to seek a federal district court injunction against officers and members of the striking Bendix Local 9, CIO-United Auto workers.

Farabaugh explained that an injunction aimed at Local 9 members would restrain them from interfering with the removal of Hudson property from the Bendix plant.

He said that if it is obtained it will be delivered to U. S. Marshal Al Hosinski to be served.

One observer at the strike scene today said pickets moved in on the first truck attempting to remove dies from the plant and pried loose the air brakes. At the same time, the witness added, six "very rough" strikers threatened the driver.

LEAVES FOR ITALY

HOLLYWOOD, April 28. (INS)—Hollywood friends learned today that Dr. Peter Lindstrom left New York by plane for Rome last night to see his actress-wife, Ingrid Bergman, and to discuss their marital problems. The surgeon left Hollywood a week ago for the eastern city on the first leg of his hop to Italy where Miss Bergman is making a picture on the island of Stromboli. Both parties denied persistent reports that a divorce was in the offing.

philosophy of the German people in seven short years and how the British people have a new philosophy of life.

"We Americans have had the philosophy of individual initiative. But about 15 years ago we began to forsake the road of individual initiative for a new philosophy. . .

"Under our old philosohy, we believed the head of the family should provide for certain necessities of life and prepare for old age," the speaker said. "Under this new philosophy we believe in letting someone else provide some of these necessities."

He then mentioned the rise of the philosophy of old age pensions, and various other benefits of the government such as the medical plan now under consideration in Congress.

"The situation has two very dangerous aspects," Dr. McDonald said. "First the young folk are being led to believe you can get something for nothing. . . You all know, of course, that you're going to have to pay for it in taxes. . .

"Your town wants a new airport, a new hospital? Get federal aid, you say. Well, it looks like to me it's just a matter of transferring money from Lubbock to Washington and back to Lubbock. And somehow along the line there's going to be a little loss.

"The second dangerous aspect is that somewhere down the line we're going to have to give up some of that freedom of which we've bragged for more than 300 years," Dr. McDonald continued. "For you can't have security from Washington without losing some of your local freedom.

"Are we going to give up so easily? We're not doing much thinking about it. . . Less than one-fourth of the people of our nation voted for Pres. Truman in the last election and less than one-half of the people even took the trouble to vote.

"What has happened to the public-spirited citizens of the country?" he asked. "I guess they're just too busy making a dollar to take an active interest in public affairs.

"What has happened to the old philosophy of a day's work for a day's pay? . . . A good bricklayer can easily lay 1,000 bricks a day, but what if the union says he must lay only 480? . . . You can't hire a man for a day's work, no matter what you pay him, for his union won't let him work to his capacity.

"And we're accepting this philosophy without much struggle," Dr. McDonald declared. "Oh, I know a few of you objected a few years ago, but you're not doing much about it now.

"I wouldn't be worried if all of you would devote some of your time to public affairs. . . If more than 47 per cent of you would even vote, but you just don't seem to care. . . Now about all we do is sit around and gripe about it."

Dr. McDonald, who is here to attend the Southwestern Journalism Congress at Texas Tech, was introduced by Carl Williams, lieutenant-governer of Borger.

Maj. John W. Holland of San Antonio presented a whistling number, accompanied by Dr. M. Norvel Young at the piano, as an entertainment feature of the program.

It was announced during the luncheon that the Lubbock club had won the achievement award for being the outstanding club in the district.

Out-of-town guests at the luncheon included: Larry Peckham and J. V. Crews, Plainview; I. K. Higbee, Dallas; Bob Johnson, San Angelo; J. P. Nystel, Abernathy; Dr. J. W. Weir, San Francisco, Mr. Williams and Maj. Holland.

Beekeepers Group Calls For Honey Support Price Program

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Who called the bee an efficient creature?

Why, it costs bees so much to produce honey these days that an association of beekeepers had to take their problem to Congress.

Roy A. Grout, president of the American Beekeeping federation, told members of the House agriculture committee yesterday:

"The beekeeping industry is very sick. It is falling apart commercially because it costs more to produce a pound of honey than the beekeeper can obtain for it on the market."

He asked the committee to approve a program of government price supports.

So did officials of the Agriculture department. But they were worried less about the cost of honey than about another chore handled by the busy bee.

Wild bees are being killed off by the insecticide DDT, they said. And you know about the bees and the flowers . . .

The Agriculture department people urged passage of the price support program so beekeepers will stay in business and the job of pollinating crops can be turned over to honey bees.

Largest Sausage And Cheddar Cheese To Be Shown At Furr's

The world's largest salami sausage, a 14-foot creature, and the world's largest cheddar cheese—for the largest state in the Union, Texas, that's what Furr's Super Markets will parade as one of the features of the Food Fair, today through May 7.

Built by Armour & Co., the salami and cheese will be in Lubbock today Saturday and Monday. The exhibition truck will be open for the public from 8:30 a. m. until 8 p. m. on Saturday and until 6:30 p. m. on Monday, rolling from store to store.

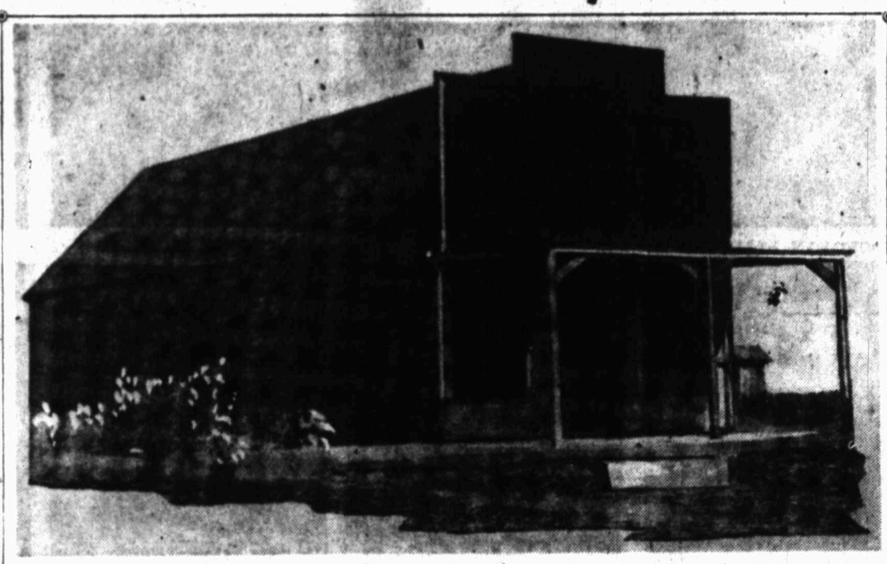

The huge salami was packed in Fort Worth and shipped to Lubbock. Here it will be placed in a refrigerated truck and sent on a schedule which will include Childress and Plainview today; Lubbock on Saturday, April 30 and Monday, May 2; Levelland, Brownfield and Lamesa on Tuesday; Big Spring, Midland and Odessa, on Wednesday; Monahans and Hobbs on Thursday; Roswell and Carlsbad on Friday and El Paso on Saturday, May 7.

Schedule Is Given

The world's largest salami until this unit, was built by Armour & Co. for Stattler's in Buffalo, N. Y. This sausage is 10 pounds heavier than the one sent to Buffalo, Armour people say! The chees is the largest of its kind and never equaled anywhere, the Chicago Armour packers say!

Here is the schedule for the truck Saturday in Lubbock: No. 1 store, Broadway and R, 8:30 a. m. to 9:45 a. m.; No 2 store, Thirteenth and L, 10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m.; No. 3 store, Nineteenth and T, 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 noon; No. 4 store, on East Broadway, 1 p. m. to 2 p. m.; No. 5 store Seventeenth and Texas, 2:15 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.; No. 16 store, Green Acres, 3:45 p. m. to 5 p. m. and No. 19 store, Fourth street, 5:15 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

The Monday schedule is just reversed, starting at 8:30 a. m. at No. 19 store, on Fourth street.

FURR'S FIRST STORE—The original Furr s store, the Kirkland Mercantile Co., of Kirkland, near Childress—as it appeared in 1904. Here, C. W. Furr, now deceased and father of Roy Furr, president and general manager, founded this company.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

First Furr Store Opened As Combination Grocery And Department Store In Kirkland, Texas, Back In 1904

Furr's Super Markets of 1949 are a far cry from the small but influential Kirkland Mercantile Co. of Kirkland, Texas, near Childress, the first of the string of Furr's markets.

Here, in 1904, its doors were opened to the public by C. W. Furr, now deceased and father of Roy Furr, president and general manager of Furr's, Inc. It was a combination grocery and department store from the beginning.

Total 46 Units

He was "Daddy" of the Furr's supers of today. From this dust and stir of Kirkland's first store, the Furr's string has grown to 46 super markets, Roy Furr heads the 26 units of the Lubbock division, in West Texas and eastern New Mexico, while brother Kay is key man of the 20 units of Amarillo. Some of these stores are in Oklahoma and Kansas.

Roy attended elementary and high school at Kirkland, then spent two years at Clarendon college and three semesters at the University of Oklahoma. He taught school for four years, before joining his father in business. He was married in 1923.

Today Roy and Mrs. Furr reside at 3120 Twentieth street in Lubbock. The couple have a married son, Don who is in the business here with his father; daughter Shelly in Texas Tech and Roy, jr., "Corky," in J. T. Hutchinson Junior High school.

C. W. Furr moved to Kirkland in Childress county. The rear of the mercantile company building, a 20 by 30 foot establishment, was used as a home for almost a year. As the country about Kirkland built up, C. W. Furr added to his holdings, erecting several brick buildings and organizing several business firms, including furniture, drygoods and groceries. In 1906 he helped organize the Kirkland State bank and in 1915 was elected its president. During these years he kept accumulating farms and business property in that country.

In 1925 he stepped into Potter county, Amarillo where he bought the M-System franchise in several counties in the Panhandle.

Roy went with his father to Amarillo as a business aide. He saw a fertile field in Lubbock and

ROY FURR, President

C. W. FURR, Founder

Furr's Super Markets in West Texas and eastern New Mexico will spring wide its doors today (April 29) to a gigantic 8-day Food Fair, celebrating its 45th anniversary.

Prizes reaching to $50,000 which include three 1949 Kaiser Deluxe automobiles and $10,000 in foods alone, will feature the event which has been scheduled as Furr's way "to say thanks."

"As we of Furr's celebrate this 45th year of business with the good people of West Texas and eastern New Mexico, our thoughts turn in appreciation to our friends, old and new, who have stood by us loyally, realizing full well that it has been the confidence and support of these good friends which has made possible the growth and expansion of the Furr's organization," Roy Furr said.

"Throughout the years to come, as in the past, we of Furr's pledge ourselves to carry on the business in such a manner that will continue to merit this confidence and good will. On this anniversary, we feel that the Furr's organization, as an institution, is an integral part of this great section of our country and that personnel of the entire organization contributes both in loyalty and service to its progress," he said.

Prizes To Be Awarded

Prizes amounting to $225 will be given away during the two days. A Norge Deluxe Gas Range will go to the winner on Tuesday, at the grand drawing. Each day 15 bags of groceries, donated by Furr's Super Markets, will be prizes. Gifts by Swift's will be added daily, company officials say.

"Cookery That Captivates"

"Cookery that Captivates," is the title of the first school on May 2, which features easily-prepared food fare that is both eye-appealing and appetite-tempting. Foods to be shown include a Marmalade Glazed ready to eat picnic, garnished with Calla Lilies made of rutabagas and carrot stems. An open-faced Dagwood Prem Sandwich, Party Fried Chicken, a Cold Meat Tray and a Frank Quail Platter are among the other main course suggestions. A quick-mix Golden Glow Cake, lavishly frosted with peanut butter icing will also be prepared.

In keeping with the theme of the second school on May 3, titled "New Fashions in Food" "quick-to-make" food platters with a definite "new look" will be demonstrated. Included will be a Honey Glazed Ready-to-Eat Ham, A Swedish Meat Ring made with a homemade biscuit base, barbecued Franks, and Prem baked with Bleu Cheese topping.

Step-by-step instructions on preparing a Bacon Broiler meal and a Fried Chicken Buffet will also be demonstrated. A "minute and a half" cold meat tray, and peanut butter candy treats, made by a "no-cooking" method are other foods to be shown.

Develops New Recipes

As a member of the staff or the Home Economics Division of the Research Laboratories at Swift & Company, Miss Logan spends much of her time in the development of new recipes and the improvement of food preparation techniques. In addition she makes numerous personal appearances before home economics and homemaker groups to help in the solution of their problems.

Martha Logan is the professional name of Verna Schroeder of Chicago. She is a graduate in home economics of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and a member of the Home Economics in Business Branch of the American Home Economics association.

Capable Staff Of Executives, Each A Specialist In His Own Field, Contributes To Success Of Furr's

Around Roy Furr, president and general manager of Furr's, Inc., a strong group of executives have been gathered, each selected for talents which have meant much to the grocery retailing success of Furr's.

Experienced personnel head the key spots in the Furr's organization. Clem B. Boverie, vice president, has been with Roy Furr since the beginning in Lubbock. In fact he was manager of No. 2 store, at 13th and L, first home of the Furr's general office. Clifton H. Cummings is secretary-treasurer. He is a product of Texas Tech, with Furr since he graduated a good many years ago.

Boverie Heads Sales Division

Boverie tops the sales division of Furr's. He works closely with retail store managers, Donovan Stafford and Cloyce Knowles, in charge of the western and eastern division of 19 stores out of Lubbock. Under Stafford is Supervisor Ray Hunter while Burl Ham teams with Knowles in that division.

El Paso's branch manager is A. R. "Chick" Arnold, another one-time store manager under Furr. Arnold has assistants R. Q. Reed, store supervisor; Bill Douthit, office manager and John Wells, El Paso Wholesale company buyer.

In the general office is John A. Milligan, purchasing agent who came down from Amarillo's Furr's some year ago. He handles grocery buying for the company, plus having charge of the warehouse, creamery, bakery, trucking and packaging.

Stone Handles Advertising

Jack O. Stone, personnel and public relations, is in charge of the newspaper and radio advertising, display department, promotions and personnel publications and training.

Ray Johnson is the Lubbock Packing Co. head of that organization, handling distribution to the Furr stores as well as other retail outlets.

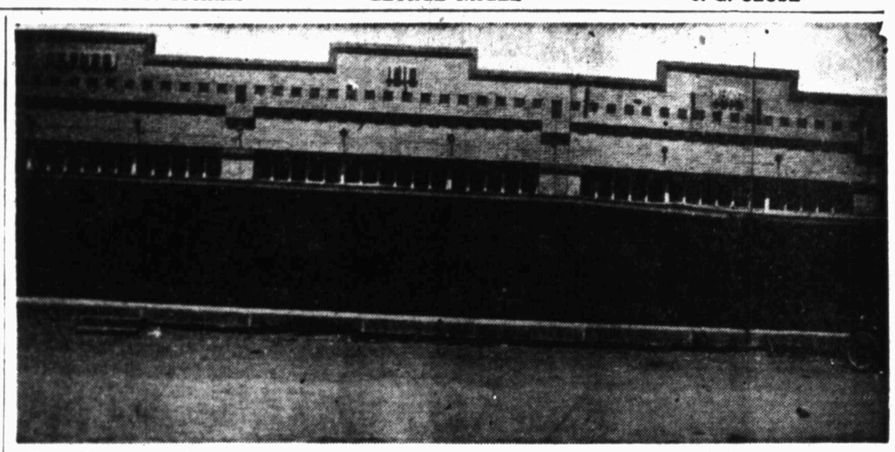

Sparks Supervises Drugs

Raynes B. Sparks, drugs supervisor, is the buyer of those commodities and in direct charge of all drug departments.

George Nagle is a recent addition to the Furr's staff, handling produce supervision in the stores.

J. Garth Close is the new maintenance engineer of the Furr's organization while Don Furr, son of Roy Furr, spends half a day in the general office with personnel problems and the other half in Lubbock stores.

Furr's Magazine, is the name of the Furr's personnel magazine published monthly from the general office here. Editors of the magazine are the correspondents in each Furr's Super Markets departments, writing monthly for the magazine. This next issue will be a May-June edition, dedicated to the Furr's Food Fair.

FURR'S SECOND STORE—In 1914, fire destroyed the original Furr's store in Kirkland, Texas, and this store was built the following year, 1915. It housed the grocery department, a clothing store and later a hardware department was added, leased by C. W. Furr, the founder.

RULES FOR DRAWINGS

Rules which are to be observed in all drawings include: (1) Stubs must be filled out. If not they will be declared void. (2) Immediate families (living in the same house) of Furr's regularly employed personnel are not eligible to win any prize. Nor are immediate families of Kaiser, Servel, Norge and Cooler-ator dealers eligible for respective prizes. (3) Should the name not be legible on the stub when drawn, the ticket will be held until May 14, Saturday when a special drawing will be held, if the winner has not claimed his prize.

A bowling league among Lubbock Furr's stores is held each winter. No. 5 on Seventeenth and Texas, is the winner of the 1948 season.

One-Stop Shopping Is 'Buy-Word' For All Of Furr's Super Markets

One-stop shopping is the "buy-word" for Furr's Super Markets. That means that a shopper can buy total needs when shopping at Furr's, in the grocery departments, the meats, the fruits and vegetables, the drugs, frozen foods, bakery goods and tobaccos.

Furr's features nationally-known merchandise throughout its grocery department, priced low every day. Its fruits and vegetables come from the richest gardens and fields of the nation, trucked fresh daily. The meats, of all grades, is largely bought on the hoof, killed and packed in Lubbock or otherwise bought from large packers.

The drug departments, in a good many of the Furr's 26 stores, are features which have attracted many a shopper. They, too, are priced low for selling. The tobaccos, bakery goods and frozen foods are other departments which have well-known and priced low, good quality merchandise.

Household Institute silverware and cutlery promotion card plans will be discontinued in May, C. B. Boverie, in charge of sales, announced this week for Furr's Super Markets.

Charles White, of Furr's in Childress, was recently named the most courteous in Childress by a committee of citizens in a contest. He received a $50 prize and a $50 bonus from the company.

Furr's Personnel Totals More Than 500 Families

More than 500 families are members of Furr's Super Markets personnel, reaching into homes more than 500 miles from east and west and 250 miles north and south.

In the 14 cities, the Lubbock division operates 26 super markets, a creamery, bakery, packing plant, produce and grocery warehouse and a wholesale company. The number of units in this tremendous operation-? Well, inventories turn over so fast that a guess now would be history in the next ten minutes. It would be best to figure all in carloads!

HERE'S FURR FOOD FAIR TICKET—Here is Sample Ticket available Free at Furr's Super Markets. Fill in stubs and drop in drawing box. Drawings will be held daily at 3 p. m. today through May 7. The photographs show front and back of the tickets.

All in all, Furr's Food Fair is "the likes of which the southwest has never seen!"

On the program of the Super Market Institute convention May 8-14 in Chicago next month is Jack O. Stone, Furr's. Stone will speak on the May 9 advertising panel, discussing "Promoting an Anniversary Sale."

Mrs. Beckham Heads Egg Department At Furr's Super Markets

Mrs. Beulah Beckham, a veteran with Furr's Super Markets, heads the egg department of Furr's, housed in the rear of No. 5 store, on Seventeenth and Texas avenue.

Mrs. Beckham

Here all eggs are assembled, brought in by the farmers on nearby and far farms. The eggs are candled, graded and packed in Furr's cartons, then delivered to stores for sale.

The operation is an interesting one and a tricky one, too. It calls for persons who know their "eggs."

Grading is important and Furr's tries to give the housewife the egg she likes.

Sometimes the demand is greater than possible to fill, and that is the time Mrs. Beckham becomes "egged" by the store managers.

Furr's History

vicinity and in 1929 he moved here.

During that year six stores of the M-System were purchased and in 1934, when there were three stores in Lubbock and six in neighboring cities, they became known as Furr Food Stores.

In the intervening years the program of units has expanded. Furr's now operate stores in 14 towns, out of of Lubbock; has its own creamery, bakery, warehouse and packing plant in Lubbock; the El Paso Wholesale Co. and seven retail stores in El Paso and single markets in Plainview, Childress, Levelland, Lamesa, Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, and Monahans, in Texas, and Carlsbad, Roswell, and Hobbs, in New Mexico. Seven stores are operated in Lubbock.

Two of the latest stores built were in El Paso, opened in November before 40,000 persons in two nights. Latest Lubbock store is the No. 19 unit on Fourth street. Remodeling of all units is a constant operation for Furr's.

A new warehouse for El Paso Wholesale Co. and Furr's Super Markets was opened in January in El Paso, some 37,000 square feet.

Display Department At Furr's Is Headed By Ben W. Jones; His Wife Is Ardent Helper

Latest of the departments set up at Furr's is the display department, headed by Ben W. Jones, long time in the art game and a hard worker to keep ahead of the Furr's stores displays.

With Benny is his new wife, Phyllis, employed by Furr's and an ardent helper. The two handle all window display signs, done by silk-screen process; wall signs and all types of work necessary for retailing groceries.

Jones spent some time here with a local theater chain and later had his own shop. He is a veteran of four branches of the service and Merchant Marines.

Other than handling signs for stores, Jones turns out layout work for advertising, some of the best placed in engraving plants in Lubbock. For the Food Fair he turned out innumerable signs, including the huge FURR'S FOOD FAIR cutouts, working with

BEN W. & PHYLLIS JONES

Garth Close, maintainence engineer, which hang on the exteriors of all stores. Signs for the big trucks which roll daily have recently been erected.

"Cover man" for May's Super Market Merchandising magazine, published in New York and with a circulation all over the United States, going largely to super market operators, was Roy Furr, president and general manager of Furr's, Inc.

The Andrews Sisters, popular girl singers, have endorsed special photographs to store managers of Furr's Super Markets, and are being displayed at the Food Fair.

Watch for the colorful neckerchiefs, the yellow ties they are; the brilliant red aprons and white caps worn by all Furr's personnel during the Food Fair.

Furr's Operates Cafeterias In Stores At Hobbs, Odessa

Furr's operates two cafeterias, one at Hobbs and one at Odessa.

Popular spots, the two are integral parts of these communities. At Hobbs, Duncan Hines, the nationally-known foods gourmet, has stamped his approval on that cafeteria, while the Odessa unit is under observation.

At each the cafeteria, the basic breakfast is featured. Good foods at reasonable prices have attracted many. They are clean, new and both are adjoining the stores, with a single door between.

Furr's Operated Five Years Under M-System Name; Corporation Now Simply Furr's, Inc.

It was not until 1934 that the M-System stores, purchased by Roy Furr here in Lubbock in 1929, sallied forth under the name of Furr's. At that time the name was Furr Foods.

After the war, in 1946, the name became Furr's Super Markets. The organization was incorporated as Furr's Super Markets, Inc., at that time but beginning with this year the corporation became officially as Furr's Inc., covering all units.

In 1929 the six stores were located: three in Lubbock and single stores in Idalou, Shallowater and Littlefield. Thirty-six employees were on the payroll at that time, what with 25 additional persons helping on weekends. The purchase of the M-System stores was made through A. C. Hendricks and sons.

By 1934 three units were operated in Lubbock and one each in Slaton, Tahoka, Hale Center, Littlefield, Clovis and Hobbs, nine in all.

MARTHA LOGAN — Swift's famous lecturer who will instruct Furr's cooking school here Monday and Tuesday.

Furr's No. 19 Has Complete Self-Service Meat Department

One completely self-service meat departments in Lubbock is the Furr's No. 19 super market on Fourth street.

Here consumers can make their choices from a large variety of meats in open service cases, ranging the full width of the rear of the market. It is the first in Lubbock with a complete list of meats. Prices are marked on each package, priced by pound, too. The meats are packed right in front of the customer, too and she may have the butchers package a choice piece of meat should she care for that.

The Lone Star Service company, a welcoming service for newcomers to communities, is affiliated with Furr's in Lubbock, Midland and Odessa.

Navy, Army, Marines and Air Forces veterans are sprinkled among the personnel of Furr's.

Cooking Schools Are Being Conducted In Seven Towns

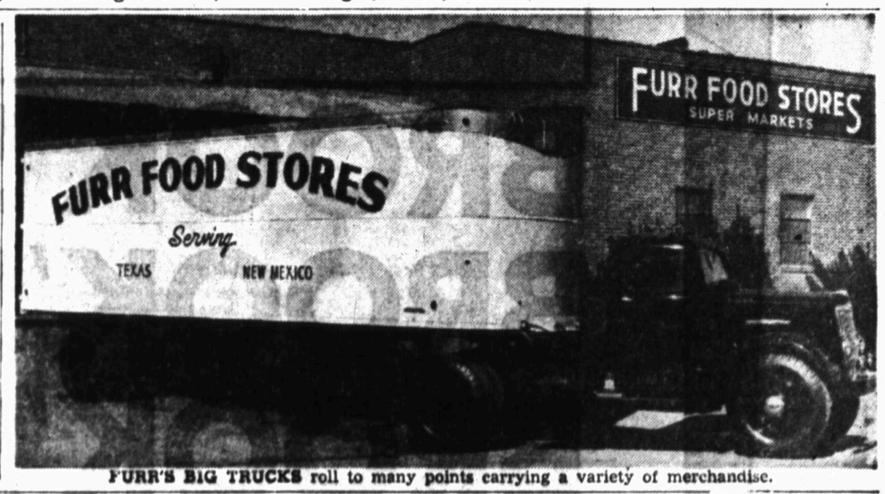

Cooking schools in seven towns of West Texas are being completed this week for Furr's. This week's school is being concluded today at Plainview. Mrs. Marion Roberts, Homemakers Service, is the lecturer.

The schedule opened in Lubbock, and followed weekly in El Paso, Hobbs, Lamesa, Midland and Odessa. In each town 75 bags of groceries and major appliance prizes were given away. Some 30,000 persons in the seven towns have attended the schools, said to be the most attractive witnessed in West Texas for many years.

A softball championship is determined each summer in the Furr's organization. Last year the Lubbock team won out over Carlsbad in the finals and then defeated El Paso's team at El Paso.

A Safety Plaque system of awards is in operation in all Furr's stores, awarded for perfect safety records.

Managers Of Furr's Markets Play Important Roles In Operation

Managers of Furr's Super Markets play important roles in the operation of this large organization.

Each manager is Furr's to every person who walks into the doors. He has been selected after careful consideration by Furr's executives to represent the company through direct contact with the consumer.

In most cases he has been with Furr's a good many years, knows the policies and steps into that role after having earned the promotion. For example, Roger Hurt, of No. 1 on Broadway and R, just recently was transferred from Big Spring where he was assistant manager, now as manager of the key store in Lubbock. Wayne Griffin, No. 19 on Fouth street, came up from Lamesa on the same route.

He is the top man in each store, and works hand in hand with the market manager, head of his department.

The Earl Brown family of Plainview's Furr's Super Market, No. 8, just Thursday became parents of a new boy. Brown is the manager of that store, and formerly assistant to Junior Powell at No. 3, Lubbock, on 19th street.

New Fashions In Food Is Theme Of Furr's Free Cooking School

"New Fashions in Food" is the theme of the second and final cooking to be given by Martha Logan, widely-known home economist for Swift & Company, on May 3, at 10 a. m., from the stage of the Clifton Theatre, Lubbock.

Her appearance has been arranged by Furr's Super Market in celebration of their 45th anniversary.

"New Look" food platters that are both easy to prepare and attractively different will be demonstrated in keeping with Miss Logan's theme. Featured will be a honey glazed ready-to-eat ham, that can be served cold as is, or warm, by just heating through in the oven.

Franks in barbecue sauce prepared in approximately 7 minutes simmering time, when the sauce is made in advance, are Miss Logan's suggestion for tasty backyard or country picnic food fare.

Principles of boiling will be demonstrated by a complete Bacon Boiler meal, which includes oven crisp strips of bacon, browned peach halves and green beans heated below while the bacon is boiling. Broiled loaves of Prem topped with Blue Cheese and mustard and served with asparagus also heated through while the meat is browning is another example of "economy broiling."

"Streamlining Meal Preparation Is Easy" says Miss Logan who proves her point by using a homemade biscuit mix as the base for a Swedish meat ring served with a cooked meat and mushroom filling.

Miss Logan challenges attending homemakers to time her when she prepared her "minute and a half" cold meat tray of table ready mats with a center garnish of cottage cheese and tomato wedges. Another quickie is her peanut butter candy treats—an easy to make "no cooking dessert with a smooth peanut flavor.

"Know how" on planning a party buffet of golden brown chicken fried the day before and served cold with an assortment of cheese foods and natural cheese completes the Martha Logan platter suggestions.

"Furr Food Day" at Mackenzie Park, Lubbock, last August 31, drew some 30,000 people in eight hours. It is planned again for this summer.

Rain and hail caused managers of Furr's Super Markets several headaches this week in Lubbock, but when all Kaiser automobiles on display were found in perfect condition, the matter passed. Only three cars are being given away, but every store has one on display.

Ft. Worth packers of the giant salami sausage, the world's largest, have never seen such an "animal" and were hard to convince that Furr's Super Markets had ordered such an item. When the Food Fair was explained, it was only a matter of getting the order out.

Food Manufacturers from far and wide have already made Lubbock a point on their travel schedule for all this week representatives have been pouring into this community to see Furr's Super Markets decorated for the Food Fair, materials largely supplied by the manufacturers.
