Walter W. Liggett Charges Corruption, Hypocrisy Among Officials In Many United States Cities

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — The large audience which attended the house judiciary committee session today for the first congressional hearing on the merits of prohibition in the decade since enactment of the Volstead act cheered a demand for repeal of the dry amendment.

Representative Graham of Pennsylvania, chairman of the group which formulated the prohibitory law, had denounced conditions under it and said the results were not satisfactory. He deplored consequences "most depressing to every patriot" which he said had been brought about by enforcement of the dry law.

Writer Testifies.

The one witness heard, Walter W. Liggett, a magazine writer, charged that corruption and hypocrisy was to be found among officials in various cities. Committee members rebuked the audience for applauding various of his remarks.

The committee was hearing opponents of the prohibition laws first on measures to repeal or modify the Eighteenth amendment and laws under it. Representative Sabath, democrat, Illinois, author of a repeal measure, demanded that congress take such action.

Liggett's charges involved the governor of Michigan at a "wild party" at Detroit, Nov. 8, 1929, and a former governor of Massachusetts, judges and city, customs and other officials." He said enforcement was lax in Massachusetts, Kansas, Min-

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. (AP)—The North German Lloyd liner Muenchen, wrecked by a mystery fire which swept through her palatial interior after she docked yesterday from Bremen, can be raised from the mud of the Hudson river and refitted, officials of the line believe.

Capt. Feodore Drechsel, the line's marine superintendent, and the liner's deck and engine crews boarded her today and made a preliminary inspection after firemen extinguished the blaze that caused $3,000,000 damage and claimed two lives.

Death On Gallows To Be Fate Of Arizona Woman

(By Associated Press)

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 12. —Death on the gallows seemed inevitable today for Mrs. Eva Dugan, 52-year-old housekeeper, whose plea for clemency was denied today by the state board of pardons and paroles.

Nine days hence, February 21, she is scheduled to die on the scaffold at the Arizona state prison in Florence for the murder three years ago of her employer, A. J. Mathis, aged recluse of Tucson, Arizona. She will be the first woman in Arizona criminal annals to be executed.

Favored Clemency

The board's decision was rendered with one dissenting vote, that of C. O. Case, who recommended clemency. He was opposed vigorously, however, by Attorney General K. Berry Peterson and L. B. Orme, board chairman.

Appended at the last moment to the woman's appeal was a brief letter she received at the prison yesterday signed "Jack," absolving her of all blame. The writer asserted she "had nothing to do with it and that he 'had to hit old man Mathis' when he came 'at me with a knife' and would have killed me if I had not struck him." The writer said he was attempting to gather "some more evidence."

No Cognizance Taken

No cognizance of the claim was taken by the board which pointed out that Mrs. Dugan had received similar letters in the past and that investigation of the missives had produced nothing to mitigate the evidence against her.

The murder charges grew out of Mathis' disappearance from his ranch in January, 1927. Friends inquiring for him, were told by Mrs. Dugan and a youth named "Jack" who was employed by Mathis, that he had gone to California. Several weeks afterward Mrs. Dugan and the youth disappeared.

Some months later, Mrs. Dugan was arrested in White Plains, N. Y., for stealing Mathis' automobile. She was returned to Tucson and con-

Publix Theaters May Buy Lindsey Enterprises Here

Deal Now Pending For Sale Of Palace And Lindsey To Big Corporation; Near Half Million In Trade

It was announced here late yesterday that a deal is now pending whereby the Dent Theaters Inc., the Texas subsidiary of the Publix Theater corporation, will acquire the Lubbock properties of the Lindsey Theater enterprises.

If the deal is completed, the exchange of ownership will become effective on March 1, at which time the Publix corporation will take charge. Papers have been drawn up, but not yet approved by the New York office of the corporation.

Half Million Deal

The sale, reported to be in the neighborhood of a half a million dollars, includes the business and goodwill of the Lindsey and Palace theaters and a 10 year lease on each of the buildings.

"If this deal goes through," said Cliff C. Lindsey, manager of the Lindsey Theater enterprises, "we will be entirely satisfied, as we feel that the consideration is for an amount equal to the worth of our business. And we will wish for the new owners all the hearty patronage which we have enjoyed from the people of Lubbock and the South Plains during the years we have operated these theaters."

Erected in 1915

The Lindsey theater was erected in 1915 and remodelled and equipped for the talkies in 1929. Its seating capacity is 794. Because of its unique design and superb interior decorations, it is conceded to be one of the finest theaters of its size in the entire Southwest.

The Palace was built in 1924 and seats 921. It was also partially remodelled last year and equipped for sound reproduction with new machinery installed. Both these theaters were erected and established by the Lindsey Theater enterprises and have been operated by them.

Senators Opposed To Hughes Claim Additional Votes

Outcome Of Final Vote On Confirmation Of Chief Justice In Doubt After All-Day Senate Fight

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. —(AP)—Claiming additional votes every hour, senators opposing Charles Evans Hughes' nomination to be chief justice waged an all day attack upon his confirmation today which began to provoke speculation tonight over the final outcome.

Western republican independents who opened the surprise assault on Hughes in the senate were joined today by some democrats in debate. Further severe denunciation of the economic views of the former supreme court jurist and former presidential candidate was made.

Date Delayed

Unsuccessful in an effort for a night session to force a final vote, Senator Watson of Indiana, the republican leader, gave notice he would keep the senate in session tomorrow until a vote is obtained and added that he had the votes to do it.

Opponents of Hughes obviously were encouraged after a day of informal conferences on the floor. Senators Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska, leaders in the fight against him, announced they would be ready for a vote by tomorrow night. They are making no public claims but the foes of Hughes believe there are from 25 to 30 votes against him.

Tide Turning

No one predicted rejection of Hughes' nomination, but with the tide obviously turning against him in the debate today, republican leaders conceded there might be 22 votes against confirmation.

Senator Glenn, republican, Illinois, alone went out to champion Hughes in the day of as blunt discussion of the supreme court and of

Naval Conference Hits Danger Zone

Consideration Of Wartime "Humanization" Program Under Way; Would Limit Submarine Power

BY FRANK R. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 12. —(AP)—Moving slowly like a ship in a sea infested with submarines, the London naval conference in its voyage toward disarmament today reached the danger zone of tonnage figures.

An accomplishment of the five-power delegations today was making a start toward limitation of submarine activities in war time on their "humanization," as provided for in American and French resolutions presented at yesterday's plenary session.

A sub-committee of experts with legal knowledge will take the resolutions of Henry L. Stimson and Georges Leygues tomorrow and begin necessary adjustments to make them fit into the London disarmament treaty.

Another accomplishment today was acceptance of the experts' report for a compromise tonnage plan combining the global and category fleet measurement systems.

Farmer Held For Slaying Of Wife

Estranged Mate Of Former Weatherford Man Is Shot Down In Park Wednesday At Fort Worth

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12.—An attempt will be made by the district attorney's office to hold without bond J. W. C. Johnson, 54, former Weatherford farmer, charged with fatally shooting his estranged wife, Mrs. Lillian Johnson, 43, in Trinity Park this afternoon.

Johnson was placed in the Tarrant county jail soon after the shooting when Assistant District Attorney Elbert Hooper filed a complaint charging murder.

Mumbling incoherently, Johnson was sitting in his car carressing the lifeless body of his wife when police arrived at the scene of the shooting.

Mrs. Ada Jenkins, aged mother of the slain woman, eye witness, ran screaming through the park woods when the shots were fired.

Mrs. Johnson was struck by three bullets after Johnson had driven his wife and mother-in-law into the park at noon in an effort to reach a reconciliation with his estranged mate

Witnesses Called For Impeachment Hearing In House

Forty-One Are Summoned In Effort To Substantiate Charges Against Terrell, State Comptroller

Former Attorney General W. A. Keeling Represents Defendant; Claim Fund Not Accounted For

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 12.—Forty-one witnesses had been summoned by the house of representatives tonight for use in an effort to substantiate charges against Comptroller S. H Terrell, as a basis for impeachment. The house will begin tomorrow a hearing on the charges preferred by Representatives Joseph McGill, of El Paso, Alfred Petsch, of Fredericksburg and Coke R. Stevenson of Junction.

Former Attorney General W. A. Keeling, who will represent Comptroller Terrell before the house, said he would produce his witnesses as the hearing progressed.

Terrell is accused among other things, of appropriating and diverting to his personal use certain state funds which State Auditor Moore Lynn in a special report to the legislature claimed had not been satisfactorily accounted for.

Funds not accounted for, Lynn's report said, totaled about $60,000.

Representatives McGill, Petsch and Stevenson were to act as attorneys for the house and Representative Ed R. Sinks of Giddings was to pass on admissibility of the testimony. Sinks is a former district judge and passed on testimony at the hearing of the late J. T. Bobinson, commissioner of the general land office, exonerated by the house.

Senate Engrosses State School Bill

Appropriations For Summer Schools Not Passed In Session; Tech College Would Be Aided.

AUSTIN, Feb. 12. (AP)—The senate late today engrossed the emergency appropriations for summer schools of state colleges and schools, but proponents of the money measure were unable to muster sufficient strength to suspend the rules and finally pass the bill.

The amended bill would appropriate $766,733 for each year of the biennium.

Texas Technological college has entered a plea to the state legislature for an emergency appropriation totalling $136,500, W. T. Gaston, business manager of the institution being in Austin at this time for that purpose.

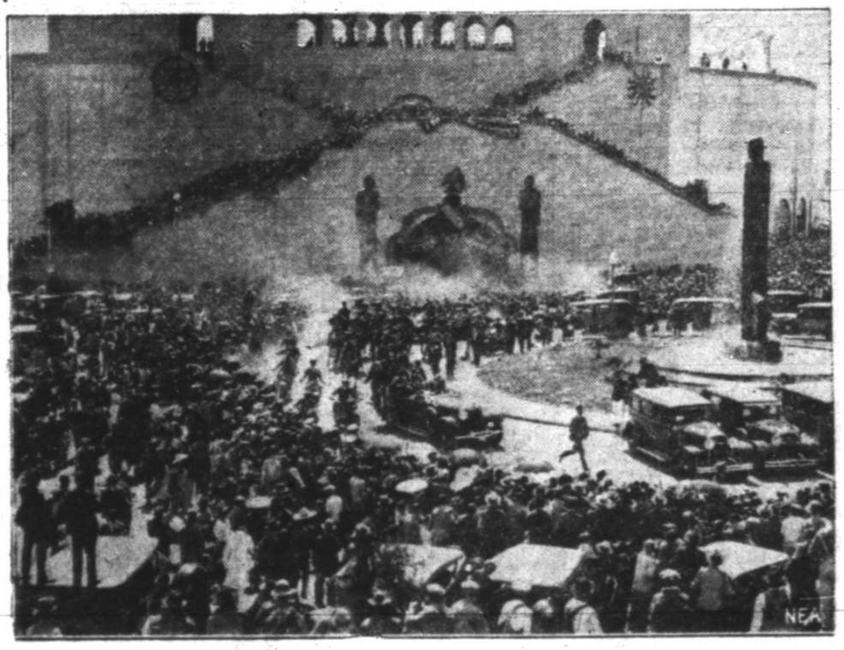

Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the college, has made the statement that "we can only hope for the desired action on the part of the legislators."

Imperative in the present need of the local school is the matter of funds necessary for continuance of the regular summer school. An appropriation of $35,000 for this organization is included in the list.

Other appropriations asked include: salaries (continuing) $26,500; maintenance, $25,000; additional equipment, $50,000.

GALVESTON, Feb. 12. (AP) — A motion to advance hearing on the appeal against the Holbrook anti-seine law to March 6, was granted by the court of civil appeals here today.

Melvin Jones Is Heard At Banquet Of Lubbock Lions

Over Hundred Out-Of-Town And Local Members Hear Founder Of Lionism Talk Of Work Of Organization

A message filled with an electrifying urge to members of Lions clubs to "Leave this world better than we found it," was delivered by Melvin Jones, Chicago, secretary-general and founder of Lions International, at a banquet held in the Hilton last night.

Mr. Jones gave numerous instances where Lions clubs throughout the world have aided the cripple, the blind, the helpless and unfortunates, as well as having assisted to build cities and to better their communities in every imaginable manner.

Lions Unselfish.

"Our mission," said Mr. Jones, "is to leave the world better than we found it. We're building cities, and we're building men. You can't find anything that equals what the Lions clubs have done in unselfishly serving their towns, even if you review all ages of the past.

"Service clubs are making better men for the chambers of commerce, for the churches, for every other organization that is doing good. The Lions club is just as essential as any other institution, of any nature, because it serves every organization that is for good—for everything that stands for unselfish

Aged Man Given Life Sentence

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 12. (AP)—A 68-year-old man was sentenced to life imprisonment today for shooting and killing William Hiteshue, 73, who, he said, laughed at him.

Conway Given 99 Years In Murder

Former Sailor Convicted Of Slaying Watchman In Dallas Cemetery; Death Considered By Jury

DALLAS, Feb. 12. — A 99-year penitentiary sentence was assessed Leslie W. Conway, 21, former sailor in the United States navy, by a jury here today which convicted him of slaying J. L. Broome, 48, watchman, in a cemetery, December 15.

A member of the jury said he and his 11 colleagues agreed that Conway was guilty soon after the case was left in their hands late yesterday. He said that only one issue —whether the defendant should be sentenced to the electric chair or given a 99-year prison term—was involved soon after they started their deliberations.

Although denying he attacked the watchman, the defendant testified he visited the scene of the crime the night it was committed in an effort to obtain gasoline after the automobile in which he and L. J. Whatley and several women companions were riding had run out of fuel.

Whatley also was indicted for the slaying.

Next Brady Trial Location Not Yet Finally Selected

Judge To Announce Choice Saturday; Venue Change To Williamson County Is Retracted By Brooks

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 12.—The next trial of John W. Brady on charges of murdering Miss Lehlia Highsmith, stenographer, will be held in some county to be selected by Judge J. D. Moore, who will announce his choice Saturday.

District Attorney Henry H. Brooks today renewed his request for a change of venue to Williamson county, adjoining Travis county, and told the court that after investigating conditions there he was satisfied a jury could be obtained to try the former appellate court judge.

Brooks said court officials at Georgetown expressed the belief that a jury could be obtained there, but it would probably require several days' questioning of venitremen before 12 men who had not formed opinions could be found.

Dayton Moses of Fort Worth, attorney for Brady, said the defense did not object to a trial in Williamson county, but suggested the case be sent a greater distance from Austin on account of the wide publicity given testimony adduced at the trial here.

Flying Instructor Crashes to Death

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 12. (AP)—T. E. Caraway, 35, senior instructor of a Tulsa Flying school, was killed and J. F. Tobin, student flier, was critically injured today. The training plane in which they were flying fell 3,000 feet and crashed on a farm near Owasso.

Tonight, officials of the Spartan School of Aeronautics, owners of the plane, and an inspector of the department of commerce, were investigating the crash in an effort to determine its cause.

Although both men were wearing parachutes, neither had attempted to leap from the falling craft, it was said. Tobin enrolled in the school last summer and had nearly 100 hours of solo flying to his credit.

Attempts To Save Son Condemned To Die For Robbery

Mrs. Mattie Yowe Claims She And Five Others In Family Are Afflicted By Touches Of Insanity

Testimony Closed

Witness Becomes Violently Hysterical Before Story Is Finished; Is Carried From Court Room

(By The Associated Press)

EASTLAND, Feb. 12.—Attempting to save her son from death in the electric chair, the mother of E. V. Allen, condemned bank robber, testified at his sanity trial tonight that she and five other members of her family were afflicted with insanity.

Mrs. Mattie Yowe, formerly Mrs. Mattie Allen, closed the defense testimony and the case. Before she could finish her story she became violently hysterical and had to be carried from the court room.

Sufferers Named.

She named three sons, a brother, and a cousin as suffering, during the course of their lives, from insanity. For a two-year period 18 years ago, she said, she lost control of her mental faculties to such an extent that it was necessary for her family to care for her constantly, attending her every need.

Mrs. Yowe, mother of 12 children and twice a widow, did not specify what form of insanity ran through the family, and cross questioning was cut short by her hysterics.

Allen, she said, suffered from yellow fever when he was nine or 10 years old. For several weeks, she said, he lay at the point of death and a toxic poison which developed drained constantly from the lad's mouth.

He never fully recovered, physically or mentally, she testified, and now, at the age of 29, she firmly believed him insane. At this point the grey-haired woman was unable to continue, and was taken from the room.

Fate Of Ham Goes To Abilene Jury

Defendant Is Charged With Murder Of Chauffeur At El Paso; Companion Is Under Death Sentence

(By Associated Press)

ABILENE, Feb. 12.—The fate of W. S. Ham, which also involves the fate of Percy Howard, sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murder of N. V. Nixon, El Paso chauffeur, was placed in the hands of a jury at 4:40 p. m. today. Ham was also charged with murder for Nixon's death, and his trial today consisted solely of reading testimony presented at Howard's trial.

Nixon was killed in 1930. After several delays, Howard was brought to trial for the crime and sentenced to the electric chair in 1926. Testimony against him was furnished principally by Ham and by Howard's former wife.

Date for Howard's execution has been delayed several times by Governor Moody who declared he wished first to see how Ham's trial terminated. For more than three years, Howard has been awaiting electrocution.

The testimony read in court today told of the slaying of the El Paso taxi driver. Howard and Ham, according to the testimony, employed Nixon to drive them from El Paso to Big Spring. On the second day of the trip, Howard ordered Nixon to stop the car, then went a short distance from the roadway and dug a shallow grave.

Howard then called Ham and Nixon, Ham testified, and while Nixon stood looking into the hole, Howard hit him with the shovel and shot him. The body slumped into the hole and was covered up, the testimony said.

Search Started For Alleged "Meanest Man;" Charged With Stealing Crutch

A widespread search is being conducted by officers throughout the western section of Texas for a 21-year-old youth, said to be Park Bufkin, who is alleged to have held Arthur Pendleton, Plains farmer, at the point of a gun Tuesday night to make his escape in Pendleton's automobile.

Officers at Plains stated that charges of highway robbery with firearms would be filed this morning against the youth.

Reward Offered.

The Yoakum county commissioners' court, together with citizens of Plains, last night had made up subscriptions and were offering a reward of $200 for return of Bufkin and $25 for return of the car.

Pendleton, forced to use a crutch, having lost his right leg several years ago, was in Lubbock last night and told the following story:

"About 10 days ago I picked Bufkin up in Plains and took him to my home which is 17 miles northwest of that city. He told me that he was broke and hungry and I felt sorry for him. I had no real work for him to do but he was able to help some and I gave him his room and board.

"Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock I drove up in front of the house, having been to town for groceries. I started to carry them inside when the boy made his appearance and flashed a .38 pistol on me and told me to carry him to Brownfield. I readily agreed of course.

"When we had traversed a distance of about five miles he ordered me off the main road onto a side trail which lead to a windmill and, upon arriving at the mill, told me to get out that he was leaving me there. He took the crutch and left me lying on the ground."

Pendleton explained that when he had been put out of the car Bufkin took the wheel and turned toward Plains.

"He had gone only about 50

HOW FORD METHODS CUT COST OF DISTRIBUTION

Lower profits in selling save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in manufacturing

TWENTY-SEVEN years ago the Ford Motor Company was formed to provide reliable, economical transportation for all the people. That original purpose has never changed. The constant effort in every activity is to find ways to give you greater and greater value without extra cost—frequently at lowered cost. This applies to distribution and similar important factors, as well as manufacture.

For the Ford Motor Company believes that its full duty is not only to make a good automobile at the lowest possible price, but to see that there is no waste, extravagance, or undue profit in any transaction from the time the car leaves the factory until it is delivered to your home. It is obvious that hard-won savings in production will be of little value if they are sacrificed later through excessive selling costs.

EVERY purchaser of a motor car has the right to know how much of the money he pays is for the car itself and how much is taken up by dealer charges. If these charges are too high, one of two things must happen. Either the price of the car must be raised or the quality lowered. There is no other way. The money must come from somewhere.

In the case of the Ford, the low charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories mean a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser in addition to the still greater savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

The profit margin on the Ford car has always been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

Officials Probe Border Gun Fight

Mexican Rum Runners Fail In Attempt To Shoot Way Across Rio Grande River At El Paso

EL PASO, Feb. 12. (AP)—Authorities today began an investigation of a border gun battle yesterday which sent bullets of Mexican rum runners zipping along downtown thoroughfares and into houses and a hotel on the American side of the river. No one was injured.

Stray bullets whizzed across the river, which is very narrow here and an ideal spot for smugglers to cross, after one of three smugglers was arrested as he stepped upon American soil.

His two companions, tardy in making the crossing, opened fire. The snipers' aim was poor, as was that of the patrolmen who fired back. The narrowest escapes were by three American bystanders, including a mother and baby, who were barely missed by a bullet.

Many of the smugglers' bullets were buried in river front houses. The fire was stopped apparently when the rum runners gave up hope of rescuing their comrade.

President Hoover Becomes Sunburned But Continues His Fishing Activity

LONG KEY, Fla., Feb. 12. (AP)—President Hoover turned to reefs immediately surrounding this small coral island today in his Florida fishing excursion.

Sunburned by his eight-hour trip yesterday under a blazing sun, the chief executive nevertheless was eager to get back to fishing. The houseboat Sauntere and the department of commerce yacht, Kilkenny, homes of the vacation party, were left behind in favor smaller craft, since President ver planned to go only a few miles from the base.

Mr. Hoover hoped to land another sailfish. He caught one Monday while his companions, Dr. Vernon Kellogg and Mark Sullivan each landed one yesterday. During the latter trip, the catch included three barracudas and four bonitas.

The large boats were taken along yesterday, but after Mr. Hoover and his companions reached Alligator Lake, 12 miles north of here, they proceeded in the "Goofus Boy" and the "Hoo Hoo," the small vessels, beneath the long railroad trestle that connects Long Key with the next coral key to the south and into the Atlantic ocean. Lunches were carried in the boats.

Central Point Of Cotton Marketing Will Be Selected

Establishment Of Concentration Center In West Texas Is Predicted By Visiting Farm Head

J. E. Montgomery, of Tynam, newly elected president of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, yesterday expressed the opinion while in Lubbock that some city in West Texas will eventually be established as a concentration point for marketing of cotton.

"We are now considering the feasibility of a marketing center," Mr. Montgomery said. "The city which offers the best facilities and which is centrally located in the cotton producing counties will be established, in all probability as the concentration point."

Problems of this immediate area were analyzed Tuesday night at a meeting which was held in the county court house. Those attending the meeting were Mr. Montgomery, W. M. Ross, of South Ward, president of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau; Mrs. F. P. Revier, of Carlisle, secretary of the county bureau; Mr. and Mrs. C. Z. Fine, of Posey; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Merrill, of Shallowater; Bob Crump, of Shallowater; T. M. Nelson, of Idalou; Logan Sowder, Idalou; J. W. Cannon, Idalou; V. Snodgrass, Acuff; W. C. BUST UNVEILED

Token Of Anglo-American Friendship Presented

LONDON, Feb. 12. (AP)—A bust of Agraham Lincoln, the work of Andrew O'Connor, Irish American sculptor who presented it to the City of London as a token of Anglo-American friendship, was unveiled at the Royal Exchange today by the Lord Mayor, Sir William Waterloo. It was formally presented to the city by the Marquis of Crewe who acted for the Marquis of Reading, chairman of the Lincoln committee. The bust is carved from a block of American limestone quarried near Lincoln's birthplace and portrayed the president in middle age before the civil war.

H. P. Gordon bought a Spencer, Iowa, restaurant, but his purchase did not include a front door key. The door had not been locked since 1923.

San Antonio Bank Given Assurance

State Banking Commissioner Says Institution Sound Following Withdrawals By Number Of Depositors

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 12. (AP)—Declared to be absolutely sound by Lynn P. Talley, governor of the eleventh district federal reserve and James Shaw, state banking commissioner, the City-Central Bank and Trust company, which experienced withdrawals by a number of depositors Tuesday, was given assurance of support by virtually every financial institution in San Antonio today.

The financial flurry, brought about by Tuesday's withdrawals was apparently dissipated Wednesday, following a meeting of federal, state and local banking heads.

Condition Analyzed

Talley declared after the meeting that "the statement of the financial condition of the City-Central Bank and Trust company has been carefully analyzed today. The bank is in sound financial condition."

Talley and Shaw met with officers and directors of the City-Central, Miers Crump, managing director of the local Federal Reserve bank, and Ernest L. Brown, president of the San Antonio Clearing House association. A number of business men and other bankers also were present.

To Leave Deposits

The bank, already given assurance of the support of the clearing house here, was assured by scores of depositors that their money would be left in the institution and offers of financial aid came in from various other sources.

W. R. King, president of the bank, stated ample funds would be on hand when the bank opens at the regular hour Thursday to meet all demands on it.

Everything O.K. Couzens Pleased With Son-in-Law

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. (AP) Margaret Couzens Chewning, 19, daughter of the multi-millionaire senator from Michigan, introduced her bank-clerk husband of six days to her father today and prepared to set up housekeeping in a one-room kitchenette bath apartment.

William Jeffries Chewning, 26, bridegroom, made a good impression in the brief, but warm first meeting with his father-in-law, Senator Couzens said afterward that he "seemed a very nice young man."

Chewning said his own father had "plenty to say" about the manner of their wedding but that the family was reconciled, and had welcomed them when they went to his home in Virginia from Norfolk yesterday.

The meeting authorized a telegram to the two Texas senators in Washington urging them to support an oil tariff as a necessity to the most important business in the state. The meeting also condemned tax increases.

No fewer than 26,429 inspections by government officials were made in Italia factories last year.

PERFECT LUBRICATION IN ALL WEATHER

WINTER and summer you can use the same grade of -TP- Motor Oils—the grade best suited to lubricate your engine.

Don't take chances by using too light an oil in cold weather. Remember that your engine runs just as hot in winter as in summer—hotter if you use a radiator cover or shutter. A light oil becomes too thin to lubricate properly when the engine heats up. -TP- Oil will give you easy starting and perfect lubrication.

-TP- Oils are the latest development in scientific lubrication. They are produced from pure, paraffine-base crude by a process for which patents are pending.

This process has marked advantages over other methods. It preserves all the lubricating bodies of the crude oil just as they occur in nature. There is positively no blending of light and heavy oils to produce various grades. It removes all the paraffine wax.

In terms of performance this means perfect lubrication at all times, smoother, more efficient operation for your engine, longer life, reduced repair bills, and more mileage. It means easy starting in winter with the same grade of oil that you use in summer—the one best suited to lubricate your engine.

It is wise economy to pay 45c a quart for -TP- Oil.

"SHALL SHAPE AND SHADOW OVERFLOW"
[John Greenleaf Whittier, 1807-1892]

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*
By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper figure, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"
Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

AN OLD TIMER'S SCRAP BOOK
BY TIM McGRATH

HIPPO BURNS "FIXED" A FIGHT ONCE AND IT TURNED OUT TO BE A DANDY

"Hippo" Burns is a ponderous, bald, colored man, but he's not superstitious. Each year he is issued License No. 13 as a manager, and License No. 13 as a second by the California Boxing Commission.

"Tugboat" Smith, a lumbering young heavyweight, recently was part of the Burns entourage. He was matched with a small town champion, in an interior city. The small towner thought more of his local standing as an athlete than any money he might make in fighting; in fact, several of his wins were so weird that something looked phoney.

When Burns learned of this, he insisted upon accompanying "Tugboat" to the fight. In the dressing room, Secretary Yarwood of the State Boxing Commission counded warning of a whisper that the "Tugboat was to take a flop for the local champion.

Hippo drew his massive frame from his chair. Slowly, while his eyes pierced the "Tugboat," he drew a razor from his pocket. Slowly he opened it. Slowly he wet a finger and drew it lightly along the keen edge.

"Mister Yarwood," he began. "You know me, and you know my reputation for square shooting. I'm jealous of that. In fact, I'd rather be hanged than be a party to a queer fight. And if this fight tonight is phoney, I'll be sent up for murder.

"Look here, Smith," he thundered, brandishing the razor. "My license number is 13. And if you don't fight a real fight tonight, I'll slash you 13 times with this weapon."

In the ring, an attendant started to cut the string ends after lacing on Smith's gloves.

"Don't you cut those strings; I'll do it; I'm superstitious about 'em," shouted Hippo.

And slowly drawing the razor from his pocket, with a glowering glance at the Tugboat, Hippo deftly sliced off the loose ends.

It was a great battle; the small towner fighting for local glory; Tugboat Smith fighting for his life. Each man was floored several times.

Poor Smith took wallops enough to entitle him to stay down for the doleful drone of the dreadful decimal. But every time he hit the canvas he instinctly looked at his corner—and each time saw the massive Hippo toying with the razor, and giving him a baleful stare.

The fight was called a draw. The fans went wild and demanded a return match. But the Tugboat left the Hippo Burns stable and hung up his gloves for keeps.

T.C.U Contemplates No Action on Probe of Southwest Athletic Policy

HOOKS AND SLIDES
by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

When a fine infielder like Leo Durocher is waived out of the American League, there is always a reason. Leo, recently sent to the Cincinnati Reds by the Yanks, joins the long parade of players moved out of the league—Heilmann, Meusel, Sisler, Carl Mays, Joe Dugan, Earl Sheely, Picinich and "Buzz" McWeeny. In every case there was a very good reason. Durocher, a great infielder, has been a trouble maker. He packs a brand of ego that makes him unpopular with other players. Though a great shortstop, at 24, he is a weak hitter. Harry Heilmann, sent to the Reds by the Tigers, is a slow fielder and always has been lax in training, though he pounds the ball at a terrific clip. Bob Meusel, also unloaded onto Dan Howley's team, is lazy, indifferent and hard to discipline.

George Sisler hits that ball, but is known to have definite weaknesses. He is a loss on ground balls to his left and balls pitched above his knees. Carl Mays packs a bad disposition and is hard to manage. Joe Dugan, besides having a trick knee, has what is known in opera stars as temperament, and Joe never could take the game seriously.

Sheely, slowed up by a bad leg, has been known as a prolific producer of double plays. Picinich, besides being a weak hitter, also regarded his baseball lightly and for that reason has not been rated as a great handler of pitchers. "Buzz" McWeeny, waived to Brooklyn by the Chisox, has earned the reputation of being as indifferent as his curve ball.

They May Play for Dan

Dan Howley gets Meusel, Heilmann, McWeeny and Durocher. If you think Daniel hasn't taken a job on his hands, you must be one of those heavyweights Carnera has crowned. But if there is any human handler of men who can get results out of a gang like that, it's Dan Howley, and no other.

Durocher leaves a trail of harsh words in the American League. He called our favorite umpire, Bill (Big Shot) McGowan a Toonerville umpire. Once when Bob Fothergill was at bat as a pinch hitter, Durocher stopped the game three times by insisting to Umpire Ormsby there was something wrong with the batting order. Fothergill, sensitive about his weight, could have shot him when he said, "There are two men at bat, one must be out."

Once Durocher was chased by a rookie umpire. He feigned disgust and remarked, "I wouldn't mind being chased by a good umpire like Tommy Connolly, but I thought us bushers ought to stick together."

Babe Ruth once told Leo that all good ball players wore spats. That evening Durocher is said to have purchased six pairs.

When He Rode Frisch

During the Tanks-Cards world series, Durocher wagged his lip at a killing clip from the bench. Upon Frank Frisch, dubbed "the Fordham Flash" by sports writers, Durocher hung the appellation, the "Fordham Flush," varying this with "Fordham Four-Flush."

But with all that Durocher is a shortstop, and he proved it in that same series. After riding the Cards unmercifully from the bench, he was finally called upon to take his place at short. He flashed a miraculous double-play that was one of the scintillating spots in a series where fine fielding plays were noticeable by their absence. His nerve is monumental.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12. (AP) — T. C. U. contemplates no action regarding investigation of athletic policies and conditions in the Southwest conference, according to Dr. E. M. Waits, president of T. C. U. The faculty of Texas university Tuesday voted in favor of a probe of athletics in the conference, such investigation to be conducted by representatives of the Carnegie Foundation or some other impartial agency.

The conference authorities previously have refused to become excited over the Carnegie Foundation report.

"We may be a little self-righteous in the matter," said Dr. Waits, "but we feel there are no glaring irregularities in the conference. We have preferred to let the individual schools remedy any conditions that may seem wrong. Of course, if any irregularities were allowed to go on very long, action would be taken."

T. C. U. was not mentioned among the schools criticized by the Carnegie Foundation report on college athletics two months ago.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

Joe Williams

We have seen springboard champions in our day, having watched divers divers perform before the gesture of Young Stribling and others. But until Elzear Rioux plunged into the resin in that match with Carnera we never had seen a man fall down from being waved at.

Old Sitting Bull ruled all the Sioux
With his little bow and arra.
But he never could squat like Elzear Rioux
Who sat down for Carnera.

If they haven't completed the card at Miami for February 27, how about matching up Big Boy Peterson and Elzear Rioux? Helen Meany is down there; she could train them.

Such an affair could be billed for 10 rounds or 100. It could be called a finish fight. They would both finish it—in the first round.

Judge Fuchs suggests the penalty box, such as is used in hockey, as a means for the umpire to punish the ball player who transgresses. The umpe could confine the refractory player to the penalty box for, say, five minutes. And how about putting a dunce cap on the boys, too, judge?

Westerners Impressive In Scrimmage

Promising Cinder Candidates Show Wares In Workout

Lowrey Believes O'Hair Will Develop Into Valuable Dash Man; Other Newcomers Show Form

Wednesday's warm sunshine afforded Coach Pinkie Lowrey a rare opportunity to size up his prospects for the 1930 track season at Lubbock High school and the Westerner mentor sent 25 candidates through a full afternoon of hard work.

Although there are at present only a shade more than half of the high school squad in training, Coach Lowrey has already discovered a number of promising cinder artists who will likely fill the shoes of those who were lost from last year's squad.

O'Hair Shows Promise

Unless his early showing has caused Coach Lowrey to become unduly excited, Rob O'Hair, pep squad leader, will make the Westerners a valuable dash man before the coming season is over. Last year O'Hair reported for track but dropped off the squad early in the season.

Travis Lee, another newcomer, who has ambitions to step the half-mile, shows promise of becoming a strong middle distance runner. Lee's running stride marks him as one of the most promising prospects of the season. Alvin Brock, stocky-built long distance candidate, has likewise made an auspicious start toward a successful year on the cinder path.

Kittrell Missing

The high school squad will be short of pole vaulters this year, a survey of the material on hand reveals. Burks Kittrell, who showed the way for the Westerner sky-jumpers last season is not expected to be back. Kittrell is in school but other duties may keep him from donning the abbreviated togs.

More than 40 tracksters will be in Lowrey's camp just as soon as the basketball and spring football training seasons are over. Both squads will furnish some valuable material for the cinder squad.

Canyon Buffaloes Defeat McMurry

ABILENE, Feb. 12. (AP) — The West Texas Teachers cagers of Canyon defeated the McMurry College Indians here tonight, 23 to 19, in another T. I. A. A. game. The rival centers led in scoring, Turner of McMurry with nine points and Fuller of Canyon with eight.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12. (AP) — Cornelius McGillicuddy, better known through the country as Connie Mack, manager of the world's champion Philadelphia Athletics, tonight received the $10,000 Edward W. Bok award for 1929 for "having rendered the most outstanding service to Philadelphia" during the year. The award, in the form of a check, was accompanied by a medal and scroll.

PITCHER WEDS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 12. (AP) — Carl Hubbell, New York Giant pitcher, who hails from Meeker, Okla., has slipped a "fast one" over on his friends, it was learned today.

Hubbell and Miss Lucille Herrington of Shawnee were married at McAlester, January 26. The baseball hurler and his bride formerly attended the Meeker high school together. They are at home in Shawnee.

Hubbell formerly was a Texas league star.

HEMSLEY SIGNS CONTRACT

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 12. (AP) — Ralston Hemsley, Pittsburgh Pirate catcher conferred today with Pirate officials and announced afterward he had signed his 1930 contract. Hemsley said he had received an increase in salary.

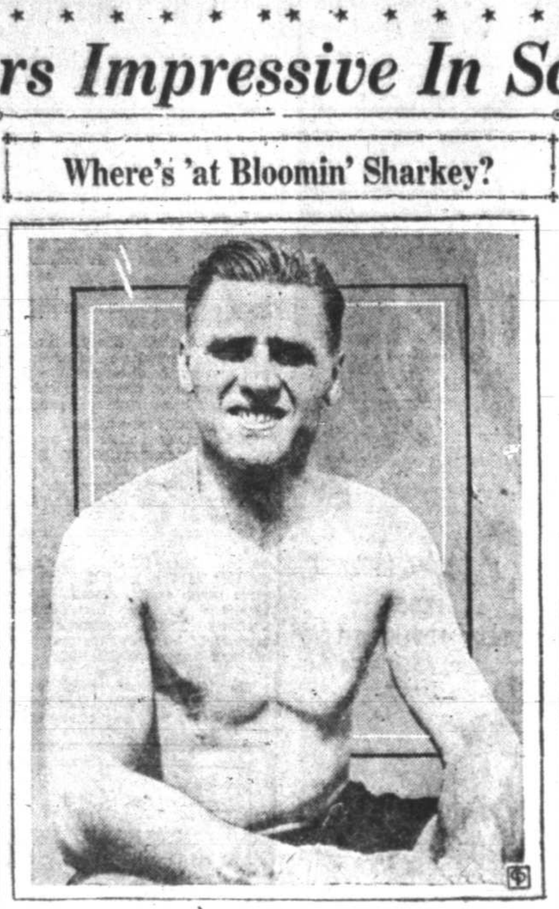

NAMED MANAGER

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Feb. 12. (AP) Doc Smith, veteran Texas league catcher, will manage the Muskogee Western association baseball club the coming season, C. C. Ellis, president of the club announced today. Smith played with Tulsa in the Western league last season, batting .367 and hitting 32 home runs in 161 games.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 12. (AP)—James McGraw, 48, secretary of the Toledo baseball club and brother of John J. McGraw, suffered a relapse following an operation for appendicitis February 3.

There are plenty of pitchers who find that old mound out there between first and third penalty box enough.

LAMESA, Feb 12.—Lamesa's Golden Tornado captured the basketball championship of Dawson county here Tuesday by defeating McCary, 27 to 20, in the final game of the annual county tournament.

By taking the Dawson title the Tornadoes won the right to represent this county in the district tournament scheduled to be played at Lubbock Feb. 21 and 22. More than 15 teams from District Two are expected to compete for honors in the two-day meet to be held at the Texas Tech gymnasium.

Cuban Promoter Fails To Secure Reinstatement

HAVANA, Feb. 12. (AP)—L. F. Gutierrez, Havana fight promoter and manager of Kid Chocolate, failed today to secure reinstatement from the Cuban National Boxing commission. He was suspended a week ago after a word battle with one of the commission, whom he accused of "arbitrary action and ignorance of prize fighting," and after expressing dissatisfaction with the way the commission was conducting boxing.

SCHOOLS AT ODDS

HOUSTON, Feb. 12. (AP)—One of the oldest high school football relationships in Texas will not be resumed next fall, it developed today. Sam Houston of Houston and Beaumont high schools, which have been meeting since 1912, have agreed not to play.

Great One Has No Worry Over His Fielding

WAXAHACHIE, Feb. 12. (AP)—Art Shires, Chicago White Sox first baseman, says his ambition for the coming baseball season is to hit for an average of .333.

"I am not worrying about my fielding," he said at the home of his parents here, "for I can cover first base in acceptable fashion. I can go further to my right than most left-handed first basemen."

Shires' hitting, which may determine how long he remains in the major leagues, has been improving steadily since he began his professional career with the Waco Cubs of the Texas league.

"When I started with the Cubs I was only 18 years old and too young to know anything about hitting, but I am learning fast," he continued. "I don't think my fielding will improve much, but I will become a smarter player as I get more experience."

He gives most credit for being in the major league to his brother Jack. "I was playing shortstop when Jack shifted me to first base and taught me what he knew about that position," the Great One said. "I might have gone to the majors as a short stop as I have a good throwing arm; but am glad that I changed."

Shires gives Derrill Pratt, manager of the Waco team, credit for encouraging him when he first started playing pro ball. "Derrill always encourages a youngster and that helps us," he added.

Art denied he was interested especially in any young lady. "Introduce a girl to one of those newspaper reporters up north and in the next edition she becomes your fiancee," he said.

Liberal Arts Eleven Of Tech No Match For Lubbock High Gridmen; Westerners Show Power

Lubbock High school football forces held the upper hand in a practice scrimmage with the Liberal Arts aggregation of Tech Wednesday afternoon, the Westerner gridmen gaining almost at will through the husky intramural eleven.

The workout gave the high school lads their first opportunity to test their strength against outside opposition and the result afforded considerable satisfaction for Westerner backers.

Playing back and forth on a small portion of the high school practice field, the two clubs battled steadily for more than an hour yesterday and except for occasional spurts by the college gridsters, the Frnka-coached crew was the whole show.

Westerners Show Drive

The Golden-jersied footballers, who have been in training several weeks longer than the Tech intramural squadmen, uncorked a driving brand of football with Johnson, Floyd and Martin leading the assault. Gaping holes were opened in the Scarlet forward wall and through these openings the high school backs scampered for consistent gains.

Wesner and Young were the shining lights for the Liberal Arts club. This pair of ball toters broke loose on several occasions to get beyond the high school secondary.

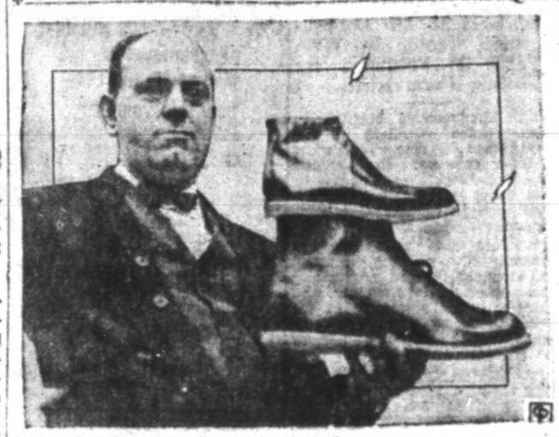

The performance of Watson at end for the high school club was a bright spot in the Westerners' showing. Defensively Watson promises to make a powerful wingman. In the high school line, Brawley, Griggs and Welch turned in creditable showings.

Camels Come Up

Superior conditioning proved to be an important factor in the high school team's picnic. There were enough huskies on the college squad to completely stomp the Westerner eleven, but the Camels interfered.

Coach Henry Frnka plans to continue spring football training until about March 1. Assistant Coach Del Morgan will join the camp toward the end of this month.

Carnera Wears Giant's Shoes

Primo Carnera, giant Italian boxer, astounds James Golden, superintendent of a Brockton, Mass., shoe factory, by an order for the largest pair of shoes the firm ever turned out. Carnera's shoes are 18 1-2 inches long and five inches wide and are called size 21. The smaller shoe, shown on top, was made for Jack Sharkey, heavyweight boxer, and is size 8 1-2.

Houston Gunner Wins Trapshoot

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12. (AP) — E. P. Woodward, of Houston, captured the Class A prize in the classification 100 event and the interstate target open cup which was lost Monday in the challenge round by his son, H. E. Woodward, at the twenty-sixth annual Interstate trapshooting tournament here today.

The elder Woodward cracked 99 targets in Class A and 95 in the gliding handicap, interstate target open race, to take the major honors of the day and regain for his family the trophy won Monday by E. W. Renfro of Dell, Mont.

Carnera-Martin Bout Nets $35,000

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 12. (AP)—Receipts from last night's Primo Carnera-Buster Martin fight at the Arena were announced today as $35,000. The attendance was about 11,000.

Carnera's share was about $11,000 and Martin's was $1,400. It was the first promotion here of Promoter Mike Mally of Chicago.

Berlin's school children are badly fed, according to recent statistics, and it is estimated that the city feeds only 17 per cent of the 50,000 that start their studies breakfastless.

Independent merchants from cities all over the South Plains are expected to gather at the meeting when plans will be discussed for formation of an anti-chain association, supporters said.

DALLAS, Feb. 12. (AP)—Organization of the Home Merchants Protective League of Texas was perfected here today for the avowed purpose of "protecting the integrity of the home-owned retail store against the encroachment of chain merchandising."

While the meeting was executive officers indicated after adjournment, that the league would take no part in politics, but devote its efforts to education of the public to the need of patronizing home merchants, in order to maintain competition and secure the best in retail trade.

Officers Named

Officers elected were: President, H. S. Forman, Dallas; vice-presidents, Frank Davis of Itasca, O. R. Duff of Ennis, Bert Bean of Wichita Falls and Henry Alexander, Haskell; secretary-treasurer, H. G. Harcrow, Dallas. For the present headquarters will be maintained here.

On the executive committee selected were: Earl Cullum, Dallas; H. G. Clay, Paris; R. F. Brooks, Waxahachie; Henry Law, Fort Worth; H. O. Mossheart, Ennis; C. C. Reberson, Terrill and J. E. Bentley, Dallas.

The league contemplates district organizations in each senatorial district of the state. The executive committee will work, with the officers toward this end, and also will formulate a legislative program to receive the organizations support.

Strange Doings Afoot Here

Two "Unknowns" Stage Strange Antics At Early Hours Of Morning; Dressed In Straw Hat And Pajamas

"And so on — far into the night . . ."

Residents on Fifteenth street for the past week have been mystified at the strange antics of two "unknowns" who, at 3 o'clock each morning have made their appearance and traced their way out toward Texas Tech.

The story, as told yesterday afternoon by W. A. Robertson, 1716 15th street, who, with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thorpe, watched the performance on all three occasions, related that on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings at 3 o'clock two men could be heard coming up the street whistling at short intervals.

One of them in front about 50 feet would turn his head from side to side and peer intently. Then a short low whistle and the rear companion hurried up to take the lead and repeat the performance each alternating.

One of the men was said to have been dressed in what appeared to be a white summer straw hat, black overcoat and pajamas.

First appearance of the couple was discovered a short while before Christmas by Miss Virginia Robertson, Texas Tech student, who lives at the same address.

Miss Robertson, a radio fan, was listening to a program early in the morning when her attention was called to a whistling noise in the street. She looked out and wonderingly watched as the strange actions of the past week were unfolded.

Patrons Who Take Liquor to Hotels Will Be Arrested

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. (AP) — Patrons who take their own liquor into hotels, restaurants and night clubs are threatened with arrest by Major Maurice Campbell prohibition administrator.

Coupled with his announcement of a new policy of enforcement action against individuals, Major Campbell, issued a warning to proprietors and managers that they must not serve accessories, glasses, ginger ale, mineral water and ice to patrons of public dining rooms who bring liquor.

The warnings were issued simultaneously with the raiding of Cornish Arms hotel and Cavanaugh's, one of the city's old widely known restaurants, last night. Both are situated in West 23rd street in the old Chelsea district.

The Cornish Arms hotel was raided by nine federal agents who arrested bellboys, waiters and persons accused as bootleggers. Nine persons were taken. The agents had a warrant for the "proprietor," John P. Murray, said to be in Florida.

At Cavanaugh's restaurant, Hugh Small, president of the operating company for the restaurant, and Maurice Moyanhan, secretary-treasurer, and nine others, including waiters, were arrested.

CONSPIRACY CLAIMED

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 12. (AP)—Twenty-five persons were under indictment here today in what the government alleges was a huge conspiracy to transport liquor from Canada to Northwest cities of the United States by mule pack trains.

The conspiracy, the government charged, resulted in thousands of dollars worth of liquor being smuggled into the United States.

The government will charge 51 overt acts against the defendants, most of whom were in custody, or at liberty on bonds ranging from [illegible].

Testimony Ended In Liquor Cases

Presentation Of Evidence In Government's Oklahoma Conspiracy Case Closes Wednesday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 12. (AP)—Presentation of evidence in the government's Pottawatomie county liquor conspiracy case was concluded in United States district court here today. Argument preceding its delivery to the jury will start tomorrow.

Two more defendants, Bob Davis and Melvin Corbin, were eliminated from the case, at the conclusion of testimony, decreasing the number whose fates will be considered by the jury to 15. Judge Edgar S. Vaught, presiding, took the initiative in inviting motions for instructed verdicts of acquittal for Davis and Corbin, stating that evidence had not been sufficient to convict them.

Motions for instructed verdicts for the remaining 15 defendants were argued but were overruled by Judge Vaught. The arguments were made in the absence of the jury. S. Prince Preeling, representing Frank Fox, former sheriff of Pottawatomies county, and Claude Nolin, speaking for Randall Pitman, county attorney, argued that their clients had not been connected in government evidence with the purported conspiracy.

the Call that came at Midnight

An icy gust of February wind eddied down the dark stairway, rustled the pages of the telephone book on the landing, and sent its chill breath easily through Robert McBain's thin pajamas.

McBain glared angrily into the telephone, shivered, sneezed.

"Listen!" he interrupted impatiently, "there's really not much we can do about it until morning, is there? Suppose you see me then!"

He rattled the receiver on the hook and plodded back upstairs to the bedroom.

"Calling me at midnight!" he snapped. "That's nerve for you. And . . . . . and now . . . ."

Warning twitches assailed his nostrils and again . . . . he sneezed!

". . . . . and now," he finished wearily, "I guess I'll nurse a cold for the rest of the winter."

Beneath comfortable covers, his wife stirred sympathetically.

"I've always said," she began drowsily, "that we needed a . . . . ."

"Yes, I know!" broke in her husband. "An extension telephone in here. And mark my word, tomorrow we'll have one, right beside this bed!"

Telephones where you need them save time, patience, inconvenience—sometimes, strange as it may seem, prevent colds.

Few know that the extra cost of one or two "extensions" is somewhat less than that of the single telephone they now have.

By a wisely-placed "extension" or two, and perhaps a rearrangement of the equipment you already have, an expert telephone man can often double the convenience of the telephones in your home.

PRETTY LAWNS CONTESTS

LED by Plainview, the pioneer in the project, a number of South Plains cities are again this year announcing their annual 'Beautiful Lawns' contests. In most places where the lawn contests have become annual events they have come to the forefront in community interest. The idea, to be brief, has proven popular and the benefits which have sprung from it are many.

Even the casual visitor in Plainview, where lawn beautification undoubtedly has reached a point of more importance than in any other South Plains city, can see at a glance that the yearly contest has made the Hale county capital stand out as a city of pretty, well kept lawns. Within a few more years Slaton and Lamesa, other staunch supporters of the project, will be found in the same category. There is nothing more noticeable in this new country than pretty lawns dotting the city.

Lubbock has never had a beautiful lawns contest—at least not in the last half dozen years while it has been a city—but the Plains Hub is not at all to metropolitan to adopt the idea. The Chamber of Commerce, the Retail Merchants or some civic club might well sponsor such a contest here and start this year. It wouldn't hurt us a bit.

The Morning Avalanche would be happy to see the idea taken over here and the contest divided into three parts, with three prizes each for pretentious homes, average homes and modest homes. Prizes worth working for, plus the natural human delight in competition, would transform much of Lubbock into grassy plots of beauty.

And it's not too late to start this year.

GOOD FORTUNE

The quality and fiber of a man are tested both by bad fortune and good. Under the stress of mishap, disappointment and privation, his courage is sounded, his determination is sharpened and he may learn the hopeful habit and the measure of his own powers. In times of favoring fortune he must meet new enemies, less obvious but more dangerous to his spiritual growth and integrity.

Good fortune tempts to conceit and arrogance, though level thinking can reveal how much the favors of circumstance and accident befriend us. Good fortune brings the illusion that we are necessarily right because we are successful, which false assurance may blind us to many hazards that may shipwreck our too confident course. Good fortune may steal from us the things we love and send us seeking after the things we desire, which may prove dead-sea fruit and void of happiness. Good fortune may draw us away from friends who ask no favors and give us only the company of those whose favors bring no friendship.

Good fortune is no more than a tool to our hands, which may serve to make effective our hopes and purposes. It may serve us also to dig deeper into our perpetual personal problems, which is that of refashioning ourselves to the better pattern of our choice. Such fortune frees us from forces that mold and discipline us from without, but leaves us more intimately responsible to conscience and conviction for what we make of ourselves within. For if fortune is no more than an anesthetic to character, it brings us more ill than good.

CONFIDENCE

Successful progress needs a destination that is worth while and worth seeking after. Confidence in such a goal is the mainspring of ambition, and without it work is barren and good intention is wasted. If zeal for a final goal be linked to some clear vision of it, our labors are full of hope and our progress keeps pace with our growth and strength.

The instinct of humanity has insisted through the ages that this life has for its end and purpose a fuller, richer and more truly human life of eternal and joyful service. Confidence in this destination has upborne men and women, and also whole peoples and races, through toil and anxiety that would otherwise have led inevitably to black despair and bitter sense of injustice.

We have learned to fight back at misfortune, to deny the autocracy of unhappiness and to work hopefully for freedom of the body and spirit of man. Yet we have not escaped the necessity for an eternal fact to justify the labors, hazards and riddles of life. These challenge and attack us from within as once cruelty and injustice beset us from without.

Knowledge alone does not satisfy our spirits; we still seek for meaning and design in the complex pattern of which we are a part. Without some firm faith and confidence in a purpose to life we are still in the shadow of tragedy—the tragedy of finding our labors and ideals a mockery and our life itself a jest.

There are about 460 oil refineries in the United States, the annual production of which has a wholesale value of more than $2,500,000.00.

It was Edison who discovered one of the principles involved in the radio vacuum tube, but he did not make use of his discovery.

Seventy-five per cent of American industry is now electrified.

Congress seems considerably roiled over sugar tariff. But we'll just have to take all that sugar talk with a grain of salt.

It's true the streets are getting wider and the sidewalks narrower. But then the number of pedestrians is being speedily reduced to fit.

America's eleven billion dollar oil industry produces more than 70 per cent of the world's petroleum.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

SPEAKER LONGWORTH RESENTS REFERENCES TO LOWER HOUSE

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Speaker Nicholas Longworth resents references to the house of representatives as the "lower house" of congress.

For years it has been customary to speak of the senate as the upper house and of the house of representatives as the lower one, but it is a custom which Speaker Longworth recently challenged pretty tartly.

He says there is nothing "upper" about the senators' chamber; nothing "lower" about the representatives; they are on equality.

Arthur L. Faubel, associate professor of economics of New York university (who also is secretary of the American Tariff league), went even further than Speaker Longworth the other day.

As a witness before Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway's lobby investigating committee, he intimated that the senate is a kind of congressional vermiform appendix, which ought to be removed maybe—a superfluity anyway, and somewhat dangerous.

It will be recalled that Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, not long ago also expressed himself in favor of reorganizing the senate so as to make it more like the house of representatives. He may have changed his mind since becoming a senator himself, but that was his judgment before he had any personal interest in the matter to prejudice him.

The question of parity between the senate and the house of representatives is debatable.

The "founding fathers" certainly meant the senate to be the more aristocratic body of the two, as they showed by providing for the senators' election by their respective state legislatures, for the very purpose of exempting them from the undignified necessity to scrabble for ordinary people's votes, like the representatives. However, the seventeenth amendment took that privilege away from them, leaving them as dependent on popular good will as any other candidates. Still, a senator has the advantage of running only once in six years instead of thrice that often. He looks more important, too, in a body of 96 members than lost in a mob of 435—but the pay is the same.

As for lawmaking, it takes both houses to do anything.

True, only the house can start financial legislation; yet the senate must o. k. it, to make it binding. On the other hand, the senate alone can turn down presidential appointments and reject treaties.

All in all, the senate appears to have the edge. Whether or not it is sufficient to justify calling it the upper chamber is a matter of opinion.

Whereas Speaker Longworth's opinion is in the negative, Professor Faubel's complaint is that the senators have too much power.

The professor likens the senate to the British house of lords, which has lost most of its authority in the last two decades, and would have the senate's similarly curtailed, making the house of representatives practically the whole thing, like England's house of commons.

What Professor Faubel overlooks is the fact that two entirely different things have happened to the house of lords and the United States senate.

The house of lords is as tony as ever it was but, just as the professor says, it has lost most of its authority. Twice in succession it can put the kibosh on a bill which the house of commons has passed, but if the house of commons passes it a third time it becomes law, regardless of the other chamber. The latter can delay what it dislikes, but not prevent it.

The senate is as powerful as of yore but has a good bit of its aristocracy rubbed off by the seventeenth amendment.

It has had so much rubbed off that it is more popular with the average American than the house of representatives, and this is what irks folk like Speaker Longworth. The speaker realizes that his outfit no longer gets the plaudits, is jealous and takes it out by scolding when mention is made of the object of his rancor as the upper house of congress.

In England the house of commons has it all over the house of lords because the house of lords was so conservative that it had to have its wings clipped.

In America, since the seventeenth amendment's adoption, the senate has become the liberal congressional body, and the house of representatives bossed by a few conservatives, is rapidly falling so far behind the times that presently its wings will be in danger.

PROLONGED WORRY HAS VERY BAD EFFECT ON ONE'S EYES

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

It is normal to fear. Were it not for fear man would not have the instinct of self-preservation.

When a person is afraid, he begins to show it in various ways that affect his physical system. His skin becomes pale, his limbs tremble and the pupils of his eyes dilate. Those are the effects probably of extra secretion by some of the glands which are activated through the brain and the nervous system.

One of the most conspicuous of fear and its effects on the human body is stage fright. The person untrained to speak before a public audience stands with knees trembling, a constriction of the chest, a loss of appetite, unquenchable thirst and again the untrained after-dinner speaker sits at the banquet and refuses all the food simply because his appetite has disappeared and his organs of digestion have ceased to function due to his fear.

There are certain diseases, as pointed out by Dr. Nathan Raw, president of the Royal Medico-Psychological Association of Great Britain, in which fear constitutes a definite part of the disease.

Angina pectoris produces agonizing pain and the fear of death. In certain forms of insanity, fear is common. A particular example of fear with disease is the hallucination of the person with delirium tremens. Such people see all sorts of terrible animals and in their fright may even throw themselves from windows high in the air.

The greatest fear of all is the fear of death. This is essentially a fear of the unknown. This fear is an instinct against which man may reason constantly, but which nevertheless survives in order that man may survive. Only among fanatics and people of blind faith is there a disappearance of the instinctive fear of death.

Doctor Raw believes that fear is as old as man himself, but that worry is a comparatively recent product. As civilization advances and life becomes constantly more complicated worry increases.

Fear will perhaps never be conquered, but worry can be controlled through intelligence and education, through training and discipline. If we could refrain from unnecessary worry, Doctor Raw believes we would come to conquer fear and make our lives brighter and happier.

Today's Poem

"WERE MY HEART AS SOME MEN'S ARE"

Were my heart as some men's are thy errors would not move me;
But thy faults I curious find, and speak because I love thee:
Patience is a thing divine, and far,
I grant, above me.
Foes sometimes befriend us more,
our blacker deeds objecting.
Then the obsequious bosom-guest with false respect affecting Friendship is the Glass of Truth, our hidden stains detecting
When I use of eyes enjoy, and inward light of reason,
Thy observer will I be and censor,
but in season:
Hidden mischief to conceal in State and Love is treason.

Anniversary Notes

THE TEMPERANCE SOCIETY

On Feb. 13, 1826, the American Society for the Promotion of Temperance was founded in Boston. It was in this year also that Dr. Lyman Beecher, noted clergyman, delivered and published his six famous temperance sermons at Litchfield, Conn.

Under the influence of the churches, the movement made rapid progress, and, by 1833, there were 6,000 local societies in several states with more than 1,000,000 members.

Although the campaign against intemperance was largely directed against the use of spirits only, a proposal was made and adopted by several societies to include all alcoholic drinks in the pledge of abstinence. The American society rejected the proposal in 1833 but accepted it in 1836 and retained it ever since.

About this time, Father Mathew of Cork, Ireland, the greatest of all temperance missionaries, caused more than 4,000,000 of his countrymen to become abstainers. In this country, New York state passed a law in 1845 prohibiting the public sale of liquor but repealed it three years later, and in 1851, Maine adopted prohibition.

Today, the temperance societies are credited with procuring, in a large part, the legislation dealing with drink.

OMAHA HOTEL IS SOLD

Huckins Purchases Paxton Hotel From Kitchens

OMAHA, Neb. Feb. 12. (AP)—The Paxton hotel, erected here last year at a cost of approximately $1,500,000, was sold late today to Joseph Huckins, third, of Wichita Falls, Texas, by the Kitchen Brothers Hotel company.

The price was not given, but the purchasers said there was an indebtedness of $1,400,000 against the hotel.

The new owner is a son of J. H. Huckins, jr., of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, head of a large hotel chain operating in the southwest. Mr. Hucking, 3rd, has been operating the Kemp hotel at Wichita Falls, one of the Huckins hostelries.

A desire of Ralph Kitchen, one of the Kitchen Company officials, to be relieved of active hotel management was said to be one of the reasons for the sale.

HITS SULPHUR WATER

Well May Be Plugged If No Better Showing Develops

BIG SPRING, Feb. 12. —(Special)—Glasscock Brothers No. 1 Edwards, semi-wildcat oil test three miles west of the Coffee-Phillips pool in northern Glasscock county struck sulphur water at 2,471 feet continuing to 2,477 feet, present total depth. The well produced 100 barrels daily for nearly two weeks from pay topped at 2,277 feet and drilled to 2,299 feet when operators decided to deepen. A slight showing of oil was encountered between 2,438-66 feet. If sulphur water continues the well will probably be drilled to 2,500 feet and possibly plugged back to the upper pay at 2,277-99 feet, said operators here today. No. 1 Edwards is located 1,650 feet from the east line and 330 feet from the south line of section 18, block 33, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey.

A special saloon car comprising dance room and lounge has just been added to one of the luxury trains running between Paris and the South of France.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH CAMERON, New York typist, marries ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the publishing house in which she is employed. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 18, in paris, and a son, JUNIOR, 16, at school. When Tony returned home she denounces Judith as a gold digger.

Tony is secretly continuing a flirtation with MICKEY MORTIMER, wealthy and married. When Junior comes home for the Christmas holidays he also treats Judith coldly.

ANDY CRAIG, whom Knight has helped through college, takes a position with the publishing firm. He has been in love with Tony for a long while. In a fit of anger Tony tries to convince her father that Andy and Judith are carrying on an affair. Knight denies this but Tony tricks the pair into a compromising situation.

Tony's flirtation with Mortimer is revealed when they are arrested for reckless driving. Tony wins her father's forgiveness and promise of a trip to Miami. Preparations are interrupted when Knight comes home seriously ill with pneumonia. Two nurses are installed in the household and Junior is summoned home. At last the patient begins to recover. Before Junior leaves he admits to Judith that he has misjudged her. Judith is alone with her husband. Knight's recuperation is slow when he says he has something to tell her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIV

With an effort which cost him much, Arthur Knight raised himself on one elbow. His dark eyes looked bright and too intense. They bespoke the weakened condition in which weeks of illness had left him.

"You do this too often, Judith," he said. "I don't want you giving up all your pleasures just because I've got to stay here in bed. You're not going to sacrifice—"

Judith interrupted. She would have spoken sooner but his words had come with startling abruptness.

"Why, Arthur! How ridiculous! Here — you mustn't try to sit up like that. It isn't good for you. Dr. Shephard would be perfectly furious to hear of such a thing. Please! Lie down again and let me read to you, won't you?"

Stubbornly Knight shook his head. Nevertheless he did drop back against the pillow.

"No. I don't want you sending the others away and giving up all your time to take care of me as though I were a child!"

"But, darling, I WANT to be with you! I thought we'd both enjoy a little while together."

"It isn't that," the man went on rather pettishly. "It isn't that at all. I want you to have good times Judith."

She was able to hush him into acquiescence, laughing at his protests and finally accusing him of being tired of her. It was all just a joke, of course. After the sick man was reasonably comfortable once more Judith picked up the magazine she had brought to read. She turned to a piece of fiction by an author whose work he admired and began the story.

Judith read well, for her voice was low, distinct and decidedly pleasing. Ever since the early days of Knight's recuperation it had been one of her chief pleasures to read to him. Entertainment of any form in which the patient could participate was so painfully limited. Gossip and small talk of household affairs were never very interesting to Arthur Knight. He had lost connections with the outer world and this fretted him. Judith turned to fiction as the logical hypodermic.

It did not come to her notice that the listener was restless that afternoon until at the end of a column she came to the words: "Continued on page 165."

This meant turning a number of pages. As Judith did so, hunting for the right one, she glanced toward the bed.

Arthur Knight was staring toward the window. He did not appear even to be aware that the narrative had been interrupted.

His preoccupation was so marked that Judith put down the book.

"Arthur — " she asked uncertainly, "don't you care for the story? Does the reading bother you?"

The man shook his head.

"Go ahead and finish it," he said. There was such lack of interest in his tone, however, that the girl was disturbed. She was glad when the climax of the tale had been reached and the last paragraph finished.

"I think you'd better rest now a while," she told Knight. "I'll read to myself. Is there anything I can get for you?"

There was not, her husband said. He turned his head on the pillow and closed his eyes. Judith was not able to tell whether he fell asleep.

At 4:20 Miss Mallory returned and the rest of the day was as its predecessors had been.

Dr. Shephard continued to make his daily calls. On Wednesday he told Judith there was no further need of continuing the services of the night nurse.

"Of course," Judith told Miss Mallory, "while you're off duty in the afternoons I'll stay with Mr. Knight and I think we can manage about the evenings, too. If you'd like to go into the city occasionally it will be all right because of course I'll be here all the time anyhow."

"I guess there's nothing else now, is there? You're going to have a new nurse this evening."

"A new nurse?"

"Yes. Mrs. Knight is going to stay with you. She said I might go into the city. Will you want anything else before I go?"

"No. Nothing else."

Miss Mallory departed amid the rustling of stiff starched linens.

When Judith entered the room 10 minutes later she looked a picture. Impulse had inspired her to dress for the occasion in a rose chiffon dinner gown. The custom of dressing for dinner had been dropped in the Knight household ever since meals had become brief unimportant intervals with only one or two members appearing at the table.

Tonight Judith wore Arthur's pearls about her throat. She had rouged her cheeks and powdered as carefully as if she had been going to the theater. The warm color of her frock reflected upon her face and in the subdued light of the bedroom her slender figure stood out as graceful as a flame.

"Good evening, Mr. Knight. I hope you like your new nurse?"

"Very much indeed. Looking beautiful, my dear."

"I wanted you to think so."

He smiled at her."

"Very beautiful." Knight repeated. "And married to an old man who keeps you shut away from all the good times in the world. Oh you needn't contradict me. I know it's true.

Judith had thrown herself into the chair beside the bed.

"Arthur, why will you insist on saying these absurd things?"

"Second childhood."

"Oh— but I don't want you to joke about it! Please, won't you understand that I don't want to go anywhere without you? Just a little while and you'll be yourself again. Then we'll go everywhere and make up for what we've missed. Besides — I don't think I'm missing anything."

He shook his head.

"You're married to an old man, Judith. Put back on the shelf!"

She was unable to shake him from this half-melancholy, half-bantering mood all through the evening. It distressed Judith to see long days spent in the sick room have such an effect upon her husband. Nothing she could say seemed quite able to make him forget that he was an invalid, weak and demanding service from others.

Something was bothering Arthur Knight and Judith could not help feeling that this something concerned herself.

She did not take his mood seriously. That was to be reserved for next day.

The awakening came at luncheon. Judith and Tony were having the mid-day meal together when the younger girl spoke up unexpectedly:

"Going into town this afternoon?" she asked.

"Why—no!"

"Oh. Sorry. I thought possibly you'd take my watch in and leave it to have the clasp repaired. I can't make the filing work and I'm afraid to wear it. I'd go in myself only I have to read to father."

Involuntarily Judith straightened.

"What are you going to read?" she asked.

"Don't know. Some book he's got around that he says he's interested in. Horrible, I suppose. I think it's something about Henry VIII or one of those old bozos—"

Judith looked at her stepdaughter through narrowed lashes. The girl seemed completely innocent and unaware of the effect of her words. And Judith had only the evening before begun reading to her husband a recent biography of that famed monarch.

Was this idea something new of Tony's or had it come from Arthur Knight? The way to find out was quite simple.

Since meals had become such unpretentious affairs the luncheon was soon over. Judith immediately went upstairs. She invented an errand which sent the nurse from Knight's room. Then she said:

"Tony tells me she's going to read to you this afternoon."

"Yes."

No explanation or qualifying phrases. Just the bare affirmative. Judith hesitated.

"But I thought you wanted me to read?" she went on, blushing with embarrassment.

A furrow appeared in Arthur Knight's forehead. He glanced away before answering.

"Oh, you can find some other way to amuse yourself. You see I asked Tony to stay with me while Miss Mallory was out, and reading is about the only way to pass the time. Why don't you have Bert drive you in for a matinee?"

Judith's face had flushed hotly but now it was quite pale.

"It's a good idea," she said. "Perhaps I'll do it."

"Fine. Have a good time."

"Why, he was positively eager to get her out of the house! Judith took one more quick glance at her husband. Perhaps she would have spoken but Miss Mallory appeared again in the doorway. Miss Mallory, who was so efficient and competent-mannered, smiled as though the whole world were bathed in sunshine.

"Don't you think he's looking fine today?" she asked, with a nod toward the patient.

"Much better," Judith agreed. "Going to have him sitting up before long, aren't you?"

"We-ll, we'll go a little slow about that! Next week, perhaps, for an hour or so a day. You see I know just how these men are! Want to climb right out of bed the minute they're able to eat a square meal and start playing golf. We'll have him up just as soon as the doctor gives the word."

"Next week!" Knight insisted from his bed.

Judith smiled, hoping with all her heart that the smile would be deceptive. She didn't want either the nurse or her husband to know how heavy her heart had suddenly become.

"I'll look in again before I leave," she said brightly and whent out of the room.

Across the hall she knocked at Tony's door but there was no response.

Slowly Judith made her way downstairs. Throughout those grim days when Arthur had been fighting for his life, when the nurse moved on tiptoe, and only they and the doctor were permitted within the sick room, Judith had prayed for the future. A thousand times as she reassured herself that her husband must get well, Judith had envisioned his convalescence. She could be near him then, could care for him and wait on him tenderly Surely that was a wife's part!

She had not dreamed that Arthur would not want her.

Vividly she recalled other occasions when Knight had urged her to find entertainment for herself and leave him alone. He didn't want her!

"Oh, Tony!" Judith called to the other girl. "I've changed my mind about going into town. I'll be glad to take your watch?"

"Going soon?"

"Just as soon as I can dress."

Thirty minutes later Judith left the house. She did not ask Bert to drive her in the car. Moreover, as she stepped into the train she gave it a quick, careful search to be sure no one was aboard who knew her.

STUDY THIS AD CAREFULLY
For some reason you can not sell home property in the city. You think your home is worth $7,000 or $8,000 and you try to sell it. You have to take $4,000 or $5,000 or keep it unless location is exceptional. Farm land is cheaper than it will ever be again, and a decent crop at fair prices will send it up $10 per acre. Do you have clear city property? The quickest way to get your value out of it is to trade it to our client for his Hockley county land. It is 12 miles north of Levelland in fine school district, with small debt of $12.78 per acre, long terms, 6 per cent, no blue weeds, not leased, $30 per acre. Your golden opportunity to unload. If you have clear stuff see us. Give you a mighty good trade.

Big Decrease of Mexicans in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. (AP)—A great decrease in the number of Mexican immigrants entering the United States across the southern border was announced today by Acting Secretary of State Cotton.

He said that in the last seven months, as compared with the same period in the five previous years, there had been a reduction of 73.1 per cent in the amount of immigration and that the percentage amounted to 80 per cent when compared with the same period in the fiscal year of 1926-27.

Although his announcement was interpreted in some quarters as a commentary upon the activities in congress toward a limitation of Latin-American immigration, the secretary said he was not interested in what effect these figures might have upon the action of congress.

PAVING WORK STARTED

Work Begins On Seven More Blocks In Lamesa

LAMESA, Feb. 12. —(Special)— Work began here this week on seven more blocks of Lamesa's $80,000 program of paving after two blocks were opened to traffic last week. The project will total 14 new blocks, making a total of 31 blocks of paved streets for Lamesa.

The average person spends 18 days a year eating instead of the 61, two decades ago, concludes Marye Dahnke, an economist.

Prices Fluctuate Narrowly In Cotton

Further Price Upturn on Yearlings Feature Cattle Trade on Wednesday

Supply of Cattle Is More Liberal

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12. (AP)—The supply of cattle at Fort Worth today was a little more liberal than usual for Wednesday's market.

Steers to $1. Better heavy bulls 8.25; fairly good bulls $7.00. Common light bulls $6.00 and less.

Slaughter yearlings 11.75.

Better cows in carlots $$7.00; butchers 6.00, canners 4.00 a 4.50; strong canners $4.75.

Slaughter yearlings 11.75. Some 9.00 and 10.00. Common packages 7.00.

Calves 450 pounds and on the yearling order, 11.50; heavy calves 10.00 and 10.60; culls 5.00 and 6.50.

Stocker heifer calves 10.50.

Fat lambs at 9.00. Medium quality wooled fat wethers 6.00. Feeder lambs 8.00 and 9.00.

Rail hogs top 10.00 to 10.50. Packing sows 8.00 and 8.75.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade today around the 11-market circuit was featured by a further price upturn on light yearlings and fed heifers while a healthy tone prevailed at most centers on other killing classes. Packers at several markets attempted to break values on the in-between grades of fed steers, but met with little success.

Chicago, after a slow start on steers, at steady to 25c lower rates closed fully steady. Light to moderate receipts has been the chief factor in the recent advance as conditions at eastern dressed beef markets did not warrant such a decided price recovery. Quality of the fed steers and yearlings offered this week has been chiefly medium and good, with highly finished kinds practically absent. Receipts 32,200 as compared with 30,216 a week ago and 28,581 the corresponding day last year.

The sheep supply approximated 54,500 which was 12,000 heavier than last Wednesday and 6,000 more than a year ago. Fat lamb trade slow with prices unevenly steady to 25c lower. Lighter weights showed more decline than weighty offerings. Aged stock steady with the week's previous sharp break. Choice light weight fed wooled lambs in Chicago realized 11.85.

Shippers in the hog market operated on a steady to 10c higher basis but the close to packers was slow at values steady to 15c lower. The top of 11.25 was paid at Chicago and St. Louis. Offerings 103,000 against 127,131 a week ago and 123,686 a year ago.

service."

The code of ethics of the organization, its purposes, objects and achievements were reviewed by the secretary-general in a talk that held more than a hundred Lions and Lionesses virtually spellbound for the hour during which he talked. He explained that the name Lions club is derived from the symbolic qualities recognized throughout all lands and peoples as being the nature of the Lion.

Symbols Defined.

The four symbols of Lionism, courage, strength, activity and fidelity, he defined well, and urged individual consecration to these symbols from every Lion.

During the past two and a half years, or in 908 days, he said there have been 985 new Lions clubs organized in the world. More than 100 of these were in Texas. This state, he told, now boasts of 240 Lions clubs, with 8,500 members, possessing more clubs and more members than all the other service clubs in the state combined, and the totals being more than any other club has in any other state. Since its organization, in 1916, at Dallas, Lions International has grown to 2,100 clubs and 83,000 members, in the United States, Canada, Mexico and China, he said.

For the past year, these clubs have reported to the International officers a total of 10,715 worthwhile activities, including 600 cases of help given to blind people, 1,300 boys aided, 400 child welfare cases, 2,300 instances of civic work accomplished.

In addition to the Lubbock Lions club, six other clubs of West Texas were represented, with two from Childress, two from Floydada, seven from Lamesa, one from Plainview, seven from Brownfield and 17 from Littlefield.

Invocation was by Sam J. McFarland.

Wilson Toastmaster

Vaughn Wilson, of Lubbock, acted as toastmaster, explaining at the beginning that Lions clubs were created for cementing friendship and performing service for the community. Ben F. Condray, jr., welcomed visiting Lions, and Deputy District Governor W. C. Davis, of Childress, introduced the Texas District Governor, A. C. Kater, of Houston, and Mr. Kater introduced Mr. Jones.

In his short talk, Deputy Governor Kater told of the wonderful growth of Texas clubs during the past year, 12 new ones having been established and eight of these in West Texas. He announced that the state is to be divided into 40 districts, with 16 deputy governors and that a separate district would soon be created in this section, with Lubbock as the center.

Music during the banquet was furnished by the Hilton hotel orchestra and, at the close of Mr. Jones' address, Miss Lucille Walker, of Lubbock, offered two song and dance numbers, Mrs. Aubrey Walker at the piano.

victed of the theft.

"Jack" Blamed

Early in 1928, Mathis' body was found in a makeshift grave near his ranch. Mrs. Dugan was charged with the murder, tried and convicted in February, 1928, and was sentenced to be hanged. She asserted throughout her imprisonment that the youth whom she knew only as "Jack" committed the crime and she ran away with him to Texas. The state alleged that the motive for the slaying was "greed to gain possession of Mathis' property."

The youth's trail led police to Amarillo, Texas, and there it was lost. The last letter Mrs. Dugan received from "Jack" was mailed at the border town of Agua Prieta, Sonora, Mexico.

Prohibition

nesota and Michigan, as well as in Boston, Minneapolis, Detroit, Topeka and Wichita, Kan., and the nation's capital.

Conditions Probed.

Liggett explained he had been assigned by the magazine "Plain Talk" to investigate conditions and declared he was "no snooper or informer." He said he would be willing to appear before any grand jury to expose the dereliction of any public officials.

The magazine writer testified he had told a grand jury in Boston of conditions he found there and predicted numerous indictments would result. He offered to go to Detroit to tell of the "wild party" Nov. 5, 1929, when asked by Representative Michener, republican, Michigan.

Liggett recently appeared before a grand jury here after charges of Senator Brookhart of Iowa that a "Wall Street liquor party" was given three years ago for members of congress.

Pleading the purpose of the hearings, the chairman said that when "we add corruption, bribery, demoralization of the citizenry, disrespect for law, bootlegging and kindred offenses, does not such a picture call for the fair, dispassionate judgment of men and women to come together and reason over what remedy can be devised to abate this sad condition?"

Would Aid Commission.

Chairman Graham explained that seven resolutions before the committee had been referred to it to determine whether they should be reported back to the house for action. He said the hearing would not interfere with work of the Hoover law enforcement commission, but would aid it.

The Pennsylvanian asked for the committee to reason together, but "not with fanatics."

Liggett testified there were 700 speakeasies in Washington, D. C., and not less than 4,000 bootleggers and that he had come to the conclusion that there were not less than 1,600,000 gallons of hard liquor consumed here each year. He added that arrests for drunkenness in Washington had trebled during the prohibition decade, even considering the increase of population.

Hughes

a nominee as has been heard in the senate in many years.

Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, opened the assault, contending the attitude of Hughes was "dangerous to the common people" and condemning the views of the supreme court itself in utility valuation decisions.

Senators Brookhart, republican, Iowa; Connally, democrat, Texas; Wheeler, democrat, Montana; and Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, joined in the appeal for defeat of Hughes' nomination.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, announced in the midst of the fight that he would vote for confirmation of Mr. Hughes. He said he would not "prejudice my future course by withholding my vote for confirmation."

Senator Bratton, democrat, New Mexico, objected to an agreement that the senate should vote tomorrow before adjournment, but Senators Borah and Norris both expressed the view in response to Senator Watson's proposal that a vote could be taken by tomorrow night.

Activity Resumed By Terrorists In Chicago Gangland

Two Injured, Others Are Driven From Homes As Racketeers Bomb Northside Section Of City

CHICAGO, Feb. 12. —(AP)—While police continued the drive to rid the city of gunmen, terrorists resumed activities today with two bombings that imperiled a score of North Side residents.

Two persons were injured and numerous others were driven from their homes by the explosion, which brought the total for the new year to 12.

Laundry Wrecked

A laundry was wrecked and part of a residence torn away. Residents more than a mile distant from the laundry blast felt its reverberations.

Commissioner of Police William Russell, in charge of the drive which since Sunday resulted in the arrest of 2,000 hoodlums and gunmen, ordered his men to dig still deeper into the haunts of crime in an effort to clear up the latest bombings.

Racketeers Blamed

He intimated that both blasts were the work of racketeers, whose peculiar tactics Col. Robert Isham Randolph and his secret "committee of seven" investigators, Chicago's lawlessness are investigating.

Col. Randolph said his committee reported discovering the sinister hand of the racketeer in every major business enterprise and industry in Chicago, and added that fresh steps were being taken to break up the "malign influence under which Chicago business is operating."

Taft Progresses Toward Recovery

Former President And Chief Justice Is Reported In Favorable Condition By Attending Physicians

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. (AP)—Apparently progressing steadily toward recovery, William Howard Taft was reported in favorable condition today by his attending physicians.

A week ago grave fears were entertained that the former chief justice might not survive maladies which had attacked him, but ever since that time he has surprised physicians and attendants by the vigorous way in which he has rallied.

Virtually helpless at the time of his return from Asheville, N. C., Mr. Taft now can move about without assistance. His physicians still encourage him to remain in bed as much as possible, however, fearing that too great exertion would overtax his heart and bring a recurrence of the serious attack which so nearly conquered him.

Two bulletins issued today by his physicians, Dr. Thomas A. Claytor and Dr. Frances R. Hagner, described Mr. Taft's condition as "very satisfactory" and apparently "much better." He has overcome his restlessness at night and sleep is proving beneficial. The physicians warned that their patient was a long way from complete recovery.

Bankers Discuss Clearing Houses

DALLAS, Feb. 12. (AP)—Regional clearing houses, farm relief and cotton acreage reduction and the status of independent banking were topics discussed by more than 300 bankers of the fifth district of the Texas Bankers' association here today.

Questions on bank management, with a round table discussion of each, featured the morning session at which Ben L. Gill, Jr., of Terrell presided.

Organization of the regional clearing houses in Texas was urged in a talk by P. C. Willis, president of the Louisiana Bankers association. A system of seven regional clearing houses, supplementing the activities of the local clearing houses, was inaugurated in Louisiana last year, and has provided successful from the start, he said.

Cotton Quiet Due To Observance Of Holiday In Mart

New York Exchange Closed Because Of Birthday Of Abraham Lincoln; General Market Closes Steady

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12. (AP)—Cotton was quiet today due to the shutting-off of the usual interchange of trading with the New York market which was closed in observance of Lincoln's birthday. Prices fluctuated narrowly and closed slightly lower May contracts traded off from 15.75 to 15.69 and closed one point above the latter figure for a net loss of 7 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 5 to 10 points.

Liverpool cables were relatively lower and the market here opened at declines of 1 to 4 points. As the British board of trade returns for January were bearish and the weather map showed continued favorable for farm work prices gradually eased off during the morning until March sold at 15.46 and July 15.93, or 7 to 10 points net lower.

For the remainder of the session the market fluctuated narrowly and there were long intervals between trades. March closed at 15.48 and July 15.95, or 5 to 7 points net lower.

Wet Democrat Is Sent To Congress

William Granfield Elected In District Which Includes Home Of Coolidge At Northampton, Mass.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 12. (AP)—The second congressional district which includes Northampton, home of Calvin Coolidge, has chosen a democrat, William J. Granfield, a wet, to sit in congress for the first time since it was laid out in 1893. The district had sent Senator Gillett, republican, to the house for many years.

In an overwhelming victory in yesterday's special election, Granfield defeated Frederick D. Griggs, republican. He will succeed the late Congressman W. Kirk Kaynor. The vote was: Granfield 31,180; Griggs, 26,749.

Two candidates running on "bone dry" platforms received a scattering vote.

Conflicting issues marked the campaign. Granfield was aided by the plea of Senator David I. Walsh last Saturday for a democratic victory to protest what he termed the failure of the administration to acknowledge the unemployment situation.

Griggs, a "dry" personally, said before the primaries he would recognize the recent referendum vote of the district on the repeal of the 18th amendment as mandatory upon him to vote for modification.

Ask Restrictions Of River Bridges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. (AP)—Joseph W. Bailey, representing owners of existing Red river bridges, today asked that congressional permission for construction of free bridges by Texas and Oklahoma, carry a restriction or condition. He suggested permission might be granted "effective at the end of two years."

W. C. Lewis, assistant attorney general of Oklahoma, opposed the suggestion on the ground that "we are entitled to permission, or we are not."

In an effort he said, to "dispel propaganda" suggesting that present bridge owners were making a settlement for their property difficult, Bailey said the owners never had demanded, as he said it was reported, $1,000,000 for their property.

Testimony was given to a subcommittee of the senate commerce committee, which is considering bills to authorize construction of three free bridges over the Red river between Texas and Oklahoma.

yards," the man continued, when I began to look for a way to get myself back. I crawled to a fence a short distance away and, after a tedious several minutes, managed to wrench a stave from the wire. This I used in place of the crutch Bufkin had taken with him. The going was slow and painful.

"After about two hours of such travel I arrived at the home of F. G. Ward and awakened him. He had no car and could not catch a horse so he walked two miles farther to an adjoining cow camp for help. A car was brought and we hurried to Plains to report the matter to officers."

The missing car, a Chevrolet coupe, carried license number 1-217-233 and motor number 4-903-146.

HOUSTON SELECTED

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12. (AP)—Houston today was selected as the city in which the 1931 state wide Presbyterian men's conference will be held. Selection of Houston came after all officers of the conference, which met in a one day session in Fort Worth today, had been reelected.

116 INDICTED

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 12. (AP)—A federal grand jury today returned 116 indictments against 130 men and two women, charging liquor law violations under the Jones law.

Eunice Now Wants a Million

NEA Los Angeles Bureau

Eunice Pringle, youthful dancer who is suing Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, for $1,000,000 damages as the result of an attack she says the millionaire made upon her, is pictured here in court at Los Angeles. The damage suit is expected to attract almost as much attention as did Pantages' trial on criminal charges, on which he was convicted and sent to prison.

Eighty-Three Dogs Perish in Irene Castle's Famous Refuge for Canines

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Feb. 12. (AP) Eighty-three dogs were burned to death when fire destroyed Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin's dog refuge, "Orphans of the storm," yesterday, but they did not die in vain.

Mrs. McLaughlin announced today that a new and even better refuge for homeless dogs would replace the $10,000 kennels that burned. She furthermore declared she would demand a thorough investigation by the fire marshal's office and would press prosecution if it were found the fire was of incendiary origin as she believes.

There have been several complaints to the Lake county prosecutor recently against the refuge which the complaints describe as a nuisance.

The barking of the keeper's dog, Bum, raised the first alarm. The keeper, Tom Webster, released 40 dogs, while his wife drove a truck several miles to summon aid, which arrived too late to be of value.

Mrs. McLaughlin's crusade against cruelty to animals has been an active one for many years.

Sulphur Company Earnings Related

AUSTIN, Feb. 12. (AP)—Net earnings of the two principal sulphur companies operating in Texas were $81,844,893 over a five year period, Rep. Phil Sanders of Nacogdoches, told the house revenue and taxation committee last night. Sanders has a bill proposing a tax of $1 per ton on sulphur.

The two companies paid to the state in gross receipts taxes a total of $1,923,836 over that period, he said. He pointed out that had there been a tax of $1 per ton on sulphur during this period, Texas would have received $9,094,580, $7,100,994 more than had been actually paid.

Sanders declared that had the tax proposed now been in force the past five years one of the companies could have paid it and still made a net profit of 109 per cent and the other company could have paid it and declared a net profit of 48 per cent.

PROPOSAL REJECTED

Texas Declines Oklahoma's Plan To Retain Land

AUSTIN, Feb. 12. (AP)—Texas has formally rejected Oklahoma's proposal to retain 28,500 acres along the Panhandle boundary between the two states, the Texas legislature today refused to enter into a compact giving the Sooner state possession of the area.

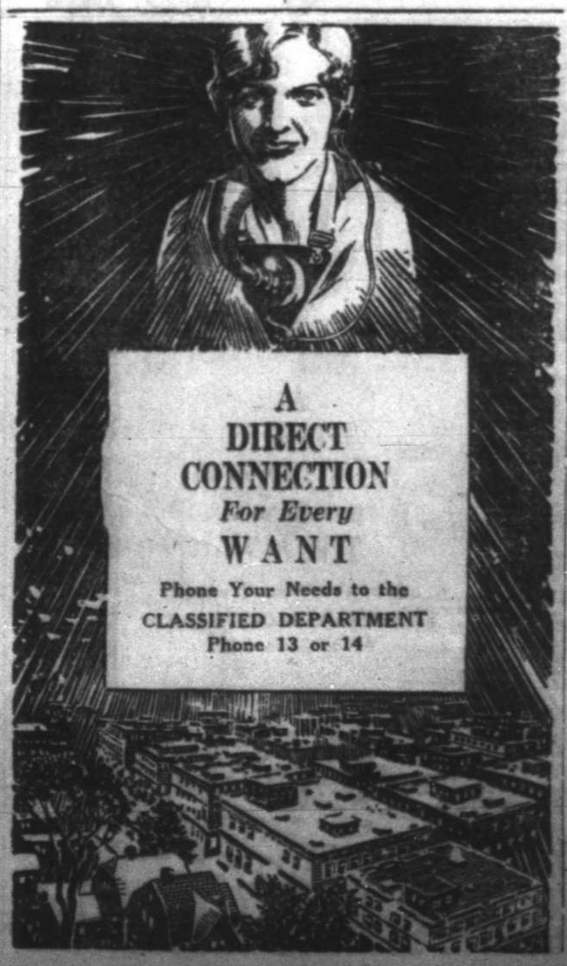

Under a survey by a commissioner appointed by the United States district court fixing location of the 100th Meridian as the permanent line between the states, Texas acquired the territory, heretofore a part of Oklahoma.

BILL HITS SNAG

Regulation Of Fees Causes Clash In House

AUSTIN, Feb. 12. (AP)—The bill to regulate fees of county officers, sailing smoothly to approval in the house today, struck a snag during the closing hours when representatives from the smaller counties locked horns with those from Bexar, Dallas, Harris and Tarrant over the maximum compensation to be allowed officers in these latter counties.

The bill fixed this maximum at $12,500 per year, and Rep. W. E. Pope, of Corpus Christi, and others, sought to reduce it to $10,000, after the maximum in El Paso and Jefferson counties had been reduced from $10,000 to $8,000.

Moonshiner Shot To Death in Raid

EVERETT, Washn., Feb. 12. (AP) Al. Kinman, 50, a farmer and alleged moonshiner of the Cicero district near here, was killed, and J. W. Thomas, 45, Snohomish county deputy sheriff, was seriously wounded in a gun fight today between Kinman and sheriff's deputies who went to Kinman's home to search for liquor.

Thomas was shot twice in the abdomen.

Accompanied by Sheriff George I. Stevers and Deputy J. J. Jackson, Thomas had gone to Kinman's home with a liquor search warrant.

Thomas stopped at the front door while Jackson went to the rear of the house and the sheriff went to the barn.

Thomas knocked, Kinman answered and when told that officers were there opened the door and shot Thomas twice, Sheriff Stevers said. Thomas did not get a chance to pull his gun, the sheriff said.

Jackson ran around the house as Kinman stepped on to the porch and the farmer started shooting at Jackson. Jackson returned the fire and killed Kinman.

CONSIDER PRISONS

Committee Seeks To Adjust Differences In Plans

AUSTIN, Feb. 12. (AP)—Ten men, with both houses of the legislature equally represented, labored around a conference table tonight in an effort to adjust differences between the two legislative branches over penitentiary reformation and centralization.

The general impression was that conferees had undertaken a hopeless task, since the senate stood firm for centralization of penitentiary activities around a main plant close to Austin and the house favored retaining present properties and rehabilitating them to the extent of $550,000 the senate would appropriate $500,000 for the industrial plant near the state capital and $500,000 for renovating and improving the farms.

LIQUOR WAR ON

Hundred And Thirty Charged In Federal Indictments

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 12. (AP)—Striking at the illicit liquor industry in St. Louis with the Jones law as its weapon, a federal court grand jury, in its final report today, returned 116 indictments charging 130 men and two women with liquor law violations punishable by heavy prison sentences and fines.

It was the first time since enactment of the Jones law that it was brought into use extensively by a St. Louis grand jury in dealing with liquor cases. A previous grand jury declined to use this law, which is directed against habitual and commercial dispensers of liquor and provides prison sentences up to five years and maximum fines of $10,000.

San Angelo Man Is Very Enthusiastic

W. R. Ainsworth Wasn't Sick Exactly, But Needed Something To Build Him Up—Says Orgatone Did It

"People suffering from stomach trouble and a rundown condition certainly ought to try Orgatone, for it's the best ever," said W. R. Ainsworth, of 202 East Eighth St., San Angelo, Texas, recently.

"For the past twenty-five or thirty years," he continues, "I had been bothered with stomach trouble at times, also indigestion. Not sick exactly, that is, enough to be in bed or anything like that, but just seemed to be getting rundown and had very little life, and energy about me. My appetite was very poor and I felt dull and sluggish and some days didn't feel that I had the strength to even walk to the dinner table."

"What I needed was just an all round building up and Orgatone has done that very thing. Almost as soon as I began taking it my appetite improved and my tired, wornout feelings began to leave me. I have taken it about three weeks now and besides gaining in strength I am feeling like my old self again and can walk to town or most anywhere else I want to go now without feeling all fagged out. So I say anyone in need of a first class stomach medicine, one that will straighten them out all around, should try Orgatone."

A dull dragging feeling of the body, a sluggish mind, dull memory, despondance, depression of spirits, nervousness, stomach trouble, weak back, headaches and general debility are among the various symptoms of the conditions from which a surprisingly large number of people suffer. They simply need something to tone up their system and to assist the vital organs in performing their proper functions. Orgatone is a powerful reconstructive tonic that produces a healthy flow of bile and always gets most gratifying results.

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock at Brown's Drug Store. Adv.

Richards' Wager Appeal Is Lost

Court Of Criminal Appeals Decides Verdict Giving Three Year Imprisonment For Forgery To Stand

AUSTIN, Feb. 12. (AP) — Ben O. Richards Jr., of Dallas, lost his appeal today to the court of criminal appeals when it decided that the trial court's verdict giving him three years imprisonment for forgery should stand.

Prosecution of Richards resulted from a wager on outcome of the campaign between Earle B. Mayfield and Tom Connally for the United States senatorship nomination in August, 1928. A controversy over the "stakes" not only caused Richards' indictment, but precipitated a homicide, O. L. Mathews, Dallas banker, holder of the money represented by the bet, having been shot to death by V. Ray Adams, one of the claimants of two $1,000 checks put up on outcome of the election.

W. T. Ramsey and Adams, of Belton, had placed $1,000 on Connally, who was successful. When Ramsey went to Dallas after the run-off primary to collect the money, Mathews told him he had given the two checks to a man who said he was "Clyde R. Vest," and who presented an order signed "W. Tom Ramsey." The checks made out to Mathews had been endorsed to Vest and Vest's name had been endorsed on the back.

The appeal of Johnnie Bowman, Gray county, under life imprisonment sentence for the murder of E. R. Watkins, was dismissed, the court noting that Bowman had escaped from jail.

LONDON, Feb. 12. (AP)—The first committee of the naval conference went into session late today with A. V. Alexander, first Lord of the Admiralty, in the chair, to receive a report of the experts who have formulated a plan for merging the global category schemes.

Two More Victories

BY TANLAC OVER "RHEUMATISM" AND STOMACH AILMENTS

Only Medicine That Does What It Claims
says Nicholas J. Jansen

You folks who have tried medicine after medicine without benefit, take heart. Read this letter of Mr. N. J. Jansen and then let your conscience be your guide.

"Before starting Tanlac," said Mr. Jansen, "I was very rundown and suffered terrible agony from pains in every bone in my body. My back hurt until I felt it was pulling in two. My appetite was very poor and gas would form on my stomach and I would bloat until I thought I would burst. I couldn't sleep and didn't care whether I worked or not. I tried medicine after medicine and none gave me relief until I started taking Tanlac and this is the only medicine that does what it claims. Now I feel fine in every way. Pains no longer trouble me, my appetite is good, I sleep good and get up in the morning feeling like a new person."

Neuritis and Stomach Gas Ended For This Lady

You may think because you have been suffering so long and terribly that nothing will help you now.

But you cannot read this letter of Mrs. Margaret Wallace without believing that there is hope for you, too, in Tanlac. "All the good things I could say about Tanlac would not express my true sentiments. For 13 years I suffered stomach troubles worse than anybody it seems to me. Gases filled and smothered me causing a pain around the heart and the pain would extend to my back and shoulders and then turn into neuritis. I suffered awfully. Whatever I ate resulted in heartburn. Tanlac is the only medicine that could cope with such severe troubles as mine. It relieved me fully, my stomach is in best condition in 15 years, no longer causing acid, gases and heartburn."

Street Cars Are Wrecked by Bomb

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12. (AP) — Three street cars were dynamited here last night in a renewal of bombings growing out of a strike of transportation employes last summer. Only one person, a woman passenger, was injured. No arrests were made.

The explosion brought to more than 65 the number of trolleys dynamited since the beginning of difficulties between street car employes and "jitney" operators. It was the first time as many as three cars had been bombed in one night.

The first two cars were dynamited as they passed each other. The third was bombed while an investigation of the first explosion was being made.

Floor boards, seats and window panes of the cars were shattered.

Rollie C. Burns, Lubbock Pioneer, Marks Spot of First County Building

Rollie C. Burns, Lubbock and South Plains pioneer, Tuesday marked the spot where the first building was erected in Lubbock county. The marker is located two and one-half miles northwest of the city limits at the location where George W. Singer built an improvised trading post in 1878, and is within the acreage owned by the city, purchased several years ago for water purposes.

George L. Beatty, Andy Wilson and Will McCrummen accompanied Mr. Burns Tuesday to the site.

At Cross Roads

The store, located on section 18, block A, catered to trade of buffalo hunters and United States soldiers. It was located at the cross roads for soldiers of Fort Griffin; Fort Sumner, New Mexico; Fort Concho and Fort Elliott.

Singer freighted the lumber to build this store from Fort Worth. In 1881 he began getting his supplies from Colorado City.

Building Destroyed

In 1886 an angered Mexican set fire to the building and the store and its contents were destroyed. Later Singer shot and killed the culprit.

In the fall of 1886 Singer erected another store about one-half mile from the location of the original structure. When the county was organized in 1891 this store was moved to the town of Lubbock and located on lot 6, block 105, where the Real Service station is now located, Avenue H and Main street.

Marmola prescription tablets embody this modern method. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Some of your own friends, doubtless, can show you what they do.

Let them bring you what they have brought to so many. The results will delight and amaze you. A book in the box explains the effects. Go now and ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola. You owe that to yourself.
