

Kennedy body altered to hide 'conspiracy,' book claims

DALLAS (AP) — President John F. Kennedy's body was "altered" soon after his November 1963 assassination to make military doctors think all the bullets hit him from behind, says a book to be released this week.

Author David S. Lifton interviewed former employees of Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland who said the body arrived at the back door in a plain metal shipping coffin shortly before a ceremonial coffin was accompanied by first lady Jackie Kennedy through the front door.

The 747-page book, "Best Evidence," has been shrouded in secrecy by Macmillan Publishing Co. Inc. pending its scheduled release Tuesday at a Washington press conference. Some of the 75,000 copies, however, were placed inadvertently on the shelves of a Dallas bookstore.

One witness said he saw the shipping coffin arrive in an unmarked black hearse, and another said he thought it arrived by helicopter. They and other former personnel said they were ordered not to talk about anything they saw that night under threat of court-martial.

The "camouflage of body alteration disguised a political murder as a historical accident... by a lone malcontent" named Lee Harvey Oswald, Lifton wrote.

He said it was a "plot involving the executive branch of the government to remove Kennedy from office."

Lifton, a 40-year-old computer engineer, began researching the assassination in 1965 after reading an FBI report that said the body arrived at Bethesda's autopsy table with evidence of "surgery of the head area, namely, in the top of the skull."

Doctors at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas had operated only on Kennedy's throat, Lifton wrote, and "no one had touched the president's head — certainly not with a surgical instrument."

"If someone had altered the head, the configuration of the wounds at Dallas was not the same as at Bethesda," he said.

"The head was thrust backward (according to a movie film taken by Abraham Zapruder) by the impact of the bullet from the front, yet the autopsy performed at Bethesda showed an impact from behind."

After reading to a neurosurgeon the autopsy doctor's description of damage to Kennedy's brain, Lifton was told he was not describing a gunshot injury but probably the result of a brain being "sectioned" by a physician.

"How could a bullet create that kind of damage?" Lifton said the surgeon asked.

Lifton believes the surgery was to remove an incriminating bullet — not Oswald's — from the president's head.

He contends the body was altered somewhere between Dallas and Bethesda, probably at Walter Reed Army Hospital near Bethesda after Air Force One landed at Andrews Air Force Base.

The conspirators would have had about 45 minutes to move the body to Walter Reed, make the alterations and get it into the Bethesda morgue to switch it from the shipping casket to the ceremonial coffin, Lifton said.

When the autopsy began, large pieces of bone fell to the autopsy table as Cmdr. James J. Humes, the Navy physician who performed the autopsy, touched Kennedy's head, Lifton said.

He said he could not understand why pieces of the skull should dislodge at Bethesda if they were not shaken loose by more than 20 minutes of life-saving attempts at Parkland.

Most of the Bethesda witnesses interviewed said the bullet wound in the back of the president's head "resembled" the description given by Parkland doctors, except the hole was much larger than the egg-sized hole seen in Dallas.

Lifton said he also found evidence of alterations on the Senate clears the way for Haig

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee opened the door Saturday for speedy confirmation of Alexander M. Haig as secretary of state when Democrats and Republicans reached an apparent consensus not to hold his nomination hostage for White House tapes.

Though no formal decision was reached, Democrats appeared ready to accept a Republican-backed compromise which would allow Haig's appointment to reach the full Senate floor by Inauguration Day, Jan. 20, regardless of whether any tapes have been obtained and reviewed by then.

Under the proposal advanced by panel chairman Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, the committee will ask immediately — and subpoena if necessary — the logs and indexes for 100 hours of recorded conversations between Haig and Richard M. Nixon in 1973.

Specific recordings, held now by the National Archives, could then be subpoenaed if a review of the logs indicated that a particular conversation might be relevant to Haig's evaluation. But Baker warned that legal challenges by Nixon and others could delay delivery of any tapes for weeks or months, if ever, and he intends to proceed with a confirmation vote in time for Ronald Reagan's swearing-in as the 40th president.

Members of the panel's Democratic minority appeared mollified at Percy's assurances that he would pursue any recordings which might cast new light on the Haig case, despite the retired general's repeated testimony that he did nothing improper while serving as Nixon's chief of staff prior to Nixon's resignation in disgrace.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., the panel's senior Democrat, earlier asked the committee to immediately issue subpoenas for all 100 hours of the Nixon-Haig tapes, recorded between May 4 and July 18, 1973. Republicans argued that such a blanket review would cause undue delay and lead to a "fishing expedition."

Earlier Saturday, Haig testified that the Soviet Union was encouraged to foment trouble in Africa four years ago by the congressional decision to bar secret military aid to anti-communist groups in Angola.

Haig said the 1976 legislation sponsored by former Sen. Richard Clark, D-Iowa, is "a self-defeating and unnecessary restriction on the executive branch of government."

The so-called Clark amendment barred the government from aiding any faction in Angola without the consent of Congress.

Haig said also that he favors continuing the normalization of relations with the Peoples Republic of China.

He said he does not favor normalization of relations with Cuba.

Haig also said he needs lengthy discussions with Reagan before coming to a judgment on whether official ties should be re-established between the United States and Taiwan. Peking leaders have warned they could not accept such a "two-China" approach.

IT'S OKAY. Secretary of State designate gave an "OK" sign during his hearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington Saturday. The panel opened the door for speedy confirmation of Haig as Secretary of State when Democrats and Republicans reached an apparent consensus not to hold his nomination hostage for White House tapes.

Iran to move toward release

By The Associated Press

Iran is likely to approve within a week the latest initiative for release of the 52 American hostages, a top Iranian negotiator was quoted as saying Saturday.

In Algeria, where a four-man U.S. negotiating team headed by Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher has been since Thursday, it was learned that the Americans believe there has been movement toward solution of the hostage crisis.

But, at the same time, it was made clear that considerable distance remained between the positions of the United States and Iran.

Ahmad Azizi, a leading Iranian negotiator, told Tehran's biggest newspaper that Iran is studying an Algerian draft proposal that includes certain undertakings by the Algerian intermediaries.

He was quoted by the daily as saying Iran's response to the draft would "most likely" be announced within a week, that Iran generally agrees with the proposal, "in all likelihood" would accept it, and that the initiative should also be acceptable to the United States.

Christopher and Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Benyahia met for an hour Saturday evening and the top U.S. negotiator decided to remain until at least Sunday "to continue to work on mechanical and procedural issues and to remain in close contact" with the Algerians, according to the State Department.

Christopher cautioned that his remaining in Algiers "should not raise any undue expectations," said the statement.

Algeria has been acting as intermediary in negotiations designed to free the Americans seized by Iranian militants more than 14 months ago. Details of the draft are unknown, as is the nature of the Algerian role reportedly included in the plan.

A proposal made by Algeria, a Moslem nation, is apt to be more acceptable to Iran's fundamentalist Moslems than would a proposal by the United States, which Iran has labeled as corrupt and satanic.

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said Friday that Iran's requests for clarification of the American position suggested Iran has a serious interest in reaching a settlement.

"The reality is the negotiations are going on and that's a positive sign," Muskie told reporters in Washington.

The Iranians have sought clarification in recent days of the American position and Christopher's team is standing by in Algiers to try to answer any questions.

Further explanation and clarifications are transmitted to Algerian diplomats in Tehran, who pass the information on to Iranian authorities.

The Carter administration told Iran agreement must be reached by Jan. 16 or there will not be enough time before President-elect Ronald Reagan takes office Jan. 20 to carry out a bargain.

Reagan has suggested he may devise new proposals for dealing with the crisis once he becomes president.

State Department spokesman John Tattler said "serious problems" remain between the United States and Iran, but that the U.S. government stands by Christopher's earlier assessment that U.S.-Iranian differences appeared to be narrowing.

There was no indication when Christopher might return to Washington.

The United States, among other measures, promised to deposit several billion dollars worth of frozen Iranian assets in a third country with the money to go to Iran when the hostages are released. The most recent Iranian position, rejected by the Carter administration, demands a U.S. deposit of $24 billion in financial guarantees in the Algerian Central Bank before the captives can be freed.

Pampa youth critical, man charged in mishap

A 15-year-old Pampa youth was in critical condition late Saturday in an Amarillo hospital, and a 23-year-old Pampa man was in city jail on charges of leaving the scene of an accident, failure to render aid and driving with an expired license, following an accident late Friday in downtown Pampa.

Tony Chris Hughes, 15, of 425 Tignor is being treated in the intensive care unit at Northwest Texas Hospital for head injuries he received in the mishap.

Police reports indicate Hughes was southbound on Cuyler Street at 9:50 p.m. Friday, operating a 1978 Yamaha motorcycle when the cycle came into collision with a 1972 Chevrolet, driven by Donald Shorter Jr., 23, of 304 Lowery.

Police reports say the Shorter vehicle was attempting to make a left turn at the intersection of Cuyler and Foster. The vehicle, driven by Shorter, reportedly left the scene of the accident. Shorter was arrested later by Pampa police officers.

Shorter was in the city jail late Saturday awaiting arraignment on the charges.

Hughes was transported to Highland General Hospital by Metropolitan Ambulance and was transferred at 10:50 p.m. Friday to Northwest Texas Hospital.

Authorities seek missing woman

Sheriff's Departments from Wheeler and Hemphill Counties, and volunteer fire department personnel from Miami, Briscoe, Wheeler, Mobeetie and Shamrock, were out Saturday night at press time searching the hill country on Highway 83 seven miles east on Highway 287 for an elderly Briscoe woman.

The woman was last seen Saturday at approximately 11 a.m. She was reported missing at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Based on reports from neighbors, officials speculate she may have wandered from her home on foot sometime during the day.

The area around Briscoe being searched is large and extremely hilly, and officials were asking for flood light assistance from area helicopters late Saturday.

The name of the Briscoe woman had not been released at press time Saturday.

Gunman slain in shootout, hostages safe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 13½-hour standoff between police and two gunmen holding five hostages — including three preschool-age children — in a motel ended Saturday when a sharpshooter killed one of the armed men with a single shot to the head. The hostages escaped unharmed.

The second gunman, tentatively identified as the teen-age stepson of the man police shot, was arrested unharmed by the Special Weapons and Tactics team. One officer was slightly injured in earlier shooting during the standoff, but none were wounded in the final showdown.

The gunmen took 11 hostages shortly after botching a robbery at the Time Motel in Hollywood, but permitted six of the hostages to leave early in the morning.

Remaining in the motel at gunpoint were two 4-year-old girls, a 3-year-old boy, and two women, 19 and 23, police said.

Neither the hostages nor the gunmen were identified by police.

The drama ended at 8:35 a.m. when one of the female hostages was ordered to go outside and drive the motel manager's car up to the office, where the hostages were being held. She then opened the passenger side door, police said.

As a small boy and another woman entered the car on the passenger side, SWAT officers opened the driver's side door and pulled the three hostages to safety, Commander George Morrison said.

Another unidentified hostage was brought to the door by one of the gunmen, who had a sawed-off shotgun pointed at the hostage's back.

A sharpshooter fired a single bullet, killing the armed man. SWAT team members hurled tear gas into the motel lobby and the other gunman, described as "about 16 years old," was arrested outside, said officer Larry Bender.

"We were under the impression from conversations with the suspects and from talking to people who had seen them earlier in the evening that they were high on drugs," Morrison said.

During the stalemate, about 50 police officers surrounded the motel and the gunman remained in constant telephone contact with police negotiators.

Abscam convictions may get the 'sting'

NEW YORK (AP) — With a fifth congressman convicted on Abscam charges, the government's conduct during the undercover sting operation now is going on trial.

U.S. District Judge George C. Pratt, who has presided over three Abscam trials, will begin holding due process hearings Monday in Brooklyn that could scuttle seven Abscam convictions, including F. Raymond Lederer.

Two of the other six convictions recorded in Abscam — those of Philadelphia City Council officials — have already been thrown out on grounds of entrapment and government misconduct.

Lederer, a Pennsylvania Democrat who was the only congressman indicted in Abscam to be re-elected, was found guilty late Friday of bribery, conspiracy, accepting an illegal gratuity and traveling interstate in aid of a racketeering enterprise.

Lederer was unavailable for comment Saturday. A family spokesman said he was en route to Philadelphia.

The jury took 5½ hours to find the three-term congressman was not entrapped Sept. 11, 1979, when he accepted $50,000 from undercover FBI agents in a Kennedy Airport hotel room in return for promising to introduce immigration bills for two supposed Arab sheiks.

A defendant claiming entrapment says he wouldn't have committed a crime if not induced and enticed by the government. The government must show the defendant was predisposed to commit the crime.

Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti said the government's actions in Abscam were legal and proper. The FBI says none of its actions in Abscam violated rules issued by the Justice Department last week.

In Lederer's trial, a department memo suggesting entrapment surfaced. Two subjects of the document — both department lawyers — testified under defense subpoenas. Pratt sealed the memo, but James J. Binns, Lederer's attorney, referred to it in questioning the lawyers.

Former Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., is on trial in Washington, where former Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C., was convicted of Abscam charges after alleging entrapment.

By The Associated Press

Here is the status of the cases of the seven members of Congress indicted in connection with the FBI's Abscam probe:

—Former Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C.: convicted Oct. 7, 1980; appealing on entrapment grounds; defeated in re-election bid; House Ethics Committee found Dec. 3, 1980, that he violated congressional rules; resigned from Congress Dec. 10, 1980.

—Former Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla.: lost in primary; trial under way in Washington, D.C.; says he took the bribe money as part of his own probe of corruption.

—Rep. Raymond Lederer, D-Pa.: convicted Friday of bribery-conspiracy charges; was only congressman indicted in Abscam investigation to be re-elected.

—Former Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y.: defeated in re-election bid; convicted Dec. 3, 1980, on conspiracy charge but acquitted on more serious bribery count; also convicted of conflict of interest and accepting an unlawful gratuity; plans appeal.

—Former Rep. Michael Myers, D-Pa.: convicted Aug. 30, 1980, on bribery-conspiracy charges; expelled from Congress; defeated in bid to regain seat; appealing jury verdict.

—Former Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J.: convicted Dec. 3, 1980, of conspiracy, bribery and aiding and abetting in the acceptance of a criminal gratuity; said he will appeal and awaits due-process hearing in February; blamed Abscam for re-election defeat.

—Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J.: trial set for Feb. 17; says he is innocent; terms ends in 1982.

MOORE, Okla. (AP) — Police and state agents have "nixed" the idea that the death of 21-year-old Tracey Diane Neilson was related to a similar slaying in Amarillo, Texas, last April.

LI Ray Homer said detectives on Thursday were checking out the possibility that the same person may have committed both crimes, but that information turned up "pretty well eliminates the possibility."

Mrs. Neilson's husband, Jeff, found his wife in a bedroom of the couple's duplex Monday with her throat cut and with multiple stab wounds in her chest and abdomen.

Mrs. Neilson, the daughter of a wealthy Canadian, Texas, rancher, was to have celebrated her 21st birthday that evening with her husband. Medical examiners estimate she was probably killed as early as noon that day.

Neighbors of the woman have reported seeing a young dark-haired man near her apartment who police speculate must have forced his way into the apartment when she opened the door for him.

"But there are no major breakthroughs as to the man's identity," Homer said Friday. "We are looking at a number of people and we are still in the process of interviewing anyone who might have a clue to a suspect."

Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation agents are assisting Moore police in a massive investigation of the slaying. So far, police said, they know of no motive for the killing. The woman was neither robbed nor sexually assaulted.

Officers said they had hoped on Thursday that they were heading in the right direction when Amarillo police notified them that the woman's slaying strongly resembled that of a young store clerk there last April.

At the same time funeral services were being conducted for Mrs. Neilson in Canadian, officers were checking the Texas lead, Homer said.

The clerk, Sherry Welsh, was stabbed numerous times while on duty in a lighted fixture store. Her unidentified assailant never has been identified and no motive for that killing was uncovered.

But Homer said officers learned that there is a strong suspect in that case who is currently in custody.

"He couldn't have committed the crime here. That information, in addition to other evidence in the Texas case, has nixed our original idea of a connection," Homer said.

Homer said the woman's 21-year-old husband was definitely attending classes at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center all day on Monday and knew nothing of his wife's death until he returned home shortly after 5 p.m.

Mrs. Neilson is the former Tracey Waterfield was salutatorian of her Canadian high school graduating class three years ago.

BUSY AT WORK. President-elect Ronald Reagan does some work Saturday morning on the inauguration speech he will give Jan. 20 in Washington, D.C., when he will officially be inducted into the office of the Presidency.

Reagan backpedaling promises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The conservative campaign promises that helped propel Ronald Reagan to the presidency are beginning to fade amid the realities of government and the economy.

Even before Reagan takes office, he and his top aides are backpedaling from such key pledges as balancing the federal budget within two years and re-opening arms talks with the Soviet Union.

And some Republicans are grumbling about the Reagan policy changes.

Reagan said during the campaign he would erase the budget deficit at least by 1983 and, he hoped, a year earlier. However, at confirmation hearing last week, Secretary-designate Donald Reagan said that even under the best of conditions it will probably take until 1984 to achieve a balance.

"Sounds too much like business as usual," complained Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa.

On a related issue, Rep. David Stockman, Reagan's choice for budget director, said it may be necessary to delay the effective date of a tax cut until later this year — even though candidate Reagan had promised to make it retroactive to Jan. 1.

A Reagan spokesman, Larry Speakes, said the president-elect "has every intention of carrying out his campaign promises." He added, however, that, "In the light of current conditions he'll review what would be best in the interest of the country ... He'll certainly take a pragmatic approach to it. Conditions change."

Not keeping campaign promises is, of course, nothing new for presidents.

Most recently, Jimmy Carter entered office pledging to balance the budget by 1981 and vowing to create a national health program. He abandoned the health program as too costly and will go home to Plains, Ga., leaving behind a deficit estimated at $60 billion.

With farmers' votes in mind, Reagan vowed to repeal the Carter administration's grain embargo against the Soviet Union.

However, early this month the president-elect told reporters that the idea of repealing the embargo was "something for a great deal of study ... You have to determine whether it's having as much effect on the Soviet Union, or if that's being offset by a worse effect on our own agricultural communities."

Likewise, Reagan vowed during the campaign that "as president I will immediately press for negotiations" for a new strategic arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union.

Yet Caspar Weinberger, his designated defense secretary, told senators it would take "a good six months" before the United States could begin negotiations over a new SALT agreement with the Kremlin because it would take time to plot improvements in the nation's weapons arsenal.

Similarly, Weinberger raised doubts about what Reagan would do about ending draft registration of young men.

More bodies found in fire rubble

KEANSBURG, N.J. (AP) — Firefighters, with the help of two cranes and a bulldozer, began Saturday to tear the roof off the Beachview Rest Home, finding the bodies of four more victims of a fire believed to have killed 30 persons. Six residents were still reported missing.

"It is a tragic scene," Gov. Brendan T. Byrne said as he walked around the devastated building. He said the home, which went up in flames before dawn Friday, had been well run.

With the four bodies found during the search Saturday, the number of bodies recovered rose to 24, said Alexander Lehrer, Monmouth County prosecutor. Officials believe 30 persons may have died in the fire, he said, and 80 residents survived.

Earlier reports put the total dead or missing at 33, with the home's roster estimated at 111 elderly and mentally handicapped persons. Officials now believe 110 patients were in the building, a former hotel, when the fire broke out, Lehrer said.

Authorities received good news Saturday when they learned a man believed missing was safe with his sister. The sister phoned to say that Stanley King was with her, Lehrer said.

As Byrne skirted the fire ruins, he told reporters he was on the scene to gather facts and clarify conflicting information about whether sprinkler systems were required in such boarding homes.

The Beachview had been considered a "very good boarding home" with no major problems at its last state inspection in July 1980, the state Health Department said.

Authorities were not immediately able to identify the dead because the bodies were badly charred.

Survivors of the raging fire were relocated to other boarding homes or with relatives.

Editor named at Freedom's Odessa paper

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Jim Welsh has been appointed managing editor of the Odessa American, publisher David Lyons announced Saturday.

Welsh, 34, currently the managing editor of the Fort Walton Beach (Fla.) Playground Daily News, will assume the new position Feb. 1, said Lyons.

He will succeed Olin Ashley, who has been with the newspaper for 25 years.

The Odessa American and the Playground Daily News are both part of the Freedom Newspapers group of which The Pampa News is a member.

Welsh became one of Freedom Newspapers youngest managing editors when he was appointed to the Fort Walton Beach position at age 30. He also has worked as a legal and investigative reporter for the Pensacola (Fla.) News Journal.

Six bodies scattered in home

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The bodies of six people were found scattered throughout a suburban house that neighbors described Saturday as a gathering place for a group of motorcycle enthusiasts.

Police said the four men and two women were apparently shot in the head with a small-caliber weapon.

Chesterfield Police Capt. Mark E. Wilson said more than one person appeared to have committed the killings because the bodies were not in what he called a "defense posture." He said there was no sign of forced entry and no indication of a struggle.

Numerous firearms and some drugs also were found in the house after a friend of one of the victims discovered the bodies Friday night and called police. No weapons found in the house were used in the slayings, police said.

An unidentified acquaintance of the victims said the women worked as waitresses or dancers at a local tavern. He said two of the men were known as "Snake" and "Wild Willie."

A neighbor, James H. Evans, said as many as 12 people stayed at the house on occasion. Evans said the house was visited almost constantly by bearded, motorcycle-riding men who drank beer in the front yard and raced their motorcycle engines throughout the night.

Legislature convenes Tuesday, begins lengthy process of law making

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — After the Legislature convenes Tuesday, newspapers will be full of details on dozens of bills as they wend their way through the legislative maze.

Here are some questions and answers to help explain how the lawmaking process works.

Q. In brief, what are the steps a bill must follow?

A. Introduction in the House or Senate. Committee approval. Passage on two separate legislative days — or suspension of the constitutional rule requiring this. Introduction in the other chamber. Committee approval. Floor passage. Signature by the governor.

Q. How does a proposed law get started through the Legislature?

A. A legislator drafts a bill or has it drafted or receives one from a special interest group and files it with the chief clerk of the House or secretary of the Senate. The bill is formally introduced when its caption is read to the House or Senate and the presiding officer refers it to a committee.

Q. Does every bill that is introduced get considered?

A. No. Only about one-third of the Senate bills and a fifth of the House bills come to a final vote last session.

Q. How does the governor's legislative program get introduced?

A. He asks legislators who support various parts of it to introduce his bills. Sometimes lawmakers volunteer.

Q. What bills get heard by committees? Who decides?

A. Those that the committee chairmen decide should receive a public hearing. Generally, a hearing is held only if the author of a bill requests one. A bill may be considered and voted upon by a committee without a hearing. But on important bills or controversial ones, hearings almost always are held.

Q. How can you know if a bill in which you are interested has been set for a committee hearing?

A. If in Austin, check the bulletin boards outside each legislative chamber for hearing notices. If outside the capital city, call the legislative hot line, 1-800-252-9693. Many trade associations and other interest groups inform their members when hearings are scheduled.

Q. Why do some bills speed through the legislative process while others seem to take all session to reach a final vote?

A. Many reasons. Non-controversial bills move quickly. A controversial bill takes time because of the compromises that must be made and the votes to be collected before it reaches the floor. Complex legislation, with many details to be decided, also requires time. Committee chairmen can stall bills they oppose by sending them to unfavorable subcommittees, delaying a hearing or simply not setting them for hearing or action.

Q. If a committee approves a bill, does that mean it is likely to be passed into law?

A. Not necessarily. Committees sometimes do not reflect the views of the House or Senate as a whole, and their products might be rejected or never be considered on the floor. In addition, there is not time in a 140-day session to consider all committee-approved bills before mandatory adjournment, so many die without action.

Q. If a committee disapproves a bill, is it dead?

A. Yes, for all practical purposes, even though legislative rules provide for minority reports as a way to beat the committee system. Occasionally a vote to disapprove a bill will be reconsidered and the bill revived, but this is uncommon.

Q. Who decides when a bill is going to be considered in one chamber?

A. In the Senate, a bill reaches floor debate in the first 60 days of the session only if four-fifths of the total membership of 31 senators vote to take it up. During the rest of the session, it takes a two-thirds vote. In the House, the daily debate calendar is set by the Calendar Committee, which is controlled by the speaker. Early in the session, just about any bill that gets out of a committee reaches the House calendar. As the pile of available bills grows, the committee's control over the flow of legislation becomes almost absolute.

Substantial progress needed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Board of Education voted Saturday that Moody Independent School District of McLennan County become an unaccredited district unless it makes "substantial progress" toward correcting deficiencies by June 1.

A committee report said Moody was first given warning on July 14.

"The primary problems in the district centered around the condition of the buildings and inadequate program offerings," said the Committee for Priorities, Accountability and Accreditation.

The committee said the district was visited Sept. 23, and "little, if any, progress was reported."

Q. What if one house passes a bill in a form that is unacceptable to the other?

A. A conference committee of five senators and five representatives is appointed by the speaker and lieutenant governor to seek a compromise. If the committee reaches agreement, its version of the bill must be approved by a majority of each chamber before it can go to the governor.

Q. Why are the House speaker and lieutenant governor considered such powerful figures in the legislative process?

A. Their choices for committee assignments — including conference committees — and chairmanships can determine the fate of numerous bills. They refer bills to committees and can kill a measure merely by sending it to an unfriendly panel. Quite often, their rulings on parliamentary points of order rescue or kill a bill. Their decisions whether to recognize a legislator for a motion — such as adjournment during a hot debate — also can make a difference. Both the speaker and lieutenant governor often play an important role as mediators and negotiators on legislative disputes.

Clements wants study of Cuban refugee impact

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he does not want uneducated Cuban refugees who "can't speak the language" moved into East Texas before a full study of the possible impact.

Clements said Friday he has asked President Jimmy Carter to delay the refugee relocation, even though an administration spokesman in Washington said reports that the relocation is imminent are mistaken.

"I was shocked at reports of a plan to relocate 2,000 Cuban refugees from Fort Chafee, Ark. to East Texas," Clements said in a letter to Attorney General Mark White.

The governor asked White to "take all legal actions necessary" to postpone the relocation until a study is completed.

"I do not want these people in Texas until we know that they can be gainfully and properly employed and assimilated within these communities, and that the communities want them. On any other basis I'm opposed to their coming to Texas," Clements said at his weekly news conference.

In Washington, Arthur Brill with the U.S. State Department said, "The decision to relocate the refugees has not been made. It's strictly a proposal at this time by the World Relief Agency."

Clements said he has been told that The Resource Development for World Relief Organization plans to establish an East Texas office to relocate Cubans in Marshall, Longview and other cities.

Brill confirmed that the religious agency is looking for other relocation areas "because Florida has become so impacted with the Cubans."

However, he said only a "pilot project of moving 300 is being seriously considered at this time. ... perhaps the word has gone out a little prematurely."

Clements complained East Texas should not be a "dumping ground for some teen-age or young 20-year-old Cubans who have a fifth-grade level educational background and who will become a burden to the community, and can't speak the language."

"I have called upon the president to delay the relocation until there has been an adequate time for the state and local officials to assess the impact of such a relocation and whether or not it is reasonable and justifiable," Clements told White.

On other matters, Clements said:

—He is optimistic about chances of getting most of his legislative program approved by the 67th Legislature, which convenes Tuesday. He admitted, however, his initiative and referendum plan has only a "50-50 chance" of passing.

—He would not review his denial of parole to David Ruiz, a Texas Department of Corrections inmate whose suit against TDC will cause sweeping changes. A sexual abuse indictment against Ruiz was dropped Wednesday. Clements said he would take another look at the case after the Board of Pardons and Paroles, which twice has recommended Ruiz be released, reviews the case in March.

Clouds gather on appointment

EDITOR'S NOTE — Gov. Bill Clements is expected to add more than 600 appointments during the 1981 Legislature to those he has already made to state boards and commissions. Here, in another of a series of pre-legislative stories, is a look at the appointment process.

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Just as the governor packs power in vetoes, the Senate gets much of its clout from its authority to reject the governor's choices for state boards and commissions.

Storm clouds already are building on Gov. Bill Clements' 1980 appointment of Mrs. Billie Pickard of Raymondville as a regent at Pan American University in Edinburg.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, has pledged to block Senate confirmation by asking his colleagues not to vote for her as a courtesy to him, a request that is almost always honored.

Truan criticizes Mrs. Pickard's "insensitivity toward the needs of children, particularly Mexican-American children" as school board president from 1968 to 1977.

"Sen. Truan can make accusations against me until he is blue in the face, but his saying so doesn't make it so," replies Mrs. Pickard.

Are others in trouble?

Warrants issued in school shooting

HARKER HEIGHTS, Texas (AP) — Army Staff Sgt. Edward Groce, hospitalized with gunshot wounds in the chest, leg and neck, is the target of military and civilian criminal investigations as a result of Thursday's fatal schoolyard shooting here.

Peace Justice Doyle Hardin issued two warrants naming Groce for murder and attempted capital murder, and army investigators said they were trying to find out how and why Groce was carrying a military pistol at the time of his arrest.

Betty Bush, 36, was killed by a man wearing army fatigues, who shot her four times in the chest at point-blank range with a military .45-caliber pistol, as teachers, parents and students at the Harker Heights Elementary School watched in horror, witnesses said. The man

"I've asked myself that question, and I don't think so — at this point," said Linda Howell, director of personnel and appointments for Clements.

Major appointments, however, have not been announced although the governor says he has made up his mind on three new University of Texas regents, probably the most coveted appointive positions.

Ms. Howell and Pat Oles, deputy special assistant for appointments, said they had received approximately 50 nominations for UT regent, including former Gov. John Connally.

Clements also is expected to submit nominees for parks and wildlife commissioners, Texas A&M regents, employment commissioner, and to the boards of insurance, mental health, state prisons and human resources to the 1981 Legislature.

Oles and Ms. Howell, a former employee in President Richard Nixon's patronage office, help Tobin Armstrong, a South Texas rancher who is in charge of appointments, screen prospects.

Before 1983, they note, Clements should have appointed the majority of the members of important boards and commissions.

Since Clements is Texas' first

Republican governor in over 100 years, it should not be any surprise that more members of the GOP are getting state jobs.

However, Ms. Howell said a study she did at the request of Clements showed his appointments were running "very close to 50-50" among Democrats and Republicans.

"A huge majority of what Gov. Clements calls the 'ticket-splitters' voted for him at the last election. He knows he wasn't elected by Republicans alone," said Oles.

"Most appointments are not political," Oles said. "The governor is simply looking for qualified people."

"For example," said Ms. Howell, "I know a brass-collar Democrat who probably will be appointed to a judgeship. He is better qualified. We beat our brains out trying to find people who are qualified statutorily."

"In certain areas," said Oles, "Clements knows a Republican cannot be elected on a local basis, so there is no reason to appoint one and watch him get defeated at the next election."

Such areas, he might add, are becoming scarcer and scarcer. But the bottom line is keeping good people on the bench, as district attorney or whatever.

What Ms. Howell calls Clements' "big loss" during the 1979 Legislature came when the Senate rejected the appointment of W.B. "Monk" Edwards as a Houston district judge.

Needing 21 votes for confirmation, Edwards fell two short, 19-12.

Edwards, a former Gulf Oil lawyer, testified publicly in committee that years ago he had delivered a sealed envelope from Gulf lobbyist Claude Wild Jr. to Gov. Preston Smith. Edwards said he assumed the envelope contained cash, and it was later disclosed the amount was $300.

Nevertheless, Clements never wavered in his support, and after the vote, Armstrong said "we still think" Edwards was a "quality appointment."

Armstrong, Oles, Ms. Howell and four other staffers' screen nominees, and their suggestions are sent upstairs to Clements, who makes the final decisions.

Oles and Ms. Howell claim the governor knows 75 percent of the possible nominees personally or by reputation, "and once or twice he has rejected our candidates."

"When the files go up there, they had better be perfect," said Ms. Howell.

With hundreds of appointments to make from several times that many nominees, "You can never leave the office with a clean desk," said Oles.

The staffers' least favorite task, however, is calling the losers.

"Telling them 'I'm terribly sorry but it wasn't you' is no fun at all," said Ms. Howell.

It's the sound of growth, prosperity and progress in the Southwest. It's the sound of the Southwest making a bigger and bigger contribution to our nation's economy. It's the sound of electricity. Electricity that surrounds us with opportunities and jobs, pride and security. And with proper use of our resources, and new power plants using efficient, reliable fuels like coal, that sound is going to keep right on humming.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

Micronesian transition

As World War II moved from Guadalcanal to the Philippines and to Okinawa, thousands of American servicemen stopped briefly on Kwajalein atoll in pursuit of the advancing action.

The glaring white airstrip, mess hall and barracks were constructed after the some 2,000 Pacific islands loosely known as Micronesia were wrested from the Japanese. There was no negotiation: the United States needed the facilities and Kwajalein was there.

An American base still is utilized on Kwajalein and will be possibly for the next 50 years.

But the relationship now will be formal. The atoll is part of Palau, one of four political entities created over the last dozen years to give the 600,000 islanders autonomy. The United States will continue to provide funds for economic development and will guarantee defense and security.

After final approval is given by Congress and the United Nations and in a plebiscite of the islanders themselves, the "free association" agreements will be official.

There should be no objection from Micronesia. The people have waited 35 years for a return to the stability shattered by war.

El Salvador not insignificant

El Salvador is a speck of turf on that part of the North American continent that is called Central America.

For all of its smallness, however, El Salvador is not insignificant. Militarily, it flanks the Panama Canal which, despite a change of title, remains a strategic interest of the American people. Beyond that, El Salvador lies conveniently close to a trade route that over a span of nearly 500 years has been contested in turn by Spanish, Portuguese, Scots, French, Latin Americans, North Americans, and in these latter days by the Communist hegemony headed by the Soviet Union. The evident ground of agreement among all military powers is that the narrow strip of land that divides the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is worth their attention. El Salvador is a component of that critical geography.

In spite of any clear proof at the present time, some important considerations are well established. First, El Salvador is locked in a civil war. The killings of 7 Americans, three of whom were Catholic nuns, are not unique to that locality. American citizenship cannot be relied on to immunize the human frame to bullets.

Second, if the killings can be used to inflame American public opinion against the rightist faction that is trying to forestall a Communist takeover, who can say that the leftists would not have committed just such an atrocity to achieve just that objective?

Sanctions hurt Kremlin

Moscow's representatives at the European Security Conference in Madrid complained loudly about the U.S. economic sanctions imposed in retaliation for the invasion of Afghanistan.

And well they might. The Carter administration's partial embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union plus the new restrictions on the purchase of advanced American technology are beginning to pinch.

The Russians are suffering the consequences of another of their chronic poor harvests. The curtailment of U.S. grain sales had already forced them to thin out their beef and dairy herds and the fall harvest shortfalls will only make meat and other staple foodstuffs that much scarcer.

All this is no laughing matter in the Kremlin. Polish workers, who enjoy a standard of living significantly higher than that of the average Russian, took to the streets this year over just such basic issues as the price, quality and availability of food. Will Russian workers be next?

The point is that U.S. trade sanctions are imposing tangible, if insufficient, penalties on the Soviets for their aggression in Afghanistan. Soviet leaders may feel free to ignore political and diplomatic pressures — witness their disregard of the recent U.N. General Assembly resolution calling for a pullout of Soviet troops from Afghanistan — but they are far more sensitive to anything that poses a threat to internal Soviet stability.

No change in Mideast

The summit meetings at Camp David that produced the fragile accord between Egypt and Israel may have been the most significant foreign-policy achievement of the Carter administration.

The announcement that Ronald Reagan will preserve the Camp David framework for future Middle East negotiations is encouraging, even though an impasse has developed over the issue of Palestinian self-determination on the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

And it is well that the president-elect has spoken out now to discourage speculation that the Reagan White House would change course.

The American intervention has produced a peace treaty between Israel and Egypt. The West Bank-Gaza Strip issue, however, remains explosive.

Before his defeat in the November election, President Carter had pledged to schedule new summit discussions.

The new president should take up the challenge to get the talks between Israel and Egypt back on track — as quickly as possible. It won't be easy, but the goals envisioned at Camp David continue to hold the best promise of a lasting peace.

Israel has good opportunity for peace

Now is the time for Israel to initiate a move to negotiate a genuine and lasting peace in the Middle East, one that recognizes the legitimate rights of all interested parties in the region.

Such a peace would make it possible for the nation of Israel, created in 1948 by the United Nations, to take its rightful place in the community of nations and to establish normal relations with its neighbors in the Middle East.

The Middle East is a region of great potential. In peace, Israel has much to offer the region. But war and the threat of war blight the future. Too much blood has been poured upon the sand.

Now is the time for Israel to negotiate from a position of strength.

If trends continue, and if Israel insists on annexing the West Bank of the Jordan River from Jordan, the Gaza Strip from Egypt, the Golan Heights from Syria and the territory south of the Litani River from Lebanon, the Jewish people will inevitably become a minority in the land they rule.

No peace is possible on that basis, either inside Israel or on its borders.

Iran's 'inevitable' Civil war

By Robert J. Wagman

WASHINGTON (NEA) - An increasingly factionalized Iran is heading for a violent civil war that will most likely be triggered by the death of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. So says a new U.S. intelligence estimate circulating at high levels here in Washington.

According to the estimate, Iran is rapidly disintegrating into contending factions just two years after Khomeini's Islamic revolution. The conflict is not two-sided, but multi-sided, with each of many interest groups unalterably opposed to one or more of the others.

The intelligence analysts compare the Iran of today with the Lebanon of two years ago. They predict that the civil war will leave Iran, like Lebanon, in ruins after years of fighting.

Authority has become badly divided in Iran. Most power now rests with the militant Shiite mullahs, led by Chief Justice Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, the so-called "hanging judge of Tehran." The conservative clerics are boldly trying to consolidate their position by gaining complete control of the Iranian political system.

The conservative clergy is being challenged by groups on both right and left — the nationalists in the provinces, the communists in the cities and the educated classes, who opposed the shah but who have also opposed the clergy's confiscation of the wealth they acquired under him. The largest such group is the moderate led by President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr.

United only by their opposition to the Shiite mullahs, these factions would fight just as bitterly against one another as they would against the clergy in any civil war. Several have engaged in armed clashes in recent weeks; most of these confrontations have taken place in the outlying provinces, where nationalistic groups are seeking more autonomy from Tehran.

So far, widening of the conflict has been prevented only by the personal intervention of Khomeini, who still commands the respect of a majority of Iranians and who has used both anti-American sentiment and the Iran-Iraq war to unite various factions.

However, the intelligence analysts think that Khomeini's political power is clearly on the wane. As evidence, they note that many of the ayatollah's longtime aides — clerics and non-clerics who fled with him into exile and returned with him from France to positions of power — have recently been replaced by mullahs who remained in Iran to fight the shah. The latter owe their allegiance primarily to Beheshti, not Khomeini.

The most widely publicized move against a Khomeini loyalist has been the prosecution for "insulting the state" of former Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, Khomeini's oldest and closest non-clerical aide. In addition, Ibrahim Yazdi, who resigned as Khomeini's first foreign minister shortly after the taking of the U.S. hostages, has been replaced as editor of an influential Tehran newspaper by a Beheshti loyalist.

Sadegh Khalkhali, possibly the cleric closest to Khomeini, has been forced to resign as head of the Islamic Court, which has executed more than 1,000 drug dealers. Even Khomeini's son-in-law, Shahabuddin Eshraghi, has been eased out of his government job and replaced by an arch-conservative.

The analysts predict that Khomeini will be able to hold Iran together through his lifetime but that the country will rapidly fall apart thereafter. The Baheshti forces reportedly share this outlook and are moving quickly to consolidate their political power.

They are already uniting behind Ayatollah Hussein Ali Montazeri as the future imam. The 58-year-old Ali Montazeri, a hard-line conservative cleric allied with Beheshti, may well be strong enough to overcome the active opposition to him among most of the country's anti-clerical forces.

The analysts suggest that the outbreak of civil war upon Khomeini's death could be prevented only by the ayatollah's living long enough for the clergy sufficiently to consolidate its power. But even that would only postpone what is being called the inevitable.

With Iranian society so fragmented and with so many rival groups so heavily armed, the only question in the minds of the analysts is whether the civil war will come sooner or later.

The crystal ball

by ART BUCHWALD

Gleam, the neighborhood soothsayer, was sitting in front of his crystal ball when I was ushered into his dark room.

"What do you see?" I asked him.

"Fifty dollars," he said.

"You see $50 in the ball?"

"No, that is what it will cost you before I tell you what 1981 holds in store for us."

"But last year you only charged me $25."

"That was before I saw a double-digit inflation figure in my ball."

I handed him $50, and waited.

"I see Dunkirk," he said.

"Dunkirk? That was in World War II?"

"I see an economic Dunkirk. I see economists fighting to get into lifeboats and retreat from their forecasts of 1980."

"Do you see a tax cut?"

"I see a tax cut."

"That's good."

"I also see a rise in Social Security, real estate assessments and gasoline prices. Now I don't see the tax cut anymore."

"What do you see now?"

"I see Lee Iacocca."

"What is he doing?"

"A TV commercial for American Express cards."

"That's bad."

"I see Richard Nixon dancing at the White House."

"Who is he dancing with?"

"Mrs. Spiro Agnew."

"I was afraid of that. What else do you see?"

"I see President Reagan."

"Who is he dancing with?"

"He isn't dancing. He's on a horse, taking a ride through the Rose Garden."

"Where is the First Lady?"

"She's upstairs, sewing drapes for the bedroom."

"That isn't worth $50."

"Wait, there is a lot more. I see a network sit-com which takes place in a bordello, but it will be done with taste and good humor."

"You don't need a crystal ball for that one."

"Now I see the bordello show being canceled and replaced by a divorced father trying to raise a son in a nudist colony."

"It sounds like it's going to be a very dull year."

"I am now in a supermarket. A lady is trading her diamond wedding ring for a piece of roast beef. A man is exchanging his new car for a pound of butter. The manager is refusing to take a woman's sofa for a box of Jello."

"Good heavens, Gleam, don't you see anything upbeat in the ball?"

"I see a banker announcing that he is reducing the prime rate to six percent."

"That's good. What else?"

"I see two men in white coats putting him into an ambulance and taking him away."

"Is that it?"

"That's it for $50. If you want to give me another $50, I'll tell you what your new nine-digit postal ZIP code number will be."

Castro's sober new year

By Don Graff

What took 12 hours to get started, two hours to wind up and four days in between to discuss how tough things are?

Cuba's Communist Party Congress, which has closed out the year in Havana on a distinctly somber note and which Fidel Castro opened and closed with typically torrential addresses that said possibly more than he intended.

The emphasis was on the home front and economic plans designed to effect a noticeable improvement in living standards during the coming five years. Cubans are being promised not only more plentiful supplies of essential food and clothing but such luxuries as telephones, televisions and autos.

To achieve the production necessary to deliver on the promised supplies, factories will introduce incentive systems, increasing basic pay rates for better, faster work.

On the other hand, one element of the population already enjoying incentives may find the new economic order less enjoyable. In a left-handed acknowledgement that profiteering is jacking up food prices, taxes may be imposed on peasants who have been permitted to set their own prices in an effort to increase agricultural output.

What the plans for the future point up is a substantial economic performance in the present. Some of the problems are beyond human, even Castro's, power to control. Bad weather and blight have sharply cut sugar and tobacco production, Cuba's agricultural mainstays now as before the revolution.

But Castro himself, a frequent critic of inefficiency in economic management, acknowledges there is more to it. His promises do not include an end to rationing, although he is considering expanding a government-controlled free market where some items are obtainable without coupons but at steep mark-ups over rationed prices.

Twenty-two years after the revolution, Cuba is still not viable economically. It is the recipient of the world's largest long-run foreign aid program, a transfusion that has now reached the equivalent of $7 million every day from the Soviet Union.

Both the best and worst news of the year just ending may be the conclusion of a new aid agreement. Cuba can count on another $35 billion from the Soviets, but has had to commit itself to remaining on the take for another five years — precisely the period of the brave new economic plan.

There are also political problems. Castro's prestige in the Third World, which he sought to maximize with the hosting of the 1979 non-aligned nations' conference, has been having more downs than ups of late. In two tries, Cuba has failed to win election to a United Nations Security Council seat. And recent government changes in his own Caribbean neighborhood, where his influence has been considerable and of considerable concern to Washington, have not gone his way. Jamaica, most recently and notably.

Nevertheless, he appears to be secure in the continuing esteem of his own countrymen. Although he may glimpse the potential for some change for the worse even there. In his remarks to the Congress on Poland, he ascribed that country's problems to the party having set itself apart from the masses. The Havana congress not only doubled the size of the Cuban Central Committee, but drew heavily upon workers for the new members.

No Castro performance would be complete without an assault upon the United States. This time it was the standard warning against threatening Cuba militarily, but coupled with an offer to discuss the emigration problem. Considering Castro's attitude toward discussion when the most recent refugee crisis exploded at the Venezuelan embassy and U.S. mission in Havana, that offer would be certain to be subject to very careful examination even if the Carter administration were not being succeeded by one of a considerably more hard-nosed variety.

The meaning of the change is not lost on Castro, who says he is adopting a wait-and-see attitude toward the Reagan team. He can be sure they will be doing some of that in Washington, too.

Extensive redistricting study scheduled

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas congressional and state legislative districts will be revised after the most extensive study ever given redistricting, a House committee said Friday.

Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Victoria, chairman of the House redistricting committee, said 17 public hearings have been held throughout the state. In addition the committee recommended a new citizen advisory committee to make recommendations to the 67th Legislature before it reshuffles the boundaries of districts for Texas congressmen and state senators and representatives according to the 1980 census.

The recommendation for a citizen advisory committee was included in a final report given preliminary approval by Von Dohlen, chairman of the House redistricting committee, and four other members. The six other members of the committee will vote by mail.

The advisory committee would be appointed by the House speaker and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Another recommendation calls for the new lineup of 27 congressional districts to be within one-half percent of the ideal population average of 526,977 persons for each district.

The report says the redistricting of seats for the 150 state representatives should be within 4.5 percent of the ideal average of 94,856 persons per district.

The Texas Senate will draw up its own bill for the 31 Senate seats.

Figures presented in the final report of the House redistricting committee show that 18 of the present 24 congressional districts are over the ideal district size according to the 1980 census. Six districts were under.

Among Texas' 13 top metropolitan counties, six of them were over the ideal size, including Bexar, Cameron, Dallas, Harris, Lubbock, and Travis. Jefferson, McLennan and Nueces were under the ideal district size. El Paso, Galveston, Hidalgo, and Tarrant districts are about the right size.

Among non-metropolitan counties, there were 37 less than the ideal size and 21 that were over. Variations ranged from Dist. 21 in Fort Bend and Brazoria counties with 74.8 percent over the ideal size and Dist. 67 in Collin and Rockwall counties with 67.7 percent over to Dist. 66 in the lower Panhandle with 24.5 percent too few.

Bus getaway nets bandit jail trip

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police took no chances Friday in their efforts to catch a bank robber, stopping city bus, making all 30 passengers get out and lie spread-eagled on the ground.

And when they found that three male passengers matched the description of the bandit, all three were whisked off to jail.

The robbery took place Friday afternoon at a downtown savings and loan association that is within sight of the central police station.

A man with a gun entered First United Savings about 3:15 p.m., demanded money, scooped up some cash and ran outside, witnesses said. An employee followed and said he saw the gunman clamber onto a city bus to make his getaway.

Supervisors for Citran provided route information and a squad of officers, driving unmarked cars, sped off in hot pursuit, said police Sgt. Peck Wilson.

Fifteen minutes after the robbery, officer W.C. McCowan forced the bus to stop and several other officers approached, guns drawn, Wilson said.

"Everybody was told to get off the bus and to lie down on the ground," said Wilson. "We could have ended up with a hostage situation. We just wanted to get the people out to safety as fast as we could."

After arresting the three look-alikes, police let the other passengers get back on board and continue their journeys.

"The police handled it just great," said Citran manager John Bartosiewicz.

Singles church formed

HOUSTON (AP) — There is a new church opening in Houston soon, but if you are married you may feel somewhat out of place.

The Good News Singles Church is geared for those who walk alone.

The pastor, Wayne Tomblinson, says the married folks won't be barred, but the teachings are aimed at the singles.

Most singles attend churches, he said, "where most members are married, the pastor is married and all the deacons are married. Really what they'd like the singles to do is get married, so they could deal with them."

Tomblinson attended no seminary nor any Bible college. His new church is non-denominational.

Tomblinson, who says he will drive a taxi to support himself while the church grows, stated, "many singles are unhappy because they believe they must eventually be married to be complete and fulfilled. This is a form of idolatry. It is not uncommon for people to meet in church feel it must be love because we met in church." The singles church will conduct services on Friday and Saturday, leaving Sunday free in case any members want to attend another church.

Galveston boos youths' plans for 'splash day'

GALVESTON, Texas (AP)—Galveston civic leaders would be just as happy if college students found some other beach to celebrate the spring break, an outing that has brought trouble in the past to Florida resorts.

Galveston, an island that usually is crowded on weekends with visitors from nearby Houston, isn't really interested in what money the young tourists may bring in. The city leaders are happy with the way things stand now.

The Florida Youth Alliance recently mailed letters to university organizations, fraternities and sororities across the nation urging students to spend the spring break at Galveston "as a means of protesting the action of the Florida Legislature in raising the legal age for drinking booze from 18 to 21."

Steve Kingsley, the alliance public relations director, said the Florida law dealt a big blow to one of the state's major industries—tourism. "I'm sure that many of the cities whose residents scream about the trouble caused by young visitors each year would scream even more loudly if they lost the money that those youthful tourists bring in," he wrote.

In the letter, the alliance pointed out that Galveston had excellent beaches, availability of entertainment at a variety of bars and clubs and the legal drinking age in Texas is 18.

City Councilman Rudy Teichman said, "they are not going to come down here and hold drunken parties just to protest something they can't do in Florida."

Councilman John Carter said, "It doesn't sound like what we want. In fact, it sounds as though we could get a bunch of 18-year-old drunks."

Kingsley said student tourists spent $66 million each year at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the traditional college spring break capital.

Galveston at one time sponsored a "Splash Day", a celebration popular in the 1950s.

The ritual was ended in 1962 after scores of students were arrested.

Texans make finals for 'Love Boat' spots

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two young Texans—among five finalists selected at random from some 7 million people—have won a contest for guest star roles on a future episode of ABC-TV's "The Love Boat."

Linda Harvey, a 17-year-old high school junior, and Paul Turnbull, a 26-year-old postal employee, were declared the contest winners after the five finalists took screen tests.

"It's great," said Miss Harvey, who lives in Burleson south of Fort Worth. She added that the show was one of her favorites.

Turnbull's mother, Adela Turnbull, of Beatrice, Neb., actually won the $50,000 grand prize offered in the "Stairway to Stardom" contest, sponsored by the Montgomery Ward Auto Club. But Mrs. Turnbull gave the screen test opportunity to her son, an aspiring actor and a Dallas resident.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Mathis was joined by 500 friends for a celebration of his 25th anniversary in show business.

"I knew I had a lot of friends, but I didn't know I had this many," Mathis said at the party at the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Cutback in junior high sports delayed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—The State Board of Education agreed Saturday to wait 60 days to discuss a committee report that recommends cutting back on junior high school sports and giving six citizen members important roles in University Interscholastic League decisions.

"We've all got to be on the same team," said board member Bryan Crouch of Poteet in asking for the delay so the Texas Association of School Administrators—in effect the UIL—could review the report.

The Committee for Special Schools and Athletics said junior high athletic programs are taking students out of the classroom and sports practice and travel should be reduced.

It recommended schools emphasize gym classes and intramural sports rather than competition between schools in Grades 7 and 8.

"No athletic endeavor... should be scheduled in a manner that would result in a student's loss of instructional time during the regular school day," the committee said.

UIL Athletic Director Bill Farney says local school districts already have the authority to de-emphasize junior high sports.

The committee's recommendation to expand the UIL State Executive Committee from nine members to 13 presumably would drop Farney and UIL Director Bailey Marshall as voting members and add six citizens "who are knowledgeable in public school extra-curricular programs." The committee membership would continue to include seven University of Texas professors.

Marshall said Saturday he thinks 13 members are too many. Other recommendations by the Board of Education committee include:

—Rewriting the UIL's constitution and contest rules in "clear, concise, and sufficiently explicit" language to avoid conflicting rulings by the 169 district committees.

—Revising UIL rules to make it easier to get a proposal on the organization's statewide ballot.

—Establishing a group of educators in each region to review and rule on written appeals from rulings by district committees. Such appeals now go directly to the state executive committee.

—Revising UIL policies "to ensure that students are not needlessly penalized for the inappropriate behavior or activities of responsible school district employees."

The committee said its research had shown that the majority of sanctions imposed on schools for rules violations "actually penalize the students" where "in most instances, the students neither perpetrated nor are they responsible for the rule infraction."

With the 60-day delay, it appears the Board of Education would consider the report at its March 14 hearing.

Prostitute case hinges on missing women

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)—Prosecutors say their case against a woman who allegedly operated a controversial brothel hinges on the testimony of four alleged prostitutes, all of whom are being sought for the trial scheduled to start Monday.

"Their testimony would be necessary for us to have a case," said assistant district attorney Charles Conaway.

Theresa Brown, 46, is charged with the third-degree felony of aggravated promotion of prostitution.

Fugitive warrants were issued for Brenda Anna Moore, 23, and Susan Karen Emmons, 24, both of Houston, when they did not appear in court as ordered on Oct. 27.

They were arrested along with Ms. Brown in an Oct. 2 raid in which vice squad officers confiscated an alleged "trick book" containing the names of the brothel's clients.

Accusations by city councilman Bernardo Euseste that the book contained names of well-known businessmen and politicians, and that police had protected the alleged brothel, touched off a heated debate in city council.

Police Chief Robert Heuck headed an investigation that cleared his department of any improprieties in the case.

Also subpoenaed for the trial were Sandra Williams and Lynette York, both of Fort Worth, who were arrested on prostitution charges at a motel here in November 1979. Ms. Brown was charged then with aggravated prostitution for allegedly sending the two women to the motel, but Conaway said they also failed to appear in court and charges against Ms. Brown had to be dismissed.

"This is what happened last time," he said. "The witnesses disappeared and the case was dismissed."

Attorney Rick Woods, representing Ms. Brown, said the case may not go to trial Monday as scheduled because the district attorney's office has not provided the defense required information.

"We are in the middle of a motion for discovery. We want to see everything the district attorney has, including the book," said Woods. "If the district attorney does not allow us to inspect or view this book, we will ask for a court decision and may delay the trial."

"We don't know what this book is supposed to be—it may be a grocery list for all I know."

CROP - SHARE LEASE MEETING:

Farmers continue to face difficult times in trying to keep their operations on a profitable basis - especially irrigated farmers. Several farmers have expressed grave concern about "standard" crop leases because they may not promote the most equitable arrangements under current farm conditions.

On Wednesday, January 14th, at 1:30 p.m. in Pampa at the Courthouse Annex Meeting Room, a meeting to discuss farm leases will be held. Dr. Ray Sammons, Area Extension Economist will lead the discussion. Both landlords and tenants are encouraged to attend this session so both parties will understand the economic principles involved.

A good lease should be fair to both parties involved and the standard leases are deeply rooted in tradition.

Farm rental agreements can be written many ways, but a fair and equitable lease is somewhat difficult to define. However, at least two conditions must be met to achieve an equitable sharing arrangement: 1) assets must receive returns equal to their economic productivity; and 2) variable inputs which directly determine yield level must be shared in the proportion as the crop. These principles are basic to equitable share leases.

IRRIGATION CONFERENCE:

Cotton group schedules meet

The directors of the Greenbelt Cotton Producers Inc. announce that the annual meeting of the organization will be held on Jan. 10. The meeting will convene at 2 p.m. at the USDA Cotton Classing Office in Memphis, Texas.

The election of officers and directors and a resume of the past year's business will be among the important items on the agenda.

The Greenbelt Cotton Producers was formed in 1959 for the purpose of establishing a cotton classing office in Memphis. This office serves cotton farmers in Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Childress, Collingsworth, Cottle, Donley, Gray, Hall, Hansford, Hemphill, Hutchinson, King, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Motley, Roberts and Wheeler counties. Officers currently serving are: J.J. McDaniel, president; Roger Brunson, Quitaque, vice-president; A.J. Garland, Clarendon, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Johnny Farnsworth, Memphis, executive secretary. Directors are: J.R. Hefley, Twitty; Bert Degan, Flomot; W.R. Breeding, Samnorwood; Leonard King, Childress; Hubert Rhodes, Clarendon; Forest Creamer, Paducah; Roy B. Keith, Paducah; Douglas Coleman, Shamrock and Farris Hess, McLean.

Changes in irrigation practices to combat rising fuel costs and make best use of available water will be related by a panel of growers during the annual High Plains Irrigation Conference, Tuesday, Jan. 13th in Amarillo.

The day-long conference will begin at 9:30 p.m. at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at 6500 Amarillo Blvd. - West.

Maximizing pump and sprinkler efficiency and proper application of water will be vital in reducing production costs this year, and the irrigation conference will focus upon these areas.

In addition to the tips from the panel of growers, other speakers will discuss the amount of water needed for adequate irrigation, full and limited row irrigation potentials and the feasibility of replacing row irrigation with center pivot sprinklers.

Also, how pump and engine performance affect fuel costs, ways to obtain maximum pump performance, engine maintenance and tuning by growers and equipment limitations.

FARMERS' TAX DEADLINES APPROACHING:

While most taxpayers have until April 15th to file their 1980 income tax returns, farmers and ranchers face a much earlier filing date.

Agricultural producers who do not file an estimate of their income by Jan. 16th and do not pay taxes must file their tax returns and pay due taxes by March 2nd. However, if farmers file an estimate, they have until the April 15th deadline to file final returns. Texas farmers and ranchers should note the following considerations as they prepare their 1980 income tax returns.

Filing requirements for 1980 are the same as in 1979. For example, an individual must file a return if his gross income is $3,000 or more, and a married couple under 65 years of age must file if their joint gross income is more than $5,400. If both are 65 or older, they may take $7,400 before a return is required.

In contrast to the 1979 optional standard mileage rate of 18-1/2 cents, rate per mile for 1980 is 20 cents for the first 15,000 miles of business travel in your automobile. The rate has increased to 11 cents from 10 cents for business travel of more than 15,000 miles or when one's automobile is fully depreciated. The standard mileage rate of 9 cents per mile is permitted as a deduction for charitable, medical or moving expense purposes.

A taxpayer should determine his actual transportation expenses (according to IRS guidelines) before deciding whether to use the standard mileage rate or to use his actual transportation expenses.

New installment sales rules recently passed by Congress significantly change the rules for reporting gain from sales of real property and personal property. The changes which become effective for 1980 include:

-Repeal of the requirement that no more than 30 percent of the selling price be received in the tax year of sale to qualify for installment reporting.

-Two or more payments are no longer required.

-Installment sales tax treatment is automatic unless rejected by the taxpayer.

-The selling price for sales of personal property no longer have to exceed $1,000.

-The rules are tightened on installment sales between certain related parties - whether through kinship or through business organization structure.

One report has stated that the new Installment Sales Revision Act of 1980 would "simplify the installment sales tax rules."

Other changes concern business energy investment credit and alcohol fuel credit as well as numerous Revenue Rulings, Revenue Procedures, Tax Cases and minor law changes.

MR. AND MRS. MARVIN COOPER

Cooper couple honored

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cooper were honored recently with a 50th wedding anniversary reception at the Pampa Country Club. Hosting were the couple's sons, David Cooper of Amarillo, Earl Cooper of Spokane, Wash. and Mert Cooper of Canadian. Relatives and friends from New Mexico, Washington, New Jersey and Texas attended. The Country Club was decorated for the event. A three-tiered cake accented by a nosegay of yellow roses dominated the serving table. The celebration featured a collage of photographs of the couple and a slide show of family events. Eddie Martin of Spearman provided background music on the piano and organ.

MR. AND MRS. HARVEY BATES

Mr. and Mrs. Bates to celebrate 50th wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bates will be honored Jan. 18 with a 50th wedding anniversary reception. The event will be from 2-4:30 p.m. in the parlor of the First Baptist Church of White Deer. Bates and the former Alta Ruth Gilbert were married Jan. 14, 1931 in Millsap. The couple moved from Sunray to White Deer in 1949. Bates was employed as a field station operator by Northern Natural Gas Co. for 38 years. Mrs. Bates was employed as a star route mail carrier for 22 years. The couple is now retired. Mr. and Mrs. Bates are members of the First Baptist Church of White Deer, where Bates is a church deacon and Mrs. Bates is a church hostess. The couple enjoys gardening, deer hunting and reflexology. Mr. and Mrs. Bates have two children, Mrs. William Dupree and Mrs. James Mitchusson, both of Amarillo, and three grandchildren. Friends and family are invited to attend the reception.

Honeyspun ice cream pie

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Those who have cranked the home-made ice cream machine know what a yummy reward is dished out after many hours of work. Sometimes we still have time to do such a honeyspun chore.

A honeyspun ice cream pie is very easy to put together in advance of a party or a week-end family gathering.

- HONEYSPUN ICE CREAM PIE
- Crust:
- 1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
 - 1/3 cup wheat germ or unprocessed bran
 - 1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 - 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- Filling:
- 1/4 cup honey
 - 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1/8 teaspoon cloves
 - 1/2 gallon vanilla ice cream, softened

For crust, combine all ingredients in bowl. Mix well. Press onto bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven about 10 minutes or until golden brown. Cool; chill. For filling, add combined honey and spices to ice cream. Mix well. Spoon into crust; freeze until firm. This kitchen-tested recipe makes one 9-inch pie.

Trend to inner-city living increasing

CINCINNATI (AP) — Young couples today are looking to yesterday to fill their housing needs.

Their targets are the Victorian and early 20th-century houses of architectural value that have become low-rental properties in inner-city districts.

"The European trend back to the inner-city living began in the '70s, and is now, and will continue to be, an important growth area in our cities all through the '80s," says Jim Rankin of Scovill's Housing Products Group.

"These are often young people who are looking for spacious older homes at a relatively low cost," he said. "They see the revitalization going on in inner-city areas, and they too want to take advantage of living conveniently close to their jobs and entertainment. They can afford to buy an outdated home and take their time in remodeling to suit their own lifestyles."

Rankin noted the trend, he said, by tracing sales of built-in appliances, such as radio intercoms, bath cabinets, electric heating products and security systems, to downtown areas that are being revitalized.

PEEKING at PAMPA

Such "splendidous" parties were held all over Pampa on New Year's Eve! So many people were partying that it seemed as if half the town was celebrating, either at big, showy functions or at small family gatherings. Guess everybody in town had happy hopes for 1981 and wanted to start the New Year with a bang.

In addition to the small dances, there were three overflowing ones. Many people called for late reservations and were unable to get seats. I had my reservation two months ahead of the rush.

Jay Purdue and Company played for one big party, and the crowd was large. Jay and wife, Vicki (plus Dr. Charles Ashby), hoped that the Purdues would arrive as two and go home as three. But that didn't happen because the New Year's baby did not arrive. However, my informant left the party early. Suppose there could have been a blessed event later?

A second big dance was held for 160 people (300 asked for reservations but could not be accommodated), and everybody was in a holiday mood. Comstock furnished the music, and breakfast was served after the blowing of horns and the release of dozens of balloons at midnight.

There was a third fine dance at the Shrine Club. Heard from Raymond and Mildred McPherson that the Shriners really put on a big party with breakfast following the dance. Don't know who furnished the music but assume that it was Art Orth since he mostly plays for the Shriners in Pampa.

Everybody present at the holiday dances was reported to be attired in proper dress, the ladies in beautiful pants suits or formal gowns, the gentlemen in suits or tuxes. Don't believe we could stand dressing up and celebrating if New Year's Eve came more often than once a year.

Was good to see Hansford Quisley and wife, formerly of Pampa, at one of the parties. Both looked great and were greeted by old friends who crowded to shake their hands.

Vernon Bell and wife looked happy and put out true friendliness.

Kenny Cambern and wife were present. She wore a beautiful white dress and he looked so happy with life. His mother, Joyce, says he is a good-natured man.

Personable Floy Heath was at one of the parties. Good to see her. Noticed Lora Barber sitting with E.S.F. ("Bud") and Sally Brainard. Just learned that Lora is their cousin.

Was glad to see Betty and O.B. Worley on hand with their old friends, Betty and Dave Finkelstein, all looking festive and happy.

Bob and Allie Curry looked tall and splendid, as they always do. They often wear black and white and are a striking couple. Always looking exactly the same, completely "up to snuff." Glad to learn that their granddaughter, the John Curry's baby, is now doing well.

So many people in Pampa are friendly that it's a pleasure to live here. John Best and wife always look so satisfied in each other's company.

Art and Ruth Ann Holland seem so young in attitude and charm, always visiting happily with each other and with friends. Special people! Remember her mother, Perlie (or is it Pearl?) Mitchell? If ever a delightful bubbling, lovable little lady ever lived, Perlie was she. Seems to me I heard that Perlie used to love flowers and always kept her yard alive with beautiful blossoms and vines.

Norma and Norman Fulps seem as compatible as their names. Norma has the most intriguing smile. You can't help smiling back at her.

Good to see Rex McAnelly out after his hospital illness. Wife, Ann, takes good care of him, I'm sure.

Jake and Ruth Osborn are a happy looking couple. Jake is pleasant to meet and visit with. And Ruth is so full of pep, so well-dressed, so glad to see friends.

Good to have had young people home from college for the holidays. Marvin Daugherty spent the vacation with his folks, Pauline and Leon. Lynn Esson went skiing and then came visiting her folks, Lillian and Ralph. Many others did likewise.

The Bill Hallerbergs are a lovely couple and do so much for the community and their church. She is so bouncy, so pretty, so glad to see everybody she meets. Bill has a reputation for being smart as well as well-able to communicate a definite message to audiences.

Shakespeare exhibit set at Lovett Library

"Shakespeare," a unique photographic exhibition celebrating the life and world of William Shakespeare, will be on display in Pampa March 21 through April 3 at Lovett Memorial Library.

Developed by the Texas Humanities Resource Center, "Shakespeare" is based on the Folger Library multi-media exhibition, "Shakespeare, the Globe, and the World," which is making a six-city tour of the United States.

The Shakespeare exhibit is the first of five traveling photographic presentations to be brought to Pampa throughout 1981 and 1982 by the Friends of the Pampa Library and the Pampa Fine Arts Association.

"The Great Bronze Age of China" is scheduled for display in October and the "The Gold of Eldorado" is scheduled for March and April, 1982. The two remaining exhibits, "Crossroads of Empire" and "Cubism in Context" will be scheduled later this year.

"Shakespeare" consists of 10 panels of photographs illustrating major aspects of the Renaissance world and Shakespeare's world of the theatre, accompanied by a video-cassette presentation. The Fine Arts and Friends groups are planning an Elizabethan festival in conjunction with the exhibit.

"Lovett Library is pleased to be able to offer the people of Pampa an opportunity to view the highlights of these five great national and international exhibitions which are currently touring the major museums in the South," Luther Robinson, library board president, said.

There will be no admission charge for the exhibits and all special programs connected with them will be open to the public.

Palmer book is well-developed

A TIME TO EMBRACE. By Lilli Palmer. Macmillan 342 Pages $12.95.

Sophie Reinhold lies dying in a hospital bed. She is given an injection of morphine to ease the pain. Sophie is addicted to morphine, and the injection sends her into glittering bliss. In this state, she decides to "write" a book about her life.

The title of Sophie's "book" is "A Time to Embrace," which is also the title of the novel, written by actress Lilli Palmer. The story is set from the beginning of the 20th century through the rise of Hitler and World War II.

It begins when Sophie's father, a German merchant named Johannes Berglund, journeys to Constantinople. There, he arranges the purchase of 16-year-old Amina, one of nine daughters of a Persian rug merchant. Amina and Berglund marry. They live happily in Berlin until Amina's death during childbirth.

In view of Amina's sudden demise, her father offers Berglund another daughter, Yasmin, at no extra cost. Berglund accepts, but the marriage is an unhappy one, and Yasmin returns to Constantinople shortly after the birth of their daughter, Sophie.

Berglund remarries, and Sophie is raised by Anita, her step-mother, whom she adores. But Anita suffers a nervous breakdown, and Sophie is sent away to school in London. These events have a marked effect on Sophie's life, which does not improve with time.

Lilli Palmer has skillfully created Sophie as a passive character who chooses to let events, rather than her own actions, determine the course of her life. Her morphine addiction destroys two of her marriages. She marries again but this marriage, too, is broken when she helps her mother commit suicide. Yet, despite all this, there is still something about Sophie that makes people love her.

"A Time to Embrace" is a well-developed, thoroughly interesting novel with vivid characters and settings.

No-frills death his happy end to life

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think I'm off my rocker, but when I die I don't want any kind of wake, funeral or burial service. I've already told this to my wife, but she doesn't take me seriously. I have grown children, grandchildren and relatives all over the U.S. and Canada, and I don't want people traveling thousands of miles just to bury me.

After I'm gone, I want my skin donated to the nearest burn center, my eyes, kidneys and all other usable organs donated to those who can use them, and the rest of me sent to a medical college for research or whatever bodies are used for.

I'm not a religious person and I don't want any kind of service, eulogy or prayers. The minute I'm pronounced dead, I want my body moved out and disposed of in the above-mentioned manner.

Abby, how can I make sure that my wishes will be carried out? It doesn't seem fair that a person has no say over what happens to his body after he's dead.

If you, or any of your readers have a solution to my problem, let me know, and I'll die happy.

NO FRILLS

DEAR NO FRILLS: I agree, it doesn't seem fair that one should have no say about what happens to his body after life departs from it, but traditionally that has been the prerogative of one's nearest of kin. Perhaps a lawyer can help assure you that your wishes will be carried out as soon as you are. (P.S. Even though you may not want any kind of service or prayers, consider your survivors. It may be a comfort to them.)

DEAR ABBY: Our 21-year-old grandson, who has always been the apple of our eye, has just announced that he is the "proud" father of a baby boy born to his 20-year-old girlfriend. They are living together, he has a good job, but no mention has been made of any forthcoming marriage. They just say they are "engaged."

My wife and I have decided that until they get married we are not giving them a wedding present. We gave our granddaughter a generous cash wedding gift after her wedding, and we are prepared to do the same for this grandson, but not until — regardless of how many illegitimate children he has!

Also, do you think a baby gift is in order for an illegitimate child?

UNCERTAIN IN MINNESOTA

DEAR UNCERTAIN: Wedding gifts are for couples who are wedded — not merely bedded. But do send a gift for the baby. And please don't label him "illegitimate." There are no illegitimate children — only illegitimate parents.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is getting married. We know very little about the girl's family, although we have met her parents, and they seem very nice. I am quite sure we are "better off" financially than they are, and knowing how expensive weddings are, we want to help with the cost.

Is there some way we can offer to share half the expense of the wedding without offending them? Or do you think such an offer would be tacky?

NO NAMES, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAMES: Tacky? Not if you're tactful. Your concern about the cost of the wedding shows rare generosity and consideration. Don't pussyfoot — come right out and tell them you'd like to share the expense of the wedding. And unless they're from outer space, your offer will give them inner joy.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Daring to be different at Fendi furs

ROME (NEA) — A visit to Fendi begins in awe, but soon dissolves into warm laughter. Fendi is, after all, the temple of fur design today, the undisputed leader in techniques and styling. But Fendi is also five sisters who run their Rome-based business with the chatty informality of a sorority house.

The huge Fendi salon, entirely walled in that dark glass from the modernist school of decorating, seems to multiply the model as she comes out in a series of the newest Fendi furs for a group of American fashion journalists. This season, the techniques include cloud-like quilting on opossum, sculptured patterns on beaver (sometimes using as many as seven kinds of quilting), braided mink, striped sable and mink worked on the bias in two directions.

All this technique is at the service of styling that dares everything. Fendi likes Renaissance touches, such as balloon sleeves slit to allow taffeta to spill out from below. One of their most handsome mink coats is worked like the smocks worn by some Renaissance court officials — all darts around the high, collarless neck, controlled flare starting from the waist level, and melon-shaped sleeves. For a separate collar, Fendi provides a fluted, full-length mink boa that can be used as a fling or become a capelet collar when worn with the ends down the back.

Yet, Fendi doesn't confine itself to such super-luxe designs. Their three-quarter lynx coat is so bubble-shaped, sleeves and all, that it looks light enough to float away. The Fendi attention to detail is seen in their use of the white part of the lynx for a high, face-flattering collar.

Other bubble-shaped short coats are trimmed in fan-like ruffles of pleated taffeta. To get textured effects, Fendi mixes furs in coats, with mink mixed with opossum, mole, beaver — even bear.

Another aspect of the Fendi daring comes with their use of color. For years other designers have tried to bring color to fur designing, but it took Fendi to put it across. Their range this season includes rich yellow, royal midnight blue, deep sea green and demure pearl gray. The gray looks especially pretty in a fit-and-flare coat of mink worked in two bias directions with a big collar of ruffled lynx.

The Fendis have recently enlisted the talent of Karl Lagerfeld, one of Paris' most innovative designers; his thinking follows their desire for the daring. He's done it in a snappy green wool loden coat, topped with a green fox jacket, and a short cardigan coat in reversible tobacco and caramel Persian lamb that's quilted all over in puffs, with a hood rimmed in puff-quilted taffeta.

HOMEMAKER'S NEWS

CONVECTION OVEN DEMONSTRATION:

There will be a special educational program on "Cooking With Convection Ovens" on Monday, January 12th from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center (6500 Amarillo Blvd. - West, Amarillo). The public is invited to this free demonstration presented by home economists from Southwestern Public Service.

HOMEMAKER CLUB LEADER TRAINING PROGRAM:

A leader training meeting will be held on Thursday, January 15th at 10 a.m. in the Annex Meeting Room to present program material on Genealogy. Homemaker club leaders who plan to have a program on writing a family history should plan to send program leaders. Anyone interested in the information is welcome to attend. Club leaders will use the material to present programs to homemaker clubs in January.

LUNCH AND LEARN:

Bring a sack lunch and learn about cooking in a crock pot. A special program on Crockery Cooking will be presented on Friday, January 16th from 12:15 p.m. to 12:45 p.m. in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room. Everyone is invited - especially working women. The program will feature the advantages of slow cooking, recipes for the slow cooker, adapting recipes and characteristics of various slow cookers. Recipe booklets will be available for those attending.

Those attending should bring a sack lunch - drinks and dessert will be provided. For further information, contact the County Extension Office. This program is sponsored by the Gray County Living Committee.

Winter is the time to make plans for gardening

MEDFORD, Ore. — Winter is often a frustrating time for home gardeners. Once the yard has been prepared for the winter season, it seems there's nothing to do but wait for spring. However, according to Bill Fike, horticulturist at the headquarters of the Jackson & Perkins Co., "Winter is the time for the most important of all gardening activities, planning."

"Whether starting with barren ground, recovering from a drought or improving an existing garden," said Fike, "take advantage of the time available during winter to do some planning. Careful preparation now can not only help make the yard a pleasant, functional, personal environment, but it can also make spring chores easier and more rewarding."

Good planning can also make a garden more useful, Fike said. "A balanced arrangement will provide longer, more continual bloom, aid conservation of energy, increase the value of the home and save countless hours of maintenance."

Fike contends it is not difficult to become a do-it-yourself landscape artist. "There are only six main considerations: soil, drainage, sun, wind, spacing and function and the last two are interrelated."

"For most people, the last two considerations are the first to be dealt with — what goes where," Fike cautions against making any commitments before considering the other factors. But he acknowledges that the function and spacing of plants is often the primary concern for home gardeners. Everything else, except for the sun and wind, is changeable.

"People usually have some idea of how they want their garden to look, and there are many books available to provide ideas." Fike includes a suggested list of books at the end of this article.

"Coordinating ideas with technical considerations," he said, "will determine whether the garden succeeds."

"As an example, walkways can be an invitation to stroll or they can direct traffic. The function of the walkway will determine what to plant, and the type of plant will determine the spacing; the two things must be balanced to achieve the desired effect." If, for example, the homeowner wants a shaded path, he must first choose the right trees, then plant them with sufficient spacing so that he won't have to do expensive thinning in five to 10 years.

Trees and hedges can serve as windbreaks, screen unsightly views or add privacy. Shrubs and flower beds can add color, terracing, contrasts, borders. All of these are considerations of function and spacing.

"But balance is really the key word," Fike said. A tree that shades a flower bed may create more problems than it solves. Colors, of course, should be coordinated, as should bloomtime.

"Taller plants should be placed to the rear, or to the center or circular beds," said Fike. "And remember the tree roots — they may extend into your flower beds, making work difficult."

Fike recommends that a sketch be made of the yard to begin pulling all the ideas together. Next, it's time to sit down with a good catalog.

"Catalogs provide a lot more than just pretty pictures. For instance, our seedbook includes information on soil types, heights, blooming periods, planting depths and more."

He suggests that the home

ABILITY TO FACE "CHANGE" — KEY TO FAMILIES FACING THE FUTURE:

Family life of the future will be satisfying according to each family's ability to face change - and deal with it effectively.

With all the talk of "what the family will be like in the future," it's wise to first consider what human life will be like. Experts have many ideas about what the future holds, but one thing is certain: humans - families - will constantly come face - to - face with change. Then can we predict some of those changes? And can we prepare to face them? "Yes" is the answer to both questions.

Experts predict that the human element will adjust to many new orientations - or to changes - in life of the future. Here are some changes people probably will face:

The notion of equality among men and women, nations and age levels will grow - with special emphasis on the rights of children. Time orientation will move from present to future - in other words, we'll concentrate more on planning for the future, and we will not place so much emphasis on the present as we do today.

Sources of knowledge will become less science - based and more accepting and open to non - scientific sources, such as mysticism, and extrasensory perception (ESP).

The morality of power among nations, government and people will surface.

The struggle about roles versus individuality will continue, but roles will become less rigidly defined.

There will be less emphasis on sex.

Personal growth will continue as a valued factor in human life, but the need for greater cooperation will surface as all peoples need to pull together for change.

People will have pocket phones, computer - diagnosed car problems and no - fuss shopping.

Throughout history, peoples of the world have continuously been faced with the pressures that changes created - in both the biological and the environmental aspects of life. When people faced change successfully in the past, they were able to do it because of three major elements: Flexible thinking, reasoning, and innovation.

The more difficult the world situation seems, the more a person feels in needs of a few other people with whom he can work and love. Intimates who compose a family can meet each other's needs, especially emotionally, and they can help each other adapt to change.

Families can take a lesson from history - and follow suit. That is, they can use flexible thinking, reasoning and innovation to face change in the future. Although the world may seem destined for computerization, individuals and families will still depend on humanized services and human relationships to provide them with the security they need as they go through the future seeking and adapting to change.

Steps that will make change easier for individuals to accept are:

- 1) Make a commitment to realistic, acceptable changes.
- 2) Open your lines of communication and talk openly about uncomfortable or satisfying changes at home, at work, and in social groups.
- 3) Mobilize for people power rather than government power.
- 4) Study predictions for the next decades to be aware of what to expect.

DINNER FOR FOUR

Piquant Ribs Rice
Green Peas Salad Bowl
Coconut Cake Beverage

PIQUANT RIBS

Inspired by a Chinese cook's recipe.
2½ pound rack fresh pork
spareribs

8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 tablespoon dark brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons curry powder
½ cup orange juice

Have the meatman cut the sparerib rack into 3 lengthwise strips; with a kitchen scissors cut each strip into 2-rib sections. Arrange ribs on a rack in a single layer in a roasting pan; tightly cover pan with heavy foil. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until ribs are tender - about 1 to 1½ hours.

Leave oven control on. Remove ribs to an 11½ by 7½ by 1½-inch baking dish; discard fat in roasting pan or reserve for some other use. Into drippings in roasting pan stir the tomato sauce, sugar, curry and orange juice; over low heat stir to get up drippings and blend mixture; pour over ribs. Return to 400-degree oven and continue baking uncovered, basting midway, until very hot and deeper in color - 20 to 30 minutes longer. Makes 4 servings.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

By Louise Pierce

Dear Louise:

My wife and I retired at 65, three years ago. We thought we ought to get out of the way of younger people who might need jobs worse than we did.

She was a filing clerk in an office and I was in charge of maintenance for a big company.

We had a little pension and our social security, but it wasn't near as much as we had made before. We had to cut out trips and new clothes and eat hamburger every night instead of steak once a week.

It started getting on our nerves. We thought retirement would be fun, but it isn't. She fusses when she patches our clothes. When she stews, so do I.

Lots of times we let our discontent run into picking on each other. I know that could lead to real unhappiness. You don't need that kind of fussing in a marriage of 44 years.

Our old jobs are still open. Our old bosses say we can have them back. Would we be wise or unwise to go to work again?

Z.T.

Dear Z.T.:

You would be smart to go back, as smart as the thousands of other retirees who have found retirement colorless and boring.

Don't worry about depriving youngsters of work. Many of the high school and college youths I know are looking for big - pay - for - little - work positions. They don't want to file or maintain. They're after the bossing jobs.

The U.S. News and World Report for December 8, 1980, has an article called, "Why Retirees Get Back In The Harness". You should read it.

It details the problems of retirement and urges older people to get back into the work force.

It quotes Edward Sanger, a job specialist at the Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs: "He says, 'The rising cost of living has forced many senior citizens back to work.'"

The article tells the story of David H. Reid of Hinsdale, Ill., who retired from a midlevel management post but is now working part-time, doing typing and secretarial work. The extra money helps him and his wife meet everyday expenses and pay for vacations.

Sedohr Allen, 71, works four hours a day five days a week, at a data control job for the Los Angeles County Senior Citizens' Association. She earns most of her rent and says, "I like working. Without it, I'd have too much time on my hands."

Morris Loving of Peabody, Mass., is 65 and likes his part-time job. He had retired to take care of his ailing wife, but she sensed his boredom and sent him back to work. He says:

"The job is mental and physical therapy for me. I wanted and needed a challenge. Now I have it."

Many government officials want retirees to be able to earn more without losing Social Security benefits. As of January 1, 1981, those aged 65 to 71 can earn $5,500 without a loss. There is talk of raising that ceiling, and we hope it happens.

So resume your jobs, you two. And happy resumption!

Dear Louise:

Dad and I are 72, retired and can get by on our income. But we don't have our old zest for living because we don't have anything to be interested in.

When I want to go some place, he says, "We're too old. We're on the shelf. All we can do now is sit and rock."

How can I change his attitude?

M.J.

Dear M.J.: Have him read the letter I wrote to Z.T. in this column.

Tell him that if he doesn't want to find a part-time job to occupy his hands and mind, he'd better take up whatever personal activity you suggest - or he'll stagnate before his time.

72 isn't as old as it used to be. Many people that age are leading happy, active, fulfilling lives.

For most retirees, life is pleasure and excitement, plus work or play - or both.

Tell him I said to get off the shelf, out of the rocker and into the swing of things.

I can't imagine that Otis and I will ever give up and spend our time in rocking chairs - except to rest from our strenuous - but - happy activities once in a while.

He'll play golf as long as he lives, I'm sure. I'll keep my countless appointments and writing schedule. And we'll both dance and take trips and give dinners and attend parties.

Should arthritis or some other debilitating illness threaten to slow us down, I'm sure we'll find a way around them.

Golf carts are available for those who can't walk (and many who can but don't want to). Dances can be part watching, part dancing, letting aching feet rest sometimes.

We're for happy older age. We hope you are, too.

Roast oysters make winter feast

By TOM HOGE

AP Wine and Food Writer England's King James I is said to have commented, "He is a bold man who first swallowed an oyster."

Since that first daring gulp, countless seafood lovers have consumed the succulent bivalve, not only raw, but fried, roasted, creamed, smoked and prepared in a number of other ways.

With cold weather here, many shellfish buffs are getting ready for winter oyster roasts. This delicious feast was first dreamed up by the American Indian. Within a short time, the idea was picked up by colonists in the Chesapeake Bay area.

So popular has the custom become along the shores of the bay that many waterfront homes in Maryland are reopened especially to hold a roast.

Some years ago, I was invited to such a cookout at a home fronting on the Chesapeake Bay. It was held in freezing weather so the guests were plugged with steaming mugs of coffee laced with brandy to keep their spirits up while the oysters were lined up along a big steel sheet over a log fire.

As the oysters popped open, they were removed from their shells, dunked in a skillet of melted butter and served. With easy reach were pots of pickled red cabbage, baskets of apples and hot roasted chestnuts.

The oysters, plump and steaming, had a buttery ocean flavor no other seafood can boast.

For those who found it a little too rugged standing in the cold, our host had provided a pot of oyster stew in the well-heated kitchen. It is a delectable dish any time of the year and easy to make. Here's a recipe.

1 1/2 pints shelled oysters with their liquor
1 1/2 pints light cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons soft butter

1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1 pinch paprika
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Place oysters in double boiler over boiling water, along with the oyster liquor, cream, salt, pepper and paprika. Cook till the oysters float and the cream has almost reached the boiling point. While oysters are cooking, warm four deep bowls in shallow baking pan half filled with boiling water. Add 1 tablespoon butter to each bowl. When oyster mixture is ready, ladle into bowls and sprinkle the chopped parsley on top. Serves 4. Good with chilled Chablis.

Pampa frosh opens tourney with wins over Borger, Dumas

Garland Allan's layup gave Pampa Red a 41-40 win over Borger White Thursday in the opening round of the Pampa ninth-grade basketball tournament.

The Reds played the Pampa Blue-Borger Red winner in the finals Saturday night.

With five seconds to go and Pampa trailing, 40-39, Allan stole the ball and drove downcourt for the winning bucket.

"It was a close game all the way," Red coach Al Clark said. "I was pleased with the way the kids handled the pressure, especially Allan. He kept a very cool head when he stole the ball."

Charles Wuest, who also played standout defense, led Pampa scorers with 18 points. Randy Harris and Allan had eight and seven points respectively while Devin Cross had four. Craig Chapin, two, and Ricky Stout, two, Stout also collected 10 rebounds.

Jeff Windle topped the losers with 10 points. Pampa Blue also won a tense opener, 46-44, from Dumas.

David McQueen was Pampa's high scorer with 18 points. Marty Cross added 12, Dennis Kuempel, eight, Danny Kirksey, six, and A.B. Del Bosque, two.

Lefors sweeps Skellytown in junior high games

LEFORS-Lefors won crucial district games over visiting Skellytown in junior high basketball action Thursday night.

In the girls' game, Jennifer Hill netted nine points in guiding Lefors to an 18-11 win.

Sherri Stanley added six points to the winning total to extend Lefors record to 5-2.

Lefors broke a 2-2 deadlock in the first quarter to take an 8-4 lead at halftime.

"We were a little sluggish after the holidays, but we played a good defensive game, which is our best asset," Lefors coach Peggy Tyrrell said. "We have several quick girls that really hustle after the ball.

Overall, I was pleased with their performance, but we still have a lot of work to do."

Darla Woodard led Skellytown with seven points while Sissy Giddeon added four.

Other team members include Leslie Woods, Linda Hanover, Kathy Hassler, Lori Marlar, Lorie Woods, Esther Gallegos and Becky Wise.

Ricky Withers' 10-point production led Lefors boys to a 20-17 upset of previously-unbeaten Skellytown.

Preston West and John Winegart added four points each for the winners and Lynn Haytes had two.

"There's no question that playing heads-up defense won the game for us," said Lefors coach Dave Adams.

"The boys played their best game of the year. I was really proud of their hustle and determination."

Lefors trailed 13-12 after three quarters, but outscored their opponents, 8-4, in the final quarter.

Adams cited West, Winegart, Bo Lake, Brent Capes, Haytes and Withers for their defensive play.

Lefors is now 4-3 for the season.

Will Brown paced Skellytown with 10 points. Johnny Furgason had seven.

Other team members include Glenn Wise, Randy Wise, Tim Lane and Doyle Garretson, David Lawrence, Lee Parks, and Ray Payne.

Miami will be the next opponent for both Lefors and Skellytown. Miami visits Skellytown at 6:30 p.m. Monday. Lefors visits Miami Monday, Jan. 19.

Rogers wins Houston Marathon

HOUSTON (AP)— Bill Rogers, one of the world's premier marathon runners, shook off the effects of influenza and an upset stomach, to win the Houston Marathon Saturday with a new course record of 2:12:19.

Rogers, 33-year-old four-time winner of both the Boston and New York Marathons and making his first appearance in Houston, finished 30 seconds ahead of runnerup Dick Beardsley, 23, of Minneapolis. John Lodwick of Dallas was third at 2:13:38, followed by Chuck Hattersley of Eugene, Ore. at 2:15:51, and Mike Clark of Fayetteville, Ark., 2:16:12.

The top woman finisher was Patti Lyons Catalano, 27, of West Roxbury, Mass., who was clocked at 2:35:27. Close behind, with a time of 2:35:31 was Laurie Binder of San Diego.

Sissel Grottenberg of Eugene, Ore., was third, followed by Toni Bernhard of Houston and Donna Burse of Houston.

Rogers said the first 30 kilometers were "Okay, but the last eight miles were really tough. More and more marathons are getting that way for me. There aren't any easy ones anymore. I must be getting old."

Ron Tabb, last year's champion, was forced to drop-out after 14 miles because of a bone spur on his left heel. Another pre-race favorite, Jeff Wells of Dallas, finished 11th.

Rounding out the top in the men's division were Herb Atkins, Everett, Wash., 2:17:21; Mike Dunlap, Sioux Falls, S.D., 2:19:47; Lionel Ortesa, Albuquerque, N.M., 2:19:59; Allen Zetterlund, St. Paul, Minn., 2:20:10, and Michael Hariston, Tulsa, Okla., 2:20:34.

Lady Harvesters drop squeaker to Liberal

Pampa Lady Harvesters dropped a 41-40 squeaker to Liberal, Kans. Friday night in a tightly-contested game in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The Lady Harvesters, who defeated Liberal, 53-37, in an earlier outing, are now 3-14 on the season.

Neither team could gain the upper hand until the fourth quarter when Liberal slipped out on top. Anything that resembled a comfortable lead was hard to confiscate. The score was tied at the end of each of the first three quarters.

"It was kind of like the Borger game (Pampa lost, 52-51). We had our chances to win, but just couldn't take advantage of the situation," Pampa coach Jerry Johnson said.

Jeanette Britt and Bobbie Skaggs provided most of Pampa's scoring punch with 15 and 14 points respectively.

Debbie Young added five points while pulling off 10 rebounds. Deanna Porter, Jeanna Porter and Ladina Hunnicutt had two points each. Jeanna Porter had six rebounds.

Julie Brungardt canned 18 points for the winners. Pampa opens District 3-5A competition at 7:45 p.m. Friday night against Caprock in Amarillo.

"They beat us by about 20 points in the Clovis Tournament, so it will be a tough game for us," Johnson said. "They've got a little height and a good point guard."

Pampa Green wins own tournament

Pampa Green connected for 25 points the first quarter enroute to a 61-53 win over Borger Red Saturday night to walk away with the Pampa Ninth-Grade Tournament title.

"Borger had 10 points the first quarter, so we jumped out to a pretty good lead on them," Green coach Al Clark said. "That was the difference in the game."

Devin Cross tossed in 17 points to pace Pampa's well-rounded scoring attack. Charles Wuest followed with 13, Craig Chapin 11, Garland Allan, eight; Randy Harris, seven, Cleve Deason, four, and Ricky Stout, one.

"We played real good defense also and worked the ball well against their press," Clark added. "We played together as a team. The victory averaged a regular-season loss to Borger Red, 61-48."

Pampa Green, now 10-2, hosts Borger Red at 4:30 p.m. Monday night in a regular-season game.

In a semi-final game, David McQueen scored 21 points in Pampa Red's losing effort against Borger Red.

Harvesters take third in Wichita Falls Tournament

WICHITA FALLS—For the second night in a row, the Pampa Harvesters went into overtime in the Wichita Falls Tournament, and came away with different results both games.

Pampa came from behind to whip Lawton High, Okla., 58-53, in triple overtime for third place Saturday night.

The Harvesters cut a long comeback trail to down the Woverines after trailing by 14, 35-29, at halftime.

Mike Nelson's two foul shots for Pampa knotted the score at 43-all to send the game into overtime.

Nelson, a 6-2 sophomore who led Pampa in scoring with 44 points in three tournament games, fouled out in the first overtime period.

With the score knotted at 51-all after the second extra period, Pampa took command of the next three-minute overtime after Ray Condo's layup with 1:37 to go gave the Harvesters a 53-51 lead.

The Harvesters scored the next five points from the foul line while Lawton High didn't score until the waning seconds of the final overtime.

Four Harvesters finished in double figures with Mike Nelson and Terry Faggins the leaders with 11 points each. Kirt Crouch and Charles Nelson had 10 points apiece.

Condo added six points and Ed Guerra, four. Leading scorer for Lawton High was Bobby Beatty with 15 points followed by Mike Campbell with 10. The Harvesters lost in overtime, 42-41, to Wichita Falls High in Friday's semi-finals when Randy Doule hit a jumper with three ticks on the clock.

It was a hard loss to swallow for the Harvesters, who led 24-15 at halftime and extended that margin to 13, 32-19, late in the third quarter.

The Coyotes sliced the lead to five, 32-27, after three quarters and tied the score at 36-all to send the game into overtime on Joe Autry's 20-foot jumper with 1:44 to go in regulation play.

Mike Nelson, who canned seven of 10 shots from the floor, led Pampa with 15 points. Charles Nelson and Fleming added seven points each while Faggins and Condo had four each, Dowdy and Ed Guerra, two each.

Tim Price and Doule had 11 and 10 points respectively for Wichita Falls.

Both teams suffered a chilly night of shooting with Pampa having a slight edge from both the floor and foul line.

The Harvesters hit 17 of 43 from the floor for 39.5 percent and seven of 12 from the foul line for 58.3 percent. The Coyotes downed 16 of 44 tries for 36.3 percent from the floor and 10 of 16 for 51.2 percent from the line.

Pampa hosts Canyon at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night.

Danny White is King of the Cowboys

DALLAS (NEA) — The change in quarterbacks this season on the Dallas Cowboys from venerable Roger Staubach to long-time understudy Danny White — wasn't a transitional phase. It was more a virtual progression.

Even Tom Landry, the tight-jawed Dallas coach who generally understates a case, was surprised. "We knew Danny would play well," he says reflectively, "but didn't anticipate he would do it so brilliantly. The first half of the season he was better than Staubach."

An amazing statement indeed when you consider that for the nine preceding seasons, Roger Staubach was the heart, guts and exemplary leader of the Dallas offense, taking the Cowboys to the Super Bowl four times, earning a sure personal niche in the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

"The transition is better than expected," says assistant Cowboys coach Dan Reeves, who now runs the Dallas offense (and likely will succeed Landry as head man some day). "Danny sees things extremely well. He can do more things on the field than Staubach. Roger needed more repetition to learn things. Danny picks it up right away when we tell him what to do."

"That's his greatest strength — a trained football mind. Very seldom does he ever go where he's not supposed to go."

In football parlance, that means White instinctively passes the ball to the right receiver, a talent that can't be minimized in this era of extremely sophisticated, changing defenses.

The success of his target-finding was reflected in the 1980 standings, with the Cowboys, one of the burgeoning powerhouses in the National Football League, returning to the playoffs.

It took extreme patience to put Danny boy where he is — the unquestioned field leader for America's most publicized pro football team. He is 28 years old. No kid. He spurned an initial offer to join Dallas after graduation from Arizona State in 1974 and signed instead with Memphis of the World Football League. He was the quarterback for a team that had ex-Miami stars Larry Csonka, Jim Kwik and Paul Warfield. With the folding of the WFL in 1976, he finally hooked up with the Cowboys. And sat. And sat. For four tedious years.

He only real contribution came on fourth down, when the Cowboys sent in their punting unit. Danny was, and remains one of the premier punters in the NFL. But he chafed, waiting for Staubach to grow old and/or to become vulnerable and/or to retire. When all three happened, Danny was ready.

And so were the Cowboys. Tension had crept into their collective psyche last year because Staubach, a more stubborn individual than White, had bridled at his robot role with Landry calling all the plays.

"Roger resented it more," notes Pat Donovan, the astute left tackle of the offensive line. "Danny accepts it." Shrugs White, "I realize he (Landry) is a genius, and I'm a novice."

There have been other beneficial adjustments. Roger moved around a lot more when he dropped back to pass, sometimes putting pressure on the offensive linemen. Danny is just as agile, but more disciplined in his drop. "You know where Danny's going to be," explains Donovan.

Staubach was more rigid in picking out his receivers. When he made up his mind to throw to Drew Pearson, nothing was going to deter him. "With Danny," asserts Jay Saldi, a combination tight end-wide receiver, "the secondary and third receiver is more likely to get the ball. You'll notice the backs are catching more passes. Danny's more likely to lay it off to the shorter guy." That keeps all receivers at peak interest.

But don't get the idea reservations have already been made for White at the pro football shrine in Canton, Ohio.

"In mid-season," relates Landry, "he hit what every young quarterback hits. He threw some interceptions." And the Cowboys faltered, losing ignominiously to a push-over opponent like the New York Giants. White turned over the ball four times.

"I began to feel very confident," says Danny, "and started throwing balls into tight situations. That led to the interceptions. You got to throw a few to realize how much you have to learn. Now I'm more cautious, the way I was at the beginning, more concerned with avoiding mistakes. Throwing interceptions is part of the game. There's a lot of pressure. The last four years I've been stagnant."

"When he throws an interception," says offensive coordinator Reeses, "it doesn't bother Danny. He comes right back; Roger was so conscious when he threw an interception that it would affect him. Not Danny."

"He always comes back," chimes in Landry. "He's got the mental type of toughness it takes to play quarterback in the NFL. He's a very gifted guy mentally. He handles our offense like a veteran quarterback."

Wilford Daniel White, physically ideal for the job at 6-2 and 192 pounds, comes from a football background. His father, Wilford (Whizzer) White, who was a smallish halfback for the Chicago Bears in 1951-52, manages to fly in from his home in Mesa, Ariz., to watch Danny play several times a season.

Danny has managed to gather some old film clips of his dad in action, and one in particular stands out. "He got thrown for a 54-yard loss," grins the younger White. "I think it's still an NFL record. They've shown it on the Johnny Carson show."

This season, Danny's begun attracting national attention with more positive efforts.

East rolls to 21-3 victory over West

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Amos Lawrence ran for two touchdowns and linebacker Ricky Jackson contributed two crucial defensive plays as the East rolled to a 21-3 victory over the West Saturday in the 56th annual East-West Shrine game. A crowd of 76,000 watched the East defense shut down West quarterbacks Neil Lomax and Tom Flick. The only West score came on a 52-yard field goal by Brian Sullivan of Santa Clara.

Lawrence, who gained over 1,000 yards for North Carolina this season, opened the scoring with a 1-yard plunge in the first quarter. The touchdown came after Jackson, of Pittsburgh, recovered a fumble on the West 30-yard line.

Lawrence opened the lead to 14-0 early in the second half with a 15-yard touchdown run. That capped a drive which featured runs of 18 and 11 yards by quarterback Tim Clifford of Indiana.

Sullivan made it 14-3 with his Shrine-record field goal later in the third period. The West elected to receive the ensuing kickoff, an option they had because they trailed by more than a touchdown, and drove all the way to the East 1-yard line.

But Jackson then made his second big play when he intercepted a pass by Washington's Flick.

The East, operating behind Clifford throughout the second half, iced the game with an 85-yard scoring drive to open the fourth quarter. The touchdown came on a 3-yard pass from Clifford to Tim Sherwin of Boston College.

Samoa leads West to Hula Bowl win

HONOLULU (AP) — Washington State quarterback Samoa Samoa guided a spirited offense and dove over for two scores, leading the West All-Stars to a 24-17 victory over the East All-Stars in the 35th annual Hula Bowl football game Saturday.

Samoa, who was awarded the game's outstanding offensive player award, completed only three passes for 34 yards, but ran for another 45 yards as he shared quarterbacking chores with Missouri's Phil Bradley.

A tough West defense, meanwhile, bottled up the highly touted East offense, holding Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers of South Carolina to 43 yards in 12 carries.

Highlighting the West defense were defensive backs Ken Easley of UCLA, who had two interceptions, Ronnie Lott of Southern California and Blaine Gaison of Hawaii.

Easley and Gaison shared the outstanding defensive player award.

After Easley intercepted a pass by East starting quarterback Mark Herrmann of Purdue and returned it to the East 23 early in the second quarter, Samoa guided the West down to the one-yard line in six plays and dove over for the score. After the kickoff, the East was stalled and punted.

Samoa then marched the West 45 yards in six plays before again diving across from the one to put the West in front 16-7 at the half.

Early in the third quarter, John Simmons of Southern Methodist returned an East punt 16 yards to the East 36.

Jarvis Redwine of Nebraska scrambled for nine yards before Bradley hit Oklahoma State's Ed Smith with a pass for 18 yards and Redwine then ran nine for the touchdown.

Cowboys meet Eagles for NFC title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and Philadelphia Eagles, Eastern Division rivals who finished 1980 with identical 12-4 records, collide Sunday with the National Football Conference championship at stake.

A sellout crowd of more than 71,000 fans is expected to jam Veterans Stadium for the title game with the winner advancing to the Jan. 25 Super Bowl against the survivor of the Oakland-San Diego American Conference playoff.

Dallas advanced to the championship game with playoff victories over Los Angeles and Atlanta, the second one achieved with a pulsating three-touchdown comeback in the fourth quarter.

Philadelphia, which beat the Cowboys for the division title on the basis of net point differential in divisional play, the fifth tie-breaking formula, eliminated Minnesota in its first playoff contest.

During the regular season, the Cowboys and Eagles split their two games against each other, both winning at home.

Philadelphia beat Dallas 17-10 on Oct. 19 with nose tackle Charlie Johnson's interception setting up a 15-yard touchdown pass from Ron Jaworski to Charlie Smith for the winning TD with 4:27 left to play.

The two teams met again in the final game of the regular season with the Cowboys needing to win by 25 points or more to win the division title. Dallas built the required lead, moving ahead 35-10 in the second half. But Jaworski sparked a Philadelphia rally that cut the final deficit to 35-27 and preserved the division crown for the Eagles.

For their two head-to-head contests, Dallas outscored Philadelphia by a single point, 45-44, which indicates just how closely the two teams are matched.

During the regular season, Dallas displayed the more potent offense, leading the league in scoring with a club record 454 points. But Philadelphia had one of the NFL's best defenses, surrendering only league-low 222 points — 50 less than any other team in the NFC.

The Cowboys' attack is built around the passing of Danny White, who replaced retired Roger Staubach this season. White set a club record with 28 touchdowns while throwing for 3,287 yards. He has some outstanding targets including flankers Tony "Thrill" Hill, who has had consecutive 60-catch, 1,000-yard seasons, and Drew Pearson (43-568), hero of the Falcon game comeback. The tight end is Billy Joe DuPree (29-312).

Philadelphia's attack travels on the strong right arm of quarterback Ron Jaworski, who threw for 3,529 yards — the first Eagle passer over 3,000 yards since Roman Gabriel in 1973. He fired 27 TD passes.

Jaworski's No. 1 receiver was running back Wilbert Montgomery, who caught 50 for 407 and also led the club in rushing with 778 yards, an average of four yards per carry. That production was despite an injury-plagued season in which he missed four games.

Chargers host Raiders for AFC crown

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Oakland Raiders can look back fondly to their game with the San Diego Chargers about three months ago and say to themselves, "That's where it all began to come together."

Will it all come apart on Sunday or will the Raiders, preseason write-offs as just another collection of losers, chalk up yet another upset and reach the Super Bowl once again?

"That probably was the turning point of our season," Tom Flores, Oakland's mild-mannered coach, said of the Raiders' 38-24 victory over the Chargers, a victory which avenged an earlier 30-24 overtime loss to San Diego.

"We had our backs to the wall (Oakland went into the game with a 2-3 record), we had just lost our No. 1 quarterback (Dan Pastorini had sustained a broken leg the previous Sunday against Kansas City) and we were playing one of the hottest teams in the league (San Diego was 4-1)...We won, got our confidence back and started rolling."

No one got his confidence back more than Jim Plunkett, starting for the first time since 1977, when he was with San Francisco. "That win got things turned around. The offense straightened out and the defense started getting better all at the same time," said Plunkett, who has guided Oakland to 11 victories in his 13 starts since replacing Pastorini.

While Oakland went on its midseason tear, winning six consecutive games in one stretch, the Chargers hit a slump. The loss to Oakland turned out to be the second of four setbacks in a six-game span. With 12 of the 16 games played, the teams were deadlocked for the lead in the American Football Conference's Western Division.

They stayed that way through the final four games, each winning three and losing one — and losing on the same Sunday. Thus they finished at 11-5 apiece. And, based on the National Football League's tie-breaking formula, San Diego was declared the division winner and Oakland was left with a conference wild card because of the Chargers' slightly better net-point differential (those scored vs. those allowed) in division games.

William pours in 40 points as Houston rips Texas, 91-71

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sophomore Rob Williams poured in a career-high 40 points and the pressing defense forced Texas to commit 20 turnovers as the Southwest Conference basketball-leading Houston Cougars raced past the last place Texas Longhorns 91-71 Saturday.

Although the 6-foot-2 Williams dazzled Texas with his shooting and passing — climaxing a fine floor game with a between the legs scoring assist — he repeatedly shouted protest at calls that went against him and once applauded a teammate who intentionally shoved a Longhorn player from behind.

The victory meant Houston has won its first three SWC basketball games for the first time in history. Houston leads the conference with a 3-0 record and is 11-2 for the season.

Texas is 5-7 for the season and its third straight loss in the SWC was the first since published reports disclosed Saturday that Coach Abe Lemons had dismissed chief recruiter Steve Moeller in September. Lemons and Moeller accused each other of recruiting losses that have resulted in recent sub-par performances.

Although Texas' second leading scorer, Henry Johnson, was slowed by a knee injury for the second game in a row, Texas took a 38-37 lead with just under one and a half minutes remaining in the first half. Two steals came on turnovers by Ken Montgomery, and Houston converted them into layups for a 41-38 halftime lead.

Lemons benched Montgomery in the second half, and he finished with only four points, eight below his season average.

Houston was so much quicker than Texas that one Cougar was successful in pressing three Longhorns as they tried to move the ball across mid-court.

Williams — the SWC's leading scorer with a 24.5-point-a-game average — had 15 points in the first half and 25 in the second, hitting 16 of 22 field goals and eight of 10 free throws as the Cougars shot a sizzling 66.1 percent from the field. Freshman Clyde Drexler had 19 points for Houston.

LaSalle Thompson, a 6-foot-10 sophomore, led Texas with 20 points and 11 rebounds, a category in which he is tied for seventh nationally with 12.2 rebounds a game. Freshman Ray Harper scored 16 for Texas although he missed a few minutes with a leg injury.

OLD OAKEN BUCKET BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — The Old Oaken Bucket has been the trophy which goes to the winner of the Indiana-Purdue football game since 1925.

The bucket itself is said to be well over 100 years old, and legend has it that it was used by Morgan's Raiders during the Civil War.

On several occasions the bucket has been stolen by partisans from one school or the other, but it has always turned up again. The bucket is now in the possession of Purdue, thanks to a 24-23 victory in the 1980 renewal of the series.

Astro-Graph by bernice bede osol

January 12, 1981

Some major changes could be in store for you this coming year. Although you may go off in a direction different from that which you intended, the end results could still be all you initially hoped for.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Substantial achievements are probable today, but be careful not to expect too much of yourself. Even you can't do the impossible. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth date.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Unless you use good judgment today, there is a chance you could repeat a mistake made in the past. Review your experiences before taking action.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's important at this time that you figure out ways to take care of existing obligations before assuming new ones. You can do it if you try.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful in situations today which require skillful negotiating. You'll come out OK if you don't make impulsive judgments.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Unfortunately, some of the things which you feel need to be accomplished today can be done only through the good auspices of others. Seek proper assistance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An old friend today may need reassurance that you're truly a pal. It shouldn't be difficult to find opportunities to prove your loyalty.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In areas where you are trying to further your own ambitions, you could run into obstacles today. In situations where you're looking out for others you'll be quite lucky.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's probable that your ideas are a bit better than your peers today. However, they may not be too easy to convince. Salesmanship will be required.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're skillful today at managing your resources, but there's a danger you might step out of your league in trying to handle something complicated for another.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In partnership situations today it may prove unwise to let things you're capable of managing be done by your counterpart. Take the initiative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be helpful today without making too big a thing of it. Your deeds will mean more if they are carried out unobtrusively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sometimes, in dealing with our friends it's easy to get our way, and sometimes it isn't. Today, the latter is apt to be more likely.

SPEAKING OF SOAP

1981 TV COMPULOG SER., INC. OWNER CORP. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

Mark Harmon plays Fielding Carlyle who finds marriage to Constance Weldon (Morgan Fairchild) is socially and professionally advantageous but emotionally damaging on "Flamingo Road."

Since the new season is well on its way, we thought it might be illuminating to take a look at the prime-time version of the perennial soap opera. Rather than dwell on established hits like "Dallas" or "Knots Landing," let's see what NBC's "Flamingo Road" has to offer.

"Flamingo Road" premiered just this week with a two-hour drama that followed the age-old soap formula of melodrama, intrigue, and passion. In this opening episode, honey-mooners Fielding (Mark Harmon) and Constance Carlyle (Morgan Fairchild) were kidnapped and held for a million dollars ransom. What followed was the usual hostage fare. Constance's adoptive mother and biological mother played by Barbara Rush and Stella Stevens wrung their hands in despair while her father (Kevin McCarthy), Sheriff Semple (Howard Duff) and Sam Curtis (John Beck) tried to find a way to meet the kidnappers' demands. Meanwhile, Constance submitted to her kidnapper to save her husband's life. Finally, the inevitable rescue brought this episode to a close but not without raising questions about the future of this newly married couple.

If this all sounds very familiar to most soap fans, it should. In the past 6 months at least 3 major daytime serials have dramatized a similar hostage theme. On "The Doctors" Missy, as played by Dorian L. Pinto, lost her life during the siege at the town's hospital. Currently "All My Children" is still feeling the after-effects of the kidnapping of Nina. And "One Life to Live" Tina faced a similar trauma recently when she was the victim of a kidnapping engineered by her own father to get his hands on her inheritance. With the rich and prominent monopolizing the character lists for soap operas in prime time and daytime, kidnapping has become more popular as a plotline than the old amnesia play was years ago.

What's ahead for "Flamingo Road" next week? Well, Constance and Fielding are no sooner rescued when Fielding decides it's time for a little R and R. He runs off to Tallahassee to spend a weekend with his former lover Lane Ballou (Cristina Raines). At the Sheriff's urging, Constance follows him there. Meanwhile Eudora (Barbara Rush) confides some family problems to newspaperman Elmo Tyson (Peter Donat). Where this is all leading is anyone's guess.

Now a look at what's been happening and what will happen on all the afternoon dramas.

Recap: 1/5-1/9
Preview: 1/12-1/16

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS -- Sensing Victor's hostility Julia is drawn closer to Michael. Nikki continues to make life difficult for Greg by blocking all his efforts.

THE GUIDING LIGHT -- Amanda is very confused and Jennifer can't help her. Mike admonishes Jennifer for her recent actions. Eve has found a new lease on life.

SEARCH FOR TOMORROW -- Lee gets closer to understanding Cissy. Janet pleads with Ted to open his eyes before it's too late. Liza and Travis have a tense moment.

AS THE WORLD TURNS -- John insists that he is innocent and tries to make Dee seem unstable by blackmailing her with the past. Kim and Nick are having strained relations.

THE EDGE OF NIGHT -- The gun that Raven thought would protect her is turned on her instead and she is in mortal danger. Kelly's life is in turmoil as his job falls through. April gets a visitor at her home.

THIS WEEK: The Dorn murder is solved. Another crime is revealed.

RYAN'S HOPE -- Siobhan comes back home. Seneca becomes suspicious of Michael and Kim sets a trap but the trap catches Michael and Rae. Rose worries that Siobhan's reappearance may rekindle an old flame. Delia misinterprets Frank's actions. Frank proposes to Faith.

THIS WEEK: Faith tries to reason with an angry Frank. Prideliff Jill goes off in another direction.

ALL MY CHILDREN -- Erica is falling for Brandon. Carrie is leaning on Mark's shoulder. Ellen picks up on Devon's drinking habit. Leora leaves the shelter to go to her new apartment only to return there when she finds out that Kurt is following her in order to find out where she is living.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE -- Ed confronts Herb on the day of the wedding and resigns. In order to avoid a scandal, the party leaders feel that Herb should resign before he takes office. Dorian says no and locks Herb out of the bedroom on their wedding night so that she can think of a way to solve the problem. Raif is beginning to believe Nicole's story.

THIS WEEK: Brad is lying through his teeth again. Dorian puts more pressure on Peter.

GENERAL HOSPITAL -- Heather overhears Diana asking Leslie to take care of P.J. if anything should happen to her, and calls Sara to tell her that time is running out. The truth about P.J. almost comes out when Jeff accidentally gets hold of Peter's note. Diana takes it from him before he can read it. Diana and Heather have an ugly confrontation when they accidentally meet at the Floating Rib. Suspecting that Heather is back to her old tricks, Mrs. Grant wants her back in the sanitarium where she can do no harm. Scorpio tries to recruit Luke. Luke demands some answers from Alexandria.

THIS WEEK: Alex pulls a nasty move on Laura. Luke is feeling a bit squeezed in his new role.

THE DOCTORS -- Having found Greta and Billy making love, Matt has another attack. Greta tells Billy that they will have to postpone their wedding plans because she fears it will be harmful to Matt's health. Billy learns that Theodora is dying and he isn't married to Greta yet. Nola succeeds in tempting Jason into bed with her but has to leave when the truck arrives to fix her car. Garner learns that Bennett had Ashley's invitation cancelled.

THIS WEEK: Greta and Billy plan their happy day as onlookers fear the worst. Darcy encourages a heartsick Brad.

TEXAS -- Kevin walks out on his wedding when Courtney arrives late with Jeb. Ginny tells Elena the whole story about Suzanne. Elena wants to drop out of school when she turns eighteen. Max finds out that Reena gave Jeb the key to Striker's cabin. Reena asks Justing if she should marry Max.

THIS WEEK: There may be more hope for Reena on the horizon. Iris is back to her old ways again.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES -- Chris sees Leslie and Alex together and decides he can't trust her anymore. Alex reveals his feelings about Marie and even though she feels the same way, she discourages him. Lee offers Doug divorce knowing fully well that he won't take her up on it because she is still in a wheelchair. Doug, however, doesn't tell Julie about it. Lee starts to get mysterious phone calls.

THIS WEEK: Lee gets an unexpected visitor which makes her very nervous. Jessica is wooed by two different men.

ANOTHER WORLD -- Philip pressures Pat to shape up and stop drinking. Leigh's presence is greeted with suspicion by Ada. Rachel is being pursued as she pursues Mitch. Mac stands by and waits for word about Rachel as he feels quite helpless.

THIS WEEK: Mitch's recent history becomes clearer. Russ and Tracy have a misunderstanding.

LET'S REBUILD AMERICA

IN THE 80'S

May be crazy, trys anyway

By JAY SHARBUITT
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — They'd think you had a cog loose if you revived Gilbert & Sullivan's "The Pirates of Penzance" on Broadway with hopes it'd be a hit and make a lot of money.

But Joseph Papp, the feisty head of the New York Shakespeare Festival, is having a go at it anyway. He opened this oddie, first done here in 1879, at the 1,900-seat Uris Theater this week.

True, it helps that this freshened-up version has Linda Ronstadt, the rock superstar, in the cast. She's thought to have some drawing power at the box office — a great deal of some.

And it does help that both she and the show had a wildly successful summer run at Central Park's open-air Delacorte Theater — that edition, like this one, produced by Papp & Co.

But only time will tell whether what worked in that tiny arena will work in the cavernous Uris. Uris hopes the show will do what another Festival production moved to Broadway has done — swell the coffers of his non-profit troupe, enable it to continue to maintain its non-commercial works off-Broadway, be they by William Shakespeare or Sam Shepard.

That other show he's so fond of is "A Chorus Line," which bowed on Broadway in October 1975. Still a hot-ticket hit, it's grossed about $32 million to date, by his reckoning.

"Without it, we would have been out of business," says Papp, whose Shakespeare Festival, established in 1956, is housed downtown at a huge, four-story building once known as the Astor Private Library.

He estimates that "A Chorus Line" loot has financed "at least 90 percent" of his Public Theater's non-profit productions over the past five years. He'd like a "second hit just in case "Line" ever wanes. Hence the "Pirates" gamble. "We're investing almost $1 million in this move, an investment for our own continuity," he says of his first Broadway venture since Elizabeth Swados' "Runaways" in 1978.

His other works there include the acclaimed "That Championship Season," "Streamers" and "Sticks and Bones." But he says he never produces a show with Broadway in mind.

Papp, like Miss Ronstadt, keeps reminding one and all she's not the show's star, just a well-known cast member.

But she did strike a few folks as an odd choice to play Mabel, the main fair maiden in the Gilbert & Sullivan classic. She had no theater background. How'd she wind up in this light opera?

"She came to me about a year ago, saying she was interested in doing something for the stage," Papp recalls. "I said, 'Can you act?'" He chuckles. "She said, 'I don't know.'"

"So I said, 'Well, let's see if something turns up.' She has a very deceptive surface; incidentally, she's very well-read, very bright and a marvelous raconteur."

At first, he notes, her singing voice — by no means classically trained — lacked the power, the richness required for Mabel.

"It was small in the beginning. But she worked on it. And now it's a full-blown, lovely coloratura. She sounds like Lily Pons used to sound."

She'll only be on Broadway six months, though, likewise Rex Smith, another musician in the cast. The normally confident impresario, interviewed a few weeks before the Broadway bow of "Pirates," had a bit of pre-opening nerves, even though a show with Linda Ronstadt in it would seem what they call a sure thing.

TV show reflects swing to right

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Just days before Ronald Reagan takes office as president the first television series reflecting the nation's swing to the right debuts on NBC.

It's "Walking Tall," loosely based on the life of a club-swinging Tennessee sheriff who stood up alone against crime and corruption.

The first show will be telecast Tuesday, Jan. 13. "Sheriff Buford Pusser does things his way," says Bo Svenson, the 6-foot-6, 235-pound actor who plays Pusser. "He believes that if something is not right, it is wrong. And if it's wrong, let's fix it. That's also my own personal philosophy. Absolutely."

Executive producer David Gerber says, "I think people are looking for a hero who's going to stand up for them. Against all this senseless crime."

The cycle of police shows on television is dying out. Cop shows that bloomed on every channel have gone off to join the western and the variety show in that great rerun in the sky.

Although the networks are shying away from police shows, they are looking for variations. CBS' new "Magnum P.I." is a private eye series set against the background of lush Hawaii, which the network hopes will lend it an exotic quality as it did to "Hawaii Five-0." NBC's "Hill Street Station" is a "M-A-S-H" style view of the police.

Sheriff Buford Pusser's reputation as a vigilante hero began when he took on a vice operation in his hometown. His wife was killed when local hoods struck back. He later died in an unrelated auto accident.

The first "Walking Tall" movie came out in 1972, starring Joe Don Baker, and was an enormous box office success.

Svenson starred in the second film, "Walking Tall, Part II," and in "Walking Tall, Final Chapter."

Two years ago Brian Dennehy played Pusser in a TV movie pilot called "A Real American Hero." CBS did not pick it up as a series, however.

"Walking Tall" is Svenson's first series since he played Big Swede in ABC's "Here Come the Brides" in the late 1960s.

Svenson says, "What I failed to see on television was a rural relevant show ... to pay some respect to the Midwest, to the South, to rural people. I think they're the backbone of America and always will be. I think we should hold them in some sort of reverence."

He says he also views the show as part of his responsibility to return something to the United States for the privilege of living here.

Svenson was born in Sweden, but was brought to this country at an early age. He was raised in Wisconsin and Georgia. He joined the Marine Corps in 1959 when he was 17 and six years later was given a disability discharge after service in Vietnam.

Record oil and gas drilling could cause trouble

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic oil and gas drilling operations continue at a record level but Ed McGhee says the trend could cause problems in the months ahead.

The executive vice president of the International Association of Drilling Contractors says some suppliers of oil country steel goods do not rule out the possibility some drilling rigs may be shutdown the second half of 1981 for lack of steel casing.

"That old pipe-shortage hobgoblin could nab you at any time in the next three years," McGhee said. "Such is the message telegraphed privately by vendors of oil country tubular goods."

One observer, he added, fears the present tightness in supplies of high-strength grades of casing could degenerate into a full blown shortage as early as the first quarter.

McGhee said steel manufacturers publicly abstain from scare talk.

"One reason is they hope to avoid a repeat of the mess of four years ago," he said. "Then, spot shortages prompted many U.S. operators to build up their own stocks above normal levels. Charges of hoarding were leveled against some. And a few of the have-nots stampeded to Washington to demand they be allocated a fair share."

This time around, McGhee said, high interest rates will discourage users from accumulating pipe inventories beyond their immediate needs.

In his report in the January edition of the trade group's magazine, McGhee said that, for the moment, carbon-grade tubulars appear to pose no problem in that current stocks and production rates seem adequate.

"The same doesn't apply to higher strength grades," he said. "And the deep drilling which requires such tubulars is enjoying a spectacular increase."

The tubular goods problem focuses on the U.S. domestic market, McGhee said, although it encompasses the worldwide steel industry.

"The U.S. drilling spurge in 1980 threw everyone's projections into a cocked hat," he said.

"American steel mills had anticipated operating below full capacity and still adding significantly to inventories. Instead, they found themselves straining to make every foot of pipe possible. And in spite of heavy imports from Japan and Europe, 1980 came to a close with only a modest addition to U.S. stocks."

Postal order stopping mail

FORT WORTH—U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders has issued a preliminary injunction allowing the United States Postal Service to detain incoming mail addressed to American Service Directory, American Service, and American Commercial Publication at four separate Dallas addresses, pending the outcome of a Postal Service attempt to obtain a mail stop order for mail addressed to the companies.

The Postal Service claims that the three Dallas firms have misrepresented work-at-home projects in advertisements soliciting home workers for envelope-stuffing jobs. Classified advertisements placed by the companies in publications throughout the United States claimed that persons could make up to $2500 per month addressing and stuffing envelopes at home. Other advertisements read, "Home addresser's wanted. $500 per week possible, no experience required."

If successful in obtaining the mail stop order, the Postal Service will return to sender all mail received addressed to the firms relating to the work-at-home offers. Postal Inspector in Charge W.R. Newsome stated that the action being taken against the firms was the result of an investigation by Postal Inspectors from the Dallas Office. Inspector Newsome indicated that the issuance of the mail stop orders was one of several methods currently being used by Postal Inspectors in their continuing efforts to prevent postal customers from being defrauded through the U.S. mails.

CARD OF THANKS

LIZZIE HENRY
We wish to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the friends, neighbors and to the members of Hobart Baptist Church for the many acts of kindness shown us during our time of sorrow. Particularly we express appreciation to Dr. McDaniel, Rev. Dennis Barton and those who provided the music for the Memorial Service. May God's richest blessings be yours.

Sincerely,
Family of Lizzie Henry

BRING YOUR PAINTBRUSH
When you move into this home on Banks St. This one needs some work but has great potential and lots of room. Close to a park, it's got 3 bedrooms, a dining room, a full bathroom, and a breakfast area, and the owner will carry the papers. Low monthly payments. MLS 538.

3 LIVING AREAS
That's right, this 3 bedroom home has a living room, plus a den, plus a playroom. Ideal for all kinds of entertaining and family get togethers. You'll love the huge, isolated master bedroom with its luxurious bath and dressing area, attached garage, lots of extras. MLS 529.

SOMEBODY WANTS YOUR HOUSE
And we have what it takes to find that somebody. In fact, they could be on our list of qualified buyers right now. Time is money, don't waste it. Call us for professional assistance in selling your property.

WHAT A GREAT FLOOR PLAN
You don't have to walk through any room to get to another. This neat home on Comanche has 3 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths, a fully equipped kitchen, formal living and dining room, den with fireplace and casual dining area, double garage, covered patio and a great price. $58,900. MLS 528.

29,000
Your first home is waiting for you in East Pampa. It's got pretty carpet, central heat, and there's lots of storage space. There's 3 bedrooms, storm doors and windows and an attached single garage. Why not see it today. MLS 511.

HER EYES WILL LIGHT UP
When you show your bride this cute 3 bedroom starter home. It's got an attached garage, storm doors and windows, paneled living and dining, and the fenced backyard has an ideal fenced garden spot. Priced in Mid 20's. Call today. MLS 504.

Spindletop became Texas' first gusher 80 years ago

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — It was eighty years ago — Jan. 10, 1900 — that Texas' first gusher blew mud all over Al and Curt Hammill and oil all over a hill south of Beaumont, ushering in the age of petroleum.

The well, the hill and the forest of drilling rigs that immediately sprouted around it came to be known by the collective name "Spindletop," a term that now stands for the birth of the oil industry in the United States.

Capt. Anthony Lucas was in charge of drilling the new deep well — a gamble at the time — and he hired the Hammill brothers, experienced drillers to do the work.

They had replaced a drill bit and shoved 700 feet of new pipe into the hole that day when there was a rumbling underground, and suddenly water, mud, natural gas and all 700 feet of pipe came spewing out of the ground with enough force to knock the top off the derrick.

The Hammills' only thought was how angry Capt. Lucas was going to be when he got back from town at how dirty everything was.

As they were cleaning up, the rumbling began again — and out of the ground came more mud, more water, more natural gas, followed by a tremendous plume of oil.

It was the first gusher in the United States and the oil flowed for nine days before it could be tamed.

Lucas built levees to create lakes of oil around the well, and posted armed guards to protect it until he could have it hauled away to then-distant refineries.

Soon, though, more producing wells followed the first gusher and refineries in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area were not long behind, as well as the forerunners of today's huge oil conglomerates, such as Gulf, Mobil, Exxon and others.

There is not a hill at Spindletop any more. It sank as the underground oil was pumped away, although new, successful oil wells are being drilled in the region every year.

But the last gusher at Spindletop was five years ago, and it was a phony. The fire department blew a stream of water out the top of a derrick at the rebuilt Boomtown Museum on the Lamar University campus, to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the event that put Beaumont on the map.

4-H CORNER

TEENS EXPLORE PARENT EDUCATION

A new project, Teens Explore Parent Education, will begin on January 14th at 4 p.m. The meetings will be held at the Courthouse Annex Meeting Room, located on Highway 60 East. Some of the topics to be covered are: self-understanding, dating and marriage, families and their functions, roles and responsibilities of parents and children and how they learn. The project will last approximately six weeks and is a project on Family Life Education. If you would be interested in joining, call 669-7429 or come to the meeting on January 14th.

SPOTLIGHTING THE TRENDS

There will be a 4-H Clothing Leader Training on January 31st through February 1st at the Texas 4-H Center in Brownwood. The theme of this workshop is "Spotlighting the Trends." The training will include a variety of ideas designed to update you with current information related to clothing and textiles. Some topics to be discussed are: the art of putting it all together, construct sample of today's sewing techniques, energize your wardrobe, fashion-fabric handouts, selecting appropriate patterns and much more. If you would be interested in participating in the clothing workshop or have any questions, call the County Extension Office, 663-7429.

SOUTHWESTERN KALEIDOSCOPE

This is the theme of the Longhorn Recreation Lab weekend workshop on March 6-8 at the Texas 4-H Center. It will bring together adults, 18 years and older, from a variety of recreation programs. Volunteers from 4-H and from other youth serving organizations will participate in this stimulating exchange of ideas and techniques. This weekend workshop offers training in recreation leadership, communications, and a variety of new program ideas in outdoor interpretation, camp planning, games, crafts and more. You will have the opportunity to learn new techniques, skills and bring home new ideas for recreation. If you are interested in attending or have any questions, call the County Extension Office.

4-H LABO EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Fifty Japanese youth, ages 12-22, will be visiting in Texas this coming summer through the LABO program. Host families will be needed for these fifty youth and five adult chaperones.

The Texas 4-H LABO Exchange Program has contributed to the people of Texas in many respects... understanding of another culture and language which is both different and similar; and a better appreciation of their own state and country. Simultaneously, Japanese youngsters learned more about America, its customs, its language, and its people.

Japanese LABO students will arrive in Texas in mid-July and stay with Texas host families for approximately one month. Host families take these youth into their families and let them share in family activities and daily routines.

4-H families interested in being a 1981 LABO host family should contact the Gray County Extension Office for more information or to obtain a host family application.

AMARILLO STOCK SHOW
Twelve Gray County 4-H members have entered animals in the 1981 Amarillo Stock Show scheduled for the Tri-State Fair Grounds in Amarillo on January 21-25. These include Tres Hess, Robin Rohde, Scott Vandenburg, Vance Vandenburg, Heath Babcock, Doug Devoll, Tammy Greene, Annie Greene, Jamie Greene, Kerri Cross, Sabrina Parker and Patty Devoll.

All animals will be weighed into the show on Wednesday, January 21st. Lambs will show beginning at 8 a.m. on Thursday, January 22nd. Barrows will be judged beginning at 5 p.m. on Thursday and at 8 a.m. Friday. Steers will be exhibited beginning at 9 a.m. on Friday, January 23rd.

Activities scheduled for Saturday, January 24th, include a 4-H and FFA Livestock Judging Contest at 8 a.m. and the 4-H and FFA Livestock Auction Sale at 1 p.m. A Quarter Horse Youth Show will begin at 8 a.m. on January 24th with registration beginning at 7 a.m. on January 24th.

DATES TO REMEMBER:

Jan. 14: Four-Clover 4-H meeting - McLean Ag. Building at 4 p.m. Teens Explore Parent Education project meet at the Courthouse Annex at 4 p.m.

Man given probation for animal abuse

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — An Amarillo man accused of starving 24 horses pleaded guilty to two counts of cruelty to animals, but has avoided a jail term by pledging to adhere to probation agreement a humane society investigator hails as a model for rehabilitation.

Tommy Lee Bluejacket, 56, received a one-year probation sentence Friday on the condition that he fulfills 25 terms of probation that include providing 120 hours "of community service work" for the humane society, paying $4,000 in veterinarian bills and agreeing not to purchase an animal without the approval of the court.

Bluejacket, who also pleaded guilty in 1975 to a count of cruelty to animals, was arrested last Dec. 16 after the Panhandle Humane Society confiscated 24 emaciated horses owned by Bluejacket and his family.

Veterinarians who treated the horses told humane society investigator Gene Morrison that the animals "looked like the babies of Biafra."

Many of the horses were in an advanced stage of starvation and one had to be destroyed because of a bone-infection in one leg, Morrison said.

He said when authorities arrived on a lot south of Amarillo to confiscate the horses they found the animals did not have any water and the only feed was a 15-foot stack of hay surrounded by a two-strand electrified fence.

Randall County Court At Law Judge Richard Wilcox agreed to the probation agreement worked out by Bluejacket, District Attorney Randall Sherrod and the humane society.

Morrison, who conducted the two-month investigation that led to Bluejacket's arrest, called the probation agreement a "unique" attempt at rehabilitation.

"We think it is a precedent and I hope it is one that will be followed in the future," said Morrison, who added that an account of the investigation and the agreement would be set to the National Humane Society.

The horses, which are recovering under the care of two Amarillo veterinarians, will be sold at public auction if the county can convince a justice of the peace during a warrant of seizure hearing that the animals were mistreated.

If Bluejacket is able to regain custody of any of the animals at the hearing, the terms of his probation outline the care he will be required to provide the horses.

Morrison said the surviving horses had been gaining an average of four pounds a day since they were seized and placed in the care of a veterinarian.

"The rest have survived through around the clock care and we are encouraged by the way they look," said Morrison.

THE BORN LOSER

ANNOUNCING: The Ultimate Diet Pill

U.S. Government Medical Experts agree. . . out of 124 diet aids tested NOT ONE is more effective than the remarkable New Thera-trim formula

Doctors Agree: It's the BEST DIET PILL EVER!

Announcing the Diet Pill of the 80's — the amazing Thera-trim Diet Tablet. And over five long years of tough clinical testing have proven its awesome effectiveness.

With the remarkable new Thera-trim Fat Evacuation Plan, you can witness your weight's dramatic downward spiral starting the very first day. Accumulated fat that you once thought was permanent can be effortlessly dissolved and evacuated right out of your body. . . WITHOUT runaway hunger . . . and WITHOUT grueling exercise. But the amazing thing of course, is the speed at which this fat evacuation takes place.

DROP 10, 20, 35 LBS. OR MORE. . .
FASTER THAN YOU EVER THOUGHT POSSIBLE

Results are so dramatic. . . they're almost unbelievable. Using the new Thera-trim Plan, you can thrill to achieving astonishing results like these:

LOSE up to 6 LBS. in 48 HOURS
LOSE up to 10 LBS. in 7 DAYS
LOSE up to 16 LBS. in 2 WEEKS

Not only does the Thera-trim plan evacuate fat, but it also controls hunger all day long. By knocking out hunger, your calorie intake is reduced. Ultimate fat destruction is then achieved.

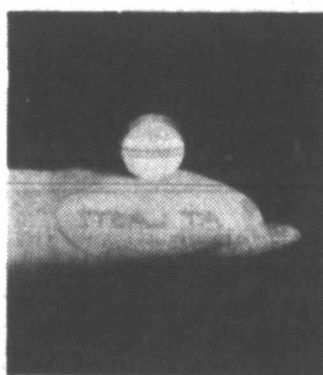

But the Thera-trim plan lets you experience more than just rapid weight loss. As you continue to shrink-up fat deposits and bulges, your figure noticeably improves. You soon begin to look better and better. Imagine the feeling you will have when you check your tape measure and discover you have lost up to:

6 INCHES OFF your WAIST
5 INCHES OFF your HIPS
3 INCHES OFF your THIGHS

As your fat evacuation level accelerates you will begin to feel a surge of new found energy. You will feel great as your energy and vitality soar to new levels.

HOW DOES THE THERA-TRIM PLAN WORK?

You take just one powerful Thera-trim tablet in the morning. That's it. NO MORE taking 3, 4, or 5 pills a day. NO MORE mixing

FINALLY, after years of controlled clinical studies, the powerful Thera-trim diet tablet is available to the public. Doctors and weight loss experts have hailed the new Thera-trim formula as: THE BEST DIET PILL EVER.

attractive.

Naturally the amount of weight and number of inches you can quickly lose depends on how much you are over your ideal weight. Results are absolutely fantastic!

CLINICALLY PROVEN BEYOND
EVERY SHADOW OF DOUBT

The remarkable Thera-trim formula has proven itself time and time again in the most rigorous of clinical tests. In one such test, dieters who took the Thera-trim formula lost TWICE the weight as people on other diets. Results like these are why doctors and experts say the Thera-trim formula is the ultimate diet pill.

The word is spreading fast. The powerful, yet amazingly safe, Thera-trim formula is receiving national acclaim. Newspapers, magazines and leading medical journals are all reporting its proven effectiveness. One large newspaper reported the Thera-trim formula breakthrough like this:

"An amazing weight loss pill has been developed that will enable virtually anyone to reduce easily — without trying to diet, without giving up favorite foods — and with no fear of dangerous side effects."

People throughout the country who have used the Thera-trim formula confirm its remarkable success.

BANISHES HUNGER ALL DAY

The Thera-trim tablet is so effective at controlling hunger, that you may not feel like eating all day long. HUNGER SIMPLY DOES NOT INTERFERE WITH YOUR WEIGHT LOSS PROGRESS. Naturally the result is a smaller calorie intake and a thinner, smaller you.

Resisting fattening foods will be easier than ever. By constantly keeping hunger under control, the pounds seem to melt away like magic. Stubborn fat that you thought you'd be plagued with forever, is quickly oxidized and evacuated right out of your body.

Remember, this Fat Evacuation plan is powerful. So powerful in fact that you may want to stop eating altogether. But this is absolutely not recommended. You must not let the excitement of your rapid weight loss get the better of your good judgement. A nutritious eating program is part of the Thera-trim Plan. Weight loss has never been so easy.

ENJOY THE THRILL OF WATCHING YOURSELF GROW SLIM

As your fat deposits shrink and burn up, your figure will take the shape you've always dreamed of. Friends and relatives will marvel at the new you. People you haven't seen in years will be astonished at your thin attractive figure. Compliments will be an every day occurrence.

The rewards of your rapid weight loss will include more than just personal satisfaction:

- Your energy level will increase as you lose weight.
- You can say good-bye to gnawing hunger pangs
- You can end the up and down, roller coaster type of weight cycle by staying at your ideal weight
- Most of all, your self-image will greatly improve

Yes, the facts are in. The results are conclusive. Doctors and experts agree. It's the BEST DIET PILL EVER! Here at last is the answer to your dreams. Remember, this incredibly fast Fat Evacuation plan has been proven time and time again by the most stubbornly overweight people.
