The SDN Column

A letter from Dirk Roberts, the first in some time incidentally, encloses a clipping from an Austin newspaper about a former Snyder resident who undoubtedly is remembered by many people here.

The clipping is a column titled "Show World," by John Bustin. His subject for the day was Ramona Locke, who was star vocalist for the Snyder High School Stage Band some 10 years ago. Now, she is singing at a private night club named the Losers Club.

"Miss Locke, currently the feature attraction at the new private nitery on South Congress, is indeed a spectacular performer," wrote Bustin.

"A diminutive, well-assembled blonde with a perky personality and a lusty singing style, she's the kind of songbird who usually gets stuck with the tag 'little girl with a big voice.' And, in fact, that label fits her accurately.

"Miss Locke thinks that the bigness of her voice probably resulted from her early days as a country-western singer in West Texas and New Mexico and a subsequent stint as vocalist with the Snyder High School Stage Band," Bustin continued. "She feels now that her work with stage bands (which she did well enough, by the way, to be selected vocalist in the Texas All-Star Stage Band) provided some valuable musical experience and by the time she graduated from Snyder High and moved to Houston, she was already a pretty well-grounded band singer."

She has worked in the Shamrock, Rice and Warwick hotels in Houston, and in other fashionable night spots in Galveston and Houston areas.

Speaking of Austin, the Texas Good Roads Association's Newsletter calls attention to the fact that 120 years ago this month, that city got some good news at the polls. Its status as capital of the State of Texas for another 20 years had been approved by the voters. The state-wide election was held on March 4, but it was June 3 before the returns were certified.

Huntsville and Palestine were among the places that sought the state capital that year.

But they were well down the line in the voting. Austin won without a runoff, getting 7,679 votes, while Tehuacana was second with 3,142 votes. Austin won the capital permanently in 1872 by defeating Houston and Waco by a substantial margin.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, June 16, the 167th day of 1970. There are 198 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1897, the Alaska gold rush began with news of a rich strike at Bonanza Creek.

On this date:

In 1858, Abraham Lincoln said in a speech in Springfield, Ill.: "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

In 1920, the council of the League of Nations held its first public meeting at St. James Place in London.

In 1940, Marshal Henri Petain took over leadership of the French government to seek a World War II armistice with Germany.

In 1941, the United States ordered Germany to close its 24 consulates in the United States.

In 1963, the first woman space traveler, Valentina Treshkova, was launched into orbit from a base in the Soviet Union.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower cancelled a visit to Japan after anti-American rioting there.

Five years ago — The Soviet Union was taking a hard line at East-West disarmament talks in Geneva.

One year ago — The U. S. Supreme Court ruled that Congress lacked authority to bar Democratic Rep. Adam Clayton Powell of New York from his House seat.

UP-DATING SURVEY — Howard Maddox, standing, of the Area Development Division of Texas Electric Service Co., gets information on Snyder Public Schools from Doug Flynn, school business manager, to up-date community survey here. Texas Electric is rushing to bring information up to date in time for the Scurry County Junior College District to use the survey in seeking a high rating for its bonds to be sold this summer.

College Plans Moving Along

Trustees of the Scurry County Junior College District last night canvassed returns from Saturday's tax and bond election and made plans for proceeding with work toward establishing facilities for the college.

Both the tax and the bond proposals were approved by nearly five to one in the voting Saturday. The board indicated that the college district's tax rate will be set at a special meeting set for 2 p.m. Thursday.

Saturday's election authorized a tax rate of 50 cents per $100 valuation to retire bonds and 35 cents per $100 valuation for maintenance and operation. However, the board indicated earlier that the actual over-all rate would not be over 50 cents.

Meanwhile, a loan was authorized to make another payment to the architects in the amount of $46,550.

It is expected that the bond issue of $3¼ million will be sold around July 13 and that construction plans can be put into the hands of prospective bidders by mid-August. It is hoped that contracts can be awarded in September and that enough facilities will be ready a year later to begin classes.

A delegation will accompany the district's financial advisor to New York on June 28 to appear before bond rating firms to seek high ratings for the college district's bonds. M. L. Broman, board president, George Patterson, board secretary, and Dr. Robert L. Clinton, president of the college, are due to make the trip.

Dr. Clinton advised the board that the financial advisors had worked out a 15½-year schedule for the bonds which apparently would result in a substantial savings to the district over a 16-year schedule.

Payment of $1,475.25 expenses for holding the election last Saturday was authorized, and a resolution was adopted unanimously expressing appreciation to Snyder Savings and Loan Association and its staff and personnel for use of office space in its building, free of charge, and for other courtesies shown the college district. The junior college office was in the Snyder Savings and Loan Building from the time the district was created until April 1.

Possibilities of filling some key positions on the college staff were discussed. A business manager and director of vocational-technical training likely will be sought soon and a librarian dean will be needed within the year, it was indicated. Dr. Clinton said a registrar should be available by next Jan. 1.

Temperatures Soar In Texas Cities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Temperatures hit 100 degrees or better in half a dozen Texas cities Monday, and no letup in the scorching heat was in prospect today.

Thunderstorms marched across the Texas Panhandle into Oklahoma during the night, and showers developed this morning around Midland and along the west side of Southwest Texas.

Another round of thunderstorms was forecast for the Panhandle tonight and Wednesday. More showers were predicted in other parts of West Texas.

Survey Here Is Up-Dated

Texas Electric Service Co. is in the process of up-dating its community development survey for Snyder, and the project is being pushed so that the Scurry County Junior College District can use it in seeking a good rating for its $3¼ million bond issue.

Working on the survey here this week is Howard Maddox of Texas Electric's Area Development Division.

Since 1953, the Area Development Division of Texas Electric has prepared community development surveys for the use of most of the cities and towns the power company serves in North Central and West Texas.

Designed for use by selected company personnel, community and industrial leaders and community civic leaders, the survey serves as a handy fact book which reveals an up-to-date picture of the economic and cultural assets which a community has to offer.

Material which goes into the survey is obtained directly from numerous sources in each city and from reliable published data.

The survey is important as a realistic appraisal of a community, and is designed to present the community's best features to a business or industry which is seeking a profitable location for a new facility.

Nixon Polishing Economy Report

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon polished his special economic report to the nation today as reports of rising unemployment, faltering profits and high interest rates continued to mount.

One government report Monday disclosed manufacturer's profits dropped to their lowest level in 2½ years because of the economic squeeze. And a regional Federal Reserve Bank described the downturn as a mild recession.

Nixon closeted himself in his hideaway office next door to the White House Monday to work on the report, scheduled to be delivered to the nation at noon Wednesday (EDT).

While Nixon worked in seclusion, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Trade Commission reported manufacturers' after-tax profits dropped 18 per cent during the first quarter of the year.

Profits reached the lowest level in 2½ years, the agencies said in their quarterly report.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis broke with its parent Federal Reserve Board and 11 sister banks by calling the current economic downturn a recession.

The Minneapolis bank said in its monthly statistical report that Minnesota and its neighbor [illegible] effects of the mild recession currently in progress in the nation as many business indicators are displaying characteristics of a downturn."

A White House economist, appearing before a congressional hearing, predicted no decline in interest rates or unemployment for the remainder of the year.

Viet Congs Release Three US Reporters

SAIGON (AP) — Three American correspondents captured last month by the Viet Cong in Cambodia have been released.

They are Richard B. Dudman of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Elizabeth Pond of the Christian Science Monitor and Michael D. Morrow of Dispatch, inc.

Dudman said they were released on Monday night. They were taken captive May 7.

"We're safe and healthy and in good shape," Dudman said tonight.

He added that he had asked their captors about the fate of some 20 other newsmen captured by Communist command troops in Cambodia and missing since April 3.

He said "we received no reply," and that neither he, Miss Pond nor Morrow saw any of the missing newsmen while they were in captivity.

Dudman spoke on the telephone from Miss Pond's apartment in Saigon, where the trio arrived earlier today after hitchhiking in from the Cambodian border.

"We were released last night about 11 o'clock in Cambodia, on a stretch of Highway 1 that is controlled at night by the Cambodian United National Front," he said. "Then we hitchhiked into Saigon with a South Vietnamese convoy returning from Phnom Penh."

He said several interrogators told the trio after their capture that they were suspected of being American government personnel or possibly agents of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Once the trio's credentials as newspaper correspondents were established, he said, they came to be considered "good people," and were treated as friends and their release was arranged.

In Washington, Dudman's wife, Helen, said he telephoned her today to report his release.

She said her husband expects to be home in about four days.

Dudman, 52, Miss Pond, 33, and Morrow, 24, were last seen by fellow correspondents at the eastern edge of the Cambodian provincial capital of Svay Rieng, 72 miles southeast of Phnom Peh, from which they had traveled by car.

Miss Pond said she didn't know how their release was arranged. "We don't know anything about the background of it," she said.

S-Viets Hit Capital, Find Enemy Gone

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

KOMPONG SPEU, Cambodia (AP) — South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops and armor smashed into this provincial capital and regional military headquarters today to find the large enemy force they had hoped to trap had vanished.

A Cambodian general said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had retreated south and west of Kompong Speu, which is 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, but still had a strangle hold on Highway 4, Phnom Penh's only access route to the coast and to Cambodia's lone oil refinery there.

Cambodian Brig. Gen. Sothen Fernandez told a newsman the elements of five enemy divisions were now in place north, west and south of Phnom Penh, apparently preparing for a push against the capital. Fernandez did not predict when the drive might start.

Refugees reaching Phnom Penh earlier from Kompong Speu said Communist soldiers in the force that occupied the town had boasted of plans to attack Phnom Penh on Thursday. A Cambodian government spokesman termed these reports "rumors," but defenses around the capital were being hastily strengthened. Diplomats in Phnom Penh have been predicting rocket attacks but doubt the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese will try an infantry assault.

Cambodian and Vietnamese commanders gave varying estimates of the number of bodies found in Kompong Speu. The most mentioned figure was 150, but a Vietnamese general said a third of these apparently were Cambodian troops killed when the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese captured the town Saturday. South Vietnamese officials in Saigon said their 4,000-man force which joined in the battle at Cambodian request killed 183 of the enemy and took three prisoners, while suffering four killed and 22 wounded.

Agnew Criticizes Joseph Rhodes

By HUGH MORGAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew criticized a young member of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest today and said if remarks attributed to Joseph Rhodes Jr. are accurate he should resign.

Rhodes, 22, a junior fellow at Harvard University was appointed Saturday by President Nixon to serve on the commission headed by former Republican Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

In an interview published Monday, the New York Times quoted Rhodes as saying in reference to suggestions that the Nixon administration has provoked campus violence, "The kids have got to feel someone has the power to really investigate the grave charges being brought against the government."

Commenting on the interview at a news conference today, Agnew said:

"Rhodes lost no time in letting the public know how he intends to utilize his new post to lift him from obscurity of an unpublicized position to national notoriety."

Agnew emphasized his remarks about Rhodes should not be interpreted as an implied criticism of the President. He also emphasized that his criticism of Rhodes was based on what he had read in the newspaper.

"Rhodes showed a transparent bias that will make him counterproductive to the work of the commission," the vice president said.

"Unless the Times reporter is in error, Mr. Rhodes should resign."

Rhodes was quoted in the Times' interview as saying he feels he has a "solemn responsibility" to prevent further deaths on college campuses.

Mrs. Taylor Dies Today

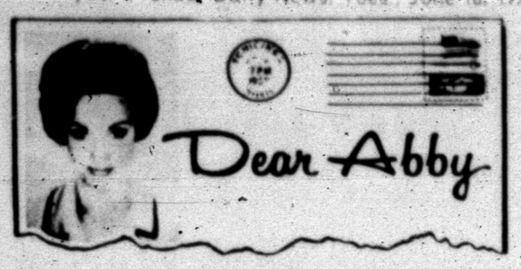

Mrs. Lillie Mae Taylor, 61, of Ira died unexpectedly this morning after she was stricken with a sudden illness.

Funeral arrangements were to be made at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Taylor is survived by her husband, E. G. Taylor of Ira; five daughters, Mrs. Truman Walker of Dallas, Mrs. J. W. Nettles and Mrs. Horace Fowler, both of Ira, Mrs. L. M. Dawson of Westbrook and Mrs. Tommy Cotton of Snyder; a son, John Taylor of Snyder, and two brothers, Arnold and Groveg Lee, both of Colorado City. Eleven grandchildren also survive.

Readers react to bare chested diner

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for printing those letters from women whose biggest problem in life was a husband who came to the table bare-chested. One sweet young thing dumped a bowl of molasses on her husband's bare chest to "teach him a lesson." She's lucky he didn't dump his fist on her offended little eye.

After three children I still find my husband's bare chest gorgeous—anywhere! I thought a woman married a man—not a stuffed shirt. What warped values dictate that prudish protocol comes before your man's comfort in his own home? The home he provided for YOUR comfort?

DALI'S WIFE

DEAR ABBY: I would like to get a look at that lady who was uptight because her husband came to the table without a shirt on. I don't say a woman has to have a fresh paint job and fancy hairdo when she sits down for dinner, but some women come to the table with their hair hanging in strings and not a drop of make-up on. I'd sooner look at a hairy chest.

HAIRY AND BARREL CHESTED

DEAR HAIRY: Hers?

DEAR ABBY: The wife and I had a good laugh over the letters about whether or not a man has the right to come to his own dinner table bare-chested.

Our kids are all grown and gone now, and the wife is at that age where she gets a hot flash now and then, so more than once I'll be sitting at the dinner table while SHE takes her blouse and bra off. I never complain, nor do I find HER bare chest repulsive.

NO SWEAT IN HOUSTON

DEAR ABBY: Having finished the episode concerning MR. BARE CHEST at the dinner table, and his offended wife, I was suspicious of the rather abrupt ending. I not only expected that "BARE CHEST" never came to the table without a shirt on again, but that he never returned at all. And who could blame him? Poor devil. There happen to be quite a number of women around who would appreciate a man at their table—with or without shirt.

As for the trauma-ridden wives who find a bare chest "repulsive," they belong to the cult of poor dears who, after 20 years of marriage, are still dressing and undressing in the closet.

My attitude toward the issue is identical to your own comment frequently following your column, Abby. That is, "You'll feel better if you get it off your chest."

"FEELS BETTER"

DEAR ABBY: I am convinced that no one—but NO ONE can possibly live without problems. For if you don't have a problem, you will MAKE one.

I refer to the big deal some women make out of a bare chest at the dinner table.

If a man is clean and feels more comfortable without a shirt, there is no reason why he should be asked to wear one in the privacy of his own home.

Some women don't know how lucky they are to have a husband to share a meal with them. Mine is gone.

LONESOME

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations to the woman who stopped her husband from coming to the table TOPLESS by threatening to serve him bottomless. It didn't work for me, but it was worth a try. When I appeared BOTTOMLESS, he went to the bedroom, put on a shirt and came back BOTTOMLESS!

So what's wrong with an occasional cold dinner?

CO's Guidelines Pondered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System, told by the Supreme Court it can't force a man to fight in violation of his conscience, was left wondering today how to separate sincere objectors from the phonies.

It was also left wondering what impact, if any, Monday's court ruling on conscientious objection would have on the draft.

Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr called in his staff for consultation after he heard of the decision and scheduled a news conference today to discuss the impact of the ruling.

On the surface, the decision seemed to make little change in existing guidelines, but Selective Service spokesmen said they had no statistics on the grounds claimed by conscientious objectors and thus no way to measure the effects of subtle policy shifts.

Draft law provides for exemption from military service of men who "by reason of religious training and belief" oppose participation "in war in any form."

In 1965, the Supreme Court—in the landmark United States vs. Seeger case—ruled that an objector need not believe in the traditional concept of God, but only in some overriding principle holding a similar place in his life.

On Monday, the high court reversed the conviction of Elliott A. Welsh II, who had refused military induction on grounds of his belief "that human life is valuable in and of itself ... I will not injure or kill another human being."

Citing a lower court finding that Welsh held his beliefs "with the strength of more traditional religious convictions," the court decided he was entitled to conscientious objector status according to the Seeger principle.

The court's Monday decision concluded the law permits exemption of those "whose consciences, spurred by deeply held moral, ethical, or religious beliefs, would give them no rest or peace if they allowed themselves to become a part of an instrument of war."

The court decision appeared to give those seeking conscientious objector status more leeway to defend their claims, for it accepted Welsh's arguments based on "political, sociological or philosophical views."

The law, as written, specifically excluded those as grounds of conscientious objection.

The Supreme Court, however, said that clause does not rule out people with strong opinions about such matters, as long as their pacifist views are held with "religious" fervor, as required by the Seeger decision.

NASA Studying Report On Apollo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The detective work has been done; the Apollo 13 moonship explosion has been blamed on human and mechanical error. The space agency now must decide how to prevent any recurrence.

How well it does will determine the course of the Apollo program. Because of the explosion, Apollo 14 already has been delayed two months, until Dec. 3, and it may slide into 1971. Other Apollo flights may be stretched out or eliminated.

A special review board Monday concluded a two-month investigation into the oxygen tank blast that endangered three astronauts 205,000 miles from home and canceled man's third attempt to walk on the moon.

Its highly critical report scored the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, North American Rockwell Corp., and Beech jaircraft Corp., for "a serious oversight" in the design and testing of the oxygen tank.

North American Rockwell is prime contractor for the Apollo command and service modules and Beech built Apollo 13's two service module oxygen tanks.

North American also received much of the blame when another review board reported in 1967 on the launch pad fire that killed the three Apollo 1 astronauts at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

A spokesman for North American said, "We certainly would not disagree with the findings of the board," but declined comment on specific conclusions until company officials had time to study the report.

"If there are deficiencies in the design of our system," the spokesman added, "we'll do everything we can to work with NASA and correct them."

The Apollo 13 review board found the mission "constituted a near disaster, averted only by outstanding performance on the part of the crew and the ground control team which supported them."

The board recommended several design changes for future flights, including the removal of electrical components and combustible materials from inside the oxygen tanks and rigorous testing, checking and qualification of the redesigned systems.

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, NASA administrator, said the agency would study the recommendation and decide within a few weeks what changes to make.

"We will not fly Apollo 14 to the moon until we are confident that we have done everything necessary to eliminate the conditions that caused or contributed to the problem on Apollo 13," Paine said.

Edgar M. Cortright, chairman of the eight-member board which prepared the 914-page report, was asked if he thought the recommendations would permit a December launch of Apollo 14.

Sgt. Michael E. Bentley, 20, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bentley, 611 Twenty-fourth Street, recently completed Special Forces training at the U. S. Army Institute for Military Assistance at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Sgt. Bentley, who is now prepared for an assignment with one of the seven operational Special Forces units around the world, received his first four weeks of training in map reading, patrolling and methods of instructing native personnel.

The "Green Beret" student then received instruction in one of the five basic skills found in a Special Forces detachment — medical, communications, intelligence and operations, engineering, and demolition and weapons. He concluded his training with a four-week course in Special Forces tactics and techniques.

MEN'S FASHIONS from the American Enka designer collection, all made of polyester and nylon knits, start with Howard Davis' long, lean jumpsuit with matching jacket. The jacket features a bold, squared away neck, big, covered buttons, and patch pockets. Bill Smith threw out the old molds in designing his sleeveless tunic suit. The tunic hugs the body over a soft turtle neck sweater. The waist is secured with a crafted "S" signature belt. Matching leggings tuck with big, easy golds into nailhead boots. Next comes Davis' body hugging bright purple calypso shirt, with sleeves swelled and gathered at the wrists, and purple stripped slacks in ribbed polyester. Smith follows with a nylon wrap shirt that stretches across the torso for a soft, fluid effect, and ties at the waist. The shirt is coordinated with double knit polyester slacks. Finally, Smith goes western with a seamed and shaped jacket and smooth, slim slacks.

Midi Look Calls For Slim Line, Soft Face

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Career women may suspect their glamor stock dropped with their hemlines. They might be on the right track.

Youthful makeup man Stan Place says: "The most depressing thing about the midi-longuette fashion wave mainly by the over-40 set may be that women will relax their beauty regimes that kept them slim, and they may neglect to update their faces.

"I predict women will get 10 pounds heavier unless they continue to exercise and diet as they did when their skirts were short, their knees showed, and they were swinging in their minis," he explains.

A graduate of Ohio State University with a master's degree in fine arts, Place has applied his knowledge of color, lighting and form to the beauty world. He is a consultant on lighting, which he learned in the theater and on makeup. He was on the road with "My Fair Lady" in a dual job as dancer-hairdresser to the star of the show, when he became fascinated with stage lighting and makeup techniques used in the theater. The full circle came about recently when he developed a four-day make-up mirror that provides lighting that is similar to fluorescent light.

"The midi fashion is not for curvaceous ladies—it is a long, slim, small-bust look, the kind of thing that Susannah York might wear—but it wouldn't look well on Elizabeth Taylor. Many women will think of the style as something to hide behind, he explained. They shouldn't. It can't be done. The midi fashion will be even more demanding than the mini—it requires a big effort to wear it," he points out.

Fashion is fickle, he warns, and hemlines are an indication of the economy. If things worsen, hemlines might fall to the ground, but if the economy improves, skirts might be heightened before you can say "exercise every day." The mini fashion was good because women had to be healthier "with more of them exposed," he says.

In addition to the slim lines of clothes, there should be an above-the-neck transformation.

Hair must be dressed to make the head look small—it can't be teased. Hair should be "moving" rather than static in its style. It should be clean, soft, unlacquered.

Lips can wear more color, but the color should be transparent. He likes lip glosses. Some Parisian mannequins have been wearing opaque lipsticks, deep red, at recent fashion shows, but Place considers this look an aging one for the over-30 set.

Eyebrows should be thin, soft and delicate, but not pencilled in a harsh line. He likes pastel eyeshadows, translucent powders.

The entire image should be soft. Many women get a harsh look from putting makeup on in poor light, he advises. Makeup done under ceiling light in a bedroom may look a bit odd under fluorescent lights in the office. The makeup light should be well illuminated, and one should stay close to the mirror when applying makeup under a ceiling light. Fluorescent lights can play tricks with color. Your makeup and dress may be color-unified when you leave home, but a different effect may be realized under office fluorescent lights.

A makeup mirror can help improve your appearance, but many makeup mirrors provide a soft glow—you look great when you stare into them—but you might look spooky under harsh light. You should stand about 18 to 21 inches away from the average makeup mirror when you are applying makeup, he advises, and you should choose lights that are similar to those in your office.

After-five clothes—soft jerseys and matte crepes that fall to gentle, mid-calf folds—call for the special radiance of translucent makeup, in his opinion. In the evening, one should avoid the dull, rigid finish, the feeling that because it is after five, you can use more of everything in the makeup box.

Now It's Polyester Knits For Men

By AP NEWSFEATURES

It's the men who make the fashion news these days, as they move further away from those gray flannel suits and into all kinds of elegant, colorful new clothes. Now they're going to have a chance to go one step farther, and discover what women have known for some time—the knit way of life.

Some of the most creative design talent in the country is discovering that knits are a natural for men—that their comfort and give, plus their affinity for a wide range of fashion looks makes them the ideal fabric for new design ideas.

This was just the point that American Enka and Fair-Tex Mills had in mind when they asked two bright young designers to create fashions for men in Encron polyester and Enkalure nylon knits. The designers came up with not only exciting new fashions, but a whole new philosophy about the way men should dress.

They threw out all the old notions about strict tailoring and stiff fabrics and let the knits themselves give them inspiration. Result is the kind of clothes that reflect contemporary life—clothes that travel and get around or relax at leisure with maximum ease. They designed jump suits, tunic-pant suits, swimwear, coordinated sportswear and accessories to go with them that create a brand new mood of freedom and individuality, all within a masculine context.

Award-winner Bill Smith is typical of the new breed of designer who looks at all of fashion with a fresh eye, and is now exploring the world of polyester and nylon knits for men. An innovater, he designed "body jewelry" for Richelieu, and did away forever with the idea of the neat little string of pearls. Now he feels the time has come to break down some of the old cliches about men's wear.

"In the beginning, clothes were really a uniform—they labeled us. Today we still have uniforms; the policeman, the fireman and so on. Their uniforms tell us who they are. But people don't want to wear labels when they dress; they want to express themselves as individuals. That's why you find the youngsters are going out now and doing their own thing—finding old clothes, putting bits and pieces together in their own way. That's why I think separates are the next step in men's fashion; they lend themselves to individuality."

Knits, Smith believes, are the ideal medium for this kind of flexibility, so he's developed a group of tunic and pants combinations in polyester double knit that emphasize clean, uncluttered lines and allow for a variety of combinations with different kinds of shirts that eliminate the need for ties. "Knits give you this feeling that you can get into them very quickly, and be completely relaxed," he says.

Typical of this feeling is his smooth knit zip front tunic that goes over matching pants and has a coordinated turtle neck sweater. he's also designed a leather belt to go with it, and believes that accessories are going to become increasingly important for men's fashions. "You have to have a total look," he says. "Everything has to be accessorized properly to make a strong statement."

Howard Davis, of Amani New Breed, a design studio with an Afro-American concept that has broadened out to reach an international market, brings a right-now approach to fashion for men. His studio, which develops fashions for either manufacturers or retailers from pattern to finished garment, and helps merchandise them as well, has been instrumental in bringing folk influences to fashion. Davis' feeling is that the free, unfettered look of the dashiki, the calypso shirt or the coverall express the new freedom that's being felt today in all of fashion.

He believes, too, that by working with knits without preconceived ideas about construction, and by simplifying the styling, he can bring men new fashion at a reasonable price.

"A woman can go into a fine store and get good design for as little as $50. But when a man buys a decent suit it becomes an investment—around $150. But there's no reason why we can't get rid of some of those details that raise the cost of a man's suit. Why do we need shoulder pads? Or interfacing? Or even lapels?"

His idea is to start with the feeling of freedom and comfort and take it from there. And he believes that many different kinds of knits can do the job and convey a strong, masculine image. For example he likes a soft, silky nylon knit, for a bold purple Calypso shirt with soft, full sleeves. It's styled like a tunic for ease of movement and goes over double knit polyester slacks in a coordinating purple and mauve stripe.

"Men are just beginning to get involved with these bright, strong colors," he says. "They're beginning to realize the women don't have to have all the glory."

Family Centered Maternity Is Rewarding Experience for Couple

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Giving birth is one of the great moments in a woman's—and a couple's—life. By encouraging 'family-centered maternity' we give the husband and wife a chance to be together during labor and delivery," says Elisabeth D. Bing, who has taught thousands of parents the Lamaze method of prepared childbirth.

Prepared childbirth pays extensive dividends physically, psychologically and emotionally, believes the Berlin-born physiotherapist who helped pioneer the Lamaze method in this country during the past decade. She still lectures extensively on the technique, which she teaches at Flower Fifth Avenue Hospital here and privately.

Because Mrs. Bing received so many enthusiastic letters from couples she has taught, she felt she should share them. The result is a book, "The Adventure of Birth: Experiences in the Lamaze Method of Prepared Childbirth," which she edited. It is a compilation of 40 first-person accounts by mothers and fathers describing the excitement of actively participating in the birth of their child.

"Educating the husband and wife and letting them work together does something for the whole family relationship you can't put in statistics," she says, enthusiasm for her "cause" showing in her soft voice. "It won't save a bad marriage but it makes a good marriage even more meaningful.

"It's better for the baby too," she adds. "Through correct training and actual participation of the mother we can reduce the amount of medication that would otherwise be used in labor. We're concerned about the condition of the fetus and it's safer to give the least amount than the maximum amount of medication."

"Natural" childbirth, she feels, is a bad term because people think it means primitive childbirth, without medication and just suffering through. Often medication is needed and it is provided.

"We don't promise painless childbirth, but reduce pain by the techniques used," explains Mrs. Bing, who authored an earlier book, "Six Ways to Easier Childbirth," and who cofounded The American Society for Psychoprophylaxis in Obstetrics.

ASPO, as it is known, is a nonprofit educational institution set up in 1960 to provide information, and to train and accredit teachers in the Lamaze method. Initially used in Europe in the 1950s by the late Dr. Fernand Lamaze, it differs from the "natural" childbirth advocated by the late Dr. Grantly Read. But, Mrs. Bing says, "there is no animosity between us at all. Both aim at the same goal—better obstetrical conditions and making childbirth a better experience.

"Read says having a baby is a normal physical process and shouldn't hurt; that ignorance, tension and fear cause pain which wouldn't exist if the woman is taught to relax," Mrs. Bing explains. "Lamaze says labor is a situation of stress that's likely to be painful, so let's do something about the pain."

This is done to a large extent by breathing techniques which the woman in labor synchronizes with contractions. The intense disciplinary training is given in a six-week course starting about the seventh month of pregnancy. In the weekly sessions, attended if possible by the husband, the physiological and anatomical changes during pregnancy, labor and delivery are explained.

Then come the breathing techniques used in labor and delivery—three different kinds:

—Slow, deliberate chest breathing, six to nine breaths a minute.

—As contractions get stronger a shift into shallow, faster panting-like breaths in 4-4 rhythm.

—Still another rhythm six short pants and a blow.

In addition to alleviating the pain through proper breathing, there's a psychological factor, since the focal point is on the mechanics of technique rather than on exploring pain.

Though ideally husband and wife should work as a team, with the husband giving commands and breathing along with his wife if she falters, it's possible to use the method without him, since nurses familiar with the procedure can give support.

"But even if a husband isn't enthusiastic at first, in spite of himself he usually gets involved and afterwards can't stop talking about the experience," Mrs. Bing points out. "We get couples back for refresher courses when they have their second and third child."

Availability of the Lamaze method is almost nationwide now, and ASPO has 16 chapters and 26 affiliates.

Mrs. Bing's businessman husband, Fred M. Bing, is "terribly involved in my work and awfully good about doing the dishes when I have to dash off to a lecture. They have a son, Peter, 15, for whose birth she used the Read method which she had studied and taught before becoming interested in Lamaze's technique.

Firms Start Programs To Recycle Litter

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The word "recycle" is becoming relatively common today in the vocabulary of American business, but the word is really just a label for an old, old problem.

You really can't throw anything away anymore; you never could, either, because there is no "away."

Man has tried, of course, because the countryside is littered with automobile hulks, cans, tires, bottles, newspapers and other assorted trash that was discarded. But this is merely mute evidence of failure.

Once it wasn't so noticeable, because human beings didn't congregate so densely. Moreover, never before in history has man ever taken nature's materials and changed them in such abundance into other things.

Conscious that criticism of the pockmarked landscape can be escalated into legislation, many companies have begun programs to collect the litter and, in an old business tradition, try to make a buck by reusing, or recycling it.

General Motors this week began a project in Traverse City, Mich. to test the economics of collecting and processing junk cars. Only 2,000 to 3,000 abandoned cars litter the area, but it is the collection method that is being tested.

Glass companies are trying to make old bottles useful and have determined that they may be ground and recycled as an ingredient of highways rather than as litter along them. Same with rubber tires.

Not certain any more that their responsibility ends with the successful use of their products, can makers are attempting to set up reclamation systems for their products after the contents have been drained.

Reynolds Metals learned from a pilot program in Los Angeles that the public, when offered ½ cent for an old aluminum can, will willingly help clear away litter. Expansion into 17 states is set for this year.

A rival manufacturer, Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical, recently announced a recycling program in the San Francisco Bay Area that offers individuals and groups 10 cents a pound for all-aluminum cans.

Kaiser's cost estimates suggest that the problem of litter not only is an unsightly one but terribly wasteful. M.D. Eisele, chairman of the project, estimates that $1 million in cans is tossed away in the Bay Area each year.

The makers of steel cans also are active. Continental Can Co. recently supplied 30 tons of scrap beer cans to a National Steel Corp. facility in Weirton, W.Va., where they were mixed with other ingredients to produce steel sheets.

The experiment was made in an attempt to overcome some of the problems of using scrap, such as contamination from other metals and from the enamels and paints applied to attract the eye of retail customers.

A Junior Editors Quiz About ELEPHANTS

QUESTION: Can an elephant swim?

* * *

ANSWER: Our friends the elephants are amazingly well equipped to survive under primitive conditions. Many can also survive contact with human beings, since, at least in the case of the Indian Elephant, they can be tamed and trained to be very useful hauling heavy objects. Elephants love water. It must feel very good to them in the heat of the tropics. Our illustration is aimed to show how the elephant's remarkable trunk helps him to better enjoy life along the streams and waterways. In drinking (A) the trunk sucks up water, which the big beast then squirts inside his mouth. When he's hot (B), he sucks up water and squooshes it out over his body. Yes, an elephant can swim, and he uses his trunk to hold above the water so it gives him a way to breathe, much as surface swimmers can breathe by using the tube called a snorkle which sticks up into the air (C). But is there a reason for an elephant lifting his trunk high in the air as in (D)? Yes, indeed. He is testing the air, to detect the odor of any approaching animal, whether friend or foe.

Boyle Is Poor Man's Philosopher

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The poor man's philosopher:

You never really know another human being until he tells you about his childhood.

Aside from the weather, which is usually only mentioned rather than discussed, the thing most people would rather talk about than any other subject is their childhood.

It is then that, out on a cold wind does a frozen pond in protective reserve that generally insulate them from their fellows.

Childhood is a form of remembered wealth better than any other riches because it never fades, never loses its value, and can't be stolen from you. It is never more than a thought away.

"The child is father to the man," wrote William Wordsworth. No truer observation was ever made.

Why does everyone treasure his childhood, whether he later measures it by such pumpish terms as "good" or "bad"? Because he can remember it as a time when—

An agate marble was worth more than all the fabled rubies and diamonds of India.

He could win a red-haired girl's admiration by showing her how to spin a top.

Playing hide-and-seek was only a game, and there was always a good place for him to hide.

No matter how often he got punished for doing wrong, he knew of something else he was guilty of that his parents hadn't yet found out about.

Adults were pompous, picayunish, preoccupied with trifles, and often unfair, but not deliberately evil.

While it hurt to skin both knees, pain was brief. It was also consoling to think of how the scabs would be envied by playmates and how much fun it would be to pick them off later.

With a lucky dollar found on the street, he could buy enough candy, popcorn and ice cream cones to get sick enough to stay home from school two whole days.

No present war summoned him with bugles, but it was awesome to sit on the front porch and listen to tales his uncles told of older wars they had fought in other lands far away.

Hot, quick tears scalded away any grief; sorrow rarely lasted beyond tomorrow's sunshine.

God was in His heaven, and neither dead nor dying.

The puzzling thing about childhood is not that it retains such power over people, but why they ever leave it. It never leaves them.

Austin Symphony Gets Conductor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Conductor Maurice Peress will become musical director of the Austin Symphony Orchestra beginning in October. Peress is also musical director of the Corpus Christi Symphony Orchestra and will divide his time between the two Texas organizations.

The Austin Symphony, which was forced to cancel its last season because of a deficit, has raised money for the next season.

Peress has been musical director of the Corpus Christi Symphony for the past six seasons. Before that, he was Leonard Bernstein's assistant conductor with the New York Philharmonic from 1960 to 1964. He was born in New York.

Summer Artists In Residence

BOSTON (AP) — Soprano Phyllis Curtin and pianist Byron Janis will be artists in residence at Tanglewood this summer. Each will give master classes.

Miss Curtin will give master classes 10 hours a week during the eight-week season. Janis will be in residence July 27-Aug. 21, with emphasis on piano literature.

Miss Curtin will sing in a concert performance of Mozart's "Cosi fan Tutte" on July 11 and give a short recital on July 24.

Capitol Has Beatles Regardless

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Salvatore J. Iannucci, president of the Capitol Records, made the following comment in response to the story that the Beatles might never record together again as a group:

"Capitol's recording contract with the Beatles, through EMI, has 6½ years to run, and it covers all recorded performances, not only by the group as a whole but by any of its individual members."

John Lennon and Yoko Ono have three albums on Apple, distributed in the United States by Capitol; George Harrison has two; a new LP by Ringo Starr is being rushed into U.S. release and Paul McCartney has an April release.

The latter album, titled "McCartney," sold $2 million in prerelease orders in the United States.

Nelson Is Impressive In First Major Start

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Nelson got the San Francisco Willies in his major league debut and the Los Angeles Dodgers in his first start despite an aching shoulder that's threatening to make him a pain in the neck to National league hitters.

The 22-year-old right-hander, [illegible] scene with the Pittsburgh Pirates only last week, checked the Dodgers on five hits and one earned run in seven innings plus Monday night and came away a 5-2 victor.

Nelson, who had pitched six scoreless innings in two previous relief stints, was tapped because the Pirates' four regular starters all worked over the weekend.

St. Louis held off San Diego 5-4 in the only other National League game while Houston's scheduled contest at Philadelphia was rained out.

In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles had their lead in the East Division trimmed to 2½ games over the idle New York Yankees when Milwaukee dumped them 9-6. Elsewhere, Minnesota clipped Washington 5-3, Cleveland edged California 3-2 in 12 innings, Oakland battered Detroit 12-7 and Kansas City overtook Boston 7-6. The Chicago White Sox also had the night off.

Nelson debuted last week against the Giants by fanning Willie Mays and getting Willie McCovey to hit into a double play. "I threw a couple of pitches before I realized it was Mays," he said.

The 6-foot-, 180-pounder developed a sore shoulder in the International League and, big league therapy hasn't cleared it.

"It acted a little from the fourth inning," he said. "I've been to 30 different doctors. Half think it's tendonitis and half are baffled."

So were the Dodgers after getting a look at Nelson's palm ball, which he says he's "not afraid to throw to anybody."

The Pirates built a 4-0 lead in the first two innings off loser Joe Moeller. Willie Stargell belted his 14th homer, a prodigious shot into the center field seats in the seventh.

Matty Alou's double, an infield out and an error on a grounder gave Pittsburgh a 1-0 lead in the first. The Pirates scored three in the second. Fred Patek's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded accounted for one run, Nelson singled for another and the third came in on a single by Richie Hebner.

Roberto Pena's three-run double highlighted a six-run explosion in the eighth inning that lifted Milwaukee from a 6-3 deficit to its victory over Baltimore. It was the Orioles' ninth setback in the last 15 games.

Although the Brewers nicked Mike Cuellar for two runs in the first inning and Mike Hegan hit a solo homer in the sixth, the Orioles seemed to be home free after Merv Rettenmund socked a grand slam homer in the first and Chico Salmon a two-run shot in the sixth.

But Tommy Harper's bunt single, a walk and Ted Savage's single kayoed Cuellar in the eighth and Eddie Watt yielded a [illegible] single to Tito Francona.

Pete Richert brought his 0.90 earned run average out of the bullpen and struck out Russ Snyder but the Brewers pulled a double steal and Ted Kubiak was purposely passed before Pena came through. Gerry McNertney's single drove in the final run.

Harmon Killebrew brought the Twins from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning, his 16th, and they opened a 4½-game lead over the Angels in the AL West. Frank Howard homered for the Senators, his 19th.

Jack Heidemann, who doubled and scored in the first inning, singled home the winning run in the 12th following a pair of two-out walks as the Indians shaded the Angels. Heidemann had a double and three singles, giving him 10 hits in 16 at-bats since being inserted in the leadoff spot Saturday.

Eddie Leon's homer gave the Indians a 2-0 lead but the Angels tied it with two runs in the ninth off Sam McDowell before suffering their fifth defeat in six games.

A grand slam homer by Frank Fernandez highlighted a six-run third inning that carried Oakland past Detroit. Fernandez connected off Mickey Lolich, who has a sore back and was pitching in relief for the first time in more than a year.

Rick Monday also homered for the A's while Dick McAuliffe's grand slam was one of three Tiger homers. Willie Horton and Al Kaline hit the others.

The Royals rallied three times to beat the Red Sox. Two-run homers by Pat Kelly in the fourth and Ed Kirkpatrick in the fifth wiped out early Boston leads and KC finally won it with three in the ninth.

The runs came across on singles by Lou Piniella and Paul Schaal, Jackie Hernandez' safe bunt, an error, Kelly's sacrifice fly and a game-winning single by Amos Otis.

Joe Torre's eighth-inning homer proved to be the winning run for the Cardinals against the Padres but St. Louis needed sharp defensive plays by shortstop Jim Kennedy.

Kennedy threw out Dave Campbell trying to go from second to third on a seventh-inning grounder and Nate Colbert followed with a wasted double. Simmons picked pinch runner Jose Arcia off second in the eighth after two leadoff singles and the Padres settled for one run when Ramon Webster singled and Ron Slocum doubled.

PARTICIPANTS IN BASEBALL SLUGGING — Greg Arnold, left, pitcher for the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs of the Texas League, was suspended for the remainder of the season after he slugged Umpire Nick Emeterio, right, after a balk was called on Arnold in Saturday night's game. (AP Wirephoto)

Bears Back Piccolo Dies Of Cancer

NEW YORK (AP) — Brian Piccolo, halfback of the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, died early today in Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases. Death was attributed to cancer.

A hospital spokesman said that Piccolo, who was 26, died shortly before 3 a.m., EDT. No further details were immediately disclosed.

Piccolo missed the last five games of 1969 because of surgery for removal of a tumorous growth in the chest.

Before joining the Bears 1969 was his sixth season-he was the nation's top ground gainer and scorer in 1964 while at Wake Forest.

George Halas, Bears owner and chairman, called Piccolo "a complete big leaguer in physical skills and competitive instincts."

"The Bears will miss Brian as a team player who always gave extra effort in practice and in a game," Halas said in a statement following Piccolo's death.

Piccolo had been running back Gale Sayers' alternate until a knee injury Nov. 10, 1968, forced Sayers out for the rest of that season.

He wound up that day with 18 rushes for 67 yards, and four receptions for 54. After that, he was a starter for the Bears.

During the final five games of 1968, Piccolo paired with Ron Bull in the Bears backfield and added 76 carries for 269 yards and 15 pass receptions for 155. The 1968 campaign ended as his best in the league; he had an aggregate of 450 yards on 123 tries and caught 28 passes for 291 yards.

At Wake Forest, in his record 1964 season, Piccolo gained 1,044 yards on 252 attempts, for a 4.14 average. He scored 111 points on 17 touchdowns and nine conversions.

Quarterback Mike Phipps of Purdue was the passer on four aerials that gained between 64 and 80 yards for the Boilermakers last year.

Cubs, Indians In L-Loop Victories

The Braves fell to the Cubs 8 to 5 and the Indians defeated the Yankees 9 to 6 in two Little League battles in Towle Park last night.

Cub pitcher Joel McCommon allowed eight Brave hits. Brad Francis rapped two hits, a double in the first and a single in the fifth. Tim Falls managed singles in the first and third, while Roy Gill rapped a double in the fifth and Randy Riggs, Danny McCormick and Kerry Young each stroked singles.

Brad Francis, twirling for the Braves, gave up four hits, all singles to Tim Flynn, Todd Line, Pat Dryden, and Scott Clark.

The Yankees got six hits off Johnny Eicke and Harvey Waller. S. Canales rapped a home run in the sixth to aid doubles by Randy Rinker and R. Wilson in the third, and singles by Tommy Jones, R. Brandon and R. Wilson.

The Indians managed five hits. Larkin West, Harvey Waller, and Kyle Sikes, each stroked singles, while Bobby Thompson, and Doug Vaughn rapped doubles in the third.

Longhorns Only Team Unbeaten

OMAHA Neb. (AP) — The form chart was never better for the double elimination College World Series, which enters the nitty-gritty fourth round Tuesday with the nation's top four teams remaining in the field.

Only No. 2 Texas, 39-6, is unbeaten after defeating No. 3 Florida State 5-1 Monday night. The Longhorns, with an eight-game winning streak, take on No. 1 Southern California, 49-13, in today's second game of a twi-nighter. The opener pits Florida State, 47-8, against No. 4 Ohio U. 33-5.

Should Texas down USC, the Trojans would be out and the Longhorns only one victory away from the championship. The tourney may end Wednesday but could stretch to Thursday.

Only four times previously has a team gone unbeaten to sweep to the title.

Ohio's Bobcats, who upset USC 4-1 in Friday's first round and then were beaten 7-2 by Texas, are the only newcomers to the world series.

The Trojans are in their 12th appearance and have won five times, the last in 1968.

It's Texas' 14th trip. The Longhorns won in 1949 and 1950, the only team ever to take consecutive championships.

Florida State is back for the fifth time, but its best showing was fourth place in 1962.

Although nicked for 10 hits, Burt Hooten a sophomore right-hander, stifled Florida State 5-1 Monday night with 2 strikeouts. He didn't issue a walk in boosting his record to 12-1 and also singled home a run.

Southern California cashed in on wild pitches and walks to tally four runs in the fifth inning and eliminate Dartmouth 6-1.

Craig Perkins clouted a 390-foot homer for the Trojans and freshman Eric Raich got the victory, scattering nine hits. He fanned 13.

Ohio U. ousted Iowa State 9-6 with Tony Gray's triple and Terry Raszka's double good for four runs in a 11-hit attack.

Braves And Indians Win

The Braves defeated the Cubs 16 to 10 and the Indians beat the Yankees 15 to 7 in two Farm League tilts in Towle Park last night.

In the National League clash Brave pitcher Rudy England twirled a two-hitter allowing only one single to Jay Martin and a double to Ray Hill.

The Braves managed 5 hits off the Cubs. Larry Huddleston stroked a double in the first and singles in the fifth and sixth innings. He was aided by a single by James Spivey and a double by Jerry Huddleston.

The Yankees managed five hits off Indian pitcher Richard Crayton. David Campbell rapped a double in the fifth, Jay Hammond managed three hits, a triple in the first and singles in the second and fifth, while Jimmy Digby whacked a triple in the third.

Jay Hammond gave up five hits to the Indians. Steve Bounds, Richard Crayton, and Greg Sullenger all managed singles, with Tony Rodriquez stroking two doubles, and Richard Crayton batting a triple in the third.

Pitchers Tough In Teen League

Tim Holder fired a one-hitter to help the Dodgers slip by the Rebels 3 to 2, while the Bullets felled the Buffs 18 to 0 as Marvin McClanahan twirled a no-hitter in Junior Teenage action in Towle Park last night.

The Dodgers chalked up six hits off Rebel pitcher Jimmy Dyess. Tim Holder rapped a triple in the first and a single in the 5th and was aided by singles by Scotty Sullivan, Randy Dryden, Charlie, Charlie Cain, and Daryl Stokes.

The lone Rebel hit came in the third with a single by Tim Jones.

The Bullets capitalized on Buff pitching troubles and logged up seven hits. Pitcher Marvin McClanahan led the hitting attack with a double in the second, and a triple in the fifth. Teammates Ricky Rios, Robert Hernandez, Joel Loper, and Rodney Head aided with singles.

Snyder Youths In Golf Tournament

Several Snyder youngsters participated in the Stamford Junior Golf Tournament over the weekend, with Jim Fred Liner winning a playoff over Billy Galan of Abilene for third place in the second flight. Liner had an 84-90—174.

Steve Talbott, competing in the championship flight had an 81-82—163; Bobby Burleson, in the second flight, had a 90-86—176; Jeff Richardson, in the second flight, had 89-89—178; and Stan Talbott, in the third flight, had 103 - 95 - 198.

World Cup Action Hot

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Two perpetual rivals with the same desire—to retire the Jules Rimet Cup with a third world soccer championship victory—will meet-headon in a semifinal match at Guadalajara Wednesday.

Brazil and Uruguay have both won the World crown twice and this meeting has a flavor of vengenace for the Brazilian selection, which suffered a disastrous defeat to Uruguay 20 years ago.

It happened in 1950 when Brazil had built a huge stadium for the world championship and hoped to win its first title.

Everything favored the host team, not only because it would have a partisan crowd but because of its performance prior to the world contest.

But Uruguay took the field against Brazil in the final game and walked off with a 2-1 victory and ruined Brazil's planned celebration.

Brazil later won the Jules Rimet Cup in 1958 in Sweden and in 1962 in Chile. Uruguay, besides 1950, had won the first Cup games in 1930. Italy also has been the world soccer champ twice in 1934 and 1938.

Wednesday's game will be played at Guadalajara's Jalisco stadium and once again Brazil looks like the favorite.

In another semifinal match, Italy is to meet West Germany at Aztec Stadium here Wednesday after winning the quarter-final matches Sunday. The Germans are the choice of the experts to beat Italy.

Casper Prefers A Soft Course

CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — "Rain," urged Billy Casper, gazing up at the dark and ominous clouds over Hazeltine National golf course.

"The softer the ground the better I'll feel," said the Masters champion. "I might jar the club into some hard ground and be on the next plane for California."

Casper arrived at Hazeltine Monday with an injured hand, a swollen jaw and the feeling that he might be too rusty to stay with the competition at the U.S. Open Championship, which begins Thursday.

Casper injured his hand six weeks ago playing an exhibition match in Japan.

"It hurts mostly when I hit the short irons," he said. "Fortunately, Hazeltine is a course that doesn't require a lot of short iron shots.

But, he said, "I don't know if I can swing through heavy rough. Hard, dry ground would really be a problem."

Spectators asked Casper about the swelling in his left jaw.

"You should have seen me last week," he replied. "I looked like a squirrel with a winter's supply of nuts in his mouth.

"I had an infected wisdom tooth. I had it pulled Thursday, and Sunday I had four stitches taken. I wasn't sure I could play until the doctor said go ahead."

The Open will be Casper's first tournament in six weeks, and he appeared worried about the lack of recent competition.

"It's been on thing after another," he said. "I wanted to play at Memphis, in the Kemper at Charlotte and in the Western Open in Chicago, but I had to cancel out of all three.

"They're not only big money tournaments, but I needed some competitive background for the Open. I'm not happy about coming in here like this."

Casper's toothache and sore hand were preceded a few weeks ago by a mysterious virus which produced a temperature of 102 degrees. The remedy, Casper said, was rest-about 16 hours of sleep a day.

"I've played quite a few rounds around home the last month or so," he said. "But that is hardly comparable to conditions for the Open."

'Haying' High On List Of State Farm Activity

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas farmers literally have made hay in good weather last week.

Haying was high on the list of activities, said Director John Hutchison of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, but there were spots in the state where rain intervened.

Showers varied from traces to downpours but generally were light, Hutchison said. The situation is good over much of the state but he noted that the lack of rain is delaying the last planting of dryland crops, restricting the growth of crops already up, and holding back forage growth on ranges. Livestock are in mostly good to excellent condition all through the state, he said.

Scattered, mostly light showers did little for dryland Panhandle wheat and ranges and the lack of rain was delaying the planting of dryland cotton and grain sorghums. Winds and cool temperatures slowed the growth of emerging crops. The dryland wheat harvest is at hand. Irrigated wheat is generally in the soft dough stage. Ranges are below average but livestock, with some feeding, are in good condition. Corn is doing well with irrigation beginning.

Considerable replanting of cotton and sorghum is on in the South Plains (Lubbock) due to blowing sand, hail and heavy rains. Cool weather is delaying crop growth and causing some discoloring in sorghum seedlings. Warmer weather would be welcome. Thrips are damaging young cotton and dry seedbeds hamper germination in some areas. Alfalfa is being harvested with good yields. Livestock generally are in good condition.

Moisture is adequate in most of the Rolling Plains (Vernon) and where fields are dry, the harvest is fast. Yields are good, from 25 to 30 bushels an acre. Planting of cotton, sorghum and guar is continuing. Alfalfa is being bailed. Some cotton is being replanted. Livestock and range conditions were good.

Field work and the grain harvest are being resumed in North Central Texas after showers forced a slowdown. All crops, are making good growth and so far insects have been light. A good percentage of the peanut crop is planted. Showers hampered the spraying of pecan trees for casebearer but prospects look good. Ranges are good; livestock are in fine shape and calves are making good growth. Moisture is adequate.

Moisture in Northeast Texas is adequate in most counties but spots could use more rain. The grain harvest is on and wheat yields range from fair to good and oat yields are good in some areas. The first cutting of hay is complete in most counties. All crops are growing and look good. Ranges are about average and livestock are in good condition.

Rain is needed in Far West Texas for dryland crops and range plants. Irrigated crops grew fairly well despite cool nights. Livestock conditions generally are good; sheep shearing is about complete; and fat lambs are being shipped. Labor is short.

Most of West Central Texas now has adequate moisture. Rains have slowed or stopped the grain harvest. Hay crops are very promising around Sweetwater and San Saba. Cotton growth has been slow due to the cool nights. Rain has delayed planting. Pecan prospects look good. The Hill Country peach harvest was in full swing. Ranges are about average and livestock are in good to excellent condition. Excellent calf and lamb crops along with the wool clip are reported. Wool prices are disappointing. Lambs are fat.

Moisture generally is adequate in Central Texas where up to 80 per cent of the oats are harvested. Some lodging from the wind and rain has been noted. The wheat harvest is well along. Cotton is making good progress and insects have caused little concern. Up to half of the peanut acreage is planted around Eastland and about 30 per cent in other counties. Ranges are above average and marketing of livestock is light.

The first cutting of hay in East Texas has been completed and yields have been good. All crops are growing but some areas need rain to really get them moving. Moisture was short to adequate. Ranges are about average and livestock are in good condition. Pecan prospects are good.

Moisture in the Southeast Texas is adequate and farmers are real busy. The train harvest is about complete and wheat yields up to 35 bushels an acre are reported. The hay harvest is very active. Cotton needs warmer weather. Some boll weevils and fleahoppers are reported. Corn is near the roasting ear stage and sorghum is heading. Rice growth has been limited by the weather. Livestock and range conditions are good.

Adequate to surplus moisture and heavy rains have slowed harvesting in South Central Texas. Planting is now complete; hay prospects are good; and peaches and plums are awaiting harvest. Ranges and livestock were in good to excellent condition. Stock tanks are full.

Some storm damage to cotton, sorghum and watermelons along with delays in harvesting cantaloupes were reported for South Texas. Moisture is now adequate to surplus. Harvesting of onions, cantaloupes and peaches is on. Some insects are reported in cotton and sorghum. Rains have helped ranges. Livestock are in good condition.

House Is Expected To Approve Import Quotas

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislated quotas on textile and other imports are moving toward House passage—regardless of the position the Nixon administration is now formulating—top congressional sources say.

So far, the administration is on record against such legislation at least so long as there is hope of voluntary agreements with Japan and other major exporters. The White House Monday said negotiations still are under way.

But there was rising speculation on Capitol Hill that President Nixon, who is working on a general economic speech for delivery Wednesday, may say he does not object to the limited quota bill backed by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and some 20 other members.

Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans, who outlined the administration's views last month before Mills' Ways and Means Committee, was to return to the stand Thursday with a report on negotiations and their effect on administration policy. His appearance, however, has been postponed until Monday, reportedly at his request.

The Mills bill would set quotas on imported textiles, footwear and apparel. They could be increased in future years, but only in proportion to increases in U.S. consumption of the products involved.

However, a country could avoid the quotas by negotiating a voluntary limitation of exports into the United States of goods found to be causing damage to U.S. industries.

A source in excellent position to observe said that not only is the committee certain to approve the bill—a majority of its members are cosponsors—but that it will be broadened.

Aid will be provided other import-threatened industries, he said, although this probably will not take the form of quotas. Among the devices that might be used, the source said, are countervailing duties on goods whose export is assisted by rebates of the producing country's taxes.

Backers of the bill, whose cosponsors amount nearly to a majority of the House, say there is no question about its passage, especially if the administration remains at least neutral. And its chances are considered even better in the Senate which, unlike the House, has approved quota legislation in the recent past.

The Mills bill is understood also to be working on toughening provisions for a general trade bill sent to it by the administration and intended to revive limited tariff bargaining authority.

TAX ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

• • •

Q — What should I do about the estimated tax notice I got in the mail? I did not have to file Form 1040ES.

A — If you did not have to file an estimated tax declaration for 1970 and your tax situation is unchanged ignore the reminder notice. These reminder notices were sent to all taxpayers who received the estimated tax form packages in February.

Q — I've been called in for an audit of my return. Can I have the person who prepared it come in with me just to help explain things?

A — Yes, you may have the person who prepared the return accompany you. Keep in mind, however, that you are responsible for the accuracy of items listed on the return. Also, it is your responsibility, not the person who prepared it, to provide whatever proof or substantiation might be required to support income and expense figures.

Q — My refund is being held up because I forgot to send in Schedule A, Form 1040, when I filed. How long will it take me to get the refund after I supply this missing item?

A — It should take about four to six weeks from the time you supply the missing information for processing to be completed on your return and the refund issued. Be sure to send back the notice from IRS about the missing item so that the Schedule A can be associated with your return.

Q — Do you have any publication about taxes that would help someone just starting up a business of his own?

A — Yes, our publication, "Tax Guide For Small Business," should be helpful. A copy may be obtained from your IRS District Office or the U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, for 60 cents.

In addition, you will find our "Mr. Businessman's Kit," Publication 454, of interest to you. Call the local IRS office to request your free copy.

Q — Are the meals and lodging you get as a camp counselor taxable?

A — In camp situations, room and board are generally not taxable. Your room and board are excluded from gross income if they are furnished on the employer's premises for his convenience, and in the case of the lodging, you are required to accept it as a condition of your employment.

Q — Can someone who is self-employed take advantage of the moving expense deduction?

A — Yes, the new tax law permits self-employed persons who meet certain tests to deduct moving expenses.

Q — Is a gardener considered a household employee?

A — Yes, he usually is. If you pay him cash wages of $50 or more during a calendar quarter, you are required to file a Form 942, Employers' Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees, and pay social security taxes.

Income taxes, however, do not have to be withheld from wages paid gardeners and other household help.

Four Texans Killed In War

WASHINGTON—(AP) — The names of 40 men killed in action are on the latest casualty list from the war in Southeast Asia.

Included were four Texans:

Army — Spec. 4 Edward L. Evans, son of Mrs. Gladys B. Evans, 5124 Fitshugh Ave., Ft. Worth; Pfc. William V. Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Reed, 2417 Market St., Laredo; Pfc. Clyde D. Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde R. Sanders, 1400 Bayou Shore, Apt. 33, Galveston.

Marine Corps: Gunnery Sgt. Ascension R. Perez, son of Mrs. Jesusa Perez, 246 Millwood Lane San Antonio.

Died not as a result of hostile action.

Army Sgt. 1C Ernest L. Ramsey, husband of Eileen S. Ramsey, 3312 Dungarven Dr., El Paso.

Marine Corps Lance Col. Lonnie A. Dykes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla E. Dykes, 368 Bozeman Ave., Buffalo.

India's railroads suffered over $360,000 in losses due to violence in different parts of the country in 1969 and the first month of this year, Railways Minister G. L. Nanda told Parliament. The violence was the result of communal rioting, banditry and vandalism, he said.

Miss Wool Pageant Set Wednesday

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — The 13th annual Miss Wool of America Pageant begins here Wednesday with the arrival of 20 college coeds, competing for the title.

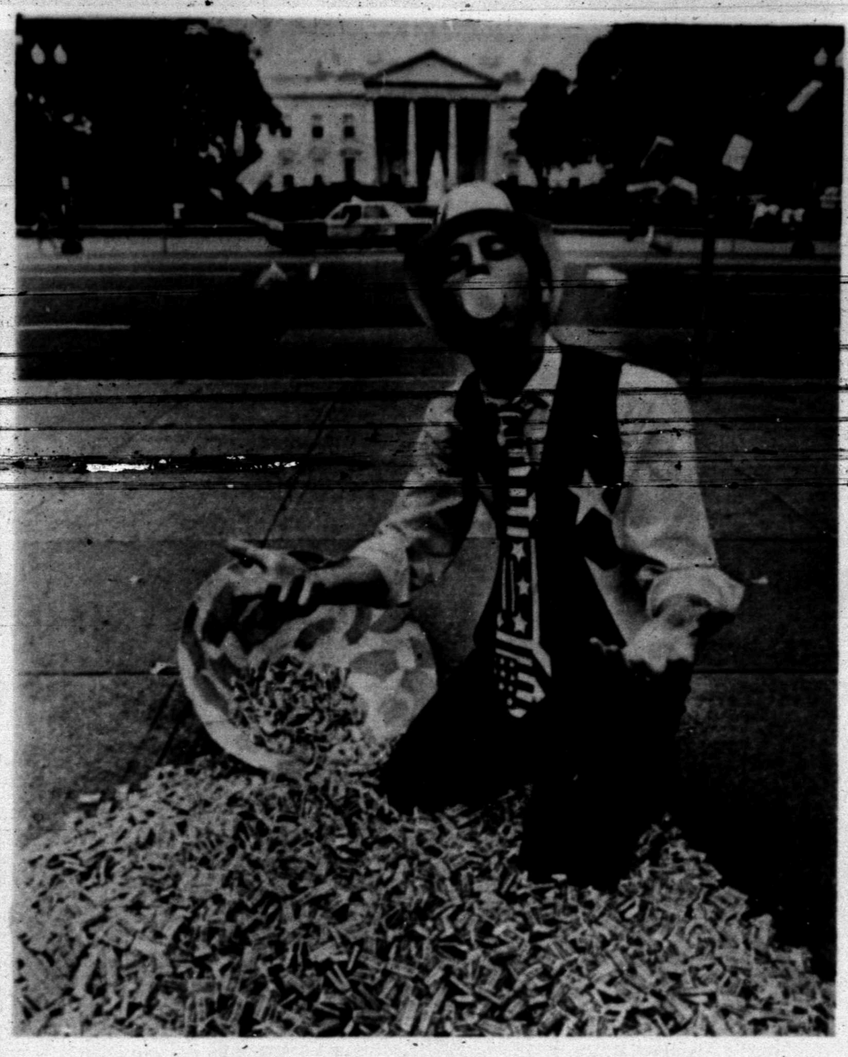

After being crowned June 25, the new Miss Wool of America and the other candidates will model the "top 20 fashions look for fall" in designs by U.S. manufacturers on a TV special commentated by Nancy Ames.

Actor Glenn Ford, designer William Trevilla and Rosemary McMurtry, executive editor of Seventeen magazine, will pick the title-holder, who will get a $2,000 scholarship, a new car, a multi-thousand-dollar wardrobe, and a year travelling on behalf of the wool industry.

The candidates, representing regional councils of the American Sheep Producers Council, are all between 18 and 21 years of age and at least five feet six inches tall.

Jan Green of Ballinger is the Texas entry.

The telecast is being produced by the Sheep Producers Council with the Wool Bureau, which sponsors the annual pageant with the San Angelo Board of City Development.

Russia Sets Space Record

MOSCOW (AP) — Space endurance champions Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov continued to circle the earth today, dining on chicken filet and other hot dishes. But the Soviet Union gave no publicity to their record for time in space.

Tass reported briefly that the Soyuz 9 spacecraft had spent 13 days 22 hours in orbit by 8 p.m. Moscow time Monday. It did not mention that this bettered the record of 13 days 18 hours 35 minutes set by America's Gemini 7 in 1965.

The Russians have been avoiding comparisons with U.S. space achievements since Apollo 11 beat them to the moon last summer.

A brief Tass report this morning said only that "the flight is continuing."

James A. Lovell Jr., one of the Gemini 7 astronauts, sent the Soviet cosmonauts a congratulatory telegram from the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex. "We congratulate you and pass on our best wishes as you pass new milestones in space exploration," it read.

The lowest spot on earth is the shore of the Dead Sea, between Jordan and Israel. It is 1,290 ft. below sea level.

House Debates Postal Reforms

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The battle to reform the nation's postal system and fatten each mailman's wallet is opening in the House today under the threat of another nationwide mail strike.

James H. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, predicted Monday the House will pass the landmark legislation this week. But he warned:

"If the House rejects the bill there definitely will be a strike next week."

At the same time, Rademacher said there will be "hit and run" walkouts in the states of senators who participate in a threatened filibuster when the legislation goes to the Senate.

"When the senators start talking," he said in an interview, "we start walking."

After a New York local threatened to strike last week, Rademacher notified national letter carrier leaders that he will ask for authority to call a nationwide strike if the House defeats the reform and pay raise legislation.

The legislation would turn the mails over to an independent U.S. Postal Service aimed at putting them on a self-paying basis by 1978 and would boost mailmen's salaries 8 per cent retroactive to April 18.

The major House fights are expected over potential compulsory union membership for postal workers under the new system, and the retroactive pay.

Supporters are confident of passage, although no head-counts have been taken and no hard estimates have been made of how many votes will be influenced by the union membership battle.

Approval of the landmark legislation would end Congress' 181-year control over postal operations and set up the independent postal service agency within the government with corporation-like powers to set its own mail rates, negotiate pay and working conditions with unions and sell bonds.

Heyerdahl Reports Floating Lumps

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A 1,400-mile stretch of the Atlantic is polluted with floating lumps of solidified, asphalt-like oil, explorer Thor Heyerdahl messaged Norway's ambassador to the United Nations Monday.

Heyerdahl is the Norwegian leader of an eight-man international team sailing across the Atlantic aboard the papyrus boat Ra II in an attempt to prove the ancient Egyptians could have sailed to South America.

His radio message told Ambassador Edvard Hambro the "oil rocks" ranged in size from "tiny particles to lumps as big as potatoes" and had been seen every day since the reed craft left Safi, Morocco, May 17.

Heyerdahl said it is "highly probable that the pollution area spans the entire ocean" from Africa to tropical America.

People Power: Here's what it means to Dewey Macon.

People power

"I'm a cashier/clerk, so I talk to our customers every day. And I've found that the nicer we are to them, the nicer they are to us.

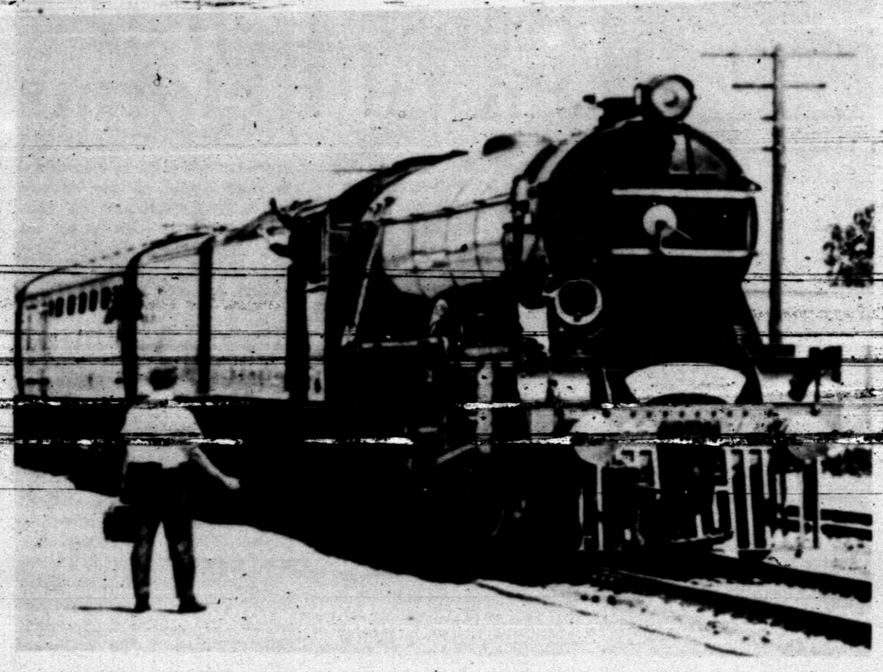

"I remember when we had trouble in the ice storm last winter, even though people were inconvenienced, most of them were really nice when they called in to report trouble. One man even came in from a little town twenty miles away to tell us he appreciated our restoring his service so quickly.

"That's a wonderful feeling."

OLD-TIMER ON THE RAILS — The calendar was turned back briefly on the Santa Fe here Monday when the "Flying Scotsman," famous British steam-powered passenger train passed through Snyder en route to Houston. The British train, which included Winston Churchill's private car, ran from Edinburgh, Scotland, to London and was credited as being the first train to operate regularly at a speed of 100 miles per hour. It had been stored at Slaton during the past winter and Monday began a journey that will take it on an exhibition tour. Snyder residents caught a glimpse of it in the fly as it sped south on the Santa Fe tracks.

Tractor Noise Is Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — The noise a farmer puts up with while riding a tractor ranks between the clatter of a city street and the uproar of a boiler factory, says the Agriculture Department.

Measured on a sound scale of decibels, the noise most people hear ranges from 20 for a soft whisper to the 160 of a jet airplane using its afterburner on takeoff, the department says in a report.

"Around 85 decibels is the [illegible] level," the report says. "Tractors emit from 80 to 110 decibels, depending on the load and other factors."

If a farmer's ears ring or suffers head noises for a few hours after climbing off a tractor, of it speech seems muffled when others talk, then permanent hearing damage may be occurring, the department says.

As a guide, measured on the decibel scale, noises rated less than a tractor's include street traffic, conversation, office work and whispers. Airplanes, shotguns, firecrackers and heavy rifle fire are louder.

Tractor manufacturers are trying to cut down noises by building soundproof cabs and better mufflers, but department experts also say ear plugs or other protectors can help.

Panel Gives Report On Army Prison System

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local draft boards concerned with filling their monthly quotas often draft physically handicapped and mentally disturbed youths who are unfit for military service, according to a civilian panel.

The panel, appointed to study the Army prison system and composed of six noted penologists, said it found many draftees in Army stockades "who were clearly not fitted for military service.

"The committee is well aware of the fact that some local boards, having trouble filling their quotas, draft youths with physical and mental inadequacies, and sometimes with severe personality and character defects that doom them to almost certain failure in the Army."

No specific figures were given on how many young men might be in this category.

In its report, released Monday by the Pentagon, the panel recommended the Army concentrate on rapidly identifying the unfit and unsuitable and discharging them before they get into trouble.

The panel said stockade prisoners who were drafted make up about 36 per cent of the total Army prison population of about 7,000. Draftees constitute 54 per cent of the Army.

The great majority — between 80 to 90 per cent — of Army prisoners are charged or convicted of being absent without leave, the panel said. Of these, many were unstable and unable to withstand the tensions of military life.

Other stockade prisoners included "a great variety of physical, mental and emotional misfits, sex deviants, drug addicts and others who were clearly unfit for military service," the panel reported in its 133-page report to Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor.

The panel called the Army's stockades outdated and overcrowded and run by officers and enlisted men with little or no training in penology.

It also cited a lack of programs to handle, train and rehabilitate prisoners for the future.

Budget Surplus Dwindling

DALLAS (AP) — The federal government will have little budget surplus to pass along to the cities in the current economic situation, Texas city managers were warned Monday.

Rep. Earle Cabell, D-Tex., urged 300 delegates attending the spring meeting of the Texas City Management Association not to rely too heavily on federal aid at this time.

The Dallas congressman called it "immoral" to promise the people services when the cities did not know where the money for them was coming from.

"The dream is that someone will discover a new source of taxes," said Cabell, "When we all know there is only one source and that in the end every tax must fall on the individual taxpayers."

Remarking that the government was requiring more of the states for them to qualify for federal funds, he said:

"I don't believe I have to underline the danger to any city or state program that is federally funded, when the hand that giveth starts taking away."

Mayor Erik Jonsson welcomed the city managers to Dallas.

State Sen. Barbara Jordan of Houston talked at a luncheon meeting about the human factor in urban affairs.

The meeting ends Tuesday.

Texas Cities Get FWQA Grants

DALLAS (AP) — Four Texas cities have been awarded federal grants totaling $259,760 for water pollution control facilities, Richard A. Vanderhoff, director of the Federal Water Quality Administrations South Central Region, announced Monday.

The grants are among 478 that have been awarded to Texas cities under the 1966 Clean Water Restoration Act.

The city of Duncanville received a $12,770 increase to an existing grant for construction of an interceptor line which will enable Duncanville to tie into the soon-to-be-completed Ten Mile Creek Sewage Treatment Plant being built by the Trinity River Authority. The increment brings the FWQA grant to Duncanville to a total of $77,780.

Denton, which already has a FWQA grant for $299,310, received an additional $107,970 for completion of enlargement of its present sewage treatment plant.

The FWQA also award a $10,320 grant to the city of Lovelady and a $128,700 grant to the city of Vernon for water pollution control facilities.

VaccineReducing German Measles

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — German measles vaccine appears to be reducing the incidence of the disease in states where the vaccine is widely used, the National Foundation-March of Dimes said today.

Dr. Virginia Apgar, the foundation's vice president for medical affairs, said 9 out of 10 states with "high vaccine coverage" have reported reduced incidence. Eight of ten states with poor coverage, she said, reported increases.

"While the data are not yet conclusive," Dr. Apgar said, "they do offer encouragement that widespread use of the vaccine among children may ultimately eliminate the disease as a threat to unborn babies."

The federal government began a $50-million campaign last summer with the aim of vaccinating 40 million to 60 million children between the ages of 1 and 12.

The vaccination program is directed at children to prevent the transmission of the German measles virus to women. If a woman contracts the disease during early pregnancy it can cause birth defects.

Women are not being directly vaccinated because doctors fear infecting a woman who may be pregnant and not know it.

Thousands of birth defects resulted from the last epidemic of German measles—also called rubella or three-day measles—in 1963-65.

Because German measles run in cycles, there could be another epidemic in 1971-73. The hope behind the vaccination campaign is to minimize its effects.

The campaign began last summer after the government first licensed a German measles vaccine.

The National Foundation found a 37 per cent decline in rubella in the 10 states with the highest percentage of vaccination in children aged 1 to 12. The states with the lowest percentages reported a 54 per cent increase.

The survey was based on the number of cases for the year ending May 24, 1969 compared to the year ending May 23, 1970.

Ralph Critical Of Nixon

HOUSTON (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough told the union musicians meeting here Monday that President Nixon should change his tune on the nation's economy before disaster strikes.

The Texas Democrat said, "The president knows how to play the piano. He ought to change that tune."

Yarborough, who was defeated for reelection in the May Democratic primary by Lloyd Bentsen Jr., spoke to some 1,200 delegates to the 73rd annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians.

The nation may be headed for a serious economic situation, Yarborough said, if the administration does not make some policy changes.

"Never before in history have we had runaway inflation...and a growing recession at the same time," he said.

He said there is no question that the country's unemployment rate will rise higher than May's 5 per cent mark.

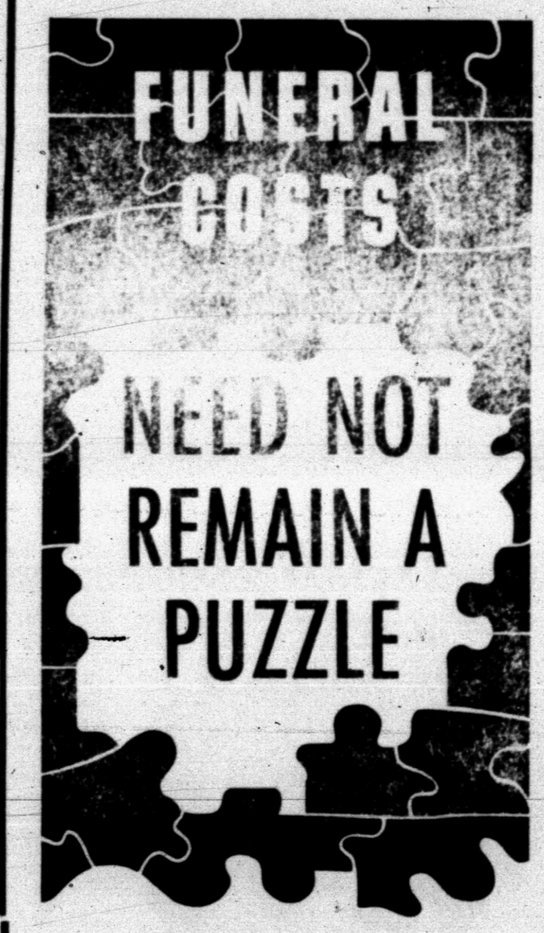

Despite the country's economic problems, the senator said, the Nixon administration is still wedded to high interest rates, which he said are only feeding inflation.

Infiltrator Is Killed In Battle

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean troops fought three North Korean infiltrators in a mountainous area 15 miles north of Seoul Monday and killed one of them, the Defense Ministry said today. The other two escaped into the underbrush, and a hunt was on for them today.

The ministry said a South Korean patrol spotted the trio and challenged them. The North Koreans opened fire, touching off a 1½-hour skirmish.

There were no South Korean casualties, a spokesman said.
