Liberty 'divided' as Daniel jury sought

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — A visiting judge from Beaumont summoned 250 residents of this small town to court today in hopes of finding among them 12 impartial jurors to hear the murder trial of Vickie Daniel, widow of slain Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.

The 9,900 people of this southeastern Texas community appear divided into two camps, and no one involved is predicting whether a jury can be seated that could objectively decide whether Mrs. Daniel, 34, is guilty or innocent of murder in the shooting death of her husband.

Daniel, 39, was killed Jan. 19 during a bitter quarrel with his wife at the Daniel ranch just outside of town.

State District Judge Leonard Giblin, who was brought in from Beaumont after the judges here refused to take a case involving the town's most prominent family, has told lawyers he does not want to spend more than a week on jury selection.

"The judge pretty much gave us the impression that he thought we ought to do it in a week or we weren't going to be able to get a jury here," said District Attorney Carroll Wilborn.

Defense attorney Jack Zimmermann said that according to past experience, only about half of the 250 prospective jurors summoned were expected to show up for today's scheduled 1:30 p.m. session.

The judge set aside today to question the prospective jurors himself and said attorneys in the case can begin asking questions Tuesday.

Wilborn said Giblin set aside Oct. 12 and 13 to decide pre-trial motions and actual testimony was not expected to begin until Oct. 14.

Mrs. Daniel had filed for divorce about three weeks before Daniel was killed. She later said her slain husband was a wife-beater and a child molester.

Daniel was the great-great-grandson of Sam Houston, the son of former Texas Gov., former U.S. Sen., and Texas Supreme Court Justice Price Daniel Sr., and himself a prominent politician who served as state legislator, speaker of the Texas House, and president ot the Texas Constitutional Convention.

All of the residents here may not know the Daniel family personally, but a lot of them do, and the rest at least know who they are, said Chamber of Commerce Manager Homer Smith.

"The town is split into two camps," he said. But he declined to say whether one side had more support than the other.

Details of the shooting came out last spring during a trial to determine who would get custody of the Daniels' two small sons, Marion Price Daniel IV, 1, and Franklin Baldwin Daniel, 4.

Daniel's sister, Jean Daniel Murph of Richardson, Texas, had filed suit to gain custody of her nephews, prompting the six-week trial.

Mrs. Daniel testified that she did not intentionally shoot her husband. After she accused him of beating her, molesting her sons, and said he was advancing on her the night he was shot to death, the jury gave her custody of the children.

She said the night Daniel was killed he had beaten her during a bitter quarrel and kicked her off a stairway leading to the attic, where she said he was going to look for a stash of marijuana.

She grabbed a rifle and fired a warning shot, she testified, but she said Daniel shouted an obscenity and kept advancing toward her.

Oswald theory 'overturned'

The stone that marked the grave of Lee Harvey Oswald stands overturned in front of the open grave in Fort Worth's Rose Hill Cemetery Sunday morning. The body was exhumed and examined, laying to rest theories that the body was not that of Oswald, the alleged assassin of John F. Kennedy.

'Imposter' theory disproved

By TERRY LEONARD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Two decades of theories about at least one aspect of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy apparently have been disproved with a finding "beyond any doubt" that Lee Harvey Oswald was buried in the grave marked with his name.

"There is no reason to ever disturb that body again. Ever," said Dr. Linda Norton, the head of a pathology team that announced Sunday that the exhumed body was indeed Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as the man who killed Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963.

"We both individually and as a team have concluded beyond any doubt, and I mean beyond any doubt, that the individual buried under the name Lee Harvey Oswald in Rose Hill cemetery is Lee Harvey Oswald," she said.

British author and assassination theorist Michael Eddowes, who agreed to pay for the exhumation, had contended the body in Oswald's grave was that of a Russian imposter who replaced Oswald when he defected to the Soviet Union in 1959.

Eddowes, who wrote "The Oswald Files," said Sunday he was "surprised, but in no way disappointed" at the findings.

Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, said she was relieved and "pleased with the results of the autopsy."

Mrs. Porter, who stayed at a discreet distance as the body was exhumed at Fort Worth's Rose Hill Burial Park Sunday morning, said she was "glad the issues have been resolved."

She said she hoped to resume a "normal life" as Marina Porter.

Oswald was shot to death two days after the Kennedy shooting by nightclub owner Jack Ruby. Since then there have been several books propounding the idea that more than one person was involved in the assassination and several theories about Oswald, including Eddowes'.

"We hope this puts the matter to rest," said Ms. Norton, a former Dallas County medical examiner who now practices in Birmingham, Ala. "We hope the Porters can go about living a normal life without any more speculation."

Years of court battles and bitter family quarreling ended Sunday morning at 7 a.m., as gravediggers worked quickly to exhume Oswald's body at Mrs. Porter's insistence.

The final hurdle was removed when Oswald's brother, Robert, removed his legal opposition to the exhumation. A temporary restraining order issued by a federal judge at Robert Oswald's request expired at midnight Saturday, prompting negotiations between attorneys for Mrs. Porter and her brother-in-law.

As a ring of security guards and several attorneys looked on, the concrete vault containing Oswald's casket was lifted from the grave.

Officials said moisture had deteriorated the coffin, which partially collapsed onto the body as the vault was opened.

The casket was reinforced with cardboard and wood, covered with a sheet and taken by hearse to Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas. The body was examined by Ms. Norton, Dr. Vincent DiMaio, Bexar County medical examiner, Dr. James A. Cottone, who specializes in dentistry, and Dr. Irvin Sopher, a West Virginia state medical examiner who has written several books on forensic dentistry.

The team took X-rays and made dental impressions to compare the teeth with Oswald's Marine Corps records.

Ms. Norton said a mastoidectomy scar from an operation Oswald had when he was 8 years old also was discovered and photographed.

"There was no doubt (that the body was Oswald)," said Cottone, assistant professor of dentistry at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio.

Ms. Norton said the entire procedure was videotaped at Mrs. Porter's request.

Reagan set to defend defense plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing stiff questioning in Congress, the Reagan administration says its plan to deploy MX missiles in stronger silos and build a new bomber is essential to counter a "considerable danger" of nuclear attack in the next few years.

The Senate Armed Services Committee was opening hearings today on President Reagan's proposal to deploy 100 MX missiles, reinforce vacant Titan silos for at least 36 of them and build 100 B-1 bombers while working on a plane with "Stealth" equipment to foil Soviet radar.

Sen. John Warner, R-Va., chairman of the subcommittee on nuclear forces and a former Navy secretary, said he would press Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger to justify the use of fixed silos and explain "whether we can afford two new bomber programs at the same time."

In interviews Sunday, Weinberger called the plan a "vast strengthening" of U.S. military might, while his predecessor at the Pentagon, Harold Brown, dismissed it as "better than nothing."

"Because of the failure to keep strategic forces modernized and because of the length of time it takes to bring new systems on, there will be a period in the middle of this decade when we will be vulnerable and will have a period of considerable danger," Weinberger said on CBS' "Face the Nation."

"That is why it is absolutely essential to start now with the modernization and strengthening of these strategic forces," he said.

Brown, interviewed on the ABC program "Issues and Answers," said, "It's better than nothing. ... It will produce a greater symmetry between the United States and the Soviets. That doesn't make me very comfortable. I don't worry about a U.S. first strike, because it isn't going to happen. I do worry about a Soviet first strike."

Former President Carter had scrapped plans for the B-1 and advocated shuttling 200 MX missiles among 2,400 shelters in the West to conceal their whereabouts, a "shell-game" system intended to force the Soviets to saturate the area with 4,000 nuclear warheads to wipe out all the MXs.

Sen. John Tower, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, appearing on the NBC program "Meet the Press," derided Reagan's MX plan Sunday as "silo stuffing." The Texas Republican said it faces an "uncertain" fate in Congress.

Weinberger said the Reagan plan "isn't a weakening, it's a vast strengthening."

He said the Titan silos would be reinforced to withstand up to 5,000 pounds per square inch of blast pressure, almost 10 times what Carter proposed for new shelters in Nevada and Utah.

Brown argued that the Soviets will have nuclear warheads by 1984 or 1985 accurate enough to blast a cavity all around the site and added: "You can't harden a shelter enough so that it will surve being in the crater from a nuclear explosion."

Weinberger conceded there is no way to permanently guarantee that missiles in a known silo could be protected from Sovietpnuclear attack but said, "We are proposing to make them invulnerable for a number of years."

'Some say that is just stop-gap," the defense secretary said. "All right, but it's an awfully big gap and it's very vital to stop it."

The debate over strategic weapons begins as the battle builds over Reagan's proposed sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia. Both the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs committees are likely to vote against the deal this week.

Ten of the Senate committee's 17 members and 24 of the House committee's 37 members co-sponsor veto resolutions against the sale. The House is likely to veto the sale Oct. 13, but the Senate's vote is still too close to call..

Reagan needs approval of only one chamber for the $8.5 billion sale of sophisticated radar planes and other arms.

In other congressional business this week:

—A confrontation is set Tuesday on the administration's drive for deeper budget cuts as the House takes up the appropriations bill for the Health and Human Services and Labor departments.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., says the bill is $73 million over the administration's budget. The White House says it is $800 million too much if the latest budget-slashing proposals are counted.

—The major civil rights debate of the 97th Congress continues in the House, with the first votes expected by Tuesday on a bill to extend key provisions of the 1965 Voting Rights Act for two years.

Area passengers see few flight delays

By GAIL BURKE
Staff Writer

Passengers on commercial airlines are not experiencing any major delays at Midland Regional Airport two months after 12,000 Professional Air Traffic Controllers chose to illegally strike on Aug. 3.

While airports around the nation are reporting many departures delayed more than 30 minutes, four of the five airlines that serve Midland Regional Airport — American, Continental, Braniff, Southwest and Texas International — reported today that flights "are running fairly on schedule."

According to The Associated Press, the Federal Aviation Administration showed a daily average of flights were delayed more than 30 minutes during the last two weeks of September. And the number of delayed flights were doubled compared to this time last year.

"We have very few delays," William Thurmon, Braniff general manager, said this morning. "Every once in awhile a flight will be delayed, but the delay runs less than 10-15 minutes — mostly controlled by the flow center."

Thurmon noted that out of 103 departures in September, there were "about 10 air traffic control delays, but then again this is due to Dallas (flow system)."

At American Airlines, A. Jack McAdams, general manager, said that there are no major delays that could be attributed to the PATCO strike, but "every once in a while there are gate holds at Midland. Out of 111 flights, we've had about 19 that have been delayed approximately 10 minutes."

Chuck Logue, general manager of Continental, reported the airlines "were experiencing some scattered delays and out of 210 departures, about 3 percent of the flights were having some kind of a problem in delay."

Michael Patrick, Texas International general manager, said the strike caused the airline's one daily flight to change its schedule by two hours, "but now in October we're back on a 5:04 p.m. schedule and haven't experienced any delays out of Dallas."

Southwest Airlines could not be reached for comment this morning.

Bill Hill, FAA control tower chief at Midland Regional Airport, said the major reason for the delays is safety.

He explained a standard flow system has been imposed nationwide. Simpliflying a complicated system, Hill explained the flow system is what puts a certain amount of air space between arriving and departing flights. As a result of the strike this space has been increased.

Hill noted that the flow system is "tailored to the needs of the control facility." Since Fort Worth center was hit hard by the strike, it resulted in fewer controllers, Hill said. Therefore, fewer aircraft can be handled at any one time.

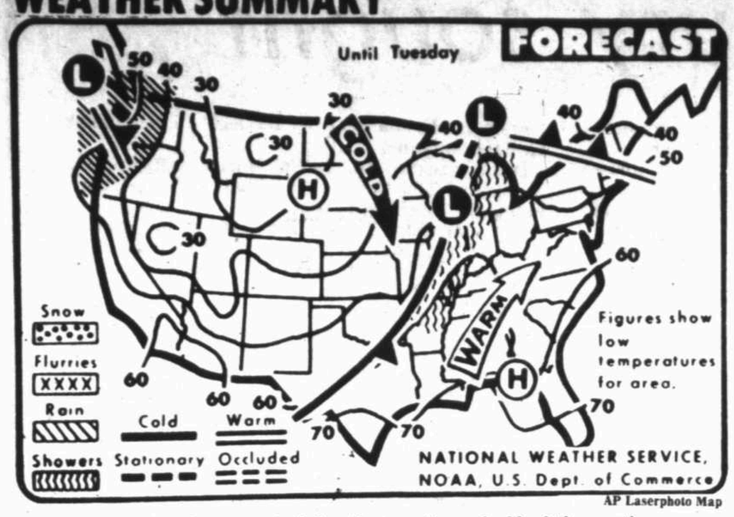

"For example, if we have five jets in a row, Fort Worth says 'space them five minutes apart,' where in the past it has been five miles," Hill said.

"However, our delays are not caused from the lack of controllers here. The Fort Worth center is the metering facility — they dictate to us how many airplanes we can let go," Hill said.

Another reason cited for delays,

Reagan discounts AWACS compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, vowing to do nothing to infringe on Saudi Arabia's sovereignty, says the United States has no intention of sharing ownership of AWACS radar planes with the Arab kingdom to get the sale through Congress.

And Reagan, accusing opponents of the deal of waging a propaganda campaign, says he hasn't "really gone to bat yet."

The president was stepping up his battle today as hearings resumed on Capitol Hill.

He called leading foreign policy figures from previous administrations to the White House for a luncheon and Rose Garden reception today to demonstrate, he said Sunday, "how many people of varying political backgrounds and views are in wholehearted support of the AWACS sale."

The guest list included four former defense secretaries — Harold Brown, Elliott Richardson, Melvin Laird and Robert McNamara — five former White House national security advisers — Gordon Gray, Walt Rostow, McGeorge Bundy, Henry Kissinger and Zbigniew Brzezinski — as well as three former chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — Adm. Thomas Moorer, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer and Gen. Maxwell Taylor.

ASKED SUNDAY on his return to the White House from a weekend at the Camp David, Md., presidential retreat if he were worried, Reagan replied, "I'm always worried until you can count the votes."

It takes a majority vote of both houses of Congress by Oct. 31 to overturn the proposed $8.5 billion sale of five Airborne Warning and Control System planes and a package of gear to upgrade Saudi Arabia's 62 F-15 fighters — extra fuel tanks, bomb ranks and late-model Sidewinder missiles.

The administration already has conceded defeat in the House and is pinning its hopes on the Senate, where 50 members have signed a resolution against the sale.

Opponents have expressed concern that the aircraft could be used against Israel or could fall into enemy hands if the Saudi monarchy is overthrown.

Some senators have sought to defuse the issue by insisting on joint U.S.-Saudi crews — something the Saudis have refused to accept, most recently in a foreign ministry statement Saturday saying the country "would not share the AWACS radar surveillance aircraft with anyone."

REAGAN SAID HE thought Saudis were responding to "misinformation about what is in mind." Opponents have been "propagandizing against it for years," he said of the sale.

"We have no intention of violating their sovereignty," the president said. "We have no intention of sharing ownership. We and they will, yes, share the intelligence obtained by those AWACS."

That view was echoed Sunday by Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger.

"They (the Saudis) have rejected any limits on their sovereignty," the Pentagon chief said on CBS' "Face the Nation," adding that "the practical fact is that there will be a strong American presence" to help run and maintain the planes.

Reagan, asked if negotiations with the Saudis were continuing, replied, "No, the negotiations with Congress will continue."

"I DON'T think we've really gone to bat yet," he said.

In other weekend developments:.

—An Associated Press-NBC News poll conducted Sept. 28-29 showed Americans sharply divided over the sale, with 25 percent in favor, 40 percent opposed and 35 percent unsure. A similar poll in May showed 19 percent in favor, 54 percent opposed and 27 percent unsure.

—Harold Brown, defense secretary under Jimmy Carter, said on the ABC program "Issues and Answers" that if the sale were rejected, "I think it would be quite damaging in the short run and in the long run to our ability to conduct foreign policy."

—Israeli Cabinet Secretary Arieh Naor said the Saudi statement rejecting joint control of the planes "made it as clear as the sun that they will use it (AWACS) against us."

—Former President Nixon said in a statement he supported the AWACS sale and chided Israel for fighting it. "We know, the Saudis know and eveyone in the Middle East knows that if it were not for the intensity of opposition by (Israeli Prime Minister Menachem) Begin and parts of the American Jewish community, the AWACS sale would go through."

Unusual cancer fundraiser breaks own record

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A unique cancer research fundraiser begun six years ago appears to have broken its own record for money raised in a single evening, according to the event's organizers.

"As a rough estimate, it looks like it'll be $360,000" — $20,000 more than last year — said Glenda Blackburn, assistant director of development for the Long Beach unit of the American Cancer Society.

Ms. Blackburn said Sunday night a final total probably wouldn't be reached before Tuesday.

The seventh annual auction and dinner, held under a giant white tent on the three-acre estate of Daniel and Frani Ridder, began at 6 p.m. Saturday and ran nine hours. Ridder is vice president of Knight-Ridder Publishing and is publisher of the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram.

The event realized $34,000 in 1975, the year it was begun by Mrs. Ridder and a few friends, and has grown more than tenfold since.

Included in the fundraiser was a silent auction, a dinner and a live auction. The participants were limited to 620 people "because that's what fits under the tent," Mrs. Ridder explained.

The money count was complicated by the guests' use of scrip issued to them in return for the checks — for up to $1,000 — that they remitted with their invitations.

After $150 from each check is put into the anti-cancer fund, the guests use scrip to bid on more than 1,000 items and services, Mrs. Ridder said. Because everything is donated and all work is voluntary, the cancer society gets every dollar raised.

One of three amateur auctioneers working Saturday night was Jim Gray.

"We work cheap," he said with a smile. "Our secret — besides hard work — is that we have fun knowing everyone and getting them to bid against each other."

Donations from companies and individuals filled the long tables under the tent with jewelry, cameras, fancy clothes, food and wine and cards describing trips to a variety of exotic resorts. Puppies, a kitten and a parrot also were available.

In the silent auction, bidders jotted their names on cards next to each item. The final name, and highest bid, won when that table-category was closed.

Because there had been rather aggressive, last-moment efforts to add a name to a card in past years, a wandering auctioneer dressed as a football referee was used this year for the first time, Mrs. Ridder said.

Insurance man Rick Bryson paid $2,500 for a Canadian red fox coat for his wife, Nancy, after the "referee" took bids from the Brysons and another couple.

"I feel a little weak," Bryson confessed, but added that, having recovered from a cancer at the base of his spine seven years ago, the money was well spent.

"I'm alive today because of the advances in research, he said. "I think of that when I spend money here."

Reception honors Marshall

The first black president in the history of the Midlander Educators Association was honored Saturday night at a reception. Alma Marshall officially took over as president of the MEA on June 15, 1981, and will serve through July 15, 1982.

"I continue to be flabbergasted," Mrs. Marshall said with a laugh. After 24 years involved in teaching in the Midland Independent School District, Mrs. Marshall said she greatly appreciates the honor.

She is currently teaching seventh and eighth grade social studies at Goddard Junior High where she also serves as the social studies department chairman.

She has been teaching junior high school and a few high school classes in Midland since 1958.

Mrs. Marshall also is an assistant conference coordinator for the Texas Council for the Social Studies convention which will be held in Midland Oct. 15-17.

The reception, held in the home of Dr. Viola Coleman, was hosted by Dr. Coleman, Claudia Davis, a teacher at Midland High School, and Nadine Mays, a teacher at Alamo Junior High School.

Mrs. Marshall said the MEA, which is a branch of the National Educators Association, has been in operation for over 25 years with some 300 men and women "interested in furthering the goals of education" involved.

Labor leaders lost touch, poll finds

NEW YORK (AP) — American labor leaders have lost touch with the needs and desires of the workers they represent, according to an overwhelming majority of the respondents in the latest Associated Press-NBC News poll.

A strong majority of those polled from households with at least one union member agree that labor leaders are out of touch with their constituents.

Overall, only 1 in 5 people believes the labor movement is gaining strength and 1 in 3 said no workers, either public or private, should be allowed to strike.

The poll was taken of 1,601 adults who were contacted at random by telephone Sept. 28-29 in a scientifically selected nationwide sample.

Seventy-three percent agreed with the statement, "American labor leaders are out of touch with the needs and desires of the workers they represent," while 18 percent disagreed and 9 percent said they were not sure.

Among people who said that either they or some other members of their households were union members, 67 percent agreed with the statement.

Twenty percent of all respondents said they believe the labor movement in the United States is getting stronger, while 39 percent said it is getting weaker, 34 percent said it is staying about the same and 7 percent were unsure.

The response from people in households including at least one union member almost matched the answers of people not from union households: 20 percent said the labor movement is getting stronger, 40 percent said weaker, 37 percent said the same and 3 percent were unsure.

Forty-six percent said they think any worker, public or private, should be allowed to go on strike. Thirty-six percent said no worker should be allowed to strike, while 12 percent said only private workers should be allowed to strike and 6 percent were not sure.

Chance of rain decreasing

Midland and the surrounding area may be able to put their umbrellas away as the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport predicts a decreasing chance of rain tonight through Tuesday.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with a slight chance of thunderstorms tonight and Tuesday. The chance of rain is 20 percent through Tuesday.

While the NWS recorded .24 of an inch of rain overnight for Midland, area towns reported different amounts varying from a trace in Big Spring to a drizzle in Stanton. Andrews, Big Lake and Crane reported sprinkles and light rain while Lamesa reported a good rain.

Winds will be from the north at 5-10 mph, increasing to 10-15 mph on Tuesday.

Sunday's high of 92 was four degrees cooler than the record high temperature set in 1937 of 96. The overnight low of 67 was a little over 30 degrees warmer than the record low of 36 recorded in 1932.

Police investigate burglaries

Midland police were probing several burglaries this morning including a burglary at Casa de Musica, 403 E. Illinois Ave.

Adela Hernandez of 1605 N. Edwards St. reported the burglary to police. Entry to the store was gained through a south window between 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. Sunday, reports indicated.

Taken were various stereo equipment, cartons of cigarettes and candy bars. Total value of the items taken was $509.

An officer reported a burglary at 2008 E. California Ave. Entry was through a north window, reports indicated.

Taken from that residence was a stereo and a 21-inch color television. Total value was $558.

Key Thompson, 3402 Hill Ave., reported a burglary at that residence. There was no sign of forced entry, reports indicated. Taken was $200 in assorted bills and change.

Midland firemen responded to a house fire at 4616 Princeton Ave. Sunday evening and spent an hour bringing the blaze under control.

Police, Fire Roundup

Cause of the fire, at the O.J. Warner residence, could not be immediately determined. It was extinguished with 550 gallons of water.

The fire caused heavy damage to the brick veneer home's living room and heavy heat and smoke damage throughout the residence.

Shootings injure two in Odessa

ODESSA — Odessa police are investigating shootings an hour apart that injured an Odessa man and woman Saturday night.

A police spokesman, meanwhile, says the shootings apparently are related and that authorities do have a suspect in the cases although no one has yet been arrested.

Oscar Galindo of 1319 Drury Lane was driving his station wagon east on East Clements about 11 p.m. Saturday when a small, blue car pulled alongside him. An occupant of that vehicle fired a single shot, striking Galindo in the left side of the head.

He went to Medical Center Hospital for emergency treatment, police said, but did not require hospitalization.

An hour later, Marina Galindo of the same address was standing in a doorway between the dining room and living room of her home when three shots were fired through a window. One of the shots struck her in the left leg, according to police reports.

She was taken to Medical Center Hospital for treatment.

Police have not speculated about a motive for the shootings.

Candidates hustling to try to finance campaigns

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — It's big money time in Texas politics as would-be candidates try to get their campaigns financed before making public announcements.

But a lot of the big money in both parties is being tied up by the campaigns of Republican Gov. Bill Clements and Democrat U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Other candidates say they have to plead just to get promises.

"It's no doubt the two races are getting the most money," said GOP State Chairman Chet Upham, Mineral Wells, "and I'm sure that some are giving both to Clements and Bentsen. They appeal to the same type businessman."

"There are a lot of the same people who give to Bentsen who also give to Clements, and vice versa," said a top Democratic campaigner, who did not want his name used. "Bentsen has always had bipartisan support, and Clements got Democratic support in 1978."

CLEMENTS AND Bentsen have announced for re-election next year.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong says he will announce as a Democratic canidate for governor shortly, "barring a lightning stroke."

And there are recurring rumors that former Gov. Dolph Briscoe will make his decision on a race the latter part of October or early November. Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, and former Attorney General John Hill are still to be heard from.

In the U.S. Senate race, Bentsen apparently will be opposed either by U.S. Rep Jim Collins, R-Dallas, or state Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston.

Collins has been campaigning, but there were recent reports that his problems in getting campaign backing might force a change of mind.

"Bentsen and Clements are getting the top-dollar contributions, the $20,000 kind," said Armstrong., "but then Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby is getting some of that too ... If I make the race it will be something that will have to grow. I want to appeal to the young and successful people. I want to get the $1,000 and $2,000 donations instead of the $20,000 kind."

UPHAM, THE state GOP leader, says the two big races make money problems big for candidates in other races too.

"However, we think we can get past that all right," Upham said, announcing a statewide fund-raising "Salute to America" in Houston Nov. 13.

Passengers see few flight delays

Hill said, is that only one general aviation (private and corporate) aircraft, flying 23,000 feet or below, can leave on the hour. Until now, the pilots have been arranging time slots with the control tower on the telephone.

But, Hill said a general aviation reservation program will be put into effect Oct. 19.

Ray Burton, director of the flight service station, said general aviation aircraft will file a flight plan for a reservation in the ATC system not less than an hour or more than 16 hours before their take-off time.

"This will not alleviate the delay problem, but it will help the general aviation have a bigger percentage of the system flights," Burton said.

On Sept. 1, the FAA adopted a rule for pilots of private planes to receive air traffic control clearance and guidance before taking off — adding thousands of daily flights to the list of those handled by the controllers.

Hill said the general aviation system that will be put into effect in Midland will help ease some of delay problems.

Witches now ride modern broomsticks

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Like the old gray mare, the wicked old witch of Halloween just "ain't what she used to be."

The frightening frump who symbolized the scariness of All Hallows Eve as she soared through the skies astride her broomstick, has become a funny fuddy-duddy who more often than not has lost control of her wooden steed, according to the curator of an extensive collection of old and new greeting cards.

The witch switch, explains Hallmark's Keith Davis, can be attributed mostly to the change in the ages of Halloween followers.

"The earlier Halloween postcards and the celebration of the holiday itself were much more adult-oriented than the modern versions," he says. "In the earlier part of the century, adult Halloween parties and exchange of cards were very popular but the party custom virtually died out during the Depression years, and while it has made a strong comeback in recent years, Halloween parties and cards nowadays are primarily for the young."

As a result, greeting cards today generally depict witches as whimsical, cartoon-like characters, Davis points out, whereas on the early cards they appeared much more menacing, in keeping with their historic connection to Halloween.

References to witchcraft have been traced to ancient times, even before they surfaced as part of the original Druid celebrations of Halloween, says Davis.

In return for serving the Devil, witches were alleged to receive certain powers, such as the ability to cause illness or transfer it from one person to another, to make rain or raise storms, to produce impotence in men and sterility in women, to cause crops to fail, animals to be barren and milk to go sour; to destroy love by charms and spells; to do harm by a glance ("the evil eye"); to revive the dead and conjure up their spirits, to transform themselves and others into animals, particularly wolves and cats, and to fly with or without the aid of brooms.

Hence, the Halloween cards of the early 1900s present witches of malevolent mien, accompanied by equally churlish cats, admonishing: "On Hallowe'en beware, beware. For witches sure will get you, if you don't take care." Or "Hallowe'en Warning: On Hallowe'en look out! Strange things are all about."

The cards started to change, Davis observes, after World War II when the spelling of the holiday gradually moved from Hallowe'en, a contraction of All Hallows Eve, to the simpler form of Halloween.

This year's card crop continues the woeful-witch trend, he says, with one unhappy hag saying, "I'd like to be with you on Halloween but somebody stole my broom," and another sliding down through the night wailing, "Some idiot greased my broom!"

Other not so baleful warnings from the 1981 card witches include: "STOP! Don't open this card! It's got a curse on it! Too late! Now you're going to get warts.!"

And, possibly in keeping with today's turbulent times, still another shows a witch crossing the moon on a reindeer-powered sleigh, with a tied-up Santa Claus crying, "If you see an old witch in a sleigh drawn by eight tiny reindeer, notify the police immediately!"

DEAR ABBY

Helpful hints for fire prevention

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: It's Fire Prevention Week again, and I have had so many requests to repeat my column on fire prevention that it has become a tradition. So here it is, with updated figures:

Last year, 7,800 Americans died, and nearly 130,000 civilians, plus 100,000 firemen, were seriously injured in 3,000,000 fires.

The total fire loss last year in property alone was $5 1/2 billion in the U.S.

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

1) Smoking
2) Electrical wiring
3) Heating and cooking equipment
4) Children playing with matches
5) Open flames and sparks
6) Flammable liquids
7) Suspected arson
8) Chimneys and flues
9) Lighting
10) Spontaneous ignition

Now for some tips that could save your life:

Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. Never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.

Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. Replace a cord if it is frayed.

Never leave small children or invalids alone in the house — not even for a few minutes.

Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors.

Never smoke in bed.

Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire. Designate a specific meeting place outside so you will all know who's outside of the house.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 percent of all fires on which they were used, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher. Keep it handy in your kitchen, or be prudent and buy one for your cottage, car, boat and the back bedroom.

Buy and install a smoke detector and then properly maintain it. It must be cleaned often with the vacuum cleaner hose so that it is dust-free. It is estimated that 6,000 lives could have been saved last year had a smoke detector been in service when the fire happened.

Now, in case of fire:

If you suspect fire, alert the rest of the household. But first feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on EVERY telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a neighbor's house.

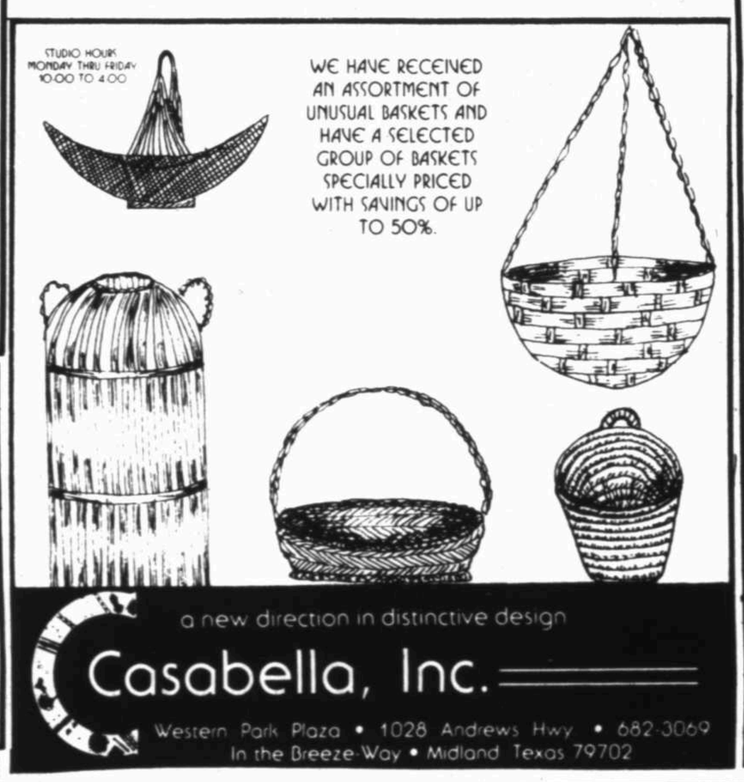

If you live in an apartment building use the stairway. DON'T take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped!

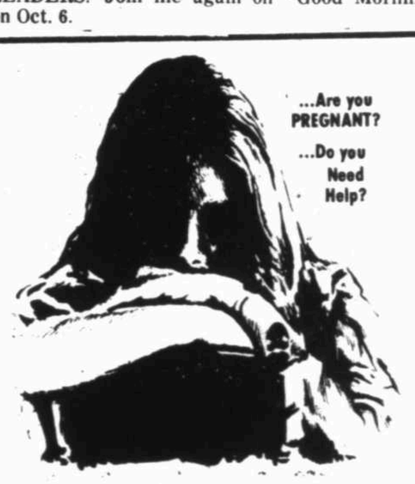

Once out, stay out. No treasure is worth risking your life for.

It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so. — ABBY

P.S. If you are in a hotel and suspect there is a fire, call the fire department YOURSELF. Then alert the hotel telephone operator. Believe it or not, most hotels will NOT call the fire department until their staff verifies whether or not there really is a fire and have tried to put it out themselves. Should a guest call to report a fire, the hotel will almost always send a bellhop, security guard or anyone else who's not busy to investigate. Hotels are reluctant to "disturb" their guests. Fire engines in the street are quite embarrassing and tend to draw crowds. The hotel may be a little upset with you, but really...who gives a damn? The fire department will be glad you called — you may have saved many lives.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Remove stains

DEAR HELOISE:

Could you please tell me how to get formula stains and other types of stains, out of my children's shirts? — Mrs. Roger Graham

+ + +

Formula stains are among the most difficult to remove. They're caused not only by the milk or formula but by their mixing with the saliva as well.

Sometimes an enzyme presoak will remove this type of stain. The best thing I can recommend is to get to the stain as soon as possible. I know that as a new mother with umpteen things to do, it's not always possible to get to the stain immediately. But, if you can just run it under cold water and then rinse it out, it should help. Be sure to hang it to dry before putting it in the hamper to await laundering.

A great formula for removing most stains, (as well as whitening clothes) is a soaking solution of one-fourth cup household chlorine bleach, one cup automatic dishwasher detergent mixed in one gallon of hot water. Use the sink or a plastic container to mix the solution. Do not use aluminum. Allow the stained garments to soak about 30 minutes, then wash as usual. (Natch, if your clothes can't stand hot water, let it cool first).

If, after you've tried this solution, you find some stains still remain, consider the source of the stain. Perhaps another type of treatment is necessary, such as an enzyme or a pre-wash spray.

Just don't give up. Something's bound to work sooner or later. Even letting the garments soak longer or giving them another treatment or two may be necessary.

Hope this eases your laundry dreads and gives you a few more minutes to enjoy that precious bundle. — Hugs, Heloise

GARAGE SALE-ING

Dear Heloise: As an inveterate garage sale shopper for many years, here are a few hints from the would-be sale-giver's viewpoint.

Put a price sticker on everything. The customer is more likely to buy something if he doesn't have to embarrass himself by asking the price, then finding it's higher than he wants to pay.

If you want to sell the items, price them really low. No point in paying store prices or even what it is worth at a garage sale. Make it a real bargain!

Items over $10 should be listed individually in your advertisement with asking prices. People who want these items will then seek out your sale.

Be prepared for customers who will arrive earlier than your advertised time. Many sales are in competition around 9 or 10 a.m., so make yours earlier and get the early birds. — F. Smith

CLOSE SHAVE

Dear Heloise: I just got a new pair of pants and had the problem of little fuzz balls of material on the front of the pants.

I took my disposable razor and gently ran it down the front of my pants and shaved off all the little fuzz balls.

It works well on sweaters and other garments that insist on getting fuzzed up. I've found it best to place the garment on the ironing board and hold the fabric tight while shaving off the lint.

Just be careful and don't nick the fabric. — S.C.

Justice Department to sue to enforce equal education

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is considering suits against some school boards for providing inferior education to minorities and is close to joining some other school systems in an effort to lift mandatory busing orders.

The dual thrust was disclosed in an interview Sunday night by the administration's chief civil rights enforcer, William Bradford Reynolds, the assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's civil rights division.

Reynolds provided the greatest detail thus far of how the new administration will approach school desegregation now that it has ruled out mandatory busing as a remedy.

He said the Justice Department will apply two tests to determine whether a school district is in compliance with the Constitution: whether it supplies equal education to all students and whether it has achieved the maximum possible desegregation without mandatory busing.

"We already have a couple of places we're looking at" for allegedly providing inferior education for minorities, Reynolds said. "Any suit would optimistically be at least several weeks off. And of course we would try to negotiate before we sued."

He declined to identify the particular localities involved.

"We're concerned that we still have, almost 30 years after the Supreme Court's decision in Brown vs. Board of Education, unequal educational opportunity," Reynolds said. "It's about time somebody addressed that problem."

In the 1954 Brown case, the Supreme Court struck down laws segregating public education.

Reynolds said he did not think the problem of inferior teaching, educational programs or facilities for minority schools was "pervasive." But he added, "It's also not confined to any particular region. There are areas where this is going on in all regions of the country."

Reynolds said he would concentrate more on teaching and educational programs than facilities. For example, he said, the division would not seek to make urban school playgrounds the same size as rural school playgrounds.

Nevertheless, the division would be concerned if it found that a school board had put good science laboratories in predominantly white schools and inferior laboratories in minority schools, he said.

"We're not talking about large expenditures of additional funds," Reynolds said. "While these things will cost some money, educators say that a great deal can be done with limited extra spending and money can be reallocated within a system, particularly away from mandatory busing."

If the department finds a school board has deliberately assigned its best teachers to majority-race schools or allowed them to go there, Reynolds said, he would consider a variety of remedies, including mandatory re-assignment of teachers. Another possible remedy would be extra pay for teachers who voluntarily transferred to minority schools, he said.

The new policy differs from the "separate but equal" laws of the past, he said.

Woman's body found near Austin

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A body found Friday night near an unpaved road in Northwest Travis County has been identified as that of a 71-year-old Austin woman who was a receptionist for a job-placement center for handicapped people.

Police said Christine Glines had been raped and stabbed to death.

Her car was found burning miles away in downtown Austin, six blocks from her apartment.

"Whoever murdered her brought the car back into town and set it on fire," said Curtis Weeks, sheriff's public information officer. "I guess they were trying to destroy evidence."

Weeks said an autopsy was performed Saturday, but that the medical examiner's report would not be finished until today.

Popes makes St. Peter's appearance

By ROBERT McCARTNEY
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Guarded by more than 200 uniformed police and plainclothesmen, Pope John Paul II on Sunday made his first appearance in St. Peter's Square since a Turkish terrorist tried to kill him there on May 13.

The crowd of 70,000 had to pass through checkpoints at which guards searched all bags and metal detectors were used as a protection against guns.

"I've been coming to St. Peter's for 26 years, and they've never looked in my purse before," said Marzia Pellegrino, a legal secretary.

Vatican officials said it was the first time the crowd was screened for a papal appearance since Pope Pius XI started the tradition of popes meeting the crowd in the 1930's.

The pontiff look tired but smiled as he sat on a throne at the top of the steps during the beatification of three Italians and two French people. Wooden barriers kept the crowd about 50 yards from the pope.

Despite a light drizzle, the pope after celebrating Mass walked to a special section at the front of the crowd and spent about five minutes shaking hands and patting children on the head. The people in the section, including a group in wheelchairs, obtained tickets in advance from the Vatican.

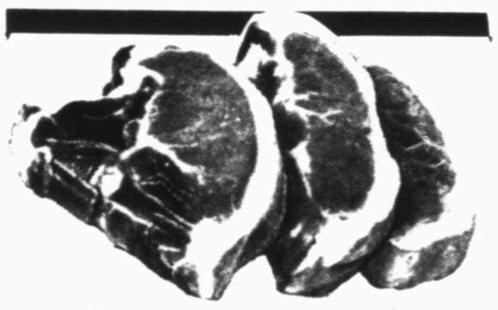

Then the pope went to the balcony of the basilica and gave his weekly blessing.

The pope was released from the hospital on June 3 after treatment for bullet wounds but returned 17 days later suffering from pleurisy and a viral infection.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Despite his 'coaching,' game stays the same

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street seems to have been caught at an old habit, that of talking a better game than it plays, and Coach Reagan is upset. His pep talks don't seem to work. Wall Street just can't seem to score.

Oh, it talks about scoring. Any day of the week you can interview an analyst who expects his favorite dozens stocks to soar, and you can even find a few who are talking about a 2,000-point Dow Jones average.

People on Wall Street even send letters of support to the president, telling him how he has saved capitalism from disaster. And some have publicly advertised their undying support. But money's another thing.

Why has the investment community failed to risk money on rebuilding America? Why have the stock market averages failed to rise along with the rhetoric? How can there be such a split between words and action?

Some possibilities present themselves.

1. Investors really don't believe. They approve of spending cuts and the return of power to the private sector, but they question whether it is possible without severe financial and social upheavals first.

In spite of the praise they extend, important investor institutions and business corporations may not be as solidly behind the president as they say they are. They admire his spirit and direction, but they have reservations. It isn't just the financial community that has them. Some manufacturers are sitting on their hands rather than building capacity.

A survey of top business officers, results of which are scheduled to be released Tuesday by The Conference Board, show they have turned more cautious about the economy since the spring and early summer.

2. Few seem willing to take risks. In every investment there is risk, but some institutional investors today seem to be waiting for the sure thing. They seem to prefer riskless mediocrity. They act timid. "We're not looking for big gains," they say. "We're happy if we stay even."

There's good reason for this. The "investing public" these days is not a random assemblage of individuals. It is made up of third parties — institutions to whom the public has deeded their investment rights.

Among these institutions are mutual funds, pension funds, and bank-administered private trusts. Under the "prudent man" principle they must justify their decisions or else risk severe personal penalties. Under such circumstances, would you invest cautiously, or take chances? 3. The nation needs time. It's been through a rough period, and heard the sages of our era misread the future. It may believe in, sympathize with, and root for a particular point of view, such as the president's, but it may want to wait a bit more, just to be sure.

The short-term syndrome is everywhere about us. Tax-free certificates for 15 months. Three-year home mortgages. Money market mutual funds that are liquid and so allow you to jump into other investments if they appear at the moment to offer something more. The country seems unable to handle long-term investments. It is playing safe, for now at least.

4. Just blame it all on interest rates. Why invest in stocks and other equities when debt securities offer such high returns? Why invest in a new plant when the cost of borrowing shrinks or devours future profits?

5. Investors and business people haven't fully appreciated the new tax incentives provided to them. Rehabilitate a 40-year-old factory, for example, and take an income tax credit of 20 percent of the cost. Depreciate a structure in just 15 years, rather than 25 years or more.

Whatever the reason — and there may be some of all these reasons and many others too — the behavior of the moment isn't the kind that built the great American economy.

Or that that can rebuild it either.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Life expectancy about 73 years

Dear Dr. Solomon: To what age is a baby born today likely to live? — Lou, Carlsbad, N.M.

Dear Lou: That average baby born today can expect to live slightly more than 73 years. The death rate in the United States is now the lowest in its history.

Dear Dr. Solomon: We have just learned that our 12-year-old son has diabetes, and that he'll have to take regular insulin injections. He says he wants to do this himself, and we can't talk him out of it. What would you suggest we say to him? — Mr. and Mrs. T.G., Indianapolis, IN.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. G.: Why talk him out of wanting to be responsible for taking his insulin? Most children with diabetes can be responsible for their own injections at an even earlier age. I would suggest, however, that parents give the injections once in a while so that they will remember the proper technique should it ever become necessary for them to administer the drug.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My doctor has prescribed a zinc supplement. Is it unusual for a woman to require one? — Mary, Montreal

Dear Mary: Although some physicians recommend both zinc and copper supplements for women who use oral contraceptives, Dr. Michael G. Crews of Virginia Polytechnic Institute says that all women require more of these elements in their diets. He bases his conclusions on an 18-day study that showed a negative balance of both zinc and copper in a group of women, despite the fact that they were eating nutritionally balanced diets and receiving daily supplements of the recommended amounts of both.

There were no significant differences found in the levels in nine women who were using oral contraceptives, and seven women who were not.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My niece recently gave birth to her first child after a pregnancy that lasted about 10 months. Can you explain why the obstetrician didn't take steps to induce labor earlier? It seems to me that a 10-month pregnancy is too long, even though it turned out OK with the birth of a healthy baby. — Flo, Bradenton, Fla.

Dear Flo: There is an adage in medicine that goes:

"First, do no harm." When things do not go according to schedule, there is always the temptation to "do something." A competent physician will do something when it is in the patient's best interests, not just to alleviate his own anxiety or for the sake of taking action.

In the case you cite I assume the obstetrician was monitoring both your niece and the fetus, and felt comfortable enough about the situation not to have to act precipitously. The fact is that most prolonged pregnancies terminate uneventfully with the birth of a healthy baby, and routine induction of labor in such cases is not appropriate. One mark of a good physician is knowing when it is necessary to "do something," and when it is best simply to let nature take its course.

(If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D, 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Charges against reporter dropped

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Charges that a United Press International correspondent violated South Africa's Defense Act were dropped today, correspondent Nat Gibson said.

Gibson, the UPI bureau chief in South Africa, was charged in August in connection with a story he wrote in June, 1980, about troops being sent to protect a Volkswagen plant during a series of strikes.

He was accused of violating a portion of the act that makes it an offense to make any statement about military activity which is "calculated to prejudice or embarass the government.

Solidarity demands cancellation of tobacco, food price increases

By THOMAS W. NETTER
Associated Press Writer

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — The Solidarity congress rejected government explanations of increases in the price of cigarettes and some foods and demanded their cancellation.

There was no indication, however, that the government would roll back the increases in the prices of tobacco products, trout, carp and canned fruit, which were to take effect today.

Solidarity made no protest against the recent tripling of the price of bread. But the congress delegates were enraged by the announcement that tobacco prices would double and by reports in the official media that "trade unions" — apparently meaning the official unions controlled by the Communist Party — had been consulted instead of Solidarity.

One delegate charged that the government timed the increases during the union congress to provoke it.

Union leaders from Silesia threatened protest strikes in the coal mines, Poland's chief earner of the foreign exchange so desperately needed for imports and payments on the $27 billion debt to Western banks and governments.

The government rushed two cabinet ministers to Gdansk to explain after Solidarity chief Lech Walesa wired Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski: "I protest against the increase in prices of cigarettes, fish and manufactured fruit products. I demand that realization of these price increases be stopped."

Finance Minister Marian Krzak told the congress the price paid farmers for tobacco had doubled since July, the government wants people to give up smoking, and the price increase would provide $1.3 billion a year in much-needed revenue for the government.

"The economy is worsening every day now," Price Commission Chairman Zygmunt Krasinski said. "The increase was an absolute necessity and it could not be avoided."

The congress applauded wildly when Walesa told the ministers the union could not accept their explanations, and the government must call off the increases.

"We have known each other for some time and you understand we have no choice and you have no choice either," he declared.

Walesa told them he wanted a response as soon as they discussed the union's position with Jaruzelski.

The increases raise the price of the most popular brand of cigarettes, Popularne, to 40 cents a pack. Other brands go as high as $1.80.

The increases are part of the government's effort to bring prices in line with production costs, curb demand and siphon off an estimated $17 billion in surplus currency resulting from hiXhr wages and the shortage of goods to buy.

The congress on Stursay akepted in principle the new worker-management law which most delegates consider inadequate, but the resolution called for a workers' referendum on some points.

Union officials said the resolution was a compromise since it did not reject the new law but indicated dissatisfaction because the workers were not given full say in the naming of plant managers. The law pprovides that the government will continue to appoint the managers after consultation with the workers, but certain defense industries and public utilities are exempted.

School children to get vision tests

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Approximately 250,000 children entering Texas schools for the first time will have their vision checked this year, and if history repeats itself some 25,000 will be referred for more extensive eye tests.

The tests are required by the Children's Vision Screening Act of 1979, which is administered by the Texas Department of Health.

In the first year of the program, reports Dr. Malcolm Mazow of Houston, more than 100,000 children were screened in 246 of the 254 Texas counties, and more than 10,000 students were referred for further testing.

The aim of the legislation is to detect early eye problems while they are treatable.

A health department advisory committee is studying ways to lower the screening age to include child care facilities.

"One of the primary objectives of testing young children is detection of amblyopia — 'lazy eye blindness,'" said Donald Tausch, coordinator of the department's Vision Screening Program. "If it is caught earlier, a child has a better chance to overcome it."

Bentsen, Wright give Texas clout in Congress

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both men enlisted as privates in the Army early in World War II, won the Distinguished Flying Cross for the combat missions they flew, and returned to Texas to go into public life.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and House Majority Leader Jim Wright are two of Texas' most powerful Democrats, and with a little change in circumstances could have ended up in each other's shoes.

After the war ended, Bentsen returned to the Rio Grande Valley, began a law practice and became, at 25, the youngest county judge in Texas before coming to Congress two years later, where he was the youngest member of the House for two terms.

Wright returned after the war to Weatherford and would have run for Congress immediately, but at 23 he was two years too young. Instead, he became one of the youngest members of the Texas Legislature, then served two terms as mayor of Weatherford before launching his own bid for Congress.

Thus, Bentsen, now 60, and Wright, 58, never served in the House together. Almost, but not quite. Wright took office, after being elected on Nov. 2, 1954, the day after Bentsen was leaving after his third term.

HOUSE SPEAKER Sam Rayburn had tried to talk Bentsen out of leaving the House of Representatives in 1954.

"That is very foolish, Lloyd. You're only 33, you're from a safe district, in another 25 years you can be Speaker of the House," Bentsen recalls Rayburn telling him. "And I thought, 25 years? That seemed like forever."

So Bentsen gave up hopes of a leadership spot in the House, gave up his $12,500-a-year job, and went with his wife and three kids to Houston, where he began a business career that made him a millionaire.

Wright had finished three terms of his own in Congress by the General Election of 1960, when Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson was running jointly for another term in the Senate and for vice president on the ticket with John F. Kennedy.

In the Senate race, Johnson beat a Midwestern University political science professor by the name of John Tower, but his simultaneous election as vice president left his job vacant, and William A. Blakley of Dallas was appointed to serve until a special election could be held.

No party primaries were held for the 1961 special election, and when the smoke cleared, 71 candidates had filed, including Blakley, Tower and Wright.

Cardinal admitted to hospital

CHICAGO (AP) — Cardinal John Cody, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago, has been admitted to a North Side hospital for routine tests, according to an archdiocesan spokesman.

Cody, 73, drove himself to Columbus Hospital Sunday night and checked in according to a doctor's orders, said spokesman Peter Foote.

"There is no change in his health," Foote said.

Leaders reject Israel's program for West Bank

JERUSALEM (AP) — Palestinian leaders in the occupied West Bank have rejected an Israeli plan to reduce military rule and eventually give the Palestinians a voice in local government.

"It doesn't matter if the occupier is in uniform or a suit," said Zafer al-Masri, the deputy mayor of Nablus. "He is still on my land."

Ibrahim Tawil, mayor of El Bireh, denounced the plan as "another step in establishing complete Israeli control" over the 1.2 million Palestinians in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Cabinet Secretary Aryeh Naor said that beginning Dec. 1, Israeli civilians will assume responsibility for education, health and agricultural development in the two territories which Israel took from Jordan and Egypt 14 years ago in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

Later, Palestinians will assume senior positions in managing these affairs, he said.

However, the civilian administrators will remain under the authority of the military governor, who is "the sovereign authority under international law and the Camp David accords" between Egypt and Israel, Naor added.

"It is not correct to say civilians will replace the military government," he cautioned. "The implications would be very far-reaching."

The plan, sponsored by Defense Minister Ariel Sharon, is an administrative matter that does not need the Israeli Parliament's approval. It was approved by the Cabinet at its weekly meeting Sunday.

The Israeli government apparently hopes that the plan will encourage Palestinians to join the U.S.-mediated negotiations between Egypt and Israel to work out a plan for autonomy in the occupied areas. But the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza reject anything less than full independence as disguised occupation. They want the Palestine Liberation Organization to represent them in the talks, but Israel refuses to negotiate with it.

Meanwhile, the Jewish Agency's settlement department proposed construction of 12 to 18 new Jewish settlements in the West Bank in the next four years. Matityahu Drobless, the department's co-chairman, said the agency hopes to boost the Jewish population in the occupied territory from about 20,000 to about 100,000.

The proposal does not have the government's approval yet, and it was drawn up without consulting the government ministries that would have to carry it out. Drobless has announced plans before that were more ambitious than those carried out by the government.

The Cabinet also said Sunday that Saudi Arabia's apparent refusal to accept American crews on the AWACS spy planes is "additional proof, if any was needed," that the Saudis intend to use the aircraft against Israel.

Although Undersecretary of State James Buckley had told Congress "there will be an American presence in the aircraft and on the ground well into the 1990s," the Saudis on Saturday officially rejected "any partnership as regards these planes."

"Saudi Arabia said it will not accept mutual operation....It is as clear as the sun that they will use it against us," Naor told a reporter.

Canada to submit legislation

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Canada informed Britain today that it will soon submit proposed constitutional legislation to the British Parliament for approval.

Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau told British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher he hoped the British legislature would approve his plan. The two leaders met here during the Commonwealth heads of government conference.

A senior Trudeau aide said the meeting had gone better than expected and that Mrs. Thatcher was "understanding and supportive," and "knows exactly the situation."

Trudeau wants the British Parliament to send to Canada the 1867 British North America Act, which would become Canada's constitution. He also wants the House of Commons to add a charter of rights and an amending formula to the act, moves that have drawn stiff opposition from eight of Canada's 10 provinces.

In a joint statement issued after the 25 minute meeting, Mrs. Thatcher said she would introduce the needed legislation when the British Parliament reconvenes in early November.

However, she warned Trudeau that some British deputies have expressed strong reservations about approving the plan because of opposition from the eight Canadian premiers.

They agreed that it would be up to Mrs. Thatcher's government to decide exactly when to introduce the constitutional bill. Trudeau said earlier he would submit the package to his own Parliament for final approval when it reconvenes on Oct. 14.

Castro may again encourage massive emigration to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuban President Fidel Castro's government, facing "its most serious economic challenge" since the early 1960s, may turn once again to a massive emigration program in an effort to diffuse discontent, a CIA analyst says.

Only last year more than 125,000 Cubans fled their Caribbean island homeland in a Castro-sanctioned boatlift to Key West, Fla. The prediction that another large-scale exodus may be on the horizon came in a summary of papers on Western hemisphere nations released Sunday by the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

Although Cuba has shown a improvements in areas such as education and health, per capita supplies of clothing and key staples such as sugar, rice, beef and coffee have declined since the mid 1960s, wrote Russell Swanson of the CIA's National Foreign Assessment Center.

And "the housing shortage has gone from bad to worse," he said, adding, "the prospects for dynamic economic development are bleak for at least the next decade."

In the face of deep-rooted economic problems, he wrote, "Havana could again seek to defuse internal discontent through large-scale emigration — a tactic employed successfully on three previous occasions in the past 22 years."

Iranian leftists executed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Government firing squads executed 129 leftist opponents of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Moslem fundamentalist regime in 24 hours, Iranian officials and newspapers reported today.

The latest volley of executions followed the election Friday of Hojatoleslam Ali Khamenei as Iran's third elected president since the downfall of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's monarchy in 1979.

A spokesman for Tehran's Evin Prison told The Associated Press in Beirut that 61 leftists were executed in Evin's courtyards and two were killed elsewhere in the country at dawn today on charges of street violence and armed insurgency against the Islamic republic.

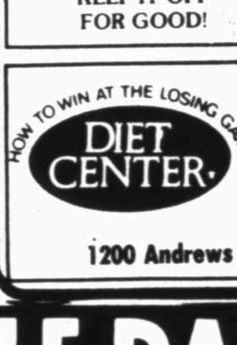

The spokesman, who declined to be identified in the telephone interview, said all 63 of the dead belonged to the Islamic-Marxist Mujahedeen Khalq, the leading underground opposition group, and its junior partner, Peykar, a Marxist-Leninist organization.

The Tehran newspaper Kayhan earlier reported 66 leftists, mostly from the Mujahedeen Khalq, were executed in several Iranian cities on Sunday, including 30 killed in the central city of Isfahan.

The latest executions brought to 1,195 the total of secular leftist activists put to death since they mounted a campaign of assassinations and bombings against the government following Khomeini's firing of moderate ex-President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr on June 22, according to official tabulations and news media announcements.

Tehran authorities say more than 300 Khomeini supporters lost their lives in opposition violence, including Bani-Sadr's successor Mohammad Ali Rajai, who was killed in a firebombing on Aug. 30, 37 days after his election.

Eight 'cats are planned in 8 and 8A

Permian Basin producers plan eight wildcat projects in the district 8 and 8A counties.

GARZA WILDCAT

L.R. French Jr., Midland, will drill the 8,000-foot wildcat No. 4-A Double Mountain, three miles northeast of Justiceburg.

The site is in the vicinity of several earlier scheduled Double Mountain projects.

The stake is driven 1,980 feet from the north, and 660 feet from the west line of section 9, block 6, H&GN survey.

BORDEN VENTURE

Getty Oil, Sweetwater, will drill the No. 2 Clayton Ranch, a 9,600-foot wildcat, 8 miles southwest of Gail.

The drillsite is 1500 feet south of Getty's No. Clayton Ranch — another 9,600-footer — and 7/8 of a mile southwest of the 9,513-foot Coquina No. 1 Brennand, abandoned January 24, 1950.

The stake is 990 feet from the south, and 2,310 feet from the west line of section 12, block 32, T-4-N, T&PRR survey.

KING TRIO

LaJet Inc., Abilene will drill three 6,200 foot wildcats, in an area generally nine miles northeast of Guthrie.

The drillsites are all in the vicinity of the Ard Drilling No. 1-C Masterson, a 6,150 foot dry hole, abandoned July 8, 1961. Although there are several wells in the area, it appeaars the Ard Masterson is the closest of comparable depth to the three LaJet projects.

LaJet's No. 5-13 Masterson Ranch will be drillted 660 feet from the south and east lines of section 13, block A, R.M. Thompson survey. It is 7/8 of a mile west of the Ard Masterson.

The No. 3-14 Masterson Ranch will go down 660 feet from the south and east lines of section 14, block A. It is 1 1/4 miles west of Ard's Masterson.

No. 4-33 Masterson Ranch will be sunk 1 1/3 miles west-southwest of the Ard Masterson, 660 feet from the north and east line of section 33, block A, R.M. Thompson survey.

PECOS PROSPECT

Dean A. Wolf, Midland, will drill the wildcat No. 1 Moore-Gilmore to 8,500 feet, 10 miles northeast of Fort Stockton.

This is a re-entry of the Flag Redfern No. 1-X Moore-Gilmore, a 9,600-foot project, according to a July 27, 1977 drilling permit application. Apparently, the project was not plugged to the surface, and a plugging report has never been filed.

The old hole is hanging 1,326 feet from the south, and 996 feet from the west line of section 6, block 10, H&GN survey.

WINKLER PAIR

Supron Energy Corp., Dallas, will drill the wildcat No. 01 University 21-16 to 15,800 feet, 4.2 miles west of Wink.

The location is 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of section 16, block 21, ULS.

The drillsite is 1 1/4 miles southwest of Hunt Oil's No. 1 University, abandoned March 2, 1970 at 20,286 feet.

****

The Anschutz Corp., Houston, will sink the 12,000-foot wildcat No. 5-32 S.B. Wight, 12 miles southwest of Notrees.

The project spots 2,000 feet from the north, and 1,000 feet from the west line of section 32, block 40, PSL survey, abstract 199.

It appears there are no wells of comparable depth near the drillsite.

U.S. lifting oil quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is lifting its eight-year-old quotas on exports of refined oil products, saying current domestic supplies are more than enough for Americans' use, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said Friday.

The quotas were imposed on exports in 1973 in response to the Arab oil embargo which drastically cut the amount of crude oil flowing into the United States.

But Baldrige said, in a statement released by Commerce officials, "export controls are no longer needed to ensure adequate supplies of gasoline and other petroleum products for American consumers."

"We have underused our refining capacity in the United States," he said.

The controls had limited refined oil exports by product, by country of destination and by exporter, based on exporting patterns in 1971, 1972 and the first half of 1973.

Exporters will still have to obtain licenses to sell refined oil abroad, a procedure which the Commerce release said "means that exports can be monitored and quotas quickly reimposed, if necessary."

Refined products needing licenses include gasoline, aviation gasoline, kerosene, distillates — such as jet fuel, naphthas, diesel fuel and light fuel oil — residual fuel oil, propane, butane and natural gas liquids, the release said.

An interagency task force has been looking at the question of export controls since President Reagan lifted price and allocation controls on refined oil products in January, Baldrige said.

"Lifting of the restrictions after eight years of export quotas is a natural outgrowth of the increased domestic supply situation and the administration's determination to end unnecessary controls and regulations," he said.

Figures included in the Commerce release put U.S. consumption of refined petroleum products at about 14.4 million barrels per day last year, with gasoline, distillates and residual fuel oil making up the biggest categories. Exports totaled about 42,000 barrer day, made up mostly of residual fuel oil and natural gasw2ads.

The export total is less than half the overall quota of 32 million barrels per year, but individual quotas apparently have cramped some categoriesn-dependent refiners, for example, have pressed for eliminatthe quotas so they can increase their exports of residual

Bureau to lease 6,400 acres

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bureau of Land Management has confirmed it would lease 6,-400 acres of land at Camp Swift — a former Texas National Guard training center near Bastrop — for the strip mining of lignite.

Bastrop County residents said they would continue efforts to prevent mining.

The next steps for the bureau are to issue bidding regulations and for Austin and others such as San Antonio and the Lower Colorado River Authority to decide whether they want to exercise options they have sought.

Under the terms of an amendment to federal leasing laws, which U.S. Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Texas, fought for in 1976, the mineral leases can be awarded only to a governmental entity that produces electricity.

Bob Tintsman, LCRA director of administration, said studies estimate there is enough lignite below Camp Swift to power a 400-megawatt generating plant for 20 to 30 years.

Tintsman said it would probably be eight or nine years before strip mining begins.

Bastrop County commissioners and the Bastrop City Council have passed resolutions against strip mining.

Yeager inducted in Space Hall of Fame

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The first man to travel faster than his voice says he would like to fly the space shuttle, "but I had my fun in other aircraft."

Charles Yeager of Cedar Ridge, Calif., who retired from the Air Force in 1975 as a brigadier general, and six others were inducted this weekend into the International Space Hall of Fame.

He gave credit for his accomplishment to the Air Force, saying "they taught me to be a fighter, test and research pilot."

Yeager broke the sound barrier in the Bell X-1 at more than 670 mph. He eventually achieved a speed of more than 1,000 mph and an altitude of more than 70,000 feet in the X-1.

Others inducted, but not present, were: astronauts Alan Shepard, who retired as a Navy rear admiral and lives in Deer Park, Texas; Scott Carpenter, who retired from the Navy as a commander and lives in Canoga Park, Calif.; Gordon Cooper, who retired as an Air Force colonel and lives in Glendale, Calif.; and Walter Schirra, who retired as a Navy captain and now lives in Inglewood, Calif.

Virgil Grissom, America's second man into space, was inducted posthumously. He and two other astronauts died in a launchpad fire in the Apollo 1 capsule in January 1967.

A 19th century Danish rocket pioneer, Andreas Anton Frederick Schumacher, also was inducted. He developed a rocket system after the bombardment of Copenhagen in 1897.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It's not usual for a seasoned politician like a Senate majority leader to get shaky about elections, but Howard Baker says he gets nervous when people talk about one particular congressional race.

Baker says he gets "butterflies" just thinking about his daughter, Cissy, running for election to the House of Representatives.

Miss Baker, 26, quit her job this summer as a reporter for Cable News Network in Washington, D.C., and filed qualifying papers with the Federal Election Commission to run for the GOP nomination from Tennessee's 4th Congressional District.

"I asked her recently what I could do, and she said, 'For openers, you can stay out of my district.' " the Tennessee Republican said Saturday to a group of conventioneers.

Baker said he would help "if she'll let me. But I don't think she'll let me."

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Philharmonic conductor Zubin Mehta is blasting President Reagan's decision to slash money for the performing arts.

"In eight years (as governor of California), he came to one concert" of the Los Angeles Philharmonic, Mehta says in an interview in the current issue of People magazine.

"Culture in some parts of this country is considered almost a luxury of the elite," he said. "It is so wrong to think that. 'Don Giovanni' will exist until the last flame goes out of this earth."

Despite the criticism, Mehta's wife, Nancy, has been named to a presidential task force on arts and the humanities.

Most expensive show premieres

By ULA ILNYTZKY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Nicholas Nickleby," Broadway's most expensive show at $100 a ticket, left much of the opening-night audience feeling it got its money's worth, but had some critics questioning whether the 8½-hour performance was too much of a good thing.

Many who saw the show Sunday — including some who paid $30 for standing room — said they came away feeling refreshed.

"I never expected it to be so exciting. You cheer for the hero and you curse at the villain," said Charlene Brandt, of Manhattan. "I haven't felt the time. It's just gone by in a flash."

"It's absolutely incredible. At every intermission, we were amazed that we didn't notice the passage of time," said Joseph diCorcia, who said he flew in especially to see the play from North Carolina where he teaches at Duke University.

Asked whether the $100 was well spent, and if he would sit through another 8½ hours to see the play, diCorcia replied, "Absolutely."

The Shubert Theater was filled to capacity, with 985 spectators attending the $4.4 million extravaganza.

The show was the Royal Shakespeare Company's adaptation of Charles Dickens' tale of a young innocent in an ever-changing world of good and evil in early Victorian England.

Although most reviewers lauded the producers' undertaking and the fine acting, some said the play contained dull passages.

"While the high points of this 'Nicholas Nickelby' are Himalayan indeed," said Frank Rich in The New York Times, "they are separated by dull passages, which clog the production's arteries."

Jay Sharbutt of The Associated Press wrote, "Alas, the production, which gets off to a rousing start with flying muffins and actors dashing down the aisles...isn't always engrossing, particularly in the first act...Luckily, the dull passages are few, the dramatic and touching ones many."

But Douglas Watt in the Daily News said such languid moments are probably "due as much to the spectator's momentary lapse of attention" in what it termed "big, sweeping theater of a kind you are unlikely to encounter more than once in a lifetime."

Even spectators who stood through the performance found it lively.

Ruth Lee Adams, a student from Davie, Fla., said the play "keeps your interest and is fast moving."

And Mel Malen, from Manhattan, said the standing "wasn't as bad as we thought it would be."

Connie Childs, a student at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., who sat through the performance, said she found the play not in the least dull.

"It never dragged. This is theater history happening in a big, big way," she said. But she lamented the cost of the tickets.

"It's unfortunate that's it's only a rich person's play," said Ms. Childs. "Dickens didn't write just for the rich."

British television critics not amused by Carson

LONDON (AP) - British television critics were not amused by Johnny Carson's weekend debut on England's commercial network.

"I was eager to see what made a man worth $3 million a year," Dennis Hackett wrote in the Times of London. "Whatever it was, it was not showing, though he obviously is tremendously satisfied with himself. It is not even as if we could blame this production on damage suffered by being bounced off a satellite."

Independent Television launched a 13-week series of once-a-week Carson broadcasts on four of its 13 stations Saturday evening with a tape of his 19th anniversary show.

Herbert Kretzmer of the Daily Mail reckoned Carson lost the opening bout with Britain's top-rated talk-show host, Michael Parkinson, whose program ran earlier in the evening on the British Broadcasting Corp. network.

"Carson is the archetypal American, catering for an audience that is terrified of even momentary boredom," Kretzmer wrote.

Nancy Bank-Smith, titling her review in the Guardian "Performing Monkeys," said she was more impressed with Carson's sidekick, Ed McMahon, than with the silver-haired star.

"He (McMahon) has been doing nothing in particular on the Johnny Carson show for 19 years and Carson appreciates it," she noted.

"The idea that Ed should actually do something, such as remove a piece of chicken from a small but contentious puppy, is treated by the audience as a great joke."

The London station that carried the show reported it got "more than 50 calls" from viewers complaining about the program. But a spokesman estimated "millions" watched the show. Official ratings won't be known until later this week, the station said.

Karpov in lead

MERANO, Italy (AP) — World chess champion Anatoly Karpov took a commanding 2-0 lead into his third match today with challenger Victor Korchnoi.

Korchnoi lost the second straight game Sunday after play was resumed in a match adjourned Saturday at this Tyrolean resort. The third game was scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. — noon EDT.

"It's just an extremely horrible start for Korchnoi," said U.S. grandmaster Robert Byrne.

Experts say the 50-year-old Korchnoi, a Soviet defector, has been playing ragged chess in his second attempt to unseat the 30-year-old Soviet champion, and Karpov has played flawlessly.

The first man to win six games gets the championship and $260,000 while the loser will get $160,000.

After the successive losses, the experts agreed the challenger faces a tough uphill struggle. But Korchnoi in the 1978 championship match against Karpov in the Philippines came back from a 5-to-2 disadvantage, tied the match and then lost 6-5.

St. Louis cornerback Jeff Griffin (35) eludes Dallas Cowboy Tom Rafferty following an interception Sunday. The Cardinals went on to upset the Cowboys, 20-17.

Cardinals stun Dallas, 20-17

ST. LOUIS (AP) — To Roy Green, the double-duty wide receiver and defensive back of the St. Louis Cardinals, the plight of the Dallas Cowboys was clear.

"I was thinking in the final four minutes they're going to know how we felt," said Green after watching Neil O'Donoghue's 37-yard field goal saddle Dallas with a 20-17 upset loss Sunday. "We knew that if we went out and executed, we could do it."

ST. LOUIS, in addition to knocking the Cowboys from the ranks of the National Football League's unbeaten, managed to extract revenge.

"Every time we played them, we'd be in the game," said defensive end Curtis Greer in reference to the seven straight setbacks St. Louis had suffered against Dallas. "There were times we just came up short. It was really a moment of relief."

The Cards, usually on the wrong side of the field during the closing minutes against their National Conference East rival, this time gained the upper hand.

A punt by the Cowboys' Danny White sailed out of bounds at the St. Louis 7 with 4½ minutes left only to have a 15-yard penalty rescue the Cards from a hole. Two pass completions by Jim Hart, three runs by Ottis Anderson and two more dashes by Wayne Morris then ate up most of the remaining time before O'Donoghue appeared.

"I felt pretty cool," said O'Donoghue, a 6-foot-6 kicker whose field goal with 23 seconds remaining came one play after Anderson rambled 9 yards to the Dallas 20 on third down.

"It was one of those situations where you feel you're going to get the opportunity," said O'Donoghue. "You've got to make the most of it. I just went out there and hit it through."

AHEAD OF O'Donoghue's winning kick, it had been an afternoon of give and take for St. Louis in quest of its first victory over the Cowboys since 1977.

James Jones fumbled the opening kickoff, enabling Morris of the Cards to sprint 9 yards to the end zone on the game's first play. But Dallas, after ignited by Tony Dorsett's 36-yard run, tied 7-7 on a 7-yard Dorsett gallop.

O'Donoghue then booted a 19-yard field goal late in the first quarter that held up for a lead until Rafael Septien's 26-yarder manufactured a 10-10 halftime stalemate.

Randy Love's recovery of Stump Mitchell's fumbled punt return later preceded Hart's 30-yard touchdown pass to Green. Dallas retaliated by rolling 78 yards but needed an exchange of interceptions to set up White's 11-yard scoring peg to Dorsett.

"I'd say we played to our ability," said Coach Jim Hanifan following only the second St. Louis victory in five games.

Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, meanwhile, decried Dallas' lack of execution on third downs but denied his team had been ready to be beaten.

Roaches, Campbell put Oilers back on right track

HOUSTON (AP) — Carl Roaches left the Astrodome Sunday night to celebrate his wedding anniversary, while the rest of the Oilers cheered another event worth remembering — the return of Earl Campbell.

Roaches presented his wife with a 96-yard kickoff return for a touchdown in the third quarter that rallied the Oilers to a 17-10 victory over Cincinnati.

Campbell, who had not gained 100 yards since the season opener against Los Angeles, presented 44,350 fans with 182 yards rushing on 37 carries as the Oilers settled back into the I-formation that launched Campbell to three NFL rushing titles.

"I feel like the offensive line knew what they had to do and I was going to have a chance to run the ball like I like," Campbell said.

"I did get a little tired. I asked Kenny (Stabler) to throw a pass. He did and then came back to me three straight times."

Campbell's tireless efforts accounted for all but nine of Houston's 191-yard rushing total and his 37 carries were on short of his team record.

While Campbell was Houston's bread and butter, Roaches was its dessert with his exciting kickoff and punt returns.

Roaches was stopped short of a touchdown with an 88-yard kickoff return against Cleveland this season and he didn't intend for that to happen again.

"Today was my anniversary and I felt like I could break it at anytime against anyone. It was kind of a special 'hello' to my wife. I hope she enjoyed it," he said.

In addition to his kickoff return, Roaches put the Oilers into good field position throughout the game with four punt returns for 93 yards.

There was no doubt from the beginning that Campbell and only Campbell would run at the Bengals. Cincinnati knew it and still couldn't stop him.

After Cincinnati took a 3-0 lead on Jim Breech's 45-yard field goal, the Oilers came back in the second quarter with a 51-yard touchdown drive.

Campbell gained 49 yards in the drive and scored on a two-yard run, trotting into the end zone for a 7-3 halftime lead.

USTA/Penn tourney kicks off week long run

Midland Tennis Club's 21st annual Fall tournament got underway Saturday with a qualifying round for 16 places in the USTA/Penn Circuit tournament to begin Tuesday and continue through next Sunday.

This is the second year the MTC event is part of the USTA/Penn circuit, the satellite competition that enables young players an opportunity to qualify for the tennis big leagues, the Grand Prix Tour.

The Midland High courts will serve as the headquarters for the tournament, but the finals will be held at the Midland Racquet Club Stadium. Competition is scheduled in both singles and doubles.

Many of the higher ranked players in the world will be competing for a share of the $7,500 in prize money as well as the Grand Prix qualifying points.

Jeff Simpson of New Zealand will come into Midland with a victory in the Wichita Falls stop, advancing into first place in the Circuit's Segement Five point standings with a 6-3, 6-2 win over 12th seeded Larry Davidson, Swarthmore, Pa.

Davidson, a 26-year-old pyschology grad out of Swarthmore College, earned 23 points for his runnerup finishing, to move into second place with 34.

For Simpson, the win at Wichita Falls was a big step forward. He failed to reach a singles finals in 1980 or this year, but he did finish runner up in doubles twice last year and was a winner in three of his five trips to the doubles finals this year.

A week earlier, unseeded Mike Bauer, a 22-year-old senior at Cal-Berkeley beat third seeded Derek Tarr of South Africa 6-2, 7-6 at Corpus Christi. On his way to victory, Bauer eliminated 14th ranked Mark Darby, Redlands, Calif., and top seeded Cary Stansbury, Palo Alto, Calif. After winning the singles, he teamed up with Jeff Simpson to win the doubles.

Denver blanks Oakland

By The Associated Press

When the Denver Broncos scored 70 points in two consecutive victories, it appeared that they were counting more on their wide-open offense than their traditionally tough defense.

But the defenders aren't yet ready to give up the mantle they acquired in 1977 when they went to the Super Bowl known as the Orange Crush.

"We're playing now like we did in '77, but maybe even better because the offense has been doing so well," said Steve Foley, the free safety who made the most important of the Broncos' four fumble recoveries Sunday as they blanked the Oakland Raiders 17-0.

"I told the players we'd have to take the Raiders out physically to win this one, and they did an excellent job, did just that," said Denver Coach Dan Reeves.

He warned, however, "If we start thinking we're better than we are, we'll be in trouble and get knocked off."

The Raiders were shut out for the second game in a row after not being held scoreless since 1966. The defending Super Bowl champions were held to 168 yards in total offense.

Oakland's only serious touchdown threat was stifled by Foley when he fell on a fumble by Kenny King at the Broncos' 12 in the second quarter.

Denver sacked Oakland quarterback Jim Plunkett three times and intercepted him once. The Raiders went to young quarterback Marc Wilson in the fourth period and he was promptly intercepted.

The Broncos took a 7-0 lead in the second quarter on Dave Preston's 4-yard touchdown run. The Raiders struck back by driving 50 yards, but that's when Foley recovered his fumble.

Rick Parros' 20-yard run in the third quarter accounted for Denver's other touchdown.

Denver stressed its running attack all day as quarterback Craig Morton, who threw eight touchdown passes the previous two weeks, threw only 16 times for 117 yards. The Broncos ran the ball 45 times for 162 yards.

The victory gave Denver a 4-1 record, including two triumphs over Oakland. The Raiders, who were shut out 16-0 by Detroit last week, dropped to 2-3.

Dolphins 28, Jets 28

Miami stayed unbeaten, but had to hold off a determined Jets' effort led by Richard Todd.

Todd threw four touchdown passes, including a 36-yarder to wide receiver Bobby Jones with 1:09 remaining in regulation, and completed 28 of 39 tosses for 310 yards.

Pat Leahy missed a 48-yard field goal attempt on the final play of overtime for the Jets.

Nat Moore caught two touchdown passes from Miami quarterback Don Strock, who replaced injured starter David Woodley in the first period.

Chargers 24, Seahawks 10

With top running backs Chuck Muncie and James Brooks both injured, quarterback Dan Fouts went to the air even more than usual, but not with less success.

Fouts tossed three touchdown passes and broke his club record for completions with 30 in 41 attempts.

He hit touchdown tosses of 12 and 11 yards to Charlie Joiner and a 9-yarder to tight end Kellen Winslow, finishing with 302 yards passing, none longer than 15 yards.

Buccaneers 28, Lions 10

Doug Williams completed only 13 of 29 passes for Tampa Bay, but four of them were for touchdowns as the Bucs defeated Detroit.

Williams twice hit Kevin House with scoring tosses and he added TD passes to James Wilder and Jim Obradovich.

Three of the scores followed turnovers by the Lions, who were playing without injured starting quarterback Gary Danielson.

Rams 27, Browns 16

Los Angeles won its third in a row after opening with two losses as Pat Haden completed his first seven passes, propelling the Rams to a pair of touchdowns by Wendell Tyler.

Cleveland scored first on a 35-yard field goal by Dave Jacobs, but the Rams came back as Haden gained 53 yards on four straight completions, with Tyler running the final two yards for the first touchdown.

The second Los Angeles score came on a 1-yard pass from Haden to Tyler early in the second quarter.

49ers 30, Redskins 17

Safety Dwight Hicks scored two touchdowns while compiling 184 yards in returns to pace San Francisco to victory over winless Washington.

Hicks dashed 80 yards for a touchdown after recovering a fumble in the first quarter and returned an interception 32 yards for another score in the third period. In between, he ran 72 yards with another interception.

Bills 23, Colts 17

Joe Cribbs gained 159 yards in 17 carries and set up both Buffalo touchdowns, and Nick Mike-Mayer kicked three field goals against Baltimore, which lost for the fourth time in a row after an opening victory.

Cribbs had runs of 28, 30 and 30 yards that led to the Bills' first 17 points. Joe Ferguson passed 16 yards to Jerry Butler for the first touchdown and Roosevelt Leaks barged 1 yard for the other TD.

Patriots 33, Chiefs 17

Matt Cavanaugh turned New England's first two interceptions of the season into touchdowns as the Patriots won for the first time.

Mike Hawkins picked off Kansas City quarterback Bill Kenney's first pass of the game, and Cavanaugh followed with a 13-yard scoring pass to Don Hasselbeck. Cavanaugh then scored on an 8-yard bootleg in the second quarter after Mark Buben's interception.

Packers 27, Giants 14

Lynn Dickey threw two touchdown passes for Green Bay and New York rushed for only 41 yards as the Packers swamped the Giants.

John Jefferson, playing his second game with Green Bay after being traded from the San Diego Chargers following a contract holdout, caught a 26-yarder and Dickey hit tight end Paul Coffman with a 1-yard toss.

Vikings 24, Bears 21

Minnesota built 17-0 and 24-14 leads as Tommy Kramer threw touchdown passes to Ahmad Rashad and Joe Senser, then held on as Chicago rallied behind quarterback Vince Evans.

EVANS HIT Brian Baschnagel with a 16-yard TD pass and ran 4 yards for another score to cut the Vikings' early margin to 17-14. Then Evans hit Baschnagel with a 7-yard scoring pass to make it 24-21.

Hans Nie[illegible] missed a 26-yard field goal for the Bears as time [illegible] in the game.

Steelers 20, Saints 6

Terry Bradsha[illegible] completed 19 of 28 passes for 276 yards and two touchdowns to lead Pittsburgh over New Orleans.

Mets nip Expos, but Joe Torre gets ax

By The Associated Press

The New York Mets won a game but lost a manager Sunday as Joe Torre was fired along with his entire coaching staff on the regular season's final day.

In the midst of New York's 2-1 victory over the Montreal Expos, Mets General Manager Frank Cashen fired Torre and his staff and said he was still considering a replacement. Torre was the seventh major league manager to be axed this season.

Meanwhile, Dave McKay hit a tie-breaking home run in the seventh inning as the Oakland A's defeated the Kansas City Royals 4-3 in a game between the American League West playoff contenders.

The loss sent the Royals to Cleveland Monday for a makeup double-header to determine whether one or two contests will be played in Kansas City in the five-game West mini-series.

The Mets scored their winning run in the eighth as Mike Howard drew a walk, stole second and raced home on Ron Gardenhire's single. Winner Pete Falcone, 5-3, scattered eight hits, posted eight strikeouts and did not allow a walk while Bill Gullickson, 7-9, was the loser.

The Expos, who clinched the National League East second-half season championship Saturday, employed five pitchers as Manager Jim Fanning prepared for Wednesday's playoff opener against the Philadelphia this week.

The Phillies, meanwhile, closed out their regular season with a 2-1 decision over the Chicago Cubs as Lonnie Smith extended his hitting streak to 23 games and scored the winning run on a wild pitch.

Gary Woods singled home the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning as the Houston Astros beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3 in a preview of the NL West playoffs.

The Milwaukee Brewers and New York Yankees, the AL East playoff contenders, each lost Sunday. Kirk Gibson's RBI single drove in the winning run in the ninth as the Detroit Tigers took a 3-2 victory over the Brewers. Eddie Murray hit a two-run homer to lead the Baltimore Orioles over the Yankees 5-2.

In other AL action, Don Baylor cracked four hits, drove in two runs and scored another to lead California past Texas 9-2. Dwight Evans homered twice and doubled, scoring three times as Boston beat Cleveland 6-2.

Sixth-inning home runs by Terry Bulling and Tom Paciorek led Seattle over Toronto 2-0. Jerry Hairston capped a four-run rally with two out in the ninth with a game-winning single and also belted a grand slam homer as Chicago beat Minnesota 13-12.

In other NL action, Mario Soto hurled a one-hitter to pitch Cincinnati to a 3-0 decision over Atlanta. Bob Shirley and two relief pitchers combined on a four-hitter to pace St. Louis to a 4-0 victory over Pittsburgh. Milt May's run-scoring grounder capped a three-run, eighth-inning rally and lifted San Francisco over San Diego 4-3.

Mears wins 200-mile race

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — The Indianapolis 500 last May was a disaster for Rick Mears, but he's been "living in luck" ever since.

His good fortune continued Sunday as he played the waiting game and wound up winning the Watkins Glen 200 Indy car race.

Mears, who already had clinched the PPG-CART Indy Car World Series 1981 championship, appeared to be trailing unheralded Rocky Moran with just four laps remaining in the 60-lap event.

Moran, whose stock-block Chevrolet-powered Eagle had led since lap 36, had increased his apparent edge over Mears to more than four seconds before he ran out of fuel.

DESPITE THE fact that officials later penalized Moran a lap for a pit violation — which would have cost him the victory even if he had crossed the finish line first — Mears felt he got the breaks all day.

"Mario (Andretti) ran away and hid from everybody early," noted Mears, who now has won five races this season and two in a row. "I knew there was no way I could be competitive with him at that point, so I just kind of let him go and hoped for the best."

The victory Sunday netted Mears, the only Indy car driver to win more than one race this season, and team owner Roger Penske first-place money of $27,965.

Mears averaged 108.284 mph for the 202-mile race.

Rutherford, who spun and stalled his engine trying to pass Alsup for third place on lap 40, wound up second, a lap behind the winner. Alsup, who had to slow down to conserve fuel late in the race, slipped back to third, on the same lap with Rutherford.

Bob Lazier was fourth, two laps down, followed by Steve Chassey, four laps behind, and Moran, who wound up five laps down after the penalty was assessed.

Moran, who finished third in the Watkins Glen Can-Am last July, impressed Gurney with his first Indy car drive.

"What could we do?" Gurney lamented. "He (Moran) is driving a great race and we have a valve that malfunctions. We knew the fuel would be close at the end, but he's leading the race with the guy (Mears) breathing down his neck. You can't slow down at that point."

There were several minor crashes and spins, but no injuries were reported.

Now it's mini playoff time

By The Associated Press

Forget about the records, the split season, the strike and the fact that two of baseball's best teams won't even be there. It's time for the game to get interesting again — the playoffs are here.

The best-of-five divisional playoffs open Tuesday in the home city of the second-half winners. The Kansas City Royals host the Oakland A's in the American League West, while the Houston Astros entertain the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West.

The series in the East start Wednesday with the Philadelphia Phillies traveling to Montreal to play the Expos and the New York Yankees meeting the Brewers at Milwaukee.

The final three games of each series will be played in the cities of the first-half division winners with the possible exception of the Oakland-Kansas City series.

The Royals finished the second season just a half-game ahead of Oakland and the A's could repeat as division winners today if Kansas City drops a doubleheader to the Indians in Cleveland. Oakland would then host games two through five.

BUT THAT possibilty isn't making Oakland Manager Billy Martin any happier.

"The pennant should have been ours five days ago and we should have won it. We should have had a bye, no question about it," Martin said. "They're not even a .500 club. It's a break for them. I think it's a black eye for baseball."

The Royals, who finished the season with an overall record of 49-53, will start right-hander Dennis Leonard, 13-11, against the A's Mike Norris, 12-9.

The best opening game pitching matchup will probably be in Houston, where the Dodgers will send out rookie sensation Fernando Valenzuela, 13-7, against Nolan Ryan, 11-5, who no-hit the Dodgers nine days ago.

"I'm glad to see us open at home," Ryan said. "I look at it as a plus. I feel we're capable of winning at home."

Valenzuela, the portly Mexican left-hander who dropped his last three decisions, said he wasn't nervous about the game.

"I'm going into the game with a lot of confidence. I'm well rested. I feel I'm still on top of my game."

The Astros suffered a serious loss Friday night when pitcher Don Sutton broke his kneecap in a freak accident while attempting to bunt in a game at Los

Rogers defeats Ben Crenshaw

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — "Unbelievable," Bill Rogers said over and over as he shook his head, digesting his sudden death victory over a frustrated Ben Crenshaw for his first Texas Open golf title.

"It's been a heck of a year for me," the Texarkana, Texas, native said after shooting a 7-under-par 63 Sunday to capture the $45,000 first prize.

Rogers sank a 3-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to force the playoff with Crenshaw after both golfers finished at 14-under-par 266. The Rogers curled in a 12-footer on the first hole of sudden death.

Rogers, in his sixth year on the Tournament Players Association tour, became the only golfer to win four events this season — the Heritage Classic, World Series of Golf, British Open and Texas Open — and ran his career earnings to $950,310.

In addition, he won the Suntory Open in Japan last month and goes to England for next week's World Match Play tournament with three straight victories under his belt.

Rogers also took satisfaction in winning the first of three playoffs in which he has been involved, but said a slight edge was taken off the victory because he defeated Crenshaw, one of his best friends.

Caponi, Whitworth win LPGA's team crown

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Veteran LPGA pair Donna Caponi-Kathy Whitworth sank a birdie putt in a sudden-death playoff to win their second consecutive $120,000 PING Team Championship with a 16-under-par 203.

Caponi stroked in the winning 32-foot putt on the second playoff hole at the 6,313-yard, par-73 Riverside Golf and Country Club.

JoAnne Carner and Midland's Judy Rankin shot par on the two extra holes to finish second in the tournament.

Frogs hog SWC spolight

DALLAS (AP) — How 'bout them Frogs!

For the first time in a long time, the Texas Christian Horned Frogs were the talk of the Southwest Conference today.

They did something Saturday they hadn't accomplished in the 1960s or the 1970s — beat Arkansas in a football game.

Two Steve Stamp to Stanley Washington 22-yard touchdown passes boosted TCU to a 28-24 victory over Arkansas for the first time in 22 years.

In other games, Texas A&M nipped Texas Tech 24-23, Houston bombed defending SWC champion Baylor 24-3, and previously winless Rice jumped the league's ledger against outside foes to 17-7 with a 20-16 victory over Tulane.

TCU travels to Rice Saturday while the Aggies host Houston, Texas Tech entertains Arkansas, and Texas goes against Oklahoma in a nationally televised game beginning at 11:30 a.m. at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas. Baylor travels to Dallas to play SMU.

Horned Frog Coach F.A. Dry, who beat Arkansas for the first time in five tries as the head mentor at TCU said after the come-from-behind victory: "It feels really good ... I imagine those who suffered through those 22 defeats feel pretty good about it too ... it hasn't been 22 years for me."

TCU's last-minute come-from-behind victory was only sightly more bizarre than A&M's triumph over the scrappy Tech Red Raiders, still looking for new Coach Jerry Moore's initial league victory.

The Aggies trailed 23-10 going into the final quarter, but touchdown runs by Thomas Sanders and Johnny Hector proved Tech's undoing.

Sophomore Lionel Wilson, passing the ball unlike anyone who had ever played just two varsity games, took the vigor out of the defending champion Baylor Bears.

Baylor has still yet to win in Houston against the Cougars.

Houston gained 431 yards offense against the Bears.

"The only thing that surprised me was the outstanding play of their quarterback," said Baylor lineman Tommy Tabor. "He executed every play very well ... like he had been doing it five or six years."

For Rice, it was the first victory of the year and helped push the excellent SWC season record to 17-7 against outside foes, one of the best since the early 1960s.

U.S. sweeps Australia in Cup semis

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — John McEnroe — the No. 1-ranked tennis player in the world — says he'll keep playing in Davis Cup competition for as long as he's invited.

"If I have to cut back, I'll cut back on something else, like exhibitions," the Wimbledon and U.S. Open champ said after using his brilliant arsenal of shots to lead the United States to a 5-0 sweep of Australia in the Davis Cup semifinals.

The competition ended Sunday with McEnroe downing Peter McNamara 9-7, 6-0, and Roscoe Tanner stopping Mark Edmondson, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Matches in Davis Cup play normally are best-of-five sets, but the Sunday competition was shortened to best-of-three after the United States clinched the semifinals on Saturday.

It was the first sweep of the Australians by the Americans since 1946. The Aussies have swept the Yanks three times since then, the last in 1973.

U.S. captain Arthur Ashe, says the victory is a vindication of that 1973 shutout.

"I wasn't on that team, but I heard about it in the locker room very frequently," he said.

Ashe said he doesn't know when he'll name the members of the team that will take on Argentina in the finals, scheduled for Dec. 11-13 at an American site yet to be announced.

"One of them will be McEnroe, that's for sure," Ashe said.

The U.S. captain apparently is willing to put up with McEnroe's occasional on-court outbursts, such as the one that nearly eliminated the Americans from doubles competition on Saturday.

With the U.S. duo of McEnroe and Peter Fleming leading 2-0 in the best-of-five sets competition, a linesman called the ball out of bounds, then changed his mind. Fleming relaxed after the ball was called out, and the Australian pair of McNamara and Phil Dent returned the ball and won the point.

A loud, lengthy argument followed, with the U.S. team drawing two warnings from the referee. Three warn

Another contradiction

While the bullies in the Kremlin weigh the pros and cons of smashing Polish democracy with tanks, American radicals keep pulling for victory by Cuba- and Soviet-backed forces in El Salvador.

To use a word dear to communist theoreticians, here is a contradiction. If Poland's workers cannot stand the inflexible rule and inefficiency of the elite bureaucracy, then why impose the same system on El Salvador?

Ah, it would not be the same system, supporters of the Soviet-backed forces will say. It would be a coalition of peasants, workers, small businessmen, intellectuals, nationalists and so forth. These are fighting with the leftists in El Salvador.

Unfortunately for the peasants, workers, small businessmen, intellectuals, nationalists and so forth, they would all quickly find themselves out in the cold if the Soviet-backed forces took over, just as they did in Cuba after Castro took over, just as they did in Russia after Lenin took over and just as they do in any country when communist-infiltrated forces take over.

El Salvador would not be different. The Soviets do not ship hundreds of tons of arms into another country because they want to make the world safe for democracy.

They want results. They don't care a fig for democracy. They had to deal with democracy in Hungary and Czechoslovakia, they have had to deal with stubborn recurring sprigs of it at home and now they are having to deal with it in Poland.

They deal with it by destroying it. In El Salvador they want the same kind of dissident-crushing dictatorship that they have wherever they seize power.

Americans who misguidedly or otherwise are trying to promote a Marxist victory in El Salvador are, whether they know it or not, trying to clamp the people of El Salvador into the same irons that the people of Poland are trying to escape.

Let them ask the Poles. Let them ask the Hungarians. Let them ask the Czechs.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Monday, Oct. 5, the 278th day of 1981. There are 87 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Oct. 5, 1502, Christopher Columbus discovered Costa Rica.

On this date:

In 1793, Christianity was abolished in France.

In 1796, Spain declared war on Britain.

In 1918, the allies announced that Germany's Hindenberg Line was broken in World War I.

And in 1970, Egypt's only political party named Anwar Sadat to succeed the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Ten years ago: South Vietnam's Vice President Ky charged that presidential elections in that nation had been rigged.

Five years ago: It was announced that radioactive fallout from a nuclear test in China had been detected in the eastern United States.

One year ago: West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's Socialist-Liberal coalition scored a decisive victory in parliamentary elections.

Today's birthday: Theatrical director Joshua Logan is 73 years old.

Thought for today: Art is a lie that enables us to realize the truth. — Pablo Picasso, Spanish artist (1881-1973).

MARK RUSSELL SAYS

Washington is very jittery these days over the latest crisis with China. Not the People's Republic, not Taiwan, but Nancy's new dishes, cups and saucers.

●

The new White House china will cost $209,000. That's the way it goes — the good people eat off of the plastic dishes and the plastic people eat off of the good dishes.

●

I realize that it would never do to have our heads of state dining out of Donald Duck jelly glasses, but these folks are starting to make the Czars look like Ma and Pa Kettle.

The reason given is that the old Truman China is chipped, but who wouldn't relish the opportunity to sip from a nicked toureen perhaps damaged during a heated exchange between give-'em-hell Harry and Sen. Taft?

CHARLEY REESE

U.S. policy toward Israel refutes lie

Arab politicians, like American politicians, will lie through their teeth, but they have one trait most American politicians do not share. That is, that after they have told a lie they believe it themselves.

Charley Reese

One of the big lies, which is being utilized in the AWACS controversy, is that the United States virtually created Israel, has always favored it at the expense of the Arabs, and has put its Middle East policy as hostage to Israel and the American Jewish lobby.

The facts contradict this entirely. The United States did not participate in the 11-nation commission which recommended the partition of a portion of Palestine that led to the creation of the State of Israel. President Harry Truman, over the strenuous objection of the State Department, instructed the U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations to vote for partition. The U.S. was one of 33 nations which did so.

Truman also recognized the State of Israel, once its independence was proclaimed, but the U.S. imposed an arms embargo on the infant state fighting for its life against the Arabs. It was not until 1962 that Israel was allowed to purchase arms from the United States and this was five years after the Soviet Union had begun to arm Egypt.

It's true that in the 1950s, as Israel struggled to absorb Jewish survivors of the Holocaust and Jewish refugees from the Arab countries, that the U.S. Congress provided some economic aid to Israel. From 1948 to 1978, the U.S. supplied Israel with about $12 billion in aid. During the same period, the U.S. supplied Arab countries with more than $8.5 billion in aid. Total U.S. aid to all foreign countries during that period is about $265 billion.

Furthermore, in 1957 the United States assumed responsibility for the budget of Jordan and resumed economic aid to Egypt. Not only that, as of Sept. 30, 1977, the United States had contributed $703 million — over half — of the $1.35 billion which the United Nations has spent caring for Arab refugees.

In 1959, the U.S. ended economic grants to Israel. Since that time U.S. aid to Israel has been largely in the form of loans, which Israel repays with interest, and in surplus commodities which Israel is allowed to purchase. The major burden of Israel's defense has been borne by the Israelis, which is why they have outrageous taxes and a high per capita foreign debt.

Despite the fact that the United States was making military grants to other nations during the 1950s and 1960s, Israel did not receive a military grant until 1973.

Nor has the United States consistently supported Israel diplomatically. The U.S. reversed its position on partition, imposed an arms embargo, generally ignored Arab attacks and terrorism, failed to bloc anti-Israel moves in the United Nations.

After Israel captured the Sinai and the Gaza Strip in the 1956 War — fought entirely without U.S. arms by the way — the United States forced Israel to return the Sinai and Gaza to Egypt but did not require any reciprocity from Egypt.

Nor has the United States ever pressured the Arab states to make peace with Israel. Again, after the 1973 war, the United States pressured the Israelis to give back to Egypt the Rudesi oil fields — again with nothing in return from the Egyptians.

The truth is that United States policy in so far as the State Department is concerned, has always been anti-Israel and is dominated by the multi-national oil companies' servile attitude toward the Arabs. In a word, our Middle East policy has been self-serving and often unfair to the Israelis and to the masses of the Arab people since we deal only with the dictators who control the oil concessions.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Pentagon covered up Army's pitiful state

WASHINGTON — This might best be called "The Anatomy of a Pentagon Lie."

Six months ago, I reported that U.S. Army troops in Europe were in a pitiable state of readiness — ill-educated, ill-trained and even illiterate.

Jack Anderson

Nine out of 10 soldiers assigned to operate and maintain nuclear weapons had flunked tests of their basic military skills, I reported. The figures for inadequate personnel were almost as shocking in other areas, including 88 percent of artillery crewmen, 77 percent of computer programmers, 89 percent of tracked-vehicle mechanics and 82 percent of Hawk surface-to-air missile crews.

It was an appalling report, and the Army responded with howls of protest — and some outright lies, which I can now document. Here's what my April 8 report said, what the Army replied, and what the Army knew the truth to be — as stated in a secret briefing report for the Army chief of staff obtained by my associate Ron McRae:

— My report: "While the shocking details have been hidden from the American public, our GIs' inadequacy is no secret to our allies." Army response: a flat denial, coupled with the boast that U.S. troops were now the pride of NATO forces.

The facts: According to the secret briefing document, the situation is "dangerous," and has reached the point where, without sharp improvement, "our Army will not be taken seriously by our allies or our adversaries."

— My report: Most of our troops flunked tests of their basic skills. Army response: The test results I quoted were three years out of date; since then, "numerous actions have been taken which have corrected perceived deficiencies."

The facts: Testing continued, but the results got worse instead of better. When Army Secretary Clifford Alexander saw the frightening test results collated in Human Readiness Report No. 5 in 1978, he was understandably dismayed. He forbade any disclosure or discussion of the report. Then he set about getting better results — not by improved training or recruitment, but by changing the tests! He ordered a new set of "unbiased" tests, designed to avoid "discrimination based on intelligence."

— My report: Illiteracy is widespread in the Army; many technical manuals have to be put in comic-book format because the Army recruits men who can't understand written instructions. Army response: There is no problem of quality among recruits.

The facts: Continuing poor test results of military proficiency are a direct result of recruiting poorly educated personnel, the secret briefing document states. "Although (Secretary Alexander) declared that we have no manpower problems, the vast majority of officers believe otherwise," the report says. More than 80 percent of the Army's officers complained about the low quality of their troops. Incidentally, black enlisted men as a group outscored whites; they tend to be better educated and better motivated than white recruits, seeing the Army as a road to opportunity.

— My report: The dismal state of the Army had led many professionals to conclude that some form of the draft would have to be instituted to get better-educated soldiers. Army response: No draft is needed, nor any drastic change in manpower policy.

The facts: "At this time (the Army) should muster the courage to assert the obvious about our manpower situation and act on it," the top-level briefing document states.

Footnote: Rep. Robin Beard, R-Tenn., a consistent supporter of Pentagon budget requests, has warned the generals that the public won't stand for multibillion-dollar expenditures on fancy weapons our soldiers can't operate. He cited a report showing, for example, that more than 20 percent of our tank gunners have no idea how to work the computerized, laser-assisted gunsight in the $1.75 million MX-1 tank.

POTHOLE POOHBAH: Mayor Jeff "Pirate" Burke of Rio Hondo, Texas (Pop. 1,675), has concocted a unique scheme to raise money for road repairs: He's selling souvenir potholes.

Proclaiming his town the "pothole capital of the world" — due largely to devastation wrought by Hurricane Allen last year — Burke said: "I figured if people would buy pet rocks, they'd buy pet potholes." So he printed up "Certificates of Ownership" attesting that the holder owns "one pedigreed pothole."

The certificates go for anywhere from $5 to $1,000, depending on size and location of the pothole. Gift certificates are available for donation to "one who doesn't know his 'you-know-what' from a hole in the ground." So far, Burke says, he has raised $2,500 from pothole sales — enough to repair five city blocks.

At a recent White House reception, the mayor handed a gift certificate to social secretary Muffie Brandon and asked that it be given to President Reagan. She obligingly forwarded it to the Oval Office.

Burke's gift of a presidential pothole could be interpreted as a rebuke to the Federal Emergency Management Agency, which he says didn't do much for Rio Hondo after the hurricane. A FEMA spokesman said it's a bum rap; some $37 million in aid went to the Texas Gulf Coast area.

●

KOOKY SPOOKS?: The Defense Intelligence Agency has found a friend in the hardline anti-Soviet Reagan administration, but it's still regarded with suspicion by other spy agencies. Reporting on one outlandish story leaked to a wire service, a top-secret National Security Council memo said: "It was probably a kook story out of some individual in DIA."

INSIDE REPORT:

Washington caught in excitement of 'super-lobbyists bowl'

WASHINGTON — A prospective Supreme Court justice urging senators to support congressional bailout of corporations convicted by the courts as antitrust violators is part of the fiercest lobbying battle being waged in backstage Washington, invisible to the outside world.

Rowland Evans

Former solicitor general Robert Bork, presumed to be President Reagan's future Supreme Court choice, has buttonholed senators and their aides to help his clients out of trouble. He is not alone. Just about every high-priced lawyer and lobbyist in town is battling over billions of dollars in price-fixing damages.

Robert Novak

While struggles over Reagan's budget and the AWACS sale dominate headlines, members of the Senate Judiciary Committee march to a different drummer. They are bombarded by merciless lobbying pressure to make past malefactors eligible on a retroactive basis for a proposed new method of setting antitrust damages.

This is the lobbyist superbowl. Former attorneys general, senators and White House aides, plus cadres of the capital's super-lobbyists, are involved. There are two kinds of Washington lawyers today: those getting rich on this legislation and those who wish they were. With more big names retained with each passing hour, nobody can count the multimillions in fees.

Senators are swamped by telephone calls from chief executive officers back home and Washington representatives who in the past funneled campaign contributions from political action committees of the corporations now seeking relief. This is the Washington jungle, unregulated by an administration that refuses to take sides. The Justice Department is studiously neutral.

Key company in the case is the Mead Corp., a Dayton, Ohio, paper products firm found guilty of price-fixing and facing a possible $750 million in treble damages. Mead is joined by three plywood manufacturers — Georgia-Pacific, Weyerhaeuser and Willamette Industries — found guilty of price-fixing to the tune of $1.5 billion in damages. The fifth firm is Milliken & Co., the textile manufacturer which lost a $21-million antitrust treble damage award to Burlington Industries.

All five companies are pushing for a retroactive amendment to a Senate bill that would ease the liability for damages by future price-fixers. Since the retroactive amendment amounts to a congressional bailout for companies which refused to settle out of court and instead lost in litigation, it was given little or no chance.

That was before the unprecendented all-star talent appeared on the scene. The respected Griffin Bell, former attorney general and a federal appeals court judge before that, emerged as a lobbyist for Georgia-Pacific. So did former senator Birch Bayh. Super-lobbyist Charles E. Walker, a master Capitol Hill stringpuller, entered the battle in Mead and Weyerhaeuser colors. Thomas (Tommy the Cork) Corcoran, the veteran wheeler-dealer, is handling Milliken. Mead recruited ex-Du Pont chief Irving Shapiro.

But Bob Bork, renowned conservative theoritician and constitutional scholar, was the most decisive combatant as counsel for Georgia-Pacific and Milliken. Arguing his case in letters and telephone calls to senators and at meetings of business groups, he turned a hopeless cause into a possibility. When the administration let it be known that Bork will be nominated to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, he eased up on his lobbying. But his work had been done.

Plaintiffs and those defendants who settled out of court had been assured by their Washington offices that Congress never would enact a bailout. But the lobbyists for the five companies have succeeded in repeatedly postponing Senate Judiciary Committee action on the bill while they gathered supporters for their amendment.

Alarmed, the anti-amendment companies found their own all-stars. Super-lobbyist Tommy Boggs was retained by Burlington. International Paper Co., which had settled in the paper case along with 33 other companies while only Mead insisted on going to trial, hired former senator Robert Griffin. The other side counterattacked with more big names. Benjamin Civiletti, Bell's successor as attorney general, has scheduled meetings with a key judiciary committee member to discuss the bill in behalf of an unnamed client.

The notion of a congressional bailout for a company which has been assessed severe antitrust damages in court is considered so outlandish that William Baxter, assistant attorney general for antitrust, is presumed to be opposed. But he refused to talk to us, referring us to the Justice Department press office, which stated the government's position: "Neutral."

Lawyers and lobbyists delighted with the rich harvest of fees confront senators who consider the unbearable pressure a bad dream. So, these senators search for a compromise that would relieve the companies of part of their court-imposed damages for violating the nation's price-fixing laws. That is how Washington works when the super-lobbyists roll into action.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠6 ♡K10752 ◇10432 ♣765
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—You have 3 HCP—even the weak response of one no trump promises 6. You are not thrilled with your spade singleton, but any attempt to improve the contract courts disaster. Pass.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠6 ♡K10975 ◇10432 ♣J109
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	2 ◇	Pass	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?
A.—By reversing, partner has shown a powerful hand with at least five hearts and four spades. You have golden values. In support of hearts, your hand is worth 8 points, and partner should have the equivalent of 18. A timid preference to three hearts, which promises no values at all, does not come close to expressing the value of your hand. Jump to four hearts.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠954 ♡QJ762 ◇8 ♣10432
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What action do you take?
A.—While this hand contains only 3 HCP, it is worth 7 points in support of hearts—your singleton revalues to 3 points and you must upgrade your heart length by 1 point. Do not give a thought to bidding anything but two hearts.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKQ105 ♡Q954 ◇K103 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—Although you have a very good spade suit, you should not lose sight of the possibility that your best spot might be in one of the other suits—or even defending one club doubled. In addition, a simple balancing overcall would not come close to doing justice to your fine hand—in fourth seat a reopening bid in a suit can be made on very sketchy values. Double.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J5 ♡AK843 ◇106 ♣K982
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—In third seat, you opened a dead minimum hand. Since partner is a passed hand, game prospects cannot be considered. Therefore, you should be concerned about reaching the best part score. As a passed hand, partner must have at least a five-card suit for his two-level response and you have a doubleton in support. However, he may have no support whatsoever for your heart suit. Pass before you end up in the wrong contract or get too high.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠104 ♡K87632 ◇Q102 ♣J9
The bidding has proceeded:

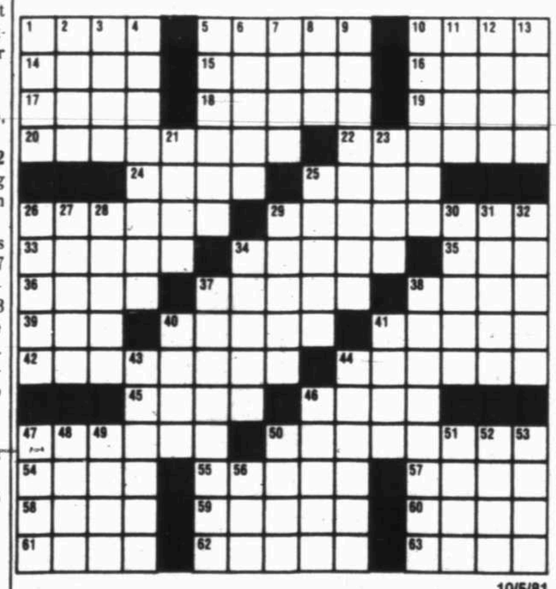

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—Hearts may be your best spot, but you are too weak to explore. Should partner have no tolerance for that suit, he will probably take out to two spades, and your hand rates to play better in diamonds—but not necessarily at the three-level.

Homeless nun fights for reinstatement

While living in an abandoned junkyard

WINONA, Minn. (AP) — Living in a Plymouth Duster abandoned in a junkyard, former nun Lillian Kral hunts for table scraps and patiently continues her fight for reinstatement in the Franciscan order.

Protected from chill winds by plywood and aluminum makeshift walls, the auto has been her home since March 1980, when she was evicted from the convent.

The fact the Duster doesn't run anymore makes little difference to its 53-year-old owner and occupant. Local authorities took away her driver's license months ago.

She paid $10 to have the auto towed to the junkyard on Sept. 14, which she points out is "the feast day of St. Helena" in the Roman Catholic Church where she once was a nun.

BUT SYMBOLISM doesn't go very far when the mercury dips to freezing and dinner is a handful of onions retrieved from garbage cans.

Nonetheless, the Duster is a place to sleep for the squat, iron-willed woman who quickly corrects any references to her as Miss Kral.

"It is Sister Elzear," she says. "It is and always will be."

She misses no opportunity to bend a stranger's ear, protesting her dismissal from the order.

Sister Elzear is a traditionalist, and was outspoken in her opposition to the reforms of Vatican II. On Feb. 18, 1980, she was notified of dismissal on the grounds of insubordination and was evicted from the Winona convent the following March 6. Church officials acknowledge she was the first Franciscan nun ever dismissed from the order against her will.

The former nun, who has been living in the car since March 12, 1980, argues that procedures leading to her dismissal were not handled according to canon law and thus the dismissal was invalid.

Church leaders say, however, that she has exhausted all avenues of appeal right up to the Vatican and there is nothing more to be said or done. One official who asked not to be identified called it a "family matter."

SISTER ELZEAR IS concentrating now on a pair of district court cases, set for hearing late this fall, in which she accuses regional church officials of obstruction of justice and defamation of character.

She's confident the courts will restore her to her order and that she will not have to spend another winter bundled in blankets in the cramped front seat of the car.

The former nun starts each morning with breakfast at a downtown dimestore in this Mississippi River city of 26,438 residents. Most days, she also attends morning Mass.

She spends the rest of the day rummaging throuugh garbage cans and gutters in search of table scraps and soft drink cans.

Rolling along the street on a child-size bicycle, Sister Elzear spears cans with an outstretched auto antenna. The scrap metal is turned in to a local recycler and the proceeds — $29 in a recent week — go for breakfasts and more court transcripts.

Sister Elzear compares herself to Job.

"He lost everything," she said with a smile. "But when he lost it all, he started getting it back."

Lillian Kral, who in February 1980 became the first Franciscan nun ever to be dismissed from the order against her will, discusses her fight for reinstatement, above. At right, she looks at what she calls her "Pope Pack," which consists of her correspnondence with the pope about her dismissal.

Jury almost selected in Nichopoulos trial

By LES SEAGO

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The pathologist who officiated at Elvis Presley's autopsy is among the witnesses expected to testify in the Criminal Court drug trial of the doctor charged with overprescribing dangerous drugs to the rock 'n' roll singer and eight other people.

James F. Neal, a former Watergate prosecutor heading the defense team, said jury selection could be completed today in the trial of Dr. George Nichopoulos.

The 53-year-old internal medicine specialist is charged in a 14-count indictment with over-prescribing dangerous drugs for Presley and eight other patients. The charges carry penalties of two to 10 years in prison and a fine of $20,000 on each count.

Jury selection began Wednesday.

The state Board of Medical Examiners suspended Nichopoulos' medical license for 90 days in 1980 following a week-long hearing. The board found Nichopoulos violated the law by prescribing large amounts of amphetamines, barbiturates and pain killers for Presley, singer Jerry Lee Lewis and other patients.

Nichopoulos was Presley's personal physician for 11 years.

The entertainer's death in 1977 at the age of 42 was officially blamed on heart disease. Dr. Jerry T. Francisco, the state medical examiner, steadfastly maintained Presley's death was not drug-related and he refused to release the contents of an autopsy report on Presley's body.

An ABC-TV program, "20-20," reported in 1979 that Presley's death was related to his dependence on drugs.

During the medical board hearing, an attempt was made to bring Dr. Eric Muirhead, the Baptist Hospital pathologist who officiated at the Presley autopsy, to the witness stand. His testimony was blocked by a legal technicality involving patient confidentiality — the autopsy report has been sealed at the request of the Presley family.

Muirhead is one of more than 130 prospective prosecution witnesses. The list also includes the names of several other pathologists who participated in the autopsy, including Francisco.

In his medical board hearing, Nichopoulos acknowledged prescribing amphetamines and barbiturates for patients named in the accusation, but said he did so in an attempt to control and reduce their dependence on drugs.

Bess Truman condition 'more vigorous and alert'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former first lady Bess Truman remained in fair condition early today at Research Medical Center, and her physician said she was "more vigorous and alert."

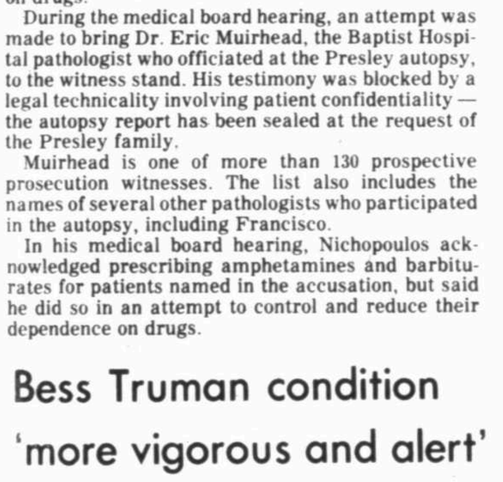

Dr. Wallace Graham said Sunday that Mrs. Truman continued to run a slight fever, which he attributed to minor bladder congestion. He said she continued to be fed nutrients and antibiotics through a tube in her nose.

Graham said the 96-year-old widow of President Harry S. Truman was sitting up in bed, enjoying flowers and balloons she had been sent.

Although her condition continued to improve, Graham did not expect Mrs. Truman to be released from the hospital this week.

"It's going to be quite a while," he said. "I don't have any idea how much longer."

Mrs. Truman was admitted to the hospital Sept. 27 after suffering a mild stroke the night before at her home in Independence.
