

Alien Walks Out Of City Jail Thursday

A Mexican alien, being held on a narcotics charge, walked out of City Jail to freedom Thursday afternoon. He remained at large today.

Jose Nunez, charged with possession of marijuana and held in lieu of $2,000 bond, checked out of the jail by answering when the name of another prisoner was called for release.

His disappearance was noticed about an hour later and an alert was broadcast throughout West Texas. Local Border Patrolmen also notified points of entry along the Mexican border on the theory that Nunez might head for his native Casa Grande, Chihuahua, Mexico.

Nunez was arrested Jan. 9 in the "flats" section of Big Spring. Authorities said he had a tobacco can filled with marijuana in his possession.

He was charged in County Court and following examining trial his bond was set at $2,000.

District Attorney Elton Gilliland

Jencks To Post Bond On Appeal

EL PASO (AP)—Labor leader Clinton Jencks was sentenced yesterday to two concurrent 5-year prison terms for lying in signing a Taft-Hartley Labor Law non-Communist affidavit.

He was released to his attorney, however, under a $10,000 appeal bond to be posted today.

It took a U.S. district court all-male jury only 28 minutes to decide his guilt. Thirteen government witnesses had labeled him a Communist from 1946 through 1950.

At the time he signed the affidavit, required of union leaders by the federal law, he was president of Local 890 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers in the Silver City, N.M., non-ferrous metal mining area.

During the entire trial, the defense failed to deny that Jencks, who is 35, had been a Communist. But the defense did hint that if he had been one, he was not a party member now. The defense almost entirely neglected the defendant's World War II record.

Jencks showed no surprise at the verdict, and his only comment was, "I have nothing to say."

As he summed up the defense, Atty. John McTernan declared, "The cry of Communism is easily raised. Let's leave it to (Sen. McCarthy and Atty. Gen.) Brownell to seek the headlines, to produce the history that is disguised in the newspapers as facts."

Asst. U.S. Dist. Atty. Holvey Williams summarized the government's stand. He said, "Thirteen witnesses have told the jury the Communist history of this defendant. What have they (the defense) brought to show you the truth—not a single witness."

As a side issue, Craig Vincent, operator of a guest ranch in Northern Mexico that was pegged a Communist nest, will be sentenced next week for contempt of court.

He refused to produce his guest register for 1950, when Jencks was reported at the ranch, on the ground that it might incriminate him.

Final MOD Street Plea

Last of the Saturday street solicitations for the March of Dimes occurs tomorrow.

The general appeal to finance the campaign against polio will be climaxed next Friday night, so general downtown appeals will be concluded Saturday, said Mrs. Z. M. Boykin, chairman of this phase of the campaign.

In charge of Saturday's appeal will be Mrs. C. M. Beles and Mrs. R. H. Boykin. They will be assisted by members of the Rainbow Girls and the Woman's Forum, and senior Hi-Y boys will handle the public address system.

The street appeals have been successful in attracting the general public's help in raising sufficient money to carry on another year the battle to curb crippling polio.

Champ Only Crossbred Capon There

Bobby Carlile, Star Route, Lenora, and a member of the Stanton chapter of the Future Farmers of America, exhibited the grand champion capon of the Martin County 4-H and FFA Livestock Show Thursday. Truett Vines, vocational agriculture instructor in the Big Spring High School, who judged the poultry is ready to hand the grand championship trophies over to the winner. This capon is from the crossing of a Dark Cornish hen and a White Rock rooster and was bred by the Stanton FFA Chapter. The Cornish hens were obtained by the chapter from the breeder who had the grand champion pen of three capons, all Dark Cornish, at the Houston Fat Stock Show last year. This was the only crossbred capon in the show. (More Pictures On Page 8).

Bobby Carlile Has Top Capon

STANTON (SC)—Bobby Carlile, a junior in the Stanton High School, and active in both 4-H and FFA work, received two handsome trophies here Thursday afternoon when a Dark Cornish-White Rock crossbred capon he entered as an FFA feeding project was selected by Truett Vines of Big Spring as the grand champion.

Bobby, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Carlile, Star Route, Lenora, also has a fat steer entered in the show for judging Friday as another FFA project, and a fat barrow as a 4-H Club project. He is president of the Stanton FFA Chapter also president of the district FFA organization, and is general superintendent of this show.

In the single capon class he also had the third place bird, and in the class for pens of three capons his entry took the red ribbon.

Vines who is vocational agriculture instructor in the Big Spring High School, placed the single capon down through the 17th entry, the pens of three capons through the fifth, and the pens of five broilers through the 25th place.

In the fat lamb classes the grand championship was awarded the entry of Vernon Holcomb, a member of the Flower Grove High School FFA Chapter, who selected and fed his lamb under the supervision of Robert Becker, vocational agriculture teacher there. This exhibitor also had the grand champion lamb at last year's show here. The lambs were judged by Dub Day, county agricultural agent at Rankin.

Friday morning the fat barrows, fat gilts and fat steers will be judged by L. M. Hargrave, associate professor of animal husbandry at Texas Tech, and the sale of barrows, capons and broilers will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in an auction with J. Poyner of Odessa serving as auctioneer.

A parade will be held shortly after noon under the direction of Sammy Houston. During the entire day sandwiches, hot coffee, cold drinks and cake will be served at the Martin County Show Barn, two blocks east of the Courthouse, by the ladies of the Martin County Home Demonstration Club, assisted by Mrs. Mildred Eiland, home demonstration agent.

The reserve champion capon was an entry of Robert Lomax of the Lomax Community, also a member of the Stanton FFA. Lomax also had both the grand and reserve champion pens of five broilers.

In the show barn the members of the Stanton FFA have on display a brooder they made which is filled with baby chicks. Elbert Steele, their instructor, has placed great emphasis on poultry production as practical instruction for his students, and chickens bred and developed by the chapter and its members have placed well in major shows. This year Steele and his boys are taking a number of capons and broilers to the Houston Fat Stock Show where they have also exhibited before.

The grand champion pen of three capons was shown by Archie Butler another Stanton FFA member who has devoted much of his agricultural course to a study of

Shepperd Sees End To Power Of Parr

TEMPLE (AP)—Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd predicted here yesterday that "1954 will bring an end to George Parr's power."

Parr is the South Texas political power presently under $1,500 bond for a pistol-carrying charge. His family for many years has been dominant in politics of the 70th Judicial District of South Texas.

Shepperd, who spoke before the Temple Rotary Club, said anti-Communist legislation might be introduced at the special session of the Legislature Gov. Allan Shivers has said he would call.

"I've tried to go-by-enforce the law without any prejudice to anyone regardless of their political affiliations. I hope in the future there will not be any interference at any political rally from the opposing party or parties, and if there is, as I have stated to Parr, I intend to take whatever action may be necessary as a law enforcement officer in the State of Texas."

"I came down here to do a job and I am going to do it the best I can, regardless of what little frays we had in the courthouse. West's Envoys Arrive In Berlin For Meeting

Parr And Allee May Go Before Grand Jurors

By WILBUR MARTIN

ALICE (AP)—Political leader George Parr, who braved in the courthouse here Monday with Texas Rangers Alfred Allee and Joe Bridge, may face the Jim Wells County grand jury today.

Speculation also spread last night that Allee would be called before the investigating body, too. Nine persons met with the grand jury yesterday.

Mrs. Caro Brown of the Alice Daily Echo, talked with the jurors for an hour and 15 minutes.

Others questioned included County Clerk C. H. Holmgren; County Atty. Sam Burris; Deputy Sheriff Jack Butler; Ed Loyd, Parr's attorney; and Oscar Carrillo, one of the sureties for Parr's $1,500 bond on a pistol-carrying charge.

The courthouse corridor battle here Monday also included Sheriff Archer Parr of Duval County, a nephew of the political king-pin. It all started when, as Ranger Bridge put it, Archer Parr "insulted" Bridge.

Bridge slapped Archer, Mrs. Brown's eye-witness account said. Archer made a motion toward his gun but was quickly disarmed by Allee. George Parr grabbed Allee's arm. The Ranger captain stepped back with his pistol drawn, saying, "I'm tired of the way you are running things in Duval County. I'm damn well fed up."

Mrs. Brown said she cried, "Cap! Cap!"

"He was going to kill me," said the 52-year-old Parr. "The only reason he didn't was that Mrs. Brown yelled, 'Alfred, Alfred.'"

The scuffle occurred as Parr was waiting for a hearing on a charge that he was illegally carrying a gun near a meeting of the Freedom Party Saturday night. The Freedom Party has vowed to unseat him as South Texas political boss.

Parr denied allegations in a complaint filed by Manuel Marroquin that said he brandished a pistol and threatened to kill Marroquin and all "those so and so" at the meeting.

The so-called pistol, Parr has said, actually was only a pair of binoculars.

Marroquin appeared before the grand jury voluntarily Wednesday. After his appearance, Marroquin said Incarnacion Pena, 79th District Court interpreter, told him, "Don't come to my barber shop in San Diego any more. I don't want you killed in my place of business."

Pena said, however, that he "just asked him (Marroquin) to go some place else to get his barber work done. The red light is on him now. I'm a member of the Old Party and he's a member of the New Party. x x x You know how it is. I don't want no trouble."

Both Parr and Juan Barrera, his companion Saturday night, are free under $1,500 bonds on the pistol-carrying charges.

Allee told the Associated Press yesterday: "I came down here to do a job and I am going to do it the best I can, regardless of what little frays we had in the courthouse. I've tried to go-by-enforce the law without any prejudice to anyone regardless of their political affiliations. DIRECT POLIO DONATIONS TO CHAIRMAN

Organizations and individuals wishing to make contributions to the March of Dimes are requested to call Mrs. W. O. Underwood, Dial 4-8004.

Mrs. Underwood is chairman for the campaign to raise funds to combat polio, and will see that all donations are properly credited and put into the campaign fund. Persons having questions about the fund drive also are invited to call Mrs. Underwood.

A call to the chairman about any contribution will result in prompt arrangements to have the gift picked up, she said.

The three Western ministers arranged a get-together to set up strategy for the meeting. A French foreign ministry spokesman said the three would hold a pre-conference talk tomorrow at French headquarters.

Dulles, who flew to this divided city in President Eisenhower's plane, Columbine, said in a prepared statement the Western Powers "hope to unite Germany by giving the German people as a whole the right which our civilization treat as fundamental, including the right of a people by free elections to choose for themselves their own sovereign government."

The American Secretary of State was the first to arrive. He was greeted at the airport by a large delegation of Western officials, and an American tank unit fired a 19-gun salute. Dulles, who came in by train from Paris, Eden stopped off in Dusseldorf on his way to Berlin and told reporters at the airfield there "nobody can expect a full solution to the problem (of Germany) can be found in a matter of a few weeks."

Later, on his arrival in Berlin, Eden voiced hope that a "decisive step toward the reunification of Germany could be taken," but counseled determination, firmness and patience.

Speaking to newsmen before his departure from London, Eden warned: "A conference like this must take time. For my part as long as we are making any progress at all, I am ready to devote any time that may be necessary."

Dulles also had expressed caution about the party's prospects when he left Washington. "If the Soviet leaders come to Berlin with a genuine desire to create conditions of peace," he told reporters, "they will find us open-minded and cooperative."

But he queried: "Will Germany and indeed all Europe be unified for peace? Or will divisions be imposed which will make Europe again the breeder of war?"

The most optimistic statement came from West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, sitting on the conference sidelines. He told the foreign affairs committee of the Bonn Parliament that there existed a real chance for the unification of East and West Germany in the Berlin talks.

This was an about face from the previous view in the West German capital, where most German officials have felt that nobody really wanted the party and it was therefore doomed to failure.

It appeared the foreign ministers would wrangle about three basic questions: 1. Reunification of East and West Germany—and how to do it. 2. An independence treaty for Austria. 3. A further conference on world tensions—and whether Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists or Mao Tse-tung's Communists should represent the Far East in such a meeting.

Neither West nor East so far has shown any willingness to give ground on these issues.

Pro-Red Balkers Freed By Indians

By BILL SHINN

PANMUNJOM, Saturday (AP)—The Korean War prisoners who stirred world wide controversy by their refusal to go home were turned loose today.

Twenty-one Americans, 1 Briton and 327 South Koreans who chose communism were abandoned by Indian guards in a flimsy neutral zone compound at 12:01 a.m. (10:01 a.m. Friday, EST).

The pro-Red POWs said they would stay until their food runs out, echoing the demand of the Communist Command that Indian troops stay on.

The U.N. Command liberated as civilians the nearly 22,000 anti-Red captives returned to it Wednesday by the Indian Command—a course the Allies assert was required by the armistice.

When official freedom came, more than 14,000 Chinese anti-Red POWs already were aboard American ships en route to Chinese Nationalist Formosa. More than 7,500 anti-Communist North Koreans were in South Korean army reception centers.

An Indian officer said the pro-Communist north camp was "absolutely quiet." There was no celebration among the Koreans. A ROK official said most were asleep. Some of the freed prisoners had been in stockades almost from the start of the Korean War 3 1/2 years ago.

Allied insistence that no prisoners be forced to go home against their will was a major stumbling block in the prolonged armistice talks.

The pro-Red Americans, British and South Korean POWs staged a sitdown strike in their compound. The purpose was to back the Communist position that they should be held until their fate is decided by a Korean peace conference. But it was considered likely that when the food runs out they will march north and vanish behind the Iron Curtain.

The Indian Command made a final appeal Friday for the Reds to accept the pro-Communist prisoners, but it was rejected.

Instead, the Reds warned Indian Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya it would consider the Indians responsible for seizing that there is no "abduction and dispersion" of the pro-Reds.

The Indian commander then

Marine Death Toll Is Raised To 29

INCHON, Korea (AP)—The death toll of U. S. Marines in yesterday's collision of a troopship and a small landing craft was raised to 29 today.

Authorities said official records showed the Marine-laden landing craft carried 51 rather than 50 men. Twenty-two were rescued from the icy waters of Inchon harbor.

Names of the dead have not been announced.

Branniff Would Cut Out Alternate Route

WASHINGTON (AP)—Branniff Airways has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for authority to suspend service at Ponca City, Okla., Topeka, Kan., and Burlington, Iowa.

Branniff said it provides a DC3 service between Dallas and Chicago solely to serve the three cities, and could reduce its domestic losses by almost $350,000 a year by discontinuing the service.

Cotton Compromise Approved In House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill giving cotton farmers increased cotton planting acreage was passed by the House yesterday by voice vote.

It sets a 1954 planting acreage of 21,579,342 acres—almost 3 1/2 million acres more than the 1953 acreage.

Battered Tank Fails To Run Sans Danger

NEW YORK (AP)—There was no cry of "Get a horse" or "Put a nickel in it" when the battered, homemade tank broke down and couldn't make it from the Bronx to lower Manhattan.

That same clattering, lurching contraption had crashed the Iron Curtain six months ago and carried a Czech family to freedom. So there was no bantering, only friendly concern over the plight of the five-ton monster.

An ungainly sight yet. But consider how it was made:

From stolen scraps of metal and a war-wrecked gun carrier.

With its builder, 33-year-old Vaclav Uhlik, and Walter Hora, 25, another Czech escapee at the helm, the tank set out on its trip yesterday as part of the Crusade for Freedom campaign.

Just as the 15-mile trip was about to begin, the tank's radiator started to leak. That was fixed. Then the retractable wheels wouldn't lower because of a broken clutch. Since this meant the old battlewagon had to be run on its caterpillar tracks a special official okay had to be obtained before it could run that way along city streets. More delay.

Finally, with a motorcade escort of police, newsmen and photographers, the tank chattered off at a 10-mile-an-hour clip. It rumbled over a Harlem River bridge and reached 88th Street before the engine quit.

Uhlik, who had chauffeured himself and seven fellow Czechs through a 40-mile cordon of Communist police and border guards, again went to work on it.

The ignition system was fouled and the carburetor began flooding. More work, more crowds, and plenty of friendly advice. A taxicab driver stopped to lend Uhlik some tools.

It was no go. So police got a tow car and pulled the tank to Times Square. There was no time left to get to its planned destination—City Hall—because it was nearly dark.

So the stouthearted vehicle hulked temporarily on the Great White Way, broken in mechanical spirit but radiating a pathetic heroism.

Ex-Marine Given Life Term In Sex Death Of Woman

ATLANTA (AP)—David G. Price, 19-year-old former Marine with a yen for "scarey comics," was convicted last night of the murder of a young club-footed woman.

A jury deliberated five hours before finding Price guilty of the mutilation murder of 22-year-old Betty Bagby in a wooded glade June 20. Superior Judge Walter C. Hendrix sentenced him to life imprisonment after the jury recommended mercy.

Miss Bagby's body, nude except for shoes, was found battered and knife-slashed near her home two days after the murder.

Price had denied the slaying at the trial. He said he signed a confession only after police cursed him and threatened him with a third degree.

During closing hours of the trial Price read the following statement:

"I've done things wrong with Betty a few times. I had sexual relations with her. . . But please, please, believe me, I never killed Betty Bagby."

Detective A. M. Johnson said Price, after his arrest, told of slaying Miss Bagby after they had sexual relations and "she got mad" because he brought her home on a trolley instead of in a taxicab.

300 Watch Suicide Leap Of D.C. Man

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Some 300 onlookers watched in awe yesterday as a despondent man leaped to his death from the roof of a three-story hotel building in downtown Phoenix.

The victim was identified as William Walter Falley, about 50, of Washington, D. C. He died a few minutes later before his arrival at a hospital.

Falley walked around on the ledge for several minutes before making his fatal dive. Police and firemen were summoned to the scene as pedestrians gathered below.

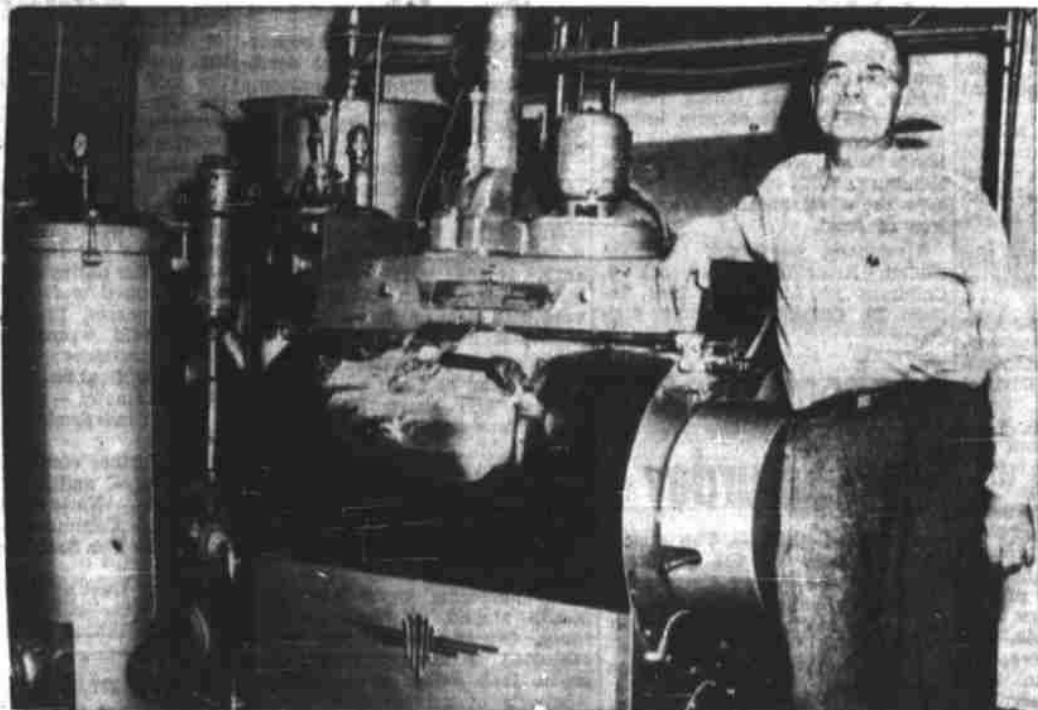

Firemen spread a net but Falley made a running jump and landed on the alley pavement.

Falley, a World War II veteran, was reported to be suffering from asthma. "I'm a sick man," he wrote in a note addressed to a brother, George Falley, Waverly, N. Y.

As officers and firemen went to the roof, Falley reiterated, "I'm sick. You know how sick I am." Then he made his dive.

DEDICATED TO BETTER SERVICE TO OUR FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS

Proudly, we announce our grand new opening of our ultra-modern plant at 500 Johnson. It has taken time and a great deal of planning for us to arrive at this date. We feel that our new plant offers you the very finest in cleaning equipment. We have tried hard to see that every piece of machinery that has gone into the new building is the very latest that it is possible for us to get. We hope that the many fine friends who have patronized us through the years will come to see us at our new location and that every one will drop in and see our plant and get acquainted. We feel that we have something to offer and we certainly want you to see it.

Paralyzed Hero

Reginald Griffin, 19, paralyzed by polio from the waist down since childhood, shows his burned hand to his father, Leonard Griffin, as he lay hospitalized in Los Angeles after saving the life of his five-year-old sister. The girl, Diane, was running through the house after her nightgown was ignited by a heater. Griffin, on his hands and knees and using his braces, caught the girl and beat out the flames with his hands. The girl's condition is critical. (AP Wirephoto).

Riding THE GRUB LINE With Franklin Reynolds

(Being the third installment of the Grub Line Rider's recollections of coffin nails and loose morals)

Maybe a lot of those old-time smokers of "tailor made" as factory manufactured cigarettes were then known, did die of lung cancer instead of galloping consumption as we then thought.

We won't argue the point even if somebody else wants to raise it. But in the American history of the cigarette there was a day when there weren't any radios and consequently no Dragnets, Perry Cos. Cravans, Hit Parades and other such horrible things. At the same time the cigarette manufacturers had to do something to reach in and grab off a profitable part of the tobacco habit. They had to do something to stimulate sales.

A review of the retail tobacco market of the time is in order. Most of the cigarette smokers rolled their own. The average first rate drug store had a very large show case, in many cases two of them, devoted exclusively to cigars, most of them of a high quality of tobacco. That was before Havana cigars were made in Tampa. A man named Wellington, or at least a company named for him, had the briar pipe business pretty well socked up. A handsome, hand-carved Meerschaum pipe was no harder to find than a corset, and big humidors of pipe tobacco, next to boxes of cigars, were the most usual gifts received by men. Near the tobacco case in every grocery and drug store there was a cutter, used to cut the big plugs of chewing tobacco down to the size required by the customer.

Among the more popular plugs there were Reynolds' Natural Leaf; Penn's Natural Leaf; Brown's Mule; Star; Humbug; Kate Gravelly; Piper Hedsick (flavored with champagne); Peyton Gravelly; Gravelly's Natural Leaf; Strater's Natural Leaf; Grape; Honey Cut; Red Juice, and many more. One of the most popular twists was Winchester, and then there were the sacks of sweetened chewing tobacco called "scrap." There were many of these and they were very popular with railroad men. Many of these chewing tobaccos, like White Rolls cigarettes, are no longer in the market. However, among them were such brands as Full Bloom, Choice, Good Chew, Select, and literally hundreds of others. In North Carolina alone in 1931-32 there were 295 different tobacco factories each of them turning out their own brands of pipe and chewing tobaccos. In time there were even more of these factories and even more brands. In 1906 the Reynolds firm alone was manufacturing 59 brands of flat plug and 14 brands of twist tobacco, and among these brands old-timers will recall the familiar names of R.J.R., R. J. Reynolds Level Best, Naturally Sweet, R.J.R. Red, White and Blue, Strawberry Twist, Belle of North Carolina, Twink, Belle of Schnappa, and chewing tobaccos, and such smoking tobaccos as Split Silk, Our Advertiser and Razor Back.

Then there arose the great "tobacco trust" that gobbled up all the little fellows and that was finally busted up itself and put under control by congressional anti-trust action.

To review the scene briefly — no young man ambitious to marry a nice girl could afford to be seen smoking a "tailor made" nor could he afford to be known as a "cigarette fiend" (and one "tailor-made" made a fiend) if he expected to get a position of responsibility and trust in a bank or drug store or grocery store. "Tailor made" were to be smoked in saloons and pool halls, or if in public by the while, too, it should be remembered that the "makins" had become permanently and respectably established in the country. The sack and book of papers, so far as the West was concerned, didn't enter into consideration.

Opposition to the "tailor made" before World War I was on a national scale and it was tremendous. Also on the increase. Just as World War I "saved the world for democracy" as Woodrow Wilson said, it also saved the cigarette from becoming an outlaw like John Barleycorn became when the "Noble Experiment" fell on the country.

But the cigarette manufacturer faced a problem in how to cut in on the cigar, pipe and chewing tobacco business. He sought to solve it many ways. What a splash Perry Como, the Hit Parade and Dragnet could have made in those days of minstrel shows and burlesque — and heavy, thick cigar smoke.

Some newspapers in those days, just before World War I, wouldn't accept cigarette advertising on the same grounds that some newspapers today decline whisky advertising. Sweet Caporal cigarettes hid a slogan: "Ask Dad. He Knows!" But slogans weren't enough.

In those days, too, every plug of tobacco had a tin tag on it. Boys collected those tags just as they now collect plane models and a favorite form of juvenile gambling was matching these tags heads-and-tails on the school grounds at recess, since the tags were plain on one side and painted on the other. One of the tags most frequently seen came from the plugs of Apple tobacco. Evidently this matching wasn't considered wrong since nobody did anything about it, and besides there wasn't any such thing as "delinquency" back in those days when a cigarette was a "coffin nail" and a cigarette smoker was a "cigarette fiend" worse than a person addicted to laudanum, or a cocaine whiffer, or a peach brandy drinker.

But the manufacturers did manage a great promotion scheme for their products. Today there are hundreds of machines making Camel cigarettes and each of these hundreds of machines costs more than twice the money with which the founder of the Reynolds Tobacco Company started business in 1875.

The cigarette makers chiseled in on the other styles of using "the weed" and by 1915 the smokers of the United States were consuming 18 billion cigarettes annually. This figure increased to 164 billion in 1938; to 400 billion in 1950, and to a top of 437 billion, 800 million in 1952, which dropped to 425 billion in 1953 when the lung cancer theory got some promotion.

Union Shop Suit In Night Sessions Now

AMARILLO (U)—Judge E. C. Nelson has set night sessions in order to finish an injunction hearing here against the Santa Fe Railroad and 16 non-operating unions.

The 108th District Court Judge yesterday sharply criticized the attorneys' conduct of the case so far as having been unnecessarily slow. He said night sessions would continue unless the trial pace quickened.

J. N. Landreth, general manager eastern lines of the AT&SF, testified yesterday that attorneys of unions representing the non-operating railroad crafts apparently believed a year ago that the union shop issue would "be decided in the court."

Landreth told the jury that a union spokesman in May 1953 told him the unions sought identical contracts with all railroads and "would stand or fall" by any particular contract which might be selected for a court test.

The lawsuit being tried here is the outcome of a petition filed May 5, 1953, by 13 Amarillo employees of the Santa Fe in an effort to enjoin the railroad and the unions from signing a union shop agreement.

The current hearings will determine whether a temporary injunction against the defendants should be made permanent. The Santa Fe is not contesting the injunction suit.

Flaming Gasoline Does Damage But None Are Injured

LONGVIEW (U)—A 150-gallon gasoline tank slipped from a pickup truck here yesterday, hit the pavement and the spilled gas ignited. The flaming liquid set fire to three parked cars, flowed four blocks down a sewer and out into a drainage ditch, where it started a grass fire.

Nobody was hurt. The tank toppled out the back end of the truck as the driver apparently slowed down on the highway to Marshall in Longview's east section.

Some of the blazing gas flowed across the street and down the gutter. Most of it ran into a sewer ditch, traveled four blocks and came out in a drainage ditch behind Hurst Motor Co. A grass fire there was quickly controlled.

The pickup driver stopped when he heard the tank fall and was about three-fourths of a block away when the gas ignited.

Coffee Sessions Get Down To Price Of Java In Gossip

By The Associated Press

The cup of hot coffee was becoming the chief item of conversation this week at that regular gathering in many Texas towns and cities—the morning coffee club.

It rivaled the President's budget message among economic-minded citizens.

In Commerce, Tex., home of the amazing East Texas State Lion football team, talk was at last veering away from the fact that Coach Catfish Smith was leaving.

Asked appliance dealer Lewis Jones of Sterling Hart:

"Do you think it's worth it?"

"Yes," replied the venerable Hart, president of the Amalgamated Association of Downtown Coffee Drinkers, "it is."

Hart was speaking about $1 per pound coffee, like a lot of other Texans.

In Dallas, grocers reported they had enough coffee on hand to hold retail prices just under the dollar-a-pound mark. That's the way coffee prices were in Fort Worth, 89 cents to 99 cents per pound.

A chain of grocery drive-ins, 7-11, offered to pay customers 93 cents for each pound of Folgers, Maryland Club, Admiration or Maxwell House they would bring in.

One Fort Worth store was offering coffee at 59 cents per pound with other purchases amounting to $5 or more. And Vaughan Heady, 7-11 manager in Fort Worth, said his firm's offer was to "inform the public of the actual cost of coffee today, compared with the ridiculous price it is being sold for by some stores."

In Houston, where much of the green coffee enters this country from Central American and South American countries where it is grown, Mrs. Grace Taylor took pity on the jury-serving portion of the public that was having to pay 10 cents a cup for coffee.

Mrs. Taylor, who operates the Criminal Courts Building cigar stand, decided to keep the price at a nickel. "It looks like I will lose money on every cup at 5 cents," she said. "But I recently raised the price of cigarettes a penny a pack and I think that will make up the coffee losses."

There was no comment from cigarette smokers.

Some restaurant owners, who raised their coffee to 10 cents per cup, disagreed with former publisher Hart in Commerce. "Don't drink it. It's not worth it."

Meanwhile, the green coffee bean market, which began a decline last week, made a 2-cent per pound advance Wednesday, causing a Wisconsin member of Congress to ask for "coffee-less Wednesdays."

Twenty More Due To Speak In Tax Trial Of Wardlaw

DALLAS (U)—U.S. Dist. Atty. Heard Floore said about 20 more witnesses would testify today in the income tax evasion trial of A. L. Wardlaw, former Tarrant County assistant district attorney.

Wardlaw was convicted and given three years in 1952 on the charges he tried to evade 1948 and 1949 taxes totaling $3,025. Last spring the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans reversed the decision and ordered a new trial.

Sixteen government witnesses were called yesterday in a government effort to show Wardlaw spent more money than the amount of income he reported.

In his original returns, Wardlaw listed his salary as his only income. But two days before his indictment, he filed amended returns setting his 1948 and 1949 incomes at much higher figures.

Publisher Burns Own Books, Gains Ample Publicity

TOKYO (U)—A public book-burning destroyed 13,000 books in downtown Tokyo today.

The publisher himself did the job while newsmen watched and photographers clicked away.

The edition wasn't a Communist book—they sell like Japanese hot chestnuts on a winter night. It was "I Think Like This," the autobiography of Masutomi Ito, a fantastically successful stock speculator who finally crashed last year.

His downfall left publisher Min-ori Yamazaki with a fine collection of nicely printed waste paper. Normally, a publisher would call in the second-hand paper man and ask for a bid. But Yamazaki invited the press, struck a match, and got himself stories and pictures in almost every Tokyo newspaper.

Tokyo Shimbun reported Yamazaki expects to recoup on a foreign sex book he is printing.

They sell like hot chestnuts too.

Ten-Year Sentence Given For Murder

GONZALES (U)—Atty. Deaver Perkins made ready today to move for Felipe Euseste, 40-year-old Waelder storekeeper, convicted of murder last night.

Euseste was assessed a 10-year prison sentence for the slaying of Edward Barcenas after a district court jury deliberated three hours.

Perkins said he would appeal if a new trial was denied.

Euseste testified yesterday he thought Edward Barcenas made a "six-shooter play" by reaching inside his shirt in a bar in which both men were drinking.

Negro Convict Dies After Prison Fight

ANGLETON (U)—Earlie B. Ivey, 18-year-old Harris County Negro convict, was injured fatally last night when struck by a bottle by another prisoner after an argument over a blanket.

Ivey died about two hours after he was struck by B. C. Collins, 26, also of Harris County, a Huntsville prison official said.

A Bible Thought For Today—

"The Lord watch between thee and me, when we are absent one from the other." — Gen. 31:49. Laban did not need to remind the Infinite. He is watchful always. It is well for us to remember this.

GM Prexy's Bold Outlook Will Undoubtedly Stabilize Trends

"No depression is in my vision. It is my belief the national economy will be strong and healthy throughout the year."

That was the opinion of Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, and he backed up his optimistic statement Tuesday with announcement of a billion-dollar expansion program for GM, of which 50 per cent will be spent this year and the balance by the fall of 1955. The program is designed mainly to provide additional capacity for the corporation's automotive divisions.

Since World War II, GM has already poured two billion dollars into similar expansions and improvements.

Mr. Curtice predicted a gross national product this year "approximately equal to the $365 billion estimated for 1953." He expects his firm's volume of sales this year "in physical and dollar terms" to be substantially equal to the high level of 1953, "as a result of well-sustained income and lower taxes."

Factors that will keep the business level high this year were listed by Mr. Curtice as including continuing high capital investment by industry, new housing starts that should exceed a million and a high rate of commercial building, continuance of high defense expenditures, little change in employment, and sustained consumer spending.

That "continuance of high defense expenditures" item was somewhat compromised by a Pentagon announcement almost simultaneous with Mr. Curtice's speech. There, where his immediate predecessor at GM now presides, Mr. Wilson, the Army announced it would whack half a billion dollars off its expenditures for the last half of 1954.

But GM's example to private enterprise will undoubtedly stimulate and influence the business outlook generally, thus brightening the outlook for 1954. We know of one corporation that pondered for weeks whether to pay or pass a current semi-annual dividend, in view of the outlook. After weighing the matter from all angles, the directors decided to go ahead and pay. No doubt thousands of corporations will reach a similar conclusion.

Advisory Council Recommends But PM General Has His Own Ideas

A ten-man council set up to advise the Senate Post Office Committee made its report this week, recommending restoration of twice-a-day deliveries among other things, and getting an immediate indignant rise out of Postmaster General Summerfield.

The group, all civilians representing different classes of mail users, is chaired by Senator Carlson (R-Kan.), the only official involved.

Postmaster General Summerfield said the report was "withheld from us until today," and charged that the "entire tenor and fabric . . . tries to justify further inaction and delay on postal rate increases for an indefinite period." He declared "ridiculous" the council's claim that hundreds of millions could be saved in the department through economies and efficiencies.

Senator Carlson held that the council was right as to the savings that could be effected, and promised that the report would be studied promptly by the Senate

Post Office Committee which he heads. Specifically, the council blasted Summerfield's claim that twice-a-day delivery would cost $80 million a year. This figure, it held, was far too high.

It also said rates on newspaper and magazines had been hiked 30 per cent in the last three years, rates on advertising circulars have gone up 50 per cent since 1948, and parcel post rates have soared 100 per cent since 1948. It suggests that any further boosts should come on the first class rate, from the present 3 cents to 4 cents. This proposal has the support of President Eisenhower, but because it affects the political effect, therefore may not find favor with many congressmen.

Summerfield accused the council of "fallacious reasoning," said his department would submit its own financial plan and recommendations to the Senate later. The council proposes 28 changes in the antiquated and money-wasting postal system which has needed reorganization for years, but these proposals may get scant sympathy.

Today And Tomorrow—Walter Lippmann

Bricker Tries To Re-Write, Not Preserve America's Constitution

For those who have not yet paid too much attention to the controversy it must be very confusing to find that the supporters and the opponents of the Bricker Amendment both contend that they are trying to preserve the Constitution. Both of these conflicting claims cannot be right, and we may well ask ourselves how this has come about.

When we look at Section One of the Bricker Amendment we read that "a provision of a treaty which conflicts with this Constitution shall not be of any force or effect." Now no President, no Congress and no court has ever held or suggested that a treaty could be in conflict with the Constitution and could override it. Therefore, in regard to the words of Section One there can be no dispute.

As it happens, however, the words have a double meaning. When the Bricker Amendment speaks of "this Constitution" it is not speaking about the Constitution as it has stood for a century and a half since it was adopted. Sen. Bricker means a Constitution which has been radically altered by the Bricker Amendment.

This radical alteration is to be found in Section Two, which says that "a treaty shall become effective as internal law in the United States only through legislation which would be valid in the absence of treaty." This is a radical and in the literal meaning of the words a reactionary alteration of the historic Constitution. For it would restore to the States, to each and every state, that power to nullify treaties which they relinquished when they adopted the Constitution.

There are other features of the Bricker Amendment which real not with the powers of the Federal government but with how those powers shall be exercised by the organs of the Federal government. These features are, one may believe, clumsy and inept. But at least they do not subvert the fundamental structure of the Constitution.

But the deep and fundamental objection to the Bricker Amendment is that it strikes at the sovereign power of the nation in its dealing with foreign powers. Section Two ordains that for almost all treaties the approval of the forty-eight state governments would be necessary. That is what it means to say that under the Bricker Amendment the Federal government would lose the sovereign power to negotiate and to agree with foreign governments.

When Sen. Bricker is talking to the general public he likes to give the impression that he is out to preserve the historic Constitution under which the nation has lived for a century and a half. Only last week, for example, he charged the President with believing that by the simple act of making a treaty with another country, the Federal government is "able to clothe itself with authority inconsistent with the Constitution."

But at other times, when he is in the presence of competent lawyers—as for example before the Judiciary Committee—he does not pretend that the treaty power clothes the Federal government with authority inconsistent with the Constitution.

On the contrary, he admits that his objection is to the Constitution as the American people have known it, and that what he is meaning to do is not to preserve but to change in a fundamental way that Constitution.

Early in the extensive Senate hearings, which began on Feb. 18 of last year, on page four of the printed record, Sen. Bricker testified that "from the decision of the Supreme Court in Ware v. Hylton (3 Dall. 199) in 1796 to the present time, the treaty-making power has been a persistent threat to the liberties of the American people . . . Senate joint resolution one (the Bricker Amendment) would preclude the result reached in that case. Ware v. Hylton is a good place to join the issue."

If Ware v. Hylton is where he wishes to join the issue, let us join the issue there, using his own summary of the facts in that case.

In 1774, Hylton & Co. gave a promissory note to two British subjects. To help defray the cost of the Revolutionary War, the State of Virginia passed a law providing that debts to British subjects should be discharged by payment to the state. In 1780 Hylton & Co. paid $3,000 of its debt to Virginia. More than three years after this partial payment the Treaty of Peace with Great Britain was made. Article IV of the treaty provided: "It is agreed that creditors on either side shall meet with no lawful impediment to the recovery of the full value, in sterling money, of all bona fide debts heretofore contracted."

Ware, an assignee of the British creditor, sued Hylton & Co. for the full amount of the original debt. In the Supreme Court the validity of the Virginia statute was not questioned. Nevertheless the Supreme Court held that Article IV of the Peace Treaty, having become the supreme law of the land operated to revive that part of the debt which had been extinguished by valid payment to the State of Virginia.

Sen. Bricker says, and no doubt truly, that this was a harsh result so far as Hylton & Co. were concerned. No doubt justice required that the British creditor should be reimbursed by Congress. Instead of by Hylton & Co. But that is not the question on which the issue is really joined. For there is ample precedent all through our history for the provision of that kind of compensation.

The real question surely—if we are to join on issue Ware v. Hylton—is whether a statute of the State of Virginia could set up a "lawful impediment" to the treaty in which the United States had agreed that there would be "no lawful impediment to the recovery of the full value . . . of all bona fide debts."

This is the crux of the controversy which turns upon Section Two of the Bricker Amendment. Shall we now restore to each state the power, which Virginia and other states had under the Articles of Confederation but gave up when the Constitution was adopted—namely the power to nullify within its own jurisdiction a treaty made by the Federal government?

The World Today — James Marlow

Taft Would Be Pleased With Military Program Presented By Administration

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Taft if he were alive today, would probably be pleased at the unfolding ideas of the Eisenhower administration on military strategy and military spending.

In some ways they sound very much like his own.

Taft made a major Senate speech Jan. 5, 1951, in the midst of rearmament and the Korean War cautioning against committing American troops to foreign battlefields and telling what he thought military expenses should be.

He envisioned an armed force of about 3,200,000 men with military expenses running around 40 billion dollars a year, and the biggest emphasis on air and naval power.

In his budget message to Congress yesterday President Eisenhower estimated military expenses for the fiscal year beginning in July at 37 1/2 billion.

And the President said he expected the armed forces, now 3,400,000 men, to be cut to 3,300,000 by July and to just a little over three million by July 1955.

According to the plans outlined by Eisenhower, the biggest spending would be on the Air Force, with the Navy next and the Army last.

Taft had said: "We should go just as far toward preparing for war as we can go in time of peace without weakening ourselves in the long run . . ."

"Not only is an all-powerful Air Force the best possible defense for the United States, but it is also the greatest deterrent to war."

In his message Eisenhower said his budget "is aimed at providing a strong military position which can be maintained over the extended period of the uneasy peace . . .

"It points toward the creation, maintenance and full exploitation of modern air power . . . This budget . . . provides greater expenditures for air power in the fiscal year 1955 (starting July 1) than in any year since the close of World War II."

Taft, in his 1951 speech, said: "What I object to is undertaking to fight that battle (against worldwide communism) on the vast land areas of the continent of Europe or the continent of Asia where we are at the greatest possible disadvantage in a war with Russia."

On Jan. 13, 1954, Secretary of State Dulles made a speech to the Council on Foreign Relations in New York.

He said that "if the enemy was allowed to pick his own place for aggression, and the United States attempted to meet him there, it would have to be ready to fight on land everywhere, as well as at sea and in the air."

But that course will not be followed in the future, Dulles said. No longer could an enemy fight solely on a battleground of his own choosing.

Last month Eisenhower announced two U. S. divisions would be withdrawn from Korea.

Taft had said an all-powerful Air Force is the greatest "deterrent" to war, Dulles said: "The way to deter aggression is for the free community to be willing and able to respond vigorously at places and with means of his own choosing."

How? By "massive retaliation," Dulles said, which meant by the Air Force. He didn't mention "with atomic weapons" but that seemed implicit in the word "massive."

The Eisenhower administration doesn't share Taft's views on military alliances. Where Taft voted against the North Atlantic Pact, which put this country into alliance with Western Europe—the administration is all for it.

Before Korea the Truman administration had depended, not on land power, but on air power as a deterrent to Russia, and on European alliances. It was after Korea that the huge military buildup and expense began.

Six O'Clock Horse Gave City Morning Brightness

NEW YORK (U)—Manhattan has its own morning sounds that set it apart, just as a small town does . . . or a farm in the country, where alarm clocks wear feathers and boss a barnyard.

One summer morning several years ago, shortly after we had moved into an apartment in a big 15-story brick but by the East River, I woke to see my wife standing by the window with an alarm clock in her hand.

"Who are you going to drop that clock on?" I asked. "Don't you know it's against the law to bean anybody from a high window in New York?"

"Don't always talk so silly, Rover," said Frances. "I'm waiting to set this clock. It stopped during the night."

"What are you going to set it by—the morning star?"

"No," she said. "I'm going to set it by the 6 o'clock horse."

"What in the world is that?"

"Come and see."

I yawned my way to the window. A few moments later there sounded a distant "clippity-clop-clop."

It grew louder. Then around the corner came a small elderly horse, driven by a small elderly man sitting atop a signal elderly ice wagon shaded by a faded small elderly beach umbrella.

As the little dark sorrel animal and the creaking vehicle passed beneath our window, Frances set the clock and said:

"That's the 6 o'clock horse. Haven't you heard him before? He's never more than a minute or two off any morning."

After that I heard him many a morning. In New York you aren't allowed to keep even a Shetland pony in an apartment; you have to fall in love with other people's horses. And the 6 o'clock horse became a pleasant part of our lives.

In summer he hauled ice, in winter wood. But every day he was punctual.

The other morning I awakened early and lazily watched the clock's hand crawl past 6 o'clock. No "clippity-clop-clop." At 6:15 I got up and went to the window and looked down. The street was bare in the cold dawn. No horse. I turned and saw Frances looking at me.

"I wondered when you'd miss him," she said. "He hasn't been by for weeks."

"What happened?"

"Nobody in the neighborhood knows," said Frances. "They all three were so old and looked so worn. Maybe the wagon just fell to pieces. . . or the old man died . . . or the little horse fell down and couldn't get up."

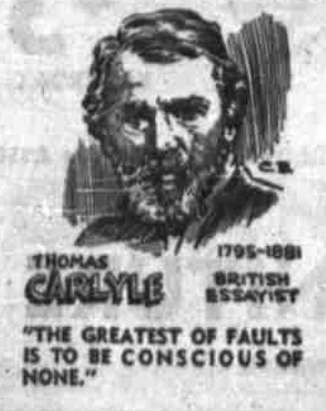

A brightness left the morning and every morning since then.

Driver Leaps From Car Struck On Tracks

LULING (U)—A driver leaped from his stalled car yesterday seconds before a train smashed it. Just as Wilbur Vancil, 20, jumped, the train rammed into the car and carried it 100 yards down the Southern Pacific tracks here. The car was demolished.

Vancil was treated for shock and broken ankle.

Famous Words OF FAMOUS PEOPLE

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

We are reluctant to use this space to sound an alarm, but a recent report disclosed some rather startling information, especially so in view of other reports which had indicated a decline in strength of that newspaper enemy, "censorship."

A publication titled Aviation Week is the authority for the report we saw. It told about a new security directive issued by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics that could put a veritable blackout on news not only from military installations, but also from private concerns handling military contracts, and regardless of whether such news involved classified information.

Some quotes reported from the directive include the following:

"The declassification of information does not constitute authority for its public release."

"Before a news media representative or private writer is authorized to make the initial visit to a military installation or contractor facility for the purpose of obtaining information for public release, such visit must be approved by the Bureau of Aeronautics and the Office of Public Information."

"Cooperation will be given to news media representatives on the condition that final material will be submitted to the Office of Public Information for security review prior to submission to a publisher or other public information media. A minimum of one week should be allowed for clearance. Material should be submitted in quadruplicate to facilitate clearance with interested agencies."

"All proposed releases which are of national interest or importance are subject to review by Office of Public Information for possible issuance as joint releases."

How is that for a good, red tape-filled bogging job?

And how is that for contradicting the President of the United States?

Committee Accused Of Giving Preference To Stockholders

WASHINGTON (U)—The Ways and Means Committee of the House is engaged in re-writing the Federal tax laws which directly affect every man, woman and child in the United States. When finally ready for submission to the House, this will be a work of a thousand pages or more so technical in nature that only the tax lawyers and the experts will know what it means.

Presumably the changes are to be of a legal and technical nature. That is to say they will not alter appreciably the ratio of taxes paid by groups and individuals.

The income tax law bristles with inequities. While medical expenses can be deducted, the formula is such that it does not take in the cost of a serious and prolonged illness. The $600 exemption for dependents is inadequate in many respects and particularly in the arbitrary provision that any dependent earning even as much as $1 above the limit of $600 fixed in the law can no longer be counted as a dependent.

The recasting of the law is being carried out by the staff of the Ways and Means Committee under direction of the Republican majority and in cooperation with the Treasury. Democrats are shown the changes only after they have been drafted. When the first 70 pages of the revisions were turned over to the minority, the Democrats were startled to discover a substantial change had been made that would eventually cost the Treasury more than $1 billion in revenue.

This was a change in the law providing a series of exemptions to taxpayers receiving dividend payments from stocks they own. In the first year the change would be in effect five per cent of dividend payments would be exempt from tax, the second year 10 per cent, the third year and every year thereafter, 15 per cent. Committee experts estimate that in the fourth year the Treasury would lose $1.2 billions through such an exemption.

The formula providing these exemptions is a complicated one. But an example illustrates how it would work. Taxpayer A and Taxpayer B each have an income of $10,000 a year. Half of Taxpayer A's income comes from dividends while all of Taxpayer A's income is earned. Under the proposed change, Taxpayer B would pay $516.50 less than Taxpayer A because he could claim a deduction on the $5,000 in dividends he received.

In a closed session of the committee, Representative Aime J. Forand, Democrat of Rhode Island, promptly challenged the dividend exemption. Forand, who has worked steadily through the years to try to correct tax inequities, demanded to know why taxpayers owning stocks were being singled out for favored treatment.

The arguments for the change are familiar. One is that at present corporation revenue is subject to double taxation—once as corporate revenue through the corporation income tax and again when corporate profits are paid out in dividends to the stockholder who must then pay income tax on it.

Another argument advanced by Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey is that only through some incentive, such as income tax deduction, can investors be led to take the risk of investing in common stocks. With the reduction in the list of 25 tax changes recommended by the Eisenhower Administration, Humphrey argues that if investors play it safe and put their money in business bonds rather than in stock, one of the elements making for a dynamic capitalism will have been eliminated.

"All of that may be true," Forand said in the committee session. "But there are many other inequities affecting much larger groups than the six to seven million persons who own stocks and get dividends. Why aren't we doing something for them first?"

He moved to strike the change out of the committee's bill. A substitute motion to okay it, introduced by Representative Richard Simpson, Republican of Pennsylvania, and a key figure on the Ways and Means Committee, was approved by 18 to 6. Fourteen Republicans voted for the right to deduct and they were joined by four Democrats.

Forand next brought up a proposal long in controversy—to permit the Treasury to deduct income tax payments on dividends at the source just as tax payments on wages and salaries are deducted at the source. Taxpayers are forgetful, to put it charitably, in the matter of reporting dividends received and the Treasury has estimated that from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 escape taxation. Administration supporters argued that since the proposed change in the law provides an outright exemption of $50 in dividends the first year, $100 the second year and thereafter, there would be no need for collection at the source, their claim being that most of the forgetfulness is on the part of small stockholders whose dividend payments are less than $100.

In all this there may be a large joker. The massive revision being worked out by the House committee can hardly reach the floor before April 1. That is so late that with the Senate still to act, the whole business may be lost in an election year jam.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Seaplane Made First Crossing

The year 1919 saw the first successful crossing of an ocean by airplane. The journey was made by a seaplane of the American Navy, the Navy-Curtiss 4, commonly called the NC-4.

Under command of A. C. Read, the NC-4 was one of three seaplanes which rose from the waters of Trepassey Harbor, Newfoundland, on a May day, almost 35 years ago. The other two planes fell short of their first goal, the Azores Islands, but the men aboard both of them were saved by steamers which came to the rescue.

Meanwhile Commander Read and his crew reached the Azores after 15 and a half hours of flying. From there they flew safely to Lisbon, Portugal, with a total flying time of 24 hours and 22 minutes.

A month later came the first non-stop airplane crossing. It was made by two British aviators, John Alcock and Arthur W. Brown. Starting from St. John, Newfoundland, they flew for 16 hours and 12 minutes before they reached Clifden, Ireland, and made a safe landing. Alcock and Brown won widespread fame as a result of their flight.

Eight years later came the famous flight of Charles Lindbergh, American aviator.

Arah Phillips To Be Scout Council Head

Arah Phillips was elected president of the Big Spring Girl Scout Council at the annual meeting Thursday night. The council had a dinner meeting at the High School cafeteria.

Other officers elected included Lawrence Robinson, vice president; Mrs. Jack Adair, secretary; Mrs. William E. Greenlee, treasurer; Mrs. Leon Hinkle, program; Mrs. Y. C. Gray, organization; Mrs. Wilbur Elliott, training; Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas Jr., camping; Mrs. R. R. McEwen, house; Anna Smith, registrar; Larson Lloyd, membership; Mrs. Larson Lloyd, public relations; Dan Conley, finance; Mrs. Ruth Rutherford, and Mrs. Rube McNew, membership committee.

The officers were installed in a candlelight ceremony conducted by Margaret McAdams, area director. Mrs. C. W. Henderson, new president of the Girl Scout Leaders Club, took office at the same time.

Lloyd, retiring council president, presented pins in recognition of 10 years' service to the Girl Scouts to Miss Phillips, Miss Smith and Robinson.

Mary Margaret McBRIDE SAYS

At the end of the first year of her tenancy of the White House, they have Mamie Eisenhower drinking out of her fingerbowl to spare the feelings of a guest to whom fingerbowl came as a bolt from the blue.

I am sure our gracious first lady WOULD drink out of her fingerbowl under those circumstances but I can't help wondering whether the need has really arisen because I have heard the same story attributed to just about every President's wife from the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson on.

In the new version nothing has been changed except that the unfortunate dinner guest is not a character from our own back woods but a recent arrival from a distant land. Apparently no one believes any American today could reach adulthood ignorant of fingerbowl technique.

There certainly is no harm in such a tale, even if it is fancy rather than fact. It still illustrates charmingly how a thoughtful and observant person can spare another embarrassment.

I witnessed one of the most brilliant exhibitions of this comforting gift a few years ago at a dinner party given by Hattie Sil-

Lomax Plans Talent Show

A talent show will be featured in the Share-the-Fun Festival to be Feb. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the Lomax Community Center. Prizes will be $5 for first place; $3 for second and $2 for third.

Songs, music, dances or dialogues may be presented in the acts, but acts must not be longer than six minutes each. From one to nine people may participate in an act.

All 4-H Club members are especially urged to prepare acts but any interested person is eligible to participate.

Information may be obtained from Durward Lewter, county agent; Sue Newman, county home demonstration agent, or Jimmie Wrenn. Entries may be made through Mrs. Lawrence Adkins, Rt. 2, Big Spring, by Feb. 20.

Mrs. Tanner Hostess To Coahoma Club

The Coahoma Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday with Mrs. H. H. Tanner as hostess.

A prayer for club members was given by Mrs. F. W. Burkholder. Mrs. H. H. Tanner read the devotion from Psalms 23. Members answered roll call with "My Favorite Magazine and Why."

Committee chairmen read the council committee recommendations and they were adopted by the members. Mrs. D. S. Phillips gave the council report and led a five-minute recreation period.

Refreshments were served to 11 members and one visitor. Mrs. Sue Newman, HD agent, the next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. D. S. Phillips Feb. 4.

HD Council Raises $75 At Bake Sale

Seventy-five dollars was raised from the bake sale conducted by the Howard County Home Demonstration Council Wednesday for the March of Dimes. Further contributions were expected from HD club members who were unable to donate cakes.

Mrs. Frank Griffith, finance chairman of the council, has expressed appreciation to the women who gave cakes and who assisted with the sale.

Automobile Financing Credit Women's Topic

Methods used in purchasing and financing automobiles was the subject of a talk by Mrs. Edith Parrish for the Credit Women's luncheon meeting Thursday at the Hotel.

The club will continue to sponsor Girls Town as a 1954 project.

Mrs. Ruth Apple presided. Seventeen attended.

Beau Brummel Hard To Find These Days

Attention! Boys at sea and girls at war, and Americans coast to coast—Let's go to press!

Flash! A grave crisis has arisen on the teen scene. Somebody's done goofed!

Today, with things like coeducation, school clubs, and get acquainted dances, the 20th century should be a lonely girl's paradise. But is it? Ugh! Some phases of our "modernization" are actually racing motors in reverse gears.

Nowadays a poor maiden's dilemma is not just finding the opportunity to attract a dreamboat, but—and I advise you fellows to sit down so this one won't blow you over—in finding a dreamboat to attract.

That sounds like grounds for tar and feathering one teen columnist, so maybe I'd better explain. As far as intelligence, good looks, and personality are concerned, most of you are "there." In fact, boys have qualities of leadership and initiative that many a girl wishes she had. But—and that's a mighty big but—there is one thing that will keep you from being "the most" and it's so personal and embarrassing that even your best friend isn't likely to tell you.

Send an ear. I'll whisper. It's the way you dress. No one likes to hear criticism, but it will do you more good now than after it's too late to get a date with a discriminating girl or land a good-paying position with a future.

You've got to look like executive material before you'll be hired for a job that somebody can mean a glassed in office with your name on the door. No girl who reads modeling books, and yearns for pretty clothes and a glamorous career is going to want to jeopardize her reputation as a "real creamy dish" by being seen with a sloppy date.

I know how it is, fellows. There isn't much incentive to look like a big wheel when your phone is being rung off the wall by girls begging for dates. The truth, of course, is that the better class of girls aren't going to get mixed up in such a rat race. The ones who aren't "dime a dozen" don't intend to date "dime a dozen" boys.

A date who wears stylish clothes carefully altered to fit, earrings and cologne, and goes to the inconvenience of having her hair and nails done, deserves a fellow who will make an equally good appearance. Anything else is an insult to her.

Is it fair to embarrass her in front of her family or talkative neighbors? She won't be a very good date if, all evening she is fearful of being seen with you and later teased for "going slumming." A smooth date will make his girl feel lucky, not stuck!

For a home date, well shined shoes, clean slacks with a razor crease, a fresh shirt and tie, and a coat are essentials. The only coat you ever shed is an overcoat, except perhaps in the summer your suit coat, if she insists. A "pop call" after school is one thing—a date is another. Let her know you know the difference.

Never—no, not ever—take a girl to a movie or a dance without wearing a suit. Wiener roasts, skating, bicycling, and "come as you are" parties will give you plenty of opportunity for that extra casual look.

What about next Saturday night? The music may be divine, the lights low and dreamy, and the girl a beauty—but it takes a dreamboat to make a perfect date.

Ingredients: 2 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 egg white, 1/2 cup filberts (put through a rotary grater so they are finely chopped).

Method: Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla. Beat in egg thoroughly; then milk. Stir in flour mixture gradually with spoon, mixing well after each addition. Chill dough. Roll no more than one-quarter of the dough at a time to 1/4-inch thickness on floured board or prepared pastry cloth.

Cut cookies with star-shaped (about 2 inches) cutter. Brush cookies with egg white; sprinkle with filberts. Place on ungreased baking sheet about 1/2-inch apart; bake in moderate (375°) oven 8 to 10 minutes, or until edges are lightly browned. Makes 6 1/2 dozen cookies. These are good to serve with the following party snack.

Frankfurters
Sauerkraut
Eggs
Rolls
Mustard
Filbert Stars
Beverage

Mrs. Weaver Wins High Bridge Score

Mrs. Ramona Weaver won high score at a bridge given by Beta Omicron chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in the home of Mrs. W. H. Wise, Rt. 1. Mrs. Sue Broughton was hostess.

Mrs. Lavern Casey won second high and the finishing prize and Mrs. Mary Alice Merrick won low. Dot Couble won the bingo prize. Fourteen attended.

A sorority meeting has been set for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Avon Wilcke, 106 1/2 W. 18th. Mrs. Betty Jean Newsom, Mrs. Casey and Mrs. Katherine Thomas will give a program of helpful hints for sewing.

Mirror For Door

Full length door mirrors are installed easily. Measure the door and order the size from your dealer. When measuring ascertain the distance from edge to edge of the door itself. This over-all width determines which of the standard mirror sizes will cover the recessed door panel. Install the mirror with the door in place, or remove door pins so that door may be laid flat. Center the mirror so recessed panels are covered. Many manufacturers provide sturdy white frames for mirrors.

Three Groups Serve At Service Center

Members of the Music Study Club, Epilion Sigma Alpha and Eastern Star have served as hostesses at the Servicemen's Center, according to Mrs. O'Barr Smith, director.

Eastern Star hostesses were Mrs. Paul Van Sheedy and Mrs. D. D. Dyer.

New records are needed by the center, Mrs. Smith said.

Banquet Held By Baptists

The Rev. Joe Allen of Kermit spoke on "Going Forward" at the first birthday banquet for the two adult departments of the Baptist Temple. He was introduced by T. E. Cantrell, general superintendent.

Tom Adams, master of ceremonies, discussed people and their birthdays. Doyle Grice gave a birthday reading.

The tables were decorated according to the four seasons of the year. The speaker's table featured pink carnations around a pink and white birthday cake on a crystal stand.

Mrs. Tom Buckner, general chairman of the banquet, said that she hoped the success of the event would warrant its becoming an annual one.

About 100 members and guests were present.

"The World at Our Back Door" was the topic of the Royal Service program presented at the Baptist Temple WMS meeting recently. Circle No. One with Mr. J. S. Parks as chairman was in charge.

A short business session was held. Twenty-three attended.

Federated Clubs To Aid Texas Indians

Building a community center for the Alabama-Coushatta Indian tribe at Livingston in Polk County and furnishing it with conveniences such as washing machines is one of the main projects of the Texas Federation of Womens Clubs for 1954.

Plans are also being made to further the tribe's arts and crafts so that they can be marketed and become a source of independent income.

Other projects of the TFWC for the new year are getting under way. One is a scholarship for a Latin American girl at the University of Texas. The present holder of the scholarship is a native of Cuba.

The American Home Department is emphasizing that the American family does not get together as often as it should. In many families, it is reported, members are seldom together for one meal. The TFWC plans to help create by word of mouth closer family relationships. Reading aloud at home was suggested as a means to bring the family closer together.

Understanding the United Nations is being stressed and women are being urged to entertain foreign students in the home.

A need for educating women in matters of finance is being emphasized by the federation. It has been learned that seven women out of 10 outlive their husbands and that five out of seven lose or spend what is left to them in five years. The federation plans to have speakers on finance visit women's clubs and explain how women can take care of their money.

Women are being asked by the federation to help organize civil defense in their towns.

The main theme of the federation is "We Go From Strength to Strength." A request has been made for women to submit a song on that theme to the federation.

Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview is running for second vice president of the federation. She will be a candidate at the General Federation of Women's Clubs convention in Denver May 31.

A new department has been set up by the TFWC president, Mrs. L. E. Dudley. It is the Texas Heritage Department, giving the federation 10 departments.

Mrs. Obie Bristow of Big Spring is chairman of the Minerals and Wild Life Division under the Conservation Department.

JESUS AND THE SAMARITANS

THEY BELIEVED BECAUSE THEY HAD HEARD HIM THEMSELVES

Scripture—John 4:1-42.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

THIS LESSON has to do with conversation and the remarkable consequences thereof. What do people converse about these days? Many things, of course, much of it mere chatter. It would seem in these tense times we should be talking about worthwhile things, things that lift the spirit and give one faith to go on cheerfully and courageously to face whatever may come, sure that no matter what it is God will be with us.

Jesus left Judea and began a journey to Galilee. John said "He needs must go to Galilee," but He need not have gone that way unless He had a distinct purpose. The Jews and Samaritans had despised each other for generations. In fact the Jews considered themselves defiled if they went to Samaria.

Nevertheless Jesus and His disciples went to Galilee through Samaria. Jesus was weary by the journey and sat down by Jacob's well to rest, while His companions went into the nearby city of Sychar, thought to be the modern Askar, to buy food.

A woman of Samaria came to the well with her waterpot to draw water to carry home. Jesus asked her for a drink of water. She was amazed because no Jew would ordinarily ask a favor of a Samaritan.

"How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria?" she asked. Jesus' answer must have surprised her even more, for He said, "If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give Me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of Him and He would have given thee living water."

"Sir, Thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep; from whence then hast Thou that living water?"

"Art Thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his children, and his cattle?"

"Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again; but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

Still not understanding that it was spiritual refreshment that Christ meant, the woman answered: "Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw."

Jesus told her to call her husband, but the woman said she had no husband, and Jesus said: "Thou hast well said, I have no husband; for thou hast had five husbands; and he whom thou hast is not thy husband."

"Sir, I perceive that Thou art a prophet," the woman answered, awestruck, probably, that He knew her history.

Turning the subject away from her personal history, she said: "Our fathers worshipped in this mountain; and ye say, that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship."

Jesus' answer then was: "Woman, believe Me, the hour cometh when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet in Jerusalem, worship the Father. God is a Spirit; and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth."

"The woman saith unto Him, I know that Messias cometh, which is called the Christ: when He is come, He will tell us all things." Jesus said: "I that speak unto thee am He."

The disciples came then, and they were surprised that Jesus was talking to this Samaritan woman, but they did not ask any questions. As for the woman, she left her waterpot and went into the city to tell the people that the Christ was come.

In the meantime the disciples urged the Master to eat, but He had meat to eat that we know not of. He said: They wondered among themselves if someone had given Him food.

The Samaritans came to hear Jesus and after listening to Him they begged Him to stay with them. He tarried for two days, and many believed because of His own words.

They told the woman: "Now we believe, not because of thy saying: for we have heard Him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the world."

We are told that there is a small remnant of Samaritans still living in Shechem. They take the Pentateuch—the first five books of the Old Testament—for their religion and believe that Abraham had offered his son Isaac on their Mount Gerizim, and that they are the true worshippers of Jehovah.

I believe that this lesson can be made interesting to all but the kindergarten classes, especially if a map of the location of Judea (where the Jews lived) and Samaria is shown, and the spiritual meaning of Jesus' teachings are explained simply.

Direct Contract Plan Would Take Bracero Pact Place

EL PASO (U.S.)—Representatives of three government agencies have set up a plan for the United States to enter into direct contract with Mexican workers, with or without the approval of Mexico.

The plan, still subject to the approval of the Justice and Labor Departments in Washington, would replace the U. S.-Mexico migratory labor agreement, which Mexico terminated as unfair on Jan. 15.

All expenses incident to obtaining the workers are to be paid by the United States. Braceros will sign a contract calling for no less than four weeks nor more than six months of work in this country.

Prospective employers will be required to furnish transportation, meals, lodging, tools, insurance and equipment. They must guarantee employment for at least three-fourths of the work days during the term of the agreement.

Workers may not be "lent" to other persons for work in any field outside agriculture, and then only with the approval of all concerned. No social or economic discrimination by the employer will be allowed.

Red Tar Jumps Ship

NEWCASTLE ON TYNE, England (U.S.)—Michal Rozak, 23, assistant steward of the Polish liner Batory, who jumped ship at nearby Sunderland last week, surrendered to police here yesterday and asked for asylum. He is the 12th man to quit the Batory in 18 months. Police detained Rozak until immigration authorities investigate.

A Gift TO BE PRIZED

No gift is more appropriate for a boy or girl, on birthdays or any other time, than a copy of the Holy Scriptures.

There is something about the possession of a Bible that gives a young person a new sense of moral and spiritual responsibility. It invests the great characters of the Book with a warmth and nearness that is conducive to spiritual growth.

There has been no time in human history when young people needed the instruction and inspiration of the Scriptures more than they need them today, when strange voices are calling and strange hands beckoning them into dangerous paths.

Much of the literature and drama of our time is cynical, materialistic and sensual. Only the Bible can tie our young people to the faith and solid virtues that make life strong and safe.

The Bible has meant more to the world and humanity than all other books combined. The youth of today should cherish it as a priceless heritage.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Howard Hughes Has Not Placed Movie World On Edge At RKO

By JAMES BACON ... HOLLYWOOD — Howard Hughes means that RKO Pictures forms less than 4 per cent of his 300-million-dollar empire, yet takes up 85 per cent of his time. Some minority stockholders have gone to court to moan that Hughes spends 85 per cent too much of his time running the studio—and offer 20 million dollars in losses as evidence. Hughes is a mechanical genius, but there are many in Hollywood who question that's the type of genius a movie studio needs. In a dog-eat-dog existence, decisions must be made on the spot. He who hesitates finds other producers already moving in on an idea. Hughes' great knack for unavailability has proven his downfall at RKO. Take the case of producer Frank Ross and "The Robe."

He knew that if I could just sit down with Hughes for a few minutes, we could iron everything out and get this picture made." As everyone knows by now, Darryl Zanuck finally bought "The Robe" and Ross and touched off the CinemaScope era with it. In its first three months, "The Robe" grossed 20 million—the same figure RKO lost under Hughes' first five years at the studio. Of course, the 20 millions represents box-office take which is considerably more than the studios get in rentals from theaters. It also was the first CinemaScope picture, a fact that added much to the box-office appeal. What is Hughes' version of "The Robe" and RKO? RKO, according to Hughes, had already spent $800,000 on the film before Hughes even bought into the company. "By the time I got there, Floyd Oudum (the former owner) had already canceled the picture," says Hughes. "There was not a director or producer on the lot who wanted to make it."

He explained that all felt it too expensive a production to justify gambling on it. Zanuck finally made it for 4½ millions, highest budget in 20th Century-Fox history. Hughes said the former owners had tried to peddle the property to salvage what the studio had put in it. "I sold it to Zanuck for a price that few know but one that completely recouped RKO's investment. The Board of Directors considered it a great deal."

Two State Jaycee Officers To Start West Texas Visits

Two state Jaycee officers will start a week of visits to West Texas Jaycee organizations here Monday at noon. They are Tommy Cook, president of Texas Jaycees, and Ray Andrews, vice president for Region III. Cook comes from Baytown, while Andrews resides in Big Spring. Following a luncheon meeting with Big Spring Jaycees Monday, the pair will start a tour that will take them to all Junior Chambers of Commerce from Colorado City to El Paso. Cook is combining his annual visit with the tour to encourage attendance at a bi-region convention which will be held in San Angelo Sunday, Jan. 31. The state Jaycee president was elected during the Jaycee convention last year and previously had been active in affairs of the organization as chairman of various state committees. He was selected as the Jaycees' outstanding state officer in 1951-52. Andrews is employed by Cooden Petroleum Corp. and also has held various positions in the Jaycees. He has been a member of the state board of directors since 1951.

Topsoil Not Necessary To Good Lawn

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — "Topsoil is not necessary to a good lawn. We have grown and are growing turf-grass on an asphalt sidewalk." Proper selection of grass and fertilizers will assure a good lawn on almost any soil," Dr. Fred V. Grau of College Park, Md.—frequently called "Mister Grass"—told listeners at the Eighth Annual Texas Turf Conference at Texas A&M College this week. One of the most important factors in growing turf is water, Dr. Grau said. Most people water too much, he added. Many light waterings are harmful where water shortage occurs during the summer. They cause roots to seek the surface. Then, when water is withheld the plant has no other source. Water less often but more heavily, Dr. Grau advises. Water then penetrates farther into the ground and roots must reach downward for it, and the plant has a better root system for withstanding droughts.

Shell Oil Of Midland Taps Santa Fe Sales

SANTA FE, N.M. — Shell Oil Co. of Midland, Tex., paid $101.79 an acre for oil and gas leases on 2,800 acres just east of Lovington in a state land auction here Tuesday. It was the highest per acre price of the sale. Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Co. paid the highest total for a tract, bidding $33,334 for leases on 440 acres about 20 miles north of Tatum. That was at $75 an acre.

known named Jean Harlow. The picture made eight millions at the box office. A lesser known Hughes discovery is Faith Domergue. She first met him when barely out of high school at a yacht party. The yacht was the million-dollar-Oceanica, a ship that resembled a miniature ocean liner. She recalls that she was introduced to an untidily dressed chap she mistook for one of the crew. It was Hughes, owner of the yacht. Howard dated her for lunch, took her for a plane ride, then took her home, met her parents—her father later went to work at Hughes Aircraft—and put her under contract. He told her he didn't expect to put her in a picture for some time, a classic understatement. She soon became known as Hollywood's most unseen actress in the three-million-dollar movie "Vendetta," which Hughes held for years. "I didn't mind being under contract to Howard. I studied, got married, lived in South America and had a baby and got a weekly salary all the while." Actor George Doblens practically made a career out of "Vendetta," the only picture he made in five years and always on payroll. "I admire Howard, though," comments Doblens. "He could have just squandered his father's money as some sons of rich men do."

Grounded Irish Twins 'Arrest' U. S. Attorney In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES — The embattled Irish twins, George and Charles Finn, are back in jail today after another flamboyant brush with the federal government during which they handcuffed the United States attorney and threw officialdom into an uproar.

The "Flying Finns," former Air Force pilots, have been having legal trouble with the government for more than a year in connection with their claims to ownership of a $70,000 war surplus C46 transport plane. The unpredictable 38-year-old twins yesterday, handcuffed U. S. Atty. Laughlin E. Waters in an attempted "citizen's arrest" as he came out of the Biltmore Hotel, where he had addressed the Los Angeles Bar Assn.

They accused him of "conspiracy against the rights of citizens and deprivation of rights under cover of the law." They said he had been giving them the "brushoff" and refused to discuss with them the government's seizure of the plane they purchased a year ago from the Bakersfield Calif. school district, which had used it for a mechanical training course. Events that followed read like the script of a comic opera. "Before I knew what was happening they had snapped a handcuff on my right wrist," Waters said. George Finn then snapped the other handcuff to his own right wrist, while Charles called police. "We're not going to have any part of this," police officers said when they arrived and recognized Waters. But the U. S. attorney for southern California demanded that he be taken to the central police station and the police agreed to furnish transportation. Once at the station things really began to happen. Police Inspector James Lawrence demanded that the Finns release Waters. "We know our rights," the Finns answered. "We've been ignored long enough. We're starting to fight back now."

Police Chief William H. Parker shrugged: "This beats anything I ever saw. I don't know what it's all about." "People can't go around arresting the U. S. attorney in our city," said Jack Irwin, acting mayor.

The Finns and Waters, trailed by officials, reporters and photographers, went to the offices of Dist. Atty. S. Ernest Holl and discussed the situation in detail. Waters went free, of course, and the twin brothers were taken before city."

Crime Prof Finds Final Exam Thieves

NORMAN, Okla. — A University of Oklahoma professor of criminology did some extracurricular sleuthing and nabbed four freshmen who were trying to peddle copies of his final examination in advance—at $30 a throw. The four devised a novel plan to lay their hands on the coming examination. They painstakingly poked in trash cans looking for discarded stencils which were used to mimeograph the examinations. Finally, they came up with the criminology final of Dr. Gilbert Geis, 29, and two others. They planned carefully, but should have taken the hint.

"For three days the phone had been ringing continually," said Geis. "Students told me they had been approached and that the copes were selling for around $30 cash. Finally some one gave us a line on who was selling them." Geis said one of the graduate students working for the department of sociology was used as the "bait." He contacted the suspects and offered to pay the $30. They said a copy of the examination would be delivered. When the courier arrived he was met by Geis, Chief of Police A. C. Bernier and the graduate student. "We accompanied him back to his rooms and found the other three," said Geis. "When we led them off I heard one of them say, 'Someday I'm going to have to take that course.'"

Dean Paul MacMinn said the four had been questioned and a report made on the case. He said release of their names and disciplinary action was in the hands of the university administration.

The U. S. commissioner and a federal officer, then jailed in lieu of $10,000 felony bail. The Finns' difficulties with the government began when federal authorities told them they had no right to purchase the transport plane, which had been condemned for future flying service. The twins ignored the government and a year ago flew the plane to an isolated field, near Death Valley. They were arrested but the case against them collapsed because the government couldn't prove which of the brothers actually had flown the plane from Bakersfield.

The plane since has been impounded at Nellis Air Force Base, Nevada, and the twins have been trying futilely to regain it. The Finn brothers, who spend much of their time reading law books, are still confident. "We've done nothing wrong," they told newsmen. Said Waters: "I must admit I was a bit scared of what they might do."

VIENNA, Austria (U—A wave of influenza is sweeping Warsaw, causing health authorities to invoke emergency measures, the newspaper Zycie Warszawy said yesterday.

Tickets Planned For Scout Circus
Ticket committee for the Boy Scout Circus on Feb. 11 made plans Thursday for issuance of tickets for the affair. John Freeman, chairman, said that distribution to the troops would start on Monday. Posters also will go up downtown advertising the event. Charge for the show will be 25 cents with proceeds, above actual expenses of the show, going to the individual troops that sold the tickets. Others participating in the planning session were Dr. Frank Dillon, district chairman; Dan Krausse, commissioner and general chairman of the circus; Jim Fryar, vice chairman of the district; and Bill McKee, district Scout executive.

He Scores At Top Again

Vernon Holcomb of the Flower Grove Chapter of the FFA had the champion lamb at the Stanton show Thursday. Last year this Future Farmer also exhibited the grand champion lamb. In both instances the lamb was fed under the supervision of Robert Becker, vocational agriculture instructor in the Flower Grove High School in Martin County. More than half of the lambs entered in the show were shown by members of the Holcomb family. Delbert Holcomb had the second place lamb, while another lamb of Vernon's placed third. The lambs were judged by Dub Day, county agent at Rankin.

Capon Good, His Broilers Better

At the Stanton 4-H and FFA show, Robert Lomax of the Lomax Community, and a member of the Stanton FFA Chapter again proved himself a top poultry producer. Not only did he have the reserve champion capon (on top of the coop) but both the grand and reserve pens of five broilers, in the largest poultry classes in the history of this show. With Robert is Elbert Steele, vocational agriculture teacher in the Stanton High School, who has encouraged his chapter members to put emphasis on West Texas poultry production. This year Steele and his boys are taking some of their top capons and broilers to the Houston Fat Stock Show where they came within less than half a dozen chicken in taking the grand championship last year.

Old Buildings To Come Down Soon

Work on removal of old buildings from the courthouse square will start in 15 to 18 days, County Judge R. H. Weaver said he had been informed by B. T. Wright Construction Company.

The salvage work was to have started this week. However, the Wright firm said it had not been notified and has started another job. Arrangements for the sale of old furniture in the old courthouse and other buildings to be torn down are under consideration of county commissioners. Plans for sale of the furniture probably will be completed in the next few days.

Youth Is Charged

Charges of simple assault were filed in Justice Court this morning against one of three Latin American youths accused of throwing rocks in northwest Big Spring last night. A 10-year-old child was struck by the person charged, of officers said.

Worker Is Injured On Construction Job

C. G. West, employee of A. P. Kaseh and Sons Contractors, was hospitalized this morning after falling from a 12-foot scaffold while doing construction work at the city's new filtration plant, at 16th and Virginia.

West suffered injuries to his back, and he was to have been X-rayed this morning. He was taken to Big Spring Hospital in an Eberly-River ambulance.

Petition Is Denied

District Judge Charlie Sullivan this morning denied Kirby Miller's petition for a temporary injunction against his brother, Kyle Miller. Kirby Miller had asked that Kyle Miller be restrained from "removing timber" and making other changes on land which is part of the estate of the late H. S. and Lizzie Miller, parents of the two.

Wildcat In Dawson Swabs Oil; Oceanic Field Has Completion

A total of 60 barrels of oil was swabbed in 10 1/2 hours Thursday at Murphy Corporation's No. 1 J. B. Walls, a wildcat some five miles east of Lamesa. Perforations being swabbed are opposite a Lower Permian lime stringer below the Dean Sand.

Also reported today was the completion of Oceanic et al and Phillips No. 2 J. F. Winans, project in the Oceanic (Pennsylvanian) Field which made potential of 1,140.70 barrels of oil per day.

Boykin Brothers spotted the No. 2 Bade in the Parochial Bade field of Sterling County, and Texaco started its No. 2-B A. M. Clayton in the Northeast Good (Canyon Reef) Field of Borden County.

Borden

Texas Company No. 2-B A. M. Clayton et al, 2,002 from west and 1,889 from south lines, 29-32-4n, T&P survey, is a new location in the Northeast Good (Canyon Reef) Field. It is about 12 miles southwest of Gall and will be drilled to 8,200 feet by rotary tools. Location is on a 1,786.5 acre lease.

Stanford No. 1 Beal, C SW SE NE, 14-31-3n, T&P survey, is circulating at 9,136 feet and operator is preparing to take electric logs.

Dawson

Stanford No. 1-A Graves, C SW SE, 28-34-3n, T&P survey, swabbed 88 barrels of oil and 24 barrels of water in 16 hours. At the end of swabbing operations, operator found 6,800 feet of fluid in the hole. Total depth is 9,348 and plugged back depth is 9,325 feet.

Stanford No. 1 M. E. Dyer, C SE SE, 27-34-4n, T&P survey, hit 3,330 feet in lime.

Murphy No. 1 J. B. Walls, C SE NW, 12-35-5n, T&P survey, swabbed oil and acid water for 10 hours and then recovery was 49 barrels of new oil in 10 1/2 hours. Swabbing was through perforations between 8,596 and 8,524 feet after zone had been acidized with 500 gallons of mud acid. Operator is now preparing to recalcidize with 3,000 gallons and resume test. The perforations are opposite a Lower Permian lime stringer immediately below the Dean Sand.

Cities Service No. 1 Winford, C SW SE, 34-4n, L. Cunningham Survey, is still fishing at 7,300 feet.

Glasscock

McElroy Ranch Company No. 1 W. H. Lane, 660 from west and south lines, north half, 40-36-4e, T&P survey, is a new location in the Spraberry Trend Area some 15 miles southwest of Garden City. It will be drilled by rotary to 8,000 feet. Location is on a 322 acre lease.

Howard

Oceanic et al and Phillips No. 2 J. F. Winans, C NE SW, 25-33-3n, T&P survey, had a potential flow of 1,140.70 barrels of oil in 24 hours. Total depth is 8,239 feet in the Pennsylvanian Reef, and the casing was bottomed at 8,175 feet. Gas-oil ratio measured 69-1, and the gravity was 43 degrees. Flow was through a 49-64th inch choke, and the tubing pressure was 220 pounds.

Oceanic No. 1-A R. D. Anderson, 330 from south and 797.8 from west lines, southeast quarter, 24-33-3n, T&P survey, has a total depth of 3,109 feet in lime. Operator is waiting on cement for 8 1/2 inch casing set at 3,108 feet.

Edgar Davis No. 1 R. G. Wilson, C NE SW, 46-31-3n, T&P survey, is drilling at 3,045 feet in lime.

Russell McGuire No. 1 Hyman, 476 from south and 1,925 from west lines, 59-28-W&NW survey, reached 8,292 feet in shale.

O'Neill Zephyr, Davis and Hood No. 1 Neff, C NW SW, 48-33-3n, T&P survey, hit 2,300 feet in lime. Wellman and Texas Crude No. 1-36 Mildred Jones, C NE NE NW, 36-33-3n, T&P survey, made it down to 5,090 feet in lime and shale.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil No. 1 A. Phipps, C NE NE, 10-32-2n, T&P survey, is making hole at 5,950 feet in lime and shale.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil No. 1-B Spencer, C SW SW, 11-32-2n, T&P survey, is drilling at 8,265 feet in lime. Top of reef lime is 8,240 feet.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil No. 1-C Tom Spencer, C SW SE, 11-32-2n, T&P survey, hit 8,960 feet in lime.

Duncan No. 1 Wilkinson, 990 from north and 2,310 from west lines, 38-34-1n, T&P survey, took a core from 3,186 to 3,225 feet and recovery was 34 feet of lime with a light show of oil. Total depth is 3,225 and the 5 1/2 inch string has been set at 3,175 feet. The San Andres will be drilled from tested from open hole formation. This venture is in the Moore Field some seven miles west of Big Spring.

Martin

Seaboard No. 1 Parker et al, C NE NE, 47-36-1n, T&P survey, is drilling below 1,620 feet in redbeds. This wildcat is about four miles north of Stanton.

Texas Company No. 1-A R. State, C NE SE, 17-7-University survey, is reported at 11,304 feet in lime and chert.

Wellman No. 1-39 Blessingame, C

SE SW, 30-27-T&P survey, reached 7,717 feet in lime and chert.

Leas-Tex Oil Company No. 1 Clay Man Smith, C SE SE SW, 33-27-T&P survey, made it down to 2,700 feet in lime.

Stricklin-DeCave No. 1 W. R. Powell, 660 from south and 990 from west lines, 37-39-1s, T&P survey, is being cored at depth of 2,930 feet.

Sterling

Area No. 1 George McEntire, 715.5 from east and 716.1 from south lines, northeast quarter, 8-23 H&TC survey, bored to 1,200 feet.

Boykin Brothers et al No. 2 Bade, 330 from south and 2,057 from west lines, 22-22-H&TC survey, is a new location in the Parochial Bade Field some 10 miles west of Sterling City. It will be drilled by cable tools to 1,200 feet, starting Jan. 27. Location is on a 200 acre lease.

Jail Gets Gay Look

AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Colorful is just about the only way to describe property the American Falls jail.

An agent labored over the return with the woman, then informed her she owed Uncle Sam $4.

"But my husband figured it all out last night," the woman pleasantly objected. "and the way he had it, you owe us $53."

So the agent worked the form. He still came up with uncle lacking $4. Without further ado, the woman paid, explaining with a smile:

"That's all right. My husband was wrong last year too."

'Open House' Is Slated By Clay Here Tomorrow

On the 25th anniversary of his arrival in Big Spring, Harvey Clay is observing open house Saturday in the new home of his No-D-Lay Cleaners at Fifth and Johnson.

This modern structure designed especially as a plant for present day cleaning methods, provides ample space with pleasant surroundings. In all, it has 2,500 square feet of floor space, and this does not include auxiliary space in a separate structure for the steam and vacuum pressure equipment.

The building is finished in red Roman brick and redwood. Large glass panels add to the bright effect. Skylights with openings on the south and north provide perfect illumination by day, and in the summer will contribute to ventilation of the shop.

New equipment abounds, and one of the central pieces is the new Prosperity cleaner, a device automatic in every respect. The ingenious machine works much like the automatic washer, only it uses cleaning fluids. After the clothes are washed thoroughly, the fluid goes to a filter while the clothes are spun out. New rinsing fluid fills the machine until the clothes are thoroughly cleaned. All fluids then pass through a still so that they are completely fresh when used again.

After clothes are removed, the cleaner examines to see if they require spotting or re-cleaning. They may go to the presses or to supplemental drying equipment.

There are three regular woolsen units, and one for silk. Special equipment is used for dresses and hats. The No-D-Lay shop also has an Adjustafloer for pressing and finishing coats. The shop has a bountiful supply of space with overhead racks built in to facilitate uncrowded storage and quick delivery.

Clay came here in January of 1929 and operated a cafe on Runnels Street until near the end of the year when he bought the No-D-Lay shop in the 200 block on Main Street. He was there almost 24 years to the day before moving the plant to its new location where it will pose no parking problems. Clay formerly served on the city commission, has been active in the affairs of the First Christian Church, was a member of the Texas State Guard during World War II, and is a long-time member of the Kiwanis Club.

Whistles Preserved

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)—A whole boatload of steamboat whistles—from the old melodious seven-barreled one that signaled the approach of the steamboat Randall to a deep-throated tooter that could shake window panes for miles around—arrived here this week from Cincinnati.

The gift of Dan M. Heekin, a member of the Sons and Daughters of Pioneer River men, they will be preserved in the Campus Martius River Museum.

Doing Right By Uncle

DENVER (AP)—A Polish immigrant called at the Internal Revenue Service office here yesterday for advice on filing her income tax.

An agent labored over the return with the woman, then informed her she owed Uncle Sam $4.

"But my husband figured it all out last night," the woman pleasantly objected. "and the way he had it, you owe us $53."

So the agent worked the form. He still came up with uncle lacking $4. Without further ado, the woman paid, explaining with a smile:

Tax Office To Be Open After Hours

The office of the county tax collector will be kept open Saturday afternoon so long as people come to pay their poll taxes or secure exemption certificates.

Mrs. Viola Robinson, assessor-collector, said that if the demand was brisk Saturday morning a skeleton crew would be kept during the afternoon until people stopped coming. Next Saturday afternoon the office will be kept open. In the meantime, the office is open during the noon hour as a convenience to office and other working people.

Burglary Charge Filed Here Today

Florencio Carrillo was charged in Justice Court this morning with burglary.

Justice of the Peace Cecil Nabors set bail at $1,000 after Carrillo waived examining trial. The defendant was arrested Wednesday by police, and charged with burglary of the All-Night Cafe, 300 North Main.

Two Plan To Attend Banquet At Andrews

Champ Rainwater, vice president of the local Chamber of Commerce, and Loyd Wooten, projects supervisor, will represent Big Spring at the annual Andrews County Chamber of Commerce banquet tonight.

Speaker for the banquet will be Gene Bridges, vice president of the Republic National Bank of Dallas. This will be the first annual banquet held by the Andrews Chamber.

Dr. Carter To Fill Pulpit At Forsan

FORSAN—Dr. Orion Carter, district superintendent, will conduct the morning worship at the Forsan Methodist Church Sunday, according to the Rev. R. L. Bowman, pastor.

The public is invited. Lunch will be served at the church annex at noon.

Lakeview Party Set

A fund to finance the school's annual will receive the proceeds from a "heaven and hell" party scheduled this evening at Lakeview School. Admission for adults is 50 cents each, and for children 20 cents each.

Abraham Lopez was charged this morning with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Arraigned before County Judge R. H. Weaver this morning he elected to postpone a pleading to the charges.

Group To Study Plans For Road

Representatives of four area counties will map out plans Monday to be presented to the State Highway Commission concerning a more direct route to Lake J. B. Thomas.

A dinner meeting will be held in Snyder, and delegations from Howard, Ector, Mitchell and Scurry Counties will be present.

Those to attend from Big Spring include George White, E. V. Spence, Champ Rainwater, Jimmie Greene, R. H. Weaver, and possibly members of the Howard County Commissioners Court.

The meeting was called by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce so that representatives of all the counties can crystallize their ideas on the road before a petition is presented to the highway commission next Thursday.

Present plans, which were discussed at a meeting in Big Spring last December, call for the road to connect the lake damsite with the Big Spring-Snyder highway at a point about two miles east of Howard County.

Spence, manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, says that property owners in the area have already pledged a 100-foot right-of-way for the project.

A portion of the road will be in Mitchell County, but most will be in Scurry. Appointment with the highway commission was made by the Scurry County Judge. Greene said Big Spring will be represented at the Austin session.

TED O. GROEBEL

Groebel Honored Thursday At Shell Banquet

Ted O. Groebel, jobber of Shell Oil Company products in West Texas for a quarter of a century, was honored Thursday at a 25th Service Anniversary luncheon given by Shell at the Petroleum Club in Midland.

Groebel, head of Westex Oil Company of Big Spring and supplier of Shell service stations in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico, was presented with a plaque in recognition of his service by Vice President Joe T. Dickerson.

Also present at the luncheon were Houston Marketing District Manager E. R. Boswell, representatives of Westex and Shell Pipe Line Corporation, and department managers and friends from Shell Oil's Midland Area office. They gave generous praise to Groebel for his long service.

A native of St. Louis, Groebel came to Texas in 1927 and in the following year began handling Shell products in Rankin under the name of Lone Star Oil Company. In 1933 he opened an office in McCombs and changed his firm's name to Westex Oil Company. In 1935 Groebel opened bulk plants in Abilene and Hobbs, N. M., and also moved his offices to Big Spring.

Groebel was one of the organizers of the Texas Oil Jobbers Association and at present is state vice president of the association as well as a member of the legislative committee of the National Oil Jobbers Council. In past years he has served as president and director of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, in 1949 was Community Chest chairman there, and during the war headed highly successful War Bond drives.

He has been active in numerous civic affairs, and with Mrs. Groebel, before her severe illness last year, was an enthusiastic worker in the Park Hill P-T-A. More recently, he has had a leading part in the Band Boosters Club campaign to provide uniforms for the junior high band. Groebel also is a Mason and a member of the Shrine and First Baptist Church. He also has had an active role in Lions Club affairs in past years.

Westex Oil Company was originally formed as a partnership of Ted Groebel and his brother, Al P. Groebel, but in 1944 Ted bought out his partner and operated Westex Oil as sole owner until 1952 when he formed four corporations: Westex Oil Company and Groebel, Inc., of Big Spring; Groebel Oil Company of Denver City and Hobbs, and Groebel & Associates of Odessa and McCombs.

Local Group At Martin Stock Show

A delegation of Big Spring merchants was to have been in Stanton this afternoon to attend the livestock show being held there.

The delegation was sponsored by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce following a meeting of the merchant's committee here Tuesday. Merchants in attendance at the meeting voted to attend all livestock shows held in the area this year.

Fine Port In A Snow Storm

The ducks will not go hungry—cold and snow notwithstanding—if Jane Swanson keeps up her good works. The 5-year-old girl took the situation in hand in Amarillo Thursday when a light snow covered the park near her home. The temperature was 10 degrees. (AP Wirephoto).

BOYS FOR IT

Solons Doubtful Of Girls As Pages

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (U) — The idea that some girls might be appointed pages for Congress produced this kind of reaction today:

From members: "Well . . ."

From the present pages — all boys: "Wow!"

Margaret S. Alden, a 16-year-old high school sophomore of Rochester, N. Y., put lawmakers on the spot by asking for a page job, "although I know no girl has ever been appointed to such position."

Pages are the youngsters who scurry about on the floor of the House and Senate running errands. There are about 50 of them in the House.

At the page desk, Barrie Williams of Buffalo hazarded the opinion that "it sure would raise the morale of the page school" to have a girl around.

Miss Alden applied for a job in a letter to her congressman, Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.). She said she had attended the 1932 Republican convention in Chicago, and that "politics and government have been a major interest for several years."

Keating said he didn't know why girls wouldn't make just as good pages as boys — maybe even better.

He proposed making half the page corps boys and half girls, and put the matter up to Rep. Leo Allen, of Illinois, chairman of the House patronage committee which dispenses page jobs.

"I don't know, frankly," Allen said of the idea.

"Schooling would be a problem—these youngsters have to get up before dawn to go to classes in time to be in the House ready for the day's business."

Allen said he'd "discuss it" with members of the patronage committee. He didn't sound too enthusiastic.

On the distaff side, members were all for Margaret.

"Good idea," observed Rep. Katharine St. George (R-N.Y.).

But she thought the first girl to buck this small corner of a man's world would have "a tough time — it's almost like a boy's school here now."

Korean Soprano To Study Music In U.S.

LA SALLE, Ill. (U) — A 20-year-old Korean girl whose soprano voice caught attention of American soldiers when she sang in battlefield chapels is at her new home in La Salle.

Kim Myung Ju is making her home with the Rev. and Mrs. Russell Kerr, a Congregationalist clergyman who was an Air Force chaplain and had the girl in his choir in Korea.

Kim Myung Ju worked in a post exchange to obtain part of the money for her trip. The remainder came from sale of personal possessions and contributions from Korean churches and GIs from the 8th Fighter-Bomber Wing.

The young woman will enroll in the La Salle-Peru-Oglesby Junior College and later will transfer to the Chicago Conservatory of Music.

President's Hold-The-Line Plea On Taxes Runs Into Opposition

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (U) — President Eisenhower's plea to Congress to hold the line against any further cuts in major tax rates snarled into strong opposition today.

Several key Democrats planned a floor fight in the almost evenly divided House for a plan to slice 2½ billion dollars a year off personal income taxes, relieving seven million taxpayers from any payment at all.

And some Republicans and Democrats alike predicted Congress would permit at least slight reductions in both corporation income and excise tax rates.

Eisenhower, in his annual budget message yesterday, strongly endorsed a project for rewriting almost all the nation's tax laws. His proposals would reduce revenue two billion dollars annually when they reach full effect, but this would be done through many changes in various deductions, allowances and other technical points—not through major rate changes.

Republicans generally applauded this program, but Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, the assistant Democratic leader, accused the President of "political insincerity."

"Instead of appealing to the people to make sacrifices for greater national defense," McCormack said, "the President is appealing to their hopes for tax reductions."

Eisenhower said the program he proposed, in its first year, would relieve individuals of $55 million dollars in taxes and corporations of $30 million.

McCormack added his "present inclination" is not to vote to extend present rates on corporations and excises. Eisenhower urged Congress to cancel three billion dollars in cuts in these fields, now set automatically for April 1, and to prevent losses in revenue from other excises not involved in the April changes.

Rep. Keen (R-N.J.), fourth-ranking Ways and Means Committee Republican and usually an administration supporter, predicted there would be "at least slight reductions in corporation income taxes and considerable reductions in some of the higher excises."

Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio), second-ranking GOP committee member, said in a separate interview, "I think we'll cut corporation taxes some and I think we'll cut excises."

The corporate income tax rate, now 52 per cent, is due to drop to 47 per cent on April 1 unless Congress changes the law.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), senior Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, and others have suggested a 50 per cent rate, which would reduce revenue by almost a billion dollars annually.

McCormack said he approved of a move by all 10 Democrats on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee to write into the revision program an increase of $100 in personal income tax exemptions for each taxpayer and each dependent.

All 15 committee Republicans voted against this proposal yesterday, stopping it for the time being. But McCormack and Rep. Boggs (D-La.), sponsor of the move, said they expected the fight to be renewed on the House floor.

Lewter To Judge College Teams

County Agent Durward Lewter will appraise college judging teams in the beef classes at the Southwestern Fat Stock Show.

Widely known for his outstanding work in supervising beef feeding operations among 4-H Club members, Lewter was selected to judge the 16 teams of five members each.

Judging will start at 9 a.m. on Jan. 30 in Fort Worth and will be completed that same day. There will be a banquet at 7 p.m. that day in the Westbrook Hotel and at noon the following day at the Hilton (Blackstone).

Lewter said there would be a class for Hereford bulls, Hereford females, Angus bulls, Angus steers and Shorthorn females. He may call for reasons on placements on four out of the five classes. Judging will be against his own placements.

C-City Chamber Slates Banquet

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City's annual Chamber of Commerce banquet has been set for Feb. 4.

Dr. E. N. Jones, president of Texas Tech, will be the principal speaker. The banquet will be held in Civic House at 7:30 p.m. with Gale Billings, area superintendent for Shell, as master of ceremonies.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tiffany of Abilene will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Dub Wooten, for the entertainment feature of the evening.

The dinner recognizes outgoing and incoming officers of the Chamber of Commerce. Frank Massey is the outgoing, Roy Porter the incoming president.

Hedy Lamarr, Mate Lease Houston Home

HOUSTON (U) — Actress Hedy Lamarr and her new husband, oilman W. Howard Lee, have finished house shopping.

The couple has leased a two-story brick mansion in Houston's exclusive River Oaks Addition for $600 a month, unfurnished. They expect to move in from a Shamrock Hotel apartment about Feb. 1.

Engineer Tells Freeway Plans

COLORADO CITY — Jake Roberts, District Engineer for the State Highway Department, spoke to over 300 citizens of Mitchell County at the monthly Chamber of Commerce banquet in Civic House Thursday.

Roberts promised the group that as soon as plans were completed and right-of-way available, work would begin on improving U.S. 80 to freeway standards in Mitchell County.

"I may be coming to see your county commissioners about right-of-way before 1954 is over," he added.

The freeway will require a minimum of 200 feet for right-of-way and access will be absolutely controlled, he said.

Roberts told those present, including the Mitchell County Commissioners and City Council, that 130 miles of freeway was in prospect for his district.

He added that for Colorado City, present plans called for the completion of the freeway to the east and west of Colorado City and use of present U. S. 80 through town, until "traffic gets so heavy people want us to move it out of town." The route through the north edge of Colorado City would be placed where right-of-way could be obtained.

what has television done for newspaper reading?

survey shows that TV INCREASES IT

For the fourth year in a row the Cunningham & Walsh independent "Videotown" survey shows that television set owners are spending more time with their newspapers than ever before!

It is clear that every medium—including TV, the newcomer—simply whets people's appetites for the full story.

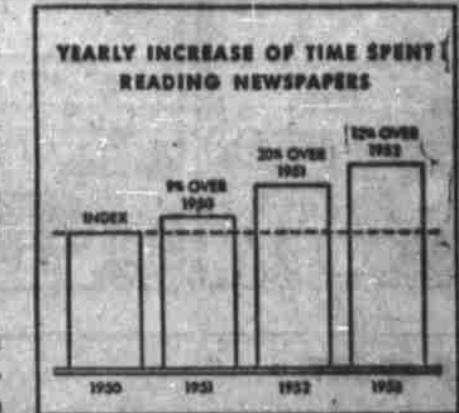

In their newspaper they'll find the whole story about the fight they saw on TV last night . . . about the entertainers they watched . . . the debate they saw . . . or the educational program that was so interesting.

No matter what the source of news may be—an angry dictator across the sea, an earthquake in Mexico, a tennis match in Australia, a fire downtown, or a TV program in the living room—it's the newspaper that tells it all.

No wonder people are reading their newspapers more! No wonder advertisers are finding newspapers more productive than ever before!

Chart is based on information drawn from "Videotown 6" survey by Cunningham & Walsh, New York, N. Y., nationally known advertising agency conducting this survey solely for the benefit of its clients.

We Guess So...

At least we nearly sold out of our Junkers. We use the word "Sold" very loosely—they were giveaways. Now we're going to give you a break on the better ones. Look carefully or you'll overlook the price—they are so small.

1953 CHEVROLET "210" Deluxe 2-door sedan. Take a deep breath—Now truly, don't you still smell the new in this car? Now look—Smell again.
It should smell new because it's just like new.
Perfection guaranteed. $1765

1948 CADILLAC '62" 4-door sedan. The class and beauty is still here. This is still one of the most stylish cars on the road. Excellent condition. Cadillac is usually years ahead. You won't be ashamed to see the Joneses
in this one. $1395

1951 PACKARD "400" 4-door sedan. Over a $4000 car new. Packard's best luxury car—an aristocratic looking beauty. One owner car. Use your head. Surely this one is a real steal at the ridiculous figure of $1685

Scholastic Census Reports Are Due

Reports on the scholastic census are due this week from principals of the various schools.

Dean Bennett, supervisor of elementary education and who has been directing the census under W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, said that during this week the check against present rolls was being completed in the schools.

He said he had no way of knowing what the census was showing but that toward the end of the month some preliminary totals might be run.

Meanwhile, he urged parents or guardians of all children who will be six years old on or before Sept. 1, 1954 or who will not have attained their 18th birthday by that time to call the tax office (4-4694) if these children have not been included in the census. They must be listed by Jan. 31.

Drink Of Coffee Is Fatal To Houstonian

TYLER (P)—George S. Huffman, 51, ate lunch and drank coffee at a cafe here yesterday, walked out to his car, got in and died.

Peace Justice Martin L. Lilly quoted a waitress as saying Huffman commented that his doctor had advised him against drinking coffee. The waitress reported Huffman ordered a cup anyway, Lilly said. Huffman's body was found in his car in front of the cafe.

The Justice ruled death from natural causes. Huffman, of Houston, was sales manager for McCullough Tool Co., which has a branch here. Company officials said Huffman had suffered from heart trouble.

Stepping-On-Toes Knifing Admitted

PHOENIX, Ariz. (P)—A Phoenix woman today faced a one to three year prison sentence because she knifed a man after he stepped on her toes during a dance early Christmas morning.

Mrs. Mary Josephine Nadine Andrews, 29-year-old mother, admitted in Superior Court here today she slashed Orange Evans Jr. who was dancing with another woman.

Testimony at the trial produced evidence Mrs. Andrews drew a pocket knife and slashed Evans across the chest after he stepped on her foot. Evans needed six stitches to close the wound.

Many Teachers Paid More Than Minimum

AUSTIN (P)—The executive committee of the Texas State Teachers Assn. met here today to consider a compromise plan which would raise the minimum pay scale of school teachers $402 per year.

Approval was expected to be a mere formality. Mrs. Kate Bell of Houston, TSTA president, said Wednesday when the proposal was submitted to Gov. Allan Shivers she was certain her organization would endorse it.

TSTA's executive committee action is expected to produce a quick announcement by Shivers on the approximate date he will call a special legislative session on the pay raise problem.

The governor gave informal approval to the plan Wednesday, said he intended to submit it as his recommendation as well as that of the compromise committee, and expressed hope it would "become an actuality."

There is no money in sight to pay the estimated 23½ million dollar added yearly expense—which will increase as the teaching force grows. The biggest obstacle in the path of the proposed raise appears to be how to finance it.

Even if the Legislature puts the $402 increase into effect, not all teachers are assured of more money.

The raise applies to the base pay scale. Since many teachers make more than the minimum provided for their amount of experience, they might be legally in-line for only a part—or even none—of the $402 boost.

Example: The base pay for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree is $2,403, but beginners in Amarillo, Lubbock, Dallas, San Antonio, Wichita Falls and a number of other cities now receive $3,000. Their salary already is higher than the proposed new minimum for beginners—$2,403 plus $402, or $2,805.

If the $402 raise goes through, school boards in these cities paying above the new minimum will have a free choice, legally, to decide whether to give increases.

Men working for the state education agency and for TSTA think gio, and Wharton—with 1,000 to 2,500 scholastics—are hiring teachers for $2,000 to $2,700.

Districts with fewer than 1,000 school-age children generally are paying close to the $2,403 minimum for the novice teacher, but there are numerous exceptions. Rankin, in West Texas, outdoes even Odessa, luring teachers with a starting salary of $3,450. In East Texas, White Oak will pay a new teacher $3,000.

Average salary of all Texas classroom teachers last year—before deductions for income tax and retirement benefits—was $3,323.

two considerations would lead most of these boards to grant higher salaries. They think the boards might feel morally obligated to match the increase that will occur in most cities. A majority of schools are paying present minimums or only slightly more.

The second consideration is one of practical economics. Educators generally agree Texas is suffering from a teacher shortage that will continue for several years. This means that schools now paying more than the minimum probably would have to go higher to compete for new teachers. That's the main reason they pay more right now.

A check of the records shows many of the smaller cities and towns have had to go above the minimum to attract teachers. Odessa, one of West Texas' major oil cities, is one of the state's highest paying school districts. It pays beginners with a bachelor's degree $3,400.

Cities in the scholastic population bracket with Tyler, Marshall and Midland—5,000 to 10,000 school age children—generally are paying from $2,800 to $3,000 for new teachers.

Cities of 2,500 to 5,000 scholastics, such as Sherman, Kilgore, Big Spring, and Mission, offer an average of about $2,700. Breckenridge, Gladewater, Refu-

Fruit Fly Reported

MEXICO CITY (P)—An outbreak of black fruit fly, which preys on citrus, has been reported in Veracruz state. Government agriculture agents have been sent to this area. The flies have already caused much damage to local citrus groves.

For Bricker Plan

DALLAS (P)—Arthur J. Connell, national commander of the American Legion, says the Legion endorses the Bricker Amendment because "we are for the preservation of constitutional government and opposed to government by treaty."

Connell addressed a luncheon here yesterday.
