Long Shortage Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline will be in short supply at least until October and the shortage will repeat itself in the summer of 1980, a top federal energy official is predicting.

David Bardin, head of the Energy Department's Economic Regulatory Administration, told a congressional hearing the best way for Americans to cope with the crisis is to drive less.

"Leave your car home one day a week and we will get through it," Bardin told a House committee at a hearing Friday.

Judgment Accepted

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Utilities Co. has agreed to a temporary injunction covering its operations at the Martin Lake electric plant, the attorney general said Friday.

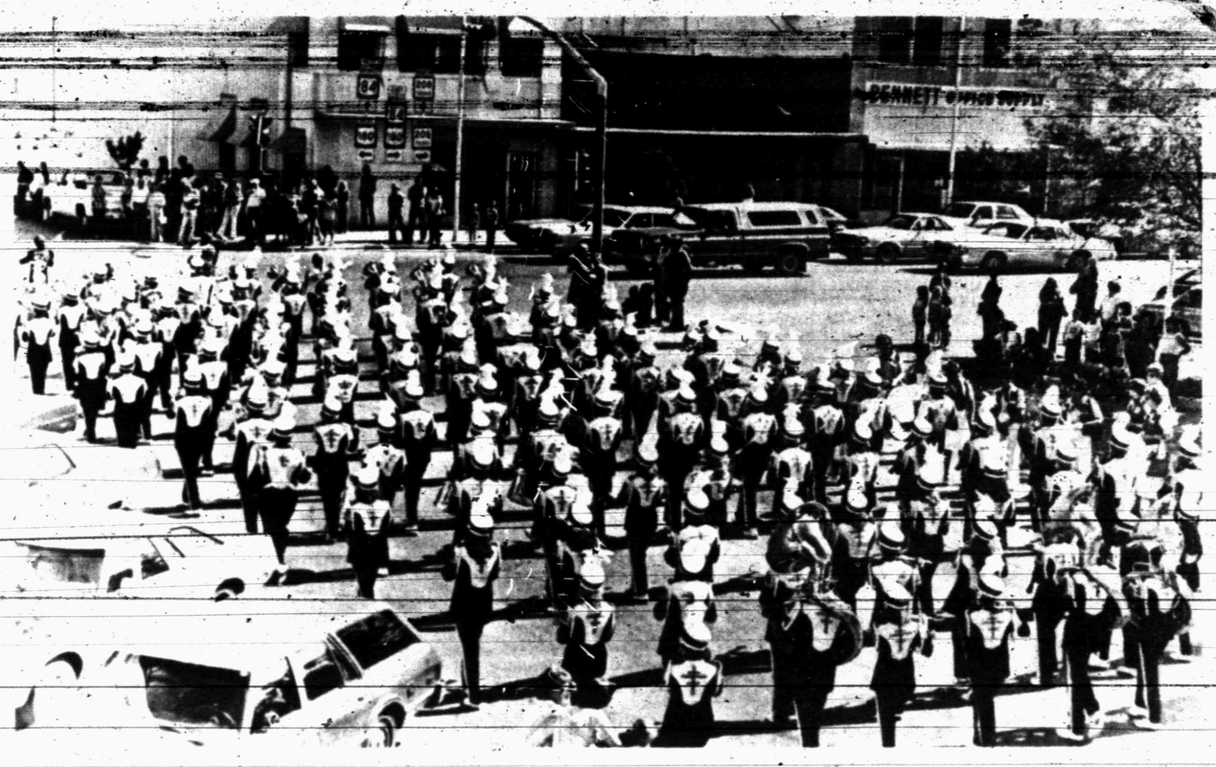
The agreed judgment was signed by Judge Joseph C. Gladney of the 4th Judicial District in Rusk County, the attorney general said.

In the agreement Texas Utilities agreed to keep air pollution from its lignite-burning plant within legal limits, to maintain a monitoring and sampling program, and to completely eliminate all pollution by March 1, 1980.

Earlier the attorney general's department said it was preparing a suit to be filed against Texas Utilities at the request of the Texas Air Control Board.

Protest Blockade

CAANCUN, Mexico (AP) — Fidel Castro, capping a two-day visit to Mexico, won President Jose Lopez Portillo's support for his demands that the United States end its 15-year economic blockage of Cuba and give up its military base on his communist-ruled island.



SHRINERS PARADE-Shriners of the Suez Temple marched through downtown Snyder Saturday morning in a parade that featured sheriff's posses, the National Guard Color guard, the high school band, (above) clowns and the Shriners Motor Patrol from Big Spring. As many as 400 Shriners were expected to be in town for the annual spring ceremonial. The ceremonial this year honored Snyderite Jim Simpson and the late Ed Schulz. A breakfast Sunday morning at Towle Park barn was to conclude activities. (SDN Staff Photo)

One Senator Said Hiding In Church

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)- One of 12 state senators who failed to show up in the Senate Friday, thereby breaking quorum and paralyzing the upper chamber, reportedly is hiding in a Catholic church, a state police sergeant said today.

"Security has spotted a car connected to him Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburgh within a church compound," said Sgt. Charlie Russell of the State Department of Public Safety.

Russell said the car was spotted at 1:30 a.m. on property of a large church in San Juan, Texas, some 12 miles from the Edinburgh federal courthouse in the southern part of the state where Longoria eluded state troopers Friday afternoon.

Police officers are observing the church law of sanctuary, Russell said, and will not try to enter the compound.

In addition to reports on Longoria, Russell said approximately 30 state police and Texas Rangers fanned out across the missing senators districts last night to check friends, relatives and possible local hangouts.

"We'd like to find them, but it's like a needle in a haystack," he said.

Even if Longoria were arrested, police would need to find one more absentee to provide enough members for the Senate to conduct business.

The Department of Public Safety issued an all-points bulletin Friday for Rationing is an ugly word in this country. The reason, we suspect, is the fact that rationing stirs visions of inequitable rules by the federal government in areas that few people are willing to tolerate them. And they are right.

When President Carter's gasoline rationing proposals were rejected by lawmakers despite extensive revision, we felt that the only two things worse than a set of rationing regulations from the president himself would be a set of rationing rules from James R. Schlesinger, or a set of rationing rules from Congress.

Well, you know, by now that the president has been prodding Congress to come up with its own gasoline rationing proposal, and just as we feared, some of them are trying to do it. And just as we feared, it appears that they have very little feeling for their self-appointed task. We refer to reports concerning a gasoline rationing plan being considered by the House energy subcommittee. The chairman, Rep. John Dingell, a Michigan Republican, said he was supporting a proposal by Rep. Toby Moffett, a Democrat from Connecticut. It would limit gasoline purchases to around $5 each and would require that each car be kept off the roads and streets one day per week.

You would get a sticker for each car showing the day of the week that particular vehicle was supposed to get a rest. It naturally would follow that those who have the most automobiles would be able to do the most driving and remain within the rules. Also, if your business required you to drive more than $5 worth of gas and you happened to encounter a few closed service stations in the wide open spaces you could be in trouble.

Leaving a car parked one day a week might work in areas where there is ample public transportation. But where there is none and where two or more persons in a family are employed and worked different hours, it would take a lot of cars merely to get to work and back.

People don't want the federal government setting up nation-wide rationing rules because one set of rules simply will not work in all sections of the country and the feds have demonstrated before that they are not capable of administering any such program without enough red tape to run the price out of sight.

Important Keys Outlined For Seniors At Ira

IRA-The graduating seniors at Ira were told Friday night that the three keys to succeeding in life are choice, commitment, and completeness. June Middlebrooks, pastor of the Church of God Church in Ira, told the class of eight in her commencement address that they must first choose what is right and then commit themselves to achieving it before they can expect completness or fulfillment in life.

"The right choices alone are not enough," she said. "Enrolling in college does not guarantee one a college education. Nor does simply getting married mean you will have a happy marriage. You must work at the task everyday," she said.

She told the seniors that what they want in life is available but that they must reach out and get it themselves.

"Decide what you want, do your best and you will find fulfillment," she promised.

Valedictorian Brenda Cooley told her peers in her address that as they go out into the world they should not resist change.

"Change is essential and necessary and is an indication of progress," she said.

She urged her classmates to work for the right kind of changes and said "Lets leave the past behind and look to the future."

Salutatorian, Sheila Kellner, welcomed the audience to the ceremony. The junior high valedictorian, Julie Kellner, and salutatorian, Kelly Bryant, also addressed the audience.

In addition to the annual scholarships awarded by the Texas Education Agency to the highest ranking students, Brenda Cooley, her twin sister Linda and Jimmy Byars were awarded scholarships amounting to $125 per semester by the Ira Lions Club. High School principal L.D. Monroe announced the scholarships.

Priorities To Change, Hermleigh Grads Told

HERMLEIGH -- Members of Hermleigh High School's graduating class of 1979 were reminded that they face new responsibilities during the commencement program Friday night.

Mickey Nunley, president of the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific Railroad, told the graduates that they must accept the facts of reality and in so doing they also must accept new responsibilities.

"You now have the responsibility of being held accountable for all of your actions and decisions," said Nunley. "You are now responsible for your success or failure in life. You must now accept the responsibility of maintaining a moral society and you alone are responsible for your contribution to society."

Nunley said he was not telling the graduates that the fun in their lives was over, but that the fun in life "is about to change priorities."

Citing such problems as inflation, attacks on the American way of life and the democratic form of government, Nunley said that these were the problems of adults that the graduates will now share. He urged them to remember that they live in the greatest country ever born, the most affluent

Locals Going To Highway Meet Monday

Snyder will be represented Monday morning in a meeting with the Texas Highway Commission to discuss a "Port-to-Plains" highway.

Cities and towns along a proposed route which includes the segment of U.S. Highway 84 through Snyder will be on hand for the meeting. Taking the lead in the promotion of the Port-to-Plains highway are representatives of Houston, Austin, Brownwood, Abilene, Sweetwater and Snyder.

Bill Warner, Snyder Chamber of Commerce manager, and George Patterson, city manager, will attend the session and Warner said others possibly would make the trip to Austin.

The Port-to-Plains highway project has been under discussion for several years, and interest has been revived recently.

Armed Robber Sought Here

Snyder and Scurry County officers Saturday were searching for an armed robber who held up an attendant at the Food Basket located on U.S. 84 and Huffman Ave.

The robbery was reported to police at 9:55 p.m. Friday by Jackie Grimes, manager of the store, who told police that a white male wearing a ski mask entered the store and brandished a pistol. The intruder demanded money of Candice Orosco, the clerk on duty.

The robber reportedly left the store with around $800 and made his getaway in a car.

4 Leaving Ira School

ROBERT WILLIAMS
...retiring

IRA—Three faculty members have resigned and Ira is losing one teacher to retirement, says Ronald Plumlee, superintendent.

Robert Williams, who has been with the Ira ISD 16 years is retiring. He was the math teacher.

Ray Sorrells, vocational agriculture teacher for the last seven years is resigning to go into private business, said Plumlee.

Micky Rundell, elementary school principal and girls coach for the last three years has taken a principal's position at Sands ISD.

School secretary, Vernell Johnson, is leaving after one year. Her husband, an oil company employee, has been transferred to Midland.

"These are all fine people and we hate to lose them," commented Plumlee.

Urban Sprawl Spreads Fast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Council on Environmental Quality says the states aren't having much success saving farmland.

As a result, the council said Friday, there is "the potential for long-term damage to the country's agricultural capacity." The report said farmland is disappearing at the rate of 3 million acres a year, most of it swallowed up by urban sprawl. Much of the rest is flooded by new water projects. The primary means of preserving farmland is through preferential property tax assessments for land left in farm production.

A volcanic eruption, followed by tidal waves and whirlwinds, killed 12,000 people at Sumbawa, Indonesia, in 1815.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday

Bernice Bede Osol

May 20, 1979

This coming year, much could come your way with very little effort on your part. Put it to good use and don't make the mistake of thinking that the source is unlimited.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In your quest to acquire things for yourself, you may completely ignore what is considered good taste, and display a touch of ostentatiousness. Learn more about yourself by sending for your new Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Unfortunately, you may show little respect for something nice that came to you quite easily. Consequently, you'll be so wasteful you'll lose it all.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You need outside interests for a change of pace today, but make certain you can afford that which you choose to do, and with whom you choose to do it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Motives that are too self-seeking will backfire today. To make matters worse, you may blame everybody else for your failure.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Using flattery to achieve your ends won't work out at all for you today. In fact, it could even make you appear foolish and absurd.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) For some reason, you could feel indebted to someone to whom you really owe nothing. Others may try to point this out, but I doubt if you'll listen.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's important that you have a good and honest opinion of yourself so that you won't be hurt by someone else's action, nor try to strike back.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Move cautiously if undertaking any hobbies or projects today. Even though you feel creative, things may not turn out as well as you envisioned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone with whom you have no business being involved may appear extremely alluring and attractive to you today. All indications point to trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Wishful thinking could prevail over common sense today, prompting you to make some pretty foolish moves. Don't daydream.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Instead of trying to force your desires into action today, flow with the tide of events. Things will run a lot smoother.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Better keep your extravagant whims under lock and key, today. You're liable to go so far overboard that your budget won't be able to recover.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

May 21, 1979

Your circle of friends will be greatly expanded this coming year, and many new opportunities will come through them. One relationship, in particular, will prove to be exceptionally fortunate.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Think in expansive terms today. You'll have no trouble acting on them because associates who can help will quickly rally to your side. Your new Astro-Graph starting with your birthday offers many new facts about you. Get yours by mailing $1 for each Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be starting the week off with a bang. Dame Fortune has singled you out to be the recipient of one of her lavish gifts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The positive manner in which you present yourself is stimulating and exhilarating to others. They'll be jumping on your bandwagon.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Follow your hunches today, because profit from a source that is not necessarily visible to you is likely to be quite large.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A good friend or an associate will prove herself to be valuable again today. Substantial benefits to both of you can be realized.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is another excellent day that could prove extremely rewarding in matters relating to your career or work. Go after what you want.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Matters of the heart could occupy the most important spot in your life today. You'll have an opportunity to commune with one you love.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Deal with individuals with whom you share emotional ties today and you will find things will work out more to your advantage.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You should have no trouble gaining the support of others today, whether it involves a personal matter or even business affairs. Team up now.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Tackle your chores wholeheartedly today. A golden opportunity is being presented to you, but you can find it only through conscientious effort.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should be receiving a boost from Lady Luck today. If there is something personal you'd like to have, go after it now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Choose members of your family as your confidantes today. They are the ones who can point the way and show you where your real treasures lie.

Highway May Re-Open

MALIBU, Calif. (AP)—A stretch of the Pacific Coast Highway, closed last month due to rockslides, could be reopened Monday with the completion of a 25-foot steel and timber barrier to contain the falling debris, a state official says.

The state transportation department awarded a contract for the wall to contain the slides pending a permanent solution. Heinz Heckeroth, Caltrans director for the Los Angeles area, said Wednesday rocks were falling at a "moderate rate." About 300 Malibu residents have sued Caltrans for failing to reopen the highway, claiming blocked traffic costs them $1 million a day in lost business.

Decrease energy use in the home.

Use portable kitchen appliances whenever possible rather than using the range to cook or prepare food, suggests Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Supper Honors Six Hermleigh Staff Members

HERMLEIGH—A "Good luck" pot luck supper was held Thursday evening in the Hermleigh High School cafeteria in honor of six staff members who are leaving the school system.

The supper was hosted by Hermleigh school personnel and board members. Red rose corsages were presented to the ladies and a boutonniere to retiring superintendent Ray Simmons.

Simmons presented service pins to staff members. Receiving a 30 year pin was Mattie Mae Ammons. Principal Tommy Riley received a 15-year pin. Others received pins for five and 10 years of service.

Those leaving the school in addition to Simmons are his wife Millie who is following her husband in retirement.

Marlene Richburg, a cafeteria worker who is also retiring, Jean, Schooler, English teacher and Tonya Minton, secretary, are leaving due to transfers of their husbands who both work for oil companies, and Jacque Sealy, Plan A teacher, is resigning due to the stress of traveling involved in her job.

Red Cross Readies For New Disasters

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The shape of disaster has changed somewhat in modern times, and the Red Cross is rising to the challenge, officials say, by alerting its chapters to the spectre of nuclear accidents and energy shortages in the 1980s.

"The chapter with nuclear power plants near them are learning all they can. They won't be caught asleep at the switch," said president George M. Elsey at the Red Cross national convention in Kansas City Wednesday.

Hobbs Class Urged To Ask Questions

HOBBS—The graduating seniors at Hobbs were exhorted to challenge, question and evaluate as they leave high school behind and make their way into life. Dr. Gil Fleer, associate professor of psychology and sociology at Western Texas College, urged the seniors not to take things at face value.

"Ask questions, then challenge the answers," he said.

He told them they must evaluate situations and then decide for themselves the proper course of action.

"Think for yourselves," he said.

Tonya Porter, valedictorian, and salutatorian Everett Simmons also addressed the audience at the commencement ceremonies that saw eight seniors graduate and 10 eighth-graders enter high school.

M.B. Maxwell Jr., superintendent, and Howard Gordon, school board president, presented the diplomas.

The invocation was given by Billy Allen, and Johnny Medrano delivered the benediction.

Junior High valedictorian was Lisa Martinez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Martinez. Larry Phillips, son of Mrs. Neva Phillips was salutatorian.

Other eighth-graders graduating into high school were Danny Allen, Mary Ellen Davis, Rickey Gordon, Billie Martin, Billy Moore, Debbie Moore, Myrtle Melton, and Steve Solis.

The senior class roll is as follows: Debra Teel, Judy Medrano, Johnny Medrano, Patty Martinez, Cathey Hall, Billy Allen, Everett and Tonya Porter.

Union Officer Makes Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—Not only is Sam Church vice president of the United Mine Workers, he's now a country music recording artist as well.

Church, 42, said Friday he made the record in hopes of convincing the nation of what he considers the folly of nuclear power and the wisdom of coal power. He said lyrics for the two tunes were written by his 22-year-old wife as she sat at their kitchen table. The chorus of one goes: "Our miners are not working because of Arab oil. Let's fight for independence. Why the hell don't we use coal?" Church said proceeds from the record's sale will help striking miners.

Marijuana For Cancer Cases Okayed

AUSTIN (AP)—The House has tentatively approved a bill that would let cancer patients use marijuana to relieve nausea caused by chemotherapy.

The measure advanced Friday on voice vote and must be considered once before it can reach the Senate.

Both cancer and glaucoma patients could obtain marijuana through the State Health Department, which would set up a review board to screen applications for medical use of the drug.

The department would establish research programs in the supervised use of marijuana for cancer and glaucoma patients.

New Mexico, Louisiana and Illinois already have passed laws allowing the therapeutic use of marijuana, which has been found useful in relieving symptoms of glaucoma and easing the side effects of chemotherapy for cancer.

Former FBI Agent Speaks

By LAURINDA KEYS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Unlike most career law enforcement men who retire in good standing, Wes Swearingen has not seen or spoken to any of his former colleagues since his retirement a year and a half ago.

He has, however, spoken to the press, the U.S. Attorney General's Office and congressional committee aides about what he believes are abuses committed by the FBI.

A large, bearded man, with silver hair, living on a boat at Marina Del Rey, the 51-year-old Swearingen, at first glance, seems the lonely crusader, fighting for truth.

But he describes himself as a typical, middle-of-the road, ex-FBI man, who has a fondness for the organization, wants it reformed, but doesn't want anyone including himself to go to jail.

Swearingen admits committing hundreds of "black bag jobs" illegal entries for the government. And he did not agree to provide information until he had been granted immunity from prosecution.

The existence of "black bag jobs" has come out since Watergate, but what upsets Swearingen is that he believes high FBI officials are still attempting to cover up the full extent of the problem.

"If it doesn't all come out," he said, "in 10 years it will happen again."

One thing Swearingen wants to make clear is that when the illegal entries began during J. Edgar Hoover's administration, he and his colleagues believed that what they were doing was all right.

"I thought it was kind of neat, it was exciting and dangerous. But it was for national security," he said.

But as Swearingen realized most of the information he got in such capers was tame, and he found these operations were not even discussed among agents, he began to have misgivings.

"Finally, a new bureau chief in Chicago called all the agents in and told us this was illegal, and that if we were caught we would be fired and prosecuted. Yet the pressure was still on to perform, to do these things," said Swearingen. He even received a bonus and a laudatory letter from Hoover for one of his illegal entries, he said.

The letter refers to "pursuing confidential sources." Swearingen said that was the director's standard phrase for such operations.

When Swearingen brought his information to the U.S. attorney general, he said his most serious charge was that assistant FBI director James B. Adams told a congressional committee that only 238 black bag jobs had been committed by the FBI's Chicago office.

"Well, I personally did more than 300," said Swearingen. "I was disgusted. The whole cover-up is still going on."

Swearingen said he joined the FBI to chase bank robbers, and was discouraged when in the early 1950s he found himself part of the bureau's growing domestic intelligence program.

Scurry Fourth In '78 Crude Oil Production

Scurry County slipped from second to fourth place for the year, but maintained third place in Texas' all-time oil production figures in 1978, according to the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

A downward trend continued for the sixth straight year in the state, the report said, although the Texas crude output in 1978 again topped a billion barrels, a level it has achieved annually since 1965.

Scurry County production last year totalled 58,074,266. Topping the state in 1978 was Yoakum County, where production amounted to 71,164,311 barrels. The other two counties with production higher than Scurry were Gaines with 60,706,710 barrels and Ector with 59,227,760.

Scurry County, which celebrated production of its billionth barrel of oil in 1973, now is well on its way to its second billion and ranks fifth in the state in a cumulative production with 1,501,426,375 barrels. Gregg County leads the state in all-time production with 2,642,750,960 barrels, followed by Ector with 2,195,128,255, Andrews with 1,894,419,043 and Rusk County with 1,615,330,517 barrels.

Although a decline continues in both production and reserves, H.B. Harkins of Alice, president of Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, sees a brighter future.

"The improved prices for both old and new oil that we can expect as a result of a phasing out of federal price controls will help to stimulate increased efforts to recover oil in Texas, especially through secondary and tertiary recovery projects," Harkins said.

Production figures in other area counties include Borden County with 10,228,245 for the year and a cumulative total of 253,863,568; Dawson 7,991,139 for the year and a cumulative total of 209,993,289 barrels; Fisher 5,692,560 for the year and a cumulative total of 191,284,018 barrels; Garza 6,752,054 for the year and a cumulative total of 162,626,308 barrels; Kent 13,849,000 for the year and 318,000,999 overall; Mitchell 5,792,932 for the year and 103,348,034 overall, and Nolan 2,400,315 for the year and 138,078,396 overall.

Two Hurt In Road Mishap

A hit and run accident with minor injuries was reported at Ennis Creek Road and U.S. Highway 84 Friday night shortly after 10 p.m. Taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by private vehicle with what were believed to be minor injuries were Ola Sanchez and Margaret Morin. Four children were also in the Plymouth stationwagon when it was hit by a white vehicle that fled the scene. They are Raynaldo Morin, Rene Morin, Richard Morin, and Rolando Morin.

Found Not Guilty

A five-woman, one man jury found Thomas Dean Jameson not guilty of driving while intoxicated Friday in county court. Serving on the jury were Janet Boren, Margaret Payne, Lorraine Haines, Bonnie Potter, Zulema Garza and Robert Lee Smart.

Russians Say Tomb Found

MOSCOW (AP)-Soviet archaeologists have found the 2,500-year-old tomb of a Scythian king in a valley of the Altai Mountains in southern Siberia, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

The Tass report Friday said the tomb contained skeletons of eight royal aides, who accompanied their king on his "final voyage." The bodies had been dressed "in rich clothes, adorned with ornaments of gold, turquoise and carved bones, with richly decorated weapons and utensils," Tass said.

the missing senators after Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby ordered their arrest.

"These senators are deliberately avoiding duties they were elected to perform," said Hobby, the Senate's presiding officer. After hiding out more than six hours, the senators issued a statement at 4:15 p.m., saying they were trying to defeat a bill that could be used to establish a controversial presidential primary.

"We are absent today because this is our only available, positive way to defeat a proposed law which would create a rigged presidential primary which the people of Texas do not want, did not ask for and which would cost Texas citizens $5 million of hard-earned tax money," said the statement issued from one of their offices.

The Hobby-backed primary measure would set a 1980 presidential primary in March, separate from the general party primaries in May.

19 Millionaire Senators Listed In Statements

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Danforth has his millions in cereal and dog food, and John Heinz has his in soup, pickles and ketchup.

Bill Bradley still draws $122,000 a year from his old professional basketball team, the New York Knicks, and has extensive holdings in the municipal bond market.

Elizabeth Taylor's husband - John Warner - owns more than 3,300 acres of land, among the plush horse farms of northern Virginia.

They are among the millionaires in the U.S. Senate, a 100-member club where great wealth is commonplace.

Financial statements released Friday reveal 19 senators with assets above $1 million and 18 others with personal wealth that could total that much and more.

The fortunes run the gamut of American industry, from Danforth's holdings in Ralston-Purina to Heinz's share in the H.J. Heinz Co. to Lloyd Bentsen's extensive land holdings and stock portfolio to Nancy Kassebaum's holding in broadcast properties.

The disclosures were made under a law requiring members of Congress, Cabinet members, U.S. Supreme Court justices and other high-ranking officials to reveal their assets and liabilities.

The forms do not pinpoint a senator's exact wealth but show a range of how small or large assets and liabilities could be.

Although the Senate has long been known as a rich man's club, not all its members are wealthy.

Sen. Donald Stewart, D-Ala., listed assets of $355,000 to $890,000, but said his liabilities are between $505,000 and $1.1 million. Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, showed assets of $56,500 and liabilities of between $15,000 and $50,000.

Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., said he still owes Yale Law School $808 on a loan. He listed assets totaling $199,000 and liabilities of $150,000.

Heinz of Pennsylvania and Danforth of Missouri, both Republicans, appear close rivals for the title of richest man in the Senate.

Heinz listed his assets at between $11.2 million and $19.7 million, but said he had trust funds whose value he does not know.

Danforth said his assets total between $6.9 million and $17.2 million.

Danforth said he has no liabilities. Heinz listed liabilities of between $1.3 million and $2.8 million.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., listed assets of $1.3 million to $3 million, but he also has large holdings in blind trusts of unknown size.

Bradley, a freshman Democrat senator from New Jersey, listed assets between $1.1 million and $3.1 million.

Warner, a Virginia Republican, said his assets total between $5.8 million and $12.7 million, including a home valued up to $1 million in the fashionable Georgetown section of Washington.

Bentsen's wealth is largely in real estate, including three separate pieces of property in Texas, each valued at between $250,000 to $500,000, and a residence in Washington D.C. of equal value.

Ms. Kassebaum, elected to the Senate last fall from Kansas, listed assets of between $2.1 million and $4.3 million, with broadcast properties in excess of $1 million and mineral rights of between $250,000 and $500,000.

Karen Blaker Ph.D.

She needs a wife

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

The helpmate system has been in trouble ever since women started to gain independent identities apart from their husbands.

In this excerpt from a hotline call, a minister talks about her depression upon hearing the reasons for her rejection by a parish. (Personal information in all hotline excerpts has been changed to protect the caller's confidentiality.)

HOT LINE

REV. L. I've never called one of these hot-line phones before, but I feel so depressed tonight that I had to do something constructive. My husband is out of town on business. He doesn't even know what just happened.

COUNSELOR. What did happen?

REV. L. I was very excited about serving a parish in a nearby state. My husband and I had visited the church and we seemed to be a great hit with the people. We were certain of the appointment. Then — out of the blue — I heard I was turned down.

COUNSELOR. They changed their minds?

REV. L. I guess so. The visit to the parish is the last step in the approval process. And it is usually just a formality. Oh, this feels so unreal!

COUNSELOR. It sounds like you may be in kind of a state of shock.

REV. L. That's exactly how I feel. It's like being hit over the head.

COUNSELOR. How did you find out about all this?

REV. L. I haven't had any official notification yet. But I received a letter today from one of the women in the parish. She and I had talked a lot during my visit and we became quite close. She wrote to warn me that the appointment had not been confirmed largely because they felt I couldn't handle all the responsibilities of the church by myself.

There are evidently many social affairs that are traditionally organized by the minister's wife. In addition, she noted that the minister is always the honorary chairman of the local men's lodge. The letter went on and on. It was depressing, believe me.

COUNSELOR. I can see why you are upset. Do you feel angry at all?

REV. L. No, I haven't felt angry yet.

COUNSELOR. Why do you put it that way?

REV. L. When you asked the question, I began to feel some rumblings inside. It just doesn't seem fair.

COUNSELOR. What are those rumblings about?

REV. L. I am so mad at all those prejudiced people. If they would just give me a chance, I'm sure we could work things out. And I'm mad because there is nothing I can do about it. When the official letter arrives, none of this will be mentioned.

COUNSELOR. You feel angry but helpless at the same time.

REV. L. That's right. It won't do any good to feel the rage.

COUNSELOR. It might help your depression a little.

REV. L. And I am mad at my friend for writing such a detailed letter. And — this is really crazy — I am mad at my husband for not being a "better half." What I really need is a wife, and he can't help me with that. This is a very demoralizing experience for the first time out.

COUNSELOR. Would this be your first job as a minister?

REV. L. Yes. I think that makes me even more sensitive to the rejection.

The counselor helped the caller dissipate her feelings of depression by getting more in touch with her anger.

Asphyxiation Suspected

HOWELL, Mich. (AP)— Three people found dead in a parked car surrounded by burned grass apparently died of asphyxiation, officials report.

Found dead in a Livingston County grove were Freeman Lykins, 20, his wife, Linda Lou, 16, and Robin Sue Pennell, 22, all from near Howell.

The car was found not far from the Lykins' home, sheriff's deputies said.

REMEMBER LONG WAGON TRIP--Henry Rogers, celebrating his 83rd birthday today, and his sisters, Lula Dubose and Ara Scott, remember a trip by covered wagon to California in 1913.

Bronte To California...

Octogenarian Recalls Long Trip By Wagon

Henry Rogers didn't find any gasoline shortage on his first trip to California In fact, he didn't need any gasoline at all at that time

Rogers, the father of Irene Rogers Hardy of Snyder, is celebrating his 83rd birthday today and he remembers a trip from Bronte, Tex., to Brawley, Calif., by covered wagon as one of the memorable experiences of his life It happened in 1913 when he was 17 years old

A covered wagon and a two-seated hack made the trip, serving as the conveyance for Rogers, his mother, Ida Belle Pettit Rogers, his brother, John, 19, and his sisters, Lula, 15, and Ara, 13

The younger sister was just four days old when their father, Aaron Rogers, died of a heart attack at the age of 29, leaving his wife, Ida, to make a living and to keep the family together Her brother, Tom Pettit, his wife and four sons, went along on the trip to California in another covered wagon They had heard that there was a demand for farm labor in the Imperial Valley

Leaving Bronte in September of 1913, they arrived tired and weary in Brawley, Calif., 63 days later They spent the first night on their journey at Edith, Tex., and then went on to Grandfalls where they stopped off for a week and picked cotton Then they followed the railroad, since there were no highways — only trails and ruts where other wagons had passed They crossed New Mexico and went on into Arizona, camping at night where there were water towers along the railroad

Sometimes they would pass a windmill and get water But most of the time they bought water from the railroad to water their stock, and one time the stock went three days without water In Arizona there was nothing to use as fuel for fires to cook their meals except cowchips and buffalo grass They had a chuck box in the back of a wagon and they cooked enough food each evening to last until the next night They had hot biscuits made in a Dutch oven each morning for breakfast and sometimes they cooked a large pot of beans

If the children got tired riding, they walked along behind the wagons singing and talking At night, the boys and Tom Petitit trapped animals such as skunks, wolves, rabbits and bobcats They skinned them and hung the hides on the wagons to dry and then sold them at the next town At night, they hobbled their horses and put a bell on one of them, and sometimes they would have to go four or five miles to find the horses in the morning before starting another day on the trial

It was raining when they crossed the swamps in Arizona and mud was hub deep to the wagons They were able to make only about 10 miles per day under these conditions. At Yuma, they crossed the Colorado River on a ferry, and then traveled on to El Centro They piled brush on the sand dunes so that the horses could pull the wagons without getting stuck in the sand

Upon reaching Brawley after 63 days on the trail, Mrs Rogers cooked meals for the farm laborers, while John, Henry, Lula and Ara worked on the farms heading maize, chopping and picking cotton They received $2 per ton for heading maize and in the spring of 1914, Henry Rogers listed some land for a man who gave him a $75 check When he cashed the check, the bank paid off in $5 and $10 gold pieces

The Rogers family stayed one year in California and then sold their wagon, hack and mules to Tom Pettit and returned to Bronte on the train The same mules later were driven back to Bronte by Tom Pettit, and he later drove the same mules to Wichita Falls and sold them

Henry Rogers is celebrating his birthday in Bronte today with his wife, Ala, 81 His sisters, Lula, now 81, and Ara, now 78, also live in Bronte His brother, John, died on March 14, 1962, and their mother died at the age of 91

Groups Pour Increasing Amounts Into Campaigns

Editor's note: What Effect do political contributions from special interests have on Texas legislators: Most legislators say all the lobbyists get for their money is access. The special interests say that is all they want or need. That is the result of lengthy research into campaign contribution records by Dan Malone of Harte Hanks Communications. Here, in a condensed form, are the results Malone found in a series of stories for Harte-Hanks papers.

AUSTIN (AP)—Special interest groups poured $1.88 million into Texas lawmakers' campaign funds in 1978, including half-a-million for legislators without even an opponent.

"The $1.88 million is 55 percent of the total $3.39 million legislators reported collecting in 1978," said a copyrighted story appearing in Harte-Hanks newspapers in Texas.

"Most legislators say all that special-interest groups get for their contributions is access. Special-interest groups say that's all they want or need."

There are 847 political action committees registered with the state, representing almost every important business or professional concern

Sen Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, collected the most special-interest money in 1978, a total of $103,275, the series said That included a $27,500 gift from Tex-Pac, a doctors' group Andujar's husband is a physician

"The amount of contribution doesn't matter," Mrs Andujar told the Harte-Hanks reporter. "You can't buy my vote I vote my conscience. I'm honored by the businesses that support me."

Rep Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, had $28,644 from special-interest groups, the largest amount for an opposed candidate in the House

"The ones that contribute never ask a thing," Lewis said

"Those that try to beat my butt are always the first ones down here asking for favors."

House Speaker Bill Clayton was unopposed but accepted $75,350 from special-interest groups in 1978, the Harte-Hanks story said That was the most for any unopposed candidate in the House.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, led unopposed candidates in the Senate. Although only halfway through his four-year term, Schwartz, accepted $12,105 from special interest groups in 1978, according to official records. Schwartz said it would be impossible for him to raise the money needed for a 1980 re-election bid in less than two years.

Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, was second among unopposed in the House with $12,300 from special interests.

Sen. Bill Meier, D-Euless, was second in the Senate with $98,575.

Not all legislators accept money from special-interest sources, the Harte-Hanks story said.

Rep. Forrest Green, D-Corsicana, says refusing special-interest contributions makes him independent.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, chairman of the powerful Senate finance committee, says he waited until this year to accept contributions for his 1980 re-election bid. "During my campaign I accepted money from anyone as long as they understand there are no strings attached," Jones said. "I won't make any commitments on issues tied to campaign contributions."

The Harte-Hanks story said special-interest contributions to successful legislative candidates increased 44 percent from $1,304,508 in 1976 to $1,880,361 in 1978.

The biggest spender in 1978 was Tex-Pac, the doctor's lobby, with $229,600 or $93,000 more than 1976 Robert Stluka, Tex-Pac treasurer, said the contributions paved the way to talk with legislators about more than 300 health-related bills in the 1979 Legislature.

Two years ago Texas trial lawyers outspent doctors, much of it over medical malpractice legislation, or a total of $163,000. The trial lawyers dropped to $106,525 in 1978, the Harte-Hanks story said.

Dentists gave lawmakers $73,657 in 1978, compared to $40,100 in 1976.

"Our policy is to contribute to the incumbent, unless he's been anti-dentistry," said Bill K. Forbus, chairman of Den-Pac.

Certified Public Accountants gave lawmakers $61,300 last year.

"We don't intend to sway votes, we just want somebody to listen to our view," said Bob West, a CPA-Pac member.

Sal-Pac, which represents savings and loan interests, contributed $42,500 last year. The group is active in pushing legislation for higher home loan interest rates.

Real estate men contributed the second highest total in 1978, $162,056.

Some sources estimate one-third to one-half of the campaign finance reports received from 800 candidates by the Secretary of State are faulty in some way, the Harte-Hanks story said.

"It's like filling out any government form," said Secretary of State George Strake. "Ninety-nine percent of the mistakes are honest."

Missed deadlines, omission of dates and other details and gaps and overlaps in reporting periods are typical errors.

Technically, most errors are punishable by a fine.

However, the Harte-Hanks story said, Strake has not reported any violations to prosecutors. When mistakes are found, letters are written requesting additional information.

"We're trying to do what's reasonable. We don't think we were instructed to be policemen," Strake said.

Rules Published For Health Care

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Carter administration is reminding more than 5,000 non-profit hospitals of their obligation to provide a certain level of free care to the poor.

Rules published Friday in the Federal Register are designed to enforce a requirement that any hospital that has accepted federal funds under the Hill-Burton program must set aside 10 percent of the amount it received, or .3 percent of its annual operating costs, to pay bills for those who can't afford to pay themselves.

PECAN SPRAYING

We have had a number of phone calls during the past week relative to spraying pecan trees for the casebearer.

The exact dates have not been determined yet, but it appears that the first casebearer spray should be between May 25 and May 30. Activity of the overwintered larva and moth has been slow and whether two applications will be needed also has not been determined.

These dates are approximately the usual spray date for this area.

Probably the most destructive insect in Texas is the pecan nut casebearer. Control measures for the pecan nut casebearer must be applied at the correct time or extensive damage to small nut clusters will result if populations are heavy.

When applying insecticides for the control of the casebearer, the addition of a fungicide, such as benomyl will aid in the control of scab and other diseases of the pecan. Also adding zinc sulfate or NZN will control rosette and give added growth and vigor to the pecan.

An excellent spray for pecan trees will therefore be a combination of an insecticide, a fungicide and zinc.

The following spray mixture is recommended.

For homeowners or a few trees use:

4 tablespoons zolone
3 tablespoons benomyl
6 tablespoonfuls zinc sulfate in three gallons of water. Six (6) tablespoons of malathion may be substituted for zolone.

For 100 gallons of spray mix use 2 pounds zolone, ½ to 1 pound benomyl and 2 lbs. zinc sulfate. Malathion or Guthion may be substituted for zolone.

For the homeowner and for larger grower be sure and follow the direction on the label for each product.

As we stated earlier, insecticide application for the control of the pecan nut casebearer should be made between May 25-30. We are publishing this article early so that pecan growers may make preparation for spray application next weekend since May 25 will be Friday.

Also the application of di-syston for the control of aphid on pecans should be made around June 1 for commercial growers. This is not recommended for homeowners due to possible contamination of home gardens, and fruit trees and damage to pets in the yard.

Plan to share a ride with friends to the beach or the mountains during the summer.

You'll have more time to visit, and you'll reduce travel costs and save gasoline, points out Pat Seaman, a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

FINAL OUT--Sid Everton, after snaring a ball hit directly back to him, turns and throws the final out to first baseman Scott Crenwelge. Everton smacked two home runs in the bi-district game Friday against Burkburnett, and pitched four no-hit innings. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Rout 'Dogs With Seven 6th-Inning Runs...

Tigers Win Bi-District!

BURKBURNETT — The Snyder Tigers erupted for seven sixth-inning runs here Friday to turn Burkburnett hopes into ashes and grab a second bi-district baseball championship in three years.

Keyed by a Sid Everton home run in the top of the fourth inning, Coach Albert Lewis' Tigers rolled on to a 9-1 victory, ending the best-of-three playoff series in short fashion.

The Tigers had defeated Burkburnett in the first game, 3-2 in Snyder.

Mitch Mackey and Everton each took a turn on the hill for Snyder, giving up only three hits to the Bulldogs. Everton, who climbed the mound in the bottom of the fourth with Snyder ahead 2-1, totally disarmed the normally powerful hitting 'dogs, and relinquished only a walk during the remainder of the game.

Burkburnett scored its lone run in the bottom of the third, after Jeff Baber singled to first base and came home on a Robertson double.

Snyder overcame the deficit in the top of the fourth inning as first-up Everton slapped his first of two home runs over the left field fence. The Tigers then went a point in front when Mackey snared a single, rounded the bases on a Scott Crenwelge sacrifice, and came home on a passed ball.

With the lead in hand, Coach Lewis put Everton on the mound and moved Mackey - who was suffering from a slight back injury - to right field.

The strategy spelled the end for the Bulldogs, who had only smacked two hits off of Everton in Tuesday's first game of the series. The senior right-hander fanned the first two batters, walked the second and got the third to pop up. The next nine Burkburnett batters went down in order.

Meanwhile, Snyder ran rampant in the sixth inning, slamming seven hits for seven runs before the Bulldogs could choke off the effort. Ricky Gambol, who went three-for-four with a trio of doubles during the game, cracked a two-bagger to get things rolling. Bobby Degrate followed with a double. Everton notched that second home run; Mackey, and Toby Neves slapped doubles; Crenwelge whacked a single; and Everton ended the rally with his second hit - a double - of the inning. All crossed the plate including Sammy Willis, who reached the first bag when hit with a pitch.

Snyder drilled two more singles in the seventh inning, but was unable to take advantage of the effort.

The win was Everton's tenth against two losses. Smoky Burgess, who pitched the first five and one half innings for Burkburnett, finished the season with a 9-7 tote.

Gambol, and Everton each collected three hits during four times at bat. Crenwelge was two for three, while Mackey and Neves were two for four.

In all, Snyder belted 13 hits, including eight RBI against the Burk pitching duo of Burgess and Harris, which struck out six.

Mackey scattered three hits in three innings and struck out two Bulldogs. Everton allowed no hits, walked one and fanned four.

The Tigers will rest up for a regional series now. The opponent was to be determined from a foursome of Borger, Pecos, Ector and Monahans.

Umpires Finally Call 'Em Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Major league umpires went back to work Saturday, richer, with a feeling they have proven their importance to baseball but still bitter after four months of angry negotiations.

The 52 umpires were happy over the $2.5 million package negotiated by attorney Richie Phillips, but they were disturbed they had to work with eight of the men that took their places during the job action.

Paul Runge, a National League umpire and vice president of the Major League Umpires Association, expressed the group's sentiments.

"I promised baseball not to unduly harass any of their 'scab' umpires and I will not," Runge said. "But there is nothing that says I have to introduce them to my friends, ride in the same cab or have a drink with them."

Phillips negotiated a contract which raised salaries by $5,000 to $22,000 for first-year umpires to a contract scale of $50,000 - a $10,000 increase - for one with 20 years experience. Salaries would go to $28,000 after the fifth year, $38,000 after 10 years, and $45,000 after 15 years.

The new three-year contract, which replaced a five-year basic agreement signed in 1977, also gave the umpires increases in per diem pay and two weeks in-season vacation. The per diem increases were from $53 last season to $67 this year, $72 in 1980 and $77 in 1981.

Despite an apparent victory in the long-awaited settlement, the umpires were very unsettled over being joined by eight men signed to major league contracts during the work stoppage. This prompted a vehement and sometimes loud debate during a 4½-hour meeting Friday in a Philadelphia motel.

Schulman Sees Sonics Make NBA Finals Again

SEATTLE (AP)- Sam Schulman, Seattle's No. 1 basketball fan, is getting another chance to win the world championship that slipped from his Super-Sonics' grasp a year ago.

From his courtside seat, Schulman, the Sonics' president and principal owner, experienced the elation of victory and the depression of defeat as Seattle battled the Washington Bullets in the final, frantic moments in Game 7 of last year's National Basketball Association championship series.

It was Seattle's first appearance in the finals. The Sonics lost the game 105-99, and Schulman had to wonder if his team would ever get that far in the playoffs again.

Seattle's prospects for this season were dimmed last summer when Marvin Webster, the Sonics' 7-foot-1 center who was a key in the club's race through the playoffs, defected to the New York Knicks.

Then, his replacement, 6-10 second-year pro Tom LaGarde, was lost early this season because of knee surgery.

But Coach Lenny Wilkens moved power forward Jack Sikma to center and 6-8, 245-pound Lonnie Shelton, acquired from the Knicks as part of the compensation to Seattle for Webster, was moved into Sikma's old spot.

The team regrouped and developed into one of the best in the league.

The high point of the season came Thursday night when the Sonics edged the Phoenix Suns 114-110 to win their second straight Western Conference title and another shot at the world championship.

Several of the Sonics said they were going to be glued to the television set Friday night to watch the Eastern Conference championship game between the Bullets and the San Antonio Spurs, which the Bullets won in the last few seconds, 107-105.

Seattle plays Game 1 of the NBA final series Sunday in Washington's home court.

The Sonics needed a pair of Sikma free throws with two seconds remaining to beat the Suns Thursday night and win the best-of-seven series 4-3.

Seattle led 100-85 with 6:04 left but the Suns whittled the margin to just two points before it was over. The close finish was partly Wilkens' fault.

Wilkens replaced his front line players with 20 seconds left and a 112-104 lead to accord them an ovation from the Kingdome crowd of 37,552. Phoenix scored six quick points to close within two points with four seconds left before Sikma was fouled and sank his clutch free throws.

"We wanted to give our guys a chance for some recognition," said Wilkens. Then he grinned and added, "My wife (Marilyn) had already told me never to do that again and I won't."

Washington Enters Final Series

Bullets Still Firing, Shoot Down San Antonio

LANDOVER, Md. (AP)- When the chips were down, Bobby Dandridge knew it was up to him to make the shot that would enable the Washington Bullets to defend their NBA championship against the Seattle SuperSonics.

"It makes you feel good that you are capable of shooting that shot," said Dandridge after the Bullets defeated the San Antonio Spurs 107-105 Friday night to win the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final series 4-3.

"I was working for the best possible shot. I knew they would try to double me if I went back into the center so I just put it up."

Dandridge, the Bullets' high scorer with 37 points, hit a 12-foot jumper from the right base line with just eight seconds left to lift Washington into the championship round against Seattle, the same team the Bullets defeated for the title in seven games a year ago.

The best-of-seven championship series opens Sunday in the Capital Centre, with Game 2 here Thursday. The following two games will be played in Seattle May 27 and May 29.

"It's a shame either team had to lose that thing," said Washington Coach Dick Motta, whose club rallied from a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit.

"They played their series good enough to win. This may have been two of my most difficult weeks in basketball."

However, San Antonio Coach Doug Moe, as he did on Wednesday, night, blasted the referees, particularly John Vanak.

"We had it and they took it away from us," he said of the referees. "The calls he (Vanak) made stole the game from us. Vanak gave them the game. Calls you just don't make, he was making for them. They took the heart out of us."

Motta said it was tough mentally being down in the series 3-1 and "in the back of your mind you know you're the better basketball team."

In winning, Washington became only the third team in the NBA's 33-year history to overcome a 3-1 deficit to win a seven-game series. The others were Boston in 1968 and Los Angeles in 1976.

Asked about the final Dandridge shot, Motta said, "Bobby had the ball and we told the rest of the guys to get out of the way. It was just what we had been doing all year long."

However, San Antonio still had time for another shot. Elvin Hayes, who had 25 points and seven blocked shots, rejected a short jumper by the Spurs' James Silas. The ball went to Larry Kenon but Dandridge stole it as the clock ran out.

"San Antonio usually goes to Silas on the last play, especially when Gervin is hot," said Dandridge, who guarded Gervin the last seven minutes. "I just fronted Gervin and tried to keep the ball away from him."

Gervin, who scored 42 points even though he was shut out in the first quarter, said simply: "It's summertime for me. It's all over. Go talk to the winners."

Gym Open At College

The Western Texas College gym will be open in June and July on a newly initiated membership plan, Coach Joe Cushing has announced.

The membership fee will be $25 per person per month, and memberships may be paid in the Athletic Department office starting on Monday.

Members must be at least 13 years of age. Each member will be issued an identification card which is to be shown at each visit, and cards are valid only for the member to whom they are issued. Members may bring guests by paying $2 for each guest at each visit. The member will be responsible for guests, and guests are to arrive and depart with the member.

Summer hours will be 11 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 2-5 p.m. on Sundays. Fridays and Saturdays will be reserved for groups wishing to schedule special activities.

Members who wish to use the racquetball court will need to reserve the court one day in advance through the Athletic office. There will be a lifeguard on duty at all times.

Regular Booster Club memberships will not cover the new summer program.

The summer schedule will begin on June 4. Persons wishing information or wishing to reserve the gym for private parties may call Cushing's office at 674-8511, extension 283 or the Athletic Department office at extension 317.

Bonnett Gives Up Indy For National

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) [illegible] yet Del.

There was also thunder and lightning around the infield hospital at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway but Danny Ongais was the only one who got wet.

In Dover, the first round [illegible] the Mello Yello 500 Grand National stock car race was rained out and rescheduled for today, the same day as qualifications for the Indianapolis 500.

Unable to do both, driver Neil Bonnett decided to bypass Indy.

"It just turned out to be a time factor," said Bonnett as he sat in the rear of his cruise truck at Dover and watched the rain fall. "I had planned to run here Sunday, qualify for Indy and skip the NASCAR World 600 at Charlotte Motor Speedway the same day as Indianapolis. Now, it looks like I'll be running at Charlotte."

At Indy, Bob Brown, a member of the crew working on Bonnett's AMC powered Spirit racer observed, "Neil was really hoping he could get one of the front row spots at Dover Friday and have all of Saturday here. Seems if anything can go wrong, it will. The only thing remaining, Brown said, was the task of naming a driver to replace Bonnett. "The car is ready," he said.

A replacement for Ongais was also discussed after Ongais flunked his driver's physical Friday. He had spent six days recuperating from a severe concussion suffered in a practice crash at the Indy Speedway May 12.

"His electroencephalogram results were deficient," said a Speedway source who asked to remain anonymous. "The doctors say the deficiency is normal after a jolt of that type for about 10 days following the accident. The doctors said he would be recovered in time for carburetion day next Thursday."

In that case, Ongais could have another driver qualify his car just as Mike Hiss did for Mario Andretti last year and Ongais could take it over Thursday and be ready to start the race in 33rd position.

Girls Softball Begins Here On Friday

Snyder Girls Softball League officially opens the 1979 season May 25. Opening ceremonies at the girls field in Towle Park will be held at 5:30 p.m.

The ceremonies will be followed by the first games of the season: the Super Sonic Aggie-ettes versus the Blue Bonnets at 6, and the Jaguars versus Sweetwater at 8.

May 26 the Hot Shots and Ghost Riders will tangle at 5:30, followed by the Blue Blazers and Green Hornets at 7 and the Dirty Dozen and Bombers at 8. Out-of-town, the Rebels and Black Panthers will face Colorado City at 5:30 and 7, respectively.

Blades Dead At Age 82

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP) - Ray Blades, who served professional baseball as a player, coach, and manager for 37 years, died at the age of 82.

Blades was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1919; and was the club's regular left fielder for four years in the mid-1920's. He managed the Cardinals to a second-place finish in 1939, and coached, managed, and scouted other teams until he retired in 1956.

Swim Classes Being Formed

Swimming classes for children and women will begin on June 4 as Community Services courses at Western Texas College.

Registration for all classes will open Monday, and continue through May 25. Persons who wish to reserve space in classes are to call the Community Services office at 573-8511, extension 240. Fees will be $30 per person.

Mrs. Jack Darby will be instructor for all the classes.

Children will be divided into two age groups. Those 7-9 years of age will meet from 9-10 a.m. and those 10-14 will meet from 10-11 a.m. All students must be at least 42 inches tall. Children's classes will run from June 4-13, a total of eight sessions, and classes will be limited to eight students.

The women's class will meet from 5:30-6:30 p.m. on Mondays from June 4-July 13. This class will be limited to 10 students.

All students are to enter through the north door nearest the swimming pool and are to come to class dressed for swimming.

Information abut the swimming courses may be obtained from the Community Services office.

Blue Hits Slump; Rangers Tumble Too

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Coming into Atlanta Stadium can mess up any pitcher's head. But Vida Blue says his was that way long before he faced the Braves Friday night.

Blue, who won his first four games for San Francisco this year, has been hit hard and his record has slipped to 6-4. Dale Murphy of Atlanta hit him the hardest with two of his three homes runs that drove in five runs and carried the Braves to a 6-4 victory over the Giants. Bob Horner also homered off Blue.

Astros 3, Padres 2

Joe Niekro's four-hitter and Jose Cruz's tie-breaking single in the eighth inning carried Houston past Rollie Finger and the Padres. Cruz got his blooper after Craig Reynolds beat out a bunt and Enos Cabell got an infield single.

"None of the three hits would have broken a pane of glass," muttered Fingers, the loser. "A bunt single, an infield hit and a broken-bat hit - put it all together and it spells 'L'."

Pirates 9, Cubs 5

Chicago, a 23-22 loser to Philadelphia on Thursday, gave up a mere nine runs to the Pirates as Willie Stargell hit a two-run homer and Dave Parker and Steve Nicosia had solo shots.

But Ken Holtzman didn't get off so easily. With the Cubs' bullpen worn out from the previous day's slugfest, he went the distance and gave up all 13 Pittsburgh hits. Chicago's Dave Kingman, who hit three homers against the Phils, got No. 13 of the year against the Bucs.

Expos 5, Phils 3

Andre Dawson capped a three-run seventh inning with a two-run homer to give the Expos their victory in Philadelphia.

Dick Ruthven was shooting for his seventh victory and, with a 3-1 lead going into the seventh, seemed to have it secured. But Ellis Valentine doubled and came around on grounders by Larry Parrish and Chris Stefer. Then Tommy Hutton got a pinch-single, Dawson got his 10th homer and Ruthven got his first loss.

Reds 7, Dodgers 6

Joe Morgan led off the Reds' ninth inning with a single, Paul Blair bunted him to second, then Dan Driessen sent him steaming home with a looping single which charging Los Angeles left fielder Dusty Baker couldn't quite handle.

The Dodgers trailed 6-2 heading into the eighth inning, then two-run homers by Bill Russell and Steve Garvey tied it.

Brewers 8, A's 0

Left-hander Bill Travers fired a three-hitter as Milwaukee beat Oakland and handed the A's their eighth straight loss. Cooper knocked in

Mariners 13, Rangers 5

Larry Cox drove in five runs with a double and a single to lead Seattle over Texas. Cox's bases-loaded double capped the Mariners' five-run sixth after his two-run single in the fifth gave Seattle the lead for good.

Seattle had 13 hits and seven walks against Steve Comer and three Ranger relief pitchers.

Savard Praised

NEW YORK (AP)-Defenseman Serge Savard of the Montreal Canadiens was named winner of the Bill Masterton Award for the 1978-79 season.

The trophy, presented by the Professional Hockey Writers Association, is named for the late Minnesota North Stars center and is given annually to the National Hockey League player who best personfies the qualities of perseverance, sportsmanship and dedication.

Al Arbour of the New York Islanders was voted winner of the Jack Adams Trophy as Coach of the Year by members of the NHL Broadcasters' Association.

Spence Weekly Fishing Report

Striped bass still led the list of catches at Lake E.V. Spence during the past week, but there were a few other varieties reported.

The stripers ranged from the intermediate to large size. There was one 22 pound yellow catfish.

Reports from concessionaires included:

Paint Creek Marina--Philip Bagley and wife of Odessa, 22-0 yellow catfish; R.D. Penny, Colorado City, five stripers and 16 channel catfish; Mary Lee Purser, Big Spring 16-0 striper; Roy Rowe, Lubbock, 16-0 striper.

Triangle Grocery--Bill and Todd Dees, Odessa, four and nine pound stripers.

Wildcat Fish A Rama--Craig Foster, Sterling City, Gary Gillihan, Big Spring, six stripers to nine pounds; Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Mashburn, Abilene, five stripers to 15-0; Wanda Gillihan, Big Spring, 11-0 striper; Gary Gillihan, Big Spring, two stripers to 8-3.

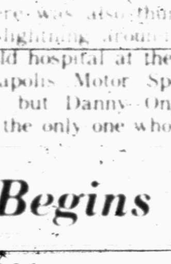
HEALTH TIP from DEAN



The prime cause of sleeplessness is stress: business pressures, job change, marital problems, bereavement, anything causing acute anxiety. Physical pain or mental depression can also cause insomnia. The elderly usually sleep fitfully if they exercise little.

A sleep inducer, L-tryptophane, a naturally occuring amino acid found in lettuce, milk, and meat is non-addictive and effective--your doctor may recommend it.

Summer Reading Course Offered

"Widen your reading," advised the National Observer in one of its editions. "It's probably the single best living thing you can do to prepare for the future."

Students who enroll for College Reading at Western Texas College can follow this advice, and will gain both short-term and long-term benefits.

The short-term gain is visible as soon as the student becomes more proficient in reading with improvements in speed and comprehension, and can complete assignments in a shorter period of time, often with improved grades.

The long-term gain accrues as the students are able to make reading an indespensible tool for the remainder of his life, reading for work-related uses or for enjoyment.

College Reading 131 will be offered for day students at WTC in the six-week summer session beginning May 31. Gerald Corkran, instructor, will help students arrange class times to fit into the students' schedule of other classes or activities. Reading 131 is especially recommended for students just beginning their college careers or for students returning to school after a time away from classroom studies.

Persons wishing information about WTC reading courses may contact Corkran in the Learning Resource Center or call his office at 573-8511, extension 249. Registration for summer classes will be held on May 30.

Driving Course Schedule Set

A Defensive Driving course will be offered through the Community Services department of Western Texas College in classes meeting May 22 and 29.

Dr. James Palmer will be instructor for the course, which will meet from 6:30-10:30 p.m. on both nights in room 101 of the Learning Resource Center. Fees will be $12 per person and may be paid at the first class meeting.

Persons who complete the course are entitled to discounts on several types of automobile insurance. Information about the course may be obtained by calling the Community Services office at 573-8511, extension 240.

Hereford Groups Plan Auction Here

Four registered Hereford associations will join in their Second Annual Blue Ribbon Hereford Female Sale here Monday.

The auction will begin at 1 p.m. in the agriculture-livestock complex on the Scurry County Coliseum grounds.

Consigning animals to the sale are members of the West Texas Hereford Association, the Sweetwater Area Hereford Association, the Anxiety 4th Hereford Association and the Howard County Hereford Association.

Offerings will include 62 bred and open heifers.

Sewing And Giving Are Joy To Lucille Bynum

By GARNET QUIETT

Sewing has been a dominant factor in the life of Lucille (Mrs. Jodie) Bynum, and it still is.

Long known as an excellent seamstress, she observed her 75th birthday Thursday, and like the Biblical Dorcas, she makes and gives garments to the needy and the aged.

"I have no idea how many garments I have made and given away," Mrs. Bynum said. "I get more joy from giving to the needy than sewing for myself."

Mrs. Bynum recalls that during the depression years, she sewed to help make the living. She was hired by a woman who sewed for the public. Her husband was a carpenter and was unemployed much of the time, due to the lack of demand for his trade.

One morning, she discovered that there was no food in the house. There would be nothing for supper when she came home from work and there was no money.

When she reported for work, her employer told her, "If some customers pick up their garments and pay me today, I will be able to pay you. If not, I won't."

"No customers called, so I had no money to buy food," Mrs. Bynum said. "I started walking home with a heavy heart, wondering if Jodie had been paid today.

"I was nearing the bridge on Deep Creek when I saw something shiny sticking out of the ashes where city workers had burned trash when they cleaned out the bridge. It was a half dollar!

LUCILLE BYNUM

"I took it and went to the grocery store. I bought a loaf of day-old bread for five cents a pound of bologna, two cans of milk for two cents each, and 10 pounds of Irish potatoes. I had a sack full of groceries! I continued on my way home, thanking the Lord for providing our supper.

Mrs. Bynum worked at the J.C. Penney store from 1939 until 1949.

In 1948, her husband suffered a heart attack. He was unable to work and was ill until his death in 1960.

Snyder had an oil boom during his illness, and Mrs. Bynum decided to borrow money and put in a fabric store in 1953.

Though her husband objected at first, he was soon enjoying the store because of meeting his friends there.

"It was the best therapy he could have had," she remarked.

Her store was The House of Fabrics, on the east side of the Snyder Square. It proved to be a prosperous business, for she knew fabrics and was an astute business woman. She loved people and liked to please her customers.

Ill health caused her to sell the store and retire in 1976. After she came home from the hospital, she would sew for others.

Mrs. Bynum makes beautiful quilt tops from scraps of material left from cutting out garments. She "tacks" the quilts and gives them away.

When Scurry County celebrated its 100th anniversary, the Pins and Needle Club gave away a beautiful quilt and Mrs. Bynum won it.

Mrs. Bynum has taught a woman's Sunday School Class in the First Baptist Church in Snyder for many years. Her class grew until the pastor suggested that she start another class. She agreed, and started another class with four members. They called the new class "The Dorcas Sunday School Class." She still teaches the class, which now has 26 members.

She likes to write and belong to The Snyder Writer's Guild and The Scurry County Poetry Society. She is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

She and her husband had two children, a son, Brady Bynum, who lives in Snyder with his wife, Elaine, and daughter, Sharon, and a daughter, Joselle. Mrs. Frank Burks, who passed away in 1956, leaving an 8-year-old son. Mr. and Mrs. Bynum reared the grandson, Kirk, who now lives in Houston.

Mrs. Bynum concluded, "Kirk told me recently that he used to think I was 'an old square,' but now that he is older, he finds himself thinking more and more like me!"

Mall Plans Moving Ahead

Planning work still is underway on the Snyder Mall, according to reports from Ainbinder Associates at the end of the week.

Alan Smith, who is in charge of the project, said that planning to meet specific needs of prospective tenants is requiring more time than expected earlier. There had been some rumors that the project here had been shelved, but Smith said the mall plans definitely are continuing.

Uncertainties associated with the nation's general economic picture do make it difficult to project leasing guidelines for months ahead, Smith said, but all problems are expected to be worked out, possibly within the next five or six months.

Maple Syrup Plentiful

WASHINGTON (AP) - Maple syrup lovers should be able to find all they want this year. But they may have to pay more for it, and some of it might not be quite as tasty as usual.

The Agriculture Department reported Friday that maple syrup production this year was up 6 percent over 1978. The average price paid producers also was up from $12.90 a gallon to $14.30. And Agriculture Department officials said the quality of the syrup from New England states was "below normal and the color was medium to dark."

April's Beef Rise Smallest

WASHINGTON (AP) - Retail beef prices rose 3.1 percent in April, but it was the smallest increase of the year, according to new government figures.

Also, the Agriculture Department said Friday, retail pork prices dropped an average of 4 percent last month. That was the sharpest drop in pork prices in about two and a half years.

Farmers have stepped up hog production this year and their market prices have dropped sharply.

But the beef supply depends on much longer breeding and growth cycles for cattle and it will be several years before production is able to match demand again.

The April decline was the second in a row for retail pork prices, following a dip of 0.1 percent in March. According to department records, the 4 percent drop was the sharpest since retail pork prices dropped 5.9 percent in Nov. 1976.

Prices of U.S. Choice-grade beef averaged a record of almost $2.33 a pound on an all-cut basis in April, compared to slightly less than $2.26 in March.

Last December, beef averaged less than $1.97 a pound and then rose 5.8 percent to almost $2.05 in January, 5.1 percent to more than $2.15 in February, and 4.9 percent to about $2.26 in March.

Compared with $1.76 a year earlier, the April price of $2.33 a pound was up by 32.3 percent.

The all-cut April average of pork in retail stores was slightly less than $1.51 a pound, down from almost $1.57 in March and more than $1.57 in February. The all-time high for pork was more than $1.58 a pound in Oct. 1975.

Average farm prices of U.S. Choice-grade steers, which are used in the analysis, were $75.60 per 100 pounds in April, compared to $71.96 in March and $53.12 a year earlier, the report said.

Hog prices, however, dropped to an April average of $45.11 per 100 pounds from $49.19 in March and $54.32 in February. In April of last year they were $46.04 per hundredweight.

Senior Center Planning 'Get Acquainted Week'

Music, a visit from Edith and Archie and square dancing will highlight Get Acquainted Week activities in the Scurry County Senior Citizens Center from Monday through Friday.

May is Senior Citizens Month in Texas and locally, and Get Acquainted Week has been planned specifically to encourage all residents of Scurry County to be aware of Senior Citizen activities.

"Get Acquainted Week is filled with entertainment and opportunities to get acquainted," Gloria Shaw, Senior Center director, says. "We want all our Senior Citizens to come to the Center and to bring someone 60 or over along to share in the fun and fellowship the Center offers."

The series of special programs will be presented at 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday before the noon meal is served. The schedule is as follows:

Monday - Sunshine Choir of Senior Citizens.

Tuesday - RSVP Kitchen Band.

Wednesday - Archie and Edith will argue over a trip to the Center.

Thursday - Promenaders Square Dancers.

Friday - Snyder High School singing group, The Swingers.

The center opens at 8:30 a.m. each weekday, and regularly scheduled activities include table games each day. Monday activities also include an exercise class; quilting and square dancing. Tuesday's special is domino games following lunch, and the exercise class. On Wednesday, quilting and knitting are featured with the exercise class. Thursday offers instruction in an afternoon crafts class and square dancing. On Friday, blood pressures are checked and the Senior Center choir holds its rehearsal at 1 p.m.

Senior Citizens who would like to know more about the Senior Center are invited to visit it any weekday during its regular hours, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The center is at 2603 Avenue M and may be entered from the east or the west. Senior Citizens who need transportation to the center may call Mrs. Shaw's office at 573-0104.

A Senior Citizens Fun Fest will climax Senior Citizens Month on June 2, and tickets for the barbecue planned on that date are available at the Center or may be obtained by calling the director's office. The Fun Fest is planned as a fund raiser for the Center and will provide varied activities for family entertainment.

GET ACQUAINTED WEEK--County Judge Preston Wilson affixes his signature to a proclamation designating May 21-25 Get Acquainted Week in the Scurry County Senior Citizens Center as Gloria Shaw, Center director, and Dr. James Tully, Senior Center Project Director. The special week is intended to call attention to the facilities and activities of the Senior Center.

Saturday Class Is Set In Psychology'

A unique Saturday only summer class in general psychology is being planned by Dr. Joe Reaves beginning June 2.

Especially designed for students attending other colleges and for those who work through the week, the course meets the requirements for general or introductory psychology at any college or university, and is an excellent elective for those not majoring in psychology. For high school graduates planning to enroll in college in the fall, it is a good exposure to college level course work without the pressure of a full semester load.

By utilizing taped lectures of each chapter, class time is cut sufficiently to allow the once-a-week format. The tapes can be checked out for home use. Class meeting time will be from 9 a.m. to 1:10 p.m., with class times divided between lectures, class discussion and audio-visual materials.

Registration for this course (Psychology 231) will be held on May 30 from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1-4:30 p.m.

Spotlight On Schools...

Pupil Talent Enhanced By Activities At East

Editor's Note—This is another in a series of articles prepared for the Scurry County Teachers Association and written by Snyder teachers.

The sun shines first on East Elementary and the happiness of students and faculty makes that sun shine even more brightly. Happiness is contagious, and this happiness disease is caught by everyone at East.

Happiness was running rampant on April 2, as the East Elementary Talent Show was presented. The talented abilities of students brought sunshine in nighttime to the audience. The East Elementary PTA worked very hard to present this program, and it was a grand success. The "Smiling Face" award for April went to the PTA and participating students.

The biggest light for April was the major theater production, "Peter Pan." It was presented by the first and second grades. There were two performances given for the parents, students, and teachers. These children brought rays of sunshine through singing, acrobatics, dramatization, and rhythmic movements. When the vocabulary of a first or second grader includes "Scene I, Act II," "stage left," "dim the lights," and "curtain," it is indeed a learning experience. Teachers and parents contributed the spark for this activity, and the music teacher lit the fuse.

The sixth grade choir worked diligently on its part for the all-elementary school choir program, "Six Flags Over Texas," presented April 24th.

Another activity that created some lights of knowledge and happiness for some students and teachers was a chance to make some field trips to some businesses in Snyder. The teachers are taking a college course from Texas Tech, and the field trips were made after school hours. All were extremely pleased to see how welcome they were as they invaded these places of business. Sometimes the sun was almost down by the time they got home.

The resource room also produces many bright spots for some students. It is equipped to assist children that have been identified as learning or language disabled. Children are taught to overcome their weakness by use of training in visual or auditory techniques. Some children can learn if they can see a word or problem, while others can learn by hearing sounds, words, or numbers. Sometimes there is a child who has difficulty writing what he hears or what is said. There are many exercises children use to overcome these handicaps. There is repetition in the student's work, but it is done by the use of various methods. Some methods used are: Systems 80, Language Master, tape recorder, Dukane machine, and different reading series and skills from the regular classroom. The classes in the resource room are small with each student working on an individualized basis. Some children stay 20 minutes each day, while others may stay as long as one and one half hours. The resource room serves 24 students each day.

Each class at East puts on at least one program a year. This really brings sunshiny faces on the stage of the auditorium and happy expressions on the faces of the audience. A sixth grade class is working on a program written by the teacher. The children in the class will make or acquire all the props needed. The rest of the school is looking forward to another great production.

Also, in one of the sixth grade math classes, the students' work at their own pace. Several of them have completed the sixth grade math book and mastered the final test. These students are now working in the seventh grade math book.

In the P.E. classes, kids sometimes have awfully sun-colored faces from being outdoors. Physical fitness tests have been given to fourth, fifth, and sixth grades. These tests are the National Physical Fitness Test. True, there were some tongues hanging out and some glum faces. The third graders are involved in a pre-fitness test. This will help them understand what will be expected of them in the years to come in physical education classes. In grades K-3 a physical education skills development program is being used to increase physical skills and stamina in the younger children. During the Canyon Reef Relays, some of the Snyder elementary school's sixth graders participated in a special 440 yard relay. The boys placed fourth, and the girls were first.

Another ray of sunshine is the Prescriptive Reading Inventory program, started in the fall of 1977. Marked improvement has been shown on percentages of mastery. There is now a 75-80 percent mastery overall on the tests. This is very good, considering a student must make 80 to master a test. This news most certainly brings sunshine into lives of students, teachers, and especially the principal.

The PTA gets another "Smiling Face" for the playground equipment they purchased and painted. It adds color to the playground and gives the children lots of fun.

WTC Student Selected By Stock Troupe

A Western Texas College thespian, Darrell Hayes of Caldwell, has been selected to be a part of the summer stock troupe of Mankato State University in Mankato, Minnesota.

The summer stock company will be made up of 12 actors and actresses and eight technical people. The group has been selected on the basis of recommendations, interviews and-or auditions, and they receive free tuition and fees for 12 quarter hours of college credit work.

The company will open the summer season with the production of "Mousetrap" from June 22-24. "Amorour Flea" and "Little Murders" will follow with "Boyfriend" to close the season with shows from Aug. 8-12. Rehearsals for the first production begin June 9.

Hayes has just completed his freshman year at WTC and was recognized as the Outstanding Freshman Drama Student at the spring Awards Day. He won numerous drama awards as a student at Caldwell High School and received a drama scholarship to WTC.

Hayes portrayed The Tailor in WTC's final production of the season, "Greensleeves' Magic," and also worked with the technical crew. In the dinner theatre production of "Never Too Late," Hayes appeared as the neighborhood policeman and was stage manager and master of props.

Hayes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Owens of Caldwell.

James Madison (1751-1836), fourth president of the United States, and Zachary Taylor (1784-1850), 12th president, were second cousins-both men having the same grandfather, James Taylor.

Yearbooks Fall From The Sky

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP)--Students at Dodge City High School got their yearbooks special delivery -- via a Kansas National Guard helicopter.

The students were dismissed from school just after lunch Thursday and told to report to the high school stadium, where the chopper landed and the books were unloaded to the surprise of the 1,000 students.

Capt. Harley Krull, a spokesman for the Kansas adjutant general's office, said the flight allowed the Guard to participate in a recruiting drive and fly Guardsmen to a planning conference.

Drull said the Guard had fuel problems like the rest of the state, but justified the trip by its dual mission.

The United Nations predicts Mexico City will be the world's most populous urban area in the year 2000, with a population of 31 million.

Some Judges May Soon Bar Reporters, Public

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court will soon rule that judges may bar the public and news reporters from some courtroom proceedings, ABC news is reporting in an apparent new breach of the court's traditional secrecy.

Network correspondent Tim O'Brien reported Friday the high court has decided to uphold a New York judge's decision to close a pretrial hearing on the use of evidence in a Rochester-area murder case.

The report gave no information as to the court's reasoning in the as-yet-unreleased decision.

That reasoning, as spelled out in a majority ruling, would be important since the central issue in the free-press and fair-trial case is not whether judges ever may bar the public and reporters, but rather what standards should apply if judges choose to use such discretion.

Lawyers for the Gannett News Co., which challenged the New York judge's ouster of one of its reporters from the pretrial hearing, have not argued that all judges should be stripped of their power to close some court proceedings. But the news organization said judges should have to provide advance notice of their action and provide reporters or members of the public a chance to challenge the need for holding proceedings in secret.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association and the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press urged the justices to rule that no portion of a criminal proceeding may be closed to the public unless holding it in open court "will pose a clear and present danger to the administration of justice."

Stuart A. Dunham, an executive of Gannett Rochester Newspapers, which operates Gannett's two dailies in that city, said Friday night, "If the ABC report is accurate, the decision is a setback for the whole process of providing information to the public about how the court, the police and the defense counsel operate.

"Because a large number of criminal cases are decided without trial, it is very important for the public to be able to observe pretrial hearings," said Dunham, editorial chairman of the firm.

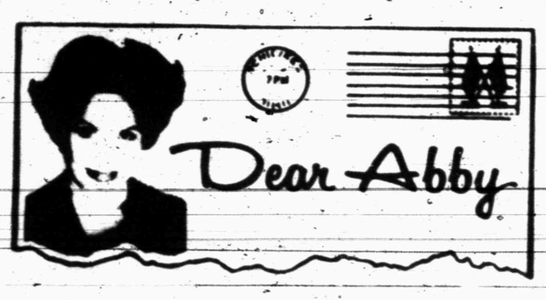
It was O'Brien who reported correctly last month that the court would rule that public figures suing for libel may inquire into a journalist's "state of mind" and the editorial process.

His report was aired days before the court's decision was made public. O'Brien's report also accurately stated that Justice Byron R. White would write the libel decision.

Such premature "leaks" of court decisions are extremely rare, and O'Brien's report last month led to Chief Justice Warren E. Burger dismissing a government printer from the court's print shop.

The printer, who denied being O'Brien's source of information, subsequently was reassigned by the Government Printing Office.

The new ABC report said Justice Potter Stewart will be a dissenter in the case. No mention was made of how the court's eight other justices would vote.



79, He's Still A Sexygenarian

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: After 51 years of marriage, our father has left our mother! They've had their fights over the years but we never thought it would come to this.

Dad left mother for a 48-year-old nurse he met six years ago when he was in the hospital for a prostate operation.

Now that this has come out, everybody is saying they knew about dad and this nurse all along. Dad is 79 and mother is 77. Mother is so humiliated that she hasn't been out of the house since dad left.

What do you think of this mess? How can we get dad to come to his senses and come back to mother? It's the talk of the town.

DISGRACED IN LONG ISLAND

DEAR DISGRACED: Stay out of it. And you needn't feel "disgraced." A person can disgrace only himself."

DEAR ABBY: Do all marriages go stale after 25 years? Ours has. My husband and I don't seem to have much to talk to each other about anymore. We used to talk about our kids, but now that they're grown and gone, we're out of conversation.

I have no major complaint, Abby, but the old excitement is gone. We watch a lot of television and read, and we do have friends, but when we're alone together it's dull. We even sleep in separate bedrooms now.

Is there some way to recapture that old magic? I don't expect him to chase me around the bedroom like he did 20 years ago, but we're much too young for rocking chairs.

We still love each other, but . . .

THE SONG HAS ENDED.

DEAR SONG: I highly recommend MARRIAGE ENCOUNTER. It's a weekend course in how to revitalize a ho-hum marriage. It first came to my attention when several enthusiastic readers (some married over 40 years!) wrote to tell me that the experience had improved their marriages enormously!

I checked it out and found it to be a legitimate, church-sponsored program. Nothing kinky or far out. For more information, inquire at your church or synagogue.

DEAR ABBY: Among my acquaintances is a 66-year-old widow who has suddenly announced that a "distant cousin" has come from Canada to live with her.

She claims he is her age (he looks much younger) and recently lost his wife.

This friend says she feels much more secure with a man in the house. She owns her own home, they drive her car, and all he seems to do is drive her around and help with the household chores. She claims they share expenses, but I heard from a reliable source that her bills are still paid by HER personal check.

Her home has only two bedrooms. One she had converted into a sewing room. After her "cousin" moved in, I noticed that the sewing room is still a sewing room, which means they both share her bedroom.

When people ask if they have plans for marriage, she laughs and says, "We are cousins!"

What do you make of this setup?

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: I think every 66-year-old widow should be so lucky. Now, what's YOUR problem?

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Cumba's Sets Child Care For Summer

Cumba's Little Schoolhouse Day Care will offer a summer child care program here beginning Monday, June 4.

The regular school program will be dismissed for the summer on June 1 and resumed in the fall when the public schools begin their fall term.

The summer program will consist of planned activities, with field trips, picnics, arts and crafts. It will be offered at the regular rates and will include balanced meals and snacks. Parents may register their children by calling 573-0526, 573-2286, or 573-9665, or they may come by the school at 2505 Avenue W.

Improper laundry techniques may gradually accumulate on a garment and go unnoticed until after the seventh or eighth laundry, reports Becky Culp, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Insurance Women Meet

Members of the Insurance Women's Association of Snyder met at Snyder Savings and Loan Association community Room on May 14, at 7 p.m. for their regular monthly meeting. Betty Sneed and Charlotte Seay were hostesses. Nine members were present and one new member, Marsha Levens from the Snyder Insurance Agency, was welcomed to the club.

Charlotte Seay called the meeting to order. Pat Mayes introduced the speaker, Lealand (Pete) Greene, District Attorney from Snyder. Greene spoke on the procedures of obtaining a drivers license that has been revoked and the insurance agents involvement in the assistance of the correct filings with the state. He also commented on problems involving the different types of crimes committed and the effect on society.

Charlotte Seay read a thank-you note from Debbie Miller, President of the Lubbock Insurance Women's Association. She expressed their enjoyment for the recent banquet-installation that was attended by the Lubbock Association.

Margie Glasscock was appointed chairman for scheduling a bake sale to be held June 2. Plans were made to sell tickets on a selected item and Virginia Williams was appointed chairman for this project.

The Lubbock Insurance Women requested for the local club to select a "Boss of the Year" from the resumes presented. A plaque will be presented to the selected recipient.

During the summer months there will be no program and the next scheduled meeting will be a noon luncheon.

Dolls On Display

DETROIT (AP)—A special exhibit of black dolls dating back to the 1830s was on display at the Detroit Historical Museum recently.

The 50 dolls in the exhibit were from the collection of Myla Perkins of Detroit, who began her hobby about 10 years ago.

Many were handmade around the turn of the century by a Georgia craftsman named Leo Moss, who was commissioned to make both black and white dolls. Quite a few of his black dolls are shown crying but according to Mrs. Perkins, no one knows why.

Cottage cheese is soft unripened cheese that comes in three styles: cottage cheese, dry curd, cottage cheese, and lowfat cottage cheese.

Cottage cheese must have a milkfat content of at least four percent, says Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Hall, Parks Vows Exchanged

Tina Louise Hall and Eddie Frank Parks repeated double ring vows at 7 p.m. March 12 at the Colonial Hill Baptist Church. Officiating was pastor of the church, Rev. Miller Robinson.

Mrs. Emmitt Hall, 602 34th, is the mother of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Parks, Fluvanna, are parents of the groom.

The bride was presented in marriage by her brother-in-law, Hamp Yearwood. The bridal gown was of candlelight satin overlaid with organza. The bodice featured a lace fitted collar with lace medallion seeded with pearls and a scoop neckline outlined with lace applique. Organza formed the fitted sleeves with lace applique at the wrists. The skirt had an inset of pleated organza and the scalloped Chantilly lace front flared to form a chapel train. Her veil of candlelight tulle fell in tiers from the band of organza roses that formed the bride's headpiece.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of apricot silk roses, daisies and baby's breath on top of a white Bible.

The bride's dress and veil, fashioned by her mother and Dorothy Dortch, were new. Something borrowed was the white Bible belonging to her sister, something blue was her garter, and something old was a pair of pearl earrings, belonging to her sister. Pennies minted in the dates of the bride's and groom's birth were placed in the bride's shoe.

MR. AND MRS. EDDIE FRANK PARKS

Long stemmed apricot roses were given to the mothers. The bride's and groom's parents lit two candles from which the bride and groom lit the memory candle.

Laura Tiner of Hammond, La., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Carla Henderson, Nena Melton, Donna Isaacs of Fluvanna, sister of the groom, and Teresa Yearwood, sister of the bride. They wore formal length gowns of apricot Qiana gathered at the neckline on a front buttoned yoke. Wide brimmed picture hats with lace bands and apricot silk daisies completed their outfits. Each carried a nosegay of apricot silk daisies, entwined with baby's breath.

Bubba Dennis was best man. Groomsmen were D.M. Parks, brother of the groom from Fluvanna, Tommy Patterson, Danny McCormack and Tony Isaacs of Fluvanna, brother-in-law of the groom. They wore bamboo tuxedos with chocolate vests.

Michael Hall, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. His tuxedo was identical to the groomsmen. Shelly White of Post, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. Her formal length dress was of ecru lace, with a sash tied in back. Her hat was like the bridesmaids'. Deann Parks of Fluvanna, niece of the groom, was honor flower girl. Both carried wicker baskets accented with apricot bows.

Ushers were Eddie Thompson, cousin of the groom, Joe Hall, cousin of the bride, Duane Cox of Lubbock, Roy Chisum of Jayton, cousin of the groom, and David Yearwood. Daniel Chasteen and Steven Lee, both cousins of the bride, were candlelighters.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length A-line dress of yellow lace brocade knit. The groom's mother was attired in a formal length peach chiffon dress with a matching capelet.

A heart shaped candelabrum, flanked by two spiral candelabra entwined with ivy decorated the altar. Family pew markers were large apricot bows and hurricane lamps.

Helen Vaughn presented piano music and accompanied Lynnette Jones of Lamesa as she sang "If" and Miss Jones and Glenda Vaughn as they sang "I Take Thee My Dear."

The fellowship hall was the setting for the reception following the ceremony. A three tiered cake with apricot roses and apricot wedding bells on top accented the bride's table. Tollie Ramsey made and designed the cake. Lynn Chasteen of Austin and Lori Chasteen of Sweetwater, both cousins of the bride, presided at the bride's table.

A chocolate cake decorated with the family brand, Circle Bar, and a heifer's head, was the groom's cake. Presiding at the groom's table were Netta Jarrett, Mary Ann Howell, Sheila Chisum, Nell Parks and Denise Parks.

Jacque Chasteen, cousin of the bride, registered guests as they arrived.

As the couple left for a two week trip to California and Hawaii, the bride wore an apricot pantsuit fashioned by her mother.

The bride is a 1979 graduate of Snyder High School and the groom is a 1977 graduate of Borden County High School. Following the trip, the couple will reside in Fluvanna where the groom is engaged in ranching.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at The Shack.

Out of town guests for the wedding were from Sweetwater, Lubbock, O'Donnell, Jayton, Post, San Angelo, Lamesa, Austin, Hammond, La., and Ruidoso, N.M.

Pope To Ordain Ex-Classmate

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A one-time classmate of Pope John Paul II, the Rev. Msgr. W. Thomas Larkin, 56, is to be ordained a bishop by the pope May 27, to become head of the diocese of St. Petersburg.

As young priests, Larkin and the pope-to-be had lived together at the Belgium College in Rome, while completing their doctorates at the Dominican Angelicum University.

Larkin, pastor of St. Cecilia Church in Clearwater and also diocesan administrator since the death of Bishop Charles B. McLaughlin last December, was picked by the pope to become the new head of the diocese.

It is the first time in more than 50 years that the diocese has had a local pastor chosen to head it, to the delight of its laity and clergy.

More than 300 of them are flying to Rome for the ceremony.

BLANCHE'S BLABS

By BLANCHE CHISUM
Scurry County Extension Agent

Scurry County will be having a special Food Preservation Workshop to be held on Thursday, May 24, in the Snyder Savings and Loan Community Room 2-4 p.m. Two guest speakers will be in Snyder to present information concerning food drying techniques, proper use of the pressure canner, and I will be giving a program concerning "water bath canning."

I am certain this season will bring a good harvest from gardens so be prepared with the latest methods of putting food by. Come to the Food Preservation Workshop on Thursday, May 24, in the Snyder Savings and Loan Community Room at 2 p.m.

Home Food Preservation Plan

Do you plan to preserve some of your family food supply at home?

Do you know how much you want to preserve? When should you start planning? A good time to start planning for fruits and vegetables is before the harvest season starts, whether you grow your own food or plan to buy it.

Consider the amount of freezer space you have whether it is a chest type, upright or a part of your refrigerator. If your freezer space is limited, you may want to preserve part of the food your family needs by canning. Consider the jars and other canning supplies which you have on hand. Will you need to purchase some new supplies? (Remember you can reuse undamaged jars and rings but always replace used lids.)

And how much space do you have for storage of canned foods? Do you need to consider adding some new cabinet or shelf space for these extra canned foods?

Be ready for the season and preserve the foods at the peak of quality and when they are plentiful or lowest in price.

With good planning you can stretch your family food dollar by preserving some of your food at home and assuring your family of garden fresh foods the year round. This can help you to provide your family with the needed food nutrients for good health.

Ceremony Weds Couple

MRS. DENNIS RAY LASTER

Cynthia Ann Manning and Dennis Ray Laster were united in marriage Saturday, May 12, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Baptist Church in Clarendon. Rev. Dale Cain, minister of the Calvary Baptist Church in Lubbock, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Manning of Weatherford. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Laster of Dunn.

Triple branched candelabra bearing tall white tapers, decorated the altar. A floral arrangement of white blossoms embellished the center one and greenery completed the decoration on the two flanking candelabra. Large potted ferns were placed on either side.

The bride was escorted by her father to the pew, where her mother rose and joined them as they continued to the altar where the parents of the groom joined in. There, the respective parents gave their children in marriage.

Jessie Adams, organist, provided prenuptial music. "Annie's Song," a vocal duet by Terry and Jennifer Scoggin was sung while the ushers lit the candles. Terry Scoggin sang "My Tribute" and Jim Laster, brother of the bridegroom from Dora, N.M. sang "The Wedding Prayer" following the ceremony. The bride and groom lit the unity candle at the end of the wedding ceremony.

The bride chose a gown of sheer white silk organza, fashioned with a V neckline, tapered waist and long full sleeves. The dress skirt fell to a sweep of cathedral train from back fullness. Wide bands of embroidered lace with dainty scallops edged the neckline and was appliqued across the shoulders and waist front with pearl detailing at the waistline. The same lace was appliqued on the deep cuffs and around the skirt hem. Pearls were embroidered at the neck and cuffs which were fastened with satin covered buttons.

Following tradition, the bride wore a blue garter, her wedding dress was new, she borrowed a slip and for something old she carried a handkerchief of her great grandmother's. She carried a sixpence in her shoe.

For her bouquet, the bride carried a nosegay of white and yellow silk roses with baby's breath. The satin streamers were tied in love knots.

Mrs. Don (Susan) Manning, sister-in-law of the bride from Amarillo, was matron of honor and Cheryl Brewer of Dalhart was bridesmaid. They wore identical floor length dresses of blue print pleated chiffon, and carried bouquets of long stemmed silk roses.

Johnny Dollar of Miami was best man and Bill Laster of Abilene, brother of the groom, was groomsman. Ushers were Ronny Laster of Fort Worth, brother of the groom, Gary Carey of Big Spring, and Don Manning of Amarillo, brother of the bride. All of the attendants wore black tuxedos, white shirts and yellow silk boutonnieres.

The fellowship hall at the First Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding reception following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a cloth of white net and satin and centered with a floral arrangement of daisies and spring garden flowers. Table appointments were of silver and crystal.

The three tiered wedding cake was white and decorated with a cascades of yellow roses. It was topped with a trio of white wedding bells, tied with ribbon and lace. Yellow punch was served from a crystal punch bowl.

The groom's table was centered with a picture of the bride. Chocolate cake and coffee were served from a silver service. During the reception, Sherilan Walker provided music.

Joyce Shippi of Hereford, Jean Chandler of Wellington, Sharron Olden and Vicki Ellis of Lubbock alternated at the serving table. Included in the houseparty were Kim Formway and Kristen Walker of Clarendon. Debbie Cooper of Amarillo presided at the guest book.

For her traveling costume, the bride selected an ensemble of peach skirt and vest with bone accessories.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mex., the couple will be at home at 2450 Glendale, Abilene.

Mrs. Laster was graduated from Wheeler High School and Texas Tech University with a B.S. in Home Education. Prior to her marriage she was employed by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Clarendon as a County Extension Agent, Home Economics.

Dennis Ray Laster graduated from Snyder High School, San Angelo State University in San Angelo and is the local manager of West Texas Utilities Company in Abilene.

Out of town guests were from Lawton, Okla., Tucumcari, N.M., Wheeler, Colorado City, Lubbock, Amarillo, Snyder, Dallas, Dimmitt and Hermleigh.

Walker, Bridges Wed In Ceremony

Loretta Nell Walker became the bride of Melvin Glenn Bridges in a double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church May 12 in Junction.

The Rev. Sam Coffey officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walker of Junction and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bridges of Hermleigh.

The bride was attired in a white on white sleeveless Qiana dress. Her floor length gown had a fitted waistline and fabric ruffle at the neckline and hemline. She wore a long veil of bridal illusion attached to a headdress of silk flowers and pearls.

Pam Walker was maid of honor. Carla Walker and Frankie Walker were bridesmaids. All are sisters of the bride. The maid of honor wore a floor length gown of burgundy Qiana with a blouson bodice. The bridesmaid's dresses were pink Qiana fashioned like the maid of honor's.

Todd Humphrees and Amanda Riley were ring bearers.

Serving the groom as best man was Larry Nachlinger. Randy McMillian and Larry Bridges, brother of the groom, were groomsmen. Seating guests were Jimmy Hudgins and Glen Jones.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Mrs. Bill Hardin, the bride's aunt, organized the reception. Serving at the bride's table were Lindy Williams and Sherran Rowe. The three tiered cake was decorated in the bride's chosen colors of pink and burgundy.

Pat Hudgins and Belinda Bridges, sister of the groom, served cake and coffee from silver appointments at the groom's table.

Felicia Ann Sparks passed out rice filled satin roses from a basket.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Junction High School and a senior at Angelo State University majoring in physical education.

The groom is a 1974 graduate of Hermleigh High School and is engaged in farming.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Hermleigh.

Narrower Ties Now The Fashion Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Ties and shirt collars, those barometers of change in men's fashion, are continuing to read narrower and shorter for spring, Father's Day and beyond, according to Gerald Andersen, executive director of the Neckwear Association of America.

"A whole new fashion element has been added this season," he says, "with the focus in men's wear concentrating on the new variety of shirt collars being offered."

Likewise, narrower neckties continue to be in the fashion forefront, as new widths and fabric variations have been introduced to round out the picture, he adds.

"Men are demonstrating greater flexibility in constructing their wardrobes," Andersen points out. "They are more likely today to wear several different shirt collar styles depending on the occasion. Selecting the appropriate neckwear to complement this new variety takes on a new dimension."

The big news in men's spring shirts is the smaller collar offered in a variety of shapes, for both formal and relaxed wear. Similarly, in neckwear there are two attitudes, a very dressed-up classic look and a new casual look which involves the wearing of ties, Andersen says.

As the length of collars shortens, style trends indicate there's apt to be a narrowing of tie widths. In the past two years ties have gone from 4½ inches to the present mainstream look for spring of 3¼ inches, the association's analysis of neckwear markets around the country shows. Fashion-conscious or avantgarde men will be sporting ties as narrow as 2 inches.

Spring tie fashions emphasize a vareity of textures. Rough silks, nubby cottons and cotton knits are some of the new fabric looks being offered. Combine these textured looks, and patterns such as warm plaids, with the less formal collar styles, the straight point and button-down.

With some of the more dressed-up collar styles, the spread, type and round-point collars, men will need to coordinate their shirts with more classical neckwear. Classic neats, Andersen says, are a very important look for spring, with colors running more toward the brighter hues than in previous years.

Neckwear worn with sports shirts is also becoming a most important fashion look for men. A paisley, neat or rough-textured solid tie will best complement plaid and check shirts.

Group Plans Activities

The Tejas CowBelles met May 8 at Furr's Cafeteria in Big Spring with Bobbie Nix presiding.

Plans for beef for Father's Day campaign were finalized. A contest for King for a Day will be held with the winner receiving a beef gift certificate again this year. Rules for the contest will be announced later.

The members were urged by Mrs. Nix to remind the public that brand napkins are still available and can be purchased from any member.

Lunch was served to Mrs. Nix, Mrs. Sterling, Mrs. Lucille Sterling, Mrs. Gerald Marie Wallace, Mrs. Attie Mae Henderson, Mrs. Sue Guelker, Mrs. Jean Everett, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Jeanne Bullard, Mrs. Martha Huddleston and Mrs. Gloria Griffin.

Altrurians Have Program On Hawaii

The Altrurian Club met recently at Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. A.C. Alexander as hostess.

Mrs. Travis Rhoades presented a program on Hawaii. Three different occasions took Mrs. Rhoades to Hawaii. Delta Kappa Gamma conventions in 1959 and 1965 afforded many insights into the islands that most tourists are not privileged to see. In 1970 a fellowship grant gave her two weeks study at the University of Hawaii.

President Mrs. C.C. Miller presided at the business meeting. She reminded members the last meeting for this club year will be May 25. Mrs. Frank Whistler will present a book review and Mrs. W.P. King will be hostess.

Doomed Owl Gets Reprieve

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) —Spokane's fledgling zoo has a new resident - Charlie the great horned owl. And he's lucky to be there.

Children in a South Hall neighborhood had trained the young owl to sit on their arms and eat - until Tuesday, when one child got frightened and turned his back on the incoming owl. Charlie crash-landed on the boy's back and scratched him.

Washington Department of Game regulations require that wild animals involved in such incidents be captured or destroyed within 24 hours.

But Dawn Vellucci, a zoo volunteer, Wednesday captured Charlie so his friends could visit him at the zoo.

"I was expecting the game warden any minute," said the relieved Ms. Vellucci.

One of the classic old stories concerned the expert in finding lost horses who said, "I just try to decide where I would go if I were a horse."

South plays a low spade from dummy at trick one. East plays the 10. South wins and promptly loses the diamond finesse.

East returns a club to West's ace and now West leads the jack of spades. South knows West is smart enough to lead the jack from king-jack and it is up to South to decide just what he has done. If West started with five spades to the jack, a duck will hold the defense to four tricks. If he started with four to the jack, the hand is hopeless. If West had led from king-jack the play of the queen will let South make 11 tricks. The play of a low spade will lead to loss of game and rubber.

Percentage favors rising with the queen, but let's go back to the story about the horse.

South thinks like East. If East had not been dealt the king of spades, he would surely have led back a spade when he got in with the king of diamonds. His play of the club just had to be an effort to get his partner on lead. So thinker South ducks the spade and makes his contract.

Ice Cream Cake Too Rich For Words

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

There is little one need say about a rich chocolate-strawberry ice-cream cake. The proof is in the eating.

Store-bought ice cream is blended with homemade strawberry and chocolate fudge sauce for this treat. You may want to compound the calories by serving it with toasted pound cake or lady fingers.

CHOCOLATE-STRAWBERRY ICE-CREAM CAKE

1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened
1 quart pistachio ice cream, softened
Strawberry Sauce
Chocolate Fudge Sauce

Fill 8-inch springform pan with ice creams, alternating flavors to create a marbled effect.

Swirl in Strawberry Sauce. Smooth surface. Freeze until firm.

Frost with Chocolate Sauce. Return to freezer until sauce is firm.

To serve, remove from pan about 15 minutes before serving and slice. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Strawberry Sauce

Slightly thaw 1 package (10 ounces) frozen sliced strawberries in syrup. Pour into saucepan.

Mix 2 tablespoons sugar and ½ tablespoon cornstarch. Stir into strawberries. Bring to boil. Cook and stir 2 minutes or until sauce is slightly thick. Remove from heat.

Add 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Chill. Makes about 1¼ cups sauce.

Chocolate Fudge Sauce

In heavy saucepan, combine ¼ cup heavy cream, ½ cup sugar and 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate. Melt chocolate over low heat, stirring constantly. Do not boil. Stir in 1 tablespoon rum, if desired. Cool. Makes about 1 cup sauce.

a blow for freedom

A federal court judge in Maryland struck a blow for basic freedom when he ruled that the use of compulsory union dues for any political activities violates the constitutional rights of employees who object. U.S. District Court Judge C. Stanley Blair held that the collection or disbursement of mandatory union fees for any purposes other than collective bargaining services infringes the First Amendment rights to free speech and association of employees who object.

The suit was brought against the Communication Workers of American (CWA) union by National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation attorneys for 20 telephone workers who object.

Judge Blair has also required the CWA to make full accounting of how its fees have been spent and to refund to objecting workers all fees which exceed the union's cost of collective bargaining. The refunds will represent the proportion of union expenditures for political contributions, lobbying, ideological causes, union organizing efforts and all other purposes unrelated to collective bargaining.

This is the first time this precendent has been established in the private sector. A similar precedent was established for public sector employment in a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

Judge Blair also denied a CWA motion to stay the lawsuit until the 20 plaintiffs had first tried to obtain refunds through the union's internal appeal procedure. The judge noted that the "time necessary for the series of intra-union hearings would better be calculated in years rather than months, and...at the end of it all, this court would be called upon to make the determination it is now prepared to make."

The court's decision will prevent workers from being forced to support the political activities of labor union bosses. The precedent set will have far-reaching ramifications in the cause for individual choice which is the foundation of freedom.

No worker should ever have to support anyone else's politics in order to retain his employment. Now, union bosses have been clearly told that it is unconstitutional for them to collect compulsory political funds from unwilling workers. And that workers don't have to rely on an intra-union kangaroo court before obtaining the right to choose where their money will go.

This may turn out to be the worst news labor union bosses have ever had. With more and more private sector workers becoming disenchanted with belonging to a union coupled with a decision depriving union officials of funds to buy legislation, their bonanza may be on a real decline.

something needed

Offhand, one would think that another federal agency is about the last thing the country needs.

That isn't, however, the thinking in Washington where there is growing support for a consolidated body to oversee foreign trade, possibly with cabinet status. The Senate Finance Committee has, in fact, asked the White House for specific recommendations on a new "department of International Trade and Investment."

At present, offices with trade responsibilities are scattered through various departments, primarily Treasury and Commerce, and independent agencies.

The move reflects the growing importance of trade to the U.S. economy. While the country has long been the world's leading exporter, export earnings nevertheless made a relatively minor contribution to the total trillion-dollar economy. But after years of mounting trade deficits and a declining dollar, that is no longer the case.

The economy needs foreign exchange, and a primary function of the new trade agency would be to improve exports. Considering that at present an estimated 85 percent of these are provided by less than 1 percent of U.S. companies, there would appear to be plenty of room for improvement.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

I love the story about the Burbank appliance dealer who was having a tough time getting rid of discarded appliances. He kept putting them in the alley but there wasn't a service organization or a city truck in the world that would pick them up.

Finally, he got a brainstorm. He marked a price on them and by the end of the day they were all stolen.

Sometimes, when you can't beat the system, you just have to work within its confines. I found that out long ago with children. The only way we could get one of the kids to wash and wax the car was to let him have it for a date.

To get the lawn mowed, we invested in a riding mower. They killed one another for the chance to cut the grass. When my daughter's bedroom became a fire hazard, all I had to do was say, "Why don't you have a slumber party?" Within hours, she had brought it up to health standards.

It was sneaky, but I used to move leftovers by putting a note on them saying, "DO NOT TOUCH. THIS IS FOR THE PARTY."

The other day I was at the phone when I noted a message scribbled in my husband's handwriting. "Carpers 6 p.m. dinner. Wednesday."

I remembered the Carpers. Her first name was either Bambi, Popah Cupcake, Sleepy, Happy, Sneezy or one of the dwarfs. I couldn't remember which. I was at her house once and felt like a fool when I ate a strawberry in a small dish in her bathroom and it was soap.

Well, I wasn't going to be caught with my decor down when they came to dinner. I set about replacing light bulbs in every room in the house, bought live plants where before there had been death and brownness. Cleared off the counter top. Took the ironing board down, bought a set of matching glasses and took all the empty shampoo bottles out of the shower.

I brought in the sled from the porch, scratched a "THIS HOUSE IS BEING PATROLLED BY A TWO-YEAR-OLD" decal off my kitchen window and took a manger scene out of the bookcase.

My husband looked around and said, "I forgot to tell you. We're invited to the Carpers for dinner Wednesday."

I had been beaten at my own game.

Funds Okayed For Planes, Destroyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations defense subcommittee has approved a supplemental defense appropriation that authorizes spending this year for 18 advanced radar planes for NATO and two destroyers for the Navy.

The destroyers, to cost $640 million, were among four being constructed for Iran until the ouster of the shah. The radar planes are being purchased jointly by the United States and 10 NATO allies. The initial U.S. share authorized by the subcommittee Tuesday is $80.1 million. The total program is estimated to cost $1.8 billion through 1985, with the United States footing 41 percent of the bill.

Unless you're one of the folks who got an extension, you're still not quite over the trauma of the April 15 deadline just passed. While it's still fresh on the mind, we ran across some things of interest about how our hard-earned moeny is being spent by Big Brother.

All you have to do in a newspaper office is just open the tons of mail received each day, and the following type items are easily obtained.

For example, only recently American taxpayers have financed a host of studies including $56,100 to determine the effects of scantily clad women on Chicago taxi drivers, $2,500 to study why fat people prefer to dine in "all-you-can-eat" places, $3.4 million to urge Americans to write more letters, and another $775,000 to study the program's effectiveness only to find the results inconclusive.

Also there was $10,000 to learn why hermit crabs choose one shell over another, and another $45,000 to study chatterchats and whistles of California ground squirrels. Then there was $46,000 to determine how long it takes to make breakfast, $2,300 to study the sex life of the female Costa Rican cricket, $25,000 to prove the effect on people of a picture of an octopus in a barnyard, and on and on.

Trying to settle an intra-Cabinet rivalry, the departments of Interior and Commerce have spent a cool half million and two years trying to determine who has jurisdiction over sea turtles.

In 1977, about 500 Justice Department employees were paid $5 million for 1,000 hours overtime. That's 20 hours of overtime a week each—assuming they took two-week vacations.

With a spending record like that, Congress has to work hard to make sure those dollars aren't worth anything.

in washington

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the Alice-in-Wonderland world of government, there is no spectacle more bizarre than the practice of frittering away the public's money to defend a federal official who has acted contrary to the public interest.

Such episodes unfortunately occur with considerable regularity because the Justice Department is required by statute to provide legal counsel to all federal employees who are sued as a result of the official actions.

The problem is compounded when the government official who acted improperly (if not illegally) is the president of the United States, Jimmy Carter, and the trial lawyer is the attorney general of the United States, Griffin B. Bell.

Because attorneys generals rarely make personal appearanees in courtrooms, Bell assumed the role of trial lawyer only twice during his first two years as head of the Justice Department.

For his third appearance, Bell earlier this month selected a particularly inauspicious occasion, a hearing in U.S. District Court here on a civil suit filed by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., alleging that Carter acted wrongfully when he dramatically altered the country's relationship with the two Chinas late last year.

Not at issue is the president's undisputed right both to establish diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China (PRC) on the Asian mainland and to sever diplomatic relations with the Republic of China (ROC) on Taiwan.

What the lawsuit challenges is Carter's unilateral act of terminating the 1954 Mutual Defense Treaty between the United States and the ROC.

The Constitution is quite specific in giving the president the power "to make treaties," while also requiring that they be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Senate. But there is no similar constitutional guidance on the procedure for "deratifying" or breaking treaties.

As a result, there are profound differences of opinion among legal scholars and constitutional authorities on the question of who possesses the power to terminate treaties generally. Goldwater, however, has several compelling arguments in support of his position on the Chinese treaty specifically.

On Sept. 26, 1978, less than three months before he announced this country's revised China policy, Carter signed into law the International Security Assistance Act of 1978, which included a provision stating:

There should be prior consultation between the Congress and the executive branch on any proposed policy changes affecting the continuation of the Mutual Defense Treaty of 1954.

In Carter's defense, the State Department offers an irrelevant melange of precedents in which treaties were abrogated by prior presidents without congressional action. But that list is riddled with such arcane compacts as an 1891 commercial treaty with the Congo and a 1936 multilateral convention regulating international whaling.

Goldwater poses a far more relevant question: If the president can unilaterally abandon the Chinese treaty obligation, what is to prevent him from taking the same action with regard to the Universal Copyright Convention, the NATO defense treaty or the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty?

"For years we made much of how worthless were treaties and agreements entered into by the Soviet Union. We told the world that our commitments were matters of honor while commitments made by the Soviets were matters of expediency," says the senator.

Now that we have come down on the side of expediency and thrown honor to the wind, Goldwater notes, our allies must surely be wondering whether our promises to come to the defense of freedom throughout the world can any longer be held with any assurance and credibility.

Goldwater happens to be a longtime ROC supporter. But even those who welcome the belated recognition of the PRC must view Carter's unwarranted usurpation of power as ethically wrong, politically wrong and legally wrong.

commentary

donald f. graff

The leading American foreign trade customer is:

a) Japan.
b) Canada.
c) Western Europe.

Heavyweights all, but the answer, as it turns out, is none of the above. The best market for the U.S. exports is that block of several dozen nations known collectively as the Third World, the economically underdeveloped majority of mankind.

Roughly 40 percent of U.S. manufactured products entering world trade is absorbed by these nations. It follows that strengthening their economies, and therefore their ability to buy foreign goods, ultimately benefits the United States.

That point is central to discussions that have been going on recently in Manila, where the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) has been in session. It is not only the U.S. relationship with the underdeveloped world that is under study, however, but that of all major industrial nations.

Most of the developing countries seek prosperity through industrialization. In the process, their often more cheaply produced products inevitably bring them into competition with the developed economies.

The natural response of the latter, seeking to protect their industries and jobs of their workers, is to raise barriers. These generally are not traditional tariffs, but take the form of import quotas, market sharing agreements and government subsidies of domestic industries.

This is the new protectionism that concerns not only the Third World but many in the West, such as Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank. He has warned at Manila that such short-term self interest is actually self harmful in the long term. If the economic development of the poorer countries is limited, so is their ability to buy products of the newer industries that are the developed economies real future, not the obsolete operations being protected.

The Manila session is the fifth such UNCTAD gathering of the well-off and generally northern nations with their less fortunate and generally southern trading partners. So far the effort has generated much talk but little action.

Much more than talk is going to be needed before the north-south economic relationship becomes one of genuine mutual advantage rather than self interest. As McNamara and others see it, the developed nations in their own best interests are going to have to:

a) Allow easier entry into their markets for the products of developing countries.

b) Cease propping up declining industries.

c) Restructure their own economies to emphasize the most efficient enterprises.

d) All of the above.

Texans Can Avoid Gas Buying Pains

Associated Press Writer

As long as Texas motorists don't start "panic buying" gasoline they can avoid the miseries affecting the West Coast, fuel suppliers and retailers say.

Service stations operators agree supplies in Texas are as tight as they have been since the 1973-74 oil embargo, but so far the state has avoided long lines at the pumps that California motorists have suffered.

The only problems in Texas have generally been shorter station operating hours, some lines, and some limiting of sales, an Associated Press survey shows.

The survey also showed.

The fuel situation is slightly tighter in the big cities than it is in rural areas, but generally the problem is not concentrated in any one area of the state.

Most reports of lines at the pumps are less than five cars deep, but one station in Houston experienced a line of about 20 cars.

Service stations are receiving only 60 to 80 percent of the amount of gasoline they sold in May of last year.

Up to 90 percent of the filling stations in Texas cities are closed on Sundays.

Motorists are more likely to find stations open along Interstate highways than inside the cities.

There is no relief in sight, and it will be especially hard to buy gasoline during the Memorial Day holiday because many stations will have run out of their May allocations by then.

Many Texas fuel merchants feel Californians are to blame for their own shortages.

"They created their own problems out there" by panic buying and because of the publicity, said Bill Ligon, director of the 1,300-member Texas Service Station Association.

"The papers show a picture of a long line, but don't say what percentage of the stations have long lines. You know how suggestive the American people are. First thing you know you're going to have panic buying in Texas," he said.

"Let's don't create a problem that we don't have."

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - The first Israeli-Egyptian road accident since the signing of the peace treaty between the two nations occurred Thursday, an Israeli army spokesman reported.

The spokesman said an Egyptian army truck sideswiped an Israeli army truck stopped at an intersection near the Sinai town of El Arish, which the Israelis are to turn over to the Egyptians later this month.

After some shouting, the two drivers shook hands and parted peacefully, the spokesman said.

Services are expensive

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in your column about the new medicine Tagamet. I have had an ulcer for 30 years and have chewed lots of Gelusil and drunk lots of Maalox. I carried milk with me almost everywhere I went. I was willing to try anything one more time.

I went to a local clinic and tried desperately to get a prescription for Tagamet and was told I would have to have a check up first. I couldn't get the prescription without the examination so I submitted. I got the bill yesterday and waited a day to cool off before I wrote to you. You wouldn't believe it but the bill was $158 just for X rays. I could have told them they wouldn't find an ulcer in my chest. When everything was done I got the prescription for a total of $400 and three days time.

I would recommend Tagamet for ulcer sufferers but try to get your prescription without the examination. The pills really do work but at 29 cents each and four a day, they are expensive.

DEAR READER — I can understand why you would be annoyed. People often feel that when they have had expensive examinations that don't reveal any significant disease that they have spent money unnecessarily.

That really isn't true. I know it's expensive but perhaps you should be thankful that nothing more serious was found.

Doctors can't just prescribe medicine on the basis of what their patients tell them their problem is. In your case, for example, what if you had had an early cancer of the stomach which could have been cured and wasn't found because you didn't have any X rays done. In that case you could have lost your life because of the lack of concern by your physicians.

The way this problem is usually solved is that you have a family doctor who manages your medical problems. In your case your family doctor should have known that you've had an ulcer because he would probably have treated you for years for it. It would have been unnecessary for him to have done a complete total reexamination to find out that you had a peptic ulcer and to give you a prescription.

When patients go to new doctors who do not have the benefit of the previous studies, the only choice the new doctor has is to examine you adequately to find out exactly what your problem really is. You cannot properly treat a patient without knowing what you are treating.

It really is unfortunate that these services are as expensive as they are. Unfortunately, those blamed X-ray machines cost money. So do hospitals and a lot of the other expensive equipment that modern technology has brought to bear on improving medical care.

So you will get something that doesn't cost much I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-5, Ulcers — Duodenal, Stomach. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Continued Lag Seen In Energy Demand Trends

By MAX SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—An oil industry study group says energy demand growth in 1979 will lag the gain anticipated for economic activity.

"This will be the fifth straight year that energy consumption has risen more slowly than economic activity, reversing the trend of the pre-embargo period," the group reports.

The supply and demand committee of the Independent Petroelum Association of America expects energy consumption to rise about 2 percent, compared to the forecast of a 2.5 percent gain for real gross national product.

In its mid-year report, the committee attributes the lower energy growth to continuing fuel conservation, constrained oil supplies, and the possibility of mandated federal government conservation such as heating and cooling temperature controls.

The report assumes more normal weather conditions as opposed to the much colder than normal temperatures of 1978.

Oil demand, which accounts for about half the total energy requirements, and requirements for natural gas are expected to increase by less than 1 percent.

In late 1978, the committee had forecast a slight 1979 decline in natural gas demand but now attributes the change to the diversion of surplus supplies in producing states to consuming states.

Reflecting the Three Mile Island accident and other plant closings for safety reasons, nuclear generation growth is expected to be only 7.1 percent this year compared with 10.6 percent in 1978.

Barring extreme weather patterns, hydropower electricity production is expected to increase slightly above 1978 levels.

Coal consumption is expected to rise 5 percent, compared with last year's no growth stance that resulted from the strike by mine wokers.

The committee says oil availability will be constrained this year because of tight worldwide supplies, adding that the first quarter shortfall reduces some refined products inventories to dangerously low levels.

Although the resumption of crude exports by Iran is encouraging, the committee states, the availability of crude oil worldwide remains uncertain.

"Accordingly, it will be difficult for the oil industry to meet prevailing demands and to rebuild inventories to adequate levels," the study group reports.

"The recurrence of spot shortages is symptomatic of the tight crude oil supply situation. In the event of a major disruption of crude oil production, serious economic consequences could result."

The committee expects domestic crude oil production to average 8,631,000 barrels a day this year compared with 8,700,000 last year. Production from Alaska's Prudhoe Bay region is expected to increase by 139,000 barrels a day but output from other states is forecast to decline by 209,000 a day.

Crude imports are forecast to average 6,543,000 barrels a day, compared with 6,071,000 last year. Products imports are forecast at 2,031,000 barrels, compared with 1,996,000 in 1978.

Motor gasoline demand is projected to average 7,494,000 barrels a day, about 1 percent above 1978, but the committee says usage could be lower.

"The forecast is contingent on crude availability and only slightly less than normal driving patterns," the committee adds.

"Driving could be reduced more than anticipated because of spot gasoline shortages, uncertainty of supply, and the impact of higher prices."

The committee says another uncertainty is the impact of reduced gasoline production this summer so that refineries can rebuild heating fuel inventories prior to the start of the winter season.

Aviation fuel oil demand is forecast to increase only 1.2 percent because airline firms are eliminating marginal routes and flights and because of the anticipated economic slowdown later in the year.

The committee says light and heavy fuel oil demand will be impacted by the greater availability of natural gas.

Middle distillate requirements are expected to rise only 1 percent, compared with a 3.4 percent growth last year. Residual fuel demand is expected to decline a second straight year, falling 4 percent below the 1978 level.

Gas Bill Fails

AUSTIN (AP)—A bill that would have required gasoline stations to remain open on weekends failed to get enough House votes Friday to be considered.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, died on a 71-65 vote, far short of the four-fifths vote needed to introduce a bill after the 60th day of the legislative session.

Gasoline stations would have been required to remain open for four hours each day on alternating weekends under the measure.

Unveiling the bill Tuesday, Wilson said most station operators close on Saturday and Sunday because "they want the weekend off."

Wilson told the House Friday that the measure would insure that families have enough gasoline "to go to church on Sunday" and compared the bill to the state's Sunday closing law.

But Rep. Milton Fox, R-Houston said, "We don't have any business telling people when to close. If they are concerned about going to church, they can fill up on Friday or Saturday morning."

PLO Office In Brazil Considered

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—The Brazilian government is giving new consideration to whether the Palestine Liberation Organization can open an office in Brazil, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

The government has refused for three years to permit a PLO office even though it recognizes the organization as the legitimate representative of the Palestinians. But spokesman Bernardo Pericas said Iraqi Vice President Taha Maa'rouf, while on an official visit Wednesday, made a special request that a PLO office be permitted.

Halt Powder Sale

PALERMO, Sicily (AP)—The Palermo police department says some of its agents stopped three U.S. sailors from giving $6,500 recently to three Italian men who were trying to sell them talcum powder for drugs.

The police said the Italians were jailed and the names of the sailors were given to U.S. naval autorities.

Scurryly Speaking...

Early Days Featured Justice On The Spot

Editor's Note—This is another in a series of artieles prepared by the Scurry County Historical Commission concerning historic events that occurred in the county.

By DOROTHY COX

When Scurry County's $16,000 jail bond issue carried in the April, 1911, election, there was no doubt but what the voters felt the express need for an escape proof jail, but also one which would include facilities whereby justice could be rendered by way of hanging if necessary.

The jail, complete with scaffold and noose, was built at what is now 2707 College Avenue, and was in constant use until early 1979 when its prisoners were transferred to the new jail at Ave M and 26th street. Thankfully, its hanging facilities were never used.

However, before the College Avenue jail was built justice was carried out. By word of mouth old time historians tell us that Scurry County's only hanging victim was hung from a tree until dead and long after.

The Golden Anniversary edition of The Scurry County Times gives the following account of the hanging.

It seems that John Daugherty and a character called Happy Jack were having a game of cards when Daugherty became riled up. Reaching across the table he pulled Happy Jack's Union coat over his head and stabbed him in the back. Justice in the form of a mool court ruled the killer should die before a firing squad. The court through sympathy or disinclination, fired over his head all except one. Wounded, Daughterty hid in the waters of Deep Creek until he was apprehended and hung on a hackberry tree on the branch that flows through the Snyder High School campus. His body was left hanging until the next day, then was cut down and buried on the spot. Years afterward, when a road gang was laying off the Snyder streets, they found Daughterty's bones. The only man ever hanged in Scurry County was given a second burial.

Ironically, the "Hanging Tree" was located on Dry Run Creek about a half-block west of the present jail, and has only recently been cut down and hauled away.

The old tree had withstood the ravages of time. Its gnarled bole supported sparsely leaved branches that had become distorted like fingers on an old arthritic hand. One limb grew up and southward the right height for stringing up a man, but had it been tested it would probably have groaned and creaked and split at the trunk.

How long the Old Hanging Tree would have continued to stand through West Texas sandstorms, winters blasts and summers rains is anybody's guess, but the history of it will probably be told and retold, as future generations as it has been now for nearly a century - a grim reminder of the days when justice was rendered on the spot, and jails, if available, were seldom put to use.

Farmland To Go Unplowed

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — By the year 2000, an estimated 85 percent of America's farmland will go unplowed, according to Phillips Chemical.

Crops on this land will be planted using a method called "minimum tillage," the company says, adding that 10 percent of the nation's farmland employs minimum tillage today.

Minimum tillage machines, expected to have wider use in the 1980s, have knife-like prongs which slice into the soil, leaving a protective blanket of crop stubble behind. The same machine then fertilizes the soil, drops in seeds and presses the earth closed.

Today, farmers plow up their fields two or three times a year, exposing them to radiation.

Rich topsoil is being blown to dust at a rate of 4 to 6 billion tons a year, compared with the Dust Bowl Era of the 1930s, when the nation's soil was blown away at a rate of 3 billion tons annually.

The crossed eyes of silent film comedian Ben Turpin were insured for $500,000 in case they uncrossed.

Provided Navy With Ungraded Rabbit Meat

WASHINGTON (AP)— Most Agriculture Department regulatory actions concerning meat involve beef, pork and poultry, but once in a while officials get involved with rabbits.

The departments said Wednesday that federal inspection and grading services have been denied a processor for allegedly providing the U.S. Navy with more than two tons of rabbit meat that did not comply with regulations.

Officials said William E. Mason of Louisville, Ky., agreed to a consent order that prohibits him from using federal inspection and grading services for 18 months.

"Under terms of the consent order, Mason neither admitted nor denied the allegations," the department said.

The alleged infractions occurred in 1976, when Mason, as operator of Agri-Industries Internationale Inc., Columbus, Ohio, repackaged 4,647 pounds of rabbit meat "into plastic bags carrying the U.S. Grade A shield" of approval when "the meat had not been graded by an authorized department grader," the department said.

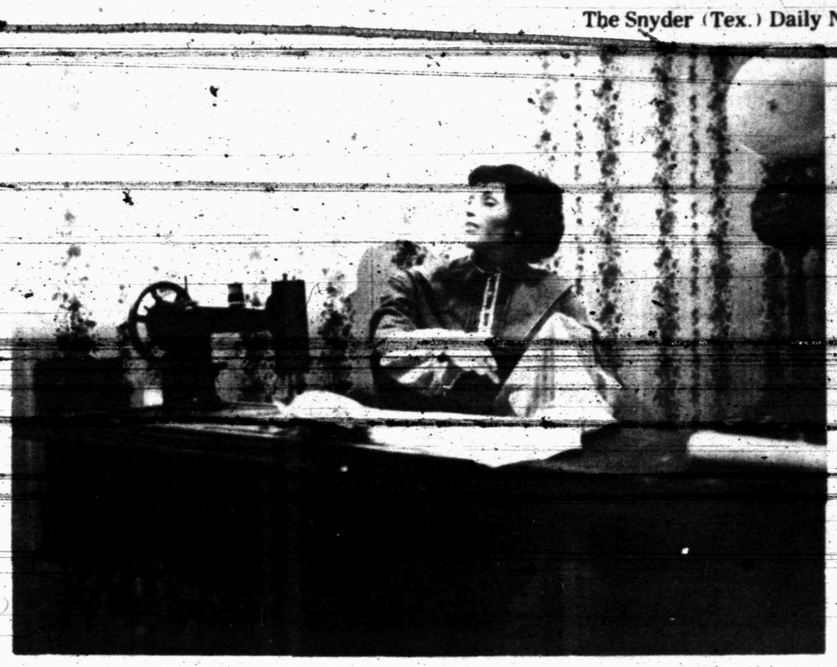
The meat was part of a total contract of 21,000 pounds the Navy had ordered, specifying that it be U.S. Grade A rabbits, it said.

Child Saved By Alcoholic Breath

WELLESBOURNE, England (AP)—Kelly Chaman, 4, is alive because neighbor Mick Wilkins stopped off at the pub before going home.

Wilkins later gave the little girl mouth-to-mouth resuscitation when she stopped breathing.

Doctors said the alcohol on Wilkin's breath had stimulated Kelly's brain and saved her.



DRESSMAKER -- A seamstress works at a foot treadle powered sewing machine in this new dressmaker's shop in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College. The "shop" also displays millinery and fabrics. Visitors to the museum Sunday may see the new display and also the art works of Snyder High School and Junior High School students which will be on exhibit through May 27.

Food Import Loans Urged

ROME (AP)-The top U.N. food official urged the International Monetary Fund to set up a new loan program to help developing countries pay for food imports.

Maurice J. Williams, executive director of the U.N. World Food Council, told a U.N. committee on food aid programs Thursday that developing countries will be short 77 million tons of necessary foods this year and the annual deficit will rise to 90 million tons by 1985.

He said a program should be created to provide loans when poorer countries suffer serious drops in food production or if international prices rise sharply.

Food takes a smaller part of disposable income in the U.S. than it does in other countries, even though food prices rose about eight percent during 1978, reports a foods and nutrition specialist, Mary K. Sweeten, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Seal Shows Who's Boss

ROCKPORT, Maine (AP)—Andre the seal, Maine's traveling celebrity, wasn't about to share the limelight when company arrived from Boston.

Cabot Spot, a young seal who also winters at Boston's New England Aquarium, arrived by truck Thursday. Aquarium officials hope Spot will take a liking to Rockport Harbor so that he will tag along when the older seal makes his seventh annual swim from Marblehead, Mass., next year.

But when the new seal was lowered into the floating pen, Andre had to be poked to keep him from drowning the new occupant. Soon, however, the two seals were swimming in their separate corners.

"I guess he wanted to let the kid know who was boss," said Andre's trainer, Harry Goodridge. He said he didn't know how long Cabot would stay.

Chickens Balk At Fly Meet

RIO GRANDE, Ohio (AP)—About 150 contestants - some fat; some skinny and all unwilling - will be coaxed to try for a world record in Saturday's 8th Annual International Chicken Flying Meet.

Contestants are placed in an open-ended box atop a 10-foot platform and given 30 seconds to wing it on their own. If they refuse, they get a poke in the tailfeathers with a toilet plunger.

In previous meets, some chickens have flown backwards, refused to fly at all or flopped to the ground directly below the launching platform.

At stake in the contest is a $500 prize for a record-breaking flight and prizes of $25, $10 and $5 for the swiftest birds in each of four weight classes.
