PAYNE MOISTURE 1.10

Entire County Soaked By 19th Summer Rain

Colorado City Thursday recorded its 19th day of rain since May 1.

And the moisture was general over Mitchell County with rain reported in all areas.

However, the big soaker was in Payne community south of Colorado City where 1.10 inches of rain fell early Thursday.

Official rain measurement for Colorado City on Courthouse lawn at 6 a. m. was .64. Light moisture later in the morning raised the total slightly.

The rain, which has dumped more than 10 inches of moisture in some areas of the county during the last two months, was the third recorded here this July. Although hot sun speeds the growth of cotton at this stage, farmers weren't kicking about the moisture.

Last week rain was heavier in the county's northern half, but a belt through the southern area Thursday reported the most moisture.

In Payne community the 1.10 rain measurement was recorded at the Charles Williams residence.

Bruce Byrne ranch in Landers community reported .60 at the house and an inch in the middle of the ranch.

Approximately half an inch of rain was reported through the Looney area.

In the county's deep south, east area, L. S. (Bunky) Girvin reported .33 moisture. J. C. (Jake) Northcutt reported from 40 to half inch of moisture in the Spade community.

The station was formerly operated by the late J. C. (Coley) Briggs, who died June 22 after being in business here 40 years.

Vardy, as owner, will operate the Couden station. He has been an employee of Paris Yarbrough, Couden agent here, for the last three years.

Vardy's residence is at 856 E. 13th St.

Team Inc. Project Report Set Friday

Units in Stock Campaign

Organizational drive for Colorado Industrial Team Inc. moved into full speed Thursday with 10 contact units on the job.

First report by the unit captains is scheduled for Friday night at 8 o'clock in Chamber of Commerce conference room, according to Charlie Thompson, chairman of the drive.

However, early indications were that the contact units were meeting enthusiastic response in the project that seeks to build a non-profit corporation to assist the community's industrial development.

More than 30 unit captains and workers conferred Tuesday night with Thompson and other Chamber of Commerce leaders in the official kickoff of the organizational drive.

And, Wednesday morning, the groups began actual contacts for sale of Team Inc. stock shares.

However, the first stockholder was signed Tuesday at noon in a demonstration interview before Kiwanis luncheon audience in Civic House. At that time, Chamber manager Ernie Larmer signed Porter Richardson, KVMC station manager, in a stock sale agreement.

No. 2 stock purchaser was John L. Wheeler of Fort Worth, manager of the area development of Texas Electric Service Company, who obtained his stock by mail.

In their orientation and planning session Tuesday night the contact units heard Thompson emphasize:

"This Industrial Team is one project discussed here in Colorado City for years.

"We must go all out for its success because it is vitally important to the growth and progress of the entire community.

"This is an opportunity we can not afford to let pass us by."

Friday Meet To Plan for League Field

Ways and means to construct a new Pony League baseball field for Colorado City will be discussed Friday night at an 8 o'clock meeting.

The meeting will be in Wallace High School, according to Roy Sweatt, youth baseball commissioner.

Officers and leaders in the league and all interested persons are invited to attend the meeting, Sweatt said. Persons desiring to donate material or services for the new field are urged to attend, he said.

City has designated a site for the new Pony League field in the city's northern area near the water well field north of 17th St. And Pony League officials are seeking to speed the project along so the field will be ready for next year.

STEP INTO DEEP WATER

2 Brothers Wading in Champion Creek Drown

Splash and fun of wading dipped swiftly into tragedy Sunday for the family of a farm worker.

Drowned when they stepped into deep water at "Rock Hole" on South Champion Creek, 12 miles southeast of Colorado City, were Frank Carrillo Jr., 10, and Manuel Carrillo, 8.

They were the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carrillo of San Angelo, who have been living on the Bowen place in the southeast area of the county and working for Bill Woods and L. S. (Bunky) Girvin Jr.

Scene of the early Sabbath afternoon tragedy was on the R. F. (Bob) Fee Ranch at almost the identical spot where a Loraine youth was drowned several years ago.

The two brothers had gone wading in the shallow, rock bottom area of the creek; upstream from where their parents and the Jesse Sanchez family had just started fishing.

It was about 1:10 p. m. when the fatal accident happened.

The parents suddenly missed the youngsters, then began a quick check to locate.

When Carrillo and Sanchez asked the three-year-old Sanchez boy where the two boys were, the child pointed into the deeper hole of water.

Neither the fathers nor the boys could swim.

However, Sanchez, a brother-in-law of the elder Carrillo, was able to retrieve the bodies from the creek water with the aid of a tree limb. And children of Sanchez ran to the Girvin residence for aid.

The father and the uncle administered artificial respiration as did Colorado City volunteer firemen.

The brothers were pronounced dead by a medical doctor later when taken to Root Memorial Hospital.

Sheriff R. E. (Dick) Gregory and County Judge Elmer Martin went to the scene. And Justice of Peace T. E. Arnold after investigation announced a verdict of death by accidental drowning.

The brothers had been wading in the shallow water of the creek and apparently stepped off a rock ledge into deep water, six to seven feet deep.

Funeral rites for the drowning victims were conducted Tuesday at 10 a. m. in St. Mary's Catholic Church in San Angelo.

Burial was in Fairmount Cemetery in San Angelo.

CUTHBERT TO RT. 1

Changes Saturday In 4 Mail Routes

Four rural mail routes within Mitchell County will be shuffled Saturday.

Chief among the changes will be switch of Cuthbert carrier route from the Cuthbert Post Office to the Colorado City Post Office.

Other changes will involve parts of Colorado City's Route 3, Loraine's Route 2 and Colorado City's Route 1.

With its incorporation into Colorado City's Route 1, the Cuthbert route, formerly carried by John Womack, will be discontinued. However, service will not be curtailed.

Infact, Postmaster Arlene M. Morris said it will provide quicker service for the Cuthbert route residents.

C-City's Route 1 carrier Bob Motley will carry the Cuthbert route mail from the C-City Post Office, eliminating the delay formerly caused when mail was first delivered from the local post office to the Cuthbert Post Office, then taken on carrier route from there.

The route area being incorporated with C-City Route 1 extends from Cuthbert north to the county line and then east toward State Highway 208.

Twenty miles of Motley's Route 1 will be switched to Colorado City's Route 3, carried by Charles Nuckolls. This is an area northeast of Colorado City and is being moved to Route 3 to equalize the carrier route service in light of the addition of Cuthbert route to Route 1.

In another change, three miles of C-City's Route 3 will be transferred to Loraine's Route 2, thus relieving mail in the future from the Loraine Post Office. This is one-jog around a section south of Interstate 20 (U. S. Highway 80), according to Postmaster Morris.

LOCAL TRIO COMPETES IN JUNIOR OLYMPICS

Three Colorado City youngsters will participate Saturday in Junior Olympics competition in Abilene.

The trio—Bill Davis, Wayne Reed and Kenneth Northcutt—will leave here at 2 p. m. Saturday, arriving in Abilene before the opening event at 5 p. m.

Accompanying the track group will be Winn Talley, city recreation director.

Tommy Humphreys and Jimmy Brown were in Midland Thursday competing in the Jaycee State Tennis Tournament for Boys. They won the right to participate in the state tourney, which opened Wednesday and continues through Friday, with victories in their hometown tourney.

Brown entered in singles and teamed with Humphreys in doubles.

6 COUNTY COURT CASES

Fines Total $900

Total of $900 in fines, including court costs, has been assessed against six defendants in County Court.

All except one of the fines were handed out this week by County Judge Elmer Martin.

Five of the cases involved possession or sale of alcoholic beverages. One was for driving while intoxicated.

Pleading guilty Wednesday were Nesfer Diaz, Jonnie Mae Gardner and Ellis Raymond Brown.

Brown was fined $115 and costs when he admitted transporting wine in a dry area.

Diaz, who was charged June 1 and had bond set then at $1,000, pleaded guilty to possession of alcoholic beverage for the purpose of sale. He was fined $200 and $27.50 court costs.

Gardner, who was charged also June 1 in a coordinated roundup of bootleggers, admitted to selling alcoholic beverage and was fined $125 plus $27.50 court costs. Her bond had been $1,000.

Fined $175 and costs Tuesday was Celestino Guerrero, who pleaded guilty to possession of alcoholic beverage for the purpose of sale. His case came before the judge the same day he was charged.

Robert P. Elkins pleaded guilty Monday to driving while intoxicated. And he received from Judge Martin a fine of $135 plus $27.50 court costs and three days in jail.

James Arthur Jones, previously listed erroneously in the July 5 edition of the Record as James Arthur, was fined $100 and costs on a plea of guilty to transporting alcoholic beverage in a dry area.

Scheduled for trial Thursday in County Court was a case involving Floyd Wilson Iglehart of Odessa, charged with possession of whiskey for sale. But the Iglehart case was postponed by Judge Martin because the defendant has been hospitalized after major surgery.

OF BROWN'S PARK

Living In Trailer House Is Fun, Unhandy For Smiths

Living in a trailer house certainly has its advantages, according to the members of the Leland Smith family who live at Brown's Trailer Court.

The Smith family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and their two daughters and one son, Jackie, 18 years old; Connie, 14 years old; and David, six years old.

The opinion of the whole family seems to be that they would rather live in a trailer than change homes when the move and of course, living in a trailer, this is possible.

Jackie knows what it means to move, too. She has attended 20 different schools in 17 states.

Connie says that her main objection to a trailer house home is that she "can't party". She, too, likes it, however, when it comes to moving.

David has a ball because of one thing a trailer park always has — children for him to play with.

The Smiths have lived in Colorado City longer than anywhere, having lived here two years. They have lived in 34 states and Canada.

They smile as they tell of Smith's parents living in the trailer "next door" to them. When they were living in Kentucky, the family, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Smith and son, Jim, went to visit them, and liked it so well that they sold their home, bought a trailer, and as Connie, a youngster at that time put it to her schoolteacher — "they ain't never went home!"

Five states receive credit for the Smith family. Smith was born in Carter, Oklahoma; Mrs. Smith (the converted Yankee of the family, as Smith puts it) was born in Hull, Illinois; Jackie was born in Orange, Texas; Connie in Batesville, Mississippi; and David in Nashville, Tennessee.

Jackie made a place for herself during her two years at Colorado High. She was cheerleader, homecoming queen, friendliest girl, senior favorite, third in the County Queen Contest, one of the top 10 juniors, and a member of Mixed Chorus, Wolverines, Future Teachers, and was in the junior play.

She plans to attend McMurry College in Abilene next fall where she will major in business. After attending McMurry for two years, her plans are to enroll in an air line school.

Connie, a freshman at Colorado Junior High, was seventh grade football sweetheart, seventh grade favorite, and a two year member of the band. She won first chair all-district and won medals for first in solo and quartet performances. She plays the clarinet.

The Smiths belong to the First Methodist Church.

Trailer Home Life

Ready Class Meets In Herm Home

"Luxury or Necessity" was the topic for the devotion given by Mrs. Darrell Shurtleff at the regular meeting of the Ready Sunday School Class of the Calvary Baptist Church Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. James Herm.

Mrs. Shurtleff used as her text, the eighth chapter of Romans.

Opening prayer was presented by Mrs. Roland Powell.

During the social hour, refreshments were served to Mrs. Powell, Banks, Shurtleff, Hubert Harris, and Bob Chalkley.

S'water Nudges C-City For Teen League Title

Sweetwater captured the undisputed title of the Double Mountain Teen Age League Tuesday night, squeezing by the C-City teen-agers, 3-1.

This gives Sweetwater the right to represent the league in the state tournament.

The game was one which highlighted tight defense for both teams and a hot pitching duel between Mike Brombley and C-City's Truman Stinson.

Brombley yielded four hits to Stinson's eight.

Sweetwater took a quick 1-0 lead in the second inning and added another run in the third.

C-City narrowed the gap in the fourth when Don Vest reached third on a double and an error, and switch-hitting Don Welter singled him home.

Sweetwater garnered an insurance run in the seventh when Juan Sepeda drilled a curve ball over the left field fence for a homer.

Brombley smothered C-City's in the last of the seventh by retiring three straight batters.

The local teenagers will continue their season with matched games. Monday night the locals will travel to play the undefeated Hermleigh teens at 8 p. m. and Tuesday night will play the Wallace All-Stars on the local diamond.

YANKS, TIGERS BEAT GIANTS

Indians Spurt to Top Little League Spot as Giants Fall

By RONNY GURLEY
Record Sports Writer

The Indians celebrated the Independence Day festivities by catapulting into first place. The previously unbeaten Giants fell to second by absorbing defeats at the hands of Yanks and the second division Tigers.

Last Thursday's games saw the Pirates paste the Dodgers, 5-1, behind the one-hit pitching of John Beasley and David Taylor. The last game of that evening saw the Indians outslug the up and coming Tigers, 10-8.

Last Friday the then league-leading Giants were toppled by the Yankees, 1-0. This game was a pitching duel by Wayne Parham of the Yanks and Skip Warren of the Giants. Parham allowing two hits and Warren one. Costly Giant errors did the trick for the Yanks.

Monday night the Tigers added more trouble to the Giants championship hopes by besting them, 6-4. They came from behind in the fifth inning to score four big runs.

Tiger pitching and tight defense insured the victory the last two frames. In the nightcap the Indians tightened their hold on first place by trouncing the fourth place Pirates, 12-5.

Tuesday's only contest was an error-marred affair with the Little League.

CARDS NIP SOX, 15-14

Athletics Clinch Title Tie with 16-1 Victory

The A's continued their torrid pace and clinched at least a tie for first place in the Pony League Monday night as they slammed the Braves, 16-1. They picked up only five hits, one of them a homer by Martin Christian in the fourth inning. But the A's used alert base running and timely walks to run up such a large score.

The Braves were able to collect only three hits off Dale Walker. The game was abbreviated by the 15 run rule in the fifth inning.

The Cards captured a hard fought victory over the second place White Sox 15-14 Monday. They scored their runs on 12 base hits and three Sox errors.

The Cards' biggest run production came in the fourth when the bats of Frank Biggers and Denny Galey helped drive in six runs.

The Sox were able to collect just seven hits off Biggers, but eleven Cards miscues one. Tonight's contests see the Cards vs. the Athletics and the White Sox against the Braves.

Editorially Speaking

There Can Be No Let Up In Giving

Along with the higher cost of everything else, don't forget the nation's philanthropies. According to a preview just released by the best possible authority on the subject, The American Association of Fund Raising Counsel, assets of gift-supported institutions will be doubled by 1970 if estimated needs are to be met.

This means that current assets of America's philanthropic institutions, totalling $45 billion as compared with the $41 billion total assets of the country's five largest corporations - should be boosted to $90 billion by that date.

Contributions to publicly-supported philanthropy are expected to soar from last year's $7.1 billion to $11.8 billion in the next decade. Even so, the report admits these increases may not be sufficient to offset the spiral of operating costs and still leave margin enough for adequate capital expenditures.

The Association, which is a non-profit organization representing 28 professional fund-raising firms specializing in counseling, organizing and directing fund-raising activities in the US and Canada, breaks down foreseeable philanthropic needs as follows:

On the education front, the 45 million Americans from 5 to 34 now in school will have risen by 1965 to more than 105 million! To meet this projection, educational philanthropy must reach $16.4 billion annually by 1975.

Health expenditures, public and private, now total about $20.5 billion a year, or nearly five percent of the gross national product. Philanthropic agencies spent $35 million on research last year, raised $180 million for capital development of hospitals. Gifts are expected to provide $275 million of the $501 million needed annually 20 years hence.

Religious philanthropy must provide a total of $10 billion in ten years - to keep pace with population growth that will expand churches by 25 new congregations a day. Incidentally, the most cheering note in the entire Association survey is the estimate that 61 percent are church members today, compared with 23 percent 100 years ago!

In the eyes of these professional fund-raising counsel, such greatly increased demands on people's generosity mean that, above all, the Worthy Cause must convince the public of its worthiness, or the public will ignore it to extinction. But, another point even more important to the welfare of every last one of us, is that if we fail the worthy philanthropies, Government will take some over.

Bluntly stated, the prospect is that of "put up or shut up."

We might keep this in mind as we begin now to prepare with advance planning and organizing the new Mitchell County United Fund finance campaign which we cooperate with each fall for the combined support of a score of agencies busy in research, health and welfare work.

LOCAL BUSINESS

National Market Contacts Locally

By ROY V. FOX

National advertisers introducing a new product look to an advertising medium which gives "depth of penetration."

In other words, they wish to reach all potential customers through an outlet which will assure quick response. To most national advertisers, this means newspaper advertising.

It is inconvenient for the national advertiser to contact hundreds or thousands of local newspapers. Yet, the newspaper is used because it is good business for the advertiser to use it. When pushing a new product he can not take chances on less reliable media. The advertising manager of Parker Pens once stated:

"Quink, which rose dramatically to a position of dominance was advertised almost exclusively in newspapers. And the introduction of the Parker '21' and its rapid acquisition of the medium-price pen business are successes that can be laid at the cost of newspapers."

"Our sales requirements are akin to those of other manufacturers and thus our reasons for using newspapers parallel those of hundreds of other producers striving to move products over the retail counter."

There should be a lesson in Parker's experience for even the smallest retailer. If large national companies find it economically wise to use local newspapers for advertising new products, the local retailer should have much more cause to use newspaper advertising consistently.

It is cheaper, more convenient, and more effective for the local merchant to use the local newspaper advertising than it is for the distant manufacturer to contact his local newspaper. Yet in both instances reasons for using newspaper advertising are identical.

For Real, Or a Mirage?

SHINNERY PHILOSOPHER

Labor Saving Is Words, Not Fact

Editor's note: The Shinnery Flats Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bone Hollow Creek discusses work this week, which is about like a bankrupt talking about finance.

Dear editor: I have long contended that the trouble with labor-saving devices is they don't save labor, they increase it, and I am now happy to have this opinion confirmed by the United States Department of Agriculture.

According to an article I ran across in a newspaper yesterday afternoon I was reading to get my mind off the noise of driving tractors running on my neighbors' farms - personally I don't really mind listening to the tractors, it's the effect they have on my wife that bothers me, she hears the neighbors' tractors running and sees mine standing at the turnabout where I left it week before last and the consequent noise she makes is a nuisance - at any rate, according to this article, in spite of all the labor-saving devices which have been invented and sold to farmers, the average length of the farm workday has not shortened much. It's still better than ten and a half hours a day, the Department of Agriculture reported.

This bears out what I've been saying all along. When a man switches from a two-row tractor to a four-row tractor, you'd think he'd do the same amount of plowing in half the time, but what he does is do twice as much plowing in the same old time, ten or eleven hours a day.

He finishes the day just as tired as he did when he had two-row equipment, and if you call this saving labor, you've got a different definition of the word than I have. The reason he does this is, he has to plow twice as much to pay for the new equipment.

Then on top of this, since he's working twice as much land as before, he produces twice as much, which brings on twice as much surplus, which lowers the price, which causes him to come out about where he was when he had two-row equipment. And the only answer most of us can find to this is to aim at six-row equipment and work three times as much land.

It's the same thing in other lines. An electric typewriter may enable a secretary to type twice as fast, so what happens? She gets twice as many letters to handle. A bookkeeper with an automatic posting machine just takes on four times as many accounts as he had when he was doing it with pen and ink.

Most labor-saving devices, as far as I can tell, are actually labor-creating devices. I guess there's some satisfaction in finishing a week of eleven-hour days and looking back and saying, well, I've plowed as much this week as I used to plow in a month, but you've got to look mighty hard to find it. Personally, I've never had to look to a machine to save labor for me. Those things will trap you. The way to save labor is to sit down and cool off. You wait for a machine to do for you and you'll never get it done.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

LITTLE TO CHEER ABOUT

State Tax Puzzle May 'Melt' Away During Special Session

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

ABOUT THE ONLY cheerful remark heard around Texas Legislative halls of late is, "Think how bad it would be if it weren't air conditioned!"

(House and Senate chambers are cooled this year for the first time, though most of the rest of the Capitol is not as yet.)

Many remember summer sessions in pre-air conditioned days. Scorching extraordinary was the one in 1949 which ran to July 6, longest regular session in Texas history.

Lawmakers and reporters complained that the huge granite blocks in the Capitol walls collected heat like a dutch oven. Coat and tie rules in the legislative chambers added to the misery.

Some observers said that the 1949 Legislature (which also had a tax problem) didn't really quit. It just sort of melted down. A special session was called the next winter to clear up money problems.

For all its comforts, air conditioning hasn't taken the sweat out of passing a tax bill.

Both House and Senate have passed tax bills, and a new conference committee was put to work to try to piece them together. But the floor action preceding passage gave no indication that any of the conflicting groups is ready to give an inch.

House membership is split three ways into (1) those who don't want the majority of new taxes to fall on business, (2) those who don't want a majority to be sales taxes and (3) those who apparently don't want any new taxes.

Each of the first two groups has been able to defeat the other's proposals with the help of the "no-taxers." Hence, despite public impatience and their own weariness, lawmakers have been ensnared in a one-step-forward-and-two-backward pattern.

SOMETHING OLD. Something new—given to the conference committee on taxes were a new bob-tailed bill from the House and an old, nearly full-size bill from the Senate.

House bill would raise about $106,000,000 over two years - about $70,000,000 less than is needed. Senate bill, designed to raise about $160,000,000 is the same one passed by the Senate in the first special session. It contains more sales taxes than business taxes which the House refused to accept on the last round.

Cut from the House bill before passage were the $50 deductible sales tax (a 2 percent levy on costs over $50) and the natural gas severance beneficiary tax. Both fell by the wayside in one of the "if you kill my tax, I'll kill yours" sessions.

Remaining in the bill were levies on which the House has been able to agree all along - on cigarettes, liquor, auto sales and corporation franchises.

"New wrinkles" added were (1) a licensing fee for private clubs that sell liquor and a 10 percent tax on mixing drinks and (2) a 1.5 percent sales tax on boats, motors and airplanes.

Bill also contains a provision to cut the sulphur tax from $1.40 to $1.03 a ton. House conferees, none of Whom served on the committee last session, are Reps. Menton J. Murray of Harlingen, Frates Seeligson of San Antonio, Wesley Roberts of Lamesa, Joe Ed Winfree of Houston and John Allen of Longview.

Senate conferees include four who served before, Sens. Rudolph Weirner, Dorsey Hardeman, Bruce Reagan and Jimmy Phillips, plus one new member, Sen. Wardlaw Lane.

Senate OKs Beach Bill—After considerable haggling and several close votes, the Senate passed a bill to guarantee public access to public beaches.

Mustang and Padre Islands are exempted from the provisions of the bill. Sen. Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi, who sponsored the amendment, said that the islands were being developed with a systematic plan for public parks, beaches and recreation areas.

Opponents to the exemption said it would allow at least one-third of the beaches on the islands to be under private control.

As passed by the Senate, the bill does not try to define boundary between state and private land, but simply affirms the public's right to come and go from state beaches by way of roads.

SEE BILL ADDED TO call - A bill to let state colleges charge a $30 a semester activity fee got a new lease on life when Gov. Price Daniel submitted it to the Legislature.

Cattle Inventory Could Hit Market

There were 96,851,000 head of cattle in the United States on January 1, 1959.

This is a new record and three and one-half million more than on January 1, 1958.

Most of this increase in the cattle inventory was in young beef stock. John C. McHaney, Extension Economist, said. For example, beef heifers rose 750,000 head, steer numbers rose 750,000 also, and calf numbers were 1,300,000 higher.

The beef cow herd increased 1.3 million. However, the number of milk cows were off 600,000 head, leaving the total cow increase at 700,000.

A big expansion in beef production for the market in 1959 or 1960 is not expected because cow numbers are not large, he said. They are still two million below 1955 and this is favorable from a price standpoint, because the calf crop this year will not be large enough to bring about a great increase in slaughter in 1959.

Many of the heifers and heifer calves will be retained as breeding stock. However, many young cattle will go to slaughter this year or next, after a period of feeding.

The outlook for fairly stable slaughter and prices in 1959 is based upon favorable range and pasture conditions.

Bill had been introduced twice, but fizzled out in the Senate when Sen. Henry Gonzalez challenged it on two points: (1) It was not "within the governor's call" for the session and (2) in order to be considered "within the call," it would have to be regarded as a revenue-raising measure which must originate in the House.

Governor Daniel's action changed this, and the Senate went back to work on the bill. A similar bill was passed by the House last session. No deadlock here - East-west agreement of the session was on a bill appropriating money to pay legislative expenses.

Both House and Senate gave final passage to a bill transferring $400,000 from the cigarette tax fund to pay costs of the second special session.

This brings legislative expenses thus far to about $2,700,000.

LAND SALE APPROVED - House passed a bill that would allow the state to sell a tract of about 40 acres just north of the State Hospital in Austin.

State Hospital Board has declared the system does not need the land. Austin city officials would like to see it privately owned so property taxes could be collected on it. Location is such that it could be used for a shopping center.

Bill sets the minimum price at $1,500,000.

BIBLE COMMENT

Bible's Failure Is Lack of Use

The American Bible Society alone has distributed in its 150-plus years of existence Bibles to the number of some half-billion.

Add to those Bibles issued by the British and other overseas Bible societies; add Bibles distributed from other societies; add Bibles for sale in the retail market.

Consider, too, that portions of the Bible have been published in over a thousand languages and dialects, the complete Bible in over 200 of those languages. And the Bible has been reproduced for the blind in over 40 languages.

The total publication of the Good Book is, therefore, nothing short of stupendous.

Why, therefore, the prevalence of evil, despite the universal availability of this source book for the truly good life?

Perhaps part of the answer lies in the way the Bible is read, in how deeply and sincerely the Bible's great truths are truly heeded.

True, too, is the fact that many Bibles are purchased and hardly opened enough to break in the binding; they become mere ornaments in the home.

Therefore, it would seem that the Bible has not failed in its purpose; the fault lies in the Christian peoples who have failed to use properly this prime instrument for good.

It might be a good time to take stock of our use of the Bible.

How long has it been since YOU so much as glanced at the Scriptures?

STARTS SUNDAY

'Ask Any Girl' Coming to Palace

Ask any girl about the normal pursuit of almost every member of the feminine sex and, if she's honest, she'll answer — the quest for a husband.

That, in a nutshell, is the thesis of MGM's very funny romantic comedy, "Ask Any Girl," starting Sunday at the Palace Theater.

Starring are Academy Award-winner David Niven, Shirley ("Some Came Running") MacLaine and Gig Young, together with a flock of beautiful young creatures hot on the trail of eligible husbands in New York City, mecca of marriageable men.

Of course, there are any number of ways for a girl to trap a man (ask any boy), but it is doubtful that any predatory Miss achieved her goal with the methods used by Miss MacLaine in this new laugh-getter. She does it by scientific research!

Here's the angle: Shirley, a pretty and saucy lass from the sticks, comes to the Big Town ostensibly to get a job but also to get a man... for permanent possession. After warding off the wolves in a first job try in which she modeled sweaters (she should have known better), she finds her niche with a conservative research agency run by David Niven. However, Niven's younger playboy brother, Gig Young, is less conservative, as Shirley soon discovers. He is the one for whom she sets her cap. When she finds the competition almost hopelessly formidable, sympathetic Niven helps her use the same motivation research techniques employed by the firm for big business. He tells her that she must hit Young "below the level of his awareness."

Shirley tries it. In a self-sacrificing gesture, Niven personally researches the charm associated with each of Young's dates and Shirley makes full use of the knowledge, whether it applies to the perfume, midnight snacks, shade of nail polish, length of eyelashes, musical recordings that inspire him romantically —as well as how to walk, to laugh and to kiss. She even goes to the length of transforming herself from a blonde into a redhead!

It will hardly come as a surprise that this motivation research campaign brings successful results. Shirley not only brings Young to his knees but also finds she has to fight off an earlier suitor, Rod Taylor, a guy who brings her home to meet the family (when the family is away). But there is a surprise in the story's finish — ask any girl if she can guess what it is.

Involved in the hilarity of "Ask Any Girl" are Jim Backus as the man who likes sweaters (when they're on girls) and such lookers as Claire Kelly, Carmen Phillips, Elizabeth Fraser and Dore Heath. George Wells wrote the novel play from the novel by Winifred Wolfe. Charles ("Don't Go Near the Water") Walters directed. Joe Pasternak produced the Euterpe Production, in CinemaScope and color, for MGM.

Friendship and Business

IT'S no strain for any business man ... city or home-town ... to be friendly when he sees you coming with money to spend.

Some of us ... a little cynical, perhaps, about the way we're often greeted with a synthetic and profit-prompted friendliness when we act like a customer in some strange store ... may conclude that business and real friendship will never mix. But they will. And they do ... every day, in thousands of small towns like ours.

Knowing each other outside our places of business, working together for community improvement, in churches, schools and other groups, sharing the community load, helping each other in time of trouble ... makes it inevitable that each of us can better and more understandingly serve the other in business.

All of us have a tendency to go to a distant spot to fish. When we get in our boats we rush across to the other side of the lake, knowing full well that fishing might be just as good right where we put in.

The same is true when we head for the coast. We seem to think that the farther away we go, the better fishing will be. Certainly I would not want to take anything away from the southern tip of Texas, or for that matter, from the mouth of the Sabine.

In fact I go there myself and enjoy every minute of it. On the other hand, I had occasion recently to take a comparatively short drive from my Austin home, so I did a little fishing on Copano Bay. We put in first at Glenn's bait house at the south end of the bridge near Bay Side.

Next day we joined with Pat Autrey, who also runs a motel at Bay Side. At Glenn's we fished with J. D. Derrough, who has been working those waters for a number of years. He knows where all the reefs are, and what hits around them.

He took us out to some of these reefs at night, to fish by one of the flares from an oil well out in Copano. On this particular night the flare had been extinguished. But when the flare is burning, dozens of boats go there every night and load up on trout.

J. D. is a bait fisherman. He doesn't care particularly for live shrimp, and says he has much better luck with frozen bait. Personally, we like a good live, frisky shrimp, but after all, we can't catch them as well as he can, so perhaps he has a point. One thing for sure, he's there where he can have all of either kind he needs, and he prefers 'em frozen.

From Autrey's place we took a look at the new bird island sanctuary planned by the Copano Club, headed by Dr. J. D. Bauer of Refugio. There we saw hundreds of shore birds making their summer homes. We saw eggs, baby birds and grandparents. There were big roseate spoonbills, egrets and herons by the hundreds.

They were nesting in the scrub-oak trees that cover this shell island. They brought in food for the baby birds from the surrounding wet lands. This island, built of shell and thick with brush, is at the mouth of Mission Bay. The area is a wonderful spot for red fish. We caught several small ones and saw a number of large ones. Both Derrough and Autrey say that real red fishing period in Mission Bay begins in October. Anyway, they've sold me and I plan to get back there in October.

There are other nearby spots on the Texas coast which also have been overlooked by many fishermen. They include Bay City, Palacios, Port Lavaca and Port Aransas. Incidentally, Port Aransas now has another modern motel. It is the Paradise Isle, managed by W. C. Price, who formerly lived in Dallas. It is modern in every respect, with refrigerated air conditioning, TV and a radio with a marine band so you can listen to boatmen talking to one another.

Such places as the Paradise Isle motel are badly needed all along the coast. For many years accommodations on the coast were geared to fishermen only. Groups of men usually went there, hired a boat and couldn't spend too much time in their cabins. They weren't particularly interested in comfort.

Now times have changed. Families go to the coast to day and trail their own boats. They want a swimming pool for the kiddies as well as comfortable rooms and good eating places.

They launch their own boats, with a pair of 35 horsepower motors and the whole family goes fishing or boat riding. Some of these boat owners don't fish. They like to ride around and look at the islands and the birds, or just leisurely play around.

As a result, business has picked up even for the commercial boatmen, who find they still have about all the customers they can care for. Right now most of the fishing on the coast is for kings, mackerel and trout. Of course, there are those who want the fighting bill fish or the big tarpon.

If you are just looking for tonnage, then go out for snapper. Raymond Muchowich, who operates the Party Boats at Freeport, says the hot weather hasn't affected deep sea fishing and that every day fishermen going out from Freeport come in with huge loads of red snapper and quite a few ling.

This is a trip that can give you more thrills and make you as tired as you've ever been in your life. You hook that big snapper down on the bottom, at about 150 feet. Then you hoist him to the top and over the side of the boat. By the time you've landed your third one you feel you have had enough punishment—but you can't quit. It's hard work—but it's fun, too!

Party boats leave the docks at 2 a. m. Some of the fishermen sleep on the way out. They are fortunate because they don't get quite so tired. Those who stay awake enroute to the banks and then catch a tub full of fish, usually are very quiet when the boat starts back in about noon. They are plenty tired, and usually are ready to "hit the sack."

Yes sir, the Texas coast is an ideal place to take your family for this year's vacation. If you haven't already had one, or you can run down there for a couple of days at the weekend. It is worth the trip whether you fish or not. And it's worth a lot more if you fish.
