Rabies Outbreak

PAOLI, Ind. (AP)—At least 10 persons in southern Indiana's Orange County are taking rabies shots after coming into contact with animals that were rabid or were attacked by other rabid animals, authorities say.

The state Board of Animal Health put all dogs on a six-month quarantine this week after rabies tests on several dead animals - a cow, a horse, a skunk and a raccoon - proved positive.

Arabs Boycott Egypt

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Hardline and moderate Arabs agreed Saturday to a complete economic boycott of Egypt and an eventual break in diplomatic relations with President Anwar Sadat's government, conference sources said. The hardline argument that America could compensate Egypt for any losses apparently broke the deadlock.

Shah In Seclusion

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Exiled Iranian Shah Nohammad Reza Pahlavi was in virtual seclusion today after making this Caribbean island the third stop in his search for refuge.

The shah, his wife, Empress Farah, their four children and an entourage of about 30 other relatives and supporters arrived at midday Friday from Rabat, Morocco.

50TH ANNIVERSARY—J.M. Lawrence, center, observes his 50th anniversary with Piggly Wiggly this year. He bought his first Piggly Wiggly store in Sweetwater, and now owns nine in West Texas, including Snyder. With Piggly Wiggly...

Lawrence Began 50-Year Association Unexpectedly

By JOHN LONG

Through lean times and depressions, war rationing and inflation, J.M. Lawrence stayed in the grocery business, stuck it out, and is now observing his 50th year with the Piggly Wiggly chain.

The Cisco native bought his first Piggly Wiggly store in 1929 in Sweetwater when he heard the stores were being bought out by a larger chain. He bought it hoping to sell it at a profit, but the chain that had been buying them suddenly quit and he was left with the store. Everything he had was tied up in it, so he had to make a go of it.

Today, Lawrence and his sons own Piggly Wiggly stores in nine West Texas towns, including Snyder.

Lawrence was no newcomer to the retail grocery business even in 1929.

Nuclear Meltdown Possibility Remote

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)-Scientists struggled to cool down the stricken Three Mile Island nuclear power plant Saturday while authorities assured the area's 130,000 residents that chances of a catastrophic melt-down were "very remote."

"There were no surprises throughout the night," said Walter Creitz, president of Metropolitan Edison, one of a consortium of utilities that runs the plant.

"The venting is continuing. We're maintaining the temperature. We don't want to lower the temperature because that would lower the pressure and increase the size of the bubble." He referred to a bubble of radioactive vapor that is threatening the reactor's core.

Gov. Dick Thornburgh said at a news conference late Friday that no general evacuation of the area is necessary "at this time."

And he repeated his recommendation that young children and pregnant women move from within 5 miles of the plant, perched on an island in the Susquehanna River about 10 miles south of Harrisburg.

But many of the 131,000 people who live within 10 miles of the plant packed belongings into trucks, vans and cars and drove away.

At midmorning, radiation was still being vented into the atmosphere at the Susquehanna River plant site, according to plant spokesman George Troffer. Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials had said they hoped to halt the releases sometime today.

"We're getting low readings, less than two millirems per hour around the perimeter of the plant, except at the northeast sector where it is eight millirems," Troffer said. An average American gets about 100 millirems a year in background radiation.

Plant engineers now are venting built-up radiated gases into a spare tank, instead of into an auxiliary building.

Union Contract Thought Close

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Teamsters union and the trucking industry, close to a contract settlement that apparently exceeds President Carter's anti-inflation guidelines, are trying to wrap up a final agreement and avert a possible trucking strike this weekend.

The tentative economic settlement, estimated by sources who asked to remain anonymous at about 30 percent over three years, reportedly has angered some of Carter's inflation advisers who agreed only Wednesday to bend the wage standard to accomodate the giant union.

Three Events Set Today At College

A piano concert, the opening of a new show in the Scurry County Museum and planetarium shows are scheduled for Western Texas College this afternoon.

The museum will mark the opening of its exhibit, graphics by Marian Ford of Midland, with a reception for the artist from 1-5 p.m.

Ronald Clinton of Austin will be presented in concert at 2 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre.

The planetarium show, "The Loneliness Factor," is to be presented at 1 p.m. and again at 3:45 p.m.

There is no admission charge for any of the Sunday programs, and the public is invited to attend them all. Persons who need directions to the Fine Arts Theatre or the planetarium may ask at the information desk in the museum building or consult the campus map mounted on a brick pedestal on the sidewalk in front of the museum.

Ask Us

Q--When will Snyder Community Antenna Television's cable reach the Helms Heights addition and others on the Colorado City Highway?

A--Mel Gilbert, SCAT executive vice president, says cable extensions are made outside the city limits as density of homes justify it. At present time there are not enough potential customers in your area to make it economically feasible. However, this could change with development of the Colony Homes tract just south of 37th adjacent to the Brick Plant Road. SCAT continually assesses the potential of areas where people want cable service and when there are enough customers, extensions are made.

Ezzell To Attend Briefing Session

State Rep. Mike Ezzell of Snyder will be in Washington, D.C., Wednesday afternoon to attend a briefing on proposed hospital cost containment legislation. Ezzell is one of a group of officials from the various states invited to sit in on the session set for 2 p.m. at the Capitol.

The SDN Column

There were several Snyderites in the stands at Hutchinson, Kan., for the National Junior College Athletic Association's national basketball finals, but they didn't view the action from the same perspective as Ninian Dunnett.

Dunnett is a Scotsman who is doing a journalistic internship with the Hutchinson News. He was an interested spectactor at the basketball tournament, but he apparently found some of the sidelights as interesting as the games, especially the cheerleaders. The Hutchinson paper capitalized on this and had him write a "color" feature for its Sunday edition.

Dunnett responded as follows:

"It seems suitable (simply out of respect for due propriety) first to study those admirable young ladies, the cheerleaders.

"Unencumbered by bulky clothing, these stalwarts gave constant vocal and physical encouragement to their teams as they played throughout the tournament, and displayed a wide range of relevant unison chants with which they supported play.

"Reluctant to risk the catastrophe that any member of their team might in the heat of the moment become confused and place the ball in the wrong net, for instance, the cheerleaders would advise the players at appropriate moments with cries of "O-ffense" or "D-fense." In more complex game situations, similarly more advanced chants were employed:

"Put it up," CLAP.

"...and in," CLAP

"...and over the rim," CLAP-CLAP.

"Nor was this support restricted to aural communication) all messages were accompanied by a series of physical mothions--a number of them not dissimilar to those used in military circumstances by the signal Corps--which resist a verbal rendering.

"Approximately, however:

"Get that ball, HOP.

"Get that ball, CHOP.

"Get--that--ball-POINT-CROUCH-SLICE.

"Should a goal be scored, the referee make a favorable decision or any other advantageous circumstance occur, the young ladies would suffer an attack of Cheerleaders' Twitches, an unusual yet strangely cheering condition in which inhibition is thrown to the winds, high-pitched screams are emitted and limbs momentarily fly in all directions."

Dunnett thus proves that he is no dunce. We must admit that he made a fair appraisal of the situation and put his finger on a factor that makes American athletic contests exciting. Where else but America could it happen?

And where else could you find an ad in a newspaper such as this one that appeared recently in the Rotan Advance?

"Notice. $500 reward to anyone shooting a burglar in Summers Pharmacy after closing hours. (Not payable if you shoot the owner)"

Tuesday Last Day To Vote Absentee

Abentee voting for city and school elections will end Tuesday.

The elections are set for Saturday, April 7, at which time places on school boards and city councils will be filled.

City and school elections are held on the same dates now, and in some cases this has led to confusion, according to reports here the past week.

Only voters who reside inside the city limits are eligible to cast ballots in the city council election, but the city boundaries are not a factor in the school election. Any voter who resides within a school district may vote for school board candidates in that district. In the case of Snyder, this takes in a big portion of Scurry County, especially to the west and to the north.

Absentee voting in the Snyder School District is being conducted at the school tax office in the administration building, while other districts have absentee voting at their respective schools. Absentee voting in the city election is being conducted at the city hall.

Richardson To Head Producers

New officers of the Scurry County Producers Association were elected Friday night at a meeting held at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

Johnny Richardson was elected the association's new president. He replaces Milton Stephens. The two other officers elected were Tommy Pate, vice president, and Jimmy Spence, secretary.

In presenting a financial report to the association members, Stephens noted the group has $63,585 entered into a savings account. That figure, said Stephens, does not reflect the interest it has drawn since last year.

Except for the election of officers and the reading of the financial report, no other official business was conducted.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Friday, 75 degrees; low, 43 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Saturday, 44 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1979 to date, 2.96.

West Texas: Clear to partly cloudy Monday through Wednesday. Highs 60s north to the 70s south and the 80s lowlands of the Big Bend. Lows from the low 30s north to the 40s south.

SHS Teacher To Study In France

ED McANALLY
...awarded fellowship

Ed McAnally, a Snyder High School French teacher, has been awarded a fellowship to study in France one month this summer.

The fellowship is one of only 24 to be awarded to teachers of French in the United States. It is presented by the French government through the American Association of Teachers of French, of which McAnally is a member.

A native of Cross Plains, McAnally received his bachelor's degree from McMurry College and his master's degree from Indiana University. He has been teaching in Snyder since 1970.

The fellowship provides for McAnally to study in the southern French town of Avignon from July 3 to July 31. The study will be based on the French language and culture.

"I am very excited about it. I think it will be one way to expand my life and give me a feel of what it's like to live in France," said the 31-year-old teacher. McAnally's only other trip to France was for a five-day visit in the summer of 1977.

He, his wife, and in-laws plan to vacation briefly in the British Isles before he has to leave for France.

'Magic' Show Set Monday At WTC

Magician and comic John Fabjance will be presented in an evening of entertainment at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Western Texas College gymnasium.

The program is under the sponsorship of the WTC Student Senate, and the public is invited to attend. Tickets may be purchased in advance at the WTC Student Activities office in the Student Center or at Snyder Drug. Admission prices are $2.50 per person or $2 for WTC students with activity cards.

Many of the tricks Fabjance uses are ones he invented. He started working with magic in high school, and over his 25-year career he has invented more than 200 tricks. His inventions, books and magazine ("Legerdemain") are marketed and distributed by mail by Fabjance studios, Inc.

Tricks invented by Fabjance are used by the producers of the Ice Capades, Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Circus and many other professional and amateur productions. He has designed trick props and scenery as well, and several leading manufacturers have had Fabjance teach their salesmen magic and develop dramatic visual effects to promote their products.

Many people have been introduced to Fabjance without ever knowing his name, since over 30 million reproductions of his tricks have been used in and on cereal boxes, packages of candy and containers of Hershey Instant Chocolate.

"We think this will be a really good evening's entertainment," Mickey Baird, Student Activities Director, said, "and one the whole family can enjoy."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Outside pressures today could lead you to spend a lot more money than you should. It's never wise to attempt to keep up with the Joneses.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March. 20) Try not to agitate loved ones today by demanding too much of them. A few kind words do more than many harsh commands.

A Word to the Wives Should Be Sufficient

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR READERS: Last week I printed my Ten Commandments for Husbands. Being a proponent of equal rights, today I offer my Ten Commandments for Wives.

If you missed last week's column and want a copy, please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

10 COMMANDMENTS FOR WIVES

1) Defile not thy body either with excessive foods, tobacco or alcohol, that thy days may be long in the house which thy husband provideth for thee.

2) Put thy husband before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter and thy son, for he is thy lifelong companion.

3) Thou shalt not nag.

4) Permit no one to tell thee that thou art having a hard time of it; neither thy mother, thy sister nor thy neighbor, for the Judge will not hold her guiltless who letteth another disparage her husband.

5) Thou shalt not withhold affection from thy husband, for every man loveth to be loved.

6) Forget not the virtue of cleanliness and modest attire.

7) Forgive with grace, for who among us doth not need forgiveness?

8) Remember that the frank approval of thy husband is worth more to thee than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers.

9) Keep thy home in good order, for out of it come the joys of thy old age.

10) Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who is pretty good at solving problems, but I need help with this one.

Last Friday night my parents came home and found my boyfriend and me lying on the couch with the lights turned off. We were just talking. Honest to God. I swear it!

They made a big fuss and my boyfriend went home early. (He's allowed to stay until midnight on weekends, but he was so embarassed by the way they yelled at me he left at 11 o'clock.)

Do you see anything wrong with two people lying on the couch and talking?

What would you do if it were your daughter, and you had always been able to trust her?

JUST TALKING

DEAR JUST: I'd tell her that she'd be wise to keep both feet on the floor, and so would her boyfriend—that talking in a sleeping position could lead to nightmares she never dreamed could happen.

I'd say, "I still trust you, Honey, but people think much better with the lights on—sitting up."

Spotlight On Schools...

Northeast Pupils Busy With Varied Activities

Editor's Note: This is an article in a series sponsored by the Scurry County Teachers Association. The featured school today is Northeast Elementary.

As its name indicates, Northeast Elementary, presided over by the only female principal in Snyder, Mrs. Gerri Parker, is located on the northeast edge of Snyder adjacent to Highway 84 and is easily recognized by its colorful checkerboard design on exterior walls.

Upon closer inspection, the observer notes also a most cheerful array of playground equipment as well as bright goings-on inside the building.

Students at Northeast are engaged in activities which increase their awareness of educational programs and are exposed to varied learning activities. The following excerpts were written by students at the school.

From Mrs. Dorothy Kayser's PRI class:

Northeast has its own flag. It was drawn by a sixth-grader, and it was made by the Parent's Club. The whole sixth grade had to draw a flag that they thought would be the best. Then the school voted on the one that they liked best. And that's how Northeast got their flag. The winner was Vicky Barlow. --Ricky Garcia.

The Resource Center is lots of fun. It has lots of games and a record player, adding machine to help people learn, a typewriter, chalkboard, and all kinds of good things. The Resource Center isn't just for fun. It's for learning. Sometime you get to go there when you've finished all your work. --Jayna Gilbert and Patrice Davis.

At Northeast the pupils in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades divide up for special groupings. One sixth grade group is taught by Gerald Bowen; another is taught by Mrs. Cindy Lickey. A fifth grade teacher is Mrs. Mildred White; next is Mrs. Christine Bradley. The fourth grade is very interesting. The teachers are Mrs. Georgene Galloway and Mrs. June McGlaun. Fourth graders are actually studying the same as the sixth grade groups but are going much slower than the sixth graders are.---Tonya Bennett

The following items were submitted for a newspaper project by students in Mrs. Lickey's reading class:

We have a new progoram here at Northeast called Peer Tutoring. The program is about older kids helping younger kids. Some basic skills are teaching the children to count to ten, helping them to pick pairs, and helping them to find shapes. Three groups work each day. The older kids that come to help the kindergarten have a big responsibility to keep the children quiet. Students working as peer tutors are the following: Third Graders Tobi Hitchcock, Frankie Castillo, David Carrol, and George Guitterez; Fifth Graders John Helms, Teresa Leatherwood, and Emilia Maestas; Sixth Graders Gabriel Hinojos, Carie Housden, Tina Romero, and Debra Pace. This project not only helps the young kids, it also helps the older kids by helping them learn to work with others.--Gabriel Hinojos

In listing names of students on the Honor Roll, Matt Cross says; "For a student to be on the Honor Roll, he or she must maintain an average of ninety-four or higher in all subjects."

Mrs. Linda Cozart, our newest second grade teacher, wanted to be a teacher from the time she was a student in elementary school. She had some teachers who still teach today in Snyder. Mrs. Cozart came to Northeast last November from Stanfield Elementary. Before that she had taught at Central and North. Mrs. Cozart has also taught in two other schools outside of Snyder. She has taught special reading classes for first through fifth grades. Mrs. Cozart has enjoyed working with the students and faculty at Northeast and is looking forward to getting to know some of the older students. --Bruce Williams.

Mr. Dale Hamby is a new third grade teacher at Northeast. He is enjoying his first year teaching in Snyder. Before teaching at Northeast, Mr. Hamby taught Junior High at Robert Lee and Roby. He went to college at North Texas State and at Hardin-Simmons. He said it is very different teaching at the elementary level than at the junior high level. Mr. Hamby also drives a school bus, which makes for a very long day. He likes Northeast and hopes to be back next year. --Larry Martinez.

Mrs. Sammie Housden is a new teacher aide at Northeast. She assists Miss Martinez in the Second grade. Mrs. Housden is pleased with her job. She and Miss Martinez are very happy working together. Before coming to Snyder, Mrs. Housden worked at a school in Corpus Christi for two and one-half years. She is married to Kenneth Housden and has four children. Carie, Angie, and Evette are students at Northeast, and Ricky is a Student at Snyder High School. One of Mrs. Housden's duties is taking care of the cafeteria during the breakfast period. --Tonya Bennett

Miss Marge Martinez is new to Snyder schools, although she is at home in the Snyder area since she grew up at Hobbs. She is enjoying teaching Second Grade Distar, and she enjoys the people she works with. Before coming to Snyder, Miss Martinez taught in the Lubbock area. --Carie Housden

Mrs. Eva Fleming is our new cafeteria manager. She came to Northeast this year after working at East Elementary last year. When asked what she thought of Northeast, Mrs. Fleming had the following comments. "I like Northeast because the children are nice and well-behaved. I like the way the children clean their tables, put up benches, and pick up the salt and pepper. That saves a lot of time for the cafeteria personnel, and teaches the children responsibilities. The teachers are all very nice and friendly. Mrs. Parker is one of the best principals I have known. I am enjoying this year very much."--Freddie Castillo

In 10-Inning Battle...

Andrews Edges Snyder

Danny Fierro slapped a solid hit past the first base line to knock in the winning run here Friday - or Saturday, rather - as the Andrews Mustangs trimmed Snyder 3-2 in 10-innings of tournament baseball.

The outcome knocked the Tigers out of the championship game. They were to meet the Kermit-Lamesa loser at 6 p.m. Saturday for third place. Andrews was to play the Kermit-Lamesa winner in the finals at 8.

In other games played Friday, the Mustangs slammed Jal, N.M. 10-0, Snyder dumped Lubbock Estacado 7-1, Lamesa edged Odessa Ector 4-3 and Kermit plowed past Levelland 14-9.

Also, Estacado sent Jal home with a 14-4 victory in the loser's bracket. Estacado was to meet the winner of the Ector-Levelland (9:30 a.m. Saturday) game at 4 for consolation.

Friday's Tiger game, set for 8:30, got underway about 10 p.m. and after Snyder locked the score at 2-2 in the bottom of the seventh inning, didn't wind up until 1 a.m. Saturday.

Credit Fierro and shortstop George Gonzales with most of the Andrews heroics. Fierro got the Mustangs rolling in the first inning after teammate Joe Gonzales singled. Snyder hurler Tony Degrate threw two strikeouts, but Fierro caught a single which sent Joe Gonzales running for home. The throw was in time, but catcher Toby Neves was unable to connect batter and ball and Andrews went up 1-0. Fierro was tagged out trying to take second.

Degrate pitched the entire 10-inning marathon and the sophomore hurler carded 18 strikeouts in the wake. His toughest overall inning came in the second.

Donnie Munsell got on base on a hit-pitch as first-up but Degrate fanned the next two batters in succession.

Steve Bailey, then drew a walk and Jim Springer knocked a shot Richard Crayton's way but the shortstop was unable to contain it and the bases loaded. Degrate then got a full count on Billy Green, but the next pitch went by, and Andrews walked in a second run before Joe Gonzales went down swinging.

Snyder got one run in the fourth inning as Crayton walked and Mitch Mackey belted him in with a double. Sid Everton struck out and Scott Crenwelge slapped a ball towards George Gonzales who caught it and stepped on second to put out Mackey for a double play.

It was to be one of three double plays Gonzales

Gold Coat Scramble Set Here Saturday

Details for the first annual Gold Coat Memorial Scholarship Golf Tournament - to be held April 7 - have been mapped out.

The single-day Florida Scramble-type tourney will honor deceased Goldcoaters and all proceeds will go to a Western Texas College general scholarship fund.

The tournament will have two tee times, at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. A $10 minimum entry fee, plus a $4 green fee for non-WTC Course members, will be the charge.

The meet will consist of 72 two player teams on a first-come, first-serve basis.

In addition to plaques (1st through 4th places), a number of other prizes will be awarded or drawn, giving the non or infrequent golfer a chance at some "goodies" too.

Goldcoaters and college representatives stress that those not wishing to participate, but interested in donating to the fund, make checks payable to the WTC Gold Coat Scholarship Fund, and mail or take by the local chamber of commerce. It is tax deductible.

The tournament was instituted by citizens wishing to honor the memory of Bentley Baize and Loren Sullivan, and other honorees to be named in the future.

Those wishing to participate in the tournament should contact the WTC Pro Shop (915-573-9291) for reservations.

TIGER GOLFER--Sophomore Devin Donelson is caught in action during a District 3-AAA Golf Tournament held at Western Texas College Golf Course on Saturday morning. Snyder, Brownfield, Lamesa and Sweetwater teams were to compete in the tourney - the second of four district matches to be held this spring. Currently, Brownfield leads the others, followed by Snyder, Lamesa and Sweetwater. Saturday's action could have served to joggle those standings. (SDN STAFF PHOTO by John Long.)

Hockey Votes For Expansion

NEW YORK (AP)-The National Hockey League voted in favor of an expansion which would accept the New England Whalers, Quebec Nordiques, Winnipeg Jets and Edmonton Oilers for next season - effectively shutting down the 7-year-old World Hockey Association.

The WHA was born with 12 franchises in the 1972-73 season, with each franchise costing only $25,000. For the right to come into the NHL, each of the four expansion clubs will pay $6 million and make equal contribution toward the total of $6.35 million in closedown costs required to put the Cincinnati Stingers and Birmingham Bulls out of business.

would be involved in during the game, including two crucial ones in the seventh and ninth inning.

Snyder tied the totals in the bottom of the seventh inning. Everton got on base on a George Gonzales error. A wild pitch by hurler Estrada moved him to second and in scoring position.

Crenwelge, next up, struck out, but Kyle Short slammed a drive past the third baseman to spend Everton scurrying home. Toby Neves got on base next, off of another Gonzales error, but the shortstop made up for it on the ensuing play. He fielded Shawn Ragland's shot and stepped on second base, then threw to first for his second double play of the evening.

Snyder mounted a drive in the ninth inning after Mackey connected for a single and stole second base. Everton then hit a shot back to the mound and Estrada fired to third in time to catch Mackey coming in. With one out, and a runner on, Crenwelge drilled a shot to close to Gonzales and once more the quick shortstop stepped on second base and fired to first for the double play.

Andrews scored in the 10th inning to win the contest. Joe Gonzales reached base on an error, and Degrate fanned the next batter. Gonzales stole second to garner scoring position and Fierro brought him home with a single down the first base line. The Tigers garnered a double play of their own second later as Degrate struck out Munsell and Neves caught Fierro trying to take second.

Snyder had a final chance in the bottom of the inning, but the Mustangs took them three up, three down for the win.

Estrada allowed four hits, walked two and struck out eight. Degrate gave up five hits, walked three and fanned 18 batters. He is 2-2 for the season.

Mackey picked up Snyder's earlier win, nailing eight strikeouts and giving up eight hits.

Snyder pounded losing hurler Limon for 13 hits, including six doubles and a triple.

Ragland belted a pair of doubles and Neves, Mike Hicks and Bobby Degrate each got one. Mackey collected a triple and a single and Crayton accounted for a double and two singles. Short also got a hit.

Snyder scored three runs in the first, one each in the third and seventh innings and two in the sixth to whip the Mats, who garnered their only run in the first stanza.

Officials Refute Priest's Charges

EL PASO, Texas (AP)-A Roman Catholic priest's charges that he was slapped around by U.S. Customs officials earlier this month have been refuted by a government investigation that Catholic authorities termed "responsible."

The Rev. Jesse Munoz had said he went to Juarez, just across the border from El Paso, to aid an American couple from Colorada.

He said that upon returning, he was stripped, slapped and beaten by Customs officials.

Friday, Customs officials released the results of their investigation.

They concluded that Munoz' allegations were "unfounded."

"He was not stripped of his clothing, only his socks and shoes were removed," said Customs district director William Hughes. "He was not thrown against the wall five times. He was made to stand against the wall. He was not slapped."

REV. AND MRS. JAY NEWSOM

Pastor Called By Agape Fellowship

The Agape Christian Fellowship Church of Snyder has called its first full-time pastor. He is the Rev. J.E. (Jay) Newsom, who moved here from Lubbock.

Prior to moving here he was employed by Trinity Church in Lubbock and attended Trinity Bible Institute, a two-year Bible school sponsored by Trinity Church. He was associated with Trinity Church--one of the largest interdenominational churches in West Texas with over 4,000 members--for more than five years. Earlier he attended Texas Tech University as a business and accounting major. A native of Shawnee, Okla., he was reared at Cotton Center, 35 miles north of Lubbock.

Rev. Newsom, his wife, Mary, and their son, Jay, live at 3603 Jacksboro. Mrs. Newsom also attended Texas Tech and majored in art education.

Agape Christian Fellowship is an interdenominational church which was organized more than two years ago. During the 18 months prior to Rev. Newsom's call, the congregation met on Sunday evenings under the leadership of the Rev. Walter Axtell of Lubbock. Since Rev. Newsom came, the church has expanded its services to include Sunday morning Bible Study and Sunday morning and evening worship services. Four age groups are now being taught during Sunday school, including preschool, elementary, junior-senior high and adults.

The fellowship meets now in the auditorium of West Elementary School and information about services, prayer groups or Bible studies may be obtained by calling Rev. Newsom at 573-8376.

Hawaii Hit By Quake

HONOLULU (AP)—An earthquake measuring 4.0 on the Richter scale shook residents on the islands of Oahu and Kauai early Friday, the Pacific Tsunami Warning Center Said.

There were no reports of damage or injuring from the quake centered ten miles south of Pearl Harbor.

The Richter scale records energy released by an earthquake as measured by ground motion on a seismograph.

WTC Offering Course...

Defensive Driving Week To Be Observed Here

"Defensive Driving Saves" will be the slogan for Defensive Driving Week in Texas from April 1-8.

Western Texas College will be cooperating in the special observance by offering an eight-hour Defensive Driving course starting Monday. Dr. Jim Palmer will be instructor for the class, which will meet in room 101 of the Learning Resoure Center.

Students will pay fees of $12 each for the course. Classes will meet from 6:30-10:30 p.m. on April 2 and 9, and students must attend the eight hours of training to qualify for certificates entitling them to reductions on several types of automobile insurance.

Traffic accidents are the leading cause of accidental death in Texas, the Texas Safety Association points out. In 1978, traffic accidents claimed about 4,000 lives. The Texas Safety Association works to reduce highway deaths, injuries and property damage through a continuing program of driver education, and this year's slogan was planned to emphasize the many ways in which defensive driving does promote savings in all these areas.

Over 10 million people have graduated from defensive driving courses, one million of these in Texas, the Texas Safety Association says, but the need to promote safe driving makes it imperative that more drivers receive this vital education.

Persons wishing to reserve space in the WTC driving course are to call the Community Services office at 573-8511, extension 240.

Six Killed In Wreck

VICTORIA (AP)—Six persons were killed early Saturday when a car smashed into a bridge over a railroad track on Loop 175 on the south side of Victoria.

The victims - three men and three women - were believed all from Victoria. W.H. McManis, a supervisor with the Victoria County sheriff's office, said the accident happened about 1 a.m. on the loop, a mile south of the Bloomington turnoff.

The car was flattened by the impact, and authorities had to pry the wreckage apart to get the victims out. The dead were taken to Citizens Memorial Hospital in Victoria, where officials began trying to identify them.

Schedule Of Community Events Assembled By Chamber Panel

Today marks the beginning of a new service to be provided by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce through its committee on arts and humanities.

It is a chronological list of events scheduled in Snyder and Scurry County this month. The list has been compiled by Sharon Sutton and Donna Holt, co-chairmen of the committee, and a similar list will be assembled and published near the first of each month.

The calendar has a two-fold purpose:

1. To provide Snyder area residents and visitors with information on cultural, recreational and entertainment opportunities available in the community.

2. Help eliminate as many conflicts as possible in the scheduling of major events in the community.

To achieve the second objective, organizations sponsoring events are being asked to notify the chamber office when they are ready to establish dates. If all cooperate, the chamber staff will be able to advise whether another event already has been set for any date under consideration, and also it can advise others of the dates an organization ultimately selects for an event.

"We have many things happening in Snyder that should interest many people and we hope that a month's listing will help them make plans in advance to attend these functions," the committee co-chairmen said.

Airline Cancels Flights

CHICAGO (AP)—United Airlines said it would cancel its 1,600 daily scheduled flights after midnight Friday became of a work stoppage by members of a machinists' union.

Flights already en route before the 12:01 a.m. deadline were expected to proceed to their scheduled destinations, the airline said in a statement from its corporate headquarters here.

The airlines said the 18,611 members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers on Thursday rejected a tentative agreement reached March 19 between airline and union officials.

Striker Killed By Delivery Truck

COON RAPIDS, Minn. (AP)—A striking employee of Plastics, Inc., was killed by a large delivery truck in Coon Rapids as he manned an informational picket line, the company said.

A union official identified the dead man as Donald Philla, 21, St. Paul. He said a truck delivering pallets to the company's Coon Rapids plant drove over Pilla about 2:15 p.m. Thursday.

About 200 production and maintenance workers have been on strike against Plastics, Inc., since March 7 over a contract wage reopener.

MINIMUM MAINTENANCE LANDSCAPE

The downfall of most home landscapes is the lack of maintenance. It is practically impossible to maintain an attractive landscape without a few hours of care each week. Yet too often the homeowner will tend to plant and forget, thinking that everything will somehow turn out looking okay.

Leaving our landscapes to Mother Nature's care doesn't usually work out, particularly in Texas where summer alone can take a scorching toll. Plants basically are like pets or animals--they must be fed, watered, groomed, and occasionally treated for insects or diseases--otherwise they die, or at best live an unhealthy life.

Becoming a "Saturday Slave" to your landscape is not necessary. The trick is in the planning. If possible, plan your landscape in advance--mentally or on paper--and be sure to have a definite purpose and place for every plant, tree, shrub, or other feature you use. Plant with minimum maintance in mind.

Here are some do's and don'ts to consider in establishing a minimum maintenance landscape:

--Realizing that few of us have 40 hours or $40 a week to spend on our landscapes, do eliminate as many "frills" as possible. A good landscape design is based on simplicity, so use only those things that do a definite job in the landscape. Don't just plant for the sake of variety.

--Do keep the yard free of ornaments and even trees and shrubs, except for those absolutely needed.

--Do avoid a scattered arrangement of flower beds and shrubs. A cluttered yard with many beds and shrubs will require a lot of hand edging and clipping. That in itself can become a maintenance nightmare.

--Don't try to grow grass in areas too shady, too dry, too wet, or too steep to be mowed safely. Use ground cover plants in these areas; there are many good ones to select from.

--Don't line walks and driveways with unnecessary plantings or place foundation plants so close to the house that they can't be maintained.

--Do select plants carefully, considering their ultimate size (height and width).

--Don't use fast growing plants which will require constant pruning.

--Do consider the use of native plants since they are obviously adapted to our climate and soil and usually have few past problems.

--Do use mowing strips or edges along walks, flower beds and around trees and shrubs. These will reduce mowing and edging problems and create a much neater landscape.

--Do use mulches to minimize watering and reduce weeds in flower and shrub beds.

--Don't overfertilize. Keep plants at minimum fertilization levels and mowing, pruning, and trimming will be minimized.

And last but not least, don't confuse low maintenance with no maintenance. Plants will sooner or later need water, fertilizer, and care, and the grass must be mowed. The idea is to find the easiest way to do the maintenance jobs which must be done.

One way to keep from becoming that "Saturday Slave" to your landscape is by setting aside a couple of evenings during the week for doing your landscape chores. The long summer evenings, the daylight saving's time, make it possible to work late, and enjoy the cool evening hours at the same time.

7 Mishaps Reported

Seven traffic accidents were reported to police Friday and Saturday morning.

Friday's first accident was at the intersection of 37th St. and College Ave. Reports show a 1965 Ford driven by Jonie Kinchelow and a 1973 Chevrolet pickup driven by David Koonce collided. It occurred 8:26 a.m.

The intersection of 35th St. and College was the site of Friday's second accident at 12:05 p.m. There, reports show, a 1967 Ford driven by Cornello Castillo was in collision with a 1978 Toyota driven by Lajeania Stroud.

Two vehicles collided at the South Dairy Queen at 12:48 p.m. Involved in it were a 1978 Chevrolet pickup driven by Randall Chamers and a 1976 Ford driven by Jamie Hataway.

A 1976 Buick driven by Paula Darlene Lee and a 1973 Chevrolet driven by Shelley Lee McMullan were in collision shortly before 6 p.m. in the 900 block of 25th St.

A parking lot at the Windridge Apartments was the site where a 1974 International pickup driven by John Andrea Hall and 1979 GMC pickup driven by Scott Carter Crenwelge collided. That collision took place about 6:23 a.m.

The next traffic accident occurred at 12:56 a.m. Saturday in the 200 block of Towle Park Road. There, a 1976 Chevrolet struck a curb and tree. Moderate damages were reported.

The final accident was at 5:15 a.m. Saturday in the 100 block of College Ave. A 1977 Dodge van driven by Albert Richardson struck a sign pole causing an estimated $30 worth of damage.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

Nose drops should be of a saline or water-based solution. Avoid oil-based nose drops, say medical scientists, because of the risk that some of the oil may trickle down into the air pockets of the lungs where there is no way for it to be absorbed. This may result in oil pneumonia. Your doctor or pharmacist can guide you in the selection of nose drops.

LAWRENCE

He had been a co-owner of an independent grocery store in Cisco since 1925.

The store was 25-by-90 feet, of which approximately half was warehouse space. He bought a half interest in it for $1,900.

Now, a good supermarket cash register costs between $3,000 and $3,500, said Jack Lawrence, J.M.'s son and the manager of the 22,000 square-foot Snyder Piggly Wiggly.

"At times I didn't know I'd be able to open up the next morning," said the 75-year-old Lawrence of the Depression days. He credits "just hard work" as pulling him through. Seventy-hour work weeks were the norm during those hard years.

A half-century ago, Lawrence recalls, hamburger meat sold for a nickel a pound, eggs a nickel a dozen, and a 25-pound sack of flour went for 49 cents. Those days are gone. Going but not gone yet are the days of the neighborhood grocery store.

The emphasis now is on supermarkets, and even they are changing. "There's been talk that you'll go into a supermarket, sit down on a stool, and the shelves will revolve around you," said Lawrence of the future.

Son Jack predicted customers of the future will order their groceries by computer. Both men agreed that supermarkets are getting bigger and bigger and going in more for non-food items.

One thing that should never change, Lawrence feels, is old-fashioned honesty.

"Honesty to the customer," "the customer is always right," and "I never asked hired help to do anything I wouldn't do," were principles which guided him to his success in the grocery business, Lawrence said.

When asked if honesty might someday change or disappear altogether, Lawrence replied, "Not with the hometown merchant."

The Snyder Piggly Wiggly store was opened by Lawrence and a brother-in-law, O.L. Nichols, in 1945. Sons Jack and Jere bought out Nichols and the store operated under Lawrence family ownership until 1968.

The family re-purchased the store late in 1978, and observed a grand opening in February, 1979. The elder Lawrence worked for a while even then.

Offering a bit of advice to young men just starting in the grocery business, Lawrence said, "If you like people you can make a success of it."

Clark, McKee Wed

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL CHARLES McKEE

Teresa Anne Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Clark and Michael Charles McKee, son of Mary Lou McKee and the late Robert McKee of Lawrence, Mich., exchanged nuptial vows 7 p.m. March 17 at Colonial Hill Baptist Church. Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor of the church, officiated the single ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original ivory silk chiffon gown with a fitted bodice of Brussels lace and seed pearls. Her deep cuffed bishop sleeves were trimmed with matching lace. The full skirt swept into an attached cathedral train bordered with Brussels lace. The bride's full fingertip veil was scalloped with Brussels lace and encrusted with twine seed pearls flowing from a tiara of dainty silk flowers in ivory and shades of blue. She wore a green garter for St. Patrick's Day.

She carried a natural bouquet of silk, long stemmed ivory and blue mums delphinium, snapdragons, violets and pixie carnations, with a pair of tiny white doves nestled in baby's breath.

The bride's sister, Denise Clark, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown designed by Aria. It was made of silesta chiffon featuring a blouson bodice accented with soft flowing split sleeves and a high neckline with a mandarin collar. She carried a silk flower bouquet in ivory and blue, matching the bride's bouquet.

Carroll Ann Crenshaw, flower girl, wore an ivory gauze long dress with a mandarin collar and puffed, long sleeves trimmed with blue floral print ribbon and ivory lace. She carried a bouquet of minature blue silk roses.

Jeana Duke and Lisa von Roeder cousins of the bride and Lynda Crenshaw were bridesmaids. They were dressed identical to the maid of honor.

Carley Clark of Austin nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Serving as best man was Mark McKee of Lawrence, Mich., brother of the groom. Ushers were Stanley Clark, Terry Clark, brothers of the bride, and Wayne Davidson.

The wedding music was presented by organist Lynn Bethel.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony. The bridal bouquet centered the table with a Bible from Jerusalem with a pearl cover, a gift of the bride's grandmother. The wedding cake was adorned with a fountain and roses in shades of blue. The groom's table held a double ring German chocolate cake decorated with blue roses. Serving were Terri Eaton, Valene Zett, Laurie Partain, Susan Grosshans presided at the registry book.

The couple will reside at 3004 40th St.

The bride is a 1977 Snyder High School graduate. The bridegroom attended Oklahoma State University. He is an employee of Ingersol Rand.

Out of town guests were from Roscoe, Odessa, Lubbock, Big Spring, Austin, Tulsa, Okla., and Lawrence, Mich.

The Girl Scouts of America was founded in Georgia in 1912.

Sorority Sock Hop Held

Returns Wallet

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—"Give me back my wallet or I will call the police," Ann-Jo Veguilla yelled at two would-be robbers. To her surprise, they complied, she told police.

Ms. Veguilla said that as she neared her car outside a Buffalo supermarket Saturday evening, two men approached her. One grabbed her wallet, containing $400, and then both men ran off, she said. But she pursued them, demanding that they return the wallet.

The two then ran back to her car, threw the wallet inside and told her to "take off," advice they also followed.

Thirty-five percent of all households will have microwave ovens by 1983, compared to 10 percent today, says Nancy Granovsky, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Consumers can expect to find new lines of housewares and food products designed exclusively for microwave oven use, the specialist adds.

South was quite happy with the dummy as he put the ace of diamonds on West's queen. He had 11 sure tricks and could get his 12th with a successful finesse for either the queen of hearts or king of spades. With both finesses working, he would make seven. With both losing, he could complain about bad luck. Then South found a way to be sure of six even with both finesses wrong.

At trick two he ruffed a diamond with a high trump. Then he led a trump to dummy and ruffed another diamond. When West followed it became apparent that West's queen of diamonds lead had been from king-queen. No one leads the queen from queen-x-x.

Now South drew the last trump and played three rounds of hearts to ruff the last one in dummy. Then he led dummy's jack of diamonds and discarded his five of spades. West was in with the king.

He had his choice of losing leads. A spade lead would be up to South's ace-queen. A heart lead would allow a ruff in dummy and a discard of the queen of spades.

HOW CHILDREN LEARN TO SPEAK

Children listen—and imitate—to learn to speak.

Therefore, one of the requirements of human speech, besides the physical and mental equipment for making and understanding sounds, is a model—someone to imitate.

Babies start to develop language skills from early infancy. The first time they cry, they've begun to communicate—they've successfully "spoken."

By the time babies are three months old, they usually recognize familiar voices and experiment on their own.

Researchers believe that babies can understand language and formulate fairly complex thoughts before they can speak words.

The reasons they don't speak sooner are physical—their tongue is too large in proportion to their mouth, their voice box or larynx hasn't matured and their brain hasn't developed sufficiently.

Because of the physical maturity necessary for language, children rarely speak in sentences before age two.

By the time children are three, they understand most of the language they'll use in ordinary conversation for the rest of their lives.

Therefore, equally as important as physical readiness to speak, experts say, is interaction with speakers of the language.

Imitation is a vital part of language development.

Robertson Gives Program At AARP

American Association of Retired Persons met at the Senior Citizens Center at 2 p.m. March 19. Rev. David Robertson gave a program on Christian symbols and superstitions of the Easter Season.

Another special guest was John H. Burnett of Odessa, assistant state director, who gave a short talk following the business meeting.

It was noted that members M.W. Pilcher and Rev. Vernon Parnell will offer a Defensive Driving Course to be held May 7-8 and May 14-15. Fast, Tasty Treats

By Aileen Claire

Quick sweets are a blessing these days for the homemaker who doesn't have two or three hours to spend preparing such goodies.

Raisin goodbars may be cut and wrapped for backpackers, hikers or campers to carry with them. So, too, can the rum pecans; but they will probably find their perfect place as nibblies or toppings for ice-cream desserts.

RAISIN GOODBARS

- 1/3 cup butter or margarine
- ¾ cup quick-cooking oats
- 1½ cups packed brown sugar
- ¾ cup flour
- 2 eggs
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup dark or golden raisins
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup flaked coconut
- ¼ cup chopped candied cherries

Blend butter, oats, ½-cup brown sugar and ½-cup flour until crumbly. Pack firmly into bottom of greased 9-inch square pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 15 minutes, or until lightly browned.

Meanwhile, beat eggs. Add remaining 1 cup brown sugar, ¼-cup flour and rest of ingredients, stirring to blend. Spoon over baked layer.

Bake 30 minutes longer. Cool before cutting into bars. Makes about 2 dozen bars.

RUM PECANS

- 2 teaspoons instant coffee
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 cups pecan halves
- 2 tablespoons Bacardi Amber rum
- Dash salt

Combine all ingredients in small saucepan. Bring to boil over medium heat. Boil 3 minutes, stirring constantly.

Pour out onto oiled wax paper. Separate halves of pecans as they cool.

B-BIBLE QUOTE (KJV)
C-THEORY OF IMPRINTING
D-OLD CHINESE PROVERB

(answers in the following article)

It's impossible to estimate the impact which the family, and particularly the parents, have on the development of children. Children do, as the old American saying indicates, sit at the feet of their mothers' hearts reading the attitudes, intentions and emotions and incorporating them into their own personalities.

Sons do grow up like their fathers, more often than not--again as old American cliches suggest. And children do reap the fruits of their parents' doings throughout their lifetimes--it is the fathers who eat the sour grapes, but it is the children whose teeth are set on edge (Ezekiel 18:2).

Scientists such as Rudolph Hess and Conrad Lorenz have conducted fascinating experiments with various infant animals which may well have application to human children. Some of the experiments dealt with what is called imprinting, a process of acquiring lifelong behavior patterns while still in infancy. Hess discovered that newly hatched ducklings will follow the first moving thing they see, no matter the size, shape, color or sound of it. And after a few minutes of following whatever it is, the ducklings will follow nothing else for the rest of their lives!

It appears that very early in life, baby ducks are imprinted for life. To some extent the same is most likely true of many human infants and children. Being born into a home where there is warmth, love, sharing, unselfishness, honesty and devotion seems to produce children--and adults--who have these traits. Such children are the crown of their grandparents, according to Proverbs 17:6.

God can help families to have these characteristics. And the Church and Sunday School are greatly used of God to communicate them.

Some families may feel that they don't need help, but most of us sense our own human inadequacy to deal with the complexities of problems which today's society presents. The old Chinese proverb may well have been accurate--it may be harder to regulate a family than to rule a kingdom. So most of us welcome help from God, the church, the Sunday School and Christian friends in our efforts to provide the very best for our children.

Especially during the month of April, let's give our Sunday School a chance to help us enrich the lives of all of our family members. There is something for every age group. And the results are often surprising!

Petite mal in children

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 13-year-old granddaughter has been given a diagnosis of having petit mal. She has never had it until now and is still in puberty. She is not menstruating as yet. My question is will she always have it or can it stop when she starts menstruating? Thank you for any information you can give. Should her mother take her to a gynecologist instead of a regular M.D.? She is taking medicine for this.

DEAR READER — Petit mal is one form of epilepsy. Actually, the term comes from French and means little sickness. This form of epilepsy is not associated with convulsions.

During an attack the person appears to have a momentary loss of attention span. The child may gaze off into space and not be aware of his surroundings. I said "child" because the episodes usually occur in children and it is rarely present in adults. At the outside limit, it is seldom noted in individuals over 30 years of age.

One has to be careful not to label every lapse of attention as petit mal, or there would be a lot of us running around with that diagnosis. The diagnosis needs to be made as a result of a careful medical examination, as I assume has been done in the case of your granddaughter.

I would not expect your granddaughter's attacks to stop merely because she starts menstruating. However, her attacks may be controlled by her medicine and, eventually, they should disappear.

I see no reason for her to see a gynecologist for this problem since it is not really related to menstruation or female reproduction in any way. If she needs to see a specialist, she should see a neurologist who is a specialist dealing with these problems and other disorders of the brain.

Often petit mal causes no significant problems for the child unless the attacks occur so frequently that they cause confusion and lack of ability to concentrate.

To help give you a better understanding of epilepsy as a disorder and what can be done about it, I am sending you The Health Letter number 10-8, Epilepsy: You Can Have It Too. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

No one really knows what causes petit mal, but then that shouldn't be too surprising because no one knows the cause of many epileptic seizures that people experience. The total complex of epileptic disease is not nearly as rare as you might think. A significant amount of grand mal, the form of epilepsy associated with convulsions, is related to brain injuries. That's why people who have been in an automobile accident and have had a brain injury may develop epilepsy.

The more that is learned about epilepsy, the more clear it is that it encompasses a variety of disorders of the brain, including injuries as I just mentioned. I predict that the time will come when the term "epilepsy" will almost be lost as a more specific diagnosis is made in each individual case. With that specificity will probably come better forms of treatment and management.

Meanwhile, it's well to keep in mind that many of history's greats had epilepsy, including Julius Caesar, Alexander the Great, Socrates and Tchaikovsky.

our churches beckon

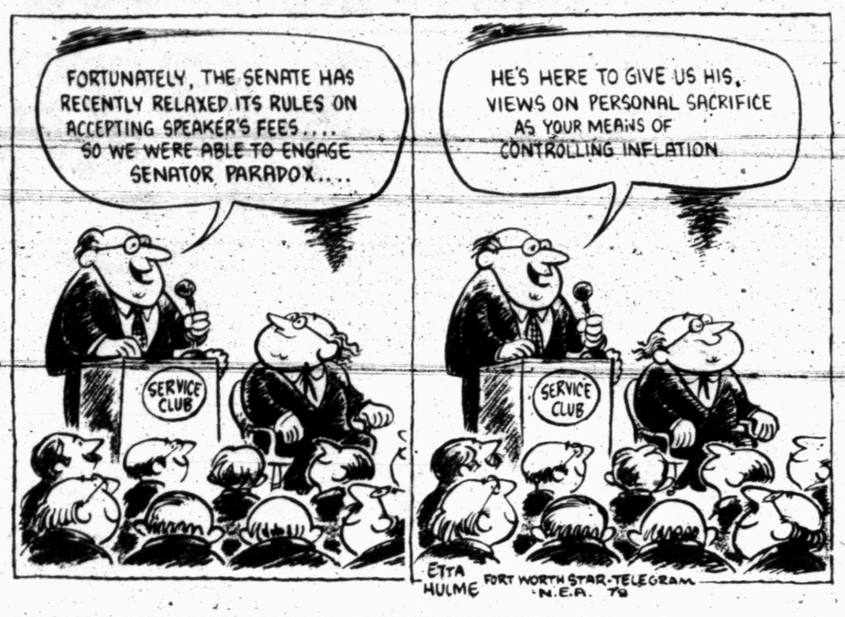

"Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering: (for he is faithful that promised), and let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another; and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching."

These words of the Apostle Paul in his letter to the Hebrews, as recorded in the King James version of the New Testament, appear appropriate to bolster an appeal by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance for special emphasis on church attendance during the month of April. Americans have taken pride in the fact that their homeland is noted for its spirituality. And Scurry County is within the boundaries of an area often referred to as "the Bible belt."

But lest we become puffed with pride, there come times when people should pause and take stock of the various factors that make up what we like to call "the good life." And in the area of spiritual values there is no less cause for some alarm than in many of our secular fields, such as inflation, energy shortages, etc.

A recent survey by one of the largest and most respected pollsters revealed that a mere 52 percent of the American people today feel that religion has an important role in their lives. Thus, the time is appropriate for a revaluation, and the call by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance comes at a propitious time for our community to take the lead in initiating such a movement.

Hopefully, Scurry Countians will respond as they do to countless secular endeavors which have given Snyder and Scurry County distinction in the quality of life.

self-made problems

The era of amazing paradoxes continues.

We have officials of government at all levels who profess to be concerned over such problems as inflation, yet, despite the fact that they have primary control over one of its basic causes, they produce little action.

We have shortages of commodities in some areas, but argue over problems of distribution.

The latest shortage, of course, involves petroleum products. We read, hear and see evidence of gasoline and diesel oil shortages. These are blamed to a great extent on the long shut-down in Iran's oil fields.

But this week, in stories concerning efforts to get a pipeline in operation between the West Coast and Midland, we see references to a "glut" of crude oil on the West Coast.

A glut?

That is the word used to describe the situation.

In case you are hazy on the subject, Webster says the word glut means to fill, or flood the market. News reports say that a glut of crude oil has piled up in California via the Alaska pipeline for which billions were spent, and there is no place to process it. If they could get it to Midland, it could be distributed to refineries through pipeline systems that have been in operation for many years.

Why can't the oil be moved to Midland? An argument between California Gov. Jerry Brown and Standard Oil Co. of Ohio (Sohio) has the proposal bogged down. Sohio said recently that the project was not feasible, a major deterring factor no doubt being California's demand that Sohio contribute $83 million to help "clean up" some other industries in the terminal area. Gov. Brown says Sohio's foreign majority ownership (over half of the company's stock is owned by British Petroleum) is greedy.

Meanwhile, shortages of motor vehicle fuel continue to pop up at the retailers' pumps. Perhaps a dose of the Begin-Sadat medicine at Camp David would be in order.

We seem to be more serious about solving other people's problems than our own.

at wits end

Did you know that for $12.50 you can buy a realistic-looking, inflatable, plastic torso of a person to place in a passenger seat when driving alone or in a chair when not at home?

I've seen several of these "silent partners" that are being sold for "protection for women living alone."

Save your money. For a few bucks more you can get a full-sized model that you can prop up at the breakfast table, watch TV with, or use to fill in at a dinner party. They're called husbands.

Granted, they're not as believable as the inflatable models, but they come in a variety of sizes, stay pressurized, and are self-cleaning.

I don't mean to imply that the inflatable-men manufacturers aren't on the right track. Frankly, there is still a need for a male presence. I have found that in making a major purchase like a car or furniture, salesmen will not pay any attention to you unless a man is along. (This in spite of the fact thay my husband releases the hood every time he thinks he is releasing the emergency brake.)

Single people going out to dinner will be assured of getting a table away from the wall with a male figure along. And you don't have to listen to his whining about dancing is a fad like the hula hoop and mood rings and will eventually go out of style.

They'd be wonderful to play bridge with or sit on the beach with (they wouldn't burn), and on vacation they would fold to envelope size in your luggage right next to your plastic raincoat.

You could toss 'em into a playpen and give children a feeling of warmth and security that they have a Daddy who plays with them, use them for throw pillows for lonely wives who can curl up with them on a winter evening by the fire (not too close to the fire), and send one to his mother on Mother's Day to show her you care.

A friend of mine, being practical, decided to buy an inflatable plastic torso and put it on the passenger side of the car so it would like like a licensed driver while her teenager was learning how to drive.

At the end of an hour, the poor inflatable was reduced to a flat piece of rubber with a slow leak.

Maybe they're more realistic than we think.

Little Interest In Economic War

BAGHDAD, Iraq. (AP)- Arab leaders showed little enthusiasm for Yasser Arafat's call for an economic war against the United States because it sponsored the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

Mexico Hiking Price Of Oil

MEXICO CITY (AP)— Mexico will raise the price of its oil when the members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries put their new rates into effect April 1, but the amount has not been determined yet, the head of the Mexican oil monopoly said Wednesday.

PREMEX Director Jorge Diaz Serrano said the Price would be higher than the $14.54 per barrel the OPEC members decided on Tuesday. But Mexico, which does not belong to OPEC, has always charged a higher price because it is closer to its main market than the OPEC producers.

Diaz Serrano refused to reveal the new price because he said Mexico is still negotiating with its customers. Mexico now charges $14.10 a barrel for its oil.

Mexico exports 440,000 barrels a day to the United States.

robert schuller

it's possible

When God's dream is accepted by you, be prepared to pay a price, because it's always high.

The dream that comes from God to make you a part of His kingdom, to fulfill His will, will feed your self-esteem. But it will lead you through the valley of potential humiliation before the crown of Godly pride is placed on your head. That's what the cross means.

You say, if God is interested in self-esteem, why would He let Jesus die on a cross? What a shameful death. Was Christ's self-esteem being fulfilled when He hung naked and alone on a cross?

Yes!

There is no self-esteem without sacrifice. There is no sacrifice without being exposed to the possibility of ridicule. There's no way you can pursue a dream without running the risk of people saying, "Who does he think he is?"

Jesus said, "If I be lifted up, I will draw all men unto me." What a sanctified-ego dream! He wanted to draw ALL men to Himself. Self-esteem.

What's the difference between dangerous egotism and wholesome self-esteem? The difference is the cross you are willing to bear to fulfill God's will. And so, before God can give you the crown, the grand and glorious redemptive holy pride, he will purge you and make your self-esteem sanctified.

There is no success without a cross.

When you trust God, He will see you through to ultimate success.

What is success? It may not be reaching the immediate goal that you're working on today. Because what you want, at a deeper level than that immediate goal, is self-respect when you are alone with your thoughts and your God.

So, God gives you a dream. Don't back away from it because you fear you might fail.

Win or lose, if you follow God's plan and His will, something wonderful will happen. You will be able to live with yourself with respect, because you will know that you did what you had to do.

That means that you were not on an ego trip, you were on an integrity trip. You had to do it. You had to try. And there's no way of failing. The only failure is when you back away from what God wants you to do because you are afraid.

Someday you and I will come to the end of our lives. And we will be brought by Jesus into the halls of heaven. We will be like the pilgrim in a little story someone recently sent to me. This pilgrim arrived in heaven and God said to him, "Would you like to see where you've come from?"

When the pilgrim responded that he would, God unfolded the story of his whole life and he saw footprints from the cradle to the grave. Only there were not only the footprints of the pilgrim, but another set of prints alongside. The pilgrim said, "I see my footprints, but whose are those?"

And the Lord said, "Those are My footprints. I was with you all the time."

Then they came to a dark, discouraging valley and the pilgrim said, "I see only one set of footprints through that valley. I was so discouraged. You were not there with me. It was just as I thought — I was so all alone!"

Then the Lord said, "Oh, but I was there. I was with you the whole time. You see, those are MY footprints. I carried you all through that valley."

God has a dream for you! Find it and pursue it. And as you come to the dark valleys, be assured that God is with you especially in the darkness. You can move forward with confidence, for He is with you!

Last week while visiting in Texas, President Carter stated flatly that inflation is not caused--we repeat not caused--by the fact that the federal government is in the currency printing business.

We have suspected all along that President Carter did not grasp basic economics--and such a statement certainly is proof. The only real cause of inflation is debase of the dollar. When the dollar is no longer worth anything or there is more paper money than there is gold to support it--you have inflation.

Conservative economists have long urged for a return to the gold standard, but politicians interested in reelection would rather finance social programs with fake dollars, dollars that really are fast becoming worthless.

It is inflation that has caused one presidential economist to be able to predict a balanced budget next year. Personal incomes have risen so rapidly that more and more people are finding themselves in unfamilarly high tax brackets.

The result is that more people are paying in more taxes than ever before. The bottom line means a loss of spendable income. Just ask any family how much they are able to sock away as compared to a few years ago.

We were talking to one man just this week who received a $100 per month pay increase. He felt really good about the pay hike until he opened the pay envelope.

What happened in reality is that the raise pushed the man into a higher tax bracket and his actual take-home pay was $7 less than before the increase.

Strange things happen as a result of inflation.

Oil Reserve Estimates In Basin Vary With Price

EDITOR'S NOTE: "When you ask how much oil is left in the Permian Basin, you must ask at what price. If it's $5 a barrel, there's not much. Maybe none. If it's $15 or $20, there's a hell of a lot. And there's a lot that ain't been found yet."--A candid West Texan.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

MIDLAND (AP)—On a spring day in 1923, an onery wildcatter named Frank Pickrell set out on a marvelously insane odyssey into West Texas.

With him on the railroad flat car were his driller, his equipment and his workmen.

Unknown to Pickrell and his crew, their mission was a historic one. Wildcatters before him had come, drilled, found dry holes and left.

Three years earlier, an equally hard-headed adventurer had struck oil near Westbrook in Mitchell County. But it was a 50-barrel-a-day producer and attracted little attention.

The word was out: "There is no oil in far West Texas." But Pickrell's journey, in time, led to the first major discovery in what would become one of the world's great energy pools: the Permian Basin of West Texas and southeastern New Mexico.

The Permian Basin to this day provides some 25 percent of U.S. oil production and 20 percent of its natural gas. But it is also an area whose reserves are in some dispute.

Fourteen miles west of Big Lake, amid the mesquite, cactus and chaparral of Reagan County, Pickrell unloaded his men and machinery and began a frantic race against time.

His lease-purchase agreement specified a test well must be drilled within a certain time frame. To validate the 700 square miles of leases, he had to "spud in," or break ground, by midnight.

The original location had been staked three miles from the old Orient Railroad tracks which Pickrell traveled. But a water well machine was damaged in unloading.

Because of the time element, Pickrill abandoned his original plan and decided to drill alongside the railroad.

"Through the hours of sundown and into darkness, the little band of workmen pushed desperately," reported Oil Patch, an industry-oriented magazine, in a recent edition. The articles drew from S.D., Myres' book, "The Permian Basin - Petroleum Empire of the SouthWest."

"Just before midnight though the rig had not been completely set up, the well was spudded in."

Pickrell climbed atop the rig and sprinkled it with dried rose petals blessed at a special mass of an investing group of New York Catholics.

"I christen thee Santa Rita," he said, alluding to the patron saint of the impossible.

On may 28, 1923, the No. 1 Santa Rita ushered in a modest well. It produced 100 barrels daily and "crashing apathy" on the part of nearby Texans and major oil companies.

"After all," it was pointed out, "the well was a small producer, transport costs were high from the remote desert area and the price of crude had fallen again."

More importantly, according to Oil Patch, West Texas at that time was considered the "graveyard of the oil industry."

The Santa Rita lease was in lonely, forebidding country, far from any pipeline and plauged by howling dust storms and sizzling heat.

Pickrell was broke, which didn't help matters much.

Potential buyers ignored his pleas for financial assistance until a famous wildcatter named Mike Benedum agreed to make the plunge.

He told Pickrell he would drill eight wells to prove or condemn the field once and for all. Benedum formed the Plymouth Oil Co., with a million shares of stock, and sold 300,000 shares to the public at $1.50 each.

After seven failures, Benedum ordered Santa Rita No. 5 relocated north of the discovery well. It came in for 300 barrels a day, causing Benedum to invest another $300,000 to keep the Big Lake crews active.

No. 9 was staked 20 feet from the original discovery. In due course, it roared in for 5,000 barrels a day. No. 11, completed next, hit for 8,000 barrels.

The gamble produced a bonanza.

The Big Lake field turned incredible profits. In its first full year of operation, 1925, Benedum's Plymouth Oil Co. paid $1.50 a share in dividends, a 100 percent return for investors.

In 1926, the dividend sky rocketed to $5.25.

"Almost everyone concerned with Big Lake got rich," Oil Patch reported. "Pickrell sold out for $4.5 million, went broke in the Depression, and made a fortune later."

The land, owned by the University of Texas, reaped millions, transforming the modest campus at Austin into a major education center with a permanent endowment that now exceeds $350 million.

Benedum subsequently was instrumental in opening the second great field in the Permian Basin.

On October 28, 1926, at a depth of roughly 1,000 feet, the Yates No. 1 in the southwest corner of Texas gushed in at a 4,000-barrel daily rate.

When drilled deeper, it produced 71,000. Some 70 wells were sunk on the lease and, in 1929, the No. 30-A came in at the rate of 204,682 barrels per day.

At the time, it was the largest producing oil well ever drilled anywhere in the world. Other great discoveries followed, including strikes along the Spraberry Trend and the Canyon Reef.

Spraberry and the Canyon Reef brought boom times to several counties and turned Midland into the mini-capital of the oil industry.

Today, Midland is known as "The Tall City," a reference to skyscrapers rising from the West Texas desert to house the branch offices of major oil companies.

But a recent government study cast doubts on the continued productivity of the oil-rich region. Is it being bled dry. Have all the big formations been tapped? Is it boom or bust?

"We've had booms and busts here as long as I can remember and they've always been associated with oil," said John Pitts, who has chronicled the ups and downs of the Permian Basin for years as an oil and gas writer.

"In the 1930s, oil went down to 10 cents a barrel. They were hauling in drinking water at $1 a barrel. They had to sell 10 barrels of oil to purchase one barrel of water."

Roughly every 15 years, said Pitts, when inflation outstrips incentive, the "doomsday song" begins.

"But let me say this: Along comes a new price increase and along comes a new boom right behind it. But if an oilman can't make a profit, he's not going to produce his oil."

According to West Texas oilmen, there are 4,000 oil and gas fields in the Permian Basin, which encompasses roughly 100,000 square miles. Crude oil production fell from a high of 2.25 million barrels in 1974 to just under 2 million a day in late 1978.

Experts insist that 7 billion barrels of recoverable crude reserves remain, along with 40 trillion cubic feet of recoverable natural gas.

"Because of more exotic recovery methods, there is a lot more oil they're going to produce out of these existing fields," said Ted Collins Jr., a Midland oil man.

Collins, executive vice president of American Quasar, one of the country's most aggressive independents, agrees in part with the governmental study.

"There's no doubt about it, the older, more mature oil-producing areas of the whole country have been drilled," he said.

"The shallow to medium obvious prospects have been explored. Known structures have been drilled and they're producing. They're the backbone and basis for the great amount of reserves like Gulf and Mobil and Texaco and Exxon.

"But even though the Permian Basin has been pretty well drilled, there's a lot of places out here for a barrel of oil or a cubic foot of gas to hide."

Like Pitts, Collins believes higher prices, coupled with enhanced recovery methods, could kick off another boom.

"The game's not over down here," Collins said. "I believe West Texas is going to be here for a long time. Our proven fields are going to be producing for a long time.

"The Permian Basin is so big and there are so many people looking, there's always something popping up. When you get the price up, there's people out there to risk going after it."

Sounding perhaps a little like the wildcatters who went before him, Collins said:

"If you're going to get hit by lightning, you've got to get out in the storm."

Skull Unearthed Near Alamo Wall

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-Archaeologists excavating along a wall of the Alamo have unearthed a skull believed to have been that of a casualty from the famous 1836 battle at the old Spanish mission-fortress.

Augustine Frkuska, 26, a University of Texas at San Antonio archaeologist, hit upon the skull Wednesday, finding it "miraculously preserved" and embedded between stones.

"While digging, I pulled up all kind of animal bones and cow teeth. When I touched the skull, I thought it was the head of a cow," said Frkuska. "Nobody believed me, so I jumped out of the hole and looked for a brush to clean it and cleared away some of the rocks around it."

Anne Fox, a director with UTSA's Center for Archaeological Research working at the site when the discovery was made, said the skull appeared to have been buried before 1875.

"There is no way of being sure, but by judging from the strata in the soil and the levels of the soil, we can determine a time period," said Mrs. Fox. "I don't believe the person was from the missionary occupation, but most likely a casualty during the fall of the Alamo who was covered with debris and remained there."

The first trans-Atlantic radio broadcast was made in 1925.

Davis Divorce Trial Begins Tuesday

FORT WORTH (AP)—The turbulent Cullen Davis divorce trial, with millions of dollars in community property at stake, begins all over again Tuesday, but the new presiding judge says five prior weeks of testimony will be retained.

District Judge Clyde Ashworth, 56, named Wednesday to take over the reins in the case, said lawyers on both sides have agreed to use court documents in lieu of actual testimony. There is no jury.

Under a stipulation procedure, attorneys can agree not to call a witness if it is believed the witness would give the same testimony he did in the previous trial.

The transcript of the divorce trial amounts to 5,000 pages and stacks several feet high from the proceedings that occurred before District Judge John Barron angrily withdrew Saturday and declared a mistrial.
