Delegates Get Down To Work

AUSTIN, Tex. AP - Legislater-delegates of the Texas Consititutional Convention get down to work today on the actual job of rewriting Texas' much-patched 1876 constitution.

Four days of opening ceremonies and organization took up the first week of the convention.

The 1 p.m. meeting time today was suggested by Sen. A. M. Aikin, D-Paris, convention vice president, because of the effect of the energy crisis on Texas travel. Aikin said he could not buy gas on Saturday night or Sunday to make the 315-mile drive from his home in Paris and asked the delay until Monday afternoon. Other delegates quickly agreed.

At 2 p.m. each of the eight major committees were to gather for their first public hearings on the new constitution.

Members of the eight substantive committees, ranging in size from 21 to 25 members, were named Friday. They immediately held organization meetings and posted the required three-day advance notice for public hearings today.

House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., convention president, said Friday that for all practical purposes the meeting of the convention as a body is over for about five weeks while the committee work is done. He said there likely would be convention sessions of all the 181 legislator delegates about once a week to take care of housekeeping details.

Daniel said he wanted the committees to meet every day, five days a week, until each group is ready to report back to the convention as a whole. Daniel also said he hoped there would be some night and Saturday committee meetings for these witnesses who cannot attend in the daytime.

Today is Monday, January 14th, the 14th day of 1974. There are 351 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1784, the United States ratified a peace treaty with England, formally ending the American Revolution.

On this date: In 1659, the Portuguese defeated the Spanish in a battle at Elvas, Spain.

Agnew Disbarment Urged By Panel

By TOM STUCKEY
Associated Press Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A special three-judge panel recommended today that former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew be disbarred from the practice of law in Maryland.

The three Circuit Court judges said that Agnew's evasion of income tax, acknowledged in a no-contest plea, was "deceitful and dishonest" and "strikes at the heart of the basic object of the legal profession ..."

"We shall therefore recommend his disbarment. We see no extenuating circumstances allowing a lesser sanction," a 14-page recommendation said.

The recommendation goes to the Maryland Court of Appeals, which makes the final decision on whether to bar Agnew from the practice of law.

Disciplinary actions were filed by the state bar association last November after Agnew pleaded no contest to a federal tax charge and resigned from the vice presidency.

The bar association had asked the three judges to disbar Agnew. The former vice president, however, had asked the panel to merely suspend him from practicing law, arguing that his misconduct was not connected with his duties as a lawyer.

Agnew told the judges that he had at no time enriched himself at the expense of his public trust and that there was nothing to indicate that he would not faithfully and honestly represent his clients as a lawyer.

But Circuit Court Judges Shirley B. Jones, Ridgely P. Melvin Jr., and William H. McCullough said Agnew's conduct was harmful to the proper administration of justice.

"In our opinion, the proper administration of justice, the proper respect of the court for itself and a proper regard for the integrity of the profession compel us to conclude that the respondent is unfit to continue as a member of the bar of this state," the recommendation said.

"Mr. Agnew will not be making a statement at this particular time," said Ann Breen, a receptionist at Agnew's office in Washington.

MASMOUDI FIRED

Doubts Greet Arab Merger

TUNIS (AP) — President Habib Bourguiba today dismissed Foreign Minister Mohammed Masmoudi, the man who announced the proposed Libya-Tunisia merger to the world.

Masmoudi was fired as part of a shakeup in the Tunisian cabinet and was replaced by Habib Chatti, until today the director of Bourguiba's office.

Chatti, meanwhile, arrived in Algiers for political discussions on the merger with Algerian officials. The union has prompted derisive comments in Algeria.

Bourguiba and Col. Moammar Khadafy of Libya signed the union agreement Saturday and shortly afterward Masmoudi personally read the text in a nationwide broadcast over Radio Tunis.

No reason was immediately given for the dismissal of Masmoudi, who has been foreign minister since 1970.

Bourguiba also replaced the defense, social affairs and equipment ministers.

The new match between Libya and Tunisia is being greeted with skepticism after five unsuccessful attempts in 16 years to unite some of the Arab countries.

Lebanese newspapers suggested that Khadafy had turned to Bourguiba, a moderate, out of pique at the failure of his attempt last year to merge with Egypt.

Bourguiba presumably hopes his country — with twice as many people and one-tenth the area — will benefit from Libya's enormous oil revenue.

Algeria's official news agency, APS, declared that unity of two peoples can only be based "on concrete realities and similar options in all fields" and not on "one single decree, however grandiloquent." This was a pointed rebuff to a statement from Bourguiba expressing hope that Algeria would join the union.

Khadafy and Bourguiba signed an agreement Saturday to unite their countries into a new state to be called the Arab Islamic Republic, with a single executive, legislature, army, flag and constitution. The merger will be submitted to a referendum, and approval is considered certain.

But the Libyan and Tunisian governments are dominated by their two leaders.

Egypt Offers Counterplans; Talks Progress

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

The Egyptian foreign minister said today Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's troop pullback plan is unsatisfactory and Egypt is giving him counterproposals to take back to Israel.

"We are giving him our own map and language," Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy told newsmen.

He spoke shortly after Kissinger said Egypt and Israel agree with his efforts to work out a troop disengagement plan for the Suez front and that negotiations had progressed to the detailed drafting stage.

Fahmy's comments indicated the disagreement revolved around some final details and he complimented Kissinger for playing a "constructive role."

"Your secretary of state, when he sticks his fingers in something, he generally brings it to a successful conclusion," he said. "And I think he will this time."

Sitting on a sunlit veranda at Aswan in upper Egypt, Kissinger told the newsmen that his shuttling mediation talks with Egyptians and Israelis are "the toughest I have been in."

He and President Anwar Sadat set up joint teams of draftsmen to work on the detailed language of an accord to separate Israeli and Egyptian forces along the uneven and explosive Suez Canal cease-fire lines left from the October Middle East war.

"I think both parties agree with the efforts," Kissinger said.

Kissinger, who delayed his return to Israel by several hours, said he probably will see Sadat again before carrying the proposal back to Jerusalem later today for consideration by the Israeli cabinet.

"It is a very tough problem," he added. "It is hard to reconcile."

The fast-traveling American secretary said he may then return to Aswan — in what would be the third time in his current tour — to get Sadat's reaction to any changes the Israelis might propose.

Kissinger and Sadat met at Aswan, the winter resort in upper Egypt where Sadat has been recuperating from bronchitis. Kissinger said the Israeli plan, which reportedly calls for Israeli forces to withdraw more than 20 miles from the Suez Canal, "takes into account" Sadat's thinking.

However, all indications point to Egyptian rejection of a key point in the Israeli plan. It calls for a sizable thinning out of Egyptian forces on the east side of the canal, in the Sinai Desert and the withdrawal back into Egypt of their tanks, missiles and artillery.

Kissinger was scheduled to return to Jerusalem tonight after conferring with Sadat, indicating that he would have Egyptian objections to put before the Israelis. After meeting with them, he may shuttle back to Aswan to see Sadat again.

Egyptian officials said their president told Kissinger on Saturday that his "Egyptian forces in the Sinai Desert are there to stay with their weapons." They said Sadat "irrevocably" rejected proposals for thinning out the Egyptian forces in Sinai or defining the types of their weapons.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy issued a statement Sunday renewing Egypt's demand for total Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab territory. It rejected a "unilateral peace" with Israel — one that does not include Syria and Jordan.

Court To Hear Free Press Case

By VERNON A. GUIDRY Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to consider whether states can demand that newspapers give free space to political candidates for replies to editorial attacks.

The justices accepted the case for argument on the merits but left themselves the option of deciding, after hearing the arguments, that they do not have jurisdiction in the case.

The issue reached the justices in a case from Florida in which the state supreme court upheld a 1913 state law requiring that newspapers which "assail" the personal character or official record of a candidate must print his reply with equal prominence.

However, the justices refused to consider a plea from another Florida newspaper publishing firm that a former public official suing it for libel be required to make a case for malice before being granted access to confidential data.

The Supreme Court refused to review a state court decision in a pending lawsuit against the Palm Beach Newspapers Inc. that the publishing firm turn over confidential financial records for inspection by a former Palm Beach County school superintendent.

The former school superintendent, Lloyd F. Early, has sued the publishing firm over articles published in the Palm Beach Post and Palm Beach Times in 1969 and 1970 criticizing his administration.

In other action today, the court:

—Enlarged its newly launched reconsideration of anti-obscenity law by agreeing to hear a case involving the federal statute against mailing obscene material. The court said it would hear the case in tandem with an appeal, accepted for review last month, by an Albany, Ga., movie theater operator convicted under state obscenity law for showing the R-rated, critically praised film "Carnal Knowledge."

Today's agreement to hear still another obscenity case may point to still more detailed pronouncements by the court.

Henley's Mother Testifies

By JIM BARLOW
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Pauline Henley testified here today "I just went all to pieces" upon learning her son, Elmer Wayne, 17, had been arrested in connection with the homosexual-torture slayings of 27 teenagers.

Henley's trial opened today with his lawyers mounting an attack on their young client's written and oral statements to police in connection with the sensational case.

Mrs. Henley said her son was arrested last Aug. 8 and that he telephoned her from police headquarters.

"I asked when I could see him and he said the police would call when I could come. I just went all to pieces," she said.

She said she contacted the family lawyer but he was too busy to see Henley right away.

Mrs. Henley said when she visited her son the next day in jail at Pasadena, a Houston suburb, she found him incoherent. "I was with Wayne for about five minutes. I just asked if he was all right and he said 'Get me a lawyer and a doctor just as quick as you can.'"

She said her son was cold to the touch and was hallucinating.

She said she asked police detectives not to question her son again but they refused, telling her he didn't have to answer their questions.

The state accuses Henley of being active in a long terror of homosexual rape, torture and murder in the Houston area, beginning when he was 14 years old.

Money Experts Meet In Rome

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Uncertainty due to the Arab oil squeeze makes unlikely any substantial progress toward international monetary reform at the meeting of some of the world's leading financial experts that opened here today.

The stated task before the International Monetary Fund's Committee of 20 finance ministers and central bankers is to work out an orderly way to revise the exchange rates of the world's currencies when such adjustments become necessary.

Their goal is to avoid the repeated international financial crises of the last three years, like those set off by two devaluations of the United States dollar.

The 126-nation IMF failed at its meeting in Kenya last September to reach agreement on a new system. The Committee of 20 agreed to put their deputies to work and to meet again this month. They set a deadline of July 31, 1974, for completing their work.

The deputies are meeting today and Tuesday, and the ministers, including Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz, on Thursday and Friday. But the deadline will probably be postponed; the United States reportedly feels the present system of floating currency rates is working well and is in no hurry to change it.

Most of the talk in Rome is expected to be about the Arab oil cutbacks, the soaring price of crude oil and the harm this will do to the economies of many nations.

"I see very little to be optimistic about," said one senior delegate. "The oil problem really creates too many unknowns."

The Arab oil squeeze already has caused significant changes in the relative value of currencies. Because the United States is far less affected by the oil squeeze than Western Europe or Japan, the dollar has made a strong recovery and is back where it was before devaluation last February.

The oil price increases are expected to cost the industrial nations between $30 billion and $50 billion this year, giving many of them a deficit in foreign trade.

Charity wins out in holiday spirit

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I solved the problem of what to give the people on our Christmas gift list who have everything, plus a collection of white elephants from previous Christmases.

We sent them checks in the amount of whatever we would have spent for a gift, and on each check we wrote, "Please sign this over to your favorite charity. Holiday cheer to you!"

There are so many worthwhile charities, why spoil the holidays fretting and shopping for unneeded gifts for people who are doing the same for us? We submit this idea in the hope that it will appeal to grownups who want to double their giving.

Abby, since you are probably among those who have everything, please accept the enclosed check for your favorite charity as our gift to you. God bless you and yours.

EUGENE F. MEGYESY, TULSA

DEAR MR. MEGYESY: What a super idea! Too bad it arrived too late to be used this Christmas, but I shall certainly share your novel and generous gift idea with my readers for next Christmas.

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that there's a place in Hollywood that sells false fannies for women.

Do you know if they have any for men? All the pants I buy are way too big in the seat and I have to have a lot of alteration.

FANNYLESS IN FLORIDA

DEAR FANNYLESS: A "false fanny" is simply a padded girdle, and I'm sure it doesn't care who wears it.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the mother of the 16-year-old girl who had gone to a doctor requesting birth control pills. The mother was shocked and upset.

Obviously the girl expected her visit to be confidential, but the moment she left the doctor's office he was on the phone, reporting to the girl's mother.

Abby, even minors have some rights. Some states have laws permitting minors to receive birth control pills without parental consent, while others do not. If this doctor was unwilling or unable to comply with the girl's request, he should have told her so and sent her on her way. To tattle to her mother was a gross violation of professional ethics.

If a patient sees a doctor about a drinking problem, an ethical doctor does not notify the patient's employer. Neither does an ethical doctor contact the wife of an unfaithful husband [other than thru public health officials] to report his case of V. D.

I hope that girl will report the physician's betrayal to her medical society. I would expect the same were I to violate medical ethics.

SAN FRANCISCO PHYSICIAN

DEAR PHYSICIAN: I received a load of letters from other physicians who share your view. I appreciate your writing.

Market Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were slightly higher and turning mixed today as the growth stocks and blue chips opened strongly. Then they began to weaken faster than the market in general.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up .39 to 841.87 as advancing New York Stock Exchange issues outpaced losers by more than 2 to 1. The Dow Blue-chip indicator at 10:30 a.m. had been up more than 8 points. It had been up more than 18 points Friday.

Brokers said the economic news remained more negative than positive, with a not unexpected report today that the Commerce Department later this week would announce a drop for December in the nation's annual rate of growth to about 1 per cent.

Inn For Patients

LONDON (AP) — An inn for patients will be a feature of a $2,500,000 plan to more than double the size of Horsham Hospital in Sussex, south of London.

The inn will be part of a "village street" — the focal point of the new plan — which will include a tea shop, general store, hairdressers, park benches and gardens.

Crew Sets Record Tonight

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Skylab 3 astronauts take the record for the longest space voyage tonight by passing the standard set last year by Skylab 2.

Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson were launched Nov. 16 for a planned 84-day mission. They will exceed the Skylab 2 mark of 59 days, 11 hours, nine minutes at 9:10 p.m. EDT as their space station passes over the Pacific Ocean.

When Skylab 3 establishes the new space flight endurance record, the astronauts will have orbited the earth 858 times and traveled more than 24½ million miles.

Skylab 2 commander Alan L. Bean will keep the individual record for a while. He went to the moon on Apollo 12 in 1969 and has logged 69 days, 15 hours, 45 minutes in space.

But Carr, Pogue and Gibson, all on their first space flight, will pass Bean's record on Jan. 25.

The Skylab space station was launched in May and was occupied by Skylab 1 astronauts Charles Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz for 28 days. Bean's crewmates for Skylab 2 were Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma. They were launched July 28, 1973.

Skylab 3, the final mission to the space station, is scheduled to end Feb. 8.

The astronauts have a busy day in space today: an earth resources photo pass over Mexico and the United States, medical experiments and several hours of solar observations.

Carr, Pogue and Gibson also conducted experiments on Sunday, but part of their attention was turned toward the Super Bowl football game in Houston.

"Please keep us posted on how it's going," Carr said just before the game started.

Mission control passed up a brief description as the Miami Dolphins defeated the Minnesota Vikings 24-7 and told the spacemen that they could watch a videotape of the game when they return next month.

"Hey, that's beautiful," said Carr. "Looking forward to seeing that."

Shock Used To Tender Lamb Meat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The meat industry in New Zealand is experimenting with electrical shock treatments to see if it can make lamb more tender for American consumers.

The process was described today by the Agriculture Department in a weekly issue of "Foreign Agriculture."

The idea is to induce rigor mortis more quickly in lamb carcasses after slaughter and thus cause a shortening of meat fibers and muscles.

When this occurs, experimenters theorize, the meat becomes more tender. They say it could also speed up the aging process and mean savings in both money and meat.

Sextuplets Are Making Progress

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The Rosenkowitz sextuplets are responding satisfactorily to phototherapy treatment for jaundice, doctors at Mowbray Maternity Hospital say.

The three boys and three girls born Friday to Susan Rosenkowitz developed jaundice on Sunday, but their doctors said this had been expected and the condition should be cleared up by Wednesday.

"All six babies show satisfactory progress," said a bulletin Sunday night. "Their levels of jaundice remain well controlled and they are active.

"They yawn, cry and stretch their arms and legs when not sleeping. Their mother handled all her babies in their incubators when she visited them this morning."

Mrs. Rosenkowitz carried the babies for a full nine-month pregnancy. The babies were delivered by Caesarian section and weighed a total of 22.3 pounds. In order of delivery they were a boy at 4.4 pounds; a girl, 2.7; a boy, 4.6; a girl, 3; a boy, 4.1; a girl, 3.5.

The phototherapy to which they are being subjected consists of exposure to strong lights mounted over their incubators. The light breaks down the jaundice pigment in the babies' skin, and they excrete it.

"This form of treatment will be necessary for two to three days," the statement said. "During this stage the babies' eyes are covered to protect them from the intense light."

Doctors said the jaundice was the third crisis for the babies. They passed through one at their birth and another in the first few hours after they were delivered when their lungs might have collapsed.

"What is really in their favor is that their lungs are so well expanded," said one pediatrician attending them.

Mrs. Rosenkowitz's sister in Dublin, Ireland, said today that the expectant woman wrote her just before Christmas: "I feel as if I've been pregnant for years and years. I can't really believe that I'm not expecting one baby — but six. I can't possibly realize the tremendous difference it will make to my life. I hope I can cope."

Mrs. Rosenkowitz already was the mother of a 7-year-old girl and a 5-year-old boy.

The babies' 39-year-old father, Colin Rosenkowitz, has sold a Durban magazine exclusive news and picture rights to the sextuplets for the first five years of their lives for $90,000.

The magazine contract does not bar the babies from endorsing children's products, and one newspaper estimated this could bring the family another $150,000 in the next five years.

Rosenkowitz will probably need the money. A salesman with an above average income, he does not qualify for any government medical aid for the babies. Six pediatricians and six pediatric nurses have been attending the sextuplets since birth, and the total medical fees for the first week of their lives could run to about $7,500.

Kidnap Victim Is FoundDead

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — The partly frozen, bruised body of a 14-year-old kidnap victim has been found tied to a tree in a heavily wooded area near his home, authorities said.

Investigators said the snow-covered body of Daniel Ebersole, who had been missing since Tuesday night, was found slumped against the tree Sunday by an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and a deputy sheriff.

Investigators said a glove had been stuffed in the youth's mouth and held in place with surgical tape. They said a ski mask had been pulled over his face, covering his eyes.

Authorities said the cause of death had not been determined and that an autopsy had been scheduled for today.

The body was found after an anonymous telephone call.

Daniel's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Glen M. Ebersole of the Jamestown suburb of Lakewood, had paid $15,000 ransom for the boy Thursday. And authorities arrested three area teen-agers Saturday, charging them with kidnaping.

Kenneth L. Williams, 18, and Martin C. Whitmore, 19, of West Ellicott, and Jeffrey L. Swan, 18, of Lakewood were arraigned in Buffalo, N.Y., Saturday and ordered jailed in lieu of $100,000 bond each.

Most of the ransom money has been recovered, said Special Agent Richard H. Ash of the Buffalo FBI office.

Ebersole, a prominent Jamestown physician, said Daniel was seen last when he left for the Lakewood Teen Center, a short walk from his home. The doctor said he notified police when the boy did not return home that night.

The physician said a telephone caller told him late Tuesday night that Daniel had been kidnaped. The caller threatened Daniel's life unless a ransom was paid, the doctor said.

Bing Doing Well After Lung Surgery

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Singer Bing Crosby was in satisfactory condition after a 3½-hour operation in which two-fifths of his left lung and an abscess the size of small orange were removed, doctors said.

Initial tests on the tissue removed in the operation Sunday indicated the illness was from a rare fungus and not cancer, said Crosby's physician Dr. Stanley Hanfling.

FIRMS IGNORED OIL

Profits Figured In Production

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of some of the nation's largest oil companies acknowledge that their industry could have produced more domestic crude oil in recent years but decided against it because it wouldn't have been profitable.

The officials said their companies were only exercising sound business judgments in ignoring such oil, and, to a man, they blamed federal policies and regulations for the situation.

Ten executives from eight of the biggest 10 oil companies made their statements in separate interviews with The Associated Press. Most of the men asked not to be identified either by name or by company.

"The oil we're talking about is in fields that are in secondary and tertiary recovery stages," said one of the officials. "It's very expensive to produce that oil and with the prices we could have gotten for it (under federal price regulation) in past years, we would have lost money.

"To some people, I know that's going to sound evil. But we have a business proposition here. It's hard-headed business economics."

The industry executives were unanimous in blaming federal policies for the lag in domestic oil production. They said price regulation did not allow them sufficient profit to encourage domestic exploration and drilling.

Also cited were the delays in development of the North Slope in Alaska, restrictions on foreign imports and the unavailability of new offshore leases.

"The combination of government policies and the lack of new leases made investment by the oil companies in this country somewhat unattractive," said Norman DeBay, manager of investor relations for the Gulf Oil Corp., the nation's fourth largest oil company.

"The oil companies spent their money overseas where the investment opportunities were good," DeBay said. "I think it's quite a logical thing to have done."

A spokesman for the Federal Energy Office said government officials were aware that there is available domestic oil that the industry has failed to produce.

"Many of the regulation and policy changes made over the past months have been aimed at making production of that oil more attractive to the industry," Gene Curella, the FEO spokesman, said. But he added there was some question whether the industry should have sought those incentives.

"It may make good business sense to the industry to leave that oil in the ground," Curella said. "But is it right to place that high a priority on profits when the nation is in the midst of an energy crisis like we have now?"

Last month, the Cost of Living Council approved a $1 a barrel increase in the price of regulated domestic crude oil, bringing to $5.25 a barrel the price oil companies can charge purchasers. The council earlier had exempted from price controls new domestic petroleum production.

Nixon Back At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon spent Sunday at the White House after returning early in the day from a working vacation in California.

Some work on his upcoming State of the Union message and watching the Super Bowl football game were reportedly on the President's Sunday agenda.

He had arrived in Washington at about 3 a.m. EDT after flying from California aboard a small government Jetstar.

Nixon had gone to California Dec. 26 aboard a commercial flight, but aides said the Secret Service asked him to fly back on a government plane for security reasons. The plane made a refueling stop at Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma.

Terrariums Topic For Gardeners

The planting and care of terrariums was the topic for the program conducted by Mrs. W. E. McMillan of the Twilight Garden Club in its regular meeting January 10. In the 1800's terrariums decorated homes much as we use house plants today. When soil, plants, light and every other component in the container is in perfect balance, terrariums have been known to grow without attention for several years. In setting up the plant and soil arrangement care must be taken to have plants that need similar living conditions. Every plant must be clean and free of diseases.

Information on growing plants encased in glass or plastic is available. Attractive containers are sold alone or already planted.

Officers elected for the coming year are--Mrs. C. W. Key, president; first vice-president, Mrs. Fred Davis; second vice-president, Mrs. Bob Dupree; treasurer, Mrs. Bill Williams; recording secretary, Mrs. W. E. McMillan; parliamentarian, Mrs. Edgar Carpenter, and reporter, Mrs. J. F. Neill.

Fifteen members were present for the meeting with Mrs. Lester Moore, hostess, in her home.

Abilene Hosts Garden Club Coffee

The Abilene Garden Club will host a coffee for program guests and others planning to attend the state-wide Arbor Day Ceremony at the Abilene Civic Center on Friday, January 18.

This announcement came today from Mrs. G. E. Swinson president, Abilene Garden Club.

The coffee period will extend from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m., Mrs. Swinson said. It will preceed the official opening of the Arbor Day Ceremony which begins at 10:30 a.m.

Club members assisting Mrs. Swinson with the coffee include Mrs. Margaret Tessier, Mrs. Lawrence Brucell, Mrs. Odell Freeman and Mrs. Velma Wooldridge.

Location for the coffee is the Abilene Garden Club headquarters at 300 Westwood.

The public is invited to the coffee and to the Arbor Day Ceremony.

Before tasting any home-canned meats or vegetables, boil the food at least fifteen minutes. Poison from food spoilage can kill with just one taste, warns Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Prince Helps With Rescue

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles was officer of the watch when a distress call came from three vessels having landing troubles because of storms in the South Java Sea.

The Royal Navy said the heir to the British throne was right in the middle of the rescue operation Sunday.

Two navy ships were sent to locate the stranded vessels and after four hours and three attempts the tug Mediator and two barges it was towing were pulled to a safe anchorage.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Concern over the possibility of gas cutbacks or electrical brown-outs during Texas' current foul-weather months of January and February have prompted many people to look around for an alternate source of heat for homes.

And what many think of first is a cozy blaze in a fireplace.

Although it may be debatable how much good a fireplace does in actually heating a house, there's no doubt that it can provide warmth and comfort around the hearth on a cold winter night.

That is, if it's installed correctly and proper materials are used. Otherwise, some of those considering adding a fireplace could find the problems that could result would be much more upsetting than comforting.

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division has had several reports of fireplace difficulties. In one instance, the purchasers of a new $50,000 house attempted to enjoy a fire in their fireplace only to find that the builders had installed a false one. Before they could put out the fire, their new home suffered smoke damage.

Another incident involved a woman who hired two itinerant contractors to build a fireplace for her. When it was finished, she was puzzled to find that she couldn't light a fire in it.

The contractors had built the flue and chimney straight up, and had not installed a damper to regulate air flow. The resulting draft blew out every fire the woman tried to start.

To avoid problems after a fireplace is built, give plenty of advance thought to what you want, and take certain precautions before hiring a contractor for the job.

The initial step is to decide on the type and size of fireplace desired. Three kinds are available. The best-known is the traditional version with firebrick interior and brick or stone chimney.

Another is a preassembled built-in unit with metal firebox and flue. This kind can be installed to look like the traditional version, even to the point of enclosing the metal flue within a chimney.

The third is a freestanding prefabricated unit that can be placed anywhere in a room.

Any of these types, if properly installed and made of quality materials, should be satisfactory and safe.

Various sizes of fireplaces are available. The size you select will determine the maximum size of the logs you can burn.

You should also decide whether to include certain options in a fireplace, such as a gas or butane starter or an outside door or special drawer for ash removal.

After these decisions are made, it is advisable to get several bids before selecting the firm or individual to build or install the fireplace. Ask to see other fireplaces they have worked on or talk to persons who have employed them.

Reputable companies or individuals will be happy to show examples of their work.

When you have decided on a contractor, discuss with him exactly what you want. After you've reached agreement on the work to be done, the price, and a timetable for completion, draw up a contract. Some companies or individuals will have their own contract.

If you don't draw up a contract, at least write down what has been agreed upon and give a copy to the contractor. If there is any misunderstanding, it can be ironed out before the job is begun. If not, you both will have guidelines by which to judge judge the completed job.

When contracting for a fireplace, be wary of paying too much money before the work is finished. Our Consumer Protection lawyers say a good rule of thumb is to hold back a substantial portion of the price until the job is completed to your satisfaction.

By doing a little advance planning and by being cautious, you should be able to avoid any problems when building a fireplace.

If you do have a complaint, however, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Inflation Hardest On Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional economists say inflation in 1973 was harder on the nation's poor than other segments of the economy.

And, said the report by the Joint Economic Committee, 1974 holds no prospect of improvement.

"There is no indication at this time that the rate of inflation will moderate in 1974 and consequently the real purchasing power of consumers is likely to continue to decline," the report said.

It forecast a possible recession because of what it said would be rising unemployment, a sluggish economy and the energy crisis.

"In view of the recent slowdown in economic activity and the energy crisis unemployment will certainly increase during 1974," said the report, written by the committee's Consumer Economics subcommittee.

"This situation of higher prices and fewer jobs will further erode consumer income and confidence, which in turn will add substantially to recessionary prospects in 1974," the report said.

It said that middle-income families had to pay more in 1973 to live at 1972 levels because of inflation, but that higher food, housing and fuel prices were about one-third larger for low income consumers than in the previous year.

The congressional economists said that a middle-income family earning $12,614 in 1973 had to spend $1,168 more to keep the same standard of living experienced in 1972.

Two items, alone — food prices up $502 and housing costs at $165 more than the previous year — accounted for more than half the total rise, the report said.

But the report also said middle-income families paid 15 per cent more in taxes and 31 per cent more in Social Security.

Cattlemen Criticize Controls

PASCO, Wash. (AP) — A spokesman for the U. S. beef industry has strongly criticized the Economic Stabilization Act, under which Congress sets price ceilings.

"The control system has caused many things to go out of balance," said George Spencer, Denver, Colo.

Spencer, vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association (ANCA), slammed the controls during a convention last week of cattle feeders.

"Congressmen don't understand our business, and the public doesn't understand our business," Spencer said.

Action by the Cost of Living Council and the beef price freeze have led to losses for feeders, creating artificial beef shortages, he said.

AEC FINDS IN STUDY

Nuclear Plants Are Safe

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Atomic Energy Commission official says the preliminary results of a scientific study suggests there will never be a major accident in a nuclear power plant.

This was a conclusion of Dr. Harbert Kouts, the AEC's director of reactor safety research, who commented on the results of the study.

The odds on a major catastrophe at a nuclear plant were given in the study as "once in 1 billion to once in 10 billion years" for a given reactor.

Kouts said that the study's figures show that "even with the 1,000 reactors expected to be operating by the year 2000, it would be 1,000 to 10,000 years before any given reactor might be expected to have an accident."

Thus, he said, "for the 100 to 200 years we expect to be using fissionable uranium before supplies run out ... we would expect never to have a catastrophic accident by an overwhelming probability factor."

The study was conducted for the AEC at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It's findings were reported by AEC Chairman Dixy Lee Ray and Kouts in separate interviews.

Kouts described a catastrophic accident as one in which large quantities of radioactive materials would be released, killing "thousands of people, possibly 5,000 to 10,000 although the figures are very shaky."

He said the study tended to confirm AEC's estimates that chances of such an accident are "so low as to be negligible."

He and Dr. Ray also reported that the MIT preliminary findings also projected the possibility of a less severe accident as once in a million to once in 10 million years for any given reactor.

Kouts described this type accident as "comparable in its consequences to the crash of a jumbo-jet aircraft that might kill 200 people or so."

Dr. Ray said the study took nearly two years and $2 million and was conducted by Dr. Norman C. Rasmussen, a professor of nuclear engineering at M.I.T.

Kouts said that Rasmussen's figures still are preliminary and subject to comment from other scientists and from AEC critics before formal release.

Pope Observes Comet Kohoutek

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI says he saw Comet Kohoutek and he felt "the sense of the cosmic mystery."

"We searched for the comet in the skies after we were told of the trajectory of this fugitive pilgrim of space," the Pope told a crowd of 3,500 in St. Peter's Square Sunday. "We intensely observed it."

The Pope said he saw the comet from his terrace "with the aid of a modest telescope."

"It could be said this comet was nothing special, a bright point in space, bigger than Venus, always bright but less brilliant the night we made the observation."

He cited a psalm: "The heavens show forth the glory of God, and the firmament declares the work of his hands."

Gloating Dolphins Claim Greatness

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — "If we're not the greatest football team that ever was, there never was one," crowed Miami Dolphin center Jim Langer. "I don't give a damn what Green Bay did."

The Dolphins, especially Larry Csonka, didn't care what the Minnesota Vikings did, either. Langer and his offensive linemates provided Csonka with mammoth holes Sunday, shoved the over-eager Vikings around at will, and steamrolled to a 24-7 Super Bowl victory.

On the rare occasions when the holes weren't there, Csonka made his own, carrying what looked like half of the Viking' Purple gang with him.

And when the Rice Stadium field became nothing but a littered carpet, glistening with the first misty coat of an appropriate drizzle, the word "dynasty" was — not so subtly — back in the National Football League lexicon.

Like the Dolphins' 14-7 victory over Washington in Super Bowl VII a year ago, their thumping of Minnesota in Super Bowl VIII on Sunday was essentially a dull affair — but then, how do you root for General Motors?

That's what these Dolphins are, you know. A smooth, silent, assembly-line machine, unemotionally churning out yard after yard, touchdown after touchdown, championship after championship.

It was that way with the Green Bay Packers of the 1960s, too. That's the team everybody was talking about when the subject of a dynasty came up.

The Pack had won two Super Bowls in a row. Nobody else had done that — until Sunday. "I think now we can consider ourselves comparable to the Pack," said Csonka. "We had to reserve our opinion before the game, but no more."

Csonka is comparable to anything the Pack might have had in the Vince Lombardi days. He was more than anything the Vikings could handle.

Thirty-three times he carried the ball. Everybody in the joint knew he would. The only problem was, nobody could do anything about it.

"Our biggest reward," said Langer, the center of the Dolphins' bulldozer lines, "is to see Csonka going through for a big gain." Csonka did that a few times. He also went through — with help or on his own — for a lot of little gains, like Miami's first touchdown, a five-yard burst up the middle, and its last, a two-yarder on a basically busted play.

Jim Kiick, who once kicked around the league with Csonka as half of the "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" show before fading into the shadow of Mercury Morris' jitterbug act, scored the Dolphins' other touchdown — his first of the year — on a one-yard dive.

And Garo Yepremian — the Cypriot necktie maker and place-kicker whose participation last year in "So you want to be a quarterback" ended in a laughable disaster — stuck to his specialty this time around by booting a 28-yard field goal and three extra points.

A year ago, Yepremian's attempted pass on a busted field goal try would end up as Washington's only touchdown on a Mike Bass run with an interception.

The Vikes on the other hand, earned their only score. But, like the Redskins of 1973, they got it when the only thing it counted for was pride.

Fran Tarkenton, the Minnesota quarterback who once more probably will be assailed most undeservedly for his supposed inability to "win the big one," got that face-saving score on a four-yard run, the end of an 80-yard drive.

It was about the only time he really had the Vikes going. On the other occasion, when it might have really mattered, the Dolphins rose up en masse and fractured any hope of a rally that Minnesota might have nurtured.

By that time — the last minute of the first half — Miami already had scored two of its touchdowns and the field goal.

"They took the ball, went down the field and got 14 points the first two times they had the ball," said Bud Grant, the Vikings stoic coach. "That kind of a lead is hard to overcome against the good teams."

Minnesota made it to the Dolphins' six-yard line in that turning point final minute of the half.

Fourth down and a yard to go, the Vikes needed something. But they disdained the almost sure three points Fred Cox could've kicked for them. They went for the yard and the possible touchdown, but Nick Buoniconti, Miami's wily middle linebacker said "No way."

Oscar Reed slammed into the line. Buoniconti slammed into Reed. No gain, no score. No way.

Don Shula, the once tight-lipped coach — remember, he lost two Super Bowls before winning two — who loosened up so much that he had the midweek press in an uproar over his rendition of "Sex and the Single Football player," knew exactly what his Dolphins had to do when things got serious.

"Our whole objective against Fran was to catch, not chase," he said. "Today, we caught."

Miami caught the Vikings at everything they tried to do. Minnesota managed a measly 72 rushing yards. The 166 passing yards didn't matter one bit.

Bob Griese, the computer-like quarterback who had to resort to the pass only seven times — and completed six for 73 yards — said he "sensed almost immediately that Larry was ruhning well. I just kept dialing his number."

He even dialed it when he had no idea what he was doing. In the third quarter, with the Dolphins on the Minnesota two-yard line, Griese's mind suddenly went blank.

"I got to the line of scrimmage and started looking the defense over and forgot the count," he admitted.

"I turned around and asked Csonka. Why I did that, I don't know. He's always forgetting the count. Larry shouted: 'It's one ... no, wait ... it's two ...'

"Well, as it turned out, it was one. all of a sudden the ball was in my hands. I just handed it to Larry." And Larry just crashed into the end zone for the touchdown on the "busted" play.

All-Star Tilt Set

SEATTLE (AP) — John Havlicek, the newest member of the National Basketball Association's 20,000-point club, was expected to be one of the ringleaders of a fired-up East team that will face the favored West in Tuesday night's NBA All-Star Game, scheduled to be played following an expansion announcement by the league.

Havlicek, the leading scorer in Boston Celtics' history, reached the milestone last Friday night during a 111-103 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers.

Asked if he ever thought of scoring 20,000 points early in his career, the 33-year-old Havlicek said: "I never thought I would play 12 years. I felt I would play about 10 years and then call it a career. However, the average longevity in the league has gotten longer because of expansion."

When Havlicek began his NBA career in the 1962-63 season, there were only nine teams in the league. Now, there are 17, and Commissioner Walter Kennedy indicated Sunday night that an 18th team probably would be added for the 1974-75 season.

The commissioner did not specify which city was the leading candidate for the next franchise. But New Orleans, Toronto and the Twin Cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul have been mentioned as possibilities.

Kennedy said that the league's owners would establish the price for a franchise — expected to be close to $6 million — and whether to expand next season or later, at a meeting Tuesday prior to the game.

Following the owners' announcement, 12-man teams from the Eastern and Western Conferences will meet in the Seattle Center Coliseum before a sellout crowd of 14,360 and a national television audience in the 24th All-Star Game.

The East, leading the series 15-8 including a 104-84 victory last year at Chicago, is expected to be the underdog against the taller West, featuring 7-foot-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee.

Booster Club Meets Tonight

The Tiger Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the West Elementary Cafeteria to hear a report on the Snyder High School basketball team and see a film. Plans for the all-sports banquet also will be discussed.

Dr. W. N. Jones, president of the club, urged everyone to attend.

South Plains Hosts Western

The Western Texas College Westerners, sporting a fine 11-4 record, take on South Plains Junior College in Levelland at 7:30 p.m. tonight. The Westerners will be out to improve on a 2-2 Western Junior College Athletic Conference record.

"They've got a big team and will be strong on the boards," said Coach Mike Mitchell of the Westerners. He said South Plains has a better team than their 5-10 record indicates.

Leading South Plains will be 6-10 John Joseph, their leading scorer, and 6-3 Robert Herrera, a guard, who is the second leading scorer.

Mitchell said probable starters for the Westerners tonight will be Norman Barnes, 6-8 freshman from Richmond, Virginia, at center; Eugene Harris, 6-7 freshman from Hattiesburg, Miss., and Harold Ward, 6-6 sophomore from Passaic, N.J., at forward; and , Ken Fowler, 6-2 freshman from Austin, and Danny McDaniel, 6-2 sophomore from Little Rock, Ark., at guard.

The Westerners have had good luck with a pressing man-to-man defense this season. About the only time they go into a zone is when they get into foul trouble.

Other Westerners available for action include Eric Grant, 5-10 sophomore guard from Hondo; Kevin Jones, 6-5 freshman forward from Snyder; Luis Blanco, 5-11 sophomore guard from Fort Stockton; Gary Brooks, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Snyder; Greg Hill, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Midland, Pa.; Kent Horsley, 6-8 sophomore center from Snyder; Brian Minor, 6-5 freshman forward from Richmond, Va.; and, Jerry Brooks, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Snyder.

The Westerners return home Thursday night, hosting New Mexico Military Institute in the coliseum.

Harness horse of 1973 was Sir Dalrae, a 4-year-old pacer who failed as a trotter.

Mustangs Host SHS Tomorrow

The Andrews Mustangs host the Snyder Tigers at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in a non-district basketball game. The program begins at 4:30 p.m. with a clash between the sophomore teams, followed by a 6:15 p.m. tussle between the junior varsity squads.

"They'll probably be out for revenge," said Tiger Coach Bob Moore.

The two teams tangled here on Dec. 12 and the Tigers won a thrilling double overtime match 85-77. Tomorrow night's clash could be just as close as the first encounter between the two teams.

Andrews has a tall team. They also have the better record at 13-9 for the season. Snyder is 7-13.

Coach Moore said the Tigers again would use a triple post attack with Larry Johns, 6-2 junior, Welton Cobb, 6-0 junior, and Roy Lee Carter, 6-2 junior at post . Guards will be Chester Cobb, 5-11 sophomore, and Tim Jones, 5-8 senior.

"We've also called up Robert Alderete to the varsity squad," said Moore. "He became eligible at midterm. He was one of the leading scorers on the junior varsity team."

MILLER WINS AT PHOENIX

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller winced when he heard the gallerys' vast roar from the 18th green that rolled and reverbrated through the pines and palms dotting the Phoenix Country Club course.

"I said to myself, 'You've got to be kidding me. He couldn't have made eagle again,'" Miller said.

But there was no kidding about it. Lanny Wadkins had just rolled in a 30-foot putt for eagle three on the 18th hole and suddenly, from a four-stroke lead, Miller was one stroke behind with two holes to go.

He birdied both and was a winner — again.

Miller's four-under-par 67 in the final round gave him a 271 total, 13 under par on the 6,709 yard layout and a one-stroke margin over the disappointed Wadkins.

It was Miller's second victory in as many starts this year and made him the only champion the pro golf tour has seen this season. Actually, it was his third victory in a row. He won the individual title in the World Cup in Spain in his last 1973 start.

For Wadkins, who challenged with a sparkling, six-under-par 65, it marked the third year in a row that he had finished second in this tournament.

Veteran Miller Barber, who went into the warm, sunny final round in a tie for the top with Miller, fell back to a tie for third with a 70-274. Also at that figure were John Schroeder and Hubert Green, each of whom posted a 66 in the ideal playing conditions.

Australian Bruce Crampton, the 1973 Phoenix champion, had a closing 76 and was far back at 293. Lee Trevino had a 67 but started too far back and finished 13 strokes behind at 284. Tom Weiskopf failed to qualify for the final two rounds. Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer did not compete.

North Beats South 16-13

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti turned into a deadly pass receiver in the Silver Anniversary Senior Bowl football game and sparked the North All-Stars to a 16-13 victory over the South.

"Cappelletti is class in every sense of the word," said North Coach Mike McCormack of the Philadelphia Eagles.

"He's a great player," said South Coach Don McCafferty of the Detroit Lions. "It's the outside linebacker's responsibility to cover the man coming out of the backfield on pass plays, but from the start to the end Cappelletti was wide open swinging out of the North backfield."

The Penn State All-American was held to only 48 yards rushing but he managed to grab eight passes for 153 yards, including a 16-yarder in the waning moments two plays before David Jaynes fired a 17-yard scoring strike to Lynn Swann for the game-winning score with only 26 seconds left.

Jaynes, an All-American from Kansas, also hurled a 15-yarder to Swann, an All-American from Southern California, and a 12-yarder to Penn State's Gary Hayman in the 80-yard drive to victory.

The North, featuring some outstanding linemen, were favored in the game but appeared headed for defeat when Wilbur Jackson of Alabama raced 53 yards to the two setting up a two-yard scoring run by Arizona State's Woody Green. It gave the South a 13-9 lead in the fourth period.

The North had taken a 9-0 lead on a 31-yard field goal by Nebraska's Rich Sanger and a one-yard smash by Bo Matthews of Colorado after the game's most valuable player, defensive tackle Bill Kollar of Montana State, had pounced on a fumble.

The South rallied to the lead on field goals of 27 and 35 yards by Greg Gantt and on Green's two-yard run that came on a fourth down play.

O.J. Simpson Is Lauded

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Committee of 101 has named O. J. Simpson, the sensational running back of the Buffalo Bills, Offensive Player of the Year in the American Football Conference.

Simpson broke the single season rushing record of Jim Brown during the 1973 campaign with 2,003 yards. He is the first professional player ever to gain more than 2,000 yards in one season.

TIGHT S'WEST RACE ON TAP

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Such is the competitiveness of Southwest Conference basketball that one coach believes a team with a 1-11 record could be a major factor in deciding who is the champion.

Coach Shelby Metcalf of Texas A&M, whose team has the best season record of conference members at 8-4, said no team has an advantage over the others regardless of its non-conference ledger.

"Even Texas could project itself into the race," Metcalf said. "They are the best 1-11 team I ever saw. I look for them to be one of the best teams in the conference."

Metcalf scoffed at his own team's lofty perch atop the season standings.

"When conference starts it's a new season," he said. All the rest is just preparation. But we'll be competitive."

The conference title chase starts in earnest Tuesday in the wake of Texas Tech's early bid 80-77 victory in the league opener against Arkansas Saturday.

The winners of the Rice-Baylor, Southern Methodist-A&M and Texas Christian-Texas jousts Tuesday night will move into a tie with the defending champion Red Raiders.

Tech used a blocked shot by William Johnson and an eight-foot jumper by Rick Bullock in the final 10 seconds to put the game into overtime before pulling out the road victory over the Razorbacks.

"Tech is still the team to beat," said Coach Bob Prewitt of SMU, which along with Tech was a preseason co-favorite. "That's a big win for them over Arkansas. I don't see any easy wins in conference. Any team is capable of knocking everyone else off. Tech probably feels fortunate to get out with a win in the hills."

SMU, now 5-7, had lost four straight games before Saturday night's 93-96 victory over Houston Baptist.

"It was an important win for us," Prewitt said. "We were able to play well our last game before conference play."

The Aggies took over the top spot in the season standings from Baylor as A&M beat Southwestern 100-87 in its only game and the Bears dropped to a 7-4 mark with losses to Oklahoma State and Houston.

TCU upped its record to 6-5 with a triumph over Houston Baptist and Rice stayed just one game below the .500 mark with a victory over California and a loss to Houston.

Giants Hire Arnsparger

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Arnsparger, the top aide to Miami Dolphins head coach Don Shula, will take over as head coach of the New York Giants for the 1974 season, although he won't say so as yet.

"Arnsparger has the job — you can bet on that," a high-ranking official in the Miami organization said amidst the celebration in the Dolphins' locker room following Miami's 24-7 triumph over the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl VIII.

Shula also all but announced that his long-time defensive coach was headed for New York.

Shula threw his arms around Arsparger as the two approached the tent where post-game interviews were held. Arnsparger had tears in his eyes.

"We gave two game balls today," Shula said. "One was to Larry Csonka," the Miami fullback who rushed for a Super Bowl-record 145 yards and was named the game's most valuable player. "The other was to Bill Arsparger, who is supposed to be getting the Giant job as head coach."

Shula stopped, chuckled, then said: "That ends that rumor."

Then he added, "All I can say is, the Giants are getting themselves one helluva coach."

Colombia Stuns U.S.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — "Maybe the Americans over-estimated themselves a bit," chortled Jairo Velasco, who paired with Ivan Molina on the Colombian Davis Cup tennis team which shocked the United States 4-1 in the North American zone finals Sunday.

Velasco and Molina each won two singles matches from the U.S. squad, losing only Saturday's doubles event.

The humiliating defeat, the earliest ever suffered by a U.S. team in Davis Cup competition, eliminates the Americans from contention for the prestigious international trophy in 1974. Last year, the U.S. was beaten 5-0 in the challenge round by Australia.

Dennis Ralston, the non-playing captain of the American team, praised the play of the Colombians. "Molina played very well," he said, "and Velasco took good advantage of his ability."

Velasco clinched the victory for Colombia in the best-of-five competition by beating Erik van Dillen of Aptos, Calif. 6-0, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3 in Sunday's opening match, giving the home team an insurmountable 3-1 lead.

Molina closed out the one-sided series by routing Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md. 6-2, 6-1, 6-0.

The Americans had drawn criticism for sending a team which did not include a number of well-known stars, but Ralston defended the squad — van Dillen, Solomon, Charlie Pasarell and Eddie Dibbs — Sunday night.

"This was the best U.S. Davis Cup team available," declared Ralston, who explained that some of the better-known Americans could not compete because of other commitments. Among the top U.S. tennis stars absent were Stan Smith, Arthur Ashe, Jimmy Connors, Marty Riessen, Cliff Richey and Bob Lutz.

Communicating Figures Frustrating Accountants

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The perennial frustration of accountants has been the difficulty of communicating their message to a population which is educated to read and understand words, but which tends to distrust numbers.

Since numbers are the vocabulary of accountants the situation is a difficult one, made more so today by demands for more complete corporate information and by the growing complexities of those corporations.

In addition, pressures are developing for accountants to measure social assets, even though the criteria for appraising them is incomplete. And while they are preoccupied with these problems, inflation is scrambling the numbers.

The current state of flux provoked John C. Burton, the chief accountant of the Securities and Exchange Commission, to comment: "We have encouraged the public to think that financial statements are truth, and now we must teach them otherwise."

Burton didn't stop there. He expanded his remarks into a broad generalization: "You cannot find in accounting a truth. Most of the big accounting problems today are not susceptible to a simple answer."

Walter Hanson, senior partner of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell, puts it this way:

"What people are fooled by is that the numbers one, two, three add up, but when you apply them to what is happening in the corporate environment they become less exact."

You may say a building is worth $10,000, Hanson continues, and that it depreciates over 10 years, or $1,000 a year. But another accountant might say 12 years, another 9, and another 13.

The numbers are precise. You can add, subtract, divide and multiply them. But when you apply those numbers to a real situation the matter of judgment enters. Then, Hanson states, "Exactness disappears into inexactness."

The situation is compounded in dealing with today's corporate maze and is forcing the major accounting firms to seek more thoroughly educated beginners and to strengthen in-house education.

"We're dealing with 60 hours per man of continuing formal education," said Hanson. Each year, he estimates, the firm devotes 50,000 man days to such additional instruction, tripling its education costs in three years.

Among the relatively newer problems are those created by persistent inflation. It makes comparisons misleading; the dollar values of today, for example, are really about 30 per cent lower than those of 10 years ago.

Comparisons made in current dollars therefore are misleading. The numbers look the same and they add up in the same way, but their values are decidedly different.

Gas Ordered Out Of Garage

HOUSTON (AP) — A southeast Houston man has removed 400 gallons of gasoline from his two-car garage after fire inspectors ordered him to do so.

Investigating a complaint, Fire Inspector Harold Arnt said he went to the house Sunday and found seven 55-gallon drums and 13 five-gallon cans in the garage attached to the house. He said the containers were filled with gasoline.

Arnt said a hot water heater also was in the garage. He said he disconnected the heater and ordered the man to remove the gasoline.

Inspectors checked the house later and found that the gasoline had been removed. The man had said he would take it to a relative's farm.

Inspectors quoted the man's wife as saying the gasoline was for the family's three cars.

Boyle Jumps To Conclusions

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

No more than one out of 10 American husbands knows the size of dress his wife wears. At least one out of five husbands can't name for certain his own shoe size or the length of his shirt sleeves.

No matter how much you may respect a man's ability as a raconteur, it begins to diminish if you meet him at more than three cocktail parties in a month.

One of the hardest of all things for a man to do is to win a deserved reputation as both a lover and an excellent executive in a single lifetime. That is why people who try to lead double lives find they are shirking one of them.

To convince a cynic that miracles are not only possible but commonplace in this world, simply let him watch a hen lay an egg.

When people speak of "the balance of nature," what they really mean is a time when nature is balanced so as to give the human race its next possible edge.

A debunker is successful only as long as he sticks to debunking things most people no longer believe or think important. But as soon as he starts debunking the comfortable myths they really live by, he is on his way to being strung up on a lamp post as a dangerous charlatan and a deceiver of the young.

An old-timer is a guy who, after trudging through winter mud, ice and snow to get to work, spends most of the rest of the day at his desk wistfully recalling aloud the glories of the good old days when you got a shoeshine for a dime.

A woman can't be all bad who solaces her soul by keeping a plant of some kind bravely green and growing in the window of her apartment throughout a long and dreary winter. She is the kind of woman a man can marry and brag about to his mother.

So many folks have done such fine things to conserve energy during the present fuel crisis that we hesitate even to mention our own small contribution in this respect. We've given up popcorn for the duration.

$40,000 Violin Given Orchestra

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Henry Szeryng, world famous Polish-Mexican violinist, has given a $40,000 violin to the National Symphony Orchestra.

The instrument is a 289-year-old Andreas Guarnerius. Szeryng, born in Poland and a Mexican citizen since 1946, gave the violin to President Luis Echeverria for use by the orchestra.

"I donate this violin, which has been part of myself for 35 years, because of the love I feel for my fatherland, Mexico," he said.

Junior Editors' Quiz on QUARTZ

QUESTION: What is quartz?

ANSWER: Quartz is a common mineral found all over the world. As the chemical silica, it forms an important part of many rocks and sandstone. It is the hardest of the common minerals and is not easily changed by weather conditions or moisture, nor does it dissolve in water or most acids. Only rare minerals such as topaz, corundum and diamond are harder than quartz. There are about 200 varieties of quartz in a large selection of colors and textures.

Quartz has many uses. Some types are semi-precious stones, such as amethyst, rose quartz, jasper, onyx and the like. When crystal quartz is cut on an exact angle to its axis, pressure on it generates a minute electrical charge. This makes quartz valuable in radio, television and radar. Quartz transmits short light waves better than glass and is used in the windows of solariums. It is used in making the lenses for scientific instruments such as microscopes etc. Other uses are in glass and porcelain making. It is also used in smelting iron and copper ore.

Guns, Autos Tie In Violence Toll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gunfire tied the crashing of autos as the most deadly sound in Texas during the weekend as dismal weather and fuel conservation measures kept vehicles off state roadways.

At midnight Sunday the toll stood at 19 dead with nine coming in shootings. It was the first time veteran tabulators could remember that traffic fatalities did not easily lead the grim count.

Nine auto collisions and an oil field mishap completed the list.

The Associated Press began the count at 6 p.m. Friday and included deaths through midnight Sunday.

Three of the traffic deaths were recorded in one accident near Cotulla in South Texas.

Investigators said Frederick Julius Kruger Jr., 20, of Cotulla and Robert Alan Howarth, 18, of Carrizo Springs died at the scene of the accident on Interstate 35. Jeffrey Ray English, 19, of Carrizo Springs died several hours later at a San Antonio hospital.

Nelda Hollis Sodrock, 29, of Porter, Tex., died Friday night in a two-car collision on a Houston street.

An off-duty Harris County deputy sheriff was shot to death Saturday during a holdup at a Houston apartment manager's office. Edward Williams, 34, was shot in the head as he lunged at one of two robbers and later died at a Houston hospital.

V. H. Trammell, a retired farmer, died at his residence north of Harlingen Friday night when two holdup men shot him and burned down the house. His wife managed to escape and hide in a nearby ditch until the men left.

Gerald Wayne Johnson, 19, of Houston was shot to death early Saturday at a small grocery store. Officers said the store manager told them he shot Johnson seven times in the chest after Johnson had pointed a gun at him and robbed him of $12 cash and a sack of novelty jewelry.

A Ft. Hood soldier, Erick William Zolan, 24, was found dead Saturday morning in the taxi he drove at night. He was shot once in the chest.

William Dayton, 21, of Kansas City, Mo., died early Saturday at a party on San Antonio's southwest side when he was shot during an altercation.

Investigators said witnesses told them Curlee Hill, 33, of San Antonio died Saturday night when a man shot him outside a club during an argument over some money.

John Howard Bishop, 26, of Junction died Saturday while working on an oil drilling rig three miles west of Orange Grove in the Corpus Christi area.

Tommy Sutherland, 26, died in a Sherman hospital after a shooting broke out Saturday night at a night club. Tommy Brown, 28, was taken to a Dallas hospital suffering from bullet wounds.

Laura Long, 13, of Waco died late Sunday when the car in which she was riding collided with another vehicle on a city street. The child was dead on arrival at a Waco hospital.

Howard F. Foreman, 20, of Houston was killed in a two-car crash Sunday night in Harris County on Old Galveston Road. The 17-year-old driver of the second car, Dominick Rezza of Houston, was injured.

Leonard Rodgerson, 39, of Magnolia was killed Sunday night when a car struck him as he changed a tire on his automobile. The incident occurred in Houston on Texas 105.

Michael Wayne Glenn, 18, of Houston was shot to death Saturday night at a residence. Houston police quoted a witness as saying a man with a shotgun ran from the dwelling shortly after the shooting.

Lawrence L. Burton, 20, of the Dallas suburb of Irving was shot to death early Sunday when the all-night grocery where he worked was robbed.

A wide search was started for the two gunmen who fled in a car which later was found nearby.

Two persons were killed and four injured Sunday in a traffic collision on Texas 377 near Benbrook. Dead were Harold P. Helgason, 67, of Maxbass, N.D., and John Bastian, 54, of Sawyer, N.D.

New Farm Bargaining Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal farm official says a new framework for agricultural bargaining is needed to help producers move further into a market-oriented economy.

But Asst. Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter said the federal government should maintain a low profile.

Yeutter, who oversees U.S. Department of Agriculture's marketing agencies, made his remarks in a speech prepared for a national farm bargaining conference today.

"At times a referee may be necessary in bargaining, just as in a football game," he said. "We perform that regulatory function to some degree today, and an expansion may well be in order."

But he said farm bargaining "is essentially a function of the business community and it should remain as such. We do not want to see a huge federal bureaucracy developed to administer a farm bargaining program."

Bills have been introduced in Congress in recent years to set up a more formalized framework to help farmers bargain collectively with processors and other buyers.

Yeutter said a responsible bargaining association should provide leadership and major marketing education for its members.

"Perhaps most important of all, farm bargaining associations can help their members plan ahead, sell ahead, buy ahead," Yeutter said.

"The proper timing of management decisions becomes essential as we move further toward a market-oriented farm economy."

Yeutter cautioned that farm groups should not seek too much in the way of legislation all at once. It may be better, he said, "to talk with farm bargaining legislation, rather than attempt to run with it."

Only three of Michigan State's football games were played on grass last season.

Cliburn Rites Set Tuesday

SHREVEPORT, La. AP - Funeral services were scheduled to be held here Tuesday for Harvey Levan Cliburn, 75, father of internationally renowned pianist Van Cliburn.

The elder Cliburn, a native of Nesheba County, Miss., died Saturday at Shreveport's Highland Hospital.

A retired executive for the Mobil Oil Co., he once told an interviewer it wasn't easy to have his wife and son away from home so often in pursuit of a musical career.

But Cliburn was philisophical about it: "One must make personal sacrifices when God has bestowed such a talent on one's son. It would be wrong not to share that gift, not to afford others pleasure by using it as widely as possible."

Cliburn said he once wanted to see his son become a medical missionary, but that was before the youth's extraordinary talent became obvious.

Van Cliburn, who was catapulted to fame in 1958 by winning the Tchaikovsky International Competition in Moscow, reportedly cancelled a concert in Houston to be here with the rest of the family for the services at First Baptist Church.

'Bigfoot' Legend Not Proven Either Way

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bigfoot has been around a lot longer than flying saucers, but the evidence is similarly inconclusive as to whether the creature leaving those huge footprints in the Pacific Northwest is real.

Known there by the Indian name Sasquatch, he is a legendary, shy, hairy, manlike beast who leaves footprints four to seven inches wide and from 12 to 17 inches long.

Russ Kinne, writing in the current issue of Smithsonian magazine, traces the recorded history of Bigfoot back over 160 years, concluding there is no proof one way or another as to whether he is real.

"Most scientifically trained people who think about it at all believe it is all nonsense but a few scientists believe in Sasquatch and so does Peter Byrne, an animal tracker of legendary skill, who is currently camped out in The Dalles, Ore., determined, once and for all, to prove Sasquatch's existence or lack of it," Kinne wrote.

The evidence about Bigfoot consists of thousands of footprints, many of them cast in plaster, hundreds of reported sightings including one in the unlikely locale of Illinois last summer, and some movie film about which scientists don't agree.

Kinne, a free-lance photographer and writer, says in the magazine article that the first white man's record of Sasquatch dates from 1811, when an exploring party found in Canada 14-inch footprints that seemed to be too large for those of a bear.

In 1884, a train engineer saw a gorilla-type animal lying near the roadbed near Yale, British Columbia. Kinne says that when the train approached the creature climbed a hill with the train crew following and was captured and held for several days. The creature was described as more than four feet tall, covered with hair, and of extraordinary strength.

The article notes that it could have been an ape, but says captive apes were then rare in Canada and the United States.

The film that California rancher Roger Patterson shot in 1967 has been shown to numerous scientific groups and carefully examined in detail, Kinne says.

"The film shows an upright creature — small for a Sasquatch, about seven feet tall — which walks across the field of view, turns to look toward the camera, and continues on out of sight," the article says.

A studio specializing in animation concluded that the subject was an animal, not a man in a fur suit.

Kinne wrote that the film was examined frame-by-frame by Dr. Donald W. Grieve, an anatomist specializing in the human gait at the Royal Free Hospital School of Medicine in London.

Grieve wrote that his impressions "oscillated between total acceptance of the Sasquatch to irrational rejection based on emotional response to the possibility that the Sasquatch actualy exists."

Kinne says Byrne is the best hope of getting an answer because — unlike those who hunt Sasquatch on weekends and want to kill it and cut off a portion — he carries a tranquilizer gun to immobilize the creature long enough for scientists to examine and photograph it.

Airport Opening Like A Circus

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (AP) — The world's largest airport—a $700 million ultra-modern development between Dallas and Fort Worth-opened to the public Sunday. But not without its irritations.

The overwhelming size of the 17,500-acre airport seemed untenable for many passengers and visitors. "It's just a circus... everything is out of order," said a strewardess.

But the pilot on her plane termed the sophisticated airdrome "a pilot's airport."

Fred Ford, operations director in the new Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, said, however, that "everything is operational."

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said overcast skies and drizzle had no affect on aircraft operations at the new airport.

Working out the kinks and bugs in so large an airport, actually a city unto itself, may take a while. The airport was scheduled to open last October but was delayed. Even Sunday much work still remained to be done on the complex.

Many passengers and flight crews said it was just a case of disorganization, bordering on chaos.

An arrivying passenger, coming in from Chicago, said it took him an hour and 20 minutes to get out of the airport after the plane touched down.

His plane waited 40 minutes for a parking place. Then it took him 40 minutes to get his luggage.

Doors into the baggage area are one-way. If you went outside after entering the area, you had to line up and go through security to re-enter. Electronic surveillance equipment was not working, so the lines were long.

Teiphones, at 25 cents per attempt, were hard to make a call on. If you ran out of change trying, you had to go outside and re-enter by the broken down security line.

An arrival from San Antonio was Mrs. S. W. Voris, 71, of Fort Worth. She had been waiting on her luggage an hour and 15 minutes. "Maybe it's in the computer," a friend told her.

"I could have flown into Love Field Dallas' old airport which closed Saturday at midnight but I wanted to see the new airport. I hope this doesn't give them a bad name."

"I'm not going through that damn line again," yelled a man peeping over a partition to talke to his daughter. "I'll wait at the car, if you can find it."

Teaching In Special Ed

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: Since junior high I have had my heart set on becoming a teacher but now I understand there are too many teachers. Does this include special education teachers of the handicapped? — J.U., Gettysburg, Pa.

Although all teachers are happiest in their work if they like students and enjoy teaching, special education teachers of the handicapped need an extra measure of patience, warmth, creativeness and a sense of humor. Good health and emotional maturity are important, too: bringing handicapped children "out of the shadows" can be exhausting work. Why not do volunteer work in a public or private school, residential institution, hospital or treatment center before finalizing your career plans? You may learn that you lack the objective sensitivity for this demanding work.

STATISTICALLY, your chances of employment are better in special education than in regular teaching. Only half of our 6 million handicapped school-age children received some special education last year; 2 million others in regular classes didn't get any because of a lack of qualified teachers, and 1 million more were considered too disturbed for a general education. Youngsters with special learning disabilities (a rapidly increasing group), physical handicaps, impaired vision, speech and hearing defects especially need more teachers. However, a distinction should be noted between the NEED for special education personnel and the BUDGETED DEMAND for them in our school systems. As is true in nearly every area of social service, more special educators are needed than school systems will budget for employment.

JOB OPPORTUNITIES in schools, though many in number, are hinged to geographical needs. In populous areas more services are generally available so these locales have greater needs for personnel. Rural areas have fewer handicapped children and less money for their education. While pay varies, many receive a premium over the amount paid for general education teachers - but this depends on the school system.

FORTUNATELY, special education is undergoing a period of significant change. Two major trends (1) emphasis on early diagnosis and treatment, and (2) placement of handicapped children in regular classrooms. "Resource room" programs, where children spend much of the school day in regular classes but go out for some special instruction, are becoming part of the mainstream of education. Consequently, the demand for special ed administrators, itinerant and resource teachers is exceeding the current supply, resulting in a gradual increase of special ed funds.

BOOKLET: About 400 schools now offer special ed training. For a brand new free directory of financial aid resources and schools for special education teachers, "1973-74 Scholarship Program-Education of Handicapped Children," published by the U.S. Office of Education, send a postcard to me at this newspaper.

BASIC EDUCATIONAL REQUIREMENTS for a special ed teacher include a bachelor's degree and often a master's degree for state certification. Preparation is similar to that required in general education plus such additional courses as speech pathology, audiology, psychology of the exceptional child, braille, techniques of remedial teaching and classroom behavior. The specific courses depend, of course, on the type of handicapped children you plan to teach. That is, you would not take braille unless you intend to teach the blind. Some special ed teachers continue beyond the master's degree to prepare for college teaching, supervisory/administrative positions and research.

ACCORDING TO the National Council for Exceptional Children, the next 10 years will be a good time to enter this specialized field to which all of education is giving increased attention.

You can get just about any kind of supply found in a drapery shop at Connie's Drapery. Included are such things as shades, swags, table cloths, bed spreads, sheers, upholstery, pillows, valances, cornice board, floor covering, and venetian blinds as well as drapes.

"We make or reline drapes or you can have your order ready made," Mrs. Payne pointed out.

PICKUP COVERS—Snyder Trailer Sales and Rental, Seventeenth Street at Avenue I, has Hawk Top pickup covers. Here, Dawson Moreland, who operates the firm with his wife Alma, displays some of the Hawk Top pickup covers that are available at reasonable prices. Moreland also rents them. He's already installed pickup covers on small Chevrolets and Fords, Datsuns and Toyotas. He also has four different sizes for regular pickups.

Snyder Trailer Sales & Rental Has Hawk Top Pickup Covers

Snyder Trailer Sales and Rental, Seventeenth Street at Avenue I, has a big supply of Hawk Top pickup covers, both for sale or rental.

Owned and operated by Dawson and Alma Moreland, Snyder Trailer Sales and Rental has Hawk Top pickup covers for four different types of small pickups—Datsuns, Chevrolets, Fords and Toyotas. In addition, they have four different sizes for regular pickups: short and narrow, short wide, long narrow and long wide.

"We've also got three new 1974 Golden Falcon vacation trailers on the lot," said Moreland. He said he recently received a shipment that includes the 21-foot, 23-foot and 28-foot trailers.

Most of the travel trailers at Snyder Trailer Sales are completely self-contained. They are dressed-up quality trailers. They have all the conveniences of home and comfortably sleep four people. Most of their trailers have 4-burner cook stoves and ovens with refrigerators and large double closets with 12-volt lighting.

"We can install air conditioning on any of our trailers," Moreland pointed out. He said his firm specializes in Intertherm air conditioners and can get replacement parts overnight.

All of their trailers are reasonably priced with comparable prices to any other firm in the area.

Moreland also has a complete line of trailer supplies—everything from water tanks to clearance lights.

"We also do all types of repair work on trailers," Moreland said.

The Hawk Top pickup covers are both lined and unlined and come in just about any shape a customer could want.

Moreland is always glad to show any prospective customer around the lot. The firm opens at 8 a.m. and closes about 5:30 p.m. on week days and is usually open until noon or later on Saturdays.

There is usually someone on duty at Snyder Trailer Sales and Rental at all times, and they will be glad to answer your telephone inquiries if you'll call 573-75[illegible].
