Fourteen practices have been approved for Ochiltree county during 1955. These include the following:

The drive will begin at noon Monday and will continue until late that night. Every house in town will be called upon by one of the workers and the drive is sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Mrs. J. B. Whigham and Mrs. Jimmy Hall are co-chairmen for the "Mothers' March," assisted by a sorority committee of 12 workers and about 100 volunteers in all.

County and City Favor New Water Conservation District

Perryton and Ochiltree county joined five other counties in approving the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District in the election held Friday. Two counties, Lipscomb and Dallam, and all incorporated towns in each of these counties, rejected the proposal.

Ochiltree county voted 102-52 in favor of the district and the vote in the city of Perryton was 91-38, a greater majority than had been predicted. Votes were cast at the courthouse, in Farnsworth and Hutton for rural voters.

Meet Canyon Here Friday

The Perryton Rangers and Rangerettes will meet the Canyon teams in district basketball contests Friday night in the school gymnasium. ers and at the city hall for city voters.

All of the six counties in favor of the district also voted to levy a 5¢ on the $100 valuation to support it. Members of the district are Ochiltree, Hansford, Moore, Hartley, Hutchinson and Sherman counties.

The district will encourage water conservation, draft well-spacing regulations and collect data on the use of underground water.

Because of the rapid growth of irrigation in the counties north of the Canadian River, proponents of the issue recommend a program for planned development that would assure equitable use of water supplies, and that the program be locally formulated and administered.

Voters also confirmed the appointment of five directors. They are Harlan Hawk, Ochiltree county; C. P. Metcalf, Hartley county; Earl Browder, Sherman county; Gaston Wells, Moore county; R. V. Converse, Hansford and Hutchinson counties.

Directors are to meet today, January 27, to canvas the votes and announce official results that will authorize creation of the six-county water district.

MULE EARED SEA SERPENT—The two-man midget submarine with the mule ears found the water of Lake Texoma too cold for its maiden voyage yesterday. The craft was made at Oklahoma City for Commercial underwater use. It is the RX-101 and operates by battery. It ducked under 12 feet of water and then bobbed right back to the surface and tilted. Its engineer said that after a few adjustments he would try the craft out again. The claws in the front of the weird appearing craft are used to pick up objects off the bottom of a lake or sea. (UPI Wirephoto)

MARCH OF DIMES POSTER BOY—James Clark Allen Jr., five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Allen, Tyler, Tex., has been designated by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis as the 1955 March of Dimes Poster Boy. GOOFY LIKES JOHNSON GRASS—Goofy is shown at a moment which made history at the Louis Willis drugstore in Dallas where she is a favorite of customers. For years they have been bringing the grass-eating cat handfuls of Bermuda or lawn grass, which she liked. Recently Goofy had turned down Bermuda. A thoughtful customer brought some Johnson grass, a pesky invader of Texas lawns, and Goofy's appetite found new life. (UPI Photo)

HOW TO RESTORE SERVICE WHEN A FUSE BLOWS

If your lights go out suddenly when you plug in an appliance or flip a switch, a fuse has probably blown or a circuit breaker tripped open.

Your trouble may be an overloaded circuit (too many lamps and appliances on a single circuit) or a short circuit (usually caused by a defective appliance or cord.)

By keeping spare fuses of the correct size on hand, you can easily restore service without waiting for a service man. Just follow the instructions below.

TO REPLACE A BLOWN FUSE

- 1 Locate the blown fuse. The metal link showing through the window will be broken or the window itself may be scorched.
- 2 Disconnect the appliance or lamp that caused the short circuit or overload.
- 3 Stand on a dry surface and pull the main switch to OFF.
- 4 Unscrew the burned-out fuse and replace it with a NEW fuse of the correct size (usually 15 amperes).
- 5 Throw the main switch back to ON position.

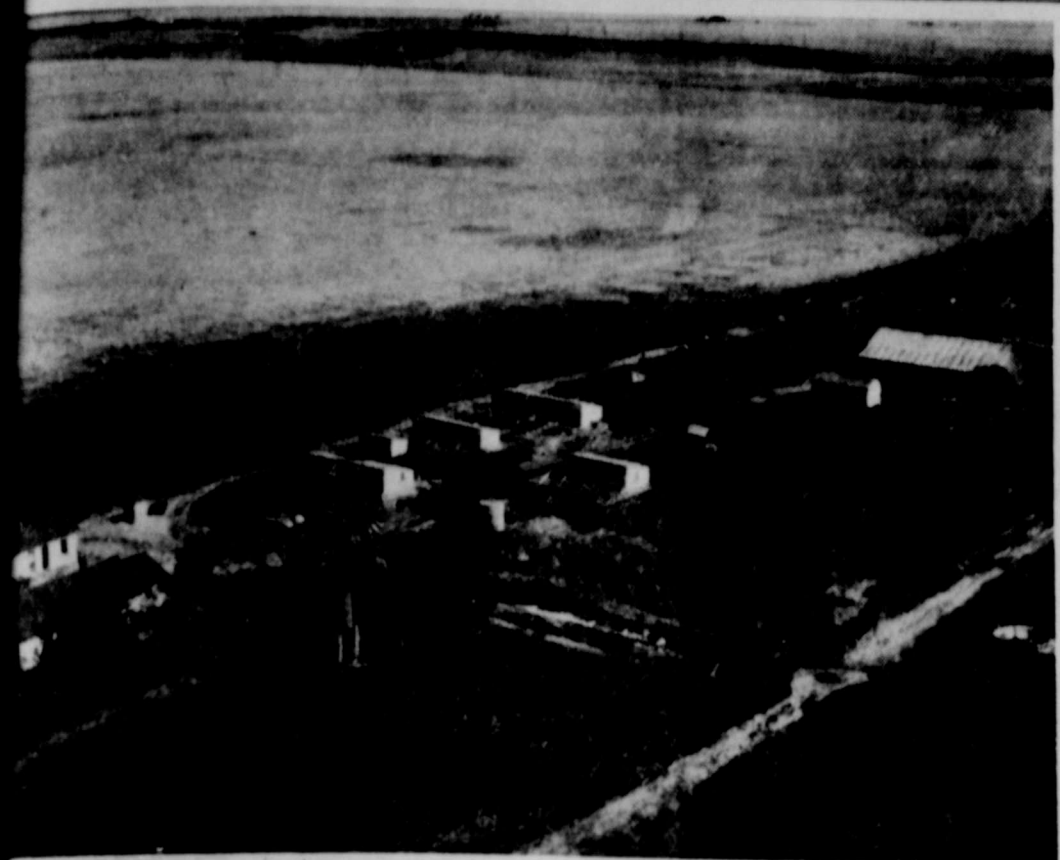

IF YOUR HOME HAS CIRCUIT BREAKERS INSTEAD OF FUSES

- 1 Locate the tripped breaker. It will be in the OFF or TRIPPED position.
- 2 Disconnect the appliance or lamp that caused the short or overload.
- 3 Reset the breaker to ON position, following manufacturer's instructions on breaker panel.

REMEMBER, a fuse or circuit breaker is designed to protect your wiring from "short" or overload damage. Never use a penny or other object instead of a fuse. It's dangerous.

If your lights are off and you can't correct the trouble, call our office. We'll be glad to help!

Witt Farm Identified In Every Farm

Farm located six miles and one mile east of Perryton, Texas, owned by Mrs. F. C. Spencer, formerly of Garnett, Mo., identified as last week's Mystery Farm of the Air. Mrs. Witt raised a large flock of chickens and have 230 pullets now. They also have the year round.

Mr. Spencer had an outstanding dairy herd and a large dairy barn which burned to the ground in the fall of 1929. The house was torn down several years after the family moved into town in March, 1930.

Witt have three children, Betty and Ricky of the home and Mrs. Herbert Baker, who also live at the Witt home.

The farm was bought by the late F. C. Spencer in 1908 and the family moved from Roanoke, Indiana, in April, 1908 to this farm. There were 320 acres in the farm at that time, but acquisitions in later years brought the acreage up to the present total of 1,173.

Best crop year was in 1944 when the farm averaged about 30 bushels per acre. Poorest years were during the dust bowl days where there were several failures.

There are six daughters in the Spencer family, four of whom

A Balanced Budget

When the federal government announced the current budget which fails to limit government expenditures within the anticipated income, there was heard considerable grumbling among those who believe the federal budget ought to be balanced.

This is not as easy as it appears. Federal economy can't be realized or attained until the issue of Big Government is decided.

We will have to decide whether we want the Federal Government to continue the long list of services and projects which mean repeated deficits, or whether we are willing to cut these programs down to a size we can pay for out of current income.

Thus far, we are unwilling to cut federal spending and in fact are howling for more.

Many of the federal expenditures are fixed by law, and are not simply an appropriation problem. About 70 per cent of federal spending each year is for war—past, present or future wars and this is one of the hardest items in a budget to cut.

Other expenditures are fixed by law such as farm price supports, public assistance, soil conservation payments, school and road spending.

In order to cut these, the laws would have to be changed. This of course would meet with much pressure and even if realized, many more appealing programs would be introduced.

One good example of how hard it is to reduce the cost of federal government is the proposal to cut off the "GI Bill" for education, which has given a government paid college education to those desiring it and who serve in the armed forces.

Originally set up with American Legion backing, to aid veterans of World War II in rehabilitation after war service, the bill later took in veterans of the Korean conflict. Then it became of great value as a recruiting tool, and by now it has become an accepted practice that a man who serves in the armed forces, even in peacetime, should be guaranteed a government college education.

The proposal to cut off this expenditure this month immediately raised a howl, and there are bills in Congress now to keep it in effect.

The people can have federal economy—if they really want it. We doubt if they do.

More and More Babies

The bumper baby crop continues to make everybody happy—with the possible exception of school officials.

The current school census is revealing that there will be another large crop of first graders in Perryton—enough to cause another section of the grade, and another teacher, to be added next fall.

Baby food manufacturers, diaper laundries, baby sitters, toy shops, clothing manufacturers and baby doctors are quite happy about the boom. But the schools across the country are wondering where they are going to put the youngsters.

School enrollment in Perryton is rising each year—principally because there are more first graders entering each year than there are seniors graduating.

The space situation here is not in the acute stage, but it is presenting a problem that must be faced in a few more years.

"One version is that the flying objects are some kind of new secret weapon being tried out by various countries. If this is so, they say: Try your weapons wherever you please but keep out of Asia in general and Iran in particular. PLEASE! We've got enough troubles already."

From the SIDELINE with HAROLD HUDSON

We attended the Mid-Winter Meeting of the Texas Press Association in Austin last week-end, and can report that we broke bread with Gov. Shivers in the governor's mansion; hobnobbed with most of the state senators and representatives at a "press party" Friday night; heard a lot of politicians and a few newspaper men on the program.

However, we must report that our representative, Guy Hazlett of Borger, and our senator, Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, both stayed away from the "Meet the Press" party. Which is not surprising. Rep. Hazlett, who represents Hutchinson, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb and Hemphill counties, has never bothered to campaign in the counties outside Hutchinson, knowing full well that all the votes are in Borger to insure election to that office.

We enjoyed one speaker on the program, who gave us the low-down on the Veterans Land Board scandals. He was Kenneth Towery, editor of the Cuero Record, who first dug out the story and broke it in his newspaper. Towery said he first began to hear rumors months ago that some colored veterans were collecting small sums of money for their "state land" and this sounded fishy, but he couldn't find out anything about it. Then a fellow in Cuero who had been unable to pay his grocery bills for years suddenly blossomed out in a new automobile, paid off some of his bills, built a $30,000 home and yet no one quite knew where he got the dough.

Finally, Towery started piecing things together and found that a dummy corporation had been set up which bought land from the president of this corporation at one price, broke it into tracts and sold it to the veterans at a highly inflated price set by the state appraiser, and the members of the corporation seemed to be blessed with unusual, and rather rapid prosperity.

He went to Austin and pored over the corporation charter files, got together a list of men who were working the land deal, and finally went to see state land commissioner Bascom Giles. Towery said Mr. Giles looked back in his swivel chair, looked at the ceiling, and said the whole thing was preposterous, that this was just a political move to discredit him. Towery thought otherwise, and printed his story. Big dailies in Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth took it up, and soon Mr. Giles resigned and the case is still going on.

There has been some criticism of attorney general John Ben Shepperd and governor Allan Shivers, both members of the Veterans Land Board, because neither man has attended a majority of the meetings. We were surprised to learn that there is a good reason for this. By law, both the governor and attorney general are members of a great many boards, and it is impossible to attend all of the meetings. Shepperd, for example, is by law a member of 24 state boards, some of which meet every day, many of which meet at the same hour on the same day, making it obviously impossible for him to attend all meetings of all these boards. Besides, being attorney general is a full time job.

The rumor is going around that the Interscholastic League will again re-classify and re-district the state high schools, and in fact a committee has been appointed to study the proposal. In the latest issue of the Interscholastic Leaguer, an article appears which gives one proposal for re-classifying. At the present time, class AA schools are made up of those

Figures Better Installment Plan

(Ed. note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher discusses something that is right up his alley this week—installment buying.)

Dear editor:

As an admirer of the down-payment system, under which a man can have the use of nearly anything all his life without ever really owning it, I was interested in reading last night about a new system of installment buying.

with enrollments from 225 to 550 high school students. The new proposal would change this from 225 to 393 students, automatically boosting Dumas, Hereford and Phillips to class AAA, which would have an enrollment spread of 390 to 750 students.

We are highly in favor of this, especially the proposal to boot Phillips into AAA.

The trouble with telling a good story is that it reminds the other guy of a dull one.

Notice where the Hereford school has abolished a rule against using ball point pens in high school. The use of ball points is now encouraged in order to protect the floors in the new high school plant. These school men are now recognizing a fact which the fountain pen makers have realized for some time—that the ball point is taking the place of the nib pen. Ball point pens, a far cry from the introductory model introduced a few years ago by a fellow named Reynolds (would write under water, remember?) are now doing most of the pen sales.

It was no accident that Parker came out with their ball point Jotter to compete. This was a case of necessity and the Jotter has leaped to the forefront of Parker sales. Biggest seller of them all is Paper Mate, which has three models including the Capri with fine or medium point. Fine pens, too. The Paper Mate advertising budget this year is more than either Sheaffer or Parker this year.

And we hardly ever sell a pen staff or steel nib any more in the Herald office supply. Before long these will be as great a curiosity as the quill pen. Except in the post office, however. We have long suspected that they use theirs to play darts with, and of course a ball point pen wouldn't do for that.

That is, it isn't exactly new, but it's an enlargement and improvement of the present system, and I think it deserves more attention.

According to this article, there's a man out on the West Coast who'll not only sell you a house and lot on the installment plan, but he'll include a new car in the garage. I guess with the tank full of gas. One payment each month takes care of the house, lot and car.

This strikes me as having unlimited possibilities, capable of lots of refinements. For example, under the present system, a man sometimes is pulled and tugged in several different directions by that many salesmen trying to sell him something on the installment plan, and after he buys a few articles he has a hard time just keeping track of where to send the installment checks each week. Occasionally a man winds up with more installment than his salary comes to, and that may keep the wheels of the hauling vans moving but not the wheels of industry.

Under my system, all this will be eliminated. Say a young couple is just starting out but ain't willing to live any less comfortably than if they had already succeeded. You sell em a complete layout from a house with hardwood floors to a new car in the garage, including of course television, air-conditioning, central heat, automatic washing machine, clothes drier, carpet, grass, electric lawn mower, life insurance, adequate clothes, groceries.

ALEC GUINNESS tells Police Sergeant John Salew about his spare time as an amateur private eye. He captures and reforms criminals and has quite a time with an international spy. "The Detective" opens at the Ellis Theatre Tuesday, Feb. 1.

Guinness Is Detective In Latest Film

What has been called "the liveliest cops-and-robbers picture in a long, long time," "The Detective," comes to the Ellis Theatre on Tuesday-Thursday, Feb. 1-2-3. The production stars Alec Guinness, famed comedian who has been starred in this sort of picture for many years.

Mr. Guinness plays the title role of the new film, a special kind of private eye. "The Detective" is based upon the memorable Father Brown stories by G. K. Chesterton, and as "The Detective" Mr. Guinness blithely tracks down an international art thief in order to reform him.

Keeping a constant step ahead of Scotland Yard, Guinness not only gets his man but he gets his man romantically paired off with the girl in the case. Reportedly, it takes a little doing but Alec Guinness' previous performances on the screen have satisfactorily demonstrated the star's ability to do practically anything, and to do it with a gusto that has won him international acclaim.

Also starred in "The Detective" are winsome Joan Greenwood and handsome Peter Finch. Miss Greenwood, who appeared opposite Guinness in both "The Man in the White Suit" and the memorable "Kind Hearts and Coronets," in which he played eight different roles, is the girl in the case, a wealthy art collector who is aided by the ingenious and ingenious sleuth. Finch appears as the art thief who evades Guinness' various traps, only to ensnare himself when he listens to the dictates of his own conscience and the romantic promptings of his own heart.

In the century before 1875, epidemic disease reduced the Indians of the Northwest American coast to about a quarter of their original numbers.

Nonred Russia

RUSSIA, Ohio (AP)—This town of 250 got its name from one of the original settlers who, legend says, had taken part in the Franco-Russian wars. He thought the area looked like Russia and the name stayed with the town.

Russia has the only postoffice in the United States by that name, and residents, most of them French descendants, say they have no intention of changing it. "We're all against Communists," says Mrs. Marie K. Simon, Russia's postmistress, "and the name doesn't bother us except when we travel and people ask us where we are from."
