Agricultural Plan Praised

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today hailed what he called "major progress" in aiding small and low-income farmers through a rural development program.

An interdepartmental committee handling the program, under the chairmanship of True D. Morse, undersecretary of agriculture, presented its first annual report to Eisenhower.

The report said efforts to aid more than a million farm families who need to adjust to modern trends are under way in half the states.

Eisenhower said in a statement complimenting the group's work:

"Initial success of this program is a challenge to all of us in the year ahead. We have a solid foundation to build upon. The rural development program is the first truly broadscale attack on the problems of low-income farmers."

The President said every one of the main recommendations made by the committee of government officials in April, 1955, has been acted upon, including expanded technical aid for families on small farms, new job opportunities, training in nonagricultural skills, research, and community action in rural areas.

In addition to Morse, the committee is made up of the undersecretaries of interior, commerce, labor, and health, education and welfare, plus Joseph S. Davis.

Morse said the part-time job movement has been increasing quite rapidly and "we feel that is a quite happy development." At present, the undersecretary said about one dollar out of three of all income of the nation's farmers is coming from off-farm sources.

The rural development program at present is being concentrated mainly in the Southeastern sector of the country. In all the pilot areas, Morse said, the need is felt for industrial development so more employment can be provided for farmers who still will live on their farms.

In his statement on the program Eisenhower said four points in the annual report were worthy of special comment:

"First, the program is being managed by states, county and local committees—not from Washington. This is as it should be.

"Second, I am most encouraged by the active interest and leadership of various groups—farm, school, church, service clubs, business, industry and others. The development programs are those which the state and local participants want.

"Third, there is major emphasis on youth— education, vocational training, health and character.

"Fourth, the program is hitting at the points of greatest need. The 24 states and more than 50 pilot counties already in the program are located in areas where the most small farms and the most rural families with low income are located."

Hanging Is Ruled Out

REYNOSA, Mex. (AP)—A Mexican actor with a flair for self-punishment had his plans to hang himself in a bull ring Sunday cancelled by the mayor yesterday.

The actor, Tagore, got some notoriety but little money when he crucified himself here recently. He said he would hang himself as part of a show in the bull ring Sunday to see how long he could hang before he had to cut himself down.

Mayor Jesus Castinera said he called the promoter of the show to the city hall and told him Tagore would not be allowed to hang himself.

Extradition Is Granted

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov Shivers granted today Arkansas' request for extradition of two Texans wanted for trial there in charges of offering a bribe to a Little Rock city worker.

The men are Travis Hall and W. A. Williams of San Antonio, employes of two firms that sell garbage collecting units.

They opposed extradition in a hearing here last week before Asst. Secretary of State Newton Barnes.

Hall and Williams are charged in Little Rock with offering to bribe Curtis Woods of Little Rock, director of the City Sanitation Department, in the purchase of such garbage units.

Rector Retires

MARSHALL (AP)—The rector of the Marshall Trinity Episcopal Church for 26 years, the Rev. Henry Selcer, said yesterday he will retire Jan. 1.

Court Dismisses Daniel Challenge

AUSTIN (AP)—A suit challenging Sen. Price Daniel's right to have his name printed on the Nov. 6 general election ballot as Democratic candidate for governor was dismissed in 53rd District Court today.

Judge Harris Gardner dismissed the suit after Joseph Rummler, Constitution Party chairman, said he did not wish to carry it on.

"All we're interested in was getting Daniel to resign," Rummler said later.

He also said the party would renew its efforts to have the name of Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel certified as its candidate for governor.

Daniel offered his resignation as senator to Gov. Shivers yesterday.

The suit brought by the Constitution Party earlier this week had sought an injunction to keep Secretary of State Tom Reavley from certifying Daniel as the Democratic nominee.

Today was the deadline for certification of candidates for the ballot.

The Supreme Court had turned back the Constitution Party's fight to put W. Lee O'Daniel's name on the general election ballot. The party claimed Daniel was unlawfully certified as the Democratic nominee because he had not resigned his Senate seat.

Earlier Reavely refused to certify O'Daniel as an independent candidate or Mrs. O'Daniel as a Constitution Party candidate on the grounds that both had taken part in Democratic primaries.

Shivers To Ask Legislature To Study Law On Segregation

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Shivers indicated today he would ask the Legislature to consider the recommendation of a study group for continued segregated public schools.

A special committee appointed by Shivers to study school integration suggested yesterday new laws which would not allow integration of students by school boards without voters' consent.

Shivers said he agreed generally with the aims of his committee's report and would use it in making recommendations to the next Legislature.

Although Shivers did not try for a new term he will make the traditional governor's recommendations to the Legislature before a new governor is inaugurated.

The report by a 5-man legal subcommittee was approved 13-5 by the main committee. Two members did not vote. Twenty were not present. Voting against it were two ministers, a newspaper editor and two presidents of Negro colleges.

Local school boards would not be allowed to abolish segregated schools unless the people voted to do away with the dual-system, the committee said.

The Texas Supreme Court has outlawed state segregation laws as applied to public schools and about 100 school districts are not integrated.

In addition to outlining a 20-point program aimed at halting integration of public schools, the committee recommended the Legislature pass a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment.

The committee said it would be passed "to clarify the state-federal relationship and thereby halt illegal federal encroachment in those areas to the several states and their people under the constitution."

Lampasas attorney J. V. Hammett, one of the five members on the legal subcommittee which made the report, summed it up by saying Texas would not follow the ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court, "if it can be legally avoided and as long as the people of this state and the local school districts desire to maintain a dual system of public schools."

The committee asks for a joint legislative committee on school assignments to be established by the Legislature. This joint committee eventually would take over jurisdiction if an appeal is made from a local school board's decision, the committee said.

"Any action in the courts should have to be brought against the joint committee," it said.

With its plan, the governor's committee would seek financial support for private non-sectarian schools by paying students tuitions if they do not wish to attend schools which are integrated.

THE BIG QUESTION:

Who Will Replace Daniel?

AUSTIN (AP)—When and how to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Price Daniel as U.S. senator was the big problem today.

The Democrats' nominee for governor resigned yesterday, effective when his successor is elected.

Daniel added that he hoped the state Democratic party would select a nominee by primary elections and the new senator could be elected at a special election called by Shivers "in time for my successor to take office not later than Jan. 3, the first day of the next Congress."

Shivers replied he would delay calling a special election until he got more legal advice because "there is a legal question, in my opinion, as to whether a resignation to be effective at a future date actually creates a vacancy."

Shivers said he might even ask for a ruling by the attorney general.

Other announced and possible candidates for the Senate rushed their campaign plans.

Republican Thad Hutcheson of Houston said he would make his first statewide TV speech at 5:45 tonight. State Sen. Searcy Bracewell of Houston said he would have a statewide TV speech next week.

Ralph Yarborough, defeated by Daniel by about 3,100 votes, returned to Texas last night from New York. There have been numerous reports that Yarborough was considering the Senate campaign if he could get financial backing. He has declined to say if he would run.

Daniel's headquarters said last night they were furnishing Shivers with all the information they had gathered in considering the resignation and would be glad to gather any other information the governor needed.

Yarborough said in Lubbock last night he is giving the idea of seeking Daniel's seat "serious consideration" but has "not reached a decision."

His backers met in Wichita Falls and launched a move to draft him.

Shivers was to leave today for a big game hunting trip in Alaska and planned to be gone about 10 days. During his absence Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey will act as governor.

Atty. Gen. Shepperd was in Tyler for a hearing on an injunction suit filed against the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People.

Daniel said he was making his resignation effective at a future date on the basis of a law passed in 1933 to cover the situation when John Nance Garner was elected vice president and reelected to Congress at the same time.

The provision says that any elected official may resign at a future date and directs that "an election shall be ordered immediately after acceptance of the resignation to elect a successor," Daniel said.

Appeal Made For Asylum

SALTA, Argentina (AP) — Forty-seven bedraggled but defiant Bolivian political prisoners, interned here after seizing their captors' plane in flight, pressed an appeal today for asylum in Argentina.

Argentine authorities conferred with Bolivia's ambassador in Buenos Aires and issued a guarded statement that the situation was being studied.

The fugitives, including leaders of the socialist Falange party, main opposition to Bolivia's government overpowered their guards over Bolivia yesterday while being flown to a concentration camp near La Paz. One of the prisoners took over the controls and flew the government airliner, a four-engine DC4, the 450 miles to Salta.

"We preferred death in an airplane to life in a concentration camp," one of the group told reporters at Salta airport, 170 miles south of the Bolivian frontier.

The group included business men, writers, a journalist, an accountant and several ranchers. They were arrested after last Saturday's antigovernment riots that caused four deaths in La Paz.

The government blamed the Falange for instigating the uprising. Observers said, however, that the real causes were high prices and food shortages.

Warning On Fires Given

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The Texas Forestry Service reported 46 new fires in East Texas forests yesterday and warned residents East Texas is tinder dry.

Residents were urged not to burn trash, fields or wood debris until rain falls.

None of the fires was very big, said Joe Burnside, head of the forestry fire control department at Lufkin. He said 24 fires were under control and that the others would be checked.

The fires were scattered over an area from Red River County in the north to Harris County in the south and as far west as Angelina County.

Alonzo Frensh, 34, a dispatcher for the forestry district office at Henderson, died of exhaustion Wednesday from fighting a fire.

Deposits And Loans Hiked

Deposits and loans at the two Snyder banks were both much higher than they were at about this time last year, according to figures released this morning as the banks completed statements of condition.

Total deposits at the two banks was $18,127,003.77 at the close of business Wednesday, compared to a total of $16,600,717.59 on Oct. 5 last year.

Loans totaled $7,414,160.94, while they stood at only $5,687,451.64 last October.

At the Snyder National Bank, deposits this time were $11,639,044.81, while those at the West Texas State Bank were $6,487,958.96.

The West Texas bank reported loans of $4,116,239.74, and the Snyder National had $3,297,921.20.

Matusow Is Given 5 Years In Prison

NEW YORK (AP)—Harvey M. Matusow, turnabout witness convicted on five counts of perjury, today was sentenced to five years in prison.

Federal Judge John F. X. McGohey assessed a five-year term on each of the counts against Matusow, but ordered that they be served concurrently.

Matusow, 29, could have received a maximum of 25 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Matusow testified for the government in a number of Communist conspiracy cases. His perjury trial stemmed from his recanting of testimony in the 1952 trial of 13 second string Communist leaders.

He has claimed that he was coached in giving false testimony by Roy M. Cohn, then an assistant U.S. attorney.

Asked by the judge if he had anything to say before sentence was given, Matusow stood before the bench and replied:

"Harvey Matusow is dead as far as I am concerned. He died a year or a year and one-half ago. I took his body.

"Morally, I have to accept what is coming to me. I will never have to be ashamed of anything I do from this day forward."

Judge McGohey denied a defense counsel request for Matusow's release in bail pending appeal. He will be confined to the Federal House of Detention until it is determined to what federal prison he must go.

Matusow was convicted Wednesday in his second trial. The jury in the first failed to reach a verdict. His attorney has given notice of appeal of the conviction.

Matusow once acknowledged that he would do "anything for a buck," and that he had denounced 244 Americans as Communists or Red sympathizers without any evidence on which to base his actions.

He professed having long been a "vicious liar" and said at times "I don't even trust myself."

Addressing the court before the sentencing, U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams asserted:

"It was not an ordinary crime, not an ordinary lie that the defendant was convicted of. He didn't lie to protect himself. He lied to implicate others, to destroy the judicial system and to discredit persons and government agencies fighting the Communist menace, and he must have been aware of the consequences."

His recantation of testimony at the 1952 Communist trial won a new one for two of the convicted Reds. On retrial, however, they were convicted again. The courts ruled that the other 11 were properly convicted on evidence other than given by Matusow.

IN ADLAI SPEECH

Ike Draws Fire On Living Costs

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson said today the cost of living "has reached an all - time high" even though President Eisenhower talked four years ago of "doing something about it."

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, also told a campaign rally on Monument Circle here:

"Moreover, economists are now forecasting that prices will go even higher. Your rent is likely to go up, your car is almost sure to cost you more, and so are television sets, refrigerators, clothing, and nearly everything else you buy."

Stevenson flew here from St. Louis, Mo., where last night he fired away at what he termed Republican "chorus line" campaign techniques in the hydrogen age.

He arranged to fly on from here to Milkwaukee for a nationwide television talk tonight on CBS, 7:30 p.m. EST.

Stevenson told his Indianapolis audience that many present probably had "forgotten something that happened during the 1952 campaign" he also ran against Eisenhower.

"But I'll bet you women who went shopping this morning haven't forgotten it," he added.

"In 1952 in a Republican radio commercial, an actress impersonating a housewife asked Mr. Eisenhower about the cost of living. What was his answer? I will quote it; 'My wife Mamie worries about the same thing. And after next January (1953) we are going to do something about it.'"

Stevenson then went on to say that "now, after four years of doing something about it, the cost of living has reached an all-time high."

The Democratic nominee also hit at what he called the Eisenhower administration's "tight money policy." He said it "has not stopped inflation," but has "given a bonanza to large financial institutions and has tightened the screws even tighter on small businessmen, small farmers, and ordinary home buyers."

Suit Filed To Prevent School Pay

HOUSTON (AP)—An injunction to prevent the payment of teachers salaries at the University of Texas as long as Negroes are enrolled there, was sought in District Court today.

The petition for a temporary restraining order was filed in the name of Mrs. Lee Barnett and her husband, John. Mrs. Barnett is the head of the Alexander Love Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and secretary of the Citizens Council of Greater Houston, an anti-integration group.

Judge Dan Jackson is to consider the request Monday. The petition asks that State Comptroller Robert Calvert be restrained from paying the salaries of teachers.

It is claimed that the university was founded under the Constitution of the state for white citizens and that "many persons of the Negro race are now enrolled" there.

The acceptance of Negroes is a violation of the state Constitution and laws, the suit claims.

In addition to the restraining order, the petition asks that a permanent injunction be issued against Calvert.

May Be Called To Party Court

LONDON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev was reported in trouble with some Soviet leaders today and may be seeking the support of Yugoslav President Tito for his policies of de-Stalinization and easing up on the East European satellites.

Press reports here and in Austria said a new struggle for power inside the Kremlin was back of the surprise trip by Tito to the Soviet Union in company with Khrushchev, the first secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

Without a word of explanation, Tito took off from Belgrade yesterday with Khrushchev, who had spent eight days in seclusion with the Yugoslav leader. With some of his closest lieutenants, Tito was reported at the Black Sea resort of Yalta today. Khrushchev was said to be planning to take him to the nearby Crimean resort of Sochi to see Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Foreign Minister Dimtri Shepilov.

The reports here and in Vienna said Khrushchev at last had been caught in a squeeze by a Stalinist bloc in the Politburo and Soviet army chiefs.

Former Foreign Mnister V. M. Molotov and former Premier Georgi Malenkov were reported to believe that Khrushchev had gone too far in his de-Stalinization campaign.

The army was reported concerned that in trying to please Tito, Khrushchev's policy of easing up on control of the satellites had misfired, and that Soviet security was endangered.

The independent Vienna newspaper Neuer Kurier, in a dispatch from the Yugoslav capital which quoted a "high ranking personality," declared Khrushchev had been summoned to appear before the Kremlin leadership sitting as a "party court."

The dispatch said Khrushchev was accused of a policy which went awry in the satellites and "led, among other things, to the June 28 Poznan riots in Poland." It said the "party court" may may either have been called by Khrushchev's opponents or by Khrushchev himself in an effort to "rehabilitate" himself.

It added that Khrushchev took Tito back to the Soviet Union as his witness to "Stalin's monstrosities."

The London Express said Moscow reports "indicate that the Stalinists are growing stronger. Some sources even say Khrushchev is already caught up in a life-or-death struggle."

Western diplomatic sources in Vienna said they had no confirmation of Kurier's interpretation of the Tito visit, but they said they did have solid information that Khrushchev was in trouble because of his satellite policy.

Tito's rush trip to the Crimea was reported from Belgrade yesterday as a vacation.

Final Tribute Is Paid To The Babe

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—A hometown Babe Didrikson Zaharias never forgot paid final tribute today to the famous athlete who lost her courageous three-year battle against cancer.

It was nearly a quarter of a century ago that the 42-year-old Babe left this southeast Texas oil refining center to gain fame and fortune in the sports world, first in basketball, then track and field, the 1932 Olympics and golf.

The Babe returned home the last time at midafternoon yesterday, some nine hours after death came while she slept peacefully in John Sealy Hospital at Galveston.

Only relatives viewed the body last night at Broussard Mortuary but a hundred or more hometown friends called and signed the guest register.

The body will lie in state today at Bethlehem Lutheran Church. Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. C. A. Woytek, the pastor, this afternoon.

George Zaharias, husband of the famous Babe, and relatives will escort the body to Houston tomorrow for cremation, returning here for private graveside rites in the late afternoon at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Mrs. Zaharias had known for well over a year that she could not win her fight against cancer but her last words to Zaharias early yesterday were "I ain't gonna die, Honey."

Through her travels about the world, the Babe referred to Beaumont as her hometown. She was born at nearby Port Arthur June 26, 1914, but her parents moved here when she was a youngster.

Pilot Is Killed In Plane Test Flight

EDWARDS, Calif. (AP)—The speed and altitude record-holding Air Force plane X2, rocketing above 45,000 feet, developed unexplained trouble and crashed yesterday. The pilot was killed.

The needle-nose, swept-wing research craft, which had sped 1,900 miles an hour and climbed to a reported 126,000 feet on previous flights, ended its spectacular career in shattered wreckage on the desert 20 miles east of Edwards Air Force Base.

The body of the pilot, Capt. Milburn G. Apt, 32, still was strapped in the capsule cockpit section. He had apparently made no effort to escape by ejecting himself.

Apt, a 13-year Air Force veteran, died on his first flight in the X2.

The plane, built by Bell Aircraft Co., was taken up to 30,000 feet suspended from the belly of a B50 bomber. There it was released and its rockets shot it up in a steep, swift climb.

Following briefly were two Sabrejet "chase planes," one piloted by Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe, who had flown the X2 to its 126,000 foot altitude record.

The X2 quickly outsped its pursuers and vanished into the sky. No more was heard from its pilot.

Trouble apparently developed while the plane was between 45,000 and 60,000 feet, Edwards AFB officials said.

The first report of the crash was made by the Air Force in Washington's plunge to earth were given.

The three million dollar plane was one of two X2's built by Bell for research at supersonic speeds and extreme altitudes. The other was destroyed in an explosion while suspended from a mother plane over Lake Ontario in May, 1953.

Apt had flown chase missions on the X2. He lived with his wife, Faye, and daughters, Christine, 5, and Sharman, 2, at the base. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oley G. Apt of Buffalo, Kan.

Thomas Prediction

DALLAS (AP)—Norman Thomas predicted President Eisenhower would be re-elected "unless he gets sick," and said that both parties are endorsing much that he stood for in 1932. Thomas, for two decades the Socialist Party's candidate for president, stopped in Dallas on a flight from Mexico City to New York.

Intensive Spraying Program Held Here

The Snyder - Scurry County Health Unit has for the past three or four weeks been fogging areas in Snyder to kill as many mosquitos as it can, according to J. E. Craven, sanitarian.

The fogging program, a joint project of the city and county, will kill adult mosquitos on contact, but at the present time they are breeding daily.

This breeding is not being done in the normal places treated by the city and county in and around Snyder, Craven said, since those places are checked and are under control.

These are mostly city-bred mosquitos, being bred in air conditioners, septic tanks, cesspools, and other places where water is left standing.

"Residents must look over their own property and either get rid of the standing water or oil it if mosquito breeding is to be cut down here now," Craven said. It is not feasible or practical for the city and county to go onto private property and oil down every place mosquitos can breed. That is something property owners must do.

Craven said the fogging program will continue as long as it is necessary, but it will kill only the mosquitos out at that time, and another batch will be out the next day.

This problem is the same throughout West Texas, Craven said. The countryside is dry, but small areas on private property in cities is not controlled and is producing mosquitos. Also, many alleyways and other areas in the city have weeds and trash which is harboring mosquitos.

If any one area is especially brothered with mosquitos, Craven will check it upon request to find the source of the mosquitos.

Cold weather will cut down the number of mosquitos to some extent. First freezes will eliminate many of the smaller areas where mosquitos breed. Mosquitos usually can find places to spend the winter in larger bodies of water which are somewhat protected.

Next week, the city sanitation department will pick up any open barrels being used for trash and garbage. Use of those is in violation with city ordinances.

'Making A Better Garden' Is Topic Of Club Program

The Snyder Garden Club met at the Martha Ann Clubhouse, Thursday morning at 9:30 for their regular meeting, with Mrs. J. T. Hughes, president presiding.

"Making A Better Garden" the topic of the meet, was emphasized by Mrs. Bill Davidson, who gave a talk on "Improving soil condition with compost".

A theme "Benefits from a Better Garden-Fall Tables using Garden Flowers" was carried out with several attractive demonstrations. Mrs. F. G. Sears, with a full table demonstration, displayed her setting of dishes in a plaid design, with amber colored glasses, on a yellow table cloth, centered with a copper bowl containing sunflowers.

Mrs. A. B. Casstevens, displayed a one place, buffet table setting, using Franciscan pottery in the wild rose design, with a centerpiece of floribunda roses in a rose pottery bowl.

Miss Neoma Strayhorn's one place informal luncheon setting was displayed on a yellow linen cloth with napkins, simple designed china, five pieces of silver service, and crystal tea and water glasses, accented with a fall foliage arrangement in the cent of the table.

Mrs. Wade Winston's formal dinner one place setting was beautifully displayed with Royal Dolton china. A silver bowl holding varied shades of roses, and double candelabra with white candles centered the table. Her water, champagne and wine glasses were of crystal, with which she used a four piece sterling silver place setting.

Coffee and rolls were served to 27 members and four guests, who were: Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Richard Brice, and Mrs. Frank Arnett.

It was announced there would be a flower work shop clinic held Oct. 18 at the clubhouse, with the public invited.

WHY BE A MEMBER OF THE CHURCH OF CHRIST? (No. 6)

BECAUSE IT IS SCRIPTURALLY ORGANIZED. Christ is supreme in authority "in heaven and in earth" (Matt. 28:18). He is "the head of the body, the church" (Col.1:18). He will not abolish "all rule and all authority and power" until the end comes (1Cor. 15:24). The apostles of Christ were guided into all truth by the Holy Spirit who also brought to their remembrance all that Jesus had taught them (John 14:26).

THE NEW TESTAMENT IS THE WORD OF CHRIST AND HIS APOSTLES. It was revealed by the Holy Spirit (John 14:26). By it all men will be judged (John 12:48-50). It was the mind of God before it was revealed to the apostles (1Cor.2:12,13; Matt.16:19). Jesus assured the apostles that all who received them received Him; and all who receive Christ receive God (Matt.10:40; John 13:20). All who follow the teaching of the New Testament "receive" the apostles, Christ and God (2John 9)! Christ never delegated His authority to any others than the apostles. They have no successors! The word of Christ and His apostles (New Testament) is still "binding and loosing"; it is authority!

EACH CONGREGATION IS AUTONOMOUS; that is, each congregation is free and independent of every other congregation—no rule of one church over another. All congregations are under the rule (teaching) of Christ and His apostles (New Testament) and are bound together by a common faith and love of the brethren. All congregations have the same head, foundation, and mission but each is autonomous.

EACH CHURCH HAS A PLURALITY OF ELDERS. These elders are bishops (overseers) and pastors (Acts 20:17,28). In some denominations this divine arrangement is reversed and many churches are under one bishop or elder! The duty of bishops (elders) is to enforce (not physically) the teaching of Christ and His apostles—not to change it (Acts 20:28,35). No man, or group of men, has authority to decide how many times a year the Lord's supper is to be taken! they cannot change the act and purpose of baptism! or to set aside baptism as a condition of salvation! (Acts 2:38). Such is rebellion to Christ! Deacons are helpers or servants to the elders; evangelists are to preach; teachers are to teach; and all are under the supervision of the elders (bishops, pastors) in each church; but all are under Christ who is the "head" of the church. This is another reason why one should be a member of the church of Christ: It is scripturally organized.

Alleviating Tension

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, Louisiana Democrat, believes that the Western approach to the Soviet Union is "all wrong."

The West must "sell her ideas to Russia, as the only way to settle differences is to dispel fear on both sides," said Ellender upon his return from a visit to Russia and a 2½-hour talk with Soviet Party Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Of Khrushchev, Ellender said the party boss "was as convinced communism is the best way of life as we are about democracy." He said also that the Soviet Union is enjoying a greater amount of freedom today than it ever knew under the Czars.

"This time they'll say straight out I'm a Red," Ellender said, recalling that he praised the Soviet Union after a visit last year and was described in America as pro-Communist.

Ellender makes sense. Whether we like it or not, we must accept the fact that we of the West face a long period of competitive coexistence . . . well, as President Eisenhower once said "there is now no alternative to peace."

How can we best survive, materially and spiritually, in the difficult years or generations that lie ahead? Only by encouraging the greatest possible interchange of ideas, of visitors and cultures between the Soviet sphere and the West. If we do not lose faith in our social and economic system we have nothing really to fear from competition—economically or ideologically.

Nations, as with individuals, acquire tolerance and understanding through the experience of daily contacts. If we in the United States fear and mistrust the Soviet Union, is it not logical to expect the same fear and mistrust of the West? If one's intentions are plainly evident, that fear and mistrust can be eliminated.

In this connection Ellender expressed the conviction that "we should not lower our guard until we are certain the Russians will be with us." But as a necessary prelude to peaceful coexistence, the West must show the Soviets its preparations are for defense, and not aggression. The same showing must be made by Russia.

Matusow's Riddle

Harvey M. ("Anything for a Buck") Matusow, 29-year-old self-confessed perjurer, is trying to make a federal court in New York City believe he was telling the truth when he said he was lying, not lying when he said he was telling the truth. It's all pretty confusing.

Matusow, a former Communist, was a paid government informer and court witness in a series of anti-Communist hearings and trials. The Justice Department announced last year that it had paid him more than $2,100 as an informant in the fiscal year 1954 alone.

But Matusow on Jan. 31, 1955, filed an affidavit of having given false testimony in the trial of 13 convicted Communist leaders. He admitted receiving an unusually high advance and high royalties on a book to to be published by a firm one of whose partners Matusow himself had once named as a Communist.

Later Matusow told a federal grand jury that former Assistant U.S. Attorney Roy M. Cohn had induced him to testify falsely at the trial of 13 Communist leaders in 1952. Federal District Judge Edward J. Dimock on April 22, 1955 did grant new trials to two of the 13 on the grounds that Matusow had lied. But Dimock exonerated Cohn and other government attorneys, saying "All Matusow's fabrications were his own suggestion."

Then on July 13, 1955, the grand jury indicted Matusow on six perjury counts, all stemming from his testimony about Cohn. On Sept. 17, 1956, the two Red leaders who had been granted new trials were sentenced after being found guilty again, to a year less than the original 1953 sentences. Now Matusow's problem is to get the jury to believe he was telling the truth when he said Cohn told him to lie, but lying when he testified against the Communists.

President Decides To Work Harder For Votes As Date Of Election Draws Near

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the election just 40 days away President Eisenhower, campaigning pretty leisurely so far, has decided to work harder for votes.

His press secretary, James C. Hagerty, announced late yesterday that Eisenhower will not limit himself to the five or six nationwide radio-TV broadcasts that had previously been planned for him.

Whether the Republicans are getting concerned about their Nov. 6 chances is something only the White House inner circle knows. Vice President Nixon has been making a whirlwind speaking tour since Sept. 18. But Eisenhower has made just two major speeches speeches since the campaign began.

Meanwhile, this month Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, the Democrats' presidential and vice presidential candidates, have been setting a terrific campaign pace.

If Republicans think they have this election in the bag, they may be right. But reports from around the country indicate that an Eisenhower victory this year—if there is one—will not be by the same landslide margin of 1952.

For most of his White House term Eisenhower has been comparatively free of personal attacks. But he has found out by now he was wrong if he thought he could enjoy the same kind of immunity in this presidential campaign.

Stevenson and Kefauver have both fired at him hard and personally, at his administration and at the men around him.

They have painted him as a passive character, a kind of Republican party captive who, if he wins, will be overshadowed by Nixon in running the country the next four years.

Eisenhower's campaigning has been pretty much limited to the past nine days. Watching his speeches unfold seems to indicate that he's getting tired of being attacked and would like to uncork a few wallops of his own.

His first broadcast, Sept. 19, took some oblique digs at the Democrats. It was a speech on peace and good times and the accomplishments of his administration, particularly in foreign affairs. It was hardly a fighting speech. It was mild and full of high-sounding principles.

On Sept. 21 he talked to farmers in Iowa. A lot of farmers are concerned by the decline in their income. They want solutions. Eisenhower offered them none in what he said was not a major speech. He concentrated on reminiscences about his own farm boyhood and pious generalities.

Then on Tuesday, at Peoria, Ill., he got down to cases on farming with a major speech. In this one he ripped into the Democrats, blaming them for the farmers' woes.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE HEART HAS ITS REASONS: THE MEMOIRS OF THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR. McKay

Wallis Warfield came of a Baltimore family with some money, position and connections, not exalted but well above average. After a kind of finishing-school education, and an intermittent home life, she made her first conquest — unless it was her first surrender — in marrying a young Navy flier, Win Spencer, in 1916.

He seems to have been a drinker — I have only the Duchess' word — and he was jealous and erratic, and she divorced him.

Ernest Simpson, husband number two, was an Englishman with entree to the best circles, where she met the Prince of Wales, who began to squire the Simpsons here and there, and then confined his squiring more and more to the missus alone. Then things all came to a head: Ernest became interested in another woman, the Prince recommended a divorce lawyer to Mrs. Simpson, the King died, the Prince succeeded him, he determined to marry her — she was, "the only woman who's ever been interested in my job" — and finally he abdicated the job and they were married anyway.

By her own standards, I imagine, and the standards of a mulitude of Americans, the Duchess is the most successful woman in American history. We have had, however, a multitude of better writers. The glamor everyone accords her does not show, and the romance vanishes under the cliches. The autobiography communicates none of the breathless excitement rife at the time of the abdication. The Duchess has not done herself justice.

Exotic Christmas Present Arrives At Robb Residence

By INEZ ROBB

The head of Clan Robb, after a hard day at the office, threw his hat in the front door and followed it in. He sniffed the air for a split second and then cried,

"Has something died in the rafters?"

"No," I said unhappily. "I got a present today."

"Let me guess," said Mr. R. "Limburger cheese? A case of ripe eggs? A flacon of Eau de Skunk Cabbage? Or a carton of all three flavors? And when did you acquire a critic?"

"It's none of those," I said, choosing to ignore the last barb. "And I thought you'd guess the moment you stepped in the door. I honestly did. I'm disappointed."

Mr. R. sniffed again.

"Whatever it is, it ought to come with a gas mask," he insisted. "What is it?"

"Think hard," I urged. "Where have you smelled this exotic odor before? Envision the romantic bazaars of the nomads! Conjure up the slap, slap, slap of sandaled feet—"

"You're right! It could be feet!"

"Don't be vulgar!"

"Al right, then, what is it?" he demanded.

"I'll give you another clue. Concentrate on the romantic sheiks of the fabled Arab world, on the veiled women in Wamsuttas, on Casablanca full of hanka-panka..."

"Leather!" Mr. R. cried. "Moroccan leather; that's what it is!"

"I never smelled anything like those leather shops in Casablanca," he went on. "Never saw such beautiful leather work in my life and never smelled anything as vile. I've oftened wondered what the Arab does when he tans leather that makes it look so good and smell so bad!

"Did someone send you a pocketbook? she asked.

"No, someone sent me a camel saddle! A few weeks ago, I opened my big, fat typewriter and wrote that Christmas presents were becoming too darn exotic. I said that went double for camel saddles. They're a big item in the gift shops this season.

"And now some imperial lover sent me a camel saddle!" I wailed.

Mr. R. lifted the camel saddle out of its big box. He set the polished wooden framework on the floor. Then, trying not to breathe its aroma, he fitted the beautiful, heavy white leather pillow on the frame.

"Well, I'll be damned!" he muttered.

Then the head of the house turned on me sternly.

"I don't want you writing any more nonsense about camel saddles," he said emphatically.

"Why?"

"Because," he said, holding his nose. "I don't want some idiot sending you a camel to go with the saddle."

Our Far East Policy Seeks Temporary Arrangement Rather Than Settlement

By WALTER LIPPMANN

President Eisenhower's reputation as a peace-maker was won, as I tried to show in a recent article, in the Far East. There, instead of war on three fronts — in Korea, the Formosa Strait and Vietnam — there is now a truce. It rests on compromises which involve the partition of Korea and of Vietnam, and the containing of Nationalist China in Formosa and a few offshore islands. The President's crucial contribution to this truce is that he has made the concessions on which these compromises rest acceptable in the United States, especially to the right wing of the Republican Party, and he has cleared his concessions of the charge that they constitute appeasement of Communist China.

The Far Eastern truce is not a peace settlement, or even an approach to a peace settlement. It is an armistice in which both sides, China and its smaller allies, the United States and its smaller cities, have stopped fighting on lines beyond which neither can advance without a big bloody and dangerous war.

In the Middle East the President has also been standing for the prevention of war, and in playing his part there he is following the same basic pattern as in the Far East. This is to make acceptable — this time to Britain and France — the best compromise obtainable without the risks of war. Once again, in the Middle East as in the Far East, his objective is a modus vivendi, an arrangement to avoid immediate trouble and not a policy which looks towards a settlement.

In a just estimate of President Eisenhower as a peace-maker, one would have to say, I think, that his specialty has been the making of compromises to stop hostility and to prevent hostility from breaking out. But neigher in the Far East nor in the Middle East has he done anything significant for form policies which are for the long term—what, for example, is to be the future of the two Koreas and the two Vietnams and the two Chinas, and how in the Middle East are we to work out a relationship with the Arab world which can endure?

In the absence of long range policies which look towards the settlement of great issues, the mere prevention of war— desirable as that is in itself —, results in a kind of erosion, the giving up of one thing after another in order to avoid trouble. For lack of long range policies, the President does not have the initiative. He is not acting to make peace. He is reacting to the threat of trouble, and the basic reaction is to withdraw in the face of the inevitable and the unavoidable.

The historians may well say, I think, that under Eisenhower, and because of his prestige with the American people, this country has learned to accept two momentous but unpalatable historic developments. One is the emergence of Red China as the leading power in eastern Asia. The second is the recognition of Soviet Russia as the great power in the Middle East.

I do not myself think that any President could have prevented these two developments, or that there would be any profit or advantage or chance of success in resisting them irreconcilably. What worries me is that we are accepting them, not with some long view of the realities and of the future but because we cannot think of any way to stop them. We have no big objectives except to avoid trouble. We do not have, therefore, a policy which corresponds with the new situation, and what we are really doing is to improvise and to muddle through.

Stock Market Jitters Are Confined To Boardrooms

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market jitters appear today to be confined largely to brokers boardrooms.

The public—according to government statistics—hasn't let the uncertainty change its habit or plans. The public continues to step up its total spending, cutting back only on such things as autos, houses and stocks.

And businessmen have stretched their spending and borrowing plans once more. Neither higher prices nor steeper interest charges appear to have deterred the consumer or the industrialist.

The farmer is also getting a reassuring pat. The Agriculture Department looks for production of livestock and its products to increase enough to offset slightly lower crop output and expects prices to be fairly stable on a seasonable basis.

Retail sales are continuing to rise this month, the Department of Commerce reports. Dollar volume is swelled both by higher prices and by larger unit sales.

Industrial production snapped back sharply in August from the July slowdown due to the steel strike. The department looks for the increased pace to continue the rest of the year. The retail and industrial stepups are keeping the labor market strong.

Where some of the money is coming from for all this spending is shown in a report by the National Assn. of Mutual Savings Banks. Depositors have been withdrawing more money this year than last. Others have continued to put in more money so that total deposits are higher, but the rate of increase is less than a year ago.

And how some of the money is being spent is also shown in the same report. These banks increased their holdings of mortgages in August by 227 million dollars, compared with 224 million dollars in the 1955 month.

The Commerce Department reports sales picking up for furniture and floor coverings, appliances, heating apparatus, and radio and TV sets.

If you asked a nervous stock trader why he seems to ignore all these signs of good times, he might reply that the government reports are mostly of conditions past, while a trader buys stocks for what he thinks the future will be.

The public doesn't share this nervousness yet. And the calmer view might turn out to be the better one. The market has borrowed trouble unnecessarily many times in the past.

Mussolini's Widow Lives In Modest Roman Quarter

By DOMENIC GIORDANO

ROME, Sept. 26 (AP)—Forgotten by the world, the widow of Benito Mussolini lives here in modest circumstances, caring for a crippled daughter and praying that before she dies she can rebury the former dictator in a family plot.

"I was left penniless but that does not matter," Donna Rachele Mussolini said in an interview. "The only thing I want back is my husband's body. I will never stop asking that they return it to the family."

The Fascist dictator was executed by partisans in 1945. The government has kept his burial place secret to prevent it from becoming a shrine for die - hard Fascists.

If the body is returned, Donna Rachele says she will bury it in the cypress-bordered Predappio area of his birth, at the foot of the little mountain-top republic of San Marino.

The woman, who once ranked only behind former Queen Elena in Italy, today is indistinguishable from thousands of other Italian matrons of her age—which she keeps secret but is about 70. She lives on a noisy, littered street in a new Roman quarter, a small, white-haired woman who carries her own shopping bag and bargains with shopkeepers over the price of food.

Home is a modest apartment which she shares with her youngest daughter Anna Maria, now 25 and crippled since childhood by polio. Also with her is her son Romano, 28, a professional jazz musician.

Another son, Vittorio, is a Buenos Aires businessman. A daughter, Edda Ciano, widow of the former Italian foreign minister, also lives in Italy but mixes with an international set strange to her mother. A fifth child, Bruno was killed in a plane crash at the start of World War II.

Mussolini's personal fortune was confiscated by the Italian government when he died. Until recently, his widow lived off what friends and her old children gave her.

Last July, a Roman court ordered the government to pay $192 montly to Anna Maria and $112 monthly to Romano from their father's confiscated fortune. Now times are a little easier.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Mrs. Walter George Has Plans Of Her Own

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — When Mrs. Walter George left for Paris with her husband, the former Georgia senator who is to be president Eisenhower's ambassador to NATO, she made it clear she had plans of her own to carry out.

"Mr. George is going to work, and I'm going to have a real good time," said "Miss Lucy" as she is known affectionately to her many friends.

Miss Lucy, who is mad for word games, says she's hoping to get her 78-year-old spouse interested in scrabble on their travels. "He tried rummy once, but he always wanted at least one card that belonged to me," she said. "In the end, I said, 'Mr. George, this is a game where people take opposite sides.' That finished it. But scrabble is different. It's the perfect game for husbands and wives.

Miss Lucy, who hasn't been abroad for five years was excited over the prospect of seeing Paris again. "Mr. George says that I'll be perfectly safe to go about the Paris museums, parks and churches on my own — everywhere, he says, except the shops."

Men Have Reason For Ding Good Job

SETTLE (AP)—John Franco was puzzled by the meticulous care workmen were displaying in putting acoustical material on the ceiling over his bar.

"Why," Franco asked the foreman, "are you being so fussy. It looks all right to me."

"Listen," the foreman replied, "my boss spends most of his time in here. This job has got to be just right."

RADIO-TV REPORT

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP) — A flood of memories of our youth is about to be revived on TV now that Hollywood has agreed to release many of its old major films for TV use.

We have had many old but unsuccessful movies on TV. Now we're about to get the old successful ones which, it always seemed to me, followed rigid patterns more closely than the failures.

For example, "Dawn Patrol," which I caught on TV recently. It starred Errol Flynn and concerned the perils of flying in World War I. This type of film belonged to a wonderful old cycle.

Our side always had rickety, inadequate planes and we were forever running out of pilot replacements above 16 years of age. After every mission, our boys would return to the old French farm house, erase a name on the blackboard, exclaim, "It was a shame to send a kid up in a crate like that!" and then smash their cognac glasses against the fireplace.

Soon we'll probably get the old Infantry pictures, too, where John Gilbert, nervously pulling on the ends of his mustache, ordered watches synchronized. Then John or some other expendable lieutenant brandished a pistol and waved his men over the top of the trenches. With German shells crashing everywhere, the men sometimes were reluctant to follow until John yelled, "Come on, you wanna live forever?"

And the old gangster movies: The mob always met in a garage to divide up the loot. One guy always wanted more and Edward G. Robinson would shoot him down and quietly ask, "any more questions?" Jimmy Cagney exercised by pushing grapefruits in Mae Clarke's face. In the big climax, Cagney got it but, despite 23 bullet holes in his body, he was always able to drag himself 14 blocks across town to get the squealer before dying.

There will be many other types we'll probably be seeing: Bette Davis, neurotically swaying, chain-smoking, before she dies of the disease Paul Muni couldn't cure in his other pictures; the suave private detective — today he's crude but muscular—who always ignore the suspicious hutler and goes to the carved woodwork around the fireplace and counts five grapes to the left and three down to find the secret panel; and of course the poor little rich girl, much married, much divorced, who finally marries the ship news reporter when he convinces her he wants her "for herself," not for her loot.

Yes, movies will be better than ever—on TV.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS

WE'VE UNDERESTIMATED the Tigers in their first two games even though we picked them to win both games.

It's been in the scoring difference where we have been off. We said the Tigers would beat Borger by one touchdown and Weatherford by two. But the Bengals clipped Borger by three touchdowns and Weatherford by seven.

Being off on the scores, though, doesn't hurt one's batting average as the average is based only on picking the winner and loser.

We won't mind a bit if the Tigers continue to do better than we say they will. In fact it will make us more the happier if they continue to do this for the balance of the season.

Well, here it is the day of another Tiger football game and the task at hand right now is to ascertain how the Tigers stack up with Big Spring.

Actually, there is no direct way to compare the two clubs since they haven't met a common foe this season.

On paper, though, the Tigers rate the favorites role, mainly because of their 2-0 record and Big Spring's 0-2.

But it's been said time and again, when two rivals such as the Tigers and Steers are, past records are shucked when you try and forecast who'll win.

Steers Have A Lot In Their Favor

Everything but the past records favor Big Spring. The Steers will be dedicating their brand new football stadium, it will be Dad's Day in the Steer camp, it will be the first home game of the season for the Steers, the Steers are one step above Snyder in classification, and above all, perhaps, the Steers are mighty hungry fro a victory.

Put all these things together and you can readily see that the Steers will have a lot to "fire them up" for tonight's clash.

Just how Big Spring's Single Wing, if she employs it tomorrow, will effect the Tigers remains to be seen. The Tigers haven't played against a Single Wing team in the past two years and with no scouting notes to go on, this possibility presents a terrific problem to the Bengals.

Big Spring, if she goes Single Wing tonight, will be using this formation for the first time as she has been running exclusively off the T thus far.

With all these things staring us in the face, we can hardly see how anyone can believe the Tigers will have an "easy" time tonight.

We may drop a notch or so in the polls but it would certainly please us if the Tigers can best the Steers by one point tonight.

Under ordinary circumstances we believe the Tigers could manhandle the Steers rather easily. But tonight it's going to be a special occasion at Big Spring and a tough battle lies ahead for the Tigers. Without further ado, we'll say:

Tigers 13, Big Spring 0.

Remember 1955 Vernon Game?

In regards to "special nights," you may recall last year's Tiger game at Vernon.

The Tigers, on any other night, could have beaten Vernon by almost any score they chose. But when we played at Vernon last year, that city proclaimed "Coach Bob Percival Day" the day of the game. The entire city paused to honor the Vernon coach on that day and you can imagine how this inspired the Lions when they took the field against the Tigers.

A special ceremony preceded the game at which time Percival was presented a valuable gift from the Vernon fans. Following the ceremony, the entire Lion squad gathered around Percival and several of the players hoisted him to their shoulders and carried him over to the Vernon bench.

We knew and we're sure the Tigers knew right then that Vernon was going all out to win this one game even if she never won another.

The Tigers, however, met the challenge by emerging with a 22-0 victory but the Black and Golders had to battle all the way for the victory. It was 0-0 after one quarter and the Tigers, by scoring two touchdowns just before halftime, led 13-0 at the intermission. One of the first half Tiger TD's was set up by a Vernon fumble deep in Lion territory.

Snyder added another touchdown and a safety in the final two quarters.

Any coach will tell you that the general attitude of the players has much to do with who wins regardless of the difference of ability in the two teams.

We have never known the Tigers to go into a game "cocky" and we don't believe they'll take

Tigers, Steers Set For 7th Battle

Bengals Seek 3rd '56 Win

BIG SPRING, Sept. 28 — Snyder High School's Tigers and the Big Spring Steers are all set for their seventh meeting here tonight in a series that dates back to 1928.

In the previous six games played between the two arch rivals, Big Spring has walked off the winner four times with the Tigers taking two.

The Tigers won the first and last game of the series. Snyder won by 7-0 in the first game between the two schools in 1928. Big Spring evened the count at 1-1 the following year with a 19-7 victory.

Then the two teams went 23 years before meeting again. The Tigers and Steers resumed their series in '52 when they were placed in the same district. The Steers won 28-13 in 1952, 28-13 in 1953 and 32-13 in 1954 before the Tigers rebounded last year to hand the Steers a 26-7 thumping.

Tonight's game will officially dedicate Big Spring's brand new 10,000 seat football stadium.

In addition to the staduim dedication, Big Spring has also set tonight as "Dad's Night" as all fathers of the Big Spring football players will be special guests.

The Tigers, by virtue of their 2-0 record to Big Spring's 0-2, will fate the favorites role in tonight's game. But Tiger coach John Conley and his Bengals aren't paying any attention to the ratings as they know past records mean very little when the Tigers and Steers battle on the gridiron.

In the two games to date, the Tigers have won handily over two foes, Borger by 21-0 and Weatherford by 52-6. Big Spring, in its first two games, bowed to Andrews 40-19, and Levelland, 42-13.

The Tigers will enjoy a weight advantage in the line tonight while Big Spring will have an extreme weight advantage in the backfield.

The Tigers average 181 pounds in the line to 170 for Big Spring but the Steers will outweight the Tigers by about 15 pounds per man in the backfield, 167-152.

Overall the two teams stack up at about 170 pound average each.

Big Spring, which has been running off a T formation thus far this season, may come out in a Single Wing tonight. This switch was initiated in workouts this week and the Steer co-coaches, Roy Baird and Harold Bentley, said the Bovines would use the Single Wing tonight if things went well during this week's workout.

The Tigers will enter tonight's game in near perfect physical condition. All regulars will be available for duty but three reserves are still ailing.

The Tigers are expected to rely on a speedy ground game centered around Tommy Prichard and a passing game centered around quarterback Powell Berry.

Prichard is the leading Tiger ground gainer to date with 136 yards in 19 carries for 7.1 yards per carry.

Berry has completed 4 of 7 passes, two of them for touchdowns. Berry's favorite target is end Milton Ham who has caught five for 146 yards.

Wayne Fields is the chief offensive threat for the Streers. The plan to switch to the Single Wing was made to make better use of Field's running.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 Snyder fans are expected to follow the Tigers to tonight's game. Among the followers present will be the Tiger band.

Snyder 7th In 21-0 Win Over H'leigh

HERMLEIGH — The Snyder Seventh Grade footballers scored a quick touchdown early in the first quarter and finally added one in the third and another in the fourth to decision the Hermleigh Junior High gridders 21-0 here Thursday night.

It was the third victory in a row for the Snyder team.

Mike McCright took a short pass from Steve Free and raced 75 yards for a Snyder touchdown on the second series of plays in the first quarter. McCright then plunged over for the extra point.

Fumbles and pass interceptions keep the heavier Hermleigh team stymied throughout the game. However, the Hermleigh lads threw up a tough defense that kept Snyder from scoring again until the last play of the third quarter.

Mike Morris set up the second Snyder touchdown when he intercepted a Hermleigh six yard line. Quarterback Steve Free "bootlegged" around his own right end to carry over untouched for the touchdown, and McCright again plunged over for the extra point.

Late in the fourth quarter, Free climaxed a Snyder drive on the same play, scoring from the five yard line. McCright got the extra point again.

McCright was the outstanding runner on the field, breaking through the tough Hermleigh defense several times for substantial gains.

James McCormick and Mike Morris stood out on defense for the Snyder team. End Freddie Miller showed to advantage on offense, snaring four passes to keep Snyder drives going.

The Hermleigh team will return the visit next Thursday night when they meet the Snyder seventh graders in Tiger Stadium.

TIGER TOSSER—Powell Berry, senior quarterback for the Tiger footballers, is batting above .500 in pass completions thus far this season. In the two games to date, Berry has completed four of seven passes for 39 yards and two tuochdowns. He hasn't had a pass intercepted. Berry will see action tonight at Big Spring. Tiger Frosh In Initial Defeat

BIG SPRING — Snyder High School's Freshman footballers met their first defeat in three starts this season here Thursday night, bowing to Big Spring's Frosh, 26-13.

Big Spring jumped into a 20-0 first half lead and then fought off the Tiger yearlings in the second half to preserve the victory.

Jimmy Maroney scored the first Snyder touchdown early in the fourth quarter on a 30-yard run, climaxing an extended drive that began in the third period. Devane Jones booted the extra point to cut Big Spring's lead to 20-7.

Big Spring then iced the game away midway through the fourth when it scored its final touchdown.

Snyder battled back, though, to whittle the score to 13 points again when Coleman John sped 20 yards for a Snyder counter.

Snyder was threatening again when time ran out. Alex Cross passed to Maroney good for 60 yards on the game's final play that carried deep into Big Spring territory.

Snyder also threatened to score last in the second quarter when an intercepted pass stopped the march.

The Tiger Frosh, which had beaten Lake View and Lamesa Freshman teams before Thursday, will make their first home appearance next Thursday against South Junior of Abilene.

Another Texan Quits Sooners

DALLAS (AP)—Frank Holey, former Dallas Forest High School football star who went to Oklahoma and quit because "I didn't like it up there, then I got hurt and they wouldn't do much about it," planned to go to Austin today to see about entering the University of Texas.

Holey, a guard, came home yesterday, saying he had gotten a release from Coach Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma and that he thought he wouldn't lose any eligibility in the Southwest Conference because a letter of intent he signed with Texas A&M before deciding to go to Oklahoma never was filed with the conference office.

Holey said he was injured while scrimmaging against the Oklahoma varsity Wednesday but was told by one of the coaches to continue practice. Afterward, he said he consulted a specialist and was told his nose and cheek bone were broken.

"I just left," he said, "but I went back and got a release from Coach Wilkinson."

Holey was the second Texas schoolboy to quit Oklahoma in the past three days. Sam Caudle, Abilene guard who signed a letter of intent at Southern Methodist, then went to Oklahoma, came to SMU Tuesday and registered. He said he didn't like it at Oklahoma.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Gary Blaylock, a righthander with an 8-5 record during the regular season, was Manager Dixie Walker's pitching choice to get Rochester square with Indianapolis in the second game of the Little World Series tonight.

The Indians won the opener 8-2 last night with John Gray getting credit for the victory although he needed help from Bud Daley to retire the last batter.

Atlanta Hosts Houston In Dixie Opener

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Crackers, Southern Assn. champions, meet Houston, the best in the Texas League, in the best-of-7 Dixie Series at Ponce de Leon Park here tomorrow night.

The Crackers rode past Memphis last night 4-1 on Earl Mossor's pressure six-hit pitching in the seventh and deciding game of the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Manager Clyde King's Atlantans, down three games to one in the Memphis series, climaxed a comeback by taking advantage of the fourth coming break to produce their runs, all unearned on three hits off Memphis starter Marlon Fricano.

They had defeated Birmingham four straight games in the first round of the playoffs.

The second game of Atlanta's sixth Dixie Series will be played here, then the scene shifts to Houston where the Texas League champs have been idled since last Friday night.

Golfer Don Cherry, Bride Honeymooning

DENVER (AP) — Honeymooning Miss America of 1956 says to "tell all the girls I'm not going to become a waddly housewife just because I'm married."

5 Undefeated Skulboy Teams Win Thursday

By The Associated Press

Five of Texas' 127 undefeated high school football teams survived early skirmishing Thursday but plenty will fall in the biggest schedule of the season Friday night.

At least five will lose in the AAAA division because five games match unbeaten, untied teams. Midland meets Pampa, Amarillo tackles Wichita Falls, Fort Worth Carter-Riverside battles Longview, Galveston tangles with Galena Park and Harlingen clashes with Alice.

Class AAA has five such tests, AA three and A two.

There are 22 teams that haven't lost a game but have been tied.

Two maintained their records Thursday as Dallas Adamson whipped Fort Worth Paschal 19-0 and Dallas Jefferson nipped Fort Worth Brewer 13-7.

In Class A three teams were staying unbeaten and untied as Henrietta downed the Wichita Falls B team 25-0, Kerens strapped Tyler B 19-0 and Three Rivers romped over Karnes City 27-0.

The top-rated teams aren't expected to be among those taking the county Friday night. Champion Abilene of AAAA plays Lubbock Monterey, champion Port Neches of AAA meets Lufkin and champion Stamford of AA takes on Sweetwater. Stamford has the toughest foe to hurdle.

Tiger 'B' Hosts B-Spring Saturday

Guards — Terry Lee and Bill Dubose.

Center — Harley Merritt.

FAMED ATHLETE DIES—Famed woman athlete Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias died in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Texas, after a long fight against cancer. She is shown above in action in the All-American golf tournament at the Tam O'Shanter Country Club in Chicago in 1953. While she was probably more well known for her golfing feats she excelled at almost all sports and was a 1932 Olympic star. (AP Wirephoto)

Babe Once Fanned Joe DiMaggio

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Before she was struck down by cancer, Babe Didrikson Zaharias established herself as the greatest woman athlete of all-time, but her greatest pride didn't come from her olympic medals and myriad championships.

"I've never seen a crossword puzzle I couldn't work in 30 minutes," she used to boast, but, with her it never had the ring of a brag.

She could type 80 words a minute, whip up a batch of biscuits on a moment's notice and cook Swedish meatballs—her specialty—which would melt in your mouth. She once threw a baseball 296 feet and struck out the great Joe DiMaggio.

Worked Out

The latter occasion was at Yankee Stadium where the Babe was hired to give a golf demonstration. She decided she'd like to work out with the team.

Someone suggested she should pitch to Joe DiMaggio. The Yankee Clipper, a retiring sort, demurred. Finally he was forced into it and, with jaw clamped, he went to bat to pole one out of the park.

He fouled off two pitches and on the third the Babe shot a fast one past DiMag's ear. DiMag fell back, swinging his bat in defense. It was called a strikeout.

At the same game, with 72,000 in the stands, the Babe decided she'd like to do a little fielding at third base — in her tight-fitting skirt. She went wide for a grounder and the skirt split all the way to the waist.

Dove for Dugout

"I dove for the dugout," she said later with a broad grin. "I wasn't going to give any striptease for a $3 tops."

In 1937 the fabulous Texan pitched in an exhibition game with the St. Louis Cardinals against the Philadelphia Athletics at Bradenton, Fla. — but with less favorable results.

"I pitched to Jimmy Foxx and gave him my hard, high one," she recalled. "He knocked it into the adjoining county but Paul Dean, then playing the outfield, came out of a clump of peach trees with the ball. He said he caught it."

Once at an outdoor show in Boston she took on Ted Williams and ex-heavyweight champ Jack Sharkey in a fly-casting contest. The Babe won with unerring marksmanship and later remarked: "All that Williams can do is bat."

Natural Aptitude

She had a natural aptitude for sports excellence. She broke 100 the first time she ever played golf, once shot a 64 on a regulation 18-hole course. She tried to get into the men's National Open Golf Tournament but was refused.

The Babe once worked out with the Southern Methodist University football team and awed the athletes with her left-footed kicking. She was good enough at billiards to make a cross-country tour.

Another Fad

Once the Babe decided she'd like to be the world's champion skier. So she started workouts, first on small hills, then on progressively larger ones, but before she could achieve her aim, another fad caught her imagination.

Back in 1931 an enterprising promoter cooked up the idea of a boxing match between Miss Didrikson and the brother of Young Stribling, a ranking heavyweight contender. The fight never came off.

"I'm retiring from the ring," the Babe said. "I'm 18 now, you know, and I intend to be a lady."

The Babe Was Tremendously Brave -- Doc

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

GALVESTON (AP)—"Babe never really asked God for too much," big George sobbed.

He stood in a hospital corridor beside a stainless steel cartload of medicines, cotton pads and steel forceps. Four doors down the corridor, his wife, Babe Didrikson Zaharias, lay dying of cancer, which took her life near dawn yesterday.

"When she prayed she asked Him to ease the pain of everyone . . . not just her own. She never asked Him to win any tournaments for her . . . She just prayed to Him to let her get well and she would do the rest.

"She never wanted anything but life," big George Zaharias said, and wept silently as he looked through a window at the blue Gulf of Mexico.

By turning her tortured face only slightly, The Babe could see the Gulf, too. By now, though, even the slight movement of her head was an effort. Cancer had wasted her wondrous physique from 145 pounds to 80. She stared at the green walls and cream ceiling of her room — 409. Silent except for her labored breathing. Not for more than two months had the greatest woman athlete of the half century, as sports writers called her, been out of the hospital bed.

A doctor paused a moment before opening the door to The Babe's room.

"Yes, Mrs. Zaharias has known for months that her case is hopeless," he said. "No, she never mentions it . . . She is a tremendously brave person."

As the doctor entered her room, The Babe smiled wanly and whispered: "Well, what can you do for me today?"

"I can only advise you to rest," the physician responded cheerfully, seating himself in a leather chair.

"Is that all you have to offer?" Her lips still held the faint smile.

"That's about all, I'm afraid."

When the doctor left he gave an order putting The Babe under continuous oxygen. "She is weakening rapidly," he said.

Big George, wearing a yellow sports shirt, crowded his 290 pounds into an elevator for a trip to the ground floor.

"I got to get out of here a minute," he said, pulling at a thoroughly cauliflowered ear. "After just so long, I can't take it. We'll drive over and get my laundry."

The laundry wasn't quite ready. George told the laundromat owner he would be back shortly.

"I don't know why I gave a thought to the laundry," George mused as he headed his car over to a boulevard along the Gulf.

Then he said: "This is what she loves to do . . . ride along here and look at the water. It was a big thing to her, but finally it was taken away, along with all the other things."

"Babe always lived full," George went on. "She lived to full enjoyment. When she got sick, she gave up everything as little as possible but every day she had to give up something. She loved those Swedish meatballs her sister, Lillie Grimes, used to bring her, and then she had to stop eating and they started feeding her through the veins. She liked to watch TV but finally she had to quit watching it and could only listen. Then came the day when she couldn't even listen any more and the TV set was turned off, for good.

"There used to be a lot of talking in her room. She and Lillie were always talking about old times in Beaumont, Texas . . . like when Lillie would run along the sidewalks of Doucett Street while Babe jumped the hedges.

"Now, there's not much talking. No more anecdotes, no more cute sayings, no more nothing. The show's about over. She has given up everything, little by little, until all she has left now to give is her last breath!"

A look of utter hopelessness crossed his features.

"Today, nobody is kidding anybody," George said. "Babe knows the score." He could hardly go on. "Oh, she knows."

U.S.-Italy Davis Cup Matches Begin

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — A pulled tendon, an angry Latin and a gal named Flossie provided the main ingredients of the U.S.-Italy Davis Cup Inter-zone tennis matches, opening today.

The pulled tendon—in his right foot—belonged to Ham Richardson of Westfield, N.J., who faced Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli in the first of two singles matches at the West Side Tennis Club. Starting time was 12:30 p.m. EST.

The angry Latin was little Giuseppe Merlo, Italy's top-ranked player, chagrined when towering Orlando Sirola was named to meet America's Vic Seixas in the second duel.

"I've been beating both Sirola and Pietrangeli in practice," Merlo, a dogged retriever who hits with a choke-grip and two-fisted backhand, complained. "I don't know why I was left off."

Flossie's role was that of the weather. The backlash of the southern hurricane meeting a cold front from Canada promised general rain and high winds throughout the day. The gate for the important tennis test already has been hurt by interest in the National League baseball race.

Richardson pulled up lame yesterday from a foot injury he's been hiding for three days. He went to the doctor, got his foot taped and then, after a workout, announced he could play.

In these days of big football players it is interesting to note that Tulane left halfback Willie Hof weighs a mere 144 pounds.

Braves' Wives Sweating Out Card Series

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Followers of the first-place Milwaukee Braves inhaled today and hoped they will be able to breathe easier by Sunday when the National League season ends officially.

The Braves, a full game ahead of the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers, are in St. Louis where they open a three-game series with the Cardinals tonight. The determined Dodgers are at home to the Pittsburgh Pirates, and will also begin a set of three contests tonight.

Among those keeping an eye on the weekend are Police Chief John Polcyn and the families of the ballplayers.

Polcyn wants to know the outcome for official reasons. He explained that the results "will determine how much police protection will be provided Sunday night when the Braves land at the airport." He pointed out "there will be considerable enthusiasm" if the Braves get a crack at the World Series.

The ballplayers wives were agreed that the 1956 pennant race, one of the hottest in the league in years, has been anything but good for the nerves.

Shortstop Johnny Logan's wife, Dotty, said, "I'm so nervous I'm afraid to turn the games on."

Mrs. Warren Spahn, a veteran baseball wife, said she has discovered a few nerves she hadn't used until this year. She declared: "I just want this weekend to end."

Eddie Mathews' wife, VirJean, explained, "I didn't know being married to a ballplayer would be so hectic."

Barbara Aaron, wife of Henry, the Naitonal League's top slugger, is at her home in mobile, Ala. She explained that the only games broadcast there were those of the Dodgers, "so I just sit and hope they lose."

Pitcher Lew Burdette's wife, Mary, said, "He hasn't been too successful in his last few starts. He's won 18 and was trying so hard for 20." He just mumbled when he lost, she said.

Mrs. Burdete said also her 5-year-old son Kent, without any adult encouraging, has added a nightly request to his prayers. It asks, "Please God, help daddy win every game he pitches."

Processing Of Farm Applications Slated

DALLAS (AP)—Processing of applications for aid under the recently approved roughage proage program is expected to be resumed next week by Texas county offices in the drought disaster area, Walter T. McKay, state director of the Farmers Home Administration said yesterday.

McKay emphasized that county offices have not stopped taking applications, but only suspended processing them until an estimate of additional funds needed could be sent the Department of Agriculture.

NEW YORK (AP)—An investment holding company of which Robert B. Young is board chairman, The Alleghany Corp., said yesterday it recently agreed to sell Murchison Brothers of Dallas 53,000 shares of Class A common stock of Investors Diversified Services, Inc., an investment concern controlled by the Murchisons.

EYE SECOND UPSET

Mustangs To Face Another Toughie

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
The Associated Press

SMU's brash young men have the chance for the second straight week of striking a resounding blow for Southwest Conference football prestige.

The Methodists got in a mighty lick last week when they knocked down Notre Dame 19-13 to vault into the national rankings. They tackle what appears to be an even stronger challenge Saturday night in Georgia Tech, the No. 2 team in the country.

The SMU-Georgia Tech game, scheduled for the Cotton Bowl at Dallas before upwards of 40,000 fans, headlines a shortened but important Southwest Conference schedule.

Texas A&M will be in Baton Rouge playing Louisiana State, Texas will be in New Orleans swiping at Tulane and Arkansas will be at home to Oklahoma A&M.

A&M, Texas and Arkansas are favored to win but all three victories would not be as important in the intersectional picture as an SMU triumph over the perennial powers from Atlanta.

Georgia Tech is a veteran outfit, packing 27 lettermen, of whom 20 are seniors, on the first string. SMU is studded with sophomores and has less than half the veteran strength of the mighty Yellow Jackets. The results has made Tech a 7-point favorite.

Texas lost its opener last week to Southern California but showed a sharp offense—the same kind that whipped Tulane last season.

LSU hasn't played a game as yet and is much of an unknown quantity. Still A&M, which lashed Villanova 19-0 last week, is a solid choice over the Tigers because of the experience bulge.

Arkansas is an easy favorite over Oklahoma A&M, which however looks tougher than last season because of a flock of bright sophomores.

Baylor will be host to Texas Tech, the silent member of the Southwest Conference. Tech is in the league but unable to compete for the title.

TCU and Rice, who opened with victories over Kansas and Alabama, rest this week.

Since we picked Notre Dame to beat SMU and Texas to lick Southern Cal last week, this expert opinion is given on this week's games:

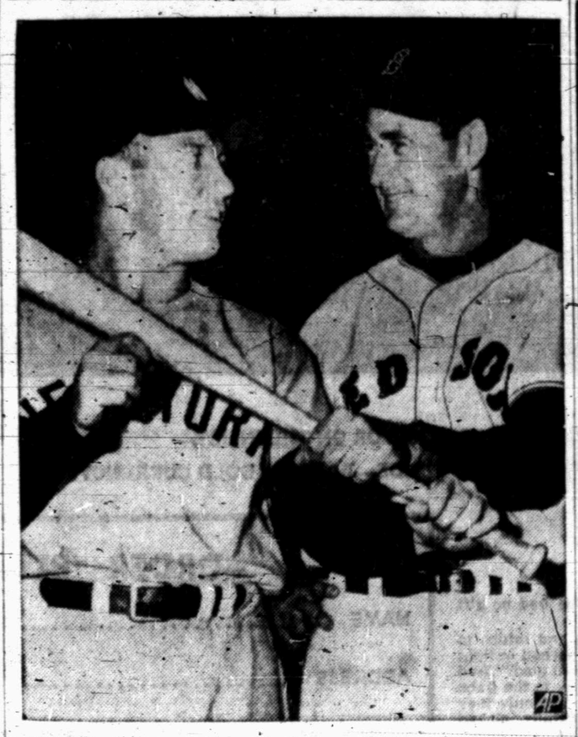

SMU-Georgia Tech: Don't believe SMU can be up high two weeks in a row and besides it's playing a better team that won't be making mistakes; Tech by a touchdown or two.

Texas-Tulane: Ought to be a scoring afternoon but Texas will make the most.

Texas A&M-LSU: Picking Texas A&M on hearsay.

Arkansas-Oklahoma A&M: A lusty vote for Arkansas.

Baylor-Texas Tech: Could be a good game but Baylor has more experience; the Bears by a touchdown.

COMPETE FOR BATTING TITLE—Mickey Mantle (left) of the New York Yankees, and Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox smile as they hold a bat between them prior to their game at Fenway Park in Boston. Both are battling for the American League batting championship with Mantle leading by six points. Williams may have difficulty, however, getting the 400 times at bat needed to qualify for the title.

The Maryland Futurity, held each year at Laurel, is the oldest stakes race in Maryland for two-year olds bred and foaled in that state.

OVER SOONERS

Tar Heels Aiming For Big Upset

By MIKE RATHET
The Associated Press

Football Coach Jim Tatum gets his second chance of 1956 to play "ole man upset" when his North Carolina Tarheels meet defending national champion Oklahoma tomorrow.

Just over nine months later, Tatum, now drawing his diagrams for his alma mater, North Carolina, finds himself sending his once-beaten Tarheels against the Sooners who are primed and ready to lay claim to a second national championship and Notre Dame's untarnished record of 39 victories without defeat.

Elsewhere in the nation, many of the top teams are also opening their schedules this weekend.

Friday night South Carolina, already winner of two games, one the heralded 7-0 upset of Duke, takes on one of the country's top independent's, Miami, while on the west coast Southern California, rated No. 6 in the weekly Associated Press poll clashes with Oregon State.

Saturday's schedule provides a multitude of top games with top national interest centered at Dallas where upstart Southern Methodist, upset conqueror of Notre Dame and the No. 5 team in the nation plays host to the Engineers from Georgia Tech. Tech holds a triumph over Kentucky this season and is presently runner up to Oklahoma for national honors.

The nation's current No. 3 team, Michigan State, opens its season at Palo Alto where Stanford's Indians are supposed to be the cream left on the Coast after the recent scandals.

The East will be treated to the formal "first year" of the Ivy League as Columbia and Brown meet at Baker Field in New York. Cornell goes outside the loop to meet highly-rated Penn State and Dartmouth meets New Hampshire. Yale plays Connecticut.

But the top Eastern game promises to be at Syracuse where the Orange, No. 7 nationally, take on No. 10 Pittsburgh.

In other games, Army should open its season on a winning note against weak Virginia Military, while Navy should do the same with William & Mary.

In the South Mississippi, No. 9, takes on Kentucky and Duke, smarting from its opening day loss, meets Virginia. Penn and Penn State continue their rivalry in the East and Ohio State plays Nebraska. Illinois opens against California and Indiana and Iowa open their Big Ten season. Michigan clashes with the depleted forces of UCLA.

Texas Christian ranked fourth nationally is the only top ten team idle.

SMU To Land Two On All Star SWC Squad

DALLAS (AP)—Only two players were needed today to complete the Southwest Conference squad that plays the United States Olympic basketball team here Nov. 5.

These players will come from SMU, the only conference school not yet represented on the squad.

Dick O'Neal, TCU center, and Norman Hooten, guard, and Ray Downs, forward, of Texas were named to the squad yesterday. Previously Gerry Thomas, and Temple Tucker, center, of Rice; Terry Day, Arkansas forward; George Mehaffey, Texas A&M forward, and Jerry Mallett, Baylor forward, were picked.

Detroit Tigers Begin Pilot Hunt

By DAVE DILES

DETROIT (AP) — Names were dropping like autumn leaves today in the wake of Bucky Harris' announcement that he was stepping down as manager of the Detroit Tigers.

The announcement of the resignation of the 58-year-old manager had barely settled when nearly a dozen names were being tossed about in discussions of a possible successor to the easy-going Harris.

Many of the names are familiar to fans in this red-hot baseball town, who have experienced one of the most interesting, if disappointing seasons in its 56 years in the American League.

Although picked by the "experts" to finish fifth as in 1955, club officials, with an eye toward such fine young performers as Harvey Kuenn, Al Kaline, Bill Hoeft and Frank Lary, expected something better.

Even with rousing performances from veteran outfielder Charlie Maxwell, young righthander Paul Foytack and the steady work of third baseman Ray Boone, the Tigers apparently will do no better than fifth.

In midseason the club was involved in baseball's biggest financial deal, with ownership passing from the Briggs family to an 11-man syndicate for $5,500,000.

There was steady criticism of Harris and reports that he would not be retained. But Harris, reported headed for the Boston Red Sox as assistant general manager, beat the new owners to the punch.

In a letter written Sept. 5 while the Tigers were in Kansas City, Harris resigned effective Sunday, ending 29 years as a major league manager and two tours with the Detroit Club. He told President Spike Briggs he could not be the "fiery, aggressive" type of skipper the new owners say they want.

Lending support to the report that Harris would go to Boston was the announcement that Harry McGrew has quit as assistant to General Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox. And one high official in the Detroit organization said the Red Sox had asked permission several weeks ago to talk with Harris.

Most of the talk about Harris' successor centered around Jack Tighe, the club's 43-year-old first base coach who makes no secret about a desire to manage the Tigers.

Tiger officials asked permission to talk with Fred Hutchinson, former Tiger pilot who has a year to go on a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals, and Birdie Tebbetts, one-time Detroit catcher who is "in solid" as manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The new owners say they plan no announcement until after the World Series. Meanwhile the names of Hutchinson and Tebbets, along with those of Billy Hitchcock, Leo Durocher, Mickey Cochrane, Paul Richards, George Kell, Al Lopez, Eddie Stanky and Mel Ott, are being bandied about.

National League Race Comes To Showdown This Weekend

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

This is it. Forget those past 151 games in the National League season. It's Milwaukee at St. Louis for three, Pittsburgh at Brooklyn for three—and all of them, or any one of 'em, could decide the pennant.

Milwaukee's Braves, holding the lead by one game, need a sweep against the Cards to nail it without worrying about what Brooklyn does.

"It's Bob Buhl tonight, Warren Spahn tomorrow night," says Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney, "—and the whole damn bunch on Sunday!"

The Dodgers, supremely confident all season that they would catch the Braves and repeat as champions, no longer can do it alone. The best they can do is sweep the Pirates and pray St. Louis can take at least one from the Braves. That would leave it a tie—calling for a best-of-three playoff beginning Monday in Brooklyn.

Manager Walt Alston sees his Dodger chances like this:

"We've got to have help. If the Cards win one, we'll be all right. We haven't any reason to give up yet," but he added:

"I'm not worried about the Cardinals easing up. The thing that worries me is that we've looked pretty lousy lately."

"Lousy" describes a 2-4 record in the last six games—a slump that dumped the Brooks out of the lead.

Cincinnati's chances are more than slim. The Redlegs, fooling everyone and even themselves by hanging on to the final three days of the season, need a sweep of their two games with Chicago beginning tomorrow—and three defeats by Milwaukee and at least two defeats by Brooklyn to hope for a tie.

The Braves, a 1-3 favorite to take the flag (although the same money man will lay you 12 to 5 they don't), have picked Buhl, not effective of late, and Spahn, a 20-game winner who has a 44-34 life time edge on the Cards

Buhl, 28 and a righthander, is 18-8 for the season. But he hasn't pitched a complete game since August 30 (a 1-1 tie with Pittsburg) and is only 2-3 for the month, winning one in relief against the Dodgers. He's 1-1 vs.

National League Pennant Race
By The Associated Press

	Won	Lost	Pct.	Behind	To Play
Milwaukee	91	60	.602	—	3
Brooklyn	90	61	.596	1	3
Cincinnati	89	62	.589	2½	3

Milwaukee (3)—At home (none). Away (3): Sept. 28 (N), 29 (N), 30, at St. Louis.

Brooklyn (3)—At home (3). Sept. 28 (N), 29, 30, Pittsburgh. Away (none).

Cincinnai (2)—At home (none). Away (3), Sept. 29, 30, at Chicago.

St. Louis, giving nine hits and three earned runs in 17 innings. Of the 17 home runs Buhl has allowed, only one was socked by a Cardinal — a pinch-hit job by Rocky Nelson that beat the Braves.

Cardinal Manager Fred Hutchinson, figuring "We'll give them a tumble," has named righthander Tom Poholsky for tonight's opener. Poholsky is 9-14 for the season, 2-2 vs Milwaukee with one complete game in five starts against the Braves, allowing 40 hits (three homers) and 10 earned runs in 38 innings.

He's tougher than his over-all record looks. Against Brooklyn, for instance, he was 1-3 — but a whomping 12 of the Brooks' runs against him were unearned. Without the poor fielding, he would have had a 4-2 record against the Dodgers.

It's Herm Wehmeier and probable Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell for the Cardinals tomorrow and Sunday.

While the Braves are 12-7 for the season against fourth-place St.Louis, Brooklyn's world champs are only 10-9 against the sixth-place Pirates. And they'll be running up against Bob Friend again tonight. The 25-year-old righthander, the All-Star Game winner, is 17-16 for the year — with a 4-1 edge on the Dodgers, whom he's whipped with a three-hitter and a two-hitter this season.

Manager Bobby Bragan says it's Ronnie Kline tomorrow and Vern Law Sunday — "but Friend will be back either in relief or as a possible starter again on Sunday."

Alston is going with Roger Craig, a young righthander who now is only 12-11 after failing to complete his last 13 starts. He's 2-2 vs Pittsburgh.

Tomorrow it's Sal Maglie, who no-hit Philadelphia in his last start, and Sunday it's Don Newcombe.

Oh yes, the American League. The New York Yankees, ready to hit the road or the subway for Wednesday's scheduled World Series opener, are at home to Boston tonight, Detroit's at Cleveland, Chicago at Kansas City and Baltimore at Washington.

Braves Hold 12-7 Mark Over Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Milwaukee's bright pennant hopes tonight rest on Bob Buhl, a crewcut with a blazing fast ball, and the fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals who have lost seven of their last eight games.

"We've still got to win them all," said Manager Fred Haney of the Braves. "We can't count on Brooklyn losing any more."

The Braves, leading the Dodgers by one full game in the tight National League race, can clinch a tie by winning two of three from the Cardinals, even if Brooklyn wins all three of its games from Pittsburgh.

That one-game lead could disappear overnight or the Braves could be assured of a tie, depending on the outcome of the games at Busch Stadium and Ebbets Field.

"We're going to do our best to knock them off," said Manager Fred Htchinson of the Cardinals who can not move up or down from fourth place, no matter what happens.

Frank Lane, the Cards' general manager, joked with reporters who are following the Braves at yesterday's Milwaukee workout.

"I asked Buzzy Bavasi (Dodger vice president) for 50 more World Series tickets," he said. "I told him we'd repay by knocking off Milwaukee three times. Buzzy answered that he'd give us the whole grandstand if we beat the Braves. He wasn't being generous because he has an empty grandstand to give away unless we take care of Milwaukee."

The Braves appeared free and easy as they swung for the fences in batting practice after a one-day vacation. Most of the players said they found it harder to sit around the hotel lobby than playing ball games.

The sight of Busch Stadium was a tonic to most of the Braves who hit better in this park than they do at home. The club batting average at St. Louis is .278 as compared to their season-long mark of .260.

Eddie Mathews, the powerful lefthanded home run threat, has hit .333 against St. Louis, Johnny Logan has a .361 average against the Cards and Jack Dittmer .429.

To the contrary, the Cards have found Milwaukee pitching real touch.

With a team average against Milwaukee of only .242, the figures show Stan Musial at .250 as compared with his over-all mark of .314.

Buhl (18-8) is 1-1 against the cards for the year.

Tom Poholsky (9-14) the Cardinal pitcher has a 2-2 mark against the Braves including a 5-1 victory over Gene Conley in a complete game.

On the season series, Milwaukee owns a 12-7 edge and has a 3-3 margin at Busch Stadium.

Bums Grumbling Among Themselves

BROOKLYN (AP) — Brooklyn's world champions, faced a Friend who isn't, going into the final three games of the National League season tonight, knowing all they can do is win and pray.

They need help. No longer can they repeat as pennant winners on their own.

Trailing first place Milwaukee by one game, the Dodgers must sweep their remaining three with Pittsburgh and hope St. Louis can take at least one from the Braves in their wrapup three. That would mean a tie, and a pennant playoff.

A sweep over the Pirates plus two Milwaukee defeats would make them champs again.

Manager Walter Alston said only "we've got to have help. If the Cardinals win one, we'll be all right."

But he added, in that slow, soft manner of his:

"I'm not worried about St. Louis easing up. The thing that worries me more is that we have have looked lousy ourselves."

"Lousy?" Well, the Brooks have lost four of their last six games—dropping three of four to the Pirates last weekend, then losing to Philadelphia after Sal Maglie's no-hitter beat the Phils Tuesday night.

The Friend we'd rather not meet, is Bob—Pittsburgh's 25-year-old righthander, the All - Star Game winner, a quick - smiling youngster who has whipped the Dodgers in four of five decisions.

It was Friend, hanging on through a 10-hitter, who dumped the Dodgers out of first place Monday with a 6-5 victory.

Says Buc Manager Bobby Bragan: "It's Ronnie Kline tomorrow, Vernon Law Sunday—but Friend will be ready for relief work, too.

"You can be sure I'll use Bobby every chance I get."

Against Friend and the Bucs tonight, Alston has tabbed Roger Craig, a 12-11 righthander who hasn't finished his last 13 starts.

The Dodgers, backed against the wall, no longer sound like old pros. Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella took verbal shots at Sandy Amoros for his fly - ball muff in left field against the Phillies. Carl Furillo was quoted as doubting Newcombe's stomach stamina in the same game. Just a few days ago, it was Robinson who tagged the Braves as having trouble "arguing among themselves."

Alston said Amoros, the fielding hero of Brooklyn's 1955 World Series victory, would be in left field tonight.

Enos Slaughter of the Athletics believes he is the first big leaguer to have worn a protective helmet. He experimented with one during spring training in 1939, but claims he didn't wear one in a regular game until 1946.

The Legend of the Rose

Yseult, the little sister of Alrois, a shepherd, was sad because she had no gift to present to the Christ Child.

Disheartened, she decided to leave the multitudes in the village and return to her sheep on the hillside. Yet, before she had gone far, an angel garbed in light stood before her and asked: "Why do you sorrow when all others are glad?" And Yseult answered: "My heart is heavy because I might carry no joy to the Babe of Bethlehem." Then the angel waved a lily over the fields and suddenly they were abloom with Christmas roses. And Yseult, kneeling down joyfully, picked the most beautiful rose and hastened back to the village.

Meanwhile, the train of the Maja kings, with its dromedaries and treasure-chests, its bodyguards and pages, had reached its destination.

Impressive gifts were being showered upon the Christ Child. Melchoir the Nubian brought apples of gold signifying "delections of love" and royal dignity, a token of the sin of Paradise which made His coming necessary.

Caspar of Tarsus offered the precious "Black Myrrh" of the balsamodernaron tree, symbol of the suffering and death to come.

Ballasar of Godolia presented frankincense, embodying the thought of the sacrifice, the orison or prayer "of the soul right devout" and the divine nature of the Babe, completing the human element typified by the myrrh.

And so the kings paid homage with their rich gifts, more precious still because of their symbolic promise. However, the glance of the Christ Child had strayed to the door, where Yseult the little shepherdess had just entered with the beautiful Christmas rose in her hand. And the Holy One forgot the costly gifts of the Maji, and while the golden apple slipped from his grasp, reached forth his tiny hands for the blossom. He smiled as Yseult placed the rose between his fingers.

Job Is Lost After Lunch With Negro

MONTICELLO, Fla. (AP) — Florida's only woman county health officer, Dr. Deborah Coggins, is being fired because she had a business lunch with a Negro nurse.

The Commissions of Jefferson, Taylor and Madison Counties agreed at a joint open meeting here last night to dismiss her.

Dr. Coggins, 32, blonde and the mother of three children, has been health officer of the three rural north Florida counties, just east of Tallahassee, since April. Her husband, Dr. Wilmer J. Coggins, practices at nearby Madison where they live.

The three commissions acted amid audience shouts of "fire her" which drowned out pleas from two women to overlook what they called the "indiscretion" of the white doctor.

A suggestion from one of the commissioners that final action be deferred until after a meeting Oct. 3 of the Madison Board, when Dr. Coggins has been promised a hearing, was overriden.

Dr. Coggins was not present last night, and the only support she had came from two white women in the audience.

Dr. Coggins says she had lunch with the Negro nurse, Ethel Kirkland, midwife consultant for the state board of health, in a private dining room of a Madison restaurant on Aug. 22.

The nurse had opened a class for Negro midwives two days earlier, she explained, and she wanted to discuss problems of the class but her morning and afternoon schedules were full. So, she said, she arranged a conference over lunch.

San Antonio Woman Seeking P-TA Post

DALLAS (AP) — A San Antonio woman, Mrs. R. D. Bell, said yesterday she would be nominated from the floor for the presidency of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers at the state convention in Amarillo Nov. 14-16.

She said she will oppose Mrs. W. D. DeGrassi of Amarillo, the nominating committee's choice for the post.

Officials Find One Tree With Money

GEORGETOWN, Ky. (AP)—Money doesn't grow on trees, but officials are stumped by reports that $200 is in a large maple right on the courthouse lawn.

A Kentucky village official, who asked not to be named, said an escapee from the institution for juveniles hid the cash in the tree just before being recaptured.

The youth didn't know the tree was hollow all the way from the crotch to the ground—a distance of about eight feet.

Efforts to retrieve the money failed yesterday.

Miners Get Wage Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret negotiations reportedly have brought agreement on a new $2 daily wage increase and additional vacation pay for many of the nation's coal miners.

There had been no prior announcement even that negotiations were under way between President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers and Edward G. Fox, new head of the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn. In the past, agreements between the two groups have set the pattern for the soft coal industry.

Formal announcement that they have agreed on terms of a new contract is expected next Tuesday, when the independent UMW opens its convention in Cincinnati.

UMW officials declined to comment, but sources close to the coal industry said Lewis and Fox already have initialed a memorandum of understanding.

It reportedly calls for the same two-step increase given the miners last year—a raise of $1.20 a day effective Oct. 1 and an additional 80 cents effective next April 1. The miners' present basic daily wage is 20.25.

Adlai Is Criticized On Draft Proposal

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. said last night that Adlai Stevenson had shown "indecisiveness" on the military draft.

Brownell told a $100-a-plate Republican fund raising dinner that the "general interpretation" of Stevenson's recent speech before the American Legion national convention at Los Angeles "was that he would end the draft in event of his election."

He accused Stevenson of "hacking and filling" on the issue 10 days later when he "adopted the very proposals made by President Eisenhower that there be greater incentive to enlistment and more adequate fringe benefits for those making a career in the armed forces."

People Just Too Busy For Writing Letters

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — A newspaper reporter, curious to find out why people spend hours in line to buy their 1957 automobile license plates, asked several why they didn't send a check to the State Highway Department instead.

The reporter said many people told him they just "didn't have time to write a letter."

Ship Goes To Drydock

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — The ship Mercurio used to return illegal Mexican immigrants to Vera Cruz left yesterday for drydock.

The ship had not been in port here since the operation of sending wetbacks to Vera Cruz by boat was stopped last month after five Mexicans drowned while trying to swim to shore during a stop in Tampico Bay.

The Brownsville agent for the owners of the ship, Amador Vela, said the Mercurio arrived in port Tuesday with a cargo of bananas and left yesterday for Galveston for painting and minor repairs.

Rep. Robert Mollohan of West Virginia, who inspected the ship earlier, compared it to a "slave ship." The ship made weekly round trips between Brownsville Port Isabel and Vera Cruz.

It brought bananas on its trip to the United States and carried about 500 wetbacks on each trip back to Vera Cruz.

Man Retells Decision On 'Joe Smith'

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP)—Terry Carpenter, who startled the 1956 Republican National Convention by attempting to nominate a mythical "Joe Smith" for vice president, attributes his use of the name to Divine guidance.

When he got to his feet in San Francisco he intended to nominate Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton, a fellow Nebraskan, but says that maneuver was blocked by Chairman Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts. Then, Carpenter adds, Martin demanded he name his candidate and "Joe Smith" tumbled out.

Carpenter views the moment as the climax to events which started when he said last April he would oppose renomination of President Eisenhower. He argued then that "no man ought to be required to die for his political party." Afterward, he was elected a delegate-at-large to the GOP national convention in the Nebraska Republican primary—just as he had been in 1952 when he was supporting Ike.

Then came the Democratic convention with its wide open contest for the vice presidential nomination and statements that Republicans would have the same free selection. Carpenter says this didn't occur.

At a Nebraska caucus, he relates, he was urged to drop opposition to Eisenhower.

"I agreed," he says, "but they weren't satisfied with half a loaf. Then they wanted to tie the delegation to the nomination of Vice President Nixon."

Democratic Trend Is Seen By Eleanor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says President Eisenhower is revising his plans and stepping up the tempo of his campaign because he "recognizes there is a Democratic trend."

The widow of the late President told a news conference yesterday that her campaign tour on behalf of Adlai Stevenson has convinced her "the Democratic trend is rolling up as time goes on." She addressed a $50 a plate Democratic dinner in Oakland last night.

Child Wants Operation To Save His Life

ATLANTA (AP) — A child's small voice has been added to the debate between his divorced parents as to whether they should trade his remaining cancerous eye for a chance to live.

"I would rather be operated on than die," 5-year-old Johnny Pair was quoted last night by his mother.

Doctors have said that unless Johnny's right eye is removed soon, he will lose what vision he has left and it then will be too late to save his life.

Johnny's left eye was removed two years ago when he first was found to be a victim of cancer.

The mother, Mrs. Bessie Pair, favors the operation. Arnold Pair, the father, at first said he disapproved, but now says he is "thinking it over."

Doctors have told the parents that the consent of each must be given for the operation. And even if the operation is performed, they added, there is no assurance of Johnny's survival.

"Johnny told me that the doctor told him he had to be operated on or die," Mrs. Pair said. "I told him I knew the doctor didn't tell him, but he insisted and said, 'I'd rather be operated on than die.'"

Then the mother added: "—don't know how he found out about it."

Friends surmised that Johnny apparently learned of his condition and the question of an operation from classmates at his nursery school or heard it reported on radio or television.

Nicaragua Frontier Closed By Honduras

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—The progovernment newspaper La Hora reported today that Honduras has closed its frontier with Nicaragua to prevent "suspicious" persons from crossing into nicaragua.

It was the first response reported to Nicaragua's request that other Central American countries clamp down on alleged revolutionary activities by Nicaraguan exiles. The Managua government has charged these exiles were behind the assassination attempt against President Anastasio Somoza a week ago.

—Nevertheless, not my will but Thine be done."

Have you prayed such a prayer? Have you ever asked God to remove the heavy cross, the rough way, the bitter cup? The Master had but one aim: to do the will of His Father in Heaven. Jesus said, "not my will but Thine be done." Is that your attitude? Do you ask to know His will with you? Do you bother to go to church and take your family? Have you realized that all you have came directly from God? Do you count it a privilege to support His Kingdom's work? Have you made the doing of His will the primary motive in living? Brother, nothing else really matters. Your church and your pastor can help you in this vital matter.
