Quail Patrons Hear Increase in Tax Values

A mass meeting of the residents of the Quail school district has been called for Friday, May 5 at 8 p.m. when an explanation will be given of the school tax valuation increase and the reasons why it was necessary.

Plans for the meeting were announced by E. P. Haynie, superintendent of schools. It will be held in the school auditorium.

The discussion will be led by members of the school board and school administrators.

Action to increase by 50 percent the property valuations for school tax purposes was taken by the school board at its meeting Tuesday night, April 25, Mr. Haynie said.

The school tax rate, which is $1.50 per $100 valuation, was not changed.

In the past, the Quail School district has assessed property for taxing purposes at 33 1/3 percent of its actual or appraised value, the same percentage used by Collingsworth County.

The presentation will be made at the awards banquet in Fort Worth Friday evening, May 6.

The three are Austin O'Neil, Jr., farmer living at Cotton Center; Ted O'Neil, manager of the Steiner Valley Ranch at Whitney; and Walter Lee O'Neil, a lawyer, who with his family returned recently to Ft. Worth after a year in Virginia. He is with Dynalectron Corp.

The O'Neils are being honored for their outstanding work in wildlife conservation on the O'Neil Ranch in the north of Collingsworth County, established by their parents.

Mrs. Polly O'Neil will be unable to attend the awards dinner.

While the sons will receive the recognition, they all say it is the work their father did in setting up the wildlife conservation program on the Flying O Ranch that is responsible for the award.

Program for Pre-Schoolers Set Up Here

The pre-school program will be held this summer for children who will enter the first grade of Wellington Elementary School in September, J. T. Harper, superintendent of schools, announced Monday.

Louis Graham, high school counselor, will direct the program. Instructors will be Mrs. R. B. Tucker, Mrs. W. E. Franks and Mrs. Oleta Burquist. The same system of team teaching that was used in the 1966 summer program will be used again this year.

The program will open with registration at the elementary school Monday, June 5 at 8:45 a.m. This registration meeting will also include an orientation program for both parents and children who will participate in the program, Mr. Harper explained.

It will continue until July 28. Classes will begin at 8:45 a.m. and be dismissed at 12:00 noon. At 11:30, lunch will be served to all the children so they may learn how to use the cafeteria.

Mr. Harper said there will be no charge for the lunch, and all materials and registration fees for this program will be furnished by the school.

"This is not a compulsory program, but we feel that it will be an advantage to the educational development of children entering the first grade," said the superintendent. "The purpose of this pre-school program is to orient the child to school life and to develop reading readiness, arithmetic readiness, listening skills, etc."

This year, the program will emphasize teaching the child to recognize like and unlike forms; to help them organize in their minds such things as words in a series, and to look at things from left to right.

"It is important that these areas be developed as a preventive measure of reading disorders that may develop as a result of the child's not having a foundation in these areas," said Mr. Graham. "More time and individual attention can be devoted to the readiness program during the summer session than in the regular term."

County Bank Assets Top Nine, Half Million

Collingsworth County bank assets continue to maintain their high level of recent years as they topped the nine and one-half million mark.

Reports of the three banks, City State, Wellington State and First State, were issued following the call by the Federal Reserve Bank and State Banking Commission on April 25.

Combined assets of the three banks was $9,584,212.30.

This is higher by more than a million dollars than the combined assets two years ago, also higher than the figure three years ago and higher by approximately $1,400,000 than the assets four years ago in 1963.

A year ago the bank call came near the beginning of April, before farming operations were in full swing and when assets and deposits are normally higher.

Deposits follow the same trend as assets, and that figure is $8,776,409.30. This is more than a million dollars over the 1965 deposits of $7,664,867.84. The bank call that year came April 26.

The current deposits are also approximately a million above the figure three years ago, more than a million and three-fourths over deposits 6 years ago, and approximately two and three-quarter million over Collingsworth County bank deposits 9 years ago.

The bank calls give other 1967 figures:

Demand deposits on April 25 accounted for $6,244,346.63 and time deposits, savings accounts and the deposits of various political subdivisions accounts for $2,532,062.67.

Loans and discounts this year amount to $5,429,510.31. This is down somewhat from last year, but around $800,000 higher than two years ago.

Undivided profits this year amount to $289,510.49, while the total capital accounts of the four banks reaches $789,510.50.

U. S. 62 Eyed as Interstate

An interstate highway linking Oklahoma City and El Paso may include one stretch of highway in the Wellington area. This is US 62 from the Oklahoma state line west to the intersection of Highway 83. From that point it turns south toward Childress.

The New Mexico Highway Commission, talking with a 30-man delegation from cities in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico, said it would indicate its support in a letter to the federal Bureau of Public Roads.

The proposed route would follow generally the routes of US 62 and US 180.

US 62 would link with the Oklahoma City - Wichita Falls freeway at Lawton. That highway from Childress goes south to Matador, west to Lubbock, and south to an intersection with US 80 at Seminole. From there they go to Hobbs, N.M., and on to El Paso.

John Sudderth, chairman of the New Mexico Highway Commission told the Oklahoma City delegation that he expects the federal government to begin hearings next year on additions to the interstate system.

June Popwell Wins District 4-H Food Show Competition

For the second consecutive year, June Popwell was a winner in the District I 4-H Food show and will compete in the state contest at the 4-H Round-up June 6 through 8.

The district was held Saturday, April 22, in Canyon.

June, a junior in Wellington high school and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Popwell, competed in the meats group and won first with her preparation of Texas Hash. Her table setting was considered in the judging.

Last year June entered in the dairy products group and was one of the winners in that division of the state contest.

This year, there will be only one winner in each food group and she will receive a $500 college scholarship.

"June does all the work herself and she enjoys it," said Miss Leta Kees, home demonstration agent. "However, she is not disappointed when she does not win, for she always makes some new friends or does something to enjoy herself."

June has been a 4-H Club member 7 years.

Three other girls competed in the district contest, after winning the county Favorite Food Show earlier this Spring. They were Rosemary Popwell, younger sister of June, and Beth Peters, both of Wellington and Dianna Cantrell of Samnorwood.

A Frank Story

Call it a frankfurter, wiener or hot dog, it's as American as the Statue of Liberty. Popular with young and old, franks are eaten boiled, baked or grilled indoors or outdoors. Last year enough franks were produced under Federal inspection to reach in length from New York to California and back 127 times, say USDA meat inspectors.

Frankfurters actually are one of the more than 200 varieties of sausage, and account for about 25 percent of all sausage sold in the United States. The Wiener school says that the sausage originated in Vienna (Wien) Austria, and has the full name of "wienerwurst."

The frankfurter school says a butchers' guild in Frankfurt, Germany, invented the sausage—hence the title "frankfurter." The birth of the American "hot dog" is equally hazy. One legend points to Antoine Ludwig Feuchtwanger, a sausage vendor who came to America from Bavaria. Antoine introduced his "red dogs" to the citizens of St. Louis in 1883 and provided each customer with a white glove to hold the hot sausage. He took his idea to the Chicago World Fair and profits nose-dived because customers failed to return the white gloves. He and his wife hit on the idea of wrapping the hot sausage in a bun. This was instantly successful.

Regardless of name or legend, all formulas or recipes must conform to guidelines for production of sausage under federal inspection.

What's for Dinner

Scientists now have the technology and knowledge to machine food into nearly any form dictated by the demands of space science, consumers or the needs of an expanding world population.

Monsanto Magazine cites these developments:

1. Spun soybeans can be molded, colored and flavored to simulate chicken, beef, sausage and turkey loaf. Now in use of vegetarians, the product may take up the slack when livestock alone will not be able to supply all the protein requirements of a burgeoning population.

2. Freeze-drying, a process of quickfreezing food, then drying it in a vacuum chamber until the moisture is almost completely evaporated, allows the product to be kept indefinitely as long as the airtight package remains intact. With over 90 percent of the water removed, the treated product will eventually account for a large share of processed foods.

3. Fermentation, that took 15 hours with bacterial cultures to produce buttermilk, can now be accomplished in 30 minutes by simply adding edible chemical materials. Sauerkraut, cottage cheese and vinegar owe their existence to fermentation.

Wesleyan Guild Hears Student Panel, Elects Officers Thursday

"The Christian and Space" was presented as a panel discussion by a group of junior high and high school students for the Wesleyan Service Guild of First Methodist Church on Thursday evening, April 27.

Later, in the business session, new officers were elected.

Mike Davis was moderator and panelists were Debbie Lewis, Cherry Lewis, Barbara Wilbur and Bobby Saied. They presented the viewpoint of both Christianity and science, pointing out that they can be one and the same, when more is learned about each field.

A group discussion followed.

B&PW Hears Dr. Jones

Dr. Chas. B. Jones was guest speaker at the Business and Professional Women's dinner on Tuesday evening, April 25, and a group of high school musicians provided entertainment. Mrs. Jennie Lee Webb was the program director.

Dr. Jones reminded the group that Collingsworth County is rapidly becoming a community of older people, but if industry could be secured, perhaps the young people would stay.

He urged that members have a cancer check-up each year.

"Some people hesitate because doctors are busy," he said, "but it takes only a few minutes and that is what doctors are for." A question and answer period followed.

The musical program opened with David Groves, trumpet player, and Barry Johnson, pianist, playing "Were You There?" Barry later played "Serenade" as a piano solo.

"Lead Me Lord", and "Give Me Thy Heart" were sung by Micky Ann Kendrick, Debbie Lewis, Elaine Karnes, David, Barry, and Chris Hubbard.

During the business meeting a nominating committee was appointed composed of Mrs. Jimmie Kelso, Mrs. H. L. Jenkins and Miss Bessie Rainer.

The next meeting of B&PW will be in the Greenbelt Electric Building Tuesday, May 9 at 6:30 p.m. daylight saving time. Following the meeting, members will attend the Wellington high school Pops Concert.

John Coleman Returns for Tribute to Bataan Defenders

"I was never so overwhelmed as with their thankfulness."

With these words, John Coleman spoke of the people of the Philippines, those who were at the heart of a pilgrimage that took him back to the battlefield of Bataan. He was accompanied by his son, Spencer Coleman of Fort Worth.

He was one of 450 of the many thousands who were able to return for the 25th Bataan Day observance and dedication of the "Dambana ng Kagitingan"—Shrine of Courage—atop historic Mt. Samat on the battlefield.

Participating in the pilgrimage were the defenders of Bataan and Corregidor at the beginning of World War II, who subsequently became prisoners of war of the Japanese. John Coleman was a captain in the United States Army.

The dedication was the climax of three days of honor paid by the Philippine Republic to the defenders, both those from the United States and the Philippines, and Mr. Coleman came away knowing that here are a people who do not forget American courage and American friendship.

The veterans traveled again the route of the Death March, but this time in buses. One continuous line of people 40 miles long stood at the roadside, waving flags and shouting. Children carried white banners with the words "Thank You."

The buses moved slowly and veterans extended their hands through the open windows. Boys and girls reached up to clasp them. As the men rode on they were followed over and over by the cry, "I touched him, I touched him."

The surrender of Bataan came at Mirivales, April 9, 1942, after four months of fighting as stubborn as any in World War II and only after the food supply of the United States and Filipino defenders was down to one-half ration.

But this action is credited with having thrown off schedule the timetable of Japanese General Houghma, fresh from the conquest of Singapore.

Each man returning for the Bataan Day observance after 25 years had his own memories.

Among those of John Coleman was the point in battle when only one man, a scout, was between him and the Japanese army.

Next to him, about a mile to the right, was a unit of Filipino Scouts, commanded by a young captain already twice promoted on the battlefield.

He went on to become the most decorated Filipino soldier of World War II and now is president of the Republic of the Philippines, Ferdinand E. Marcos.

Coleman knew the unit, but in the urgency of the fighting and the confusion of the Death March, he cannot be sure he knew the officer.

President Marcos was the official host to the Defenders of Bataan and the dedication speaker at the Dambana ng Kagitingan.

While in the Philippines, Mr. Coleman and his son were the guests of a friend from those war years, Juan Vencenilla, who lives at Langan.

They visited Fernando Lopez, vice president and secretary of agriculture of the Re-

Greenbelt Co-op Officers and Directors Named

Approximately 400 members of the Greenbelt Electric Cooperative, Inc., and their families attended the annual meeting Friday, April 28, to hear a report on the past year's business, elect new directors, and listen to the Quail high school chorus.

The three directors whose terms expire were re-elected, including Selma Rainey of Lutie, A. J. Garland of Route 1, Clarendon, and Harold White of Hedley.

The directors held a short business meeting after the meeting to reorganize for the coming year, and the three officers were unanimously re-elected.

Returned to office were Mr. Garland, president; Forrest Overton of Vinson, vice president; and Mr. Rainey, secretary-treasurer.

Other directors, besides Mr. White, are Tom Christian, Fred Bourland and T. B. Henderson.

In the drawing for door prizes, the grand prize, an electric refrigerator, went to L. A. Davis.

The winner told Greenbelt officials that the door had fallen off his old refrigerator only a few days before and he was making plans to buy a new one, George Henry, manager, reported.

public of the Philippines, whom Mr. Coleman had met when he visited those islands in 1964.

His host gave Mr. Coleman a highlight on the United States landings at Langan late in World War II.

Japanese officials in those areas told the people the Americans could never come in close enough to land troops. But the American came in LSD's, right up on the shores, and they kept coming.

But then the Filipino people were told the Americans could never cross the rivers, and the Japanese blew up the bridges. United States forces came in amphibian vehicles and crossed the rivers wherever they wished.

On the return trip John Coleman and Spencer Coleman spent a few days in Japan, where they reported riding on one of the fast trains operating in that country, which cruise smoothly at 125 miles per hour.

Governor John Connally has proclaimed Texas Music Education Week to focus public attention on the more than 4,500 Texas school music teachers who are teaching more than one-half million Texas children.

Soil Stewardship Week Gives Recognition for Excellent Work

This week we observe Soil Stewardship Week, made more significant here by the outstanding work done in the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District.

It is a week of recognition, for it is when the annual Save the Soil and Save Texas Awards Program awards dinner is held on the state level, with the regional honors dinner to come later. Again Salt Fork SCD has winners in both levels. These are coveted awards in the field of agriculture, and receiving one is always a mark of achievement.

For many years we urged conservation of the soil. Conservation alone is no longer enough, although its importance does not diminish. Growing population and growing needs call for increasing fertility of the land, putting it to the use for which it is best suited, putting it to new uses, adapting a whole area to the use for which it is best suited by voluntary action of its people.

Soil Stewardship Week grows out of one of the most ancient of religious observances, the custom of setting aside special days, Rogation Days, when men offer thanks to God for the gifts of the land, and for the blessing of the fields by the Church. This ritual is still carried on by the Catholic, Orthodox and some of the Protestant churches.

OTHER EDITORS SAY . . .

Time for a Change

Proposed legislation now being studied by the lawmakers in Austin calling for some drastic changes in the county governmental organization is meeting with some opposition throughout the state, but apparently is being well accepted in the Panhandle.

In short, the legislation would specify that the Commissioners Court and the County Judge be the only elective offices in the county government, with all other officials, now elected, to be appointed by the commissioners court.

The plan has both merit and pitfalls.

As the Brand has stated in the past, we believe that many counties the size of Deaf Smith and larger would find much merit in a "county-manager" type system, whereby the county commissioners court could hire a qualified person as county manager to direct the heavy workload both inside the courthouse and at the precinct level.

By the same token, the pooling of equipment and labor in time of emergency could be handled much more efficiently by a qualified county manager directing the entire operation.

Still on the plus side of the ledger, we feel that under the county manager system, qualified personnel could be hired to direct the many departments necessary in the operation of a county government, and could be fired just as quickly in the event they proved to be inefficient or unqualified for the job.

Under this system, we would assume that qualified and interested citizens would then be willing to serve on the county court for a token salary, probably based upon the number of times the court was called into session.

Certainly there are some pitfalls. No system of government is perfect, and we cannot expect it to be so. But it is wise, we feel, to explore at least one of the pitfalls connected with the "appointive" system.

Of primary concern, of course, is the "political" aspect that is bound to arise somewhere down the lane. There will come a time when an ambitious commissioner will seek to fill an office with a friend to whom he owes a political favor, and it is here that most people feel that the system's weakness begins to come to the surface. This could be a problem, and it is one of deep concern to all interested citizens who want only efficient, effective county government in return for their tax dollars.

The advantages in the opinion of The Brand much outweigh the disadvantages and we feel that the out-moded governmental organization of the 254 counties in Texas would profit by the revisions.

It's time we made some changes.

State Capital
NEWS

AUSTIN.—State participation in the most far-reaching public welfare program since the advent of the social security system has been approved by the Texas legislature.

Texas House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved enabling legislation which will assure medical care for 350,000 Texans on welfare rolls under the new Title 19 or "Medicaid" benefits.

Proposed appropriations will assure payments totaling nearly $130,000,000 for needy aged, blind, disabled and their families with dependent children.

Where Medicare applies only to the aged, this new program will bring hospital care, doctor's services and a variety of other benefits to welfare enrollees regardless of age.

Legislation is broadly drawn to make another 230,000 "medically needy" Texans eligible when sufficient state funds are appropriated.

Federal government provides approximately $4 for every $1 put up by the states under Medicaid.

Appropriation bills by the Texas Legislature call for state spending totaling $25,700,000 on the program in 1968. This would attract about $104,000,000 in federal assistance.

Included in the new program are in-patient and out-patient hospital care. This covers diagnosis, nursing home services, laboratory and x-ray charges, physician's services, treatment and prevention.

Funds also are applicable to pay the required "deductibles" of medicare.

Texas Department of Public Welfare will administer the program. First payments under the act will be effective Sept. 1.

BUDGET ADVANCES

House Appropriations Committee voted out a proposed $449,300,000 general fund budget bill for 1968 in response to the call by Gov. John Connally for single-year financing. Total of all funds is $2,300,000,000.

Bill provides these general revenue allocations as compared with the present spending level:

—Judiciary, $7,100,000, now $6,200,000; up $900,000.

—Public Health, Hospitals, Special Schools, Youth Institutions, $198,200,000, now $77,600,000; up $120,600,000.

—Executive and administrative departments and agencies, $78,500,000, now $53,700,000; up $24,800,000.

—Education, $250,700,000, now $179,800,000; up $70,900,000.

—Legislature, $4,700,000; now $3,900,000; up $800,000.

If adopted in its present form this bill would leave an estimated surplus of $34,800,000 for teacher pay raises and other purposes.

AUTO RATES ALTERED

A new scale of Texas auto license plate fees is fixed in a bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate.

While the bill would lower rates for about half of the cars it would raise them considerably for very small imported vehicles. Tags would cost $12 for all autos under 3,500 pounds, $20 for those 3,500 to 4,500 pounds and $28 from 4,500 to 6,000 pounds.

A minimum fee of $5 would be charged for all motorcycles, boat trailers and other light vehicles.

OPEN MEETINGS

Bills to require open meetings of governmental agencies received approval of both House and Senate committees and were placed on floor calendars.

House State Affairs Committee approved the measure by Rep. Bill Rapp of Raymondville. Senate Education Committee recommended passage of similar provision by Sen. Chet Brooks of Harris County.

LIQUOR BILL MOVES

House Revenue and Taxation Committee passed the liquor-by-the-drink bill by a close 10-7 margin, with four members absent.

Committee added these major amendments.

—Separate local option elections will be necessary before mixed drinks can be sold anywhere. (Originally the bill sought to legalize liquor-by-the-drink in presently all-wet precincts unless voters specifically rejected the change in referendums.)

—Sellers of alcoholic beverages could be held financially responsible for property damage and injury caused by intoxicated persons who purchased beer or liquor from them. Limits of liability are fixed at $25,000 for damage to property and injury or $50,000 for death or loss of means of support.

—Permit fees would be reduced from $1,000 to $100 for non-profit veterans and fraternal clubs which have performed substantial charitable or benevolent work over a period of five years.

While the first two amendments were intended to attract some wavering supporters from dry areas, they had the effect also of scaring off some original supporters of the bill.

Polls indicate the House vote will be close.

CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION

A "compromise" plan for revising the state constitution has received clearance from the House State Affairs Committee.

A concurrent resolution by Reps. R. H. Cory of Victoria and Randy Pendleton of Andrews would establish a constitutional revision study commission with a 20-man citizens advisory commission.

Governor, lieutenant governor, speaker of the House of Representatives and Supreme Court chief justice would share in appointments of commission. Study commission's recommendations will be turned to the 1969 Legislature for its approval. Final approval will be up to the voters.

Legislature could revise the work of the commission, add to or reject it.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

My reminiscic neighbor says it used to be that a conscientious American daddy worked and deprived himself, so as to leave his kids an inheritance of substance.

And it was even once widely thought that Progress consisted of seeing that each generation got to start out a little better off than the preceding one.

But he says now that the psychospenders have taken over, the only inheritance most kids are going to have is a big slice of National Debt which will start them off with a two- or three-lap handicap in the rat race.

Mr. Chief Justice Warren is quoted in the papers as saying no nation can survive unless its people are safe in their homes and in their business.

And, of course, wanting the country to survive is what has led Mr. Warren's Court to come to the aid of killers, rapists, and robbers whose safety is threatened.

Because, after all, criminals are people. So they must be safe in their homes or hideouts from nosy policemen, and Congress is fixing to see that in their marauding business they are also safe from customers with guns.

My statistic neighbor wishes the Washington computer would quit putting out depressing figures, whether by accident or on purpose.

Like the news that people's personal incomes all over the U.S. went up last year to an average of $2,940 per persons, or nearly $10,000 per average family.

Says after a man has gone along contentedly for years thinking he is an average American citizen, it's a shock to have the government dig up figures to prove he is away below average.

My college-deprived neighbor understands the theory of "academic freedom" as being that a teacher has got a right to teach that 2 plus 2 is 6, when believing this to be a fact, even while getting paid to teach that it is 4 or 5.

And he reckons that social progress will finally get academic freedom preserved and get busy saving other freedoms, such as industrial freedom.

Then, say, when a man gets a job putting wheels on cars for General Motors, he will be free to put on oval wheels if it's his conviction that round ones are square.

D. E. SCOTT.

Piano Students Play in Guild Auditions

Piano students of four Wellington music teachers attended the annual auditions of the National Guild of Piano Teachers held recently in Memphis.

Helen Collar, professor of music in Oklahoma College of Liberal Arts at Chickasha, was the audition judge.

Students of Mrs. Frank Anderson who attended were Beth Smith, Elaine Karnes, Henry Wells, Peggie Crawford, Dan Crawford, Diana Wilson, Mary Saied.

Also Debbie Long, Lennie Morgan, Sallie Tarver, Frederick Bush, Lana Kaye Lacy, Phyllis Ann Sullivan, and Kathy Scott.

Mrs. John Harper took these students: Edith Black, Jerry Lewis, Juliana Baumgardner, Janet Brock, Dickie Johnson, Mickey Ann Kendrick, Cheryl Spillman, Ann Smith, Gwen Lewis, Barry Johnson, Mildred Lewis and Cherry Lewis. Regina Ferguson will audition later.

Piano students of Mrs. Mack Bush were Kay Chance, Lucy Sullivan, June Ann Owens, Sherri Canada, Cynthia Harrison, Steve Hunter, Leigh Nall, Zana Jenkins, Barbara Wilbur, Adelle Burquist, Carlos Hatch and Patricia Sullivan.

Mrs. Allen Peters took these students: Derik Janes, Linda Gonzales, Ana Sosa, Cynthia Brewster, Judy Chandler, Susanna Peters, Annabel Harris, and Debra Janes.

Piano students enter the auditions in various divisions, depending on the number of pieces they will play from memory for the judge.

Beginning with local, the divisions include district, state and national. Certificates are given each student, along with pins denoting the division in which the student played.

The highest division, international, is reserved for the most advanced piano students.

During the auditions, each one participating is graded on playing, just as in school work.

Norwood Men Work at Camp

A group from the Samnorwood Lions Club and Scout dads worked recently at the new Adobe Walls Council Boy Scout Camp near Mobeetie.

The men took tractors and equipment and chiseled 85 acres of land which will be planted in grass. They also prepared a sanitary disposal tank at the Scout headquarters.

Participating were Scoutmaster Robert Dwight, Assistant Scoutmaster John Stages, J. M. Morgan, W. A. Bentley, J. C. Breeding, J. H. Oldham, Douglas Coleman, Buck Breeding, Jim Ray and Donald Coleman, along with seven boys from Samnorwood Troop 39.

Other troops in the area also are carrying out projects at the camp.

Mr. Dwight said that civic organizations interested in working at the camp or helping in other ways should contact the district Boy Scout chairman, Frank Phelan of Clarendon.

The average automobile travel party drove a total of 1,117 miles while spending 5.3 days touring the State. This was an increase of 88 miles or 8.5% of 1965.

What Co-operatives Mean to Wellington and Collingsworth County

There are those who would have you believe that Co-operatives are Tax-Free ... that they get a free ride at the expense of the taxpayer. Here are the facts:

The two co-operatives located in Wellington pay taxes, they contribute to charities, they support local firms with which they do business. They have large payrolls, adding to the community's income and in many cases offer services and facilities that would not be available without them.

Also, patrons of these institutions, that pay patronage dividends, pay Federal Income Taxes on these profits that are returned to them. Here are some of the combined totals taken from the individual reports shown on this page.

Wages and Salaries	$175,679.28
Property Taxes	6,973.10
Other Taxes	3,622.82

Run Off Road! What Would You Do?

Most drivers feel that they know how to handle an emergency situation that might arise. But when suddenly faced with the emergency situation requiring quick action they find they don't know as much as they thought they did.

Here is an emergency situation. Suppose at high speed your right wheels should drop off a pavement that has a low or rough shoulder. What would you do?

Here is what the defensive driver would do. Avoid any quick movements of controls and especially do not attempt to jerk your car back onto the pavement. Maintain control straight ahead and reduce your speed, driving to the right just enough to straddle the pavement edge. When your speed is slow enough and there is no vehicle meeting or overtaking close behind, turn back onto the pavement at a place that is not rough. If you cut back before you slow down you may overshoot your traffic lane and turn over trying to recover control. If a vehicle is meeting you, you may cause a head-on collision or cause the other driver to turn over trying to avoid you. If you are on a 4-lane road, you might overshoot the first lane and hit a vehicle in the inside lane.

Cutting the wheels at an angle to a pavement edge which is higher than the shoulder enables your wheels to roll up on the pavement without hanging on the edge of the pavement. If the shoulders are low and rough as far ahead as you can see, reduce your speed to approximately 10 miles per hour, shift to second gear, clear traffic and ease back over the pavement edge slowly.

If traffic is heavy or a driver is so close behind you that he may start to overtake and pass you you should slow down and drive off the pavement. When traffic is clear, make a normal entry onto the road.

There are between 1,800 and 2,000 rooms in the Palace of Versailles.

Word of HemisFair 1968 is being spread globally. U. S. Ambassador to Australia Edward Clark, right, a native of Austin, presented a package of information on the international exposition to Lt. R. C. Sullivan, USN, officer in charge of Pole Station, Antarctica, on a recent inspection trip. HemisFair, the Texas World's Fair, opens in San Antonio on April 6, 1968.

GI Home Loan Cutoff Near

The cutoff date for the World War II GI Home Loan program is July 25, 1967, the Veterans Administration said today.

That date is the absolute deadline for applications for VA guaranteed or insured GI home loans for veterans of World War II, according to Jack Coker, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional office in Waco.

Veterans of the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam era veterans are not affected by the WWII cutoff date. For Korean Conflict veterans, the absolute deadline is Jan. 31, 1975.

For post-Korean Conflict veterans the load deadline formula is the same as the one for previous programs: 10 years after the date of discharge, plus one year for each three months active duty, but not in excess of 20 years from date of last discharge.

A Few Questions To Ask The Printing Peddler

When the peddler selling stationery and printing supplies solicits your business, there are a few Questions which he should be willing to answer to your satisfaction.

1. Does he pay taxes in this community?
2. Can he supply your order on short notice?
3. Does he donate space in the newspaper to your local community enterprise?
4. Does he pay wages to a force of employees located in Wellington?
5. Does his newspaper donate its entire space toward the betterment and upbuilding of this community?
6. Does he grant you every favor you would ordinarily ask of your local newspaper?
7. Does the quality of his merchandise stand inspection?
8. Does his price include postage and insurance?

If he can answer ALL the above questions in the affirmative, he has an equal right to your business.

IF NOT — CONSULT

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

There is some satisfaction in noting that the administration of The University of Texas acted quickly and firmly in curbing the demonstrations of the Students for a Democratic Society and warned that every legal means would be used to prevent a disaster such as the one that occurred on the campus at Berkeley. The spurious agitators of SDS are only a small part of the 27,000 students who are working seriously to obtain further education; but the activists who wish to dramatize themselves can damage a great institution grievously if allowed to pursue their mob ways unchecked.

The University of Texas is a state supported institution, just as is A&M, the Universities that were formerly teachers colleges and numerous schools and junior colleges. Any university including SMU, TCU, Baylor and others that are supported by churches or by endowments like Rice must have rules and regulations and they must be enforced or the entire institution will be damaged. In California a small group of fanatics were allowed to go unchecked by the too-timid authorities and ugly mobs with their inherent evils resulted. Chancellor Harry Ransom and Regent Chairman Frank Erwin are to be commended for their prompt action.

It is not easy to decide who has damaged the Negro in the United States the most in recent weeks—Dr. Martin Luther King or Cassius Clay. Cassius (Muhammad) Clay may still wind up in jail while his own lawyers use up his quickly made fortune; but Dr. King goes on untouched. The recent antics of Clay are despicable; but those of Dr. King seem to us to border on treason.

Read enough of the headlines and you become troubled in mind and soul. Glance around you and view events nearer home and you get a better perspective and more assurance. The seniors of the four high schools of the county have such a clean healthy look about them and their accomplishments are so varied and worthwhile that their wholesome vitality restores your faith in the future.

Here in Wellington people are talking about four boys earning the highest scholastic marks; but as E. W. Clement remarked: "It might have been a different story if Lynda Moore had stayed in school." In the beginning eight students entered the first grade together and they consistently made A through the various grades with the marks of the girls ranging along with the boys. These girls were: Linda Moore, Ann Duncan, Charlotte Allen, and Sue Watkins. Linda Moore married and is attending college—just like that with no graduation from high school. Charlotte Allen moved to Canyon, Ann Duncan moved to Austin, and Sue Watkins moved to San Antonio. These were not all, for there were others who stayed in the higher brackets as the long honor list published last week indicates. The friendly rivalry and competition was a threefold blessing. It was a boon to the students, the teachers and the parents.

Dick Richards and Earl Hunter were prompt to inform me that C. M. Mims operated the first bottling plant in Wellington and Earl Hunter went into detail about the hand method used and described the operation with gestures. The bottler used one hand to pour in a small amount of flavoring and with the other operated the handle that released the soda water into the bottle. Capping was done with another hand movement and another piece of equipment something like capping a bottle of home brew beer.

Jack Kopp says that he would never have suspected that Junior Orr had quit smoking since he had never mentioned it. Jack is a newcomer to the fold of abstainers himself and he likes to talk about it. Dub Marchant is the veteran out at the gin. It has been over three years since he took a drag on a coffin nail. Joe Beard would like to be listed among the nonsmokers; but his reform of three weeks is almost too short to be counted. Right now he is at the walking, gum chewing stage.

FABRIC & READY TO WEAR OWNER

Mrs. John Ingram has announced the purchase of the interest of her sister, Mrs. J. J. Owens, in Fabric and Ready to Wear. An expansion of quality lines is planned, Mrs. Ingram said.

Let me hear from you about six months from now, Joe.

Note to students: The simple way to keep your breath sweet is to never start smoking.

Troy Region should hand in his notes at the office and not to me at the grocery store. Here is some information about hours that was too late to put in his advertisement. On week days he will open the Ritz at 7:45 daylight saving time and start the show promptly at 8:00 in the evening. On Sunday the show will open at 1:45 in the afternoon and the showing will be continuous.

Mrs. Murray Dodson had her sprinkler going Monday night and she says there were crystals of ice on her plants on the morning of May 2. It registered 40 degrees at the Highway Department gauge; but the ice particles are quite possible. She was at her home in Dodson and 14 miles can make a difference as recorded by the rainfall readings at the Vumore tower and those at the Highway building.

Last Saturday, April 29, brought our greatest difference in temperature, with a high of 51 and a low of 56.

Pre School

Mr. Graham will administer a Wechsler Pre-School and Primary Scale to each child individually so the parents and teacher will better understand the child's learning processes and will be able to help him more efficiently when school opens in September.

Individual conferences with parents will be held to review test results and the progress the child is making. Due to lack of time, this cannot be done during the regular term. If the parents are planning a vacation or plan for their child to attend Vacation Bible School during the 8 weeks period, the child will be permitted to miss his classes, but it will be important that he attend as many sessions as possible.

Quail Patrons

School district is approximately $1,366,670, the figure Mrs. Rita Owens, county tax assessor-collector, uses in her report to the Texas Education Agency.

At the $1.50 rate, this brings the Quail district approximately $20,500 annually in tax money. When the 50 percent increase in valuations goes into effect, school trustees anticipate an income of approximately $30,000.

Two City Women Announce Plans for Kindergarten

Mrs. Earl Lynn Bartlett and Mrs. Don Van Pelt have announced that they will open the Kiddie Kollege Kindergarten for children three through five years at the beginning of the fall school term.

Spring registration, however, will be held Friday, May 12, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. and Saturday, May 13, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, in the directors room of Greenbelt Electric Cooperative, Inc.

They plan their kindergarten to be held during the morning hours, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The children will be taught phonics, reading and modern math readiness, art, music appreciation, health and safety, Spanish, drama, personality, singing, etiquette, and learning to live and share with others.

The classes also will include science and nature experiences and a rhythm band.

Both young women are experienced elementary school teachers.

Mrs. Bartlett has a bachelor of science degree from the University of Arkansas and taught the fourth grade for three years in Denver, Colo., schools. After coming to Wellington she taught the fifth grade and high school English.

was manager of the Mill Iron Ranch.

The conservation program at the Flying O is relatively simple, Stephen Qualls of the Soil Conservation Service staff points out. Ample supplemental feeding during the winter months is one point.

"They also recognize the importance of cover for wildlife. To provide adequate cover, all of the feeders are placed in oak mottes. These provide protection from high winds and deep snow. There is an abundance of other native cover in the form of tall grasses, weeds and brush. Windfalls and a creek provide an adequate water supply for the birds," said Qualls.

The O'Neils are interested primarily in two species of game birds, wild turkey and bobwhite quail. At present there are an estimated 75 to 100 turkeys and it is impossible to determine the number of quail. Large populations of doves have established themselves from time to time, and there has been an increase in the number of squirrels.

Approximately 4,000 pounds of grain are required to keep the 17 feeders full from October 1 through March, at a total cost of approximately $70. No financial benefit is derived from this program of wildlife conservation, as no hunting leases are sold. Only members of the O'Neil family and their friends hunt.

Their principal satisfaction in their program is the knowledge that they are helping to preserve a valuable wildlife population in the Salt Fork SCD.

Their program is a continuing one. More feeders will be installed and larger feeders will replace smaller ones.

The O'Neils are concerned with the lack of interest in wildlife conservation in this part of the Panhandle. They would like to see their own sys-
