

Female Jury Legal After November 19

AUSTIN (AP)—Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd said today the recently adopted constitutional amendment to require women to serve on juries is self-enacting and becomes effective Nov. 19.

Shepperd said it has been the presumption for 50 years that all provisions of a Constitution are self-enacting. After the effective date, Nov. 19, it will be lawful for women to serve on juries in Texas, he said.

Shepperd's remarks were made in a speech to the Texas Assn. of Sheep and Goat Raisers in convention here.

He said a number of questions had arisen about the amendments and he wanted to clarify a "few

Dallas J.P.

Set For Lady Jurors Now

By MARTHA COLE

Justice of the Peace W. E. Richburg of Dallas Tuesday said all he wanted was "six good and lawful women" to serve on a jury "and we're gonna go to work in the morning."

"I got 'em, too," said Judge Richburg, thus announcing the first all-woman jury in Texas.

"If the defense doesn't complain, if the district attorney doesn't complain and if the voters approve it—there you are," said the J.P., known often as "The Law West of the Trinity."

State Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd announced in Austin Tuesday that the constitutional amendment approved by the voters Nov. 2 to put women on juries in Texas would be effective Nov. 19.

"I'm not jumping the gun," Richburg said. "I won't get them out of the central jury wheel."

The case involves a woman defendant charged with vagrancy.

She's hired two men to defend her.

Richburg said he thought she'd "get a fair trial" from her petit-jury peers.

It'll be only a six-man—rather six-woman—jury, and it won't have to be locked up overnight.

U. S. May Set Fighter Escorts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is considering giving fighter escorts to American aircraft which fly near Communist territory, Secretary of State Dulles disclosed today.

Dulles told a news conference the question is presently being studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

GI Granted Red Asylum

VIENNA, Austria, (AP)—The Soviet information service announced today that Russian authorities in Austria have granted an American soldier political asylum. The U. S. Army said the soldier had been AWOL since Oct. 9 after being court-martialed and broken from sergeant to corporal.

The Russian announcement identified the soldier as William Clayton Turner, 32, U. S. Army headquarters in Heidelberg gave his home address as Water Valley, Miss.

An Army spokesman said Turner has been attached to the 15th Armored Ordinance Battalion, stationed at Mainz, Germany. Available records did not indicate on what charge he was court-martialed.

The Soviet agency said Turner had asked for and been granted permission to live in Russia. The agency quoted a letter it said he had written which gave this account of his defection from the West:

He said he crossed from Germany to Austria Oct. 15 "with the idea of seeking political asylum in the Soviet Union."

The United States fired a stiff protest to Moscow, saying it expects the Kremlin "to make all such moral and material reparations as lies within its power."

The immediate Russian response followed the usual pattern: the Reds said the U. S. plane violated Russian territory and fired first, and that Soviet MIGs were forced to retaliate.

Tot's Drink Is Fatal

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Five-year-old Mary Ann Lowe died yesterday after drinking a plant spray solution stored in a soft drink bottle in the kitchen of her home. She had climbed up on a cabinet and reached the bottle on a top shelf.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A special master of the Supreme Court will hear two points in Texas' suit against New Mexico over division of Rio Grande water.

25 Witnesses Subpoenaed For McMorries Trial

STANTON (SC) — More than 25 Martin Countyans have been subpoenaed to appear in District Court at Sweetwater next Monday to testify for the state or the defendant in the scheduled trial of James McMorries, former county judge of Martin County, according to Chief Deputy Sheriff A. C. Abernathy.

Fifteen indictments, all charging the felony theft of public funds, were returned by a Martin County grand jury against McMorries this summer. All these cases were transferred to Nolan County on a change of venue by Dist. Judge Charlie Sullivan on his own motion. Judge Sullivan explained at the time of the transfer that he felt it would be impossible to get a jury in Martin County that would give both the state and the defendant a fair and impartial trial because of the great public interest in the revelations disclosed by the grand jury's investigation.

Cases based on three of the indictments against McMorries have been set for trial at Sweetwater next Monday. These include, according to Dist. Atty. Gil Jones of Big Spring, two cases concerning Grady School funds to pay for equipment in the amount of $175.40 purchased by McMorries for the Western Cleaners, a firm he owns and operates here.

Other indictments returned by the grand jury also made similar charges against former county commissioners Oliver Vaughn and Stanley Lewis, and Joe Froman, who is still a member of the court; against two brothers of the former county judge and a general contractor here. All these indictments were included in Judge Sullivan's order transferring jurisdiction to the District Court at Sweetwater.

County Atty. Ralph Caton, who will accompany Jones to Sweetwater, to assist Dist. Atty. Eldon Mahon with the trials, said Monday that as far as he now knows everything will be in readiness to proceed with the trials when court convenes there Monday morning.

It also has been indicated here that a large number of Martin County people will probably be present as spectators in the Sweetwater courtroom when the cases are called for trial.

Howard Canvass Finds No Change

The canvass of returns of last Tuesday's general election left the unofficial reports unchanged, county commissioners reported today.

The Democratic nominees won in every instance in Howard County voting and local voters approved 10 of the 11 constitutional amendments. Voters here rejected the amendment providing four-year terms for elective officials by a margin of 1,065 to 781.

Commissioners canvassed the election returns Monday. They also opened bids submitted by seven firms for supplying the county with lubricating oils and greases for the next year.

No contract was let. The commissioners said they were holding the seven offers pending clarification of specifications.

China Typhoon Target

MANILA (AP)—Typhoon Ruby soared across the South China Sea toward the Red Chinese mainland today, leaving five known dead in the Philippines, tens of thousands homeless and untold millions of dollars in damage.

The defense sought to establish value of the four tubs at less than $50 which would have made their theft a misdemeanor offense. Defense Attorney Charles Butts took the stand on behalf of his client, but the court sustained the state's objections to testimony concerning the purchase of a used washing machine.

Members of the jury hearing the Dunlap case were H. P. Wooten, foreman, and D. E. Scuddy, Charles Ray, Buel Fox, Earl Phillips, Weldon B. Low, R. O. Fielder, James N. Bowen, Clayton Bettie, M. H. Tate, A. R. Kimble and Phil Smith.

Jurors hearing the Brown case were Paul H. Kennedy, J. E. Fort, A. R. Kimble, James N. Bowen, Phil Smith, Fred Nichols, Marvin Hayworth, Jack Owens, W. V. O'Neal, Buel Fox, E. O. Burchett, Albert Grantham.

Korean Operations Cited In Spy Case

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—The government said today that information relating to 1953 operations in North Korea figured in the secret material which one-time government code expert Joseph S. Petersen Jr. is charged with misusing.

Petersen, 40, of Arlington, Va., dismissed research analyst for the National Security Agency, was indicted by a federal grand jury here Oct. 30 on charges he obtained defense secrets with "intent or reason to believe" that they would be used to the injury of this country and to aid another.

Rio Grande Water Suit Hearing Set

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A special master of the Supreme Court will hear two points in Texas' suit against New Mexico over division of Rio Grande water.

McCarthy Pals Might Try Staging Filibuster

Rumors Persist Around Capital

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports persisted today that friends of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) might try to talk to death a resolution proposing his censure, on which the Senate opens formal debate tomorrow.

McCarthy himself professed ignorance of any such strategy. So did several of his supporters. But two influential Democratic senators who asked not to be named said they had been informed an attempt might be made to prolong debate until midnight, Dec. 24, when the extraordinary session which convened yesterday dies automatically.

That was the final deadline set in an adjournment resolution agreed on by Congress last August. Charles Watkins, Senate parliamentarian, said if there is no vote by that hour, a pending censure resolution would expire with the 83rd Congress.

That presumably would mean starting afresh with any move aimed at Senate rebuke of the Wisconsin senator, who has predicted the vote will go against him.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP leader, said he remains hopeful of getting a vote this month. A special committee recommended censuring McCarthy for his alleged "contemptuous" attitude toward a Senate subcommittee, "vulgar" remarks about one of its members and his treatment of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, a witness before the Senate investigations subcommittee McCarthy heads.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, indicated he regards the McCarthy case as primarily a Republican problem, saying he had not been consulted about strategy.

If McCarthy's supporters try to drag out Senate arguments to avoid a verdict, they may need greater strength than is now credited to them.

In the past, Southerners have demonstrated they can make a filibuster effective if they have about 20 members willing to speak at length. Senate aides believe any talk marathon with fewer than that number participating can be broken by round-the-clock Senate sessions.

Knowland already has ordered Senate meetings daily from 10 a.m. to around 6 p.m. and he could lengthen the hours with majority support. He said, however, he was not trying to "rush" matters.

McCarthy's aides now claim the backing of about 25 senators, but it is doubtful that nearly all of these would join in any lengthy talk.

McCarthy said in a radio broadcast last night that while he believes there are "plenty of votes" in the Senate to censure him, he does not believe any such result would affect his chances for re-election in Wisconsin in 1958.

"I don't think that the American people are fooled at all," he said. He told the Senate yesterday the committee recommendation that he be rebuked for his remarks about Sen. Hendrickson (R-N.J.) was "imbecile" and "fantastic."

When Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) asked to eliminate an "obvious error" in a report of the special committee which recommended censure, McCarthy jumped to his feet to say he had found many errors and demanded to know which one was involved.

Watkins, the committee's chairman, didn't tell him immediately, and McCarthy said this gave the Senate "some idea what I had to put up with day after day" in hearings before the committee.

Sen. Case (R-SD) finally slipped the revised report down angrily in front of McCarthy, scattering other papers in a shower. Case is a committee member.

When the correction was disclosed to be minor in nature, McCarthy told reporters he thought he had made his point.

"I think he (Watkins) performed a service to the Senate and to the country by his refusal to tell me about the change," McCarthy said. "He demonstrated his personal animosity to me as he did in the hearings. But he didn't have a gavel in his hands this time so I could force him to divulge the change."

Sen. Welker (R-Idaho) said he had been working day and night briefing himself on the legal aspects of the case and is convinced that the proposed censure action is unconstitutional. He said he will explain later to the Senate why he reached that conclusion.

Judge McCoy Takes Office In Martin

STANTON (SC) — Jim McCoy, who was elected to the office last week as Democratic nominee, was installed as county judge of Martin County Monday afternoon by taking the oath and having his bond approved by the four county commissioners.

At the same time he qualified as ex-officio county school superintendent and announced the appointment of Mrs. Jack Arrington as assistant school superintendent.

Bruce Frazier has been serving as county judge since last July when he was appointed by the commissioners to succeed James McMorries, who had resigned under the fire of a grand jury investigating irregularities in the county's financial affairs. McMorries has since been named in 15 indictments charging the felony theft of public funds.

Frazier's appointment was until his successor was elected in the November general election. The county commissioners canvassed last Tuesday's votes earlier in the day and notified McCoy to be present to qualify at 2:30 p.m.

McCoy, who was born on a ranch near Sonora, first came to Martin County in 1937. He is a veteran peace officer having served in West Texas communities as a chief of police, three times as a deputy sheriff, as city tax assessor-collector and as deputy state and county tax assessor-collector.

In announcing the appointment of Mrs. Arrington, the new county judge explained that he and she had worked together for three and a half years in the sheriff's office here during the administration of Kyle Shoemaker.

"I know she is an efficient and competent worker," McCoy said, "and I have every confidence in the work in her."

Lake Water For The City

First lake water to go into the city's new filtration plant was coursing into the settling basins Tuesday morning. Here, Roy Hester, city water superintendent, watches water from the flocculators (where lime and alum are added to coagulate tiny particles so they will fall out of suspension) boil into one of the settling basins. Water is coming from Powell Creek Lake and Monday water in the line was flowed to waste for six hours. It will be in the latter part of the week before any lake water gets into the mains for filters must be back-washed four or five times before the water will be cut to the clear well for distribution.

UF Drive Goes 'Over The Top'

"Over the top" was the jubilant report given out today on the United Fund's annual finance campaign.

A tabulation this morning showed a total of $68,355.72, in excess of the budgeted figure of $62,151, and Chairman Dick Simpson said he felt there will be other gifts coming in during the next few days.

But the big figure had been reached, and it brought rejoicing throughout the ranks of hundreds of volunteers who had worked on the campaign for the past four weeks.

"It is a wonderful example of what cooperative community spirit it can accomplish," said Simpson. "No one person, no one small group of people, can claim any of the credit. If there ever was a case of real coordinated effort on the part of all the people, this is it."

He expressed warm thanks to every person who assisted in the drive in any way, and to every firm and individual who is represented in the gift list.

"There is no way to list individually, the names of all those who have had a part in this splendid success," he said. "We just have to thank everybody."

"We do want to single out the labor groups and the employees division of the campaign."

The total represented gifts from 18 different T&P labor organizations, and 12 of these were 100 per cent in their giving. A. C. LaCroix, chairman of the T&P employees' phase of the campaign, said that later contributions likely would make other divisions 100 per cent.

For the past several years the T&P group has been a major contributor to the welfare campaign.

In today's report, the 100 per cent list includes:

Railroad Yardmasters of America, 4 men, $80; Special Services, 4 members and $47.54; Engineering Department, 1 member and $75; T&P Motor Transport (International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America) 9 and $65; American Train Dispatchers Association, 13 and $380; Stores Department Employees, 5 and $25; Railway Signalmen of America, 3 and $15; Division Officers, 15 and $394; American Railway Express Company, 4 and $14.58; Order of Railroad Telegraphers, 6 and $53; Brotherhood of Railway & Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees, 64 and $332.36; Affiliated Shop Crafts of APL, 97 and $377.50.

Other divisions reported as follows, and while they are not complete, there remain some reports to be turned in:

Southwestern (Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen), 26 and $284; Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, 35 and $135; Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, 67 and $645; Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, 35 and $468; Order of Railway Conductors, 21 and $325; Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, 32 and $332.

John Marshall Harlan

One Of Ike's Nominations May See Fight In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's nomination of U.S. Circuit Judge John Marshall Harlan to the Supreme Court, where his grandfather once sat, seemed headed today for easy passage through the Senate.

But trouble appeared to be brewing for the nomination of Atomic Energy Commissioner Joseph Campbell to be comptroller general—head of the General Accounting Office (GAO), whose job it is to keep close tabs on how federal agencies spend the money Congress gives them.

There was no indication the President had consulted senators in advance about either appointment.

First reaction of senators willing to comment indicated that Harlan's selection was not likely to stir any controversy, but that Campbell's nomination might be challenged by opponents of the proposed Dixon-Yates contract to supply private power in the Tennessee Valley Authority area. Campbell was one of the AEC members who approved the contract's form. The contract now is under study by the House-Atomic Energy Committee.

Harlan's nomination came as something of a surprise, although there had been some speculation Eisenhower might dip into the federal judiciary to fill a vacancy left by the recent death of Justice Har-

Allen, Okla. (AP)—A remorseful superintendent, credited with heroism by his students, accepted responsibility for striking the match which accidentally touched off a deafening gas explosion at Allen High School yesterday, injuring himself, the principal and 45 pupils.

Many students reported for medical treatment today after going home yesterday believing they were all right. However, many suffered delayed reactions overnight and other injuries showed up.

This morning, two students were still critical and the principal, Freeman Pickle, was taken off the danger list.

The one-story brick school building was virtually demolished by the blast.

The superintendent, J.N. McKee, who suffered shock, cuts and bruises, told a reporter: "I presume I set off the blast in an attempt on my part to find a gas leak. I had no reason to think there was a general leak."

Students were flung against the ceiling and blown through windows by the bomblike blast.

Fire Chief Harvey Butler, who estimated damage at $100,000, said gas apparently had been accumulating under the floor several days.

The 150 students in the structure at the time had high praise for McKee. They said he helped hold up a collapsing ceiling so other victims could be rescued first.

"There was a flash and then the explosion," said Dale Plunk, 18-year-old high school junior. "It was terrible."

Some of the victims, dazed and staggering, stumbled from the littered building, blood streaming from their heads. Dark spots were found lodged in the ceiling by the blast.

"When I went in there the kids were screaming and crying and were pouring out, and I just knew that some of them had been killed," said Butler, one of the first responders on the scene. "I still don't see how they got out alive."

McKee explained he struck a match in search of the leak after students complained of a "fuzzy smell."

HIGHLY ACCURATE Doctors Announce New Cancer Test

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

ST. LOUIS (U-P)—Possible discovery of a new and highly accurate test for cancer, employing urine instead of blood, was announced today by the Southern Medical Assn.

Doctors T. C. Terrell and H. H. Beard of Fort Worth, Tex., said the test is based on actually measuring the amount of a sex hormone called "chorionic gonadotropin" found in urine collected over a 24-hour period.

They told the SMA's 49th annual meeting that this hormone occurs in only small amounts in normal individuals but that it showed up at substantial levels in 94 per cent of 51 proved cases of cancer.

And the researchers described a chemical technique for separating the hormone from other substances in the urine. This allows a quantitative measurement of the hormone, depending upon intensity of a blue-green color.

The doctors said this ability to detect varying quantities of the substance suggested possibilities of:

1. Detecting cancer before symptoms become apparent.
2. Testing for the presence or absence of any signs of "spreading" of a cancer following surgical or other treatment of the original malignancy.
3. Differentiation between "benign" and malignant tumors.

Dr. Beard told a reporter that, aside from studies of cells or tissues, most tests for cancer in the past have employed blood samples. But he said these "have the drawback that they produce a large number of 'false positives' due to the complexity of substances in blood."

"False positives" are also possible with the new technique but to a far lesser degree, the doctors declared.

Occupation Staffs Pared Down In Western Germany

BOON, Germany (U-P)—The three Western Allies have virtually completed dismantling the occupation organizations which for nine years had supreme power in West Germany.

Their staffs, once totaling over 100,000, have been whittled down to a few thousand in preparations for a switch to embassy status. The exact date depends on ratification of the Paris accords to restore German sovereignty and make the Federal Republic a member of NATO. But the change-over is expected early in the new year.

The U. S. High Commission, once the largest civilian American organization in Europe, is down to 395 Americans and 3,495 Germans. A spokesman says that after sovereignty it will consist of 565 Americans and 3,238 Germans. In February 1953, its strength was 2,992 Americans and 11,238 Germans.

Canadian Liberals Lose Seat In Vote

OTTAWA (U-P)—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent's opposition picked up one House of Commons seat in six by-elections held yesterday but his governing Liberal party still holds a comfortable 73-vote majority.

The Liberals retained four of the seats at stake in the voting, held to fill vacancies from deaths or resignations. The Progressive Conservatives retained another.

The opposition gain came in Manitoba's Selkirk riding, where W. A. Bryce of the Socialist Party (Co-operative Commonwealth Federation) regained the seat he had lost to Liberal R. J. Wood in the 1953 general election.

Auto Industry Jobs Add To Employment

WASHINGTON (U-P)—The Labor Department says auto industry employment increased by nearly 80,000 in October to more than offset a customary October decline in factory jobs.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said yesterday the auto industry picture, sparked by production of new models, was chiefly responsible for an October jump of 17,000 in factory employment.

Nonfarm employment was boosted by 119,000 from September levels to about 48,625,000.

Mexican Police Kill Three In Gun Fight

MEXICO CITY (U-P)—In a blazing gun battle, federal police yesterday killed three men wanted for questioning in connection with an $80,000 robbery at the home of former Mexican Finance Minister Ramon Botia. Two police agents also were slain.

Officials said the men, led by Mariano Vazquez, opened fire on the officers trying to make the arrest.

No One To Teach Latin, So Subject Isn't Studied

By JOE PICKLE

Is Latin making a comeback? Some educators seem to think so, or at least are predicting that it will.

In Big Spring Latin is dead both as a language and as a possible part of the curriculum. However, the administration would regard any indication of a revival of interest by students with more than passing sympathy. The course, part of the curriculum here was dropped some four years ago because of declining interest and inability to secure qualified instructors.

"I wish we could get interest in Latin," said W. C. Blankenship, superintendent. He has at least two persons on the high school faculty who would be qualified to teach the subject.

That wasn't the case a few years back. One of them, Mrs. Reta Weeg, was an outstanding Latin scholar both in Big Spring High and at the University of Texas, where she was a language major with much of her work in the classics. Oscar L. West also has a background in Latin which would qualify him.

The presence of two potential instructors, however, does not mean a ready supply of Latin teachers. However, the break down occurred first of all at the higher level of education. The colleges simply weren't turning out Latin teachers anymore. Some of those qualified left the teaching profession; some took other assignments rather than teach Latin; and the remaining ones frequently took the better positions offered by the larger and wealthier districts.

Big Spring was for many years a hot-bed for Latin classes. At the outset of the creation of the independent school district, Latin became one of the basic high school courses and Prof. W. C. Thompson, then superintendent, wanted to install Greek as another integral part.

Two instructors had a big influence on the subject here. Mrs. Vest M. Stagner is remembered by many a BSHS ex-student as a Latin enthusiast of the old school. She had an obsession that pupils in her class had enrolled to learn Latin and (sic) they had better learn it. Few youngsters ever went into her classes without having made a real effort to prepare a lesson. She could get almost apoplectic when she discovered someone was "riding a Latin pony." She also insisted on old line pronunciations. Caesar was always as Kaiser—and Caesar's (beg pardon, Kaiser's) immortal "veni, vidi, vici" had better come out "way, way-dee, wee-see."

Succeeding her was Mrs. Lillian Shick Dawson. She caught perhaps more Latin scholars with sugar. Although insisting on thoroughness, she was a realist.

Joe DiMaggio, divorced by the actress two weeks ago, spent several hours at the hospital after the operation. He told a newsmen: "She's looking wonderful but I guess she's having kind of a rough time."

Asked about a possible reconciliation, DiMaggio said: "I'd rather not talk about that, but we're still very good friends." Miss Monroe also has said they are still friends but there has been no indication of a reconciliation.

Met's New Style Opening Is Cross-Country Success

By HENRIETTA LEITH

NEW YORK (U-P)—The Metropolitan Opera put on a new kind of opening night last night, and became a popular success not only in the old opera house but across the country.

The newness of the opening night program was in the fact that it was not an opera at all, but a series of the most popular scenes from four of the most popular operas.

New also was the expanded audience—besides the usual furred, jeweled and white-tied capacity crowd attending the performance in the opera house, audiences in more than 30 theaters in 25 other cities saw and heard it on closed-circuit television.

The Met audience liked the show so much that Sherry's Lounge in the opera house, which in the past has done a heavy business even while the opera was on, was a fairly quiet place except at intermissions.

An opera spokesman wondered if it meant that the opening nights were becoming opera lovers.

But Associated Press Arts Editor W. G. Rogers thought the performance's appeal was more to "anybody who didn't like opera so much as he liked to relax."

Rogers also described it as "TV show first, opera only second," and "a kind of vaudeville, all tease and no strip."

The performance brought more stars and a bigger cast to the opening night stage than almost any she popularized the classes with Roman banquets (the pupils clad themselves as Romans; reclined at the table as Romans; ate fare attributed to the Romans). Every year the Latin classes made a trip to Carlsbad Caverns, being entertained generally in the home of Col. Thomas Bole, who then was in charge of the Caverns. The Latin Club was one of the more popular ones on the campus.

After she left the teaching profession, efforts were made to continue the instruction. Pupil interest seemed to dwindle. Then came the discovery that there was a super-dearth of teachers who had been trained to teach Latin. Ultimately, the program collapsed.

As a long range proposition, Blankenship thinks the colleges could be of help, both by requiring Latin for certain fields—as some have recently announced—and by producing more Latin instructors so that schools all over the state could be reasonably sure of having an instructor. Otherwise, he pointed out, a district with a good teacher might have a splendid Latin program one year, and then, if the teacher retired or left, no Latin at all the next year. This could, as was the case here, leave some students dangling in mid-air with only half of their language requirements completed.

DiMaggio Visits Marilyn In Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (U-P)—Marilyn Monroe's doctor says she is "recovering nicely" from minor corrective surgery. She is expected to be hospitalized four days after yesterday's operation.

Joe DiMaggio, divorced by the actress two weeks ago, spent several hours at the hospital after the operation. He told a newsmen: "She's looking wonderful but I guess she's having kind of a rough time."

Asked about a possible reconciliation, DiMaggio said: "I'd rather not talk about that, but we're still very good friends." Miss Monroe also has said they are still friends but there has been no indication of a reconciliation.

Actress Files Suit In Mother's Death

LOS ANGELES (U-P)—Film actress Jean Wallace sued yesterday for $50,000 damages in connection with the death of her mother in a traffic accident last summer.

Miss Wallace, the wife of actor Cornel Wilde, named James G. Stanfield, a warehouseman, as defendant. He was accused of running down Mrs. Mary Ingraham, 60, as she crossed an intersection. Police reported that Stanfield fled the scene but was caught after a 15-minute chase.

Stanfield was scheduled for trial today on a hit-and-run charge.

CIO Oil Workers Set Merger Meet

DENVER (U-P)—The Executive Council of the 120,000-member CIO Oil Workers International Union has called a union convention at Cleveland Feb. 25 to prepare for a merger with the CIO United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers.

CIO President Walter Reuther has urged the merger, which would give the unions a combined membership of about 200,000.

The OIUW convention will precede by three days a meeting in Cleveland to complete the merger. The oil union said the chemical workers already have agreed to the proposal.

GOOD...when the baby came

Not that we couldn't have managed, but there were a lot of little extra expenses we hadn't figured on—items we had not included in our budget. And the things Lucy needed she had to have RIGHT NOW—not next week, or next month.

Fortunately, our credit was good. Everybody we bought from knew we always paid promptly—when our bills came due. They knew that anything we bought on our charge accounts this month would be paid on or before the due date the following month...and they gave us all the credit we needed, when we needed it.

Paying your bills promptly is a measure of personal prestige. Protect your credit standing... pay all bills on the date they are due.

Cigarette Controversy Flames Hotter; Researchers Are Busy

Editor's Note — Few research problems of modern times have captured the public interest more than the current search for an answer to this question: Is cigarette smoking a substantial hazard to health? The interest is justified, for the stakes are high. Here is a concise summary of what is involved, the first of four significant articles on the cigarette controversy.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (U.S.)—The great cigarette controversy is flaming hotter.

It has millions of Americans puzzled or confused, and many frightened. Are cigarettes really dangerous? Should you stop smoking? It finds the house of science and medicine divided. Some authorities frankly call cigarettes a major factor in causing human cancer, especially lung cancer, and say they are bad for your heart. But others, equally prominent, say the case against cigarettes is by no means proved.

It finds many hundreds of thousands of dollars being poured into research to find the answer, or answers. That fact could produce great boons for all of us, for the research will dig deep into some biological mysteries. What is learned could turn up vital links about the cause, control or treatment of cancer, heart disease or possibly other health matters, quite aside from its effect in the cigarette controversy.

The controversy finds unknown thousands of men and women giving up cigarettes, or trying to, or thinking they should.

Human health is one stake in the controversy: Are cigarettes harmless, bad, or somewhere in between? Human enjoyment is another: Most smokers enjoy their smoking.

The tobacco industry — the big and small growers and manufacturers and processors, middlemen, wholesalers, retailers, vending machine operators and many others — owes its livelihood to tobacco. Governments derive much revenue from tobacco taxes.

Science and medicine have a stake. Should a reputable scientist disclose his findings which lead him to suspect hazards in smoking, or anything else? Or should he wait until he has definite proof? If he is proved wrong after his early announcement, will people accuse him of scare mongering, or lose faith in scientific research? If he is proved right after deciding not to warn the public would people accuse him of having shirked his responsibility?

The cigarette controversy, like most big public issues, didn't spring forth overnight.

Some 15 years ago, Dr. Alton Ochsner, famous New Orleans surgeon, was reporting observations which led him to believe that cigarette smoking was a cause of lung cancer. Just yesterday Dr. Ochsner published a book, "Smoking and Cancer, a Doctor's Report" (Julian Messner, Inc.) which reviews all the evidence used to indict cigarettes as a cause of lung cancer and heart disease.

In 1929, an Argentine physician, Dr. A. H. Rolfo, reported that rats obtained from tobacco often could produce cancer in the skin of rabbits.

These and other reports were mentioned in the news through the years.

In 1950, newspapers headlined stories from a cancer congress in Paris reporting three separate studies, mostly statistical, which linked cigarettes with at least part of an increase in lung cancer among Americans. The studies were made by Dr. Ochsner, by Doctors Everts Graham of St. Louis and Ernest Wynder of New York, and by Dr. Morton L. Levin and associates of Albany, N.Y.

A British study just a bit later, by Dr. Richard Doll and Prof. A. Bradford Hill, pointing to an association between cigarettes and lung cancer, also was published by American newspapers.

But these and other reports coming still later seemed to find the American public only mildly interested.

No doubt some dismissed the reports as another instance of erring "wolf" at cigarettes. For tobacco has been accused of many sins in the past—of leading to poverty, of creating mustaches on women, making men sterile, poisoning the unborn babies of smoking mothers, contributing to tuberculosis.

Not until about two years ago did the long-pondering controversy over cigarettes really start to build up into the public consciousness.

The public was to become the jury. As such, the public was to hear a good deal, from both sides. (Tomorrow: The Evidence)

Scene during Ommegang procession in Brussels.

BRUSSELS, Belgium—People in this city spell the name "Bruxelles," but people from English-speaking countries follow the "Brussels" spelling.

Brussels is the largest city in Belgium. Counting the suburbs, it has a population of more than 1,200,000.

As in France, the standard coin is the franc. A Belgian franc, however, is worth eight times as much as a French franc. A Belgian franc has an exchange value of two cents.

When a person goes to a restaurant, he may wonder whether the Belgian franc really is worth two cents. For a modest meal, he is likely to pay from 90 to 120 francs. In a better-grade restaurant, he is fortunate if he can dine for less than 300 francs.

Among the popular dishes of Belgium are tomatoes stuffed with shrimps, sausage served with grapes, and eels in vinegar. The people also like mussels or mussels; at least 25 ways of cooking and serving mussels are known in Belgium.

One reason for my visit to Brussels was a desire to see two friends of my college years. They are Judge and Mrs. Marc Somerhausen. Judge Somerhausen was a member of the parliament when I made a visit to Belgium between the two world wars. Now he has a lifetime appointment to a high court. Mrs. Somerhausen is the author of a book, "Through the Darkness," which appeared after the last war.

While at the Somerhausen home, I enjoyed a visit with Luc, one of their sons. He is a college student. Another son, a few years older, is in India, opening a career in the Belgian diplomatic service. Another son, after studying at Yale University, is doing work as an engineer.

Life in Brussels is marked by more street parades or processions than most cities have. Some of these had their origin in religion, but others go back to national folklore.

In one procession a 55-pound loaf of bread is a feature; the loaf is decorated with flowers. Later the bread is sliced, and the pieces are given to people who want to guard themselves against rabies!

There's More Than Enough To Go Around, So Eat Beef In Texas

The population of Texas as of July 1, 1954, was set by the Bureau of the Census at 8,240,000—breathing hard on the neck of Ohio for fifth place, and causing uneasy glances from fourth place Illinois. Ohio was only 295,000 ahead.

But as many people as Texas has, the Lone Star State has more cattle than people—8,387,000 as of 1954.

That's a lot of hoots and horns.

Texas by rights should be the beef-eating state in the Union.

But the Texas Beef Council, an offshoot of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, doesn't think Texas eat enough beef. A lot of non-beef-producing Texans agree with them, for they contributed funds toward making Beef Week in Texas successful.

This is that week, November 8-14. The sale of beef products will be stressed by the retail trade this week, and there will be bargains to be had by the thrifty housewife. It has been proclaimed Beef Week in Texas by the governor and the mayors of many cities.

The cowman is the perfect exemplar of the sturdy self-reliance and independence that made Texas and the Southwest great. He wants no part of price-support programs, but he does feel that the nation's premier producer of beef should be inhabited by beef-eating people. He has a price problem on his hands, and the most direct and effective way of solving it is to persuade more people to eat more beef products.

So remember that this is Beef Week in Texas. Study the ads, and you'll find a great variety of cuts just to your taste. You don't have to buy the choicest and highest priced cuts; the cheaper cuts can be just as wholesome and nutritious and tasty as the most expensive.

What's So Disgraceful In Nailing Those Who Flaunt Our Speed Laws

Noting that the Texas Highway Patrol has announced that radar speed detecting devices will be in use in each of the 16 districts by the state by Nov. 15, the state manager of the American Automobile Association says that his organization is "not opposed to the basic idea of using radar in the enforcement of speed laws."

Now that's mighty nice. He goes on to cite the need for stringent control of speeding, and on page No. 3 of the same release begins hedging a bit on the use of radar. He calls for numerous and uniform signs to warn speeders that they may be caught by reason of the radar gadgets. He goes on to say that the cost is now getting so low that cities could and probably will invest in some of the equipment, and they might now operate it in the same manner as the State Highway Patrol. It boils down to this, he seems worried that "speed traps" will result.

That might be within municipalities, but hardly on the highways for it adds nothing to a patrolman's salary or the state's revenue whether he nails one speeder or a thousand. Conceivably, some small city might elect to finance its operations out of visiting traffic, but this is less a probability than possibility.

As for us, we can't get too worked up over protecting the dignity of speeders in or outside of corporate limits. When they wantonly exceed speed limits, frequently at wide margins, they break the law. What's so disgraceful about snaring them by car, radar or even a trap. With every new model car boasting more and more horsepower, speeding is going to get worse and worse unless we crack down and crack down hard and fast.

These Days—George Sokolsky

Voters Choose Individuals, Pay Little Attention To The Parties

In the current worship of the state as an institution apart from the people thereof, the metes of human freedom are obliterated by a fear of those who control the power of the state. Sometimes that fear is associated with adulation of some individual such as Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini, Roosevelt — to mention dead symbols of hero-worship. There are plenty of live ones, too.

The election is a mechanism of freedom of choice. Again the people have unlimited choice. In the recent senatorial election in South Carolina, they rejected the candidates of both political parties, choosing an independent candidate whose name they had to write in. No power in the state can control or influence or reject the choice of the individual voter. He may even decide to throw out the existing government which, in this election, he actually did to the extent that he altered the majority in Congress.

The importance of the narrowness of the election is not in the victory of one party or another but in the narrowness of the vote, which can only be indicative of the independence of the individual voter. In contest after contest, the vote became a victory by so small a margin as to show an almost even division. The voters were choosing men as individuals; they were not voting political parties in or out of office.

In the senate, the election was a revolt against both political parties. In Connecticut, for instance, Abraham Ribicoff, a Democrat, was elected as governor but all the other state officials who were chosen were Republicans. Into this situation comes a special factor, Miss Vivien Kellems, who ran for governor as an independent Republican. Miss Kellems' vote was drawn away from the Republican candidate, John Lodge.

Every voter for Miss Kellems knew that she stood no chance of being elected; every such vote was a Republican protest against a Republican governor, but not for the candidate voted for.

Similarly in New York, the enormous Democratic vote against Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., expressed a popular rejection of this candidate which, when studied in relationship to other Democratic candidates, obviously establishes that he was defeated by Democrats, by the refusal of Democrats to vote for a Democratic candidate.

The professional politicians may not pay too much attention to this. They will say that the 1954 election was exceptional, but they cannot explain why it was exceptional. They have all sorts of statistics to prove the exception but none to explain it. As a matter of fact, it is only different in the sense that the votes cast produced small majorities and, for a time, indecisive results.

Surely in 1952, Eisenhower ran on his personal popularity. He did not carry his party, the Republican party, along with him to a decisive victory. He did not transfer his personal popularity to enough senators and representatives to give himself or his party a working majority either in the House of Representatives or the Senate. Personal popularity has rarely been transferable in this country, probably the only exception to the rule in our times being the direct transfer of prestige from Theodore Roosevelt to William Howard Taft.

Just as in 1952, voters chose Eisenhower and then proceeded to elect Democratic Senators and Representatives, so in 1954, they voted all over the map, as though parties did not exist at all. That is representative of free choice. Neither Stalin nor Hitler would have understood this election, but to Americans it is not as puzzling as the experts try to make it. The American likes to vote for a man not a symbol.

Austin Recollections—Raymond Brooks

Political Playback

Under the thesis that the truth can't hurt, or if it does how can I help it? I am setting down some unpublished personal experiences and some sidelights on the Ku Klux Klan.

As is well remembered, the Klan captured several city and county governments. It was strong enough that the politicians courted it. It was decisive in electing a one-term public official by statewide vote. It made a supreme bid in 1924 to take over state government, and didn't miss by very much.

When it took on national significance, the Klan movement was termed a sort of Southern renaissance. Of course it wasn't long until the racketeers, the blackmailers and violence squads were its symbols. I need to set down as background how I got in the Klan. A prominent state newspaperman invited me to. "It's the fun-making, social side of the Klans," he said. "Just like the Forty and Eight in the Legion."

He got me invited, and as a newspaperman, my initiation fee was cut from the going $20 to $1, which he paid. I was initiated in a gathering where I saw several prominent federal and state officials. We initiated "did not wear pillow slips or bed sheets. The regalia was for the officiating group. I never went back.

A few days later somebody phoned me: "This is Mac. The Klan is going to—" and he told of some public activity. After that, during the time the Klan was a going concern, I got frequent calls from "Mac," who tipped me off to Klan events, to public, and sometimes official proceedings that were supposed to be secret.

Every tip proved accurate and dependable. I have never had any hint who Mac was, or if.

I don't pretty much keyed up at that initiation.

One of the numerous candidates for governor took me out to the pasture where it was held, and back. On the way back, he questioned me closely for my ideas on the governor's race: "How about—? Can Mrs. Ferguson get in the run-off?" Finally he slipped in, "How will — do?" using his own name.

I remembered later my reply in the excitement of the time: "That poor deluded fellow doesn't have a chance in the world."

The prediction proved accurate enough election day, but one doesn't intentionally get that frank with the individual concerned.

Censured Or Not, Sen. McCarthy May Seek To Show Up GOP Administration

WASHINGTON (U)—There is more irony in the predicament of Sen. McCarthy than just the fact he was cut down to trying size in the administration of his own Republicans.

That he will be censured by the Senate is a fate he predicts for himself. The Democrats tried to box him in, but didn't, when they were in power. It didn't happen till the Republicans took over.

In the 1952 elections the Republicans used McCarthy and his Red-in-government claims against the Democrats and won. This year they used the same theme, but left McCarthy on the sidelines, and lost.

This year the Republicans, perhaps out of respect for President Eisenhower's expressed wishes a year ago, didn't use the Communist issue at first. They did when it began to look as if they might lose.

Why the party leadership didn't use McCarthy in 1954 is not known. They may not have wanted him around, thought they could win without him, or feared if they won with his help he'd claim credit and want concessions.

Now that they've lost, McCarthy—as was predicted—reverses the coin and claims one of the reasons for the Republican defeat was the treatment given him.

This week, in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, he not only says that but points his finger directly at the White House:

"I think there was a great deal of resentment on the part of a sizable segment of the population against the jungle war which powerful elements of this administration waged against those of us who were trying to expose and dig out Communists."

Since that's the way he feels, a vote of censure now by the Senate, still run by Republicans, could hardly deepen any affection he may have left for the White House.

The fact that he said yesterday he will, censured or not, continue to fight against communism would indicate that he may cause the Eisenhower administration some grief in the next two years.

Any search he makes for Communists in government will almost have to be directed at the executive branch, which will be in the administration's hands.

Nevertheless, any desire he may have to sharpen at the administration will be limited by the fact that after this year he will no longer be chairman of an investigating committee with a large staff to help him.

The Democrats, as a result of the election, will run the committee. Not being chairman and not having a committee staff would not necessarily slow him down, though.

For the two years from 1950 until 1952, when he made a punching bag of the Democrats who then were running the executive branch and Congress too, McCarthy had no chairmanship.

It's questionable that the Eisenhower administration as he was against the Democrats in 1950-52. In those years he was a man on the way up, building a following.

Interest in McCarthy, according to reports, began to wane a bit after the Army-McCarthy hearings, in which millions for the first time were able to see him in action.

And censure by the Senate — an action which would be deliberate rebuke from his colleagues in both parties — could hardly improve his standing in the community.

Royal Trip To Theatre On Sunday Is Attacked

By ALVIN STEINKOPF For Hal Boyle

LONDON (U)—Just imagine you are a lively, 24-year-old girl living in London.

It's a dank and dreary Sunday. You have to turn on the light in the middle of the afternoon.

If you were just any 24-year-old girl, earning your living typing in an office, you could give that ponytail haircut a swipe with a comb, slip on a mackintosh and go to the movies.

Tens of thousands of young girls do just that, and manage to survive a gloomy afternoon. There are thick, moist and noisy masses of them in Oxford St.

But you had better do nothing of the kind if you are Princess Margaret. She ventured last Sunday to join that damp crush in Oxford St., and now there is a public diatribe about her.

Princess Margaret, it seems, broke a royal tradition. Conspiring with her in this act of rashness was her lady-in-waiting, Miss Irish Peake, and two unidentified young men.

Members of the royal family may engage in a lot of sprightly activities, such as shooting quail, drinking champagne for lunch, playing polo any old day, and betting on the races. But members of the royal family do not go to the movies on Sunday.

The Princess went to see something rather new in London — a method of projection known as Cinemascope. She and her companions went into the Casino Theater and occupied seats which cost $2.10 apiece. Then they went home through the gloom.

The objection to royalty's going to movies on Sunday is inspired largely by the conservative elements among English churchmen, whose influence is great. The population is being reminded constantly that the sovereign is the defender of the faith, and that the Lord's Day must be respected.

Dog Catcher's Job Held To Lack Future

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (U)—There's no future in it, explained dog catcher Jesse R. Danner yesterday when he resigned his post after a controversial career.

Danner was in the doghouse himself a few weeks ago when he admitted shooting several dogs on Montgomery streets. The public let out a loud howl.

Then during the height of the controversy, Danner had a Negro boy arrested for barking at him.

He told Mayor W. A. Gayle yesterday he wants to get a job with a better future.

Safer 'Shock' Care For Oldsters Found

ST. LOUIS (U)—Development of safer "electric shock" treatment apparatus, and of safer "muscle softening drugs" have made it possible to give beneficial shock treatments to mentally ill oldsters once deemed too "fragile" for the procedure.

This was reported today to the Southern Medical Association's 46th annual meeting by Dr. James Ward and Dr. James A. Becton of Hill Aie.

Burmese Reds Nabbed

RANGOON, Burma (U)—Police rounded up leaders of several opposition parties today for violating government orders by displaying portraits of Stalin and other Communist heroes during an anniversary celebration Sunday of Russia's 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

Homer Croy Tells Tale Of Some Unusual Frontier-Style Justice

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald. — Editor's Note.

I've never met Homer Croy, the novelist, historian and humorist, but I would like to. He must be quite a fellow.

But I did have a letter from him once. I still have it around somewhere, I hope. It concerned some information that both he and I wanted, and that I wanted him to have because he needed that story worse than I did. It so happened that we were both trying to find out what happened to the man who killed the man, who killed the man, who killed Jesse James.

Croy needed to know what happened to Joe Burdett who had killed Ed Kelley who had killed Bob Ford who had killed Jesse James, in order that he could finish the writing of his story "Jesse James Was My Neighbor" which later enjoyed such a good sale and has been the only reliable biography of that outlaw ever written. I was interested in what happened to Joe Burdett myself, both because of my interest in Western history, because it looked like a good story, and because it was on the day that I was born that Joe Burdett killed Ed Kelley on Main Street in Oklahoma City. Kelley was the town's toughest policeman at the time. Kelley had arrested, "pigs or pork," some of the saltiest characters the Southwest had to offer an up-and-coming cop, but Burdett turned out to be more than he could handle either on foot or on a window shutter, which was a popular means used for totting a bad man's carcass to the funeral parlors in the days before these speeding red-lighted, siren-screaming dead wagons.

But back to that letter with which Croy informed me he had finally gotten the dead wood on Joe Burdett.

Croy had gotten a hold of somebody's old wedding certificate and wrote me on the back of it. The envelope in which he mailed it was one in which somebody else had sent him a letter. He had worked the flap loose and then glued it back down again. On the face of the envelope, and over the original address he had pasted a piece of paper with my name and address on it. He had just slapped a new stamp on the envelope beside the old one, and, well, the letter came right straight to me.

That's why I say this Homer Croy, now getting somewhere near three-score-and-ten in years, must be quite a fellow. He is, some of the older folks will recall, the fellow who wrote "They Just Had To See Paris" which became the late Will Rogers' first talking picture. Croy and Rogers were very close friends and collaborators in creating fun for other people and in having fun for themselves while doing it.

But the thing that has brought all this up is that I have noticed at newsstands all over Big Spring, and in other towns, that PermaBooks, a division of Doubleday and Company, has just issued a 35-cent reprint of Croy's "He Hanged Them High," the story of Judge Isaac C. Parker, the most unusual U. S. Court in history.

When I was a kid I heard a lot of stories about Judge Parker and how he had sentenced six or seven hundred men, or maybe it was a thousand or more, to death, and how he had then stood by and watched the deputy U. S. marshals hang them, a score or more at a time.

In time, he actually did sentence 88 to death and they died on those gallows there in Fort Smith which were constructed that an even dozen outlaw necks could be broken at one time with one flip of the lever.

The story of Judge Parker, who had 200 deputy U. S. marshals working out of his court at a time, through part of Arkansas and all of Oklahoma Territory and Indian Territory, always has been one of the most exaggerated stories of them all. Homer Croy has done a wonderful job of sifting the truth from the false, and now anybody who didn't read it in the earlier and higher-priced edition can get the story at the nearest newsstand for 35 cents as long as they last.

In 1873 Fort Smith was the toughest town in the West (and it was in the West in those days). The population was about 2,500 assorted souls. There were 30 saloons and a red light district where things never quieted down or slowed down. It was on the edge of Indian Territory into which had flocked the worst of the outlaws, male and female, from Texas and everywhere else. Fort Smith was a ring-tailed whizzer with red-striped wheels.

Judge Parker moved into this hellhole and within four months six outlaws hanged by more than 6,000 people who gathered from all over the section for the big show. That was back there in the days when "crime didn't pay" and before the modern, enlightened, humane system of suspended, probated and concurrent sentences. Judge Parker just simply didn't believe in making it possible for a known criminal to serve a short sentence and then be turned out to continue his murdering and robbing. And, it must be admitted he had a very practical and efficient view of the situation. It was one that would greatly improve present-day conditions around the country.

This work of Croy's is also the story of the famous George Maledon, the hangman, who got $100 for each outlaw he dispatched into Kingdom Come, and then had to pay the funeral expenses, maybe $5, out of the $100 fee. Maledon was proud of his work. "They don't even twitch," he explained with a smile.

Judge Isaac Parker was just about the greatest, and most effective, crime buster this country has ever had, Dick Tracy and Joe Friday not excepted. It's great, too, that Homer Croy, had the idea and the time and the patience and the money to do all the traveling and research necessary to get the story.

And the worst of it is that the people of Fort Smith are ashamed of Old Isaac's memory and they wouldn't even leave the gallows standing so tourists could go there and gawk at the contraption.

Niagara Falls As Spectacular As Ever, Despite The Landslide

NIAGARA FALLS — Some persons worry about money, some about the war of the worlds and some about the opposite sex. But ever since July 28 I have been a veritable worry wart over the American side of Niagara Falls.

At 4:30 p.m. on that day 185,000 tons of rock broke away from the American side of the falls at Prospect Point and went BOOM! 165 feet below to the foaming base of this great avalanche of water.

My first impulse was to rush here to help apply adhesive tape and survey the injuries sustained by this great phenomenon of nature with which I fell in love on first sight some 20 years ago.

Any affair du coeur with such a phenomenon is bound to be one-sided. But such is my fate and I have never regretted it since the first day I glimpsed the majestic beauty of the falls. Ever since, I have returned as often as possible.

Since July I have been constantly fretted by the fear that the rock slide of 370,000,000 pounds might have marred the beauty of the falls. That's a lot of rock and it would certainly leave me in a considerably beat-up condition. But not the fall!

I am happy to report that the American side of the falls is just as breath-taking as ever. The great jumble of rock that broke away last July now lies piled up at the base of the falls like sleek, shining prehistoric monsters or enormous, wet seals immobilized in clouds of mist and spray.

The water pours over and around them in a fury of white, racing foam. These "seals" have only joined others of their kind that have been sporting at the base of the falls since 1931, when a rock slide of 80,000 tons thundered into the gorge.

Ever since the slide, Luna Island, the small, rocky promontory driven like a wedge into the very falls themselves and accessible from Goat Island on the American side, has been closed to the public and still is closed.

There is still apprehension that the little island, so long a favorite spot to get close to the falls—really, to stand in their midst—may be the next victim to be swept willily-nilly over the great cataract by the relentless sweep of the turbulent, powerful river.

The Corps of Army Engineers is now engaged in "remedial" work on both the American falls at the point of the July rock slide and on the American side of the horseshoe that is the Canadian falls; although the Canadian side seems to wear a lot better than ours!

The water drops in a sheer snowy-cascade over the horseshoe. On the American side there are apparently giant protrusions of rock on the face of the falls on which the cascading waters drop, only to leap and dance in the air in a dazzling display that makes the Fountain of Versailles seem pale and insipid by invidious comparison.

Both great falls are transformed at night when they are illuminated with clear white light that turns them into snowy avalanches, or by pale amber light that transmutates them into bubbling, effervescent champagne.

If you have never seen them, run, don't walk! to the nearest travel agency!

Youth Stages Quick "Jail Break"

Michael Joseph Machow, 19-year-old runaway from Portland, Ore., is shown opening a cell door in the Coral Gables, Fla., jail with a shoestring. Taken into custody to await arrival of his parents, he told police "I can get out of here." Police Lieut. Robert Crittenden said "Go ahead, show me," and walked away. Miami Daily News Photographer Mike Freeman stayed behind to make this picture and others of the youth making good his boast. Embarrassed police later said the lock was broken and they didn't realize it. It is now being fixed. (AP Wirephoto).

Board Backs Plan To Alter Care Of Mentally Retarded

AUSTIN (U.S.)—The State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools has approved in principle an 11-point program recommended by a special committee for the care and training of the mentally retarded.

The board, though not given final approval, indicated great interest in the committee's proposals which came after a two-year study.

Training, the committee said in its report yesterday, should be the "primary function of a state school for the mentally retarded." It predicted its report on the belief, it said, that "the concept of free public education for all children admits to no exceptions."

The state board authorized its staff, headed by Dr. James A. Be-thea, to call on whatever legal talent necessary to recommend improvements in Texas law concerning state wards.

The report recommended the state could save human lives and tax money by junking what was called the "human warehouse" concept of handling the mentally ill. More emphasis should be put on treatment designed to restore patients to useful citizenship, it added.

The committee recommended that the Legislature be requested: 1. To enact a modern code of laws clearly defining the state's responsibility for mentally retarded persons, with emphasis on coordinating the programs of the board and the Texas Education Agency.

2. To provide funds for construction to accommodate 3,000 additional beds for mentally retarded to relieve extreme overcrowding, such construction to include a new institution in the Gulf Coast industrial area.

3. To repeal all laws governing operation of Abilene State Hospital and to change the purpose of the institution from an epileptic colony to a school and West Texas reception center for mentally retarded.

4. To provide funds to build and operate a 300-bed nursery unit for mentally-retarded children under 6, admission to be determined by certification of a pediatrician, a psychiatrist, and a psychologist that they believe the child could not benefit from home environment.

5. To create a commission of lawmakers, lay and professional groups to further study the problem of mental retardation and make recommendations for a long-range statewide program.

6. To provide funds for construction of eight cottages to house 25 students each for a continuous training program for 200 selected students who might return to the community as useful citizens.

Other proposals called for designation of the Austin state school as a reception and diagnostic center, children to be classified according to the best knowledge available and transferred to the institution best suited to the student's needs; approval of a student training program by the Austin State School in affiliation with the University of Texas; use of the Austin school to develop a pilot training program designed to place trained students in communities; and transfer of the state school now at Mexia State School to another institution to leave Mexia as a school for mentally retarded only.

THE GRUB LINE

With Franklin Reynolds

Stanton business people are quite enthusiastic about an irrigation well just brought in by Sam Wilkinson and Travis Yater about one-half a mile north of Stanton.

Capacity tests on the well had not been run but production was estimated by farmers, well acquainted with irrigation wells, at perhaps 700 or 800 gallons a minute. F. W. (Ted) Henson has brought in a well of 530 gallons about one mile southeast of Stanton.

Others putting down wells in order to bring more acreage under irrigation include Jim Jones, who lives west of Tarzan, and Dick Knox and Dr. K. F. Campbell, both north of Tarzan. Dr. Campbell is a practicing dentist in Midland.

Last year there were only five mechanical pickers operating in Martin County cotton fields. This year there have been eight or nine at work.

This is also the first year chemical defoliant has been widely used in Martin County irrigated cotton. On the whole farmers and ginners seem to share the opinion that this year's irrigated cotton in Martin County is better than the 1953 crop.

Of the 218,000 acres of Martin County land being cultivated approximately 115,000 was planted to grain sorghums this year, with the remaining 103,000 acres being planted mainly to cotton.

Martin Vavra, SCS work unit conservationist at Stanton, says that while there is no doubt but that commercial fertilizers have paid off so far, that they alone are not enough to keep up the land's productive capacity which is gradually declining.

The physical condition of the soil, he says, is getting very poor.

As a remedy for this condition, Vavra is suggesting two courses to the farmers. One of these is for them to plant their cultivated land to annual soil-improving crops like Vetch, small grains or winter peas, turning these under in the spring, or by rotating cropland, such as growing clover or alfalfa on it for harvest or grazing for two or three years and then turning this crop under.

The soil Vavra says, needs the replenishing that only such crops can give it—that commercial fertilizers are not enough and are becoming less effective for good crop production.

Attention of Martin County farmers is being called to the fact that the ASC's deep plowing specifications have not been changed, and will remain in effect, as they were adopted last winter, for the balance of this calendar year.

Some farmers seem to have gotten the impression, it has been explained, that the deep plowing specifications have been liberalized to include types of soils that have heretofore been excluded.

This is not true, it is pointed out. The specifications remain the same.

Since Oct. 5 a total of 48 Martin County farmers have asked approval of the deep plowing practice on a total of 6,093 acres. To date tests have been run on 30 of these applications and only 1,585 acres has been approved for the practice.

The specifications for deep plowing in 1955 will be set up in the near future by the County ASC Committee.

The Big Spring High School Chapter of the Future Farmers of America has held its regular monthly meeting and has settled down into the year's hard work, according to Billy Bryant, chapter reporter. Newly-elected chapter officers for 1954-55 are David Ewing, president; Jerrell Shortes, vice president; Bobby Grant, secretary; Bobby Suggs, sentinel; Edgar Phillips Jr., treasurer; and Billy Bryant, reporter.

Reports are that the new officers did a fine job in conducting the meeting, at which it was announced that the contest for Chapter Sweetheart will be conducted from Nov. 28 through Dec. 12.

An executive committee, with David Ewing as chairman, has been appointed to set up the various other committees needed in the course of the chapter's work program throughout the year. Thirty-seven Greenhands were installed as chapter members.

During the past month four groups of boys have been working in preparation for the annual contests. Advisors Trust Vine and R. E. Baumhardt say the Green Hand farm skill demonstration group and the chapter's FFA quiz team are both coming along fine. In the Senior High School division the radio broadcasting team and the chapter conducting team have been working with a great interest and enthusiasm for their contests. The chapter conducting contest, testing their knowledge and skill in parliamentary procedure, will be held here Nov. 17.

Sheriff Dan Saunders reports that the Martin County Sheriff's posse sold its 30 roping calves just $3.00 short of what was paid for them at the beginning of the season.

Of course there was some feed put into those calves, but then the calves put some muscle and fun into those boys.

Next year Dan says the gang will be ready for another bunch of Tomorrow (Wednesday) is the final date for making Howard County applications for winter cover crops under the ASC program.

Among those who have already planted winter cover crops are L. H. Batton and J. Y. Robb, who have seeded Austrian Winter peas; Joe Fisher, who has planted hairy vetch and rye, and C. M. Weaver, who has also planted the Austrian peas. Mainly the peas are being planted down the middles of other crops.

Marion Everhart, work unit conservationist with the Big Spring unit of the Soil Conservation Service, is reminding farmers that it is very important that they properly maintain their terraces, a job that should be made a regular annual event in this sandy, wind-blown country.

Everhart calls attention to the fact that West Texas terraces lose some height to the winds each year, which means they gradually lose their effectiveness and if neglected too long will eventually be topped with water from a hard rain and then gullied.

NEW YORK (U) — Having won his four-month fight to purchase the Philadelphia Athletics and transfer the franchise to Kansas City, industrialist Arnold Johnson today tackled the problem of hiring a field and general manager.

He may disclose some of his plans at a press conference today.

"Elated by the 6-2 vote of approval given him by the American League, Johnson yesterday said he had an open mind on the managerial situation. He said he had talked to no one about the job but had many applications.

It was learned that Lou Boudreau, deposed manager of the Boston Red Sox, has the inside track to the field managing job, and Parke Carroll, who was business manager of the New York Yankees Kansas City farm club in the American Assn., is a top candidate for general manager.

Johnson's architects have been surveying the Kansas City park for weeks and are ready to begin increasing the seating capacity from 17,000 to 35,000 before the 1955 season, and to about 45,000 by 1956.

Johnson obtained control of the Kansas City ball park when he purchased Yankee Stadium from Yankee owners Del Webb and Dan Topping for 6 1/2 million dollars Dec. 17. He then made arrangements to sell the park to the city of Kansas City and lease it back for five years. The city has guaranteed one-million paid attendance per year for three years or Johnson can move his franchise somewhere else.

Under terms of the deal, Johnson will pay $450,000 each to Roy and Earle Mack for the 163 shares each owns. He already has paid Connie Mack $604,000 for his 302 shares. He must pick up a $1,200,000 mortgage held by the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. and must also pay off debts estimated by him at $800,000. He will get back, however, $1,675,000 by the sale of Connie Mack Stadium to President Bob Carpenter of the Philadelphia Phillies.

"I am the happiest man in the world," Johnson said. "It was the toughest fight I have had in my life."

Were it not for the switch in sentiment of Walter O. (Spike) Briggs, president of the Detroit Tigers, the shift would have been blocked. A three-fourths vote is needed for a franchise shift and had Briggs stuck to his original position, Detroit would have joined with Washington and Cleveland in rejecting Johnson's bid.

Briggs and Clark Griffith, 84-year-old president of the Senators, had been violently opposed to the shift.

"I wanted harmony in the league," Briggs explained later. "I was sick and tired of all the wrangling. I knew if I voted against the move, we'd be back where we started from and the wrangling probably would go on all winter and into the next season. I think now we'll be straightened out once and for all."

As part of the 3 1/2-million-dollar deal, Johnson agreed to sell his interest in Yankee Stadium, home of the Yankees, within 90 days.

Helioscope Added To Pimlico Race

BALTIMORE (U) — The Maryland Jockey Club announced today that Helioscope, one of the contenders for the 1954 championship among 3-year-olds, has been added to the field for the $50,000 Pimlico Special on Nov. 20.

Officials said William G. Hall Jr., owner of Helioscope, accepted the bid to enter his horse in the mile and three-sixteenths race.

The field now numbers eight out of an original list of 14 prospective starters. Others expected to start are Fisherman, Hasty Road, Cheyenne, Parole, Jet Action, Harzeypapa and King Maple.

A. J. Crevolin's Determiner, A. L. Birch's Timely Tip and Wheatley Stable's Full Flight have been invited, but the owners have not yet declared their intentions.

Helioscope dropped a half-length decision to Jet Action in the Roamer Handicap last Saturday while giving away 11 pounds. He previously had won the Select Handicap, the Olympic, Benjamin Franklin and Trenton Handicaps and finished second in the Arlington Classic.

Someone else hits the front," said Sedgman, who currently is playing with Kramer's troupe.

"We are in one of those lulls at the moment and it is taking quite a while for the amateurs to come out of it," he said. "Amateur tennis at the present time lacks that hero—a world hero who spurs on all other players to knock off his crown."

Sedgman obviously was thinking of the past season when no one played at a high level. The major championships of the world were divided among several players with Vir Seixas winning the United States title—the last big one.

MELBOURNE (U) — Frank Sedgman, who almost singlehandedly brought the Davis Cup back to Australia, today blamed Jack Kramer for what he termed "a definite decline in world amateur tennis standards."

Writing in the Melbourne Sun, Sedgman, the 1952 Wimbledon champion who now is a touring professional, described Kramer as a "certain wily American gent," who caused amateur tennis to suffer because he was able to buy up the best amateurs.

"After each contract has been signed, I'm always has been a bull among the amateurs until someone else hits the front," said Sedgman, who currently is playing with Kramer's troupe.

Majors Is Big Track Winner

Clyde Majors raced to first place in the feature event of the stock car races at the Big Spring Speedway Sunday, after he had set the stage by winning the semi-feature.

Driving Car 4, Majors beat out Raymond Hamby in the 15-lap 'main event.' Third was Shorty Hamby.

Shorty Hamby was second to Majors in the semi-final while Raymond Hamby wound up in the 'show' position.

The Australian Pursuit, also won by Majors, was marred by a minor mishap, Shorty Hamby's Car 2 flipped over and landed on its side but no injuries resulted. That particular race covered five laps.

Richard Caultie, driving Car 58, won a special race from D. A. Sellers. That event went four laps.

Majors also prevailed in the Fast Car Heat, which went eight laps, while Raymond Hamby wasn't far off his pace. Shorty Hamby was third across the finish line.

In the Slow Car Heat, which went six laps, Raymond Hamby crossed the finish line first, followed by Shorty Hamby.

Majors set the pace in the Trophy Dash, beating Raymond Hamby to the wire.

The stock car racing season will end here next Sunday, at which time the public will be admitted to the track free of charge.

FRANK MURDOCK

IN TAG MATCH

Ali Bey Teams With Murdock

It's a tag team match for wrestling fans at the Big Spring arena tonight, featuring the recently conquered champions, Pepper Gomez and Gory Guerrero, against a couple of would-be champs, Ali Bey of Texas and Frank Murdock of Texas.

The matches are now being staged in the Howard County Fair building near the rodeo grounds and Webb Air Base.

Guerrero and Gomez, two of the more brilliant wrestlers with Mexican backgrounds, were recently swamped out of their Southwest States junior heavyweight tag team championship by Bob Geigel of Iowa and Doc Gallagher of New Jersey. But while they had it, and while they were contending for it, the Latin-American boys were giving it everything they had. They still do, and they propose to challenge the champs again just at any time.

Arizona Urged To Quit Series

TUCSON, Ariz. (U) — Injuries received by University of Arizona football players in the game here Saturday night won by Texas Tech, 28-14, have brought a cry for breaking of the football relationship between the two schools.

One of the demands for the break in athletic relations came today from William R. Mathews, editor and publisher of the Arizona Daily Star. In his column "Tuesday Morning Quarterback," Mathews said, "no more football with Texas Tech in any kind of circumstances."

Another who asked for the break was Roy Drachman, prominent Tucson realtor, who told the Towns-cats, downtown supporters of the Arizona team, "A lot of people feel we should break off athletic relationship with Texas Tech. The time has come to tell them we won't play them."

Coch Warren Woodson of Arizona refused to make any comments on the suggestions as did J. F. McKee, director of athletics. Woodson denied telling Jack Murphy, sports editor of the San Diego, Calif., Union in a telephone conversation that "this thing might blow up into breaking off relations with Tech," Murphy had quoted Woodson as saying that.

One of the Arizona players injured in the game was Art Lupino, Arizona tailback who has led the nation in rushing and scoring. He came out of the contest with upper and lower lips badly cut, one tooth chipped and one loosened. Woodson said he hopes Lupino will be able to play in this week's game against Texas Western at El Paso.

Two players were lost to the team, at least for Saturday's game. They are Max Burnett, Arizona fullback, who suffered a broken nose, head and face injuries, and guard Glenn Bowers who suffered a recurrence of a back injury and may be out for the season.

At Lubbock, head coach DeWitt Weaver of Texas Tech, explained his game-time comment expressing doubt as to the legitimacy of Burnett's injury which stopped the clock six seconds before the half. When play was resumed, Arizona scored.

Weaver said, "The reason I felt as I did was that Burnett started the second half and did so well."

Bill Holmes, public relations director for Texas Tech, said at Lubbock:

"The injuries weren't all one way. Several of the Raiders were hurt and quite likely two players won't appear against Tulsa Saturday. But we feel that these injuries are simply the result of hard, clean play."

UCLA Again Leads AP Football Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

By a comfortable margin in a whopping big ballot, UCLA retained its ranking as the nation's leading college football team in this week's Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

An even 300 votes were tabulated to confirm the high-scoring Uclans' claim to the top place over the challenges of Ohio State and Oklahoma, leaders in earlier polls this season.

UCLA was first on 117 of the 300 ballots. Ohio State got 89 first-place votes.

Points were tabulated on the usual basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

The first five teams held the same places they dropped into during the general reshuffling of the past two weeks, but several important changes were registered elsewhere in the first 10.

After UCLA, with 2,600 points, and Ohio State, with 2,504, came Oklahoma, Arkansas, Notre Dame, Army, Mississippi, Southern California, Iowa and Navy in order.

Air Raid Test Held In Atlantic States

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—A surprise test air alert, the first on a nationwide basis since the dim-out days of World War II, summoned civil defense officials to their posts throughout the Middle Atlantic Seaboard area last night. The Eastern Air Defense Command released the warning—that enemy aircraft had been tracked on an approach to the East Coast. The yellow alert, indicating possibility of an enemy attack by air, was flashed from West Chester, Region 2 headquarters of the Federal Civil Defense Administration. Six states and the District of Columbia were involved. The general public participated in Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia and the city of Baltimore and five surrounding counties. The rest of Maryland was not affected. In Pennsylvania, Delaware and the District of Columbia, only civil defense officials were alerted. An hour and 40 minutes after the yellow alert, sirens wailed out the "red" alert—attack imminent. Fifteen minutes later the all-clear sounded. The purpose of the drill was to test the region's communications setup and alerting procedure. CD officials were told only that the test would come sometime between Monday and Wednesday. In theory, the city of Norfolk was leveled by an atom bomb, "killing" 69,529. "If we ever have an enemy attack," one CD spokesman said, "this alert proves we can mobilize in this region within an hour."

U. S. Oil Output Marks Net Gain

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The United States' daily average production of crude oil and condensate increased 60,300 barrels to 6,224,825 barrels during the week ended Nov. 6, the Oil and Gas Journal's survey showed today. More than half the net gain was the result of a 37,300-barrel advance in Texas to 2,634,875 barrels. Kansas had the week's largest loss, 3,900 barrels to 316,400. The Journal figured 1954 cumulative production at 1,962,703,425 barrels compared to 2,015,648,169 a year ago. Other sizeable increases were in Oklahoma, up 5,700 barrels to 489,400; Louisiana, up 5,325 to 629,825 and New Mexico, 3,425 to 210,100.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The $1,332,571.36 estate of Bing Crosby's wife Dixie Lee, who died in 1952 at the age of 40, will amount to $550,616.96 after payment of debts, taxes, administration expenses and fees. The state inheritance tax appraiser reported the figures yesterday. Mrs. Crosby provided trust funds for Bing and their four sons and for Bing's mother, Mrs. Catherine Crosby, and Dixie's father, Evan E. Wyatt.

Ready For Anything

LINCOLN, R. I. (AP)—The five members of the Town Council last night appointed themselves special policemen to help Police Chief William J. Wright and his seven-man full-time force.

Council President Robert H. Ensign said the appointments brought to "about 800" the number of special policemen in Lincoln, a town of 11,000 which contains Lincoln Downs race track. Special policemen are paid by assignment.

With Open Arms

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP)—For 24 hours after he escaped from the Colorado Penitentiary dairy farm, Guinn Stanley, 27, trudged without food and water across rolling plains. Twenty-five miles from the prison, he stumbled to the door

Sitdown Strike

KING'S LYNN, England (AP)—Mrs. Evelyn Wright, a 56-year-old landlady, told a judge yesterday she captured a burglar by tripping him and then sitting on him. Mrs. Wright weighs 210 pounds. The flattened suspect, Robert Taylor, weighs 135. Taylor, 40, was held for trial on a burglary charge.

Into Their Own Hands

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese train passengers have scored revenge for down-trodden commuters everywhere. About 30 of them, delayed on a branch line on Hokkaido Island, missed connections with another train. They asked the station master to stop the next train, a through express. The station master refused, so the passengers gathered on the tracks, forced the express to halt, and climbed aboard.

Mitchell Praises Texas For Help

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Texas congressional delegation, headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and Speaker-designate Sam Rayburn, is giving the Democratic National Committee excellent cooperation, Democratic Chairman Stephen Mitchell says.

Mitchell, here yesterday on a swing through the South, said however that Texas Gov. Allan Shivers "had no contact" with him or the national committee. Neither, he said, did the State Democratic Executive Committee, headed by George Sandlin of Austin.

Mitchell said funds for the Democratic Party, despite the cleavage of Shivers and the state committee with the national organization, ranked second in the nation.

The state contributed a total of $116,400 in 1953 and 1954, he said, running second only to Pennsylvania.

Mitchell, about to retire as chairman of the national committee, said he announced last year that he would resign after the general election. He stressed that Shivers' repeated calls for his resignation had nothing to do with his decision.

"Shivers has nothing to do with my resignation," he said. "He knew I had decided to resign when he made the statement."
