On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

Everybody knows by now that Loraine is to hold a Golden Jubilee to celebrate the founding of Loraine early in October. Every citizen, I am sure, will want the jubilee to be a success in every way and will do everything to make it so.

One thing that just about everyone can join in doing is to clean and beautify our town. Every home should be brightened up if at all possible, all weeds and rubbish of every kind cleaned from the premises in order that our town may present a clean face to our many visitors during the celebration.

Business places, too, ought to be brightened up with paint and all unsightly awnings removed or repaired. There are a few old buildings about town that are unoccupied at this time that are badly in need of repair. Maybe the owners feel they cannot afford to put out any more money on them because they are vacant but if they are to be rented at all any renter would want them to be presentable. No one wants to do business in an old run-down building. If they are fixed up for the celebration they may be rented to someone who comes here during that time.

The jubilee committee strongly urges all to join in the clean-up and fix-up campaign during the next month or two.

Farmers Guessing On Soil Bank

Waco (Spl.)—The president of the Texas Farm Bureau has declared that soil bank regulations had subjected cotton farmers to a "guessing game" and discriminated against farmers who guessed wrong in planting their allotments this year.

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Benson, TFB President J. Walter Hammond said that "the only possible means of dealing fairly and justly with cotton farmers would be to make soil bank payments on the basis of normal yields, regardless of whether or not cotton was planted."

He referred to drought areas where some farmers had dry planted cotton in order to maintain their acreage history. These farmers, he said could receive only the minimum payment of $6 per acre for land put into the soil bank. On the other hand, he pointed out, other farmers in the same drought area who did not plant any of their cotton allotment acreage could receive payments based on their normal yields.

Appraisal committees ascertained yield of planted acres put into the soil bank. In areas where cotton did not come up the yield is automatically appraised at zero. The $6 per acre is a minimum payment for cotton under soil bank regulations.

Hammond said that his office has received many complaints from drought areas protesting the "discriminatory" regulations against farmers who planted their allotments.

He asked Benson to investigate the possibility of a reinterpretation of regulations by the state ASC committee. He added that in case the committee had made a correct interpretation, the regulations should be changed to enable all cotton farmers to take advantage of soil bank benefits.

Emergency Hay Program Requested

WACO, Texas—Texas Farm Bureau President, J. Walter Hammond has urged Governor Allan Shivers to request an emergency federal hay program for drought-stricken Texas livestock producers.

In a telegram to the Governor Hammond said the present federal feed grain assistance program is inadequate to meet the existing need for roughage for cattle.

"I strongly urge that you request Secretary of Agriculture Benson to institute adequate direct subsidy payments to eligible producers in Texas drought-designated counties," Hammond wired the Governor. He suggested that county ASC committees could determine eligibility of producers.

"Direct payments would permit purchasing of hay on the open market," Hammond said. "This would expedite the hay program and reduce administrative costs."

The Texas Farm Bureau president said that his organization "deems immediate action necessary to enable producers to retain foundation stock and to prevent a disastrous run on the market."

Eligible producers in drought-designated counties are able to buy feed concentrates under the present feed program. Livestock producers and dairymen can get $1 per 100 pounds reduction for feed fed to foundation herds.

Hammond said that such feed concentrates did not meet the needs of livestock for a "filler" feed such as hay.

THERE'D BE NO RAINCHECKS—The future home games of the Brooklyn Dodgers may be played under a huge plastic dome, if current plans are followed through. Architect Buckminster Fuller claims the huge, cup-shaped roof over the baseball field would be 300 feet high and 750 feet in diameter. The air-conditioned, all-weather sports center would have a seating capacity of more than 55,000, as compared to 32,000 for Ebbets Field. Artist Frank Tinsley envisions a cut-away view of the finished stadium, above. This artist's conception of the huge sports facility is from July issue of Mechanix Illustrated.

Delicious Dish in a Jiffy: Frozen Chicken

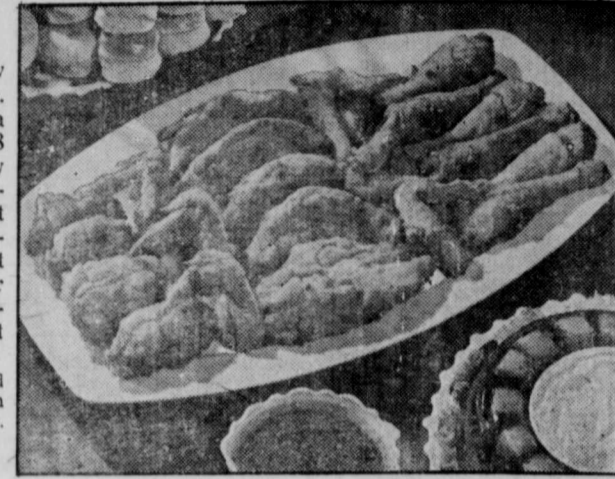

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

In many markets you now find frozen fried chicken. Each package contains a whole chicken cut up in 8 pieces plus the giblets, fully cooked, requiring only heating to serve. You may heat it in the oven for 30 minutes in its foil carton. Or it can be heated in the broiler for 10 minutes. For quickest serving, heat in deep fat for 5 minutes.

The frozen packaged fried chicken comes out of the oven golden crisp, tender and juicy. Serve with this sauce.

FOR JULY 15 Bible Comment:

'Members One Of Another' Is Christian Ideal

THE disciples, a comparatively small fellowship living in a hostile world, possessed all things in common. It was a matter altogether of voluntary action. There was no power forcing those who had possessions to sell them and put them into the common resources.

Their common faith and their common sufferings had drawn them together, and made possible such an experience. Their society was vastly different from ours, for they had no greed, no selfishness, no self-seeking. All were "members one of another" and each had his part in giving and receiving.

Such an ideal condition did not last long in the early church, for there began murmuring concerning the unjust distribution of common funds and the preference that was given for some over others.

It being the purpose of the early Christian church to do right, the apostles sought immediately to adjust this matter, but they themselves felt that their ministry was the ministry of the word of God. Therefore, they proposed to the disciples that responsible men be picked who could attend effectually and wisely to the economic adjustments within the church.

We are disposed to regard this as the original institution of deacons, and these who were chosen were ordained for their particular tasks by the laying on of the apostles' hands.

This spirit—of organizing the common resources of a group for the welfare of all—ought to be always prevalent in the church, and should represent the goal of our society and our nation.

THE HOPE CHEST

Every young lady wants a "hope chest"—a place where she can keep things she hopes will be useful to her later on in life.

... We could all take a lesson from the young lady—that is, we could keep a "hope chest" in which we place our savings so that we'll save some money to fall back on when we have need for it.

Of course you wouldn't want to keep your savings in a cedar chest because the risk is too great—your bank is the place to keep your savings.

STRICTLY FRESH
GRASS roots movement: when wife gets hubby to mow the lawn.
Now that the spirit's gone out of the Bridley Murphy controversy, we'll have to depend on politicians to put us into those deep sleeps.
A New York States put his dog in his car, and turned to talk to a friend. The car rolled down an incline, went through a block of park, ran over 13 steps, crossed a road, went 30 feet through a playfield, rode over a six-foot ledge, landed in a sparsely wooded area, passed between two trees with inches to spare, crossed another street, and came to a rest against a park bench. The man chased the car, got back in and drove off; the dog was a little nervous.

It takes a heap of heaping to make a heap of heap.
He was a brash young politico, who thought he was aiding the party, but the old-timers just said, "Sit down, you're robbing the vote."

happy vacations begin in a Chevy

You'll love to travel in it, because it loves to travel! When you get this Chevrolet out on the road, you'll want to keep going—and so will the whole family.

Of course, even in a Chevrolet the happiest vacations may involve one or two minor problems. Like fidgety small fry who want gallons of water and keep asking if you're almost there. The big things, though, are beautifully taken care of by this roomy Chevrolet's smooth and easy way of going. That's for sure.

The fact is, few cars at any price hold the road with Chevy's grace, with its solid feeling of stability. And with horsepower up to 225, Chevrolet moves out like a whiplash, for safer passing. It's no wonder that so many people who used to buy higher priced cars are changing to Chevrolet! Stop by soon for a ride.
