Governor Sterling Disapproves Prohibition Referendum

Says He Has No Authority To Stop Plan

Disapproved Action Of State Committee, He Declares

DALLAS (AP)—Governor Sterling Thursday expressed disapproval of the state democratic committee in ordering a prohibition referendum in the primary. He said he personally opposed the referendum before the committee acted because he did not think the question should be injected in this campaign. Such is still his position, he said, but that not being a member he could do nothing toward having the committee meet to rescind the order.

HOUSTON, (AP) — Democratic State Chairman W. O. Higgins issued a statement Thursday denying that confusion exists in the minds of state executive or county committeemen regarding the expense in connection with the prohibition referendum ballot, excepting "such confusion they may wish to create themselves."

His statement was prompted by Dallas efforts to get the executive committee to rescind the referendum order. He added the next meeting to be called by the chairman would be held for the purpose of canvassing returns of the July primary. Huggins said the executive committee was furnishing all ballots for the entire state at a cost of only a few hundred dollars and tally sheets free where so desired. He said not a dime was needed for paying elections workers taking care of the referendum ballot.

Home Town Talk by Beddy

The loyal few who made up the good will party that advertised Big Spring's Carnival of Values in neighboring towns Wednesday should receive the thanks of everyone in town, whether they do receive such thanks or not.

A lot of people will be here June 30, July 1 and 2 for a bunch of entertainment provided at very low cost to the 75 merchants who are footing the bill for something that will benefit every business man or company doing business here.

Skeptics arise at all times and, whether they mean to do so or not, interfere with and throw obstacles in the way of worthy enterprises. This oftentimes helps indirectly by causing those willing to work for the common good to redouble their efforts and, in the end, accomplish more.

This Carnival of Values is going to pay bigger returns on the small sum invested than anything heretofore attempted for the purpose of bringing new customers to town.

The two trade excursions in connection with the Carnival would be worth the time and effort if they did not result directly in bringing anyone to town on either of the three days of the program.

Big Spring's greatest opportunity is extension of her trade territory. Get acquainted with people in communities within 50 to 100 miles of Big Spring by paying them visits and being cordial toward them in distressed period and they will return the compliment in substantial ways when times are better. They will even now, in much larger numbers than you may expect, visit the city.

Towns that refuse to die in such times as these will most certainly come out on top when conditions improve.

Big Spring can come out of this flying and keep on traveling right on ahead of a lot of towns if she will show the proper amount of intestinal fortitude now, when it takes just that to stay on there and ride 'em.

Friends of Judge Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, candidate for governor, meeting here tonight, will organize Howard county for him. Judge Hunter is an estimable gentleman whose greatest recommendation is that those who have known him longest and best are his warmest supporters. We do not expect to vote for him unless he goes into the run-off primary with Mrs. Ferguson. If the incumbent were not running for his second term we would support

Other delegates to the republican national convention at Chicago were loud in their praise of the cool lake breezes, but not Edward A. Rasmussen, national committeeman from Alaska. He wanted an electric fan as soon as he arrived.

Beauty Revue At R & R Ritz This Evening

Merchants Announce Representatives In Carnival Preliminary

Three of the most beautiful of a select field of bathing beauties will be chosen Thursday evening to represent Big Spring in the "Carnival of Values" revue here June 30, July 1 and 2. The preliminary revue, presenting all local girls, will be a part of the first evening performance at the Ritz theatre.

Pretty young women, presenting the firm names of prominent businesses, will file across the Ritz stage to the music of Gerald Liberty's orchestra. Somewhere in the audience secret judges will be eyeing the contestants.

During the afternoon girls entered in the contest may have their hair dressed free at the Crawford Beauty Shoppe, according to an announcement from officials.

Those to appear in the preliminary revue are Pauline Hubbard, representing Wacker's; Maxine Thomas, Waits Jewelry Store; Laverne Stewart representing O'Rear's Bootery, Theodosia Fuller representing Collins Brothers, Marguerite Tucker representing Albert M. Fisher Company, Eva Todd representing J. & W. Fisher, Dorothy Frost, representing L. C. Burr and Company, Minnie Mae Slaton representing Crawford Hotel.

Margaret McDonald Entertains Club

Miss Margaret McDonald gave the members of the Vacation Bridge Club a charming party Wednesday afternoon. She carried out a color scheme of red and yellow in her party accessories and in both the salad and ice course.

Doris, Ruby and Hazel Smith and Dorothy Dublin were the guests.

Hazel made high score.

Members attending were, Dorothy Mae Miller, Elnora Guthrie, Mildred Herring and Ruth Mellinger.

Elnora will be the next hostess.

Trade Party Works Hard On Long Trip

Day's Journey Carries Carnival Message To Large Number

Fifty citizens of Big Spring returned home at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday very tired but satisfied in the knowledge that a hard day's work as members of the good will party advertising Big Spring's Carnival of Values, June 30, July 1 and 2, had effectively carried a message of value to the city into a dozen communities.

The party visited Ira, Hermleigh, Snyder, Gail, Lamesa, Sparenberg, Ackerly and Knott during the afternoon after having stopped in Coahoma, Westbrook, Colorado, Loraine, Roscoe and Sweetwater in the morning.

With C. T. Watson and Sim O'Neal speakers, V. H Flewellen, Joe Galbraith and a squad of men as distributors of advertising material and the William Frank Martin Legion Post's crack Drum and Bugle Corps going over in a large way for entertainment of crowds in each town the delegation was pleased to hear a large number of favorable comments from residents of the towns visited.

After appearances in the town between Big Spring and Colorado the party was welcomed in the latter place by Manager Jimmy Greene of the chamber of commerce who with the sheriff of Mitchell county and others had met the motorcade of 14 automobiles at Westbrook.

At Snyder a fellow-townsman, Judge James T. Brooks of the 32nd district special court, joined in the welcome to the party. Lunch was taken there.

Lamesa had a representative on hand to officially welcome the party. Andy Brown was the principal host at Ackerly.

Taxes Paid On Partial Plan

Property Owners Save Part Of Delinquent Tax Interest

Owners of property in Big Spring upon which city taxes have become delinquent are taking advantage of the Big Spring plan whereby part of the interest charge made upon payment of such taxes is saved by the taxpayer.

City Manager E. V. Spence said Thursday payments are being received daily. Letters to all who owe delinquent taxes to the city government are being mailed giving details of the plan.

The city is taking partial payments of delinquent taxes. After payment of any part of the amount any taxpayer owes accumulation of six per cent interest on that portion. Receipts are issued for each partial payment and a receipt for entire amount given when the full tax bill is paid by any individual property owner.

Tom Hutton Dies In Wayne, Ohio

Word has been received here of the death of Tom Hutton in Wayne, Ohio on Sunday. Mr. Hutton was formerly an oil man residing here. His wife was at his bedside when the end came. She was Miss Cora Whiteside of Abilene before her marriage.

Burial was made in Wayne on Monday, according to a wire from Mrs. Hutton to Mrs. A. M. Ripps of Big Spring.

Jacksonville, Fla., Woman Hurt Here

Mrs. Julia Henderson of Jacksonville, Fla., who was en route to the western states by automobile, received serious injuries here Wednesday when she fell on a sidewalk in front of the Settles hotel.

She underwent an operation at Big Spring hospital for a bone injury sustained in the fall.

100 Delegates To Attend Lions Division Convention Here Tuesday

More than one hundred Lion delegates are expected here Tuesday when Julian C. Hyer, international president and Sam Braswell, district governor, spend the day here in conference. Numbers of cities have already written C. T. Watson, chamber of commerce manager, that their delegates will attend.

Lubbock, El Paso, Lamesa, Colorado, Sterling City, Stanton and Midland are among those who have made reservations for Tuesday.

The morning and afternoon will be spent in conferences between Hyer and Braswell and the visiting Lions as well as members of the local club. Tuesday at noon the visiting delegates will be feted to a dinner by the Rotary club of this city.

BONUS ARMY MEDICAL UNIT, ENROUTE TO WASHINGTON, IN BIG SPRING DURING NIGHT

Heralded by P. D. Burke, advance agent, traveling by airplane, a party including two doctors, six nurses and 13 orderlies and a cook, in automobiles and trucks reached Big Spring late Wednesday night and announced itself the bonus army emergency medical unit, enroute to Washington to minister to the ex-service men concentrated there in support of cash payment of the bonus.

Burke, speaking for the party, said it was under authorization and in communication with Commander Waters of the Bonus Army in Washington, D. C. Waters wired them Wednesday at Pecos, he said, urging that they reach there as quickly as possible. Waters said, according to Burke, that there were 19,000 men encamped in the national capital without adequate opportunity for medical attention.

From Los Angeles

The unit left Los Angeles last Thursday, said Burke. He travels in a J-5 Pitcairn mail-wing biplane, belonging to an ex-service man and piloted by the owner's son, Bill Cooper. He reached here at midafternoon Wednesday and arranged through local ex-service men for quarters for the unit in the Douglass hotel, Camp Coleman, Camp Mayo and Sunset Camp.

The party reached here about 10:30 p. m. and expected to leave for Abilene early Thursday afternoon.

Burke took off for Abilene about 1:30 p. m. Thursday.

Dr. R. E. Menary with Dr. C. A. Bolton head the unit, which carries its own commissary and medical supplies.

A corps of registered nurses, including two who have seen war service, is included. The nurses are Ruth Samuelson, Myrtle Crawford, Nan McGhee, Mary McCrary, Sue Roberts, B. Fru and Mrs. Menary.

"Dr. Menary and Dr. Bolton, who served as medical officers during the war, declare that they took up arms then to minister to American soldiers as much as to whip Germany," said Burke. "Today they are taking up the arms of their profession to minister to those soldiers," he added.

Cash "Pitched In"

The party left Los Angeles with a treasury made up of cash "pitched in" by its members. Automobiles being used belong to indi-

Candidate In City Reviews His Platform

Monte Warner Says Cause Of Depression Very Obvious

Monte Warner of San Angelo, oil man, lawyer, student of government, who "drinks wet and votes wet," and who is a candidate for congressman-at-large, Place No. 3, reached Big Spring on the 5:30 a. m. plane Thursday from California, where he has been for several months, and announced that he was in earnest in his candidacy, which was launched after correspondence between himself, in California, and friends in San Angelo, where he has resided several years.

"I cannot understand why anyone cannot figure out the cause of this depression," said Warner. "It is here because a few people have all the money. I am for immediate payment of the soldier's bonus with new currency, whether supported by bonds or not. Deflate the currency? Yes. That's exactly what must be done. I had some equities in properties. They've depreciated in value to practically nothing. Issue new currency and you help bring back value of such equities."

It is foolish for the people to elect men to congress who have not prepared themselves for statesmanship as a profession, declared Warner.

"This idea of needing business men in congress and other governmental position is tommy rot," declared the handsome smiling native Pennsylvanian, who had studied in several of the foremost universities and served as secretary to a congressman.

"Government is a profession, not a business. Business men make notoriously poor statesmen. Public office-filling is a service and not for profits, any more than the clergy or the teaching profession are," he declared.

Warner declared that he set out with the express purpose of preparing himself for service in congress. He came to Texas in 1917 as an army aviator and has resided in San Angelo since 1926. He studied geology in Denison University, Ohio and specialized in government in the school of foreign service of Georgetown university. Later he receive a degree in law in the University of Wyoming and went to Washington as a secretary to a congressman from that state.

On the liquor question Warner said the rich were "flopping over" to the wet side because they 'see more taxes must be paid and consider return of liquor a method by which the people may be taxed in a painless manner."

"I would use a tax on liquor for a nation-wide advertising campaign for the promotion of temperance, not prohibition," he declared.

Tuesday night Warner spoke at an armory in El Paso to a large crowd, including several hundred bonus marchers. He flew from Los Angeles.

Cullen F. Thomas Is Out Of Race

DALLAS (UP)—Cullen F. Thomas whose friends filed his name for congress-at-large is definitely out of the race. He said he decided not to enter what he called the "hodge podge scramble."

Mann-Currie Test Reports Slight Shows

Glasscock County Wildcat Drilled From 3,425 Feet

Mann & Currie's No. 1 D. V. Poston (fee) in section 26, block 34, township 3 south, Glasscock county, had a puff of gass and a trace of oil at 3,405 feet and an odor of gass and a little free oil at 3,420-25 feet, according to Thursday reported.

The well was drilling ahead from 3,425 feet.

Schermerhorn Oil company's No. 5 Kloh et al, in section 13, block 33, township 2 south T & P survey in the proven area of the Glasscock county section of the field, made 100 barrels per hour initially. It is between the Roberts-Settles and the Phillips-Coffee areas.

Noel T. Lawson, A. E. Service and others' No. 1 M. M. Edwards, had drilled to 800 feet Wednesday morning. Elevation is 2,577 feet. Location is 1,650 feet from the east line and 200 feet from the south line of section 16, block 33, township 3 south, T & P survey, Glasscock county.

Hunter Club To Be Formed This Evening

Wichita Falls Candidate For Governor Being Supported

Supporters of Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls, candidate for governor in the Democratic primary, will organize Howard county for him this evening at a mass meeting in the district court room with several local men who have known Judge Hunter a number of years in brief addresses.

Abolition of the ad valorem tax under which he charged 70 per cent of the state's wealth is escaping taxation was urged by Mr. Hunter at Terrell Wednesday.

He urged substitution of a blended tax system requiring everyone living in Texas or doing business in the state to pay in proportion to ability.

"Under the present system it is possible for the small home owner to pay from 84 to 132 times as much taxes in proportion to his investment as some of the big combines pay," said Hunter.

He urged "subjugation" of public utilities and a statewide valuation of properties as a means of detecting any watered stock used as an argument for high rates.

"The utilities are taking more than seventy millions annually out of Texas in excess profits," said Hunter.

He said "manipulated," legalized theft," permitted this.

Settles Mezz Reserved For Baby Contest

Mothers Urged To Enter Babies For Carnival Prizes

The entire mezzanine floor of the Settles hotel will be used during the first day of the "Carnival of Values" for the better Baby Show, according to Mrs. W. D. McDonald, in charge of the contest.

Paige Benbow, manager of the Settles, announced Thursday that he would furnish quarters for the first-day feature.

Starting at 10:30 the entire program will end at 12:00, said Mrs. McDonald. Following the judging of the babies, a special program will be given from 11:30 to noon. Judges will be Drs. Charles K. Bivings, J. R. Dillard, and P. W. Malone.

Competing babies will be divided into three classes; under six months, from six to twelve months, and from twelve months to two years. Grand prize for the best baby in all three classes will be a 11x16 photograph.

First prize in each group will be a 8x10 photograph. Second prizes consist of two sun suits and one mederia baby dress, and third prizes are silk shoes and baby togs. There is no admission or entrance fee.

Mrs. McDonald urged mothers to enter the contest by seeing herself, calling at the chamber of commerce offices, or Mrs. Louis Paine in the Settles or Mrs. Garland Woodward, assistants to Mrs. McDonald.

Business men who made the east-north trip report enthusiastic reception in every town visited. Monday a second trip will be run to the south and west touching Sterling City, Forsan, Garden City, Odessa, Midland and Stanton.

Ten teams have entered the three day diamond tournament to be staged as a part of the carnival. Among those listing entries are Colorado, Ackerly, Coahoma, Forsan, Vealmoor, Fairview, Hartwells, Highway, and Big Spring. Grounds on West Third street are being put into shape for the occasion. Lois Madison is in charge.

As an added thrill to the already exciting program arranged for the motorcycle brigade, a cycle potato race will be staged. This is accomplished with the aid of a young woman who rides the motorcycle with her partner, and who does the "potato" work. There will also be a motorcycle polo game and several races. It is thought this event will be staged east of Highland Park.

A platform and amplifying systems will be installed at the east entrance of the court house, C. T. Watson, chamber of commerce manager, said. It is here that political speakers will present their platforms to carnival crowds.

Additional contributions to the carnival budget are being received by C. T. Watson. He urged those who have not yet subscribed to do so. This affair is being sponsored by seventy-seven local merchants.

Connally Talks Before Veterans Of Confederacy

RICHMOND, Va. (UP)—A bare regiment of the 600,000 gallant men of General Robert E. Lee, who battled General U. S. Grant's army for four years in the war between the States formally opened the 42nd annual reunion of the United Confederate veterans here today.

There was wide discussion among the now feeble veterans as to whether their cause, in fact, was the "lost cause." United States Senator Thomas Connally, of Texas, in addressing the companion 37th annual convention of the sons of Confederate veterans last night told them:

"I do not like the words 'lost cause.' No such example of heroism and gallantry can be called lost. The example set by southern women during that war can never be declared lost; nor is Jackson's skill and the towering leadership of Lee lost to military science."

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Fahrenkamp returned to El Paso Thursday morning after visiting their sons here.

Proxy Taken From Tarver By Governor

Finds Substitute To Vote With Roosevelt' Supporters

DALLAS, (AP)—Governor Sterling announced here Thursday that he had withdrawn the proxy delegate at large from the hands of W. A. Tarver, who arrived in Chicago Wednesday, because of Tarver's statement that he would vote the proxy for Senator Walsh, Montana, for permanent chairman of the convention. The governor said, "a vote for Walsh is a vote for Roosevelt."

He added, "as an original Garner man, I can not allow the proxy to be used against him in any such manner." He was undecided as to whom to give his proxy. Governor Sterling said that the selection of Jouett Shouse as permanent chairman and Maury Hughes, as a Texas representative on the platform committee is "perfectly agreeable to me."

Wesley Memorial Methodist Church Holding Revival

A revival meeting which began Sunday night is still in progress at the Wesley Memorial Methodist church with Reverend R. H. Gates of Stanton conducting services. Reverend Jimmy Culpepper is pastor of the church.

Three College Boys Killed On Freight

OSAWATOMIE, Kan (UP) — Three itinerant youths, all well dressed and one of them a college graduate, were killed today when structural steel in a box car shifted during switching operations in the Missouri Pacific yards.

They were identified as George E. Gallagher, 22, college graduate of New Alexandria, Pa.; Robert McManus, 18, Chicago, and Eugene Walters, 22, Maplewood, Mo.

A fourth, Roland Deale, 20, Kirkwood, Mo., received a broken leg and bruises. He was taken to a hospital in Kansas City, Kan.

Trade Denied By Supporters Of Texas Man

Garner Not Seeking Place As Roosevelt's Running Mate

CHICAGO (AP) — Presidential candidates thickened the convention scene Thursday without lessening the uncertainty whom the Democrats will name to oppose Hoover and Curtis.

Alfred E. Smith, 1928 standard bearer, said he did not look for a nomination on the first ballot. "No living person" can tell how long the ballotting will go, he declared.

Senator Jim Reed, Missouri, and Governor William H. Murray, Oklahoma, arrived Thursday. Murray said he did not know who would be nominated, but that it would not be Roosevelt. Reed is for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. However, he indicated he would support the party nominee.

William G. McAdoo, who is to second the Garner nomination, said California's delegation would resist an effort of Roosevelt forces to abrogate the two-thirds nominating rule.

Gilbert Hitchcock, choice of the Rooseveltites for chairman of resolutions committee, declared for a platform emphasizing economic issues instead of prohibition. The reported agreement of Roosevelt-Garner forces that the speaker become the New York governor's running mate were flatly denied in a statement by Walter Woodul, Garner's Texas campaign manager.

WASHINGTON (AP) — John N. Garner is uncertain whether he will go to the national convention, but his "guess" is he won't, he said Thursday. He intended to stay around as long as any business to be done. He added the house was ready to adjourn Saturday night if the senate finished its work.

Operation Performed Upon Senora Calles

BOSTON, (AP)—Senora Calles Thursday underwent a brain operation at Peter Brent Brigham hospital by Doctor Harvey Cushing. Calles and his family remained in their hotel suite to await information from the hospital.

Buff Rookie Allows But Two Safeties

'Big Ed' Heuer Shuts Out Tyler—Santone Wins 17 Inning Game

HOUSTON —"Big Ed" Heuer, husky rookie righthander blanked the Tyler Sports, 4-0 Wednesday night and allowed George Sisler's team only two singles. Not a visitor reached second base. Houston won its 6th straight, marched within a game of the league leading Exporters.

Hollerson of Tyler turned in a magnificent effort, allowing only one earned run. His support was faulty.

SAN ANTONIO—Battling for 17 inning, the San Antonio Indians defeated the Fort Worth Panthers, 5-4 here Wednesday for a clean sweep of the series as Larry Cox drove in the winning run with two down after Fitzgerald had doubled over the right field fence, scoring on Cox's hit.

The Indians got an early lead off Pickrel but Southpaw Oribble took the hill in the eighth inning and finished the game to be charged with the defeat.

Fabian Kowalik went the entire route for the Indians.

GALVESTON—Hank Thormahlen, Galveston's southpaw ace, shut out the Dallas Steers here Wednesday night with five hits to give his team mates the final deciding game of the series 4-0. He kept the five blows well scattered and was never in trouble until the ninth when the Steers threatened to score on two hits, but good support helped him out of the hole.

BEAUMONT—Longview won the series with the Beaumont Exporters by winning the second game of Wednesday's doubleheader 6-1 after the league leaders had won the opener, 8-1. The nightcap was a real contest until the last inning when Clift hit a home run and then with two out Scharein, Garms, Bejma and Fuss hit successive singles and Bejma and Fuss worked a double steal to score four runs.

New York Scribes Dispute Decision Awarded Sharkey

NEW YORK—Metropolitan newspapers critics disputed the 2 to 1 vote that gave Jack Sharkey the decision over Max Schmeling.

"It has been the legend," said W. O. McGeehan of the Herald-Tribune, "that a foreign fighter could not get a square deal in the United State, especially in New York. Up to this time I felt that this merely was a legend, but that decision given last night was the worst I have ever seen in peering intently at these things for a quarter of a century or more."

Paul Gallico of the News said "Schmeling's steady pursuit the sting in his left and right and his strong fighting finish were enough to give him the fight."

Damon Runyon of the American said :"Personally I gave Schmeling quite a lead in my score of the rounds and was surprised at the decision."

James P. Dawson of the Times said: "I gave Schmeling nine rounds, Sharkey five and one even . . . Schmeling won, in this writer's opinion, . . . because of a tireless, persistent, unswerving offensive he launched at the opening bell and never once interrupted even in the face of Sharkeys' best blows."

Francis Wallace of the News said: "The worst Schmeling should have had was a draw—and that was not enough to take his championship away."

Richards Vidmer of the Herald-Tribune said: "No longer can the former sailor complain about the breaks, for last night he got perhaps the biggest break a challenger for the heavyweight championship ever received."

HEARD RUMOR

NEW YORK —In the excitement of his warrior's losing the heavyweight championship, Joe Jacobs charged that there had been a deliberate plot, hatching for the past month, to rob Max Schmeling of the title.

"A couple of weeks ago," he charged as he stormed in Schmeling's dressing room, "I told newspapermen and it was printed that I would not allow Schmeling to leave his dressing room if a 'certain referee' was named to officiate in his match with Jack Sharkey.

"But the boxing commission insisted that we would get a square deal, even though I had ever confidence in the source of my information. So we went in and got robbed. And the referee I referred to two weeks ago was the referee in that ring last night, "Gunboat Smith."

HERE ARE THE FACTS
—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

IN its recent confession the Gillette Safety Razor Company told you that, under the stress of introducing a new razor and blade, uniformity had suffered; and told you how our efforts to correct the trouble had resulted in the development of a far superior product.

Several readers have asked us how we can make the bold, positive statement that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades we have ever produced. This is a fair question, and here is our reply: A marvelous new testing machine, recently developed, scientifically proves that these blades have never before been approached in keenness.

We cannot discuss the nature or details of this machine because it is being patented. But we can tell you that it measures microscopic dimensions with unfailing accuracy — revealing with mathematic exactness, actual degrees of razor-blade sharpness. So when we state that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest we have ever made we are basing our assertion upon fact. We know we are right and can prove it.

Further than this—everyone knows that a razor blade must be able to bend without cracking when tightened in the holder. This requires steel of a certain temper not suitable for a keen cutting edge. The problem is to permit flexing and yet have a hard edge that can be ground and stropped for proper shaving performance. Gillette has achieved the solution of this problem in the manufacture of its slotted blades.* These blades are made by a special tempering process that makes the edges exceptionally hard, while the center, of a different temper, flexes easily.

We urge you to try today's Gillette blades—the regular blade in the familiar green package or the BLUE SUPER-BLADE in its blue package, Cellophane wrapped. Do so without risking a cent. If you don't agree they are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades you have ever used, return the package and your dealer will refund your money.

The Gillette Blue Super-Blade

The $2 Kroman De Luxe blade has been withdrawn from production. We offer the Blue Super-Blade as its successor. This sensational blade is far superior to the Kroman and costs considerably less. You pay only a few cents more than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. Its extraordinary shaving performance will convince you that the Blue Blade is the sharpest ever produced. A blue color has been applied to the blade for easy identification. It is contained in a blue package. Cellophane wrapped.

Round-Table Held By Club

Statistics Cited To Support Rising Population Belief

An informal round table discussion on the various interests of the Big Spring citizen constituted the impromptu program at the Wednesday Luncheon Club.

With the president, Jas. Little, in charge of the meeting, members were asked to speak extemporaneously on whatever they cared to.

The one visitor, R. K. McFee, of Akron, O., was introduced and gave several statistical facts regarding the Zeppelin dock in his home town; his brother is assitant superintendent, he said, of the dock.

C. S. Blomshield suggested that the people pay close attention to pruning and care of their trees and shrubs and see that the 1250 trees bought by the chamber of commerce last year and other trees already planted, continue with the good start Nature has given thru past winter and spring. He told the club that pruning could be done at any time of the year with proper precautions.

City Manager E. V. Spence called attention to the harm being done by insects and scale to trees. The city he said would be glad to give the formula for curing this condition to anyone who called for it. Local florists would also gladly give the formula.

M. H. Morrison asked the club to express it appreciation of the work done by Mr. Spence and others at the City Park and Mr. Robbins and others on the Scenic Drive.

E. A. Kelley gave a talk on ice statistics, telling how he arrived at his figures and declared that the population of the city was again on the increase and that the ice company had sold very little less ice this spring than last year.

His talk led to other folks on encouraging symptoms in local business by members of the club, whose concensus was that people were paying up many of their past debts and getting on a cash basis and would soon be in the market again.

Fox Stripling and B. F. Robbins were named as program leaders for next Wednesday.

Woodman Circle Leaders Due Here

Mrs. Etta Davidson of Houston, state manager of the Woodman Circle and Mrs. Tressie Goldsticker, district manager will be in Big Spring Thursday. All members are urged to be present at a meeting to be held at 8:00 p. m. Thursday evening.

Intermediate G. A.'s Meet At Riggs Home

Mary Pond presided over the meeting and Margaret Smith was elected reporter. Following a program by members, refreshments were served the following: Mary Pond, Vernon Kinard, Beryl Duff, Dorothy Bell Riggs, Margaret Smith, Billie Francis Grant, and Mrs. Larson Lloyd.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mary Pond.

Mrs. H. C. Timmons left for Dallas Sunday night. She will go to her home in Oklahoma for a visit before returning to Big Spring.

Stay Slender With Salads

"Stay slender with salads" is the watchword of women tired of the word "diet" who shiver at the thought of exhausting exercises. They have found that by substituting two salads a day for heavy, fattening foods they can still retain their lovely charm and cater to their appetites.

Salads make an ideal dish for summer. They stimulate the appetite, are rich in vitamins and mineral salts, and serve as a welcome relief from the rich foods of winter.

Many famous chefs agree that the secret of making salads is simplicity and attention to detail. The simplest salads are the best. The important thing to remember is that they must sell themselves by their appearance, and be dainty, crisp and cool.

Salads also have pocketbook as well as eye appeal. Fresh greenleaf vegetables and fruits are abundant now at prices lower than for some time, and offer many opportunities for attractive, well-seasoned combinations.

The dressing makes or mars the salad, so it is wise to use prepared mayonnaise which is double whipped and season it to suit one's tate. Many women feel they have enough chore in the kitchen, without adding to their troubles by making their own mayonnaise.

Serve the salad at the proper time, for salads, like women, have their "moments." They may be served as appetizers, during the meal, or as desserts.

With salads, the housewife has both an opportunity and a duty, an opportunity to eat delicious food and not worry about her waistline, a duty to appease her family which is becoming increasingly salad-conscious.

Take a leaf from the experiences of movie stars such as Lilyan Tashman, Frances Williams, Jean Arthur and a host of others whose careers depend on their figures. They must watch their figures, so they's turned to salads as a means of enjoying life and retaining their winning appeal.

Asparagus Salad

Separate leaves of head lettuce. Wash and chill. Arrange lettuce on salad plates. Place 4 or 5 cooked asparagus tips on each plate. Cut pimientos in small pieces or strips and arrange on asparagus. Serve with double-whipped mayonnaise. If desired, arrange well-drained green beans on crisp lettuce. Place asparagus tips over beans. Garnish with paprika or strips of pimiento.

Overton H. D. Club Has New Member

Mrs. T. E. Stevens was hostess to the members of the Overton Home Demonstration Club at her home in the Humble Camp.

A large group attended, including 17 members, two visitors and one new member, for the very interesting program.

Delicious refreshments, of sandwiches, ices, ice cream and cake, were served in two courses.

At the next meeting Mrs. Green, of Chalk, will be the hostess. The members will display linens, quilts, rugs and mats they have made this year.

Mrs. Van Gieson Honors Visitor From Shreveport

Mrs. V. Van Gieson was hostess to five tables of bridge players Wednesday afternoon for the Work Bridge Club. She named as honor guest Mrs. P. T. Thibodaux, of Shreveport, La., who is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. J. Mary.

A profusion of Shasta daisies made the porch and the rooms where the guests played very colorful and attractive.

Mrs. Clare made high score and Mrs. Hamblin second high. Both received lovely prizes.

The summer colors of the flowers were repeated in the cool, delicious two courses served during the refreshment hour. Mrs. Van Gieson was assisted in the serving by her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. B. Young.

The guests and members of the club present, were: Mmes. P. T. Thibodaux, E. J. Mary, W. B. Clare, Victor Martin, O. L. Thomas, Vivian Nichols, Geo. Garrette, Bob Austin, Geo. Wilke, R. W. Henry, G. T. Hall, Frank Hamblin, T. C. Thomas, R. B. Bliss, G. R. Porter and A. E. Pistole.

Baptist Homemakers Picnic At City Park

The members of the Homemakers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church held a picnic for themselves and their husbands at the City Park Tuesday evening.

After the delicious basket supper was served, the members enjoyed converration while the youngsters played.

Those present were: Messrs. Carl McDonald, L. I. Stewart, Ray Million, C. K. Bivings, Bob Skeen, Bruce Frazier, Edward Lowe, E. L. Gibson, W. D. Cornelison; Mmes. Lola Schuck, F. F. Gary, Clarence Nesbitt, Osborne O'Rear, T. A. Roberts, B. N. Duff; Misses Frances Stockton and Malone and the following children: Rosemary and Ida Rule Duff, Edward Schuck, Madelyn King, Grace Keelin, Bruce and Cornelia Frazier, Carl Jean McDonald, Mary Patterson, Enda Verne Stewart, Annette, Polly and Mackie Roberts, Felice Nesbitt, W. D. Jr., Joan and Ruth Cornelison.

Little Miss Annette Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Roberts, who had her hand badly damaged by the belt on a washing machine, is improving and the doctors say that her hand will not need to have skin grafted on it.

Portraits Of The Blomshield Twins Displayed In Window

Many people are pausing at the show window of the Texas Electric Service Co. to ree the pencil drawings of the heads of the two Blomshield twins, John and Harry. These are drawing of Carl Blomshield's artist brother, John Blomshield who left recently for his home in the East after an extended visit in this city.

The likenesses are splendid and the character drawing especially revealing. Mr. Blomshield does a good deal of pencil work of this kind, and much of his reputation as an artist is based on his skill in portrait work.

The oil painting of the big spring is still on display and continues to attract attention.

Mrs. Biles Entertains Pioneer Bridge Club

Mrs. J. D. Biles was hostess to the members of the Pioneer Bridge Club Wednesday afternoon for a very enjoyable session.

Mrs. Albert Fisher made club high score and Mrs. Ford made visitor's high. This meeting ended the fiscal year of the club; the highest scorer for the year will be announced at the nevt meeting.

The visitors and members present were: Mmes. Steve Ford, M. H. Bennett, J. Q. Kirby, of Bowling Green, Ky., Ira Thurman, Albert M. Fisher, Bernard Fisher, Joye Fisher, E. O. Ellington, Dee Hilliard, C. W. Cunningham, R. Homer McNew, R. C. Strain, John Clarke, W. W. Inkman, Harry Hurt, Miss Andree Walker.

Mrs. Ellington will be the next hostess.

Verna Kinard Gives Kid Party To G. A.'s

Verna Kinard entertained the members of the First Baptist G.A.'s with a kid party at her home at 600 Eleventh Place.

The girls came dressed as little girls, each bringing a doll. They played many outdoor games.

George McEntire Exhibits Currency Of Texas Republic

George McEntire, in from his ranch near Sterling City, exhibited a rare collection of Texas currency here Wednesday. Mr. McEntire had in his possession numbers of bills used under the Texas republic.

The certificates, ranging from two dollars to one hundred, had serial numbers filled in with ink. Some bore ten per cent interest per annum. One bill had the signature of Sam Houston affixed.

Part of the money bore art work on the back side, while part had nothing but blank space. Cancellation of the bills, on redemption by the treasury, was accomplished by a cross slit with a knife.

"This bill is good for nothing but paying postage," read an inscription on the reverse side of a one dollar bill recently given by Mr. Entire to Big Spring citizens to mail to Los Angeles citizenery on the first night air mail ship.

Mr. Entire, who lives on a ranch established nearly fifty years ago by his father, is an aviation enthusiast. He has a son who now flies the family plane.

Commenting on papers dropped in his yard by American Airways pilots flying the Big Spring-San Antonio route, he said, "They're getting pretty good now. They can drop them in the front gate, and hardly ever miss." He gets the San Antonio paper on the morning run. Recently the pilot began throwing the Big Spring Daily Herald in the afternoon.

Dinner Party Honors Mrs. Mary And Sister

Mrs. W. B. Clare was hostess for a small but delightful dinner party Tuesday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Thibodaux, of Shreveport, La., and Mrs. E. J. Mary.

Pink roses from the hostess' rose garden made an unusually lovely centerpiece and were the decorations of the living room.

After the dinner, the guests listened to the prize fight and played bridge.

In addition to the honorees, Mr and Mrs. V. H. Flewellen, Mrs. Bob Austin and H. C. Timmons were present.

NO MORE TEARS

MRS. HOFFMAN was eighteen when her baby was born. Within a year she had a serious operation. Then the flu. Her nerves went to pieces. She cried over nothing at all. It was an unhappy household.

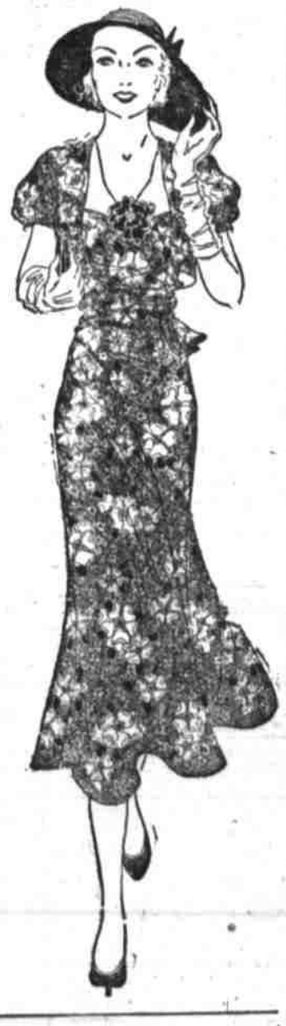

Her grandmother told her about the famous Vegetable Compound. That's how old and trusted a remedy it is! "I have taken six bottles," she says, "with marvelous results and I am thankful for my increasing health."

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY DIXON, pretty 19-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan, leaves home and, taking advantage of Leap Year, asks Dan to marry her.

They are married and for the first time Cherry finds out what it means to lack money. Her struggles with housework are discouraging. DIXIE SHANNON, movie critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome MAX PEARSON, who also works on the News.

Cherry receives a letter from her mother enclosing a check for $500. She returns the check because pride will not let her keep it. A young woman who lives in the same apartment building attempts suicide. That evening when Dan arrives he tells Cherry he has something for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII

Dan grinned down at her. "I'll give you three guesses," he announced. "What do you think I have?"

"Is it something for me?" Cherry asked.

"Yes."

"But I haven't the slightest idea!"

"You can guess, can't you?" Dan insisted. "What would you think it's likely to be—a Rolls-Royce or the crown jewels of England or—"

A faint cry, plaintive and high-pitched, interrupted him. It came from Dan's coat pocket. It was repeated, this time louder. An unmistakably kittenish "Meow!"

"A kitten! Oh, let me see it!" Cherry cried. "Where did you get it, Dan? Oh, you little darling you—!"

This last was addressed to the wriggling ball of gray fur that had emerged from Dan's pocket. The kitten, balancing in Dan's two hands, looked about on this new world in which it found itself and emitted another "meow!"

"Cute, isn't it?" Phillips asked.

Cherry had taken the kitten and was holding it nestled against her shoulder. The warm, soft fur touched her cheek. The girls' eyes were bright as a child's.

"It's adorable!" she told him. "Did you know I've always wanted a kitten? That's another thing I could never have at home. But where did you get it? Can we really keep it?"

"We can if you want to. I stopped at the drug store on the corner for cigarets. There were four of these little fellows there with their mother. One was black and the others were sort of gray striped. I thought this one was the cutest and the man said he'd be glad to give it to us. It's not quite a month old yet."

The kitten seemed eminently contented with its perch on Cherry's shoulder. It was puring now — a miniature sing - song that could barely be heard.

"Do you hear it?" Cherry demanded. "It's singing. Oh, of course we'll keep it! And it was sweet of you to bring it, Dan." She began to laugh. The kitten had raised one velvety paw and with experimental gestures was investigating Cherry's ear.

"Put it down," Dan suggested. "Let's see what it thinks of the place."

Cherry set the kitten on the floor. It was completely gray except for a white line down the center of its forehead, rounding out in a symmetrical arc of white about its nose and mouth. As though aware of their scrutiny the little animal backed slowly away from Cherry and Dan, stopped and gazed up at them.

"Well, I'll be darned!" laughed Dan. "Would you look at the little beggar giving us the once over?"

Cherry was down on her knees beside the kitten again. "I know what I'm going to call it," she announced. "Did you ever see anything so pink as that nose? I'm going to call it 'Pinky'."

"That's a swell name for a gray cat!"

"Why, I think it's a grand name—and anyhow that's what it's going to be."

Their own meal was forgotten in their interest in the new pet. Presently, however, the kitten was left curled up on a pillow on the floor and Cherry and Dan sat down to dinner.

Dan broke a roll and buttered it. "Well," he said, "I had a piece of welcome news today."

"What was it?"

"Your husband, Madam, is the winner of the $5 bonus for the best written news story of the week."

"Oh, Dan, I'm glad."

"So'm I. That five bucks will help out considerably in our financial status. But that's not all. Two of the fellows who have been owing me for the last six months kicked in with $12 more. I'd forgotten about both of them! Yes, it looks as though we can pay our bills and stay out of debtor's prison after all. My check Saturday will pay the rent for another month and this $17 will carry us over the week."

"It's worked out wonderfully, hasn't it?" Cherry asked. She said it so fervently that the young man across the table looked up.

"I had — some news today, too," the girl went on. She told Dan about the check from her mother and about sending it back. When she had finished Dan leaned across the table and took her hand. His eyes were troubled.

"You're sure you wanted to do that?" he asked. "Of course I couldn't have let you spend any of that money for our living expenses or for me but you might have bought something for yourself. Clothes maybe. Or—whatever girls buy."

Cherry laughed. "Of course not, silly. What could I be wanting? Oh, Dan, you and I do have so much! We ought to be so thankful—!"

* * *

She told him about Miss Jamieson who had lived on the top floor and was now at the City Hospital. The recital of the story sobered both of them. For some time after the meal had ended they sat in silence.

All at once Cherry cried out. "It's the kitten! It must be hungry!"

Little Pinky's front paws pressing against her ankle had startled the girl. She filled a saucer with milk but the kitten was not interested. Try as they would they could not make Pinky drink until Dan filled a teaspoon and poured it down the kitten's throat. Pinky coughed, licked the milk from his whiskers and decided to try a gulp for himself.

The kitten's antics kept them amused most of the evening. It chased paper balls attached to a string. It climbed into boxes and out of them and once, when Dan threw down a newspaper, the kitten crawled under it and had what must have been the most exciting adventure of its brief life getting out.

"It's going to be company for me when I'm here alone," Cherry said. "I don't see how I'll ever have a dull moment with that little rascal around."

"You'll probably wish that little rascal was 100 miles away a good many times."

The girl was sure that she would not. The kitten finally went to sleep in her lap and Cherry transferred it to its pillow so gently that it did not awaken.

It had been an eventful day. She and Dan sat in the window seat and looked out on the night. Moonlight streamed over the patch of ground below that by day was nothing more than a weed-grown space where laundry flapped in the breeze. Tonight it might have been a garden. Ugly buildings took on grace from the black shadows. The faint scent of plum blossoms came from a tree across the alley.

Cherry put up a hand and touched Dan's cheek. "We've so much to be thankful for," she whispered.

It was the middle of the next morning and Cherry was frowning over the cookbook when there was a knock at the door. She arose and opened it.

"Oh — good morning!" Cherry said. "Won't you come in?"

Mrs. Moreau, from the floor above, stood in the hall.

"I haven't time to stop," she said, "but I thought you'd like to know Miss Jamieson is going to get well. I've just been talking to the janitor. He said the hospital found she had an aunt in Chicago and they got in touch with her. She's coming—the aunt I mean—and if she has money enough to do that it probably means she can take care of the girl and see her through."

"I'm so glad!" Cherry said fervently. "And thanks for telling me. I've been thinking about her all morning."

"It's bad business to be sick and alone in a city," Mrs. Moreau said, shaking her head. "Well, I must be getting upstairs—"

Bad business indeed! After she was alone again Cherry got out her purse and examined its contents. There was $2.75 inside.

On impulse she hurriedly changed to street clothes. Pinky, the kitten, was dozing on the window seat as Cherry softly closed the door behind her and went down the stairs.

She boarded a downtown car and rode to Twelfth street. Lawrence's flower shop in the corner of the Wellington Hotel was where Cherry had always bought flowers. She reached the shop and paused before the window display.

Tall, long - stemmed roses and exotic lilies filled three huge vases that stood on black velvet. They were beautiful roses. They must cost a great deal—

Turning, the girl walked down the street. There were other florist shops. She would find one less expensive than Lawrence's. Cherry tramped for half an hour and finally was satisfied. She came to a small shop flaunting price marks all over its windows. "Roses 75 cents." "Lilacs 50 cents a bunch." "Iris 75 cents."

Cherry entered and paid 50 cents for a large bunch of lilacs.

"We don't deliver, Ma'am," the clerk told her. "That's extra. It'll costs 25 cents to have them delivered."

Cherry paid the extra quarter. She wrote Miss Jamieson's name on a white card and the address of the hospital. On a separate card to be enclosed with the flowers she wrote, "Best Wishes from a Friend."

There was less than $2 in her purse (car fare had taken 10 cents) when she left the shop.

"That means we'll have eggs again for dinner," Cherry told herself. "Dan won't mind when he knows why it happened. Wonder whether he'd like 'em fried or in an omelet?"

She was considering this problem and had almost decided to undertake an omelet when she recognized a young man coming toward her. Cherry stopped. There was a stationery store ahead. In another moment she would have entered it but the young man called out her name.

"Well, Cherry!" he exclaimed. "This is certainly luck. Haven't seen you for days!"

"I—I've been shopping," she told him. "It's nice to see you again."

"You don't say that any too convincingly," Max Pearson laughed, "but I've got a test. If you really mean it come and have lunch with me."

Cost Her $4.25 To Reduce 65 Pounds

"Worth It," Miss Bates Says

If you're young and fat read what Miss Bates of Beech, Iowa, has to say about Kruschen Salts—if you are middle age or old Kruschen shows you the way to lose fat the SAFE way.

"I took one bottle of Kruschen Salts a month for five months. It amounted to $4.25 and I reduced 65 lbs. but it was worth it. Imagine just 22 years old and weighing what I did. I could not enjoy myself as other girls did. I could not get the clothes I wanted. I think it is wonderful the results Kruschen Salts give."

To lose fat the safe, sane way—take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—eat less fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—a jar that costs but a small sum lasts 4 weeks. Get it at Collins Bros., Drugs—but be sure for your health's sake to ask for and get Kruschen Salts. It's the little daily dose that does it.—adv.

Clem Calhoun In Visit Here

Candiadte For Attorney General Attacks Allred Record

Clem Calhoun, lawyer and soldier, widely known as the fighting prosecutor who cleaned up the "bad lands" of Borger, was carrying to the people of Texas today a militant campaign for the office of attorney general of Texas. He opened his campaign several weeks ago in Sherman, his old home town, where Dr. T. S. Clyce of Austin College, Calhoun's friend and teacher, indorsed and introduced him. He was in Big Spring yesterday en route to keep a speaking date in Comanche.

Hurling the gage of battle squarely at Attorney General James V. Allred "Fighting Clem" Calhoun charged that Mr. Allred is a "tax eater who plays politics with a public trust."

"He has the imperial ambition and instincts of a dictator who would further centralize government and rob the people of the right of home rules," Calhoun declared. "He is spending the people's money with careless disregard of these depressing times. Already he has spent $70,000 more than the office cost the people under his predecessor, and his record is one of personal publicity and public bluff. He is all bark and no bite, is 'Jazz-Boy' Jimmie."

Calhoun charged that Allred had "betrayed the great mass of overburdened people he had promised to befriend." He explained that indictment as follows:

"Jimmie's meddlesome attempt to cheat the poor people of their exemption from payment of penalties and burdensome interest on delinquent taxes," said Calhoun, "convicts him of gross sacrifice of the public welfare in favor of his personal and political career. I refer to his efforts to invalidate the law passed by the the legislature to remit penalties and interest on taxes delinquent up to and including October 1931.

"This was a relief measure enacted in a time of great public suffering and distress. It was urged in Governor Sterling's message and advocated in the Ferguson platform promises. Jimmy was the only public official who rose up to strike down that benevolent law. Sworn to safeguard the public interest, Allred assailed the law as unconstitutional. The Supreme Court of Texas, awake to public need in time of calamity, overruled Allred. He was defeated in his reckless effort."

Calhoun charged the attorney general with flagrant inconsistencies between pre-election pledges and his official record of policy in office. He said:

Posing?

"Posing as a champion of the poor, who are even now poorer, he tried personally to get through the legislature a bill which would have set him up as a dictator over county commissioners' courts sitting as boards of equalization to fix tax values on property in which tax remissions had been granted. Moreover, he would have made it so that county boards were required to call him to sit in and dictate to them in such matters. The law, if passed, would have required county clerks to notify the attorney general of the approach of such a meeting so that he could fix the date and be present. Failure of the county clerks to do this was defined as official misconduct, subject to removal from office.

"Further to entrench himself as a dictator, Mr. Allred had written into the bill a clause which would have made county clerks subject to trial at Austin where, already, too much county government is being dragged from the people. The legislature balked at such an undemocratic bill proposed by Jimmie. The bill failed.

"That was an attack by Jimmie on the right of home rule, both in the matter of taxation as well as in the matter of democratic justice. There is too much centralization of government. The right of home rule should be jealously guarded instead of cunningly abrogated. It is outrageous that the law should compel an accused to stand trial among strangers."

Calhoun next referred to the Small River Bed bill, which Allred attacked as unconstitutional, as an "instance in which the attorney general deprived landholders of their titles to river bed land in good faith from the state."

Referring to the attorney general's ouster suits against the major oil companies of Texas, Calhoun said:

"After putting the state to enormous expense at a time when economy is the watchword and taxes ruinous, Jimmie is in the awkward position of finding himself at this time with virtually no case whatever because the trial court ordered so much of it stricken that there is nothing left but Jimmie's desire for what he hoped would be a sensational stunt and a popular issue. It is not. He went off half cocked."

In closing Calhoun said: The office of the attorney general should not be used as a political football or prostituted for private political ambition. If I am elected to it I shall not become a candidate for any other office while occupying it or during the period for which I am elected."

Clem Calhoun is a lawyer and a soldier who began the lean road to achievement as a farm boy in Grayson county. He worked his way through Austin College, thru a law course at the University of Texas and at the outbreak of the war, into the army as a private. He came out as a lieutenant.

He began his record as a dynamic prosecutor at Pecos, serving there and at El Paso before Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson named him district attorney of the 39th judicial district. There he became the terror of bank robbers and killers and earned the sobriquet of "Send 'Em Up" Calhoun. He is 36 years old.

When Borger gangsters topped their terrorism with the assassination of District Attorney John A. Holmes, Gov. Dan Moody drafted Calhoun to "go in and end outlawry." Nineteen days later the governor's laconic comment was, "And he did it!"

Sterling Gives Answer Upon Special Session

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN—Governor Ross S. Sterling has answered the petition of counties for an immediate one-day session of the legislature to let the state maturities on county and district highway bonds with the comment that the session can not be held before the primary elections are out of the way and that, when held, several matters likely will occupy the lawmakers for a period approximating the 30 day limit of a special session.

State expense retrenchment, revisions and readjustment of state salaries and costs, were mentioned by the governor.

"Such a session," he said in substance, "certainly would have as an object lightening the burden of local taxation upon the people of Texas."

In September?

This policy in effect assures the state it will have no special session during the political campaign, and makes highly probable a session in September.

By that time, the organization-economy committee's recommendations will be ready, the state school board will have important recommendations for cutting out duplications; the budgets of the college, institutions and departments will give a picture of the future tax requirements of the state.

One thing stands definitely settled—there will be no general new tax program at the session, when held—In all probability, every tax measure will be taboo, except the reduction of local property taxes through the road bond assumption program.

Partners.

Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson was faced with one of those diplomatic incidents when his formre law partner, Clem Calhoun, candidate for attorney general, thought Thompson too cordial in references to Attorney General James V. Allred, when the two were fellow guests and speakers at the same banquet. "I have my own race to run," Col. Thompson answered Calhoun's protests, "and I am not concerned with either Mr. Allred's or any other candidate's race except my own." And let it go at that.

Ross' Proxy

W. A. Tarver of Corsicana, to whom Gov. Ross S. Sterling gave a proxy when the governor decided not to go to the democratic national convention, will use the proxy at Chicago and take part in the nominating session. It was Mr. Tarver who, a lifelong prohibitionist, tried to stem the tide of a resubmission vote at the recent Houston convention. Mr. Tarver will support the Texan, Speaker Garner, whole heartedly.

Warrants Exempt.

State warrants and city-county warrants are exempt from the 2-cent federal check tax, but for unrelated reasons.

The state's warrants are exempt because issued by an inherent sovereignty that can not be taxed.

City and county warrants are exempt because they are not checks drawn upon a bank, but are drawn upon the city or county treasurer, who usually is a banker.

Should a city maintain special accounts, as direct checking deposit accounts, checks upon them would be taxable.

Cash Payrolls.

Texans are wondering the extent to which the tax on checks will force little business firms back to the old practice of getting a suitcase full of nickels, dimes, quarters and dollar bills and meeting its payroll in cash, rather than by check. The state, issuing over 100,000 warrants a month, including pension checks, could not conceivably get out of the issuance of its "checks," no matter if they were taxed.

State Headed Off

If there is any good in new taxes, it is this, that the federal government effectively has headed the state off from imposing the same voluminous list of nuisance taxes upon Texas citizens.

Campaigning

W. H. Hawkins, Stephenville, who looks a lot like William Jennings Bryan, is one of the 39 who are campaigning for congressman-at-large. He was an elector for Bryan once. His father was a member of the Texas legislature. He is a consistent prohibitionist, but willing to find out what the majority says, and to let the majority rule. This is as near a safe plank for this repeal troubled year as any that has been written so far.

Free Ride

Candidates for the legislature get a free ride, so far as assessments for the cost of holding the primaries are concerned. The legislature limited the charge to $1 for candidates for the senate and house District judges at Austin were assessed $300 and the usual run of county candidates $275 apiece.

Slogans

"Let the rose of prosperity bloom again with Roosevelt," is a campaign solgan proposed by Tom Miller, Austin business man. "Hoover the great minimizer," is his offering that the republican party probably won't accept.

Thrilled

Four years ago Texas thrilled to a far greater interest in democratic national politics, because the party leaders throughout the nation were on their way to Houston, to hold the first national convention in history in the state. This year, for the first time, a Texan—two Texans—will be among the possible nominees.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Chicago Impressions

As between the federal officeholders and the professional politicians who make up the Republican convention and the administration in Washington the relationship is like an old marriage that has become sour and stale. There is not any respectable ground for a divorce, and it would cause much useless inconvenience to arrange a separation now. So they are holding the family together. Yet nothing remains between them of romantic love, nor of friendly interest, nor even of the little courtesies. I have seen just one picture of Mr. Hoover in Chicago, and that was an oil painting in the back of a store window on Michigan Boulevard. At the Congress Hotel, where the party has its headquarters, I have yet to see a single poster or banner designed to inspire the Republican hosts with Mr. Hoover's countenance. This can not be mere economy. It can not even be parsimony. It must be sheer absentmindedness brought on by the dreary necessity of going through with an arrangement that has lost its charm.

So far as I can make out the professional take the view that they can do nothing here at Chicago to affect the result in November. If the party is to win, it must win because events bring the Republican voters back to the standard. What those events might be nobody knows. Some think there is a drift back to Hoover because the tendency of public sentiment is conservative. Some think he may yet improvise a brilliant stroke, not unlike the Moratorium, but more successful or at least luckier. All of them county heavily on Democratic mistakes.

But among the professionals the principal calculation, I am told, is a discounting of defeat, and a determination to hold on to the party organization for 1936. There have been several unspectacular, inside and technically political decisions arrived at already which indicate strongly that what is being done here is to set things in order for probable defeat in 1932 so that it will be Mr. Hoover and his friends rather than the professionals who will suffer the consequences. If by some chance the party wins in November the professionals will naturally rejoice. But win or lose they seem determined to make secure their own control of the organization.

Their new found friendliness to the cause of repeal of the 18th amendment is only in part I think a response to the change in public sentiment. On the basis of immediate expediency it is very dangerous for the Republicans to desert the Prohibitionists. For by all past experience the drys will be more enraged at the Republicans if they desert a little than at the Democrats if the Democrats are wringing wet. The drys will vote for a wet Democrat in order to defeat Republican deserters, or at least they will refuse to vote at all or they will put up a third candidate who will attract an important part of the dry vote.

It is hard to see how the Republicans can fail to lose heavily this year whatever stand they take on prohibition. They are caught in 1932 as the Democrats were in 1924 and 1928 between the irreconcilable drys and the irreconcilable wets. Even if the two platforms are identical it seems almost certain that the Republicans must suffer the consequences of dry disaffection. For the dry Democrats have become accustomed to the idea of a wet Democracy, but the dry Republicans thought until this week that they owned their party.

All of this does not add to the joy of the occasion. The more farsighted professionals accept the situation as irremediable, and say to themselves that whatever the consequences this year, in the long run it is more important to hold on to the ardent young Repulicans who are wet, the big campaign contributors who are wet and the urban masses in the East who are wet than it is to try to hold the party together by giving the drys their prohibition and the wets a promise of prosperity.

For the main reason why the wets are so powerful in this convention is that they can not be placated by promises of prosperity. In 1928 they were put off by a belief in the magic of Republican prosperity. This year they are unrestrained in their determination to cure prohibition because they do not believe that the Republican party has any magic with which to restore prosperity. Thus because there is no clearly profitable expedient cause, the idealists are making great headway with principles.

In their ardor there is much more than a desire to legalize liquor or even to remedy the evils of prohibition. The wet cause at Chicago has become a symbol with expresses a wide and a deep feeling among the people that straddling by politicians is one of the principal reasons why the country does not effectively pull itself together in dealing with the crisis.

"SIX CYLINDERS NO MORE—NO LESS," says America

Anything more and you sacrifice economy—anything less and you sacrifice smoothness. . . .

BUYERS everywhere are comparing low-priced cars. Lifting hoods. Counting cylinders. And the result? An overwhelming verdict for the six, in preference to cars of fewer or more cylinders.

"SIX CYLINDERS. No more—No less!" And America backs up that conviction by purchasing more six-cylinder Chevrolets since January 1st, than the combined total of all fours and all eights under $1000.

With more than six cylinders, you sacrifice Chevrolet's famous economy of gas, oil and upkeep—the greatest economy in today's motor car market. With less than six cylinders, you sacrifice the built-in smoothness that makes driving really restful and enjoyable.

But with a six—a Chevrolet Six—nothing is sacrificed. You get smoothness and economy.

And power, 60 horsepower. And speed—65 to 70 miles an hour, easily! And pick-up—from a standstill to 35 miles an hour in less than 7 seconds! You also get Free Wheeling; Synchro-Mesh gear-shifting; big, spacious Fisher bodies.

So, when buying a new low-priced car, settle the question of cylinders RIGHT, and you can't go WRONG. Take America's word for it: "SIX CYLINDERS. No more—No less!"

viduals in the party. They are using their own funds with exception of small donations and money raised by sale of small paper tags and placacards, which urge immediate payment of the bonus.

The medincal unit was informed that a large portion of the California bonus army, which had been attempting for a week to get to the capital, expected to leave El Paso at 9 p. m. Thursday in automobiles.

Commander Royal W. Robertson of the California "army," in El Paso for the past sexeral days seeking to obtain gasoline for the remainder of the army, stranded along the route from California to Texas, was quoted in El Paso as saying he believed about 800 men would be in the first division leaving El Paso Wednesday night or Thursday. He said approximately 120 automobiles and trucks and 1200 men and women arrived in El Paso Wednesday from Deming, N. M. Robertson said only the best motor equipment would be retained. Old cars would be sold in El Paso, he said. The owners will travel by freight.

Lloyd Thompson, John Lawlor and H. E. Kelsey, patients at William Beaumont hospital, charged that that statement was made in their presence by a nurse traveling with the California bonus army.

The nurse, who wore a Red Cross uniform, was at the hospital collecting funds for the marchers. She was accompanied by Dr. Guthrie, who is traveling with the veterans, Thompson said.

"The army is going to Washington for hospitalization, which we were unable to obtain in California and if nothing is done toward paying the bonus, we are going to build a new White House," Thompson quoted Dr. Guthrie as saying.

Thompson said that Dr. Guthrie told him that the money he and his assistants solicit will be used to buy medical supplies and defray personal expenses.

Has "Big Ideas"

"Dr. Guthrie said, 'I've got big ideas'," Thompson said.

"It isn't necessary for veterans to travel across country to obtain medical treatment," said Lawlor. "They can get it in their own state.

"This bonus march is a racket. I'll swallow my convictions, join the army and guarantee a five per cent increase in numbers in every city if they give me 10 per cent of the 'take'."

Kelsey said that Dr. Guthrie and his assistants solicited funds from hospital patients.

Against Mob Coercion

"We're in favor of the bonus, but we are against mob coercion," said Lawlor.

Dr. Guthrie and the nurses left for Pecos after soliciting funds at the hospital. They are traveling in an automobile carrying a banner reading, "Chief surgeon of the bonus army."

"They refused to tell us who donated an airplane for their advance agent," said Kelsey.

Hunter from among those who are candidates at this time. But, we see no good reason why Mr. Sterling should be denied a second term and, furthermore, it is our sincere belief that those who wish to protect Texas against a return of the Fergusons to the capital ought to concentrate upon Mr. Sterling because he is the most logical candidate to center upon to defeat the Fergusons.

We might add, even in the light of the many comments, all unfavorable, we have made about the Fergusons at various times, that we hold no personal grudge against Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson. It is now and always has been our honest belief that the things they stand for and the things they do when in office—not the things they claim to have done and promise to do during campaigns, are detrimental to the state. That's our opinion, we reserve it for ourselves. You do the same and we'll all be satisfied.

Four Candidates File Reports Of Campaign Cost

Four candidates for county officers had filed campaign expense accounts with the county clerk at noon Thursday, the first day initial lists could be turned in. One hundred and sixtyfour dollars had been spent by the four, principally for bearing election expenses and printing or newspaper publicity.

Those filing first reports were County Attorney James Little, County Clerk J .I. Prichard, Justice of Peace Cecil Collings and John F. Ory, public weigher of precinct 1. Three of the quartet are unopposed in the July primary, 'Ory being the only one having a test of strength.

Texas state la wprescribes that candidates file one campaign report not more than thirty nor less than twenty-five days prior to the election date, a second report not more than twelve nor less than eight days prior to the election date ,and a third not more than ten days after election.

The Democratic state primary will be held exactly one month from Thursday. The candidate list is closed.

Joe Davis Is Local Hope

Expected To Qualify In Preliminary Meet This Week

Upon the shoulders of 16-year-old Joe Davis, whose chances for the state interscholastic title were ruined last year when he fractured his leg in an impromptu sand lot football game, is expected to fall the burden of the Big Spring threat for the West Texas club tennis title, to be decided upon the local courts June 30, July 1 and July 2.

Davis, defending champion, is expected to win the city qualifying test without more than casual difficult and is given almost an even break in singles tests against the requesteers from Abilene, San Angelo, and Sweetwater. The high school player is in tip-top shape for the first time since last summer.

Dunagan, Dabney, Bishop and Mansel, other standbys in tournaments of other years, will probably vie among themselves for the doubles position, leaving Davis to bear the brunt of singles play. None of the quartet are in anything like perfect condition, although Dunagan, whose easy game is effective if anything but spectacular, may crowd Davis for the city title.

Dabney and Bishop, equally as sure to be the doubles team, are neither liable to hurdle the city qualifying test in singles. Both are in-and-outers, and the 1931 champion is expected to draw most of his competition from two visiting players, Bill Kirby of Bowling Green, Ky. ,and Howard Houser of San Angelo. The latter will be eligible for competition in the West Texas affair and is a welcome addition to the local squad.

Davis has been defeated in both of his starts this year, losing the district final to Willard Foster of Abilene 6-2, 6-1, 6-0, as he played almost on one leg and dropping a hard-fought decision to Dunagan in the Sand Belt tournament 6-3, 5-7, 8-6.

Play in the city melee was to start today with only one outstanding match booked in the first round. Harry Jordan will meet Bill Savage in a contest that should bring out spirited play from both parties.

In the second round, if the favorites come throug unscathed, Dunagan will play Kirby, a thirteen year old boy with a stylist's game. Bishop will meet Manuel, Davis will play Houser and Dabney tangles wit hthe winner of the Jordan-Savage match.

Lucille LaBeff And Jennie Dorine Rogers Give Enjoyable Party

Miss Lucille La Beff and Jennie Dorine Rogers entertained together Tuesday afternoon at Lucille's home before Jennie Dorine left for her trip west.

This was a bunco and bridge party. A pink and green salad course was served after the games. Florine Rankin made high score at bunco and was given a powder jar. Dorothy Vandagriff made high at bridge and was given at jar of bath powder.

The guests were Florine Rankin, Mattie Satterwhite, Louise Flowers, Dorothy Frost, Edythe Ford, Laura Belle Underwood, Rowena Gibson, Mae Olson, Rosemary Duff, Dorothy Vandagriff, Carmen Compton, Pauline Melton, Mmes. Bill Henly and Carlton Davis.

Mrs. Lomax Hostess To Members Of The Triangle Bridge Club

Mrs. E. W. Lomax was hostess to members of the Triangle Bridge Club Wednesday afternoon, at a lovely summer party. A patriotic color theme, of red, white and blue, emblematic of Washington's bicentennial birthday, was carried out in the party accessories, and climaxed on the refreshment plate.

Two tables of players found interest in the games of contract bridge. Miss Jena Jordan won high score and was favored with pretty white sport purse. Mrs. Robert Currie won second high and received a lovely string of cut beads. Mrs. E. E. Fahrenkamp was consoled for making low score with a large stick of peppermint candy.

A dainty refreshment plate holding chicken salad, sandwiches, pickled beets, gelatine and fruit punch was passed at the tea hour to Meadames W. B. Hardy, Monroe Johnson, Omar Pitman, E. E. Fahrenkamp, James Little, Robert Currie and Miss Jena Jordan.

Mrs. G. B. Cunningham Entertains At Bridge

Mrs. Grover Cunningham was hostess to many of her friends for a very charming morning party Wednesday morning, at which four tables of players assembled.

Garden flowers carried out a summer color scheme.

Mrs. Hurt made high score and was awarded a very lovely handmade linen luncheon set in green.

Delicious refreshments were served to Mmes. J. B. Young, V. Van Gieson, C. W. Cunningham, Garland Woodward, Bob Austin, J. S. Robbins, Harry Hurt, R. Homer McNew, Albert Fisher, Geo. Wilke, Bruce Frazier, V. H. Flewellen, W. H. Leeper, Dee Hilliard, R. C. Strain and A. E. Service.

PICNIC TONIGHT

The Men's Sunday School Class will be hosts tonight to the adults of the First Methodist Sunday School for a picnic at the City Park, beginning at 6:30.

COUNTRY CLUB DANCE

Gerald Liberty and his orchestra will play for the dance at the Country Club tonight for which invitations were recently issued.

Personally Speaking

Mrs. Walteur Turner and Miss Hazel Frazier of Walnut Springs will arrive Thursday afternoon for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Webb Smitham.

Sheriff Jess Slaughter returned Wednesday from Elkhart where he had gone to return his wife, son and daughter to Big Spring. Mrs. Slaughter and children have been visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Woodward and two children, warran and Sara left Thursday afternoon for Austin to visit Mr. Woodward's parents. They will return Monday.

52 Barrels Per Well Ordered In East Texas Field

AUSTIN, (AP)—The railroad commission Thursday fixed fifty-two barrels daily per well allowable for the East Texas oil field for sixty days beginning July 1. The maximum field output of 325,000 barrels was eliminated.

The commission announced that it would soon set dates for hearings on other fields for the purpose of considering new production rules. Chairman Terrell announced a special accountant would be employed immediately to check the amount of oil sold by operating companies in the East Texas field. This is being done for the purpose of determining if any are exceeding the commission's allowable.

Socony-Vacuum Test Fleet Here

Three test cars of the Socony-Vacuum fleet under the direction of A. F. Falk stopped in Big Spring for a short time this morning. Falk, with John A. Howlett and E. D. Kruger, is taking the three cars, a Chevrolet, a Ford, and a Plymouth to Death Valley in California for a series of runs.

"Temperatures from 125 to 150 degrees prevail in Death Valley now," said Mr. Falk, "and we are trying to find the hottest place in the United States in order to test motor oils, and to a lesser extent, motor fuels. Nearly thirty cars of the Socony-Vacuum fleet will be used in the Death Valley tests. All cars will be equipped with a number of special insturments recording temperatures at different points in the engine, transmission, differential, and radiator."

The tests will be as severe and brutal as possible in order to reveal the heat resisting qualities of the New Mobiloil and other motor oils, according to Mr. Falk. The entire tests have been sanctioned by, and will be conducted jointly with the University of Southern California.

"In some cases," said Mr. Falk, "radiators will be removed from cars, and then the cars will be driven hard and fast. It is expected that pistons will fuse. New motors are already on the ground to be installed when this happens."

Technical resources of eight oil companies will study the results of the Death Valley tests. These companies, Vacuum, Standard of New York, Magnolia, White Eagle, White Star, Wadhams, General, and Lub-Rite Refining Company comprise the Socony-Vocuum Company.

The three test cars through Big Spring this morning were the same three that were here several weeks ago, according to H. B. Dunagan, Jr., local Magnolia agent. The cars had been repainted gray. They were white when here before.

Box Supper Given By Bridge Club On The Blomshield Lawn

Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Blomshield and Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Spence entertained the members of the Thursday Luncheon Club with a box supper Wednesday evening on the lovely Blomshield lawn.

After a delicious box supper, the evening was devoted to bridge. Mrs. Young and Mr. Timmons made highest scores for visitors. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward were the high scorers for the club. Attractive prizes were awarded to both members and visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. V. Van Gieson, Mrs. J. B. Young and H. C. Timmons were visitors. The members and husbands present were Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Woodward and Mrs. J. E. Kuykendall.

Busy Bees Have Party At Edith Dow Vordill's

The Busy Bees, the Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church taught by Mrs. C. E. Thomas, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Cordill. Hostesses were Edith Dow Cordill, Bobby Gordon, Vlama Sanders, Lenna Laura Long, and Mrs. Cordill.

The class gave a devotional in sentence prayers. After a short business session, the members enjoyed a social hour.

Punch and cake were served by Mrs. Cordill, Mrs. C. E. Thomas, Edith Dow Cordill and Mary Settles to the following: Bobby Gordon, Vlama Sanders, Lenna Laura Long, Arlene and Johnnie Chaney, Margaret McDonald, Doris Smith, Virginia Tucker, Eula Belle Miles, Sarah Sue Ramsey, La Verne Smith, Luella Woodson, Flo Belle Farrar, Doris and Dale Barrett, Kathleen Pryor, Obie Cogar and Betty Lou Pyeatt.

Col. Thompson In Statement Of Candidacy

AUSTIN—Col. Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo, recently appointed member of the State Railroad Commission by Governor Sterling to succeed Pat M. Neff, announced his platform today. Col Thompson is here with the other members of the commission attending to official duties. He accepted the appointment from Governor Sterling with the understanding that he would be a candidate to succeed himself in the coming election. In his platform he says:

"The Railroad Commission regulates the railroads, trucks and busses, oil and gas business and gas utilities. Because of the importance of these industries and the part the commission plays in the development of our great natural resources, the office of Railroad Commissioner directly affects the economic welfare of each individual citizen.

"I stand for a fair deal to all concerned, always keeping in mind that the people's interest should come first. Every side of all questions coming before the commission will be given a fair hearing and a prompt decision.

"The railroads are necessary. They should be given fair treatment. Trucks and busses are here to stay. They fill an important gap in our transportation system. They will not be idscriminated against.

"The oil and gas business has become so important in Texas that our general business now depends largely upon prosperity of this industry. It is the duty of the commission to foster and conserve these natural resources for orderly development.

"I stand for a fair rate in gas utilities—fair to producer and the consumer; fair to the utility and fair to the public. I respectfully ask the support of the Democratic voters of Texas in the coming primaries."

Barry Miller's Mother Succumbs At Age Of 88

DALLAS, (AP)—Mrs. Rachel Barry Miller, 88, mother of the former Lieutenant-Governor Barry Miller, died here Thursday. She was employed thirty-five years as a Dallas post office clerk. She was the first postal clerk to receive retirement pension. Her father fought in the battle of Waterloo and was decorated for bravery by the Duke of Wellington.

J. B. Wolton is confined to his home by illness.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

The so-called weaker sex has made wonderful progress in the last decade in athletics. A woman's baseball club is touring the country and competing in exhibitions against male nines. Women have swum the Hellespont, the English channel. They have flown across the Atlantic, have negotiated the 100 yard dash in less than 11 seconds. They break eighty on the links, can throw a discus over a hundred feet. And now comes a pair of would-be entrants from Breckenridge for the West Texas Open tournament, a pair of ambitious femmes that do not mind in the least competing against the collection of male stars to be present here during the Carnival of Values.

Miss Nona Lee Spencer, the spokesman of the Breckenridge pair, will be cordially invited to be present, and will be asked to compete in an exhibition match with Ruby Smith, Big Spring girl who won the district and bi-district tennis championships in 1931. Miss Spencer and partner will not win the West Texas title for their town, of that much we are almost positive. But she will play a smashing, masculine game that will be as easy to watch as a Leo Brady-Tom McCarty struggle.

The Cisco eligibility suit has been postponed, we are informed. Mr. Blondy Cross advises the Big Dam officials to cancel it.

"From Bill Collyns of McCamey we learn that L. R. Barry, the Midland coach, who worries more abou the other man's team than he does his own is searching for evidences of ineligibility among the District 4, pardon us, District 3, clubs."

But aren't we all?

The exhibition foursome between Charles Qualls of Post, Frank Rose of Lamesa, Bob Scott of Colorado, and Shirley Robbins of Big Spring will no doubt be one of the best features of the three-day celebration here the 30th, 1st and 2nd. No two of the golfers are of the same type. Qualls is a cool-headed, confidant sharpshooter who depends upon a powerful, accurate tee shot and a deadly approaching game to carry him through. His longer irons and his putting are not so good. He does, however, right well with those two strokes. Rose is a smiling, good looking chap that you will like instantly, and his game is the more polished of the four. His mother, we are told, is an opera singer and his clubs are made in Scotland. Scott is a rugged left-handed with much tournament experience who can play on any and all green, or without them. Robbins is the crack of the local team and were it not for family duties and etc, we maintain that he would be able to take Satterwhite, Qualls, Nix and the lot of 'em in a best ball encounter.

Three of the quartet qualified for the championship flight in the West Texas tourney and Scott won the first flight handily. Robbins shot an 85 in his appearance on grass greens and won the playoff with four others for the 32nd position. Rose blazed home with a 79 and fell before Jack Satterwhite 2 up in a great match. Qualls automatically qualified as defending champ and likewise fell before the Texon flash in a subpar exhibition.

We pick Robbins and Qualls. The Post postmaster can find no other course more suited to his game than the local eighteen and Shirley will have the advantages of familiar surroundings and a crowd that had rather see him win than anyone they know of.

Incidentally one of the best cracks about golf we've heard in several days was made at our expense and we're passing it along in spite of the unsavoury suggestion it conveys. Obie Bristow was offering to become a private tutor for the writer sevxeral days ago.

"I can," he argued, "take ten or fifteen strokes off your total for nine holes in less than a week."

Your scribbler smiled scornfully. "But, Obie," we remonstrated, "ten or fifteen strokes from an average forty-five would'nt leave much would it?"

He shook his head sadly. "I see you need a course in arithmetic too."

Negro Undertaker, Wealthy, Found Dead

AUSTIN (UP) — N. W. Rhambo, wealthy negro undertaker of Austin, was found slain near Dawson, Navarro county, according to Travis county sheriff Coley C. White.

Rhambo's wrecked automobile was found on the highway. The negro was last seen Tuesday night when he left with an unidentified man who told him a relative had died five miles from here on the Round Rock road.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Paulsen left Wednesday for Florence, Mo., to visit Mr. Paulsen's parents.

Barber Shop Verdict On Politics Caught In Chickasha, Oklahoma by United Press Staff Correspondent

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICKASHA, Okla. (UP)— The barber shop verdict on the Republican national convention is that platform and performance were "the same old stuff."

One of the Farmer brothers, proprietors of a three chair shop on North Third street here passed judgment on the Republicans for the benefit of the United Press correspondent.

"My name is Farmer," said Mr. Farmer. "My brother Tom and I run the shop.

"You say you just came from Chicago. Well, now, is it hotter here than there?" he asked.

It was not.

"About these Republicans," Mr. Farmer continued. "It all sounded just the same old stuff. I dunno about that prohibition plank."

Mr. Farmer suggested that perhaps the depression was more important than prohibition. His reasoning was simplicity, itself.

"I'll tell you what," he said. "I don't know anybody in this town that really is making money."

Farmer Brothers, three-chair shop was idle at the time although it was a good shop and its service a bargain—evidently nothing over 25 cents.

L. C. Hutson spoke for bigger business in fact one of the biggest businesses in town. Mr. Hutson runs the Indiahoma Ginning Co., and is associated with R. K. Wooton whose handsome, new seven-story Oklahoma National bank building dominates Chickasha's main street.

"The weakest think about the Republican platform," Mr. Hutson told the United Press, "was its farm plank and its stand on the farm board. We don't like the farm board in this country. Those surpluses they accumulated have paralyzed commodity markets.

Farm Board

"Cotton men don't figure any more on weather, the weevil or southern crops. They try to guess what the farm board is going to do with all that cotton. You can't guess what's in another man's mind. The Democrats, both national parties, should pledge the farm board to a regular marketing method say over a period of five years as suggested in a bill introduced by Senator Core."

"No, there isn't much interest in prohibition out here," Mr. Hutson continued in response to questions. "We are interested in economics but the people here got the idea that the Republicans straddled on prohibition. It looks to me as though the Democrats might have a good thing if they would just adopt the minority prohibition plank that the Republicans rejected. That wouldn't commit anyone to repeal. It would just give the people a chance to vote."

Carried For Hoover

Chickasha was carried by President Hoover in 1928 against Gov. Alfred E. Smith. It is normally Democratic. Many of its citizens attribute the 1928 vote to religious prejudice and predict it would be repeated this year if Smith were nominated, though on a smaller scale.

"The women don't like the way he talks," said a gentleman in a drug store.

Despite Mr. Wooton's bank, and his Chickasha Cotton Oil Co., and the large estate left by the late Mr. Suggs, cattleman and banker, and the unquestionably large produce of the surrounding country side, this business man told the United Press he thought Grady county's largest industry was distilling bootleg liquor.

This gentleman asked that his name not be used.

But he said he believed his statement was no exaggeration. He believes few farmers in the vicinity are not involved in the "ring" in some way. They do not retail. Their wholesale product goes as far as Kansas City. After a year in a keg it is pronounced good in these parts.

This man said bootleg liquor was a certain cash product and that hard times had driven many farmers to it. Oklahoma City, Tulsa, and Wichita are good customers. But Chickasha, nevertheless, is not much interested in prohibition.

New Yorkers Give Amelia Big Welcome

American Woman Is Conqueror Of Atlantic Lands From Europe

NEW YORK (UP)—Amelia Earhart Putnam, who flew the Atlantic alone, returned in triumph Monday.

Gowned tastefully in a brown ensemble, she was smiling as she stepped from the liner Ile De France to the city tug, Riverside, and was escorted through a maze of pleasure craft and tugs to the Battery.

Miss Earhart carried a huge bouquet of roses, presented by Mayor James J. Walker, in striking contrast to the oil spattered figure dressed in flying costume who brought her plane down safely near Londonderry, Ireland, several weeks ago.

She was in a gay mood, even as she described the hardships of the long fight over the Atlantic when at times her plane was so close to the water that she could see the angry whitecaps. But she apparently had forgotten the hardships as she chatted with her husband, George Palmer Putnam, and looked on the celebration in her honor.

Interview

Once on the Riverside she willingly gave an interview and started off with a sly dig at Putnam, who returned with her after meeting her in Paris.

"When I reached London I read in one of the papers that Gippy had said when notified that I had landed safely, 'My darling is safe. Thank God.' Did you say that?" she commented.

"No," said Putnam, glancing down.

Then she described her thrilling flight—the first ever made by a woman—saying:

"After I had taken off from Harbor Grace, and was out over the water the night was very clear, and I could see all the stars. Towards midnight clouds came up and the wind blew strong and the sea rough. About midnight when I was at 10,000 feet, my altimeter broke and from then on I had no way except by my eyes of judging the height at which I was flying. I came so low at times that I could see the whitecaps breaking, and from that I knew there was a strong west wind. This caused me to believe that I was south of my course, so I deviated from my compass course, and in so doing made a bad mistake. When I landed in Ireland I discovered that my compass course had been right and I should have stayed with it.

Landing

"No, I did no worrying or even thinking while over the Atlantic. It would be fatal to think. I did all my worrying before I started. When I struck land I knew I was over reland and because my exhaust had broken off it was imperative that I land.

"When I landed several of the farm hands thought I was a supernatural being. I stood up in the cockpit of the plane and I really looked like nothing at all. I was in my flying costume and my face was covered with grease. The farm hand who saw me first told me later he 'almost dropped through the earth' when he heard me speak in a 'woman's voice.'"

A number of women fliers including Ruth Elder, who made an unsuccessful attempt to fly the Atlantic, Ruth Nichols, who cracked up in Newfoundland on a trans-Atlantic attempt; Viola Gentry, Elinor Smith and others met the Riverside at the pier. Also in the group of welcomers were many city officials who had not gone down the bay on the Riverside. Airplanes soared overhead in salute.

Boat whistles screamed as the Riverside put in and Miss Earhart and her husband were escorted to an automobile to start up the triumphal path followed by many heroes—the canyons of lower Broadway.

Mrs. L. Levering Gives Three-Fours A Dainty Party

Mrs. Lee Levering was hostess to the members of the Three-Four Bridge Club in the lounge of the Crawford Hotel Wednesday afternoon for a very dainty party.

Bowls of white and golden Shasta daisies adorned the room on the wall tables and in the niches. A green and yellow color scheme prevailed in the dainty ice course and the prizes were tied with green and yellow ribbons.

Mrs. Bishop made club high score and received a couple of cross-stitched Gay Nineties silhouettes, framed. Mrs. Barcus, who made high for the visitors, was awarded a silver tea pitcher. Mrs. Kuykendall cut for high and was given bath salts.

The guests were Mmes P. W. Malone, A. E. Chester, Ray Simmons, Wilburn Barcus, P. E. McClanahan, Hal Harl, Sim O'Neal, R. L. Carpenter, R. L. Heath, Max Boyd, Raymond Winn, R. E. Lee.

The members were: Mmes Jake Bishop, C. C. Carter, J. E. Kuykendall, V. W. Latson, L. H. Hamlett, Harry Lester, C. S. Diltz, Wallace Ford, Adams Talley J. H. Kirkpatrick, J. S. Robbins and Clyde Waits, Jr.

Mrs. Hamlett will be the next hostess.

DO YOU INHALE?

Millions say we hit the "nail on the head" when we asked this question!

OKAY AMERICA! . . . you wanted the facts and we've given them to you—even though the truth has shocked the cigarette trade! Inhaling is the very core of all cigarette discussion.

For we all inhale—knowingly or unknowingly . . . every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Let other cigarettes keep an embarrassed silence if they will! Lucky Strike can openly raise the issue. Luckies assure you the protection you want . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by that famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

"Fifty million smokers can't be wrong!"

"It's toasted"
