Pressure Cooker Explodes, Former Resident Injured

Mrs. Jack Coleman of Hereford, former resident of Olton, suffered minor burns and multiple cuts Tuesday when a pressure cooker exploded as she stood near by.

Mrs. Coleman was in surgery in a Hereford hospital five hours. She suffered severe cuts about the upper arms and body but miraculously escaped serious injury about the face.

The kitchen stove was completely demolished by the explosion which imbedded the cooker lid in the kitchen ceiling. Estimate had not been made at press time of the damage to the Coleman kitchen.

Mrs. Coleman is the daughter of Mrs. Era Maye Walthall.

Campaign Opened By Frank Ford

Frank Ford opened his campaign for State Representative in Olton Monday with the pledge that "The people of this district are going to be represented in the Texas Legislature".

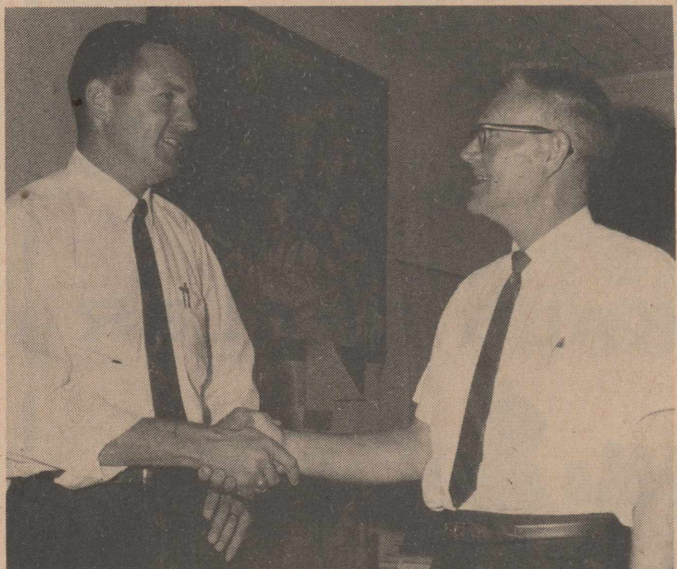

"It is very evident that the voters of this area are dissatisfied with the recent 50 percent increase in the state sales tax which will go into effect October 1st", said Ford, "This tax bill did little or nothing toward funding the impending pay raise for Texas teachers, nor did it provide much needed tax sharing with local government."

"The fact that it did provide, with an appropriation item which was slipped into the spending bill during a secret meeting of the House-Senate Conference Committee, for $500,000.00 in state spending for development of the L.B.J. State Park is evidence enough that we need a two-party system in Austin, Texas have had enough of seeing their hard-earned tax money squandered on special privilege legislation."

Error Made In News Item

We would like to offer our apologies to the Andrew family.

In August 15 issue of The Olton Enterprise, a "personal" news item reported that Mr. and Mrs. Bud Andrew attended the funeral of Andrew's brother-in-law, Ivan Stewart in Fort Worth.

This should have read that Mr. and Mrs. Andrew were at the bedside of Andrew's brother-in-law, who was undergoing tests.

Stewart will undergo heart surgery next week.

Farm To Market Roads Improvements Begin

The Texas Highway Commission today approved the expenditure of $87,800.00 for highway safety and betterment and for Farm to Market Road improvement in Lamb County during 1969.

District Engineer Oscar L. Crain of Lubbock said that a total of 32.8 miles in Lamb County will be involved in the annual program. Work will be under the supervision of James W. King, District Maintenance Engineer, of Lubbock.

The work is part of the Highway Commission's combined Farm to Market Road Improvement and State Highway Safety and Betterment Program for 1969.

The safety and betterment portion of the program will cover 32.8 highway miles in the county at an estimated cost of $87,800.00.

Crain stated that the proposed improvements play an important role in the Department's continuing highway safety program.

He said that the types of work included in the program are seal coating, surface widening, base strengthening, and resurfacing and rebuilding of shoulders.

Improvements call for 6.8 miles of seal coat to US 385 from Loop 430 in south Littlefield to the Hockley County line and 16 miles of seal coat to US 385 from Castro County line to loop 430 in Littlefield.

Trash Hauling Slows During Busy Season

Trash hauling has slowed to a snail's pace -- or so it may seem to city residents.

Water Superintendent Orian Hackler said that the extra amount of trash which accumulated in the summer months is the cause of trucks not being able to make their pickup runs sooner.

"With canning season here, we have much, much more garbage to remove and also grass cuttings and trimmings from trees," Hackler said.

"We are doing everything possible to get this trash picked up and with the help of city residents, this can be accomplished," he continued.

"We would like to ask residents to leave their grass cuttings out of their barrels until dried, then put them in the barrels and burn them. Also there have been some few barrels that were so packed with garbage that it takes three men to lift them."

"We ask the cooperation of the city residents in this matter and with both employees and residents working together, this problem will no longer remain a problem and trash pickups can be made more readily."

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was received here this week and since the trash problem had been confronting our water superintendent, we felt this would be very timely to print this article at this time.)

WHAT IS A WATER SUPERINTENDENT?

Just what kind of a person is a water and sewer superintendent?

To a minor segment of the public, he is a man who is never in his office when they try to reach him by phone to register a complaint--they see him as a man who spends most of his time drinking coffee with salesmen and contractors, or attending out-of-town conventions and meetings of all sorts.

To the mayor and city commission, he is a man who never attends the council meetings unless he wants a raise, an expensive piece of equipment, or something else.

To the over-busy city manager, he is a man who can't be found when an irate housewife is on the phone about a washerful of white clothes that have been ruined by rusty water; a man unable to sell enough water during a rainy year to hold off a tax increase the next; a man whose budget never seems to go any way except UP.

To some of his employees, he is a slave driver who doesn't get them a raise as often as they would like, a man who expects them to work while the World Series is on TV.

To his children he is a stranger who comes by the house some time after 5 o'clock shaves, showers, changes clothes, kisses them goodbye and says, "I have a meeting to attend."

To his wife he is a man who calls up five minutes before mealtime to tell her he won't be home for lunch, or to ask her to have a white shirt and suit ready in 10 minutes because he has only 15 minutes to get to a meeting. He is a man the phone gets up at all hours of the night and disturbs her rest and wakes the kids. A man who comes in with wet clothes and muddy boots and tracks up her freshly mopped floors. A man who cannot visit her friends with her on Sunday afternoon because he has to go to the office and work on a report due last Friday. And one who can't take her on out-of-town trips because it is against the rules for her to ride in the city-owned car.

To the State Health Department, he is a man who pays no attention to their recommendations for improving his system; who is late with his reports, and never comes by unless he is in trouble.

To himself, he is a man overworked and underpaid, who does not have enough time with his family, or to hunt and fish as much as he would like--a man who worries about the citizens of his city. He is a man accused of dumping chlorine into the water with a shovel; who is besieged with complaints about "the high water bill this month"; who worries because a duck can't swim in city water; who worries about staying within a budget that was too small to start with; who wonders where he will get the money to buy a new sewer cleaning machine.

He is a man who finally gets to bed about midnight, but as he leaves the house at 2 a. m. to fix a main break, thinks, "Surely, somewhere there is an easier way to make a living!" He knows, however, that he is a man who would not be happy doing anything else. (Sleep, and that long overdue vacation, can be put off, once again, until tomorrow!) By M. E. Owen Populations of the sorghum midge have now reached damaging levels in a number of South Plains counties including Lubbock, Lynn, Terry, Yoakum, Crosby, Hockley and Garza.

Fields of grain sorghum in these counties which have not yet completed blooming will need insecticide treatment in order to prevent yield losses from midge damage, reports Lyndon K. Almand, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

First application should be made when about 90 percent of the heads have emerged from the boot stage, says Almand.

A second application will be needed about three or four days after the first application.

If pollination is still occurring, a third application or even possibly a fourth will be required.

Producers in the seven counties named above can determine whether or not to spray for midge by inspecting their fields, which are blooming, at least once each day for adult midge activity.

Or they can follow an insurance method, adds the entomologist. To insure against losses due to the tiny insect, producers can begin an automatic spraying program and follow the schedule of application above.

Damaging populations of the sorghum midge have not been detected north of the Lubbock-Crosby-Hockley County area. Producers in adjoining counties should continuously inspect their sorghum fields if in the bloom stage for adult midge activity, points out Almand.

Former Resident Returns To Pastor Mission Church

Rev. Pat Gloria has answered the call to become pastor of the Trinity Mexican Baptist Mission.

The new pastor is a former resident of Olton, having lived here approximately 12 years, moving away in 1952. He is married to the former Julia Alcantara. They have four children, "Zeke", 15, Ruth, 12, Gracie, 9, and Pat Jr., 4.

Prior to moving to Olton, Gloria was associated with Richardson Ford Agency in Albuquerque, N. M. and was a 500 member of the 300-500 Salesman Club.

A World War II veteran, Gloria served in the armed forces six years. He attended Wayland College for three years while living in Olton.

"I am happy to come to Olton to join the church that has meant so much to me," Gloria remarks.

He added that he was converted on the Wayland College

Band Parents Meeting Called

A meeting of Band Parents has been called for 7:30 p. m. tonight in the school cafeteria. Officers for the new school year will be elected and installed.

Outgoing president, Glenn Phillips, announces that a good year is expected and much enthusiasm is being shown.

All parents are urged to attend this organizational meeting.

New Elementary Science Introduced To Student

Once upon a time the sounds coming from the little red school house were the voices of children busily studying their reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic. Gone today are the little red school houses. From today's modern buildings come the sounds of reading, new math and science.

H. P. Webb Elementary students are in their first full year of the AAAS science program -- a program designed, not to make scientists of every student, but to open the field of science to those students who might like to study science.

The program introduces the first grade student to the understanding and appreciation of the five senses. Children are led to the discovery that all activity results from the use of at least one of the five senses.

Students in the first four grades are participating in the continuing program. Each level leads progressively to the next. All grades are related. Flexibility is the keynote of the program. Most exercises may be completed with one day's activities and three or four days used for making observations and discussions.

The teacher is not considered "the top dog", as Mrs. Carmaleta Barnett, second grade teacher, points out and is no more important in the study than the child.

Hamburger Feast To Honor Faculty

Members of the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture will give new and returning teachers their own version of "Welcome Y'all" at 8 p. m. Friday as they host the educators to a hamburger supper at the Olton Recreational Center.

Teachers will be individual guests of C-CA members for the second annual "welcome teachers" affair.

Mrs. Barnett adds that the "teacher sets the stage and motivates the child". The rest is a "doing process" followed by discussions of the activity.

One of the activities that second grade students will be performing revolves around the activity of popping corn.

Students discover that they use their senses of smelling and hearing in determining what action is taking place when a pop corn popper is hidden by a screen. Further processes lead the child in discovering what has happened in the process.

Some of the activities during the year will include study of two dimensional and three dimensional shapes. "Activity boxes" are partially filled and students will bring additional "materials" -- including such things as string, marbles, balls, blocks, papers, magnets and numerous other "things that mothers will be glad to get rid of."

An Enterprise subscriber handed us the following item from the Dallas News, written by Frank X. Tolbert in his column, "Tolbert's Texas."

The Sand Crawl is a great range of sand dunes northwest of Lubbock. The dunes start east of the Pecos River escarpment in New Mexico and crawl for 108 miles up to near the highway between Lubbock and Amarillo. And the range is usually about five miles wide.

When I was a child in the town of Littlefield, just south of the Crawl, these were real, Sahara-like dunes. Yet something has happened to The Sand Crawl, or at least to that portion of it around Earth, Olton, and Hart Camp where I was wandering the other day.

In my boyhood, if recollection holds, there was little vegetation in the dunes except for a plum thicket and a few dwarfish trees. Then this was a fun place, a magnificent sand pile for youngsters, and we often went there to toboggan down the firm slopes of the dunes.

Now the dunes around the City of Earth and around Olton and Hart Camp, or the ones seen from the road, are all covered over with grasses, and there are lots of big trees, while the plum thickets seem to be fewer.

IN THE GENERAL store at Hart Camp town (once a line camp on the great Spade Ranch) a rancher told me: "The dunes around here are getting real civilized. We don't have many bald-headed dunes left. Most of them are grassed over."

Actually, this isn't true throughout all of the Sand Crawl. When I was in the City of Muleshoe, off to the west, some time ago people were using bulldozers to keep wandering sand dunes from moving in on streets on the outskirts.

MY LATE friend, Frank Bryan, a Groesbeck geologist who wandered all over the Southwest afoot while working for oil companies, was fascinated with The Sand Crawl.

He said that "these shiny-trapped sand dunes are one of the geologic wonders, relics of an Ice Age riverbed pickled in placed many thousands of years ago."

THE CHANGES in the town of Olton startled me. When I was a boy this was a dusty village in the dunes with wooden sidewalks and false front frame business buildings. Now most everything is of new masonry construction, and there's even a place on the edge of town where you can get your Poodle clipped.

Some of the farmers in these now lush irrigated lands live in $50,000 dwellings. And there's an Olton country club.

THE CITY OF EARTH, just to the west of Olton, also presents an extremely prosperous appearance. But when I was among the Earthmen what the radio announcers on the weather call a "Canadian front" was moving through, the temperature was down to around 70, and there were a few dust devils whirling around in the green fields of cotton and milo maize.

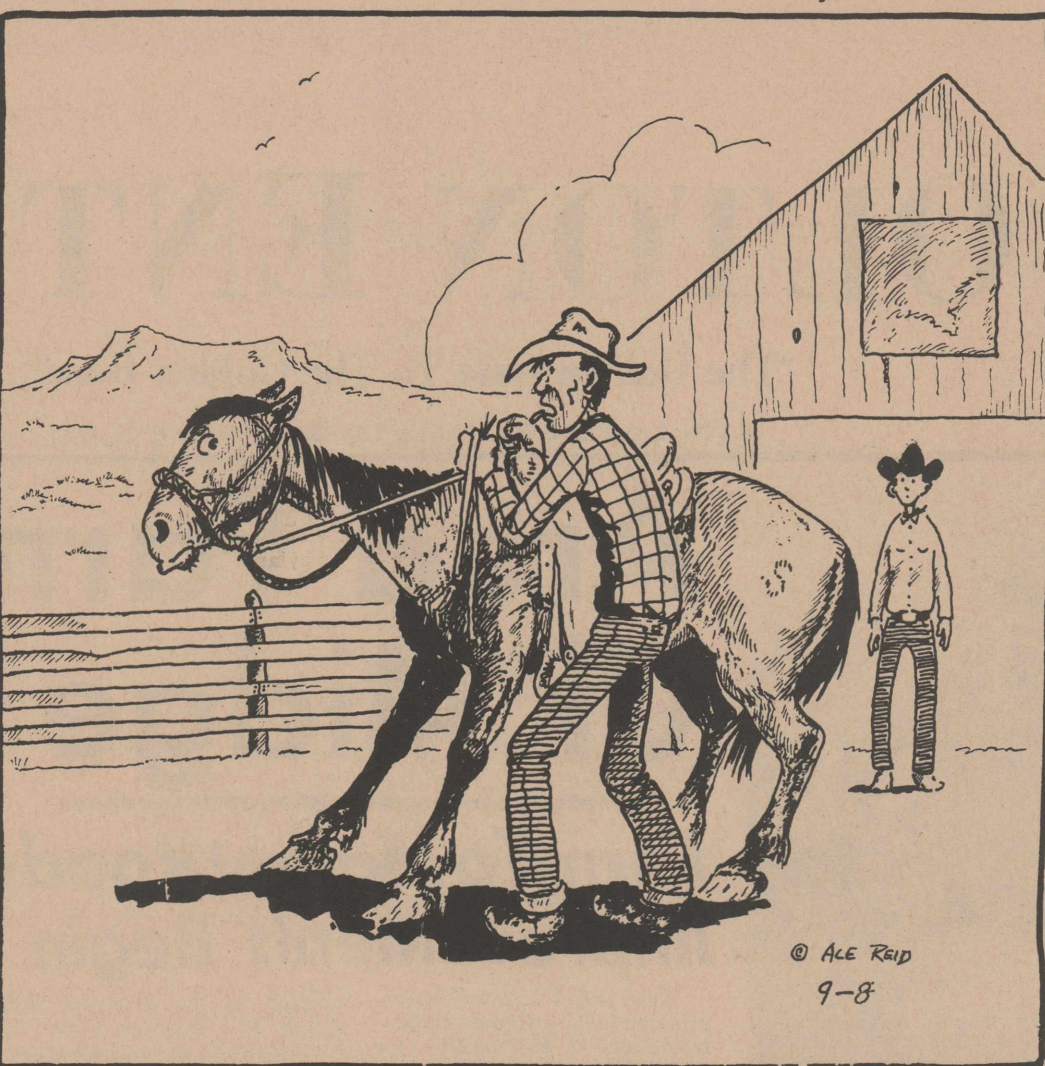

This reminds how Earth got its name. The first (1925) postmaster, C. H. Reeves, now of Littlefield, is said to have been inspired to title the town when a big sandstorm was in progress. "The earth moves in Earth," pronounced Mr. Reeves.

The Earthmen are still troubled by an occasional sandstorm. Otherwise, the irrigated lands around and in this part of The Sand Crawl is an agri-our one-party legislature have voted to double their own salaries every two years for the past several sessions. This is a strange assignment of priorities.

"Texas ranks 48th in agricultural research in proportion to production at a time when one hundred thousand farmers have left the farms of our state in the past six years.

"And yet John C. White, the agriculture commissioner, has been using appropriated funds for political purposes for years.

"A two-party system will benefit all the people because all members of both parties will work harder to serve the people in a responsible way.

"People are paying just about all the taxes they can pay and it's time to try to find some places where we can cut expenditures so that we can make progress in education and other needed fields while holding taxes in line," he concluded. "The voters of the 72nd District are also going to be heard on the issue of daylight savings time, which was sponsored and passed against their known wishes, and which has been a real hardship on school children; mothers, farmers, and many businesses." Ford stated that he will have more to say on this issue in the near future.

First Grader

BY SUE CANNON

We are all aware that school has begun I'm sure and I'm also sure that there is probably no one any more aware of it than a mother who has a first grader who really isn't as enthused about the whole situation as much as he thought he would be.

Yep---I'm that mother! That onery little guy -- He came home from school the FIRST day and said he got a spanking!

(Now I know how Amy Turner felt when she said her Dandy told her she got a spanking the first day.)

Well, of course, I had to get the facts!

So the third degree begins. "You mean you actually got a SPANKING?"

"Yes."

"What were you doing?"

"Just sliding on the hall floors."

"Had she told you once not to do it?"

"Yes."

"Well, why did you do it again?"

"I don't know."

"Did you have to go to Mr. Gordon's office?"

"No."

"Well, who spanked you?"

"My teacher."

"With a paddle?"

"No, just hit me once, with her hand."

So the truth finally came to light. I'm surprised he even felt one swat---he ought to be tough from all those swats at home.

Well, I explained to him how he was supposed to do what the teachers told him -- the first time, and thought things would be alright for the next day.

Happy thought!

The next evening he came home with this to say:

"If THOSE teachers don't quit getting after me!"

"Now what did you do?"

"Nothing."

"Nothing?"

"Well, my teacher had told me I could go over there and play and then she got on me because I did."

"You must have misunderstood the place she told you that you could play."

(And besides -- probably her saying one little thing to him is equal to my spanking him.)

He dropped the subject at this point and began talking about learning about O's and A's and such.

I guess he must have made it through the day Wednesday without any trouble or maybe it was because I worked late last night and didn't get to have a conference with him.

Not only do I have a problem with my first grader, but the little boy left at home is most unhappy!

Those two kids have been inseparable all their lives and now Scottie has to stay home one more year before he can begin school.

And he doesn't like it a little bit.

Two mornings this week I had to leave him screaming cold bloody murder, locked in the house at the baby sitters.

Course as soon as he sees that I am really gone to work, she said he doesn't give her any more trouble.

So I am looking forward to a better week next week, when routine sets in and everybody gets in a rut.

As for next year -- I may not be so anxious for school to start since I'll have ANOTHER first grader to enroll.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

Now that the political conventions are over and it's too late to tell them my suggestions I have come up with a sure-fire, vote-getting move that could have won either of them untold support.

Think of the overwhelming approval that any of the candidates could have had from the women of America - and yes, the men, too - had they made the announcement each day to this effect:

"Good morning, America! I have asked my fellow aspirants and the news media to support me in the move to cancel all convention activity during the thirty-minute period dedicated each weekday to that intriguing, impelling soap-box opera, 'As the World Turns.' Can't you hear the tremendous applause that would have inspired?

I might add here that I, for one, do not watch the spell-binding saga. Of course, I should admit, I'm not home at 12:30 p. m. (I have to keep up with it through the reports of others.) Ever noticed how often you come across people discussing "what happened today on THE PROGRAM?" May be the two gals at the beauty parlor, loudly sharing their impressions with each other while drying away. Could be when they bump baskets in front of the detergent display at the grocery store or even while shopping for Junior's socks.

I expect the subject has come up over the back yard fence. And don't forget the service station while Tom, Dick or Harry fill the gas tank.

What's the subject under such intense discussion at the coffee shop? The farm program? Midge still in the grain? How the Cowboys did in the ballgame Sunday? NOPE. They're relating the "latest with Lisa."

Seriously, I don't know what psychologists say about the absorbing interest in the day-to-day life in the Hughes family but it seems to me, it can't be too bad!

After all, for 30 minutes, you forget that Junior spilled his glass of milk on the freshly waxed floor or that Husband told Boss "Sure, she'll be glad I brought you to dinner - there's always plenty for one more."

You even forget Wife sweetly confiding "Honey, you know those old boots you wear hunting? Well, this poor old man..."

Pardon my green eyes as I tell you Happy Viewing, you addicts!

Olton Mustangs Trample Idalou In First Scrimmage Of Season

Olton Mustangs ran past Idalou AA varsity team in a scrimmage there Tuesday night.

Scoring six times, the Mustangs ran a total of 378 yards in 40 plays while Idalou scored only twice and ran a total of 24 yards in 50 plays.

Coach Don Beck said that the Mustang defense looked a little better than the offense.

"We are pleased with our boys' efforts but we still have a long way to go in being a good team," Beck commented. "I can say that Idalou hit us real, real well. And you know, they are a AA team in the district with Denver City."

Beck said the Mustangs' passing game was hindered by a cross wind.

"Our quarterback threw well, receivers caught well, but the wind was a factor. It got us slightly off target. We dropped some that otherwise we would have had."

In individual play, Eddie Hooper, Benny Akin and Kenneth Johnson were outstanding defensively and Charles A. McClain, Tony George, Joe Luera, Akin and Johnson were outstanding offensively.

"A real good job blocking was done by Tony George and Joe Luera."

The Mustangs meet with a school from Amarillo in their first game of the season when they play Alamo High here Sept. 13.

Wayland College Releases 1968-69 School Calendar

The Wayland College 59th academic year will begin September 5.

Significant of the growth of the college as the new school year approaches, Dr. Roy McClung, Wayland President, pointed out, is the recently completed $500,000 Harrah Memorial Auditorium, construction progress on the $500,000 Moody Science Building and addition of 7 modern faculty offices in the administration building.

Dormitory reservations show that student retention at Wayland will be above normal, said Mrs. Audrey Boles, registrar. Freshman pre-registration is normal.

Fall semester final examinations will be December 16-20.

The microterm, an innovation at Wayland and in this part of the country last year, and very well received by Wayland students, is scheduled January 6, when classes start, through January 24, date for final examinations.

The microterm affords students the opportunity to earn a maximum of four hours credit during three weeks of daily classes aimed at concentrated study.

Deadline for making application for enrollment for the fall semester is August 26. Dormitories will open August 28 for orientation of new freshmen. The dining hall will open on the same date for orientating freshmen.

Students will begin moving into dormitories September 1 and the dining hall will open at 7:45 a. m. the next day.

Orientation of all students is scheduled September 2. Sophomores, juniors and seniors will register September 3, starting at 8 a. m. Freshmen and transfers will register September 4, starting 8 a. m.

A major event in the long history of Wayland College is scheduled for September 8, dedication of the Harrah Memorial Auditorium to be highlighted by a convocation and program with religious emphasis on that date.

The dedication observances will continue during the week for the structure provided with funds donated by Mrs. John L. Harrah, Abernathy, an alumnus and former faculty member at Wayland.

MRS. GEORGE REDINGER

"If I had to choose one place in which to spend 24 hours each day it would probably be my kitchen - for I do love to cook" - this a quotation from Mrs. George Redinger who offers this week some of her gourmet delicacies.

school months.

Children of the couple include J. O. Bass III and Betty Ann Bass, students in Plainview High School. Another daughter, Marie Bass, attends college in Washington, D. Well, school has started, officially--as of 8:15 last Monday morning. Hey! Who goofed? Somebody said school started at 8:30! Wonder who?

Speaking of time, the entire schedule is a bit different this year. And if you are a bit confused, don't feel lonesome--so are we!!

The first day of school--for the seniors, the LAST first day--was the setting for class meetings. The seniors elected Danny Collins their president (lucked out, huh, Collins?); Kenneth Johnson, vice-president; Letha Estes, secretary; and Sunee Saejow, Treasurer.

Juniors chose Joel Nelson as their fearless leader; Leslie Holladay, vice-president; Gay Fisher, secretary; and La Juana Burleson, treasurer.

The sophomore class elected Gregg Smith, president; Carol Blackwell, vice-president; Connie Hall, secretary; and Jim Key, treasurer.

The freshmen, being a little scared, and a lot excited, voted Steve Stockdale, president; Keith Neinst, vice-president; and Gaynette Edwards, secretary.

The pep squad had their annual freak-out known otherwise as a come-as-you-are-breakfast early last Saturday morning at Janie Jones' house. Breakfast was served, and then the cheerleaders got a chance to show off some of the new yells they will be doing a little later this fall--like Friday night, September 13, 1968 at 8 p. m.

Jeanie Gardner, Letha Estes, Helen Smith, Jan Carson, Kathi Norfleet, and Luci Gunter were up early Saturday too. They served at a faculty breakfast hosted by the F.T.A. The school board members were guests for the occasion.

We have several new teachers walking around the halls this year. A hearty welcome goes to each of them. We would like for them to know we are proud they could join us in O.H.S. this year.

Hey, Benny Akin, what was that word giving you so much trouble in Mr. Murphy's English class? And WHO was classified as a snare drummer???

As everybody knows; it gets pretty hot these days, so when you see somebody pass out in the hall, let the poor kid have some air. - And in the next paragraph-- our definition of love.

What is love?? Love to a piece of notebook paper is a psychedelic notebook.

Lamb County 4-H's Place High In Contest

Lamb County 4-H's placed high in a record books judging contest in Lubbock Aug. 12. The twenty-county District 2 contest was held in the Garden & Arts Center in Lubbock to determine the best record books kept in the district in several categories.

The best previously judged books in each of the 20 counties were entered, making the competition especially keen.

Hey diddle diddle,
I'm watching my middle,
I'm hoping to whittle it soon.
