Local Unit Of TST. Assoc. Is Well Launched

(By MELVIN MATHIS)
With the attendance of the president, Jeanne Cagle, at an Austin meeting Aug. 11-12 for local unit and district presidents, it may very well be said that the Floydada Local Unit of the Texas State Teachers Association was well launched into its second year. All the teachers in Floyd County formerly were together in one unit, and when the executive Board met for a Dutch breakfast on Aug. 18 two of its former presidents were present, Hollis Payne, filling in for the representative for his school, who could not be present, and Bob Alldredge, representing Floydada High School.

Mrs. Cagle, who served as president elect (first vice-president) last year, led the officers in outlining and planning for an ambitious program for 1969-70, making use of a budget approaching $1,000, stressing two unit banquets, the district meeting at Lubbock, and two "drive-in" workshops at Lubbock during the year. Much stress is being laid this year on "professional ethics" for school teachers.

Serving as current first vice-president, and president-elect for 1970-1971, is J.E. Waller, who is to direct the programs for the two unit banquets, now scheduled for October and February with the district meet in March.

Melvin Mathis is serving his second year as second vice-member of the family unable to be present was John Redding of Idalou.

This group all returned home Saturday and the Melvin Dunavant family visited at Ralls with her father, Jesse Hall and at Lubbock with their relatives, coming to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Dunavant Monday for a short visit here before returning to their home in Arkansas Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Hambright, Kathy and Todd visited Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Hambright.

president, in charge of publicity and public relations.

Glady Higgins is the new secretary, and Norma Robertson is treasurer.

Building representatives are Bob Alldredge, high school; Carolyn Bell, junior high; Doris McLain, Andrews Elementary; and Ruth Williams, Duncan Elementary.

Underlying the variety of work performed by these nine officers are the assignment of each in public school life; sixth grade, high school drafting, fourth grade, junior high librarian, Duncan sixth grade, distributive education for high school students, junior high Texas history, and geography for seventh graders, Andrews fifth grade, and Duncan first grade. The community affiliations and activities of the executive board members is indicative of the work for community betterment of the teachers in Floydada as a whole. Allied in the work of the local unit are the faculties at South Plains and Dougherty, who are represented by their principals, Claude Jarrett and Elmer C. Watson, respectively.

Floydada local teachers traditionally begin their year as a group with attendance at the Rotary Club's Teacher Appreciation Banquet, early in the school year.

Why Should I Vote For Mackenzie Water Project?

(an opinion submitted from Tulsa)

The farmers throughout the area tell us that water tables are falling each year. Engineers and experiment stations have records to prove these statements.

There are no facts to prove them wrong. So why shouldn't I vote for water, so that these towns will have water to drink when their wells run dry? Records for almost 100 years show that rainfall for the Tulsa watershed has averaged around 22 inches a year.

WHY NOT WAIT UNTIL WE NEED THE WATER TO BUILD THE DAM?

The right to develop the watershed was issued to the involved four towns by the Texas water board. These rights will expire on October 26, 1969.

State Representative Ralph Wayne was in Tulsa recently and told Don Crocker, manager of the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce, that it was up to the voters now. He said it has been four years since we asked the Texas Water Board for these water rights. We went back once and asked for an extension. What are we going to do for another extension? The Tulsa water project runs into Oklahoma cities in the Tulsa asking Oklahoma water drainage area. Tulsa has this extra future growth. In the future, we Lubbock also grow their own from the Mackenzie water project. They cannot expect a quantity of water low House cause it won't naturally, they need additional water future.

So if we want to grow our own water out, more than rights and the for the proposed Water Project ceremony by someone else.

William Campbell Marriage Vows

What a scene in the chapel of the Methodist Church in Garden Grove, Calif., as William Campbell and Stephanie Gayle McClymonds exchanged vows. The bride, a graduate of Lockney High School, was dressed in a white gown with a long train and a full skirt. She wore a heart-shaped diamond necklace and a matching bracelet. The groom, a graduate of Hillcrest High School, was in a blue suit and a white shirt with a red tie. The ceremony was officiated by Rev. R.H. Ashton, who read the opening prayer. The couple exchanged vows and rings, and the bride kissed the groom on the cheek. The ceremony was a private affair with only family and close friends in attendance. The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a large crowd of guests gathered to celebrate the couple. The bride and groom were the center of attention, surrounded by friends and family. The night was filled with music, dancing, and a large feast. The couple was the life of the party, and everyone enjoyed the celebration. The wedding was a beautiful and memorable event for all who attended.

He commented that her writing was doing something for our youth that policemen had been trying to do all along and that was to make them understand "just what alcohol" could do to a person. He said and I quote "we really appreciate what Brenda is doing with her writing ability and for the help she has given us through her written articles in the Hesperian."

MRS. TOMMY MOORE

Miss Rotha Bennett, Tommy L. Moore Exchange Wedding Vows

Double-ring wedding vows were exchanged Friday at 7:30 o'clock p.m. by Miss Rotha Lee Bennett and Tommy Luis Moore. Rev. C. B. Melton performed the ceremony in the First United Methodist Church in Floydada.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore. Both families reside in Floydada.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length gown of white silk taffeta and Chantilly lace. It was styled with a scalloped neckline and elbow length sleeves highlighted by a band of ribbon. Her bow headpiece

She is wanting to hear from anyone who was in high school here at that time or any senior of 1929. Her mailing address is Route 3, Box 224.

I'M sure Edell Moore and his daughter, Jenis Tucker, could spend hours telling of Hurricane Camille. Edell was able to tour a big section of the hard hit Biloxi, Miss., and Gulf Port sections last week. He flew up to check on his daughter and family, who reside at Biloxi and Jenis and baby accompanied him back to Floydada until power and water could be restored to Biloxi. Jenis and her husband and baby secured shelter in a church before the hurricane struck, along with thousands of others. Jenis related that some residents of the city observed the vigil, not in a prayerful hope of surviving attitude, but in a partying manner, buying up cases of beer and other alcoholic beverages to celebrate through the night. Ironically Edell said with all the homes torn to shambles along with business establishments in Biloxi he saw no church torn down in the part he toured. Even the one where the Tuckers sought refuge received little damage and it wasn't even a completed building, only plywood boards over the windows protected those inside against the 190 mile an hour wind and rain.

RECEIVED a card from Ethie and Oliver Allen this week. They are at Ft. Worth where held a brief veil of silk illusion.

Miss Brenda Moore of Crosbyton, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Mark Timmons of Northfield was best man.

A reception was held in the Bennett home after the wedding.

Following a honeymoon trip the couple will make their home in Amarillo.

Mrs. Moore attended Floydada High School and Draughton's Business College in Lubbock. Her husband, a graduate of Matador High School, is attending West Texas State University.

Ethie is receiving new treatment for Parkinson's disease, medication and physical therapy. They said they were well pleased and think Ethie is showing improvement. Oliver said the hospital was a wonderful place and it made a person really appreciate what is being done for the crippled children there. Too, he said, "It makes you wonder if we appreciate good health as we should, until a person can see what we are seeing. I hope we never complain again about our little aches and pains. No one would if they could visit this hospital." Ethie and Oliver are due home this week.

HAVE you ever noticed the sign on the outskirts of Post? It claims to have the "World's Only Sextuple Oil Well". This means that six pump jacks (or mule heads) are pumping oil from two holes only 30 feet apart from six different sands in what is called one oil well. The six pump jacks have orange racing stripes. If these mule heads ever - producing oil wells are going to be in urban sections, Frank Tolbert writer of Tolbert's Texas, thinks they should be painted artistically. The Bond Operating Company of Dallas, (whose owner is a brother in-law of Mrs. J. H. Barnard of Floydada) and the Post Chamber of Commerce have gone all out in the decor for the world's only sextuple oil well, including a huge colored diagram type illustration which explains how the well is working in the six different sands of the San Andres and Glorieta from 3,200 down to 3,730 feet. Mr. Dorsey who is the drilling superintendent for Bond Operating Co., is the husband of the former Florence Ann Lloyd of Floydada.

GUESS I should apologize to Pauline (Skeets) Marney for having her mother of her own sister and you can't hardly do that. In my column last week I meant to say Alice Marney is the mother of Mrs. Hargrove at Crosbyton but it didn't come out that way, something was wrong with my typewriter! Anyway Mrs. Marney got a big laugh out of it even if Skeets didn't.

WELL have more meddlins the 18th of September issue. Till then I hope to be resting and seeing the sights in California until about the 15th.

Grain Sorghum Producers To Promote Pork

High Plains and Panhandle grain sorghum producers are looking forward to the time when their area will become the leading pork producing area of the nation. Following approval of the grain sorghum referendum in October, one of the programs will be to help establish the pork industry in West Texas.

Elbert Harp, executive director of Grain Sorghum Producers Association said, "As grain farmers, we realize our best markets for grain are our local markets. We do not have to pay freight on this grain, as on grain shipped from the area. GSPA has been very active in the development of the cattle feeding industry of the High Plains and Panhandle and we feel this same area is also a natural for development of a pork industry."

Roy Poage, Lubbock swine breeder and president of West Texas Pork Producers Association reported, "Texas is importing about 70 per cent of its dressed pork from other states. We have about the best climate for hog production in this area that is available anywhere. With the feed supply that is plentiful in West Texas, there is no reason why we can not build it into the nation's top pork producing region. As it develops additional packing companies will move in, and other deficit areas will begin looking to us for their supply of pork."

Harp added, "In addition to all the grain being fed to cattle, we still produce enough grain to fatten almost 10 million head of feeder pigs. One reason GSPA is sponsoring the referendum in October is so all the farmers can join together in this promotion work to add a healthy pork feeding industry to the fast growing cattle feeding business. This would help stabilize a stronger grain market and the higher prices necessary to keep the grain farmers in business."

"I REMEMBER, I REMEMBER....."

First Grain Elevator

Not long after the Santa Fe Railway Company took over the Llano Estacado Railway Company and began rail service into Floydada a young unmarried man by the name of A.E. Barkemeyer, bought a site on the industrial switch and constructed a concrete elevator. This was in time for the 1912 wheat crop. He operated the business until 1914 when he sold out to Henry Edwards and his father.

Barkemeyer soon gravitated back to his native Kansas, I am told. His elevator had a capacity of about 15,000 bushels. It was well arranged for handling grains and conducting a seed and feed business. Compared with present-day monsters it wasn't much, but it was quite a thing in its day. It served and still is serving a public need well.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT
A serious accident occurred in the course of running the concrete into the forms for the elevator. The contractor got caught up in the machinery he had rigged to elevate the concrete. I can't recall the man's name nor enough of the circumstances to write much about it. One leg was badly mangled. There wasn't any hospital. I can't recall the circumstances myself but Calvin Steen is pretty sure they loaded the man in a wagon and hauled him up to Dr. Varn Andrew's house. I think they had to amputate his leg.

There was no electric service in Floydada at the time Barkemeyer built the elevator. He installed a one-cylinder gasoline engine for a power plant, which at times became balky.

After the Edwards' became owners I visited the place more than once when Henry was having to coax that engine into kicking off.

The business was operated as a buying and shipping station for grains, as a seed house, and also as a retail feed and coal store by Edwards Elevator. Henry Edwards gave more than a third of a century to the business. His worth to the country during the hard years of World War I and into the late 30's can hardly be over-stated.

Henry Edwards spent a good deal of time and money seeing that there was good wheat, maize and sudan seed for planting in season. This was a service to the public, and also a matter of good business.

Also for years he sold feed and coal in large volume. Quite a bit of this volume was in small quantities - as little as 100-pound sacks. For what was called a nickel profit he furnished a sack, 100 pounds of feed or coal, scooped and sacked - and often carried out and dumped into the customer's pickup or truck. Some of Henry's customers thought he was getting rich off of his neighbors that way.

Some of his friends and associates knew he was taking profits from his other operations to carry on. Sometimes they would "scold" him when he wouldn't have much to say. He was never one you would call a glib talker. About all he would say was "Well, times are pretty hard."

(He had something there, as I remember.)

The first system in Texas was located at Golinda, in Falls County south of Waco. Golinda's system supplied 27 homes when originally built in 1959, now serves 70 after 10 years of community growth nourished by the water lines.

The Madera Valley system takes water from a deep well near the Ft. Davis Mountains in Jeff Davis County and distributes it northward to the vicinity of Pecos. A 127-mile pipeline system reaches the communities of Toyahvale, Baragosa, Brogoda, Saragosa, Verhalen, Alamo, Hoban, and Valley Farm. Four hundred homes, farms, and other establishments will be served. The new system ends their dependence on water hauled from points such as Pecos and Balamorhea - only towns in the area previously equipped with water systems.

The Madera Valley system was built with a $571,000 Farmers Home Administration insured loan to the nonprofit Madera Valley Water Supply Corporation. With its completion, the advantage of modern water service now has been brought to 250,000 rural Texas people in the past 10 years.

Water Issue Vote Nears September 6

Although the state water plan failed by some 5,000 votes in August, the people of Floydada, Lockney, Silvertown and Tulia have their chance to approve their own water plan which will guarantee water for the future for municipal use.

The vote is September 6 in all four towns.

The plan, under direction of the Mackenzie Municipal Water Authority, involves building a dam across the Tule Creek in Briscoe County, creating a deep reservoir lake at that location, and constructing a water processing and purification plant near Silvertown.

Four cities, then - Silvertown, Tulia, Lockney and Floydada - will have access to this water supply when water transmission pipelines are built from the purification plant to those cities.

A similar proposal was voted down two years ago. But this time, a different approach to the taxpayers' pocketbooks promises a better chance of success, says Lon Davis, president of the authority.

The water plan will appear on the ballot as two propositions, he said. The first proposition will give the authority the power to issue $4,615,000 in tax bonds to finance the dam, reservoir and plant.

The second proposition will be handled by each of the cities, rather than the authority. Voters will accept or turn down a water supply contract between the cities and the authority, thus allowing the authority to issue special project revenue bonds against the water supply contract.

This, Davis explained, means that initially only the dam, reservoir and plant will be built. As each of the cities individually needs the water supply, then, they will furnish funds to have a pipeline built bringing them the water.

However, if any of the cities defeats either of the propositions at the polls, the project cannot be carried out. If passed, though, Davis said Silvertown would be the first to take advantage of the supply, since it is in "dire need of water now."

Silvertown officials are not so worried, at least immediately, about the town's "dire need."

City manager Jerry Patton said the town had started using new well this summer, and there was no water shortage at this time.

"This well might last a year or it might last ten," he said. "There's no way to tell."

"But it may take five years for this thing (the authority's project) to be put in here, and if this well is depleted, and we don't find a new source, we could be hurting by then," he said.

"If it is defeated at the polls this time, though, it would be my guess that we'll just have to go out and find a new source."

The proposal was defeated in 1967 at Floydada and Tulia. Both Silvertown and Lockney passed it at that time. The election was for over eight million dollars, which included pipelines.

Tulia and Floydada, currently are both in good shape as far as water supplies are concerned, Davis said. He emphasized, however, that when well water becomes scarce in those cities, the option of building a pipeline from the Briscoe County reservoir would assure them ample water through the year 2,000, based on population estimates.

Davis said the proposed project would bring fringe benefits to the area in the form of recreational facilities.

"There are definite plans to develop the reservoir as a recreational area," he said, "although this cannot be done with tax money. It can, however, be done with other revenue sources."

The reservoir, with a shoreline of 29 miles and an average depth of 52 feet, will be suitable when stocked for fishing and water sports, Davis said.

The water will come from runoff sources draining into the Middle Tule Creek and North Tule Creek. Currently, this water flows into the Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River.

Davis emphasized that this water, made potable by the processing plant, is not for irrigation use. It is limited by law to municipal, industrial or mining usage.

If the issue passes, Davis said the first thing the authority will do is petition the Texas Water Rights Commission for an extension to the water permit entitling them to the drainage water on the Tule Creek - which otherwise expires in October. He said there is no question that they will be granted the extension.

Water!

Floydada citizens will vote on the proposition of a future and adequate water supply for Floydada on September 6th. The Mackenzie Municipal Water Authority has called an election on that date to give the citizens of Floydada an opportunity to express their desire on whether or not this dam should be built on Tule Creek.

This is perhaps one of the most important decisions the citizens of Floydada will make, no community can exist without water. We may or may not need water from this source for some time, but the Texas Water Board has notified this Authority that unless the citizens of the four cities that make up this authority proceed with the construction of this dam the water rights will be taken away from the authority and granted to some other city or cities and we will be left with the only source of water from underground wells which from all authoritative engineering reports is fast being depleted.

There have been many days and hours spent in meetings with boards and engineers and financial advisers on this project and reliable engineers have assured the authority board that if this dam is built that it will impound an adequate supply of water for the 4 cities that make up the authority. SOUTH PLAINS NEWS by Mrs. Murray Julian

SOUTH PLAINS, August 25- This Monday morning brought relief from the intense heat of the past months with a low of 65 degrees. Good rains last night on the farms of Bob Reeves,

L.N. Johnson, and J.P. Taylor, around 2 inches fell, a very welcome rain as all have pasture land which is so dry. South Plains received around 1 1/2 inches, with one inch on the Fred Fortenberry place. To the east on the Billy Stanforth, Grigsby Milton, and Kendis Julian farms around 1.30 was reported. Bad hail, wind and rain fell in parts of our community on Thursday afternoon with around 2 inches here in spots in South Plains. Hail was bad on the Rex Smitherman, Gene Giley, Esley Yearly farms, and some fell on the places of Dale West and Alvin Nichols, in that area. Gardens and flowers were ruined in the South Plains area Thursday.

Carlton Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.N. Johnson, will leave Tuesday for Levelland where he will be enrolled this coming fall as a freshman at the South Plains College.

Visitors at the South Plains Baptist Church Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Powell of Offutt Air Force Base of Omaha, Neb., and Zenda Cummings of Fort Worth, who has been visiting Zacha Cummings, and the Kendall Cummings family the past few weeks. She is the daughter of the Zach Cummings of Fort Worth, and formerly lived in South Plains. Tommy brought the special music for the church services Sunday morning.

Dan Smoot To Speak In Lubbock

The man who will probably run for the American Party against Ralph Yarborough for the U.S. Senate will speak at the KoKo Palace in Lubbock tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. He is Dan Smoot of Dallas.

Anyone interested in hearing Smoot should purchase tickets from Wayne Bramlett or Bill Strickland. Tickets are $10 each and may also be purchased at the door.

Bramlett said there would be a reception for Smoot at the KoKo from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Smoot has a varied experience of working at various jobs all over the United States as a young boy, then completed his education with a BA and MA degree from SMU.

In 1941 he received a teaching fellowship at Harvard. He entered duty as an Agent of the FBI in 1942 where he served for over nine years.

He resigned from the FBI in 1951.

While an FBI agent he became aware of the need to combat Communism.

Since that time he has become an ultra-conservative, and in 1951 Smoot joined the staff of Facts Forum in Dallas, a newly-formed educational organization. His job was to select subjects of national importance, direct research, and present pro- and con arguments on radio and tv.

Within three years, his broadcasts were on 350 radio stations and 80 tv channels.

In 1955, he resigned from Facts Forum and started his own independent, free enterprise publication, The Dan Smoot Report, to give only one side, the side that uses old-

FLOYD DATA
Mrs. G.C. Conley and Mrs. J.W. Woolbright of Quanah visited several days last week in Floydada with Mrs. Wynne Angus.

Dear Sir:

I did not think I would try another time to impose on you and the readers of our paper, but felt an urge to try again.

We West Texans voted strong for the long range water proposition but those who have plenty of water for present use and future prospects outvoted us in comparatively small majority.

Now we have another vote coming up Sept. 6, not to bring water from far away, but to have water that is ours by natural rainfall and preventing it leaving our region and adding to the burden of too much water down state...this is the Mackenzie water proposition.

We have been given option on this proposition which would soon expire, and doubtless be taken up by others if we turn it down. This lake will have as small evaporation as could be hoped for which is a big advantage.

This storing of water for future use could not be a benefit during my lifetime, if I have any left, but we hope for people to exist for all time until coming of Christ the second time.

So, please VOTE YES September 6th for benefit of coming generations.

Another thing, I appreciate the repair and improvements of much of Floydada's streets, but know that our method of raising money is not fair...making everyone regardless of ability to pay or benefit to pay equally, by the 50¢ extra on water, sewer and trash disposal each....$18 per year or $1.50 per month.

The last two issues of the Hesperian have given us an article on driving and alcohol which is sane and well stated by Brenda Mathis, a Floydada High School girl. Seems she means this mainly for youth, but it is real good for we older ones. It is an honor to Floydada to produce a girl with such thoughts and ability to state them so plainly and not be afraid for these thoughts to be in print.

Perhaps other boys and girls think but are afraid for their thoughts to be in print.

A two - third majority vote is required or a vote of approval by farmers producing at least 50 percent of all the grain in the 29 - county area, explains Wilson.
In addition to voting on the five cents assessment, producers will also select a 12 - man governing board, points out Wilson. This board will be comprised of area grain producers who will have been nominated prior to the election.
Any producer may have his name on the ballot by submitting along with the signatures of 10 other grain farmers, to the Grain Sorghum Producers Association in Lubbock by Sept.

This board will have the responsibility of developing programs of research promotion and education which they believe most vital to the grain producers of this area and use the funds for this purpose, explains Wilson. No funds will be used for political purposes.

The program if approved, will be voluntary in that any producer may get his money back if he so desires within 60 days after the date of collection.
Ballots will be sent to all grain producers in the area in early October. These will also be available at the county Extension Office, adds Wilson.
Counties involved in the upcoming referendum are the following: Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Floyd, Hale, Hans-
ford, Hartley, Hutchinson, Moore, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Sherman, Swisher, Bailey, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Gaines, Hockley,
Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum.

The official Floydada rain gauge showed 1.95 inches for the week's period. This brings the year's total to 15.70. This compares with 18.5 at this time last year.

Reports of five to six inches continued to come in for the Cedar Hill and Lakeview communities yesterday.

The Dougherty area received over three inches.

Five miles south of Floydada over four inches fell.

Barwise reported over an inch on Sunday night.

About an inch and a half were reported at Harmony and Mc-Coy, also in the Lockney area.

Otis Anderson reported 5.90 inches of rain and some damaging hail.

Reports from north of Lockney and some areas of the Center Community indicate that some irrigation wells may still be running, as they received only a half of an inch of rain.
