Military On Parade Here Today; Fair Set Thursday

CLOSE CALL—Chet Derby, in an aerobatic exhibition at the air show in Oakland, Cal., flies his smoke-trailing plane through the air barely missing a B-29. This unscheduled event occurred when a flight of low-flying Air Force B-29s passed over the field. Derby, flying upside down and unable to see what was above, came within about five feet of colliding with the B-29. This picture was made by Oakland Tribune Photographer Bill Crouch. (AP Wirephoto).

NINE CITIES SEND DELEGATIONS

Neighborliness Keynoted In Tuesday's Centennial Parade

The spirit of neighborliness prevailed in Tuesday's Centennial parade as floats and representatives from nine West Texas cities and the local Spanish community took part in the Good Neighbor Day procession.

Dignitaries from Abilene, San Angelo, Colorado City, Coahoma and Odessa rubbed shoulders with Big Spring and Howard county officials in the lead cars of the parade. Floats and bands from Stanton, Lamesa, Midland, and Coahoma, as well as four Latin-American units, appeared as the procession wound through downtown streets.

Crowds lined both sides of streets on the parade route as some 40 units marched and rolled in the Good Neighbor parade behind Highway Patrol and motorcycle escorts.

New floats in the second Centennial parade included those of the Home Demonstration club, the Druggists' association, Cap Rock Electric cooperative, and two Latin-American entries.

The Cap Rock float, portraying "the key to better living" atop a colorful base, was winner of the Martin county Fair parade several days ago. An old fashioned choir complete with old time gospel singing, was made up of Home Demonstration club members.

Big Spring's Queen of Mexican Independence, chosen Sept. 16, rode in state on one of the Spanish floats. The Spanish community was represented gathered around the village well aboard the other.

Bob Morris, mayor pro tem of Abilene, Boyd McDaniel, Abilene city manager and former city manager here, Mayor A. P. Brown of Odessa, Mayor Burr Brown of Coahoma, John King and Ray Bostick of San Angelo, E. C. Bunch, Odessa councilman, and local city and county officials rode in convertibles at the head of the Good Neighbor parade.

Marching at intervals in the procession were high school bands from Coahoma, Midland, Lamesa and Big Spring. Sheriff's Posses from Martin county and Big Spring rode after colorful floats.

Queenie the elephant and a tricycle-riding chimpanzee from the Tidwell carnival unconcernedly filled the rear ranks.

The Howard county American Legion post color guard, Miss Big Spring Centennial's float, entries from the State Hospital, West Texas Sand and Gravel company, Empire Southern Gas company, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Mead's Auto Parts store, Hemphill-Wells, American Business club, Hester's Supply store, Phillips Petroleum company, Southland Life Insurance agency, Lions club, Adair Music and Neel's storage, Cosden, Zales, the Herald, and a Latin-American marching unit also appeared in the parade.

Shivers Says City State Hospital In Need Of Expansion

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (AP) — Big Spring State Hospital is crowded and understaffed, Gov. Allan Shivers reported yesterday after a visit there earlier this week.

The governor said he found 470 patients in building resigned to care for about 419 and only two doctors to care for the 470 patients. One of the doctors, he said, was also superintendent, Dr. A. M. Bowden, who also has a heavy load of administrative duties.

"Additional buildings can be economically built and operated at Big Spring because the land is available and the power plant was built with expansion in mind," Shivers said.

The governor also visited Wichita Falls State Hospital and the East Texas Tuberculosis Hospital at Tyler last week. He said the Big Spring hospital was the most modern of the eleemosynary plants he has visited.

Yankees Gain Series Lead

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 5. (AP) —Tommy Henrich's dramatic home run clout into the lower right field seats leading off the last of the ninth gave the New York Yankees a 1-0 opening World Series victory over Brooklyn today, ending a sizzling mound battle between Allie Reynolds and Don Newcombe. Newcombe struck out 11 men. Reynolds 9, A crowd of 66,124 was on hand.

U. S. MOVES TO END COAL STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP) — The government today called John L. Lewis and soft coal operators to a meeting Friday in an effort to end the three-week mine shutdown.

Cyrus S. Ching, head of the federal mediation service, said the coal situation has "reached the place where it is approaching a crisis," that requires the intervention of his office.

The operators are meeting with Lewis and his United Mine Workers negotiators at Bluefield and White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., but Ching said a mere report of progress in those talks would not suffice to call off his Friday meeting here.

Ching said any report of progress in the West Virginia talks would be "very encouraging," but "it would have to be very definite" for him to drop his own call for an operator-union session.

Dryly, Ching remarked that he was not acting on the spur of the moment since contract negotiations have been underway for the South since May and for the rest of the industry since June.

Ching said that "although there is a lot of coal at some points, even today some people are affected by the coal shutdown and the longer it goes the worse it gets."

Asked if President Truman might use the emergency powers of the Taft-Hartley Act to halt the coal strike, Ching said "we're mediators."

Ching ventured the opinion, however, that an emergency would arise in the coal strike before it would in the steel strike.

He said "no formal moves" are contemplated immediately in the steel dispute.

Senate Group Spurns Olds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—The Senate Commerce Committee today spurned an appeal from President Truman and voted 10-2 against a third term for Leland Olds on the Federal Power Commission.

The committee's adverse report on the President's nomination of Olds for another term now goes to the Senate for action.

Mr. Truman joined in the fight yesterday with letters to Vice President Barkley and Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) of the commerce committee saying that "powerful corporations" wanted to block Senate approval of the nomination

Awards Offered For Best Beards In City

Local merchants are offering a dozen prizes to assorted winners in the Centennial Beard Growing contest.

Judging of whiskers in the various classes will be held on the Courthouse reviewing stand at 1 p. m. Saturday.

Prizes given by 10 concerns are on display in Anthony's show window, as are pictures of a few of the entrants in the contest. Anthony's has extended an invitation to all beard-growers to submit photos for display, but pictures are not necessary to win in the contest, as stated earlier in the Herald.

Awards to be made Saturday include a billfold given by McCrory's to the man with the reddest beard. The man trying hardest to grow a beard will receive a lighter from the Ritz Drug.

Zale's Jewelers are presenting a watch band to the most handsome man with a beard, while Burr's Department store is to award a jacket to the most handsome beard with a man.

The most scraggly beard will win a razor and lotion from Rogers Food store. Fashion Cleaners will Food store. Fahion Cleanrers will give $5 in cleaning to the owner of the ugliest beard.

Penny's will award a box of soap for the best goatee, while the man with the most astute beard is to be presented a tie by Anthony's.

The man with the best set of sideburns will receive a shirt and tie from Ward's. Mellinger's will give a belt to the man with the curliest beard.

The "Champeen" beard grower is to win a hat being offered by Anthony's.

All whisker raisers have been invited to appear at the reviewing stand at 1 p. m. Saturday for the judging. Only requirement for entering the contest is an attempt at beard growing, Centennial officials said.

U. S. May Stop Export Of Steel

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5. (AP) — The government is considering clamping down on the export of steel in the face of dwindling inventories which threaten idleness to hundreds of thousands in American industries.

Many companies are taking precautionary steps of their own as the nationwide steel strike goes into its fifth day.

Westinghouse Electric Corp. put a rationing system into effect today on many appliances.

There's no sign of peace in the steel strike.

And the picture remains almost as dark in the coal walkout.

The double-barrelled attack on America's economy has idled 513,000 steelworkers and 380,000 United Mine Workers.

The issues are about the same. The workers want a better pension and welfare program.

Let's take a look at the picture in steel:

Philip Murray, president of the steelworkers, is standing pat on his demand that industry pay all the costs of a pension and welfare program. Industry is standing pat, too. It will pay up to 10 cents an hour—but insists workers chip in a few cents an hour, too.

There are no negotiating sessions in sight. The government is keeping hands off the present.

That doesn't mean the government isn't concerned. Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer says he's considering imposing export controls on steel. That would keep more steel in America, prolonging employment in many industries in case the strike isn't ended soon.

Almost as Sawyer was talking, Westinghouse placed a number of home appliances on an allocation basis to distributers and dealers. These include large model refrigerators, electric ranges, washing machines, clothes driers, vacuum cleaners, water heaters and fans.

J. H. Ashbaugh, vice president of the company's appliance divisions, summed up Westinghouse's position this way:

"We have enough steel on hand for full production this month. But we will have to start cutting back operations at our plant here (Mansfield, Ohio) and in Springfield, Mass., by Nov. 1, and will be shut down by the end of November if there is no relief in the steel strike situation."

4,000 Witness Second Showing Of Centurama

Approximately 4,000 people from a wide area of West Texas paid their way into the municipal amphitheatre at the city park last night to watch the second edition of "Centurama," a review which reviewed Big Spring's first hundred years.

The huge turnout, which watched the spectacle under moon-drenched skies, filled the big bowl to the outer rims.

There was some complaint from the people in the far reaches of the half-saucer that they could not see everything that was going on.

There was no complaint from the show, itself.

The production was highlighted by the appearance of the Centennial Queen, Miss Patti McDonald, and her ladies-in-waiting.

Spectators, applauding the efforts of the actors—all of whom were amateurs—also had a good word for the manner in which the scenery was changed for the varying episodes. The stagehands accomplished a switch in sequences with remarkable ease, considering the fact that all of it was done by hand.

The third of three "Centurama" productions will be staged at the amphitheatre this evening, starting at 7:30 p. m. If the attendance holds up, as it is expected to do so, then the aggregate paid turnout will run better than 13,000.

A corps of policemen, all of whom were working overtime, kept the staggering amount of traffic moving to and from the park with hardly a bobble. Several different makeshift parking areas were utilized, one of them on the city softball diamond.

A brilliant fireworks display originating in the rise northeast of the amphitheatre, climaxed last night's show.

Special accommodations will be made for colored residents of Big Spring who wish to see the Centurama tonight, Centennial officials announced. These people have been welcome at any night of the show, but particular attention will be paid tonight to see that they have a section of seats, it was said.

17 Warplanes Will Circle City Today

Seventeen military aircraft, with arrivals scheduled to coincide with the Grand Military Day parade at 3 p. m., were to have circled above Big Spring this afternoon.

A B-36, four F-82 Twin Mustangs, and 12 AT-6 craft were to appear over the city between 2:50 and 3:45 p. m., Joe Pond, Military Day program chairman, said.

The AT-6's were to demonstrate the Air Force's tight formation flight tactics, while Twin Mustangs exhibited speed and maneuverability. The giant B-36 was to hover above the mass Army parade before returning to its Fort Worth base.

HCJC Development Model Is Displayed

Visitors as well as residents will have an opportunity to glimpse the projected plan for the Howard County Junior College physical property development.

A scale model, complete except for a few minor auxiliary structures, is on display in the Hester's window, 114 E. 3rd, this week. It was prepared by Puckett & French in keeping with master planning instructions from the college board of trustees.

The layout represents only 15 of the 100 acres the college has purchased at the corner of Martha and the county road on the east side of the Rodeo grounds.

Museum Display Viewed By 2,000 Here During Week

Approximately 2,000 persons have viewed the hundreds of pictures, paintings and relics on display at the West Texas Historical Museum during Centennial Week, Mrs. Roy Hester, custodian, said Tuesday night.

The exhibits, closely related to the development of the Big Spring area in the last 100 years, may be seen until 11 p. m. today, Mrs. Hester said. At that time, the museum is to be closed for the winter months.

Included among the items on display are articles of clothing fashionable in the 19th century, pioneer firearms and accessories, mounted specimens of animals native to this area, indian relics, and equipment used in both world wars. A collection of H. W. Caylor paintings depicting early ranch scenes and photographs of early settlers are being shown.

The City Park museum is maintained by the Business and Professional Women's club. It has been kept open on Sunday afternoons during the summer months and Mrs. Hester has been on duty there during the first four days of the Centennial celebration. It will remain open from 2 to 11 p. m. today.

City Man Promoted In Naval Reserve

Promotion of a Big Spring man in the naval reserve will be recognized today.

He is Neel Barnaby, Capt. Jack H. Gilbert, New Orleans, representing the commandant of the Eighth Naval district, will announce the promotion as a prelude to the final performance of "Centurama" in the city park this evening. Barnaby, who has been active in the navy's constructon engineers reserve, will be elevated to the rank of lieutenant-commander in the reserve.

655 Deathless Days In Big Spring Traffic

HIS CHARGES HELP STIR INVESTIGATION — The recent public charges of Captain John G. Crommelin, above, that the Navy's attack force is being "nibbled to death" at Defense Headquarters, have helped stir the promise in Washington of a thorough Congressional investigation of Navy complaints that the Navy is getting a bad deal out of the "unification" of the Army, Navy and Air Forces. Capt. Crommelin's charges were endorsed in a Navy Vice-Admiral's letter to Secretary of the Navy Matthews. The Navy complaints were contained in typed copies of papers signed with the names of three admirals. The letters were slipped to newsmen in Washington. (AP Wirephoto).

Firing Of Worth Recommended By House Group

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (AP) — A House committee advised the Navy today to fire Cedric Worth. The Navy then announced Ced Worth already had quit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee today recommended that the Navy fire Cedric R. Worth, author of the now notorious memorandum which touched off a congressional inquiry into the Air Forces' B-36 bomber program.

The committee approved a report saying Worth should be permanently discharged from Navy employment. A civilian aide to Undersecretary of the Navy Dan Kimball, Worth has been suspended since his authorship of the B-36 memorandum came to light.

The committee announced it will open tomorrow an inquiry into reports that Navy morale has sunk to a low point as a result of the way the law unifying the armed services has been administered.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) said the first witnesses will include three admirals whose names were signed to papers that a Navy source gave, secretly to reporters on Monday.

They are Adm. Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations; Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Pacific Fleet commander, and Vice Adm. Gerald F. Bogan, commander of the First Pacific Task Fleet.

The papers were a letter from Bogan to Secretary of the Navy Matthews with forwarding endorsements from Radford and Denfeld.

Centurama To Show Last Time Tonight

The mid-week part of Big Spring's Centennial celebration hit a climax today, as military units paraded as the pride of the nation.

And while Army, Air Force, Navy, National Guard and ex-service units had the spotlight, attention was being turned to opening of the Howard County Fair, which occurs Thursday.

Another climax was in the offing for tonight, when the great spectacle, Centurama, is reeled off for the last time. With favorable comment running rife, there was every indication that another crowd of 3,000 or more will be on hand to witness the closing show.

* * *

Guests of the Centennial association at the pageant tonight will be all military men in the city.

Thursday brings Fair Day, and in observance of the occasion, the city will suspend business Thursday afternoon. Banks and most downtown business establishments are to close for the afternoon, so that the general public may see the exhibits of the exposition at the airport fair grounds.

Because of the fair activities, there will be no parade Thursday afternoon.

The Tidwell shows, outdoor carnival and ride attraction, moves to the fair grounds for Thursday night, after closing out its stand at the city park tonight.

A special event at the amphitheatre at 7:15 this evening will be the presentation of a lieutenant commanders commission to Neel Barnaby. Officiating will be Capt. J. H. Gilbert, CEC, USN, Official representative of the 8th Naval District, New Orleans, who is among the guests here for Military Day.

Many military men were honor guests at the Lions club at the Wednesday noon luncheon, and were being extended guest privileges at the country club.

STEEL STRIKE VEXES HIZZONER

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5. (AP) — The steel strike echoed in morals court today.

Said Magistrate W. H. K. McDiarmid:

"I hope this steel strike ends soon. The first four cases I've had today were steelworkers in trouble with their wives."

The wives charged their striking mates with disorderly conduct. The cases were turned over to social workers for study.

Howard County Fair Area Is Beehive Today

Beehive activity prevailed Wednesday at the Howard county Fair area on the airport site today on the eve of the opening of the 1949 Fair here Thursday.

Judging is to start at 10 a. m. Thursday and will be pressed throughout the day, concluding with placing of poultry entries Thursday evening.

Gates will open shortly after judging begins and will remain open daily until 11 p. m. All exhibits will remain on display until 10 p. m. Saturday night, when they may be checked out. They also may be checked out Sunday afternoon or Monday, when they must be cleared.

This year the homemaking and general agricultural exhibits, along with the institutional booths, will be in the east building, adjacent to the main road leading into the port area through Ellis Homes from U. S. 87.

The second annual fall show of the Big Spring Garden Club also is housed in the west end of this structure.

General implement, truck and similar exhibits will be on display on the slab area west of the first building. The second building will house the livestock (dairy, beef, swine) and poultry divisions. The third building is given over to commercial exhibits. Concessions are located throughout the Fair.

Prizes will approximate $700 this year. The community booths are due to repeat as leading attractions. Harvey P. Wooten is general superintendent. Head of finance and concessions is M. C. Grigsby; commercial, Ray Griffin; agriculture, Durward Lewter; institutional, Mary Cantrell. Gate charge is 15 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

Any net proceeds from the Fair go back into its improvement and enlargement.

The T. J. Tiwell shows, which have been playing at the city park during presentation of "Centurama," which has its finale tonight, will move adjacent to the Fair and will operate through Saturday night.

Parking area around, and particularly south above the Fair ground has been cleared to provide for traffic. There will be gates at the east and west entrances of the Fair.

Last year more than 10,000 were estimated to have viewed the Fair and this year the attendance is due to be considerably higher.

DEBRIS AFTER TEXAS HURRICANE—Only a pile of rubble remains of this fish processing house in Freeport, Texas, after it was struck by winds of hurricane force that lashed the upper Texas coast. Extensive crop damage resulted but property damage was comparatively light. Additional pictures and story on page 8. (AP Wirephoto).

Centennial Window Displays Are Featured In Big Spring Stores

The pure silk chargeable pink and green costume featured in the Centennial window display at the Little Shop was worn with four petticoats to give it the fall effect so necessary to milady in the year 1847.

The costume and others featured in the window were secured from the Katherine Burr Fleming Museum in Boston, Mass. All are original fashions worn during the period between 1847 and 1875.

Another display model is attired in a black taffeta and velvet bustle costume which was considered "just the thing" for the more festive occasions of 1875. This was especially true when it was protected by the black chiffon ruffled parasol, so necessary to the wardrobe of very fashionable woman.

All millinery during the Gay Nineties period was bedecked with plumes as is illustrated by the model wearing the red velvet coat and raw silk skirt. The hat, of course, boasts a long sweeping plume to grace the wearer's face and upswept hairdo.

Other items featured in the window display are originals worn from 1847 to 1890. This includes the hats, shoes and other accessories. The silver tea set by International Silver company is over 100 years old. The Bibles, also over 100 years old, are borrowed from the Fox Striplin and L. S. McDowell families. The hand-woven coverlet, antique pictures and antique tables, chairs and lamps are all over a century old. They were loaned by Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ringler.

The Kid Shop feaures two distinct scenes in their window displays of the week. One scene depicts a typicll bedroom of one hundred years ago; the other shows a living room of the same period.

The living room scene features a "Little Lord Fauntleroy." He is attired in velvet knee pants and vest, with long white ribbed stockings and white ruffed shirt. This outfit was worn by the late R. C. Pyeatt while in his childhood. Pyeatt established the Kid Shop in Big Spring. Another model is known as the "Missy Prissy." This is a copy of a picture of a model of 1849.

In the bedroom scene, an infant model is wearing a long white baby dress (which looks like our christening dresses of today) belonging to the Ray Wilcox family. This infant dress was worn between 55 and 60 years ago. A little boy dress is also on display in the window. This was worn by W. H. Brennand in Big Spring in 1898. He was about two years old at the time. The dress was loaned by Mrs. Verd VanGieson. A light brown gingham child's dress featured in the window was worn by a member of the Rev. B. H. Richbourg family approximately 75 or 80 years ago.

All the furniture in both scenes is approximately 100 years old, with the exception of the infant cradle. This was hand made by Mrs. Pete McDaniel's great, great grandfather around 1800 or 1810. It is made from a solid walnut log and made secure by wooden pegs.

Other items of Centennial interest may be found in the display windows at Pitman's Jewelry. A silver syrup pitcher is on display. This pitcher was presented by the Earl of Aylesford to the mother of Mrs. V. VanGieson and Mrs. J. B. Young in 1884. Other items featured include a manicure set purchased by Verd VanGieson for his wife from Big Spring's first jewelry store in 1896; a set of jewelry made from human hair, worn by an aunt of Mrs. B. O. Jones in 1840 and the medical case and kit used by Big Spring's first doctor, Joe Barnett.

The J&K Shoe store is featuring a display of shoes worn by men and women a century ago. Also displayed in the window is a shoe, size 98, made for the boy giant of America.

Hemphill-Wells Co. is featuring a bedspread made by Mrs. J. A. Petty's great, great grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Denson in Phoenix, Ga., in 1774. The cotton was grown in Georgia and the yarn was spun by hand. Then from the thread, the bedspread was made by hand. Other items in the window include a smoothing iron belonging to Mrs. H. S. Miller and water pitcher and wash basin, belonging to Kyle Miller, Sr.

A fitted coat almost a century old is featured in the Zack's of Margo's window. The coat belongs to Mrs. Nell Frazier.

RIBBON RAMBLINGS
By Mildred Young

Today is Military Day in the Big Spring Centennial celebration. Just as military might has had a part in the building of the city, so will they have a part in the celebration of its progress.

The situation didn't look so bright when Marcy arrived in Big Spring over one hundred years ago. It still doesn't look so bright. But we have made continual progress, part of which has been in peaceful times. On this Military Day, Big Springers have a good opportunity to do something to promote peace. If in no other way, they can make the spirit of yesterday's Good Neighbor Day a permanent feature. That will go a long way not only in this community, but with the people in this community who came in contact with other citizens of other communities.

• • •

Big Spring's "Centurama" played to another large crowd last night. If people continue to support the show as they have on the first two nights, the total crowd will probably be the largest this area has ever had for any one show. Timing of the show was some shorter than it was the first night and will probably be even shorter tonight with more smoothness added.

• • •

People all over town are talking about Frank Grandstaff. Calls are coming in from around the nation. Opinions vary with various types of people, but everyone seems interested in this man. Most are glad he was permitted to hear his cantata.

• • •

From some of the remarks we overheard last night, the local high school band is a little heavy on its feet. Members are glad they don't have another parade until Friday. We wonder why?

Souvenir Program Is Outstanding Centennial Feature

Among the Centennial features attracting wide attention here is the souvenir program.

Douglas Orme, one of those in charge of this division, said that numerous compliments had been received on the booklet, with its attractive three-color cover created by Sue Haynes.

In additon to the program of activities for the week, the booklet contains historical sketches and pictures which make it useful as a memento of the Centennial and the community.

Orme said that doubtless there were many who intend to secure the programs as souvenirs to preserve or to place in the hands of friends. He urged them to do this as soon as possible. Programs are on sale at the information booth in the Settles, at the chamber of commerce office, at the final performance of Centurama tonight, R. H. Snyder also is devoting considerable time to selling them on downtown streets.

When You Feel 'Run Down'

Here's Welcome Relief from that TIRED FEELING

S.S.S. GOES STRAIGHT TO WORK WHERE THESE TROUBLES OFTEN BEGIN

Starts to Work at Once

Helps Keep You Feeling Better

This is good news for suffering folks who want to regain their energy. Don't get old before your time. Look out if at the end of the day you feel tired and worn out and have no zip and pep to do and enjoy things. Better days can be yours!

Recently a woman wrote: "I took five bottles of S.S.S. this year. Have ceaseless energy. My husband takes S.S.S. every year. He feels it is better to keep his blood in good health than to try repairing it."

An appetizing portion of S.S.S. Tonic before meals does wonders for the blood. This famous medicine builds up low blood strength in men, women and children who have non-organic simple or nutritional anemia. So why wait! S.S.S. Tonic helps Nature work faster when help is needed.

Millions of Bottles Sold! Get a bottle of S.S.S. Tonic—in the big red box. Leadership attracts substitution, so beware of imitations claimed to be the same or just as good! Accept only S.S.S. Tonic—the established and proven leader. Ask for S.S.S. At all drug stores—Family size, $2.00; Regular size, $1.25.

DOCTORS' TESTS PROVE You Get NEW Vigor and Pep when you energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD

S.S.S. Tonic goes right to work to build up your blood strength . . . builds up starved, weak blood to renew energy and pep. Medical authorities, by blood analyses on case subjects taking S.S.S. Tonic, state the following conclusions:

". . . Laboratory studies show that for increasing red-blood-cells and for making the cells rich in coloring matter, S.S.S. Tonic was definitely greater than Liver and Iron . . ."

Further tests showed stomach gastric discomfort relieved, and food better digested—thereby giving steady relief from ACID INDIGESTION

S.S.S. FIRST IN TONICS for the BLOOD APPETITE STOMACH helps build STURDY HEALTH

DALLAS LADY LOSES 58 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty. . .

Here is proof

"I want to tell you what weight I have lost in 7½ months by using Barcentrate. I weighed 248 pounds when I started, I now weigh 166. I am so proud I tried it. I was told that I could not live a year unless I lost some weight. You may use my name any way you wish."—Mrs. J. B. Moore, 1658 Mentor Street, Dallas, Texas.

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

A Pause To Refresh Is Part Of The Game

Push-Button Devices Would Be Things Of Marvel To The 49-ers

We live in an age of push buttons and gadgets that would shock if not thrill the discoverers of the big spring.

If 1949 Big Springers should suddenly find themselves back in the earlier days of their town's development, irons and refrigerators missing, not to mention electric sun lamps, bottle warmers, deep freeze units, toasters, dishwashers and electri blankets.

First washing machines seen in Big Spring were displayed by the present Texas Electric Service company, and last reports state that a few of the first models are still in operation. But they never gave service like those of today. Company employes of that day tell of the excitement brought by the arrival of the washing machines, which were followed later by ranges. During a sales drive, machines were hauled down the streets and offered for sale to the housewives. When one woman declared that she absolutely wouldn't have such a machine, the salesman asked her if she wouldn't try it for a week with no obligation on her part. She consented. At the end of the week, her convictions for the machine were as firm as those against had been only a week earlier.

When electric ranges arrived about 1920, people were just as skeptical as they had been of the stoves.

Electric sweepers, percolators, toasters and waffle irons followed the firsts in the parade of home progress. Some of the later time and labor savers are the deep freeze units, electric blankets, bottle warmers and sun lamps.

What would our pioneers have said if told that some day housewives wouldn't even need a dish pan, that messy dishcloths would not be necessary. Automatic dishwashers give modern housewives the answer to this.

Not only does our day offer the homemaker irons that control heat, but ironers are also available to ease the work involved in completing the family laundry work. Ironers leave nothing to finish by hand. Simple pieces are ironed as fast as they can be guided through. Shirts take only a few minutes. There's no more standing, lifting, pushing for the modern housewife.

Modern stoves would be improvement over those used by pioneer wives, but new roaster-ovens would really be something. Today, Mrs. Big Spring can place an entire meal in one of the ovens, set the dial and forget about it until time to serve. Automatic heat control is another feature of the oven. It has become portable, too.

Other fine features of the modern home are floor furnaces and air conditioning. There's no waiting to get the home warm. There's no trouble with summer heat. Today, local residents can buy equipment to keep their homes just the right temperature the year round.

Robert Bell Crockett, 79, died yesterday. His greatgrandfather was an Alamo hero.

Suits Against Miller Settled

EDINBURG, Oct. 5. (AP) — Judge S. N. McWhorter Monday dismissed two suits on notes and a garnishment suit against Sam L. Miller, Rio Grande valley financier.

The dismissal motion said all matters of controversy had been settled.

One suit had been filed by the Citizens National Bank at Brownwood asking a $25,000 judgment. In another, Lee M. Green of San Juan asked $35,000 judgment on a $37,500 note.

The garnishment writ had been asked by the Brownwood bank on funds deposited in the First State Bank and Trust Co. of Mission by Mission Foods, Inc., of which Miller is president.

The suits were among a number filed against Miller when he was out of the country. Soon after he returned from an unannounced trip to Guatemala, Miller met with creditors and worked out arrangements to pay them.

Tito Declares Yugoslavia Can Defend Itself

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 5. (AP) — Premier Marshal Tito, accusing Russia of trying to "endanger a small people," has bluntly warned that Yugoslavia is ready to defend itself to the last breath.

In one of his toughest speeches since Yugoslavia's feud with the Soviet bloc began, Tito told his army officers that Russia "has been forging its irons" against its one-time Communist partner.

Unmistakably aiming at Russia, Tito said in a speech made public Tuesday.

"No one has the right; regardless of who he may be, to endanger a small people."

"We are prepared," the Yugoslav chief added, "to defend this country to the last breath, regardless whence the attack comes."

"It pays to live," he added, "but it pays to die as one should."

Tito spoke at the conclusion of Yugoslavia's biggest troop maneuvers this year. Obviously pleased with the showing his soldiers had made, he said he was convinced of the army's ability to defend Yugoslavia.

Then, swinging into an attack on his Cominform neighbors, Tito declared Russia and its satellites "find themselves in a corner" unable to justify their attacks on Yugoslavia.

"Where the Soviet Union is in the right," he asserted, "we shall go along with it. If it is not in the right and if its stand is a hypocritical one, we will call that by its right name."

Tito referred to his charges of a week ago that Russia and her followers are "rattling their arms" around Yugoslavia's borders, part of Russia's pressure campaign to oust Tito and his top lieutenants.

ANOTHER ANSWER TO RUSSIA

Truman Will Ask More Atom Bombs

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 5. (AP)—President Truman will ask Congress to double the nation's atom bomb production program as an answer to Russia's possession of that weapon, the Nashville Tennessean reported Tuesday.

Mr. Truman, at the request of the Atomic Energy Commission will ask for emergency funds before Congress adjourns, the paper said in a copyrighted Washington dispatch.

The AEC, the article said, wants the President to ask Congress to double its 1950 appropriation of $378 million and to okay $30 million to $60 million for construction during the present fiscal year.

(Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Ia) said last week in Washington that appropriations for the nation's atomic weapon program allowed in advance for Russian developments.

(The program from the start, he added, has been based on the assumption that Russia sooner or later would produce atomic bombs.

(Hickenlooper declared in the same statement that it was too early to say whether additional money will be needed for the atomic program here.

Congress already has voted about $5 billion.

(Shortly before Hickenlooper's statement, Chairman McMahon of the Senate-House Atomic Committee expressed the possibility that Congress would be called on for additional funds, in the wake of Russia's claim that the Soviet government now has the bomb.

(McMahon said further that the question of additional funds would have to await the outcome of current talks on American A-Bomb making.

(He pointed out that this country is now using all the uranium it can get — mainly from Canada and the Belgian Congo — and that ways are being sought to increase the output of ore. He said sources in the United States perhaps could be utilized through intensive development.)

Storm Windows And Doors Save Heat

By BOB SCHARFF . . . STNS

Just about the worst heat loss offenders in your home are the windows and doors. Therefore the best heat-savers that can be had are storm windows and doors.

The storm sash makes a dead airpocket between itself and the regular windows, which will reduce heat loss by as much as two-thirds. But their efficiency depends entirely upon how well they are made and fitted.

If you can afford only a few sashes, install them on the sides of the house exposed to prevailing winter winds.

Almost all window sash is of standard size and storm sash to fit is a stock item with the average lumber dealer. Usually all you'll have to do is saw off the horns at the bottom, and level the bottom to fit the sill and the top to shed water.

Paint with two coats of white lead and oil or high grade outside paint. Otherwise the wood is apt to swell because of the absorption of moisture.

A storm sash may be hung from a simple galvanized hook arrangement (which can also be used for supporting the window screens) or it may be held in place with wing catches applied to the outside surface of the frame.

A ventilator with a sliding plate should be placed at the bottom of bathroom and bedroom storm sash to permit ventilation without opening the sash and prevent frost forming on the storm sash. If you want to be able to open and close the storm sash, an adjuster should be used for best results. Mark window jambs and storm sash with corresponding numbers to aid all future installation.

Ex-H-SU Students Of Area Invited To Odessa Meeting

ABILENE, Oct. 5—Former students of Hardin-Simmons University who now live in the Big Spring area are invited to a meeting in Odessa Oct. 6 to form a Permian Basin exes chapter.

This invitation was extended by Kenneth Hill, executive secretary of the H-SU Ex-Students Association.

The exes who live in the Permian Basin are invited to a supper which will be given in the lower auditorium of the First Baptist Church of Odessa at 7 o'clock the evening of Oct. 6.

The Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang will serve the supper. Reservations may be made with Mr. and Mrs. Riley Brooks, 916 Alleghaney, Odessa.

Dr. Rupert N. Richardson, H-SU president, will address the group. Music will be by the H-SU quartet.

The chapter will elect officers and make plans for support of the Hardin-Simmons-University of New Mexico football game which is scheduled for Oct. 15 in Odessa.

Going to get your $2,064 bait back?

Your shiny new automobile—with prices averaging about $2,064—has to get you a whale of a lot of use to justify its cost.

Winter wear is the worst bait-snatcher. It can strip your car of plenty of service . . .

Unless you OIL-PLATE it!

2. Always on Guard! Even when the fine lubricating oil itself isn't covering a part, OIL-PLATING is! It protects your engine against grinding "dry-friction" starts . . . from corrosive combustion acids . . . from sludge and carbon caused by wear.

1. Oil-Plating—a feature of patented Conoco Nth Motor Oil—performs a wear-preventing miracle by fastening a shield of special lubricant to working parts. OIL-PLATING can't all drain down—even overnight!

3. Watch Out For Winter! The frigid months are the most dangerous months for these car-killers. New and older cars both urgently need Conoco Nth. Don't wait . . : drive yours in today and armor it against winter with Conoco Nth.

Convenient Stop Offered Drivers At McPherson

A convenient refueling stop for downtown motorists is the Standard Service station, loated at 311 East Third street.

Chevron gasoline, along with other Standard Oil products, is handled by the agency, which respects a 6:30 a. m. to 10 p. m. working day.

The Standard station, managed by H. C. McPherson, is famous for its courtesy to its customers. Attendants run a complete check on all automobiles which stop there, from tires to windshield.

The station's wash and grease racks are ordinarily busy throughout the day. The life potential of any vehicle increases if the machine is serviced regularly, McPherson reminds his customers.

The concern also handles Atlas tires and tubes plus all Standard accessories.

The Atlas tire is famous for long wear and durability as well as its smart looks.

Centennial Week customers will get a special welcome at the Standard station.

The waxing - polishing service proffered by the establishment serves to protect automobiles from wind and sand and lends the car a glint it carried when it was new.

Business telephone number of the Standard station is 9537.

Texas Electric Stays Step Ahead

History of West Texas, particularly in the past 20 years has been one of unprecedented development.

Where there were small towns then, there are booming cities now. Take Odessa, for example. Twenty years ago it had hardly tasted its first development. Today its officials talk about 30,000 population. The same thing, on a lesser scale has happened here, in Midland, Colorado City, Lamesa, Snyder, Denver City, Andrews and other points.

To stay abreast of a phenominal growth like that with adequate power service is no small chore. Were it confined to one locality it might be simplified. But the task of Texas Electric Service company has been system-wide. Almost every point served by it has been increasing its demands. Some have exploded with unbelievable thirst for electricity.

Texas Electric Service company, however, had managed not only to stay abreast, but is managing to stay a stride ahead. Such a step was its Monahans generating plant to relieve the tremendous demand on the west end. With new industries and customers springing up, last year, TESCO announced plans for a big steam-generating plant on Morgan Creek, five miles southwest of Colorado City. This unit, these developments. Lines into due to be in operation within a year, will supply a reserve of power for booming Snyder and Scurry county.

Big Spring is the beneficiary of a these developments. Lines into Big Spring from four directions carry 3/8,000 volts of current. In the city itself the company maintains generators with 2,000-hp capacity, capable of supplying the business area or all absolutely essential service in any emergency.

COMPLETE TIRE SERVICE—One of the most complete tire concerns in all of West Texas is the Phillips Tire company at Fourth and Johnson, headed by Ted Phillips below. The concern stock all types of passenger and truck tires, including odd sizes for older models. It also has an equally exhaustive range for tractor tires. In addition, it has vulcanizing and recapping service, plus a big line of accessories.

Fast Service Is Cornelison Mark

Fast, efficient curb service permits customers to pick up or leave dry cleaning at Cornelison Cleaners without ever stepping from the car.

Come as you are, don't bother to dress for a trip downtown, Roy Cornelison, owner invites patrons. The modern establishment is conveniently located at 10th and Johnson streets directly on the route to town from most residential sections.

For those who prefer to use the Cornelison drive in service, the concern has a pneumatic signalling device to indicate the approach of customers. Cars are met in the driveway by an attendant to take dirty clothing or return that processed by latest cleaning and pressing equipment.

A drying room has recently been added to the Cornelison plant to prevent damage and loss of buttons that occurred in old fashioned drying processes.

Clothing is neither tumbled or given other rough treatment at Cornelison Cleaners. It is arrayed in the new drying room where a huge machine pumps air through the clothing, drying it and removing all odors.

Cornelison also offers a garment storage service to old and new customers. Either winter or summer clothing can be stored in large cedarized bags which offer complete protection from moths and insects, dust and fading-qualities of light.

C. A. Tonn and Roy Cornelison, joint operators of one of Big Spring's most modern and complete cleaning establishments, invite the public to try their quality work, as well as take advantage of both drive in and free pick up and delivery service. Phone number is 122.

Reds Intensify Kukong Drive

CANTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Red reinforcements were thrown into the battle for Kukong today.

Loss of the key city, 15 miles north of Canton would sever communications between this provisional capital and Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi's Nationalist forces in Hunan Province.

The Communist reinforcements moved to the battlefront along the Highway from Kiangsi Province.

All schools in Kukong were closed. Children and thousands of adults were fleeing the city.

Farther north in Hunan Province the Reds bolstered their forces around Jucheng, 170 miles north of Canton, withan estimated 5,000 reinforcements.

Dispatches said Nationalist warplanes were supporting Pai's troops in this area.

Official Nationalist dispatches claimed the Communist 47th division war surrounded near Sinhwa, 95 miles northwest of Hengyang.

Central News agency said a typhoon struck the Amoy area today bringing a temporary halt in fighting on the mainland. Nationalist warships, however, shelled junks the Reds were commandeering for an assault on Amoy.

National Business Women's Week Is Endorsed By Dabney

Mayor G. W. Dabney has called public attention to observance of National Business Women's week Oct. 9-15.

Special observance is being planned here during the week by the Business & Professional Women's club.

"Women have and are demonstrating daily professional and business acumen in their own right," said the mayor. "Consistently they are striving for still higher standards of proficiency. There is hardly a field into which women have not embarked with commendable success.

"Their efforts and energy and ethics have earned them the respect of the people everywhere, and it is fitting that Big Spring reconize their part during this special week."

Paraguay Said State Of Siege To Be Under

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Oct. 5. (AP)—This South American country, which switched presidents in a bloodless coup only three weeks ago, was reported today under a state of siege decreed to combat "despotism and terror."

The state of siege was ordered by the government yesterday afternoon but there were no immediate reports of disorders. Business in the capital continued as usual and no unusual governmental precautions against a possible revolt were evident.

The action came three weeks and three days after Federico Chavez, former Supreme Court justice, was named provisional president by the house of representatives. He succeeded Felipe Molas Lopez, who resigned under pressure from the dominant Colorado Party.

(This dispatch, which presumably passed through Paraguayan censorship, had no hint as to specific reasons for the state of siege. The dispatch did not mention the name of the president, who customarily signs such decrees which are usually laid down to combat revolutionary plots.

(Reports have circulated in neighboring Argentina that Chavez has been having a tough time hanging on to his new job as president in the stormy politics of Paraguay.)

THOUSANDS SHELTERED FROM HURRICANE—The Houston, Tex., City Auditorium was filled to capacity with more than five thousand persons seeking shelter as a hurricane hit the Texas Gulf coast city. (AP Wirephoto)

CITIES, TOWNS UNSCATHED

Hurricane Wreaks $2,000,000 Crop Damage On Gulf Coast

HOUSTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—A howling Gulf hurricane that hit Texas crops a hard blow was just a hoarse wind today.

It pushed feebly through Marshall, Tex., Shreveport, La., and into southwest Arkansas last night, carrying heavy rains.

The hurricane's punch at the big metropolis was surprisingly light, and even the smaller cities and towns in its path rode the blow with ease. Rice, cotton and vegetable crops were hardest hit.

Thousands found refuge in public shelters as the storm struck first Monday night between Matagorda and Freeport. About 1:30 a m. (CST) yesterday it hit here and moved inland.

Winds of 80, 90 and up to 100 miles an hour were recorded as the hurricane came in from the Gulf of Mexico.

There was just one known casualty. One person was missing.

Mrs. Alpha Hebert, elderly Port Neches woman, slipped in the mud yesterday and grabbed an electric wire blown down by the storm. She was electrocuted.

Jimmy Simpson, 21, of Palacios was missing after volunteering to swim to shore from a stalled cabin cruiser in Matagorda Bay.

Damage to Jefferson (Beaumont) county's $8,000,000 rice crop ranged from 20 to 70 percent. Only 15 per cent of the big crop had been harvested.

A. H. Boyt, president of the American Rice Growers Association, said damage was "heavy."

Vegetable crops as well as rice and cotton were hard hit in Harris county (Houston). The total loss was set at about $2,000,000.

Port Aransas' south pier, known to thousands, was badly damaged by pounding seas and the island fishing city's streets were flooded.

Heavy rains and gusty winds preceded the dying hurricane in the Palestine-Lufkin, Tex., area.

Residents in the storm's path had ample warning. Those that flocked to public shelters—including 5,000 at Houston—were calm and even cheerful.

Some hurricane-wise Texans scoffed at the blow, claimed it was a sissy storm.

Grady Norton, storm forecaster in the New Orleans weather bureau, said the hurricane was unusual. He said that although Galveston was only 25 miles from the hurricane's center and on the "strong side," winds there reached only 67 miles an hour.

As it bore inland, the storm lost what wallop it packed. But an offshoot of the hurricane—a small tornado—ruined three houses at Rieeville, La. Two persons were slightly injured.

Drenching rains hit all over the hurricane area. They flooded fields and streets. Some telephone service was disrupted. Some power lines fell.

SEVERE DURESS MAY BE PLEADED BY MOTHER IN SLAYING OF SON

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP) — A 29-year-old former psychology student was expected to take the stand today in an effort to prove she was under severe mental duress at the time her infant son was beaten.

The woman, Mrs. Martha Woodson Kalwaic, wife of a Hazleton, Pa., dentist, is charged with murder in the fatal beating of her 15-month-old son, Henry, last May 19. defense counsel indicated it would seek acquittal for Mrs. Kalwaic on the grounds she was under severe mental duress at the time of the tragedy.

Since her arrest, Mrs. Kalwaic has given birth to another son. She also is the mother of an older girl.

The state yesterday read into the record a statement giving a detailed account of how it contends the infant was beaten. The commonwealth claimed the statement was signed by Mrs. Kalwaic on the day her baby died in the hospital.

The statement described how the mother "thumped" her child on the stomach and chest and then bumped his head on the floor in an effort to keep him quiet.

She said, according to the statement, that the baby had been subject to tantrums for some months.

"They were upsetting to my little girl, to me and my husband," the statement continued. "Since I am to have another child in two months I was going to send him to my sister at the time of the birth of the third child. I felt that it was desperately important he be broken of the habit."

U. S. Fire Loss Due To Drop This Year

NEW YORK, (AP)—The nation's fire loss, which has soared more than 130 per cent in seven years, is expected to drop this year for the first time since 1942.

As officials all over the country prepared for Fire Prevention Week, which begins Oct. 9, a preliminary estimate by the National Fire Protection Association figures the probable 1949 loss at $660,000,000, as against last year's record peak of $725,000,000.

The decrease, however, gave officials no cause to relax their fire prevention efforts. The 1949 loss will still be more than double the $315,000,000 worth of property destroyed by flames seven years ago.

Percy Bugbee, general manager of NFPA, which sponsors Fire Prevention Week, views the decline as an indication more people are becoming fire-conscious and are following standard recommendations for eliminating fire hazards.

As proof that fire prevention measures will work, Bugbee cites the experience of Des Moines, Ia., which set out to see if the high record of roof fires, fifth-ranking fire hazard, could be curbed.

In 1935 Des Moines put into effect a city building code prohibiting future application of flammable roofing and requiring that asphalt shingles or other fire-resistant roofing be used.

When the new code was passed, city records showed that 52 per cent of all building fires in the preceding five years had been attributed to chimney sparks falling on flammable roofs.

Today, by steady enforcement of the code, the record of fires from the same origin has dropped to 11 per cent.

"All major hazards would be as easy to eliminate as flammable roofs," says Bugbee, "but unfortunately not all hazards can be fought successfully by legislation."

Carelessness among smokers, for instance, is one of the nation's top fire causes.

"Most fires are due to human carelessness of one kind or another," Bugbee points out, "and there's no way to write a law against that."

Civil Liberties Situation Is Still What We Want To Make It

The American Civil Liberties Union thinks 1948-49 was the worst year in its 29-year history for danger to the civil rights of Americans. But most of the danger is theoretical.

During the war, this private watchdog association was congratulating the American people on their maturity for being able to carry on total war with so little interference with traditional liberties. We were calmer and more united than we had been in World War I and stuck to our democratic principles better—with the one drastic exception of the treatment of West coast Japanese-Americans early in the war.

But the watchdogs say our postwar attitude is already worse than our post-World War I attitude. Luckily, it remains mostly ATTITUDE.

We've been going in for purges and robes and whipped-up hysteria to beat the band. We look for Communists not only under beds, but under school desks.

But somehow, we don't FIND very many. And very few people (innocent or guilty) get hurt.

Fortunately, some of the worst witch hunters have been checked; some of the worst proposals have been defeated. The courts have continued to be bulwarks of liberty and calm deliberation, and some of the worst hysterics among elected officials have been defeated.

In a few fields—notably the old sore spot of race relations—there has actually been progress.

In other words, the situation is still fluid and the future is what we make it.

Best Legislative Results Are Not Always Measured In Pay

Salary does not measure the value of a legislator, from a city council to the Congress of United States. The argument of advocates of seven thousand two hundred dollars ($7,200) each term for the 181 members of the Texas legislature is not borne out by experience.

The plea that to pay a legislator more would make him immune to the wiles and blandishments of those fearsome individuals called lobbyists does not hold water. We have had examples of that in the Congress and on down to the minor offices. Nor would the better qualified men who might seek the office be always elected. We have had a lot of examples of that in the past, and will have more. The people who are elected to the Texas legislature, as a rule, are those who promise the most, regardless of cost or source of obtaining what is promised. There are exceptions, of course, just as there are to all generalized statements.

Men and women who are not able to take the time from their business or profession, or who are unwilling to do so, in order to serve their state part of the time, should not ask to be elected to the legislature. If they do ask, they are doing the people and themselves an injustice. There are thousands of men and women in Texas, qualified to be members of the legislature, who would not be influenced by lobbyists and would not expect nor desire to be paid such a salary as we are told should be the pay of members of that body. They do not become candidates because they are unwilling to go through the routine of a campaign asking for votes which they have found are often given to candidates who urge their own fitness for the office though they are still in college, or have been, and have made a reputation in athletic affairs.

'Trust Territory' Of Pacific Isles In U. S. $64 Question

HEADQUARTERS, TRUST TERRITORY, GUAM—(By Airmail)—A soft-voiced U. S. Navy Admiral, Leon S. Fiske, is the Deputy High Commissioner who administers a strange new responsibility his country has accepted from the United Nations.

It is the trust Territory of the Pacific Islands—the Carolines, the Marianas, Tinian, Saipan—many of them all too well known to the G. I.'s who took them from the Japanese. To most Americans, however, they are probably still a question mark in U.S. policy—an expensive responsibility not too well understood.

The answer lies in the American blood shed to take the islands. They were our vital interest then. In handing them to us now to administer, U.N. recognizes our vital interest still lives.

It represents a signal mark of confidence. This is the only U.N. trusteeship for a strategic area and it provides that under certain conditions we can fortify the islands. Because of the importance U.N. attaches to this grant of power, that administration of the Pacific trust reports directly to the U.N. Security Council. Other trusteeship heads report to the Trusteeship Council.

Already Russia has attempted to embarrass us in our conduct of the trust territory. When Admiral Fiske reported back to U. S. Delegate Austin and the Security Council, on his beginning in the islands, the Russian delegate professed at once to find discrimination in the wages, treatment of Americans and other white officials as compared to the natives.

The admiral survived the inquisition easily. He is aware however, that America will continue to be called to account by Russia and in the Orient for its management of the trust territory.

Right now the trust capital is being moved from here to Moen Island, Truk Atoll, in the heart of the islands so that the peoples of the trust may feel closer to their officials. It is the "natural capital," Admiral Fiske says, and better for morale than the U.S. possession, Guam.

President Truman has indicated that eventually he will name the Interior Department to supervise civilian administration for the islands, following approval of an organic act for them.

Admiral Fiske speaks warmly of the Micronesians now in his care, describing them as a smart lovable people. He adway great powers have been shufmits they may be a little puzzled over the fling them around but perceives no resentment toward the Americans.

The trust includes island awarded Japan following World War I. For a long time she successfully barred them to inspection, a defiance America paid for later. She also started a sugar industry and fish canneries on several, which the Admiral hopes to revive—this time for the benefit of the natives.

Schools are under American direction and the health and sanitation experts, engineers and anthropologists are pouring in. An island trading Co. is in operation to develop business in Micronesian arts and crafts.

Admiral Radford, Pacific Commander in Chief, is High Commissioner of the trust. Admiral Fiske expects to move soon with his staff to Pearl Harbor to join his superior. The changes are in the interests of economy and closer co-ordination of policy as well as morale.

Merry-Go-Round–Drew Pearson

Lewis Faces Prospect Of Mutiny As Rank-And-File Miners Tighten Belts

WASHINGTON — Word inside labor circles is that John L. Lewis's dictatorial control over his united mine workers is the shakiest it has been since the 1933 depression year, when the union would have folded up but for the rescuing hand of Franklin Roosevelt—whom Lewis later repaid with hate.

There is growing dissension among rank-and-file miners, who were barely able to support their families during the recent three-day-week work schedule—much less maintain an all-out strike with empty larders and no pay checks.

And the fact that Lewis continues to draw his $50,000 a year, ride around in big limousines and put up at the best hotels while negotiating with the operators doesn't set well with the rank-and-filers.

The high esprit de corps and loyalty to the "Old Man" that marked former walkouts is missing this year. One reason is the large number of World War II vets in the UMW—independent young fellows who won't be pushed around by anybody, even John L. Lewis.

The strongest rank-and-file grumbling among the mine workers is over the dissipation of their pension and welfare fund. This was manifested when a Pennsylvania miner, G. H. Livengood, brought suit against Lewis for alleged mishandling and waste of the welfare fund.

Livengood's action in itself is a telltale barometer of changing sentiment among the miners. For, in the past, no mere miner would have dared challenge Lewis's one-man rule. He and his family would have been ridden out of town by Lewis's strong-arm men.

SOUR SOUTHERN MINERS

Several UMW district leaders in the South have actually talked privately of breaking away to organize a separate union of southern miners—if Livengood's charges of wasting the welfare fund are upheld in court. Also, many Southern miners are sore because Lewis makes a practice of settling with Northern operators first, thus getting Northern miners back to work ahead of Southern miners. In addition, Southern miners are weary of being kept broke by Lewis's annual strikes.

Just once, they would like to see him wangle a wage increase without a walkout.

It was kept quiet, but miner delegations from western Kentucky and Nicholas County, West Virginia, braced Lewis's right-hand man, John Owens, in Bluefield, W. Va., the other day with a demand that the UMW treasury be opened up to help destitute mine families.

In a surly mood, leaders of the two groups told Owens that they were broke and their families hungry.

All this is why the coal operators, for once, are not pressing for a quick settlement, and also why Lewis abruptly terminated his strike in the anthracite and western coal fields.

CAPITAL NEWS CAPSULES

Alaskan Defenses — Most vulnerable link in our Alaskan defenses is housing. Right in the heart of a great timberland, Army Engineers haven't been able to build enough housing to accommodate U. S. troops. Living quarters are so short that the Army and Air Force can't even keep a minimum peacetime force in Alaska. Even today, housing space is urgently needed for 12,545 men and 6,973 dependents. One trouble: it's costing the Army Engineers half as much again to construct houses and barracks as it would cost private builders.

Less Air Joy-Riding — Publicity over free airplane rides has turned out to be a boon to the commercial airlines. Several government officials had planned to take Air Force planes to the Kansas City shindig honoring Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle. But, after all the hullabaloo over free rides, not a single Air Force plane showed up. Some Democrats grumbled that "Drew Pearson is costing us a lot of money."

More Russian Agents — The Justice Department is getting ready to tighten up on Amtorg, the Russian government trade agency in the U.S.A. Evidence has developed that at least half a dozen Amtorg agents have been spying in the United States; so the Russian government will be asked to register all its members. The State Department may block the move, however, on the grounds that it will make relations with the Russians even tougher.

Ban On Russian Mink — Russia finances most of her activities in this country—espionage and otherwise—by importing furs and selling them for dollars. To close this important source of revenue, U. S. central intelligence has been quietly urging that a tariff be slapped on imported furs. However, Uncle Sam's left hand doesn't seem to know what his right hand is doing; for the State Department has been lobbying on the other side—against a high fur tariff.

HEYDAY FOR LOBBYISTS

After all the pre-election breast beating about lobbyists, it now looks as if Congress will have to wage a one-armed fight against the lobbyists—due to a roadblock by Nevada's alleged Democrat, Sen Pat McCarran.

The Democrats' original plan was to launch a double-barreled Senate-House investigation of the lobbyists. But it is now almost certain that the Senate will be left out—despite the fact that a barrage against lobbyists was one of the main Democratic battle cries during the 1948 campaign. After all the snorting and shouting, however, lobbyists have actually increased under the Democrats.

One reason is that the Democrats haven't been able to start an investigation without tripping over McCarran. The Senator from Nevada has calmly blocked every move to investigate lobbyists, unless he can name the lobbyists to be investigated.

The House finally got tired of bickering with McCarran, and set up its own committee—though its funds have been tied up in the House Administration Committee by Congressman Thomas Stanley, Virginia Democrat, considered a friend of lobbyists.

Big Spring Doing Bang-Up Job In Its Centennial Celebration

It's a great feeling to see the Centennial festivities going off so smoothly as they are on the whole. Those who have worked so hard and so long should feel a deep sense of pride. Hundreds have made it possible, and every one of them is due his or her measure or praise.

One of the greatest thrills of the whole week, however, is having so many visitors and so many old timers back for a season of fellowship. Perhaps every town fancies itself as a peculiar one; certainly that is the case with Big Spring.

Over the years there have been many hardships and obstacles and even disappointments which have confronted the population in building a modest and vigorous city. In the face of all tribulations, Big Spring has somehow managed to keep plowing ahead.

It's an evidence of spirit — a pecular spirit—which marks most of the people. Through the years this tenacity and assurance and pride have worked progress, devoid for the most part of booms and of great reactions. In a measure, this commendable provincialism has been handed down as a heritage here.

So it is that having so many of the early day leaders and settlers back with us is like an elixir. Big Spring owes much to these pioneer folk. Their's was a labor in a day when the field of civic endeavor had not blossomed with professional staffs. What they lacked in trained help they overcame with unceasing work and personal liberality.

When they remember when, it's usually some amusing incident, some refreshing sidelight of history. Or frequently the treasured friendships of a generation ago—friendships cemented by toiling together to build up a balanced, happy and sound community.

What could be said—and must be said by someone else—is that most could remember when they dug down in their pockets to finance this project or that, to spend long hours trying to interest an industry or an institution, taking time out of working hours much longer than now to put over a program needed in Big Spring. Much of this was done in a day with grim economic outlook. Sometimes an undertaking was started in the teeth of a back-breaking drouth.

But these people kept pushing ahead.

What Big Spring does today and to what level it may attain henceforth is up to those who have succeeded to the task. But they have a good foundation upon which to stand, and for it they can give profound thanks to those who have poured enough of their own lives into the city to mak it, in my opinion, distinctive in its own way.—JOE PICKLE

The Nation Today–By James Marlow

Social Security Benefits Not Likely To Be Hiked This Year

WASHINGTON. (AP)—DON'T RAISE ANY false hopes in your mind — if you're one of those benefitting from the social security program now — that the benefits will be increased this year.

Don't look for any increase in benefits before next year at the earliest. True, the House was ready to tackle a bill making changes in the Social Security Law.

And before the end of the week the House may pass it. But — that's still only the House acting. There can be no new law unless the Senate also approves, and it's not expected to do that before 1950, if then.

THE SOCIAL SECURITY PROGRAM IS broad. The House bill would change most of it, but not all. Here is an outline of the present program and then, in parentheses, the changes the House bill would make.

1. Old age and survivors insurance. This is the social security-old age pension. It is given to workers who, having been covered by the law, retire at 65; to their wives when they reach 65, the wife receiving half the amount her husband gets; and to a retired worker's widow if she is under 65 at the time of his death but has children under 18 dependent on her.

(The House bill would increase the payments all these get.)

2. About 35 million workers are in jobs covered by the social security pension law. A covered person is one who has the social security tax deducted from his pay. It's this tax which goes toward paying his pension when he retires. Many people are not in "covered" jobs and therefore face old age without a pension.

(THE HOUSE BILL WOULD ADD 11 million workers to the list of those 35 million now covered. People now not covered but who'd be covered under the House bill include many self-employed people like small storekeepers, regularly employed domestic servants, employes of state and city governments, employes of non-profit organizations like churches, the Red Cross and so on. The 11 million would not include such people as farmers and farm workers, members of religious orders, and professional men like self-employed doctors, lawyers, engineers, and so on.)

3. A "covered" person now has deducted one per cent of his pay up to the first $3,000 of it every year; and his employer pays a tax of one per cent on the salary of each of his covered employes up to the first $3,000.

(THE HOUSE BILL WOULD APPLY the tax to the first $3,600 of pay and increase the tax deduction from one per cent to one and one-half per cent right away; 2 per cent in 1950; 2½ per cent in 1960; 3 per cent in 1965 and 3¼ per cent in 1970.

4. The federal government now helps states i npaying money to aged persons in need. (The House bill would increase this help.)

5. The fedtral government now helps states in paying money to blind people who need such help. (The House Bill would increase this help.)

6. The federal government now helps states in making payments to relatives of children where one parent is dead and the children need help. (This House bill would increase this help.)

7. The federal government now helps states with money in trying to protect children in danger of becoming delinquents. (The House bill would increase this government help.)

8. The House bill would add something new to the social security program: Provide federal help for people who become permanently and totally disabled.

FOR EXAMPLE: A "COVERED" worker, if he became permanently and otally disabled before reaching 65, would receive the same pension he would have received if he were 65 and getting the old age pension.

There are other parts of the social security program — like unemployment pay, federal help for crippled children—which the House bill would not change.

New Chinese Puzzle Presented In Pair Of Rival Governments

CHINESE ABILITY TO DEVISE PROBlems which are difficult to solve has given rise in the western world to the term "chinese puzzle" as descriptive of anything intricate.

That term appropriately represents the chaotic condition to which civil war has brought old China. Having within her borders more than a fifth of the globe's population, she continues to be accorded the rank of one of the big five world powers. Yet she is part Communist and part Nationalist, with two rival governments, both seeking the favors of foreign nations.

RUSSIA WAS QUICK TO RECOGNIZE the new Communist regime established in Peiping, and the Chinese Reds now have invited formal recognition by the rest of the world. Meantime the United Nations has before it a Chinese Nationalist charge that Russia is backing the Chinese Reds with military aid.

That's the Chinese puzzle which America, Britain, and other powers have to solve. It's a tough one and filled with dangers.

Britain announcess that she is ready to discuss the new Red regime with 18 other nations, comprising the North Atlantic Alliance and the British Commonwealth. John Bull has the biggest industrial and financial investments in China and wants to protect them.

This means that the western democracies, which have been battling communism in the Cold War, must now decide whether they want to compromise in China.

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT FIGures in the new Communist government is Gen. Chou En-lai, who has been made premier and foreign minister under the big chief, Mao Tze-tung. The latter is chairman of the "people's republic of China." Chou is a highly influential figure. He now bids fair to provide much of the governmental window-dressing for the benefit of the western democracies.

The general is about 50, a fine looking man of very attractive personality. He has a broad education and received part of his schooling in France at the time of the first world war.

Like Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, General Chou as a youth was a disciple of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of the republic. Indeed, Chou worked with Chiang in those early days, but they broke over the question of communism which Chou embraced.

Today's Birthday

GEORGES BIDAULT born Oct. 5, 1899 in Moulins, France, son of a director of an insurance company. French statesman, former provisional president and premier, foreign minister in four cabinets and delegate to the San Francisco U. N. conference and to this year's Council of Europe. Bidault began his career as a history professor and newspaper columnist. He served as an enlisted man in both world wars, was a prisoner of the Germans and the chief of the underground. As leader of the Mouvement Republican Populaire (MRP) he built it to be one of the stronyest parties in France. Diplomats recognize him as a "strong man."

Dailey Bewails Woes Of The Outsized Male

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5 (AP) — In these days of pressure groups and abused minorities, Dan Dailey seeks a fair deal for the outsized male.

Without the aid of uplifting shoes or any other form of subterfuge, Dailey ranks as Hollywood's highest star. He rises to a chandelier-brushing height of six feet, four inches. Now this may sound ideal to males constructed on a smaller scale.

But the actor claims it has disadvantages, due to man's inhumanity to tall men.

"I'm in favor of all tall men in the country organizing to combat various discriminations practices against them," he said militantly. "Standard sizes just are not big enough for us.

"Regularly, once a week, I hit my head on the top of my car," he complained. "When I get out of the car, my legs are so stiff from being folded up I can't walk straight.

"But it isn't just automobiles that are too small. Finding clothes that fit me is a long, arduous task. Sometimes it's easier to have them made. Of course, that means more expense."

Dailey moaned that he seldom gets a good night's sleep when on film locations; he has to fold himself into bed like an old concertina. At home he has a custom-made seven-foot bed.

He added that he practically holds his breath whenever he stands up in his "Ticket to Tomahawk" dressing room. He has a half-inch clearance on the ceiling.

Towering height also brings problems for an actor. Most leading ladies are so much shorter that it takes camera trickery to avoid making it look like a father-daughter team. Sometimes they have to dig a trench for the actor. Sometimes the actor almost has to kneel.

Timeless Mammy Singer Still Working To Keep Wolf Away

NEW YORK. (AP)—THERE IS A BROADway saying that Al Jolson didn't invent hokum—he just found a way to put it in the bank.

And at 64 the king of schmaltz is still a young man working overtime to keep the wolf from his door.

His fellow entertainers say, however, this isn't a necessity now—it's a habit. They estimate that nasty old wolf would have to chaw through $4 million to $15 million in greenbacks before he could cross the Jolson threshold.

I DROPPED IN ON THE TIMELESS mammy singer the other night, and found him still as energetic as a boy on a pogo stick.

"Come in, kid," he said, jaunty.

For the next hour Al kept up a running fire of wisecracks on his past, present, and future. There's one thing about the oldtime entertainers—they put on as good a show for one listener as they do for a packed house.

At the moment Jolson is still collecting from "The Jolson Story" and waiting for the golden harvest from "Jolson Sings Again" to roll in. He's in the spot of a man who can't make any more money by working—because of the tax laws—but he still wants to keep busy. Mr. Whiskers has got "Sonny Boy" crying uncle.

"I had to pay a million dollars in taxes last year," he grimaced. "The worst thing is they want you to show receipts and data.

"I DON'T EVEN HAVE DIS-A, HOW'M I going to 'shoe 'em data."

The phone rang in the bedroom. It was his wife, Earle, calling from California. Jolson's outraged voice echoed into the living room:

"What! Twelve hundred 'nd fifty? Wait until I get out there. Don't do a thing until then."

Al came back in, indignant.

"Can ya imagine. We're addin' on a coupla small rooms. They want $1,250 just to throw on some paint and hang a few draperies."

Jolson said he and his wife tried to live a simple life in the San Fernando Valley, but it was hard.

"You just can't lead a normal life," he grinned. "You have a butler, a maid, a cook, a place at Palm Springs—and they aren't deduc's with the tax boys. And if you drive a jaloppy out there, why they call you names.

"If you can get away fro anything less than $1,500 a week I'll eat it."

SCULPTURE 4,500 YEARS OLD

Priceless Portrait Statue Is Found By Iraq Officials

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Oct. 5. (AP)—A priceless portrait statue, more than 4,500 years old, has been recovered by the Iraq Department of Antiquities from would-be black market dealers.

The 20-inch high sculpture has been identified as a representation of "Dudu," described as scribe, high priest, minister, chief musician and magician to King Entemena, ancient ruler of Sumeria.

Announcement of the find is made in the current issue of Sumer, official Iraq archeological journal.

Dudu, a benevolent appearing figure carved from a hard lava rock, now sits on display in the Iraq Archeological Museum. But he got there about a month ago only after some diligent detective work by Iraq officials plus the help of an American resident who must remain nameless for th time being.

For the six years previous, according to museum officials, Dudu had been in the hands of illicit dealers in antiquities. These dealers bought the statue from some peasants who unearthed it while digging an irrigation ditch near Telloh, site of an old Sumerian city where excavation work was carried on about 40 years ago.

Dr. Naji Al-Asil, director general of antiquities, told a reporter the statue is the most beautiful piece of Sumerian sculpture ever found and is especially remarkable because of its style and workmanship.

Identification of the statue was made through an inscription in Archaic cuneiform script on the back of the piece.

The finders of Dudu, under Iraq law, should have turned over the statue immediately to authorities. Instead, they sold it to some illegal merchants in antiquities.

The museum first got wind of the find three years ago when an intermediary for the merchants, after a promise of immunity, disclosed Dudu's existence and that the statue was for sale. The antiquities department offered the equivalent of $5,000, but was turned down.

All trace of Dudu was lost then until a short time ago, despite persistent efforts to find him. Then the statue was offered for sale to an American living in Baghdad. He conferred with a visiting American archeologist who told him that the statue was an authentic archeological prize.

The American notified museum officials. Throurh his tip, officials located and confiscated Dudu and arrested several persons charged with illegal possession.

Dr. Al-Asil said Dudu was sculptured about 2700 B.C. The Sumerians, of which Dudu was one, existed about 3000 to 2000 B.C. in Southern Iraq.

The Sumerian civilization is one of the earliest, preceding those of Babylon and Nineveh. The Sumerians are credited with inventing writing, sculpture and music. They are said to have had a highly developed social organization.

91 New State Laws Take Effect Today

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (AP) — Ninety-one new state laws took effect today.

They are the laws passed by the 51st Legislature known as 90-day bills. They take effect 90 days after the session ended because they had insufficient votes to become effective immediately with the governor's signature.

But beginning today they are just as much the law as one that had every vote in the Legislature.

Under them eight new state agencies come into legal existence today: The Real Estate Commission, Joint Legislative Council, Citrus Commission, Naturopathy Board, Board of Regents for the Lamar Technical College at Beaumont which becomes a four-year full-status college, a Water Laws Codification Committee, an Election Laws Codification Committee, and the Gilmer-Aikin Central Education Agency which has been existing under a temporary status up until now.

Also effective today are laws that require premarriage exams including blood tests for both men and women, prenatal blood tests for women during pregnancy, prohibit high school sororities and fraternities, make lynching a crime punishable by imprisonment or death, raise salaries for appellate and district judges, set up a judiciary retirement system authorized by a recently adopted constitutional amendment, provide a voter registration law in the event the poll tax voting requirement is abolished by constitutional amendment at the polls Nov. 8, permit co-operative development of oil fields, provide a standard measurement for natural gas, and permit fishing anywhere in Texas with a statewide fishing license (for $1.65).

Other new laws include these provisions:

Authority for cities to raise to $200 the previous $1000 maximum limit on traffic fines.

Adoption by the board of education of a multiple text book list for elementary grades as well as high school.

Purchase by counties of fire-fighting equipment for use in rural areas.

State aid totalling $2,100,000 to supplement local funds for support of public junior colleges.

Reorganization of the 70th Judicial District to be composed of Midland and Ector counties and creating the 118th District to be composed of Howard, Glasscock and Martin Counties.

Creation of 134th District Court at Dallas.

Authority for the Department of Public Safety to build a new administration north of Austin.

Diplomatic Ike Sells Youth On Value Of School

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—School? Just a waste of time, complained Glenn Schmidt, 11. He wants to be a soldier, and he thought the sixth grade routine was getting in his way.

Glenn's parents disagreed, so the boy appealed to a well-known military man he'd read about. "Do you like going back to school as much as being in the Army?" he wrote.

Back came an answer:

"Dear Glenn:

"I like Columbia very much, although when I was attending school myself there were many times when I would have much rather stayed home.

"I appreciate how you feel, too, but most certainly you much make every effort to excel in your school work, to be quick in your obedience and to be neat — if you ever hope to amount to anything in any field. Does that answer your question?"

"Sincerely,
"Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Glenn's parents said he plunged into his studies yesterday with more zeal than ever before.

Daniel To Back Water Projects In West Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (AP) — West Texans today had Attorney General Price Daniel's pledge of support for any water development project they undertake but were told again to be wary of federal intervention.

Daniel wrote West Texas Chamber of Commerce General Manager D. A. Bandeen that if Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug takes over development of water resources in West Texas, the attorney general may someday have to fight to defend the title of the people of Texas to their river beds, waters and riparian rights the same as he is now forced to do on tidelands.

Bandeen has invited Krug to a Fort Worth meeting next month to outline plans for Federal Bureau of Reclamation development of West Texas water resources. Bandeen criticized similar statements made by Daniel in a Fort Worth speech last week.

Daniel suggested that federal control of West Texas areas could be prevented if West Texas areas would organize and finance their own water districts after the fashion of the Lower Colorado River Authority and similar water districts.

Such agencies issue bonds and borrow from the federal government but retain full ownership and control of waters, Daniel said.

He also noted that the Federal Reclamation Act requires that no one can receive irrigation for less than 10 nor more than 160 acres, persons being required to dispose of their lands in excess of 160 acres before receiving water.

West Texas cities, farmers, ranchers and industries would have far more satisfactory management of their water projects under state and local agencies rather than the Federal Bureau of Reclamation Daniel said.

Daniel said "after two years of fighting against Secretary Krug's attempt to deprive Texas schools of their three million acres of tidelands, you can hardly blame me for worrying about the West Texas Chamber's invitation to take over development of water projects on our inland streams. I fear that he will claim the ownership and control of the impounded waters the same at the Department of Interior did in the North Platte River case between Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska. I fear that if you turn West Texas streams over to Secretary Krug for development, the attorney general of Texas some day will be having to defend the title of the people of Texas to their river beds, waters and riparian rights the same as we are now forced to do on coastal lands, and the same as other attorneys general are having to do on federal reclamation projects on inland waters of their states."

Daniel admitted he was influenced to some extent by his experiences with the Department of Interior's attempt to take over "our school lands." He added, "also I dream of the day when organizations like the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, which speak out so often for state's rights and local self government, will lead the way to the solution of our local problems through the exercise of local and state responsibilities rather than leading the way to Washington to lay our problems in the welcoming hands of a federal bureau."

Carnegie Home Is Made Schoolhouse

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP) — The one-time palatial Fifth Ave. home of the late Andrew Carnegie today was converted officially into a schoolhouse.

The imposing, 90-room mansion now houses the New York School of Social Work, a part of Columbia University.

The five-story structure at Fifth Ave. and 91st St., a city landmark for half a century, was turned over to the school by the Carnegie Corporation on a 21-year lease.

MORE WITNESSES TO BE HEARD

GOP Demands Five Percenter Investigation Be Continued

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—Three Republican senators insisted today that the five percenter inquiry be kept open. They said they want to question at least three more witnesses and to explore all new leads of any value.

The GOP lawmakers protested what they called an apparent indication by Democratic Sen. Hoey of North Carolina that the investigation has ended. It dealt with the question of whether there was any influence peddling in connection with the activities of agents who sought, for a percentage fee, to line up government contracts.

Hoey is chairman of the special Senate subcommittee which handled the probe last summer. The Republicans who called for continuing the inquiry are Sens. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, McCarthy of Wisconsin and Mundt of South Dakota. All three are members of the subcommittee.

Hoey said in an interview over the week end that the investigation probably won't be resumed this year. He said that whether it ever is reopened would depend on developments.

In a letter to Hoey today, the three Republicans said:

"As you will recall, when the public hearings in the five percenter probe were recessed (Aug. 31) it was agreed that the hearings would not be considered as ended until (1) Messrs. Hunt, Helis and Bennett were called to testify, and (2) the staff finished its investigation of all leads of any value which were furnished to it."

The prospective witnesses to whom the Republicans referred all figured prominently in the Senate hearings. They are James V. Hunt, self-styled Washington management counselor; David Bennett, head of the Albert Verley Co., Chicago Perfume House and William G. Helis, New York race track and real estate operator.

Hoey told reporters he plans to call a meeting of the subcommittee early next week to consider the matter.

He also said he believes the Republicans misinterpreted what he said over the week-end.

"It was not my purpose," Hoey added "to indicate that the hearings necessarily are over."

He reiterated that Hunt and Bennett still are ill and that it appears unlikely they will be able to testify this year. He said again that if they and Helis do not appear this year, the subcommittee will take another look at the situation early in 1950 and decide then what to do.

Helis' name came up at the inquiry when the subcommittee questioned Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's army aide. In reply to questions by McCarthy, Vaughan testified he received money from John Maragon, a key figure in the investigation, which Maragon told him had come from Helis for use in the 1946 Democratic political campaign in Kansas City. Vaughan said he turned the money over to campaign officials for that use.

McCarthy has demanded that Helis and his son be called for questioning about that and other matters.

Vaughan came before the subcommittee after his name had been linked to several incidents the group investigated. He denied any wrong-doing.

Hunt was accused by witnesses of claiming influence with government officials in seeking to obtain federal contracts for others for a fee.

Hunt, in a sworn statement, said he never did anything improper in conducting his business.

Bennett's Chicago perfumery paid the bill for seven home freezers the company presented to Vaughan in 1945. Vaughan distributed the units to Washington notables, including Mrs. Truman.

Bums' Pilot Refuses To Name Hurler Until Series Begins

Forsan Meets Flock Friday

Four six-man football games between district No. 8 teams are to be unreeled Friday afternoon and night.

Forsan and Sterling City, both undefeated in conference play, will clash on the Sterling City gridiron in the only night contest for the weekend. The Forsan forces are favored to win by a narrow margin.

Other games, all to be played Friday afternoon, will find Courtney at Garden City, Rankin at Christoval, and Mertzon at Paint Rock. The Water Valley tema is idle this week.

Defending Champ Is Sidelined

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 5. (AP) — Tyrell Garth of Beaumont yesterday dumped the defending state senior golf champion, Ike Handy of Houston, out of the 1949 tournament, 3 and 2.

Two other minor upsets were recorded in first round play. H. H. Stroube of Corsicana lost, 2 and 1, to J. R. Singleton, Dallas, and H. R. Wilson of San Antonio bowed to Ed Brady of Dallas.

Bengals Play Marfa Sunday

The Big Spring Tigers will wind up their baseball season here Sunday afternoon in a 3 p. m. contest with the powerful Marfa Indians.

Managed by Charley Franco, the Indians recently won the Big Bend league title for the second straight season.

In a previous game with Big Spring, Marfa won a 6-0 decision. The Tigers, of course, will be out to even the count against the Tribe for Marfa is one of the few clubs to hold an edge on the Big Springers.

Scene of action will be Steer park.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Big Spring high school could come up with a fair football eleven in 1950.

The graduation losses will be heavy but Coach Carl Coleman will have the nucleus of a promising eleven. Too, his program will be well advanced by next year.

Aubrey Armistead will be back to man one of his end posts. He'll be seeking his third letter. He could weigh as much as 185 by next fall.

Dick Laswell, a hefty tackle now, will be even bigger in '50, when he completes his eligibility. If he keeps growing, he'll weigh around 210 to 220 pounds. Laswell will have lettered twice by then.

On the opposite side of the line, it appears Jack Little and Bob Kuykendall will be the regulars as tackle and end, respectively, with Allen Holmes pushing Little. Jack should be able to win a letter this fall, unless he gets hurt, for he's seeing lots of action now. Kuykendall, a fast boy growing bigger all the while, will have two years of eligibility after this year.

"A" squad backs who will be eligible again in '50 include Jimmy Stewart who has two seasons of eligibility remaining; Ken Williams, who won a letter last fall; and Bobby Wheeler, whose eligibility will extend through 1951.

That trio are being used often in relief roles at the present time.

RESERVES WILL FIT INTO PLANS

Coleman is mighty proud of the work his aides, Conn Isaacs and Wayne Bonner, are doing with the B string. Several of those boys could, and undoubtedly will, fit in as regulars next year.

Coleman says the linemen are hitting the way he likes to see them hit and the backs are progressing nicely.

Such lads as Ross Word, Ken Phillips, Raymond Gilstrap, Joe Mize, Leonard Hartley, Frank Philley, Speck Franklin, Donald Mack Richardson and Robert Cobb will figure strongly in Carl's 1950 plans.

Coleman figures Cobb might have won a regular post even now had he started with the team in August. As it is, he's not eligible for varsity competition. Cobb should be able to fulfill the Steers' long need for a passer with the experience he will get this fall.

* * *

Junior high school players like J. C. Armistead and Doyle Maynard aren't too far away from varsity jobs, either.

OKLAHOMA MAY BOOK NOTRE DAME BY 1953

Don't be surprised if the University of Oklahoma books the Notre Dame football team as early as 1953. The Irish are finding it harder to book Mid-Western elevens, so are lining up games with teams in other sections which figure it is to their advantage to appear on their schedule.

* * *

The Bryan club in the East Texas baseball league definitely will be sold, either to some one in that city or to an out-of-town party.

Since the club has been a losing proposition for several years, it is doubtful the affiliation will remain in Bryan. What could happen is a transfer of the Bryan franchise to Greenville. The latter city's Big State league franchise could then be switched to Corpus Christi.

Jayhawks Bear Down In Workouts For Game With Clifton Jaycees

More hard work is in prospect today for the Howard County Junior college Jayhawks as they further their football drills or an invasion of Clifton on Saturday night.

Coach Johnny Dibrell, who sent the local collegians through scrimmages Monday and Tuesday, said he was still not satisfied with what he saw and had prescribed more of the same for this afternoon.

B. B. Lees, who was used sparingly against Del Mar last week, is still not in top physical condition. He's suffering from an injured instep and is due to see only limited action, if any, against Clifton.

If Lees sits out the game, quarterbacking duties will fall upon Charles Seydler and Louis Stallings.

The linemen are in fair condition. Gerald Harris experienced a hand injury again Del Mar bus is due to play.

The Hawks will leave here Saturday morning of the 266-mile trip. The locals will stay in Waco, moving over to Clifton shortly before game time.

Dibrell may depart a day early to scout Decatur, which plays on Friday night.

Clifton coach is Don Hightower, a former Texas A & I athlete.

Cherry Gloomy Over Prospects In Sooner Go

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (AP) — Coach Blair Cherry of Texas will go to Dallas Thursday with two worries —his brother and his football team.

Cherry may not even be at the Cotton Bowl Saturday when the Longhorns meet Oklahoma in the Southwest's top game.

His brother, Alton Cherry, will undergo a serious operation in Dallas tomorrow. Cherry will fly there to be with him.

"I hope everything comes out all right and I can be with the team," Cherry said. "But I won't be if Alton isn't doing all right."

However, Cherry intimated that he didn't think it would do much good for him to be with the team anyway.

'Rating Oklahoma third in the nation is about right," the Longhorn grid tutor said. "But twelfth is too high for Texas."

He was commenting on the Associated Press poll.

"I can't see much chance for our team against that Oklahoma powerhouse," Cherry declared. "They'd have to be flat and our team high for Texas to win that one."

He summarized his injury list and scout reports and said they added up to another victory for Oklahoma.

SEEKS CALF, FINDS BEAR

RATON, N. M., Oct. 5. (AP)—One of Rancher Tom Talbot's black calves didn't come home the other night.

So when the rancher heard his dogs kicking up a rumpus near his house in Piggly Wiggly Canyon 10 miles from Raton, he took his 12 gauge shotgun to investigate.

All he could see by his flashlight was two eyes in a tree. Five times he blasted at the eyes before they disappeared.

Next morning he found a medium size brown bear lying not 20 feet from his back door.

The calf? Oh, he wandered in next morning without a scratch on him.

Tulsans Lose 3-2 Thriller

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 5. (AP) — A stubborn Nashville nine was still in the Dixie Baseball Series today by virtue of last night's narrow squeak over Tulsa, 3 to 2.

The Oilers, leading 3-2 in games, need one more triumph to take home the Southern Association-Texas League winner's money. Both clubs too to the road today, enroute to Nashville's home park, Sulphur Dell.

Tulsa Manager Al Vincent is expected to pit Frank Smith against Frank Marino, Nashville's announced mound choice, in the all-important sixth contest tomorrow night.

German Royalty Enroute To Texas And A New Life

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP) — A granddaughter of the late German Kaiser Wilhelm is en route to Amarillo, Tex., to change her title from a Prussian princess to a Texas housewife.

Hazel-eyed Mrs. Clyde Harris arrived here yesterday and was met by her husband, an Amarillo interior decorator.

They met in 1945 when he was an Army inspector of historic German relics and were married in Germany last June 21.

"It took three years for him to propose," Mrs. Harris told newsmen as she arrived on the Liner Queen Elizabeth.

The former Princess Cecilie of the Hohenzollerns said she left Germany with "some regrets."

"I love it very much at home," she said, "but it is very exciting to come to a new country."

Carl Furillo Has Injury

By JACK HAND
AP Staff

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Preacher Roe, the angular Arkansas traveler, looks like the Brooklyn starter against Allie Reynolds of the Reynolds-Page corporation today in the Dodger-Yankee World Series opener at Yankee Stadium.

Switch to the lefthanded Roe from Don Newcombe, the 235-pound Negro rookie, was indicated from Dodger sources although Manager Burt Shotton still held off definite word. It won't be definite until warm-up time before the game, due to start at 12 noon (CST).

Fatherly Burt, a firm believer in the eight-hour sleep, said, "I don't want my boy staying up all night." He tried the same deal in the 1947 series with Ralph (The Blister) Branca but it didn't work. Roe is not the nervous type.

Reynolds wound up with a 17-6 record as compared to 15-6 for the Preacher but the Yankee righthander threw only four complete games. In 31 starts, Reynolds needed mop-up help from fireman Joe 20 times, Roe completed 13 of 27 starts.

Next to the debate about the Brook starter, the weather was the most-talked-about subject. The forecast called for a "few showers." Despite the threat, there was a line at the bleacher gate early yesterday afternoon.

This 46th World Series will be watched by the largest number of fans in history because all games will be piped on the television cable to points as far west as St. Louis. All networks, including 51 stations will carry the TV and some radio stations will air the reports of Red Barber and Mel Allen over the Mutual Broadcasting System.

The Dodgers, 17 to 10 underdogs in man-to-man betting in this best-of-seven competition, will be handicapped by a groin injury to Carl Furillo, their .322-hitting right fielder. Furillo said yesterday at the final workout he couldn't hit or run. Still Shotton calmly announced Furillo as his starting right fielder with no alternate.

Furillo and Cliff Mapes, Yankee alternate right fielder, have the strongest throwing arms of the series outfielders.

Known that righthanded Reynolds will start, Shotton has lined up a crew of three lefthanded batters. Spider Jorgensen will be at third, Duke Snider in center and Gene Hermanski in left field. When a southpaw works, Shotton uses Eddie Miksis on third and Luis Olmo in left.

Stengel juggled intricate combinations of players all season during the siege of 71 injuries that crippled every regular. Both he and Shotton are expected to continue in the series. The result could be a new record for total men used.

Most critics looked askance at the betting odds, figuring the series a toss up. Because of the American League victory record and the magic name of the Yankees, who dubbed themselves the "team of destiny," the edge probably belongs on that side, but no 10 to 17.

The batting averages give the edge to the Dodgers, .270 to .267. They also have the home run edge as well as the speed for stolen bases.

Although Branch Rickey's far-flung farm system is loaded with talent, the Yanks probably have more big league reserves on the bench than Brooklyn. There is nobody on the Dodger club to match George Stirnweiss, Bobby Brown, Charley Keller, Charley Silvera or Johnny Mize if pinch hitting help is needed.

And, oh yes, Brooklyn never has won a World Series. The Yanks have copped 11 of 15.

Montreal Down In Playoffs

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 5. (AP) — A capacity crowd of more than 13,000 fans is expected tohight as the Indianapolis Indians and Montreal resume the Little World Series.

Indianapolis, playoff winner of the American Association, took a two-to-one lead over the Royals in the first three games of the best-of-seven series at Montreal. The Canadian club entered the series after capturing the International League playoff championship.

Margaret Truman Pleases Audience

CULLOWHEE, N. C., Oct. 5. (AP) —The audience loved Margaret Truman in her first appearance on a southern concert tour.

The soprano voice of the President's blonde daughter delighted a capacity audience at Western North Carolina Teachers College here last night.

Her program ranged from an operatic aria to American folk songs. She sang in English, Italian and German.

Miss Truman's party includes Helen Traubel, leading Wagnerian soprano of the Metropolitan opera.

MAY TOE SLAB—Allie Reynolds, an Oklahoman, may hurl for New York today in the first game of the Yankees' World Series with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Preacher Roe was to be his mound foe.

SERIES NOTES

Negro Pitcher Ready To Hurl In Three Tests

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP) — On Newcombe, who may be Brooklyn's opening day choice in the World Series which gets under way at the Yankee Stadium today, is ready to pitch in three games, if necessary.

"I'm ready to pitch every day, if Burt (Shotton, Dodger manager) wants me to," the big 235-pound Negro righthander said. "I feel strong and I've never had a sore arm in my life. Working with a two-day rest has never bothered me before."

Jackie Robinson, who accused umpire Bill Stewart of "choking up" recently in a game between Brooklyn and St. Louis, admits that he choked up during the Dodgers' 9-7 last day triumph over Philadelphia.

"My heart was right up here," admitted the brilliant second baseman, pointing to his throat. "When the Phils tied the score and put their leadoff man on base in the last half of the ninth, I thought we were licked. I wouldn't have given a plugged nickel for our chances then. I was so nervous, I hardly realized who was at bat. I'm glad he didn't hit the ball to me."

Pee Wee Reese, Dodger captain, is the only member of the 1941 pennant winners still with the club. In all three World Series, the Yankees were his opponents.

"Don't anybody but the Yankees win the pennant in the American League?" Reese wailed.

The Yankees whipped the Brooks in 1941 and 1947.

Yogi Berra, the Yankees' popular catcher, disclosed that his ailing thumb is far from healed.

"I still can't grip a bat real good," he moaned. "It will take all winter for it t oget back in good shape again."

Dragons Seek Sixth Victory

Flower Grove will seek its fifth District Seven six-man football victory of the season Friday afternoon when it takes on Klondike at Klondike.

The Cougars have now won two games in four starts but are always tough to handle at home.

Flower Grove became the odds-on favorite last week by defeating the defending champion, Union, in a game at Flower Grove. Final score was 20-6.

Other games this week will pit Knott against Ackerly at Ackerly Thursday night and Loop at Union on Friday.

Standings:

TEAM	W	L	Pct.
Flower Grove	4	0	1.000
Union	3	1	.750
Knott	2	2	.500
Klondike	2	2	.500

Five Prisoners Make Escape From Amarillo Jail

AMARILLO, Oct. 5. (AP) — Five prisoners overpowered the jailer and escaped from the Potter County jail in Amarillo early today.

The escape was discovered at 5:30 o'clock this morning, when Court Bailiff P. E. Donnell arrived to check on groceries at the jail kitchen.

Jailer Buck Burgess, 67, was locked in a cell. He said he was making a check of the prisoners at 3 o'clock this morning when one of them overpowered him. Three others appeared suddenly, took his keys and threw him in a cell.

The prisoners were identified as David F. Early, Jim J. Daniel and Dwight Butterfield, federal prisoners in transit. Other identification was unavailable.

Marion Moff, 31, trusty, who was held on charges of car theft and driving while intoxicated. He was believed to be from Fort Worth.

W. L. Harrison, also known as W. S. Buzzard, 52, also a federal prisoner. His hometown and the charge against him was not available immediately.

Search for the prisoners spread through the Panhandle.

Wichita Falls-Pampa Tilt Tops Schoolboy Program

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AP SPTS Editor

The Texas schoolboy football campaign enters its crucial period this week end. It is the time when champions are aborning.

Three districts of the City Conference and Class AA have conference games and unbeaten, untied teams march against each other in inter-district affairs.

Top battle of the week will be the clash of Pampa and Wichita Falls in Class AA. Both have perfect records and Wichita Falls is one of the ranking teams of the state.

Another major test pits Lamar of Houston—the last undefeated, untied team in the City Conference—against the unbeaten, untied Baytown powerhouse of Class AA.

The list of teams with perfect records is due to be trimmed sharply. It already rests at 16.

Highland Park of Dallas and Galveston, the only teams that have not yet been scored upon, are likely to lose that distinction this week. Highland Park plays Waco and Galveston rolls against South Park of Beaumont.

There are 54 games in the two divisions, seven of them conference foes. Houston's district of the City Conference sends Reagan against Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston against Milby.

District 9 of Class AA lists Longview at Texarkana, Kilgore at Marshall and Gladewater at Tyler in conference tilts. District 13 pits Temple against Hillsboro and Corsicana against Waxahachie.

The schedule by districts.

Covington Shades Pascuel In 11 Inning Mound Duel

CORPUS CHRISTI, Oct. 5—The Big Spring Broncs experienced their second 1-0 licking at the hands of the Corpus Christi Aces here Tuesday night and retreated to within a step of elimination in the playoff for the Class D baseball championship of Texas.

Bob Covington shaded Carlos (Potato) Pascual in a mound duel that went 11 innings to give the Aces their third win in four games with Big Spring. Another victory will end the series and the Rio Grande Valley league club is favored to turn that trick tonight.

Covington set the Cayuses down with five hits while the Aces were getting to Pascual for seven.

Frank McAlexander scored the winning run for Corpus when he came home on Morris Jones' infield hit.

Pascual, normally a third sacker, fanned eight and walked seven. Covington whiffed seven and passed five.

McAlexander reached first by walking. He was sacrificed to second base and moved on to third on a wild pitch.

Julio Ramos is due to hurl for Big Spring tonight while Rocky Rotunno is due to toil for Corpus. Ramos bested Rotunno in a pitcher's duel at Big Spring last week.

Kilgore, Angelo Set Hot Pace In Grid Play

ARLINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP) — Kilgore's Rangers and San Angelo's Rams set the offensive pace in the Southwestern Junior College Conference campaign.

Kilgore has rolled up 1,121 yards rushing to top in that department. San Angelo has gained 398 yards in the air as the passing leader.

Lamar is second in rushing with 804 yards while Tyler is runner-up in passing with 308.

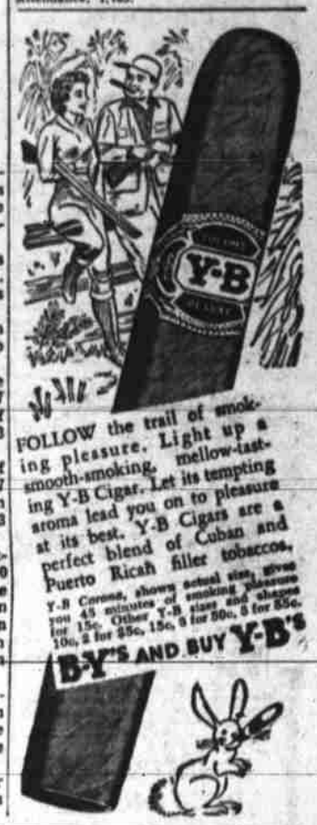

Warren Ramsey of Kilgore is the leader in ball-carrying with 437 yards on 57 runs. Jim McNeil of Lamar is second with 351 on 53 runs.

In passing, Richard Harvey of San Angelo tops the list with 17 completions for 372 yards. Dan Page of Tyler is second with 13 for 253.

Billy Porter of Tyler is the punting leader. He has averaged 44.0 yards on 10 boots. He also is the leader in points after touchdown with 12 out of 12 tries. Second in punting is Rad Mitchell of Tarleton State with an average of 38.0 on 13 kicks.

In pass-receiving, Charles McGinty of Tyler tops with seven catches for 176 yards. Earl Brite of San Angelo is second with three for 144.

McNeil and Ramsey are tied for the scoring lead with 30 points each.

BETTER GRASSES INCREASING

McAllister Range Shows Improvement

O. H. McAllister has more grass on his ranch ten miles east of Midland this fall than he has had in the past five years, McAllister reported this week. McAllister improved his range as a part of his coordinated soil and water conservation program in cooperation with the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District. He left plenty of grass on the range each year as a prottetive cover to get more water in the ground and prevent loss of water and soil.

This year McAllister deferred a section pasture to give the better grasses a chance to make seed and spread over the range. Side oats grama, black grama, and silver bluestem are some of the better grasses that are increasing on his range McAllister said.

Side oats grama is showing up all over the range on the Joe B Calverley ranch, district cooperator six miles northwest of Garden City. Calverley has protected his grass from close use and used deferred grazing of his pastures to improve his range as a result of his range improvement program. They are from 10 to 20 per cent more desirable grasses on the range than there was three years ago.

B. E. O'Neal has 30 acres of improved pasture grasses up to a good stand on his irrigated farm south of Midland. O'Neal planted his pasture mixture two weeks age in his level borders. He irrigated the grass planting to bring his grass up.

Other district cooperators who have planted irrigated pasture grasses recently are O. C. Smith and Walter Kelly of Stanton. Smith has 8 acres up to a good stand to increase his improved pasture to 46 acres. Kelly planted 11 acres last week.

Twelve acres of alfalfa on the farm of Thad Hale, 4 miles northwest of Coahoma has made good growth since the September rains. Hale said the alfalfa is a foot high and will furnish lots of grazing this fall. He had cattle on it during the spring and summer.

Alex Walker, district cooperator in the Morgan soil conservation group, started construction on a 3,000 cubic yard stock tank last week. Walker is building the stock tank in his field to catch runoff water from a pasture and furnish stock water for his cattle. He will build a diversion terrace to serve as a spillway for the tank.

H. B. Reagan has 8 acres of Abruzzi rye and hairy vetch up to a good stand on his place a mile south of Midway. The rye and vetch are growing fast Reagan said and will soon have a good cover on the ground to protect the soil from blowing and washing. He will also use the cover crop for grazing.

Reagan turned back a crop of cane to his land last week. He went over the cane with a stalk cutter and will work it into the top of his soil to improve it by adding organic matter.

Lee Warren has 40 acres of Abruzzi rye on his place north of Big Spring. Warren drilled the rye in feed stubble for a cover crop and grazing.

Latin-Americans, Negroes Take Part In Program Here

Big Spring's good neighbor program was a colorful affair attracting several hundred spectators, including many Negro and Latin-American groups. Their music filled the air, their dances were featured and their gay costumes were easily spotted.

The Negro citizens also had a part on the program. Students from the Lakeview school sang several popular songs, one of the girls gave a reading and there was a lively jitterbug number.

Anglo-American students joined the numbers, but most of the youth taking part were Latin-American. There were songs and dances by students from Howard County Junior college and Kate Morrison school. Aiding the high school Spanish department with the part of the program was the Big Spring High school band. The Midland schools also presented several numbers.

Following the short, somewhat informal program, held at the down town reviewing stand, Mayor G. W. Dabney expressed his appreciation to all who took part in the Good Neighbor Day activities, the third day of the Centennial celebration. He declared that democracy had lived in Big Spring throught the day. In conclusion Dabney warned that democracy must exist every day or there will be no centennial observance 100 years from now.

City Firemen Hold Water Polo Matches Before Big Crowd

Firemen from neighboring towns failed to appear Tuesday for the scheduled water polo matches, but Big Spring fire stations wielded hoses in 10 exhibition games before several hundred spectators.

Two volunteers from the crowd, Chester Coffman and Bruce Robinson, defeated J. D. Allison and H. W. Moore of the Main station force, taking two of three games.

Main station firemen defeated sub-station players in two other matches, S. C. Smith and J. R. Piper won over H. W. Clauson and O. W. Lewis, winning two out of three games.

J. D. Allison and H. W. Moore held the edge over Lewis Merriworth and J. Waddill in the other four games.

Fire fighters from Colorado City, Lamesa, Midland, and Odessa were due to have arrived for the Good Neighbor Day contests, Chief H. V. Crocker said. The matches were held in the 300 block of Main street.

Blood Tests Now Required Of Both Marriage Parties

Couples calling at the local county clerk's office today for marriage licenses discovered each principal had to obtain haith certificates from certified laboratories. Heretofore, only the man has had to obtain the document.

A new law voted into being recently by the state legislature, which was invoked today, demands that both parties obtain blood tests before the license can be granted.

Only certified laboratory here at the present time is the Malone-Hogan clinic.

Persons obtaining marriage licenses must now use them within 15 days, the law also reads. If the document is not used within that period, then new blood tests must be taken before a new license is granted.

Notice

Members of the City Council Parent-Teacher Association will not meet today as was previously planned, but will meet at the high school, Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 3 o'clock.

FAR CRY—Centennial visitors in Big Spring, staying at any of the approximately score of modern tourist courts, would find this structure a far-cry from today's conveniences. This was the first tourist court in Big Spring, erected approximately where the Main street detention dam is now located. It was a chamber of commerce project and offered shelter and cooking facilities free. Over-night users were required to furnish fuel for the wood burning stoves.

OFFICERS FETED HERE

Lions Pay Tribute To Armed Forces

Tributes were paid to members of the Armed Forces today at the Lions Club, recognizing that it was the military that made discovery of the "big spring" on Oct. 3, 1849.

Officers in command of special units here today were featured guests along with state department American Legion officials.

Col. James E. Roberts, who was stationed at the Big Spring Bombardier School from September to December of 1942 and who since December has been in command of the Goodfellow Air Force base at San Angelo, was presented by R. W. Whipkey, executive chairman of the Centennial association.

Col. Roberts was lauded for his generosity of time and help in arranging details of Military Day, which would enable the community to commemorate appropriately the discovery of the Spring by Capt. R. B. Marcy, U. S. Army. Col. Roberts expressed appreciation for the invitation to participate, sens a squadron of planes from the Goodfellow Field. In turn, he introduced Capt. Albert D. Hatcher, Public Information Officer at Goodfellow, and Warrant-Officer Boyd Eagle, director of the band.

Introduced by Neel Barnaby, Capt. Jack H. Gilbert, representing the commanding of the Eighth Naval district at New Orleans, told of his "warm regard of this city, which seems like home to me."

Joe Spurlock, Fort Worth department commander of the American Legion in Texas, extended "congratulations to a great city with a great future for a great job done" in its Centennial celebration. He said it was "one of the greatest programs of its kind ever accomplished." Spurlock had come here from Indianapolis, where he attended the executive committee of the Legion's national organization. With him was Joe (Shag) Flouree, Legion representative in Austin.

Joe Pond, in charge for the day, expressed regret that Lt. Col. Donald Patterson, in command of the 12th Armored Infantry battalion here for Military Day, could not be present. He praised the cooperation of Coy. Patterson and his men for their part.

Schley Riley presented Shine Phillips, Big Spring druggist and author of the book, "Big Spring," and Frank Grandstaff, the Tennessee state prisoner who wrote a cantata by the same name."

Also presented was Sam Zagan, Hollywood, Calif. attorney and who was stationed here in 1944 at the Big Spring Bombardier school with the provost marshal unit. Capt. Harold L. Sanford and members of the district recruiting force were introduced. Harold Steck, who presented Spurlock, also introduced Frank Hardesty, commander of the Legion post here.

Officials Of New Judicial District Assuming Posts

Although no court will be held before next week, officials of the new 118th Judicial district were assuming their appointed posts this morning.

Charles N. Sullivan, who was appointed to the 118th bench, repeated the oath of office this morning in the district clerk's office.

Elton Gilliland, the new district attorney, was to take the oath of office later today.

District Clerk George Choate administered the oath to Judge Sullivan.

Meanwhile, Sullivan announced the appointment of Charles L. Kee a court reporter for the new district.

Gilliland had submitted a formal resignation as county attorney this morning, and the county commissioners court planned to meet this afternoon to appoint a successor.

The 118th Judicial district was created by the 51st legislature. It is composed of Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties, formerly part of the 70th judicial district.

Sullivan said he planned to sign out the first docket for the new district on Monday. A civil docket probably will be called for next week.

Soldier Suffers Broken Leg In Mishap Here Today

Cpl. Claud Rodriquez, Co. A, 12th Armored Infantry Bn., sustained a broken leg when hit by a car on W. 3rd street early today.

Both lower left leg bones were broken when the solder was struck about 5:25 a. m. at 701 W. 3rd, doctors said. He was reported resting well at noon.

Cpl. Rodriquez was in Big Spring as a part of the Army unit which appeared in the Military Day parade today. Stationed at Camp Hood, his home is in Louisiana.

John Cooper, 400 Nolan, was driver of the vehicle figuring in the mishap.

Big Spring Story May Be Filmed

Sam Zagan, Hollwood, Calif. attorney, was here today for a conference with Shine Philips to see if there were possibility of filming the Big Spring story.

Zagan, who was stationed here during the war, is a private attorney but is representing two studios in negotiations, he said.

Recent nationwide publicity in the wake of the Centennial celebration and Zagan's personal knowledge of the city interested him in the story which pivots around Philip's book, "Big Spring," and Frank Grandstaff's cantata of the same name.

No. 1 Dunn Makes 342-Barrel Flow

Standard Oil Co. of Texas, No. 1 Dunn, in northwest Mitchell county, made 342 barrels of oil during a flow of 22 hours through perforation at 7,594-7,600.

The operator planned to squeeze perforations at that level and test higher. The well was labelled a definite producer, but the higher test will be made in an effort to get above the water.

The 22-hour flow was through a one-half inch choke.

House Expected To Pass Security Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Speaker Rayburn predicted today the House will pass overwhelmingly, possibly within a few hours, legislation putting 11 million more workers under old age insurance. The newcomers would include the banker, the baker, grocers, household servants and public employes.

Democratic leaders called the House to meet at 9 o'clock this morning, two hours earlier than usual, to ram the measure through. The Senate is not expected to act until January at the earliest.

The bill, while expanding coverage, would boost old age and survivors benefits by 70 to 80 per cent, create new disability insurance, and increase payroll taxes to finance the broadened program.

It might mean the institution of a stamp book plan for 750,000 servants and their housewife employers, to pay the security taxes.

President Truman asked Congress to put 20 million more persons under old age insurance. But the bill does not include millions of farm operators and farm hands. Some of its sponsors said farmers did not appear especially anxious to get in.

The legislation won its first major test yesterday. The House, over Republican shouts of "gag rule" voted 185 to 135 to bar any amendments. Then, although procedures allowed four days of debate, a bipartisan drive developed — with Congress adjournment in the air — for a final vote on the bill late today.

The Republicans offered a substitute bill, but some top party members let it be known they have little if any hope that it will pass.

Rep. Kean (R-NJ) author of the bill, said it would put 1,300,000 more persons under social security than the administration-sponsored measure, and ultimately would cost $1,250,000,000 a year less.

Farm Bill Goes Back To Senate Group For Study

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee grappled again today with the knotty problem of what to do about farm prices after the Senate had failed to find the answer in a day of topsy-turvy voting.

The question was tossed back to the committee last night with instructions to return with an answer within 48 hours.

Just what the committee might propose was in doubt, but Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois said that whatever it was the Senate would go to work on it immediately.

"We're going to get a farm bill passed at this session of Congress regardless of how long we have to stay here," he said.

A series of votes yesterday showed only that the Senate is sharply divided over how far the government should go in holding up prices of major crops.

First the lawmakers approved a flexible price support program by a one-vote margin. They changed their minds on a tie, with the deciding vote cast by Vice President Barkley.

Barkley backed senators battling for high-level price props for corn, cotton, wheat and other basic crops. In doing so he opposed Lucas and Sen. Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture.

Anderson, dismayed at the blow to his long-range farm legislation, then succeeded in getting it sent back to committee for overhauling.

The Anderson bill provided for supporting basic crops within a range of 75 to 90 per cent of parity, depending on the available supply. Parity is a price intended to give farmers a fair return on what they grow in terms of what they have to buy.

Guerrillas Move

ATHENS, Oct. 5 (AP) — Reliable sources reported today that the Greek guerrilla headquarters has been moved from Albania to Bulgaria and that 3,000 guerrillas are being transferred between the two countries by sea.

Braceros Working On Some Farms In Howard County

A few Howard county farmers were putting Braceros to work in their cotton fields, while others were standing by awaiting arrival of another group from the El Paso processing center.

The first group to be assigned here under a contract with the Howard County Farm Bureau arrived last night, and another group is due here tonight. There were 234 laborers in the first group only a fraction of the 2,000 originally approved for the Howard County Farm Bureau contract. The local Farm Bureau office expects 140 more laborers to arrive early tonight, and bureau officials hope that another group will be here by Saturday.

London Bishop Gets Surprise In U. S.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Oct. 5 (AP) — The bishop of London said today he was surprised to find that 50 per cent of Americans "have no religion at all."

But those who do belong to a church, he told newsmen, "live up to their religion more strongly than we do in Britain."

The Church of England prelate, Dr. John W. C. Wand, left today after a six week visit to the United States.

Solon Asked To Drop Opposition To Olds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas said last night that friends exerted "great pressure" in an effort to get him to drop his opposition to Leland Olds.

Johnson was chairman of the Senate commerce subcommittee which voted 7-0 yesterday to reject Old's appointment to the Federal Power Commission.

Art To Be Shown

TOKYO, Oct. 5 (AP) — Ancient Japanese art objects—some classed as national treasures—will be shipped to Seattle tomorrow for display next month.

John Garis, Houston, is to arrive Friday for a visit with Mrs. Garis and Chris.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lee and Ann, Los Alamos, N. M., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Rhoton during Centennial week.

'Mystery Shaft' Is Discovered On City Street

Perhaps some oldtimers, in town for the Centennial Week, can explain as "mystery shaft" discovered in the 1800 block of Gregg street. Sunday evening a car wheel suddenly bogged down on a newly bladed area. Then a shaft, approximately four feet square and an estimated 25 feet deep was found. Within the last three decade at least, there has been no house on that spot. Purpose of the shaft, near a drive-in in the middle of the block, is a mystery.

* * *

None thought he could be here for the opening of the Centennial week, but Rep. R. E. (Peppy) Blount, Jr. found a way Monday. The Big Spring state representative, now playing a season of professional football before resuming studies in law according to present plans, came here with his wife and mother, Mrs. R. E. Blount, Sr. He got to see part of Centurama Monday evening before he had to leave.

* * *

"Centurama," which goes through its final performance this evening, is getting rave notices from the public. Universally, it is being acclaimed as a smash hit. One long-time resident, Mrs. Gertrude DeVries, gave a typical reaction: "Wonderful," she said, "absolutely wonderful." A large number have indicated they plan to attend the last performance because of the quality of the production.

All Rent Curbs In Texas End Oct. 19

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP) — Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods announced today termination of rent controls in all of Texas, effective Oct. 19.

The Texas Legislature has passed a law declaring that federal rent control is no longer necessary in the state.

The state decontrol law was to become effective 90 days after the adjournment of the 1949 legislature—which would have made the date Oct. 4. However, under the housing and rent act, 15 more days are added by the government—making the date Oct. 19.

Ford Union Set To Okay Pension Plan

DETROIT, Oct. 5. (AP) — The CIO United Auto Workers' National Ford Council was reported ready to vote acceptance today of the pension plan won by the union from the Ford Motor Co. last week. Approval appeared a certainty despite some rumblings from left-wing unionists.

The council is made up of 100 delegates representing Ford's 115,000 production workers in 48 plants. The delegates are key men in various locals. They were expected to recommend that the rank and file union membership ratify the new 30-month contract with Ford. The locals will hold ratification votes later.

All Ford workers who have been with the company 30 years would be assured pensions of $100 a month under the contract. Walter Reuther, UAW president, spent more than two hours yesterday outlining the contract to the members of the council.

The only opposition heard against the Ford pension plan came from outside the closed session of the council. Leftist elements were reported to have given wide circulation among Ford workers to a leaflet attacking the plan.

The UAW hopes the company-financed pension plan hammered out in bargaining talks with Ford will set a precedent for the entire auto industry.

Reuther plans to sit down at the bargaining table today with representatives of Chrysler Corp.

"We are going back into the negotiations with Chrysler Corp. to get a pension program there, too," Reuther declared. Chrysler has 100,000 employes.

Chrysler and the union have held bargaining talks intermittently since July 6. The talks were recessed the day before the Ford settlement was announced. Chrysler contends it is not obligated to discuss pensions this year under a wage reopening clause in its two-year contract with the UAW. The union takes the stand pensions are part of wages.

Chrysler employes voted eight to one recently in a state-supervised election to strike if necessary to enforce pension demands.

The UAW also extended its pension drive to take in the Briggs Manufacturing Co., which makes auto bodies. A strike vote among Briggs' 25,000 employes was to be concluded today.

Meanwhile, the steel strike was cutting into auto production. Briggs announced a layoff of 5,000 employes Thursday and Friday. The company makes bodies for the Packard Motor Car Co. which has announced layoffs for 7,800 of its 12,413 workers for the same two days because of effects of the steel strike. Both companies said production would be resumed Monday on a reduced scale.

Gen. Howley Says War With Russia May Be Inevitable

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5. (AP) — Brig. Gen. Frank R. Howley believes war with Russia is inevitable unless some new method is found to deal with the Soviet Union.

"I wouldn't say it was completely inevitable, because I don't think anything is completely inevitable," the former military governor of the U. S. zone in Germany told the Poor Richard Club yesterday.

The general, making his remarks in reply to a question from the audience, called Russia "a gangster nation comparable to Murder, Inc., and Al Capone."

"Russia has the atomic bomb now and she will not hesitate to use force," he said.

He declared the most important question facing this country now is how far does the U. S. wish to go on spending money for armaments.

Queuille Slated To Resign Post

PARIS, Oct. 5. (AP) — French Premier Henri Queuille has virtually decided to resign, a cabinet spokesman said today.

The spokesman said, following a meeting of the ministers, that the government was deadlocked over wages and prices.

The spokesman, Robert Bruynell undersecretary of state, said Queuille would see President of the Public Vincent Aurial this afternoon.

Normally, when a premier decides to quit, he formally presents his resignation to Auriol. It is up to Auriol to either accept the resignation or try to talk Queuille into staying on.

Queuille, leader of the Radical Socialist (Middle Road) Party, has served as premier since Sept. 10, 1948—a longer term than any postwar French premier.

MR. QUICKLY MAY SLOW UP

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP) — John Quickly, 35, appeared yesterday before Magistrate Eugene R. Canudo to answer a charge of driving too qdickly.

"You should drive more slowly, Mr. Quickly," the judge remarked after the defendant pleaded guilty.

The judge quickly fined Quickly $5, which Quickly paid, leaving the court hastily.

MAYBE IT'S SLEEPY CITY

BOOMING BOWLING—One of the sports gaining rapidly in popularity is that of bowling. A good participant sport offering ample but not too strenuous exertion, bowling has attracted increasing casual players. In addition, better men and women players have formed leagues for regular competition in summer and winter leagues. Big Spring has one large bowling alley. (Jack M. Haynes Photo)

OBJECTIVE IS BALKAN PEACE

Big Power Politics Being Played In United Nations

By A. I. GOLDBERG
AP STAFF

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 5. (AP)—Big power politics are being played in the United Nations, frankly and openly, to get peace in the Balkans.

A special peace making group headed by Assembly President Carlos P. Romulo has held its first meetings — in secret and separately — with representatives of the big three — Russia, the United States and Britain.

The group, which includes Sec. Gen. Trygve Lie, Lester Pearson of Canada and Selim Sarper of Turkey, has until Oct. 17 to make good on its mission to end the bitter feuds between Greece and her Balkan neighbors.

Around here they were saying "If Romulo can get the United States to Russia to agree, he'll win his Balkan peace. The others will fall into line."

It was probable that the big three might discuss the problem further after Romulo has talked with the Albanians, Yugoslavs and Bulgarians Friday. He talked with the Greek delegate yesterday.

Romulo talked separately yesterday with Ben Cohen, the old Roosevelt brain-truster who is a wheelhorse in the State Department; with Hector McNeil, veteran British negotiator; and Alexander S. Panyushkin, the Soviet ambassador to the United States.

Panyushkin said afterward he had been presented with proposals. Neither he nor Romulo would reveal what they were. The Russian diplomat said he may have some proposals of his own.

In the political committee itself, however, Russian and satellite delegates kept up a drumfire of charges against Greece, accusing the Athens government of continued oppression and executions.

The charges were a diversion from the main argument on disposal of Italy's premar African colonies of Libia, Eritrea and Somaliland, which committee Chairman Pearson is trying to get wound up today.

The special political committee goes back to the charges that Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary were guilty of a long string of persecutions, civil and religious, of their people.

Cohen who presented the United States case, said that Bulgaria held a secret trial of Protestant clergymen in July and sentenced 10 pastors to jail for from one to 10 years. This was in addition to 15 pastors tried last March. Their trial was one of the bases of the accusation that the three Russian satellites violated their peace treaties and then refused to answer the charge.

Funeral Rites For Mrs. Lyles Held In Sterling City

Services were held in Sterling City Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Helen Lyles, 88, mother of Mrs. G. C. Potts, Big Spring.

Mrs. Lyles had been a resident of Sterling City since 1885 and was one of the most beloved citizens of that community. Recently she suffered a broken hip at her home and complications resulted, causing her death.

She was the daughter of the late Q. A. Canon, who came to Texas in the early 1840s. Born in Rusk county on Jan. 10, 1861, she attended Baylor when it was located at Independence. She was married to Hilliary Q. Lyles in 1887 and he preceded her in death in 1936.

Rites were said at the First Baptist church in Sterling City, and members of Mrs. Potts Sunday school class (Homemakers of the First Baptist) here attended services in a body. Other survivors include Mrs. W. B. Allen, Mrs. Lester Foster, Sterling City and Mrs. H. H. Wilson, Abilene, daughters; H. Q. Lyles, Fort Stockton and J. C. Lyles, McCamey, sons.
