BANKS TO DIE ON OCTOBER 23

Negro Must Pay In Electric Chair For Murder of Late Deputy Sheriff Redwine

Soon after court convened Monday, Elmo Banks, Negro, was sentenced by Judge Gordon B. McGuire to death by electrocution for the murder on March 6 of Deputy Sheriff P. E. Redwine.

The murder was committed when Redwine entered the jail to feed the prisoners. Taking advantage of the officer while off guard for a moment, Banks wrested a pistol from Redwine's pocket and shot him while Redwine was quietly asking the negro not to shoot. At least three shots were fired into Redwine's body. He then took the officer's keys and unlocked the jail, made his way down stairs and escaped in the gathering darkness. He was captured near Wells Store a couple of days later and brought to trial here on March 12. A jury found him guilty and assessed his punishment at death on March 13, just one week after the crime was committed.

Attorneys Tom Garrard and B. P. Maddox had been appointed by the court to represent the negro on the trial, and at the negro's insistent request they appealed the case to the court of criminal appeals. The judgment assessing the death penalty was affirmed by that court, and there the matter rested until court convened here Monday morning.

Sheriff B. L. Parker left with Banks for the penitentiary at Huntsville on Tuesday morning, where he was placed in the death cell to await the day of execution. The sentence of the court requires that Banks be put to death by electrocution before sunrise on Friday, October 23.

Lady, 84, Breaks Hip, Is Improving

While wielding a fly-swatter last Sunday morning, Mrs. A. A. Thomas, 84, mother of A. L. Clifford, and Etho Thomas, fell and broke her hip. The accident occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thomas, where she has been residing.

She was taken to Lubbock and placed in the Lubbock Sanitarium, where the injury is being treated, and it is said that she is improving very satisfactorily.

Her many friends here deeply regret this most unfortunate accident.

BOY SCOUTS TO PARTICIPATE IN THE SOUTH PLAINS FAIR

Plans have been completed for the participation of all the Scouts and Clubs in the South Plains Council in the Panhandle South Plains Fair in Lubbock next week. A number of troops have already completed their exhibit material and indications are that there will be a great deal of very attractive exhibit material from most of the troops.

All the exhibits are to be placed in the Boy Scout exhibit hall any time Sunday, Mr. B. G. Langford, Boy Scout Fair Committee Chairman is asking that each troop get its exhibit in Sunday as early as possible. A committee composed of Tom Everheart, Lubbock, Chairman; A. B. Sanders, Littlefield; and M. L. H. Baze, Brownfield; has been appointed to judge the exhibits. Cash prizes are to be given winners of troop exhibits and ribbon awards will be given all other first, second, and third place winners.

Elton George, former commissioner of New Home, who is in the Lubbock Sanitarium for treatment, was thought to be slightly better Wednesday but physicians indicated that his condition was still very grave.

Ada Theatre Opens To Capacity House

The new Ada Theatre gave its opening performance Wednesday night with almost a capacity house. The opening show was entitled "Florida Special".

Mr. English has installed some temporary seats, since the cushion seats which he has ordered had not arrived. He states, however, that these seats are in transit and he is expecting them to arrive any day. However, the temporary seats are very comfortable themselves. The carpets for the aisles have not arrived either but are expected within a few days.

Wilson School Is Publishing Paper

The News has received a copy of the Wilson Mustang News, a publication being issued by the members of the Senior Class of the Wilson High School, with Ruben Sanders Editor in Chief; Billy Johnson, Business Manager; and a staff consisting of Sports Editor, Social Editor, Reporters, and others.

From this issue of the Mustang News we have gleaned the following facts.

There are 306 pupils enrolled in the primary and intermediate grades, including the seventh.

There are 123 pupils enrolled in the high school.

The total enrollment therefore is 429.

The number of scholastics in the Wilson district this year is 16 less than last year, and the total enrollment is 26 less than last year.

Of the high school students, 24 come from the Dixie district, eight from Morgan, one from Joe Stokes, and one from Woodrow.

Some of the high school classes have been studying journalism.

The Wilson school has been allotted nine N.Y.A. students. These students will be used as librarians and as workers at other jobs about the school. They are paid three to six dollars per month.

Among the attorneys from neighboring towns here Tuesday representing clients in the district court were former District Attorney T. L. Price of Post, Joe S. Moss of Post, W. W. Price and Burton Hackney of Brownfield, L. A. Howard and Senator G. H. Nelson now of Lubbock.

CHEVROLET SALES HEAVY HIGH OFFICIAL REPORTS

Sales of Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks have broken all records for any similar period in the history of the company, W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, announced this week.

Deliveries of 1936 models at retail through August totaled 1,045,440 units, Mr. Holler said. This is 326,927 more than were delivered in the corresponding period following the announcement of 1935 models, and exceeds the record for the same period, in the all-time high year of 1928, by 116,760 units.

Keeping up with the demand which resulted in this high volume, production set a new high mark for eight consecutive months, turning out 1,000,000 cars and trucks in one day over that period.

AL LEHMAN'S STOCK AT SAN ANGELO WAS NOT DAMAGED

Al Lehman, who was up from San Angelo the first of the week, reported that the water from the recent flood in that city got up to his front door but did not get into his store building. He says that the flood was a terrible disaster but that only a very small percent of the city was damaged to any great extent. Al was at home when the waters of the Concho swept across the business section, and he could not get to town until the water had receded to some extent.

Al says he has a nice store in San Angelo and is building up a nice business, but he declares that Tahoka is still home.

BULLDOGS PLAY AT HOME TODAY

Will Meet Crosbyton In First Home Game at 3:30; Lose Game To Littlefield

Tahoka Bulldogs will meet the Crosbyton Chiefs here Friday afternoon in the first home game of the current football season. The game starts at 3:30 and the price of admission will be 25c and 15c.

The Chiefs, coached by J. A. Denman, are said to be a stronger team than last year, when Tahoka defeated that city 21 to 6. Coach Walker states that his boys are beginning to grasp the fundamentals of the game, and that an excellent game may be expected this Friday. Several business men have expressed a desire to close up for the game, but no petition had been circulated last night.

Last Friday night, the Bulldogs were overwhelmingly defeated by the heavier, more experienced Littlefield Wildcats 51 to 0 in a game in that city dedicating the new football stadium there. The game was witnessed by 2,200 people who also heard talks by Con. George Mahon and Sen. G. H. Nelson.

Many local fans attended the game, and declare that Littlefield may be counted as one of the very strongest teams in the district. Fans are also convinced that the inexperienced Tahoka team will round into a fair club with a few games experience.

Resettlement Office Now Open All Time

The Resettlement office is now open for business every day except Sunday, according to Geo. C. Jones, who has been transferred to Tahoka from the Lubbock office. Mr. Jones is now in charge of the office here.

The Resettlement office is located on the second floor of the court house.

Luncheon Club Hears Hap Smith

Postmaster Happy Smith was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Tahoka Luncheon Club Tuesday, his subject being: "The Business of Running a Post Office."

Judge Smith gave much information concerning the workings of the P. O. department and the job of running the local post office that was both interesting and valuable.

Among other things, he stated that the sales at the local post office during the present year have already amounted to more than $8,000, which is a substantial increase over last year, and that more than 230,000 pieces of mail, not including packages, have been handled.

He was subjected to quite a bit of good-natured razzing by some present but usually sent back as good as he received.

Judge P. W. Goad and W. O. Robertson were new members, and when introduced each made a brief speech appropriate to the occasion. Judge Goad in particular assured the members of the club that he would always be found in favor of everything that is calculated to help the home, the school, and the church, and against everything that would hurt any of these institutions. He asked for the cooperation of the citizenship in the performance of his duties.

Chairman Wynne Collier appointed a committee of two ladies and two men to arrange for Tahoka's participation in the Centennial Day Parade at the Panhandle South Plains Fair next Tuesday, as follows: Mmes. G. M. Stewart and Tom Garrard and Rev. C. C. Armstrong and Mr. Bill Burleson.

F. E. Calvery spent several days in Waco this week on business.

FALL TERM OF COURT OPENS

Grand Jury Empaneled On Monday; Heavy Rains Slow Progress Of District Court

Upon the convening of district court here Monday morning, Judge Gordon B. McGuire empaneled a grand jury composed of the following citizens of the county.

E. H. Boulloun, Tahoka; W. C. Huffaker, Dixie; J. A. Anderson, O'Donnell; J. R. Hamilton, Wilson; B. W. Baker, Wilson; B. D. Ballew, O'Donnell; B. M. Haymes, O'Donnell; Clyde Shaw, Wilson; J. H. Henderson, Tahoka; Charles Campbell, Joe Stokes; Jackson West, Dixie; and J. D. Hord, Southland.

J. D. Hord was named by the court as foreman of the grand jury.

Milt Finch, John Johnson and Dee Sanders were appointed bailiffs.

On account of the heavy rains that had just fallen through the county, rendering roads in many places impassable the court adjourned the jury until Thursday.

The jury therefore met yesterday and began its work.

Little other business has been attended to this week. So incessant had been the rain for the past sixteen or eighteen hours when court convened Monday morning that not an attorney was in the court room at the time.

The jury civil docket will be taken up next Monday morning.

The docket was set and a few orders entered Tuesday morning.

Other Students Are Attending College

In addition to those mentioned last week, Miss Marian Draper of Midway re-entered school at the Tech last week after having spent the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Draper.

Clinton Walker of Tahoka also entered the Tech for the first time last week.

Election Contest In Precinct Race

Among the cases pending in the district court is a suit recently filed by C. H. Reagan of New Home contesting the election returns of the runoff primary which gave the nomination for county commissioner to Tom Hale by a majority of two votes.

Reagan alleges that illegal votes were cast for his opponent which changed the results of the election.

The case has been set for trial on Monday, October 12.

Plaintiff Reagan is represented by Hill Stewart and W. F. Schenk of Lubbock, while defendant is represented by Tom Garrard, G. H. Nelson, and Truett Smith.

EXTENSION COURSE IS OFFERED AT TAHOKA

An English Course, "The American Short Story" 330-x will be offered here by George Smallwood of Tech. The first meeting will be held at the High School Auditorium, Monday, September 28, at 8 P.M. This course will count three semester hours on a degree or graduate work. This is an entirely different course from the Sophomore Short Story course.

For more complete information see, phone, or write Mrs. W. D. Smith at Central Ward, or at her home, or come to the first meeting.

In spite of the fact Tahoka is near Tech, this is the first Extension course offered here. The object in selecting "The American Short Story" is that it has been very popular in many nearby towns because of its interests to people other than teachers.

11 Inches Fell Here In Six Day Period

Improvements Made At Mack's Food Store

J. B. McPherson, proprietor of Mack's Food Store, has completely remodeled and rearranged the interior of the store recently.

The rearrangement adds much to the attractiveness of the store and the convenience of customers.

City Takes Part In Fair's Parade

Mrs. E. E. Callaway received a communication a few days ago inviting the people of Lynn county to participate in the activities of the Texas Centennial Day at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair by entering a float or any early model vehicle in the parade that is to start at the Tech College at one o'clock p. m. and end at the Fair Grounds.

Lynn county is also invited to send a representative to participate in the contest culminating in the crowning of the very oldest woman settler in West Texas.

The Tahoka Luncheon Club was asked to sponsor the affair, and at its meeting Tuesday a committee was appointed to carry out Lynn county's part of the program. This committee consists of Mrs. G. M. Stewart, Mrs. Tom Garrard, Rev. C. C. Armstrong, and Bill Burleson.

Mrs. Jack Alley, it is said, has been selected to enter the Old Settlers Contest.

The parade, we understand, will be a colorful affair, and many thousands of people will probably line the streets and sidewalks to see it.

We failed to note last week that Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gaussoin have removed from Las Vegas, New Mexico, to Tahoka, and Mr. Gaussoin has accepted a position as salesman at Mack's Food Store. Mrs. Gaussoin was the former Miss Elwayne Redwine.

Dr. E. E. Callaway's Ranch Home Flooded

A telegram came to Dr. E. E. Callaway from E. E. Flagg at San Saba Monday advising that crops on his place on the Colorado River were a total loss, and that the flood waters were sweeping through the main residences up to the eaves. Dr. Callaway had gone to Dallas and the telegram was forwarded to him there.

The main residence on the Callaway stock farm was occupied by E. R. Hoyle and family. Mr. Hoyle is a son-in-law of A. L. Dunagan of Tahoka, but as this is written Mr. Dunagan has been unable to hear from him. As he construes the telegram, however, the stone building recently erected by Dr. Callaway as a summer residence must have been several feet under water, in which event all the furniture in the building is either swept away or ruined.

The barn, which contained the corn that had been gathered, was also under water and it is presumed the feed had gone down the stream.

WEEK OF PRAYER BEING OBSERVED BY BAPTISTS

The Week of Prayer is being observed by the W. M. S. of the Baptist Church this week. A program is being given each evening, pertaining to some phase of the denominational work.

The rain and the mud have interfered somewhat with the attendance, but those attending report some excellent services.

MONTH TOTAL IS NEW RECORD

Thirteen Inches of Water Has Fallen Here Already During Month Of September

Once again the lakes throughout Lynn county are full. Once again the ground is thoroughly soaked. Following slow showers which had been falling since Wednesday of last week, Tahoka was visited with a terrific downpour Saturday afternoon which continued for less than a half hour, possibly, but which made rivers of our streets.

Then on Sunday afternoon, rain began falling again and continued with a few brief intermissions until Tuesday morning. A heavy downpour early Monday morning again flooded the streets, overflowed the sidewalks and lapped against the very threshold of some of the business houses. Indeed Jake Leedy was compelled to improvise a levee to keep the rushing waters from flooding the basement of the Thomas building where he operates a recreation hall. Leonard Craft had to do the same to protect his tailor shop.

It is believed that the rainfall here during the period beginning Wednesday, September 16, and ending Tuesday morning, September 22, is an all-time record for a like period of time since the coming of the white man to these plains. It is believed that the rainfall during the 64 hour period beginning between four and five o'clock Sunday afternoon and ending between eight

Harley Sadler Is Coming In Circus

Harley Sadler, popular West Texas showman, who has many friends in Tahoka, has quit the tent theatre business, leased his equipment to Roy E. Fox, and is now devoting his entire time to the circus business. Jack Turner, Harley's publicity man, told the News a few days ago. "Harley likes the circus business, is building up a nice show, and with a few good seasons you can count on him having one of the very best," Turner said.

Harley Sadler Circus will show in Tahoka Thursday, October 8, and will feature "Texas Under Six Flags" a beautiful historical pageant.

950 ENROLLED IN BROWNFIELD PUBLIC SCHOOLS THIS YEAR

According to Supt. M. L. H. Baze, there are toward 960 enrolled in the grade, junior and senior high schools here at present, and it is believed that between 1000 and 1100 will be the total before the first term ends.

The public school seems to be well organized already, although several new teachers have been employed to take the place of some that resigned in the past two months, but the machinery is moving on in a well oiled and regulated manner.

The people of Brownfield are proud of their fine school system, and although it costs them lots of money in the way of taxes and expenses for supplies and clothing to keep the children in school, few there are that would for one moment consider either abandoning or even reducing present facilities.

P. T. A. MEETS WEDNESDAY

The Parent-Teachers Association will meet Wednesday at 3 p. m. at the Central Ward school building. Mrs. Claude Donaldson, president, announces. All parents, and others interested in children are urged to attend.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

For the Pacific States A Good Example It Sold for $700

The Pacific states should interest themselves in air defense, apart from the national government.

Arthur Brisbane

When a committee of rich men from New York called on Abraham Lincoln, told him how much money they had, and urged that he send a good battleship to do nothing but protect New York city, his reply was that if he had as much money as they said they had, he would build a battleship for himself.

The west coast states, California, Oregon, Washington, co-operating perhaps with their vigorous neighbors of Vancouver, and other points above the Canadian border, might well have a few flying ships of their own, a sort of air militia.

San Francisco, where they combine patriotism with plenty of money, and great civic pride and energy, might well start the idea of a Pacific coast flying force. That need not be very expensive.

And if California, in San Francisco for instance, should start a little flock of one hundred machines, Los Angeles could be relied upon to hurry in with two hundred, Seattle and other coast cities also.

Such machines need not be a total loss. In the first place, many young gentlemen with rich fathers, not knowing exactly what to do with themselves, extremely anxious to find work worth while, and preferably dangerous, would delight in each equipping his individual machine, for the service of the Pacific coast and of Uncle Sam, as the nobles in the old days delighted in equipping each his regiment, or his fighting ship, for the service of the king.

Two hundred or three hundred high-powered, swift-flying machines, directed by quick and courageous American brains, would be worth more to the safety of the Pacific coast than a hundred battleships. For the fighters that come, if they do come, will fly miles above the battleships. They would come less gaily, less confidently, if they knew that trained fliers awaited them.

Hideyo Noguchi, who gave his life to fight yellow fever in Africa, will inspire many men. He was born of a proud, warlike race, intensely self-centered, for 2,000 years a hermit people. The loyalty of a Japanese race to family, clan, above all to the emperor representing his race. The rest of the world was nothing to him.

Born one generation after Japan opened her doors to the world, Noguchi felt the new spirit of the times. He was loyal to family, clan, emperor, race; but he was devoted chiefly to all human kind.

From boyhood to the last, through poverty and many perils, he studied how to wipe out disease. He discovered the germ of yellow fever, developed serums to prevent the fever or cure it, led in the work that has driven it out of America and will soon put an end to it throughout the world.

Yellow fever killed countless millions of all peoples. Noguchi's skill and devotion have saved the lives of millions, too many to estimate, most of them foreigners to whom his forefathers would have paid no attention, calling them hei-min, or no-folks.

Noguchi's self-sacrifice to human welfare sets an example that is sure to be followed. Perhaps, in time, most men will see that it is better to help one another than to kill or even rob one another.

It is said the Hackensack Indians sold to the white men for so many bars of lead, and some finery, worth altogether $700, land on which now stands the entire city of Newark, N. J., and a great deal of land beyond.

The poor Hackensack chief, with his $700, couldn't buy today enough land for a tight grave at the corner of Broad and Market streets in Newark. Land goes up wonderfully.

Doctors at Kansas City report that birth control information so much discussed does little good to the poor, and has caused an "alarming slump in child bearing among educated families."

That is how reform works, usually. But since 90 per cent of human beings worth while come from poor families, providence may be working in its usual mysterious way.

Senator Couzens Defeated in Michigan Primaries—Maine Recaptured by Republicans—Notable Gathering of Savants at Harvard Tercentenary.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union

REPUBLICANS were highly gratified by the results of the Michigan primary election for two reasons: First, because three out of five persons who went to the polls asked for Republican ballots; second, because a use Senator James Couzens, a Republican who has openly declared that he is supporting President Roosevelt for re-election, lost his fight for re-nomination.

Sen. Couzens

San Francisco, where they combine patriotism with plenty of money, and great civic pride and energy, might well start the idea of a Pacific coast flying force. That need not be very expensive. A hundred plucky young fliers, practicing the gentle art of flying at night, and dropping bombs, practicing especially mimic warfare against other flying machines, would constitute an admirable object lesson to the rest of the country.

On the Democratic side Representative Prentiss M. Brown won the senatorial nomination against Louis B. Ward who was supported by Father Coughlin. For governor they chose Frank Murphy, high commissioner to the Philippines and former mayor of Detroit. Both Murphy and his defeated opponent, George Welsh, campaigned as Roosevelt supporters.

In the New Hampshire primaries Gov. H. Styles Bridges won the Republican senatorial nomination, ending the effort of former Senator George H. Moses to stage a comeback. The Democrats put up Representative William N. Rogers. Nominees for governor are Maj. Francis P. Murphy, Republican, and Amos N. Blandin, Democrat.

Massachusetts will have for senator either Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Republican, or James M. Curley, now governor, Democrat. John W. Hurley, Republican, and Charles F. Hurley, Democrat, were nominated for the governorship.

The gubernatorial nominees in Wisconsin are: Gov. Philip La Follette, Progressive; Alexander Wiley, Republican, and Arthur W. Lueck, Democrat.

MAINE, the "barometer" state, is back in the Republican column at least so far as its state ticket is concerned. The G. O. P. captured the United States senatorship, the governorship and three congressional seats. Senator Wallace H. White, Republican, defeated Gov. Louis J. Brann, who sought to unseat him. Lewis O. Barrows, Republican, won the governorship by a substantial majority over F. Harold Dubord, Democrat.

The vote cast broke all records for size and interest in the election was intense. The state had been visited by both President Roosevelt, as he returned from his vacation cruise, and Gov. Alf M. Landon, the Republican Presidential nominee, who made speeches there only a few days ago. Colonel Knox, vice presidential candidate on the Republican ticket, also had canvassed the state. Brann, who was elected governor in 1922 and re-elected two years later, was the first Democrat to hold that office in Maine and was personally popular. White was elected senator in 1930 after ten years in the house.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE WALLACE has approved the new $10,000,000 seed corn loan program of the AAA. The government will advance farmers two types of loans on seed corn stored on the farm. Advances of $1.75 a bushel will be made to farmers on 1,000,000 bushels of selected corn. The government will have the option of buying this corn at $3.50 a bushel up to April 1, 1937.

The second type of loan permits advances of 55 cents a bushel on "good quality and properly stored cribbed corn which can be sorted for seed at a later date." On the latter type of loan the government retains the right to purchase the collateral at $1.50 a bushel until April 1 next.

It is understood the Reconstruction Finance corporation has agreed to advance up to $10,000,000 under the loan program. The loans will be made to farmers through the Commodity Credit corporation.

The interest rate on the new loans will be 4 per cent, the same as was in effect under the old corn loan program.

FEDERAL government help in controlling their business has been asked by two large sections of the tobacco industry.

The Retail Tobacco Dealers of America, Inc., representing about 300,000 retailers of tobacco products, requested the federal trade commission to authorize a trade practice conference with a view for formulating rules for the elimination of unfair methods of competition and trade abuses.

TO THE sixty-sixth annual congress of the American Prison association, held in Chicago, was presented a report from the committee on crime prevention in which it was stated that the tactics of a certain class of lawyers in defending persons charged with crime have the effect of encouraging criminals to repeat their offenses. The committee declared that 75 per cent of the prisoners now in penal institutions in this country had been "literally faced about into a career of crime" by their experiences with defense attorneys.

The coaching of the attorney tended to help the defendant find an alibi for his misdeeds and a sedative for his conscience, according to the report, when public welfare should have guided the lawyer to conduct "which would quicken the sensibilities of the prisoner and awaken him to his own misdeeds."

The committee recommended more scientific methods in preventing and combating crime and it estimated that the country's annual crime cost is $15,000,000,000—"one-fourth of the national income; half of the war debt."

FOR the first time in seven years the United States is to have a squadron in European Atlantic waters. It is known as "Squadron 40-temporary" and Rear Admiral Arthur P. Fairfield was named as its commander. Admiral Fairfield hoisted his flag aboard the light cruiser Raleigh at the Norfolk navy yard and sailed for Gibraltar. At first the squadron will consist of the flagship Raleigh, the destroyers Kane and Hatfield and the coast guard cutter Cayuga, but navy officials expected its strength would be increased soon.

The Hatfield, Kane and Cayuga had been on emergency duty in Spanish waters since the outbreak of the Spanish revolt until they were withdrawn to navy ports following the attempted bombing of the Kane by an unknown plane off Cadiz last August 30.

IT IS pleasant to turn from war and politics and read of the doings at Cambridge, Mass., where Harvard university is celebrating the tercentenary of its founding. In Sanders theater was held the academic reception for 554 scholars representing 502 universities, colleges and learned societies in every state of the Union and in forty foreign countries, and all of them wearing the caps, gowns and hoods signifying their various degrees of scholarship.

President James B. Conant greeted the guests, accepted their credentials and delivered a simple address of welcome. He noted that the assembly was an impressive demonstration of the solidarity of the academic world, and saw in the greetings of the delegates "the continued aspiration of mankind toward a universal fellowship based on human reason."

Responding on behalf of the delegates, Prof. Elie Cartan of the University of Paris paid tribute to Harvard's contributions to education and declared that "no barrier, political, religious or social, should be erected to stop the search for truth."

When the delegates were called up in the order of the age of the institutions they represented, first to respond was Prof. Saleh Hachem Attia of Al-Azhar university of Cairo, founded in 970. Then came the next oldest, the Regia university, Neglie Stuni Bologna, founded in the Tenth century, and represented by Prof. Carrado Gini. Third was the University of Paris, founded in the Eleventh century, whose representative was Dr. Cartan. Oxford, Cambridge and all the others followed, down to the youngest represented, the Academia Sinica of Nanking, China.

World-famous educators, scientists and men of letters including ten Nobel prize winners, were among those who attended the reception.

FRANCE'S famous polar explorer, Dr. Jean Charcot, and 59 of the crew of 60 aboard the exploration ship Pourquoi Pas were drowned when the vessel foundered in a gale off the Iceland coast. One petty officer swam ashore and told of the tragedy. Charcot led two expeditions to the Antarctic and a region there is named for him, Charcotland. In 1925, when one of Roald Amundsen's north polar expeditions was missing, Charcot searched the east coast of Greenland in the Pourquoi Pas.

It Doesn't Pay—

Doing Favors for Others With Thought of Return Disappoints

THE older I grow the more I am appalled by the ingratitude, the complete lack of a sense of obligation on the part of our fellow human beings.

"With me the people who come first are always those to whom I have any obligation whatsoever. Anything that is done for me is constantly on my mind and I am on the lookout to repay. But look about you and you will observe the most inconceivable indifference on the part of most otherwise decent people to what they owe to others. Indeed the code seems to be to cultivate those from whom some advantage may be forthcoming and neglect those to whom we are indebted. The answer to it all is to put yourself out for nobody; it doesn't pay."

The above lament was received by an international writer of note, who answers as follows:

It must have been an unusually unfortunate chain of experiences that gave this woman such an unhappy slant on human nature. But certain it is that favors done with thought of return are bound to bring disappointment. In this busy, hectic world, people are likely to be rather casual about give and take. That does not necessarily mean that they are unappreciative. They are just not punctilious. Frequently a kindness makes its mark but time passes before occasion presents itself to show appreciation, or to reciprocate. After all, if we think enough of people to put ourselves out for them, as our reader says, there must be a certain amount of faith.

If we do things for others only because we want to do them and find a certain satisfaction in it, we have nothing to lose. But the expected reward is something like the watched pot—very disappointing. In fact, it doesn't pay.

PATTERNS of WOLFPEN

By HARLAN HATCHER

SYNOPSIS

In 1785 Saul Pattern of Virginia came into the beautiful virginia country of the Big Sandy valley in Kentucky. Chief of the perils were the Shawnees, who sought to hold their lands from the ever-encroaching whites. From a huge pinnacle Saul gazed upon the fat bottoms and the endless acres of forest in its primeval quietude at the mouth of the Wolfpen, and felt an eagerness to possess it, declaring it a place fit for a man to LIVE in!

While she was dreaming farther and farther away into the blue bend of the sky, a black cloud in a dragon's shape crashed into the white puffs above Cranecrest.
"The breakfast things are getting dry and harder to wash, Cynthia," Julia said.
The kitchen was dark after the sharp sunlight. They worked in silence for a while, Cynthia washing the dishes, Julia mixing yeast into the white flour and setting it in a wooden bowl on the hearth. Then Cynthia spoke, the words making audible a fragment of her thought as it passed easily out of the silence.

have always lived here and done well," Jesse answered.
"Sure it's all right that way, but a feller might go out and then come back. Even the old Patterns had to come from somewhere else before they could get here, didn't they? If one of them hadn't come from the old country and another one of them hadn't come over here from Virginia, we wouldn't be here would we? We'd already be some place else."
Jesse remained silent for he liked Abrael when he plunged headlong with one of his notions.
"I'd like to see some of the world, and drive cattle down the river for a drover, or be a drover myself maybe and buy cattle. I'd like to take a raft down the Big Sandy and go up to Pittsburgh on a boat and run a coal-barge down to Cincinnati, and do a lot of things."
"Dad couldn't hardly spare any of us of the place during the season," Jesse said.

"He got along all right when we were little, didn't he? And he likes it. If he'd sell some of it off to that feller for all that money."
"I don't think he'll sell," Jesse said. "Well, just the same he ought to," Abrael said.
"Yes, and we ought to finish up the Long Bottom and get it planted. Half the morning's already gone. Come on," Jesse said.
Sparrel closed the gate behind Shellenberger. He stood with his right hand still lifted in farewell, observing that the man did not know how to put his knees into a fine saddle mule. As Shellenberger disappeared down Wolfpen, Sparrel turned back through the lot toward the barn, feeling that the morning was advancing and the self-contained mood which had always borne him through the spring work was suddenly broken. He should be caring for the new lambs and getting the boys into the Long Bottom and carrying forward the daily work of the place, but some fragile quality had been shattered out of the delicate balance which had made all the yesterdays full of content in these things. He went into the barn through the thick smell of horses; then he crossed the harness- and saddle room through the sweet odor of leather, and went into the alcove where he prepared his herbs and mixed his medicines. But his mind was on the words of the man riding down the hollow, and on their portent for him and his children.

There is no sense to it. You sell and let me have my part while it'll do me some good."
"A body gets attached to things, Jasper. Don't you feel that?"
"Not to a lot of timber-land we never see much of anyway and it won't move."
They were silent again. Sparrel watched the pained efforts of the young ewe grow weaker.
"See can't make it, but it's a pity to kill her just because she wasn't made right to start with."
He stood apart delaying for several more minutes, but when the poor creature fixed her agonized eyes upon him, he opened his long hunting knife and slit her throat.
No one said anything more about Shellenberger or his offer, but the spirit of unrest he had brought into the family continued and multiplied in silence through the week. Sparrel would have to decide, and when he had made up his mind he would say what was to be done. In the meantime the responsibility lay heavy upon him. All the daily purposes of his life grew easily out of tradition; that is the way it had always been done on Wolfpen. But for this problem there was no precedent, and Sparrel found it bewildering to settle on what was best to do. He could think about buying land and building a new mill, because three generations before him had bought land and made new mills. But there was nothing about selling. And how was a simple, honest hospitable man like Sparrel Pattern to know anything helpful about partnerships or royalties or selling off surplus timber while reserving ownership of the land or the marketing of logs.

"I Want to Get Married Before Long, Dad."

He sat with his perplexity in the corner by the fireplace in the evening, fingering slowly at his trimmed beard and looking into the white oak-bark ashes smoldering in the circle Julia had arranged purposely for baking the fluffy wheat biscuits for his supper. He loved her and her way of speaking to him through such personal gestures as ash-baked biscuits on the evening when the butter was sweet from the churn.
He took down the second volume of the history of the United States and held the yellow-cornered pages open in his hands. There was the tale of the growth of these states and of the westward sweep of restless men who were always leaving one thing and seeking out another. Now they had done all that while he and his fathers lived out their days in the self-contained fields of Wolfpen.
The rough sketch must now be filled in. The fact was certain, but the manner rested with the makers of the future. Would it be continuous destruction and debris, dirt and ugliness, wasted land and destroyed timber like the Ohio end of the Big Sandy? Or might it be in the orderly manner of Wolfpen? Haste and greed would never pause for vision or plan. The Ohio was filling, the West was filling; the mountains were filling; everywhere (from what he could learn) the unrest of men and the inexorable pressure of trade. The outside had pushed into Cattiesburg, then up to Louisa, on to Richardson and Paintsville, and now the Big Sandy boats were towing it right into Pikeville. Most of the timber on the lower Sandy was gone and the hillsides were gutted with washouts. The demand was increasing; the hungry mills must be fed, and now Shellenberger was up here on Gannon and Wolfpen wanting logs and land. And after all, why not? No telling but the demand might cease. His children needed the money more than the stumpage.
There was the saw mill that could run a saw. He had been so busy with the planting he had hardly seen his mill. It was no crime to sell timberland at a profit. Sentiment could never prosper a man. He closed the worn history-book and put it back on its shelf. He wound up the weights on the clock, and bathed his feet, and lay on the bed, waiting for Julia. When she had put out the lamp and had taken her place by his side, he laid his hand on her face, stroking it gently, and said, "We won't miss the land Shellenberger wants and the money will come in right handy."

"I think that's best, too, Sparrel," Julia said, just as though they had had a long talk about it.
"We didn't think much about not having real money when we were young, did we, Julia?"
"We had this fine place to start on, and it wasn't a bit of trouble to make things."
"I reckon it's not that way with our children."
"We can see them all get a good start now," Julia said, thinking, as always, of her children and not of herself.
"You're going over to town in the morning?" she said.
"That was the talk they had about selling four thousand acres of timberland to Shellenberger."
Cynthia was awake when the first undecided birds in the orchard chirped uncertainly for the morning. By the time they had swelled to a full chorus with the coming of daybreak, she was in the barnyard opening the gate and watching Sparrel and Jasper ride down Wolfpen toward Gannon on their way to Pikeville. Before they disappeared around the lower orchard, Sparrel turned in the saddle and waved goodbye to Cynthia.
She was still leaning on the gate when Jesse came out of the barn with his own black gelding.
"You open the gate for me, will you, Cynthia?"
"Why, Jesse, wherever are you going to?"
"I just took a notion to go over to town, too. I don't feel at rest in my mind this morning, and I'm going to try to see Tandy Morgan about what I told you about the other day." He rode through the gate. "Will you water the sheep and tell Mother?"
"Sure, Jesse." She had never seen him in a flurry before. She waved goodbye to him also and watched him ride hurriedly down the creek after Sparrel and Jasper.
He overtook them at the Gannon creek ford.
"Where are you going to, son?" Sparrel asked also in surprise.
"I thought I'd just go over to town too," Jesse said.
"I thought you went up to the field to look after that last piece," Jasper said, and there was an irritation in his voice.
"Abrael's looking after it."
"Where are you going to, son?" Sparrel asked. It was as near as he got to reproving Jesse for coming away.
"Cynthia will water them all right." Jesse spoke quietly, riding on with his father and brother up the bank.
Sparrel said no more; he rode off at a lope up Gannon.
"Where are you going to do over at town anyway?" Jasper demanded.
"I've got some business of my own to attend to, Jasper," Jesse said.
They rode in file — Sparrel, Jesse, Jasper — with ease and rapidly up the creek, the fall of twelve hoofs, muted in the soft dirt, beating quick in rhythm as if there were only one rider, and then nervously out of rhythm as though there were nine. They rode without words, the only sounds the mild friction of saddle leather and the quick intervals of the hoofs collecting into a more insistent one and then shattering into many.
At the upper ford the Pattern men crossed the creek and began to climb up Steatone Hollow by the bridge path which lifted them slowly into Cranecrest Gap, took them around the ridge, and lowered them into the Big Sandy Bottoms a few miles below Pikeville.
As they climbed, leaning forward lightly while the hill-trained mules picked their way with precise steps up the mountain, Sparrel and his sons rose out of the revering thoughts that had possessed them and relaxed into the untrodden sensation of riding up a steep hillside on a capable mount. The hills were now fully awake; the original possessors of the land which had survived the Patterns but had not yet felt the hand of the Shellenbergers.
They came out of the dense upper woodland at the end of the ridge and paused for an instant to look back at the Pinnacle barely visible through the faint green of the trees, and down upon the green fringed banks of the Big Sandy river sweeping through the valley. Then while the mules placed their precise downward steps, the men leaned backward lightly and dropped gradually into the aura of thought which surrounded and isolated each one: Sparrel, Jesse, Jasper in file; Shellenberger, Tandy Morgan, Jesse Burden in a circle of revolving thought.
At nine o'clock they rode into the straggling outskirts of the little county-seat, on the dirt road which thickened with houses farther along and became the main street. It gathered on its edge the livery-stable, the hardware store, and harness shop; then, overlooking around the public square that held the court-house and jail, it fronted ed the three general stores, the state bank, the post-office, the Gibson House, a restaurant and pool-room, a few homes with trees and wide yards, and then plunged down through the warehouses to the wharf where several small boats were tied. This was Pikeville.

And Pikeville had a future, the wise men said. It stood at the head of navigation on the Big Sandy in the heart of the coal region. It was only a matter of time. The boats had at last come; one day, so the more hopeful predicted, the railroad would lengthen up the valley, bearing on its rails more people and more trade. The country was full of coal and timber; Pikeville was the distributing point; strangers like Shellenberger were arriving and there was talk of development and natural resources and progress.
The Pattern men rode into Hardin Slosser's livery-stable.
"Hiwdy, Sparrel. Hiwdy, boys," Hardin called out.
"Hiwdy, Hardin."
"Hiwdy smart gang of people in town today," Hardin said.
"Looks like they're all hitched up around the court-house fence," Sparrel said.
"I got about all I can take care of." Hardin led the mules into the clean stall smells.
"That mule that feller left here got a shoe loose on the back of his side."
"Is it a cause for wonder they're not all loose, the way he was riding that mule down Wolfpen. Maybe you'd better try shoeing her. But have an eye on her. I have to hobble her, myself."
"I'll fix her."
"When did he get in?"
"Day before yesterday. He said tell you he'd pay for the stall."
"Much obliged."
"You don't seem tradin' with him some way, Sparrel?"
"I don't reckon I am, Hardin. I have been figuring on it some. He wants to buy some land and get out timber."
"Sure, sure, is what we need up in here, Sparrel, is somebody to develop this country, as the feller says."
Sparrel gestured a goodbye to Hardin and walked with his sons to the square, three tall men in black boots and white shirts, Sparrel in the lead setting the pace, Jesse and Jasper in step behind him.
"I guess you boys will look after your own business," Sparrel said.
"You aim to start back about the usual time?" Jesse asked.
"About the middle of the evening, I reckon," Sparrel said.
They separated at the square.
Jesse crossed the rutted and dunged street into the crowded court-house grounds, passing knots of men who were beginning to drink and talk trades, and went around the corner by the recorder's office toward the pump and watering trough. There in the center of a crowd was Tandy Morgan. Jesse could hear Tandy's laugh bubble in his lungs before it burst in a circle of ripples over the group of men. Tandy Morgan was already the best criminal lawyer in the county. Every one said that as soon as this section developed, Tandy Morgan would go to Frankfort as governor of Kentucky. He knew everybody in the county and most of the people down the river. When Jesse walked up to the pump, Tandy crushed his hand and said:
"Hiwdy, how are you, Jesse, mighty glad to see you. How're all the folks?"
"About as well as common," Jesse said.
"Hiwds yours?"
"Never felt better and had less in my life," Tandy said, the laugh bubbling and breaking over the crowd.
"I'd like to see you a minute if you're going to be in your office any time," Jesse said.

ARE COMMUNISTS TEACHING IN THE UNIVERSITY?

Discussing the visit of Dr. R. H.
Montgomery of the University of Texas to Lubbock last week and his addresses to the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, Charles Guy of the Lubbock-Avalanche-Journal publications intimates that the Doctor was evidently dispensing some rather radical doctrines. Says Charles:
"Speeches delivered here by Dr.
R. H. Montgomery on leave from University of Texas' department of economics and lately on the staff of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, have all but given some of the local gent's high blood pressure.

"The Plainsman didn't hear the Doc either at the Rotary or Kiwanis clubs, or in his talk to the Texas Farm association, but from what he has heard the speech on "The American System" at the Rotary club gathering literally sent the conservatives into spasms.

"Some of the fellers here-to-fore lukewarm toward Mr. Roosevelt or passively opposed to him are talking about getting up an organization right here!

"Some even went so far, in the height of disagreement with the soft-voiced Montgomery, to call him bad names like 'red', 'communist',
'socialist', etc!.

"While Doctor Montgomery's visit
here isn't expected to keep Mr.
Roosevelt from being re-elected, it certainly did add fuel to the anti-administration flames!"

Maine elected a governor by a majority of about 45,000, but the Republican candidate for the U. S.
Senate won by a majority of only about 5,000. There is an old adage to the effect that as goes Maine so goes the nation. As a matter of fact Maine always goes Republican in Presidential elections. The only exception to this rule since the Civil War was in 1912 when the Republicans were split. Wilson received about 3,000 votes more than Theodore Roosevelt but Taft received 26,545 votes. Roosevelt, the Progressive and Taft, Republican, combined received nearly 24,000 votes more than Wilson. In 1932, Hoover carried the state over Franklin D.

Roosevelt by a majority of more than 37,000, yet Roosevelt was elected by an overwhelming majority.
The fact that the Republican Senatorial candidate carried the state by only 5,000 votes over the Democratic candidate in the recent election certainly is a good omen for the Democrats.

That the task of controlling flood waters and conserving the soil is a Herculean undertaking must have been impressed upon all who stopped to think about it when reports of the terrific rain in the San Angelo region last week appeared in the papers. It is claimed that as much as fifteen and twenty inches of water fell in some localities in 48 hours. Flood waters sweeping down the three Conchos submerged San Angelo, which lies near the confluence of the three streams, covering most of the business section of the city to a depth of one to seven feet and sweeping away 300 residences. A concrete dam built on every tributary and draw leading into the Conchos as well as huge dams built at short distances apart on all the main streams would have little effect in controlling the flood waters following such a rain as that. Nevertheless much can be done to control an ordinary flood and to prevent much of the soil from being washed away. Contouring and terracing of fields and hillsides even in the pasture lands would be a great help. In our opinion, the efforts at flood control on the part of the Federal and state governments is just beginning.

The West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon is trying an experiment. It is operating a bus out of Amarillo and another out of Hereford to transport students to college. Now Happy and Tulla are undertaking to make arrangements for a college bus to serve those towns. If the experiment proves successful, the number of busses will doubtless be increased from time to time as the demand may require, and other colleges will probably go into the student transportation busness too.

Railroads, like other big industries, sometimes have to be shown what is beneficial to them. For several years some of the western railroads have been operating under a cheaper rate, and found that their passenger traffic greatly increased. Some time ago, some of the eastern railroads went into court trying to keep the I. C. C. from forcing them to give a 2c and 3c rate. But now they find that their passenger traffic has increased as much as 25 per cent in a few months. Some times the big boys in air conditioned offices in Chicago and other large cities don't know what is best for them, or what really appeals to Tom, Dick and Harry of Podunk Center. For years the power utility companies have been reducing their rates, and each time, they find they get more customers, and sell more kilowatts. Many people are of the opinion that phone rates are too high, especially in the small towns, for the service rendered, as at most they have only a few hundred customers that a subscriber can reach for his monthly rental.—
Terry County Herald.

We do not believe that the Government should do indirectly or by circumlocution what it is not permitted to do directly under the Constitution. In other words, we think the Government is in poor business when it undertakes to evade the Constitution. We do not believe that the Government should go into the business of building and operating power lines in violation of evasion of the Constitution. We do believe, however, that the Constitution should be amended so as to give the Government the right to regulate and control electric light and power lines, gas lines, telephone and telegraph lines, to fix or limit rates, and even to own and operate them. We are strongly for all this—but only under the powers granted in and by the Constitution.

We note in last week's issue of The Roscoe Times that more than forty young people of Roscoe had entered or would enter college this fall. Roscoe is not quite as large as Tahoka and does not have as many pupils in its public schools. But for a long time Roscoe has sent a large number of students to college each year. We often wonder why it is that so much larger percent of the young people in some towns have an ambition to procure a college education than in others. They certainly do have the school spirit in Roscoe. We wish that it might be so to the same degree in our town and in all the towns and communities of the state.

WHITE AND HENDERSONS
 HERE FROM CALIFORNIA

A. W. White and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Henderson came in early last week from Los Angeles, California, but before they were fairly rested up it began raining and Mr. White says that they were water-bound out at the Chambers-Elliott place until Tuesday, when he managed to get to town.

Although finding the country suffering from the ravages of the summer drouth, they found no drouth here when they arrived.

Mr. White will probably remain here several months but the Hendersons expect to return to Los Angeles within the next few days.

They report that Bob Chambers is still slowing improving, though he is far from being a well man yet. He and the Elliotts are planning to return to Tahoka in October.

History Of Screw Worm Control Is Told By Dr. Buck

Cases of screw worms in livestock have been known in the United States since 1843, according to L. L. Buck, district screw worm supervisor, whose headquarters are at Lubbock. Authentic cases with positively identified specimens date back to 1882. The screw worm fly inhabits the southern United States, Mexico, Central America, the West Indies and South America, including Uruguay and Argentina.

The pioneer cattle raisers of Texas recognized the screw worm as a serious pest of livestock, and there are many references made by the early entomologists and veterinarians to it in literature. One of the first materials recommended for treating cases was calomel, which was placed directly in the wound. Later, the use of chloroform and carbolic ointments was adopted. None of these substances is now recommended.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, recommends the present methods of treatment and control as the result of research work conducted by Dr. F. C. Bishop, Entomologist, and his associates of the Division of Insects Affecting Man and Animals. Other important contributions have been made by entomologists and veterinarians of various state agencies.

In 1916, Mr. D. C. Parman, Entomologist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Uvalde, Texas, began studies of benzol, the present accepted material for screw worm case treatment. At the same time he and his associates developed the use of pine tar oil as a wound dressing and fly repellent.

In 1933 a contribution of great importance was made by Emory C. Cushing, Entomologist, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, when he discovered that there were two species of screw worms that had previously been confused as one species. The two flies, although almost identical in appearance, are entirely different in habits. One designated as the true screw worm infests only the wounds of living animals. The second species, called the secondary invader, breeds in carcasses and decaying flesh. This discovery placed emphasis upon controlling infested wounds in living animals, thereby reducing the population of true screw worm flies, and upon preventing wounds in domestic animals and livestock.

From time to time outbreaks of screw worms have occurred outside the territory normally infested by the fly—in Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kansas and other states. In 1935 a serious infestation occurred in Georgia, Florida and other Southeastern states. The forces of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine were immediately centered in that section and an extensive control campaign was begun. This control campaign was successful and the losses from screw worms in that area were greatly reduced.

At the present time the U. S. Department of Agriculture personnel working on the control of screw worms is directed from San Antonio, Texas. The problem is being approached through the use of proper animal husbandry practices and proper materials for treating cases. You can assist in this campaign by giving records of screw worm cases in your livestock to your local county agent or to the district screw worm supervisor, who will be glad to give you any information you desire concerning screw worm control.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends benzol to kill screw worms in wounds, after which the wound should be coated with pine tar oil, specific gravity 1.065, to hasten healing of the wound and aid in repelling further attacks of the fly.

Mrs. Walter Hatcher of Arapaho, Oklahoma, cans fresh cream at her home, using it for butter when her milk supply falls short. Cream is processed in quart jars under 15 pounds of steam pressure for thirty minutes. It turns a pink color and has a condensed taste, but, by simply beating with a stiff whip, it turns to fresh-tasting butter.

There's No Free Ride on Taxes

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
 National Chairman
 Sentinels of the Republic

Probably the most common of all political promises is that which pledges the average worker a free ride on taxes paid by somebody else.

It has been made by many candidates and many office-holders. It is being made today, and will continue to be made as campaign oratory waxes warmer during the months just ahead. And this in spite of the fact that the burden of hidden taxes—the taxes ostensibly levied on production and passed on to the consumer in the form of higher prices—continues steadily to mount.

Here are some figures on that rising curve recently published at Washington: In 1932, the total of hidden Federal taxes amounted to $780,703,659—approximately $25 per family.

In 1933, it rose to $1,088,901,635—about $35 per family.

In 1934, it stood at $1,992,051,345—over $63 per family.

In 1935, it reached $2,232,402,340—almost $70 per family.

The figures exclude State and local taxes, which, if added in, would boost the count far higher. Statisticians have estimated the entire bill at from $200 to $300 per family.

These costs aren't written down and sent to you by Government in a separate bill. But you're charged for them just the same. They appear in other bills—in bills for food, for clothing, for shelter, for virtually everything you buy. With other expenses they are included in the cost of production, and thus billed ultimately, though indirectly, to the consumer. Every new extravagance in government, every new tax levied to support extravagance, boosts that bill—and with it the cost of living.

If the American people want to cut their living costs they must begin by cutting the high cost of government. And the way to do it is to insist that politicians exercise real economy, instead of attempting to fool us with the old, old promise that somebody else will pay the fare.

There's no free ride on taxes.

It is a review and exposition of the international lesson for each week, prepared by Dean Harold L. Lundquist of the Moody Bible Institute at Chicago, a recognized leader in the nation's church work. Dean Lundquist has been active in teaching youthful groups for years, thereby acquiring an insight into the needs of these people for understandable explanations of Bible passages. In view of his accomplishments in church work, it is not surprising that Dean Lundquist's exposition of the weekly Sunday School lesson is being used in almost every community of the nation. As teacher or student you will find it extremely helpful.

Jeffersonian Democrats Declare Stand They Will Make In Presidential Election

Texas Democrats Will Support Landon At The Polls In November

With a full realization that our country faces a political crisis transcending all partisan interests, we Democrats of Texas now pledge our best services to the Nation upon a non-partisan basis. We reassert our belief in the Constitution, in the rights of the States, and in the Jeffersonian principle. Believing thus, we must condemn the Roosevelt Administration.

The issue before the American people today is not Roosevelt versus Landon; nor is it the Republican Party versus the Democratic Party. The issue here is the same as that which rocks the rest of the world, and that issue is regimentation versus freedom and democracy. We are confronted with a change in our form of government from a Democracy in which the government is the servant of the people, to a Socialistic and Communist state in which the individual becomes the servant of the state and loses all personal freedom and all property rights.

WE CHARGE that Mr. Roosevelt is not a Democrat and never has been in sympathy with the principles of the Democratic Party.

WE CHARGE that Mr. Roosevelt has aided and abetted the aims of the Socialists and Communists, and has set up a board of advisers known as the "brain trust," which is largely made up of red radicals not in sympathy with our form of government.

WE CHARGE that few members of this "brain trust" have ever been connected with the Democratic party prior to the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt for President.

WE CHARGE that the key positions in the numerous bureaus set up by Mr. Roosevelt are now held by radical appointees selected for the most part by Felix Frankfurter, known throughout the country for his red radical activities.

WE CHARGE that the radicals, whether they call themselves socialists or communists, now have the nation by the throat, thanks being due Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt. Miss Perkins (a married woman following the Russian system of not taking her husband's name), Felix Frankfurter, Rex Tugwell, and others.

WE CHARGE that all New Deal acts such as NRA, AAA, and others in which business, farmers, and the rest of us were to be regimented and directed by some bureaucrat are the brain child of radicals, one of whom is Tugwell. We will prove to you before November 3rd, by quoting Mr. Tugwell himself, that he is as red or redder than Stalin, the Russian dictator.

WE CHARGE that Mr. Roosevelt has shown no interest in the 1932 platform of the Democratic party except to repeal prohibition.

WE CHARGE that most of the New Deal bills he forced through Congress were specifically called for in the 1932 Communist and Socialist platforms. We will prove this to you before November 3rd by showing you word for word the platforms of these parties and showing you how the New Deal acts met the demand of these platforms.

WE CHARGE that when Mr. Roosevelt insisted on having all relief and PWA money given to him to use at his discretion it was for the purpose of getting control of Congress, by denying any Congressman money-spending projects in his district if he voted against the President's bills.

WE CHARGE that Jim Farley, the Tammany politician and ex-prize fight commissioner, expended this money in building up a political machine to Tammanize the United States, and has succeeded in doing so to an extent that it is as vicious as it is in New York City.

WE CHARGE that the Nation cannot survive the continuation of the present flagrant, wasteful spending—far beyond its income. Mr. Roosevelt expects to continue it. Our national debt is now more than $35,000,000,000, or approximately $1,500 for the average family. The interest charges of 2 1/2% upon this amount to $880,000,000.

The President's program of soaking the rich by increasing the taxes on all income above $50,000 does not provide enough money to pay even the interest charges on this debt. If the entire income of this group were confiscated, it would just pay the interest charges, which as shown by the United States Treasury Department figures for 1934, was $890,936,207. The New Dealers have put the mill-stone of debt around the necks of our children and our grandchildren. We believe these debts are being piled up for the purpose of bankrupting the Nation to forward the plans of the Communists and Socialists.

WE CHARGE that the most active bureau in Washington today is that of propaganda, through which millions of dollars of taxpayers' money is spent to misinform him and sing praises of the New Deal.

WE CHARGE that Mr. Roosevelt is wholly unrepentable. His record is one of broken promises. The Nation and business cannot go forward when it cannot rely on the statements of the President.

WE CLAIM that Landon and Knox are the only national nominees defending the time-honored principles of Democracy. The most important plank in their platform is that in defense of State's rights to prevent the centralization of power in Washington, where some organized minority can seize control of our government.

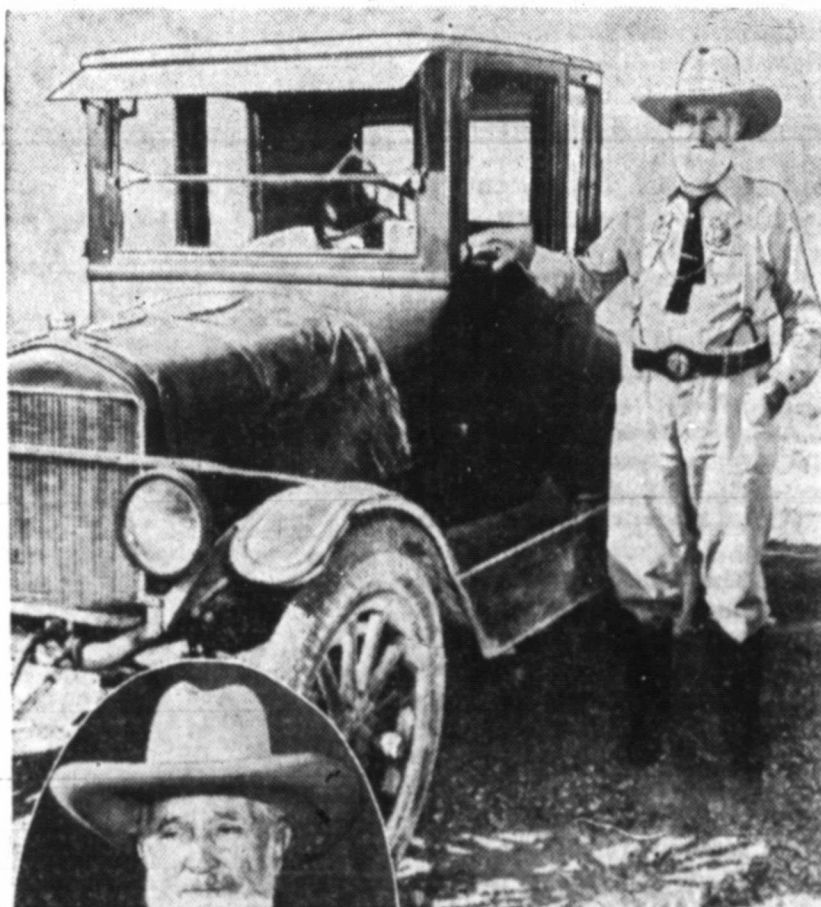

WE CLAIM that we are going to carry this state against Roosevelt. The normal Republican vote is about 150,000. Add to this 50,000 Republicans who ordinarily do not vote because they feel it is useless.

Add to this 150,000 Democrats who will not vote for Roosevelt under any circumstances. You know your own community is full of this kind of Democrats. Add to this 150,000 Democrats who will gladly join us if they think there is any use to vote against him. This alone will mean the election against Roosevelt, but add to this thousands more who will vote against Roosevelt when they are shown the fallacies and frauds of the New Deal. We Democrats are not going to let the New Dealers and Tammany Jim put any collars around our necks. A Texas voter is never a yellow dog unless he is a politician.

We want you to step out on the firing line with us. Are you willing to help us in the distribution of our literature, or in getting money to forward this work? We have a large number of organizations throughout Texas. We want one in every town.

J. EVETTS HALEY, Chairman, Jefferson Democrats of Texas, Headquarters: Austin, Texas.

He Knew Texas When It Was Bad

Captain John R. Hughes of El Paso, whose 81 years have been crowded with stirring adventures, ceased hand-shaking and story swapping long enough during the Texas Rangers Reunion at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas to admit that he still "hears the call of the open road." However, he quickly added that he now travels "by Model T" instead of horseback as he did during 28 years as a Texas Ranger.

"Of course," the grey-thatched ex-Ranger declared, "I do most all my traveling now in this old Ford, bought it 12 years ago, and she's still growing strong. But there was a time when I rode horseback over a great deal of Texas. Once I rode a thousand miles running down a bunch of horse thieves."

Hughes came to the Indian territory when he was about 23 years old. It was but a short time until he came into Texas.

"I acquired a sort of a horse ranch in Travis county," the captain explained, "and one day rustlers got away with 16 head of my horses. I trailed them and for one year, lacking 15 days, I kept at it."

When Captain John R. Hughes, 81-year-old Texas ex-Ranger, who attended the Ranger reunion at the Texas Centennial in Dallas, drove out of El Paso for the long jaunt, it was in a 12-year-old Model T Ford by which the veteran peace officer swears. Captain Hughes was a Ranger for 28 years and his stories of stirring adventures with bad men captivated those who attended the reunion. The Captain is shown standing beside his Model T and, also below, in a close-up.

COLOR MARKS NEW STEP IN FILM HISTORY. "TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE"

A new milestone in the brief but spectacular history of the motion picture is marked by the opening at the English Theatre Sunday for a three day run, technicolor production of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which stars Sylvia Sydney, Fred MacMurray, Henry Fonda and Spanky McFarland.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is a memorable step in movie history, because it is the first film in which color has been used on the screen as it is in nature—as an inevitable, natural background; rather than as a delightful new novelty with which to make experiments in effect and design. Already it has won such acclaim that most major producers are planning to change over to color for their important pictures.

Based on the novel by John Fox Jr., "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is a tale of hill folk in the Cumberland Mountains, and the feuds that set family to fighting family—for causes long since forgotten. More than 90 percent of the picture was filmed outdoors, at Big Bear Lake, California. Location scouts toured the Pacific Coast as far north as Oregon, seeking mountains and terrain closely resembling the original setting of the story, and finally locating the lake site.

The film presents Miss Sidney and Fonda as members of the same mountain clan, who all their lives have loved each other and warred together on a neighboring family. Ancient ways are changed, however, when MacMurray, a young engineer, arrives to construct a railroad line through their hills. He wins Miss Sidney's heart, while Fonda, in bewilderment, sees the collapse of the only code he knows—to fight and kill for what he loves. The film reaches a climax when Fonda sets out after MacMurray, and the rival clan simultaneously sets out after Fonda.

Plans were made for the South Plains Fair. We voted to have a quilting once a month. Plans were made for serving the business men's luncheon next Tuesday, Sept. 28. Next meeting will be with Mrs. Claud Wells.

Members present were: Mmes. A. C. Weaver, Milt Finch, James Connolly, H. M. Snowden, M. O. Canaday, Chas. Nelms, Paul King, Rafe L. Richardson.

MIDWAY H. D. CLUB

"In preparing dishes to be scored remember the points considered by judges are general appearance, flavor, texture and color," said Miss Lillith Boyd to the women of the Midway H. D. club at the home of Mrs. A. O. Murphy at 2:30 p. m. September 18.

Table Service was the subject of the lesson. The H. D. Agent gave a demonstration of the arrangement of dishes on the table, also some points on table etiquette.

All members present engaged in a round table discussion on methods of canning as all are preparing exhibits for the Lubbock Fair and the Lynn county exhibit October 9 and 10. Due to recent rains many have Fall gardens and the club women are striving to make a creditable exhibit. They are keeping strict account of their work and of their products sold. One club member, Mrs. Howard Draper, reports $100.00 worth of cream and eggs sold per month for the past three months.

Miss Boyd reported on the agricultural meet at Lubbock September 17. Mrs. I. M. Draper reported on the last council meeting.

The following members were present: Mmes. R. L. Littlepage, Scott Anderson, O. R. Crow, G. A. Edwards, A. O. Murphy, I. M. Draper, R. T. Cope, and Miss Lillith Boyd, agent.

MRS. F. E. HOUSE CANS 30 PINTS FROM SMALL PATCH OF PORTER TOMATOES

"I had two short rows of Porter tomatoes planted beside other tomatoes in my garden. I canned 30 pints from the Porter tomatoes and will get almost that many more; I have canned none from the other variety," stated Mrs. F. E. House, cooperator in the Dixie Home Demonstration Club.

The larger variety of tomatoes did not make anything; they sunburned before they were ripe. The Porter tomato was small but it ripened uniformly and had a rich color," said Mrs. House.

The Porter tomato makes attractive tomato juice.

DIXIE H. D. CLUB

Dixie H. D. Club met in the home of Mrs. A. C. Aycox Wednesday, Sept. 16.

Miss Boyd met with us and we scored a mild flavored, strong flavored vegetable and a raw salad. Mrs. Dunagan gave a report on council meeting.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mmes. B. C. Aycox, G. L. Cobb, P. E. House, A. L. Duinnagan, G. B. Sherrod, L. E. Huffaker, Paul Johnson, Misses Boyd, House, and the hostess, Mrs. A. C. Aycox.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. G. B. Sherrod at 2:30 Wednesday October, 7th.

Mrs. F. E. Redwine returned last week from Apache Creek, New Mexico, where Miss Jewell recently accepted a position as teacher in the public school. Mrs. Redwine says that Miss Jewell is greatly pleased with her work.

THE STORY OF MY KITCHEN WORK

By Mrs. BOSWELL EDWARDS - Kitchen Demonstrator, New Home Demonstration Club

I had the kitchen blues when I first saw the dingy, black room which was to be my kitchen. Years had dulled the once cream-colored beaver board on the walls. The ceiling was unpainted and smoke blacked. The room was so dark one could hardly see to cook a meal. There was only one half-sized window in my kitchen. A large hole in the upper pane was closed up by a board. The door was an ordinary one. The woodwork was badly damaged and black with soot. The floor was fairly good but uncovered. My kitchen furniture needed painting. There was an old styled cabinet, a cook table, and an unfinished breakfast room suite to be painted or remodeled.

First, I put down a new linoleum square and waxed it. The major problem was then attacked. The beaver board had to be tacked. Also, the one by one-fourth inch strips had to be removed and cracks finished with paper.

This being done, the ceiling was canvassed. The room was ready to undergo the greatest change. Since my color scheme was to be ivory and green, I selected a checked pattern of wall paper with ivory and green predominating. Ivory ceiling paper was used. The total cost of this was $2.10.

For the first two coats on the woodwork, I used cream flat paint. Due to the roughness of the woodwork, a third coat of paint was necessary—semi-gloss enamel being used. With this done the room was beginning to transform from a dark and dull one to a light and sunny one. Because natural light makes work easier, we removed two top panels from the back door and added a glass for 50 cents. The paint cost $1.40.

The cabinet was across the room from the stove, so of course, this caused unnecessary walking. Following a suggestion made by our Home Demonstration Agent, my mother and I decided to work the old cabinet into a built-in one, the working surface was raised to standard height first. The upper part was set aside, the old work surface removed and work began. The frame work was extended down past the window. The end of the cabinet was made of ply board. Two foot boxings eight feet long made the work surface for the cabinet. The old cabinet had two bins; one of these was removed and placed below the other. These bins provide storage space for staple foods. The space vacated by the bin was used for a utensil closet. A door made of ply board was hung. Three drawers were placed about the center of the cabinet. Two doors were then made to enclose the remainder of the space. A shelf was added to this closet. New knobs and latches were added. The upper part of the old cabinet was set back upon the cabinet and again used for dishes.

The cabinet was finished in ivory. Since scrap lumber was used when possible the cost was only $3.50, not including the paint.

I sandedpapered and applied two coats of flat paint to the breakfast room suite. The third coat was enamel.

A wash shelf was built from scrap lumber and covered with linoleum. For 25¢ a towel rack and mirror were added. A towel rack was placed near the cabinet. For $1.39 I purchased a kitchen stool and garbage can to match. For a waste basket, I painted a half-bushel basket ivory and green. I chose cream colored marquette for the curtains and trimmed them in green bias tape. I added a curtain at the door to match the one at the window.

I placed the cook table in the only "open" space and gave it a coat of paint. I used this for milk vessels. As a desk is so badly needed in a kitchen, I decided to place my recipe file, a small account book and cook books on the table. Too, I keep some writing materials handy; this provides a place for meal planning and letter writing.

To my kitchen equipment, I have added a thirty-two piece set of dishes, a seventeen piece beverage set, a waterless cooker, and a cookie jar. A pot plant adds life to the kitchen.

The total cost of my kitchen improvement was $11.35. The labor was done by the family. Much work has been done by my co-operators—five kitchens have been papered, three refinished woodwork, four new linoleums added, one Electrolux, two refrigerators, three sets of dishes, a kitchen cabinet, dinette set, 12 pieces of linen and many cooking utensils were added.

While all this work has not made my old kitchen the efficient laboratory of modern research, it has brought beauty, sunniness and a kitchen one enjoys living in. These things have brought a new efficiency from within. I work with less effort because I feel better and can tell when the room is clean.

WPA GIVES IMPROVEMENTS IN AND AROUND BIG SPRING

Visiting commissioners and county judges who were in Big Spring last Thursday, Friday and Saturday attending the three-day session of their associational meeting were invited to make a tour of the WPA projects completed in Big Spring and Howard county, by R. "Preserve, Protect, Defend"

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

That oath has been taken by every President of our country during its century and a half of glorious history. It is a resolve renewed in spirit by millions of Americans as they observe the anniversary of the Constitution this year.

Why? The words of our greatest Presidents themselves will tell us. Let's recall how they described and regarded that famous citadel of our liberties which they had sworn to defend.

George Washington: "That precious depositary of American happiness, the Constitution of the United States."

Thomas Jefferson: "No Constitution was ever before so well calculated as ours for extensive empire and self-government."

James Madison: "The Constitution is a bill of powers, the great residuum being the rights of the people."

Abraham Lincoln: "To the support of the Constitution let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor."

Grover Cleveland: "The oath I now take to preserve, protect and defend the constitution not only impressively defines the great responsibilities I now assume, but suggests obedience to constitutional commands as the rule by which my official conduct must be guided."

Woodrow Wilson: "Liberty cannot live apart from constitutional principle."

The Constitution of the United States is our Constitution. "We, the people," are not only its beneficiaries—we are also its guardians. On this anniversary let us, too, resolve to "preserve, protect and defend" it.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theodor's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theodor's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

PLANS MADE FOR PARADE CENTENNIAL DAY AT FAIR

Lubbock, Texas, September 23.—Additional entries in a mammoth parade being sponsored next Tuesday, Sept. 29, "Centennial Day" at the Panhandle South Plains Fair, are being sought by a committee in charge.

Individuals, firms, or groups desiring to enter a float were asked to contact Joe W. Bowman, Earl Hunt, or Charles Whitacre, Out-of-town floats may be entered.

Announcement was made yesterday that a mile-long parade was likely.

Three hundred bicycles are expected to be in the line of march. There will be two groups, juniors, up to and including 12 years; seniors, over 12 years. Prizes will be given first place in each group. Roy Lynch is in charge of this division.

The miniature Santa Fe train is expected to attract wide attention. There will be an engine, tender, express car, chair car, pullman, dining car and observation and club car. The cars are said to be about 25 feet long.

Cowboys, "both real and drug store," will be in line, said the committee. There will be several bands, a battery of the 131st field artillery and many decorated floats.

There will be a covered wagon as one entry, an old time racing sulky, and other early day wagons. Dr. C. C. Craig is in charge of the group of clowns.

Start of the parade will be from Texas Tech down Broadway to the fair grounds. Start is to be at 1:30 promptly.

PWA OFFICIAL PRAISES THIS AS THE "STAR LOAN STATE"

Fort Worth, Sept. 21.—Col. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant federal administrator of public works, today called Texas the "star loan state."

The official coined the appellation as he delivered the principal address during public works administration day at the Frontier Centennial.

"Texas shared in these employment boons (PWA expenditures) in a manner befitting the nation's largest state," Colonel Hackett said. "Public Works construction financed in full or in part by PWA funds will total $163,381,822, and will benefit practically every county in Texas."

"The building plans of regular government departments, financed by PWA funds will total $53,413,856. The partnership set up between the government and the state will account for construction costing $109,967,966."

"To encourage construction and its attendant reemployment, PWA allotted $34,425,791 of this money in the form of free grants. To public bodies lacking sufficient funds to finance their share of these improvements, PWA loaned $47,117,391. Texas led all other states in securing this type of assistance."

Colonel Hackett said PWA had created 72,622,500 man-months of employment. He said the organization had not only created employment but had, from its inception "gotten something for its money."

The official dedicated buildings at the exposition erected with PWA aid.

PRESENTS ARGUMENT FOR HIGHER SALARIES

In 1876 Texas wrote into its Constitution a salary for Four Thousand ($4,000.00) Dollars for the Governor, Four Thousand ($4,000.00) Dollars for the Attorney General, and Twenty-five Hundred ($2,500.00) Dollars each for the Land Commissioner, Comptroller, Treasurer, and Secretary of State. In those days this might have been an adequate salary, but today those holding these high offices are not paid as well as they were in '76, and no man can carry the burden of the office and justly care for his family during his incumbency. Being Constitutional provisions, these salaries have remained the same and I am sure that if the thinking people have the matter called to their attention they will vote for one proposed Constitutional amendment in the November election of this year raising the salary of the Governor to $12,000 a year, the Attorney General to $10,000, and the other four Constitution officers to $6,000 each. This will only cost Mr. John Citizen less than a half a cent each to do justice by these leading officials of our great State Government.

Texas is the fastest growing state in the Union, the largest state and the fifth in population and wealth. The demands on state officials are many and we ought to pay our public servants a reasonable living wage while they transact the business of the State.

Take the Governor for instance. No Governor can live up to the requirements of the office and raise his family, excepting that he have private means, without having to spend one-half of the month wondering about where he will borrow money at the end of the month to pay the bills for the month. We all admit that this is not good business. The same is true of the other officials. The Attorney General ought to be, and always is an outstanding lawyer, and in the great number of cases in which he appears many lawyers on the other side of the docket from him are often paid more in one case than the Attorney General earns in two years.

To think of the State Comptroller, responsible for several hundred employees and having to make a State campaign every two years, rearing a family in Austin on the pitiful sum of $2,500 is a crime and ought to be corrected. This is true even if we don't think of the millions of dollars' responsibility he carries for the State.

Although fifth in rank in the United States, there are only three other states in the Union, to-wit: North Dakota, South Dakota, and Tennessee of the forty-eight states that pay their Governor as little as we do in Texas. Even Rhode Island, Montana, Idaho and all of these other states recognize the importance of the office and pay in excess of what we do in Texas. Texans, when they think of it, are not adverse to paying a living salary. Take the salaries we pay the mayors of our larger cities; the $14,000 and $16,000 paid city managers in some of our larger cities. We pay the superintendent of schools in Houston $10,000 a year and that after the depression cut. The Federal Judges in Texas get $10,000 a year and a job for life. Members of Congress are paid $10,000 a year plus allowances. Washington sent a capable engineer to supervise the work on the Colorado River Project at a salary of $20,000 a year and the engineer of the Port Arthur Bridge construction is to receive $12,000 a year.

In private business the smart business institutions like our banks, railroads and other large institutions pay much better salaries than are proposed here, but these are for public service. There is no executive of a private institution in Texas that has the responsibilities or duties calling for ability such as do these offices.

I am sure that the thinking men and women in Texas, after the matter is put up to them, will see the justice of the proposed amendment and will talk to the neighbors and will talk it at Sunday School, their lodges and at social gatherings and say a good word to the end that the proposed Constitutional Amendment will be overwhelmingly carried at the November election, and in this great Centennial year we can right a wrong that has long existed, and do it to the glory of Texas. If every Texan will speak his mind upon this worthy Amendment between now and the November election, we have no fears of the final outcome.—Walter F. Woodul.

In a year, consumers of the United States eat somewhere near 150,000,000,000 pounds of food, use over 20,000,000,000 board feet of lumber, and purchase around 2,500,000,000 pounds of cotton and wool materials.

Passengers in the smoking compartment on my train were arguing about why railroad business is picking up.
A factory owner said it was because of this new Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight. This is door-to-door service with no extra charge added to the freight bill.
A traveling salesman said it was because so many passenger and freight trains now run on faster schedules.

There was a school principal in the group and he said it was because train travel is so much cheaper for passengers. He said passenger fares are at the lowest point in history, with substantial reductions if you buy a round-trip ticket—and no more surcharge for riding in sleeping cars.
One man, a farmer, said he liked something he could depend on, that's why he was traveling by train.
Another man, a newspaper reporter, said people were in favor of railroad travel because it is by far the safest. He quoted a lot of statistics from a book called, "Live and Let Live."

A banker we all know by name said railroad tax payments mean a lot in this state.
We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

CARVETH WELLS IN NEW RADIO TRAVEL SERIES

Ten thousand miles in an automobile trailer, visiting America's mountain and lake resorts, national parks and other scenic wonderlands—that's the trip just completed by Carveth Wells, the internationally known explorer, author and radio star, in preparation for his new coast to coast series of radio programs which will go on the air Sunday, Sept. 27, sponsored by Continental Oil Company.

No encyclopedic-and-atlas explorer is Wells—he actually visits remote and little-known corners of the globe, as well as the most popular travel resorts, to gather interesting facts about travel—then puts them together in a style that has made his radio lectures universally popular.

During his Sunday, September 27, broadcast Wells will take his radio public on a "magic carpet" tour through Shenandoah National Park the Finger Lakes region of New York state, through the Middle West, into the Black Hills of South Dakota, to Yellowstone Park, Salt Lake City, and through the Rocky Mountains—but will pause in his journey to devote a major portion of his program to the Texas Centennial, Dallas, and the Frontier Centennial, Fort Worth—the two outstanding amusement centers in America at present.

The broadcast will be from 12:30 to 1:00 p. m. and among the stations over which he may be heard are WFAA Dallas, KGNC Amarillo.

CONSTRUCTION STARTED ON TEXAS MEMORIAL MUSEUM

Austin, Sept. 24.—The erection of a permanent museum on the campus of the University of Texas came one step nearer last week when construction on the Texas Memorial Museum got underway. The imposing edifice will house many of the precious relics of Texas and will stand as a tribute to the history-makers of the Lone Star State.

Through a legislative appropriation of $225,000 and a congressional allocation of $300,000 from the federal government the Texas Memorial Museum fund was established. The federal government also authorized the minting and sale of 1,500,000 fifty-cent pieces to be sold at a minimum of one dollar. The profits of these sales, now being conducted by students of the University of Texas, are going into the building fund.

J. B. Walker, bus and truck inspector for the state railroad commission, returned last Friday from a trip which took him as far away as Sylvan Beach, near Galveston. He also spent a week in Fort Worth and then made a swing up along the Red River. He reports that copious rains had fallen wherever he went.

OIL-PLATING

In about a minute this engine will be getting Oil-Plated and won't need any oil added for such a long time that the owner will pass up everything for Conoco Germ Processed oil. In making this oil, a patented "hyper-oily concentrate," as Science terms it, is used to alloy a most carefully refined mineral oil. That is Germ Processing! It has two sure effects . . . (1) makes the familiar type of oil-film many times stronger . . . (2) backs this far stronger film with an entirely extra Oil-Plating. Oil-Plating is an actual deposit of Germ Processed oil, fixedly Plated to every moving part. So you have oil-film sliding on Oil-Plating . . . oil-moving-on-oil! And you can't keep farther away than that, from "another" quart of oil." Continental Oil Co.

The Curse of Progress

Not This Time!
The bride of a few weeks noticed that her husband was depressed. "Gerald, dearest," she said, "I know something is troubling you, and I want you to tell me what it is; your worries are not your worries now, they are our worries." "O, very well," he said. "We've just had a letter from a girl in New York and she's suing us for breach of promise." — Montreal Star.

Long Way 'Round
The "Fat Lady" of the circus was taking a walk one day and, hesitating in the middle of the road, was knocked down by a taxi. Luckily, she was not hurt, and getting up, she stormed at the Cockney driver. "Why did you run into me, you fool? Couldn't you have gone around me?" she screamed. "Sorry, lidy," was the reply "I didn't think I 'ad enough gasoline left."

Back to the Land For Contentment

A man went to the country to find contentment—and found only more unrest. It is the commonest of mistakes. People seek contentment in other places, not knowing that if they are to find contentment, here or there, they must first have the capacity for it in their own souls. For it is inner and not outer.

Nevertheless, I know well many cases in which men and women, returning to life in country places, simple living, a certain amount of manual labor (not to exhaustion) and, above all, stillness, have been able to reconstruct their lives.—David Grayson in Cosmopolitan.

Clean System Clear Skin

You must be free from constipation to have a good, clear complexion. If not eliminated, the wastes of digestion produce poisons and the skin must do more than its share in helping to get rid of them.

So for a clear, healthy skin, remember the importance of bowel regularity. At the first sign of constipation, take Black-Draught—the purely vegetable laxative. It brings such refreshing relief, and tends to leave the bowels acting regularly until some future disturbance interferes.

KICKING TEDDY UP-HILL

IT IS certain that Theodore Roosevelt would never have become President in the manner he did if it hadn't been for Sen. Thomas Platt, then the political boss of New York state.

Roosevelt was elected and showed immediately that he could not be controlled by Platt or any boss. Platt's embarrassment was only that of a politician.

Platt decided that Teddy would be the vice-presidential candidate. He would kick Roosevelt up-hill, and out of New York state.

Roosevelt himself realized the move had been launched to shove him, for so he regarded the vice-presidency.

These Westerners carried their Roosevelt enthusiasm to the convention with them. The boom reached proportions that Hanna could not ignore.

Hanna issued a statement advocating Roosevelt for the vice-presidency and told the newspapermen: "Boys, you can't stop it any more than you could stop Niagara."

Soon to become President at the unfortunate death of McKinley, Roosevelt won the election. And when the gleeful Senator Platt was asked if he would attend the inauguration he replied: "Yes, I am going down to see Theodore Roosevelt take the veil."

NOTICE TO A NOMINEE

A LOT of folks today believe that when political parties are convening, the favored candidates, wherever they may be, have one ear to a keyhole, a wetted finger uplifted to test direction of the political winds, and have set their radio dials the proper wave length to listen in on convention hall.

Van Buren, seeking to succeed himself, was easily the favorite at the Baltimore meeting after being placed "on the spot" by the question of the annexation of Texas.

A steady drift to Polk began on the ninth ballot of the convention. Strangely enough, a letter from Jackson, Van Buren's mentor, which pleaded for harmony, helped complete the rout in Polk's favor.

The telegraph wire served for one more purpose on this momentous occasion. Sen. Silas Wright was in Washington and had been tendered second place on the ticket with Polk.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for September 27

REVIEW: THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN WESTERN ASIA

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 13:24-35. GOLDEN TEXT—They rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles.—Acts 14:27.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How the Good News Spread. JUNIOR TOPIC—How the Good News Spread.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christianity Reaching Out. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Spread of Christianity in Western Asia.

Review Sunday provides a needed opportunity to determine not only whether the class members have learned and retained the truth taught, but, what is of equal importance, whether the teacher has accomplished the purpose in mind at the beginning of the series.

What was the aim set before us for the three months? "To lead the student to an understanding of New Testament Christianity, and to beget in him the desire and purpose to live the Christian life and to win others to faith in the Lord Jesus."

The test which we apply as the twelve lessons of the past quarter pass in review is: As a student, have I seen in the spread of Christianity the operation of a gospel of salvation which is the power of God for my salvation? Or, if I am saved, have I been stirred to a more earnest Christian life and a real passion for the salvation of others?

As a teacher, have I really used my opportunity to win the members of my class to faith in the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ? Have I brought to bear on the lives of those in my class who are Christians the Word of God, stirring them to holiness of life and zeal for God's cause on earth?

If we cannot reply in the affirmative, should we not ask whether our efforts to teach have been largely fruitless? But let us not be discouraged, for even as we now review the lessons we have studied together the Holy Spirit is ready to do His work and apply the truth to hearts and lives.

To many teachers the preparation and presentation of the review lesson is the most difficult of any during the quarter. To the student who has given little or nothing to the preparation of weekly lessons it is often a rather disconnected and uninteresting recapitulation of twelve lessons.

A suggested method of gathering up the essential teachings of these lessons is to group them around the following seven points: The spread of Christianity after our Lord's departure into the glory was distinguished by the fact that it was by the preaching of a faith that began and continued in the power and demonstration of the Holy Spirit.

1. It was by the preaching of a faith that began and continued in the power and demonstration of the Holy Spirit. God honors such preaching and teaching in our day.

2. It was a spiritual movement that demonstrated its God-given power by thriving on persecution. One wonders whether much of the activity of the church in our day has not fallen into the doldrums of pious respectability. Perhaps we need a little persecution.

3. It was not the propagation of theological theory or of a religious sect or party. It was a movement of the Spirit of God which saved men, and saved them to win and serve their fellow-men. True Christian service is nobler and more sacrificial than any non-Christian social service.

4. It was a movement in which laymen—as well as religious workers—had a place. Philip the layman served with Paul the apostle. Lay men and women let us be awake to our responsibilities and privileges.

5. Difference of opinion was not permitted to hinder God's work. Do we know enough to let God work among us, even if he does not work just as we think he should?

6. The missionary spirit of the preacher was carried over to the convert. This is a succession which God has continued to our day. Are we co-operating and helping it forward?

7. The gospel is for all men, Gentile as well as Jew, whether yellow, red, black, or white. The great commission is still our command and our authority to pray, give, and go, that all men may hear the gospel of the Grace of God.

Household Questions

If you have no individual molds, jellies may be molded in muffin tins. Turn the pan upside-down, place hot, wet towel over pan and jellies will slip out easily.

Old hardwood floors do not require refilling when being done over. Apply two coats of thin shellac, rewax whole surface and polish. Floors should be treated in this way twice a year.

Be careful to wash all garden furniture before storing away. Nests built by insects in crevices in furniture are often overlooked. It is in this way insects often get into the house.

When making bread and butter pudding, sprinkle each slice of bread and butter with desiccated coconut instead of currants, and strew some on the top. This will make a change from the ordinary pudding and will be found very tasty.

Japanned articles should never be washed in hot water, as the Japan is likely to wash off. Use lukewarm water and soap.

Steaming is a good way to cook vegetables, as it reduces the loss of minerals and vitamins. It is also economical, because you can cook several different vegetables at a time.

Lemon slices served with tea are more attractive when sprinkled with paprika or chopped parsley.

Women Poor Spies

Although women did some of the most important spy work during the late World war, they did not make good spies, declares Major G. O. T. Bagley, former British secret service agent.

"There were some very clever women spies," he said, "but women just don't make good secret service agents. Their reports, especially on military matters, are usually inaccurate and exaggerated. They wear out quickly with fatigue and nervous strain, and, last, and worst of all, they fall in love."

"The war records abound in accounts of successful missions carried out by men, but there were only three women who turned in good jobs of spying. Mata Hari was perhaps the greatest. Then came Louise de Bettignies, whose nom de guerre was Alice Dubois. She was a brilliantly successful spy with the British. Annemarie Dressler, known throughout Europe as Fraulein Doktor, is the third. She was the head of Germany's big spy school in Antwerp."

HEAVY RAINS OF PAST WEEK SET MANY NEW RECORDS

and nine o'clock Tuesday morning is likewise a record-breaker for any like period of time.

During the six day period mentioned above, the total rainfall was 11.15 inches. During the shorter period of 64 hours, the fall was 8.31 inches. The rainfall during the month of September up till Tuesday morning was 12.79 inches, which possibly is another record for any one month in this county.

The rainfall by days is given in inches as follows. A day as used in these records runs from 7 a. m. one day till 7 a. m. the next; hence, a day includes the entire night following:

Tuesday, September 1	.52
Wednesday, September 2	.11
Thursday, September 3	.35
Friday, September 4	.05
Saturday, September 5	.05
Sunday, September 6	.47
Monday, September 7	.16
Tuesday, September 8	.14
Wednesday, September 9	.70
Thursday, September 10	1.04
Friday, September 11	.96
Saturday, September 12	3.65
Sunday, September 13	4.51
Monday, September 14	.15
Tuesday, September 15	.15

Total for month 12.79
The rainfall this month far exceeds the entire rainfall during the preceding eight months of this year. The total rainfall from January 1 to August 31, inclusive, was only 8.56 inches. The precipitation by months is given as follows. Most of the January precipitation came in the form of snow.

January	.97
February	.00
March	.46
April	.61
May	2.96
June	1.15
July	2.41

The above is the record of rainfall in Tahoka. In some parts of the county the rainfall was much heavier, possibly twice as much in places. The total rainfall last year was 18.37 inches, of which amount 3.21 inches fell in September.

The heaviest recorded rainfall in Tahoka in a period of two hours during the last twelve years was on August 30, 1934, when 2.82 inches fell.

But for a 24-hour period, or a 48-hour period, no record has heretofore equalled that made here the first of this week.

The rainfall has not been as heavy in some portions of the county, however, as it has been in Tahoka. It grew noticeably lighter

"THESE THREE" COMING TO NEW ADA THEATRE

Samuel Goldwyn's production, "These Three," which brought Miriam Hopkins, Merle Oberon and Joel McCrea to the Ada Theatre next Sunday Monday and Tuesday proves the most powerful and gripping drama to reach the screen in many a cinema season.

Offering all three stars the acting opportunities of their lives, brilliantly concocted by Lillian Hellman, famous Broadway playwright, magnificently produced, and expertly directed by William Wyler, "These Three" holds audiences breathless from the opening shot to the final fadeout.

It boasts something new to film fans in dramatic situations, knit together with a skill that results in smart-paced, smooth and unforgettable entertainment. And Bonita Granville, the 12-year-old, who plays the spiteful schoolgirl whose vicious lie motivates the story, is one of the great acting discoveries of motion picture history.

The story, briefly, depicts how the ugly lie invented by an unruly student in a private girls' school, involving her two teachers, Miriam and Merle, and the latter's doctor fiance, Joel McCrea, brought disaster into their lives. Due to the resultant scandal, the school is lost, the romance broken and almost unbearable suffering and humiliation is visited upon these three innocent people, before the lie is brought to light.

Others who score in the uniformly brilliant cast are Alma Kruger, as Mary's grandmother; Catherine Doucet, as the silly, trouble-making aunt; Marcia Mae Jones, Carmencita Johnson, and Walter Brennan. "These Three" is the dramatic smash of the season!

toward O'Donnell and in the south part of the county. It was possibly a little heavier north and west of Tahoka than it was here.

It is reported that the dump on highway No. 84 recently constructed across the Twin Mills Lake five miles west of Tahoka is from one to three feet under water. A layer of caliche was recently placed on this highway across this lake preparatory to imposing a hard surface of crushed rock and asphalt.

Lakes on highway No. 84 east of Tahoka have made it necessary for the bus which runs from here to Post to detour by way of Lubbock. Many detours on lateral roads in the county have become necessary. Some fine cotton and feed crops in the county are also buried under several feet of water.

One peculiar casualty of the heavy rainfall here in Tahoka was the collapse of an adobe house on the Craft premises in which Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jackson were making their temporary domicile. This particular adobe house had a basement, and due to the soaking of the earth, the basement, gave way and one wall of the structure suddenly collapsed. The incident occurred early Monday morning while the rain was coming down in torrents. Jim says that his wife had spent a rather sleepless night listening to an occasional crackling as if something were about to cave in but he slept peacefully through it all. Soon after she awoke him Monday morning, the crash came without further warning. The wall necessarily fell outward, however, and no damage was done further than the soaking of their furniture with water.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Yates visited relatives in Amarillo over the week end. Mr. Yates says that recent rains on the north plains have made the prospects for a good wheat crop excellent.
