Kidnapers Offer Swap; US Airman For Red

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Anonymous telephone callers have warned that a kidnaped U.S. Air Force officer will die unless the life of a condemned Red terrorist in South Viet Nam is spared.

The threat against Lt. Col. Michael Smolen, 45, deputy chief of the U.S. mission to Venezuela forces, was made Friday night in phone calls to The Associated Press and other news media. Identifying themselves as pro-Communist terrorists, they said Smolen would die morning in a daring act similar to other elaborately planned kidnapings by the outlawed pro-Castro Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN). His whereabouts remained unknown today as police stepped up a massive search.

A terrorist gang kidnaped Smolen at gunpoint Friday an hour after the execution of Nguyen Van Troi, a Viet Cong, by firing squad in Saigon.

Troi, 19, has been convicted for an unsuccessful attempt to bomb a bridge that was to be used last May by U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on a visit to South Viet Nam. He was sentenced to die in August.

Venezuelan authorities suspected Communists hostile to the U.S.-backed government here had staged the kidnaping. They said the telephone calls threatening Smolen's life were typical FALN tactics designed to get as much publicity from the abduction as possible.

In Washington U.S. State Department officials said Smolen and other embassy employes in Caracas had been warned that such a kidnaping might be staged. Smolen had taken certain precautions, the officials said.

It was understood that the State Department was asking the U.S. Embassy in Saigon for a report on the Troi case. The South Vietnamese government declined comment when asked whether Troi would be executed soon.

In Saigon U.S. diplomats were reported to be studying the proposed deal. One informant said Troi had been sentenced to die next Thursday, but other sources were uncertain whether an execution date had been set. They held out the possibility Troi might get a last-minute reprieve anyway because of his age.

"The Venezuelans have assured us they would use all the police facilities at their disposal to obtain Col. Smolen's release, a State Department official said.

CONGRATULATIONS were in order as George Patterson, left, presented the first 100 per cent United Fund report to campaign chairman Bill Seale. Contributions to the Fund by city employes showed an increase over last year's giving.

Miller Makes Motor Tour Into Ohio

By CHARLES DUMAS

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller, nursing a cold that took some of the zip out of his stride, pushed ahead on a motorcade tour into Ohio today, but decided to cut at least one stop from his campaign swing.

Departing from Erie this morning in cold, overcast weather with touches of sleet in the air, the Republican vice presidential nominee said he was feeling "not too good" but would try to fulfill most of his engagements today.

His itinerary took him first to Ashtabula, Ohio, then to Painesville. He was scheduled to speak at Elyria, but decided to drop this stop and return directly to Washington, D.C., late this afternoon.

At Erie, Miller issued a statement attacking the spending policies of President Johnson's administration.

He said Johnson was spending $10 million a day more than the late President Kennedy had and was running up a budget deficit this year that would exceed $5 billion.

Miller flew into Erie late Friday night from Evanston, Ill., where he unleashed a blistering attack on Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Traffic Deaths Up

First Lady, Husband Take Rest

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson rested with her husband at the LBJ ranch today after "four unforgettable days" whistle-stopping across the Southland.

The Lady Bird Special finished four days of chugging across eight Southern states Friday night in New Orleans. Waiting to meet the First Lady and daughter Luci Baines, 17—in a floodlighted reunion — was President Johnson.

The President had been out on the campaign trail, too, swinging through the Midwest farm belt, then back South to New Orleans.

The President and his wife, Lady Bird, flew back to their ranch Friday night to rest up for more campaigning. Johnson goes out again Sunday.

Mrs. Johnson, who will rest over the weekend, has some other trips planned, but details still are being worked out.

After four days in eight states of her Southern homeland, making 47 stops and 47 speeches, Mrs. Johnson said she believes the South "will not turn back from its steady and proud road."

Mrs. Johnson said: "There are those who would exploit past troubles of the South, to their own advantage, but I do not believe that the majority of the South wants any part of that bitterness. And the more I have seen these past days the more I know that is true."

There was more heckling from small groups of youngsters holding Goldwater placards, in the crowds of more than 10,000 that turned out at Friday's stops at Mobile, Ala., and Biloxi, Miss., and there were others earlier in the trip.

Some Democratic strategists think the rudeness and discourtesy shown the First Lady might turn many votes to the Democrats.

United Fund Gets First Reports

The first large group to report a 100 per cent participation in the Scurry County United Fund was the City Employe division of the Public Employe Division.

George Patterson, chairman of the Public Employe Division made the report to Bill Seale, general campaign chairman. Seale expressed his appreciation to the team captains for their promptness, and noted with appreciation that amount reported represented an increase of the same group's participation last year.

The first official report date on the progress of the Fund is set for Wednesday, Oct. 14. However, Seale said Saturday that he hoped a good number of team captains would report Monday and Tuesday so that workers in the Fund's headquarters could start preparing the Wednesday report.

"Working the cards is not much harder than worrying about them," Seale said in urging the United Fund workers to be as prompt as possible in reporting.

Seale also called attention to the Official Memorandum issued Thursday by Gov. John Connally. The text of Connally's memorandum is as follows:

GREETINGS:

The United Community Campaigns, frequently called United Fund or Community Chest drives, deserve the support of everyone.

Many worthy activities benefit from this unified approach, and the contributor has the added satisfaction of knowing that whatever he or she gives will be used for the greatest possible good.

These co-ordinated efforts to raise operating funds for local and national health, welfare, and character-building agencies make fund-raising more efficient and equitable.

THEREFORE, I as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the months of September, October and November, 1964, as UNITED COMMUNITY CAMPAIGN MONTHS in Texas, and urge all of the people of our State to participate generously in the campaigns which are carried on in their local communities.

Rice To Begin Expansion Program

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University embarked Saturday on a 10-year expansion program which nearly will double its student body and faculty by 1975.

The $33 million plan of expansion disclosed by George Brown, chairman of the board of governors, provides no sacrifice of academic excellence.

"The growth of the university shall be no faster than is consistent with maintenance of the highest quality in scholarly attainment," Brown said.

The expansion will increase the student body from 2,300 to 4,000 and increase the faculty from 225 to nearly 400.

UN Gropes For Finance Solution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — New proposals for settling the explosive U.S.-Soviet dispute over how to finance United Nations peace-keeping operations may come from one or more small member states, informed diplomats said today.

They said such proposals might come at a meeting next Friday of a 21-nation working group, the only place where the United States and the Soviet Union exchange views at length over the crucial issue.

The dispute centers on whether the General Assembly or the Security Council should make peace-keeping assessments and whether the Russians and other nations should lose their assembly vote for refusing to pay assessments levied for Congo and Middle East operations. The United States has served notice it will call a showdown on the issue when the assembly convenes Nov. 10.

Smaller nations are seeking to head off a big-power clash that some fear could drive the Soviet Union out of the United Nations.

Soviet delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko fed that fear when he told the Security Council Friday the United States was "trying to destroy our organization" by insisting that the right to vote in the assembly be denied to countries that have refused to pay Congo and Middle East costs. He spoke at a meeting at which the council unanimously recommended Malawi (Nyasaland) for U.N. membership.

The United States had circulated a memorandum contending that if the Soviet Union and others were still two years behind in their U.N. dues when the assembly met, they should fall under the penalty of U.N. Charter Article 19. The article states that those two years behind "shall have no vote." Ten countries are that far in arrears now for failing to pay peace-keeping costs.

Fedorenko called the memorandum a "provocative act," violating the charter. He said his government would not pay one kopeck for the Congo and Mid-East operations.

A U.S. source said the United States had enough votes to uphold its position on Article 19. He said it could get a simple majority easily and a two-thirds majority if necessary.

A U.S. delegation spokesman said "ample time remains for agreement to be reached before Nov. 10." He opposed any delay in the assembly opening to give more time for negotiations with the U.S.S.R. over the issue.

The spokesman conceded that some sources have suggested a delay would be desirable."

But a U.N. spokesman said Secretary-General U Thant "is not aware of any such proposal or has not been approached by any government to that effect."

REPETITION IN SOUTH

Johnson Tires Of Race Issue

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, seeking votes in the Deep South, has suggested that some Southern sections hear nothing at election time except "Negro, Negro, Negro."

Johnson said Friday night other issues deserve more attention, notably the question of war or peace. But he left no doubt about his own position on civil rights.

Any man worthy of the presidency, he said, must observe and enforce the Civil Rights Act.

Johnson tackled the racial question in a speech in politically doubtful Louisiana. And his remarks drew loud applause from racially integrated patrons of a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner in a New Orleans hotel.

The President's speech was televised, at party expense, in Louisiana and neighboring Mississippi.

The New Orleans speech ended three days of whirlwind campaigning for the President. Afterward he and the First Lady flew here to rest up briefly at the ranch. Johnson hits the campaign trail again Sunday.

Johnson launched into his "Negro, Negro, Negro" passage after stating that while some people want to do it, he is "not going to let them build up the hate and try to buy people by appealing to their prejudice."

The remarks were not in his prepared text.

Removing his glasses, he said he remembered hearing about a conversation between the late House speaker Sam Rayburn, then a boy, and an old Democratic senator from the South.

The President quoted the senator — whom he did not name — as having told Rayburn: "Sammy, I wish I felt a little better. I would like to go back to old (and I won't call the name of the state; it wasn't Louisiana and it wasn't Texas) I would like to go back down there and make them one more Democratic speech. I just feel like I have one in me. The poor old state; they haven't heard a Democratic speech in 30 years. All they ever hear at election time is Negro, Negro, Negro."

Goldwater Says Debate Necessary

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater complained today that President Johnson is making it almost impossible to draw the issues in the presidential campaign because he will not debate the GOP nominee.

Campaigning in the Pacific Northwest, the Arizona senator pushed an appeal for the voters to support individual freedoms when they go to the ballot box.

Before he left San Francisco, Goldwater answered questions put to him by a group of young University of California students in a sidewalk interview.

The Republican nominee, shrugging his shoulders, said that Johnson was following the same course that Goldwater and others had advised Richard M. Nixon disregarded that by taking in the 1960 campaign. Nixon disregarded that advice and joined in televised debates with then Sen. John F. Kennedy.

"You can't formulate issues when one side won't talk about it," Goldwater said. "This makes it difficult to draw the issues."

Goldwater has declined to hold any on-the-record news conferences with the approximately 70 newsmen travelling with him on his campaign tour.

His impromptu conference with the college students on the street in front of his San Francisco hotel was the first time he has gone on record by answering questions in an informal manner. He answered questions from the audience at a luncheon in Los Angeles Friday, but was declined to allow reporters to question him publicly.

Charges Filed In Okla. Bank Robbery

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Federal charges of bank robbery were filed Saturday against two men in the $10,000 holdup of the First State Bank of Ketchum Friday.

Charged with the holdup were James Tucker, 28, and W. P. McCall, about 55, both of Claremore.

The two were arrested three hours after the 2:50 p.m. robbery at a roadblock near Adair, 20 miles west and south of the northeastern Oklahoma town of Ketchum.

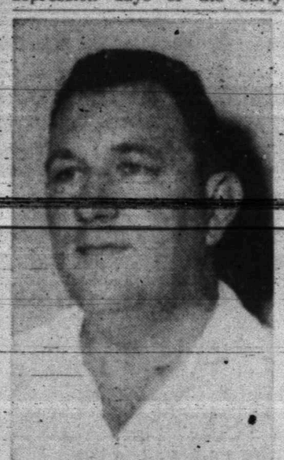
Farm Production Controls May Remain For Years

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Regardless of controversies they have evoked, farm production controls of some kind or another appear most likely to mark farming for many years to come.

The fact that strong opposition has arisen against controls by the federal government does not necessarily mean that agriculture will ever return to the depression days of the early 1930s when farmers planted and produced what they wanted to produce in unlimited quantities without regard to the market.



ELECTED TO STATE POST —Snyder police chief Chester Simons was elected to the board of directors of the Texas Chiefs of Police Association at the Municipal League meeting in Dallas. Other directors are R. T. Runyon of Corpus Christi and Paul S. Borun of Denison.

Stirrings among farmers and by some farm organizations dissatisfied with the present state of agriculture certainly indicate that there is strong support among producers for some type of controls to balance production and consumption.

It appears quite possible that the job of bringing a higher degree of order and stability in farm production may be taken on in a larger measure by farmers themselves.

The recent livestock withholding action of the National Farmers Organization indicated a strong desire by some farmers for a more effective program for assuring farmers better prices than is provided by either an unregulated free market system or present government controls.

The fact that the NFO failed in its goal of forcing processors to sign contracts specifying higher meat animal prices does not mean that farmers as a whole are satisfied with the present situation. Many, of course, do not believe in the NFO method, feeling that it could not hope for success.

The pendulum appears to be swinging away from rigid government controls and big subsidies. But this does not mean that there will be no forces working to help fashion farm production to the pattern of need.

Significant was a recent statement by Douglas R. Stanfield, executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, that farm production must be controlled. The big question, he said, is whether the control is to be vested in the hands of government, processors and food distributors or farmers. He said farmers want it in their own hands.

The American Farm Bureau Federation has been leading a fight, and with some success, against government farm controls.

It seeks a system under which farm production would be under the guidance of farmers' own marketing organizations.

The Ohio Farm Bureau Fedd eration, for instance, would seek to strengthen farmer controls through the purchase and operation of a nationwide chain of supermarkets. Consumer demands, as determined by these retail stores, would glue the farm marketing associations a much beter idea as to the quality and quantity of various products consumers want.

Army Believes Meningitis Is Being Controlled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has rejected demands by three California congressmen that Ft. Ord in California be closed because of an outbreak of meningitis.

Announcing the decision Friday night, Secretary of the Army Stephen Ailes said that the problem at Ord "appears to be under control."

Later, however, Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California announced in San Francisco that he had wired Ailes urging that the vast training base 100 miles south of San Francisco be quarantined because two civilians in the San Francisco Bay area "were stricken with meningitis after contact with soldiers recently returned from duty" at the post.

A total of 84 men have been stricken at Ord this year, 13 of them fatally. This brought demands by Republican Reps. John F. Baldwin, J. Arthur Younger and Charles S. Gubser, all of California that the base be shut down. And the California Health Department expressed deep concern over the situation.

Defense health officials, meanwhile, said that the outbreak of meningitis in the Army had been concentrated at four widely spaced training centers. Beside Ft. Ord, they are Ft. Polk, La., 37 cases this year; Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., 35 cases; and Ft. Jackson, S.C., 33 cases.

The other armed services have escaped relatively unscathed, the officials said.

Patricia Arsenault, 20, of Millbrae in San Mateo County, died Tuesday of meningitis after a weekend visit from her fiance, Pvt. William Garehime, 21, of Hillsborough.

Type B strain of meningitis — which was the classification of 83 of the 84 Ft. Ord cases — was identified in Garehime Friday, the State Health Department said. The Type B strain also was reported responsible for Miss Arsenault's death.

Veronica Smith, 17, of San Francisco, was hospitalized Thursday at the Army's Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco with a diagnosis of meningitis. She was visited recently by her husband, Pvt. Antonio Smith, 18, undergoing training at Ft. Ord.

The Navy reported that through Sept. 30 it had 43 cases, 4 of them fatal. These occurred in U.S. and overseas shore bases and aboard ship.

The Air Force has had no unusual incidence of meningitis cases this year, defense officials said. No Air Force figures were available.

In his statement Friday night Ailes contended that the meningitis problem in California is not caused by Ft. Ord.

He said that as of Sept. 26, there had been 402 reported cases of meningitis in California.

This squared with figures compiled by the Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center at Atlanta, Ga. The Health Service center said there had been 2,055 meningitis cases in the United States this year. It listed California as the hardest hit, with 402 cases, and Louisiana next, with 118 cases.

Defense health authorities said that meningitis occurs in cycles and that the current cycle is in its third year of upswing.

The disease is transmitted from one person to another, the officials said, adding: "The vast majority of people who carry the disease do not become ill, and only those who for reasons unknown are highly susceptible develop it in its malignant form."

Officers Investigate Traffic Incidents

The Snyder police department investigated two minor mishaps on Snyder streets Friday.

At 12:30 p.m. in front of the high school a 1959 Chevrolet driven by John D. Ward suffered an estimated $40 damage when struck by another car. The other car left the scene of the mishap, and Snyder police are searching for the car and driver.

At 10:29 p.m. at Avenue R and Twenty-sixth Street a mishap was reported which involved a 1962 Buick driven by William E. Rice of Sweetwater and a 1956 Ford driven by Joe McDonald, 2112 Forty - second Street.

Damage to the Rice car was estimated at $100 and to the McDonald car at $25.

There were no injuries in either mishap.

Also investigated Friday night was an incident at Hermleigh in which some youngsters reportedly were throwing rocks at passing vehicles. Reported broken was the windshield of a Greyhound bus. Sheriff's officers and the Texas Highway Patrol were called to the scene.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy. I live with my mother and grandparents. Tonight at the dinner table, I said "navel." My grandfather said he didn't want to hear any more dirty or sexy talk out of me. Believe me, Abby, I don't see anything dirty or sexy about a navel. My mother is on my side and she is getting tired of my grandfather saying to me, "You're talking dirty." This happens all the time. Any suggestions?

T.T.

DEAR T: I'm afraid the "dirt" (if there is any) is in your grandfather's mind, but let your mother handle grandpa and provoke as few complaints as you can.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We parents are properly concerned about the safety of our children as they walk to and from school, and visit friends outside their immediate neighborhoods. A relative in Omaha, Nebraska, told me of a plan now being successfully implemented through their PTA. It is called the "BLOCK PLAN." A home - made sign, "BLOCK HOME," is prominently displayed in the window of one home in every block. Children have been instructed that this home is an island of safety where they will be welcome should they become sick, or injured, or besieged by molesters, bullies of dogs. (Each house must be approved by the PTA, of course.) The plan casts nothing, requiring only the cooperation of good people who are interested in the safety of children. If you see the merit of this plan, I hope you will print it in your column where it will get nationwide publicity, and move other communities to copy it.

Sincerely, LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR ABBY: Our apartment building is so close to another apartment building that you can reach out and almost touch it. Directly across from us are three ladies (all over 40) and their kitchen window is right across from ours. Well, those three women walk around making their breakfasts without their blouses on (just their bras). And they sit down and eat breakfast that way. They can see us having our breakfast at our kitchen table, and they don't make any effort to cover themselves up. They look over at us and go right on eating. We can't help watching the show. It's too hot to pull our shade down. I've never seen anything like it. And neither has my husband, and he's been in the service and has lived in Arkansas. He always says, "My, what if we had company?" My mother and father are coming to visit us soon, and they would die if they ever saw a scene like that. hould we try to get the message to these ladies before my parents get here?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: You could give them the message, but they probably wouldn't cover up for the Duke and Dutchess of Windsor. Pull your shades down and get an air-conditioning unit.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were having a heated discussion on spanking children. I say a child should be spanked on his bottom. My husband insists that a slap in the face is much more effective. He said his mother used to slap him in the face and it did him more good than if she slapped him on the bottom. I say that nobody, not even a child, should be slapped in the face. What do you say?

THINK I'M RIGHT

DEAR THINK: It all depends on what you want to accomplish. If you want to insult and humiliate someone (even a child), a slap in the face will do it. But if you wish to show disapproval, a spanking is the answer. Personally, I agree with you. No one should be slapped in the face (and any blow in the region of the head can be dangerous) — so, I say, bottoms up!

He said the Russians would draw on the British version of "My Fair Lady" seen here several years ago, and add their own interpretations. Theatrical students are working on "West Side Story" he said, and it will be staged if it is good enough.

"Everybody should be a newspaper boy," says Yogi Berra

"I was. And I believe it develops traits that will be important whether you're going to be a ball player or a corporation president.

"It teaches dependability, for one thing. I know it isn't easy to get those papers around when the weather's mean, but those kids do it.

"(Trying to hit 30 or 40 front porches every day with folded papers never hurt any kid's pitching arm, either.)

"Being a newspaper boy teaches you to be a good businessman too. You learn how to handle money and to save some—as so many of these boys do by buying U. S. Savings Bonds regularly.

"The dollars they save in Bonds might help put them through college someday. Right now, they help Uncle Sam keep our country strong.

California Woman Is Suspected In Husband's Death

By DIAL TORGERSON

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Gordon E. Miller, a dentist, is dead, burned to death in his blazing car. His wife, Lucille, 34, a slim, dark-haired mother of three, is in jail, booked for investigation of murder.

Detectives say that Mrs. Miller — in a calm, quiet, unemotional voice — declines to discuss the answers to these questions:

What caused the fire?

Why couldn't her husband get out?

Why was there an empty gasoline can in the back of the car?

Why did it take from 12:34 a.m. — when the fire started — until 1:45 a.m. to reach a home a half-mile away to telephone for help?

Dr. Miller, 39, died early Wednesday in the right front seat of his leased small car.

When Highway Patrol officers reached the residence from which Mrs. Miller had telephoned, her attorney was already there. Together they led authorities to the still blazing car.

At the scene officers said Mrs. Miller told them this story:

She and her husband were driving home from an all-night market when, three miles from their home, the car burst into flames and swerved to the side of the road.

She said she had jumped out of the driver's seat but couldn't get her husband out because he was unconscious and his door was locked. She walked to a house to ask for help.

Detective Capt. Floyd Jones of the San Bernardino County sheriff's office, said: "The coroner reports no injuries were apparently suffered by Dr. Miller before the fire, and that he was alive when the fire started. There was no evidence of any kind of a collision or accident.

"The car's gas tank was not ruptured, and we believe the fire was caused by some other source of combustion. A can of the type used for gasoline was found in the back of the car, empty, the cap off.

"We believe it contained gasoline.

"We are holding Mrs. Miller, and we believe we will be able to present enough evidence of proof to the District Attorney Tuesday to get a complaint charging murder."

Records showed that Mrs. Miller had filed suit for divorce from her husband last July, charging extreme cruelty, and although they apparently reconciled afterward, the case was not removed from the books and is still pending.

ATLANTIC, Iowa (AP) — Seventy years ago, as a girl of 9, Clara Otto sat down at the Zion Lutheran Church organ to play for a wedding.

She did such a good job that she has been the church organist ever since.

The Rev. O. R. Harms of St. Louis, president of the 2.6-million member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, will be present. Mrs. Schelm estimates she has played for more than 5,000 church services, weddings and funerals. She still plays for both Sunday morning services and an evening service once a month.

Famed Travelers Dominate This Week's World News

By The Associated Press

Nobody was home all week. Everybody — men, women and children — was out campaigning.

Lady Bird Johnson went South, Peggy Goldwater flew West, the President covered the Midwest, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater hit New Jersey and invaded Texas.

The Johnson girls, Linda Bird and Luci Baines, were with their mother whenever they could get away from classes; the Goldwater boys, Barry Jr., 26, and Michael, 24, took leave from their jobs to hit the trail; and the Miller girls — daughters of the Republican vice-presidential candidate — were eating mounds of "Barry burgers" and Polish potato salad, just "like mother used to make."

You could tell Nov. 3 was getting closer.

For one thing, President Johnson began using his opponent's name; for another, during a tour of Indiana, Iowa and Illinois he began calling for "the greatest Democratic landslide in American history."

Goldwater, plugging away on the theme that his opponent is "a radical liberal, got a generally good reception in New Jersey and at Lubbock, Tex., a capacity auditorium chanting "viva" and "ole" when he arose to speak. After hitting El Paso, Goldwater flew to Phoenix to meet his wife, coming in from Columbus, Ohio.

It had been Peggy Goldwater's first outing, and a strange one for campaign times. She was received warmly in Muncie, Ind., her home town, but declined to make political speeches or answer political questions at news conferences. In Columbus only 20 people met her at the airport, but 900 Republican women turned out for a luncheon in her honor.

Her nearest thing to politics was to say, "That's great if that's what she wants to do," when someone asked her about Lady Bird's whistle-stop tour through the South. Lady Bird herself was getting mixed reaction but carrying on despite snubs and heckling. She covered Virginia the Carolinas, Charleston, Savannah, and on into Georgia and Florida, plumping for Lyndon and the Democratic party.

Rep. William E. Miller, of New York, hopped through the South and into the Midwest, banging away at his opponent, invariably called "Hubert Horatio Humphrey," as a left extremist. Minnesota Sen. Humphrey, in high good humor, was appealing to the youth vote at college campus speeches.

A continent away there was another traveler, President Charles de Gaulle of France touring South America and running into a political hurricane in Argentina. Supporters of ex-President Juan D. Peron, now exiled in Spain, sought to turn De Gaulle's visit to their purposes in Buenos Aires. They rioted and fought with police, who saved "Le Grande Charlie" from harm there.

From Argentina De Gaulle and his wife continued to Paraguay.

In the Siberian city of Khabarovsk four other travelers — three American military attaches from the Moscow Embassy and a British colleague — were in trouble. Soviet police broke into their hotel rooms at night, overpowered the travelers — who have diplomatic immunity — and seized their belongings. Then Moscow screamed that these included cameras, photographs and notebooks full of military information they had gathered in a train trip across Siberia. Washington and London, puzzled by the Soviet action since Moscow had approved the trip, hinted strongly to the Russians that two could play at that game.

Still another traveler was in trouble, Moise Tshombe, premier of the Congo. He went to a meeting of "nonaligned nations" in Cairo and was promptly placed under house arrest in a palace.

The conference host, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, was the jailer. He didn't want Tshombe at the conference, considering him "a tool of imperialists." Furthermore, he said Tshombe was holding the Egyptian Embassy staff in Leopoldville as prisoners. Finally Tshombe let the Egyptian diplomats go, and Nasser let him go. Tshombe had described himself as "a happy hostage" in the palace.

On other fronts:

The Vatican Ecumenical Council discussed the schema on widening the role of laymen in the Roman Catholic Church. Speaker after speaker among the cardinals, archbishops and bishops criticized it as being inadequate, outdated and patronizing. It appeared the schema, four years in preparation, might undergo total revision.

The U.S. Supreme Court opened its fall term with full-scale hearings on provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibiting racial segregation in motels and restaurants. The two cases, involving the Heart of Atlanta Motel in Atlanta and Ollie's Barbecue in Birmingham, Ala., were sure to become legal landmarks, whichever way the decisions go.

In Tokyo the weather cleared just in time for the opening of the XVIII Olympiad. The city was jammed with happy throngs, and scalpers were getting $500 for choice seats in the main stadium. Athletes of 95 nations were ready to go.

The Yankees came back from St. Louis all even. The Cardinals had won the World Series opener 9-5, but the Yanks made it a tie next day, 8-3, thus assuring New Yorkers at least three games in their city.

Hurricane Hilda died out as a heavy rainstorm over Mississippi and Alabama. Behind her were 30 persons dead and millions of dollars of property damage in Louisiana.

Quote of the week:

"I don't think the use of nuclear weapons should be a campaign issue." — Dwight D. Eisenhower.

US Drug Makers Must Prove Safety Of Products

By JOHN BARBOUR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today is the deadline for makers of nearly 5,000 drugs to submit proof to the government that the drugs are safe and effective.

The 5,000 include most of the important modern medicines your doctor prescribes — and some you buy without prescription.

It is the beginning of a huge review of nearly all the drugs that have entered the U.S. market since 1938 — some 6,000 in number, from the sulfas to the corisones, from tranquilizers to anti-histamines.

It will take years to complete. But, as of today, the Food and Drug Administration must have in its hands reports on 5,000 of the drugs.

The FDA expects full compliance and has not set up punitive action in advance.

The drug makers and their organization, the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, have brought suit in Federal Court, challenging the FDA's authority and seeking to exempt some 1,000 long-used, brand name drugs from the review.

The FDA has temporarily exempted the questioned drugs from today's deadline pending outcome of the suit.

FDA experts want the review and argue that conditions change with experience over the years and with the introduction of new drugs.

The sulfas, for instance, introduced as infection-fighters in the early 1940s, have been supplanted in most jobs by penicillin.

They also want to spell out in drug literature any unhappy effects drugs might have which would only have been discovered after long usage in large numbers of patients.

Some drugs are exempt from the new FDA review, notably penicillin and its derivatives and some other old-line antibiotics. There are the so-called certified drugs, passed for both safety and effectiveness by the FDA at the outset.

FDA spokesmen say they are prepared to exempt other drugs from the annual check after the initial review.

Queen Visits In Quebec

QUEBEC (AP) — Queen Elizabeth stepped from her yacht Britannia at 10:06 a.m. today for her third visit to the French-speaking capital of Quebec.

Prince Philip was with the queen, as he was on her two earlier visits, in 1951 while still a princess and in 1959 after she had become the monarch.

Leaden skies were clearing when the queen walked down the gangplank from her yacht to Quebec soil at Wolfe's Cove.

She was greeted by Lt. Gov. Paul Comtois, Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec and Mayor Wilfrid Hamel, who also welcomed her to the city in 1959.

In parts of the city the queen will travel during her scheduled stay until 6:15 p.m. Sunday, when she is due to leave by air for Ottawa, elaborate security precautions were evident.

Thousands of Quebec citizens, including French-speaking separatists who oppose the queen's visit, lined vantage points on the waterfront, Dufferin Terrace and the heights of the Plains of Abraham as the royal yacht entered the harbor.

Unprecedented security precautions had been taken in this city in the heartland of French-speaking Canada for the arrival of the queen and her husband, Prince Philip.

British Race To Be Close One

LONDON (AP) — With only five days to go until the national election, Britain's two big political parties stepped up their campaigning today.

The latest polls gave Harold Wilson's Labor party a slight edge over Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservatives. But the margin is narrow, and a hot issue could still upset predictions.

The Conservatives appeared to be making an issue out of rowdyism at their political meetings. Quintin Hogg challenged Wilson Friday night to order an immediate inquiry into whether young Socialists are responsible for election hooliganism.

He said that when he was chairman of the Conservative party he would have ordered an immediate inquiry if there had been any suspicion that young Tories were behaving badly. Hogg said he was not suggesting that the Labor party high command was responsible.

"I have never known them to act like that before, and I do not think they have acted in that way on this occasion," said Hogg.

Main target for the rowdies Friday night was Home Secretary Henry Brooke. After being booed and heckled for 40 minutes at Luton, he said: "This is one of the most disturbing features of this election. There are signs of people being organized into groups just to prevent the speaker from being heard.

"It does not bother me in the least," he added. "It just shows the sort of people who support the Labor party."

Brooke blamed young Socialists and supporters of the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament (CND) for the heckling at his meeting.

Tory party Chairman Lord Blakenham also pinpointed the young Socialists — affiliated with the Labor party — and the CND supporters as the troublemakers.

"Mr. Wilson, if he has any authority over his own party, could presumably do something about it," he said.

After rowdies had wrecked Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's meeting in Birmingham Thursday night, he accused the Laborites of using organized hecklers to prevent him from being heard.

Labor party General Secretary Len Williams challenged Lord Blakenham: "Prove Sir Alec's accusation that organized Labor gangs are responsible for the hooliganism, or withdraw it totally."

Harold Wilson condemned the hooligans Friday.

"It would be a national tragedy if vital issues are muffled by noise," said Wilson.

Friday night at Leicester he had some hecklers of his own to deal with during an election speech.

Pace Leads Sweetwater Over Snyder Tigers 30-6

The charged - up Sweetwater Mustangs, led by quarterback Benny Pace, romped over the Snyder Tigers 30-6 here Friday night in the first district clash for each team. The win put the Mustangs into the driver's seat as far as the district race is concerned.

The Mustange scored early and often, hitting for their first touchdown early in the initial period, and building up a 30-0 lead before the Tigers could hit paydirt. The running and passing of Pace and the dives of fullback Danny Foust enabled Sweetwater to run up 287 yards in total offense, while the Tigers were limited to 123 yards.

The Tigers took the opening kickoff, but were unable to move through the Mustang line, and were forced into a punting situation on 4th down. Leslie Brown was unable to get the punt off and attempted to run the ball, but was stopped on the Snyder 23, where Sweetwater took over.

MUSTANGS SCORE

The Mustangs wasted no time, and on their first offensive play Pace passed to Dennis Lewis who took it on over the goal line. Pace then ran over for the extra points and an 8-0 lead with only 2 minutes and 5 seconds gone in the game.

The rest of the first quarter was scoreless as the Tigers were unable to move. Late in the period the Mustangs started again as halfback Randy Reed intercepted a Snyder pass on his own 39. The visitors marched to a score, with the touchdown coming on the second play of the second quarter. Pace passed to Lewis for the last 13 yards, and the same combination worked for the extra points.

The Mustangs tallied once more late in the first half after getting the ball deep in Tiger territory. On a punting situation, Donnie Newman, substituting for Brown who was hurt, was unable to get the kick away and the Mustangs took possession on the Snyder 25. Four plays later Pace carried it over from one yard out. This time the try for points was good, but Sweetwater had a commanding 22-0 lead.

The Snyder team looked as though it might do something in the waning moments of the first half. The Tigers racked up two quick first downs, the only ones made during the first two quarter. A Wall - to - Brown pass was good for 20 yards, and Tom Kincaid made 15 on a fullback draw. However, the Mustangs ended the threat by intercepting a pass on their own 27.

The Tigers played the Mustangs on even terms in the third quarter as both teams were held scoreless. Pace kept the Snyder eleven deep in its own territory with two out - of - bounds punts inside the 10-yard line.

The Mustangs started on their final scoring drive in the 4th period as guard Raymond Gomez intercepted a Snyder pass on the Tiger 26. Fullback Danny Foust took it over from the 5 moments later for the 4th Sweetwater TD. Foust also ran over for the points, and the Mustangs led 30-0.

WATERS SCORES

The Tigers took the kickoff following the last Mustang TD and marched on to a score without relinquishing the ball. The tally came on a beautiful 20-yard run by quarterback Richard Waters, with about 5 minutes remaining in the contest. Sweetwater then took the kickoff and held on until the clock had run out.

One of the bright spots for the Tigers was the punting of Leslie Brown. The senior halfback punted 5 times for an average of over 48 yards per kick.

SCORING

SWEETWATER — Lewis on a 23-yard pass from Benny Pace with 9:55 left in first quarter. Pace ran for extra points.

SWEETWATER — Lewis on a 13-yard pass from Pace, with 11:19 left in half. Pace passd to Lewis for extra points.

SWEETWATER — Pace on one-yard run with 3:36 remaining in first half. Try for points were unsuccessful.

SWEETWATER — Fullback Danny Foust on 5-yard run, 8:03 left in game. Foust ran for extra points.

SNYDER — Quarterback Richard Waters on 20-yard run with points was unsuccessful.

Hadl Stars As Chargers Beat Pats

BOSTON (AP) — "This definitely was John Hadl's best game ever as a pro. And the victory was an absolute must for us."

Thus did San Diego Coach Sid Gillman sum up his team's 26-17 American Football League triumph over previously unbeaten Boston Friday night.

"We just caught Hadl on a hot night," philosophized the Patriots' Mike Holovak.

"I called audibles on two of my three touchdown passes — and one was a mistake," confessed Hadl.

Boston entered the game with a 4-0 record and a 33-28 victory over the Chargers, while the defending AFL champions, riddled with injuries, were 1-2-1. When regular quarterback Tobin Rote couldn't get the Chargers going, Hadl took over, completing 17 of 29 passes for 229 yards and a trio of scores, two of them by Lance Alworth, who had played only one quarter in three previous games due to a hamstring muscle pull.

Alworth grabbed eight aerials for 124 yards. Paul Lowe, healthy for the first time, rushed 69 yards and caught a pass for 17.

Oakland is at New York tonight. Sunday, still unbeaten Buffalo (4-0) visits Houston while Kansas City's Western Division leaders invade Denver for the nationally televised test.

Olympic Ceremonies Keep Getting Better

TOKYO (AP) — They keep getting better and better and this must be the best."

That was the comment of Kenneh (Tug) Wilson, of Chicago, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, on the splendid ceremonies Saturday that opened the Olympic Games.

"Rome's was magnificent," said Douglas F. Roby, of Detroit, vice president of the USOC, "but this topped them all. "This had the added touches of the schoolgirls releasing the balloons, the drum band of school kids and the five jets forming the Olympic rings."

"A magnificent show," said Max Ritter, of Jenkintown, Pa., treasurer of the USOC, and president of the International Swimming Federation.

Texas Starts Basketball Workouts

AUSTIN (AP)—The University of Texas basketball squad, a combination of six veterans, three hot-shooting sophomores and two junior college transfers, begins workouts Thursday.

Coach Harold Bradley says his team could be "anything from fair to outstanding."

The Longhorns open Dec. 1 with Texas-Wesleyan in Austin.

The campaign will include a Dec. 29-30 trip to Jacksonville, Fla., for the Gator Bowl tournament—plus the usual 14-game Southwest Conference schedule that opens Jan. 5 and closes March 4.

The six lettermen include four seniors who helped spark the Longhorns to the 1963 SWC title —center John Paul Fultz, forward Larry Franks and guards Tommy Nelms and Jimmy Clark—and two juniors, forward guard Paul Olivier and guard John Bush.

Sophomores expected to contend hotly for varsity jobs are Mike Gammon, all-around guard from Denton; Minten White, forward from San Angelo, and —if his chronic shoulder troubles relent—Bo Rothchild, guard from Austin who set freshman game and season scoring records in 1963-64.

The two junior college transfers, whose addition is expected to boost Texas rebounding potential, are Mike Wade, 6-8 center-forward from New Mexico Military, and Mickey White, 6-6 forward from Tyler Junior College. Both also are good shooters.

IAAF Approves 27 World Records

TOKYO (AP) — Twenty-seven world records in track and field were approved Saturday by the International Amateur Athletic Federation and one tie for a record was accepted.

Heading the list were the sprint marks of Bob Hayes of Jacksonville, Fla. of 9.1 for 100 yards, and the time of 20.2 by Henry Carr of Detroit for the 220 around one curve.

In accordance with the decision to accept pole vault marks regardless of the surface, five vault records were approved. They included Brain Sternberg's marks of 16 feet, 5-inches and 16-8 made in 1963, John Pennel's mark of 17- ¾and Fred Hansen's two efforts of 17-2 and 17-4. The last one goes into the books.

Sternberg is from Seattle, Pennel from Miami, Fla., and Hansen from Cuero, Tex.

Ralph Beston's 27-4¼ in the broad jump was made too late for formal approval but his 27-3¼ was accepted.

Emperor Hirohito Formally Opens Olympic Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito of Japan formally opened the Games of the 18th Olympiad Saturday in a splendorous, moving ceremony that mixed the wonders of the modern age with the ancient pageantry of the Orient.

The 63-year-old emperor stood ramrod-stiff and solemn in the royal box as 7,169 athletes from 94 nations paraded over the circular red dirt track of the National Stadium, which will serve as the center of the biggest Olympics of them all.

Competition begins Sunday in basketball, field, hockey, soccer, swimming, water polo, weight-lifting and hockey, setting off two weeks of a spirited scramble for gold medals in 20 sports.

The powerful United States and Soviet teams are expected to grab off the major share of the honors in their traditional battle of sports giants, but they were given no special recognition in the colorful march behind national flags.

A packed stadium of 80,000 cheered loudly for the one-man Bolivian team, a single flag-bearer, and rose to applaud the robe-clad entrants from the under-developed nations of Africa.

"I welcome the Eighteenth Modern Olympiad and hereby declare the Tokyo Olympic Games open," the little graying Japanese Emperor proclaimed over the loud speaker system while the Olympic torch burned

Five jet planes traced the five rings of the Olympic symbol in the sky in five different colors and rumbling tones came from age-old Japanese drums made from cow hides.

The ceremony was carried out with clock-like precision — typical of the Japaese — in cool, sunny weather without a cloud in the sky.

The weather broke perfectly after days of rain and fog.

The huge Russian delegation was led by Yuri Vlasov, the 305-pound world heavyweight record-holder in weight lifting who carried the Sovit's hammer and sickle insignia in one hand straight out from the shoulder.

Halfway around the track he shifted from his right to his left hand, but never once did he use both hands.

The Stars and Stripes of the United States also was carried by one of the nation's muscle men—260-pound Parry O'Brien, double gold medalist in the shot put, competing in his fourth Olympics.

The Americans wore Western style ten-gallon hats. They were dressed in conservative white pants and skirts and blue jackets.

The men of the huge Russian squad wore continental suits with a double split in the back of their beige coats and the women in smart suits of lighter hue. They waved red handkerchiefs as they circled the track.

One of the most impressive and touching parts of the ceremony came with the raising of the Olympic flag.

The white banner with the five rings — representing five continents — was born into the stadium by six sailors and hoisted while a chorus chanted a hymn.

The huge lighted scoreboard flashed the words: "Citius, Altius, Fortius," Latin for "Faster, Higher, Stronger." This is the watchword of this great international festival.

"We have now bridged every ocean, bringing the Olympics to the Orient," said Avery Brundage, newly re-elected president of the International Olympic Committee, "proving that the Olympics now belong to the world."

A hush went through the stadium when Yoshinori Sakai, the 19-year-old athlete born near Hiroshima on the day the Atomic Bomb was dropped Aug. 6, 1945, dashed through the portals bearing the flame which had been brought by air, land and water from Greece's Mount Olympus, where the Games were born.

He raced over the track easily and then trotted up the 167 steps to the huge cauldron which was immediately set afire, to burn unceasingly until the Games end Oct. 24.

Football Coach Dies

GARLAND, Tex. (AP) — Buford Turrentine, 41-year-old assistant coach at Carrollton High School, collapsed and died of a heart attack in the press box while scouting the Garland-Paris football game Friday night.

Turrentine was named head baseball coach and assistant football coach at Carrollton in September. It was his first job since graduating from East Texas State College.

Georgia Tech In Win Over Navy

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

Defense, determination and Bobby Dodd just naturally go together.

So?

Georgia Tech, supposed to be faced with one of those building years, now boasts an unbeaten record and is bidding for national ranking after defeating Navy 17-0 Friday night at Jacksonville, Fla.

True, the Middies weren't their old rollicking selves in the first half with Jolly Roger Staubach unable to play because of an ankle injury. But when the Sailors did get up some post-intermission steam, Tech made stands at its 16, 29, 37 and 12 yard lines.

One of major college's foremost defensive teams season in and season out since Coach Dodd took over from Bill Alexander in 1945, Georgia Tech this fall has allowed only nine points and a single touchdown in four games.

Meanwhile a fellow independent, Miami, forced heavily-favored California to settle for a 9-7 decision, built on Tom Blanchfield's third quarter field goal.

Miami has been riddled by the loss of 17 players, six of them starters, via academic troubles and disciplinary action. But if there is a football merit badge for courage, the sophomore-laden Hurricanes must have earned it.

They held super-passer Craig Morton fairly well in check except for the eight-yard touchdown pass to Jerry Mosher and the 40-yard aerial on which the same pair collaborated to set it up. And an interception was the first against Morton since late last season.

The nationally televised feature Saturday sent top-ranked Texas, defending national champion, against Oklahoma in Dallas. Two Big Ten headliners have fourth-ranked Ohio State at second place Illinois and seventh-ranked Michigan at Michigan State, currently listed as co-holder of the ninth spot in the poll.

Arkansas' Razorbacks met Baylor, sixth - ranked Notre Dame was at Air Force, third-ranked Alabama played host to North Carolina State, fifth-ranked Kentucky ventured upon Florida State, and Nebraska encounters South Carolina.

Both Giants And Cowboys Need Wins

DALLAS (AP) — A couple of teams that sorely need a victory—the Dallas Cowboys and New York Giants—clash Sunday in the Cotton Bowl and it looks like a tossup.

Each has won one game out of four, each has lost to Pittsburgh and each has been having quarterback troubles.

Y. A. Tittle, the fabulous quarterback of the Giants, has finally gotten back into shape, however, and this could mean a resurgence of the 1963 Eastern Conference champions. Thus far Tittle has been well below his usual standard, having completed only 43 passes in 87 tries for 526 yards.

Dallas has been going along with an injured Don Meredith who didn't play at all last week against Cleveland. He was held out in order to give his bum knee a rest.

Meredith is in good enough shape to start Sunday and that might also mean a resurgence of the Cowboys.

Buddy Dial, the heralded pass-receiver obtained from Pittsburgh, will possibly see full action for the first time this season. He also has been having knee trouble, had an operation and is now rounding into shape.

Dallas enters the game with the best defense against rushing in the National Football League. The Cowboys have permitted only 378 yards average on the ground in four games, have not permitted a touchdown rushing and are second in pass defense.

Fullback Don Perkins is the league's No. 2 ball-carrier with 321 yards on 62 runs.

Ernie Wheelwright has given the New York running game a pickup. Last week he averaged seven yards against Detroit and Coach Al Sherman hopes he can spearhead a ground attack, along with Alex Webster and Clarence Childs, that will make Tittles passing operate better.

A crowd of 28,000 to 30,000 is expected for the 1:30 P.M. (cst) kickoff.

Steeler-Brown Tilt Highlights NFL Play

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland Browns share one lead while the Pittsburgh Steelers have another all to themselves.

But while the Steelers hope their lead doesn't get any bigger after tonight's National Football League game, the Browns are looking forward to moving into first place without any company.

The differing attitudes of the opponents in the NFL's leadoff contest this weekend are understandable. The Steelers lead the league in most injured linebackers. The Browns are tied with St. Louis for the top spot in the Eastern Conference.

St. Louis doesn't play until Monday night. At that time the Cardinals will play the Western Conference - leading Baltimore Colts. In Sunday's games, Los Angeles is at Chicago, Detroit at Minnesota, San Francisco at Green Bay, New York at Dallas and Philadelphia at Washington.

The Browns, unbeaten but tied once in four contests, are expected to accomplish their aim. Quarterback Frank Ryan has thrown the second most touchdown passes this season, nine, while fullback Jimmy Brown is in his customary No. 1 position among rushers, having gained an average of 90 yards a game.

As if Ryan and Brown weren't enough, the Browns will have the Steelers linebacking problems going for them. Veteran Bob Schmitz, who was expected to fill in for Myron Pottios, has come up with a sprained knee and probably will not play tonight.

Schmitz should be joined by Bob Harrison, who is suffering from a bad knee after missing earlier games with a shoulder injury.

That leaves the Steelers with three linebackers, the necessary number, and no regular substitutes. The able-bodied three are rookie Bob Soleau, second-year man Ed Holler and Bill Saul, now in his third season.

The Chicago Bears also are plagued with injuries as they try to get back into the Western Conference race. The Bears, in the cellar with a 1-3 record, may be without three starters for their game with the Rams — center Mike Pyle, fullback Joe Marconi and linebacker Joe Fortunato. All have leg injuries.

Tommy Mason, Minnesota's running back, is doubtful for the second straight week, hurting the Vikings' chances against the Detroit Lions, who are tied with the Rams for second in the West.

The Green Bay Packers will have fullback Jim Taylor ready for the improving San Francisco 49ers, who whipped the Bears last week.

The New York Giants may run into trouble at Dallas where quarterback Don Meredith and receiver Buddy Dial will be back in the Cowboy line-up. The teams are tied for sixth in the east with 1-3 records.

Only the Washington Redskins, 0-4, are below them. The Redskins hope to get their first victory against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Hobbs Defeats Central Catholic

ABILENE — The Hobbs Panthers spotted Central Catholic the first touchdown here Friday night and then went on to defeat the highly - touted Chargers 56-41 in a six - man contest. It evened up the record for Coach Bernard Weems' team, which has now won two and lost two.

The contest was a wide-open affair that saw five touchdowns tallied in each of the second and fourth quarters.

The fired-up Panthers, underdogs according to some of the so-called experts, built up a 50-21 lead in the final stanza, and then saw the Chargers score 3 consecutive touchdowns to narrow that lead considerably.

Central Catholic opened the scoring in the first period when Glenn Mier ran over from 9 yards out. Mier then ran for the extra point and a 7-0 lead. Hobbs took over the lead minutes later as Donald Hull passed to Gary Nettleton on a 13-yard scoring play. Tommy Lay then kicked for the two points and a narrow 8-7 lead for Hobbs.

The Chargers took the lead back early in the second period when Mier ran over from the 5 yard-line. Raymond James ran for the extra point and a 14-8 lead.

Hobbs took the lead right back when Hull passed to Freddie Martinez for 20 yards, and Lay again kicked for the two points. The Panthers padded this lead moments later when Hull passed to Martinez again, this time for about 50 yards. The try for point was blocked, but Hobbs had a 22-14 lead.

The gap was narrowed when, still in the 2nd period, Reuben Gonzales trallied for Central Catholics on a six yard run. Mier ran for one extra point and the Chargers trailed 22-21.

Hobbs came right back as Hull again passed to Martinez for 50 yards and a score. At half-time Hobbs was leading 28-21.

The third quarter was all Hobbs as the Panthers tallied twice. The first one came on a 5-yard run by Lay, and the second one came on an unusual play. Nettleton caught a Charger fumble in the air and ran 30 yards for the TD. Lay passed to Martinez for one extra point and kicked for two more extra points.

Hobbs took a 43-21 lead into the final stanza, and added to it quickly. Hull passed to Martinez again for 20 yards for a score, and Lay passed to Martinez for the extra point and a 50-21 lead.

The Chargers then rallied and scored 3 in succession. Gonzales tallied on a 5-yard run, Raymond Jaramillo on a 5-yard run, and Gonzales on a 7-yard run. Jaramillo ran for the extra point after two of these scores.

The final touchdown of the night came on a 35-yard run by Martinez, late in the waning moments of the game. The try-for-points was unsuccessful, but Hobbs had defeated the Central Catholic team 56-41.

This is the last year of six-man football for Central Catholic. The Chargers will play 11-man football next year.

Hobbs will go to Mattson next Friday night.

Cleveland GM Schedules Dallas Trip

DALLAS (AP) — Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, has scheduled a trip to Dallas Monday to see for himself what the area has to offer in case he decides to move the Indians from Cleveland.

It is part of a tour which took Paul to seattle Thursday and to Oakland today. He likely will visit Atlanta next.

Lamar Hunt, co-owner with Tommy Mercer of the Fort Worth and Dallas Baseball clubs, said Paul had advised he would make Dallas on the tour.

"I am especially encouraged by the fact that William Daley (chairman of the board of the Cleveland franchise) will accompany Paul here," Hunt said. "He's very businesswise and I feel will be an astute judge of what this area has to offer."

Hunt said Paul would look at the site of a new stadium near Arlington and confer with business and civic leaders of the two cities.

Cleveland is looking around for a location because it has lost heavily the past two years.

Hermleigh Defeated By Bobcats 27-6

HERMLEIGH — The Rule Bobcats, who had not scored a point this year, won their first game here Friday night by upending the Hermleigh Cardinals 27-6. It was the 2nd defeat in 5 outings for the Cardinals.

Halfback Ronnie May led the Bobcats, as he scored 20 points. He started the scoring 4 minutes deep in the first period with a 35-yard gallop and ended it on a 30-yard pass as the final buzzer sounded.

In between these two May scored another when he went over left tackle in the 3rd quarter and raced 65 yards for a score. The other Rule score came on a one-yard plunge by fullback Paul Cornelius in the second period. May ran for two points after the first score and Larry Tanner booted the extra point after the second TD.

Hermleigh got its touchdown in the first quarter as quarterback Jimmy Kubala rolled out around left end for 30 yards. The score had been set up by a 40-yard run by fullback Terry Smith.

Number 1 Teams Still Undefeated

By The Associated Press

McKinney, the No. 2 team in Class AAA, crashed in a high scoring game with Bonham Friday night for one of the biggest upsets of the Texas schoolboy football season.

McKinney fell 26-20 to furnish the only reversal among the highly rated teams. The Lions joined 18 others dropped from the ranks of the undefeated and untied in the four classes of high school football that play to champ pionships.

The No. 1 teams all remained clear of blemish.

Garland, the power of Class AAAA lashed Paris 32-14. It was the Owls' 17th straight victory.

Dumas, the No. 1 team of Class AAA, didn't play and neither did Phillips, No. 1 in Class AA.

Hull - Daisetta, No. 1 in Class A, rolled to its fifth consecutive triumph with a 64-0 crushing of Hardin. The south Texas power now has romped to 286 points while allowing the opposition nothing.

Rockwall, the defending champion of Class AA and rated No. 3 in the division, romped on Forney 35-7 to continue the longest winning streak in the state. Rockwall now has taken 19 in a row.

Petersburg, the Class A champion, held onto the third longest winning sein in walloping Spur 28-14 for its 12th straight.

Gonzales, which had been undefeated through 16 games, made it 17 with a 7-7 tie with San Marcos.

Los Fresnos remained the state's highest scoring team as the boys from the valley whipped Hebbronville 54-0 in Class AA. Los Fresnos has scored 345 points against only 14 in six games.

Gladewater slammed Rusk 33 - 0 in the feature game between Class AA undefeated teams while Three Rivers smacked Dilley 32-0 in the highlight of Class A. Both were among the unbeaten and untied.

Six teams — Abilene, Amarillo, Austin Travis, Waco Richfield, Houston Memorial and San Antonio McCollum — took the plunge from the ranks of the undefeated and untied in Class AAAA.

McKinney, Beaumont Forest Park, Gonzales and San Marcos were Class AAA teams taking the count.

Class AA lost four teams and Class A five as the undefeated, untied list shrank to 59.

Several others may go down Saturday night.

Mantle's Homer In Ninth Gives Yankees 2-1 Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle slugged a first-pitch home run in the bottom of the ninth inning that gave the New York Yankees a 2-1 World Series victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday and a lead of two games to one in the baseball classic.

Mantle, first up in the ninth, tagged the first pitch by reliever Barney Schultz. The homer, which was a Series record 16th for the Yankee star, broke a 1-1 tie that had existed from the fifth inning.

Veteran lefty Curt Simmons of the Cards and young Jim Bouton of the Yanks had put on a stirring pitching duel before Mantle provided the dramatic ending.

Simmons' infield single in the fifth drove in the St. Louis run, matching the one knocked in by Clete Boyer's double in the second.

The fourth game of the Series is slated for Sunday at Yankee Stadium, matching first-game winner Ray Sadecki of the Cards against first-game loser Whitey Ford.

Ira Wins Over Leuders Pirates

IRA — Sophomore halfback Larry Holladay led the Ira Bulldogs to a 25-14 upset victory over the Leuders Pirates here Friday night in a defensive battle of the two-six man teams.

The Bulldogs played their best defensive contest of the season, according to Coach Robert Ryan. He said that the entire team looked exceptionally well in that department. Led by end Jim Vineyard and linebaeker Aaron Crawford, the Ira team did something that is seldom dome in limiting the Pirates to two touchdowns.

Ira received the opening kickoff, but failed to make such progress and was forced to kick. Leuders then drove for the first score without relinquishing the ball. Stanley Harvey took it over from the 15 yardline, and then kicked for the two points and an 8-0 lead.

Ira got back into contention later in the first period as the 150 - pound Holladay went around left end for the score. The try-for-points was no good, and Ira still trailed 6-8.

The Bulldogs went in front in the 2nd quarter, and it was Holladay again, this time on a 25-yard run. Ira led 12-8 at halftime.

Leuders went back on top in the 3rd period when Harvy took it over from 17 yards out. The point-try was unsuccessful, and the score was 14-12 in favor of the visitors.

Holladay put the Bulldogs back in the lead minutes later on a 50-yard run for the TD. Ira had an 18-14 lead as the 3rd period ended.

Ira's final score came on a 15-yard run by Jack Payne whose playing was hampered by an injury received in workout this week. This time Crawford ran for the extra point and Ira had won 25-14.

The Bulldogs will journey to Paint Creek this week for a Thursday night encounter. Game time will be 7:30.

Sweetwater Takes Lead In District

In the first week of intraconference warfare for District 3-AAA teams the Sweetwater Mustangs became the solid choice for the championship defeating the Snyder Tigers 30-6. This was one of 3 contests on tap Friday night.

Lamesa still has not scored a point this year, but the Tornadoes remained in contention by playing to a scoreless tie with Levelland. Both teams had a field goal try, in an effort ge get on the scoreboard, but both were unsuccessful.

In the other game, the Brownfield Cubs, led by Ronnie Davis, romped over the Lake View Chiefs 19-8 Davis scored all three of Brownfield's touchdowns on long runs. He went 76, 69, and 53 yards to cross the goal line each time. Hafiback Cecil Farrar booted the bonus point after the first score.

Lake View's lone tally came late in the game when halfback Ronnie Hudson scored from 16 yards out. Quarterback Howard Benes passed to halfback David Carruthers for the extra points.

New Career For Shirley Temple?

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Another career for Shirley Temple? It could happen.

In the 1930s Shirley became the most successful child star in the history of the movies. Later she made the transition to young-lady roles in films like "The Bachelor and The Bobby-soxer" and "Since You Went Away."

After the failure of her marriage to John Agar, Shirley retired to become Mrs. Charles Black, wife of a business executive. Four years ago, she returned to acting with her own television show, on which she introduced and occasionally starred in fairy tales.

Now ABC and 20th Century-Fox are trying to induce her to return for a weekly series. She was in Hollywood a month ago for talks at Fox, which she kept solvent in the depression years.

Via telephone from her home at Woodside, south of San Francisco, she commented: "We've been talking about a series since last March, but so far I haven't seen a script. So I can't really decide until I do.

"But I think I would enjoy doing a series. My family likes it when I'm away. At least Charlie says I'm easier to live with when I'm working. And my children are always interested when I'm doing some acting. So I've got some fans rooting for me, anyway."

Shirley, now 35, said she wouldn't mind the travel. Los Angeles is only 30 minutes away by jet, she pointed out, and she get used to the 400-mile commuting during her two-year run with her previous series. She was awarded a 100,000-mile plaque by one airline, and she traveled others as well.

"I understand they don't shoot movies on Saturday any more," she added. "That would give me a long weekend to be at home."

Until recent years, studios maintained a six-day work week. "But I didn't mind working on Saturdays when I was young," Shirley said. "In fact, I liked it because I didn't have to go to school."

Even without the acting, Shirley keeps busy, as she has all her life. She has been working in educational television in San Francisco. She serves regularly in a children's day clinic. And she was recently made an honorary governor of the San Francisco chapter of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

"All my activities are in the morning," she explained. "I'm home by 2 when the children start to come home."

The children are Susan, 16 and a high school senior; Charlie, 12; and Lori, 10. None displays any yen to follow their mother's profession, although Susan is devoted to ballet.

Youth Is Bested By Age In Video

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When television was very young — some 15 years ago — the film, radio and stage performers tentatively sticking a toe in the medium seemed almost as overwhelmed by its personnel as by its fantastic promise.

"The whole thing is run by babies," a famous radio star reported breathlessly after her first scary plunge. "I swear to you that the producer looked about 15 and the director even younger. I never saw the writers, but I decided they sent their stuff in from nursery school."

Things have changed over the intervening years, and some of those beardless boys are now beginning to part their thinning locks farther and farther on the side. But a most fascinating development in the area of chronology is the foothold achieved by mature performers whose shows, year in and year out, attract the largest numbers of viewers. Youth really is bested by age — in television.

Jack Benny, for one, has changed networks in his 32nd year of broadcasting and continues to perform in a weekly comedy show, pops up all over the networks as a guest star and recently celebrated his 70th birthday.

Walter Brennan, who this season has a new comedy series, "The Tycoon," and has been a popular Television favorit for many seasons before that in "The Real McCoys," also, recently passed his 70th birthday.

Gladys Cooper, the distinguished and beautiful British actress who is playing the family matriarch in "The Rogues," is 73, takes long walks for exercise and recently drove alone from New York to California.

George Burns, producer of one comedy series and producer-star of a second this season, can not be far from the 60 mark, if he has not already passed it.

Show business people, as a group, are not likely to run around publicizing their ages. In fact, it is almost routine to find in a studio-issued biography of a star, even of a youngster like Patty Duke, that the fortune-favored one first saw light on June 15. The year almost invariably's missing.

A few, however, admit to the passing of time — a dangerous move, however, for Hollywood wise-acres invariably add at least five years.

On the record one finds that E. G. Marshall of "The Defenders" is 54. So is the apparently age - proof Robert Cummings who continues to play merry young bachelors, even this year in "My Living Doll."

Lawrence Welk is a proud grandfather, which detracts nothing from his fascination as far as his loyal feminine fans are concerned. Buddy Ebsen, the star of "Beverly Hillbillies," was a featured dancer in the 1928 Broadway musical, "Whoopee," so he's no kid.

Paul Ford, star of this season's new comedy, "Bailey's of Balboa," admits to 63: he didn't even start acting until he was 38. John McGiver of "Many Happy Returns" is 53, and was a New York school teacher until he was well over 40. Ed Sullivan has seen 60 go by. So have two other indomitable, indefatigable favorites, Bob Hope and Bing Crosby.

On the distaff side, Shirley Booth of "Hazel," is hardly a starlet and neither is Lucille Ball, who admits — reluctantly, naturally — to post-50 birthdays. Bea Benaderet of "Petticoat Junction" has grown children and Shirl Conway of "The Doctors and the Nurses" is rarely challenged on her age by poll-watchers on Election Day.

Other highly popular television stars who are undisguisedly mature include Ray Walston, star of "My Favorite Martian," Dean Jagger of "Mr Novak," Raymond Massey of "Dr. Kildare," Charles Boyer and David Niven of "The Rogues," Lee J. Cobb of "The Virginian," Fred MacMurray of "My Three Sons," Ozzie Nelson and spouse of "Ozzie and Harriet," Lorne Green of "Bonanza", and even the Great Gleason, who has a married daughter.

Probably television's oldest star of all, if you count the years the way veterinarians do, is "Lassie." That marvelous collie has been saving people and situations for 20 years, which would make her, on the human aging calender, 140.

SANDRA DEE finds it difficult to choose between Robert Goulet and Andy Williams in the new romantic comedy in color, Universal's "I'd Rather Be Rich." It is coming to the Palace Theater here Sunday, Oct. 18, for a three-day run.

Vaughn May Take Mother's Advice

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Says Robert Vaughn: "The only advice my mother ever gave me was to be a big star or else get out of the acting business. It wasn't worth it otherwise."

Vaughn just might make it. At least he's off to a good start as the super-spy-super-lover on NBC's "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." This is not Uncle Sam, but a super-national agency designed to stamp out nefarious doings by international troublemakers.

Many critics pointed out the series seemed bottled in bond, and there are indeed similarities to the Ian Fleming novels. Outrageous plots, susceptible beauties; a super-evil agency named Thrush (James Bond's nemisis is Smersh). But then, Bond borrowed from Sam Spade. Spade from Sherlock Holmes, etc. And the late Fleming had a hand in shaping the series.

The similarity doesn't bother Vaughn, the intrepid Napoleon Solo of U.N.C.L.E. "I never read the Fleming novels," he says, "but I did see the two movies ('Dr. No,' 'From Russia With Love') and I hope we are compared to them."

Nor does Vaughn seem dissuaded from fulfilling the positive side of his mother's advice. His hopes for the series: "To make me the biggest star in the business."

He figures this is his best chance. He started acting when he was 11; both his parents were in the business — "but working actors who had to worry about where the next job was coming from."

That has never been a concern of Vaughn's.

"I got my first contract with Hecht-Lancaster and Columbia two months after I got out of college," he says. "I've been under contract or working ever since. (He's now 31.) The parts have grown better and the pay higher. So except for that first two months, I haven't really suffered."

But he nearly got sidetracked from his aim. He drew an Academy Award nomination for his drunk in "The Young Philadelphians," and that seemed to type him as a character actor. Then he spent a miserable season, last year as second banana to Gary Lockwood's "Lieutenant," escaping when the show was dropped.

Ex-Judge Refuses To Testify

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — An elderly former Oklahoma Supreme Court justice, brought from a federal prison to testify in the income tax evasion trial of fellow Justice Earl Welch, refused Friday to answer questions.

The witness, N. S. Corn, is serving an 18 months term at Springfield, Mo., for income tax evasion. He invoked the Fifth Amendment 17 times even though he was offered immunity from his testimony.

Corn, 80, answered the first question only and replied that he knew Welch.

Questions which drew no answer included, "Did you receive a bribe in 1957?" and "Did you deliver any money to Judge Welch in 1957?"

He also declined to reply to questions about whether he had received a large sum of money in 1957, whether he had a large number of $100 bills in $957, and whether he was acquainted with a state tax case involving now-bankrupt Selected Investments Corp.

A government lawyer in July said a witness could testify to a $150,000 payoff to Corn in a case before the Supreme Court in 1957.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — A horrid day to everyone and especially to people who think when they still are in the United States.

This is going to be a terrific shock to many of my country-men (including Democrats and Republicans) but Mexico is a regular country which operates on its own.

So about this time several of you fellas out there have stopped looking at the corset ads and are muttering, "What's with Abney today? He sounds like a ten martini hangover."

All right, I'll tell you. A lot of readers keep sending self addressed envelopes with a U.S. stamp glued on it. And there are ladies and gentlemen who write me things like, "What's the matter with Mexico anyhow? Now here in California we...

Comes now the distressing answer. There ain't a thing wrong with Mexico which doesn't ail all human beans. Take a letter to a U.S. Post Office with a Mexican stamp on it and the FBI follows you several days. Mexico likewise set up its own postal system and (this will smply kill you) printed its own stamps. Also they have their own money, rules and things. Honest, I hate to disappoint you but it is an independent country and nobody else's laws apply here.

And people write and ask how come somebody doesn't print up a list o which type of hotel is where, how the food tastes, is the water pure, cost please, etc. and mail one to everybody up home. I'll tell you why. Nobody is built that way.

Now if we pioneer - spirited Americans who forge ahead into the unknown without fear can only work up enough courage to visit a next door neighbor with the idea of having a good time, it will be a lot more fun. So I'm sore but my witch says that anybody has a right to be sore getting questions like that from people who are supposed to be adults.

Is it true the floating gardens of Xochimilco were originally built on huge log rafts and later settled to the lake bottom?

Tourist guides sometimes feed you a romantic account like this. The historical gentlemen claim that as the huge lake around here dried up, the Xochimilco Indians spaded out canals so they could travel around the cornfields in the family canoe. Result, you have a network of canals running through a collection of islands. Personally, I never dug down to see if any logs are chained to the bottom but I doubt it.

* * *

When and where can we see the "Flying Dancers" of Papantly, Veracruz, preform?

Almost anytime, any place these days. There is one set operating at the World's Fair, Another at one of the local inns here. And another at a hostelry in Cuernavaca. Apparently this ancient rite was so spectacular that Papantla (and maybe some other towns for all we know) got enthusiastic and began exporting groups of authentic dancing fliers all over.

(Sensible questions on Mexico? Write John Abney, Indianapolis 72, Mexico City 18, Mexico.)

TRAVEL TALK

By Hulin Fowler

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of articles describing Mr. Fowler's experiences in the Bible Lands. Write to him in care of this newspaper for answers to your travel questions.

The road from Jerusalem led imperceptibly downward for we were on our way to the Dead Sea, the lowest spot on the face of the earth.

Christmas was less than a month away and we were in the heart of the land of the nativity. This season in the United States is associated with snow and cold weather, yet here in Jordan the air was hot, dry and still, the road winding and dusty.

Our first stop was Bethlehem, about 10 miles south of Jerusalem. On the way we passed Shepherd's Field, encircled by a stone wall, said to be the site where an angel of the Lord told the shepherds that a King was born (Luke 2:8). Beyond, we could see the Field of Boaz, mentioned in Ruth 1:22, and later we visited the tomb of Rachel, a small domed building said to be erected on the site where she died giving birth to Benjamin.

In a small shop we purchased some Christmas cards which, sent by surface mail, arrived just in time for Christmas back home.

Doubling back to Bethany we stopped at the Inn of the Good Samaritan, the traditional site marked now by some old stone walls and mosaics, supposedly left from the time when the Samaritan took the beaten traveler in his care.

Now we were on a road that was "down all the way," as the Bible says, leading to the Dead Sea, and a magnificent sight opened up before our eyes. Like looking down on history we could see Jericho on the left and the Dead Sea on the right. The Jordan River, where Jesus was baptized by John, wound gracefully down through mountains, 200 miles to pass through the Sea of Galilee to lose itself in the Dead Sea.

Finally we arrived at the Dead Sea which, strangely enough, is not so forbidding as its name. Though its banks are treeless and barren, the waters were calm and a clear blue. The sea, the lowest spot on earth at 1,300 feet below sea level, is 53 miles long and 10 miles wide. The waters are six times as salty as the ocean and fish which get caught in the swift waters of the Jordan die upon entering the salty brine. The water has a bitter taste due to the magnesium content and oily feeling from calcium. The taste of the water remained in our mouth all day.

From the shores we could see the Mountains of Moab and the hills of Judeah, and it is said that the sinful cities of Sodom and Gomorrah lie beneath the inland sea's still waters. A beautiful hotel, with the picturesque name of the Dead Sea Hotel, has been constructed on the south shore and, despite the barrenness of the land, boasts a beautiful beach.

Leaving the Dead Sea we drove on to Jericho, the oldest known city site in the world. Although modern Jericho is a community of about 35,000 people, ancient Jericho is simply a mound composed entirely of the debris of human existence dating back at least 8,000 years before Christ.

The mound has been extensively excavated by the British, who recently found a town hall and a defense tower built before 7,000 B.C. and portrait heads of plaster over human skull done about 4,500 B.C., the earliest examples of portraiture.

Although the discoveries have shed little light on the fall of Jericho, they have added a wealth of artifacts now reposing in museums all over the world.

About twelve miles northwest of Jericho are the caves of Khirbet Qumran, where the famed Dead Sea Scrolls were found by Bedouin shepherds looking for a lost goat. Written by hermits who fled wicked Jerusalem in about 140 B.C. the goat skin scrolls — in Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek — have given civilization its clearest picture of life around the time of Christ. The scrolls can be seen daily in the Palestine Archaelogical Museum, silent but effective witnesses to that ancient and holy time.

Ball Game Prompts Riot

EASLEY, S.C. (AP) — A teen-ager was killed, another was shot in the arm and several other persons injured in a riot that followed a high school football game Friday night.

Fighting broke out in the stands and spread on to the playing field soon after Clearview High School of Easley lost its homecoming game.

A spectator, James Kay, 19, of Clemson, apparently was killed in shooting near a field gate where several persons swarmed around a bus carrying the Bryson High School team to nearby Fountain Inn.

Both are Negro schools.

Coroner Clement Smith said Bryson's student bus driver reported he was shot in the arm. Several other pupils and adults were injured, apparently in some scuffles, now clubs, knives and first blows, Smith said.

Bryson head coach Alfred Duckett and two assistant coaches, Wednell Thompson and Rudolph Gordon, were questioned for several hours after a witness reported seeing Duckett leaving the field with a gun in his hand, Smith said. The coaches were taken off the Bryson bus by the highway patrol.

Properous West Germany Still Gropes For It's Niche

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP) — Ludwig Erhard is completing his first year as chancellor with West Germany climbing new peaks of prosperity but still groping for its place in world affairs.

The role Erhard and his country will play on the international scene may become clearer early next year when Soviet Premier Khrushchev is expected to make his first visit to Bonn.

The Russians control the solution to Germany's chief problem: What to do about the part of the country under Communist rule, roughly half its territory and a quarter of its population.

On Oct. 16 last year Erhard succeeded Konrad Adenauer. With Erhard as his minister of economics, Adenauer had led the republic since its foundation nearly 15 years before. That was the period when West Germany emerged from the rubble of World War II and became Europes most prosperous country.

Now it is second only to the United States in world trade and pays some of the highest wages on the Continent. More than a million foreign workers have come in while hundreds of thousand of jobs still go begging at the labor exchanges.

Erhards heavy figure, white hair and big cigar have become the reassuring, fatherly image of West German prosperity. He is 67.

But what happened in World War II still prevents Germany from playing the big part in world affairs it could afford. West German resentment of Soviet occupation of East Germany is matched by Soviet suspicion that the West Germans want revenge.

With the biggest army in Western Europe, the West German government is afraid to let it be used for peace-keeping operations abroad. Ordinary Germans are mistrustful of foreign military adventures, and they fear other peoples would resent them.

The German feeling that old differences with France must be reconciled results in considerable support for President Charles de Gaulle when he quarrels with the United States and Britain.

This was especially true under Adenauer, who was born five years after the 1871 war with France and has lived through two others.

Erhard started out as chancellor by saying that his style would differ from Adenauer's but his policies would be much the same.

This has proved true except that Erhard's policy toward the Russians has been more accommodating than Adenauer's as it was expected to be. Erhard inherited Gerhard Schroeder, Adenauer's flexible foreign minister, and he has been listening to him more than Adenauer did.

Erhard accepted an agreement with the East German Communists on passes through the Berlin wall. He put his government's signature alongside that of the East German Communists on the treaty limiting atomic tests. He welcomed Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law, and arranged for the Soviet leader's visit.

Adenauer, 88 and still going strong, has taken over the new job of leading the opposition to his successor's foreign policy. Though for the most part he has held his fire in public, Adenauer's friends have sharply criticized Erhard and Schroeder.

Letters To The Editor

To The Daily News:

In San Francisco in July, Nelson Rockefeller blasted Goldwater's remarks as "dangerous, irresponsible and frightening."

Dwight Eisenhower declared Goldwater's remarks "would seem to say that the end always justifies the means. The whole American system refutes that idea and concept.",

"The stench of Fascism," said Gov. Pat Brown.

"A group has taken control there that doesn't understand the modern world," — Henry Cabot Lodge.

In my heart, I know they were right.

There is a lot I would like to say, but space will not permit. Let me say this — when we get him (Goldwater) in the White House, people will regain confidence in and respect for our national government. He is honest and knows the meaning of integrity.

GOP Letters Held For PO Ruling

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The post office is holding 70,000 Republican letters in Phoenix for possible federal lottery-law violations.

GOP spokesmen said Friday the letters contain fund-raising tickets to be used in a drawing. The prize is either an expense-paid trip to the presidential inauguration or $500.

Maricopa County Republicans said their attorney had checked the matter and found no violations involved.

If the letters can't be mailed, the Republicans say they'll distribute them door to door throughout Arizona.

Phoenix Postmaster W. J. Mason acknowledged the GOP mail was being held up while he waits for a ruling from Louis J. Doyl of the Post Office Department in Washington.

East Texans End Week-Long Tour

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — The industrial committee of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce ended a week-long tour Friday.

Their trip was aimed at persuading manufacturers to open branch plants in East Texas. About 75 business and industry leaders attended a luncheon the East Texans gave here. Previously they visited Chicago, Minneapolis, Detroit and Buffalo.

DeWitt Pike, president of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce, was made an honorary Texas citizen and an admiral in the Texas Navy.

Evaluation Tests Set For Students

During the month of October, all Snyder school age children, grades 1-12, will be taking standardized educational tests. The tests this year are being coordinated by Mr. Jack Longbotham, Director of Guidance for the Snyder Public Schools.

All first grade children will take the Primary Mental Abilities Test to aid their teachers in assessing their reading and arithmetic readiness. It measures verbal meaning, spatial ability, perception, and number facilities and requires no reading ability.

Fourth grade students will take the Primary Mental Abilities Test especially designed for grades 4-6. It is a 60 minutes battery that measures verbal meaning, number facility, spatial ability, perceptual speed, and reasoning. Because this test measures separate factors of individual intelligence, it provides more meaning than a single, total intelligence test score.

Grades 2-9 will take the SRA Achievement Series, which have been revised, restandardized, and expanded. This battery of tests is comprehensive and curriculum centered that assesses pupil growth, by measuring not only their store of factual knowledge, but also their ability to apply their knowledge to typical, real life situations.

Grades 7 and 9 will be taking the SRA Reading Record to measure strengths and weaknesses of junior high students. Four sub-tests comprise this test, evaluating reading rate, comprehension, vocabulary, and everyday reading skills. The sub-test of everyday reading skills is of special interest to students because it confronts the student with a variety of reading situations he will encounter both in school and outside, maps, tables, graphs, advertisements, and indices.

The SRA Tests of Educational Ability are administered to students in the junior high schools. These tests measure three areas that bear directly on the scholastic aptitude of junior high as well as high school students. The areas are language, reasoning, and quantitative ability. The scores obtained from these tests show a high correlation with achievement in academic work. The TEA total score is a measure of academic potential.

Grades 10, 11, and 12 in the senior high school will be taking the Iowa Tests of Educational Development. These are achievement tests designed to measure strengths and weaknesses in four broad curricular areas with nine sub-tests. These areas are English, mathmatics, natural sciences, and social sciences. Each sub-test measures the ability of the student to apply the knowledge and skills he has acquired from his total experiences, both in and out of school during his entire educational career. The scores reflect understanding and ability to solve problems rather than specific recall of isolated factual data.

The information obtained from these scores can be of great assistance to the school in providing an objective record of educational progress and growth.

The results are helpful to parents from year to year in determining to some degree what courses a student needs in order to challange his capabilities. It is further evidence as to whether the student is working above or below his ability.

Most colleges and universities require admission tests as their criteria for accepting or rejecting students' applications. Standardized tests such as the Iowa test prove to be an aid to the students in gaining experience with objective tests.

The student profile sheets with scores made on each subject test are given to each student in the secondary school (junior high and senior high), in order that the parents may see the results and be aware of strong or weak areas of performance. The school urges interested parents to come for individual conferences on any area they may be interested in.

Principals, counselors, and teachers are available at conference periods to discuss test data with the parents.

The tests are also an aid to the administration in evaluating the curriculum or program of studies in the Snyder Schools. The total ranking of the student body gives an indication as to how well the students are doing in comparison with other schools throughout the nation.

Spies Will Be Deported

NEW YORK (AP) — A Russian and his wife, central figures in the cold war's hottest spy case in recent years, will be deported to Czechoslovakia, if Czechoslovakia will have them.

Their deportation was ordered Friday by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. The couple, Alexandre Sokolov, 41, and his wife, 34, had waived deportation proceedings at a hearing Wednesday with a request to go to Czechoslovakia.

However, the Immigration Service said it did not know when the Sokolovs would leave this country since their departure hinges on whether the Czech government will accept them.

The couple's trial here on espionage charges was halted in its fifth day last week on orders from Washington. The only reason given was that it was "in the interest of national security."

It was believed that the government did not wish to divulge in open court such matters as the identity of U.S. counterspies and other secrets of cold-war counterintelligence.

They will remain in custody pending deportation.

Rites Open Red River Expressway

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Ceremonies dedicating the Red River Valley Expressway and the connecting Oklahoma Turnpike were held on both sides of the stream between Texas and Oklahoma Friday.

Dignitaries of the two states saw a ribbon snipped at the bridge near Burkburnett and attended a luncheon in Wichita Falls. Then they crossed the Red River for another ribbon cutting and a dinner at Lawton, Okla.

"The Texas Highway Department will pass on a legacy of debt-free travelways built on the principle of pay-as-you-grow," State Highway Engineer Dewitt Greer said at the luncheon here.

Texas Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and Maj. Gen. Robert Stillman, commander of Sheppard Air Force Base which lies along the Texas expressway, were other speakers.

At the Burkburnett ribbon-cutting Smith said "Texas and Oklahoma still have a job to do."

Representatives of communities on U.S. 277 between Wichita Falls and Abilene met here after the luncheon to discuss with Greer the future programming for four-lane highways between the two cities.

Texas Farmers Return To Fields

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Fields dried and Texas farmers returned to harvesting, preparing land and seeding small grains last week.

John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said outdoor activities were delayed by widespread rains in late September and district agents report farmers are busy catching up.

Despite brisk temperatures, ranges and pastures stayed green and livestock conditions are improving.

Moisture was still short in Oldham, Hansford, Hutchinson, Ochiltree and Lipscomb Counties, but 40 to 90 per cent of the Panhandle wheat is planted. Some grain sorghum is being harvested, and livestock and range conditions are fair.

Little cotton is being harvested on the South Plains. Some defoliation is expected next week. Most wheat has been planted although moisture is generally short over the area.

Moisture is adequate in two-thirds of the Rolling Plains. Early grains have good stands. Except where wet fields continue to delay operations, grain planting and cotton harvesting are under way. Ranges are improving.

Not much small grain has been planted in North Central Texas but some is up. Farmers are waiting for fields to dry, moisture is adequate.

Northeast Texas rains have further delayed harvests. Cover crops are being planted and pastures are above average in most counties. Army worms are causing serious damage. Livestock is in good condition.

Moisture is short in Brewster, Jeff Davis, Presidio, Culberson and Hudspech Counties of far West Texas. Livestock conditions are improving as ranges green. The cotton harvest is in full swing.

Harvesting has been delayed two weeks over West Central Texas. Second crop hay is growing well. Volunteer grain affords some grazing. Grain planting continues and cotton defoliation has started. Livestock is fair to good, with marketing slow but prices stronger since the rains. Ranges improved. Early pecans are good but the crop is short.

Adequate moisture was reported for Central Texas. About 90 per cent of the cotton has been harvested. Early peanuts are being dug. Young grains are being damaged by army worms.

Moisture is spotted in East Texas and pastures mediocre. Army worms are reported. Cotton and corn harvests are slow due to rains. Livestock are in fair condition and marketings heavy. Winter pasture land is being prepared. The pecan crop is short.

In Southeast Texas and the upper Gulf Coast area, wet fields delayed planting. Some counties still need stock water. Army worms are damaging oats and pastures.

Except for the southwest part of South Central Texas, moisture is adequate. Army worm damage to grass is heavy, and in some counties weeds are a problem.

In far South Texas, moisture is adequate in the Winter Garden area but short elsewhere. Rains have increased the size of citrus and the harvest is beginning.

Oilmen Feel Jake Hamon Industry's True Spokesman

By TOM JOHNSON

DALLAS (AP)—"If there ever was an industry spokesman for the oil business," said one Texas oilman, "it's Jake Hamon."

Hamon is a highly successful Dallas independent oilman who won't watch television—he says its "stultifying"—but reads 20 books a month.

In July, Interior Secretary Stewart Udall appointed Hamon chairman of the National Petroleum Council. He has held a host of oil positions, and is the only independent ever to be chairman of the American Petroleum Institute.

Hamon, 62, was born in Lawton, Okla., and went to the University of Chicago to become a lawyer at 18. He quit school and has been in the oil industry since.

His organization drills about 100 wells a year in Texas and Oklahoma. Hamon shows no signs of shifting down to a low gear.

"You have to keep going," he says. "An oil well starts to die the day you find it. Anytime you get complacent in this business, you're dead."

In a recent interview, Hamon said he loved to watch bullfighting and listed reading as a weakness.

He said he got to know the late American author Ernest Hemingway casually in Spain and sometimes sat with him at bullfights and drinks later.

"He was a nice guy," Hamon said.

A unifying voice in the petroleum industry, Hamon counsels the independents not to blame all their troubles on the major companies. He told producers at a meeting:

"If we keep passing resolutions, fighting among ourselves, having more than one spokesman at the national level and indulging in self pity, we must be prepared to see crude prices keep on sliding until they reach $2 a barrel."

Speaking on producers demands that the government restrict imports of residual oil, Hamon said:

"We should eliminate all quotas and restrictions of residual oil and allow it to come in freely. I'm tired of incurring the wrath of the Eastern and New England consumers just to keep up the price of coal."

Hamon said the independents troubles are two-fold: Too much importing of crude oil and too much production of domestic crude.

He advises that producers ought to keep their excess productive capacity in check and that allowable crowding between states should be eliminated.

Hamon works in a roomy office in downtown Dallas. Original paintings and pieces of sculpture, as well as a large bookcase, line the walls.

After he quit school, Hamon worked as a roustabout in West Texas for three years before he drilled his first well.

In 1923, he and the late Edwin B. Cox bought some old stripper wells in the Healdton Field in Oklahoma. This venture was successful, and Hamon moved to Dallas in 1934.

He maintains district offices in Abilene, Corpus Christi, Amarillo, Midland and Ardmore.

Hamon is a big-framed man who loves to talk and smoke cigars. In private conversation, he sprinkles his language with various salty terms possibly learned in his roustabout days.

"I love the oil business and do the best I can," he says.

Gardener's Corner

By EARL ARONSON

IF YOU ACT before the first frost, you need not forget about your perennials until next spring. With flourescent lamps, perennials may be made to flourish the year around.

Before cold weather puts the plant to sleep, lift it from the ground with a ball of soil around the roots and set it into a pot or flat. Remove dead and discolored leaves, water generously and feed occasionally.

CHRISTOS Mpelkas, plant physiologist, transplants.

In some instances, the plant will bloom the year around if exposed to the lamp's concentrated light for 14 to 18 hours a day. Our lamp (Sylvania), over a plant stand in the living room, also substitutes for one floor or table lamp at night. The light is soft and pleasant.

When the plant is to be taken outdoors again, expose it gradually to the sun and air over a 10-day period to accustom the stem and leaves to outside temperature and humidity levels.

Perennials grown indoors in the winter and returned to the garden after frost danger has passed are likely to flower earlier than those which spent the winter outdoors. Some plants so moved may not grow as tall as others but probably will flower as abundantly. This is an attribute to the natural pruning of the root system during transplaiting.

One precautionary note—even when grown under special flourescent lamps, plants and flowers need the same feeding and watering care as always. The light is not a substitute for good plant care.

The American Rose Society's 65th annual meeting is scheduled Oct. 22-24 at Phoenix, Ariz. A new national trophy, the Pacific Rose Society Challenge Trophy, will be awarded for three different hybrid tea varieties exhibited by an out-of-town exhibitor coming from at least 200 miles from the national show.

Six new roses were introduced at the annual Red Rose Rent Day of Star Roses (Conard-Pyle) at West Grove, Pa. They are the two All-America winners, Mister Lincoln (Red) and Camelot (Coral); Allegro, Garden State and Zambra, by Alain Meilland of France, and Sea Foam, a white, low-growing shrub rose originated by Ernest Schwartz of Baltimore, Md. Allegro is an orange-red hybrid tea and Garden State is a deep pink grandiflora. Zambra is an orange floribunda.

ALL ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

THE TWO-YEAR OLD —
By C. Robert Gruver
Editor
All About Babies

We've survived the frustrations of infancy, the aimlessness of the crawling stage and the unsteadiness of the toddling stage. Now, we feel we're practically grown up.

That during this time some 8 million babies grew up with us, pleases us no end. That we may have, in some small way, made it easier for these babies to reach the age of two — the end of the road of babyhood — makes us humble and proud and thankful to this newspaper for carrying this weekly feature.

For, after all, being two is really an important event in the life of a baby. From this point on, a baby is no longer a baby but a child.

Dr. Wilbert Davison of the Duke University Medical School points out that at two, some babies know about 300 words and some are able to make two or three word-sentences. Dr. E. H. Watson of the University of Michigan Medical School says that at two, some babies are able to use pronouns and discard jargon or gibberish. Both these well known pediatricians agree that many perfectly normal two year olds do not do all of these things. Speech may develop late in some children and a delay in talking need not cause alarm, if a child seems to be otherwise developing properly. Parents who may have any questions about this or about any other special part of their child's development, should discuss the matter with their physicia...

Dr. Davison tells us the average two year old should be able to: Run, kick a large ball, build a tower of four to six blocks, hold a glass with one hand, hunt for missing toys, turn pages one at a time, distinguish between "Mine and Yours," pout, dawdle, execute simple commands, imitate simple movements, repeat words and select a bright-colored object placed among dull-colored ones of the same size and shape.

To this, Dr. Watson adds: Goes up and down stairs alone, pulls on a simple garment, refers to self by name and plays with domestic mimicry. Generally, at the age of two a child also shows an improvement in his emotions. He tends to be less violent, shows pride in accomplishment and can be coy in his actions.

One of the most fascinating things about a baby when he reaches the age of two is that you can pretty well tell his future growth and character patterns. You actually can see the person he'll grow up to be.

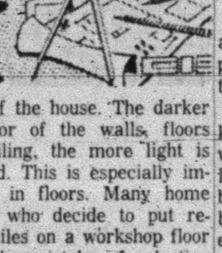
ON THE HOUSE



The best type of lighting for your home workshop is natural light from above. Since it is rarely available — because most home workshops necessarily are located in basements, utility rooms in houses on cement slabs, or garages — the goal should be an approximation of this natural light.

Safety authorities are convinced that poor lighting is sometimes responsible for workshop accidents. This doesn't mean making the workshop as bright as possible. A room too brilliantly lighted can produce fatigue, which is a companion to an accident in or out of a home workshop.

The ideal lighting situation is one in which there is good general lighting throughout the workshop, with extra light concentrated in the working areas. Thus, even if the shop has a good overhead light that leaves no dark corners, it is wise to have a special light over the workbench, another over the table saw, and so on. The main light should be turned on whenever work is being done in the shop — and should be left on even when one of the special lights is being used.

Clamp-on reflector lights, overhead lights that move on horizontal wire setups, and various kinds of incandescent and flourescent fixtures are available, many of them made especially for home workshops. A new type of light getting attention lately is the miniature high intensity lamp, developed only a few years ago by Jay Monroe, a Forest Hills, N.Y., electrical engineer.

This type of lamp provides white light of a high intensity from an amazingly small lamp. It uses 6 or 12-volt bulbs. A special, tiny transformer turns the ordinary 120 volts of house current into 6 or 12 volts. While the bulbs have less life than equivalent conventional incandescents, they use less electricity.

While miniature high intensity lamps are being used for such things as sewing, reading in bed and studying, they are especially useful in the home workshop for precision jobs where concentrated light is necessary.

In deciding what kind of lights and how many you need for your workshop, the principle is much the same as for other areas of the house. The darker the color of the walls, floors and ceiling, the more light is required. This is especially important in floors. Many home owners who decide to put resilient tiles on a workshop floor make the mistake of selecting dark colors.

QUESTION: Among a quantity of tools a neighbor gave me before he moved away was an expansive bit. At least, that's the name imprinted on the side of it. I know it's for drilling holes, but how is it adjusted?

ANSWER: An expansive bit (sometimes called an expansion bit) takes the place of several different-size bits, since it cuts holes of various sizes. You'll see a screw down near the cutting end. This screw is for adjusting the cutter. On most bits, one complete turn enlarges or reduces the size of the hole to be cut by ⅛", a half turn by 1-16". A little testing with the bit you have will determine how to make the adjustments. Because of the cutting action of an expansive bit, it has a tendency to split or splinter the wood as the point goes through. To prevent this, clamp a piece of scrap wood to the back of the wood being drilled.

QUESTION: I have heard that a small pipe leak can be repaired with fiber glass. How is this possible?

ANWER: It's done with a kind of fiber glass cloth that is wound around the area of the leak. However, the cloth must be coated with an epoxy resin both before and after it is tightened around the pipe. When the resin hardens, it blocks the hole in the pipe and is waterproof.

Hire Your Painter, Paperhanger Early

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you want paperhangers and painters to include you in their plans this fall, better tell them. And an early call to the slipcoverer or upholsterer will avoid hysterics at the last minute, also.

Professional help isn't always easy to find if you can't do these jobs yourself. But don't give up easily.

Try local handymen first. A good way to locate help is by the simple expedient of inquiring at stores in your neighborhood. Paint and wallpaper dealers know paperhangers and painters who buy from them. Stores that sell sewing supplies often have lists of women who make their living sewing and upholstering.

The yellow pages of the phone book is another good place to look. And if you want reassurance, many workman belong to a Painting and Decorating Contractors Association, a national organization pledged to doing reliable and responsible work. Or check in your neighborhood to see if the person you are about to hire has done work for anyone.

Costs of painting, papering and sewing varies from community to community, but you can ask for an estimate of the job. An estimate should determine the rollage that will be required, so there is no question of having to order more paper, for instance. Besides the increased cost and time lost, paper can vary in color from lot to lot, and you may not be able to match it. (This is a point also to keep in mind in respect to fabric.)

The paperhanger's quotation of job costs might be on the basis of so much per roll, so much per room or at so much per hour, explains the Wallpaper Council. The hourly cost often is used as an estimate where the job might be unusual or intricate. The cost, per roll of 36 square feet, can vary from $1 to $6 per roll, depending on the type of paper used and the amount needed for the job, says the council. A single bathroom would be more costly per roll, they advise, than two or three bedrooms done at one time, because of time consumed traveling and setting up for a smaller number of rolls hung.

It is well to find out whether your paperhanger will prepare walls for papering, or if he expects you or someone else to do it. He should know, too, whether he is expected to hang new paper over old or on paint or on new walls. Some walls such as gypsum board should be prime sealed, says the council.

If you are hanging fabrics such as burlap, vinyl or grass cloth, make sure you know what you are doing if you are a do-it-yourselfer. Get advice from the manufacturer of the product before attempting the job. Special adhesives and backings may be required.

Mrs. Connally Finds Doors, Then Gets House For Them

By ERNEST STROMBERGER

FLORESVILLE (AP) — For years Mrs. Nellie Connally has wanted a home with unique front doors.

In 1961 she finally found the front doors, and 10 others as well.

This month she got a house to use the doors in.

The 10 - room, two - story Lueders stone house sits on a knoll about seven miles west of Floresville, providing a clear view of Gov. John Connally's 1,200 - acre ranch and rolling South Texas hills up to eight miles away.

After trying out several names, the Connally's settled on Picosa for a nearby creek, it's a Spanish word meaning hot like Pepper.

Texas' first family opened what Mrs. Connally calls their dream house to newsmen Thursday, less than a week after they moved in and a year after construction began.

Seventeen Southern governors, due to attend an annual conference next week in nearby San Antonio, will be entertained there Sunday night.

"The house was designed around the doors and the iron railing," Mrs. Connally told reporters.

"I've always wanted unusual front doors," she began, and related how she rescued the doors, floor tile and iron grillwork of a 1740 English town house which was being demolished. This was during a trip to London while Connally was secretary of the Navy.

"John was held up on business, and I made the man wait until he could come see the doors," she said.

The 11 doors, with fired clay trim, arrived four months later in Texas. Each is a little more than eight feet tall.

"They had 40 or 45 coats of varnish on them, and we stripped it all off," Connally said.

The black and white tile was laid in the dining room. The iron railing was used across the front porch, as fireplace ornaments, and on the inside staircase.

The long wood and iron stair railing, which Mrs. Connally proudly claims is "our pri-i-i-ze thing," descends from a library which overlooks the family room.

Warm tones of the naturally finished doors, which are used in almost all rooms, carry out a masculine air throughout the house except in the formally furnished living and dining rooms.

All other rooms are paneled with such woods as white oak, red oak, ash, cypress and magnolia.

The masculine atmosphere also is reflected in paintings, most of which are of ranch scenes.

The dining room, which carries out a Georgian motif as well as the living room, has a heavy, 13-foot-long ebony table purchased in Mexico. It seats 12.

Most of the living room furniture and many other items in the spacious house are things the Connallys picked up over the last 15 years.

His wife said Connally never misses an auction.

"I'm probably the only wife in captivity that says 'No, we don't need that,'" she said. "It's usually the other way around."

Along with much furniture from the Yount estate in Beaumont, items purchased at auction include many old livestock books collected by Connally.

The architecture, he said, could be termed ranch style except that it has a second story which accommodates the library and study.

Below are the dining and living rooms. To the rear of these rooms is a 41x18 foot family room with cathedral ceilings.

Four bedrooms and baths form a one-story wing, and the kitchen and walk-in freezer the other.

The cost was "too much" but has not been figured, Connally said.

Library Notes

Thirty-six children's books — Thirty - six children's books, written by Edward W. Dolch were added this week to shelves in the juvenile section of the Scurry County Library. Dolch is known as one of the very best contemporary authors of children's literature.

These books are designed for children from grade one through the fourth. Each book is beautifully illustrated. These easy-to-read books make excellent supplementary school reading or may be read for pure recreational enjoyment. The well - chosen subject material in these delightful stories caters to children's natural instincts and encourages independent reading. When a child discovers that he can read for himself he finds that reading is really fun.

Appealing to children's love for animals and birds is a group of true stories. These include "In the Woods," an intriguing story of what goes on in the deep wood and of the animals that live there; "Monkey Friends," a story of real monkey adventures; "Some are Small," stories of small animals o' the woods that make good pets; "Tommy's Pets," wherein two dogs, a cat, a robin and a squirrel add much to a boy's life in the city; "Dog Stories" and "More Dog Stories," incorporating many delightful stories about the intelligence and devotion to man displayed by dogs of many breeds, and "Bear Stories," true stories about wild and dangerous bears, lovable bears and trained bears.

Other true stories include "Zoo is Home," an account of animals' life in a zoo; "Circus Stories," selected from real stories about clowns, acrobats and animals under the Big Top; "Elephant Stories," fascinating stories of how elephants are caught, how they are trained and about some of the amazing and funny things they do; "On the Farm," where there is never a dull moment and where the unexpected is always happening; "Horse Stories," about all kinds of horses, including race horses, work horses and circus horses, and "Lion and Tiger Stories," telling of the animals' cunning and intelligence and about man's struggle to catch and tame them.

Folklore of many countries is represented by Dolch in many of his books. "Animal Stories" is a book in which animals talk, think and act like real people. Folk tales handed down for many generations are retold in "Folk Stories," which incorporates such tales as "The Three Bears," "Little Red Riding Hood" and "The Gingerbread Boy." Tales of fairies and spirits of olden times are told in "Irish Stories" and gives much about the daily life of the Irish people.

Books to unlock a whole new range of reading adventures are found in stories from around the world. 'Stories from Old China" tells of magic and mystery, of bravery and legends of gods and spirits, and reflects the ways of life in different parts of China and gives reasons for certain Chinese customs. A collection of some of the world's oldest stories is to be found in "Stories from Old Egypt." These stories feature legends and tales originally found in tomb carvings and ancient papyrus manuscripts. Russian folktales, which have provided inspiration for poems, plays and operas, are written into Dolch's book, "Stories from Old Russia." Fascinating stories set in pastoral simplicity are in the book, "Stories from France," along with tales of castles and kings.

Tales of folklore and life in the two newest states of the U.S. are also included in this interesting collection. Customs and beliefs of Indians and Eskimos before they began to imitate white settlers are vividly portrayed in the book, "Stories from Alaska." With story telling magic, the author gives a young reader a clear picture of the Hawaiian Islands in his book, "Stories from Hawaii."

Other stories gathered from over the world include charming stories of the real Japan. "Stories from Japan", is made up of tales about people who live in remote mountain hamlets of villages by the sea. "Stories from Mexico" is a book of typical Mexican folklore. The stories are an intriguing mixture of the old and the new which is evident always in the Mexican's love of ancient customs and colorful ceremonies. The young reader will gain insight into Spain's ancient civilization in "Stories from Spain." These old stories date from the time when Spain was divided into many small kingdoms.

Exotic stories of culture in distant lands is to be found in "Far East Stories." These stories are planned to make children want to read more about these strange and faraway places. Famous Greek heroes and gods and the wonderful things they were supposed to do are depicted in "Greek Stories." "Old World Stories" is a compilation of well known stories selected from hundreds of favorites over the years. It includes such stories as "Dick Whittington" and "Why the Sea Is Salt."

In his book, "Bible Stories" Dolch has pointed up the drama and human wisdom found in great tales of the Old Testament to promote awareness of the Bible's rich meaning for the young reader. The story of Jesus takes on beautiful, new and deeper meaning in 'Gospel Stories" especially retold for young readers.

Three books, ideal for remedial reading are retold classics. These tales are simply retold in "Aesop's Stories" wherein animals point the way to basic morals. A book of simple nature stories, such as "The Ugly Duckling" and fanciful stories like "The Little Tin Soldier," is based on tales originally told by Hans Christian Andersen. Such stories as 'Snow White" and 'The Brave Little Tailor" are charmingly retold by Dolch in "Fairy Stories."

Several of the old classics have been rewritten by Dolch so that younger children may enjoy them. In an adaption from "Gulliver's Travels" the land of the little people loses none of its fascination for the youthful reader. The smaller child may now read and enjoy 'Robinson Crusoe" and experience the thrills, suspense and adventure of this classic. Robin Hood roams again with his band of men through the old forests and will appeal to the small child of today. These books are simply titled "Gulliver's Stories and "Robin Hood Stories."

Famous figures from the "Arabian Nights" come alive on the printed page for the very young reader in retold tales of Aladdin, Ali Baba and Sinbad. These mature, well - loved stories are written in simple language so that children can read and enjoy them.

In all classic tales, folklore and true stories written by Dolch, the youthful reader may derive much pleasure not only from the stories themselves, but from his or her success in being able to read them.

Cooks Share Recipes With Friends

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

COOKS ARE often accused of withholding their secrets.

But not those cooks who send, as a gift to friends, a handwritten or privately printed collection of their favorite recipes.

It was in a privately printed cook book that we came upon an unusual and delectable way of preparing halibut. We're delighted to pass along our detailed version of the recipe.

What does this dish have in its special favor?

It is easy to prepare.

It uses a fine fish.

It's sauce is an interesting conbination of flavors.

It is attractive enough to serve to guests.

It makes a fine Friday offering.

So here, for your approval, is Halibut Luia.

HALIBUT LUIA

2 pounds halibut, or 2 large or 4 small steaks cut ½ to ¾ inch thick
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup heavy cream
¼ cup firmly packed grated sharp cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons catchup
1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons minced parsley
Paprika

Arrange halibut steaks in a shallow baking - serving dish just large enough to hold fish in a single layer — about 8 by 12 inches. Dot fish with 1 tablespoon of the butter; sprinkle with lemon juice, onion, salt and pepper. Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven 10 to 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Meanwhile prepare the sauce: In a small saucepan put the remaining 2 tablespoons butter, cream, cheese, catchup, Worcestershire and parsley. Stir constantly over very low heat just until cheese is melted; remove from heat.

When fish is cooked, remove from oven. Tilt dish so that juice runs to one corner; draw off juice with a bulb - type baster; reserve juice for some other dish, if you like. Pour prepared sauce over fish; sprinkle with paprika. Broil fairly close to heat until tinged with brown — about 3 to 5 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

HALIBUT STEAKS, sauced with a delicious combination of ingredients, is fine fare for guests or just the family.

Capturing The Flash Inspiration

THE ACT OF CREATION. By Arthur Koestler.

In these days when nearly every layman seems to consider himself a do-it-yourself psychologist, it stands to reason that a wide range of readers—not just the professionsals—should be interested in this volume.

Koestler's position is that behaviorism puts man into a straitjacket — even though it may be an elastic jacket —and reduces him to a conditioned robot.

He contends that the act of creation, whether accomplished by a scientist or an artist, involves certain phenomena of the conscious and unconscious mind that have patterns in common, which are shared by all levels of organic life.

The behaviorist school is right only to a certain point, he says, and his theory begins where behaviorism leaves off.

Fortunately for the lay reader, Koestler has described his whole theory of the act of creation in nontechnical language, in the first 409 of these 751 pages. In the remainder, he uses more technical language to show 'that phenomena analogous to creative originality can be found at all levels" of the living world.

The author is attempting a tremendous task, for he is seeking to capture the moment of truth the flash of insight which marks both scientific discovery and artistic inspiration. He is dealing with laughter and weeping, with imagery and imagination, with poets, painters and philosophers.

In short, Koestler is on the trail of genius. The trail leads him through tremendously broad fields of science, history, art and literature; his erudition is amazing.

Many laymen will be daunted by the technical discussions in the back of the book. But many a diligent reader will find the exposition of Koestler's thory a fascinating view of the human mind.

Bul Go Gi Festive Korean Food Is Served

By WAKA TSUNODA
AP Newsfeatures

Ladies in chima and jogori (a kimonolike blouse and long skirt) swish their way among dinner tables; their deft fingers are holding trays full of Korean food.

Jong Kook Song, manager of Korea House at the World's Fair says:

"When I picked these girls from numerous applicants, I did not put much weight on their appearance, because I thought their knowledge of English and Korean history were more important.

"American fair visitors, to my surprise, are apparently impressed with their beauty and graciousness. But nobody so far has asked any questions on Korean history. I don't understand it."

The dish Song wishes to introduce is Bul (fire) Go Gi (meat).

In Korea meat is scarce. Any dish which uses meat is a festive one. A middle-class family would have Bul Go Gi once in 10 days.

Koreans love to eat out. It is not expensive. A good dish of Bul Go Gi may cost 60 to 65 cents. And no tipping.

No tipping here, too, if you turn your stove into a Korean restaurant kitchen.

BUL GO GI (CHARCOAL BROILED BEEFSTEAK)

1 pound beef
4 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons oil
6 tablespoons soy sauce
Speck pepper
1 green onion
1 clove garlic
4 tablespoons prepared sesame seed
1 tablespoon flour
Water

Cut beef into thin slices 3 inches square. Add sugar and oil. Mix well. Combine soy sauce, pepper, chopped onion (including top), chopped garlic, prepared sesame seed and flour. Add to the meat: Mix well.

Let stand 15 minutes. Broil on charcoal fire, or fry in small amount of oil until tender. If frying meat, cover tightly after it is well browned. Add small amount of water and steam until meat is tender. Serve hot.

6 servings.

Prepared Sesame Seed

1 cup white sesame seed
1 tablespoon salt

Put in heavy skillet and brown slowly, stirring constantly. When seeds are brown and rounded, remove at once from the fire. Add salt. Mash seeds until pulverized.

Newsman's Anecdotes In Rome

AN AMERICAN IN ROME. By Michael Stern.

New York - born newspaperman Michael Stern arrived in Rome in 1944 as a war correspondent, and his book leaves the impression that neither he nor the Eternal City has been quite the same since.

Written in a sometimes breezy, sometimes serious style, the book is largely a series of reminiscences of Sterns 20 years as a Rome - based newspaperman, magazine writer and host to hundreds of the greater and lesser lights of show business, cafe society and journalism.

Some of her anecdotes are fascinating and the rest are at least entertaining. But oddly enough, the most interesting ones to this reader are those that have the least to do with Rome.

—Stern's coverage of The liberation of the Dachau concentration camp inmates — some of whom battered two SS guards to death as Stern looked on — and of the freeing of famed anti-Nazi pastor Martin Niemoller.

—The tracking down and interviewing of Sicilian "Robin Hood bandit king Salvatore Guilliano, who wanted then President Harry S. Truman to send him tanks to help Sicily win independence.

—The execution of Anton Dostler, the first German general convicted of war crimes.

—The recap of what probably is Stern's most famous story, the slaying of U.S. Army Maj. William Holohan and the theft of $100,00 in gold purportedly by two of Holohan's associates in a wartime OSS project to arm and orgunize Italian partisans for the liberation of Italy from Nazi rule.

Some of his comments and anecdotes on Roman life are equally readable — his difficulties with Italian landlords, for example — but several are marred by excessive length and others by Stern's less-than-successful attempts to wax lyrical or philosophical.

Kicking Over The Traces

THE GLOUCESTER BRANCH. By John Leggett.

Time-encrusted Boston and its gentility-soaked North Shore are the scenes of Leggett's novel about an overblown marriage that has reached its critical point.

Sam Fayles, a customer's man in a Boston brokerage house, feels at the age of 43 that life's frustrating patterns have put him in a very dead end, in both his career and his marriage.

He decides to enliven his career prospects by arguing his stuffy employers into underwriting the efforts of a fast-talking promoter named Martin Chalk to resuscitate a moribund publishing house. On the emotional side, he undertakes a bit of dalliance with a sweet young thing, Alice Broadwater.

The narrative covers only three days (not counting flashbacks), Friday through Sunday. But in this short time all the cross currents of Fayles' life meet in a swirl.

The author has portrayed the marriage through a contrast between courting days (these are the flashbacks) and the current weekend, during which his hero takes on the role of a real stinker. Fayles' wife Julia is at fault, too, but there is no doubt where the main trouble lies.

All this is told against a background of sophisticated, acidulous observations on the North Shore's precious, fossilized mentality.

Leggett is in the tradition of the novelists who chronicle the upper social life of an age, with literary eclat and intelligent skill. He writes well and he has things to say about the tweedy

Red Troublemakers Failing To Gain African Foothold

By LYNN HEINZERLING

CAIRO (AP) — Russian and Chinese Communists have succeeded in sowing discontent, rebellion and bloodshed in Africa, but they have failed thus far in their main job of securing a solid foothold on the continent.

In the battle for Africa, serious rivalry has developed between the Russians and the Red Chinese. They are peddling different brands of communism and fighting each other for the territory — a struggle accentuated by their own ideological split.

Five years of Marxist propaganda, tantilizing offers of nearly a billion dollars in aid, thousands of Communist technicians, many scholarships and free trips behind the Iron Curtain have failed to produce a single Communist government in Africa.

There are African governments practicing diluted forms of socialism. There are some Marxist-minded Cabinet ministers. Many African leaders have made the pilgrimage to Moscow and Peking. There is endless talk about 'African socialism."

But there is no African state which could qualify as a member of the Communist bloc. Nor do the prospects seem bright.

Communism needs a base deep in central Africa to operate successfully against the rich, white-ruled lands in southern Africa. That is where the Red challenge is being made.

The Republic of the Congo — the former Belgian Congo — would be a handsome prize. Red China is supporting the rebellion against the central government of Premier Moise Tshombe there. In 1960 the Russians tried to move in on that government, then headed by Patrice Lumumba.

Chinese money and arms were behind the bloody and costly effort by Watusi tribesmen to overthrow the government of neighboring Rwanda last December.

The Chinese Reds have established an embassy of 27 members in Bujumbura, the country town capital of Burundi, just across the Congo's eastern border. Brazzaville, across the Congo River from Leopoldville, harbors more.

Only a few weeks ago Dr. Hastings Banda, prime minister of Malawi, the former Nyasaland, angrily told the world that his government had been offered $50 million to recognize the Peking government. In Maqawi the Chinese would be within a few miles of Mozambique, Portugal's East African territory.

Subversion in the Congo has now reached the point where a "People's Republic" has been proclaimed in Stanleyville by the rebels. The "government" is headed by Christophe Gbenya, once a follower of Lumumba.

But Western diplomats do not give the people's republic of Stanleyville much chance of surviving. African nations which might have supported the rebel government have become wary. The Organization of African unity, a loose organization of delegates of the new African nations, has at least seen the threat which Red China's revolutionary methods poses to unity.

The Sino-Soviet split undoubtedly is one reason for the increased activity of Peking in Africa. Premier Chou En-lai of Red China made a strenuous African tour during the past year, and 14 African nations now have diplomatic relations with Peking.

The Soviet Union has exchanged diplomats with 26 African countries. China appears determined to impose her views on Africa to the exclusion of the Soviet Union's brand of communism.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev, well aware of Chinese efforts in Africa, has been promising to visit countries in East Africa and West Africa for four years. But apparently the arduous journey still does not seem worthwhile to him.

Some African countries certainly have drawn benefits from help provided by Moscow and Peking and it is not inconceivable that Moscow or Peking one day will succeed in securing a genuine puppet state in Africa. But African leaders are jealous of their newly won independence.

They could not fail to see the future planned for them in the clumsy and undisguised attempt by Communists to take over the Zanzibar government after last January's coup there.

Almost overnight all the trappings of Communist rule descended on the tiny spice island off Tanganyika — the "People's malitia," nationalization of private property, concentration camps, Soviet arms shipments, stiffly controlled entry and exit and confiscation of farms.

Certainly President Julius Nyerere of Tanganyika and Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya saw the danger and Nyerere moved swiftly.

With the power of Zanzibar President Abeid Karume slipping into the hands of Communist sympathizers in his government, Nyerere and Karume abruptly announced the union of Tanganyika and Zanzibar. Communist controls are gradually being eliminated.

There is nothing subtle about Communist efforts to move into Africa. Stories of African leaders who are on the Peking payroll are numerous.

The long campaign to install a Communist government in the Congo by any means is brazen and open. The Soviet Union first tried to insinuate its way into the government of Prime Minister Lumumba only a few weeks after independence in 1960. It failed.

A rival government established by Lumumba's follower, Antoine Gizenga, was set up in Stanleyville. It was supported and financed by the Communist bloc and a few African nations. That, too, was unsuccessful.

For the past six months, Peking has been trying to bring down the Congolese government by more direct and bloodier methods. The Red Chinese have supported rebellions at various points in the Congo, supplying funds, advice and blueprints for sowing subversion and terror.

The governments of the neighboring states of Burundi and the Congo Republic, with its capital at Brazzaville — formerly the French Congo — have made a grisly joke of the campaign for African unity by permitting the leaders of these rebellions and the Red Chinese to establish headquarters on their soil.

The revolt in the eastern Congo was masterminded by Gaston Soumialot, a dissident Congolese poltician, who set up headquarters in Bujumbura. There is also a topheavy Red Chinese mission there. Soumialot is defense minister in the Stanleyville government.

Junior Editors Quiz on COWS

QUESTION: What are the breeds of cows and where did they come from?

* * *

ANSWER: Cows are female cattle. Our modern cattle are descendants of wild cattle which once roamed through Western Asia, Europe and North Africa (1). In 1493, Columbus brought long-horned cattle to America from Spain, and these have turned into the famous meat-producing breed, the Texas Longhorn. As the pioneers went west, cattle moved with them. We illustrate the five most important breeds of dairy cattle, which are raised principally for milk. Ayrshire cattle are either red or brown or nearly all white and come from the mountains near Ayr in Scotland. They are very sturdy. Coming from The Netherlands and Germany in 1795, Holstein cows are the largest dairy breed, producing more milk than any other. They are white or black or mixed. Jersey cows are smaller than others and produce less milk, but it is the richest in cream. Fawn-colored or sometimes darker, they were brought from the island of Jersey in 1850 (2). Brown Swiss are larger, are usually brown or greyish brown, and their milk is very good for cheese-making. They came from Switzerland in 1869. Guernseys have reddish coats with white markings and come from the island of Guernsey (2) in the Channel Islands. Their milk is rich in butterfat and they produce good amounts of it.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: Color the different cows as we suggest above and see if you can identify the breeds next time you see some dairy cattle.

Pre-Chinese Opera Was Double Din

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — The traditional Chinese opera of gongs, shrieks and postures which Mao Tze-Tung loves so passionately is going through Communist growing pains.

For nearly a year the Communist Party has tried to pour the ancient Chinese art form into the strait jacket of Marxist ideology. The world of the opera, one of robust individualism, appears to have resisted.

The party, tackled the problem of adapting the opera to modernday Communist thinking in its usual direct manner. It gathered up opera singers, dancers, musicians, stagehands, assorted comedians and acrobats and hauled them off to the countryside, to factories and army units "to establish closer contacts with the masses of the workers, peasants and soldiers."

Only 'Initial Successes'

The reactions of the artists, a temperamental clan in a temperamental art, were not published. But the Kwangming Daily was able to report that after this long indoctrination only "initial successes have been achieved.

It added, perhaps a little faintly, "this is a great task that will require effort over a long period.

The Chinese opera at its best and most pleasing is a blend of strenous effort on stage and cheerful audience anarchy.

Its performers spend hours before each appearance applying heavy layers of face paint and donning heavy costumes encrusted with gold and silver thread, brilliant silks and feathered headdresses.

The face paints, in startling combinations of red, yellow, blue, green, black and white, give the audience ready clues to the character of the actor — villain, general, hero, courtier, clown or princess.

The themes of the great Chinese operas are drawn from history and legend and often portray brilliant military exploits.

Mao, an avid opera enthusiast, has said he got the inspiration for some of his earlier military tactics from these ancient tales.

Even when Communist fortunes seemed at their lowest in the days he lived in the cave capital of Yenan in northwest China, Mao took time out to watch the opera.

Bundled in faded and patched cotton clothes, his stockingless feet perched on a faintly glimmering charcoal brazier, he often sat in zero temperatures through hours of what only could be described as superb din.

Din Hit Tooth Nerve

The Chinese opera places a premium on falsetto singing, particularly in the male parts. The talking parts are punctuated by thunderous thumping on the drums and heroic clashes of the cymbals. The writer, who has sat through marathon performances both with Mao and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, once developed a piercing toothache set up by the vibrations from the stage.

In the old days, the audience provided nearly as much entertainment as the performers. Seated cross - legged on the chairs, their trousers hitched up to their knees, fanning themselves vigorously, the men spend their time cracking watermelon seeds, drinking steaming cups of chrysanthemum tea and exchanging gossip with the women. Squalling children and their nurse-amahs contributed to the happy confusion.

The upper air sometimes became electric with the movement of inquisitive birds and wet towels sailing from vendor to customer, who mopped his perspiring face before settling down to serious conversation.

At the appearance of a great actor, all the confusion halted temporarily while the spectators burst into applause.

On stage, the singers caterwauled, the acrobats leapt high in the air, the heroine shrilled and the hero struck heroic poses, as though the audience's reaction was the most natural thing in the world.

A recent visitor to Peking reports that all this now has changed. This traveler attended an opera performance in the capital and related sadly that the hall was immaculately clean, the audience decorous and silent, the applause almost nonexistent and the seats only half filled.

"Something seemed to be missing," he said. "I think it was Chinese clan."
