Q. Are there any significant changes in the football rules that we should look for this year?

A. Head Coach Tom Ramsey, said there were 34 changes made in the NCAA rules this year, which affect high school play as well. The most noticeable will be the points-after-touchdown plays. On blocked PAT kicks or pass interceptions, the ball will still be alive and the defense can advance the ball. If the defensive returns all the way to the goal line, it will count 2 points.

'Average' cotton crop to mature early

Tailgating at Turnrow...

Dr. Tom Fuchs, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Service (right) is shown visiting with some of the local farmers attending the Turnrow Meeting last Wednesday. After inspecting several local fields, Dr. Fuchs judged that the local crop would be about 'average' and should be harvested early.

Spotty rains, insects cause crop damage

"An average crop that will mature early," was the assessment of the Mitchell County cotton crop by Dr. Tom Fuchs, district entomologist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service from San Angelo.

After a brief inspection of several local fields, Dr. Fuchs told a group of local farmers attending the Turnrow Meeting Wednesday, "that spotty rains and insect problems have reduced the expected yields and grades to some extent, but it will still be a good crop ... but not as good as last year."

Due to the weather conditions, he said the crop will mature early this year. But this will be helpful in controlling the insect problem next year.

The drier areas are not under as much attack from insects, mostly boll weevils, as the larger sub-irrigated plants, so some insect control is still needed. "At this stage, more rain will be of little help," he said, "for the plants are not likely to produce significant new fruit."

Therefore, Dr. Fuchs, urged to local farmers to get the crops out of the fields as soon as possible. Every week's delay will be costly in lower grades, with little more yield. Plus, with the crops out of the fields longer over the winter months, it will help deter the bollworm and weevil problem next year. There has been a greater infestation of these crop-damaging insects this year than in several years past.

County Agent Mike Mauldin said a planning meeting will be scheduled soon on defoliation procedures.

Jobless rate dips to 9.2% during July

Mitchell County's July unemployment rate dropped a point from the previous month, but still remains second highest of the year.

The Texas Employment Commission estimated the unemployment for the county at 9.2%. Highest for the year was in June, at 10.2%.

The TEC estimated that the total work force in Mitchell County in July was 4,046, with 3,675 with jobs. This leaves 371 as unemployed.

The unemployment rate by month thus far for the year has been: Jan. 8.2%, Feb. 8.7, Mar. 8.1, Apr. 7.5, May 8.2, Jun. 10.2, Jul. 9.2.

Local oil operator fined

AUSTIN—An oil & gas operator in Mitchell County has been assessed a fine for violation of well-plugging rules.

The Railroad Commission of Texas announced Tuesday that WMT Operating Co., Inc. of Lubbock had been assessed a fine of $3,000 for a well on the Ritchey "C" lease in Mitchell County.

The local operator was one of nine operators who were penalized a total of $19,500 this week for problems under the Commission well plugging rules.

To date in 1988, the Commission has levied more than $719,000 in pollution and well plugging penalties.

$43,000 received from bank tax

City, school, county, hospital benefit

The various taxing entities in Mitchell County have received a total of $43,163.03 from the state bank franchise tax.

The total was the county's share of $51.2 million in bank franchise tax allocations sent to 2,070 Texas taxing units.

Colorado ISD got the biggest share, receiving $16,162.03, a gain of 9.95 percent over last year's $14,698.96. The City of Colorado City was next with $10,493.56, up 4.58 percent from the $10,034.10 received last year.

Mitchell County District enjoyed the largest increase of 17.04 percent, receiving $5,520.27 as compared to $4,716.38 last year.

Mitchell County received $7,139.61, down -.42 percent from $7,170.06.

The City of Loraine received $1,424.86, down -.714 percent and the Loraine ISD got $2,422.70, down -1.79 percent.

Few incidents reported to police

Only a few incidents were reported to Colorado City Police late this week.

Wednesday, Aug. 24, Manager David Janca reported a theft of some cash from the Chamber of Commerce office; Donny Dering, 443 E. 18th reported a stolen wallet; and one man was arrested on a TDC warrant.

Thursday, Aug. 25, a man was arrested in the 1700 block of College on a public intoxication charge, and Ernesto Diaz, 943 Independence called in a harassment incident.

Also last Monday, the police investigated one minor traffic accident. At 10:25 a.m. a 1979 Chevrolet pickup driven by Dorothy Roberts Forbes of Colorado City, was being followed by a 1979 Cadillac sedan, driven by Brian Oather McGowen of Colorado City, both westbound on East Central. The pickup slowed down and was hit in the rear by the Cadillac. The police report indicated possible injury to the pickup driver.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock stated that this year's allocations are 21 percent lower than last year, state wide.

The franchise tax is paid by banks that do business in Texas. Banks must file a report by March 15 of each year.

The bank franchise tax rate is the same as the state's corporate franchise tax rate—$6.70 per $1,000 of taxable capital and surplus, with a minimum tax of $150. The Texas Legislature authorized the bank franchise tax in 1984 and the tax was collected for the first time in 1985. Some of the tax goes into the state's general revenue fund, but most of it is allocated to local tax jurisdictions.

Hospital needs to be analyzed

The Mitchell County Hospital District Board of Directors Tuesday night agreed to have a planning analysis conducted concerning the future needs and of the hospital.

The action came following a presentation by Bob Cox of Cox-Croslin and Associates of Austin who submitted plans for to complete an analysis for a price not to exceed $10,600.

The only other bidder was Harwood K. Smith and Associates of Dallas for $30,000. The Dallas firm did not have a representative at Tuesday night's meeting.

Cox said his firm has a "long-track record" in health care experience and has an 18-person staff. The analysis should be completed within 10 weeks after it is started, he said.

To be addressed in the analysis will be present staff, facilities, market area and possible financing methods if and when the board decides to do something as far as renovating the present facility or building a new one.

"The board has absolute control all the way through the process," said Cox.

In other business, the board approved the purchase of a new portable X-ray machine for $10,300 to replace one that no longer works. Bids opened for used machines were $3,800 and $7,500. The new machine carries a five year warranty except for the tube which has a one-year warranty.

Hospital administrator Ray Mason introduced Mary Ann Williamson, new director of the Home Health Care Agency. The native West Texan has 25 years nursing experience with 20 years in home health care. She moved

FROM THE SCRIPTURES—A parody on Genesis 47:6: "The land of the United States is before you. Have your father and brothers dwell in the best of the land; let them dwell in the land of Texas. And if you know any competent men among them, then make them the quarterbacks over my team."

Kirk Dooley, in The Book of Texas Bests to be published by Taylor Publishing Co., Oct. 31, 1988, has stated that the "Best Football Game" is the annual Texas-Oklahoma bash in Dallas.

Dooley, creator of the Texas Trivia board game and author of Hidden Dallas, has few rivals when it comes to knowing about Texas. But even prior to publication of his new book, this statement on Texas football has been called into severe question. All Texans know that if Oklahoma didn't raid the Texas schoolboy ranks each year during the recruiting season to fill their roster, they couldn't beat the University of Vermont in a game of marbles. Critics say anything relating to a bunch of Okies and renegade Texans has little to do with the BEST of Texas.

Thus, the publishers of the book are wanting your opinions on this matter. They would like to know what you think was the Best Texas Football game ever—high school, college, or pro? Of course, the examples are legion: San Antonio Breckenridge vs San Antonio Lee in the high school playoffs, TCU's 6-0 upset of Texas in Austin while the Longhorns were ranked #1 in the nation, or the classic Dallas Cowboys-Washington Redskins game on Thanksgiving Day in 1974. If you want to participate, send your choice to "Best of Texas, Taylor Publishing Co., 1550 W. Mockingbird, Dallas, TX 75235. Dooley will mail a personally autographed copy of his new book to the person with the best answer.

THE LONE WOLF SAYS, "No matter how high the throne one sits on, one still sits on one's bottom."

"Nobody likes me at school," said the son. "The teachers don't, and the kids don't. The superintendent wants to transfer me, and the custodians have it in for me. I don't want to go."

"You have to go," the mother insisted. "You're healthy. You have a lot to learn. You've got something to offer others. You are a leader. Besides, you are 49 years old. You're the principal, and you have to go to school."

DID YOU KNOW? There were 682,000 student drop outs in the nation's schools last year—3,789 a day.

I'll admit it was not the kind of vacation that I was really looking forward to.

Hot, humid Florida in August?

No way, I thought. That kind of climate just isn't compatible with fat people like me.

However, thanks to a tropical depression somewhere close by, the weather was unseasonably tolerable so that my wife and I and our 11 year old were able to enjoy all the tourist-type attractions in comfort.

This was our first trip to Florida, so we wanted to see everything possible during the six days we were to be there. We opted to rent a car so we could come and go on our own schedule rather than have to keep up with a tourist bus schedule.

After arriving at the Orlando airport and after waiting for what seemed an eternity to get the keys to our rent car, we raced to the parking garage, threw our luggage in the trunk and took off.

The airport is being expanded so there is a lot of work going on around the rental car pickup/return area.

I drove out of the parking area into what looked like a major construction area. Men with hardhats were looking at us curiously as I searched for an exit. Actually, we weren't alone. There were rental cars in front of us and behind us filled with wide-eyed tourists hoping to catch a glimpse of the Magic Kingdom.

Finally, I stopped and asked a worker how to get out of the airport. He pointed in an opposite direction I had been driving.

Undaunted, I turned the car around and in a cloud of dust, we were off again. Looking in my rearview mirror, I saw a scene that resembled a bunch of ants running around in circles as the other tourist-filled rental cars continued to invade the construction zone.

Actually, driving in Florida is relatively simple. The highways are marked well enough so that even the average tourist knows where to exit for most of the attractions.

True, there were times when we wondered whether or not we were going in the right direction. However, we learned that if we followed the other rental cars that seemed to fill the highways, we would probably arrive at our pre-determined destination.

There was only one instance while driving in which my wife and I almost got into a major "discussion".

We were on our way to the Kennedy Space Center which was about an hour away from our hotel.

I was trying to read the signs that were directing us to the "Spaceport", the center where visitors can view films and exhibits, buy souvenirs and catch buses to get closeup views of the space shuttle.

"The 'sports center' is up ahead on the right," my wife said in a matter-of-fact tone.

"Aren't we going to the Kennedy Space Center?" I asked.

"Yes. The sports center is on the right," she replied, with a hint of agitation in her voice.

I thought perhaps we had changed our plans for the day and had somehow forgotten where we were going.

I turned to glare at her.

"I don't know what you're talking about. Isn't this Kennedy Space Center?" You must remember, this conversation is going on as we're speeding down an unfamiliar highway at about 60 miles an hour and with gales of laughter coming from Jeffrey in the back seat.

"Yes, this is Kennedy Space Center and the Spaceport is on the right," she said, somewhat unbelieving that I didn't know that "sports center" and "Spaceport" were one and the same.

Somewhat, we managed to get the car parked and get in line for our tickets without a major fight.

Of course, we had already spent two days in Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom. Maybe we were just too tired to fight.

It happened late one night a couple of months ago.

I was returning home from a trip when I saw the figure of a man about six feet tall walking down a lonely road with a white cape wrapped around him in the Big Bend area of Texas.

Normally I don't pick up hitchhikers. But this one seemed especially pathetic. Besides, a storm was brewing and my windshield was already getting splattered with raindrops.

"Need a lift, fella?" I asked, pushing the door open to the passenger-side of my Subaru.

"Thank you, very much, sir," he said, shaking the water out of his salt and pepper hair and wiping his sunglasses with his sissie shirt tail.

"This is no place to be during a storm is it?" I said.

"No sir. It's not. I was beginnin' to think I was gonna be a goner again."

There was something about the man that seemed familiar, but trying to drive a Subaru in Big Bend and looking at a man at the same time isn't easy. Some men might regard such behavior as different, too. So I kept my eyes on the road and in a few seconds the face that seemed so familiar was covered with sunglasses again.

That seemed strange, too, a man wearing sunglasses at 8 o'clock in the evening with a storm coming up. But then, I've never been one to tell people what to wear. If I had, I'd have told him his sideburns had gone out of style years ago.

The last thing I wanted to do was pry. Then again, I just couldn't resist asking him what he was doing so far away from civilization, especially on foot.

"Well sir, I've been to see my mama," he said.

"I see, and you had car trouble and just started walking, right?"

"No sir, I flew to mama's."

"You mean your plane crashed?"

"No sir, not really."

"I see."

Only I didn't, of course.

"That's a nice coat you're wearing there," I said, trying to change the subject. "Looks sort of like a white cape, doesn't it?"

"Yes sir, it does. I'm real proud of it...proud of the people who made it just for me...proud of RCA, the law enforcement officers of this great country...and Mr. Nixon. I'd write a song about 'em, if I could remember how."

"Well, it's good to have friends like that, anyway, isn't it?" I said.

"I have friends all over the world," he said. "But when somebody makes you an outfit like this, well, the least you can do is buy 'em a new car."

"You're telling me you bought somebody a knew car just for making you a suit coat?" I asked.

"Oh, it wasn't just the coat. He made me this wide, sequined belt, too, and these pants. I had to have the pants stitched when I ripped 'em."

"I see. Well, that's a nice outfit. It covered up a lot of bad things, didn't it?"

"Yes sir, this outfit must be a dozen years old if it's a day. I just had to buy the guy a new car to show him my appreciation. That's the way my mom brought me up. She used to say, 'Son, someday when you grow up, people will do nice things for you. The least you can do is repay that kindness with Cadillac's in their front yards.'"

"You say you've been to see your mom. Does she live in Big Bend?"

"No sir, not at all. Mom's been living in heaven for quite a while now."

"I see."

"So you're just walking around in Big Bend after visiting your mom in heaven, eh," I said, trying not to sound too skeptical.

"No sir, not really. The thing is, we live together up there. She said she wanted to keep an eye on me - ever since the drug thing, you know."

"Say, you wouldn't happen to be..."

At that very moment, a huge bolt of lightning seemed to hit the Subaru, lighting it up - for maybe two seconds - like a nuclear bomb.

"Wow! That was close," I said, pushing my heart back into my chest cavity.

Only the hitchhiker was gone. So was the storm. The clouds had disappeared just as quickly, and the stars were suddenly shining brighter than ever on a hot summer night.

"Who was that man?" I kept asking myself. "He seemed like such a nice fella. Down to earth, except for the fact that he lived in heaven."

You'd have never known it if he hadn't mentioned it, though. He was just a good ol' boy who somehow seemed special. The kind of fella you might meet up with in a Burger King.

If you happen to run across him yourself some night during one of your own storms, I can only ask that you remember one thing: Don't be cruel.

Wilson reunion held

The descendants of H.B. and Dellie Wilson of Loraine held a family reunion on Saturday, Aug. 20, at the Lake Colorado City State Park.

The five surviving children - Clara Butler of Loraine, Dewey Wilson of Sweetwater, Elizabeth Elliott of Colorado City, Minnie Martin of Abilene and Edison Wilson of Fredericksburg - were in attendance. Deceased children are Tennis C., Clyde, Beatrice Wilson Bruce and a child who died in infancy.

There were 77 who registered and a copy of the register was made and given to each family present. The ages of those present ranged from five weeks to 94 years. Many pictures were made of the various groups.

Some of the group went swimming and water skiing while others visited and shared pictures of their families.

Family members attended from San Antonio, Stamford, Anna, Plano, Loraine, Houston, Beaumont, Kingwood, Austin, Sweetwater, Roscoe, Carrollton, Fredericksburg, Abilene and Colorado City as well as from Seaford, Va., Santa Monica, Calif. and Torrance, Calif.

Henry Bannon Wilson and Dinella Adelaide Sandlin were married in Landersville, Ala. on Dec. 28, 1887 and moved to Texas in 1900, settling at Garner, Parker County, where Mr. Wilson farmed until 1906.

An article published in the Mitchell County News, Loraine, dated Sept. 20, 1956, about the Wilson family stated:

"After losing their home by fire in November 1906 in Parker County, Texas, Mr. H.B. Wilson began seeking a new location and came west, stopping in Loraine. He liked the location and bought a 160-acre farm southeast of town from Rob Porter. He returned to Parker County and moved the family in December 1906. He bought the rest of the crop that was on his newly purchased place, and gathered 12 bales of cotton. Cotton made a bale to the acre that year; Mr. Watt Collier lived on the place that year and had made the crop.

"The Wilsons built a new house in the Spring of 1907 and for many years the two story white frame house with the green picket fence was a landmark one mile southeast of the town of Loraine. Mrs. Wilson's brother, M.H. Sandlin, was a carpenter and helped build the house.

"Mr. Wilson was a progressive and prosperous farmer. He put out a large orchard of peach, plums and pear trees and a grape vineyard. He sold many bushels of fruit from this orchard and each year also raised water-melons, cantaloupes, sweet potatoes and peanuts for the market.

"Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and family were faithful members of the Loraine Methodist Church, attending all of its activities. He started the move of building the tabernacle, which all of the churches of the town used; it was built on the grounds of the Methodist Church in 1924.

"The Wilsons loved 'to go places' and they attended the State Fair in Dallas several years and also attended the Centennial there. They made several trips back to their former home in Landersville, Ala. Mr. Wilson and a brother, Harvey Wilson, owned the first variety store in Loraine, and later Mr. Wilson owned two business buildings in town.

"After Mr. Wilson died in February, 1939, Mrs. Wilson continued to live on the farm until December 1946, when she sold the place to her oldest daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Butler. She built a new home next door to the Butlers in Loraine."

Mrs. Wilson died on Aug. 6, 1965 at the age of 98 years.

Donna Laurens was promoted from assistant cashier to assistant vice-president. She has been with

Screening draws good response

Over 200 members of the Senior Class program of Mitchell County Hospital took advantage of free cholesterol and hemogram screening recently.

The Senior Class is open to senior citizens and offers a variety of services through Mitchell County Hospital.

Ben Bell, in charge of the hospital lab, said tests were given to 223 people and that 57.8 percent of those showed high cholesterol levels and that 21.5 percent had levels that are high-risk.

Bell said that high cholesterol can be treated by diet and/or medication and results of the tests were sent to the patient and to their family physician.

Because of the response to the screening, hospital administrator Ray Mason said that a similar screening will be offered to the public in near future at a minimal charge - probably $5.

Stenholm annual Fun-Day is scheduled

Local constituents have been invited to attend the annual FUN-Day get together at the Ericksdahl picnic grounds east of Stamford on Saturday, September 10. "Our friends here in the community put in many long hours to make this event a success every year," Stenholm said. "We want to share the hospitality of our home town with everyone in the 17th Congressional District."

Friends gather each September to visit with the Stenholm family and share an old fashioned picnic complete with good food and watermelons produced in the 17th Congressional District, served by Stenholm for the past ten years. The food line will begin at 4:30 p.m.

Each year, Stenholm's colleagues are invited from Washington. Congressman Jake Pickle, who was born in Roscoe and now represents the Austin area, will attend this year. Pickle is the third ranking Democrat member of the Ways & Means Committee. Social Security legislation and all tax matters are in the realm of this committee.

Congressman W. J. "Billy" Tauzin, who serves on the Energy & Commerce Committee will also be on hand. His district in Louisiana has extensive oil and gas production.

The only general practitioner of medicine in the U. S. Congress, Roy Rowland of Georgia, will also be there. Dr. Rowland represents a largely rural area surrounding Macon.

VOCATIONAL NURSES - Gracie Hamilton of Colorado City left, graduated from the vocational nursing course at Western Texas College in ceremonies Thursday night. Rosa Benitez of Loraine, right, received her cap to mark the start of the clinical phase of her training. A reception honored the students and their families following the program at which Dr. Harry Krennek, college president, was speaker.
