The harvesting of the oyster crop in the costal waters of Texas is underway now, and if you are an oyster-eater, there is no reason to have any qualms about eating those being taken from Texas waters if they come from certified sources. The Texas State Department of Health and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. agree on this.

Sea foods have come under scrutiny recently because of contamination by mercury and other harmful substances. However, the Texas State Department of Health reports that only a small portion of Lavaca Bay in Texas is closed to oyster harvesting and even the oysters there seem to be cleansing themselves. Other approved areas are providing quantities of oysters.

The oyster fan is not a half-way person. You either like them or you don't like them, in most cases. Some regard the oyster as one of the true delicacies of the sea, while others insist that the first man to eat an oyster must have been the bravest person of all time. He certainly was no coward.

One of the pet projects of former U. S. Senator Ralph Yarborough may be successfully concluded during this session of Congress. Both of the present Senators, Democrat Lloyd Bentsen and Republican John Tower, have offered bills to establish a Big Thicket National Park in deep East Texas.

Unless there is a squabble over details, it appears certain that such a national park, embracing at least 100,000 acres (and many feel that this would be pinching things a bit) will be formed.

Despite all of the talk about "liberation," a recent survey made for the Institute of Life Insurance indicates that a majority of young girls today look with favor on the "average homemaker image, living a pressure-free life, attending to family interest."

It was the boys participating in the survey who put at the top of their list the traditional success such as prestige, a good address, etc. However, when asked what they expected in their lives 15 years hence, only nine per cent of the boys felt that they would still be single.

Only about 26 per cent of the girls envisioned a career-with-family, and only 14 per cent expressed interest in being "single-with-good-job."—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Sunday, Jan. 31, the 31st day of 1971. There are 334 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1865, Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, appointed Gen. Robert E. Lee commander-in-chief of the Confederate armies.

On this date:

In 1917, Germany announced she was instituting a policy of unrestricted submarine warfare.

In 1926, President Calvin Coolidge was asked by newsmen to comment on remarks attributed to writer Rupert Hughes to the effect that George Washington was "irreligious and pleasureloving." Looking out the White House window, Coolidge replied: "Well, I see that the monument is still there."

In 1943, the turning point in World War II for Russia came as Stalin announced victory over German troops at Stalingrad.

In 1950, President Harry S. Truman announced he had ordered development of the hydrogen bomb.

In 1958, Explorer I, the first U. S. earth satellite, was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Ten years ago: Ham, a male chimpanzee, was rocketed into space in a test of the Project Mercury capsule designed to carry a U. S. astronaut into space.

One year ago: Two troopships carried 1,200 Marines from the war in Vietnam, completing the first phase of the U. S. withdrawal.

CREW RELAXED, EVERYTHING "GO"

Apollo 14 Count Continues

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The countdown ticked on, the astronauts relaxed, and everything was "go" today for Sunday's launching of Apollo 14 to the moon.

At 3:23 p.m. EST Sunday, if there are no hitches, Alan B. Shepard Jr., Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa will ride the power of a Saturn 5 rocket away from their home planet on America's first moon flight in nine months.

The launch team concentrated today on the Saturn 5 after completing preparatory work on the command and lunar modules Friday. Batteries were installed on the rocket and power was transferred to internal from an external ground source.

The astronauts generally planned to relax in crew quarters five miles from the launch pad. In the afternoon they visit with their families and friends, communicating with them through a glass partition.

The partition is a requirement of a Medical isolation that the astronauts started Jan. 11. They are restricted to direct contact with key personnel.

The wives and children of all three spacemen flew here from their Houston homes to watch the launching.

For Louise Shepard it will be the second time she has watched her husband vault into space. Nearly a decade ago, Shepard became America's first spaceman when he made a brief suborbital trip atop a relatively puny Redstone rocket with less than one-one-hundredth the power of the Saturn 5.

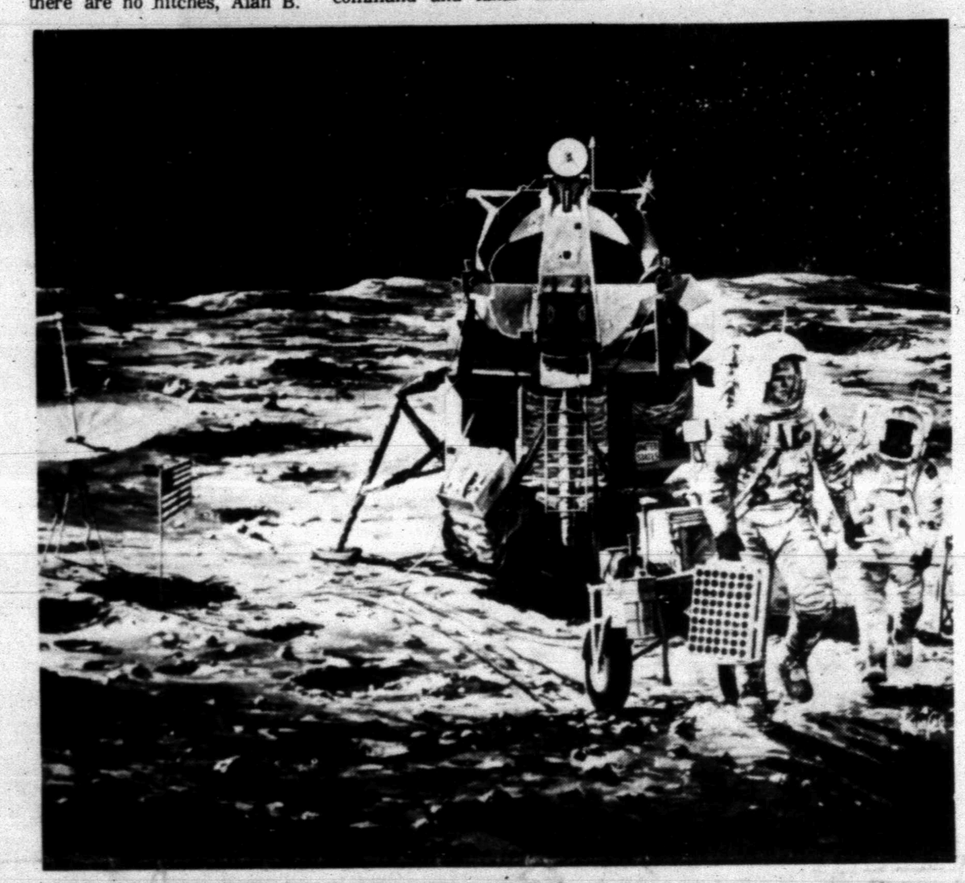

For Louise Mitchell and Joan Roosa it will be a first. Their husbands are space rookies.

This will be the first manned launch to the moon since the abortive Apollo 13 mission last April. The future of the Apollo program could be riding on it.

The near-disaster of Apollo 13, in which the three astronauts made it safely home on the systems of the lunar module after an oxygen tank exploded in the command ship, contributed to the cancellation of two Apollo launches. All three of the remaining moon landings could be in jeopardy if Apollo 14 fails.

Apollo 14 was delayed nearly four months while design changes were made to the oxygen tank system and additional safety features were added to the spaceship.

"We have a better spacecraft now and it's without a doubt more so than Apollo 13," Roosa said recently.

APOLLO 14 ON THE MOON — Artist's rendering of Apollo 14 astronauts Alan B. Shepard, spacecraft commander, and Edgar D. Mitchell, lunar module pilot, as they set out on their first traverse from the Fra Mauro landing site. Shepard is pulling the modular equipment transporter, (MET) which contains cameras, lunar sampling bags and tools. Shepard is also carrying the laser ranging retro-reflector (LRRR). Mitchell is carrying the Apollo lunar surface experiment package (ALSEP). The artist is Craig Kavafes of the Grumman Aerospace Corporation.

Apollo 14 Information

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Facts and figures of the Apollo 14 mission:

Launch time: 3:23 p.m. EST Sunday.

Astronauts: Navy Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr., 47; Navy Cmdr. Edgar D. Mitchell, 40; Air Force Maj. Stuart A. Roosa, 37.

Purpose: Man's third moon landing. Shepard and Mitchell are to attempt a landing in the rugged highlands of Fra Mauro on the eastern edge of the Ocean of Storms. Here they are to deploy a nuclear-powered science station and hopefully find rocks dating back 4.6 billion years to the origin of the moon.

Length of time on the moon: 33½ hours, including 8 to 10 hours outside on two excursions.

Flight duration: 9 days, 41 minutes.

Rocket: three-stage Saturn 5, which with Apollo 14 spacecraft stands 363 feet tall. The World's most powerful rocket, it has a first-stage thrust of 7.6 million pounds.

Cost of mission: Saturn $185 million; command ship $55 million; lunar module $40 million; launch operations, including recovery operations, $95 million; scientific package $25 million. Total $400 million.

Planes Pressure Enemy Buildups

SAIGON (AP) — Up to 400 U.S. B52s and smaller warplanes maintained heavy bombing pressure today on reported buildups of North Vietnamese war supplies in the Panhandle area of southern Laos at the northwestern corner of South Vietnam.

Three Stratofortresses also struck in South Vietnam, 16 miles northwest of Khe Sanh at the frontier. Khe Sanh is an abandoned U.S. Marine base set up to stop enemy infiltration along Route 9 from Laos, seven miles west, and across the western portion of the demilitarized zone that separates the Vietnams.

Two aircraft carriers of the U.S. 7th Fleet were reported standing by in the Gulf of Tonkin off North Vietnam, and a third carrier was reported prepared to enter the gulf. The three carriers carry more than 200 jets.

Informants said American intelligence has detected a build-up in the region northwest of Khe Sanh bordering the demilitarized zone on the north and Laos on the west.

B52 bombers have been repeatedly attacking the area. About 40 sorties have been flown just above Khe Sanh on the Vietnamese side of the border so far this month. A sortie is one flight by one plane.

In Saigon, the Air Force canceled all regularly scheduled C130 passenger flights from Tan Son Nhut airbase. Spokesmen said the four-engine transports were diverted to higher priority missions such as carrying combat troops and war supplies.

Cyclone Kills Many

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — Rescue workers thrashing through the mud and swirling waters left by Cyclone Felice said today the storm probably killed 500 to 1,000 persons.

Early rumors of more than 100,000 dead in the devastated Zambezi Region of Portuguese Mozambique were discounted.

The stricken area, with a population of about 1.5 million, was reported under flood waters as deep as 20 feet.

Communications were cut and light aircraft, helicopters and boats were ferrying food, clothing and medicine to survivors isolated on high ground.

Rescue pilots said terrified villagers were clinging to palm trees, hut roofs and anything else protruding above the water.

Portuguese air force planes joined in rescue operation to speed relief to the victims of the territory's worst flood.

The skies were still cloudy today and officials said more rain was possible. The cyclone was reported swerving toward the Malagasy republic across the Mozambique Channel.

Many rice, sugar, coffee and tea crops in Zambezi were reported wiped out.

Traffic Slowed On Autobahns

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards slowed traffic from West Germany to Berlin to a virtual standstill today, the fourth consecutive day of harassment along the autobahns.

As the East Germans continued delaying tactics, Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany was to address an election rally in West Berlin.

The Communists launched their disruption of Berlin access road traffic to protest the presence of Brandt and President Gustay Heinemann in the isolated city and to object to a meeting of West German Free Democratic party parlimentarians. The East Germans claim West Germany has no access right to West Berlin.

Western border officers gave this rundown of traffic conditions:

Cars were the main target of harassment today, with waiting times averaging about 10 hours. Traffic from Hamburg in the north dwindled to nothing during the night as the East Germans left their red lights on.

Traffic was so light on the southern road from Bavaria that the few trucks and cars coming north to Berlin were able to cross the border into East Germany as the border guards briefly flashed green lights after keeping the lights on red for an hour at a time.

Two Banks, Executive Freed In Fraud Suit

DALLAS (AP) — Two Dallas banks and a former bank executive agreed to be placed under injunctions Friday and were dismissed as defendants in a lawsuit stemming from a government probe of insurance stock trading.

This coincided with a disclosure that control in one of the banks—City Bank & Trust Co. —has been sold to Jake Jacobsen, once legislative counsel to former President Lyndon B. Johnson, and his Austin law partner, Joseph R. Long.

The Securities and Exchange Commission sued City Bank & Trust and Dallas Bank & Trust Co. Jan. 18 along with 11 other corporations and 15 individuals. This suit, alleging fraud and manipulation of stocks and bank loans, seeks injunctions against violating the securities statutes.

U. S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes signed an order under which the two banks and Joseph P. Novotny, former head of City Bank & Trust, consented to such a permanent injunction without admitting any allegations made by the SEC. At the same time the SEC agreed to drop those three as defendants in its pending suit.

Novotny and others sold control in City Bank & Trust to Jacobson and Long for an undisclosed price, it was announced by Ted R. Bristol, who succeeded Novotny as the bank's chief executive officer only this week.

Companion developments included:

— State Securities Commissioner Truman G. Holladay halted secondary trading in stock of National Bankers Life Insurance Co., on which witnesses have told the SEC that some state officials made quick profits.

— Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., who is a member of the House Banking and Currency Committee, asked U. S. Comptroller of the Currency William Camp to ascertain whether any national banks were involved in the complex transactions alleged in the SEC proceeding and whether their condition had been damaged as a result.

Arab Nations Are On Alert

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel and her Arab neighbors girded themselves for battle today in the event the cease-fire scheduled to expire next Friday is not extended.

But a newspaper in Beirut, Lebanon, reported that Secretary of State William P. Rogers has asked for an indefinite extension of the truce to continue peace talks under U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

The armies of Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Iraq are on standby alert, according to the government-controlled press in each Arab nation. Lebanese troops and armor were reported moving up Friday to reinforce Lebanon's border with Israel. Practice air raid alerts and blackouts were ordered in Cairo.

Israeli troops along the Suez Canal were ordered to increase their alertness and wear steel helmets as a precaution against the reported buildup in Egypt.

The newspaper Al Nahar in Beirut said Rogers sent a letter to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad this week stressing the need for continuation of the cease-fire to give Jarring "sufficient time to fulfill his peacemaking mission."

The paper said sources in Cairo believed Rogers' letter provided no new grounds for Egyptian agreement to another extension of the truce.

At a Washington news conference Friday, Rogers expressed encouragement at the exchanges in the Jarring talks between Israel and Egypt, saying that at least they were "nonpolemical."

Earlier, diplomatic sources in Cairo said Egypt would be willing to extend the truce if "some sign of progress" in the talks could be shown. Israeli leaders also have said they want to renew the cease-fire.

The Israeli military command said two upper Galilee towns came under mortar attack from guerrillas in Lebanon during the night. There were no reports of injuries in the shellings at the towns of Metulla and Maraliyot.

Monday Is 'DID' In Snyder

Snyder area resident will observe "Drug Information Day" tomorrow as they begin a new month.

The event, which has involved considerable planning, will be climaxed at 7:30 p.m. with an open meeting in the Scurry County Coliseum, at which time a panel of experts will be assembled to present factual information on drugs, drug abuse and rehabilitation of drug addicts.

There will be no admission charge for the meeting, and all citizens, including adults and public school pupils from the 7th grade upward, are being encouraged to attend.

Snyder Jaycees have announced that free transportation to and from the coliseum will be provided for those who request it. The free transportation may be arranged by calling 573-3558 between the hours of 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The meeting in the coliseum, which will be the largest of its type to be held anywhere, according to drug education experts, developed from a meeting held last Nov. 17 at Snyder High School. The sessions on drugs were organized in response to legislation which requires that all public schools in Texas put a drug education program into their curricula by the fall of 1971.

Local leaders who have worked in planning the "DID" event here also hope that Monday night's meeting will lead to the establishing of some type of community council which would be available on a continuing basis for consultation with persons who have drug problems, or who seek information on drugs and drug abuse.

Members of the panel will be Dr. Doyle I. Carson, psychiatrist, and Dr. John T. Gossett, psychologist, both on the staff of Timberlawn Psychiatric Center in Dallas, and both of whom have extensive experience in dealing with drug abuse and in drug education; the Rev. William N. Parkey, a minister who also is widely experienced as a counselor in areas which have involved drugs; Ben William Warton, a former user of drugs who has been completely and successfully rehabilitated; Bill Merkel, drug education specialist with the Texas Education Agency's Region IV Media Center, and George Jones, No. 1 agent with the State Narcotics Bureau in Midland.

Dr. Wilton N. Jones will be the moderator for the panel. He will be assisted by John Short, counselor at Snyder High School, and Dr. R. B. Pierce.

Each panelist will present pertinent information and then the panel will answer written questions that are submitted at the meeting.

Texas Recovering From Tight Credit Squeeze

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas and the nation were starting to recover by the end of 1970 from the tight credit squeeze of the past two years, the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas said Saturday.

Dr. Francis May, professor of business statistics, said this was the second period of extremely tight money since 1965.

The credit stringency in 1965-66 was shorter and milder than it was in 1968-70, May said, but its effects are still in the minds of the small borrower who did not get to take advantage of the prime interest rate.

The fluctuation of the Texas economy does not follow the exact pattern of the national economy but major changes in the latter have their influence on the economic activity in the state, he said.

The credit shortage had its effect on Texas activity in reducing the rate of increase in the state personal income. That index rose fairly steadily in 1969 despite adverse influences, May said, but developed a noticeable reduced rate of growth during the 1970 period of worst credit stringency.

May said that strength in the state's crude oil producing industry contributed to the six-per cent rise in personal income last year, with crude oil production averaging nine per cent higher than the year before.

Several factors contributed to this—the sabotage of the Transarabian Pipeline, a major Middle East pipeline bringing crude oil to Mediterranean ports and the cutback ordered by the new, revolutionary government of Lybia.

It was necessary to transport oil from Persian Gulf ports around the southern tip of Africa to European and Atlantic Coast ports. More tankers could have solved the problem but they were not available.

Thus the Texas Railroad Commission, in order to supply the needed petroleum, increased the amount of production permitted until Texas oil reservoirs were producing at a rate close to the maximum output under sound engineering practices.

Total construction in the state was rather low at the beginning of the year but it soared to an all-time high in December of 1970, May said.

In retrospect it is clear that 1970 was a year of reasonably good levels of activities in many industries, a year with substantial unemployment and with inflation at high levels but possibly abating.

The current year is expected to be one of business revival, hopefully with further weakening of inflationary forces.

Consumer spending is expected to revive and provide the main force behind the upswing.

The money supply must be expanded but not to rapidly, May said. It may also mean more strikes in major industries.

Drilling Slows

AUSTIN (AP) — First-month reports show the number of oil and gas wildcat wells in Texas lagging behind last year, the Railroad Commission said Saturday.

The commission said five wildcat oil wells were drilled, raising the year total to 23, four fewer than last year. Two new wildcat oil wells were in the San Angelo District. One each was in the Corpus Christi, Kilgore 5 and Wichita Falls districts.

Nine wildcat gas wells were drilled for a year total of 40, four fewer than last year. The wildcats included six in the Corpus Christi District, and one each in the Pampa, and San Antonio 1 and 2 districts.

The commission said 119 oil wells were completed for a year total of 489, or 42 more than a year ago. Twenty-two gas wells also were completed for a year total of 127, or 15 fewer than a year ago.

The commission said 168 wells were plugged, 88 of them dry holes.

Amstead jointly announced Friday that the Board of Regents of The University of Texas System at their Dallas meeting approved the Master Campus Plan of The University of Texas of the Permian Basin. The firm of Jessen, Jessen, Millhouse, Greeven, Crume, Day, and Newman, Architects, working with the UTBP Administration and with The University of Texas System, have developed what many have already said is the most exciting and practical plan for a university campus in the country. The next phase of architectural development is expected to start immediately.

LONDON (AP) — Lone yachtsman Sir Francis Chichester is "behind schedule but enjoying himself" in an attempt to set a cross-Atlantic speed record for solo crossings under sail.

Sir Francis, 69, left Portugese Guinea Jan. 12 in a bid to sail the 4,000 miles to Nicaragua in 20 days.

3 Vehicles In One Mishap

He had two vehicles — a 1968 Model Pontiac and a 1963 Model GMC pickup — parked at the Lota' Burger, 3900 Avenue S, at 11:57 a.m.

A similar mishap occurred at the American Restaurant on the East Highway at 1:01 p.m. The 1960 Model Chevrolet of James Irl Farmer, 1104 Twenty-eighth Street, was in collision with the parked 1971 Model GMC pickup of Raymond C. Lunsford, 2803 Thirty-fourth Street. Damage was minor.

The first mishap was investigated by Police Sergeant Ben McNulty. Officer Paul Silva investigated the other one.

Nixon Mum On Living Costs

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report showing the highest two-year rise in living costs in nearly a quarter century has prompted new cries of alarm from Democrats and organized labor and silence from the White House.

The Labor Department report said consumer prices in December turned more sharply upward and wound up 1970 with a 5.5-per cent hike on top of 1969's 6.1-per cent rise.

Living costs in December and in the final quarter of 1970 showed a renewed upswing.

Dr. Joel Popkin, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics which compiles the report, said the combined two-year total wiped out 12 per cent of the purchasing power of every dollar. That total matched a 1950-51 inflationary binge during the Korean War and was highest since 1946-47, immediately after World War II.

The bureau said 1970 inflation more than wiped out wage gains of 45 million rank-and-file workers and left them 1 per cent, or about $1 a week, behind 1969 purchasing power and $2.39 below buying power two years ago. The average paycheck before taxes rose $1.03 a week in December to $122.43.

Unemployment reached a total of 4.6 million Americans at the end of 1970, highest in nine years.

There was no immediate comment on the cost-of-living report from President Nixon, or from his chief economic adviser, Dr. Paul W. McCracken, who just two days earlier had greeted January's biggest wholesale-price hike in a year by saying, "I find myself on the whole reassured by the figures."

"As if to underscore the unreliability of Republican economic promises, living costs in December rose by five-tenths of one per cent—up from three-tenths in November—and this less than one week after Mr. Nixon informed the nation that 'the tide of inflation has turned,'" said Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

"It is clear that present administration policies, in effect for two years, have reduced our economy to a state of inflationary recession," said Sen. William Proxmire D-Wis., chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee.

Popkin said living costs swung back up to a 5.7-per cent annual rate of rise in the final quarter of 1970 from the second quarter's 4.2-per cent rate, after having fallen from a rate of 6.3 per cent the first quarter to 5.8 per cent the second.

Pollution Restraints Proposed

By STAN BENJAMINK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has proposed nationwide air-pollution restraints that might require local action to limit use of automobiles in the largest cities.

Dr. John T. Middleton, director of the Air Pollution Control Office of the new Environmental Protection Agency, outlined the far-reaching proposals to newsmen Friday.

Decisions on city planning, land use and locations for new construction all may be influenced, Middleton said, by the stringent standards which would apply to air sampled anywhere —in a national park or in the street outside a steel mill.

Middleton said it might not be possible for the nation's largest cities to meet antismog aspects of the proposed standards within the three-year deadline "without actions which would drastically reduce traffic, or the influx of cars, or the way of moving people and goods."

Middleton said some industries might say they must reduce operations and eliminate jobs to meet the air standards, but he called that kind of approach a "cop-out answer for failure to deal with the problem adequately."

He politely avoided mentioning it, but EPA is engaged in just such a tussle with the giant Union Carbide Corp., which says it may have to lay off 625 workers over the next 15 months to comply with federal air-pollution-abatement orders.

At the same time, EPA announced intentions to seek regulations limiting, and later banning, use of lead additives in gasoline.

While this would be subject to a rulemaking proceeding, the aim, EPA said probably would be to make sure lead-free gasoline is generally available by mid-1974.

Marine Insurers Are Concerned

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. marine insurers, concerned about writing only $400 million worth of insurance in 1969 in a $1.7 billion dollar market, are making a major effort to sell to American firms the advantages of American marine insurance, according to Marine Office-Appleton & Cox Corp., a leading U.S. marine insurer.

A large portion of premium income of foreign insurers comes from American companies, causing millions of dollars to flow from American shores.

Northeast Gets New Cold Blast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter hurled a fresh blast of arctic cold, wind and snow into the northeastern quarter of the nation today.

Almost the entire region from the Dakotas and Nebraska to the Middle Atlantic States and New England was included in a variety of bad-weather warnings.

Tenperatures plunged far below zero across the Northern Plains on the heels of a wind-driven storm that dumped a fresh blanket of snow Friday from the Plains through the Great Lakes.

Blizzard warnings were in effect overnight through Lower Michigan, an area hit hard by a similar storm earlier in the week.

Auto traffic chugged almost to a standstill throughout Wisconsin Friday night when a combination of high winds and light to moderate snow reduced visibility near zero. Gusts up to 55 miles an hour were common.

Travel warnings were out from the Ohio Valley to New Jersey and New England for gusty winds with snow and blowing snow. Four to 6 inches of snow was expected along the southern and eastern shores of the Great Lakes.

Temperatures across the Northern Plains were in sharp contrast to central sections of the region. The mercury climbed to 70 in Wichita, Kan., Friday, a record for the date.

Unseasonable mildness also persisted in the Far West and in parts of the Rockies. Los Angeles warmed to 88 Friday and it was 89 in Palm Springs.

Showers and thunderstorms dampened portions of Louisiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, but fair and pleasant weather prevailed in most other areas of the Deep South.

Frank Erwin Resigns Post

By MARSHALL COMERER
Associated jpress Writer

DALLAS (AP)—Frank C. Erwin Jr., the strong-man, often-controversial chairman of the University of Texas System, announced Friday he will resign the post but serve out his term as a regent.

Erwin said he will resign effective at the end of the board's March 12 meeting in Austin. His term as a regent expires Jan. 10, 1975.

In a letter he read at the meeting of the regents at the university's Southwestern Medical School, Erwin said he was resigning "in order that I may devote more of my time to my law practice and personal affairs."

Asked by a reporter if he was under pressure to resign he replied, "No. Certainly not."

To a question whether he would seek the chairmanship of the State Democratic Executive Committee, Erwin replied, "I've had that."

In his letter Erwin said he has been "required to devote more and more of my time and energy to the affairs of the University of Texas system as it has grown to its present eminence as one of the largest, as well as one of the finest systems of higher education in the nation.

"My work for the university has been a labor of love, and I take great pride in the truly impressive things we have been able to accomplish."

As regents chairman, Erwin, 51, also earned a reputation as a strong defender of the regents' powers in dealing with the demands of some militant students and with the faculty.

Perhaps the most serious attack of his career as chairman came in October of 1969 when a resolution calling for his resignation as chairman of the board of regents was approved 242 to 197 at a meeting of the faculty at the Austin campus. The faculty had approximately 1,450 voting members.

The resolution said "Erwin "has evidenced an inability to understand the basic concepts of academic freedom, a desire to interfere with the internal working of the university, a flare for making public statements of an inflamatory and insulting nature on controversial matters against rules governing the university and has acted in a cavalier fashion ...."

Erwin declined to resign, saying only 20 per cent of the voting faculty had called for his resignation and besides he wasn't responsible to the faculty.

DRUG INFORMATION DAY

7:30 - MONDAY, FEB. 1

SCURRY COUNTY COLISEUM

Drug addiction isn't somebody else's problem . . . it's ours. Each of us is a loser when the addict, ravaged by physical and emotional damage, driven by growing dependence on his drug, turns his potential as a person and as a citizer into frantic scheming for ways to get his drug and pay for it. To support his habit, he almost certainly turns to crime. Most alarming — and of grave concern to parents — is the spread of drug addiction downward, into the classrooms of our high schools and even grade schools. There are no easy answers . . . but stopping drug addiction begins by honestly facing its problems. We all share the responsibility to educate ourselves and our children about the dangers of drugs. We must: Learn the facts and fallacies about drugs. Set a good example. Don't misuse drugs . . . including alcohol and sleeping pills. Be prepared to understand and discuss drug problems. Support community efforts to combat drug addiction. By mobilizing sound knowledge, we can help to end drug addiction and its problems.

Bengals Bounce Cubs In Overtime, 71-63

BROWNFIELD—Snyder's Tigers had to go into overtime to do it, but they defeated the Brownfield Cubs 71-63 in a District 3-AAA basketball tilt here Friday night to remain in contention for the district crown.

Snyder now is 2-0 in second round play while the Cubs fell to 0-2. For the season, Snyder is 19-4. The victory sets the stage for a showdown battle with Lamesa in Snyder Tuesday night.

The Cubs gave the Bengals plenty of competition. They led 19-16 after one period, and the score was tied 37-37 at halftime. The Tigers had a 51-48 lead after three frames, but the Cubs tied it up 61-61 at the end of regulation play.

Then, in overtime, the determined Bengals pushed in 10 points while holding the hosts to only two.

Field goals by Dubby Preston and Tommy Washington decided the contest in favor of Snyder in the overtime period. For good measure, Dub put in an extra point and Washington sank five free throws during the extra action. Van Garner, tallied the two Cub points in the fifth frame.

Preston had an outstanding night for Snyder, getting 24 points. Washington also fared well, roping 19 points. Kent Horsley added 12 and Jerry Brooks contributed 10. For Brownfield, Gregg Jones, with 17 points, was high scorer while Van Garner collected 15 points.

Snyder hit 15 of 31 for 49 per cent from the field in the first half and 10 of 31 for 32 per cent in the second half. At the line, they put in seven of 14 for 50 per cent in the first half and 14 of 19 for 72 per cent in the last frame.

Brownfield meshed 14 of 28 for 50 per cent from the field in the first half and nine of 27 for 33 per cent in the second half. At the line, the Cubs dunked in seven of 10 for 70 per cent in the first half and six of 10 for 60 per cent in the last two periods.

The closeness of the contest is pointed up in rebounds. Each team collected 35. For Snyder, Dubby Preston and Tommy Washington shared honors, claiming nine each.

In the B team game, the Kittens prevailed 54-42. They took a 17-11 lead in the initial frame and managed to stay out front all the way. Jimmy Don Dyess and Charles Anderson sparked the Kitten attack with 17 and 16 points respectively. Flournoy and Baccus each pitched in 11 points for the junior Cubs.

Elsewhere in District 3-AAA Friday night, Sweetwater flailed Lake View 86-47, Dunbar nudged Colorado City 58-48, and Lamesa put down Estacado 71-55.

Pro Grid Draft Closes

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — John Wayne won't be holding the fort for the Atlanta Falcons next season, but if New Orleans' 17th sense holds up again, Hermann Eben will be a Saint to be reckoned with in the National Football League.

The Falcons played it for laughs with a phantom selection and the Saints played a hunch with a last-ditch trade Friday during the 17th and final round of pro football's annual college draft.

"Atlanta takes tackle John Wayne of Apache U.," an NFL official announced as the draft session, which had begun Thursday with Boston's selection of Stanford quarterback Jim PLunkett, the 1970 Heisman Trophy winner, crawled to a merciful finish.

While the Falcons' "sleeper pick" was duly posted, amid tired titters from the gallery, a New Orleans representative flashed frantic hand signals to his counterpart from Washington.

Minutes later, "John Wayne of Apache U." was exposed as a fraud—and the Saints and Redskins consummated the ninth trade of the draft meeting.

It sent tackle Mike Taylor from the Saints to Washington in return for defensive end Leo Carroll and the Redskins' last draft pick.

It was no match for the 'Skins' multi-player, multi-draft choice swap with Los Angeles that had keyed the opening day proceedings. But it was a big bonus for the Saints, who had good reason to regret the loss of their regular 17th round pick in an earlier deal with the Rams.

They promptly tapped Eben, a solid but unspectacular wide receiver from Oklahoma State as the 428th of 442 players picked up by the 26 NFL clubs in the 17-round marathon.

"We have an affinity for 17th round picks," explained Saints' spokesman Harry Humes. "We had three of them playing for us last year."

Dan Abramowicz, one of the league's top pass-catchers for the past four years, was New Orleans' 17th round pick in 1967. Julian Fagan, the NFC's leading punter last season, came to the Saints as a free agent after being drafted 17th by Houston a year ago. And defensive back Doug Wyatt was the Saints' last-round pick in 1970.

The Falcons, whose selector had described "John Wayne of Apache U." to inquisitive newsmen as "a big, strong guy who has also had some success in a couple of movie roles," finally switched their last-round pick to running back Billy Martin of J. C. Smith, College.

Another 17th round choice was wide receiver Randy Vitaha, Plunkett's No. 1 target at Stanford last season.

Pass-catcher Charles Hill of Sam Houston State was the last man selected. Oakland, which had passed earlier in the final round, named him after Baltimore's world champion Colts, the last to pick in the regular order, went for running back Don Nottingham of Kent State.

The Colts reached out for a pair of college headliners—quarterback Rex Kern of Ohio State and running back Bill Burnett of Arkansas—earlier in the day.

Both are considered pro risks.

Kern sparkled as a sprint-out quarterback for the rushing oriented Buckeyes' but had few opportunities to display his passing skills. He was the 260th over-all selection in the draft—and the 12th of 23 quarterbacks chosen, compared to 13 a year ago.

Burnett, most prolific touchdown-maker in Southwest Conference history, is the last of three ball-carrying brothers from Smackover, Ark., to earn a shot in the pro ranks. He was hobbled by a shoulder injury last season and is rated a step too slow to make the grade by some NFL scouts.

Kern was among six Ohio State players picked Friday, giving the Buckeyes a high of 13 for the draft. Houston, Mississippi and Southern California were next with 10 apiece.

Nebraska's national champions and second-ranked Notre Dame had just four and five drafttees, respectively, but both were predominantly non-senior teams.

Houston Scribes Honor Six Stars

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Baseball Writers Association honored six major league players at its annual dinner Friday night.

Two stars of the world champion Baltimore Orioles, Brooks Robinson and Boo Powell, Cincinnati Reds pitcher Gary Nolan, San Diego's Clarence Gaston, Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente and the Houston Astros' Roger Metzger and Joe Morgan were cited for their ability.

Robinson admitted to nervousness in the World Series not the 1970 series when the birds ripped up the big red machine but the 1966 Series against Los Angeles.

"That was the first Series I played in," said the Orioles third baseman, "and we were playing the Dodgers in the fourth game.

"We had won the first three games and we were ahead, 1-0, in the top of the ninth and the Dodgers had two away and a man on second and Tommy Davis the hitter.

"I called time and went up to Dave McNally, who was pitching for us. He thought I was going to say, 'Throw it in there and get him out.'

"That wasn't what I had in mind. I told him, 'Listen David, whatever you do, don't let this guy hit the ball to me. I don't want any part of it.' Dave obeyed and Davis hit the ball to (Luis) Aparicio and he threw him out. And I was relieved."

Coach Who Knew

DENVER (AP) — When Joe Belmont, coach of the Denver Rockets in the American Basketball Association, introduced Stan Albeck to sports writers as his assistant, Belmont said, "I'm probably hiring my own successor." How right he was.

Belmont was fired after the Rockets lost all but two of their first dozen games in the 1970-71 season and Albeck was named head coach.

Advance Planning

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans are being made now by the National Broadcasting System for the Winter Olympic Games to be held in Sapporo, Japan, next year.

Fluvanna Wins 10th

FLUVANNA — After trailing for three quarters, Fluvanna's Buffaloes finally took the lead in the last frame and slipped past Roby's Lions 65-58 for their 10th straight District 10-B basketball victory.

Roby led 16-15 after one period, 32-28 at halftime, and 44-43 after three periods. But, the Buffaloes outscored the visitors 22-14 in the last quarter to keep their perfect record intact.

Larry White paced the hosts with 21 points. Ynguanzo contributed 16 points to the victory, Randy Gill added 15, and Patterson put in 10.

For Roby, Wetsel scored 15 points, Kiser tallied 12, and Sally roped 11.

Fluvanna also won the junior varsity tilt, 38-30.

ROBY (58) — Kiser 6-0-12; Wetsel 7-1-15; Sally 4-3-11; Evers 3-2-8; Holcomb 4-0-8; totals 24-6-54.

FLUVANNA (65) — Patterson 4-2-10; Randy Gill 7-1-15; Ynguanzo 4-8-16; White 10-1-21; Richard Gill 1-1-13; totals 26-13-65.

Hermleigh Triumphs

HERMLEIGH—The host Cardinals split a couple of District 10-B basketball games with Westbrook Friday night with the boys winning 78-72 and the girls losing 63-34.

Tom Vineyard and Mike Rutherford put in 22 and 21 points respectively for the Hermleigh boys while Leon Ward and Dale Peterson meshed 11 and 10 points respectively. For Westbrook, Anderson tallied 28 points, G. Rich scored 17, and B. Rich roped 12.

Liquori Runs 4:00.6 Mile

NEW YORK (AP) — The 64th Wanamaker-Millrose Track Meet was another artistic success but although Marty Liquori tried valiantly, the magical sub-four-minute mile will have to wait at least another year.

Liquori, the Villanova senior, never a loser at Madison Square Garden, ran his winning string to 11 as he swept to the mile title Friday night in 4:00.6, tying the meet record.

But it was the slow pace for three-quarters of a mile that hindered Liquori who raced to a fantastic 55.1 final quarter after the first three were run in 3:05.5.

"I had an awful lot left at the end," Liquori, a 21-year-old senior from Cedar Grove, N.J., said. "That indicated, I think, that I could have run faster.

Tom Von Ruden of the Pacific Coast Club and a fellow Olympian, had predicted he would go under four minutes here but failed and was second to Liquori in 4:02.1. Italy's Gianni Del Buno was third.

A Glance At This Week In Business

By LINDA RUBEY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon unveiled his budget plans for 1972 this week.

He called for a record $229.2 billion spending in fiscal 1972 in what he termed a "full employment budget" carved out of two huge deficits totaling $30.2 billion in the next two years.

He explained that a full employment budget is one in which "spending does not exceed the revenues the economy could generate under the tax system at a time of full employment."

His call to arms was "prosperity without war and without runaway inflation," but privately, observers expressed doubts that his plans would succeed.

They noted that deficits of about $15 billion each had been expected for fiscal 1971 and 1972. Instead this year's deficit hit $18.6 billion, giving this year the largest deficit since World War II, they said.

They noted that the budget for 1972, a presidential election year, would have a smaller deficit of $11.6 billion only if Treasury receipts meet Nixon's estimate of $217.6 billion.

These observers considered this an unlikely occurance since all private forecasts of economic activity have been lower. The result, they said, will be a more sizable deficit than Nixon anticipated.

Not only that, they added, Nixon's budget calls for a rise of $88 billion from 1970's Gross National Product level, an increase of 9 per cent. This would necessitate an even faster rise than in the inflationary boom of the late 1960s, they explained.

Most analysts said the scope of the budget's increase had been expected to finance Nixon's "New American Revolution." The bulwark of this program is his plan to restore fiscal power to the financially pressed states and cities by federal revenue sharing. Already, these analysts noted, this program is coming under severe Congressional attack.

The financial community also listened with interest to Treasury Secretary designate John Connally's hearing before the Senate Finance Committee on his nomination as Treasury Secretary.

Connally emphasized that he was interested in activist economic policies including a broad tax reform program, more intensive Presidential criticism of wage and price increases and further cuts in the prime lending rate,

Although he rejected direct wage and price controls, he said he would urge President Nixon "in the strongest of terms" to apply increasing pressure on labor and management to hold down spiralling wages and prices.

Connally further expressed the view that he "would like to see the prime rate go even lower" than its current 6 per cent level. The prime rate is the interest commercial banks charge on loans to their most creditworthy corporate customers.

In other developments this week, the steep rise in wholesale prices reported for January took a little wind out of the sails of the administration's contention that the pace of inflation is slowing.

January's rise of .6 per cent was the largest monthly increase in a year and the seasonally adjusted rise of .4 per cent was the steepest since September, the Labor Department said. Currently wholesale prices stand 2.2 per cent above a year ago at 111.7 per cent.

Observers said much of this gain was due to extremely volatile farm prices and that the closely watched index of industrial prices rose only .1 per cent. This was well below the average for last year.

On the brighter side was the news that the government's index of leading economic indicators rose sharply in December. The index was up 1.4 per cent.

Harold C. Passer, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, conceded though that much of the increase was due to the ending of the General Motors strike.

Although government officials said the economy is definitely pointing upward, others in the administration privately expressed disappointment at the failure to curb inflation.

David M. Kennedy, who will leave soon as secretary of the Treasury, offered a new theme this week—that a rapid economic expansion might paradoxically help check inflation more than a policy of slow expansion.

"A fairly brisk expansion might do more to relieve upward cost pressures than a halting and incomplete one. Too slow a pace of expansion would mean sluggish improvement in productivity and perhaps very little relief from 'cost-push' pressures," he said.

"Once excess demand has been removed for an appreciable period of time, there is little point in keeping the economy in a sluggish state."

In conjunction he also defended President Nixon's large budget deficits for this fiscal year and the next saying: "Raising taxes and cutting expenditures would simply drive the economy down further."

The Labor Department reported that unemployment in poor urban neighborhoods which had been declining prior to last year rose sharply in 1970. The jobless rate in urban slums averaged 7.6 per cent during 1970, up from 5.5 per cent in 1969.

Home Secretarial ServiceProfitable

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I would like to know how to establish a home secretarial service. – T.T., Phoenix, Ariz.

Thanks to Dorothea M. Zarick, director of the Women's Bureau at the Massachusetts Department of Commerce and Development, for lining up answers to this frequently-asked question.

BEFORE YOU START: Check your competition – too much? Look in your Yellow Pages, classified section of your newspaper . . . or, if you live in a college town, check bulletin boards at student centers.

What about time and space? Will you be able to meet delivery dates? Honor deadlines? Allot time for pick-up and delivery services? Have you an area which can be declared "off limits" to curious children?

How are your skills? You hold customers only on the quality and promptness of your work. If you don't have a 1st class typewriter, can you buy or rent one (a tax deducation)? If you expect to do technical or statistical typing, make sure your keyboard has proper symbols.

HOW TO PROCEED: If you decide to try, invest in stationery and business cards – attractive, distinctive design. Get them around to community affairs, club meetings, service organizations and to friends whose husbands are a potential source of business. If you make personal calls soliciting business, bring a sample of your work.

USE DIRECT MAIL. Send a sales letter to local business and professional men. Young lawyers, doctors, and dentists . . . small business firms such as garages, plumbing shops, contractors, retail stores . . . salesmen and office managers . . . are good prospects.

[You can obtain street address directories, such as Haines Criss-Cross, R.L. Polk, or those published by telephone companies – ask library how to obtain – and use as list for direct mail prospects.]

WATCH NEWSPAPERS for notices of new businesses; place a brief ad in classified section. Secretaries in deans' offices of colleges may keep lists of typists for students writing academic papers. Direct mail houses (check Yellow Pages under Advertising-Direct Mail) can be contacted for typing, chiefly addressing to be done at home. Although work is intermittent, you may as well register with them. Many mailing houses expect you to pick up and deliver work. Prices paid vary with complexity of work; for instance, typing addresses from a well-organized mailing list does not pay as well as typing from a directory. Most mailing houses require standard typewriters – no portables.

PRICING TIPS Never charge less than $1.00. It's the small jobs you're most likely to lose money on. Charge a premium for rush jobs. Keep records to help analyze costs; set up a detailed work sheet to show time for each job. Don't forget to include as rent that portion of your home used, equipment costs and maintenance, supplies, gasoline, etc. If manuscript or thesis preparation is your specialty, add time for double-checking copy. Check all copy in advance with clients for errors in grammar, spelling, punctuation. [Don't quote prices on the phone – you must see work yourself to know what's involved and you could lose by underestimating.]

PRICE LIST. Economic status of your community is greatest determining factor – experts agree you should average at least $5 an hour. Following are GUIDELINE fees for metropolitan areas and college towns: Business letters - 75 cents per page with extra 5 cents for envelope. Thesis typing - 75 cents per page, double-spaced, with no charge for 1 carbon; you supply paper, carbon. Statistical typing - 75 cents per page, double-spaced, with tabulations. Mimeographing - start at $7.50 minimum because of time in cutting stencil and setting up machine. Dictation - transcription - $4 per hour [some say $5 per hour] for ordinary transcription. Add $1 per hour more for technical, legal and specialized material. Addressing envelopes - 1½ cents per envelope [some say 1 cent or 1¼ cents per LINE]. Record-keeping, accounting - $5 per hour minimum. [On mailing, one St. Louis, Mo., woman charges – folding - 1/4 cent each piece; stuffing - 1 cent per piece; sealing or flapping - 1 cent per envelope; stamping - 1 cent per envelope.]

WHERE TO WRITE: A related publication is "Starting and Managing a Small Duplicating and Mailing Service" published by the Small Business Administration. Send 25 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Angered Father Kills Host

RICHARDSON, Tex. (AP) — A Dallas father, angered when he found his 14-year-old daughter drinking beer at what he called a hippie party, shot and killed the host of the festivities Friday night, police reported.

The dead man was Steve Shay, about 25, a swimming pool installer. He had three slugs from a .22-caliber rifle in his chest.

The father, 40, surrendered in Dallas to patrolman Perry Goodell,

He said he had permitted his daughter to spend the night with Mr. and Mrs. Shay Thursday night so they could help her with her lessons. He drove to the Shay home Friday night to see why she had not returned.

The father said the place was full of longhairs "and my little girl was sifting there with a beer in hand," the father said.

He said he kicked the can of beer out of the girl's hand, snatched her to her feet and rushed out the front door.

On the lawn, he said, the host hit him in the head with a can of beer, threatened to kill him, grabbed and choked the girl's mother and then said he had a gun and threatened to shoot the mother.

The father said he grabbed a rifle out of his car and shot Shay.

The mother suffered injuries and her husband took her to a hospital from where the father called police.

Britain Has Potato Surplus

LONDON (AP) — Britain is facing its biggest potato glut in five years—a surplus of 950,000 tons, the Potato Marketing Board says.

Easter Island Gets Telephones

NEW YORK (AP) — Telephone calls can now be placed to Easter Island, the South Orkney Islands and Svalbard.

They're three out-of-the-way places added to the overseas communications network in 1970, according to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s annual publication, "The World's Telephones."

Easter Island is 2,350 miles west of Chile; the South Orkney Islands are 850 miles southeast of Cape Horn near Antarctica; and Svalbard is a 24,000-square mile Norwegian island group in the Arctic sea.

Skeptics Praise Nixon For Breaking Tradition

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional skeptics have praised President Nixon for breaking Republican tradition in his $229.2-billion expansionary budget, but say they doubt it amounts to the full-employment budget he has forecast.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., termed the deficit budget for fiscal 1972 "a major step forward for a Republican president.

"I welcome Republican conversion to a Keynesian economy a full generation after it was accepted by the Democrats," he said.

The full-employment concept in budgeting harks back to the New Deal and British economist John Maynard Keynes, who contended government spending is the key to prosperity.

It is based on the theory federal spending is non-inflationary if it does not surpass revenues that would be pumped into an economy operating at full employment. Today's unemployment is 6 per cent of the work force; 4 per cent is considered full employment.

Sen. William Proxmire welcomed the full-employment idea, but thought Nixon was shooting too high, especially in his proposals for space and military expenditures as well as the supersonic transport plane.

Instead, the Wisconsin Democrat said, spending should be held to $220 billion and part of the savings fed into such items as pollution control, job training and health and education.

"That's the way to give power to the people," he said.

Albert and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called for the President to combine his red-ink budget with voluntary wage and price restraints.

"This is the 1970s and not the 1930s," Albert said. "To control inflation it is necessary to have a direct intervention by the President through the use of standby credit controls and wage and price controls, use of the moral power of the presidency, jawboning and antitrust enforcement."

Kennedy said the "hallmark of the new budget is the shadow of the 1972 election which hangs over it."

Three Republican leaders praised Nixon's spending plans for next year and found no criticism of the break with the usual GOP balanced-budget fiscal policy.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said Nixon's budget represents "what the Democrats should have done in 1965."

House Republican leader Gerald Ford of Michigan described the budget as "a carefully drawn fiscal plan which stands out as perhaps the first federal budget to help promote full employment and peacetime prosperity."

And the ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, said the projected two-year $30.2-billion deficit resulted from Denocratic fiscal policies "which ballooned almost out of control just prior to the time Nixon took office ..."

Space Changed Louise's Life

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Louise Shepard was the first American Housewife to endure the special agony of watching her husband rocket into space. She faces it again Sunday when Apollo 14 is launched toward the moon.

The wife of Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. says her life hasn't been the same since her husband became the first American in Space in 1961.

Shepard, one of the original seven American spacemen, rode the Freedom 7 spacecraft 116 miles up and came down a national hero.

"I had been just an anonymous housewife," she says now. But after that, she was a celebrity-by-marriage.

"When we are in public someone always stops Alan," says Mrs. Shepard. "I think someday I might write a book on what to say to the maitre d' while your husband is signing autographs."

Fame hasn't reached out and remolded the lives of Louise Mitchell and Joan Roosa yet. But they are becoming a center of much attention.

They're the wives of the other two Apollo 14 crewmen, Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart Roosa.

All three wives and their children will be at Cape Kennedy Sunday when the huge Saturn 5 rocket roars to life and sends their husbands into space.

And they all plan to follow every minute of the flight closely. The Space Agency has installed speakers in each of the astronauts' homes. On these, the wives will be able to hear their husbands speak from space.

The women bubble with contented eagerness for their husbands' adventure.

"I have been trying to absorb all I can from the flight manual," says Mrs. Sehpard. "I'm constantly aware of the moon these days. It takes on a whole new look when you know your husband is going up there for a visit."

"I'm just happy he's finding fulfillment," says Mrs. Mitchell of her husband. "This is what he wants to do."

"Stuart wants to go," says Mrs. Roosa, "So I want him to go."

Wives of astronauts are accustomed to long separations from their husbands. Spacemen training for a mission must travel frequently between the space agency centers scattered about the country. The wives must learn to live with loneliness.

Mrs. Roosa admits, "It does get old. You have things happen —like the air conditioner water pan in the attic overflowing. You find yourself crawling across the attic and wishing he was here."

"While separation is difficult, you're keenly aware of the beauty of every moment you're together," says Mrs. Mitchell. "This more than compensates."

Farm Gain Predicted In Borden

GAIL—Cash income to farmers and ranchers in Borden County should be more than $3,691,500 by the end of 1976, according to J. W. Holmes, county agricultural agent.

This will be an increase of more than $548,000 from 1968-69 figures, with cotton contributing a large part of the gain. The projections are based on studies of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and are part of the "3.76 in '76" program, a state-wide project to increase Texas agricultural cash receipts by more than one billion dollars.

Total cash receipts from all agricultural enterprises in Borden County presently are about $2,943,500, Holmes said. The most important ones are cotton, beef cattle and sheep. They are expected to account for most of the projected 1976 totals.

Borden County will be aided in its production efforts by the South Plains Development Program.

"Borden County producers will have access to production information and techniques that can help spell success for the Texas goal of $3.76 billion in 1976," said Holmes.

Sinatra Helping Reduce Debt

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — At $1,000 a couple, Frank Sinatra is helping freshman Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., reduce a $500,000 campaign debt.

Boren Heads 1971 Easter Seal Appeal

Cecil Boren will head the 1971 Easter Seal Appeal in Scurry County, it was announced by P. O. Settle, Jr., of Fort Worth, President of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

Residents of Scurry County will receive the annual Easter Seal Appeal letters in the mail beginning March 1. The Easter Seal Appeal, conducted yearly to provide disabled persons and their families treatment and services, will continue through Easter Sunday, April 11.

Boren is one of 223 men and women throughout Texas who are serving in this capacity. The cost of the statewide Easter Seal program is over one million dollars, financed mainly by the Easter Seal Appeal. Almost 90 percent of all funds raised by the Easter Seal Appeal remain in Texas to support the growing needs of the disabled in the state.

Special emphasis is being given in the 1971 Easter Seal Appeal to the disabled citizen or his family in Scurry County who may need assistance and not know where to obtain it. Any disabled person can contact Boren at the Snyder National Bank and he will refer the request for services to the Easter Seal Society. A determination of the extent and type of assistance needed and the most efficient means of obtaining that assistance will be made. Arrangements for needed treatment or service will be made by the Easter Seal Society.

Snyder Soldier Promoted

Larry K. Davis, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Davis, 1302 Twenty-fifth Street, was promoted recently to Army Specialist Five while serving with the 3rd Infantry Division in Germany.

Spec. Davis, a mechanic with Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion of the division's 15th Infantry near Kitzingen, entered the Army in March of 1968. He completed basic training at Fort Polk, La., and was last stationed in Vietnam.

His wife, Carol, lives in Seminole.

Good Dinner

AP Food Editor

Minute Steaks Potatoes
Green Beans in Sour Cream
Fruit Salad Beverage

GREEN BEANS IN SOUR CREAM

One of the most flavorful ways to serve this vegetable.

1½ tablespoons butter
1 medium-small onion, peeled and cut into thin strips (about 1-3rd cup)
1 pound snap beans
¾ cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup commercial sour cream, at room temperature

In a 6-inch skillet over moderately low heat melt the butter; add onion and cook, stirring often, until browned—about 10 minutes. Tip beans and scrub in cold water; cut into 1-inch slanted crosswise pieces; turn into a 1½-quart saucepan with the water and salt; boil, covered, until tender-crisp—8 to 10 minutes; turn beans over a few times while they cook. Drain beans and mix in onion and sour cream; gently reheat. Makes 4 servings.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state reports that, based on costs of removing litter from highways, Kentucky roads were slightly cleaner in 1970 than the previous year.

Clothes For Children That Teach And Adorn

COLLEGE STATION:— Clothes that teach as well as adorn have been introduced for boys and girls, announces Joanne Thurber, Extension clothing consumer education specialist at Texas A&M University.

The clothes include word-letter association groups. Denim pants sets are labeled with the letter "D" and a picture of a dog. Other outfits have letter appliques that teach the alphabet. The letters are upside down so the child can see them.

Some of the garments in the group have red and green "stop" and "go" signals to help teach fundamentals of traffic safety.

The clothes also have a manipulation group, with big zippers, buttons, buckles and snaps to help teach the child how to dress himself.

Miss Thurber reminds that it is important to recognize the time when a child is ready to dress himself. His spontaneous interest will be evident when he is ready, but if he is not given the opportunity, that interest will quickly be stifled.

Between 15 and 18 months, the average child begins to show a real interest in putting on his clothing. But interest may vary. One day he may insist upon putting on his own shirt, while the next day he may refuse to try.

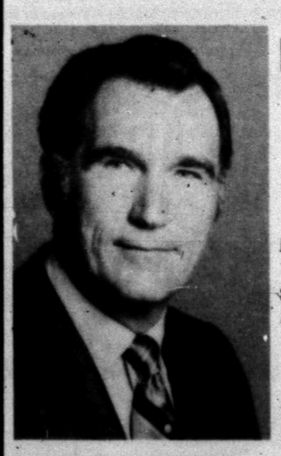

By the age of three, a child should be able to fasten different types of garment closures, provided they are not too small or are not located in hard-to-reach places. A child gets much staisfaction from being able to perform this job. When he masters the operation of these fasteners, he increases his feelings of independence ad self-sufficiency.

An important fact to consider, Miss Thurber suggests, is that clothes for a young child should fit his personal needs and interests—not his parents' likes or dislikes. In addition, his clothes should be the correct size, be styled for freedom of action, be sturdy, be suited to the weather, and be appropriate for self-dressing.

Cut sliced liver into narrow strips; dip in slightly beaten egg and then in bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat and serve at once. Mashed potatoes taste good with this dish.

Dear Abby

He's giving up girlfriend for Lent

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend told me I shouldn't expect to see him between Ash Wednesday and Easter Sunday because he was giving ME up for Lent.

I told him I was terribly disappointed and asked him to please reconsider and give up movies because that's what I had planned to give up. He said, No, movies wouldn't be a big enough sacrifice.

Now I don't know what to think. I'd like your opinion.
—KATHY

DEAR KATHY: If your boy friend gives you up for Lent, you'd be ahead to give HIM up for Lent instead of movies.

DEAR ABBY: I recently built an "office" for myself in our home, which I find very convenient because I can now spend more time at home than in my downtown office.

My wife's apparent annoyance with this new arrangement has become obvious, and that is my problem.

It is very depressing to be asked the first thing in the morning. "What is your schedule today?" [What she means is, "Are you going to stay home all day and get in my way?"]

Due to the emotional tension of my work, I often jog in the morning and nap in the afternoon and this displeases my spouse no end. I figure that this will keep me in good physical condition and possibly increase the number of years I will be around, which I suspect is another source of annoyance to her.

I thought of a solution: Suggesting that she go back to work, teaching school. Or have you a better idea? We have been married for 19 years and have three lovely children.
—SENSITIVE

DEAR SENSITIVE: Quit guessing, and ask your wife some pertinent questions: "Why are you unhappy with my home office setup? Why do you object to my jogging in the a. m. and snoozing in the p. m.? Would you like for me to just drop dead and get out of your way entirely?"

Don't fight fire with fire by trying to get HER out of the house. You two need a good healthy truth session.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is engaged to marry a young man she went with all thru high school. He went overseas, but was sent home before his hitch was up because he had been having "blackouts." He spent several months in the hospital under observation, and was then discharged, but he still sees a psychiatrist once a month at the V. A. hospital.

He has struck my daughter several times. Once I saw him slap her hard across the mouth and I really gave him a good piece of my mind. What worries me is that after they are married they will be living in another state and I am afraid of what he may do to her.

How can I get her to postpone her wedding until I am sure he is all right? Or should I just leave well enough alone and hope for the best? She told me herself that he is no more the boy she used to go with than the man in the moon, and she's afraid of him at times.

I don't like to interfere, but I can't sit and let my daughter make what could be a serious mistake. Do you think I should contact the boy's doctor and ask him some questions?
—WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: I think your daughter should postpone her wedding until after SHE has talked to the boy's doctor. In fact, she should ask to go with him on his next visit to the doctor, and together they should get an honest report on his condition. No girl should marry a man of whom she is afraid.

DEAR ABBY: After reading in your column that many people dislike receiving annual Christmas letters in which the writer brags about hubby's promotion, the wonderful vacation and how well the kids are doing, we decided to write one playing up our tough luck. It was easy. We mentioned our car accident, stock market losses and how the whole family came down with the flu.

It was much better received than those we had written telling about our good luck. I guess people love you more when your luck is down.

Novel On Drugs And Underworld

DEALING; OR, THE BERKELEY—TO—BOSTON FORTY—BRICK LOST—BAG BLUES. By "Michael Douglas." Knopf. $5.95.

This is a slangy, hip novel about pot-smoking and the adventures of a young courier who transports marijuana from Berkeley to Boston.

Peter Harkness is on the verge of flunking out of Harvard, alienated from his parents, and running around with a wealthy undergrad friend named John. Peter started on pep pills, switched to pot, began dealing in a small way and then became a runner for friend John.

Peter makes a trip to the West Coast to pick up the usual shipment, but his connection is in the midst of a raid (fabricated by the police to make themselves look good) and the deal goes haywire. He meets a young chick known as Sukie and gets enamored. Once he gets back to Boston it turns out John has arranged for Sukie to bring 40 bricks of pot to the East. But Sukie gets busted by a crooked narcotics agent and it is up to Peter to get her out of trouble.

The pen name Michael Douglas stands for Michael Crichton and his younger brother Douglas. Michael began writing pulp thrillers while he was a medical student, turned out a best seller, "The Andromeda Strain," and then produced a nonfiction work on the operation of a big teaching hospital under the title "Five Patients." The present novel is about a million miles from either of Michael's previous books.

MRS. SURRY GUY GILLUM

Miss Cook, Mr. Gillum Exchange Wedding Vows

Miss Rhonda Lee Cook became the bride of Surry Guy Gillum in a double ring ceremony held at 4 p.m. Friday, January 1, in the Star Church of Christ with C. Dan Mitchell of Duncanville, brother-in-law of the bride, officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Cook of Star, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Surry H. Gillum of Route One, Hermleigh.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and chose a street-length gown of peau de soie. The sleeveless empire featured a round neck with the bodice being covered with lace brocade. The veil of illusion fell in tiers from a rose design. She carried a bouquet of white carnations covering a white Bible.

Ross Gillum of Hermleigh, brother to the groom, ushered and lighted the white candles which shone above the cedar and holly berries decorations. Ross sang "Lord We Come Before Thee Now." The couple sang "Be With Us Lord" to conclude the ceremony.

Mrs, Lynda Mitchell of Duncanville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a red velvet A-line sleeveless skimmer. Randy Gillum of Hermleigh, brother to the groom, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of Mrs. Bertha Boykin of Star, grandmother to the bride. Lynda Mitchell registered guests. Miss Doris Dulin of Roscoe, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Donna Northam of Stephenville served sandwiches and fruit salad along with the cake and punch.

The bride is a graduate of Star High School and is a junior at Tarleton State College where she is majoring in mathematics and business education. The bridegroom graduated from Snyder High School and is presently a senior music education major at Tarleton State College.

After a honeymoon in east Texas, the couple will reside at 1495 Mulberry, Apartment No. 4 in Stephenville where they will continue as Tarleton students.

Mr. Holt Speaks To FHA Clubs

The Travis Junior High Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America Club was hostess to the Snyder High School and Lamar Junior High Chapters, their mothers and sponsors, recently in the Travis Homemaking Dept. Cindy Isbell, club president, welcomed the guests and introduced the speaker, Wayland Holt, District Judge. Mr. Holt spoke to the group on "The Roots of Crime." He said that contrary to what we sometimes see on TV, there is nothing glamorous about crime. He stressed the causes of crime which included crimes against property or involving property, usually caused by greed; crimes against the person, caused by passion; crimes involving narcotics and alcohol, caused by those seeking escape; and malicious mischief caused by those seeking thrill. Mr. Holt summed up his talk with the reading of an article by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI. The article said in part that the roots of crime are in the breakdown of the home, school and church. Mr. Holt urged the group as future homemakers to prepare themselves for their roles which will help eliminate our society's roots of crime.

Nancy Bogle, Cindy Isbell, Pat Grant, Judy Rich, Bonnie Tullis, Karne Cox, Lorene McDonald, and Kate Nitch greeted guests. Sue Morris and Mary Pesena served punch and cookies from the dining table which featured a centerpiece of winter flowers. Other hostesses were Donna Walser, Alice Costillo, Lydia Costillo, Mary Soria and Julie Burditt.

The next combined meeting will be Feb. 22. The girls of the Lamar Junior High Chapter will be hostesses.

Ballerina Can Return To Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Natalya Makarova, the Russian ballerina who recently defected, has been granted court permission to re-enter her Park Avenue apartment, after she was locked out and denied access to what she described as all her "worldly possessions."

An affidavit in State Supreme Court Thursday said Miss Makarova and her interpreter and composer, Vladimir Rodzienko, sublet the apartment from Irene Epstein for three months at $400 a month.

A dispute arose when Mrs. Epstein claimed the Russians had inflicted $1,000 damage on the premises, and had failed to pay telephone and electric bills. While negotiations were going on, the affidavit added, Mrs. Epstein had the locks on the apartment changed.

Diet Of 19-Year-Old Boy Chosen For Tests

BALTIMORE (AP) — The eating habits of a 19-year-old boy are being used by the federal government to test food for possibly dangerous substances —including pesticide residues, salmonella bacteria and now, mercury.

Under a program known as Market Basket Surveys, Food and Drug Administration inspectors in five cities go shopping six times a year for the amount of food the U.S. Department of Agriculture says a 19-year-old boy eats every two weeks. The food is shipped to FDA laboratories in Kansas City for testing.

"For the first time in the history of the Market Basket Surveys," said Maurice L. Strait, FDA Baltimore district director, "FDA will test for mercury in wheat flour, nonfat dry milk, cane sugar, white potatoes, hamburger, raw chicken, beef liver, eggs and whole milk."

The diet of a 19-year-old boy was chosen because the Agriculture Department determined that youths in that age group eat more than anyone else.

"We feel that if it's safe for a 19-year-old boy, it's safe for the country," said FDA inspector Marvin A. Blumberg as he loaded up a shopping cart with the help of his partner, Addison B. Sales.

Sales said there are some problems involved in the shopping forays, He said his biggest was talking a woman out of the last apple pie on the shelf. "She yielded to science," he said.

On the shopping list of items to be tested are 117 foods in 12 commodity categories. An FDA spokesman in Washington said they didn't necessarily represent what any particular 19-year-old ate, but were simply a composite of a moderate-income diet. He also said amounts varied slightly among the five regions, headquartered in Baltimore, Boston, Kansas City, Los Angeles and Minneapolis.

Among the items were a pound of roast beef, more than two pounds of chicken, more than a pound each of hamburger and pork chops, five pounds of canned pork and beans, 14 eggs, almost eight quarts of fresh milk, more than a quart of ice cream, 12 ounces of cheese, 13 ounces of fresh oranges and seven ounces of fresh spinach, collard greens or mustard greens.

Oilmen Watch Goal Pledges

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon's State of the Union message made no direct reference to the petroleum industry but two of the six major goals he outlined before the new Congress will be watched closely by oilmen.

One goal pledges continued efforts to restore and enhance the nation's natural environment. Nixon said he will propose "strong new set of initiatives to clean up air and water ...."

Another goal calls for a complete reform of the federal government itself, including the consolidation of eight of the present 12 cabinet departments into four to be known as human resources, community development, natural resources, and economic development.

A year ago, Nixon at least indirectly laid the groundwork for a variety of new gasolines by terming the automobile as the nation's worst polluter of the air and announced that stricter emission standards would be established.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare later outlined auto-exhaust standards for 1973 and 1975 vehicles to back the government's goal of pollution-free automobiles by 1980. The House Ways and Means Committee, however, rejected a White House proposal that a tax be placed on lead used to improve the anti-knock quality of gasolines.

Most major refiners have reacted to the stricter standards by placing lead-free or low-lead gasolines on the market. Consumer reaction remains to be determined. Refiners emphasize, however, it will take years to get off the highways all the pre-1971 vehicles that need leaded gasolines.

Nixon said his new environmental proposals will add to the foundation laid in the 37-point program he submitted to Congress last year.

The multiplicity of departments and agencies involved in petroleum matters, either directly or indirectly, has prompted considerable industry concern in the past. Some of the industry's friends in Congress have at times favored establishment of a department of natural resources.

Nixon's new message visualizes a department "concerned with our physical environment, and with the preservation and balanced use of those great natural resources on which our nation depends."

A Senate bill that died with the last Congress called for establishment of a commission on fuels and energy. The commission would have been charged with insuring that the nation's energy requirements are met and with reconciling environmental quality requirements with energy needs.

The American Petroleum Institute endorsed the proposal as a step toward bringing about a more coordinated approach to governmental policies relating to fuels and energy.

The institute said matters such as taxation, regulation of natural gas pricing, oil import controls, and protection of the environment are currently considered by different federal departments and agencies and by different congressional committees.

"There is an inevitable tendency to view each issue as a separate entity and to make decisions without regard to the effect those decisions may have on the overall question of the nation's long-term energy needs," the institute said.

He says more and more policemen, night watchmen and other outdoor workers are wearing tights under socks and trousers to keep themselves warm.

Stockyards Ordered Kept Open

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge has extended, at least temporarily, the life of Chicago's historic Union Stockyards.

The 105-year-old operation that made Chicago, in the words of poet Carl Sandburg, "hog butcher for the world," had planned to close Monday.

Judge Hubert L. Will of U.S. District Court issued an order Friday directing the Union Stock Yard & Transit Co. to keep the yards open until Feb. 8 while lawyers try to reach an agreement on its future.

Representatives of the Illinois meat industry had asked the court to keep the stockyards open until other ways of handling livestock could be arranged.

Handling of hogs at the South Side yards was halted in May 1970.

The company announced in October that it would close the yards permanently Feb. 1 as a result of dwindling receipts. Large numbers of cattle are now taken to slaughter at points farther west and closer to the main beef-producing areas.

The commission men, farmers, feeders and buyers who brought the suit hope to force the stockyards to stay in business until August when another facility is scheduled to open near Joliet south of Chicago.

TV Suit Dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge here has dismissed a lawsuit attempting to ban television programs depicting violence until after children have gone to bed.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge John J. Sirica told the Foundation to Improve Television, which brought the suit Nov. 12, it had not exhausted all possible remedies through the Federal Communications Commission.

The foundation asked specifically that afternoon reruns of the program, "The Wild, Wild West," be banned on Washington TV station WTOP, and that programs of a violent nature not be broadcast before 9 p.m.

The foundation alleged programs depicting violence harm the mental health and well-being of children.

Mustang Park Suit Entering Third Week

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal court suit to block the purchase of Mustang Island acreage for a state park is scheduled to enter its third week Monday with the defense's first witness still on the stand.

Maurice Arnold, regional director of the U. S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, testified Friday that State Parks and Wildlife Chairman Pearce Johnson never had the power to veto applications for federal grants.

Johnson seeks to block a $2.1 million federal grant awarded to help buy 3,800 acres of Mustang. He says his signature as state liaison officer is needed to make an application legal.

Arnold the first defense witness, said the BOR asked governors to name state liaison officers in 1963 as "an administrative invention" to get certain new programs off the ground.

In Texas, the Parks and Wildlife chairman was made the liaison officer. The federal land and Water Conservation Fund Act in 1964 said the BOR would deal with whatever officer or agency was designated by the state.

The 1965 legislature responded by designating the three-man Parks and Wildlife Commission as the only agency that could deal with the BOR for park grants, Arnold said.

Johnson was appointed chairman of the P&W Department by Gov. Preston Smith in 1969. He signed applications for federal grants, but so far as the BOR was concerned Johnson simply signed as commission chairman and not as a liaison officer whose signature was necessary to make it legal, Arnold said.

Johnson was outvoted by the other two commissioners, Harry Jersig and L. P. Gilvin, on a proposal to spend $2.1 million in state park bond money to buy the mustang acreage. Jesig and Gilvin authorized the application for the federal matching grant.

Johnson says the $2.1 million in state park money virtually exhauts that fund and no further park land acquisitions could be made until 1975, leaving populated areas that have a shortage of park land out in the cold.

Jersig and Gilvin say the Mustang property is an outstanding buy and must be taken now before it is sold to developers of oil interests.

U. S. Dist. Judge Jack Roberts overruled a motion by a group of conservationists to intervene in the case.

U. S. Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., of Houston represented the conservationists. He put on two witnesses, State Sen. Ronald Bridges of Corpus Christi and Mrs. Margaret Louise Hancock of Austin, who supported the Mustang purchase.

"This is a must. It is a necessity to preserve ... the few miles left (of beaches)," Bridges said.

Power Failure Blamed In LLTV Crash

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The space agency says an electrical power failure caused the crash of a $1.8 million moon landing trainer. The pilot parachuted to safety.

The Lunar Landing Training Vehicle (LLTV) which had been used earlier this month by Apollo 14 commander Alan B. Shepard Jr., crashed and burned on a check flight Friday. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is investigating the cause of the power failure.

It was the third such crash of a LLTV and leaves only one of the rocket-powered craft for training future moon mission crews.

Space agency pilot Stuart M. Present was at the controls and ejected safely just before the LLTV exploded on an Ellington Air Force Base runway. Officials said the craft went out of control after on board electrical power failed while Present was hovering at about 200 feet.

Shepard, who will be launched toward the moon from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Sunday, flew the destroyed LLTV on Jan. 5. It was his last training flight before the moon mission and his 27th time to fly an LLTV.

Publisher Leaves Millions To Charity

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Harry F. Guggenheim left more than $12 million to charity, according to his will filed for probate Friday in Surrogate's Court.

In addition, the former publisher of the Long Island newspaper Newsday, who died last week, left $100,000 each to several organizations and friends. The remainder of the estate was left to relatives.

Bill Moyers who was publisher of Newsday under Guggenheim, originally was named for a $100,000 bequest, but Guggenheim canceled the legacy in an amendment to his will.

Equal Opportunity Is Hot Issue In Sweden

By ANN WILKENS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Equal opportunity still is a hot issue in Sweden, but there appear to be strong tendencies toward less rigid views on sex roles.

"Men can now say they can't go to a board meeting unless it is held in their home and they can look after the children," says Camilla Odhnoff; Sweden's family minister.

"Girls are starting to choose less conventional careers, but in this respect I think men are still conservative," she adds.

The status of women in Sweden has been a controversial issue here since long before 1921, when they were first allowed to go to the polls.

It is perhaps significant that the terminology has changed.

What was once the "woman question" has become the "sex role question" or even the "low-income question."

Mrs. Odhnoff, speaking for the Social Democratic government, does not think euqality can be achieved by changing laws which are already designed to serve this very end.

This is where views differ; on how to interpret the rules.

In the name of children, in the name of love and in the name of that diffuse quality called "womanhood," they have been read out to mean just about anything.

Militant feminists in Sweden have already started using expressions like "women power" and some are, at least in words, committing themselves to unparliamentary action.

Mrs. Odhnoff does not think there would be any point in taking such action.

"It would be a great step in the wrong direction," she said.

"There is a great deal of attention focused on low-income problems right now and in this context, women's problems can be solved without an excess of hostility."

The equal-pay principle in Swedish government service was established in 1947. The year before, women had become eligible to apply for certain posts in government service where before no women were allowed.

Since 1961, the established national church, the Evangelical Lutheran church, has been ordaining women as ministers. But only about 30 Swedish ministers have chosen that as a career.

Swedish women in industrial work were given their formal right in 1960, when the largest trade union, ILO, and the Swedish Employers' Confederation agreed to introduce equal pay for men and women doing the same job. During the following five years, special pay scales for women in collectivewage agreements were abolished. It was only after this agreement had been reached that Sweden ratified the ILO convention on equal pay.

So much for the letter of the law. Reality is a great deal grimmer for Swedish career women.

One example: for every $20 earned by a 35-year-old male shop assistant, a 35-year-old female shop assistant earns a little less than $15, even if they are both working at the same place, doing more or less the same job, a recent survey disclosed. And, of course, since these jobs are low-salaried — even for women — most shop assistants are women.

"Equal pay is not enough, we must get equal work," Mrs. Odhnoff added.

"One thing which has to be done and is done in this context is to speed up the building of day-care centers. This has increased by 30 per cent during the last year, but the lines of waiting parents are still longer than ever."

In 1967, a survey on the need for day-care centers showed between 70 and 90 per cent of all mothers prefer to leave their children in centers rather than with private families.

Every second mother would prefer professional work to being a housewife if acceptable care for her children could be provided. But faced with the prospect of having to pay a private baby-sitter of unknown experience, many give up their plans.

According to one count, Sweden loses $120 million a year on women not participating in the economy. The discrimination factor is estimated to account for half of that.

But, ask some conservatives, aren't women are less ambitious than men in their professional lives? Because she is under stress from her double role as housewife and worker, doesn't a woman have a more negative attitude towards her work? And are not women absent morefrequently than men?

The Swedish Council for Personnel Administration found these answers:

— Women in general have a more appreciative attitude towards their work than men. They experience their work as interesting and engaging in more cases, and are more content with bosses, salaries and information regarding the situation in their place to work.

— Women are more satisfied with their working hours than men (this, however, is to some extent due to he fact that shift work is often adjusted for women because of their pressing double roles as both housewives and professionals).

— Women do not show larger absenteeism than men.

About a year earlier, a survey carried out by the afternoon paper "Expressen" asked employment exchange agencies of the views they encounter among prospective employers. Some of them were:

— You cannot ask a woman to run around doing errands-you have to have a man for that.

— A man cannot clean a house. He just doesn't see the dust or the dirt.

— Men are good at anything technical. Except, of course, to handle a switchboard. For that you have to have a woman.

Though progress is still slow, Swedish feminists can enjoy various recent break-ins into traditionally male-dominated areas. One example is Ingrid Garde-Widemar, who was last year appointed justice to the Supreme Court—the first woman ever to enter the country's top legal body.

The greater problem, however, that of women in low-salaried jobs, many of them alone with children to take care of, seems to move more slowly towards a much distant solution.

Albert To Retire In Bug Tussle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carl Albert, the new speaker of the House, says he plans to retire from politics within eight years and spend his old age in Bug Tussle, Okla., the tiny community where he was reared.

Albert, 62, gave this preview of his plans in an interview with WKY radio of Oklahoma City Thursday.

"I've always planned to retire there," he said. "No place has ever been home to me except Bug Tussle. I don't plan to stay here until I'm 70 years old."

Junior Editors Quiz on HUSKIES

QUESTION: What is the origin of the husky dog?

* * *

ANSWER: There are several breeds of powerful dogs used to haul dog sleds in Northern countries. They are often spoken of as huskies or Eskimo dogs, for they are related in type even if originating in different places. These breeds are alike in having heavy coats which allow them to endure the Arctic cold, as well as in possessing great strength, courage and intelligence. Huskies belong to a dog grouping called lupine, because such breeds have sometimes been crossed with wolves, from which animals huskies probably originated. The Eskimo dog (upper right) is a powerful animal weighing about 85 pounds. Three to eight such dogs make a team pulling a sled with carries supplies. A driver usually walks or runs behind, hopping on the sled now and then to catch his breath. The Malamute is supposed to have originated in Alaska about 1000 B.C. or earlier. The Siberian huskies and the beautiful white Samoyeds are other husky breeds thought to have originated in Siberia, also about 1000 B.C.

UT Students Get Scholarship

AUSTIN (AP) — Two University of Texas students have won Rhodes scholarships, bringing to 20 the number from the Austin campus who have gained the opportunity for studying at Oxford University.

Larry R. Grisham, 21, of Lufkin and Marvin Henberg, 22, of Laramie, Wyo., are among 32 students from the United States selected to receive scholarships this year.

The scholarships were set up by Cecil Rhodes, British diamond magnate in his will in 1903.

Hot Pants Upset British Tax Men

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Britain's tax man views hot pants not as a boon to legwatchers but as a tax dodge for British women.

Hot pants are short shorts cut along the lines of men's basketball briefs and designed to flash seductively from beneath a slit or see-through skirt. Paris says they're the thing this year.

But they're causing no end of trouble to the harried Customs and Excise Department, which has the job of rounding up the money to run the British government.

The department complained today that fashion-minded women are buying thousands of dollars worth of children's shorts as hot pants, evading Britain's 14 per cent tax on clothing for adults. There is no levy on children's clothes in Britain.

The tax men said the trouble stems from the regulation that says shorts with larger than a 28-inch waist are for Mom and are taxable but those with smaller waist sizes are for daughter.

"But how many swinging girls do you know with a 28-inch waist?" Said a frustrated Bureaucrat. "Anyone with a waist that large and hips to match wouldn't want to wear hot pants anyway."

Shorts manufacturers say they are caught in the middle.

"It's absolute chaos in the trade," said Robert Krausz, managing director of Dolly Dressmakers. "Some people are charging purchase tax, some are not."

Krausz is appealing a Customs and Excuse ruling that taxed two hot pants outfits he designed. The shorts are being bought by women, but Krausz says they are within the measurement limits for children's wear.

The population of Tonga is about 81,000.

Communist Criticizes Bombings

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — An old-line Communist has some advice for violent young radicals:

"The power of capitalism is not in the toilets of big buildings."

Gus Hall, 60, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, was critical Friday of bombings, blamed on young revolutionaries, at large buildings which house some corporate headquarters.

Hall told to the Yale University Society for Marxist Studies that young U.S. radicals are the "shock troops" of the "progressive movement in America."

But, he said, "shock troops by themselves have never won a war" and must relate to "the main body of troops."

He said he feared the radical youngsters had isolated themselves from the laboring man.

Hall denied that Jews are subject to persecution in the Soviet Union. In a question period, he said "misinformation about socialist states" was responsible for such a conclusion.
