Cotton Men Ask Ouster Jardine

SOUTHERN GOVERNORS COTTON CONFERENCE ARE URGED TO ACT; MOODY IS PERMANENT CHAIRMAN

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—The Dallas cotton exchange today sent a telegram to Gov. Dan Moody of Texas and chief executives of other southern states in a cotton acreage reduction conference at Jackson, Miss., urging that meeting to take all possible steps to have William Jardine, secretary of agriculture, ousted from office. The telegram declared "various statements of Mr. Jardine have cost the producers of cotton hundreds of millions of dollars."

The telegram declared that "the various statements of Mr. Jardine have cost the producer of cotton hundreds of millions of dollars. We believe Mr. Jardine acted beyond any authority vested in him and warrants immediate dismissal from the influential position he holds, and we earnestly urge you to use every effort to bring this about."

The message attacked, specifically, Mr. Jardine's statement that cotton would decline within a few months, declaring "it undermined the whole structure of cotton values," and another "showing a much larger carry-over than actually existed."

"These statements," the telegram declared, "poured hundreds of millions of dollars into foreign countries at the expense of his own country."

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 20. (AP)—Governor Dan Moody of Texas, who called a cotton acreage reduction conference of southern states under way here today, was elected permanent chairman of the conference by acclamation.

In his address to the convention the Texas governor declared the purpose was to deal with a problem affecting 90 per cent of the world's population, to secure for

HOME TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

The call to "constitutional Democrats" to organize to fight against the "nomination of Al Smith, Jim Reed, Governor Ritchie or any other modification of the eighteenth amendment" uses such terms as "vicious minority," "alien enemies" and the "demons of rum." Rather uncomplimentary terms, it seems to us, to apply to fellow citizens and fellow Democrats when we are about to organize our forces to go into battle against the common enemy.

Isn't it possible that the great majority of those who are supporting Al Smith, for instance, are doing so because he has proven himself an able administrator and a courageous leader, whose sympathies have always been with the common people? And is there any question in the minds of anybody but that Al Smith would enforce the national prohibition laws much better than they have been enforced?

It's all right to pour it on the Republicans as was done in the call to the "constitutional Democrats," but we don't like to hear one group of Democrats calling others names. What hope is there of winning with any candidate when there is such a feeling as the campaign is about to open?

We hope Democrats who do not require qualification of the term will control the precinct conventions in Wichita county and throughout Texas. If Democrats, just plain, unqualified Democrats, control, we don't believe there need be much worry about instructing for or against somebody

WIRE TAPPING EVIDENCE PUT BEFORE COURT

SUPREME COURT ASKED TO RULE ON LEGALITY OF OFFICERS' ACT

CONSTITUTION VIOLATED CLAIM OF DEFENDANTS

90 Convicted By Evidence of Federal Officers Who Cut In on Phone Wires.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Returning from its month's recess, the supreme court was confronted in oral argument today with a constitutional question concerning the legality of evidence obtained by the government by wire tapping methods.

The case is that of Roy Olmstead and about 90 others who were convicted in Seattle, Washington, on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The trial evidence indicated the employment of two seagoing vessels to bring the liquor from Scotland to British Columbia, a fleet of swift boats to land in on the coast of Washington, a large underground cache outside Seattle, and a number of smaller ones in the city for retail business, with a central office and a large force of employes, doing a monthly business reaching as high as $176,000.

Tapping Brings Evidence.

Discovery of the conspiracy largely effected through wiretapping by four federal prohibition officers, who listened in on the telephone conversations, mostly at the office of the organization in the Henry building, and partly at the homes of four of the convicted men.

Counsel for the convicted men contend that while evidence illegally obtained by state officials and others than federal officers may be used by the federal government in court proceedings, a long line of decisions by the highest tribunal had firmly established that evidence illegally obtained by federal officers must be excluded.

Whether the evidence had been illegally obtained by federal prohibition agents by wire tapping was the nub of the controversy.

Constitution Violated Claim.

Counsel for the men insisted that the fourth amendment, protecting "the rights of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizure," was sufficiently broad to gukrantee privacy to their telephones, and that it was clearly established under the fifth amendment that evidence obtained by listening in could not be offered because it would have the effect of compelling them to be witnesses against themselves.

Lawyer Rolls Dice Before Witnesses in Gaming Charge Trial

By H. I. KIEFER

The 89th district court delved Monday into rules and regulations of the great American game of "craps."

Not only was the court record thickly sprinkled with scientific terms associated with the game, but on one occasion an attorney demonstrated just exactly what is meant by "shooting craps," while several others engaged in the particular case gathered closely around in front of the jury box.

The demonstartion occurred soon after a jury had been chosen to try J. K. Roach on an indictment charging him with operating a gaming table and bank. The charge grew out of a raid upon a room in a local hotel last August 15.

Roach, who entered a plea of not guilty, was jointly indicted with E. S. Kuhn. A severance of the two cases was demanded, however, when the case was called Monday morning, so Roach went to trial alone, with that of Kuhn scheduled to follow. Most of Monday morning was required to complete the jury, and the first witness to be called still was on the stand, awaiting a continuance of the cross examination of defense attorneys, when court reconvened Monday afternoon.

From the start, the case was marked as a major legal engagement. E. F. Fruechte and Sam B. Spence, assistant district attorneys, conducted the prosecution, while two former district attorneys were among the three attorneys for the

OKLA. OFFICERS DENY CHARGES STEALING LOOT

LOVE COUNTY PAIR FIGHT AGAINST ACCUSATION MADE BY STATE

PART OF BANK BANDIT CACHE LOOT INVOLVED

Daughter of One of County Officers Named as Witness Against Her Father.

BOMAR, Okla., Feb. 20. (AP)—A battery of nine volunteer defense attorneys today was prepared to fight back vigorously against the state's prosecution of James C. Mathers and Wes Croy, county judge and county attorney, respectively, of Love county, who faced preliminary trial on a charge of appropriating $5600 of the loot stolen from the Love County National bank at Marietta several weeks ago.

The defense staff was headed by James H. Mathers of Oklahoma City, father of Judge Mathers and for 13 years county attorney of Carter county. The elder Mathers several years ago prosecuted Clara Smith Hamon, who was acquitted of a charge of murdering her husband's uncle, Jake Hamon, millionaire Ardmore oil man and Republican national committeeman.

The preliminary trial was brought to Bomar on a change of venue.

The state charges that Croy and Mathers, who accompanied Claude Andrews, confessed member of the bandit gang, to the spot where at least a portion of the bank loot was buried appropriated the greater portion of the stolen $9000 before returning a bag of money to the bank.

The defense attorneys said they would point out that Croy played a leading part in the gun fight with the bandits after the robbery, standing in an exposed place to shoot at the intruders. Sheriff Sam C. Long was fatally wounded in the fight after he had killed Oscar Harrison, one of the robbers. For seven days, the elder Mathers said, his son and Croy hunted unceasingly for the outlaws, never removing their clothes during that time.

Miss Willie Kim White and Miss Mary Birch were expected to be the principal state witnesses. In a statement to Hansen, assistant attorney general, Miss White said she saw two glass jars containing money in the attic of Croy's home soon after he had returned the bag of money to the bank. She said she counted the money in one jar and that it was more than $2000.

Miss Marguerite Croy, daughter of the county attorney, has also made a statement declaring that she called attention of Miss White and Miss Birch to the money, attorneys said.

TEXAS SENATOR FILES REQUEST THAT CONGRESS MAKE INQUIRY INTO POLICY FEDERAL RESERVE

(Special to the Times)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—An investigation of the administration of the federal reserve bank of Dallas is called for in a resolution introduced in the senate today by Senator Mayfield.

This demand is predicated on the charge that the affairs of the bank have been administered in a manner which has worked many hardships on the farming and livestock interests in the territory included in the 11th federal reserve district. It also is charged that there has been lack of cooperation between the governor of the bank with member banks in the rural communities.

The resolution asks that the investigation be conducted by the senate committee on banking and currency that it have power to summon witnesses and examine all papers and other evidence.

In discussing the resolution Senator Mayfield said:

"The resolution speaks for itself.

"The West Texas Chamber of Commerce representing an agricultural section of our state that is larger in area than the states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois by 10,000 square miles and speaking for more than 2,000,000 persons advised me that it would look with favor upon any resolution introduced in congress that would bring about an investigation of the affairs of the federal reserve bank of the 11th district. Such a request cannot be ignored.

"Quite a controversy has arisen between the governor of the federal reserve bank of the 11th district and the member banks, particularly small banks and rural communities.

"I am sure that it is to the best interests of all concerned that a conclusion of this controversy be had at the earliest possible moment and therefore the resolution for an investigation."

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 19.—The bill of Senator Walsh of Montana the other day to investigate the power trust kinder put the boys in the senate on record as to who was on the pay roll.

I was glad to see some Democrats among those favored, for it shows the old party is learning enough to not just sit as usual and let the Republicans grab everything. Fine chance that bill had passing before the campaign funds were made up. The Democrats are getting smarter every day. They wanted in on the campaign contributions too.

HELMS HOLDS HIS BABE IN LAP AT TRIAL AS BANDIT

EASTLAND, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—Holding his four-year-old daughter, Norma, in his lap, Henry Helms, charged with robbery by firearms in connection with the robbery of the First National bank of Cisco, today listened as the list of 250 veniremen was called in his case here. Judge G. L. Davenport of 91st district court overruled several motions of J. Lee Cearley, defense counsel.

Motions overruled included one to quash the indictment, charging robbery by firearms December 23, of A. Spears, cashier of the Cisco bank, on the ground that the indictment did not allege that the $12,000 was taken "without the consent" of Spears. Another unsuccessful motion was for a continuance on the grounds that Helm's mental and physical condition is such that he cannot stand trial. A third motion asking for testimony of witnesses before the grand jury was overruled, but Judge Davenport ordered the defense be furnished with a list of such witnesses.

The father of Helms, Rev. J. C. Helms, pastor of the Church of God in Oklahoma City, his wife and five children, ranging in age from 12 to 2, arrived here this morning and were in the city auditorium, where the trial is being held.

100,000 Letters Posted in Air Mail To Be Carried Late Monday by Flier Who Quit Service to Fly Atlantic

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20. (AP)—A flurry of airmail letters poured into postal stations and corner mail baxe today to the call of a modern pied piper, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

From all kinds of people, came the red, white and blue missives in a last minute rush for the one day return of Colonel Lindbergh to his old St. Louis-Springfield-Peoria-Chicago airmail route.

Meanwhile Colonel Lindbergh's plane, assigned for the flight, one of the regular airmail machines, and five others were at Lambert-St. Louis field ready to take on their cargoes. Postal men estimated the number of letters consigned to the flight would run close to 200,000. More than 100,000 pieces of mail had been collected last night, and collections were to be continued almost to place time.

The flight was scheduled to start at the regular airmail time, 4:15 p. m. It was expected the planes would reach Chicago at 7:15 p. m. After stopping at Springfield and Peoria, Ill., to discharge and load cargoes of souvenir letters and regular mail.

Five other pilots, Phillip R. Love, and Thomas P. Nelson, Lindbergh's "buddies" on former airmail flights, Harlan E. Gurney, E. L. Sloniger and Leslie Smith, the regular airmail pilots of the Robertson Airmail corporation were chosen to accompany the famous flier on the flight.

Most of the 100,000 letters in the postal stations last night were mailed by persons outside of St. Louis. These had been enclosed in envelopes addressed to the postmaster and contained instructions to mail them for the Lindbergh flight.

Million-Dollar Tooth of Aboriginal American Identified by Science as Molar of Extinct Species Wild Pigs

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—A much patched "million dollar tooth," once hailed by the American museum of natural history as proof that a forerunner of man lived in Nebraska, has now been identified by the museum as the molar of an extinct species of wild pig.

The retraction has been made by Professor William K. Gregory of the museum after discovery of several similar teeth in the same locality in association with the remains of a prosthennope or extinct peccary.

The tooth was found in a river bed in 1922 by Harold J. Cook, a Nebraska geologist. It was subjected to every test known, the February, 1925, bulletin of the museum said, and "every suggestion made by scientific skeptics was weighed and found wanting."

The tooth, which often was thrown up to William Jennings Bryan in the course of the evolution controversy because it came from his home state, got its name "million dollar tooth," from an incident in the laboratory where it was being X-rayed.

As Professor Gregory handed it to an assistant who was to make the pictures he said:

"Now, be mighty careful, that tooth is worth a million dollars."

The assistant, flustered, dropped the tooth to the tiled floor. It broke into many pieces, but these were picked up and cemented together and the X-raying and the controversy went on.

The tooth was known as the Hesperopithecus Haroldcookii, the latter name in honor of the geologist who found it. The molar closely resembled that of a known tooth of pithecanthropus, the Java ape man.

GILLIOM SEEKS TO PUT KLAN OUT OF STATE

Witness Testifies That Agent of Imperial Office Told Klan "To Tar" Some.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 20. (AP)—Hugh F. "Pat" Emmons, of South Bend, Ind., today gave a deposition to Attorney General Gilliom in which he declared a representative of the imperial office of the Ku Klux Klan had advised valley klan No. 53 that the way to get members was to bent up somebody and do some tar and feathering.

Emmons, formerly exalted cyclops of the klan of South Bend, said officials of that unit of the organization would not consider such tactics. Gilliom took Emmons' testimony for use in the suit he filed recently in circuit court in which he asked that the klan be declared in receivership and be deprived of its state charter.

Mr. Emmons said a Mr. Sirman, representing himself to be from the imperial office, told klansmen at a South Bend meeting within the last year or so that "we needed a little more southern spirit."

"We were letting our klan spirit die," Emmons said Sirman asserted. "If they took some one out in this Catholic city and gave them a good beating and tarred and feathered somebody, membership would increase by hundreds," Emmons said the man told them. He said they also were told there should be some demonstration "to shake up the Protestant people."

When Emmons, at the time exalted cyclops of valley Klan No. 53, objected, the witness said Sirman called him "weak kneed and yellow."

Emmons, who said he ceased to be an officer of the klan on July 1, 1927, also testified that klansmen of South Bend and St. Joseph county, wanted to know of W. Lee Smith, when he was grand dragon of Indiana, what was being done with money that had come into the national and state offices.

He said Smith informed him that if the klan wanted to put over any sort of program "we had to do it with politics." Emmons quoted Smith as having said that "a lot of money is being spent that we don't dare to show."

Charles J. Oroison of Indianapolis, an attorney for the klan, entered objections to many questions asked the witness.

During questioning pertaining to a klan meeting held at Indianapolis October 12, 1921, Emmons said he thought it was on that occasion that F. Harold Van Orman, now lieutenant governor, "made a wonderful speech."

Attorney General Gilliom wanted to know if Governor Jackson's name was mentioned at the meeting and Emmons said he wasn't sure as to that point but he was certain that Jackson was not present.

RECOVERY OF ADDITIONAL LOOT ADDS IMPETUS OF SEARCH FOR TRIO WANTED IN JEWEL THEFT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20. (AP)—Finding of gold wrist watch bands valued at $150 near Handley gave impetus today to the hunt for three young men who it is believed switched trunks and robbed Joe Optican, New York jewelry salesman, of unmounted gems and jewelry valued at approximately $60,000. The trunks were switched somewhere between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth Friday night or Saturday.

The jewelry yesterday was found by the small son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Webb at the side of the road near Handley where it evidently had been thrown out of an automobile in which the thieves were riding. About $3000 worth of jewelry and two jewel cases were recovered in a Dallas hotel Saturday. Two men who had registered in the room in which it was located failed to return.

LAWYER ROLLS DICE IN GAMING TRIAL

defense. The attorneys representing Roach are James V. Allred, former district attorney here; Jesse Brown, former district attorney at Fort Worth, and Shields Heyser, a local attorney.

Happened August 15

R. D. Morris, one of the principal state witnesses, was the first called to testify and he quickly gave the testimony upon which the state frankly rests its demands for a verdict of guilty. Morris related that he, Warren Belcher and Charles Gant went to the suspected rooming house on August 15.

"Gant went up the steps ahead of us," Morris testified, "and arrested at the top of the steps a fellow who was the lookout for the game."

Defense attorneys promptly objected to the use of the term, "lookout," and Judge P. A. Martin ordered it stricken from the record.

Morris related that he and Belcher proceeded to the back of the hotel where he climbed upon some furniture piled in the hall so as to look over a transom into a room in which they had heard a noise.

"I saw several men standing on one side of a table," the witness testified. "Roach and Kuhn were back of the table. Kuhn was rolling the dice and Roach was paying off the bets. I saw Kuhn make four of five passes. Once he lost and Roach paid off the bet. The rest of the time, Kuhn won."

Morris gave the name of the man whom, he said, seemed to be betting against Roach.

"You say that Roach was fading the bets?" Mr. Fruechte asked. The deputy answered "yes."

Morris said they then were admitted to the room on their demand. He took from Roach, he testified, a sack containing money, and got other sums from Kuhn. In all, he said, more than $3700 was seized. Officers also took a dice box, a pair of dice and a strip of marked canvas which had been attached to the table, he said.

Actual Demonstration

It was at that point that Mr. Heyser demonstrated just what "shooting craps" is meant as he sought apparently to establish that Morris had not stood at the transom long enough to see four or five "passes." The attorney rattled the dice in a leather cup and rolled the dice in front of the witness.

"See, I shot a six," he remarked. Then he "shot" again after giving the dice several hearty shakes. Then he shook some more until the dice finally "sevened." That meant he would have lost had he been betting.

"Now, if I had been in an old fashioned crap game," he said, "I might have rolled the dice two minutes or longer before passing once."

"Well, in the regular game you might have," responded Morris. "But in this game, I understand—"

The attorneys objected and Mr. Morris was not permitted to tell what he understood.

No attempt was made to explain just what was meant by the term "shooting," "fading" and similar expressions. For the benefit of those not students of the game be it said that "shooting" means the act of rolling the dice; "fading" is the act of calling a bet.

Indications Monday afternoon were that the case would not be completed until late in the day, if by then.

Home Town Talk

—the right thing will be done and the party put up an united front against the enemy.

Might as well not have any Democratic national convention as to approach the campaign in the spirit in which the factions did in 1924.

You don't hear Republicans talking about "alien enemies" or "a vicious minority." Republicans are more practical. No individual or group is "alien" to the Republican party. No minority is "vicious," simply because the Republicans won't recognize aliens or minorities, but draw them in to make a majority. That party prevents a lot of internal troubles simply by avoiding the side issues that would precipitate dissension and keeping everybody together on the issues on which the party can unite. There are several vital issues on which the Democrats can and ought to unite for the good of the country. In party management, at least, Democrats might learn a lot from Republicans.

COTTON ACREAGE REDUCTION MEET

the farmer a return on his crop that is more than the cost of production.

State Senator W. B. Roberts of Bolivar county, Mississippi, discussed a proposal for limiting cotton acreage through state legislation. He proposed using taxing powers of the state to bring about decreased production through a tax for the production of cotton, exempting from this tax those who rotate their crops or plant less than half their acreage in cotton. He also proposed the use of the state's police powers in conserving soil fertility.

Governor Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi emphasized the non-political nature of the convention and declared that something must be done to aid the cotton farmer.

Cooperation of bankers and merchants who influence the credit upon which "the cotton-mad" farmer operates, will be necessary for a successful cotton reduction program, Clarence Ousley of Texas said here today. If we conclude at this meeting, as I anticipate, that we require a reduction of cotton acreage, then we should do all we humanly can to induce the bankers and credit merchants of each cotton state to assemble immediately and adopt a credit policy based upon reduced or restricted cotton acreage. There is not time enough to organize a great public movement such as we had last year. This is a job for those who hold the purse strings. The cotton-minded, cotton-mad, cotton speculating farmer will not heed the counsel of statesmen or economists. He is amenable to only one influence, and that is the influence of the credit which he must have to operate.

"To produce cotton in 1928 as the sole source of income is unsafe farming; extending credit upon it is unsafe banking, and I shall have no sympathy for the farmer or the banker who goes broke on it."

Legislation is needed to secure an equitable adjustment of tariff rates that will maintain a standard of living for agricultural workers equal to that of industrial workers, Ousley said. But we also need legislative restraint of the economic theorists of the department of agriculture who "think they can forecast the price of cotton six months in advance."

"The average cotton-minded farmer," Ousley said, "plants to the limit of his bank credit and if he is east of the Mississippi river he prays for a drouth in Texas and if he is west of the Mississippi he prays that a boll weevil will prevail in the sticks. This is downright gambling. It is not even respectable gambling because the professional gambler would take no such chance as the all-cotton farmer.

"It is idle to talk of organizing a million cotton farmers to carry a surplus. Cooperative marketing is to be encouraged and is making progress but cooperation to that extent is not humanly possible. Whatever merit there may be in other proposals the only hope of relief is the McNary-Haugen bill for the single and potent reason that no bill is possible without a concert of action between the farmers of the west and farmers of the south to exercise a balance of power in congress. The farmers of the west are committed to this method of relief and will accept no other. The west is ready to cooperate with us, and we should forget our party prejudices and embrace the opportunity to save what remains of our small fortunes."

State Control Favored

A resolution to control cotton production through state legislation was among proposals advanced here today at the conference of governors of cotton growing states and their representatives on means for decreasing production and insuring the grower a fair return on his investment.

W. B. Roberts, state senator from Bolivar county, Mississippi, who delivered the keynote speech in advancing the proposal for state legislation to govern cotton production without suggesting limitations for crops, declared such a measure too radical a one to remedy a radical situation.

"Enactment of such a law by the legislature of cotton growing states and its enforcement would mean the salvation of the cotton farmer," Senator Roberts said. "Too many fruitless resolutions, urging reduction of cotton acreage, have been adopted and it is now time to take a decisive stand if the cotton grower is to be saved from his own mistakes. Resolutions will not help, but drastic measures, if enforced, will, and it is the duty of responsible state officials to see that such action is taken."

Mr. Roberts expressed the conviction that from the conference which was called by Governor Dan Moody of Texas, will come a definite plan for curtailing production or else only the customary resolution will be adopted from which no good will result.

Governors present for the conference were: L. G. Hardman of Georgia; Bibb Graves of Alabama; Dan Moody of Texas; O. H. Simpson of Louisiana, and Henry Horton of Tennessee. Governors John E. Martineau of Arkansas; John G. Richards of South Carolina; John W. Martin of Florida, and Johnston of Oklahoma were unable to attend, but were represented by delegations.

The various delegations opened the day with conferences at their respective headquarters on proposals for bringing about the desired results of decreased production and greater profit. Spokesmen said no announcement of their plans would be made, the general attitude being to await the formal introduction of a plan before entering upon discussion.

The proposal of Judge C. E. Thomas of Montgomery, superintendent of banks of Alabama and a member of the conference from that state, was receiving most attention at the confererces. It was understood Judge Thomas would insure reduction of cotton acreage through the medium of banks limiting the growers' credit. The plan received the endorsement from Mississippi and Texas.

TEXAS SENATOR ASKS BANK QUIZ

a resolution for a senatorial investigation of the conduct of the federal reserve bank of the 11th district, located at Dallas, comes as a sequel to several months' efforts by West Texas bankers to bring about the removal of Lynn P. Talley, governor of the bank.

The attack on Talley was initiated by a number of West Texas bankers on basis of claims that policies of the federal reserve bank had been inimical to the interests of the farmers of the western area of the state.

Meetings at Lubbock and Abilene at which scores of West Texas banks were represented during the late months of 1927 went on record as demanding the removal of Talley as governor of the Dallas federal reserve bank.

In face of protests by West Texas bankers, Talley was recently reelected as governor of the Dallas reserve bank by the directors of the organization and opponents of Talley announced that a move would be made to bring about a congressional inquiry into the matter at controversy.

ANTI-TALLEY LEADER SILENT ON RESOLUTION

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20. (AP)—J. P. Williams of Mineral Wells, Texas, leader of some 200 Texas bankers who recently sought the removal of Lynn P. Talley as governor of the Dallas federal reserve bank, today declined to comment upon the resolution of Senator Earle Mayfield which asked a congressional investigation of the eleventh federal reserve bank.

When the board of directors of the Dallas federal reserve bank last month reelected Governor Talley after two executive sessions of the board in which the policies of Governor Talley were investigated, Mr. Williams predicted that a congressional investigation was certain. At that time Mr. Williams announced that so far as the complaining bankers were concerned the case was ended, that it was then up to congress to either ignore the complaints of the Texas bankers or take some action.

The Texas bankers at the time of the Dallas investigation testified that they were not complaining of the policies of the federal reserve bank, but were indignant at the alleged tactics employed by Governor Talley in endorsing the reserve bank policies. They alleged that Governor Talley was "vindictive, officious and discourteous, and wholly out of sympathy with the needs of the smaller country bankers."

SIX DIE IN SERIES HOUSTON TRAGEDIES NINE MORE INJURED

HOUSTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Six persons were killed and nine injured in a series of accidents, cuttings and shooting affrays in and near Houston in the past 24 hours, according to a police survey Monday.

Automobile accidents took the lives of Leroy Smith, four; James Goodpasture, three, and Robert M. Guinn, 82.

The accidental discharge of a shotgun was responsible for the death of Herman Krone, 25. Ethel Scott, negress, died from knife wounds after a cutting affray and Senie Frazier, negress, was clubbed to death in the negro section.

Of the injured on both lists two were expected to die. Charles Terry, 28, fell in front of a moving tractor and was crushed so badly hospital attendants said little hope was entertained for his recovery. E. J. Thompson, 75, who was struck on the highway near Pasadena by a hit and run driver, was in a hospital with a fractured skull and was not expected to survive.

REMUS PUSHES HIS FIGHT FOR LIBERTY

action to release Remus, was raised by the state when the hearing on the writ opened today.

Remus bases his application for the writ on the grounds his commitment papers to the hospital were faulty.

L. C. Davis, of Columbus, assistant state's attorney cited various court decisions to uphold his contention that the court was without jurisdiction as the Ohio law provides that superintendents of criminal insane hospitals are clothed with authority to pass on the mental condition of patients.

Davis declared it was incumbent on the superintendent to say whether Remus was sane or insane at the present time.

Davis argued that the Remus' attorneys should have come into court and asked a writ of mandus against the hospital's superintendent on the ground he was not doing his full duty by not passing on the sanity or insanity of Remus at the present time.

Court Orders Speed

The court cut the state's arguments short and ordered the state to proceed with the case saying it would rule later on the question of jurisdiction.

Remus was in court consulting with his attorneys. He appeared in a jovial mood.

Members of the court who are hearing the motion are Kent Hughes, Phil Crow and Charles L. Justice.

SCIENTIST TO TELL HOW HE DECIPHERED ETRUSCAN LEGENDS

BOLOGNA, Italy, Feb. 20. (AP)—Professor Alfredo Trombetti will explain his deciphering of the ancient Etruscan language at the international linguistic congress to be held at the Hague April 10 to 14, he announced today.

He warned that the progress he will be able to report might not be as great as some had anticipated. He said he had devoted but three months of intense study to the preparation of his forthcoming paper but he hopes to pursue the subject even more ardently if allowed time and the means.

He explained his method unites entymology and "combination." The first is based on the hypothesis of the kinship of Etruscan and known languages. The second is interpreting Etruscan with Etruscan by means of internal evidence alone. Each system serves as a check on the other.

"I paid particular attention to the structure of words and phrases and thus have a sure guide to avoid errors," he said.

Careless Washing Spoils Children's Hair

Any child can have beautiful hair—healthy and luxuriant. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While children's hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, fine young hair and tender scalps cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why thoughtful mothers everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust and dirt.

It leaves the hair soft and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.—Adv.

Police officials continued their search for vendors of pictures of the mutilated body of Marian Parker. The original of the picture was stolen from police department files, City Prosecutor E. J. Lickley said.

THREE HOLLYWOOD STARS—Mae Allison, Virginia Valli and Julanne Johnson. Your smile, by daily use of Pepsodent may become as bright as theirs.

Your Teeth as Lovely as Theirs —when film is gone

Now that "off-color" look is removed completely in a few days' time

THAT cloudy teeth, yellowish, discolored teeth can be made far whiter is now an accepted fact. Foremost dentists of the world are widely urging a new method. You can have clean, pretty teeth and gums like coral if you will start today.

To know how dazzling white your teeth really are you must combat a stained and viscous film that covers teeth. A stubborn film that ordinary dentifrices do not fight successfully.

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you can feel this film. Under it are the clear, attractive teeth you envy in others. Combat it, and your teeth become whiter—more glistening.

Film is the great enemy of teeth and gums; a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth and gum troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth, nor firmer, prettier gums unless you combat that film.

Ask your druggist or mail the coupon for Pepsodent. Don't expect the same results from other ways.

The recreational hour was filled with games and patriotic stunts.

Covers were laid for Misses Mary Katherine Ward, Aradine Silkwood, Lorenza Wolf, Kathleen Cason, Bernice Trevathan, Helen Wyatt, Elizabeth Clifton, Marilyn Miller, Mildred Kent, Katheryn Hill, Theo Mae Bryans, Pauline Norwood, Evelyn McGuigan, Earline Stuckey, Ruth Preston and Allene Kennard.

MISS RAYZOR APPEARS IN SPEECH RECITAL

DENTON, Texas, Feb. 20.—Miss Eva Catherine Rayzor, of Wichita Falls, a senior student at the College of Industrial Arts, recently appeared in senior speech recital at the college auditorium.

Her presentation of Act III from Ibsen's "A Doll's House," was an effective and appealing interpretation. Her portrayal of the conflicting characters of husband and wife was excellent and was marked by the ease with which she changed from the blustery voice of the husband to the calm, hopeless voice of the wife.

Miss Rayzor is majoring in speech at C. I. A. and has been prominent in activities of that nature on the campus. She is president of the Dramatic Art club and has several times represented C. I. A. in debate.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

Style Romps With Florida's Youngest Set

Smart Parents Have Nothing Fashionable on Petite Registerites With Their Juvenile Wardrobes

By BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

PALM BEACH, Feb. 20.—Grown-ups may think they enjoy Palm Beach. But just watch the juvenile social registerites registering unmitigated joy as they romp on the sands and courts and wallow in the Atlantic's blue if you don't think they are the real revelers!

Incidentally they register quite as much in the way of style as do their parents. For while mamma is planning her grown-up wardrobe, she never seems to forget Cicely or Gordon. Their juvenile sports togs, daytime clothes, informal little afternoon attire and more formal costumes for parties are perfectly charming.

Simplicity is the outstanding feature of all the clothes of little Miss-Someday-Flapper and her little boy play-fellows of the eastern coast of Florida. Washableness seems an unfailing characteristic for immaculate linen frocks. English prints and other tubable clothes are ubiquitous. The beret is the favorite headgear for general wear—be it wool, linen or crocheted straw.

Hand Work Galore

As for color—if you please there is the same preference for plain white or clear, pale blue, pink, lavender or yellow that adults show. All show hand work galore—fancy seaming, hemstitching, smocking and embroidery.

Simplicity reaches its sublimation in the children's bathing suits at Palm Beach. Girls or boys—its all one-piece when it comes to jersey swimming suits. Gaudy colors—yes. Reds, oranges, blues and green dot the sands vividly. Black-white stripes, polka dots and other monogrammed or embroidered pattern, say a snappy crab crawling up one side, abound too. Little Marjorie Chadbourne has an intricate monogram on her continental blue suit. Little Persifor Frazer, 4th, usually wears a suit with a blue and white striped upper and blue sports, precisely like the suits his brother Robert and sister Bettina wear when they all romp daily with their charming mother.

Little men, like big ones, prefer gray or cream flannels for tennis, with open-throated shirts and perhaps a gay blazer of jaunty vivid stripes. Jack McLean, son of Edward B. McLean of Washington, romps over the Royal Poinciana courts often, wearing grays. His brother, Ned, is somewhat dressier and wears all-white with a soft angora sweater of navy, white oxfords with a navy blue calfskin saddle.

Master Charles Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Pierce, of the regular colony here, wears white every day—usually a cute linen suit, perhaps with long sleeves and neatly pressed little English shorts. Often he is gallantly leading his little sister, Lola, who has the cutest frocks—always hand-worked. One is a white handkerchief linen, with a diminutive mandarin collar and sleeveless armholes all hand-stitched in white. Their footgear is ever as simple as their costumes—usually one-strap white buckskin or black patent leather.

For Tennis, Golf

For tennis or golf older girls invariably wear bloomer frocks. Florence Wyeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion S. Wyeth, of New York, seems to have an endless number of pretty printed ones, all washable. One such was a pretty green background with white figures making diamond figures inside diamond figures. The collar and cuffs were of white and she topped it with one of the popular berets—a dark green cloth one.

Little Sonia Phipps, teeing off in one of her golf lessons on the Palm Beach Country Club, wore a sweet hand-made, hand-hemstitched apricot linen bloomer frock with smocking on the shoulder and a cute round collar that tied under her chin with a small bow.

MARYE and MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Marye, Dearest;

I'm glad to know you enjoyed the jelly even if I do think you have too many late parties. It may be all right for you because you can sleep all morning, but is it fair to Alan? His work is sure to suffer for it. How do you think your father got ahead in business? Not by going to bed at all hours of the morning, I assure you. He had his full eight hours of undisturbed slumber every night, and he needed it. He couldn't have kept on his feet if we'd tried to go around as much as we did before we were married.

But it seems to be that you modern girls want a beau and a husband rolled into one. You don't realize that a man can't keep up the pace he sets when he's courting you. And even if he thinks he is equal to it you ought to have sense enough, you girls, to know better. But show me the young wife who admits that there's any responsibility or obligation attached to marriage these days.

I hear girls say that everyone has a right to live her own life, and that nobody has a right to interfere with anyone else. Maybe you think that if you interfere with your husbands, even when you should, they will interfere with you, whether they should or not.

Let me ask you if you'd consider it interfering if you saw Alan walking out on thin ice and warned him? It's his life just the same whether he chooses to risk it that way or through neglecting his health, but I'll bet you'd say something about the thin ice.

And if you think he isn't neglecting his health by getting to bed late and getting up just in time to dress and gulp a cup of steaming coffee that maybe he's made himself or got in a restaurant, why you just try it and see.

And if Alan insists that you go out you'll probably fly off the handle and tell him he has no consideration. And the last thing you'll think of, if he says he believes you're overdoing it, is that he's interfering. You'll call it loving thoughtfulnes. It's all in the way it comes home to you, call it what you like.

You can tell Alan I'll send some more jelly and preserves and I want you to get up and make him a decent breakfast to eat with them.

With loving interference,
MOTHER.

Colorful Pageant Presented Floral Heights Methodist

One of the most elaborate church pageants ever given here was presented Sunday evening at the Floral Heights Methodist church, when a cast of 87, all in costume, presented "America's Obligation," a missionary pageant, to a crowded house at the church.

Walter Nelson, as the chronicler, read the pageant as the others acted in pantomime. Mrs. M. T. Clements was "America"; Mrs. Charles Crowell, "The Church"; Miss Mildred Mays, "Missions"; Mrs. John Ebner, "Mexico," and Dr. S. A. Barnes was an old fashioned circuit rider.

The pageant, which was divided into a prologue, four episodes, and an epilogue, presented the history of missions from the very beginning to the present, ending with a challenge to America and an outline of the needs of missions today.

Lester F. Aldrich directed the pageant, with Mrs. Luella B. Thompson and Mrs. O. E. Nicholls directing the music.

Four Nominated Junior College Beauty Contest

Up until noon Monday, the opening day of the junior college beauty contest, only four nominations had been made for the title. The four named thus far are Alexander Cameron, William Warren, Lucyle Rountree and Mabelle Moore.

Interest is expected to run high during the two remaining days. The contest will end Wednesday at the close of school. Miss Moore figured prominently in the 1927 contest, and several of those who were in the race last year are expected to be nominated sometime during the rest of the contest.

The beauty contest is the climax of the college life of the school and always draws more interest than any other event. A quarter is required to nominate a candidate, and each vote costs one cent. About $100 was cleared in the 1927 contest, the proceeds going to the Wai-Kun, junior college annual, under whose auspices the present contest is being held.

ZOË BECKLEY'S CORNER

Hot Air and Cold Christmas

"Dear Zoe: What do you think of a man who is often suggestive in his actions, yet insists he loves me for my virtue? Once in the car he insulted me horribly. I broke with him but he was so contrite and made so many promises that we resumed. He behaves better in some ways but breaks dates and prevaricates. He has talked love and marriage but never remembered me at Christmas and made no more reference to it than as if Santa Claus had died or something.—NINETEEN AND TWENTY-FIVE."

Since you ask us, we have to say we don't think much of old Boy Friend. These fellows who love you for your virtue, yet do everything they can to rob you of it, make no hit with us. Moreover, to make and break promises, to make and break dates and to lie (which is the plain name for prevaricating), are things that make us just plain red-headed.

We have written reams on the breaking of engagements—that is, dates. And we won't repeat it here. We'll merely say that no lady, no gentleman and no real lover ever, ever, ever does it.

Give this gentleman the air, as the poets have it. And don't open the door of your heart to him at least until he is convinced of Santa Claus' resurrection!

Mystic Maze

"Dear Zoe: Do you think a man loves his wife when every time he gets angry he strikes her and even tried once to kill her? He is so jealous he won't let her out of the house. He is a good worker and they have a nice home, but quarrel so much. Would the wife be doing right to leave him? And is a young man of 22 too young to marry a widow 32 with two girls, 11 and 8? He has never been out and around, doesn't care for young people and has a slow, easygoing nature. He promises to defer to her in everything. She has very poor health.—PERPLEXED."

Now let us try to get this straight:

Is the mistreated, beaten-up wife whose husband loves and hates her, the same "widow" who is supposed to be contemeplating marriage with a man of 22? Does she plan to get a adivorce? If so, on what ground? For if she lives in New York state there is only one ground, and that is not the ground of "cruelty."

Assuming we are on the right track and have got things straight, we will add that in our opinion a man who beats his wife, forbids her to leave the house or have friends and neighbors, doesn't know the meaning of love.

What he feels is possessiveness—the desire of the brute to hold the creature he has captured and prevent anyone else from having even a friendly share.

It is a poor sort of woman indeed who will endure beatings.

It would be, in our belief, an unwise woman who, if she were free to marry, chose a man 10 years younger than herself—except in an exceptional case. There are instances, of course, where temperaments, tastes and characters are so well suited that 10 years either way makes no difference. But as a rule a woman of 32 and mother of two children, would be taking a big risk to wed an inexperienced man of 22.

However, you had better be free of one husband before so calmly and casually considering another.

What's Wrong With Girl Friend?

"Dear Zoe: I have gone with my girl friend two years and we love each other very much. Of late my parents object to my going with her. I can't break with her now. Please, what can I do to persuade my parents to let us continue friends.—SYRA."

There must be something wrong with the girl friend to make your parents feel that way. If she is a bad companion for you, you would do best to break with her, notwithstanding your affection.

If it is just a whim on the part of Ma and Pa, ask for reasons and demand 'em as your right.

It is unfair and stupid for parents to forbid children things without explaining why.

Watch Your Step, Sister!

"Dear Zoe: One day a fellow stopped me on the corner, inquired where I was going and asked to take me home. I refused. Then he begged me to come to his house to meet his sisters, saying that I knew his people, although I did not know him. I finally went. The sisters were not there. He made love to me and said he was waiting for the right girl. He said he would come to my home next day. He has never showed up.—SIXTEEN."

You took a pretty big chance and were lucky to get out of it without serious consequences.

Any girl who hasn't spent her entire life in the backwoods ought to know better than go to the house of a man she has never seen before, who picks her up on a street corner. The "meet my sisters" excuse is too transparent to deserve notice.

The love-making was the usual try-out of the unscrupulous male who stalks abroad seeking whom he may morally devour.

Of course de didn't come to your home next day, nor any day, and never will. He would no more dare to than he would dare go to a police station and tell the seargent he had taken you to his house.

If your mother hasn't taught you to avoid such dangers as you would the smallpox, we hope we have made it plain that you must, or be sorry the rest of your life.

Brides in Ten Cities Tell Housekeeping Plans

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A thousand brides in ten large cities disclosed their household plans in a recent survey.

On one point all these brides agreed. Their homes are to be run with skill, but they will not sacrifice a bit of good looks or charm. For instance, nearly all have decided how they will keep nice hands in spite of housework.

Many had noticed in beauty parlors that pure Lux suds are used in manicuring, to soften and whiten the fingers. Others had noticed how nice their hands looked after washing fine things with Lux. So, of 1,118 brides, 1,084, or 97%, plan to wash dishes with Lux.

"It's so easy never to let your hands get red and coarse-looking," they said. "Many soaps make the skin harsh, but pure Lux suds are so soothing and gentle! And Lux for dishes is inexpensive, too, because the big package of Lux washes 6 weeks' dishes."

What Has Happened So Far

Emily Day, daughter of very poor parents, has a great yearning to make a success. She finds it impossible to mingle with the socially elect of the little town where she lives owing to her poverty and the fact that her father is a factory worker. She loses her heart to Kent Rossiter, a rich young man, who is supposed to be engaged to Marilee Grainger. One moonlight night at a party, Kent kisses Emily and calls her beautiful. He goes away to study law, but she never forgets him. Meanwhile, Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speak-easy," tells her he is going to be a lawyer and that some day he intends to marry her. She gets a job with Mrs. Frances Halden, a wealthy interior decorator, who tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. Mrs. Halden introduces her to Kingdon Coles, a dramatic critic, who proposes to her in vain. Meanwhile, Kitten, Emily's younger sister, is wildly seeking for thrills. She meets Ted Lanier on the sly. Stella Brent, a school girl friend of Emily's finds herself deserted by Skeets Bradley, reckless son of a rich family. Kitten goes on a wild party with Ted without letting her sister know.

Emily gets a raise. Kitten climbs in a window late at night to elude her sister.

Kent comes home for the wedding of his sister Avis, who has thrown herself at Marty Nolan. Fearing her father's wrath she marries a man she does not care for.

CHAPTER XXXIV

The job at Highcliffe ended officially with Frances' inspection.

The sharp eyes saw everything; the long, stained fingers ran over the hangings, the furniture, the walls. Emily watched anxiously but Frances only mumbled "Humph!" many times and kept turning her square, solid self about.

Mrs. Rossiter, however had more to say.

"She did as well as you could, Mrs. Halden. And what a decided little thing she is! That stretch of space over there—I didn't in the least want it, but she persuaded me. I see her point now, of course. You'll be having a rival one of these days."

Frances grunted "Perhaps."

"She's angry with me." Emily concluded. "Though that isn't like her. A sad thing to lose such a friend—to lose Frances. If I might tell her how well I meant!"

But when they were driving back to the shop the keen face looked so forbidding that she could only wait miserably.

Once inside, Frances opened her desk briskly and began to do a great lot of figuring. Finally she nodded at Emily who sat by, mutely, hands pressed together.

"How much have you in the bank, girl?"

It wasn't much; three hundred and forty-eight dollars and ninety-six cents.

"Buy a car with the 96 cents. You want to go into business?"

"Do I!"

"For a thousand dollars down you can have a third interest in this shebang. Live on your salary and turn back your share of profits to pay the remainder."

"But—go in with you? If I could! You see it's taken all this time to save the three hundred. Years and years for the rest. Be an old lady in a wheel-chair then."

"Humph! Forgetting your commission on this last job, aren't you?"

"Commission? You don't mean—"

"I mean I figure 10 per cent of any job above cost of labor and material as the price of what's in my head. Judgment, taste, experience. It was what's in your head this time."

"But—"

"You've earned it, Emily. Don't doubt that. I never have seen a better piece of work."

"Truly? You mean it, dear Frances? And I thought you were offended!" Her eyes were brimming now; she put out a small hand.

Frances laughed and took the hand. "Don't be sensitive, dear. It's egotism turned upside down. How about it; do I get a new partner or not? Growing too old to manage this racket alone, seems to me."

"As if you could! I never can thank you—oh, you're giving me what I wanted most of everything in the world!"

But Frances shook her gray head. "Not most, dear. Life is made up of substitutes largely. Still all things are possible to a high heart."

Very cryptic that might have sounded but it never occurred to Emily to doubt that Frances knew what was in every closed and secret corner of her thought.

A man whom she often met in the salon at Great View once told her that Mrs. Haiden had an "X-ray mind."

"She sees through and beyond things that baffle others," he explained. "And she is almost too logical. Give her a bit of a situation, ever so tiny a shred of it, and she will construct the whole thing for you as quickly as you can think.

"She will say, 'That is so, therefore this and this must be so, too.' And always it is so. A remarkable woman, that Mrs. Haiden."

Remarkable—yes. Years ago when Emily was a kid at school she fell in love with Kent Rossiter. A little girl from up The Hill, daughter of Steve Day, factory hand. A small nobody weaving dreams about the son of the town banker, and patrician.

A school-day thing of no more consequence, one would say, than a child hanging up a stocking on Christmas eve or hunting fairy rings under the evergreens on a summer evening.

But it had influenced her whole life and Frances understood. And now she said all things were possible to the high heart.

A warm glow of affection for the homely, middle-aged woman swept Emily. She threw her arms around the square shoulders and cried a little before she went tearing up the hill to tell Agnes the news.

"Muz, what do you think? Seven hundred dollars commission and I'm going to buy a share in Frances' shop!"

Agnes showed no elation. "Seven hundred dollars is more than your father and I had to start housekeeping. I hope Marty'll not take it amiss."

"But you don't understand, dear. I'll have my own business now!"

"And what business does a woman want more than her husband's home? You'd better have saved the money, Emmy. It would have given the lad a fair start."

"Oh, you'd spoil it for me, Muz! You'd do that! And it means so much to us."

The tired old hand went up, ropes standing out along the back. Emily choked back a protest and laid her cheek against the mouse-colored head.

"Marty won't need any help from me, dear. He can manage better than most."

"You'll not give him up, Emmy? It's only I want you safe, baby."

Kitten, who was watching, grinned in a singularly impish way.

Frances went to Benny Hahn who handled most of Lyall's law business and had papers all drawn up to be signed. Very important Emily felt, very much the successful young business woman as she dipped her pen and wrote her signature half a dozen times across the pages.

Mr. Hahn smiled broadly and congratulated her; then she followed Frances back to the shop.

Already a workman was changing the name on the window. Below the "Frances Haiden" he was marking in neat, gold lettering, "Emily Day." She watched for a moment in a vivid breathlessness; then a rich exuberance came beating at her throat. She felt as she had on the morning when the sun struck a blinding ray from the summit of North Mountain.

Achievement! She had done this, climbed a bit. Not the heights yet but a way up. She would go on, reach the top. Aristocracy of achievement—what did she care for the Tin Badge of Caste? For blue blood?

No such heady thrill in knowing an ancestor had done a great thing as there was in your own accomplishment.

She thought of Kent and hoped he'd see her name on the window some day. Marty already knew; he waved at her from across the street. Kingdon Coles she didn't remember at all.

She was so wrapped up in pride that she paid no attention to a car which almost brushed her as it spun by. When it turned the corner she caught a glimpse of red hair, and a flutter of green.

"Looked like Kitten," she thought absently.

But the gold lettering flashed in the sun and she forgot the car.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Edna Davenport Tinney, prior to leaving for Hollywood where she expects to make her future home, has revealed that she has assumed the leap year prerogative and proposed to her former husband, Frank Tinney, one-time popular black-face comedian.

Mrs. Tinney, who was granted a divorce in March, 1926, said she has written to her former husband at Philadelphia, where he is convalescing at the home of his father, inviting him to go west with her.

"It's leap year," she said. "So I suppose I have a right to propose to Frank. In 1910 he begged me to marry him."

Mrs. Tinney is taking west with her their 10-year-old son, Frank Tinney, Jr., whom she says is quite willing she marries again as long as she marries his father.

Six Million Residents of Japanese Empire Vote for First Time to Pick Members of Diet Under New Statute

TOKYO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Thousands of rickshaw pullers voted today for the first time in Japanese history.

Most polling places were crowded in the first national election under the full manhood suffrage act which gave some 9,000,000 additional persons the right to vote.

The weather was bright and sunshiny and therefore favorable to a large turnout. Strong police guards were maintained everywhere.

Laborer and rickshaw puller cast their votes the same as the proud descendant of the ancient Samurai.

The last national election was limited to taxpayers and only 3,000,000 persons were entitled to vote. Today any sane male citizen, 25 years of age, who had resided in one place for a year previously, who was not dependent upon the state for support, who never had been convicted of a felony and who could read and write could cast a ballot.

The business life of the nation has been virtually at a standstill for the last few days in the frantic increased electorate. Newspapers, lamposts, signboards and all other available spaces today were plastered with final appeals to the voters.

For the 466 seats of the diet, which was dissolved in January, there were 969 candidates. The seiyukai or government party and the minseito or opposition party entered about 370 candidates each. The remainder included 88 proletarians and 58 independents.

EDGWOOD SHINGLES

Right Over the Old Roof

THOUSANDS of homes have been re-roofed by laying EDGWOOD Red Cedar Shingles right over the old shingles. Sawn edgegrain, EDGWOODS will not warp or curl, consequently when they force the old shingles flat to the sheathing they hold that position for forty years and more. This method of re-roofing saves expense of tearing off old roofs, eliminates disorderly litter, prevents injury to flowers and shrubs, protects home interiors from danger due to sudden storms while re-roofing, and when completed gives double insulation, making your home cooler in summer, warmer in winter. EDGWOOD Shingle Roofs cost less and last longer than any other roof, not excepting tile or slate in those districts subject to hail-storms.

YOUR local lumber dealer can supply you with EDGWOOD Shingles. Look for the Trade Mark EDGWOOD. It is your identification mark for a shingle that will not warp, cup or curl.

SEND for free booklet—EDGWOOD Homes—containing many examples of delightful modern homes, with expert advice on re-roofing and re-modelling.

SOMETHING GAINED AT HAVANA

The Pan-American Congress at Havana, which has concluded its work has accomplished far less than it might have, yet there is plenty to allay any feeling of disappointment over its work. It has brought the nations of the Western Hemisphere apparently nearer to that friendly understanding that must be the foundation of their relationships. If no problems have been definitely solved, the nations have at least obtained a view of what these problems are.

It is not going to be easy to effect a satisfactory agreement among the Americans on all the points at issue. It is a situation that calls for a greater measure of statesmanship, so far as our hibited in the dealings with Latin-America. There government is concerned, than has been so far exare those at Washington who seem to believe that this country can gain something, in those dealings, without conceding something. It is a vain belief, and the Havana meeting has demonstrated the hopelessness of it. Of all the nations involved, our own can best afford to be unselfish, and yet it is the least disposed to manifest unselfishness.

Diplomacy of the sort that now dominates Washington is skilled in making friendly gestures, but it will not, in the vernacular, "put out anything." How far, for example, would the Latin-American nations get with their proposals for tariff readjustments, when those proposals came before a Republican Senate? Some concessions there might repay this country a thousand-fold, but the spirit to make them would be lacking.

This country holds the key to the basis of real understanding among the western nations of the world. The responsibility is on the present administration, which apparently hasn't realized that getting something for nothing is as difficult in the game of diplomacy as it is elsewhere. Our country has only one crowd to deal with, the Latin-American nations as a whole. Each of the other countries has two relationships to consider; that with the other Latin-American nations, and that with the United States. Viewing the matter from another angle, the other nations have little to lose; Washington has much to lose.

The situation seems to call for more vision than our diplomats possess. Perhaps the Havana meeting, if it accomplished nothing else from Washington's standpoint, will be found to have contributed to the broadening of that vision.

THE OPEN FORUM IDEA

It is to be hoped that serious consideration will be given here to the suggestion offered by Mr. Sam Kruger, in his letter published in last Friday's Times. Mr. Kruger urges that Wichita Falls follow the example of Dallas and others of the larger cities of Texas in establishing an Open Forum, at which noted speakers may be heard on Sunday afternoons. The Forum has been very successful at Dallas, enabling the public to hear some of the foremost speakers of the country, and becoming a very valuable cultural agency in that city. We can see no reason why the plan could not be adopted in Wichita Falls, and we believe the citizenship as a whole would like to see it tried.

Speakers who are worth hearing are usually individuals who do their own thinking, and who have attained some measure of independence in their thought. Independent thought usually encounters opposition before it has gone very far in expressing itself. We would not care to see a Forum established here if it were to bring only those speakers with whom the general run of folks agree. It may be comforting to hear a speaker who agrees with your ideas, but it is seldom instructive.

We speak of this because in some communities where Forums have been established, there has been opposition to bringing certain speakers whose views were not orthodox. It takes broad-mindedness to make a Forum really helpful. We would like to see a Forum in Wichita Falls, but not unless it would provide an occasional speaker who could feed his hearers on raw meat. There are enough already who offer us spoon-victuals.

SNEAKS

Two persons are dead in Illinois, after taking some poisoned medicine sent them through the mails.

A prominent minister in Louisville has resigned, unable to withstand a "whispering campaign" attacking him.

Two banks in Miami, Florida, have had to close their doors, and some other banks encountered "runs," as a result of anonymous letters sent to depositors.

Lives, reputation and property alike have been the victims, within the past few days, of the sneak.

Contemplating such things, we have a greater respect for such folks as Hickman. Vile as his crime was, it at least involved something of courage to carry it through.

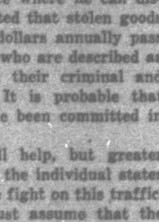

GOING AFTER THE "FENCE"

Federal legislation is planned against the "fence," or dealer in stolen merchandise. The proposed law would not supplant state legislation on the subject, but would reinforce the legal machinery of the states in dealing with that class of criminals. The law would provide fine or imprisonment or both for those convicted of transporting stolen articles in interstate commerce, and prosecution could take place in any district through which the stolen property passed.

The crook seldom steals merchandise without knowing pretty well in advance where he can dispose of it. It has been estimated that stolen goods to the value of half a billion dollars annually pass through the hands of "fences," who are described as being well organized, both in their criminal and their business relationships. It is probable that more than a few murders have been committed in the carrying on of this traffic.

Such a federal measure will help, but greater vigilance and stronger laws by the individual states are needed to make an effective fight on this traffic. Here in Texas, the courts must assume that the receiver of stolen property did not know it was stolen. The state must prove his guilty knowledge of the source of the merchandise. A law which required the receiver of stolen property to be sure that it had been honestly obtained, which put the responsibility upon him, would work no hardship upon any honest individual, and it would close a loophole through which many "fences" now escape.

JUST FOLKS

EDGAR A. GUEST

HIS PHILOSOPHY

"I'm not a philosopher, bearded and and gray,"
Said he unto me.
"I'm simple of speech and I'm plain in my way,
Which is easy to see.
I don't know the whys and the wherefores and whences,
What life really is and just how it commences,
But I do know the living encounter expenses.

"With high-sounding language I cannot compete,
But some things I've learned.
I know that the money for house rent and meat
Must always be earned,
If his need be for coal or a tie for his collar
And whether the man be day-toiler or scholar,
He must either have credit, or dig up the dollar.

"I know that I live and shall live till I die
And I don't have to read
Deep volumes to tell me as time hurries by
There is much I shall need,
My problem is this; in foul weather or sunny,
My children will frequently want bread and honey
And the grocer who sells them will ask for the money.

"So having to live on the earth day by day
Along with the rest,
The problem's not which is the easiest way,
But which is the best.
My philosophy's this: to look after my fences,
To think of the future before it commences
And to work for an income to meet life's expenses."

HORSE SENSE FROM NIETZSCHE

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine

There is a world of stirring ideas locked away from the average reader because their authors have come to be regarded by the rank and file of readers as difficult to read, and because they are in books that have a highbrow reputation.

When I think of the time so many of us waste reading trivial books on current affairs while the masters await us on the library shelves, I wish some one would take the time to compile a volume of vital cuttings from some of the despised highbrows who can, if we only give them the chance, talk to us with a simplicity and directness of speech that give the lie to their reputation for being the private property of the scholar and the literary expert.

This week I want to take fugitive dips into six such writers with whom I have spent the last six evenings before I switched off the light for sleep.

Today I turn to Friedrich Nietzsche, who is, in fact, as easy and as delightful to read as Ed Howe; I record here a few passages I found myself marking as illustration of the sanity and clarity one may find in him, although mixed with a general philosophy from which many may dissent.

"It is more convenient to follow one's conscience than one's intelligence, for at every failure conscience finds an excuse and an encouragement in itself. That is why there are so many conscientious and so few intelligent people."

"Not joy but joylessness is the mother of debauchery."

"Against war it may be said that it makes the victor stupid and the vanquished revengeful."

"In all institutions into which the sharp breeze of public criticism does not penetrate an innocent corruption grows up like a fungus."

"It is not the struggle of opinions that has made history so turbulent; but the struggle of belief in opinions, that is to say, of convictions. If all those who thought so highly of their convictions, who made sacrifices of all kinds for them, had only devoted half of their energy to examining their right to adhere to this or that conviction and by what road they arrived at it, how peaceable would the history of mankind now appear! How much more knowledge would there be!"

And, finally, I set down a sentence from this grim German which has a political revolution packed into its twenty-one words:

"How small is the importance of followers we first grasp when we have ceased to be the followers of our followers."

We might write the critical biography of many futile political leaders in this one sentence—He sought for a following and then followed his following.

Read Nietzsche's "Human All-Too-Human" and let it lure you on.

But not wiser than she should be. Surely one's thoughts about an education should include the trinity of: How to get it? What to do with it? Where to get it?

This thoughtful Miss presents her situation in this vivid fashion: "I am 13 and in the eighth grade. I rank second in my class and am determined to rank first, if possible. Please tell me the habits I must keep, the food I should eat, and how to study well. If you will offer additional suggestions, Dr. Dean, that will help me accomplish my purpose I shall appreciate it immensely.

"Thank you."

Pause here a moment, gentle reader, and bend a knee in graceful genuflection to a rare and radiant spirit.

But hold! Are Aleta's (I quote her name because I love it) aims sufficiently broad? Her teacher wi applaud them and her mother and father approve but, and if this be educational heresy, make the most of it, I advise Aleta that she should strive to rank first in health, charm and character for these three qualities rate far ahead of school grades. Each is so important that I hesitate to name them in order of their importance but were I to make a classification of the qualities that make for a full, well-rounded life I should not hesitate to rate school marks at least as fourth—or possibly tenth. But, be that as it may, Aleta, an education is important in the scheme of things and school marks do mean something and so let us answer your questions.

What Habits.

I recommend the invariable habit of at least eight hours of sleep I assume you spend six hours a day in school instead of five so I recommend only one single, very solidly hour of home-study, although as I say this, I see your teacher rising in protest. You should not have merely "supervised" study, but the habit of supervision over how to study is vastly important. The first implies a policeman-teacher, the second a teaching-teacher. I recommend the habit of spending one hour and a half each day helping your mother and receiving definite instructions in home work from her. I recommend the habit of insisting upon a money reward for your contribution to the work of the household. The invariable habit of two hours free time to play out of doors should be yours if you would scale the heights you have set for yourself. An hour and a half to eat and four hours of reading, dancing, going to P. P. S., Girl Scouts, arts and crafts and anything which specifically feeds your soul.

And remember, Aleta, that there are habits of fine thinking, fine manners and fine doing. And the spirit in which you make your bed, deporate your room, little-mother your baby brother and go to church will endure forever. I have omitted to say anything about the habit of caring for the teeth, the hair, the person, of brushing clothes, removing spots, mending stockings. Where is the time for these necessary things in my schedule?

The Food to Eat.

The simple guide for meal-planning for one of your age is too long to print here. I am mailing it to you in your self-addressed, stamped envelope. It includes energy-giving, body-building and regulating foods. It speaks of vitamins (Yes, dear, it even mentions cod liver oil.)

How to Study.

Figuratively, get rid of the family, stop the radio and the victrola, disconnect the telephone and the door bell. To do these things you simply retire to your own room to study.

If you haven't a room of your own, you should have.

It is necessary for a girl who must concentrate her thought on her school work. I picture your little desk, a simple book shelf or case, enameled bed; attractive rugs, cool wall paper and paint and urge you to study the essential points in a lesson—always—always" understanding the reason why and not merely memorizing—without understanding the reason. When you understand "the reason why"—the underlying principles—you hold the key to all knowledge for when you know "the reason why"—the principles—you can solve all problems. But this, and more, is contained in the "How to Study" helplet which I have mailed to you in your self-addressed stamped envelope.

By the Way in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—There are few men in public life quite so dry as the Hon. Gifford Pinchot, recently governor of Pennsylvania.

Yet in Pinchot's magnificent library your correspondent observed a copy of the Agricultural Year Book for 1904. Pinchot has so many books—including a large number on agriculture—that one should not be surprised to find anything at all among them, but—. Every congressional secretary on Capitol Hill knows the 1904 year book.

It was in that year that the department of agriculture undertook to explain just how one should manufacture wines, brandies and champagnes. Demand for the volume still continues and congressmen get many requests, for the information contained, which is why most offices have a copy on hand. One of the safest bets on earth is that that isn't why Pinchot keeps it. Incidentally, Pinchot, for all his uncompromising attitude on prohibition, probably has as many "wet" friends who admire him for his other phases as anyone we can think of.

Scads of money are sometimes spent to win a senatorial toga, but no senator was ever seen to wear one of the things except in certain fool cartoons. There are, however, other privileges that go with the job. In the capitol and at the senate office building, when a senator enters an elevator the car goes to his floor regardless of who else may want to go.

An ordinary gent may be riding up to the fourth floor and if a senator gets on at the third he goes back down where he started. With enough senatorial traffic and enough bad luck, it is conceivable that an ordinary being might ride for half an hour in a senate elevator without being able to get off at his floor.

Your correspondent takes this opportunity to make graceful acknowledgment to the few senators who waive this privilege and try not to ride anyone around needlessly. For instance, Senator Tyson, bound from senate floor to subway, the other day ordered a loaded elevator stopped at the main floor and asked if anyone wanted to get out there. Nearly everyone did.

To what is known as the president's room, just off the senate lobby, the senators come to see newspapermen who send in to the floor asking to see them. A page bears the requests for audiences. The other day they had a new kid who didn't know one senator from another. The result was a procession of senators who came marching out to see reporters who wanted someone else. The regular page, heaven be thanked, is now back on the job.

DAILY HEALTH TALK

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

It is generally believed that people require much less food in hot weather than in cold, because the amount of heat required for the body is less.

On the other hand, the heat produced in the body is regulated by physical means and the amount of heat in the body is controlled largely by the amount of heat lost rather than by that taken in.

Since we wear clothes, our bodies live constantly in a temperature about 90 degrees F., so that the amount of heat necessary to warm the surrounding atmosphere is relatively small.

In the tropics, one does not attempt to diminish the amount of heat produced by the body in order to adjust the balance, but rather to increase the loss of heat from the body by wearing thinner clothes.

Clothing Adjustment.

In the same way, when one goes to a very cold district he requires more heat to keep his temperature up to the normal level. He does not produce this heat by eating much more food, but by wearing clothes that prevent heat loss from the surface of the body.

Indeed, the overfilling of the stomach to produce an increased amount of heat would be a serious error. Of course, the foods of persons living in extremely cold climates are those that provide the largest number of calories.

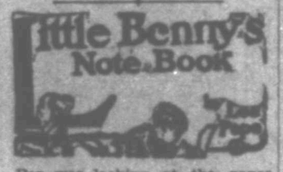

Thus the Eskimo consumes great quantities of fat. As is emphasized by R. Hutchison, even the milk of the walrus in Arctic regions contain 40 per cent of fat, so that its young are supplied with an abundant and compact source of fuel.

Keeping Body Weight.

A celebrated German investigator of nutrition named Ronke found that he had to eat as much food in summer as in winter in order to keep his body weight, even though his inclination to eat was much less in hot weather than cold.

If he disregarded his inclinations and ate enough to maintain his body weight, his health suffered, so that he believed that a slight loss of weight in summer months was inevitable and quite desirable.

On the other hand, investigators attribute the bad effects on his health to the fact that he had eaten too much protein food. These investigators emphasized that foods for the summer should avoid those that will make fuel rapidly and largely, especially fats.

Willyum now can you sound so ignorant, everybody knows who Mrs. Wescott-Bridges-Jones is, ma sed, and pop sed, Everybody but me, I wish you'd let me in on the genrel information.

Well in the first place she's one of the 6 dawters of W. Bramley Wescott who wasent reely a member of sissiety but he had so mutch money it had the same effect, and she wasent 19 years old wen she married Ethelbert Bridges the 2nd son of Mr. and Mrs. P. N. W. Ashly Bridges, it was a reel love match but they sued each other for divorce four months after the wedding and she was still less than 20 years old wen her ingagement was announced to Clarence Rolls Hemmingway, and she would of bin his 3rd wife ony he never married her.

Stories about things to eat and people that eat them are all supposed to be funny, so I reckon this'll be awful funny. There was a fellow that was eating in a restaurant where he was right well acquainted, and he ordered fish and soup and a lot of other things. The waiter brought the soup in, and then he stood around and finally he says, "Say, Mister, if you don't mind, would you just as leave have the fish before the soup?"

The customer says, "Why, no, I wouldn't just as leave. I want the soup first, of course. Unless there's some good, strong reason for having the meal served some other way."

"Well, sir," says the waiter, "I think there's a pretty strong reason. If you don't mind, I think that there fish just naturally has gone as long as it ought to without eating."

Poorhouse Goes Broke

HOLLINGSHOUSE, England.—The appetite of William Bottom, a 23-year-old negro, threatened to sink the poorhouse of this city in debt. William, endeavoring to satiate his hunger, ate his own food and the food of the other inmates, while the cost of his confinement for three years was more than $300. City officers had him removed to a hospital, after first assuring themselves that his appetite was caused by insanity.

Lemons and Saxophones

In Hamburg a court has passed on the old triangle of the lemon, the dancer and the saxophone player. You are familiar with the popular theory, no doubt. It is that if a lemon be held up to the gaze of a wind-instrument player his mouth immediately becomes so suffused with saliva that he cannot go on. Well, this dancer, an employee of the night club where the music was being played, tried it, making elaborate play of sucking the lemon. And sure enough, the saxophone player was compelled to stop. Whereupon the dancer was dismissed. Whereupon she sued for a month's pay. And the court awarded her what she asked, holding that the consequences of her act were due more to the sensitiveness of the saxophone player than to the lemon.

And it seems to us that the court was right. The notion that a wind-instrument player cannot function in the presence of a lemon has always struck us as extremely dubious, on a par with the Oriental notion that a liar cannot swallow dry rice. Anybody who has ever known a liar can tell you how pathetic this notion is. Lying, by its practitioners, is regarded as an art; and they will go to all manner of pains to bring it to aesthetic perfection. If swallowing dry rice is all that is required to lend artistic verisimilitude to a bald and unconvincing narrative they will put the stuff down as though it were caviar.

But with regard to the wind-instrument player, we once had occasion to observe their reaction to the stimulus in question. This was at a wedding. Near the orchestra was a punch bowl, and in the punch floated perhaps a dozen half-lemons of impressive size and indubitable juciness. Did they feaze the wind-instrument players? They did not. The flute player, in fact, seemed to find them an inspiration, for he gazed on them as though they were stars on a summer night and played "Oh, Promise Me" more affectingly than we had ever before heard it rendered.

When the bride entered, however, the violinist broke a string.—New York World.

Al Smith in the South.

Southern Methodist educators representing schools throughout the South at a meeting in Memphis, Tenn., passed a resolution to the effect that "the nomination of Al Smith would be unfortunate and in our opinion would not enlist the support of the educational leaders of the South." The phrasing was moderate but the comment on it was hotter although there was some appreciation of the worth of the New York governor and of his achievements. There was an effort to avoid the conclusion that his religion as well as his prohibition attitude made him undesirable.

Gov. Smith's supporters in his party will find nothing unexpected in the passing of such resolutions. They know they must reconcile, absorb or overcome this opposition. They think they can do so. The southern politician is not unbending. The northern Democrats of the metropolitan districts where Smith is strong are persuaded that the southern politicians can be convinced if they are not already.

It is northern Democratic logic that if Smith cannot be nominated no Democratic candidate can be elected. An issue is joined on that. If a northern Democrat is ineligible for nomination for reasons given by the southern educators then any candidate acceptable to the southerners for the reasons given is ineligible for election. That is a defi both ways.

The men who play politics in the South have had nothing national to play with since Wilson. The Wilson years were fat years. The years since have been lean. If the leaders can subdue the prohibition opposition and the religious opposition they may be inclined to take Smith and a chance of profit. Otherwise the chances are that if Smith is stopped in the convention the party is stopped cold in the election. Northern Democrats are not prepared to concede that their party sets up some disqualifications not contemplated in the constitution.—Chicago Tribune.

The Attraction.

One is often asked what is the attraction and what are the joys of Polar exploration. The answer is—adventure—going where man has never gone before. Achievement—discovering something of value to mankind, such as the whale-fishery of South Georgia; or ramming your way through ice or any difficulties under steam or sail. The wonderful pure beauty of these regions . . . and last, but not least—comradeship—the comradeship of men. Men who fight alongside you, toil with you, laugh with you, and chaff you. . . . Pals who stand by each other through thick and thin; who share trials, hardships, joys, dangers and food, and are determined, at all hazards, to "see it through" together. For such men you feel a great affection, and the results are teamwork and loyalty of the finest, highest quality, with joy of memory that never fades away.—From "Under Sail in the Frozen North," by Commander F. A. Worsley.

CISCO COUPLE FOUND DEAD IN LOCKED ROOM

CISCO, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—H. G. Trees and his estranged wife "came to their deaths from pistol shots fired by Trees," was the verdict of Justice of the Peace J. A. Steele of Eastland, who held an inquest after the two bodies were found in a locked room here yesterday.

The door was broken down by officers who were summoned by the proprietor of the rooming house. Each had a bullet wound in the head.

The couple had been married several years and lived the greater part of that time here, but had separated. Letters found in the room showed that Mrs. Trees had asked her husband to sue for divorce, but he had sought a reconciliation.

Trees' body was taken to Dallas for burial. The body of Mrs. Trees was being held here today awaiting arrival of relatives from Oklahoma.

Bogus English Lord Gets Term In N. Y. Prison

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—The man who masqueraded his way into the hearts and the pocketbooks of many women under the bogus name of Lord Beaverbrook and other aliases, today was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment for grand larceny.

Arrested in Philadelphia in June of 1926, he gave his name as Robert Whitman. He was arrested on the complaint of Mrs. Rose Burken, who testified at his trial last month that he had secured $90,000 worth of jewelry from her and vanished.

Mrs. Burken said she later recovered some of the gems from Mrs. Virginia Cameron Martin, of Washington, who testified she had married "Lord Beaverbrook" after a whirlwind courtship, featured by gifts of jewelry which later turned out to be Mrs. Burken's. A few hours after the marriage, Mrs. Martin said, the man vanished, taking with him $34,000 in money and securities.

Police said that his princely gestures and smooth phrases, used in practicing a slogan "treat 'em like queens," had permitted the "Lord" to lead many wealthy women to the altar and leave as many more waiting at the church.

CONDEMNED TEXAN MAY YET ESCAPE DEATH IN CHAIR

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—Anastacio Vargas, condemned to die for the murder of Mrs. Luisa Garcia and saved temporarily at the last moment by the men who prosecuted him was given another chance at life today by the same men when the case was again placed before Governor Moody.

After Vargas' conviction some doubt arose as to the extent of his guilt. His case had already run through all the courts and there was no redress in that direction so Governor Moody was persuaded by prosecutors to reprieve him until another trial could be held, on a minor charge, growing out of the same offense.

Vargas was tried on an assault to murder charge and the evidence has been taken to Austin for a review by the governor in the hope that executive clemency will modify the death sentence.

BRILLIANT YOUNG TEXAS PIANIST JOINS FACULTY OF KIDD-KEY COLLEGE

SHERMAN, Texas, Feb. 20.—Texas' own pianist, Bomar Cramer, will come back to his native state to be connected with the piano department of Kidd-Key college and conservatory. Mr. Cramer, though only 28 years of age, is considered one of the most brilliant young pianists of America and one of the great pianists developed in Texas.

He received his earlier training at Kidd-Key conservatory, going from Kidd-Key to New York City six years ago, where he studied two years with Josef Lhevinnex. While in New York, Mr. Cramer received the Juilliard award two years in succession as the most promising young pianist in America. This award came to Mr. Cramer from the trustees of the Juilliard foundation without competing for the honor as is the usual procedure.

Following these honors Mr. Cramer concertized in many of the larger cities of the north and east, receiving the highest praise from the critics as one of the most brilliant pianists produced in this country.

For the past three years Mr. Cramer has been at the head of the piano department of the Indiana College of Music, one of the largest and oldest northern conservatories. He will be with Kidd-key beginning with the fall term early in September.

FEBRUARY RAINS GREATLY INCREASE WHEAT PROSPECTS

DALLAS, Feb. 20. (AP)—Prospects for another big wheat crop in southwestern territory were greatly increased during the first half of February by bountiful rains, according to a report issued today by the American Railway association. The rains fell over all the wheat belt of Texas and Oklahoma, favoring particularly those districts in western Oklahoma and northern Texas where moisture has been greatly deficient for several months.

Exports through Texas ports are holding up well, and approximated 1,000,000 bushels for the first half of the month.

Livestock conditions have been materially bettered by the rains that improved stock ranges, which had begun to deteriorate as a result of the long period of dry weather.

For the two weeks ended February 9, shipments to the Fort Worth market of cattle were 28 per cent, of calves 10 per cent and of sheep 18 per cent greater than for the corresponding period last year. The number of hogs shipped to Fort Worth was practically the same as last year.

REED TO DEVOTE HIS CAMPAIGN TO PARTY INTERESTS

DALLAS, Feb. 20. (AP)—A campaign devoted to party interests rather than individual candidacies was outlined in an interview with newspaper men here today by Senator Reed of Missouri, Democratic presidential candidate, upon his arrival to open a western speaking tour.

About the first question popped at the Missourian by Dallas newspaper men today was "what about Al Smith?"

"I am a good deal more interested in the principles of the Democratic party," he replied slowly, "than in the candidacy of any men, including myself."

"As they say in the newspapers," he added, "believe it or not. And I am not going to discuss Mr. Smith."

A full sized committee of Texas Democrats wearing large buttons with the words "Reed is right" welcomed Senator Reed at the station and the morning hours developed the signs of campaign times.

Taken to a hotel on the front of which was a huge sign, "Reed for president headquarters," the Missourian was quickly surrounded by party leaders and newspaper men. In an interview with the latter he explained he was making the trip in response to long standing invitations. Asked about prohibition he told the men to "come down and hear my speech tonight."

At noon Senator Reed was the guest of the bar association of the city and he had prepared some brief remarks on the subject of law. Tonight he makes the first of a dozen speeches planned for his western campaign.

Among those at the station to greet him were Mayor R. E. Burt of this city, Joseph W. Bailey, former senator from this state, T. H. McGregor of Austin, and Roger Lewis, president of the Texas "Reed-for-President club."

MANY ARE JAILED FOR DRUNKENNESS DURING WEEKEND

More than a score of persons, including several women, were arrested by city and county officers during the week-end on charges of drunkenness or of disturbing the peace.

Frank Morgan, whose deputies made 17 arrests, declared that liquor drinking was more in evidence than during any week-end in several months. Christmas week not excepted. His explanation for the condition is that beer "joints" are beginning to open and are selling whiskey as a means of supplementing the scant home brew trade of this season of the year. Two places at which home brew was seized were raided Saturday and Sunday.

Most of those arrested pleaded guilty in justice courts Monday and nearly all were fined $1 and costs.

HENLEY AND HART WILL RENEW TRIAL ENDURANCE FLIGHT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20. (AP)—Plans were under way for another attempt by the "Fort Worth" to break the world's endurance flight record Wednesday, pending the completion of repairs of the monoplane in which Joe Hart and Al Henley cracked up Sunday morning in an attempted take off.

The pilots escaped without injury in their short trip and the plane was only slightly damaged. The tail skid was broken and the linen in the fusilage was riped in several places.

The take-off Wednesday is planned from the old Hicks aviation field used by the Canadians during the world war.

COTTON SPINNING INDUSTRY MORE ACTIVE IN JANUARY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The cotton spinning industry showed greater activity in January than in December, the census bureau's monthly report today showing an increase of 400,000,000 active spindle hours over December.

Active spindle hours totaled 8,259,455,529, or an average of 227 hours per spindle in place, compared with 7,859,563,372 and 215 in December, and 8,558,066,401 and 229 in January last year.

FILLING STATION OWNER CAPTURES TWO THIEVES

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20. (AP)—Two men were in city jail this morning as a result of being foiled in their attempt to rob a South Main street filling station last night.

B. A. Votaw, proprietor, covered them with a rifle and led them to police headquarters after a third member of the gang escaped. Votaw saw them approaching the station and suspecting they were robbers hid inside. The men thinking no one was in the station began breaking the seal on a gasoline pump.

The third member say Votaw first and fled leaving his two companions.

BLUE CHAIN WILL PRESENT VARIED PROGRAM TUESDAY

French, Spanish, old Italian and modern music are to make up the Stromberg-Carlson program for Tuesday evening, February 21, over the Blue Chain of the National Broadcasting company.

Opening the program is "Marche Lorraine," a stirring piece of martial music depicting the spirit of Lorraine. Selections from "Take the Air," a new musical show which has been running about a month in New York, will furnish some of the lighter side of the entertainment. A selection that no doubt will stir up delightful memories among many listeners will be the "Veil Dance," by Friml. Friml, however, is a modern composer and this selection is not the original music to the "Dance of the Seven Veils," which won such notoriety a decade or so ago.

Sascha Fidelman, soloist for the Stromberg-Carlson orchestra, plays "Serenade," by Dradla. "Pourquoi," by La Tour, and "Au Naturel," by Milligram, complete the French portion of the program. "Manaloa Y Manalsa" is a Spanish selection not often heard over the radio.

The Stromberg-Carlson quintet present first "Rain," and later a medley of old-time favorites which will no doubt bring back memories of days when the barber shop was famous as a musical center.

(AP)—After both sides had announced ready a jury was being selected this morning in criminal court here to try Robert McKinley, 18, charged with the murder of his step-father, William Lewis Holloway, on the night of August 5, 1927, near Mansfield. Holloway, 40, a farmer, was lying upon a cot in front of his house on a hot summer night when his step-son approached, armed with a shotgun. The step-son claimed that he shot Holloway to defend himself and his mother. She is a witness for McKinley.

TEN TEAMS COMPETE IN CAGE TOURNEY HERE THIS WEEK

NEW REPRESENTATIVES FROM SEVERAL COUNTIES LISTED; DRAWINGS TO BE MADE EARLY

Nine winners of county championships and Wichita Falls high school are preparing early this week to put forth their strongest bids here Friday and Saturday in the district basket ball championship tourney of the University of Texas Interscholastic league. The winner of the district competition will be matched with another district winner, the victor in this elimination round earning the right to compete in the state championship tournament to be held at Austin early next month.

The nine county winners are as follows:

Electra, Wichita county.
Megargel, Archer county.
Petrolia, Clay county.
Seymour, Baylor county.
Harrold, Wilbarger county.
Olney, Young county.
Jacksboro, Jack county.
Woodson, Throckmorton county.
Nocona, Montague county.

Draw for Places

The district tournament gets under way Friday morning at 9 o'clock at the junior college gymnasium, and a new system in drawing for the first round pairings will be in effect, according to announcement Monday from Electra of B. M. Dinsmore, district director of athletics. Dinsmore is to meet with other officials here early this week to make the drawings well in advance of starting time. Heretofore, drawings have not been made until shortly before the start of play, but with the new system, visiting schools can be informed definitely when they will be expected to be present for their first games.

The appointment of Russell McIntosh, assistant basket ball coach at Southern Methodist university, as official referee, also was announced Monday by the district director.

Several New Teams

The personnel of the district championship competitors, is somewhat changed from last year. One more county was added to the district by a ruling of the interscholastic league, the newcomer being Wilbarger. Harrold, dominant team in Wilbarger basket ball for a number of years, will make its first appearance in the play of this district.

Electra goes into the district for the first time in at least three years, Iowa Park Hawks having won the Wichita county crown for the last two seasons.

From Jack county comes a comparatively new representative. For the last three years Jermyn has been in charge of cage activities in this county, but in a round robin tournament which was played last week the Jacksboro entry showed a clean pair of heels to all opposition. The champs won their game from Jermyn and also beat the former titleholders in a pre-tournament practice game. In view of Jacksboro's success in the tourney and through the practice season, this team will be classed a contender for district honors.

Another New One

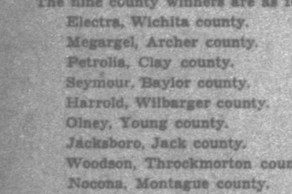

The reign of another team is broken after a stretch of several years of county championship quintets. Woodson represents Throckmorton county, displacing the Throckmorton team that has been a district contender for several years. However, it was by the narrowest of margins that Woodson was able to dispose of the former champs, defeating Throckmorton Saturday, 18 to 17, in the deciding game.

A neighbor town also crashes into the district tourney for the first time in several years, Petrolia winning the Clay county title and displacing Bellevue, last year's champs.

Megargel from Archer, Seymour from Baylor, Olney from Young and Nocona from Montague all have previously held county championships during the past few years.

According to present tournament plans, preliminary rounds will be disposed of Friday morning and afternoon, with the semi-finals and final scheduled for Saturday.

Wichita Falls goes direct into the district tournament without competing in the county scramble, making the tenth team to go into action during the big two-day meet.

It is a foregone conclusion that the Texas league will adopt a schedule calling for a split season when the magnates assemble over at Shreveport this week-end in their much delayed schedule meeting. The Pacific Coast, Southern and Western are among the important leagues already adopting the split season idea. When the Texas league was playing split seasons a few years ago, many claimed that made this staunch old league the laughing stock of baseball. Possibly there was a snicker here and there, but it is about to be proven that the Texas was just a bit smarter than the leagues that did the snickering.

Prexy Gardner is of the opinion that the split seasons the Texas league played saved it in days when the financial going was rougher than rough. Incidently, it is the first time the Spudder owner has come right out with a definite opinion favoring the split season. Like all the rest, the Spudder prexy has been using a little silent diplomacy and remaining quiet, not knowing for sure just how the fans felt about the matter, we suspect.

But the opinion of the Spudder owner matters little in the action the league will take, for it is definitely known the split season has enough advocates to put it over without any contest. In fact, we have a hunch there are exactly eight clubs in the Texas league favoring the split season. And fandom, too, now seems to be satisfied with the prospective split. So many of the important leagues have switched over to it that it must be the best thing. There is not much of an argument against it and many good ones for it.

Just how long will it be before the big leagues are playing split seasons? It would not be at all surprising to see the two major leagues dividing their schedules within the next three or four years. While the majors are not faced with financial problems so stringent as those of the minor leagues, the majors have their financially weaker sisters just as the minor leagues. The money makers of any league can get along easily without split seasons, but for the club that has to do some tall figuring every year to balance the black with the red, the split season is a savior. The strength of the individual units determine the strength of the league. The financial strength of any league governs the kind of baseball that is played, so the fans should be interested in money matters as well as in who wins the ball games.

Texas league clubs the last few years have followed the practice of using Texas league umpires in spring exhibition games. The league executive office has favored the practice because it gave the arbiters opportunities to get into condition for the more important championship games. The clubs have received better officiating and the spring games have been made more attractive therefore. Heretofore, the clubowners and the umpires have transacted their business independent of the league offices. Failure of umpires to land the requested spring jobs and other factors have led in several instances to situations that were at least embarrassing, so a new scheme is in effect this year. The clubowners desiring league umps to work their spring games make application through Prexy J. Doak Roberts, who assigns the officials as he sees fit. It should prove a happier arrangement for all concerned.

Writes Flem R. Hall in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram:

"The Texas league still fears the Cats. They've been down two years, but the other seven clubs can't forget the six previous years, and every time they close their eyes they have visions of the returning Panther reign.

"If you don't believe it, read the sport pages in other league cities.

"WICHITA FALLS.—It's not Houston that the Spudders fear in the coming season; it's Jake Atz and his Cats who'll have to be beaten.

"HOUSTON.—Wichita Falls, with most of its last year championship team back, will be a factor, but we fear it'll be the Fort Worth Panthers who will be the biggest stumbling block for ambitious Buffaloes.

"DALLAS.—Houston and Fort Worth are favored on the pre-season dope to win the pennant.

"SHREVEPORT.—The Cats have the best pitching staff in the league and much additional strength in nearly all departments—they'll be mighty tough to beat.

"SAN ANTONIO.—Watch out for the Cats. They are about due to get a little luck and if they do they will be back on top. Only the monumental failure of several seasoned players kept the Aztmen down last year."

So there you are.

"The opponents apparently have more respect than the Fort Worth fans for the gathering Cat nine. It's no secret that local supporters are more than a bit skeptical. The reason for the lack of optimism is not entirely clear. There can be no argument about the pitching with Walkup, Johns, Pate, Wachtel, Watt, Williams, Griffin, Keck, Devaney, Burns and others on the staff. The catching is improved by Danny Murphy. There's Lafayette and Clements at first, Lindimore and promising youngsters at second, Kibbie and others at short, Lennox, Young and competitors at third; there's Eddie Moore, Joe Bonowitz and four other touted outfielders. And it's still February.

"The team now looks better than the one that finished the 1927 race, and yet that team held its own with all competitors after July 4."

"It's freely predicted that Wichita Falls won't raise a finger to get back Johnny Mann even if the White Sox, who drafted him, decide not to keep him. The Spudders, it is said, were tickled pink to get $4000 for the cocky shortstop who was forced out of the game with a broken leg before the halfway post was reached.

"A shortstop's broken leg ruined the Cats last year, but baseball critics declare the same sort of accident helped the Spudders. When Mann went down his place was taken by "Rabbit" Benton and the latter played better ball than the younger Johnny."

We hope Flem is correct in summing up opinion over the league that the Panthers are more feared than the Spudders. The Spudders were not even considered last year. To have the scribes on the other side of the fence is the brightest indication for a big season we know of!

Campbell Reaches 220 Miles at One Stage of Record Run

BRITISHER ESTABLISHES SPEED RECORD

Campbell, His Car and the Track

New speed history was written in the international trials at Ormand-Daytona Beach, Florida, Sunday when the British entry, Captain Malcolm Campbell drove his "Bluebird Special" at an average rate of 206.59602 miles per hour for two miles, one with and one against the wind. The former record was held by Major H. O. D. Segrave, another Britisher, registered on the Florida beach course last year.

In the above pictures, you see, 1 and 3 the rear and front respectively of Captain Malcolm Campbell's huge British-built "Bluebird," which is driven by a 12-cylinder aviation motor of about 900 horse power; 2, Campbell. The lower view is the broad sweep of the beach over which the racing cars catapult at a furious pace.

Ormond-Daytona Beach is the only place in the world where such speed efforts are possible. It is 27 miles long, and 500 feet wide at low tide. The surface is like a billiard table's. Many automobile engineering problems of great importance are tested in the speed trials, such as reduction of wind resistance, overcoming vibration, tire strength, steering mechanism design, valve action, and general functioning of motors and miscellaneous accessories.

SPEED CROWN IS PASSED FROM ONE BRITISHER TO ANOTHER AS MACHINE AVERAGES 206 MILES

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20. (AP)—The figurative laurel which signifies attainment of the highest speed at which an automobile has yet been driven had been lifted Monday from the brow of one Englishman to rest on that of another.

Captain Malcolm Campbell of London Sunday flung his huge Napier "Bluebird Special" over the hard packed sands of the beach here at the rate of 206.95602 miles per hour, eclipsing by more than three miles an hour the mark established on the same sands last year by Major H. O. D. Segrave, likewise of England.

The new record for earthbound vehicles came while two others also awaited an opportunity to test their machines against time—Frank Lockhart of Indianapolis, with a Stutz "Blackhawk Special" and J. M. White of Philadelphia, with a 36-cylindered Triplex which had not yet been accorded official sanction for the try, because of mechanical discrepancies.

Up to 220 Miles

Captain Campbell, after his successful dash of a mile up the beach in 16.76 seconds, at a rate of more than 214 miles per hour, and his mile run back down against a stiff gale exceeding 199, to make up his official mile, said he had not anticipated a formal effort at the record when he started out. But for the fact he took only a four mile rolling start, said the captain, he would have bettered the record still more.

"My motor had not even begun to pick up when I crossed the mile stretch," he said. "It was making about 208 miles an hour when I crossed the wire and did not pick up until I had passed the half-mile mark. Just before I finished the mile, I glanced at my instruments and was making 220 miles an hour. Before I could look up I had crossed the final wire and was headed for the soft sand dunes."

A Near Disaster

At this juncture the 5000 spectators feared a fatal accident, and Mrs. Campbell, in the stands, covered her face with her hands until a tense moment of anxiety had passed. The captain tells the story:

"My machine struck a terrible hump in the sands and I lost complete control of my steering. I bounced half way out of the seat. My feet left the accelerator and brake completely and my goggles were nearly torn from my head by the wind.

"It happened so quickly that for an instant I looked for a bad spill. I recovered myself quickly, however, and righted the car."

Captain Campbell gave major credit for the recovery to a rigid fin, similar in appearance to an airplane rudder, which had been set up at the rear of the automobile to prevent tail-wagging at high speeds.

Segrave Congratulates

Congratulations from Major Segrave, the former record holder, came from London Sunday night, along with cautionary word for the speed to be expected from Lockhart's entry. Sir Charles Wakefield, donor of the thousand guinea gold cup which accords an annual income of a thousand pounds to the holder until 1930, unless the record is meanwhile broken, was quoted in London as delighted, but not surprised at Campbell's achievement.

Campbell declared he would undoubtedly try again if Lockhart's effort should set a new mark.

The car of White, the Philadelphian, has been refused sanction by the American Automobile association because it is not equipped with clutch of reverse gear. White says, however, that if beach trials develop the speed he expects from his machine he will immediately change it to conform with A. A. A. specifications.

Cochran Among Early Arrivals Houston Course

Wichita Falls Golfer Takes Fling at Links in Preparation for Invitation Event.

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—Tommy Cochran, former Texas amateur champion and twice runner-up in the Houston Country club tournament, arrived here Sunday to get in a few rounds of practice before the start of the 14th annual invitation tournament Wednesday.

Back in 1924 and 1925 the Wichita Falls golfer ruled Texas amateurs, but since that time he has had rough sledding. However, Tommy carries the shots and he will be out to start the 1928 season with a win in the tournament he has never been able to annex.

Twice Tommy reached the finals in the invitation and both times he was defeated. In 1924 he lost to Ossie Carlton and the following year he bowed before the playing of George Rotan.

Cochran played two rounds Sunday and was hitting the ball in fair fashion, indicating that he will be right in the running when the event starts.

Besides the Wichita Falls star a dozen other title contenders were on the course Sunday.

Ed Stewart of Fort Worth, Al Badger of San Angelo, Beuben Albaugh of San Antonio, George Rotan of Houston, Ossie Carlton of Houston, James Harned of Dallas, Jim and Joe Russell of Houston.

Promotor Hops N. B. A. for Its Meddling Ways

Jim Mullen Wonders Why Same Demands are Not Made of Heavyweight Title Holders.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP)—The latest move of the National Boxing association in demanding $5000 forfeits from Sammy Mandell and Mickey Walker to insure defense of their boxing titles next summer, has drawn a fiery counter proposal from Jim Mullen, the prospective promoter of both these championship matches.

Mullen's proposition is to match the six specified challengers in each division in three bouts, the outstanding performer of the card to get the title "shot." If the N. B. A. will help him sign the contenders, Mullen offered to promote the show himself, giving each boxer 10 per cent of the gate receipts, which, he figured, would run about $50,000.

Heavyweights?

"It's funny the National Boxing association doesn't try to do something about the heavyweight title situation, too," said Mullen. "The titleholder of the heavyweights doesn't fight oftener than once a year, and there are challengers—Sharkey and Delaney, for instance—who could put up just as good a fight against Tunney as Dempsey. In 20 rounds of boxing in their two meetings, Dempsey only won two rounds from Tunney and there are others who could do that well.

"If the N. B. A. is serious about its six contenders for the lightweight and middleweight titles, let's have an elimination series to see which one is the best, and then the public might get interested. Some of the challengers named by the N. B. A. wouldn't draw enough to pay the ushers.

"I have both Mandell and Walker signed to defend their titles if the N. B. A. will contribute some help instead of merely interfering."

May Prevent Bout

Mullen's predicament threatens to prevent the match between Mandell and Jackie Fields here Thursday night. The N. B. A. insists upon Mandell's $5000 forfeit before permitting that contest to go on. Mandell's prospective opponent next June in the title match is Jimmy, McLarnin, but McLarnin encounters Sid Terris on Friday night, and until McLarnin has proved himself master of Terris, Mullen hesitates to sign either one. One day's difference in the dates complicates the situation.

Mandell's manager, Eddie Kane, promised to call on the Illinois State Athletic commission today to find out why the $5000 forfeit was demanded.

"Mandell has signed to defend his title as the N. B. A. asked," said Kane. "What more could be demanded?"

SHOE TOSSERS BEGIN NATIONAL TOURNAMENT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 20. (AP)—Some three dozen of the country's most talented tossers are here to seek the honors now held by C. C. Davis of Columbus, Ohio, defending his title as champion in the national horseshoe tournament beginning Monday.

While Davis' incumbency installs him as favorite, there are many who look for a herculean battle from Jimmy Risk, Indiana school boy, who threatens along with a troupe in which Putt Mossman, former champion; Frank Jackson, first champion in 1909, and others are potential winners.

Stecher and Lewis Complete Training for Finish Match at St. Louis, With Former Slight Favorite to Win

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20. (AP)—Before the roosters start crowing in the dawn of Tuesday, the world's heavyweight wrestling throne will have a legitimate occupant, for the first time in seven years.

Ed "Strangler" Lewis and Joe Stecher, two of the foremost grapplers of the heavyweight division, each claiming the title, will wrestle to a finish here Monday night to settle their dispute over the championship. The prospects are that the match will draw $85,000 to $90,000. A record "gate" for wrestling.

Indications Monday were that the gate receipts would eclipse the previous high mark of $78,000 taken in for the world's championship engagement between Frank Gotch and George Hackenschmidt in the White Sox park in Chicago in 1912. The advance sale, according to Promoter Tom Packs, had hit the $50,000 mark with the late customers still to storm the ticket windows.

Promoter Packs was prepared to handle a capacity crowd of 9300, but was not certain that the match would result in a sell-out.

Increased Bitterness

The bout will be staged in the coliseum, which has been used by Billy Sunday for revival meetings. When the Rev. Mr. Sunday's last prayer died away Sunday night, a force of carpenters swarmed into the place to transform the building into an arena.

The match will be to a postive finish, with the winner getting two falls. There will be no time limit or other tricks of the wrestling game imposed. Harry S. Sharpe of St. Louis, a ring official of 25 years' experience, will referee.

With three preliminary matches to precede them, Lewis and Stecher are scheduled to settle down to their task about 10 o'clock p. m. If the match lasts as long as most contests of major importance, the first rays of Tuesday's sun may be streaking through the windows before either register the required two falls.

They wrestled in Omaha for five hours, without a winner being declared, and the bitterness smouldering between them since their last engagement has increased instead of abated. When they last met in New York in 1920, Lewis won the title from Stecher, in a one-fall match.

Little Betting

Stecher says he was promised a return match, which Lewis declined to grant. This was responsible for the background of bitterness which makes Monday night's match so important.

There has been little or no betting on the outcome of Monday night's match, although Stecher, because of his frequent matches in St. Louis, has been installed a slight favorite. Neither will have a weight advantage. Lewis intends going into the ring weighing 226 pounds, while Stecher expects to scale about 225.

Lewis presents a very remarkable change in appearance as a result of two months' training. He has knocked off about 23 pounds. There are unmistakable signs that the big bear has taken his training seriously and is ready for a long drawn out battle.

Stecher says he does not intend to play a waiting game, but will tear into Lewis at the start, provided Lewis displays any inclination to mix. Lewis says he will go out to win as quickly as possible.

NEW RECORDS SET IN BOWLING TOURNAMENT

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 20. (AP)—Sensational bowling which has marked this year's rolling in the International Bowling association tournament was continued Sunday with one perfect 300 score and the breaking of one tournament record.

Frank Kartheiser of Chicago rolled the 300, the first perfect score made in the I. B. A. in its 20 years of existence.

It was Kartheiser, too, who set a new tournament record in the all events with his 2089.

Tunney Speaks In Defense of Ring Etiquette

Gene Avers There Is Much of It In Boxing Game, Even If It Doesn't Appear So.

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

"I'm a good boxing fan, all right," said a corpulent old chap whose twosome overtook us on the golf links at Miami recently, "but there's one thing always give me a laugh at a serious fight., That's the preliminary handshake, just before you fellows start hostilities. It always seems to me like Foch and von Hindenburg having a cup of tea before launching their armies at each other. I imagine that the handshake is about all the etiquette there is in the ring, isn't it?"

Another foursome was behind us, and, anyway, a green with a lot of serious putting to be done isn't the place to discuss such a matter at length, so now I am back at the clubhouse, I can answer the nice old gentleman.

There certainly is such a thing as "ring etiquette," although it might get pretty well mixed up at times. Briefly, I would like to say that the chivalry among aviators in the world war was an enlargement on the etiquette of the boxing ring. Aviators of all countries were gentlemen to begin with and there were few deviations from the gentleman's code of honor in the air service of any country. Likewise, when we remember that bare knuckle fighting was taken in hand by the Marquis of Queensbury and converted into a world sport, we must realize that the rules of the game carry a gentlemanly code with them.

Unfortunately that portion of the public which dislikes boxing has never taken the trouble to find this out.

Exponent of Fair Play

There were, of course, in the early days of boxing, a great many "bruisers" who fought simply for the love of fighting and engaged in brawls when not in the ring. But I have had the pleasure of talking to many old men whose knowledge of boxers extends far back beyond the lives of most of us today and always, in their reminiscence there are tales of how the fighting men of the past adhered to the code of fair play, intense loyalty to friends, readiness to forgive enemies and somewhere in their makeup, a soft heartedness that transcended all their rough exteriors.

In all the history of boxing from the days of the Greeks and Romans, the killing instinct never got anywhere. But the winning instinct did.

John L. Sullivan used to throw an occasional bartender out of the window, but he made rich amends. At heart Sullivan was an exponent of fair play and manliness. He was a victim of rip-roaring age and a hard-boiled period of the country's development.

One time while I was in France I had a weekend leave and went for an automobile trip to the forest of Chantilly about 30 miles out of Paris. It is one of the most beautiful spots in the world with its great race course, golf links, chateaux and winding roads. On the site of the golf links where a little group of rich Frenchmen saw the first German Uhlans coming within striking distance of the capital in 1914 there once was held a battle in which John L. Sullivan figured.

John and Charlie Mitchell were there to settle an international matter which took on a warlike aspect. The attendance, so the old French Count who conducted us over the ground assured us, was not much over 150 people. The two French sportsmen gathered in a "neutral corner" while the Americans and British, revolvers drawn, lined up on each side of the square space that had been marked off.

The time was spring and there was a typical, persistent French rain. The turf, undrained, was soggy. Both John L. and Mitchell wore spiked shoes. Almost like a duel, the battle began.

The sturdy Sullivan, at the end of a round that was well up in two figures, had Mitchell, his great opponent, worried. Angered by Sullivan's deadly, cool attack and the depressing weather, Mitchell resorted to desperate means. Losing his head after a terrific blow from his opponent, he lifted his foot and deliberately spiked Sullivan in the ankle.

The American giant retaliated with a wallop that would have felled anything but a never-say-die Britisher. Mitchell staggered back to the attack.

"Charlie," said Sullivan in his booming voice, "try to be a gentleman." Then, after another terrific smash, he added: "You blinkety-blink-blank such and so."

In the town of Chantilly there is an old inn where both heavyweights and scores of their followers dined that night in perfect harmony, after standing with pistols drawn against each other that afternoon.

Code of Ethics.

Perhaps my friend of the golf links thinks the preliminary handshake means nothing. It does. Just as the knights of old couched their lances before a joust, the touching of gloves signifies that the code of boxing still lives. In all my matches I have never felt badly against any opponent, nor, I believe, did they toward me. Sometimes an injudicious statement comes out aparently bearing malice, but I know very well that it comes from ill-advised or over-enthusiastic followers. I still have to be shown a genuine complainer. To the contrary, I admire the man who takes it as much as I admire the man who holds me off.

Once in 1922 I was severely criticized as being soft-hearted by my friends after a fight with Jack Hanlon in Brooklyn. It was one of those matches of which I do not approve and one which does the boxing game a terrible wrong. Hanlon, I learned afterward was married and worked all day, taking on a few matches at night to fatten the family budget. He was wide open in the first round and as I had little information about him, I went right to work. I myself was surprised by the ease with which I could hit him. He went down for nine at one of my first leads and a few seconds after he went down again in a pitiable condition.

When I learned that his jaw had been broken and that he was struggling to support a family, I sent him a check. The fight had only netted me about $500 and when I had paid off my expenses I was in the hole. But that is an example of the way one feels about opponents.

There is a code of ethics in boxing.

Fittest Survive In Grapple Show Monday Evening

Three of Four Wrestlers Are Famous Exponents of "Packinghouse" Mat Code.

The "Marquis of Packinghouse," himself, probably would turn green with envy if he could witness the display slated Monday night in Promoter Alec B. Ross' wrestling show at The Gym, 605 Scott avenue. In one evening the mat magnate is putting on Dutch Mantell, Lee Meyers and the mysterious one known as "Pop Henry" or "Pop Henrichs" or "Dutch Mantell's Grandpa" or just any sort of pet name you might have for him.

The "packinghouse" rules, made famous in Wichita Falls, will hold sway in the preliminary between Henry and Meyers, a finish match. Dutch Mantell is one of the principals in the main event, so no rules will be necessary in that match. The veteran Dutchman wrestles only one way, rules or no rules.

Mantell's foe is Teddy Waters, the Childress youngster, who comes back to main event performance after adding more than a year's experience to his store of knowledge since his last feature bout here. He'll probably need all of it, too, in taking on Mantell. Waters will have to be much improved to cause Mantell a great amount of trouble, but Promoter Ross avers he is all of that.

The preliminary between Meyers and Henry is sure to develop into one of those survival of the fittest affairs, with both wrestlers fighting each other, the referee and the ringsiders, and before it is over the promoter and the cops may get into it. They usually do.

MANY TRACK STARS IN GOTHAM INDOOR GAMES

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Olympic, American and intercollegiate champions are listed among the stars who will compete in the annual indoor games of the New York Athletic club in Madison Square Garden Monday night.

Roland Locke, Nebraska sprint flash, Lloyd Harn of the Boston A. C., and Sabin Carr of Yale are numbered in the big track array.

Carr, world's record holder in the pole vault, will endeavor to establish a new indoor mark.

Hahn competes in the Baxter mile against Jimmy Connolly of the New York A. C., Sydney Robinson, former Mississippi A. & M. college star, William Sullivan, ex-Georgetown miler and J. J. Elliott of the University of North Carolina.

M'GRAW ON HAND FOR GIANT TRAINING WORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—John McGraw has arrived at the Giants' camp at Hot Springs, Ark., and promptly defended the trades which sent Rogers Hornsby to the Braves and Burleigh Grimes to the Pirates.

He said the youngsters received in the deal for Hornsby, Catcher Frank Hogan and Outfielder Jim Welsh, were very promising. But the Giants' manager was very reticent in regard to why the Rajah was let go.

As to the swap which brought Vic Aldridge from Pittsburgh in exchange for Grimes, McGraw said that he wanted a hurler to win games in April and May. Grimes did not get started until late last season.

Travis Jackson is expected at the training quarters shortly. McGraw said Jackson could have the captaincy if he so desired, filling the position created by the transfer of Hornsby.

OKLAHOMA CAN CINCH FLAG WITH TWO WINS

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 20. (AP)—Nine valley basket ball games this week offer the Oklahoma Sooners a chance to clinch their first championship while five more teams continue their spirited fight for first division positions.

Oklahoma's 37 to 17 triumph over Iowa State at Norman Saturday, gave the Sooners their 14th straight win and left them needing two of the remaining four games to take the title. Three other southern teams also used Saturday's slate to improve their standings at the expense of northern squads. The Kansas Aggies defeated Nebraska 28 to 22, Kansas beat Grinnell 42 to 21 and Washington trimmed Drake 33 to 26.

Cochran Among Early Arrivals

Jack Speer of Houston, L. Jester of Dallas, George Church of Dallas, Gene Bedford, formerly of Dallas and now living in Houston; A. K. Newby of Houston, Dick Nauts of Houston, Bel Calhoun of Houston, Tom Gregory of Houston, Lee Davis of San Angelo, Felix McKnight of San Antonio, Jack Dold of Houston, F. M. Bonner of Houston, V. W. Penny of Houston, Dick Harrison of San Angelo, W. G. McEniry and scores of others were out for practice Sunday.

Jack Speer, former Texas municipal champion, with a round of 71 matched par, while many others crowded perfect figures for the day.

Rotan, Carlton, Badger and Stewart played in the big foursome during the afternoon, and offered those following the match some fine shots.

A hundred players are expected on Monday, and it is thought that the entire field will have checked in by Monday night.

PANTHERS TO REPORT FOR WORK ON MARCH 1

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—Thirty men have been instructed to report to Panther park between March 1 and 5 for the start of spring practice, according to the announcement by Paul Lagrave, business manager of the Fort Worth baseball club. Ten pitchers and four catchers will be due Thursday, March 1, while 11 infielders and five outfielders will be late if they get here later than the following Monday.

Unofficially work may begin Monday, Feb. 27, but the free board and $20 a week allowed the players during the training won't start until three days later. Some of the men under contract who live here and several "hot" youngsters have signified their intentions of getting an early start, so if the weather is suitable the fans who visit the park a week from Monday are likely to see some Cat candidates going through the first stages of loosening muscles.

Manager Jake Atz is not expected to arrive before March 1, but he may roll in a day or two ahead of time.

LIVELY CAGE RACE IN BIG TEN NEARS FINISH

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Three weeks from the finish, the first division teams of the Western conference were closely bunched Monday in the race for the basket ball championship, with ties for both the lead and the runnerup position. The nine games on this week's program will go far toward settling the title.

Purdue and Wisconsin share the ranking honors, the Purdue team losing to Indiana, 40-37, Saturday for its first defeat in six starts. The two leaders have three games apiece this week, meeting each other twice, Thursday and Saturday. Victory in both games would go far to insure a championship for either squad.

AUSTIN AND FORT CLARK POLO TEAMS TO BATTLE

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—Austin and Fort Clark, two of the heavy favorites in the annual mid-winter polo tournament, were scheduled to open the second round of the contest here Monday.

Austin plays under a 15 goal handicap, the heaviest impost ever imposed in the tourney and Fort Clark is an 11-goal team.

Camp Wood and the Ninth infantry are matched in the only other contest scheduled, the air corps training center, Camp Marfa game having been postponed for the funeral of Captain William Randolph, adjutant of Kelly field who was killed Friday at Gorman, Texas.

COYOTE GRID CONTEST TO BE PLAYED TUESDAY

The first of the series of intra-squad spring training football games on the Coyote schedule will be played Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock on the practice field at the junior college. The contest originally was scheduled for last Friday, but bad weather forced a postponement.

Tuesday's game will be between the two teams piloted by Raymond Mitchell, 1927 Coyote captain, and Duncan Perkins, letter man of the past season.

A regulation game will be played and the fans are invited to be on hand, according to announcement of Coach Bud McCallum.

Porkers Finish Up With Aggies

lowing Coach Schmidt's men to finish the season undefeated.

In handing the Owls a double licking last weekend, the Porkers met with more resistance than was expected. Playing a bitter defensive game Friday, the Owls led the Razorbacks at the end of the half, 6-5. The final score, 22-11, was much closer than pre-game dope had indicated. Saturday's tilt was even closer, the Owls putting on a brilliant closing spurt which brought them within hailing distance of victory. Goals by Lambert and Schoonover, though, gave Arkansas its tenth straight win, 28-23.

Southern Methodist university's Mustangs, stung by their double reversal at Fayetteville the week previous, swamped the Texas Longhorns in an uninteresting game, 44-25. This victory practically assured the Mustangs of runner-up honors in the race.

The Baylor Bears invade the Mustang court Tuesday, for their first tilt with S. M. U., in the current race. On present form the Mustangs should win easily.

Rivals of a more menacing nature invade the Mustang corral Saturday. Confident following their great stand against the Razorbacks, the Rice Owls come in quest of sweet revenge for an early season trimming handed them by the Mustangs.

T. C. U. took a lacing at the hands of the Owls last Monday, 21-20, at Houston. Friday the Owls journey to Fort Worth to battle the Horned Frogs. The T. C. U. hoop artists are favored to win.

Monday the Frogs engage the Longhorns, who laid over in Fort Worth for the weekend following their defeat at Dallas Saturday night.

KIRKLAND AGAIN CHAMP OF CHILDRESS COUNTY

KIRKLAND, Texas, Feb. 20.—Kirkland again this year will represent Childress county in the district basket ball tournament of the interscholastic league to be held at Childress this week. The Eagles defeated Carey, 39 to 12, in the county final, and Loco, 40 to 14, in the semi-final round. The Kirkland team has won 20 of its 24 games played this season.

CONGRESSMAN FRISBY CALLS OUT MARINES!

If you see this man wearing a pinch-back suit, try to get him to follow you to the police station for questioning.

WASHINGTON — Congressman Frisby today called at the White House and requested that a detachment of United States marines be sent to Erie, Pa.

When asked to explain the reason for his request, Frisby became angry and kicked over a chair. It was with difficulty that attaches quieted Congressman Frisby and finally prevailed upon him to have a cup of tea.

Later he explained his action in a 3,000-word statement.

It seems that Frisby had received word from Erie that a waitress in that city fainted when a customer smiled. On regaining consciousness, according to L. S. Wenkle, the waitress said she was sure that the customer was wearing the mysteriously missing Frisby false teeth.

The suspect wore a dark suit with a pinch-back and stach pockets. His hair was combed.

Frisby, on hearing of the incident from Wenkle, was furious and announced that when the culprit is apprehended he will give him a good back-biting.

COTTON MARKET'S TREND FOR UPPER LEVELS ON BUYING

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Realizing or pre-holiday liquidation attracted by an early advance in the cotton market today was absorbed on moderate reactions, prices firming up again in early afternoon on reports of a firm spot situation in the South and renewed covering. Some trade buying was also reported. The mid-afternoon market showed net advances of about 10 to 15 points.

Market opened steady today at an advance of 9 to 12 points and sold 12 to 16 points net higher in early trading on covering combined with trade and commission house buying. Offerings were comparatively light.

Demand evidently was influenced by relatively steady Liverpool cables and a rather more favorable view of reports from the cotton goods trade, based partly upon the increased business reported in gray goods for last week. Some liquidation of March contracts in preparation for possible notices on Friday, was readily absorbed, and the market held within a point or two of the best at the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported that continental and trade calling had absorbed hedges in Liverpool. Cloth business in India was said to be developing slowly, but the cables reported a fair demand from the continent and South America.

The early advance to 18.26 for May and 18.18 for October was checked by realizing or liquidation. May sold off to 18.17 and October to 18.08, close to Saturday's final quotations, but the volume of business tapered off at the decline, the market was quiet and the tone fairly steady around midday. Part of selling was attributed to preholiday evening-up, while buying on the setback appeared to be encouraged by reports of a steady spot situation in the South.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 20. (AP)—Following an early advance the cotton market turned easy later today on some pre-holiday liquidation and a forecast for unsettled weather in the belt. March contracts sold off from 18.00 to 17.88, May from 17.99 to 17.90 and July from 18.04 to 17.93, or 9 to 12 points under the best. In the afternoon prices rallied on reports of a better spot demand and most of the loss was recovered. May made a new high at 18.01, or 15 points above the previous close. Other positions about duplicated their earlier range.

Exports 41,686 bales.

Evening up for over the holidays here tomorrow and Wednesday and moderate trade buying held cotton prices steady in early trading today.

First trades showed gains of 6 to 12 points in response to more favorable Liverpool cables and the market continued to advance on the pre-holiday influences. March trading up to 18.00, May 17.99, and July 18.04, or 12 to 14 points net up. October advanced 17.87, or 16 points above the previous close. At the end of the first half hour the market was steady and near the highs.

The market turned easy later on some pre-holiday liquidation and selling on prospects for unsettled weather in the Western belt. March sold off to 17.88, May 17.90 and July 17.93, or 9 to 12 points under the previous high and unchanged to 3 points up compared with the previous close.

Near noon prices were sustained by more encouraging news from the dry-goods market and a firmer basis for spots and recovered a few points of the loss.

Cotton futures closed steady at a net advance of 5 to 19 points.

GEN. W. H. STACY FATHER WICHITAN DIES AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—General W. H. Stacy, Spanish-American war veteran and father of three prominent Texas athletes, died unexpectedly at his office here Monday, his sixty-sixth birthday anniversary.

Gillespie Stacey, active partner in the real estate business which his father started more than a half a century ago, was a Southwest tennis champion while in Texas university some 15 years ago. Harwood Stacy, Wichita Falls, was prominent in baseball at the university about the same time and Franklin Stacy, Harlingen, another son, was a university football star about the time of the world war.

General Stacy is survived also by a daughter, Mrs. Thomas B. Ramey Jr., of Tyler who was formerly Miss Cordelia Stacy and a foster daughter, Mrs. Edward McChesney of Brownsville, formerly Miss Virginia Harwood.

A sister, Mrs. J. W. Spivey, resides in Waco.

Harwood Stacy, local attorney, son of General W. H. Stacy, who died in Austin Monday morning, left Wichita Falls Monday afternoon for Austin.

Rush for Altar Follows Sermons On Home Building

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20. (AP)—Rev. Logan Martin is wondering if a second marriage will result from the series of sermons he began two weeks ago on "home building," in which members of the congregation were asked to submit letters at services of Boulevard Christian church about what points an ideal marriage partner should have. The first bouquet of flowers, given as a prize to the best letter from a man, went a week ago to Thomas B. Turner.

Turner walked down the aisle and gave the bouquet to Miss Alta Mae Purcell. They were married at the church Sunday night.

Last night the bouquet for the best letter from a woman was presented to Miss Alma Lee Portwood. Miss Portwood presented her bouquet to a young man in the audience.

EARLY RALLY FAILS AFTER STOCKS OPEN SECONDARY REACTION

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—The stock market went through a second reaction today after an early rally failed to hold. U. S. Steel common and several other leaders touched new lows on the current decline on setbacks of 1 to 3 points, while several of the specialties broke 4 to nearly 7 points on a renewal of bear selling and loan liquidation. Trading was in larger volume than Friday, but failed to maintain the terrific pace set in Saturday's record-breaking half-holiday session.

There was no change in the credit situation. Call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 4½ per cent with funds offered in the outside market at 4 per cent. The day's business news also was rather colorless in character, the only items of importance being a reduction from $3 to $2.50 in the quarterly dividend on Laclede Gas, and the publication of the American Can Company report showing slightly smaller earnings per share in 1927, as compared with the year before.

U. S. Steel common dipped to a new low at 138⅛, but General Motors was well supported just above 133, the low price touched last week. Selling pressure was most effective against such issues as Reynolds Tobacco B, International Business Machines, A. M. Byers, Montgomery-Ward, Radio, Colorado Fuel, International Nickel, Gold Dust and American Agricultural Chemical preferred, all of which sold down 3 or more points below last week's final quotations.

Prices moved irregularly at the opening of the stock market today with some of the leading issues including U. S. Steel and General Motors, fractionally higher. Greene Cananea Copper, U. S. Rubber and Hudson Motors had initial gains of a point or more, but International Nickel and Brooklyn Edison were a point or so lower.

A rally from last week's sinking spell was in progress before the first half hour ended. Improvement of the monetary situation, including a sharp reduction of the recent deficit in bank reserves was a factor. Strong support for some of the pivotal issues caused shorts to hurry to buy back some of the more volatile shares.

Greene Cananea Copper soon sold up more than 3 points and a number of others advanced a point or so. Early buying was in evidence in various motor and accessory, merchandising, oil and steel shares, including General Motors, Mack Truck, Timken Roller Bearing, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Houston Oil, U. S. Steel, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Allied Chemical. Vanadium Steel quickly jumped nearly 5 points above Saturday's closing price. Freeport-Texas, after sagging to a new low for the movement, encountered heavy buying orders and rebounded about a point. Nevertheless, some weakness was shown by a few issues, in the early hour, including American Sumatra Tobacco, Reynolds Tobacco "B", Baldwin and Collins & Aikman. Rails showed little change, aside from an early 2-point jump in Texas & Pacific.

There was little movement in foreign exchange at the opening. Sterling cables were quoted slightly higher around $4.87 9-16.

The upward tendency of the market was suddenly interrupted by another outbreak of acute weakness in volatile shares. Gold Dust and International Nickel sold 5 points below Saturday's closing, while Greene Cananea Copper and Vanadium Steel relinquished earlier advances of as much. United States Steel was driven down to 138⅛. The break in prices presumably was not associated with anything in the way of news developments, and was probably engineered by the professional bear element who were seeking favorable selling levels. The renewal rate for call loans was reduced to 4¼ per cent.

The closing was steady; necessitous selling appeared to be completed for the time being at least in the final hour, when the market staged an impressive rally under the leadership of Montgomery Ward, Freeport, Texas, Vanadium Steel, and Greene Cananea Copper. Some isolated stocks continued weak, especially among the tobacco group. Total sales approximated 2,600,000 shares.

USUAL OPEN CALM REIGNS OVER BOND MARKET OPERATIONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—The usual Monday calm ruled over the bond market today, perhaps emphasized somewhat by the approach of another holiday. Oversubscription was quickly reported of the $16,800,000 Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway first mortgage 4s, offered this morning.

Trading in listed bonds was perfunctory. There was some selling of Public Utility issues, such as Columbia Gas & Electric 5s and North American Edison 5s, but recessions were small. Seaboard issues sagged a trifle more, with the exception of the Refunding 4s, which recovered about 1½ points of their recent loss.

Irregularity attended trading in the foreign group, some German industrials were firm, particularly United States Steel Works "C" 6½s, but some of the Japanese obligations inclined to heaviness and French and Italian bonds were mixed.

Irregular movements and small trading characterised the early dealings in U. S. government securities.

COTTON EXPORTS DECREASE FIRST HALF FEBRUARY

DALLAS, Feb. 20. (AP)—The movement throughout the cotton states to curtail rather than to increase acreage this year seems to have had a stimulating effect on the cotton market where better prices and increased demand prevailed during the first half of February, according to announcement today by the American Railway association.

"If the industry is to survive, another year of over production must be avoided," the report said.

Exports continued to be less than they were at the same period last season as follows:

VIGOROUS ADVANCE SCORED BY STOCKS ON CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Support and some professional speculative buying caused vigorous advances in many stocks in the early trading on the curb market today, some of the gains then made amounting to over 10 points. The move was of short duration, however, the general market again coming under renewed pressure and during the greater part of the day stocks were in supply from many sources at sharp declines. In some cases pools that had been active endeavored to find a demand for a part of their holdings, but found little opportunity to reach a nearby market.

The market in general was influenced on this movement by liquidation of many speculative holdings in other quarters which necessitated also the sales of a large number of stocks carried in this market. Gains of 3 points or more in many issues were quickly turned into losses when selling of this character appeared and more extensive advances were materially reduced under the increased offerings.

Tubize, in the period of strength, rose over 10 points and Brockway Trucks gained about 5 points. American Rolling Mills, which advanced over 2 points, had its gain quickly wiped out, and Firestone, which moved up 3 points in the early trading also lost its gain. Newmont Mining had wide fluctuations all through the day and at one time showed a loss of about 5 points. Deere & Company rose nearly 4 points and then declined to the same extent. Similar movements occurred in Celanese and Bancitaly.

Public utilities were fairly well held, Southeastern Power and United Gas Improvement moved up in the early trading. American Superpower issues were ex-rights and had a narrow range.

Vacuum Oil was again weak, falling about a point but rallied from its low level. Standard Oil of Indiana was strong in the forenoon but declined before midday. Prairie Pipe Line and Imperial Oil of Canada were both in supply at decline.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK PRICES IN WEEK'S TRADE SHOW DROP

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—In addition to slow trading and a delayed clearance on some classes of livestock at Fort Worth last week steers, yearlings, heifers and hogs are registering a decline from prices that were in vogue at the close of the preceding week.

While the supply is slightly under the totals for the previous week in the cattle division hogs showed an appreciable gain. All receipts are in excess of the numbers that arrived for the corresponding week in 1927.

Monday and Tuesday found liberal supplies of slaughter steers offered. The quality was also in excess of the usual offering—that is, more of them were of the kind to sell above the $10.50 level. While the trading was very slow each day—mid-afternoon finding steers in the hands of the sellers with a few cars carried over for the next day, the trading was steady on a majority of the sales.

Steer Deliveries Light

The latter part of the week found a very light supply of slaughter steers arriving and the few cars that did come were mostly light weight common cattle.

The top for the week in the steer division was $13.25 which was paid for a load that averaged 1,168 pounds and came from Nolan county. A car of light weight steers made a top on Monday of $12.65. Steer sales for the week are from 25 to 50c lower with the bulk of the decline marked up against the better class of steers. Common steers—those listed to sell from $8 to 9.50 showed little disposition to change their values.

While several lots of steers were bought by outsiders the shipping demand has been limited owing to the Northern declines. Chicago reported the slowest trading of the year on steers.

Bulls Sell Steady

Bulls sold steady throughout the week with fair demand. The supply was rather light. A few cars made their appearance and most of them sold at $7.50 or above with the top for the week in carlots $8.00. Each day has found a few desirable fat bulls selling from $8.00 to $8.25. The thin bologna bulls cleared from $5.50 to $6.00, heavier ones making $6.00 to $6.50.

Cows sold to a weak market Monday and Tuesday. The trading was somewhat uneven and packers were bidding lower, but a good outside demand prevailed and absorbed the supply as values that were steady to a dime lower. The latter part of the week saw cows selling to a good demand.

Carlots Sell Freely

Carlots sold freely from $7.00 up with the top for the week $8.00 which was paid for a car from Colorado, Texas, that averaged around 950 pounds. Choice individuals and small packages cleared up to $8.50 and some of the heifers making around $9.00.

The supply of yearlings and heifers for last week was ample to care for the demand. It also contained a number of cars that were well finished. The carlot top for the week was $12.50 which was paid for a load that averaged 643 pounds. Several loads sold up to $11.75, numerous loads making the $11.00 notch. Choice individuals and small packages sold at $12.50 to $13.00.

With a very light supply of calves offered daily they made an early clearance. A good portion of the receipts was made up of mixed lots—in fact, very few straight lots of good calves arrived. The best heavy calves sold from $11.00 to 11.50 with a few packages making $12.00. Common calves cleared from $8.00 to 9.50.

Veal Calves Light

The daily offering of veal calves was very light.

Last week's receipts contained 13,550 cattle, 2,069 calves, 13,321 hogs and 4,654 sheep. For the corresponding week in 1927 there were 12,254 cattle, 1,972 calves, 9,814 hogs and 2,221 sheep.

Sheep sold to a steady market last week. The bulk of the supply was made up of lambs of which a good portion was feeders. Wethers sold from $8.75 to $9.50. A few yearlings sold around $12.00 with the bulk of the wooled lambs selling from $13.50 to $14.10 with clipped feeder lambs making from $11.00 to $11.50.

The supply of hogs at Fort Worth was unusually liberal. This condition prevailed at northern markets—particularly the first half of the week. With northern markets showing declines the Fort Worth hog market closed the week at a loss of about 20c. Saturday's top was $8.10 which was a dime higher than Friday's trading.

Livestock Market

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20. (AP)—All classes of cattle at Fort Worth Monday opened the week's trading at steady to strong values as compared with those in effect at the close of last week. The supply was comparatively light.

Sales in the slaughter division ranged from $10.80 to $12.50 with the best steers unsold.

In the bull market thin bologna bulls sold from $5.50 to $6.00; heavier ones $6.00 to $6.50; with the car load lots listed to sell between $7.50 and $7.75.

Cows steady to 15c higher with spots as much as a quarter up. The top for the day in car lots was $8.25 paid for good fat cows with the usual supply of small lots selling $8.00 to $8.50. Canners cows sold about steady with the bulk $4.50 to $5.00 and canners $5.00 to $5.50.

Yearlings and heifers sold up to $12.25.

In the calf division a few stocker calves sold at $11.00 and $12.00. The supply of sheep was light and no early sales reported.

With a light offering of hogs on Northern markets the Fort Worth market showed an advance of 10 to 15c, most sales 10c higher. The truck top was $8.05, rail top $8.15, paid for loads averaging 163 and 200 pounds.

EUROPEAN BUYING LIFTS WHEAT PRICES TO HIGHEST LEVEL

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Aggressive buying on the part of houses with Eastern and European connections hoisted wheat prices today and July delivery established a new high record for the season. Export purchases of North American wheat today were estimated at about 1,000,000 bushels, and Liverpool wheat quotations bulged in the face of 5,072,000 bushels increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage. A feature of today's trading was spreading transactions between wheat and corn, with corn being sold.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛ to 1¼c net higher, corn ⅛c off, to ¼c up, oats unchanged to a shade lower and provisions at 5c to 15c advance.

Emphasizing the bullish effect today of reports that rationing of food is in progress in Russia and that stocks of leading articles are very small, advices were also at hand that world shipments of wheat had fallen off to a material extent in the last week.

Favorable weather for the movement of corn eased the corn market today at the start. Sympathy with wheat strength, however, acted later as more than a counterbalance and the jury delivery of corn rose to $1 a bushel. Besides, the amount of corn on ocean passage, was shown to be more than 10,000,000 bushels under the total at this time last year.

Sugar and Coffee

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—The raw sugar market was a little steadier early today and prices advanced 1-16c to the basis of $4.21 for Cuban duty paid. Sales at this level were 16,000 bags of Cuban, February shipment to an operator.

Raw sugar futures opened unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and some Cuban support, but eased off under increased liquidation and trade selling. At midday prices were 2 to 3 points net lower. The steadier spot market failed to inspire any aggressive buying, probably on account of the continued indifference on the part of local refiners, and the undertone at midday was unsettled.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at $5.60 for fine granulated, with demand again light and of a hand-to-mouth character.

Ticklers from Ticker

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Steel activities in the Youngstown district are on the broadest basis since early in 1927. Producers are expending operations in anticipation of greater demand. Of 53 independent open hearth furnaces, 41 are scheduled.

Crude oil production in California last week averaged 616,750 barrels daily, an increase of 2550 barrels daily over the week before.

Net income of $9,926,063 after taxes and charges, is shown in the preliminary statement of the Chicago & Northwestern for 1927, against $12,419,841 in 1926.

Stockholders of Youngstown Sheet & Tube will vote March 15 on the merger with Inland Steel.

Net profit of National Fireproofing company for 1927 dropped to $120,837 from $519,865 in 1926.

There is little likelihood that Dutch rubber growers will join the British in an attempt to save the Stevenson restriction plan, in the opinion of F. R. Henderson, president of the Rubber Exchange of New York. While a few of the Dutch producers may be negotiating with British interests toward this end, it is not believed any merger of the producing interests of the two countries on a large scale is possible, he says.

Phone Your Classified Ads to

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the following day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad Department between 8 a. m. and 3 p. m. on week days with the exception of Saturday's and Sunday's issues. For Saturday's issue before 11 a. m. Saturday, and for Sunday's issue before 7 p. m. Saturday.

Where ads are ordered and paid for no refunds are allowed where ads are cancelled before expiration date.

Closing Hours: Ads accepted for week days until 3 p. m.; for Saturday's until 11 a. m.; and for Sunday's issue until 7 p. m. Saturday. Ads received later than above hours will appear under "Too Late to Classify."

Exceptions: Want Ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headings and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

The campaign to raise the total of $350,000, Mr. Farrar believed, would end Wednesday night.

HIGHWAY BODY HEARING PLEAS FOR $2,000,000

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—More than 150 representatives of 64 counties interested in road construction contracts and proposed aid allotments aggregating nearly $5,000,000, gathered Monday at the state highway department for the highway commission's heaviest session in more than a year.

The commission opened bids totaling about $2,500,000 for 160 miles of road work already authorized in 14 counties, while delegations from 30 other counties awaited their turns to petition the commission for designations and aid allotments totaling well over $2,000,000 for new projects.

No contract lettings were expected before late Monday at the earliest.

Counties for which lettings are scheduled are Dimmitt, Travis, San Jacinto, Jim Wells, Fort Bend, Limestone, Lavaca, Taylor, Wilbarger, Carson, Hardeman, Kerr, Atascosa and Walker.

The commission refused a federal designation of the new cut-off highway from Victoria to Robstown by way of Refugio and Sinton, as sought by Victoria, Refugio, San Patrico and Nueces counties.

Agreement was made with San Patrico county whereby it will use county funds for preliminary work on the new highway from Sinton to the Nueces river, getting credit until state funds are available for whatever is spent by the county.

At the morning session the commission opened bids on construction projects totaling $460,000 and left the remainder of the $2,500,000 aggregate until later.

LAWRENCE ADMITS HE WAS IN ROOM WITH MAN'S WIFE

DALLAS, Feb. 20. (AP)—John Lawrence, former mayor of Mesquite, Texas, on trial for murder in the death of Jack Kimbell, Mesquite farmer, admitted on the witness stand here today that he was found in a local hotel room last August 8, with Mrs. Kimbell, wife of the slain man.

"He had registered as J. Stephen and wife," Lawrence said. He said that Mrs. Kimbell ran into an adjoining room when her husband and a private detective knocked on the door.

These statements were made during direct examination by his own attorney, Robert B. Allen.

Lawrence insisted there was nothing irregular about his having been found in the room with Mrs. Kimbell, explaining he had gone there at her request to talk over her domestic troubles, which, through charges Jack Kimbell had been making, involved him.

February Issue C. of C. Magazine Comes Off Press

The February issue of the Community Builder, monthly magazine of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, came off the press Saturday and will be mailed out to all members Tuesday, according to Miss Florence Jackson, publicity director.

The leading article is the official message of Charles I. Francis, recently elected president of the organization.

"While some progress has been made each year in the colonization of our valley lands, we feel that this work has moved forward more slowly than conditions warrant," Mr. Francis says. "Agriculture in general is on a much better foundation than has prevailed in several years past and we feel that the time is now ripe for extensive and intensive work along this line. We have thousands of acres of undeveloped lands which should be in the hands of those who are willing to use them under methods of cultivation that have proven successful in other irrigated sections of the country."

An article by C. L. Teissler, manager of the new Kraft Cheese factory, announces the corporation's plans for establishing sub-factories and milk stations throughout the territory as soon as the supply of milk is sufficient to warrant their operation.

A. V. Moller, recently elected president of the Northwest Texas Poultry association, in a brief interview states his reasons for believing this section to have a great future as a poultry raising center.

The back page of the magazine carries three pictures of the newly constructed fish hatchery at the Diversion dam. It is planned that this state hatchery will place 100,000 game fish each year in Lake Kemp, the Diversion lake and Lake Wichita.

Snakes have killed more than a million human beings in the last 50 years. An average of 20,000 are killed each year in India alone, and three to five thousand in the American tropics.

RURAL SCOUT WORK WILL SWING INTO ACTION HERE SOON

Work designed to carry scouting to a large percentage of the country boys living in the Wichita Council area which comprises eight counties of Northwest Texas, is progressing rapidly, it was announced Monday by Frank Creighton, Wichita Falls Boy Scout executive.

The Henrietta Kiwanis club has voted to sponsor the Boy Scout work in Clay county. It is expected that civic organizations in other counties will take the same action.

Assisting Mr. Creighton in the work of visiting all the towns in this council is E. E. Voss, Dallas, deputy regional executive.

Starting about March 1 there will be an intensive campaign to enroll the men of all the communities in the council in the scouting work. These men will be organized into the Community Boys Work institute. These institutes will hold meetings once every month and every three months a court of honor or some similar function will be held.

When the rural scouting work is organized there will be a rural scout director who will be in charge of the work, cooperating with Mr. Creighton.

Counties included in the Wichita Council area are Archer, Baylor, Clay, Jack, Throckmorton, Wichita, Wilbarger and Young.

AUTO FINANCE COMPANIES WIN SUIT FOR EQUITIES

RANKIN HAS PROOF MANIPULATION ON COTTON HE AVERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Referring to a denial carried of his charges of cotton manipulation by W. L. Clayton, president of Anderson - Clayton company, Houston, Texas, cotton brokers, Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, said today in the house that his statements about the concern "can be amply substantiated by proof."

The Mississipi representative declared that he would substantiate his previous attacks upon cotton brokerage concerns by revealing "new charges and sensations in a few days."

"I want to show that a gigantic monopoly is controlling the cotton market," he said. "It is ruining the cotton industry and the cotton farmers of the country."

Representative Rankin said he could secure the affidavits of 200 men who heard Clayton make the remark with which he charged him during his recent speech. Rankin had said Clayton in a speech declared that "farms other than his own could not hope to avoid loss in the cotton business unless they could successfully guess his mind."

The Mississippi representative declared that those who have lost money from the "unlawful manipulations of the cotton market" under the Sherman anti-trust law may recover three times the amount of actual damage.

OKLAHOMA SHERIFF RESIGNS HIS OFFICE AFTER OUSTER SUIT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 20. (AP)—Resignation of Sheriff Ewing C. London of Carter county in the face of an impending ouster action was announced today at the office of Edwin Dabney, Oklahoma attorney general, who had directed three investigations of London at the instance of Gov. Henry S. Johnston.

In his resignation London announced his intention of running for reelection next fall and charged that he had been "hounded" by the governor and wealthy individuals, against whom he was unable financially to defend himself.

London originally was appointed to succeed Buck Garrett, ousted sheriff, who gained the national spotlight several years ago when he returned Ciara Smith Hamon from Mexico to face a charge of murdering her husband's uncle, Jake Hamon, Republican national committeeman and millionaire oil man of Ardmore.

London's career has been stormy. He was acquitted in 1926 of a number of ouster accusations brought against him by a grand jury and returned to the office from which he had been suspended. Three investigations have been launched against him by Governor Johnston in the last year.

In the most recent, an open court of inquiry was held at Ardmore and it was testified by several witnesses that London and Nevins Kirkpatrick, sheriff of Pushmataha county, had maintained a camp with two women, not their wives, in the mountains of McCurtain county last summer. The testimony was denied by London.

Lindbergh Medal Bills Put Before House for Okeh

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Two bills authorizing the secretary of the treasury to issue Lindbergh medals were approved today by the house coinage committee.

One of the bills, by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, house majority leader, would provide $100 for the coinage of a gold medal to be presented to Colonel Lindbergh in commemoration of his aerial achievements. Duplicates in bronze would be sold to the public.

The other measure, introduced by Representative Kvale, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, would provide that a commission, composed of two members of the house, one senator, the mayor of Little Falls, Minn., and mayor of St. Louis, would direct the sale of Lindbergh medals, the proceeds from which would be devoted to the purchase and equipment of the Lindbergh homestead at Little Falls, and for the purpose of constructing and equipping a Lindbergh museum at St. Louis.

BUY BEAMS TO FINISH BRIDGES NEAR ELECTRA

The county commissioners' court Monday completed the purchase of 16 steel "T" beams necessary to the completion of two concrete bridges on minor roads in the Electra precinct.

The Panhandle Steel Products company won the contract to furnish the beams on a bid of $510. The concrete supports upon which the beams are to be laid already have been erected and only the beams are to be placed and the flooring constructed before the bridges are ready, H. H. Haynes, commissioner from that precinct, said the next 30 days will see the completion of the structures. The money for the work comes out of the road and bridge fund allotted to the precinct.

One of the bridges is to span China creek, about seven miles northwest of Electra. The other is across Buffalo creek, about a mile south of Fowlkes station. Both structures are important, Mr. Haynes said, because of the service they will give to thickly settled rural sections. The total cost when completed, will be less than $10,000, it was said.

Two other sets of bids also were opened at the meeting of the court. A road roller costing $3000 was purchased from the Lone Star Road Machinery company, for delivery to the Burkburnett precinct.

A Graham truck was bought from McFall Brothers on a bid of $1155 for precinct No. 2.

A mass of routine business also occupied the attention of the court as it went into afternoon session.

GOD NOT CONFINED TO CHURCHES, MONK SAYS TO KIWANIANS

Life is not only a prolonged program of reaching and getting but also of giving, the Rev. Alonzo Monk, itinerant evangelist of the Southern Methodist church, told members of the Wichita Falls Kiwanis club at their regular weekly meeting Monday noon at the Kemp hotel.

Mr. Monk, who was introduced by R. W. H. McCulloch, chairman of the day, spoke on the subject of "Equalizing Things."

"God is not confined to church buildings, Mr. Monk said. "When many think of the church they think of long faces and sometimes collections. Yes, God is in his church, but he is also everywhere.

"Sunday is not the only day that you and I must account to God, but we must do it every day."

The speaker said that the idea of "America for Americans" is a false idea and that today, in a day of radio, cable and telegraph, America cannot isolate herself from the rest of the world and that this country must be concerned with all countries.

A quartet, composed of Joel MacGregor, H. W. Gray, E. F. Bohmfalk and F. M. Hansen sang "My Bungalow of Dreams," "My Blue Heaven" and "Me and My Shadow." J. S. Pitman played the piano accompaniments.

J. S. Pitman played a piano solo, "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Mrs. Alonzo Monk and Mrs. R. W. McCulloch were special guests of the club.

J. L. Jackson Jr., lieutenant governor of district No. 4 of the Texas-Oklahoma district of Kiwanis International, urged all members of the local club to attend the divisional conference here next Wednesday.

Dan Lundien and Dr. O. W. Wilson were appointed "colonels" of the two teams, composed of the entire membership of the club, which will compete for the next several weeks in a membership campaign. The losers must serve the winners a dinner.

MILLIONAIRE SHOT DOWN AS RESULT BUSINESS QUARREL

PROMINENT NORTH CAROLINA COTTON DEALERS FIGURE IN GUN AFFRAY

LEROY SPRINGS UNDER MEDICAL CARE MONDAY

Eldred Griffith, Held in Jail After Shooting on Street of Charlotte, N. C.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 20. (AP) Leroy Springs, millionaire textile manufacturer of Lancaster, S. C., and this city, was shot in the head in a drug store here today by Eldred Griffith, a cotton merchant. An old business feud is said to have been responsible.

Springs, long prominent in southern business and political circles, was taken to a hospital where it was said the wound was not believed to be serious.

Griffith was placed under arrest and taken to the county jail to await the filing of charges.

Griffith would not talk and Springs was unable to do so.

Eye witnesses said the two men had conversed for several minutes when Griffith suddenly drew a pistol and fired a shot. He attempted to fire again, but was overpowered.

Springs is one of the best known cotton manufacturers in the south and has long been prominent in South Carolina business and politics.

He has textile interests at Lancaster, Fort Mill, and other places. He is the father of Elliott White Springs, of Fort Mill, who won renown in the world war as an aviator with the British and American forces.

The victim's wife is Democratic national committee woman for South Carolina and was placed in nomination for the vice presidency on the Democratic ticket at Madison Square garden in 1924.

Just how the trouble between Springs and Griffin started is not clearly known. The two men were standing in the doorway of a drug store engaged in conversation. Suddenly, it was said, Griffith pulled a pistol and shot Springs in the head. The wounded man started running across the street begging for his life.

Griffith followed. Springs darted into the entrance of another drug store on the opposite side of the street and came out on another street. Griffith was in the middle of the street, his pistol levelled at Springs and a witness said had pulled the trigger twice more when a crowd of men headed by George King, seized and overpowered him.

Springs was taken to the Charlotte sanitarium where physicians an hour after the shooting said he was suffering from a scalp wound which was not considered dangerous.

Some Folks May Doubt This Tale Out of Eastland

EASTLAND, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP) Rip Van Winkle of the toad family, the horned frog, that was walled up in the cornerstone of the Eastland county courthouse for 31 years, sans food, water and air, was alive this morning.

More than 10,000 persons from all parts of this county yesterday viewed the frog which is on display in the window of a local drug store. Aside from being slightly emaciated in a front leg the frog was in normal condition. When the cornerstone was broken open Saturday the frog appeared to be dead, except there were slight signs of its breathing. Its mouth was sealed by a film and its eyes were closed. Today the frog appears normal, although it has not been seen to take nourishment. The frog is a typical West Texas specimen, it is about the size of the palm of a human hand.

The frog will be kept in confinement as long as it lives, county officials said.

TWO SCIENTISTS RETICENT ON HORNED FROG STORY

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—Doctors D. B. Casteel and J. T. Patterson of the University of Texas would not comment definitely Monday on reports that a horned frog has lived 31 years in an Eastland, Texas, court house corner stone but both leaned toward skepticism. Both said they knew of no recorded instance of horned frog longevity that would support the Eastland report. Dr. Patterson said his reaction to the story was the natural skepticism felt by laymen. He and Dr. Casteel said the university at present has no expert on reptiles.

Dr. Casteel said perhaps the leading authority on Texas reptiles, including horned frogs, is Dr. G. W. D. Hamlett, formerly of Texas university now of the University of Indiana, Bloomington, Ind. He also referred to Dr. Raymond L. Ditmar of the New York Zoological gardens, and Dr. Strecker of Baylor university, Waco, as others who might speak authoritatively on horned frog longevity.

Temporary Appointments to Carry On Prohi Enforcement Made Pending Final Tests by Civil Service Exam

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—New examinations will be required in all prohibition districts except two or three before a full prohibition panel can be obtained under the civil service requirements.

The failures in the civic service examinations have been extremely heavy, Prohibition Commissioner Doran said today and until new examinations are called, the civil service commissioner has agreed to permit temporary appointments.

Examinations for an additional list of eligibles, Doctor Doran said, will be held at one time for all the districts. Some of the best men in the service have failed to pass the tests, but as many of the old men as possible will be retained until the new examinations are held.

At the civil service commission, it was said today, that 2000 jobs are still to be filled in the prohibition bureau and 50 civil service men are now scattered over the country giving oral and character investigations to those who pass the mental tests.

A total of 4500 men have passed the mental tests, the commission said, but the appointments are to be made by districts, some of which have failed to produce sufficient eligibles. The commission was unable to say at this time how many vacancies would exist after the field men had made their reports.

DISQUALIFICATION OF JUDGE SOUGHT IN OUSTER TRIAL

CORSICANA, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—Judge Hawkins Scarborough of the 13th judicial district court today took the witness stand here on a defense motion seeking his disqualification as trial judge for the case seeking removal of L. J. Woods as county attorney when the case was called.

Formal style of the suit is: State on relation of T. H. Benton et al. vs L. J. Woods, county attorney.

Defense attorneys attempted to establish the fact that Judge Scarborough had discussed the case with prosecution attorneys and the grand jury prior to the returning of indictments against Woods, and that he had taken an active part in the investigation prior to the filing of the ouster against Woods.

Judge Scarborough denied these allegations from the witness stand, declaring he was neither a political nor a personal enemy of the defendant, and that he had no personal interest in the case.

The defense also attempted to prove that attempts had been made through Judge Scarborough to secure a resignation from Woods on the consideration that the ouster proceedings would be dropped. Woods recently was indicted by the Navarro county grand jury on six counts, and suspended from office. He filed a damage suit of $50,000 against the members of the grand jury, and announced for reelection.

THREE FLIERS FACE DEATH FOR HOURS FLOATING IN SEA

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Feb. 20. (AP)—A narrow escape from death in a rough sea was related at Sapelo island near here today by three New Yorkers, who were forced down in their seaplane off the coast.

The trio, Louis Tar, George Sharp and Irving Krapener, were en route from Palm Beach when forced down by fog. Their plane was almost wrecked by the choppy sea, and they had to swim to an uninhabited island to escape almost certain death after trying unsuccessfully to beach the craft.

There they spent 30 hours without food or water, when the lighthouse keeper on the coast discovered their plight through binoculars.

Motor Company to Have Washington's Birthday Party

Marking the birthday of George Washington, "greatest of all Americans," and paying appropriate tribute to the reverence in which the father of his country is held today, the McElreath Motor company, Oakland all-American six and Pontiac six dealers, at 609 Scott street, will hold a special celebration Wednesday, February 22, in the company's showrooms.

"We think that it is especially appropriate that Oakland—builder of the all-American six, should observe the birthday of the first and greatest American, for we know of no other American motor car builder who has more honestly expressed American ideals and met American needs with his product," said Mr. McElreath, manager of the McElreath Motor company.

"We are extending a special invitation to Oakland-Pontiac owners in particular, and the public generally, to be with us in celebrating this birthday of our greatest American."

The all-day celebration at the McElreath Motor company's showrooms will be featured by music, refreshments and souvenirs, while decorations will carry out the atmosphere of early colonial times and manners.

Visitors to the showrooms will be entertained by music furnished by old-time string band, featuring a program of patriotic airs and medleys. Souvenirs appropriate to the day will be presented to everyone attending.

"Man Who Sanctions Candidacy of Al Smith or Any Other Wet Advocate Not Good American Citizen" —Packard

Declaring that a person who supports Al Smith for the presidency is not a good American citizen, Dr. Paul Henry Packard, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church, devoted his sermon of Sunday night to a defense of the effectiveness of prohibition laws.

"The eighteenth amendment is here to stay," he avowed. "Our nation will no more soil its hands with tainted, tear-stained and blood-stained revenues collected from the American liquor traffic.

"If the Democrats nominate Al Smith, Jim Reed or Al Ritchie, the Democratitc party is dead forever. The man who stays with the party simply because he has always been a Democrat, and in so doing gives sanction to the candidacy of Al Smith or any other wet advocate, is not a good American citizen."

Dr. Packard made frequent references in his sermon to an address on crime conditions, delivered by Charles C. McDonald, local attorney, at last Thursday's meeting of the Rotary club. The minister insisted that prohibition laws had increased wealth, lessened immorality and reduced crime. He denied, too, that the eighteenth amendment was "foisted" on the American people.

"I would like to call Mr. McDonald's attention to the fact," he said, "that prohibition had gained an overwhelming plurality in the congressional vote for submission, and the vote of the state legislatures for ratification. In the two branches of congress, 347 voted in favor of it, and 148 against it, while in the 48 legislatures, 5079 members voted for ratification of the prohibition amendment and only 1265 voted against.

Not Foisted Upon People

"These facts reveal that prohibition was not foisted upon the American pepole, but was a deliberate step, by a majority vote.

"The enemies of the eighteenth amendment declare that prohibition does not prohibit. I challenge you to name a single law, the same age as prohibition, that has had to face the obstacles which prohibition has had to face, that has succeeded as admirably as prohibition has succeeded. We have the smuggler, the moonshiner, the bootlegger and the bootlegger's customer.

"We have had, in many instances, an unsympathetic court in which to try our cases of violation. We have had to contend with unscrupulous politicians, who were not only unsympathetic to the eighteenth amendment, but open violators as well. We have been forced to work against the attitude of many of our greatest newspapers, which have held prohibition up to ridicule, have exaggerated the violations of this law, have boldly proclaimed a policy of nullification, and they have suppressed all reference to any good results prohibition has brought. Too many times the press has done its best to defeat the law, and then jeered at it as a failure and a farce."

"I am calling Mr. McDonald's attention to the statement of Professor Fisher, the distinguished economist of Yale university, who tells us that prohibition is increasing the wealth of America, by six billions of dollars a year. This, he declares, is the minimum; he has not considered the savings accruing from the decreased death rate, and decreased criminal expenditure. In this position, Professor Fisher is supported by such men as Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, and Roger Babson, who speak as experts on the economic situation.

Have Building Boom

"In 1913 we had 11,295,931 savings bank depositors in the United States, with $8,820,192,000 to their credit; in 1920 we had 20,915,612 depositors, with $14,672,178,000 to their credit; in 1925, we had 43,850,127 depositors, with $23,134,052,000 to their credit. I call Mr. McDonald's attention to the fact that the volume of life insurance in this country increased from $16,500,000,000 in 1913 to $35,000,000,000 in 1920, but soared to $72,000,000,000 in 1923.

"Mr. McDonald likely knows that labor banks did not exist before prohibition, but according to a national survey of different financial institutions, organized labor in the United States now owns and controls 35 banks and investment companies, with total resources in excess of $150,000,000.

I remind Mr. McDonald that the biggest boom in home building that our country ever experienced began with the advent of prohibition. In 1922, the money spent for new homes was five times greater than the amount spent in 1918; and in the first five prohibition years home building increased over 150 per cent, and that the building of small homes, such as are occupied by workmen and their families, increased 300 per cent. Building permits were issued in 1925 for $3,800,000,000, and of this tremendous total, 65 per cent went into the building of homes.

"Dr. I. D. Rawlings, health director of the state of Illinois, says: 'Since the Volstead law went into effect, 5000 fewer babies have died in the state of Illinois each year.' Thirty thousand babies have been saved in the state of Illinois alone, in the first six years of prohibition, and I would like to ask all exponents of nullification, which is of greater value to America, beer or babies?

"The most vicious accusation Mr. McDonald made, was that prohibition is responsible for the debauchery and crime of our young people. I wish the learned attorney would explain why Mrs. Mathes, of Chicago, says that before prohibition came, by actual count in a single night, 1400 young girls were found in the saloons of Madison and State streets alone, while in every one of the 100 dance halls, young girls were found in a drunken condition. We challenge Mr. McDonald to reveal a similar situation today.

"The Kiwanis club recently conducted a survey, which proves that the delinquency among the boys of New York City, is 50 per cent less than it was 10 years ago, and according to Chief Justice Franklin Chase Hoyt, the number of children committed to institutions dropped from 3682 in 1911, to 2179 in 1925.

"I want to remind Mr. McDonald that in 1916, the United States spent, $2,438,000,000 for liquor and only $758,567,900 for education. In 1924 we spent $2,500,000,000 on public education, and nothing at all on liquor sold under sanction of law.

"We often hear it said that there is more drunkenness today than in the days of the open saloon. Why has there been a disappearance of alcoholic institutes and hospitals? Why is it that there are but 12 Keeley establishments operating today, instead of 50 as before prohibition? Why do we only have two Neale institutes instead of 68? What has become of the famous Washingtonian home in Chicago, which treated scores of thousands of alcoholic patients, from the day of its establishment in 1863, to the birth of national prohibition?"

According to the plan worked out, they will serve as local committeemen, in their respective school districts. The publicity committee are Messrs. Abe Cline, Murphy, Stump and Reynolds. The county committee are J. J. Haralson, county superintendent of Montague, Hugh Carson, of Nocona; S. H. Camp, St. Jo; Charley Hutchinson, Bowie; Ike Chandler, Bowie, and R. G. Atkins, Nocona. W. E. Reynolds, county agent, urges every farmer, merchant and business man to cooperate in this work of getting rid of the rodents.

Rosa Raisa Dies Score Times in Various Operas

Rosa Raisa, the star of "Aida," the opera to be presented here, by the Chicago Civic Opera company, February 29, has died a score of different deaths, yet she is a very much alive, woman! She seems fated to be cast for the role of victim, for in every opera in which she sings, with on exception, she died a violent death. Hers is always a spectacular and sensational death. In "Othello' she is strangled to death. In "The Jewess" she is thrown into boiling oil. In "Tosca" she leaps from a parapet. In "La Nave" she is tied to the bowsprit of a ship and cast adrift. She commits harikari in "Madame Butterfly." She rushes out and casts herself into the sea in "Jewels of the Madonna." She takes poison in "Fedora," "La Gioconda" and "Il Trovatore." In "The Hugenots" she is stabbed. In "Norma" she is condemned to be burnt. In "Andrea Chenier" she is carted off to the guillotine to have her head cut off.

In "Aida" Raisa is entombed alive, this scene making one of the most dramatic of this colorful opera, for two distinct scenes are shown; the tomb scene where "Aida" and her lover are to die together and the room just above the tomb where Amneris who has sent her lover to death rather than see him wed another, is seen in all the barbaric splendor of the richly dressed temple and the costumes of her attendants.

In "Turandot" alone does Raisa live happily ever after, for in that opera she marries her lover.
