China Permits Five Soldiers To Go Home

TOKYO, June 18 (AP)—Red China announced today five former U.N. soldiers who chose to remain in Red China after the Korean War have been given permission to leave the country but that only two had asked to go home.

Those who wanted to go home, a Peiping radio broadcast said, included two of three Americans permitted to leave. The other American chose Japan. One Belgian chose the United States and another Belgian chose Laos.

There was no hint when the five would be released.

The broadcast said the 17 other former American soldiers who chose life in Red China could leave too if they wished.

These are the five Peiping said had been given permission to leave:

Cpl. Lewis W. Griggs, 406 Kickapoo St., Jacksonville, Tex.

Cpl. Otho G. Bell, 494, Rt. 5, Olympia, Wash.

Cpl. William Cowart, 503 Benton St., Dalton, Ga.

Roger Devriendt, Westvlaanderen, Belgium.

Louis Verdyck, Antwerp, Belgium.

Griggs, Bell and Devriendt, the broadcast said, asked to go to the United States. Cowart asked to go to Japan and Verdyck to Laos.

The five were not present at a gathering of all other former U.N. soldiers at which the Peiping government's decision was announced.

Asked by a correspondent why the five were not at the meeting, Peiping quoted a Chinese Red Cross spokesman as saying they had been invited but had not come.

"They were free to come or not," he said. "But reporters can interview them at their hotel if they wish and if the men are willing."

The broadcast did not say whether such an interview was attempted.

There was no mention in the broadcast of 11 American fliers captured late in the Korean War when their B29 bomber was shot down. Four jet pilots also captured late in the war were released last month and now are home. It was recalled here they reached the border at Hong Kong only a few hours after Peiping radio said they would be released.

The Far East Command here had no information other than new reports on Red China's action and declined comment.

The three Americans to be released were among 23 POWs who refused repatriation after lengthy "explanations" at Panmunjom. The two Belgians, the Red broadcast said, had "crossed over" to the Chinese-Korean side and chosen to stay in China.

The Americans face an uncertain future if they return home. A joint statement by the State and Defense departments Thursday said any of the former soldiers who come back will be held accountable "for any wrongful act" they may have committed. In Washington today a Defense Department spokesman said each individual case would be investigated closely if the men actually return to American control.

Concerning the prospective release of the five men, Peiping said:

"We are engaged in going through the formalities for their exit and making all necessary arrangements. Upon completion of these formalities, our five friends will leave China."

Lin Shih-hsiao, vice secretary-general of the Red Cross Society of China, read the announcement of the government's decision to the former U. N. soldiers. He said the Red Cross would continue to give those who choose to remain "all possible assistance and care."

"At the same time," he said, "if any one of you wish to leave China, please tell us at any time. We will certainly do everything to help him in accordance with his wish."

He wished the five who are leaving "a smooth future."

Bob Littlefield, who is involved in a picture elsewhere on this page, is confident that he has a good start in the beard-growing race for the rodeo. The other day, after cultivating his new crop of whiskers for only a short time, he was making the rounds answering pickup calls for his cleaning and pressing establishment. A woman patron took one look at his new beard, decided Littlefield wasn't the cleaning and pressing man at all, and promptly slammed the door in his face.

At this writing, Scurry County has been fortunate weatherwise. This immediate area has escaped the damaging hail and windstorms that have raked other sections of the state, although some high winds and some hail have been reported in the county. At first it was feared that hail Thursday night had wiped out some crops in a small area southeast of Snyder. However, the damage was much less severe than it appeared immediately after the storm, and by Saturday prospects had brightened. Some cotton was beaten into the ground, but there was a good enough stand to leave enough for a fair crop.

Members of the press were amused during the past week by a statement by Roy Cohn, erstwhile aide de camp of Sen. Joe McCarthy. Cohn charged that newspapers were purposely ignoring the present-day activities of Joe, if any, which brings to mind that many have long suspected that McCarthy was primarily a headline hunter. Joe made good news copy until President Eisenhower quietly maneuvered him into proper perspective.

There's a difference between a "Queen of today" and a "queen of tomorrow" and we got them confused Friday when the first tabulations for the rodeo queen's race were announced. Pat Taylor is the Cosmorama Club's candidate for queen, and Clinta Blackard is the Altrurian Daughters Club candidate for the same high office. Sandy Lynch and Donna Falls, which we inadvertantly put on the ballot Friday, are the respective candidates for "Queen of Tomorrow." Anyway, they're all among the leaders on the first week's tabulation.

Andrew B. Shelton, the Abilene Chamber of Commerce president, is convinced that Snyder is a growing city. Shelton usually visits Snyder several times each year, but hasn't had time to drive around and look over the residential sections for two or three years. He made a brief tour the other day and was amazed over the way the town has "spread out."

RED TAG DAY is the first big event of the city-wide clean-up campaign, which starts here tomorrow. Boys and girls from city youth organizations tomorrow will inspect residences throughout the city and will label those yards which need cleanup work with red tags to remind residents. Two of the youth workers from the Boys Club of Scurry County, Charles Bridges, left and David Hale, are shown here placing a red tag on the back yard fence of a yard needing cleaning. The campaign is sponsored by the Jaycees. (Lee Watson photograph)

Cleanup Campaign Kicks Off Monday

Snyder's annual city-wide clean-up campaign gets underway here tomorrow, and it will begin with Snyder youths showing adults what work needs to be done.

Tomorrow is "red tag day" in the campaign. Boys and girls from several youth organizations will cover the city, inspecting back yards. If a yard shows up as one which needs cleaning up, a red tag will be left on the back yard fence, garbage can, or other place where it will be seen by the resident so he will know he needs to clean up.

The cleanup campaign is being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Ernest Sears is chairman. Sears last week went to other civic clubs in town and enlisted their aid in trash pickup, which will be done during the latter part of the week.

Tuesday and Wednesday have been set up as special days for weed cutting, general cleanup, and preparation of trash and litter for pickup on Thursday. Use has been donated of several mowing machines, and the Jaycees will, for a small fee, mow weeds on any lots in town at residents' request during those days.

Sears urged all residents to clean up around their residences and to box or sack all trash so it can be picked up. Volunteer workers will tour the city with trucks and pickups loaned by various individuals and firms here During Thursday, the pickup day, the workers will attempt to fill a pit dug at the city dump last week. The pit is of the size which would ordinarily handle 10 days of normal trash pickup. The city uses a system of pit-digging, and it buries trash and garbage when the pits are full.

In addition to cleaning up trash, Sears urged residents to get rid of weeds on their property, since weeds harbor insects. Spraying should also be done to help control insects here.

Peacock Man Hurt In Wreck

One man was slightly injured in an automobile accident about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the north city limits on the Clairemont Road.

He is James Edward Yarborough, 52, of Peacock, Tex., the driver of a 1947 Chevrolet sedan which was involved in a collision with a 1955 Buick sedan driven by Dan Gibson, Jr., who lives about 14 miles north of Snyder on the Clairemont Road.

Yarborough was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital in a Bell ambulance

Dan Gibson, Sr., was an occupant of the car driven by his son. Neither of the Gibson men was injured.

Bill Zimmerman, highway patrolman, and Bill Love, deputy sheriff, investigating officers, said that the car driven by Yarborough was traveling east on a paved farm-to-market road which crosses the Clairemont Road, and the Gibson car was traveling south on the Clairemont Road.

The Gibson car rammed into the left side of the Yarborough car, and knocked the later car about 40 feet, but neither of the cars overturned. Both were extensively damaged.

Youth Beaten At Shamrock

SHAMROCK, Tex., June 18 (AP)—L.H. Tucker Jr., 13, remained in a semi-conscious condition today from a severe beating received last night from five unidentified youths.

Doctors said he received a broken nose, lost seven teeth, and has severe head bruises.

Young Tucker left a local movie theater about 11:30 p.m. with Lee Harrison, 14, and Richard Payne, 15. The three said they were stopped by five strange boys in a car and asked to direct the five to a hotel.

Then the car was driven to the edge of town and three of the unidentified youths took Tucker from the car and began beating him, Tucker's companions said. After the beating the three local boys were put out of the car on a downtown street.

Special Panel Is Studying Desegration

FORT WORTH, June 18 (AP)—A special committee from the State Board of Education discussed the school desegragation question here today and recessed until Friday.

Cecil A. Morgan, Fort Worth attorney and member of the state board, reported the group "is just studying" the problem and "didn't get through."

Morgan, explaining that at this time the committee has no statement to make, said a committee report will be made to the state board meeting in Austin July 4.

"In the final analysis it is a local problem," Morgan said. "Our committee is just trying to help out if possible."

Committee members taking part were Morgan, A. D. Moore of Beaumont; Penrose Metcalfe, San Angelo; Dick Bivins, Amarillo; Emerson Stone, Jacksonville; Leon Coker, Naples; and Neal B. Marriott of Corpus Christi.

Aslo attencing the meeting were Board Chairman Thomas B. Raymey of Tyler, attorney Chester E. Ollison of Austin, J. W. Edgar, commissioner of education, and his deputy commissioner, Warren Hitt of Austin.

Earlier, Morgan pointed out each local school board must work out its own plan for Negro and white students.

The state board has no authority to tell districts how to handle the matter, he said. The state board will provide the district school board with background on the Supreme Court decision and correct information on what legal rights each district has in solving the desegregation question.

Molotov Holds Spotlight As Foreign Ministers Assemble

By MAX HARRELSON

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov held the spotlight today as world diplomats waited hopefully for new signs that the cold war tension is finally ending.

The first indication of Russia's next move is expected Monday night when the Big Four foreign ministers meet to map plans for the meeting of their chiefs of government in Geneva July 18.

Molotov, although unusually genial on his 3,000-mile trip across the country, has given no hint that he has anything new to offer, but there still was an air of optimism here as a result of recent Soviet moves on the Austrian treaty and on the Yugoslav peace mission

The Soviet foreign minister was the first of the Big Four leaders to arrive for the U. N.'s 10th anniversary session June 20-26.

Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay will arrive by air tomorrow following their two-day strategy meetings in New York.

President Eisenhower will arrive tomorrow night to deliver the opening address to the 60 U. N. delegations Monday afternoon. Reports reaching here indicated that the President might make an important policy speech rather than a simple speech of welcome.

He told U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in a special message that he considered the speech a "responsibility." Diplomatic quarters said that the President originally had been reluctant to come to the U. N. session because he had understood that he was expected to do nothing more than greet the delegates.

Hammarskjold, meanwhile, was en route to San Francisco by air coach. He was expected here tonight.

The Western attitude toward the forthcoming Big Four "summit" talks in Switzerland was indicated in New York by the French foreign minister, who said the Western nations are going to Geneva with open minds, hopeful of finding proof to support Russia's recent good will measures.

He added, however, that the West wanted to see more before they were convinced.

"We would be naive," he said, "to believe that the signs are the proofs."

Pinay told a news conference that the Western Big Three had reached an identity of view and that he was "very confident" about the outlook for peace.

There was no indication as to how extensive the Big Four talks in San Francisco would be. So far only the Monday session had been arranged. Some diplomats believed this might be enough to set up an agenda for the Geneva meetings. They pointed to the fact that Russia has not made much trouble in recent meetings on procedural questions such as time, place and agenda.

Mass Injection Should Continue, Experts Say

Risk Involved Is Called Very Slight

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Top polio experts recommended today that mass Salk antipolio injection of children be continued through the summer months.

The experts, including U. S. Surgeon Gen. Leonard Scheele, declared that the risk of causing paralysis in a person who already had the disease was less than the vaccine's total preventative effect.

The decision was seen as a go-ahead signal to resume the stalled inoculation program in the summer, when the incidence of the disease is the highest.

The experts' meeting today was called by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis specifically to decide if an injection would provoke paralysis in a person already infected with polio.

"The slight hazard of provocation (causing paralysis) is insufficient to limit the injection of poliomyelitis vaccine even in the presence of a rising incidence of poliomyelitis in the community," a statement issued by the conferees declared.

The statement covered six pages and was issued after six hours of deliberation by 30 medical and public health specialists. It continued:

"Those present at the meeting agreed that the total preventive effect of the vaccine in a period of rising poliomyelitis incidence should be much greater than the possible hazard from the provoking effect of the injection."

It added that the benefits to be gained increased with the severity of the polio epidemic, "since a proportionately large number of paralytic cases would be prevented during the period of the epidemic."

Among the scientists attending today's meeting were Dr. Jonas Salk and Dr. Thomas B. Francis, of the University of Michigan, who headed the study of last year's Salk field trials.

A number of communities across the nation have already decided to wait until the fall before resuming inoculations.

President Eisenhower has said enough vaccine will be manufactured to complete the two-shot program for first and second-graders by the polio peak season in August.

This program is being paid for by the National Foundation. The shots are given free.

On June 7 the surgeon general made a television report to the nation and said not enough vaccine would be made to immunize all children in the 1-19 age group.

Nothing was said today to change these estimates.

A spokesman for the National Foundation said, however, that the decision of the experts would signal continuance of its program.

The Foundation's priority calls for inoculation of children 6 and 7 years old not already injected, followed by ages 5, 8 and 9, then 1 to 4, then 10 to 15.

Today's statement reflects the combined thinking of representatives of the Public Health Service, the American Medical Assn., the Academy of General Practice, the American Public Health Assn., the Assn. of State and Territorial Health Officers and the National Foundation's Vaccine Advisory Committee.

Funnels Are Seen In Some Texas Areas

By The Associated Press

Booming thunderheads again collected over West Texas Saturday night.

For the fourth straight night, Weather Bureau reported lightning - studded, wind - filled clouds building up over the western part of the state.

Two tornadoes were reported by sheriff's officers 11 miles southwest of the Panhandle town of Canyon, but the funnels growled off into the ranchlands with no damage reported.

Lubbock reported thunderheads building up and heavy lightning as night fell. Wink, Childress, Midland, Abilene, and Del Rio also reported thunderstorms threatening, with rain already falling at Childress.

The ugly weather came after a day of calm, mostly clear skies.

Temperatures during the day ranged from Dallas, Wichita Falls and Amarillo's 86 to Presidio's 110.

Rainfall totals for the period ending at 6:30 p.m. were topped by 1.67 inches at Wichita Falls and 1.39 at Dallas.

A tornado struck Wellington, causing considerable property damage Friday night but injuring no one. Early Saturday morning winds up to 75 miles an hour did approximately $100,000 damage at Cleburne when they demolished an airplane and hangar, smashed plate glass windows and snapped power lines and TV antennas.

Heavy rains fell at Wichita Falls, Sherman, Mineral Wells, Fort Worth and Dallas before dawn Saturday. Lighter rains were received between dawn and noon at Waco, Austin, Palacios, College Station and Victoria.

Late Saturday skies were partly cloudy over most of the state with some thunderstorm activity building up in the Panhandle and West Texas.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy with scattered thundershowers over most of the state through Sunday.

BETTE FORD TO FIGHT BULL IN MEXICO CITY RING

EL PASO, Tex., June 18 (AP)—A Juarez, Mexico, bullring owner said today a former Broadway model and television actress will be the first foreign woman ever to fight on foot in famed Plaza Mexico in Mexico City.

Juan Bilbao, who manages American girl bullfighter Bette Ford, said today Miss Ford will fight in the 60,000 seat arena Sept. 11.

Bilbao also announced the 24-year-old American girl also has been signed to fight in the Guadalajara ring, described by him as the second largest in Mexico.

A native of KeKeesport, Pa., Bette Ford celebrates her first year in bullfighting next month. Bilbao said she has had 20 fights so far, winning awards in all but one.

Committeeman Will Not Be 'Turncoat,' Demo Chief States

HOUSTON, June 18 (AP)—National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler said today Wright Morrow's successor on the National Democratic Executive Committee will have to be a man who has never voted against Democratic candidates.

Butler said the State Executive Committee's nominee for Texas national committeeman also will have to carry the support of Gov. Shivers, House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson.

Requirements for filling the national committee vacancy, Butler said, were outlined to Shivers during their May 5 "kitchen pantry conference" in Washington.

Morrow, a Houston attorney, submitted his resignation as national committeeman after announcing his support of Dwight Eisenhower in the 1952 presidential election. The State Executive Committee refused to accept but Stephen A. Mitchell, then national chairman, held the resignation was effective automatically when it was submitted.

Butler, nearing the end of a Texas "peace tour," talked with reporters prior to addressing the state convention of liberal Young Democrats.

He repeated earlier statements that Shivers' comments made during the pantry conference will have to come from the governor. Butler added:

"I do feel free to tell what I said. I said that when the State Executive Committee feels a vacancy exists I would expect the nominee to be a man who has never deserted the party, a man who supported the nominees in 1952, and one who would have the support of Gov. Shivers, Sam Rayburn and Lyndon Johnson."

Butler said the national committee approved Mitchell's recommendation that it recognize a vacancy existed after Morrow's resignation.

The recommendation was based on precedence established within the committee and the House of Representatives," Butler said, "and I might add that I voted for it."

The 150 delegates from 39 Young Democratic Clubs cheered and applauded vigoriously this morning as John C. White, state agriculture commissioner keynoted their convention by saying he sees no reason to seek harmony with those who bolted the party in 1952.

White did not mention Gov. Shivers and other leaders of the party's conservative faction by name but he drew shouts of "pour it on, John" when he cited what he called "alarming examples of moral disintegration in public affairs" in Austin.

Party leaders who bolted in 1952 to support President Eisenhower were labeled "semi - crats" by White, a potential candidate for governor next year.

"Why should we seek harmony with a splinter group that wants to call the shots?" White asked. "They have no bargaining power. They are beaten. It is merely a desperate attempt to salvage whatever they can out of defeat....

"They have no allegiance to any party, but follow the dictates and whims of a man-made machine. Yet, with insufferable insolence, they slapped the Democratic Party in the face and now bellyache because the party won't turn the other cheek."

White called for a "resurgence of clean government in Texas" after saying:

"...I don't think we have been properly concerned with what is actually going on in our state. Not since the days of carpetbaggers has so much scandal and corruption been flagrantly exposed in Texas.....even in our legislative processes are being hamstrung by powerful lobbyists seeking special privileges...."

Dean Johnston of Houston is seeking reelection as state president. William H. Kugle, former representative from Galveston, also is a candidate.

The convention ends tomorrow with an election of officers and the adoption of resolutions.

New Contract Ends Strike Of Mariners

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP) — A three-day strike which tied up many passenger and cargo ships on the Eastern and Gulf Coast ports ended today with new contracts between seamen's unions and employers.

The unions are the CIO Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. and CIO American Radio Assn., which came to terms with shipping firms early today, and the CIO National Maritime Union.

The latter had signed a new contract yesterday.

Members of the three unions were ordered back to work immediately, freeing several big passenger liners for quick sailings.

First was the American Export Lines Independence, headed for Gibraltar, France and Italy. Next were three Grace Line vessels destined for Caribbean and South American ports.

Wages were not at issue in the union negotiations. The talks concerned various pension and welfare benefits, in which the seamen won increases except in the case of their demand for vacation periods doubling their present 30 days.

Additionally, the National Maritime Union obtained an unemployment compensaton system financed by employers and providing a modified form of guaranteed wage.

The three unions, together with the AFL Assn. of Masters, Mates & Pilots, still are involved in a dispute with tanker operators.

Negotiations were broken off yesterday without a resumption date, but union spokesmen voiced confidence the differences would be ironed out in time.

Porter May Tip GOP Plan

AUSTIN, June 18 (AP)—Republican National Committeeman H. Jack Porter of Houston will deliver what could turn out to be the keynote address of Texas GOP planning for the 1956 election campaign when he talks to Central Texas Republicans here Monday.

Porter will speak to a rally sponsored by the Travis County County Republican Executive Committee.

Travis County Republican Chairman Dr. Earl Yeakel said the rally "of course has no concern with the spectacle of denunciation and censure with which a national spokesman for the opposition party has deeply offended many Texans and many members of his own party in his tour over the state the past week."

It was a reference to the Texas visit of Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler.

Complaining Gunman Robs Savings Bank

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, June 18 (AP)—A lone gunman who complained about "the shape the world's in," held up the Mount Auburn Savings Bank today and fled by car with $11,700 in currency.

Cashier Robert W. Hadley was alone in the bank when the holdup occurred. When the bandit tied Hadley with wire, he remarked:

"I hate to do a thing like this but the shape the world's in these days a man can't make a living."

The gunman, about 55, wore a dark business suit and horn-rimmed glasses.

Mount Auburn is a village of about 225, located 30 miles northwest of Cedar Rapids.

Peron Has Army In Command Of Entire Argentine Nation

By FRED STROZIER

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 18 (AP)—President Juan D. Peron put the army in full command over the Argentine people today. It quickly clamped a tight control over the entire nation, especially the four million people of revolt-torn Buenos Aires.

Surrounded by his three armed forces chiefs, the President set up his headquarters in the Army Ministry.

The army, which on Thursday smashed the ill-fated naval-air gamble on revolt, was placed in control of all security forces — federal police, national gendarmes who guard the frontiers, and the maritime port police.

(Radio Farroupilha at Porto Alegre in Brazil said Saturday afternoon that Argentine Army Minister Franklin Lucero had taken over decisive control of the Argentine government and started negotiations with the Argentine navy to avoid a civil war and bloodshed. The station said its information came from an Argentine exile, a former deputy in Parliament named Damonte Taborda, who claimed to have radio contact with rebels still in Argentina.)

Army orders for Argentina forbade gatherings of more than two persons.

Reinforced army units, in battle dress and with field kits, guarded public buildings, churches, power plants banks, embassies and strong points.

At the military club Peron paid homage to the late Gen. Tomas Vergara Ruzo, director general of engineers, who was killed in the fighting Thursday. Ruzo's body was lying in state at the club.

Then as normal life began to take up again, he visited the wrecked Government House—Casada Rosada, or Pink House—where he escaped death by only 10 minutes on Thursday. A machine gun bullet from a low flying rebel naval plane smashed through his work desk area.

It was the President's first visit to the Government House since he left it for the Army Ministry offices at 12:30 p.m. Thursday. That was just 10 minutes before a first wave of navy planes piloted by rebels started a series of bombing runs aimed at his offices.

The army, which stood by Peron, clamped a tight control on the entire nation, especially over metropolitan Buenos Aires with its four million population. The federal police, the national gendarmes who guard the frontiers and the maritime port police were under army rule as the nation operated under a modified martial law.

(Dispatches from Buenos Aires were subject to censorship).

Food stores, which opened for the usual half day of business Saturdays, were ordered by the Labor and Commerce ministries to keep open a half-day Sunday to make sure the population is fed.

The ministries said that there is plenty of food in the wholesale markets. But most of the city has been without milk, fresh fruit and vegetables because of interrupted distribution.

There was a complete shutdown Thursday afternoon when the revolution started, and all day Friday for the Labor Confederation stoppage ordered in mourning for the 360 killed and nearly 1,000 wounded in the violent spasm of revolt. Flags flew at half staff. Flags of Argentina and Soviet Russia were lowered this morning over the port area building housing a Red exhibition of Soviet industry proficiency.

Peron and the army have given many details of the five-hour uprising but almost 48 hours after the rebels were defeated there was no disclosure from official sources of who led the revolt.

The army's only word was a statement that "numerous prisoners were captured" and that measures provided by the law were being taken.

After an announcement two more priests were arrested, the federal police said priests and nuns had been taken first to police stations for their protection against "Communist elements" and then transferred to private homes for safety —both here and in the provinces.

The state-church conflict figured in the navy-air force uprising and in the rioting when at least eight churches were set afire in the capital Thursday night. Damage in the city was declared to be "enormous." It appeared the provinces did not join in the uprising.

'Rifts' Plague Both Parties As State Politicos Speak Out

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN, June 19 (AP)—State political conventions and elections are a year away but rival factions of both the Democratic and Republican parties already are waging war to control those meetings.

Besides the party battles, there are early stirrings by prospective candidates for governor.

Few think Gov. Allan Shivers will seek a fourth elective term. Anti-third term sentiment was considered one of the reasons he had a tough time winning re-election last year.

Republicans were gleeful this week over failure of Shivers and other top Texas Democratic Party leaders to meet with Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler during his tour of the state.

Republican National Committeeman Jack Porter of Houston will speak in Austin Monday night. The Travis County Republican chairman, Dr. Earl Yeakel, said the "spirit and singleness of purpose" of that rally will be in sharp contrast to the "uproar of dissension, disunity and disruption which has accompanied Mr. Paul Butler on his pilgrimage thfough Texas."

An indirect contradiction of Yeakel's Republican harmony claim came from Eugene (Mike) Nolte Jr., of San Antonio, long-time worker in the old-guard state GOP organization which lost control to Porter's group when Dwight Eisenhower was elected in 1952.

Nolte, in a letter directed to "fellow Republicans," sought members for the newly formed Abraham Lincoln National Republican Club.

He said the national organization was gettnig together "grass-roots Republicans" to "recover what belongs to us—the Republican Party."

As a member of the group that unsuccessfully supported the nomination of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft and opposed Eisenhower's selection, Nolet made it clear factional bitterness on that score has not died out.

"We all remember what happened in our precinct and county conventions of 1952," he wrote. "People who had never been associated with the Republican Party in any way, many of whom had even supported Roosevelt and Truman in former years, rushed in and took over."

Nolte said he was not politically ambitious "but as a life long Republican I do want to see the leadership of my party in the hands of bona fide Republicans and my party members in jobs now held by Democrats and pseudo Republicans."

The Democratic factional dispute figured in a speech today by State Agriculture Commissioner John White, who apparently is running hard as an unannounced candidate for governor next year.

White hit hard at Shivers and other Democratic Party leaders for their 1952 support of Eisenhowar. He called them "Semi-crats," saying those are people who "have no allegiance to any party, but follow the dictates and whims of a man-made machine."

He said there was no reason why Texas Democrats who stuck with the Democratic nominee for President in 1952 should seek harmony with those who swung to the Republican side.

"They have no bargaining power. They are beaten," declared White, who said conservative Democrats led by Shivers are seeking harmony in order "to maneuver themselves into a position of leadership with the national Democratic committee."

Only announced candidate for governor is Reuben Senterfitt of San Saba, former speaker of the House. He probably will try to steer clear of the intra-party fuss. When he announced for governor in 1953, he expressed hope the factional fight for Democratic Party control would not become an issue in his race. He said he would leave that debate to other persons. Senterfitt later withdrew as a candidate after Shivers announced for re-election.

A conservative, Senterfitt has indicated he is ready to set up a statewide organization and wage an intensive campaign this time. That may be dependent on the response to his initial announcement that he's interested in becoming the state's top executive.

A wide-open race for the governorship is in the making.

Others mentioned as prospective entries are Sen. Jimmy Phillips, Angleton; Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd, Gladewater; Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, San Augustine; Associate Justice Will Wilson of the State Supreme Court, Dallas; Ralph Yarborough, Austin attorney, twice defeated by Shivers; Houston Mayor Roy Hofheinz; U. S. Sen. Price Daniel; Deputy Defense Secretary Robert B. Anderson, Vernon; James P. Hart, Austin attorney and former chancellor of the University of Texas; Associate Justice Robert W. Calvert of the State Supreme Court, Hillsboro; Rep. Jerry Sadler, Hickory Grove; and Sen. Ottis Lock, Austin.

Three Injured In Accident

Police reported that three persons were injured in a head-on collision on the East Highway near the intersection of Peach Street late Friday afternoon.

Two of the persons injured were Mr. and Mrs Travis Wilson Burleson, route 2, Hermleigh. The third person injured was Robert Wayne Burnann of Abilene, who was not seriously injured, and not hospitalized.

Dr. John Y. Battenfield, physician attending Mrs. Burleson, said that she received compound fractures of both bones of the right leg, fracture of the right arm, fractured nose, and multiple lacerations and abrasions in the accident. She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, who received a shoulder injury and multiple bruises of the body. He is being attended by Dr. Wilton N. Jones.

Both are hospitalized in Battenfield-Jones Hospital-Clinic, where they were taken by Bell ambulance.

The attending physicians reported both Mr. and Mrs. Burleson to be in satisfactory condition late yesterday afternoon.

The Burlesons were in a 1947 Plymouth, and Burnann was in a 1954 Buick.

Cowboy Faces $100,000 Suit

TUCSON, Ariz., June 18 (AP)—A $100,000 lawsuit was filed today against Joseph Kuykendall, 36-year old Arizona cowboy, claiming he caused the death of his heiress wife, Ardath, "by wrongful act, netlect and default."

Kuykendall was acquitted of the first-degree murder of his wife after a 31-day trial in Omaha, Neb. in January, 1954.

The suit, filed on behalf of Mrs. Kuykendall's estate, asks $50,000 compensatory damages and $50,000 punitive damages.

The civil complaint, filed by Atty. Lawrence V. Robertson, executor of the estate, claims Kuykendall, "knowing the condition of Ardath S. Kuykendall due to other causes, and also knowing the poor state of her health, acted towards her in a negligent and reckless manner, struck her and beat her, failed to render aid and assistance or do anything to ameliorate or lessen her suffering and injuries and otherwise breached the duties of exercising reasonable care for life, safety and health...."

Mrs. Kuykendall, beneficiary of a 26 million dollar trust fund set up by her great-grandfather, wrote a will about two weeks before she died in which her husband was named chief beneficiary. She was found dying in the couple's house trailer in Omaha June 18, 1953.

'Golden Deeds' Banquet Plans Taking Shape

Although their identity will not be made public until the night of the banquet June 30, persons to be honored at the Acacia Study Club's "Golden Deeds" dinner will be notified by mail this week.

Meanwhile arrangements for the dinner at the Country Club were taking shape.

C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder will be master of ceremonies, and principal speaker will be Boyce House, famous humorist from Fort Worth.

House is well known here and he appeared on the program of the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet here in 1954.

The 50 persons to be honored will be presented plaques at the banquet. Each honored individual will be asked to attend the $25-a-plate banquet, and each may bring one guest without extra charge.

A committee of four Snyder men, representing the fields of ranching, business, oil, and the professions, selected the honored guests. Their identity also will be disclosed at the June 30 banquet.

Princess, 14, 75-Year-Old Man Are Wed

LUCCA, Italy, June 18 (AP)—A 14-year-old princess whose ancestors ruled Italy honeymooned in the Swiss Alps today with a 75-year-old millionaire after a secret night wedding.

Pretty blonde Lidia Maria Antonia Caracciolo de Torello, the bride, will not be 15 until July 25. She is a direct descendant of Giachino Murat, the man installed by Napoleon I as King of Italy and Prince of Naples.

The old man who won a teenage princess is Count Aubry William Te a l di, philanthropist, amateur botanist and possessor of a fortune estimated at 11 million dollars. Of Swiss ancestry, he has wide holdings both in Switzerland and Italy.

Ten months ago he became a widower when his first wife, the former Elizabeth Caruthers of London, died in Switzerland. They were childless.

How the count and his young bride met is known only to the family. The two are interested in plant study and the local belief is that it was on a botany field trip.

The ceremony was simple and brief. Immediately afterward, the couple slipped away. They are honeymooning in a remote part of the Swiss Alps — just where is secret.

Demo Solons Seeking Hike

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Democratic senators today planned a new attempt to increase the Eisenhower defense program. They want to add 200 million dollars to the funds for supersonic jet fighters.

Pending before the Senate is a 31-billion defense money bill, slated for passage Monday.

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said the added funds for fighters probably would be proposed by Sen. Symington (D-Mo), former secretary of the Air Force.

Under pressure from Democratic senators, the Defense Department recently asked a 736-million-dollar boost in funds to speed up production of B52 jet bombers. The request was approved by both Democrats and Republicans on the Senate Appropriations Committee.

This move came after some legislators contended that recent Soviet air displays indicated that Red air power was challenging U.S. supremacy.

No opposition to the increase for B52s is expected in the Senate but the extra 200 millions for fighters is certain to cause a dispute. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, top Air Force commander, and civilian leaders of the Pentagon testified they do not need more money for fighters.

The probability of an American man dying within a year are 1 in 100 at age 45, rising steadily to 22 in 100 at age 80.

DARING, INCREDIBLE, TRUE!

LADIES & GENTLEMEN:

Not since THE JAZZ SINGER brought up sound in 1927 has there been, in my opinion, an entirely new type, unbelievable motion picture. At last, now there is one!

It is called "KARAMOJA." It was filmed in the wonderful new Eastmancolor. It is the story of the Land of the Lost Tribe of Israel.

Karamojans practice today the ancient rites of Baal. They worship the Golden Calf. They are of the Iron and Stone Ares, living on a diet solely of blood and beer. They have changed nothing, made no progress. They are untouched by modern civilization.

White man had never seen inside Karamoja until Dr. William B. Treutle and his wife succeeded in entering this enchanted land of the Lobor mountains, two years ago. Dr. Treutle, a novice with a camera, filmed this unbelievable movie.

I would recommend this film—it's so different—if it were playing some other theatre. Yet, I am extremely happy HALLMARK selected my theatre for its exclusive local showing. "KARAMOJA" will never be shown on TV. So be sure to see it at the Trail Drive-In starting Thursday, June 23. Adv.

Diem's Drive Near Victory

By JOHN RODERICK

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, June 18 (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's Nationalist army drive against rebellious Hoa Hao troops tonight appeared to be near victory. High government sources said the Hoa Hao commander and two other important military leaders have fled to Cambodia.

National army headquarters in West Viet Nam reported the Hoa Hao commander, Gen. Tran Van Soai, and Gens. Nugyen Van Hinh and Nguyen Van Vy, had escaped entrapment and crossed the Cambodian frontier where they are said to be under house arrest.

The remnants of Soai's forces—once estimated to number as high as 5,000 men—are encircled in a small triangle of rice paddies between Rachgia and Thot Not.

Diem ordered 20,000 Nationalist troops into the offensive June 5. Since then more than half of Soai's men have surrendered and it appeared tonight that all organized resistance would collapse soon.

Hoa Hao is a religious sect with a Buddhist background. Diem's objective is to break up the private armies of it and other sects and bring them into the National army as a means of unifying South Viet Nam from encroachment by Communist North Viet Nam.

Two World Figures Present Recipe To Relieve Tension

By WILMOT HERCHER

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Two world figures came to Washington this week, each with a recipe for relieving international tensions.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany arrived on Monday for a cordial round of talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. Tuesday brought India's lean V. K. Krishna Menon on what he described as "a mission of extreme delicacy."

Their conversations with administration leaders were private, but before they left town the diplomatic reporters had reached these conclusions:

West Germany will stand firmly on the side of the West, rejecting any neutrality in the cold war or similar Russian blandishments.

The United States is favorably disposed toward negotiations with Red China on the tense Formosa issue, although there is no evidence that the government has actually endorsed Menon's mission to promote the talks.

Agreement between Eisenhower and Adenauer was such that they were able to issue a joint statement pledging to maintain the closest cooperation in dealings with Soviet-Russia—dealings which they declared are aimed at "a just and enduring peace among the nations of the world."

"My countrymen are convinced," the German chancellor said, "that a close and loyal partnership with the peoples of the free world on the basis of treaties which have recently come into force is the best means of maintaining peace and freedom."

Menon's recipe stressed the idea of give-and-take. Both sides can make "some contributions" toward easing tensions, he told reporters without elaborating.

Four American fliers were released by the Red Chinese after Menon's talks in Peiping recently. Many American officials feel that India's diplomatic troubleshooter leans more to the East than to the West, but he got a polite reception here anyway, and he seemed to be encouraged.

"Anything that I or India can do or my prime minister (Nehru) can do to ease the tension and promote understanding we will do," Menon said.

The House contributed to the atmosphere of good will by passing a resolution reaffirming "the deep desire of the people of the United States for an honorable and lasting peace." The resolution was sponsored by Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio).

On Wednesday the sirens went off and Eisenhower led 15,000 key government men, including some cabinet officers, out of Washington in advance of the theoretical bombing of the capital and about three score other American cities with atomic and hydrogen weapons.

The President said the big evacuation was "to determine whether or not the government is prepared in time of emergency to continue the functions of the government so that there will be no interruption in the business that must be carried on."

"Operation Alert 1955" took the key personnel to 31 secret relocation areas in a 300 mile arc around the capital. Congress and the judicial branch of the government took no part in the exercise, which led Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) to tell the Senate:

"Here we sit—the business of Congress continues as uaual. I submit that this is characteristic of the attitude that the Congress has taken to the entire problem of civil defense."

Meanwhile, from his retreat in "a mountainous, wooded area," the President proclaimed a mock state of emergency. By Thursday, Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson concluded the test had been "very sucessful." But Eisenhower acknowledged in a separate chat with newsmen that the evacuation turned up "more complications . . . than I ever believed possible."

A summing up of theoretical bomb damage on Thursday fixed the number of dead at 8,200,000, the number of wounded at 6,550,000, with 24 million homeless and 303 vital industrial plants destroyed. Eisenhower proclaimed a mock state of martial law.

Government officials figuring out the exercise on paper decided Friday that the nation's farm and industry potential was sufficiently intact to avert collapse and support a major war effort.

The operation did not interrupt the legislative mill, and on Capitol Hill this week.

Congress passed the reciprocal trade bill, extending the trade agreements act until June 30, 1958, and giving the President authority to cut tariffs 15 per cent during that period in return for similar trade concessions abroad.

The Senate approved on a voice vote a four - year extension of the selective service act and a two-year extension of the separate doctors draft law. The general draft affects all qualified men from 18 to 26. Those drafted will be obliged to serve 24 months on active duty.

On a 63-3 vote, the Senate ratified the Austrian independence treaty.

The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee approved a straight 7½ per cent pay increase for 1,073,262 Civil Service and other employes, retroactive to the first pay period in March. It would cost 325 million dollars a year.

POLIO—Sen. Hill (D-Ala) demanded a government statement on the safety of the Salk polio vaccine and was told by Surgeon General Leonard Scheele "it is a potent material as safe as we know how to make it." Secretary of Welfare Hobby said a Democratic plan to furnish the vaccine, at Treasury expense, to all persons through the age of 19 would open "a back door to socialism." She advocated instead a 35-million-dollar program to provide vaccine for needy children.

Counter-Clockwise Races

John T. McCutcheon, Jr., who for all we know is the son of the great cartoonist John T. Sr., and nephew of the romantic novelist George Barr (Graustark) McCutcheon, really started something in his Chicago Tribune column when he posed the question: "Why are races run counter-clockwise?"

Naturally, a variety of ignorant and informed guesses poured in, but so far as we know nobody really has the right answer. One rearer offered the ingenious suggestion that it was started by Pheidippides, who found fewer holes and stones in the road by turning left. Phei, etc., was the lad to whom Miltiades, the Athenian general, turned when he defeated the Persians on the plain of Marathon, 490, B.C., with instructions to carry the news to Athens as quickly as possible. The lad set off hot-foot and was barely able to gasp out his message, "Rejoice, we conquer!" before dropping dead in the outskirts of the Greek capital.

But it seems unlikely the first Marathon set the pattern for counter-clockwise racing, since the messenger was hardly going round in circles.

Another "explanation" of counter-clockwise racing is that man's "preponderant dextrality"—meaning he's naturally right-handed, we suppose—caused him to veer right when he invented foot and horse races. This cute notion doesn't explain why a great many nations run foot and horse races clockwise to this day, contrary to the American custom.

Our tornadoes revolve counter-clockwise, but in the southern hemisphere they go clockwise. In much of Europe traffic moves on the left side of the road, and in the U.S. it moves on the righthand side. If you leave it alone, the water that runs out of your bath tub or lavatory will whirl counter-clockwise, at least in this hemisphere, same as the course of our storms' whirling action. We suppose it runs clockwise in the southern hemisphere.

We seem to recall that the opening grand march of circuses moves counter-clockwise in the U.S. too. Wonder if they go in the other direction in European countries?

The President Acts

Failure of Congress to (1) find an alternate Capitol in some safe place and (2) to create the legal machinery by which its members may be replaced quickly should worst come to worst in an atomic way was dramatized as the grand finale of Operation Alert 1955.

In his prearranged hideaway somewhere outside Washington, whither he had repaired along with his cabinet and staff as part of Wednesday's practice alert, President Eisenhower declared a mock state of martial law to mobilize "the authority and resources of the federal government" to cope with the problems of a government suddenly paralyzed by hydrogen and atomic bombs.

That is precisely what he would have to do should the real emergency arise, not from choice but from unavoidable necessity. If and when Congress gets round to devising a legal way or replacing itself should the membership be wiped out in some atomic holocaust, such drastic action on the part of whomever happens to be President will not be necessary.

The only way Congress could be replaced now is by the slow process of calling special elections in every state that had lost representatives by pulverization. This would take time even under normal conditions, and under the chaos of atomic warfare it might take a great deal longer.

A lot of special laws would have to be passed—Congress hasn't got round to devising these emergency measures for automatic effect in case of war—and it is absolutely necessary to set up new machinery for choosing House replacements should a majority of that body be destroyed. Senators can be replaced immediately by state governors; obviously this same authority should be extended to include House members in times of dire emergency.

Beaten-Up Car

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—When a customer brought a well-battered car to a dealer and asked for a price on it in exchange for a new one, the dealer looked, winced and named a rock-bottom price.

To the dealer's amazement, the customer replied "I'll take it."

Seems he had become angry at the running eccentricities of the car and had beaten the windows out of it with a baseball bat.

A Father's Prayer

Butler's Objective Is Clear, But Method Of Approach Leaves Room For Speculation

By WACIL McNAIR

There can be no misunderstanding of Paul Butler's objective, but his method of reaching it gives rise to speculation.

The National Chairman of the Democratic party, of course, wants to solidify the ranks of his party, at least enough to win an election in 1956. However, his approach to the task at hand probably represents a departure from party tactics of the immediate past. The extent of that departure remains in the category of speculation at this stage of the campaign, and it most certainly is a campaign.

Some factors are apparent at the very outset, and these have been noted by newsmen, along with others, who have come in contact with the Democratic Party chief during his swing through Texas.

For one thing, Butler's general approach appears far different from the Truman-Mitchell brand. For example he does not make calculated attempts to anger his foes. At the same time he manages to appear forthright, and does not dodge controversial questions.

He attempts to drive home much of the party philosophy expounded by his predecessor, but tempers his tongue with a dash of diplomacy. He also has the knack of following up a statement that may sound harsh with a mellower approach, without seeming to compromise. This characteristic may stand him in good stead when the campaign begins to gain heat.

During his brief stop in the 24th senatorial district at Big Spring last Wednesday, Butler appeared anxious to refute talk that he had "snubbed" Gov. Allan Shivers. Yet, he made it clear that he never intended to alter his schedule for the governor's convenience, indicating that, in his (Butler's) opinion, Gov. Shivers had the same opportunity as hundreds of other Texans to attend one of the meetings on the schedule.

Some newsmen thought this might be a tipoff on Butler's attitude toward the Texas problem, and toward Gov. Shivers in particular. That is, he will not lean over backward to wave the olive branch. Instead, he will plug for the "strays," as he referred to them in Big Spring, to return to the party ranks of their own will.

At the same time, there was some indication that Butler hopes to put the party in shape so that the "strays" can return without losing face, or without violating their own conscience. That word, conscience, was injected into his remarks several times. Unlike Mitchell, the present party chairman emphasized that he believed an individual should not be bound by a party label when he cannot support a candidate without going against his own personal convictions.

On the other hand, Butler made it plain that he has little patience with a party member, and especially a party leader, who turns against the party as a whole because of one candidate, or one segment of the party's platform.

Such people, he said, should transfer their allegiance to the Republican Party. They probably would, he continued, except that they are ashamed of the Republican label.

These remarks could hardly be interpreted as soothing to radical conservatives, but there were other statements that were equally as distasteful to radical liberals.

Butler preaches the doctrine of majority rule, and he served notice that more on this theme may be expected when the national convention is held next year.

If the state, county, and precinct leaders want the majority to govern decisions at their respective levels, they should be willing to follow the same system at the national level, he declared.

Also, Butler gave some hints on campaign issues that are likely to be raised by the Democrats next year. Apparently they are going to hit Vice President Nixon hard, and the farm program of Sec. Benson will surely be the object of a major broadside. Texas' own Oveta Culp Hobby will come under the campaign spotlight in connection with the Salk antipolio vaccine squabble, despite rumors that she won't be around Washington when the formal campaigns begin.

The nation's foreign policy, of course, will get its usual attention.

Butler also indicated that he favors pinpointing issues. Possibly the harshest note he sounded was in reference to Republicans who branded the Democratic Party as the "party if treason" following exposure by congressional investigating committees of scandals in some branches of the federal government during Democratic regimes. Those who would thus brand millions of people because some individuals in their ranks were dishonest are not fit to hold public office, he asserted.

In the same vein, Butler used an approach far different from Truman and Mitchell in directing a complaint toward the Texas press. He referred jokingly to the "one-party press" label that was applied in 1952, but pinned his own complaint down to one newspaper, The Dallas Morning News. He took exception to a headline in that newspaper which said he "snubbed" Gov. Shivers.

The fruits of Butler's labors in Texas, if any, cannot be assessed at this time. However, those who came in contact with him during his tour of the state will be surpraise if he does not wage an agressive, yet dignified, campaign next year.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Wilson's Hope To Preserve 'Softness' Of Old Mansion

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, wife of the defense secretary, says she's trying to preserve the softness of the antibellum era clinging to the 1830 mansion on the 4,000 acre plantation the Wilsons bought in Louisiana last year.

Still under doctors' orders to take it easy after a recent illness, the Cabinet lady has been able to make only brief trips with her Washington decorator to get the place ready for occupancy. The secretary bought the estate near Baton Rouge for a reported $200,000. He's experimenting with the cross-breeding of Ayreshires with the Sindhi cows from India he got from the King Ranch in Texas. They've already raised a fine young bull and eight young heifers.

"We don't want the house to look like we just did it over," Mrs. Wilson told me. "We want it to have a used look."

The three-story-seven bedroom mansion which its former owner paid a fortune to restore, is completely furnished with antiques. "We wouldn't have bought it otherwise," Mrs. Wilson told me. "I have neither the time nor the energy to furnish another house. We only plan to spend the fall there, during the open season for shooting of quail and wild turkey."

The Wilsons' real home will always be in Bloomfield Hills, near Detroit, and the huge estate where they raise pedigreed cattle. The Wilson children and 15 grandchildren all live in Michigan and gather for vacations at the Wilson summer retreat at Walloon Lake. In Washington, the secretary and Mrs. Wilson live in a luxury apartment hotel with plenty of bedrooms to accommodate members of the family and friends who come visiting.

Mrs. Wilson says her Louisiana neighbors are most friendly. About 50 of them came to call when they went down several weeks ago. "They don't look upon us as Yankees," she said.

The servent problem does not exist for Mrs. Wilson in Louisiana, at least. Bessie, born and raised on Richlands, which the estate is called, will go on cooking for the Wilsons as she did for former owners, and Glasper the house man, has been on the place for ages, she says. "Bessie has seven children, and Glasper has 11, so it looks like we'll be supplied with help for the rest of our lifetime," she said.

Undefined Agreement For Cease-Fire May Be Better Than Any Formal Negotiation

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Krishna Menon, who is Prime Minister Nehru's roving ambassador, has been to Peiping and then to London, and Ottawa and Washington. His purpose is mediation, and presumably he is bringing fresh information on the attitude of Red China toward the situation in the Formosa area.

In defining our own position it would help I think, to distinguish between a provisional arrangement for a cease-fire in the Formosa region on the one hand, and, on the other hand, a permanent settlement of the status and regime of the island of Formosa.

At the present time we are coexisting without hostilities under what is in fact, though not in explicit form, the Eden formula. The firing has virtually ceased though none of the three principal parties directly concerned — namely the two Chinese governments and the United States — has renounced any of its legal or political claims in the final settlement.

• • •

The immediate question before us is whether it is necessary or desirable to turn this provisional arrangement, this undefined, unavowed, tacit cease-fire and political stand-still into a formal public agreement. Krishna Menon may have information which might make it useful and desirable to negotiate such a public agreement. But without prejudicing the issue, it is hard to see why the public negotiation of a cease-fire is desirable just now when so much has been accomplished by unadvertised diplomacy. All three parties in the area have been able to assent to a virtual cease-fire. It would, on the other hand, be difficult for any of them to sign an agreement to do what all of us are in fact doing.

The existing situation in the Formosa region is the result of two fundamental decisions of policy taken by the President within the past eight or nine months. One is the formal commitment, authorized by the Formosa treaty and then again by the January resolution, to defend Formosa against military assault from the mainland. The other is the informal but nonetheless proven decision of this government not to support, and not to encourage, Chiang's aim to reconquer the mainland. The decision to defend Formosa has made it impossible for Red China to contemplate seriously the conquest of Formosa; the decision not to support Chiang's return to the mainland has removed the main incitement to attack. Even the off-shore islands, which are highly vulnerable, have been in effect neutralized as we have induced Chiang to stop using them offensively.

• • •

The basic term of this tacit bargain has been promoted in Peiping and Washington by the diplomatic efforts of our allies, of the Soviet Union, of India, and of the United Nations. For the time being the bargain is convenient for all concerned. The Red Chinese government has been relieved of a fear that they were entitled to take seriously: the fear that the policy of the United States would be for that war against mainland China which Chiang desires, which so many admirals and retired generals have preached, which the extreme right wing of the Republican party supports. As a result of having purged our policy of provocation the President has extricated this country from a dangerous entanglement, from an entanglement from which the decicion for war might have rested not in our own hands but in the hands of Chiang and his American supporters. And this disentanglement of American policy has brought about the virtual cease-fire and political stand-still in the Formosa area.

The arrangement is in the very nature of things temporary and, therefore, it is time to begin to make up our minds about a permanent settlement. Our Formosa policy today consists in supporting and defending Chiang in Formosa and of containing him within Formosa. There is a time limit on a policy of this kind. We have no right to count on it beyond the life and the rule of Chiang himself. The foundations of the policy are, therefore, fragile and insecure. For we do not know who would in fact be Chiang's successor, or what would be his purposes or his relations to the mainland. If we call things by their right name, we must note that Chiang is a despot, and that the succession to a despot is usually, as in Moscow today, turbulent with intrigue.

• • •

Yet the interests of the United States and Formosa are secured today only by our relations with Chiang. On what are they to rest after Chiang goes? It is not too soon to begin clarifying the issues, as we see them, of a lasting settlement in Formosa.

Our strategic interest in Formosa is that the island shall not be the military base of an unfriendly power, that is to say of Red China. Our political interest in Formosa is in performing our obligations of honor to the anti-Communist Chinese. It is our obligation to provide them with a place to live where they are safe and free. We have no strategic interest in holding Formosa ourselves: our interest is, in the language of the military theorists, to deny Formosa effectively to Red China. And we have no obligation of honor or interest to do more than insure the safety and the freedom of the Chinese on Formosa. We have no obligation to go to war ourselves in order to reverse the defeat they suffered in the Chinese civil war.

Our interests and our obligations would be satisfied if Formosa became an independent, self-governing state, neutralized and guaranteed by the United Nations. This should be, I believe, our post-Chiang Formosa policy. I say post-Chiang for it is asking too much, after all that has been said in this country about him, that Chiang himself should formally agree to such a settlement. It is not necessarily an impossible solution from the point of view of Red China. The solution would command widespread support throughout Asia.

Weather Is Much The Same As That Of Century Ago

By BRUCE HENDERSON

RENNER, Tex. (AP)—Texas weather has been up to its old tricks—and "old" is the right word.

This year there's been winter heat followed by quick-freze spring northers, drought eased by cloud burst rains.

The weather was pulling the same stunts a century ago. Hasn't changed its repertoire a bit.

W. H. Gentzendaner, an Ellis County planter, kept an eye on weather extremes around Waxahachie from 1854 to 1908. His observations were published in a pamphlet, "Weather Memoranda Extremes," by the Ellis County Mirror at Waxahachie in 1909. A copy of the pamphlet is in the Texas Research Foundation library here.

Apparently referring to wet-dry, cold-hot cycles, Getzandaner wrote: "I thought I could discern a partial periodicity of about five and one-half years in these great changes. I still believe there is a rule for them, a regularity in the irregularity."

He continued: "I deduce from the date that...the more severe and prolonged the drouth, the greater the rain cycle following."

Terrible drought gripped Texas between 1854 and 1860, Getzendaner said.

"In 1860, the thermometer stood at 110 and 112, known as the hot Saturday and Sunday," he wrote. He said the dates were July 8-9.

"Dallas burned on Saturday about 2 o'clock. Oldham's Store in Waxahachie caught fire about 2 p.m. Sunday from spontaneous combustion of matches. Many barns, houses and some other towns in the state burned on the same day."

By 1866, however, the wet cycle was at its peak, he said. In April and May of that year high water forced stage coaches to abandon their routes "many days at a time—one time nearly a month."

"Birds built their nests in the weeds and hatched out their young before I got to turn the weeds under to plant cotton," he recalled.

Getzendaner decided "a very lean year is apt to follow a very fat one...If the winter be mild, the spring will be late and have severe frosts and freezes."

He recorded these other extremes:

1867: After a "very mild winter," it froze every day from March 5 to April 5.

1887: Heat and drought, killed much stock. Then a big flood Aug. 29-30 killed more livestock. People floated in rafts down Chambers Creek bottoms.

1890: A mild winter, with "worlds of bacon spoiled." Larkspurs were in bloom at Christmas, hyacinths on Jan. 1. Around March 1 a flash freeze killed everything.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of THE SCURRY COUNTY TIMES for June 19,1930.)

Interest in a Scurry County Cooperative Creamery took a decided step forward with the announcement in last week's Times-Signal that a committee had been appointed to secure a mass meeting for Snyder. If sufficient interest is shown by a large group in the county, there will be no trouble in arranging the meeting. With at least 75 per cent of all cream marketed in Scurry County being shipped out of the county and where they secure a larger price for their products, there is no earthly reason "why" the farmers and business men of this section should not get together for an early understanding of the needs and to further build a real market for dairy products. . .

The 11,000 Texas Confederate pensioners will get their first monthly pay checks July 1, and will then begin receiving the highest amount of pension in the state's history, says an Austin dispatch.

The new pension law going into effect June 19 changes the requirements under which each person will be paid his or her check. There will be 1,000 veterans who will get $50 a month, those entitled to the $50 payment being Confederate soldiers who have living wives to whom they were married before June 31, 1900. All other soldiers and the widows qualifying for the pension will get $25 per month except soldiers and widows in the state home, who will receive one half of what they are entitled to otherwise.

Total returns for the unemployment situation in Scurry County as made by the fifteenth census shows a total of 148 persons, according to advice from supervisor Barr at Lubbock yesterday morning.

Hermleigh shows three unemployed and Snyder 99, while the justice precincts made up the balance. Paving of the West Side as okayed and arranged some time ago would bring employment to a great number of Snyder folks, but the council was unable to see the "price-get-together" that contractors had when they submitted their bids some months ago. However, it is not too late to start all over and let competition set the true figures that an engineer's estimate would provide.

Lighter-than-navy is a popular new shade of blue. Capes are running strong. Hair dressing follows the line of the hat: top and back smooth with the fullness close to the neck. There is no fluffiness in the chic coiffure.

Skirt lengths are four or five inches below the knee for street and sports, eight or 10 inches for afternoon, full length for evening. Smartest waist lines are short, but many still hover about the hips, a style more becoming for stout women. Newer waists blouse in the back and fit in front. Belts are decidely "in."

Shipment Of Real Sassafras Asked

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Sassafras, used by pioneers as a spring tonic, has been shipped to V. L. Webb of Sacramento, Calif., who requested a bath of the real stuff from genuine Carbondale Sassafras trees.

He said he had been buying sassafras in California drug stores, but their product was weak and tasteless. The Chamber of Commerce dispatched the makings promptly.

Summer To Start With Prosperity

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business nears the official start of summer humming a prosperity tune.

Industrial output is at an all-time high, says the Federal Reserve Board, after adjusting its index to the weather.

Retail sales are running 8 per cent higher than a year ago.

Construction activity—also after being adjusted for seasonal influences—is at a record high and one eighth larger than last year.

The coming of hot weather is pushing electric power output to an all-time high. It was within a whisker of it last week The Edison Electric Institute says the use of electricity for air conditioning is rising and a new record is probably just days away.

Refineries are turning out 26 million barrels of gasoline a week now. But American motorists are using even more than that.

American families are eating well. The U.S. Department of Agriculture says that meat production is running 3 per cent above a year ago, with beef even higher.

Coffee drinking is on the increase, according to the Pan-American Coffee Bureau. It says a recent nationwide survey shows the average American of coffee-drinking age downs 2.67 cups a day. Last year it was 2.60 cups.

Rising incomes are given the credit for all the buying and consuming. Average weekly factory earnings have touched a new high of $76.11, about $5 ahead of a year ago. Employment has been rising and unemployment dropping.

Summer's onslaught may change some of this pleasant picture. While Americans will use more gasoline and electricity for travel and comfort, they'll stop producing as much in the factories during vacation days. Industrial output is expected to slack off a little in May and June from its April peak.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

OFF THE BOOK BEAT — "Let's be different," says Ardis Whitman in "A New Image of Man" (Appleton-Century-Crofts), and she says the same thing in a conversation:

"The enemy is the norm."

Miss Whitman is the enemy of the copy cat. Do you remember the phrase: they all looked alike but Ike? She is all for Ike. It has been her own experience, as wife, mother, lecturer, and author, that people are really not alike, and she complains of the tendency in recent years to drive them all to conform.

But scratch a conformer and you find a man who really is different, who wants to be different, she has discovered. How does the lecture-bureau circuit take to this idea?

"It takes to it," she answers positively. Lecture audiences, though she does not admit it, have the reputation of being conformist. Yet the few to which she has already had the chance to talk about being nonconformist, and about the advantages of sticking out like a sore thumb, have approved definitely.

A nice adjustment is required to balance the obligation to the group with the obligation to the self; too much individuality is rebellion, but too little is stultifying, she says.

"I think we are now entering on a period of more individuality," she claims. "In England it is not so hard to be yourself. Perhaps it is not going to be so hard here, either. Grownups can become freer if they acknowledge the need for it. Schools are beginning to show a little more concern for the gifted child."

A WAGON LOAD of onions is what Frank Brownfield, 3012 Avenue W, told his friends he raised in his back yard, and he and Mrs. Brownfield here show their evidence. Brownfield is a successful gardener at 83. (Craft Studio photograph)

Back Yard Produces 'Wagon-Load' Crop

If there is anyone in Snyder who can give tips on gardening, it should be the 83-year-old man who raised a "wagon-load" of onions in his back yard recently.

The onion-raiser is Frank M. Brownfield, 3012 Avenue W. Brownfield sometimes neglects to tell the whole story when spinning a yarn about his garden. When he told about his wagon load of onions, he forgot to mention that it was a toy wagon.

But that brings out one of Brownfield's best gardening tips. When telling your friends about the results you achieve in your garden, you might make a better impression if you leave a few words out here and there or color the story a bit.

Even if he did slip on that onion business, Brownfield does raise a pretty good garden. For instance, after his beans came up, he and Mrs. Brownfield had about as many fresh beans as they wanted, and there was enough left for Mrs. Brownfield to can 30 pints.

In addition to knowing how to tell tales about his garden, Brownfield has devised several labor-saving methods. One which saves him some garden work, for instance: "My wife don't think I can pick beans because I might ruin the vines." He lets that soak in awhile, then he says, "I don't like to pick beans anyhow." The same thing works for husbands in other chores, Brownfield said. Husbands who are always dropping dishes are not allowed by many wives to do the dishes.

Back to Brownfield's garden, he said backyard gardens are good to give men exercise and he highly recommends them to all the men in Snyder. He raises beans, peas, radishes, onions, and okra in his garden. The water required costs more than the garden is worth, he said, but taking care of a garden provides good exercise, and fresh vegetables are good to eat.

Brownfield was once a farmer but now confines his farming to his back yard. He was sheriff here during prohibition times.

Chick Production Up

AUSTIN, June 18 (AP)—Commercially hatched chicks totalled 9,150,000 in Texas during May, up 7 per cent from a year ago, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported today. Egg production on Texas farms totaled 289 million during May, down 2 per cent from May, 1954.

(Letters from the readers of the Daily News are always welcome, provided they are signed by the writer and give his correct address. They will be printed subject to the publisher's discretion, based on whether the material contained is libelous or the language offensive. Letters should not exceed 300 words.)

TO THE DAILY NEWS:

In these momentous times a number of serious problems confront our nation; and we, as loyal and responsible American citizens, need sound jugment in making our choice concerning which is of greatest importance.

Religious liberty is given to us by our Constitution; but, now, this liberty seems to be threatened. Our national leaders have made us members of the world organization which we call the United Nations. We hoped thereby to lessen the threat of war; and to be able to live together with other nations as good neighbors. This hope has not been realized. The writers of our own Constitutuion looked to God to help us found our nation upon the principles of the Bible. When our representatives suggested we have prayer at the organization of the United Nations, Russia objected and we acceded to her desires. Thus we became a part of a godless organization. Then, our nation was free to accept or to reject any measure offered by the United Nations. Now, an amendment to the Constitution of this organization is proposed which, if accepted by us, will subordinate our own Constitution of the United States to the Constitution of the United Nations. This amendment is slated for acceptance or rejection next month, July of 1955. Fifteen items in the United Nations charter violate the Constitution of The United States.

If we accept this amendment and allow ourselves to be ruled by the United Nations above our own national government, we are practically sure to be forced to accept the rule of foreign officers. Communists defy our God. Would not any communist officer close our churches as they have already done in many foreign lands? The choice is ours. Shall we continue our membership in the organization which excludes our God, and which is seeking to so place us under the power of Communism that our religious liberty and all our liberties will be taken from us? Let us inform ourselves as to the full import of this amendment to the Constution of the United Nations that we may wisely and respectifully and effectively present our choice between Communism and our own beloved nation, to our leaders and representatives in both Washington and in the important meeting soon to be held in San Francisco.

Signed,
Aubrey Clark

Spring Winds Spread Trash Over Big Area

NEW LONDON, Wis., June 18 (AP)—April 5, it was, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Behnke deposited some trash at the city dump.

Came some big spring winds.

Then, reported the Behnkes today, came the mailman with an envelope from Cletus Apke of Route 1, Cattawissa, Mo.

In it: A receipted Behnke light bill, a hand-drawn map that was a Behnke travel souvenir, and an old letter to the Behnkes from a relative.

Soldier Who Made Wrong Turn Freed

BERLIN, June 18 (AP)—Sgt. Alby E. Hagler of San Antonio, Tex., who made a wrong turn on the highway and got lost in Communist East Germany, was released last night by the Soviets.

An Army spokesman said that East German authorities took down U.S. Army signs placed along the 11-mile autobahn to West Germany and refused to allow them to be replaced on the grounds East Germany is now a "sovereign" state. The spokesman said Hagler apparently was confused by a sign indicating a road to Frankfurt-on-Oder in East Germany as he was en route to Frankfurt-on-Main in West Germany.

The median age of all U.S. men is 30 years.

In Asia, girls comprise only 27 per cent of the high school enrollment and in Africa, 28 per cent.

It packs a walloping 188-hp V8 engine under the hood—is carried on a strapping 122-inch wheelbase—rides with the luxury cushioning of all-coil springing, the solid steadiness of a full-length torque-tube drive, the extra safety and silence of tubeless tires.
It's big and brawny and road-steady and roomy—each seat cushion measures over five feet in width.
Yet this broad beauty—as the price we'll show you proves—delivers locally for just about the price of the well-known smaller cars—even below some models of those very same cars.
Buick Sales Are Soaring To New Best-Seller Highs
That, for sure, is one reason why Buick sales go higher and higher. More and more people are finding that you can buy a Buick for the price of a smaller car, so more and more people are getting this bigger buy for their money.
They want the bigger package of sheer automobile for the money that they get in Buick—bigger in power thrill, in roomy comfort, in riding steadiness, in structural solidity.
They want the added prestige and pleasure of owning Buick styling and size—and the added safety and sureness of Buick roadability and handling ease.
They want, too, the spectacular performance and better gas mileage of Variable Pitch Dynaflow†—easily yours at modest extra cost.
And they certainly want the choice Buick offers of a car in every price range, with each one the buy in its field—the low-price SPECIAL, the supremely-powered CENTURY, the extra-roomy SUPER, and the custom-built ROADMASTER.
Why don't you come in for a visit and see how much real automobile your money can buy here?
†Dynaflow Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.
DID YOU KNOW
★—that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below any other car of 188 horsepower and 122-inch wheelbase?
★—that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below some models of the three most well-known smaller cars?

Indians On Scoring Spree To Win, 18-5

The Holder Construction Indians swamped the Trinity Methodist White Sox 18-5 in a wild-scoring Little League game Friday night. The officials utilized a new ruling to end the game in the fourth inning.

The rule, passed Wednesday night by league officials, states that a game may be called at the end of the fourth inning, if either team is as much as 10 runs ahead.

In the second game, the Rotary Cardinals took the Lions Club Cubs 12-3.

After holding the White Sox scoreless, the Indians batted around once and half way around again in the first inning. So great was their hitting power that every man on the team scored at least one run. Three, Tommy Minton, Henry Lowry, and Jerry Gee crossed home plate three times each.

Lowry was the winning pitcher for the Indians. He was relieved after one and two-thirds innings by Larry Patterson, who finished the game. Lowry gave up two hits, walked four and hit one batter.

Maroney, the loser, went all the way for the White Sox, giving up 11 hits and walking four.

The winning pitcher for the Cardinals was David Kee, who struck out eight and walked two while giving up six hits.

Billy Wells was the loser for the Cubs. He struck out four while walking one and giving up five hits. He was replaced by Weldon Ware in the sixth.

David Kee, the lead-off man for the Cardinals, opened the game with a home run, his first for the year. Jimmy Robinson duplicated the feat in the sixth when he hit his second homer.

Ronnie Smith Wins Regional Tennis Title

Ronnie Smith, 16-year-old Snyder High School junior, came home yesterday afternoon as senior boys singles champion of this region in the first playoff round of the national Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis tournament.

Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith, 3205 Fortieth Street, is now preparing to enter the state Jaycee tennis meet at Wichita Falls later this summer.

The Snyder youth won the regional event in a single match, beating Max Triplett of Ballinger 6-1, 6-3, 6-3. The two were the only entries in that division of the regional meet. Ballinger boys were awarded titles in junior singles and doubles because they were the only ones present for the tourney, which was held in Stamford. There were no entries in senior boys doubles.

At Wichita Falls, there will be entries in each division from the 18 regions in the state. The winner of that tournament will go San Antonio in August to enter the national Jaycee tournament.

Smith was sponsored at the Stamford meet after winning the senior boys singles championship in the city tennis tournament here, which was sponsored by the Jaycees. Bill Ballard accompanied him as Jaycee representative. In the local tournament, Smith won in the finals over Randal DeShan. He and DeShan made up the doubles team which took championship of that division.

Fleming Back In Top Spot

DALLAS, June 18 (AP)—Les Fleming, the southpaw swinger from Shreveport, snapped out of a mild slump to add 26 points to his batting average last week and surge back into first place in Texas League hitting.

The aging Fleming, still one of the most dangerous hitters the league ever saw, got 13 base knocks in 24 times at the plate to pull his average from .331 to .357 and dislodge Eddie Knoblauch, the Dallas center fielder, who dropped 12 points by getting only nine hits in 35 attempts last week. Knoblauch fell to second place with .341 but continued to lead the league in hits, with 95, and in doubles with 22.

Also figuring in a rush toward the top was Willie Brown, Houston outfielder, who clubbed 14 hits in 35 times at bat to push into third place with .321.

In pitching there are two remarkable men — John (Red) Murff of Dallas, who has won 15 while losing only three, and Mel Waters of Fort Worth, who has done the fireman's act in 30 games and posted six victories against no defeats.

Pete Burnside, Dallas lefty, is the strikeout king. Pistol Pete has fanned 113, the only hurler to have gone over the 100 mark in whiffs.

Ben Taylor, Beaumont's left-handed first baseman, tops in homers with 17.

Morrow Set To Gallop In NAAU Meet

ABILENE, June 18 — Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian College, unbeate.. in the sprints for more than two years in Texas, will gun for the national crown June 24-25 at the NAAU track and field championships in Boulder, Colo.

The 19-year-old Abilene boy from San Benito has a string of 39 straight victories dating back to May of 1953. And of his last 60 races over a three-year span he has won 56 of them.

Morrow added 16 to that streak this year in his amazing college debut. He was Texas high school sprint king for two years and in his senior year covered the 100 in 9.6 and the 220 in 21.1.

He first captured national attention here June 3-4 with his twin victories in the NAIA championships. Morrow blazed the century in an honest 9.4 (no wind) in the trials and came back to win the finals in an incredible 9.1, the latter aided by a 7-mile breeze and thus nullified as a world record.

Morrow was equally devastating in the NAIA 220. In the trials he ran a 20.6 around a full turn (tieing the world record for the 220 around a curve), and in the finals won the event in 20.9. Both 220 times, however, were discounted because of excess wind.

He ran into a 6-mile wind at Houston on June 11 to capture the South Texas AAU century in 9.7 and the 220 in 21.3.

The lank (6-2, 173 pounds) youth was ineligible for the NCAA this year because of his freshman status.

His coach, Oliver Jackson, believes Morrow is good enough right now to win the NAAU 100 and 220 at Boulder, although earlier in the season the coach expressed a view that Morrow needed perhaps a "year of seasoning" before competing with the "old-timers."

That was before Morrow's tremendous showings in May and June.

Morrow's best no-wind times are his 9.4 (NAIA trials) and 20.7 respectively.

He will leave his Rio Grande Valley home Tuesday, flying from Brownsville to Denver. There he will meet Coach Jackson and two other Abilene Christian trackmen due in from the NCAA meet at Los Angeles.

The other Abilene Christian performers who will run with Morrow in the NAAU meet are low hurdler Mack Clark (23 0) and miler Paul (Ginger) Johnson (4 15.2).

Palmer Rough On Pitchers

By The Associated Press

I. B. Palmer of Plainview is making a shambles out of pitching in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

Palmer is clouting a lusty .417 and while that isn't the leading figure, it's what he did with it that counts.

The Plainview walloper leads the league in total bases with 155, doubles with 19, runs batted in with 59, is tied for the lead in hits with Bobby Fernandez of Lubbock with 85 and for the lead in homers with Joe Fortin of Pampa, Doug Lewis of Plainview and Lincoln Boyd of Clovis with 15.

The leading batter is Paul Flores of Clovis, who has a gaudy .426 and has driven in 40 runs. Don Stokes of Plainview has scored the most runs with 58 and Tom Kordas of Lubbock tops in triples with five.

One of the leading base stealers in professional baseball this season is Alex Gonzales of El Paso, who has grabbed 38 sacks.

Vandehey Is New Leader

By The Associated Press

Lynn Vandehey of Texas City has taken over the batting leadership of the Big State League. But his margin is as thin as a dime.

The Texan clouter pulled his average to .366 last week while Jodie Beeler, picked up by Port Arthur when Galveston folded, is second with .364.

But none of the hitters is doing as much damage as the veteran Dean Stafford of Corpus Christi. Stafford has 147 in total bases, 17 home runs and 62 runs batted in to continue as the top slugger of the league.

Ed Charles of Corpus Christi has romped in with 61 runs and is tied with Jim Kirby of Port Arthur for the lead in hits, each with 84.

Hal Simpson of Tyler tops in doubles with 21. The leading strikeout pitcher is Waco's Doug Rowe, who has fanned 102.

Port Arthur is the niftiest fielding club with .970.

The Belgian Congo is larger than all the U.S. territory east of the Mississippi River.

Gallardo Sets Longhorn Pace

By The Associated Press

In the Longhorn League, where .400 batting averages are common, Frank Gallardo of Artesia sets the pace these days with a fantastic .445.

The Artesia hammerer has socked 57 hits in 128 times at bat and is 35 points ahead of the next best —hitter—Julio de La Torre of Hobbs.

Carroll Gholson of Carlsbad is the league's slugger, however. He leads in total bases with 155, triples with 10 and runs batted in with 71.

Elias Osorio of San Angleo has the most runs with 62, Tom Jordan of Artesia the most hits with 86, and Al Jimine of Midland and Jim Zapp of Big Spring the most home runs with 19 apiece.

This league has six clubs batting over .300 with Artisia ahead with .328. In fielding, Odessa tops with .959.

The full name of Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, is James Joseph Tunney.

Red Sox Continue On Victory Trail

The Von Roeder Red Sox, who won the first half of the Pony League schedule, started the second half true to form last night as they downed the Courthouse Tigers 3-1 in a hard-fought match that had to go into extra innings. The Scurry Butane Dodgers, who ranked second in the first half, took the Lions Club Phillies 10-3.

Mike Stipe, the Red Sox right fielder, started the scoring when he was hit by Coleman John's pitched ball. Richard Mahan singled, advancing Stipe. Then Dick Hayes got a hit which brought both runners in to score.

The Dodgers were held scoreless then for two innings until Barry Walker walked in the fourth and finally made it home on a passed ball.

The Tigers first scored when Terry Lee was given a base on balls in the first inning and came home on a catcher's error. They didn't score again until the fourth when Mike Ridley scored on an error. In the fifth, Jerry Fleming and Lee hit singles to get on. When they scored, the Tigers moved ahead 4-3.

Ronnie Way tied it up with his score in the seventh, and Wharry ended it when he scored in the eighth.

Kenneth Drake was winning pitcher for the Red Sox. He went the final four innings, giving up four hits and walking one. Hayes, the lead-off pitcher, was ahead when he was relieved in the fourth, but the score was tied making the victory go to Drake.

John walked four and gave up five hits while striking out 11. Gale Courtney came in for the last one and one-third innings and was loser.

In the second game, Ronnie Jones was the winning pitcher. He went the first four and two-third innings, striking out four, walking two and giving up three hits. Foy Dennis was loser. He pitched for two-thirds of the first inning, falling behind 3-2. Neal Boyd relieved him until the fourth, when Dennis came back in to finish the game.

The Dodgers' biggest inning came in the bottom of the sixth when they brought in five runs, making their victory sure.

Chisox Move To Top Spot

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Harry Byrd, traded away from the New York Yankees during the winter, came back to haunt his old mates today as he pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 6-3 victory which put the Sox into first place and knocked the Yankees out of the top spot.

Byrd was not around at the finish, giving way to Sandy Consuegra in the seventh inning, but the Sox had a 4-1 lead at the time and Consuegra protected it sufficiently for the Sox to grab first with a .649 percentage compared to New York's .635. Chicago has a 37-20 record, New York 40-23.

Ironically, it was Bob Turley, the other principal in the big winter trade between New York and Baltimore, who was the losing pitcher. Turley, wild and ineffective, was lifted in the seventh inning and charged with his fifth straight defeat.

Byrd, who moved from Baltimore to Chicago in still another trade, made his first start for the White Sox a highly successful one. He had the Yanks blanked on three hits until the seventh inning today. Pinch-hitter Bob Cerv's two-out double brought in Gil McDougald and sent Byrd to the showers.

Red Sox Rap Indians, 4-2

BOSTON, June 18 (AP) — Jackie Jensen's tie-breaking home run and clinching sacrifice fly, coupled with clutch pitching by big Frank Sullivan, featured the Boston Red Sox 4-2 victory over Cleveland today.

Jensen slammed his 13th home run of the season into the center field bleachers in the sixth inning with the score knotted 2-2. The blow came off starter and loser Mike Garcia who had set down the previous 11 batters in order.

Jensen put it away in the eighth by scoring pinch-runner Gene Stephens from third on a fly to left.

Bengals Blank Phillies, 4-0

CHICAGO, June 18 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs handed Robin Roberts his second of six losses here today behind a 4-0 whitewashing of Philadelphia before 16,543.

Before Roberts retired for a pinch batter in the eighth, the Cubs collected eight hits and fashioned a 3-0 edge against the nine-game winning righthander. It was the most hits Roberts had allowed in a single game since Brooklyn pounded him for 10 on April 21.

Congress Has Difficulty In Paring Budget

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—At the rate it's going, the present Congress won't be remembered for its budget - cutting record.

It's having considerable trouble trimming big amounts from funds requested by President Eisenhower to run the government for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The President's budget is what his followers describe as "tight." They say it is hard to cut.

With all but two of the big annual appropriation bills already passed by the House, the President's requests for new money have been trimmed approximately $1,400,000,000. That's about 3 per cent, a far cry from some deep cuts made by previous congresses.

However, it compares favorably with the 3.4 per cent cut made last year by Congress on a smaller budget.

A large part of the claimed reduction made this year by the House is in what critics call the "phony" category, including transfers of funds or other bookkeeping transactions.

Current signs are that before the money bills finally reach the President, the reductions already made by the House will be considerably less.

The Senate has shown no inclination to be tougher than the House when it comes to appropriating money. In 14 out of 15 cases it has handled so far, the Senate has increased funds appropriating money. In 14 out of 15 cases it has handled so far, the Senate has increased funds appropriated by the House. In all five cases in which both branches have finally agreed on a compromise, the compromise exceeds the amount voted by the House originally.

Funds for nine other agencies are still the subject of Senate-House conferences.

The two big bills still to be considered by the House, which originates appropriation measures, finance the foreign aid program and a military public works program.

Bills passed by the House already provide for the appropriation of $47,117,951,659 in new funds, compared with presidential requests for $48,564,724,803.

The Senate still must act on the biggest money bill of the year, financing the Defense Department. The House voted 31½ billion for defense, a cut of 744 million from the President's budget, but indications are the Senate will restore a large part of the money.

The Senate this week added almost 200 million to funds voted by the House for the Commerce Department. It has cut only one House bill, lopping off a million from the 16 million voted by the House for the refugee program.

Seamen Head Back To Jobs In Britain

LONDON, June 18 (AP)—Britain's striking seamen and dockers began trickling back to work today. Hopes rose for a quick end to the walkouts strangling this island's seaborne commerce and upsetting sailing plans for thousands of transatlantic tourists.

The official Shipping Federation reported a flow of seamen asking re-employment aboard the 81,000-ton Queen Mary and other giant Cunard liners struck in Southampton and Liverpool.

Most were seamen under 26 years of age who had been warned by the government that their draft exemption expired when they went out on the wildcat strike 19 days ago.

"The only reason these men are going back is because they have a gun held at their back," strike leader Leslie Hargreaves said.

Hargreaves declared the fight would go on. Southampton was placarded with: "The Lizzie — (Cunard's 83,000-ton Queen Elizabeth) — comes home Monday, she is with us. Join us. Don't sail."

But the strike committee appealed to the National Union of Seamen, which disowned the sudden walkout, and government to arbitrate the seamen's demands.

Over 1,000 strikers ask a 44-hour week and better working conditions. Most are stewards, cooks and other catering personnel.

Cunard served high court writs this morning on five strike leaders claiming conspiracy to induce seamen to break contracts with the company.

Summonses were issued against 49 crew members of the Queen Mary alleging they disputed an order aboard the liner June 16. That was the day the liner should have sailed with over 1,000 New York-bound passengers.

Leaders of 20,000 striking stevedores called mass meetings for tomorrow in London and key provincial ports to decide whether to continue their walkout, now in its 27th day.

Forty per cent of the nation's dockers are involved. About 180 ships in six ports have been idled and another 80 odd are undermanned.

Marshall To Retire As Head Of SCB

TEMPLE, Tex., June 18 (AP)—On July 1 Vernie C. Marshall will step down as executive director of the State Soil Conservation Board, a position he has held since the office was created in 1940.

Marshall, a Central Texas farmer nearing 70, is known as the "Father" of Texas Soil Conservation Districts.

He was a leader in obtaining the state legislation authorizing the formation of the districts in Texas. Such a bill was passed in 1937 but was vetoed by the governor. A similar bill was passed in 1939. On July 20, 1939 applications for 40 districts were approved. Today there are 169 Soil Conservation Districts in the state, taking in all but five of the 254 counties.

When he steps down, Marshall will serve as field representative of the board, working mainly in connection with the small watershed program, until Jan. 1, 1956. Then he will retire to the family farm — the farm on which his father settled in 1848.

Looking ahead, he said, "We've been through the period of organization and education and we're in the production stage now. We should see a tremendous amount of conservation in the next few years."

He's looking to the day when Texas farm yields will be "two or three times" what they are now.

"We've got the know-how the organization. All we need now is the application," he said.

He and his wife have eight sons, five of whom are active in agricultural work.

Terry Well Will Try To Final In Clear Fork

Jake L. Hamon of Dallas and associates are to plug back for recompletion in the Clear Fork at No. 1 Atlas Life Insurance Company, discovery well of the Coroco (Devonian) field of West Terry County.

This project first was completed as a Clear Fork discovery to open the Coroco field and later completed as a Devonian discovery, with the Clear Fork zone being squeezed off.

Originally the well was finaled from the Clear Fork through perforations from 8,304 to 8,336 feet. At present there is no Clear Fork production in the pool. Hole will be plugged back to 9,272 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 93, blick D-11, C&M survey, 12 miles west of Brownfield.

Cactus Jack Prepares To Greet Butler

UVALDE, Tex., June 18 (AP)—John Nance Garner sheds his old khaki loafing breeches and dons a pin-stripe gray suit for a front porch reception here tomorrow.

He is getting into his political working clothes to lend a hand to National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler who is in Texas trying to build up Democratic solidarity and bring the state back into the Democratic fold in 1956.

Garner, who left Washington in bitter anger with the late Franklin D. Roosevelt 14 years ago, vowing to stay out of politics until he died, first broke the vow in 1952 to help Speaker Sam Rayburn keep Texas Democrats in line for Adlai Stevenson. They went down under the Dwight D. Eisenhower landslide.

Now, for the second time since he went into political retirement after two terms as vice president under Roosevelt, Garner volunteered to welcome Butler who will probably be asking some advice on how to corral Texas democrats.

Garner invited the public to meet Butler at his home.

"This is an opportunity for all Democrats to meet their chairman," the 86-year-old Garner said in extending the invitation.

Butler is touring the state seeking to bring "all Democrats" back into some semblance of unity in advance of the 1956 presidential campaign. The Democrats don't want to lose Texas again.

Texas jumped over the Democratic traces in 1952 for the second time in 100 years when they followed Gov. Allan Shivers into Eisenhower's camp. In 1928, Texans spurned Al Smith in favor of Herbert Hoover.

Garner has generally stayed out of the Texas Democratic rows except when he was host to Stevenson in 1952. He has retired from business, and spends most of his time puttering around his home, dressed in khakis and old shoes. The suit he will wear tomorrow, he says, is the "only one" he owns, and he admittedly doesn't like to wear it.

About two-fifths of U.S. hospital beds are occupied by mental patients and these do not include elleptics and subnormal patients.

Fleck, Hogan Set Open Title Playoff

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18 (AP)—Jack Fleck, a hollow-cheeked unknow from Davenport, Iowa, nailed a spectacular birdie on the final green today to tie four-time winner Ben Hogan for the National Open Golf Championship. They had 72-hole scores of 287.

The 32-year-old midwesterner, who has never won a major tournament, flashed in on a wave of birdies with a three-under-par 67 an hour after Hogan apparently had won the title.

The two leaders clash in an 18-hole playoff tomorrow.

On the 72nd hole, with a crowd of more than 10,000 straining for a peek from the natural amphitheater of the Olympic Club course and lining the fairways, Fleck poled his tee shot to the edge of the rough, then laced an iron approach to within seven feet of the pin.

While the crowd sat tense, Fleck walked up briskly, gave the assignment one quick measurement and then sped the ball home.

There were only a few straggling spectators—no more than 25—following Fleck at the 14th hole when Hogan, with the entire gallery yelping at his heels, finished with a 70—the only time he had matched par through the three-day test.

Then word went out that the lean, hungry-looking Iowan, who has won only $2,000-plus on the tour so far this year, was on a birdie binge.

The crowd stampeded out on the course to pick up the challenger at the 15th where he needed two birdies to tie Hogan and three to win—an apparently hopeless task on some of the most treacherous finishing holes in golf.

Fleck plucked up one quickly on the 144-yard 15th where he flew his tee shot to within nine feet and sank a deuce. He got his par five on the 603-yard 16th, longest on the course, and at the 17th a 50-foot putt lipped the cup. The crowd let out a loud groan.

Then came the final hole where Fleck whacked out of the rough, which killed the hopes of many of the sport's greatest stars, and made one of the most difficult pressure putts in this tournament's history.

The ball was flag-high to the right of the pin. It was partially side-hill.

Fleck started the day at 145 tied with Hogan, Julius Boros and young Walker Inman Jr., behind Tommy Bolt and amateur Harvie Ward.

The Iowan shot a 75 in the morning to fall off the pace as Hogan forged into the lead on a 72. But all other contenders soon folded, leaving the course first to Hogan and then to the unbelievable Mr. Fleck.

Sam Snead, still the runner-up, got a 70-74 to finish five strokes back of the two leaders at 292, tied with Tommy Bolt, the early leader, who faded to 75-73.

Julis Boros, the sphynx-like 1952 Open champion, and young Bob Rosburg of San Francisco were tied at 295 followed by amateur Harvie Ward Jr., Doug Ford and Bud Holscher, together at 296.

Hogan's golf rounds were almost forgotten in the late afternoon in the excitement over the darkest "dark horse" since Sam Parks came out of nowhere to win the Open at Oakmont, Pa., in 1935.

Ben, following the familiar formula of coldly playing the course and letting his foes beat themselves, never once cracked the par 70 of Olympic's 6,700-yard cypress jungle. Only Fleck didn't get scared.

Hogan's successive rounds were 72-73-72-70. He had only eight birdies for the four rounds.

For the first time Hogan didn't appear tired. He walked briskly despite his gimpy left knee and had a look of freshness and supreme confidence.

Tomorrow at 2 p.m. PDT 4 p.m. EST), he will go after his fifth championship, more than any other man has ever won. Willie Anderson captured four Opens back in the early 1900's and the great Bobby Jones put four together before retiring on his grand slam of 1930.

Rookie Righthander Handcuffs Orioles

BALTIMORE, June 18 — (AP) The Baltimore Orioles put only two men on base today with a double in the fifth and single in the ninth against Duane (Duke) Maas, 24-year-old rookie righthander, who was backed up with a lusty Detroit Tiger hitting attack for a 7-0 victory.

The little hurler from Utica, Mich., sent the Orioles down in order without a walk or error behind him except for the double by Gus Triandos and Chuck Diering's single. It was the fifth victory against three losses for Maas who pitched last year for Wilkes-Barre and Buffalo.

Outpost Is Staked To Sterling Field

Sunray Mid-Continent Oil Co. staked its No. 1 R. C. Bynum as a half-mile southeast outpost to the Jameson, Southwest (Strawn) field of Northeast Sterling County.

Five NCAA Marks Fall, S. Cal Wins

By JACK STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES, June 18 (AP)—Five NCAA meet record fell and one was tied as the University of Southern California came from behind today to capture the National Collegiate Track and Field Championships for the seventh straight year.

Competition was so keen that the winning Trojans trailed neighboring UCLA by a point until the final event—the pole vault, which continued long after the other events finished. However, few persons in the crowd of 14,005 left Memorial Coliseum. They cheered each time a vaulter cleared the bar.

USC's heavenly twins, vaulters Ron Morris and Walt Levack, came through to produce 10 points for the victory. They were in a four-way tie for second.

USC scored 42 points to win, UCLA collected 35 for second, Kansas won a surprise third with 30, Oregon had 29, Northwestern 20, Manhattan 18, Duke 16 and Penn State 14.

The final NCAA mark of the day fell when Don Bragg of Villanova cleared 15 feet 1 inch to erase the old NCAA record of 14-9 set by Don Laz, Illinois, in 1951.

Ernie Shelton of Southern California broke the meet high jump record as he cleared 6 feet 11⅛ inches without missing to that point. But he failed again in three tries to become the first man ever to clear seven feet.

Les Bitner of Kansas smashed the brittle javelin mark with a throw of 246 feet 1 inch and Tom Courtney of Fordham broke the 18-year-old half-mile record when he won in 1:49.5.

The old 880-yard standard of 1:50.3 was set in 1937 by John Woodruff of Pittsburgh and equalled in 1949 by Mal Whitfield of Ohio State. Today's second-place winner, Pete Gray of Michigan, also was under that at 1:50.1.

Finigan's Bat Leads Athletics To Victory

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Jim Finigan's booming bat practically beat the Washington Senators single-handed today as the Kansas City Athletics piled up a 9-4 victory.

Finigan blasted two triples and a double, batted in three runs and scored three runs.

Pirates Battered By Redlegs, 4-1

CINCINNATI, June 18 (AP)—Righthander Gerry Staley, showing good control, threw a five-hitter at the Pittsburgh Pirates today and the Cincinnati Redlegs battered the eighth-place club 4-1.

Staley walked only one man in going the route for the second time this season and gaining his fifth victory against four defeats.

Braves Whack Giants To Tie For Third

MILWAUKEE, June 18 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves pulled abreast of the third-place New York Giants today, slamming out 15 hits in a 7-4 victory which was their second straight over the world champions.

Each club now owns a 31-30 record in the uphill pursuit of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Antelope Hunts May Be Allowed In Fall

AUSTIN, June 18 (AP)—Antelope hunts may be allowed in both the Big Bend Country and Panhandle in the fall, the Texas Game Commission said today.

Wildlife restoration director E. A. Walker said census counts now underway indicate sufficient antelope may be present to warrant an open season. The commission, which has authority to regulate harvest conditions on the basis of on-the-spot developments ruled against a hunt last fall.

Improving weather conditions are the reason an antelope shoot is being contemplated. The final decision will not be made until the commission meets in July.

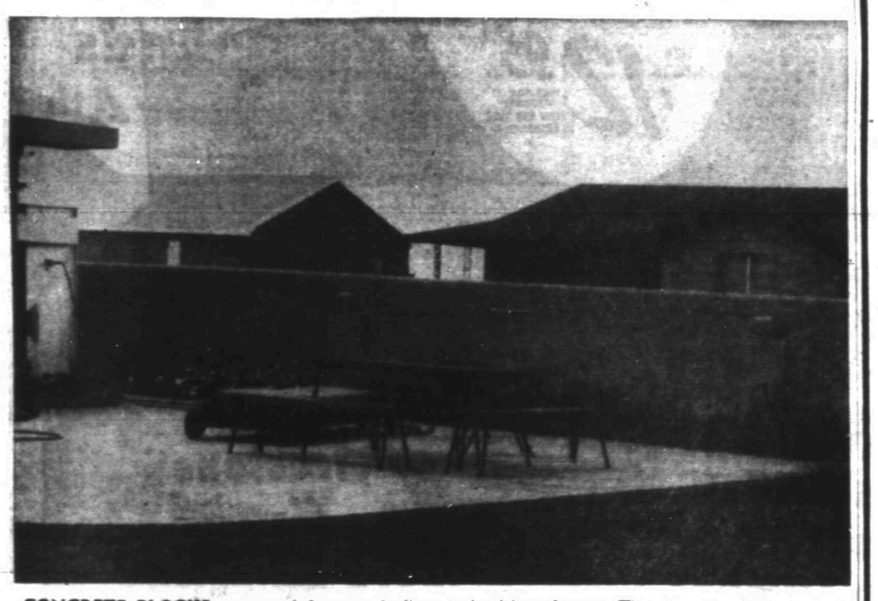
CHAIN LINK fences, ranking high in popularity among Snyder residents, are used when the builder wants the fence more for its long life than for privacy. Many have climbing roses or other vines growing on their chain link fences. This fence is at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Armstrong, 501 Twenty-ninth Street. (Lee Watson photographs)

BASKETWEAVE FENCES are among the most popular being built by Snyder residents. This is one made of redwood, which is now much in demand. It is shown around the back yard of Mr. and Mrs. Hood Parker, 2612 Thirty-sixth Street. Another popular fence almost like this is the box-in-shadow.



CONCRETE BLOCKS are used frequently here in building fences. This is among the several types used to provide privacy in the back yard. Some residents paint their concrete fences to match the color of their homes. This concrete fence and brick patio are in the back yard of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hughes, 3700 Austin.

Several Types Of Back Yard Fences Are Popular In Snyder

Construction of a back yard fence many times is costly, but Snyder residents appear to realize the many dividends fences pay at their homes, if the rate at which fences are being built is any indication.

Back yard fences have many uses. Some persons build them for privacy, some to keep children or dogs in their proper places, and some to beautify their homes. Of the three, beautification probably ranks as the main reason fences are being built by Snyder residents.

There are several types of popular fences here. Among the most popular are chain link fences and basketweave or box-and-shadow wood fences. There are many other kinds, but more of these are built than are others here.

Since this is cleanup week in Snyder, it probably should be mentioned here that yards, according to many of those who have back yard fences, are much easier to keep presentable if they are enclosed by fences. In this area, where tumbleweeds, trash, garbage cans, and various other things are blown far by winds, fences can help keep that sort of debris out of the yard.

According to estimates of several persons who deal in fences and fencing materials, the average fence built here is four to five feet high. It is built around a back yard which averages about 60 feet in width and 70 to 80 feet in depth. The concensus of opinion seems to be that it takes about 200 feet of fencing for the average back yard here. Estimated cost of paint for the average wood fence, according to Raymond Williams at Burton-Lingo Lumber Co. Paint used on fences varies in cost from a little more than $4 to about $6.

Several persons here have been building concrete fences using regular concrete blocks. R. C. Patton at Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co. said average height of concrete fences built here is about four and one-half feet on a flat lot. Many persons vary the height on sloping or terraced lots to make the top of the fence even. He estimated cost of building a concrete block fence at the average height at $1.40 or slightly more per running foot. Many persons, he said, paint their concrete fences to match the color trend of their houses. Cement paint will cover from 150 to 200 square feet per gallon, and a gallon costs from about $4.35 to $6.

Many residents save money in fencebuilding by working with their neighbors. Sealy said that while some neighbors have a little trouble agreeing upon the type fence to build, many work together building the same type fences and sharing in the expense of the middle fence. A resident who shares such expense with a neighbor on two sides saves about one-third the cost of his fence, while one sharing with a neighbor on one side will save about one-sixth. Sealy said he knows of at least two neighborhood fence-building projects which involved four residents in each case. Several three-neighbor projects have occurred here.

One thing new in fences which is done quite a bit in many cities but has not become very popular here, Sealy said, is the enclosure of the entire back yard with a chain link fence and then the enclosure of a patio or smaller portion of the yard with board fence about six feet high for privacy. Redwood or cyprus stockade is used extensively in many cities for such.

The varying types of fences have different lengths of usability. Average life of a chain link fence was estimated here at 25 years, while that of wood fences was said to be six to eight years. Some last longer, some not as long. A wood fence's life depends on how the owner takes care of it. Wood fences should be painted about as often as a house is painted, if not more often.

Rapidly gaining popularity as a fence material here is redwood. Redwood is becoming so popular throughout the country that it is now hard to get. Some lumbermen now have redwood in stock, while others have some on the way. Ford Kenner at Kenner Lumber Co. said his sources will not even take orders for redwood now.

Generally, redwood is said to be slightly more pensive in the grade used for fencing than is fir or yellow pine, the two types of wood more often used. The cost is little more, though, some lumbermen said. Kenner said some persons buy pine to build their fences and then stain it to make it look like redwood. A redwood fence, though, would cost about the same as one like that, he said, explaining that the cost of the pine and the stain would almost equal the cost of redwood.

G. B. Clark at Clark Lumber said demand has been great at his yard for redwood. He said there appears to be more basketweave fences being built here than any other type of wood fences. His customers, he said, are building most fences five to six feet high. Running next might be the box-and-shadow, which has one board on one side of the post, the next on the other side, etc. Cost of that type fence is about the same as cost of a basketweave fence.

Newt Morton at Forrest Builders Supply points out that there is still good demand for picket fencing here. Picket fencing is sold in varous heights from three to five feet in white, green, and red. Average price here for picket fencing in white is about 35 cents per foot, with red and green running slightly less. By the time gates and posts are figured into the cost, a person could build a picket fence for about 60 cents per foot, if he performed his own labor.

Walter Hales of Hales Lumber Co. said the average person here could build a wood fence in basketweave or box-and-shadow for $2 to $2.50 per foot, including paint and labor. Estimates are that a person could save about 25 cents per foot if he did his own work. It takes six to seven gallons of

West Coast Man Admits Theater Burglaries

LIMA, Ohio, June 18 (AP)—Police today said a 25-year-old west coast man has admitted five drive-in theater burglaries since May in Texas, Missouri and Tennessee.

Investigators said Kenneth G. Shilling of Everett, Wash., told them a Jackson, Tenn., burglary netted him and an accomplice $800 and a shotgun. Police charged him with carrying a concealed weapon—a .22 caliber revolver—and said Jackson police would come to question Shilling.

Police Chief Donald Miller said Shilling admitted these auto theater burglaries: Temple, Tex., $12 and cigarettes. Texarkana, Tex., two burglaries netting $20 and cigarettes.

Churchill's Pet Lion Slain Due To Illness

LONDON, June 18 (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's pet African lion, Rota, was destroyed today to save him from suffering further the infirmities of old age.

Sir Winston gave his permission reluctantly.

Rota was 17—old as lions go—and had been seriously ill for months.

Churchill had a deep affection for the lion, presented to him in 1943 as a symbol of his own lion-hearted efforts during World War II.

Rota sired about 60 cubs.

George Thomson, who gave Churchill the lion, said the lion would be stuffed and exhibited in the window of a Piccadilly taxidermist.

Wheat Referendum Scheduled Saturday

Preparations are now underway here for a referendum called for next Saturday, when wheat raisers will decide whether wheat marketing quotas will be in effect for 1956.

Voting for the referendum will be done from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. next Saturday. There will be three polling places open, one at the county Agriculture Stablization and Conservation office here, one at the Fluvanna Mercantile Co., and one at the school in Hermleigh.

Any farmer or person interested in a farm who will have 15 or more acres of wheat for harvest in 1956 will be eligible to vote in the referendum.

If the referendum carries by a 66 2-3 per cent majority, the price of wheat will be supported at 76 per cent of parity. That figure, however, can be changed at the discretion of the secretary of agriculture. Market quotas will be in effect and growers who exceed their farm acreage allotments will be subject to a marketing penalty of 45 per cent of parity on their excess wheat.

If more than one-third of the voters voted against the porposal, the support will be 50 per cent of parity. In either case, support will be available in the commercial wheat states only to those farmers who stay within their farm's wheat acreage allotment. Texas is a commercial wheat state. If the referendum does not carry, those farmers who exceed allotments will be eilgible to market their wheat penalty-free but will not be eligible for price support. The acreage allotments will be in effect for price support purposes even if marketing quotas are disapproved.

Henry Burchett, county ASC office manager, said the county ASC committee is urging all eligible farmers to vote. He estimated Scurry County will have 800 to 1,000 voters eligible.

Several such wheat referendums have been held during the past few years, and all have carried by strong national majorities except the one held last year, which barely passed.

Wheat allotments were sent out to farmers last week by the ASC office. The county has allotment of 12,937 acres for the coming season. Burchett said there was somewhere between 15,000 and 20,000 acres of wheat planted in the county last year, but much of that was for grazing and not for harvest. New grower allotment applications will be taken at the ASC office after the referendum is held. The naticnal acreage allotment for wheat is 55 million acres.

Ranges Still Need Moisture

Spring rains have given much help to this area, but rangeland here still needs more rain, according to Jake Hodges, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service.

Turf on much of the rangeland was rapidly disappearing prior to rains this spring. Ranges were becoming bare, and the soil surface was so compacted from trampling that runcff was high during the rains.

The rolling rangeland, which is made up of the more sloping land, naturally had the greatest runoff and stored less water. This type of rangeland site is already showing the need for more rain.

The bottomland sites, which received the runoff from the higher land, were in much better condition when the rains came. Because of the fact that a bigger volume of water concentrated on these sites, where the soil was in condition to store the moisture, the more lush growth of grass is found.

The better the condition of rangeland, the greater usually is the percentage of intake of water.

Early telescopic observers thought that dark areas on the plant Mars were water, but more recent data indicates that there are no large bodies of water on the planet.

Plans For Annual Rodeo Here Are Now Nearing Completion

What appears to be one of the biggest buildups to a rodeo here is progressing rapidly and with good response.

Already in progress is a bread growing event being pushed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. All citizens are being urged to raise beards, and later, those who wish will enter a beard contest will do so on the first day of the rodeo.

The Scurry County Rodeo will begin July 13 and last four nights.

Plans are now underway for the first day parade. Carl Herod has been appointed parade marshal, and he is now getting plans together for that event, which will start at 6 p.m. on July 13.

Herod said prizes, like last year, will be $100 for the best float, $65 for second, and $35 for third. The Scurry County Rodeo Association and Snyder Chamber of Commerce are jointly furnishing the prize money. A trophy will also be awarded for the best sheriff's posse in the parade. Herod said more sheriff's posses are being invited to participate this season and that response is good. He estimated that eight posses have already indicated they will participate.

Any organizations which wish to enter floats in the parade, Herod said, should call the Chamber of Commerce office to do so. It will be possible for floats to enter if they are at the parade gathering grounds in time, but arrangements can be made easier if there is advance notice as to the number of floats, the parade marshal said.

Herod said merchants are especially invited to enter floats cr anything commercial, but commercial entires will not be eligible for float prizes. Out-of-town judges will be used to pick winners in the parade.

The Optimist Club, Herod said, is now making plans for sale of bunting to promote the rodeo. Sales will start this week, and bunting will be put up in Snyder during the last part of this month.

The rodeo will feature local and area amateur cowboys who will work with stock furnished by Goat Mayo of Petrolia. Box seats for the rodeo are now on sale for $20 for the season by Mrs. J. N. Eicke, phone 3-4259. Planned in connection with the show will be specialty acts by the Serenaders, television entertainers from Lubbock. The five-night rodeo dance will be in the pavillion near the grounds west of town, with music furnished by the Troy Jordan orchestra of Odessa.

The Jaycees, who have set up a force of men to enforce Mayor Malven Stevenson's proclamation of beard growing season, which lasts until the rodeo starts, will begin to check residents this week. They will sell $1 shave permits to those who choose not to let their beards grow.

Numerous men in town are wooly now, participating in the affair. Many of them are doing so purely for partcipation, while others saw their chance to get out of shaving for awhile and joined the bandwagon. Steve Birdwell, president of the Jaycees, estimated that 50 or 60 men in town are growing beards. The beard growing activities are open to the public, and any persons, other than women, are eligible to raise beards and, if they wish, get into the contest. Prizes of $50 and $25 defense bonds will be awarded by the Jaycees for the most artistic beards in a judging event to be held sometime on the first day of the rodeo.

A count at the Jaycee meeting last week indicated that at least 15 from that club's membership are participating. A Jaycee who does not grow a beard must pay a $2.50 fine.

Starting July 1, those who do not have either a beard or a shave permit will be subject to a dunking in a horse trough to be set up on the square. Also, during the week of July 11, 16, all residents will be encouraged to wear some type of western attire, and those caught without something western will be subject to a 25 cent fine or dunking or both.

East Texas Looking To Hybrid Corn

By SAM WHITLOW
Texas Editor,
Farmer-Stockman Magazine
Written for The Associated Press

JASPER, Tex., June 18 (AP)—M. H. Durdin, a Jasper County farmer, believes hybrid corn will be an increasily important factor in the agricultural growth of East Texas.

"I've been growing corn for over 50 years, and since I started with the hybrid varieties in the 1940's, my average has ranged from about 40 to 60 bushels a year, with the exception of last year when the drought hit us hard," he said.

An average of 40 bushels is very high when compared with the 15-bushel average of East Texas about a decade ago. The hybrid came on the East Texas scene on a fairly large scale in the mid and late 1940's. Durdin estimates hybrid varieties make up about 90 percent of the Jasper County corn average now. Corn is the major row crop in the county.

Durdin always follows the latest recommendations of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in planting of hybrid varieties. Right now he is having best results with hybrids 32, 30 and 28.

"I always plant corn on land following a fertilized legume," he said. "I find hairy vetch very excellent as a soil builder, and fertilize it with about 300 pounds of 3-12-12 at planting time. The fertilized vetch makes fine growth and adds badly needed organic matter to the soil," he said.

He feeds some of his corn crop to his beef cattle and sells the rest in Jasper. Since he has had such good production results with corn, he has not been growing cotton.

Oil Industry, Long A Taxation Target, Staves Off Big Levies

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN, June 18 (AP)—The petroleum industry, a Texas taxation target six of the past seven years, staved off new levies which it considered most objectionable this year.

A one-cent-per-gallon increase in the state gasoline sales tax was approved by the 54th Legislature which adjourned last week, but no strong fight was waged by the oil and gas people against that particular tax.

It was a close squeak for long-line natural gas pipelines. The Senate passed a money-raising measure which would have included a so-called "token" tax of one-twentieth of a cent per 1,000 cubic feet of gas withdrawn from the ground. The levy, latest in a long series of attempts to tax the pipelines, would have been imposed on the privilege of taking natural gas under long-term contract.

Senate approval of a new tax on natural gas set off vigorous behind-the-scenes action by the industry lobby. When the House returned to work after a weekend recess, a motion was quickly made to reject the beer-gasoline-cigarettes-natural gas tax proposition.

The House endorsed the motion overwhelmingly. The bill went to a House-Senate Conference Committee. When the new version came out, the natural gas tax had been deleted. Also stricken was a provision which would have brought the pipelines under the state's intangible tax law.

Other legislative proposals which would have cost the industry but which were rejected were these:

1. To increase oil production taxes from 4.6 to 6 per cent of the wellhead value.

2. To freeze the present natural gas production tax at 8 per cent of the wellhead value. The House voted for this suggestion, but the Senate knocked it out. As a result, the rate will drop to 7 per cent a year from September as prescribed when the Legislature increased it from 5.72 to 9 per cent a year ago. It goes down to 8 per cent this coming September, but the 7 per cent rate one year later is supposed to be permanent.

3. To repeal the state gasoline retail sales tax and replace it with a levy of one cent per gallon on all gasoline refined in Texas. The proposal, hotly opposed by industry spokesmen who said it would place Texas refineries at a competitive disadvantage with those of other states, died in House committee. Attempts to put such a tax into the omnibus tax bill at a lower rate were rejected on the House floor.

An indirect tax plan also was warded off by the gas pipeline companies. This was the bill which proponents called a measure to prevent "economic waste" by empowering the Railroad Commission to determine what the field price of natural gas should be to prevent waste.

Opponents tagged the bill a "price fixing" device designed to break contracts made when natural gas was bringing a much poorer price than it attracts today.

The measure gained House committee approval but never reached floor debate. Similar bills have met defeat at almost every legislative session for more than a decade.

Negligible industry protests preceded passage of the extra penny tax on gasoline. Effective Sept. 6, the new state rate will be five cents per gallon. The added penny will bring an estimated 8 million dollars a year to the state's available school fund and give the highway department 21 million dollars per year more for road improvement purposes

Prospector In Ector Testing

Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Co. and Eastland Oil Co. are now preparing to test the Devonian in their No. 1-B-1 J. Lee Johnson, multi-pay prospect in Central Ector Co ty, nine miles northwest of Odessa.

The Devonian testing is to be undertaken through perforations at 10,157-210 feet The zone to be investigated flowed oil on a drill-stem test.

The project has completed testing on the Connell sand pay at 12,212-237 feet. On last gauge reported from that formation 10 hours of swabbing recovered 55 barrels of new oil and no water.

That production developed after the perforated zone had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and fractured with 3,000 gallons of sand oil. All of the load and residue from the stimulators, had been recovered before the 10-hour test was run.

This wildcat also has shown possibilities of discovery production in the Pennsylvanian and in the Fusselman. The Ellenburger had slight shows of oil and gas and some water.

The wellsite is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 37, block 44, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Midland county picked up four rigs for a 29 total to fall only three short of the county's 1955 high.

The Reed survey revealed activity increases in the following counties, with two latest counts: Andrews 86-80, Crockett 6-4, Culberson 2-1, Dawson 7-5, Gaines 34-30, Glasscock 4-3, Kent 4-3, Midland 29-25, Mitchell 13-9, Nolan (west side), 19-18, Reagan 16-15, Pecos 13-11, Reeves 4-3, Scurry 19-14, Tom Green 12-10, and Yoakum 16-15.

Devonian Prospector In Terry County Flows

First production gauge has been reported from The Texas Co. No. 1 Spradling, important Devonian prospect in West Terry County, four miles southwest of Gomez.

The wildcat flowed 62.75 barrels of oil, cut four per cent water, natural, through casing perforations from 12,755 to 12,760 feet in eight hours. During the last hour of the eight, the well made six barrels of oil, cut one per cent water and 12 per cent basic sediment.

Operato n swab Friday in an attempt to increase flow rate and was swabbing on last report.

This wildcat is 660 feet from north and lines of section 115, block D-11, C&M survey.

Closest Devonian production is in the Coroco fieldfour miles to the northwest.

Ector Wildcat Plans To Test Shows Of Oil

Carlton Beal and Associates of Midland are preparing to test shows of oil in the San Andres at their No. 1-21 Phillis-TXL, Southeast Ector County wildcat, nine miles southwest of Odessa.

This project encountered shows of production in cores between 4,300 feet and 4,482 feet. It bottomed at 4,517 feet and set and cemented 5½-inch casing at that point.

Operators are now preparing to perforate and test at 4,481-4,513 feet.

The location is 1,994.2 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 21, block 43, T-3-S, T&P survey. It is two miles south of the southwest side of the South Cowden (San Andres) field.

Potential was based on a 10-hour flow of 494.3 barrels of oil through a three quarters-inch choke and from open hole at 7,675-7,785 feet after 30,000 gallons of fracture solution.

Location is 29 miles northwest of Big Lake, 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 3, block C, L&SV survey.

Although Italy's annual birth rate was 32 per 1,000 population in 1901, it is only 18 now.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VOL. 6, No. 43 | SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JUNE 19, 1955 | SECTION B

There seems to be some disagreement over what their Father's Day gift should be between the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Bagwell. Chuck, 4, likes the idea of giving dad a travel kit, but Debbie, 2, thinks he would like a teddy bear or red fire engine better.

ith a sly thought of the future when they might inherit neir father's chore of mowing the lawn, Larry, right, and Barry Hoefer, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Hoefer, 3723 Avenue V, look at a power lawn mower as a possible gift for their father for Father's Day. (Lee Watson photographs)

Fathers Get Gifts Today

Patricia Hass, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hass, 506½ Twenty-eighth Street, is shown above selecting a pink sport shirt with charcoal trim for her father's gift for today. From the expression on her face, it can be seen that she enjoys selecting the gift as much as he will enjoy receiving it.

Billie Fawn Sartain, 16-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sartain, of Jayton, is shown selecting a baseball and glove for her Father's Day gift to her father. He plays with Spur men's league ball team. Mrs. Sartain, shown helping make the gift selection in a Snyder store, said that her family does most all of their shopping in Snyder.

MRS. EDWIN KERLEY

Double-Ring Rites Unite Janeene Smith, Mr. Kerley

Before an arch of greenery entwined with white stock and candelabra with burning yellow tapers, Janeene Smith and Edwin Kerley were united in marriage at 8 o'clock last night in the Thirty-seventh Street Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smith, 2507 Thirtieth Street. Mr. Kerley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kerley, route 1.

Church decorations included floor baskets of white galdioli and yellow roses. Yellow tapers were burning down the aisle and family pews were marked with white galdioli.

Berwyn Tate, a cousin of the bride and minister of the Apache, Okla., Church of Christ, read the double-ring ceremony. Billy Wayne Kerley, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Jackie Ray Hunnicutt, Jerry Thomas, Lawton Taylor, Twain Mickler of Stamford and Jerry Smith, a cousin of the bride, were groomsmen.

Jane Dewald was maid of honor. She wore a street-length dress of deep turquoise acetate silk with a scoop neckline and shirred sleeves. The long torso fitted bodice was fashioned with points which fell into a full skirt.

Bridesmaids were Mary Alice Richardson, Sammie Rader, Judy Miller, Sandra Cooper and Jo Ann Miller, cousin of the bride. Their turquoise dresses were identical to that of the maid of honor, and were complemented by matching picture hats, white satin pumps and short white gloves. Each carried a single yellow rose.

Dianne Kerley, sister of the bridegroom, and Lynda Smith, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles. They wore dresses fashioned like those of the other feminine attendants. Flower girls were Andra Logan, cousin of the bride, and Jo Etta Boyles, cousin of the bridegroom.

They wore white organdy dresses trimmed with lace and carried white baskets trimmed with yellow net.

"Because" and "I Love Thee" recorded by the Abilene Christian College a capella chorus were played, as well as other traditional wedding music recorded by the choir.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was an original model of imported Chantilly lace over satin. The yoke was formed of lace, worked into small petal effects. The full-length sleeves formed points on the hands. Tiny covered buttons extended down the back of the tightly molded bodice into a V-shaped waistline marked by a narrow-hand-rolled satin cord. The sweeping lace skirt fell into a short, fan-shaped train. Her veil of French silk imported illusion extended in tiers to waist length, and was attached to a small satin and tulle crown trimmed with pearls.

The bride carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with a yellow-throated white orchid on a white lace covered Bible. This Bible has been carried by four of her friends in their weddings. For something old the bride carried a silk and lace handkerchief which was a gift to her grandmother, Mrs. A. J. Logan, in 1917.

Mrs. Smith's dress was an original model of pure silk taffeta in Wedgewood blue, the portrait neckline adorned with embroidery of irridescent beads. The fitted bodice had a tiny cord at the waistline, joining a straight skirt with immense fullness at the back. Her accessories were white and her corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Kerley's dress was of beige linen and lace, the bodice of lace and the skirt alternating bands of linen and lace over the hipline falling into a full circle of linen. She wore brown accessories nad a corsage of pink roses.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. The table was covered with an ivory linen cutwork cloth. Rope of white stock entwined the crystal candelabra which held burning yellow tapers. The rope extended to the ends of the table. The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a bouquet of yellow roses and lily of the valley, was served by Mrs. Ray Herring. Miss Kerley and Lynda Smith served punch, and Mrs. Ford Spikes registered guests.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride wore a gray linen suit with a boxy coat and pencil-slim skirt. Her accessories were gray and white, and her corsage was the white orchid from her bouquet. Following the wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Odessa for the summer. They plan to attend Abilene Christian College in the fall.

The bride was graduated from Snyder High School and has attended North Texas State College during the past school year. The bridegroom was graduated from Ira High School and is employed by Chemical Process Company in Odessa.

Out-of-town guests included Clarice Smith, Sandra Bourland and Ann Lewis, all of Abilene, college classmates of the bride.

* * *

The rehearsal dinner was given Friday night on the lawn of the Smith home. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were assisted by Mrs. Wayne Smith. The table was covered with a brown and white cloth, and held a centerpiece of white daisies.

A breakfast honoring the bride and her attendants was given Saturday morning by Jane DeWald and Jo Ann Miller at Mary Lynn's Tea Room. Place cards were small bride's books. The tables were covered with white cloths, and bud vases on the tables held yellow roses.

Faulkner Likes Work On Scripts

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie writing career of William Faulkner was disclosed today in a rare interview with the Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winner.

Writing for the movies is a little known aspect of the career of the noted author, yet he has been working off and on in the Hollywood mills for more than 25 years. He talked about this and other matters via telephone from Memphis, Tenn., where he was attending a preview of "Land of the Pharaohs." He was one of the writers of the screen play.

Speaking in soft, Southern-shaded tones, Faulkner said he enjoyed writing films for his long-time friend, producer-director Howard Hawks. Besides "Pharaohs," he has helped Hawks on the scripts of a couple of early Bogart-Bacall items, "To Have and Have Not" and "The Big Sleep."

"We first met when I was out here in 1930 at MGM," Faulkner said. "I was working for Irving Thalberg on a short story of mine, 'Turnabout.' It was released as 'Today We Live' with Gary Cooper, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone.

"I like working for Hawks. Writing for pictures is not exactly my racket, but I get along with him. We usually go over a scene and he says, 'This is the way to get the meat out of a scene.' Then I go and write it.

"When I show it to him, we might argue a bit until we get it right. No, I don't work with any other writers. Hawks will combine the efforts of myself and others to get what he wants."

About screen writing: "It's not exactly what I framed for myself. I know my limitations. I hope to do some more screen writing. I get a lot of satisfaction from it."

Are films a writer's medium?

"Anything that tells a story is a writer's medium. Some stories are told best in movies, some in short stories, novels or plays. You have to pick whatever medium is most suitable."

He said he is not working on any literary project at present. Is he thinking about one?

"No writer is ever free of that curse," he said rather wearily.

The bride's chosen colors, pink and white, were featured in church decorations. the altar was banked in greenery, with candles on either end and a tall basket of Marconi daisies in the center. Twin candelabra holding white candles complemented the daisies.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of diamond white nylon net and tulle over taffeta. The strapless bodice of tulle over taffeta had a sweetheart neckline outlined with tiny medallions of lace and seed pearls. A brief jacket covered her shoulders. The fingertip-length veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls. Her bouquet of Frenched carnations and a white orchid was carried on a white Bible. This Bible belongs to the Kappa Phi social club at McMurry College, and is traditionally carried by members of the club at their weddings. Her jewelry, a string of pearls, was a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Robert D. Harris of LeFors, Tex., a sister of the bride, attended her as matron of honor. She wore a waltz-length gown of moonstone blue Capri silk. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of asters. Mrs. H. L. Kjeldgaard of El Dorado, Ark., and Mrs. L. V. Nelson of Little Rock, Ark., sisters of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Their dresses were identical to those of the matron of honor. Others in the houseparty were Mrs. Harvey Rivers, Mrs. James Strong, Mrs Austin Jordan, Mrs. P. G. Dabney and Mrs. Jack Blanchard of Snyder, a sister of the bride.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Snyder, Midland, Abilene, San Angelo, Bronte, Sterling City, Lubbock, Denver City, El Dorado and Little Rock.

Here's a delicious Chinese-style soup. Slice canned water chestnuts thin; add them to chicken broth with sprigs of water cress when you are heating the soup just before serving. The stems should be left on the water cress and it should be wilted, not cooked. A clove or two of garlic (cut in half) should be added with the vegetables, too, then removed before serving.

MR. AND MRS. FREDDIE EVERTON

Strickland-Everton Rites Are Read Here Thursday

Jo Ann Strickland, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ussery, 321 Thirty-fifth Street, became the bride of Freddie Everton in a double-ring wedding ceremony read at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Avery Timmons, pastor of the Avenue D Baptist Church, performed the ceremony.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Everton of Hamlin

The wedding party stood before an archway formed of candelabra flanked by twin baskets of white gladioli. Satin ribbon bows marked the family pews. Mrs. A. C. Preuitt was organist, and accompanied Wanda Powledge as she sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love Thee."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of net and lace over satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with brief sleeves and a tiny collar, and extended into a V-shaped point in the center front. The bouffant skirt was made of four tiers of net. Long mitts came to points over the hands. The bridal veil, fingertip length, fell from a crown trimmed with pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath.

Mary Nell Strickland was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a frock of orchid net over taffeta with a small cap of matching net. Her accessories were pink and her bouquet of pink gladioli.

Bridesmaids were Joyce and Loyce Strickland, twin sisters of the bride, Mamie Lou Burditt, Faye Beidelman, Jo Ann White and Molly Gilliam. They wore pink dresses of net and dotted swiss over taffeta identical to that of the maid of honor, with accessories of orchid and bouquets of orchid gladioli.

Janice Kay Williamson was flower girl. Her dress, made like that of the other attendants, was of yellow dotted swiss. Max Dawyne Moreland was ring bearer. Candles were lighted by Dawson Moreland and Kelton Prather.

Bill Everton of Hamlin, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were E. H. Williamson, J. C. Williamson and C. L. Williamson.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Williamson, at 300 Thirty-third Street following the wedding. The bouquets of the bride and her attendants were used as a centerpiece for the refreshment table, and baskets of flowers decorated the house. Mrs. H. D. Meeland served the three-tiered wedding cake and Mrs. J. C. Williamson served punch. Pauline Strickland was at the guest register.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip to New Mexico the bride wore a dress of blue nylon with white accessories. They will be at home at 2108 Twenty-sixth Street upon their return.

The bride has attended Snyder High School, where she will be a senior student next fall. The bridegroom was graduated from Hamlin High School and is employed by Universal Construction Company.

Burglar Finds His Profits Are Small

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A 37-year-old burglar, arrested with three younger pals, complained that he had shown only a $3 profit since moving to Dallas for a life of crime.

"I quit selling hot sugar ration stamps in 1946 with $48,000 cash profit," said the ex-Army mess sergeant. He said a bad heart kept him from going straight but that stealing hadn't been profitable.

His wife left him, he said, and he came to Dallas with $54.

He had $57 when police searched him.

Alpha Study Club's Tour Of Homes Scheduled Today

Five Snyder homes representing architectural trends from contemporary to traditional will be open to the public this afternoon on a tour sponsored by the Alpha Study Club.

The tour is the first of a series of club projects in support of its candidate for Rodeo Queen, Carol Sue Clark, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Clark, Jr. Her duchess is Lesa Bowden, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bowden. They will be introduced to visitors on the tour.

Persons who wish to make the tour, which begins at 2:30 and ends at 5 o'clock, may purchase tickets at homes included on the tour. Visitors are requested to follow the suggested tourings on the tickets to avoid congestion. Club members will act as hostesses to show visitors through each home. Yard markers will help tour visitors locate homes included.

Among the homes to be on display will be that of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Boren at 2701 Thirty-second Street. The house is of Williamsburg architecture, the interior a blend of traditional, provincial and Early American.

Featured at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Joyce on Westridge Drive will be the den with its large fireplace, a pegged, random-width oak floor, and a north wall of glass which opens onto a flagstone terrace. Further west on the drive is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Key. An example of the special planning here is the suite of rooms for the sons of the family, located over the garage with privacy and space for many activities and hobbies.

The use of a variety of wood paneling has created an interesting setting for a combination of family pieces and newly acquired furnishings in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Casey at 3500 Austin. The front entranceway features an attractive indoor recessed planter:

Overlooking Towle Memorial Park is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Prentis Bass on Bassridge Drive. Contrast in texture in materials and the use of color point up features of its modern planning.

Marilyn Kay Davis Observes Birthday

Marilyn Kay Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Davis, Jr., celebrated her third birthday at a party given Friday morning in Towle Memorial Park.

The birthday cake was rounded and topped by a doll figure, giving the effect of a doll in a full-skirted dress. Following a picnic lunch the children were served cupcakes with candy suckers representing a candle in each. Favors were books.

Guests for the party were Kat and Bobo Boren, Pam and Debb Watson, Janice and Dale Rhode Marsha McGlaun, Lee and Tedd McNair, Sandra and Karen Brigg Marilyn and Michael Marrs an Jackie, Khaki, Ginger, Patty and Scotty Homesley, all cousins of Marilyn Kay from Dallas, and her brothers, Tom and Dan. Assisting Mrs. Davis were Mrs. Bob Boren, Mrs. Coy Rhodes, Mrs. Mayo Marrs, Mrs. J. W. Briggs, Mrs. Wacil McNair, Mrs. Jack McGlaun, Mrs. Bill Watson and Mrs. Jack Homesley.

When you bring fresh strawberries home from the market, dump them out of their containers into a flat container where each berry will have plenty of room. Cover with waxed paper and place in the refrigerator. Do not wash or hull the berries until you are ready to use them. Don't slice and sugar them, either, until shortly before using.

Star Urges Wives To Take Up Golf

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Woman's Editor

Advice to golf widows: Don't sit at home and think up cutting remarks to make to your par-happy husband. Instead, get a set of clubs and go out on the links yourself.

This is the advice of Betty Jameson, one of America's ranking women pros, twice winner of the National Amateur Golf Tournament and once winner of the National Open.

Though she is not married, Betty has observed the eternal war waged between golfing husbands and nongolfing wives. She thinks the whole thing could be cleared up if the little women would discover for themselves the fascination of the fairways. She has, however, a word of warning:

"Never let your husband teach you to play golf, any more than you'd let him teach you to drive a car or play bridge. It just doesn't work. Sign up for lessons with a regular pro, and learn the game right."

More women are playing golf today than ever before, says Betty, and once they are exposed to the game they usually become more rabid on the subject than their husbands. She estimates a million of the country's four million golfers are women—and their number is growing every day.

Betty is a natural-born golfer from San Antonio, Tex., who gained numerous amateur records before turning pro and hitting the tournament circuit. She was working as a reporter on the San Antonio Light when she was offered a pro job and has made all the women's pro tournaments for the last three years.

Blend three tablespoons of honey with a couple of tablespoons of sifted confectioners' sugar and a tablespoon of butter or margarine. Dribble this mixture over hot biscuits when they come from the oven. Looks good, tastes good!

Texan Planning For Another Train Ride

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Manuel Ramirez is again planning a train trip to his Laredo, Tex., home—this time the easy way.

Ramirez, 28, lost his job in Chicago last week and climbed in a refrigerated boxcar hoping it would carry him to Texas. The car was sealed and Ramirez arrived instead in Philadelphia five days later, having gone without food or water all the while.

Yesterday, Joseph T. Roddy, an engineering firm executive, told the penniless Ramirez, who is still recuperating in a hospital, that he would pay his fare.

"It will be nice to go home riding in a passenger train," Ramirez said.

Teacher Of Actors Plans To Retire After 46 Years

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON, June 18 (AP)—"Really, darling," said a slinky young woman in skin-tight slacks, "I always say that to appreciate Shakespeare truly, you must read him with your shoes off."

"How perfectly divine," said another slinky young woman in skin-tight slacks. "Of course one must."

Sir Kenneth Barnes, the 77-year-old principal of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts peered over his glasses at the two lithe figures twinkling down the corridor of what he calls the world's greatest theatrical school.

"Ah," he said with a nostalgic sigh, "when I came here 46 years ago, young ladies talked just like that. They didn't wear slacks, but they said the most outrageous things."

After all these years and all those actresses and actors Sir Kenneth is finally giving up. He's going to retire in August, to be succeeded by California-born John Farnald, 40.

He leaves a long and impressive list of former students, which includes Vivien Leigh, Charles Laughton, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Kay Hammond, Dorothy Tutin, Robert Morley and Sir John Gielgud.

The profession is already overcrowded. London alone has over 1,000 actors and actresses out of work. Yet, year after year, hundreds of recruits come to RADA wanting to act.

"It's always been that way," said Sir Kenneth, a large, lumbering, kindly man. "I'm sure the profession was overcrowded 3,000 years ago and 3,000 years from now it will be overcrowded."

Asked why so many young people want to act, he thought for a moment.

"I always ask them that same question," he replied, touching a large leather-bound book, "and I keep their answers in here."

The most common reason:

"I acted when I was in school. People told me I had talent." His finger ran down the list.

"Another common one — frustrated mothers. Mother wanted to be an actress, but she got married instead. So—she wants to see her daughter become the actress she wanted to be."

He stopped at one name.

"Now this young woman—she said she wanted to become an actress because her boy friend had left her. It gave her such a shock she couldn't bear to carry on through life as herself. She had to be someone else."

RADA was founded by famed actor-manager Sir Herbert Tree in 1904. Its success was not instantaneous.

"I've got one of your young men in my company," a theatrical manager once told Tree.

"You're lucky," said Tree. "I've got two of them in mine."

Sir Kenneth joined RADA in 1909. He had two ambitions:

To get a royal charter and to have acting accepted as a fine art.

The charter has been granted and Sir Kenneth feels the second wish also has been fulfilled.

After 46 years, Sir Kenneth is convinced no nation has a monopoly on acting.

Americans, despite their accents make good actors.

"When Americans come to us as students," he said, "we ask them if they want British or American accent. Nearly all of them reply—'Give me a British accent.'"

He said some Americans, however, insist that their accents remain unchanged.

"In those cases," he added, "unless their accents are strictly 'naa, naa, naa,' right through their noses, we let them be."

Sir Kenneth touched his nose.

"An American once said that an untruth never passed the lips of George Washington. That's probably perfectly true, for George Washington probably said everything he had to say right through his nose."

He held up his hand.

"I hope I'm not offending anyone. I like Americans. About 20 a year come to us. But some of them do bleat through their proboscises."

Asked what advice he has for young people who want to act, he replied:

"Discover sincerely if they have any talent for it. If they haven't, then forget the stage. If they have talent, then by all means pursue the urge."

He made it plain he was speaking as a teacher.

"You see," he said, "I've never been an actor."

BILL BAKER, here putting an extra leaf in the modern dining table, tells how you can add this major furniture item to your home. It's an easy-to-build do-it-yourself project.

DINING TABLE PRACTICAL DO-IT-YOURSELF PROJECT

By BILL BAKER

When the dinner bell rings tonight, and you settle down for a good meal, will you be seated at a table that you're really happy with? Or will you have the feeling that the table isn't big enough or sturdy enough or new enough to fill your family's needs?

If your dining table has been in need of replacement, why not build one for yourself? The reason for your delay in making a change is probably due to the fact that your "ideal" table would cost too much —so this do-it-yourself idea should solve that problem.

My modern dining table — the full story is in my pattern package number 127 — is really very easy to build. You may find it hard to believe that major piece of furniture can be built in the home workshop, but it can if you approach the problem correctly. And the right way to approach the project is with my pattern.

When you receive the dining table pattern package the first thing you will do is carefully study the easy-to-read instruction page. This wil give you a good idea of the project that is ahead for you.

Next you'll take the complete material list to your lumberyard. Carefully worked out to eliminate all waste, the material list tells you exactly what you'll need for the job — from the 3 foot by 8 foot sheet of three-quarter inch plywood (to be used for the top, including leaf), right down to a three-eighths-inch dowl that is 6 inches long (which you'll use for stops).

Exact-size paper pattern pieces, much on the order of women's dress patterns but made of heavy weight paper, are included in the package. These, duplicating each section of the table, are tacked to the wood and traced. Cutting is made simply by this method, and you are also assured of an accurate fit.

The extended table, when finished, measures 8 feet long — so you can see that it will hold a good gang. With the leaf out the table drops down to a compact 5 feet.

I used metal legs on my table. Standard 28 inch hairpin legs were used. These can be obtained in your lumberyard or the dealer can tell you where to find them.

If you would rather use wooden frame legs, full details on how to build them are included in your pattern package.

Your "ideal" dining table will be a step closer to your home when you make up your mind to put the "do" in this easy-to-build do-it-yourself project.

Your dining table pattern package will be on the way to you when you send your name and address (clearly printed), together with only one dollar ($1) in check, cash or money order, to Bill Baker, Snyder Daily News, P. O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, 53 California. Be sure to ask for pattern number 127.

Cashword Prize To Be Increased Again

Cashword takes another jump tomorrow after repelling some 5,700 challenges last week.

Here's the explanation of some of the more difficult clues in last week's puzzle:

CLUES ACROSS:

2. There is a job here of some kind so the answer must tie in with it. Only Dry suits. The little girl could be helping to Dry the dishes. Fry is too remote and for a little girl particularly. Pry and Cry do not point to any job.

6. Lot is best. Certainly a good pupil wouldn't leave a Lot out but it is too much to expect even the best pupil not to leave a Dot out on occasion.

9. The suggestion is that the star tries to do so, favoring Live. A good actor tries to Live the part, but will not be infulenced by the fact that he does not Like it.

11. The "mealtime" setting favors Plates. Children can be a nuisance by repeatedly changing Places at all sorts of times but Plates would have to be at mealtime.

15. Say is more direct. In court, it is what they Say that counts, regardless of what they Saw. They may lie, or be vague, about what they Saw

19. Aviary fits the clue best because the clue picks out the "very nervous" person. Many people, even with excellent nerves, wouldn't care to venture into an Apiary. Only a very nervous person would refuse to go into an Aviary which usually contains harmless birds.

20. Rule is more apt. The implication is that there is only one permissible interpretation (the correct one). This is true of a Rule, but two stage players may interpret a Role brilliantly, but very differently — and it may well be hard to say that they aren't both right.

21. The key phrase is "if they're put up" — Racks are "put up" whereas Ricks are built with the material in hand.

23. Nine is preferred. You'd be much more than "a little taken aback" if nobody at all turned up. Three extra guests would be a little surprising, but not all that astounding since such things do happen.

26. Set best fits the clue grammatically. Only people can provide company. Many men enjoy the company of their own set (clique of people), or persons of their own Sex.

CLUES DOWN:

1. Told is the more probable answer. Every mother knows from experience that she, all too often, cannot expect them to come in when they are Cold, but she certainly expects them to come in when they are Told.

4. Fakes may look better since the faking may be less evident. Cakes look much the same close up and it is by taste rather than by inspection that one decides how good they are. Lakes is too general.

5. Bet is preferred since the winning margin of a Set must be at least two games. The singular "game" is more apt, for Bet. Furthermore, for Bet to qualify you need not be playing yourself and the clue does not stipulate that you are.

8. Boer is best. A Boar is commonly a domestic animal and one running loose would probably cause a certain amount of commotion. A Bear running loose would cause a real panic, not just a certain amount of commotion.

12. Lady is preferred. A Lazy person will like to be waited on. A Lady may like to be waited on, or may even be quite willing to wait on others.

13. Sailing is best. "Havoc" is always played with something plural or extensive, so that one single Sapling is not apt. Sailing, a broader term, is correct and a better answer.

17 Racket is best. A man chooses a tennis Racket to suit himself but he will often have a Jacket to please his wife or his social obligations.

Opinions Handed Down On Cases From Texas

NEW ORLEANS, June 18 (AP)—The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals has handed down the following opinions:

Clarice Ann Lane and Rusty Ann Lane, a minor vs Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Co. of Texas. Appeal from Southern District of Texas. Affirmed.

Strickland Transportation Co., Inc., vs United States of America. Appeal from Northern District of Texas. Affirmed.

Jesus M. Olvera vs United States of America. Appeal from Southern District of Texas. Reversed and remanded with directions to enter a judgment of acquittal.

TEEN TALK

By GERRY LYN HUGHES

Monday night a group of kids got together in the park and had an ice cream party. They ate ice cream, cake, and cookies. Indian Tribe To Get Full Independence

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—An Indian tribal group in Texas will be given full independence from federal supervision July 1—the first such action since 1909.

A proclamation signed by Secretary of Interior McKay will remove the affiliated Alabama and Coushatta tribes of Polk County, Tex., from the scope of all federal laws specially applicable to Indians.

Acting Secretary of Interior Clarence A. Davis explained today that McKay signed the proclamation, before leaving on a trip to Europe, under terms of a law signed by President Eisenhower last August.

Under that law, trusteeship responsibilities for about 3,100 acres of timbered tribal land are being transferred to the State of Texas with approval of Gov. Allan Shivers and the Texas Legislature.

Indian Comissioner Glenn L. Emmons said considerably more time is involved in terminating federal jurisdiction over Indians covered by five other readjustment laws passed by Congress last year.

"The mixed blood people of the Untah-Ouray reservation in Utah were given seven years for completion of the readjustment process," he noted, "the Menominees of Wisconsin and the Klamaths of Oregon approximately four; the Western Oregon Indians and the Paiute bands of Utah two."
