Explosions Studied in Mississippi

By United Press International
Authorities continued an investigation today into three mysterious explosions in southwest Mississippi. Elsewhere over the South, calmness reigned and school integration resumed without a hitch.

Civil rights workers said the explosions involved property owned by Negroes but apparently had nothing to do with school integration.

The FBI joined in the investigation to see if there were any violations of federal law. There were no injuries and damages were relatively minor to a grocery at Summit, a barbecue pit at Magnolia and at the home of a brickmason who lives at Summit.

Integration of the only public school at Tuskegee, Ala., went off Monday without any signs of violence when 14 Negroes attended high school classes with 59 whites.

Last year, in the original desegregation action of Tuskegee schools, state troopers under the orders of Gov. George Wallace ringed the school and kept out 13 Negroes who had been ordered admitted.

When the Negroes were finally admitted, whites staged such a complete boycott that state school officials ordered the school closed.

Elsewhere:
Flint, Mich.: Fifty police officers succeeded early today in breaking up a gang of 300 Negro youths after the windshield of a police cruiser was broken by a rock. No injuries were reported. Six of the youths, all juveniles, were arrested, but were later turned over to their parents. Police were unable to give a reason for the sudden disturbance which erupted last night.

Detroit: A roving band of about 80 Negro youths beat and stabbed four white boys in two separate incidents Monday night near the Michigan State Fair Grounds. The injured boys, all of whom required treatment, said they could give no reason for the attack by the gang. Four Negro youths were arrested and were being held today for investigation of felonious assault.

Farmville, Va.: Prince Edward County reopens its public schools today with token integration after a five year lapse and 13 years of legal maneuvering.

Montgomery, Ala.: Eight Negro students were scheduled to enter three desegregated schools here today to bring to seven the number of school systems desegregated in Alabama.

BUSY CONGRESSMAN — Walter Rogers, 18th District congressman, was home in the Panhandle over the Labor Day weekend for a series of speaking engagements. Rogers arrived in the Panhandle Saturday after addressing New Mexico retailers on "vital issues of maintaining proper representation in state legislatures." The lawmaker will leave for Washington early tomorrow morning following a meeting tonight with the Hutchinson County Democratic Party, honoring him for his work in the Canadian River project.

Rogers Denies Offer Of Radio Group Post

Congressman Walter Rogers has denied rumors today that he has been offered the job as head of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Rogers, speaking from his Pampa office, said, "I have not been offered the position either officially or unofficially."

Price Encouraged About Campaign

Bob Price, Republican congressional candidate, told an audience in Laketon yesterday that "things look good for a victory in November."

Price said:
"The people of this district are very disturbed by the Johnson - Humphrey program of socialism. I have encountered shock and disbelief over my opponent's endorsement of this team and their platform."

Price declared that "people are expressing the opinion that we must make a clean sweep and elect Barry Goldwater President with a Republican Congress to repudiate this Democratic program of socialism."

Following the Laketon meeting, Price attended the old settlers' reunion at Mobeetie. He also visited Briscoe, Allison and Gem.

Last night he attended the Panhandle Feeders' Association meeting in Canadian.

The GOP candidate spoke at Lions Club luncheon meeting in Clarendon this noon. He will address the Conservative Club in Groom tonight.

Hurricane Dora Churning Near To U.S. Coast

130-Mile-an-Hour 'Monster'

Threatens Cape Kennedy Base

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Dora, a 130-mile-an-hour monster described as the season's worst, was hoisted today for 225 miles along the coasts of Florida and Georgia — including the nation's missile test center at Cape Kennedy — for Hurricane Dora, a 130-mile-an-hour monster described as the season's worst.

Residents in low-lying areas "where access roads would be flooded" were urged to move to higher ground.

Emergency crews were alerted at Cape Kennedy and workmen began securing loose equipment at the space center which was brushed last month by Hurricane Cleo but escaped major damage.

The Miami Weather Bureau this morning urged residents in the hurricane warning and watch areas — from Stuart to Myrtle Beach — to begin precautions for the protection of life and property.

130 Mile Winds
"Dora is a large and severe hurricane with highest winds estimated near 130 m.p.h. near the center and it has the strength to put up a ten foot tide near and a little north of where the center reaches the coast along with huge waves," the Weather Bureau said.

Dora was located at 8 a.m. EST about 350 miles east of Cape Kennedy where five rockets stood on their launch pads, including the giant Saturn-I super rocket set for launch Sept. 17 with a dummy Apollo moonship.

The bureau also said gale warnings were in effect with a hurricane watch elsewhere from Stuart, Fla., to Myrtle Beach.

The warnings came as Dora, termed nearly three times as large as last month's killer Hurricane Cleo, pushed steadily westward at about 15 m.p.h.

The weather bureau said Dora was located at 8 a.m. EDT today about 400 miles east of Cape Kennedy.

Severe Hurricane
"Dora is a large, severe hurricane with highest winds estimated at 130 miles an hour near the center and gales extending nearly 350 miles to the north and 100 miles to the south," the advisory said.

"All interest in the area of warning should take necessary precautions against high winds and tides and especially in the area of hurricane display," the weather bureau added.

"This hurricane will produce tides of 10 feet above normal near the center, and 2 to 5 feet in the area of gale display on the South Carolina coast."

"All persons on low coastal areas of northeast South Carolina should take the necessary precautions to protect themselves against these tides. Persons where access roads would be flooded should evacuate today."

Beach Erosion Reported
Huge swells and abnormally high tides were already bashing the coast and forecasters said minor beach erosion was reported from Daytona Beach, Fla., northward into the Carolinas.

Cities along the coast began preparing for the blow.

Rockets Moved From Storm Area

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The federal space agency today ordered four of five rockets awaiting launch removed to safety because of the threat of Hurricane Dora.

A space agency spokesman said only the giant Saturn-I super rocket, which with its gantry is designed to withstand 100 mile an hour winds, would be left to ride out the blow expected late tonight and Wednesday.

The rockets being removed were the Titan-2 set for the final unmanned Gemini test, an Atlas-Centaur scheduled for launch next month, an Atlas booster being readied for a shot to Mars in late October or early November and a Delta set for a satellite launch Sept. 22.

TV Cable Would Give Pampa New Service

City commissioners today verbally agreed to give favorable consideration to an application for a franchise to operate a cable system in Pampa.

Dale Greenhouse, manager of the Marie Foundations factory here, who is seeking the application with Calvin Fraser, president of the firm, told the commission that engineers will arrive in the city within the next day or two to begin a preliminary feasibility survey of the project.

Greenhouse and Fraser are scheduled to appear before the commission on Sept. 29 to furnish a detailed report on the proposal including costs and fees to be charged cable subscribers.

A cable system now is being operated by his firm in McLean, Greenhouse stated, and more than 50 per cent of television set owners there are using it.

Greenhouse said the project at first would supply amplification of the three Amarillo television stations. It would also provide two channels for FM radio music and one weather news channel with background music.

The potential of the cable system is almost limitless, Greenhouse said. Eventually Pampa could originate its own programs, televise any public event and have its own local studios.

"Televisioners who believe they now are getting a good picture," Greenhouse said, "will be amazed at the improvement of the amplified cable picture."

Greenhouse said the project at the beginning would require the installation of a pickup tower just outside the Pampa city limits.

If the application is approved, he said, the system would require a franchise giving the company use of city streets and alleys for installation of cable poles in the manner now used by electric and telephone utility companies.

The commission was told eventually FCC permission would be sought for a microwave system to bring in Oklahoma City television station programs for Pampa subscribers.

In other business today: The commission gave the go-ahead signal for the drawing up of a contract with Occidental Life Insurance Co. for group hospitalization and surgery insurance for Pampa's 200 city employees. The plan is being handled locally through the Duncan Insurance Agency.

Commissioner L. P. Fort mentioned possible abuse of group insurance.

"Taxpayers are now involved in paying insurance premiums for city workers," Fort said, "and I think we should all remember this."

The commission authorized payment of current bills in the amount of $22,214.08 for August.

The young patrolman's 3-month-old son has been in Worley Hospital since Aug. 3 with meningitis. He has a wife and two other children.

Hospital and doctor bills are mounting daily.

Police Chief Jim Conner said the 25-year-old patrolman has worked only about a month since his discharge from the service. He hasn't been on the job long enough to be eligible for city hospitalization insurance.

"Members of the department are doing what they can to help him financially," Conner stated today.

The police chief added that if anyone wishes to help the young policeman, contributions should be sent to Chief of Police Jim Conner at City Hall.

Democrats Charged In Pact With Soviet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican vice presidential nominee William E. Miller Monday said the administration had "sworn in an agreement" with Russia to take no action against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

During a day of campaigning in Indiana, the New York congressman and former national GOP chairman charged the Democrats with ignoring "Communist slavery in Eastern Europe in Latin America, in Africa, in Asia and elsewhere."

He said that President Johnson had said "no" to a free Cuba. Instead, Miller said "this administration has sworn in an agreement with the Soviet Union that it shall never take action against Castro."

Questioned at a news conference after his South Bend, Ind., Labor Day speech, Miller said that John Scali, American Broadcasting Company reporter, had told of the alleged agreement. It was never denied by either the late President Kennedy or President Johnson, Miller said.

Miller returned to Washington late Monday night, but he was scheduled to leave late today for a four-day tour of New England and New York. He said that a Republican administration "could take several actions to free Cuba from communism's grip without having to invade the island."

"We could recognize a government in exile, we could prevent ships taking cargo to Cuba from using American ports, we could consider economic sanctions or a military blockade," he said.

On domestic issues, Miller said that while he voted for the

Traffic Toll Hits 500 for Labor Holiday

By United Press International
The Labor Day holiday traffic toll stood at more than 500 today with late reports of highway accidents still coming in. Safety experts hoped the final count would fall short of a new record.

The latest United Press International count showed at least 522 persons dead in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Monday.

The breakdown:
Traffic 522
Drowning 72
Planes 17
Miscellaneous 56
Total 667

California led all states with 44 traffic deaths reported. Texas had 35, Illinois 30, New York 27, Michigan 22 and Ohio 21. Only Delaware, Hawaii and Montana escaped without any holiday traffic deaths.

The safety council estimated before the holiday began that between 490 and 590 persons would die in traffic accidents. For a time, safety experts feared the toll might pass the record of 561 set last Labor Day.

The record for all holidays was set during the 1956 "Black Christmas," when 706 persons died.

Sheriff Continues Search for Man In Assault Case

Gray County sheriff's officers continued their search today for 18-year-old Bill Odom of Pampa who is charged with criminally assaulting a Pampa teen-ager. Officers have been hunting for Odom since early Saturday morning when the alleged rape was reported.

Authorities said Odom forced a 16-year-old girl into his car and drove to the country where he raped her.

The incident took place about 2:30 a.m. Saturday. Odom was officially charged with the offense about noon Saturday.

Virginia School Re-opens Today Under Boycott

FARMVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Rural Prince Edward County re-opened its public schools for the first time in five years today with virtually every white student in the county boycotting the classes.

Only three white children enrolled with about 1,600 Negroes in one high school and three elementary schools.

The majority of Prince Edward's white students chose to remain in private, segregated schools which were set up in 1959 when the county closed the public schools to avoid integration.

The reopening of the public schools ended a five-year public education blackout which saw most of the Negro students in the tobacco-growing area about 70 miles southwest of Richmond go without formal schooling.

Several white students had signed up for the public classes beginning today but only three appeared.

Tommy Lewis, 15, and his sister, Betty Jo, 14, entered Moton High School. George Abernathy, 10, entered the fourth grade at one of the elementary schools.

Schools reopen under a May 25 U.S. Supreme Court mandate holding that the nearly 1,600 Negro children in the county deserved "quick and effective relief" — public education denied them in 1959 when the county was ordered to desegregate.

Ft. Worth Lawyer Won't Talk on Ruby Case Rumor

FORT WORTH (UPI)—A Fort Worth lawyer rumored to have been asked to represent relatives of condemned killer Jack Ruby has refused to comment on the rumors, the Dallas News said today.

The rumors said the relatives have asked the lawyer, Jerry Murad, to represent them by teaming up with Detroit lawyer Sol Dann, who is not licensed to practice in Texas.

Dann attempted to fire the Texas lawyers who are representing Ruby but they said they were hired by Ruby and only he could dismiss them. Dann also has asked the county probate court to name a guardian for Ruby, claiming Ruby is unable to handle his own affairs.

Clayton Fowler of Dallas is the chief defense lawyer.

Ruby's appeal of his death sentence for shooting accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald is currently before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Airman's Escape In Laos Studied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Navy Lt. Charles F. Klusmann's escape from a Communist prison in Laos is being studied intensively at the Pentagon for details that might help other U.S. servicemen gain freedom if captured.

Escapes by Americans in the Far East have been rare. Thus, his case may become a classic example in a U.S. program elaborated since the Korean War to provide as much escape training and instruction as possible for servicemen.

The program, as outlined in the Defense Department's code of conduct, emphasizes that prisoners should "sustain a positive attitude under conditions of captivity" and should "make every effort to escape."

Klusmann himself presumably benefited from the training. He completed a two-week course at the Navy's Survival, Evasion, Resistance and Escape (SERE) school near El Centro, Calif., 18 months ago.

Now at home in San Diego, Klusmann reached Thailand last week after being held nearly two months at the Pathet Lao Communist headquarters in Khang Khay, Laos. He parachuted into captivity when his reconnaissance plane was shot down during a mission from the carrier Kitty Hawk June 9.

LEVELLAND, Tex. (UPI)—Justin Terry Sisco, 41, rode the range as a cowpoke and the sky as a pilot.

Last week the Denver cowboy rented a light plane and flew to the Gulf Coast for a vacation.

On his way back Sunday, he made two sweeps over the yellowhouse cattle Co. ranch-house where he worked to let everyone know he was back.

Then, as he swung the plane in for a landing, the wheels caught a power line and the craft slammed to earth, killing Sisco.

Sisco was survived by three brothers and his mother, of Jasper, Wyo.

Airman's Escape In Laos Studied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Navy Lt. Charles F. Klusmann's escape from a Communist prison in Laos is being studied intensively at the Pentagon for details that might help other U.S. servicemen gain freedom if captured.

Escapes by Americans in the Far East have been rare. Thus, his case may become a classic example in a U.S. program elaborated since the Korean War to provide as much escape training and instruction as possible for servicemen.

The program, as outlined in the Defense Department's code of conduct, emphasizes that prisoners should "sustain a positive attitude under conditions of captivity" and should "make every effort to escape."

Klusmann himself presumably benefited from the training. He completed a two-week course at the Navy's Survival, Evasion, Resistance and Escape (SERE) school near El Centro, Calif., 18 months ago.

Now at home in San Diego, Klusmann reached Thailand last week after being held nearly two months at the Pathet Lao Communist headquarters in Khang Khay, Laos. He parachuted into captivity when his reconnaissance plane was shot down during a mission from the carrier Kitty Hawk June 9.

Experts Consulted on Teen-age Smokers

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
"I can't quit smoking—but I wish my kids wouldn't start it." That wistful statement has become a familiar refrain among American parents. How to keep teen-agers from picking up the cigarette habit now ranks just behind getting them into college on the list of things that conscientious mothers and fathers worry about.

In an effort to shed some light on this national problem, the U.S. Children's Bureau consulted all sorts of experts—including a lot of teen-agers from all parts of the country. Its findings have just been published in a pamphlet entitled: "Your Teen-Age Children and Smoking."

Not Comforting
Parents may find this pamphlet helpful, but they won't find it comforting. The Children's Bureau lays on the line medical facts which it considers to be established beyond reasonable argument:

"If your child smokes cigarettes, chances are much greater that he will die of lung cancer, or chronic bronchitis, or emphysema, or coronary heart disease."

"The earlier your boy or girl starts cigarette smoking, the greater the chances he will become a heavy smoker and develop the habit of inhaling, which further increases the risk of early disability and a shortened life. The longer he puts off starting smoking, or the sooner he can break the habit, the greater his chances of avoiding that fate."

So, what can parents do about it? Again, the Children's Bureau minces no words:

"If you want your child never to smoke, or to give it up if he already smokes, don't smoke yourself."

Most Important Influence

This advice is based on a virtually universal finding that the most important influence on a child's decision about smoking is the example of his parents.

Having said that, the Children's Bureau shows a little compassion for the parent who has tried in vain to give up smoking:

"If you smoke and are not able to stop smoking," it says, "be frank with your children about that. Tell them that you wish you could stop, but that you can't. Tell them that you hope they will never get themselves in such a fix. Tell them that when you started to smoke you didn't have the facts that you now have; that it is possible that you have cut off years of life by your own smoking. Say that it is so hard to give up cigarettes that that in itself is one good argument for never starting smoking."

Avoid Glib Talk
But don't figure to get away with glib talk—even the humble pie kind.

"Along with the words," says the Children's Bureau sternly, "you must make as strong an effort as possible to at least cut down on the number of cigarettes you smoke. Try to stop inhaling so much and so deeply."

Above all, "if you make a bargain with your child about his not smoking or your not smoking, never break your end of it." If your child catches you hiding in the garage to catch a few puffs, you might as well go out and buy him a carton of his own.

20,000 in Beatle Crowd At Airport

TORONTO (UPI)—The mop-topped Beatles were welcomed to Canada Monday with a hysterical chorus of screams from nearly 20,000 Beatlemaniacs.

The thrashed quartet flew into Old-Milton Airport near Toronto early today amid the screams of an estimated 15,000 teenagers. Another 4,000 thronged around the King Edward Hotel where the singers are staying.

The Beatles came here for a pair of Labor Day performances after a wild shot at Detroit's Olympia Stadium attended by an estimated 30,000 of their hysterical fans.

Several times during the Detroit show young girls threw themselves over the police barricades.

The story was much the same in Toronto. Police said 26 teenage girls were treated for shock, hysteria and exhaustion in the airport crush. Four other girls were treated at the hotel. One girl was believed badly shaken when she was struck by a policeman's horse.

In Detroit, the screaming girls jammed against police lines and lurched toward the singers as they performed on an elevated stage.

Many of the girls were carried from the auditorium by police when they became hysterical. After a glass of water and a few words of admonition, most were allowed to return to the show.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

LEGAL RESEARCH

Much of the work a lawyer does has the effect of preventing law suits. By foreseeing a situation which may go bad, a lawyer can protect his client. All of this means great emphasis upon legal research.

Much of your lawyer's time goes into looking up the law. He must check statutes, codes, reports of decisions, commentaries, and often technical books outside the law. He can then advise his client what to do and to keep his client from getting into situations that may lead to litigation. This stress on prevention is relatively new, as compared with the lawyer's traditional role as trial advocate.

In general the longer a rule of law based on precedent has been used, the more persuasive a court is likely to find it. Following precedent is called the doctrine of stare decisis ("the decision stands"). Because of "stare decisis", lawyers are able to count upon the law's stability in helping their clients to plan their estate, personal, or business affairs.

But law also changes as conditions and attitudes change. And these are days of change.

Lawyers want to predict legal results reliably for their clients. Some law changes little, for example, in the fields of property, contracts, wills, and trusts. But in other fields such as civil rights and labor law, for example, the law changes rapidly these days.

In order to keep up with change, for example, Texas lawyers have pooled their research and talents to conduct a program of Continuing Legal Education. During the past year there were more than 2,000 registrants in the program. They have kept up to date through hundreds of lectures and the publication of several new volumes of law books. The program is a project of the State Bar of Texas begun in 1948. It is fully financed by Texas lawyers and judges at a cost of several thousand dollars a year. The various law schools of Texas also conduct a number of post graduate seminars each year, attended by hundreds of members of the profession.

Also, monthly and weekly publications of the State Bar covering late developments in the law go to each of the 15,000 lawyers belonging to the organization.

MERGER MOVE BEGUN

EASTMAN, Ga. (UPI)—Georgia-based Stuckey's Inc., pecan, candy and motel industry, is negotiating a merger with Pet Milk Co.

The announcement came from W. S. Stuckey Sr., president of the corporation who said the merger "would include practically all of the holdings—my family own."

He would not elaborate but said details would be announced "before the week is over."

No figure was revealed on the net worth of the Stuckey holdings, but it was expected the figure would reach into the millions.

Palmettos along the Rio Grande caused the Spanish discoverers to name the river "Rio de las Palmas."

New Baby Boom May Be on Way

NEW YORK (UPI)—Another baby boom may be on the way in the United States. The current dip in the number of births appears to be just a pause before the number starts rising again, reports the Health Insurance Institute. The number of registered births in the nation has fallen for the past two years, reaching an eight-year low of 4.1 million in 1963, reports the institute. But, it says, analysis of Census Bureau figures indicates this trend will reverse shortly. And by 1970, the number of births annually, may be up to 5 million or more. Reason for the expected increase: The babies of the last boom, after World War II, now are becoming adults. For the last 30 years, the number of women in the nation aged 20 to 29, the prime child-bearing years, has remained almost constant, between 11 and 12 million, the institute said. By 1970, this group will number 15 million.

Births To Increase
This expansion means that "even if the new young couples have slightly smaller families than the young couples of the past—and there is no certainty yet that they will—there should be a net increase in the number of births," the institute reported.

The institute is underwritten by insurance companies and its job is to serve as a central source of health insurance information for the public. In forecasting another baby boom, the institute pointed out that the birth rate—the number of births compared with the total population—has been falling for six years.

The main reason for this is that the population of the United States currently contains an unusually large proportion of young and old persons," it said.

The very low birth rate of the depression years of the 1930's has resulted in a relatively small number of persons now in their middle years. For example, the institute said, since 1930 the number of women aged 15 to 44 has increased about 30 per cent. But the rest of the population has increased more than 60 per cent.

Marriage Rate Up
The report said that "of even greater significance," there has been no appreciable change in the number of women aged 20 to 29, who account for three out of five births.

Now, as a result of the soaring birth rate immediately after the war, the number of women aged 15 to 44 should increase from 38 million to 42 million in 1970, most of this accounted for by a rise from 12 to 15 million in the 20 to 29 age bracket. The institute cited another factor in its forecast—the marriage rate is up. In April, 1964, for example, 130,000 marriages were recorded in the United States, up from 119,000 for April, 1963.

Switch of Owners For Lassie Starts

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—CBS-TV Sunday night began easing "Lassie" viewers through the emotional trauma that accompanies the switching of the nation's most famous dog to a new master. The old order began giving way to the new in the early program of a three-part series which finds Lassie's longtime television family—June Lockhart, Hugh Reilly and Jon Provost—heading out of the series by way of moving to Australia. By the show's Sept. 27 season premiere, the canine star's future life with a forest ranger, portrayed by Robert Bray, is expected to be established pretty well on its course. One of the condolences for the departing human players is that Miss Lockhart now will be able to wear sexy dresses at public events without fearing the possibility of upsetting sponsors.

For the benefit of future generations, herewith the timetable of the transition of "Lassie": Sunday night, the Lockhart-Reilly-Prevost family learned happily that the move to Australia and new farm land was all set. Alas, it also learned that because of strict Australian animal quarantine, the golden mutt would have to be left with a friend in the old home town, Cully Wilson.

This coming Sunday, poor Cully has a heart attack and is removed to a hospital. His own mutt runs from the house, with Lassie, who is a do-gooder by instinct, trying to get her back. They end up in a trailer park, where a little girl tries to take Cully's runaway with her. The information comes from CBS-TV. On Sept. 20, Enter forest ranger Bray. He is passing through town, decides to visit Lassie's family and learns it has left for Australia. He also learns the two dogs are gone—and alerts the forest radio network to be on the lookout for them. CBS says there will be "interesting results," and CBS is reliable.

Well, there you are. Time marches on, and all that. Good-bye, Jonny old kid. Thanks for the good times. As for Bray, CBS says he's a natural for the part—that he was born on a forest range ranch in Montana and now lives in the San Bernardino National Forest, and has four dogs. All of that is just swell, but if I were Bray, I would also try to keep firmly fixed in my mind, for years hence, just who the star of "Lassie" really is.

The Channel Swim: NBC-TV's "Today" program offers a film report about Ireland Tuesday. CBS-TV's "The Defenders" starts its new season Sept. 24 with a two-part comedy-drama about a group of elderly men charged with breaking the law. The outstanding cast includes Jack Gilford, Tom Poston, Martin Balsam and Barbara Barrie.

The increasingly nationalistic attitude of French Canadians is the subject of a one-hour NBC-TV special Sept. 27. Same network plans a group of documentaries entitled "Of Men and Freedom," with topics including "The French Revolution," "The Middle Ages," "The Reformation" and "The Spanish Armada."

'Old Bones' May Prove Poor Diet Aided Rome Fall

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — A parcel of "old bones" was on its way by mail from Tunisia today to an American archeologist who wants to test his theory that a poor diet played a major role in the decline of the Roman empire.

S. S. Giffillan, 75, a former professor at several Midwest universities, said Sunday he also is studying bones from Greece to support his belief that the end of "the glory that was Greece" also resulted largely from poor diet.

In a sense, you might say that I'm calling up the dead and questioning them," he said of the parcel from Tunis, containing three ribs and six teeth of a rich Roman of Julius Caesar's day.

The parcel was expected to reach Giffillan within the next week or two.

Giffillan, former curator of the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago, believes that the rich, ruling classes of ancient Rome died out because they ate foods and drank wines that contained large quantities of poisonous lead.

"The educated and talented died off rapidly, and the poor Romans took over because they had healthier diets, but they couldn't hold the empire together," he said.

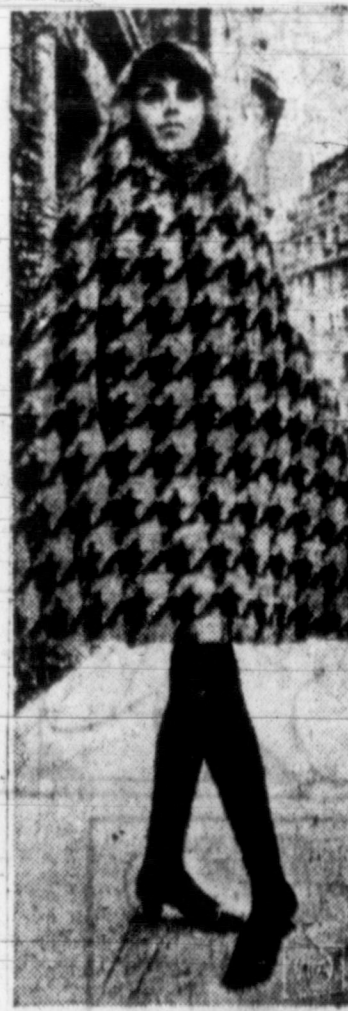

RAINS KILL 14

Greenwood Edges Farquhar for Top O' Texas Crown

John Paul Cain Third Ahead of Charging Chew

By KARL O'QUINN

Bobby Greenwood defeated defending champion John Farquhar in a sizzling head-to-head duel yesterday to win the 27th annual Top O' Texas Tournament with a 276 total.

Farquhar, playing in the same threesome with Greenwood, finished one stroke behind him.

Both men fired a 66 in the first round yesterday to rush past second round leader John Paul Cain, who carded a 72 the third time around. Farquhar shot a 68 for the final round to Greenwood's 69 but had too far to go to catch him after opening rounds of 70 and 73.

The impassive Greenwood, a former North Texas State golfer from Cookeville, Tenn., watched his opponent take the lead on the 13th hole of the last round when he bogeyed the hole and Farquhar birdied it.

Greenwood eagled the 14th to take the lead back again and almost eagled the 15th. He settled for a birdie to match Farquhar's and then birdied the 18th to match another birdie by Farquhar.

Apparently oblivious to the pressure, Greenwood watched Farquhar hole out his birdie on the final hole and then calmly sank his three- footer as if nothing more depended on it than a friendly wager over a Sunday round of golf.

The new champion was in trouble constantly yesterday but recovered in almost every instance. He hit into the rough on both the 17th and 18th, with the title riding on every stroke, and came out of it smelling like a rose each time.

John Paul Cain threatened to make a three-cornered fight of it as he birdied 13 to go one ahead of Greenwood and even with Farquhar at that point, but was left behind by the closing rush of the two men playing in the threesome in front of him.

Cain hit his second shot five feet from the hole on 18 for a possible eagle and the crowd buzzed with rumors of a playoff if he sank it. He curled around the lip of the cup with the putt and it wouldn't have been enough, anyway. Rumors are very untrue.

Cain wound up with a 279 for third place but almost got caught by another fast finisher.

Jim Chew, the tournament's medalist, was the hottest man in the field the last three rounds with scores of 68-68-69 but was ruined by a 75 on the first day and had to settle for a 281 and fourth place. The young Kansan, who plays for Arizona State University, fired a 66 Friday to win the medalist's silverware but appeared ready to miss the cut again, as he did last year, after his disastrous first round.

Two local entries, Buster Carter of Pampa and Don Lackey of Borger, were the only others equal to par or better.

Carter closed with a pair of 68's yesterday to end up with a 283 and fifth place. He had 74 and a 73 the first two rounds.

Lackey, who had been among the leaders from the start, when he carded a 69 for the first round, came in even par for yesterday's two rounds and the tournament. His 70 and 72 yesterday gave him a 284 total.

Winners in the first through tenth flights, respectively, were Hugo Lowenstern, John Allen Jr., Weldon Trice, R. E. Carver, Norman Prickett, Roddy Seago, D. Forsha, Lester Bauman, T. B. Hines and Mike Clark.

Quotes of the week: "To show you how smart I am, I'm the one who got Bobby (Greenwood) to come down here." — John Farquhar.

"All the people you play with down here in Texas are pulling for you all the time. It's not that way in Tennessee." — Bobby Greenwood.

Greenwood will play in the National Amateur and then enlist in the National Guard in Tennessee.

FUTILITY — John Farquhar, defending champion of the Top O' Texas Tournament, shot a 66 and 68 yesterday in a bid to repeat but lost by one stroke to an equally hot Bobby Greenwood.

Mays Powers Giant Sweep Over Pirates

By United Press International

For a man who is supposed to be completely fatigued and hampered by a bruised back, Willie Mays keeps working miracles for the San Francisco Giants.

The wondrous one hit a pair of homers, one a three-run pinch clout, to help the Giants sweep their holiday double-header against the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 and 9-6 Monday.

The twin victories came on the heels of a Sunday triumph at Philadelphia and moved the Giants into a virtual three-way tie for second place, 6½ games back of the Phillies.

Mays bruised his back in a game at Philadelphia last Friday night, sat out Saturday's game and returned Sunday, scoring the winning run in the eighth inning when he walked and sped home as the Phillies committed two errors attempting to pick off Willie.

Supports Dark's Claim

Following Willie's Sunday heroics, Manager Alvin Dark insisted that "a 50 per cent Mays is better than a lot of others at 150 per cent." The veteran center fielder supported this observation again Monday.

Mays started the opener, hitting his 40th homer with the bases empty in the first inning to help stake the Giants to a quick 3-0 lead. Dark decided to rest Willie in the second game but with San Francisco trailing 4-2 in the fourth inning, Mays came off the bench to pinch hit for Tom Haller with Jim Hart and Orlando Cepeda on base.

Willie blasted one of reliever Frank Bork's pitches over the left field scoreboard and then sat down again to rest his aching back. The Giants went on from there to score single runs in each of the last three innings to wrap up their third straight victory.

Cards, Reds Tied

The St. Louis Cardinals tied Cincinnati for second place, one percentage point ahead of the Phillies, by scoring twin 3-2 victories over the Reds. The Phillies split with the Los Angeles Dodgers, winning the

Yankees Moving Back Into Picture

By United Press International

An old standby has popped up to lend a hand in the Yankees' new pennant push.

Roger Maris, who has collected a World Series check every autumn since joining the Yankees in 1960, is ripping the ball at a near .500 clip these days as Yogi Berra's embattled crew keep closing in on the Baltimore Orioles and the Chicago White Sox.

The slugging right fielder rapped four hits, including a run-scoring double in the 11th inning, to earn the Yankees a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins Monday. The second game of their morning-night holiday twinbill was rained out and was rescheduled for tonight.

The Yankees' triumph, the 11th in their last 15 games,

Cleveland Fights to Keep Club

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Mayor Ralph Locher said Monday he was ready to "move heaven and earth" to keep the Indians in Cleveland.

Locher said he would begin an immediate and vigorous campaign to assure the Tribe of staying in the city. His statement came after Tribe President and General Manager Gabe Paul said the team might be forced to move because of mounting financial losses.

Paul said the board of directors would meet soon to decide the future of the team. Locher countered by saying he would contact Paul and board Chairman William R. Daley immediately to offer whatever civic aid is needed to help the team stay here.

According to latest reports, the Indians will be transferred to Seattle, Wash. But Paul said he had not contacted any other city about the proposed move.

However, Paul added that several cities have contacted him with offers to move the team to their city.

Ralston Seeking Win Over Henry

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Dennis Ralston, second half of America's Davis Cup tennis tandem, shoots for a fourth-round berth in the Nationals today and cup officials are just hoping he shapes up as strong as the first half, Chuck McKinley.

Ralston, the second-seeded blond belter from Bakersfield, Calif., is favored to get past Crawford Henry of Atlanta in one of today's third round encounters, with defending champion Rafael Osuna of Mexico also expected to advance against Australia's Owen Davidson.

The 21-year-old Ralston will have to be at the top of his game, however, to duplicate Monday's spectacular performance by McKinley, who will team up with him later this month at Cleveland in an effort to retain the Davis Cup for the United States.

McKinley drew a fine ovation from the gallery at Forest Hills Stadium Monday when he not only beat Chuck Pasarell of Puerto Rico, but also beat the setting sun with a 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 8-6, victory just as darkness was descending.

Top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia also gained a fourth round berth along with two Americans, eight-seeded Arthur Ashe Jr., of Richmond, Va., and unseeded Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Panma News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

We Boneheads

Among a few other companies, Premier Photo Service of Parkersburg, W. Va., deducted withholding taxes from employees' pay checks once a month instead of weekly. Now the might of Uncle Sam has put an end to this.

A. Karl Summers, Premier President, had two reasons for his once-a-month withholding. First, it saved money in his payroll department. The law forces employers to act as unpaid tax collectors for the Government, but there's no provision that this should be done as expensively as possible. The second reason was that Mr. Summers suspected his employees had no idea how much all of the Federal Government's open-handed generosity was costing them personally.

If he reasoned, an employee received checks for his full earnings for three weeks, and all the taxes were deducted from the fourth week's check, the employee would have the facts of taxpaying life brought to his attention in a dramatic, if not downright disagreeable manner.

Monkey Business

There are certain groups that want Washington to rule and regulate just about everything. This is worth restating now that an effort is under way to have the federal government regulate private pension plans which, so far as anyone can see, have been doing a fine job.

The excuse for federal regulation, of course, would be to protect the plans' members and beneficiaries. In the light of that, the government's experience with its own pension systems is significant.

The social security fund has been shrinking and at the same time more people are becoming eligible for larger benefits. This means that each new entrant at the age of 20 must put in $1.69 during his working lifetime for each dollar he may be entitled to draw, if he lives long enough to draw anything.

"The pension system for Federal employees happens to be about $35 billion in the red," says the National Association of Manufacturers, and "... the thing is in a mess." Substantial increases in contributions to the Railroad Retirement fund have had to be instituted to keep it solvent.

These are examples of government running pension systems. It would seem that it has a lot of learning to do before it monkeys with the private plans.

We'll Handle This

Science is fine. In fact, it's wonderful. It's here to stay, and everybody's in favor of it. But when it undertakes to tell us red-blooded American men what constitutes the perfect feminine figure — well, we just can't stand still for it.

What happened was that a group of scientists and engineers at a computer company got to thinking about women (even scientists do it) came up with some statistics, fed them into a computer, and the computer drew a picture of what the statistics looked like in female form.

And we've got to admit that the slide rule boys and their computer pal came up with some pretty fair results—36-24-36, five feet five, 118 pounds, etc.

But who needs a computer to tell him that any gal with those statistics is bound to be reasonably pleasant to gaze upon?

So use your computers and other miracle gadgets on moon shots and space orbits, scientists. We nonscientists can take care of the feminine angles — or lack of them — with no help from automation.

And it will be no trouble at all for us, gentlemen. In fact, it's our pleasure.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

In this election year we'll be reading and talking about the various polls and pollsters, but the basic idea behind all these pulse feelers started more than 100 years ago when Congress commenced taking a "whip check" of its members to see what chances a bill or resolution might have. Then, just before the turn of the century, the old New York World and other newspapers had their reporters take what was known as a "straw vote" in state and national elections. Today, a dozen big-name pollsters, with a horde of assistants, take scientific surveys and publish their findings from coast to coast. Thus far this year most have been "wrong" in their political predictions. It will be interesting to see if their crystal balls are crystal clear in November.

Today's smile: An absent-minded professor chided his wife as they were leaving church one Sunday morning: "Who's the absent-minded one now? You forgot your umbrella and I not only picked it up, but I brought mine, too." The perplexed wife said: "But we didn't take umbrellas with us this morning."

If you're putting on a few pounds, try a wartime diet for a few weeks and you'll lose them. It was proved in England during World War II that a person can adequately survive and maintain good health on the following week's rations: 2 ounces, butter; 3 ounces, margarine; 2 ounces, cheese; 4 ounces, sugar; 1 egg; one half - pint of milk per day; 2 ounces tea; 4 ounces bacon; and meat three times in seven days. Try it and see.

Thoughts while shaving: There used to be a saying that oil and water don't mix, but that doesn't apply to Louisiana. The State's economy is now 42 percent supported by petroleum and natural gas, nearly all of it drawn from wells 30 to 60 miles off in the Gulf of Mexico.

During a recent trip through Nebraska a farmer told us he could gauge the time to harvest alfalfa and wheat by noting the lilacs bloomed. Now we have read about a team of western agricultural scientists who have proved that old saw. They found alfalfa was ready to cut 30 days after the lilacs bloomed in that region and wheat was ready for harvest in 45 days. A recent survey by a tourist agency showed that the average family vacationing at Miami Beach, Fla., drove 700 miles to get there and planned on staying at least nine days. Another recent study showed human hair grows about one-half inch per month, and an average single hair will last from two to four years before falling out.

Incidentally, there has never been a successful cure for baldness, and if some chemist could come up with such a concoction, he's become a millionaire overnight.

TAX BOGUS

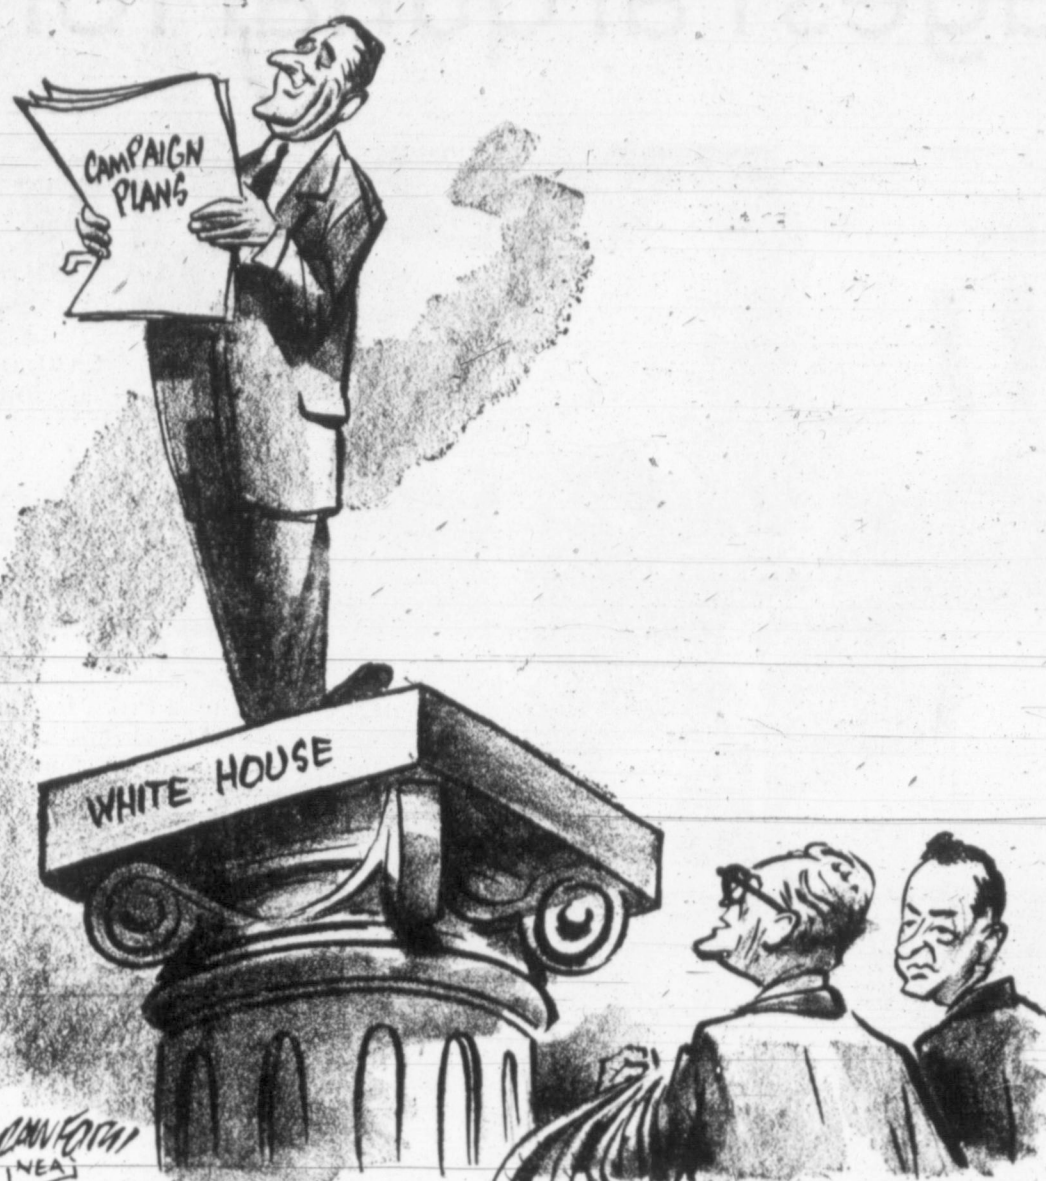

Editor: I see where Bobo Olson is winding up his boxing career in much the same fashion Joe Louis did, trying to get his eyebrows above the financial quicksand of the tax department.

Seems like an uncommon lot of boxers go through their declining years with slowed down reflexes and battered features, fighting to pay back taxes. They are in much the same position as a man who has just survived a rockslide, if he wiggles a muscle to pry one rock off him, he's liable to be covered up by the whole mountain.

My pore old take a dive cousin Rockfist Ironhead is still fighting at 47 years of age. He has jacked up his price for taking a dive considerably, but complains that no matter how big a price he gets for taking a beauty nap, the internal revenue department figures him out still more in the red. So after each fight he winds up being just one more dive older and deeper in debt.

Goldwater Plans Sharp Challenge to Administration On 'Declining U. S. Prestige' As Reported in Secret CIA Survey

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The declining prestige of the U.S. overseas could become as explosive an issue in the presidential campaign as in 1960 — if not more so.

GOP challenger Barry Goldwater plans to ignite this debate by charging in a major speech that the government's own intelligence surveys clearly show that this country's influence abroad has steadily declined during the Johnson and Kennedy administrations.

Lifting a page from the successful campaign book of the late President Kennedy, Goldwater will highlight this issue by urging the White House to make public these disturbing "world trends" estimate now being circulated inside the administration by the Central Intelligence Agency.

Regardless of what President Johnson does, Senator Goldwater's aides believe their candidate can't lose. If the President refuses to release the confidential surveys, Goldwater has an issue. If the surveys are published, their content will support Goldwater's charges.

For example, one of the most recent of these CIA estimates not only reveals the declining U.S. prestige but fully supports Goldwater's claim of growing disunity in NATO.

Entitled "Trends in the World Situation," the 47-page secret document flatly states:

"The disunity, indiscipline, and decline in ideology which have developed within the Communist world have been matched by a similar development in the West.

"The Atlantic Alliance has suffered a further lessening in its unity of purpose, the United Kingdom has been rather disinclined to participate in the Europe Economic Community and U.S. influence in Europe has been reduced.

Another section (No. 31) of the same CIA survey stresses that "the differences between the U.S. view of the world situation and that of the Europeans have become even more striking than in the past."

It bluntly points out that most European leaders believe (as does Goldwater) that "the principal problem of the Alliance is to strengthen its deterrent effect by providing a greater measure of European control over its military forces and particularly even its nuclear strategic arm."

"In most recent years, as the U.S. has become increasingly engaged in disputes and undertakings all over the world, they have felt that the deterrent effect of the alliance has been somewhat dissipated."

GROWING DISORDER — Significantly, the CIA estimate also backs up Goldwater's charge that revolution and disorder has steadily increased in many areas of the world during the Johnson and Kennedy administrations, stating:

"While the powerful and developed nations of the northern third of the world have been coping with the problems of military power and moving with greater prudence and flexibility toward political and economic change, revolution and disorder in the southern two-thirds of the world have been intensifying.

"In four major areas, Latin America, Africa, the Near East, and Southeast Asia, indigenous political forces — in some cases with the assistance and encouragement of other powers — were overthrowing governments, forming political alignments, and impinging to a degree hitherto unknown upon the concerns and even vital interests of their more powerful northern neighbors.

"On the whole, we believe that the Latin American scene for many years to come will continue to be one of turmoil with much civil disturbance, plotting and counterplotting, political warfare, and terrorism. Forces will probably succeed in acquiring power. These revolutionaries who take Castro as their model, inspiration, or guide will exploit whatever opportunities are open to them."

THE CUBAN THREAT — Although it is the policy of President Johnson and his top aides to play down the threat of the Russian foothold in Cuba, the CIA estimate warns of its potential danger, stating:

"The presence in the Western Hemisphere of a Communist state backed by the U.S.S.R. will continue greatly to jeopardize U.S. interests throughout the continent and to complicate the problems of U.S. diplomacy."

In its review of Africa, the CIA survey is just as bleak. It reports, "The situation in Africa is at least as unstable as that in Latin America."

"Plotting and violence occur, but they are not usually directed against the existing social and political systems," it says. "Their aim is usually simply to replace those enjoying the privileges of office by others who would like these privileges themselves."

Warning that "the drift seems to be toward political and social chaos," the CIA survey concludes: "The area is becoming increasingly vulnerable to meddling from the outside."

THE COMING CRISIS — As the new "widen - the war or pull - out" crisis grows in South Vietnam, the Goldwater advisers predict that this issue of U.S. prestige will mount proportionately in the campaign.

By "limiting" the U.S. military response in the Gulf of Tonkin, they argue, President Johnson narrowed his options — none of which are designed to increase his prestige — by identifying the North Vietnamese and not the Chinese Communists as the enemy.

Cannel At Bay

By Ward Cannel

Hail to Thee, Mr. Mayor, Your Day is Coming Soon NEW YORK — Actually, we had not planned to visit the World's Fair until next year when our savings bonds mature. But the other afternoon we discovered that several undedicated days still remain on the Fair's calendar of events for this season.

We counted four just between Former Special Agents of the FBI Day and American Racing Pigeon Union Day.

And so, firmly believing that you must seize the day and not count the cost, we hurried right over to see what could be done to proclaim Mayor Robert F. Wagner Day at the Fair before it closes for the winter.

We have been feeling very sad about Mr. Wagner as his role in the Democratic party is usually described by the one word, "Who?"

He has lost the vice presidential nomination to Senator Humphrey without so much as a nod. He has lost the senatorial nomination in New York to Robert Kennedy without even being considered in the race.

Only Robert Wagner could have been re-elected mayor of New York as a reform candidate running against his own previous record in office. And now he is left to do it again.

Under the circumstances, we felt, some sort of public recognition celebration might be comforting.

And especially if a little ceremony were attached to it, such as lighting a torch or opening an underdeveloped nation.

So we found a protocol officer at the World's Fair administration building and came right to the point:

"These special days you have," we said, "like Chiropractic Day and Milwaukee County Industrial Recreation Day. What do the people do?"

"Anything they want to," he said. "It's their day. Just so long as they keep it in good taste."

"But the celebration ceremony," we said, "do they light a torch or something?"

"They can," he said. "That's all."

If he now follows the "hard line" and extends the war to North Vietnam he could involve the U.S. in a Korean-type conflict against a Communist puppet government, which is not our major enemy in the Far East.

If the "soft line" is followed by the President, they stress, the President must withdraw U.S. military advisers and leave South Vietnam to fall to the Communists.

His other option — a "political settlement" with the Communists — would now require the U.S. to make compromises for a facing - saving formula that would undercut U.S. prestige throughout all of Southeast Asia.

That is the trap that Peking laid for the U.S. at Tonkin Gulf.

ANOTHER SOCIALIST FAILURE

(Christian Economics)

The centrally-planned, government-controlled economy of Czechoslovakia is in a state of collapse. As a means of gaining some favor with the people and in the hope of inducing better cooperation from them the Communist government is restoring to the people a large measure of religious freedom. Bishops will be permitted to resume their activities.

Three years ago in discussing these matters with top officials in the Prague government we pointed out that they had driven from their country the most capable men, with demonstrated capacities for managing large aggregations of capital, assembling raw materials from widely scattered sources, setting up plans for efficient production and distribution, and properly coordinating advertising and selling campaigns. As a result of all this intervention the economy of Czechoslovakia was bound to falter and eventually collapse.

up to them. We have nothing to do with it."

"You mean," we said, "that you name a day in honor of these people and then forget about them when they get here?"

"Oh, we don't name the day," he said. "They name the day themselves. You simply buy 1,000 tickets and you get a day."

"That's $2,000," we said. "What do you provide in return?"

"Why," he said indignantly, "we provide the World's Fair for you to have your day at."

"It's almost worth not showing up for your day," we said. "At least you save the car fare."

"You can do anything you want with your day," he said. "Just as long as it's in good taste."

Consequently, October 19 will be Robert Wagner Day at the World's Fair. And as the Fair closes the day before, it means a saving of $2,000 in tickets nobody has to buy.

And as to the ceremony, well, the wife is going to bake a chocolate cake and we are going to light a torch at midnight in the back yard.

Mississippi Is Really Mixed Up

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Currents of anger and frustration are now coursing through Mississippi more furiously than ever. But it isn't at all clear what effect this may have on the national scene.

Though the currents are not new, they are being fed by fresh sources.

In Biloxi, the first measurable public school desegregation in the state is occurring — peacefully so far. Soon there will be more of it in Jackson.

Gov. Paul Johnson pushed a private school tuition grant system through the legislature, but its top annual award of $185 is hardly adequate for Mississippi pupils.

The pressing efforts of an organization called Mississippians for Public Education, comprised mostly of women, underscores the state's continuing need of its public schools.

If the governor seeks some diversion of his constituents from a degree of racial change many never expected, possibly he can find it in the political confusion boiling in his state since the Democratic convention at Atlantic City.

But here, too, the anguish of Mississippians has risen sharply. They have been thrust into new isolation.

Back in their home setting, Democratic delegates and others who made the trip north are smarting both from what they view as "new humiliations" heaped upon the state, and the galling fact that, except for Alabama, no southern state gave them genuine support and sympathy.

All but four of the delegates refused to sign loyalty oaths and thus were barred from the convention floor. Some swiftly packed their bags and went to the New York World's Fair.

Though their alienation was thus heightened, these people appeared at Atlantic City to have a sense of "living apart." They even made jokes to try to turn this feeling to good use in strange settings.

One Mississippian tells of how, traveling north by air, he confounded the plane's stewardess by asking for "hot biscuits and syrup." He laughed when he discovered, as he expected, that this Mississippi staple was unfamiliar to her.

Yet these greatly angered folk are puzzled today as to how to give proper vent to their pent-up annoyance.

More of them than ever may now be ready to vote for Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater for president this November. Nevertheless, it may not be possible for them to do this under either a Democratic or an independent label, as many plainly would like to do.

Mississippi Democrats, reconvening a suspended state convention Sept. 9, seem to be heading for a choice of seven presidential electors pledged to the Johnson - Humphrey ticket. The convention earlier promised this by resolution.

Other prospects have lessened. One of these is a new legislative act that would allow two Democratic elector slates — one for Goldwater — to be placed on the ballot. Another is to put on an independent slate by petition of 1,000 voters.

A third possibility is to name as Democratic electors the same persons chosen by the GOP as Goldwater electors. But Republican leaders have shot down this idea, with the electors involved saying they would refuse to serve the Democratic cause.

In all this, Governor Johnson finds it hard to chart a satisfying path. Segregationists, infuriated at developments, have pulled him back from the relative moderation he has shown through much of 1964 toward the stronger stance he took in his 1963 campaign.

Still, with Senators Eastland and Stennis having some ties to President Johnson, the governor hesitates to widen the Mississippi breach too far.

So state voters may wind up with a simple choice — Goldwater on the GOP line for president under the Democratic label.

How little this appeals to some segregationists may be gauged from their suggestion that leaders disrupt old voting habits by naming an all-Negro elector slate under the Johnson-Humphrey banner. The idea died quickly.

Dear Abby....

If Mr. Lady-Killer Calls Tell Him to Stay Lost

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago, when I was 20, I was very fond of a 24-year-old man-about-town who gave me a big rush. Then I discovered that he was telling outrageous lies about me in order to build his reputation as a lady-killer. I dropped him immediately, and have had no contact with him since. I am now happily married and have a lovely home and family. My mother wrote that this old boy friend had visited my home town, and he'd telephoned her asking for my address. He said he travels a lot and wanted to see me again to talk over old times. My mother innocently gave it to him. How should I handle him if he calls me? Should I discuss it with my husband in case he should call? I definitely want no more to do with this man.

UPSET: Don't discuss it with your husband. He might wonder why you are so upset over a lot of 15-year-old lies. If Mr. Lady-killer calls, tell him you are happily married, and you would rather not see him, so please not to call again.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl who needs a straight answer. Exactly, what is wrong with falling asleep with a boy if you have all your clothes on? Please don't say it's just not right as that is no answer. Thank you.

WANTS TO KNOW: There's a time for entertaining a boy and a time for sleeping. When it's time to sleep, it's time to bid the boy farewell. That way you won't have to wonder if something was said or done — or if you only dreamed it.

DEAR ABBY: I am involved with a married man in his 40's. We love each other, Abby. I know our relationship is wrong, but I am discreet and manage to see him without disrupting his family life. Lately he has been talking about divorcing his wife and marrying me. Nothing would make me happier than to be his wife, but the last thing I want to do is break up his home. He has a compatible relationship with his wife, but he doesn't love her. He is just staying with her because of the children. He is well able to support two families. How can I convince him that divorce would be unfair to his family? He is 20 years older than I, but sometimes I feel like his mother. He's the only man I've ever loved, and I don't want to lose him.

WILLING TO WAIT: To wait for what? Until his children are grown and gone, and his wife is 55? Will divorce then be any easier on his wife? Face it. The "only man you've ever loved" belongs to somebody else. And did when you met him. Match your discretion with decency, and get out of his life.

CONFIDENTIAL TO B. W. at WAVI IN DAYTON: A little birdie (all right, Reed Sherman) reported that you are now

ENGLISH AIRS—Woven cotton plaids are always in demand when school starts. Big sister sports a red and navy tartan dress that flaps into crisp pleats from a natural waistline and has shirt cuff sleeves and a white dickey. Little sister's A-line skimmer jumper of matching plaid is worn over its own white cotton blouse.

School Cottons Put on English Airs as Girls Hear School Bells

Back to school cottons for the American child have taken on a well-bred English look this fall, reports the National Cotton Council.

The Tom Jones influence felt in the adult fashion world is important for little ladies, and gentlemen too. Comfortable cotton stretch corduroy is just the ticket for a young dandy's outfit that features tapered knee-tuned in brass. Better pull up those socks, boys—knickers are back! Patterned after Grandpa's "plus fours," the '64 versions come in sturdy, wide wale corduroy with jackets and Eton caps to match.

The crisp, demure air of an English schoolgirl is interpreted in neat cotton-clad plaids, stripes and prints. Dresses favor A-line silhouettes that fall from a bevy of pleats at the yoke or hang straight from the shoulder. Neat white cuffs and big Peter Pan or Chelsea collars, often trimmed with a pussycat bow of a long school tie, provide smart new accents.

Older girls love the dropped-waist blouson lines of a sharp cotton-tyed frock with its own wide hip belt. In any case, the natural waistline is seldom seen in this year of relaxed, easy-to-wear children's clothes.

Although your independent insurance agent writes insurance in a number of companies, he actually works for YOU. Your independent agent receives no company salary or subsidy. His compensation comes solely from equitable commissions when he provides you with the best available insurance. After he delivers the insurance to you, he continues to be your representative... to help you get satisfaction if and when you have a claim or loss.

Rely on your LOCAL INDEPENDENT INSURANCE AGENT who represents one or more companies of The MILLERS Insurance Group of Texas.
