Compromise Blocked On FEPC Funds

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 30—Shouted objections from southern Democrats in the House tonight blocked a Senate-approved compromise which would have financed the embattled Fair Employment Practices committee for a year.

As a consequence the $752,000,000 war agencies appropriation bill was sidetracked for the weekend, even though the fiscal year expires at midnight.

FEPC Out In Cold

A temporary arrangement will finance all the departments — among them the OPA, War Production board and other emergency agencies — except FEPC which will be without funds at midnight. The others are provided for in a deficiency appropriation but it doesn't include FEPC.

The Senate's four-day wrangle over funds for the FEPC—agency set up by the late President Roosevelt to prevent racial or religious discrimination by employers—ended today when a compromise broke a filibuster and won the agency $250,000 for next year instead of the $446,200 originally asked.

Southerners Rally

The bill was hurried across the capitol to the House, but when Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the appropriations committee sought permission to take it up the southerners were on their feet immediately shouting their objections.

The log-jam at the end of the fiscal year caught other big money bills too.

A $38,620,904,581 War department appropriation for the fight against Japan in fiscal 1946 didn't get through the Senate until well after noon, too late to catch a special plane that flew to President Truman in Kansas City the bill extending price control for another year.

POAGE FEARS DELAY IN USE OF SURPLUS

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP) — Rep. Poage (D-Tex) expressed belief today the expected summer recess of the House will delay action on his bill to allocate surplus war equipment to soil conservation districts until late fall.

The bill was approved unanimously June 18 by the House Agriculture committee. It had the endorsement of Chairman Guy Gillette of the surplus properties board, and the War Food administration.

Recess May Delay It

"Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) of the rules commtitee has assured me he will take up my bill shortly," commented Poage, "however, in view of the move to go into a recess I am fearful it will be put aside until some time next fall. I know it is the desire of the House leaders to take up no new matters at this time."

Poage's bill would authorize the secretary of agriculture to requisition any surplus government property — principally war equipment, which is usable in soil conservation work, and to allocate it by loan or grant to local, public bodies such as soil conservation, irrigation and reclamation, flood control or water districts.

The equipment would include such items as pumps, trucks, road scrapers and tractors as well as bulldozers and draglines.

Poage declared that while no great amount of such materials has been declared surplus, there is a likelihood that the amount soon will be very large.

"There is no way in which the taxpayers of the country can come as near recapturing the full amount of his money invested in these things than by seeing that they get into the hands of various public agencies," he commented.

Braniff Lines Start Service Here Today

Linking Lubbock and the South Plains area with metropolitan centers of the nation by a matter of hours, first regularly-scheduled airline service will be inaugurated here today when a Braniff Airways B-liner lands at Municipal airport from Dallas at 11:10 o'clock.

On hand to witness the landing of the first plane will be approximately a score of South Plains pioneers who saw the first passenger train puff into Lubbock back on Jan. 9, 1910. The oldtimers have been invited to the flight inauguration ceremonies at the airport this morning as special guests.

KFYO To Broadcast Fete

The pioneer residents will take part in the ceremonies and will be heard on a special broadcast over Station KFYO during the thirty-minute program.

Arriving Saturday afternoon to be on hand for the flight inaugural were approximately 30 visiting Braniff officers, city officials and aviation enthusiasts from San Antonio, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, and Amarillo. They came in special flights as forerunner to the opening of regular service today and were entertained at a buffet supper at the Hilton hotel last night with officials and directors of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce as hosts.

They will also participate in the inaugural broadcast this morning.

FREIGHT SERVICE PLANNED

Braniff Airlines, as soon as war conditions will permit, expect to operate a complete air freight service, and some form of such service is expected to be inaugurated in Lubbock some time this fall.

That statement was made here last night by Charles E. Beard, executive vice president of Braniff Airways. Beard said that his statement here was the first public announcement that Braniff Airways has made in that regard.

Two Vice Presidents Here

Heading the visiting Braniff officials was Chas. Beard and Capt. R. C. Shrader, Braniff vice presidents from Dallas. Beard spoke briefly at the supper last night and will talk on the broadcast this morning as a representative of Tom E. Braniff, company president, who had planned to fly here for today's events but was detained by pressing business matters in Washington.

Inauguration of the airline service will place Lubbock within air reach of any point in the nation by 12 hours flight time. Even Mexico City is but 12 hours away by air over the Braniff system and Aerovias Braniff, S. A. Mexican company owned by Braniff.

Any point in Texas is less than five hours by air and Denver is a bare five hours; San Antonio four; Austin 3 hours and 17 minutes; Houston four hours and ten minutes and Dallas two hours and 15 minutes. Flying time to Fort Worth is only one hour and 45 minutes.

Example Of Fares

The schedule to Amarillo calls for 53 minutes and a fare of $5.50 plus 15 per cent government tax. Other fares plus tax are: Fort Worth and Dallas $14.05; Denver $24.65; Houston $25.50; Austin $23.10 and San Antonio $25.85. Fare to Mexico City is $67.40 plus tax.

Braniff will furnish connection for other major airlines; with the TWA at Amarillo, American and Delta at Dallas, Eastern at Houston and United at Denver and Chicago.

The company, starting with a

Already They're Air 'Veterans'

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Braniff Airways will inaugurate airline service into Lubbock today, but a group of eleven Lubbock men are already veteran passengers of Braniff flights to and from the city.

Just ask any one of them and they'll tell you of their experiences on a Braniff B-liner which lifted its wheels off Municipal airport Saturday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock and one hour and 59 minutes later was rolling up in front of the hangar after a round trip to Amarillo.

They'll tell you how they had no sooner settled back in their seats when the huge 21-passenger ship lifted itself into the sky, circled Lubbock and was soon headed north over the brown, yellow and green patchwork of South Plains farmland for Amarillo.

"Fats" Mitchell At Stick

They'll tell you how in 14 minutes they sighted Hale Center off the tip of the left wing and in less than three minutes later Plainview was spotted just off the nose of the big airliner as First Officer E. R. Mitchell dipped the plane slightly as a signal to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Mitchell, who resided near Lockney.

And who do you think First Officer Mitchell is? Well, he's none other than Rhea Mitchell of Lockney, who attended Texas Tech and learned his flying right here at Lubbock. You Golden Gloves fans will remember him better as "Fats" Mitchell; yea, old "Fats," the big lumbering fellow who used to dish it out and take a lot of it too in fight tournaments here.

He's a different guy now, in his trim Braniff pilot's uniform, and his trim frame of 180 pounds compared to the 210 he weighed while in Tech.

But getting back to the flight. Those guys who made it will also start telling you how they wished Dr. O. W. (Babe) English hadn't gone forward to the pilots' compartment, for no sooner had the door closed than they hit a "terrible bump," just as the ship soared over Palo Duro Canyon, 37 minutes out of Lubbock.

And you'll probably hear them boast of the time they flew from Lubbock to Amarillo in 43 minutes. That's the time it took for the flight for the B-liner set its wheels on the concrete runway at English field at 3:58 o'clock.

After a stretch and refreshing

Heavy Air Blows Continue To Rock Seared Oil Port; Nip Balloon Defense Fails

By CLYDE BARTEL
Associated Press War Editor

JAPANESE broadcasters Saturday emphatically reported that an Allied fleet was hammering Balikpapan, southeastern Borneo oil port, in a "furious" bombardment preparatory to invasion. They previously had reported naval as well as aerial bombardment of the area.

Tokyo radio declared that in addition to heavy air blows, which American headquarters have acknowledged, a sea force of 50 ships was lying off Balikpapan hurling shells into the area while minesweepers clean up nearby waters for an "imminent" landing.

Silent On Landing

Fifth and 13th U. S. Air forces planes dumped 230 more tons of bombs on Balikpapen and neighboring airdrome and oil tank areas, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said today, but he continued his silence concerning Japanese claims of naval action there. More than 2,800 tons of bombs have been dropped on Balikpapan targets in 16 straight days.

American fliers said Japanese ackack was diminishing over Balikpapan, but the enemy had strung bomb-festooned cables 500 to 1,800 feet over targets, which the Yank airmen skipbombed anyhow.

A headquarters spokesman said Australian invaders of northwestern Borneo, pushing south of captured Miri, have made their first contact with the withdrawing Japanese. There was as yet no indication that the enemy would attempt a stand in defense of the rich oil and rubber area.

North Luzon Cleanup

American divisions pressing the northern Luzon cleanup of scattered Japanese survivors of the enemy's Philippine armies cleared the Nipponese from Baggao in Cagayan province. The Sixth Infantry division captured Bolog, in the central Bontoc mountains, against stiff opposition.

Allied planes again set fuel factories on Formosa afire, and hit Japanese military installations at Shanghai and Canton, in China. They sank an enemy freighter at the mouth of Canton river and struck transportation facilities along the Indo-China coast.

The Chinese high command reported the fall of Liuchow, former U. S. 14th Air force base city, to Chinese forces Friday midnight. The center of the city, a strategic Kwangsi province rail and highway hub, captured last November by the Japanese, was destroyed by fire.

Japanese rearguard units were left in Liuchow while the main enemy force retreated toward Kweilin, 100 miles northeast, bitterly contested the Chinese recovery of the city.

Radio Tokyo ignored the loss of Liuchow, but told the United States that most of Japan's kamikaze suicide air force was intact and waiting for an Allied invasion move on the Nipponese homeland.

The broadcast said that suicide aircraft sent against the United States forces in the Okinawa area were merely out-of-date planes, with Japan's best flying men and equipment being retained for the home battle.

The enemy radio also reported without confirmation that two American Superforts yesterday made the first B-29 appearance over the southern section of Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost home island. Southern Hokkaido is several miles north of the farthest penetration of Marianas-based B-29 Nippon raiders.

U. S. Submarine Lost

Loss of the U. S. Submarine Kete, overdue from patrol was reported by the Navy department yesterday. The Kete, carrying a crew of from 80 to 85 men, was the 44th undersea boat listed as lost in this war.

In the wake of Japanese predictions of further American thrusts northward from Okinawa, the Tokyo radio said U. S. destroyers and mine-sweepers had made a coastal reconnaissance of Okinoerabu island, 40 miles northeast of Okinawa and 275 miles south of Kyushu, Nippon's southern home island.

U. S. 20th Air force headquarters said Marianas-based Superforts which hit the vital Kudumatsu oil refinery on Honshu island, Japan, before midnight Friday obtained excellent results. All planes returned safely.

Chinese troops have reoccupied Linhai, on the China coast 380 miles northwest of Kume island, which American units from Okinawa occupied a few days ago. The Chinese advance up the Asiatic "invasion" coast in the wake of

Strikers Refuse Board's Appeal

DALLAS, June 30 (AP)—Some 400 workers who walked out from their jobs with the Texas Electric Railway company tonight refused to comply with a National Mediation board demand for immediate return to work.

A. R. Hardesty, subregional director of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said workers informed him that before returning to work they wanted assurance they could resume negotiations with the company and obtain a satisfactory contract without delay.

Halts Much Service

The stoppage, which began yesterday morning, has halted the interurban service of the company north to Denison and south to Waco, as well as street car and bus service in Waco and bus service in Sherman and Denison.

Return of transportation, shops, line and power department employes, member of the United Railroad Workers of America (CIO), to their jobs was ordered in a telegram to Hardesty from Robert F. Cole, secretary of the mediation board in Washington.

"Railway labor act provides for orderly and peaceful methods for handling railway labor disputes and you should process any existing dispute with management under this act," Cole's telegram said.

"This board urges that striking employees return to service immediately in line with your organization's no-strike pledge and the president's declaration that federal machinery of adjustment be utilized without stoppage of work. Please let us have your assurance at once by wire that you will fulfill the obligations of your organization by having all striking employees returned to service at once."

Byrnes Named Secretary Of State; Four New Cabinet Members Take Up New Jobs

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Press Staff Writer

KANSAS CITY, June 30 — James F. Byrnes, 66-year-old South Carolinian, was named today by President Truman as secretary of state.

The nomination of the former senator, Supreme court justice and war mobilizer will be sent to the Senate Monday for quick, possibly immediate, confirmation.

Quick Confirmation Seen

Confirmation, by unanimous consent, as is usually the procedure where appointments involve former Senate members, would make Byrnes next in line for the presidency, under the present law of succession.

Byrnes' appointment was announced by Press Secretary Charles G. Ross at a press conference in the Hotel Muehlebach with the brief statement that the nomination will be sent to the Senate Monday.

President Truman announced some weeks ago that Byrnes will accompany him to the Big Three meeting near Berlin next month when the preliminaries to a peace treaty will be settled by the chief executive with Premier Stalin, and Prime Minister Churchill.

Byrnes succeeds Edward R. Stettinius who has been appointed United States representative to the new United Nations organization.

Was With Roosevelt

Long a student of foreign affairs, Byrnes accompanied former President Roosevelt, under whom he was known as "assistant president," to the historic Big Three conference at Yalta last year.

As his selection of Byrnes was made public, President Truman relaxed, rested and in jovial mood tonight began bringing his homecoming visit to a close, and prepared to fly tomorrow to Washington to open a fateful month in which he will submit the United Nations charter to the Senate and meet with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Marshal Stalin somewhere near Berlin to prepare peace preliminaries.

FOUR NEW CABINET MEMBERS SWORN IN

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Truman appointees moved into the cabinet in force today, taking over the Agriculture, Labor, Justice and Post Office departments.

With selection of a new secretary of state, expected Monday, the new President will have half the cabinet composed of men of his own choosing.

Appointment of James F. Byrnes as secretary of state, announced today by President Truman in Kansas City, will put men of the new President's own choosing in half of the cabinet posts.

Those Taking Office

Those taking office today:

Clinton P. Anderson, until now a Democratic congressman from New Mexico, succeeding Claude Wickard as secretary of agriculture.

Lewis B. Schwellenbach, one time Washington state senator and former federal district court judge, who became secretary of labor as successor to Frances Perkins, long time incumbent under President Roosevelt.

Robert E. Hannegan, of St. Louis, chairman of the National Democratic committee, who took over the reins of the Postoffice department as postmaster general, succeeding Frank Walker.

Tom Clark, an assistant attorney general, from Texas, who took over the Department of Justice as attorney general, assuming

Crop Prospects Over Area Called 'Gloomy'

With cotton acreage totaling only 184,000 acres compared to 1,082,000 acres in 14 counties last year, the South Plains of Texas faces the most disheartening cotton prospects since 1934 and production may not total as much as 75,000 bales.

That was the gist of a report Saturday by K. N. Clapp, longtime representative of Anderson, Clayton & Co., cotton firm here, after a careful survey of the area following rainfall of June 20.

Counties covered in the survey include: Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Crosby, Lubbock, Hockley, Cochran, Gaines, Terry, Dawson, Lynn and Yoakum.

The production estimate for the area compares poorly with the 525,000 bales produced in 1944 and is below the 77,555 bales ginned in the 1934 season. The estimate of 75,000 bales represents a reduction of 86 per cent over last year's crop.

"Any estimate on production now is a wild guess," Clapp said. "It would end up with 35,000 bales or 100,000 bales depending on future weather."

Irrigation Major Promise

Irrigation stands out as the only promising factor in the crop situation with a total acreage of 98,000 acres planted to cotton under irrigation. This acreage was reduced 20 per cent by the hailstorms that accompanied the recent rains leaving an estimated 79,000 acres under irrigation now.

Dry farm acreage planted to cotton in the area totals 105,000 acres, Clapp said.

The 14 counties, all on the Caprock, have a total of 2,765 irrigation wells with 1,636 or 60 per cent used for irrigating cotton. Per well acreage averages 60, from 40 acres in Hale county to 75 acres per well in Lubbock and Crosby counties.

The 79,000 irrigated acres' condition is only fair, Clapp pointed out and production prospects at present indicate 60/100ths bale per acre. Continued dry and hot

Germans Seized For Possession Of Arms

WITH THE 21ST ARMY GROUP IN GERMANY, June 30 (AP)—British occupation authorities in the Schleswig Holstein area have seized 30 Germans for possession of arms. They face death for breaking the military government laws and the terms of surrender.

At least a dozen other Germans have been decapitated by the guillotine for concealing arms, but the number of cases has continued to gain.

Reports of secret Nazi meetings have become more frequent.

Manufacturing Quota Raised For Woolens

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The War Production board has announced increased quotas for the manufacture of several types of woolen garments, particularly for children.

The agency placed men's overcoats and topcoats on the list of essential civilian items that will be given priority assistance. It previously announced that overcoats would be more abundant by November and worsted men's suits more plentiful by early 1946.

Henceforth, manufacturers will be permitted to make 75 per cent of their 1943 production of children's garments instead of only 50 per cent. The quota for boys' overcoats is also increased to 75 per cent of the 1943 output.

NEW MAILING REGULATIONS

DALLAS, June 30. (AP) — The Navy is putting into effect regulations restricting the mailing of newspapers and magazines to Navy, Marine and Coast Guard personnel overseas. Beginning July 1, post offices will accept only publications that are requested in writing by the addressee.

New Trans-Atlantic Record Established

CASABLANCA, June 26. (AP)—(Delayed).—An air transport command Douglas Skymaster today established a new Trans-Atlantic record for scheduled transport planes by flying the 3,298 miles between Bermuda and Casablanca in 14 hours and 2 minutes.

Capt. James I. Thomas, pilot, of Brownsville Road, Pittsburgh, reported the plane averaged a ground speed of 235 miles an hour over most of the route. The Transport carried a peak load of 3,560 gallons of gasoline.

MEET TO OPEN JULY 9

LONDON, June 30. (AP) — The Paris radio said tonight the Big Three meeting would open July 9. It will be held in or near Berlin.

Churchill To Quit If Laborites Win

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said tonight that he best could lead the nation through "the dangers" ahead and that he would quit the government if the Labor party won the July 5 election.

"It would be impossible for me to serve in a Labor party government when that party is wedded to policies which I regard as ruinous to the future of this country," the Conservative leader declared in his final campaign address.

Churchill said a labor victory would lead to factional strife and that without a strong government Britain might quickly be reduced to a secondary power.

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—Two anonymous telephone calls led to discovery of the slashed body of an unidentified woman in the Park West hotel today.

U. S. Sub Overdue And Presumed Lost

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—The submarine USS Kete is overdue from patrol and presumed lost, the Navy announced today.

It carried a wartime complement of from 80 to 85 men.

The Kete was commanded by Lt. Comdr. Edward Ackerman, whose wife Marjorie, lives at 3433 Mooney avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Next of kin of those men aboard have been notified, the Navy said.

The Kete is the 44th submarine reported lost in this war.

Woman Pleads Innocent, And Bond Continued In Slaying Case

NEW CANAAN, Conn., June 30. (AP) — Mrs. Imogene Stevens, 24, came back home today to plead innocent to a charge of manslaughter for her admitted shooting just a week ago of Albert Kovacs, 19-year-old submarine sailor and veteran of the Pacific campaign. Her bail was continued at $50,000.

As quickly as she had come, she was whisked back to the Fairfield county jail where she has been held since the killing of young Kovacs, and where she will await action by the Superior court probably in September.

A hundred persons, mostly women, crowded the tiny court room in the two-story brick town hall, scarcely five blocks from her home and the adjoining residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milton (he is an aircraft company executive) where late last Saturday she shot Kovacs.

The case described only yesterday by Coroner Theodore Steiber as a killing commited "in an aura of sex recrimination, beer and window smashing" in which young Kovacs had no part, was presented briefly by town Prosecutor Edmond L. Morrison.

He understood, he said, that David Goldstein, her attorney, would waive examination and Goldstein confirmed this, adding he would not seek a reduction of bail at the present time.

The crowd was obviously disappointed at the brevity of the proceedings. It craned its neck toward Mrs. Stevens, hoping apparently to get a better view of her face, but the Texas-born daughter of a policeman, who married paratroop Major G. Ralsey Stevens 3rd in Alliance, Neb., in 1943 when he was in training, stared fixedly at Associate Judge Arba V. Marvin.

The judge, clad in a white summer suit, presided over the perspiring court room from a high oaken bench.

If Mrs. Stevens recognized old friends in the crowd she gave no sign of it. Brought directly to the court house from the jail in Bridgeport, she walked through a large crowd, accompanied by two state police lieutenants and a policewoman, to a small ante-room with railed-in enclosure before the bench.

The defendant, mother of a six-year-old daughter by a previous

Gauge Of Leftist Swing Is Main U. S. Interest In British Election

BY LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

The chief interest of Americans in Great Britain's general election this week can be stated rather simply. It is whether the new government will tend toward what is loosely called in world politics the left or right.

Neither of the two principal parties has claimed convincingly that there will be any great differences in Britain's conduct of foreign affairs or attitude toward the post-war peace organization. Both are for unqualified friendship with the United States and Russia. Neither promises to be any less vigorous in restoring Britain's position in world trade, shipping and commercial aviation.

On domestic issues, the Conservative party headed by Prime Minister Winston Churchill and the Labor party, led by Clement R. Attlee, promise the same things, only by different methods. They are for such fundamental measures as adequate housing, food, employment, and health and social insurance.

Churchill's Fate Watched

What American observers are watching with the liveliest interest is whether Churchill, whose policies they know, will be returned to power. Otherwise it will be the Labor party, with a broad social program and definite ideas on state control. The issue has been put, broadly, as the difference between private enterprise and state management.

The lack of clear distinction between the two party programs in foreign affairs makes the election resemble, in a way, the Roosevelt-Dewey campaign in the United States last year.

Churchill, like President Roosevelt, has the advantage of a widely-respected personality and of war achievement. Having led Britain through the defeat of Germany, he wants to continue until Japan is beaten and post-war problems are on the way to solution.

Close Race Indicated

Despite Churchill's prestige, dispatches from Britain agree that it is likely to be a close race. It must be remembered that it is the first election in 10 years, and that hundreds of thousands of young men and women will be voting for the first time. Their reaction cannot be gauged accurately.

Churchill recently appealed to the electorate for a substantial working majority in the House of Commons, hinting that he would be unable to function in the best interests of the country if independent or unaffiliated members hold a balance of power between the two big parties. He also mentioned his dislike of going to the big three meeting without knowing his strength at home. (Although the election will be held on July 5, results will not be announced until July 26, when overseas returns have been counted).

It has been rather a hectic campaign, for Britain. In the absence of any juicy issues, some phoney ones have been raised. The Conservatives have tried to scare the country by picturing a Labor victory as meaning a Socialistic triumph which would amount to revolution and establishment of a gestapo in the tight little isle. Most Britons were amused.

Criticisms Exchanged

Churchill himself denounced Prof. Harold Laski, the Labor party's famous left wing political scientist, as a sinister "back room" power who would guide foreign policy by dictatorial methods. Labor retorted by picturing Lord Beaverbrook, the vociferous newspaper publisher, as Laski's counterpart behind Churchill and the Tories.

All in all, in campaign methods and results after the votes have been counted, the British general election is much like one of ours. Some comparisons and differences are:

The new House of Commons will have 640 seats, as against 435 in the U. S. House of Representatives. The House of Lords, unlike the Senate, is not elective and has little real power, being mainly consultative or advisory.

The leader of the elected party becomes prime minister, an office which corresponds in actual practice to the presidency. The prime minister's salary is about $30,000 a year; that of the President $75,000. Members of the British cabinet get about $20,000 a year, and of the American $15,000.

An American representative gets $10,000 a year but a British M. P. only $2,400. A striking difference is that the leader of the opposition party in Commons gets an official salary of $8,000 a year —a recognition of the important part played by the opposition.

In campaign expenditures, a candidate for Commons may spend sixpence (ten cents) for each registered voter in a country constituency or fivepence (eight cents) in a town constituency. For an average constituency, that would be a maximum of $7,000. The federal corrupt practices act in the United States puts a limit of $5,000 on candidates for the House and $25,000 for the Senate.

The biggest difference of all is that the British government is not put into office for a definite period, like the inflexible four years of the American system. A British government can be tossed out at any time by a vote of no confidence in Commons on a major issue.

For that reason, one British observer has likened the coming British general elections to an American primary. It is not final. His idea is that the electorate will return Churchill to power, knowing that its decision can be reversed within a month, if necessary.

Japan suffered its worst defeats prior to World War II at the hand of Admiral Yi Sun Sin of Korea, who sank over a thousand Japanese war vessels and drowned more than a quarter million Japanese soldiers.

Jack Lovelace Home After 19 Months In Signal Unit Overseas

T/4 Jack Lovelace, home after 33 months in the Middle-Eastern, North African and European theaters, has some things to tell about his 19 months with the British and American armies in Egypt in the early days of our part in the war. But he says an air-raid is the nearest to battle conditions he ever came.

LOVELACE

"Ours was the first American signal unit to go overseas," Sgt. Lovelace said. "We were there to establish telephone communication and stayed to put in the complete telephone network. We were in Asmara, Eritera, just across the Ethiopian border on the Red Sea. When the British ran the Italians out of Ethiopia, they put the town under martial law and used it for a base.

"The town of Asmara, elevation 8,000 feet, built on top of a mountain, was originally an Italian colony and had a population of 18,000 Italians. We were told not to fraternize with the natives because of military security. We could buy stuff from their stores, but we couldn't have anything to do with them socially. We were threatened with court-martial if caught visiting in their homes or talking with them aside from business.

"We didn't particularly like the British army's rules about rank discrimination. We felt that if a sergeant wanted to have a private for a friend, that was fine. But the British looked down their noses at us for allowing such goings on. In the British army, a private associates only with privates, a corporal only with corporals, and so on up.

"When there wasn't anything else to do, we could always argue with the Tommies about the difference in pay, clothing and equipment in the two armies. Naturally, we won hands down, because we got lots more money, had more uniform, and more flashy ones—and had far better equipment than they did. It sure burned them up."

After leaving the Middle East, Sgt. Lovelace went into North Africa, where he stayed seven months, then spent the rest of the time in Italy at Allied Force headquarters, where he was in the message center and teletype section. When the European armies began redeployment, he was the only man in his section who had been overseas the required 30 months for furlough, and was the only one sent back to the States.

After his 30-day leave, which he is spending in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Lovelace, 2329 Nineteenth, the sergeant will report to Hot Springs, Ark., for two weeks before being reassigned.

Payments Ready For Farmers

Payments to beef cattle producers, milk producers and to farmers insured for cotton crop loss are ready to be made by the Agriculture Adjustment Agency, 14th and Ave. Q, Walter Y. Wells, administrative officer of the local office, announced Saturday.

Beef production application blanks have arrived and any producers who have sold beef to slaugtherers for at least $13.50 per hundred-weight if the animal weighed 800 pounds or more should apply. Producers are to present sales receipts showing buyer, date of sale and price received and weight of animal. Checks will be made out immediately.

The AAA office will be ready Monday to accept applications for milk production payments for April, May and June, Wells said.

Milk Rate Is 70 Cents

The rate for April is 70 cents per hundred for whole milk and 17 cents a pound for butterfat. May and June rates are 35 cents for whole milk and 10 cents for butter.

Wells reminded farmers suffering cotton crop loss to turn in immediately the number of acres planted to receive their insurance. It will be necessary to have number of acres planted to receive their insurance. It will be necessary to have these forms before loss can be reported and farms checked Wells said.

The AAA official added that his office has discontinued its aid the farmers in getting supplementary gasoline for trucks and tractors. Applications will now be made through the Office of Price administration for tractor gas, and through the Office of Defense Transportation for extra gas allotments for trucks. A cut in appropriations necessitated cessation of this service, Wells said.

Warning Issued On Loose Shoe Coupons

Shoe dealers in the Lubbock Office of Price administration district have received instructions they are to accept no loose shoe coupons, the OPA office announced Saturday.

"Customers who request dealers to accept loose stamps are asking them to violate the rationing regulations," officials said, and urged cooperation of both dealers and the public to insure fair distribution of rationed shoes.

It was disclosed at the same time that consumers will be given an opportunity to buy men's and women's odd-lot shoes rationfree and at mark-down prices when a small percentage of shoes in these categories is released to the public during the three-week period July 9 through 28. Rationing Executive W. G. Williams made this announcement.

Odd lot shoes must be sold to consumers at prices at least 25 per cent below the prices at which they were offered for sale on June 1, 1945.

Dealers have been requested to limit sales of odd lot shoes to no more than a pair to each customer, to allow more people to share in the limited stocks, Williams said.

Hard Work, Applied Early, Is Best Answer To Johnson Grass Problem

Hard work — immediately — seems to be the answer to eradication of johnson grass according to a survey conducted on a community of "clean" farms surrounding Slaton.

A cross-section of farmers interviewed on routes 1 and 2, Slaton, shows that those who got to the grass during the first year it appears, now have no grass on their farms, and many kept their land clean during rainy seasons when the pesky grass spreads so rapidly.

Kerosene and fuel oil also were used by many and it was said that heavy sprayings with these materials will eliminate the grass, if it is hit during the first year.

Dig Grass Out Early

Most of the farmers who are not bothered by the grass, however, simply dig it out as soon as it appears during its first year and before it reaches over two-three inches in height.

Albert Pinkert, who lives on route 2, Slaton, had his farm clean in 1943 but some 50 acres adjacent to his land poised a threat to the farm. Pinkert bought the 50 acres of badly-infested land and went to work clearing the johnson grass.

He seeded the land to wheat in the early fall of 1943 and grazed it through the winter and spring. He listed and relisted six times. Between these he would hoe what grass came up, in addition to ploughing three times. He never allowed the grass to get over two-three inches high. He took his bedder attachments off and put on 26-inch solid sweeps, with buffers to make low rows.

No Grass On Farm

Now there is no grass on Pinkert's farms, nor has there been since 1944.

H. F. Schilling, who lives on route 1, usually runs about 100 head of cattle each year and had been feeding johnson grass hay. In 1942 the grass spread to his 15-acre patch of sudan and began to take root. He immediately listed and relisted, then seeded it to row crops and by intensive cultivation and late-season hoeing he reports he was able to eradicate about 90 per cent of the grass. Later in winter he dug up what remained.

Jesse Brasfield, Slaton farmer living on route 2, was another who took the "bull by the horns" when a 55-acre plot adjacent to his property was badly infested with the grass. He leased the land on five-year terms, broke the ground thoroughly in the summer of 1943 and seeded it to wheat.

He grazed through the winter and into late spring and then listed and relisted eight times. He went over the land several other times with big sweeps and eliminated 90 per cent of the grass. He grazed 350 head of sheep on this with a supplementary pasture and says that the land would have easily handled 200 during the winter and spring. The land is now in good shape to plant.

S. S. Forrest, Slaton resident who is one of the largest land owners in this area, has a special agreement in his tenant contracts whereby the johnson grass problem is handled.

Forrest has very little, if any, johnson grass on his many farms. He has his own tractor and if his tenants are too busy with crops to take care of the grass as it appears he sends his tractor to that particular farm to plough ditches around his lands, before the grass goes to seed.

Laborers Dig Out Grass

He then sends laborers to dig out the other grass that is scattered over his farms. Forrest had fences around all his land at one time, but these have been removed and all roads have been backsloped. His two farms that give the most difficulty are located on a draw but he says they will be cleaned out by next year, giving him a 100 per cent clean johnson grass record on all his land.

Ray Kitten, who has been farming on his present lands since 1918, says that the only farms in his community on route 1 that have grass are tenant farms. He believes most of this to be the fault of both land owners and tenants. Better agreements are needed to guarantee the tenant repayment for his labor on the grass and a continued lease, Kitten said.

Kitten's farm is entirely clear of grass because he "gets it when he sees it, and before the roots take hold very deep in the ground." He has killed some first year grass with kerosene in one application.

R. J. Bednarz said "if everyone would dig it out as soon as he sees it, and had been doing it in the past, we would not be bothered with the spread of the grass now." Bednarz, who lives east of Slaton, has been on his farm there since 1920 and has no grass on his one-half section. He estimates the problem as "very great," especially as to the labor involved if it takes root.

F. A. Anders, Arthur Kahlick, August, Frank, L. V. and O. F. Kitten all gave the same reports as to "quick work" when the grass is first seen.

These men are all part of a group of some 60-odd farmers around Slaton who have no johnson grass on their farms, and who are complimented by Jason Gordon, Lubbock county agent, and H. P. Read, assistant to the county agent, as to having the best methods of eradicating the grass in this area.

Valuable Souvenirs Sent From Germany

First Lt. C. T. Potts, jr., who is in Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army headquarters in Munich, Germany, has sent his father some valuable souvenirs from the Reich. Latest is a 100mm. moving picture projector.

The projector, which came complete with instructions in German for its operation, was made by Filmoli Bildwerfer, Georg Martin, Rothenback, a.P., according to the trademark, and is German through and through. No part of it was made in the United States.

Earlier, Lt. Potts, who has been in the Army for seven years and before going into the headquarters office, was adjutant of an all-negro company, sent table linens taken from a German hotel and a captured parachute to his family. He also sent pewter creamer and sugar sets and a large pewter champagne bucket.

Lt. Potts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Potts of Route 4. A brother, Sgt. James Potts is with the medical corps and is stationed at 163rd General hospital near London.

Vets Advised Of Bans On New Vehicles

Returning servicemen were cautioned Saturday by John Van Pelt, district manager of the Office of Defense transportation, that strict limitations still stand on allocation of new vehicles.

Van Pelt said that ODT's general orders provide that any war veteran may apply for and receive a non-transferable certificate of war necessity for one property carrying commercial motor vehicle for use by him in a business activity controlled by him, when the issuance of the certificate will not adversely affect the war effort.

A veteran is not required to show that the proposed operation is necessary to the war effort, as is the case with non-veterans, Van Pelt added.

When a veteran can arrange to purchase a used truck, every effort will be made to eliminate red tape and make it possible for him to operate it, the ODT official said, but the arrangement necessarily has to be different in regard to new trucks.

To obtain a new truck, it is necessary that a veteran meet the same requirements as a non-veteran, namely that the use to which the vehicle will be put is necessary to the war effort or essential civilian economy, Van Pelt said.

Surplus Of Combines And Trucks Reported

A surplus of combines and trucks is occurring in the wheat harvesting areas according to Jason O. Gordon, Lubbock county agent, who warns truck and combine owners of venturing into new areas where they do not definitely have work.

Gordon said, however, that farmers or farm hands in the county who need a few weeks work while awaiting better working conditions could find work in the wheat harvest as tractor drivers. He said that shortage of this type of help had developed.

The county agent said those interested should check with his office, Fourteenth and Ave. Q, or see J. B. Kid, farm labor field assistant with offices at Plainview.

Real "Tom Thumb" Couple United In Marriage At Austin

AUSTIN, June 30 (U.P.)—Myrna Myrle Clifton, 19, and August Clarence Swensen, 26, were married last night with more than 500 excited guests craning their necks for a better view of the midget couple.

Candles flanked the altar at the First Methodist church, but they weren't needed. Powerful, hot spot lights of photographers turned the planned dimness into brilliance.

And three times while the 48-inch tall bride and her 52-inch tall groom were taking their double-ring vows, a newsreel cameraman turned them sideward from the minister for a better shot.

Myrna Myrle, the only known living midget daughter of midget parents, was given by her father, Johnnie Clifton, 52 inches tall. Mrs. Clifton, 47 inches, sat with two small friends of the family, Walton Galloway, Austin, 32 inches tall, and Sandy King, Brownwood, about Johnnie's height.

The couple will reside in San Antonio where Clarence is a senior radio technician at Kelly field.

United States Marines, under command of Col. Robert E. Lee, captured John Brown at Harper's Ferry in 1859.

LAAF Group To Be Discharged

Lubbock Army Air field's second quota of combat veterans—a total of 18 officers and 17 enlisted men and including four Texas veterans of the aerial war—began leaving this week-end for separation centers and return to civilian life under the Army's point discharge system.

All of the officers were veterans of the aerial war against the Reich and Japan and all except three were instructors at the big AAF Instructors school for instrument pilots.

Among the enlisted men were veterans who had for the post part served from two to three years overseas and several who had been in combat zones almost from the day the war started. Officials explained that in the case of enlisted personnel, the job the man was doing played almost as important a role as the number of points.

Critical Jobs Considered

Higher headquarters designated the number of men in each job group who would be released. As a result many men with well over 85 points and with critical jobs will remain in uniform.

The four Texas men included in the group which will receive discharges upon their arrival at separation centers are: Capt. Jewell J. James of San Antonio, a veteran P-51 pilot with the Twelfth Air force in the Italian area; 1st Lt. Aubrey L. Hogue, jr., of Paris, veteran B-24 and B-25 pilot in the SW Pacific; 7st Lt. Jesse P. Wheeler of Austin, who was no duty with the 15th Air Force in the Italian area, and 1st Lt. William R. Hammond of Kosse, Texas, B-24 veteran with the 15th Air force in the Italian area.

Mark Twain attended a log cabin school until he was 12 years old.

Senate Group To Begin Hearings July 9 On United Nations Charter

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The Senate foreign relations committee decided today to open hearings on the United Nations charter July 9.

The first witness probably will be Edward R. Stettinius, jr., President Truman's choice for United States representative on the Security Council.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said the committee was unanimously agreed on the desirability of proceeding with all possible speed, but decided that next week could be profitably employed in permitting the State department to assemble the many documents which will be needed in the hearing.

Sessions Open To Public

The sessions will be open to the public, and will be held in the big, marble-walled majority caucus room in the Senate office building adjacent to the capitol.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) is insisting that the power of the American delegate on the Security Council should be defined in the ratification resolution. Senator George (D-Ga) proposes delaying a decision on this issue until negotiations begin on the American forces to be made available to the international organization to help keep future peace.

George told a reporter any condition written into the ratification resolution could only be regarded by other nations as an indirect amendment of the charter. He expressed the opinion that such a move would spawn similar proposals by many of the signatory powers.

Connally Opposes Suggestion

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee also opposed Taft's suggestion. But he wants the powers of the delegate defined in separate legislation setting up the office, fixing its salary and providing method of appointment.

It was pointed out that any action Congress takes toward limiting the authority of the American representative also would affect the Council's authority. For instance, if the U. S. representative were barred from approving use of American troops in Europe, as some have suggested, his failure to vote would prevent action by the Council until Congress had decided the matter.

For that reason, charter supporters are expected to urge that wide latitude be given the President to approve at his discretion the use of at least a limited number of U. S. troops. This power he could delegate to the American representative.

Sailor's Amazing Recovery From Burns Revealed By Navy

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Editor

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—How a sailor survived and returned to duty after the burning of 83 per cent of the surface of his body—one of the largest non-fatal burns on record—was reported by the Navy today.

Citing the case as an example of the extensive burnings the human body now can sustain because of such war-developed treatments as plasma for shock and penicillin for combatting infection, Lt. Cmdr. John R. Johnson of the Navy medical corps gave details in the naval medical bulletin.

The 19-year-old, unnamed sailor was burned almost entirely from head to foot in a gasoline explosion somewhere in the tropics.

Delicate Membranes Burned

The only parts of his body that escaped were that part of the head covered by thick hair; the feet and ankles which were covered with field shoes; the lower abdomen and upper thighs which were clothed in abbreviated shorts.

Even the delicate membranes beneath the eyelids were burned, and so were the membranes of nose and throat.

The patient was under treatment for 62 days and during that time he developed such complications as shock, anemia, clotting in various blood vessels and blood poisoning.

1,700,000 Units Of Pencillin

His legs and arms were bandaged, but because bandaging of the body is poorly tolerated in the heat of the tropics, his trunk was sprayed with a vaseline-paraffin mixture, and his face was coated thickly with sulfathiazole ointment.

He was given morphine, plasma, transfusions of whole blood, received penicillin every three hours for 17 days—a total of 1,700,000 units.

About a month after he was injured, skin grafts were placed on two of the worst-burned areas. The skin for the grafts was taken from previously burned areas which had healed

After two months in a hospital he was sent to a rear area for a month and then returned to duty.

Guard For Jap Balloons Set

Plans for coordination of activities of the Texas State Guard and officials of the Army to combat any Japanese balloons which may fall in this area were announced by officials Saturday.

Residents of Lubbock and vicinity and the surrounding counties have been asked to report any enemy missiles which fall in this area to their nearest Texas State Guard officers immediately. State Guard officials then will take immediate steps to guard the enemy balloon and bombs, if any, until regular military authorities arrive on the scene.

The reason for taking this precaution is to make it possible to place a guard around the balloon as soon as possible so as to prevent injuries and damage to property.

In case residents of the area are unable to contact their State Guard they should immediately contact the Provost Marshal at Lubbock Army Air field and appropriate action will be taken. Officials emphasized that speed in contacting authorities and precaution in guarding such missiles were the main objectives.

Should Guard Missiles

Anyone who finds one of the balloons or notices one in flight should first notify authorities, then guard the missile at a safe distance to see that no person or animal goes near it. Above all, officials warned, residents should not attempt to handle, or try to move such enemy objects. It may cause death.

Should anyone in this area notice one of the balloons, they should immediately contact one of the following officials at the State Guard:

If in Lubbock and vicinity, call Capt. Walter F. Smith at office phone 9511, or his residence phone at 8023;

In the Crosbyton area, contact Lt. Lloyd Fowler;

In the Levelland area, call Capt. J. V. Morton;

In the Plainview area, residents should call Capt. Chester E. McSwain;

In the Floydada area, call Capt. T. P. Collins;

In the Tahoka area, call Capt. Earnest R. Edwards;

In the Brownfield section, residents should call Capt. Glen Akers.

Officials said there was no reason to become alarmed over the precaution, that it was only a precaution, but one which would save injury and lives should enemy missiles fall in this area.

The U. S. Post Office Department handles approximately 500,000,000 pounds of newspapers and magazines annually.

Annual summer education conference for West Texas educators and Texas Tech students will be held from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Friday in the Tech agriculture building auditorium, it was announced by Dr. R. E. Garlin, head of the department of education and psychology.

Because of ODT limitations on conference attendance, only 50 out-of-town educators have been invited but these are representative of the surrounding territor, Dr. Garlin said.

The conference will cover administrative and teaching problems. Advanced Tech students will participate on programs directed by Tech faculty members. Open discussion meetings will be held in the afternoon.

All Tech students, college and Lubbock Public school faculty members, and educators in this immediate vicinity are urged to attend.

Eggs Becoming Scarce As Ham That 'Used To' Go Along With Them

(By The Associated Press)

Slowly but unmistakably eggs are becoming as scarce as the ham that used to go with them.

A cross-country survey by the Associated Press showed Saturday that the pinch is growing tighter in all sections, accentuated by the meat shortage which has stepped up the table demand for eggs as a substitute.

As Clinton P. Anderson moved into the cabinet to take over a reorganized Agriculture department the House Food committee he headed for three months got out another of its reports, this time warning of a steadily mounting egg shortage, powered in part by a growing poultry black market which is decimating laying flocks.

Meat Outlook Slightly Up

Meat appeared to be in a little better supply, but the shortage continued acute in some areas. The OPA said civilian supplies will go up five per cent this month — about a bite a meal for the average diner. Rain delayed the corn crop 10 days to three weeks, however, indirectly menacing the government drive to get more pork and beef.

Shoppers in some areas looked with bewilderment at counters piled with ration-costly butter at the same time point values went up two points on margarine. But there was an explanation: Butter production is about 200,000,000 pounds below needs. High ration values are used by the government to try to equalize distribution of existing supplies.

Congress Restless

A Congress restless to fix responsibility for the country's bare cupboard got new ammunition during the week through a committee report blistering some operations of the War Food administration —now moving under direct control of the agriculture secretary.

A house appropriations subcommittee, reporting on a prolonged investigation, asserted poor warehousing methods, incorrect bookkeeping and false records in WFA have cost the nation millions of dollars both in food and cash.

Black marketeers continued to chip away the civilian's supply of reasonably-priced food. The House Food committee spoke of growing black markets in eggs, poultry and other foodstuffs.

Overseas Vet New CO At Dalhart Field

DALHART, June 30. (U.P.)—Col. Troy W. Crawford, El Paso, has assumed command of the Dalhart Army Air field, the public relations office announced today.

Col. Crawford was commandant of a bomber group with Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's 8th Air force in Europe. On April 4, 1945 Crawford's Mosquito bomber was shot down over Germany. One week later he was rescued, after being held prisoner.

Crawford succeeds Col. Wm. D. Tipton, whose assignment was not disclosed.

Date Is Extended For Claims With Dalby

Final date for claims to be filed with the Dalby Motor Freight Lines, Inc., has been extended to August 1 according to Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy district clerk and U. S. commissioner.

Claims should be filed with the freight company, Mrs. Fluke said.

Three civil cases have been filed in the commissioner's office. They were filed, in all three cases, by the Office of Price administration representatives charging firms in Lubbock with violation of the 1942 emergency price control act.

OPA seeks treble damages against Hub Jones, doing business as the Hub Motor Co., to the sum of $879.87; against Otis Hudgeons, doing business as Hudgeons Fruits and Vegetables, for $600.04; and against J. M. Davis and W. E. Humphries, doing business as Davis and Humphries, and C. T. Williams for $421.78.

Draft Board Correspondence Reveals Varied Tales Of Woe

"I have already wrote the President and I don't hear from him. I will write Uncle Sam and tell him about you both," a wife, who wanted to get her husband drafted, wrote Lubbock County Selective Service Board No. 1.

Draft board correspondence is as varied as the problems of mankind. One wife thought the draft board was the proper place to present this problem: "Please send me my elopment, as I have a four-month-old baby and he is my only support and I need all I can get every day."

Sundry Letters In File

Mrs. Viola Younger, chief clerk, has a file of sundry letters to prove that people call on the draft board when in trouble. She pointed out that some people may call on the Lord in time of need; a few will rely on their own judgment, but a lot of folk lean on Hershey's Selective Service.

This letter was recently received from a friend of the wife: "I am riting you about Joe. He says he don't hafta go to the Army. He can stay over in the canyon, smoke and sleep. He is working his wife to death. She is making his living not big as a bird."

Wants Husband Drafted

A disgruntled wife: "I am writing this letter to you to see if there is anything I can do to get my husband drafted on grounds of non-support. He has brown hair, five feet four inches tall, weighs 107 pounds but would weigh more if teeth were removed."

All sorts of troubles—domestic fights, drunkenness, non-support and the ills of the entire family —are dumped into the laps of draft board members. They are expected to make a whiz out of papa by putting him in the Army.

Write Board About It

Relatives and enemies of registrants are so convinced that the Army is the government's plan for getting rid of society's undesirables that they write the board about it . . . "This man was classed 4-A on account of one leg being longer than the other which don't give him no trouble. He needs to be under Uncle Sam's training. There is another scrub here that needs to go too, but reckon he is too sorry for even the Army."

Peace at any price: "I want you to know what this man is doing. He ain't trying to help win this truble war. He carry a load of women to dance and drink beer. He running the rubber off his tires. We needs to save everything we can . . . we need that gas he having hie heel time on."

No Pay Since Or Before

Confusing isn't it?: "My husband has worked on shift for about two months, and he left me and I ain't had no pay since he has gone, or before either."

In a rut: "Both sides of my parents is poor and I can expect nothing from them as my mother has been in bed for one year with the same doctor and won't change."

The cautious type: "Please find out for certain if my husband is dead, as the man I am living with won't eat or do anything until he knows for sure."

Wants Him In Army

Whata Man!: "About March 1 a married man was discharged from Navy for back injury. He lives next door to me. Since he came home he able to go right into his job, dig up his back yard, put in a garden and lay some pipe. His wife had a baby two weeks ago. I wish you would call him back and put him in the Army."

A traitor to Texas: "I would love to know what keeps such a man out of the service. He is a dodger, now he's back in California and it don't agree with his wife. Would you drop him a letter, put it to him plain, that he can either come back to his own state or he can get ready for Uncle Sam. Let me know by return mail."

Hummmh . . .: "I have no children, as my husband is a truck driver and works day and night."

In 1944 meat production rose 53 per cent above peacetime (1935-39) average production.

Food Situation To Remain Tight

BY OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 30—The Agriculture department today held out little hope for early improvement in the general food situation.

Civilian supplies of meats, food fats and oils, rice, sugar, and sweet bakery products will be much shorter this summer than last, the report said.

Fresh vegetables and fruits, most cereal products, fluid milk and skim milk products probably will be sufficient to meet civilian demands, it added.

Egg supplies will be about as large as last summer, but short of a demand augmented by the severe meat and poultry shortage.

Final Food Summary

The report was the final food summary issued under direction of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard and War Food Administrator Marvin Jones. Both will be succeeded late today by Rep. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM).

The department said total meat production during the July-September quarter may be down five to 10 per cent from the output of the third quarter of 1944, with a reduction in pork production being offset in part by increased output of beef and veal.

Stating special government programs may improve distribution, the report said meat supplies for civilians "probably will remain at a very low level through the summer and early fall."

Fats, Oils To Be Tight

"Meat production will increase seasonably during the last quarter of the year, but increased noncivilian purchases for war uses, now indicated, probably will take most of the increased out," it added.

The department predicted the "very tight" supply of food fats and oils—butter, margarine, lard, shortening, salad oils, etc.—will continue at least until late spring or summer of 1946. Civilian butter supplies were said to be somewhat smaller than last summer, but regional distribution was described as better.

Tight Egg Supply Due

Civilian supplies of such bakery products as cakes, sweet rolls and other items requiring large quantities of sugar and fats are expected to be smaller because of shorter supplies of the latter ingredients.

The report forecast a very tight egg supply situation in deficit producing areas of the North Atlantic and Pacific coasts during the last half of the year.

The new cabinet members gave the west and southwest a greater hand in the national administration.

Anderson And Food

Taking the oath of office, Anderson promised to bring about an improvement in the food situation "as quickly as possible."

The nation is faced with serious shortages of many important foods, he added, "not on account of any failure of farmers, because they have done their best, but because demand has simply outstripped the production program."

The new labor secretary said he hoped to centralize all agencies affecting labor by September 1. He named six friends, including Dr. John R. Steelman, former federal conciliator, to survey the situation for him.

He had no delusions, Schwellenbach told reporters, that he would be able to stop all strikes or solve all the problems of labor.

"My job, as I see it," he said, "is to minimize labor troubles."

withdrawing Japanese put them near Tiental, 145 miles south of Shanghai.

While the Japanese were withdrawing from Liuchow to Kweilin, Chinese forces also were converging on the latter city. The Chinese were last reported to be within 10 miles of Kweilin, also a U. S. air base abandoned by the Yanks in the Nipponese offensive last fall.

Recapture of Liuchow put the Kweichow-Kwangsi railroad back into Chinese hands—the first partially or totally Nipponese-held rail line to revert entirely to Chinese control.

Frontier Town Retaken

The Chinese high command said Chungchinfu, on the frontier between Kwangsi and Indo-China, was recaptured from the Japanese June 24. Fall of the town eliminated one of the potential springboards for a remotely possible Nipponese invasion of southwestern Kwangsi.

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of U. S. forces in China and chief of staff of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, has completed an inspection of Chinese and American installations in North China. He praised the discipline and morale of the Americans and Chinese cooperation with the Yanks.

Pay Raise Bill For U. S. Workers Signed

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—A general average 15 per cent salary increase for most federal employes was signed into law today by President Truman.

The pay-raise bill provides an increase of 20 per cent on salaries up to $1,200; 10 per cent on salaries between $1,200 and $4,600 and 5 per cent for everything over $4,600.

The measure also carries a provision for a 10 per cent night differential and holiday pay to employes who are required to work on holidays that the President declares to be nonwork days. Overtime pay on basic salaries up to and inluding $2,980 is provided with automatic in-grade promotions to be made every 12 and 18 months instead of every 18 and 30 months.

The bill applies to all federal workers except elected officials, federal judges, department heads of independent agencies of the federal government, District of Columbia municipal employes, postal employes, employes outside the continental limits of the United States, inland waterways corporation employes and Tennessee Valley authority employes.

Legislation would reclassify the salaries of postal employes is now on the President's desk.

Amarillo Trip

drinks at the airport cafe, they met the Amarilloans who were returning with them; had their pictures made in front of the plane and were off again for Lubbock at 4:29 o'clock.

The return flight was "old stuff" by this time, they'll tell you. At 4:59, thirty minutes out of Amarillo, Plainview was again in view off to the left and only a few minutes later the big DC3 settled into a glide and landed back at Municipal airport at 5:14 o'clock. The return flight required 45 minutes, two longer than the trip up.

Some Had Butterflies

Two or three of them will have to confess that the flight put butterflies in their stomachs as the air was more than unusually rough in the 5,000-to-6,000-foot altitude flown on the trip.

Two of the party, City Commissioner Fred H. Childress and T. R. Glenn, Railway Express agent, were making their first airplane rides on the trip. Several of the others were on their first airline flight, while one or two others had made airline trips before. Two of the group, Dr. Fred W. Standefer and Robt. H. Bean, member of the City Airport board, are pilots themselves and showed more interest in the pilots' room and instrument board. To the others, it was just a maze of instruments and gadgets.

Oh, yes, you'd probably like to know that the pretty and petite hostess on the trip was Miss Elizabeth Estes, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Gus W. McCleary.

First Officer Mitchell, who learned to fly in the CPT program here, now has more than 3,000 hours in the air logged to his credit. He's been with Braniff a year and a half after a hitch at instructing in the Army flight training program. Capt. A. G. Place of Dallas was chief pilot.

Lubbock men making the trip besides those mentioned above were: Mayor O. W. Ribble, State Rep. Preston Smith, Dr. Wm. M. Whyburn, president of Texas Tech; Geo. P. Kuykendall, Walter Switzer of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce staff and your reporter.

Coming back with them from Amarillo were: City Manager Austin Hancock, John Fullingim, attorney and president of Great Plains Airways; Shelby Kritzer, president Plains Airport Corp.; Arthur Truitt, aviation committee, Amarillo Chamber of Commerce; T. W. Gilstrap; Mrs. C. D. Hoover, winner of the Amarillo Victory Flight bond contest; Misses Connie Underwood and Jean Piper, Braniff employes, and Lewis Nordyke, Amarillo Globe-News staff member.

Russians Kill Selves Rather Than Go Back

FORT DIX, N. J., June 30. (U.P.)—Military authorities guarded today against additional suicide attempts by Russian citizens who object to being returned to the Soviet after serving with the German Army.

Three of the 154 Russians held at this camp committed suicide by hanging yesterday during a riot in which three others were wounded and three American soldiers were injured.

Camp officials said 15 additional nooses, some fashioned from belts, were found in the Russians' barracks when the three suicides were uncovered after a pitched battle with American troops.

capitalization of $10,000, one single-motored airplane, three employes, flying 232 miles per day between Oklahoma City and Tulsa in 1928, has now grown into a company with capital and surplus of nine million dollars, with the most modern equipment flying over 23,000 route miles daily.

National Safety Awards

With the exception of one year, the company has received the award of the National Safety council each year since the practice was started of issuing such a reward, and up to and including the year 1944 had flown 332,000,000 passenger miles without injury to passenger or crew. The company now the fifth longest scheduled air carrier in the United States, has applied for extensions of its present 3,000 miles of airline to add 6,815 miles of domestic service, including a transcontinental service from Boston and New York to Los Angeles, as well as service throughout Latin-America.

The company flies DC3 airliners on all of its route with two pilots and a hostess.

Local Organization

James Goldman is Lubbock station manager and Miss Connie Underwood, reservations clerk at Amarillo, has been transferred here temporarily to handle tickets. Miss Betty Gilbert, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Thomas L. Gilbert, was announced last night as a member of the local traffic staff by J. K. Weckbaugh of Denver, traffic manager of the western division. Frank Austin of the Amarillo personnel staff is aiding in the inauguration of service through Lubbock on the new route.

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) advanced the idea after discussions with senators Millikin (R-Colo) and Downey (D-Cal).

Fulbright would amend the Bretton Woods measure, stipulating that it goes into effect after the U. S. threshes out with its Allies who owes whom and for what."

News Briefs

Eugene F. Mathis, attorney for B. F. (Lefty) Fowler, said Saturday that a State Liquor Control board description of his client's cabin near Buffalo Lakes, as repeating a "neon sign" on it, was erroneous. The liquor board inspectors had raided the cabin Friday and placed Fowler under a liquor law violation charge. The enhanced penalty was asked, and Fowler posted $1,000 bail. Mathis said: "A pair of simulated dice (the cabin is called 'Paradise') hangs on the front of the cabin, but the only light there is a porch light, and it does not shine on the dice. A stationary awning prevents it." Liquor board agents agreed that their information "in that connection was erroneous."

Liandro Serbantez, 31, a Mexicn, was charged Saturday with aggravated assault on his wife, Jesusa Serbantez. Bond of $500 had been posted, the sheriff's department reported. Under this title spelling, officials said, he filed suit for divorce Saturday in 99th district court: "Liondra Serchantz against Susa (or Suza) Serchantz."

Lubbock's fire department made its 273rd run for the year and the 48th for the month of June at 8:01 o'clock Saturday night, when fire destroyed several yards of fence in the stock pens of Lubbock Auction and Commission Co., Thirteenth and Ave. D, according to Fire Chief W. E. Twitty. The day's only other previous run was to 1311 Thirteenth to put out a trash fire.

A negro woman, Thelma Fant-roy Lewis, 27, was charged in justice court at Slaton Saturday with interfering with liquor board officer John Truly of Lubbock in a raid there yesterday morning, local officers said. The woman posted bond of $100.

Widow Of Crash Victim Kills Self

WILLIAMS FIELD, Ariz., June 30. (AP)—Apparently despondent over the death of her husband, 2nd Lt. Hesler W. Ellis, 24, Niagara Falls, N. Y., in a B-24 bomber crash near here yesterday, Mrs. Henrietta Ellis took her own life last night, Col. Albert M. Woody, field commandant, announced today.

Col. Woody said Army officers found Mrs. Ellis dying of a bullet wound in the head when they returned to her residence on a personal affairs mission, after previously notifying her of the mishap.

War Vet Injured In Clash With Negro

An overseas veteran stationed at South Plains Army Air field was treated for a facial cut at the LAAF post hospital after a clash with a negro soldier about 8 o'clock Saturday night on Ave. J near the city bus station.

Military authorities sought to determine whether other soldiers figured in the altercation. They were questioning four white and two negro soldiers.

Neither those involved nor witnesses were able to present a cause for the rumpus, civilian and military officials said.

The wounded soldier said he thought the negro hit him with knucks. The suspected black showed a lip cut.

Navy Men Startled By Nazi Inventions

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—A Navy mission sent to Germany to study Nazi technological developments was "startled" by the progress made in some fields especially rocket and jet-propelled weapons.

The mission's chief, Commodore Henry A. Schade, said if the war had lasted another six months the Nazis would have had "quite a few" new weapons in operation.

150 Said Walled Up In Cellars Of Palace

ROME, June 30 (AP)—A Milan dispatch said today 150 persons had been walled up alive by Fascists in cellars of the royal palace at Monza shortly before the liberation of north Italy.

The dispatch quoted the Giornale Lombardo, Allied military government newspaper, as saying that victims were tied in sacks and buried in previously prepared niches.

OPA Extension Passed Finally

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 30. — The first lap of a race against time to save OPA's life, due to expire at midnight, was won today when Congress finally approved a one-year extension of wartime price controls.

The action came on a 255 to 94 house vote approving the Senate-House compromise version of the legislation.

In the second phase of the race, the White House ordered a plane to fly the bill to President Truman at Kansas City for his signature before the midnight deadline.

The House turned back a late-hour attempt by a Republican bloc to reject the compromise price control extension legislation. The Republicans sought to restore deleted provisions that would have made Clinton P. Anderson, new secretary of agriculture, virtual czar of the food front.

As finally approved the bill confers upon Anderson authority that he said would enable him to break the back of the black market in meat.

In an effort to solve food shortages, Congress wrote three important amendments into the basic price control law, as follows:

1. That the agriculture secretary (Anderson) shall have veto powers over OPA orders affecting food.

2. The agriculture secretary shall have authority to permit unlimited slaughter of meat, by certifying that local slaughterers are operating under sanitary conditions. Meat produced by such slaughterers would be permitted to move in interstate commerce and could be purchased by the Army, relaxing present rigid requirements on federal inspection.

3. OPA prices must allow processors of beef, lamb and pork a reasonable profit on each of the three kinds of meat processed.

Terrorism Reported In Northern Greece

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—Soviet dispatches today pictured a rule of terror in northern Greece, fronting on Yugoslavaia. A Greek spokesman said reports of terrorism there were fantastic.

The Soviet Tass agency said in a Belgrade dispatch that 1,000 refugees from Greek Macedonia were arriving in the Yugoslav town of Bitoli. Tass asserted these people were fleeing "from the terror of Greek monarchists" and 91 Macedonian villages were completely or partly ransacked.

An Associated Press dispatch from Athens said British troops were in Macedonia.

Constantine Tsatsos, Greek minister of the interior, told the press: "reports of alleged terrorism of Slavs in Macedonia and of the exodus to Yugoslavia and Bulgaria are fantastic. Some hundreds of recalcitrant Elas supporters who were pursued by national guards for refusing to surrender their arms may have crossed the border."

Rotan Banker And Civic Leader Dies

ROTAN, Tex., June 30 (AP) — Guy Patterson, 58, vice president and cashier of the First National bank of Rotan, died at a local hospital today following a heart attack.

Patterson was chairman of the Fisher county Red Cross and War Finance committee, a director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and leader in the First Baptist church.

Hannegan Is Sworn In At New Position

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Robert E. Hannegan was sworn in today as the new postmaster general.

Hannegan, who is also Democratic national chairman, took the oath of office from Supreme Court Justice Wiley Rutledge.

ACTOR ARRESTED

LOS ANGELES, June 30. (AP)—Actor John Carradine, who specializes in Shakespearean roles, was arrested last night on the complaint of his former wife who asserted he was planning to leave the state without paying $4,116 in back alimony. The actor was released after furnishing a $2,000 bond.

Plea In Slaying

marriage," (she was a divorcee when she married Stevens, who is now overseas) looked almost girlish.

She wore a black dress with quarter-length sleeves. Her luxuriant black hair was done in two pigtails, which barely reached her shoulders, and was tied up with tiny white ribbons, her only touch of color. She carried a black handbag.

And she looked pale.

The arraignment caused merely a ripple in this typically Yankee town of 7,000, whose history goes back to 1640. This was in sharp contrast to the excitement which prevailed as news of last Saturday's shooting first broke.

On that night, Coroner Steiber found, in holding Mrs. Stevens criminally responsible for Kovacs death, Mrs. Stevens and her neighbor, Mrs. Charles Milton had drunk heavily at a nearby Darien tavern.

He also found that "it would appear that an illicit love affair had existed "between Mrs. Stevens and Milton, father of three small children. Feeling between the two women had become intense, said Steiber, on the night of the shooting when one flourished an ice pick and the other hurled a beer mug through a window.

Young Kovacs, home on leave, had gone with his brother James to call on Faith Coombs, a classmate at high school and youthful companion to Mrs. Milton. The brothers found the house open (the coroner said Milton was walking with his wife in an effort to sober her) when Mrs. Stevens, armed with a pistol appeared on the scene and demanded they leave.

When they demurred, James swore at the inquest earlier in the week, Mrs. Stevens opened fire, killing Albert with three shots.

Crop Prospects

weather with soaring winds which have been prevalent the past several days could play havoc with irrigated cotton, he added.

Dry Crop "A Gambls"

The 105,000 dry land acres are a complete gamble," Clapp said. Cotton is burning up daily, but if conditions improve production might average as much as one-fourth bale per acre.

Lubbock county's acreage totals approximately 45,000 acres, Clapp said. There were 45,000 acres in irrigated cotton prior to the hailstorms and one-third of this was hailed out, he said the survey showed. A total of 15,000 acres are dry-land planted. The total acreage now in cotton, 45,000, is one-fourth of the 160,000 acres in cotton in the county last year.

Production for the county is estimated at 22,000 bales compared to 96,000 bales produced last year. In 1934, the last bad drouth year, the county only ginned 5,594 bales.

Clapp, who has been estimating cotton conditions in the area for the past 21 years, has records to show that his crop reports vary from one to ten per cent from final figures on acreage and production. Average variance over the 21 years has been five per cent.

Clapp revealed that his estimate had been revised downward since the June 20 rains. At that time, his weekly crop letter to the company's Houston offices.

Lubbock Army Air Field graduates its seventh big class of combat veterans of the European and Asiatic-Pacific aerial wars Friday as the battle tested pilots complete the intensive six weeks course of "post graduate" instruction in "all weather" instrument flying.

Another large group of be-ribboned pilots are scheduled to arrive at the big west base Saturday and Monday and start their series of classroom and flight line studies next week.

The dead man was unidentified.

The blast occurred at 12:20 p.m. (ewt) and brought out most of Bridgeport's police, fire and hospital emergency crews.

Seven persons were taken to Bridgeport hospital, where four of them were placed on the danger list. Sam Markowitz, only one to be identified, was brought to St. Vincent hospital where attaches said he was suffering from serious burns.

Subversive Plot At Hollywood 'Found'

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The House committee on un-American activities focused the spotlight of its investigation of subversive activities on Hollywood today.

Its action was announced by acting Chairman Rankin (D-Miss), who said it was based on reports that "one of the most dangerous plots ever instigated for the overthrow of this government has its headquarters in Hollywood."

Who is in the plot or what is involved, Rankin declined to say, but he indicated that before the investigation is finished some "big names" in moviedom will enter into the inquiry.

Rankin said the committee will send investigators to the Hollywood area immediately. In fact, he hinted, they may be there already.

"The information we get," he said in his statement, "is that this is the greatest hotbed of subversive activities in the United States."

"INVASION" REFUTED

CHUNGKING, June 30. (AP)—A Chinese Army spokesman said tonight the recapture of Chungchinfu should not be interpreted as the beginning of a Chinese invasion of Indo China.

Pilferer Gets $44 From Sound Sleeper

A thief slipped in 10 feet of where W. C. Strawbridge, 2303 Twenty-sixth, was sleeping Friday night and took $44 in packaged nickels and other property from his parked automobile.

Strawbridge explained to police that the hot weather had driven him to spread a pallet on his lawn. Also taken were approximately 100 keys to various kinds of coin machines, a set of wrenches and record books. Some of the belongings were later found in Carlisle park, on Twenty-sixth.

It was the second time in approximately six weeks that he had made such a complaint—$30 having been taken from his car before.

Car pilferers were operating again, it was indicated. T. A. Holland of 1905 Ave. N reported a Mexican dagger taken from his car; J. W. Rust of 1710 Twenty-seventh, B and T gasoline coupons representing 500 to 600 gallons; F. A. DeGarnett's truck (no address), nothing taken; W. C. Pettit truck (no address), nothing taken; and a shotgun from a car parked at 1712-Ave. O.

Lubbock Officer Emphasizes LST Bigger Than Canoe

"I wish you'd get one thing over to the public—and that is that an LST is bigger than a canoe," Lt. Joe Will Triplitt, officer aboard one of the big amphibious craft requested when intervied. "An LST isn't an invasion barge — it's a ship, and it's as big in tonnage as the average destroyer."

TRIPLITT

Lt. Triplitt, back from two years in the Pacific with a unit of the Amphibious force, is proud of his LST and the work the unit did in taking troops, bulldozers, tanks, trucks and heavy engineering equipment to the invasions. "An LST can be used for anything," he said. "Lots of them are turned into transports or hospital ships if there's a need for them. They're versatile and have the advantage of being amphibious, which means that they can unload even when there aren't dock facilities."

First Ships In Manila Harbor

"The LSTs in our group were the first ships to go into Manila harbor after the re-taking of the city had been accomplished. We had to wait several hours after being given the orders to enter in order that a harbor block caused by a sunken Jap freighter could be removed. There were so many Japanese ships sunk in the harbor that we had to do a zig-zag follow-the-leader to get through. The LSTs were chosen to carry supplies to the shore because bombing had almost completely destroyed harbor facilities and ordinary ships would have had to unload off shore and the cargo carried in by small barges."

One of Lt. Triplitt's most harrowing adventures was off the coast of Morobe bay during the invasion of New Guinea. They were loaded to capacity with troops and equipment and were altered for several hours for an air raid that never materialized. "We had been up all night the night before and everybody was on edge. We could hear the bombs from the Jap planes exploding near us and we didn't know but what they'd pick us for their next target. When the troops left the ship to storm the beaches, I would have given anything to go with them and dig myself a good fox-hole. Japs just love to bomb LSTs.

Jap Planes Hit Ship

Later at Lae in the same campaign, a Jap did get two quick hits on the ship when it was attacked by dive bombers and torpedo planes. Severe damage was done by a torpedo and numerous fires broke out on the tank deck where the ammunition and gasoline were stowed. Lt. Triplitt has a commendation for his work in extinguishing the fire and helping save the ship from further destruction.

Eight men and one officer were killed in this attack and several more were seriously wounded. The ship's power was knocked out and so were all the fresh water tanks. For two days the 60 crew members and 350 troops aboard had to drink distilled water from the electric shop and fruit juices. "We must have opened at least 48 cases of fruit juice, and we'd have got pretty darn thirsty if we hadn't had so much." They were stranded for two days.

"I came home when my ship was loaded and ready to leave on another operation. My orders came just a few hours before she pulled out and I was kind of glad to receive them after two years on the same ship."

Lt. Triplitt, who is visiting his mother, Mrs. E. M. Triplitt, and his sister, Mrs. Wright Kerr at 2207 Thirtieth, hopes to see his brother, Lt. Rupert Triplitt, before he reports back to duty. The brother has been aboard a Destroyer Escort in the Atlantic since November on this present tour, and the two have not seen each other in three years.

County Well Above Over-All Quota But E Bonds Still Lag

Lubbock county passed the close of the Seventh War Loan campaign Saturday well above its over-all quota although lagging, according to the latest figures available, on E bond purchases.

Up to Friday night the county had piled up purchases totaling $6,178,831.61 as compared with the over-all quota of $4,540,000. At the same time it was $237,458 short of the E goal of $1,700,000.

Both these figures are expected to be larger when reports come in from the Federal Reserve bank, drive officials said.

If E bond purchasers bought Saturday at the rate they had for the three days previous there was a chance that the county might have reached its E quota, it was said.

Douglas Pounds, chairman of the drive in the Roosevelt community, reported last night that the campaign there had brought in $35,145.75 although the Roosevelt quota was $32,800. The Roosevelt community takes in the Acuff, McClung and Canyon sections. Pounds' co-chairmen were J. F. Proctor, Acuff; J. W. Allspaugh, McClung, and C. C. Sherrod, Canyon.

Old Bonds Converted

C. W. Wendt of 2104 Fourteenth, took a step typical of many veterans of World war I. He cashed his recently matured adjusted service bonds for $1,275 and put the money right back into war bonds in the interest of the Seventh.

The World war I bonds matured June 15. Wendt was in the Army of Occupation in Germany for six months following the other war. He has a son, C. W. Wendt, jr., photomate 3/c, who is now serving for the second time in the Pacific theater of war.

Flag Tourney To Feature In Lubbock July 4 Celebration

Golf will take the spotlight in the Lubbock celebration of July 4, with a flag tournament at the Lubbock Country club as the feature of the day.

Each golfer entered in the meet will be allowed 71 par strokes, plus his handicap. When he has used up his alloted strokes, he will plant his American flag at the spot of fartherest advancement of the ball. The one traveling the fartherest will be the winners.

Close to 100 entries are expected to line the 18th fairway with American flags in the city's feature athletic event of the holiday.

To Pick Cup Team

T. E. "Pat" Patterson, team captain of the John Kattmann Cup matches, also announced Saturday that the selecting of the local team would start July 15. A team of 12 golfers and two alternates will be selected by 36 holes of medal play.

Golfers will shoot 18 holes on July 15, and another 18-holes on July 22 to name the team to represent the local club against the visiting team, captained by Bob Farmer of Odessa, on Aug. 9.

Patterson said he feels that there are 28 to 30 golfers in Lubbock capable of shooting championship golf, and any of these players may make the team.

HUBERT BECHTOL

Hubert Bechtol Visits Lubbock

Hubert Bechtol, who went from the Lubbock Westerners and Texas Tech Red Raiders to the Texas Longhorns and All-American grid honors, is back in his old haunts for a visit, but even the dry heat can't keep his mind off football.

Bechtol will report back to the Texas campus July 4, to start his last year that will lead to an ensign's rank in Uncle Sam's Navy, which will be due along about July, 1946.

Bechtol is sure of being around the Texas campus that long, but beyond that date, everything remains in doubt, and will depend on the conditions in the world at that time. That's why Hubert won't make any plans for beyond that date.

Wants To Come Back

The quiet, modest Bechtol admitted that he would like to come back to Texas Tech, and resume his football after the war. But the war isn't over, and Bechtol hasn't made any plans for his future beyond those that are being made for him by Uncle Sam.

Bechtol didn't leave any doubt but that Texas Tech is "my school" as he talked about schools and football. But the All-American end with the Texas Longhorns had plenty of praise for Coach Dana X. Bible. Bechtol termed Bible as "a foxy old gent who knows plenty about football, and how it should be played." But he didn't leave any doubt about wanting to take "another fling with Dell Morgan."

Bechtol was proud of his All-American honors, and termed them one of his greatest thrills in football. But Bechtol was looking at them from another light.

"They are going to be looking for me to be better than I really am," mused Bechtol. "They are going to be watching me—every team we play will have me marked, just because I was named All-American. That's going to make it hard to get away."

That is certainly one way to look at the question, and an opinion that is certainly full of sound logic. Most grid stars never make All-American honors until their senior seasons, and they didn't have to think of how it would be the next year, and in the future.

But the type of football that Bechtol played last season was certainly the type of football that had other teams watching him then, so it should not be much more so this season, and Bechtol delivered the goods then.

There has been some thought over the country that Dana Bible did some plain and fancy "string pulling" to keep his Navy boys over for another season. This idea was tabooed by Bechtol during his visit in Lubbock.

"That's all bosh. This shift in the V-12 trainees to ROTC units was announced a long time ago, and Texas and Bible were "just lucky" in being one of those to get a break."

Bechtol Aids Worry

Bechtol has already started helping Dana Bible "worry." The big end feels sure that the Longhorns will have a great line, not because he is a part of it, but because they have enough seasoned material hanging around the campus to assure a good line. The Longhorns are two and three deep in strong line material.

"But the backfield is going to be a problem," moans Bechtol. He then repeats his earlier statement that high school garduates will carry the brunt of the load. There are only two lettermen back, Maxie Bell and Jack Halpenny, and Bell will only be around about half of the season.

Bechtol has already started to worry about who will handle the passing for the Longhorns. Bobby Layne, the great passer from Highland Park, will be missed, there is no doubt of that. Being an end, and a pass snatcher deluxe, Bechtol has a perfectly good right to worry about the passing.

Gillory, the Marshall Maverick back that Otis Mitchell developed, is perhaps the best bet. There are several other good backs, such as George Graham from San Angelo, Maurice Essery from Amarillo and several other highly touted name stars. But none of these are passers.

Bechtol is highly pleased with his Naval work, and reports that he has found it "very interesting." He looks to be in the pink of condition, and ready to play 60 minutes of football right today—and the All-American brand. He already looks the part of an "Admiral" in his Navy uniform, and when he returns to "sea" this week, the cheers of Lubbock fans will go with him.

AAU Feature Copped By Penn State Star

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—Pvt. Barney Ewell, one-time Penn State great unfurled a pre-war sprint at the National AAU track and field championships and equalled his own meet record in winning the 100-meter dash in :10.3.

It was the only record approached at the annual meet although virtually each race was close enough to pull the few spectators at Randalls Island staduim out of their seats. Ewell's time also matched Eddie Tolan's Olympic record for the century and was one-tenth of a second off the world standard.

Ewell, who as Henry Norwood Ewell, won three championships for Penn State in each of the I.C.-4 A. outdoor championships of 1941 and 1942, catapulted from his marks with such speed that Perry Samuels, graduate of a month from Jefferson High in San Antonio, Texas, never was able to catch up. Samuels won the junior crown Friday in :10.5.

The sprint champion also grabbed sixth place in the broad jump and easily qualified for the 200-meter dash crown but scratched from the final.

Pvt. Charles Parker, who last year was the country's sprint sensation while running for Jefferson High, did not compete. He was scheduled to represent Hunter Field of Georgia.

Most of the cheers in 1,500 meter race, went to little Jack Dianetti of East Rochester, N. Y., High school, whose dogged sprint brought him third place ahead of Carmen Bova of Hunter Field, Robert Umstattd of Texas, James Rafferty of the New York A.C., and Rudy Simms of the Pioneer club.

Herb Flam Cops Net Title Over Ed Ray

PHILADELPHIA, June 30. (AP)—Herb Flam, 16, Beverly Hills (Calif.) High school today defeated Rojor (Ed) Ray, top seeded favorite from Philips academy, Andover, Mass., 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 to win the 37th National Interscholastic tennis crown at Merion Cricket club. Flam had been seeded second.

It was the second successive year in which Ray, a native of Sinton, Tex., was forced to play the runner-up role in the singles. Last year he was defeated in the finals by a fellow Texan, Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo (Tex.) High school.

The 130-pound Flam is the sixth Californian to win the title. He is one of the youngest players to become top man in national schoolboy tennis since the tournaments began in 1891.

The U. S. Patent Office began numbering its patents serially in 1836.

ABC Nine Seeks To Clinch Flag

Two up and three to go.

With this advantage over the field, Manager John Wilson's American Business club junior baseball nine seeks to clinch the first half title in the American League race this week.

The three games left on the schedule will pair the ABC club with three of the toughest tests the league has to offer, but the youngsters that Wilson has piloted to a two game lead will be highly favored to deliver in the home stretch.

No Games July 4

The two leagues will lay off Wednesday, in observance of July 4.

The picture in the senior loop is somewhat clouded, and last week only served to muddy the picture more. The Shallowater club, who was riding high a week ago, forfeited two ball games, and tumbled into the league basement. Only one regular game was played during the week.

Dickinson defeated Hunt, 8 to 5, and both Hunt and Purina took donations from Shallowater to leave Dickinson and Hunt out front with three wins and two losses.

Leaders Play Thursday

The two leaders have two games on the schedule this week, playing each other on Thursday for the week's feature show. Dickinson draws Shallowater on Monday, and Purina plays Hunt Oilers on Tuesday.

The ABC nine will face both the second place teams this week, opening again: the Kiwanis club on Monday afternoon, and drawing the Optimists club on Friday. The Kiwanis and Optimists are tied for second place with four wins and three losses each, while ABC had won six and lost one.

One game behind the second place teams are the Lions and Rotary teams. The Jaycees, two games behind these clubs, will face both of them during the week, drawing the Rotary on Tuesday and Lions on Friday.

The Kiwanis and Rotary hook up on Thursday afternoon to complete the schedule for the week.

Lubbock Legion Nine Blasts Hedley Owls

HEDLEY, June 30 (Special) — The Lubbock American Legion baseball club gained an even split in a two game road trip by blasting out a 22 to 10 slugging victory here this afternoon. The Lubbock nine was beaten in Amarillo the night before, 15 to 4.

Walter Higginbotham took the mound for the Lubbock nine today, and went the route. He coasted smoothly behind a lengthy lead, and was never in any danger. He limited Hedley to six hits, so well scattered that one man, F. Simms, collected half of them.

Billy Petree paced the 17-hit Lubbock barrage, getting three singles and a double in six times at the bat, and scored three runs. He was one of five men who scored three times for Lubbock.

The slugging feature of the ball game came off the bat of F. Simms, who poled out a double and two triples.

Errors caused most of the damage to Higginbotham. Ten misplays by the Lubbock nine accounted for most of the runs. Higginbotham fanned eight Hedley batters.

Triples by Jones and Becknell sparked a Lubbock attack in the first inning that produced six runs. There was a lull in the second inning, then Lubbock broke loose again in the third inning, and scored six more runs to take a long lead that was never overcome.

The Lubbock nine returned home Saturday night, and will go back into action Sunday afternoon against the Section C nine from Lubbock Army Air field. The game will be played at Chapman field, starting at 3 o'clock.

Famed Rideout Twins 'Team Up' Once More

DALLAS, June 30. (AP)—Wayne and Blaine Rideout, the twins of trackdom, were separated by a war that may also reunite them.

Wayne leaves Monday for Sheepshead Bay to begin training for service in the Merchant Marine. Blaine is with the Fourth Marine Division in the Pacific, has been there the last 19 months taking part in some of the war's roughest campaigns against the Japanese, including Saipan and Iwo Jima.

In the late thirties Wayne and Blaine Rideout were among the greatest runners in the world as they brought fame to North Texas State Teachers college at Denton. They wrote several records in the books including the distance medley relay in 7:32.5 and the three-quarters of a mile in 3:00.3 by Wayne Rideout.

Wayne has been coaching ever since graduation from North Texas State, working at Lamesa, Rosenburg and Tyler. His family live in Tyler while Mrs. Blaine Rideout and daughter are making their residence in Dallas awaiting Blaine's return from the war.

Wayne was sworn into the Maritime service in Dallas this week. Before long he may be delivering supplies to Blaine—and then the Rideout twins will be back working as a team once more.

'Pancho' Segura Cops National Net Crown

EVANSTON, Ill., June 30. (AP)—Any element of doubt about Francisco (Pancho) Segura's prowess with a two-handed swing was erased once and for all on the courts at Northwestern university today when he won his third straight national collegiate tennis singles crown and then teamed with Tom Burke of Miami university to take the doubles title.

Segura, the transplanted Ecuadorian, breezed along in the final round of the singles division of the 61st annual tournament to beat Lt. Frank Mehner from the Army's West Point team, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

Then he and Burke dumped Lt. Mehner and Warren Drake, also of West Point, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 in the doubles finals.

Nelson Takes Lead In Chicago Tourney

CHICAGO, June 30 (AP) — The $10,000 Chicago Victory National Open golf tournament reverted to script today as the Midas of the fairways, Byron Nelson, of Toledo, hopped into the halfway lead of the 72-hole event with a blistering four-under-par 68 for a 36-hole aggregate of 137.

The two opening-round pace setters, Defending Champion Harold (Jug) McSpaden, of Sanford, Me., and Chicago's Ky Laffoon, cracked under the pressure of Lord Byron and failed to better 70 in the second 18-hole session.

McSpaden matched Nelson's two-under-par 34 on the way out today, but came home in 36 while Lord Byron slammed another 34. That left Jug a stroke behind at 36 holes with 138.

Laffoon, trailing the parade of 34 pros and nine amateurs over Calumet Country club's par-72 layout, had to battle a sudden wind storm on his final nine and took a 38 after opening with the day's best nine hole effort, 33.

Laffoon wound up tied for third with surprising Claude Harmon, Detroit pro, with a 36-hole aggregate of 139, two strokes off Nelson's pace. Harmon wrapped together 35 to add a 69 to his yesterday's 70.

Sports Take Over In England For A Day

LONDON, June 30. (AP) — Swinging swiftly back into peace-time pursuits, British fans packed the cricket greens, tennis courts and race tracks today for the biggest sports Saturday since 1939.

Top spot on the crowded card went to famed Wimbledon, where Dowager Queen Mary joined a crowd of 5,000 in watching an American service team defeat the British star's in the first international tennis match in six years.

The crowd at the Salifburg horse races was so big that special police had to be called out to handle the customers. Tattersalls was so jammed that the "tic-tac" men had difficulty moving arms to give code signals used in the changing of odds.

BIDS FOR OLYMPICS

MEXICO CITY, June 30. (AP)—Mexico may well make a bid for the next Olympic games to be held, President Avila Camacho declared today on visiting with a party of officials in this capital's $8,000,000 "sports city," under construction near the southern suburb of San Angel.

Mule Dowell Visits Friends In Lubbock

"Why write about me when so many others have done so much more" was the attitude of modest Navy Lt. Gwynn C. (Mule) Dowell just returned from a tour of combat duty in the South Pacific war theater for 30 days leave.

In Lubbock Friday before journeying to Silverton to see his young son for the first time Lt. Dowell and his wife, Beth, were kept busy during the day visiting with friends.

DOWELL

The genial exbusiness manager of athletics at Texas Tech has just completed a four of duty in the Pacific theatre aboard various aircraft carriers of several fleets and was "very happy to see the prettiest town in the world" once again.

Dowell entered the Navy in April, 1942 and was first assigned to an aircraft carrier in February, 1944. After nine months he was moved to another ship and made flag lieutenant and aide to Rear Admiral G. R. Henderson. He remained at this duty until this leave was granted, and upon return to his station will be given another assignment.

Besides serving aboard various carriers Lt. Dowell has been with the 7th and 3rd fleets during his tour of combat.

Lois Of Action

He has seen action in such pre-invasion bombardments as Leyte, Palau, Lingayen and Iwo Jima. In the battle off Samar he was given the Legion of Merit citation for gallantry in action by Admiral Henderson.

Dowell was also with the fleet in the strike on Truk in April 1944 and was in the second battle of the Philippines when the U. S. fleets cornered the Japs and gave them a severe beating.

The easy-going West Texan said he had been a great many Lubbock and Tech boys in the Pacific, "especially fliers, and they are all doing an extra-fine job."

Lt. Dowell is an ex-Red Raider and Chicago Professional Cardinal gridiron star, and was assistant director of athletics at Tech besides being business manager. His post-war plans call for a return to his alma mater as soon as he is released from the Navy.

Mrs. Dowell has been making her home at Silverton with the two children, a boy and girl, while the lieutenant was in combat.

Thumbs Up Romps To Santa Anita Victory

ARCADIA, Calif., June 30 (AP) Charging into the lead at the far turn and resisting all efforts of rivals in the stretch, Thumbs Up, even money favorite, won the 1945 Santa Anita $100,000 added handicap over a mile and a quarter today by approximately half a length.

The time of 2:01 1-5 equalled the track record set by Seabiscuit in winning the renewal of the country's richest race.

Texas Sandman, 12 to 1 shot, ran second and Gay Dalton, the Mexican champion, closed with a rush for third.

Triplicate took the fourth position.

Johnny Longden, 35-year-old riding veteran, born in Wakefield, England, and reared in Canada, rode Thumbs Up masterfully. Holding the 6-year-old bay son of Bleinheim II out of the Man O' War mare, Gas Bag, just off the pace, he moved into contention as the field rounded the far turn.

Thumbs Up responded like a champion, coming up on the pace setting Stronghold and Victory Drive. Texas Sandman made its move at the same time. Gay Dalton, winner of Mexico City's largest stakes, also jumped into action.

As the hit the head of the stretch, Thumbs Up had the race under control, Eeasly noticeable to the crowd. He was flying in the stretch. Texas Sandman hit hard but to no avail. The favorite simply wasn't to be beaten today.

Big League Hitters Keep Up Same Pace

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP) — Tommy Holmes, 28-year-old Boston Brave outfielder whose hitting streak carried through 26 straight games on Saturday, maintained his major league pace-setting batting average at .385 last week, figures showed today.

Holmes has been at bat 262 times in 62 games, and his 101 hits is the most any player has made. He leads in runs scored with 61, is second in doubles with 19 to 21 for Brooklyn's Dixie Walker, and his 50 runs-batted-in mark is second to Luis Olmo of Brooklyn, who has 59.

Goody Rosen of Brooklyn is second again this week, but his average dropped off three points to .363, including Friday's games, the latest covered by the figures.

Tony Cuccinello of the Chicago White Sox continues to lead the American League, but his .337 mark would be eighth in the lusty-hitting senior loop. Cuccinello has made 69 hits in 205 times at bat.

Also indicative of the wide disparity this season between National and American League hitting was the comparative figures for total hits. George Stirnweiss of New York leads American Leaguers with 74—27 less than Holmes. The Yankee player has appeared in only three fewer games than Holmes.

Dave Ferriss of the Boston Red Sox tops all pitchers with 11 wins and two losses. Joe Bowman of the Cincinnati Reds is the best National League hurler with five won and none lost.

Cage, Net Shoes To Be Harder To Find

WASHINGTON, June 30. (U.P.) — Tennis and basketball players have "little hope" of getting an adequate supply of canvas rubber-soled shoes in the coming months, The War Production Board reported today.

Fewer than 2,000,000 "sneakers" were made for civilians during the first five months of the year although the scheduled production was 15,000,000 pairs.

The future looks just as dismal, WPB said, because of high military demands for rubber-soled footwear.

Ben Chapman Takes Over As Phils Boss

PHILADELPHIA, June 30. (AP) —Pitcher Ben Chapman picked up today where Fred Fitzsimmons left off, trying to pilot the Philadelphia Phillies out of the National League cellar.

Fitzsimmons quit yesterday, after two years of managing the club.

General Manager Herb Pennock, emphasizing the Fitzsimmons' action was "voluntary," named Chapman as his successor.

The 36-year-old Chapman said "When I saw my big league days were ended, I went down to the minors hoping to learn the managerial game. But I never dreamed of getting a big league post."

Chapman joined the New York Yankees in 1930; spent 12 years in the majors with a half dozen teams and then went to Richmond to manage the Piedmont League club. While there he converted himself from an outfielder to a pitcher and last year joined the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Phils acquired him in a trade two weeks ago.

Fitzsimmons left for his Brooklyn bowling alleys after yesterday's game with the St. Louis Cardinals, which the Red Birds won and boosted the Phils loss to 51 against 17 victories.

"Fitzsimmons is one of the finest men I ever met in baseball," said Pennock. "I knew he was nervous and discouraged."

New Explorations Scheduled In Hockley And Borden; Northwest Garza Project May Test For Ordovician

LOCATIONS for new oil explorations were reported for west-central Hockley county and for southwest Borden county, and it is rumored that a deal is about to be consummated for drilling of a test to the San Andres-Permian in southeast Gaines county.

Unofficial sources indicate that a northwest Garza county project, Honolulu Oil corporation No. 1 altman, now bottomed at 5,651 feet in lower Permian, is to be drilled ahead to explore the Ordovician. This wildcat is in section 1255, TT survey, and a large rotary rig and derrick are now being moved in and rigged up for the digging of the deep hole.

To Drill To 5,500

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 W. T. Coble, 660 feet from north and west lines of labor 34, league 68, Hardeman county school land survey, in west-central Hockley county, is to start drilling shortly to around 5,500 feet, or pay in the San Andres-Permian at a shallower depth.

The new prospector is two miles south of The Texas company No. 1-B Coble, furthest west well in the Levelland field to show indications of oil, and it is two miles south and two and one-quarter miles west of same company's No. 1 Montgomery, initial producer in the area, which is about five miles north of the Slaughter field, and approximately the same distance west of Levelland.

New Borden Test Slated

The Texas company No. 1 J. A. Phillips, 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 2, block 32, TP survey, T-3-N, in extreme southwest Borden county is slated as a 3,800-foot development.

It is about four miles southeast of same operator's No. 1 Johnson, deep failure drilled during last year. The new test will begin digging at once.

A tentative location is being rumored in southeast Gaines county, on acreage assembled by James FitzGerald, jr., and W. H. Black, Midland, for a wildcat to around 5,350 feet, to test the San Andres-Permian. The operators are soliciting dry hole contributions and several have responded and it is likely that the project will drill soon.

Swabbing To Test

Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 1 Edwards, southwest Cochran county possible discovery for San Andres production, ten miles west of nearest proven sector of the Slaughter field, was swabbing to test after plugging back to 5,080 feet.

On first test reported after plugback the well swabbed 22 hours and produced 90 barrels of oil, 16 barrels of sludge and sediment, and one barrel of drilling water. At end of the 22-hour period the project was swabbing at rate of 234 barrels per hour, and fluid was standing 800 feet from bottom.

This wildcat drilled to a total depth of 5,111 feet and set casing at 5,025 feet. Tests showed water in the bottom. It was plugged back to 5,096 feet, and then plugged back again with plastic to 5,085.5 feet.

Plug Doesn't Hold

The plastic plug did not hold and more water appeared. That stopper was drilled out and replaced with cement, back up to 5,080 feet.

Operator representatives think the water trouble has been eliminated. It is probable that it will be necessary to treat the saturated sections with acid, to wash the cement, slush and other contamination out, before full productive ability of the exploration can be determined.

Texas Gulf Producing company No. 1 Allie Slaughter, et al, central Cochran exploration in league 113, Potter county school land survey, was making hole below 1,100 feet in red beds and shale. It is to be a 5,350-foot project.

Tested For Eight Hours

The Texas company No. 1 Butler, west-central Hockley county development, in labor 9, league 70, Val Verde county school land survey, three-quarters of a mile north of nearest producer in the Levelland pool, tested for eight hours on the swab and produced 85 barrels of fluid, of which 10 per cent was basic sediment and water, and the remainder was oil. Casing pressure was 280 pounds. Total depth is at 4,830 feet. The pay section above that level had been shot with nitro.

Operator will continue to swab to clean out and will then probably put on pump and complete.

Texaco No. 1-B Coble, in northwest corner of west half of labor 19, league 67, Hardeman county school land survey, about two miles west of nearest completed oil well in the Levelland district, was making hole below 4,792 feet in lime. Some streaks had been drilled through which showed some signs of petroleum.

Lamb County Tests

Hunt Oil company No. 1 Foust, east-central Lamb county wildcat, in section 43, block B-1, R. M. Thompson survey, had reached 6,062 feet in sandy dolomite, and was drilling ahead.

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Bagwell, south-central Lamb county exploration in labor 25, league 673, State Capital Lands survey, was drilling below 6,909 feet, in dry dolomite.

Humble No. 1 Leftwich, in west half of section 32, block 1, R. M. Thompson survey, and north outpost to initial producer in the Anton field; in southeast Lamb, had progressed under 5,297 feet in dolomite.

Humble No. 1-B Leftwich, another stepout from the Anton proven area, was making hole below 3,654 feet, in dolomite; and was going ahead.

Floyd Test Down 4,209 Feet

George P. Livermore, Inc., Lubbock, No. 1 Alexander, Floyd county prospector in J. C. Cooper survey No. 345, had made hole below 4,209 feet in lime, and was going ahead. Top of San Andres was at 2,420 feet.

Livermore No. 1 Bird, northwest Dickens county wildcat in section 288, block 1, H&GN survey, had penetrated past 3,235 feet in lime.

Livermore No. 1 Wiese, northwest Crosby county exploration, in section 64, block C, D&W survey, slated 10,000-foot test to the Ellenburger, had reached 6,336 feet in lime, and was drilling out cement, which had been pumped in to try to stop cavities in which operator had been loosing circulation of drilling fluid.

Rigging Up New Rotary

Livermore and Honolulu Oil corporation No. 1 DeBusk & Eastman, northeast Lubbock county exploration, in the Idalou townsite, and in section 38, block D-7, C&M survey, was bottomed at 3,120 feet in lime and was rigging up a new rotary.

The drilling machine which had been used to start the project had been moved to a deeper test, and a smaller rig has been put on the Idalou exploration.

Kent Test Down 7,381

Sohio Oil company No. 1 Mays, west Kent county exploration, in section 44, block 4, H&GN survey, had progressed past 7,381 feet in chert and lime, and was going ahead.

Standard Oil company of Texas No. 1 Canning, in southeast Borden county, and in section 103, block 25, H&TC survey, had penetrated below 4,024 feet, in chert and lime, and was drilling ahead.

Continental Oil company No. 1 Douglas, northeast Martin county exploration in section 33, block 34, TP survey, T-3-N, just across the county line from Ackerly, in southeast Dawson county, had spudded to 177 feet and was reaming hole to run surface casing before drilling ahead.

Dawson County Tests

W. T. Black, No. 1 Flenniken, south Dawson county wildcat, in section 11, block 36, TP survey, T-4-N, had penetrated past 5,059 feet, in lime, and was going ahead.

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Lizzie Cole, northeast Dawson county prospector in southeast quarter of section 49, block M, EL survey, had progressed below 4,765 feet in lime. It is expected to encounter the Welch-Nelson pay section shortly.

Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1-A Jones, northwest Gaines county exploration, in section 3, block A-6, psl survey, had reached 10,520 feet in hard lime and chert, and was going ahead slowly.

Shell Oil company No. 1 Cox, outpost to production in the Russell field, in northwest Gaines, and in northwest quarter of section 452, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey, was bottomed at 7,409 feet, in lime, and was preparing to drill out cement on casing which had been set at the top of pay around 6,670 feet. The well will be tested and completed shortly.

Yoakum Test Completed

Sinclair-Prairie Oil company No. 1 Northup, in northeast quarter of section 461, block G, CCSD& RGNG survey, and about three-quarters of a mile southeast of closest production in the Russell pool, had progressed below 7,842 feet, in hard, black lime, and was drilling ahead. No shows of any sort have been reported from this prospector.

Dunigan Bros. and Brahaney, No. 1 Hodges, west Yoakum county wildcat, 660 feet out of northwest corner of section 445, block D, John H. Gibson survey, five miles west of Plains, in central-west Yoakum county, has been completed as a new discovery from the San Andres-Permian, with a 24-hour pumping potential of 76.28 barrels of oil per day.

To Be Brahaney Field

The pay section at 5,272-5,301 feet had been treated with 1,500 gallons of acid. Operators have requested that the area be designated as the Brahaney field, by the Railroad commission.

This project was drilled by Skelly Oil company to total depth of 7,700 feet, during 1944. It was dry in the lower Permian, and was later plugged back and tested in the zone from which it is now reported to be producing.

Skelly decided that it could not be completed as a producing well, and farmed the acreage on which it is located out to Dunagan Bros. and Brahaney for consideration of drilling another test in the area. Those operators also acquired the No. 1 Hodges, and are now putting it on production.

Terry County Tests

Hunt Oil company No. 1 Graham, northeast Yoakum county wildcat in northwest quarter of section 328, block D, John H. Gibson survey, had progressed below 4,456 feet, in anhydrite, dolomite, and shale, and was drilling ahead.

Honolulu Oil corporation No. 1 Lockett, northwest Terry county exploration in section 22, block E, EL survey, had reached 7,446 feet in lime, and was continuing.

Honolulu No. 2 Lockett, outpost to discovery well in the Alexander field, in northwest Terry county, was swabbing to cleanout and test, after third stage acid injection of 4,000 gallons in pay section above the total depth at 5,123 feet, it had tested for about one barrel of oil per hour before the last acid treatment.

Need For West Texas Pipeline Is Cited

AUSTIN, June 30. (AP)—Chairman Olin Culberson of the railroad commission announced today he has informed the Petroleum Administration for War 10,000 additional barrels daily of crude oil can be produced in West Texas for shipment to the west coast.

Culberson, answering a query from PAW, said further that approximately 190,000 barrels more oil is available from West Texas pools—within the maximum efficient rate of production.

He observed that increasing demand for West Texas crude for the war effort is proof that a Texas-California pipeline, advocated by him two years ago, is still vitally needed. At a recent hearing in Houston, Culberson stated that a contractor who had built a substantial portion of the Big Inch line declared he would take the contract for the construction of the proposed line, to be delivered ready for use in four months.

Notwithstanding a committee report to the contrary, Culberson declared that the railroad commission has always assured the PAW that sufficient oil to fill such a line could be produced in West Texas without damage to reservoir pressures or wells producing such oil.

Oil Well Completions Total 131 For Week

AUSTIN, June 30. (UP)—Texas operators completed 131 oil wells and 35 gas wells during the week, the state railroad commission's report showed today.

These raised totals for the year to 2,044 oil wells, compared with 1,712 a year ago, and 385 gas wells, compared with 146 last year.

Of the week's aggregates, seven oil wells and one gas well were wildcats opening new territory. Three of the oilers were in North Texas, two in Southwest Texas and one each in East and West Texas. The lone gas wildcat was in Southwest Texas.

During the week, 24 dry wildcats were drilled, while 50 wells were plugged.

AUSTIN, June 30 (UP) — The state Board of Insurance commissioners will hold a hearing here July 10 to consider workman's compensation rates for butane and liquefied petroleum gas dealers, it was announced today. The commission on the same day will hold a hearing on changing certain procedure rules and rates.

Area involved is extension district No. 2, comprised of Bailey, Briscoe, Borden, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Floyd, Dawson, Garza, Gaines, Hale, Hockley, Lubbock, Lamb, Lynn, Parmer, Scurry, Swisher, Terry and Yocum counties.

The course is limited to 295 women and the first to register will be those enrolled. Rural women in the 20 counties named above should contact their county home demonstration agents for reservations.

Formal registration will be held from 2 to 4:30 p. m. Monday, followed by two general meetings. Classes, composed of women in groups of 25 to 50, will begin Tuesday morning. Williamson, district agent, Maurine Hearn, state home demonstration agent and vice-director for women, and Miss Edith Lawrence, food specialist, will be visiting instructors. Other instructors will be members of the Tech faculty and Lubbock Public schools

Veteran Comes Home, Finds Mother Hanged

HOUSTON, June 30. (UP)—Cpl. Cecil Brown, who waded through three years of hell overseas, came home on furlough to find real tragedy in his own family. He found his 60-year-old mother hanging from a rafter in the hen house of their Houston home today.

Cpl. Brown, who came home two weeks ago for a long-awaited furlough after three years with the Air Forces in Italy, found a note pinned to his mother's dress when he cut her down from the rafter.

It began: "Dear ones . . . I just can't stand it."

Oil Operators Are Warned, Look Ahead

AUSTIN, June 30. (UP)—Texas railroad commissioner Ernest O. Thompson today advised oil operators to "look a year ahead and plan for what's sure ot be coming in oil" when war demand drops.

He said a decline of about 1,000,000 barrels a day in the post-war period probably will have to be borne in about the same ratio that advances in production were made.

The anticipated reduction in income to some operators "will be a great relief and a return to sane conservation of their reservoir energy and a reduction in income tax," Thompson said.

He added that to others the cutback "may prove a very heavy financial blow. With oil selling at far below replacement cost and allowables sharply reduced there, will be some operators who will find the new situation one hard to weather."

OIL RECORDS BROKEN

HOUSTON, June 30. (AP)—United States production of crude oil again broke all previous records in averaging 4,909,820 barrels daily in the week ended June 30, the Oil Weekly reported. Output was about 10,000 barrels a day higher than that in the preceding week, which was the highest on record up to then. This is the third successive week that the record has been broken.

El Paso Grand Jury Convenes Monday

EL PASO, June 30 (AP)—District Attorney Roy Jackson has announced the El Paso county grand jury will convene at 10 a. m. Monday to consider charges of murder filed against William Fellows Main, 28, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Main is under treatment at city-county hospital for wounds received in an exchange of shots with officers who sought to question him in connection with the decapitation death of Edward Baker, 80. He was later charged in the death.

Baker's hearless body was found Monday in a shallow grave at nearby Ysleta.

Hospital attendants said Main was in a critical condition.

William R. Main of the Philadelphia firm of Main and Co., accountants, is here with his son. Sheriff Olan G. Falby said the elder Main told him the son left a Pennsylvania state institution for mental patients last March "without permission."

Fleet Maneuvers West Of Japan Seen As Diversionary Measure

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

First American fleet penetration of the Sea of Okhotsk, Japan's far northeastern water frontier, has stirred apprehension in Tokyo that the invasion of the home islands when it comes will be from the north as well as the south.

Other things being equal, that is sound strategy as a diversionary measure if nothing else. It also is true that prevailing fogs in North Pacific latitudes would provide good cover for an amphibious approach to desirable sites in the Kuriles for advance air bases in the north to match Okinawa's busy air strips in the southwest.

SIMPSON

For the present, however, operations in Okhotsk sea look more like the competition of another segment of the blockade ring being tightly woven around the Japanese home islands by air and sea than an invasion preliminary.

They're All Vulnerable

Actually none of the seas that wash Japanese shores north, south, east or west is now forbidden ground to American naval or air forces.

Far to the south, isolation of the great oil-rich island of Borneo is in progress. Official confirmation from General MacArthur of the presence of an American fleet in Makassar strait confirms similar Japanese reports of the last week or two. Borneo is being cut off from by-passed Japanese garrisons in other Dutch island as well as mopped up in the north by Australian elements of MacArthur's armies.

Obviously a tightening Allied net is being woven about the Malay peninsula as about Japan's home islands in the north. Meanwhile British redeployment in the Bay of Bengal theater of action proceeds with every indication that the end of the wet monsoon season there will see the trap finally closed on Tokyo-abandoned Japanese garrisons in Malaya and the great Dutch islands to the south.

T-4 Luther L. Bennett Is Home On Furlough

T/4 Luther L. Bennett, jr., arrived at his home on route 1, Lubbock, Saturday for a 60-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Bennett, sr., and his wife and to see his six-month old daughter for the first time.

Bennett was captured by the Germans in January of this year while fighting with Gen. George S. Patton's Third army. He was a tank driver with the 12th division and was captured as the Third began its drive into the Reich.

He entered service in October, 1942 and sailed overseas in September, 1944. He will report to Hot Springs, Ark. for hospitalization on August 30.

His wife and daughter have been living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Duff and his family while he was overseas.

STASSEN PRAISES CHARTER

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn., June 30. (AP)—"We have won a bridgehead on the shores of peace," said Com. Harold E. "We have taken one important step in the unanimous agreement of the nations and it is a good omen for the future," he added.

CHICAGO, June 30 (AP)—Since the beginning of the war, American railroads have carried more than 40,000,000 soldiers in organized troop movements, Col. I. S/Sgt. Walter W. Surovik, 25, veteran of the Fifteenth Air force in the air fight against Germany from Italy, is back home visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Surovik of Slaton route 2 and other Lubbock county relatives. Sgt Surovik served as a gunner on a B-24. He arrived in the states two weeks ago after serving overseas since November, 1944. He wears the Air medal with two Oak Leaf clusters and four battle stars. He formerly lived at Anton and shortly before going into the service was an aircraft worker at San Diego.

Discharges Catch Vet Duo Literally 'In Air' At LAAF

The discharge of veterans hit a new high at Lubbock Army Air field this week end that left two student officers "up in the air."

A group of combat veteran pilots were going through their paces in instrument flying at the field Thursday morning when a call came through to the control tower from an office on the post. Lt. C. L. Franks, an instructor who was on duty in the tower, took the call and then picked up the microphone, contacted a plane flying somewhere overhead with both student officers in it.

"Return to the line, report to your squadron commanding officer, you are now civilians," was the message he repeated to them.

The two veterans came down faster than a stock market. But not before there was time for a by stander to make the inevitable crack: "Get those civilians out of the air and be careful with those planes!"

The combat veterans have the technicality of returning to their base stations and going to a separation center. But after many missions to against some of the toughest targets in Europe and the Pacific the veterans receiving discharges under the point system are finding that about the easiest thing they ever did.

Ex-Techsan, Flying Crippled P-38, Gets Four German Planes

How he destroyed four enemy planes—two in the air and two on the ground—after both engines of his P-38 were struck by flak and disabled during a strafing mission April 5, 1944, was told by First Lt. Jack L. Yelton, former student of Texas Tech, in recounting one of the thrilling single exploits of the war. The date was April 5, 1944.

Now a patient of Brooke General hospital, San Antonio, Yelton managed to keep his Lightning fighter aloft almost 15 minutes after it was hit, its engines sputtering and losing speed until it crashed. In those last-minute moments, however, he shot down a FW-190 and a FW-200.

Engines Stopped Completely

Seeking a landing spot as his engines stopped completely, he found the ground hilly. A small German air strip loomed ahead.

"I decided to try and make the strip and turned left to come in for a dead-stick landing. I was 200 feet off the ground when I saw two Messerschmitt 110 night fighters on one side of a runway sitting in formation for take-off positions. I crashed into both of them, acusing a simultaneous explosion that wrecked all three planes."

He was catapulted out of his plane and landed on the concrete runway on head and shoulders. Hitler youth anti-aircraft gunners rushed out and kicked him, but Luftwaffe officers ordered them to cease. He was taken to Dulag Luft, interrogation center and hospital at Frankfort, and placed in solitary confinement. He remained 15 days, and his weight dropped from 150 to 104 pounds. A Luftwaffe medical officer ordered manual reduction of his broken shoulders but it failed, so there was an open reduction performed. He was placed in a cast for eight weeks then sent to camp for repatriates at Annesburg and was evacuated and sent home aboard the Gripsholm, arriving in New York Feb. 28.

Wants To Fight Again

Both his shoulders are now in traction with 15 pounds of weight on each to break adhesion of scars from the operations.

He says he wants to go to the Pacific and fight again.

Yelton is a son of former Federal Game Warden and Mrs. V. D. Yelton of Lubbock but now of Corpus Christi. He holds the DFC with one oak leaf cluster, the Air Medal with three clusters and the Purple Heart. He left Tech in February of 1941 to enlist in the air forces.

PERSONALITY COURSE

A NEW type of educational course for women office employees, "Personality in Business," introduced by a company in Schenley, Pa., is believed to be the first of its kind conducted by an industrial concern.

The course consists of a series of lessons, demonstrations and quiz sessions based on the fundamentals of desirable business and social conduct, putting stress on the P's and Q's of personality development along with the dotting of I's and crossing the T's.

The two-month series of lessons was conducted during office hours at the company's expense.

The smoothness and efficiency already noted in new conduct of business demonstrates the value of the course, it is said.

TAKE IT EASY! — If you haven't yet been burned sunning yourself on the beach, lawn or backyard, you might like to think about the possibility of acquiring a tan by the slow but sure method. It is wise to apply a tannic type lotion, just in case you over stay your sun time. Begin at noon and stay out for 10 minutes, the second day start at 1 p. m. and stay out in the sun 12 minutes; third, 15 minutes; fourth day, 25 minutes; fifth day, 30 minutes; sixth day, 45 minutes and seventh day, 60 minutes. . . . Once you have established this system, you can schedule yourself from one hour upwards, depending on your ability to withstand heat. The young set calls a sloppy gal "Poor Merriam." . . . A lash dye on the market guarantees to "keep your eyes and brows looking bewitchingly dark and alluring even after swimming, crying or perspiring." We'd like to see that, we would indeed! . . . So eager was one wire service reporter to set down his description of Mrs. Imogene Stevens, who figures in that shooting story in Bridgeport Conn., he described her hair as "dark black, worn in a shoulder bob . . ." Every paper we saw carried the description as it was written. . . . Mrs. R. E. Karper of the Plainview highway concocts the most delicious dish with base of cottage cheese you can imagine and the secret is hers and she won't divulge it.

Lubbock servicemen, who no longer have their minds on war and its fighting sequence, are writing home so cleverly these days they are puzzling their parents. . . . One young man informed his mother by painful scribble he would be wearing "either blue or gray" the next time she saw him. She had visions of him in a burial suit until she realized he would have a discharge and be in mufti when he comes home. . . . Another young man mailed a post card bearing a picture of the Statue of Liberty and on the back he had written "won't she look good to me?" His parents are hoping their guess that he is on the way home is correct. . . . "Golden Gate by '48, bread line by '49" was the sardonic note with which a Seabee ended his letter to his wife. . . . "Ten will sustain the body," a wire read aloud, indicated a body might be coming home but all it meant was a sailor lad was broke again and appealing to the family exchequer for a bit of aid.

Serviceaires Plan Dance

THE Serviceaires of Lubbock USO, organized for the purpose of entertaining enlisted men of this area, will celebrate their fourth anniversary with an informal dance Wednesday, July 4th, at the Meadowbrook club house. Pappy Birnbaum and his Swing Combo band of Lubbock Army air field will provide music for the special occasion.

A Decoration Day dance on May 30, 1942, was the first function sponsored by the Serviceaires. The dance was held in the American Legion hall where army personnel was entertained in those days. Refreshments were served from a table instead of a modern snack bar. The group then had a membership of about 10 girls.

It was not until July of 1942 that the group met with Mrs. A. L. Stout, 2512 Twenty-first, and organized into a club, selected a name and elected officers. Since its organization the club has sponsored formal dances at the two Lubbock hotels. The idea of a Christmas trimming party at the USO originated with the club, as did a service bureau which includes pickup service, shopping, package wrapping and mailing for G.I. Joes.

Last Christmas the girls started a caroling party for the boys which they hope to make an annual affair. The girls and soldiers sang carols over town while riding in a truck which was equipped with a piano and player.

Every fifth Sunday, as well as every Wednesday night, the Serviceaires are hostesses at the USO. No planned program is followed on these occasions. Entertainment includes dancing, bridge, bingo and other games.

The first big affair sponsored by the girls was a Halloween dance in 1943 at the Lubbock hotel. At a Christmas dance the same year, the "Air Corps Waltz," composed by Dudley Henriques and the late Bert Levy of LAAF, was presented for the first time.

Outstanding event of this year was an April Fool's dance and Easter parade of bonnets. A hat making contest for the soldiers was conducted. The girls modeled their Easter hats which were selected from a large hat box designed by Mattie Lou Christian. Miss Christian, talented designer, has planned all decorations for club entertainments.

The Serviceaires have been known as one of the most democratic groups of the Hub-ettes. Originally there was only one big group of the Hub-ettes, but as the demands grew at both of the air fields, three separate clubs were organized . . . Serviceaires, the first to organize, Aerodonnas and Cracker-Jills.

Out of the present membership of 20, there are only three charter members still active. They are Julia Austin, Billie Crausbay and Avey Leeth Smith.

Aside from being hostess to army personnel, the club has played hostess to Dan Cupid on numerous occasions for its members. Three of the club's most loyal members, who have married, are still in

Hello Folks:

Don't go by the Decorators Studio on Wednesday, July the Fourth, because the girls are going to take a holiday but there are some musts that you should see this week.

They have a new permanent card table in pickled Mahogany finish that is a love. It is a Tapp production and is really an exquisite piece. The four chairs are upholstered in stripe material in colors of green and yellow. The top of the table is leather.

For your informal entertaining on the Fourth they have charcoal burners for cooking your steak (if you can find them), out-door fire tongs, pottery, and tole serving pieces. Unless your house is air-conditioned most of us prefer to use our yards in the evenings and yard equipment for back yard suppers is necessary.

Mary Ellis became inspired and set a formal table for your Fourth of July air-conditioned house. It is in the traditional red, white and blue. She has used cranberry glass, blue service plates, white salads and cups and saucers, blue mats and napkins and silver accessories. A dark blue star makes the center background for the silver candelabra.

I saw another table set in the Cockcroft ware in colors of yellow, turquoise, brown and white. After taking care of all the brides they have they still seem to have plenty to provide attractive selections for others.

When I was in I noticed H. A. back from his vacation. Fredda was in Amerillo to see a client and they told me that Josie Lee is due on the job Monday morning. They have hopes of getting back to normal living this week.

Last but not least the girls have a group of lamps that will be reduced in price this week, some of them as low as half price. This does not include all lamps but you might find one you can use. There are a few lamp shades available in this group, too.

That's all folks,
Grandpa Nosey

TRY THIS AMAZING BARCEL RECIPE TO TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Right in Your Own Home, You Can Lose Pounds of Excess Weight Without Starvation Diet or Strenuous Exercise

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy — no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcel Concentrate. Pour this into a bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears —how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

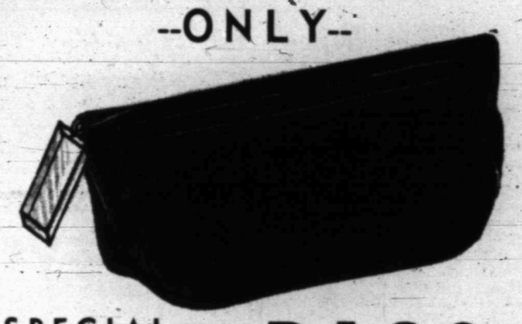

Perhaps you are overweight due to over indulgence in food or the wrong kind of food. With the Barcel home recipe method, you do not have to starve yourself or go hungry. Just follow the simple instructions given on the label and you should get satisfactory results quickly. The very first pint you make up should show results.

LOSE UGLY FAT WITH BARCEL

Why not slim down your figure without a lot of fuss and bother? Try the Barcel way. Wear your streamlined frocks and slacks gracefully. Remember, if the very first bottle of Barcel doesn't show you the sensible way to lose weight, your money will be refunded.

ACHING AND BURNING JOINTS

Case History No. 1768. Man, age 47, whose joints ached and burned. He was nervous and had an uncomfortable sensation at the base of his brain. He had suffered from this condition for thirty years. He came to this office and was examined. The cause was located and is being corrected. He is greatly relieved and in time will be completely well.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Case History No. 1776: Lady who had suffered from high blood pressure for 15 years. She had a terrible oraring in her head and could not close her right hand. She began services after the cause of her condition was located. She is greatly improved and isn't nervous, her head doesn't roar, and she can close her hand. She feels that she has been saved from a lifetime of suffering and misery.

CHIROPRATIC PRINCIPLES

Nature wants you to be well and she will meet you more than half way in any earnest endeavor that you may make in that direction. When vertebrae become misplaced, they impinge the nerves which carry life-giving energy to all parts and vital organs of the body. If this pressure is not relieved, and the energy supply is thus seriously retarded, disease is the result. The Chiropractor, through scientific spinal adjustments, corrects displacments, restores the full flow of life giving energy. Nature restores the patient to a condition of sound health.

TELEVISION IN A RANGE?

Well . . .

—Postwar wonders are multiplying thick and fast — on paper. Whether you'll have (or need) television in a range, a record player in the refrigerator, or a dust collector in your dishwasher, remains a question. We are told that nothing is impossible today.

However, most indications are that appliance manufacturers will have both feet on the kitchen (or laundry) floor. They're designing electric appliances that will be attractive, modern, substantial. But those appliances, whatever their nature, will work. They'll do what they're supposed to. They'll lighten your housework and brighten your home.

At The USO

Lubbock seems to be th favorite place for soldiers from surrounding Army bases to spend their week-ends. They come to the local USO from Big Spring, Midland, Amarillo and Hobbs, N. M. Every week-end there is a large number of service men from Hobbs.

Families who have opened their homes to soldiers usually have their extra beds in use Saturday nights. An example of this is the J. A. Mullins home at 502 Ave. R. Saturday night Mrs. Mullins started out with three Army men but ended up with seven—the last four couldn't go to separate homes because they had only enough taxi fare to take them to one place.

Another home that accommodates week-end soldier visitors is that of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Carr Mrs. Carr is in charge of finding places for the soldiers to stay and she always takes from one to five soldiers to her own home to spend the night.

Fourth of July and the fourth birthday of the Serviceaires, Hub-Ette group, will be celebrated jointly at a dance at Meadowbrook clubhouse Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock. Pappy Birnbaum's Swing Combo will play.

Among the 23 who went on the moonligh' horseback riding party last Monday night were three soldiers who had never been on horses before and two who were experienced riders. The experienced were Sgt. Hank Colburn who has been on fox hunting parties in Pennsylvania and has done jumping and S/Sgt. Al Giles who has ridden a great deal in Maryland. Ruth Gillespie broke no bones when she fell off her horse and there were no other accidents.

The party created an enthusiasm for horseback riding and plans are being made for other riding parties. Some will ride early Sunday mornings.

Fifty Vee Bees, hostesses from the colored USO, attended a dance Friday night at the Hobbs, N. M., Army Air base.

DFD Alumnae will be hostesses at this afternoon's USO party . . . Women from Ralls served at the Saturday night dance.

Soldiers Raymond Brown and Edward F. Vandenberg have been sent to Buckley field in Denver to an M. P. school . . . Sgt. Dorris Billingsle, who was with communications at LAAF has gone to Sheppard field with an overseas group . . T/Sgt. Lewis Walker, formerly a Lubbock dancing teacher, is stationed at SPAAF and is helping with arranging dances and other recreation for the soldiers on the base. Sgt. Walker has been a gunner on a B-17 in England also . . . Cpl. Gerald Lokey writes from Salt Lake City that he's making some very good friends there and that he will return there after the war to see one of them. He has seen S/Sgt. Lebern Miller, formerly stationed here, in Salt Lake City . . . In a letter from Cpl. Leo Smith, who is attending a B-29 school in Seattle, Wash., he writes he's really "going places" . . The USO staff wants to thank the unknown person who sent a bouquet of roses and daisies to the center this week. Flowers are always appreciated there.

Burns and Mr. Burns of the ranch, former Lubbock residents. Miss McGuire's escort will be Jim Billingsley of Lamesa.

ABOARD A HEAVY CRUISER, Okinawa (Delayed)—S 2/c James F. Verner of 908 Ave. R, Lubbock, and S 1/c W. R. Gillespie, of Lorenzo, Tex., are serving on this veteran fighting ship now standing off Okinawa with all batteries pounding away at the crumbling enemy stronghold and its dwindling Jap defenders. This cruiser has harried the Japs for three years of Pacific warfare. She won her reputation as a top fighting unit in the slugging match against the Japs off Savo island in November, 1942. She added to her reputation at all the major Pacific stops—Bougainville, Salamaua, Guadalcanal, the Aleutians, the Gilberts and Marshalls, Carolines and Marianas, Iwo Jima and the Ryukyus. Now deep in the Western Pacific she is gunning for more glory. In a week of softening Okinawa before invasion, it was estimated this ship destroyed or knocked out 19 heavy and light anti-aircraft emplacements, eight heavy and light gun batteries and a number of automatic weapon revetments. In addition, it is estimated that she killed 2,000 Jap troops, demolished 10 trucks, five tanks, a supply dump, one hanger, a lighthouse, three road junctions and four attacking aircraft.

WITH THE AAF ENGINEER COMMAND IN ITALY—First Lt. Vernon E. Bennett of 2810 Twenty-second, Lubbock, Tex., and Cpl. George E. Self of Star Route, Post, Texas, will soon return to the United States with their veteran 815th Engineer Aviation battalion. They have both served overseas for 34 months building airfields for Allied air power in the Mediterranean theater after coming over in June, 1942, with the first American unit to land on British soil. Afterwards, they went to North Africa and were in all the developments of the European war from that point to the end of the war in Italy.

Pvt. Chesley G. Hobgood, husband of Mrs. C. G. Hobgood of Ropesville, route 1, has won the right to wear the "Boots and Wings" of the Paratroops. He has completed four weeks of jump training at Fort Benning, Ga., during which time he made five jumps, the last a tactical jump at night involving a combat problem on landing. In addition to producing jumpers, Parachute Specialist training is given to qualified men in communications, demolition, riggers and parachute maintenance, vital skills for airborne troops.

U. S. NAVAL AIR STATION, Honolulu, T. H.—S 1/c Hoyt E. Altman, USNR, of Lubbock, Tex., is serving here at the "Aerial Crossroads of the Pacific," in the fire department. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Altman, live at 2117 Fourteenth, Lubbock. WITH THE SECOND INFANTRY DIVISION, Germany — Pvt. George Perkins, son of Mrs. Mintie Stanley of 2223 Twenty-fourth, Lubbock, Tex., recently was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action on Jan. 3, 1945. Acting first scout of the First squad whose mission was to engage enemy positions south of Wirtzfeld, Belgium, Pvt. Stanley crossed the main line of resistance, located an enemy outpost, surprised and killed the lone enemy occupant, and enabled the patrol to move forward without detection. A short time later, he was the first man to locate an enemy strong point that offered determined resistance to the advance. The gallantry, bravery and disregard for personal safety displayed by Sgt. Stanley reflected highest credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States.

Cpl. Winston Smith, who recently returned from the Pacific theater where he served for two years in communications with the Fifth Air force, visited here with his wife, Naomi Smith, and his mother, Mrs. G. O. Dean, both of 2013 Seventh. He reported for reassignment to Miami, Fla., June 21. Cpl. Bowling, with the tank battalion, of Sudan. On the outskirts of the city, Combat command A of the 12th Armored "Hellcat" division stood poised ready to act as trouble shooters in case the Germans proved difficult to rout. A short time later, the quiet of the gutted city was broken as the well-entrenched Germans poured round after round of fire into the American infantry. Combat Command A moved in swiftly, advance tank elements moving from one infantry sector to another, blasting out the stubborn enemy in one of the last actions in crushing Germany.

Bennett has been transferred into the Second Division and is being sent back to the United States for redeployment. Loughridge was the associate engineer for the U. S. Engineer corps at the Conchas District in Albuquerque. He is a graduate of the class of 1934 at Texas Tech. His wife resides at Groesbeck, Tex., with their son, Bruce, 6 months old.

WORKS OKINAWA BEAT—Pfc. Charlie (Choc) Hutcheson, former sports writer for the Avalanche-Journal, is working a different new beat these days. He is covering the 382nd Infantry's front lines on Okinawa writing news stories about the riflemen who are fighting bitter hand-to-hand battles to wrest yard after yard from the desperate Japanese. Joining the 96th Division as a replacement on Okinawa, Hutcheson was assigned to the 382nd Infantry's public relations section. He spends most of his time with the forward units recording individual deeds in one of World War II's most bitter and costly battles. The son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Thaman of Route 6, has been placed on flying status at the Reno Army Air base, ferrying division installation. This will require regular participation in aerial flight. As a radio operator, Sgt. Thaman will be responsible for all aerial communication on a C-46, which has proved the most dependable and capacious ship for the carrying of military personnel and vital war cargoes in the interest of the Air Transport command.

Robert L. Carr, 20, son of Vincent Carr, 1920 Twenty-fourth, was commissioned an ensign in the U. S. Naval reserve when he graduated recently from the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's school at Abbott Hall, Northwestern university, Chicago, Illinois. His completed four-month course consisted of instruction in navigation, seamanship, damage control, communications, ordnance and gunnery, in addition to which he underwent a strenuous physical conditioning program and numerous drills designed to develop initiative and leadership. Wright of Anton and S 2/c William A. Erickson, 18, son of Mrs. W. C. Buggett of Lockney are all on a carrier that has seen no action worse than the typhoon that battered the ship in the Western Pacific in December, 1944. These three seamen and the hundreds of others aboardship used their body weight as ballast and saved themselves and the ship from disaster during the storm. Every man not on watch took up positions weighting down the side of the ship upon which the wind and waves were pounding. The carrier, top-heavy with planes lashed to its flight deck, rolled to a 40-degree list at the storm's worst. Wind and waves finally tore the planes loose and sent them overboard. Until morning brought calm, the men worked constantly, without meals or hot coffee.

Dan Read Harris, fireman, U. S. Maritime service, who returned recently after his first trip out to Honolulu, visited here and at Ropesville before reporting to Houston for more duty. Truman's Over-All Popularity Tops Best Rating FDR Ever Had, Gallup Poll Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—After only a little more than two months in office, President Harry Truman has achieved a popular regard that compares favorably with that of Franklin Roosevelt at its highest recorded point in wartime.

A coast-to-coast check-up, in which 215 interviewers questioned voters in farm areas, towns and cities, shows that nearly nine out of every 10 Americans approve of the way Mr. Truman is handling his job, and that he has the approval of as many Republican voters as Democrats.

GALLUP

Every President of course enjoys a "honeymoon" period of high popularity after taking office, the length of the period varying with his actions and with events. Although Mr. Truman will be a newcomer at the meeting of the Big Three next month, there can be no question that he will take with him the solid support and confidence of his fellow countrymen, as shown by the following:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Truman is handling his job as President?"
Approve	87%
Disapprove	3
No Opinion	10

This compares with an approval vote of 84 per cent for the late President Roosevelt in a poll on a similar question in January, 1942, shortly after the Pearl Harbor attack had rallied the country behind the administration. This was the highest recorded point in Mr. Roosevelt's popularity since the poll began operating in 1935.

Typical of the sentiments on Mr. Truman are the following taken at random from hundreds of comments gathered by the poll interviewers:

"Truman is fair-minded. . . . A hard worker. . . . He's a realist who looks at things squarely and seeks good advice. . . . He got new blood into the cabinet. . . . He's better at handling people than Roosevelt; gets more cooperation. . . . He's level-headed. . . . No crack-pot ideas. . . . Our new President has a Missouri hard head. . . . He acts instead of talks. . . . He's conscientious — stays in his office and saws wood."

Because of strict adherence to party lines during election campaigns, today's results are no index of the vote that Mr. Truman would poll if a presidential election were held at this time. The figures reflect general attitudes without reference to partisan considerations. The reactions of Republican voters at present compare with Democratic attitudes as follows:

	Democrats	Republicans
Approve	88%	89%
Disapprove	2	3
No Opinion	10	8

While President Roosevelt enjoyed almost universal support for his foreign policy, there were always sharp differences of opinion among voters on the Roosevelt domestic policies. In Mr. Truman's case, however, no such difference in popularity between foreign and domestic policy has apparently arisen as yet. It is clear from the survey figures that the new president has thus far not taken any stand which has dissatisfied any large group of voters.

The favorable opinion on Mr. Truman was found in all sections of the country, with comparatively little difference between areas. The highest percentage of approval — 92 per cent — came from the West Central section, which includes Mr. Truman's home state of Missouri. He is the first native son of Missouri to occupy the presidency.

Most of Mr. Truman's important acts and policies to date, such as his position on foreign policy, taxes and tariff policies, have been in line with public opinion as measured in polls.

Each wore gold barrettes, gift of the bride, and the bride wore a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Johnson, mother of the bride, wore navy blue crepe and a corsage of gardenias.

Lt. Robert Maxey, USNR, served the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Jimmy Witt, R. B. Merritt of Sweetwater and George N. Atkinson.

A reception honoring the couple followed the ceremony at the Hilton hotel. The bridal party was assisted in receiving by Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Height Adds To Hero's Glamour

HOLLYWOOD, June 30. (U.P.) — Hollywood's leading men are looking down on their heroines this year.

In the days of old, many a screen glamor-boy had to stand on a box to kiss his leading lady. Now he practically bends from the waist to hang one on his honey.

And while a goodly number of the oldsters wore two-inch lifts inside their shoes so they could walk shoulder-to-shoulder with the ladies, the latest heart-throbs can pat their cuties on the head without lifting a hand.

The girls like it, too. After all, though a six-foot height is not necessarily a requisite for male glamour and sex appeal, it certainly helps.

When they reach for a man, they like to reach up, not down.

Tallest Actor

The tallest of these Johnny-come-latelys is Paramount's Bill Edwards, who could hardly help being conspicuous in "Hail the Conquering Hero" and who will soon be towering in "Our Hearts Were Growing Up." Believe it or not, Bill stretches six feet, five inches up.

Sonny Tufts runs him a close second. His six feet, four inches make him the biggest thing in "Miss Susie Slagle."

Six Foot Three

There are several fellows who measure up to six feet three—John Hodiak, much-sought-after leading man since his roles in "Lifeboat" and "Sunday Dinner for a Soldier," Gregory Peck of "The Keys of the Kingdom" and Bob Ryan, leading man in "Tender Comrade."

Philip Reed could look over the heads of all the cast in "People Are Funny," not because they were short but because he is six feet two. And in his class are Zachary Scott, Bruce Bennett, Jim Brown, Alan Curtis and Bob Lowrey.

Actors a mere six feet tall are getting lost in the shuffle on Hollywood Blvd.

Whether the fellows are taller because they eat properly, as nutrition authorities explain, or whether they just aren't starving as actors traditionally do, the girls like them that way.

You know the old saying: "The bigger they are, the harder they fall."

Hollywood On The Loose...

Filmtown Facts And Fancies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 30.—From the Philippine guerrilla life to a Hollywood movie studio—that's what happened to Lt. I. D. Richardson of the U. S. Navy and he thinks it's wonderful.

"Wonderful! Wonderful!" he rhapsodized, his eyes aglow and his arms waving.

Rich was a PT boat man during the fall of the Philippines, but he wasn't able to get out. He stayed behind and helped organize the guerrilla bands that harried the Japanese and prepared the way for the American invasion.

When Rich left the islands last year, he combined with newsman Ira Wolfert to produce the popular book, "American Guerrilla in the Philippines." Twentieth Century-Fox bought the book for 50 grand and Rich was assigned to help make it.

"ALTHOUGH I have lived here nearly all my life, I had never been inside a movie studio before," he said. "When I was a kid, I would go out to Universal City on Sunday and ride the horses. But that was the closest I ever got to a studio."

Rich has always been a movie fan.

"You bet. Every week end when I was a kid, I used to sell a few milk bottles to get enough money to go to the show. I'd sit there for hours with an all-day sucker in one hand and a chocolate bar in the other."

Pretty soon many another grammar school lad, candy in hand, will be watching the exploits of Lt. Richardson at a Saturday matinee. He will be portrayed by Fred MacMurray, if for no other reason than MacMurray will be available at the time the picture will be made.

TECHNICAL ADVISER

ACTUALLY, Rich somewhat resembles John Payne. It is too bad that he cannot play himself because he is a good looking guy who could easily charm the bobby sexers. And he is certainly more hep than the average movie personality I interview.

"Besides helping with the script, I am going to be technical adviser," he declared. "And brother—that is a job!

"I have to advise on what kind of clothes were worn, what kind of guns we used, how many airplanes were in the sky and so fourth."

Tax Revision To Be Speeded

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Legislative machinery was greased today for speedy revision of corporation tax laws to hasten reconversion by a $5,000,000,000 boost in the cash position of business.

Congressional tax leaders agreed to press through, before any summer recess, the five-point business-aid bill approved yesterday by the House ways and means committee.

The measure will be brought before the House next week.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the ways and means group and Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate finance committee said they will oppose any attempt to broaden the legislation into a general revision of tax statutes.

The ways and means committee voted down an attempt by Rep. Reed (R-NY) to reduce individual income tax burdens by raising the normal personal exemption from $500 to $1,000.

Increases Exemption

As now drawn the measure:

1. Increases the excess-profits tax specific exemption for $10,000 to $25,000, effective with the 1946 tax year, as an aid principally to small business.

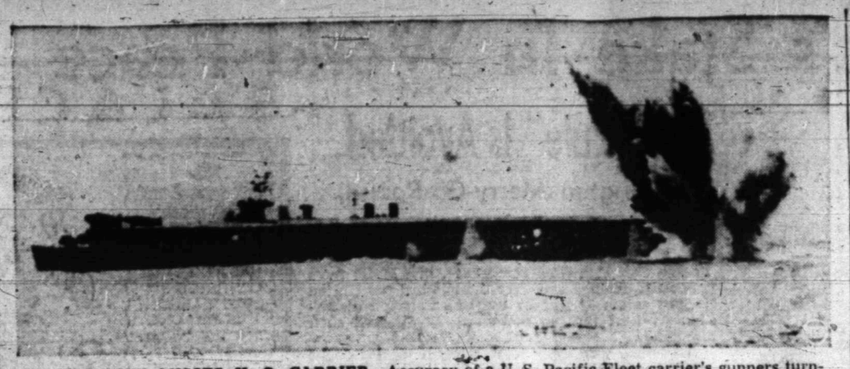

2. Permits the postwar credit of 10 per cent of the 95 per cent excess-profits tax to be taken currently with respect to tax liabilities of 1944 and subsequent years, involving about $1,540,000,000.

3. Advances to Jan. 1, 1946 the maturity date of outstanding excess-profits tax postwar refund bonds, hastening the availability of $1,300,000,000.

4. Speeds-up refunds resulting from carry-backs of net operating losses and unused excess-profits credits, involving another $1,000,000,000.

5. Hastens refunds resulting from the recomputation of deductions for amortization of emergency facilities, affecting perhaps $1,700,000,000.

Russians Caught With Nazis Stage Riot

FORT DIX, N. J., June 30 (AP)—Three Russians captured fighting with the German army, committed suicide and seven others were wounded by gunfire yesterday as American soldiers with submachine guns, carbines, and tear gas, broke up a riot staged in a prisoner of war compound.

Maj. George R. Paul, camp public relations officer, said 154 Russian-born prisoners participated in the riot in protest against repatriation in accordance with the Yalta agreement for reciprocal exchange of Soviet and U. S. citizens.

Driven from their barracks by tear gas, the rioters charged an American soldier guard unit with mess kit knives and clubs improvised from furniture, injuring three Americans. A prisoner was hurt as he tried to scale a wall of the compound.

The seven prisoners wounded when the guards opened fire are in the camp hospital. The suicides, found hanging from rafters after their half-hour long riot had been quelled, were identified by Major Paul as 2nd Lt. Scoktist Kalinin, 2nd Lt. Ignaz Masarenko, Pvt. Philip Stotow.

Washington Texans Honor Tom Connally

By L. T. EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 30—Texans in the nation's capital saluted their own Tom Connally last night for his role in the San Francisco conference.

More than 700 of them, from stenographers to high ranking officials, overflowed the Statler hotel's presidential ball room. They were there to hear their state's 68-year-old Democratic senior senator lauded by statesmen from other parts of the nation.

Officiating was Dale Miller, representative here of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, and president of the Texas State Society of Washington. Music was provided by the U. S. Marine band.

Recognizing the honor paid him, Connally told of the work of the American delegates to the United Nations conference. He explained the charter and its provisions, and expressed a hope that it would meet with early Senate approval.

Delegates from the various nations labored with "a great common objective and in a spirit of harmony" at San Francisco, he recalled, but acknowledged that at times there was doubt as to what they would accomplish.

"It must be borne in mind that a lot of questions arose which brought about the most serious concern," he said in a statement prepared for radio broadcast.

"Several times during the labors of the conference it seemed that the conference might not be able to successfully conclude its labors. Differences were sharp and stubborn

"However the common purpose, to establish an organization for peace, finally triumphed and agreement was secured by fifty nations upon the charter which we have brought back to the capitol."

Hull Leaves Hospital To Sign Charter

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Ailing Cordell Hull left his hospital room today to affix his signature to the United Nations charter, of which he has often been called the father.

The 73-year-old former secretary of state returned to the State department, over which he so long presided, sat down in his former conference seat on the second floor and signed with a firm hand.

The document had been flown here from San Francisco to receive his signature as member of the American delegation at the conference.

Hull, whom illness has confined to the naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., since he resigned as secretary of state last October, appeared in fairly good health, although he walked slowly.

Welcome, Braniff Airways! Public's Stake In World Peace Protected

New Era Is Ushered In

But Much Is Still To Be Desired

IT would be an exaggeration, of course, to say that the arrival here today of the first regularly scheduled airplane flight into Lubbock is comparable to that great day, almost 36 years ago, when John Santa Fe's first train laboriously puffed into the then sprawling little town and linked it, with steel bands, to the rest of the nation.

But it is no exaggeration to say that the gleaming Braniff B-Liners, which from this day on will link us to the balance of the nation and the world via the cloudways, will usher us into a new transportation era in which speed plays a vital role.

This is still a frontier section and because it is, expansion of transportation facilities has been painfully slow. Bus and truck connections, of all the four branches of commercial transportation, alone have furnished Lubbock and the South with generally satisfactory services. The railroads still lag behind our wants and needs, and so do the airlines—even though the stop-gap, wartime service of the Braniff Airways beginning today is highly welcome and appreciated. We all hope, of course, for more and better air and train service after victory over the Japs. We know we shall have more air connections, since two other lines—the Continental and Essair—should be in operation here within a relatively short length of time. But until the plane lines and railroads afford us more than they have to date, Lubbock and the South Plains will continue to lag behind from a standpoint of transportation, more important than ever to the economic well-being of any community and area in the modern world.

The Braniff Airways, first to enter the South Plains section, is an outstanding example of good management, safe and efficient service. Starting little more than a decade ago as a small line, it has forged ahead without faltering until today it has become one of the more important airlines of the nation. Its executives promise to give more and better service to this area as war demands lessen; also that Braniff men here will be active citizens, supporting everything that aims at the betterment of Lubbock and the surrounding territory.

The Avalanche-Journal knows that the people of this section long have wanted air connections; have begged, almost on bended knee, for government sanction to permit airlines to come here. Therefore, we know we are speaking for all forward-looking citizens of this great agricultural, oil and cattle empire when we say to Braniff Airways—to T. E. Braniff and to every individual connected with him—"You are welcome in Lubbock and on the South Plains."

We join Mr. Braniff and his associates in hoping for permanent and continued pleasant relations between the airways and the people of this city and environs. We take as much pride as the Braniff people, themselves, in the fact that the big, silver B-Liners are now and will continue to be daily part and parcel of life here.

Braniff Airways is a great concern with an outstanding record of safety and service.

It adds today a direct connection with a great section of the country, populated by men, women and children who share the Braniff creed of "onward, upward, ever improving and expanding."

Penny Wise, Pound Foolish?

THE West Nineteenth street mishap of last week, which resulted in injury to a child and what for a time looked like a hit-run driver mystery, indicated that Texas' new system of automobile license plate lettering and numbering leaves a great deal to be desired.

In this particular case, four digits of a suspect automobile were read by witnesses to the mishap (later written off as an unavoidable accident) but the two key letters, impossible to read over 60 feet away, were not obtained. That put investigating officers up a real tree.

In checking possible ownership of the suspected car, officers discovered that approximately 400 combinations of possibilities could have come from the four digits witnesses agreed upon. That would have required a statewide check had not a fortunate turn cleared up the investigation.

Formerly license plates in Texas carried six digits, uniform in size and divided into two series. A witness to an accident, if he could remember the first three numbers, could inform officers in what county the suspect car was registered. That help, along with information of color, model and make of car narrowed investigation immeasurably. But now there are two small alphabetical characters, one atop the other, prefixed to the numerals and, while the numerals can be read across the street, the letters usually cannot.

Texas adopted the new licensing system to save two and a half square inches of metal per license plate, officials say, but the confusion that may result may make the gesture seem a false economy, to say the least.

"Let Uncle Hold Him A While!"

Something Was Started, But Not Completed, At San Francisco

World Has Imposed Sacred Trust On Big Three

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — The United Nations organization charter adopted at San Francisco is "a good beginning," as President Truman said, but it is only a beginning, "only a first step," as the President also said.

Something was started, not completed at San Francisco.

This is what the governments of the United Nations and the people of the United Nations have to keep in mind. Perpetuation and success of the charter depend, first, upon the spirit with which it is accepted by the governments and peoples who are parties to it; and, second, upon their recognition that it must be "expanded and improved as time goes on," as the President said.

STOKES

The sun did not rise the day after the charter was signed on a fresh, new, peaceful world. It rose in the Pacific upon the grisly battles of a war still raging. It rose on the European continent, where war is over, on a scene of desolation. There it lighted up the grim wreckage of big cities and little cities and the homes of the people who once lived there. It accentuated the shadows on gaunt faces of hungry people.

Everything Unsettled

Here, in Washington, we have been conscious of one of the big problems that confronts us and the other United Nations through daily public testimony about the necessity of controlling Germany so that she cannot again use her powerful industrial plant to start war in Europe and the world.

Everything is still unsettled.

But now, thanks to the United Nations organization, there is machinery provided so that all the problems can be tackled by all the United nations, to the best interests and protection of all.

That is the immediate hope of San Francisco. It provides the means through organization.

BUT, beyond the mere creation of an organization, something else most helpful in coping with the multitude of problems immediately ahead happened at San Francisco. That is the fact that the leaders of the United Nations who must handle these problems got to know one another. They learned to work together. They found out about each other's peculiar local problems back home, and it is the sum of local problems which make up the international problem.

This ability to work together which was discovered at San Francisco should help greatly in the weeks and months immediately ahead before the charter is finally ratified all around and the UNO actually begins to function. The spirit of co-operation which was created at San Francisco is something that cannot be measured, as you can measure the charter, itself, article by article.

Quick Senate Action Seen

The pressing nature of the manifold problems all over the world stresses the necessity of getting the organization on a functioning basis as promptly as possible. Interim machinery is provided in the UNO preparatory commission which will get together in London in early August.

All this makes it more incumbent upon the Senate to ratify the charter as early as possible, so that the United States may set an example. Apparently the Senate is determined to do the job as swiftly as possible.

IT is generally realized at San Francisco, as elsewhere, that chief responsibility under the UNO, at least for some time, rests with the three big powers—the United States, Great Britain and Russia. They possess the strength and the power. They dominated its creation. They must hold it together and keep it effective. A big power league, which is what this is, was not the ideal solution hoped for by so many, but it seemed to be the only practical solution in the world as it is today.

This imposes an almost sacred trust upon the Big Three.

It is a hopeful sign that some of the vexatious problems which were thrown into the San Francisco conference at the start, such as the Polish problem, now seem to be on the way to solution, so that relations today among the Big Three are on a satisfactory basis for the job ahead.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

THE National Flag Code committee—of which I have never heard before, but which is, undoubtedly a well-meaning organization—has protested to President Truman against the proposal that the famous Iwo Jima flag-raising be reproduced on a postage stamp.

BRANDEIS

The committee does not like the idea of the United States flag "being licked behind it back, pounded onto envelopes, smeared by and run through cancelling machines."

Personally, I thing the committee's objection is silly.

Before me are three envelopes. One of them has a stamp with George Washington's picture on it. The second pictures Thomas Jefferson. The third has the V-sign and an American eagle.

To put a face or an emblem on a postage stamp, is supposed to be a way of honoring that person or that emblem.

Washington's face has been on millions and millions of stamps. Every one of these stamps has been licked and cancelled.

Is Washington's memory any less honorable for it? Has Thomas Jefferson suffered one whit by having been "pounded" by almost every one who has ever mailed a letter?

Patriotism is a most worthy quality. But patriotism should not be petty or ridiculous.

The other day I saw a cartoon by Helen Hokinson.

It showed a meeting of the local women's club and the chairman on the dais said to the members:

"All that remains before the meeting now is what we should do with the emperor of Japan."

Ridiculous, isn't it?

And yet, is it any more ridiculous than to imagine that the American flag can be dishonored by putting it on a postage stamp and exposing it, as the committee expressed it "to the very contamination the Huns and Japs set their hearts upon doing."

BY all means let us be patriotic. But there are so many important problems these days that challenge our patriotism and require every bit of it in the larger sense that it would be well for committees and women's clubs and all other organizations to worry less about puny details and to pay more attention to what they might do to make this flag of ours something that may be honored not only on a postage stamp but in every nook and corner of the world!

"Gag Rule" Is Avoided

(Washington Merry-Go-Round)

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Reviewing the ups-and-downs of the San Francisco conference, one of its most important debates was over the right of the United Nations assembly to free and untrammeled discussion. At first the big powers flatly opposed such discussion.

Had they won their point, many delegates doubt whether the United Nations charter would have been worth much more than the paper it was written on.

PEARSON

Long years of watching American diplomacy close up also has convinced this observer that the power of public opinion, in other words the power of mobilizing public opinion through public discussion is one of the greatest of all deterrents against war.

This columnist recalls how Henry L. Stimson, then Secretary of State, staved off war between Russia and China during the 1929 dispute over the Chinese Eastern railroad chiefly through focusing public opinion and public discussion on that dispute.

Again it was the powerful pleas of Charles Evans Hughes and Frank B. Kellogg plus other Pan-American leaders which staved off war between Bolivia and Paraguay for at least two years. Wars between Peru and Chile, between Peru and Ecuador, between Haiti and the Dominican Republic also were prevented by diplomatic pressure, by public discussion, and the press all working together.

At San Francisco, however, it was first proposed that unlimited discussion by the United Nations assembly could be vetoed by one of the Big Five. In other words whenever debate got too critical for one of the Big Five, they could step in and stop it.

HOTTEST OF ALL DEBATES

AUSTRALIA'S fiercy Foreign Minister Evatt brought the whole question to a head by proposing an amendment permitting unlimited debate in the assembly—regardless of veto. This touched off a closed-door debate as hot as anything San Francisco ever witnessed.

One by one, State department officials began pouring the heat on Evatt, demanding that he withdraw his amendment. Nelson Rockefeller even called up several Latin Americans, gave them the impression Evatt was abandoning his fight, in order to get them off the trail. However, Evatt stuck to his guns.

Just before the climactic closed-door meeting of the Conference Executive committee on this question, Stettinius summoned the Australian to his ornate Fairmount hotel penthouse and begged him to withdraw his amendment.

"You've gone as far as you can go," Stettinius said. "If you push it any further, the bigger nations may be forced to withdraw from the United Nations entirely."

"I'll take my chanees on that," replied Evatt. He told Stettinius he would not yield an inch.

Later that night, the Executive committee convened in Room 233 of the Veterans' building which usually held about 100 delegates. But by the time able Greek Foreign Minister John Sofianopoulos called the meeting to order, 300 were jammed in. Windows had been closed to keep out the noise of passing streetcars. The air was hot and charged with tension.

CONNALLY IN FINE FORM

SENATOR CONNALLY was the first speaker against the Australian amendment. He launched a rip-snorting tirade which he climaxed by picking up a fistful of paper and ripping it to shreds.

"Anybody voting for the Australian amendment would be doing the same thing as tearing up the charter."

With those words, Connally stood on tip-toe, pulled back his arm and dramatically flung the tattered sheets of paper in the air. Delegates buzzed.

Up sprang scholarly, quiet Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand. He denounced Connally for intimating that Evatt was sabotaging the conference.

"This amendment was drafted by a great legal mind," said Fraser, pointing his finger at the dour Texas senator. "You're only bringing extraneous notes in to becloud the issues."

Russian Ambassador Gromyko rose and flatly stated:

"The big powers cannot yield further."

Connally asked for an immediate vote on the Evatt amendment. Chairman Sofianopoulos agreed, called for a voice vote.

But Australian Minister Evatt jumped up and demanded a roll call.

"This issue is too serious," he said, "to be decided on a hasty voice vote."

While his remarks were being translated, the Egyptian delegate, who had been on the fence, asked what a roll call vote meant.

"It means you stand up and are counted. We want to know just how everyone stands on this serious issue," replied the Australian.

Remarking that he had an important meeting to attend, the Egyptian picked up his brief case and departed.

Meanwhile British Ambassador Lord Halifax and China's Wellington Koo rushed in. They had been hastily summoned from a dinner. Neither spoke publicly. But both lobbyed hastily and effectively among the smaller nations.

In the end, Evatt lost; but by such a narrow margin that the Big Five agreed to a compromise, whereby there could be free and unlimited assembly discussion of everything under the "charter" of the United Nations. Since the charter is broad, this permits free discussion of almost anything, certainly anything pertaining to the prevention of war.

NOTE—The American delegation was not unanimous regarding the question of unlimited discussion. Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan wanted the assembly to be a "Town Meeting" of the World. Commander Harold Stassen of Minnesota agreed with him. Some delegates believed that had Evatt won his point, the Big Five never would have walked out as Stettinius threatened.

POLITICS BEGINS EARLY

IT IS not news that the political pot boils incessantly in Washington. But not many people realize that politics even injects itself into the lives of Washington children. They take to politics like a duck to water.

Henry Iler, jr., son of the assistant to Federal Security Chief Paul McNutt, is a page boy at the House of Representatives. All pages in the House are appointed by the Democrats, as the majority party. Boys serving on the Republican side of Congress are loaned them by the Democrats.

A couple of weeks ago, young Iler, who is 10, reported for work and was told that he would be assigned "on loan" to the Republican side of the chamber. Hailing from a long line of Kentucky Democrats, Henry staged a sit-down strike. He flatly refused to accept his new assignment.

"I know a Democratic page who was 'loaned' to the Republican side 5 years ago and is still there!" Henry wailed. Finally, he just sat down and bawled.

Several of his mates tried to get him to reconsider, but the youngster wouldn't hear of it. "Nope! I quit. I'm through!" he said tearfully.

Finally, Henry took his troubles to a Kentucky Democrat and everything was smoothed out. Henry was permitted to remain on the majority side. When he got home that night, he burst in on his father shouting:

"Dad, a great thing has happened in my life today. I'm still a Democrat"

"The Wayfarers" Is Literary Guild Selection

Dan Wickenden Pens Absorbing Story Of American Family

DAN WICKENDEN has already proved his quality in his earlier novel, "The Running of the Deer," which stands out in the memory of all who read it. Now he has chosen a bigger canvas for "The Wayfarers," the Literary Guild selection for July (Wm. Morrow & Company). It is a novel about an American family in a small midwestern city near Detroit. Norris Bryant, the tall, big-boned city editor of Broadfield Chronicle, was a man lost in a labyrinth of grief and self-pity. Ten years ago his wife had died. Since then he had managed to keep his job, but as far as being a fathe. to his four children went, he might as well have died too.

One fine October Sunday Norris started for the lake and got on the wrong streetcar. For the first time since his wife's death he found himself in the cemetery.

Thought He'd Escaped Grief

"He had thought himself safe, after ten years; he had held off his grief so long that grief could never touch him And yet he must have been hovering on the brink of this moment always: when he woke in the night from a dream of desolation and found himself alone in the bed; when he moved down the street at dusk and caught a glimpse of some woman who walked like Laura; when he passed an open window and heard a voice that reminded him of hers. The truth was that his grief had always been with him; for ten years he had been locked up with his own pain.

"All this he saw with great clarity as he sat on the cemetery bench, and in a way it was the most terrible moment of his life. He had thrown away ten years, but there might still be time to make amends—to Laura and to his children."

Troubles Began To Appear

But Norris's children had done without him too long. Charlie's wife gave him trouble and none of the jobs he got in nearby Detroit turned out well, but Charlie didn't welcome interference from his father, or anyone else. And Norris's oldest daughter, Laurette, who sang in a nightclub, was a kind of small town Sophie Tucker with a warm, rich philosophy of life that somehow didn't apply much to the rest of the family. Nineteen-year-old Patricia was her father's greatest worry for she had deserted her faithful and reliable boy friend for an intriguing and slick cub reporter named Vincent Rourke. He could do little about it, though he felt this new infatuation might lead to disaster, if not violence, for Patricia and the rest of the family. Yes, the problems of his children hit Norris Bryant with terrific force, and, in addition, he found he had one all his own. Norris discovered that he had increasing regard for the plump, comfortable widow who lived next door and helped them all, and he didn't know exactly what to do about it.

The next year in the Bryant family was a strange one. That one year brought to a head the problems of all the other years, and they all went back to the deep influence and death of Laura Bryant. To top it all, an intriguing young man by the name of Vincent Rourke started to spread scandal around Laura Bryant's beloved name. Out of these varied threads, Dan Wickenden has written a full and satisfying novel of family life. "The Wayfarers" is the best thing so far in an increasingly distinguished literary career.

Doesn't Seem To Jell

"BRIGHT TOMORROW (Bobbs-Merrill) is an interesting tale, well told and at times of more than passing interest, but it just doesn't seem to jell. Reaching the last of its 304 pages, the reader is puzzled and not quite convinced that Lloyd Wendt has created a believable hero in Mark Engles

The plot is sound enough: the conflict of a young farmer between his duty to the land and his desire to follow the young men who are joining up to take part in an inevitable war—and of Mark's devotion to two women, one a school teacher 10 years older than Mark and the other a daughter of the town drunkard. Mark's conflict on the war is resolved by an accident that renders him unfit for combat, but brings him to a decision on the woman he loves.

Wendt senses the antagonisms of a small town and the prejudices devolving on those who think straight and are not afraid to say so—and on those who refuse to be stampeded into war hysteria. But agains he fails to get his point across with 100 per cent success.

"MONEY to Burn," by Helen Woodward (McKay). Fire blazes up in a furniture store, and so does murder. Investigator Dan King applies his nose to the trail of the killer and a large sum of money, which he is certain didn't go up in smoke. Plot outdoes pace.

"ONE Angel Less," by H. W. Roden (Morrow). Rough, tough, private detective and lady-killer Sid Ames takes a number of beatings, most of them physical, before he solves a murder quite a number of people don't want solved.

Father Gets OK Of His Wounded Son To Join Walkout

WACO, June 30. (U.P) — Henry Rummel, a World War I veteran now serving as a bus operator for the Texas Electric Company, obtained the approval of his legless World War II veteran son before joining in a walkout yesterday, Rummel said today.

Rummel said that he telephoned his son, T/Sgt. C. R. Rummel, a veteran of the 36th division's Salerno and Rapido river campaigns, at McCloskey General hospital at Temple and told him that he was striking for time and a half overtime above 48 hours a week, one day off a week, a paid vacation and recognition of the union, to which he said 90 per cent of the operators belong.

"You're doing the right thing, Dad," Rummel said his son told him. "I'm with you."

Young Rummel was captured by the Germans at Rapido after being shot in both legs and his captors amputated the legs before he was sent home in an exchange of prisoners.

The record that Kathleen Windsor kept when she was writing "Forever Amber" shows that she spent 1,303 hours reading, 380 hours indexing her notes, 3,284 hours writing and produced 9,241 pages or 2,310,250 words.

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride In Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

Czechoslovakia Cedes Ruthenia To Russia

LONDON, June 30. (AP) — Czechoslovakia has ceded the Carpatho-Ukraine, a mountainous 4,871-square mile sector of extreme eastern Czechoslovakia, to Russia, the Moscow radio said last night.

A treaty signed in the Kremlin by Czechoslovak Prime Minister Zdenek Fierlinger and by Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov provided, the announcement said, that the area "is by mutual agreement and the desire of its peoples returned to the Ukraine Soviet Socialist republic."

The sector, sometimes known as Ruthenia, formerly adjoined Poland. It was absorbed by Hungary in the 1939 breakup of Czechoslovakia. It comprised nearly one-eleventh of pre-war Czechoslovakia's 54,244 square miles.

Czech officials in London have stressed throughout the negotiations leading to last night's announcement, that there was no controversy over ceding the territory to Russia. They said a majority of the sector's 725,000 population had asked to be made a part of Russia as far back as the end of the first World War.

Japs' Boasted Defenses Backed By Some Truth, Plenty Determination

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The old shoguns are rattling their swords and playing the swashbuckler amidst all the settings of a buzz-saw melodrama as the Allied D-day for Japan approaches — that is, it would be melodramatic if so many terrible actualities weren't involved.

We have something here that has come out of the middle ages, but it's no Gilbert and Sullivan opera. Despite touches of grim humor, there's no laugh in it, for the lives of Allied fighting-men are at stake.

The Japanese government tells us that our invasion of the homeland will be resisted by every man and woman to the death. The Mikado's captains also threatens us with "secret suicide" weapons.

Threats Are Not Bluff

Well, what's the answer to that? First off, we can accept these threats as representing the intention of the war-lords. It isn't bluff. We know that there are many Japanese men and women who are ready to make suicidal defense of the home-land. We know, too, that the Japanese have developed secret weapons, for recently several of them have come into action, including a new type of rocket bomb.

So Tokyo's garish announcements are, in fact, backed by some truth and plenty of determination. However, the important point to consider is whether they will be able to implement their determination — to make good their threats.

We remember that only a few months ago Germany was declaring she would win with secret weapons — a claim which was treated rather lightly in some Allied quarters. But the Hitlerites did indeed have secret weapons which were nasty affairs — and they were on the verge of producing something much more devastating.

Rocket Almost Completed

There was, for example, the projected rocket bomb capable of accuracy at a range of 3,000 miles. Three weeks ago U. S. ordnance intelligence experts in Europe announced that this rocket was within the grasp of German scientists when the war ended, and would have been in production in another six months.

But it didn't get into production, and the reason was that British bombers damaged the German experimental stations and killed some 800 of Nazidom's best rocket experts. Before the Germans could repair this loss, the Allies knocked them out. And the lesson of the rocket bomb wasn't an isolated example. The whole Reich war potential was ripped to pieces with bombs.

This will be the answer to the shoguns as well. Japan is going to be hit with a hurricane of bombing which will destroy her unless she surrenders. Secret weapons and suicidal tactics, which work on the earth's surface, won't be effective against B-29's.

Nippon Virtually Isolated

Moreover — and this is highly important — Nippon is virtually isolated by sea and air blockades not only from her vital supplies in Indonesia but from the continent. She is being carroted.

Tokyo boasts that Jap war industries are being shipped to Manchuria. That's a lie, because the Allies control the sea. Some industries were moved to Manchuria a considerable time ago—but not these days.

The Mikado's home domains are surrounded and have no way of escape.

Mustang To Be Used For Dual Instruction

DALLAS, June 30. (AP) — The P-51 Mustang today became the first modern fighter plane to be adopted for dual instruction, North American Aviation, Inc., announced.

The manufacturers of the speedy Mustang revealed that a new version of the feared fighter—to be known as the TP-51 (trainer-pursuit) had completed test flights and been accepted by the AAF Air Technical Service command.

The plane, designed for transition, gunnery and tactical training, will enable pilots, assigned to fly the normally single-place Mustang in combat, to become familiar with it under guidance of an instructor. Removal of certain equipment directly back of the conventional pilot's seat made room for another cockpit and instrument panel.

TO HONOR ROOSEVELT

PARIS, June 30 (AP)—Avenue Victor Emmanuel, one of Paris' principal streets, will be renamed Avenue du President Roosevelt in honor of the late President, the Paris municipal council decided yesterday.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz traveled from Washington to Pearl Harbor after the disaster under the name of "Mr. Wainwright" and wore civilian clothes to fool the Japanese agents who would have killed him for the secret reports he carried.

Cigarets Lure 150 Japs From Suicide Orgy To Surrender

OKINAWA, June 30 (U.P) — A fantastic story of a Marine lieutenant who stumbled into a pocket of 350 armed Japanese, wooed them with cigarets for two hours while broadcasting a bloody description of their mass suicides and came out with 150 prisoners was told today.

First Lt. George Thompson, from Dorchester, Mass., told of his experience in the last days of the Okinawa campaign. Thompson's wife lives in Highland Park, N. J. His runner, Pfc. Rufus E. Randall, Augusta, Ga., and three other Marines were chasing 15 Japanese along a hillside when they barged into a clearing filled with the enemy.

Outnumbered, Thompson grinned, waved, bowed, showed his weapons and shouted "tobakko."

Several Japanese held out their hands and the Marines handed out cigarets. Thompson kept chattering over the walkie-talkie to the battalion command post of the 6th Marines 29th regiment.

Warns Against Interruption

He warned the post not to interrupt. "I've the idea that if I stop talking, the Japs will kill us," he told headquarters.

Then the suicides began. While the Marines looked on, the first Japanese officer killed his women, then stepped up to Randall and saluted. He handed over two sabers and a wrist watch, backed off 10 yards and blew off his head with a grenade.

After that the suicides occurred at the rate of one per minute, Thompson said. Then four grenade-laden Japanese moved toward the Marines. A Japanese grunted, "tobakko."

"Here it comes," Thompson said. "They want cigarets—and we've run out of them."

Thompson pointed toward the American lines, and shouted: "There's lots of tobacco there."

Then 150 Japanese surrendered.

Venus De Milo Is Returned To Louvre

PARIS, June 30. (AP) — The Venus de Milo, boxed in a cellar during six years of war, returned to the Louvre today.

All through her absence a plaster reproduction stood on her base. Many pictures were sent home by American soldiers who thought they had seen and photographed the McCoy.

In the United States meat which is not federally inspected may not legally be shipped across state lines.
